Stitches in the throat, when taking a deep breath.

Stitches in the throat as from a splinter, when swallowing; on yawning, the stitches extend to the ear.

Shooting pain and dryness in the throat, every morning, for several hours.

Shooting pain in the throat, extending to the ear, when turning the head.

190. The mucus hawked up is mixed with blood.

Much hawking up of mucus from the throat, in the evening, after eating.

Much mucus in the mouth.

Salivation (collection of saliva) on the right side of the mouth.

Doughy taste in the mouth, in the morning (5th d.).

195. Bad smell in the mouth, as from a spoiled stomach; this he perceives himself.

Loss of the sense of taste.

Bitter, slimy taste in the mouth, in the morning.

Bitter taste in the mouth, and also of the food.

Bitter taste in the posterior part of the throat, while food tastes normally.

200. Earthy taste in the throat, while food tastes all right.

Putrid taste and like that of rotten eggs in the mouth.

Metallic taste in the mouth.

Sourish metallic taste in the mouth.

No appetite for eating, while there is a feeling of emptiness in the abdomen.

205. Unusual hunger in the forenoon.
Loathing for everything, especially for fat.
There is sometimes appetite for something, but when he gets it, he does not want it.
Appetite only for sour and strong tasting, piquant things.
Much appetite for vinegar.
210. Inordinate desire for wine, only temporarily satisfied by wine and water. [Stf.]
More thirst than hunger.
Thirst; but she cannot drink much, else the abdomen is inflated.
Uncommonly great thirst, from morning till evening. [Fr. H.]
During dinner, a frequent burning itching on the forehead and cheeks.
215. After dinner, hot regurgitation.
Immediately after dinner, fullness in the hypogastrium.
After meals, great lassitude.
After a meal, sensation of heat in the abdomen.
After dinner, severe palpitation and oppression of the chest, with a desire of taking a deep breath.
220. After dinner, hard distension of the abdomen, for three hours (3d d.).
Frequent eructation, without smell and taste.
Continual empty eructation, with inflation of the abdomen and stomach, during mental exertion.
Eructations, with burning in the throat.
Frequent eructation, with the taste of the ingesta.
225. Eructation after eating, with belching up of a sourish liquid which comes up into the mouth.
Hiccup after eating.
Nausea, frequently during the day.
Frequent transient fits of nausea.
Nausea in the morning, but without inclination to vomit, but rather as a premonition of swooning.
230. Morning-sickness, for several mornings, with inclination to vomit, while sitting and standing; but going off when lying down.
Qualmishness, with inclination to vomit. [Stf.]
Inclination to vomit, with running of saliva from the mouth.
Water-brash, with a flow of watery saliva from the mouth, recurring the following day at the same hour.
Constant sensation as of water rising in the œsophagus, as after eating sour things.
- 235 Vomiting every morning.
Sour vomiting, in the afternoon.
Green vomiting of acrid water and tenacious mucus, with constant nausea. [HINZE, Hufel. Journ., 1815, Sept. XLI, pp. 77-79.]
Vomiting of bile in the morning, after long-continued, severe retching.
Vomiting of mucus, mixed with coagulated blood.

<sup>1</sup> Effects of large doses of H. s. given for whooping cough. See also S. 644.—Hughes.

240. The stomach pains, while he is walking, as if it hung loose. Pressure in the stomach, as if lead was lying in it.
Pressure in the stomach after a light meal.
 Internal pressure in the scrobiculus cordis, every morning on awaking.
 Hard pressure in the scrobiculus cordis, rising up from the abdomen and only relieved by the passage of flatus.
245. Tension across the scrobiculus cordis; he has to unbutton his clothes, and cannot bear to sit.
 When blowing his nose, dull pain in the scrobiculus cordis.
 The stomach distended, as if by flatulence, with ice-cold hands.
 Restlessness, heaviness and sensation of acidity in the pit of the stomach during digestion.
 Gnawing in the stomach, as from an acid, which also rises into the fauces.
250. In the hepatic region, stitches, when walking.
 In the left hypochondrium, distension as from flatulence.
 Painful rush of blood toward both hypochondria, at every step he takes.
 Sensation as of stagnation in both hypochondria, at every step while walking.
 A very disagreeable though quiet pain in the abdomen, almost as from a bruise, early on awaking, lasting for some time after getting up, with a similar headache in the forehead.
255. Pain, as from a bruise in the intestines of the hypogastrium, when walking (aft. 18 h.).
 The abdomen is painfully sensitive and inflated, more while walking than when sitting (2d d.).
 Pressive pain in the abdomen near to and about the hips, for fourteen days.
 Severe pressure, almost lancinating, in the left side of the abdomen, when out driving.
 Pressure in the abdomen below the scrobiculus cordis, while the abdomen is as hard as a stone.
260. Distended, swollen abdomen, without flatulence.
 Inflated, distended abdomen.
 Tension in the abdomen, all the day.
 Spasmodic, pinching tension in the abdomen, several times during the day.
 Cramps in the abdomen.
265. Pain, like constriction, in the abdomen before the meal.
 Contractive pain in the abdomen.
 Clawing in the umbilical region, from both sides of the abdomen toward the middle, sometimes rising up to the scrobiculus cordis, and causing nausea and anxious heat in the cheeks, in paroxysms; almost as if from taking cold or from the approach of the menses.
 Pinching pain in the abdomen, as if from taking a cold.
 In the morning, pinching in the abdomen, with a soft stool (for many mornings).
270. Colic: stitches, cutting and pinching here and there in the abdomen, as if from flatulence, for many hours after a meal; the pain is more intense at every pulsation.

Cutting pains in the abdomen.

Cutting pain in the abdomen, without diarrhœa, for several days, toward evening.

Shooting pain in the abdomen.

Violent stitches in the left side of the abdomen, immediately below the ribs.

275. Splenetic stitches when walking.

Pain, as from excoriation in the left side of the abdomen.

Pain, as from soreness, above the umbilicus.

Pain, as from excoriation, in the hypogastrium.

Drawing pain in the abdomen.

280. Drawing pain in the epigastrium, and at the same time above the sacrum (at once).

Fermentation in the abdomen, above the navel, with eructation of hot air.

Whirling sensation above the navel.

Feeling of emptiness in the intestines.

The glands in the groin become painful, especially when touched, with a sensation as if they were swollen.

285. Abscesses of the inguinal glands, buboes.

Every morning, a moving about of flatus in the abdomen, with a disagreeable feeling, like a kind of colic, especially in the sides of the abdomen.

Noisy motions of the flatus in the abdomen.

Rumbling in the abdomen.

Discharge of flatus, at night.

290. Very frequent, ineffectual calls to stool, with much eructation.

Calls to stool, but the peristaltic motion of the large intestines is lacking, so as to discharge the fæces, which are not hard, and which can only be partially expelled by the exertion of the abdominal muscles.

Inactivity of the rectum; the stool is hard and insufficient, and the anus swollen.

Soft stool, which is, however, only expelled by much straining.

With much urging, difficult discharge of scanty fæces, which are not hard.

295. After much straining, a stool of hard lumps of fæces, mixed with a yellow liquid.

Frequent stools also at night; with straining, tenesmus and exhaustion, only very little is evacuated.

Diarrhœa with colic; with inclination to lie down; hot hands and cheeks.

Three diarrhœic stools, with qualmish feeling of nausea and rumbling in the abdomen.

Slight diarrhœic stools, several times a day, preceded by some pinching; then some flatus before the stool, and some more flatus afterward.

300. Diarrhœa of bloody mucus, with rumbling as if behind in the back, without pain in the abdomen.

- Clay-colored stool.
 Greenish stool.
 Blood is passed with the stool.
 Flow of blood from the rectum, with a soft stool.
305. After the stool, inflation of the abdomen.
 After the stool, the nose is stopped.
 After the stool, sensation of excoriation in the anus, and secretion of ichor.
 The varices of the rectum protrude.
 Rumbling in the rectum.
310. Crawling in the rectum, as from ascarides.
 Burning at the anus.
 A little lump above the anus, and a sensation of swelling there.
 On the perinæum, sweat.
 Weakness of the bladder; the urine only flows in a slow, perpendicular stream, and he has to wait awhile before any urine comes.
315. He never can finish urinating; some urine always seems to remain behind in the bladder.
 The micturition is impeded; he has to wait awhile before the urine comes, and then it flows out slowly, for several days.
 Frequent urging to urinate.
 Violent urging to urinate, in the morning on awaking, and, nevertheless, difficult and slow passage of the urine.
 Copious discharge of urine (aft. 4 d.).
320. Discharge of a quantity of pale urine, with pressure on the bladder.
 The urine when passed is pale and clear, but becomes turbid and thick on standing, depositing a white sediment.
 The urine is turbid and like whey when passed, and deposits a white sediment.
 Dark-yellow urine, it scalds in passing.
 Brownish-red urine.
325. Blood-red urine.
 The last drops of urine are bloody.
 Fatty pellicle on the urine.
 Iridescent pellicle on the urine.
 Acrid, scalding urine, which excoriates the inner surface of the prepuce and makes it ulcerated.
330. The urine scalds during the emission.
 In micturition, there is a cutting pain in the female urethra.
 During the emission of urine, acute, sore pain in the urethra.
 The urine is sharp, and in passing, it excoriates the pudenda.
 During micturition, sensation on the right scapula as if something was flowing or running inside of it.
335. Several stitches in the urethra.
The orifice of the urethra is red and inflamed.
 On the penis and on the frenulum of the prepuce, itching.
 Itching of the glans.
 A stitch in the region of the frenulum.
340. Shooting pain in the prepuce.
 Externally in the prepuce, ulcers like chancres.

Moist excoriation, with eroding, smarting pain in the fold between the thigh and the scrotum.

Itching of the scrotum.

The sexual parts are weakened, the testes relaxed and the penis of unnatural hardness.

345. Diminished sexual impulse.

The genitals are excited to seminal emission, without any amorous fancies or desire for woman.

During amorous dallying, a painful erection like excoriation and a cramp-pain in the whole penis, beginning from the bladder.

Prostatic juice passes at times with the stool.

She is very much excoriated about the pudenda and between the thighs.

350. Flow of blood from the uterus, almost at once, and again after ten or twelve days, after previous inflation of the abdomen.

It delays the menses by ten days and diminishes the discharge.

Before the menses, contractive headache.

During the menses, much itching on the pudenda.

* * * * *

Frequent sneezing (at once).

355. Frequent sneezing, owing to itching in the nose.

Tickling in the nose, causing sneezing.

Stuffed coryza.

Coryza and much spitting of saliva.

Coryza; he has to blow his nose every moment; attended with an excessive appetite.

360. Coryza, and scraping in the throat.

Catarrhal fever, attended with internal chills and peevishness.

Frequent catarrhal fever, with heaviness in all the limbs.

Coryza, with inflammatory swelling of the nose, which pains like a boil, attended with coughing.

He blows from his nose ill-smelling mucus, even without coryza.

365. Weakness of the organs of speech and of the chest, so that she cannot speak aloud.

Tickling in the throat, and a sensation of fusty vapor, causing cough.

Scrapy, scratchy cough.

Suffocative cough, caused merely by tightness of the chest.

Deep, dry cough; from tightness of the chest when inspiring; with pain extending up into the chest at every impulse of coughing.

370. Violent fits of coughing, from time to time, threatening suffocation or vomiting.

Cough, so much aggravated by taking a deep breath that it causes him to vomit.

Cough, exciting to vomiting.

Violent, deep cough of several impulses, striking painfully against the larynx and causing retching.

An almost uninterrupted cough from an irritation in the upper part of the left side of the throat, which is worst when talking and

- stooping; late in the evening it always increases, and then suddenly ceases.
375. Tussiculation, at once after a meal.
The cough torments him most while walking.
Fit of coughing, as if from a cold or over-sensitiveness of the nervous system, as soon as the least member of the body becomes cool.
Morning cough, which often wakes her from sleep.
Cough, in the evening and morning.
380. She is much tormented by cough in the evening.
In the evening, impulses of dry cough.
From time to time, dry, painless, short cough.
In the evening, on going to sleep, dry cough (aft. 4 d.).
At night, from eleven to twelve o'clock, in bed, violent cough (with expectoration of mucus).
385. Cough, day and night.
Cough, with expectoration.
Cough, with expectoration of mucus, the whole day, excited by a scraping irritation in the windpipe, but especially in the throat. [Fr. H.]
Cough, with much expectoration, every three or four hours a violent fit; but not waking from sleep at night.
Expectoration of sourish mucus at night, almost without cough.
390. Tenacious mucus in the chest (aft. 5 d.).
Bloody expectoration from the chest, with crossness and lassitude.
Coughing of blood, after previous sensation as of a hard body in the scrobicus cordis; followed by fetid perspiration, then weakness in the head.
During coughing, obtuseness of the whole head, with throbbing in the forehead and temples.
During coughing, violent resounding throbbing in the head.
395. During coughing, stitches in the throat and headache as if everything were coming out at the forehead.
During coughing, burning in the stomach.
After the fits of coughing, sneezing.
Shortness of breath.
Frequent deep breathing as after running.
400. Pain in the chest; a pressure in the left side of the chest.
Shooting in the sternum, during respiration and walking.
Shooting pain in the side of the chest, toward the back.
Stitches in the cardiac region.
Sensation in the chest as if hot water was moving there.
405. Heat in the left side of the chest, above the heart.
Severe palpitation, with fine stitches in the heart and in the left side of the chest.
Eruption of two pimples on the outer side of the sternum, with pus in their apices and acute pain as from excoriation.
Itching on the left nipple.
Painful sensitiveness in the right half of the fleshy part of the - chest, and under the right arm, on touching the chest or moving the arm.

410. A boil on the last right rib, with a stitching aching per se and great pain when touched.
 Pain in the sacrum, frequently recurring.
 In the sacrum a pain, drawing hither and thither, worst when walking. [Fr. H.]
 Pain in the sacrum, as from fatigue, when stooping and when leaning back while sitting.
 Severe pain in the sacrum, like a cutting through, during movement and at rest; so that she could neither stand, walk nor lie down.
415. Bruised pain in the sacrum, when walking (1st d.).
 Bruised pain and sharp pressive pain in the sacrum and the lumbar vertebræ, but especially in the junction of the sacrum with the pelvic bones; it darts down into the lower limbs and causes a sort of limping in walking; the pain continues while sitting, standing, and lying down.
 In the loins and the ossa ischii, pain as from dislocation, when sitting, and when turning the body in walking.
 At night, tensive pain in the back, worst when turning the body.
 Pain between the scapulæ.
420. In the morning, in bed, drawing in the whole back and in the sacrum; after rising, the whole of the back was painful, so that she could hardly move, with weariness in the limbs, aversion to eating and working, with shivering, chilliness, and adipsia.
 Stitches in the back, in the left renal region.
 Stitches in the left side of the back.
 Stitches in the back, between the scapulæ.
 Stitches in the right scapula, when blowing the nose, hawking or taking a deep breath.
425. Some violent stitches in the back.
 Great weakness in the whole spine.
 Shooting pains in the throat, extending into the ear, when turning the head.
 Some fine stitches on the outside of the neck and behind the ears, like flea bites.
 Pinching on the right side of the thyroid cartilage.
430. Bruised pain on the cervical muscles, with pain in the throat, when swallowing, as from an internal swelling.
 Bruised pain in the neck, when bending the head back.
 Many small, painless pimples in the nape, and on both sides of the neck. [Fr. H.]
 The axillary glands suppurate and discharge pus.
 Pain like a load on the top of the shoulder.
435. The top of the shoulder is painful, when raising the arm.
 Drawing pain in the top of the shoulders.
 Fine tearing in the top of the left shoulder.
 Pain as of a sprain in the top of the shoulder.
 In the left arm, here and there, some jerking.
440. Bruised pain in both arms.

- Great fatigue of both the arms.
 The arm on which he had lain is asleep, at night.
 In the left upper arm, a drawing pain.
Bruised pain in the shafts of the humeri.
445. Extremely violent pains in the bend of the elbow, when stretching out the arm.
 Pressive or contused pain in the olecranon process of the elbow, only on moving it, after a long walk; it went off in the open air.
 Severe itching in the bend of the elbow.
 In the forearms, a painful drawing in the flexor tendons.
 Drawing tearing pain in the extensor muscles of the forearms and of the fingers.
450. Contused pain on a small spot on the forearm.
 After midnight, pain in the interior of the forearm and over the back of the hand, aching, boring and as if excoriated, more painful when touched, less so by day.
 The wrist is painful.
 Sensation of heat in the palm and in the wrist.
 Frequent burning sensation in the hands.
455. Heat, redness and swelling of the one hand, with intolerable pain as from a sprain, extending up into the arm, on motion.
 Swelling of the right hand.
 Unsteadiness in the hands, and trembling during writing.
 Perspiring, cold hands.
 Scaly eruption on the hands.
460. Itching and rough, dry, grating skin on the hands.
 Continual, dull itching in the palms.
 Small, gritty eruption on the hand and wrist, with itching.
 On pressing the spread-out fingers against something, they knuckle up; the fingers are readily dislocated.
 Pricks in one finger, as from needles.
465. An eroding blister on the anterior joint of the thumb, without sensation, only when pressed upon, there is a shooting pain.
 Severe itching beside the nail of the left index, as if a paronychia was forming.
 Tingling in the tips of the fingers.
 Swelling of the fingers of both hands, with stiffness therein, when lying down.
 Swelling of all the fingers, with tension on moving them.
470. The finger-joints are swollen, with gouty pains.
The nates and the posterior part of the thighs are painful, when sitting down.
 A red, itching lump on the upper part of the left natis.
 Two boils on one natis.
The hip-joint pains as if dislocated, when walking in the open air.
475. Excoriation in the fold between the scrotum and the thigh.
 Excoriation and moisture in the fold between the scrotum and the thigh.
 Profuse perspiration on the upper part between the thighs.

- At night, a painful tension in the lower limbs, that prevents sleep.
- Tearing pain in the thigh and leg, as from too great fatigue, also when at rest.
480. Restlessness in the lower limbs, so that she has to keep moving them, by day when at rest.
- A fornicating pain in the inferior extremity, which drew it quite crooked; chiefly when walking and standing.
- Heaviness of the lower limbs.
- Tearing in the left hip (when undressing).
- Pain in the hip-joint, while walking in the open air.
485. Tearing pain in the right thigh (at once).
- While sitting, tearing in the thigh, and a numb, tingling sensation in it, almost as if asleep.
- Bruised pain in the anterior muscles of the thighs.
- Bruised pain, transversely through the middle of the thighs.
- Cramp in the muscles of the thigh and pelvis, when the thigh is drawn upward.
490. Sudden pain of exhaustion in the thigh, while walking, so that he cannot walk farther.
- In the knee, cramp.
- Pressive pain in the hough, on motion.
- Frequently during the day, a shooting pain in the right knee.
- Tearing on the outer side of the knee-joint, also when at rest, as after too great exertion and fatigue.
495. Bruised pain in the knee.
- Pain in the knee as if broken.
- Swelling of the knee.
- Itching pimples about the knee.
- Severe itching on the inner side of the knee.
500. In the leg, below the right knee, a spasmodic drawing pain, when walking.
- Cramp of the calves, only when bending the kness.
- Cramp-pain in all the muscles of the leg, while walking, so that he cannot walk on.
- Cramp in the calves.
- Restlessness in the legs, he has to keep them stretched out.
505. Restlessness in the legs at times, so that he cannot keep them still.
- Tearing in the tendo Achillis, when lying in bed; and when walking, a stitch in it.
- Great weariness in the legs, especially when ascending.
- The left leg is asleep, in the morning in bed, and heavy like lead.
- Erysipelas on the leg (affected).
510. The feet are painfully sensitive in the soles, when walking on rough stones.
- Sensation of pressure under the heel, when walking, as if there was a pebble lodged under it.
- Cramp in the feet.
- Cramp between the big toe and the heel.
- Cramp in the soles of the feet and the toes.

515. Stiff feeling in the ankle-joint, with a feeling of numbness and turgidity there.
 Pain in the ankle-joint, as if festering.
 Tearing pain in the foot, at night.
 Tearing and drawing in the soles of the feet.
 Stitches on the instep.
520. Violent itching stitches on the dorsum of the foot, near the root of the toes.
 In the evening, after having slept restlessly and turned over in bed, there came on the outer side of the foot on which he had lain a pain as from a knock or blow, so violent that it made him scream; the pain was only allayed by touching and stroking it with the finger, but not by motion.
 Pain in the ankle-joint, as if sprained, coming in paroxysms while walking, so that he cannot continue walking for the moment.
 Pain in the right ankle-joint, as if it was broken, while walking.
- Cracking in the ankle-joint.
525. Formication in the soles of the feet.
 Constant dull itching in the soles of the feet.
 Tickling in the soles of the feet.
 Hard pressure as from a little stone, on the heel, when walking.
- Needle-pricking in both the heels.
530. Burning pain in the feet, especially on the dorsum of the feet, in the morning in bed.
 Burning in the soles of the feet, in the morning in bed; she had to uncover them.
 Drawing, burning pain in the feet up to the ankles, in the evening in bed.
 Swelling of the feet about the ankles, with dyspnœa.
Coldness of the feet, by day.
535. Cold, sweaty feet.
 Chilblains on the feet, which break open, with so much tenderness of these spots on healing that she cannot wear a shoe.
 In the big toe, tearing, worse when walking than when standing.
- Severe stitch along the big toe.
 Sharp, shooting pains in the fleshy part of the right little toe.
540. Piercing stitches in the hard skin on the little toe.
 Formication in the toes.
 Formicating itching of the toes, for four nights.
 Burning itching of the toes.
 The nail of the big toe pains violently, almost like an ulcer, on slight pressure.
545. A corn that has hitherto been painless commences to have burning and shooting pains, at a slight external pressure.
 Extreme sensitiveness and irritability of the nerves in various parts, e. g., on the septum of the nose.
 Great irritability of the nerves; every impression on body and mind excites the nervous system to a sort of internal tremor.

- Drawing pain in the limbs, with paralytic sensation, especially in the thighs and legs.
 Drawing pain in the shoulder-joints, the hips, and especially the knees.
550. Drawing pain in the gastric region and in the back.
 Stitches in the joints, both when at rest and in motion.
The pains are worst at night.
 Aggravations of the pain during the nocturnal fever, chiefly during the chill.
 Sensitiveness to the open air, with chilliness and frequent nausea.
555. Even a slight wetting of the body causes painful throbbing, here and there.
 When walking in the open air, trembling in the knees, with anxiety, heat in the whole body and burning of the soles of the feet.
 In the forenoon, several shivers run all over him, in the open air.
 Fine, stinging itching.
 Constant dull itching in the sole of the feet and in the palm.
560. Burning itching on the body, chiefly in the morning on rising, with white blisters after scratching, which exude a white fluid and then soon pass away.
 Eruption of pimples as large as peas, here and there on the body.
 Nettle-rash, e. g., on the wrist.
Cracked skin and chaps on the hands and feet.
 Unwholesome, festering skin; even slight lesions fester and suppurate.
565. The part affected with an ulcer (the leg) cannot endure a pendent position.
Eroding pain in the ulcer.
 An itching erosion in the ulcer.
 Severe stitches in the ulcer, when laughing.
 Burning and throbbing in the ulcer, at night.
570. Inflammation of the affected part.
 Sour-smelling pus from the ulcer.
Bleeding of the ulcer, even when wiping it gently.
 The wart is inflamed, and there are stitches in it, as if it would ulcerate.
 Yellowish skin and yellow complexion.
575. An attack of jaundice; the urine is blood-red and the white of the eye yellowish.
 Emaciation with chilliness in the back, redness of the cheeks, insomnia; the larynx is much affected, with hoarse, weary voice, anguish, distress, and extreme irritability as in a hectic fever.
 Great heaviness in the body; he does not know what ails him.
 She feels heavy in all her limbs, as if she would have a cold.
 Languor and bruised feeling in all the limbs.
580. Very tired and indolent, in the morning on awaking, so that she can hardly rise from her bed.

Lassitude in the morning, after rising from bed, so that she can hardly stand upright, continuing all day, with drowsiness.

He remains long in bed in the morning, tired and slumbering.

In the morning in bed, weariness, restlessness in the legs, with stoppage of the nose.

Very tired and heavy in the body, in the morning on rising from bed, after a sound sleep.

585. Great weariness and palpitation, early on awaking.

Great lassitude in the evening, with lack of tone and palpitation.

Lassitude on walking in the open air, after a meal, with stretching in all the limbs, as if he were about to have ague; on continuing to walk, a cold sweat came over him; and in the evening in bed, a sensation of heat, so that he did not fall asleep until two A. M.

Toward evening, from a slight pain, sudden severe syncope.

Much stretching and extension of the limbs every day.

590. Frequent yawning, causing pain in the chest.

Incessant yawning, from morning till noon.

Great drowsiness toward evening, with frequent, violent, almost convulsive yawning, so that he could hardly keep from lying down.

So sleepy and tired in the evening, that he fell asleep while sitting.

Great, irresistible somnolence, in the evening; he has to lie down immediately after supper and he sleeps till morning.

595. Difficulty in going to sleep, and restless sleep.

Sleeplessness after midnight.

No sound sleep at night, only slumber.

Exuberance of ideas does not allow him to sleep after midnight.

After a lively evening's entertainment, he cannot sleep all the night.

600. In a long solid sleep, thoughts about his work kept revolving in his head, as if clouds were passing through.

For several days he was in a slumberous sleep, with constant dreaming about his daily business and many thoughts, which like clouds passed through his mind; at times he would wake up not ill-humored, give correct answers, satisfy his needs, and at once go to sleep again.

Too long and stupid a sleep, and then obtuseness of the head, as if full and stolid, with pressure in the temples, ailments as if from a spoiled stomach, eructation with the taste of the ingesta, and scraping in the throat, as if a rancid heartburn was coming.

Dreams, full of scolding.

Vexatious dreams.

605. Many dreams, at once on going to sleep, and anxiety all the night through, without awaking.

Dreams about dangerous affairs, fright and terror.

Anxious dreams, with sweat on the back on awaking.

Dreams he is vomiting pus and blood.

- Anxious dreams of a conflagration; he feels as if falling, etc.
610. Dreams of escaping a danger.
Dreams that he hears shooting.
Heavy dreams, leaving behind them on awaking a state of fright.
Violent starting up in affright on going to sleep, also after a meal.
Before midnight, he sprang up out of sleep, called for help, and felt as if he could not get his breath.
615. On lying down at 10 P. M., great anxiety and restlessness in the whole body, with painful jerking of the lower limbs, which she had to keep moving for several hours; two evenings in succession.
At night, restlessness in the lower limbs, and trembling of the same.
Nocturnal nausea and vomiting.
She wakes up about midnight, with tickling in the throat, compelling her to cough and to expectorate.
He often awakes at night, with an erection and an urging to urinate.
620. At night cramp in the thigh, extending down into the foot.
In the morning in bed, cramp of the calves.
On awaking at night, though he has always been accustomed to sleep on the right side, he always finds himself lying on the back.
At night, the side on which he is lying after awhile pains him intolerably; he has to turn over.
He cannot sleep at night, for ebullition of blood.
625. At night, sleeplessness and a shaking chill for hours, so that he cannot get warm; without any subsequent heat.
Chilliness of the arms and legs, in the morning.
Chilliness; she seeks the warmth of the stove. [Stf.]
Chilliness, with frequent nausea and sensitiveness to the open air.
Chilliness in the open air; a disagreeable, painful sensation presses her quite down, so that she has to walk stooping forward. [Stf.]
630. Rigor.
Frequent shivering, extending up to the hairy scalp, where the hairs felt painful.
Rigor for an hour (aft. 10 min.).
Every evening, about six or seven o'clock, a severe chill, not followed by heat.
In the evening, at eight o'clock, severe chill, with chattering of the teeth, for a quarter of an hour, with coldness of the hands and feet, then heat with sweat, especially on the chest and forehead, with slight thirst.
635. He awakes at 2 A. M. with a febrile rigor and hot, dry skin; from time to time a shivering ague, from the nape down the back and over the chest; then some sleep, from which he awakes in a gentle perspiration, with a pressive pain in the back, as also in and beside the hips and in the abdomen, with inclination to vomit.

In the evening, at six o'clock, fever, languor, weariness, slow pulse, chill (aft. 30 h.).

Nocturnal febrile rigor, so that he cannot get warm, not followed by heat.

During nocturnal febrile rigor, the pains present are aggravated.

Chilliness in the back, with redness of the cheeks, insomnia, while the larynx is much affected; hoarse, tired voice, anguish, apprehensiveness, extreme excitability and emaciation, as in a hectic fever.

640. Fever; now chills, now heat with photophobia.

Fever in the morning; first a bitter taste in the mouth, then after some hours a chill with thirst; and after an hour, much heat with interrupted sleep; all of this recurred twice more during the same day.

Burning fever-heat, with almost unquenchable thirst, tormenting headache, and low, delirious talk from 4 P. M. onward through the night, for three successive evenings. [HINZE, l. c.]

At night, dry heat of the body, with perspiration on the hands, which do not bear to be uncovered.

Fever, with severe, oft-repeated vomiting of green, excessively acrid water, and tenacious mucus, with constant nausea. [HINZE, l. c.<sup>1</sup>]

645. Perspiration frequently runs all over the body, only transiently and without heat.

He perspires very readily during every, even slight, movement.

Profuse sweat, day and night. [Fr. H.]

He even perspires, if he only writes a few lines. [Fr. H.]

At night, sweat from midnight onward, then a chill while still in bed, and after rising; every morning.

650. Night-sweat,

Night-sweat about midnight, especially on the back.

Night-sweat, immediately on lying down, especially on the head, so that beads of sweat stood on the face.

Night-sweat, before midnight.

Night-sweat on the whole body, while awake.

655. At night, profuse sweat, most of the night, or at least constant exhalation.

Sweat in bed, after midnight.

In the morning, profuse sweat all over the body.

In the morning, profuse, continued sweat only on the head.

Disagreeably smelling, continued exhalation of the body.

660. Sour-smelling, profuse sweat, at night.

Clammy, profuse sweat at night.

<sup>1</sup> Together with S. 237.—Hughes.

IODIUM. IODINE.

Iodine is obtained from various kinds of sea-wrack (fucus, seaweed), by leaching the ashes, and then crystallizing the salts contained in it that can be crystallized; the residual uncrystallizable lye, consisting of iodide of sodium, is then evaporated and allowed to stand in a warm place mixed with strong sulphuric acid, in order to remove from it all muriatic acid; then manganese is added and the mass is strongly heated in a retort, whereby the iodine is separated, rising as a violet-colored vapor, which is condensed on the upper part of the retort in bluish-brown scales or leaflets. One grain of this is prepared for the homœopathic dynamization and brought up to the thirtieth potency in the manner prescribed for dry drugs at the conclusion of the first part of this work.

Even in the higher and the highest degrees of dynamization iodine is a very heroic medicine, which calls for every precaution of the good homœopathic physician; when misapplied in allopathic hands, iodine is frequently seen to cause the most fearful destruction of the body and life of patients.

Iodine has been of service especially when the following states were at the same time present:

Dizziness in the morning; throbbing in the head; excoriation of the eyes; humming before the ears; hardness of hearing; a coated tongue; mercurial salivation; bad, soapy taste; sourish eructation, with burning; heartburn after heavy viands; voracious hunger; nausea; incarceration of flatus; inflation of the abdomen; constipation; micturition at night; delay in the menses; cough; inveterate morning cough; difficulty in breathing; external swelling of the neck; weariness of the arms in the morning, in bed; the fingers go to sleep; curvature of the bones; dryness of the skin; night-sweats.

The abbreviations of the names of my fellow-observers are: Gff., Dr. Augustus Baron von Gersdorff; Gr., Dr. Gross; Htb. u. Tr., Drs. Hartlaub and Trinks, in their Reine Arzneimittellehre; and S. (Schreter?).

IODIUM.

Dejection. [KÜENZLI, ueber d. Iod. Winterth., 1826; MAT-

---

In the first edition of this work (1828) Hahnemann published a list of 153 symptoms, as observed by himself from iodine. In 1829, in the second volume of their Reine Arzneimittellehre, Hartlaub and Trinks gave a list of 516, mainly taken from authors, but including also some symptoms from themselves and Schreter. These, with a few additions from v. Gersdorff and Gross, presumably obtained from the thirtieth dilution, constitute the present pathogenesis.—Hughes.

THEY, in Gilbert's Annal., 1821; GAIRDNER, Essay on the Eff. of Iod., etc.; RICHTER, spec. Arzeim.-Lehre, Vol. X.<sup>1</sup>

Gloomy mood. [S.]

Sad, melancholy mood. [FERROT, in med. Annal.; v. PIERRER, 1821, Hft. IX.<sup>2</sup>

Hypochondriac mood. [GAIRDNER.]

5. Sadness. [KOLLEY, in Hufel. Journ., 1824, Febr.<sup>3</sup>

Very ill-humored and sensitive during the whole period of digestion, from noon till evening, with an oppressive sensation in the throat and chest, as when one is about to weep. [Gff.]

Oppression of the chest. [Htb; GRAEFE, Journ. f. Chir. u. Augenheilkunde, II., 617.<sup>4</sup>

Constant inclination to weeping. [PERROT.]

Now disposed to weep, then again inclined to be glad. [VOGT, Pharmak., 1828.<sup>5</sup>

10. Apprehensiveness after some manual work; it goes off while sitting.

Anxiety. [GAIRDNER; KUENZLI; RICHTER; GRAEFE; KOLLEY.]

Anxious oppression. [MASSALIEN, in Rust's Magazin XIV., p. 379.]

Great anxiety. [NEUMANN, in Hufel. Journ. LV., St. 1.]

Great anxiety and oppression. [GAIRDNER.]

15. Oppression, and tightness of the chest. [VOIGT.]

Anxiety and dejection; the patients generally busy themselves with the present. [GAIRDNER.]

Restless moving about; she runs about incessantly and does not get to sit down, nor does she sleep at night, so that she has to be considered as crazy [Gr.]

Restlessness, which keeps the body in constant activity. [KOLLEY.]

Restlessness. [GRAEFE; Med. chir. Zeit., 1825, Bd. I., p. 310.<sup>6</sup>

20. Aversion to sitting still.

He is afraid at every trifle, that one or another mishap may rise from it.

Discouragement. [KUENZLI.]

Discouragement and despondency, which continues also during the pains in a very depressing manner. [GAIRDNER.<sup>7</sup>

Aversion to work.

25. He feels unable to do anything.

Her phlegmatic disposition has disappeared; she has become blooming, stronger and more lively. [HENNING, in Hufel. Journ., Bd. LVII, St. 3, p. 90.<sup>8</sup>

Peevish, cross, she is not suited by anything. [S.]

<sup>1</sup> To Kuenzli—Not accessible. To Matthey—"From the tincture in a goitrous subject." To Gairdner—"Observations on patients." To Richter—"General statement from authors."—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup> Not accessible.—Hughes.

<sup>3</sup> Not found at reference.—Hughes.

<sup>4</sup> To Graefe—Effects when given in scrofula.—Hughes.

<sup>5</sup> General statement from authors.—Hughes.

<sup>6</sup> Observations on patients.—Hughes.

<sup>7</sup> In the original—"Sense of sinking and faintness, which were peculiarly oppressive, and were complained of during intense pain as the thing most difficult to bear."—Hughes.

<sup>8</sup> Observation.—Hughes.

Inordinately great irritability to anger.

Increased sensation and irritability. [FORNEY, in Hufel.

Journ. LII., St. 2.<sup>1</sup>]

30. Sensitiveness to noise.

Increased sensitiveness to external impressions. [VOIGT.]

The mind and nervous system is affected. [VOIGT; PERROT.]

Unusual excitement of the nervous system. [Hufel. Journ.

LVII., St. 6.<sup>2</sup>]

Excessively merry and loquacious; she does not give any one a chance to say a word. [Gr.]

35. Illusions of the sense of touch. [GAIRDNER; KUENZLI; RICHTER.]

Delirium. [NEUMANN, l. c.]

Fixed, immovable thoughts (21st d.).

Obtuseness of the head, which renders thinking more difficult. [Gff.]

Obtuseness of the head, with great disinclination to serious employment. [Gff.]

40. Obtuseness of the head. [KOLLEY.]

Sense of obtuseness of the head, which seems to draw up the back to the nape of the head. [JOERG; Mater. z. e. k. Heilm. Lehre, Leipzig, 1825, Bd. I.<sup>3</sup>]

Obtuseness of the head, which passes over into a pressive headache (aft. 1 h.). [JOERG.]

Slightly muddled feeling in the head, with pressure in the right half of the forehead, with great hunger (aft. 1 or 2 h.). [JOERG.]

Vertigo. [RICHTER; SCHMIDT, in Rust's Magaz., Bd. XVI.,

St. 3, p. 430.<sup>4</sup>]

45. Vertigo, drawing the person forward. [S.]

Vertigo, with lassitude, in the morning. [S.]

Headache. [PERROT; Med. chir. Ztg.]

Headache, so violent that he becomes quite frantic. [KOLLEY.]

Transient, quickly passing pain in the occiput. [JOERG.]

50. Headache in the warm air, when driving far or walking fast.

Headache in the forehead and in the upper part of the head, aggravated by every noise or talking.

Headache, as if a bandage was firmly tied around the head.

Headache in the forehead; the brain is as if bruised and extremely sensitive; the whole body, and especially the arms, are without strength, and, as it were, paralyzed; he has to lie down; attended with eructations and painful sensitiveness of the outside of the head when touched; the following day there is still obtuseness of the head and painfulness of the brain, when moved (aft. 26 d.).

Pressure on a small spot in the forehead, just above the root of the nose. [Gff.]

55. Pressive headache, especially in the left side toward the forehead, frequently recurring. [JOERG.]

<sup>1</sup> From tincture in a goitrous subject.—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup> The citations from Hufeland's Journal are all as S. 29, save where otherwise specified.—

Hughes.

<sup>3</sup> Proving on several healthy persons with moderate doses.—Hughes.

<sup>4</sup> Observations on patients.—Hughes.

- Pressure in the region of the crown, for ten minutes. [JOERG.]
 Pressive headache, especially in the temples, alternately disappearing and recurring. [JOERG.]
 Pressive pain in the occiput, slight while at rest, but violent when moving, and finally passing into a sensation of weary waste in the head (1st d.). [JOERG.]
 Pressive headache above the eyes, toward evening. [S.]
60. Violent pressive pain on the lower surface of the occiput, in the afternoon, in the open air. [JOERG.]
 Sharp pressive pain on the left side of the upper part of the head, above the forehead. [Gff.]
 Drawing pressure in the left upper half of the head, extending to the temple. [Gff.]
 Pressive and at times shooting headache. [JOERG.]
 Drawing pain in the left side of the head, extending into the teeth. [S.]
65. Tearing, first in the left, then in the right temporal region, almost at the same time. [Gff.]
 Tearing headache above the left eye and in the temple. [S.]
 Pressive tearing on the right side above the forehead. [Gff.]
 Stitches in the occiput, relieved by lying down.
 Stitches in the upper part of the head (aft. 3 d.).
70. Throbbing in the forehead without pain.
 Beating in the head at every motion (aft. 24 h.).
 Rush of blood to the head [Hufel. Journ., 1. c.]
 The rush of blood to the head is aggravated with those who are disposed to it. [KOLLEY.]
 Rush of blood to the head, and afterward at 2 P. M. headache for half an hour, returning at 5 o'clock. [JOERG.]
75. External headache in the forehead, as if festering underneath.
 Smarting, sore sensation on the right side of the occiput, above the ear, posteriorly, in the skin. [Gff.]
 The hair falls out.
 Rapid falling out of the hair. [S.]
 Eyeache in the orbits. [Med. chir. Ztg.]
80. Pressure in the eyes as if there was sand in them. [S.]
 Pressure in the eyes. [Gff.]
 Tension above the right eye, with some inflammation of the eyes. [S.]
 Tearing about the right eye, especially below it.
 Stitches in the upper part of the left eyeball.
85. Cutting stitches in the left eye, toward the outer canthus.
 Itching in the canthi.
 Itching on the eyelids. [S.]
 Redness and swelling of the eyelids, with nightly agglutination. [S.]
 Inflammation of the eyes.
90. Watery, white swelling of the eyelids. [Hufel. Journ.]
 Dirty yellow color of the white of the eye, traversed by injected veinlets. [S.]
 Sensation of weariness about the eyes, as if they lay deep in, especially in the afternoon. [Gff.]

- Lachrymation of the eyes. [Hufel. Journ.; KUENZLI.]
 Flow of tears. [KOLLEY.]
95. Twitching in the eyes (aft. sever. h.).
 Constant twitching to and fro of the lower eyelid.
 Quivering of the eyelids. [KUENZLI.]
 Dimness of the vision. [Med. chir. Zeit.]
 The light seems to her weaker and more indistinct. [S.]
100. Objects appear to her as through a veil. [S.]
 Obscuration of the vision. [GAIRDNER; KUENZLI;
 RICHTER.]
 Weakness of vision. [FORNEY; SCHNEIDER; VOIGT.]
 Weakened, diminished visual power. [Hufel. Journ.]
 At times she sees objects multiplied and cannot clearly distinguish them. [S.]
105. Dark ringlets float down before the eyes, to the side and close to the visual axis (aft. 16 h.).
 Flickering before the eyes at times. [S.]
 She cannot do fine sewing, because the stitches flit before her eyes. [S.]
 Sparks before the eyes. [S.]
 Fiery, crooked rays dart down frequently obliquely to the visual direction, and also at a slight distance from the focus of the ray, round about the eye, but more in an upward direction. (aft. 24 h.).
110. Otagia in the left ear. [Gff.]
 Straining pain in the right ear. [Gff.]
 Tearing pressure in the pit under the right ear and beside it on the neck. [Gff.]
 Small, yellow scurf on the concha. [Htb.]
 Sensitiveness of the hearing to noise (4th d.).
115. Hardness of hearing. [GAIRDNER; KUENZLI; RICHTER.]
 Frequent din in the right ear, as in a mill. [S.]
 The nose is painful in its lower part, when he blows it, without coryza. [Gff.]
 Itching shooting, anteriorly, on the septum of the nose.
 A red, burning spot on the nose, below the eye. [S.]
120. An itching elevation on the nose.
 A small scab in the right nostril. [S.]
 Bleeding of the nose when blowing it. [S.]
 Profuse epistaxis. [Htb.]
 The color of the face is changed. [KUENZLI]
125. Pale contracted face. [GAIRDNER.]
 Paleness of the face. [KOLLEY; KUENZLI.]
 Paleness of the face of long duration. [COINDET, in Hufel. Journ. LIV., A.<sup>1</sup>]
 Pale (ghostlike?) appearance. [Trs.]
 Yellow complexion. [Rust's Magaz.; NEUMANN.]
130. The yellowness of the complexion diminishes; it becomes whiter (curative action). [Htb.]
 The face, which before was yellow, becomes brown so quickly, that in a few days the skin of a woman of twenty-eight looked as if it was smoked. [VOGEL.<sup>1</sup>]

<sup>1</sup> Symptoms of iodic saturation.—Hughes.

Peculiar alteration of the features. [BAUP, in Hufel. Jour.<sup>2</sup>]

Change in the features. [Hufel. Journ.]

Eyes sunken. [Trs.]

135. Twitching of the facial muscles. [Hufel. Journ.; SCHMIDT.]

Suppurating ulcer on the left cheek, with swelling of the circumjacent glands, and a firm lump on the ulcerated spot, which was slow in dispersing; soon after, a second ulcer by the side of the first, which, however, healed more quickly. [Htb.]

Pressive pain in the right upper jaw. [Gff.]

The submaxillary glands are swollen, without pain (2d d.). [Htb.]

Toothache, with presive pain, now here, now there, on the right side and the left, in the molars. [Gff.]

140. Squeezing toothache in the right posterior molars. [Gff.]

Drawing pain in the teeth on the right side, toward the ear, attended with shooting pain. [S.]

Cutting drawing and sensation of soreness, now on the left, now on the right side, in the roots or the gums of the lower incisors. [Gff.]

Pain from looseness of the teeth and in the gums, while eating.

The teeth in the morning are more covered with mucus, are yellower and are more quickly dulled by weak vegetable acids. [JOERG.]

145. The gums are painful when touched.

The gums are redder. [JOERG.]

Inflammation and swelling of the gums. [Med. chir. Ztg.]

Bleeding of the gums. [Gff.]

Gumboil on the gums of a lower, hollow molar, with swelling of the cheek, extending up to below the eye.

150. In the mouth there appear, from time to time, vesicles, with swelling of the gums. [Htb.]

Aphthæ in the mouth, with pyalism. [VOIGT.]

Small elevations on the inner side of the right cheek, at first only painful, with sore, pressive pain when touched; but after a few days they sting and cut like an ulcer, especially on widely opening the mouth, in eating and in reading aloud; the parts around are also inflamed. [Gff.]

The glands on the inner side of the cheeks are acutely painful, as if there was strong vinegar in the mouth. [Htb.]

Smarting and pinching on the tonsils (at once). [JOERG.]

155. Putrid smell in the mouth, even in the morning when fasting, immediately after rinsing it with clean water. [Gff.]

The tongue is disagreeably dry. [RICHTER.]

Coated tongue. [Trs.; RICHTER.]

The tongue is coated thickly, the coating being of the same color as the substances thrown up. [GAIRDNER]

<sup>1</sup> From tincture in a goitrous subject.—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup> From tincture in a goitrous subject.—Hughes.

- Pressure in the left half of the palate. [Gff.]
160. Swelling and elongation of the uvula, with much spitting.
The throat is strongly constricted. [S.]
Sensation of constriction in the fauces. [PERROT.]
Tormenting constriction of the throat. [Hufel. Journ.]
Impeding deglutition, while drinking (water), as if the œsophagus was constricted and too weak to press down the beverage.
165. Sensation of fullness in the throat (6th d.).
Pain in the œsophagus, increased by pressing on the larynx.
[RICHTER.]
Pressive pain on the right side of the throat, more while not swallowing.
Tearing in the throat, above the larynx. [Gff.]
Shooting pain in the throat, as if it was in the larynx; also somewhat noticeable while swallowing.
170. Tickling formication in the throat, in the region of the larynx, in the morning, in bed. [Gff.]
Disagreeable scraping in the fauces, with frequent secretion of saliva. [JOERG.]
Quickly passing burning and scraping in the fauces. [JOERG.]
Burning and sensation of heat in the fauces. [Med. chir. Ztg.]
Inflammation of the fauces and ulcers therein. [PERROT.]
175. Increased secretion of saliva, [RICHTER; KUENZLI; VOIGT.]
Increased secretion of saliva, compelling frequent spitting, for several days. [JOERG]
Frequently, much watery saliva in the mouth. [Htb.]
Very bad taste in the mouth, especially when the stomach is quite empty or quite full. [Htb.]
Abominable taste in the mouth. [Htb.]
180. Salty taste in the mouth (1st and 2d d.). [JOERG.]
Bitter taste in the mouth. [JOERG.]
Bitter taste in the afternoon; the sweet plums have a bitter taste to her. [S.]
Sourish, offensive taste in the mouth, all the day, especially while smoking. [Htb.]
Sweet taste on the tip of the tongue (6th d.).
185. Thirst. [BAUP; KUENZLI.]
Much thirst, day and night (aft. 24 h.).
Very much thirst, day and night. [JOERG.]
Unusual, increased thirst. [JOERG; NEUMANN.]
Violent thirst. [PERROT.]
190. Distressing thirst. [GAIRDNER.]
The appetite is diminished. [HENNING; RICHTER; GOEDEN, in Hufel. Journ.]
Diminished appetite. [HELLING and SUTTINGER, in Rust's Magaz. XVI., 112.<sup>1</sup>]
Lack of appetite. [NEUMANN.]

<sup>1</sup> From tincture in a goitrous subject.—Hughes.

- Total lack of appetite and of sleep. [Hufel. Journ..]
195. Increased appetite. (Trs.; KUENZLI; BAUP; RICHTER and others.)
Continued increase of appetite. [MATTHEY; COINDET.]
Unusual hunger. [JOERG.]
 Gnawing hunger (aft. 3 h.). [JOERG.]
 Violent hunger. [MUHRBECK, in Hufel. Journ. LIV., D. 63.<sup>1</sup>]
200. Wild appetite. [BAUP.]
Voracity. [Med. chir. Ztg..]
Appetite increased even to rabid hunger. [VOIGT.]
Ravenous hunger, she cannot be satiated.
 Ravenous hunger, she would like to eat again directly after a meal; she also feels much better when she has eaten to full satiety. [S.]
205. If he does not eat something every three or four hours, he feels anxious; but he dare not eat too much.
 The whole digestion proceeds more rapidly and regularly, with normal stools. [VOIGT.]
 Varying appetite, now voracious hunger, then no appetite. [VOIGT.]
Great weakness of digestion. [GOEDER; MASSALIEU; ROECHLING, in Rust's Magaz. XV., 137.<sup>2</sup>]
 After dinner, feeling of weakness and general malaise. [Gff.]
210. Eructation. [Htb.; VOIGT.]
 Eructation, with the smell of medicine. [JOERG.]
 Continued empty eructation, from morning till evening, as if everything partaken of changed into air.
 Hiccup. [MATTHEY.]
 Qualmishness in the pit of the stomach, every day; it goes off after eating; it lay heavy on the stomach.
215. Nausea. [GRAEFE; HENNING; PERROT.]
 Nausea in the morning, at once after rising, with spasmodic pain in the stomach. [S.]
 Inclination to vomit. [VOIGT.]
 Fits of inclination to vomit, with heartburn, with a sensation as of a spoiled stomach.
Vomiting. [KUENLI; MATTHEY and others.]
220. Violent vomiting. [GAIRDNER.]
 Violent, incessant vomiting. [Trs.]
 Obstinate vomiting, which especially comes on readily after eating. [GAIRDNER.]
 Incessant vomiting with diarrhoea. [GAIRDNER.]
 Yellowish, salty vomiting. [Htb.]
225. Vomiting of bile. [Htb.; VOIGT.]
 The secretion of bile is increased. [RICHTER.]
 Increased secretion of the gastric and pancreatic juices. [RICHTER.]
 Stomach troubles with constipation. [Trs.]
Pains in the stomach. [KUENZLI; RICHTER and others.]

<sup>1</sup> Effects when given for glandular indurations.—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup> Observations on patients.—Hughes.

230. Pains above the stomach. [ORFILA, Texicol. II.<sup>1</sup>]
 Stomachache in the morning, going off after eructation. [S.]
 The most violent stomachache. [KOLLEY.]
 Extraordinary pain in the stomach and the bowels. [Trs.]
 The most excruciating pain in the stomach. [GAIRDNER.]
235. Pains in the stomach, with profuse bilious evacuations. [Trs.]
 Violent pains in the stomach and in the fauces which were tense and obstructed and did not bear touching. [PERROT.]
 Pressure in the gastric region, increased every time he eats.
 [VOGEL, in Rust's Magaz.]
 Fullness and inflation in the stomach, with quivering and increased warmth in the abdominal cavity, and forcing from there to the periphery of the body, as if sweat would break out. [JOERG.]
 Tension in the stomach and abdomen, after previous movements there. [JOERG.]
240. Cramp-pain in the stomach. [PERROT.]
 Cramps in the stomach, frequently recurring. [GAIRDNER.]
 Gnawing pain in the upper part of the stomach. [GAIRDNER.]
 Gnawing corroding pains in the stomach. [MATTHEY.]
 Stitches in the pit of the stomach (aft. 5 d.).
245. Sharp pricking as with needles, in the upper border of the pit of the stomach. [Gff.]
 Throbbing in the pit of the stomach. [PERROT.]
 Increased warmth in the gastric region. [JOERG.]
 Burning in the stomach. [LOCHER-BALBER, in Hecker's
Annal. I., 275.<sup>2</sup>]
 Burning in the pit of the stomach.
250. Inflammation of the stomach, in the region of the pylorus.
 [PERROT.]
 Small, linear ulcers in the stomach, which corroded the mucous membrane, which near the pylorus was inflamed, swollen and covered with a crust of coagulated lymph; in animals. [Htb.
 and Tr.]
 The pain in the region of the liver and the pit of the stomach is diminished (curative action). [S.]
 Pressure in the right hypochondrium. [Gff.]
 Pressure in the hepatic region, which also pains when touched.
 [Gff.]
255. Pressure and stitches in the hepatic region. [SUTTINGER.]
 Squeezing and dull cutting in the hepatic region. [Gff.]
 The left hypochondriacal region is hard and pains acutely when pressed upon. [S.]
 Single impulses of sore pressure in the region of the left hypo-chondrium. [Gff.]
 Sharp shooting pain in the left hypochondrium, as from incarcerated flatus. [Gff.]
260. Abdominal pains in the epigastrical region. [Htb.]
 Great painfulness of the whole abdomen, as if from an inflammation of the mesenteric glands. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Pain in the hypogastrium, extending into the spine.

<sup>1</sup> From swallowing 20-30 centigrammes in substance.—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup> Effects on patients.—Hughes.

- Pressive pain in the epigastrium, between the scrobiculus cordis and the navel. [Gff.]
- Pressure in the abdomen, beside the right hip. [Gff.]
265. Pressure in the hypogastrium, in frequent paroxysms, chiefly when sitting, and gradually relieved by stretching; for several days in succession.
- Inflation in the epigastrium, with sharp pressure here and there, as from flatulence, from dinner time, all through the period of digestion. [Gff.]
- Swollen abdomen, very much distended; she could not lie horizontally without danger of suffocating. [NEUMANN.]
- Painful tension in the abdomen, with sensation of unusual pressing. [Hufel. Journ.]
- A drawing cramp-pain in the epigastrium, starting from the scrobiculus cordis. [Gff.]
270. Colic pains. [RICHTER.]
- Pains in the abdomen, like colic. [Htb.]
- Pinching and pressive pain in the abdomen.
- Cutting in the umbilical region, with pappy stool. [JOERG.]
- Violent cutting in the umbilical region, with call to stool. [JOERG.]
275. Drawing and pressure in the right renal region. [Gff.]
- Burning tearing in the left side of the abdomen. near the hip. [Gff.]
- Stitches in the side of the abdomen.
- Sharp shooting pain in the left hypogastrium.
- Throbbing in the abdomen. [Rust's Magaz.]
280. Frequent straining and pressing toward the lower opening of the pelvis, with frequent diarrhœic stools. [JOERG.]
- The abdominal troubles return, especially after partaking of food. [RICHTER.]
- The abdominal symptoms recur for several days, even weeks and months, on partaking of food. [Tvs.]
- Abdominal dropsy. [NEUMANN.]
- In the right inguinal region, pressure. [Gff.]
285. The glandular swellings in the inguinal region disappear (curative action). [MARTINI, in Rust's Magaz. XXIII., 180.<sup>1</sup>]
- The hernial region becomes inflamed from the (usual) truss (6th d.).
- In the morning, during inspiration, there is a tangible and audible rumbling on the side of the inguinal hernia.
- Obstruction of flatulence, in the left side of the abdomen.
- Pressing movements in the abdomen, from the stomach to the hypogastrium, chiefly toward the os pubis, the bladder and the testes, rarely with oppression toward the chest, sometimes attended with cutting. [JOERG.]
290. Rumbling in the abdomen, frequent. [JOERG.]
- Rumbling and noises in the intestines. [JOERG.]
- Discharge of flatus and stool, with slight cutting in the abdomen. [KUENZLI.]

<sup>1</sup> Effects on patients.—Hughes.

- Increased emission of flatus. [RICHTER.]
 Emission of flatus, with a smell of rotten eggs. [JOERG.]
295. Increase of the peristaltic motion of the bowels. [KUENZLI.]
 Urging to stool, without evacuation; this only results after drinking cold milk, and then it comes easy and without any effort. [S.]
 Indolent stool. [NEUMANN.]
 Difficult stool.
 Constipation, sometimes of long duration. [GAIRDNER.]
300. Obstinate constipation. [Trs.]
 Hard, knotty, dark-colored evacuation. [Trs.]
 Irregular stool; at one time constipation, then diarrhœa. [VOIGT.]
 Irregular stool; at one time constipation, then diarrhœa, with distension of the abdomen, rumbling and grumbling in it and torments from flatulence. [GOEDEN.]
 At times, obstinate constipation, then again violent diarrhœa. [Trs.]
305. Several whitish stools during the day, softer than usual. [S.]
 Increased evacuations. [RICHTER.]
 Four times, pappy stools during the day, succeeded every time by burning in the anus. [JOERG.]
 Copious papescient evacuations, [JOERG.]
 Inclination to diarrhœas. [Hufel. Journ.]
310. Diarrhœic stools. [BAUP; KUENZLI; RICHTER.]
 Diarrhœic stool. [JOERG.]
 Diarrhœa, which through its long duration is very exhausting. [SUTTINGER.]
 Diarrhœa, in the morning. [Htb.]
 Violent attacks of diarrhœa, with colic. [GAIRDNER.]
315. Frequent diarrhœic stools, with pressing and straining toward the hypogastrium. [JOERG.]
 Pappy stool, with cutting in the umbilical region. [JOERG.]
 Violent diarrhœa of a watery, foaming, whitish mucus, with pinching about the navel, and pressure on the crown of the head. [S.]
 Evacuations of thick mucus or of pus, while the fœces are retained, like a sort of dysentery. [Trs.]
 Bloody, slimy, fetid, diarrhœic stools. [GAIRDNER.]
320. After the stool, in the morning, which was rather hard than soft, pressure in the hypogastrium. [Gff.]
 Pressure in the rectum, in the evening in bed (aft. 36 h.).
 Violent itching on the anus.
 Violent itching on the anus, as from ascarides. [S.]
 Small, straining stitches in the anus, when sitting. [Htb.]
325. Excoriation in the rectum, after a normal stool.
 Frequent excoriation, itching and burning on the anus.
Burning of the anus, in the evening.
 The secretion of urine is obstinately suppressed. [Trs.]
 She passes hardly any urine, and that little is red (aft. 48 h.).
330. Scanty passage of very dark-colored urine. [NEUMANN.]
 Frequent call to urinate, with little secretion. [JOERG.]

- Incessant urging to urinate. [Hufel. Journ.]
 Frequent micturition, with urging. [S.]
 Increased secretion of urine. [RICHTER.]
335. Copious and frequent passage of light-yellow, watery urine.
 [JOERG.]
 Increased secretion of a thickish urine, with very dark sediment. [JOERG.]
 Involuntary micturition (af. 3 d.).
 Dark, turbid, sometimes milky urine. [Gff.]
 Dark urine of yellowish-green color. [JOERG.]
340. Ammoniacal smell of the urine. [JOERG.]
 Urine which smarts and corrodes, when passed.
 Itching erosion in the orifice of the urethra.
 Keen cutting in the orifice of the urethra, when not urinating.
 [Gff.]
 Pricking, as from needles, in front in the orifice of the urethra (aft. 16 d.).
345. In the penis, anteriorly, very keen drawing; it is not manifest, whether it is more in the urethra or in the glans. [Gff.]
 Clucking tearing on the right side, close beside the penis.
 [Gff.]
 Pressive pain on the right side, close to the penis. [Gff.]
 Severe itching on the glans.
 Tickling in the glans, frequently recurring. [JOERG.]
350. Violent tickling on and below the glans. [Gff.]
 Cutting drawing in the corona glandis.
 Repeated pressing and straining down toward the testes.
 [JOERG.]
 One of the testes is closely drawn up to the belly.
 A painless swelling of the right testicle disperses, with violent itching and burning in it, and the breaking out of an ill-smelling sweat (curative action). [HENNING.]
355. The induration of the prostate gland is dispersed (curative action). [MARTINI.]
 Excitement of the sexual organs. [KUENZLI.]
 The sexual desire is startlingly increased. [Hufel. Journ.]
 Increased sexual instinct with men. [RICHTER.]
 Exaltation of the sexual instinct. [VOIGT.]
360. Erections take place slowly (5th d.)
 Severe straining in the hypogastrium toward the female sexual organs. [Hufel. Journ.]
 Labor-like spasms in the hypogastrium. [Hufel. Journ.]
 Dropsy of the ovaries quickly disappeared (curative action?).
 [Tvs.]
 Induration of the uterus quickly passes into uterine cancer.
 [GOELIS, in Salz. med. chir. Ztg., 1821, II., 272.<sup>1</sup>]
365. The induration of the uterus is diminished (curative action).
 [KLAPPROTH, Hufel Journ. LVII., F. 89.<sup>2</sup>]
 The cancerous degeneration in the neck of the uterus is

<sup>1</sup> Observation. The original is: "Scirrhus uteri quickly becomes open cancer."—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup> Observation.—Hughes.

- diminished (curative action). HENNEMANN, in Hufel. Journ. LVI., B. 3.<sup>1]</sup>
 Hysterical attacks of marriageable girls. [Trs.]
 The menses, which were flowing, ceased. [Gr.]
 The menses come too late by eight days, with vertigo and palpitation. [S.]
370. Irregular catamenia. [SUTTINGER.]
 Increased menstrual flow. [FRANK, in Rust's Magaz. XIII., 291.<sup>2]</sup>
 Unusually early, violent and profuse menstrual flow. [RICHTER.]
 It readily causes hemorrhages from the uterus. [FORMEY, in Hufel. Journ.<sup>3]</sup>
 Violent hemorrhage from the vagina. [Hufel. Journ.]
375. Violent hemorrhage from the vagina, for four weeks, in a plethoric woman of twenty-four years. [SCHMIDT.<sup>4]</sup>
 A uterine hemorrhage which came with every stool, with cutting in the abdomen and pains in the sacrum and the loins, ceases (curative action). [HENNEMANN]
 Before the menses, heat rises into the head, with palpitation and with tension about the neck which became thicker. [S.]
 The premonitory symptoms of the menses disappear, and the menses set in without any trouble. [HENNING.]
 During the (normal) menses, pains in the sacrum. [S.]
380. At the cessation of the menses, great weakness.
 During the menses, great weariness. [S.]
 The pains and derangements during the menses cease, and they proceed without any troubles. [WOLF, in Rust's Magaz. XIII., 292.<sup>5]</sup>
 After the menses, palpitation. [S.]
 The leucorrhœa ceases entirely (curative action). [KLAPP-ROTH.]
385. A very inveterate leucorrhœa disappears entirely (curative action). [MARTINI.]
 A long-continued leucorrhœa, strongest at the time of the menses, which excoriated the thighs and corroded the linen, disappeared entirely (curative action). [GOEDEN.]
 The corroding leucorrhœa becomes milder and more and more scanty (curative action). [KLAPPROTH.]
 * * * * *
 Sneezing without coryza, with immediate and considerable protrusion of the nasal mucus. [Gff.]
 Stoppage of the nostrils (aft. 28 h.).
390. Stuffed coryza, very frequent (chiefly in the evening); this in the open air becomes fluent with much expectoration.
 Fluent coryza, with much sneezing. [S.]
 Fluent coryza, like water.

<sup>1</sup> Observation.—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup> From tincture in a goitrous subject.—Hughes.

<sup>3</sup> From tincture in a goitrous subject.—Hughes.

<sup>4</sup> In a married woman, subject to such hemorrhages.—Hughes.

<sup>5</sup> Observations on patients.—Hughes.

- Increased secretion of mucus from the nose, for several days.
[JOERG.]
Much yellow mucus from blowing his nose.
395. Increased secretion of nasal mucus. [RICHTER.]
The larynx is painful. [VOGEL.]
Pain in the throat, with expectoration of indurated mucus.
[Htb.]
Pressure in the region of the larynx, extending to the œsophagus, as if these parts were swollen. [JOERG.]
Pressive pain, with shooting in the region of the larynx and of the sublingual glands, recurring several times in the same day.
[JOERG.]
400. Pressure in the throat, forcing him to hawk up much tenacious mucus. [Htb.]
On pressing on the larynx, increased pain of the œsophagus.
[RICHTER.]
Contraction and heat in the larynx. [Htb.]
Contraction and heat in the throat. [ORFILA.]
Sensation of soreness in the throat and the chest, in bed, with wheezing in the throat and drawing pain in the lungs, synchronous with the heart-beat. [Htb.]
405. Inflammation of the trachea. [Trs.]
Roughness of the windpipe, the whole day. [JOERG.]
Hoarseness. [COINDET.]
Hoarseness, in the morning. [S.]
Hoarseness, for more than two weeks. [Htb.]
410. Hoarseness in the morning, after rising, compelling him to hawk up tenacious mucus. [Htb.]
Hoarseness, the whole day. [JOERG.]
Deeper and quite deep voice.
Sensation, as if something lay in the larynx which he could eject by hawking, the whole day and the evening. [Htb.]
Intolerable crawling and tickling in the larynx, which can only be removed by hawking and coughing, with gathering of water in the mouth; in the morning, in bed. [Gff.]
415. Violent clearing of the throat (2d d.). [Htb.]
Frequent clearing of the throat, in the morning. [Htb.]
Increased secretion of mucus in the windpipe. [JOERG.]
More profuse secretion of the bronchial mucus. [RICHTER.]
Increased secretion of mucus in the throat, with hoarse voice.
[Gff.]
420. The secretion of mucus extends even to the Eustachian tube, and in the throat there remains a sort of soreness. [Htb.]
Expectoration of mucus from the throat, in the morning after rising, with a sensation of soreness therein.
Tenacious mucus accumulates profusely in the throat, in the evening. [Htb.]
Expectoration of tenacious mucus from the throat, with pressure there, as if there was something lodged in the way, which he thinks he might swallow down, in the morning. [Htb.]
A constant inclination to a troublesome hawking up of tenacious mucus from the windpipe, with crawling and shooting in

- the region of the larynx, now disappears quickly and permanently (curative effect). [MARTINI.]
425. Inclination to cough. [VOGEL.]
Irritation to cough, from a severe tickling in the throat. [S.]
Short cough, from tickling in the throat. [Gff.]
Cough, with exertions, so that she comes near vomiting; after expectoration of mucus it ceases. [S.]
Cough, with pressure and tightness of the chest. [VOIGT.]
430. Cough in the evening.
Frequent dry cough in the evening. [JOERG.]
Dry tussiculation. [GOELIS.]
Dry cough. [MATTHEY.]
Frequent dry cough. [COINDET.]
435. Much dry cough, with tightness, pressure and burning on the chest. [JOERG.]
Frequent deep, dry cough, caused by pressure in the chest. [JOERG.]
Deep, dry cough, with shooting in the chest. [JOERG.]
Occasional excitation to cough, with tenacious expectoration. [Htb.]
Short cough, from a tickling in the throat, with thick, yellow expectoration, with a good appetite, but a wretched appearance.
440. Cough, with expectoration of mucus, after previous heaviness, extending from the throat into the chest, impeding the breathing. [S.]
Rattling of the mucus on the chest, with roughness below the sternum and heaviness of the chest. [S.]
Expectoration of mucus from the chest. [Trs.]
Mucous expectoration, sometimes mixed with blood. [SCHNEIDER.<sup>1</sup>]
Expectoration streaked with blood. [GOELIS.]
445. Pulmonary consumption is increased. [GUENTHER, in Harless.<sup>2</sup>]
Pulmonary consumption. [CARMINATI, in Giern. di Fisica, Dec., 1821.<sup>3</sup>]
Severe respiratory trouble. [GOELIS.<sup>4</sup>]
Difficult breathing. [KUENZLI.]
Difficult breathing. [MATTHEY.]
450. Short breathing (5th d.).
Tightness of the chest. [KOLLEY.]
Asthma, with pains when breathing deeply, stronger and quicker heart-beat and smaller, more frequent pulse. [JOERG.]
Asthma, and the respiration is impeded in the throat for fourteen days [Htb.]
Trouble in dilating the chest, during inspiration. [ORFILA.<sup>5</sup>]
455. Feeling when he dilates the chest, in breathing, as if he had to overcome a great obstacle. [Htb.]

<sup>1</sup> Not traceable.—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup> Not accessible.—Hughes.

<sup>3</sup> Observation. The observer merely says that in three cases the emaciation and prostration was so great as to threaten a slow phthisis.—Hughes.

<sup>4</sup> Not found.—Hughes.

<sup>5</sup> In the original: "Breathing sufficiently free, but chest at times contracted during inspiration.—Hughes."

- Lack of breath. [NEUMANN.]
 Want of breath. [GAIRDNER.]
 Suffocating catarrh. [ORFILA.<sup>1</sup>]
 Sensation of weakness in the chest and in the region of the scrobiculus cordis. [SCHNEIDER.]
460. Pain in the chest. [MATTHEY.]
 Sore pain in the chest on both sides continually during respiration and when touching it.
 Pressure, somewhat deep in the right side of the chest. [Gff.]
 Pressive pain in the right side of the chest, aggravated at every inspiration, for an hour after dinner. [JOERG.]
 Pressure and tightness in the chest, as after inhaling vapors of sulphur. [JOERG.]
465. Pressure, tightness and burning in the middle and sometimes also in the sides of the chest, with dry cough. [JOERG.]
 Shooting in the chest, with excitation to deep, dry cough. [JOERG.]
 Sharp shooting in the middle of the right breast, only when expiring. [Gff.]
 Sharp shooting in the lower part of the right side of the chest, near the scrobiculus cordis, when inspiring. [Gff.]
 Rush of blood to the chest, with tendency to inflammation. [Hufel. Journ.]
470. Violent throbbing in the chest, and palpitation, aggravated by every muscular exertion, so that she could not stand for a minute without coming near fainting; a quiet, horizontal position gave the greatest relief. [NEUMANN.]
Palpitation. [COINDET; GAIRDNER and many others.]
Violent palpitation. [Hufel. Journ. and Rusl's Magaz.]
 Severe palpitation, which could be manifestly observed despite his thick clothing, and could even be heard for several steps. [NEUMANN.]
 Palpitation the whole day, till he goes to sleep. [S.]
475. Spasmodic palpitation; she feels it down to the navel, but most severely in the scrobiculus cordis. [S.]
 The palpitation disappears entirely (curative action). [S.]
 Squeezing the heart together. [S.]
 Burning, lancinating tension in the integuments of the chest.
 Tearing in the integuments of the right side of the chest. [Gff.]
480. The female breasts enlarge, while the goitre diminishes in several females. [PERROT.]
 Sometimes the breasts dwindle away. [COINDET.]
 Dwindling, falling away of the breasts. [KUENZLI.]
 The breasts hang down relaxed, deprived of all fat. [NEUMANN.]
Dwindling of the breasts, in two females. [Hufel. Journ.]
485. Dwindling away of the formerly full breasts, so that two years after the use of iodine, there was no trace of the breasts and of the lacteal glands. [Hufel. Journ.]

---

<sup>1</sup> Not found.—Hughes.

The glands of the female mammæ dwindle away entirely.

[VOIGT.]

The desire to nurse the baby is diminished, with injurious effects.

In the coccyx and the sacrum, a pressive pain which increases and diminishes. [Gff.]

In the sacrum, stitches (aft. 15 d.).

490. In the back, itching above the right hip.

Cramps in the back. [Trs.]

Stitches in the scapulæ, when lifting something (aft. 14 d.).

Burning on the right scapula. [Gff.]

On the lower part of the neck, near the left shoulder, a rheumatic pinching, aggravated by touching it, seemingly relieved by an eructation, but frequently recurring afterward. [Gff.]

495. Rheumatic tension in the right side of the neck. [Gff.]

Tearing in the right side of the neck. [Gff.]

Tension on the outside of the neck. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Constriction of the throat. [S.]

Troublesome sensation of constriction of the neck. [PESCHIER in Hufel. Journ. LX., B. 97.<sup>1</sup>]

500. The neck becomes thicker from loud speaking. [S.]

The swelling of the goitre increases and becomes more painful. [GRAEFE.]

Enlargement and painful induration of the goitre.

[COINDET.]

Induration of the goitre. [COINDET; PESCHIER.]

Pain and throbbing in the goitre. [GRAEFE.]

505. Pains in the goitre. [KUENZLI; GUENTHER, in the Salz. med. Zeitg., 1822, III., 160.<sup>2</sup>]

Painful tension in the goitre. [BAUP.]

Constant sensation of constriction in the goitre. [Hufel.

Journ.]

Enlargement and hardness of the goitre, during the first days, then decrease of the same. [SCHNEIDER.]

Diminution of the swelling of the neck (curative action). [S.]

510. Dwinding away of old and hard or doughy swellings of the thyroid glands and of large goitres (curative effect).

[COINDET; NEUMANN; GRAEFE and many others.]

Swelling of the glands on the neck and in the nape disappear permanently (curative effect). [HENNING; MARTINI; NEUMANN.]

Redness on the neck and on the chest, as if suffused with blood. [S.]

Yellow spots on the neck. [Htb.]

Induration of the axillary glands. [ROECHLING.<sup>3</sup>]

515. Glandular swellings in the axillæ disappear. [HENNING; MARTINI.]

In the abnormally elevated shoulder, drawing tearing pains (2d d.).

<sup>1</sup> Observation.—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup> From local use of ointment of iodide of potassium.—Hughes.

<sup>3</sup> Instead of "induration" the original has "suppuration."—Hughes.

- Rheumatic pains, in the left shoulder. [Gff.]
 Severe stitches in the shoulder-joint, also at rest.
 In the arm, on the outside, a pain in the bones, which wakes from sleep and keeps him from again falling asleep, aggravated by lying on it.
520. Rheumatic pains in the arms. [JOERG.]
 Tearing pain in both arms, after slight manual labor.
 Paralytic weariness in the arms, in the morning on awaking, in bed.
 Subsultus tendinum in the arms. [Trs.]
Tearing in the left elbow.
525. Pressure in the bend of the left elbow.
 Lancinating pain in the right wrist, when grasping or lifting anything.
 Pain, as after a blow upon the metacarpal bone of the index, aggravated by touching. [Gr.]
 Tearing in the metacarpal bone of the right index.
 Heat in the hands.
530. Trembling of the limbs. [PERROT; GAIRDNER.]
 Slight trembling of the hands. [RICHTER.]
 Violent trembling of the hands, so that he could only work with them at certain hours of the day. [FORMEY.]
 The hands move in zigzag fashion. [RICHTER.]
 Subsultus tendinum, in the hands. [RICHTER.]
535. A round, burning, itching spot on the right hand between the thumb and the index; with two whitish vesicles upon it; it was relieved by rubbing, and went off on the third day. [S.]
 In the finger-joints, on flexing them, a tensive pain, as if they would break; with some swelling and painfulness in pressing on them, when they are stretched out (aft. some d.).
 Tearing in the posterior joint of the right thumb. [Gff.]
 Tearing in the knuckle of the right little finger. [Gff.]
 Tearing in the whole of the index and of the middle finger of the left hand. [Gff.]
540. Trembling of the fingers. [KUENZLI.]
 Subsultus tendinum in the fingers. [Trs.]
 Paronychia on the left index, from a little prick in the finger, near the nail.
 In the left natis, a pressure, as if in the os ischium. [Gff.]
 Between the left hip and the head of the femur, an intermittent sharp tearing, much aggravated by moving the joint. [Gff.]
545. Turgidity in the lower limbs, almost like cramp in the thighs and legs, merely in sitting, not when lying, walking or standing.
 Rheumatic drawing in the whole of the left lower limb, especially in the thigh and knee, with humming in the heel, in the evening in bed; rather increased by motion. [Gff.]
 Heaviness as of lead, in the lower limbs. [S.]
 Swelling of the lower limbs. [COINDET.]
 Swelling and trembling of the lower limbs. [KUENZLI.]
550. Œdematous swelling of the lower limbs. [NEUMANN.]
 Restlessness in the lower limbs. [KUENZLI.]

- Trembling of the lower limbs, which makes walking difficult, unsteady and unsafe. [KUENZLI.]
 Paralysis of the lower limbs. [GOELIS.]
 The thigh pains, especially at night in bed. [SCHNEIDER.]
555. Pains of a peculiar kind in the thighs. [GOELIS.<sup>1</sup>]
 Rheumatic pain in the left thigh. [Gff.]
 Pinching tearing in the left thigh, near to the head of the femur. [Gff.]
 Sharp, shooting tearing in the middle of the left thigh, toward the inner side. [Gff.]
 Twitching of the muscles of the thigh.
560. Excoriation of the female thighs, where they touch in walking.
 Tearing in the left knee. [Gff.]
 Dull tearing, on the outer side of the right hough. [Gff.]
 A white swelling of the knee disappears (curative effect). [Trs.]
 The leg pains on the tibia, as if festering.
565. Tearing on both sides of the leg, close above the ankles. [Gff.]
 In the ankle-joint violent cramp, with twitchings, at night.
 Cramps in the feet. [GAIRDNER.]
 Pressive, spasmodic pain in the foot, from the middle toe to the ankle.
 Acute, constant pain in the inner half of the right heel. [Gff.]
570. Single, sharp stitches in the ankles.
 Heaviness of the feet, like lead. [S.]
 Swelling of the feet, followed by their rapid emaciation and becoming thin. [Trs.]
 Œdematous swelling of the feet. [NEUMANN.]
 Subsultus tendinum of the feet. [Trs.; RICHTER.]
575. Sweat of the feet, so sharp that it erodes the skin.
 Shooting tearing under the nail of the left big toe. [Gff.]
 The corns ache. [Htb.]
 Erratic pains in the joints. [Trs.]
 Rheumatic pains in the trunk, on the neck and in the arms. [JOERG.]
580. Sensation of numbness in the upper and lower extremities. [FORMEY.]
 Sensation of numbness and trembling in the limbs. [VOIGT.]
 Paralysis of the limbs. [GOELIS.]
 Liable to catch cold, and thence inflammation of the eyes.
 Shooting itching in various parts of the body.
585. Sensation as of violent flea-bites all over the body, day and night.
 Itching on an old cicatrix of an ulcer (on the leg), cured many years before.
 Eruption of itching pimples on the old cicatrix.
 On the arms, the breast and the back, small, red, dry pimples, which at first itch. [Htb.]

<sup>1</sup> Preceding S. 553.—Hughes.

- Dirty yellow color of the skin, for five or six weeks. [KOLBE, in the Zeitschr. f. Nat. u. Heilk. V., 1, 91.<sup>1</sup>]
590. Rough, dry skin. [NEUMANN.]
Induration of the glands. [ROEHLING.<sup>2</sup>]
The swellings of certain glands on the neck, the axillæ and the groin disappear (curative action). [MARTINI.]
It excites the glandular system, the glands of the buccal cavity, the stomach, the liver and the pancreas, and it promotes in these parts the secretion of the juices. [KUENZLI.]
Throbbing in all the arteries, at every muscular exertion. [Rust's Magaz.]
595. Very troublesome throbbing in all the larger arterial trunks. [NEUMANN.]
The blood is readily heated, with obtuseness of the head and subsequent headache. [VOIGT.]
The circulation is easily excited and accelerated. [VOIGT.]
Erethism of the vascular system, especially of the veins. [KUENZLI.]
Ebullitions of blood. [RICHTER.]
600. Violent ebullitions of blood. [Hufel. Journ.]
Disposition to hemorrhages. [Hufel. Journ.]
Hemorrhages. [KOLLEY.]
Hemorrhages from various organs. [VOIGT.]
Great excitement of the nervous system. [Hufel. Journ.]
605. Increased sensitiveness of the whole body. [Hufel. Journ.]
Restlessness in the limbs. [KUENZLI.]
A restless and morbid state, with a quivering motion from the gastric region toward the whole surface of the body, as if he was about to tremble or as if a general pulsation was about to break out, with a general increase of heat, seeming to come from the stomach; then a pressure in the cardiac region, a weight on the chest, with difficult breathing and acceleration of the pulse by seven or eight beats. [JOERG.]
Trembling. [COINDET; GAIRDNER.]
Trembling of the limbs. [KOLLEY; MATTHEY.]
630. Trembling of the limbs, especially of the hands. [GAIRDNER.<sup>3</sup>]
Trembling of the fingers and of the eyelids. [KUENZLI.]
Trembling of a peculiar kind. [GAIRDNER.]
Trembling, first of the hands, and then also of the arms, of the feet and the back, so that he can only walk tottering and unsteady, and the hand, which moves in a zigzag fashion, cannot guide anything straight to his mouth; the trembling parts can easily be held fast when at rest; general movements at the same time are painful and the circulation is accelerated, with a small, threadlike pulse. [Trs.]
Cramps. [KOLLEY; KUENZLI.]
635. Spasmodic movements of the limbs. [VOIGT.]
Violent cramps in the back and in the feet. [Trs.]

<sup>1</sup> From external applications.—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup> See note to S. 514.—Hughes.

<sup>3</sup> There is a gap here in the numbering in the original. Instead of 610, H. proceeds at once to 630.—Trans.

Violent cramps and convulsive twitches of the arms, the back and the legs, which are scarcely intermitted for a moment. [GAIRDNER.]

Subsultus of the tendons. [KUENZLI; NEUMANN.]

Subsultus of the tendons on the hands and the feet. [RICHTER.]

640. Subsultus tendinum on the arms, fingers and feet. [Trs.]

Catching at flakes. [NEUMANN.]

A sort of East Indian cholera. [Trs.]

Walking becomes difficult, tottering and unsteady. [RICHTER.]

Difficult, vacillating, unsteady walk from tremulousness of the limbs. [KUENZLI.]

645. Heaviness in the limbs, in the morning (8th d.).

Heaviness in the limbs. [KUENZLI.]

Heaviness in the limbs and sensation of lassitude. [KOLLEY.]

Great weariness in the afternoon, after a short walk, with a sensation of fasting, but not of hunger. [Gff.]

Lassitude, so that perspiration breaks out on her when she speaks.

650. Lassitude. [KUENZLI; NEUMANN; SCHNEIDER.]

Complete prostration of strength. [Hufel. Journ.]

Fatigued, cross and slow to move. [JOERG.]

Sensation of weakness. [RUDOLPH.]

Weakness of the muscles. [COINDET; KUENZLI.]

655. Long continued weakness of the muscles. [COINDET.]

Decrease of strength. [KUENZLI; COINDET.]

Loss of all strength. [COINDET; MATTHEY.]

Prostration. [BAUP; VOIGT.]

Great prostration. [SCHNEIDER; FORMEY; Hufel. Journ.]

660. Tendency to swoons and cramps. [VOIGT.]

Swoons. [Hufel Journ.]

Emaciation. [BAUP; MATTHEY; PERRAT.]

Rapid emaciation. [COINDET; VOIGT.]

Visible, manifest emaciation. [Hufel Journ.; SUTTINGER.]

665. General emaciation of the whole body. [CLARUS, in Gilbert's Annal; LOCHER-BALBER VIII., 309.<sup>1</sup>]

Severe emaciation. [KUENZLI.]

Extreme, sudden emaciation. [GAIRDNER.]

Severe emaciation, which may reach an extraordinarily high degree., [GAIRDNER; RICHTER.]

So severe an emaciation, that the arms and the body are almost fleshless, her breast quite flat, her calves entirely disappeared, and her thighs no thicker than her fore-arms in her days of good health. [GAIRDNER.]

670. The greatest emaciation, till he is a mere skeleton. [Gr.]

Emaciation, lasting a whole year, until he can no more be recognized, with general weakness of the muscles, attended with unusually good appetite. [LOCHER-BALBER.]

Chronic emaciation, paleness of the face, and weakness of the muscles. [COINDET]

<sup>1</sup> Observation.—Hughes.

- Wasting away. [Hufel. Journ.]
 Wasting away with slow fever (removed by China).
 [ZIEGER, in Dienbach's neuest. Entdeck.<sup>1</sup>]
 675. Corpulence and cheerfulness return (curative effect).
 [MARTINI.]
 Nutrition is improved (curative effect). [VOIGT.]
 A girl who had been remarkably phlegmatic, loses this disposition, becomes stronger and more lively, and her muscles receive a greater mobility (after effect). [HENNING.]
 Swelling and pain in the affected parts. [Med. chir. Zeit.]
 Disappearance of a fungus articularis, which had arisen in consequence of measles (curative effect). [Rust's Magaz.]
 680. Œdematous swelling of the whole body, which does not pass off. [ROECHLING.]
 Dropsical Swellings. [FORMEY; KUENZLI.]
 General dropsy. [VOIGT.]
 General dropsy of the skin and abdomen. [Rust's Magaz.]
 Apoplexy. [Rust's Magaz.]
 685. Death, with partly local and partly general inflammatory phenomena. [RICHTER.]
 No desire for sleep (6th d.).
 Restless sleep. [JOERG.]
 Restless sleep, at night. [VOIGT.]
 Restless sleep, with anxious dreams. [S.]
 690. Sleeplessness. [BAUP; COINDET; FORMEY and many oth.]
 Sleeplessness for eight days; she did not sleep a moment.
 [Trs.]
 Sleep full of dreams. [GAIRDNER.]
 Very vivid dreams, from which he would like to awake, but cannot; with sensation of fatigue after awaking. [Gff.]
 Dreams, which he cannot recollect, during a sound sleep.
 [S.]
 695. Anxious dreams. [RICHTER.]
 Distressing, restless dreams. [S.]
 Anxious dreams, about deceased persons. [S.]
 She dreams every night; about swimming in water, walking in mud, that her daughter had tumbled into the well, etc.
 At night, cold feet.
 700. Coldness of the skin. [NEUMANN.]
 An unusual chill frequently shakes him, even in the warm room, and he does not feel well all day. [Hfb.]
 Warmth of the skin is increased. [ORFILA; VOIGT.]
 Increased animal warmth of the whole body. [RUDOLPH; RICHTER.]
 Flying heat. [S.]
 705. Fever, in which chilliness alternates with flying heat. [Hufel. Journ.]
 Feverish states. [RICHTER; BAUP; KOLLEY and many oth.]
 Fever with delirium and subsultus tendinum. [Hufel. Journ.]

<sup>1</sup> Not accessible.—Hughes.

Fever, with dryness and coldness of the skin, soft, quick pulse, delirium, subsultus tendinum and catching flakes. [NEUMANN.]

- Quartan fever. [SUTTINGER.]
710. Pulse strong, large and full. [JOERG.]
 Quick, hard pulse. [COINDET; VOIGT.]
 Accelerated, increased pulse. [COINDET; MATTHEY; KUENZLI and many oth.]
 Quicker pulse, accelerated by fifteen beats. [Htb.]
 Quicker pulse, accelerated up to eighty-six beats. [ORFILA.]
715. Accelerated, full, hard pulse. [VOIGT.]
 Small, threadlike, accelerated pulse. [KUENZLI; RICHTER.]
 Small, hard pulse, so quick that it could hardly be counted. [GAIRDNER.]
 Small, very frequent, suppressed pulse. [Trs.]
 Soft and quicker pulse. [NEUMANN.]
720. The beats of the heart and the pulse were synchronous; the pulse was small and weak, and when she kept still, it was but little accelerated; but with every motion, it was accelerated, as also was the beat of the heart. [NEUMANN.]
 Night-sweat.
 Profuse night-sweat and little sleep. [JOERG.]
 In the morning, she awakes in a perspiration, and feels more languid. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Sourish night-sweat all over, every morning, and the first hour afterward, she is very faint in her lower limbs.

KALI CARBONICUM, SALT OF TARTAR.

[Half an ounce of purified tartar, moistened with a few drops of water, is pressed together into a ball, which is rolled up into a piece of paper and allowed to dry; then it is brought to a red heat between the glowing charcoal of a grate (or of a draught furnace). It is then taken out, laid in a porcelain saucer and covered with a linen cloth; it is allowed to attract moisture from the air in a cellar, which causes the alkaline salt partially to deliquesce, and, if it is allowed to stay there a few weeks, it will deposit even the last trace of lime. A clear drop* of this preparation is then triturated three times with 100 grains of sugar of milk each time, within three hours, to the one millionth powder attenuation (Kali I); one grain of this third trituration is then raised by twenty-seven dilution vials to the decillionth dynamization (Kali X).

The carbonate of potash secured in this manner has proved itself most useful where the following morbid symptoms predominated, or at least were also present:

*This will be a salt of tartar sufficiently pure for our purposes. I would again repeat, that I have endeavored to secure the medicinal material for homœopathic use, wherever practicable, in the most simple and natural manner, and to give directions of this kind; so that every physician, wherever he may be, may secure the same substance. For this purpose, which was to me most important (and not merely to avoid every appearance of ostentation and puristic pedantry, which would in this matter have been altogether out of place), I had to avoid as far as possible all directions which would have led to difficult chemical operations, by means of costly apparatus, to secure the absolute chemical purity of the medicinal substances used.

Peevishness; timidity; lack of memory; dizziness; stolid feeling in the head; vertigo, as if rising in the stomach; headache when out driving; headache, while sneezing and coughing; morning-headache; headache with nausea; pressive pain the occiput; rush of blood to the head; hissing in the head; great tendency of the external head to catch cold; scurfy eruption of the head; dryness of the hair of the head; falling out of the hair; morning-sweat on the forehead; swelling of the eye; agglutination of the eyes in the morning; lachrymation; floating specks before the eyes; the eye is dazzled by the light; stitches in the ear; pains, shooting in the ears outward; weakness of the hearing, dull hearing; ulceration of the inside of the nose; dullness of olfaction; heat of the face; flying heat of the face; yellowness of the face; bloatedness of the face; drawing pain in the face; toothache, only when eating; shooting toothache; palate full of mucus; hawking up of mucus; sour taste in the mouth; spoiled taste; bitter taste in the mouth; rabid hunger; great liking for sugar; frequent eructation; sour eructations; nausea; anxiety, with inclination to vomit; nausea during eating; fullness of the stomach after eating; tension transversely across the stomach; pinching in the stomach; pressure in the liver; sprained pain in the liver when stooping; pressure in the hypogastrium when stooping; heaviness and restlessness in the abdomen; inactivity and coldness in the abdomen; labor-like colic; much flatulence; incarceration of flatus; no emission of flatus; continual emission of flatus; inactivity of the rectum; difficult evacuation of the fæces, on account of their large formation; constipation; constipation every other day; costiveness and difficult discharge of stool; mucus with the stool; anxiety before the stool; varices of the anus; itching of the anus; pressive pain in the rectum, before discharge of flatus; tenesmus of the bladder; frequent micturition, day and night; the sexual impulse is dormant; lack of sexual impulse; (surexcitation of the sexual instinct;) lack of erections; lack of pollutions; (too many pollutions;) swelling of the testicle; after coitus, weakness of the body, especially of the eyes; (suppression of the menses, with anasarca and ascites;) menses too scanty; menses too early; during the menses, an itching eruption and excoriation between the thighs; sharpness, itching and erosion on and in the genitals; vaginal discharge.

Dryness of the nose; stuffed nostrils; stuffed coryza; hoarseness; cough; nocturnal cough; expectoration of pus; expectoration of pus when coughing; spasm of the chest when coughing; difficult breathing; wheezing on the chest; morning-asthma; asthma when walking a little faster than usual; spasmodic asthma; spasm of the chest; palpitation; palpitation and orgasm of the blood in the morning on awaking; pain in the sacrum; pain in the sacrum from a fall; drawing pain from the sacrum to the middle of the back; drawing pain in the back; stiffness between the scapulæ; stiffness of the nape; weakness in the cervical muscles; goitre; pressure on the shoulders; the arms go to sleep; the upper arms go to sleep; weakness in the arms; lassitude of the arms, in the morning in bed; stiffness of the elbow-joint; trembling of the hands in writing; paralytic pain in the wrist; convulsive twitching of the fingers in sewing. Tearing pressure in the thigh and leg; nocturnal tearing in the lower limbs; crawling shudder on the tibiæ; coldness of the feet, in the evening in bed; stiffness in the ankle-joint; swelling of the leg; burning pain in the legs and the feet; cold feet; fetid sweat of the feet; shooting and burning in the ball of the big toe; corns painful when touched; drawing pains in the limbs; the fingers and toes are drawn crooked; the limbs go to sleep; tendency to strains; tremulous lassitude; weakness after parturition; readiness to take cold; lack of perspiration and inability to perspire; anasarca and ascites; red, itching, burning, spots on the body; herpes; old warts in the face; drowsiness by day; drowsiness early in the evening; sleep full of fancies; anxious sleep, full of dreams; frightful dreams; twitching in sleep; tendency to shudder by day; heat in the morning in bed; great tendency to sweat while walking; night-sweat.

Patients suffering from ulceration of the lungs rarely get well without this antipsoric. Nitric acid is frequently homœopathically indicated after kali.

The observations marked Gff. are by the Royal Councilor, Baron von Gersdorff; those marked Gll. by Dr. Goullon, in Weimar; Htb., Dr. Hartlaub; Ng, an anonymous contributor in Hartlaub und Trink's Reine Arzneimittell., and Rl., Dr. Rummel.

KALI.

Great dejection, without anxiety.

Dejection (1st d.).

The mind is without tone.

Troubled mood, with disposition to weep, after bodily fatigue in the open air. [Gff.]

5. Sad, she feels lonesome; she seeks for company to cheer her up. [Ng.]

Great sadness, she has to weep without cause, in the evening. [Htb.]

---

A pathogenesis of Kali carbonicum appeared in Vol. IV. of the first edition of this work (1830), and already contained—besides Hahnemann's own—the symptoms referred to Rummel and v. Gersdorff, doubtless obtained from the 30th dil. Those of Goullon added here, presumably come from a similar source; but the main addition in the present pathogenesis is from the symptom list of Hartlaub and Nennung (chiefly the latter) in Hartlaub and Trink's Arzneimittellehre, Vol. III.—Hughes.

- Lachrymose mood; she felt like dissolving in tears constantly (aft. 20 d.).
- Very ill-humored; she has to weep much, because it was constantly on her mind that she had to die.
- Anxious oppression, breaking out into tears (1st d.). [Htb.]
10. Anguish and great sadness.
Anxiety and dislike of company.
Anxiety every day.
Full of apprehension.
He is afraid that he might not get well.
15. Apprehensive and anxious about her disease.
Anxious ideas infest him in the evening.
Troubled ideas about the future.
Restlessness of the mind.
Hasty thought and action.
20. Irresolution.
Desponding and pusillanimous in a high degree.
Timidity, in the evening, in bed.
Fearful about being alone.
Great timidity.
25. Readily frightened, especially by a slight touch of the body.
She is frightened by an imaginary appearance (e. g., as if a bird was flying toward the window) and she utters a loud scream.
Very peevish, in the evening, on going to sleep, and in the morning on awaking.
Cross, without cause (5th d.).
Unusual ill-humor, which is seen in his features, before he himself is aware of it. [Gff.]
30. Peevish mood, as if she could not do anything to suit herself. [Ng.]
She is always in antagonism with herself; she knows not what she wants, and feels exceedingly unhappy
Contrary disposition; he is self-willed and often does not know himself what he wishes.
Contrary mood; she demands impetuously; is not satisfied with anything; she is beside herself, and furiously angry, if everything does not go according to her wishes, and often does not herself know what she really wants.
Impatient with his children.
35. Very irritable, as after vexation.
Sensitively irritable.
Irritable mood.
Irritable, peevish mood.
Easily rendered cross.
40. Extremely cross mood (the first 11 d.).
Very peevish, she has no pleasure in anything.
He gets vexed at everything and is always cross.
Peevish, sulky mood; every trifle vexes him and every noise is disagreeable; worse at noon and in the evening.
Cross and angry thoughts, in the morning, on awaking, so that he gnashes with his teeth (aft. 4 d.).
45. Readily excited to anger. [Gff.]

She readily becomes violent.

Indisposed to everything and indifferent.

Indisposed to work. [Gff.]

Changeful mood, now good and quiet, then passionate and angry about trifles; often hopeful, often despondent.

50. Absent-minded; he finds it difficult to fix his attention on any special subject. [Gff.]

Lack of presence of mind; he cannot proceed right along in his business (aft. 15 h.).

He often cannot find the right word and the right expression, and makes slips in speaking.

Delirium by day and by night.

Lack of recollection, as if in the occiput, with much talking; it goes off on shutting the eyes.

55. Unconsciousness for several minutes, so violent that all his senses failed him, and he would have fallen down, if he had not held on to something (aft. 18 d.).

Sensation as if her thoughts vanished, for a few moments.

Sensation at times, as if her thoughts and her memory were gone, with whirring in the head.

Chaotic and stupid feeling in the head, in the evening. [RL.]

As if intoxicated (aft. 4 d.).

60. Frequent obtusion in the head.

Obtuseness of the head, as after a spree, and as if the ears were stopped up, with nausea almost to vomiting (aft. 8 d.). [RL.]

The head is frequently benumbed in the morning, with heaviness of the head, in the region of the eyebrows.

The whole head is benumbed, as if screwed in a vice, with shooting in the brain, in frequent intervals. [Ng.]

Gloomy in the head, as if he had not slept enough, in the morning, after rising, and as if overclouded, with lack of cheerfulness. [Ng.]

65. Weakness in the head.

Weakness in the head, just above the eyes, after walking fast (17th d.).

Vertigo, as if intoxicated, while walking, so that he staggers from one side to the other. [Ng.]

Vertigo, like reeling, while standing and walking; better in the open air.

Vertigo, especially after eating.

70. Vertigo, at once on rising, as if her head were too light; she has to hold on to something.

Slight fit of vertigo, as often as he rises from his chair and turns around.

Vertigo, as if there was an abyss behind him, and he was about to fall down into it, on turning around after looking into a mirror and after reading.

Vertigo, on turning around. [RL.]

Vertigo, on quickly turning the body and the head.

75. Giddy in the head, chiefly in the morning and evening.

[RL.]

Very giddy, also while sitting (aft. 30 h.). [RL.]

- Vertigo while sitting, as if tottering to and fro (before a meal.)
- Vertigo while sitting, so that he dares not rise for fear of falling. [Ng.]
- Vertigo, while writing and in the open air, everything whirls around with him. [Ng.]
80. Headache, relieved by sitting up in bed, worse when lying down.
- Headache in the morning on awaking, for a quarter of an hour, for several mornings.
- Headache in the vertex, when pressing on the head.
- Cruel headache, through the eyes.
- Fits of headache on one side, the right and the left with lassitude and lack of tone, almost producing nausea, in the evening. [Gff.]
85. Violent pain in the whole head, with throbbing and shooting in the knees, which goes off by motion; in the evening. [Ng.]
- Pressive headache.
- Pressive headache in the forehead, in the afternoon when walking, attended with peevishness (13th, 19th and 20th d.). [Gff.]
- Pressure in the forehead, with photophobia. [Gff.]
- Violent pressure all over the skull and down the nape; throbbing in the head and in the whole body; the pain will not bear the least touch, and is aggravated by paroxysms, with violent nausea and vomiting of bile. [Gl.]
90. Squeezing pressive pain in the forehead, with vomiting of mucus and acid. [Gl.]
- Pressure and squeezing in the right temple (11th, 19th and 20th d.). [Gff.]
- Pressure in the right temple, from morn till noon (aft. 11 d.). [Rl.]
- Pressive headache in the left temple (6th d.). [Gff.]
- Pressive pain in the forehead, like numbness. [Ng.]
95. Pressure in the forehead, in the evening on going to sleep, with qualmy nausea, as if he had spoiled his stomach; easier by resting, aggravated by walking.
- Pressure above the eyes, with violent pain in the whole sinciput.
- Pressive pain in the occiput, toward the nape, going off in the open air.
- Violent pressive pain in the whole head, with a shivering chill over the whole body, chiefly in the forenoon. [Htb.]
- Severe pressure in the occiput, with ebullition in the head and sensation of heaviness while standing. [Ng.]
100. Pressure and drawing tearing in the sinciput, extending to the eyes and the root of the nose (14th, 17th, 18th and 21st d.). [Gff.]
- Severe pressure and drawing in the forehead, in the evening. [Rl.]
- Pressure and burning deep in the occiput, with heaviness in the head and tendency to fall forward. [Ng.]

- Pressive headache, from both temples toward the middle.
 Pressure on top of the head, in the evening. [Rl.]
105. Pressure into the right side of the cranium, after rising from a stooping position. [Ng.]
 Shooting pressure, inward into the left temple. [Ng.]
 Boring pressing pain from without inward, above the left eye. [Ng.]
 Pain pressing outward, in the right temple. [Ng.]
 Severe outward pressing in the whole frontal region, while writing. [Ng.]
110. Severe outward pressure over the left eye, as if the brain would press forward. [Ng.]
 Sensation in the forehead, as if it would burst her sinciput, in frequent short paroxysms. [Ng.]
 Sensation of fullness in the head, as if the brain pressed close upon the cranium. [Ng.]
 Heaviness in the occiput, as if it was filled with lead, the head always falls backward, with stiffness in the nape, extending to between the scapulæ.
 Heaviness in the occiput, like numbness. [Ng.]
115. Heaviness and painfulness of the sinciput. [Ng.]
 Severe sensation of heaviness in the left side of the head. [Ng.]
 Squeezing pain in the whole of the upper part of the head, especially on the left side. [Gff.]
 Squeezing pain in the left temple in paroxysms; also tearing. [Gff.]
 Drawing in the forehead; in the forenoon and at midnight (2d, 30th d.). [Gff.]
120. Drawing and tearing on the vertex of the head (33d, 34th d.). [Gff.]
 Tearing drawing in the left half of the head, above, in front of and within the temple (12th, 19th, 25th d.).
 Drawing in the occiput and nape, especially on the right side, with stiffness. [Gff.]
 Tearing in the left frontal protuberance (25th d.). [Gff.]
 Tearing from the left temple into the articulation of the jaw, in the evening. [Gff.]
125. Tearing in the left and the right temples, also in the left parietal bone. [Ng.]
 Tearing now on the right, now on the left side of the occiput, then in the forehead (1st d.). [Ng.]
 Beating tearing on the right side of the occiput, close to the nape (16th d.). [Gff.]
 Twitching tearing pain in the head.
 Twitching in the left temple.
130. Twitching headache, the whole day.
 Shooting in the temples.
 Shooting in the temples, causing fright and screaming; in the right temple attended with tearing. [Ng.]
 Stitch above the left temple and immediately afterward a stitch outward in the middle of the forehead. [Ng.]

- Pricking in the forehead, as from needles. [Ng.]
135. Shooting in the sinciput.
Violent shooting in the forehead, the whole day, and at times also on the left side of the head; with violent pains in the chest, and icy coldness in the limbs.
Stitches in the forehead, in the morning.
Stitches on the upper part of the forehead and over the temples, on moving the lower jaw.
Stitches extending from the nape up into the occiput.
140. Stitches in the occiput, on treading and stooping, as if they were in the surface of the brain.
Stitch through the right side of the head, from behind forward. [Gll.]
Stitches through the whole head.
Dull shooting in the head (1st d.).
Beating and throbbing in the forehead, and especially in the side of the head, with frequent intermissions; also after dinner, while walking and standing. [Ng.]
145. Beating pain in the sinciput.
Painful throbbing in the head, when she wants to write.
Beating (throbbing) pain in the upper left side of the head; by pressing on it, the pain becomes more violent and lancinating; more external. [Ng.]
A burrowing throbbing in the frontal bone, above the left eye. [Ng.]
Ulcerative pain in the head after dinner; she had to lie down, which relieved it. [Ng.]
150. Rush of blood to the head, and intoxication therefrom.
Warm rising of blood to the head, with ebullition in the body, and, a few hours afterward, a slight headache (at once).
Great warmth in the head, especially on the right side of the face, frequently (5th d.). [Ng.]
Rising heat in the head, in the evening, before lying down; it goes off in bed. [Ng.]
Burning, painful sensation of heat in the head.
155. Sensation in the forehead, as if a hot body had fallen forward in it; frequently recurring when stooping and writing; it goes off on rising up. [Ng.]
Sensation when stooping, as if something descended from the occiput toward the forehead.
Painful feeling, as of something moveable in the head, worse on moving the head.
Constant sensation, as if there was something detached in the head, which turned and twisted toward the forehead.
Painful turning and twisting in the head.
160. Shaking headache.
Humming, resounding tingling in the right temple.
Crawling pain above the forehead.
Externally on the temple, an acute pressive pain.
Shooting pain externally on the head and in the nape, with a shooting swelling on the cheek, and shooting in the teeth.

165. Single tearing stitches in the left temple, extending into the zygoma.
 Fine stitches, externally, on various parts of the head. [Ng.]
 Painless, clucking, muscular twitches in the right temple.
 [Gff.]
 His head was jerked several times toward the left, without loss of consciousness, after which the nape became, as it were, stiff.
 Chill on the head.
170. The head readily takes cold, causing headache and toothache.
 Itching of the hairy scalp.
 Frequent itching of the head, chiefly on the occiput. [Ng.]
 Itching of the skin of the scalp, with sore pain on scratching it. [Rl.]
 Pimples on the hairy scalp.
175. Large, red pimples on the left frontal protuberance, painful when touched, and suppurating afterwards (aft. 32 d.). [Gff.]
 Painful lump on the right side of the head, as if a furuncle was forming (aft. 6 d.). [Rl.]
 A large, yellow, scaly spot on the upper part of the forehead.
 Dryness of the hair of the head.
 Falling out of the hair.
180. Falling out of the hair of the head. [Hw.]
 The eyes pain, on moving them.
 Pain of the left eye, when it is directed upward.
Pressure in the eyes.
 Pressure on the eyelids.
185. Pressure on the eyes and in the orbits, with drowsiness, at noon (36th d.). [Gff.]
 Pressure in the eyes, and dry pus in the eyelashes.
 Pain as if the eyes were pressed inward.
 The eyes pain on reading, as if pressed inward.
 Pinching in the eyes.
190. Tearing in the left eye, in the morning before going to sleep.
 [Gff.]
 Sharp tearing in the right orbit, and in the eye at night (30th, 31st d.). [Gff.]
 Pressive tearing in the inside of the right eye (12th, 26th d.).
 [Gff.]
 Pressive tearing in the region of the right eyebrow (26th d.).
 Jerking or tearing in the eyelid, and above the right eye.
195. Stitches in the middle of the eye.
 Stitches in the eyeball.
 Stitches in the right eye (aft. 21 d.). [Htb.]
 Stitches in the right external canthus. [Ng.]
 Boring pain in the eyes.
200. Pain as if a boil was forming in the left eyebrow, in the evening in bed (8th, 13th d.). [Gff.]
 Itching of the eyes.
 Itching of the edge of the right eyelid.
Excoriating pain in the eye (aft. 4 d.). [Rl.]

- Feeling of soreness in the eyelids, soon after midnight, on awaking (25th d.). [Gff.]
205. Smarting and transiently shooting pains in the eyes. [Gff.]
The boy complains of coldness in the eyelids.
Both eyes are very hot to the touch.
Burning in the eyes.
Burning in the eyelids.
210. Burning in both eyes. [Ng.]
Burning and smarting in both eyes. [Ng.]
Burning and smarting in the eyes.
Redness of the white of the eye and many distended veinlets in it.
Redness and heat in the eyes. [Htb.]
215. Inflammation of both eyes in the white, with burning pain (aft. 5 d.).
Inflammation of the right eyelid, with pain of the eye and inability to read by candle light.
Swelling of the right eye.
Severe swelling of the upper eyelid, toward the nose.
Swelling between the eyebrows and lids, like a little sac.
220. Swelling of the glabella between the eyebrows (21st d.).
Pimple in the left eyebrow. [Rl.]
Frequent excoriation of the left external canthus.
Soreness of the outer canthus, with burning pain.
Suppuration of the eyes, in the corners.
225. The eyes closed by suppuration, in the morning (aft. 16 h.).
Agglutination of the eyes by mucus, in the morning. [Ng.]
Lachrymation. [Ng.]
Lachrymation of the eyes (2d d.). [Htb.]
Lachrymation especially of the right eye, with smarting in a corner (27th d.). [Gff.]
230. Frequent lachrymation, and in the evening rays about the candle-light.
Dryness and burning of the eyes, even worse in the open air than in the room. [Ng.]
Sensation of dryness of the eyes (aft 2 d.).
Sensation of dryness as of sand, and overpowering sleep in the eyes.
Her eyelids close violently.
235. Difficult opening of the eyes in the morning, on awaking.
Quivering and twitching in the right eyebrow.
Staring: she can only with difficulty turn her eyes from an object, and has to fix them upon it almost against her will. [Ng.]
Her vision fails while writing, with small white stars before the eyes; the lower line seems to her to be above the upper one, so that she keeps writing into it. [Ng.]
Pain and debility of the eyes.
240. Dim-sightedness. [Ng.]
Obscuration of the right eye, in the morning for several minutes.
After working in water (washing) diminution of sight; she saw only a small part of the objects; then stitches in the head above the eyes, with inclination to vomit.

Black dots and ringlets before the eyes, in reading.

Spots, gauzes and points before the eyes, when reading and when looking out doors (aft. 24 h.).

245. A small black ball floats before her eyes.

White dots seem to fall down before his face, when he looks at the snow.

Variegated colors before the eyes.

Blue and green spots before the eyes. [Gl.]

Yellow, shining, trembling mist before the eyes. [Ng.]

250. Wheels before the eyes, with yellow and white rays, while writing on paper and in the open air; they turn around and are continually enlarged. [Ng.]

Bright sparks before the eyes.

On coughing, sparks fly from the eyes. [Rl.]

Photophobia; painful sensitiveness of the eyes to daylight; the room has to be darkened.

Straining pain in the ears.

255. Straining pain in the right ear. [Gff.]

Straining and shooting in the ears (3d d.). [Gff.]

Pinching sensation in the left external ear. [Gff.]

Drawing pain in the one, then in the other ear (aft. 4 d.).

[Rl.]

Tearing in the ear.

260. Tearing in the ears. [Hib.]

Tearing deep in the right ear, frequently renewed (1st d.).

[Ng.]

Tearing now in the one, then in the other ear.

Tearing in the interior of the right ear. [Gff.]

Tearing in the right concha (24th d.). [Gff.]

265. Transient tearing in the left ear and around it, as if in the bone. [Gff.]

Tearing in the anterior border of the right ear, frequently (1st d.). [Ng.]

Painful tearing, extending from the left ear into the outer cartilage and at the same time in the bone above and below the right patella. [Ng.]

Severe tearing in and behind the ear.

Jerking behind the right ear.

270. Twitching behind and above the ear.

Stitches in both ears, in the evening, in bed.

Sharp, lancinating pain behind and above both the ears.

Sharp stitches into the left ear, startling her, in the morning.

[Ng.]

Fine stitches out of the left ear, frequently recurring (13th d.). [Ng.]

275. Constant dull stitch in the left ear; it goes off by shaking the head. [Ng.]

Shooting and crawling in the interior of the ear, connected with a similar sensation in the stomach and in the œsophagus (30th d.). [Gff.]

- Boring and pressive pain in the ears (1st d.).
 Gnawing in the inner and outer left ear. [Ng.]
 Ulcerative pain in the outer right ear, continuing for a long time, before midnight (3d d.). [Ng.]
280. Beating in the right ear, at night, only when lying on it (aft. 2 d.). [Ng.]
 Hammering in the right ear, frequently and very disagreeably impeding the hearing.
 Quivering on the left ear (aft. 10 d.).
 Quivering and trembling in the right ear, on rising up after stooping. [Ng.]
 Itching of the lobule.
285. Violent itching in the ears (aft. 4 d.).
Tickling in the ears. [Gll.]
 Coldness of the ears, in the hot room (aft. 2 d.).
 Heat of the lobules. [Rl.]
 Sensation as if warmth streamed out of the left ear. [Ng.]
290. Redness, heat and severe itching of the external ears.
 Inflammation and swelling of the inner ear, with pain all around it (aft. 3 d.).
 Excoriation and suppuration behind the ears, for four weeks (aft. 21 d.).
 Pimples on the ears.
 Running of yellow, fluid ear-wax or pus from the ear, with previous tearing therein.
295. Secretion of an ill-smelling ichor in the inner ear.
 Opening of an ulcer in the ear (aft. 5 d.). [Rl.]
 Hard swelling of the parotid gland on the articulation of the jaw, with pain when touched.
 Sensation of stoppage of the ears. [Rl.]
 One of his ears is suddenly obstructed (aft. 3 d.). [Rl.]
300. Sudden closing of the right ear (while sitting down in the evening), and the left ear commenced to ring and to buzz, so that it shook his head somewhat.
 The hearing is, as it were, dulled, in the evening (aft. 15 d.).
 Diminution of the hearing in both ears, slowly increasing and decreasing (for 14 d.). [Ng.]
 Ringing in both ears. [Ng.]
Loud ringing in one ear and burning in the other.
305. Singing in the ears. [Gll.]
Buzzing in the ears.
 Severe rushing sound in the ears.
 Sounds in the ears. [Ng.]
 Detonations and raging in the ears, frequently by day. [Ng.]
310. Frequent cracking in the ear.
 Cracking in the ear, during a violent expiration.
 Clucking in the right ear and secretion of much soft ear-wax.
 In the nose and the root of the nose, chiefly on the right side, a squeezing (23d d.). [Gff.]
 Itching in the nose.
315. Frequent itching in the right nasal fossa. [Ng.]

Ulcerative pain in the right nasal fossa. [Ng.]

Severe burning in the nose.

Burning in the left nostril.

Burning and smarting in the upper part of the left nostril, extending into the ethmoid bone (23d d.). [Gff.]

320. Red, thick nose, it is, chiefly in the afternoon, both thicker and redder.

Severe swelling of the tip of the nose.

Red, hot nose, covered with many white pimples.

Pimples on the nose.

Flat, small ulcer above the left ala nasi, with pain when touched. [Gff.]

325. A small pimple in the left nares (aft. 5 d.). [Rl.]

Sore, scabby nostrils, for a long time.

Ulceration of both nostrils.

Ulcerated nostrils. [Htb.]

In blowing her nose, something fetid is blown out.

330. Bloody, right nostril, every morning.

Frequent epistaxis.

Epistaxis in the morning.

Acute smell.

Paleness of the face and lassitude.

335. Wretched complexion, with pale lips. [Htb.]

Blue rings around the eyes.

Pale, hollow-eyed face, especially in the open air, where the child looks as if frozen.

Pale face, with weary, lifeless eyes.

Heat and redness in the face, in the morning in bed.

340. Long-continued heat and redness of the face, while the feet are icy cold.

Burning red cheeks in the evening, for an hour and a half; then great paleness of the face.

Burning itching in the face.

Itching of the skin of the face, after previous quivering; he had to rub, when it burned like fire.

Severe swelling of the cheek, passing into a gum-boil, without any previous toothache.

345. Swelling on the right cheek, extending downward, with stitches and pain when touched.

Swollen cheek, with tearing and shooting.

Swollen, red cheek, with little eruptive pimples, also on the nose.

Eruptive pimples in the face.

Pimples come and go in the face.

350. Pimples in the face, continually. [Htb.]

Pimples in the face, with pus in their apices.

Pimples on the zygomata, with burning pain.

Painless lump on the skin, anteriorly on the cheek, below the ear. [Gff.]

Small, red pustule, in the middle of the forehead, going off the next morning. [Ng.]

355. Freckles in the face. [Htb.]
 Dry, brittle skin on the whole face.
 Pressive drawing in the muscles of the cheek, near the lower jaw. [Gff.]
 Tearing in the left zygoma, and then on the inner side of the cheek. [Gff.]
 Tearing in the left zygoma, only relieved by pressing on it, with a sensation as if the cheek was swollen, in the evening and through the night till next morning, so that she wept and could not sleep. [Ng.]
360. Tearing in the lower jaw and before the right ear. [Ng.]
 Squeezing tearing in the right zygoma, extending to the palate. [Gff.]
 Burning in the face, below the right eye. [Ng.]
 Quivering in the left cheek, with fine burning stitches, with tearing extending upward into the left temple, in the evening. [Ng.]
 Cramplike sensation in the lips.
365. Tearing in the left upper lip and in the gums; it goes off by pressing on it. [Ng.]
 Stitch in the upper lip. [Ng.]
 Burning on the lips. [Htb.]
 Burning of the lower lip. [Ng.]
 Itching about the border of the lips.
370. Eroding sore pain around the mouth on the edge of the red of the lips, very painful when touched.
 Soreness of the red of the lips; in the morning on awaking they are agglutinated as if from suppuration.
 Swelling of the upper lip, it cracks open in chaps, it is painful when touched and bleeds readily.
 Thick, ulcerated lower lip.
Scurf on the upper lip.
375. Vesicles on the red of the lower lip, which, when touched, pain and itch.
 Vesicles on the lips. [Ng.]
 Small, pointed, itching and humid pimples on both lips and around the whole mouth.
 Pimples on the lips, which smart and itch.
 Painful pimple above the upper lip, near the left nostril; it pains when touched (36th d.). [Gff.]
380. Peeling off of the lower lip (34th d.). [Gff.]
 The lips are cracked open and peel off. [Htb.]
 The lower lip peels, cracks open and scabs off. [Ng.]
 On the right side of the chin, a squeezing pain, near the articulation of the jaw. [Gff.]
 Intolerable cramp in the jaws, which, as it were, contracted the throat (the fauces?) at the same time.
385. Itching on the chin.
 The submaxillary gland pains when touched. [Rl.]
 Swelling of the lower jaw and its glands, with looseness of the teeth.

The teeth are painfully sensitive (4th d.).

Toothache with faceache; one tooth after another became loose and sensitive, or a bone in the face became painful and seemed, like the tooth, to be all sensation; then it twitched or tore at a certain point in paroxysms.

390. Pain in the teeth, daily in the morning, on awaking. [Htb.]
Pain of the teeth on the left side, in the morning in bed, and the whole forenoon (2d d.). [Ng.]

Pain in the roots of the teeth on the left side, for several mornings after awaking, increased by eating (3d d.). [Ng.]

Toothache after eating, extending to the cheek-bone and ear, where there was griping and stinging.

Toothache, when partaking of any food, but not otherwise.

395. Toothache only when eating, a throbbing in all the teeth. Pain in the teeth, when she takes water in her mouth. [Htb.]

Pain of the teeth, when he takes anything warm or cold into his mouth.

Frequent attacks of toothache as soon as he draws any cold air into his mouth; relieved by warmth. [Ng.]

Toothache, with subsequent swelling of the gums. [Ng.]

400. Toothache, like a steadily incumbent pain, as if something had got into his hollow tooth, only transiently relieved by cold water; with drawing behind the ear and on the head, finally twitches in the tooth and disappearance of the pain.

Toothache, only when eating, at noon and in the evening, often at once with the first morsel, as if something had come into his hollow tooth, with intolerable drawing extending to the eye and ear, only in paroxysms, with intermissions of half an hour.

Pressive toothache in the root of a posterior hollow molar, in the evening. [Gff.]

Drawing toothache in the evening, as soon as she gets into bed, not by day.

Drawing in the roots of the anterior teeth and in the left molars, chiefly in the evening. [Gff.]

405. Contractive toothache in the upper and lower rows of teeth. Twitching and drawing in a tooth, as if it was decaying, chiefly after a meal and at night, for a long time. [Htb.]

Tearing toothache, during or soon after eating. [Ng.]

Tearing and griping in a molar and in the left zygoma, aggravated and excited by cold substances, relieved by firmly bandaging it. [Ng.]

Tearing in the teeth and in the lower jaw on the right side.

410. Eroding, itching, violent pain in the various teeth and in the gums, not relieved by picking the teeth.

Itching in the teeth after supper. [Ng.]

Itching and digging in an upper left molar, after dinner; relieved by pressing upon it. [Ng.]

Burrowing toothache in the left lower row, caused by picking the teeth. [Ng.]

- Severe burrowing in an upper left molar, after dinner. [Ng.]
415. Boring, pressive toothache, everytime after dinner, as if something had got into the tooth.
 Beating or pecking sensation in an upper right incisor, after dinner. [Ng.]
 Throbbing and pecking in the teeth, when moving, at other times, a burning pain.
 Burning, lancinating toothache, especially at night, as if a hot iron was thrust into the teeth.
 Burning, shooting pain in the tooth, especially at night, with an internal chill, and swelling of the lower jaw and of the gums. (aft. 32 d.).
420. Shooting in the teeth and the gums, then swelling of the cheek with shooting pain (aft. 14 d.).
 Severe stitches in the teeth.
 Single stitches here and there in the anterior teeth, in the evening. [Gff.]
 Single stitches in the teeth and frequent sneezing, in the morning, on awaking. [Htb.].
 Shooting pain in the anterior teeth, with sensation of dullness at supper (32d d.). [Gff.]
425. A tooth is prominent and pains much in chewing.
 Sensation of looseness in an upper left molar. [Ng.]
 Looseness of all the teeth. [Ng.]
 Bad smell from the teeth.
 The gums just above the anterior incisors show a tearing pain. [Gff.]
430. Tickling in the gums and bleeding of the same on sucking at them with the tongue. [Ng.]
 Redder gums.
 Painful inflammation of the anterior gums.
 Severe swelling of the gums above the upper molars, with swelling of the left tonsil and of the cervical glands (9th d.).
 Gum-boil.
435. Ulcer on the lower gums on the right exterior side. [Ng.]
 Soreness of the inner gums of the anterior teeth.
Fetor of the mouth, like old cheese, every morning.
 Erosion of the inside of the mouth and of the tongue, as from something sharp.
 Soreness of the inside of the mouth.
440. Dryness of the mouth wakes him from sleep in the morning (7th d.).
 Numbness in the mouth, in the morning after awaking, as if burned. [Ng.]
 Violent burning of the mouth, in the morning, and thirst.
 Dryness in the mouth, in the morning after rising. [Ng.]
 Dryness in the mouth, without thirst, in the evening. [Ng.]
445. Dry, sticky sensation in the mouth.
 Sensation of dryness, and gathering of saliva in the mouth; he has to spit much.
 Gathering of water in the mouth. [Rl.]

Continual gathering of water in the mouth. [Ng.]

Much saliva in the mouth, continually.

450. Much saliva runs from his mouth, even by day.

Painful blisters on all parts inside of the mouth, with burning pain.

The tongue, on awaking in the morning, is often quite dried up, and almost without sensation. [Htb.]

White, dry tongue in the morning, as from something acrid.

Burning of the tongue and lower lip. [Ng.]

455. Burning of the tip of the tongue, as if it was raw or full of blisters. [Ng.]

Swelling of the tongue, and many small painful vesicles on it.

Painful vesicles on the tongue and the gums.

Painful little pimple on the tip of the tongue.

Soreness on the frænum linguæ.

460. Soreness of the tip of the tongue.

On the palate, itching (10th d.). [Htb.]

Shooting and smarting in the back part of the palate, as if from too great dryness before the breaking out of a cold, increased by deglutition, in the morning and evening (8th, 9th, 29th, 30th, 41st d.). [Gff.]

Sore throat, with impeded deglutition and difficult opening of the mouth.

Interference with swallowing, in the œsophagus.

465. Tendency to choke while eating.

During deglutition, pressure in the spine.

Difficult deglutition, the food descends very slowly in the œsophagus.

Sensitiveness of the œsophagus; warm food burns it; she can only eat lukewarm food.

The food does not pass down; dry and cold things she cannot swallow at all.

470. Pressure and tearing in the fauces (9th d.). [Gff.]

Anxious pressure in the throat.

Sensation as of a lump in the throat.

