

MOVE TO NEW OFFICE

GLENDALE & MONTROSE RAILWAY CO. INSTALLS BUSINESS AT 1111 W. BROADWAY

The Glendale and Montrose Railway company, which recently passed into new hands and under new management has moved its offices to No. 1111 W. Broadway, the office recently occupied by Mrs. Nanno Woods. Here will be installed both a freight and passenger office. The front office will be a ticket office and waiting room and will also have an information desk. The rest of the office building will be devoted to the manager's room and freight offices. It has been felt all along that the small office upstairs on the other side of the street was inconvenient and too cramped for the extending business of the road. In the new office there will be ample room and there will be no climbing of stairs. The management hopes that the public will take advantage of the new office as a rest room, when traveling.

The company is pushing the standard gauging of the Eagle Rock Railroad and will very shortly bring its passengers down to Broadway and Brand, without extra charge. What is hoped for is extra freight service. There is little or no profit on the passenger service, but the freight service is worth having. The fact that the Eagle Rock road has hitherto been compelled to stop at Glendale avenue has practically marooned the road as far as freight service has been concerned. When this change of gauge has been made the road will be able to handle freight from the East direct to Eagle Rock.

The new management, under the direction of W. J. Bohon, general manager, and T. L. Stephens, agent, is striving to please its patrons. The road bed and equipment will be put into first-class condition and passengers will be able to ride comfortably and swiftly over the line on a speeded-up schedule. It was shown before the Railroad Commission that this railroad has never paid its expenses. It has cost $5000 a month more to operate the road than was received from its passenger and freight business, without counting all the interest on the money invested. The new management hopes by investing more money in providing good service and by courteous treatment, to build up the passenger traffic and to increase the freight business.

The management feels that behind Glendale, Eagle Rock and Montrose, there lies a region in the foothill valleys where there is a constant influx of people and a steady growth of permanent residents. That region will grow in importance from year to year and the railway that serves it will also grow in importance and wealth.

Among the features introduced by the new management that are giving much satisfaction is the stage line that beginning two days ago with a new Vim coach is carrying passengers from La. Crescenta to Monte Vista Heights, Littlelands (Tujunga), and Sunland (Monte Vista). The new Vim coach has cost the company $1200 and is being largely taken advantage of.

As soon as connection can be made between the Salt Lake Railway and the Glendale and Montrose Railway, at Broadway and Glendale, the two railways will use the one track out to Oakdale avenue. This will mean that there need be only one track in the center of the street and that pedestrians, wagons and autos will have so much more room.

MAY LOCATE IN GLENDALE

C. F. Masters for ten years was circulation manager of the Kansas City, Mo., Evening Post. A year ago he had a nervous breakdown and came out to Casa Verdugo, where he visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Masters of 1317 Campbell street, and regained his health. After returning to Kansas City he couldn't forget Southern California, and he settled up his business interests in the Middle West and arrived in North Glendale Monday evening. He will be joined by his wife in about a month, and California will be their future home—with Glendale in the lead as first choice.

The next meeting of the Glendale City Union will be held at the home of Mrs. G. L. Jordan, 126 S. Maryland, Friday, September 1, at 2 o'clock. The subject will be "Efficiency of Scientific Temperance in the Public Schools." Everybody welcome.

THREE DAYS IN ONE

REV. F. A. FIELD, W. J. CLENDENIN AND W. S. BOHANNON CELEBRATE

Three birthdays were celebrated, Tuesday, Aug. 22, at the home of the Rev. F. A. Field and Mrs. Field, 239 S. Kenwood. The occasion was in honor of Mr. W. J. Clendenin, whose birthday fell on Saturday, August 19; the Rev. F. A. Field, whose birthday falls on Thursday, August 24, and W. S. Bohannon, whose birthday falls on Saturday, August 26. Mr. and Mrs. Clendenin, Mr. and Mrs. Field, Miss Bessie Field and Mr. W. S. Bohannon were dinner guests at the Field residence Tuesday, at 5:30 p. m.

The diningroom was tastefully decorated with red roses and red ribbons. The birthday celebrants exchanged gifts and a pleasant time was spent in reminiscences of old days.

In the evening a surprise party called at the Field residence and helped to make things more pleasant. This party consisted of a number of people who used to belong to the Olivet Congregational church in Los Angeles at the time the Rev. Field was pastor. Many of them had been married by him. This party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Labbe of Hollywood, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Henderson of San Francisco, Mrs. Louise Vickers and Joseph Vickers of Los Angeles, Mrs. Phoebe Adams and Allan Adams of Tropic, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Adams of Los Angeles, Mrs. Kerr of Los Angeles and her son, H. D. Kerr. Mr. Kerr is an accomplished musician. He played and sung some of his own songs and also wrote and read an acrostic on the name of the Rev. F. A. Field, which was greatly admired for its appropriate sentiment. A great many beautiful purple asters were brought by the surprise party and helped to make the rooms a blaze of color. The acrostic read by Mr. Kerr was as follows:

F riends of old days meet this glad summer eve
R ound his bright hearth where the welcome is sure,
E ach with the thought of the work he has done,
D immed not by time, for 'twill ever endure.
E fforts he bore just to start us aright;
R oaming we've gone where the easy road's wide.
I nto the world we have weathered the storms,
C hildren of his with his teachings to guide.

A nd tonight as we gaze on his face once again,
F urrowed with lines that his bright smiles have made,
I nto each heart creeps the wish that is ours—
E ver those smiles shall beam on and not fade.
L et us rejoice then and never forget
D ear Mr. Field and old, dear Olivet.

It will be seen that the first letters of the lines spell the name—Frederic A. Field.

SPANISH KITCHEN IN GLENDALE

There are mighty few people who do not like Spanish dishes such as tamales, chili and beans, enchiladas, etc., but many do not know where these palatable dishes can be purchased to take home. The Dew Drop Inn, located on 330 S. Brand boulevard, of which Chas. Shropshire is proprietor, has secured a large business of late on Spanish dishes, which are not only served at the luncheon, but which are at all times kept in readiness to be sold in bulk to people who wish to take them home.

