WEST VIRGINIA
1916 UNIVERSITY

Stephen Goodloe Jackson

STEPHEN GOODLOE JACKSON, to whom this MONITOR is dedicated, is a Bachelor of Science and of Law from the West Virginia University, and a Bachelor of Law from Yale. While a student at the University, he enjoyed the honor of being one of three distinguished cadets for three years, and of being class president, debaters' league captain, cadet captain, and winner of special gold prize for best all-round debater. He was a member of the Sigma Chi Fraternity at West Virginia University, and one of the founders of Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity at Yale, and has represented it in National Convention and for some years as Trustee.

After leaving college, he took up the practice of law, in which profession he has engaged ever since with enthusiasm and brilliant success, being a member of the law firm of Smith and Jackson of Clarksburg, West Virginia.

He has been a member of the West Virginia University Athletic Board for four years, and the present enviable position and tone of University athletics in football and baseball sports are largely due to his inspiring planning and leadership.

Mr. Jackson is of the "Stonewall" stock. His outstanding personal characteristics are persistent energy, exceptional legal acumen, fine integrity and devoted loyalty to worthy persons and purposes, to his profession, and to his Alma Mater.

Foreward

Our aim in this, the 1918 Monticola, is to portray every phase of college life, in spirit of fairness and good fellowship, praising and appreciating alike the efforts of those who contribute to the glory of West Virginia.

If, in after years, this book helps to keep forever keenly alive the memories of happy days spent together at West Virginia University, it will have fulfilled successfully its purpose. To all those who treasure these sacred thoughts and reminiscences, greetings.

Senior History

Seniors, dignified, and true,
Loyal to Old Gold and Blue.

Ever since our freshman year—
In '13 we entered here—

Never has there been a class
Us in brilliancy could pass.

In our leaders "Mike" and "Fid"
Was shown the genius found amid

Our members for the first two years,
Now on every side one hears

Royal praise that does fulfill
The splendid work of "Lyss" and "Bill."

Can you e'er forget our "Prom"
Which can still be heard of from

Lots of folks who came and danced
And went home with us entranced?

And there is our yearbook, too,
From which we very famous grew:

Slow at first, but sent away
Came to you one day in May.

So much for our deeds, they're true:
Let's loyal be to Gold and Blue.

ALLEN ARTHUR BROOKS
"Brookie"

We have pleasant memories of Allen,
That cannot be told in one book,
His cheerful sacrifice and his courtesy
Lend charm to a handsome look.
There never was such a hero,
The Junior hearts he soon took.

HELEN CYRIL JUDGE

With rosy cheeks and beaming eye,
She comes to school each day;
With no complaint she does her work
In her sincere, charming way.
To write society was her task,
And well her part did play.

ROY FILLMORE ASH
"Dusty"

Our little "Dusty" was very wise,
He never talked, just used his eyes.
He wrote an "ad"—small success he had,
Does it pay to advertise?

JAMES MADISON REED
"Jim"

Just to prove his ability as an extra man in military, he went upon the range—and couldn't hit a window with a shot gun.

1914

WILLIAM MATTHEW ARCHDEACON, JR.
"Arch"

This tiny, tidy, gallant young man
Seen in many attires so neat and span,
Suitable to every occasion.
Is very clever and skillful in art.
Pages herein display his part,
In dramatics he is a sensation.

MARGUERITE ELLEN ROBERTS
"Peggy"

Who makes us laugh, or dries our tears
With equal calm efficiency?
Of girls like our own Peggy true
There'll never be sufficiency.

ERWIN BOWMAN STONE
"Stony"

He dares to face the foe
And sure the victor be,
With home runs to the fences
He fills our hearts with glee.
The feats of other comrades
He writes for you and me.

ROBERT ETHAN ALLEN

They took him for a rookie
This boy with cheeks aglow,
He careth for the farmers,
In Farmer's Week, you know.
But on the range, 'tis very sad,
His marksmanship was horribly bad.

EDWARD CLINTON BENNETT

He used to star for Reserves
But his nose would not stand the strain.
Got into an awful mixup
And blood flowed like crimson rain.
But he seized the elusive pigskin
And ran for the goal like a train.

HENRY WASHINGTON BEARD

'Tis H. W. from Hillsboro town,
Ruddy of cheek and hair,
Oh, yes, he is studying farming,
Yet, he loves Xanna the fair,
Forgot what to do in the charge
And lost out in a horrid nightmare.

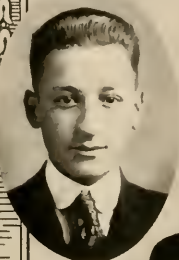

ROBERT HARMAN ARMSTRONG
"Bob"

Our bonnie, bonnie Bobbie
Never makes much ado.
In Scotland are his kinsfolk,
His kind are ever true.
In all things quiet and earnest,
He's thorough, through and through.

J. HOMER BELL

You cannot say he is fleshy (?)
But whatever he is, he likes it.

ALLEN DAVIS BOWIE

There is a young man named "Slack,"
 A very few things does he lack.
 The way he dances
 Every lady entrances
 But it's mighty hard on the back.

LEON HOVSEP BOGHOSIAN

He came all the way from Persia,
 From the city of Teheran, by name.
 And in our pleasant school,
 Each day he garners fame.

CARTER RICHARD BISHOP

He is the literary society man, who seeks to entertain with music, oratory, and dissertation. He is quite an accomplished artist, too.

LAURA BENT

Laura is bright, happy, and gay,
 And we were glad when she came back to stay.
 How long it will be, we never can say
 'Till Albert will come, and take her away.

THEODORE VERNE BROADWATER
"Brodie"

No more will I drill for pastime.

JOSEPH HENRY BOYD

Quiet and cautious
At work and play
He pushes forward
His lines each day
Shouting commands
Charge! and Away!

PAULINE BREWSTER

The best way to preserve an ideal,
Is never to marry it.

JOHN EARL BRANNAN
"Bud"

"Bud" likes to lead the rushes
Through theatres when we thuse,
Cheers for Dixy and the others
And chases away the blues,
Burns wagons on the campus
Fights anyone we choose.

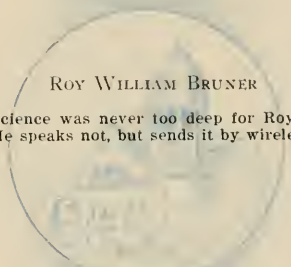

ROBERT LUTHER BROCK
"Bob"

"Give me a smile," quoth reticent Brock,
"I shall securely enfold it under key and lock."

ROY WILLIAM BRUNER

Science was never too deep for Roy.
He speaks not, but sends it by wireless.

EVERETT BUSCH

"Band, Forward!"

Let's give a rah! for Busch and his Band,
Who spread much cheer, and have lots of sand.

VIRGINIA BROWN

To play, and swim, and dance, and think,
And laugh, and have a host of friends;
Virginia Brown has learned to link
All these, and her fun never ends.

DAVID ALFRED CHRISTOPHER "Chris"

Historian, poet, chief editor,
With rifle he shoots the highest score;
Hustles around for athletic dope
Though literary prominence is his greatest hope.
Merry and busy, cheerful all day,
Leads all his classes in work and in play.

HELEN MARY CARLE

She studies nearly all the time,
She's bright, you must confess.
We love her dimples and her smiles,
And would not have them less.

STANLEY CORNELIUS BUTLER

My name's Butler, get me, Kid?
I'm rough, and tough--
What I ain't done, ain't been did;
Just try me on that cave man stuff.

I. PRESTON CHAMPE

Is Mr. Champe southern? Quite much!
When he tries all the fair ones to woo,
He rehearses "I reckon" and such,
But, so oddly, it doesn't ring true.

ELIZABETH CONWAY

She is tall and strong
 Studious and bright,
 Each day she adds to her store
 Of history and logic
 And much pedagogic
 And still she searches for more.

GEORGE S. COOPER

Let's give a rah! for West Virginia,
 All together, boys.

ARMAND RENE COLLETT

It costs nothing to be a gentleman. He is quiet and faithful, and only makes a noise when the band practices or gives a concert.

VERNON C. COMPTON

Goodness gracious, Vernon, why don't you add to the power of your voice. You almost lost the reputation of the company by not halting it in front of the ladies.

JOHN CARL CON

Speak, child, I hear thee.

W. J. B. CORMANY

Williams Jennings Bryan is this man's name,
Wherever you see him, he's always the same,
Slow of speech, slow of gait,
To his classes always late.

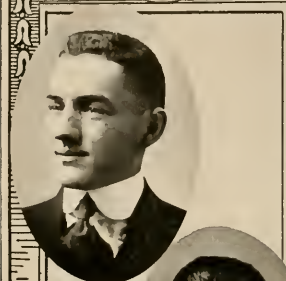

J. M. CONNOR

He does much with honor,
This straightforward Connor,
And keeps going along every day.

FLOYD BROOKS CON

What a joy and delight to be a benedict!—
And to be captured when a Junior,—Alas!

HUGO BRUCE DULING
"Dadbob"

The faculty loves Juniors, so you will get through now.

CLAYCE REMINE DEFOREST
"Doc"

Herme's pride, deerfoot "Doc"
Ran so fast, he lost his sock.

HELEN VIRGINIA DAVIDSON

Woman was too perfect,
So God made the coquette.

J. B. DORSEY
"Jake"

They took him to the President.
"Your name, kind sir," said he.
"It is Dorsey," comes the answer,
"No otherwise can it be."
"But, sir," the aged teacher queried,
"You have some others, you see."
"Quite so," he truthfully answered,
"Just put them down, J. B."

VIRGIL LEWIS FLINN
"Mickey"

Our captain Mickey Flinn has fought
For fame of the kind that does not die,
In the Grand Old League of the Sons of Swat,
The Order of the Batting Eye.

LLOYD C. ENEIX

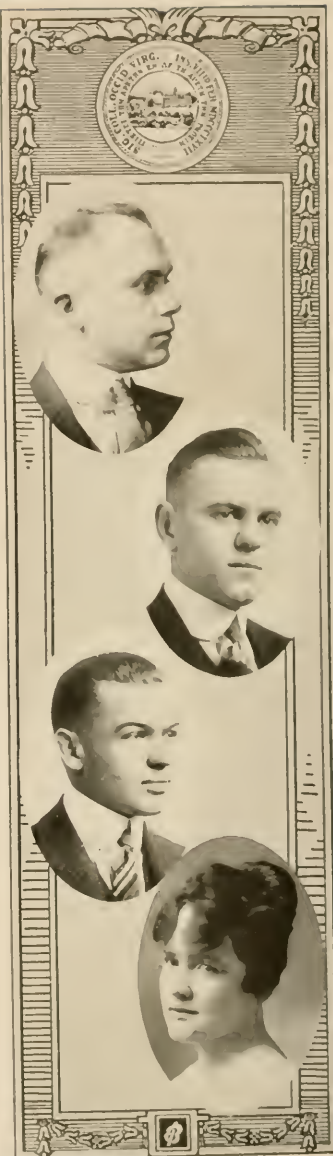

After seven year reporting up in Wheeling,
"I'll hitch my wagon to a star," said he,
It's the life of Elsie Eneix we're revealing
He's the manager of next year's Varsity.