Sore throat on the left side; he feels a lump there, and stinging during empty deglutition. [Rl.]

Shooting pain in the fauces, as if he had a fish-bone in it, when he gets cold.

475. Elongation of the uvula, with stiffness of the nape. [Gll.]

Pain, as from soreness in the throat.

Pain, as from soreness, in the throat, in the upper part of the palate, during empty deglutition, and more strongly when swallowing food; but not when not swallowing.

Eroding sore throat, when swallowing.

Scrapy and scratchy in the throat (aft. 8d.).

480. Dryness in the back part of the throat. [Rl.]

Frequently much mucus in the throat (the first 3 d.).

Much mucus in the throat, especially in the morning. [Htb.]

Much mucus back in the throat, which can only be detached with much hawking. [Ng.]

- Increased hawking of mucus (19th d.). [Gff.]
485. Tough mucus, back in the fauces in the morning; it can neither be swallowed down easily nor hawked up, with a constant sensation as if a plug of mucus lodged in his throat (16th d.).
 Loss of the sense of taste, in the morning on awaking, but only for a short time (2d d.). [Ng.]
 Bad taste in the mouth. [Htb.]
 Bad taste, and much mucus in the mouth.
 Disagreeable, watery taste in the mouth.
490. Disagreeable, sticky saliva in the mouth.
 Bitter taste in the mouth, with nausea (1st d.). [Ng.]
 Bitterness in the mouth.
 Bitterness in the throat.
 Bitter taste, in the morning.
495. Bitter-sour taste in the mouth, after breakfast.
 Sour taste in the mouth, every day.
 Putrid taste in the mouth.
 Sweetish taste in the mouth.
 Taste of blood in the morning, after awaking, for three hours, [Ng.]
500. Little appetite. [Gff.]
 Little appetite, with insipidity in the mouth, but he relishes food.
 Severe hunger.
 Severe thirst, in the forenoon.
 Thirst in the evening, before lying down. [Ng.]
505. Thirst, at night. [Ng.]
 He does not relish his food, he eats without hunger.
 He has a repugnance to food, especially to meat; he relishes it, indeed, when he eats it, but he cannot eat much. [Gff.]
 He loathes rye-bread.
 He loathes everything.
510. Milk does not agree with her.
 Bread alone feels heavy in the stomach after eating.
 Great desire for sour things.
 Before and after dinner, paleness of the face and nausea, vertigo with eructation, weariness of the lower limbs and coldness of the hands and feet; but not without appetite. [Gff.]
 While eating (fried fish), nausea even to vomiting.
515. During a meal, he is seized with drowsiness (aft. 2, 4 d.).
 After meals, very tired and sleepy. [Htb.]
 After meals, great drowsiness, with chill and yawning.
 After meals, weariness, with throbbing in the scrobiculus cordis and headache.
 During dinner, peevish, cross mood, with drawing pain in the head (30th d.). [Gff.]
520. After dinner, constriction of the head, like as from a hoop around it.
 After meals, paleness of the face.
 After eating soup, at noon and in the evening, as also after eating warm cake in the morning, pinching and restlessness in the abdomen. [Gff.]

After meals, especially after breakfast, pressure in the stomach as from a weight in it.

After meals, the abdomen is distended.

525. After eating but a little, there is at once fullness and violent distension of the abdomen. [Gff.]

After breakfast, pressive pain in the abdomen, from flatulence, only transiently relieved by the emission of flatus (14th d.). [Gff.]

After dinner, dull shooting in the right side of the epigastrium. [Gff.]

After meals, tickling urging to cough (aft. 6 d.).

After meals, a chill.

530. After eating flatulent food (vegetables), burning from the stomach up into the fauces, like heartburn.

After supper, heartburn for three hours.

After meals, sour eructations.

Frequent eructation, especially in the morning.

Ineffectual urging to eructation, and then spasmodic contraction in the stomach, in the morning and afternoon. [Ng.]

535. Loud eructation, with gathering of water in the mouth. [Ng.]

Eructation, with the taste of the ingesta.

Eructation, as from bitter-sour water. [Ng.]

Sour eructation, in the morning (10th d.).

Much sourish eructation, in the afternoon with inclination to vomit.

540. Acid rises from the stomach into the mouth.

Sour eructation.

Regurgitation of food and acid, after severe restlessness from the scrobiculus cordis. [Gl.]

Regurgitation of waters from the stomach, of this she spit out much after midnight. [Ng.]

Something continually tends to rise up from the stomach into the mouth (soon). [Ng.]

545. Heartburn.

Hiccup (at noon). [Ng.]

Continual hiccup before midnight. [Ng.]

Qualmishness all day, and much eructation at once on rising.

[Rl.]

Qualmishness, as if he would faint.

550. Nausea, as if she would faint, it only went off by lying down; in the forenoon.

Nausea, as if she would faint. [Htb.]

Nausea, for an hour in the forenoon.

Severe nausea in the stomach, with trembling of hands and feet. [Ng.]

Nausea as from a spoiled or empty stomach, not passing off by eating, with frequent waterbrash. [Ng.]

555. Nausea with qualmishness, gathering of saliva in the mouth (and diarrhœa). [Rl.]

Waterbrash.

Continual loathing, as if he would vomit (soon). [Ng.]

Nausea, with inclination to vomit at night in bed; it goes off gradually by rising. [Ng.]

- Very ready to vomit, especially after meals.
560. Inclination to vomit, at every internal motion, every vexation and every joy, and at every time of the day; but when she has fasted, only retching.
 Retching for several evenings.
 Retching in the throat, increasing for a time, then decreasing, with short breath. [Ng.]
 Frequent vomiting, without any overloading or spoiling of the stomach; the next day she is weak, without appetite (aft. 13 d.).
 Vomiting with sinking of strength, like a swoon. [Gl.]
565. Vomiting of food and acid, with nausea. [Gl.]
 The child becomes glowing red in the face in the morning; it vomits up its breakfast, and then becomes pale as a corpse; after vomiting several times it recovers, but remains very languid for two days.
 Frequent pain in the stomach, but seldom in the afternoon, always preceded by swashing in the abdomen, relieved by eructation and passage of flatus. [Ng.]
 Pressure in the stomach, with rumbling, sensation of emptiness and eructation. [Ng.]
 Frequent pressure in the stomach, in the morning, on awaking.
570. Pressure as from a stone in the stomach, in the morning, in bed, relieved by hawking. [Ng.]
 Fits of pressure in the stomach, extending up into the chest, with want of breath even to suffocation, nausea and great exhaustion; she had to lie down, both her feet and hands trembled, relief being afforded by vomiting bitter water. [Ng.]
 Pressure transversely across the stomach and below the hypochondria, in the evening, in bed, for half an hour.
 Pressure in the scrobiculus cordis (aft. 21 d.). [Htb.]
 Pressure in the scrobiculus cordis and the region of the lower chest, with impeded breath and rising of heat to the head, going off after one hour through eructation. [Ng.]
575. Pressure below the scrobiculus cordis, in the morning and the afternoon, relieved by bending the body backward and after eating.
 Pressive pain in the scrobiculus cordis, compelling him to lie down.
 Heaviness in the stomach.
 Fullness and pressure in the gastric region.
 Fullness in the pit of the stomach.
580. Feeling as if the whole gastric region was swollen. [Ng.]
 Constant feeling in the stomach as if it was full of water. [Ng.]
 Cramplike pains in the stomach, with pressure in the scrobiculus cordis.
 Severe spasmodic pain in the stomach, almost like pressure and cutting (soon). [Ng.]
 Violent but intermitting pains in the stomach, relieved by walking, in the morning. [Ng.]

585. Spasmodic contraction in the pit of the stomach and across the chest.

Violent contractive pains in the stomach, also at 1 A. M. extending to the chest and axillæ, where they become shooting pains, with choking in the throat and tightness of breath; then anxiety and brief perspiration, and eructation, which relieves; recurring in frequent paroxysms till the morning. [Ng.]

Painful contraction from both sides of the stomach, with sensation of fullness, relieved by vomiting clear water. [Ng.]

Pains as if the stomach was being screwed together, especially at night, extending into the chest and the bowels, as if they would burst the stomach, impeding the breath and speech, in paroxysms. [Ng.]

Constrictive pain in the stomach and toward the fauces.

590. The constrictive cramplike pains of the stomach are renewed by the least eating of (especially cold) food and drink. [Ng.]

The paroxysms of constrictive cramplike stomachache are frequently followed by relieving eructation, or by chills with shivering and shaking, but affecting chiefly the hands, the back and the head, with customary stools. [Ng.]

Drawing and cutting across the stomach, in the morning, after rising.

Cutting stomachache, toward evening. [Ng.]

Sensation as if the stomach was cut to pieces, with great sensitiveness of the external gastric region, in the morning [Ng.]

595. Painful cutting in the pit of the stomach, during and after breakfast. [Ng.]

Burrowing in the stomach, with painful contraction and a sensation as if everything in it was turning over, with rising of water into the mouth; it goes off through dinner, but returning afterward, with burning extending up into the throat. [Ng.]

Burrowing and digging in the stomach, as if it would be pierced. [Ng.]

Burrowing in the pit of the stomach, in the afternoon; then frequent eructation of bitter water, almost like waterbrash.

Shooting pain in the stomach, with a sensation as if everything in it would turn over, returning after dinner. [Ng.]

600. Shooting in the stomach, drawing up into the left axilla and later into the sacrum. [Ng.]

Sore pain in the pit of the stomach, both at inspiration and expiration.

Sudden blow in the stomach, passing over into eructation of air or hiccup.

Twitching on the right side, near the scrobiculus cordis (aft. sever. h.).

Throbbing in the gastric region, which pains when touched.

605. Throbbing in the scrobiculus cordis, like severe palpitation, while the scrobiculus cordis is visibly raised at every throbbing; chiefly in the morning, lasting a quarter of an hour.

Beating on the left side, near the scrobiculus cordis.

Ebullition of heat from the abdomen into the stomach, in the forenoon. [Ng.]

- Burning in the stomach.
 Burning in the stomach, after eructation, in the forenoon.
610. Sour burning, rising up from the stomach, with slight spasmodic constriction.
 Sensation in the stomach, as from flatus.
 Growling, rumbling and moving about in the abdomen, as from flatus, or as if diarrhœa was coming. [Ng.]
 Great sensitiveness of the external gastric region, when touched, when eating, talking, etc. [Ng.]
 Itching, externally on the scrobiculus cordis; it does not go off by scratching. [Ng.]
615. In the hypochondria, a simple pain, with growling there.
 Stitches in the hypochondria and the scrobiculus cordis, taking away the breath.
 Burning stitches in both costal regions frequently recurring in the afternoon (12th d.). [Ng.]
 Pain in the liver, when walking, for several days in succession.
 Pain in the liver, as if pressed sore.
620. Pressure toward the liver, as if starting from the right side of the chest, with throbbing in the gastric region, which is painful when touched.
 It changes the pressure in the liver into a sensation of heaviness there.
 Drawing pain in the liver.
 Cutting pain in the right infra-costal region, with pressure in the scrobiculus cordis. [Ng.]
 Lancinating tearing, in the right infra-costal region. [Gff.]
625. Shooting in the hepatic region, which feels like splenic stitches.
 Stitches under the last true rib, when taking breath (1st d.).
 Stitches under the last true rib, unconnected with breathing, for four days.
 Stitches between the middle ribs on the right side, when sitting (1st d.). [Ng.]
 Dull stitches in the right side, below the ribs, in the morning. [Gff.]
630. Dull stitches in the hepatic and the right inguinal region. [Gff.]
 Sharp stitches in the hepatic region. [Gff.]
 Dull stitches frequently on a small spot of the hepatic region, with sore pain when touched (18th d.). [Gff.]
 Pinching stitches in the hepatic region. [Gff.]
 Shooting throbbing on a rib of the right side, opposite the scrobiculus cordis. [Ng.]
635. Sensation of heat in the hepatic region.
 Burning pain in the hepatic region (the first days).
 In the left costal region, tearing shooting, arresting the breath. [Ng.]
 Cutting pain in the left epigastrium, coming from the lower part of the chest, where there are stitches at the same time. [Gff.]

- Bellyache with severe pain, which at times extended even to the hip, till late at night (1st d.). [Htb.]
640. Bellyache, with much eructation.
Bellyache, with much eructation and spitting of saliva.
Pressure in the abdomen.
Pressive pain in the epigastrium, extending to the scrobiculus cordis, in the evening (35th d.). [Gff.]
Pressure in the hypogastrium (26th d.). [Gff.]
645. Severe pressure in the left side of the abdomen, from stooping (9th d.).
Pressive pain on a small spot in the left hypogastrium, in the evening (39th d.). [Gff.]
Pressive pain in the hypogastrium above the os pubis, in frequent paroxysms; it goes off by emission of flatus (1st d.). [Ng.]
Pressure and burrowing in the abdomen, below the navel, as from incarcerated flatus; he has to sit stooping forward, and feels worse when walking in the open air (19th d.).
Distention of the abdomen with pressive pain, sensation of fullness, lassitude and indisposition to any movement and to mental occupation. [Gff.]
650. Sensation of distension in the hypogastrium below the navel, going off by motion. [Ng.]
Abdomen much distended.
Very much inflated and distended abdomen, after the cough has disappeared on taking Kali.
Inflated abdomen. [Gff.]
Hard inflation of the abdomen, with painfulness of the umbilical region, when touched.
655. Inflation, pressing asunder and pinching in the abdomen, followed by a soft stool. [Ng.]
Bloated abdomen.
The hypogastrium, as it were, distended, and heaviness in it, when sitting and walking (aft. 3 h.).
Sensation of a heavy load in the hypogastrium, the pain is more pressive than pinching, and most intolerable when walking (aft. 3 h.).
Cramplike colic (aft. 25 d.). [Htb.]
660. Spasmodic contraction of the abdomen, causing a coldness.
Contractive pain in the abdomen.
Painful indrawing of the umbilical region while sitting; it goes off by moving. [Ng.]
Pressing out of the hypogastrium, repeatedly (aft. 10 d.).
Pinching colic in the epigastrium, in the morning (11th d.). [Gff.]
665. Pinching colic in the hypogastrium (30th d.). [Gff.]
Twitches in the hypogastrium.
Pinching below the navel during dinner, and after rising from the seat, burning in the right inguinal region, with great sensitiveness of the same, both internally and externally, and a sensation on stooping, as if something would fall out, going off gradually while at rest. [Ng.]

- Pinching pressure in the left epigastrium as from incarcerated flatus (11th d.). [Gff.]
- Pinching in the epigastrium, toward noon (25th d.). [Gff.]
670. Pinching in the abdomen, and inflation of the same.
Pinching in the abdomen in the morning in bed, after previous chill, with urging to a soft stool.
Cutting in the bowels, with severe pains; to relieve himself he has to sit bent forward, and press on the abdomen with both hands, or else recline far backward; he cannot sit up straight.
Cutting in the epigastrium as from flatus moving about, with passage of flatus while walking. [Gff.]
675. Cutting in the left epigastrium. [Gff.]
Frequent cutting in the abdomen, as if diarrhoea was imminent.
Frequent light cutting about the navel. [Ng.]
Cutting in the abdomen, as if everything would be torn, first deep in the hypogastrium, then higher up (1st d.).
Cutting and drawing in the abdomen, like false labor-pains (12th d.).
Tearing, at times twitching, in the right side of the abdomen or the flank, in the evening (16th, 17th d.). [Gff.]
680. Intermittent tearing or dull stitches in the left hypogastrium, near the hip (11th d.). [Gff.]
Stitches in the abdomen, in the forenoon and again in the evening.
Occasional shooting above the navel, as from flatulence.
Shooting in the right side of the abdomen, as after retaining the urine when asleep, relieved by emission of flatulence.
Shooting in the right side of the abdomen, when laughing.
685. Shooting, like fine twitches, in the right side of the abdomen.
Shooting in the left side of the abdomen, below the ribs. [Gff.]
Sharp stitches and shooting tearing in the left side of the abdomen, below the short ribs (8th, 9th, 17th, 24th d.). [Gff.]
Several violent stitches in the hypogastrium (aft. 6 h.).
Dull shooting on the right side, near the navel (19th d.). [Gff.]
690. Dull stitches and pressure in the left epigastrium (10th, 20th d.). [Gff.]
Dull stitches in the left renal region, first during expiration, afterward in close succession, going off by rubbing. [Ng.]
Pinching, cutting shooting deep in the left hypogastrium, as from obstructed flatus, extending to the anus and the perinæum, painfully aggravated by drawing in the belly, and but little relieved by emission of flatus (19th d.). [Gff.]
Sore pain in the abdomen, with pressure toward the genitals, as in the menses; and pain in the sacrum.
Pain, as from contusion, in both renal regions, long continued, in the afternoon, when sitting (1st d.). [Ng.]
695. Beating in the abdomen.
Burning and drawing in the abdomen.

Burning around the navel, with pinching in the abdomen, during dinner. [Ng.]

Sensation of cold in the abdomen, as if a cold fluid were passing through the bowels (during the menses). [Ng.]

Chill and swashing in the abdomen, as if it was full of water, but mostly only on the right side, in the evening. [Ng.]

700. The abdominal muscles are painful when touched.

Itching on the hypogastrium for several days (aft. 10 d.).

Itching about the navel. [Gll.]

In the right groin, pain as from something swollen. [Rl.]

Pain in the right inguinal region, on drawing in the abdomen (29th d.). [Gff.]

705. Pressure in the groin, as from a hernia..

Straining in the groins, with sensitiveness when touched (it disappears on the emission of flatus). [Ng.]

Painful inflation in both groins, after dinner, while sitting. [Ng.]

Pinching in both groins, then shooting in the anus like needle-pricks when sitting; still worse on rising; lastly it comes on when walking about and is aggravated in sitting; with tenesmus. [Ng.]

Drawing shooting and outward pressure in the inguinal region, as if the old cicatrix of an operation for hernia would open again. [Ng.]

710. Stitches in the groins and flanks, on moving or stretching. [Ng.]

Sudden lancinating pain in the left inguinal region, during stool, with swelling of the glands.

Intermittent, clucking, outward pressure, in the right inguinal region (27th d.). [Gff.]

Much trouble from flatulence (1st, 2d, 3d d.).

Colic from flatus.

715. Flatulent colic; after eructation and emission of flatus, it goes off.

Obstruction of flatus (also aft. 20 d.).

Obstruction of flatus, with bellyache.

Emission of flatus difficult and obstructed, with insufficient stool.

The flatus settles painfully on the bladder (aft. 2 d.).

720. Moving about of flatus in the abdomen with tenesmus; it goes off through emission of flatus. [Ng.]

Moving about in the abdomen, then cutting in the stomach, with pressure extending to the throat, both at rest and in motion. [Ng.]

Constant growling in the abdomen, with frequent eructation and yawning. [Ng.]

Cooing in the epigastrium (before dinner), as if in diarrhoea, and slight bellyache (1st d.). [Gff.]

Clucking in the left hypogastrium, when pressing on it.

725. Obstruction of flatus, in the beginning, then inordinately much emission of flatus.

- Forcible emission of flatus, he can hardly keep it back.
 Flatus emitted upward and downward, with relief. [Ng.]
 Emission of fetid flatus. [Gll.]
 Frequent emission of fetid flatus, at night. [Ng.]
730. Much emission of flatus (aft. 14 d.).
 Ineffectual call to stool, with sensation as if the rectum was too weak to expel the fæces.
 Frequent violent urging to stool, in paroxysms, but only little fæces or only some flatus is discharged. [Ng.]
 Repeated urging to stool at night, it goes off by the emission of some flatus (aft. 3 d.). [Ng.]
 Much urging to stool, something is passed every time.
735. Frequent call to stool, but only a little is discharged.
 Frequent urging to stool; he feels as if he could not discharge all the fæces at one time (aft. 24 h.).
 Insufficient evacuation; most of the fæces are retained.
 Insufficient stool, after much straining. [Gff.]
Insufficient soft stool. [Rl.]
740. Tenacious stool, as if it could not be detached. [Rl.]
 Tough, soft, dark colored evacuation. [Gff.]
 Costiveness (aft. 3 d.).
 Costiveness and painful drawing in the abdomen.
 Very hard stool and restlessness in the abdomen.
745. Hard, delayed stool, at times with severe straining, or with tenesmus afterward. [Ng.]
 Hard, scanty stool in the morning, then in the forenoon another, a soft stool (2d d.). [Ng.]
 Very hard stool, and only every other day.
 Stool like sheep's dung, only discharged with pain and effort.
 Three scanty stools, but else normal (1st d.). [Ng.]
750. Copious, brown stool. [Gll.]
 Stools rather soft than hard, for several days (aft. 4 d.). [Ng.]
 Soft stools with previous colic (1st d.). [Ng.]
 Soft stool, followed by burning in anus (aft. ½ h.). [Ng.]
 Thin stool, with pinching and restlessness in the abdomen.
755. Scanty, half-liquid stools, with bellyache and subsequent tenesmus. [Ng.]
 Half-liquid stool in the morning, with previous abdominal pains. [Ng.]
 Hurried call to stool, as in diarrhoea, though the evacuation was hard, with bellyache (soon after a new dose). [Ng.]
 Diarrhoea at night, with intolerable bellyache, continuing also the following day. [Htb.]
 Diarrhoea, in the evening. [Htb.]
760. Severe diarrhoea, day and night (aft. 22 d.). [Htb.]
 Severe diarrhoea, with great lassitude (aft. 27 d.). [Htb.]
 Diarrhoea, with pinching, deep in the abdomen, before and afterward. [Gll.]
 Diarrhoeic stool, with pinching in the abdomen before, and burning in the rectum afterward.

- Severe diarrhœa, with much colic (aft. 4 d.).
765. Diarrhœic stool, with smarting pains in the anus (aft. 8 d.).
Diarrhœa without pain, with rumbling in the abdomen. [Gll.]
Diarrhœa for the first fourteen days, with great lassitude, lying down, lack of appetite and daily bellyache; fæces light-
colored and gray.
Too liquid stools, after previous rumbling in the abdomen.
[Ng.]
Fæces very fetid.
770. Unobserved discharge of thin stool, during emission of flatus.
Blood with the stool, for several days (aft. 4 d.).
Stools colored with blood, and then anxiety and dyspnœa.
White mucus is discharged from the anus before and during the stool.
A lumbrius is discharged with the stool. [Ng.]
775. Pieces of a tapeworm discharged with a solid stool. [Ng.]
During ordinary stool, painful straining toward the groin.
[Ng.]
At the commencement of the stool, a severe attack of cramp in the stomach, so that she had to sit down at once; she passed urine, and while sitting, the pain increased so much that she bent double and could not speak; with nausea, regurgitation and vomiting of water, with retching; before the vomiting a shudder; during the vomiting, reeling, with shaking of hands and feet, then anxiety, and heat in the whole body; relief of the pain, deadly paleness of the face, and at last an ordinary stool (aft.  $\frac{1}{4}$  h.).
[Ng.]
With ordinary stool, colic and then a constant tenesmus, until in the afternoon another stool, a liquid one, followed (4th
d.). [Ng.]
After the ordinary stool, renewal of the pains, in the morning
(2d d.). [Ng.]
780. After the ordinary stool, tenesmus in the anus (1st and 4th
d.). [Ng.]
After the stool, continual burning in the anus. [Ng.]
After the stool, shudder about the anus, for half an hour.
After a difficult, scanty stool, pressure in the abdomen. [Gff.]
Pain in the anus, after vomiting, as if it would burst, almost intolerable. [Ng.]
785. Tenesmus in the anus. [Gff.]
Tenesmus in the rectum and anus.
Shooting, tearing and cutting in the anus (repeated for several days). [Gff.]
Shooting in the rectum.
Shooting in the anus, like needle-pricks.
790. Often repeated shooting in the anus, unconnected with stool.
[Ng.]
Itching in the anus. [Gff.]
Violent itching in the anus and the scrotum.
Itching in the anus after supper.
Crawling in the anus (also aft. 6 d.). [Rl.]

795. Violent itching and crawling in the anus, long continued, in the evening (1st d.). [Ng.]
 Crawling and shooting in the anus, in the evening. [Gff.]
 Stinging crawling in the anus, before every stool.
Burning in the anus, without tenesmus.
 Burning in the anus, during and after the dry stool. [Gff.]
800. Burning in the anus, so that he could not sleep (aft 21 d.).
 Burning in the rectum, after the stool.
 Burning and contraction in the anus.
 Burning and pinching in the anus.
Burning and pinching in the rectum, frequently (the first days).
805. Burning cutting in the anus. [Gff.]
 Excoriation in the anus, in the evening. [Gff.]
 Smarting sensation of excoriation on and above the anus after the (morning) stool. [Gff.]
 Excoriation in the anus (5th d.).
 Little pimples on the anus.
810. Ulcerated pimples on the anus, with shooting.
 The varices of the rectum swell and protrude during a hard stool.
 Protrusion of the varices, during a diarrhœic stool, with needle-pricking and burning in them, for many hours.
Large, painful varices of the anus.
 The varices protrude much during urination, and emit, at first, blood, but on the following days, white mucus.
815. The varices on the anus are thickly swollen and there is much emission of blood from them during urination.
 Much emission of blood from the swollen varices of the anus, with a normal stool.
 Profuse emission of blood from the rectum, then restlessness in the blood and pulsation in the whole body.
 Burning of the anus, varices, with severe pain when walking.
 Inflammation of the varices of the anus (aft. 24 h.).
820. Sore pain in the varices of the anus.
 Shooting in the varices of the anus.
 Crawling in the varices of the anus, as from worms.
Much urging to urinate.
 Urging to urinate, but it is some time before he could do so; it flowed very slowly.
825. He had to urinate frequently; but the bladder had to be pressed on a long time before the urine passed; also at night, he had to rise for it repeatedly, though he drinks but little.
 She had to rise at night to urinate.
 He had to rise repeatedly at night to urinate (3d, 4th d.).
 [Ng.]
 She has to urinate frequently, only a little being emitted each time, but every time with a renewed subsequent urging thereto, which is almost painful (aft. 48 h.).
 She has to strain during micturition, before the urine comes.
830. Scanty, pale urine (1st and 2d d.) more on 3d d. [Ng.]

Increase of urine, at least she has to urinate more frequently.

[Ng.]

An unusual secretion of urine (the first days).

While busily occupied, she had to hastily pass a few drops of urine.

After micturition, a few drops follow after.

835. Passage of a few drops of urine, two or three minutes after micturition.

Turbid urine. [Gff.]

Greenish, pale urine, with burning during and after micturition (8th d.). [Ng.]

Dark yellow urine, with a cloud, an hour later, more pale urine (aft. 1 h.). [Ng.]

Scalding, diminished urine (at first). [Ng.]

840. Urine, like clayey water, with a copious sediment on standing. [Ng.]

Interrupted stream of urine, painless, in the afternoon (1st d.). [Ng.]

After micturition, emission of a milky, inodorous, flaky liquid (prostatic juice?).

Cutting in the region of the bladder.

Cutting tearing in the neck of the bladder, during micturition, increased by forcing out the urine (36th d.). [Gff.]

845. Tearing in the neck of the bladder, unconnected with micturition (37th d.). [Gff.]

Intermittent cutting in the urethra, unconnected with micturition; this becomes a tearing pain in the glans, and especially in its orifice (7th d.). [Gff.]

Frequent drawing and sharp tearing in the anterior part of the urethra (18th, 19th d.). [Gff.]

Tearing pain in the urethra.

Pinching tearing pains in the urethra (aft. 12 d.).

850. Burning in the urethra, during micturition.

Burning in the urethra, during micturition. [Ng.]

Burning in the urethra, after micturition (aft. 5 d.).

Burning smarting pain in the urethra, during and after micturition.

Burning and smarting in the orifice of the urethra and the upper part of the inner surface of the prepuce, in the morning in bed, soon after micturition (20th, 21st d.). [Gff.]

855. On the mons veneris, and near the genitals on the thighs, violent itching, with fine, red eruptive pimples.

On the penis, a straining sensation (aft. 24 d.).

Sharp, drawing pains through the penis (12th d.). [Rl.]

Tearing drawing in the penis (24th d.). [Gff.]

Clucking in the glans (aft. 2 d.). [Rl.]

860. Tearing in the glans (aft. 20 d.). [Gff.]

Shooting itching on the glans.

In the left testicle, a straining sensation.

Pinching in the left testicle, and in the os pubis.

- Swelling of the testes and the spermatic cord, with heat perceptible externally.
865. The scrotum is painful, as if contused.
Itching of the scrotum.
 Soreness of the scrotum (aft. 17 d.). [RL.]
Sexual impulse much excited. [Gff.]
 Violent sexual impulse.
870. Excited sexual instinct (aft. 24 h.).
 Excites the sexual organs, with sensation of burning.
 The male genitals strongly smell of semen.
 Lack of sexual impulse, with undiminished morning erections.
 Erections at night, without excitement of the fancy (aft. 7 d.).
875. Frequent erections (aft. 13 d.). [Ng.]
 Impetuous erections (aft. 24 h.).
 Many, even painful erections, with spasmodic contraction in the spermatic cords.
 No erections at all, for the first eighteen days.
 Pollutions for two nights in succession (1st, 2d n.).
880. Pollutions with voluptuous dreams (the first days). [Ng.]
 Profuse pollution with subsequent languor (aft. 23 d.). [Ng.]
 Pollutions with great subsequent lassitude (3d, 4th, 7th n.). [Gff.]
 The pollutions, formerly frequent, occur more rarely (aft. 14 d.).
 The usual pollutions are suppressed for forty-two days.
885. Coitus without emission of semen (aft. 10 d.).
 After coitus, lascivious dreams at night and pollution. [RL.]
 Aversion of female to coitus (the first days).
 She is easily excited to coitus (aft. 29 d.).
 During coitus, pinching in the vagina.
890. During coitus, sore pain in the vagina.
 On the pudenda, on the left side, tearing, extending through the abdomen up into the chest.
 Pinching pain in the labia.
 Stitches across the pudenda.
 Burning shooting on the pudenda.
895. Burning and itching on the pudenda.
 Burning, smarting pimples on the pudenda.
 Menses too early, by two days, immediately after a new dose (8th d.). [Ng.]
 Menses four days too early (aft. 24 h.).
 Menses five days too early, more copious and lasting longer than usual. [Ng.]
900. Menses six days too early. [Htb.]
 Menses six days too early, the first day scanty, on the second more copious than usual, on the third day again scanty, ceasing entirely on the fourth day. [Ng.]
 Menses too early by ten days, and lasting six days; during the first days, weak, but during the later days more profuse; with lassitude and drowsiness, pains in the abdomen and toothache. [Htb.]

The menses, which had stopped for eighty-seven days, now return again, without any other ailment than that she felt heavy in her limbs the day before (3d d.).

The suppressed menses return with a better color (5th d.).

905. Menses too late by one day, with pain in the hypogastrium. [Ng.]

It retards the menses (in its after-effects) by thirteen days.

The menstrual blood is very acrid, of a bad, sharp smell, and she becomes eroded from it on the thighs, which are covered with an eruption.

Before, during and after the menses, much erosion about the pudenda.

Before the appearance of the menses, on awaking from sleep in the morning, voluptuous sensations, as from coitus.

910. Before the menses, much heat, great thirst and restless nights.

A week before the menses appear, there is restlessness, as if the menses would come at once (aft. 16 d.).

Before the menses, much chilliness, trembling of the limbs and cramp-like sensations in the abdomen.

During the menses, in the morning, headache, with great heaviness. [Ng.]

During the menses, she feels full and sick after meals, and soon afterward she vomits.

915. When the (retarded) menses ought to have appeared, and did not come, there appeared sour eructation, swelling of the cheek, with stitches, but without any heat, and swelling of the gum.

During the menses, colic, putrid taste in the mouth, rumbling in the abdomen, great lassitude and drowsiness. [Htb.]

During the menses, on the second day, severe headache, from morning till evening. [Htb.]

During the menses, much flatus, bad taste in the mouth, and frequent eructations tasting of bile.

During the menses, cutting in the abdomen. [Ng.]

920. During the menses, severe pressure in the sacrum and anteriorly in the hypogastrium, as if everything was coming out at the genital organs.

During the menses, costiveness.

During the menses, pains in the sacrum, like heaviness. [Ng.]

During the menses, on the second day, coryza, pain in the abdomen, toothache, backache, stitches in the ears and restless sleep.

[Htb.]

During the menses, very restless sleep, with anxious dreams.

925. During the menses, she goes to sleep again in the morning on awaking, but passes into a very disagreeable state, between sleeping and waking; she is then tormented by hearing things which distress her, though she knows she is only dreaming; but she is unable to open her eyes, and has great difficulty in tearing herself from this half-sleep.

During the menses, violent itching of the whole body.

After the menses, in the evening, coldness in the back, and awaking after midnight with cramp and coldness in the stomach, which continues till about noon (aft. 19 d.).

A female in the fifth month of her pregnancy (after some vexation) is attacked at night with a severe hemorrhage from the vagina, with clots of coagulated blood, attended with a dull headache and a yellow complexion, but without miscarriage.

Leucorrhœa (3d d.). [Ng.]

930. Discharge from the vagina (the first 5 days).

Discharge, like mucus, from the vagina.

Yellowish discharge from the vagina, with itching and burning of the pudenda.

* * * * *

Stuffed coryza (aft. 26 d.). [Htb.]

Stuffed coryza, which is loosened in the afternoon, during a walk (aft. 3 d.). [Ng.]

935. Stuffed coryza, with itching in the nose; she has difficulty in breathing through the nose, for several days (aft. 4 d.). [Ng.]

Stuffed coryza, frequently, also in the evening, in bed, with crawling in the throat (aft. 11 d.) [Gff.]

Severe stuffed coryza, so that he could hardly get breath.

Stuffed coryza, with much yellowish green mucus from the nose.

Stoppage of the nose.

940. Expulsion of purulent matter from the right nostril, followed by stoppage, and when blown, there arises a shooting, contractive pain, extending into the occiput. [Gll.]

Fluent coryza, with excessive sneezing, some thirty times a day.

Fluent coryza, almost the whole day, but especially in the evening.

Severe fluent coryza, every evening, with frequent sneezing.

Severe fluent coryza.

945. Severe fluent coryza, with much sneezing, backache and headache (aft. 10 d.).

Excessive fluent coryza (aft. 29 d.).

Coryza with bloody mucus from the nose (aft. 8 d.). [Htb.]

On the larynx, frequent drawing pain, with sensation of rawness.

When eating, some of the food is apt to get into the larynx, causing him to choke.

950. Rough voice.

Very rough sensation in the throat, with much sneezing.

Sore throat with cough.

Sore throat when the body is uncovered.

Very rough and hoarse in the throat, for several days. [Htb.]

955. Complete hoarseness and aphony (aft. 24 h.).

At first, hoarseness, then excessive fluent coryza.

Hoarseness as if something was lodged in the throat, exciting him to hawk.

It feels as if there was a plug sticking in the throat; by coughing, it is detached and the throat is cleared.

Scrapy sensation on the chest, caused by the wind.

960. Growling and slight snoring in the trachea, while respiring, before the cough sets in.

Tickling in the larynx, exciting to cough, with severe hoarseness. [Rl.]

Crawling in the throat, exciting hawking and coughing, with sensation as if the mucus was firmly attached, in the morning and evening (12th, 22d, 29th d.). [Gff.]

Cough, from titillation in the throat (20th d.).* [Gff.]

Cough, from titillation in the throat, without expectoration.

[Gl.]

965. Scrapy, scratching cough.

Cough, which affects the chest, from tickling in the throat.

Cough, from titillation.

Cough, when playing the violin.

Severe cough, while fasting in the morning; it disappears after breakfast.

970. In the morning, hawking with expectoration.

In the morning at once at 3 o'clock, she begins to cough, and this recurs every half hour.

In the morning, much cough, with expectoration, but more yet in the evening.

Evening cough when in bed.

Every evening, severe cough, when she has lain in bed a while, for several weeks.

975. In the evening, fatiguing cough.

She has to cough every five minutes, from 9 P. M. till morning.

Nocturnal cough.

At night she is awakened by her cough.

Frequent cough before midnight, but none by day.

980. Hacking cough, with some expectoration, mostly only at night and in the morning, attended with coryza.

Frequent tussiculation, in the afternoon and the following forenoon (aft. 6 d.). [Ng.]

Spasmodic and irritated cough, in single strong paroxysms, even to choking, with a sore pain in the upper part of the head and great lassitude afterward.

Suffocating and retching cough, in the morning at 5 o'clock, as if from dryness in the larynx; she could not talk, for a spasm in the chest, with redness in the face and perspiration of the whole body.

Cough, which readily causes her to vomit.

985. Cough, violent even to vomiting, in the morning.

Fatiguing cough, so violent, that she loses her consciousness.

Dry cough, coming and going quickly.

Dry cough, almost solely by night, with shooting in the throat.

Dry cough, at night, waking from sleep, with acute pains on the chest in coughing; little coughing by day (1st d.). [Ng.]

990. Cough with much expectoration.

- Expectoration of small, round lumps from the throat. [Gll.]
 Cough, with expectoration of sourish taste.
 Cough, with expectoration of blood-streaked mucus, three times (17th d.).
 She detaches mucus in coughing, but it does not come up into the mouth, and cannot, therefore, be expectorated.
995. In coughing, rough pain in the larynx.
 From coughing, shooting in the throat, with fluent coryza.
 During coughing, at times shooting pain in the left breast.
 In coughing, bearing scraping on the chest.
 In coughing, sparks dart from the eyes.
1000. During coughing, nausea.
 During coughing, pain in the varices of the anus.
 During coughing, pain in the abdomen, like concussion.
 Breath, very short, in the morning.
In the morning, shortness of breath.
1005. Inclination to take a deep breath.
 Oppressed breathing.
 Asthma, as if the chest was coated with mucus.
 Asthma, with short breath, during writing (3d d.). [Ng.]
Oppression of the chest, with groaning, deep respiration.
1010. Oppression of the chest, with difficult, troublesome respiration, two or three times (aft. 30 d.). [Ng.]
 Oppression of the chest, with distended abdomen.
 Sensation, in the open air, as if the throat was being constricted.
 Obstruction of the breath wakes him from sleep at night.
 Slight rattling on the chest, at night, when lying on the back.
1015. Anguish in the chest, toward evening.
The chest is very painful, chiefly while talking.
 Pressure on the chest, while taking breath.
 Pressure, in paroxysms, anteriorly in the chest, especially on the right side, aggravated by inspiration, diminished by eructation. [Gff.]
 Pressure in the thyroid cartilage, while coughing or when taking a deep breath (aft. 16 h.).
1020. Frequent pressure in the left side of the chest and in the cardiac region (8th d.). [Gff.]
 Pressure in the whole of the left side of the chest. [Gll.]
 Pressive pain in the morning on rising, on the right edge of the sternum; this is also painful when touched.
 Pressure and sensation of drawing downward, in the middle of the chest. [Ng.]
 Sharp, pressive pain behind the sternum, when breathing and in swallowing liquid food, and during eructation, for several days.
1025. Shooting pressure on the left side of the chest, when taking a deep breath.
 Shooting pressure in the right side of the chest, occasionally, for several days.
 Pinching pressure in the right side of the chest (26th d.). [Gff.]

Tension across the chest, during expiration, in walking.

Cramplike pain in the chest; it goes off by eructation. [Ng.]

1030. Pinching in the pectoral muscles, several times.

Pinching, obtuse shooting in the right side of the chest.

[Gff.]

Cutting sensation in the lower part of the chest, especially on the left side; it draws down into the epigastrium, but it leaves behind a shooting pain in the left side of the chest (20th d.). [Gff.]

Cutting pain in the chest, in the morning, especially about the scrobiculus cordis, as from flatus accumulating there.

[Gff.]

Cutting pain in the chest, in the evening on lying down; she did not know how to lie; worst when lying on the right side.

[Ng.]

1035. Stitches in the sternum, in front of the right side of the chest, also during inspiration; in the evening (1st d.). [Ng.]

Stitches below the left breast, and at times deep up into the breast, also in the evening. [Ng.]

Stitches in the right side of the chest, on taking a breath.

Occasionally a stitch in the right side of the chest.

A stitch in the left side of the chest.

1040. Stitches in the left side of the chest. [Gll.]

Stitches in the sides, on taking breath.

Stitches in the cardiac region.

Violent stitch below the two breasts, after lifting a heavy load; later on, griping in both the epigastria, toward the front; in the afternoon. [Ng.]

Single cutting stitches below the right clavicle, with pain as if a thorn was lodged in it. [Ng.]

1045. Sudden, dull stitch in the sternum, on the eructation and the deglutition of liquid substances.

Obtuse stitches deep in the left side of the chest, under the short ribs. [Gff.]

Obtuse, painful stitches in the chest, below the left clavicle, only going off transiently by pressing upon it; in the evening.

[Ng.]

Obtuse shooting, pressing and tearing below the axilla. [Gff.]

Burning shooting in the right side of the chest, on rising from a stooping position (aft. 1 h.). [Ng.]

1050. Burning shooting in the left side of the chest, when sitting; it goes off on rising (7th d.). [Ng.]

Boring, deep into the left side of the chest (9th d.). [Ng.]

Drawing pain across the chest (aft. 4 d.).

Tearing in the sternum, to the left side, above the scrobiculus cordis, in the evening. [Gff.]

Tearing in the left side of the chest, on the lowest short ribs.

[Gff.]

1055. Tearing pain in the right side of the chest (9th d.). [Gff.]

Tearing pain in the left side of the chest (17th d.). [Gff.]

Pain, sore, but yet tearing, somewhat below the left axilla, aggravated and excited by strong breathing. [Gff.]

- Sore pain in the upper part of the chest, when taking breath, when touching the parts and when she raised something heavy.
Bruised pain in the chest.
1060. Tickling in the right side of the chest (aft. 16 d.).
Clucking, like subsultus of the muscles, in the upper right side of the chest (22d d.). [Gff.]
Trembling or quivering, anteriorly in the chest. [Ng.]
The chest is affected from loud talking.
Weakness of the chest.
1065. Weakness and lassitude in the chest, from walking fast.
Painful beating in the clavicle, the shoulders, the side of the abdomen, etc. [Ng.]
Palpitation, frequent and violent, with oppression.
Palpitation, when he is hungry (aft. 10 d.).
Violent palpitation in the forenoon, with numbness of the head and nausea (aft. 24 h.).
1070. Frequent intermission of the heart-beats.
In or about the heart a pinching pain, as if the heart was suspended by firmly contracted bands; most noticeable during deep inspiration or coughing, but not during bodily motions (aft. several h.).
Burning in the cardiac region (aft. 2 d.).
External twitching pain on the lowest left rib.
In the breasts, tearing shooting.
1075. Itching on the fleshy part of the right side of the chest, with a fine eruption, showing only when it is rubbed.
Smarting on the chest, now here, now there, in paroxysms. [Ng.]
In the coccyx, violent gnawing, both at rest and in motion. [Ng.]
Pain in the sacrum, after standing or walking for a time.
Pain in the sacrum, only in bending backward, not while at rest.
1080. Frequent pain, just above the sacrum, when sitting. [Gff.]
Severe sacral pains, with labor-like pains in the abdomen and discharge from the vagina.
Pain in the sacrum, like heaviness.
Pain as from inflation in the sacrum, in the morning in bed, with a feeling as if great bubbles were accumulating in the sacral region, and with tenesmus, all of which vanishes on the emission of flatus. [Ng.]
Sensation in the morning, as if the sacrum was being pressed inward from both sides. [Ng.]
1085. Stiffness in the sacrum.
Twitching pain in the sacrum, when stooping, so that he could not raise himself up for a time.
Drawing pain in the sacrum.
Severe, constant drawing in the sacrum, alternating with throbbing there, relieved by lying down.
Throbbing in the sacrum.
1090. Severe bruised pain in the sacrum, chiefly in the morning on rising.

Violent pain in the sacrum, as if it was broken, on moving.

[Ng.]

Itching on the lower part of the sacrum.

Tickling fatigue-pain above the sacrum.

An occasional stitch from the sacrum through the left side of the abdomen, toward the chest.

1095. Backache, paining severely.

Pressure in the back, above the right renal region, in the morning (20th d.). [Gff.]

Pressure in both the renal regions (7th, 8th, 15th, 19th d.). [Gff.]

Pressure in the left scapula.

Sharp pressure on the upper part of the back (34th d.).

[Gff.]

1100. Drawing pressure in the scapulæ.

Drawing pressure in the back.

Tensive pressure like severe fatigue, from the right scapula, extending into the side of the back, even to the sacrum, per se, also early in bed, but especially while out driving. [Gff.]

Burning pressure in the back, worse when walking in the open air (aft. 19 d.).

Sore pressure in the right renal region (6th d.). [Gff.]

1105. Stiff in the back; she cannot stoop.

Stiffness and paralysis in the back and the sacrum.

Tensive pain under the left scapula, when respiring.

Several sharp, smarting pinches on the back part of the ribs, on both sides of the back.

Contractive pain in the back, while at rest after physical labor.

1110. Tearing in the right renal region (13th d.). [Gff.]

Tearing pain in the lumbar muscles, which arrests the breath.

Shooting and pressive tearing in the back, near the right scapula (10th, 38th d.). [Gff.]

Tearing in the right scapula, in the morning (4th d.).

[Gff.]

Burning tearing on the right side, by the spine above the sacrum (18th d.). [Gff.]

1115. Stitches in both renal regions (11th, 29th d.). [Gff.]

Stitches on the right side of the back, extending through into the chest (25th d.). [Gff.]

Stitches in the right scapula, when taking breath.

Lancinating pain between the scapulæ, and oppression and anguish on the chest, almost solely while sitting, so that she has to rise and walk about.

A stitch from the apex of the left scapula into the scrobiculus cordis, while hard at work (aft. 7 d.). [Gff.]

1120. Obtuse shooting in the left scapula. [Gff.]

Pinching shooting in both scapulæ. [Gff.]

Sharp, tearing stitch under the right scapula. [Gff.]

First a pressure between the scapulæ, then from there a burning extending to the crest of the ilium, equally while at rest and in motion; the burning is also felt when the hand is laid upon it.

- Pulsating beating on the upper edge of the left shoulder-blade. [Ng.]
1125. Pain as if the flesh was detached from the bones, in the loins, when walking, but chiefly when touched.
Bruised pain in the back, while at rest, not when in motion.
Bruised pain between the shoulders and on the left shoulder; it goes off when moving. [Ng.]
A shooting, bruised pain in the right scapula during motion; perceptible even in the chest.
Pain as from a strain in the back.
1130. Pain as from a sprain in the left scapula.
Violently shooting pain as from a sprain in the left scapula, extending into the chest.
Itching on the back, on scratching, it changes into pain.
Pain in the nape, on bending back the head.
Violent tension in the nape, becoming more painful on moving the head. [Ng.]
1135. Stiffness in the nape, with elongation of the uvula in the throat. [Gl.]
Stiffness in the nape, in the morning in bed (also aft. 3 d.).
Stiffness in the nape in the morning, going off during the day; for several weeks.
Drawing pain in the neck (aft. 2 h.). [Ng.]
Tearing in the nape, occasionally only transient. [Ng.]
1140. Tearing in the right side of the nape, in the morning.
Itching little pimples in the neck, in the evening, going off after twenty-four hours. [Ng.]
The cervical muscles pain, on being moved.
Twitching pain on the left side of the neck (aft. 2 d.). [Rl.]
Pressing drawing on the right side of the neck.
1145. Tearing in the lower part of the right side of the neck (aft. 24 d.). [Gff.]
Rush of blood to the neck; the neck seems thicker and the cravat too narrow.
The glands on the neck are painful, as after a cold (3d d.).
Shooting in the cervical glands.
Swelling of the cervical glands (aft. 5 and 14 d.).
1150. Swelling of a cervical gland, below the chin, which is painful after taking cold.
Swelling of the cervical glands on both sides, with pain on turning the head.
Hard swelling of the cervical gland, on the corner of the lower jaw.
Tickling in the swelling of the submaxillary gland; she had to press on it with the cold hand, to ease it.
Sweat in the axillæ.
1155. The axillary gland swells and is painful when touched, as if festered (2d d.).
Swelling of the axillary gland.
Dull cutting and tearing in the right axilla (24th d.). [Gff.]
Tearing in the left axilla, while at rest (10th d.). [Ng.]

- Tearing shooting in the right axilla, when raising the arm, in the morning, when writing (7th d.).
1160. Violent shooting in the left axilla. [Ng.]
Sensitiveness and burning in the right axilla (15th d.). [Gff.]
Itching in the axilla.
The top of the left shoulder aches, on violent motion of the left arm, or when it presses on anything strongly.
Pinching pressure in the right shoulder-joint, more painful when taking a breath. [Gff.]
1165. Severe tensive pain in the top of the left shoulder, in the morning, so that he could not raise his arm.
Tension and pressive drawing in the top of the right shoulder, with paralytic sensation in the right arm. [Gff.]
Drawing pain in the top of the right shoulder (17th d.). [Gff.]
Tearing in the top of the left shoulder, both at rest and in motion. [Ng.]
Tearing in the top of the right shoulder, while knitting; it goes off on motion. [Ng.]
1170. Tearing in the left shoulder-joint. [Gff.]
Pinching tearing, in the top of the right shoulder. [Gff.]
Fine shooting in the left shoulder, and then in the tendons of the left side of the neck. [Ng.]
Fine stitches in the top of the shoulders, both at rest and in motion. [Ng.]
Bruised pain under the right shoulder-joint, especially on moving or touching it.
1175. Cracking in the shoulder-joint, on moving and on raising the arm on high. [Ng.]
Pimples on the top of the shoulder, with violent itching and burning after scratching. [Ng.]
In the arm, severe tensive pain for eight days, so that he could not lift it up straight; but he could move it backwards on his back, lie upon it and grasp the joint without pain.
Paralytic tension and drawing in the left arm, from the top of the shoulder down into the forearm, with tendency to go to sleep, in the morning on awaking (34th d.). [Gff.]
Drawing pain in the left arm (aft. 21 h.).
1180. Twitching in the arm, in the evening on going to sleep. [Ng.]
Frequent twitching of the left arm.
Tearing in the left arm, from above down into the wrist.
Violent tearing in the whole of the left arm (7th d.). [Ng.]
In a cold temperature, the arms lose their warmth, become numb and almost as if asleep.
1185. Both the arms go to sleep and are benumbed in the cold; they also go to sleep after violent motion.
The arm, on which he lies at night, goes to sleep.
The arms go to sleep, in the morning in bed; they feel rigid and paralyzed with a sensation of internal pressure, and the hands are without sensation, for half an hour.

- He feels paralyzed in both arms (the first days).
The arms get tired readily, when writing (aft. 3 d.).
1190. Weakness and want of strength in both arms.
Weakness of the arm, with swelling of the upper arms and the hands.
Itching of the arms, with little white pimples after scratching, as large as grains of millet. [Htb.]
On the upper left arm, quivering in the fleshy part. [Ng.]
Burning tension on the right upper arm, just above the elbow. [Ng.]
1195. Tearing in the right upper arm, above the bend of the elbow, in the evening. [Ng.]
Tearing in the left upper arm, occasionally extending to the top of the shoulder (11th, 16th, 20th d.). [Gff.]
Tearing in the upper parts of the right upper arm and in the elbow (12th and 22d d.). [Gff.]
Shooting tearing in the left upper arm.
Shooting in the right upper arm.
1200. Pulsating pain in the left upper arm, at intervals.
Subsultus of the muscles on the left upper arm (18th, 19th, 25th d.). [Gff.]
A pimple on the upper part of the upper arm, itching and paining. [Gff.]
Bruised pain in the right upper arm, especially on raising the arm. [Rl.]
Paralytic pain in both the upper arms, chiefly on moving them.
1205. Pain in the elbow, as if it were stiff, on stretching the right arm, after it had been bent.
Drawing and tearing in both the elbows, occasionally with a sensation of warmth in them, frequently recurring. [Gff.]
Tearing in the bend of both the elbows (3d, 6th and 22d d.) [Gff.]
Tearing stitches in the bend of the left elbow. [Gff.]
Severe stitches in the bend of both the elbows, in the morning in bed; going off after rising.
1210. On the fore-arm, tensive pain. [Gff.]
Drawing pain in the fore-arm.
Violent, short drawing, from the arm into the hand (aft. 2 d.). [Rl.]
Paralytic, obtusely paining, drawing from the left fore-arm into the hand. [Rl.]
Tearing in the upper part of both the fore-arms. [Gff.]
1215. Tearing in the middle of both the fore-arms. [Gff.]
Tearing in both the fore-arms, toward the wrist. [Gff.]
The hands pain in the metacarpal bones, on grasping.
Obtuse pressive pain on the dorsum of the left hand. [Ng.]
Drawing on the inner surface of the left wrist, aggravated by motion. [Ng.]
1220. Tearing in the wrists (11th and 20th d.). [Gff.]
Tearing in the outer process of the wrist-joint (29th d.). [Gff.]

Fine tearing in the left wrist-joint, extending toward the ring-finger, frequently recurring (4th d.). [Ng.]

Tearing in the right wrist-joint when knitting, frequently recurring. [Ng.]

Dull, pressive tearing in both hands, between the thumb and the index (16th, 12th and 21st d.). [Gff.]

1225. Violent tearing, from the dorsum of the left hand into the fingers. [Gff.]

Violent tearing in the dorsum of the left hand, as if in the marrow of the bones, almost intolerable. [Ng.]

Shooting in the left wrist-joint on motion, then also while at rest, some sharp stitches. [Gff.]

Cold hands.

Burning on the left hand, as from red-hot coals. [Rl.]

1230. The hands go to sleep, in the morning on awaking, with a dull headache, increasing after rising, with frequent empty eructations until toward noon. [Htb.]

Lack of strength in the hands.

Trembling of the hands, while writing, in the morning.

Itching on the wrist. [Rl.]

Violent itching of the palms, in the evening, near the fingers (1st d.). [Gff.]

1235. Itching above the right wrist-joint, going off by scratching. [Ng.]

Itching vesicles in the palm.

Red, elevated spot, shaped like a lentil above the wrist.

[Ng.]

Rough, chapped skin on the hands. [Htb.]

In the fingers, drawing pain in the posterior joints.

1240. Tearing in the middle joint of the index. [Gff.]

Tearing under the thumb-nail. [Gff.]

Tearing in the phalanges and joints of several fingers. [Gff.]

Tearing under the finger-nails (34th d.). [Gff.]

Transient tearing in the fingers, and at the same time in the toes. [Gff.]

1245. Tearing in the left thumb. [Ng.]

Tearing in the joint of the left middle finger. [Ng.]

Tearing in the left little finger, toward the tip, passing away by motion, but frequently recurring. [Ng.]

Violent tearing behind the right index, extending to its tip. [Ng.]

Dull tearing in the ball of the thumb (9th d.). [Gff.]

1250. Some fine tearing pains, in the left little finger. [Ng.]

Shooting tearing under the nail and in the tip of the index.

[Gff.]

Drawing tearing in the tip of the little finger. [Gff.]

Burning tearing in the tip of the index (10th d.). [Gff.]

Shooting in the fingers of the right hand.

1255. Fine, painful shooting under the nail of the left middle finger.

[Ng.]

Fine, intermitting shooting in the middle joint of the right index. [Ng.]

Painful shooting in the right index, as if needle and thread were passed from the posterior part toward the tip; relieved by bending the finger; renewed by stretching it. [Ng.]

Fine, keen shooting, as if from an ulcer, in the tips of the four fingers of the right hand. [Ng.]

Ulcerative pain in the posterior joint of the left thumb, in the evening. [Ng.]

1260. Burning pain, as from a glowing coal, on two fingers of the left hand. [Rl.]

Burning in the tip of the little finger. [Gff.]

Sore pain, in the morning, in the anterior joint of the middle finger, especially under the nail, not increased by touching it. [Gff.]

Crawling in the tip of the right middle finger. [Gff.]

The fingers open and close by jerks, in the morning in bed; then numbness, difficult motion and chilliness of the fingers.

1265. Numbness and insensibility of the right thumb, for several weeks.

The thumb goes to sleep, toward morning in bed.

The finger-tips go to sleep, chiefly in the morning.

The thumbs feel paralyzed, from knitting.

Stiffness and paralytic weakness of the right thumb and index, when writing. [Gll.]

1270. Little itching pimples behind the left thumb; they continue to itch after scratching. [Ng.]

A blister on the little finger.

An erosive blister on the left index, which, being opened, discharged for several days, not a purulent, but a watery liquid.

Around the border of the nail of the middle finger, burning pain. [Gff.]

Inflammation on the border of the nail of the index, like a paronychia; on pressing on it thin pus is discharged, for seven days. [Gff.]

1275. In the left lumbar region, tearing to and fro, while sitting, going off when in motion. [Ng.]

In the nates, muscular twitching.

Dull pain in the nates. [Gff.]

Tearing around and in the nates, near the hip-joint. [Gff.]

Fits of pinching tearing in the nates. [Gff.]

1280. Pain in the nates and thighs from sitting, as if they were festering.

Itching between the nates.

Soreness between the thighs.

In the hip-joint a pinching tearing. [Gff.]

Tearing pain in the left hip, from time to time.

1285. Tearing in the hips and knees, also when sitting.

Tearing, occasionally formicating, in the hips on their integuments (19th, 21st and 30th d.). [Gff.]

Twitching pain in the left hip-joint, when turning the thigh.

[Gll.]

Fine, but very acute stinging in the left hip-joint, when standing; after sitting down there is a stitch tearing down the whole thigh, as if it were in the marrow, going off after rising from the seat. [Ng.]

Pain, as from a blow, in the upper part of the left hip-bone, when walking and when touched. [Gff.]

1290. Bruised pain of the hip-joint, with pain on moving and on sneezing.

In the lower limbs, pressure in the bones, now here, now there.

Tearing in the left thigh and in the tibia, during the menses. [Ng.]

Burning pain, in both the lower limbs, also at times with acute stitches.

Restlessness in the lower limbs, in the evening, she had to walk about.

1295. Restlessness in the legs, in the evening; he had to stretch them often.

Sudden great heaviness of the left thigh, so that he could only move it with difficulty; it felt paralyzed, at night in bed, and the following day when sitting. [Ng.]

Heaviness of the lower limbs.

Sensation of numbness in the whole of the right thigh, as if it was going to sleep, with great sensation of heaviness remaining in it, in the morning on awaking. [Ng.]

Sensation of numbness and great tendency to go to sleep in the whole of the right lower limb especially in the leg. [Gff.]

1300. Frequent going to sleep of the lower limbs.

The lower limb goes to sleep, while lying down.

The right limb goes to sleep and tingles.

While sitting, first one then the other lower limb goes to sleep.

Lack of strength in the lower limbs, they give way.

1305. Stiffness of the lower limb (aft. 10 d.).

In the thighs, muscular twitching. [Gff.]

Drawing pain in the thigh (aft. 11 d.). [Rl.]

Drawing pain in the left thigh, down to the knee.

Drawing pain in the thigh, when ascending, as if it would break.

1310. Paralytic drawing in the whole thigh, often increased to tearing, worse when standing and in the warmth of the bed, often only in the evening and at night. [Gff.]

Tearing on the upper and inner part of the thigh. [Gff.]

Tearing on the posterior part of the thigh, close to the nates, toward the genitals. [Gff.]

Sore pain in the middle part of the thigh, when touched.

Worn-out feeling in the thighs, as if he was fatigued by walking, many days, chiefly in the afternoon.

1315. Feeling of fatigue in both thighs, above the knees, in the evening. [Ng.]

Severe bruised pain, a hand's breadth above the right knee, as if the thigh was about to drop off, when standing; worse when sitting, and continuing afterward both in rest and in motion. [Ng.]

Quivering in the right thigh, on the anterior side. [Ng.]

Paralytic sensation of the whole thigh, with a sensation as if it would go to sleep. [Gff.]

Two little pimples on the left thigh.

1320. An itching spot on the thigh, near the hip; after scratching, it turns into an ulcer.

A lump above the knee, with pressive tearing pain.

On the knee, a dull pain on the side, when walking and especially when stretching the limb. [Gff.]

Tensive pain in the right knee, and then formication in it; only while walking, it goes off when sitting. [Ng.]

Stiffness in the knees (aft. two d.).

1325. Stiffness, tension and weakness in the right knee, as if tightly bandaged.

Drawing pain in the knee, when walking, extending into the thigh.

Frequent tearing in the knees. [Gff.]

Tearing in both knees (1st d.). [Ng.]

Tearing in the hough. [Gff.]

1330. Tearing in the knee and the knee-joint in the evening, with warmth in it. [Gff.]

Ripping-up pain in the knees, when walking and sitting.

Beating and throbbing in the left knee, repeated by day. [Ng.]

Quivering of the left knee (2d d.). [Ng.]

Pain as of a sprain in the knee, on rising from the seat, for several minutes.

1335. The knees go to sleep and pain, when walking fast, he could hardly bend them.

Paralytic feeling in the knee, when sitting. [Gff.]

Paralytic pain in the right knee, when walking (6th d.). [Gff.]

Itching on the knee.

Eruption in the hough.

1340. In the right leg, drawing pain down into the foot, for several days.

Paralytic drawing in the legs.

Drawing and tearing in the bones of the legs. [Gff.]

Tearing in the upper part of the tibia, below the knee. [Gff.]

Tearing in both the tibiæ, with pain in the periosteum on touching them, and tension therein when walking. [Gff.]

1345. Tearing in the left tibia. [Ng.]

Tearing in the upper part of the calf (20th d.). [Gff.]

Tearing in the right calf, passing inward on pressing and rubbing it, and then disappearing. [Ng.]

Straining sensation in the left calf, as if the tendons were too short, in standing, not in sitting. [Ng.]

Straining sensation in the calves, as if they were too short, on rising from the seat, by day.

1350. Cramp in the right calf (aft. 20 h.).
Shooting in the shaft of the tibia.
Quivering on the anterior surface of the left leg, when standing. [Ng.]
Itching on the tibia. [Rl.]
Violent itching on the legs, in the evening. [Rl.]
1355. An itching lump and three vesicles, with inflamed areola on the tibia. [Ng.]
Tetter on the thigh. [Htb.]
In the feet, tension, almost without swelling.
Pressive pain in the heel.
Pressive pain in the sole of the foot, on treading and walking.
1360. Pinching drawing in the foot, as from great weariness. [Gff.]
Spasmodic tearing on the ankle, with pulsation about that part, and up the tibia, extending to the knee.
Tearing about the ankles, when the feet are cold, ceasing when they get warm.
Frequent tearing in the ankle-joints. [Gff.]
Tearing just above the ankles (20th d.). [Gff.]
1365. Tearing on the inner side of the foot and of the sole. [Gff.]
Tearing in the dorsum of the foot, extending into the toes. [Gff.]
Tearing from the inner ankle, across to the tendo Achillis. [Ng.]
Drawing tearing in the feet, even into the toes. [Gff.]
Shooting in the left foot, inward.
1370. Shooting on the dorsum of the foot.
Stitches under the ankle.
A pain like a stitch shot into her ankle, while walking, as if the foot would break; she had to stand still.
Severe drawing and shooting, in the morning, several hours after rising, in the left ankle, when treading, paining worst in the evening, with pecking there and shooting in the heel; she dare not move her foot, she has to keep it suspended; it feels too heavy, is swollen and hot when touched at that spot.
Shooting under the heel, as from needle pricks.
1375. Shooting in the foot. [Htb.]
Violent shooting in the tendons, behind the right outer ankle, when running; going off when at rest. [Ng.]
Shooting and burning in the feet, after a walk. [Htb.]
Visible quiverings on the dorsum of the left foot, in the evening. [Ng.]
Formication in the soles of the feet, toward the toes.
1380. Formicating burning, in the soles of the feet, and painful sensitiveness of the same.
Heaviness and stiffness of the feet.
The feet go to sleep, after a meal. [Htb.]
The left foot goes to sleep, during dinner. [Ng.]
Cold feet, in bed.
1385. Cold feet, while the face is hot.

- Sweating of the soles of the feet.
 Profuse sweat on the feet, for many days. [Htb.]
 Swelling of the feet.
 Severe swelling of the feet, extending to the ankles.
1390. Swelling and redness of the soles of the feet, with burning in them, even while lying down, but much more when treading.
 Severe itching about the ankle joint, in the morning in bed.
 Severe itching and heat of the feet, in the evening, as if they had been frozen.
 The tips of the toes pain, when walking.
 Cramp in the left big toe, so that he could not stretch it, while sitting, in the evening. [Ng.]
1395. Tearing in the toes (4th, 7th, 11th and 20th d.). [Gff.]
 Tearing in the posterior phalanx of the big toes (11th, 16th, 19th and 34th d.). [Gff.]
 Tearing in the tips of the big toes (17th, 11th and 36th d.). [Gff.]
 Gnawing, on the outer edge of the right big toe. [Ng.]
 Pricking as from needles in the ball of the big toe. [Gff.]
1400. Tickling stinging in the tips of the toes. [Gff.]
 Fine stitches with itching in the tip of the big toe.
 Pain as from a sprain in the posterior joint of the big toes, while walking, but most painful when raising them up (11th and 33d d.). [Gff.]
 Tickling formication in the toe and sole. [Gff.]
 Itching on the lower surface of the toes. [Gff.]
1405. Violent itching on the big toe, below the nail, with pain when touched. [Gff.]
 Inflamed red (chil) blains on the toes, with pressive pain.
 Chilblain on the ball of the big toe, with stinging cutting pain, red and thick.
 Bluish-red chilblains on the ball of the big toe, inflamed with a cutting pain and needle pricks, especially when wearing shoes and boots.
 The corns pain acutely.
1410. Stitches in the corn. [Htb.].
 The nail of the big toe pains on the side, as if it would grow into the flesh (14th d.). [Gff.]
 The limbs pain, in those parts on which they rest (aft. 4 d.). [Rl.]
 The whole body is very sensitive; wherever she touched herself or moved, it pained her (3d and 4th d.). [Ng.]
 Pressive pain in the joints of the knees, the feet and the hands, only while at rest.
1415. Pressive pain in the joints and drawing pains in the shafts of the long bones.
 A sort of tension in the interior of the body, extending into the head and the eyes.
 Pinching and strongly contractive sensation in the anus, in the stomach and toward the fauces.
 Formication in the limbs, especially in the lower ones, when sitting, with drawing in the legs, making him restless. [Gff.]

Drawing pain in the whole body, now here, now there, in the nape, the scapulæ, the hands and the knees (aft. 10 d.).

1420. Drawing pain in all the limbs, with the sensation as if he had been sick for a long time, with great paleness of the face and emaciation.

Severe drawing in the abdomen, in the arms and legs, with bruised pain of the upper arms; most when resting (the first days).

Stinging in the joints and tendons.

The pains predominating in Kali are stitches. [Gll.]

Pain, as from festering, when pressing on any part of the body.

1425. Bruised pain of all the muscles of the body.

The parts on which she lies (arms and legs) go to sleep.

The pains come early, at 2 or 3 A. M., so that he cannot remain lying down, and they are stronger then than by day during motion.

After the cessation of the pains, at once a chill. [Ng.]

In the open air, she seems to feel better than in the room.

[Ng.]

1430. The open air seems to increase the ailments, especially the feverish condttion.

On walking in the open air, drowsy with yawning.

On walking in the open air, violent tearing externally on the one side of the head.

From walking in the open air, violent headache, for several hours.

Great dislike of the open air.

1435. When walking in the open air, great readiness to take cold, and sweat at night, with restlessness and heaviness in the nape, as if from a load (4th d.).

Readiness to take cold (3d d.).

Very ready to take cold.

Very ready to take cold after being heated by exercise; he loses his appetite, has feverish shiverings, diarrhœa with colic, restless sleep, etc.

After taking cold, headache on the right side of the head and heat in the eyes.

1440. Ailments from taking cold, at every draught.

After catching cold by a draught, she feels for a moment too hot in the room, then heaviness in the limbs, tearing in the whole body, and in the head, with roaring before the ears, and general coldness, then throughout the night, a sour smelling perspiration (aft. 31 d.).

After taking a cold, there is fever in the evening; toward morning, perspiration with violent headache, and after rising, a chaotic feeling in the head.

Itching, here and there in the body, especially on the legs; on scratching, the parts are apt to bleed. [Rl.]

Severe itching on the abdomen and on the thighs.

1445. Itching all over the body, now here, now there, with little blotches after scratching. [Ng.]

Itching all over the body, in the evening, before going to sleep; it goes off in bed.

Violent itching all over the body, in the morning and evening, especially on the back, where there are small pimples (aft. 3 d.). [Gff.]

Severe, almost stinging itching on the whole body, at night in bed. [Ng.]

Itching stitches, here and there on the body.

1450. Stinging and gnawing, on the skin all over the body.

Burning itching in the face, on the back and on the head.

Burning itching in the sacrum and below the right patella.

[Ng.]

Burning itching all over the body, in the face, on the hands, on the tibia, etc., now here, now there.

Burning on many parts of the skin, even under the axillæ, as from a drawing plaster. [Gff.]

1455. Eruptive nodules here and there on the body, also on the face. [Rl.]

Nettle-rash for fourteen days.

Nettle-rash, with itching so violent, that she did not know what to do, for fifteen days.

Yellow, scaly, severely itching spots all over the belly, also about the nipples; they become moist on scratching.

Tetter (on the thigh). [Htb.]

1460. The ulcer bleeds violently, almost without a cause.

In the cicatrix of a fontanelle, a tearing pain.

On the spot of a former ulcer (on the leg), pressure and tension.

An old wart (in the face) commences to itch.

Ebullition in the blood, and heat in the head.

1465. Ebullition in the blood, in the evening, before going to sleep, with oppression and tightness in the chest.

He feels the pulse all over the body, even in the tips of the toes.

Sensible throbbing of all the arteries. [Gll.]

Sensation of emptiness in the whole body, as if it was all hollow.

Heavy and languid in the whole body, as if broken on the wheel. [Ng.]

1470. So heavy in the limbs, that she could not set one foot before the other.

Heaviness of the body, in the morning in bed; it goes off after rising.

Heavy, especially in the feet; walking is an effort.

Indolence (aft. 2 d.).

Frequent languor and weariness (1st d.).

1475. Languor and weariness, in the evening, almost reaching nausea. [Gff.]

Lassitude, languor and nausea, after the afternoon nap. [Rl.]

Great languor in the evening. [Ng.]

Great weariness, in the morning on awaking, diminished on rising, but returning with increase in the afternoon. [Htb.]

- Relaxation and lassitude of the limbs.
1480. Titillating lassitude in the limbs.
The child (of four years) wants to be continually carried.
Going up a few steps is troublesome to her; but not walking on a level.
Much talking fatigues her.
Languid, weary and bruised in the hips and lower limbs, and especially in the calves, when she walks (13th d.).
1485. Sensation of faintness every morning, as if he would swoon or have vertigo (the first 6 d.).
Threatened with syncope, as soon as he moved at all.
Fit of faintness, on returning from a short walk, so that she could reach her home with difficulty; a warm sensation in her stomach and (in winter) drops of sweat gather on her forehead, and her lower limbs tremble; after a short rest, her faintness passes off.
Attack of lassitude in the whole body, especially in the sacrum, the cervical muscles feel relaxed, the arms and legs nerveless, as if he should sink down, with a faint feeling about the heart, as from syncope (aft. sever. h.).
Attack of sudden faintness, in the evening on lying down, with aching nausea, warmth and lassitude in the pit of the stomach, and vertigo and failing of thoughts in the head; so also two fits in the morning, which leave behind them great lassitude.
1490. Attack of nausea, at once in the morning, with violent yawning, eructation, writhing about the stomach, severe heat and anguish (3d d.).
Attack of nausea and vomiting, with bruisedness of the head, drowsiness and some watery stools, with subsequent constipation.
Attack of contractive pain in the back, while at rest after physical labor; he has to lie down; then profuse sweat through the night, and in the morning a stool with mucus and blood, but painless.
Cramplike attack: A pain seized him between the shoulders like a tearing, then his nape became, as it were, stiff, and when he would move his head, it was jerked backward several times.
After the cramplike attack, eructation, giving relief, and extreme lassitude, prostration and discomfort; she could only talk quite low. [Ng.]
1495. Twitching in all the limbs (8th d.).
Quivering in the muscles, here and there, for several days.
[Rl.]
Sudden tremulousness. [Rl.]
Violent trembling.
Tremulous in the hands and lower limbs, and easily fatigued by walking.
1500. Tremulous weariness, when walking, first in the knees, then trembling in the abdominal muscles and the arms.
Frequent yawning.
He feels as if he had not slept enough, in the morning.
Very sleepy in the morning, and waking up late.

- Sleeping too long, and the head then feels chaotic, great lassitude, sensation of coryza and pressure in the eyes.
1505. In the morning, after a sound sleep, he has soon to lie down again, and after a sleep of three hours, he feels restored.
Great drowsiness by day; she goes to sleep, while sitting.
 Very sleepy, with yawning in the forenoon, till noon. [Ng.]
 Drowsiness after dinner; it goes off in the open air. [Ng.]
 Always drowsy, in the afternoon, with yawning and wretched complexion. [Ng.]
1510. Great drowsiness; she felt like going to sleep at breakfast (soon). [Ng.]
 Drowsiness in the afternoon (3d d.). [Htb.]
 Irresistible somnolence, in the afternoon and evening.
In the evening, he gets drowsy early (aft. 10 d.). [Rl.]
 In the evening, early drowsiness and sullen silence. [Gff.]
1515. Difficulty in getting to sleep, in the evening, after walking in the open air.
 In the evening, he is long in getting to sleep for several days. [Ng.]
In the evening he cannot get to sleep before eleven or twelve o'clock, without cause.
 Late in getting to sleep (the first weeks).
 After mental work, he cannot fall asleep before midnight.
1520. In the evening, on going to bed at eleven, she could not get to sleep, for a stinging itching all over the body; she only slept from eleven to one o'clock. [Ng.]
 At night in bed, he cannot fall asleep before one or two o'clock, without cause or ailment.
 Insomnia at night, and if he does get to sleep, anxious dreams; in the morning, he feels dull, with hot hands.
 Restless sleep (4th d.). [Htb.]
 Very restless night; she wakes up some twenty times without any particular cause. [Ng.]
1525. She wakes up early, at one or two o'clock, and is too wide awake to get to sleep again.
 She wakes up much earlier than usual and cannot go to sleep again.
 He always awakes at four o'clock and then several times, till morning comes.
 At night, after waking up, she cannot go to sleep again because of a rush of ideas.
 Her night's sleep is half-awake.
1530. Only a slumbrous sleep at night.
 Tendency to wake up early, without getting wide awake.
 At night, after lying down, he remembers sad events, which keep him from going to sleep.
 At night in bed, delirious fancies, while awake for three hours, with heat in the brain, and external heat all over the body, then some sweat, coldness of the limbs and shivering, with great timidity.
 At night, she raises herself up in her bed while sleeping, talks all manner of incoherent things with her husband, and cannot get conscious for a long time, but she knew that she was speaking with her husband.

1535. Sleep, full of fancies and talking loud.

Talking in sleep.

Loud talking in sleep. [Ng.]

Violent weeping, in a dream at night.

The child tosses about at night and cries.

1540. Sleep, full of dreams, restless. [Gff.]

Many dreams, with restlessness and tossing in sleep.

He falls at night from one dream into another.

He goes to sleep at once, but also begins dreaming at once.

Dreams at night, with restless sleep and frequent awaking.

1545. Dreamful sleep and frequent awaking (aft. 10 d.). [Rl.]

The whole sleep is full of vivid dreams, about the occurrences of the day.

Frequent voluptuous dreams (the first 14 d.).

Anxious dream, she calls for help.

Dreams about robbers (aft. 11 d.). [Rl.]

1550. Dreams about diseased parts of the body. [Rl.]

Dreams, that his approaching death is announced to him.

[Ng.]

Anxious dream, his father was about to beat him.

Dreams, that he was tumbling down a high mountain.

Dreadful dreams disturb the sleep.

1555. Anxious dreams of threatening forms passing by her, some of which threaten to lie on her.

All manner of frightful forms before her eyes, in sleep.

Dreams of snakes, sickness and deceased persons. [Ng.]

Dreams of deceased persons, as if they were alive, and of quarrels with them.

Dreams of masks, ghosts and devils. [Ng.]

1560. Frightened, when asleep.

Startled, when going to sleep.

In the evening, when going to sleep, a jerk through the whole body, so that he starts up.

In the evenings after lying down, he started up, while waking in bed, with a shudder of the whole body.

In sleep, he starts up several times and trembles.

1565. In sleep, his limbs twitch and he snores.

Two nights in succession, while asleep, his whole body moved as if epilepsy was coming, with twitching in the arms and kicking with the legs, but without any rattling; after awaking, he knew nothing about it.

In the evening, after going to sleep and waking up again, she was, as it were, confused in her head, had no thoughts, knew not where she was and was then seized with a fearful anguish; then she became rational again.

At night, when lying in bed, rush of blood to the head, at times, as if he would lose his senses.

Several nights, a pressive headache, which goes off on bandaging the head.

1570. At night, gnashing of teeth, while asleep.
 At night, acidity in the mouth.
 At night, regurgitation of the food eaten at dinner.
 At night, dryness in the mouth prevents his sleeping.
 At night, an hour after going to sleep, a violent, jerking cramp in the stomach, with anguish, groaning, coldness of the tip of the nose, of the hands and feet, then vomiting of food and of an acid substance, with much eructation of air; the following night, the same, but more slight. [Gll.]
1575. At night, pressure and burning in the stomach. [Gff.]
 At night, pressure below the scrobiculus cordis, with coughing.
 At night, she has to spit out much mucus, often for half an hour at a time.
 At night, colic for two hours, without subsequent stool, then in the morning, pain in the sacrum and chest, and in the afternoon all the limbs feel bruised.
 At night, pinching in the stomach, in paroxysms, with nausea and constant eructation.
1580. At night, colic at the least movement in bed, not while at rest, a dull lancination and pressure, as if from an internal induration.
 Three nights in succession, tormented by flatus.
 At night, much emission of flatus.
 At night, bellyache and diarrhœa.
 Every night, from three to four o'clock, diarrhœa (the first week).
1585. At night, he could not get to sleep for burning on the anus.
 At night, burning itching on the perinæum.
 At night, sweat on the perinæum.
 At night, he cannot go to sleep for itching on the scrotum.
 At night, in a restless sleep, full of dreams, many erections. [Gff.]
1590. After midnight, violent erections, which disturb his sleep, weary him and threaten a pollution, which, however, does not occur. [Gff.]
 In the evening, on going to sleep, constriction of the throat, so that she wakes up terrified; then stinging dryness in the throat (aft. 12 d.).
 At night, an obstruction to breathing wakes him from sleep.
 At night, a nightmare, with a dream as if a stone was lying on him, and as if simultaneously his throat was being constricted, while he in vain endeavors to wake up. [Gff.]
 At night about two o'clock, she wakes up with oppression about the heart and cannot go to sleep again.
1595. At night, when she lies on the right side, she feels oppression and anguish, and she has to sit up in bed, until eructations supervene.
 At night, the child is restless and anxious, cries much and reaches out for one thing and another, without accepting anything.
 At night, tension in the right or the left side.

At night, stitches in the right or left side.

After midnight, violent shooting in the left side of the chest, the cardiac region and at times in the back, only to be borne while lying on the right side; intolerable, as soon as he endeavors to lie on the left side; the second night, he wakes up very early, with the most violent stitches in the chest and shortness of breath, while lying on the left side; they are intolerable only in entire rest, and go off on lying on his right side; repeated the third night while lying on his back. [Rl.]

1600. At night, stiffness of the nape.

At night, a throbbing pain in the upper arm awakes him.

At night, restlessness in the hands.

At night in bed, burning pains in the lower limbs.

At night on awaking, tearing and drawing with sensation of great weariness in the legs, especially in the ankle joints.

1605. At night, waked up twice by cramp in the right thigh and the calf.

At night in bed, on drawing up the leg, cramp in the calf and the sole of the foot.

At night, the left leg and the right arm go to sleep.

At night, restless sleep on account of pressive pain, on the side of the body on which he was lying.

At night, excessive pain in the whole body, like strokes of a hammer.

1610. In the evening in bed, such restlessness in the limbs, that she cannot find a spot on which she can rest well.

At night, severe bleeding of the ulcer.

The sleep at night is interrupted by heat in the whole body, especially on the hands, and by too vivid dreams.

In the evening in bed, very hot hands, with transient shivering and long-delayed going to sleep. [Hib.]

Shivering, frequent in the room, without subsequent heat. [Ng.]

1615. Frequent shivering, with yawning, removed by the warmth of the stove, in the forenoon (1st d.). [Ng.]

Shivering in the back, in the morning in bed.

Very chilly, especially after meals and toward evening.

Chill in the forenoon; in the evening hot hands.

Chilly and shivering, in the evening before lying down. [Ng.]

1620. Chill at every motion, also in bed (the first days). [Ng.]

Chill at 9 P. M., it goes off after lying down, without heat or subsequent thirst (1st d.). [Ng.]

Chill in the evening, in the vertex and the whole body (aft. 12 d.).

Severe chill in the evening, like fever, without thirst; for several evenings.

Chilliness, as from a coming cold.

1625. Chill of two hours, without thirst, with obtuseness of the head; on driving over a stony road.

Continual internal chill, for four days, without heat and without thirst, with icy-cold feet, obtuseness of the head, fatigue even to fainting; at the same time swelling of the lower jaw and gums, and burning toothache with stitches (aft. 32 d.).

Violent febrile rigor toward evening, for several minutes; he has to lie down; then nausea and vomiting and spasmodic pain in the chest the whole night, with short breath and much internal oppression and perspiration on the head (aft. 6 d.).

Internal chill at noon, with heat of the hands and afterward heat in the whole body, but all without thirst.

Chill and sensation of cold, in the morning in bed; then after a quarter of an hour, heat; after some hours, again a chill, but without subsequent heat.

1630. Every evening at six o'clock, at first, a febrile rigor of one hour, with thirst; then with severe fluent coryza, heat without thirst; then slight transpiration, with a sound sleep; afterward, in the morning, scrapy sensation, bad taste in the mouth; loss of appetite and the left eye closed by suppuration.

Constant chill, with severe thirst and internal heat, with hot hands and loathing of food and drink (aft. 14 d.).

First, chilliness, then heat in the face (aft. 2 d.). [Rl.]

Fever, after being heated to severe sweat and taking cold then in a cold bed, with burning headache, heat in the face, and severe, almost unbearable shivering of the whole body; then with a three days' sweat, so severe a stuffed coryza that he can scarcely get a breath (aft. 38 d.).

Heat, at first in the afternoon, and burning of the eyes like fever (with open windows), and immediately afterward, in the open air, a chill.

1635. Dry heat on the cheeks and hands, with short breath.

Increased warmth at night, with violent pains of the zygoma.

[Ng.]

External and internal heat, toward morning, without thirst (2d d.). [Ng.]

Heat in the evening in bed, without sweat afterward. [Ng.]

Dry heat in the evening, over the whole body. [Ng.]

1640. Feverish heat, every forenoon at nine and in the afternoon about five o'clock, half an hour to an hour, with deep yawning, severe thirst, headache and throbbing in the abdomen.

In the evening, chill and heat in alternation, and the following night, perspiration (3d d.).

Sweat breaks out readily by day.

Profuse sweat, while walking.

Profuse sweat, at every mental exertion, while reading, writing, etc.

1645. Night-sweat (the first 3 nights, aft. 2 h. and aft. 6 d.).

Night sweat (4th d.). [Htb.]

Morning-sweat in bed.

In the morning in bed, slight transpiration all over the body (6th d.).

During sleep, perspiration on the head, neck and trunk.

1650. Pulse slower than usual (29th d.). [Gff.]

LYCOPODII POLLEN. SPORULES OF CLUB-MOSS.

[This yellowish powder, smooth to the touch and resembling dust, is obtained toward the end of summer in the forests of Russia and Finland from the spikes of the club-moss (Lycopodium clavatum), which are dried and then beaten.

It has been used hitherto to make artificial lightning, by blowing it through the flame of a candle, also to sprinkle over pellets which else easily stick together, and also to sprinkle it on excoriated folds in the human body to protect them against painful friction. It floats on liquids without being dissolved, is without taste and smell, and in its ordinary crude state almost without any medicinal effect on the human body. The accounts given by the ancients as to its effects, have at least not been confirmed by modern investigators, but rather drawn into doubt.

But when the pollen of the club-moss is treated in the mode by which the homœopathic art unveils the crude substances of nature, according to the direction given above for the preparation of antipsoric medicines, there arises a wonderfully effective medicine in its thirty different degrees of dynamization.]

When thus prepared Lycopodium becomes one of the most indispensable antipsoric remedies, especially in chronic diseases where the following symptoms also are a cause of trouble:

Melancholy; grief; anxiety, with sadness and disposition to weep; fear of being alone; fatigue; irritability; obstinacy; sensitiveness; peevishness; peevish, disagreeable thoughts; impeded mental activity; ailments from mental labor; vertigo, especially when stooping; headache from vexation; pressive, tensive headache; fits of tearing on the top of the head, in the forehead, the temples, the eyes and the nose, and extending into a tooth, usually accompanied with lying down; tearing to and fro in the forehead, every afternoon; nocturnal external headache; tearing, boring and scraping; heaviness of the head; rush of blood to the head; rush of blood to the head, in the morning when rising up in bed, followed by headache; baldness; pressure in the eyes; erosion of the eyes; smarting, burning pain in the eyes, in the evening; itching burning in the upper eyelid; shooting in the eyes, in the evening, by candle-light; inflammation of the eyes, with nightly closing by suppuration, and lachrymation by day; lachrymation of the eyes in the open air; sticky moisture in the eyes, interfering with the sight; eyes closed by suppuration; short-sightedness; far-sightedness; dim-sightedness, like feathers before the eyes; flickering and blackness before the eyes; fiery sparks before the eyes; irritation of the eyes by candle-light; excessive sensitiveness of the hearing; music, sounds and the organ affect the mind; hardness of hearing; ringing in the ears; roaring in the ears; scabs in the nose; nightly closing of the nostril by suppuration; ulcerated nostrils; epistaxis; swelling and tension of the face; frequent fits of heat in the face; itching eruption in the face; freckles in the face; toothache, with swelling of the cheeks; grumbling toothache after a meal; dryness about and in the mouth, so that these parts are tense, the tongue moves with difficulty, and the speech is indistinct with adipsia; coated, unclean tongue; chronic sore throat; ulcers in the throat, from abuse of mercury; dryness in the fauces; burning in the fauces, with nocturnal thirst; hawking up of mucus; slimy taste in the morning; sensation as of putrid smell from the mouth; loss of sense of taste; bitterness in the mouth, in the morning, with nausea; excessive hunger; rabid hunger; lack of appetite; the appetite ceases with the first morsel; distaste for cooked warm food; distaste to rye bread or to meat; too much inclination for sweet things; milk causes diarrhœa; cannot digest heavy food; palpitation during digestion; severe eructation in the afternoon; fatty eructation; sour eructation; heartburn; nausea, while driving in a carriage; frèquent, constant nausea; rising as of a hard ball from the pit of the stomach into the fauces (globulus hystericus); qualmishness in the stomach in the morning; waterbrash; pressure in the stomach, also after meals; swelling of the scrobiculus cordis and pain when touching it; fullness in the stomach and abdomen; tension about the hypochondria, as from a hoop; pains in the liver after eating to satiety; pain above the navel when touching it; troublesome inflation of the abdomen; induration in the abdomen; griping, pinching and clutching pain in the abdomen, checking the breath; shooting, pinching pain in the hypogastrium, as if in the bladder, extending to the urethra, in the evening in bed; pinching in the abdomen; pinching in the right side of the abdomen; colic; colic in the epigastrium; tearing in both sides of the hypogastrium and the groins, extending into the thighs; burning in the abdomen; incarceration of the flatus; lack of emission of flatus; rumbling in the left side of the abdomen; gurgling in the abdomen; ineffectual urging to stool and very hard stool; difficult stool, evacuated only with much straining; constipation for several days; costiveness; ascariides; pains in the anus after eating and stool; itching in the anus; tension in the anus; cutting in the rectum and the bladder; urging to urinate; too frequent micturition with urging; renal gravel; hemorrhage from the urethra; itching in the urethra, during and after micturition; weak erection; want of erections; lack of pollutions; old swelling of the testes; excessive pollutions; lack of sexual impulse; impotence of several years' standing; aversion to coitus; too ready excitation to coitus, by the mere thought of it; excessive impulse to coitus, every night; too quick emission of semen; menses too long and too profuse; the menses long suppressed by fright; sadness and melancholy before the menses; itching, burning and erosion on the pudenda; pressing outward above the pudenda, even into the vagina, on stooping; shooting pain in the labia on lying down; passage of flatus from the vagina; leucorrhœa; discharge of leucorrhœa, with previous cutting in the hypogastrium.

Coryza of every kind; fluent coryza; coryza and cough; stuffed coryza; stoppage of both nostrils; cough after drinking; dry cough, day and night; dry morning-cough of many years' standing; difficulty in coughing up anything; cough, with concussion of the chest; cough, with expectoration; cough, with purulent expectoration; ulcerative phthisis; short breathing in children; constant oppression of the chest, with shortness of breath during any work; constant pressure on the left lower ribs; stitches in the left side of the chest; bruised pain of the chest; burning, rising upward in the chest, like heartburn; anxious palpitation; shooting in the sacrum on straightening up from stooping; nocturnal pain in the back; tearing in the shoulders; drawing and clutching together in nape, extending up into the occiput, day and night; stiffness of the nape; stiffness of one side of the neck; hard swelling on the one side of the neck; swelling of the glands under the jaw; drawing pain in the arms; twitching of the arms in the afternoon-nap; nocturnal pain of the bones in the arms; the arms go to sleep, even on merely raising them; nocturnal spasmodic falling asleep of the arms; lack of strength in the arms; nocturnal pain of the bones in the elbow; wrist stiff from gout; numbness of the hands; dryness of the skin of the hands; tearing in the finger-joints; redness, swelling and gouty tearing of the finger-joints; fingers stiff, as from arthritic nodosities; rigidity of the fingers when at work; the little finger goes to sleep; nocturnal tearing in the lower limbs; tearing in the knee; tearing in the hough, in the evening; tearing in the knee, extending across the tibia and the dorsum of the feet; stiffness of the knee; swelling of the knee; burning on the legs; burning, smarting itching of the houghs; contractive pain in the calves, when walking; old ulcers on the legs, with nocturnal tearing, itching and burning; swelling of the ankle; cold feet; cramp in the feet; cold, sweaty feet; profuse sweat of the feet; swelling of the soles of the feet; pain in the soles, while walking; the toes give way in walking; cramp in the toes; corns; pain in the corns; dryness of the skin; the skin cracks here and there and is chapped; itching every day, on being heated; itching in the evening, before lying down; painful eruption on the neck and the chest; itching and erosion on the arms and legs; furuncle; cramp in the fingers and in the calves; spasmodic contraction of the fingers and toes; tearing in the arms and legs; tearing in the knees, the feet and the fingers; pain in the bones from abuse of mercury; drawing pain in the limbs; restlessness of the feet, in the evening; all the limbs, the arms, hands and lower limbs go to sleep, by day and by night; insensibility of the arm and the foot; varices, distended veins with the pregnant; readiness to strains and consequent painful stiffness of the nape; jerking and twitching of single limbs or of the whole body, in sleeping and waking; difficulty in lying on the left side, on account of palpitation and stitches; readiness to take cold; after a short walk, weariness of the feet and burning of the soles; internal debility; lassitude in the limbs; weariness on awaking; frequent yawning and drowsiness; drowsiness by day; restless sleep by night; with frequent awaking; sleep full of dreams; sleep full of fancies; frightful, anxious dreams; late in going to sleep; he cannot sleep for rush of thoughts; at night, twitching and restlessness of the feet; nocturnal headache; starting up from sleep; lack of bodily warmth; flushes of heat; fever lasting three days, with sour vomiting after the chill, and bloatedness of the feet and hands; feverish perspiration by day; sweat by day, especially in the face, from moderate work or with slight exercise.

Camphor usually moderates the excessive effects of Lycopodium, but the feverish states which are caused by it in a great degree, are best allayed by Pulsatilla, while the ill-humor, taking things ill, mistrust and making of reproaches, are best removed by Causticum. Drinking coffee impedes the action of Lycopodium and extinguishes it.

A moderate dose operates for forty to fifty days and longer. It may be repeated after the intermediate use of other antipsoric remedies, but with much less effect.

It is especially efficacious, when it is homœopathically indicated after the previous use of Calcarea.

The abbreviations are: Gff., Dr. Baron v. Gersdorff; Gll., Dr. Goullon; Htb., Dr. Hartlaub; Rl., Dr. Rummel; Sr., Dr. Schrëter; Whl., Wahle; Th. Rkt., Theodor Rueckert.

LYCOPODIUM.

Hypochondriac, tormenting mood; he feels unhappy (the first two days).

Exceedingly melancholy, dejected, joyless.

Sad, hypochondriac (peevish) mood.

---

A pathogenesis of Lycopodium in Vol. III. of the 1st ed. of this work contains already 891 symptoms from Hahnemann's own observations (on patients—see note to S. 82 and 85). Some of the additions here are from the seven fellow-workers he acknowledges, presumably obtained (save perhaps in Hartlaub's case) with the 30th potency; but the majority of them are his own.—Hughes.

Depressed mood (aft. 17 d.).

5. The child loses its cheerfulness, becomes quiet and dispirited.
[Hib.]

Seeks for solitude.

Dread of men (1st d.).

When other persons come too near her, she feels anguish in the scrobiculus cordis.

She flees from her own children.

10. Melancholy, in the evening.
Melancholy ill-humor, sad thoughts.
Sad mood; she has to weep all day long and could not content herself, without cause.
Sad, despairing, at last disposed to weep.
Despair; weeping.

15. Sad of heart.
Extremely sad and disheartened.
Disposition to weep, with chilliness.
He weeps and cries, at first, about the past, then about the coming evils.

Great oppression in the scrobiculus cordis from vexation.

20. Great anxiety, as it were, in the scrobiculus cordis, without any particular thoughts (aft. 24 h.).

Internal anguish, in the forenoon, and internal chilliness, like an internal trembling.

Anxiety in the evening, things are half confused before her eyes.

Anxious, fearful, timid.

Great timidity (10th d.).

25. Great fear of phantoms, which crowd upon her fancy in the evening; during the day she is disposed to weep.

In the evening, in the dark, he is frightened because a door he wants to open, opens with difficulty.

He is afraid in the evening, on entering a room, as if he saw somebody; by day also he sometimes imagines he hears somebody in the room.

She is afraid of being alone.

Internal restlessness (aft. 24 h.).

30. Impatience.
Very much discouraged and tired.
Lack of confidence in his strength.
Pusillanimous, sad, fanciful.
Distrustful, suspicious, inclined to take things ill.

35. Extremely distrustful and suspicious.
Despairing and inconsolable.
Extremely sensitive in spirit; she weeps on being thanked (aft. 20 h.).

Excessively irritable, timid and peevish.

Great timidity.

40. Very timid, all day.
She is easily frightened and startled.

- Every noise hurts her.
 Discontented (aft. 72 h.)
 Very irritable and inclined to melancholy.
45. Peevishness. [Gl.]
 Peevish and dejected (15th d.).
 She thinks of a number of disagreeable occurrences in former times, which vex her, even at night, when she wakes up.
 He has trouble to conceal his internal obstinacy and vexation.
 Excessive excitement and apprehension.
50. He smiles without being merry, capricious.
 The child becomes disobedient, though not ill-humored.
 Obstinate, self-willed, refractory, passionate, angry.
 Very violent and irritable.
 Violent mood, without peevishness (aft. sever. h.).
55. She cannot bear the least contradiction, and at once gets beside herself for vexation.
 Angry fury, partly against himself, and partly against others.
 Easily excited to vexation and anger.
 He quarrels in mind with absent persons.
 Insanity and fury, breaking out in envy, pretensions and ordering others about (aft. 12 d.).
60. As if insane, she seeks for quarrels, makes ungrounded reproaches, abuses most violently and beats the person whom she abuses (aft. 2 h.).
 Ennui (aft. 2 d.).
 Insensibility to external impressions.
 Indifferent to external impressions, with irritable mood.
 Indifferent in the highest degree.
65. Indifference. [Gl.]
 Aversion to talking. [Gl.]
 Simultaneously inclined to weeping and laughing.
 After being anxious, there is a great inclination to laugh about trifles, for several hours, and then weeping for half an hour, without cause.
 Over-merry, with whirling giddiness.
70. Overwheneing and extravagantly merry.
 When any one looks at her, while relating a serious matter, she has to laugh.
 Involuntary whistling and humming tunes.
 After excessive merriment, as if he was obliged to distort his features, there follow ill-humor and impatience.
 Weakness of memory (aft. 3 d.). [Rl.]
75. Distracted action. [Gl.]
 Living, as it were, beside oneself, as at the commencement of a fever.
 When thinking, his head feels empty, he cannot grasp a thought.
 He cannot do nor think anything; he spends his time in trifling, and is not able to resolve to do what he has to do.
 He cannot hold fast a thought; he finds it difficult to express himself and to find the fitting words, especially in the evening.

80. She cannot grasp a thought, because her head is occupied by an internal tension.

His thoughts, as it were, stand still, the mind is awkward and, as it were, rigid, like a numbness without gloominess.

He can properly speak about higher and even abstract things, but gets confused in everyday matters; e. g., he says plums when he means to say pears.

Slips in words and syllables. [Gl.<sup>1</sup>]

Choosing the wrong words. [Gl.]

85. He cannot read, because he mistakes and confuses the letters; he sees them and can copy them, but he cannot remember their signification; he knows, e. g., that Z is the last letter of the alphabet, but has forgotten its name; he can write what he desires, writes the proper letters, but he cannot read what he has written.<sup>1</sup>

The head is benumbed, as if unconscious.

The head is benumbed, as if from a spoiled stomach.

Violent numbness of the head.

Pressive numbness of the head, especially above and in the eyes, in the evening.

90. Obscuration of the head, with dull pressure in the sinciput, as when a cold has been driven in, with dryness of the lips and the mouth, and with thirst, as if intoxicated, for several mornings.

Dizzy in the morning.

Dizziness, so that she did not know where she was.

Dizzy in the head, lazy and relaxed in the limbs, the whole of the second day. [Hib.]

Stupefaction toward evening, with heat in the temples and on the ears.

95. She felt as if everything was going to vanish before her (3d d.).

Reeling in the morning, and feeling of heaviness in the eyes.

As soon as she sees anything going round, she has for an hour the feeling as if things turned around in her body.

Numbness in the head as from vertigo, in the forenoon, with a sensation, as if her eyes were deep in their orbits, causing also thinking and comprehension to be difficult. [Gff.]

Vertigo in the forenoon; everything turned round with her, with strong inclination to vomit.

100. Vertigo, on rising from the seat.

Vertigo, when drinking.

Vertigo in a hot room (aft. 23 d.).

Vertigo in the morning, on and after rising from bed, so that he reeled to and fro (aft. 30 d.).

Headache with simple pain, lasting several days, worse when at rest, less when walking in the open air.

105. Headache, especially when shaking and turning the head.

Violent headache, as from a wrong position, at night.

<sup>1</sup> Symptoms practically identical with these are recorded by Gross in a case published in Vol. VII, of the Archiv as the result of the extirpation of a wen on the head. They were "much improved by antispasmodic medicine," among which Lycopodium may have been included though it is not so stated. (See Monthly Hom. Review XXXIV., 669, and XXXV., 42). At the best, however, the symptoms are clinical only.—Hughes.

Headache on the left side, as if externally; it also extends into the ear and the teeth, especially violent in the evening; also intolerably aggravated by writing and reading, as well as by the least pressure on the temples, e.g., that of the spectacles.

Headache above the eyes, immediately after breakfast (the first 2 d.).

Headache between the two eyes.

110. Pain in both the temples, at every step, not while at rest. She felt every step in her head, and at every movement, a shaking of the brain.
Dull pain in the forehead, as if the head was being pressed together from both sides.
Pressure, as from a nail, just in the middle above the hairy part of the forehead. [Gl.]
Pressure in the forehead, and down the nose, in the morning.
115. Pressure, now in the right temple, now in the left. [Gff.]
Pressure in the right half of the occiput toward the ear. [Gff.]
Pressure in the nape, on a small spot. [Gff.]
Violent pressure in the nape, for many days.
Paralytic pressive pain on the temple.
120. Pressive pain in the upper part of the head, as if a coryza was coming (aft. 12 h.).
Pressive pain in the whole head in the afternoon, especially when stooping.
Pain in the head, more pressive than contractive, in the morning on rising.
The pressive headache increases while lying down.
Headache, as if the head was being burst asunder, and as if the brain was vacillating to and fro, especially when walking, going up stairs and rising from stooping. [Htb.]
125. Pressing asunder in the forehead and above the eyes, extending into the upper part of the head, with nausea, as if she should vomit up everything, and with trembling of the limbs (aft. 1 h.).
Heaviness in the head.
Heaviness of the occiput.
Dull sensation of heaviness in the occiput, with confused pain on the forehead, increased by motion. [Htb.]
Wandering pain in the head, at night, making the head heavy; she knew not where to lay her head for pain, the whole night (aft. 9 d.).
130. Pinching pain on the head, behind the ear (aft. 48 h.).
Tearing in the occiput. [Gff.]
Tearing in (on) the head, for forty-eight hours, ceasing after the formation of a painless swelling of the cheek.
Tearing headache, in the evening, in the upper part and on both sides of the head. [Gff.]
Tearing here and there in (on) the head, and then in other parts of the body. [Gff.]
135. Tearing in the head (4th d.). [Htb.]
Tearing pains, through the left side of the head into the ear. [Gl.]

- Sharp, radiating tearing, in and above the left frontal protuberance, toward the left side. [Gff.]
- Jerking, radiating tearing in the right half of the head, starting from the temple. [Gff.]
- Jerking, pressive tearing in the right half of the forehead, extending close up to the root of the nose and the right eyebrow, as if it were in the bone. [Gff.]
140. Pressive tearing in (on) the left side of the occiput, on a small spot near the nape. [Gff.]
- Pressive tearing headache in the morning, close above the eyes and into them (3d. d.). [Gll.]
- Tearing and shooting headache, at night, above the right eye, in the forehead and on the occiput.
- Shooting headache in the region of the eye.
- Shooting headache in the region of the occiput.
145. Shooting outward from the forehead, by jerks, daily several times.
- Violent lancinating pain, in the left side of the forehead.
- Tearing headache, from the afternoon to the evening; the night following, toothache.
- Single, startling stitches in the head, worse in the evening.
- Shooting and pressure in the head (aft. sever. h.).
150. Shooting and pressure in the vertex of the head, at night (aft. 7 d.).
- Shooting headache with pressure and squeezing in the eyes, with violent fluent coryza.
- Sore pain in the forehead, almost daily, aggravated by stooping.
- A violent shock from the back toward the crown, so that he had to hold his head, while sitting (after eating to satiety).
- Shaking and jerking in the head.
155. Twitching headache, as it were, in the bones of the cranium.
- Throbbing pain, beside the orbits, outward. [Gll.]
- Throbbing in the head; in the evening, after lying down.
- Throbbing headache, after every fit of coughing.
- Pulsating in the brain, on leaning the head back, by day.
160. Severe throbbing in the head, like chopping (with sour eructation).
- Violent beating in the sinciput in the evening, which then drew with a tension over the occiput into the nape (aft. 4 d.).
- Throbbing in the upper part of the head.
- Constant throbbing headache, in the middle of the forehead, from 3 A. M. till evening.
- Throbbing and pressing in the occiput.
165. Pulsation and pressure in the head, while reading, sitting down.
- Throbbing in the brain, with heat in the head.
- Rush of blood to the head, in the morning on awaking.
- Fullness of blood in the occiput, after stooping.
- Headache, like a twanging sound through the head, as from the breaking of a piano-string.

170. Din in the head, when treading hard.
 Buzzing internally in the head, with sensation of heat.
 The head is very sensitive, on the outside.
 Extreme sensitiveness of the outside of the sinciput to the touch.
 Superficial headache above the forehead on the crown, on the cheek-bones, the ear, the jaws; intermitting in the afternoon and returning in the evening.
175. External transient tearing on the head, on the outside, when walking in the open air.
 Tearing in the hairy scalp, above the right half of the forehead. [Gff.]
 Fine, burning, shooting tearing, in the skin of the right temple, succeeding after itching and rubbing, and followed by a pinching headache. [Gff.]
 Drawing pain on the right side of the head, extending down into the nape.
 Sensation on the left side of the top of the hairy scalp, like pulling by a single hair. [Gff.]
180. Contractive sensation on the hairy scalp, with a sensation as if the hair was being torn out.
 Spasmodic contraction of the scalp.
 Drawing up of the scalp of the sinciput, with recession of the eyelids from each other, and subsequent drawing down of the skin, with closing of the eyes.
 Cutting ache transversely over the hairy scalp, between the forehead and the vertex. [Gff.]
 The bones of the head are painful.
185. Burning pain, on both the protuberances of the occiput.
The hair of the head is falling out excessively.
 The hair comes out while combing.
 Rapid falling out of the hair of the head, while hair grows anew in many parts of the body.
Many grey hairs are coming on her head.
190. The head is very much disposed to take cold; a slight cold breeze causes a cutting sensation in the scalp.
Itching of the hairy scalp.
 Gnawing on the scalp, he has to scratch.
 Eruption on the head, with swollen glands of the neck; on the occiput a large boil, and over the whole hairy scalp a scurf, which the child scratches open and which then bleeds.
 A broad lump under the skin of the forehead, without any change of the color of the skin. [Htb.]
195. A tumor on the occiput, like a walnut (7th d.).
 Eruption on the head, suppurating profusely.
 His head is involuntarily turned toward the left.
 The eyes pain in the evening, so that she can hardly open them.
 The eyelids pain when touched.
200. The eyes pain, as if beaten black and blue.
 Pressure in the inner canthi.

- Pressive pain in the eyes, as if there was dust in them.
 Pressure on the eyes, with drowsiness, in the forenoon. [Gff.]
 Pressure on the right upper eyelid. [Gff.]
205. Pressure in the right eye, as if something had fallen into it.
 [Gff.]
 Bruised pain in the eyes, and as if they would fall from their sockets, so that he could not look sharply at anything for pain; from 1 P. M., but chiefly in the evening.
 He cannot raise his eyes, the lids are too heavy.
 Heaviness of the eyelids, also by day, especially in a bright light.
 Heaviness and weariness of the eyes, appearing as if sleepy.
210. Tensive pain in the left eye.
 Compression of the eyes, while the skin over the cheek-bones is tense.
 Tearing about the eyes, extending into the forehead and the cheeks.
 Tearing in the right eyeball.
 Stitches in the left eye.
215. Stitches in both eyes (aft. 12 d.).
 Stitches in the eyes, without redness of the same, the whole day, but especially in the morning (aft. 34th d.).
 Pricking, now in one eyeball, then in the other. [Rl.]
 Itching in the eyes (aft. 30 d.).
 Itching in the canthi. [Also Gff.]
220. Smarting in the right eye, as from smoke, with closing of the eyelids. [Htb.]
 Smarting in the external canthi, with lachrymation as from smoke, every evening in the twilight.
 Itching about the eye.
 Sensation of cold in the eyes, in the evening.
 Burning in the eyes.
225. Burning in the eyes, when he would close them.
 Severe burning and itching in the eye. [Gll.]
 Redness of the eyes, and pressure therein.
 Redness of the white of the eyes, with pain.
 Red, inflamed eyes, with lancinating pain, from 5 P. M. to 10 P. M.
230. Inflammation of the white of the eye.
 Inflammation of the eyelids, with pressive pain and nightly closing by suppuration in the external canthi.
 Inflammation of the eyes, with redness and dimness of the white, redness and swellings of the eyelids, burning pressure, and secretion of mucus in the eyes. [Htb.]
 Inflammation of the eyes, with redness of the white and swelling of the lids, shooting, photophobia, profuse lachrymation and nightly closing by suppuration. [Htb.]
 Inflammation of the eyes, with itching in both the canthi, redness and swelling of the right eyelid; pain from rigidity, when they have become dry, and closed at night by suppuration.
235. Swelling and painfulness of the eyelids, with nightly closing by suppuration in the canthi.

Many pustules in the eyelids.

Styes on the eyelids, toward the inner canthus.

Suppuration and redness of the eyelids; the water oozing out smartly and erodes the cheek.

Suppurating styne on the eyelid. [Htb.]

240. Red pimples on the right upper eyelid, contracting into a scurf. [Htb.]

Closing of the eyes by suppuration, chiefly at night, and especially in the outer canthi.

In the morning, the eyelids are, as it were, glued together.

Much purulent mucus (eyegum) in the eyes, with erosive pain (aft. 32 d.).

Eyegum in the inner canthus, in the morning.

245. A smarting humor flows from the eye, with much redness of its white.

Mucus in the eyes, he has to wipe them to see more clearly.

Lachrymation of the eyes, and much eyegum, with pressure there and pale face.

Profuse lachrymation of the right eye, in the afternoon.

During a rough wind, water runs out of the eyes.

250. Dryness of the eyes, in the evening.

Dryness of the eyes; he has to close the lids.

Dryness under the eyelids, as from dust, in the morning on awaking.

Dim, hot eyes.

Weariness of the eyes in the evening, by candle-light, with pain on turning them.

255. Weary, dim eyes.

Spasmodic twitching of the lower eyelid (aft. 90 d.).

Spasmodic twitching of the left lower eyelid, toward the inner canthus (aft. 35 d.).

Quivering of the left eyelids.

Weakness of the eyes, she cannot read or sew for any length of time; she has to press her eyes shut for pain, and in the morning they are somewhat closed by suppuration.

260. In writing, the letters become indistinct.

In reading, the letters become intermixed.

Uncertain sight and frequent flickering before the eyes.

Dim-sighted, even at a short distance; he feels as if he looked through a wire-gauze.

Dimness of vision, as from a sticky fluid in the eye, which cannot be wiped off, in paroxysms, now less, now more.

265. Far-sightedness; in reading and writing, everything appears to her indistinct, as through a veil; but in the distance she sees everything clear and distinct.

Half-sightedness; he sees only the left half of things, the right half is lacking or obscured; he sees with one eye as he does with both, only the fault is worse in the right eye.

Dimness of vision; he has to hold the book sometimes nearer, sometimes further off, in order to be able to read.

- Flying black spots before the eyes, at a short distance (in 41 h.).
- A veil and flickering before the eyes, after the noonday nap (aft. 16 d.).
270. Flickering before the eyes, on going to sleep.
Flickering and vibration before the eyes, as when the air vibrates in the heat of summer.
Trembling of the objects at which she looks attentively in the evening, by candle-light, and the light, when she looks at it, trembles most.
Sparks of fire before the eyes, in the dark (aft. 5 h.).
The candle-light so dazzles him, that he cannot see anything on the table.
275. Otalgia in the open air.
Sensation of pressing toward the ears.
Sensation of something squeezed in, in the internal ear.
Pressure posteriorly on the right concha of the ear.
Tearing in the right and left meatus auditorius. [Gff.]
280. Tearing behind the left ear. [Gff.]
Tearing in the left concha of the ear. [Gff.]
Tearing on the right ear (14th d.).
Twitching in the inner ear.
Shooting in the ear, when blowing the nose; with difficulty in speaking.
285. Smarting and sensation of soreness, behind the right ear and on its side.
Stitches in the ear. [Gll.]
Continuous, tearing, pinching stitches in the ear, which seems too narrow and as if it would burst.
Beating and tension in the ears, with spasmodic tension of the skin behind the ears, obliquely toward the muscles of the neck.
Rush of blood to the ears.
290. Sensation of a rush of hot blood into the ears.
Itching in the ears.
Suppuration and running of the ears.
Pain behind both the ears, forcing him to walk bent over.
Sensitiveness to noise, in walking.
295. Hearing diminished (aft. 24 h.).
The sound of speaking appears muffled to him, although just as strong.
His hearing was obstructed, with roaring of the ears and hardness of hearing (aft. 10 d.).
Her hearing is obstructed, with a fluttering sensation.
She hears in the evening, the music before the ears, which had been played to her during the day.
300. Noises before the ears.
Buzzing and humming, before and in the ears.
Humming before the right ear.
Humming and buzzing in the ears.
Violent buzzing in the ears.
305. Seething in the ear (2d d.).

- Whistling in the ear when blowing the nose.
 Chirping in the ears, for several evenings.
 Beating before the ears, morning and evening.
 Clucking before the ears by day.
310. Gurgling in the ears, as of air-bubbles.
 The muscles of the nose feel as if first distended, then again contracted and shortened, as if turned over backward.
 Smarting erosive pains in the right nostril.
 Gnawing erosive pains in the left nostril, on moving the nose and on inserting the finger in it.
 Itching in the nostrils.
315. Itching of the nose (aft. 5 d.).
 Pressure on the nasal bones, close beside the right eye. [Gff.]
 Pressive drawing on the right side of the nose. [Gff.]
 Tearing, from the right side of the nose, going out at the canthus. [Htb.]
 Cutting, sore pain on the inner septum of the right nostril, at the top, in the evening in bed. [Gff.]
320. Swelling of the tip of the nose, painful when touched.
 Heat in the nose and burning of the eyes.
Sense of smell very acute, even the smell of hyacinths causes sickness.
 More acute sense of smell (aft. 2 d.).
 Total lack of the sense of smell (aft. 2 d.).
325. Smell of a crab, before the nose, on spitting out.
 He blows bloody mucus from his nose (aft. 6 d.).
 Expulsion of coagulated blood from the nose (aft. 11 d.).
 Copious bleeding of a little wound in the nose, in the evening, while walking (aft. 32 d.).
 Epistaxis, for three days in succession, at 2 P. M.
330. Bleeding from the nose, twice in one day (aft. 26 d.).
 Severe epistaxis and blowing of blood from the nose (aft. 20 d.).
 Paleness of the face, with drowsiness by day and peevishness.
 The paleness of the face increases toward evening (aft. 8 d.).
 Very pale sunken face, in the morning.
335. Pale, wretched complexion.
 Paler, drawn face.
 Change of the countenance, and sunken eyes.
 Very much sunken around the eyes (aft. 7 d.).
 Blue rings around the eyes (aft. d.).
340. Yellowness of the face.
 Yellowish-grey complexion. [Whl.]
 The whole face extends first in length, then in breadth.
 Heat in the face, the eyes and the palms.
 Heat of the face, with hypochondriac mood
345. Flying heat in the face, in the morning, soon after rising.
Frequent flying heat of the face (the first days).
 Severe heat in the face, without redness.
 Striking redness in the face, in the morning.
 Burning in the face (aft. 26 d.).

350. Red, bloated face, full of dark-red spots, covered with pustules.
 Swelling of the cheeks.
 Eruption in the face (aft. 12 d.).
 Single pimples in the face.
 Itching on the face, on the head and on the nose.
355. Itching in the whole face, and pimples with pus in the apices, on the cheeks, on the forehead, and especially on the temples (aft. 12 d.).
 Many pimples and freckles over the whole face.
 More freckles on the left side of the face and above the nose.
 The skin of the face lacks clearness, as if from a fine eruption.
 [Rl.]
 Itching herpes on the side of the nose, near the eye.
360. Itching, scaly herpes in the face and on the corners of the mouth, with bleeding. [Gll.]
 Simple pain in the left side of the face, when touched.
 Contractive pain in the muscles of the forehead and the face (aft. 4 d.).
 Feeling of swelling on the forehead.
 Tearing in the cheek.
365. Tearing in the cheek-bone, under the left eye. [Gff.]
Tearing in the upper jaw (2d d.).
 Tearing in the right side of the upper jaw.
 Spasmodic twitching in the muscles of the cheeks.
 The muscles of the lips and the cheeks contracted, causing the lips to be rounded, followed by a broadening of the mouth.
370. First, the left corner of the mouth was drawn upward, then the right was distorted.
 Paleness of the lips.
 Swelling of the right half of the lower lip. [Htb.]
 Swelling of the lips, in the morning.
 Swelling of the upper lip, increasing for several days, at last with an evening-fever, first a chill, then heat in the face, on the hands and the feet, restless sleep and night-sweat.
375. Sore place on the lower lip.
 Soreness of the corners of the mouth. [Gll.]
 The corners of the mouth pain, as if ulcerated.
 Eruption about the mouth.
 Fine eruption about the mouth (aft. 11 d.).
380. Itching pimple on the upper lip (aft. 14 d.).
 Eruption on the border of the red of the lip, with cutting pain on moving the lips and on touching them (aft. 12 d.).
 White blister on the inner side of the upper lip, with burning pain when at rest, not when eating (aft. 30 h.).
 (Large) ulcer on the red of the lower lip.
 On the chin in front, violent itching, two evenings in succession. [Gff.]
385. Itching eruptive pimples about the chin.
 On the lower jaw, pressure toward the back part. [Gff.]
 Drawing pain in the right lower jaw, and in the glands below

- it, heaviness as from a swelling, and beating therein, more after walking and after eating.
 Drawing in the jaws.
 Twitching pain in the lower jaw, in the evening.
390. Tearing, now in the right side, then in the left side of the jaw, by jerks.
 The lower jaw is involuntarily now pushed forward, then again backward.
 Hard swelling on the angle of the lower jaw, with feeling of heat in the head.
 Boring pain in the swollen submaxillary glands (aft. 4 d.).
 Toothache, so disagreeable that she feels continually like biting her teeth together.
395. Dull toothache above and below, with swelling of the gums (but neither beating, stinging nor drawing) (aft. 15 d.).
 The teeth ache only while chewing.
The teeth pain most acutely when touched and when chewing, as if festering.
 Toothache, when chewing, as if festering. [GU.]
 Toothache, only at night, and even if they ceased early in the morning, great excitement and restlessness, so that she could not sleep even then.
400. Toothache, at the least touch of the tooth and when coughing.
 Spasmodic pain in the teeth.
 Drawing spasmodic pain in the teeth, relieved by warm drinks.
 Drawing toothache, in the right lower molars. [Gff.]
 Tearing, drawing toothache, in the left lower molars. [Gff.]
405. Tearing in a hollow tooth.
 Shooting and drawing in teeth, which cannot be distinctly pointed out, now above, then below, so that she could not go to sleep in the evening (aft. 9 d.).
 Single, violent stitches in a hollow tooth, following in slow succession, ceasing after getting warm in bed.
 Frequent shooting in a right upper molar.
 Shooting, clucking and boring in a hollow tooth (aft. 12 h.).
410. Boring pain in the crown of the tooth.
 Single jerks in the right upper molars.
 Burrowing toothache, with stitches in an upper molar; after a meal.
 Throbbing and pinching toothache.
 Throbbing toothache (the first 6 nights).
415. Beating toothache, after eating.
 Beating in a tooth, with swelling of the gums.
 Pain as in a hollow tooth, as if it was being shattered; the pain extends to the temple (3d d.). [GU.]
 Pain in a lower molar, as if it was being shattered; very painful in biting on it (7th d.).
 A sound tooth pains, during a meal, as if it was too long.
420. All the teeth ache as if too dull.
 Looseness of several incisors.

Great looseness of the teeth.

The teeth turn yellow.

In the gums, heat and pain.

425. Tearing in the gums, and on the roots of the left lower incisors. [Gff.]

Twitching pain in the gums of the lower row, in the afternoon (aft. 10 d.).

Prickling and shooting pains in the gums and the cheek, on the left side.

Swelling of the gums, above the anterior teeth, with swelling of the upper lip.

Swelling of the gums interferes with opening the mouth.

430. Swelling between the upper gums and the zygoma, with some swelling of the cheek and prickling, shooting pains.

Fistula dentalis in an old socket, in which there is yet a root, with swelling of the gums.

Ulcers of the tooth (the gums).

Copious bleeding of the gums, in cleaning the teeth.

Involuntary clashing and gnashing of the teeth.

435. Here and there, small ulcers in the mouth.

Numbness of the inside of the mouth and of the tongue.

Involuntary smacking with the tongue, the sound of which varied between a and o.

The tongue feels swollen.

The tongue is swollen, and painful in spots, so that it interfered with her speaking.

440. The tongue involuntarily slips in, now between the upper lip and the upper teeth, then again between the lower lip and the lower teeth.

The tongue involuntarily darts out of the mouth, and to and fro between the lips.

The talk is nasal. [Whl.]

Relaxation in the mouth, and heaviness of the tongue.

Soreness of the tongue.

445. Many vesicles on the tip of the tongue, which pains as if raw and burnt.

Vesicles on the tip of the tongue. [Gll.]

A lump on the tongue.

An ulcer under the tongue, troublesome in talking and eating.

Swelling and elongation of the uvula (aft. 6 d.).

450. Frequent pain in the throat; on deglutition, she felt as if she swallowed too much at a time (aft. 9 d.).

Throatache, paining as if excoriated.

Soreness in the throat, on deglutition and coughing.

Soreness of the throat, it feels like a swelling, only during empty deglutition.

Inactivity of the œsophagus during deglutition; the food is slow in descending.

455. The œsophagus feels constricted, nothing will go down.

The throat feels too narrow during deglutition; the food and drink come out again at the nose. [Whl.]

- If he eats his soup pretty hot, he cannot swallow it.
Sore throat, as if it was swollen internally; but not noticeable in speaking and swallowing.
Glandular swellings, inside and outside in the throat, with shooting pains in swallowing, also such pains in the ear.
460. Sensation as if a ball rose from below up into the pharynx.
Sensation in the throat, as if a stone pressed in from without and compressed the throat, somewhat painful in swallowing, not interfering with breathing.
Tearing pains, extending up the œsophagus.
Tearing in the left side of the throat. [Gff.]
Tearing in the left side of the pharynx and of the throat.
465. Crawling, pressive tearing on the upper posterior part of the palate.
Shooting and dryness of the throat (aft. 5 d.).
Continual prickling in the throat.
Inflammation of the throat, with hoarseness and stitches, so that she can swallow neither solids nor liquids for nine days (aft. 12 d.).
Inflammation of the fauces, with pressive shooting pains. [Whl.]
470. Suppuration of the glands between the velum palati, with shooting pains on swallowing. [Whl.]
Ulcers like chancre on the tonsils. [Whl.]
Ulceration of the tonsils. [Whl.]
Roughness in the pharynx, with sensation of swelling on deglutition.
Dryness in the mouth and throat.
475. Great dryness in the mouth, in the morning (aft. 3 d.). [Rv.]
Sensation of dryness in the fauces, paining as if sore, when swallowing, in the morning.
Sensation of dryness in the mouth, with much saliva.
On the palate and the lips, the saliva dries up into tenacious mucus.
Sensation of dryness in the throat and mouth, without thirst, only in the evening, immediately on lying down, and through the nights.
480. Constant dryness in the throat. [Whl.]
Troublesome dryness of the throat; she would like to drink, but cannot get anything down for pain. [Whl.]
In the morning, the throat is always quite dried up. [Whl.]
Dryness of the throat, with much thirst.
Dryness in the mouth, and bitterish taste.
485. Dry in the mouth and sourish taste.
Urging to throw up a sourish, watery, at times bloody, fluid.
Constant accumulation of water in the mouth, and spitting out of mucus. [Whl.]
Ptyalism, with salty taste. [Whl.]
The interior of the mouth is posteriorly covered with tough mucus.