TWO YEARS OLD

A number of little tots assembled yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Pettitt, 427 S. Kenwood, in response to invitations from Mrs. Pettitt to help celebrate the second birthday of her little daughter, Helen. Dainty refreshments were served under the spreading pepper trees by Mrs. Pettitt, assisted by her guest, Miss Frances Parks of Downey.

CONVENTION OPENS TOMORROW

The sessions are to be held in the First Presbyterian church, Broadway and Cedar. Mr. Graydon Hoffman, state evangelistic superintendent, leads the opening consecration service at 9:30. Splendid programs have been prepared for all sessions.

WILSON ACTIVE ON RAILWAY QUESTION

PRESIDENT HOPES TO BE ABLE TO SETTLE DIFFICULTIES OF RAILROAD WORKERS SHORTLY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 23.—President Wilson is more sanguine today than he has been for some time as to the possibility of settling the railroad employees' difficulties without a strike. He stated today that he believed the managers would soon agree to the eight-hour day clause and that would take away what has been the great cause of contention between the roads and their men.

REPASSES ARMY APPROPRIATION BILL

REVISED ARTICLES OF WAR HAVE BEEN ELIMINATED FROM MEASURE VETOED BY PRESIDENT

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 23.—After the passing of the Army Appropriation bill by the House yesterday, the bill without the revised articles of war to which President Wilson had objected, was hastened to the Senate. There it was referred to the Military Committee, which promptly recommended it thus amended to the Senate. The Senate passed the bill in its amended form. The bill carries $314,000,000 as an appropriation for army expenses. The bill in its amended form will now receive the signature of President Wilson.

BUILDING FOR FUTURE

ESTIMATING COST OF JOBS OF PRINTING IS A GAMBLE

The stability and good business reputation of the Glendale Evening News is being built for the future without any selfish consideration for the few extra dollars which may fall into our till at present. When a patron asks for advertising space on the first page he is told that he cannot have it at any price. The neatness and attractiveness of the first page of a newspaper is what in time aids in winning that paper the respect of the people of the community in which it is published. It is only a cheap newspaper publisher who will sell his first page space at any price.

The management of the Evening News is slow to submit exact cost on printing orders but would prefer to prove to the public who are in the market for printing that his plan of keeping a detailed record of cost of stock and the time the workmen have devoted to the job is the most honest and fairest method for both printer and customer. There is no guesswork about this method. There are no two printers living who are able to arrive at the same price on a job of printing who have no other means of obtaining the price than from a bundle of copy placed in their hands. Such an estimate is little better than guesswork and those who are opposed to operating a wheel of fortune should not be strong advocates of the lottery system of giving prices. If the printers of a community can be depended upon as honest they should be allowed to give the price after the job has been completed when they know just exactly what it has cost them. If the printers are dishonest and cannot be depended upon it would be better not to patronize them.

The general public should be educated concerning how difficult it is to give the exact price on a job of printing before the work is executed. And then, too, there is a difference in the quality of printing, just the same as there is a difference in the quality of the work of different artists.

When an individual, firm or any local organization asks the Glendale Evening News to set an exact advance price on an irregular order of printing the management suspects either one of two things, that the parties ordering the printing are not familiar with how difficult it is to honestly give an exact price in advance or else they have doubts as to the honesty of the management of the News, in keeping an exact record of cost of stock, and time devoted to the job. Under all circumstances it would seem proper that a printer be required to make an approximate estimate of the cost so that the customer may know whether he would care to expend that amount for the printing.

Our method of determining the cost of work is a very accurate one and anyone contemplating having printing done at this office is invited to inspect this very practical and common sense system. In many instances we have been able to save our customers from 10 to 25 per cent over the approximate estimate given when the job was submitted. Last January, the Evening News was awarded the job of printing a municipal report for the city of Glendale at a price of $2 per page. The opposition bidder submitted a price of $3 per page. There were 88 pages in the publication, making a difference of $88 on the job. A few weeks ago the Glendale Evening News was awarded the contract for printing 750 copies of a very similar municipal report at $2.25 per page, when the opposition bidder gave a price of $3.35 per page, making a difference of $1.10 per page, or probably an aggregate difference of $75. More recently the Glendale News submitted a bid of $1.40 per page for printing a year book of perhaps forty pages, for the Tuesday Afternoon club and we have been informed by the secretary that the opposition submitted a lower bid which in the aggregate amounts to about $5.

In all of these instances quoted it is presumed that the printers used every available means of arriving at an accurate estimate of the work to be done but as is well known by everyone who is familiar with the printer's trade it is impossible to make an accurate estimate upon irregular work of the character referred to. The only honest way, as stated in our introductory remarks, is to give the price on the basis of amount of stock used and the time consumed in doing the work. Any other means is merely a lottery system and the time will come when those who have confidence in the honesty of the printer and are averse

BACK FROM CHICAGO

JOHN ROMAN RETURNS FROM HEAT OF MIDDLE WEST TO COOL GLENDALE

"Nothing has pleased me more," said John Roman, 1120 W. Seventh, who returned Monday from a three months' visit to Chicago, "since my return to the Pacific coast, than to find that all I told the people of Chicago about the pleasing summer and winter climate of Glendale was no exaggeration. In that sweltering climate in Chicago it was impossible to get the people to believe that Glendale was enjoying moderate heat and cloudless skies.

"In Chicago during the long hot spell it was most uncomfortable. For those who had the means of combating the heat, in the form of cool houses and ice-cooled baths, it was not so bad. In the case of the poor it was terrible. There are four municipal piers where provision is made on each for the handling of from 1500 to 2000 people. During the hot spell there was a constant line of patrons on the piers waiting for bathing suits. They never seemed to get caught up on the gap between demand and supply.

"In the very midst of the hot weather the ice companies found that they could not get men to work at delivering ice. They offered $5 a day but men were not to be had. The extraordinary boom in the steel business had absorbed all the surplus labor. So great is the demand for war munitions that the Illinois Steel company has orders two-and-a-half years ahead.