MILTON STONE DULING

Let us present Milton Duling
Who sticks around school for some schooling,
And, comparing his marks
With those of the sharks,
We guess that the boy isn't fooling.

CLAIRE FISHER

In mathematics she is a shark,
The grades she makes soar like larks;
So, if you can't subtract or add
Don't pull your hair and act like mad,
But go to Claire with your sad case
And she will all your griefs erase.

HAROLD M. GARRETT
"Buster"

This is the man we all call Buster,
Wherever he goes, he creates a bluster,
As a penalty for his pesky grin,
He goes on Saturday and drills a "skin."

IDA FULTON

Ida came from Marshall College
Seeking more and better knowledge,
Freshmen themes have grayed her hair,
Much to the sorrow of one Sayre.

WILLIAM FOREST FREUTEL
"Doug"

He leaps the bar,
He jumps afar,
And runs the hurdle race,
But grades are punk,
His shooting bunk,
And still he sets the pace.

RUSSELL LOGAN FURBEE

Russell Furbee of Mannington's set,
Tried out his voice in the old quartette,
The men and the ladies always went back
To hear this bird sing, as directed by Black.

CLYDE WATSON HAGUE
"Pete"

Listen, I beg, to the story of Hague;
Boy wonder of Huntington city.
Your favor he'll win, with his old mandolin,
And he stars on a lumber-jack ditty.

WILLIAM ELLSWORTH GLASSCOCK, JR.
"Bill"

Calm and resourceful, curly of hair,
He hastens around with a rheumatic air,
Makes high grades, and spurns girls fair,
Assists for Monticola everywhere.

NANNA BELLE GIBSON

From Sutton's heights, we're proud to tell,
Came to our school this pretty Belle.
'Tis smiles and cheer the whole day through,
She carries around for me and you.

EDGAR CURRAN GLASS

Wellsburg has many wonders,
Choicest to behold,
But only one such Glass has she,
Whose story we now unfold,
Law and military are his pride
We many times are told.

WILLIAM DANIEL HIMES
"Bill"

A hundred rhymes about Bill Himes
Would not tell half the story.
He's done his bit, with voice and wit,
For West Virginia's glory.

GEORGE ALLEN HAWKINS

French verbs, French history, French literature,
He can tell you all about them.

BEATRICE HALL

If you've seen her playing tennis,
Basketball, or on a hike,
You have said, "By great St. Dennis!
Did you ever see the like?"

HERBERT G. HEADLEE

"Bent on getting there at the finish,
I'm going some, by heck."

FRANK ARNETT ICE

The scores he makes on the rifle team,
Are a sin to behold,
But the goals he makes in the varsity's basket,
Turns every opponent cold.

ELMA HOARD

She is earnest and honest and fair,
With her there is no half way,
But to all her work gives infinite care.

CLAY BRAMMER HITE
"Abie"

'Tis great to see him run the ends,
What dashes through the line!
In basketball he bore the brunt
And did his work so fine,
He was our choice to lead them both,
This captain of yours and mine.

EMBLETON RAY HOWERY

He marches with his company
And shrieks his brave commands,
Shoots targets like a veteran
Earns medals with his hands
There never was a youngster gay
As our versatile electrical Ray.

FORREST DUNBAR KNAPP
"Nap"

This is Mister Forrest Knapp,
Who makes an effort, brave, to pass.
He works all night
With all his might,
But sleeps profoundly during class.
(His name is "Nap").

OKEY PAUL KEAGLE

In Okey, Mingo did produce
A brilliant lawyer for future use,
Some day this learned forceful son
Will prosecute criminals in Williamson.

VIRGINIA JACOBS

Charm and grace immeasurable we find,
In Virginia Jacobs so cheerful and kind.

CLARENCE LEE KING

Ladies to the right and left,
Then King is in the bunch.

MERLE CARTER MAYFIELD

What a pleasant girl
Is our graceful Merle,
She's sweet you must confess,
There are others who say,
I'll have her some day,
But, hold! She is ours none the less.

CHARLES LESTER LAZELLE

He who likes his work finds pleasure there.

MARGARET VIRGINIA MARTIN

Tall and slender, pretty lass,
Came from Bluefield to join our class,
With a winning smile, and a wealth of grace,
She helps our Juniors win the race.

FRANK MAUZY
"Pap"

"Gaul-lee, Sakes alive, Crime-a-lee."

HOWARD EARL MOORE-BOOKS

"What do I care for an extra drill,
When oil has boosted a dollar a gill?"

JAMES GARNER MONTGOMERY

He made iron burn in air on Theta-Scientific Carnival night.
Wonderful work, Monty.

EDNA MARGARET MILLER

A prediction:
Domestic Science,
A little contrivance,
Matrimonial alliance.

WILLIAM BYRNE MORRISON
"Bill"

At forward and guard
He plays mighty hard
To bring victory unto the team.
As captain next year
We surely will hear
How small other records may seem.

CLARENCE M. McCUTCHEON
"Cutch"

"What's your name?"
"M-m-m-c-mc-Cutcheon,— Ha-a-a-a! I foo-fooled you that time."

VIOLET PEARL NOLAND

Tall, slender, and brunette
Is our Violet, so studiously bent.
She never cuts classes (?) and has won much fame
In the cooking world—Practice Cottage by name.

LEON ALEXANDER NEFF

As Leon Neff this man is known,
The sliding, gliding, dancing, cyclone,
With smile bedecked,
He stands erect,
Full six-feet-four, he's now full-grown.

MARY FRANCES PATTERSON

Frances is a charming maid,
With Phi Sig pins she is arrayed,
W. V. U. she's true to you,
Likewise she's strong for Vassar, too.

GEORGE STANLEY PIERCE

Brevity is the soul of wit.

LAWRENCE DAVID PHILLIPS

"Lonnie"

With his strong left arm and his deceptive curves,
He mows down the baseball aspirants,
But, merciful heavens, were the "Med-hics"
awake,
They would call him the worst of the tyrants.

CLARA PEOPLES

Lady Clara Vere de Vere
Cannot hold a candle
To our Clara, tall and fair
Who came from the North Panhandle.

MAURICE EARL PHILLIPS

Almost won the "best-drilled" medal,
So he plays the tennis ball with a broad-ribbed pedal.

FRED WILTON REED

Time, I dare you discover,
Such a youth and such a lover.

OTELLA BEATRICE PRICE

Otella Beatrice Price
In manners very nice,
With pretty light hair
And a smile to spare
To our class she adds much spice.

ROBERT HOWARD PRITCHARD

All the world envies a lover.

THERESA RAMSBURG

Theresa, tricky, tranquil, true,
Theresa makes her bow to you,
A student? Yes, and good chum, too,
See the dancing light in her eyes of blue.

CARLTON CUSTER SANDERS
"Sandy"

A Junior who knows not that he knew.

HOWARD CHARLES RIGGS

"Why I am here, I cannot say,
May I meet you again some other day."

JOHN ROBERT RICHARDS

He wanted to talk to a Filipino or Honolulu girl, but the wireless failed to reach.

ETHEL GERTRUDE ROSS

She can cook, she can sew, she can dance,
she can swim,
You may call her "Miss Ross," we call her
"Jim."

She is right in line for all outdoor sports,
And she is ever ready for fun of all sorts.

FRANK W. SHOWMAN

His curly hair, and pretty eyes,
And poultry knowledge, all win the prize.

GREEK SAYRE

As friend and scholar she greets you,
So quiet and kind every day,
Ne'er fails to be ready when duty
Calls her for work or for play.

WILLIAM BURKHARDT SCHERR
"Bill"

They put him on the outpost,
He made a rash mistake,
Called loudly for the captain,
The capture for to make.
"Where are the foes?" says the captain,
"Sir, they have gone on within."

VALERIE ELIZABETH SCHULTZ

Winsome, laughing, Valerie Schultz
Each day brings added cheer;
But fear is in our stout young hearts
That she may follow the engineer.
We want her smiles and courage
In each succeeding year.

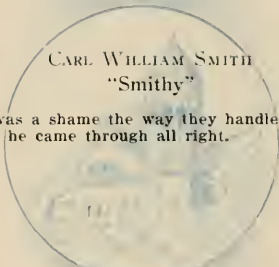

ARTHUR GUY STONE

Oh, that's a mere trifle.

CARL WILLIAM SMITH
"Smithy"

It was a shame the way they handled him.
But he came through all right.

BESSIE SMENNER

Bessie is a southern lass,
Who's been with us just a year,
Knowledge and credits she brought here
Enough to enter the Junior class.

ALBERT GAIL SPRINGER

Pretty hair, (red)
Jealousy, (dead)
Girls in sight, (fled).

MERRILL HALL THORN

Still water runs deep, but he knew how to make Satan's realm look interesting in exercises of Carnival Night.

HARRIET STEALEY

We introduce our Hallie
With charming winning ways,
And gift of wise selection
In everything she says.
These eulogies of Juniors
She wrote from morn till night,
And when we had to write of her
We did our best with might.

WILLIAM FREDERICK STEADMAN
"Steddie"

He keeps the foes from the basket,
Around the ends he flies
There ne'er was one such "Steddie,"
On which the "Price" was so high.
Got into court martial proceedings,
And we lost him,—very nigh.

WILLIAM JOSEPH STURGIS
"Red"

"Oh, I must take fifteen minutes for my girl."

LORENTZ STEELE TROTTER

This beautiful young woman (?) sang out in distress,
 "Save me, oh, loved one, the smoke doth oppress."
 Now his friends wonder why in his sad
 hour of trial,
 He did not resort to his best quarter-mile.

ANNA ELIZABETH TRAUBERT

There ne'er was a girl of such talent,
 She is happy at work or at play,
 She studies history so thorough and tactful
 And high grades makes day after day.

KATHERINE ELIZABETH TICKLE

She is by no means tiny
 In spirit and fun,
 She came all the way from Bluefield
 For good work to be done.

SAMUEL ALPHA TRIMBLE

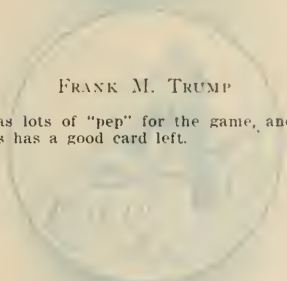

Yours to a cinder,
 Ready for anything.

CLIFFORD LORING VANCAMP

The Texas Ranger, who does not boast about himself, but can blow well his horn.

FRANK M. TRUMP

Has lots of "pep" for the game, and always has a good card left.

CHARLES SUMNER TRUMP, JR.

"Charles Sumner, Jr. sir," he said
"Of this great school I am the head,
Who dares to oppose me in my awful wrath,
Shall feed upon peanuts or stay from my path."

CLARENCE L. UNDERWOOD

How rich are they who have patience!

CLYDE WILLIAM WELLEN

An earnest and consistently hard worker.

