WEEKLY GREETING

George Eliot makes one of her characters say:

"I'm proof against that word failure. I've seen behind it. The only failure a man ought to fear is failure to cleave to the purpose he sees to be best. As long as a man sees and believes in some great good, he'll prefer working toward that in a way he's best fitted, come what may."

The True Spirit

What incident more inspiring can there be than that which occurred at Philadelphia recently when Louise Homer sang the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," and with singing arms vigorously directed the multitude in singing the chorus?

Shoulder to shoulder in the open air stood many thousands of native and foreign born citizens, whose good red blood coursed more rapidly with the zest of aroused patriotic fervor as the notes of the song rang on the clear air.

"He is tramping out the vintage where the grapes of wrath are stored," she sang, and there came the vision of the determined armies of the allies which are battling to suppress forever the evils of kaiserism.

"I have seen him in the watchfires of a hundred circling camps," sang the rich, full contralto as she began the second verse, and everyone having a loved one in the home camps or abroad to loose "the fateful lightnings of his terrible swift sword," was drawn closer to the soldier boy.

"He has sounded forth the trumpet that shall never call retreat" and "Let us die to make men free" are great resolves. Had Julia Ward Howe written the immortal and inspiring hymn for these particular times she could not better have expressed the American sentiment of today.

A Plea From Afar

Mr. W. L. Overstreet,
Editor, Carmel Pine Cone.

My dear sir:

Like every Carmelite I am happiest in my absences when I am describing to an interested listener the charms and beauties of the little village by the sea. At a distance of several thousand miles the old vision is given me of the glorious freshness of that place as I first saw it.

Though I reluctantly admit to the inquirers that stores, churches, hotels, even a newspaper, do exist as the necessary accompaniments of living, I know that they are there because we were there first, and very few of us are there because of them.

One dollar will take almost any American into a veritable jungle of life's necessities, but only the inward vision and the worship of beauty will take us to Carmel.

With every return to Carmel I find not only the outward charm of it dimmed, but the mental atmosphere has been infringed upon. Outwardly and inwardly it is slipping into the dollar class.

The deplorable devastations upon the water front are perhaps indicative of our own attitude—while we are fighting for our shore line, let us also defend ourselves against the insidious encroachment upon our early vision.

I have always believed that living in Carmel might be a religion or a disease; it is quite impossible for it to be just living in the ordinary sense.

Will not you who are there now keep the faith and save the shore, the trees, the shrubbery, the wild fragrance, and the marvel of it all, that we who have only the vision may not lose that too in our absence.

City Trustees Hold Interesting Session

With a number of residents in attendance, the last regular meeting of the Board of Trustees this year, took place on Tuesday evening.

Surveyor Cozzens reported that the town survey would be completed about Dec. 24.

The board set a time for hearing of the charges of I. B. Waterbury involving the conduct of City Marshal England.

A citizen appeared before the board to request local legislation for the protection of animals, and was informed that, upon complaint being filed, prosecution could be commenced under existing State laws.

Trustee G. F. Beardsley, in discussing sanitary matters, read extracts from the "State Housing Act."

A citizens' petition regarding the dynamiting of rock on the water front was read and filed. The board decided it was without jurisdiction.

R. G. Leidig, on behalf of the Carmel Fire Department, made a tender to the city of that organization's equipment and membership. The board took the matter under advisement.

Cover with slices of the buttered bread and bake. Serve with powdered sugar and cream or with a thin custard.

Line a pie tin with a rich pastry crust. Fill with pitted prunes and bake. Cover with a meringue made with the beaten whites of 2 eggs and 2 tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. Brown the meringue in the oven and serve the pie hot or cold.

War Stamps on Sale at Local Postoffice

The war savings certificate campaign was inaugurated throughout the country Monday morning. It is one of the most vital undertakings of the government since the war began.

In its broadest aspects it contemplates that a hundred million persons shall invest $20 each during the coming twelve months—save it and loan it to the government at interest.

The plan is very simple. Beginning next Monday there will be placed on sale at postoffices and other public places two varieties of stamps—War Savings stamps of the denomination of $5, selling for $4.12, and Thrift stamps, selling at 25 cents.

The purchaser of a War Savings stamp obtains the promise of the government to pay $5 at the end of five years, or on January 1, 1923.

A Thrift stamp purchaser waits until he has acquired sixteen 25-cent stamps, amounting to $4, whereupon he exchanges the card upon which they are pasted at any of the places where the stamps are on sale and receive one of the War Saving stamps upon payment of 12 cents.

The purchaser of a War Savings stamp at $4.12 is given a war-savings certificate, to which may be affixed twenty of the same stamps. This certificate will bear his name and address.

The plan provides that no one may buy more than $100 worth of the War Saving Stamps at one time, and no one is allowed to own over $1000 worth in all.

Those of small or moderate means should embrace this opportunity to assist the government. Even children may purchase the 25-cent stamps.

Butcher Shop Moves

Wood Bros., the Monterey butchers, have moved to their own building, two doors from the Monterey Savings Bank. They have a neat, up-to-date sanitary shop. The proprietors invite inspection.

How Red Cross Has Spent Funds

In accordance with the policy of the American Red Cross, in keeping the public thoroughly informed on its varied activities, the War Council makes the following statement of collections and disbursements up to November 1:

Collections $79,895,355.68. Of this amount $9,129,389.21 was returned to local chapters.

The total appropriations from the war fund were $40,851,259.20, of which $26,934,416.86 was for foreign relief, distributed as follows:

Armenia and Syria, $1,800,000; Belgium, $720,001; France, $19,581,240.47; Great Britain, $1,066,520; Italy, $214,000; Roumania, $1,518,398.76; Russia, $1,428,040.87; Serbia, $493,203.76; miscellaneous, $113,012.

The apportionment for United States supplies $3,483,729; U. S. hospital work, $379,500; U. S. sanitary service at cantonments, $183,500; U. S. miscellaneous, $108,487.60. Total for United States, $4,120,216.60.

Appropriations for hospitals aggregated $220,000.

$7,659,000 was appropriated for garment materials, which will be returned by the chapters to the war fund.

An appropriation of $500,000 is a bookkeeping acknowledgement of a gift of cars and parts through the Detroit chapter.

$1,417,625.74 has been appropriated from moneys donated for specific purposes.

All expenses of the Red Cross in America have been paid from general funds; no part of the War Fund has been used for that purpose.

Things much needed for the benefit of our town: The elimination of poison oak; the clearing from every lot the tangled underbrush; good roads; and, above all, the unity of the taxpayers, disregarding the interference of those not having a dollar invested in the community.