"Chicago is still rebuilding its downtown loop district. The Elks of Chicago are building a fine 14-story building at Fifth and La Salle and one who has not seen the city for several years would hardly recognize some parts of it. There is a continuous city all the way out to Evanston and the building is now being pushed out south. The great works of the Illinois Steel company naturally attracts people out that way. That company is now erecting an addition to its factory at a cost of $3,000,000.

"All throughout Illinois and other Central States business is booming as it is all over the East. This is the direct result of the war stimulus and there is no saying how long it will last.

"Hughes was tendered a great reception in Chicago while I was there. The Hughes sentiment is very strong in Illinois. I noticed that the crops in the Middle West were in fine shape and everything seemed prosperous. In fact the wave of prosperity has affected all branches of business and the real estate business has profited by it. However, with all their prosperity, I would rather live in Glendale in a moderate and quiet way and enjoy the equable climate here and not be swept along in such swelter of excitement and of heat as I encountered in Chicago.

"Mrs. Roman, who was with me in Chicago, is also of the opinion that there is nothing in the Middle West that can compare with Glendale and Southern California."

POULTRY BREEDERS TO MEET

Walter M. Ross, 224 West Colorado street, Glendale, who is secretary of the Poultry Breeders' association of Southern California, announces that the next meeting of that body will be held in the Assembly room of the Times building, First and Broadway, Los Angeles, Thursday, Aug. 24, at 8 p. m. Excellent speakers have been secured for this meeting.

to promoting chance work will discourage this method and will call for approximate prices and will place the work where they think they will get the best results, for the money to be expended.

The printing firm that does considerable business in the course of a year and gets the most of its work from bids submitted must require one of the office force to spend many hours in the preparation of these bids. That means an additional cost added to the overhead cost of the business and the patrons must pay for this. So the printing concern that gives a price at the completion of the job saves this extra expense and is therefore in a position to give his customers the benefit of this reduction of overhead cost.

In conclusion, we solicit the cooperation and patronage of men and women who wish printing done at right prices and the right prices can be arrived at only when the job is completed. If there are those who wish us to give the wheel of fortune a turn and see at what price the dial will point when the wheel stops, we would prefer not to engage in the gambling game.

MISCALLED "SUPERSTITIONS"

In many parts of Europe it has been customary for people to burn sugar in sick rooms as disinfectants. Scientists, or those who call themselves "scientists," have for ages laughed at the "superstition." Now the genuine science, that which acknowledging its ignorance keeps on exploring and analyzing and searching out, has discovered that there is a real reason for this use and custom. Sugar when burning develops "formic acetylene hydrogen," one of the most powerful antiseptic gases known to chemists. Experiments were made with sugar to see what it was that gave it this valuable reputation. In one experiment five grams of sugar were burned under a glass bell holding ten quarts. When the vapor had cooled, bacilli of typhus, tuberculosis, cholera, smallpox and other zymotic diseases were placed in the bell. They were all dead in half-an-hour.

If sugar is burned in a closed vessel containing putrified meat or the contents of rotten eggs, the offensive odor disappears almost at once. Herbert Spencer in his "First Principles" says that there is no superstition, so-called, that has not a substratum of truth and that it is the duty of any philosopher to trace it back to its origin and discover how much truth there is in it. In this way many wonderful things have been discovered.

Take this question of sugar. Why was it burned? When was it first burned? Of course the knowledge of its disinfecting powers must have come in some way from the West Indies and Mexico and South America, when the Spaniards brought back to the people of their own country the knowledge of this condiment. It is possible also that its disinfecting powers may have been discovered accidentally and that perhaps even its odor may have conveyed to someone of inquiring and experimenting mind that it was a disinfectant.

Take the question of the treatment of smallpox by the use of red light which is supposed to be the discovery of Finzen and other modern scientists. It is well known that centuries ago the Scotch Highlanders always, in cases of smallpox, hung the sick-room with curtains of red and took care to equip the bed of the patient with red blankets and red pillows. The modern scientist found out that the red curtains and other fittings excluded the ultraviolet rays which caused the pustules to eat deep into the cuticle. But the Highlander knew of it before the Christian era.

There is always a great deal of spare time in the world that is wasted. While the workers of the world are using up with care and cleverness every moment of their time in hard work and doing something every moment, the idlers are allowing the golden moments to pass and to vanish into the abyss unimproved. There is a great deal in being trained. The trained man does his work systematically and without trouble. It appears easy and the idler pats himself on the back and thanks God that he, too, is doing just as much as the genius who deftly accomplishes a task that the other could not compass in a century. To utilize one's time to the best purpose and to use too the spare time to the best advantage is one of the few methods that have been handed down from time immemorial as a panacea against evil thoughts, evil actions and an evil end. Some people are like the little engine of the country railroad that puffs and blows and creaks and groans and manages to drag the wheezy cars a few miles; while the great transcontinental express moves silently and majestically out of its station and utilizing every second accomplishes a mighty journey to the very moment of the advertised time of arrival.

RADICALISM IN ARGENTINA

There is to be a new regime in the Argentine Republic or Argentina, as it is often called. What goes on in those South American republics is of vast importance to the United States of America. It is to them that this country must look in great part for that expansion of trade which the United States, must have in order to make up for the falling off in manufactures after the war is over. There is going to be one of the greatest eras of competition against this country on the part of the regenerated Europe that will make Americans look for increased business in competition with the sharpened wits and strenuous efforts of nations hungry and eager for trade, nations that have been studying up new methods and have already created a vast body of skilled workers whose trained fingers and intelligence will be available in all fields of manufacture.

It is certain that the great abyss of British contempt for labor has been broken up by the war and that people who formerly thought themselves degraded if they talked of business are eager to go on making an income for themselves.

This is going to be a serious matter if this country does not take measures to combat it. Even now so admirably have the British munitions factories been organized that there are 2,500,000 men and women working at the manufacture of munitions and there is even talk of dispensing with foreign aid in this matter. That would be a severe blow for American manufacturers. Practically all of the recent prosperity that has struck the eastern states has come from this source. It has reacted on the other branches of industry and has stimulated a great deal of manufacture that would never have come into existence had it not been for the money put into circulation by the war.