ALBERT FRANK VIERHELLER
"Dutch"

He blows the big flute,
And picks the best fruit seller,
Wood County only sent us
One such Vierheller.

ISAAC LINDSAY VANVOORHIS
"Ike"

He's handsome, and fair, and slim,
And manages this wonderful book;
The Juniors hasten from him
Searching dues with inquiring look,
It's "Ike," full of energy and vim,
Who made possible this interesting book.

RAYMOND WATSON WARD

Love and music have their charms. Thus,
Raymond seeks love first, and other things are showered upon him.

EULA LEE YOHIO

Of all the girls in Woman's Hall
Our Eula is a friend to all,
She's never sad, does not complain,
But works and smiles in sun and rain.

RUSSELL WOODS WILMOTH

In Mining he has no superior,
All others before him inferior,
His tasks does perform,
Combs his hair to conform,
And stays quietly on the interior.

JOHN STEWART WILLIAMSON
"Stu"

'Tis hurry, hurry, hurry
He never wastes his time,
Collects histories of Seniors
And thinks it mere pastime.
In engineering problems
He plans and plans and schemes,
To see Matilda once a week
'Tis proper such he deems.

HERMAN EVANS WILSON

Prep Wilson came from Grafton long ago,
And learned to be a Chemist, don't you know!
He can make you bevo, wine, or any drink,
From salt, wood alcohol, or Carter's ink.

Junior History

NOTHING can be more effective and yet pleasant in its work, than a determined group of university students. Although columns of good words have been written about the nineteen-eighteen class, yet its story has never half been told. The Freshman and Sophomore years were passed successfully, but its Junior year has been exceedingly abundant, rich in memorable deeds for the glory of West Virginia. It is here that we pay a highest tribute to the worthy contributions of the Junior Class toward the success of the University.

The beginning of the remarkable success of the University in football athletics lay in the men of the 1918 class, who were available to start the good work in September, 1914. Among them were such stars as Hutchinson, Colebank, Hite, Webster, Ice, Newman, Brooks, and others of great ability. Proper acknowledgement, of course, is made of the additional strength brought by the succeeding classes in all sports. The foundation of the championship basketball team lay in the men furnished by the 1918 class, among them being Hite, Steadman, Ice, Morrison, Freutel, and others. In track sports, Newman, Freutel, Steadman, and others have been the largest of point winners. In other sports, the Juniors have contributed gloriously their share of helping to win honors for the school. In excellency of classwork, the class holds its place of high rank. The growth of the college spirit of our school through cheering and thuses is due, in the largest manner to Himes and "Bud" Brannan of the Junior class.

Since it is not always an easy matter to predict a successful conclusion for a class in years to come, we hesitate to add more glories through prophecy. We hope, however, for the coming year, when Seniors, that the best of fortune shall be their lot, and that they shall continue to give unselfishly, willingly, and earnestly their great portion to West Virginia University.

At the beginning of the school year 1915-1916, the most common expression to be heard was, "Look at the Freshmen!" and one might well look. They were of all sizes and descriptions. Some shuffled when they walked, others took such long strides that their feet hardly touched the ground. Some went along with their eyes cast down, while others seemed to be very wide awake. One thing, however, seemed to be portrayed on the face of everyone, and that was determination. Since that time the class has won fame, and every member has made himself, or herself, one of the powers of the University.

The spirit of determination was first shown in the class rush in the fall of nineteen-fifteen. The memorable battle between the 1919 and 1918 class, staged on High street near the Strand Theatre, almost equalled in ferocity, the great fight at Commencement Hall, staged by the 1918 and 1917 classes in the previous year.

When entered as Sophomores this year, there came about a new respect for the class. Among its numbers are football favorites, basketball stars, baseball heroes, tennis champions, chemistry sharks, even the best dancer in school. Each member of the class seems to have taken it upon himself to make the class a real leader. In the flag rush this year, the Sophomore class showed that it still possessed its spirit of determination. It lost, but it was a good loser. The Sophomores were outnumbered three to one, but they went into the contest with a spirit of determination, and came out with glory. The class had won a greater fight than a flag rush. It knew how to take defeat.

In the football game between the Freshmen and the Sophomore classes, the latter were victorious, after a hard uphill fight ending with a single touchdown and goal.

The class has two more years before it, and to accomplish many good things during that time would seem only a just hope for its future. Hail to the Sophomores.

ON September eighteenth, West Virginia University was favored by the entrance of an exceptionally large and intelligent class. The class numbered about four hundred, and was the largest ever entering the University. The first week was one of great excitement for the newcomers. The customary class fights did not occur. This condition cannot be laid at the doors of the Freshmen, who were lacking neither in "pep," nor in courage. It was agreed between the Freshmen and the Sophomores, that the question of each other's superiority should be decided by two inter-class contests.

The first of these contests was a flag rush, which occurred September thirtieth, on the Athletic Field. It was a most interesting struggle, and a large number of spectators witnessed the "Waterloo" of the Sophomores. Although they fought bravely, they were kept away from the flags by the larger group of first year men.

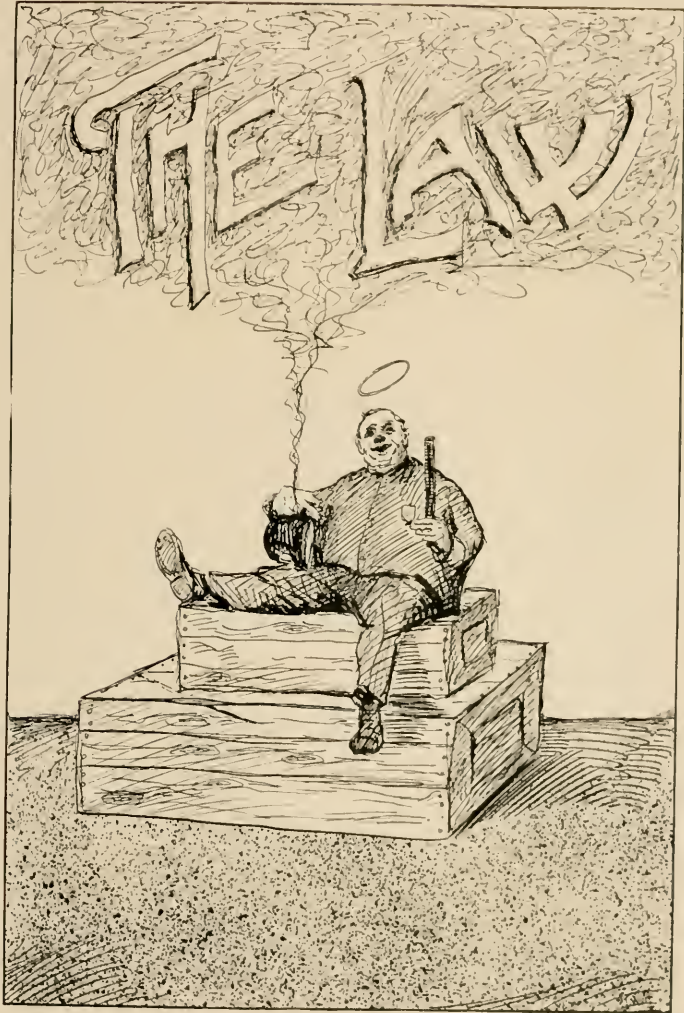

The second event was a football game between the two classes, the contest taking place on October sixteenth. The result of the game was a victory for the Sophomores, by a score of 7 to 0.

At all times during both contests, the Freshmen showed remarkable class spirit. Practically every member of the class turned out for the flag rush, and all showed their eagerness to participate in it, as well as in the football game.

The class is making a good record in studies, and many good things are to be expected of its members. No doubt the names of many of them will be enrolled in the Halls of Fame, and will do great credit to this institution, from which they are to graduate.

The first regular work in medicine was started at West Virginia University in the year 1902, when Dr. J. N. Simpson became Dean of the School of Medicine. The enrollment has been gradually increasing as the school kept growing from year to year, and at the present time it stands highest in the history of the school. The future promises to make it still greater, as there is now a large number of students in the University taking the Pre-Medical Course.

Since the School of Medicine has its new building, with larger laboratories and lecture rooms, and better equipment, it has been able to do more efficient work, and has been raised to Class "A" by The American Medical Association. This classification means that the School of Medicine of West Virginia University is on an equal basis with the best medical schools of the country.

Y. W. C. A. PARTY

On Wednesday, September the twentieth, the Young Women's Christian Association entertained the girls of the University with an informal party. The guests were received in the Parlor of Woodburn Hall by members of the Cabinet. Games were played during the evening, after which delightful refreshments were served.

STAG MIX

The Young Men's Christian Association held its annual Stag Mix on Wednesday evening, September twentieth, in the Armory, and welcomed new and old men of the University. During the evening, Dr. Trotter and other members of the faculty made interesting addresses of welcome and enthusiasm. Cheers were given, school songs were sung, and the best of comradeship started out the new year among the men.

JOINT RECEPTION

On the evening of September twenty-third, according to the usual and pleasing custom on the first Saturday evening after registration, the Young Women's Christian Association and the Young Men's Christian Association held a joint reception in the Armory in honor of the new students of the University. The guests were received by President and Mrs. Trotter, the Deans of the various colleges, and their wives, and the Presidents of the two Associations, Miss Nellie Ammons and Mr. Minter Wilson. A most enjoyable time was spent informally by the students in getting acquainted. A musical program was carried out by various organizations, followed by delightful refreshments. When the program was finished everyone joined in the enthusiastic singing of our college song, "Hail, West Virginia," and thus ended one of the most enjoyable affairs of the early part of the year.

FACULTY TEA

The Young Women's Christian Association delightfully entertained the women of the faculty with an informal tea, in Ladies Parlor of Woodburn Hall, on October thirteenth.

JOINT RECEPTION

On Wednesday evening, February twenty-first, the two Christian Associations of the University assembled in joint reception to new and old students, and faculty, for the second time during the school year. After some time was occupied in getting acquainted an excellent program was given to add to the entertainment. Solos by Mr. Jack Abbott, selections by the Mandolin Club, readings by Mrs. Clara Pyle Ewing, and music by a group from the University Orchestra were enthusiastically received. It is these general "get-together" meetings that add much to the real social life enjoyed by everyone.

OWL AND CAP DANCE

One of the most brilliant and enjoyable dances ever given at the University was the Owl and Cap dance in the Armory on the evening of March sixteenth. It was the first formal affair of the year, and proved to be a rare delight. The effective colors consisted of black and white, the organization colors. The programs were fac-similes of the Owl and Cap badge, bearing the Greek letters Gamma Kappa, and the mysterious numbers 3 3 3. Nirella's Orchestra, of Pittsburgh, furnished the music, and a program of twenty-two dances was finished at one o'clock. One of the extras was the Owl and Cap dance. During this dance, the members of the society assembled in the center of the spacious floor and gave their yell. After the tenth dance, refreshments were served, in which the color scheme of black, white, and green was still further carried out.