490. Hawking up of bloody mucus, during the (daily, customary) riding.
 Coated tongue.
 Scrapy sensation in the mouth.
 Bad smell from the mouth.
 Fetor in the mouth, in the morning, on awaking, which he himself observes.
495. Bitter taste in the mouth, in the morning.
 Bitter taste in the mouth, in the morning, as from acidity in the stomach.
Severely bitter taste in the mouth, at night, so that she had to get up and rinse her mouth.
 Constant bitter taste in the mouth, but the food is not bitter.
 Bitter taste of all the food.
500. Bitter-sour taste in the mouth, before and after breakfast.
Sour taste in the mouth, especially in the morning, on awaking.
 Sour taste of all he partakes of, even of sweet things.
 Sour taste in drinking cacao.
 Mouldy taste in the mouth, from morning till noon.
505. Cheesy taste in the mouth (aft. 13 d.).
 Very sweetish taste in the mouth (aft. 48 h.).
 Water tastes sweet as sugar, in the morning.
No thirst, adipsia.
 Constant thirst, with dry lips and dry mouth; but when she took a little sip, she felt repugnance to it, and could not get it down; she felt sick, weary and languid.
510. Severe thirst, with fine foamy saliva in the mouth (aft. 1 h.).
 Much thirst, she would like to drink all the time. [Whl.]
 Great appetite and hasty eating.
 Hunger, immediately after eating, though the stomach and abdomen were full and disturbed with it.
 Excessive hunger; the more he eats, the more the stomach calls for, and as long as he eats, he feels well, but afterward he always has a sourish taste on his tongue, and also the saliva seems sour, though he does not perceive this when eating.
515. Rabid hunger, at noon, while eating, with a sensation as if she could not get satisfied.
 Constant voracious hunger, in the afternoon, with a sensation as of heavy pieces in the stomach.
 If she does not eat during her rabid hunger, she has headache, which passes off after eating.
 Appetite, without any real hunger.
 Lack of appetite (aft. 3 d.).
520. He does not relish his food, has no appetite at all.
 Lack of appetite, but much thirst (aft. 30 d.).
 Dislike to solid food, especially to meat, but there is thirst (1st d.).
 She cannot eat at all, is always sated and without appetite, and when she eats anything, she feels a loathing, even to vomiting.

- Almost loathing food.
525. Sometimes, he momentarily loathes even the best viands, before tasting them, but then he cannot get enough of them.
Aversion to drinking coffee and to smoking tobacco.
He has a repugnance to bread, but likes warm food.
After drinking milk, a sour taste.
Soon after a meal, a bad taste in the mouth.
530. After supper, the anterior part of the mouth is watery, but behind, in the fauces, it is dry.
After all food and drink, a sour taste in the mouth and palate, with tendency to sour eructation.
After a meal, acidity in the mouth.
After a meal, disagreeably bitter taste in the mouth.
During dinner, much nausea, even to fainting, sweat on the forehead and complete loss of appetite.
535. After a meal, nausea in the fauces and stomach, even to vomiting, with accumulation of water in the mouth.
Much thirst, after meals.
After supper, hiccoughs, for half an hour.
After meals, frequent eructation.
After meals, retching, with rising to vomit; rising up of water and running of same from mouth (waterbrash).
540. Sensation as of spoiled stomach.
The digestion seems to proceed but slowly.
She cannot eat her fill, because else she feels uncomfortable and inflated in the region of the liver.
After eating to satiety, there is at once an uncomfortable and distended feeling.
Immediately after eating, the abdomen always feels full, distended and inflated till evening, while sitting, standing and lying; he has no pleasure in walking, and remains sitting.
545. After dinner, inflation of the stomach and tension in the head.
After meals, the abdomen is bloated.
After meals, he feels full and heavy.
After a meal, sensation in the stomach as of prolonged fasting, but without hunger.
After a meal, colic.
550. After every meal, pressure in the stomach.
After meals, pinching in the abdomen.
After breakfast, pinching in the abdomen, as after a laxative.
During meals, pressure in the forehead.
During meals, constant shooting in the forehead, and then on moving, severe, single stitches (aft. 36 h.).
555. After eating, heat in the head and a red spot on the left cheek.
After meals, black specks before the eyes with pain, especially of the left eye, aggravated by shaking the head. [Gll.]
Especially after supper, his features are distorted.
After meals, a deep, burning redness over the whole face.
After meals, first redness of the cheeks, then fearful pallor.
560. After dinner, urgent pressure to urinate, but almost ineffectual.
After meals, a quaking of the whole body.

After meals, throbbing through the whole body. [Gll.]

After meals she is always fatigued and weary, with quicker pulse (aft. 10 d.).

After meals, irresistible drowsiness.

565. After dinner, irresistible sleep and then languor.

During meals, shivering, shaking the whole body, but without a chill.

After meals, hot hands.

During eating, he feels as if the food touched a sore spot, when there arises a pressure there.

Much eructation, alternating with yawning.

570. Frequent empty eructation (the first days).

Empty eructation, the whole day (16th d.).

Eructation with the taste of the ingesta (1st d.).

Constant bilious eructation, in the afternoon.

Sour eructation, with bellyache (at once).

575. Sour eructation, the taste of which does not remain in his mouth, but the acid gnaws in the stomach.

Eructation of a sour fluid, with sour taste in the mouth.

Much sourish eructation.

Sour eructation after every meal, with regurgitation of digested food, leaving for an hour a fetid taste in the mouth, with numbness of the head (aft. 11 d.).

Regurgitation of the milk drunk in the morning, with scrapy, clawing taste in the throat.

580. Abortive, burning eructation, which only reaches the pharynx, where it causes a burning for several hours (aft. 4 h.).

Burning eructation, like a kind of heartburn.

Heartburn, rising from the stomach, causing acidity in the mouth.

Heartburn up the chest, with acid rising in the mouth.

Heartburn, for half an hour after every meal, with sour eructation and burning in the scrobiculus cordis for many hours, almost taking his breath, and making him very weak.

585. Heartburn, after the meal (cold mutton roast) with a pressure on the chest, as if a stone lay upon it (aft. 33 d.).

Heartburn, for three hours after a meal, aggravated by smoking tobacco.

Hiccup. [Gff.]

Frequent hiccup, for three days in succession (aft. 4 d.).

Hiccup, after every meal (aft. 19 d.).

590. Nausea, every morning, while fasting.

Nausea in the afternoon, with rising of sourish taste.

Nausea, with tightness in the chest, and the scrobiculus cordis, and lassitude in the lower limbs, briefly relieved by empty eructation, then returning, with formication in the œsophagus and the scrobiculus cordis. [Gff.]

Nausea rises into his head, which pains as if oppressed and benumbed, even to the nape; with this there is trembling of the hands; better in the open air.

Nausea in the room, but it goes off in the open air; and again nausea in the open air that is relieved in the room.

595. Nausea, with heat in the abdomen and icy cold in the face (aft. 2 d.).
 Loathing at the sight of food, with accumulation of saliva, and insipid, flat taste in the mouth.
Waterbrash, almost every other day, griping in the pit of the stomach; nausea, she has to open her mouth wide, from which, seemingly rising from the stomach, there runs much salty water.
 Accumulation of water in the mouth, as in rabid hunger, in the forenoon, while writing (aft. 12 d.).
 Accumulation of water in the mouth, with nausea; she had to spit out much (the first two mornings).
600. Bitterish water rises every morning into the mouth from the stomach, so that she has to bend over the edge of the bed and to spit it out, like waterbrash.
 Sick and qualmy about the stomach, in the morning, after rising, and especially when leaving her room, just as if sweat would break out.
 Inclination to vomit, with retching up of effervescing foam.
 Vomiting, at night, of food and bile, after previous nausea and anguish about the heart (aft. 9 d.).
 After the noon-nap, the child vomited mucus five times.
605. Vomiting of coagulated blood and of an acrid liquid.
 Stomachache, increased by sitting bent forward.
 Acute pain in the pit of the stomach, on external pressure.
 Empty feeling in the stomach, before dinner, so that he had to yawn continually.
 Violent stomachache, after a meal and slight cold, with chilliness, so that she could not get warm, and dying off of the hands (aft. 23 d.).
610. Severe pains about the stomach, so that she could not lace nor endure anything tied firmly over the part (aft. 8 d.).
 Early, on awaking, cramp in the pit of the stomach, for three quarters of an hour (aft 3 d.).
 Heaviness in the stomach, for two hours after breakfast.
 Pressure above the stomach, on the orifice, in the evening.
 Violent pressure in the stomach and abdomen, the whole forenoon, with pain when touched and when breathing.
615. Continual pressure in the stomach, with tension in the abdomen.
Pressure in the pit of the stomach (1st d.).
 Pressure in the pit of the stomach. [Gll.]
 Pressure in the pit of the stomach, before dinner. [Gff.]
 Pressure in the pit of the stomach and the lower part of the chest, on lifting a heavy weight.
620. Pressure in the pit of the stomach, especially in the afternoon and after straining in lifting; also pain there when touched.
 Pressive pain from the pit of the stomach, down to the navel, with cooling in the epigastrium. [Gff.]
 Cramp in the stomach, before eating, with abortive eructation. [Gll.]
 Contusive pain in the stomach, going off by eructation; also when pressed upon, the stomach pains violently.

- Contraction and cramp of the stomach, extending into the chest, from morning to evening.
625. Wine renews the cramp of the stomach. [Gl.]
Whirling sensation in the pit of the stomach, with rising of dry heat in the face. [Hib.]
Tearing and drawing pain in the stomach, with nausea and pain in the abdomen, as from a needle stuck into the bowels.
Clutching and gnawing at the stomach, and sensation of fullness.
Shooting tension about the pit of the stomach, when respiring. [Gff.]
630. Throbbing in the pit of the stomach on straightening his body.
Anxious sensation about the pit of the stomach, as from quick, passive motion, e. g., from swinging.
The liver is painful to the touch.
Severe pain of the liver, with regular stools (aft. 8 d.).
Pressure in the hepatic region.
635. Pressure in the hepatic region. [Gl.]
Pressive pain in the hepatic region, while breathing (aft. 13 d.).
Pressure in the right side of the abdomen.
Pressing outward in the hepatic region. [Gff.]
Dull pressure in the hepatic region. [Gff.]
640. Sharp pressure below the last true rib, when taking a deep breath and when bending sideways, also when pressing on the right hypogastrium.
A sore pressive pain, as from a blow, in the right hypochondriac region, aggravated by touching it. [Gff.]
Tension in the lower hepatic region and pressure.
Clutching as with the hand in the hepatic region, when coughing and when turning the trunk.
Violent spasmodic pain of the diaphragm in the hepatic region on stooping or from other slight causes, as if the liver was strained.
645. Pinching in the hepatic region (11th d.).
Pinching and shooting in the hepatic region.
Pinching stitch in the right epigastrium.
Shooting in the liver, in the evening for an hour (aft. 6 d.).
Painless twitching on the surface of the liver, when coughing.
650. Pain as of rawness in the liver.
Itching in the interior of the liver.
Painful tension in the left hypochondrium.
Aching in the abdomen, in the morning after rising.
Pressure in the middle of the left side of the abdomen. [Gff.]
655. Pressure in the abdomen, near the hips, now on the right side, now on the left. [Gff.].
Pressive pain in the abdomen, in the morning (5th d.). [Gl.]
Pressive pain in the right hypogastrium, the whole day; he had to walk bent forward for pain, he had to lie down, and became quite short of breath (aft. 6 d.).

- Pressive pain in the epigastrium, as from flatus, increased on drawing in the belly, diminished by empty eructation. [Gff.]
 Pressure in the abdomen, with drawing pain.
660. Pressure and cutting in the abdomen, before dinner. [Gff.]
 Sharp pressure on a small spot in the middle of the epigastrium. [Gff.]
 A frequent pinching pressure outward, to the right of the navel, toward the hip, and somewhat below it.
 Heavy weight in the abdomen.
 Heavy weight in the left side of the abdomen, unconnected with breathing; but felt constantly and equally while walking, sitting and lying down (aft. 24 h.).
665. Fullness in the abdomen, with urging toward the rectum.
Full, distended abdomen and cold feet (aft. 6 d.).
 Big abdomen and daily pains in it (aft. 2 d.).
 Distension of the abdomen, especially just before the menses.
 Distension of the abdomen from flatulence (aft. 4 d.).
670. Distension of the abdomen, toward evening, and incarcerated flatus.
 Distension of the abdomen, for several afternoons, beginning at 4 o'clock.
Tension in the abdomen (aft. 6 h.).
 Tension in the abdomen, with much accumulation of flatus.
 Tension of the abdomen, with incarceration of flatus.
675. Tension and growling in the abdomen.
 Distended abdomen, and call to stool, generally only in the evening.
 Cramps in the abdomen which is very much distended.
 Cramps in the abdomen.
 Spasmodic contraction in the abdomen.
680. Intermittent pressive pinching in the left hypogastrium. [Gff.]
 Gripping and pinching about the navel, at once in the morning, in bed.
 Pinching in the abdomen, relieved by emission of flatus (aft. 4 h.).
 Pinching in the abdomen, in the afternoon (after a normal stool), from 3 to 10 o'clock, with nausea and inclination to vomit.
 Cutting pain in the abdomen, before the stool (aft. 17 d.).
685. Cutting colic, at night, in short paroxysms.
 Cutting in the abdomen about midnight, with vomiting and diarrhoea.
 Cutting in the hypogastrium, after dinner, and then a stitch extending into the tip of the glans, twice in succession. [Gff.]
 Cutting in the epigastrium, every forenoon, and at once early in bed, without diarrhoea, till the afternoon, aggravated by walking.
 Transient cutting in the bowels; extending into the flanks and the hips, toward evening (aft. 11 d.).
690. Clucking intermittent tearing, in a small spot of the middle of the epigastrium, toward the left side. [Gff.]
Drawing pain in the abdomen.
 Drawing pain in the abdomen, with pressure.

Drawing pain in the abdomen, extending down into the calves.

Drawing pains in the abdomen.

695. Pinching drawing quite deep down in the hypogastrium.

[Gff.]

Shooting in the lower right hypogastrium, extending to the pelvis, at every breath and every turning of the body, worse in the evening and night (aft. 10 d.).

Burning stitches, on the right side, beside the navel. [Gff.]

Jerks in the abdomen (aft. 4 d.).

Throbbing in the abdomen, with anxious sensation, as from cramp.

700. The skin of the abdomen is painfully sensitive.

Shooting sore pain in the skin of the abdomen when touched, and even when the clothes touch it.

In the groins, pains, when walking, and pain in the back (aft. 6 d.).

Pains in the hernial region.

Pressure and dull shooting frequently in the right inguinal region. [Gff.]

705. Pressure outward, in the right inguinal region. [Gff.]

Outward pressure in the left inguinal region, then clucking in the abdominal ring. [Gff.]

Pulsating, tearing pressure outward, in the right flank, near the thigh. [Gff.]

Throbbing, deep in the right abdominal ring. [Gff.]

Shooting in both the groins, late in the evening (2d d.).

710. Acute, boring stitches on the left side, just above the groin, both when walking and at rest.

Tearing stitches in the hernial region (aft. 24 h.).

Red swelling in the right groin, which, when moving and when touched, pains as if festering (aft. 16 d.).

Small glandular swellings in the groins (aft. 21 d.).

The hernial sac protrudes (at once after the menses) in the inguinal region, with tearing pains.

715. Accumulation of flatus in the evening; the flatus only passes off in part, with pressure in the umbilical region.

Tormented by flatulence, at once in the morning, before breakfast.

Retention of flatus after having been seated for two hours.

Retention of flatus, and he feels worse from it (aft. 6 d.).

Much flatus seems to excite tension and clucking, now here, now there, in the abdomen, the hypochondria, and even in the back, the costal region and the chest; relieved by empty eructation.

720. The production of much flatus, which accumulates here and there, seems to be a chief symptom of the club-moss pollen, and a large part of the pains produced seems to be caused by this. [Gff.]

Severe colic, in the evening, like incarceration of flatus, then rumbling in the abdomen, and discharge of flatus (aft. 10 d.).

Much motion of flatus, toward evening, and some pain in the

- abdomen thence, with a subdued discharge of inodorous flatus, while the abdomen is distended. [Gff.]
 Growling and tension in the abdomen.
Growling and gurgling in the abdomen.
725. Cooing in the left epigastrium, audible and palpable. [Gff.]
 Clucking in the left side of the abdomen. [Gff.]
 Loud rumbling in the abdomen (aft. 16 d.).
 Discharge of flatus, after previous colic (aft. 4 d.).
 Urging to stool, then spasmodic pain in the rectum, which does not allow the fæces to be discharged.
730. Sensation of a call to stool, but this extended merely to the rectum (aft. sever. h.).
 Very troublesome stool, owing to contraction of the rectum.
 The anus is painfully closed.
 Stool, not daily, sluggish, and no call to stool.
 Stool, only every other day. [Gff.]
735. It causes the stool to be retained for two or three days, but then there ensues a normal, copious evacuation.
 No call to stool, in the morning, but instead of it in the evening; but though there is a decided call, only little is discharged, and this must be pressed out with much straining. [Gff.]
 The call to stool comes only in the evening, with distended abdomen.
 Scanty stool, with a sensation as if much remained behind, and, at once after it, much painful accumulation of flatus in the abdomen (aft. 24 h.).
 Urging to stool, as if much was coming, but only what is needful was evacuated.
740. Inactivity of the rectum, during the stool.
 Only with much straining and with burning pain in the rectum the stool is discharged every day, but yet scantily.
 The first part of the stool is knotty, the second soft, for many days in succession (aft. 16 d.).
 Lumpy stool, in small pieces.
 Thin stool, mixed with knots.
745. Pappy stool, daily once or twice, from the fifth day for several weeks successively.
 Soft stool, daily several times; it is pressed out with much straining; the flatus is not discharged.
 Tenesmus in the morning, in the afternoon diarrhœa.
 Diarrhœic stools, with pain in the abdomen mostly very early (about 2 or 3 A. M.).
 Very pale colored stool.
750. Very fetid stool.
 Copious discharge of thin mucus, but scanty stool, at noon.
 With the stool, discharge of blood.
Discharge of blood from the rectum, even with a soft stool (aft. 14 d.).
 With thin stool, smarting in the anus.
755. With normal stool, shooting in the rectum.
 With knotty stool, fine shooting in the rectum.
 During stool, burning in the rectum.

- With the frequent stools, burning in the anus (also aft. 48 h.).
- With hard stool, pain in the sacrum, as if it would break; with colic, as if the bowels would burst (aft. 40 d.).
760. During the stool, while moderately straining, there is pain in the upper part of the head and buzzing before the ears.
With difficult stool, a shock in the temples.
After a regular stool, still continued urging, but ineffectual.
After a soft stool, burning itching in the rectum.
After a stool, which was not hard, burning in the rectum.
765. After a copious stool, still sensation of fullness in the rectum.
After a scanty hard stool, violent contractive pain in the perinæum, for several hours.
After the stool, cramp in the abdomen and the uterus, quite low down, across the hypogastrium, but mostly after a soft stool.
After the stool, flatulent inflation of the whole abdomen.
After the stool, much rumbling in the abdomen.
770. After the stool, heat and pressure in the head and weariness in the thighs.
After the stool, great lassitude.
The varices of the rectum are swollen.
The varices protude from the rectum.
The varices of the anus pain, while sitting.
775. The varices of the anus pain, when touched.
The rectum frequently so constricted, that it protrudes with a hard stool.
Pressure in the rectum, at night (aft. 23 d.).
Pressive pain on the rectum, with cramp-pains in the abdomen, so that she (being pregnant) thought her delivery quite near, though it only resulted in sixteen days.
Spasms in the rectum and the sacrum, like labor-pains.
780. Pinching pains in the anus and the perinæum, in the morning. [Gff.]
Pinching and shooting, on the border of the anus. [Gff.]
Shooting in the rectum (aft. 2 d.).
A stitch in the rectum from the sacrum.
Shooting and sore pain in the rectum.
785. Tearing in the rectum, taking away the breath (aft. 40 h.).
Itching in the rectum.
Itching on the anus. [Gff.]
Severe itching on the anus (also aft. 28 d.)
Itching about the anus (aft. 12 d.).
790. Itching on the anus and the mons veneris. [Htb.]
Itching eruption on the anus, painful when touched.
Urine diminished the first eight days, but all the more copious after fourteen days. [Gff.]
Too little urine.
While urinating, the urine suddenly ceases, only a few turbid and mucous drops follow, with pains in the urethra; then pressive pain in the groins.
795. Frequent, copious micturition (aft. 24 d.).
Frequent micturition at night (aft. 9 d.).

- Frequent foamy urine.
 Urine, white and turbid, immediately after being passed.
 Urine, with yellow sediment (aft. 6 d.).
800. Dark urine, with scalding. [GU.]
 Much dark urine (11th d.). [GU.]
 Reddish-brown urine.
 Dark urine, with sediment (aft. 18 d.).
 Dark urine, with reddish sediment (aft. 32 d.).
805. Red sand in the urine.
 Red sand in the urine, which remains pretty clear.
 Reddish-yellow sand in the urine.
 Some red sediment in the urine.
 Bright-red sediment in the urine. [GU.]
810. Strong smell of urine (the first days).
 Painless discharge of blood from the urethra (aft. 6 d.).
 During micturition, burning in the female urethra.
 During urination, excoriative pain. [GU.]
 During micturition, excoriative pain in the female urethra.
815. During micturition, pinching in the perinæum, close to the anus, which continues, and returns also at times when not urinating.
 [Gff.]
 After micturition, in the evening, on going to sleep, a crawling burning in the urethra. [Gff.]
 In the urethra, anteriorly, violent, through brief drawing pain. [Gff.]
 Jerking drawing, posteriorly in the urethra. [Gff.]
 Tearing in the orifice of the urethra, some time after micturition. [Gff.]
820. Transient cutting, anteriorly in the urethra.
 Sharp cutting from the posterior termination of the urethra,
 obliquely up into the abdomen. [Gff.]
 Violently cutting stitch across the penis, close to the abdomen, at night, after discharge of much flatus. [Gff.]
 Stitches in the bladder. [GU.]
 Shooting in the neck of the bladder and simultaneously in the anus.
825. In the sexual parts, transient cutting, starting from the abdomen.
 Violent jerking pain on the penis. [RL.]
 Tickling through the sexual parts.
 Tickling drawing through the tip of the glans. [Gff.]
 Shooting in the point of the glans.
830. Drawing and cutting in the glans. [Gff.]
 Drawing tearing in the region of the corona glandis. [Gff.]
 Much yellowish humor behind the corona glandis, with dark-red, soft elevations, smarting itching, continuing for several days.
 [Gff.]
 Much itching on the prepuce, on the inner surface. [Also
Gff.]
 Itching in the frænulum, under the prepuce. [RL.]
835. Itching on the scrotum. [RL.]
 Stinging itching, especially on the scrotum.

- Shooting in the scrotum.
 Shooting tearing in the side of the scrotum, in the evening, in bed. [Gff.]
 Twitching sensation in the left testicle (aft. 29 d.).
840. Great weakness in the sexual and the neighboring parts, with pain in the perinæum, when sitting (aft. 3 d.).
Sexual impulse diminished for ten days (aft. 7 d.).
 Less sexual impulse for seven days (aft. 8 d.).
 Impulse to coition extinct (in the after-effects?) (aft. 30 d.).
 Diminished sexual potency, even voluptuous ideas cause no erection, although there is no lack of inclination to coitus. [Gff.]
845. Rare erections (the first days).
The penis small, cold and without erections (the first 14 d.).
 Extraordinary sexual impulse (aft. 6 and 14 d.).
 Erections, with dependent scrotum (aft. 5 d.).
 Erections several times a day (aft. 7 w.).
850. Pollution (the first n.).
 Weakening pollution (2d d.). [Gll.]
 Discharge of prostatic juice, without any cause.
 Discharge of prostatic juice, without erection, with great lasciviousness.
 Even during the coitus, dependent scrotum and tardy emission of semen (aft. 4 d.).
855. He goes to sleep during coition, without emission of semen (aft. 12 d.).
 After coitus, lassitude all the day following (aft. 48 h.).
 After a pollution, languor in the morning, with trembling.
 In the sexual parts, tearing stitches.
 Violent burning in the vagina, during and after coitus.
860. Drawing in the groin, as if the menses were coming, in an aged female.
 Straining in the hypogastrium, as if the menses were coming, only sixteen days after the previous period (12th d.).
 The menses, which had ceased for two days past, reappeared (aft. 16 h.).
 Being given three days after the menstrual flow had ceased, the medicine caused another flow within fourteen days.
 Menses two days too early, and too scanty (aft. 41 d.).
865. Menses four days too early (aft. 12 d., also aft. 2 d.).
 Menses seven days too early (aft. 4 d.).
 Menstrual flow seven days too early (3d d.).
 It restored on the new moon, the menses, which had been suppressed for five months, in a girl of seventeen years, and this without the previous usual ailments (aft. 16 d.).
 It retards the appearance of the menses by four days (in its after-effects?).
870. It retards the menses by four days (aft. 17 d.).
 It retards the menses by three days.
 It retards the menses, which before were always punctual, by five days.
 It retards the menses by three days (aft. 10 d.).

- The catamenia are continued even to the sixth day, when they seemed already to have come to an end; usually they only lasted four days.
875. Before the appearance of the menses, inflation of the abdomen.
 Before the menses appeared, great heaviness of the lower limbs.
 Before the menses appeared, cold feet.
 The day before the menses appeared, a severe chill (aft. 13 d.).
 Before the menses appeared, discomfort and a chill, the whole day.
880. Before the menses appeared, at midnight, first, a chill, then heat, especially in the face, with restlessness.
 Just before the menses, very low-spirited, desponding and melancholy.
 The day before the menses appeared, and on the first day, delirious talking, with weeping, as if she should become crazy (aft. 7 d.).
 Some days before and during the menses, the pupils are much dilated.
 During the menses, there is so violent an itching in the pudenda, which seem swollen, that she could hardly contain herself (aft. 12 d.).
885. During the menses, an aching in the temples, as if they were being screwed together in a vice, as if the forehead would burst open.
 During the menses, dull headache, almost like tearing.
 During the menses, acidity in the mouth, with coated tongue.
 During the menses, nausea.
 During the menses, severe pains in the sacrum, in the morning, on rising from bed, so that she could not move.
890. During the menses, swelling of the feet.
 During the menses, great lassitude.
 During the menses, while standing (in church), a sort of fainting; she neither heard nor saw anything, with a sensation of great heat in the interior, especially in the head, with great paleness of the face; she had to sit down at once, and remained the whole evening, as it were, stupefied, and also on the following day her head seemed occupied by numbness (aft. 3 d.).
 After the menses, stitches in the head, recurring with short intermissions.
 Much leucorrhœal discharge, by jerks (aft. 5 d.).
895. Milky leucorrhœa.
 Repeated discharge of a leucorrhœa of a bloody red, before the full moon (aft. 7 d.).
 * * * * *
- Sneezing, without coryza. [Gff.]
 Sneezing, every morning, for half an hour.
 Sneezing, fifteen times a day, without coryza (aft. 5 d.).
900. She cannot sneeze on account of a stinging pain in the neck.
 [Whl]
 Severe tickling in the nose, without being able to sneeze.

Stoppage of the nose, quite high up.

Stoppage of the nose, toward morning.

Stoppage of the nose, so that he can only breathe with the mouth open.

905. Total stoppage of the nose; the breath of the child stops in sleep, often for about fifteen seconds, even while its mouth is open.

Stuffed coryza (aft. 10 d.).

Stuffed coryza, so that he cannot breathe through his nose at night.

Stuffed coryza, with burning in the forehead, and a benumbed feeling of the head, which quite contracted her eyes, with much thirst and heat at night, so that she could sleep but little.

Dryness of the nose and stoppage in the root of the nose.

910. Sensation of dryness in the opening of the posterior nares.
Coryza, in a person entirely unaccustomed to it (aft. 21 d.).
Violent coryza, with swelling of the nose.
Severe coryza, with catarrhal headache (aft. 10 d.).
Coryza, with acrid discharge from the nose, making sore the upper lip (aft. 28 d.).

915. Frequent coryza, with ill-smelling discharge from the left nostril, which becomes ulcerated within.

Running of the nose, like fluent coryza, even after a few hours.

Very profuse fluent coryza (aft. 2 d.).

Profuse fluent coryza, with pressure on the chest.

Renewed profuse fluent coryza (at once).

920. Hardened mucus in the nose.
In the larynx, frequent pressive pain, in swallowing.
Violent formicating scraping in the windpipe below the larynx, wakes him at night, at two o'clock, from the deepest sleep.
[Gff.]

Sensation of dryness in the larynx.

Hoarseness (aft. 25 and 48 d.).

925. Hoarseness, the chest becomes rough and sore from speaking, especially in the afternoon.

Great heaviness on the chest.

Sensation of mucus on the chest; it wheezes in the windpipe, when respiring, by day (aft. 18 d.).

Sensation as if the chest was obstructed with mucus (aft. 13 d.).

Rattling and snoring sound on the chest.

930. Irritation to hawking, with sensation of roughness in the throat, as if the mucus was firmly attached, with tickling in the throat, exciting to cough. [Gff.]

Irritation in the throat, causing a dry cough. [Gff.]

Tussiculation from tickling in the throat.

Some impulses of coughing, following on tickling in the larynx, ending with sneezing.

Inconquerable itching tickling in the larynx, forcing him to violent coughing (aft.  $\frac{3}{4}$  h.).

935. Very fatiguing cough, in the evening, before going to sleep, as if the larynx was being tickled with a feather, with little expectoration (aft. 3 d.).

Cough, from tickling, with gray expectoration. [Gl.]

Cough from tickling in the throat, even to retching. [Gl.]

Tickling cough, as from fumes of sulphur in the throat, with gray, salty expectoration.

Irritation to cough, as from sulphurous fumes.

940. Irritation to cough, from deep breathing, from stretching the neck and also occasionally from empty deglutition.

Short and hacking cough, with sore pain along the windpipe.

[Gl.]

From four to eight o'clock in the evening, she has to cough and to drink much.

In the evening, in bed, he has to hawk, with a short and hacking cough.

Cough at night and hoarseness, when the expectoration is detached, there is a pain in the chest like soreness.

945. Nocturnal cough, fatiguing the stomach and diaphragm, chiefly before sunrise. [Sr.]

Nocturnal cough, almost without intermission, causing headache and aching in both sides of the abdomen.

Nocturnal cough, with some expectoration (aft. 6 d.).

Dry cough, with wheezing, whistling and crepitation in the throat. [Gl.]

Dry short cough, every morning, with sensation of hoarseness in the throat, without actual hoarseness.

950. Dry, wheezing cough, as with brandy drinkers. [Gl.]

Dry, rough cough, chiefly troublesome at night.

The expectoration from the cough tastes salty.

Salty expectoration, in the morning, evening and night.

[Gl.]

Gray expectoration, when coughing, with salty taste.

955. Blackish mucous expectoration, when coughing, by day and by night.

Green expectoration, in the morning, on coughing, after severe pain in the chest.

Expectoration of whitish mucus. [Gl.]

First thin, then thick, purulent expectoration, with troublesome, tickling cough. [Gl.]

Whitish-yellow, thick expectoration, with violent cough.

960. Yellowish, purulent expectoration, with raw and sore pain on the chest, after long-continued, dry cough.

Cough, with purulent expectoration, for eight days, almost uninterrupted, with fever and profuse night-sweat, as in the last days of tubercular phthisis.

Bloody expectoration, on coughing.

Hemorrhage in a female suffering with pulmonary consumption (aft. 10 d.). [Sr.]

Before the cough begins, the breathing is very short.

965. In coughing, excoriative pain on the chest, with yellowish-gray expectoration.

During coughing the breath is very short, not otherwise.

- During coughing, concussion as from a blow, in the temples and at the same time in the chest.
- During coughing, violent throbbing in the head.
- During coughing, pain in the head and on both sides of the abdomen.
970. During coughing, a pressive stitch-like jerk in the head.
- During coughing, stitches in the throat, not otherwise, nor in swallowing.
- She has oppression of the chest and stitches in the throat, exciting her to a cough, which is scraping (5th d.).
- From coughing, pain in the gastric region.
- Breathing is connected with violent oppression of the chest.
975. The breath is checked, on going up stairs.
- Tight, oppressed and full sensation on the chest, when in the open air.
- Tightness on the chest, especially when moving, for several days, with pressive pain in the scrobiculus cordis.
- Oppression of the chest (aft. 24 h.).
- Oppression of the chest, in the evening.
980. Asthma, as if the breast was contracted by a cramp (aft. 8 d.).
- Asthma and shortness of breath, with rush of blood to the chest (aft. 20 d.).
- During respiration, here and there, a stitch in the chest.
- During respiration, stitches in and below the chest, for two hours (after supper).
- While taking a deep breath, stitches in the sternum.
985. During respiration, twitching and stitches in the left side.
- Sensation as if a quantity of air rose in undulations up the windpipe, and streamed from the mouth.
- Pain in the chest, with coughing in deep respiration. [Gff.]
- Pain in the chest, for the first six days, so severe that he could not lie on his left side at all; then coughing, with green expectoration, in the morning.
- From time to time, a pain darts into the chest.
990. Tension on the chest (aft. sever. h.).
- Sensation of tension, on the left side of the chest.
- Tension in the chest, especially on the right side during inspiration. [Gff.]
- Violent tension and pressure in the right side of the chest. [Gff.]
- Tension and pressure on the chest, oppressing the breathing, alternating with inflation of the abdomen, in the evening (aft. 4 d.).
995. Pressure in the chest (aft. 10 d.).
- Pressure in the left side of the chest. [Gff.]
- Pressure on a small spot of the true ribs, below the left axilla. [Gff.]
- Pressure as from a button, on the right true ribs. [Gff.]
- Sensation of pressure and sore pain in the chest. [Gff.]
1000. Dull pressure in the left side of the chest. [Gff.]
- Pressive, rheumatic, tight sensation on the chest, relieved by empty eructation. [Gff.]

- Pressure and oppression in the region below the heart, passing into a strong inclination to sadness; after severe bodily exercise, when stretching the trunk.
- Pressure in the chest, it is, as it were, full and tight (7th d.). Fullness on the chest (and in the stomach) after meals.
1005. Fullness on the chest, at noon, like oppression.
Oppression of the chest as if too full. [Htb.]
Oppression of the chest and sensation of rawness within.
Oppression of the chest.
Heaviness on the chest.
1010. Cutting pain on the right side of the chest. [Gff.]
Shooting in the left side of the chest, also in respiring (aft. 7 d.).
Stitches in the left side of the chest, extending into the chest, so that she can hardly breathe.
Much shooting in the left side of the chest. [Gll.]
Tearing stitch, occasionally, in the lower part of the sternum, unconnected with breathing, when at rest.
1015. Pulsating shooting in the left side of the chest. [Gff.]
Pulsating tearing below the right axilla. [Gff.]
Pulsating tearing in the cardiac region. [Gff.]
Tearing in the region of the left clavicle. [Gff.]
Pain as of dislocation in the left side, with jerks occurring between.
1020. Pulsating or clucking, internally in the cardiac region, unconnected with the beats of the heart. [Gff.]
Severe palpitation, in the morning, from 4 to 5 o'clock (aft. 48 h.).
Sudden severe palpitation, after lassitude with yawning.
Tremulous palpitation (3d d.). [Goull.]
Itching on the chest (aft. 3 and 7 d.).
1025. Shooting in the nipple.
Swelling of the one breast, which pains when touched.
An indurated knot, with burning pain, in the left breast and under the arm.
Blood and viscid water issue from the one nipple, especially when it is touched.
Pain in the sacrum, so violent that it drew the chest together, with pressure on the stomach and constriction of the abdomen (aft. 3 d.)
1030. Pain in the sacrum when lying on it, with great lassitude (3d d.). [Gll.]
Pain in the sacrum, extending into the feet.
Severe pain in the sacrum; he cannot straighten up while sitting, but must bend forward (aft. 5 d.).
Stiffness in the sacrum.
Pressive pain in the sacrum (aft. 4 d.).
1035. Drawing pain in the sacrum, for seventeen days.
Tearing in the sacrum, transversely, while sitting up straight.
Stitches in the sacrum.

Clucking, somewhat to the left, upward from the sacrum.

[Gff.]

Pain, as if the flesh about the lower part of the sacrum was detached.

1040. Chilliness in the sacrum.

Thick swelling in the lumbar muscle, very painful when the body is moved (relieved by Silicea).

Back and sacrum stiff and cannot be bent, after some exertion in riding, walking and stooping; he can raise himself afterward only slowly and with much difficulty.

Stiffness from the scapulæ down the back. [Rl.]

Curvature of the spine, in a child of two years, lasting several weeks.

1045. Now it is the scapulæ which are forced together backward, then again the muscles of the chest are pressed together forward.

Pain in the back, drawing toward the shoulders and the sacrum. [Gll.]

Pressure in the back, below the scapulæ (5th d.).

Pressure in the left renal region. [Gff.]

Pressure in the right renal region.

1050. Pressure in the back, above both of the hips. [Gff.]

Pressive tension in the left scapula, as from a drawing plaster. [Gff.]

Rheumatic tension in the back and in the right side of the chest, stronger on inspiration. [Gff.]

Pinching in the back.

Pinching and pressive pains on the right side of the back.

1055. Drawing pain in the back, for several hours (4th d.).

Drawing pain in the back, when sitting.

Drawing in the back, between the scapulæ (aft. 11 d.).

Drawing between the scapulæ, in the evening.

Drawing in and beside the right scapula, in the evening (aft. 10 d.).

1060. Rheumatic pain in the left scapula, so that he could not bring his arm to his head.

Tearing beside the spine, beside the scapulæ. [Gff.]

Tearing on the right side, beside the spine. [Gff.]

Tearing in the right renal region. [Gff.]

Shooting in the back, toward the sacrum, when sitting.

1065. Stitches in the left renal region. [Gff.]

Lancinating pain in the back, extending to the right scapula.

Stitches between the scapulæ.

Fine stitches in the middle of the back.

Repeated stitches in the back, above the right renal region.

[Gff.]

1070. Stitches in the left side of the back, when breathing.

Spasmodic stitches in paroxysms, in the middle of the back, which render motion impossible for some minutes.

Pain as from dislocation in the left side of the back, extending to the left hypochondrium.

Clucking below the left scapula. [Gff.]

Constant throbbing in the back.

1075. Chill in the back, for several days.
 Burning as from red-hot coals, between the scapulæ.
 Burning in the skin below the top of the left shoulder. [Gff.]
 First, a pressure, then burning in the right scapula. [Gff.]
 Burning in the back.
1080. Itching on the back (aft. 3 d.).
 Violent itching on the back, toward the neck.
 Violent itching on the back, in the evening (aft. 15 d.).
 Itching on the upper part of the back, with eruption (aft. 37 d.).
 Large pimples between the scapulæ and in the nape, with burning sensation.
1085. Pain in the nape, on bending back the head.
 In the nape, when stooping, sensation as if it was too short.
 Turgidity of the cervical muscles.
 Stiffness of the neck, with obscuration in the head (aft. 5 d.).
 Stiffness of the nape.
1090. Painful stiffness of the nape, on the left side. [Htb.]
 Tensive pressure, behind and on both sides of the neck. [Gff.]
 Drawing pain in the cervical muscles on the left side.
 Drawing, squeezing pinching, extending up on both sides of the neck. [Rl.]
 Twitching pain, extending up the cervical muscles on the right side. [Rl.]
1095. Drawing pain in the external cervical muscles, extending into the top of the shoulder and into the elbow.
 Tearing through the right side of the neck, extending down from the face into the arm and even into the fingers. [Htb.]
 A sort of paralysis of the cervical muscles, the head sank down forwards more and more, as if it would fall off, with sensation of vertigo, for six hours, but without any inclination to lie down.
 Involuntary nodding of the head, first slowly then quicker and quicker.
 Involuntary nodding of the head, now to the left then to the right.
1100. Involuntary shaking of the head, so that he gets giddy.
 Involuntary stretching of the head, now forward, then backward.
 Involuntary alternate stretching and shortening of the cervical muscles.
 The glands externally and internally on the neck are swollen.
 Hard swelling of the glands on both sides of the neck. [Whl.]
1105. Shooting pain in the cervical glands even to the ears, while swallowing. [Whl.]
 The glands become more and more swollen and hard, owing to cold feet. [Whl.]
Swelling of the cervical glands.
 Throbbing and twitching in the goitre (aft. sever. h.).
 Large knots of red pimples around the neck, with severe itching (aft. 28 d.).
1110. Swelling of the axillary glands.

In the left axilla, a large furuncle.

On the top of the left shoulder, a sharp pressure on a small spot, posteriorly, close to the neck. [Gff.]

Rheumatic tension in the right shoulder-joint. [Gff.]

Tearing in the top of the right shoulder, beginning from the neck, only in the evening, after lying down and at night.

1115. Tearing in the joints of the shoulders and of the elbows, at rest, not in motion.

Severe tearing in the shoulder-joint, from the neck down, by day, in perfect rest, and at night, when lying down, so that she cannot go to sleep; it may be relieved, however, by lying on the side affected; it becomes worse by day, if she gets cold in this part, and goes off by motion, even by merely sewing and knitting.

Shooting in the top of the shoulder and tearing in the arm (aft. 27 d.).

Shooting in the top of the shoulder and in the left fore-arm (aft. 8 d.).

Paralytic pain in the shoulder-joint, so that he could not lift the arm up high.

1120. Bruised pain of the right shoulder-joint, scapula and upper arm.

Involuntary twitching, now of the one shoulder, then of the other.

In the arm, which is weak, there are painless jerks at night.

Spasmodic twitching of the arms.

Drawing in the left arm, seemingly in the nerves. [Gll.]

1125. Drawing pain in the bones of the arms, extending into the fingers.

Bending of the child's arms in the elbows, so that it dare not stretch or touch them for pain.

The arm on which the axillary glands are swollen, goes to sleep.

Weakness and lack of strength of the arms, when at work.

Worn-out feeling and sensation of paralysis of the arms; he must allow them to sink down when at rest; when at work and in motion, they are strong.

1130. Sudden paralysis of the right arm, in the evening, as from apoplexy (aft. 5 d.).

Quivering in the upper left arm.

Muscular twitching on the upper arms. [Gff.]

Drawing in the left upper arm. [Gff.]

Tearing in the right upper arm. [Gff.]

1135. Itching on the upper arms (5th d.).

In the elbow-joint, tearing, only when in motion.

Tearing in the right olecranon process. [Gff.]

Tearing in the left elbow, extending to the wrist. [Gff.]

Pressive tearing on and around the right elbow. [Gff.]

1140. In the right forearm, rheumatic drawing, in the morning. [Gff.]

Tearing in the forearms, extending into the hands, from washing.

- Tearing in the left forearm, almost into the bend of the elbow.
 [Gff.]
- Tearing in the ulnar nerve, down into the hand. [Gll.]
 Sensation of heat in the lower part of the forearm.
1145. Large, inflamed swelling, like erysipelas, on the forearm below the elbow; it passes into suppuration like a furuncle.
 Smarting, itching pimples on the forearms, filled with pus.
 Cramp in the hand, all the day.
 Tearing in the right hand and in the two middle fingers, only at night, and only when held under the covering (a feather bed); the pain ceases on taking it out (aft. 13 d.).
 Tearing between the right wrist and the knuckle of the thumb. [Gff.]
1150. Tearing in the right hand, between the thumb and index.
 [Gff.]
- Tearing in the hands, toward the fingers. [Gff.]
 Tearing on the outer side of the left hand and in the knuckles of the little finger, toward the wrist. [Gff.]
 Tearing in the right palm, below the middle finger. [Gff.]
 Tearing in the right palm with burning and itching in the skin, close below the fingers. [Gff.]
1155. Dull tearing in the wrist-joints.
 Shooting on the dorsum of the hands (aft. 21 d.).
 Violently twitching stitches in the right hand.
 Involuntary shaking of the hands.
 Pain as from a strain in the right wrist-joint.
1160. Cold hands, continually.
 The hands are asleep in the morning, in bed.
 The hands are asleep after a long talk.
 Hot hands, continually, which is very disagreeable to her.
 Swelling and heat of the right hand, in the evening.
1165. Sensation of heat in the left hand, with anxiety.
 Red swelling of the right hand, extending into the joints of the fingers, without pain, for several days. [Htb.]
 Perspiring palms.
 Great dryness of the skin on the hands.
Itching pimples on the hands (aft. 7 h.).
1170. Small furuncle on the hands, with shooting pain when touched.
 Warts come on the hands.
 The fingers sometimes spread out involuntarily, or again they are clenched.
 The middle finger is drawn crooked, sideways, without pain.
 Involuntary twitching of the fingers in sleep. [Gff.]
1175. Involuntary twitching of the left index.
 Pain of the knuckles of the fingers when pressed, without redness or swelling. [Htb.]
 Tearing in the joint of the thumb, so that he cannot bend it.
 Tearing in the left thumb. [Gff.]
 Tearing in the tip of the right thumb. [Gff.]
1180. Tearing in the ball of the left thumb. [Gff.]
 Tearing in the middle fingers of the right hand. [Gff.]

- Tearing in the joint of the right middle finger, toward the tip. [Gff.]
 Tearing in the tip of the right middle finger. [Gff.]
 Violent shooting tearing in the tip and under the nail of the left middle finger. [Gff.]
1185. Pain as from a sprain in the posterior joint of the fourth finger, when closing the hand.
 The last two fingers are asleep, in the morning, on awaking.
 Numbness, coldness and dying off of the two little fingers on awaking in the morning; but they are, nevertheless, mobile.
 Two of the fingers die off in the morning, for half an hour, with blue nails (aft. 31 d.).
1190. Sensation of heat in the fingers, which externally seem cold.
 Redness, inflammation and swelling of all the finger-joints.
 Redness, inflammation and swelling of the middle finger-joints, with some swelling of the hands.
 Inflammation of a spot on the finger which is slightly scratched.
 Inflammation and pain on the right middle finger, owing to a little hang nail.
 Itching of the fingers.
1195. Violent, almost painful itching on the two anterior phalanges of the right index, as when a wound suppurates, with some redness; it does not go off from scratching. [Gff.]
 Itching and shooting in several (frozen) fingers.
 Itching in fingers which had once been frozen.
 Burning in the hands and fingers, with redness of the fingers, as after freezing.
 Chilblain on the little finger, with redness and severe itching.
1200. Ulcer on the left index, increasing with the most severe pains, so that he cannot sleep at night.
 On the right thumb, a pimple.
 Itching pimples between the fingers.
 Wart-like nodules on the index, which pass off quickly.
 Itching, with violent stitches on the right natis.
1205. On the left natis, a sore burning. [Gff.]
 Softly pressing tearing in the left natis. [Gff.]
 Tearing on the upper part of the natis below the right hip. [Gff.]
 On the hip, pressure, starting from the sacrum.
 Pain in the muscles around the hip-joints, on pressure, sitting and lying down; not interfering with walking. [Htb.]
1210. Pressure in the region of the left hip. [Gff.]
 Tearing in the left hip-joint. [Gff.]
 Rheumatic tension in the left hip. [Gff.]
 Tension and tearing in the left hip. [Gff.]
 Paralytic pain in the hip-joint, posteriorly, when stooping and when rising from a seat, after sitting.
1215. Pain as of dislocation in the hip, toward the sacrum, in the morning, on rising, so that he had to walk lame for two days.

Furuncle on the natis.

In the right lower limb, every four days, a pain, extending from the hip-joint into the foot, so that he had to limp in walking.

Drawing in the lower limbs, from above downward, when at rest; better when moving.

The lower limbs go to sleep, while sitting, by day (aft. 6, 7 d.).

1220. Restlessness in the thighs and legs, when lying (aft. 9 d.).

Much restlessness in the lower limbs, in the evening; he had to move them often.

Great restlessness in the lower limbs, in the evening, before going to sleep; less in bed.

Twitching and twitching trembling in the lower limbs.

Involuntary violent shaking, first of the right, then also of the left lower limb.

1225. Cold, heavy lower limbs.

In walking, the lower limbs seem to become insensible (though they were warm), so that he was in danger of falling down.

Weary and without strength in the lower limbs, as if bruised.

Soreness between the thighs, so that she can hardly walk.

As if excoriated, on the inner side of the left thigh, with a somewhat smarting itching, extending to the sexual parts.

1230. On the left thigh, pain as if wounded; later, a burning.

Constant muscular twitches on the left side of the right thigh.

[Gff.]

Cramp in the right thigh, extending to the knee, so that he can hardly go up stairs.

Involuntary spreading of the thighs, followed with a compression of the same, with subsequent erection.

Tension in the bones of the thighs and calves, chiefly when sitting.

1235. Drawing pain in the posterior side of the thigh.

Drawing and burning in the thigh (13th d.).

Drawing pressive pain, anteriorly on the left thigh.

Tearing in the extreme upper part of the left thigh. [Gff.]

Tearing down the left thigh, chiefly when sitting, especially with bent knee.

1240. Tearing in the middle of the right thigh. [Gff.]

Erosive tearing in the thigh, in the evening; he has to draw up the leg (9th d.).

Pulsative tearing, with sensation of paralysis in the outer muscles of the left thigh, when walking (1st d.).

Shooting in the left thigh, when treading.

Pain as from a blow on the right thigh, just above the knee-joint, aggravated by touching and moving it.

1245. Pain in the left hip-joint, when moving, as from a mis-step.

Cold sensation, running down the left thigh by day.

The skin of the thighs pains after walking as if eroded and excoriated, a pain which caused twitches, for an hour.

A large furuncle on the thigh, above the knee.

The knees are painful in the morning on rising out of bed, as if they would break, also when moved.

1250. In the morning, when rising from bed, stiffness in the hough as after a long tour on foot.

The left knee is bent, the child cannot straighten it for pain.

Tension about the knees, as if everything were too short, she could not tread.

Fine twitching in the knees, for several evenings.

Drawing in the left hough (aft. 22 d.).

1255. Great restlessness in both knees, at night, when lying in bed (aft. 8.).

Tearing in the knees and ankles, with pain also when touched.

Unusual weariness in the knees.

Sore pain on the knees and other parts of the lower limbs.

Pain as from a sprain in the knee-joint. [Gll.]

1260. Swelling of the knees.

Sweating of the swelling of the knee.

Itching in the right hough (16th d.).

On the side of the tibia, pain in the bones, when touched (aft. 13 d.).

Sensation in the leg, as if it was firmly bandaged.

1265. Cramp in the left calf, while sitting.

Cramp in the calf, causing him to cry out at night, also by day, when sitting with bent knees.

Frequent twitching pain in the leg below the knee.

Drawing in the legs, at night.

Drawing in the legs, from the ankle to the knee, at 5 or 6 p. m., for two hours.

1270. Drawing in the right leg in the evening and occasional twitches.

Drawing and tearing in the left leg (aft. 90 d.).

Tearing in the left tibia.

Tearing on the left leg, below the calf.

Severe tearing, before midnight, from the knee through the calf down into the feet, so that she had to sit up and could not sleep.

1275. Tearing in the legs and toes. [Htb.]

Rheumatic drawing in the left leg, at night, when awaking. [Gff.]

Sharp, twitching tearing on the lower part of the left tibia, in the evening in bed. [Gff.]

Violent, jerking twitching tearing in the left leg. [Gff.]

Shooting tearing on the leg below the knee, which is at the same time felt in the thigh. [Gff.]

1280. Sensation as if the legs were very swollen and heavy.

Great heaviness of the legs, with restlessness therein.

Swelling of the legs extending above the knees, with large, red, hot spots, which pain with burning, especially on the knee and ankle, so that she cannot tread for pain and shooting; in the afternoon this is frequently attended with shivering and constipation.

[Sr.]

- Red spots on the legs like fly-stings, which pass away and come again.
- Severe itching on the calves down to the ankles.
1285. The ankles are painful at night (aft. 10 d.).
Pain in the ball of the right foot, in starting to walk.
Pain in the heel, on treading, as from a little stone under it.
Turgidity around the ankles (aft. sever. d.).
Burning tension on the dorsum of the foot, near the big toe.
[Gff.]
1290. Drawing in the foot below the ankle with heat there.
Pressure in the foot (that had been sore), as if it would break open again (aft. 9 d.).
Tearing, below the left heel. [Gff.]
Tearing beside the heel (6th d.).
Tearing in the heels and on the balls of the foot (12th d.).
1295. Shooting in the ball of the foot, like needle-pricks, when treading and when pressing on it.
Shooting on the dorsum of the foot (aft. 20 d.).
Shooting in both heels, as from needle-pricks.
Shooting in the feet, when walking in the open air. [Htb.]
Violently cutting shooting on the left side of the heel. [Gff.]
1300. Sprained pain in the right ankle.
Pain, as from a mis-jump, on the external ankle, also when at rest.
Sensation of stiffness in the left ankle (aft. 4 d.).
Pain as from festering in the ball of the right foot.
Pain, as if from festering, in the soles of the feet, when treading and when sitting, with a burning sensation.
1305. Burning in the feet (aft. 28 d.).
Burning in the soles of the feet, at night.
Great heaviness of the feet (aft. 6 d.).
Swelling about the ankles (aft. 6 d.).
Swelling of the feet, also during the menses.
1310. Thick swelling of the right foot (the first days).
Swelling of the left foot, with shooting in the toes, when treading.
Swelling in the feet, with shooting in the ankles, chiefly when walking.
Swelling of the dorsum of the feet (the first days).
The swelling of the feet increases into abdominal dropsy, with swelling of the genitals, oppression of the breath, and scanty urination with straining (aft. 10 d.).
1315. The feet are numb and go to sleep, up to the calves, at night.
Sensation in the left heel, it feels as if asleep.
He easily gets cold in his feet.
Cold feet, constantly.
Coldness, first in the right, then in the left foot, in the evening in bed, for one hour.
1320. Coldness of the right foot, while the left is hot (aft. 2 d.).
Cold, sweaty feet.
Sweaty feet.

- Copious sweat of the feet, even so that the feet get sore. Itching about the ankles.
1325. Tumors on the side of the foot, which pain in walking.
Callosities on the heels, with sore pain.
A chap on the heel.
The toes are spread out involuntarily, and then again contracted.
Pressure on the ball of the big toe. [Gl.]
1330. Tearing in the first three toes of the right foot. [Gff.]
Tearing and drawing, near a corn on the little toe, painful also when touched. [Htb.]
Shooting in the right big toe, in the evening.
Shooting in the big toe, then in the sole of the foot. [Htb.]
Shooting in the right little toe, which looks red and frozen, chiefly in the morning.
1335. Pain, as of soreness and erosion on the ball of the big toe, when walking.
Erosive sore pain between the toes (aft. 28 d.).
Burning sensation of soreness on the toes, as of sand upon them.
Burning shooting sensation of soreness on the toes.
Inflammatory pain on the nail of the big toe. [Gl.]
1340. Corns form after fourteen days.
Shooting in the corns (aft. 13 d.).
Shooting, with sensation of soreness in the corns.
All the limbs pain when touched.
All the soft parts of the body pain, when touched and pressed.
1345. Everything she sits or lies upon is too hard for her.
Pain here and there on the trunk, as if single muscles were spasmodically contracted and then again extended.
Intermitting, spasmodic drawing on the knees, fore-arms, hands and fingers.
Pressive drawing in all the joints, especially on the knees.
Drawing in the left hand and tarsus, in the morning.
1350. Drawing and tension in the carpal and tarsal joints, in the morning in bed. [Gff.]
Drawing in the limbs, every other afternoon, and also over the face.
Drawing, now between the scapulæ, then in the right lower limb, then in the chest.
Transient tearing here and there. [Gl.]
Pinching pains, here and there on the body.
1355. Violent stitches in the thoracic cavity and in the umbilical region, checking the breath (10th d.).
Stiff in all the joints.
Stiffness of the limbs and the sacrum; audible cracking in the joints on bending.
Stiffness of the arms and legs, with insensibility and numbness; he cannot walk any more without falling, nor eat alone, as he cannot use his hands.
Stiffness of all the muscles of the trunk and the upper part of the body; he cannot move for pain.

1360. From excess of pain, she has to walk about and weep, and she cannot rest.
 Her ailments increased at 4 P. M. but at 8 P. M. she feels better, excepting her weakness.
 He always feels better in the open air than in the room, where he often cannot stand it for heat and restlessness.
He feels urged to go into the open air.
 Aversion to staying in the room.
1365. Very sensitive to the cold, open air; coldness strikes her strongly.
 He is averse to the open air.
 Sensitiveness to the cool air, almost feverish (aft. 6 h.).
 Feverish horror of the open air, especially after meals.
When walking in the open air, anxiety and attack of vertigo.
1370. After much enjoyment of the open air, violent sensation of numbness in the head.
 When walking in the open air, heaviness of the lower limbs.
 From walking in the open air, constrictive pressure in the middle of the chest.
 After walking in the open air, the tightness of the chest is increased, with loudly pulsating heart-beat.
 After walking in the open air, heat in the eyes and the palms.
1375. After a short walk in the open air, he perspires excessively and is then languid.
 Very much inclined to take cold.
 The skin of the whole body is dry and hot; hot hands.
 Itching on the head and the back, in the morning.
 Itching as from flea-bites, on various spots of the skin and in the tetter. [Htb.]
1380. Stinging itching, here and there in the skin.
 Shooting, here and there in the body.
 Intolerably tingling stitches in the lower part of the sacrum and in other places.
 Twitching stitches from the neck down to the right foot (aft. 2 h.).
 Burning, itching, very smarting, all over the body.
1385. Burning sensation here and there in the skin, the back, the anus, etc. [Gff.]
 Violent itching on the lower limbs, the back and the nates, in the evening in bed, with wheals after scratching, which soon pass off again.
 Eruptive nodules, sometimes itching, sometimes painful on the occiput, the sacrum and the nates.
 Large, red spots (on the legs), which neither pain nor itch.
 Large, bright-red spots on the epigastrium, around the scrobiculus cordis, and on the joint of the thumb with itching and burning. [Gff.]
1390. Itching hepatic spots. [Gll.]
 Small, herpetic, itching spots on both sides of the neck and on the back.
 A tetter on the tibia stitches violently. [Htb.]

A large boil on the left fore-arm, causing the whole arm to become rigid, and another on the left natis (aft. sever. d.).

The painless ulcers bleed, when tied up, and then exhibit shooting pain.

1395. A large furuncle, with inflammation around it and burning shooting, comes on the left scapula, with alternation of chills and heat of the body.

It seems to favor the softening and curvature of the bones.

Sensation in the bones as if they contained no marrow.

She feels heaviness in all her limbs.

Bruised feeling in the whole body, particularly in the evening.

1400. Heaviness in all the limbs, he is disinclined to work, and peevish, and, from time to time, there is a flush of much heat in the face.

Drawing and stretching in all the limbs.

Discomfort in the whole body.

He feels unwell in the morning, as after a sleepless night.

Feels impelled to take exercise.

1405. Disagreeable sensation of restlessness in the body, when sitting; this does not allow him to continue writing; he has to jump up and take a deep breath; his chest is oppressed. [Rl.]

Great restlessness in the blood, in the evening, even to a feeling of tremulousness.

Violent ebullition of the blood, toward evening.

Ebullition of blood, so that everything in the blood-vessels is in agitation.

Disagreeable sensation of heat in the whole body, everything feels too heavy or too hot for him; he has often to breathe deeply and feels oppressed; the hair stand on ends, and feels as if drawn together into a bunch (aft. 24 h.). [Rl.]

1410. Internal unrest, as if she had to strike out with hands and feet, and feeling of swooning (during her headache).

Sensation as if the circulation stopped.

Frequently, a very painful sensation, as if he became quite cold internally, and as if the blood gradually ceased to be warm.

Attack of chest-troubles, with nausea even to vomiting, when she could not speak, but could only whisper quite softly, which ceased after a violent eructation.

Several paroxysms daily, of half an hour's duration, first of griping and clutching in the back, whence it comes like a shooting into the side; things become black before her eyes, and she must lie down, wherever she may be.

1415. After vexation, he becomes quite prostrated, with palpitation and trembling, the whole forenoon (aft. 14 d.).

When vexed, he is suddenly affected in the scrobiculus cordis, and then there is heaviness like lead in the lower limbs.

Involuntary twitches, now here now there, which fatigued her violently.

Involuntary burning and twitching of the whole body, causing him to pant and to become hot and red in the face.

Involuntary alternate extension and contraction of the muscles in various places, without pain and with full consciousness, in regular paroxysms, recurring regularly every 7 days, for 8 weeks.

[Th. Rkt.]

1420. Spasmodic contraction and extension of the limbs, almost without pain.

Epileptic fit: with screaming and foaming at the mouth, he beat about unconscious with arms and legs, then he thought he had to die and complained of great anguish of heart (aft. 39 d.).

Epileptic fit: His left arm was bent upward and the fingers clinched into a fist, for a few minutes, then he lost his senses, tore and kicked about him with arms and legs, screamed loudly, and foamed at the mouth for a quarter of an hour; then he lay motionless as if dead; then he began to babble.

Epileptic attack: The muscles on the whole of the right lower limb twitched visibly, the scrobiculus cordis was affected, he commenced to scream without consciousness, foaming at the mouth, he beat about him with arms and legs, for a quarter of an hour; then he lay motionless for one-half hour; and when cold water was given him in his mouth he blew it out, and his senses returned.

Attacks of syncope while lying down, with loss of consciousness, while everything becomes black before the eyes, without impulse to change this state by motion (1st d.). [Gl.]

1425. Total relaxation of the nerves, the jaw hangs down, respiration is slow and through the mouth, gauzy, half-opened eyes.
[Gl.]

Syncope, at certain hours, daily, chiefly in the evening.

She fell down suddenly, without any vertigo.

Sudden failure of the strength, like fainting; she had to hold on to something; at the same time, dimness of vision for one-half hour.

Trembling of the limbs (aft.  $\frac{1}{2}$  h.).

1430. Attacks of trembling, in the evening in bed.

Drawing trembling in all the limbs.

Trembling, without sensation of cold, in the afternoon.

He becomes emaciated and pale.

Great emaciation (against which Graphites is serviceable).

1435. She feels wretched (with a sore throat) and has a yellowish-grey complexion. [Whl.]

Walking, as well as continuous sitting while writing, becomes very hard for her, and it readily puts her into a profuse perspiration.

Sudden weakness, while sitting down.

Very tired by a slight exertion, and not refreshed by any restful position.

Very much inclined to rest, without weariness.

1440. He would like to continually lie down and rest, and when he lies down, he goes to sleep at once.

Weariness, especially in the morning.

Lack of tone, with irritation of the nerves.

Lassitude in the afternoon, with trembling of the hands.

[Gl.]

Sudden occasional weariness in all the limbs, with peevishness.

1445. Frequent attacks of weakness, so that she has to let her hands hang down.
Lassitude, so that he would like to rest continually, with wide awake spirit.
At other times accustomed to steady work, she has now to lie down several times a day for lassitude (aft. 16 d.).
Lack of strength, after a slow walk.
Great lassitude, especially of the lower limbs.
1450. Lassitude of the lower limbs, with dryness of the throat. [Gll.]
Weariness of the lower limbs, especially when ascending.
Especial lack of strength, when going up-stairs, when the bones of the lower limbs are painful (aft. 11 d.).
She feels her weakness most when at rest.
The weakness increases when at rest.
1455. When lying in bed (in the evening before sleep), he feels a weakness, depressing the whole body, as if he should pass away and sink down lower and lower.
Much yawning (aft. 7 d.).
The child ineffectually desires to yawn; it cries, because it cannot finish yawning.
Abortive yawning; she often has to open her mouth widely, and yet cannot finish yawning.
Drowsiness by day-time; he goes to sleep as soon as he sits down.
1460. Even while walking, she cannot keep from falling asleep.
Sleepiness in the forenoon, with pressure in the eyes, frequent yawning and internal chilliness. [Gff.]
Irresistible sleepiness at noon, and after it, laziness and numb-feeling in the head (aft. 4 h.).
Sleepy, in the afternoon.
In the evening, very drowsy, early. [Gff.]
1465. With irresistible drowsiness at night, he is yet late in getting to sleep. [Gff.]
But little tired, in the evening in bed, he also wakes up again very early.
He wakes up every night at break of day, and then goes to sleep again.
He lies in bed for a long time in the evening without being able to sleep.
He could not find rest in the evening in bed.
1470. Sleeplessness till midnight (aft. 16 h.).
Restless sleep, for several nights, on account of great excitement.
She could at first not get to sleep at all, and then her sleep was uneasy.
Uneasy sleep, repeated awaking, and at 4 A. M. she is wide awake again.
Uneasy sleep, while lying on the left side (aft. 24 d.).
1475. At night in sleep, he always gets to lie on his back.
The sleep at night is full of dreams.
Sleep, with confused dreams.
Sleep, restless with confused dreams, in which he believes

- himself to be now here, now there, while he awakes frequently, and gets up in the morning more tired than when he lay down in the evening.
- Restless sleep, full of dreams.
1480. Restless sleep, full of dreams, without waking up (aft. 16 d.).
Uneasy sleep at night, he tosses about, wakes up and fancies himself now here, now there.
Sleep full of fancies.
 Many dreams and fancies during the night.
 Ugly visions before his phantasy, in the noon-nap.
1485. Heavy dreams, at night.
 She could not sleep the whole night, because everything that had occurred during the day at once came lively before her eyes, as soon as she closed them; she had to get up (aft. 10, 14 d.).
 Vivid dreams at night and talking in sleep (aft. 4 d.).
 He talks aloud in sleep, with anxious dreams.
She often laughs out aloud in sleep.
1490. She has such pleasant dreams at night and toward morning, that she would rather not wake up (aft. 5 d.).
 Lascivious dreams at night (2d w.).
 Voluptuous dreams, at night (4th w.).
 Dreams at night, as if she felt the excitation from coitus in the pudenda.
 Dreams of coitus, and yet no pollution.
1495. He wakes up after midnight, with a sensation of having had coitus, but without emission of semen.
- She awakes from vivid dreams about the day's business, and she believes even after awaking that she must do what she has dreamed.
He often wakes at night from frightful dreams.
Starting up, when going to sleep.
 Starting up when going to sleep, it seems to start from the feet.
1500. Starting and jerking of the limbs, with restless sleep.
Anxious dreams at night.
 Frightful confused dreams and restless sleep.
 Frightful dream, and fear even after awaking.
 Frightful dreams.
1505. Sad dreams.
 Horrible dreams; as if they wanted to kill him.
 Dreams of murder.
 Anxious dream; at a row, he hides from the danger.
Restless sleep, with frequent awaking from anxious dreams. [Gff.] 1510. Vivid, anxious dreams, at night.
 After vivid anxious dreams, at night, he has difficulty in waking up in the morning, and dreams again as soon as he closes his eyes.
 He often wakes up at night, rolls around, and only gets into deep sleep in the morning.

She often awakes at night, remains awake for hours, and is then very drowsy in the morning.

In the morning, after many lively dreams, a very anxious dream, as if many young dogs and more and more in numbers clung to various parts of his body. [Gff.]

1515. Anxious awaking, at night (aft. 11 d.).
Screaming in sleep, with delirious words.
Anxious screaming in sleep, several times (aft. 10 d.).
 Restless nights, with moaning in sleep.
 Weeping at night, in sleep.
1520. The child sleeps very restlessly and mutters in its sleep.
 When going to sleep, anxiety.
 She often wakes up at night, as if awakened by fright.
 In the evening, afraid to go to bed.
 She wakes up for several mornings restless and anxious.
1525. She starts up anxious from sleep, wants to scream, but cannot, as in a nightmare.
 At night, nightmare.
 After midnight, on awaking, an attack of anguish, so that she could not draw her breath for two hours; for two nights successively.
 After a deep sleep, after awaking in the morning, anxious thoughts as if she should now die, for which she also prepared herself by thinking of her parting letters (aft. 16 h.).
 At night, when turning over in bed, anxious palpitation.
1530. Almost every evening in bed, palpitation.
 In the morning on awaking, ebullition of blood.
 At night, he cannot bear lying down, he has to get up.
At night, no position was comfortable, which vexed him even to weeping.
 At night, he feels his pains even in sleep and dreams about it.
1535. After midnight, the sleep is very much interrupted and restless.
 At night, shooting and throbbing in the occiput.
 At night, at 3 o'clock, he wakes up with obscured mind (3d d.).
 At night, dryness of the eyes.
 At night, in sleep, saliva runs from his mouth.
1540. At night, sour regurgitation.
 At night she awakes with vertigo and nausea.
 At night on awaking, hunger.
 At night thirst, she has to drink often and only a little at a time. (aft. 16 d.).
In the evening in bed, troublesome pressure in the stomach, improved by rubbing (the first days.).
1545. At night, cutting in the gastric region, she has to sit up.
 At night, colic in the hypogastrium.
 After midnight, colic below the navel, so that she had to bend double.
 At night, drawing pain in the left side of the abdomen.
 At night, constant, almost ineffectual urging to stool. (2d u.).

1550. Nightly cramp of the abdominal muscles; they are quite hard and painful, so as to cause him to scream.
 At night, cough and pain in the chest, which keep him from going to sleep before midnight.
 At night (during confinement) a sort of spasm of the chest, coming from the sacrum up the back, first into the gastric region, then into the chest, it made breathing difficult and caused anguish.
 At night, pain in the sacrum and stitches in both hips and in the left side of the chest (aft. 4 d.).
 At night, the hands are asleep.
1555. At night, tearing in the left lower limb.
 In the evening in bed, severe drawing pain in the heel.
 For several nights, cramp in the feet.
 At night, the limbs are, as it were, asleep (aft. 6 d.).
 In the morning, on awaking from a heavy, fanciful sleep, the whole right side of the body is asleep, for half an hour.
1560. At night, drawing in the gums and on the whole of the left side of the body, which pains waked her up.
 At night, insomnia, from trembling and a sensation as if everything in the body kept swinging forward and backward.
 In slumber, single twitches, the lower limbs are thrust forward.
 In the morning, ebullition of the blood, when awaking.
 In the morning, when awaking, relaxation and lack of tone of the limbs; this goes off after rising.
1565. Sleep, unrefreshing (aft. 16 h.).
 Sleep, unrefreshing and gloomy.
 In the morning, on rising, weary and heavy (aft. 48 h.).
 At night there is sleep, but unrefreshing, and in the morning he is weary and tired of life.
 Chill in the evening, when going to sleep (aft. 14 d.).
1570. Shivering, after drinking.
 Chilliness (aft. 14 d.).
 Spasmodic shaking, from a chill, as if from agitation of mind, with throbbing in the sinciput, in the evening (aft. 4 d.).
 Internal chill, in the morning.
 In the morning, always an inward chilliness (aft. 2 d.).
1575. Continual chill, with sensible coldness all over, worse toward evening.
 For many days, chill on the left side of the body.
 Hands and feet seem quite dead from cold.
 During her chilliness, she feels as if everything within would stand still.
 Severe chill in the evening, keeping him from going to sleep, with nausea. [Gll.]
1580. Fever, every other evening, chill from seven o'clock; when he lay down, it threw him up high, without subsequent heat or sweat.
 Chill in the back, in the afternoon at three o'clock, still worse in the evening; after lying down, for a quarter of an hour, with cold feet, without any heat or sweat following.

Fever, every afternoon, at three, till late in the evening, an ever-increasing chill, without subsequent heat and sweat.

Fever, in the evening at seven o'clock, a shaking ague and great coldness, even when in bed, as if she lay in ice, for two hours, with drawing in all the limbs, in the back and the whole body, and on awaking from a sleep full of dreams, sweat all over, two evenings in succession, with severe thirst after the sweat (aft. 27 d.).

Coldness of the body, in the evening, with heat in the forehead.

1585. At 8 A. M. a severe chill for half an hour, and but little heat afterward.

In the morning she wakes up with a chill, soon after much heat and pain in the occiput; she feels quite ill (7th d.).

Chill every day.

Evening-chill every day, first a chill, then heat. [Htb.]

Evening-fever, a little chill, an equable strong-continuing heat, weariness and pain in the limbs. [Gll.]

1590. Chill, every evening in bed, till twelve o'clock; then again warm and hot; in the morning a sour smelling perspiration.

In the evening, alternate chill and heat, with pressive heat in the whole head and coryza (aft. 2 d.).

Alternate chill and heat, and great redness and heat on the cheeks (aft. 10 and 19 d.).

After a fright, alternate attacks of chill, heat and sweat for twenty-four hours.

Fever, has to lie down, nausea, vomiting four times, chill and then (without previous heat) sweat; all her limbs felt heavy, she had stitches in the head, the following day, again a chill, after heat in the face (aft. 5 d.).

1595. Fever, with great lassitude, more heat, and only later on a chill. [Gll.]

Fever, every evening a burning heat; she drinks very often, but little, with frequent tenesmus without stool, and at night frequently passing a very little, brown urine.

Much heat on the body, and at the same time violent burning and shooting in the eyes (aft. 9 d.).

Burning heat, with short breath, little thirst, paleness of the face and affrighted starting from sleep (aft. 14 d.).

He constantly perceives a smell of pungent perspiration around himself.

1600. The bodily perspiration smells like onions.

Sourish-smelling, profuse sweat of the body, but none on the legs.

Night-sweat only on the trunk, not on the legs.

Every night, sweat after midnight, chiefly on the chest.

At night, profuse sweat, with coldness of the forehead and throat.

1605. Morning-sweat, only in the joints.

Morning-sweat in bed, for seven mornings in succession (aft. 7 d.).

Morning-sweat, all over the body, with smell of blood.

Morning-sweat, after a restless night (aft. 10 d.). [Gll.]

MAGNESIA (CARBONICA.) CARBONATE OF MAGNESIA.

It is precipitated from a solution of Epsom salts (sulphate of magnesia), in a sufficiency of water, by dropping in a solution of pure mild carbonate of soda (or potash). It is washed repeatedly with a quantity of distilled water, filtered and dried on paper.

It has shown itself especially useful in chronic diseases where the following symptoms were concomitant:

Black spots before the eyes; the eyes are closed in the morning by suppuration; hardness of hearing; toothache in pregnant women; throbbing toothache in single stitches; nocturnal toothache, with ulcerative pains when the teeth meet together; the speech is frequently suddenly interrupted; contractive pain in the stomach; inguinal hernia; costiveness; lack of sexual impulse; lack of erections; retarded menses; leucorrhœa; stoppage of the nose; stuffed coryza; stiffness in the nape; attacks of tearing in the top of the shoulder, also at night, with formication extending into the fingers and inability of moving the arm for pain; sprained pain in the shoulder-joint, when moving it; cracking of the skin on the hands; furuncle on the leg; itching; frequent sudden falling down, while conscious, while standing or walking; epileptic fits; drowsiness by day; insomnia from nocturnal tightness in the hypogastrium; dreams, also anxious ones, every night.

The symptoms marked (Htb. u. Tr.) are from the Reine Arzneimittellehre of Drs. Hartlaub and Trinks; these are not marked with any name of the authors, but they have altogether the stamp of having been issued from the ever-ready symptom-factory of Ng.; Sr., Dr. Schrëter; Whl., Wahle.

MAGNESIA CARBONICA.

Trembling anguish and fear, as if evil was threatening; it passes off in the evening in bed. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Anxious and warm in the whole body, especially in the head, while eating warm food. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Very anxious, with perspiration the whole day, especially while in motion. [Htb. u. Tr.]

---

[This also like its two predecessors was one of the medicines of the first edition. It contains there one hundred and twenty-eight symptoms. The additions here from Schreter and Wahle are to be ascribed to provings with the thirtieth; but the bulk of them (eight hundred and one in their original form) comes from Nanning.—Hughes.

Anxious and prostrated, with shooting all over the body, after rising from bed. [Htb. u. Tr.]

5. Apprehensiveness and indisposition, in the afternoon, with a headache as if the head were screwed in a vise; in the evening, good-humored. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Internal restlessness, with trembling in the hands, and such absence of mind, that while writing a letter, he had to rise frequently and had to write it over three times (aft. 3 w.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Peevish, so that she does not know what to do, with perspiration (aft. 6 d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Very peevish, in the evening (aft. 6 d.).

Very peevish, in the evening, at seven o'clock, everything is disagreeable to her. [Htb. u. Tr.]

10. Peevish, cross mood. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Indisposed to work, aggravated after some time. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Ill-humor; everything that she looks at vexes her, better in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Ill-humored and yet she warbles a song (very transient) (aft. 2 h.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Sad mood, indisposed to talk, and apprehensive. [Htb. u. Tr.]

15. Sad and apprehensive (aft. 2 h.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Lack of tone in spirit, mind and body (aft. 20 d.).

Very forgetful and morose (aft. 18 d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Very talkative; everything goes well with her (1st d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Better humor in the afternoon than in the forenoon. [Htb. u. Tr.]

20. The head feels muddled and benumbed, from mental work.

Giddy in the head, frequently, as it were, unconscious (28th, 29th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Vertigo, when kneeling down, as if she would collapse. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Vertigo, while standing, as if objects were turning around with her, with intoxication and heaviness of the head. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Vertigo, in the morning, after rising, as if everything turned round with her, with inclination to vomit and much gathering of water in her mouth. [Htb. u. Tr.]

25. Vertigo, as if everything turned round with her, and as if she should fall forward. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Syncopal vertigo, in the evening, after lying down, with coldness and then inclination to vomit, for a half hour; then sleep, with frequent awaking, with violent nausea at the slightest motion; it was worst in the morning after rising; at the same time, taste and eructation as from rotten eggs, with pale face and coldness (25th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Vertigo, she is ready to sink down, in the evening, while sitting (and sewing) with nausea, then when lying down, she became unconscious (aft. 4 d.).

Heaviness of the head, when lying down, after awaking from a noonday-nap; while the saliva is tinged with blood.

Heaviness in the forehead, while standing (aft. 2 h.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

30. Heavy and dizzy in the head, in the morning on rising, passing away after an hour, when walking about. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Heavy and gloomy in the head, in the morning on rising, as if he had not done sleeping; it goes off after washing himself and moving about (7th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Heaviness of the head, with yawning and nausea (3d d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Great heaviness and painfulness of the head (2d d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Heaviness in the forehead, and ulcerative pain on the left side of the occiput. [Htb. u. Tr.]

35. Headache, as if from stiffness of the nape.

Violent headache, in the morning in bed, till toward noon. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Violent headache, at night in sleep, but worse when awake; it goes off on raising the head. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Headache in the afternoon, worse toward evening, with ulcerative pain of the head on external pressure. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Pressure over the head, from mental work.

40. Pressure over the whole of the head, in a room with many people (aft. 15 d.).

Pressure in the forehead, daily.

Severe pressure in the sinciput, with pain in the eyes.

Pressive pain in the forehead, in the morning on awaking, till afternoon (20th d.).

Pressure in the forehead, from morning till noon. [Htb. u. Tr.]

45. Stupefying pressive pain in the left side of the forehead and occasionally also in the eyes (14th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Shooting, pressive pain in the forehead, frequently intermitting (10th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Screwing together in the head from both sides, later also in the occiput, long continued. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Tension and drawing in the occiput, during deglutition and afterward, as if it would draw the head backward, worse when standing, so that she has to sit down, when it passes off (aft. 2 h.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Drawing pain in the head (aft. 16 d.).

50. Drawing pain in the forehead, with nausea (6th morning.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Drawing pain in the forehead, from morning to noon (aft. 10 d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Violently twitching headache, after vexation, with sensation of heaviness, continually increasing from 1 P. M. until it ceases in bed (15th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Tearing and heaviness in the forehead and the upper part of the head, after dinner. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Tearing and throbbing, deep in the forehead. [Htb. u. Tr.]

55. Tearing and drawing backward in the nape, from the afternoon till evening, when it ceases in bed. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Tearing in the forehead, with stupefaction and heaviness in the brain. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Painful tearing in the forehead, deep in the brain and before the left ear. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Tearing in the left temple, ceasing through pressure; also in the evening, when lying down. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Violent tearing, passing upward in the left side of the temple, with toothache in a posterior molar. [Htb. u. Tr.]

60. Painful tearing in the right temple, so that it drew her eyes together. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Violent twitching tearing, sometimes on the vertex, then on the occiput, on the upper arms and thighs (25th and 26th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Violent tearing and shooting in the whole head, as with knives, in the evening before lying down, and the whole night, so that she was afraid of losing her reason. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Tearing and inward shooting on the right side of the head, after dinner, while sitting. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Stitches on the right side of the head, and then when moving the head to the left, a tearing pain in the right side of the occiput. [Htb. u. Tr.]

65. Shooting headache, in the morning after rising, with pressure over the eyes. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Shooting, outward in the right side of the forehead, more externally, after a previous tickling in that place. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Shooting about the forehead, frequently repeated, in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Stitches in the crown. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Shooting pain in the right temple, after dinner (10th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

70. Shooting in the left temple (aft. 12 d.).

Dull stitch in the left temple and then above the right ear. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Violent outward shooting in the (right) side of head, on which she lies at night, it ceases when she lies on the other side. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Dull, painful stitches on the anterior corner of the right parietal bone, in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Shooting and throbbing in the right side of the head, after dinner. [Htb. u. Tr.]

75. Dull stitches into the right side of the head, when standing. [Htb. u. Tr.]

A deep, dull stitch through the brain, from the crown to the right side of the occiput. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Stitches into the left side of the head, when standing; also in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Stitches from both parietal bones meet one another. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Violent shooting in the occiput, in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]

80. Shooting pain in the whole head, which makes her ill-humored, from 8 P. M. till she goes to sleep. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Stitches in the head, here and there. [Htb.]
 Stitches in the head; then pain as from a contusion on the sides of the head, while standing, not aggravated by moving. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Boring shooting, from the upper part of the right side of the head, on through the occiput, in the morning. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Painful boring in the left side of the head (2d evening.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
85. Sounding tingling in the whole head, at a slight movement (aft. 15 d.).
 Resounding jerk over the left eye, through the head, on moving and walking (aft. 11 d.).
 Sensation as of pulsation in the frontal region. [Htb. u. Tr.]
Rush of blood to the head, especially during his customary smoking of tobacco (aft. 5 d.).
 Violent gush of blood to the head, in the forenoon.
90. Very warm in the head, and perspiration in the face. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Rising heat of the head, frequent, without subsequent perspiration. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Feeling of heat in the head, frequently, also in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Feeling of heat in the head, with alternation from paleness of the face to extreme heat and redness of the same (10th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Heat in the head and in the hands, with redness of the face and increased external warmth (7th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
95. A fine cut on the hairy scalp, from the middle of the forehead toward the left eye, as if it would cut through the skin. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Acute needle-pricks on the head, after dinner [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Sensitiveness of the crown, as if bruised, when pressing on it, after the previous, twitching tearing. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Headache on the crown, like pulling by the hair, from noon till evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Itching on the hairy scalp, in various places. [Htb. u. Tr.]
100. Itching of the dandruff on the hairy scalp, until it bleeds from scratching, especially in rainy weather. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Scurf on the left side of the forehead. [Htb. u. Tr.]
The hair comes out more rapidly.
 Rapid loss of the hair of the head.
 Pain in the left eye, as if it would burst, or as if it pressed from within outward, with profuse lachrymation; from the left nostril also much lachrymal water was discharged, with aggravation of the drawing shooting headache above the left eye, when blowing his nose.
105. Pressure about the eyes, toward evening. [Whl.]
 Tearing about the eyes and then lachrymation; it ceases after washing himself, in the morning in bed. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Twitching tearing in both the lower eyelids. [Htb. u. Tr.]

- Twitching in the left eyelid, with lachrymation, for three days. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Itching of the whole of the right eye, after dinner. [Htb. u. Tr.]
110. Voluptuous itching in the left eye, eased by rubbing (10th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Itching and smarting in the left eye, it ceases by rubbing. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Smarting, itching in the right inner canthus, removed by rubbing. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Itching and burning in the eyes, particularly in the canthi, in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Burning and shooting in the eyes, with red blood-vessels in the white (11th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
115. Constant burning and dryness of the eyes (9th, 10th, 11th and 25th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Burning and inflammation of the right eye, in the inner canthus. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Inflammation and swelling of the lower eyelid, with redness of the one canthus (aft. 8 d.).
- Swelling of the eyeball, as if dropsy of the eye would set in. Dryness of the eye, in the morning (9th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
120. Dryness and burning of the eyes (30th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Lachrymation and burning of the right eye, with red blood-vessels in the inner canthus (9th and 10th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Watery eyes, every morning, as after long weeping. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Watering of the eyes, the whole day. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Lachrymation and smarting of the left eye. [Htb. u. Tr.]
125. Lachrymation of the eyes by day, and agglutination in the morning. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Agglutination of the eyes in the morning, only removed by twice washing the eyes. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Pus in the eye, in the morning, on awaking, with burning and dim-sightedness of the same. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Agglutination of the eyes, in the morning, with burning of the eyes in the bright daylight, for many days. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- The eyes are glued together with pus in the morning, on awaking. [Htb. u. Tr.]
130. The eyes closed by suppuration, and pressure in them.
- The eyes were, as it were, swollen in the morning, after awaking, with dizziness of the head; she could not open them for a long time. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- The right eye is weaker, and when she looks sharply at an object, its sight ceases. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Dim-sightedness (3d d.).
- Dim-sightedness of the inflamed eye, as if feathers were held before it.
135. Mist before the eyes, especially before the right eye. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Photophobia, with burning in the eyes (29th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

- Tearing in the upper border of the right orbit. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Tearing in the ears, with tearing in the left molars, and in other places, every moment elsewhere. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Dull boring in the right ear. [Htb. u. Tr.]
140. Painful boring and shooting into the left ear. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Constant tickling in the right ear, in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Burning in the right ear, like fire, but brief. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Painful tearing in the whole of the left concha, in the evening, and in the forenoon the tearing is in the right one. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Violent shooting before the left ear. [Htb. u. Tr.]
145. Painful dull stitch behind the right ear, ending with tension, which ceases only transiently by pressing on it. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Sore pain behind the right lobule of the ear, when pressing on it (7th d.).
 Redness and inflammation of the right external meatus auditorius, for three days, with pain as if from an ulcer, and long-remaining sensibility to pressure. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Great sensitiveness to noise, even so as to be startled by it.
 Ringing of the ears (aft. 20 d.).
150. Ringing in the right ear, after dinner. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Tinkling and ringing of a bell in the left ear. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Ringing of a bell in the left ear, in the morning, in bed, and then painfulness of the whole ear when touched. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Loud ringing in the right ear, after dinner. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Buzzing before the ear, alternating as it were, with whistling.
155. Buzzing in the right ear. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Buzzing and ringing in the left ear, like a tempest, with diminution of the hearing. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Roaring before the ear, so loud that she could not stay in bed for it, she had to sit up, and finally to rise (aft. 9 d.).
 Buzzing, fluttering and humming in the right ear, with hardness of hearing. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Fluttering in front of the right ear, as from a bird. [Htb. u. Tr.]
160. Fluttering before the right ear in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Rushing as of water in the right ear, in the evening (25th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Buzzing in the right ear, with diminution of the hearing, and a sort of intoxication in the open air, so that she did not understand what she was asked; worse in the room (29th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 The nose becomes red and swollen, for several evenings.
 A scab in the inside of the nose (aft. 3 d.).
165. Epistaxis in the morning (aft. 2 or 3 d.).
 Severe epistaxis (aft. 24 d.). [Htb.]
 Frequent severe bleeding of the nose (aft. 17 d.).
 Bleeding from nose and mouth.
 Severe epistaxis early, at three and five o'clock, on awaking, with violent sneezing and tickling in the right nasal cavity. [Htb. u. Tr.]

170. Expulsion of blood from the nose (75th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Painful itching on the upper left side of the nose, near the eye (25th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Violent tearing from the left side of the nose, over the margin of the orbit, even into the temple. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Face discolored and pale, with general uncomfortableness (12th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Wretched, pale, earthy-sallow complexion for a long time (19th and 20th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
175. Peevish face, in the forenoon. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Redness and burning of the face, with external heat, in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Great redness of the face with general heat, frequently. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Tension of the whole face, as if the white of eggs was drying on it. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Tearing in the left side of the face. [Htb. u. Tr.]
180. Nightly tearing, burrowing and boring as with a red-hot iron in the zygoma, somewhat relieved by sitting up in bed, or else driving him entirely out of bed with fearful anguish. [Whl.]
 She has to run from one room to the other, all night, on account of the pains in her face, she has to hold the painful side and always nod with the head; as soon as she keeps quiet, the pains return with equal violence. [Whl.]
 Throbbing pains in the antrum Highmori, and swelling of the bones of the right cheek. [Whl.]
 Constant burning and straining between the lips and the chin, in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Heat in the face and the hands, with redness, burning and thirst, at noon. [Htb. u. Tr.]
185. Redness and swelling of the right cheek and the lower jaw, with severe ulcerative pain; especially painful when pressing on it, with twitching when talking, sneezing and yawning, for six days. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Many vesicles on the sides of the forehead and on the right corner of the mouth. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Vesicles on the nose, also some with pus. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Many pimples about the chin. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Purulent pustule under the right nostril, at last with a burning scab. [Htb. u. Tr.]
190. Pustule before the right ear, without sensation. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Hard knot on the right temple, only painful when touched. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 The right submaxillary gland is painful when pressed upon and on moving the lower jaw. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Lips dry, without thirst, in the morning till noon. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Burning and tension in the upper lip [Htb. u. Tr.]
195. Fine, painful tearing in the lower lip. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Itching burning above the upper lip, toward the left corner of the mouth. [Htb. u. Tr.]

- Itching on the upper lip, as if an eruption was coming there.
 [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Soreness of the upper lip.
 Fine eruption about the mouth (aft. 3 d.).
200. Herpetic eruption below the whole of the mouth.
 Pustule on the upper lip (2d d.).
 Pustule on the lower lip (aft. 3 d.).
 Blister on the lower lip, on the right corner of the mouth, for three days. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Clear vesicles on the left corner of the upper lip, with tensive pain. [Htb. u. Tr.]
205. Black, little nodules on both the corners of the mouth. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Pain, as from being cut to pieces, on the inner side of the upper lip, on the gums, and burning, when touched with the tongue. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Toothache, with swelling of the cheek.
 Toothache, in driving, aggravated by cold. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Toothache, daily, in the morning after awaking or after rising, on the right side; it ceases on walking about for a time. [Htb. u. Tr.]
210. Pain of the posterior lower molars, on both sides, in the evening and morning. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Severe pain in a right hollow molar, it cannot be moderated by any means (60th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Toothache, every day, particularly at night.
 As soon as he gets into bed, the teeth pain much more violently, and much water gathers in the mouth.
 Toothache, drawing from the teeth into the temples; only beginning in the evening and driving him at night from his bed, for several nights in succession.
215. Drawing, in all the teeth, with swelling and redness of the gums.
 Twitching toothache, almost daily, in the morning after rising and at night, with twitching in the fingers and the feet, waking and sleeping (60th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Tearing and drawing in the posterior lower molars, also in the evening, occasionally assuaged by salt. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Violent tearing, drawing and gnawing in a hollow tooth, so that she moaned, only transiently assuaged by cold things and by lying on the affected side, lasting till 4 A. M., worse in a warm room with restlessness, ill-humor, and tensive pain on the whole of the right cheek (after the menses). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Tearing in the lower molars on the right side, with pains in a posterior upper molar as if it was being screwed out. [Htb. u. Tr.]
220. Severe tearing in the right lower teeth, extending into the temple, after dinner. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Tearing in the roots of both rows of teeth. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Tearing in the last left molar, not clear whether above or below, in the evening in bed, till going to sleep, and in the morning on awaking; it ceases on rising (17th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Shooting toothache after a meal.

Shooting and tearing in the roots of the teeth of the left upper row, with a sensation of elongation and tickling of the teeth in the open air. [Htb. u. Tr.]

225. Burning, throbbing and tearing, with sensation of elongation now in one tooth, then in another, above or below, diminished by bodily motion, worst at night in bed, and also renewed by day, by eating and chewing (aft. 16 d.).

Burning toothache, in the evening, in bed, with pain as if the teeth were loose.

Sensation of elongation and great sensitiveness of the teeth (aft. 24 d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Sensation of elongation of one molar, in the morning, when it is touched by cold water, as if it was being torn out, so also in chewing.

Two wisdom-teeth make their appearance. [Htb. u. Tr.]

230. Wagging of the teeth, with swelling of the gums.

Looseness and sensation of elongation of the teeth, with great sensitiveness and burning of the gums; at noon, when eating; in the evening it ceases, but is renewed at every meal. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Constant and almost painless swelling of the gums, even in the empty sockets (aft. 13 d.).

Burning vesicles frequently form on the gums, on the inner side of the cheeks, on the lips and the palate. [Htb. u. Tr.]

In the mouth, on the inner side of the right cheek, violent itching (aft. 3 h.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

235. Small, reddish blue spot, without sensation, on the inner side of the right cheek, bleeding when rubbed. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Many nodules, like grains of millet, in the mouth, on the tongue as well as on the cheeks; they bleed at the slightest touch, and during eating, especially of sour things, they burn. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Numbness of the whole of the inside of the mouth, the palate and the anterior half of the mouth, in the morning on awaking, till noon. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Burning, painful vesicles on the left edge of the tongue and the lower lip, suppurating after three days. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Blisters on the anterior edge of the tongue and on the right corner of the mouth, with tensive pain. [Htb. u. Tr.]

240. Blisters on the palate, in the morning, with a sensation as if the spot was sore and eroded; they cease on the appearance of the menses. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Burning on the palate, as if the skin was detached (2d d.) in the morning. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Roughness of the palate, in the morning, as if the skin was detached. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Heat in the mouth, the whole day.

Sore throat, as from a hard body, with burning and retching and sensation of roughness, with excitation to hawking, even when not swallowing. [Htb. u. Tr.]

245. Pain in the throat, on deglutition, as of a foreign thick body, which she ought to swallow down. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Sensation as if the throat was stopped up, and would not let any air pass, in the morning after rising (25th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Spasmodic retching in the throat at 8 p. m. as if the throat was distended; she had to open her mouth, but it gave no relief. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Lancinating pain in the right side of the throat, on deglutition, in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Shooting, deep in the throat, when talking.
250. Sore pain of the throat, on the right side, with shooting and burning on the left side when talking, sneezing and yawning, more during deglutition than outside of it. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Burning and roughness in the throat. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Roughness and burning acidity in the throat (soon). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Roughness in throat, with inclination to vomit. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Shooting roughness in the throat and scratching as from the awn of barley, or from the seeds of the dog-rose. [Htb. u. Tr.]
255. Roughness in the throat, frequently recurring. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Scrapy and rancid in the throat, as from old smoked meat. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Scrapy and rough in the throat, with eructation, without taste, after every dose of medicine.
 Dryness in the throat, with the sensation while swallowing, as if the throat was being pulled apart. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Dryness in the throat, when swallowing. [Htb. u. Tr.]
260. Dryness in the throat, in the morning, with shooting in the left side, during swallowing and outside of it (10th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Dryness in the throat and mouth, in the morning, on awaking. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Dryness in the mouth (29th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Dry mouth without thirst, also at night. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Slimy and mealy sensation about the mouth, in the forenoon. [Htb. u. Tr.]
265. Mucus often comes into the throat, and she has to swallow it down, with roughness and dryness in the fauces. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Frequent but ineffectual excitation to hawking. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Soft tubercles, yellow like peas, of very fetid smell, which have to be hawked up, often come from the fauces into the larynx, causing a choking sensation.
 Expectoration of tenacious mucus, with bloody streaks; this had been pressing in the throat for some time, and would not be hawked up. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 She spits out mucus and lumps of blood, with a sweetish taste. [Htb. u. Tr.]
270. Bloody saliva.
 Bloody saliva (94th and 95th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Constant spitting of saliva, in the morning, with nausea. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Gathering of water in the mouth, with frequent regurgitation,

- vertigo and inclination to vomit; after eating some plums (25th and 26th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Rising of water into the mouth (27th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
275. No sense of taste for several days; what she eats tastes like straw, though she has appetite. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- What he eats has hardly any taste (1st, 7th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Food has hardly any taste, the tongue is coated white, and her mouth always feels very slimy.
- Bitter, sweet taste in the mouth, which is full of mucus; this went off after eating bread. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Bitterness in the mouth, like wornwood (42d d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
280. Bitter taste in the mouth, the soup at breakfast also seemed bitter to her. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Bitter taste in the mouth, in the morning, with white tongue and white mucus in the mouth; this goes off after rinsing the mouth. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Bitter taste in the mouth in the morning; pappy and mucus slime on the teeth and the tongue. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Sour taste comes suddenly into the throat, and then roughness. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Sour taste in the mouth.
285. Sourish taste in the mouth.
- She loses her appetite, and after that, her stomach always feels full.
- Little appetite and hunger. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- No hunger and no appetite (aft. 25 and 26 d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- No appetite at noon, but it comes while eating. [Htb. u. Tr.]
290. Neither appetite, nor hunger, nor taste (9th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- He does not relish his dinner as at other times. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Feels satiated with the first morsel.
- Little appetite, occasionally, and fullness at once, then again sufficient hunger and appetite. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Hunger, and yet no appetite for bread.
295. She does not relish warm food, she only wants butter and bread. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Dislike to all green food, she would rather eat meat (8th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Good appetite for vegetables, but loathing of meat (aft. 20 d.).
- Eating meat gives him dry skin and heat.
- Inclination for fruit and to acid things. [Htb. u. Tr.]
300. Thirst, with appetite for sour things, at noon (9th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Much thirst, with little appetite (aft. 8 d.).
- Violent thirst, in the afternoon and evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Thirst for water, she drinks much in the afternoon. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Thirst for water in the forenoon; in the afternoon, only dryness of the mouth, without thirst. [Htb. u. Tr.]
305. Thirst toward evening, with much drinking; then micturition at night. [Htb. u. Tr.]

- Violent thirst, which causes her to wake up at night (before the menses). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Thirst for cold drinks (after diarrhœa), with much drinking. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- She gets weary during eating.
- After meals, lassitude, paleness of the face, nausea and dark-colored vomiting of the ingesta (aft. 7 d.).
310. After meals, pains and inflation of the abdomen.
- Abortive eructation (aft. 12 h.).
- Empty eructation, also after the breakfast-soup [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Frequent eructation, without smell or taste. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Retching eructation, in the afternoon. [Htb. u. Tr.]
315. Eructation, with the taste of the ingesta, in the morning.
- Empty eructation with cutting tearing over the navel from the left to the right side. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Eructation with sneezing, toward evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Frequent eructation with stomachache. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Eructation of cold air. [Htb. u. Tr.]
320. Some eructation.
- Frequent hiccup, with eructation afterward, in the morning after rising. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Constant hiccup, in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Abortive hiccup, causing cramplike pains in the stomach. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Loathing, without inclination to vomit (soon). [Htb. u. Tr.]
325. Loathing and inclination to vomit, in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Loathing, with pain and coldness in the stomach (soon). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Loathing and sickness, as from a spoiled stomach. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Loathing, with shuddering and eructation afterward (soon). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Sick and inclined to vomit, with constipation for three days. [Htb. u. Tr.]
330. Nausea and general discomfort, in the forenoon; ceases after a meal (21st d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Nausea, with eructation as after rotten eggs, the whole night, till morning (15th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Inclination to vomit and much collection of water in the mouth. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Vomiting of bitter water, but not of food, at noon, while eating, and then long continued bitterness in the mouth. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Vomiting at noon, while eating, after nausea, violent vertigo and retching, first came salty water, then soup, then again empty water, for one-quarter hour, with deadly anguish and with perspiration on the forehead, for an hour; then a discharge of white fæces, colic and inflation of the abdomen (42d d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
335. Sick at stomach, as if about to vomit, with empty eructation. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Stomachache with nausea, heaviness of the head, and ill humor, without aversion to food. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Stomachache in the morning, with nausea, relieved by eating. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Feels full of water, with loathing in the stomach, and inclination to eructation. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Stomachache, like qualmishness (soon). [Htb. u. Tr.]

340. Sensation as of a spoiled stomach, after dinner. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Stomachache in the forenoon, as if empty and qualmish, better after dinner. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Feeling of emptiness in the stomach, in the morning, with empty eructation (9th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Pressure in the stomach.

Pressure in the stomach, extending up into the chest, removed by empty eructation. [Htb. u. Tr.]

345. Inflation and fullness of the stomach, only removed by repeated eructations. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Contractive pain in the stomach.

Contractive pain in the stomach, after dinner. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Contractive pain in the stomach, which allowed her but little sleep at night (15th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Sore pain in the stomach and in both hypochondria, when touched, even at night in bed (42d and 43d d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

350. Ulcerative pain in the stomach, with great sensitiveness to pressure, and a feeling as if it would fall out, with coldness and prostration, so that she could not cross the room for weakness, relieved by drinking some coffee (26th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Audible growling in the stomach, toward noon. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Audible growling in the stomach and then in the abdomen, with yawning, in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Sudden stitches, as with a knife, to the right of the pit of the the stomach, almost intolerable. [Htb. u. Tr.]

A violent, frightening stitch in the scrobiculus cordis. [Htb. u. Tr.]

355. A dull stitch to the right of the scrobiculus cordis, extending to the right side of the chest. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Burning, internally under the left breast, with sweetish taste in the throat, then cough with expectoration of a piece of tenacious brown mucus, while sitting (8th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Contraction and pinching, from both hypochondria toward the navel, frequently intermitting and recurring. [Htb. u. Tr.]

A stitch in the right hypochondriac region. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Dull shooting in the right hypochondriac region after dinner. [Htb. u. Tr.]

360. A violent, frightening stitch in the right lower rib as with a knife, in the evening, when stooping; it ceases when he straightens up. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Sensation as if something hard lay in the hepatic region, with frequent pinching in the abdomen (aft. 2 h.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Fine pinching, externally below the last right rib, extending further up, afterward a burning in the same place. [Htb. u. Tr.]

In the left hypochondrium, fine shooting. [Htb. u. Tr.]

- Shooting in the left costal region, like splenic stitches, when standing (2d d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
365. Paralytic pain in the left hypochondrial region, so that she could not lie on this side, in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Pain in the abdomen, and then a few times, leucorrhœa like water (25th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Violent pain in the abdomen, particularly about the navel, in the morning in bed and outside; better after warm soup. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Great heaviness in the abdomen.
- Sensation of fullness in the hypogastrium, relieved by walking, in the afternoon. [Htb. u. Tr.]
370. Inflation of the abdomen.
- Inflation of the abdomen, after a meal, he feels at once sated and full, at noon. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Violent inflation of the abdomen, after dinner (11th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Great inflation and tension of the abdomen, from the afternoon till evening (25th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Excessive inflation of the abdomen; later as also at night, much discharge of flatus, with relief. [Htb. u. Tr.]
375. Great inflation of the stomach in the evening; only to some degree relieved by emission of flatus. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Violent inflation and distension of the abdomen, despite of three diarrhœic stools. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Pressure in the hypogastrium, every morning in bed, ceasing after a meal (aft. 20 d.).
- Spasmodic contractive pain in the abdomen, then diarrhœa, with relief; in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Constriction and pinching, on the right side of the groin, painful so as to cause him to scream (28th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
380. Gripping, colic and burrowing in the abdomen, as if for the menstrual flow, with much emission of fetid flatus, at noon; in the evening more violent colic, preceded by growling in the abdomen. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Painful gripping in the hypogastrium, below the navel, frequently intermitting, and later on extending to the stomach. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Gripping and pain in the whole hypogastrium, with pressing toward the sexual parts, at the same time, discharge of blood from the vagina. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Gripping and moving about in the abdomen, with ordinary stool, frequently intermitting, and coming also in the morning in bed; in moving her body about, she comes into a position, in which the pain temporarily ceases (30th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Gripping in the abdomen, worse in the evening, with inflation, diminished by emission of flatus (28th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
385. Frequent pinching in the right epigastrium. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Severe pinching about the navel, with inflation of the abdomen; then stool, which was first hard, then soft. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Severe pinching about the navel, then a liquid stool, followed by burning in the anus (3d d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Pinching and burrowing about the navel, in the morning. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Pinching anteriorly in the abdomen, in the morning, without stool. [Htb. u. Tr.]

390. Violent, painful pinching in the side of the abdomen. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Pinching in the whole abdomen, in the forenoon (7th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Pinching and rumbling in the whole abdomen, then diarrhœa with green stool; thrice recurring. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Severe pinching in the middle of the abdomen, relieved by discharge of flatus; then a stool which is first only scanty, hard and discharged with straining, and finally soft and easily evacuated, with burning in the anus afterward (5th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Pinching in the abdomen, for three days in succession (aft. 18 d.).

395. Cutting in the left side of the abdomen. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Painful cutting and straining in the abdomen and both groins, awaking the person at night from sleep. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Cutting in the hypogastrium, below the navel with straining, as for the menses. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Cutting in the bowels, in the evening, till going to sleep. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Violent cutting in the abdomen, extending from the sacrum to the os pubis (aft. 4 h.). [Whl.]

400. Tearing in the left side of the abdomen, particularly when walking.

Violent pain in the abdomen, as if it would tear out her bowels, for three days (removed by smelling of hepar sulphuris). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Sensation as if everything in the abdomen was turning around, with shooting below the navel. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Pain in the abdomen, in the morning after rising, as if the intestines were empty, contracted and were being torn out. [Htb. u. Tr.]

A small spot on the left side of the navel pains, when pressed upon, as if ulcerated. [Htb. u. Tr.]

405. Spasmodic pain in the right flank, removed by rubbing, while walking. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Violent itching in the right flank, with internal burning, both symptoms are removed by scratching; with chilliness. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Rumbling and moving about of flatus in the abdomen. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Moving about of flatus in the epigastrium, with pinching. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Moving about of flatus and pinching in the whole abdomen, then discharge of flatus with relief, followed by soft stool. [Htb. u. Tr.]

410. Audible rumbling, growling and moving about of flatus in the abdomen with fine cutting all the day. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Rolling and clucking in the abdomen, during inspiration, as

- is felt during cramps, in the evening and morning; it ceases after eating (10th and 11th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Audible growling in the abdomen, as in cramps. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Audible growling and clucking in the abdomen, on moving, without knowing in what part [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Audible growling below the navel, two hours after dinner. [Htb. u. Tr.]
415. Frequent discharge of loud flatus, in the afternoon and night. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Flatus is discharged with much noise. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Frequent flatus of penetrating smell. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Discharge of flatus while walking, and soon afterwards a stool. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Urging as for diarrhœa, but there was only emission of flatus. [Htb. u. Tr.]
420. Urging to stool and emission of flatus, with cutting and pinching in the anus, then hard stool with pressing and straining as for diarrhœa. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Frequent, ineffectual call to stool (23d d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Ineffectual urging to stool, after breakfast. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Constant urging to stool, but little is passed, and it is only a sort of fermentation.
- Stool only every two days.
425. Urging to stool, with scanty evacuation of fœces, then ineffectual straining, with emission of flatus and burning in the anus. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- No stool (23d d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Not before evening, a hard stool, with pain and straining. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- More inclined to constipation. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Seems, in its first operation, to keep back the stool. [Htb. u. Tr.]
430. Very hard stool, like stones, with pain in the anus. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Very hard stool, in the morning (2d d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Very hard stool, with straining (11th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- On account of its great hardness, she can expel the fœces only by force, after dinner. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Stool, hard and lumpy, discharged with straining. [Htb. u. Tr.]
435. Hard and scanty stool in the morning, with straining. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Hard stool in the afternoon, with violent burning in the anus afterward. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- She has to expel, even the stools which are not hard, by force, for several days. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Soft, sufficient stool, finally with straining, twice a day. (28th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Stool, the first part being hard, the second liquid, with subsequent burning in the rectum. [Htb. u. Tr.]
440. Stool only after four days, scanty, yet soft and without form (4th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Soft stool, preceded by pinching in the abdomen, with a loud relieving discharge of flatus, in the afternoon and evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Yellow stool, in the forenoon, with straining; in the afternoon an ordinary stool. [Htb. u. Tr.]

In the morning and afternoon, an ordinary stool. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Diarrhœic stool, for several days (aft. 11 d.).

445. Diarrhœa, with violent colic and straining, some seven or eight times a day, for eight days (aft. 10 d.).

Diarrhœa, with very soft fœces, thrice a day. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Diarrhœa, twice before midnight. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Liquid stool, thrice daily, without any trouble (first 10 d.).

[Htb. u. Tr.]

Half-liquid stool, without trouble, in the morning (2d d.).

[Htb. u. Tr.]

450. Liquid stool, followed by burning at the anus. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Diarrhœa of liquid brown, like liver, with subsequent tenesmus and burning. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Diarrhœa, five times, from morning till evening (25th d.).

[Htb. u. Tr.]

Diarrhœa, with great lassitude following. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Diarrhœa of green fœces, thrice, without trouble (6th d.)

[Htb. u. Tr.]

455. Green, foamy diarrhœa (9th, 10th, 26th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Green, mucous diarrhœa, in morning (4th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Green, diarrhœic stool, three times a day. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Urging to diarrhœa, in the night and morning, waking from sleep; on the next afternoon, green, mucous diarrhœa (8th d.).

[Htb. u. Tr.]

Diarrhœa, several times, of a green liquid, preceded by pinching, especially in the right side of the abdomen (2d d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

460. Diarrhœa of greenish water, with great inflation of the abdomen, eight times in one forenoon (27th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Green, mucous diarrhœa, in the forenoon and afternoon, with many ascarides, and with subsequent burning at the anus. [Htb. u. Tr.]

[Htb. u. Tr.]

Many lumbrici with the stool (8th, 19th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Lumbrici go off with the stool (30th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Discharge of lumbrici from the anus, between the stools.

465. Before the stool, much motion in the abdomen, and he gets warm and hot, before the stool comes.

Before the stool, cutting and pinching in the abdomen.

During the stool, tearing in the rectum, extending into the abdomen.

After the stool, lassitude (aft. 7 d.).

With urging to stool, violent pain in the anus, as from pin-pricks, but only some flatus is discharged, with relief. [Htb. u. Tr.]

[Htb. u. Tr.]

470. On the rectum, straining, between the stools.

Shooting in the rectum, in the morning, like needle-pricks, when walking; relieved by emission of flatus. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Violent pain in the rectum, as from needle-pricks, waking her

- early, at 4 A. M.; she was somewhat relieved by emission of flatus, also very painful, so that she could go to sleep again (6th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Sore pain in the anus, or as if ulcerated, when sitting and walking. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Painful varices of the anus.
475. Urging to urinate, awaking from sleep at 9 P. M. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Increased discharge of urine, also by night. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Urinating at night, contrary to habit. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Frequent micturition, at first much urine, then less. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Very frequent micturition (3d d.).
480. More micturition in the evening than usual, also at night; the urine is pale. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- The urine seems diminished, with burning afterward, in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Urine cannot be retained, on rising from seat and on walking. While walking, urine involuntarily passes from her (aft. 11 d.).
- Very pale urine. [Htb. u. Tr.]
485. Very pale urine in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Urine, quite green, in the afternoon (23d d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- White sediment in the urine.
- Urine scalding, like salt-water, in passing, also at times stinging.
- During micturition, erosive pain in the urethra (aft. 10 d.).
490. After micturition, pinching below the navel, extending into the sacrum and the left hip, with a sensation as if flatus was to be emitted, in the open air. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Sexual impulse diminished (at once).
- Shooting in the urethra, in the region of the glans (aft. 10 h.).
- Pollution (1st n.).
- Very frequent pollutions, almost every night.
495. Ereption slow, but the coitus is satisfactory.
- Prostatic juice flows out when flatus is discharged.
- Frequent itching of the pudenda.
- Menses, seven days late, preceded by sore throat. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Menses, three days late, scanty and short. [Htb. u. Tr.]
500. Menses, three days late, at first only a little flow in the evening, then in the night stronger, and the following day still more, with discharge of whole lumps of coagulated blood, for three days. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Menses, four days later than usual and more profuse (13th d.).
- The menses, which had ceased years before in an aged woman, return and flow profusely for four days.
- The menses, usually scanty, flow at once, a few days earlier than their regular period, with a tearing toothache and inflation of the abdomen, lasting four weeks.

The menses come at night, first a little, then more strongly in the forenoon, but suddenly cease in the afternoon (59th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

505. Menses at night time and without pain; this was never the case before; but in the forenoon, ill-humor, improving in the afternoon (5th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

The menses come back very strong, with colic, on the third day, and continue several days. [Whl.]

Menses more profuse than usual and one day too long. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Menses very strong on the fourth and fifth days, with headache, worst in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Menses six days too early, in the afternoon, when walking; very profuse on the third day, lasting six days (aft. 14 d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

510. At night, the menstrual flow is more profuse than by day, and the forcing pains are relieved by pressing together the abdomen, and by bending over. [Htb. u. Tr.]

No flow of blood during the pains, only after them, also at night when asleep. [Htb. u. Tr.]

While walking and standing, the menstrual flow is strongest. [Htb. u. Tr.]

The blood of the menses is dark and very acrid. [Htb. u. Tr.]

The menstrual blood is dark, viscid, almost pitch-like and is difficult to wash off. [Htb. u. Tr.]

515. Menstrual flow, thick and black, and six days too early. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Menses too early by three days, more scanty than usual, and last three days longer (26th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Menses seven days too early. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Menses reappear after twenty days.

Flow of blood seven days before the menstrual time, the menses then appears regularly on the twenty-eighth day.

520. Menses fourteen days too early, first scanty, then stronger, dark and lasting for three days. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Menses fourteen days too early, with pains especially violent in the sacrum, worst when sitting, easiest while walking. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Menses nine days too early, very scant and last only two days (12th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Menses eight days too soon, at night, after a foot-bath, first scanty, then stronger and dark, with straining in the groins, during which no blood passes, but it passes at every emission of flatus, but chiefly at noon and in the afternoon. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Before the menses, in the evening, ravenous hunger, followed by stomachache. [Htb. u. Tr.]

525. Shortly before the menses, repeated eructation and nausea. [Whl.]

Before the menses, straining, cutting and pain in the sacrum, as if contracted and bruised, particularly while sitting, less when walking; on the second day of the menses, with a profuse flow of acid, brown blood, a remission of the pains; at night a stronger flow. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Before the menses (six days too early), stomachache, with bearing down toward the pudenda. [Htb. u. Tr.]

As the menses appear, coryza with stoppage of the nose for four days. [Htb. u. Tr.]

During the menses, liquid stool, then trembling in the lower limbs.

530. During the menses, peevish, but not the first day. [Htb. u. Tr.]

During the menses, headache, with sensation of heaviness and heat. [Htb. u. Tr.]

During the menses, constant tearing, now in the sides of the head, now in the crown, then in the nape, only diminished at night. [Htb. u. Tr.]

During the menses, drawing pain, from the forehead to the occiput, with heaviness in the brain, the whole day. [Htb. u. Tr.]

During and after the menses, in the evening, bruised pain in the crown, which is also sensitive when touched. [Htb. u. Tr.]

535. During the menses, both the eyes in the morning are closed by suppuration in the inner canthi, with heaviness of the head. [Htb. u. Tr.]

During the menses, dim, dry, burning eyes. [Htb. u. Tr.]

During the menses, a burning chap on the lobule of the ear. [Htb. u. Tr.]

During the menses, very pale complexion. [Htb. u. Tr.]

During the menses, disagreeable taste in the mouth and little appetite. [Htb. u. Tr.]

540. During the menses, much accumulation of water in the mouth, which she has to spit out continually. [Htb. u. Tr.]

During the menses, nausea from morning till noon. [Htb. u. Tr.]

During the menses, violent pains in the abdomen. [Htb. u. Tr.]

During the menses, cutting about the navel, with relieving discharge of flatus. [Htb. u. Tr.]

During the menses, violent straining in the hypogastrium, at night and in the morning, often awaking her from sleep. [Htb. u. Tr.]

545. During the menses, in the morning, frequent sneezing. [Htb. u. Tr.]

During the menses frequent, but intermitting pains in the sacrum. [Htb. u. Tr.]

During the menses, drawing pain in the sacrum, relieved by stooping, increased by stretching. [Htb. u. Tr.]

During the menses, pain in the top of the right shoulder, as if dislocated, so that she can hardly raise her arm. [Htb. u. Tr.]

During the menses, the knees pain in walking, as if bruised. [Htb. u. Tr.]

550. During the menses, painfulness in the feet, also when in bed. [Htb. u. Tr.]

- During the menses, itching about the neck and shoulders. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- During the menses, prostrated, languid, with perspiration, without thirst. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- During the menses, so languid, that she could hardly walk. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- During the menses, very drowsy and languid on the second day. [Htb. u. Tr.]
555. During the menses, frequent awaking at night. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- During the menses, chilliness. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- During the menses, constant chilliness. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- During the menses, a chill, as often as she awaked or uncovered herself. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- After the menses, violent pain in the sacrum, as if bruised, during stooping and at other times, in the afternoon and evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
560. After the menses, leucorrhœa. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Leucorrhœa. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Thin, scanty leucorrhœa, with pinching about the navel. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Leucorrhœa, several times, in the afternoon, when walking and sitting. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Leucorrhœa, like water (10th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
565. Leucorrhœa, causing smarting.
- Discharge of leucorrhœa of white mucus, after previous abdominal cramps.
- * * * * *
- Severe tickling in the nose, with subsequent sneezing, in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Frequent itching in the left nostril. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Violent itching in the nostrils, ceasing after scratching. [Htb. u. Tr.]
570. Prickling, sore sensation in the right nasal fossa, as in coryza, during and between the acts of swallowing. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Excitation to sneezing, and tickling in the left nostril. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Frequent sneezing, in the morning, from tickling in the nose. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Violent sneezing and tickling in the whole of the nose (6th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Frequent sneezing, in the morning, with stoppage of the nose (9th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
75. Sensation of coryza, in the morning, with stoppage of the nose and the sparing secretion of single drops. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Excitation to blowing the nose, with sensation as if the nose was full of mucus, but nothing comes, and the nose remains stopped. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Dryness of the nose, in the morning, and stoppage of the left side (2d d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Dryness of the nose, every morning, on awaking.
- Stuffed coryza (35th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

580. Stuffed coryza and stoppage of the nose, waking her up at night.
 Stoppage of the nose, frequently alternating with fluent coryza. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Stoppage of the nose, in the afternoon. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Coryza, fluent in the morning, dry in the afternoon (15th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Violent coryza, with stoppage of the right nostril. [Htb. u. Tr.]
585. Coryza, for several days, particularly in the morning and evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Stuffed coryza, the whole day; she has to open the mouth to get air, and yet there is some nasal mucus. [Htb. u. T.]
 Water drops unexpectedly from her nose, without any coryza.
 Fluent coryza, in the morning, when rising, then stoppage of the nose, the whole day. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Fluent coryza, till next morning (4th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
590. Coryza, with discharge of thick mucus and sensation as if the nose was swollen from much blowing, for three days. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Contraction in the windpipe, with pressive pain in the pit of the throat.
 Hoarseness, for two days (aft. 2 d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Hoarseness and roughness in the throat, in the forenoon; ceasing through eating dinner. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Complete hoarseness, toward evening.
595. Irritation in the region of the thyroid gland, with frequent coughing, in the forenoon. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Tickling in the throat, and then a short cough. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Frequent cough, in the afternoon, from tickling in the throat (3d d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Cough, with scraping in the throat (aft. 1 h.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Rough cough, also at night.
600. Morning cough toward 3 A. M. in two fits, with expectoration of mucus (2d d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Hollow, dull sounding cough.
 Attacks of whooping-cough, the whole night.
 Cough, after becoming heated, even a little.
 Severe cough, with difficult, thin, salty expectoration.
605. During the cough, pain in the chest, as if it were cut to pieces, and in the morning a yellowish, purulent expectoration, for several days (aft. 67 d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Short breath, when walking (16th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Very tight on the chest, in the afternoon, as if screwed together, with short breath (15th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Tightness in the chest, and weary and painful feet, when ascending (11th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Contraction about the chest, bruised pain of the top of the shoulder, and sprained pain of the right middle finger; all this ceases after eructation, in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
610. Constriction about the middle of the chest, with short breath, in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Contraction and squeezing on the chest, with heavy, short breath, when sitting and walking. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Severe oppression of the chest, and at times deep breathing (6th d.).

Pressure, heaviness, and, as it were, tightness on the chest, unconnected with breathing, in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Sudden pressive pain on the chest, which checked the breath (aft. 68 d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

615. Acute cutting and shooting in the chest, unconnected with respiration in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Painful cutting and shooting, deep in the middle of the chest; unchanged by walking or breathing, after dinner till evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]

A stitch in the ribs, below the right axilla. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Shooting below the right breast, toward the navel, or out at the top of the shoulder, also during inspiration. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Dull shooting, when breathing, in the left side of the chest, extending into the shoulder. [Htb. u. Tr.]

620. A stitch in the left costal region, when inspiring; it comes out below the left scapula, when standing (13th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Single, violent stitches on the last, left rib, so that she would like to scream, chiefly while sitting (aft. 10 d.).

Shooting below the left breast, when yawning, also after dinner or in the evening, when it comes while sitting down, and sometimes extends into the sternum. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Shooting in the left side of the chest, below the top of the shoulder. [Htb. u. Tr.]

A stitch in the cardiac region (10th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

625. Shooting in the sternum, occasionally in the evening, while walking, with short breath. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Palpitation of the heart.

Sudden, violent sore pain in the heart, with clearly audible cracking (after dinner), with a tormenting qualmsiness.

Many small red, not elevated spots on the chest, without itching. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Bruised pain in the thoracic muscles, when moving and touching them. [aft. 8 d.).

630. In the coccyx, quick, penetrating pain.

Pain the sacrum and back, at night, so violent that she could not lie still (2d d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Violent bruised pain in the sacrum, from the afternoon till evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Bruised pain in the sacrum, from the morning till in the afternoon (27th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Two violent, shaking tearings in the lower part of the spinal column, so that she was, as it were, drawn back, then shooting there, in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]

635. Stitch in the sacrum, on the right side, with twitching afterward. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Stitches in the sacrum.

Burning itching in the sacrum, above the nates.

In the back, above the hips, as it were, a tightness.