The United States must find other lands where it can sell its products. Those markets can be most easily found in the countries of South America and there good prices can be obtained for manufactured goods of all kinds. The one great drawback has hitherto been that American merchants have not taken the pains to learn Spanish nor to study the wants and desires of the South American markets. Those people are just as shrewd and in many cases better educated than Americans and they will not take any kind of goods that may be thrust on them.

Dr. Irigoyen, the new president of Argentina, who will be installed October 12, is a radical. The party's ideals and program are

FOR COMING BRIDE

Miss Irene G. Read, 401 N. Central avenue, entertained with a very pretty 500 party Monday evening in honor of Miss Agnes Frostick, whose marriage to Mr. Frederick Brewster of Boston will take place in October.

Pink hearts hung from the chandeliers, the lights being covered with pink shades, making a soft glow. Hanging from the chandelier in the dining room was a kiewie dressed in pink holding in his hands strings of tiny hearts. Rose colored asters and asparagus vine in dainty baskets carried out the color scheme of pink and white.

The honors were carried off by Miss Ethel Read and Mrs. Edwin Stauffacher, who presented their trophies to the guest of honor.

When the refreshments were served came the surprise of the evening in the following announcement which was cleverly hidden inside of the napkins.

Mt. Olympus Sky County

I, Hymen, God of all Nuptials, duly appointed, commissioned and sworn, residing in the City of Perpetual Love, in County aforesaid, do hereby announce, on this the 21st day of August, in the year of our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred and Sixteen, at the request of Mr. William N. Read that Irene Genevieve Read and John White Garver have plighted troth, and I further announce that CONGRATULATIONS are now in order.

HYMEN.
WILLIAM N. READ.
Witnesses: X-X.

Mr. Garver came in just in time to receive congratulations with Miss Read.

Among those present were, Misses Agnes Frostick, Grace Crampton, Olga Pur, Athena Pur, Arline Hallahan, Bessie Provolt, Ethel Land, Cecelia Wilson, Athena Pur, Frae Morse, Pauline Scholz, Mattie Belle, Lynn and Roberta Coles, and; Champlain, Betty and Martha Porter, Lynn and Robert Coles, and; Mesdames R. W. Rishforth, Edwin Stauffacher and Geo. Bannock, Willard Whedon.

DANGERS OF LOS ANGELES

Sam P. Stoddard, the well-known real estate man, motored into Los Angeles Tuesday and left his auto for a few minutes close to the curb, then went about some business he had to transact. He had been gone only a short time but on his return found that some one had backed an auto into him and had slightly damaged one of the front wheels and axle. There was no means of ascertaining who had done this. Mr. Stoddard says that this is the fourth time an accident of this nature has happened to him when he has been in Los Angeles. On one occasion he had a lamp smashed, on another his fender was struck and bent and on yet another some of the spokes of a wheel were damaged. "I am beginning to be afraid of going to Los Angeles with its narrow streets and its innumerable autos," said Mr. Stoddard.

MOVING TO GLENDALE

At no time during the past two years have so many families been moving into Glendale. Houses are rapidly filling up and it is predicted that by October first desirable residences will be scarce indeed.

On Tuesday of this week, the H. L. Miller Co. rented 10 houses, and have a want ad in today's issue asking for houses to list. Other agents have also been busy leasing apartments and houses and from inquiries a News representative figures that 65 houses have been leased so far in August, which is usually considered the dullest month of the year.

Courage, the highest gift, that scorns to bend
To mean devices for a sordid end,
Courage—an independent spark from heaven's bright throne,
By which the soul stands raised, triumphant, high, alone.
* Great in itself, not praised of the crowd,
Above all vice, it stoops not to be proud.

little known. It is likely that the European nations have been on the spot with their propositions for mutual trade ever since the election. The United States requires to do the same thing. This country used to have a great many excellent consuls in South America, men who had been in the different countries of that continent long enough to have learned the ways of the people and their likes and dislikes, in the way of business. Their reports to the United States government, which have been issued in sheet form monthly to all the different firms, have been invaluable to enterprising firms anxious to do business with the different countries of South America.

It will be necessary to continue this good work. Unfortunately a great many of the most intelligent and experienced consuls have been recalled and their places filled with men of little experience and with no claims to office further than that they have been devoted politicians and have at last obtained a chance to get in on the United States consular service. This system must be changed if this country is to take any position in the competition for world commerce.

POSTAL MONEY SAVERS

Thousands of dollars are being saved yearly by the United States Post Office Department by numerous time-saving devices that have been installed in post offices the country over. One of the industrial enterprises of the department in Washington, is an establishment devoted to the manufacture of mail locks and the bag attachments used in mail transportation.

In this shop the old lock, which weighed five and a half ounces, has been displaced by one which weighs two and four-fifths ounces. As 430,000 new locks have been put into service the difference in weight means a great saving in transportation costs, as the Government pays as much for the weight of equipment as for the mail itself. The old locks cost twenty-one cents each to make, while the new ones cost eight and a half cents.

DON'T HUNT FOR TROUBLE

Don't hunt after trouble, but look for success;
You'll find what you look for; don't look for distress.
If you see but your shadow, remember, I pray,
That the sun is still shining, but you're in the way.
Don't grumble, don't bluster, don't dream and don't shirk;
Don't think of your worries, but think of your work.
The worries will vanish, the work will be done;
No man sees the shadow who faces the sun.

A CURIOUS FISH

In a new book entitled "The Ocean," A. Hyatt Verrill, who has spent many years in investigating the waters of the earth, attributes some of the sea-serpent stories to the occasional appearance of the strange "ribbon fish." This creature is supposed to be an inhabitant of great depths and to appear on the surface of the sea only when injured.

This authority says: "One individual, nearly twenty feet in length, lashed itself upon a beach in Bermuda, and was seen swimming in loops or convolutions, exactly as the sea serpent is described as swimming by those who claim to have witnessed the convulsion of sea monsters."