The chaperons were Mrs. F. B. Trotter, Mrs. J. H. Laubach, Mrs. C. Edmund Neil, Mrs. R. R. Crisman, Mrs. R. H. Demain, Mrs. J. H. McDermott, Mrs. L. S. Brock, Mrs. Frank P. Corbin, Mrs. W. E. Glasscock, Mrs. George Rogers, and Miss Susan Maxwell Moore.

SKULL AND KEYS DANCE

On June fifth, the annual Skull and Keys dance will be held. The affair is one of the leading events of the social season. The dance will be held in the Armory, elaborate and original decorations adding much to the spirit of the occasion. The programs, as announced, are novel, and the dance is to be worked out well in every detail, and will be one of the best ever given by this popular organization. The committee on affairs consists of Edward D. Woodyard, of Spencer, chairman; Michael J. Kearns, of Wheeling, and W. C. Phillips, of Buckhannon.

Many out-of-town guests will be present, Clarksburg, Parkersburg, Wheeling, Huntington, Fairmont, and others being well represented. An unusually large number of Skull and Keys alumni are expected to return for the dance. Music will be furnished by Nirella's Orchestra of Pittsburgh.

PAN-HELLENIC DANCES

The Pan-Hellenic dances occurring throughout the year were always a happy feature of the social life of the University. Although not so numerous this year, the dances have been especially enjoyable. Music was furnished by the Cadenza and Nirella Orchestras. The dances were conducted under the efficient management of Chairman Robert Henry, assisted by Edwin Grose and Frank Brewster.

The annual dance of the Chi Omega Sorority was omitted due to a limited number of social engagements during rushing season. The Military Ball and several Pan-Hellenic dances were also eliminated due to the infantile paralysis epidemic prevalent throughout the state.

JUNIOR PROM

The annual promenade given by the Junior class in honor of the graduating class was held in the Armory on May eleventh. Elaborate decorations were provided, and the Armory presented a real patriotic appearance, gayly bedecked with streamers of red, white, and blue. It is true that the colors of the class are blue and white, but they were secondary in importance, and merged into the beautiful scheme representing the patriotic sentiment of the class. The American flag predominated. The programs were of a very neat design portraying the university seal, with an additional novel feature of a form of transparent cover over red, white, and blue paper. Souvenirs were vanity bags of red, white, and blue color.

There were twenty regular dances, with four extras. Two of these were specials, the seventeenth for Seniors, and the eighteenth for Juniors. The grand march began promptly at eight-thirty, led by Mr. William B. Scherr and Miss Olive Wambaugh. Parker's Orchestra of Columbus, Ohio, furnished a remarkable musical program for the occasion. The committee in charge of the preparations consisted of William B. Scherr, chairman, assisted by Virginia Jacob, Virginia Brown, Herbert Headlee, James Tierney, Phil Brown, William Himes, and Carl Smith.

Fi Bata Cappar

FI BATA CAPPAR was founded, so far as we have been able to learn, in the year 3016 B. C., by Ptolemy and Sanskrit on the Upper Nile. During the storming of Carthage by Caesar, a few of the braver members of the grand chapter retreated into the interior with the innermost secrets.

Hannibal, on his return from New York in 76 A. D., was searching Mount Arrat for highballs, when on attempting to secure a more firm toe-hold on the steep sides of the mountain, he unearthed a parchment which contained the precious secrets of the grand lodge. Hannibal, nothing sloth, returned to Delta, bringing with him his treasure. About this time Brutus, Mark Antony, and Cleopatra were selling ice cream cones near the Sphinx, and to them Hannibal delivered the sacred secrets. Roger Williams had just been ostracised from Virginia, and, driven from his home, had gone to Connecticut, where he met Mark with the scrolls of Fi Bata Cappar. But, being hard pressed, he deposited them in the hands of Ponce de Leon, who was starting in search of the Mississippi River, that great fountain of flowing youth. Ponce floated up the Potomac, and down the Monongahela, where he visited Columbus at his mansion on Observatory Hill, Morgantown. Ponce de Leon died on account of drinking too much grape juice, and was buried by the natives. George Fairfax assisted in the last burial rites and thereby secured the secrets of the order, which he buried on Observatory Hill. One bright spring morning, Hal Scott was searching the sides of the hill for divers purposes, and in a manner similar to Hannibal, came upon the parchment, which he translated and expounded to a few of his followers. Thus was Alfa Chapter of Fi Bata Cappar brought to West Virginia.

The words translated mean, "For shame, hoost West Virginia." Fi is the ancient Greek word for "Shame on you." Bata is the Esquimau for "Boost," while Cappar means "Sky piece," "Mountain top," or "West Virginia." The badge consists of a piece of sheep skin, symbolizing the goal of a college career, pinned over the heart with a brass button, taken from the brazen calf, and its symbol is a secret of the order.

FOOTBALL

Football Review

"THE greatest and strongest team that ever represented West Virginia University." Those are the words of the innumerable fans and friends who saw the football team perform last season. Although this same statement has been made of football teams of former years at West Virginia, it is without a doubt applicable to last year's Varsity team, for it was a perfect and well-oiled machine.

The building up of the team of 1916 began in the regime of Sol

COACH TOBIN

Metzger, now coach at Washington and Jefferson, and his work is well known to all the followers of athletics at West Virginia. His assistants, McIntyre and Tobin, were chosen to complete the work that he had started, and they proved to the satisfaction of everyone that they were capable of doing it. In spite of the fact that the team lost only three Varsity men, Colebank, Leatherwood, and Lambert, the coaches went to work early in the spring searching for new and prospective material to perfect the best eleven that ever represented the University. Although none of the new men won a regular berth, they received the excellent coaching and care of Varsity men, and are better prepared to hold a regular position next season.

The pre-season training camp was held, as has been the custom for four years, on the Cheat River, with Mount Chateau Inn as headquarters. There the men worked hard for three weeks to prepare themselves for the gruelling contests that were to come later. Other candidates joined the squad after enrollment days, raising the number working out for the team to fifty-three,—a record squad.

After careful deliberation, the coaches decided that the best winning combination that could be gotten together would be made up of men from the previous year's team or squad. This idea was carried out throughout the season, with the one exception in the first game, when Johnson, the big boy from Swarthmore Prep, played at tackle.

The opening game of the season was played with the University of Pennsylvania, on September thirtieth. Although West Virginia has never defeated Pennsylvania, the team felt confident that they were going to give Folwell's team the surprise of the season. Notwithstanding the fact that the team came home without a victory, the general consensus of opinion was that West Virginia deserved it, for the Mountaineers easily outplayed their opponents, and were only defeated in the last minute of play, when "Gravy" Williams kicked one of his famous drop kicks. The team, however, did succeed in springing a surprise in the East, and won many new friends, for others began to sit up and take more notice of the Mountaineers.

Two weeks later West Virginia easily defeated Virginia Polytechnic Institute at Charleston, in a well-played game, in which Hager surprised and delighted his home town friends by catching a beautiful forward pass, and running twenty yards for a touchdown. Clay Hite also succeeded in making a spectacular run of 40 yards for a touchdown, much to the delight of the visiting people from Huntington.

On October twenty-first, the team lined up against Navy at Annapolis. In this game West Virginia played in hard luck. The loss of the services of King and Rodgers during the game, when Navy was helpless before the attack of West Virginia removed the chances for a brilliant victory for the Mountaineers. Later in the game with Navy leading, Hutchinson was tackled just one foot from their goal line, and failed to get across. The game ended 12-7 in favor of the midshipmen.

There is not much to be said of the Davis-Elkins game, except praise for the visitors, who came here expecting defeat. They put up a plucky fight all the way, and were game to the finish. The next game at home was the best seen by local fans for sometime. The Gettysburg team came practically unheralded probably for exhibition given on quarterback, Harry 35 yards for touchdown to score once by some teammate. The score in this until the last two minutes, when Rodgers ried the pigskin victory.

At New Brunswick game, West Virginia, a team that had the Varsity scheduled fiercest games ever field, neither team emerged the victor, but the feat of holding the home team to a tie game won the football of the contest for the West Virginia boys. The eastern critics were loud in their praise of the prowess of the Mountaineers.

This past year was the first time also that an Old Gold and Blue team ever played Dartmouth. When the score was returned 7-7, enthusiasm reigned supreme among West Virginians. West Virginia was the first team that Dartmouth failed to defeat on the Hanover grounds for several years. Much praise was given the members of the team by Coach Cavanaugh of Dartmouth, for their clean playing and spirit. In this game Rodgers plunged right through Dartmouth's center for 13 yards, and crossed the goal line with tacklers vainly trying to drag him to the ground for West Virginia's lone touchdown. When the team reached home, the entire University student body and townspeople met the train, and held a giant "thuse" on the Athletic Field. Captain Curry proudly brought home the football that rendered forever sacred that great game at Hanover.

H. R. CRONIN, Manager

known to the fans, played on Rutgers' field, neither team emerged the victor, but the feat of holding the home team to a tie game won the football of the contest for the West Virginia boys. The eastern critics were loud in their praise of the prowess of the Mountaineers.

wick, in the following game, when Rodgers ried the pigskin victory.

The Catholic University team presented a formidable lineup at Morgantown, but they lacked experience and were defeated by a large score. They caused some uneasiness to the fans in the first quarter, when they marched down the field, and kicked a sensational field goal, but after that West Virginia broke loose. The longest run of this game was made by Clay Hite, who travelled 50 yards in lightning-like manner from scrimmage for a touchdown.

The final game of the season was played with West Virginia Wesleyan, at Fairmont, on Thanksgiving Day. The contest was for the championship of the state, and was supposed to be a hard game of unknown result, yet it turned out to be somewhat different. The only time that Wesleyan appeared dangerous, and worthy to be a contender for the state honors, was during the third quarter, when they played with something of their old-time style. This game was replete with spectacular plays, the most noticeable of which were the longest punt of the season, by "Rip" King, for 65 yards; Rodgers' run around end for 78 yards and a touchdown; and the long-to-be-remembered forward pass of 51 yards, from Rodgers to King. In this game the sensational forward passing strength of the West Virginia team was dazzling, and reached a sensational climax. West Virginia won the game by the score of 54-7.

After the smoke of the battles had cleared away somewhat, and the total count of the season had been taken, it was found that the Varsity had scored 198 points compared to 38 by their opponents. The team won five games, lost two, and tied two. One bright feature of the entire season's work was the fact that the men came out of the hard schedule of games without injury.

Now if we look back again to summarize the work of the season, and realize that the team could have finished the season with a clean slate, and barring unfortunate circumstances in one or two games, would have defeated teams that never before had tasted defeat at the hands of West Virginia, then we cannot help but realize that this was the greatest team that ever represented the University.

Looking forward a little to the team that will battle for the honor of West Virginia next year, it will be seen that the greatest schedule of all time has been compiled for the Old Gold and Blue. West Virginia has come into a position of prominence, where it no longer needs to beg for games from the greater and more famous teams of the country, but on the contrary, the latter teams are anxious to have our team represented on their schedule. Athletic relations have again been resumed with Washington and Jefferson, and the University of Pittsburgh. Other games scheduled are with Dartmouth, Army, Gettysburg, North Carolina A. & M., Rutgers, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, George Washington University, Davis-Elkins, and West Virginia Wesleyan. With the graduation of four men only, and the return of all the old players, together with some new aspirants, West Virginia will justly reach a well-deserved place among the best teams in the country.