- Severe pain in the back, at night, in bed, as if it were beaten in pieces, worst when moving, but also when at rest.
640. Dull stitches into the back. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Severe itching, especially above the hips.
 In the nape, violent tearing and twitching, proceeding gradually down the back, and there eventually ceasing. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Violent stitch in the nape, when sneezing. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Itching smarting on the nape and neck, with burning after scratching. [Htb. u. Tr.]
645. In the neck, tearing and drawing in the muscles of the right side, in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Pressure on the neck, as if the cravat were tied too tight.
 The thyroid gland appears to be enlarged. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Toward the axilla, below the arm, fine stitches, on holding the arms high, not otherwise. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 In the top of the right shoulder, pain as from a sprain, when she raises her arm without thinking, but not if she raises it purposely (19th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
650. Pressure in the right shoulder.
 Pressure on the top of the shoulder.
 Turgidity and straining from the top of the shoulder to the angle of the lower jaw; so that he cannot stoop for pain, nor close his jaws together.
 Sprained pain in the top of the right shoulder, on moving the arm, also in bed. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Sprained pain in the right shoulder-joint, with a sensation as if he ought to let the arm hang down, in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
655. Paralytic, bruised pain, in the top of the left shoulder, only on moving the arm and body, and when yawning (58th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Pressure on the top of the shoulder.
 Violent contractive pain in both shoulders and tearing down the back, in the morning (29th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Tearing in the top of the right shoulder, down in the scapula, in the morning. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Tearing pain in the top of the right shoulder, extending to the clavicle and the chest. [Htb. u. Tr.]
660. Tearing in the top of the left shoulder, extending to the middle of the upper arm and to the elbow (6th, 7th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 In the arm, a violent tearing, extending from the left shoulder to the wrist-joint, when raising the arm and when at rest (27th, 28th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Painful tearing from the top of the right shoulder into the wrist-joint, and when turning the hand, the tearing extends even into the finger-joints. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Drawing in the arm, upward.
 Twitching in the arms.
665. Lassitude in the arms.
 Pimples on the left arm, which disappeared after scratching, and did not itch the last two days (aft. 10 d.).

In the upper arms, single, very painful, spasmodic gripings, just above the elbow, coming by jerks and intermittingly, while the muscles are as hard as stone, by night and by day; it is transiently assuaged by pressing the arm together with the other hand (aft. 20 d.).

Tearing in the upper arm, above the elbow to the middle of the humerus. [Htb. u. Tr.]

The elbow-joint is painful, on bending the arm.

670. Sharp drawing about the right elbow, seemingly in the bones, in the evening, in bed.

Violent tearing in the elbow-joint, as if it would be torn off, while knitting (5th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Shooting in the right elbow, on moving the arm, in the morning (6th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Gnawing in the left elbow, in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]

In the right fore-arm, drawing, extending into the hand, also when at rest; the arm is too heavy to raise up (aft. 20 d.).

675. Tearing from the elbow to the middle of the fore-arm, seemingly in the periosteum. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Violent stitches in the muscles of the right fore-arm, on the anterior surface, near the wrist. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Itching on the fore-arm below the bend of the elbow, and a red spot after scratching. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Itching on the fore-arm, on washing in cold water and soap, and after scratching, many red, itching pimples, which passed off after drying. [Htb. u. Tr.]

In the hands, a drawing pain.

680. A stitch in the left palm, then violent itching, ceasing from scratching. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Burning in the palms. [Htb. u. Tr.]

The (left) hand is asleep, in the morning; she had lain on it at night. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Redness and swelling of the right wrist-joint, with pain of the bone, when pressed. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Itching in the palms, with clear vesicles on scratching. [Htb. u. Tr.]

685. Erosive blisters on the hands, with shooting pain.

In the finger-joints, cramp-like sensation.

Tension in the middle joint of the left middle finger, two mornings in succession; ceasing after a few hours (aft. 21 d.).

Tearing on the dorsum of the posterior phalanx of the little finger. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Tearing, extending from the posterior joint of the right thumb to the nail. [Htb. u. Tr.]

690. Tearing in the posterior joints of the fingers of the right hand, [Htb. u. Tr.]

Tearing in all the finger-tips, toward the dorsum of the hand, in the morning, after rising. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Violent boring and gnawing in the posterior phalanx of the left thumb, seemingly in the marrow. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Throbbing, as from an ulcer, in the tip of the left thumb, after dinner, it ceases after pressing on it. [Htb. u. Tr.]

- Pain of the posterior joint of the middle finger, as if sprained. [Htb. u. Tr.]
695. Ripping pain about the left thumb and index and then brief paralysis of both the fingers, for two evenings.
Swelling, redness and heat of the right middle finger, with itching little blotches on the days, when he has no stool.
Inflammatory swelling, with shooting pain on the posterior joint of the index.
Itching between the last two fingers of the right hand, and after scratching, clear, non-itching watery vesicles, as also two long white streaks on the fingers. [Htb. u. Tr.]
Eroding blister, on the left index beside the nail.
700. Eroding blister, on the posterior joint of the left index (aft. 10 d.).
Both the hips pain, chiefly on moving.
Violent pinching in the left hip, and sacral region, after dinner, when walking; soon after, urging to stool, and before and during this, severe colic in the rectum. [Htb. u. Tr.]
Twitching, posteriorly on the hip, without pain, and then in the right hypochondriac region. [Htb. u. Tr.]
Painful tearing in the left hip-joint, from the afternoon till next morning. [Htb. u. Tr.]
705. Shooting in the left hip, in the joint and on the external surface of the bone. [Htb. u. Tr.]
Dull shooting above the right hip. [Htb. u. Tr.]
Fine, burning-itching stinging, as from fleas, now on the right, then on the left side of the hip, the left side of the sacrum and the right hypochondriac region. [Htb. u. Tr.]
Shooting, burning and bruised pain above the left hip, extending up to the top of the shoulder, increasing for three days, and worse when stooping toward the affected side; with dry cough and violent stitches in the side, somewhat relieved by bending double and pressing with the hand on the painful spot (60th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
An itching stitch above the right hip, ceasing after scratching. [Htb. u. Tr.]
710. The lower limbs are very painful, especially in the knees. [Htb. u. Tr.]
A sudden jerk in the left lower limb, in the evening after going to sleep, so that she started up, and could not go to sleep again for a long time. [Htb. u. Tr.]
Tingling restlessness in the legs, in the evening, so that she had to keep moving her foot.
The thighs are painful, till the evening.
Bruised pain above the left knee, extending to the middle of the thigh, in the bone when walking. [Htb. u. Tr.]
715. Tearing, anteriorly in the left thigh, from the middle to the knee. [Htb. u. Tr.]
Constant shooting tearing, from the middle of the thigh to the middle of the leg, ceasing after rising from the seat. [Htb. u. Tr.]
Painful drawing twitching from the right knee to the middle

- of the thigh, when standing and when bending the limbs. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Tearing from the left knee, extending beyond the middle of the thigh, after dinner. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 The knees are painful, as after long foot-tours; he could hardly walk without a cane (aft. 4 d.).
720. Heaviness and pain in the knees, when walking, from the afternoon till evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Weary pain in the knees, when sitting, and more yet when walking (3d d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Turgidity in the left hough, as if too short, when treading, when she came from the open air into the room. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Tension in the hough (aft. 3 d.).
 Tension and drawing in the left hough, when walking. [Hth. u. Tr.]
725. Drawing pain in the knees, extending to the soles of the feet, like a burrowing in the marrow of the bones.
 Tearing in the right knee, when standing. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Painful tearing in the right knee, more toward the outer surface. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Violent boring and tearing in the left knee, as if it would be torn off, in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Fine boring in the right knee, frequently intermitting. [Hth. u. Tr.]
730. Painful tearing, extending from the left hough down into the leg, seemingly in the bone, with tension in walking, as if the tendons were too short. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Hard swelling in the hough, so that he could not stretch his limb for pain.
 Shooting in the knee-joint.
 In the legs, a pain, drawing downward, in the evening (aft. 24 d.).
 Painful tension in the tendo Achillis, extending to the calf, when walking fast.
735. Cramp in the left calf, at night, when turning over and raising himself up in bed (aft. 24 d.).
 Cramp in both the calves, in the evening in bed, very painful and not to be assuaged in any way (aft. 6 h.).
 Violent tearings in the right calf, in the afternoon. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Cutting pain in the tibia.
 Bruised pain of the tibiæ.]
740. Spots on the tibia, with a burning pain.
 The feet pain violently, as if they were too heavy and weary, especially in going upstairs, in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Bruised pain in the left ankle, in the morning, extending to the middle of the tibia, when walking and treading; but ceasing on walking for a longer time. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Cramp in the heel, in the morning in bed.
 Drawing pain in the soles of the feet.
745. Piercing stitches in the right heel, in the evening in bed [Htb. u. Tr.]

- Painful twitching tearing in the left heel, in the evening in bed. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Coldness of the feet, as if she was wading in cold water.
 Formication as from ants, on the dorsum of the right foot, and on the lower surface of the toes. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 In the toes of the left foot (the fourth and fifth), violent tearing, when walking. [Htb. u. Tr.]
750. Tearing in the right big toe, from the posterior part to the tip. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Piercing stitch in the bend of the right big toe, extending to its dorsum, so that she drew up her foot, startled, in the evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Burning shooting in the big toe.
 Pains in all parts of the body, now here, now there.
 Everything in the whole body aches.
755. Stiffness of the whole body, in the morning, when rising.
 Twitching without pain, in the nates, the thighs, the shoulders and also often in the face.
 She feels well in bed, but on rising, the twitching pains again begin here and there. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 The ailments seem to constantly recur after three weeks. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 The ailments diminish on walking, having commenced while sitting. [Htb. u. Tr.]
760. The ailments seem easier in the open air than in the room. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Itching and running, as of fleas, on various parts of the body, especially on the top of the shoulders, with little vesicles on scratching, they dry up after twenty-four or forty-eight hours; in the afternoon, evening and morning. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Itching in various places, also on the forehead, in the face, on the head, and in almost all the parts, mostly ceasing on scratching. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Itching, here and there, at times with burning after scratching. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Violent itching on the whole body, also on particular places; after scratching one place, it appears in another. [Htb. u. Tr.]
765. Itching, here and there, returning after scratching. [Htb. u. Tr.]
Severe itching on the whole body.
 A burning needle-prick, here and there, on the body.
 Violent itching, in the evening, on undressing, on the nates, and also on the fore-arms; and, after scratching, severely itching pimples, the itching of which is continually aggravated by scratching. [Htb. u. Tr.]
 Itching on the top of the shoulders, the thighs and the neck, in the evening, before going to sleep, and in the morning when dressing, with itching pimples after scratching, lasting twenty-four hours. [Htb. u. Tr.]
770. Large pimples, here and there, on the body.
 Vesicles and pimples, occasionally violently itching, on the neck, the nape, below and before the ears, on the arms and between the fingers. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Large lumps under the skin, with shooting pain, in the axilla and above the elbow-joint.

Hard lumps, before the top of the left shoulder, deep in the skin, with lancinating pain and redness as from a boil, only felt when pressing upon it. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Itching nodules on the wrist-joint, which, when pressed upon, exude clear water. [Htb. u. Tr.]

775. Small, red, little elevated, smooth tetter, afterward forming scabs, without sensation, on the chest and the calves. [Htb.]

Small furuncles on the forehead, the neck and the chest, and particularly on the thighs. [Htb. u. Tr.]

An old cicatrix, from a burn, turned into an erosive blister, from which he suffered for weeks.

Great sensitiveness of the scalp and of the skin of the body, especially as to cold, with every breeze, she feels a shudder through her skin and feels chilled all through.

Parched dryness of the skin, toward morning in bed (aft. 16 d.).

780. Profuse perspiration by day, at the least motion.

Readiness to strain and to be sprained: in bending the arm back the top of the shoulder pained, as if dislocated, and when touched, as if bruised; she could not turn her head to the left without great pain.

Restlessness in the limbs, in the evening, after sitting for a long time.

Relaxation of the body (aft. 7 d.).

Sudden prostration after walking, in the open air.

785. Ready to tire, when walking (aft. 6 d.).

Feeling of weakness, in the morning in bed (aft. 17 d.).

Great lassitude in the lower limbs.

Heaviness and prostration in all the limbs, the whole day (soon). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Weariness and fatigued in the thighs in sitting, aggravated by walking. [Htb. u. Tr.]

790. Great weariness in the lower limbs, when sitting and when rising from sitting, it goes off on motion. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Prostrated, fatigued and drowsy at noon, after eating (food that is somewhat hard to digest), so that he suddenly falls asleep while walking and talking, with a numbness of the head that makes him incapable to think at all. [Htb.]

Fatigued and drowsy after supper, with qualmishness in the abdomen. [Htb.]

Fatigued and weary in the whole body, especially in the feet (aft. 7 d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Bruised and as if broken on the wheel, as to the hands and feet, in the morning on awaking, with trembling and weakness; she has to lie down, when she feels better, only she feels cold as soon as she leaves her bed. [Htb. u. Tr.]

795. Very weak and prostrate, as after vomiting (42d d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Great weakness in the whole body, with wretched appearance and inclination to vomit. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Very much fatigued, in the afternoon, while sitting and walking, less while standing. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Faintness, in the evening, so she had to lie down (42d d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Fatigued, indisposed and uncomfortable, in the morning. [Htb. u. Tr.]

800. Prostrated, languid and uncomfortable, with anxious warmth and sweat (25th d.).

Languid and tremulous, in the morning, in bed, ceasing after rising (9th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

He is more tired in the morning after a sound sleep, than in the evening on lying down.

A sort of paralysis of the left lower limb, with pain in the joints of the hip and the knee; next day it proceeded to the right lower limb and the right arm; while walking he had continual pains, and was compelled to turn his foot entirely outwards.

Constant troublesome yawning, in the morning, after rising.

[Htb. u. Tr.]

805. Frequent yawning, every day. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Frequent yawning, in the afternoon and evening. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Unusually violent and frequent yawning. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Frequent yawning, in the afternoon, with indolence and drowsiness. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Yawning, with hiccough at the time and afterward. [Htb. u. Tr.]

810. Frequent yawning, with sneezing (27th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Drowsy and indolent, in the forenoon, with frequent yawning and stretching. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Drowsy and lazy, with yawning and stretching, after dinner (6th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

In the morning, after a sound sleep, still very drowsy (2d d.).

[Htb. u. Tr.]

Much inclination to sleep, while he frequently starts up.

815. Against her custom, she does not wake up at night. [Htb. u. Tr.]

The sleep is always good during the first nights, and better than usual. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Ready and quick in falling asleep, and sound sleep (14th d.).

[Htb. u. Tr.]

Sleepless, the whole night (52d d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

No sleep for several nights, and constant tossing about in bed (aft. 22 d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

820. Little sleep and many dreams. [Htb. u. Tr.]

In the evening, it was late before she became sleepy. [Htb. u. Tr.]

She could not go to sleep for a long time in the evening (31st d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

She could not go to sleep before midnight. [Htb. u. Tr.]

She could not go to sleep before 3 A. M. [Htb. u. Tr.]

825. Very restless sleep, with frequent awaking (13th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Many restless nights, with unrefreshing sleep. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Waking up at night at twelve o'clock, without known cause; she could not go to sleep again before 2 A. M., and then slept but lightly till 5 A. M. (15th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Awakes at 3 A. M. and then cannot fall asleep again (59th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

She awakes after 1 A. M. and cannot go to sleep again till 5 A. M.; her limbs ached, and she tossed from one side to the other. [Htb. u. Tr.]

830. She awakes at 2 or 3 A. M., and cannot then go to sleep again.

She cannot go to sleep for a long time in the evening, owing to the great agitation of her blood; she then sleeps uneasily, and without finding rest, has to toss from one side to the other. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Drowsiness at night, from anxiety and heaviness in the whole body. [Htb. u. Tr.]

She is anxious for many nights, and her bed feels hard like stone, so that she has to keep turning. [Htb. u. Tr.]

For many nights, she cannot go to sleep for anxiety, and has to uncover often, but she cannot stand this long, on account of the sensation of coldness (aft. 4 and 23 d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

835. Several nights, she feels anxious and too warm in bed; she cannot for a long time go to sleep (aft. 29 d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

At night from 1 to 4 o'clock restless sleep, with heat and perspiration, so that she can bear no cover; after 4 A. M. she sleeps without perspiration. [Htb. u. Tr.]

At night, great internal heat, so that he can hardly stay covered in bed, and yet there was a great dislike to exposure by uncovering (aft. 4 d.).

At night, toothache, the tooth seems too long, with the pain more tearing than throbbing.

The whole night, throbbing and drawing toothache.

840. After midnight, she wakes up from violent stomachache, as from emptiness. [Htb. u. Tr.]

At 4 A. M. she wakes up to urinate, then pinching in the abdomen, and in the morning stomachache and inclination to vomit (1st d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Nocturnal wetting of the bed.

At night, she wakes up with thirst, which she had already before felt in her dream. [Htb. u. Tr.]

At night, great restlessness in the left lower limb, he has always to rest it in a cool spot outside of the bed.

845. At night, when going to sleep, throbbing in the left side of the chest.

At night, a terrible itching, like biting all over the body, so that she was often startled.

For two nights, he was thrown high up in his bed, from one side to the other, and when the body lay still, the arms and legs twitched the whole night, even while still waking, though without pain; on awaking, he knew nothing about the occurrences of the night (aft. 8 d.).

Talking in his sleep, after midnight (9th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

In the morning, when sleeping, loud talking, while she beats her head against the wall; on awaking she does not know anything about it. [Htb. u. Tr.]

850. She wished to talk in her dream, without being able to, which tormented her (17th d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Loud screaming in sleep, from a lively unremembered dream. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Startled from her sleep about midnight. [Htb. u. Tr.]

On going to sleep, he starts up, with restlessness in the limbs.

Starting up from the afternoon siesta, several days

855. If he lies at night on his back or on his right side, he starts up and talks deliriously and cries out about his frightful dreams.

Nocturnal starting up and screaming in a dream, in which he was quarreling with a beggar.

At night, anxious dreams.

Anxious dreams, as if he could not find his way in his own house.

Anxious dream of a fight with robbers.

860. Dreams that he has an epileptic fit.

Dreams of fighting, quarreling and vexation. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Dreams of money, merriment, sportfulness and historical events. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Anxious, sad dreams of deceased relatives, accidents, etc. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Anxious dream, with screaming, weeping and sobbing. [Htb. u. Tr.]

865. Anxious dreams of fire and of burning up. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Dreams of danger from water. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Chill, from morning till evening, for four days (aft. 60 d.).

[Htb. u. Tr.]

Shaking chill at 9 p. m., even in bed she could not get warm for an hour (2d d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Chill in bed at 7 p. m. for two hours. [Htb. u. Tr.]

870. Shaking chill, at 8 p. m. without any sensible external cold, commencing with the feet, it ceases in bed; next morning, sweat (2d d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

Chill, after a long foot-tour; it lasts all night, and even in the morning by the stove (43d d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

A chill down the back, every afternoon from 4 o'clock till going to sleep.

Feverish shiver down the back, every forenoon at 9 o'clock, with some nausea, without any subsequent heat.

Shiver at 10 p. m. in bed. for a quarter of an hour, without any subsequent heat, sweat or thirst. [Htb. u. Tr.]

875. Coldness in the evening, and shaking chill, continuing for some time even in bed. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Sensation of cold in the evening, when undressing; it goes off in bed. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Sensation of cold, in the evening, before lying down; it goes off in bed. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Coldness, in the evening in bed, for a quarter of an hour, as from having icy cold water poured over him. [Htb. u. Tr.]

After dinner, thirst; later, a chill; in the evening, burning heat of the face, with cold feet and great excitement of spirit.

880. Sense of warmth, with perspiration on the head, at noon till 2 o'clock. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Sensation of warmth thrills through the whole body. [Htb. u. Tr.]

In the forenoon, frequently a transient sensation of heat in the body, without perspiration or thirst. [Htb. u. Tr.]

Increased sense of warmth, in the morning after rising, till toward noon. [Htb. u. Tr.]

At night, increased warmth in the body, without perspiration (aft. 48 h.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

885. Night-sweat, unusually profuse (aft. 48 h.).

Morning-sweat (aft. 12 d.).

Sweat toward morning for five days (aft. 48 d.). [Htb. u. Tr.]

In the evening, when going to sleep, the child perspires.

Fetid night-sweat.

890. Sour smelling, greasy sweat, which is difficult to wash from linen, the whole night.

MAGNESIA MURIATICA. MAGNESIUM CHLORIDE, MURIATE OF MAGNESIA.

[As much of pure Carbonate of Magnesia as will dissolve in pure Muriatic acid at 800 Reaumur is dissolved in the acid. The Muriatic acid is prepared by distillation from common salt and Phosphoric acid of equal weight, which has first been melted and then allowed to acquire again from exposure to the air an oily consistency. The solution of muriate of magnesia is then filtered and dried at the same temperature, so that this salt, which readily deliquesces, may be preserved in a well-stoppered vial.]

I cannot at present offer much information concerning this medicine, but chronic patients may expect from it much benefit, when we consider the great use which has been afforded in chronic (psoric) ailments by sea-baths, merely by the action of this salt on the nerves of the skin; for in the North Sea, at least, one pound of sea-water contains almost an ounce of this salt. Some part of the use of sea-baths may, however, we grant, be ascribed to the journey to these places, the effects of removal from business, which is often burdensome, and the effect of the dashing of the waves against the bathers.

But since we can seldom expect the full cure of developed psora from any one antipsoric remedy, so these baths, even if used in a proper way, could only diminish so much of this multiform malady as could be expected from this salt in such disease, and whatever is not thus exterminated has to await the help of other antipsoric remedies.

From my experience I cannot do otherwise than value this medicine highly as an antipsoric remedy and to exhort to further provings of its peculiar symptoms.

It has done good service, especially in the following ailments:

Daily headache,; throbbing in the ear; tensive pressure in the head; eruption in the face; pressive pain in the liver, even when walking and when it is touched, worst when lying on the right side; constant severe inflation of the abdomen, with constipation; crawling shooting in the abdominal muscles; inveterate, painful hardness of the right side of the abdomen; tape-worm troubles; lumpy, hard, difficult, insufficient, retarded stool; chronic disposition to diarrhœa; hysteria, uterine and abdominal cramps, which even extend to the thighs, and cause discharges of leucorrhœa; troublesome dryness of the nose; the arms go to sleep in the morning on awaking; paralytic drawing in the arms and knees; pressive pain in the knees; foot-sweat; readiness to take cold; weakness of the body, seeming to proceed from the stomach.

The abbreviations of the names of my fellow-observers are: Htb., Hartlaub; Jhr., Jahr; Ng., an anonymous observer in Hartlaub and Trinks' "Arzneimittellehre;" Sr., Schrëter.<sup>1</sup>

MAGNESIA MURIATICA.

- Very anxious and apprehensive, with ennui, in the evening. [Ng.]
 Apprehensive and lachrymose, after dinner. [Ng.]
 Apprehensive and melancholy, lonely; she is homesick and weeps. [Ng.]
 Anxiety in the room, better in the open air; in the morning (14th d.). [Ng.]
 5. Unfriendly mood. [Ng.]
 Ill-humor, with internal unrest.
 Ill-humored, peevish.
 Peevish and cross, in the morning after rising (6th d.). [Ng.]
 Very peevish, almost at once.
 10. Peevish, morose (1st and 2d d.). [Ng.]
 Peevish and sullen (2d d.). [Sr.]
 Peevish and ill-humored in the evening; during the day, cheerful. [Sr.]
 Peevish, morose, indisposed to work. [Sr.]
 Lack of cheerfulness, indisposition to mental work. [Jhr.]
 15. Indisposed to work (the 1st days). [Sr.]

<sup>1</sup>A similar account, substituting Jahr for Wahle is to be given of Magnesia muriatica as of Magnesia carbonica.—Hughes.

Joyless and passive, whatever she looks at is repugnant to her, she answers very unwillingly, in the morning (21st d.). [Ng.]

Indisposed, and as if not done sleeping. [Ng.]

He hated to talk; he desired to follow his thought in solitude. [Sr.]

Irresolution (30th d.). [Ng.]

20. Fanciful delusion: As if while she was reading in a book, another person was reading after her, and compelled her to read more quickly, with humming and buzzing around her; when she raised her head up she seemed to see great clouds and rocks above her, which afterwards disappeared again; then anguish, apprehensiveness and restlessness, so that she could not contain herself; by continuing to look around her all these things disappeared, but recurred twice more on renewing her reading. [Ng.]

Feeling of numbness, as if everything in the head was too full, in the morning (1st d.).

Giddy in the head (aft. 30 d.).

Stupor and numb feeling of the head, with painful sensitiveness of the left thigh (1st d.). [Ng.]

Stupid and, as it were, intoxicated in the head. [Ng.]

25. Silly and heavy in the head, the whole forenoon. [Ng.]

Dull in the head, in the morning after rising (13th d.). [Ng.]

Giddy and dull in the head, during dinner; she had to go into the open air, where it went off; after returning to the room, heat in the head. [Ng.]

Vertigo, tendency to fall forward; in the morning on rising (5th and 28th d.). [Ng.]

Giddy and reeling, it goes off after motion, in the morning.

[Ng.]

30. Vertigo, even when walking in the room, and if she hangs her head but a little.

Headache in the morning, as if not through with sleeping; with lassitude and fatigue of the feet. [Ng.]

Dull pain in the head, with sensitiveness of the skin of the cranium when touched, and sore burning in the eyes after dinner.

[Ng.]

Pain, like heaviness, anteriorly in the forehead, in the afternoon. [Ng.]

Heaviness in the occiput.

35. Heavy in the head and reeling, he is in danger of falling down.

Heaviness of the head, and numbed feeling (aft. 3 d.).

Sensation of heaviness in the head, in the morning. [Ng.]

Pain, as if the whole brain pressed against the forehead.

[Ng.]

Pressure in the forehead, on stooping, as if the brain would fall out, in the evening. [Ng.]

40. Pressure in the forehead (aft. 6 d.).

Pressure in the forehead and sinciput, with a chaotic feeling and fogginess about the head, the whole forenoon, most severe on awaking (3d d.). [Sr.]

Pressure in the frontal cavities, extending to the sinciput, where there is a burrowing sensation; by strong exercise he came to perspire, when the pain ceased (2d d.). [Sr.]

Pressure in the occiput (aft. 15 d.).

A good deal of pressure, also of sharp and squeezing pressure, especially on the crown and occiput (during the whole time of proving). [Jhr.]

45. Pressing together in the head from both sides, with sensation of heat, and with throbbing in the forehead when pressing on it. [Ng.]

Tearing violent pain in the left temple (29th d.). [Ng.]

Tearing pain in the left side of the head (aft. 10 d.). [Ng.]

Tearing from the occiput up into the crown (4th d.). [Ng.]

Painful tearing into the right side of the head, extending to the eye, and then for a long time, painfulness of the spot. [Ng.]

50. Tearing and sensation of heaviness in the forehead, in the evening (6th d.). [Ng.]

Tearing in the left side of the forehead, and further back, shooting. [Ng.]

Tearing and shooting in the forehead on motion, in the evening. [Ng.]

Severe tearing and shooting in the forehead and temples, causing him to lie down, with great sensitiveness of the crown, as if the hair was pulled upward; then sensation of heat in the forehead, which felt rather cold than warm (28th d.). [Ng.]

First, a tearing, then a stitch and a tearing in the forehead, while stooping in sitting, and also, besides, frequent stitches in the head. [Ng.]

55. Tearing and shooting in both sides of the head, the whole day (aft. 4 d.). [Ng.]

Painful twitching tearing, in the right side of the occiput. [Ng.]

A throbbing tearing, first in the occiput, then in the whole head, after coming into the room; it goes off while he is sitting down. [Ng.]

Throbbing tearing, from the occiput toward the crown. [Ng.]

Frequent shooting in the middle of the forehead, in the evening. [Ng.]

60. Shooting behind the right frontal protuberance and before the ear, outward. [Ng.]

Shooting in the left side of the head and in the occiput. [Ng.]

Stitches in the right occipital protuberance. [Ng.]

A stitch on the right side of the occiput, then burning in it. [Ng.]

Violent shooting in the right side of the crown. [Ng.]

65. A violent stitch in the upper part of the right side of the head, so as to make her scream, frequently repeated (during the menses). [Ng.]

A violent startling stitch, in the upper left side of the head. [Ng.]

Shooting and tearing in the right side of the head, extending to the eye, which she has to press shut on that account. [Ng.]

- Dull shooting in the right side of the head, with ill-humor (16th d.). [Ng.]
- Dull stitches, so violent as to cause him to scream, in the right side of the head. [Ng.]
70. Dull shooting, at the left side of the head, outward. [Ng.]
- Several dull stitches on the left parietal bone, when bending the trunk to the right side, with boring before the left ear. [Ng.]
- Twitching stitches in the right side of the occiput and deep in the forehead. [Ng.]
- Boring in the left side of the head, in the evening. [Ng.]
- Throbbing and beating in the left side of the head, with sensation of heat and heaviness in the forehead. [Ng.]
75. Throbbing and heaviness in the occiput, in the morning, after rising (during the menses). [Ng.]
- Throbbing in the occiput and then in the whole head, during and after rising from a stooping position. [Ng.]
- Painful ebullition in the head, with pressure in the occiput, going off in the open air, returning in the room. [Ng.]
- Buzzing in the side of the head, on which he was lying, as from the seething of water, in the morning, in bed, not painful. [Ng.]
- Griping and raging in the temples, in the evening, after lying down, as if vertigo and loss of consciousness were coming on; relieved by pressing the head together. [Ng.]
80. Sensation of heat and burning, in a small spot behind the right frontal protuberance. [Ng.]
- Increased warmth in the whole head. [Ng.]
- Sensation of heat in the forehead, above the left eye, with throbbing in the whole head and dimness of vision (1st d.). [Ng.]
- Flying heat in the head, frequently. [Ng.]
- Heat and ebullition in the head, with heat and perspiration of the whole body, in the afternoon and evening (during the menses). [Ng.]
85. Heat in the head, after dinner, seemingly from the stomach, better in the open air. [Ng.]
- Heat in the head, with redness of the face, without external warmth, but with internal shivering and tenesmus. [Htb. u. Tr.]
- Constant sensation of heat in the head, mouth and throat, with hot breath, with coryza for eight days. [Ng.]
- By wrapping up the head, the headache is relieved. [Ng.]
- Sensation of numbness of the forehead.
90. Sore pain of the crown, per se, and when touched. [Ng.]
- External great painfulness of the head, when touched and when stooping (aft. 15 d.).
- External drawing, here and there on the head, also into the ears, the teeth and half the face, making the head confused; the pains are diminished after sneezing.
- A great lump on the occiput, especially painful when touched, with tearing all around. [Ng.]
- In the eyes and the canthi, pressive pain. [Jhr.]
95. Pressure in the eyes as from dust, with dimness of vision. [Ng.]

- Pressure in the eyes, especially in the left eye, as from a grain of sand, only transiently passing off by rubbing. [Ng.]
- Bruised pain, in the lower border of the orbit. [Ng.]
- Shooting in the right inner canthus, so that it pressed out tears. [Ng.]
- Constant shooting and burning in the eyes. [Ng.]
100. Itching in the left upper eyelid. [Ng.]
- Itching in the eyes. [Sr.]
- Itching in the inner corner of the right eye, passing off by rubbing, but soon after appearing in the left eye. [Sr.]
- Burning in the eyes and great sensitiveness, so that she cannot open them, or at least must close them right away again. [Ng.]
- Burning of both eyes, so that she cannot look into the sun. [Ng.]
105. Severe burning in the eyes, especially when she looks into bright light. [Ng.]
- Burning and dryness of the eyes, in the evening, on looking into the fire. [Ng.]
- Red blood-vessels in the white of the eye. [Ng.]
- Inflammation of the eyes, with pressure, smarting and burning, chiefly when looking into the bright light, and in the evening they watered; by day they were full of purulent mucus; the lids swollen and red, with nightly suppuration. [Jhr.]
- Agglutination of the eyes, in the morning, with burning on opening them. [Ng.]
110. Agglutination of the eyes, in the morning, so that he cannot open them for a long time. [Ng.]
- Great dryness of the eyelids, especially in the morning and after the noon nap. [Jhr.]
- Twitching in the upper eyelids, which seemed swollen, heavy and half closed. [Jhr.]
- Dim-sightedness, with burning of the eyes. [Ng.]
- Dim-sightedness, with failing of sight when looking at something near; she sees better at a distance.
115. The candle light, in the evening (in inflammation of the eyes), has a green halo around it. [Jhr.]
- In the ear, painless twitching. [Ng.]
- Twitching tearing in the left ear. [Ng.]
- Tearing in and before the right ear. [Ng.]
- Stitches in the left ear. [Ng.]
120. Stitches in the right ear (aft. 27 d.). [Jhr.]
- Keen shooting, frequently, now in the one, then in the other ear. [Ng.]
- Startling stitches and tearing in the left ear, when bending the body to the right. [Ng.]
- Shooting boring in the ears. [Ng.]
- Boring and pulsating throbbing in the right ear. [Ng.]
125. Tickling in the ears, ceasing by boring into them with the finger. [Ng.]
- Agreeable warmth, with tickling in the right ear. [Ng.]
- Severe roaring of the ears (aft. 28 d.).
- Fluttering in the right ear. [Ng.]

Sensation as if the ear was obstructed, only transiently removed by boring into it with the finger, with hardness of hearing (during the menses). [Ng.]

130. Sensation in the ears, as if something lay within them with diminution of the hearing, and burning and humming in the head (aft. 28 d. and repeatedly). [Ng.]

Almost total deafness in both ears, but more on the left, repeatedly intermitting and recurring. [Ng.]

Itching of an old tetter behind the ears, with burning after scratching. [Ng.]

In the top of the nostrils, violent tearing, so that the eyes water. [Ng.]

Burning of both the nasal cavities, as if eroded (11th d.). [Ng.]

135. Internal, sore pain of the nose, per se and when touched (21st, 22d d.). [Ng.]

Redness and swelling of the right ala nasi, and painfulness when touched (13th–15th d.). [Ng.]

Scurf in both nostrils, violently painful when touched, with lack of smell. [Ng.]

Ulcerated nostrils. [Jhr.]

Little vesicles on the nose, tense when touched. [Ng.]

140. Bleeding from the nose, when blowing it (5th d.). [Ng.]

Epistaxis. [Sr.]

Dulled olfaction (aft. 10–18 d.). [Jhr.]

In the bones of the face, severe, cramp-like pain (aft. 17 d.).

Tensive sensation in the face. [Ng.]

145. Tensive pain on the right zygoma. [Jhr.]

Tearing, extending from the left zygoma up to the side of the head. [Ng.]

Tearing in both sides of the lower jaw and in the roots of the teeth, across the face, till before the ear, where it twitched. [Ng.]

Stitch in the right cheek. [Ng.]

Paleness of the face, especially during the menses, with sadness and irritability. [Ng.]

150. Wretched, suffering, ill appearance (aft. 29 d.). [Ng.]

Paleness of the face (1st d.). [Sr.]

Pale, yellowish complexion. [Sr.]

Considerable yellowness of the face, especially of the white of the eye, and about the mouth (aft. sever. h.).

Redness of the face, with increased warmth of the forehead and palms, in the evening. [Ng.]

155. Sensation of heat in the face, without externally sensible warmth, in the afternoon. [Ng.]

Little pimple on the forehead, with itching in the evening, aggravated by rubbing. [Ng.]

A spot, full of yellow eruptive pimples, on the zygoma, with drawing, formication, throbbing pain, covering itself with scurf. [Jhr.]

Pressive sensation, below the left lower jaw, as from glandular swelling. [Ng.]

Inflammatory swelling of the left submaxillary gland. [Sr.]

160. The upper lip feels rough, when touched with the tongue, like a grater, with coryza. [Ng.]
 A vesicle on the border of the red of the lower lip, first itching, then burning. [Jhr.]
 Large, clear vesicles in the red of the upper lip, fensive and burning. [Ng.]
 Little, white pimples on the inside of the upper lip.
 A pimple beside the corner of the mouth. [Ng.]
165. A broad wheal in the skin, between the upper lip and the nose, painless. [Jhr.]
 Cracked lips, especially the upper lip. [Sr.]
 Toothache, with a drawing sensation. [Ng.]
 Twitching in the teeth on the right side, in the evening, with the sensation as if the cheek would swell. [Ng.]
 Tearing pain, repeatedly, in the upper anterior teeth. [Ng.]
170. Tearing in the right eye-tooth, extending to the zygoma, removed by pressure. [Ng.]
 Tearing in a sound molar, during dinner. [Ng.]
 Tearing in a lower molar, ceasing by biting on it. [Ng.]
 Tearing and boring in a hollow molar, with shooting pain on touching the cheek, relieved by open air and cold, aggravated by warm substances. [Ng.]
 Boring in several molars, only briefly relieved by biting on them. [Ng.]
175. Digging in the last molar, as if from a worm, ceasing on pressure; then tearing in a hollow molar. [Ng.]
 Burrowing and digging, frequently intermitting, and at times a tearing pain in the last molar but one, relieved by warmth; aggravated by cold, as well as by biting on it and when food gets to it, in the morning and after dinner. [Ng.]
 Throbbing in the root of a tooth. [Ng.]
The upper incisors feel too long and are very sensitive (4th d.). [Ng.]
 The upper gums are swollen and painful, especially while eating, with throbbing in them. [Ng.]
180. Painful swelling of the lower gums and the cheek. [Ng.]
 Bleeding of the gum (6th d.). [Ng.]
 Bleeding of the gums (aft. 6 h.). [Jhr.]
 The mouth feels, as it were, burned inside and numb (during the menses), in the morning. [Ng.]
 In the tongue frequently a violent needle-prick and then burning, during coryza. [Ng.]
185. Burning on the tongue, in the morning and afternoon. [Ng.]
 The tongue feels burnt, during coryza. [Ng.]
 Rhagades on the tongue, with violent burning pain. [Ng.]
 White-coated tongue, in the morning.
 Dryness in the mouth and throat, without thirst, in the morning. [Ng.]
190. Great dryness in the mouth, with sensation as if the mouth and tongue were covered with mucus. [Jhr.]
 Much mucus in the mouth and on the teeth, with slimy taste (aft. 19 d.). [Jhr.]

- Mucus in the mouth and on the tongue, almost every morning. [Ng.]
 Gathering of water in the mouth, before and during its dryness. [Jhr.]
 Collection of water in the mouth, so that she could not spit out enough. [Ng.]
195. Hot (air) comes from the mouth.
 Dryness in the throat, so that she cannot eat any bread.
 Dry and rough in the throat, with hoarse voice, so that she can hardly speak (soon). [Ng.]
 Sore throat, as if raw and eroded at the entrance of the pharynx, with the shooting extending to the ears, when coughing and when swallowing saliva; worse in the evening. [Jhr.]
 Shooting sore throat in the upper part of the fauces, while breathing and talking, in the evening and at night. [Jhr.]
200. Shooting in the palate, like needle-pricks. [Ng.]
 Shooting in the left side of the throat, worse when swallowing. [Ng.]
 Sore pain in the throat, worse on deglutition; during coryza. [Ng.]
 Hawking of mucus, in the morning, several mornings in succession; the mucus is tenacious. [Sr.]
 Frequent hawking up of sour mucus, which accumulates in the throat. [Ng.]
205. Hawking of thick tough mucus, forming threads, in the morning on rising. [Ng.]
 Much tough mucus comes in her throat, which she can only clear out with difficulty, in the morning. [Ng.]
 Mucus in the throat, which on hawking up looked bloody. [Ng.]
 Constant waterish taste in the mouth, with much spitting of water. [Ng.]
 Pappy taste in the mouth, in the morning (7th d.). [Ng.]
210. Salty taste and collection of salty saliva. [Ng.]
 Bitter taste, posteriorly on the palate. [Jhr.]
 Bitterness in the mouth, in the morning. [Ng.]
 Bitter taste, when beginning to eat, in the morning, disappearing as he continues eating. [Ng.]
 Sourish taste in the throat, in the afternoon (7th d.). [Ng.]
215. Sour or slimy taste, after eating several things.
 Putrid taste in the mouth, with coated tongue, in the morning. [Ng.]
 No hunger, in the evening (16th d.). [Ng.]
 No appetite the whole day, only in the evening she eat with relish. [Ng.]
 Increased hunger (3d d.). [Ng.]
220. Rabid hunger and fearful sensation of hunger in the stomach, then severe nausea.
 Hunger, without knowing for what, not for the usual food. [Ng.]
 Appetite at noon, but she is at once sated. [Ng.]

- Inclination to tidbits; he sees a piece of cake and at once furtively breaks off a piece to eat. [Sr.]
- Thirst at 3 A. M., with dryness in the mouth and throat (6th d.). [Ng.]
225. Thirst in the forenoon (aft. 17, 27 d.). [Ng.]
- Thirst after dinner. [Ng.]
- Thirst in the evening. [Ng.]
- Thirst before and after midnight (aft. 16 d.).
- Violent thirst, day and night, with coryza. [Ng.]
230. After dinner, much acidity in the stomach.
- After meals, inflation of the abdomen.
- After dinner, somnolence, and when going to sleep, twitching of the whole body.
- Eruclation of air after dinner. [Ng.]
- Frequent empty eruclation, in the afternoon (4th d.). [Ng.]
235. Empty eruclation and then a stitch above the xiphoid cartilage. [Ng.]
- Eruclation of white foam.
- Eruclation, with taste of onion (after a spasm). [Ng.]
- Frequent eruclation, with the taste of the ingesta. [Ng.]
- Eruclation, with regurgitation of the food after meals, while walking. [Sr.]
240. Sour regurgitation of the ingesta, and especially of the milk (drunk in the afternoon), after meals, chiefly while walking. [Jhr.]
- Bitter-sour eruclation (aft. 5 d.).
- Violent hiccup, during dinner, so that the stomach pained him. [Ng.]
- Severe hiccup, after dinner. [Ng.]
- Frequent nausea.
245. Frequent nausea, after rising.
- Nausea like fainting, very brief, indeed, but very frequent, while sitting, lying, standing and walking, by day and by night (aft. 3 d.).
- Nausea like fainting, then coldness and weakness in the stomach, with regurgitation of water, in the morning. [Ng.]
- Frequent nausea, with collection of water in the mouth.
- Nausea, with rising of water from the stomach. [Ng.]
250. Loathing in the stomach, with collection of water in the mouth, from morning till noon. [Ng.]
- Inclination to vomit, the whole forenoon (1st d.). [Ng.]
- Inclination to vomit, with eruclation of sourish water in the morning, after rising. [Ng.]
- Acute sensation in the stomach of fasting, in the morning. [Ng.]
- Great qualmishness in the stomach, with rumbling and rolling in the abdomen, ceasing after breakfast. [Sr.]
255. Pain and shaking in the gastric region, when treading and walking, even when talking, so that she had to cease. [Ng.]
- Frequent pressure in the stomach, extending into the throat and back (1st d.). [Ng.]
- Pressure in the stomach, extending into the chest and throat

- as from flatulence, always only transiently relieved by eructation.
[Jhr.]
Violent pressure in the stomach, with nausea.
Pressure in the stomach, removed by eructation. [Ng.]
260. Tension in the gastric region, with ulcerative pain, especially when touched, and in the evening after lying down. [Ng.]
Pain in the stomach, as if it was being cut up, it wakes her at 1 A. M., the pain, when the body is stretched, passes over the whole abdomen and groin, with heat in the head, arising in the throat as of a ball, with interception of the breath even to suffocation, and tossing in the bed and on the floor for two hours; finally the whole is alleviated by eructation; during the pains she had to double up, and could bear no covering. [Ng.]
Ulcerative pain in the stomach, not alleviated by any change of position, in the afternoon. [Ng.]
Bruised pain in the stomach, with sensitiveness of the gastric region, when pressed upon. [Ng.]
Bruised pain in the stomach, when bending forward; when rising up, tension. [Ng.]
265. Frequent lancinating pain, in the left side of the stomach. [Ng.]
Stitches, transversely over the gastric region.
Cutting pain on the right side of the stomach, which pains also when pressed upon. [Ng.]
Heat in the stomach (soon). [Ng.]
Moving of flatus in the gastric region, then in the hypogastrium, relieved by discharge of flatus. [Ng.]
270. Clucking in the scrobiculus cordis, ceasing after rubbing and pressing. [Ng.]
Throbbing in the pit of the stomach, with dullness in the head. [Ng.]
In the right hypochondrium burning and tensive shooting, relieved by pressure. [Ng.]
Dull stitch on the lower ribs, in the evening. [Ng.]
Stitch on the lowest right rib, close to the back (aft. 4 h.). [Ng.]
275. Shooting, like needle-pricks, between the ribs on the right side. [Sr.]
Sharp drawing in the hepatic region.
Shooting in the left hypochondriac region. [Ng.]
Violent shooting pain in the left hypochondrium, like splenic stitches, in the afternoon, when walking; worse when taking breath; it ceases in sitting (during the menses). [Ng.]
Bellyaches at 4 P. M., two days successively. [Sr.]
280. Violent pain in the abdomen, in the morning, with urging to stool, which was lumpy and very hard, with burning in the anus (11th d.). [Ng.]
Pain in the hypogastrium, in the afternoon, with straining toward the rectum, and soon afterward, a soft stool, enveloped with white mucus. [Ng.]
Pressive sensation, entirely in the hypogastrium; (during the menses. [Ng.]

Pressure in the left side of the abdomen.

Drawing pain in the abdomen, at night and by day, at every movement, even the slightest, as if something was being detached (aft. 2 d.).

285. Drawing and tearing in the abdomen, at night on awaking.

[Sr.]

Tearing in the abdomen, in the evening, till going to sleep.

[Sr.]

Tearing in the abdomen, the whole forenoon (2d d.). [Sr.]

Contractive pain in the umbilical region (aft. 17 d.)

Cramps in the abdomen, with violent pressure on the rectum and the sexual parts, with peevish dejection (aft. 9 d.).

290. Cramps and tearing in the abdomen, several evenings in succession, till the person goes to sleep. [Sr.]

Spasmodic drawing and tearing in the abdomen, from below up to the right side of the chest, where there is a spasmodic, gripping constriction, with oppression of the breath for five hours; aggravated by eating cherries, relieved by pressing on the part with the hands, in the evening. [Sr.]

Cramps in the abdomen, in the evening, two days successively. [Sr.]

Fullness of the abdomen, after eating.

Abdomen very much distended.

295. Abdomen distended; relieved by discharge of flatus. [Ng.]

Violent distention of the abdomen, extending into the throat, with interception of the breathing and with anguish, from the afternoon till evening. [Ng.]

Hardness of the abdomen, with painfulness when touched, and disagreeable forcing toward the rectum.

Pinching, first in the epigastrium, relieved by discharge of flatus, then hurried tenesmus, merely followed, however, by flatus. [Ng.]

Pinching in the abdomen, as if for the menses. [Ng.]

300. Severe pinching about the navel, extending to the stomach, after a meal; relieved by discharge of flatus. [Ng.]

Pinching and cutting below the navel, with shivers over the back, then heat in the head and urging to stool at noon. [Ng.]

Pinching and tearing in the abdomen, also after the stool. [Sr.]

Pinching about the navel and forcing down toward the sacrum, then sudden urging to stool, and a soft, yellow stool, with a piece of a tape-worm. [Ng.]

Pinching in the abdomen, in the morning, after rising; then diarrhœa, with burning in the anus at the time and afterward; then again diarrhœa, mixed with blood. [Ng.]

305. Cutting in the epigastrium, as after a laxative, extending into the sacrum, in the morning (3d d.). [Ng.]

Cutting in a small spot of the left epigastrium, in the morning. [Ng.]

Cutting and pinching in the epigastrium, with a sensation as if something hard lay upon the stomach. [Ng.]

Cutting in the abdomen, below the navel, in frequent fits. [Ng.]

- A startling cutting is suddenly felt in the epigastrium, so that she had to sit bent double. [Ng.]
310. Cutting in the hypogastrium, in the morning in bed, with urging to stool, relieved by discharge of flatus. [Ng.]
 Cutting in the abdomen, after breakfast, with frequent discharge of flatus, then at first, ineffectual urging to stool, then a soft stool, with cessation of the pain. [Ng.]
 Cutting in the whole abdomen, almost all day (5th and 10th d.). [Ng.]
 Burrowing in the abdomen, with sensation as if diarrhœa was coming. [Ng.]
 Sensation of weakness in the abdomen (aft. 12 h.).
315. Sensation of looseness and burrowing in the abdomen, as if the intestines had no support. [Ng.]
 Sensation of heat in the integuments of the abdomen, with burning in the anus, and sensitiveness in the rectum after the stool. [Ng.]
 Frequent shooting in the left lumbar region. [Ng.]
 In the right groin, a stitch, then a bruised pain, increased by pressure. [Ng.]
 Shooting pain in the left groin, with hardness and inflation of the abdomen.
320. Accumulation of flatus in the abdomen.
 The flatus is not discharged, and distends the abdomen, here and there. [Ng.]
 Constant movement of flatus, in the epigastrium. [Ng.]
Rumbling about in the abdomen, with forcing against the sacrum. [Ng.]
 Movement of the flatus, quite at the bottom of the abdomen. (aft. 10 d.).
325. Fermentation in the abdomen.
 Rumbling and pinching in the whole of the abdomen, then soft stool. [Ng.]
 Muttering in the abdomen, before meals (1st d.). [Sr.]
 Constant generation of flatus. [Ng.]
 Frequent discharge of flatus. [Ng.]
330. No stool for 24, 48 hours. [Ng.]
 No stool for 64 hours, then an easy stool, but needle-pricking in the rectum. [Ng.]
No stool for several days (with various provers). [Ng.]
 Hard stool, evacuated with difficulty (1st d.). [Ng.]
 Hard stool, with erosive pains in the anus (2d d.). [Ng.]
335. Hard, knotty stool, with pain in the rectum at the evacuation. [Ng.]
 Very hard, knotty stool, followed by a softer stool covered with yellow mucus (4th d.). [Ng.]
 Scanty, knotty stool, like sheep's dung (5th d.). [Ng.]
Hard stool, as if composed of sheep's dung.
 Stool discharged with difficulty, in small pieces like sheep's dung (aft. 6 d.). [Jhr.]
340. She has to go to stool in great haste, it was lumpy and, as it were, burned, with shooting pain in the rectum, and then burning in the anus. [Ng.]

Hard, knotty stool, enveloped with thick mucus. [Ng.]

The hard stool is encircled with streaks of blood (25th d.). [Ng.]

Stool for many days consists first of hard lumps, and some time after it comes soft or thin.

Stool, at first scanty and of large size, then again call to a stool which is soft; then she feels sick, first with lassitude in the abdomen and thence in the whole body; she has often to lie down.

345. Two stools, harder than usual, and the first time more straining. [Sr.]

On one day, four stools within an hour, the first solid, the other diarrhœic, with aching of the anus and cutting pain in the abdomen, continuing till next stool.

After the stool, which at first is solid then soft, burning in the anus and violent shooting, externally in both sides of the epigastrium, with contractive pain in the stomach, extending into the back. [Ng.]

After the soft stool, excoriation in the rectum. [Ng.]

Soft stool, followed by tenesmus and burning in the anus. [Ng.]

350. Soft stool, a second time, with shivering all over the body, and then burning in the anus and sensitiveness in the rectum. [Ng.]

Soft stool with colic, in the morning, after great anxiety and vertigo.

Although she has to hasten to stool, she has to strain violently before expelling some soft fæces, followed by a brief shudder. [Ng.]

Constant urging on the rectum, without any evacuation; it feels as if the fæces continually went back again; attended with shuddering. [Ng.]

Urging to stool, the whole day, but only flatus is discharged. [Jhr.]

355. Urging to stool, but only very burning flatus is discharged. [Ng.]

Frequent urging to stool, but only a little thin and slippery stool is passed (aft. 17 d.).

Much and severe urging to stool, with pain in the abdomen, almost the whole day. [Jhr.]

Frequent urging, with scanty discharge of stool.

Violent urging to stool, which was liquid, at noon. [Ng.]

360. Diarrhœic stool, three times in succession, with colic in the whole of the abdomen (7th d.). [Ng.]

Violent, irresistible urging to stool; with strong urging, first a soft, then a thin stool are discharged, a small quantity at a time, with shuddering and colic. [Ng.]

Liquid stool, which squirted out forcibly, then tenesmus and burning in the anus, and constant urging, followed by scanty, thin stool (2d d.). [Ng.]

Several diarrhœic stools daily, with scanty discharge of thinly liquid, brown fæces (aft. 16, 17 d.). [Jhr.]

Several greenish, pappy, diarrhœic stools (aft. 18, 19 d.). [Jhr.]

365. Several diarrhœic stools, with discharge of mucus and blood, and tenesmus in the anus. [Ng.]

With the sensation as if flatus would come, frequently soft fæces are passed. [Jhr.]

Discharge of a piece of a tape-worm, with the soft stool (aft. 6 d.). [Ng.]

Before the soft, yellow stool, colic. [Ng.]

During and after the stool, burning and excoriation in the anus. [Jhr.]

370. With a normal stool, not too hard, the varices of the anus were painful.

After the stool, nausea and accumulation of water in the mouth.

After the soft stool, loud rumbling and clucking in the belly, at every breath (aft. 20 h.).

After the stool, drawing pains in the loins. [Jhr.]

After a normal stool, pain in the abdomen and itching of the anus.

375. After the stool, severe pain in the abdomen, at every movement.

After a stool, again a call to it.

After the diarrhœic stool, renewed urging in the rectum, as it more was coming, but only mucus is discharged. [Jhr.]

After the (ordinary) stool, burning in the anus. [Ng.]

In the rectum, shooting (aft. sever. h.).

380. Piercing stitch in the rectum, extending into the abdomen.

Burning deep in the rectum. [Ng.]

The rectum protrudes during the diarrhœa. [Ng.]

Shooting in the perinæum.

The urine is only discharged by the pressure of the abdominal muscles.

385. Urging to urination, with scanty emission and with burning in the urethra (aft. 2 d.). [Ng.]

Frequent urging to micturition, with little discharge of urine.

Urging to micturition by day (4th d.). [Sr.]

Frequent micturition by day, always in small quantities.

[Htb.]

At night, he is waked up by an urging to urinate, which he suppresses. [Sr.]

390. She had to get up five times in the night to urinate, and emitted but little urine. [Ng.]

In urinating, he does not feel the urine in the urethra.

Sensation as if he could not retain the urine.

Involuntary urination while walking, and when he stood still to emit urine, none was emitted.

The urine is discharged rarely and in small quantities (3d d.).

[Ng.]

395. The urine is only emitted by drops, and some of it always remains behind.
 Frequent urination, with burning in the urethra, and frequently with stiffness of the penis (aft. 10 d.). [Ng.]
 Pale-yellow urine, and then burning in the urethra. [Ng.]
 Urine almost non-transparent, as if mixed with yeast, and depositing a cloud. [Ng.]
 Inordinate itching around the genitals, and on the scrotum, extending to the anus; in the evening and night, profuse sweating of the scrotum and a pollution (1st d.).
400. Erection, in the morning, in bed (5th d.). [Ng.]
 Erection, in the morning in bed, with burning in the penis. [Ng.]
 Stitches in the mons veneris, in the evening. [Sr.]
 Itching on the glans, in the evening, when going to bed. [Sr.]
 Itching on the scrotum and on the lower part of the penis, he had to rub much, when it became assuaged. [Sr.]
405. Erections, in the morning, with inclination to coitus. [Sr.]
 Erections, in the morning, without lasciviousness or voluptuous thoughts; only on the third day, inclination to coitus. [Sr.]
 After coitus in the evening, a burning pain in the back, in the morning, waking him from sleep, it becomes more violent during rest, is diminished during motion, and ceases after rising.
 After a violent erection and omission of coitus, there arose, after rising, on moving, and on touching the testicles, a dull, distressing pain in the testes, as well as in the spermatic cord and the sacrum, lasting all day long.
 The testes hang down relaxed (the first 8 d.).
410. Frequent pollutions, also two days in succession (the last days). [Jhr.]
 The menses are late by four days, and somewhat shorter than usual, with violent pains in the sacrum. [Ng.]
 Menses late by eleven days, first watery, then with more color, with straining in the groins and frequent yawning. [Ng.]
 Discharge of blood, about five days before the menses.
 Menses two days earlier; they last two days longer and are more profuse than usual. [Ng.]
415. The menses appear again, in a woman of fifty years, and with whom they had been suppressed for seven months, with some pain in the sacrum. [Ng.]
 During the menses, discharge of blood in black clots, more while sitting than when walking. [Ng.]
 Menses, stronger than usual, but without pain, and five days early. [Ng.]
 The menses are weak for the first three days, but more profuse and constant on the fourth and fifth days. [Ng.]
 The day before the menses appear, she is very much excited (14th d.).
420. During the menses, amazingly languid for the first two days, even to swooning, the lower limbs are powerless and she is long before she gets to sleep in the evening.
 During the menses (which flow longer and stronger) pain in the sacrum and in the thighs; the sacrum being most painful while walking, the thighs when sitting. [Ng.]

During the menses, constant yawning. [Ng.]

Leucorrhœa, in the morning, after urinating. [Ng.]

Profuse leucorrhœa, for eight days, almost uninterrupted.

[Ng.]

425. Leucorrhœa, flowing immediately after the stool (aft. 23 d.).

Leucorrhœa, flowing after abdominal spasms.

Much leucorrhœa, especially on moving the body.

Watery leucorrhœa. [Ng.]

Thick leucorrhœa, immediately followed by a flow of blood, fourteen days before the menstrual period, and three days before the full moon (aft. 9 d.). [Ng.]

* * * * *

430. Tickling in the nose, with lachrymation of the eyes (8th d.).

[Ng.]

Tickling in the nose, with sneezing and sensation of coryza (aft. 17 d.). [Ng.]

Frequent sneezing, with running of water from the nose (aft.

2, 3 d.). [Ng.]

Pressive sensation of stoppage of the nose. [Ng.]

Stoppage of the nose, in the morning. [Jhr.]

435. Stoppage of the left nostril (aft. 16 d.). [Jhr.]

Coryza, with stoppage of the nose and coryza-speech. [Ng.]

Stoppage of the nose, so that she has to blow her nose loudly.

[Ng.]

Stoppage of the nose, in the evening. [Sr.]

Much flow of nasal mucus, almost like coryza.

440. Expulsion of much mucus from the nose, without coryza.

Sensation as from an attack of coryza, with increased secretion of mucus in the nose. [Ng.]

Violent coryza, with hoarseness and sensation of stoppage of the nose, from which runs much water for several days (aft. 23 d.).

[Ng.]

Violent coryza, now stopped, then again fluent, with a numbed sensation in the head, and total loss of the smell and taste, for two days (aft. 40 d.). [Jhr.]

Violent fluent coryza (aft. 22 d.). [Ng.]

445. Coryza, with diminution of taste and smell, and yellow nasal mucus. [Ng.]

Flow of disagreeably smelling, purulent, yellow, nasal mucus (aft. 5 d.). [Ng.]

The mucus of the coryza is mixed with little particles of blood. [Jhr.]

During the coryza, she has to sit up in bed in the evening, cannot lie down and go to sleep, and has to open the mouth to get air. [Ng.]

Hoarseness daily, in the morning after rising. [Ng.]

450. Hoarseness, with sensation of excoriation in the throat and chest. [Ng.]

Severe sudden hoarseness, with dry cough and pressure on the chest, in rough weather. [Ng.]

- Rough and dry in the larynx. [Ng.]
 Heat and dryness in the throat (4th d.). [Ng.]
 Cough, with some expectoration (aft. 15 d.). [Ng.]
455. Cough, caused by fornication in the windpipe, with expectoration of mucus.
 Dry cough, mostly only in the evening and night (aft. 10 d.). [Ng.]
 At night, she frequently wakes up to a dry cough, for which she has to raise herself up (aft. 11 d.). [Ng.]
 Short impulses of cough, with dull pressive pain in the chest (aft. 17, 18 d.). [Jhr.]
 Dry cough, with pain on the pharynx. [Jhr.]
460. Cough, from fornication in the pit of the throat, with expectoration of tenacious mucus, of fatty taste.
 Deep, rough, fatiguing cough, with rough speech, wheezing in the windpipe and slight expectoration of salty sweetish mucus, from the chest; also at night even to retching. [Jhr.]
 Cough, with expectoration of grey, salty mucus, excited by scratching in the throat or itching in the chest. [Jhr.]
 Bloody expectoration caused by sea-bathing.
 During cough, ulcerative pain in the chest, in the evening and night. [Ng.]
465. During coughing, severe sore pain in the chest, so that she is afraid to cough, although she is relieved by it. [Ng.]
 During coughing, violent burning in the chest. [Jhr.]
 In the open air, her chest feels worse; every breath excites coughing (aft. 12 d.). [Ng.]
 Lack of breath, in ascending a mountain (aft. 20 d.). [Ng.]
 Oppression of breathing, more after dinner than in the forenoon (2d d.). [Sr.]
470. Contraction of the chest, with oppression of the breath and dull shooting into the right side of the chest near the nipple, after supper. [Sr.]
 Tensive pain of the chest, most distressing when taking a deep breath, for several days, with oppression of breathing. [Sr.]
 Rush of blood to the chest from a sea-bath.
 Sensation of rush of blood to the chest, when walking in the open air. [Ng.]
 Sudden heaviness of the chest, at dinner, with interception of the breath, nausea, collection of water in the mouth, heat of the face, spasmodic pressure upward below the tongue, with inclination to eructation; she had to open her dress and go out into the open air; the paroxysm lasted for a quarter of an hour and ended in a shaking chill (6th d.). [Ng.]
475. Severe pressive pain in the chest.
 Constrictive pain of the chest and of the scapulæ.
 Dull stitches below the right breast, irrespective of respiration (aft. 6 d.). [Ng.]
 Shooting, deep in the right side of the chest as from a pointed body (aft. 3 h.). [Ng.]
 Shooting, deep in the left side of the chest, unconnected, with respiration (1st and 12th d.). [Ng.]

480. Shooting internally into the left side of the chest, when pressing on it, a sore pain. [Sr.]
 Severe burning and throbbing in the chest, now here, now there. [Ng.]
 Stitches in her heart, intercepting the breath (aft. 12 d.).
 Palpitation, while sitting, for three days (aft. 12 d.).
 Palpitation, while sitting and when rising from the seat; it ceases on moving. [Ng.]
485. Palpitation (at once). [Sr.]
 Oppression of the heart (at once). [Sr.]
 Severe palpitation, with pulsation in all the arteries. [Jhr.]
 Dull pressive pain, externally on the xiphoid cartilage.
 Fine shooting, externally, on the upper left part of the chest. [Ng.]
490. Pressing upward, from the left clavicle into a lower molar, the crown of which tingles. [Ng.]
 Tension across the chest, starting from the right axilla. [Ng.]
 Pains in the sacrum.
 When quickly turning the body, there arises suddenly a dull pain in the sacrum, which during the day shows itself more while sitting and lying down (1st d.).
 Bruised pain, across the sacrum and both the hips, with sensitiveness of the parts to the touch, for several days. [Ng.]
495. Pain in the sacrum, as from excoriation and a bruise (aft. 9 d.). [Ng.]
 Pain in the sacrum, as if broken in two, when bending and when stretching (5th d.). [Ng.]
 Contractive spasmodic pain in the sacrum.
 Cutting pressure in the sacral region. [Ng.]
 Tearing and burning in the sacrum and the hips, in the afternoon and night (4th d.). [Ng.]
500. Dull shooting tearing in the sacral region, removed by pressure. [Ng.]
 Gnawing pain in the sacrum and the whole of the back, in the evening after lying down, seemingly in the marrow, extending to the neck, so that she cannot sleep for pain, and has to toss about continually (aft. 5 d.). [Ng.]
 Paralytic sensation in the sacrum, in the evening.
 In the back, a severe bruised pain (during the menses). [Ng.]
 Severe bruised pain in the whole spinal column, at night. [Ng.]
505. Pain, as if bruised, in the whole spinal column, in the morning on awaking, while lying on the back (3d d.). [Ng.]
 Bruised pain and burning between the shoulders. [Ng.]
 Burning and still more, shooting in the whole of the back, seemingly in the marrow; then boring shooting between the shoulders; relieved by moving. [Ng.]
 Severe burning pain, and constant itching on the back.
 A stitch into the right ilium, toward the sacrum. [Ng.]
510. Tension between the shoulders and down the back. [Ng.]

Tearing pain between the shoulders. [Ng.]

Severe tearing in both the scapulæ. [Ng.]

Tearing, first in the right scapula, then in the hip. [Ng.]

Pressive pain on the right scapula, extending above the top of the shoulder, extending to the clavicle; worse when moving the arm or the head; easier when pressing on it. [Ng.]

515. Tearing, in the nape and on the top of the right shoulder, extending down the outside of the arm. [Ng.]

Tensive drawing pain in the tendons (muscles) of the right side of the neck. [Ng.]

Small glandular swellings on the left side of the neck, tense when moving and painful when pressed upon. [Ng.]

The shoulder-joint pains, so that she cannot bring her arm to her face for pain (aft. 16 d.).

Pain in the left shoulder-joint, as if broken in two.

520. Violent pain in the left shoulder-joint, almost like heaviness; she did not dare to move her arm, although this stopped the pain; for a long time the spot remained sensitive, even without being touched (1st d.). [Ng.]

Pressure on the top of the left shoulder (aft. 7 d.).

Sensation as of a wedge in the left shoulder, so that she imagined she could not move her arm; but she felt nothing when she moved it. [Ng.]

Dull drawing pain in the top of the left shoulder.

Drawing and tearing in the left shoulder-joint, most distressing when moved. [Sr.]

525. Drawing, shooting pains in the left shoulder-joint, and alternately in the right, most distressing when raising the arm. [Sr.]

Tearing in the top of the right shoulder (after 19 d.). [Ng.]

Tearing in the top of the left shoulder (aft. 6 d.). [Ng.]

Tearing in the right shoulder-joint, extending to the scapula, on pressing the arm downward. [Ng.]

Tearing from the top of the right shoulder into the finger-tips, so violent that she cannot raise her arm, relieved by letting it hang down. [Ng.]

530. Shooting and burning on the left shoulder, extending to the hip. [Ng.]

Throbbing pain, in the top of the right shoulder (aft. 33 d.). [Ng.]

Subsultus or twitching of the biceps muscles of both arms, as if from something alive in them. [Ng.]

Tearing, on the outer surface of the right arm, with sensation of going to sleep even reaching the fingers, in the morning, when lying on the left side; ceases from rubbing (aft. 5 d.). [Ng.]

Tearing, down the arm, from the top of the right shoulder down into the palm. [Ng.]

535. Burning on the arm, down into the fingers, starting from the top of the shoulder and extending into the scapulæ (1st d.).

[Ng.]

The arms are asleep, in the morning in bed, when lying on the left side (13th d.). [Ng.]

The right arm goes to sleep, while he is lying on the left side, almost every night, especially toward morning (aft. 14 d.). [Ng.]

The right arm and especially the fingers go to sleep, in the evening on lying down. [Ng.]

In the upper arm of the left side, bruised pain, and a stitch in the elbow-joint, with a sensation as if the arm was dislocated, in the evening after lying down (5th d.). [Ng.]

540. Tearing in the upper arm, seemingly in the marrow. [Ng.]

Tearing on the outer side of the right upper arm, in the muscles. [Ng.]

In the right elbow-joint, violent tearing. [Ng.]

In the left fore-arm, flying tearing pains meander extremely painfully between the skin and the flesh. [Ng.]

Tearing about the right fore-arm, in a small streak, near the wrist, only briefly passing away by pressing on it. [Ng.]

545. Tearing on the inner surface of the left fore-arm, extending into the thumb (3d d.). [Ng.]

Violent tearing behind the left wrist-joint, and toward the index (3d d.). [Ng.]

Both the fore-arms go to sleep, in the morning after rising (2d d.). [Ng.]

Burning pain and constant itching, on the fore-arms.

A red, burning painful spot behind the styloid process of the ulna. [Ng.]

550. Exostosis on the right wrist-joint.

In the right hand, a drawing pain.

Violent tearing in the metacarpal bone of the left ring-finger.

[Ng.]

Tearing in the right hand (7th d.). [Ng.]

Tearing and shooting in the ball of the left hand, in the evening in bed. [Ng.]

555. Tearing in the right thumb. [Ng.]

Tearing in the right middle finger and ring-finger. [Ng.]

Cramplike pain in the left index. [Ng.]

Shooting pain as from many needles, in the tip of the right middle and ring-fingers. [Ng.]

Tearing in the distal extremity of the left index, ceasing by pressing on it. [Ng.]

560. Twitching tearing in the left index and middle finger, extending from the middle joint into the tip and nail. [Ng.]

Pricking in the finger-tips as with needles, ceasing by rubbing. [Ng.]

Burning stinging formication in the tips of the fingers.

Numbness and insensibility of the finger-tips, ceasing by rubbing them. [Ng.]

Both the tips are very sensitive to the touch, for a long time.

[Ng.]

565. Tearing pain in the right hip, extending to the knee. [Ng.]

Tearing in the right hip, in the evening after lying down, so that she does not know for pain how to lie; but she feels best by lying on the good side. [Ng.]

- Tearing in the right hip-joint, which after pressing and rubbing moves further down, in the evening in bed. [Ng.]
- Tearing in the right hip and soon afterwards in the left thigh, especially about the knee, seemingly in the marrow of the bones, in the evening in bed. [Ng.]
- Violent twitching tearing, posteriorly in the hip-joints, making him scream, frequently intermitting, in the evening in bed. [Ng.]
570. Tearing and pain as from a bruise in the right hip, aggravated by walking, in the morning. [Ng.]
- Throbbing in the left hip. [Ng.]
- Burning, posteriorly on the right hip. [Ng.]
- Bruised pain on the nates, per se and when touched, day and night (aft. 33 d.). [Ng.]
- Tearing in the nates, while walking, less when sitting. [Ng.]
575. Severe quivering in the right natis. [Ng.]
- Itching burning in the bend of the left thigh. [Ng.]
- Itching in the bend of the thigh. [Sr.]
- The shaft-bones of the lower limbs pain violently, when walking (aft. 15 d.).
- Bruised pain in the left thigh as if it would break off, in the evening (6th d.). [Ng.]
580. Straining in the lower limbs, the muscles feel too short, this disappears on continued walking.
- Muscular pain in the thighs, as after riding on horseback. [Sr.]
- Violent pain in the middle of the thighs, in the morning in bed (just before the menses) (aft. 11 d.). [Ng.]
- Spasmodic cramp-pain on the inner side of the right thigh, in the morning (3d d.). [Ng.]
- Tensive tearing above the left hough (2d d.). [Ng.]
585. Painful shooting jerks in the thigh, so that he has to draw up the leg.
- Restlessness and turgid straining in the thighs, so that he had often to move his legs, so as to ease himself.
- Violent bruised pain in the middle of the two thighs, in the evening, after lying down, preventing him for a long time from falling asleep. [Ng.]
- Weakness in the thighs, when standing, it goes off when walking.
- Itching on the thighs, with little nodules after scratching. [Ng.]
590. Tearing in the knees.
- Tearing in the knees, now in the right knee, then in the left. [Ng.]
- Violent tearing, deep in the right knee. [Ng.]
- Shooting below the left knee. [Ng.]
- Weakness of the right knee, and a sensation in it as if bandaged.
595. Drawing pain in the leg, down the tibia into the foot.
- Tearing in the left leg (during the menses) (aft. 31 d.). [Ng.]
- Transient, very acute pain on the healed fracture of the tibia, broken twelve year's before, as if it would break again.

- Tension and tearing in the right calf. [Ng.]
 Cramp in the calf, on walking.
600. Cramp in the calves, the whole night, leaving a pain behind in them, so that he cannot walk next day.
 Twitching in both calves, without pain. [Ng.]
 Tearing, extending up the calves, when standing. [Ng.]
 Tearing down in the right calf, extending to the heel, in the evening. [Ng.]
 Paralytic, bruised pain in both the calves and on the dorsum of the foot, in the evening in bed (during the menses). [Ng.]
605. Heaviness of the legs and feet, in the morning in bed.
 In the evening, at an early hour, restlessness in the feet, so that she must keep moving them.
 Tension in the dorsum of the foot when sitting, ceasing on moving. [Ng.]
 Tearing above the dorsum of the left foot, and transversely across behind the toes, when walking. [Ng.]
 Burning on the dorsum of the right foot, as from a drop of a hot liquid. [Ng.]
610. Tearing on the inner side of the dorsum of the right foot, extending into the big toe. [Ng.]
 Dull stitch on the outer border of the right foot, [Ng.]
 Tearing in the outer malleolus of the left foot. [Ng.]
 Cutting in the heel (aft. 5 d.).
 Quivering and twitching in the right heel (3d d.). [Ng.]
615. Pain, as from a thrust, in the left heel.
 Burning of the soles of the feet, in the evening. [Ng.]
 Tearing in the sole of the right foot. [Ng.]
 Violent tearing in the sole of the right foot, in the evening after lying down, causing him to cry out, then tearing above the right knee, and then in the right hip, almost the whole night. [Ng.]
 Formication in the soles of the feet, when sitting.
620. Fornicating shooting in the soles of the feet.
 The right foot and leg go to sleep; it goes off by motion. [Ng.]
 Trembling of the feet when sitting, it goes off on moving. [Ng.]
 Tearing in the big toe, when walking, and then also when sitting. [Ng.]
 Painful tearing in the right big toe. [Ng.]
625. Painful tearing in the right big toe, in the evening in bed (4th d.). [Ng.]
 Tearing in the right little toe. [Ng.]
 Stitch in the ball of the left big toe. [Ng.]
 Sensation as of a drawing inward of the right middle toe, and of the thumb, with pain in them, in the morning on rising and walking. [Ng.]
 Drawing, formication and sensation of heat on the toes of the right foot. [Ng.]
630. Tearing shooting in the corns.

On the body, here and there, burning tension, e. g., on the right ribs, on the left shoulder, etc. [Ng.]

Tearing, here and there, only transient, at night. [Ng.]

Now here, now there, a spasmodic nerve-pain, sometimes boring, sometimes contractive, and especially in the scapulæ and the chest; at the same time a severe nervous headache, beginning in the sinciput, with drawing in the ears; sometimes shooting tearing in the head.

Most of the ailments arise when sitting, and are usually lightened by moving. [Ng.]

635. In the open air she seems to feel better, except her chest troubles. [Ng.]

She could not bear the open air for three days and three nights.

Itching on various parts of the body, now here, now there. [Ng.]

Violent itching on the whole body, here and there, always in another place, in the evening before lying down, and in the morning after rising. [Ng.]

Itching, which goes off by scratching, in various parts of the body, also in the evening before lying down. [Ng.]

640. Itching on the chest, the back, the dorsum of the left foot, and on the sacrum, not going off by scratching. [Ng.]

Itching, which returns after scratching, in the right groin, on the left tibia, and behind on the thigh, where it afterward burns. [Ng.]

Itching in the whole body, as from lice, also in the evening after lying down; after scratching, it always comes out in a new place. [Ng.]

Itching, aggravated by scratching on the outer side of the thigh, on the sacrum and the hips, succeeded by burning. [Ng.]

Running and crawling as of ants, in the face, on the soles of the feet and on the chest, where a violent stitch followed it. [Ng.]

645. Running of ants all over the body, at night in bed, with a shudder over the face, the arms and the shoulders, and out at the feet.

Itching pimples, sometimes burning after scratching, between the shoulders, on the chest and on the back. [Ng.]

Pustules on the temple and on the right clavicle. [Ng.]

Small, itching or red nodules on the chin, between the shoulders, on the thigh, and on the natis, where it burns after scratching. [Ng.]

Furuncle on the fore-arm, on the upper part of the head, on the false ribs, and on the nose, where it suppurates after twenty-four hours. [Ng.]

650. Severe fatigue in the lower limbs, when waking in the open air, so that she had frequently to sit down. [Ng.]

Great weariness in the lower limbs, even when sitting down (during the menses). [Ng.]

Great weariness of the lower limbs, during almost the whole time of proving. [Ng.]

Sudden weariness of the lower limbs, from the afternoon till evening. [Ng.]

When walking, tired at once; when at rest, pain in the hip-joint, as if dislocated. [Ng.]

655. Great lassitude (aft. 3 d.).

Tired, as if bruised, and as if he had not slept enough, in the morning. [Ng.]

Faint feeling, with vertigo, in the morning (aft. 11 d.).

[Ng.]

Languid and tremulous, in hands and feet after dinner.

[Ng.]

Very much prostrated, weary and vexed in the forenoon.

[Ng.]

660. Painfulness of the whole body as if bruised. [Ng.]

Heaviness in various parts, in the thighs, knees, calves, hips, etc.

Heavy in the lower limbs and tired as after a long journey (aft. 7 d.). [Ng.]

Sensation in the whole body, as if everything was too heavy (11th d.). [Ng.]

Weak even to falling down, and as if broken on the wheel in all the limbs, in the forenoon (aft. 28 d.). [Ng.]

665. Trembling in the hands and feet.

Unsteadiness in the feet, in the morning and evening, in starting to walk.

Reeling walk (aft. 28 d.).

He feels very ill (aft. 17 d.).

After bathing for five minutes in the North Sea, she became so weak, as if all her vital spirits had left her, she could hardly speak for weakness (aft. sever. h.).

670. Great sensitiveness; her head even pains from merely hearing others speak, from speaking herself, and from every step; at the same time little appetite and diminished taste and smell, in the morning (aft. 28 d.). [Ng.]

Fainting fit at dinner, with anxiety, nausea and paleness of the face; things turn green and red before her eyes, and her whole body trembles; then eructation after which she felt better (27th d.). [Ng.]

Frequent yawning, with lassitude and indisposition to mental work.

Frequent yawning the whole day, worst after dinner. [Sr.]

Yawning, with eructation and water in the mouth. [Ng.]

675. Frequent yawning, with chill and goose-skin and constant tenesmus and cutting in the abdomen, an hour after dinner. [Ng.]

Drowsiness by day.

Very sleepy, lazy and indisposed to work (aft. 25 d.). [Ng.]

In the forenoon, great sleepiness. [Ng.]

In the evening, she soon gets sleepy and sleeps well at first; but after midnight she perspires, with thirst. [Ng.]

680. His sleep is not refreshing; he is tired in the morning (aft. 17 d.).

- She cannot open her eyes, for quite a while in the morning, for sleepiness (aft. 2 d.). [Ng.]
- She is still sleepy in the morning, and it is hard for her to get wide awake, for a long time. [Ng.]
- Late in waking up, with difficulty he tears open his eyes. [Sr.]
- Late in waking up, with yawning, as if he had not done sleeping (the first days). [Sr.]
685. She is very late in falling asleep in the evening (aft. 5 d.). [Ng.]
- She could not fall asleep before 11 P. M. on account of great heat and thirst; after midnight, perspiration. [Ng.]
- In the evening, he cannot easily fall asleep, and tosses about restlessly in his bed; in the morning, he wakes up late, and with difficulty gets his eyes open (the first days). [Sr.]
- He found it difficult to get to sleep, was restless and rolled about in his bed. [Sr.]
- At night, she wakes up at 3 A. M., and cannot get to sleep again.
690. He woke up at 2 A. M. and could not go to sleep for an hour; his restlessness drove him out of his bed and made him walk about in his room; at the same time sourish taste in his mouth. [Sr.]
- Before midnight, anxiety and heat; after midnight, perspiration and thirst. [Ng.]
- In the evening in bed, as soon as she closes her eyes, restlessness in the whole body (aft. 11 d.).
- In the evening in bed, a shaking only in the upper part of the body, almost without chill and heat.
- In the morning in bed, while fully awake, a jerk running from the heel through the whole body, as from an electric shock or fright.
695. Restless sleep, with frequent awaking (aft. 12 d.). [Ng.]
- At night, she could not find rest in any position, and had to keep turning over (aft. 27 d.). [Ng.]
- At night, great restlessness, she keeps rolling about and cannot go to sleep for heat (aft. 14 d.). [Ng.]
- Sleepless night, on account of violent toothache. [Ng.]
- Restless sleep, on account of sensation of heaviness in the abdomen.
700. At 2 A. M., awaking from cutting in the hypogastrium and then lancination, first in the scrobiculus cordis, then in the cardiac region, worse on inspiring. [Ng.]
- Restless, sleepless night, on account of violent pains in the sacrum, which force him to move constantly. [Ng.]
- At night, the hands and feet are asleep, with painfulness.
- Pain in the back and sacrum disturbed his morning sleep, and always recurred when he fell asleep again.
- Frequent awaking, on account of the great heat. [Ng.]
705. Talking in sleep (aft. 8 d.). [Ng.]
- Snoring in sleep (aft. 10 d.). [Ng.]
- Starting up in sleep, before midnight (aft. 9 d.). [Ng.]

- Anxious dream, with heaviness on the chest, like a nightmare; she wanted to cry out, but could not (aft. 2 d.). [Ng.]
- Many vivid dreams, but they cannot be recalled. [Ng.]
710. When going to sleep, all manner of things come before her fancy, frightful dreams of falling down, etc. [Ng.]
- Agreeable dreams, of weddings, dancing, etc. [Ng.]
- Dreams about traveling. [Ng.]
- Disgraceful dreams. [Ng.]
- Many anxious dreams. [Ng.]
715. Dreams about deceased persons. [Ng.]
- Frightful dreams of mortal danger, misfortune, mutilation, robbers, etc. [Ng.]
- Dreams of straying in the woods. [Ng.]
- Dreams of inundation. [Ng.]
- Dreams of fire. [Ng.]
720. Chill, with skaking, even by a warm stove, in the evening. [Ng.]
- Chill, with yawning, in the evening (1st d.). [Ng.]
- Chill, from 4 to 5 P. M., two days in succession (aft. 26 d.). [Ng.]
- Chill, in the evening, going off after lying down; then before midnight, heat; after midnight, sweat, with thirst, till morning (aft. 6 d.). [Ng.]
- Shaking chill, from 6 to 8 P. M., going off in bed (4th d.). [Ng.]
725. Chill, at 9 P. M., after lying down, then insomnia (10th d.). [Ng.]
- Chill, in the evening at eight o'clock, with thirst and great dryness of the mouth, for half an hour. [Ng.]
- Chill, repeatedly, alternating with heat (7th d.). [Ng.]
- Frequent shudder in the forenoon (10th d.). [Ng.]
- Shudder in the whole body, with ice-cold feet, in the morning (5th d.). [Ng.]
730. Shudder, in the morning, on rising, so that she had to return repeatedly to her bed (aft. 20 d.). [Ng.]
- Shivering and shaking, at 7 P. M., in coming into the open air; on entering into the room, heat (aft. 6 d.). [Ng.]
- Shivering in the warm room, and constant tenesmus, soon after dinner. [Ng.]
- Shivering over the whole body, with horripilation, several times, in the forenoon. (Ng.)
- Shivering sensation, in the evening, before lying down, after midnight, violent sweat over the whole body, without thirst, till morning (aft. 11 d.). [Ng.]
735. Internal warmth, after breakfasting on warm milk; not sensible externally (1st d.). [Sr.]
- Flying heat with vertigo (aft.  $\frac{1}{4}$  h.). [Sr.]
- Heat in the feet, before midnight; she has to stretch them out from under the cover, which relieved her; after midnight, sweat and thirst, till morning (aft. 14 d.). [Ng.]
- General increase of warmth, with thirst, in the afternoon. [Ng.]

- Internal heat, with thirst, at night. [Ng.]
740. Heat in the evening, and restlessness in the whole body, she has no rest; even for some time after lying down. [Ng.]
 Heat over the whole body, in the evening, soon after lying down, which increases every time on awaking (aft 9 d.). [Ng.]
 Warm and anxious in bed (aft. 27 d.). [Ng.]
 Heat before midnight, after midnight, sweat with thirst, repeated after six days (aft. 28 d.). [Ng.]
 Heat after midnight (aft. 11 d.). [Ng.]
745. Severe heat, with sweat, during dinner, for several days in succession (aft. 11 d.). [Ng.]
 Sweat on the head, at 6 P. M., with increased warmth of the body. [Ng.]
 Sweat, after midnight (aft. 13 d.). [Ng.]
 Sweat, after midnight, and frequent thirst, which also continues in the morning, together with dryness in the mouth (aft. 10 d.). [Ng.]
 Sweat with thirst, almost every morning. [Ng.]

MANGANUM. MANGANESIUM. MANGANESE.<sup>1</sup>

Manganese as it is mined; i. e., the black oxide of Manganese, is triturated in a porcelain mortar with an equal quantity in weight of crystallized pure copperas (sulphate of iron), and then mixed with some syrup of sugar, and the mixture is formed into balls the size of a hen's egg. These are heated between charcoal, and are kept for ten minutes at a white heat. A subsequent solution in pure (distilled or rain) water contains pure sulphate of manganese, while the sediment contains the excess of oxide of manganese, mixed with oxide of iron.

From this solution we precipitate carbonate of manganese, by adding carbonate of soda. This precipitate, when sufficiently washed out with water, is a white powder. When this has been dried, powdered, and for some time exposed to the air, by being spread out on paper, it is apt to take a yellowish color, if sufficient care has not been used in its preparation; this is owing to some oxide of iron still present in it. To remove this the powder is dissolved in diluted nitric acid, filtered through paper, precipitated by carbonate of soda, and then properly washed in distilled water and dried.

<sup>1</sup>That part of the pathogenesis which belongs to Hahnemann and his ten associates is entirely in his earlier manner, for it is transported unchanged from Vol. VI. of the first edition of the Materia Medica Pura. The symptoms (124 in the original) obtained by Nennig are almost the sole additions here.—Hughes.

From this white carbonate of manganese one grain is dynamized for homœopathic use, as is done with other dry medicinal substances; or it is dissolved, by boiling it in distilled vinegar, until a saturated solution is obtained, which is then boiled down to the consistence of syrup (Manganum aceticum). Of the latter substance one drop, being taken as a unit, is homœopathically dynamized like other fluid medicinal substances, by means of one hundred drops of alcohol successively in each of thirty attenuating vials.

Both of these preparations have been used in the following provings of the pure effects of Manganese.

This metal has proved especially helpful where the following symptoms were present among others, or predominated:

Diminution of the senses; burning of the eyes and dimness of vision by day; eyes closed by suppuration in the morning; too frequent discharge of flatus; clotted and difficult stool; repeated, pappy stool during the day; diseases of the larynx and of the windpipe; chronic hoarseness; phthisis laryngea; intolerable pains of the periosteum and the joints; long-continued inflammatory swelling and suppuration of the little finger; shocks of the heart; yawning; heartburn.

The abbreviations of the names of my fellow-observers are as follows: Ahr., Ahner; Frz.; Dr. Franz; Hl., Haynel; Hbg., Hornburg; Gr., Dr. Gross; Lgh., Dr. Langhammer; Rkt., Dr. L. Rueckert; Stf., Dr. Stapf; Tth., Teuthorn; Whl., Wahle, and Ng., the well-known anonymous observer in the Reine Arzneimittellehre of the Drs. Hartlaub and Trinks.*

MANGANUM.

Disposition to weep. [Frz.]

Constant restlessness, as if he apprehended some sad news.

[Lgh.]

Great restlessness of body and mind, as if something was tormenting him.

Ill humor.

5. Moroseness (aft. 6 d.).

Morose and peevish (aft. 36 h.).

Everything she thinks of is annoying to her (aft. 2 h.).

[Ng.]

Very peevish, dejected and sad. [Ng.]

Low-spirited, so that the most joyful music does not cheer him, but he is, as it were, refreshed by the saddest music. [Ahr.]

10. Peevish, thoughtful, wrapped up in himself, with discomfort in the whole body, for four successive afternoons. [Ahr.]

* Some few of the observations are by Urban and Wenzel.—Translator.

Peevish, discontented with himself and anxious about the future; he talks little, considers himself to be weak-minded, and makes mistakes whenever he speaks. [Frz.]

Cross and annoyed at every trifle, with frowning forehead, in the morning; he is exasperated at others from merely hearing them speak. [Hl.]

Embittered humor; irreconcilable and long-continued resentment against those who injure him. [Lgh.]

Weak memory.

15. Absent-minded.

Feeling of numbness and heaviness, first in the occiput, then in the forehead. [Hl.]

Head, gloomy and confused, with general lassitude, when sitting. [Hl.]

Vertigo, when sitting and standing; he must hold on to something, so as not to fall forward.

Semilateral headache (aft. 4 h.). [Hbg.]

20. Dull headache in the room.

Stupefying, pressive pains on the forehead, which at last changed to internal shooting and boring pains. [Lgh.]

Dull, pressive headache in the occiput, with sensation of emptiness there, which takes away consciousness, and is diminished by laying the hand upon it. [Frz.]

Dull, pressive pain on the top of the frontal bone. [Frz.]

Sharp, pressive pain above the left temple, when rising from the seat and walking; it is relieved again by sitting down. [Stf.]

25. Pressive pain over the whole brain, from above downward, late in the evening, and even extending into the night, when he wakes up (aft. 4 h.)

Burning, pressive pain in the sides of the head and in the occiput, diminished while walking in the open air.

Painful pressure, forward from the occiput over the crown, extending into the forehead, as if everything was coming out there; at noon, worst at 1 P. M. [Ng.]

Contractive pain in the upper part of the head and the occiput.

Drawing pain in the occiput, the orbits and the forehead, where it is aggravated on stooping, and ceases on pressing upon it with the hand. [Frz.]

30. Drawing pain on the temples, seemingly in the bones. [Hl.]

Drawing, tensive pain, here and there in the head. [Stf.]

Drawing tearing in the left side of the head (aft. 8 h.).

[Ahr.]

Drawing tearing, passing over the right eye (aft. 18 d.).

Tearing in the left part of the forehead, seemingly in the bone, especially on moving the frontal muscles. [Hl.]

35. Tearing, from the left protuberance of the forehead, toward the temple, when talking. [Ng.]

Tearing in the left forehead, on taking exercise in the open air. [Ng.]

Tearing in the right side of the head, and especially deep in the right ear, when raising up the head after stooping. [Ng.]

Violent shooting tearing from the left parietal bone toward the crown, deep within, when standing, at 8 A. M.; returning next day at the same hour. [Ng.]

Tearing and tearing jerks, externally on the occiput, three afternoons in succession; at other times, pain in the place per se, and still more when touched.

40. Shooting headache, externally below the left parietal bone, spreading to all sides of the skull. [Whl.]

Pain as from needle-pricks, externally on the right occipital bone, in the morning in bed, extending down to the fifth cervical vertebra, aggravated by turning the neck. [Whl.]

Transient stitches, externally above the right temple, alternating with a sort of humming. [Ng.]

Constant stitches, in the left temporal bone. [Hl.]

Stitches as with knives on the left side of the forehead, or as from needles, in paroxysms. [Lgh.]

45. Violent stitches in the left parietal bone, when stooping. [Ng.]

Slow drawing stitches—more rarely pressive—in the sinciput, only felt when he goes into the open air, and ceasing after being for a time in the room; at the same time, a rigor, without goose-skin, all over the body, also in the open air, relieved in the room (aft. 24 h.).

Contractive shooting pain in the whole sinciput, now here, now there, especially in the temple, chiefly in the open air.

The headache, which is constant in the room, ceases in the open air. [Frz.]

Boring into the frontal bone, between the root of the nose and the eyebrow. [Ng.]

50. Pressive burrowing pain in the temples, which extends toward the eyes and the forehead, improved by stooping forward, but returning on sitting upright and on bending backward (aft. 4 h.). [Th.]

Throbbing pain on the right side of the occiput, as from an ulcer, both in rest and in motion. [Ng.]

Throbbing pain in the whole of the head, as if the brain would suppurate, ceasing in the open air, returning in the room. [Ng.]

Painful concussion in the brain, from shaking the head.

Concussion, like violent shooting, above the right eye, when walking fast, even in the room (aft. 20 d.).

55. Concussion of the brain on moving, with pressive pain in the head and at the same time in the epigastrium. [Frz.]

Ebullition from the nape, up over the crown toward the forehead, when moving; with stupefaction and confusion of the senses when standing. [Ng.]

Rush of blood to the head when sitting, standing, walking and lying down, with sensation of heat in the face, without redness and external heat. [Th.]

Sensation of heat in the head, in the afternoon. [Ng.]

Frequent rising of heat in the head, with thirst (6th d.). [Ng.]

60. Sensation of burning, on a point of the right frontal bone. [Hbg.]
 Burning on the frontal bone, above the right temple. [Ng.]
 The head is heavy and seems to her to be enlarged. [Ng.]
 Heaviness of the head, so that she can hardly hold it up, with a peevish mood. [Ng.]
 Heavy and painful numb feeling of the head, with heat in it, relieved by the open air and not returning in the room. [Ng.]
65. Heaviness of the head and such sensitiveness of the skin of the head that she can hardly bear combing, in the morning and evening. [Ng.]
 Sensation of cold on a small spot of the vertex, even when the head is covered, with horripilation. [Frz.]
 Itching and burning on the right parietal bone, when stooping; it ceases when scratched. [Ng.]
 The eyelids are painful at the least movement, and when he looks at a bright light, they are too dry, and feel as when one first awakes from sleep. [Frz.]
 Pressure in the eyes when reading by candle-light, as from reading too much, with irresistible drowsiness. [Whl.]
70. Sharp pressure on the eyeball on moving the eye inward and upward. [Hl.]
 Twitching, running to and fro in the right eye, causing an agreeable titillation. [Rkt.]
 Twitching stitches, in both the upper eyelids. [Ahr.]
 Needle-pricking inward in the right superciliary arch. [Whl.]
 Smarting and eroding pain in the outer canthus.
75. Throbbing in the right upper eyelid. [Frz.]
 Swollen eyelids. [Th.]
 Sensation of heat and dryness of the eyes. [Rkt.]
 Continual dryness of the eyes, in the evening. [Hl.]
Pupils very much dilated; the light dazzles him, causing pain in the eyes; on bringing the light near the eyes, the pupils contract, indeed, but they rapidly dilate on removing it.
80. The right pupil is more dilated than the left.
 Dilated pupils (aft. 25 h.). [Hbg.; Lgh.]
 Contracted pupils (aft. 1½ h.). [Lgh.]
Pupils very much contracted during the whole period of proving, and only at times, chiefly in the evening, dilated. [Sf.]
 When the pupils are contracted, the sight is obscured; he cannot clearly recognize objects at a distance. [Frz.]
85. Great short-sightedness, for many days.
 The sight fails, when she looks sharply at an object for some time. [Ng.]
 If he looks closely at objects held near him (even if they are not bright), the eyes are painful and he must close them; they are still more painful when the light is brought near them.
 Sparks of fire, like fire-wheels, in the evening, when the eyes are closed, but when he looked into the light, these appearances became black.
 Earache in the left ear. [Hbg.]

90. A horrible pain darts suddenly from the teeth into the inner ear. [Stf.]
Painfulness of the external ear, when touched.
Sharp pressive pain at times, in the right ear, when walking in the open air, as if earache would come on. [Hl.]
Cramplike, pressive pain behind the left ear, on walking in the open air; it ceases when touched. [Lgh.]
Twitching, shooting pinching in the outer part of the left ear, which only gradually ceased by strong rubbing. [Ahr.]
95. Twitching tearing in the right ear, in the morning. [Ng.]
Twitching tearing, in the right concha of the ear, in the evening, when lying down; it ceases in bed. [Ng.]
Tearing in the mastoid process, below the right ear. [Hl.]
Ulcerative pain in the right concha of the ear, in the evening. [Ng.]
Burrowing in the internal bones of the ear, at night. [Gr.]
100. Dull shooting pain in the ear, every time he talks.
Violently drawing, shooting pain, every time he laughs, extending from the stomach into the left ear, into the region of the tympanum.
Violently drawing, shooting pain, especially in the forenoon when walking fast, extending from the forehead into the ear, terminating in the tympanum as an outward shooting stitch, constant while walking; it is gradually allayed when standing still (aft. 48 h.).
Scratching shooting in the region of the tympanum. [Hbg.]
Crawling tickling in the region of the tympanum, it is not allayed by boring in with the finger. [Hbg.]
105. Itching in the left ear.
Sensation of cold in the right ear, as from a cold breath into it. [Stf.]
Noise in the ear, like the ringing of bells, in the morning.
Sound in the right ear, as from the croaking of a frog, when walking. [Hbg.]
Roaring in the ears after stooping, and momentary diminution of hearing, as if the ears were held closed. [Frz.]
110. Deafness, as if the ears were stopped. [Lgh.]
Fluttering before the left ear, with sensation of heat there, as if she was standing by a hot stove. [Ng.]
In the parotid glands, a pressive contraction. [Hl.]
In the left nares, a tearing and crawling, like an incitation to sneezing without sneezing. [Ng.]
Painful pinching tearing, between the root of the nose and the eyebrow. [Ng.]
115. Pustule on the angle of the right ala nasi. [Lgh.]
The face cachectic, pale and sunken, as after dissipation, during the whole period of proving. [Stf.]
Pain on the zygoma, as if a sore there would break open [Stf.]
Pressive burrowing on a small spot of the zygoma, at night in bed, in paroxysms. [Gr.]
Pain as after a blow, in the left upper jaw. [Hbg.]

120. Drawing spasm in the muscle on the left mastoid process, so that he had to turn his head to the right side. [Frz.]
 Spasmodic sensation on both the upper and lower jaws, after eating. [Lgh.]
 Pain as from excoriation and soreness, in the lower jaw. [Hbg.]
 Stitches in the angle of the lower jaw, toward the parotid gland. [Hl.]
 Violent itching shooting from the right side of the lower jaw, extending up over the temple, when laughing.
125. Pain on the chin, as after scraping with a jagged razor, or as if sore and ulcerated. [Stf.]
 Burning, externally on the chin. [Ng.]
 Suppurative pimple on the chin, with tensive pain, leaving a red spot behind. [Lgh.]
 In the corners of the lips, ulcerative pain, as from a malignant eruption. [Stf.]
 Itching below the corners of the mouth, with vesicles after scratching. [Ng.]
130. Clear vesicles on the upper lip, violently itching, especially in the evening. [Ng.]
 Clear vesicles on the right side of both lips, with tensive pain (when touched) on the upper lip, which is at the same time swollen. [Ng.]
 A red pimple on the lower lip, near the right angle of the mouth, with tensive pain. [Lgh.]
 A pimple in the right commissure of the lips, with tensive and erosive shooting pain, when touched and when moving the mouth.
 Dry, parched lips, with shriveled epidermis, without thirst, for many days.
135. Corrosive acrid humor, on the upper lip, close below the nose.
 Toothache of the most violent kind, first darting suddenly into two hollow molars, then from there it moves into the arm, the zygoma, the neck or the ear, and again returning to the teeth, with complete prostration of strength, so that he can scarcely walk, must lie down, with great internal restlessness and oppression; the pain was somewhat alleviated by biting on something elastic, or resting the forehead on the table; it was much aggravated by sitting upright; with great dilatation of the pupils. [Stf.]
 The pains in the teeth last 4 or 5 days, and come on especially in the forenoon, and in the evening from 10 to 12; by sucking with the tongue, there occurs a very painful jerk in them, whereupon the pains cease for a time. [Stf.]
 The tooth is painfully sensitive (as if ulcerated) to the slightest touch, less so per se. [Stf.]
 Pain in the root of a tooth in the right lower row, as if it was being twisted out, frequently recurring. [Ng.]
140. Erosive toothache in a lower and an upper molar, increased to an intolerable degree by the slightest drop of a cool drink. [Stf.]
 Toothache (of a drawing kind) in a molar on the right side, which often goes off suddenly, and gives place to (drawing) pains in other adjacent parts. [Stf.]

Drawing, tearing toothache in the morning, in bed (aft. 4 d.).
Tearing in 3 or 4 teeth of the lower row, on the left side.

[Ng.]

A stitch, now in one upper tooth, now in another, on biting the teeth together.

145. Smell from the mouth, of an earthy or clayey kind, in the morning after rising, not perceived by himself. [Stf.]

On the left side of the tongue, burning vesicles. [Ng.]

Two nodules on the right side of the tongue, painful when touched. [Ng.]

A lump behind, on the left side of the tongue, with sore pain on external pressure, from morning till evening. [Ng.]

Sensation of soreness, posteriorly on the palate, as if a hard body was lying there, outside of deglutition; it ceases after eating bread, in the morning. [Ng.]

150. Dryness of the palate and the lips, almost the whole day. [Frz.]

Dryness of the mouth in the morning after awaking, so that she can hardly swallow, with white tongue and sourish taste.

[Ng.]

Gathering of bitter water in the mouth, with inclination to vomit. [Ahr.]

Gathering of saliva in the mouth. [Hbg.]

Flow of saliva. [KAPP, Syst. Darst. d. Verbess. d. Arzn. d. Chemie.]

155. Dry throat, in the morning, without thirst. [Frz.]

Dry, scrapy and scratchy sensation in the throat, compelling to frequent hawking. [Stf.]

Very rough in the throat, in the evening. [Ng.]

Roughness in the throat, with a sensation as if a leaflet closed the windpipe, when hawking. [Ng.]

Dull stitch deep in the throat, at every empty deglutition, not when swallowing food.

160. Dull stitch (during empty deglutition) on both sides of the throat.

Dull stitch, on each side of the larynx, at every deglutition, also of food and drink, which stitches extend to the left ear.

Oily taste in the mouth.

Insipidity rather than bitterness remains in the mouth all day, in spite of eating.

Insipidity, with bitterness in the mouth, immediately after eating and drinking; so long as the food is in his mouth it tastes right.

165. Bitter taste in the morning after waking, with dry lips, without thirst.

Everything tasted bitter in the morning, but the taste in the mouth was all right.

Sour taste, in the morning, after awaking (6th and 7th d.).

[Ng.]

Sour taste posteriorly on the tongue, as from salt (?) in the morning after awaking; it ceases after eating. [Ng.]

Sensation of hunger, of a pressive kind, in the throat.

170. No appetite at noon, and as if satiated, so that eating was repugnant to him, still the food tasted all right (aft. 30 h.).
Sensation of repletion and satiety, but the food tasted all right and it diminished the sensation of repletion. [Hl.]
Neither hunger nor appetite, he loathed the food, though he relished it. [Whl.]
Thirst for beer or sour milk, with dryness in the throat, in the afternoon. [Ng.]
Total adipsia, and too little desire for drink. for many days.
175. Eructation, with taste of what he had eaten, at breakfast. [Ng.]
Eructation. [Ahr.]
Frequent eructation in the morning, with yawning and great ill humor. [Ng.]
Qualmish warmth from the stomach, rising into the mouth, with sourish bitter dryness of the mouth, in the morning (aft. 11 d.).
Sour burning, like heartburn, rising from the stomach almost to the mouth, in the evening (aft. sever. d.).
180. Sourish burning like heartburn, with inclination to vomit, rising from the stomach into the mouth, in the morning on rising (aft. 9 d.).
Sensation in the stomach, from time to time, as if he should vomit. [Hl.]
Disagreeable sensation in the stomach, with desire for eructation, and with frequent fits of nausea, ceasing after dinner. [Ng.]
In the stomach, a sensation of heat, as from prolonged hunger, rising up in the œsophagus into the head, where then occurs a twitching or a tensive shooting in the temples and the forehead.
Burning in the stomach, extending into the chest. [Ng.]
185. Burning and sensation of soreness, from the pit of the stomach up under the sternum into the palate, with great restlessness.
Pressure, as from a stone, on the right side of the stomach. [Hbg.]
Pressure in the pit of the stomach and on the chest, aggravated by touching. [Hbg.]
Pressure in the gastric region, during a meal, ceasing on laying the hands upon it. [Hbg.]
Pressure below the pit of the stomach, during eating, and especially while walking, not when touched. [Frz.]
190. Pressive contractive pain in the stomach, in the morning, after rising, in every position of the body (aft. 24 h.).
Drawing and nausea in the gastric region, as if the pit of the stomach was being distended from within. [Frz.]
Stitches in the pit of the stomach, on the left lowest rib, every time he rises and stretches his body. [Frz.]
Below the last ribs, a pressive sore pain, aggravated by touch and movement.
Bruised pain, below the last ribs.
195. Stitch on the lowest rib on the right side, when stooping. [Ng.]

In the abdomen, an indescribable aching. [Stf.]

The whole abdomen pains, in the evening, as if ulcerated, with pressure in the hypochondria. [Frz.]

Discomfort from the abdomen to the head, as from smoking tobacco, with a person unused to it.

Sensation of roughness from the epigastrium to the sternum. [Hbg.]

200. Contraction, nausea and warmth, mounting up the œsophagus, from the middle of the abdomen to the chest.

Contractive pain, now in the right side, now in the left side of the abdomen, so that she can only sit bending forward, frequently recurring. [Ng.]

Inflation and tension in the abdomen, somewhat relieved by discharge of flatus, but frequently recurring. [Ng.]

Large, thick abdomen.

Drawing, pressive pain in the abdomen during eating; it ceases after eating. [Frz.]

205. A pain, pressive and even more tensive, around and above the navel; then pain as from flatulence, with discharge of flatus. [Urban.]

Drawing, pressive pain in the abdomen, in the umbilical region, in the morning. [Frz.]

Pressure in the abdomen, much increased by eating cold food. [Frz.]

Cutting in the umbilical region, on taking a deep breath. [Hl.]

Cutting in the abdomen, in the evening. [Frz.]

210. Stitch in the left renal region, and immediately afterward a twitching contractive pain. [Urban.]

Splashing in the abdomen when walking, as if the intestines were detached. [Frz.]

Warmth in the abdomen, especially about the navel and in the hypogastrium, as from hot drinks; flatus moves to and fro in the abdomen and up into the stomach. [Ng.]

In the groin, tensive pain, as if a tendon was swollen there, with pain when touched.

Stitch in the right groin.

215. Moving about and pinching in the whole abdomen, as if a stool was coming. [Ng.]

Flatulent colic, in the morning in bed, after awaking; the odorless flatus discharged gives no relief (aft. 12 h.).

Much growling along the rectum, reaching to the anus. [Wenzel.]

Intermission of stool (1st d.). [Frz.]

Constipation, for forty-eight hours. [Th.]

220. Rare, dry, difficult stool. [Hl.]

Yellow, gritty stool, with tenesmus and constriction of the anus, after constipation lasting twenty-four hours. [Frz.]

Very pale yellow, scanty stool, preceded by pinching in the abdomen. [Stf.]

Two soft stools, each one preceded by stitches in the hypogastrium.

- Two soft stools, in the evening. [Ng.]
225. Before the (customary morning) stool, pinching in and about the abdomen, and during the same cutting in the rectum. [Ng.]
 Before and during the loose and tough stool, pinching in the abdomen and in the side, which only goes off by compressing the abdomen with the hands, and disappears with the evacuation of the stool; at the same time rigor. [Frz.]
 In the rectum, painful tearing, after dinner. [Ng.]
 Contractive pain in the anus, when sitting.
Frequent urging to urinate.
230. Frequent urging to urinate, by day.
 Urging to urinate. [Hbg.]
 Urging to urinate at once, when eating merely one apple. [Frz.]
 Frequent urging to urinate, with scanty discharge. [Lgh.]
 Repeated urging to urinate, with copious discharge of urine (aft. 27 h.). [Lgh.]
235. Frequent discharge of golden-yellow urine from the very beginning of the proving. [Stf.]
 The urine becomes turbid and deposits an earthy sediment. [Ng.]
 Violet-colored sediment in the urine. [Ng.]
 Cutting in the region of the bladder, when sitting; very much increased by rising and moving, in the evening; but he could pass the urine without difficulty. [Hl.]
 A darting, as of a dull stitch in the urethra, while he has a silent discharge of flatus, while sitting. [Stf.]
240. Cutting in the middle of the urethra, when not urinating. [Hl.]
 Fine shooting pain at the orifice of the urethra, when not urinating.
Burning twitching at times, extending from the seminal vesicles into the glans (aft. 12 d.).
 Voluptuous itching on the corona glandis (aft. 3 to 5 h.). [Hbg.]
 Stitches in the prepuce. [Hl.]
245. Itching in the interior of the scrotum, not alleviated by any pinching or massaging of its skin.
 Pressive drawing pain and weakness in the testicle and spermatic cord, as if the latter were being pulled out, with sensation of weakness in the whole of the genital organs. [Hl.]
 Catamenia at an unusual time (aft. 48 h.).
 Menses too early by six days, scanty and lasting only two days. [Ng.]
 Pressure in the pudenda
250. Leucorrhœa.
 Leucorrhœa for two days, but not constant.
 * * * * *
 Coryza (aft. 36 h.).
 Coryza in the left nostril, with lack of air, and loss of smell. [Ng.]

- Coryza and stoppage of the nose, with secretion of a thick mucus. [Ng.]
255. Stoppage of the nose, no air passed through.
Violent stuffed coryza (aft. 4 d.).
First, stoppage of the nose, then fluent coryza. [Ng.]
Stuffed coryza, with red, inflamed and sore nose and upper lip, in the evening. [Frz.]
Running from the nose of a mild mucus, clear as water, and frequent sneezing. [Stf.]
260. Rough throat in the morning on rising from bed, with hoarse wooden<sup>1</sup> voice. [Rkt.]
In the morning, rough voice, without any sensation in the throat; it ceases when smoking tobacco. [Frz.]
In the morning, he feels heavy on the chest, and oppressed in his breathing.
In going into the open air, he immediately gets dry throat and rough voice, with cutting pressive pain in the abdomen and nausea in the chest. [Frz.]
Itching dryness in the throat, inciting to tussiculation, in the morning. [Ng.]
265. Inclination to cough, in the morning.
Two fits of dry coughing (aft. 1 h.). [Ng.]
Excitation to cough; he wants to cough up the mucus attached to the larynx; but only a little mucus is brought up with difficulty, rather by a sharp expiration than by coughing. [Stf.]
Dry cough, during which a pain at every impulse darts into the side of the head. [Stf.]
Dry cough, caused by reading and speaking aloud, with a painful dryness, roughness and constriction in the larynx, causing an extremely painful cough, during which some mucus is expectorated only after long hawking. [Stf.]
270. Deep cough, without expectoration, ceasing on lying down, but returning next day, with expectoration of tenacious mucus, and pain as of a concussion in the scrobiculus cordis and the chest, and disappearing quickly at noon. [Rkt.]
Morning-cough, with expectoration (aft. 21 d.). [Hbg.]
Expectoration of much pale-green, yellowish mucus, in little lumps, almost without cough, in the morning. [Stf.]
Bloody expectoration (aft. 48 h.).
During coughing, a dull pain on the chest. [Stf.]
275. Pain in the chest, as from a bruise.
Bruised pain in the upper part of the chest, when bowing the head, relieved by raising it up, but returning on stooping forward. [Ng.]
A crunching sensation, drawing downwards on the lower part of the chest.
Painful and constant shooting, in the upper left side of the chest, near the clavicle, and at the same time in the left axilla. [Ng.]
Fine stitch in the left side of the chest, below the axilla, on moving the trunk. [Ng.]

<sup>1</sup> I. e., dull without resonance.—Translator.

280. Fine needle-pricks, now on the left, now on the right side of the chest, in the morning. [Whl.]
 Transient stitches, on the upper part of the sternum. [Urban.]
 Violent stitches in the right side of the chest, near the sternum, as if from without, not relieved by anything. [Wenzel.]
 Stitches in the upper part of the chest, during expiration (aft. 10 d.).
 An upward drawing shooting pain in the chest, occasionally during expiration.
285. A drawing stitch, continually darting up and down in the left side of the chest.
 Contracting shooting pain on the chest, when breathing deeply, all the forenoon (aft. 9 days.)
 Dull pain in the sternum, as after a blow, in the morning. [Whl.]
 Sudden blow on the left side of the chest, from above downwards to the last true rib, while sitting. [Frz.]
 On both sides of the sternum, somewhat above the scrobiculus cordis, a pressive cutting pain, like burrowing, in the evening. [Gr.]
290. Burrowing and gnawing in the right clavicle (aft. 36 h.). [Gr.]
 Nauseous warmth on the chest, and coryza, first a slight warmth, then burning in the cheeks, at first without, but finally with, sensible external warmth. [Frz.]
 Disagreeable warmth in the chest; the breath is hot and burns in the trachea. [Frz.]
 Disagreeable warmth in the chest, and febrile weakness in the same, with coryza and stoppage of the nose. [Frz.]
 Warmth in the chest, in the evening, with stuffed coryza and hot breath, which he feels in the fauces when inspiring and expiring; preceded by an internal chill, without external cold. [Frz.]
295. Internal warmth in the chest; the limbs also felt warm to him, and they were not cold when touched. [Hbg.]
 Burning, below the sternum, then also in the stomach. [Ng.]
 Burning on the left side of the chest, more externally, close by the top of the shoulder, worse when rubbing it or pressing upon it. [Ng.]
 Shooting burning pain, below the second left rib, increased by expiration and movement, but somewhat allayed by rest and inspiration. [Ahr.]
 Beating in the right side of the chest, as if the heart were beating there, in the evening in bed. [Frz.]
300. Palpitation of the heart. [Frz.]
 On the right nipple, an itching stitch. [Ng.]
 Crawling above the left mamma. [Ng.]
 Small nodules on the chest. [Ng.]
 Pain in the sacrum, in bending the body backward.
305. Burning pain on a small spot above the left pelvic region, toward the first lumbar vertebra. [Hbg.]
 Tearing, downward on the whole of the spine, in rest and in motion. [Ahr.]

- Tearing in the left scapula, when sitting. [Lgh.]
 Stitch between the scapulæ (aft. 2 h.). [Ng.]
 Itching, shooting pain in the middle of the back, ceasing when rubbed. [Ahr.]
310. Stiffness of the nape. [Rkt.]
 Drawing, tensive stiffness of the nape, alternating with toothache [Stf.]
 Drawing tensive pain across the nape, from both shoulders, as if a band were tightly tied there. [Stf.]
 Spasmodic pain in the cervical muscles, when moving them, in the evening. [Frz.]
 Digging in the inmost parts of the cervical vertebræ, by night. [Gr.]
315. Voluptuous itching in the nape; so that he has to scratch till it bleeds. [Ng.]
 The neck feels swollen and stiff, with pain in the muscles, coming from the teeth. [Stf.]
 Red swollen streak on the left side of the neck, for twenty days. [Ng.]
 Straining in front of the axilla, as if the skin was pulled upward. [Ng.]
 In the axilla, a pain as from spraining.
320. Pain, as from a sprain, in the shoulder-joint and the elbow-joint, with much yawning.
 Clucking in the shoulder-joint, with pain as from a boil, when touched; he dared not touch it.
 Violent tearing pain externally on the top of the right shoulder, followed by itching. [Ng.]
 The arm pains as if paralyzed by an inordinate pain, which suddenly darts into it from the teeth. [Stf.]
 Weakness of the arm.
325. A tensive pain in the joints of the arms and hands, here and there, neither excited nor mitigated, either by rest or by movement. [Stf.]
 Paroxysmal pain in the joints of the arms.
 Morbid, distressing feeling in the arm.
 Drawing and tearing from the shoulder, through the whole of the arm.
 In the upper arm, a sudden feeling of weakness, so that he must let it sink down, with drawing in the biceps muscle. [Frz.]
330. Drawing tearing pain on the inner side of the upper arm. [Ahr.]
 Sudden painful twitching on the outer side of the right upper arm. [Ahr.]
 Stitches in the right upper arm, toward the top of the shoulder. [Ahr.]
 Outward boring shooting pain, on the inner side of the right upper arm. [Ahr.]
 Boring in the right humerus, seemingly in the marrow, at times stronger, then again weaker, extending into the top of the shoulder, relieved by moving the arm, going off by pressing upon it, but recurring frequently. [Ng.]

335. Burrowing in the humerus, in paroxysms, by night in bed, when lying on that side. [Gr.]
 Gnawing pain, on the lower end of the humerus, by night. [Gr.]
 Burning on the lower surface of the right upper arm, toward the top of the shoulder, with yawning. [Ng.]
 Itching on the upper arm, close to the elbow. [Ng.]
 The elbow-joint pains as if dislocated, with much yawning.
340. Clucking in the elbow-joint, with pain as from a furuncle, when touching it.
 Straining and shooting pain on the left olecranon process, and previously, a like pain below the left axilla. [Ng.]
 In the muscles of the fore-arm, a hard pressure, close by the wrist-joint, in every position of the body. [Lgh.]
 Straining pain below the elbow, on stretching the arm, as if it was too short.
 Straining pain on the inner side of the right fore-arm, as if the skin was being pulled upward, only temporarily removed by pressing upon it. [Ng.]
345. Tearing, on the lower end of the fore-arm, seemingly in the radius, not relieved by anything. [Ahr.]
 Drawing shooting pain, on the back of the right fore-arm. [Ahr.]
 Tearing shooting pain, above the right wrist-joint toward the fore-arm. [Hl.]
 Violently itching tetter on the inner side of the left fore-arm. [Ng.]
 The hands are tense, as if swollen, when she wishes to clench them or to spread them out. [Ng.]
350. Severely drawing tensive pain in the bones and joints of the right hand, almost as if constricted, and after these pains have disappeared, heat in the hand. [Stf.]
 Tearing cramp-like pain in the muscles of the right hand, especially in the thumb and index, both at rest and in motion. [Lgh.]
 Tearing, shooting pinching in the left palm, on the ball of the thumb, not to be changed by anything. [Ahr.]
 Tearing and shooting on the inner border of the left hand (near the thumb), so violent as if it would tear out the tendons. [Ng.]
 Stitches in the bone of the right wrist, then pain, as if the capsule of the joint were dilated and the bones seized and pulled out. [Whl.]
355. Tickling itching in the palm, returning with aggravation after scratching, and only permanently allayed by licking with the tongue. [Frz.]
 On spreading out the fingers, tension in the skin of the ring-finger. [Frz.]
 Repeated, violent spasmodic pain on the posterior joint of the left ring-finger and the middle finger, as if it would contract the tendons. [Ng.]

- Twitching or drawing pain in the index finger, in the evening.
Drawing tearing, in the left middle finger. [Hl.]
360. Tearing on the back of the left middle-finger, as if it would tear out the tendons. [Ng.]
Twitching tearing behind the right ring-finger, seemingly in the marrow, toward the arm. [Ng.]
Cutting in the proximal phalanx of the right index, with sensation of warmth in it. [Frz.]
Shooting in the proximal joint of the ring-finger and the middle finger, worse when pressed upon. [Ng.]
Paralytic pain, as after a blow, in the posterior joint of the left index, worse when at rest. [Gr.]
365. Sudden sensation of cold, in the soft part of the tip of the left thumb. [Sff.]
Burning itching on the outer border of the right thumb, then after scratching, a red spot, and later, a blister, smarting when touched and full of ichor, on the same place. [Lgh.]
Severe itching on the fingers, and, after rubbing, transparent vesicles.
Deep, very painful chaps in the two bends of the thumb and in the middle bend of the middle finger.
From a small scratch on the proximal joint on the little finger, there arises a malignant ulcer, with a blue border and stinging pains, especially at night.
370. In the os ischium, a constant stitch-pain, when sitting.
On the left natis, toward the anus, a cramp-like drawing, aggravated when extending the thigh, when standing on the one leg, and when sitting down, but it goes off almost completely when flexing the leg, and when sitting; it is most troublesome when he rises from his seat, so that he cannot walk, unless he presses his hand upon the painful spot. [Frz.]
Burning pain on a place in the left natis, as if a pustule was forming there, chiefly when sitting. [Hbg.]
Nodules, with tensive pain upon the nates, with ulcerous pains when pressed upon. [Ng.]
In the right side of the hip-joint, paralytic weakness, with stitches on treading, so that he must limp, in the morning. [Hl.]
375. Bruised pain of the muscles on the head of the right femur, especially when sitting. [Frz.]
Burning soreness in the bend of the right thigh. [Ng.]
In the lower limbs, twitching of all the muscles, at the least movement. [Frz.]
Lassitude in the thighs and legs, with drowsiness. [Ahr.]
Sensation of tension in the right lower limbs when walking in the open air, as if it was stiff. [Lgh.]
380. In the thigh, a pinching straining on the anterior surface, as if it would pull the skin upward, the pain continues for a long time, in the open air. [Ng.]
Pinching, shooting pain on the outer side of the thigh, passing off when sitting, but increasing while walking, so that he had to stand still. [Th.]

Twitching shooting pain above the knee, extending to the upper part of the thigh, in the evening.

Twitching of the muscles on the inner side of the thigh, after walking, causing anxiety and a fainting sensation, as if he should collapse. [Frz.]

Bruised pain, transversely across the thighs.

385. Burning itching on the inner side of the left thigh; after scratching, there comes a sensation of soreness, and when touching it, a bruised pain. [Ng.]

Pimples on the thighs; at the hips they are covered with scurf, with burning itching in the morning and evening, and with sore and ulcerative pain after rubbing.

The knees feel unsteady and tremble in the evening when walking. [Frz.]

Tearing about the knee, a hand's breadth above and below it, on the outer surface. [Ng.]

Shooting in the hough, when walking and sitting (aft. 17 d.).

390. Itching on the knees, in the evening.

Itching in the houghs, depriving him of his night's rest.

On the left leg, a hard pressure in the muscles near the ankle.

[Lgh.]

Severe griping and snatching, in the left calf and from the hough to the outer ankle. [Ng.]

Tearing and itching, on the outer side of the left calf. [Ng.]

395. Tearing in the right calf, with burning externally. [Ng.]

Tearing stitch in the left calf, when sitting. [Hl.]

Drawing tearing on the right tibia, when sitting, entirely ceasing on rising. [Ahr.]

Drawing and sore pain in the left tibia, as if it were broken, while standing; it goes off when sitting. [Frz.]

Smarting sensation on the right tibia, as if it were bruised.

[Frz.]

400. Rigidity and coldness of the right leg, especially of the calf, and a smarting sensation when sitting down, it ceases on rising, in the evening. [Frz.]

Curious, lukewarm sensation on the left leg, from the knee to the ankle. [Hbg.]

Itching on the tibia.

The feet are so heavy that she can hardly raise them. [Ng.]

Crawling formication of the right foot when standing. [Ng.]

405. Drawing on the dorsum of the left foot, on the ankle, it ceases on moving. [Frz.]

Continual tickling in the hollow of the sole of the right foot.

[Hl.]

Constant coldness and sensation of coldness in the feet, especially when walking; the coldness ceases when sitting, but is renewed on walking.

Inflammation and swelling of the left outer and inner ankles, with shooting in the leg, extending up from the external ankle, at times per se, but always while walking.

Soreness, with itching, between the last two toes of the right foot, for ten days. [Ng.]