A Japanese company that has planted 200,000,000 pearl oysters in a bay of that country hopes to harvest millions of pearls, by a new system of treating the mollusks.

HUDSON WINS PIKE'S PEAK RECORD

A Hudson Super-Six, with Ralph Mulford, world famous driver, at the wheel, won Class C Hill Climb Aug. 11th over the world's highest highway, going twelve and seven-tenths miles to the summit of Pike's Peak. In that distance the car lifted itself almost one mile above the starting point in a trifle over eighteen minutes. The altitude at the finish was 14,109 feet. The Hudson ran through a rain cloud making the dangerous hair pin curves, with a precipice of 1000 feet at the edge of the road, at a terrific speed. Snow was falling on the Peak at finish of race. Some of the world's most famous racing cars were unable to reach the summit, while the Hudson beat all competitors by two and a half minutes. Howard W. Walker, distributor for the Hudson and Dodge motor cars, now has a Hudson Super-Six on demonstration and will be pleased to show the car to all interested at his show rooms, 1105 W. Broadway, Glendale.

TROPICO TRUSTEES MEETING

The board of trustees of the city of Tropic met in regular session in the city hall Tuesday evening at 7:30 with Trustees Alspach, Henry, Peters and Seal present; Boyce absent; also City Engineer Wattles, City Health Officer Mabry, Street Superintendent Wasson and City Marshal Gould present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

A communication was received from the Pacific Electric Railway acknowledging receipt of the notice to repair Brand boulevard at certain places where they had removed a spur track, stating that repairs would be made at once.

The city attorney informed the board that an ordinance must be passed fixing the rate of taxation for the fiscal year of 1916 and 1917, in order to furnish the County Auditor with such information on or before August 30. The budget committee reported that it would be necessary to raise $13,041 for the general fund, $1043 for the Library fund and $1895 to take care of interest and bonded indebtedness which would fall due this fiscal year. An ordinance calling for the above amounts was passed on first reading.

An ordinance fixing the tax rate was passed to second reading fixing the rate for municipal and general fund at $1.00, rate for Library fund .08 and for bonded indebtedness .13, making a total of $1.21 on the $100.

Mr. Green was present and addressed the board as usual on the faulty condition of the improvement of Adams street and Moore avenue, but before he finished he was ordered by the president of the board to file his objections, etc., with the city engineer.

The final report of the Railroad Commission fixing the water rate for fire hydrants for the city of Tropic at $75 per month for all hydrants now installed, said rate to take effect on August 18th, 1916. The board seemed to be very much dissatisfied with the hydrant rate and talked very favorably of taking an appeal or refusing to pay said rate and await developments.

A communication was received from Mrs. Cleve asking that Boynton street be designated at Moore avenue and Acacia street. This, however, brought up the question of marking the streets either on the sidewalks or on suitable posts. After some discussion the matter was laid over for future consideration. Trustee Seal asked that the city attorney look up the garbage contract and ascertain if it could be terminated at the present time.

Trustee Alspach addressed the board in regard to the enforcement of the ordinance prohibiting the driving of vehicles over curbs and sidewalks, stating that such was being done, and asked that the city marshal be instructed to arrest all violators of such ordinance. The marshal was instructed to strictly enforce such ordinance.

Fire Marshal Gould was given permission to take the fire engine and firemen to Glendale on Wednesday night to be present at the burning of a building by the Kalem Moving Picture company, services to be paid for by the picture company.

The following bills were allowed and ordered paid:

C. R. Gilmore.....	$ 2.60

J. S. Ripley.....	8.75

WORK OF KALEM COMPANY

The Kalem Company is hard at work on the eighth episode in "The Girl From Frisco." This is a Hindoo mystic story and is full of thrilling situations. It is entitled "The Battle in the Dark." Mr. Davis' railroad company is also at work on an exciting story styled "The Blocked Track." It deals with railroad work and convicts and is sensational in the extreme.

LEARN ABOUT CANDIDATES

It is the duty of every voter to make honest and careful inquiry about the qualification of candidates to be voted for at next Tuesday's primary election. This hap-hazard, hit-and-miss plan of voting for candidates irrespective of a knowledge of their qualifications is the cause of weakness in government. It is indeed difficult to learn about the superior and inferior qualifications of candidates. The uninformed person should rely for information on men of integrity and good judgment. The unscrupulous politician should not be depended upon for such information. The man in whom you would place confidence in getting advice in a business way would usually be a man in whom you might place confidence in giving you advice as to the merits of candidates, provided he himself knows of their merits.

PROF. RAYMOND COMING

VALLEY VIEW

S. H. Walter and wife and Laura Enid of 1618 Oak street have returned home from a two weeks' outing at Long Beach.

Two new homes have been commenced in Valley View, at 1452 W. 5th and 1453 Colorado.

R. H. Thume and wife and little Jack, of 1633 Oak street, are home from a two weeks' sojourn at Venice.

Carroll Hare, of 1543 Oak street, proprietor of the White Supply Station, was mixed up in a novel accident in Los Angeles recently. He was driving north on Alameda with his oil tank auto, while immediately behind him was another tank machine and behind that a passenger auto. A runaway horse swerved in front of Carroll, causing him to stop suddenly. The man behind him was alert, and promptly stopped, also, but the third driver was gazing about him, so kept right on, striking the machine in front of him and pushing it into Carroll's machine, the big faucets on his oil tank penetrating the radiator of the second machine. The driver behind was blamed for not looking ahead and No. 2 asks damages of him for a pierced radiator.

The gas company is laying new mains on Pacific avenue at the end of 5th street.

H. W. Faacks and wife of Lankershim spent Sunday with Mrs. Faacks' parents, Robert Bell and wife, 1414 Vine street.

Frank C. Smedley arrived at his home, 1543 Riverdale, yesterday, after an absence of several months in Boston, Mass., where he works for a big commission firm. He reports business as still booming all over the East.