The Reserves

The Reserves are no longer a team used to whip the Varsity into shape for their games, for they have become a definite unit by themselves. They are no longer the "Scrubs," but really the "Reserves," from which dependable and capable men can be called upon to take the places of the Varsity men whenever needed. Last season the Reserves finished with credit one of the best schedules arranged for a second-string team.

The Reserve team opened their season by a victory over the Morgantown High School team. Then in succession, they proceeded to go through their season with an unbroken string of victories, winning all seven games. They were never held to a tie score in any contest. Glenville Normal, Duquesne University, Keyser Preparatory, Waynesburg College, Wesleyan Reserves, and Moundsville High School all fell before the consistent attack of the fast-going Reserves.

The hardest played game without a doubt was the Keyser Preparatory game. The team from the Preparatory Branch of the University sent an eleven to Morgantown that averaged in weight almost that of the Varsity. They lacked only experience. They had a giant backfield quartet, which were kept only from seeming victory by the slippery condition of the field. The faster, lighter, Reserve team held the advantage by only the means of a completed forward pass for a touchdown, Riggs going over the line for the score.

Some old fans expressed their opinion that the Reserve team of last season could be compared to some of the best Varsity teams of former years, inasmuch as they easily defeated strong teams who used to appear on the Varsity schedule. All of the men on the Reserve team deserve great credit for their perseverance and pluck, but there are a few who are worthy of special mention. "Mike" Kearns, who scored more points than any other player on the team, was a fine open-field runner and a good tackler. Lewis, the speedy end and halfback, was one of the brightest stars on the team. Duling, the big center, showed up to good advantage at that position, and will make a strong bid for a regular position next year. His passes were accurate, and his tackling hard and fierce. Carden, halfback, was probably the best tackler on the team, especially in the open field. Captain Carpenter ran the team in a most commendable manner. Although a half-back originally, he took up the duties of a quarterback as if he had been playing there throughout his entire experience.

A separate schedule is being arranged for the Reserves next season, which will give them additional honors besides being the opposition of Varsity in practice games. A separate coach has been provided, and the team will have a different set of signals from the regulars, in order that the Reserves will continue to be a definite organization, and continue to grow in strength until they can take some of the bigger games east off by the Varsity. All hail to our Reserves!

HARRY CURRY, '17, tackle, the worthy captain of the 1916 football team, received his preliminary training in Grafton High School, where he played four consecutive years. He was captain of his high school team in his senior year, and he was chosen to lead the greatest team of the University in his senior year here. Curry played a backfield position during the first three years here, but it finally was decided that he could show his worth more as a tackle. Curry easily learned his new duties, and a better tackle could not have been found within the whole state. Harry made the last touchdown of the season for his team, and incidentally, it was the last time for him to cross an opponent's goal line for the honor of West Virginia. We shall miss him. Honor to Captain Curry!

CLAY HITE, '18, halfback, and captain-elect of the coming 1917 football team, is very worthy of the honor that has been bestowed upon him. He came from Huntington High School with a reputation of being a remarkable halfback, and he has certainly upheld his reputation. He is a consistent ground gainer, fast on his feet, and a good tackler. His greatest achievements seem to be in dashing away for long runs for touchdowns, or putting the ball far in the opponent's territory from whence easy touchdowns were soon gained. In the Catholic University, V. P. I., and Dartmouth games he proved his sterling worth as speediest of halfbacks. Clay is an excellent basketball player, also, and was captain of the new Varsity team during his Sophomore year.

FRED CHENOWETH, '18, quarterback, came to West Virginia from Broadus College, where he had already won a name for himself as an athlete. Sol Metzger, former coach at West Virginia, now coach at Washington and Jefferson, pronounced Chenoweth one of the greatest quarterbacks in the country. "Chennie" not only ran the team in great style, but incidentally scored more points than any other member of the team. He was good at running back punts, and is a wonderful receiver of the forward pass. Chenoweth has been spoken of as being retained as coach of the Freshmen team for next year, and also to help instruct the Varsity quarterbacks in the inside knowledge of the teams whom he knew.

ERRETT IRA RODGERS, '19, fullback, is the much talked of football player, and of whom there is not much left to be said. Too much praise cannot be given to this all-round athlete, who takes part in all three of the major sports at West Virginia. "Buck" is always in the game, and plays consistently throughout, never failing to uncover some spectacular play that brings the spectators to their feet. He won an enviable reputation while playing at preparatory school, and since entering the University, his reputation has spread rapidly throughout the East. He is a wonderful athlete, and has demonstrated his ability to hold high rank among his fellow students in classwork. He easily won again the selection as All-State fullback, and received several choices for All-American honors by eminent newspaper men of the East, and was given honorable mention by Walter Camp in his All-American selections.

ANDREW V. KING, '19, halfback, came to West Virginia from Tennessee. He easily won a place in the hearts of West Virginians as soon as he began to demonstrate a remarkable ability as an athlete. "Rip" is a wonderful punter, his kicks averaging not less than fifty yards. He excels at the bullet-like forward passes, is a good tackler, and provides excellent interference for a runner. His best punt was made in the final game of the season, when he kicked the ball for a distance of 65 yards ahead of the line of scrimmage. It was "Rip" who gathered in the longest pass of the year in American College football, when he captured Rodger's throw of 51 yards, in the Wesleyan game.

HAROLD HUTCHINSON, '18, end, came to West Virginia after spending a year at Virginia Military Institute. He is the smallest man on the team. During his first year as a member of the Varsity, he played at halfback position, where he won a name for himself as a marvellous little line plunger. "Hutch" is a wonderful follower of the ball through a scrimmage, is fast, and is a terrific tackler. The way in which he gathers in forward passes was nothing short of sensational. In every way he has upheld the name of a Hutchinson as a football player, for it is to be remembered that he is the third of the Hutchinson brothers to become a star at West Virginia.

PAUL E. HAGER, '19, end, came to West Virginia from Charleston High School. "Monk" did not make the regular position on the team during his first year, because of his lack of knowledge of the game. Last year, he came back with a determination, and succeeded in winning honor. He is a good tackler, and is a power on the offense. Great things are to be expected of him for the remaining years. He is quite an adept at receiving the forward pass, and delighted his home town fans with a stellar exhibition that resulted in a touchdown against Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

J. BURNS WEBSTER, '18, tackle, is a product of Bethany preparatory school. All of his teammates look up to him, for he stands many inches above six feet in height. He is regarded as the greatest tackle that ever wore the Old Gold and Blue uniform. Outside of blocking kicks, opening holes for the backfield men to pass through, recovering fumbles, and breaking through the line to throw an opponent for a loss, he is just an ordinary player. For the last two years he has been mentioned among the great tacklers of the country, and has been consistently chosen on the All-State eleven for the past three years.

HOWARD HENRIE, '17, guard, hails from Parkersburg High School, where he held a tackle position for four years. "Dad" is one of those quiet, unassuming fellows, who puts his whole heart into the work in which he engages. While not in the limelight for any especially brilliant play, he stood out far and above the best his opponents could offer. Last year was his last year to wear an Old Gold and Blue uniform, and he will never again be seen cavorting upon the gridiron at West Virginia. His star games this year were played against our greatest opponents, Rutgers and Dartmouth, where he proved a bulwark on the line.

DORSEY BRANNAN, '17, guard, was a schoolmate of Captain Curry, but did not play football until his second year in the University. From the fact that he won a permanent berth on the team, and was chosen as All-State guard for four years, one can easily conclude that he is a natural player, and quick to learn the fine points of the game. His work was not of the grandstand style, but of the steady, consistent type, typical of a good lineman. Dorsey has always been a large point winner for the track team in all Varsity contests.

RUSSELL BAILEY, '19, center, is from Weston High School. During his first year at West Virginia, he showed a remarkable quickness for learning the game, and easily became acquainted with the duties of a lineman. He played at tackle during his first year, but was shifted to the more important position of center last year. He performed his duties with ability and will probably be called upon next season to act in the same capacity. He excels in breaking up interference, tackling, and is a master of the spiral pass. He has won a place on the All-State team for two years.

ALLEN BROOKS, '18, end, who is a product of Buckhannon High School, was greatly handicapped during his first year at West Virginia, when he sustained a fracture of a knee. He had been playing regularly in the position of fullback, before his injury occurred, but since then he has not been able to show his best form. He did not play during his Sophomore year, but reappeared again last year, and remained a dependable substitute throughout the whole season. He played in enough games to win his letters for the second time.

FRANK ICE, '18, tackle, proved to be one of the finds of the season. While receiving some preliminary training in preparatory days at Fairmont Normal, his real training began when he entered football work as a Freshman at the University. He remained on the Reserve squad in former years, but last year he came into better form and experience, and entered enough games to win his football letter. When sent into any Varsity game, he showed those qualities that mark any player of Varsity calibre. Frank not on'y has ability as a football player, but excels at basketball, where he had the honor of leading another star basketball team through its season, as its captain.

WALTER S. RHODES, '20, guard, the tallest man on the team, entered from Point Marion High School. This tall athlete showed those qualities immediately which go to make up a valuable player. Although he was not played regularly, he entered enough games to win his letters. When called upon for duty, he made his tall form a hinderance to further advances of any opponent, and held his own with the best.

HOWARD J. LENTZ, '20, substitute fullback, entered from New Martinsville. Exhibiting a mighty rush as a line plunger, his work while in service was easily the feature of many games. With just as much regularity as more experienced men, he went into an opponent's line for large gains, and the opposition sorely felt the fierceness of his attack. To win his letters in his first year was quite an achievement, but it was a well-deserved honor for this husky lad.

Basketball Review

THE 1917 basketball season for West Virginia was one of the most successful in the history of this branch of inter-collegiate sport, notwithstanding the record of games won and lost shows the Varsity with an even break. Success, however, cannot always be measured by victories, and this was particularly true of the 1917 Varsity season.

The interest shown in basketball was greater than ever before, both in alumni and undergraduate circles. The squad was the largest and most promising which has ever answered the call of the coaches; the schedule was easily the strongest in recent years, and the work of the men under the able direction of Coaches Pyle and Price was by far the most conscientious yet seen. These were a few of the factors which make it possible to term the season particularly successful.

Assistant Coach Price

In all, the Varsity played sixteen games, winning eight and losing eight. Abroad, nine games were played, with four victories and five defeats. At home, seven contests were played, four of which were won and three lost. The season's totals show 576 points for the Varsity, and 413 for their opponents.

As was the case in the 1916 season, the team did not strike its true form until the latter half of the schedule. There were several good reasons for this, including injuries to members of the team, and scholastic difficulties encountered by a few members of the first squad. The southern trip on which the University of Virginia, V. M. I., and Washington and Lee teams were met, found the locals at a disadvantage by reason of the fact that Steadman did not make the trip, and that Latterner was injured early in one game, incapacitating him for the remaining games. Several first line substitutes also were not able to go along with the team. The Varsity would have made a clean sweep on this trip had the team been at full strength, is the opinion of the coaches and players, judging from the strength of the opponents. The games were lost only by closest of scores.