410. On several parts of the body, a twitching shooting, especially in the inner side side of the thighs. [Hl.]
 Most of the stitches caused by manganese are dull. [Whl.]
 A clucking and bubbling (as of water) of various muscles. [Hl.]
 Drawing, twitching, tearing stitches in various parts of the body.
 Drawing, tensive pains, as from a firmly drawn bandage, in various places. [Stf.]
415. Tensive or cramp-like drawing and tearing in various parts. Nocturnal pains, burrowing in the bones. [Gr.]
 Most of the ailments appear at night. [Gr.]
 Most of the ailments are aggravated by stooping. [Frz.]
 The ailments arising in the room are relieved in the open air. [Frz.]
420. Many of the ailments arise in the open air, and are relieved in the room. [Frz.]
 Itching, that ceases on scratching, in various parts of the body. [Ng.]
 Severe itching, with burning and little vesicles, or deeply seated nodules after scratching, on the top of the shoulder, the arms and the calves; at times with rosy red skin, becoming white on pressure. [Ng.]
 Smarting itching on the whole body, only after being heated and perspiring.
 Severe burning all over the skin, in the evening, on rising from bed; passing off after lying down again.
425. Sudden concussion through the body, as from fright, in the morning.
 All parts of the body are painful at the least touch, as if festering underneath, but only during a febrile warmth on the chest and the cheeks. [Frz.]
 The head, the hands and the feet seem to her swollen and enlarged, on walking in the open air. [Ng.]
 Discomfort in the whole body, especially in the stomach, with peevishness. [Ahr.]
 Lassitude in all the joints, which seem to him stretched, with trembling in the limbs and a tremulous sensation in the knee-joints and arm-pits, with anxiety, as if it was all over with him. [Frz.]
430. Great lassitude at 8 p. m., so that he could hardly keep awake, for two evenings in succession. [Hl.]
 Much inclination to stretch, all day.
 Frequent yawning, though she had slept enough. [Ng.]
 Much yawning,
 He dreams, as soon as he falls asleep. [Th.]
435. Vivid dreams, with rapid changes of the subject, with frequent waking with full consciousness of what he had dreamed, but in the morning he has only a dim recollection of it. [Frz.]
 About midnight, he was half awake and could not get to sleep soundly until toward morning, owing to anxious, distressing restlessness, though he was not troubled with any particular ideas; accompanied with tossing in the bed. [Hl.]

- Confused, anxious, vivid dreams, all the night long. [Fyz.]
 Sound sleep, with anxious dreams of danger to his life. [Th.]
 Restless sleep, with heavy dreams and lassitude, on waking.
440. Anxious, fearful, vivid dream. [Lgh.]
 Vivid, anxious dreams, as if everything seen, occurred in waking; he remembers everything; he feels vigorous on awaking.
 After midnight, about 3 A. M. he dreamed that he was awake and with his doctor, as if in perfect consciousness, he could remember every word of the conversation, as though it had all occurred while waking.
 Vivid, confused dreams all night, of ever varying subjects. [Rkt.]
 Vivid dream about something that actually occurred next day. [Lgh.]
445. Vivid dream about a reconciliation. [Lgh.]
 Annoying dreams.
 In his dreams at night, he always lies on his back, though otherwise he has always been accustomed to lie only on his right side.
 Dream with merry contents. [Ng.]
 He wakes up at 4 A. M. with pinching and flatus moving about in his abdomen, succeeded by a soft stool. [Ng.]
450. At 1 o'clock at night, she wakes up with violent pinching and griping above the os pubis, with icy coldness on the whole trunk, the head and the arms, with profuse cold sweat, with great internal heat and sensation of dryness on the moist tongue, with warm lower limbs, great apprehension and restlessness, so that she continually tosses from one side to the other, while she cannot bear to be uncovered; after a quarter of an hour, inclination to eructation, without attaining it, then empty eructation, and slight discharges of flatus without any relief, thirst, rising of water in the fauces, with nausea and paleness of face, warm sweat on the lower limbs and great lassitude in the feet, inclination to stool, hardness and sensitiveness of the abdomen when rubbed; after these symptoms and the pains which she had long before felt in her sleep, had been allayed by Ipecacuanha, a sound sleep; in the morning, on awaking, heaviness of the head and setting in of the menses with thick, black blood (4th d.). [Ng.]
 Chilly, the whole day, as soon as she gets from her room into the open air. [Ng.]
 Chill, with goose-skin, in the morning, after rising, for half an hour, and at 7 P. M. for two hours, when about 9 o'clock thirst ensued (3d d.). [Ng.]
 Chill, every evening.
 Febrile rigor, in the morning, with cold hands and feet. [Fyz.]
455. Febrile rigor and coldness, on walking in the open (not cold) air; on walking fast, the chill diminishes, but the coldness remained on the hands and feet, which only got warm in the room.
 Cold hands and feet, even yet in the room, but without any chill (aft. 36 h.).
 Febrile rigor, late in the evening, with coldness in the feet, extending in the right leg even to the knee, without subsequent thirst and heat.

Febrile rigor, in the evening, in the open air and in the room, the feet were colder than the hands, so that he could not warm them, with pressive shooting pains in the sinciput, which were not relieved in the room, where the chill ceased (aft. 60 h.).

Shivering over the back, with stitches in the head. [Fiz.]

460. Shivering all over the body. [Whl.]

Severe heat in the head, with some chill on the other parts of the body.

Sudden flying heat and redness of the face, especially when standing, without thirst. [Lgh.]

Sudden heat, on the whole back, while sitting down, and soon after followed by perspiration, with the pupils very much contracted. [Stf.]

Irregular pulse, hardly sensible, sometimes quicker, sometimes slower. [Ahr.]

465. Anxiety, with short breath and profuse sweat all over. [Ahr.]

Perspiration, on awaking from sleep, merely on the neck.

[Lgh.]

At night on awaking, perspiration all over (aft. 24 h.).

[Lgh.]

Nocturnal sweat all over the body, it compelled him to scratch on awaking (aft. 66 h.). [Lgh.]

Nocturnal sweat on the legs, and especially on the feet, on awaking. [Lgh.]

MEZEREUM, DAPHNE MEZEREUM, 'SPURGE OLIVE.<sup>1</sup>

In early spring, when the shrub is about to bloom, its bark is gathered. Originally the juice of the fresh green bark was pressed out and preserved, mixed with equal parts of alcohol, and raised to the homœopathic dynamization by shaking. This juice, when it touches the skin, causes a long continued, very painful burning. But since the medicinal virtue of this bark does not consist in its volatile parts, it will be better to dry it and powder it, and then to triturate it with 100 parts of sugar of milk, and then to potentize it like the other dry medicinal substances, as directed in the first part of this work.

<sup>1</sup> The pathogenesis of Mezereum belongs to the same category as Manguese. It is composed almost entirely of provings published in the Fragmenta de Viribus (1805) and the fourth volumes of the Archiv (1825)—the latter being avowedly made with the mother tincture. The only additions here are the communications from the two students, of whom "H" was Hering. Of these we have no information. (See Cyclop. of Drug Pathogenesis, III, 301.)—Hughes.

Dr. Stapf, the Medical Councilor and baronet, has given in No. 2 of the fourth volume of the Archiv a summary view of the chief properties of this very active drug.

This medicine has so far proved itself useful in diseases which were accompanied by the following symptoms:

Humid itching eruption on the head and behind the ears; inflammation of the eyes; chronic leucorrhœa; shortening of a lower limb; nightly itching of the body.

The abbreviations of the names of my fellow observers are as follows: Frz., Dr. Franz; C., Dr. Caspari; Gff., Dr. Aug. Baron v. Gersdorff; Gr., Dr. Gross; Htb., Dr. Hartlaub; Rkt., Th. Rueckert; Schk., Dr. Schoenke; Th., Dr. Teuthorn; and H. and W., two medical students in Leipzig.

MEZEREUM.

Very sad, every trifle affected him disagreeably; blunted as to all impressions from without, he does not take pleasure in anything, indisposed to work.

Hypochondriac and melancholy, nothing pleases him, every thing seemed to him as if dead, and nothing made a vivid impression on him. [Frz.]

Weeps for a fortnight.

Apprehensiveness in the scrobiculus cordis, as if he expected something disagreeable. [C.]

5. Anxiety, in the evening, with trembling of the limbs and of the whole body.

Great anguish, with violent palpitation, at noon before dinner; she could not keep up, but had to lie down.

Restless when alone, he wishes to be in company, [H.]

Introverted, tired of life and longing for death.

With morose face, he always looks down and is very cross.

[Th.]

10. None but disagreeable, annoying thoughts come into his mind.

Sensitive, peevish mood. [Gff.]

He looks extremely peevish, pale, cachectic and emaciated.

[Gr.]

Constantly peevish and cross. [Gr.]

Disposed to reproach others. [Htb.]

15. Inclined to quarrel. [C.]

Violent boiling over with passion about trifles, for which he he is soon sorry. [Gr.]

He finds it difficult to come to a determination. [H.]

Very absent-minded, he could not long confine himself to one subject; his thoughts carried him away with them.

While she talks with a person, her thoughts leave her. [Gr.]

20. He can not recall what he has heard just before; whenever anyone interrupts him, it disturbs and confuses his thoughts. [Gr.]

He does not work with the proper freedom of mind, his thoughts leave him, and he has carefully to collect himself, so as not to think of something else. [C.]

He cannot comprehend anything properly, nor think about things; not even recall things from memory; his thoughts leave him, as soon as he commences to reflect, and gloom and pressure occupy his sinciput. [Frz.]

He would vacantly look through the windows for hours, without becoming conscious of what he saw, and without then thinking about anything. [H., Th.]

Thinking is difficult to him; reading and listening leaves him indifferent; he is less affected than usual by what happens to him; mental apathy. [H.]

25. He feels stupid in the head, so that often he knew not what he wanted. [Htb.]

Stupid, dizzy, with vertigo in the head, so that he does not know what he is doing. [Schk.]

Dull and heavy in the head. [W.]

Dull in the head, reading is difficult and he has to read things over in order to understand them. [Htb.]

Stupid, intoxicated, with sensation in the head as from a nightly carousal, or as from excessive pollutions. [Htb.]

30. Very much intoxicated, he talks without reflection; but is good humored and exceedingly merry withal (1st d.). [Htb.]

Numb feeling in the head, it feels freer after eating. [H.]

The sinciput and the occiput feel benumbed in the evening, like a dull stupefaction. [Gff.]

Benumbed feeling of the head all day, with pressure in the temples. [Rkt.]

Confusion and sensation of pressure in the whole of the head, especially above the eyes. [Rkt.]

35. Reeling, with contracted pupils. [C.]

Giddy numbness of the head, with difficulty in reflection. [Gff.]

Vertigo. [LANGE, domest. Brunvic.<sup>1</sup>]

Vertigo, he feels as if he would fall to the left side. [W.]

Vertigo, with flickering before the eyes, he could not walk well.

40. Vertigo, like a syncope.

Headache after moving about and much talking, the pain is especially in the temples and on both sides of the vertex. [W.]

Headache in the nape, drawing toward the forehead.

Dull headache on the left parietal bone, improved by pressure, but worse when this pressure is remitted. [C.]

Pain in the right frontal protuberance, for several hours.

[Schk.]

45. Headache, from the root of the nose into the forehead, as if everything would be broken up, with pain in the temple, when touched, with severe heat and perspiration on the head, with chill and coldness in the rest of the body, in the morning.

<sup>1</sup> Not accessible.—Hughes.

Headache, relieved by bending low down.

Headache, aggravated in the open air. [Th.]

Headache, during the whole of the afternoon; when the head is moved quickly, the brain feels shaken up. [Rkt.]

Stupefying, pressive pain through the right half of the brain, from the occiput toward the forehead. [H.]

50. Headache, close under the skull, as if the brain were being pressed sharply against the bones. [W.]

Pressure in the forehead, in the morning, as if the brain thereby became too hard, with lack of faculty of recollection. [Frz.]

Very severe pressive headache, as if everything would come out at the forehead (aft. 8 h.). [W.]

Pressure and squeezing under the frontal bone, extending into the nasal bones. [W.]

Pressive pain, on the right frontal protuberance. [Htn.]

55. Pressive pain under the left parietal bone. [Htb.]

Pressive headache, with frequent chilly shivering. [Rkt.]

Pressive pain, extending across through the sinciput. [W.]

Pressive pain in the occiput, especially on coming into the room from the open air. [W.]

Pressive pain in the occiput and in the nape, on moving the head. [Gff.]

60. Pressive pain in the left temple, pressing outward. [Htn., W.]

Acute pressure on the left temple, as if it were being pressed into the head, extending over the orbits of the eyes, when reading, while sitting down; it seems relieved by moving. [Htb.]

Dull outward pressure, in the left side of the occiput, in the evening. [Htb.]

Sharp, pressive pain and tension in the left side of the occiput. [Gff.]

Violent pressing asunder in the whole of the sinciput, gradual in coming and in going. [Htn.]

65. Sensation of heaviness in the whole of the occiput. [H.]

Pinching sensation in the temples and forehead, with pressure on the eyes and jaws, as before a violent coryza. [Gff.]

Sensation of squeezing together in the temples, from both sides, after severe exercise; at the same time, he forgets the word he would utter, and can only collect his thoughts with difficulty. [Gff.]

Pinching, constant headache, squeezing the head together, extending from the temples into the forehead and nose. [Th.]

Tearing, anteriorly in the forehead, with twitching stitches. [Gff.]

70. Tearing shooting headache, in the left frontal protuberance. [Gff.]

Pressive tearing in the forehead. [Gff.]

Shooting headache, in the vertex and the forehead.

- Shooting pain, in the left hemisphere of the brain. [W.]
 Long-continued, dull stitch, above the left side of the forehead, in the morning in bed. [Gff.]
75. Constant, very acute stitch, beside the vertex. [Gff.]
 Pressive sore pain in the occiput. [Gff.]
 Pressive, burrowing headache, in the middle of the sinciput, on the surface (1st d.). [Htb.]
 Pressive throbbing in the forehead.
 Tearing throbbing on a spot of the occiput, above the nape. [Gff.]
80. Throbbing and pressing behind the right ear, turning into a most violent aching in the whole head, the forehead, the nose and the teeth, aggravated at the least movement of the head, for several hours.
Bone-pain in the bones of the skull, aggravated most by touching them.
 Pain from turgidity upon the head. [W.]
 The scalp on both sides of the vertex is painful when touched. [H.]
 The hair aches as if sore, when touched. [Gff.]
85. The hair seems disposed to stand on end. [C.]
 The hairy scalp is hot; he has to scratch it. [H.]
 Fine shooting itching on the head; it ceases on scratching. [Htb.]
 Itching on the crown and the occiput, exciting to scratch. [Htb.]
 Severe itching on the head, as from lice, only transiently removed by scratching, and always recurring elsewhere, in the evening. [Gr.]
90. Itching on the head and on the whole body, as from vermin; after scratching, it soon returns elsewhere. [Gr.]
 Dry scabs on the hairy scalp. [Htb.]
 The scales of the dandruff are whiter, simpler and drier than usual. [Htb.]
 The eyes pain on reading by light in the evening; nor can he see as clearly as before. [Htb.]
 Pressure on the eyeballs, and heat in the eyes. [H.]
95. Pressive pain about the left eye. [C., W.]
 Pressure in the eyes, as if the eyeballs were too large; he has often to wink. [W.]
 Pressure and tearing about and in the eyes, especially in the orbits. [Gff.]
 Itching on the edge of the lower eyelid. [W.]
 Smarting in the canthi, especially on the inner canthi. [Gff.]
100. Burning, prickling stitches, on the edge of the lower eyelids. [Gr.]
 The eyes close involuntarily several times, while writing. [C.]
Troublesome muscular twitching on the left upper eyelid, for eight weeks. [Gff.]
 The pupil is contracted.
 Dilated pupil (aft. 1 h.). [Tth.]

105. Far-sightedness.
 More short-sighted than usual. [H.]
 Fiery sparks before the eyes.
 Otagia and painful drawing in the left ear. [Gff., W.]
 Tearing, deep in the interior of the left ear. [Gff.]
110. Itching stitch in the interior of the right ear. [Gff.]
 Itching in the right ear, relieved by rubbing. [W.]
 Sensation of obstruction in the left ear, but he hears well. [C.]
 Hardness of hearing.
 Ringing of the ears, accompanied with great drowsiness.
 [Htb.]
115. Loud ringing in the left ear, in the morning, after dressing
 (aft. 22 h.). [C.]
 Tension behind the left ear, with tearing, in alternating jerks.
 [Gff.]
 The nose is internally rough and sore.
 Diminution of smell, with almost constant dryness of the nose. [W., Htb.]
 Paleness of the face, sunken, cachectic appearance. [Gr.]
120. Violent, frequent, troublesome muscular twitching on the middle of the right cheek, for eight weeks. [Gff.]
 Dull, cramp-like pain and tearing on the right cheek-bone.
 [Gff.]
 Drawing, from the right mastoid process, deep down in the lower jaw, extending into the teeth. [Gr.]
 Furuncle in the face.
 Hot burning sensation on the upper lip. [W.]
125. Sore pain and inflammatory redness in the vermilion of the lower lip, with burning sensation when touched; allayed by wetting with saliva or by drinking; worse in the evening; for two days. [Gr.]
 Burning in the vermilion of the lower lip as if it would burst open, especially when closing the mouth, mostly only in the evening, or at least worse then. [Gr.]
 Thick, parched, cracked, peeling lower lip, [H.]
 Burning in the right corner of the mouth, as if the skin was detached, in the evening. [Frz.]
 Swelling on the upper lip, below the left nostril, with burning pain.
130. Eruption on both lips, outside of the red, with severe fluent
 coryza.
 Small white vesicles, like ulcers, on the inner corner of the mouth and on the right cheek, without pain. [W.]
 Ulcer on the upper lip, which spreads towards the nose.<sup>1</sup>
 [RUSSEL, in Med. Bemerk. Bd. 3.]
 In the submaxillary glands, a shooting pain.
 Toothache, drawing, burning and shooting in an upper molar, which since taking the medicine had become hollow with remarkable rapidity; the whole day, especially in the evening; for many weeks. [Gff.]

<sup>1</sup> In a syphilitic subject taking M. in decoction for nodes.—Hughes.

135. Toothache with simple fixed pain in the hollow molar. [Htb.]
 Pain in the posterior molar of the left lower jaw, as if it would be drawn out. [W.]
 Pressive, shooting pain in the left upper molars. [W.]
 Sharp stitches in the roots of the lower incisors, on the right and the left sides. [Gff.]
 Tearing twitching from the right upper hollow molar into the temple. [Gff.]
140. Painful twitching in the upper incisors. [Gff.]
 Boring and shooting in one tooth or another, but more on the right side, at times turning into a painful shooting in the right cheek-bone; at the same time the head on the right side is so much affected that even the hairs pain when touched, with restlessness, extreme peevishness and dislike to everything [Rkt.]
 Violent cutting in the hollow teeth, like soreness, in the morning, while half asleep; the pain of the teeth also lasts after waking, especially when biting; it returns next night in the same way, waking from sleep. (Nux vom. is serviceable against this). [Htb.]
 Sensation of dullness in the teeth. [Htb.]
 Dullness of the teeth, as from acids, at night. [H.]
145. The teeth on the left side feel too long. [H.]
 Ill-smelling mucus on the teeth. [H.]
 In the mouth, violent burning.<sup>1</sup> [HOFFMANN, Ephem. Nat. Cur. Cent., 5, 6.]
 Burning on the tongue, extending into the stomach. [Acta. Helvet., 3.]
 Burning in the mouth, extending into the stomach. [Schk.]
150. Always much saliva in the mouth, and constant spitting of a watery liquid. [H.]
 Sensation of heat and dry roughness, anteriorly on the tongue. [C.]
 Fine shooting pain on the tongue (aft.  $\frac{1}{2}$  h.).
 Smarting, posteriorly on the tongue. [Gff.]
 Peppery taste on the tongue.
155. Taste of coryza on the tongue.
 Sensation, anteriorly on the tongue, when moved, as if it was soft like butter. [Frz.]
 Speech difficult and less fluent, at one time as if he lacked breath or saliva, at another, as if his tongue was thick. [H.]
 Tongue, coated whitish-yellow. [Gff.]
 Tongue, coated white.
160. Vesicles burning painfully, on the tongue and the gums.
 Sore throat, from swallowing, like pressure from a plug. [W.]
 Pressive sore throat, more when not swallowing, than while swallowing.
 Violent pressive pain, posteriorly in the fauces, when not swallowing, at times only on one side. [Gff.]
 Pressive pain in the throat on deglutition, as if the bony palate were split in two. [W.]

<sup>1</sup> From four berries swallowed by a man, after mastication. —Hughes.

165. Pressive pain in the fauces, as soon as he swallows a morsel, and a sudden shiver, seemingly from the scrobiculus cordis, with loathing and shaking of the head and the chest. [C.]
 Tensive pain in empty deglutition, as from a sore throat, on the left side of the pharynx. [C.]
 Constriction and contraction of the pharynx.
 The œsophagus feels contracted, the food presses on it in swallowing. [Gff.]
 Sensation of constriction in the œsophagus, with crawling, not impeding eating. [Gff.]
170. Slight drawing and tickling, posteriorly in the fauces and pharynx. [Gff.]
 Scraping smarting, posteriorly in the fauces and the pharynx, as in severe coryza, worse from empty deglutition. [Gff.]
 Scratching and burning in the palate and fauces. [Hmn.]
 Scrapy sensation in the fauces, and tough mucus in it, which must be detached by hawking, accompanied with burning in the fauces. [Htb.]
 Roughness in the fauces (also aft. 24 h.).
175. The fauces feel sore, when the open air has access to them. [Frz.]
 Sore and rough in the fauces and on the palate.
 Sore and raw, posteriorly in the throat, sensible at inspiring, but most when swallowing.
 Constant burning in the fauces and the œsophagus (at once). [Htb.]
 Burning in the fauces and throat. [Schk.]
180. Burning in the throat. [C.]
 Burning in the fauces, as if he had swallowed pepper. [W.]
 Violent burning in the fauces. [HOFFMANN, l. c.]
 Cooling burning in the throat and on the tongue, extending into the stomach, as from peppermint confections. [Schk.]
 Inflammation of the pharynx. [Gazette salulaire, 1761, Dec.<sup>1</sup>]
185. Fiery taste in the mouth, after every meal, for several days. [Rkt.]
 Sweetish-salty taste in the mouth, especially after having got heated. [Gff.]
 Insipid, sourish taste in the mouth, while the food tastes all right. [Tth.]
 Offensive taste, only in the hollow teeth (posteriorly in the fauces?) with a like smell in the nose. [H.]
 Very bitter taste, and collection of water in the mouth, relieving the scratching burning. [Htn.]
190. Bitter taste in the mouth, and nausea, all the day.
 Beer tastes bitter; he vomits it up, but not water.
 Tobacco tastes like straw. [Htb.]
 When eating, he did not relish even the first bite; meat, which he loathed, he would not touch.
 Repugnance to meat.

---

<sup>1</sup> Not accessible.—Hughes.

195. Lack of appetite, owing seemingly to too much mucus in the throat.
Violent hunger and appetite, at noon and in the evening.
[Gr.]
Without any real appetite and hunger, yet constant desire to eat and to get something into the stomach, to stop its aching.
[H.]
Sensation as of hunger continued too long; the stomach hangs down. [H.]
Severe sensation of hunger, recurring in paroxysms, with gathering of water in the mouth (at once). [C.]
200. Thirstlessness, at once, but on the following day great desire for drinking, without dryness of the mouth, or actual violent thirst.
Eructation, frequent, empty and without taste. [Gff., Htn., Rkt.]
Eructation of air and acrid humor. [Schk.]
Eructation of empty air, with burning, and sweat as from anguish. [H.]
Eructation from drinking cold water. [Gff.]
205. Eructation in two motions, first a thrust, then a retching pressing out of air. [H.]
Regurgitation of the food and drink partaken of, with its natural taste. [H.]
Nausea. [Gr., Gff., Htb., HOME, Clin. exper., p. 466.<sup>1</sup>]
Frequent nausea, in the afternoon.
Nausea, with stomachache, as from being too full. [C.]
210. Inclination to vomit, with shaking and shivering on the whole body and gathering of water in the mouth, so that he could not spit out enough. [Schk.]
Violent inclination to vomit, when walking, with burning heat on the forehead. [C.]
Inclination to vomit, in the afternoon; it ceases on eating. [W.]
Great inclination to vomit, with heaving and rising of water from the stomach into the mouth; diminished by moving. [Schk.]
Violent vomiting.<sup>2</sup> [GMELIN, Pflanzen-Gifte, p. 362.]
215. Inordinate vomiting, daily for six weeks.<sup>3</sup> [WEDEL, Min. Nat. Cur., Dec. II., ann. 2, p. 323.]
Slight vomiting of green, bitter mucus, with great stolidity in the head, and hammering pain in the right frontal protuberance, lasting for several hours. [Schk.]
Fatal vomiting of blood.<sup>4</sup> [LINNÆUS, flor. Succ., p. 181.]
Pressing in the stomach, after a meal, as from repletion.
Stomachache, with a sensation as if the arteries were beating against the abdominal muscles, extending up into the cardiac region. [C.]
220. Pressure in the gastric region. [Rkt., Gff.]

<sup>1</sup>(To HOME): Effects of decoction of bark when given for nodes, etc.—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup>General statement.—Hughes.

<sup>3</sup>From a purgative dose.—Hughes.

<sup>4</sup>From twelve grains of powdered root, in a girl.—Hughes.

Pressure in the stomach, after a meal, and for some time afterward, a sensation as of undigested food therein. [H.]

Pressure in the scrobiculus cordis, in the evening, aggravated in paroxysms. [Gff.]

Jerking tensive pain in the scrobiculus cordis, when inspiring, as if a part of the diaphragm had grown fast. [W.]

Subsultus of the muscles in the scrobiculus cordis, and beside it, transient jerks. [Gr., Gff.]

225. Burning and pressure in the scrobiculus cordis, when pressing on it. [Schk.]

Burning and pressure transversely across the stomach, in fits, worse by pressing upon it. [H.]

Burning in the stomach.<sup>1</sup> [Acta Helvetica, III., 331; Schk.]

Inflammation of the stomach. [Gazette salulaire u. LANGE.]

Occasional contraction of the diaphragm under the ribs.

230. Pain in the abdomen, to relieve which he has to rise and to stretch himself.

Bellyache, with simple pain.

Long continued pains in the abdomen.<sup>2</sup> [RITTER, Nov. Act. N. C., III., App. p. 234.]

Pain in the abdomen for a month.<sup>3</sup> [HALLER, C. Vicat, Mat. med., Vol. I.]

Pressive pain in the stomach, with anxiety, so that he cannot contain himself.

235. General pressure on the whole of the epigastrium, with distension of the same, by day and by night. [Gff.]

Pressure at night in the tensely inflated abdomen, aggravated by any other than the position on the back, with compressed breath and quickened pulse. [Gff.]

Painful pressure in the abdomen wakes him from sleep at night, after very vivid dreams, with an anxious sensation, as if his abdomen had become rigid, hard and grown fast to the chest, but there is a movement in it as of flatus which is discharged. [Gff.]

Pressive pain in the abdomen, when walking in the open air after a meal; then perspiration and anguish, as if he were struggling with death; better after eructation.

Inflation of the abdomen, with pinching and discharge of much flatus. [C.]

240. Painful inflation of the abdomen, with short, anxious breathing, so that he must unbutton his clothes, attended with eructation, rumbling in the abdomen, difficult discharge of noisy flatus, chilliness and shivering, with violent yawning in the evening (1st d.). [Htb.]

Heaviness in the abdomen, with anxiety.

Hard abdomen (aft. 24 h.).

Compression in the abdomen and sensation as of a load in it.

Pinching pain in the abdomen, increasing and decreasing spasmodically, recurring with short intermissions, with pressive shooting pain, deep down in the hypogastrium, drawing occasion-

<sup>1</sup> (To A. H.) From berries swallowed by a boy after mastication.—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup> From berries; with burning in throat and diarrhoea.—Hughes.

<sup>3</sup> General statement.—Hughes.

- ally from the middle of the abdomen into the left side, with hard distension of the abdomen, transiently relieved by discharge of flatus; accompanied with lassitude of the body, especially of the lower limbs, frequently recurring with aggravation and then intolerable. [Gff.]
245. Colic pains as if the intestines were being singly clutched and compressed. [W.]
 Colicky pains on a small spot on the right side of the abdomen, as if a piece of the intestines was incarcerated, after a meal. [W.]
 Violent colic for two days.<sup>1</sup> [Veckoskrift for Läkare, III., p. 58.]
- Tearing pains in the abdomen.
 Pinching in the epigastric region. [Schk., H.]
250. Pinching and drawing in the abdomen, especially about the navel. [Htb.]
 Writhing pinching in the umbilical region, ceasing after the discharge of flatus. [Htb.]
 Cutting colic, below the umbilical region, for several days. [H.]
 Pressive cutting in the abdomen, always toward evening. [Gff.]
 Dull stitches, frequently, deep in the left hypogastrium, especially close above the penis. [Gff.]
255. Constant dull shooting in the left hypogastrium, aggravated by pressure and walking. [Gff.]
 Tearing stitches, in the right half of the epigastrium, followed by pressure. [Gff.]
Burning and sensation of heat in the abdomen (soon). [Htb., Schk.]
 Inflammation of the bowels. [Gazette salulaire.]
 Pain in the abdomen, in the bed, as if from cold, wet weather. [W.]
260. Sensation of the intestines and the stomach, as if they were empty, and flapped about in walking, in the morning, after a sufficient breakfast. [C.]
 Painful moving about in the abdomen, as if she should have diarrhœa. [Gr.]
 Dull pain under the left ribs, as from obstructed flatus, aggravated by pressure; then relieving eructation. [Gff.]
 Sensation as if bubbles of air were forming in the epigastrium, between the scrobiculus cordis and the navel. [C.]
Rumbling and rolling in the abdomen, with sometimes more, sometimes less flatus. [Gff., Htb., Schk.]
265. Sensation as if the whole abdomen was full of flatus. [Gff.]
 Painful pinching flatus accumulates in both sides of the abdomen. [Htb.]
Flatus is always discharged in short and abrupt emissions. [Gr., W.]
 After violent colic in the lesser intestines, a single flatus is discharged. [W.]
 In the groin, shooting pain, toward the ilium. [W.]

<sup>1</sup> From berries in a man.—Hughes.

270. Dull stitches in the right iliac region, from within outward, oft repeated. [Gff.]
 Violent stitches on the left side above the crest of the ilium, more toward the back, arresting the breath. [W.]
 Dull shooting pain in the right inguinal region, then tearing there. [Gff.]
 Sudden pain in the left groin, like pressure on a sore spot, worse when expiring and stooping. [Gr.]
 Pressing asunder in the right abdominal ring, when urinating; ceasing by bending the knee, returning on raising himself. [C.]
275. In the inguinal glands, a drawing pain.
 Tenacious stool, daily, but scanty. [Gff.]
 Small, soft, frequent stools.
 Diarrhœic stool with previous anxiety in the scrobiculus cordis. [Frz.]
 In the brown fæces, small, white, shining grains. [Frz.]
280. After a call to stool, a copious, pappy stool is discharged without any trouble, in short, quick intermissions; immediately afterward tenesmus in the anus, as in diarrhœa (aft.  $\frac{1}{2}$  h.). [Gr.]
 Hard stool, slowly discharged, in the evening, with much straining. [Gr.]
 Pretty hard stool, in the morning, with brief intermissions, after sitting a long time; immediately after the meal, again with brief intermissions, pappy stools; in the evening, again an urging, as for diarrhœa, but this repeatedly disappears with a discharge of flatus, until finally a small stool, at first regular, then pappy, follows; at this evacuation, the tenesmus first increased violently and then was allayed. [Gr.]
 Thick, pappy difficult evacuations of fæces, after violent straining, and with subsequent smarting in the anus. [H.]
 Repeated but scanty stools, every day. [Frz.]
285. Continual diarrhœa, with intolerable bellyache. [W.]
 Inordinate diarrhœa. [HOFFMANN.]
 Before the (ordinary) stool, painful writhing in the abdomen; the stool is copious and pappy; afterward there is still pain in the abdomen and urging in the anus, as if more should come (1st d.). [Htb.]
 Before and after the stool, febrile rigor, prostration and great sensitiveness to the open, cold air. [H.]
 After the stool, shuddering all over the body.
290. After the stool, the anus becomes constricted over the protruded rectum, which is thus incarcerated and sorely painful when touched. [Frz.]
 In the anus, a smarting sore pain, and in the rectum, a burning, when walking. [Rkt.]
 Painful straining, tearing and drawing in the anus and perinæum, and extending from this through the whole urethra. [Gff.]
 The urine is much less than usual, after much drinking. [H.]
 Frequent micturition.
295. Dark urine, of wine-yellow color, becoming turbid after an hour. [W.]

- The urine later on draws flakes and deposits a reddish sediment. [W.]
 Hot urine, with reddish sediment. [W.]
 Scalding urine.
 Burning during micturition, anteriorly in the region of the glans.
300. After micturition, a few drops of blood are emitted.
 Hematuria.
 Pinching sensation in the bladder. [Gff.]
 In the urethra, in the evening, a constant itching, with shooting pain.
 Shooting, formicating pain in the urethra, with discharge of some humor.
305. Sore pain in the urethra, on touching it, both per se, and on urinating.
 Itching sore pain in the urethra, aggravated by pressure. [Gff.]
 Discharge of mucus from the urethra.
 Discharge of watery mucus from the urethra, when moving.
 Jerking tearing in the penis, with a wavelike pain above it, to the right, in the abdomen. [Gff.]
310. Shooting jerks on the back of the penis. [Htb.]
 Tearing and jerking tearing in the glans. [Gff.]
 Itching in the glans.
Fine pricking stitches in the penis, and on the tip of the glans. [C., Gff., Gr., Htb.]
 Balanitis, with dark-red inflammation of the inner surface of the prepuce, without swelling; with violent itching, and a sore sensation, in the evening, with tearing and drawing in the glans (aft. 3 w.). [Gff.]
315. Pressive stitch, on the right side of the scrotum. [W.]
 Painless swelling of the left side of the scrotum. [Htb.]
 Erections, frequently by day. [Htb.]
 After a pollution, violent excitement of the sexual impulse, with tingling in the whole body, as from excessive lasciviousness (aft. 3 w.). [Gff.]
 Discharge of mucus from the vagina.
320. Leucorrhœa, like albumen.
 * * * * *
Ineffectual excitation to sneezing.
 Smarting sensation of dryness and formication in the left nostril, while the right one is stopped up, and vice versa. [Gff.]
Almost constant dryness of the nose, with diminution of olfaction. [Htb., W.]
 Frequent sneezing and fluent coryza. [Gff., W.]
325. Sneezing, with sore pain in the chest. [C., W.]
 Stuffed coryza.
 Most violent fluent coryza (aft. 48 h.).
 Coryza, with bloody, very tenacious nasal mucus.
 Coryza, with sore pain of the right interior ala nasi. [W.]
330. Discharge of yellow, thin, occasionally bloody humor from the nose, which thereby becomes sore, with burning pain.

Hoarseness (5th d.).

Hoarseness, extending down to the pit of the throat.

Burning in the throat, with excitation to tussiculation in the larynx, as if from dryness, with anxious oppression of the breath, and detachment of a little mucus on coughing. [Htb.]

Violent excitation to coughing, in the evening in bed; and in the morning it is lower down in the windpipe, than where the cough can reach, therefore the cough is violent, while it is impossible to detach anything by coughing.

335. Cough, the excitation to which arises low down in the chest, and which is not relaxed, until there ensue vomiting and a flow of watery saliva.

Violent intermitting cough, causing vomiting, and lasting for several hours (aft. 1 h.).

Dry cough, with retching to vomit, in the afternoon and toward evening.

Dry cough, with scratching in the lower part of the sternum, and stitches in the right frontal protuberance. [Schk.]

Nocturnal cough, especially after midnight.

340. Expectoration of blood in the afternoon and at night, with a moderate cough and restless sleep, with heavy, frightful dreams.

The breath is oppressed, because the chest is, as it were, contracted from both sides. [Htn.]

Slow, difficult respiration, with anxiety, he cannot inhale sufficient air, and imagines that he must suffocate. [Frz.]

Anxiety on the chest. [C.]

While talking, his breath frequently fails him in the middle of a word, and he has to begin again. [H.]

345. Asthma for several hours.

Asthma by fits, as if something heavy was lying on the chest.

While stooping and sitting, the chest is much oppressed, she has to open her dress; the breath comes slower and shorter. [H.]

In drawing his breath, the chest and windpipe seem too narrow, the sensation is not aggravated by running and by going up-stairs. [H.]

When taking a deep breath, it seems too narrow in the region of the third and fourth ribs. [W.]

350. On taking a deep breath, there is a pain in the side of the chest, as if the lungs had grown fast, and could not expand freely.

The breath from the lungs smells like rotten cheese.

Pressure on the chest, with palpitation.

Pressive pain on the interior of the chest, a dull pressure on a small spot, first on the right side, then on the left of the chest. [Gff.]

Pressive, tight pain in the posterior part of the chest, when the body is straightened; this pain is much aggravated by deep respiration, and it then passes through the whole of the lower part of the chest; the pain is hardly perceptible when bending forward, but it appears as a sort of rheumatism when, moving his arms, he bends considerably backward. [Htn.]

355. Tensive pressure on various parts of the chest. [W.]

Cramp-like pressure on a small spot on both sides of the sternum, when sitting; it disappears when he walks. [Htb.]

Cramp-like, contractive pain above the lower muscles of the chest, the lower part of the back and the upper arms, when walking in the open air.

Tension of the muscles of the chest, on stretching out the arms.

Twitching in the left side of the chest, transient and painful, like electric shocks. [Gr.]

360. Stitches on the left side of the chest, below the clavicle, in rhythm, extending deep into the chest; soon after, only a dull aching, aggravated at every breath, and returning for several days (3d d.). [Gr.]

Sharp stitches in the chest.

Shooting bone-pain in the clavicle.

Stitch deep into the chest, when laughing. [Htb.]

Dull stitch under the heart, when taking a deep breath. [H.]

365. Violent, intermittent stitches in the right side of the chest, more toward the right side, which scarcely permit respiring. [Gff.]

Fine shooting pain in the chest.

Fine shooting pain in the right side of the chest, chiefly while respiring (aft. 9 d.).

Pressive burning behind the xiphoid cartilage, returning in paroxysms. [Htn.]

Sore burning on the sternum, on a small spot, on the right side, near the scrobiculus cordis. [Also Gff.]

370. Painful, sudden stitch, outward from the right mamma. [Gr.]

Burning pain, suddenly, between the two breasts. [Gr.]

Pressure in the region of the left nipple. [Gff.]

Eruption of red spots on the chest, as from flea-bites, with violent burning and excitation to scratch, the burning remained yet many days after the disappearance of the spots. [Rkt.]

Pain on the right side of the sacrum. [W.]

375. Pain in the sacrum, spreading over all parts of the body (aft. 44 h.).

Pain in the sacrum, more while walking than when at rest. [Schk.]

Violently drawing, pressive pain, on the left side, near the sacrum. [Gff.]

Cutting tearing, low down at both sides of the sacrum. [Gff.]

In the back, a dull, pulsating pain, close beside the middle of the spine. [Gff.]

380. Tensive, contractive pain in the back, down to the sacrum. [Schk.]

Pain, shooting from the left side of the back through the chest, when taking a deep breath. [W.]

Dull stitch in the back, near the right scapula, impeding respiration, most perceptible when moving. [Frz.]

Sharp, sudden stitches beside the spine, darting forward through the chest into the cartilages of the left ribs, in the evening. [Gr.]

- Pressive shooting pain on the external right side of the lumbar vertebræ, aggravated by moving. [W.]
385. Dull drawing shooting, down between the shoulders, relieved by moving the parts. [Gr.]
 Burning stitch and severe muscular twitching, below the left scapula. [Gff.]
 Tearing on the right side of the scapula. [Gff.]
 Burning, constant prickling on the left scapula and the top of the shoulder. [Gr.]
 Small elevations of the skin, after previous itching, about the scapulæ and the right nates, with smarting pain when touched, readily rubbed open and discharging some blood (3 d.). [Htb.]
390. In the nape of the neck, severely itching rash.
 Rheumatic pain in the nape, neck and occiput. [Gff.]
Pain from stiffness in the nape and the exterior cervical muscles. [C., W.]
 Pain from stiffness in the right side of the nape and the neck, mostly when moving. [Htb.]
 On the left side of the neck, tearing jerks. [Gff., Gr.]
395. Tearing on the left side of the neck, into the left ear and about the clavicle. [Gff.]
 Red, smooth pimple on the right side of the neck, with sore pain when touched, after several days it recedes flat under the skin, and remains so for several weeks. [Gff.]
 In the axilla, prickling and gnawing, returning worse after scratching. [Gr.]
Sore sensation in the right axilla. [Gr., Gff.]
 The shoulder-joint is painful, as if the head of the humerus was too large for the glenoid cavity. [W.]
400. Pain in the shoulder-joint, as if it would tear apart, with throbbing, burning and tearing, in the evening, aggravated by moving. [Also Tth.]
 Dull pain and twitching in the top of the shoulder, as if he had borne a heavy burden. [Gr.]
 Tension in the top of the right shoulder and drawing in the left. [Gff.]
 Pressive pain in the border of the shoulder-joints. [Gff.]
 Pinching and boring on the lower side of the right shoulder-joint. [Gff.]
405. Constant burning, shooting on the top of the right shoulder. [Htb.]
 Painless cracking in the left shoulder-joint, with paralytic sensation in the upper arm on raising the arm and tearing in the elbow-joint on bending it, in the evening, in bed. [Htb.]
 Paralytic pain in the right shoulder-joint, with pressive pain on the bones of the shoulder (at once). [W.]
 Weary pain in the arms, especially in the shoulder-joint.
 Bruised feeling of the arms.
410. Weakness, lassitude of the arms, when writing. [C.]
 Furuncle on the left arm.
 Tearing jerks on the right arm and on the fingers. [Gr.]

- The upper arm is painful as from a blow, with heaviness and drawing down in the shafts of the bones. [Gr.]
 Drawing in the upper arm. [Gff.]
415. Dull pain on the lower part of the upper arm. [Gr.]
 Frequent twitching in the upper arm, worse when touched.
 Shooting pressive pain, from time to time, in the left humerus.
 [W.]
 Paralytic, pressive pain in the left upper arm, extending into the elbow-joint, aggravated by bending the arm outward. [W.]
 Bruised pain of both the upper arms and the shoulder. [W.]
420. Bruised pain of the upper arms, when touched.
 In the elbow-joint, when lifting up the arm, tensive paralysis; when stretching them out straight, a shooting pain.
 Rheumatic drawing and tension in the region of the right elbow. [Gff.]
 Pressive drawing in the elbow, extending into the fingers.
 [Gff.]
 Violent tearing in the shaft of the left ulna. [Gff.]
425. In the forearm and the elbow, tearing. [Gff.]
 Drawing tearing in the right forearm, close by the wrist.
 [Htn.]
 Tearing and shooting on the left fore-arm and in the fingers, in the morning. [Htb.]
 Pain of the periosteum of the right radius, aggravated by pressing upon it. [W.] Contractive pain in the muscles of the forearm, during and after walking in the open air.
430. Elevations on the skin, as large as lentils, on the right forearm, with severe itching and becoming hard after scratching.
 [H.]
 In the wrist-joint and in the whole arm, more in the muscles, a paralytic pain as from a sprain, merely when moving (at once). [Htb.]
 Paralytic sensation in the right wrist-joint, both at rest and when moving (1st d.). [Htb.]
 Paralytic and pressive pain in the right metacarpal bones.
 [W.]
 Trembling of the hands, toward evening. [Rkt.]
435. Severe pressure, causing weakness, in the whole hand, with a sensation as if it was swelling.
 Drawing pain in the left wrist-joint. [W.]
 Tearing in the left wrist. [Gff.]
 Tearing on the dorsum of the left hand and between the knuckles of the fingers. [Gff.]
 Undulating, dull tearing on the dorsum of the left hand.
 [Gff.]
440. Fine, slowly twitching stitches on the left hand. [Gr.]
 Pressive burning in the left carpus, in the morning, after rising. [Htn.]
 Great heat and warmth through the whole hand and arm, also perceptible when touched.

- Swelling of the hand, with formication in it, as from going to sleep.
- Swelling and heat of the hand and the arm, with muscular twitching and pecking in it.
445. Swelling of the dorsum of the hand, and bruised pain of the metacarpal bones and of the little finger.
- Heat-vesicles on the ball of the right hand, for several days. [H.]
- In the bones of the fingers, painful twitching and grumbling, in paroxysms. [Gr.]
- Tearing in the left index, in the evening, in bed. [Htb.]
- Tearing boring in the third joint of the right middle fingers. [Htn.]
450. Tearing and smarting burning on the inner border of the left index and middle finger. [Gff.]
- Fine needle-pricks in the tip of the thumb, especially sensible on grasping. [Gff.]
- Paralytic pain of the bones of the thumb, proceeding from the posterior part to the tip. [W.]
- Sore pain under the nail of the right thumb, especially sensible when pressing on it. [Gff.]
- Pressure in the gluteal muscles, in the morning, in bed. [W.]
455. Tearing in the right natis. [Gff.]
- Burning on the skin of the natis. [Gff.]
- Twitching pain in the hip-joint, extending down into the knee. [W., Gr.]
- Tearing and tensive pressure above and on the right hip. [Gff.]
- Suddenly, a dull pain, as she starts to walk, as after a misstep, below the right natis, and then also at every step, recurring for several days. [Gr.]
460. Bone-pain of the thighs and legs.
- Long-continued, bruised pain on the inner side of the thighs, when walking fast. [H.]
- Paralytic tearing in the thigh, in the upper and outer portion, when standing. [Htb.]
- Tearing in the thin part of the right thigh. [Gff.]
- Tearing in the right thigh, and drawing in the middle of the left thigh. [Gff.]
465. Tearing with shooting in the upper part of the right thigh, and at the same time in the right hypogastrium. [Gff.]
- Drawing in the upper part of the femur and in the natis with colic. [Gff.]
- Undulating drawing pain, down along the whole of the thigh, leaving behind it a painful weakness, interfering with walking. [Gr.]
- Restlessness of the right thigh, so that he has continually to stretch it out, and then to draw it up, in the evening, in bed (2d d.). [Htb.]
- Single, raised pimples on the thighs, with shooting pain when touched (aft. 1 h.). [W.]

470. Burning sore pain on the posterior side of the right thigh, a in a recent contusion. [Gr.]
Muscular twitching in the left thigh, as if air-bubbles were forming there. [Gff.]
Dull twitching on the lower part of the thigh, and on the left patella, when standing. [Gr.]
Painful twitching in the left knee, when sitting down.
[Gr.]
On the knee, suddenly a keen pain, as after a blow or a contusion. [Gr.]
475. Sharp pressive pain on the outer side above the left knee, ceasing when pressed upon, but reappearing immediately on the inner ankle. [W.]
Stiffness in the tendons of the left hough. [W.]
Straining in the left knee-joint and leg, as if he had walked too much. [W.]
Rheumatic tension and drawing above the knees, and below in the legs. [Gff.]
Violent tearing in the right hough, and up the thigh. [Gff.]
480. Sudden, dull stitch on the right knee, which then pained for a time. [Gr.]
In the leg, a dull pain at every step, as if the tibia was broken in two. [Gr.]
Violent pain in the tibia as if it were bruised, or as if the periosteum was torn from it, disturbing his sleep (after midnight) with a chill suddenly piercing the body, and with constant, violent thirst.
Pressive pain on the right tibia, often recurring. [Also
W.]
Pinching on the lower part of the right tibia. [Gff.]
485. Rheumatic drawing in the lower part of the right leg, toward the ankle-joint. [Gff.]
Twitching drawing in the calf, very short, indeed, but very frequent (aft. 1 h.).
Drawing and muscular twitching in the lower part of the calf.
[Gff.]
Dull twitching and painful drawing in the middle of the tibia.
[Htn.]
Slow twitching in the lower part of the left tibia. [Gr.]
490. Slowly twitching needle-pricks on the right tibia. [Gr.]
Transient shooting twitching on the upper part of the left tibia, when sitting with bent knee. [Gr.]
Tearing in the leg, worse above the ankles. [Gff.]
Paralytic tearing in the lower part of the tibia, in the evening, in bed. [Htb.]
Itching on the inner side of the calf, so that he has to scratch, causing an erosion. [W.]
495. Itching on the inner side of the calves, not ceasing from scratching, and not ceasing until he had scratched himself bloody, followed by burning; after twelve hours, a swelling on the calf, and on the scratched place, a bloody crust with yellowish pus under it, and bruised pain. [W., C.]

Hard swelling of the calf, when walking in the open air, with burning pain.

The ankles, when he starts to run, feel weak and painful, as if they would break. [H.]

Paralytic weakness on the outer side of the ankle-joint, when walking in the open air (1st d.). [Htb.]

Cramp-pain and pain as from a misstep, about the outer ankle of the left foot. [W.]

500. Pressive pain about the outer malleolus of the left foot, disappearing when at rest. [W.]

Bruised pain in the left ankle-joint, when at rest. [W.]

Painful stretching and pulling below the inner left malleolus, extending to the bottom of the sole. [W.]

Tearing in both heels, and in the right tendo Achillis. [Gff.]

Tearing on the right side of the left foot, toward the sole and heel. [Gff.]

505. Tearing on the dorsum of the right foot. [Gff.]

Quivering about the outer malleolus of the right foot. [W.]
Formication in the foot.

Heat-pain or burning pain, as from red-hot coals, on the right foot, momentary and frequently recurring.

Burning, like fire, on the ball of the left foot, with stitches, more when standing than when walking (4th d.). [Gr.]

510. Cold, damp feet, when sitting in the warm room. [Gff.]

The toes ache, even when walking only a little, as from the pressure of hard boots. [Gr.]

Quivering on the posterior joint of the great big toe, like muscular twitching, or as if vesicles burst open. [Gff.]

Painful as it were, nervous twitching in the big toe, in the morning, in bed. [Gr.]

Pain, as from a contusion, at times, as it were, grumbling, in the tip of the middle left toe. [Gr.]

515. Tearing in the left middle toe. [Gff.]

Tearing in the posterior joint of the left big toe, and on the right side of the dorsum of the left foot. [Gff.]

Violent tearing in the ball of the left little toe, and from there into the sole. [Gff., Htb.]

Rhythmical prickling burning stitches, on the tip of the left big toe. [Gr.]

All the joints are painful, as if bruised or wearied. [W.]

520. Unsteadiness of the joints, as if they would give way. [W.]

Sensation of drawing and prostration in the joints, particularly those of the knees, the feet and the wrists.

Paralytic drawing pains, on various parts of the hands and of the lower limbs. [W.]

Short drawing and twitching, now here, now there, always leaving behind a constant aching. [Gr.]

Hot twitching stitches, in various parts of the body. [W.]

525. In the evening he feels worst.

Wine and coffee do not seem to counteract the effects of Mezereum. [Htb.]

Itching all over the body, very obstinate, for several days.

Itching, as from fleas, mostly on small spots, disappearing after some time and reappearing elsewhere, especially in the evening, less by day, hardly at all by night. [Gr.]

Itching on the sacrum, on the chest, the neck and in the nape, with sore pain and erosion after scratching. [H.]

530. Itching and burning, in the evening, now here, now there, with increased warmth of the body. [Gff.]

Fine stitches, occasionally itching, here and there on the skin, especially in the evening, in bed. [Htb.]

Peeling off of the skin of the whole body. [HOFFMANN.]

Severely itching rash on the nape, the back and the thighs, always worse and more gnawing after scratching, and pricking as from needles afterward.

Red, itching miliary rash, on the arms, the head, and the whole body, partly single, partly in clusters, very troublesome and obstinate.<sup>1</sup> [BERGIUS, M. M., p. 320.]

535. Eruption of red pustules on the outer side of the arms and the lower limbs, only itching and burning when undressing.

Ulcerative eruption like pimples, on the finger-joints, itching most in the evening.

A recent wound (in the knee) becomes inflamed, burns much and there are stitches occasionally, extending into the limb. [Gr.]

In a contusive wound, severe erosion and throbbing. [Gr.]

Itching, with redness around the ulcer. [W.]

540. Itching and pains around the ulcer, at the least touch. [W.]

In an ulcer (already present) there are stitches, especially in the evening.

In the ulcer, a drawing pain, and on its border it is a stinging pain.

Weariness and restlessness in the lower limbs; he has to shift them from place to place. [W.]

Drawing pain in the whole of the left side of the body, with sensation of going to sleep, especially painful on the hand and the foot. [Gff.]

545. Heaviness and bruised feeling of all the limbs, as in a suppressed coryza (aft. 96 h.).

Heaviness in all the limbs, on moving. [H.]

Heaviness in the limbs; he dislikes to move and cannot resolve to do anything. [Frz.]

Lazy, phlegmatic and tired in the lower limbs; he does not like to walk. [Htb.]

In walking, he is inclined to hasten along, bending the epigastrium forward, singing at the time, but everything is awkward and forced. [H.]

550. Sensation of great tightness in the body.

Weakness, lassitude.

Great lassitude in the limbs. [Schk.]

Great lassitude, while walking. [Rkt.]

Inordinate sinking of strength. [Act. Helvet.]

<sup>1</sup> From too long external application as an exutory.—Hughes.

555. Feeling of discomfort in the whole body, with yawning and stretching, aching in the abdomen, and eructation [Rkt.]
 Very lazy, no inclination for work, with constant yawning. [Rkt.]
 Looks dissipated and pale, as if he had not slept enough, all day. [Htb.]
Violent yawning and stretching (at once). [Htb.]
Drowsiness by day.
560. Irresistible drowsiness, five hours before his usual retiring time. [Frz.]
 Uneasy, unrefreshing sleep.
 Uneasy sleep, disturbed by confused dreams.
 Late in falling asleep, and after a short slumber, he awakes before midnight, with the sensation in all the limbs of diminished external sensibility, even of the penis and the abdomen. [Gff.]
 After a sound, she wakes up, as it were, stupefied.
565. He awakens at night with inclination to vomit.
 Awaking at 3 A. M., with sensation of excessive heaviness in all the limbs and in the head; he cannot fall asleep again for a long time, and is then tormented by anxious dreams. [Gff.]
 Nightmare, after midnight, and after awaking, the limbs are asleep and the hands without strength. [Gff.]
 Frequent waking after midnight, till toward morning; he lies on his back, with open mouth, dry tongue, tensive pain and heaviness in the occiput. [H.]
 In sleep, violent concussion of the body, so that he even bit into his tongue.
570. Frequent starting up from sleep. [Gr.]
 After sleeping, excessive peevishness.
 He wakes up, after vivid dreams, at 2 A. M. and cannot go to sleep again on account of a sur-excitation. [C.]
 From being wide awake, he could not get to sleep before 3 A. M. [Rkt.]
 Sleep full of dreams.
575. Frightful dreams.
 Dreams, which he can well recall, toward morning. [H.]
 Dreams, that cannot be recalled. [W.]
 Dreams, that his back is covered with warts and excrescences. [W.]
 Frightful dream, with starting up, he dreams he is falling down from a height. [W.]
580. Very vivid dreams, before midnight; they are anxious, after midnight, ridiculous. [Gff.]
 Voluptuous dreams, and as if he had had a pollution. [Gff.]
Sensitive to cold air. [Gff., C.]
 Chilly in the warm room, with drowsiness. [Gff.]
 Shivering and shuddering in the back, the chest and the epigastrium. [W.]
585. Repeated shudder all over the body, with goose-skin and icy cold hands and feet in the warm room. [Htn.]
 Shudder over the back and the arms.

Chill on moving.

Chill over the abdomen and the arms, with dilated pupils (aft. 35 h.).

Chill and coldness of the arms and lower limbs.

590. Chill, as if she had cold water repeatedly thrown over her, especially over the arms, body, hips and feet, with yawning, lachrymation and complete warmth of the face and hands. [Gr.]

Quite cold, externally, for thirty-six hours with great thirst, without desiring to get warmed, without dislike to the open air, and without subsequent heat.

Very chilly, all day, peevish and uncomfortable, fatigued and cachectic, as from severe illness; with it, some appetite, but discomfort after eating and drinking; only tolerable in the open air. [Gr.]

Severe chill in the whole body. [Schk.]

Febrile rigor. [Schk.]

595. Chill and coldness of the whole body, with asthmatic contraction and oppression of the chest, before and behind.

Febrile rigor, with thirst for cold water.

Chill outside of the bed; in the bed, heat.

Internal chilliness. [Gr.]

Sensation of cold and sweat on the legs, then heat all over, but chiefly in the head.

600. Coldness of the arms and lower limbs, without his feeling cold there. [Mr. (Meyer?).]

Hands and feet cold, as of a corpse. [Schk.]

Cold feet, which however got warm in bed. [Gr.]

Cold feet, with chill all over, without shuddering, with dryness in the back of the mouth, while saliva gathers in front; without desire to drink, for two hours. [Th.]

Cold trickling down on both sides of the upper arm, over the back and the feet, while yawning. [Gr.]

605. After eating, a quicker pulse, and sensation as if the heart beat on the left side, next to the stomach; quivering in the eyelid, unusually distinct vision, but as if looking through concave glasses, with a sort of swimming before the eyes. [C.]

Full, tense, hard, intermittent pulse.<sup>1</sup> [GMELIN.]

Pulse toward evening, quicker by twenty beats, with increased bodily warmth and excitation. [Gff.]

Increased warmth all over the body. [Schk.]

Violent hot fever. [HOFFMAN, Act. Helvet.]

610. In the evening much thirst, with great dryness of the mouth, which disappears momentarily through drinking. [Gr.]

<sup>1</sup> Not found.—Hughes.

MURIATICUM ACIDUM, ACIDUM HYDRO- CHLORICUM, MURIATIC ACID.<sup>1</sup>

The colorless muriatic acid of the shops, obtained from salt by means of sulphuric acid, contains a considerable quantity of this latter acid. To free it from this admixture, and to produce it quite pure for the use of the homœopathic physician, the sulphuric acid must be precipitated by adding a sufficiency of muriate of baryta. The muriatic acid is then decanted from the sediment (sulphate of baryta) and re-distilled.

The yellow muriatic acid, distilled over by means of the sulphate of iron, contains no sulphuric acid, but it contains iron and cannot, therefore, be used for our cures, which demand pure medicinal substances.

This acid has so far proved useful in the diseases where the symptoms were appropriate and the following ailments were also present: Half-sightedness from above downward; insensibility in the meatus auditorius internus; throbbing in the ear; deafness; eruption of pimples in the face; freckles; sore throat; eructation; dislike to meat; inflation and fullness of the abdomen; cramps in the abdomen; stool of too thin formation; stoppage of the nose; pressive drawing in the upper arms and knees; coldness of the feet; sensitiveness to damp weather.

The abbreviations of the names of my fellow-observers are: Gtm., Gutmann; Htm., Hartmann; Hl., Haynel; Lgh., Langhammer; Ng., the anonymous contributor in Hartlaub und Trinks' Reiner Arzneimittellehre; Rl., Rummel; Stf., Stapf; Wsl., Wislicenus.

MURIATICUM ACIDUM.

Sad, taciturn and discontented with his fate.

Sad and introverted, as if she had no life in her, during the menses. [Ng.]

Sad mood. [Gtm.]

Deep reflection, and quiet introversion, as if something unpleasant was impending, but inclination to work. [Lgh.]

5. Anxious apprehension; he cannot get over the slightest misfortune (at once). [Lgh.]

Anxiety, with cold perspiration of the face.

Laconic, reserved, morose (aft. 4 h. and 3 d.). [Gtm.]

<sup>1</sup>All the fellow-observers mentioned by Hahnemann, save Rummel and Nenning, cooperated with him in producing the pathogenesis of Muriatic acid contained in Vol. V. of the Materia Medica Pura. The additions here are mainly Nenning's symptoms.—Hughes.

Ill-humored, vexed, no work succeeds in his hands, in the evening. [Ng.]

No pleasure in anything; everything vexes her; with total lack of tone, in the afternoon in the open air. [Ng.]

10. Surly mood.

Very peevish.

Pusillanimous, despondent and vexed about everything.

His cheerfulness steadily decreases, till he gets very peevish in the evening.

Peevish, annoyed humor.

15. Very irritable and inclined to passion and anger.

Readily excited.

Tendency to get startled.

Disinclination to mental work (aft. 3 d.). [Gtm.]

While working, ideas about recent occurrences press upon him, and are vividly presented before him.

20. Cheery, confident mood (aft. sever. h.) (curative effect). [Lgh.]

Whirling in the open air, and unsteady in walking.

[Gtm.]

Stupid in the head, in the forehead. [Stf.]

Whirling in his head, more when in the room, with dimness of vision. [Stf.]

Vertigo in the open air, suddenly; objects turned around with her (2d d.). [Ng.]

25. Vertigo in the head, with tearing in the crown, and a sensation as if his hair was being pulled upward (6th d.). [Ng.]

Heaviness in the forehead, pressing down toward the eyes, with a numb feeling; it ceases by pressing upon it. [Ng.]

Pressive heaviness in the head, in the morning, after rising, aggravated even to a confusion of the objects before the eyes, by looking strainedly at a particular object, with reeling and drowsiness. [Ng.]

Heaviness in the occiput, as if the head would sink backward, owing to weakness of the cervical muscles. [Gtm.]

Heavy feeling in the occiput with drawing stitches there, toward the nape, with swelling of a gland in the nape, which pains when touched, and heaviness and vertigo in the head, with gloominess of the eyes. [Htm.]

30. Headache in the forehead and the occiput, which is aggravated, especially in the forehead, on raising the head in bed.

Headache from walking in the open air.

Pain on the left occipital protuberance, from walking in a rough wind.

Pain in the forehead, later it occupies the whole head. [Ng.]

Stupefying, pressive pain in the forehead, in all positions, it disappears when touched, [Lgh.]

35. Headache in the whole head, as if the brain was torn and shattered, as in putrid fevers.

Headache as from incipient coryza, pressing toward the eyes, which disappeared while lying down, after frequent sneezing.

Pressure in the left side of the head.

- Pressive pain in the left temple. [Gtm.]
 Pressive headache, pressing from within outward, in the forehead and the temples. [Wsl.]
40. Pressure from the middle of the brain outward toward the left side of the forehead. [Gtm.]
 Pressive pain in the anterior part of the brain, aggravated by moving the eyes. [Gtm.]
 Tensive, pressive headache from the occipital bone through the brain into the forehead. [Gtm.]
 Tensive pain in the right temple. [Gtm.]
 Tension and shooting in the occiput, in the evening. [Ng.]
45. Twitching pain in the crown, several times, in the evening. [Ng.]
 Tearing headache in the forehead.
 Severe tearing in the crown, at times with the sensation as if the hair was pulled upward (6th d.). [Ng.]
 Tearing in the right parietal bone at times with stitches extending to the forehead, and drawing at times to the border of the orbit, occasionally with tickling in the left ear, and burning in the concha. [Ng.]
 Severe tearing and shooting in the occiput. [Ng.]
50. Tearing and pressure by shocks in the forehead, toward the right orbit (aft. 5 h.). [Htm.]
 Jerking tearing, with shocks, in both the halves of the occiput, extending into the forehead. [Htm.]
 Shooting headache.
 Severe shooting in the upper part of the head and the forehead, from noon till bed-time.
 A stitch in the head, when blowing the nose.
55. Long oft-repeated stitches on both the frontal protuberances, toward the middle. [Htm.]
 Shooting in the forehead, extending into the temple, aggravated by stooping and pressure. [Stf.]
 Shooting in the right parietal bone, and then violent tearing in the right lobule and about the ear. [Ng.]
 A stitch in the head, above the temple (aft. 1 h.). [Ng.]
 A piercing stitch into the head, after rising from stooping, after dinner. [Ng.]
60. Headache at 5 A. M., waking her from sleep, with severe shooting afterward above the right ear. [Ng.]
 Boring pain in the vertex, seemingly from the skull into the brain. [Wsl.]
 Sensation of looseness of the brain, when pulling a heavy load. [Ng.]
 Sensation of burying in the head, especially in the forehead, in the morning, when stooping. [Ng.]
 Rushing sound in the head.
65. Externally on the hairy scalp, sensation as of the hair standing on end after a fright. [Gtm.]
 Tension of the skin of the left side of the head.
 Shooting tearing on the right temple (when standing), it disappeared on touching and in yawning. [Lgh.]

- Ulcerating pain, externally, in both temples and in the forehead. [Ng.]
- Burning, pressive pain externally above the left eye. [Htm.]
70. Burning pain on the hairy scalp, above the temple. [Gtm.]
- Pulsation of the right temporal artery, when lying on it.
- Dying off and going to sleep of the forehead.
- Violent itching on the crown, even to scratching open the skin, not removed by scratching. [Ng.]
- Pustules on the forehead and the temples, without sensation. [Lgh.]
75. Eruption of pimples on the forehead, which within a day and night become confluent into a scurf.<sup>1</sup> [SCHMIDTMUELLER in Horn's Archiv. IX., 11.]
- Furuncle on the right temple.
- In the border of the orbit, a fine tearing. [Ng.]
- Drawing into the left eye, from the occipital protuberance, without pain, but causing quivering in the upper lid (aft. 4 h.). [Htm.]
- Twitching, passing through the upper eyelid into the zygomatic process, as if a thread was drawn through (immediately). [Wsl.]
80. Itching in the eyes. [Ng.]
- Itching smarting in the inner canthus of the right eye, not removed by rubbing. [Ng.]
- Erosive smarting in the outer canthus of the left eye, in the evening.
- An itching stitch in the outer canthus of the right eye, when at rest. [Gtm.]
- Shooting from within outward at the eyes, which are red.
85. Cutting in the right eyeball, when at rest. [Gtm.]
- Burning and pressure in the eyes, as after straining the sight, in the evening. [Ng.]
- Burning in the eyes, in the morning, in washing with water. [Ng.]
- Burning of the eyes, which are agglutinated in the morning. [Ng.]
- The eyes are slightly inflamed.
90. Swelling and redness of the upper and lower eyelids, without pain. [Gtm.]
- The eyes are agglutinated in the morning. [Ng.]
- The pupils sometimes dilated, sometimes contracted, in periods of four to five hours. [Lgh.]
- Pupils very much dilated (aft. 11 and 15 h.). [Lgh.]
- Contracted pupils (aft. 1 to 3 h.). [Lgh.]
95. Flickering before the eyes and hemiopia; he sees only the one-half of objects, cut off perpendicularly from the other half.
- Great sensitiveness of the eyes to the light. [Ng.]
- Otalgia, like a rhythmical outward pressure from the right ear, with sensitiveness of the external ear, when touching it. [Ng.]

<sup>1</sup>"From drachm doses," Hahnemann says in the Materia Medica Pura, of so-called oxygenated muriatic acid (Aqua oxymuriatica). See S. 131, 422.—Hughes.

- Drawing pressure on the tragus, which when pressed upon sends the pain into the inner ear. [Htm.]
- Constant pinching deep in the right ear, occasionally with severe stitches extending behind the auricle, which is painful when pressed (aft. 8 h.). [Htm.]
100. Twitching pinching deep in the left ear, after frequent recurrence it becomes cramplike, almost like a straining earache. [Htm.]
 Tearing in the ear, like a straining earache. [Htm.]
 Tearing in the left ear, frequently repeated (4th d.). [Ng.]
 Tearing in the right external ear (1st d.). [Ng.]
 Tearing in the left lobule. [Ng.]
105. Drawing tearing behind the ear, slowly passing to the nape, and causing there a stiffness, which is painful when moved. [Htm.]
 Dull pressive cutting, posteriorly on the mastoid process, with pain of the spot as if festering underneath, when touched. [Wsl.]
 Pain as from an ulcer in the left ear, aggravated by boring with the finger. [Ng.]
 Pain of the lobule when touched, as if it would ulcerate. [Ng.]
 Gnawing pain in the right ear, in the evening. [Ng.]
110. An itching stitch in the left ear, ceasing when putting in the finger. [Gtm.]
 Itching in the left ear (aft. 2 h.). [Ng.]
 Heat first in the left ear, then also in the right, as if steam was coming out; then redness and swelling of the back of the hands, with wrinkles like chaps, also lachrymation of the eyes and diminution of the smell and the hearing; then redness and burning of the face for four hours. [Ng.]
 Eruption of pimples on the concha of the ear, which in a day and night coalesce to form a scurf. [SCHMIDTMUELLER.]
 Violently itching pimples, close behind and below the left tragus, which continues itching with an erosive pain, despite of the rubbing.
115. The ear-wax becomes dry, the hearing diminished; then (after several days) a detonation is heard in the ear, and he hears better and what is spoken lower.
 He hears the tick of the watch better than he understands when men speak.
 More acute and finer hearing (after-effect).
 He hears low sounds, and is very sensitive to noise.
Very sensitive to noise.
120. Singing in the ear, often and long-continued (3d d.). [Ng.]
 Frequent ringing, hissing and whistling in the ear (5th d.).
 Hissing and whistling in the right ear (1st h.).
 Whistling in the ear.
 Twittering in the ears, at night.
125. Long-continued epistaxis (aft. 1 h.).
 In the nostrils, a stinging pain, as if they would become ulcerated (2d d.).

Violent itching on the tip of the nose, recurring after scratching. [Ng.]

In the face, a cramp-like pain near the articulation of the left jaw, when pressed upon it becomes stinging and passes into the ear. [Htm.]

Tearing in the left upper jaw, seemingly in the bone, close below the orbit. [Htm.]

130. Glowing red cheeks, when walking in the open air, without thirst. [Lgh.]

About the lips, eruption of pimples, which in the course of a day and night coalesce into a scurf. [SCHMIDTMUELLER.]

Vesicles on the upper lips, close to the commissure of the lips, with ulcerative pain on touching, and tension on moving the lips. [Gtm.]

Two yellow, burning blisters as large as peas, on the left side of the lower lip. [Ng.]

A vesicle on the left side of the upper lip. [Ng.]

135. Pustule in the red of the lower lip.

Burning tension in the upper lip on the right side. [Gtm.]

Burning of the lips for a long time (aft. 10 d.). [Ng.]

Rough edges of the lips, and dry, chapping skin. [Ng.]

Thick lower lip, it seems to him heavy and it burns, especially when touched. [Ng.]

140. A vesicle on the lower right jaw, with pain when touched. [Ng.]

Humming sensation in the left lower jaw, turning into a disagreeable tingling in its teeth. [Gtm.]

Toothache, with pain in the jawbones, ears and temples, relieved by warmth and bandaging.

Cold drink draws painfully into the diseased tooth.

Pain in one of the cuspidati of the lower jaw, with a sensation as of pressing asunder, relieved by pressing together. [Htm.]

145. Twitching, frequently, in the teeth, with burning on the gums (4th d.). [Ng.]

Tearing in the right upper teeth and in the zygomatic process. [Ng.]

Tearing in a right upper molar, with sore pain on the gum. [Ng.]

Boring in the roots of the teeth of the left lower jaw, as if the teeth were being drawn. [Ng.]

Throbbing toothache, aggravated by cold drinks, in the left lower row, for two mornings in succession. [Ng.]

150. Slight inflammation of the gums.

Swelling of the gums.

Swelling of the gums, in the morning till noon. [Ng.]

Dryness of the mouth, so that she can scarcely speak, in the morning. [Ng.]

Sensation in the mouth, as if glued together with unsavory mucus. [Ng.]

155. Posteriorly in the mouth, firmly attached mucus.

Slimy sensation in the mouth, in the morning, after rising, disappearing after breakfast (2d d.). [Ng.]

- Frequent gathering of saliva in the mouth, which seems to come from the throat. [Ng.]
 She always has the mouth full of water. [Ng.]
 The tongue is heavy, and feels too long, so that he can hardly raise it, especially in talking, with great dryness in the mouth and fauces. [Htm.]
160. The tongue becomes sore and bluish.<sup>1</sup> [LETOCHA, in Hufel. Journ.]
 Red burning vesicle on the tip of the tongue. [Ng.]
 Painful pock on the tongue, with burning. [LETOCHA.]
 Deep ulcer on the tongue, with black fundus and everted borders. [LETOCHA.]
 The tongue wastes away. [LETOCHA.]
165. On each side of the palate, a painful pimple.
 Rawness and soreness of the skin on the palate, on a small spot.
 Sore burning on the palate, in the evening and the night (8th d.). [Ng.]
 In the fauces, rawness and erosion, at night and in the morning, also when not swallowing.
 Sharp scraping in the fauces.
170. Dryness in the throat, with burning on the chest. [Ng.]
 Rough and burning in the throat, as from heartburn, with coughing. [Ng.]
 Sensation as of a hard body rising up from the chest to the throat, where it tickles and excites a dry cough, when sitting. [Ng.]
 Accumulation of mucus in the throat, he has to swallow it. [Ng.]
 Bad taste in the throat, as from rancid fat.
175. Bitter taste, in the morning after awaking, with white-coated tongue (8th d.). [Ng.]
 Harsh and putrid taste in the mouth, like rotten eggs, with flow of saliva. [Lgh.]
 Beer tastes sweet like honey, and he loathes it. [Ng.]
 Morbid thirst.<sup>2</sup> [RAMAZZINI, de morbis artificium, Cap. 31.]
 Voracity. [RAMAZZINI, de morbis artificium, Cap. 31.]
180. Total lack of appetite for all food and drink; with correct taste and without nausea.
 Loathing of all things; he does not want to eat anything; much yawning. [Ng.]
 Neither hunger nor appetite, and repugnance to eating, because almost all food tastes sweet. [Ng.]
 No appetite, and if she eats anything, she has eructation. [Ng.]
 The food (at dinner) won't go down right, and presses her. [Ng.]
185. Repugnance to meat.

<sup>1</sup> The reference given in the M. M. P. is "H. J., XVIII., III., 45, 46." No Letocha, however, and nothing about M. acid are to be found in this place.—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup> In the workmen employed in salt manufactories, from the vapors of muriatic acid arising from the boiling ley (HAHNEMANN, M. M. P.).—Hughes.

During and after eating, rumbling and dull pain in the abdomen.

Eructation.

Continual eructation.

Very bitter and frequent eructation (4th d.). [Ng.]

190. Frequent eructation, with putrid taste (6th, 7th d.). [Ng.]

Regurgitation of a sour liquid from the stomach. [Ng.]

Severe hiccup, before and after dinner (3d d.). [Ng.]

Nauseous and qualmish feeling in the gastric region. [Stf.]

Violent inclination to vomit. [Ng.]

195. Vomiting of the ingesta.

Stomachache, with contractive sensation.<sup>1</sup> [CRAWFORD, in Samml. f. prakt Aerzte, XV., 3.]

Painful sensation of drawing inward of the stomach, on a small spot, after dinner. [Ng.]

Repeated violent pressure on the stomach.

Pressure on the stomach, as if it were too full, with ineffectual effort to eructate. [Ng.]

200. Sensation of repletion of the stomach, though he has not eaten anything. [Ng.]

Sensation of emptiness in the gastric region, and especially in the œsophagus, not removed by eating, with rumbling in the intestines. [Wsl.]

Sensation of emptiness in the stomach, in fits. [Ng.]

Heat and burning in the stomach, for a long time (soon).

[Ng.]

Burning and throbbing on a small spot, on the left side, near the scrobiculus cordis. [Ng.]

205 In the right hypochondria, a burning tension, on a small spot.

[Ng.]

Tensive and sore pain in the right hypochondrial region, now moving upward, now downward, while sitting. [Ng.]

Burning and bruised pain in the right hypochondria (4th d.).

[Ng.]

Stitch in the right hypochondrial region, then burning, which disappears by pressing upon it, but soon re-appears in a place near by, in the evening (3d d.). [Ng.]

In the left hypochondrial region, a violent stitch, when stooping, so that she was startled. [Ng.]

210. Shooting under the left ribs, in the side. [Stf.]

Drawing pinching below the left short ribs, not changed by respiration. [Htm.]

Pinching tension below the short ribs, forcing him, several times, to take a short breath, and ceasing after a discharge of flatus. [Htm.]

Pain in the abdomen, in the morning, in bed.

Disagreeable, anxious sensation in the whole abdomen, relieved by discharge of flatus, and quite removed by a stool.

[Htm.]

<sup>1</sup> "From taking twenty drops of oxygenated muriatic acid, diluted with water" (HAHNEMANN, M. M. P.). The citation comes from a translation, but the original, in the Philosophical Transactions, Vol. LXXX., part 2, p. 425, has been compared.—Hughes.

215. Inflated distended abdomen, which tormented her punch all day.
 Inflation of the abdomen, and then violent discharge of flatus. [Ng.]
 Violent inflation of the abdomen, in the evening; disappearing after lying down. [Ng.]
 Sensation of repletion in the abdomen, after moderate eating, with inflation of the abdomen. [Stf.]
 Abdomen inflated up to the stomach, which is very troublesome to her.
220. Pressive pain in the distended abdomen, and at every step, the pain darts into the abdomen. [Stf.]
 Contractive sensation in the intestines, with dull pain. [CRAWFORD.]
Pinching, like colic, in the abdomen, on movement and emission of flatus.
 Pinching, extending from the umbilical region toward both sides; the pain is very violent, with grumbling. [Htm.]
 Pinching in the abdomen, now here, now there, without feeling any flatus (4th d.). [Ng.]
225. Pinching below the navel, and then a hard stool (12th d.). [Ng.]
 Violent pinching in the umbilical region, with sensation of emptiness, reaching into the pit of the stomach and oppressing it. [Htm.]
 Pinching in the abdomen, several times a day, and then an inordinate discharge of excessively fetid flatus.
 Violent pinching, by jerks, externally, on a small spot of the left side of the abdomen, worse at every expiration. [Htm.]
 Violently cutting pinching, from the rectum up to the epigastrium, then urging to stool which was somewhat softer than usual. [Gtm.]
230. Cutting pinching in the abdomen, while standing and walking, it ceases on sitting down. [Lgh.]
 Cutting pain below the navel, right through the middle of the abdomen. [Htm.]
 Violent cutting in the hypogastrium, when sitting, walking and standing. [Hl.]
 Constant shooting pain about the navel, as from needles. [Gtm.]
 Sensation of emptiness in abdomen, with growling (aft. 1 h.). [Htm.]
235. Painful sensation of emptiness in the abdomen, in the morning, after the usual stool (5th d.). [Hl.]
 Rumbling in the abdomen, as from emptiness, when sitting. [Lgh.]
 Rumbling and grumbling in the abdomen. [Stf.]
 Rumbling in the abdomen.
 Constant fermentation in the abdomen, which sometimes settles down quite at the bottom of the abdomen, with a wheezing sound.
240. Frequent emission of fetid winds (the first days). [Ng.]

- In the abdominal muscles and below the umbilical region, a fine pinching. [Wsl.]
- Pricking pain, as from needles, in the lower part of the abdominal integuments. [Gtm.]
- In the abdominal ring, pricking pain, as from needles. [Gtm.]
- Dull stinging in the right inguinal region, during dinner. [Ng.]
245. Burning stitch in the left groin (aft. 11 h.). [Gtm.]
- Burning stitch in the right flank, in the evening. [Ng.]
- Stool in small pieces, with straining (3d d.). [Ng.]
- Inactivity of the rectum; he can evacuate the stool only in part, through severe straining.
- Severe urging to stool, in the morning, and yet difficult evacuation.
250. Hard, difficult stool, in the morning, soft in the afternoon (6th d.). [Ng.]
- Sometimes hard, sometimes soft stool. [Ng.]
- Soft stool (the first 3 days). [Ng.]
- Hard stool (4th d.). [Ng.]
- Soft stool, with cutting and qualmishness in the abdomen, as from a cold; after the stool he feels better (aft. 24 h.). [Wsl.]
255. Soft stool, with emission of flatus, with contraction, burning and shooting in the rectum, with sensation as if the stool and the flatus were receding.
- Liquid stool, after a meal. [Hl.]
- Diarrhœa, followed by violent burning in the anus, in the evening and the next morning (aft. 6 d.). [Ng.]
- Diarrhœic stool, with excoriation in the rectum.
- Four diarrhœic stools (after one hard stool) with straining, rumbling and grumbling in the abdomen (4th d.). [Ng.]
260. Diarrhœa, fœculent (aft. 10 h.).
- Thin, watery stool, passes off unexpectedly, while urinating, without any previous urging. [Hl.]
- Without any hard stools, excoriation in the rectum and anus.
- At the passage of a stool (not hard) cutting in the anus. [Ng.]
- After a normal stool, burning in the anus. [Ng.]
265. In the anus, much itching and tickling (2d d.).
- Itching in the anus, with sore pain and formicating stinging.
- Severe itching in the rectum, as from ascarides.
- Burning stitches in the anus. [Hl.]
- Shooting pain in the rectum.
270. Pressure on the anus.
- Prolapsus of the rectum, as if turned inside out, during urination.
- Swollen varices on the anus, with burning sore pain.
- Swollen blue varices on the anus, with pain on pressing upon them.
- Blood with the stool, for several mornings.
275. Violent flow of blood, with the stool.
- Burning voluptuous itching on the perinæum; close to the

- anus, with excitation to scratching, and not removed at once by it. [Lgh.]
 Repeated urging to urinate, with much passage of urine.
 Constant call to urinate, with scanty, though frequent, passage of urine, and straining after passing. [Stf.]
 Urging to urinate, and yet he has to wait a while before the water comes.
280. Frequent urging to urinate, with scanty passage (aft 72 h.). [Lgh.]
 Tenesmus of the bladder; with urging to urinate, hardly anything is passed, but what passes, is discharged without pains. [Stf.]
 Diminished quantity of urine, with burning (the first days). [Ng.]
Frequent urging to urinate, and much emission of urine.
 Frequent urination, with urging and copious emission. [Lgh.]
285. Repeated urging to urinate, and far more urine than would correspond to the amount of drink he had partaken of. [Hl.]
 Unusually copious emission of watery urine. [Stf.]
 Urine visibly increased and pale-yellow (1st and 2d d.). [Ng.]
 Urine increased and pale, like water (1st d.). [Ng.]
 Frequent copious micturition, though she had drunk but little (4th d.). [Ng.]
290. She had to rise at night frequently to urinate, but passed only a little at a time, without pain. [Ng.]
 Slow passage of the urine, as if the bladder had not the strength to emit it. [Wsl.]
 Weakness of the bladder.<sup>1</sup> [Samml. f. prakt. Aerzte., XV., 3.]
 Frequent involuntary emission of urine.
 The urine, at once when emitted, is whitish and turbid, like milk.
295. During micturition, taking place with the stool, cutting in the postreme part of the urethra.
 Immediately after urination, stinging smarting at the orifice of the urethra. [Lgh.]
 In the penis, a violently burning stitch, in the posterior part. [Hl.]
 Pain on the border of the prepuce, as if it were torn and excoriated.
 Slight inflammation of the prepuce.
300. Boring tension from the right testicle into the middle of the penis. [Gtm.]
 Itching of the scrotum, violently inciting to scratch, but is not removed by it. [Ng.]
 Much itching about the scrotum.
 Feeling of weakness in the genitals, no erection at all, and the penis is relaxed, hanging down (aft. 24 h.). [Wsl.]
 Increase of the sexual instinct (in its first effects?). [Ng.]
305. Repeated, but weak, erections (4th d.). [Ng.]
 Erections, in the morning in bed (2d d.). [Ng.]

<sup>1</sup> This is from Crawford's observation.—Hughes.

Sensation, as if a pollution was coming, awakes him in the morning; then with a slight erection, flow of a watery foaming liquid, without smell, with a long-continued, tensively painful erection. [Stf.]

In the pudenda, straining as for the catamenia. [Stf.]

Stinging pain in the vagina.

310. Menses, ten days too soon, with pain in the abdomen. [Ng.]

Menses, six days too soon, without further trouble. [Ng.]

her. During the menses, introverted, sad, as if she had no life in [Ng.]

Leucorrhœa (10th, 11th d.). [Ng.]

* * * * *

Constant tendency to sneeze, with itching and tickling in the nose.<sup>1</sup> [THEINER, in Annal. d. Heilkunst, 1811, April.]

315. Much sneezing, without coryza, in the afternoon and evening. [Ng.]

[Ng.]

Repeated sneezing.

Coryza.

Coryza.<sup>2</sup> [Samml. f. prakt. Aerzte.]

Sensation of coryza, with troublesome dryness of the nose.

320. Coryza, with sharp, eroding water. [Ng.]

Coryza, with secretion of thick mucus. [Ng.]

Much secretion of mucus from the nose. [Ng.]

Sensation of obstruction in the upper part of the nose, and as if dry; but attended with much secretion of mucus, long-continued (aft. 2 d.). [Ng.]

Obstruction of the nose, as from stuffed coryza.

325. Hoarseness for eight days.<sup>3</sup> [DU MENIL, in Sachse in Hufel. Journ. XXVIII., VI., p. 31.]

Inordinate catarrhal hoarseness. [SCHMIDTMUELLER.]

Rough and hoarse in the throat, with sensation of soreness on the chest (1st d.). [Ng.]

Scrapy and rough in the throat, and some cough with sore pain on the chest, without hoarseness, in the evening and morning. [Ng.]

Scraping on the chest, with cough and expectoration (of un-boiled, sic!) mucus. [Ng.]

330. Tickling in the throat, causing short tussiculation (5th d.). [Ng.]

[Ng.]

Frequent dry cough, from tickling in the chest (4th d.). [Ng.]

[Ng.]

Short, dry tussiculation, with burning in the throat. [Ng.]

Dry cough, with effort, day and night (aft. 6 d.). [Ng.]

Violent cough, as if it would burst the sternum; this pains from dinner time till evening, as if sore and bruised, especially when talking, laughing and yawning. [Ng.]

335. Violent whooping cough, and after it, audible rumbling down the chest.

Loose cough, with some expectoration of mucus, in the even-

<sup>1</sup>"From distant vapors of M. acid, in several persons." (HAHNEMANN, M. M. P.)—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup>See note to S. 392.—Hughes.

<sup>3</sup>"From inhaling oxygenated Muriatic acid." (HAHNEMANN, M. M. P.)—Hughes.

- ing and morning (6th and 7th d.). [Ng.]
 Hemoptysis.<sup>1</sup> [WESTRUMB, in SACHSE, l. c.]
 Deep breathing withg roaring.<sup>2</sup> [Hufel. Journ. XVIII., IV., pp. 45, 46.]
 Sighing. [Hufel. Journ.]
340. Oppression, transversely cross the chest, in the evening, when walking and sitting.
 Asthmatic pressure on the chest in paroxysms.
 Painful tightness of the chest, especially on the right side. [Htm.]
 Tensive pain on the sternum, impeding respiration; the pain is as if it came from the stomach; with pain of the spot also when touching it.
 Pressive pain in the right side of the chest, becoming more and more violent, unaffected by breathing. [Htm.]
345. Severe pressure in the sternum, above the scrobiculus cordis, extending up the chest, in the evening.
 Pressive pain and bruised pain on the left side of the chest.
 Pressive squeezing in the chest, without oppression of breathing. [Htm.]
 Pressive squeezing in the right side of the chest, always more aggravated by inspiring. [Htm.]
 Pressive pain in the left side of the chest, posteriorly, close to the spine, on inspiring. [Htm.]
350. Shooting pressure in the right side of the chest, below the nipple, gradually increasing and decreasing. [Htm.]
 Drawing sensation in the right side of the chest, below the nipple, drawing toward the throat. [Htm.]
 Cutting blows in the middle of the inside of the sternum, with obtuse pressure at the back part of the thoracic cavity, general oppression of the chest, and impeded respiration all day, in paroxysms. [Wsl.]
 Tensive twitching stitch from the left false ribs out at the right ribs. [Gtm.]
 Shooting pain in the chest at any violent movement or deep respiration.
355. Shooting, deep in the cardiac region, extending to the axilla and the back, with shooting in the thigh, extending to the knee when sitting, ceasing on rising up, in the evening. [Ng.]
 Shooting in the cardiac region, so that she could only rise with difficulty, with arrest of breathing, disappearing by means of rubbing (7th d.). [Ng.]
 Fine stitches below the cardiac region, and then in the left costal region, with tearing behind the left ear. [Ng.]
 A dull stitch into the left side of the chest, with cough, in the evening. [Ng.]
 Obtuse stitch in the left side of the chest, on the lowest true ribs, unaffected by respiration. [Wsl.]
360. Shooting below the sternum, just above the scrobiculus cordis. [Stf.]

<sup>1</sup> "From inhaling oxygenated Muriatic acid." (HAHNEMANN, M. M. P.)—Hughse.

<sup>2</sup> From fumigations of M. acid in typhus patients—Hughes.

Stitches between two of the true ribs on the left side of the chest, when expiring. [Lgh.]

Tensive boring in the chest, continuing during inspiration and expiration. [Gtm.]

Sore pain and cutting in the chest, also with excitation to cough. [Ng.]

Heart-beat during the nocturnal fever, so violent, that he felt it in the face. [Hl.]

365. In the right intercostal muscles, a boring stitch, unaffected by respiration, when sitting. [Gtm.]

Stitches, like needle-pricks, on the true ribs, on the right side of the chest, during expiration, when sitting. [Lgh.]

Broad stitches, slowly going upward, externally on the sides of the chest. [Wsl.]

Fine, burning stitches, externally below the left mamma. [Ng.]

Burning, externally below the right breast, also on a small spot on the middle of the sternum, with the sensation as if something had lodged there, internally; later only shooting in that spot. [Ng.]

370. Intense stitches in the right nipple. [Htm.]

Burning drawing up the back from the coccyx, apparently under the skin (4th d.). [Ng.]

Pressive pain of the sacrum, when standing and sitting, as if from much stooping. [Lgh.]

Fine, drawing tearing, from the middle of the sacrum, toward the lumbar vertebræ. [Hl.]

Frequent shooting in the sacrum, when straightening himself up after stooping (4th d.). [Ng.]

375. Burning, startling stitch in the sacrum. [Ng.]

Pain in the back, as if from straining in lifting, in the back and the scapulæ, after continuous writing with the back bent. [Hl.]

Drawing, tensive pain, alternately between the scapulæ and between the lowermost short ribs, without impeding respiration. [Htm.]

Pressure along the spine, while walking in the open air; disappearing when standing and sitting. [Lgh.]

Pressure in the middle and on the left side of the back, as if from much stooping. [Lgh.]

380. Shooting in the scapulæ.

Sharp stitches, with fine drawing and sensation of heat in the scapulæ. [Wsl.]

Painful stitches on the left side of the back, when sitting. [Lgh.]

Violent shooting on the left side of the back, so that she did not dare to move, but movement brought relief. [Ng.]

Violent shooting in the lower part of the right scapula, below the axilla. [Ng.]

385. Shooting on the right shoulder, soon changing into straining. [Ng.]

- Fine, pressing shooting on the lower edge of the right scapula. [Htm.]
- Small furuncle in the back, with shooting pain, when touched. [Ng.]
- The cervical glands are swollen, with tensive pain on turning the head. [Ng.]
- On the right side of the neck, red nodules with tension. [Ng.]
390. On the top of the shoulder, pressure.
Tearing in the top of the right shoulder, with pain when touched. [Ng.]
- Burning stitches in the top of the left shoulder in the evening. [Ng.]
- Pain, as from a sprain, on the top of the left shoulder, when at rest, with a sensation on raising his arm as if the joint would snap. [Ng.]
- Pain as from fatigue in the right shoulder-joint, more when moving than while at rest.
395. Throbbing in the top of the right shoulder, with a paralyzed pain. [Ng.]
- The arms are very heavy, and, when raising them, seem full of lead. [Htm.]
- In the upper arm, cramp, when making some exertion with it. [Hl.]
- Throbbing, intermittent, violent twitches of single muscular parts of the right upper arm. [Hl.]
- Drawing in the left upper arm.
400. Drawing tearing in the right upper arm, while writing, when sitting down; it ceases on moving and stretching the upper arm. [Lgh.]
- Painful tearing from the middle of the upper arm and the forearm toward each other. [Ng.]
- Tearing in both the upper arms and calves (2d d.). [Ng.]
- Paralytic pain in the middle of the right upper arm, down to the elbow. [Ng.]
- Burning sensation on the posterior muscles of the left upper arm, close to the elbow-joint. [Htm.]
405. In the elbow-joint, frequently a drawing tension. [Hl.]
- Dull tearing, just above the joints of the elbow and the wrist, more when at rest. [Wsl.]
- Shooting tearing pain on the point of the right elbow-joint. [Htm.]
- Cutting in the bend of the elbow, worse when flexing the arm, diminished by extending it. [Wsl.]
- In the fore-arm, cramp-like sensation of heaviness, close to the wrist-joint. [Htm.]
410. Cramp-like pain in the fore-arm, on flexing the arm. [Hl.]
- Drawing tearing in the posterior muscles of the left fore-arm, extending into the fingers. [Htm.]
- Cutting tearing in the posterior muscles of the right fore-arm, recurring in jerks. [Htm.]

Cutting on the right fore-arm, before the elbow-joint (at once).

[Wsl.]

Bruised pain, or as after a blow, on the inner side of the right fore-arm, worst when at rest. [Gtm.]

415. Knots like peas and also larger on the fore-arms and elbows, with violent itching and burning. [Ng.]

Burning pain, externally on the right fore-arm. [Gtm.]

In the left palm, cramp, which ceased when moving the hand. [Lgh.]

Drawing pain in the left hand.

Arthritic tearing on the outer side of the hand, behind the knuckle of the little finger.

420. Voluptuous itching and shooting tickling in the palms, which compels scratching. [Lgh.]

Eruption on the hands, which itches intensely when getting warm in bed.

Eruption of pimples on the back of the hands and of the fingers, and which within a night and a day coalesces into a scurf. [SCHMIDTMUELLER.]

The fingers of the right hand tingle, as if they had gone to sleep. [Ng.]

Numbness, coldness and dying off of the two middle fingers, by night.

425. Numbness of the last two fingers of the left hand, at night.

Pain like cramp on the ball of the right thumb, when writing; it ceased when moving it. [Lgh.]

Drawing tearing from the middle joint of the left ring-finger to the metacarpal bone, disappearing on bending the finger, but recurring more violently on extending it when at rest. [Htm.]

Cutting tearing in the ball of the left little finger. [Htm.]

Pricking pain, as from needles, in the tip of the left index, only when touched. [Gtm.]

430. Swelling and redness of the finger-tips, with burning pain.

In the gluteal muscles on the right side, a constant itching stitch, which but itches the more when it is rubbed. [Wsl.]

Cutting pinching on the right hip, only when sitting. [Lgh.]

The muscles of the thighs are painful.

Twitching of single muscular parts, now on the right, now on the left thigh. [Hl.]

435. Muscular, painful cramp in the muscles of the left thigh, when lying abed. [Lgh.]

Cramp-like drawing pain, moving downward in the left thigh, only when sitting. [Lgh.]

Cramp-like, contractive tearing in the anterior muscles of the left thigh. [Lgh.]

Shooting pressure in the muscles of the left thigh, only when sitting. [Lgh.]

Tearing in the left thigh and in the tibiæ, when sitting.

[Ng.]

440. Shooting tearing in the right femur, when walking. [Htm.]

Drawing, pressive shooting pain in the muscles of the left thigh, close to the groin, when sitting. [Lgh.]

- Violently burning shooting on the outer side of the right thigh, when walking and sitting. [Hl.]
- Weakness of the thighs, and consequent unsteady gait. [Gtm.]
- Much itching on the thighs.
445. Round, rough, itching herpetic spots on the inner side of the thighs.
- The knee on the left side is stiff, when rising from the seat.
- Tensive pain in the left knee.
- Quivering beside the right patella. [Hl.]
- Tearing in the hough and the calf, more at night and more when sitting, than when walking.
450. Tearing in the knee-joints; in the right knee this is so violent, as if it was being torn out, when sitting. [Ng.]
- Tearing in the hough, up into the hip when rising from the seat; with occasional stitches in the left knee-joint; aggravated when bending the knee and when walking, relieved on stretching it and when sitting. [Ng.]
- Shooting tearing in the right knee, when he crosses the left leg over the right. [Htm.]
- Burning shooting pain on the outer side of the right knee. [Hl.]
- Bruised pain on the right knee, only when walking and going up-stairs. [Ng.]
455. Burning itching on the knees, ankles and toes, when going to sleep.
- Swelling of the knees.
- On the leg, a painful tension, near the hough, in the left calf, when sitting. [Ng.]
- Drawing and tension in the tendo Achillis, when walking, so that the foot is, as it were, lamed and the walking impeded.
- Pressive pain in the left calf, both at rest and in motion. [Gtm.]
460. Shooting cutting in the right calf, when sitting. [Htm.]
- Frequent tearing in both the tibiæ, up into the knees, better when sitting. [Ng.]
- Tearing down along the lower part of the right tibia, when sitting. [Ng.]
- Slow, coarse stitches in the tendo Achillis, some from without inward, others passing straight through, also disturbing the sleep at night, coming in fits, and impeding walking.
- Much itching on the calves.
465. The left foot pains, as if a cloth was tightly wound around it.
- Cutting cramp-like pain in the hollow of the sole of the right foot. [Htm.]
- Tearing in the sole of the right foot, on the heel, when spinning; also (after several days) when sitting down. [Ng.]
- Drawing stitches, on the dorsum of the right foot, when standing, they disappeared while walking, but appeared again on sitting down. [Lgh.]
- Long-continued drawing stitch on the dorsum of the left foot, worse when at rest. [Gtm.]

470. Pressive shooting pain on the inner border of the sole of the right foot, when sitting; it ceases when walking and standing. [Lgh.]

Continued itching stitch in the dorsum of the left foot, worse when at rest. [Gtm.]

Pain in the sole of the left foot, when ascending a mountain, as if he had made a misstep with that foot; drawing from the sole up into the thigh. [Ng.]

Sore pain below the left external malleolus, when at rest, lasting all night, aggravated by touching and by lying upon it. [Gtm.]

Burning of the soles of the feet, when sitting down, aggravated by setting the foot on the ground. [Ng.]

475. Tickling in the ball of the left heel, ceasing on rubbing it. [Ng.]

Digging quivering in the ball of the right foot, when at rest. [Gtm.]

Itching in the sole of the left foot, when walking and when at rest. [Gtm.]

Violent tearing pain in the right big toe, when spinning. [Ng.]

Itching stitch in the ball of the right big toe, when at rest. [Gtm.]

480. Swelling and redness of the tips of the toes, with burning pain.

Sore pain and sensation of swelling in the left little toe. [Ng.]

A most violent throbbing pain in the three middle toes of the left foot, when at rest. [Gtm.]

Shooting itching, here and there on the body; it ceases after scratching, in the evening. [Ng.]

Tickling fine stinging itching on the body, only transiently ceasing by rubbing.

485. Itching and smarting on the back, the top of the shoulders, also the whole body, mostly in the evening, after lying down, not to be removed by scratching. [Ng.]

Shooting here and there on the skin, at times with burning on the right scapula. [Ng.]

Many painful cutaneous ulcers, which interfere with his sitting and lying down.<sup>1</sup> [SCHAEKEL.]

The workmen in the salt works get putrid ulcers on their legs, and become dropsical and cachectic.* [RAMAZZINI.]

Burning pain, more around the ulcer than in it; after walking, there is a clucking in it, like pulsation.

490. The ulcers are very fetid, although covered with a scurf.

Oxygenated muriatic acid restores the irritability of the muscular fibre, that has been destroyed by alcohol and opium.<sup>2</sup> [HUMBOLD, Ueber die Reizbarkeit der Faser.]

* From the vapors of muriatic acid, which rise from the muriate of magnesia, which decomposes when the brine is being boiled down, and which vapors are inhaled by the workmen.

<sup>1</sup> No reference given.—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup> From experience on animals.—The author is speaking of the effects of local application.—Hughes.

- Twitching in all the limbs.
 Attack of anguish at 8 P. M., with repletion in the abdomen, as if it would burst; the sweat ran down her head; her arms sank down, and she became languid, as if paralyzed.
 Restlessness. [HUFEL. Journ.]
495. Bruised pain in all the joints.
 Pain in the periosteum of all the bones, as in intermittent fever.
 Laziness, with extending and stretching, in the forenoon. [Ng.]
 He will not or cannot move; it annoys him to move; he always wants to sit down.
 Relaxed and lazy, though not wearied by walking.
500. Tottering gait, from weakness of the thighs. [Hl.]
 Great weakness of the lower limbs, so that she can hardly keep up, and often falls. [Ng.]
 Weariness, especially in the lower limbs, in the morning.
 Great weariness, immediately after eating; it passes off toward evening. [Ng.]
 Sensation of weariness in the whole body. [Stf.]
505. So tired in his limbs, that he has often to stand still, when walking. [Ng.]
 Great prostration and lassitude, in the evening, after walking. [Ng.]
 Great prostration, lassitude and drowsiness, with dimness of vision; she fell asleep at the table. [Ng.]
 Lassitude, when walking and standing, so that he fell asleep while sitting. [Lgh.]
 Her eyes closed for weariness, while sitting down, but when she rose and moved about she was wide awake at once. [Lgh.]
510. Very sleepy in the afternoon (4th d.). [Ng.]
 Drowsiness, with yawning, in the morning (2d d.). [Ng.]
 Great inclination to sleep, all the day. [Htm.]
 When working, sleep almost closed his eyes. [Htm.]
 Sleeplessness before midnight.
515. Sleeplessness after midnight.
 He cannot readily fall asleep, then only sleeps lightly, and yet, he cannot rouse himself from sleep properly nor get thoroughly awake (aft. 3 h.).
 Sleeplessness at night, on account of great ebullition of blood and heat with perspiration.
 Restless night; without any particular cause, she cannot fall asleep, and is still drowsy in the morning (aft. 2 d.). [Ng.]
 Restless night; she cannot fall asleep for headache in her crown and in the left temple. [Ng.]
520. At 3 A. M., severe cough, with nausea and bilious vomiting.
 At night, empty eructation and colic.
 For two nights, nausea, with much eructation, on waking up.
 Before midnight, he snores loudly and tosses about, but is easily awakened then.
 At night, on awaking, he always finds himself lying on his back.

525. Before midnight, she tosses about, and often talks aloud in her sleep, but with a cheerful tone, but she often groans at the same time.

He slides down in the bed, and moans and groans in his sleep.

At night, in bed, sensation of weakness and difficulty in connecting the ideas.

She talks aloud in her sleep (before midnight), but she cannot be understood (and does not know anything about it in the morning). [Ng.]

Restless night; she wakes up every quarter of an hour, because now one part, then another is painful (4th d.). [Ng.]

530. Frequent awaking at night.

Frequent awaking, with tossing about in bed. [Lgh.]

He always wakes up at 4 A. M., and cannot again fall asleep.

He awakes very cheerful before midnight, and cannot afterwards fall asleep again (4th d.). [Hl.]

In bed, in the morning, after awaking, qualmishness and inflation of the stomach, relieved, after rising, by emission of flatus.

535. Restless sleep, frequently interrupted with vivid, anxious dreams, and during sleep, profuse sweat all over, excepting the head. [Htm.]

Starting up after falling asleep, owing to restlessness in the body, but mostly in the lower limbs.

Dreams which excite anxiety, annoyance or joy. [Lgh.]

Anxious dreams, at night.

Anxious, vivid dreams. [Lgh.]

540. Anxious, frightful, vivid dreams. [Gtm.]

Restless, vivid dreams, full of care and fear, with erection without seminal emission. [Gtm.]

As soon as she has slept a while, she raves in her sleep.

Unremembered dreams. [Lgh.]

Voluptuous dreams (the first 3 d.). [Ng.]

545. She dreams of the death of her mother (4th n.).

Dreams about lice and full of shame (7th d.). [Ng.]

Gladsome dreams of home.

Coldness at night, so that he cannot get warm; he tosses about in bed. [Wsl.]

He was waked up before midnight by a chill, and could not get warm; he was less cold in the part of the body on which he lay; later on he became very warm and perspired (3d n.). [Hl.]

550. Chill in the morning, in bed, and, after rising, he had to stay near the stove all the forenoon. [Ng.]

Coldness.

Coldness, also perceptible externally, so that he could not get warm all day, not even while walking.

Chilliness, with thirst (4th d.). [Ng.]

Chill with thirst, followed by heat.

555. Chill, with goose-skin, without shaking or thirst.

Chilliness, in the evening, with thirst; after lying down, sweat; also at night, she had to get up to drink (8th d.). [Ng.]

Chill from 6 to 7 P. M., with icy cold in the back, so that she found it hard to get warm (7th d.). [Ng.]

Chill at 8 P. M. in the whole body, with external warmth, for three-fourths of an hour, not followed by heat. [Ng.]

Chill, in the evening, with burning in the face and dryness in the mouth.

560. He shivers, if it is not very warm in the room.

Febrile rigor all over the body, with hot cheeks and cold hands, without thirst. [Lgh.]

Febrile rigor all over the body, with shaking chill, yawning and stretching of the limbs, but without thirst and not followed by heat. [Lgh.]

Febrile rigor all over the body (with a slight fluent coryza), with yawning, cold, dead finger-tips, blue nails and weak, slow pulse, without thirst and not followed by heat. [Lgh.]

Burning heat on the whole of the head and on the hands, with cold feet, without thirst, as soon as he has sat down for a nap, (owing to great day-drowsiness). [Htm.]

565. Sensation of heat, and heat of the body, especially of the palms and of the soles of the feet, without redness of the face, without sweat, or thirst, or dryness of the mouth, and with some inclination to uncover himself.

Anxiety and restlessness in the upper extremities, as if in the blood-vessels, in the evening, along with a cheerful mood; it seemed to come from heaviness in the arms; she had to move them constantly; then restlessness all over the body, except in the feet; heat, so that he had to uncover himself, but without thirst.

Every third pulsation intermits.

Profuse sweat on the head and on the back, every second or fourth evening, for three-quarters of an hour.

Sweat, in the evening, on going to sleep, and not otherwise.

570. Sweat before midnight, with dry cough.

Sweat before midnight, in dreams full of impediments; then a sound sleep till morning, without sweat.

After lying in bed for one or two hours, in the evening, there was first a cold sweat on the feet, until they became warm.

Night-sweat.

Slight morning-sweat all over the body. [Lgh.]

NATRUM CARBONICUM, CARBONATE OF SODA. WASHING SODA.<sup>1</sup>

Dissolve the natrum of the shops (the basic part of common salt or of Glauber's salt) in two parts of its own weight of distilled water, boiling-hot, filter the solution through blotting-paper, and cause it to crystallize in a cellar. These crystals consist of rhombic-octaedra and rhomboidal prisms. One grain of these crystals, dried on blotting-paper (before they fall into powder), is taken for the preparation of the various homœopathic potencies, being treated in the manner of the other dry medicinal substances.

This medicine will be found indicated where the following ailments are also present:

Sadness; dejection; hypochondriac mood; dread of men and of company; anxiety; anxious palpitation; anguish, trembling and sweat during the pains; tendency to get startled; despondency; indignation; malevolence; difficulty in comprehending and combining thoughts, when reading and listening; mental labor fatigues; gloominess of the head; vertigo; headache, when in the sun; headache, stitches outward from the eyes; tearing, externally on the head at certain hours of the day; inflammation of the eyelids, with photophobia; little feathers seem to be floating before the eyes; inability to read small print; hardness of hearing; sensitiveness to noise; heat in the face; yellow spots on the forehead and on the upper lip; freckles in the face; swelling of the upper lip; toothache, especially while eating; bitter taste in the mouth; taste in the mouth as after dissipating through the night; thirst; wild hunger from a feeling of emptiness causing nausea; ailments from cold drinking, e. g., stitches in the left hypochondrium; constant weakness of the digestive organs, with ill humor and discomfort after even slight errors in diet; nausea; constant qualmish nausea; pressure in the stomach after meals; pressive drawing and fine cutting stomachache; contractive cramps in the stomach; painfulness of the scrobiculus cordis when touched; accumulation of the flatus in the abdomen; inflation of the abdomen; painful moving about of flatus in the abdomen; incarceration of flatus; distended abdomen; shooting and burrowing in the abdomen; insufficient stool; urging to urinate; burning in the urethra after micturition; bearing down on the genital parts, as if everything was coming out; bad shape of the os uteri; pains with the menses; metrorrhagia; seems to promote conception; after coitus, discharge of mucus from the vagina; putrid leucorrhœa.

<sup>1</sup>In the first edition Hahnemann published a pathogenesis of Natrum carbonicum, containing 308 symptoms. The salt was then proved by Neuning and Schreter, and their results—making 625 symptoms in all—appeared in the third volume of the Arzneimittellehre of Hartlaub and Trinks. These two symptom-lists, with (presumably) provings of the 30th by Langhammer, Hering and Gross, and some fresh observations on patients by Hahnemann himself, form the present pathogenesis.—Hughes.

Obstruction of the nose; coryza, every other day; constant coryza from a slight draught, only ceasing after perspiration; constant coryza and cough; cough; shortness of breath; asthma and shortness of breath; difficult breathing; salty purulent expectoration, when coughing; pressive shooting in the chest; constant chill on the left side; sore pain in the sacrum; stiffness in the nape; pressive pain on the top of the shoulder; cutting pains in the hands and the feet; lumpy spots on the legs (Hg.); cramp in the thighs; tendency to missteps and to spraining of the ankle; pressive pain on the dorsum of the feet; shooting in the soles of the feet on treading; swelling of the feet; coldness of the feet; chronic ulcers on the heels, from erosive blisters (Hg.); itch on the abdomen (Hg.); erysipelalous lumps; yellow rings from herpetic spots (Hg.); formicating shooting in the muscles of the thighs, below the scrobiculus cordis, etc.; tendency to strains and sprains; dislike of the open air; tendency to take cold; dryness of the skin; warts; herpes; shooting, cutting and burning in wounded parts of the body; unsteadiness of body and mind; relaxed state of the whole body; after a short walk, he is tired so that he is ready to drop down; chronic weakness; drowsiness by day; late in falling asleep at night; waking up too early; dreams at night; coldness of the hands and feet; profuse sweat at the least labor; constant, cold sweat of anguish; night sweat, alternating with dryness.

Camphor diminishes an excessive action of Natrum very efficiently.

My fellow-observers are: Lgh., Dr. Langhammer; Ng., the anonymous contributor in Hartlaub and Trinks' Reine Arzneimit-tellehre; Sr., Dr. Schréter; Hg., Dr. Hering; Gr., Dr. Gross.

NATRUM CARBONICUM.

Sad, dejected (29th d.).

Suffering in mind (aft. 6 d.).

Dread of men and timidity (29th d.).

He shuns men. [Lgh.]

5. Great melancholy and apprehensiveness; only occupied with sad thoughts (2d d.). [Ng.]

Melancholy, sad, tremulous, and inclined to weep, with constant sighing and physical prostration. [Ng.]

Disposition to weep, for several days.

Apprehensiveness and ennui, so that she cannot contain herself; she deems herself altogether lonely and forsaken. [Ng.]

Great apprehensiveness, from the afternoon till evening (21st d.). [Ng.]

10. His fancy is mostly anxiously occupied with the future; he paints to himself what misfortunes might happen to him; and he seeks solitude for several days. [Sr.]

Less anxious than usual during a thunderstorm (curative effect). [Sr.]

Apprehensiveness, with quivering tremor all through the body.

Anxious and restless, he thinks he cannot do anything right. [Lgh.]

Anxiously solicitous about himself. [Lgh.]

15. Anxiety, in the evening after a foot-bath of three or four minutes, so that she could not fall asleep for an hour and a half.

Fits of anguish every day, with sweat of the face, several times a day, for a quarter of an hour, without pains.

Anxiety and hurried unrest, the whole day, he could not keep his limbs quiet, he had especially to stretch the arms; they felt as if they were drawn apart.

Restlessness (aft. 3 d.).

Great restlessness, in the evening, during mental occupation, e.g., during reading.

20. Restless all the day, now occupied with one thing, now with another, without completing the least thing. [Lgh.]

Internal restlessness.

Restlessness in the whole body, and peevishness (aft. 3 d.).

Restlessness and unsteadiness; he knew not what he wanted, nor what he should do or leave undone.

Sensation of irresolution, in the morning.

25. Passive, phlegmatic mood (5th d.).

Ennui, lost in thought, he knows not how he feels, in the morning. [Ng.]

Indisposed to business; he goes about idle, but when he is at work he works well. [Sr.]

Indisposed to talk (aft. 6 d.). [Sr.]

He has no pleasure in doing anything, and could not stay long at anything.

30. Indifferent (aft. 10 d.).

Tired of life, in the morning, on awaking (18th d.).

Playing on the piano for a short while fatigues her, with painful oppression of the chest, trembling all over the body, and languor, so that she had to lie down for a time before she could get rested (aft. 12 d.).

Every occurrence impresses her violently, a sort of tremulousness welling up in the nerves, with sensation of syncope.

Tendency to get frightened easily.

35. Readily frightened, he gets startled at the least noise. [Sr.]

Want of cheerfulness.

Oppressed, excessively dejected mood.

- Ill-humored, discontented and almost inconsolable. [Lgh.]
 Peevish, but disposed to work. [Lgh.]
40. Peevish mood, almost constant, up to the 30th day. [Sr.]
 Out of humor and solicitous.
 Peevish and cross, no one can do anything to suit her (5th d.).
 [Ng.]
Cross (aft. 24 h.).
 Cross, without cause.
45. Crossness, in the evening (aft. 10 h.).
Cross, irritable disposition.
 She is annoyed and gets passionate about trifles. [Sr.]
 Peevish and cross, dissatisfied with all the world; he could have kicked himself; he would rather not live at all; at the same time solicitous about the future, so that he is ready to despair. [Sr.]
 In a humor inclined to anger.
50. Extremely irritable to anger, with cheerful disposition.
 Very sensitive, in the forenoon, as after an annoyance (aft. 2 d.).
 Passionate; disposed to quarrel and fight, and cannot bear any contradiction (11th d.). [Ng.]
 So much irritated by an ordinary provocation, that he speaks with the most vehement violence until he is exhausted.
 Alternately in a sad and in a joyous mood. [Ng.]
55. In a joyous, sociable mood.
 Great inclination to warble and sing half aloud to oneself, for several days (aft. 24 h.).
 Extreme animation, all the day, with great, joyous talkativeness. [Lgh.]
 Resolute, persistent, equanimous, courageous. [Lgh.]
 Total inattention.
60. Absent-mindedness, in the morning (aft. 15 d.). [Sr.]
 He readily makes slips of the pen (aft. 14 d.). [Sr.]
 Very forgetful, he has to think a long time over a matter, before he recalls it. [Sr.]
 He is awkward in his behavior, and cannot do the simplest things. [Sr.]
 Weakness of the thoughts.
65. He could not think well, he lacked the faculty of comprehending.
 Inability to think acutely and continuously, accompanied with vertigo.
 Obtuse; he looks down unthinking, as if he had been knocked on the head.
 Frequent inability to collect himself.
 Benumbed, reeling and heavy in the head, when exerting himself in working, especially in the sun. [Sr.]
70. Dull in the head, as after a prolonged sleep. [Sr., Ng.]
 Gloominess and pain in the head, allowing no mental activity.
 Numb feeling in the occiput, like a dull pressure, in the forenoon (aft. 18 d.).

Stupefaction, in the morning, on awaking; it disappeared only by degrees.

Almost unconscious of his external surroundings, he reels in his walk.

75. Vertigo, after mental occupations, with dull inward pressure in the temples.

Vertigo, very often, by day, like a whirling in the head; also while lying down.

Vertigo, on turning the head.

Almost constant vertigo, when walking; she totters when walking.

Violent vertigo, like a syncope, after drinking a spoonful of wine.

80. Vertigo, when walking in the room, even so as to sink down, then great languor in the hands and feet. [Ng.]

Vertigo, she feels as if she would fall to the left side. [Ng.]

Constant headache, like a reeling in the head, and like painful obscuration of the mind, with subsequent heat in the head; relieved by exercise in the open air; aggravated while at rest and when sitting; two days in succession (aft. 10 d.).

Dull headache, like dreariness and drawing in the head, after dinner. [Sr.]

Dull headache, like a stupefying pressure in the forehead, in all positions. [Lgh.]

85. Headache in the forehead, when quickly turning the head.

Headache, at noon, mostly in the lower part of the occiput.

Dull pain in the occiput. [Sr.]

Pain from the occiput to the crown. [Ng.]

Heaviness in the head, with burning in the eyes, almost daily after dinner. [Ng.]

90. Heaviness in the head, on awaking at night, with dull pressive pain and a flat taste in the mouth. [Sr.]

Apprehensiveness in the head (aft. 3 d.).

Sensation of painful emptiness in the occiput, with weakness and hoarseness of the voice.

Pressive pain in the left side of the forehead, in the morning, when rising. [Ng.]

Pressure and sense of heat, in the crown and in the forehead. [Ng.]

95. Pressive pain in the right temple, from within outward. [Ng.]

Dull pressure extending from the occiput to the nape, with drawing pain, extending into the forehead, with eructation, vertigo, nausea and dimness before the eyes. [Sr.]

Constant pressure in the right side of the occiput. [Ng.]

Tensive pain, in the right frontal cavity. [Sr.]

Tension and drawing, in the right side of the occiput, as if it would draw the head backward. [Ng.]

100. Contractive pain in the head.

Pain, as if the forehead would burst open, especially after taking exercise, with sense of obstruction in the head, for many days, from 7 A. M. to 5 P. M.

- Tearing in the whole head, the whole afternoon (13th d.).
 [Ng.]
 Violent tearing in the right temple and the side of the forehead, only transiently passing off by pressing upon it (during the menses). [Ng.]
 Violent cramp-like tearing in the forehead, extending into the eyes and the tip of the nose.
105. Tearing and shooting from the left frontal protuberance, extending behind the ear. [Ng.]
 Shooting in the head, here and there, at various times, at times with burning, also in the evening, at times with a feeling of heat in the forehead. [Ng.]
 Fine stitches in the left side of the head (6th d.).
 Pressive shooting through the head, during bodily exercise. [Sr.]
 Single, very acutely painful twitches in the head.
110. Beating headache in the upper part of the head, daily, especially in the morning.
 Beating and tearing in the left side of the head during the menses. [Ng.]
 Painful throbbing, in the upper part of the head, seemingly in the bones. [Ng.]
 Intermittent throbbing, through the forehead, outward, just above the border of the orbit. [Ng.]
 Throbbing in the vertex, which is very sensitive when pressed upon, after dinner. [Ng.]
115. Rush of blood to the head.
 Violent rush of blood to the head, when stooping, as if everything was coming out at the forehead, with throbbing in the head, if he then lifts or carries anything; passing off when he raises his head (13th and 14th). [Ng.]
 Violent rush of blood, with heat in the head, when he sits in the room, especially in the evening; for several days, even still on the twentieth day; in the open air and in the bed he does not feel anything of it. [Ng.]
 Sensation of warmth in the forehead, with tension. [Ng.]
 Sensation of internal warmth in the head, and in the eyes, without external heat of the face, but with thirst; also at night.
120. Much heat in the head, at various times and on various days. [Ng.]
 Heat in the head, with sensation of heaviness and redness of the face, worst after noon. [Ng.]
 Roaring of the blood in the head (3d d.).
 External pain on the lower part of the occiput.
 Transient, external headache, now here, now there, on the sides of the head, in the ear, etc. (aft. 48 h.).
125. Pain of the two occipital protuberances, when touched.
 Pressive headache, external and internal.
 Tension in the occiput.
 Movement of the scalp from behind forward, and back again.
 Red, eruptive nodule on the forehead, with sore, burning pain and pus in the apex. [Lgh.]

130. Tumor on the occiput, more toward the nape, of long duration.
 An almost painless tumor on the occiput, as large as a filbert.
 The hairs fall out rapidly, for many days. [Sr.]
 Pain in the eyes, in the morning (aft. 17 d.)
 Pain in the bones of the orbit.
135. Sensitiveness of the eyeballs when touched, with a sensation as if they were being enlarged.
Heaviness of the upper eyelids (1st and 2d d.).
 Tearing on the right lower eyelid, from the inner canthus to the outer. [Ng.]
 Shooting in the eyes, like needle-pricks, after dinner. [Ng.]
 Dull shooting in the right eye, when sitting down. [Sr.]
140. Fine stitches in the inner canthus, which pressed out tears. [Ng.]
 Burning in the eyes and canthi, with shooting toward the outer canthi, and a sensation as of a hair in the eye. [Ng.]
 Burning in the eyes, also in the evening, lasting till after he lies down. [Ng.]
 Burning of the eyes during work, especially when writing and reading, with sensation of dryness, as after much weeping. [Sr.]
 Itching of the eyes and lids, also in the morning, at times with lachrymation after rubbing. [Ng.]
145. Itching and smarting in the right eye, forcing him to rub, but only removed by moistening it with saliva. [Sr.]
 Inflammation of the eyes, with stitch-like pain.
 Violent inflammation of the inner canthus, and purulent swelling of the lachrymal sac, which swelling opened after four days.
 Inflammatory swelling of the upper right eyelid, without redness of the conjunctiva, with pressure in it, dim sight and some gum in the canthi (aft. 10 d.).
 Swelling of the upper eyelids (aft. 15 d.).
150. Small ulcers about the cornea, with shooting pains in the eye, which she had to guard against every ray of light.
 Agglutination of the right eye, as if it was full of eyegum, the whole day. [Lgh.]
 The eyes continually tend to become agglutinated, in the afternoon (11th d.). [Ng.]
 Agglutinated eyes in the morning, followed by lachrymation, all the forenoon. [Ng.]
 Lachrymation of the eyes.
155. Dryness, sensation of heat, and, as it were, a contraction in the eyes (aft. 2 d.).
 He can open the eyelids only with difficulty, they close involuntarily.
 Frequent closing of the eyelids, like involuntary winking, with sensation of burning in the eyes, especially in the afternoon.
 Constant closing of the eyelids, followed by drowsiness, even while walking.
 Pupils contracted (aft. 3 h.). [Lgh.]