Geo. Benedict, who lives with his daughter, Mrs. May V. Kenyon, at 1500 Oak street, has been quite ill for several days. As he is past 92 years of age, his recovery will be slow.

Harry Greenwalt, 1508 Oak street, is now in charge of the San Diego branch of the Moreland Truck Co.

DEATH OF MRS. A. L. TREAT

Mrs. Mary J. Treat passed away at her home, 102 Geneva street, Tuesday, August 22, 1916, at 6:30 a. m., at the age of 68 years. Mrs. Treat leaves to mourn for her husband and two sons, Ernest A. Moulton of Highland Park, Los Angeles, and Harry M. Moulton of Venice, Cal.

Mrs. Treat was a native of Canada but had resided in the Golden state for twenty-five years. She had lived in Glendale for the past three years with her husband, Albert L. Treat, who is a member of N. P. Banks Post, G. A. R., No. 170. Friends of the Post and Corps are invited to attend the funeral, which will take place at the Jewel City Undertaking parlors, corner of Third and Brand, at 2 p. m., Thursday, Rev. C. R. Norton officiating. Mrs. Treat was a woman greatly respected and much loved by all who knew her and much sympathy is expressed by the many friends for the bereaved ones.

AN AUTO HONEYMOON

Karl Rudolph La Com, who has been living with his mother, Mrs. K. La Com, at 1447 Oak street, was married yesterday at the little Catholic church rectory on Mt. Washington, to Miss Agatha Eyrand, and they started at once on a leisurely honeymoon trip of four weeks to San Francisco and other Northern California points in an auto.

Mr. La Com has been a trusted and valued employe of the Packard Motor Co. agency in Los Angeles and the firm not only gave him a month's vacation on full pay but also furnished the auto for the honeymoon trip. When they return Mr. and Mrs. La Com will reside at 1422 W. 7th street, where the groom recently purchased a home.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Irma Eyrand of 3047 Ross Court, Tropic. She has been connected with the Dolly Varden confectionery for the past two years and won many friends by her courteous manner.

WILL BUILD IN GLENDALE

Nearly forty high class residences are under construction in Glendale and North Glendale, and many buildings are planned. Mrs. Ethel Green, a recent arrival from York, Neb., has just purchased two desirable lots on Colorado boulevard, through the H. L. Miller agency, and will soon start to build a $2500 residence on the property. F. L. Fodr, who for some time past has been leasing the property at 1472 Burchett street has purchased a valuable site on Brand boulevard, near Doran, and will immediately make arrangements for the erection of a $3000 residence. New residences will also soon be started on North Maryland, North Louise, North Isabel, Brand boulevard and Campbell streets.

THE MIGHT OF LITTLE THINGS

A train carrying a prominent public man was late one day last winter. The audience which had collected to hear the celebrity, waited, grew tired, and at length dispersed, while the train came in at last, four hours late. A severe snowstorm had come up, with a strong wind blowing, and in the path of the locomotive, millions of snowflakes had dropped. And these tiny things which melt as they brush your warm hand, which must be examined under a microscope if their beauty is to be appreciated, came near stopping the express, and did delay it many hours.

Some of you think your friends and parents most unreasonable when they object to certain little shortcomings on your part. A neglected lesson, tardiness in keeping an engagement, a lack of order in your room, these are trivial things, you think. But as the mighty power of the locomotive was largely counteracted by the combined resistance of the tiny snowflakes, so the energy of many a life is rendered futile by the massing together of innumerable petty weaknesses. The snowflake should teach us that the things which are small are not necessarily insignificant.

The ants will slip on the ice and break their legs." The wife stopped tating. "Read that again," she requested. "Here's a better one than that one," easily stated the busy man. He did not smile. "To remove coffee stains; the simplest way is to place a clean napkin over the soiled part of the tablecloth. Another way is to send the cloth to the laundry." "What in the world are you reading?" The lady of his heart was now deeply interested. "Some household hints. Now, here is another. 'To remove a coat of tan, unbutton it and pull your arm out first; it will then come off easily enough.'" Then she called him a darned fool.

SPORTS IN JAPAN

Ichiya Kumagae, an expert tennis player of Japan, who has been visiting in this country with Hachishiro Mikami, another star player, points out some contrasts between the way of looking at sports in Japan and America. He says:

"We play for sport's sake only in Japan. We do not have the professional. There are professional wrestlers, but they belong to a special class. We do not charge admission to tennis or baseball games. In the big contests between Keio and Waseda Universities, no admission is charged to any game except when an American team comes over and we have to provide the money to help pay their expenses.

"Often 3,000 or 4,000 spectators come to witness tennis matches between the rival universities. There is cheering and yelling of a nature as loud and enthusiastic as one hears at baseball or football games in the United States. As between baseball and tennis in Japan, I cannot say which is the more popular, as both are in high favor. Boys play tennis in Japan far more than girls, but there is no bar to girls playing, although we do not have mixed doubles.

Keep a smiling face. The world needs smiling faces, there are not any too many of them. When it sees one, one that truly reflects the sunshine of the soul, it notices, it observes, and its possessor need never be unpopular, lonely or unhappy.

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair to-night and Thursday; light westerly winds; foggy along the coast.

NEW AGRICULTURAL BUILDING

When the 7000 students of the University of California take up the work of a new year on Monday, August 21, they will find construction begun on Hilgard Hall, a new $350,000 building which will greatly enlarge the opportunities of the college of agriculture.

An experimental cold storage plant is to be installed in the basement of Hilgard Hall for experiments to develop the best possible methods for refrigerating fruits during shipment. Here also will be rooms filled with machinery for experiments in the utilization of wood and the handling of fruit. There will be also student and research laboratories for the study of soils, and a work room for citriculture.

The forestry division, a recently established department in which a staff of five professors give one of the best four-year professional courses in forestry offered at any American university, will occupy most of the ground floor, special rooms being devoted to the forestry herbarium, forest mensuration, logging demonstration, silviculture, research in the technology of woods, and class-room and laboratory purposes. Agronomy—the science of field crops—will also have quarters here.