As for the defeats, particularly those on the home floor, all were at the hands of teams of great strength and recognized standing. In every instance, the Varsity played exceedingly close and hard-fought games. The Gettysburg, Marietta, and Virginia games were all lost by three points or less.

The last three weeks of the season, which included a trip into eastern Ohio, found the Varsity in top form as is evidenced by their record. Of the last nine games played, seven were won, the one defeat being at the hands of Marietta by a 26-23 score, and the other administered by Wesleyan, 25-20, both games being played on foreign floors. Particularly satisfactory was the work of the team in the Wesleyan series. The Methodists were defeated in two of the three contests, thereby placing the Varsity in a position to be considered as a contender for the state collegiate championship. Davis-Elkins College, with the best team that school has produced in many years, was not met during the season, and by reason of the failure of negotiations for a post-season series, the state championship was undecided. In view of the excellent record of the Varsity in the closing weeks of the season, West Virginia fans found sufficient ground for putting forward an equal claim for this honor.

The brunt of the season's work was born by six men, they being Captain Lee, Latterner, Rodgers, Steadman, Morrison, and Hite. Following upon the heels of the injury to Latterner, Hite's work became particularly valuable to the team. The ex-captain did not report for practice until the close of the first semester's hard studies. He played a brilliant game at guard, while Morrison went to forward for Latterner. The entire team play was highly developed. Captain Lee played his best year ever at the floor game. Rodgers stood out far ahead of all his opponents, and his mates at the forward position, Latterner and Morrison, constituted a speedy group. Captain-elect Morrison proved a mighty bulwark at the guard position also. Steadman, the big guard, was the sensation of the season. He has been pronounced as one of the greatest guards ever on a West Virginia college team. Standing a few inches over six feet in height, with wonderful endurance and speed, and possessing an uncanny ability at shooting goals, he outplayed every man sent against him.

The substitutes included such excellent players as Frentel, Trotter, Aiken, Chenoweth, Sommers, Gandy, Kersting, and Jasper. With such a wealth of material, Coaches Pyle and Price were given every opportunity to uphold the honor of the school, and they performed their tasks well.

1916 Baseball Review

THE baseball team of nineteen hundred sixteen was without a doubt a great team, which is evidenced by the fact that they succeeded in bringing the championship of the state colleges back to West Virginia University. Of the twenty-three games played, seventeen were won and six lost. Fourteen of the games were played at home, of which number eleven were victories. Nine games were played abroad, and of this number six were returned victories. The schedule for the season was a commendable one, being up to the standard maintained by West Virginia in former years. When Washington and Jefferson, University of Pittsburgh, and Washington and Lee severed connections with West Virginia, seven games were left vacant, which were hard to fill.

Manager Grose

The principal interest of the fans and students culminated naturally in the series of five games with Marshall College for the state championship title. Marshall, by dint of consistent playing and excellent coaching, had won the coveted honor in nineteen hundred fifteen. In the last season, two games were played in Morgantown, each team winning one game. The following two games were played in Huntington, where again the teams divided honors. The fifth and deciding contest was played at Wheeling before a highly interested and enthusiastic crowd of people. This game was won by West Virginia, but not until a hard fought game of twelve innings had been waged. It was a fitting climax for the championship.

The team maintained an excellent record throughout the entire season, both at bat and in the field. A team batting average of .285 is exceptionally good for a college team, as is also a fielding average of .934. Some of the individual players deserve special mention, yet acknowledging that all the others are worthy too, for the best could not forge to the front without the help of the other players. Too much credit cannot be given to Captain-elect Virgil Flinn. "Micky" did not make the regular team during his Freshman year, playing only in a few games. In his Sophomore year, he showed wonderful improvement, and played in every game on the schedule, a distinction enjoyed by only two more players on the team. He led the team in batting with a mark of .378, exactly one-half of his hits being for extra bases.

Captain Raymond Fidler is undoubtedly the best catcher that ever entered this school, his throwing was accurate and swift, and his bat brought many a run across the plate for his team. He went through the season with only two errors, consequently he led the team in fielding with a remarkable average of .987. Rex Hersey, lead-off man, was the fastest outfielder that ever donned a college uniform, so it has been said by all who have had the pleasure of seeing him play. He was the leading run-getter of the team, having scored twenty-six runs in twenty-three games. The state-famed athlete, Carl Leatherwood, did not have such a successful season as he desired, "Mike" claiming that he was getting too old to star among the coming youngsters. However, we pause to pay a tribute to "Mike," for he played indeed a remarkable season in spite of a painful injury. Incidentally, he led his teammates in stolen bases, with fifteen to his credit. Rodgers was his nearest competitor, with eight steals to his credit. "Paddle" Lambert, star first baseman, contributed mightily to the offense of the team, for it was a delight to see him drive the sphere speedily to the bank in center field, when runners were on bases. Lambert is a catcher, but with Captain Fidler playing brilliantly there, Lambert's worth was utilized on the first corner. He ranked next to Flinn in batting average. Jack Latterner, though pitching in the largest number of games for any of the twirlers, was such a brilliant player that he was played in the outfield in the most crucial games, when other teammates were operating on the mound. He was one of the fastest men on the team. The most delightful surprise of the season, however, was that given to the student body by Kester June, the other Freshman pitcher besides Latterner. He pitched ball such as major league stars are wont to deliver, never becoming nervous or showing the least excitement on any occasion. Great things are expected from him during the nineteen seventeen season.

Captain Flinn

With an excellent schedule of games ahead, and many new prospects of able players enrolled, Coach Hickman will be able to go through another season quite as successful as heretofore. Relations have been resumed with University of Pittsburgh and Washington and Jefferson, and among the new teams to appear is Leland Stanford, Jr. University, of the Pacific Coast. The usual series with Marshall and Wesleyan shall have its state-wide interest, inasmuch as those games determine who shall be the title holder for another year among the colleges.

1916 Track Review

MORE interest than usual was taken in the track team from the fact that a brilliant and very comendable showing was made by the team. Director Pyle, in his untiring efforts, succeeded in putting out one of the best track teams that has ever been produced in West Virginia. The truth is shown in the fact that quite a number of state records were broken in the two meets by members of the University team.

Two meets were held in nineteen hundred sixteen, both of which were won by West Virginia by large scores. Ohio University was defeated by the score of eighty-three to forty-seven, and the state honors were again won by West Virginia, when Wesleyan was defeated by the score of ninety to forty-one. In the two meets, West Virginia scored one hundred seventy-three points compared to eighty-eight by its opponents. For the fourth consecutive time, the track honors of the colleges of West Virginia were won by the University team, which is compiling a remarkable record.

In the state track meet with Wesleyan, West Virginia swept the field, not only defeating the Methodists by the overwhelming score of ninety to forty-two, but incidentally broke seven state records in doing so. West Virginia men won twelve firsts out of fifteen starts. New state records were made in the high jump, hammer throw, high hurdles, two-mile run, broad jump, discus throw, and mile relay. Miller of Wesleyan set up a new mark in the 220 yard dash, leading Anderson of West Virginia by a few inches at the finish.

Freutel won individual honors for the season, scoring thirty-one points, winning five firsts and two seconds. He also set a new mark in the pole vault for a state meet, but did not equal his mark of 10 feet eight inches made against Ohio University. Newman was second point winner for West Virginia, winning four firsts, in all the events he entered. He broke the state record in both the hammer and the discus throws. He threw the hammer 135 8-10 feet, while his best mark with the discus was 117 15-100 feet. Briers, the sturdy captain of this year's team, did great work in the two-mile events, setting up a new record for that distance. Captain Tuckwiller held his own against all competitors in the high jump. Besides he was several times a point winner in the broad jump and low hurdles. Stevenson proved best in the dashes, broad jump, and high hurdles. Other able men were Rowley, DeForest, H. Anderson, Griffith and D. Brannan. The relay team was composed of a fast quartet of runners, capturing the honors of the relay race in both meets, and setting new marks consecutively in the two meets.

The greatest amount of credit should be given to the excellent coaching and supervision of track work by Director Pyle. During the two years of his coaching, the track team has advanced at such a rapid stage, that they now hold eleven out of fifteen state records, whereas they only held four records previous to 1914. Marshall and Wesleyan each hold two records, having been practically eliminated from faster competition.

Tennis

The tennis team again upheld its honor as champions among the state schools, by winning the only contest scheduled. This feat was accomplished after Wesleyan had defeated Davis-Elkins College, then West Virginia in turn defeated Wesleyan. Other games were not scheduled due to many other hindrances. Director Pyle, who acted as coach, was responsible for the interest that was aroused among the men and women of the University in this branch of athletics. More interest has been given to the sport this year, and an excellent schedule has been arranged, and for tennis to be recognized as one of the minor sports at West Virginia, is a sure prediction.

SUMMARY OF THE TITLE CONTEST

11. Students want to join the army.
12. Jennings chosen captain of next Varsity rifle team. We'll get them this time, West Virginia.
13. Witena-Gemot holds first initiation. Jack Latterner shoots the fast ones at Bethany, winning easily.

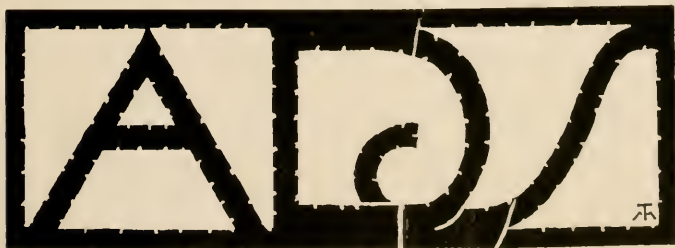

14. Chenoweth pitches in the key of C, and Betheny goes down again.
16. Ten new men enter Mountain council.
17. Cadet Corps goes to Brownsville. Weisler's Hall and Red Cross nurses have the class.
18. Agricultural students leave school to work on farm.
19. High school principals with us. All get a feed at the banquet. Judge Maxwell enthuses University with spirit of patriotism.
20. Captain Laubach reported as very seriously ill. Reserves trounce local high school team 9-6, after much delay.
21. Varsity idle on account of cancellation of game with Ohio. Reserves easily win over Fairmont Normal.
23. Blue Monday, rain and colder.
24. Aggies still going. Now five girls have left us.
25. Phi Psi win a contest after three years' waiting.
26. Secretary Hersey entertains the Y. M. C. A. Cabinet at a luncheon and what not. Relay team leaves for Philadelphia.
27. Pittsburgh Independents cannot see June's pitching; no hits, no runs, as long as they played. Score, 2-0, five innings.
28. Gandy refuses to get excited against Independents, and after a little flurry at first he holds them in his hands, (15 strikeouts) our game. Relay team wins race at Philadelphia. Fine work.
30. Everybody wants to go to Reserve Officers Training Camps.