160. Dim eyes (aft. 48 h.).
 Dim eyes, he has continually to wipe them.
 Dim eyes; in fine work, everything looks blurred, but she can read well.
 She feels as if something obstructed the visual ray.
 Dimness of vision; she at once loses her sight when reading.
 [Ng.]
165. A man, else far-sighted, sees even distant things but dimly.
 Persons when twenty paces distant, and a picture at a few paces' distance, appear to him indistinct, and he cannot clearly recognize them. [Sr.]
 Black, flying points float before his face, when writing.
 Flickering, like rain, before the eyes.
 Sparks of light before the eyes (11th d.).
170. Dazzling flashes before his eyes, while waking (aft. 12 d.).
 Earache in the left ear (aft. 14 d.).
 Earache, with drawing pain in the articulation of the right jaw, extending into the mouth and the right side of the tongue, which pains when it strikes against the teeth; in the evening, when walking in a cool breeze. [Sr.]
 Pinching and explosion in the right ear, in the morning.
 [Ng.]
 Fine intermitting tearing in the right ear. [Ng.]
175. Pressure and tearing in the ear.
 Shooting in the ears and out from the ears, frequently sharp and penetrating. [Ng.]
 Shooting in the ears from time to time; ceasing on opening the mouth, recurring on closing it (10th d.). [Sr.]
 Shooting inward into the left concha (6th d.). [Sr.]
 Itching shooting in the left lobule; it ceases after rubbing and squeezing it. [Ng.]
180. Tickling in the left external meatus auditorius, in the morning. [Ng.]
 In the parotid gland, which is also painful when touched, a shooting pain.
 Sensation of obstruction in the right ear, with diminution of the hearing. [Lgh.]
 Ringing in the ears, on turning the head.
 Music in the ears, like far-off humming of a bag-pipe, when lying in the bed, on his back; when he raises himself, it diminishes, but recurs after sitting for a while, and ceases on lying down; but it soon returns after lying down; with some earache (23d d.). [Sr.]
185. Whizzing about the head and throbbing in the left ear.
 Violent roaring in the ears (aft. 22 d.).
 More violent rushing sound in the ears (aft. 4 d.).
 In the left nostril, sensation as if a hard body was lodged within in the upper part, not ceasing on blowing the nose. [Ng.]
 Drawing pain in the right outer side of the nose, which ceases on rubbing it. [Ng.]

190. The nose peels off on the back and the tip, and is sensitive when touched (9th d.). [Ng.]
 Red nose, with white pimples upon it.
 Pimple on the left side of the nose. [Ng.]
 A blister beside the right ala of the nose, with burning pain when touched. [Sr.]
 Pustule, with red areola, on the left ala nasi. [Lgh.]
195. Painless lump on the right side of the nose, enlarging from day to day.
 The nostrils are ulcerated inside, in the upper part.
 Blood is expelled from the nose, in the morning (aft. 12 d.)
Bleeding at the nose (aft. 12 d.).
 Increase in the sense of smell (after-effect?).
200. In the bones of the face, a pressive pain, aggravated by walking in the open air.
 Pressive pain in both cheek-bones.
 Violent drawing in the left cheek-bone.
 Tearing in the zygomatic arch, at times very violent on the right side or passing up on the left side into the head, with shooting pain extending into the forehead, occasionally ceasing when it is rubbed. [Ng.]
 Tearing and lancinating, behind the right ear. [Ng.]
205. Painful needle-prick in the upper part of the cheek. [Ng.]
 Stitch behind the right lobule of the ear, ceasing when squeezed, but at once returning. [Ng.]
 Burning heat and redness of the face, at various times and on various days. [Ng.]
 Alternate redness and paleness of the face (7th d.). [Ng.]
 He looks pale, as after a severe illness. [Ng.]
210. Paleness of the face, with blue rings around the eyes and swollen lids (aft. 24 h.).
 Yellowness of the face.
Bloatedness of the face.
 Swelling of both cheeks, with glowing redness.
 Swelling of the face below the left eye, so that he can hardly see from it, with burning of the eye, in the morning on rising (4th, 5th, 6th d.). [Ng.]
215. Itching on the whiskers. [Sr.]
 Itching of the face, which ceases on scratching. [Ng.]
 Burning itching of the lower jaw, only ceasing after much scratching. [Ng.]
 White spots on the right cheek and the side of the neck, without sensation, in the morning (6th d.). [Ng.]
 Pimples in the face, near the ear, with shooting pain when touched, like a boil.
220. Much eruption on the nose and mouth.
 Itching, moist eruption on the nose and mouth (aft. 10 d.).
 A boil behind the ear.
 Boil above the chin. [Ng.]
 Burning pimples on the chin. [Sr.]
225. On the lips, an eruption of pimples. [Ng.]

- Eruption of pimples on the red of the lower lip, with erosive painful soreness of the commissure of the lips.
 Pimple on the lower lip.
 Eruption on the right commissure of the lips (aft. 20 d.).
 Whitish blister, as large as a lentil, on the red of the upper lip, with sore burning pain and later with a crust upon it. [Sr.]
230. Blisters on the commissure of the lips, also suppurating ones. [Ng.]
 Pustules about the mouth.
 Two small herpes about the mouth.
 Small ulcers about the mouth.
 Furuncle on the upper lip.
235. Burning chap on the lower lip. [Ng.]
 Twitching in the upper lip (aft. 18 d.).
 Frequent quivering in the upper lip (6th d.). [Ng.]
 Burning on the upper lip and on the right commissure of the lips, on a small spot, as if a blister was there. [Ng.]
 Fine tickling itching on the upper lip, and a fine stitch on touching it, in the evening. [Ng.]
240. Small, red, itching, eruptional vesicles, filled with water, on the chin (6th d.).
 In the left lower jaw, frequent tearing (4th d.). [Ng.]
 Rheumatic pain in the jaws.
 Beating in the right lower jaw, from the middle forward, toward the chin, after breakfast (1st d.). [Ng.]
 Bruised pain in the angle of the lower jaw, after dinner; ceasing when pressing upon it. [Ng.]
245. Ulcerative pain, with throbbing in the articulation of the left jaw, seemingly in the bone, it ceases when pressed upon. [Ng.]
 Quivering in the left lower jaw (1st d.). [Ng.]
Swelling of the submaxillary glands.
 Toothache, with swelling of the gums and violent fever, for three days (aft. 2 d.).
 Extreme sensitiveness of the lower teeth, for two days. [Ng.]
250. Sensitiveness of the teeth, as if scorbutic, and as from boggy water (aft. 3 d.).
 Toothache (tearing?) through the whole night, then swelling of the lower lip and cessation of the pain (aft. 14 h.).
 Dull drawing pressive pains in a hollow tooth, after a cold. [Sr.]
 Dull pressure and boring in a hollow tooth. [Sr.]
 Drawing boring in the hollow teeth.
255. Jerks in the teeth, while eating.
 Frequent jerks in the right lower teeth, and great sensitiveness in their crowns. [Ng.]
 Twitching tearing in the teeth, also in the evening, and after dinner. [Ng.]
 Tearing and single tearing pains in the teeth, at different times and days. [Ng.]
 Tearing toothache, only at night, after 9 P. M., not by day.
260. Toothache, as if the teeth were being pulled, by day and by

- night; diminished by warmth; bleeding of the gums; coldness of the body, all the day, with thirst for two weeks. [Sr.]
- Dull shooting in a hollow tooth, after dinner, ceasing after smoking tobacco, returning after eating pears. [Sr.]
- Sudden stitch in a tooth entirely sound (aft. 23 d.). [Sr.]
- Burrowing toothache, in the evening when walking, which after supper became pulsative and only ceased on falling asleep. [Sr.]
- Fine, short boring in the anterior molars of the left lower row. [Ng.]
265. Violent burrowing and boring in a hollow tooth, aggravated by touching it with the tongue, awakes him in the morning and also recurs by day, after a breakfast of honey and partaking of sweet things at dinner, it continues during the afternoon in cold, damp, rainy weather, till evening (26th d.). [Sr.]
- Burrowing toothache, just after breakfast, with swelling of the right cheek; much aggravated by touching the cheek (28th d.).
- Burrowing and boring in a hollow tooth, in the evening, till falling asleep (12th d.). [Sr.]
- Cold formication runs through the upper molars. [Ng.]
- Sensation in the hollow teeth, as if cold air was rushing out, after dinner. [Ng.]
270. Looseness of the teeth.
- Looseness of a left molar. [Ng.]
- The gums on the inside of the teeth seem to him rough, when touched by the tongue. [Ng.]
- Ulcerative pain of the lower gums on the left side. [Ng.]
- Loose gums (aft. 23d d.).
275. Bleeding of the gums (aft. sev. h.).
- In the mouth, a large blister on the left cheek, which, on being squeezed open, gave out water. [Ng.]
- Several flat ulcerative spots in the mouth, with burning pain on touching them.
- A suppurative swelling near the frænum of the tongue.
- Pimple under the tongue, painful when touched.
280. Sore pain on the inside of the cheeks, when chewing.
- Dryness of the mouth and the tongue, inciting to drink.
- Always dry in the mouth and on the lips, which she has to keep licking; as if caused by the heat of the breath (aft. 7 d.).
- Gathering of much watery saliva in the mouth, at times with sour taste. [Ng.]
- Salty saliva, with smarting on the tip of the tongue (aft. 5 d.).
285. Viscid saliva, for many days.
- On the tip of the tongue, smarting as from salt-water.
- Small pimples on the left side of the tongue, with shooting pain.
- Sore pain of the tip of the tongue, on touching the teeth with it. [Sr.]
- Burning about the tip of the tongue, as if it were cracked. [Ng.]
290. Tensive vesicle on the right edge of the tongue. [Ng.]
- Pimples on the tip of the tongue (aft. sev. h.).

- Pale tongue.
 Heavy tongue, slow of speech.
 Lispings for several days, whenever he speaks.
295. Talking becomes hard to her.
 When talking, she has a pain in the scrobiculus cordis; her saliva seems beaten into foam.
 When yawning, there is pain in the left side of the neck (2d d.).
 Pressive pain in the throat after stooping; she can hardly swallow for sore pain; for several days after, a sensation as if something had lodged in her throat.
 Pressure in the œsophagus.
300. When quickly running, sensation as if something rose in the throat.
 The morsel, when being swallowed, descends only with a pressing sensation.
 Shooting in the throat, with much spitting of saliva.
 Shooting pain in the throat, both when swallowing and otherwise; also in the evening, when yawning. [Ng.]
 Tickling in the throat, with shooting, in the afternoon and evening. [Ng.]
305. Rough, dry, scrapy and rancid in the throat, at various times, also in the evening. [Ng.]
 Rough, scrapy throat, especially in the evening; at times relieved by eating. [Sr.]
 Scraping and rawness in the throat, sensible even up to the brain, during swallowing and at other times.
 Scratching sensation of dryness in the fauces, near the posterior nares, especially in the open air.
 Dry throat, with much hawking, without bringing up any mucus. [Sr.]
310. Redness in the throat, with violent, dull shooting, only when swallowing; in the morning, after awaking. [Ng.]
 Inflammation of the throat, with swelling of the right tonsil, and shooting and choking on the left side of the throat, as from a swelling, when swallowing, in the morning and night (11th d.). [Ng.]
 Mucus seems to be lodged in the throat, and she seeks to eject it by hawking. [Ng.]
 A piece of mucus is lodged in the throat, causing a scraping, and is not loosened by hawking. [Sr.]
 Frequent hawking up of thick mucus, which is always produced anew. [Ng.]
315. At night, mucus in the throat, awaking him in the morning by tickling, and easily expectorated; this recurs again, then rawness on the chest, which only disappeared after rising. [Sr.]
 Easy hawking up of mucus in the morning. [Sr.]
 Much nasal mucus is discharged through the mouth (5th d.).
 Insipid mucus in the mouth.
 Mouldy smell from the mouth.
320. The sense of taste becomes more acute (after-effect?)

- Offensive taste in the mouth, at 4 A. M., on awaking, with violent erections (30th d.). [Sr.]
- Spoiled taste, and as if burned, in the mouth, in the morning on awaking; it ceases after breakfast. [Ng.]
- Sharp, acrid taste in the mouth, as from tobacco-juice. [Ng.]
- Flat slimy taste on awaking, with bitterness in the mouth, and white-coated tongue. [Sr.]
325. Purulent taste in the throat. [Ng.]
- Taste of blood in the mouth, on exhaling.
- Sweet taste in the mouth (8th d.).
- Metallic taste in the mouth, in the afternoon (aft. 14 d.).
- Bitter taste in the mouth, in the afternoon (aft. 13 d.).
330. The bitter taste often descends deep down into the throat, like a vapor.
- Scrapy, bitter taste of all food, disappearing after a meal. [Lgh.]
- Bitter, flat taste in the morning. [Sr.]
- Sudden, bitter taste, then belching up of bitter water, which he continually had to spit out. [Ng.]
- Bitter, slimy taste, in the morning; it disappears after rising and eating. [Ng.]
335. Bitter taste of the dinner, with pretty good appetite. [Ng.]
- Sour taste in the mouth (aft. 3 d.).
- Sourish taste in the mouth, in the morning after awaking. [Ng.]
- Sour taste in the mouth and thickly-coated tongue.
- Much thirst.
340. Much thirst, only when eating.
- Thirst at various times, also at once in the morning, and in the evening after going to sleep. [Ng.]
- Much thirst in the forenoon. [Sr.]
- Violent thirst, from morning till evening. [Htb.]
- Much thirst, every morning after rising, with heat and dryness of the mouth, for several hours. [Htb.]
345. Neither hunger, nor appetite, at noon and in the evening. [Sr.]
- Little appetite, and yet the stomach feels empty. [Ng.]
- Little appetite at dinner, no taste for meat, rather for bread. [Ng.]
- Appetite and hunger, but he is soon satiated. [Ng.]
- More hunger than usual, also in the afternoon. [Ng.]
350. Much more hunger and appetite for breakfast, than usual. [Sr.]
- Much appetite, in the morning, noon and evening. [Sr.]
- Hunger in the forenoon, after a hearty breakfast; he had to eat to drive away his languid feeling. [Sr.]
- Intense hunger in the forenoon, little at noon.
- Constant hunger (15th d.). [Ng.]
355. Rabid hunger, in the afternoon. [Ng.]
- Dainty-mouthed; as soon as he sees anything eatable, he would like to taste it. [Sr.]

- After a meal, a strong desire for smoking tobacco, which he relishes particularly well. [Sr.]
 She relishes no food, and therefore does not eat anything.
 Aversion to milk. [Ng.]
360. Aversion to meat and fatty food (2d d.).
 Diarrhœa after drinking milk.
 After dinner, peevish, cross, ill-humored, neither satisfied in the room, nor in the open air; this diminished toward evening. [Sr.]
 After meals, at noon and in the evening, very cross, for several days. [Sr.]
 After supper, especially after drinking more freely, very ill-humored; with pressure in the scrobiculus cordis, the liver and the splenic region. [Sr.]
365. After breakfast, when he had hardly eaten a sufficiency, pressure in the stomach and ill-humor (26th d.). [Sr.]
 After dinner and breakfast, severe pressure in the stomach, for several days (aft. 18 d.).
 After dinner, sensation as of a heavy lump in the stomach.
 A few hours after dinner, intense thirst for cold water. [Lgh.]
 After a meal, pressure on the stomach (aft. 21 d.).
370. After a meal, a pressure from below upward, as if the digestion could not take place downward, for three or four hours; then the hands and feet feel relaxed.
 Her stomach is weak and easily spoiled.
 After every meal, eructation tasting of the ingesta.
 While eating, much eructation with intense vertigo.
 Much eructation while eating (aft. 16 d.).
375. Immediately after eating, pinching in the abdomen, like colic. [Lgh.]
 After his morning drink, pinching in the stomach.
 After dinner, drowsy and lazy, with yawning; but as soon as he sits down to work, this proceeds briskly, and yawning and drowsiness disappear. [Sr.]
 After meals, a chill, with internal heat, so that she disliked warmth, and yet she felt chilly when she went where it was cold.
Frequent eructation (for several days).
380. Constant eructation and much emission of flatus below.
 Empty eructation (3d d.). [Sr.]
 Frequent, also empty eructation, succeeded occasionally by heat in the fauces. [Ng.]
 Sour eructations.
 Sourish eructations, frequently (11th d.). [Ng.]
385. Bitter eructation, with long-continued after-taste, also at times reaching the nose. [Ng.]
 Belching up of sweetish water, but only reaching into the throat; he had to swallow it down. [Ng.]
 Scrapy heartburn after fat viands (aft. 3 d.).
 Hiccup every afternoon, after dinner.
 Violent, often long-continued, painful hiccupping, mostly in the evening, or during dinner, sometimes with bitter regurgitation from the stomach. [Ng.]

390. Frequent hiccup. [Lgh.]

Waterbrash (aft. 15 d.).

Nausea in the stomach, in the morning or forenoon, usually disappearing after meals, attended occasionally with water rising into the mouth. [Ng.]

Nausea with shuddering from loathing, with fullness in the abdomen or with yawning. [Ng.]

Inclination to vomit and loathing, in the morning, with tingling and turning in the stomach, gathering of water in the mouth, and eructation, continuing till noon. [Ng.]

395. Ineffectual empty retching, in the morning. [Sr.]

Intense nausea, urging to vomit, with heat in the face, severe hawking up of mucus, and retching, until there ensues an actual vomiting of foamy, tasteless mucus; in the evening, after supper, it is somewhat better (6th and 7th d.). [Sr.]

Vomiting of a fetid, sour liquid, resembling clay-water (when coughing).

After vomiting, a dull headache, no appetite, a white-coated tongue, and a flat, offensive taste. [Sr.]

The stomach aches, when it is touched (also after 48 h.).

400. Qualmishness in the stomach, after eating fruit, with tension in the hypochondria (10th d.). [Sr.]

Qualmishness and sickness at the stomach, as after taking a cold, followed by warmth in the scrobiculus cordis (at once). [Sr.]

Disagreeable sensation of fasting in the stomach. [Ng.]

Aching in the stomach, with sensitiveness to external pressure, and gathering of water in the mouth; disappearing after eating bread. [Ng.]

Sensation in the stomach, as if spoiled; it goes off after eating warm soup, but it comes back. [Ng.]

405. Pain in the stomach, after breakfast (4th d.). [Ng.]

Sensitiveness of the region of the stomach, when touched. [Ng.]

Pressure in the stomach (as from a stone), at times with rumbling; it disappears after eructation. [Ng.]

Pressure about the gastric region and retching, in the morning; it ceases after two hours, by moving about. [Ng.]

Pressure and griping in the stomach, with tremulousness, when walking.

410. Fullness in the stomach, in the evening, and no desire for food. [Sr.]

Fullness in the stomach and sensation of rising from the stomach, in the morning, at 4 A. M., while in bed. [Ng.]

The stomach feels swollen and sensitive. [Ng.]

Painful contraction about the stomach, toward the two hypochondria, even so as to cause him to bend double, in the evening; relieved by stretching and by walking, aggravated by stooping and sitting; continuing even in bed till next morning, with a movement below the stomach, as if a worm was there turning about (10th d.). [Ng.]

Griping and gnawing, as of a worm, about the region of the stomach, from morning till evening (22d d.). [Ng.]

415. Drawing and cutting about the stomach, without and within, from morning till evening (22d d.). [Ng.]
 Pinching and cutting in the stomach, toward the sacrum and the left side. [Ng.]
 Stitches in the gastric region, sometimes with retraction of the same, or followed by burning. [Ng.]
 Disagreeable tension, immediately above the scrobiculus cordis (17th d.). [Ng.]
 Burning to the right or the left side of the scrobiculus cordis. [Ng.]
420. In the hypochondrium of the right side, twitching from time to time, in the evening. [Ng.]
 Screwing together, and reciprocal gashing as with knives in the right hypochondrium, with oppression of the respiration. [Ng.]
 Violent stitches in the right hypochondrium, followed by pinching in the hypochondrium (10th d.). [Ng.]
 In the left hypochondrium, pain, when pressing on it with the hand (aft. 7 d.).
 Shooting at various times, also after the pains in the stomach, in the left hypochondrium; also while walking. [Ng.]
425. Single stitches from the left hypochondrium, extending to the scrobiculus cordis, repeatedly during the day, when sitting; it also pains when touched.
 Pains in the abdomen, only relieved by vomiting, which occurs twice a day.
 Violent pains in the abdomen, ceasing after eating soup, in the forenoon. [Ng.]
 Pains in the abdomen, in the morning, on awaking, ceasing after a stool. [Sr.]
 Pain in the hypogastrium, above the left groin, when yawning and when breathing deeply, without pain when touched.
430. Pressive pain in the hypogastrium and in the sides of the abdomen, with pain when touching it, and more yet when walking.
 Sensation of inflation in the epigastrium. [Ng.]
Inflation of the abdomen, especially after meals.
 Violent inflation of the abdomen, also in the evening, the morning and at night, at times with tenesmus, at times relieved by emission of flatus or diarrhœa. [Ng.]
 Heaviness in the abdomen.
435. Tensive colic in the epigastrium, at night, with cutting in the abdomen and diarrhœa, for several nights (aft. 12 d.).
 Tension in the hypogastrium, below the navel, especially when walking and stooping.
 Colicky pain in the abdomen, toward morning, with retraction of the navel and hardness of the abdominal integuments; but he went to sleep during the pain. [Sr.]
 Lumps on the abdomen, as if the intestines were here or there distended by flatus (aft. 20 d.).
 Twitching contraction of the abdomen, with weakness in the sacrum.

440. Pinching in the abdomen, even continuing after the stool.
[Sr.]

Pinching in the abdomen at various times, also about the navel and in the hypogastrium, at times with cutting and call to stool. [Ng.]

Pinching colic in the morning, with inclination to vomit, as from incipient diarrhœa.

Cutting pinching in the hypogastrium, in every position.
[Lgh.]

Cutting colic, in the morning (3d d.).

445. Cutting from the gastric region drawing on toward the navel, with a sensation as if a stool was coming. [Ng.]

Cutting in the epigastrium, in the morning, and in the forenoon when sitting, from both sides of the hypogastrium toward the navel, as after taking a cold while sitting. [Ng.]

Bruised pain of the intestines when riding on horseback, with shooting into the right side of the chest. [Sr.]

Sore pain in the abdomen, with downward straining, as if for the menses, relieved by external warmth, not by anything else.

Tearing in the hypogastrium, through the genitals, extending to the urethra (5th d.).

450. Shooting in the right lumbar region, while moving the trunk to the left side, when sitting, followed by pinching in the epigastrium (8th d.). [Ng.]

Shooting and drawing in the right side of the abdomen, above the hip (aft. 20 d.).

Shooting and drawing in the left side of the abdomen, as from incarceration of flatus (aft. 18 d.).

Tensive burning on a small spot, to the left of the navel.
[Ng.]

Smarting in the hypogastrium, as from worms (12th d.).
[Ng.]

455. The abdomen is painful, when touched, also when he walks. Severe itching and erosion on the abdomen, even by day (aft. 12 d.).

In the right flank, fine, intermittent pinching, more externally, after dinner. [Ng.]

Violent, dull, pressive shooting pain in the right inguinal region, on hawking after rising from the seat. [Ng.]

Shooting pain in the right flank, drawing into a right rib, and when taking a deep breath, into the sternum; relieved by inspiring, but recurring on expiring. [Ng.]

460. Quivering in the right flank, like throbbing, with frequent intermissions (4th d.). [Ng.]

Swollen glands in the groin.

Obstruction of flatus, causing the blood to rush to his head, and twitches in the face (aft. 20 d.).

Much incarceration of flatus in the rectum (7th d.).

Moving of flatus in the abdomen, at once in the morning, then two diarrhœic stools, without any other trouble (8th d.).
[Ng.]

465. Audible growling in the abdomen, without pain, in the evening. [Ng.]
 Rumbling and pinching in the epigastrium, then emission of flatus, with relief (4th d.). [Ng.]
 Frequent rumbling, with pinching in the whole of the abdomen, relieved in the open air (6th d.). [Ng.]
 Growling and rumbling in the abdomen, with inflation of some portions of it.
 Rumbling noise in the abdomen (5th d.).
470. Flatus, with fetor as of rotten eggs.
 Sour smelling flatus.
 Frequent emission of fetid flatus (3d d.). [Ng.]
 Sick sensation, as of incomplete stool, with stitches in the rectum.
 Intermittent stool (6th and 11th d.). [Ng.]
475. Cannot without much straining evacuate the stool, which is not hard, during the first days.
 Hard stool, with straining; also at times with burning in the anus. [Ng.]
 Difficult discharge even of a stool that was not hard; he had to strain hard in order to pass it.
 Frequent ineffectual calls to stool and tenesmus.
 Repeatedly during the day, call to stool and urging to stool, either empty or with scanty discharge of an ordinary stool, with constant fullness of the abdomen (aft. 14 d.).
480. Constant tenesmus, with writhing cutting in the abdomen.
 Severe urging to stool, with discharge of only a few small lumps, like sheep's dung, with burning. [Ng.]
 Hard, lumpy stool, with straining, and after moving about of flatus and pinching in the abdomen. [Ng.]
 Stool, with little balls of mucus, like peas (4th d.). [Ng.]
 Stool first hard, then soft, followed by burning in the anus, and at times with bloody mucus. [Ng.]
485. Hard stool in the morning, especially hard at the commencement, he had to strain, at last it was tenacious, adhering to the anus; after the meal, another scanty evacuation, followed by tenesmus in the rectum (2d d.). [Sr.]
 Stool with tenesmus, after the meal, then burning in the eyes; also in the urethra, with great voluptuous impulse; later on, burning about the eyes, with heat of the head and perspiration of the forehead (during the approach of a thunder-storm). [Sr.]
 Two or three stools a day; the last one usually with urging in the rectum and tenesmus in the urethra, while only slight evacuation of lumpy, mucous stool, or merely some flatus is discharged, for several weeks. [Sr.]
 Constantly, a very soft stool (aft. 8 d.) [Ng.]
 Much urging to stool, but only a little evacuation, with the sensation as if much remained behind; after this, cessation of the colic. [Sr.]
490. Stool with urging, and then pain in the rectum.
 Small, soft, thinly-shaped stools, after urging.

- Ineffectual urging, with shooting pains in the anus (4th d.).
[Ng.]
- Hurried urging, then a soft stool of the usual quantity; then rumbling in the abdomen, cutting below the navel, and constant straining, but only once a scanty evacuation (2d d.). [Ng.]
- Violent, hurried urging, then a liquid stool, squirting out violently (15th d.). [Ng.]
495. First a soft stool, then a diarrhœic stool, with sore pain in the anus, preceded by pinching in the abdomen. [Ng.]
- Four liquid stools, in half an hour, after colic and working about in the abdomen. [Ng.]
- Liquid yellow stool, with and after a violent urging, with pains in the abdomen, about the navel and burning and tenesmus in the anus. [Ng.]
- Urging to stool at 3 A. M., the stool is first soft, then liquid, with tenesmus and burning in the anus. [Ng.]
- Three liquid stools, with intense burning in the anus (15th d.). [Ng.]
500. Pappy stool, after the emission of silent flatus, without straining, with the cheeks burning hot. [Lgh.]
- Severe diarrhœa, first of thick mucus, for four days, which at last is more and more colored with blood, without pain, only some previous brief stomachache. [Gr.]
- Stool spotted with blood (aft. 21, 36 d.).
- Blood with the stool (aft. 14 d.).
- Hard stool, covered with blood, with shooting in the rectum at the time, followed by burning in the anus. [Ng.]
505. Discharge of tape-worm, with the stool. [Ng.]
- Before the stool, pinching in the abdomen (about the navel); during the stool, clawing in the anus. [Ng.]
- Before the stool, a chill (aft. 4 d.).
- Before the evacuation of the soft stool, colic.
- Before the (somewhat hard) stool, cutting in the abdomen and sacrum (aft. 10 d.).
510. During the stool, pressing toward the genital organs.
- During the discharge of stool and flatus, pain in the rectum, as if there were hard lumps in it.
- In a stool which was not hard, cutting in the anus and rectum (19th, 20th d.). [Ng.]
- After the stool, burning in the rectum (aft. 3 d.).
- After the stool, burning and smarting in the anus (11th d.).
515. In the rectum, pressure and itching, as if varices were forming. [Sr.]
- Itching of the anus (aft. 24 h.).
- Itching in the rectum.
- Smarting, burning itching on the anus.
- Formication in the anus (11th d.). [Sr.]
520. Violent formication in the anus, as from worms (2d d.).
[Ng.]
- Cramp-pain in the rectum and below the navel (aft. 31 d.).
- Pressive straining about the anus.

Stitches in the anus (1st d.).

Itching and severe stitches on the raphe of the perinæum.

525. Tenesmus of the rectum and the bladder with colic; after prolonged urging some urine was passed, with erection, which also continued later with tenesmus. [Sr.]

Repeated urging to urinate, with slight discharge.

[Lgh., Sr.]

Frequent urination, but only a little urine passes at a time (2d and 3d d.) [Ng.]

Repeatedly, immediately after micturition, more urging, with only little discharge (11th d.). [Ng.]

Sudden urging to urinate, with stinging in the urethra, from behind forward (aft. 3 h.). [Ng.]

530. Constant urging to urinate, and with the last drops, cutting in the bladder and emission of mucus from the urethra.

Repeated urging to micturition, with much discharge of urine. [Lgh.]

Frequent passage of watery urine, without any especial thirst (aft. 11 d.).

Frequent passage of urine, as if she had not passed any for days (1st d.). [Ng.]

Frequent profuse micturition, with discharge of yellowish leucorrhœa at the same time. [Ng.]

535. Discharge of urine much increased (12th d.). [Ng.]

Daily in the morning, two pounds of lemon-colored urine, for ten days. [Sr.]

Urine, very much increased, she has also to rise at night to pass it, at times with a burning in the urethra. [Ng.]

Nocturnal micturition.

He has to rise three times at night to urinate, without having drank much (aft. 6 d.).

540. She has to discharge an excessive quantity of urine by night, almost every half hour (aft. 3 d.).

The child wets the bed at night. [Htb.]

The urine becomes turbid, and deposits yellow mucus.

The urine becomes turbid, soon after it is passed. [Ng.]

Sour smelling, deep-yellow urine.

545. Fetid urine.

Burning in the urethra, before and during micturition. [Ng.]

During micturition, burning and shooting in the urethra.

[Ng.]

During and after micturition, burning in the urethra.

During micturition, tearing in the urethra (2d d.).

550. During micturition, erosion in the urethra (22d, 23d d.).

[Sr.]

Immediately after micturition, much dripping of urine afterward.

In the region of the bladder and the groin, violent straining.

In the urethra, twitching.

Tearing in the urethra, with single tearing pain in the testicles, periodically, for one hour.

555. Burning in the urethra, when not urinating. [Sr.]
 Burning and erosion in the urethra, in the evening. [Sr.]
 On and near the pudenda, itching.
 Stinging itching on and about the pudenda, as from vermin.
 Smarting, burning itching in the region of the pudenda.
560. Soreness between the scrotum and the thigh.
 On the glans, itching, inciting to scratching. [Lgh.]
 Intense itching on the glans, compelling him to scratch (aft. 3 h. and 3 d.). [Sr.]
 Inflammation of the glans and prepuce.
 Swelling of the glans.
565. The glans readily gets sore.
 Much collection of phlegm, behind the corona glandis. [Sr.]
 The prepuce was retracted in the morning, and the glans denuded.
 Itching on the prepuce.
 Inflammation of the prepuce.
570. In the scrotum, itching, not removed by scratching. [Ng.]
 Shooting throbbing in the scrotum. [Ng.]
 The left testicle is painful (aft. 28 d.).
 Pain in the testicle as from contusion.
 Painful stretching in the testicles and the abdomen (aft. 24 h.).
575. Heavy and pressive drawing in the testicle and the spermatic cords, more in the morning than in the evening (aft. 42 d.).
 Feeling of numbness in the testicles.
 Intense voluptuous excitation in a bath of warmed river-water; when leaving it, burning in the palms (17th d.). [Sr.]
 The sexual impulse is excited, on touching a girl (10th d.). [Sr.]
 Sexually excited, in the morning, after drinking beer, followed by a flat, sweetish taste in the mouth (25th d.). [Sr.]
580. Intense impulse to seminal emission, in the evening and after dinner, without an actual voluptuous incitation; also after a meal, on crossing the legs; it disappears when walking about; in the evening, when lying down (9th till 14th d.). [Sr.]
 Intense, continuous erection, in the morning, on awaking (aft. 8 d.).
 Incipient erections, during the day (aft. 2, 3 d.).
 Erections, almost every morning, at times without any voluptuous excitement or sexual impulse; for three weeks. [Sr.]
 Frequent erections, by day (7th d.). [Ng.]
585. Painful, continuous erection, in the morning in bed. [Ng.]
 Weak erections (5th d.).
 The erections cease, in the after-effects of the medicine. [Ng.]
 Pollution, in the morning, without any voluptuous sensation, with cutting and painfully tensive erection, lasting over an hour, the pain continuing even after rising (7th d.). [Sr.]
 Painful pollution at night, while in sound sleep, from which he could not rouse himself (aft. 18 d.). [Sr.]
590. Frequent pollutions in an old man (19th, 22d, 29th, 37th d.).

- Pollution, without erection.
 Pollution, without any lascivious dream. [Lgh.]
 Prostatic juice is emitted during urination (aft. 5 d.).
 Prostatic juice emitted during a difficult stool.
595. Imperfect coitus, short erection, quick emission of semen (2d d.).
 After coitus, throbbing in the genital organs.
 After coitus, pain behind the glans during erections.
 After coitus, much tendency to perspiration.
 After a (painful) pollution, next day he was cross, ill-humored, discontented, without disposition for anything, and without perseverance. [Sr.]
600. On the female pudenda, tearing on the side (aft. 6 d.).
 Movements in the uterus, as if a fœtus was there.
 Bearing down in the hypogastrium toward the genital organs as if everything was coming out of the abdomen, and as of incipient menses.
 Soreness on the female pudenda, between the thighs.
 Menses two days late, toward evening, like bloody water and very scanty. [Ng.]
605. Menses 3 days late (the first days.)
 Menses too soon by one day. [Ng.]
 Menses, 3 days too early (aft. 48 h.).
 Menses, 7 days too soon (aft. 7 d.).
 Menstrual flow stronger and more long-continued than usual. [Ng.]
610. Before the appearance of the menses, headache and straining in the nape.
 Before the menses, cutting, deep in the hypogastrium, with brief intermissions. [Ng.]
 During the menses, painful tearing and throbbing in the head. [Ng.]
 During the menses, in the morning after awaking, painful distension of the abdomen; after rising, it is relieved by a slight diarrhœa (12th d.). [Ng.]
 During the menses, violent pain in the sacrum, but only by day. [Ng.]
615. During the menses, bruised pain and tearing in the right hip (12th d.). [Ng.]
 During the menses, prostration of the body, with nausea and loathing in the stomach. [Ng.]
 During the menses, now a tearing pain, then a stitch, here and there, in the body. [Ng.]
 During the menses, a chill with shaking, without subsequent heat, from 5 p. m. till in the evening, one hour after lying down. [Ng.]
- Leucorrhœa.
620. Much leucorrhœa, every time preceded by repeated attacks of colic and of writhing about the navel, day and night, in every position, for five days.
 Thick leucorrhœa, after micturition, for four days (aft. 2 d.). [Ng.]

Yellowish leucorrhœa, discharged with the (frequent, copious) urine (11th d.). [Ng.]

* * * * *

Constant tickling in the nose, not removed by scratching (12 d.). [Ng.]

Frequent sneezing, without coryza (aft. 13 d.). [Lgh.]

625. Violent sneezing, with rush of blood to the head, and white stars before the eyes. [Ng.]

Repeated, continual sneezing the whole day (11th d.). [Ng.]

Obstruction of the nose, when talking.

Sensation of obstruction in the nose (1st d.). [Ng.]

Obstruction of the nose, with hard, ill-smelling clots from one of the nostrils (aft. 14 d.).

630. Thick, green mucus comes from the nose, on blowing it [Sr.]

Yellow, fetid mucus from the nose (6th, 7th d.). [Ng.]

Coryza, with obstruction of the nose, so that she feels as if she would suffocate by night from lack of air, and has to keep her mouth constantly open (10th, 11th d.). [Ng.]

Stuffed coryza (aft. 6 d.).

Violent stuffed coryza, especially after dinner, with frequent sneezing.

635. Coryza, with frequent intermissions, with burning of the eyes, from morning till evening (12th d.). [Ng.]

Very violent coryza (10th d.).

Coryza, now fluent, now stuffed (5th d.). [Ng.]

Fluent coryza, with much sneezing (2d d.). [Ng.]

Fluent coryza in the forenoon, it ceases in the afternoon. [Ng.]

640. Extremely violent fluent coryza (aft. 11 d.).

Severe fluent coryza, with chill all over the body; cold hands and cheeks, and hoarseness, without thirst [Lgh.]

Dryness of the nose.

Acridity in the windpipe (aft. 13 d.).

Soreness in the trachea and in the throat (aft. 8 d.).

645. Dryness of the larynx.

Dryness of the throat, sensible when speaking and respiring, when she walks in the open air (2d d.).

Stinging and roughness in the throat, with dry cough (5th d.). [Ng.]

Stinging in the chest, with short breath (after eating pork). [Ng.]

Intense feeling of roughness on the chest, after dinner, with pressure in the scrobiculus cordis, causing peevishness; after sleeping, he felt better, and while lying down the scraping on the chest was less; but after rising it returned, and he had with some effort to eject some clots of green, tenacious mucus. [Sr.]

650. Rawness and roughness on the chest, the whole day, worst in the evening, with pressure under the sternum, with oppression and palpitation; while eating, there was a remission of the roughness, but it soon returned with a dry cough, which increased the scraping sensation, which was only transiently relieved by the detachment of mucus; attended with thirst, chilliness, fluent coryza and hard, tense, quick pulse (21st d.). [Sr.]

- Hoarse voice for two days (aft. 10 d.).
 Complete hoarseness, so that he could not speak a loud word.
 Hoarseness and much cough.
 Cough and coryza, day and night; she felt heavy on her chest for seven days (aft. 8 d.).
655. Repeated coughing, with a humming sound from the windpipe.
 Scrapy cough, at times with hoarseness, and at times heat in the hands (aft. 4 d.).
 Scratchy cough, with sore pain in the whole chest and alternate hoarseness, heat and burning in the hands and the soles of the feet, bruised feeling in the lower limbs, lack of appetite, nausea, heat and profuse sweat during the night, without thirst and with constipation (aft. 2 d.).
 Tickling in the throat, inciting to cough. [Ng.]
 Cough incited by tickling (3d d.).
660. Dry cough with tickling on the chest, in the morning (8th d.). [Ng.]
 Dry cough with stuffed coryza, after catching a cold.
 Violent dry cough, more in the afternoon and in the evening, especially when he comes from the cold into a warm room.
 Cough, with wheezing on the chest (4th d.).
 Brief expectoration, with rattling on the chest.
665. Cough, mostly in the morning, with sometimes salty, sometimes fetid, purulent expectoration.
 Cough, with expectoration of greenish, purulent mucus, and sensation of roughness on the chest (25th d.). [Sr.]
 Bloody expectoration, with the cough, in the evening (7th d.). [Ng.]
 Oppressed breathing, in the morning in bed.
 Asthma, in the forenoon (also after 8 d.).
670. Asthma, with great sexual excitation.
 First, asthmatic tightness of the chest, with hoarse, deep tone of voice, and scraping in the fauces and the larynx, then cough, short by day, at night fatiguing, rough and hollow, with sore pain in the beginning in the chest and windpipe, and throbbing rush of blood to the crown, with fermentation and rattling during respiration, relieved by sitting upright; later with purulent, bloody expectoration.
 In walking, she easily gets out of breath.
 When breathing, tension on the chest.
 Violent oppression on the chest, soon after a meal, for one hour.
675. The thorax is very sensitive in its lower part. [Ng.]
 Pressure under the sternum, in the morning, when breathing deeply (22d d.). [Sr.]
 Pressive sensation, as if a hard body was lodged between the the cardiac region and the scrobiculus cordis, with contraction in the abdomen, after dinner (3d d.). [Ng.]
 Pressive pain on the left side of the chest, when not breathing.
 Pressure about the heart.
680. Cutting and bruised pain on the sternum, sometimes ceasing through moving about and through inspiration. [Ng.]

Shooting pain in the side of the chest and the abdomen (aft. 20 d.).

Shooting pain between the last false ribs on the left side, only when respiring. [Lgh.]

Shooting pains in the chest and in the sides of the chest, at various times and on different days, sometimes aggravated when breathing, and sometimes so intense that she could not, at night, lie on the affected side. [Ng.]

Stitches in the chest, here and there, as from knives, when raising himself up from stooping, for three days (aft. 17 d.). [Ng.]

685. Shooting pain in the cardiac region, also in the evening, at times aggravated by inspiring. [Ng.]

Shooting pains below the left breast, so that she could scarcely breathe, with coughing (15th d.). [Ng.]

Drawing pain in the muscles of the chest (with tightness of the chest), mostly in the morning and evening.

Frequent twitching on one of the left ribs, with sensation as if it would arrest the breathing; it goes off by breathing deeply (3d d.). [Ng.]

Burning twitching, like electric shocks, in the right side of the chest (19th d.). [Ng.]

690. Throbbing, with burning on the left side of the chest. [Ng.]

Painfully shooting throbbing in the sternum, close above the xiphoid cartilage and then shooting in the right and the left breasts, in the evening in bed (3d d.). [Ng.]

Several times during the day, very painful cracking about the heart (7th d.).

Palpitation on going up-stairs (1st d.).

She is awakened at night by palpitation, when lying on the left side.

695. Palpitation without anxiety, very easily excited.

Palpitation of the heart in the evening, when lying down, and by day when sitting, when giving a strained attention (4th d.). [Sr.]

Anxious palpitation, when stooping (21st d.). [Sr.]

Anxious palpitation, while writing, with a dull pressure in the forehead, and a chaotic sensation in the head (8th d.). [Sr.]

External stitches on the chest. [Ng.]

700. Short burning, externally on the right side of the chest. [Ng.]

Painful twitching in the region of the left clavicle. [Ng.]

Momentary pain in the sacrum, which for some time makes stooping and straightening oneself impossible (5th d.). [Sr.]

The most violent pains in the sacrum, after walking.

Pain in the sacrum, like a great heaviness, arising suddenly when sitting, and ceasing when moving about. [Ng.]

705. Shooting and pain in the sacrum, only when sitting, not when walking.

Sudden stitch in the sacrum, so that he could not move for a few minutes, in the evening (3d d.). [Sr.]

- Cutting, burning and scraping in the sacrum.
Bruised pain in the sacrum, equally violent, when at rest and in motion (9th d.). [Ng.]
- Contused pain, on a small spot on the right ilium, when pressed upon (3d d.). [Ng.]
710. Sore pain in the sacrum, even when at rest, also when not touched.
Sore pain on the inner side of the sacrum, toward the abdomen, equally when at rest and in motion (2d d.).
Pustules on the sacrum, very sensitive when touched. [Ng.]
Pain in the back (aft. 20 d.).
Violent pains in the back by day, but worse at night, so that she can only lie on her side, aggravated by speaking and by breathing deeply (7th d.). [Ng.]
715. Tensive pain in the back, after dinner and at night, sometimes only when sitting bent forward, and then it ceases on stretching himself (1st, 18th d.). [Ng.]
Tension and drawing between the scapulæ, in the open air, after taking off his coat, when the wind, blowing on him, was disagreeable to him. [Sr.]
Straining and drawing in the back, extending into the arms, in single jerks, and terminating in a stitch, when sitting and lying down.
Drawing in the lower part of the back, as from incarceration of flatulence (aft. 18 d.).
Tearing between the shoulders and in the left shoulder. [Ng.]
720. Shooting and stitches in the back, at times out at the right side of the chest, in the evening, also at night, disturbing the sleep. [Ng.]
Violent shooting between the shoulders and in the whole of the back, worse on inspiring, with tension in the spine, when moving the trunk, also in the evening, relieved when walking. [Ng.]
Gnawing pain between the shoulders. [Ng.]
Bruised pain in the back, for several days, at times also in the evening after lying down, extending into the nape; or at night, waking her from sleep, and so violent that she dares not turn over. [Ng.]
Burning and shooting in the back, in the morning, ceasing after rising; but the back remains sensitive, and as if bruised (9th d.). [Ng.]
725. Tingling and itching formication on the whole of the back (aft. 2 d.).
Vesicles on the back; with intense itching, exciting to scratch, especially in the evening, on undressing. [Sr.]
Pressure and shooting below the left scapula, with sensitiveness when pressing upon it. [Ng.]
Burning and pressure on the lower end of the right scapula, frequently recurring; it disappears through moving about. [Ng.]
Shooting on the right scapula, after dinner (7th d.). [Ng.]
730. Boring in the middle of the right scapula, as if extending to the xiphoid cartilage. [Ng.]

The nape is stiff, as if he had taken cold.

Stiffness and paralysis in the nape.

Tension in the nape, when sitting and walking, worse when moving the head. [Ng.]

Cramp-like drawing in the nape, with difficulty in moving the head (21st d.). [Sr.]

735. Drawing pain in the nape, when reading, with ill-humor and impatience (22d d.). [Sr.]

Tearing in the muscles of the nape (1st d.). [Ng.]

A sudden drawing tearing in the neck, which made this, as it were, stiff, aggravated on moving the head. [Sr.]

Stitches in the neck, oft-repeated, in the evening. [Ng.]

She felt the movement of the fauces when swallowing, in the back part of the nape.

740. Transient shooting pain in the nape.

Paralytic, constant pain in the nape and between the shoulders, in the morning. [Ng.]

Cracking of the cervical vertebræ, on moving the head. [Sr.]

Purulent pock in the nape, only with sore pain when touched.

[Sr.]

On the right side of the neck, constant shooting tearing (16th, 17th d.). [Ng.]

745. A swelling as large as a pea, on the right side of the neck, continually increasing in size, and painful when touched; with hoarseness, failure of the voice, rawness and scraping in the throat, extending into the chest, increased by coughing and a pressure on the crown, so that she dares not touch it, for 5 days (aft. 11 d.).

[Sr.]

Glandular swelling on the neck.

The goitre increases in size.

Severe pressure in the goitre.

Severe pain in the shoulder joint, so that she could not raise her arm for 2 days.

750. Sensation of pressure on the top of the left shoulder, ceasing by pressing upon it, but recurring (4th d.). [Ng.]

Drawing pain in the right shoulder-joint.

Tearing and single tearing pains in the top of the shoulders, the pain in the left shoulder being at times so intense that she thinks she would die. [Ng.]

Tearing in the left shoulder-joint, and thence down the arm into the little finger, at first aggravated by motion, afterward ceasing through it. [Ng.]

Shooting in the top of the shoulders, at times accompanied with itching. [Ng.]

755. Bruised pain in the shoulder-joints

The arm feels stiff, she cannot raise it.

Great heaviness in the right arm, so that she cannot raise it.

Tearing in the right arm, especially in the shoulder.

Tearing in the right arm, extending into the wrist-joint which pains intensely when at rest.

760. Tearing in the right arm, extending into the fingers, with weakness, especially at night, with perspiration; it ceases after rising. [Ng.]

Twitching in the arms, repeatedly, involuntarily, by day, so that she starts up.

Gripping and burrowing in the bone of the left arm, extending into the skin, where it terminates with burning; at noon, when taking off the coat (10th d.). [Sr.]

The right upper arm is painful, so that he cannot raise it.

Pinching in the muscles of the upper arms, disappearing by rubbing. [Ng.]

765. Tearing in the right upper arm, and the two last fingers, which fall asleep, at 3 A. M., only transiently removed by rubbing, but ceasing entirely after rising. [Ng.]

Tearing pain on the posterior side of the left upper arm, as if in the bone. [Ng.]

Tearing in the middle of the upper arm, when standing. [Ng.]

Bruised pain in the upper part of the muscles of the left upper arm and in the upper part of the pectoral muscles, but only when touching them, and when moving the arm.

In the elbow, a drawing pain, two evenings in succession, on lying down.

770. Tearing in the elbow, from the point of the elbow to its bend (1st d.). [Ng.]

In the left fore-arm, below the bend of the elbow, quivering (2d d.). [Ng.]

Cramp-pain on the outer side of the right fore-arm, not ceasing when moving it (aft. 4 h.). [Lgh.]

Drawing tension on the inner side of the left fore-arm, as if in a tendon. [Ng.]

Intermittent drawing on the upper surface of the right fore-arm, as if in a certain spot the skin was drawn upward by a plaster. [Ng.]

775. Tearing in the fore-arms, extending into the fingers. [Ng.]

Stitch in the right fore-arm (aft. 1½ h.). [Sr.]

Sprained pain in the right fore-arm, as if he had twisted it in working (5th d.). [Ng.]

Twitching in the hands, especially when she grasps anything.

Twitching or sensation of twitching in the right wrist-joint.

780. Painful twitching on the dorsum of the right hand, in the morning [Ng.]

Straining drawing in the tendons of the dorsum of the right hand, relieved by pressing upon it (12th d.). [Ng.]

Painful drawing in the ball of the right hand, when writing, with tension extending up into the fore-arm, on moving the hand, and sensitiveness in it then, and also when not moving it; ceasing, when he stretches his arm and hand. [Ng.]

Drawing tearing in the metacarpal bone of the right ring-finger, quickly going off, in the open air. [Sr.]

Violent tearing in the metacarpal bone of the right index, in the evening (11th d.). [Ng.]

785. Boring in the metacarpal bone, in the evening in bed. [Sr.]
 Boring in the metacarpal bone of the right thumb, and then in the bones of the fore-arms (25th d.). [Sr.]
 Boring in the os pisiforme of the right hand, in the morning in bed, most acute when pressed upon or lying upon it (8th d.).
 [Sr.]
 Stiffness in the left wrist-joint when holding anything, so that he had to lay it aside, and move his hand, which also pained him;
 with this, also stiffness in the nape (22d d.). [Sr.]
 Heat and painful sensitiveness of the palms and especially of the finger-tips, when stroking or rubbing against any object (aft.
 12 d.).
790. Burning in the palms.
 Swollen hands in the afternoon (10th d.). [Ng.]
 The left hand goes to sleep, in the morning in bed (8th d.).
 [Ng.]
 Quivering, now in the hands, now in the feet, before and after midnight, in bed, always causing her to wake up. [Ng.] Quivering of the hands, most violently in the morning (10th
 d.). [Ng.]
795. Sweaty hands.
 Profuse sweat on the hands.
 The skin of the hands is dry and cracks easily (22d d.).
 [Sr.]
 Dry, cold hands (aft. 9 d.).
 Chapped, cracked hands (aft. 13 d.).
800. Two red spots on the back of the hand behind the knuckles.
 [Ng.]
 Herpes on the left hand (aft. 14 d.).
 In the finger-joints a twitching sensation.
 Twitching in the left thumb. [Ng.]
 Pain as if a tendon between the ring finger and the middle finger had been torn loose, on lifting a vessel with the hand.
 [Sr.]
805. Tensive drawing in the thumb, extending beyond the wrist-joint, often ceasing of itself, often through motion. [Ng.]
 Cramplike tearing and clinching of the left index. [Lgh.]
 Tearing in various fingers and on their back, where it ceases on rubbing them. [Ng.]
 Shooting in the tip of the index, and at times with quivering also in the ring-finger. [Ng.]
 A stitch just above the nail of the right thumb. [Ng.]
810. Formication in the right thumb, as if it was going to sleep, at times with quivering. [Ng.]
 Burning, as if she had burned herself with nettles on the back of the left middle finger, in the morning (18th d.). [Sr.]
 Burning and itching, as from nettles, in the joint of the right index, with a nodule under the skin, in the morning, after rising
 (10th d.). [Sr.]
 Bloated fingers, several mornings (25th d.). [Sr.]
 Inflammation of the left thumb, and later an ulcerated blister on it.

815. White blisters on the index, with red areolæ and burning as from nettles. [Sr.]
 Small blister on the index, with burning as from nettles, disappearing after washing. [Ng.]
 The gluteal muscles on the left side, twitch, when he is sitting down. [Sr.]
 Tearing in the left natis, when standing; it disappears when sitting, in the evening. [Ng.]
 Burning pain in the bend between the nates and the thighs, as from a rubbing pressure. [Sr.]
820. Dry eruption on the nates and the coccyx, with intense itching, in the morning, on rising.
 In the region of the right hip, drawing and pressure. [Ng.]
 Tearing in either the left or the right hip, in the evening after lying down. [Ng.]
 Tearing and shooting in the left hip, with cessation of the pains in the back, going off by moving. [Ng.]
 Bruised pain of the left hip, on rising from the seat; it goes off when walking (5th d.). [Ng.]
825. Violent shooting through the right hip, in paroxysms, while walking; she had to stand still and bend over, to relieve it (10th d.). [Ng.]
 The lower limbs feel heavy, while sitting (aft. 21 d.).
Great heaviness in the lower limbs (4th d.).
 Straining in the whole of the lower limbs, when sitting and walking (aft. 5 d.).
 Bruised sensation in the legs (aft. 2 d.).
830. The legs give way under him (aft. 11 d.).
 Sensation of coldness in the lower limbs, even by day.
 Tearing in the lower limbs, from the middle of the thigh, to the middle of the leg, on the outer surface, in the evening, when standing (1st d.). [Ng.]
 In the right thigh, a twitching sensation darting downward.
 Twitching in the muscles of the thighs, suddenly, as if a worm was crawling over them.
835. Cramplike, intermittent tearing in the outer side of the right thigh, close to the knee. [Lgh.]
 Tearing in the left thigh, extending to the knee (18th d.). [Ng.]
 A violent stitch through the middle of the thigh, as with a knife, while walking (4th d.). [Ng.]
 Painful weariness in the two thighs, as after a severe exertion (aft. 48 h.).
 Bruised pain in the anterior muscles of the thighs, as if the flesh was detached, but only when walking and when touched.
840. The hough is painful when touched.
 Acute pain in the right knee-joint, when treading (6th d.).
 Shooting drawing in the right knee, in the evening. [Sr.]
 Tearing in the right knee, at night in bed, relieved by applying warm cloths. [Ng.]
 Boring in the right patella (1st d.). [Ng.]

845. Sprained pain in the right knee, when walking (11th d.).
 [N $\bar{g}$ .]
 Bruised pain in the knee-joints.
 Itching of the knee, with burning after scratching. [N $\bar{g}$ .]
 In the morning, from rising till the afternoon, dull shooting pain in the left knee, the tibia and thigh, when sitting and walking (5th d.).
 A drawing in the leg, from the right knee into the feet, with restlessness therein.
850. Drawing pain, round about the legs, above the malleoli.
 A drawing in the right leg, in the evening.
 Pressive, cramp-like drawing, extending down the tibiæ.
 Pressive drawing in the left calf, especially when walking.
 Burning drawing on the outer surface of the tibia, seemingly in the skin. [N $\bar{g}$ .]
855. Tearing in the right tibia, extending into the big toe, in which there was a tingling, as if it would go to sleep (1st d.). [N $\bar{g}$ .]
 Violent tearing in the calves and then also in the thighs, in the afternoon (18th d.). [N $\bar{g}$ .]
 Tearing on the lower part of both the legs, and on the anterior part of the feet. [N $\bar{g}$ .]
 Pinching and straining in the calf, as if too short, on moving the foot after walking.
 Boring pain in the tibia in the evening, when sitting; he does not feel anything when walking (aft. 17 d.).
860. Quivering in the calves, when sitting (8th d.). [N $\bar{g}$ .]
 Redness, inflammation and swelling of the left leg, with intense itching and gnawing, and with many itching ulcers with shooting pains.
 The feet are heavy (3d d.).
 Cramp-like pain in the right foot and in the toes (aft. sever. h.).
 Cramp on the inner side of the sole of the foot, when turning the foot inward.
865. Cramp in the right foot, at night (aft. 14 d.).
 Pinching and twitching in both heels (4th d.) [N $\bar{g}$ .]
 Tensive drawing in the dorsum of the right foot, ceasing by rubbing; in the evening when standing. [N $\bar{g}$ .]
 Cramp-like tearing in the dorsum of the right foot,\* near the toes, in every position (aft. 14 h.). [L $\bar{g}$ h.]
 Cramp-like pressure, almost like tearing, in the sole of the left foot. [L $\bar{g}$ h.]
870. Tearing in the outer malleolus of the left foot (2d d.). [N $\bar{g}$ .]
 Tearing and sensation of heat in the sole of the right foot. [N $\bar{g}$ .]
 Tearing in the anterior part of the foot, worst when moving the toes (7th d.). [N $\bar{g}$ .]
 Painful tearing in the extensor tendon of the right big toe; it ceases on rubbing it (1st d.). [N $\bar{g}$ .]
 Shooting below the left external malleolus, when walking, for several days. [N $\bar{g}$ .]

875. Shooting in the sole of the right foot, as from needle-pricks (6th d.). [Ng.]
 Dull stitch in the right tarsal joint (aft.  $\frac{1}{2}$  h.). [Sr.]
 Violent quivering, back in the left heel, when walking. [Ng.]
 Throbbing and formication in the heels, as from an ulcer, in the evening, in bed. [Ng.]
 Sore pain in the ball of the foot, on which there are corns, when treading (aft. 4 d.).
880. Formicating tingling in the right foot, when sitting; also in the morning in bed. [Ng.]
 The left foot goes to sleep, when sitting. [Ng.]
 Restlessness in the feet.
 Pricking in the soles of the feet.
 Burning of the feet, especially the soles, when walking.
885. Burning in the soles of the feet, in the evening; it ceases when in bed. [Ng.]
 Burning in the soles of the feet.
 Swelling of the soles of the feet (aft. 7 d.)
Feet quite cold (aft. 17 d.)
 Feet intensely cold, like ice.
890. Sweating of the feet, when walking (aft. sever. h.)
 Itching in the soles of the feet, especially in the balls of the feet.
 Itching and shooting on the soles and the heels.
 Black, ulcerated, suppurating bladder on the heel. [Hg.]
 Between the toes, erosion and soreness.
895. Pain, like subcutaneous festering, in the left big toe.
 Tearing in the right big toe. [Ng.]
 Tearing pains in the right big toe (10th d.).
 Formication in the right middle toe, ceasing when touched. [Ng.]
 Burning in the right little toe, when walking. [Ng.]
900. Quivering and twitching in the left big toe. [Ng.]
 Swelling of both the big toes, with a sort of violent tearing, as if with sore pain in it, which did not let him sleep. [Lgh.]
 Painful burning itching, on both the big toes. [Lgh.]
 Red spot (as from contusion), on the big toe, and from there occasionally a tearing extending backward, along the side of the sole of the foot.
In the corn, intense stitches.
905. Drawing pain in the corns.
 Boring pain in the corns
Itching as from fleas, all over the body. [Rl.]
 Itching and biting as of fleas in the region of the beard, and on the chin, on the back, the chest, the back of the hand and the bend of the elbow, inciting to scratch. [Sr.]
 Severe itching on the body, in the evening, on lying down, till he fell asleep (7th d.). [Sr.]
910. Stinging itching on the hypogastrium and on the thighs, especially in the afternoon.
 Itching on the arms and the lower limbs (aft. 15 d.).

Itching on various parts, at various times, ceasing on scratching. [Ng.]

Itching, returning after scratching, on the back and on the ball of the thumb. [Ng.]

Itching, not removed by scratching, on the right side of the abdomen, the hip, and the left hough. [Ng.]

915. Itching, with pimples after scratching, which burn at times, on the nape, on the outer side of the left leg, and in the bend of the left elbow. [Ng.]

Intense itching with wheals after scratching, on the abdomen, the sexual parts and the lower limbs.

Itching pimples and lumps on the hairy scalp, the chest and the abdomen (aft. 18 d.).

Red vesicles filled with a humor, with sore pain when touched, in the bend of the elbow, and of the groin. [Sr.]

Blistered spots on the tips of all the toes and the fingers, as if scalded, enclosing the nails all around, as if to take them off by suppuration. [Hg.]

920. Shooting in the affected spot.

The herpes exude a purulent fluid, and becomes larger and worse.

The warts begin to pain, at the least pressure.

The wart begins to bleed, it becomes larger and goes off in three weeks.

Incipient warts.

925. The skin of the whole body becomes dry and rough, and cracks open here and there.

Dryness of the skin (aft. 3 d.).

Troublesome dryness of the skin, by night, especially after midnight.

Ready to take cold, and from it coryza.

Readiness to take colds, and thence colic and diarrhœa or coryza (aft. 10 d.).

930. Dislike of the open air, it is repugnant to her.

Fear of taking cold (2d d.).

When walking in the open air, he gets headache and coryza.

After walking, thirst (2d d.).

Increased sensitiveness of the body, every motion is painful to her. [Ng.]

935. When rising from her seat, everything pains her; this disappears again on walking. [Ng.]

Cramplike tearing, especially in the arms or the lower limbs, also in the whole of the body, unchanged by motion and rest (aft. 6. h.). [Lgh.]

Tearing up and down in the limbs, mostly in the joints of the knees and the ankles.

Tearing in the joints of the shoulders, elbows and wrists.

A pain, more tearing than shooting, in the joints of the arms and the lower limbs, chiefly in the evening on lying<sup>2</sup> down, and at night, often awaking from sleep.

940. Sensation of tearing and bruising in the limbs (7th d.). [Ng.]

- Drawing in the joints, and after awaking from sleep, paralytic feeling of the same (aft. 4 d.).
- Drawing and stretching in the legs and in the jaws, and a drawing in the teeth, at night (aft. 21 d.).
- Twitching in the limbs (aft. 48 h.).
- Twitching or twitching sensation in all the joints.
945. Twitching and threatening in the whole body, with sensitive mood.
- Muscular twitching, and quivering in one place or another in the body, on the scapulæ, the calves, the eyelids and the arms.
- Jerks in the lower limbs and the lower part of the body.
- Readiness to overlift himself; after lifting anything heavy, at once a twitching pain, starting from the sacrum and spreading all around it, with great lassitude after it (aft. 12 d.).
- Most of the troubles arise when sitting, and pass off by motion, pressure or rubbing. [Ngr.]
950. Unsteadiness in walking, stumbling, slipping
- Emaciation, with paleness, dilated pupils and dark-colored urine.
- Bloated in the whole body, in the morning; better in the afternoon.
- Painful tension of all the nerves, especially those of the head, with nausea.
- Restlessness in the evening, in the arms and the lower limbs, with extension and stretching of the same (2d d.).
955. Disagreeable sensation of illness in the whole body. [Ngr.]
- Attack in the evening: everything gets black before his eyes, with paralytic tearing pressure in the head, the eyes and the jaws, with weak consciousness and confused, incoherent thoughts, for one and a half hours; then formicating pain in the lips, the right arm, and especially the right hand and finger tips, especially of the thumb; he is readily startled (13th d.).
- The child complains of colic and nausea, looks very pale, and has to lie down; after an hour's sleep it is over.
- Great heaviness and prostration of the whole of the body, in the morning (7th d.). [Ngr.]
- Feels heavy and broken down in his limbs. [Ngr.]
960. Heavy and lazy, in the morning on rising, while in bed, she woke up bright.
- Very lazy, in the morning.
- Very lazy, with a sensation as if everything on her was on a stretch, and her face and hands swollen, when at rest; by motion it is relieved (8th d.). [Ngr.]
- Dislike of moving; motion also aggravates the ailments.
- No desire for exercise.
965. Inclination to lie down (aft. 5 d.).
- Walking is hard for her; she is languid and pale (aft. 24 h.).
- Great lassitude in the lower limbs and heaviness in the arms (also aft. 20 d.).
- Lassitude in all the limbs (aft. 3 d.).
- Great lassitude, for a week, after three days' toothache, with fever (aft. 5 d.).

970. Lassitude, in the morning (aft. 9 d.).
Lassitude in the whole body in the morning, the thighs feel broken in the middle. [Ng.]
Great lassitude, especially in the legs, from the afternoon till evening (5th d.). [Ng.]
Sensation of paralysis in the limbs, in the morning, on awaking.
Weakness and lack of strength in the arms and the lower limbs.
975. Great weakness, unto death, by day; the head feels very weary (aft. 36 d.).
Great lassitude and drowsiness, by day (aft. 2 d.).
Tired and weary, she fell asleep by day, while sitting at her work.
Drowsiness by day, with yawning.
Drowsiness by day, with yawning, while sitting and reading. [Lgh.]
980. Constant troublesome yawning, the whole forenoon. [Ng.]
Yawning, lachrymation and drowsiness; he had to lie down, and slept more than a quarter of an hour, but only in a slumber (10th, 11th and 12th d.). [Sr.]
Frequent yawning, in the evening (the first days). [Sr.]
Great drowsiness in the forenoon; instead of his usual noon-day-nap, only a short light slumber (2d d.). [Sr.]
Very sleepy in the morning; he finds it hard to get up at seven o'clock (the first days). [Sr.]
985. Can hardly be waked up in the morning from his half slumber.
Very sleepy in the afternoon, with yawning; she would like to go to sleep at once (2d d.). [Ng.]
Irresistible sleep, in the afternoon (aft. 11 d.)
He falls asleep late in the evening and with difficulty (the first days).
He was late in falling asleep in the evening, though he was sleepy (1st d.). [Sr.]
990. She cannot fall asleep for several hours, in the evening in bed.
When he went to bed, in the evening, sleep went from him, nevertheless he soon fell asleep (the first 6 days). [Sr.]
Heavy, deep, dull sleep.
Very sound sleep, the first days, then restless for several nights. [Sr.]
Restless night, she awakes often, and can only get to sleep with difficulty (aft. 7 d.). [Ng.]
995. Sleeplessness during the whole night, she could only lie on the left side. [Ng.]
Sleeplessness at night, though without anxiety; but yet without being able to open the eyes (aft. 10 d.).
Extremely uncomfortable, restless night; he rolls over and over twenty to thirty times (aft. 13 d.).
Sudden awaking about midnight, as if somebody pulled him by his nose. [Ng.]

- Frequent awakening from sleep, as if by noise or fright.
 [Lgh.]
1000. Awakes at 2 or 3 A. M. without cause, and soon falls asleep again (the first 8 d.). [Sr.]
 She woke up at 1 A. M. and could not fall asleep again, because she could not find any comfortable position.
 In the evening in a half slumber, a fantastic illusion; as if soldiers marched about before her in the air; she roused herself several times, but the forms again appeared at once, and only disappeared when she rose up and walked about (1st d.). [Ng.]
Sleep full of dreams, at night.
 Many dreams and chilliness in sleep.
1005. Many very vivid dreams in sleep (aft. 10 d.).
 Restless dreams at night, and frequent awaking.
 Many varied dreams every night, chiefly about occurrences and things spoken of the evening before; the first twenty days, the dreams were easily recalled on awaking, the following days, only recalled by reflection. [Sr.]
 She lies all night beset by fancies.
 Confused, voluptuous dreams, in a restless sleep, with violent erections and pollutions.
1010. Voluptuous dream (13th n.). [Ng.]
 Voluptuous dreams at night, with a pollution and great voluptuous excitement, after being half waked up by a thunder-storm, so that he was almost led to onany. [Sr.]
 Agreeable, amorous dreams, the first twenty days, about mariages, amusements, etc. [Sr.]
 Anxious dreams, during the last time, about straying, killing a man, etc. [Sr.]
 Annoying dreams; he ought to travel and cannot move from the place [Sr.]
1015. Dreams about traveling, but she could not go; something like a nightmare held her back (aft. 7 d.). [Ng.]
 Many disquieting dreams during the night.
 Sad, vivid dream of a funeral procession. [Lgh.]
 Very anxious dreams, in the first sleep.
 Anxious, frightful dreams of danger from water, fighting, robbers, devils, etc. [Ng.]
1020. Anxious, confused dreams, immediately after falling asleep, from which he wakes up after an hour, with inflated stomach and dry tongue.
 Anxious dreams of a deceased person; whom she imagined she saw before her, even after she was awake, so that she cried out (3d n.). [Ng.]
 Anxious, frightful, vivid dream about thieves, he wakes up with a loud scream; he is hardly able to convince himself, after awaking, of the causelessness of his fear (aft. 6 h.).
 Restless nights, with frightful dreams.
 Frequent starting from sleep.
1025. The person is startled, twitches and starts up from the siesta.
 She talks aloud in her sleep, after midnight, without being conscious of it in the morning. [Ng.]

In the evening, when falling asleep, pressive blows in the upper part of the head.

In the evening, when going to sleep, lightning flashes before his eyes.

In the evening, after lying down, a pressive toothache, for several evenings.

1030. At night, when half asleep, and when awake, pressive pain in the teeth.

At night, dryness of the throat and the tongue, without thirst.

At night, colic wakes her from sleep.

At night, violent colic (the first n.).

After an hour, he awakes with stagnation in the splenic region and oppression above the breast and stomach, as from flatulence.

1035. At night, before going to sleep, an anxious feeling, as if his whole body had become immensely thick and heavy, for a long time. [Lgh.]

At night, she coughs very much, complains about scraping in the throat, and sleeps very uneasy.

Several mornings, on stretching her legs in bed, cramp in the calves.

In the night of full moon, a sort of nightmare; he could not move when he waked up (aft. 18 d.).

Nocturnal attack of vertigo, with slow, strong heart-beats, roaring before the ears, heat and anguish as if about to die; by the least movement or by talking a few words, increased ebullition of blood; at the end of the attack, a chill and trembling.

1040. Orgasm of the whole body, at night, which made him so much afraid of the approach of an apoplectic fit that he had get up several times from his bed.

She cannot lie on the sides, for palpitation of the heart.

She can only lie on the right side by night, because her left side is painful (aft. 7 d.). [Ng.]

At night, restlessness in the left leg and foot (aft. sever. h.).

At night, restlessness in the lower limbs; she could not let them lie still.

1045. The whole night, restlessness in the body; she could not fall asleep before morning, while she had to urinate an inordinate quantity.

At night, restless sleep, with stretching and twitching in the limbs (aft. 18 d.).

In the evening, when going to sleep, a violent starting, especially of the left lower limb, as if through fright. [Lgh.]

At night, in sleep, now there is twitching of the finger, now of an arm, now of the facial muscles, then of the whole body.

At night, striking and tossing her hands; when awake she knew nothing about it. [Ng.]

1050. Chilly, the whole day, and no stool (15th d.).

Cold hands and feet (aft. 5 d.).

Constant icy coldness of the feet, especially in the morning and evening; when going to sleep the coldness is mostly attended with heat of the face, violent heart-beats and apprehensiveness.

Cold hands and feet, with hot head.

Constant chilliness, in the morning, after rising, he could not get warm (aft. 20 d.).

1055. He could not get warm in the morning and evening.

Chill and shudder, all over the body, in the forenoon, for a quarter of an hour (13th d.). [Ng.]

A shaking chill, often sudden, without subsequent heat, in the forenoon (9th d.). [Ng.]

Chilliness, in the evening (12th, 13th and 14th d.).

Chilliness with thirst, all day (9th and 10th d.). [Sr.]

1060. Constant chilliness, for several days. [Ng.]

Attack of fever, with pressive pain, at first in the temples; numb feeling of the head, and pressure in the eyes; then urging to vomit, with coldness in the whole body, especially on the chest and the arms; in bed, by covering warmly it is somewhat better; but for some time stretching of the body, yawning, stiffness of the neck, with alternate chilliness and flushes of heat, without constant heat or thirst afterward continue (aft.  $\frac{1}{2}$  h.). [Sr.]

Shudder, in the morning, after awaking, it ceases after rising (2d d.). [Ng.]

Shudder, in the morning, after rising, and also frequently in the afternoon (7th d.). [Ng.]

Shudder, from morning till evening (1st d.). [Ng.]

1065. Febrile rigor on the whole body, the whole day, with cold hands and warm cheeks; but in the evening with icy cold hands, red, glowing cheeks, and hot forehead, without thirst. [Lgh.]

Febrile rigor on the whole body, from morning till evening, with hot hands, cold cheeks and lukewarm forehead, without any thirst. [Lgh.]

Shudder in the back, in the evening after lying down, without subsequent heat. [Ng.]

Chill, in the evening, after lying down, without thirst, with burning in the abdomen, for  $\frac{1}{4}$  hour; then heat and sleep; then about 3 A. M. awaking in a profuse sweat, with thirst till morning; he cannot bear uncovering (1st d.). [Ng.]

Shudder, at 5 P. M.; after lying down, heat with thirst (7th d.). [Ng.]

1070. Shudder, in the evening, before lying down; in bed, there is heat; he cannot bear to be uncovered (3d d.). [Ng.]

Thrill of heat with drawing pain, from the nape of the neck over the back (22d d.). [Sr.]

Frequent thrill of heat, and with this, quite ill-humored, sad and anxious; then very much fatigued and weary, for  $\frac{1}{2}$  hour.

Heat for a short time, with weariness, in frequent paroxysms.

Heat and perspiration, all over the body, without thirst, with general exhaustion, in all positions.

1075. He perspires inordinately, when moving about, even in cool weather.

He perspires at once very profusely, especially on his back, when he walks or exercises otherwise (25th d.). [Sr.]

Fatiguing perspiration on the body, especially on the hands (aft. 37 d.).

The perspiration burns him, especially on the forehead, where the hat touches it. [Sr.]

Night-sweat for several nights.

1080. Profuse sweat, the first night.

Morning-sweat (also aft. 9 d.).

Sweat toward morning, with thirst, for several days. [Ng.]

NATRUM MURIATICUM, CHLORIDE OF SODIUM, COMMON SALT.

[Half an ounce of ordinary kitchen salt is dissolved in an ounce and a half of boiling, distilled water, in order to free it from its associated salts, it is filtered through printing paper, and left to crystallize by evaporation at a temperature of 122° Fahrenheit. The crystals, which are allowed to dry off on blotting paper, are of cubical shape with pyramidal indentation on every side. One grain of these crystals is triturated to the one millionth attenuation, and then brought to the decillionth attenuation, as indicated in the first part of this work.]

There is hardly any pure experience of the real medicinal effects of common salt in diseases. Where it has been given, indeed, with quick effects, e. g., in spitting of blood and in other hæmorrhages, the enormous quantity given (a tablespoonful swallowed at once) manifestly only acted as a violent, diverting counter-irritant upon the stomach and the intestines, in the same way as a mustard plaster, applied on the calves or the arms, by the stronger pain it causes, serves at times to produce a sudden temporary cessation of toothache.

If, furthermore, as experience teaches, all substances that should have the power of healing diseases, must, on the other hand, be able to affect injuriously the state of healthy men, it would be hard to see how all nations on earth, even those only half-civilized, should have daily used salt in not inconsiderable quantities, for so many thousands of years, without experiencing any deleterious effects on the human health (as indications of its healing powers), if it is really able to ultimate such effects openly and plainly. LIND, indeed, derives scurvy in long sea-voyages from the use of salt meats on board of ships; but this is improbable, as many other morbid causes cooperate to develop this cachexy.

If we then assume, that common salt in its natural condition, shows no injurious effects on the human health, when used daily in moderate* quantity, we ought not to expect from it any curative

*The fact that very salty food, when eaten in excess, excites heat and thirst, while as much salt as will lie on the point of a knife, when taken by a effects in diseases. Nevertheless, the greatest medicinal virtues lie hidden within it.

If there is then any proof convincing even the most dim-sighted, that the preparation of drugs, peculiar to Homœopathy, opens, as it were, a new world of forces, which hitherto have lain hidden by nature, this proof is surely afforded by the transformation of common salt, so indifferent in its crude state, into a heroic and mighty medicine, which, after such preparation, can only be given to patients with the greatest care. What an incredible and yet actual transformation! apparently a new creation!

Pure common salt (dynamized like other homœopathic material powers) is one of the most powerful antipsoric medicines, as may be seen by the peculiar effects on the human body, which are recorded below.

This remedy has proved itself especially efficient, where the following were among the conditions presented:

Sadness, solicitude and apprehension about the future; anxieties; tendency to be startled; peevish irritability; violence; vertigo, in which all objects seems to whirl about, and the patient tends to fall forward; vertigo with jerks in the head and difficulty in collecting oneself; weakness of memory; inability to think; much feeling in the head; headache with dizziness; daily heaviness of the head, especially in the occiput, closing the eyelids; headache in the morning; pressure in the whole head and in the temples; headache in the morning on awaking; headache, as if the head would burst; tearing, shooting headache, compelling one to lie down, stitches above the eyes; pressive pain above the eyes; stitches in the parietal bone; throbbing and drawing in the forehead; throbbing in the head; hammering headache; beating and throbbing in the head, on moving the body; scurf on the head; pimples on the forehead; pain from excoriation in the eyes; inflammation of the eyes; gluey matter in the outer canthi; nocturnal closing of the eyes by suppuration; lachrymation; acrid tears; closing of the eyelids every evening; everything becomes black before the eyes, when walking and stooping; sudden obscuration of the eyes, when a tearing, shooting headache sets in; dim-sightedness, like feathers before the eyes; gauzy before the eyes, so that he cannot see at all; long-sightedness; double sight; the letters in reading are blurred; black dots and streaks of light before healthy person, thirsty on account of the want of drink, relieves his thirst,—this single experience seems to give some hint of a certain injurious effect of crude cooking salt, and also to indicate some corresponding homœopathic healing virtue. But we must consider, that also other substances, seemingly indifferent, will, when taken in excess, become hurtful.

the eyes; incipient amaurosis; shooting in the ears; beating and throbbing in the ears; pus discharged from the ears; tingling in the ears; ringing of bells in the ears; humming and roaring in the ears; hardness of hearing; lack of smell; pain as of subcutaneous festering in the cheekbones, when chewing; itching in the face; pimples in the face; herpes about the mouth; swelling of the upper lip; chapped, cracked upper lip; blood-blisters on the inner side of the upper lip, painful when touched; frequent swelling of the submaxillary glands; dental fistula; blister on the tongue; chronic sore throat, feeling as if she had to swallow over a lump; hawking of mucus; expectoration of mucus, in the morning; putrid taste in the mouth before breakfast; sour taste in the mouth; bitterness in the mouth; eructations; sour eructations; offensive eructations, after partaking of fat or milk; heartburn; burning rising from the stomach; lack of appetite; loss of appetite for bread; excessive appetite, morning and evening; ravenous hunger, with fullness and satiety after but little eating; intense desire for bitter things and for bitter beer; loathing of fat viands; constant thirst; while eating, sweat in the face; after eating, empty eructation; after eating, heartburn; after meals, nausea; waterbrash, with writhing sensation about the stomach; waterbrash, and then sour vomiting of food; vomiting of food; pressure in the stomach; pressure in the stomach in the morning; pressure in the stomach with nausea and sudden sinking of the strength; pressure in the scrobiculus cordis; cramp in the stomach; pain of the scrobiculus cordis, when pressed upon; pit of the stomach, swollen and painful as if festering beneath; gripping in the pit of the stomach; jerks in the scrobiculus cordis; cramp in the diaphragm when stooping; stitches in the hepatic region; stitches below the left ribs; pain in the splenic region; pressive pain in the left hypogastrium; inflation of the abdomen; swelling of the abdomen; rigidity in the left side of the abdomen; daily colic; incarceration of flatus; rumbling in the abdomen; loud growling in the abdomen; constipation every other day; chronic costiveness; difficult evacuation, with tearing shooting pain in the anus and rectum; too frequent stool; chronic soft stools; burning in the rectum during stool; burning at the anus; shooting pain in the rectum; excoriation and throbbing in the rectum; varices in the anus; pain of the varices in the anus; involuntary passage of urine, when walking, coughing and sneezing; micturition at night; discharge of mucus from the male urethra; secondary gonorrhœa; excessive excitation of the sexual parts; excessive excitation of the fancy, tending to sexual intercourse; impotence; menses too long; menses too copious; menses too soon; retarded menses; menses too late and too scanty; headache during, before and after the menses; peev-ishness before the menses; before the menses, melancholy; at the appearance of the menses, sadness; during the menses, spasmodic pains in the hypogastrium; itching in the pudendum; aversion to coitus, with woman; leucorrhœa; acridity of the leucorrhœa.

Stoppage of the nose; stuffed coryza; dryness of the nose; coryza and sneezing; abortive sneezing; hoarseness; hawking; mucus on the chest with coughing; rattling on the chest; morning-cough; cough from tickling, when walking and taking a deep breath; chronic, short cough; spasmodic, suffocative cough, in the evening in bed; during coughing, headache, as if it would split the forehead; shortness of breath in walking fast; asthma during manual labor; wheezing, when respiring in the evening in bed; tightness in the chest; tensive pain in the chest; shooting in the chest, when taking a deep breath; shooting in the chest on coughing; palpitation with anxiety; palpitation at every movement of the body; shooting in one of the breasts; sharp drawing through the hips and the sacrum; cutting in the sacrum; paralytic bruised pain in the sacrum; drawing pressure in the back; tensive pain in the back; weariness in the back; pressure in the nape; goitre; crusts in the axilla; paralytic heaviness of the arm; weariness of the arms; burrowing pain in the upper arm; stitches in the wrist-joint; the fingers are asleep and tingle; pain in the hip as if dislocated; drawing pain in the lower limbs; painful shortening of the tendons in the houghs; herpes in the houghs; weariness in the knees and calves; ulcerative pain in the ankles, when touched or when treading; heaviness of the feet; burning and swelling of the feet; pressive drawing in the limbs; ailments from much talking; bad consequence of vexation; ill effects of acid food; ill effects from eating bread; tendency to strains and sprains; distended veins; corns; emaciation; ready to take cold; awkwardness of body; laziness after rising, in the morning; lassitude; hysterical lassitude; drowsiness by day; sleep full of fancies; anxious dreams, with weeping; heavy dreams at night, waking for hours, or difficulty in falling asleep again; nocturnal thirst; nocturnal pains in the back; nocturnal trembling in the nerves; nocturnal, hourly micturition; frequent internal chill; restlessness with chill; constant chilliness and lack of vital warmth; coldness of the hands and feet; perspiration on walking; perspiration, too ready and profuse on moving about; morning-perspiration; intermittent fevers mismanaged by abuse of quinine.

Natrum muriaticum, when prepared as indicated above, can be advantageously repeated, after an intermediate remedy, if it continues to be homœopathically indicated.

Camphor has little power in antidoting too excessive effects of this antipsoric; the frequent smelling of sweet spirits of nitre has far more effect.

Some contributions are by Dr. Rummel, Rl.; others by the late Dr. Roehl, Rhl.; but the greater number by Dr. Schréter, in Hungary, Sr. and Dr. Foissac, in Paris, Fc.<sup>1</sup>

NATRUM MURIATICUM.

Sad and dejected (after an eruption of nettle-rash).

Very melancholy.

Subdued spirit.

Melancholy mood; he cannot remove from his thoughts injuries he has inflicted on others, or which have been inflicted on him, which depressed him so much that he had no pleasure in anything (2d d.). [Sr]

5. Melancholy dejection and sorrowful anxious despondency all day, without any known cause, with unceasing palpitation, without bodily ailment (9th d.).

Sudden but short attacks of melancholy.

Sad and sorrowful.

He sorrowfully torments himself, by continually looking for disagreeable ideas, which weakens him.

For hours, immersed in thoughts, as to what would become of him

10. In his thought he constantly recalls former disagreeable occurrences, so as to worry himself by thinking about them.

She takes everything in bad part, and weeps and cries.

When alone, she calls up disagreeable thoughts and has to weep.

If she merely thinks of troubles past, tears come into her eyes.

From the looks of everyone, he concludes that people pity him for his misfortune, and he weeps.

15. He had to weep as soon as anyone merely looked at him.

She has to weep involuntarily.

Anxious disposition to weep.

Much inclined to weeping and excited.

Very much disposed to weep, with dislike of working.

20. He was only the more agitated, when any one tried to console him.

Attacks of entire hopelessness and internal despondency, which take away all her strength.

Hypochondriac, even to being tired of life (2d d.).

Anxiously solicitous about the future.

Anxious about becoming insane.

<sup>1</sup>The pathogenesis in the first edition, appearing in its fourth volume (1830), already contains (beside Hahnemann's own observations on patients), symptoms from Roehl, Schréter and Rummel, of which it is expressly stated, that they were obtained from healthy persons with the thirtieth potency. The addition here from Foissac and from Hahnemann himself are probably of the same kind respectively.—Hughes.

25. He is afraid he will have to die.
 She often looks into the looking-glass, and thinks she looks wretched.
 Sudden anxiety and palpitation, for three forenoons.
 Anxiety, as if she had done something wicked, with heat and night-sweat.
 Anxiety and restlessness, alternating with indifference.
30. His gladness is very transient.
Joyless.
 He is not cheerful at all, and yet readily moved to laughter.
Indifferent and sad.
 Indifferent and anxious.
35. Unnatural indifference.
 Dryness of manner.
 Too lazy to talk.
 Taciturn, he hates to answer. [Sr.]
 Very lazy, and indisposed to work.
40. Dislike of work.
 In the midst of his work, he suddenly loses all pleasure in it.
 [Sr.]
 He only dallies, and cannot be induced to do any serious work.
 [Sr.]
 Not disposed to anything; he would like to only fold his hands or to go to sleep, in the afternoon (2d d.). [Sr.]
 Dislike to work, although inclined to acute thought.
45. Impatient scratching of the head.
 Hastiness.
 Anxious hastiness.
 Great excitement, and then falling asleep and dying off of the limbs.
 Great irritability (at once).
50. Lack of discretion.
 Lack of independence.
 His mind is much affected by a conversation.
Very much inclined to be startled.
 In the evening, he was, as it were, paralyzed by a fright, then he became horrified and apprehensive.
55. Extremely cross, peevish and taciturn.
 Peevish, irritable, quarrelsome, ill-humored.
 Offended at a joke.
 Apt to be peevish and abrupt; he does not endure opposition (for several evenings).
 He feels peevish and avoids company, because he foresees that he might easily annoy others. [Sr.]
60. Vehemence, without any particular cause.
 Vehemence about trifles, toward evening; in the forenoon, taciturn and lazy. [Sr.]
He is easily carried away to anger.
Every trifle excites him to anger.
 Injuries which he had inflicted on others, or which others had done to him, always dwelled in his thoughts; he could not get rid of them, and this annoyed him, so that he had no pleasure in anything. [Sr.]

65. She can get thoroughly vexed and excited about trifles.

Passionate vehemence (1st d.). [Sr.]

Angry, passionate, vehement.

Hatred against persons, who had formerly offended him.

[Sr.]

Very passionate (2d d.).

70. The spirit is more tranquil, and free from care, than at other times (curative effect).

Internal contentment, hopefulness, mildness (curative effect)

(5th d.). [Fr.]

Cheerful, merry and in good humor (2d d.).

Very cheerful, toward evening; she would have liked to dance and sing.

She laughs so violently, about things in no wise ludicrous, that she cannot check herself at all; tears come into her eyes, so that she looks afterwards as if she had been weeping (18th d.).

75. Striking inclination to laugh, in the evening.

Striking alternation of peevishness, crossness and extreme weariness, with alternate cheerfulness and lightness of the limbs.

Weakness of thoughts, dullness, discouragement.

Dullness and lack of thought, with drowsiness, worst in the afternoon from 3 to 7 o'clock.

Absentminded, introverted.

80. Absentmindedness; she makes slips of the tongue.

He cannot keep his thoughts together, to reflect about anything, as his thoughts keep roving to other matters. [Sr.]

Difficulty in thinking, she had to think a while, before she could hit on the right thing.

He did not have his thoughts under his control in the evening (14th d.).

Absentmindedness; he does not know really what he ought to say.

85. Absentmindedness; he twice went to the place, where he wished to look for something.

Readily makes slips of the tongue.

He makes slips in writing.

Lost in thought; he went out at the door, without desiring to do so, and being asked, Where? he first became conscious of it.

Tardy, slow in considering and resolving.

90. Irresolution in doing mental work; he cannot easily find his way. [Sr.]

Awkward; a small object, which he holds in his hand, drops down, and he knocks against things. [Sr.]

Memory very weak; he retains everything only as if in a dream.

Loss of memory; he could not recall anything about yesterday and was afraid he had lost his mind (5th d.).

Forgetful; it is hard for him to recollect, when he wishes to reflect about anything. [Sr.]

95. He cannot recall, what he wanted to write just before (2d d.). [Sr.]
 In following out a thought, he suddenly forgets what he thought of, and has nothing but fragments of ideas remaining.
 Lack of memory, so that he thought his mother (present continually) had died, because he did not remember to have seen her.
 Numbness in the head, after a brisk walk.
 Numbness in the head, on reflecting.
100. Numbness in the head, as if stupid, and as if his head did not belong to him.
 Numbness of the head, which soon changes to pressive pain in a temple, with dry heat of the body.
 Numbness of the head with dull pressure in the temples, but most when pressing upon them (7th d.).
 Emptiness of the head, with apprehensiveness,
Weakness of the head, as after much whirling around in a circle.
105. Gloominess in the head, after taking a walk.
 Dizziness in the head, in the morning, after rising, this passes off, after lying down again for a while.
 Dimness in the head in the afternoon; bright in the forenoon.
 Reeling, which obscures the eyes, when stooping and rising again.
 Reeling as from vertigo, intermittent, especially on moving the head, coming like a thrust from the vertex to the forehead, which momentarily takes her consciousness.
110. Vertiginous feeling, as if she would be thrown over (3d d.).
 Vertigo, in the morning, on raising herself in bed, like a swoon; she lost her consciousness, and she often had to lie down again.
 Vertigo on rising from bed, and on walking.
 Vertigo on turning around (4th d.). [Rl.]
Vertigo while walking (1st d.)
115. Vertigo when walking; everything turned around her in a circle.
 Vertigo, which presses down the head, while sitting.
 Headache, when turning and twisting the head around.
 Headache in the forehead, during and after sneezing.
 Headache from sneezing and coughing; it at once ceases on pressing together the head.
120. Headache when running, or violently exercising the body.
 Pain in the forehead, on making quick movements.
 Headache from cold air.
 Headache, which ceases when walking.
 Headache, in the morning in bed, ceasing on rising, for several mornings.
125. Heaviness of the head, at once on awaking in the morning, with reeling numbness.
 Great heaviness of the head, especially when talking or reflecting.
Heaviness and pressive pain in the forehead, above both the eyes (13th d.).

Dull, stupefying, pressive headache, in the morning, immediately on awaking, till noon.

The head feels as if lacking in firm cohesion, but without any particular pain.

130. Dull headache, almost constant.

Dull pressure in the forehead, with gloominess. [Sr.]

Troublesome sensation as if something was twisted in the head, in the forenoon, especially on turning the head (2d d.).

Headache from nausea, from morning till evening.

Headache from nausea, with pressure in the forehead, increasing from the afternoon till bed-time.

135. Intense headache from nausea; she had to lie down, and on rising was threatened with vomiting and swooning; the least step was felt in the head; in the evening at eight o'clock the pain suddenly disappeared, but weakness of the head remained.

Pressive headache.

Pressure above the eyes and in the temple, with numb feeling of the head (2d d.).

Pressive pain above the left eye.

Pressure in the occiput (6th d.).

140. Pressive pain in the forehead (aft. sev. h.).

Pressive pain, uninterrupted, in the forehead and the crown. Sore pressure in and above the forehead.

Hard pressure in the forehead and the temporal bones, when walking in the open air.

Dull pressure in the forehead and the eyes, as if the head was asleep, when resting it upon the arm.

145. Pressure in the brain, outward at the eyes, relieved by pressing upon them. [Sr.]

Pressure and straining headache in the forehead.

Pressure and pushing outward of the brain out of the skull, in the temple, the forehead and the ears (3d d.).

Straining pain, as if the head would burst.

Compression starting from both temples, as if the head was in a vise (3d d.). [Sr.]

150. Compression of the brain from all sides, with heaviness of the head.

Compression in the temples, especially while reading and writing, with pressure on the crown. [Sr.]

Compression of the skull and pressure in the centre of the head.

Contractive pain in the whole brain, in the morning.

Contraction, twice, in the occiput, behind the ears, with stitches in the head.

155. Tensive sensation in the brain, which is always intensified after an affective leave-taking.

Tension in the left temple, as from fullness, more in the evening than in the morning.

Fullness in the head, which, as it were, presses the eyes outward.

Drawing pain, externally in the head, from one side across the cheek, toward the incisor.

- Fine drawing pain, from the root of the nose upward, with heaviness of the head.
160. Fine drawing and pecking in the forehead, to and fro, in the morning when rising.
Stitches in the head.
 Stitches in the occiput, as with knives.
 Shooting pain above the forehead.
 Shooting pain from the forehead to the occiput, which takes all her appetite away.
165. Shooting pain on the crown, it goes off when resting the head on the hand.
 Stitch through the head, from behind forward, as with a knife, when coming from the open air into the room.
 Fine shooting pain on the vertex, with burning.
 Fine shooting pain on the parietal bone and on the forehead.
 Fine pricking pain above the forehead, as from needles. [Sr.]
170. A dull stitch from the upper part of the head through the brain, extending into the palate.
 Dull shooting pain in the parietal bone in the evening, while eating. [Rhl.]
 Dull shooting pain in the left side of the head, as from a nail, at night.
 Dull shooting pain and as if gnawing the bone, in various parts of the head.
 Shooting on the head between the right occipital protuberance and the mastoid process.
175. Boring pain on the side of the head and on the occiput.
 Fine beating headache in the forehead (15th d.).
 Intensely pulsating headache, with heat in the head and face, and nausea and vomiting (17th d.).
 Sense of looseness in the left side of the forehead, with dull shooting pain.
 The brain seems loose; on shaking the head, there is a shooting pain in the temples. [Fc.]
180. Concussion in the brain, when running fast, like a momentary jerk or pressure.
 The headache in the sinciput is much aggravated by contracting the brow, for some moments, and then the frontal bone is painful, as if sore when touched.
 Ebullition of blood to the head, with perspiration on the forehead, at noon. [Sr.]
 Much heat in the head and face, in the afternoon.
 Heat in the head, with inclination to refresh it by dipping it in cold water.
185. Heat of the forehead, with pressive headache.
 Sensation as if the head was thick and swollen internally.
 The parietal bone pains as if bruised, when touching it.
 Pain in the upper part of the head, like soreness of the skin.
 When the head is touched, sore pain, as if the hair ached.
190. On a spot on the head, formerly injured, there was pain when touched (7th d.).
 Contraction of the skin on the crown.

- Motion of the scalp from the nape of the neck toward the forehead and back again.
- Sensation as if the head was in a net (16th d.). [Rhl.]
The head nods forward involuntarily.
195. Transient burning on the top of the head.
Sensation of coldness on the crown, with painful sensitiveness of the scalp and pressing together of the eyelids.
The head readily takes cold, he has to wrap it up continually.
If he leaves the head uncovered by day, he has stoppage of the nose at night.
Sweat on the head, only in the morning, when rising from bed.
200. Sweat on the head, at night, on awaking.
Itching on the hairy scalp, he has to scratch often (2d d.).
[Sr.]
Intense itching on the head and in the nape.
Itching on the head and in the whiskers, he has to scratch.
[Sr.]
Itching eruption on the hairy border of the nape and of the temple, as well as in the eyebrows.
205. Scurf on the head. [Rhl.]
A little hard knot in the middle of the forehead and on the nape, with burning pain when touched.
Miliary rash on the forehead, only perceptible, when touching it. [Sr.]
Rough skin on the temples.
The hairy scalp smells bad, musty; the hairs stick together.
210. Falling out of the hair.
The hairs come out when he merely touches them, even on the whiskers (2d d.). [Sr.]
The border of the left orbit is painful as if contused, but only when touched. [Sr.]
Sensation in the eye as of sand in it, in the morning.
Pain of the eye, as if a foreign body was lodged in it.
215. Tension in the eyes.
Pressure above the right eye, as if from a swelling, aggravated by raising the eyebrows, for one and a half days.
Pressure in the eye, in twilight.
Pressure in the eye.
Pressure in the right eye.
220. Pressure in the eye, when looking sharply at anything.
Pressive pain in the eyelids.
Itching of the eyes in the inner canthus, and lachrymation.
Itching of the eyes, he must rub them. [Sr.]
Itching in the eye.
225. Itching in the outer canthus of the left eye (aft.  $\frac{1}{2}$  h.).
Severe itching in the left inner canthus.
Itching, shooting pain below the left eye (aft. 10 h.).
Shooting in the right eye (7th and 14th d.). [Rl.]
Shooting in the canthi (aft. 4 h.).
230. Boring pain in the eye.
Erosive pain in the eyes.

- Burning pain in the eye, in a small point.
 Severe burning in the eyes, in the evening (17th d.).
 Dry burning of the eyes, in the evening, when writing.
 [Sr.]
235. Burning in the inner canthus, he must rub it. [Sr.]
Redness in the white of the eyes, with lachrymation (3d and 4th d.).
 Redness and inflammation of the white of the eye, with sensation as if the eyeballs were too large, and were pressed upon.
 Inflammation of the eyes and lachrymation at every slight breeze.
 Soreness on the right lower eyelid.
240. Constant tendency to ulceration and intense redness of the lower eyelids.
 Large sty in the inner canthus of the right eye.
 A small pimple on the edge of the lower eyelid, not in the Meibomian glands.
Lachrymation, in the open air.
Smarting tears in the eyes, in the morning.
245. Acrid tears, making the canthus red and sore.
 The eye is agglutinated in the morning.
 Dry sensation in the eyes, as after long weeping (when driving out). [Sr.]
 Sensation of dryness in the inner canthi, with pressure, in the evening.
 Twitching in the eyes, frequently by day, and then intense itching of the same, compelling him to rub them.
250. Twitching in the outer canthus of the left eye, especially in the evening (4th d.).
 Trembling of the upper and the lower eyelid, for several weeks.
 Violent quivering of the eyes.
 The right eyelid opens spasmodically, with a pressive pain, when she wants to go to sleep; and then the upper lid trembles.
Spasmodic closing of the eyelids, in the morning when rising, in the evening-twilight and at night; even when she keeps her eyes closed, she feels the contraction.
255. Dimness of the eyes.
 Dim-sightedness, in the morning.
 Dim vision, as if he had to wipe his eyes (aft. 6 h.).
 Dim vision, as if the eyes were covered with mucus.
Dim and dark before the eyes.
260. Dimness of the eyes, when walking in the open air, as if he looked through a dim glass.
 Gauzy before the eyes.
 All objects seem to him covered with a thin veil.
 Unsteadiness of the gaze, things are confused before the sight.
 The letters and also the stitches in sewing become blurred, so that she cannot recognize anything for five minutes.
265. The eyes do not become clear at once in the morning.
 Looking at white objects, she sees everything indistinctly, as if looking through feathers.

His vision fails him. [Sr.]

His vision fails him, when reading and writing, he feels a pressure in the right eye, extending into the head; this ceases after some walking about. [Sr.]

Objects are only visible on the one side, the other is dark.

270. Short-sightedness (4th and 9th d.).

She cannot clearly see in the distance; it looks like rain before her eyes.

She becomes long-sighted.

A small, fiery point before the eye, which goes with it, wherever she looks.

Fiery points before the eyes, when walking in the open air.

275. She sees a fiery zigzag around every object.

Many light and shadowy points before the eyes.

Intermittent ear-ache.

Ear-ache behind and in the left ear.

Pressure behind the ear, when drinking fast (3d d.). [Sr.]

280. Stitches in the ears, in the forenoon, when sitting quietly (2d d.).

Drawing stitches in the right ear.

Dull drawing and shooting pain in the ear, and thence down into the neck, extending into the shoulder-joint.

Burrowing, obtuse shooting pain in the right ear, during swallowing and at other times.

Toothache, with many stitches, draws into the ear.

285. Constant itching stitch in the right lobule.

Itching in the interior of the right ear.

Itching on the lobule.

Itching behind the right ear and then long-continued burning. [Rhl.]

Hot ear or lobule, for several days. [Rl.]

290. Heat of the left, weak ear, for several evenings.

Redness, heat and swelling of the left concha, with burning pain.

Swelling of the meatus auditorius and burning of the ear.

Burning of the ear, for many days.

Itching, miliary eruption behind the ear, for several days (21st d.).

295. Small pimples behind the left ear (16th d.).

Deafness (7th d.).

Hardness of hearing (6th, 7th, 17th d.).

A blow in the left ear, and then long tingling in it.

Singing in the left ear (at once).

300. Humming before the ears, in the morning on awaking.

Roaring before the ears, in the morning in bed, and when sitting.

Sudden rushing sound through the ears.

Painless cracking in the ears, when chewing.

Fluttering in the left ear as of a butterfly, during dinner.

305. On the root of the nose in the canthus, every time he blows his nose, a certain spot (the lachrymal sac?) becomes inflated with air, and is then painful, especially when touched (2d d.). [Sr.]

- Quivering and muscular twitching on the left side of the root of the nose.
- Boring pain in the nasal bones, especially in the root of the nose and toward the cheek-bone. [Sr.]
- Burning in the nose (and the eyes).
- Redness, heat, inflammation and swelling of the left ala of the nose; with sore pain in blowing the nose (2d d.). [Sr.]
310. Inflammation and swelling of the left half of the nose, with itching and a sore pain when he touched it, and a sensation as if the left nostril was contracted (24th d.).
- Internal soreness of the nose.
- Soreness and swelling of the interior of the alæ nasi, and many pimples on them.
- Loss of sensibility and dying off of inner half of the nose.
- Itching in the right nostril, as if a worm was boring through it.
315. Itching of the left ala nasi.
- White pimples around the nose.
- Many erosive vesicles on the root of the nose, which turn to scabs.
- Below the septum of the nose, small burning pimples, with the sensation as if an acrid fluid flowed from the nose (4th d.).
- She expels much coagulated blood from the nose.
320. Very frequent bleeding of the nose.
- Bleeding of the nose, when stooping.
- Profuse bleeding of the nose, when coughing at night, with bruised pain in all the limbs.
- In the bones of the face (the cheek-bones) and on the ear, pressive pains.
- Drawing pain in the right cheek-bone.
325. Bruised pains in the zygoma, especially when touched.
- Visible twitching of the muscles of the face.
- Face shining as from fat.
- Face earthy sallow.
- Yellowish complexion, with much pain in the hypogastrium
330. Redness of the left cheek, every day, especially in the afternoon.
- Much heat in the face.
- Swelling of the left side of the face and of the lips.
- Itching in the whiskers, he must scratch them. [Sr.]
- Eruptive pimples in the face.
335. Pimples on the forehead and nose (7th d.).
- Boil on the left cheek.
- Furuncle above the eye, discharging much pus.
- The hairs of the whiskers fall out. [Sr.]
- The lips are numb and tingle, especially in the evening.
340. Tearing shooting pain extending from the upper lip over the cheeks into the ear.
- Burning on the red of the upper lip.
- Sore sensation of the commissures of the lips, on opening the mouth.
- Swelling of the upper lip and the tip of the tongue, with intense burning on it, which wakes him from sleep at night.

Swelling round about the lips, with great blisters on them, the red part is sore and ulcerated, and the tongue is covered with erosive blisters.

345. Eruption on the red of the lips, with erosive pain.
 Many blisters on the red of the lower lip, which, when the lip gets wet, burn with erosive pain.
 Blisters, which turn into scurf, on the red of the lower lip.
 Small painful pimple on the upper lip, below the septum of the nose (2d d.).
 Small pimples around the mouth form a sort of herpes, which covers itself with a crust, which comes off after a few days, but for two weeks it leaves a red mark behind it (aft. 6 d.).
350. Eruption on the commissures of the mouth (25th d.).
 A small ulcerative pimple on the right commissure, which is most painful when touched (3d d.).
 An ulcerative commissure of the lips.
 Scaling off of the skin on the red border of the upper lip.
 Dry, cracked lips.
355. The lower lip gets parched and peels off, in the evening; it becomes painfully sensitive and when sneezing, it cracks in the middle.
 Deep, painful fissure in the middle of the upper lip.
 On the chin, a red itching spot, which after rubbing became ulcerated.
 Itching, miliary eruption on the chin, for several days.
 The lower jaw is painful when touched.
360. Compressive pain in the articulation of the jaw, before the ear, worst when the mouth is distended [Sr.]
 Drawing pain in the lower jaw (10th d.).
 Tearing in the left lower jaw, extending into the temple, as well as in the parotid and the submaxillary glands, with occasional boring and pinching in the bones near the glands, worse at night; she had to bandage her cheeks to get relief.
 Dull stitches in the articulations of the jaw. [Sr.]
 The submaxillary glands pain, when stooping forward.
365. Pain of the submaxillary glands, as if they were swollen, squeezed or contused (aft. 30 h.).
 Toothache, with swelling of the cheeks for many days.
Great sensitiveness of the teeth to cold.
 Acute pain in the teeth, on drawing in air.
 Pain of the teeth, when striking against them with the tongue, and in chewing.
370. Pain in the teeth, as if something was lodged in them, that should be got out.
 Toothache in an empty socket and in the adjacent teeth, which is relieved by touching and by firm pressure.
 Pressure and squeezing pain in the upper teeth, for several hours. [Sr.]
 Dull pressure in a hollow tooth.
 Pressure and fracture in the teeth, coming from the left molar bone, with a sensation as if he could not get his teeth quite together. [Sr.]

375. Breaking, stretching and drawing in a hollow molar, and going thence into the throat and the fauces, so that she can neither open the mouth, nor swallow, nor speak a loud word; the pain extends also into the ears, where there is itching and shooting; worst in the evening and before midnight.
 Dull drawing in the teeth. [Sr.]
 Drawing toothache after eating and at night, then swelling of the cheeks.
 Violent drawing in the right row of teeth.
 Drawing toothache, with stitches even to the eye, every other day.
380. Shooting pain, merely in the hollow or carious teeth.
 Shooting pain, now in this tooth, now in another, every forenoon for an hour.
 Shooting in the teeth and on the sides of the head, with stitches out at the ears, from morning to evening (10th d.).
 Shooting and throbbing pain in a front tooth.
 First a throbbing pain, then drawing, extending into the ear, as if it would go out there, with much heat of the face and swelling of the gums; while the teeth are higher and longer, after midnight.
385. Throbbing pain and burning boring in a front tooth.
 Throbbing and boring in the teeth.
 Boring in a tooth.
 Sore pain in the teeth.
 Numb sensation of the teeth, when pressed upon; it feels as if they were too long and did not fit on one another. [Sr.]
390. The teeth feel higher and longer.
Loose teeth.
 Looseness and painfulness of the front teeth.
 Dullness of the teeth.
 The caries of the teeth rapidly increases.
395. Ulcer on a tooth on the inner side of the right jaw, more painful when not eating (7th d.).
 The gums are exceedingly sensitive to hot and cold things.
 The gums excessively sensitive; there is a shooting pain, when she strikes against them with the tongue.
 Drawing pain in the gums, now above, now below; it also swells and is very painful when touched.
 Inflammation and swelling of the gums, with swollen cheeks.
400. Swelling of the gums, above a hollow tooth.
 Swelling of the gums, every morning for a few hours, she could not chew on the side.
 Swelling and sore pain of the gums.
 Swelling and sore pain on the posterior side of the gums of the upper front teeth.
 Painful swelling of the gums.
405. Swelling of the gums, painful when touched, and bleeding readily. [Sr.]
Bleeding of the gums, for many weeks. [Sr.]
 Bleeding of the gums.

Swelling of the gums, painful by day and by night, for three weeks.

Blisters and soreness in the mouth, very painful.

410. Ulcerated spots in the mouth, on the gums and on the tongue, on these food and drink causes a smarting pain.

Blisters on the tongue, with a burning pain when eating.

Swelling under the tongue, with shooting pain.

Sensation of soreness in the tongue, also when not eating.

The tongue feels numb and stiff, in the one half of it.

415. Tingling in the tongue; it fell asleep.

Sensation in the tip of the tongue, as if it was tremulous.

Heavy tongue.

It is difficult for him to talk, he has to make an effort for it; seemingly, a weakness in the organs of speech, coming from the hypochondria.

Sore throat, as from a swelling of the submaxillary glands, without swelling.

420. Sore throat, worst in the morning and evening.

Sore throat, like a plug lodged in the throat, when swallowing.

Sensation of a plug lodged in the throat, also when not swallowing, and of rawness, with burning pain and with an anxious sensation as if everything would be closed by swelling.

Sensation of a plug lodged in the throat and of soreness in it, especially at night, waking from sleep, with an anxious feeling as if the throat would be closed by swelling.

Cramp in the pharynx; in swallowing, she could neither move the morsel forward nor backward, so that she almost choked.

425. The pharynx seems constricted, deglutition is difficult.

Constriction of the right side of the throat, with frequent yawning, causing pain, extending even into the nape, which became stiff from it (3d d.) [Sr.]

A jerk, when drinking (not when eating), in the region of the xiphoid cartilage, which also pains when touched, as if a plug was lodged there.

Shooting, sometimes pinching pains in the throat, from the larynx to the ear.

Tendency to choke in drinking.

430. She chokes, when laughing while she is drinking, so that the drink squirted out of the nose, and she almost suffocated.

Shooting in the left side of the throat, when swallowing either saliva or food.

Stitch behind the right tonsil, toward the ear, when yawning.

Shooting and burning in the throat, like inflammation, with elongation of the uvula and impeded deglutition.

Smarting in the fauces, as from inflammation and constriction, when swallowing. [Gff.]

435. Erosive, scratching pain in the parotid gland, only when drinking.

Lukewarm drinks seem to him cold, during deglutition, as if from heat of the throat.

- Ulcerated spot in the fauces, during sore throat, with putrid inflammation and dark-red swelling of the gums.
 Dryness in the fauces (3d d.). [Sr.]
 The tongue quite dry, without thirst.
440. Gathering of saliva in the mouth, in the evening in bed, causing him to choke, which brings on a violent impulse of coughing (1st evening.)
 Constant gathering of water in the mouth, he had to spit out continually.
 Watery, tasteless saliva in the mouth (at once.)
 Bloody saliva.
 Much mucus in the back part of the mouth.
445. Much mucus in the throat.
 Constant hawking of mucus, with smokers of tobacco. [Sr.]
 Hawking up of green mucus from the fauces, for two mornings. [Rhl.]
 Loss of taste for a long time.
 Watery taste in the mouth, in the evening, with lack of thirst and scanty secretion of urine.
450. Flat watery taste in the mouth, with lack of appetite; but the food has a pretty good taste.
 Flat taste in the mouth in the morning, with yellowish coated tongue (3d d.). [Sr.]
 Pappy, viscid taste, but with good appetite, and good taste of the food (aft. 4, 5 d.).
 Bitterness in the mouth. [Sr.]
 Bitter taste in the mouth, in the morning. [Sr.]
455. Bitter taste of food (at once.)
 Bitter taste of tobacco, when smoking.
 Putrid taste in the mouth, in the morning.
 Putrid taste and smell in the mouth.
 Sour taste in the mouth, in the morning.
460. Thirst, and yet hardly any desire for drinking.
 Much thirst in the evening (3d d.). [Sr.]
 The beer tastes flat and watery, in the evening.
 Putrid taste of water.
 Loss of appetite and repugnance to eating.
465. Repugnance to coffee.
 No appetite for meat.
 Repugnance to rye-bread.
 All desire for smoking tobacco, to which he was thoroughly accustomed, disappeared, he cannot smoke at all.
 Smoking tobacco makes him perspire and tremble.
470. No appetite in the evening.
 Lack of appetite, in the evening, with loathing and nausea after eating.
 Appetite in the mouth for eating, but no hunger.
 No appetite and no hunger, unattended with bad taste.
 Very little appetite, but this comes when eating.
475. Much appetite, and yet but little relish for food (the first days.)

No appetite, she feels too full, yet she relishes what she eats. Desire to eat, without any particular appetite, and then fullness.

Frequent sensation of hunger. [Sr.]

Sensation of hunger in the stomach, in the afternoon, after drinking water, but without appetite. [Rhl.]

480. Sensation of intense hunger, as from emptiness in the stomach, and yet no appetite (1st d.). [Sr.]

Intense sensation of hunger, like emptiness, awakes him in the morning, with restlessness.

Great hunger, she must eat much during the day (3d d.)

He has to eat often, for after an hour, he is hungry again.

[Sr.]

Too much appetite for supper.

485. Painful sensation of hunger in the stomach, and yet satiety comes at once when eating. [Rhl.]

Feels overful, in the afternoon.

After a meal, nausea, for half an hour.

After eating without appetite, nausea and a fit of cramp of the chest.

After a meal, acidity in the mouth for half an hour.

490. After every meal, acidity in the mouth and dryness in the throat.

After supper, heartburn.

After dinner, burning, rising up from the stomach, and sour eructation, for two afternoons.

After eating bread, eructation for 24 hours.

After a meal, long after, taste in the mouth of the food eaten, especially with food somewhat sourish.

495. After a meal, he long retains in his mouth the taste of the food eaten, or he smells it in his nose.

After eating, hiccup.

After dinner, pressure and fullness of the stomach.

After eating and drinking, fullness and inflation of the gastric region.

After eating and more yet after drinking, inflation of the abdomen and sensation of relaxation, as if everything in it was loose.

500. Immediately after a meal, inflated abdomen, heat in the face, slumber, then taste in the mouth as from herbs, with stupefaction and intoxication in the head.

After a meal, compressive griping in the pit of the stomach.

After a meal, sore pressive sensation in the stomach.

After a meal, rumbling in the abdomen.

After eating and drinking, pinching cutting in the abdomen.

505. After eating, a numb feeling in the head.

After a meal, pressive sensation in the forehead.

After supper, compression in the forehead. [Rhl.]

After being thirsty, and drinking some warm milk, in the morning, immediately, heat in the whole body and tremulousness.

- After dinner, inclination to lie down, drowsiness, and inability to think (aft. 6 h.). [Rhl.]
510. After dinner, drowsy, but the sleep is only a light slumber. [Sr.]
 After little more than his usual supper, many confused dreams of crimes, for which he with others was called to account.
 After meals, quick pulse and palpitation.
 After meals, quick pulse, with anguish and oppression of breath.
 After dinner, intermission of the pulse.
515. Before eating, great drowsiness.
 After eating, he feels for several hours quite exhausted, and has to lie down.
Abortive eructation.
 Empty eructation, from time to time. [Sr.]
 Empty eructation after every meal, or in the open air.
520. Eructations tasting of the ingesta, even after several hours.
 Bilious belching up.
 Sour regurgitation of food.
 Belching up of sour liquid, late in the evening.
 Sour, scrapy regurgitation of the ingesta.
525. Eructation, with scrapy heartburn.
 Sourish scraping in the fauces.
 Like scraping heartburn in the throat.
 Heartburn, the whole day, worse in the evening.
 Hiccup (1st d.). [Sr.]
530. Violent hiccup.
 Hiccup for several days (aft. 25 d.).
 Nausea and qualmishness in the scrobiculus cordis, every morning from seven o'clock to noon.
 Nausea, with burrowing in the scrobiculus, every morning at eight o'clock for two hours.
 Nausea about noon, as from ravenous hunger.
535. Nausea, frequently at various times, not hindering from eating.
 Nausea, as soon as she presses on the painful spot.
 Inordinate nausea, after drinking a beverage she liked, so that she had to lie on the right side, by which it was ameliorated.
 Nausea, immediately after a meal, in repeated attacks, with heaviness of the head, and frequent bitter eructation, for two hours.
 Inclination to vomit, in the morning, for several minutes.
540. Inclination to vomit, with much hawking up of mucus, during the (customary) smoking of tobacco. [Sr.]
 Inclination to vomit, with writhing and turning in the stomach. [Rhl.]
 Inclination to vomit, after breakfast (3d d.). [Sr.]
 Retching with nausea, and entire exhaustion of the vital power, after the warm beverage at breakfast, which she liked; without vomiting.

- Waterbrash, almost every day, after meals, at times repeatedly.
545. Waterbrash, after pressure on the stomach, following on meals, then nausea, followed by vomiting, first of food and lastly of bile, with colic.
- In the stomach, dull, disagreeable sensation, relieved by stooping.
- Sensation at the upper orifice of the stomach and behind the sternum, as if a foreign body were lodged there.
- Weight and tension, transversely across the parts below the scrobiculus cordis.
- Sensation as if the scrobiculus was swollen hard, in the afternoon, with tension across the hypochondria.
550. Pressure in the gastric region.
- Pressure in the stomach, in the morning, like a cold.
- Pressure in the stomach, extending into the chest, for four and six hours after dinner, for a quarter of an hour. [Rhl.]
- Pressure in the pit of the stomach, as if some hard body were tightly lodged in the stomach, compelling to deep respiration (at once). [Sr.]
- Pressive and dull shooting pain in the scrobiculus cordis, downward.
555. Pressive pain below the scrobiculus cordis, above the navel, relieved by pressing upon it. [Rhl.]
- Oppression in the scrobiculus cordis, when standing.
- Feeling of anguish in the scrobiculus cordis.
- Cramp in the stomach, toward evening, through the night, till next morning.
- Contractive cramp in the stomach at 3 P. M., with sensation of coldness in the stomach and back, till evening (4th d.).
560. Contractive pain in the region of the upper orifice of the stomach, in paroxysms.
- Colicky pains in the stomach, with nausea, in the morning on awaking. [Rhl.]
- Beating in the scrobiculus cordis, like heart-beats.
- Pain as after a blow, on the left side near the scrobiculus cordis, sensible also when touched.
- Shooting in the scrobiculus cordis (10th d.).
565. Small stitches on the right side near the stomach, daily about 2 or 3 P. M.
- Very painful pricking in the stomach.
- Burning in the scrobiculus cordis, in paroxysms. [Rhl.]
- At times heat, then again coldness in the scrobiculus cordis.
- Small, red spots on the skin in the precordial region; when touched there are fine stitches which compel rubbing; and later there rise up itching pustules. [Rhl.]
570. In the hepatic region, a violent pressive pain.
- Feeling of stiffness in the hepatic region, when bending the trunk to the left side.
- Painful tension in the right side of the abdomen.
- Pinching pain in the right hypochondrium (19th d.). [Rhl.]

- Pinching pain in the right side of the abdomen, making it intolerable to lie on the left side (15th d.).
575. Drawing pain in the hepatic region.
Drawing pain in the hepatic region, downward; then pinching below the navel.
Shooting in the hepatic region, while sitting, every afternoon at two or three o'clock.
Scraping sensation in the hepatic region.
In the left hypochondrium, straining, as from incarceration of flatus, in the afternoon. [Sr.]
580. Pressive boring in the left hypochondrium, and then gloomy, pressive headache.
Shooting pressure in the left hypochondrium, mostly when walking fast.
Shooting in the left hypochondrium, when breathing.
Burning pain in the hypochondrium, toward evening.
The abdomen is often inflated and feels full.
585. Inflation of the abdomen from drinking, with splashing therein. [Sr.]
Tension about the abdomen, as from flatulence, relieved by eructation.
Tension about the hips, as if everything was too tight; she had to loosen her clothes.
Pain in the hypogastrium as from a load, sensible when walking.
Pressure in the hypogastrium, every morning for a quarter of an hour.
590. Pressure in the epigastrium.
Constant discomfort and dull pain in the hypogastrium, as from indigestion in the bowels, which often becomes noticeable by a short pressure or pinching, with a sensation of an arising flatulence, which goes off as fetid flatus (aft. 2 d.).
Colic, in the morning on awaking, as from spasmodically incarcerated flatulence, with tensive pressive pain, with severe itching about the genitals; after a brief sleep, it all went off, without emission of flatus (aft. 36 h.).
Squeezing together in the left side of the abdomen, while walking and when lying down.
Contractive pain in the abdomen, toward evening; she had to bend double; relieved by walking.
595. Twitching contraction of the abdomen, in the morning, in bed.
Contractive hypogastric pains, like labor-pains, with lassitude.
Colic resembling labor-pains while driving out.
Drawing like labor-pains in the hypogastrium, extending into the thighs.
Drawing pain in the umbilical region, toward the thighs.
600. Drawing, pinching pain in the left umbilical region, extending into the rectum and anus.
Pinching in the abdomen, as from worms, in the evening (17th d.).
Pinching pains in the abdomen, every afternoon.

- Pinching in the fleshy part, first below the short ribs, then below the navel.
- Pinching in the epigastrium, with gastric pains.
605. Frequent pinching, daily, in the whole epigastrium, in the sides of the abdomen and toward the sacrum.
- Pinching pain in the abdomen, and as if sore, in the morning in bed, then pressive pain and as if sore in the back and in the scapulæ, ceasing after rising.
- Shooting pinching above the navel. [Rhl.]
- Pressing pinching in the epigastrium. [Rhl.]
- Cutting colic, in the morning in bed, for several mornings.
610. Cutting pains in the abdomen, in the morning, on rising from bed.
- Cutting pain in the abdomen, beginning in the morning, but worse in the afternoon.
- Cutting in the abdomen, with rumbling.
- Constant stitches in the left hypogastrium.
- Pain in the abdomen, as if everything would be torn.
615. In walking, the intestines of the hypogastrium are painful, as if they were loose and too heavy, and would fall out.
- The inguinal region is painful, when rising from the seat, and when walking briskly (aft. 11 d.).
- Sprained pain in the left groin.
- The inguinal hernia protrudes.
- Swelling of an inguinal gland.
620. He is much tormented by flatulence, which inflates the abdomen.
- Incarceration of flatus.
- Flatulent colic, especially when moving (almost at once).
- Much generation of flatus, and tension and stitches thence in the abdomen.
- The flatulence moves about in the abdomen and its sides, without discharge; with it, heaviness of the head, roaring in the upper part of the head, humming before the ears, and stoppage of both nostrils.
625. Fermentation in the abdomen.
- Gurgling in the abdomen, as from diarrhœa.
- Grumbling and growling in the abdomen, for many weeks.
- Too frequent emission of flatus.
- Sourish smelling flatus.
630. The flatus smells of rotten eggs.
- Emission of flatus is followed by diarrhœa (12th d.). [Rl.]
- Stool, only after ineffective urging.
- Ineffective call to stool.
- It keeps back the stool during the first days.
635. Hard stool every other day, she has to strain much (aft. 15 d.).
- Hard stool every two or three days, with straining and often after tenesmus.
- Hard, dry stool.
- Frequent small stools, during the day.
- Irregular, insufficient stool.

640. Violent tenesmus, without evacuation (aft. 36 d.). [Sr.]
 Frequent call to stool, with scanty discharge (6th d.).
 Violent urging to stool; he could hardly keep it back for a moment; it is pappy. [Sr.]
 Stool at the regular time, but much straining during the evacuation (the first days).
 The first days, a hard stool, the following days, softer. [Rhl.]
645. Diarrhœa, like water.
 Stool mixed with blood.
 Some blood in the evacuation.
 Coagulated blood is discharged with a normal stool.
 Before the stool, pressure in the hypogastrium, in the region of the bladder.
650. Before the stool, pressure in the abdomen, toward the rectum, as if flatulence was incarcerated.
 Before every stool and every emission of flatus, sore pain in the hypogastrium.
 Colic, before the stool. [Sr.]
 During the evacuation of a stool (which was not hard), or during the emission of flatus, labor-like bearing down pain in the abdomen; she has to rest her hands on something; after the evacuation, the pain ceases at once.
 With hard stool, scratching in the rectum.
655. After the stool, there continues an intense tenesmus.
 After the stool, straining in the rectum.
 After a hard stool, burning in the anus.
 After a soft stool, burning in the anus.
 After a stool, fissures of the anus.
660. After the (somewhat bloody) stool, itching at the anus.
After the stool, colic as from incipient diarrhœa, without results, in the morning.
 In the rectum, urging and straining, without stool, after a meal (3d d.). [Sr.]
 Pressive pain in the rectum.
 Spasmodic constriction of the anus.
665. Sensation as of constriction of the rectum, during an evacuation; with much straining there is evacuated: first, some hard fœces, fissuring the anus, so that it bleeds with a sore pain, followed every time by a liquid stool; every other day she is constipated.
 Pinching, frequently in the rectum, with a call to stool, and yet there is merely a discharge of flatus and mucus.
 Stitches in the rectum, repeatedly, especially in the afternoon.
 [Sr.]
 Stitches in the anus, extending up the rectum, between the stools.
 Stitches and itching in the anus.
670. Itching stitches in the rectum, in the evening in bed.
 Itching on the anus for several days.
 Burning pain at the anus.
 Constant burning at the anus, especially after annoyance.
 Smarting soreness of the anus, after a liquid stool.