Citriculture—devoted to improving methods of growing oranges, lemons and grapefruit; Genetics—which teaches the fundamental principles of breeding plants and animals, and Zymology—which carries on researches in regard to fermentation, the conservation of foods, improved methods of making by-products from California fruits, etc., and Pomology—the department which deals with the deciduous fruits of California, will all be housed on the second floor of Hilgard Hall, with herbariums seminar rooms, and scientific collections for the use of these various departments, as well as classrooms and laboratories. Studies, research laboratories and departmental headquarters for these divisions will be housed in the top floor of the building.

Hilgard Hall has been named in honor of the late Dr. Eugene Wol-demar Hilgard, for a generation dean of the college of agriculture at the University of California, one of the founders of the science of the physics, chemistry and geology of the soil, whose researches as to alkali lands are made use of in every part of the world where irrigation is practiced. Hilgard Hall is being built with part of the proceeds of the issue of $1,800,000 in university building bonds voted by the people of California.

During the summer the university has practically completed the exterior of Benjamin Ide Wheeler Hall, the new $730,000 class-room building, also being built from the university building bonds, and about half completed. The addition to the university library will provide for a million volumes, although for the present only sufficient shelving will be provided for half a million. Within twenty years, at the present rate of growth, the University of California will have more than a million volumes in this library. One building completed during the summer is the domestic science building for the instruction of the women students in the sciences and arts of the household and the economics of home management. Work is to begin in the near future on the new chemistry building and on a second unit of the central heating and power plant where the university produces its own heat and electricity.

Work is in progress also on the buildings for the new citrus experiment station and graduate school of tropical agriculture at Riverside and the new university hospital in San Francisco.

HOW TO FEED HENS

How to feed hens is to be taught in a six-weeks' short course in poultry, to be given by the University of California at the university farm at Davis from October 2 to November 14, short courses being in progress at the same time in agriculture, horticulture and dairy manufactures.

The farmers and their wives who come to these practical short courses for adults will be given the benefit of the investigations which the poultry division of the university farm has been carrying on for the past three years concerning the comparative feeding values of high protein feeds, such as meat scrap, fish scrap, buttermilk, linseed, soy bean and cocconut meals, blood meal, tankage, alfalfa meal, etc., for laying hens. The results indicate, says the university, that it makes little difference what kinds of such feeds are fed to laying hens so long as the ration contains some animal feed, has an approximately correct nutritive ratio, and has the feeds properly proportioned in the ration. How hens are fed, says the university, is just as vitally important as the question of what they are fed.

The results will be set forth of many other investigations which are constantly being carried on to increase the prosperity of the poultry industry in California.

To help the short course students to grasp the fundamental principles of poultry husbandry and learn their practical application in the business of raising poultry is the object of the course. They will be taught how to hatch, rear, feed, breed and care for fowls. Instruction will be given also in practical carpentry work in building poultry houses and making coops, nests, hoppers, crates, etc.

Demonstrations will be given of the best way to grow such crops as alfalfa, rape, kale, beets, etc., for green feed for fowls. There will be instruction in how to irrigate crops, plow and handle soils of different types, and operate, repair and care for such farm machinery as gasoline engines, bone cutters, field tools, etc.

Every farmer who wants to succeed with a modern commercial poultry plant, says the university, ought to know how to keep a clear, concise set of accounts which will show him the exact cost of operation of every branch of his enterprise. This aid to the farmer toward putting and keeping his business on a firm financial basis will be taught to the short course students.

BEAUTIFYING A RAILWAY

The Philadelphia & Reading Railroad sends out a special baggage car each spring loaded with plants for flower beds at about 150 different stations on its line. It employs a chief gardener to direct this work of beautifying its grounds in these various towns and cities.

GOD'S GOLDEN SUMMER

The summer sunshine filters warmly down Upon the earth with shimmer and with sheen, And radiant skies are bending low to clasp The purple hills and fields of tender green.

The yellow grain-fields ripen in the sun Like golden webs from some ancestral loom, And warm winds bear upon their pulsing wings The faint, sweet hint of myriad flowers a-bloom.

In clover fields the velvet-coated bees Laden with sweets their pilfering labor ply, While underneath the spreading pasture trees At noon the dozing, full-fed cattle lie.

Fleet, shining wings are flashing everywhere, The field and forest house a radiative throng, Sweet vibrant notes are pulsing on the air, And all the world is vocal now with song.

And far in leafy temples cool and dim, The choir invisible lifts up its voice, In cadence soft and sweet as pipes of Pan, A myriad unseen creeping things rejoice.

God's golden summer broods o'er land and sea, Its gracious opulence the earth enthalls, Its peace beauty hallows all our days, And on our lives its benediction falls.

—Elizabeth Clarke Hardy.

A SUCCESSFUL HOBBY

George B. Sloane of New York City, a successful young business man who holds a responsible position with one of the largest silver-smiths of the city, has achieved a reputation as one of the ablest postage stamp experts in the country. He is an authority upon the stamps of the United States. He is known by collectors and dealers everywhere and his advice is in constant demand by them.

He conducts departments in two stamp magazines, writes stamp articles for other publications and carries on a large correspondence. His own collection of stamps is highly valuable, numbering many thousands of both United States and foreign stamps. He states that the stamps of Uncle Sam are the most complicated and hard to understand of any, and it has taken a great deal of time and hard work for him to master them.

The greatest treasure we can carry out of life when we leave it, is the consciousness that we have done our best for the salvation of those about us.

Life is a series of alternatives. Whatever we do, we must choose between doing it and something else, often between what is good and what is better.

A LADY OF HIGH DEGREE

"The other day I beheld a woman," writes Cornelia A. P. Comer in "A Letter to the Rising Generation," "whose husband earns something less than $200 a month, purchasing her season's wardrobe. Into it went one hat at $50 and another at $30. Her neighbors in the flat building did not cease to admire.

"From the thought of her, and her hats, I like to turn to a certain volume of memoirs, giving a picture of New England life in the first half of the nineteenth century ('Recollections of My Mother' by Susan I. Lesley). It is an incomparable textbook on the art of getting the most out of things. It sets forth, in such concrete, vivid fashion as to kindle the most reluctant imagination, the virtues of a plain living, high thinking, purposeful day.