May

1. This is a pretty May day. But the spring drive toward finals keeps moving along.
2. Pitt throws the hooks into our Varsity baseball team 9-2. At that, the errors helped mostly. Then there was a little sweetness after all, for upon their own grounds our tennis team won the doubles and one singles match, while they were winning two singles. R. J's. look pretty with green bouquets.
3. English Club lecture. Commencement Hall packed (?).
4. Marshall College, "Foxy" Chambers, et al., cannot get by with press stuff. June, plus Fidler, and others, too, secure first championship game.
5. Saturday, rain. Marshall game cancelled. Davisson not worried. (We add a note here before publication is closed. May 12. W. V. U. eliminated Marshall for championship honors, 3 to 1. Too much June and West Virginia.—Ed.)

JOKES

FALL IN!

The Opening Gun

To compile many notes of the humorous things that happen during any college year is no small task. If the jokes are not original, someone will say we copied them from an old high school edition they saw many years ago. If these jokes do not keep within the field of student life, then they think it is high time we are becoming loyal to our own group. If we don't mention some certain person as a participant in some happening, at least one, and any one at that, then that person feels slighted. They would like to point with pride to some humble line within these pages, and show others how their name was handed down to posterity. You know, as well as the editors do, just how some people are along that line. If someone cheerfully contributed several humorous notes, and, in the final selection preparatory to getting things ready for the printer, these same notes were not included, then they will say they may as well have saved their time and not have written them in the first place. All such things the editors have considered, and notes that were chosen finally, and are printed here are the best we knew of to represent the various phases of student life as it happened from day to day at West Virginia. In this light, let them be interpreted. So fire away, and let's see who gets the worst of it.

❖ ❖ ❖ ❖

That Romance of Analine

Fair Co-eds (in unison), "Say, wasn't that a splendid lecture at convocation this morning?"

Senior Co-ed, "What was it?"

Others, "The Romance of Analine."

Senior Co-ed, "Why, I should have been there, as I just finished that book the other day."

❖ ❖ ❖ ❖

Tired?

Mr. Bailey (to boy that had just tagged his partner), "Thank you."

❖ ❖ ❖ ❖

Now, Stop

Fair Co-ed (at ball game), "Just feel my teeth chattering."

Bashful Boy, "I'd like to."

❖ ❖ ❖ ❖

Wanted too Much

Student, "That coat is not a very good fit, Einstein."

Einstein, "Vell, vat do you egsbeet for fife tollars? An attack of ebiblepsy?"

It Was too Late to Change

A member of the faculty of the Columbia Medical College at Washington is particularly fond of taking his students unawares in his "quizzes." To one student, whom it would not be uncharitable to call a dullard, the doctor said one day:

"What quantity constitutes a dose of —" giving a technical name for some drug.

"A teaspoonful," was the answer.

The instructor made no comment, and the student realized that he had made a mistake. After a quarter of an hour had elapsed, he said, "Professor, I should like to change my reply to that question."

"I'm afraid it's too late, Mr. Jones," responded the professor, looking at his watch. "Your patient has been dead fourteen minutes."

Heard at Woman's Hall

Young ladies, as I have some announcements to make,
And this is the best time I can take:
I shall state all the things good and bad, as you'll find
Which have, unfortunately, been brought to my mind.

The high cost of living is no longer a joke,
And President Trotter fears the Hall may be broke
Perhaps you can shun this if you will but try
And live more saving in days gone by.

Don't waste the sugar in sweetening your tea,
That is unnecessary as you can well see,
And the jams and preserves so scarce of late,
I beg of you not to leave on your plate.

Concerning the dance which will continue late
I hope you'll be ready exactly at eight
And not keep the young man down in the hall,
Thinking you have never been called.

Then, too, young ladies, if you should get warm,
Don't think you can wander without any harm,
Outside the Armory—for even a span,
Or the chaperones certainly will be on hand.

Oh, yes, there's another thing I must say,
Your laundry bills are due today
Now if the young ladies one and all,
Will kindly pay me in the hall,
It will save me much worry, time, and fret,
Until the next bills must be met.

Gangrenous Patriotism

At Marty Maloney's wake a tinge of patriotism is manifest, as the following bit of conversation will show:

"Phwat did he die of, Mrs. Maloney?"

"Gangrene, Mr. Finnergan."

"Well, thank Hivin for the color, Mrs. Maloney."

A Mixup on Armies

Dr. Deahl, "There's no army you can't bring around by force."

Nell, "Yes, I know a little 'Army' that needs bringing around."

Red's Habits are Discovered

Mrs. Neil (at dance), "I'm so glad to see you back, Mr. Kersting. What are you taking this time?"

Why Insisting on Details?

Miss Atkeson (reading theme of student), "The young lady sat in porch swing with the young man." (Directing remarks at class), "Now, that is not enough. You ought to give details and tell what happens."

"Doc" Henry, "Are you supposed to tell everything that happens?"

College Fudge

Two shady trees
One small seat
Five pounds of love
Four lips, well pressed
One small waist, well squeezed
Mix all well and serve in the dark
'Tis better not made too often.

A Little Ice Needed

He, "I have a friend who suffers terribly from the heat."

She, "Where is he living?"

He, "He isn't living."

Bang!

Married Student, "I went into a dry goods store to get some stockings for my wife, and said to the young woman at the counter, 'How high do your stockings come?'"

Other Student, "Well, what of it?"

Married Student, "She told me it was none of my business."

A Conflict of Announcements

Hershey, while making announcements in convocation, and after explaining the good entertainment offered by the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. at the reception, and also announcing another feature in the address to be given on the same night under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias, concluded thusly:

"The University Choir will now sing an anthem: Be ye all of one mind, and have compassion one on another."

❖ ❖ ❖ ❖

Forgot to do It

Professor Eisland, "Well, well, Mr. Smith, you in this class again? I thought I had flunked you."

❖ ❖ ❖ ❖

Not too Strong

Bill, "Is she modest?"

Jake, "Modest! Why she can't watch a billiard game."

Bill, "What's the reason?"

Jake, "She blushes every time the balls kiss."

❖ ❖ ❖ ❖

Raw! Raw! Raw!

Poor Student who has just flunked out and doesn't mind kidding the animals), "No, sir, professor, I haven't slept for days."

Registrar (sympathetically), "What's wrong? Have you been ill?"

Student, "No, I sleep nights." (Everybody laughs but registrar.)

❖ ❖ ❖ ❖

Quite a Difference

Nordie, "How many hours are you taking this semester, Bernie?"

Bernie, "None, but I'm dragging sixteen."

❖ ❖ ❖ ❖

Hard on Clothes

Mother, "No wonder William wears out so many clothes at college?"

Father, "Why?"

Mother, "He writes in his letter that every afternoon he goes out to the field to root."

❖ ❖ ❖ ❖

Degrees of Quantity and Quality

"Two hundred degrees in the shade," said a bright Senior, as he looked at the bundle of sheepskins.

Burns Webster, "Could you tell me where the Sigma Xi house is?"
Penn Freshie, "I'm sorry, but I'm a freshman, too."

That Crowd at the Strand

The crowd was surging in the Strand theatre. There was only standing room, for Thread Bare was playing a return engagement of "A Fool There Was." All society was out en masse. The bon ton and the elite and the fricasse, all were there, in high-top boots and fur collars. Oh, no, gentle reader, evening gowns and "opry" cloaks were quite passe, for this was an afternoon performance. It was a matinee. The picture had been on for two minutes. Thread had kissed the hero for the four hundred and fifty-ninth time, when attention was drawn from the picture by a conversation. This from a very fresh student, "Say, usher, can you tell me where I can find a vacant seat?"

This comeback from a very fresh usher, "Sure Mike, up at the athletic field in the bleachers."

At the Commons Club

First one, "The other night I heard a burglar in the house. You should have seen me going down those stairs three at a clip."

Second one, "Where was the burglar? On the roof?"

Getting Hit on the Head

The American Society of Phrenologists, at its recent meeting in Philadelphia, prepared for general circulation a list of terms that may be used synonymously for "hit on the head," thus conferring a great favor on those who are always looking for something new. Here they are:

Drubbed on the dome,
Bammed on the bean,
Tapped on the conk,
Bumped on the beezzer,
Biffed on the coco,
Busted on the cranium,
Whiffed on the skull,
Cracked on the nut,
Nailed on the knob,
Slugged on the belfry,
Lammed on the peak,
Dinged on the brain-box.

Force of Habit

A physician started a model insane hospital, and set apart one ward especially for crazy motorists and chauffeurs. Taking a friend through the building, he pointed out with particular pride the automobile ward, and called attention to its elegant furnishings and equipment.

"But," said the friend, "the place is empty; I don't see any patients."

"Oh, they are all under the cots, fixing the slats," explained the physician.

The Main Question

Victim, "What has happened? Where am I?"

Doctor Morris, "You have been seriously injured in a trolley accident. But cheer up, you will recover."

Victim, "How much?"

At Debating Contest

Brunetti, "How was my speech?"

Classmate, "Fine! When you sat down, everyone said it was the best thing you ever did."

Saving Time

"Good crowd at chapel, today?"

"Yep, lotta committees scheduled."

Rubaiyat of Fein al Exzam

Wake, for the calendar has brought to light,
The date which chills your very soul with fright;
Examinations will be on next week,
Get down and cram, you boob, with all your might.

A book of French verbs underneath the lamp,
A cigarette, a forehead, pained and damp;
Oh, what's the use of knowledge after all?
I'd trade by berth tonight with any tramp.

Some long for grades of ninety-five, and some
For Phi Beta Kappa keys to come;
Oh, take a pass, and let the honors slide,
Heed not the rumble of the distant drum.

Come, close your books, and to the movies go;
Forget your sorrows in a ten cent show.
You can't work a whole seemster in a week,
And skillful bluffing does a lot you know.

Stone (sobering), "Why it just struck me funny to think that Mr. Cass's nickname would be Jack."

Just a Short 'Pome'

In support of our athletics
I paid a goodly fee,
I got a little ticket
And treasured it in glee.

I took it to the Ark one night,
And showed it at the door,
They said, "Come round tomorrow,
And we'll let you read the score."

"Two bits for one admission,"
Is the price the door man names,
But my little green ticket says,
"Admits to all the games."

Another privilege I bought,
With my medical fee,
To be doctored by the experts
Of the University.

I woke up in the morning,
With a fever in my brain,
My poor old frame was aching
With every sort of pain.

I sent for college doctors,
But the answer came back straight,
"We're busy carving tom cats now;
Your case will have to wait."

L'Envoi

Oh, dig down in our trousers, boys,
We'll start another fee.
Pay five dollars movie tax,
And get in on one night free.

Just a Quarrel

He (angrily), "Now I see through you completely."
She, "Well, that's only because there is a bright sun."

They Told the Truth

Professor Cannaday, "Mr. Wyckoff, do you have your lesson today?"
Wyckoff, "No, professor, I haven't. I cannot tell a lie."
Professor, "That won't get you through the university."

Heard at the Stag

Busch, "Here, Guy, you've brought me two eggs and I only ordered one."
Guy, "I know it sir; but after all these years, I didn't have the heart to separate them."