675. Sore, hot anus.
Soreness about the anus and between the nates.
Herpes about the anus.
Varices of the anus, with humidity and shooting pain.
Protrusion of the rectum, and burning of the anus, with emission of much bloody ichor, so that he could not sleep at night for pain (aft. sever. h.).
680. Urging to urinate without passing any urine (aft. 17 d.).
Pressure on the bladder, when not urinating. [Sr.]
Frequent urging to urinate, with much emission of properly colored urine. [Sr.]
Frequent micturition, every half hour.
Frequent, copious emission of hot urine.
685. Copious micturition, with violent urging, almost every half hour, no matter how little he may drink; it wakes him from sleep at night.
Frequent micturition at night, also ineffectual urging.
He had to urinate four times at night.
Severe urging to urinate, and inability to retain the urine, which passes copiously (aft. 10 h.).
He is urged to urinate, several times so violently, that it almost passed off involuntarily.
690. Involuntary emission of urine while walking.
Very light-colored urine. [Sr.]
White-turbid urine, preceded by pinching in the urethra.
Sediment in the urine like brick-dust.
Red sediment in the clay colored urine.
695. Red sand in the urine.
During micturition, pressure on the bladder and in the hypogastrium.
During micturition, smarting in the urethra.
During micturition, smarting in the female pudenda.
During micturition, burning in the urethra.
700. After micturition, contraction in the hypogastrium, like cramp, for five minutes.
The urethra is painful when pressed upon, as if sore. [Sr.]
Drawing in the urethra, after micturition. [Sr.]
Some cutting pain in the urethra, after micturition. [Sr.]
Violent stitches in the urethra, between urinating.
705. Shooting itching on the orifice of the urethra, which feels as if glued together with gum (prostatic juice?). [Sr.]
Itching stitches in the urethra, between the acts of micturition, for several days.
Itching on the orifice of the urethra, and then tenesmus of the bladder (2d d.). [Sr.]
Itching and burning in the orifice of the urethra, in the evening, when going to sleep (1st d.). [Sr.]
Burning and cutting in the urethra, after micturition, with emission of thin mucus, which causes transparent, stiff spots on the shirt. [Sr.]
710. A fluid comes out of the urethra after micturition, causing first an itching, then a burning (3d d.). [Sr.]

Milky discharge after micturition (prostatic juice?).

Discharge of yellow pus from the urethra, spotting the linen, like real gonorrhœa, but without pain during micturition, only with some tension in the inguinal glands, which are not visibly swollen (aft. 29 d.).

The sexual parts have a strong and disagreeable smell.

Intolerable, smarting itching near the sexual parts, with erosive pain after rubbing, for many weeks (aft. 24 h.).

715. Twitches in the penis.

A jerk in the penis, when not urinating. [Sr.]

Shooting in the penis, when urinating and at other times (26th d.).

On the corona glandis, itching and tingling; he must scratch. [Sr.]

Itching on the tip of the glans, with incitation to scratching. [Sr.]

720. Redness of the tip of the glans.

Severe itching and humidity on the corona glandis.

Some red spots on the glans. [Sr.]

The foreskin is retracted behind the glans; causing a frictional sensation of dryness, when the glans touches the clothes.

In the testicles, a pinching pain.

725. Drawing ache in the testicles, starting from the abdominal ring.

The scrotum hangs down relaxed, for several days (aft. 20 d.).

Severe itching on and below the scrotum, and on the left thigh, on a red inflamed spot.

Soreness beside the scrotum, on the thigh.

Itching, sharply defined, humid tetter on the scrotum, and near it on the thigh.

730. Feeling of weakness in the sexual parts.

Quiescent, very dormant state of the sexual instinct.

Little sexual impulse and during coitus, tardy emission of semen (aft. 13 d.). [Rl.]

For the first twelve days it excited the sexual impulse, the erections and the voluptuous thrill during coition, inordinately; but later on these diminished so much the more.

Lasciviousness in the evening in bed. [Sr.]

735. Excitation to voluptuousness, suddenly, while sitting, disappearing when walking. [Ng.]

More physical sexual impulse (aft. 8 d.).

No erections and no pollutions for five weeks.

Violent erection (5th and 10th d.).

Erections in the morning, without sexual impulse. [Sr.]

740. After the morning erection, burning in the urethra. [Sr.]

Lack of erections (the first days).

Violent erections, at night and in the morning (aft. 6 h.), later, none at all or very rarely.

Lack of pollutions, while abstaining from coitus, for five weeks.

Pollution (in a married man) (1st and 10th n.).

745. In spite of regular coitus, repeated pollutions.
 A very unusual, nocturnal emission of semen (1st n.).
 Pollution, with smarting of the glans.
 Profuse pollution, with an impotent man, with intense voluptuous thrill, and then almost the whole night, constant erections, almost painful (aft. 6 d.).
 Coitus weakly, pretty cold, with rapid emission of semen (7th d.).
750. Coitus weakly, and yet some pollution toward morning (1st n.).
 Fiery coitus, but rapid emission of semen (26th d.).
 He is much fatigued by coitus, which he had not enjoyed for a long time before, and in the following night, in deep sleep, there followed a very exhausting pollution (aft. 56 d.).
 Five hours after coitus, a pollution (18th d.).
Shortly after coitus, a pollution, and another during the third night. [Rhl.]
755. After coitus, sharp shooting pain in the urethra, after micturition (9th d.).
 After pollutions, coldness in the joints and exhaustion.
 After a pollution, cutting in the urethra. [Sr.]
 Emission of much prostatic juice, when thinking of lascivious subjects, without excitement of the fancy, or of the sexual parts, and without erection.
 A pressing and forcing from the sides of the abdomen toward the genital parts, in the morning; so that she had at once to sit down quietly to prevent a prolapsus uteri.
760. Dryness in the vagina and painful coitus (in its after-effects?).
 After coitus, she feels at once very bright and agreeable, but soon after she becomes very irritable and peevish.
 Itching of the female mons veneris.
 Pimples on the mons veneris.
 The hairs on the mons veneris fall out. [Sr.]
765. Menses four days late (aft. 22, 27 and 33 d.).
 Menses last only three days, then numb feeling in the head and much rush of blood to the head.
 Menses only one-third as strong as usual, but at the right time (5th d.).
 Menses scanty, the first and second days; but on the third day, with a pain in the abdomen as from soreness, they flow very copiously.
 It obstinately suppresses the menses, which at other times are very regular, so that they do not appear for eight weeks (aft. 14 d.).
770. It at first shortens the period, but later it lengthens it.
 Menses after eighteen days, then after seven weeks, then no more.
 Menses, seven days too early (aft. 8 d.).
It brings the menses, if due in a short time, almost at once, and more profusely than usual, but in its after-effects it seems to retard them, and to cause less blood to flow.
 Menses, three days too soon.

775. Menses, seven days too soon and scanty, attended with headache when coughing, stooping and sneezing, as if the head would burst.

The menses, which had been suppressed for eighty-five days, come back, followed soon after by great heaviness in the lower limbs (15th d.).

The menses, which had been suppressed for half a year, with a woman of fifty years, appear again (3d d.).

It increases the menses, which were already flowing.

The menses are more copious than usual, at the proper time and with less pains in the abdomen; but chills attend them, during the whole of the first day, with much yawning, especially in the afternoon (3d d.).

780. Menses very copious, also at night, with blackish blood (aft. 45 d.).

It lengthens the menstrual flow to eight days.

Before the menses, anxiety.

Before the appearance of the (retarded) menses, in the morning, for several hours before, she feels anxious and qualmish; there is a sweet rising in the fauces, when she spits out some blood with saliva.

During the menses, great sadness.

785. During the menses, anxious and faint, with cold pelvis and internal heat.

During the menses, in the evening, heat in the face.

During the menses, tearing toothache, with stitches, when fresh air comes into the mouth.

During the menses, heaviness in the abdomen.

During the menses, frequent burning and cutting in the groin during micturition, as well as during dinner, when sitting.

790. During the menses, after their appearance, at night, a severe fever, with intense thirst, and entire lack of sleep.

During the menses, hard stool.

After the menses, dull feeling and heaviness of the head, as from rush of blood.

After menses, female impotence, aversion to coitus, and dry vagina, painful during coitus (12th d.).

Discharge from the vagina, at night.

795. Flow from the vagina, after previous colic, in the morning, as from incipient menses, contracting and pressing downward.

Very profuse flow from the vagina (aft. 4 h. and 2 d.).

Flow from the vagina, with itching on the pudenda at its discharge.

Flow from the vagina, of greenish appearance, more when walking.

During the flow from the vagina, erosive pain.

* * * * *

800. Frequent sneezing, for several days.

Formication in the right side of the nose, with pressure in the right eye, as if about to sneeze, not relieved by blowing the nose. [Sr.]

- Frequent abortive sneezing.
Sensation of coryza, every morning.
Stuffed coryza, with stoppage of both nostrils.
805. Excessive stuffed coryza, so that he can scarcely get a breath.
Sensation of dryness in the nose.
Water drips from the nose unawares.
Very thick mucus is discharged from the nose. [Sr.]
Fluent coryza, with sneezing, for only one day.
810. Profuse fluent coryza, for three days, then stuffed coryza.
Moderate coryza, with total loss of smell and taste.
Excessive fluent coryza, with loss of all power of smell and taste.
Sensation of dryness on the posterior nares.
Dryness of the larynx, in the morning, on awaking.
815. Scrapy, scratchy feeling in the larynx, as after rancid heart-burn (aft. 6 h.).
Scratchy and scrapy sensation in the larynx, the voice becomes rough (aft. 20 h.).
Constant scraping in the centre of the chest.
Rough voice, with stoppage of the nose from stuffed coryza and some sneezing.
Intense hoarseness (the first days).
820. Hoarseness, in the morning, after a good sleep, with much mucus in the throat and cough.
Severe hoarseness in the morning.
Catarrh and cough from tickling, as if he had taken cold.
Cough from tickling in the throat.
Cough from tickling in the scrobiculus cordis, with intense asthma.
825. Rough, hoarse tussiculation.
Incitement to coughing from empty deglutition.
Incitement to coughing and tightness of the chest from speaking.
Cough which makes the boy quite breathless, day and night.
Morning-cough.
830. Evening-cough, after lying down in bed.
Cough, worse from 8 to 11 P. M.
Cough worse at night, than by day.
At night, retching and dry cough from tickling; none by day.
Cough violent, almost to vomiting, but not exhausting, for four weeks.
835. Cough, with vomiting of the ingesta.
Cough, with retching and vomiting, with expectoration of bloody mucus, which seems to come from a dry spot on the larynx.
Tussiculation, with rattling on the chest and some expectoration of mucus.
Cough, with expectoration, day and night.
Mucus on the chest, oppressing it; it is detached when walking in the open air.
840. Ill-tasting expectoration, in the morning, after coughing up some mucus, with sensation as if the chest were being torn open.

Purulent ejection, with cough, consisting almost always of only one impulse.

Coughing up of blood.

During cough, pain in the throat and in the chest.

During cough, pain in the cervical glands, and deep in the chest.

845. During coughing, a cutting pain in the left side of the chest.
During coughing, frequent sensation of soreness in the larynx and the windpipe.

During coughing, pain in the abdominal ring, extending into the testes, as if the seminal cords were being torn.

During coughing, the forehead feels as if it would burst.

Frequent deep breathing, with pain in the abdomen.

850. When expiring, a hoarse, wheezing sound in the windpipe.
The breath seems hot.

The breath smells.

Asthma.

Tightness of the chest, in the evening.

855. Oppression when breathing, with pain in the chest.
Oppression of the chest, while in the room; weak as he was, he had to go into the open air, which relieved him.

Painful oppression in the chest, every day, like a pressure, when straightening himself after sitting in a stooping position.

Oppression of the chest, with pressure in the middle of the sternum, when moving about. [Rh.]

Oppression of the chest, as if it were constricted, with burning in the hands (8th d.).

860. Oppression of the chest, when he lies down in bed, and also in the afternoon.

Asthma and short breath, when walking briskly.

Anxious sensation in the chest, [Sr.]

Apprehensiveness and anxiety in the chest, with pressure in the scrobiculus cordis, worst after taking a deep breath. [Sr.]

She feels a pain in the chest under the left arm, as well when moving the arm as when breathing.

865. Pain in the middle of the sternum, aggravated by deep breathing.

Simple pain in the sternum, in brief paroxysms.

Pressure in front on the chest. [Sr.]

Pressive pain on the chest, after standing or much speaking.

Pressure in the left side of the chest (15th d.).

870. Pressive pain in the cardiac region, in the morning.

Tension in the chest, in the morning.

Tensive pain in the right pectoral muscles, in the forenoon, so that he cannot stand straight for pain, but must walk stooping forward; also in other turns of the trunk, there is great pain.

Tension in the chest, when extending and stretching himself, worst when taking a deep breath. [Sr.]

Tensive pain on the clavicle, extending up the cervical muscles, even painful when touched.

875. Shooting pain in the right side of the chest, with hoarseness.
Shooting pain, transversely through the lungs, in repeated paroxysms, after intervals of an hour.
Single stitches along the sternum.
Pricking pain in the middle of the sternum, as from needles.
Shooting, with tightness of the breath, first about the sternum, then in the hepatic region.
880. Frequent stitches in the side.
Shooting in the right side, with tightness of the chest (12th d.).
Shooting pain in the right side of the chest, only when walking, but so severe that he has to press upon it with his hand, to gain relief.
Shooting in the left side, with tensive pain below the arm (5th d.).
Dull shooting in the left side of the chest. [Sr.]
885. Constant shooting pain in the left side of the chest, in the evening, taking away his breath, it ceased in the open air.
Tearing, shooting pain from the left upper region of the chest, into the shoulder-joint.
Sore pain in the chest.
Bruised pain on the lowest left ribs, aggravated by the touch of the clothes and by every pressure. [Sr.]
Bruised pain of the outside of the chest.
890. Bruised pain in the sternum.
Bruised pain on the left side of the chest, in bending forward and in inspiring, not when it is touched.
Contused pain, on a spot on the left side of the chest.
Bruised pain, on a spot of the sternum.
Disagreeable warmth in the chest, in the morning, on awaking.
895. Sensation of exhaustion in the chest, from walking in the open air (in the sun), compelling him to talk low. [Rhl.]
In the heart, constant pains, especially at night.
Violent stitches in the heart.
Twitching stitches in the cardiac region.
Cutusive pain at the heart, in the morning, when lying in bed. [Sr.]
900. Violent pressure below the heart, as if extending from the abdomen, toward the chest, in the evening in bed, with palpitation of the heart, more rapid than intense, aggravated by lying on the left side, diminished by lying on the right side, lasting till he falls asleep. [Sr.]
Palpitation repeatedly, with 6, 8 or 10 beats.
Palpitation from the slightest movement.
Palpitation when standing.
Palpitation with anxiety.
905. Palpitation with anxiety, every day.
Anxious palpitation, without anxious thoughts, almost every day, for 5 minutes or even for whole hours at a time (aft. 7 d.).
Palpitation with pressure on the heart, like cardialgia, somewhat diminished by pressing on it with the hand (at once.) [Sr.]

- Fluttering movement of the heart.
Sense of coldness about the heart, during mental exertions.
910. Externally on the chest, intense itching.
Itching on the chest, especially in the open air.
The bones of the right side of the chest are more prominent.
Cracking in the bones, when moving.
Twitches under the right arm, extending down the side.
915. Pain in the sacrum, when straightening himself after long stooping.
Pain in the sacrum after stooping.
Stitch, occasionally in the sacrum (aft. 26 d.).
Sharp stitches, right across the sacrum, close above the hips.
Severe throbbing in the sacrum (1st d.).
920. Painful throbbing in the sacrum, also in the evening, after going to bed.
Pain, as from a fracture in the sacrum.
Bruised pain in the sacrum, on stooping and on rising up from it. [Sr.]
Paralytic pain in the sacrum, worst when straightening himself. [Sr.]
Lameness in the sacrum, in the morning, when rising.
925. Weak in the sacrum, as if paralyzed in the loins; he could neither stand right, nor walk right; he feels best, when lying down, all the day; it is worst after dinner. [Sr.]
Paralytic pain in the sacrum and the back, in the morning on rising.
Severe itching on the sacrum, in bed, in the evening. [Sr.]
The left side of the back is painful, as from pressure on an inflamed spot.
Pressive pain under the right scapula, constant.
930. Pressure above the loins, with sensation in the legs, as if they were stiff and bandaged.
Straining sensation in the left side of the back.
Tension in the back, compelling him to stretch and to extend his limbs.
Tension and heat in the renal region, even while sitting; walking quickly tires him.
Drawing pain in the back, extending upwards (14th d.).
935. Drawing pain in the upper part of the back.
Drawing and tearing in the right scapula; it compels him to breathe deeply. [Sr.]
Tearing and pain as from a fracture in the scapulæ, with stiffness of the back and the nape. [Sr.]
Stitch below the left scapula, when drawing the scapulæ inward, not when breathing. [Sr.]
Severe stitches in the lumbar region, when breathing deeply.
940. Burning in the left scapula, as if hot water were poured over it. [Sr.]
Burning erosion on the uppermost spinal vertebra.
Pain of the back, as if broken.
Bruised pain in the scapulæ and hips.

Intense bruised pain in the back and between the scapulæ, while sitting, and worse when lying; not while walking or performing manual labor.

945. Eruption of pimples on the back, with itching in the evening in bed. [Sr.]

The nape is painful, when turning the head, even slightly.

Intense pain in the nape, so that she can not turn about.

Tension in the nape, with swelling of the cervical glands.

Stiffness in the nape and on the occiput.

950. Stiffness of the nape and neck.

Stiffness and rigidity in the nape and across the upper part of the back. [Sr.]

Severe drawing pain in the nape, so that he cannot turn around for several days.

Pain in the nape as if strained, bruised or tired out.

The cervical muscles are painful, when touching and turning the head. [Gff.]

955. Pain from stiffness on the right side of the neck; she could not turn her head (2d d.).

Drawing pain on the neck, in the region of the larynx.

Shooting pain externally down the neck, even through the night.

The glands on the neck are painful, when touched.

Painfulness of the cervical glands, when coughing.

960. Furuncle on the neck.

In the axilla, dull shooting and tearing. [Sr.]

Smarting burning in the axillæ, with swelling after scratching.

Swelling of the right axillary gland.

The shoulder-joint pains so that she cannot move the arm (6th d.).

965. Tension and drawing in the shoulder-joint, in the morning, in bed, like a pain from taking cold, on uncovering. [Rhl.]

Drawing and tearing in the top of the right shoulder, then in the upper arm.

Tearing on the posterior side of the shoulder-joint and the axilla, by day, and in bed, at night.

Burrowing pain about the right shoulder-joint in the morning on awaking, which, as it were, paralyzed the arm.

Paralyzed pain and smarting in the top of the shoulder (3d, 4th d.).

970. Bruised pain in the shoulder-joint, so that he cannot raise his shoulder.

Pain as from a strain or from weariness in the shoulder-joint.

Drawing pain in the left arm, so that she has to stretch it constantly.

Dying off (going to sleep), insensibility and formication in the left arm, with tingling in the finger-tips (aft. 8 h.).

Weariness, heaviness and sinking down of the arms.

975. Pain, as from fracture, in the bones of the arm. [Sr.]

Small, red, itching vesicles on the arms, here and there.

- Itching, whitish wheals on the arms and hands, becoming red after rubbing, with more intense itching.
- Many round, itching tettery spots on the arms.
- The upper arms pain at night, when lying on them.
980. Pain in the deltoid muscle of the upper arm, when she raises anything.
- Bruised pain in the upper arm, most sensible in the shoulder-joint, when lifting something and moving it forward and backward; but not when at rest.
- Burning in the right upper arm; the heat is also perceptible externally.
- Great sensitiveness of the upper arm to cold.
- The elbow-joint cracks painfully, when moved.
985. Stitches in the point of the elbow.
- A jerk in the left elbow, so that his hand was paralyzed from pain, this ceased when stretching the arm. [Sr.]
- Frequent jerking in the left elbow, so that he would drop almost everything from his hand. [Sr.]
- In the bones of the fore-arm, a dull pain, aggravated by letting the hands hang down, diminished by moving the arms (3d d.). [Sr.]
- Drawing in the fore-arms, as if in the shaft of the ulna.
990. Paralytic tearing on the inner side of the fore-arm. [Rhl.]
- The fore-arm from the hand to the elbow falls asleep, like as if paralytic, the wrist-joint turns, when she wishes to use her hand.
- Pain as from fatigue in the fore-arms (2d d.).
- Bruised pain in the bones of the left fore-arm, intolerably severe when pressed upon. [Sr.]
- Muscular twitching in the fore-arm, perceptible with the finger.
995. Red elevations as large as lentils, on the inner side of the right fore-arm, with severe itching, for twenty-four hours. [Sr.]
- In the hand, cramp, when grasping a cold stone. [Rhl.]
- Tearing, intense and rapidly coming pain on the outer edge of the left hand, as if in the metacarpal bone of the little finger.
- Fine stinging sensation in the hand, as if it went to sleep.
- Itching shooting pain on the hand and on the back of the fingers.
1000. Bruised pain in the wrist-joint.
- The hand goes to sleep, when he lies on the arm.
- Weakness in the hands, especially when clenching them.
- Trembling of the hands, when writing (2d d.).
- Swelling of the right hand, from the morning till the evening (8th d.).
1005. Itching and smarting in the left palm, he must scratch it for a long time. [Sr.]
- Itching burning on the left-hand, as from nettles.
- Itching on the inner edge of the wrist-joint, after scratching, there are vesicles.
- Itching blisters on the left wrist and on both the hands, as if a tetter was forming.

- Many small vesicles upon the hands, which gradually dry up, when the hand peels off.
1010. Brown, painless spots on the dorsum of the hands, as if she had injured those parts (18th d.).
The skin of the hands becomes dry and chapped.
A spot on the hand, which is somewhat excoriated, is inflamed and becomes a purulent vesicle.
Dry, parched skin of the hands, especially about the fingers and the nails.
Sweaty hands, for many days (aft. 8, 10 d.).
1015. The joint of the fingers can only be flexed with difficulty.
Tension in the right index.
Tearing in the extensor-tendon of the right index, extending up the fore-arm.
Severe tearing in the posterior joint of the left thumb, as if it was torn.
Ripping-up pain, back into the thumb and forward in the index, in paroxysms, laming the whole hand.
1020. Shooting in the fingers.
Shooting in the left thumb. [Rhl.]
Stitch in the finger-joint of the right index as from a needle or a fiery spark. [Sr.]
Shooting in both the little fingers (8th d.).
Itching, tearing shooting in the middle joint of the index.
1025. Sprained pain in the posterior joints of the thumb (at once).
Sprained pain in the posterior finger-joints, when writing.
Bruised pain in the bones of the anterior phalanges, intolerable when pressing upon them. [Sr.]
Prickling in the fingers, especially in their tips.
Intense itching of the fingers, in the evening, in bed, preventing him from going to sleep.
1030. An itching vesicle on the little finger.
A dark-red mottled spot, by the nail of the left third finger.
Inflammation and pain on the side of the nail of the third and fourth fingers. [Sr.]
Hangnails are frequently found on the finger, no matter how often he cuts them off. [Sr.]
After cutting off the hangnails, the spot becomes red, swollen, and, when pressed upon, it pains as if sore. [Sr.]
1035. In the natis, a drawing pain.
Tearing shooting above the nates, toward the groin and the hips.
In walking, there is excoriation between the nates.
Tensive pain in the hip-joint, which is also painful when touched.
Tension in both the hip-joints, almost as if dislocated, also sensible when sitting.
1040. Painful cramp in the hip.
Rheumatism of the left hip; he could not walk for eight or nine days.
Stitches in the right hip-joint, more when walking, than when sitting.

- Pain, as from contusion, on the left hip.
Sprained pain in the left hip.
1045. Pain as from dislocation in the groin on the upper part of the thigh.
Pain as of dislocation in the right hip, soon extending into the sacrum, so that he cannot without pain rise from his seat, nor straighten himself, nor walk; especially aggravated when breathing deeply.
Paralytic pain in the hips. [Sr.]
Unsteadiness in the hips, the thighs totter.
Itching in the interior of the hips.
1050. In the left limb and foot, spasmodic drawing pain.
Drawing pain down the whole of the lower limb.
Restlessness in the lower limbs, late in the evening, as if the joints, e. g., the knees, were bandaged too tightly; he had to stretch them often.
Violent twitches in the lower limb, when awake, and during the noon-siesta.
Heaviness of the legs, even while resting.
1055. Pain in the left lower limb, as if a tendon had been overstrained.
The left lower limb goes to sleep, during the noon-siesta.
Weakness in the right lower limb.
Pain as from paralysis of the lower limbs, in the morning.
Pain as of paralysis, suddenly (after writing) in both the lower limbs; ceasing after brisk walking.
1060. Much itching on the lower limbs.
The thighs are painful and tense when walking.
Drawing pain in the thigh, especially when walking, extending to the knee (6th d.).
Drawing pain in the right thigh, extending to the knee, intermittingly, both when at rest and in motion, even at night (14th d.).
Tearing in the right thigh (after driving in a carriage) (4th d.).
1065. Muscular twitching in the thighs.
Large, itching pimple, with red areola, on the thigh, with sore pain on scratching. [Sr.]
The knees crack, when walking.
Sensation of stiffness, now in the one knee, now in the other, after rising from a seat.
Tension in both houghs, on rising from a seat, and when walking, commencing with the morning and increasing during the day (aft. 3 d.).
1070. Compressive pain, as from great weariness, in the knees and ankles, and then a dull drawing in the whole of the lower limbs.
Drawing pain in the knees, when sitting. [Rhl.]
Paralytic drawing in the left knee, in the evening. [Rhl.]
Tearing drawing in the houghs, chiefly when walking.
Shooting drawing pain, above and below the knee, when sitting.

1075. Shooting in the left knee.
 Sprained pain in the left knee, when walking.
 Sprained pain of the knee-joint, when walking.
 Fatigue in the knees, as if they would give way (2d d.). [Sr.]
 Clucking under the skin of the left knee, as from water.
1080. A red tetter in the hough.
 Furuncle on the knee.
 Straining sensation in the calves, extending to the knee, only when walking, not when sitting.
Tension of the calves when sitting, as if the muscles were too short.
 Spasmodic contractive pain in the calves, when walking.
1085. Cramp of the calves, when turning the foot while sitting.
 Cramp-like paralytic drawing in the right leg, which lastly extends into the thighs, with weakness of the limb when standing. [Sr.]
 Slight throbbing in the left calf.
 Pain as from a blow, on one spot of the tibia, but not when touching it.
Great heaviness of the legs; when going up-stairs, the lower limbs feel bruised.
1090. Tremulous unsteadiness in the calves, when walking and standing, even when sitting.
 Miliary eruption on the legs, in single clusters; especially when touched, there is an erosive itching. [Rhl.]
 Small-grained miliary eruption on the outer side of the calves, extending over the thighs.
 The feet, from the toes to the ankles, are painful, when walking.
 Cramp-like pain in the left foot (5th d.).
1095. Cramp-like shooting pain in the left foot, as if from a mis-step, when walking and treading on the whole sole of the foot.
 Cramp in the sole of the foot, in the evening.
 Tearing in the right ankle, increasing from morning till evening, so that he cannot sleep a wink at night for pain; then also pain in the back.
 Transient tearing in the left foot.
 Fine beating in the whole foot.
1100. Ulcerative pain on the ankle, when treading and touching, extending into the calf; when sitting, there is only tensive pain.
 Disagreeable burning of the feet, when walking.
 Stinging tingling in the sole of the right foot.
Very cold feet (aft. 1 h.).
 Pain as from a strain in the ankle, for several days. [Rhl.]
1105. The metatarsal and phalangeal joints suddenly give way.
Paralytic sensation of the ankle, or as if the interior of it had gone to sleep, when sitting and when walking; she could move the foot but little.
 The foot is asleep for a long time.
Great heaviness of the feet.
 Heaviness of the feet, the second day; the third day, they feel very light.

1110. Increased sweat of the soles of the feet.
It reproduces the foot-sweat, which had been suppressed.
Itching on the dorsum of the foot.
Erosive stinging pain of the toes.
Drawing pain in the big toe.
1115. Itching on the toes.
Redness and coldness of the posterior joint of the big toe, with pain as of a boil, when touching it; there is a tearing and shooting pain in it when standing and walking, not when sitting.
Shooting pains in the corns. [Sr.]
Stitches in the corn, the whole afternoon.
Stitches in the corn, in the morning after awaking.
1120. Stitches in the corns, without external pressure.
Boring pain in the corn.
Itching all over the body (the first three weeks).
Itching on the back and the thighs; he must scratch.
Fine, itching stitches on the skin, in the evening in bed.
1125. Itching shooting, here and there on the skin, with internal heat running through it, without redness of the face.
Red spots, as large as a pin's head, all over the body, after previous sensation of heat in the face, on the abdomen, the arms and the lower limbs; the spots itch, and after rubbing them, the whole body became red, for half an hour.
Small pimples on the abdomen and on the lower limbs.
Rash all over the body, with shooting pain in the skin.
Miliary eruption all over the body, on the neck and on the arms; on the abdomen, the nates and the thighs it is at first only sensible as small granules, but later, visible like small lentils, redder and harder after scratching; itching prevents him from going to sleep (4th d.).
1130. Large and red wheals, with intense itching, on the whole body and on the throat.
Nettle rash after brisk exercise, itching for an hour (2d d.).
Small nodules and small boils, here and there on the body.
Many furuncles on the body (aft. 14 d.)
Warts grow in the palm, painful when pressed upon.
1135. Erosive pain in the old warts.
The skin of the body is painfully sensitive, even a slight blow or contusion is very painful.
Painfulness and redness of an old cicatrix.
A wound becomes far more painful, inflames and with increased swelling begins to suppurate, with a very sad and irritable mood; she does not suffer the wound to be touched without weeping.
A small prick in the finger begins to bleed for several days in succession.
1140. Liability to cold (aft. 24 h.).
Excessively ready liability to cold, causing cough and hoarseness.
Dislike of the open air (aft. 12 h.).
The ailments arise, renew themselves or are aggravated, chiefly when lying down, even by day; at night she has to sit up in bed, to get relief.

All the muscles, especially those of the upper arms and the thighs pain when moving, as if the flesh was detached.

1145. Cramp-like sensation in the limbs, especially in the hands, as if the parts were asleep.

The violent nocturnal pains (e. g., from a furuncle on the back) take the breath away even to suffocation, and cause a sort of paralysis of one side, so that his arm and leg refused to act.

Gnawing pressure, now in the scrobiculus cordis, now around the navel, then in the chest, in paroxysms, in the evening. [Rhl.]

Severe constriction of the stomach and the chest.

Stitches here and there.

1150. Bruised pain of all the limbs (2d d.)

Stiffness in the scapulæ, the hip-joints and the sacrum.

Severe stiffness of all the joints of the body.

Twitching sensation in the back and nape toward the head.

Twitching in the limbs, both arms are jerked forward.

1155. Twitching in one limb or another, when he wants to write.

The upper part of the body is jerked upward, while awake, when lying down in the afternoon.

Muscular twitching, here and there.

Frequent and visible muscular twitching in the upper arms and the lower limbs.

The limbs and the head move further than he intended.

1160. Cracking of the shoulder-joints and hip-joints, when moving them.

Emaciation.

After taking a little wine, intense, long-continued heat in the blood.

He spits blood, and also blows it from his nose.

Rush of blood upward, to the chest, stomach and head, with coldness of the lower limbs.

1165. Retarded circulation in the arm, when resting it on the table, and so it is often in all parts of the body.

Every movement accelerates the circulation.

Undulation in the pulse throughout the whole of the body, also when at rest.

Pulsation throughout the body, so that often all parts of his body are in motion.

Pulsation in the arms and in the lower limbs.

1170. Full, quick pulse, when standing upright.

The pulse and the breathing are quickened, especially after drinking.

Intermission of several pulsations.

Intermission of heart-beats, during the siesta.

The mental and physical strength is depressed.

1175. Lack of tone in mind and body, while there is good appetite.

After bodily exertions, at once, inability to think and indifference.

Annoyance causes shooting pain in the upper left part of the chest, lack of appetite and headache; she feels every step in her head, becomes very tired, and the feet become heavy.

After a slight annoyance, she weeps all night, and coughs much, with ineffectual retching.

Attacks of heaviness in the head, so that he had to lie down two or three times a day for ten days; after lying down, sweat all over the body; this causes the heaviness to disappear after one-half hour.

1180. Attack of nausea, in the morning with weakness and death-like pallor of the face; he had to lie down (4th d.).

Attack: stiffness extended from the nape into the head; her eyes ached, she grew sick at stomach, with chill and unconsciousness (8th d.).

Attack like uterine disease: the pain drew from the left shoulder toward the head; it then pressed in the temples as if the head would split; the brain ached, as if sore and bruised, with a constant drawing pain from the shoulder toward the head, and constant inclination to vomit, as if coming from the stomach; she had to lie down, with a chill and heat of the face (8th d.).

Attack of nausea about supper-time (without having eaten first), with a severe chill at every attack; after lying down in bed she soon gets warm, without subsequent heat, and at night he wakes up twice with acute drawing in the forehead, to and fro, with a slight throbbing between.

Attack of pressure and burrowing under the right ribs, with drawing in the back, toward the head, interfering with his sleep at night, and attended with stitches in the head; all these symptoms are diminished after continued talking, and bodily exertion, as also by rumbling in the abdomen and emission of flatus, or after eating.

1185. Attack of great excitement, with great anguish; fornication in the finger-tips, the hand and the arms sets in; the arm goes to sleep as if it was dying off, and the tingling rises up into the throat, into the lips and the tongue; which become, as it were, stiff, while there is boring in a tooth; then weakness of the head, with defective vision; also the lower limb goes to sleep and feels dead in the joint; chiefly toward evening.

Attack of nausea in the morning (after drinking milk), with trembling in the limbs, for an hour; she became dizzy, things turned black before her eyes, and she had to hold to something, else she would have fallen.

Attack of inclination to vomit, in the forenoon, with vertigo, and digging in the scrobiculus cordis, with a chill, a sensation as of cold water poured over her; wherever she looked, things seemed to whirl around with her, as if she should fall forward; her head felt so heavy that she could hardly walk, and it seemed to her heavier than the rest of the body.

Sensation for some time, as of an epileptic fit.

Dislike of walking.

1190. In walking, he totters about.

Very apprehensive when walking, afraid of falling.

Great prostration in the body; the strength is not sufficient for the usual work, for several weeks.

Weakness in the morning, on rising; like paralysis in the back and sacrum, at times transversely across the abdomen.

Very tired on the day after a restless night, with wretched appearance and sadness (aft. 12 h.).

1195. Syncope, for half an hour.

Sensation of fatigue, when sitting.

Fatigue in the whole body, the feet feel heavy; soon tired from standing, with intense, painful sensitiveness of the skin to the slightest touch, chiefly about the loins; better when walking, driving, sitting and lying.

Standing was so hard for her, that she had at once to sit down again.

Riding on horseback fatigues him ever more severely (3d d.).

1200. Much fatigued after a short walk (2d d.).

She must not fatigue her limbs by walking, else she feels weak and qualmish from weariness.

When rising after sitting down, her limbs tremble from weariness; this ceases on continuing her walk.

She is most weary in the morning in bed, and when sitting; she feels no weariness when walking.

Weariness in the whole body, e. g., when moving her arms.

1205. Weary pain in the lower limbs, in the morning on awaking.

Titillating pain from weariness.

Unrefreshed after sleep.

Tired and tremulously prostrated, after the noon-siesta.

Great weariness (6th d.).

1210. Great weariness, daily, and constant yawning.

Very frequent yawning. [Sr.]

Yawning and stretching (aft.  $\frac{1}{4}$  h.). [Sr.]

Excessive, spasmodic yawning, after a sound sleep.

Very frequent yawning; the first time it constricted the right side of his neck, with pain extending into the nape, which became stiff from it.

1215. Yawning and sleepiness.

Great somnolence by day, and great weariness.

Very sleepy by day, it is a great effort for her to get up early in the morning, for several weeks (aft. 10 d.).

Somnolence by day, with yawning; she falls asleep quite unexpectedly.

He goes to sleep while reading (aft. 4 h.).

1220. He falls asleep at once, when he sits down while unoccupied, and yet keeps waking up every minute.

In the evening, he gets sleepy very early, and in the morning he is long in getting roused up. [Sr.]

In the evening, he falls asleep early, and in the morning wakes up late. [Sr.]

He goes to bed in the evening without being sleepy, and yet he soon falls asleep. [Sr.]

Difficulty in falling asleep, though he goes to bed later than usual. [Sr.]

1225. He wanted to sleep and yet could not get to it, a contest between sleeping and waking.

Entire sleeplessness at night, from sheer wakefulness, without illness.

Sleeplessness, from internal restlessness.

Sleepless night.

He passes two nights without sleeping, but without ailment (11th, 12th d.).

1230. She is awake for 2 or 3 hours every night, in anxiety.

He wakes up several times at night, from restlessness.

He wakes up every half hour at night.

Restless sleep; he tosses about, with vivid dreams.

Many dreams during the afternoon-siesta, also anxious ones.

1235. Varied dreams at night, during sound sleep (1st, 3d d.).

Dreams too vivid, ravings in his sleep.

Raving sleep.

He dreams the first ten nights, often very fancifully, often wakes up, tosses about in bed, and is then so tired by day that he cannot work.

When going to sleep, after closing her eyes, she saw nothing but images before her, and felt an impulse to make verses, which on awaking seemed ludicrous to her.

1240. Amorous dreams. [Sr.]

Lascivious dreams (22d n.).

Nocturnal sleep disturbed by voluptuous dreams, pollutions and long-continued erections.

Many dreams in his morning slumber, which he cannot remember (20th n.). [Sr.]

Dreams, the contents of which still occupy her a long time after waking up.

1245. In a dream, he reproaches himself about past errors, he is full of restlessness and anguish.

Annoying dreams.

Annoying and at the same time anxious dreams.

Many anxious dreams, at night.

Anxious dream, as if she was being beaten, so that she perspired all over, and also remained anxious all day.

1250. Very anxious dreams.

Anxious dreams of murder and fighting; when she awoke, she was hot and in an anxious perspiration.

He dreamed at night, that he had been poisoned (4th d.).

[Fc.]

Dreadful dreams of murder, fire and the like.

Dreams of a conflagration.

1255. Horrible, loathsome dreams.

A cruel dream, which she supposed to be true on awaking.

Sad dreams; he dreams the same dream again in a similar manner, after waking up and going to sleep again.

Very anxious dreams, with weeping in sleep.

Sad, anxious dreams, mostly with weeping, and sleep comes only after midnight.

1260. Weeping in a dream.
 Moaning in sleep.
Talking in sleep, and a restless night.
 Like a somnambulist, he rises at night from anxious dreams and walks about in the room.
 In the beginning of his sleep, he rises from his bed and awakes in the middle of the room, he lies down and goes to sleep again. [Fc.] 1265. Startled in his sleep.
 Frequent starting up from sleep, at night (5th n.).
 When some one entered the room, as he was falling asleep, he was so frightened, that violent palpitation ensued. [Str.]
 He awakes at night from fear, believing that there are thieves in the room, and does not dare to go back to bed; with oppression of the chest and palpitation for a quarter of an hour. [Fc.]
 Twitching in sleep.
1270. Twitching shock in his noon siesta, as if proceeding from the heart.
 At night, an external headache, when lying on the occiput.
 At night, in bed, heat in the head.
 In the evening, after lying down, an anxious sensation in the head, as if he was perishing and losing his reason.
 At night, a pressive shooting in the sinciput.
1275. At night, intense throbbing in the head, with heat of the body.
 At night, he must spit continually.
 At night, epistaxis.
 He wakes up before midnight from pain in the left molars and their gums, for two nights successively, about the same time. [Fc.]
 At night, shooting pain in the throat, while swallowing.
1280. At night, scraping in the throat, much flow of saliva, expectoration of blood and insomnia.
 In the evening in bed, a contraction in the stomach.
 Before midnight, colic, with restlessness and oppressive contractive sensation in the region of the stomach (aft. 10 d.).
 Every night, colic without diarrhœa.
 Every morning, about 5 o'clock in bed, colic without diarrhœa.
1285. At night, incarceration of flatus, with heaviness and fullness in the abdomen.
 At night, colic with flatulence, going about in the abdomen, with pressure and pinching, without escaping, with light sleep, frequently interrupted.
 At night, anxiety in the hypogastrium from constant tenesmus of the bladder.
 At night, twice tenesmus of the bladder, without passage of urine.
- Nocturnal micturition, every night.
1290. He must get up at night to urinate.
 At night, burning in the rectum.

- At night, in bed, while breathing deeply, a stitch in the right scapula.
- In the evening, when lying down, lack of breath.
- At night, attack of shortness of breath and of palpitation, but without anxiety.
1295. At night, dry cough, caused by tickling and scraping.
- At night, drawing pain in the back, she frequently had to turn over, to get relief.
- At night, shooting in the nape.
- At night, violent shooting in the left thigh.
- At night, cramp in the leg.
1300. At night, burning in the corn.
- The whole night, painful shooting in the corn.
- At night, she cannot lie on the right side on account of bruised pain in the joints of the hips, the knees and the ankles.
- At night, a sort of nightmare, as if the abdomen was constricted, with anguish, as if she would cry out but could not, nor could she open the eyes nor move a limb; as soon as she could cry out it all disappeared (7th n.).
- At night, he awakes with ebullition of the blood.
1305. At night, when awaking, violent pulsation of the blood vessels, without sensation of heat.
- At night, much restlessness in the lower limbs.
- At night, great restlessness, much heat and much drinking (aft. 18 d.).
- At night, heat, so that she cannot sleep, without thirst, with labor-like pains in the hypogastrium (7th n.).
- At night, anxiety with heat; she had to uncover herself; when going to sleep, varied dreams (with profuse menstrual flow) (2d d.).
1310. At night, anxious sleep, with perspiration.
- At night, great anguish during a thunderstorm, the sweat and anguish drives her out of bed (2d d.).
- Chilly, the whole day.
- Chill and cold hands (at once).
- Cold hands and feet, which cannot get warm (aft. 6 h.).
1315. Cold thrills, occasionally, over the back, with cold sweat on the forehead, anxiety and shuddering.
- Coldness in the back, at night, with restlessness.
- Chilliness of the skin, in the evening, in bed.
- Chilliness in the evening, with thirst, two evenings in succession. [Sr.]
- Chilliness, even in the forenoon, with very cold hands, which are so cold, even in the warm room, that he has to put on gloves.
1320. Febrile rigor, in the evening in bed, which shook him so much, that both his hands and his feet trembled, and his teeth chattered, without subsequent thirst or heat, he fell asleep before the end of the chill; for two evenings successively. [Sr.]
- Severe chill, with sharp pain in the lower incisors (2d d.).
- [Fc.]
- Chill, early in sleep, and then perspiration, shortly before awaking.

Shudder and sensation as of goose-skin.

Shudder, without chill, while sitting.

1325. Shudder and chill in the back, without thirst. [Sr.]

Shudder in the back, especially while sitting (the first two days).

Febrile rigor, in the evening, with increase of the pain, followed by heat, especially on the head, and redness of the face. [Gff.]

Febrile rigor, with great tendency to go to sleep also by day; he sleeps much, and then gets warm, even while sitting down, and perspires somewhat.

Fever, shortly before dinner, first excessive lassitude, so that he can hardly keep up, and had to lie down, then in bed, a severe chill, then a moderate degree of heat, then perspiration for several hours.

1330. Fever with headache, on awaking after a brief evening nap, first chill, then heat, in several paroxysms, but more heat.

Chill and resounding throbbing in the head, in bed, with great lassitude; after becoming intensely heated.

Severe chill in the evening; the following night, profuse sweating all over; attended with a breaking out of intense itching.

Fever in the afternoon, chill and coldness, with much thirst, without any subsequent heat (aft. 6 h.).

Fever in the morning at eight o'clock: first a severe chill till noon, then heat till evening, without sweat, and without thirst during the chill or the heat; she lay unconscious, with severe headache (aft. 10 d.).

1335. Heat after the noon-siesta, and then again shuddering till evening.

Heat in the evening, with a thrill of cold and a shudder over the back, without thirst (2d ev.). [Sr.]

Momentary flushes of heat.

Flushes of heat and ready perspiration.

Heat, with perspiration under the arms and on the soles of the feet.

1340. Much perspiration by day.

Ready, profuse perspiration on moving about, although he is very chilly.

Constant perspiration, also during the noon-siesta, but not during sleep by night.

General perspiration (aft. 24 h.). [Rhl.]

Profuse night-sweat, for several nights.

1345. Night-sweat before midnight.

She awakes at night in a profuse sweat.

Morning-sweat, very profuse, for several mornings.

Morning-sweat all over the body, for several days.

Sourish morning-sweat.

NITRI ACIDUM, NITRIC ACID.<sup>1</sup>

Half an ounce of perfectly pure nitre (dry nitre in large crystals is dissolved in 6 parts of hot water, and crystallized again from the solution during the application of intense cold) is pulverized and put into a retort lined with clay, by means of a crooked beaked glass funnel, then through the same funnel a half an ounce of phosphoric acid of an oily consistence is added (prepared according to the direction in the fifth part of Materia Medica Pura, melted and allowed to deliquesce in the open air); after these have been shaken up a little, the pure nitric acid is distilled over a lamp into a receiver loosely attached to it; this acid will not smoke and has a specific weight of about 1,200.

One drop of this acid is shaken up five times with 100 drops of distilled water, and one drop of this is shaken up by five succussions, with 100 drops of diluted alcohol whereby the nitric acid is potentized to the ten thousandth dilution ( $\frac{1}{10000}$ ). One drop of this attenuation is then attenuated with 100 drops of good alcohol and then potentized by five succussions successively to the VI, VIII and X potencies, for there is no danger of any intimate combination (as in sweet spirits of nitre) of the alcohol with an acid so much diluted.

The homœopathic physician will only use the potencies VI, VIII and X for antipsoric purposes, giving two or three of the smallest pellets, moistened with these potencies, for a dose—for the more debilitated patients we only use the decillionth attenuation.

It will be found that this medicine acts more beneficially with patients of a tense fibre (brunettes) than with those of a lax fibre (blondes). It is also more appropriate to chronic patients who are inclined to soft stools, while it is seldom applicable to patients inclined to constipation.

Nitric acid is most beneficial where the following symptoms predominate or are present among others:

Sadness; lack of cheerfulness; anxiety about his disease, with fear of death, excessive irritability; peevishness and obstinacy; aversion to work; vertigo, when walking and sitting; vertigo, compelling the person to lie down; headache from nausea; tearing in the forehead,

<sup>1</sup>About 130 of the following symptoms belong to the two fellow-observers mentioned. The remainder, save thirty from authors, are Hahnemann's own, obtained as we have already seen. Besides these there are a few from Hartmann, Foissac, Hering, Stapf and "Th. Mo.," etc., probably observed on patients.—Hughes.

the crown and the occiput; beating headache; rush of blood to the head; itching on the hairy scalp; falling out of the hair; paralysis of the upper eyelid; pressure in the eyes; shooting in the eyes; suppuration of the eyes; difficulty in contracting the pupils; flying black points before the eyes; stitches in the ear; encysted tumor on the left lobule; discharge from the ear; obstruction of the ear; stoppage of the ear; hardness of hearing; roaring in the ears; throbbing in the ear; crepitation in the ear; scurfs in the right nostril; epistaxis; offensive smell on drawing in air through the nose; fetor from the nose; pimples in the face; paleness of the face; cracked lips; swelling in the red of the lips; looseness of the teeth; bleeding of the gums; burning in the throat; sore pain in the throat; bitter taste, also after eating; sweetish taste in the mouth; thirst, during suppuration of the lungs; loathing of meat; milk is not digested; sick at stomach from eating fat; during and after meals, perspiration; after eating, sensation of fullness in the stomach; after dinner, lassitude; sour eructation; inclination to vomit; waterbrash after drinking quickly; stitches in the scrobiculus cordis; tensive pressure under the left ribs; frequent pinching in the abdomen; colic; shooting in the abdomen, when touching it; ulcerative pain in the hypogastrium; swelling of the inguinal glands; inguinal hernia in children; accumulation of flatus in the abdomen; incarceration of flatus, in the morning and evening; rumbling in the abdomen; growling in the abdomen; liability to take cold in the abdomen; costiveness; urging to stool; irregular and difficult evacuation of the fæces; stool too frequent; dry stool; itching of the anus; old varices of the anus; painful urination; inability to retain the urine; fetor of the urine; soreness of the glans; figwarts; the testicle hangs down; lack of the sexual instinct and of its functions; lack of erections; too many pollutions; leucorrhœa.

Abortive sneezing; stoppage of the nostrils; dryness of the nose; coryza; stuffed coryza; hoarseness; roughness on the chest; laryngeal phthisis; cough by day; cough in the evening, when lying down; vomiting cough; shortness of breath; asthma; panting while at work; knotty induration of the mammæ; dwindling of the mammæ; pain in the sacrum; pain in the back; stiffness of the nape; swelling of the glands of the neck; shooting in the shoulder; pressive pain on the shoulder-joint; roughness of the skin on the hands; herpes between the fingers; the fingers go to sleep; white spots on the fingernails; itching on the thighs; every evening, restlessness in the lower limbs; coldness of the lower limbs; pain of the thighs, when rising from a seat; weakness of the knees; cramp and straining in the calves, when walking, after sitting; twisting in the calves; shooting in the heel, when treading; fetid sweat of the feet; tearing pains in the upper and lower limbs; liability to take cold, and consequent pinching and cutting in the abdomen; pains in old cicatrices and wounds, with the changes of weather (weather prophets in the limbs); black pores; the limbs freeze, inflame and itch even in moderate cold; itching nettle-rash in the open air, even in the face; itching herpes; brownish red spots on the skin; warts; painful corns and chilblains; debility; lassitude in the morning; tremulous lassitude; chronic lassitude and heaviness of the feet; difficult awaking in the morning; frequent awaking; restlessness at night; starting up from sleep; sleep full of dreams; anxious dreams; lascivious dreams; pains during sleep; constant chilliness; afternoon fever, chill and heat; dryness of the skin; night sweat; fetid night sweat.

The symptoms marked (Bth.) were observed by Dr. Bethmann; those marked (Rl.) are by Dr. Rummel.

NITRI ACIDUM.

Sad mood, without any actual pain.

Dejected, as if desponding and as if lost in thoughts.

Sad and as if depressed.

He cannot get rid of his sad thoughts.

5. Homesickness.

Depressed, downcast mood, not lachrymose.

Very lachrymose without cause.

Very easily moved and inclined to tears.

At the least admonition, the child begins to weep piteously.

10. Intense melancholy and anxieties.

Melancholy and very apprehensive, in the evening (the day before the menses).

She falls to thinking over an anxious occurrence long past, and cannot rid herself of it, almost like as if in a waking dream; from time to time she, as it were, awakes from it startled, but is always absorbed again by these ideas, without being able, in spite of strenuous efforts, of thinking of anything else.

Anxieties, all the day.

Anxieties, with palpitations that intercept the breath.

15. Apprehensiveness, with stitches above the heart, and a fancy as if he was talking deliriously, with coldness of the body and a tendency to fall down.

Anxiety, as if he was engaged in a disquieting lawsuit or contest.

He is beset with anxious thoughts, without cause.

In the evening, he feels apprehensive; he cannot sit still, but has to walk about.

More apprehensive during a thunder-storm than usually (aft 15 d.).

20. Tendency to get startled.

Easily gets very much startled, and timid.

- Desponding and easily affected disagreeably by occurrences.
- [Rl.]
 Hopelessness, despair.
 Boundless despair.
25. She imagines she will die soon, but has no bodily indisposition.
 Tired of life.
 She wishes to die, and nevertheless she is afraid of death.
 Discontented, despising life.
 Joyless, indifferent.
30. Indifferent, without sympathy.
 Taciturn.
 Reserved, silent, with sadness.
 Discontented with oneself, dissolving in tears, which gives relief.
 Very peevish and dejected.
35. Very peevish and uncomfortable, in the morning, after rising.
 Ill-humor, in the morning on awaking.
 Ill-humor and peevish.
 Very ill-humored and vexed at himself.
 Very impatient in the afternoon.
40. Impatience (aft. 6 h.). [Foissac.]
 Cross, irritable mood.
 Peevishness with sadness and a crabbed humor, with restlessness, so that she knows not where to turn.
 Peevish humor, as after vexation.
Vexed at the least trifle, also at himself, when he does something amiss.
45. Easily excited annoyance, which much affects the mind.
 When disputing, there is trembling in all the limbs.
 He is inclined to be passionate and contentious (aft. 5 h.).
 [Foissac.]
 Passionateness, venting itself in abuse.
 He gets violently excited about trifles, all the day, and has then to laugh at himself.
50. Attacks of rage and despair, with oaths and curses.
 Long-continued rancor; insensible to apology and excuses (aft. 4 d.).
 No inclination to work (2d d.).
Indisposed to serious work. [Rl.]
 Changeable mood, now cheerful, now sad (aft. 16 h.).
55. Great weakness of the memory.
 With increase in the physical weakness, his memory fails him remarkably at the same time.
 Diminished ability of thinking, indisposed to any scientific Work. [Bth.]
 If she endeavors to reflect on matters of great importance to her, her thoughts fail her.
 His thoughts frequently fail him, and the series of his ideas vanishes. [Bth.]
60. She has no thoughts at all, and cannot comprehend anything, nor understand what she is told, just as if she could not hear well, which yet is not the case (aft. 5 d.).

Void of thoughts and almost unconscious.

Dull sensation in the head, so that she cannot observe and think for any length of time.

Occasional numb feeling in the head, like unconsciousness, worst in the open air.

Confused feeling and lack of free action in the head, especially after meals (2d d.). [R.]

65. Confusion and dizziness in the head.

Gloominess and weakness in the head (aft. 4 d.).

Rush of blood to the head and he feels dizzy.

Vertigo, on rising from stooping (4th d.). [R.]

Vertigo, when stooping.

70. Vertigo in the evening, immediately after lying down to sleep. Severe vertigo in the evening; on rising from her seat, she could hardly stand up.

Vertigo, in the morning on rising, with obscuration of vision, he had to sit down.

Vertigo, as if he would lose his consciousness.

Vertigo and lassitude, in the morning, just after rising, so that she had to hold on to something.

75. Vertigo at night, on rising, so that she knew not where she was.

Vertigo with nausea, in the morning, and after some minutes, eructation.

Vertigo with pulsation in the head, and pressure in the middle of the brain, in the evening.

Headache in the occiput; it is transient, after some effort, especially in thinking.

Headache, in the morning on awaking; it ceases after rising.

80. The head is sensitive to the rumbling of carriages and loud foot-steps (aft. 13 d.).

Headache as if from a spree the day before, much aggravated by stooping, with pain in the eyes as from smoke.

Dull headache and heaviness in the head.

Heaviness and numb feeling in the head, with nausea.

Heaviness of the head in the temples, with frequent chills.

85. Painful heaviness in the head, as from coal-gas, awakes him in the morning.

Sensation as if some one was violently pressing her head forward.

Sensation of fullness in the head.

Painful sensation of fullness in the head as if it would burst, several times during the day, for half an hour at a time.

Pain as from fullness of blood in the head, the eyes, and in the upper part of the nose, when shaking the head, and blowing the nose.

90. Sensation in the head as from a severe coryza, but without any particular discharge of mucus.

Headache with tension in the eyes, on moving them.

Painful tension in the interior of the head, and in the eyelids.

Headache as if the head were firmly tied together.

Attack of headache, first in the morning, in bed, a dull pain; after rising a violent pressure in the right temple, with chilliness, qualmsiness in the umbilical region; lastly a very troublesome pain in the abdomen, as from incarcerated flatus, and frequent eructation (8th d.). [RI.]

95. Pressive bruised pain in the occiput.

Pressure in the upper part of the head, in the temples and in the eyes, as if pressed upon with the thumb (aft. 9 d.).

Pressure in the forehead, in the morning, every day, for half an hour.

Pressure in the sinciput and on the eyes, which are then more immovable.

Intense downward pressure in the head, with very severe coryza.

100. Pressure in the head and heaviness in the lower limbs (the first days).

Very painful drawing pressure extending from the forehead upward.

Sharp pressive pain in both the frontal protuberances, with occasional stitches.

Compressive headache anteriorly in the forehead, all the afternoon (aft. 2 h.).

Drawing headache (aft. 2 h.).

105. Drawing pain in the right temple (aft. sever. h.).

Drawing in the temporal muscles. [Bth.]

Drawing, now in the right side of the head above the orbit, then on the left side near the ear.

Cramp-like, squeezing drawing in the head, which feels gloomy and confused. [RI.]

Drawing and shooting in the integuments of the head. [Bth.]

110. Twitching in the lower left part of the brain, extending from the front backward.

Twitching in the left half of the temple, toward the temple.

Cutting headache.

Shooting in the left temple, in the evening, not at night.

Shooting in almost all parts of the head.

115. Shooting in both the occipital protuberances, extending into the lower jaw.

Shooting pain in the upper part of the head, every day, more in the afternoon, as if it would tear her head in two; she had to lie down, and could not sleep for it at night.

Severe, shooting pain, on the right side of the head and on the occiput, it also pains when touched (aft. 3 d.).

Shooting pains in the temples (aft. 3 d.).

Violent stitches in the right temple (aft. 16 d.).

120. Violent stitches in the left side of the occiput during breakfast, so that the head is drawn backward, and the breath arrested.

Violent stitches, suddenly in the evening. on the right side of

- the occiput, and then another violent pain in the occiput, both pains ceased on going to sleep.
- Shooting above the eyes, daily, for half an hour in the morning.
- Shooting pain above the left eye. [Bth.]
- Boring stitches in the crown, in the evening.
125. Shooting, pecking pain in the left temple, the whole afternoon (aft. 16 d.)
- Shooting, occasionally throbbing, pain in the left frontal protuberance, with a sensation as if the eyes were pressed shut, from 4 P. M., worse in the evening, extending also into the night, when it awakens him.
- Jerking throbs in the head, when stooping and when lying down.
- Jerks in the head, in the evening.
- Beating headache in the left side of the head, the whole afternoon (aft. 8 d.).
130. Throbbing headache in the temples.
- Throbbing in the occiput.
- Throbbing headache in the right temple, with nausea, in the morning on awaking, for several days (aft. 29 d.).
- Intolerably painful hammering, chiefly in the head.
- Rush of blood to the head.
135. When stooping, the blood rushes to his head, so that it feels as if it weighed a hundred weight (aft. 16 d.).
- Pain in the head, as from rush of blood, so that she could not collect her thoughts; with a sensation as of gauze before the eyes.
- Rush of blood to the head, with heat in it.
- Heat in the head, the whole day.
- Much heat and pain in the head, with vertigo while walking (aft. 6 d.).
140. Roaring in the head.
- Constant resounding throbbing in the head.
- The outside of the head is painful when touched, as from subcutaneous festering (aft. 24 h.).
- Painful sensitiveness of the scalp, even his cap felt heavy; in the evening, with anxiety (aft. 3 d.).
- Bone pain of the whole of the left side of the head, also in the teeth and the meatus auditorius; the pains are pressive and drawing.
145. Bruised pain of the whole of the right side of the head.
- Tension of the scalp.
- Spots on the hairy scalp, which are very painful when touched.
- Intense, painful sensitiveness of the hair of the head.
- The roots of the hair are painful when touched, on a place on the crown as large as the hand. [Bth.]
150. Formication on the right side of the head, about the ear. [Bth.]
- Tingling sensation of being asleep and of numbness on the head.
- Sensation on the head as of burning points or sparks.
- He often feels, as it were, hot about the head.

- The head perspires very easily.
155. Frequent perspiration of the forehead.
Humid, itching eruption on the hairy scalp, forming crusts.
The hairy scalp is covered with fetid crusts.
The hair falls out.
Rapid falling out of the hair. [Bth.]
160. Many furuncles about the head, on the chin, on the nape, etc.
The eyes are weary and hurt as if fatigued.
Pressure in the eyes, like pressure on an ulcer.
Pressure like sand, in the external canthi.
Pressure in the eyes, as from a grain of sand.
165. Pressure in the eyes, as from looking into the sun; eyegum forms and the eye becomes red and itches.
Pressure in the eyelids, in the evening. [Rl.]
Pressure and erosion in the left eye (6th d.). [Rl.]
Periodical pressure on the inner surface of the eyelids, especially the lower ones, causing greater sensitiveness of the eyes to the light, with winking.
Pinching pain in the eyes.
170. Contractive pain in the left eye. [Bth.]
Sensation as if the right eye was squeezed together (1st d.).
[Fc ]
Contractive pain, externally above the left eye.
Drawing pain above the left eye.
Severe drawing pain in the eyes.
175. Stitches in the eyes (also on 6th d.).
Shooting pain in the right eye and the left ear, from within outward; thence inflammation of the eyes; the white of the eye becomes red; he could not see in the open air.
A stitch beside the left eyeball, toward the inner canthus, externally (aft. 11 h.).
Itching of the inner canthus of the eyes.
Itching and pressure in the eyes.
180. Smarting in the eyes.
Burning in the eyes and the left temple.
Burning in the eyelids, in the morning.
Redness of the white in the eye.
The eyes are quite red, without agglutination.
185. Inflammation of the conjunctiva in the right eye.
Swelling of the eyelids.
Swelling of the upper eyelid, and an itching pimple on it.
Dark spots in the cornea.
A small wart beside the pimple on the upper eyelid.
190. Dryness under the upper eyelids.
Sensation as if the eyes were full of tears.
Frequent lachrymation. [Rl.]
Lachrymation and itching of the eyes.
Lachrymation of the right eye in the open, mild air. [Rl.]
195. Lachrymation of the eyes, increased by reading, and pains in the eyes.
Acrid humidity of the eyes.
Stickiness of the eyes, as if from eyegum.

- Dry eyegum in the canthi.
 Agglutination of the right eye, by night.
200. Trembling of the right eyelid.
 Constant twitching under the right eye, after dinner.
 Difficulty in opening the eyes, in the morning.
 Difficulty in opening and raising the upper eyelid, in the morning.
 Dilatation of the pupils. [Th. M.]
205. Obscuration of the eyes, when reading.
 If he looks at anything closely, he is, as it were, blinded, it seems to him too dark.
 The vision grows dim, objects become dark, he cannot see anything and believes there is an eclipse of the sun, or that he has become blind (aft. 2 h.). [Fc.]
 His vision grows dim and his eyes are darkened, for an hour.
 In the open air he suddenly became as if blind, and confused in his head, his thoughts rambled, and he became faint for several minutes (aft. 39 d.).
210. He has to cease reading in the twilight, earlier than usual.
 The mistiness around the candle-light increases.
 Mist before his eyes, when looking at anything.
 When reading, he sees besides every letter a green spot.
 Short-sighted, objects at a medium distance appear indistinct.
215. Short-sightedness; even at a short distance he could not clearly distinguish objects.
 Double vision of horizontal objects at some distance.
 She could recognize anything clearly, and saw everything, as it were, double.
 Transitory veil before the right eye.
 Gray spots at some distance from the eyes; they prevent clear vision. [Th. M.]
220. Single black spots before the eyes.
 During candle-light, he sees, as it were, cobwebs before his eyes, which disappear when he presses his eyes shut, or moves them.
 Fiery sparks before the eyes; things became black to his sight, during four paroxysms by day, he could not recognize anything for an hour.
 Sensitiveness of the eyes to the light.
 The eyes are blinded by the day-light, as at other times in the evening by candle-light.
225. Earache, as if something in the ear would burst.
 Pain in the left ear, as if it was stretched.
 Pain as if the tympanum were pressed inward (aft. 12 h.). [Bth.]
 Intense pain in the ears.
 Cramp-like pain in the ears (aft. 24 h.). [Bth.]
230. Twitching in the internal meatus auditorius (aft. 6 d.).
 Drawing in the external meatus auditorius (aft. 4 h.).
 Drawing in the right ear and the right cheek. [Rl.]
 Tearing, now on the right, then on the left helix. [Bth.]
 Shooting pain in the right ear, with pressure in the forehead.

235. Stitches in the right ear, and a rushing sound in it, for three days (aft. 12 d.).
 Stitch, like earache.
 Throbbing on the tympanum. [Bth.]
 Itching heat of the ears (aft. 5 d.).
 Itching in the ears.
240. Sensation of dryness in the ears, which are swollen (aft. 6 d.).
 Redness, suppuration and severe itching behind the left ear.
 Soreness behind the left ear (11th d.). [Rl.]
 Nodules as large as lentils on the posterior surface of the lobules, with pain when touched.
 Swelling of the glands, below and behind the left ear, with shooting and tearing in them, passing through the ear, in the evening at six o'clock, until she gets warm in bed.
245. Itching in the swollen parotid gland (aft. 3 d.).
 Sensation of obstructiou in the ear, after previous aching in it.
 The right ear feels suddenly obstructed, as if he was altogether deaf, for a short time. [Rl.]
 She is hard of hearing (aft. 5 d.).
 The hearing seems dulled, she could not well understand what was spoken.
250. Echo in the ears, of his own speech.
 Humming in the ear, as if water was in it.
 Humming in the ears, and hardness of hearing, for fourteen days (aft. 14 d.).
 Whizzing in the left ear (aft. 16 d.).
 Rushing sound before the ears.
255. Sudden puffing before the left ear, in the afternoon, for several minutes.
 Several loud explosions in the ear (aft. sever. d.).
 Cracking in the ear, when chewing (breakfast).
 In the nose, an intense itching.
 Eroding pain in the nose.
260. Stitches in the nose, like splinters, when touching it. [Rl.]
 Shooting pain in the (distended) root of the nose, especially when sneezing and coughing. [Hg.]
 Burning in the nose.
 Sensation of soreness in the anterior of the nose. [Rl.]
 Sensation of soreness on the alæ nasi (aft. 4 h.). [Rl.]
265. Soreness and bleeding of the inside of the nose, with severe coryza.
 Soreness and scabs in the inside of the nose. [Rl.]
 Ulcerated nostrils, sore nose. [Rl.]
 Itching tetters on the alæ nasi.
 Redness of the tip of the nose, and pimples with crusts thereon.
270. Expulsion of blood from the nose, in the morning.
 Bleeding of the nose, from weeping.
 Violent bleeding of the nose (aft. 24 h.).
 Severe epistaxis, in the morning.

- Discharge of black blood from the nose.
275. Disagreeable smell in the nose, in the evening, after lying down, for three evenings.
 When eating, little pieces of food are forced up into the posterior nares with disagreeable sensation, they are only expelled afterwards with the mucus.
 The facial bones are painful per se, and when touched.
 Tension of the skin of the face, in the morning.
 Tension of the skin of the forehead.
280. Violent cramplike pain in the facial bones, especially in the cheekbones. [Bth.]
 Sensation of contraction on the nose, the zygomas and about the eyes.
 Drawing in the right cheek toward the nose. [Rl.]
 Tearing in the cheekbones, starting from the angle of the lower jaw.
 Violent tearing, deep in the facial muscles or in the periosteum of the zygoma, awakes him after midnight. [Bth.]
285. Violent pains in the zygoma, as if they were being torn apart (aft. 10 d.). [Bth.]
 Bruised pain of the zygoma.
 Stitches in the face, like needle-pricks.
 Twitches, now in one facial muscle, now in another, especially in the masseter muscles. [Bth.]
 Violent, painful pulsation, on the left side of the face.
290. Heat of the face, in the afternoon. [Rl.]
 Heat in the face, in the evening.
 Great heat of the face in the evenings with tremulousness. [Rl.]
 Intense sensation of internal heat of the face, especially in the eyes, so that he could hardly keep them open, with paleness of the face.
 Feeling of heat in the cheeks, without any heat sensible externally.
295. Inflamed swelling (erysipelas) of the left cheek, with stinging pain, attended with nausea and chill; then heat; on raising himself in bed, the shuddering always returned (aft. 10 d.).
 Swelling of the cheek, with a red rough spot in the middle, and tearing in the teeth.
 Swelling of the cheek and of the upper lip.
 Bloated look about the eyes, in the morning, on awaking (3d d.).
 The eyes are sunken deep (aft. 11 d.).
300. Yellow, sickly appearance below the eyes, in the morning after rising, and sensation of exhaustion (aft. 9 d.).
 Yellowness about the eyes, while the cheeks are red.
 Yellowness of the face.
 Scaly skin all over the face.
 Black pores on the skin of the face.
305. Small pimples in the face, especially on the forehead.
 Pimples on the forehead.
 Many small pimples on the forehead, just below the hair.

- Eruptive nodules on the temple on the border of the hair (5th d.). [Rl.]
 Eruptive pimple on the temples.
310. Itching, burning red eruptive nodules, with pus in the apex, here and there on the face, on the forehead, the temples, the lips, the chin, etc.
 Fine eruption about the beard, with intense itching.
 Itching tetter in the whiskers.
 Close to the mouth, a herpetic spot, which extends down to the chin.
 The lips are swollen and itch.
315. Swelling of the upper lips and of the upper gums (aft. 10 d.).
Swelling of the lower lip (2d, 9th d.).
 Cutting pain in the upper lip.
 Stitches as from splinters, in the upper lip, when it is touched.
 Much itching on the upper lip.
320. Some pimples on the lip with eroding itching.
 Itching eruption on the upper lip.
 Ulcerative eruptive pimples on the lower lip (aft. 9 d.).
 Ulcerated commissures of the lips, with crusts.
 Pustules on the chin (aft. 48 h.).
325. Several pimples on the chin, with red, indurated circumference; at first they are painful when touched; this ceases as soon as pus appears in their apices; they leave behind them for two days, an induration with a red circumference (aft. 33 d.). [Bth.]
 A large boil on the side of the chin.
 Pain in the jawbone, as from mercury.<sup>1</sup> [SCOTT in Hufel. Journ. IV., p. 353.
 Cramplike pain in the right jaw. [Rl.]
 Twitching in the right lower jaw, extending from the ears forward.
330. A continual stitch in the region of the articulation of the jaw.
 Great pain, weakness and lack of strength in the whole of the lower jaw, in the evening. [Bth.]
 Cracking in the articulation of the jaws, when chewing and eating.
 The submaxillary glands are painful. [Rl.]
 A gland below the jaw on the right side pains for a long time.
335. Sensation of swelling of the submaxillary glands.
 Swelling of the submaxillary glands. [Bth.]
 The swollen submaxillary glands are painful, when moving and touching the neck. [Bth.]
 Dull pressure in the submaxillary glands and on the neck. [Bth.]
 Toothache of the upper row, which does not however impede chewing; with swelling of the cheeks and turgidity therein.

<sup>1</sup> Proving on self. Symptoms have been compared with original in Duncan's Annals of Medicine, 1795. I, 375.—Pain was felt also in the back of the head, and the gums were red and swollen.—Hughes.

340. The pains in the teeth are aggravated as soon as she rests her head on the pillow.
 Contractive twitching and clucking in a hollow tooth.
 Twitching toothache, chiefly in hollow teeth, and in the evening (1st d.). [Bth.]
 Drawing in the teeth.
 Drawing pain in the teeth, extending to the larynx.
345. Drawing and muttering in the teeth and the jaws at night.
 Sharp drawing in the right row of teeth and in the head. [Rl.]
 Tearing in the teeth (15th d.).
 Shooting toothache with swelling of the cheeks, for two days (aft. 3 d.).
 Severe stitches in the upper molars, downward toward the crowns (aft. 3d h.)
350. Constant shooting pain in the teeth (aft. 24 h.).
 A stitch darts into the tooth, when anything cold or warm gets into the mouth.
 Shooting and burning in the teeth, at night.
 Boring pains in the teeth, when anything cold or warm touches them.
 Tormenting, throbbing toothache, worst in the evening in bed, preventing him for several hours from going to sleep, now in one tooth, now in all the teeth (aft. 12 d.). [Bth.]
355. Sensation of coldness in the teeth.
Looseness and pain of the teeth in chewing.
 A lower molar pains while chewing.
 The anterior upper teeth and a lower hollow molar pain as if loose and dull, as if they were bent forward and waggled; it ceases in the evening after eating warm things.
 The sensation of softness in the teeth ceases when eating. [Fc.]
360. Sensation as if the teeth were soft and spongy; he dares not bite upon them, for fear, that they might fall out; at the least sucking, blood flows from the gums, and he feels a pleasant sensation in the whole mouth (11th d.).
 The teeth feel warm and elongated.
 The teeth, which before were quite white, become yellow. [Bth.]
 In the gums of the upper teeth, cutting pain.
 Pressive pain in the gums, and as if sore.
365. Itching on the gums. [Rl.]
White swollen gums.
Swelling of the upper gums, even in the sockets (aft. 8 d.).
 Swelling of the gums and such looseness of the teeth, that she could have taken them out (aft. 5 d.)
 The interior parts of the mouth, on awaking in the morning, feel stiff and swollen. [Rl.]
370. Sensation in the mouth, as if everything in it had gone to sleep (29th d.).
 Contractive pain in the mouth. [Bth.]

The inner skin of the cheeks easily gets between the teeth, so that, in chewing, he bites into it (10th d.). [Rl.]

Ulcerated spot on the inner side of the cheek, with stinging pain as from a splinter.

Ulceration in the mouth and fauces.<sup>1</sup> [BLAIR, Neuste Erfahr. Glog., 1801; SCOTT.]

375. Spreading ulcer on the side of the uvula.<sup>2</sup> [J. FERRIAR, Samml. f. prakt. Aerzte. XIX, 11.]

Vesicle on the tongue and on its edge, with burning pain when touched.

Little vesicles on the glands under the tongue, they are painful.

Small painful pimples on the side of the tongue.

The tongue is very sensitive, even mild articles of food cause a sharp smarting. [Rl.]

380. In chewing, he bites his tongue.

Sore pain of the red part of the tongue.

Soreness of the tongue, the palate, the inner side of the gums, with shooting pain, and ulceration of the commissure of the lips (for 5 days) (aft. 28 d.).

Lisping.

Coated tongue.

385. Thickly coated tongue (with febrile movements).

Thickly coated dry tongue, in the morning.

White, dry tongue (aft. 24 h.).

Very dry tongue, so that it cleaves to the palate, in the morning on awaking.

Dryness of the mouth. [Staph.]

390. Dryness in the mouth, without thirst, with swollen, hot lips.

Great dryness in the mouth, with great thirst.

Dryness in the mouth, in the morning. [Rl.]

Dry and scrapy in the mouth in the morning, as after much smoking of tobacco.

Dryness on the upper part of the palate.

395. Her mouth is always full of water, and she has to spit much (aft. sever. h.).

He spits out much viscid saliva.

Much flow of saliva (13th d.). [Rl.]

Flow of saliva, without any trouble with the gums.<sup>3</sup>

[KELLIE, Samml. f. prakt. Aerzte.; DUERR, Hufel Journ. XXV, II, 31; SCOTT.]

Flow of saliva, and ulcers on the fauces. [Bth.]

400. Bloody saliva is spit out in the morning (aft. 48 h.).

The saliva is colored with blood, especially after mental work.

Putrid smell from the mouth.

<sup>1</sup> No such symptom found in Scott. In Blair's case (original is Essays on Venereal Disease, etc., Lond., 1797) the symptom seems compounded of an ulcer in the throat which appeared in a man who was taking the acid for syphilitic disease there, and of ulcerations and vesications on the lips and inside of the mouth from the local action of the drug.—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup> Ferriar's symptoms (Med. Hist. and Refl. II, 299) are of the same character as Blair's. The present one occurred in a case of secondary syphilis, while the acid was being taken for ulceration of the tonsils.—Hughes.

<sup>3</sup> To KELLIE—<sup>1</sup> Translated from Duncan's Annals of Medicine, 1797, II, 254. Observations on patients.—To DUERR, also observations on patients.—Hughes.

- Cadaverous smell from the mouth.<sup>1</sup> [BLAIR.]
 Very tough mucus in the mouth.
405. Much mucus posteriorly in the throat. [Rl.]
 Hawking up of mucus.
 Sore throat with pressive pain.
 Pressure in the throat, when swallowing food, as if this could not get down.
 Pressure posteriorly in the throat, while swallowing food, this pressure, as it were draws itself downward on the inner side of the back.
410. Pressure in the throat like a swelling and as if thick, by day and in the evening, with sore pain.
 Sensation as of a lump in the throat during empty deglutition.
 Sensation as of a lump ascending in the œsophagns.
 Pinching of the morsel in the throat, as if it was constricted, during eating.
 During eating, little pieces of food press toward the posterior nares, and come out behind, toward the nose as if the pharynx had not properly seized upon them, and had allowed them to escape, so that they are pressed toward the posterior nares.
415. Sore throat, when swallowing, like a swelling in the throat, and as if raw and ulcerated.
 Shooting pain in the throat, after long speaking.
 Sore throat, with shooting pain.
 Shooting in the throat, as if in the root of the tongue, when not swallowing, in the evening in bed.
 Shooting in the tonsils, and burning in the fauces, behind the uvula.
420. Burning in the throat, after supper, for half an hour.
 Pain in the tonsils, with soreness of the uvula.
 Sensation of soreness in the throat.
 Sore pain in the pharynx (aft. 10 d.). [Bth.]
 Swelling of the inside of the throat with shooting pain.
425. Swelling of the tonsils.<sup>2</sup> [ALYON, Mém. de la Soc. Méd. d'Emulation, I, 618.]
 Heat and dryness in the throat.
 Dryness, posteriorly, way back in the throat, with heat, without sweat, during the night.
 Very scrapy, scratchy and dry in the throat. [Rl.]
 Scrapy in the throat, as if something obstructed speech and deglutition.
430. Scraping in the throat.
 Tickling in the throat.
 Acidity in the throat.
 Intense sourness in the throat, after eating fat things.
 Acidity in the mouth, burning intensely in the throat.
435. Acidity in the mouth, after a meal.
 Sour taste in the mouth (aft. sever. h.).
 Sour taste in the mouth, in the evening.

---

<sup>1</sup> Not found.—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup> Observation.—Hughes.

- Sour taste in the mouth, in the morning.
 Bitterness in the throat.
440. Bitterness in the mouth.
 Bitter taste in the mouth, in the afternoon.
 Very bitter taste in the mouth, the whole forenoon.
 Bitter taste, and the tongue coated whitish yellow (aft. 24 h.).
445. Sweetish taste in the mouth, in the morning (aft. 13 d.).
 Sweetish saliva in the mouth.
 Pure water tastes salty, when rinsing the mouth.
 Constant great thirst.
 Much longing for drinking.
 Thirst for water, in the morning, on awaking.
450. He has to drink with his food.
Lack of appetite, he does not relish his food, worse in the morning.
 Very little appetite, without any bad taste.
 No hunger at all, and if she eats nevertheless, she soon feels qualmish, and there arises a distant nausea toward the throat.
 He does not relish his food, he is satiated at once, and there arise eructations tasting of the little food he has eaten.
455. He has no appetite, he loathes everything.
 Dislike to boiled meat. [Rl.]
 Dislike to dishes made of meat.
 Dislike to sweets.
 She cannot eat any bread, she can only eat cooked food.
460. Rye bread causes a sour taste, and she has to vomit.
 Appetite for fat things and for herring.
 Appetite, but as soon as she starts to eat, it is gone.
 She has appetite, but she feels full immediately.
 Feeling of satiety and also of numbness in the head.
465. Intense hunger, with satiety of life (aft. 2 d.).
 Rabid hunger. [RITTER, in Hufel. Journ., X, 3, 191.]
 After eating, a long after-taste of the food eaten.
 After dinner, severe eructations and flatulency.
After meals, nausea.
470. After meals, nausea in the throat, ceasing after some exercise.
 For several hours after a meal, qualmishness in the abdomen, for several days in succession. [Rl.]
 Immediately after dinner, vomiting and headache above the eyes and in the parietal bones, as if the head would burst.
 After meals, much eructation, with bitter and sour vomiting.
 After meals, eructation, and then heartburn from the scrobiculus cordis extending into the throat.
475. Immediately after a very moderate dinner, distended stomach and abdomen, and the clothes seem too tight.
 After meals, loud growling in the abdomen.
 During meals, while drinking water, frequent colic.
 After drinking, at the beginning of a meal, tearing sore pain in the fauces, the chest and in the stomach.

- After meals, a sensation of coldness and of pressure in the stomach.
480. After every meal, headache above the eyes, more of a shooting, than a pressive nature (aft. 16 d.).
 After meals, heat and redness of the face.
 After meals, frequent retching cough, with irritation and crawling in the throat.
 During eating, sore pain in the inside of the chest.
 After dinner, excessive prostration, with heaviness in all the limbs, especially in the knees and the elbows; they were, as it were, relaxed.
485. After meals, much yawning. [Rl.]
 After meals, she feels a weary drowsiness and has to sleep.
 After supper, an irresistible inclination to sleep, with stretching and impatience.
 After dinner, a chill, with pale complexion and coated tongue.
 When eating, perspiration on the forehead.
490. After meals (in the morning and at noon) perspiration all over (aft 5 d.).
 After meals, a sort of anxiety.
 Immediately after dinner, very unwell; she feels warm, all her limbs feel as if bruised and they tremble; she has to lie down.
After and before meals, much eructation.
 Eructation, tasting of food eaten at dinner four hours before.
495. Empty eructation (almost at once). [Rl.]
Empty eructation, also in the morning, before breakfast.
Sour eructation.
 Bilious eructation, while eating, especially in the evening.
 Regurgitation of half digested food, with disagreeable taste in the mouth.
500. Liable to eructation, attended with heartburn.
 Burning downward in the œsophagus to the pit of the stomach, like heartburn.
 Hiccup (3d d.). [Rl.]
 Hiccup, from morning till evening (4th d.). [Rl.]
 Nausea, as if from heat, not so as to cause vomiting, for many hours.
505. Nausea with anxiety and trembling (aft. 41 h.).
 Nausea with anxiety, without tendency to vomit, below the short ribs, frequently by day.
 Nausea, qualmishness and moving about in the whole body, as after taking an emetic.
 Nausea about the stomach, all day.
 Qualmish, sickly, chilly, after the (customary) coffee; she must lie down.
510. Sickly and aching, frequently, as if swooning and anxious, as if there would be eructations (especially on moving), alternating with ravenous hunger and pain as from emptiness in the stomach, as if she ought to eat, with collection of water in the mouth, like waterbrash; daily, in repeated attacks of five to ten minutes' duration.
 Constant nausea and inclination to vomit, all the day, for many days in succession, with heat, extending from the scrobiculus cordis to the pit of the throat; the nausea does not advance to retching, and ceases during eating and drinking, for both of which she has appetite.

Intolerable nausea, passing into vomiting.<sup>1</sup> [WALTERS, in Phys. Med. Journ., 1810.]

Bitter and sour vomiting with much eructation after meals.

Pain in the region of the cardiac orifice of the stomach, when swallowing food.

515. Pain above the stomach, so that he cannot straighten himself, relieved by eructation.

Pressure in the stomach, increased by pressing the hand upon it.

Pressure in the stomach, especially before meals, even when it is only an hour before he ate last; it is removed by eating; attended with empty eructations.

Severe pressure above the stomach and the scrobiculus cordis, when walking in the open air.

Pressure in the stomach, very painful, before breakfast.

520. Pressure in the scrobiculus cordis, and sudden burning, as if he would vomit blood (2d d.).

Pressure in the stomach, as from a wound, in the morning and by day.

Cramp in the stomach, as from a cold.

Cramp-like pain in the scrobiculus cordis (aft. 6 d.).

Spasmodically contractive pain in the stomach.

525. Contractive cramp in the stomach; very disagreeable griping and pinching, in paroxysms (aft. 24 and 48 h.).

Violent, spasmodic pinching in the stomach.

Spasmodic drawing pain in the pit of the stomach, with tension reaching to the navel, and shortening the breath.

Clutching in the stomach, in the morning after rising, extending into the chest, then brief attacks of colic.

Continuous stitch anteriorly below the pit of the stomach.

530. Gnawing at the stomach, in the morning before breakfast.

Throbbing in the pit of the stomach.

Ebullition in the region of the pit of the stomach (4th d.).

Sensation of heat in the stomach.<sup>2</sup> [SCOTT].

Burning sensation in the stomach.

535. Coldness in the stomach.<sup>3</sup> [BLAIR.]

Painless movement on the left side near the scrobiculus cordis (11th d.).

In the hepatic region, pressure and tension.

Stitches in the hepatic region, at the least movement, causing him to scream aloud.

Jaundice, yellowness of the skin with costiveness.

540. In the left hypochondrium, pressure, more anteriorly (4th d.).

Pressure in the left side of the abdomen.

Sensation of swelling in the spleen.

<sup>1</sup> Not found.—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup> Soon after ingestion.—Hughes.

<sup>3</sup> Ascribed to acid being too little diluted.—Hughes.

- Shooting pain in the splenic region, at every movement (4th d.).
 In the renal region, a pressure.
545. Pain in the abdomen with pressive pain.
 Pressure in the middle of the abdomen, as if there was a dumpling in it.
 Pressive pain, and at times a stitch in the hypogastrium, on touching it.
 Pressure in the umbilical region, with a sensation as if it would cease after the stool.
 Pain in a small part of the abdomen, as if something wanted to come out.
550. Inflation of the abdomen, in the morning on awaking.
 Inflation of the abdomen by flatus, with growling in the abdomen from morning till evening, for many days.
 Sensation of inflation in the umbilical region.
 Constant distension of the abdomen.
 Strong tension in the abdomen (aft. 24 h.).
555. Contraction in the abdomen, with itching.
 Contractive pain in the umbilical region.
 Spasmodic contraction of the abdomen.
 Cramps in the abdomen.
 Drawing pain in the hypogastrium, with shuddering.
560. Drawing pain in the abdomen, extending into the thighs.
 Drawing and griping in the umbilical region, especially on moving and bending the body.
 Frequent pinching in the abdomen, without diarrhœa.
 Pinching in the abdomen, repeatedly in the morning, after a normal stool.
 Cutting pain in the abdomen in the morning in bed and after rising; then soft stools (3d d.). [RL.]
565. Cutting pain in the abdomen, with diarrhœic stools, and cold feet that cannot be warmed.
 Cutting and tension in the right hypogastrium.
 Shooting pain in the abdomen, especially when pressing upon it.
 Burrowing pain in the abdomen, below the navel.
 Burrowing and pinching in the hypogastrium, without diarrhœa.
570. Pain in the abdomen, as from taking a cold.
 The abdomen is extremely sensitive (aft. 3 d.).
 A connate, wartlike excrescence on the abdomen becomes sensitive, sore and scurfy. [RL.]
 The hernial region is very much inflated.
 Shooting pain in the left hernial region.
575. Pain as from a fracture and from a hernia in the left inguinal region, diminished by walking.
 The glands in the groins are swollen. [LESHER, in Rœhmer's and Kuehn's Annal. d. Arznein, I, II., 1.]<sup>1</sup>
 Swelling of the inguinal gland, without pain.

<sup>1</sup> Not accessible.—Hughes.

Contractive pain in the inguinal gland.

Slight stitch in the bubo, when touched, and also per se; shooting itching in the hard part of the bubo.

580. Suppurating swelling of the inguinal glands, very painful when walking; the whole lower limb feels paralyzed and the muscles feel stretched

Generation of a quantity of flatus; it moves about in the abdomen, without finding its way out, with a disagreeable sensation.

Much call to pass flatus, with colic; little or none is passed, even when, after an injection of water, a stool is caused.

Restlessness in the abdomen, with much rumbling and diarrhœic stool, for more than a week (aft. 20 h.).

Colicky restlessness, in the morning and inflation in the abdomen, the flatus moves about in the abdomen, causing pain and growling there, and even a soft stool gives no relief (aft. 16 d.).

585. Severe flatulent colic, in the morning after rising.

Rumbling in the abdomen.

Growling in the abdomen, without hunger, often even after a meal.

Much emission of flatus, in the morning, after pinching in the abdomen. [Rel.]

Emission of much fetid flatus.

590. It causes much fetid flatus to be discharged at once (also the 2d d.).

Excessive emission of flatus (aft. sever. h.).

Before the emission of flatus, pain in the abdomen. [Rel.]

Before the emission of flatus, a drawing, writhing pain in the abdomen. [Rel.]

Constipation (1st d.).

595. Painless constipation for several days.<sup>1</sup> (Samml. f. prakt. Aerzte. XV., 1.)

Only every other day a hard stool, covered with mucus, during the first days, afterwards again a daily stool.

Costiveness; her abdomen was inflated and the flatus was not emitted, aft. 3, 4, 5 d.).

Hard, scanty stool.

The stool passes off in hard lumps.

600. Stool like sheep dung, with much straining, attended with mucous discharge (2d, 3d d.).

Urging on the rectum for stool, but a scanty discharge.

Constant pressing and straining for stool; he could not evacuate it, and yet it was not hard.

Constant urging to stool, but without effect.

Stool alternately firm and liquid. [Stapf.]

605. Soft stool, after pinching in the abdomen.

Two soft stools every day, for several weeks.

Three, four stools a day, with shuddering and qualmsiness under the short ribs (the first 13 d.).

Pappy stool.

<sup>1</sup> Not found.—Hughes.

- Sensation as if diarrhœa would come, which did not occur (aft. 2 to 8 h.).
610. Diarrhœic stool, two or three times a day (the first 10 d.).
Diarrhœa, with nausea after a meal (aft. 20 d.).
Diarrhœa, every other day.
Repeated stools of mere mucus, at times with colic and violent urging (the first 4 d.).
The stool is enveloped in mucus.
615. Undigested food discharged with the stool.
Thin, yellowish, white stool.
Putrid smell of the stool and the flatus.
Smarting acidity of the stool.
Bloody, dysenteric stools, with tenesmus, attended with fever and headache. [WALTERS.]
620. Before the stool, pain in the abdomen, also drawing pain.
[R/l.]
Before a normal stool, pinching in the abdomen (aft. 14 d.).
During the stool, pain as if something was being torn in the rectum.
During the stool, shooting, cutting and urging in the rectum and anus.
During a stool, a profuse discharge of blood.
625. During a hard stool, burning in the anus.
During a stool, shooting pain in the rectum, and spasmodic contraction of the anus, for many hours (aft. 2 d.).
After the stool, there is again tenesmus.
After the stool, sensation as if more had to be discharged (6th d.).
After the stool, burning in the anus.
630. After the stool, shooting and scraping pain in the rectum, and the anus.
After a soft stool, nausea.
After a stool, complete prostration (aft. 9 d.).
After the stool, excessive irritability, anxiety and general indisposition.
After repeated, frequently ineffectual calls to stool, pain in the abdomen.
635. The rectum seems inactive, and unable to expel the fæces.
Pressure in the rectum (aft. 7, 17 d.).
Pressive pain on the anus, as if a varix was just then forming.
Pressure toward the rectum, and then a formation of painful varices on the anus.
Varices on the anus, after severe pressure down the back, when standing.
640. Varices and pricking in the rectum.
Pain of the varices in the anus.
Burning of the varices of the anus.
Swelling of the varices of the anus.
Constant pressing outward of the varices of the rectum.
645. Protruding, painless varices on the anus, and with every stool some discharge of blood.

- Bleeding of the varices of the anus, at every stool.
 Severe pinching in the rectum.
 Contraction of the anus, almost daily.
 Painful prolapsus of the rectum.
650. Itching in the rectum.
Itching in the anus, when walking in the open air and after a stool.
 Itching in the anus, owing to the movements of ascarides.
 Itching and burning in the rectum, with passage of ascarides.
 Stitches in the rectum, in the evening.
655. Stitches in the rectum, when coughing.
 Excoriation on the anus, in the evening.
 Excoriation, more in the rectum than in the anus, immediately after a stool, for two hours.
 Heat in the rectum.
Burning sensation in the rectum.
660. Burning and pinching in the rectum.
Burning on the anus (2d d.).
 Burning in the rectum, toward the perinæum, with ineffectual urging to stool.
 Painful burning in the anus (the rectum), the whole day, especially after micturition.
 Soreness in the anus (aft. 4 d.).
665. Humid soreness on the anus, and between the nates, when walking
Humidity and itching on the anus. [Rl.]
 Painful pimple on the perinæum.
 Sharply drawing shooting pain in the perinæum, toward the anus.
 Painless suppression of the urine, for several days. [Samml. f. prakt. Aerzte.]
670. Much urging to urinate.
 Pressure on the bladder to urinate.
 Frequent urging to urinate, with little discharge.
 At night, intense urging to urinate, and little urine (aft. 4 d.).
 At night, urging to urinate, with colic.
675. He has to rise often at night to urinate.
 Very scanty urine.
 Thin stream of urine, as from a constriction of the urethra.
 Very scanty, turbid, ill smelling urine.
 Very frequent, easy passage of urine.
680. Very much, pale colored urine.
 Spontaneous flow of urine.<sup>1</sup> [SCOTT.]
 The child involuntarily allows the urine to flow.
 The urine passed is cold.
 Urine quite dark.
685. Very dark urine, which soon turns white and turbid; after urination, increased dryness of the throat.
 Quite brown urine, making brown spots, like coffee, in the linen.

---

<sup>1</sup>Not found.—Hughes.

- Light colored urine, which on standing becomes first like whey and full of filaments, and then deposits a bright red sediment, firmly adhering to the vessel (aft. 33 d.). [Bth.]
 Red sediment in the urine.
 Much brown red gravel in the urine (aft. 7 d.).
690. The urine deposits sand.
 Whitish sediment and intensely ammoniacal odor of the urine.
 Intolerably strong smelling, smarting, brownish urine.
 Smarting smell of the urine, like tobacco.
 Ill-smelling, sourish urine, like that of horses.
695. During micturition, burning in the urethra (aft. 17 d.).
 During micturition, violent burning in the urethra. [Hartmann.]
 During micturition, stitches in the hypogastrium, just above the pudenda.
During micturition, excoriation in the urethra.
 During micturition, sore pain in the tip of the glans.
700. During micturition, sore pain in the whole urethra.
 Cutting in the urethra.
 After micturition, a violent burning (aft. 7 d.).
 Toward the bladder, a spasmodic contractive pain, proceeding from the kidneys.
 The urethra is painful when touched.
705. Needle-pricks, anteriorly in the orifice of the urethra.
 Burning sensation anteriorly in the urethra, forcing him to urinate, as if this would relieve it, but it only aggravates it.
 The orifice of the urethra is thickly swollen, puffed up and dark red. [Hartmann.]
 Ulcer in the urethra.<sup>1</sup> [BLAIR.]
 Yellowish matter is discharged from the urethra.
710. Mucus drips from the urethra, when not urinating.
 Some drops of thin mucus, which does not allow itself, like the prostatic juice, to be drawn out in threads, come from the urethra after urinating.
 Discharge of tenacious mucus from the urethra after micturition.
 Flow of bloody mucus from the urethra.
 The hairs on the pudenda rapidly fall out. [Bth.]
715. Itching on the sexual parts. [Stapf.]
 Much itching on the sexual parts.
 Itching titillation as from a fly sting on the whole of the genital organ.
 Itching on the whole of the penis, especially on the glans under the prepuce.
 A spot on the penis which was rubbed sore, becomes ulcerated and will not heal. [R.]
720. Frequent itching of the glans.
 Itching pimples on the glans.
 Red spots on the glans, which are covered with a crust.

<sup>1</sup> The only symptom resembling this in Blair is "the inside of the prepuce is a little excoriated, as if a chancre would appear," and this occurred in a man infected with syphilis three months previously, who had taken much mercury.—Hughes.

Several brown painful spots, as large as lentils, on the corona glandis. [Bth.]

Ten to twelve small, flesh-colored excrescences on the corona glandis, which after a few days decrease in size, discharge a fetid humor, and bleed when touched. [Bth.]

725. Deep ulcer on the glans, with raised, lead-colored, highly sensitive borders. [Bth.]

Flat ulcers on the corona glandis, looking clean, but discharging an ill-smelling pus. [Bth.]

Humidity on the glans (balanorrhœa).

Mucus under the prepuce, behind the corona glandis. [Rl.]

Throbbing and pressing on the glans (aft. 2 d.).

730. In the prepuce, sharp stitches. [Bth.]

Itching on the prepuce and humid spots on its inner surface (aft 28 d.).

Inflammation and swelling of the prepuce, with burning pain on its inner surface, soreness and small ulcers secreting a very fetid humor, making spots on the linen, like bloody pus. [Bth.]

Severe swelling and phimosis of the prepuce, without much redness, and on its inner surface and on its border as well as at the orifice of the urethra, there are suppurating ulcers like chancres, with flat borders without inflammation, and with violent shooting tearing, becoming especially worse toward evening, lasting during the night, interfering with sleep, and still further aggravated toward morning by violent erections. [Hartmann.]

Small itching vesicles on the prepuce, which after several days crack open, and are covered with small dry scabs.

735. A small pimple with burning itching, on the inner surface of the prepuce; after rubbing it, there is a flat ulcer even with the skin and of yellow color, as if coated with thick pus, and painless, only with some redness around it.

Flat, yellow, ulcerated spots, like flat chancres, humid but without pain, on the inner surface of the prepuce, on both sides of the frænulum.

On the scrotum, violent itching.

Tingling of the scrotum, extending into the groin.

Itching on the scrotum, with sore places (2d d.). [Rl.]

740. In the testicle, a drawing pain.

Whirling pain in the left testicle.

Contusive pain in the left testicle.

Burning pain in the left testicle.

Swelling of the testicle. [LESCHEN.]

745. Swelling of the right testicle, with pain when touched.

Tearing in the spermatic cords, with painful sensitiveness of the testes, when touched.

Sexual impulse is lacking.

Diminished, sometimes very defective sexual impulse, during the first 18 days, and slow and insufficient erections, sometimes only to be excited by the female touch, but in the time that followed it became all the more satisfactory and irreproachable (in a man of 51 years).

Lack of erections.

750. Sexual impulse and erection, without any phantastic images (the first 2 d.).
 Frequent impulse to coitus, after several weeks (after-effects).
 Much inclination to coitus (15th d.).
Continual activity of the sexual impulse (aft. 10 d.).
 Lasciviousness, during which much prostatic juice is emitted.
755. Prostatic juice of turbid white color, emitted after a difficult stool (aft. 3 d.).
 Great tendency to erections (aft. 5 d.).
 Erections in the morning in bed, with pain in the urethra (aft. 24 d.).
 Erections, with burning and shooting in the urethra (aft. 4 d.).
 Erections in the evening, after lying down.
760. Violent erections at night, on awaking.
 Violent erection at night, even after a pollution (aft. 16 d.).
 Spasmodic disagreeable erections, lasting for several hours, after midnight; he had to toss about restlessly for several hours (aft. 15 d.). [Bth.]
Violent erections at night and seminal emission (aft. 9 d.).
 Frequent pollutions.
765. But little of a voluptuous thrill during coitus.
 During seminal emission in coitus, there is but little voluptuous sensation.
 The coitus, even when there is a sufficient impulse, if repeated too soon, causes general weakness and renews old ailments that had passed away.
 After coitus, drawing pain in the sacrum, spine and thigh.
 On the female pudenda, violent itching, toward evening.
770. Itching on the pudenda; the child almost rubs it sore at night.
 Itching on the pudenda when walking; soreness ensues.
 Irritation and inflammation on the labia majora and the vagina (2d d.).
 Stitches in the vagina, extending upward when walking in the open air.
 Violent shooting in the vagina.
775. Dry burning on the sexual parts.
 Swelling of the one side of the vagina and of the labia minora, with burning itching.
 An ulcer, coated with yellow pus; it is even with the skin in the vagina, with burning itching pain.
 Menses late by three days (aft. 11 d.).
 Menses seven days late (till full moon), in a young person, and somewhat too strong, with pains in the abdomen and head (aft. 29 d.).
780. Menses two days early (aft. 10 d.).
 Menses three days early (aft. 19 d.).
 Return of the menses hastened by three days (aft. 4 d.).
 Menses seven days early (aft. 11 d.).
 Menses eight days too soon (aft. 19 d.).
785. Menses eleven days too soon (aft. 11 d.).

Menses return even after fourteen days, but not profuse.

The menstrual flow returns, a few days after the catamenia, pale reddish.

Menstrual flow too strong (aft. 21 d.).

A day before the menses appear, and during the same, bruised pain in the limbs.

790. At the appearance of the menses, violent cramplike pain in the hypogastrium.

At the appearance of the menses, violent pains in the sacrum, for one hour (aft. 48 h.).

During the menses, every day, burning in the eyes.

During the menses, toothache.

During the menses, swelling of the gums.

795. During the menses, severe pressure in the hepatic region.

During the menses, pressure in the abdomen and pain in the sacrum.

During the menses, inflation of the abdomen.

During the menses, violent cramp-pains in the hypogastrium, as if the abdomen would burst, with constant eructation; she could not rest in any place.

During the menses, intense pains, first like labor pains, then more of a straining in the hypogastrium, extending to the vagina.

800. During the menses, intense pressure in the hypogastrium, as if everything were coming out at the genital parts, with pain in the sacrum; it drew downward in the hips, into the lower limbs.

During the menses, a contraction toward the pudenda.

During the menses, soon after they appear, an attack of palpitation, heat and anguish, for half an hour; all the limbs are trembling (aft. 11 d.).

During the menses, so great a weakness, that it took her speech and her breath away, and she had to lie down (aft. 17 d.).

Leucorrhœa, with mucus that may be drawn into threads, flesh-colored (aft. 24 h. and 15 d.).

805. Severe leucorrhœa (2d d.).

Greenish mucus flow from the vagina, just after the menses.

Flow from the vagina, of a fetid smell.

Flow from the vagina, of cherry-brown color and putrid smell.

* * * * *

Much sneezing every day, without coryza.

810. Frequent sneezing, with obstruction of the nose.

Frequent violent sneezing (aft. sever. h.).

Violent sneezing; in the morning and evening, without coryza.

Much sneezing, tingling in the nose and sensation of incipient epistaxis.

Much sneezing by day, and discharge of much nasal mucus.

815. Stoppage of the nose.

Stoppage of the left half of the nose.

Entire stoppage of the nose, in the morning, on awaking; a watery liquid drips from it; after a few mornings, the nostrils are again open and free.

Tendency to coryza, for many days.

- Stuffed coryza (aft. sever. d.).
820. Stuffed coryza, with stoppage of the nose; the nasal mucus only passes through the posterior nares out of the month.
Stuffed coryza, with dryness in the throat, and in the nose, with inflamed, swollen aë of the nose (aft. 5 d.).
Severe stuffed coryza, without discharge.
Severe stuffed coryza, at night till in the morning (aft. 16 h.).
At night, acrid water runs from the nose.
825. He blows yellow, ill-smelling mucus from his nose.
Flow of thick nasal mucus, eroding the nostrils. (DURRE, in Hufel. Journ.)
Violent coryza, with headache (aft. 4 d.).
Violent coryza, with some cough (aft. 48 h.).
Coryza and cough (aft. 9 d.).
830. Coryza, with sensation of soreness of the nostrils.
Coryza, with headache and dry cough.
Coryza, with waterbrash.
Severe coryza, with swelling of the nose and upper lip, and a cough, especially at night.
Fluent coryza, with some stoppage of the nose (2d d.).
835. Severe fluent coryza, joined with stuffed coryza, the breathing, even through the mouth, being impeded, with shooting in the throat in empty deglutition, also when swallowing food
Severe fluent coryza (aft. 2 d.).
Severe fluent coryza, with tearing in all the limbs, for only one day (4th d.).
Extremely severe fluent coryza, with intense hoarseness and cough, with stitches in the throat at every impulse (aft. 12 d.).
Violent fluent coryza, after sneezing and chilliness (31st d.).
[R.]
840. In the region of the larynx, shooting pains.
Shooting pains in the (larynx?) throat, after long speaking.
Sharp, scrapy sensation in the windpipe (aft. 9 d.).
Scraping in the throat, and irritation to cough, when reading aloud.
Scraping in the throat and cough.
845. Roughness of the throat, like a grater, sensible not when swallowing, but in breathing; with tightness of the chest and fluent coryza.
The voice is not clear, at times.
Hoarseness (aft. sever. h. and 2 d.).
Hoarseness, so that she could not talk.
Mucus adhering to the chest.
850. Much cough (aft. 3, 4 d.).
Cough from tickling, with soreness in the throat.
Cough, with a contractive sensation in the throat, especially by night when sleeping.
Cough, when breathing deeply.
Tussiculation, in the morning (3d d.). [R.]
855. In the evening in bed, a retching cough.
In the evening especially, a dry, barking cough.
At night, a severe cough, just after midnight, for one hour.

Before midnight, rough, dry cough.

At night especially, cough, which did not allow her to rest for even five minutes, with a concussion of the whole body, often arresting the breath, as in whooping cough; at the same time shooting pain in the chest, sore throat and fever.

860. At night, far more coughing than by day, he can only fall asleep toward morning; also by day, there is far more cough when lying down, and going to sleep.

Croaking cough, starting from the scrobiculus cordis, in paroxysms, but not at night.

Dry cough, as after a cold.

Expectoration of mucus by coughing.

Yellow expectoration, tasting bitter.

865. Bloody expectoration by a retching cough, in the morning in bed, after slight rattling in the windpipe; then sensation of illness, chill, etc.

Expectoration of black, coagulated blood, by a retching cough.

He coughs and retches out black blood and also expels it from the nose.

Pain below the stomach during cough and caused by it.

During coughing, every time a pressure in the head.

870. During coughing, pain in the hypochondria.

During coughing, sneezing.

During coughing, stitches in the throat.

Pain in the chest, from coughing.

During coughing and breathing, shooting pains in the middle of the left side of the chest, almost at every breath, especially when lying in bed.

875. During coughing, a sore pain in the chest, as from an ulcer.

During coughing, a stitch in the sacrum.

During coughing, the knee is suddenly affected, so that it gives way and there is then a pain in the patella, when walking.

Breathlessness, while walking in the open air, and heaviness of the feet.

Breathlessness, palpitation and oppression on going up stairs.

880. Sudden want of breath, and palpitation, while walking slowly.

Shortness of breath (1st d.).

Oppression of the breath in the morning, so severe that she could hardly get any air (aft. 30 d.).

Asthma, when walking in the open air.

Asthma, as from congestion of blood to the chest.

885. Tightness of the chest, so that she could not get breath (aft. 22 d.).

Oppression and anxiety, when she walks somewhat quickly, with perspiration on the back and chest.

Tightness of the chest.

Oppression on the chest; short, anxious difficult respiration.

Tightness on the chest, when sitting and walking, but especially when bending backwards (aft. 3 d.).

890. Panting respiration.
 When taking breath, wheezing and rattling on the chest.
 Breath weary and slow, so that he can stay almost a minute without breathing.
 At every breath, pain in chest, as if sore.
 The chest feels full.
895. Pressure on the chest.
 Pressure on the left side of the chest, as if the blood would not pass through the heart.
 Pressive pain in the right side of the chest, in the morning, after much empty eructation, for half an hour (aft. 16 d.).
 Pressive pain, anteriorly, on the ribs and as if bruised, also sensible when breathing.
 Severe pressure on the chest, starting from the pit of the throat, extending into the pit of the stomach, early in the morning (4th d.).
900. Spasmodic drawing in the chest.
 Spasmodic pain, in the anterior side of the chest and in the back, awakes him from sleep.
 Momentary spasm of the chest (19th d.).
 Spasmodic contractive pain in the upper muscles of the right side of the chest; he had to quite double up for pain, for several minutes (aft. 26 h.).
 Contractive pain on the right side of the chest, chiefly while sitting.
905. Contractive pain in the left side of the chest, above the heart, it oppresses the breathing (aft. 27 d.).
 Shooting and drawing on the sternum (Bthm.).
 Violent stitch through the lungs, in the forenoon.
Shooting pain in the right side of the chest and the scapula (aft. 15 d.).
 Shooting in (on) the right side of the chest, when breathing, not when coughing.
910. A violent stitch, above, within the right ribs, darting out at the abdomen and the back.
 Stitches in and below the left side of the chest, as from obstructed flatus.
 Violent stitches in the left side of the chest, in the morning, making breathing difficult.
 Shooting pain in the side of the chest, with nausea.
 Stitches and pain, as if festering, in both sides of the chest, when stooping, when breathing deeply and when reaching high up.
915. Stitches, seemingly externally on the chest.
 Turning pain in the right side of the chest.
 Heat in the upper part of the chest, in the morning, occasionally recurring by day.
 Sensation of heat in the chest.<sup>1</sup> [SCOTT.]
 Burning on the chest, when she eats the least morsel of salt food.

---

<sup>1</sup> Soon after ingestion.—Hughes.

920. Rush of blood toward the upper part of the chest.
 Much rush of blood toward the heart, attended with anguish.
 Ebullition of blood toward the heart and palpitation (1st d.).
 Ebullition of blood in the heart.
 Throbbing in the chest above the stomach, like palpitation, especially after walking fast; it is removed for some hours by drinking wine, but then it recurs.
925. Palpitation of the heart, now weaker, now stronger, especially after some exercise, with lassitude and anxiety, as if he should swoon
 Palpitation, in paroxysms, with anxiety, and causing oppression of the breathing for an hour.
 Violent palpitation, for some moments; with diarrhœa.
 Palpitation, in the evening in bed (aft. 3 d.).
 A slight emotion causes palpitation.
930. Quivering about the heart, in paroxysms.
 Contractive sensation in the cardiac region, which makes her anxious; this ceases as soon as there is a strong beat of the heart.
 External pain of the chest, especially when stooping.
 Soreness in the fold below the breasts.
 Itching spots, like freckles, externally on the chest.
935. Two small warts in the middle of the sternum.
Pain in the sacrum, as if stiff (12th d.). [R.]
 Pain in the sacrum, so that he cannot lie on his back, but must lie on the face.
 Severe pain in the sacrum, almost only when moving, so that he can hardly walk, it seems to be in the bone.
 Pressive pain in the sacrum.
940. Drawing pain in the sacrum, toward evening.
 Painful tension in the sacrum, so that he cannot breathe deeply.
 Shooting in the sacrum, when he coughs.
 Pulsation in the sacrum.
 Pain in the back, when he takes the slightest cold.
945. Pain between the scapulæ (aft. 2 or 3 d.).
 Stiffness in the spine.
 Pinching together in the fleshy part of the back, both at rest and in motion.
 Pinching between the scapulæ, as with pincers.
 Drawing pain in the back, in the evening.
950. Tearing and shooting, in the back and in the chest, when moving, especially at night.
 Violent, constant stitch in the dorsal vertebræ, when standing.
 A stitch, occasionally, between the scapulæ, always succeeded by eructation.
 Stitches between the scapulæ, and anteriorly in the chest, arresting the breathing more when stooping than when sitting still.
 Severe burning pain in the back.
955. Burning pain in the right lumbar region (the hepatic region?)

- on a spot as large as the hand; this makes him extremely ill-humored, sad and incapable to think and to work.
- Spasmodic jerks in the muscles of the back, during manual labor (aft. 12 d.).
- Intense itching in the back, and pain after scratching.
- Stiffness of the neck (aft. 24 h.).
- Tensive pain in the cervical muscles.
960. The neck is unable to support the head.
- Cracking of the cervical vertebræ.
- Itching in the nape.
- Perspiration in the nape.
- In the cervical muscles, drawing, as if something heavy was hanging on it.
965. Swelling of the glands on the right side of the neck; the neck and the tongue are somewhat stiff (aft. 20 d.). [Bth.]
- Swelling like a goitre, on the right side of the neck.
- Itching on the neck, when walking in the open air (aft. 24 h.).
- Intense itching under the arms.
- The right axillary gland is painfully sensitive, the whole forenoon (aft. 3 d.).
970. Glandular knot in the axilla.
- Painful swelling and inflammation of the axillary glands (aft. 14 d.). [Stapf.]
- Fetid, strong-smelling perspiration of the axillæ (aft. 4 d.).
- The top of the left shoulder is painful, as from a blow. [RL.]
- Pressure on the top of the right shoulder (2d d.).
975. Pressive pain on the top of the shoulder, as if she had carried something heavy.
- Stitches in the top of the left shoulder, when touching it, when breathing and when she feels cold; no stitch when moving the arm.
- The left arm-joints are painful.
- Pressure in the right arm (aft. 37 d.).
- Intense tension and contraction in the shoulders and arms; it drew his arms to his body.
980. Drawing in the arm and hand, as if sprained.
- Drawing pain in both arms.
- Drawing in the shafts of the bones of the arm.
- Tearing in the arm, especially when moving, it also disturbs the sleep.
- Hammering in the bones of the arm, as if they would be crushed.
985. Bruised pain of the right arm (aft. 4 d.)
- Sprained pain in the left arm; she cannot bring it forward or backward (aft. 18 d.).
- Dull, weary pain and resounding throbbing in the muscles of whole arm.
- The right arm goes to sleep, at night.
- Paralytic feeling in the right arm. [RL.]
990. After shaking the arm, it feels paralytic. [RL.]
- Lassitude of the arms, as after fever.

Jerking and drawing in the arms and fingers (aft. 3 d.).

The upper arm is painful, as if bruised; he cannot lift it from pain, and the hand becomes cold at the same time.

Twitching in the muscles of the upper arm, especially in the deltoid muscles, without pain, all the day.

995. Trembling in the muscles of the right upper arm.

The elbow-joint is painful, when stretching the arm.

Tearing in the elbow-joint and twitches radiating from the elbow to the wrist (aft. 4 h.).

Dull pain and stitches in the fore-arm, to the dorsum of the hands and of the fingers (1st d.). [Foissac.]

Bruised pain on the outer side of the fore-arm, when moving and when touching it.

1000. Dull pain and shooting in the fore-arm, extending to the dorsum of the hand and of the fingers.

In the fore-arm, paralytic drawing pain, almost all the day.

[Rl.]

Drawing, deep in the muscles of the fore-arm, extending along the bones (aft. 28 d.). [Bth.]

Tearing in the left fore-arm and in the hand, with pain when touched.

Sensation of heat in both the fore-arms.

1005. In the left wrist and the palm, heat.

Continual, constant trembling of the fore-arm and of the hand. [ANDRY, Vom Magnete, p. 164.]<sup>1</sup>

In the wrist, on the right side, a pressive pain.

Pinching pressive pain in the right wrist, during the afternoon-siesta.

Spasmodic pain in the hand, when seizing anything. [Rl.]

1010. Painful stiffness in the left palm, when seizing anything.

[Rl.]

Single visible twitches in the hands.

Drawing pain in the hands, toward evening. [Rl.]

Drawing in the right wrist, for several seconds (aft. sever.

h.). [Rl.]

Drawing in the hands (2d d.).

1015. Tearing in the left wrist-joint.

Tearing about the wrist.

Stitches in the right hand (12th d.). [Rl.]

Severe stitches in the left palm

Bruised pain in the wrist-joint.

1020. Very cold hands.

Very cold hands, with extreme peevishness.

The hand goes to sleep, in the morning, in bed.

The hand goes to sleep and becomes numb, as soon as he rests it on anything. [Rl.]

Trembling of the hands.

1025. Perspiring hands.

Hot sweat in the palms, while the face is hot and red.

Severe itching on the left hand.

<sup>1</sup> Not accessible.—Hughes.

- Itching on the hands, with chilblains and with swelling of the hands (at the end of April).
- Large blue lumps and spots on both hands, itching, chiefly at night.
1030. Eruption on the hands and between the fingers, with itching burning, ceasing on rubbing them.
The fingers pain, when they are moved, with tension of the metacarpal joints.
Frequent drawing pain of the extensor tendon of the index, anteriorly.
Paralytic drawing pain in the posterior joint of the thumb and of the hand, when going to sleep, and when awaking (aft. 2 d.).
Stitches in the middle finger-joints; he could not close his fingers without pain.
1035. Burning pain in the fingers of the left hand.
Bruised pain in the left little finger.
Severe tearing in the left little finger (aft. 1 h.).
Dying off of the fingers in the cold air.
All the fingers go to sleep, with a crawling sensation.
1040. Swelling of the fingers, in the morning on awaking.
Painful swelling of the one finger-joint.
Small, itching vesicles on the fourth finger, as from an incipient herpes.
A suppurating (eroding) blister on the tip of the thumb.
The nates are painful when touched, as if sore.
1045. The nates are painful (at night), when driving in a carriage.
Pain in the region of the right gluteal muscles. [Bth.]
The right hip-joint aches with pressive, tensive pain, when rising from a seat, and starting to walk, as if the head of the femur would be dislocated.
Drawing pain about the hips.
The child limps, and can only tread on the toes.
1050. Soreness, between the upper parts of the thighs, when walking.
Boil below the right hip-joint, with tensive pain.
Soreness on the upper part of the thigh, near the scrotum.
Itching, between the upper parts of the thighs.
The lower limbs feel heavy, and are painful chiefly when sitting.
1055. Pressive tension in both the lower limbs, from above downwards, in the evening.
Drawing pain in the right lower limb.
Drawing from the nates down into the foot.
Tearing in the bones of the lower limbs, so that she had to moan aloud.
Bruised pain in the lower limbs, as from excessive exhaustion.
1060. Bruised feeling and heaviness of the lower limbs.
Great heaviness of the lower limbs, so that he could only drag himself along with difficulty.
Paralytic pain in the left thigh and leg, recurring every few hours. [Rl.]
Lassitude in the lower limbs, merely when lying down, not when walking.

- Crawling in the lower limbs, from the hips to the toes, frequently, by day and by night.
1065. Sensation of heat, with lassitude in the joints of the lower limbs.
Violent burning itching on the right lower limb, without any eruption.
Coldness and sensation of coldness in the whole of the right lower limb (aft. 2 h.).
After a walk, weakness in the left thigh, with sensation, as if the blood stagnated in it.
On the head of the femur, shooting pain.
1070. On the thigh, a pressive pain, above the knee, below and within; this makes the limb weaker and stiffer (aft. 3 d.).
Spasmodic contraction in the middle of the thigh, and below the two calves; frequently by day, a tension as if the parts were drawn together with a bandage.
Drawing in the muscles of the thighs, as if something heavy hung on them.
Drawing in the thighs in the evening, and itching in the skin there.
Drawing and tearing in the thigh, from the knee up, on sitting down; relieved by sitting.
1075. Tearing in the thigh, upward from the knee, when walking.
Beating and throbbing in the thighs; as if they were festering within; they do not bear the slightest touch, and are at one time hot, and then again cold.
Bruised feeling in the left thigh.
Bruised pain on the lower part of the thigh, on stepping forward.
Bruised pain in both thighs, as if fractured (aft. 6 h.).
1080. Pricking in the thighs.
Itching on the thighs; she had to scratch till they bled.
Intense itching on the outer side of the thigh, at night in bed; it soon returned after scratching.
A dry tetter on the outer side of the thigh, painful when touched. [Rl.]
Boil on the thigh. [Rl.]
1085. The hough is very tense and, as it were, constricted, all the afternoon (aft. 72 h.).
Pain in the left patella, so that he can hardly tread, and can not walk at all (aft. 11 d.).
Painful stiffness in the hough, so that he has to limp when he begins to walk. [Rl.]
Stiffness of the right knee. [Rl.]
Tensive pain in the knee, when moving.
1090. Straining in the hough, as if the tendons were too short. [Rl.]
Painful contraction in the knee.
Violent drawing in the knees, terminating in a twitch.
Tearing in the knee, extending into the hip, at night in bed, after much walking.
Shooting pain in the knee, when standing.
1095. Stitches in the hough, at night.

- Shooting pain on the outer side of the knee, when walking.
 Sprained pain of the knee, especially when going down-stairs.
 Sprained pain and as if bruised, in the patella, when walking, especially when going down-stairs; when walking on a level, the pain is gradually diminished, and may also cease for a time; it is also painful when strongly bent, and the knee cracks.
 The knees give way in walking, so that sometimes he could not get along.
1100. Feeling of swelling in the houghs, when walking in the open air.
 Cold knees (14th d.).
 In the leg, momentarily a sharp pain, running down from the knee to the tips of the toes, by day and by night.
 Cramp-pain of the whole of the lower part of the leg, constant, in the muscles and tendons, and also painful when touched.
 Cramp in the calf, toward morning.
1105. Violent cramp in the calves, at night.
 Severe cramp in the calf, on drawing up the leg.
 Severe cramp in the calf on stretching the foot, e. g., when drawing on a boot.
 Drawing in the middle of the calf, both at rest and in motion, at times passing in spasmodic, rapid twitching, in frequent paroxysms, for two hours (at once).
 Drawing in the legs, extending into the knees.
1110. Paralytic drawing on the bones of the leg. [RL.]
 Paralytic pain in the whole leg, with such heaviness and lassitude that he did not know where to lay it; only while at rest, not when walking.
 Great lassitude and weariness on the lower part of the leg, after walking only a little.
 Sensation of heat in the legs, which yet feel cold to the touch.
 The feet are painful; he can bear no shoes on them.
1115. Pain in the periosteum of the os calcis (6th d.).
 Drawing in the feet, extending to the knees.
 Drawing pain in the feet, when walking.
 Drawing in the upper part of the right metatarsus (aft. 9 h.).
 Drawing pain, extending from the ball of the foot to the heel, with sensation of weakness.
1120. Tearing in the right foot, in the morning.
 Tearing in the left foot.
 Tearing in the right metatarsus (aft. 11 h.). [Th. Mo.]
 Tearing and shooting pain in the right foot.
 Stitches in the ankles.
1125. Single stitches in the right foot (10th d.). [RL.]
 Sprained pain in the ankle-joints, in the morning on rising.
 Heaviness in the ankles, extending through the feet, when walking and treading, as if they had been pressed together.
Sudden giving way of the ankle-joint in walking.
 Severe swelling of the feet, after walking in the open air.
1130. Burning above the ankles.
 Burning of the feet.

Itching on the feet.

Icy cold feet and lower limbs, toward noon.

Constant coldness of the feet, extending to the calves, by day.

1135. Sweating of the left foot (6th d.).

Profuse sweat of the soles of the feet, causing soreness of the toes and of the balls of the feet, with stinging pain, as if he was walking on pins.

Sweating of the feet, also cold sweat.

It restores the suppressed sweat of the feet (in the after-effects).

The toes, soles of the feet and corns are painfully sensitive, as if inflamed.

1140. Pain in the ball of the little toe, when walking.

Violent stitches in the right big toe, and in the sole of the foot, which keep her for a long time from sleeping.

Pain under the nail of the big toe. [Rl.]