"The delightful lady who is the subject of it found three dresses at a time an ample outfit, and six days' sewing a year sufficed for her wardrobe; but she had a noble presence and what would have been called stately manners had they not been so gracious. Before the age of 20 she had read all the authors that were then best known, and she kept eagerly in touch always with the thought of her day. This did not interfere with her domestic concerns, as they did not narrow her social life. If she arose at 4 a. m. to sweep the parlors, calling the domestics and the family at 6, it was that she might find time for reading during the morning and for entertaining her friends in the evening, as she habitually did some three times a week. She managed a large house and a large family, and her wit, cultivation, and energy enriched life for everybody who knew her."

A DISCIPLE OF ST. COLUMBAN

St. Gall was born in Ireland, probably about 550. He was a disciple of St. Columban and was one of the twelve disciples who journeyed with that intrepid missionary of France. Their arrival is said to have been about 585, and they found the country in need of their ministrations. Though France was nominally Christian, the church was not influencing the lives of the people as it should, and the earnest preaching of the little band made a strong impression. Columban remained in France about twenty years.

The history of the monastery of St. Gall is an interesting one. It was in early days, a great center of learning. In the ninth century the first catalogue of the library was made, showing that even then it had some four hundred books. For a thousand years it played an important role in the history of learning, commemorating the name of its founder.

MORE THAN A GRIND

The hardest, most toilsome life ought to be more than a grind. Never speak of working as plodding. It is not the work we do, but the spirit we put into it, that counts. The bricklayer who works for something besides his wages, who takes pride in being a constructive force in society, is less of a drudge than the author who writes merely for the money in it. It is the groveling aim which makes life a grind. Aspiration uplifts and enobles it.

TWO KINDS OF DREAMERS.

The other day when Herbert's mother called him, he did not answer. She was quite sure that he was in the library, and wondered at his silence. She went to the door of the room and there sat Master Herbert in a brown study, his forehead wrinkled into a frown, his chin resting on his hands, his eyes dreamy. Not till his mother touched his arm did he really come to himself, and then he roused with a start. "I've got it," he shouted.

"Got what, child?" "Why, that telegraphic apparatus that Bob's uncle sent him won't work. We've studied the directions and done everything they said, but we just couldn't make it go. And now I see how to fix it. It's this way." He launched into an explanation which his mother understood as well as she would have understood a Greek oration, but she listened with pleasure, nevertheless. Herbert had been doing some real thinking. He had been so absorbed in thought that his mother's voice had failed to reach him. Whether he was right in believing that he had solved the difficulty in regard to the telegraphic apparatus mattered little, since he had proved himself capable of such concentration. The boy who can lose himself in hard thinking, so that he is dead to all about him, has a good start toward success.

Paul is another boy who does not always hear when he is spoken to. His eyes grow dreamy. Time slips away and he forgets all about the duties awaiting him. But when he is brought back to life by a shake, or a voice speaking in his ear, he has no victory to announce. Nine times out of ten he would have hard work to tell what he had been thinking about. Paul's abstraction is due not to hard thought, but to the vaguest kind of day-dreaming.

These two boys make very much the same impression on the superficial observer. "Dreamers" they would be called by the person who is keenly alive to everything that is taking place about him. But in point of fact they are as far apart as the poles. Whether a boy has concentrated his attention on some abstract problem till he is unable to hear what is said to him, or is simply letting his thoughts drift off to some imaginary fairyland, makes all the difference between failure and success.—Mary L. Coons.

OUTLOOK FOR ALASKA

As Alaska has the same latitude as Denmark, Norway, Sweden, and Finland, and similar climatic conditions, the same development may be expected as that witnessed in the Scandinavian countries. The Department of Agriculture has classified 60,000 square miles in Alaska as suitable for cultivation, with an additional 100,000 suitable for hay and grazing, and still another 100,000 for reindeer ranges.

The four Scandinavian countries have 12,000,000 population, and 14,000,000 head of live stock. Applying the same ratio to the available land of Alaska, it would give her a population of 30,000,000, with 50,000,000 head of live stock. The present population of Alaska, according to the last census, is 65,000 including natives. It is predicted that Alaska's growth in population and commerce will be steady.

The country has 4,000 miles of navigable rivers. The Government has appropriated $335,000,000 for railway construction now in active process which will connect commerce of these rivers and render accessible the great coal fields, mines, forests, and agricultural lands.

GOING TO THE BOTTOM OF THINGS

Not every student who hands in all the problems correctly solved has mastered the rule so that he understands why every step is inevitable. Not every employe in an office takes the trouble to familiarize himself with the routine of the business outside his own little share. The people who go to the bottom of things are few, but you are likely to hear from them to the last man.

Every true, beautiful and helpful thought is a suggestion which, if held in the mind, tends to reproduce itself there.—Orison Swett Marden.

THRIFT IN SWITZERLAND

In Switzerland, the people exercise greater forethought in the matter of saving money than in most countries, for 554 out of every 1,000 inhabitants have savings accounts. In the United States only ninety-nine out of every 1,000, or less than ten per cent, have thus provided for the future. The average savings per person in Switzerland are $47.03, and in the United States $4.84.

A little girl in Brooklyn, the great-granddaughter of a wealthy New Yorker, is being taught thrift systematically. This man in his will provided that a large part of his estate should go to his granddaughter, provided she saved $500 in five years. Every boy and girl in the country, some contend, should be likewise taught—that "to save a penny is to earn a penny," in order that they may know the real value of money and its purchasing power.

I turned to the blue heaven, gazing into its depths, inhaling its exquisite color and sweetness. The rich blue of the unattainable flower of the sky drew my soul toward it, and there it rested; for pure color is rest of heart.—Richard Jeffries.

What world-wide benefactors these 'impudent' men are! How proudly most men creep into nameless graves; while now and then one or two forget themselves into immortality.—Wendell Phillips.