On Registration Day

Encix, "I feel so much relieved."
Ash, "Is that so?"
Encix, "Yes, I just came from the treasurer's office."

Baseball Instinct

It was midnight. They had just been married about a year. "Wow-wow-wow," wailed the baby. "Four bawls and I walk," quoth the player father, in mutual distress, as he arose from his bed and took the infant in his arms.

Generous Stoops

Lowry Stoops, on one of his many baseball journeys, found an occasion to spend a night in one of our large American cities. After spending the evening in revelry with his teammates, he managed to find his way back to the hotel along with the rest of the group. Being rather fatigued, as it were, the group decided to use the elevator. Upon arriving at the tenth floor, Stoops, wishing to show his benevolent hospitality, exclaimed, "Go ahead boys, I'll pay for this."

At the Pan-Hellenic

Co-ed, "Good night, but it's warm in here. Let's open up something."
Ed, "Sorry, but I'm afraid there isn't a drop in the house."
Co-ed, "Oh, that isn't what I mean. It's so close in here, let's go out."
Ed, "Aw, don't get excited. The orchestra will change the air in a minute."

Mauzy, "Where's my glass-case?"

Marshall, "I took it out of your pocket."

Mauzy quickly, "Gosh, I better see if that dollar is gone."

Applied Chemistry

It is a conjugate salt. The reaction takes place rapidly in the absence of light. It has a sweet taste, and an ethereal odor. When taken in small quantities, it produces a blissful sensation; but, in larger quantities, it has a nauseous effect. It is soluble in distilled moonlight, and is best precipitated in the absence of humanity. The presence of a catalytic agent, such as love, increases the speed and temperature of the reaction. The reaction is, therefore, exothermic in the presence of the catalytic agent.

When to Ask Questions

Professor, "Does anyone wish to ask a question before we begin the lesson?"

Knott, "Yes, where does it begin?"

Prologue

Whereas, a certain illustrious member of the faculty is engaged in the noble work of collecting and editing the folk songs of West Virginia, and

Whereas, we the undersigned believe such noble work should be encouraged in every possible manner,

Therefore, be it resolved, since we know not any folk song, that we manufacture, compose, and originate a folk song.

And be it further resolved, that we do will, demise, and bequeath, and otherwise surrender to the aforesaid illustrious member of the faculty all our rights, copyrights, patents, etc., to have and to hold, to edit and to publish, and to use otherwise for the enlightenment, instruction, and edification of posterity forever.

Poem

"Ach, himmel!" he said, and "Ach, himmel!" said he,
"For my countree's sake, I am going to dee,
Farewell, farewell! O, mother mine,
I am going to fight for thee and thine."

Chorus (To be repeated after each stanza.)

Ti dum tee dum ti deedle di do.
Ti dum tee dum ti deedle di do.

"Farewell, farewell! O sweet heart of old,
I leave with the soldiers so brave and so bold,
Farewell, farewell! my own little village,
I march far away other lands to pillage."

Little Boy Blue marched away in the ranks
Truly deserving his country's thanks,
But when he heard the battle's roar
He wished to be at home once more.

This carnage my blood it chills and it thickens,
I wish I were back with the cows and the chickens,
Although it is noble to fight for the right;
Somehow for fighting, I've lost my delight.

Little Boy Blue was so frightened indeed
That he hid in a cannon's mouth; paying no heed
To the order of "Fire!" which was presently given,
So Little Boy Blue began his journey to heaven.

But he fell in a keg of the enemy's powder,
And blew the whole business up into a chowder.
Now histories praise Boy Blue to the sky
For he blew the enemy up so high.

So children, remember, that praises are
To the man who's found in the place where he's needed.
If you cannot fill a patriot's grave,
You can live, heathen or folk son s to save.

Epilogue

Now this our folk song we think, if it gets its just due,
Will be placed alongside the illustrious few,
Thus to live on through all following ages
And ever be quoted by the world's wisest sages.

Still More Sentimental

He met her in the meadow
 As the sun was sinking low,
 They strolled along together,
 In the twilight afterglow.
 She waited while gallantly
 He lowered all the bars,
 Her soft eyes beamed upon him
 As radiant as the stars;
 But she neither smiled nor thanked him,
 For indeed she knew not how,
 Since he was but a country boy,
 And she—a Jersey cow.

When Tubby Was Ahead of the Place

"Tubby" Drake was called upon to translate in Scientific German class. The chapter in question concerned the manufacture and uses of phosphorus. Drake had achieved the wonderful accomplishment of being able to read between lines, but this time he had failed to write down the last phrase. "Tubby," being of a venturesome nature, took a shot at the moon and translated, "It is also used in making matches."

Professor Truscott, "I'm sorry, Mr. Drake, but that doesn't come until the next page."

His View of It

Major Duthie (lecturing before military class), "Tell us some of the things you did on the hike the other day."
Freshman, "We did about eleven miles."

Another One for the Medical Students

A young physician was once called in by a gentleman who had a very sick mother-in-law. After looking into the case carefully, the young M.D. called the gentleman aside and said:

"Well, the only thing I can suggest is that you send your mother-in-law to a warmer climate."

The man disappeared and came back with an axe a moment later and exclaimed, "Here, doctor, you kill her! I really haven't the heart."

A Chilly Day

Little Willie had a mirror
And he licked the back all off,
Thinking in his childish error
It would cure the whooping cough.
At the funeral Willie's mother
Smartly said to Mrs. Brown,
"It was a chilly day for Willie
When the mercury went down."

Bernie's Feet

Pretty One at Prom (to Madeira, who is standing on her gown),
"I beg your pardon, my train does not carry passengers."

Those Absences

Absences make the Hare grow crosser, and makes the marks grow rounder.

Just Like a Girl

"What's the score?"

Fan, "Nothing to nothing."

She, "Goody, we haven't missed a thing."

Student, "What do you charge for a room?"

Landlady, "Five dollars and up."

Student, "Well, but I'm a student."

Landlady (quickly), "Five dollars down."

Annoying

Professor Neil, "Now, what has that which you have said to do with my question?"

Martin, "I was just wondering about that too."

When Talbott Missed His Credit

Sanders, "Was Dick surprised when you told him he had flunked Math?"

Our Farmeress

The Agg school once was all for boys,
But now it's been invaded.
By a brave young girl who made her choice
And into the garden fields waded.

Some girls dig for a dry A.B.
And some of music brag.
But not of that for her, since she Wants no degree but B. S. Ag.

She goes out often to the farm,
Her escorts, gallant farmers,
She says they keep her from all harm:
Ags must be perfect charmers.

She extracts milk from the gentle cows,
And syrup from the trees.
They even say she's learning how
To get honey from the bees.

A Confession

Professor Smith, "Mr. Bishop, tell me three words of the English language that are used most by students of the University."

Bishop, "I don't know."

Professor Smith, "Correct."

Dawson, "Here's where we all get one, I suppose."

Professor C, "Were you copying his notes?"

Proudfoot, "No, no sir, I was only looking to see if he had mine right."

A Willing Patient

Raybeck was complaining of rheumatism.

"There's no excuse for your being afflicted," said the young doctor whom he had consulted. "I used to have rheumatism. When it would strike me, I would go home and have my wife throw her arms around my neck and give me a massage treatment. It helped me every time. You ought to try it."

"I will," said Raybeck, "when will I find your wife at home?"

That Mail Pouch Election

The editor was invited to attend the election of new members of the Mail Pouch Club, at which time officers were also to be chosen. However, it occurred too early in the morning, and he can only announce that the following positions were to be filled. The censor has excluded the names of the unfortunate ones. Those elected were: the Grand Chewer of the Cud, Custodian of the Garboon, Grand Keeper of the Pouch, Grand Keeper of the Coupons, Chief Provider of the Weed, and Chief Expecterator. The committee in charge of the election consisted of I Chew, assisted by You Chew, He Chews, and We Chew. Give me a light, please.

Pretty Close

He (names still censored), "They say a woman never forgets a man who has kissed her."

She, "Yes, I believe that is true."

He, "I wish I could be sure that you would always remember me."

❖ ❖ ❖ ❖

See

Chappie, "I cawn't understand why those beastly Germans insist on spelling 'culture' with a 'k.'"

Cornie, "Easy, my boy. Don't you see they are obliged to use a 'k' because the English have control of all the 'seas.'"

❖ ❖ ❖ ❖

Pretty Hard on the Patient

Doctor, "Pardon me, but before beginning this work, I must have my drill."

Patient, "Sakes alive, can't you pull a tooth without a rehearsal?"

❖ ❖ ❖ ❖

Giving It Away

Rahl, "What time does the harness shop close?"

Headlee, "What's the grand idea, going to get hitched up?"

❖ ❖ ❖ ❖

His Idea About It

Freshman girl (at the track meet), "My, what a cold day to be without stockings?"

He (absently), "Why, did you leave them off?"

❖ ❖ ❖ ❖

Patient Indeed

She, "I believe you could make love to a stick."

He, "I'm beginning to believe so, myself."

IN preparing the nineteen-eighteen Monticola for publication, it has been the desire of the editorial board to portray as near as possible every phase of college life. We have tried to interpret the college spirit from every viewpoint of the student and faculty, and make this volume appeal to all. However, there has been many new problems to solve, which have taxed our endurance to the limit. In the busy hours of school routine, we have tried to do our best to publish a most pleasing volume, and the work included herein has been done at a great sacrifice on the part of many. By those who cherish the pleasant scenes and memories which this book contains, we feel our work will be appreciated, and merit will be recognized for every effort.

The Campus Art Section, and the excellent artistic work were planned carefully. We extend our thanks to Tom Moore, Valerie Schultz, W. M. Archdeacon, Merle Hardesty, and C. Hildebrand for their art contributions. We are indebted to Professors Madison Stathers and Simeon Smith who have given their criticisms of the material in a most helpful manner.

We hope that the entire student body will realize how eager we have been to gather and publish such school memories as are sacred to all. We want them to feel, as we do, that it has been done willingly for West Virginia. The Junior Class therefore, closes its year's work with a good wish for all.

DAVID ALFRED CHRISTOPHER,

Editor-in-Chief.

AS business manager of the college annual for this year, I found many new difficulties confronting our enterprise. In a closing note of this book, therefore, it is only due the students and faculty, that thanks be extended to them for the help they have given in any manner whatsoever.

The Morgantown Printing and Binding Company have at all times rendered valuable aid and given suggestions, which have gone far to advance the success of this book.

The Northern Engraving Company of Canton, Ohio, have been exceedingly prompt in preparation of engravings, and their co-operation has been helpful in the extreme.

Mr. L. E. Friend has taken care of the photographic work in a faithful manner. The large increase of photographs necessary for the work this year made his task one of difficult nature, but it was done satisfactory, and we are grateful to him for his assistance.

We appreciate highly the interest of the advertisers, who have contracted for space in the business columns, and the students should patronize generously those who helped to make this student enterprise a success.

If this Monticola appeals to you, and records incidents that were most pleasing to you in your school year, then join with us in being glad to serve West Virginia.

ISAAC LINDSAY VAN VOORHIS,
Business Manager

THE END