Violent burning under the nail of the big toe, in the evening in bed.

Intense crawling and itching in the big toe, in the evening.

1145. Redness, inflammation and swelling of one toe, with burning pain; after the foot got wet.

Redness and heat of the big toe and its ball, with shooting pain in it, as if it had been frozen.

Chilblains on the big toes.

Eroding blisters on the toes.

A corn, with burning pain, forms on the middle left toe.

1150. The corns begin to be painful.

Eroding pain in the corns.

Aching in all the limbs, seemingly in the bones.

Pain in the arthritic nodes, which hitherto had been painless.

Spasmodic stiffness of the back and the whole body.

1155. Stiffness in the lower limbs.

Tension in the arms and in the lower limbs.

Sensation of tension in the head and the whole body.

Pain as from rigor in the left arm and lower limb.

General tension of the nerves, with much thirst.

1160. Drawing in all the limbs, making it comfortable to extend and stretch them.

Drawing pain in the periosteum of all the bones, as before ague.

Drawing and tearing in the whole of the body.

Drawing upward from the foot, extending into the back, when moving.

Drawing and burning in the limbs.

1165. Frequent drawing pains in almost all parts of the body, quickly coming and quickly ceasing.

Pressive drawing pain around the joints of the houghs, the malleoli, etc. [Rl.]

Twitching on all parts of the body.

Twitching and stretching of the limbs awake him twice from his noon-siesta.

- Twitching and tearing in the joints.
1170. Much muscular twitching; also quivering of the eyelids.
 Burning in the joints.
 After walking, the joints are painful, as if luxated.
 Great sensitiveness in the morning in the joints, without any definite pain.
 Cracking in all the joints, when moving.
1175. Sensation of weariness in all the joints, as from running.
Stitches in all parts of the body, now here, now there.
 Stitches through the whole of the body.
 Ebullition in the blood, and lassitude in the limbs.
 Sensible throbbing of the blood-vessels in the upper part of the body.
1180. Readily heated, in warm weather, and after slight exertion.
 Slight exercise causes palpitation and perspiration.
 Soon after dinner, every exertion heats and causes palpitation.
He is very liable to catch cold.
 He becomes very liable to catch cold, which he was not before.
1185. Tendency to perspire and to catch cold.
 He readily catches cold on the weak part in the evening, in a cold wind, and gets drawing pains from it.
 Sensitiveness of the whole body to the open air.
 Very sensitive to cold winds, and very chilly, for a long time.
 Liable to catch cold, causing pain in the back.
1190. While walking in the open air, perspiration, then headache and nausea.
 When walking in the open air, short but violent headache.
 When walking in the open air, tearing shooting in the scapula, on which he cannot lie at night.
 When walking in the open air, severe pressure above the stomach and scrobiculus cordis.
 When walking in the open air, pain in the left scapula and the renal region.
1195. After a walk, the feet remain cold, while there is heat in the head.
 Most of the ailments disappear on riding in a carriage.
 The ailments are aggravated toward evening, especially the drawing pain felt here and there. [Rl.]
 The pains, even the slighter ones, affect him excessively, so that he is quite beside himself.
 Itching all over the back (aft. 7 d.).
1200. Itching all over the body.
 Severe itching all over the body, without eruption.
 Intense itching in the houghs, and the bend of the elbows.
 Intense itching on the tip of the elbow, on the patella and on the dorsum of the foot.
 On scratching the itching parts, they bleed.
1205. Itching stitches all over the body, and after scratching, large wheals.
 Eruption of pimples. [BLAIR.]
Frequent furuncles, especially large ones, on the scapula, the nape, the nates, the thighs and the legs.

- A spot, which is rubbed open, does not heal, but suppurates.
 [R.]
 Shooting pain in an ulcer, especially the first days.
1210. In the ulcer and around it, transient stitches, but still more burning, as from nettles.
 Profuse bleeding of an ulcer when being dressed (aft. 6 d.).
 The bloody ichor of the ulcer erodes the skin, with smarting pain wheresoever it flows.
 Dark freckles.
 Little warts form on the neck.
1215. A large wart eight years old (on the upper lip) begins to pain as if eroded; it bleeds when washed and pains when touched.
 Itching in the warts.
Shooting and pecking in the wart.
 Swelling of the hands and feet. [Hg.]
 Extreme emaciation. [RITTER.]
1220. Emaciation of the whole body, but especially of the upper arms and the thighs.
 She becomes emaciated (aft. sever. d.).
 Feels ill in the whole body.
 Prostration of the body, but not of the head, as after a severe illness.
 Ill feeling all over the body, with weakness in the joints and heat in the head.
1225. All the day, sensation of faintness.
 Frequently, a slight tremor all through the body.
 Tremulousness in the evening and great lassitude, as after severe hardships (aft. 36 h.). [R.]
 Tremulous, sensitive and weakly all over the body.
 Trembling all over.<sup>1</sup> [BLAIR.]
1230. Great weariness and indolence, as if altogether bruised and exhausted, when sitting and walking.
 Sensation in all the muscles, as when recovering from great fatigue. [Stapf.]
 Awkward (aft. 24 h.).
 Heaviness of the head and lower limbs.
 Sensation of heaviness of the limbs in the joints, as from weariness, in the morning in bed, while entirely at rest.
1235. Heaviness of the body, while walking in the open air, so that he can hardly drag himself along.
 Dislike to walking.
 Weakness and bruised feeling in all the joints, as after severe hardships.
 She feels bruised in all her limbs, could scarcely move her arms and legs.
 Very much exhausted, in the morning after rising, 10 a. m.
1240. Sensation of paralysis in all the joints.
 Weakness in all the joints.
 Trembling and weakness in all the joints.
 The hands and limbs, when in a false position or when pressed

---

<sup>1</sup> Ascribed to acid being too little diluted.—Hughes.

upon, feel weary and paralyzed, as if the circulation was checked by a bandage (12th d.). [Rl.]

Very tired in the feet, and dejected.

1245. Very tired, toward noon.

Great lassitude in the afternoon, it passes off in the evening.

Lassitude, so that her whole body trembles.

Lack of tone of spirit and body.

So weak that he had to lie down nearly all the time.

[Also Hg.]

1250. The lassitude is worst in the evening, especially in the lower limbs.

Fits of faintness from slight exertions.

Faintness like syncope, every other morning, with anxiety.

Attack of headache in the afternoon, for several days in succession, then nausea and anxiety; at night, vomiting with syncope and diarrhœa.

Attacks twice a day, first drawing in the back, like a griping in the sides below the ribs, extending into the pit of the stomach, where it turns around and passes off with eructation.

1255. Epileptic fit, first a drawing in the left side of the chest, then a convulsive drawing in the arms to and fro, for one minute while sitting, with almost entire consciousness (aft. 12 d.).

Epileptic attack, after midnight, sensation in the left side as of a mouse, moving up and down, then he lost his consciousness, his arms twitched, his head and mouth were drawn forward and backward, so that he bit his tongue, then he became quite stiff and snored.

Attack of headache in the morning on awaking, with nausea and a sensation as if all parts in the mouth were numb and had gone to sleep.

Intense weariness in the evening, and nausea; then violent yawning (10th d.).

In the morning, after rising, for several hours, very much inclined to go to sleep again.

1260. Frequent yawning.

Drowsiness by day (aft. 4, 22 h.).

Drowsy and tired, all day (aft. 32d.). [Bth.]

Much drowsiness in the afternoon (8th d.).

Somnolence by day.

1265. Dizzy drowsiness, so that he had almost gone to sleep while walking and standing, with drawing pain in the skin on the inner side of the thigh.

In the evening, sleepy and chilly. [Rl.]

He could not go to sleep for several nights and his sleep was a mere slumber.

His sleep at night is only a half-sleep; in the morning he felt as if he had not slept at all.

She could not get to sleep at all for 8 nights.

1270. He cannot get to sleep before 1 o'clock at night.

She could not get to sleep for three nights, from being too much excited (1st n.).

He wakes up at 4 in the morning, and remains wide awake.

He wakes up too early in the night and cannot fall asleep again.

He wakes up every night at 2 o'clock, and cannot go to sleep again, without having any ailment.

1275. She wakes up in the night at 1 o'clock, and cannot go to sleep again, without any ailment, except some perspiration on the left side of the head and neck.

She wakes up at night, almost every half hour (2d n.).

He wakes up some 8 or 10 times every night.

Sleeplessness, at night, and restlessness until 4 A. M., then sleep with anxious dreams.

He often wakes up at night, and cannot then go to sleep for a long time.

1280. Frequent awaking at night, and turning over from one side to another.

Unrefreshing, restless sleep.

Restless sleep, he is late in falling asleep, he awakes repeatedly and dreams much and frightfully.

At night, she several times jumps out of bed in the deepest sleep, wide awake, owing to an imaginary dreadful occurrence, she walks about and only then realizes that it was a delusion.

At night, she talks in her sleep, with her hands extended over her head, and snores.

1285. At night, uneasy awaking with anguish.

At night, he wakes up two or three times with headache and cannot then go to sleep again for one or two hours.

At night, bleeding at the nose.

At night in sleep, or half asleep, the head feels heavy and oppressed.

At midnight, drawing and shooting toothache, with some swelling of the gums.

1290. At night, awaking to drink and to urinate.

At night, thirst (aft. 13 d.).

At night, occasionally, much thirst.

In the first half of the night, violent eructation and cramp of the stomach.

At night, severe pressure in the stomach.

1295. At night, she wakes up with stomachache (aft. 50. h.).

In the morning, on awaking, pressure in the stomach and back.

At night, restlessness in the abdomen, and frequent awaking.

At night, in sleep, stomachache, ceasing on awaking.

At night, restlessness and anguish in the abdomen, with heat in the head and on the hands.

1300. At night, colic and uneasy sleep.

At night, cramps in the abdomen.

At night, on awaking, and in the morning, much burning in the rectum.

At night, insomnia, owing to cold feet.

At night, the soles of the feet are icy cold, preventing him from sleeping.

1305. In the evening, after lying down, a violent stitch in the right breast.
 In half-sleep, he feels pains, which he does not clearly remember when he awakes. [R.]
 At night, sleep interrupted by oppression of breath.
 After 3 A. M., he awakes with lively beating and of the heart, and pulsations below the clavicle, without anguish.
 At night, he awakes with anguish, he has to cough, and if he does not get something to drink, he must vomit.
1310. Before midnight, in sleep, dry cough.
 At night, shooting and pinching pains, now below the chest, now in the back.
 At night, stitches about the heart, heat and thirst.
 After midnight, spasmodic pains in the chest, and over against it in the spine, aggravated by inspiring.
 At night, in bed, twitching in the left lower limb.
1315. In the evening, in bed, the legs feel numb and dead, then cramp in them, chiefly in the calves, finally shooting and pricking in the heels.
 At night, especially, tearing in the lower limbs.
 At night, violent shooting in the right thigh.
 Only at night, weariness in the feet; none by day, not even from the longest walk.
 At night, rush of blood to the chest and heart.
1320. At night, shortly after going to sleep, nightmare.
 Immediately after going to sleep, anxious oppression as from a nightmare, as if some one was lying under him, and seized him around the abdomen with the arms, so that he could not tear himself loose.
 In strange, lascivious dreams, a sort of nightmare with sweat.
 At night, when awaking, and in the morning, oppressed breathing and anxiety.
 At night, he awakes with apprehension (aft. 5 d.).
1325. For a moment after awaking, he is full of fear.
 At night, heavy unrefreshing sleep, from which he can hardly and only with anxious efforts rouse himself.
 In the morning on awaking, quivering all through the body.
 In the morning on awaking, internal restlessness, especially in the arms.
 At night in bed, anguish, like palpitation with nausea, without inclination to vomit, as if she had done something wicked; she could not stay in bed; with her hand she did not feel any palpitation; it lasted two hours.
1330. At night, much delirious talk.
 Every night, raving instead of sleeping.
 At night, raving dreams of banqueting and reveling.
 In the evening in bed, all manner of forms appeared to him, which walked, ran, disappeared, arose and became larger and smaller; with this a chill.
 Very vivid, fanciful dreams about the daily occurrences; in the morning; then very weary.
1335. On going to sleep, starting up as from terror.

- Starting up in sleep and twitching of the limbs (aft. 20 d.).
 During the noon-siesta, when sitting, starting up as from an electric shock.
- At night, when lying on his back, he starts up and feels a stitch in the right side of his chest.
- Frequent anxious awaking from a restless sleep.
1340. Distressing dreams, and violent starting up.
 Very anxious dreams at night, for many nights.
 Anxious dream at night, as if he should die.
 Anxious dreams at night, so that, when she wakes up, all her pulses are throbbing.
- Anxiety at night.
1345. Anxious sleep, with moaning.
 Anxious, vivid, sad dreams.
Anxious dreams, and screaming in sleep.
 Disagreeable dreams and a half-waking at night. [Rl.]
 Dreams of crimes, which he commits.
1350. Dreams about corpses.
 Frightful dreams.
 Dreadful dreams.
 Horrible dream, first a cheerful dream.
 Vexatious dream, in an uneasy morning sleep. [Rl.]
1355. Annoying dream the whole night, which also after waking up is continued in his second sleep.
 At night, little sleep with much yawning; she could not get warm before midnight.
 Coldness of the skin on the whole body, at night.
Chill in the evening, before going to bed and when lying down, all over the body, for a quarter of an hour.
 Chilliness of the whole body, while the feet are warm (aft. 2 d.).
1360. Coldness of the hands and feet (aft. 2 d.).
 Coldness of the skin on the whole body.
 Sensation of coolness on the body and head, without any cause, for two hours.
Chilliness, especially in the evening.
 Chill in the afternoon, without subsequent heat; he felt stolid all day.
1365. Chilliness in the evening, on moving in bed.
 Chilliness.
 Febrile rigor, even in the warm room.
 Chill and shuddering, as from goose-skin, with horripilation.
 Repeated shuddering, especially in the forenoon.
1370. Constant internal chill, in the evening, with external warmth of the body, which he does not perceive (he presses near to the stove), and a headache, as if the head was tightly bandaged.
 Violent fever with chill, especially in the back; he cannot get warm; and yet has internal heat. [Bth.]
 Chilliness even in the morning in bed, and the whole day; only in the afternoon, he has heat in the face.
 Chills and shaking in the evening, then flying heat with dryness in the throat.

- Chilliness in the evening in bed, from bed-time till midnight (in August); then dry heat on the lower limbs, head and body.
1375. In feverish alternation, cold hands and heat in the head.
 Febrile rigor in the afternoon, for an hour; then heat all over, for a quarter of an hour; then for two hours a general sweat; no thirst either during the chill or the heat (aft. 4 d.).
 Quotidian fever, after (taking cold from) long driving through a violent wind, chill for three hours, then heat for six hours, with profuse sweat (aft. 36 d.).
 Febrile rigor in the afternoon, in the open air, for an hour and a half; then in the bed dry heat, with half-awake delirium, without sleep; only toward morning, sweat and sleep.
 First a dry heat, then a severe chill, in the morning in bed.
1380. Febrile heat, with quick pulse.
 Great heat in the face, in the evening, with icy cold hands, without thirst (aft. 3 d.).
 Transient heat in the cheeks, with thirst, and in the evening that follows, great drowsiness.
 Heat in the face, and coldness on the rest of the body.
 Heat in face, in the morning, on awaking, and tendency to perspire.
1385. Flushes of heat toward evening, all over, and quickly passing sweat.
 Heat and thirst, with scanty and turbid urine.
 Internal dry heat, with thirst and feverish lassitude.
 Heat in the eyes, pain in the sacrum, and great anxiety.
 Flying heat, occasionally (Stapf).
1390. Flushes of transient heat, with moistness of the hands, repeatedly during the day.
 Flying heat and nausea, in the evening, before going to sleep.
 Frequent flushes of heat, during the day.
 Flying heat on the cheeks, without thirst (aft. 30 h.).
 Dry heat on the whole body (aft. 5 d.).
1395. Increased, constant warmth of the body, by day and by night, as after spirituous liquors, with increased inclination to perspire.
 Constant sensation of heat in the whole body, without thirst; she can bear but little cover day and night, and must have a cool room.
 Cannot bear the room as warm as usual.
 The room which was not warm, seemed to her too hot. [RL.]
1400. Heat in the evening, especially on the feet.
 Heat in the face, in the evening. [RL.]
 Heat on the skin. [RL.]
Heat frequently in the face and the hands, with much lassitude in the limbs.
 Dry heat at night (aft. 8 d.).
 Great heat at night and sleeplessness.
1405. At night, much heat, especially in the thighs.
At night, sensation of heat in the blood, especially in the hands; she could sleep but little on that account.
Heat all over the body awakes her frequently at night, without sweat, with intense thirst, from dryness deep down in the throat; she must often turn over in bed; the thirst lasted for 20 hours.

Unequal pulse; after one regular beat, there followed two small beats in quick succession; the fourth was omitted entirely.

Sweat, with cold hands and blue finger-nails.

1410. Morning-sweat.

Nightly slight perspiration.

Night-Sweat, profuse every other night.

Night-sweat, every night.

Night-sweat, twenty days in succession (aft. 10 d.).

1415. Night-sweat, while he wakes up in the midst of it, with agreeable ideas.

Night-sweat, chiefly on the feet.

Night-sweat, on the chest.

Night-sweat, only on those parts on which she is lying.

Night-sweat in bed, as soon as he covers himself.

1420. Night-sweat in sleep.

Ill-smelling sweat, for several nights.

More and ill-smelling sweat, during bodily work.

Sour, very ill-smelling sweat, like the urine of horses.

Sourish night-sweat, for several nights.

NITRUM, NITRATE OF POTASH, SALT-PETRE.

[The dry, so-called purified nitre of commerce is dissolved in six parts of hot water and is then allowed to crystallize at a low degree of temperature. These crystals are best for homœopathic use, as they are almost absolutely free from the common cooking salt. They are dynamized like other dry medicinal substances.]

With physicians of the old school next to the (still raging) withdrawal of blood, Nitre has been the chief remedy by which an increased circulation and inflammatory fevers might be diminished. They relied on this, their chief anti-phlogistic remedy, to allay the fevers. They knew of hardly any other use for nitre in diseases. Nitre, however, when used internally, shows its great power of causing chilliness and cold, only in its primary effects, and as they did not think of applying the morbid symptoms, which are produced by medicines on healthy men, to the similar symptoms in natural diseases (in a homœopathic manner), and to heal them according to the only true natural law of cure, they could only do harm with their palliative use of nitre. Since it is their practice to give their medicines (and so also nitre) in large doses, they could, by the use of this salt in inflammatory fevers, only cause a sinking of strength and long-continued fevers from debilitation, also called nervous fevers. These fevers, as the experience of many centuries teaches, have frequently caused death.

Homœopathy teaches us quite a different and opposite application, flowing from the peculiar and pure effects of medicines and so also of nitre on healthy man; the subjoined symptoms are only a beginning in this direction, and they are in a high degree worthy of a further elaboration.

Nitre has proved itself useful hitherto, where among others, the following symptoms were present:

Lack of appetite with thirst; most violent cramp in the stomach; obstruction of flatus in the afternoon; diarrhœa without pains in the abdomen; cough in the open air, and on going up-stairs; cough, whenever the breath is held; coughing up of blood; asthma, he cannot lie with his head in a low position; stitches in the chest, when taking a deep breath; stitches in the scapula; exhausting sweats; quotidian fevers, with drawing pain in the lower limbs.

Dr. Schrëter found the ethereal sweet spirits of nitre a means for alleviating the excessive effects of nitre, especially the headache caused by it; camphor only aggravated the symptoms.

The abbreviations of the names of my fellow-observers are: Ng., the anonymous observer in Hartlaub and Trinks' Reine Arzneimittelehre; Sr., Dr. Schrëter; T., M. Pr. Tietze.<sup>1</sup>

NITRUM.

- Frequent anxiety, in the afternoon (aft. 20 d.). [Sr.]
 Anxious, with perspiration all over the body. [Ng.]
 Anxious, weary, with perspiration in the scrobiculus cordis, in the afternoon till evening (30th d.). [Ng.]
 Ennui, inclination to weep, melancholy appearance. [Ng.]
 5. Meditative and solicitous.
 Despondency; she thinks she will have to die. [Ng.]
 Peevishness (1st d.).<sup>2</sup> [JOERG, Mater. z. e. K. Arzneimittelehre.]
 Peevish, ill-humored, out of sorts. [Sr.]
 Restless, apprehensive, timid, sensitive, peevish. [Sr.]
 10. Dull in the head and drowsy (9th d.). [Ng.]
 Indisposed to think and out of sorts, in the morning, with sensation of warmth in the face and a hot forehead. [T.]
 Stupefied and heavy in the head, in the morning, as after a spree. [Sr.]
 Dizzy in the head, in the morning, as after intoxication. [Ng.]

<sup>1</sup>The pathogenesis of Nitrum appears in the second edition for the first time. It is chiefly made up (beyond the symptoms from authors) of the contributions of the three associates above named, which originally appeared (without information) in Hartlaub and Trinks' Arzneimittelehre, and in Annalen and in Vol. XI. of the Archiv.—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup>Provings on healthy persons with substantial doses.—Hughes.

- Dizzy, with a numb feeling in the head, awkward in thinking, forgets everything right away. [T.]
15. Vertigo, and fatigue of the head (at once). [JOERG.]
 Vertigo and liability to feel numb in the head. [JOERG.]
 Staggering, while walking, without vertigo. [Ng.]
 Headache in the morning, as from reveling at night. [T.]
 Feeling of heaviness in the head (aft. 2 h.). [T.]
20. Feeling of heaviness and headache anteriorly in the forehead (1st d.). [Ng.]
 Feeling of heaviness and numbness in the forehead for two hours. [Ng.]
 Constant heaviness and pain over the whole head (1st, 2d d.). [JOERG.]
 Numb feeling and beating in the forehead (9th d.). [Ng.]
 Headache in the left temple and the frontal region, with reeling, sensation of vertigo, tottering and sweating anxiety. [Ng.]
25. Bruised pain and great sensitiveness on the crown (2d d.). [Ng.]
 Headache after dinner (21st d.). [Ng.]
 Headache in the crown, only in the morning, on rising, for five days. [Ng.]
 Headache, preventing sleep, the whole night, even continuing in the morning (aft. 40 d.). [Ng.]
 Headache above the eyebrows, after eating moderately of veal. [JOERG.]
30. Headache, on awaking; fullness in the abdomen, diarrhoea with chilliness. [Ng.]
 Pressure in the sinciput, the whole day, as if her eyes would leap out, and as if little stones lay all around them. [Sr.]
 Intense pressive pain, deep in the head, behind the left eye (aft. 10 h.). [T.]
 Pressive pain in the right temple. [T.]
 Pressure on the crown, as if a stone lay upon it (7th d.). [Sr.]
35. Pressure on the crown, aggravated by laying the hand upon it (3d d.). [Sr.]
 Violent pressing together in the occiput, so that everything becomes stiff; then pain in the nape, like pulling by the hair, extending to the shoulders, and with tension and stitches over the face and neck, with prevention of deglutition, anxiety, and interruption of the breath, from 11 A. M. to 4 P. M. (3d, 4th d.). [Sr.]
 On bending down the head, the headache became almost unbearable. [Sr.]
 She could not eat for headache (27th d.). [Sr.]
 Her eyelids are drawn shut during the headache. [Sr.]
40. The headache in the occiput is relieved by tying up her hair. [Sr.]
 Headache and throat-ache last from the evening all through the night, and the day following; especially the left side is affected. [Sr.]
 Pressive pain toward the occiput, which gradually changes into shooting, increased by touching, also appearing when at rest, as a rhythmic shooting. [T.]

Pressure and sensation of heaviness in the occiput, repeatedly (13th d.). [Ng.]

Pressive headache in the evening (14th d.). [T.]

45. Pressive headache, especially in the afternoon (12th d.). [J.]

Tearing pressure in the right side of the forehead, behind the eye, toward the occiput, worse after coffee; as also when walking, when it shoots rhythmically; diminished when riding (in the open air). [T.]

Tensive pain in the depth of the head, after dinner. [T.]

Pain in the head as if it were being distended, with stitches in the left ear and the clavicles, whence the pain passed into the elbows (22d d.). [Sr.]

Contractive pain in the forehead and the eyes, which joins together in the tip of the nose, and here it grasps and gripes. [Sr.]

50. Contractive pain in the crown, for two hours. [Ng.]

Contractive pain in the crown with heaviness in the head, in the afternoon and the following night (aft. 6 d.). [Ng.]

Drawing and tearing in the occiput, so that she could not move the head, with stiffness in the nape, for an hour; then for two hours, drawing and tearing in the scapulæ, with great lassitude; she could hardly move her feet; at the same time, coldness, without thirst; by night, heat without thirst, and without following sweat (6th d.). [Sr.]

Tearing in the right temple, from evening till morning, somewhat relieved by pressure (aft. 30 d.). [Ng.]

Tearing in the left temple, from time to time (8th d.). [Sr.]

55. Shooting and pressing apart in the left side of the forehead, when stooping. [T.]

Shooting pains in rhythmical paroxysms, worst when walking, in the forehead behind the eyes; when at rest, only single stitches with long intermissions, all the afternoon and evening. [T.]

Fine shooting in the left temple, immediately after dinner (15th d.). [Ng.]

Single stitches on the left side of the crown. [T.]

Violent stitch in the left side of the occiput, during the menses (aft. 29 d.). [Ng.]

60. Sensation of looseness and shooting pains in the brain. [Ng.]

Hacking and shooting in the head, with pressure about the eyes and drowsiness, with increase of the pains. [Sr.]

Headache on the crown, like pulling the hair. [Ng.]

Pain on a spot to the right of the vertex, like the contraction of the integuments of the head, in the morning after rising. [Ng.]

Twitching pain in the occiput, seemingly in the bone, and after three-fourths of an hour, also in the hip-bone, where it only disappears after a few hours, and finally alternated with a tensive pain behind the right ear, which lasted the whole night. [T.]

65. Burning throbbing on the left side of the occiput, in the evening in bed. [Ng.]

- Rush of blood to the head (aft. 20 min.). [JOERG.]
 Great sensitiveness of the crown, when touched. [Ng.]
 Great sensitiveness of the external scalp, it pains when pressed upon (aft. 5 d.). [Sr.]
 Her hair falls out rapidly (aft. 30 d.). [Ng.]
70. Small scabby spots on the hairy scalp, with itching (aft. 28 d.). [Ng.]
 Many pimples on the nape and the occiput, disappearing again the following day (aft. 30 d.).
 Pressive pain in the eyes, as if sand or dust had gotten into them, the whole forenoon (aft. 16 d.). [Ng.]
 Pressure in the left eye, under the upper lid, as from a hair. [Sr.]
 Intense itching on both the upper borders of the orbits, frequently (4th d.). [Ng.]
75. Itching in the right eye, and constant acrid tears, which roll down.
 Burning smarting especially in the left eye, as from brine (28th d.). [Ng.]
 Burning smarting in the lids of the right eye; he must rub them. [T.]
 Burning of the eyes, which do not bear the light (aft. 17 d.). [Ng.]
 Intense burning of the eyes, with redness in the canthi, for three days. [Ng.]
80. Intense burning of the eyes, in the morning, after rising, but disappearing after washing (4th d.). [Ng.]
 Burning of the eyes, and weakness as from drowsiness (6th d.). [Ng.]
 Burning in the outer canthi (3d d.). [Ng.]
 Violent burning and lachrymation of the eyes in the morning, after washing with cold water. [Ng.]
 Burning and lachrymation of the eyes, in the morning (22d d.). [Ng.]
85. Water flows continually involuntarily from the right eye.
 Constant tearing in the inner canthi. [Ng.]
 Agglutination of the right eye with mucus, in the morning (15th d.). [Ng.]
 Agglutination of both eyes, in the morning (19th d.). [Ng.]
 Colored variegated rings before the eyes, with good visual power, for two days. [Sr.]
90. Rainbow-colored halo about the candle, in the evening. [JOERG.]
 Transient blindness.<sup>1</sup> [GEISELER, in Hufel. Journ. LVII., 1, 126.]
 After taking nitre, the smell of camphor made things appear black before her eyes, so that she did not see anything. [Sr.]
 Pain in the ear, a tension in the right meatus auditorius. [Ng.]
 Tearing in the right meatus auditorius (7th d.). [T.]

<sup>1</sup> Effects of an ounce dose.—Hughes.

95. Shooting pain in the right ear, so that she could not lie on it by night (34th d.). [Sr.]
 Dull shooting pain in the right ear. [T.]
 Stitch in the right ear, then straining therein. [Ng.]
 Shooting in the ear, with headache (35th d.). [Sr.]
 Ringing before the ears (at once). [JOERG.]
100. Ringing of the ears (37th d.). [Ng.]
 Clear sounding ringing of bells in the left ear. [Ng.]
 Constant deafness. [GEISELER.]
 Violent itching in the external meatus auditorius (15th d.). [Ng.]
 Inflammation and swelling of the right lobule, with violent burning and twitching, so he has to scratch, with heat and redness of the lobule. [T.]
105. Tensive pain behind the right ear, the whole day, with shooting behind the left ear, with the decrease of the pain. [T.]
 Tearing behind the ears, for two hours (14th d.). [T.]
 Violent stitches behind the left ear, toward the articulation of the jaw. [T.]
 Shooting behind the right ear, seemingly deep in the head. [T.]
 In the right nostril, sensation of swelling; it pains when pressed upon [Ng.]
110. Sore pain of the right nostril, in the upper part, with sensitiveness to external pressure. [Ng.]
 Burning in the right nostril, as if excoriated, when blowing the nose (4th d.). [Ng.]
 An ulcer deep in the right nostril, after a few days it is covered with a scab (aft. 9 d.). [Ng.]
 Bleeding from the scurf on the tip of the nose; next day epistaxis, but no relief from it in the head. [Sr.]
 Bleeding from the nose, thrice in a week; the blood was sharp like vinegar (aft. 20 d.). [Sr.]
115. Bleeding in the nose, in the afternoon (aft. 20 d.). [Ng.]
 Blood from the left nostril, when blowing the nose. [Ng.]
 Coagulated blood or small pellets of blood come from the nose, when blowing it (aft. 17 d.). [Ng.]
 Itching on the right side of the nose, and later, fine shooting on its tip, toward evening (5th d.). [Sr.]
 Itching and tingling on the tip of the nose (22d d.). [Sr.]
120. Tensively paining pustule on the left side of the nose. [Ng.]
 Gripping and burning about the wings of the nose. [Sr.]
 Pain of the tip of the nose, as if a pustule was forming there (6th d.). [Sr.]
 Burning of the nose round about, with burrowing and gripping, increased by touching it, with swelling of the right nostril, as if there was an eruption in it, and with lack of air in it. [Sr.]
 Pain of the nasal bones, chiefly when the nose is seized.
125. The skin of the nose is red, as if inflamed.
 Inflamed tip of the nose (37th d.). [Sr.]
 In the face there is tensive pain in the cheeks, with redness of the same, with increased beating in the head, seemingly in the middle of the brain. [T.]

Tearing in the zygomatic processes. [T.]

Painful tearing in the bones on the left side of the face.

[Ng.]

130. Tearing, first on the right side of the chin, then below the right external malleolus, when sitting. [Ng.]

Shooting on the left cheek, as from needle-pricks, and then burning (38th d.). [Sr.]

Gnawing pain in the left upper jaw, close to the wing of the nose (5th d.). [Ng.]

Twitching pain in the right zygoma, at night. [T.]

Twitching intermittent pain in the zygoma, toward the crown, all the day, at times also in the wrist-joint. [T.]

135. Twitching pain in the upper jaw and the zygomatic processes. [T.]

Paleness of the face, as after a long illness (aft. 30 d.).

[Ng.]

Pale, sickly appearance. [Ng.]

Frequent intense itching in the face.

An elevation, like a wart, on the left cheek becomes larger and itches. [Ng.]

140. On the upper lip, blisters with inflamed circumference and tensive pain (aft. 16 h.). [Ng.]

In the articulation of the jaw on the right side, pressure and dull shooting, when moving and swallowing (5th d.). [T.]

Tearing in the left lower jaw, extending into the head, and with toothache of the left row of teeth, relieved by pressure and lying upon it, in the evening in bed. [Ng.]

Toothache, drawing and shooting, now on the right side, now on the left, in the upper molars, in the open air, as well as in the room. [T.]

Twitching toothache in the left upper row, like as from an ulcer. [Ng.]

145. Frequent twitching in an upper molar. [Ng.]

Tearing toothache, with tearing in the head, from morning till evening. [Sr.]

Violent tearing in a left upper tooth. [Ng.]

Shooting tearing in the upper front teeth, in the open air; in the evening and the next morning (aft. 39 d.). [Ng.]

Stitches in a hollow tooth, when touching it; the gums are inflamed, swollen, red, painful, bleeding readily (aft. 20 d.). [Sr.]

150. Boring toothache, with pressing in the head, and now heat, now cold, toward noon; easier in the evening. [Sr.]

Ulcerative pain in the upper, especially the posterior teeth (8th d.). [Ng.]

Beating toothache awakes her at three o'clock and at twelve o'clock at night from her sleep, aggravated by cold things, unchanged by warm things. [Ng.]

Throbbing toothache in the left upper row, in the evening, when walking in the open air (17th d.). [Ng.]

- Raging in an upper decaying molar, as if the air was rushing in and out. [Ng.]
155. Twitching pain in the teeth (8th d.). [T.]
Slightly twitching toothache in an upper left molar. [T.]
The toothache becomes more violent by drawing in the air, and extends into the incisors. [T.]
Wagging of an upper molar, with ulcerative pain afterward, for a whole day. [Ng.]
The gums on the inner side of the right upper teeth seem swollen, with violent beating therein. [Ng.]
160. Swelling of the right upper external gums, with great painfulness. [Ng.]
Scorbutic state. [RICHTER, Arzneimittellehre, IV.]<sup>1</sup>
The tongue burns at the tip and on the anterior surface, as if wounded (gashed), in the evening (15th, 16th d.). [Ng.]
Small, burning pimples on the tip of the tongue, increased toward evening (aft. 14th d.). [Ng.]
A burning blister on the tip of the tongue (18th d.). [Ng.]
165. Tongue coated with white mucus, without change of the taste and appetite, the whole time. [JOERG.]
Inability to speak. [GEISELER.]
Fetor of the mouth, which he does not perceive himself. [Ng.]
Coldness of the mouth extending into the stomach, at once, and some hours afterward, inclination to vomit. [JOERG.]
Dryness of the mouth, after it was cooled (5th d.). [JOERG.]
170. Unusual dryness of the mouth, before and after dinner; he must drink often (1st d.). [JOERG.]
Dryness in the mouth, without thirst, ceasing after breakfast (11th d.) [Ng.]
Slimy mouth, in the morning (3d d.). [Ng.]
Swelling of the salivary and submaxillary glands, with hardness and pain and with increased secretion of saliva. [JOERG.]
She readily gets choked, when swallowing anything. [Ng.]
175. Sore throat, day and night, with inflammation of the velum palati and uvula, for four days (aft. 10 d.). [Ng.]
Sore throat at night, very violent, as if the throat would be closed up, and as if she could not get any breath. [Ng.]
Pressive pain in the throat, as from incipient inflammation, for twenty-four hours (aft. 9 h.). [T.]
Cutting sore throat, seemingly in the larynx, with impeded deglutition (aft. 8 d.). [Sr.]
Stinging pain in the throat, aggravated by deglutition. [Ng.]
180. Shooting sore throat, in the morning when rising, also externally, when pressing on the larynx, and when eating. [Ng.]
Shooting pain on the left side of the throat, when swallowing and speaking; relieved by eating (16th, 17th d.). [Ng.]
Shooting in the middle of the throat and fauces, when swallowing. [T.]
Tickling in the throat; he has to hawk, but does not expectorate anything. [Ng.]

<sup>1</sup> Not accessible.—Hughes.

- Roughness in the throat (at once). [Ng.]
185. Rough and scrapy in the throat; she has to hawk frequently, which pains her in the chest, in the evening and morning (aft. 8 d.). [Ng.]
- Rough in the throat with hoarseness and burning in the fauces, like heartburn. [Ng.]
- Burning in the fauces for three days, only transiently relieved by drinking something cold. [Ng.]
- Hawking of mucus, in the afternoon, with expectoration of a piece resembling liver in form and consistence, with sweetish taste. [Ng.]
- Disagreeable, loathsome taste in the mouth, all the day (aft. 18 d.). [Ng.]
190. Sour taste in the throat, in the morning, after rising. [Ng.]
- Sourish taste and increased flow of saliva in the mouth, till after dinner (8th d.). [JOERG.]
- Lack of appetite, with increased hunger (2d d.). [JOERG.]
- Diminished appetite, with inflated abdomen, emission of much flatus, and pressing and tenesmus in the rectum. [JOERG.]
- Diminished appetite. [RICHTER.]
195. The appetite seems quite suppressed, and he has no relish for his moderate dinner. [JOERG.]
- No appetite, but she eats from habit, without any ailment. [Ng.]
- Good appetite, in spite of all ailments and pains (aft. 30 d.). [Sr.]
- Rabid hunger, in the forenoon, every time for a quarter of an hour, alternating with slight cutting about the navel. [JOERG.]
- Violent ravenous hunger, in the forenoon, several times. [JOERG.]
200. Absence of thirst, and good appetite, most days. [Ng.]
- Thirst, without especial appetite.
- Increased thirst (aft. 2 h.). [JOERG.]
- Violent, constant thirst (1st d.). [JOERG.]
- Increased thirst, from morning till evening (9th d.). [JOERG.]
205. Thirst, in the afternoon, with burning in the fauces, ceasing after drinking water (20th d.). [Ng.]
- Eructation (1st d.). [JOERG.]
- Eructation, repeatedly and nausea (at once). [JOERG.]
- Hiccup, frequent, before breakfast (14th d.). [Ng.]
- Heartburn (aft. ½ h.). [JOERG.]
210. Heartburn and ravenous hunger without appetite (aft. 2 h.). [JOERG.]
- Nausea (8th d.). [JOERG.]
- Nausea awakes her at night from sleep, and only passes off after retching up of mucus. [Ng.]
- Nausea, tending to vomiting (soon). [Ng.]
- Nausea tending to vomiting, in the stomach, and painful moving about in the abdomen, followed by diarrhœa. [Ng.]
215. Nausea, tending to vomiting, with pressure in the stomach and loathing of food, at 5 A. M. in bed. [Ng.]
- Nausea, tending to vomiting, in the stomach, with regurgitation of water. [Ng.]

- Nausea, tending to vomiting, trembling all over the body, headache, as if bruised and pressive, retching in the throat, burning of the eyes, weary, as if drowsy, tearing and shooting in the crown and occiput, cutting in the intestines, and at last diarrhœa, first of soft fœces, then of mere mucus; at 9 to 10 P. M. [Ng.]
- Nausea, tending to vomiting, and retching. [Ng.]
- Nausea, tending to vomiting, in the afternoon, regurgitation from the stomach, retching tending to vomiting; then gulping up of bitter water, with alleviation; after half an hour and in the evening there is a recurrence (aft. 50 h.). [Ng.]
220. Violent vomiting. [RICHTER.]
- Vomiting, with taste of saltpetre, after previous nausea (at once). [JOERG.]
- Vomiting, first of mucus and water, then of bloody mucus. [Ng.]
- Violent vomiting.<sup>1</sup> [FALCONER, Mem. of Med. Soc. of London, III., 527.]
- Bloody vomiting. [FALCONER.]
225. Pains in the stomach.<sup>2</sup> [FALCONER; ALEXANDER, Med. Vers. and Erfahr. in Exper. Essays, London, 1768; RICHTER.]
- Pain in the stomach as if it was spoiled, but without inclination to vomit (aft. 50 d.). [Ng.]
- Violent pain in the stomach and the whole body (at once). [JOERG.]
- Qualmishness in the stomach, with collection of water in the mouth (during the menses). [Ng.]
- Pressure in the stomach and colic, without evacuation, from afternoon till evening. [JOERG.]
230. Tendency to cramp of the stomach. [RICHTER.]
- Slight pressure and burning in the gastric region, gradually increasing to a dull boring, after half an hour, a cutting, running along the course of the intestines. [JOERG.]
- Sharp shooting pains in the stomach, and the whole body, so violent that he cannot breathe without the most acute pains. [JOERG.]
- Disagreeable sensation in the stomach, as if something would turn over in it, in the morning after rising. [Ng.]
- Pulsation in the region of the orifice of the stomach. [JOERG.]
235. Sensation of coldness in the stomach. [RICHTER.]
- Coldness and pain in the stomach (soon). [JOERG.]
- Icy coldness in the stomach, with pain when touching it; passing off in the evening after lying down; with vomituration and regurgitation of water; so also on the twentieth morning after milk soup, but without vomituration. [Ng.]
- Burning in the stomach, with violent stitches in the gastric region (2d d.). [JOERG.]
- Inflammation of the stomach. [RICHTER.]
240. Pressive pain in the scrobiculus cordis. [T.]

<sup>1</sup> Effects of a two-ounce dose.—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup> For Alexander—Experiments on self and one case of poisoning (see Cycl. of Drug Pathogenesis, III., 57, 67. This symptom in original is: "Painful sensation at upper orifice of stomach."—Hughes.

Pressure in the scrobiculus cordis for two hours in the afternoon (18th d.). [Ng.]

Pressure and gnawing in the scrobiculus cordis, painful also when pressed upon externally (22d d.). [Ng.]

Pressure into the scrobiculus cordis as from a button, with sensitiveness to external pressure, immediately after dinner (20th d.). [Ng.]

Heaviness and fullness in the region of the scrobiculus cordis.

[JOERG.]

245. Weakness like syncope about the scrobiculus cordis. [Ng.]

Cutting shooting in the scrobiculus cordis, and the epigastrical region, after breakfast. [T.]

In the left hypochondrium, pain, as after a violent blow; with pains in the sacrum, often so intense that she could not lie down, followed by leucorrhœa for eight days; this and the pains in the sacrum only ceased with the appearance of the menses. [Sr.]

Shooting pain in the left costal region, in rhythmical intermission, after lifting a burden. [Ng.]

Pain in the abdomen. [FALCONER.]

250. Violent pain in the abdomen, especially in the right side, after eating veal, terminating after two hours in a pressive pain of the stomach, with sensation of emptiness in the stomach; then, after some hours, again colic, decreasing and lasting all night. [T.]

Violent pains in the abdomen, followed by emission of flatus.

[T.]

Obscure sensation of pain in the region of the nerves (4th d.).

[JOERG.]

Dull, burning pressure, now here, now there, in various parts of the abdomen above the navel. [Ng.]

Violent pressive pain in the lumbar region, worse when at rest, so that she has to walk about, to alleviate it; by gently stroking, the pain is alleviated, but by coughing it is so much aggravated that she must scream. [Sr.]

255. Sensation of fullness in the abdomen, without pain, in the morning; in the afternoon, two liquid stools (5th d.). [JOERG.]

Inflation of the abdomen, as if it would burst. [Ng.]

Inflated, distended abdomen (5th d.). [T.]

Inflation and shooting in the left side of the abdomen, relieved by bending double. [Ng.]

Severe inflation of the stomach, with emission of much fetid flatus, with ordinary stool (20th, 21st d.). [Ng.]

260. Distension of the abdomen and emission of flatus (with tenesmus) soon after a new dose. [Ng.]

Violent contractive pain in the left flank, when walking; she had to stop frequently; it took her breath; then a half liquid stool with mucus, and cessation of the pain, which frequently was a shooting pain, in the evening (11th d.). [Ng.]

Drawing pain in the lesser intestines, toward evening. [JOERG.]

Acute drawing pain in the lumbar region, aggravated by moving the body; with increase of urine. [JOERG.]

Pinching moving-about in the abdomen, without tenesmus, with frequent intermissions (4th d.). [Ng.]

265. Pinching in the abdomen, now here, now there, frequently (5th d.). [Ng.]

Rumbling about in the abdomen, with pinching extending up to the stomach which is also sensitive on the outside, and extending below the left side of the abdomen, where there are shooting pains, with inflation, frequent emission of flatus and sensation as of incipient diarrhœa; for two hours (aft. 38 d.). [Ng.]

Pinching, then shooting pains in the abdomen and sacrum, especially in the morning and evening (8th d.). [Ng.]

Pinching pain in the whole of the abdomen, in the evening, with rumbling all about in it; it extends below the left part of the chest, where there were shooting pains. [Ng.]

Cutting at times in the umbilical region, with repeated call to stool; but there was only the ordinary stool (5th d.). [JOERG.]

270. Slight colic, soon increasing in intensity (at once). [JOERG.]

Cutting in the abdomen, in the morning and evening, for several days. [Ng.]

Stitches, sudden, violent and painful, in different parts of the abdomen, in the evening (10th d.). [Ng.]

Stitches in the evening, in both the renal regions, most violent in the right side, and very painful on inspiring deeply. [T.]

Shooting in the middle of both the iliac bones, when sitting. [Ng.]

275. Painful shooting in the left inguinal region, passing out through the iliac bone, when walking. [Ng.]

Violent stitch in the right groin, and at the same time in the iliac bone (8th d.). [Ng.]

Shooting and burning in the hypogastrium, as also in the rectum, after dinner, aggravated by motion (10th d.). [Ng.]

Sudden blows in the left side of the abdomen, as from a living thing. [Ng.]

Painful, choking sensation about the navel, with nausea, after dinner, while walking. [T.]

280. Sensation of emptiness in the region of the transverse colon. [T.]

Burning pain in the abdomen, when sitting bowed forward, extending into the sacrum, ceasing when he straightens himself (21st d.). [Ng.]

Violent tearing burning, seemingly deep in the pelvis, in the evening, more while at rest than when moving; it seemed also to be in the hip-bone or in the hip-joint. [T.]

Forcing and straining toward the inguinal ring (5th d.). [T.]

Violent grumbling and rumbling in the abdomen, at night (9th d.). [JOERG.]

285. Going about in the abdomen (aft. 25 min.). [JOERG.]

Grumbling in the abdomen, without stool, from morning till evening (29th d.). [Ng.]

Much emission of flatus, in the evening, with scraping in the rectum. [T.]

- There is an intermission of one or two days in the stools. [Ng.]
290. Ineffectual call to stool (10th d.). [Ng.]
 Repeated urging to stool, with only the ordinary stool. [JOERG.]
 Frequent pressure on the rectum, and yet no stool till evening. [JOERG.]
 With only the ordinary stool, pressing and tenesmus in the anus. [JOERG.]
 Pressing and urging to stool, two hours after the evacuation. [JOERG.]
 Tenesmus, and then an ordinary stool, followed by a continual urging. [JOERG.]
295. Twice an ordinary stool, on the first day, with violent straining, though of thin formation. [Ng.]
 Stool in the evening with violent straining (19th d.). [Ng.]
 Sluggish stool (4th and 5th d.). [T.]
 Hard, scanty stool, about noon (2d d.). [JOERG.]
 Hard, difficult stool (5th d.). [T.]
300. Hard stool, formed like sheep's dung. [T.]
 The stool is more hard than soft (aft. 14 d.). [Ng.]
 In the evening, a second time, a hard stool, preceded by shooting pain in both the groins, then also in the anus; this is repeated next morning. [Ng.]
 Hard stool, in the evening, with severe straining, and with shooting in the pudenda. [Ng.]
 Hard stool, followed by burning at the anus (8th d.). [Ng.]
305. Hard stool with so much straining, that the rectum protruded (aft. 15 d.). [Ng.]
 Hard stool, twice toward evening, with swelling of the varices (35th d.). [Ng.]
 Ordinary stool, preceded by pinching and cutting in the abdomen. [Ng.]
 Hasty urging, but only an ordinary stool, coming twice, after previous shooting pinching in the abdomen, and going from there backward to the sacrum, as if from flatus; in the morning, after awaking. [Ng.]
 Ordinary stool after previous pinching and pain in the abdomen and the sacrum. [Ng.]
310. Three times, a hard stool (9th d.). [Ng.]
 The stool becomes softer and thinner (2d d.). [JOERG.]
 Soft or diarrhœic stools, the first days, with rumbling and moving about. [Ng.]
 Soft stools (at once). [Ng.]
 Soft stool after dinner, then burning and shooting in the anus, so that she could not sit. [Ng.]
315. Soft stool, preceded by pinching and cutting in the abdomen (35th d.). [Ng.]
 Two very soft stools in the evening, preceded by painful pinching in the abdomen, and tenesmus. [Ng.]
 Twice in one day, a soft stool, with violent pinching below the

- navel, extending into the chest, where it became a shooting pain. [N $\bar{g}$ .]
- Pappy stool, three times, and with the third, there was cutting in the whole intestinal canal, which continued also afterward (1st d.). [JOERG.]
- Diarrhœa, alternating the first days frequently with other stools. [N $\bar{g}$ .]
320. Two soft stools and one diarrhœic stool, followed by tenesmus (29th d.). [N $\bar{g}$ .]
- Two diarrhœic stools (4th d.). [S $\bar{r}$ .]
- Diarrhœa (14th and 27th d.). [N $\bar{g}$ .]
- Several diarrhœic stools, without colic.
- Diarrhœic stools. [ALEXANDER.]
325. Three thin stools, without colic (3d d.). [JOERG.]
- In the forenoon, two ordinary stools, and in the evening in addition, too liquid stools (1st d.). [JOERG.]
- Soft, diarrhœic stools, preceded by rumbling and rolling (6th d.). [T.]
- Two diarrhœic stools with much emission of flatus. [N $\bar{g}$ .]
- Diarrhœa, with violent pains in the abdomen. [RICHTER.]
330. Diarrhœa, preceded by colic (20th d.). [N $\bar{g}$ .]
- Three diarrhœic stools in the morning, after violent nocturnal colic (4th d.). [JOERG.]
- Two thin stools, preceded by colic and tenesmus; the latter also continues afterward; in the evening much emission of flatus, while the pains in the abdomen and tenesmus disappear (3d d.). [JOERG.]
- Four watery stools, with colic all the day (8th d.). [JOERG.]
- Diarrhœa and almost constant pinching about the navel, with only rare intermissions (41st, 42d d.). [N $\bar{g}$ .]
335. Slimy evacuations, for three days. [T.]
- Stool covered with mucus (25th d.). [N $\bar{g}$ .]
- Bloody stools. [RICHTER.]
- Discharge of blood from the anus during a hard stool, but without pain (24th d.). [N $\bar{g}$ .]
- The varices of the rectum are enlarged, with shooting pain (5th d.). [T.]
340. The varices protrude more, but without pain, and soon become smaller again (36th d.). [N $\bar{g}$ .]
- Burning pressure on the anus, when there is no stool (27th d.). [N $\bar{g}$ .]
- Diminution of the urine. [N $\bar{g}$ .]
- Scanty passage of yellowish, cloudy, clear, transparent urine, till late at night (1st d.). [JOERG.]
- Frequent urging to urination, till late at night (8th d.). [JOERG.]
345. Tenesmus of the bladder, at first only a few drops, then the ordinary stream, repeatedly (23d d.). [N $\bar{g}$ .]
- Frequent urging to urinate with slight discharge, till evening. [JOERG.]
- Increased urging to urinate, with slight discharge each time, but on the whole, there is an increase of urine passed during the day. [JOERG.]

Micturition three times from 10 A. M. till early in the afternoon, every time two ounces, without having drunk anything. [JOERG.]

Increase of urine during the first days. [Ng.]

350. Increased passage of urine, even at night; with firm stools (the first days). [Ng.]

Frequent profuse passage of urine, till 10 P. M. (5th d.). [JOERG.]

Increased urine, for several days (aft. 16 d.). [Ng.]

Increased secretion of urine. [RICHTER.]

Increased secretion of light-colored urine. [JOERG.]

355. Watery, clear urine in the forenoon, every two hours; in the afternoon and evening almost every hour (2d, 3d d.). [JOERG.]

Frequent passage of pale, turbid urine, and frequent straining and pressing toward the anus, with ordinary evacuation (1st d.). [JOERG.]

The urine increases every day, and forms reddish clouds, for a considerable time. [JOERG.]

Urine more copious, darker and redder; after several hours, a sediment in it, which on shaking rises in flakes (aft. sever. h.). [JOERG.]

The urine is not scanty and flows off rapidly; it is transparent, clear, a little yellow; after twenty-four hours there are a few flakes or clouds in it (1st and 2d d.). [JOERG.]

360. Reddish clouds in the increased urine (2d d.). [Ng.]

Mucous sediment in the increased urine (3d d.). [JOERG.]

Urine more red and turbid, but not more copious (1st d.). [JOERG.]

During micturition, painful stitches in the region of the prostatic gland. [T.]

Burning in the urethra during micturition (8th d.). [Ng.]

365. Burning in the urethra during micturition, and much diminished urine (aft. 50 d.). [Ng.]

Fine stitches at the orifice of the urethra. [T.]

An itching stitch in the penis, in the afternoon, while sitting (32d d.). [Ng.]

Increased sexual impulse. [T.]

Erection, in the morning in bed (27th d.). [Ng.]

370. Erection at noon, without voluptuous thoughts (17th d.). [Ng.]

After an unsatisfied sexual excitation in the morning, violent drawing, pressing and tension in both the testes and along the spermatic cords, extending into the abdominal cavity, for several hours; the testes at the same time are very painful; even in the evening there is still a tension extending into the spermatic cords. [T.]

The menses are suppressed. [Ng.]

The menses five days late. [Ng.]

The menstrual flow is earlier and stronger than usual, for

- three days; but it hardly flows for more than two days, with blood as black as ink. [Sr.]
375. Menses one day too early, with pains in the sacrum and the lower limbs. [Ng.]
 Menses somewhat longer and stronger than usual. [Ng.]
 The menstrual flow which was but scanty on the fourth day, after a new dose, became at once stronger and thicker, with clots of blood, but decreased again on the following day. [Ng.]
 The menstrual flow, which was already drawing to a close, at once increased after a new dose, with pains in the abdomen, the sacrum and the thighs, but after a few hours it returns to its ordinary course. [Ng.]
 The menses much more fluid than usual. [Ng.]
380. During the menses, thirst (19th d.). [Ng.]
 Sensitiveness in the stomach, with collection of water in the mouth during the menses. [Ng.]
 During the menses, pains in the abdomen and the sacrum. [Ng.]
 During the menses, weariness and pain in the lower limbs; she staggers in her walk. [Ng.]
 During the menses, burning in the right flank, while sitting bent forward. [Ng.]
385. With the (increased) menses; pinching in the abdomen. [Ng.]
 Leucorrhœa, thin, white, stiffening the shift, with bruised pain in the sacrum, for a week (aft. 30 d.). [Sr.]
 * * * * *
- Much sneezing (almost at once).
 Repeated sneezing (19th, 20th d.). [Sr.]
 Violent sneezing, in the morning (30th, 40th d.). [Ng.]
390. Coryza, with sneezing, soon after renewing the dose. [Ng.]
 Coryza, sometimes dry, sometimes fluent, but constant. [Ng.]
 Violent coryza, with stoppage of the nose, loss of smell, and husky speech (11th, 12th d.). [Ng.]
 Husky voice (aft. 50 d.). [Ng.]
 Stoppage of the nose, with frequent sneezing (19th d.). [Ng.]
395. Stoppage of the nose for two days, then fetid nasal mucus like pus, with sneezing (aft. 48 d.). [Ng.]
 More stuffed than fluent coryza, with burning externally about the nose.
 Single drops of water flow from the nose, without coryza.
 Hoarseness and cough; she hawks up whole pieces of mucus; with stuffed coryza; during the menses. [Ng.]
 In the larynx, tensive pain when breathing (aft. 35 d.). [Sr.]
400. Cough, day and night, with sore pain in the chest; then coryza, with obstruction and itching of the nose (13th d.). [Ng.]
 Cough, more in the morning than during the day. [Sr.]
 Cough and stupefying headache awakes her at night about three o'clock; as she rises and moves about, the cough grows worse (22d d.). [Sr.]
 The cough almost takes away her breath. [Sr.]

- Cough, with soreness in the chest, with headache and sore throat (17th d.). [Ng.]
405. Cough from tickling in the middle of the chest after entering a room, continuous. [Ng.]
- Irritation to cough from a tickling in the windpipe (4th d.). [Ng.]
- Dry cough (4th and 5th d.). [Ng.]
- Dry cough, with roughness of the throat and heaviness of the chest (6th d.). [Sr.]
- Dry tussiculation, all day, while the heart beats so that she almost hears it (20th d.), [Sr.]
410. Dry tussiculation, for fourteen days, with dull tension, contraction and pressing in the chest; below the sternum, a roughness, exciting to cough, and which is allayed some minutes afterward. [Sr.]
- During the cough, pain in the back.
- During the cough, cutting under the sternum. [Sr.]
- During the cough, sensation as if something in the chest was loose (30th d.). [Sr.]
- Severe burning in the chest, extending up into the throat, until the morning, when the expectoration becomes loose (26th d.). [Sr.]
415. Cough, with alleviating expectoration (23d d.). [Sr.]
- Cough and expectoration, chiefly in the evening, after lying down.
- Sourish smelling expectoration.
- Mucous expectoration, mingled with blood, when coughing.
- Expectoration of blood, with slight cough.
420. Blood-cough, till full moon.
- Bloody expectoration, in the afternoon, twice with dry cough (14th d.). [Ng.]
- Expectoration of coagulated blood, after hawking up mucus (during the menses) (25th d.). [Ng.]
- The breath, when ascending a height, is oppressed; shooting in the chest and cough, with expectoration of light colored blood (24th d.). [Sr.]
- Spasmodic contraction of the chest, with anxiety and fear of suffocation, alternating with spasmodic drawing in the occiput and nape, on the left side, so that she had to hold her head backward; sometimes so violently, that she cried out (25th d.). [Sr.]
425. Asthma in the region of the pit of the throat.
- Asthma.<sup>1</sup> [ALEXANDER, Med. Vers. u. Erfahr.]
- Tightness around the scrobiculus cordis, as from a painful contraction, while walking and standing, in the morning. [Ng.]
- Constriction of the chest, with anxious shortening of the breath, in the forenoon, while standing (22d d.). [Ng.]
- Contraction, in the morning, while lying down, extending from the back into the chest, as if the lungs were constricted, impeding deep breathing; if she wants to take a deep breath, she must previously gasp for breath and then she coughs afterward (4th d.). [Sr.]

<sup>1</sup> Painful.—Hughes.

430. Heaviness and tightness of the whole chest (1st d.). [Ng.]
 When taking a deep breath and blowing the nose, a painful sensation in the scrobiculus cordis and in the gastric region. [T.]
 Oppressive pain of the chest, of short duration. [T.]
 Pressive pain on the chest in the afternoon (23d d.). [T.]
 Pressive pain on the lower end of the sternum (aft. 38 h.). [T.]
435. Tensive pain over the chest, from the afternoon till evening (1st d.). [JOERG.]
 Stitches in the upper right part of the chest, especially when lying on the right side, with the head lying low.
 Stitches in the right side of the chest, when coughing and breathing deep.
 Shooting in the middle of the chest, spreading toward both sides and toward the axilla, while walking, (during the menses.) [Ng.]
 Shooting in the upper, middle part of the chest, after dinner (28th d.). [Ng.]
440. Violent stitch in the upper left part of the sternum (18th d.). [Ng.]
 Shooting pain on the lower right ribs, excited by coughing and laughing, for two days (aft. 20 d.). [Ng.]
 Fine stitches on the right side of the chest (soon). [Ng.]
 Shooting below the right short ribs, in the side toward the back, as it were, behind the liver. [T.]
 Single stitches in the left side, below the ribs, from the afternoon till evening (1st d.). [T.]
445. Shooting below the left mamma, more while walking, than in rest. [Ng.]
 Painful shooting in the left side of the chest, making the breath short (7th d.). [Ng.]
 Shooting in the left side of the chest, more toward the back (27th d.). [Ng.]
 Frequent shooting below the left mamma (32d d.). [Ng.]
 Stitch in the left side of the chest, when carrying a burden (21st d.). [Ng.]
450. Painful stitch in the left side of the chest on inspiring (17th d.). [Ng.]
 Sensation of shooting in the left side of the chest, near the sternum, when breathing deeply. [T.]
 Painful stitches in the region of the lower point of the left scapula, when breathing deeply. [T.]
 Shooting and pain in the left side of the chest, for several hours, relieved by walking in the open air, returning more violently toward evening, in the form of cutting and tearing in the lungs, increased by breathing deeply; then after half an hour, chilliness and tearing in both the lower limbs, extending from the knees into the toes; she had to lie down in bed, where she grew warm and fell asleep (7th d.). [Sr.]
 Violent stitch in the cardiac region (aft. 5 h.). [T.]
455. Burning and shooting in the chest, in the evening (9th d.). [T.]

Burning sensation anteriorly in the chest (3d d.). [Ng.]

Rush of blood to the chest.

Beating and pressive heaviness anteriorly in the chest, with tendency to syncope; while sitting (9th d.). [Ng.]

Momentary palpitation of the heart, at times (aft. 15 d.).

[Sr.]

460. Strong heart beat, in the evening in bed, causing him to awake. [Ng.]

Violent palpitation while lying on the back, so that she woke up at twelve at night, and sat up full of anguish (13th d.). [Ng.]

Violent palpitation at twelve o'clock at night, while lying on the right side (14th d.). [Ng.]

Palpitation, when moving quickly and rising up, with heat in the face and oppression of the chest. [T.]

Pain in the sacrum, in the morning on awaking, extending into the left hypochondrium, for several hours (12th d.). [Sr.]

465. Pain in the sacrum, in the morning, on awaking, she could not remain in bed, she had to get up (29th d.). [Sr.]

Violent pains in the sacrum, at night; they waked her up and did not allow her to go to sleep again (aft. 52 d.). [Ng.]

Pain in the sacrum, in the afternoon, alternating with pinching in the abdomen, and subsequently in the evening, a hard stool (9th d.). [Ng.]

Squeezing pinching in the sacrum, all the day. [T.]

Violent pain in the sacrum, which does not allow her to lie on the back, awakes her at night, at two o'clock (aft. 27 d.). [Ng.]

470. Pain in the sacrum, in the morning on awaking, as if she had received a blow. [Sr.]

Bruised pain of the sacrum, at night, at 3 A. M. she could turn over for pain (aft. 23 d.). [Ng.]

Bruised pain in the sacrum, in every position, in the evening (during the menses). [Ng.]

Sensation over the left ilium, as if the parts were held together or pressed upon, when walking (6th d.). [Ng.]

Shooting in the right hip-bone, when standing, ceasing after moving about. [Ng.]

475. Pain in the back (aft. 27 d.). [T.]

Pain in the back, when stooping. [T.]

Pressure and burning in the back, relieved by walking, aggravated by sitting and by lying in bed. [T.]

Pinching pain in the back, in the evening (aft. 38 h.). [T.]

Bruised pain in the whole back, after previous shooting pain in the hip (20th d.). [Ng.]

480. Violent stabbing, as with knives, between the shoulders; it awakes her out of sleep, shortening her breath; it appears while she is lying on her back, and is relieved by lying on the right side (aft. 26 d.). [Ng.]

Stiffness of the nape. [Sr.]

Painful stiffness in the nape, on nodding and on turning the head, as if it was sprained, for three days (aft. 33 d.). [Ng.]

Painful throbbing in a cervical vertebra, after raising up the head from stooping. [Ng.]

- Many pimples in the nape. [Ng.]
485. Small, painless pustule, with a red areola, on the nape. [Ng.]
Tearing in the right side of the cervical muscles, extending from the shoulders into the head. [T.]
On the top of the left shoulder, a pressure (aft. 22 d.). [Ng.]
Tearing on the top of the right shoulder, extending into the fingers, at night, at eleven o'clock, wakes her from sleep till four o'clock, with a sensation as if the shoulder projected too far; she could not lie on either side. [Ng.]
Painful tearing on the top of the left shoulder, frequently recurring (aft. 13 d.). [Ng.]
490. Tearing and heaviness in the top of the right shoulder, with a numb sensation in the arm; the pain later on passes also into the wrist-joint and wakes her from sleep at 2 A. M. (aft. 4 d.). [Ng.]
Violent tearing in the top of the right shoulder, at night, from two to five o'clock, ceasing after rising. [Ng.]
Tearing in the top of the shoulder, at times when baring it, at times when covered, awakes her at night at twelve o'clock (12th, 13th d.). [Ng.]
Tearing in the top of the right shoulder, while the fingers go to sleep, awakes her at night at three o'clock (aft. 23 d.). [Ng.]
Frequent tearing in the top of the left shoulder. [Ng.]
495. Weary pain in the left shoulder (aft. 4 h.). [T.]
Bruised pain on the top of the shoulder, in the morning (aft. 19 d.). [Ng.]
A small pimple on the shoulder, with violent shooting pain, inciting to scratching open. [T.]
A boil on the top of the right shoulder, with tensive pain. [Ng.]
In the arms and legs, painless twitching, in the evening in bed (5th d.). [Ng.]
500. Cramp-like drawing pain, at times in the right arm, at times in the left, then in the thighs, especially about the knees, chiefly when at rest. [T.]
Drawing pain in the arms, when he lets them hang down for a long time.
Tearing in the right arm, especially in the shoulder, worse in the afternoon and evening. [T.]
Extremely painful tearing in the right arm, extending to the wrist-joint, when moving, with rigidity of the arm, which is not relieved by rubbing, but through more violent movements (27th d.). [Ng.]
Tearing in the arm, intermittent and recurring at night, when lying on the right side (during the menses). [Ng.]
505. Drawing and tearing in the arm, from the top of the shoulder into the fingers, toward evening (4th d.). [Sr.]
The pain in the arms extends from the elbow into the wrist-joint, where it tears and breaks, as if it would twist the joint; from the wrist it extends into the knuckles of the fingers, distending and causing a swelling of their interstices; from there the pain changing into a contusive pain, extends under the nails; somewhat alleviated by rubbing the hand; the hands feel as if they became larger and wooden, there is heaviness and numbness of the hand, with paralytic loss of strength in it, but only at night. [Sr.]

Tearing in the joints of the elbows, hands and finger-joints and under the nails, by day (aft. 7 d.). [Sr.]

A feeling of numbness and formication in the arm, with pain in the top of the shoulder, which had existed for a long time previously, ceased; instead of which there appeared pain in the joint of the right thumb on moving it, for several weeks (aft. 13 d.). [Ng.]

The left arm goes to sleep, at night, when she is lying on her back; it awakes her in the morning at 3 o'clock (aft. 11 d.). [Ng.]

510. Weakness in the arms.

Paralysis of the arm (from one drachm a day).<sup>1</sup> [ALSTON, in Monroe, Vol. I., Sec. 4.)

In the upper arms, a drawing, squeezing pain (aft. 28 h.). [T.]

Drawing tearing in the deltoid muscle of the left upper arm, both at rest and in motion (5th d.). [T.]

Violent tearing in the humerus (26th d.). [Ng.]

515. Shooting and beating, frequently, in the right upper arm (17th d.). [Ng.]

Paralytic weakness in the right upper arm. [T.]

In the elbow-joint, drawing pain, extending upward on the upper arm, on its posterior surface (2d d.). [Ng.]

Drawing, tension and burning in the bend of the left elbow (aft. 2 h.). [T.]

In the right fore-arm, index and thumb, tearing, waking from sleep at night. [Ng.]

520. Tearing in a tendon of the left fore-arm, on the outer side, with paralytic weakness in it after the pain (17th d.). [Ng.]

Tearing in the right fore-arm, extending from the elbow into the ring-finger and the middle finger, with heaviness and numbness of the parts. [Ng.]

Paralytic tearing in the left fore-arm, extending to the wrist-joint (22d d.). [Ng.]

Extremely painful gnawing in the shaft of the left ulna, a hand's breadth above the wrist, at short intervals, followed by a paralytic sensation, so that she has to let her arm sink down, in the afternoon, when sitting down; it ceases on rubbing and pressing it, often also of itself; but it always returns (17th d.). [Ng.]

Paralytic weakness in the right fore-arm, at night. [Ng.]

525. Itching on the right fore-arm, with pimples after scratching. [Ng.]

Many itching nodules on the right fore-arm; when scratched, they exude water. [Ng.]

Drawing, beating and intense pain from the right wrist-joint into the elbow, during dinner, later in both arms (aft. 20 d.).

[Ng.]

Tearing in the right wrist-joint. [T.]

<sup>1</sup> Lectures on Mat. Med., Lond., 1770, I, 180. Statements from authors, etc. This dose was being taken for an inveterate headache, which improved when the arms lost power. They recovered a few hours after discontinuing the drug, and the headache returned.—Hughes,

- Pain on the inner surface of the right wrist-joint, as if a part of it was violently pulled inward; there also appeared an indentation on the surface. [Ng.]
530. Breaking and tearing in the right hand, in the evening. [Sr.]
Tearing in the hands, with shuddering and thirst (8th, 9th, 10th d.). [Sr.]
Tearing on the dorsum of the left hand, better after friction. [Ng.]
Acutely painful tearing in the evening, in the outer knuckle of the right hand, continuing also when moving it. [T.]
Tearing shooting in the bone of the ball of the left hand, behind the little finger (2d d.). [Ng.]
535. Painful digging and gnawing in the ball of the right hand, behind the little finger (17th d.). [Ng.]
Heaviness of the hand, like lead (aft. 27 d.). [Sr.]
Weakness in the hands and fingers; she cannot seize or hold anything rightly; when she make an effort, there is a pain in the wrist. [Sr.]
Drawing in the right little finger (23d d.). [Ng.]
Spasmodic tearing in the knuckles of the fingers, alternating with headache. [Sr.]
540. Severe tearing in the anterior phalanx of the left thumb (19th d.). [Ng.]
Squeezing tearing in the left thumb. [T.]
Shooting under the nail of the left thumb, as with needles (20th d.). [Ng.]
Twitching shooting in the right ring-finger and middle-finger. [Ng.]
Pain as of a sprain in the joint of the thumb, when moving it backward, and pain on a small spot, when pressing on the joint. [Ng.]
545. Sprained pain in the right index, and cracking of the joints at every motion of the hand. [T.]
Sprained pain in the fingers, on holding a large object; on stretching them, which at first he was not able to do, they seem to him too long, and if he wishes to hold anything with it he must first bend them backward. [Ng.]
Pain in the joint of the right thumb, when bending the thumb backward, as if it had been sprained and swollen, with cracking therein. [T.]
Occasional stiffness of the fingers (aft. 18 d.). [Sr.]
Furuncle on the lower part of the thumb.
550. Pain in the hip, at once in the morning on awaking, increasing after rising till noon. [T.]
Tearing in the hip-joint, in the afternoon and evening. [T.]
Shooting in the right hip, when standing; it ceases on moving. [Ng.]
Shooting and burning, frequently, in the right hip, at rest and in motion (15th and 19th d.). [Ng.]
Tearing in the left natis, when standing, it ceases when moving. [Ng.]

555. Itching lumps on the right natis, after scratching (aft. 32 d.).
 [Ng.]
 In the right lower limb, a dull pressive pain in the bones, extending from the hip into the toes, from 1 to 4 A. M.; on rising and walking it is easier, the pain remaining only about the ankles.
 [Sr.]
 Acute, squeezing pain in the left thigh, in the morning on awaking; on turning over, it extends to the sacrum, and terminates with shooting pains in the heels (7th d.). [Sr.]
 Weariness and pain in the lower limbs, in the evening (during the menses). [Ng.]
 General weariness and dullness in the lower limbs after dinner. [JOERG.]
560. Extraordinary weakness of the lower limbs, with yawning (23d d.). [Ng.]
 Weakness in the lower limbs, with occasional drawing pains. In the muscles of the thighs, great bruisedness. [Ng.]
 Lassitude in the middle of the right thigh and in the tibia, as if paralyzed; somewhat relieved when sitting and standing, but later on aggravated when sitting (three days before the menses) (aft. 22 d.). [Ng.]
 In the right knee, tearing when at rest. [T.]
565. Tearing in the right knee (9th d.). [Ng.]
 Tearing and weakness in the right knee, frequently so severe that she cannot tread rightly (aft. 11 d.). [Sr.]
 Tearing in the left knee, for a long time. [T.]
 Tearing in both houghs, when walking. [Ng.]
 Acute pain, below the right patella, as if from a sprain, when walking; it passes off when at rest. [T.]
570. Painful beating in the left knee, in paroxysms, at night in bed. [Ng.]
 Painless tearing on the outer surface of the right knee (25th d.). [Ng.]
 Sensation of weakness in the knee-joint, extending into the thigh, especially when walking. [T.]
 Spasmodic contraction in the left calf, when walking. [Ng.]
 Drawing pain in the right leg, sensible when he crosses the left leg over it. [T.]
575. Tearing and weariness in the right leg and knee when at rest; he must frequently change the position of his leg; when walking continuously the pain disappeared. [T.]
 Tearing, extending down the right tibia, in the evening and the following morning (aft. 19 d.). [Ng.]
 Tearing, extending down both the tibiæ and in the knees, in the evening. [Ng.]
 Cramp in the left calf, toward evening (7th d.). [Sr.]
 Sensation of great weariness and paralytic weakness in the legs when at rest and in motion, after a short foot-tour (aft. 36 h.). [T.]
580. Fine stitches in the upper part of the right os calcis, when at rest. [T.]

Drawing and tearing in the outer malleolus of the right foot when standing (17th d.). [Ng.]

Tearing in the dorsum of the right foot, near the first joints of the foot, in the evening. [T.]

Twitching tearing in the soles of both feet (during the menses). [Ng.]

Violent tearing in the sole of the left foot, in the afternoon (27th, 30th d.). [Ng.]

585. Tearing in the ball of the left foot, in the evening (25th d.). [Ng.]

Transient, twitching smarting in the sole of the left foot, as from an ulcer. [Ng.]

Stitch in the sole of the right foot, at night, with ulcerative pain. [Ng.]

Shooting and burning, now in the sole of the right foot, now in that of the left, it passes off by friction, but frequently recurs. [Ng.]

Gripping, violent pain in the sole of the right foot, like an ulcer, frequently from the afternoon till evening. [Ng.]

590. Burning of the heels and balls of both feet, at night in bed. [Ng.]

Burning pain at the junction of the os calcis with the external malleolus, when at rest; when moving it feels sprained; when touched, as if ulcerated. [T.]

Great weariness in the feet, especially when standing and walking (aft. 20 d.). [Sr.]

Tearing in the big toe of the left foot (aft. 10 d.). [Ng.]

Twitching shooting in the right big toe at night. [Ng.]

595. Stitches on a spot of the second toe of the left foot, where formerly there was a corn. [T.]

Painful contraction of the toes, in the evening when sitting. [Ng.]

Painless twitching, now here, now there, all over the body. [Ng.]

Painful, intermittent tearing torments him day and night it is only transiently removed by rubbing (22d d.). [Ng.]

Crawling in the hands and feet, as from ants; later also in the tongue. [Ng.]

600. Twitches. [RICHTER.]

Swelling of the body, the neck and the thigh, so quickly, that there is difficulty in unloosing her clothes. [JOERG.]

Attack of fainting vertigo, in the morning while standing, better on sitting down; then things before the eyes turn black; with great lassitude and drowsiness, pain in the sacrum and constriction in the abdomen for a quarter of an hour, thrice in the forenoon; when it ceases, the pain goes down the lower limbs into the ankles, where it remains all day; in the afternoon, coldness with thirst, worse when in bed, till after midnight, when she fell asleep with agreeable warmth. [Sr.]

Attack of sensation of fainting in the evening at 10 o'clock (while blowing on a musical instrument, being clothed in a tight suit); it seemed to him that everything in the room turned around;

he sank down, but while sinking, he pulled himself up again; at the same time the interior of his head felt now hot, now cold, with unsteadiness while standing, with a sensation as if the attack would recur. [T.]

The spinal marrow is paralyzed, with tetanus. [GEISELER.]

605. Paralysis of the limbs. [RICHTER.]

Paralysis of the organs of the senses. [RICHTER.]

Death (aft. 36 h.). [RICHTER.]

Chronic cachexy.<sup>1</sup> [FALCONER.]

Death within two days, from six drachms given to a boy.

[Allgem. Liter. Zeit., 1788.]

610. Death from an ounce of nitre.<sup>2</sup> [LA FELIZE, Journ. de méd. LXXI., 3, 401-6.]

Fatal inflammation and gangrene, from one and a half ounce given to a woman.<sup>3</sup> [SOVILLE, Journ. de méd. LXXIII., 1, 19-21.]

Most of the ailments appear in the afternoon and evening.

[T.]

The ailments arising by day mostly disappear in the evening, when lying down. [Ng.]

She feels better while lying down (aft. 34 d.). [Sr.]

615. The pains are aggravated in bed. [Sr.]

She feels less tired while walking than while sitting. [Sr.]

Smelling of sweet spirits of nitre at once relieves the symptoms, especially the headache. [Sr.]

Smelling of camphor aggravates the symptoms. [Sr.]

Itching of various places, also of the hairy scalp, she has sometimes to scratch till she bleeds, after which there follow, at times, burning and pains. [Ng.]

620. Itching smarting in the left knee. [Ng.]

Itching, here and there, so that he had to scratch, in the evening. [T.]

Itching, in the evening, now here, now there, with stitches. [Ng.]

Shooting pains, like needle-pricks, and then burning on the skin, especially in the face. [Sr.]

Single stitches on the skin, especially on the chest, at every motion. [Ng.]

625. Small red spots, itching (when touched) on the neck and the left fore-arm. [Ng.]

Itching, especially on the thighs and shins, so that she scratches till she bleeds, with little red spots here and there (aft. 20 d.). [Sr.]

Itching pimples, occasionally burning or smarting, on the nape, in the front part of the nose, on the neck, and on the right elbow, where she has to scratch till it bleeds. [Ng.]

Burning vesicles, full of a thin yellowish liquid, here and there; after scratching they burst, and the burning ceases (aft. 34 d.). [Sr.]

<sup>1</sup> The illness was pain and soreness at stomach, with much flatulence and flow of saliva into the mouth.—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup> In a woman of forty-eight.—Hughes.

<sup>3</sup> From one drachm not 1½ ounce. The inflammation and gangrene was of the mucous membrane of the stomach.—Hughes.

- Small pustules in the face and on other parts of the skin.
[JOERG.]
630. Itching eruptional nodules, as large as peas, on the body, even in the face, but not on the hands and feet.
Great prostration, as after violent exertions, with heaviness in the head; she knocks against objects everywhere in walking.
[Ng.]
Lassitude in the whole body (1st, 2d d.). [JOERG.]
Great lassitude in the whole body, from the afternoon till evening (5th d.). [Ng.]
Weakness, so that she could not stand, scarcely sit up. [Ng.]
635. She suddenly became so fatigued, weary and sleepy, that she had to lie down, without being able to open the eyes; she slumbered, and when she awoke she could not collect herself.
Yawning (1st d.). [JOERG.]
Yawning and drowsiness by day. [Sr.]
Drowsiness, yawning and prostration, in the forenoon (7th d.). [Ng.]
Drowsiness, while walking and when at rest (1st d.). [Ng.]
640. Drowsy and exhausted, in the afternoon (2d d.). [Ng.]
Restless nights, frequently only slumber with constant waking up, or awaked by pains; for twenty days. [Sr.]
Usually the sleep is comatose, with fantasies, frightening and rousing her. [Sr.]
The sleep is comatose, as if intoxicated; she hears all that happens around her (aft. 6 d.). [Ng.]
Sleep full of fancies; many ideas press upon her and give her no rest; she is very anxious. [Ng.]
645. She could not go to sleep before twelve, but then she slept well. [Ng.]
She falls asleep late, wakes up early and then she has to toss about (aft. 28 d.). [Sr.]
She wakes up at one o'clock, and cannot go to sleep again. [Ng.]
Restless sleep, with frequent awaking (aft. 10 d.). [Ng.]
Restless sleep, with many dreams (1st d.). [JOERG.]
650. Restless night, the sleep is rare and heavy. [JOERG.]
Restless night, until a moderate perspiration breaks out toward morning. [JOERG.]
Restlessness of the body permits but little sleep at night (1st d.). [JOERG.]
Restless sleep on account of abundance of thoughts, which he cannot turn aside. [Ng.]
Restless night; sensation of great warmth does not allow her to go to sleep. [Ng.]
655. Nightmare (8th d.). [T.]
At night the chest is oppressed from coughing.
At night, stitches under the right scapula.
Sleep, full of dreams, through the whole period. [Ng.]
She dreams about traveling, but without getting off, which vexed her. [Ng.]
660. Anxious, fanciful dreams, during the heat, with frequent

- starting up and perspiration; the following morning, a brief shudder, and in the forenoon, thirst (aft 27 d.). [Ng.]
- Anxious, painful dreams, as if she had a painfully swollen cheek, or as if her child were being beaten. [Sr.]
- Dreams of illness, or of a tooth breaking off. [Ng.]
- Dreams of danger, water, fire, etc. [Ng.]
- Dreams of fights, loathing, annoyance. [Ng.]
665. Vivid dreams full of quarrels and disputes.
 Dreams of the death of an acquaintance. [Ng.]
 Voluptuous dreams (aft. 22 d.). [Ng.]
 Feels cooled and refreshed (at once). [JOERG.]
 Repeated chilliness, in the afternoon. [T.]
670. Severe chill, with trembling all over the body. [JOERG.]
 Febrile rigor, in the forenoon, in the open air, for a quarter of an hour, without subsequent heat. [Ng.]
 Chill in the afternoon at 3 o'clock (23d d.). [Ng.]
 Chill in the evening from seven to eight o'clock, without subsequent heat (39th d.). [Ng.]
 Chill at 9 P. M., ceasing after lying down. [Ng.]
675. Chill in the evening, with a cold thrill over the back, ceasing on lying down. [Ng.]
 Chill at 6 P. M., she had to lie down, when the chill passed; after an hour she rose up and the chill returned with chattering of the teeth and shaking, but it disappeared again on lying down, and so repeatedly till 10 P. M. (during the menses.) [Ng.]
 Short febrile rigor, at 7 P. M. [Ng.]
 Chill at 8 P. M., ceasing on lying down (12th and 17th d.) (during the menses). [Ng.]
 Coldness in the evening, she could not get warm; at the same time headache from the crown down. [Sr.]
680. Chill toward evening in the open air and in the room, heat in the face; later, a general perspiration. [T.]
 Shudder in the evening for half an hour, then ebullition of heat and, after lying down, perspiration without thirst (9th d.). [Ng.]
 Febrile rigor in the afternoon till evening; it ceases after lying down, with pain and sensation of heaviness in the head, then heat in bed (24th d.). [Ng.]
 Chill at 9 P. M., going off in bed, then sweat while sleeping, without thirst. [Ng.]
 Chill at 7 P. M., with shaking and tearing in the head, with peevishness for four minutes; then, on lying down, perspiration for a quarter of an hour, with frequent twitching in the limbs. [Ng.]
685. The internal heat is diminished; but face and forehead feel yet very warm, and the rush of blood to the head continues. [JOERG.]
 Increased warmth of forehead and cheeks, with cool hands (aft. 20 min.). [JOERG.]
 Alternately, first a chill, then heat, then sweat, in the afternoon (4th d.). [Ng.]
 Heat in the afternoon; then a chill; in the evening after lying down, sweat with thirst, till in the morning; during the chill, fre-

- quently, ebullition of heat, and with the heat, frequent chilliness; also during the sweat at the same time a thrill of cold, as soon as she uncovered herself (11th d.). [Ng.]
- Increased warmth in the trunk (aft. 20 min.). [JOERG.]
690. Gentle heat all over the body (aft.  $\frac{1}{2}$  h.). [JOERG.]
- Heat, with sweat on the whole body, without thirst, in the evening (27th d.). [Ng.]
- Heat at night; then sweat and only little thirst (10th d.). [Ng.]
- His sweat is unusually profuse (5th d.). [JOERG.]
- Increased perspiration (1st d.). [JOERG.]
695. Sweat, with lassitude at every exertion and movement (aft. 30 d.). [Ng.]
- Weary sweat, with anxiety, in the afternoon (41st d.). [Ng.]
- At night on awaking, she is in a perspiration, without relief of her pains (aft. 20 d.). [Sr.]
- Profuse sweat, every other night, especially about the lower limbs.
- At night, profuse sweat all over, especially on the lower limbs.
700. Sweat the whole night (1st d.). [JOERG.]
- In the morning, sweat; she awakes at three o'clock in the morning and perspires, especially on the chest, till 6 A. M.; after rising she is weary, as from a long foot-tour; she could hardly walk (aft. 30 d.). [Sr.]
- Sweat in the morning in bed, not exhausting (38th d.). [Ng.]
- The pulse diminishes from sixty-five and sixty-six beats down to sixty-two, but after half an hour it is as before and remains so. [JOERG.]
- Pulse diminished by three beats, for only a short time (at once). [JOERG.]
705. Pulse smaller and softer (aft. 2 h.). [JOERG.]
- Very quick pulse, in the afternoon while at rest, for an hour. [T.]
- Very rapid pulse at 4 P. M., with heat in the head for an hour (28th d.). [T.]
- Pulse full, hard and quick, with an inflamed condition, especially of the abdominal organs (23th d.). [JOERG.]
- Pulse quickened by several beats, also in the afternoon [JOERG.]
710. Pulse quick and small, with warm hands. [Ng.]

PETROLEUM. OLEUM PETRÆ, COAL OIL, ROCK OIL.

This product of the interior of the earth is extremely strong in smell, taste and medicinal effect. For medicinal use it ought to be very fluid and of light-yellow color. If it is very fluid it is not very likely that it has been adulterated with fat vegetable oils. But in order to be quite sure of this point, in the work: Kennzeichen der Güte und Verfälschung der Arzneien (Signs of the genuineness and adulteration of Drugs) (published in Dresden, 1787, p. 221), I have advised testing it by the admixture of strong sulphuric acid, which leaves the petroleum untouched and only changes any foreign oils that may be admixed into a sort of sulphurous substance. Or we may, more simply, merely drop a little of the petroleum on a piece of white writing paper; when this is laid in the open air or in a very warm place, it soon evaporates and leaves the paper without a transparent or translucent spot, if no fat oil is admixed. In many cases the petroleum may be found adulterated by the admixture of a volatile vegetable oil, e. g., oil of turpentine. To guard against this, it is well to mix petroleum, before it is used medicinally, with double the quantity of alcohol, to shake it a few times and then to separate it again by filtering it through blotting paper which has been moistened with alcohol. Thereby the pure petroleum remains behind in the filter, and is then kept in little vials, the stopper and mouth of which have been covered with melted sealing-wax. The alcohol, which has passed through the filter, will contain the volatile vegetable oil, if the like was present in the petroleum.

For the first trituration with one hundred grains of sugar of milk we take one drop instead one grain of petroleum.

Petroleum has done excellent service, where the following morbid symptoms were prominent:

Anxiety; timidity; excitement; abuse; lack of memory; weakness of memory and of the thinking faculty; obtuseness of the head; vertigo, like violent tottering to and fro; headache from vexation; pressive shooting headache; beating in the occiput; eruption on the head and the nape; scabs on the hairy scalp; falling out of the hair; gauze before the eyes; long-sightedness, cannot read any fine print without spectacles; short-sightedness; dryness and troublesome sensation of dryness in the inner ear; hardness of hearing;* ringing before the ears; noise in the ears; hissing and rushing before the ears; yellowness of the face; swelling of the submaxillary glands; white-coated tongue; bad smell from the mouth; putrid, offensive taste in the mouth; loathing of warm, cooked food; ravenous desire for food; loathing of meat; ravenous hunger; loud eructation; inclination to vomit; sea sickness; waterbrash; lack of appetite; the scrobiculus cordis thick and painful when touched; chaotic state in the abdomen; colic; inguinal hernia; lumpy, unusually hard stool; frequent evacuations by day; diarrhœa; involuntary dripping of urine; wetting of bed (Hg.); constriction of the urethra; burning in the urethra; itching and moisture of the scrotum; frequent pollutions; weakness and nervous irritation after coitus; emission of prostatic juice.

* Especially after the previous use of nitric acid.

Dryness of the nose and troublesome sensation of dryness in the nose; stoppage of the nose; coryza, hoarseness; cough in the evening after lying down; dry nocturnal cough; suffocating night-cough without expectoration (Hg.); shooting in the side of the chest; palpitation; herpes on the chest; pain of the sacrum, not allowing him to stand; backache; herpes on the nape; tearing in the hands; brown spots on the wrist; cracked skin on the hands and fingers, full of bloody chaps in winter; gouty, stiff finger-joints; herpes on the knee; stitches in the knee; cold feet; swelling of the feet; corns; obstinate ulcers on the toes, from eroding blisters with high borders, humid, red, flat base (Hg.); drawing pains in the head, forehead, temples and molar teeth; the limbs go to sleep; cracking in the joints and stiffness of the same; ebullitions of blood; dislike to the open air; pain of the chilblains; proud flesh in ulcers; vivid dreams; he feels in the morning as if he had not slept enough; night-heat; ague in the evening, first chill, then heat of the face with cold feet; night-sweat.

Smelling of a pellet as large as a hemp seed, moistened with a high potency of Nux vomica, has been found the most efficient antidote to Petroleum.<sup>1</sup>

PETROLEUM.

Sad and dispirited, with a sick feeling owing to weakness of the heart.

Dejection (aft. 12 d.).

Dejected in the morning, taciturnity, with dimness of vision (aft. 22, 23 d.).

Anxiety in the bustle of many men.

5. Restlessness, he knew not how to contain himself.

Nervous, timid, inclined to weep about trifles.

Great timidity; violent, frightened starting about trifles.

<sup>1</sup>It will be seen that for this drug Hahnemann acknowledges no fellow observers, as he cites no authors. He has himself contributed all its symptoms, 623 in the first edition, 776 in the present.—Hughes.

The greatest irresolution.

Lack of determination.

10. He does not know how to stop talking about a thing.
 No desire to work, no pleasure in objects he otherwise loves, therefore intolerable ennui.
 Hypochondriac, when walking in the open air, inattentive to an intellectual conversation or other amusements.
 Discontented with everything.
 Ill-humor; strong tendency to be hypochondriac with a feverish condition for fourteen days.
15. Very irritable; everything affects him disagreeably and depressingly; he could not calm himself as to many things which else seemed trivial to him, and despite every effort, he could not cheer up.
 Peevish and lazy (aft. 16 d.).
He vexes himself about everything, even the least trifle, and will not answer.
 Every morning, inclined to violent anger.
 Ill-humored and angry, in the morning on awaking.
20. Very peevish and angry; he readily becomes passionate.
 Violent, irritable, passionate about trifles.
 Quarrelsome, peevish inclination to weep (aft. sever. h.).
 Quarrelsome and vehement.
 Furiously malignant and cross.
25. The child becomes wild and unmanageable.
 At first frolicsomeness and extravagance with internal quivering, then sadness and discouragement.
 The whole day, he is only half conscious, as if only half alive.
 He lacks strength to think.
Very forgetful and indisposed to think.
30. The head feels benumbed, attended with pain.
 Numb feeling of the head, in the morning, thick, heavy, full of heat.
 The head feels benumbed, as if enveloped in mist.
 Dizziness, commencing right after dinner (aft. 9 d.).
 Gloominess in the head and discomfort (aft. 20 h.).
35. Vertigo, frequently when walking.
 Vertigo and nausea, from stooping.
Vertigo from stooping and when rising from the seat.
 Vertigo, seemingly in the occiput, as if she would fall forward, especially on raising her eyes.
 Vertigo and nausea, in the evening in bed, especially when her head lies low.
40. Severe vertigo, compelling him to bend forward, with paleness of the face and nausea, more when standing, than when sitting; disappears on lying down; with slow pulse, with eructation and yawning, lack of appetite and pressure in the abdomen.
 Vertigo, on rising from lying down; while lying down, heat in the face.
Heaviness in the head in the morning; and, as it were, fullness and heat in it, especially on stooping forward to sew.
 Heaviness of the occiput, like lead (2d, 3d d.).

Attack of headache, every morning.

45. Headache, at once in the morning, till after breakfast.
Headache in the evening, after walking in the open air.
Headache in the morning on rising, for several days.
Headache on the right side; she could not open her eyes; she had to lie down.
Dull headache, with drawing toward the forehead, from the morning till evening; at the same time severe chill till noon.
50. Pressure in the head, in the teeth and in the antra of the upper jaw.
Pressure in the occiput.
Pressure in the forehead, with single stitches above the eye (aft. 26 d.).
Pressure and shooting pressure in the occiput, in the morning.
Violent pressure in the head on stooping.
55. Severe pressure on the crown, with dizziness.
Squeezing and pressure in the head (aft. 24 h.).
Pressure on the head, with a sort of qualmishness (aft. 2 d.).
Tension in the head.
Sensation of tension and like jerking, on the dura mater.
60. Sensation of tension of the dura mater daily, with numb feeling.
Sensation of compression in the brain.
Constrictive, drawing headache.
Contractive, constrictive headache.
Sensation as if the head was screwed together in a vise.
65. Cramp-like headache in the left temple.
Cramp-like, very acute drawing and pressure in the left temple (aft. 4 d.).
Cramp-like, transient drawing in the temples.
Pinching headache (aft 2 d.).
Pinching in the occiput.
70. Pinching drawing, extending upward toward the left temple (aft. 11 d.).
Drawing headache; preceded by drawing pain in the right arm.
Drawing headache in the forehead, with stitches above the eyes.
Pressive drawing in the right temple, also perceptible in slumber (aft. sever. h.).
Shooting, and at the same time pressure, in the head, with nausea.
75. Shooting in the left side of the occiput, in the afternoon.
Shooting pain in the forehead, in the morning on awaking; this soon spreads over the back part of the head.
Shooting pain and much heat in the head.
Dull, twitching stitches on the crown, into the head, in the evening, and soon afterward, a constant pressure there.
Excessive shooting jerks in the head, on stooping and walking; after a few steps she always had to stand still again.
80. Beating stitches in the side of the head, above the eye.
Beating in the head.

Throbbing in the occiput, all the day.

Pulsation in the occiput, when lying on it.

Severe pulsating undulations, especially in the forehead, as if the head would burst, improved on moving about.

85. Sensation of a rush of blood to the head, at every quick movement, giving him a stitch in the brain.

Boring in the head.

Disagreeable sensation in the head, as if everything in it was alive and turned and whirled in it, with dislike of work.

Quivering, floating and roaring in the head and the ear, as from rush of blood toward the head, but without any sensation of heat.

The external part of the head feels numb, as if of wood (aft. 3 d.).

90. Externally the head aches on both sides, when touched, as if festering within.

Pain on the left side of the head, as if festering.

Bruised pain of the scalp.

Bruised pain of the crown, as if brittle.

Single soft swellings on the hairy scalp, which pain excessively when touched.

95. Much itching on the hairy scalp (aft. 10 h.).

Itching on the hairy scalp; after scratching, sore pain.

Pimples, from eruption on the head.

Falling out of the hair of the head, for three days, especially after twelve days.

Rapid falling out of the hair.

100. Profuse sweat on the head, in the evening after lying down.

Sensation on the head as if a cold draught blown around it.

Pressure in the eyes, in the evening.

Much pressure in the eyes, especially in the evening, in candle-light.

Much pressure in the eyes as from a grain of sand.

105. Cutting in the eyes, on straining them by reading.

Shooting and pecking in the eyebrows.

Stitches in the eyes, and lachrymation.

Stitches, from the external canthus toward the internal.

Shooting in the eyes, per se and when he presses somewhat on them.

110. Beating pain in the right eye.

Itching of the eyelids, he must rub them.

Itching and dryness of the lower eyelids (aft. 12 d.).

Itching and shooting in the eyes.

Itching, shooting and burning in the eyes.

115. Smarting in the eyes.

Smarting in the eyes as from smoke.

Smarting and heat in the eyes.

Burning in the eyes (aft. 5 d.).

Burning in the eyes, and pressure and obscuration, when she strains them.

120. Burning and pressure on the inner canthus,

Inflammatory swelling in the inner canthus, as of an incipient

- fistula lachrymalis, as large as a pigeon's egg; with dryness of the right side of the nose, for several days.
 Eruptive pimples on the eyelids.
 Lachrymation for five days (aft. 6 d.).
 Lachrymation in the open air, when it is not cold.
125. Lachrymation, frequently, also in the room (aft. 16 d.).
 Much water presses out from both the canthi.
 Weakness of the eyes.
 The eyes tire readily.
 Twitches of the eyes.
130. Trembling and quivering of the eyelids.
 Quivering of the right eyelid.
 Winking and quivering with the eyes.
 The eyes feel often, as if they would become twisted.
 In the morning, he cannot open the eyelids, and his sight is dim and clouded.
135. Very dim eyes (aft. 22 d.).
 The visual power is dim, the eyes as if they had a gauze over them (aft. 5, 6 d.).
 Great enlargement of the eyeballs, for many days; the left eye cannot recognize the letters at the usual short distance; at a longer distance they become clearer but smaller.
 More long-sighted.
 Seeing double with both eyes.
140. The eyes are often obscured, and at times some objects appear double (aft. 14 d.).
 Black spots before the eyes, impeding reading.
 Something floats and quivers at times before the eyes, but she sees the objects clearly and distinctly, when she looks at them.
 Quivering before the eyes, in the evening (aft. 10 d.).
 Flickering and fluttering before the eyes, the objects seem to be in a subtle motion.
145. Flickering and black figures before the eyes (aft. 18 d.).
 Fiery sparks before the eyes.
 Painful sensitiveness of the eyes to the daylight, he must keep them covered.
 The ear is painful externally (from the vapor).
 Pressure in the ears, with heat (aft. 5 d.).
150. Cramp-like pain in the right ear (aft. 16 d.).
 Cramp-like drawing in the right ear (aft. 7 d.).
 Painful drawing and twitching on the right ear (aft. 5 d.).
 Extremely painful drawing, as from a sprain in the muscles of the mastoid process, extending to the clavicle, on both sides of the neck, a tearing pain every five minutes (aft. 11 d.). [Foissac.]
 Twitching pain in the left ear (aft. 13 d.).
155. Tearing in the right ear.
 Cutting in the left ear.
 First, tickling and shooting in the ear, then stiffness in the articulation of the jaw, as if it would knock and crack in moving.
 Itching in the left ear, and flow of bloody pus (aft. 48 h.).
 The meatus auditorius is closed by a swelling.
160. Pimple on the right ear, opening in the evening (aft. 5 d.).

Eruptions on the external ear, for thirty days.

Redness, rawness, soreness and moisture behind the ears.

Diminished hearing (aft. 5 d.).

Loss of hearing in the right ear, into which a drawing pain extended from the eye (aft. 38 d.).

165. During an eructation, the ear became obstructed, so that he could not hear at once.

Singing in the ears.

Roaring and pain in the ears.

Rushing of wind before the ears, diminishing the hearing.

Rushing sound before the left ear in the evening, like the rushing of water, and at times a cracking in it; for three evenings (aft. 21 d.).

170. Cracking in the ear from time to time (aft. 28 d.).

Clucking in the ears.

On the root of the nose, across from one eyebrow to the other a tensive pain, and when touched, ulcerative pain of the spot.

Itching on the tip of the nose.

Burning on and beside the nose (aft. sever. h.).

175. Small pimple in the nose.

Small suppurative vesicle on the nose (aft. 7 d.).

Pustule in the lower part of the septum, with red areola.

Pustules on the right wing of the nose, painful when touched.

Ulcerated nostrils.

180. Scab in the fold of the left wing of the nose, without pain per se.

He blows out bloody mucus in the morning.

Epistaxis (aft. sever. h.).

Heat in the face and redness of the cheeks.

Sensation of heat in the face (aft. 3 d.).

185. Heat in the face and head (aft. 6 d.)

Burning heat on the forehead and in the face, with itching.

Much heat in the face; all the day, but especially after meals (aft. 4 d.).

Heat in the face and in the eyes (at once).

Great, constant paleness of the face.

190. Itching in the face, here and there (from the vapor).

Pimples in the face.

Pimples about the eyes.

Pimples in the face, like small pocks with white tips.

Eruption on the lips.

195. Pimple in the corner of the mouth, with shooting pain.

Scurfy pimple over the upper lip, with shooting pain per se not when touched.

Lips, cracked.

Furuncle on the lower lip.

Pustule on the chin, painful when touched.

200. Drawing and tension on the jaw, below the ear.

The articulation of the right jaw is easily sprained, in the morning in bed, with great pains.

- Swelling on both sides of the lower jaw, painful when stooping and when pressing upon it.
Swelling of the submaxillary glands.
 Toothache, with thickly swollen cheeks; she cannot lie still at night for pains, but has to sit up in bed.
205. Pain in the teeth when fresh air enters the mouth.
 Pressive pain in the right molars.
 Drawing toothache.
 Drawing pains in the upper front teeth, with sensation of coldness (aft. 10 d.).
 Tearing in the hollow tooth, from evening till midnight, with sore pain in the gums.
210. Cutting and contractive pain in the teeth.
 Stitch in the (hollow) fore tooth.
 Shooting toothache, as with knives, in both jaws; worse at night; she could not stay in bed.
 Shooting jerks in the teeth, every evening at 11:30 o'clock.
 Pain in the teeth, as if they were festering, with beating pressure in the right jaw, extending to the ear and the posterior cervical muscles.
215. Boring toothache.
 Sensation of numbness of the teeth, and pain when biting upon them.
 All the lower and in part also the upper teeth are prominent, and pain as if festering.
 Both the cuspidati feel too long, in the morning.
 The teeth are always covered with impurities.
220. The gums are painful, when chewing, as if sore.
 The gums between the lower fore teeth are, as it were, inflamed, with shooting and burning pains.
Swelling of the gums, with shooting pain when touched.
 Blister on the gums.
 Pustule on the gums above the hollow tooth, like a dental fistula.
225. Black hollow vesicle on a lower molar, sensitive to water and cold air; the tooth pains as soon as the mouth is opened.
 In the mouth, ulcers form on the inner side of the cheek.
 The tongue is covered with yellowish spots.
 White tongue.
 The tongue is coated, no matter how much it is scraped.
230. Coated tongue (aft. 4 d.).
 The tongue and the right side of the palate, down toward the cervical muscles, is so raw and sensitive that he dare not move in the mouth or eat anything hard; sourish and salty foods cause erosions, as if the tongue was eroded.
Bad smell from the mouth; also the saliva smelled bad.
 Bad smell of the mouth, sensible to others.
 Fetor of the mouth, at times like garlic, at times putrid.
235. The throat feels as if closed by swelling.
 When swallowing, part of the food gets up into the posterior nares.
 Shooting sore throat, only when swallowing.

- Shooting pain in the throat, when swallowing, as if this was impeded by a fish bone.
- Violent tickling in the throat, extending to the ear, when swallowing.
240. Crawling in the fauces and the nose, as from snuff.
Scraping and scratching in the throat.
Roughness in the fauces, when swallowing.
Sense of rawness in swallowing, extending into the stomach (aft. 6 d.).
Sore pain in the throat, and as if suppurated.
245. Swelling in the throat, with dryness in the mouth.
Dryness in the mouth, in the morning.
Dryness in the mouth and throat, in the morning, so severe that it intercepts the breathing.
Great dryness in the throat, causing much coughing.
Dryness in the throat, with eructation and lack of strength.
250. The throat is full of mucus.
He always has to hawk up viscid mucus, especially in the morning.
Constant hawking up of mucus in the morning, with headache.
The mouth and nose are very full of mucus.
Slimy taste in the mouth, with white-coated tongue.
255. Very pappy mouth for twenty days.
Slimy in the mouth, and no appetite for eating and drinking.
Sourish slimy taste in the mouth.
Sour taste in the mouth.
Bitter, sour taste in the mouth, in the morning.
260. Bitterness in the mouth, after breakfast, with scraping in the throat and eructation.
Flat taste and saliva in the mouth, as from a spoiled stomach.
Taste in the mouth as from a spoiled stomach, with heaviness of the head.
Putrid taste in the mouth.
Putrid taste in the mouth, as from spoiled meat.
265. Rancid taste in the fauces.
Much thirst all day.
Much thirst for beer, for a whole week.
No appetite, no thirst.
Ravenous hunger, frequently, so that she feels quite sick from it, and it also awakes her at night.
270. Insatiableness at dinner.
Lickerishness.
His stomach and digestion get spoiled from but a little food, especially from sour-kraut, brown cabbage, particularly in stormy weather, so that he gets diarrhœa from it, day and night.
The slightest amount of food and every kind of food, spoil her stomach; she cannot bear anything.
The usual smoking of tobacco causes dizziness (aft. 3 h.).
275. A little wine at dinner goes to his head, and makes him feel awkward.

- After a little food he feels, as it were, beclouded, giddy and dizzy in his head.
 After meals, rush of blood to the head.
 After eating, a transient flush of heat rises into the left side of the head, with lasting redness of the cheeks.
 After eating, sensation of heat and perspiration, chiefly on the head.
280. After every meal, profuse collection of saliva in the mouth; she must spit much.
 After a very moderate dinner, fullness, with pressure in the scrobiculus cordis (aft. 3 d.).
 Just after a meal, in the morning and at noon, very painful, cramp-like spasm of the chest, intercepting the breath; stooping relieves it, but the interception returns on straightening himself.
 After supper, uncomfortableness.
 After a meal, much flatness of taste and restlessness.
285. After a meal, his former lassitude disappears.
 After breakfast, toothache.
 At dinner, acrid, sour eructation.
 Sour eructation, with dimmed vision.
Sour eructation, dulling the teeth.
290. Belching up of sour water into the mouth, after breakfast.
 Repeated, hot, acrid, sour eructation and belching.
 Scrapy eructation, even after a light meal (aft. 4 d.).
 Eructation after a meal, the whole afternoon.
 Tasteless eructation, all the day.
295. Eructation, with pressure in the abdomen.
 Eructation in the morning, like rotten eggs (aft. 24 h.).
Heartburn toward evening, and eructation.
 Heartburn in the morning.
 Scrapy heartburn.
300. Severe hiccup, twice in the evening and then much sneezing (aft. 36 h.).
 Severe hiccup, some three times a day, for several days.
 Nausea with eructation (aft. 24 h.).
 Nausea, in the morning, on awaking, till breakfast, for one hour.
 Nausea every morning, just after awaking; she cannot eat her breakfast.
305. Sick and qualmish all day long (aft. 6, 10 d.).
 Nausea the whole day, so severe that it frequently takes her breath, without vomiting.
 Nausea, all day with lack of appetite, sourish taste in the mouth, and white, dry tongue.
 Violent nausea, with cold sweat and shooting in the right side of the abdomen.
 Nausea in the morning, with collection of water in the mouth.
310. Sudden nausea when walking, with gathering of water in the mouth, transient heat of the face and vertigo; for a quarter of an hour (aft. 14 d.).
 Momentary attacks of nausea in the morning or evening, when there is also a heaving to vomit.

- Qualmish sensation in the stomach (aft. 24 h.).
Sensation of emptiness in the stomach, with numb feeling in the head.
- Sensation of great emptiness in the stomach, as after long-continued hunger.
315. Relaxation of the stomach.
Intolerable heaviness in the stomach, relieved by severe exercise on foot.
Stomachache in the morning.
Pressure in the stomach, before breakfast; it ceases after eating.
Pressure in the stomach and diarrhœa, in the afternoon, after previous colic.
320. Pressure in the scrobiculus cordis, attended with nausea two mornings in succession, before breakfast.
Inflation of the stomach, in the afternoon.
Stomach and abdomen are often painful, now as if they were contracted, then again, as if they were stretched out.
Pinching in the scrobiculus cordis (aft. 2 d.).
Snatching in the stomach, as from a cold, with anxiety in the evening, for a quarter of an hour.
325. Clawing sensation in the stomach, as from a cold, wakes her very early.
Severe pain in the scrobiculus, as if something was being torn off there.
Cutting about the stomach, with urging to stool (aft. 4 d.).
Stitches in the scrobiculus cordis, in the afternoon.
In the hepatic region, pressure.
330. Stitches in the hepatic region, at any exertion of the body.
Stitches in the right side of the abdomen, with nausea.
In the left hypochondrium, pressure (aft. 12 d.).
Shooting in both the hypochondria, passing away without discharge of flatus.
Pains in the abdomen, with pressive pain.
335. Pressure and pinching in the abdomen, as after taking a cold, awakes him about midnight.
Inflation of the abdomen, especially after a meal, with pressure below the scrobiculus cordis.
Inflation of the abdomen, for two days (aft. 3 d.).
The abdomen is inflated with flatus.
The abdomen very much inflated, in the evening, when going to sleep.
340. Abdomen very much inflated, from drinking but little (aft. 4 d.).
Inflated, distended abdomen, and indolence, in the afternoon, for several hours.
Painful tension all over the abdomen, with pain in the lower left part of the abdomen, as if something would burst through there, or as if from an internal wound, in paroxysms of two or three hours' duration.
Tension and cramps in the abdomen (aft. 3 d.).

- Clawing sensation in both sides of the abdomen, with heaviness of the lower limbs and great drowsiness.
345. Gripping and pinching moving about, above the navel, in frequent attacks.
- Pinching in the abdomen, for several evenings (aft. 48 h.).
  - Pinching in the abdomen, every ten minutes; she must bend double every time (aft. 13 d.).
  - Pinching and growling in the abdomen, in the evening.
  - Pinching in the abdomen and diarrhœa, all the day (aft. 24 h.).
350. Cutting in the epigastrium, with nausea and diarrhœa, awakes him at 4 A. M. (aft. 48 h.)
- Cutting pain in the abdomen, late in the evening; she had to bend double.
  - Cutting in the abdomen, as from a cold; then diarrhœa with straining (aft. 36 h.).
  - Cutting in the abdomen (at once) and again after seventy-two hours in the morning on awaking, and several times during the day.
  - Much cutting in the abdomen, for two days, and at first, evacuation of fœces, then of bloody mucus with but little fœces.
355. Severe cutting pain in the abdomen, for two days, with gripping in the abdomen, then much eructation, vomiting of clear water, diarrhœa and headache (after sever. h.).
- Cutting pain in the abdomen, quite early in the morning, then diarrhœa of very fetid, camphor-like smell and, after this evacuation, ineffectual tenesmus.
  - Drawing cutting in the abdomen, with eructation and emission of flatus.
  - Pain in the abdomen, as from catching a cold.
  - Disagreeable internal itching in the abdomen, not improved by external rubbing.
360. The muscles of the hypogastrium, as it were, go to sleep, and tingle; this extends down to the thighs when sitting, she had to rise up and walk about (aft. 21 d.).
- Pimple on the abdomen, burning when touched.
  - In the right inguinal ring, pressure (aft. sev. h.).
  - Shooting pain in the right groin, after nocturnal pollution.
  - Cramplike pain in both groins, like a pressure, when walking and lying down, but most of all when sitting.
365. Pain in the groin as if an inguinal hernia would protrude, at every impulse of coughing.
- Accumulation of flatus and movement of the same in the abdomen (at once.).
  - Growling in the abdomen, in the evening.
  - Discharge of much very fetid flatus, for many days.
  - Very fetid flatus, before the liquid stool.
370. Sensation in the abdomen, as of incipient diarrhœa, without stool.
- Frequent urging to stool, with a scanty diarrhœic discharge every time, with much straining as if there was much more coming (aft. 24 h.).

- Inclination to diarrhœa, and two soft stools (after 24 h.).
 Diarrhœa with colic.
 Diarrhœa, after spoiling the stomach, especially in stormy weather.
375. Watery stool, with pain in the abdomen, for six days.
 Two diarrhœic stools, and then an inordinate exhaustion.
 Mucus with the stool.
 Profuse mucous diarrhœa (after sever. h.).
 Diarrhœa, of much bloody mucus (aft. 4 d.).
380. Frequent stool of mere bloody mucus, with great weariness.
 Stool soft and yet it is accompanied with straining.
 Soft, difficult stool, as if from inactivity of the bowels,
 Frequent urging to stool, followed every time by a scanty diarrhœic evacuation, with frequent straining, as if much yet would follow.
 The stool becomes harder during the after-effects (aft 28 d.).
385. Stool only with much straining, as if the rectum had not the strength to expel it.
 No stool for two days, but much urging, the rectum seemed too weak to expel the fœces (after 4, 5 d.).
 Stool expelled with difficulty, with sore pain in the anus.
 With a difficult stool, the child loses blood.
 Ascarides pass with the stool.
390. Discharge of ascarides.
 After the stool, ravenous hunger, but quick satiety.
 After the stool, inflation from flatulence.
 After a (second) good stool, qualmishness and sensation of weakness (aft. 24 h.).
 After the stool, he feels quite weak and dizzy, his sight failed him and he had to close his eyes to recover himself.
395. Pressure about the anus (aft. 6 d.),
 Pressive pain in the rectum, two days before the menses, she had to bend forward; when straightening her body, pains darted through the rectum, and when walking, the stitches multiplied.
 Itching on the anus, when going to sleep.
 Burning pain in the region of the anus.
 Burning and shooting in the rectum and anus (aft. 18 d.).
400. Fistula in the rectum.
 Scurf on the border of the anus, with tickling erosive sensation.
 Frequent urging to urinate; the urine goes off in a bifid stream, with burning pain, and with tearing in the glans.
 Frequent urging to urinate; but little urine is passed.
Very frequent micturition and but very little urine at a time (aft. 4, 7 d.).
405. Frequent micturition (aft. 10 d.).
 Twice as frequent micturition, and far more liquid is passed than he has drunk (aft. 24, 25, 26 d.).
 Involuntary micturition.
 Urine with white sediment (aft. 9 d.).
 Urine very dark-yellow, with much red sediment (aft. 3, 4 d.).

410. The urine quickly deposits a red sediment, while the surface is covered with a shining pellicle.
 Urine blood-red and turbid.
 Dark-brown clouds in the urine, after standing awhile.
 Brown urine, very fetid, of sourish smell.
 Strong ammoniacal smell of the urine.
415. Fetid smell of the urine, it deposits a red, slimy sand, which firmly adheres to the vessel.
 Pressure upon the bladder; he was urged to urinate almost ten times during the afternoon, and it was quite a while each time before any urine came (aft. 9 d.).
 Scalding urine.
 During micturition, burning in the neck of the bladder.
 At the beginning and the termination of micturition, cutting in the neck of the bladder.
420. After micturition, some urine continues to drip.
 Violent contraction in the region of the bladder, on both sides of the mons veneris, especially when passing urine, which was then frequently arrested.
Burning pain in the urethra, toward evening.
 Twitching in the urethra, as in seminal emissions.
 Emission of mucus from the urethra.
425. In the penis, a stitch during micturition.
 In the glans, a tearing pain (at once).
 Itching in the glans, passing over into shooting.
 Smooth, red spot on the glans, without sensation (aft. 12 d.).
 Reddish eruption on the glans, with itching.
430. In the left testicle (spermatic cord?) cramp-like pain, while the scrotum was contracted.
 Itching jerking in the right side of the scrotum, constant.
Itching and moisture on the scrotum.
 Redness and humid soreness on the one side of the scrotum.
 Less inclination to coitus, and less incitement thereto in his fancy (the first days).
435. Several erections, without lascivious thoughts (aft. 21 d.).
 Nightly erections, without lewd fancies.
 Erections every morning on awaking (the first 18 d.).
 It restores erections and potency for a few months.
 Violent excitation to seminal emissions, in the morning after awaking, in the interior of the sexual organs, without flatulent troubles (aft. 4 d.).
440. During amorous dallying, emission of semen (aft. 11 d.).
 During coitus, tardy emission of semen (aft. 21 d.).
 Two pollutions (the first n.).
 Pollution, followed by anxious heat in the morning (aft. 48 h.).
 Soreness, at the side of the female pudenda.
445. Itching in the female urethra, during micturition, after previous urging.
 Female aversion to coitus (the first 4 weeks).
 Burning in the sexual organs, with some discharge of blood (aft. sever. h.).

- The long-suppressed menses appear to some degree (aft. 6 d.).
 Menses too soon (aft. 4 d.).
450. Menses some days too early and too scanty (4th d.).
 Menses several days too soon (aft. 8 d.).
 Menses five days too soon (aft. 2 d.).
 Menses six days too soon.
 Menses retarded by ten days, till the full moon (aft. 24 d.).
455. The blood discharged at the menstrual flow erodes the sexual parts.
 During the menses, heat in the soles of the feet and in the hands.
 During the menses, singing and roaring in the ears.
 During the menses, painful tearing in the thigh.
 During the menses, spots on the legs, which pain when touched.
460. During the menses, weary in the body and as if bruised.
 Vaginal discharge, like albumen.
 Leucorrhœa, daily in larger quantity, for several days (aft. sever. h.).
 * * * * *
- Sneezing, daily and very often.
 Much sneezing, with drowsiness, toward evening.
465. Sneezing and catarrhal sensation in the throat, with titillation urging to cough.
 Sensation of stoppage in the posterior nares.
 Stuffed coryza and ulcerated nostrils.
 Severe coryza (aft. 13 d.).
 The mucus stops up the nose, he has to expel it forcibly, in little lumps.
470. Hoarseness, in the afternoon.
 Severe hoarseness, for several days.
Cough, from dryness in the throat (aft. 10 d.).
 Cough, from scraping in the throat (aft. 19 d.).
 Cough, with scraping in the throat (aft. 4 d.).
475. Cough, deep from the chest (aft. 13 d.).
 Cough, every time he smokes tobacco.
 Toward evening, a cough which fatigues the chest, caused by an irritation deep down in the windpipe.
 Cough, at night.
 Cough, only at night, after going to sleep, and then the cough is very severe.
480. Dry scraping cough, taking away the breath; she cannot cough up the mucus.
 Severe coughing and much expectoration for eight days (aft. 23 d.).
 During coughing, she feels like vomiting.
 The breathing is oppressed, especially when going up stairs, when beginning to walk, and when talking loudly.
 Whenever the child fell down, or knocked against something, its breathing was at once arrested.
485. When breathing at night in bed, rattling in the windpipe.

- Rattling in the windpipe, and dry cough, in the evening in bed, before going to sleep.
- Asthma and broken windedness, as from constriction of the windpipe, with tickling, causing a dry cough.
- Asthma, in the evening, for several hours.
- Short breath (aft. 18 d.).
490. Tightness of the chest at night, and restless sleep.
Tightness of the chest and shortness of breath, more while sitting than while walking.
The chest is very sensitive to cold air, and after being exposed to it, she feels next day a great tightness on the chest.
Pressure and tightness on the chest, in the afternoon.
Pressure on the sternum, in the morning.
495. Pressure on the upper part of the sternum, at night, disappearing through eructations.
Compressive squeezing on the chest, from the anterior part.
Pressure and digging in the chest.
Acutely pressive drawing pain on the left short ribs, on the left side of the chest and in the right hypochondrium.
Shooting in the right side of the chest, then in the left side, just below the arm.
500. Shooting, cutting pain, anteriorly, from the right side of the chest to the left, when he (during a meal) bends his body toward the left side.
Shooting pain in the chest,
Shooting pain on the chest, and contractive pain in the head, when coughing.
Violent stitches in the side.
Violent stitch as far as the heart, taking away his breath.
505. Sensation of coldness in the chest, in the cardiac region.
Occasional momentary palpitation.
A sort of palpitation, extending to the navel, while sitting still, in the evening.
On the chest under the arm, a severe pain, more tearing than shooting, it prevented him from sleeping all night.
The nipples itch, and have a mealy covering.
510. The coccyx is painful, when sitting.
Severe though brief pain in the sacrum, when rising from a seat (aft. 14 d.).
Cutting pain in the sacrum, in the morning after rising, and in the evening before going to sleep, only when moving and bending down, not when standing upright.
Painful jerks in the sacrum, during many movements.
Sprained pain in the sacrum, in the morning in bed, also when sitting.
515. Great weariness and stiffness in the sacrum and coccyx, in the evening.
Weakness in the sacrum, after a walk (aft. 8 d.).
Pain in the back, so severe that he cannot move.
The spine is painful, from comfortably driving in a carriage, as from a concussion.
Pressure on the shoulder and in the back.

520. Pressure, heaviness and weariness in the back, in the morning (aft. 11 d.).
 Heaviness in the back.
 Cramp in the back and in the ribs in front, with pearls of sweat in the face and on the arms for three-fourths of an hour, then a profuse mucous diarrhœa (aft. sever. h.).
 Rigidity in the back.
 Stiffness and drawing in the back.
525. Drawing in the back, ceasing on bending backward.
 Frequently, a yawning stretching in the rump.
 Sprained pain and oppression between the scapulæ, extending into the chest.
 Sprained pain in the back and the scapulæ, extending into the chest, two or three times a day, arresting the breathing.
 Tearing in the back between the scapulæ, so that she could not move.
530. Painful jerk in the back, at every deglutition, also during abortive eructation; sometimes also without deglutition, when at rest; but every time afterwards, there follows an arrest of the breathing.
 Sweat on the back and on the chest, while at rest during the day.
 The skin of the left side of the back pains, as if excoriated.
 In the nape a pressive pain, aggravated by the slightest movement.
 Pain in the nape.
535. Heaviness in the nape.
 Very painful troublesome drawing in the nape, extending to the occiput.
 The right side of the neck feels stiff.
 The shoulder-joint pains, when lifting up the arm.
 Tension and drawing on the top of the shoulder.
540. Drawing pain in the left shoulder, extending to the elbow.
 Frequent twitching in the right shoulder (aft. 8 h.).
 Sprained pain in the shoulder-joint, when lifting up the arm.
 Profuse sweat in the axillæ.
 Boil in the axilla, with more of a tearing than a shooting pain, threatening suppuration.
545. In the arm, here and there, a sudden cramplike pressure.
 Muscular twitchings on the arms.
 Early in bed, the arm stretches, he has to extend it involuntarily.
 Drawing pain in the right arm, then in the head.
 Stitches upward and downward, in the whole of the right arm, across the elbow, especially when bending the arm, but also when at rest.
550. The left arm goes to sleep, for several days.
 The arms and hands readily go to sleep, at night, when he lies on them.
Great weakness in the arms.
 Internal trembling in the arm.
 Erysipelatous inflammation of the skin on the arm, with burning pain.

555. Yellow spots, on the right arm (aft. 6 d.).
 On the upper arm, a severe cramp, when holding in the hand even the lightest object, and renewed by the slightest motion; the deltoid muscle becomes quite hard; the next day the spot is painful as if bruised.
 Sharp pressure on the right upper arm, commencing like twitching (at. 16 d.).
 Tearing in the right upper arm.
 Paralysis around the elbow joint for two days.
560. Itching in the bend of the elbow (aft. 12 d.).
 On the fore-arm, a furuncle, with shooting pain when touched.
 The wrist-joint pains, as if strained.
 Drawing pain in the right hand, and the index. (3d d.).
 Shooting in the right hand, extending into the fingers, in the morning in bed (aft. 15 d.).
565. She is continually cold on the hands; she must cover and wrap them up.
 Burning in the palms (aft. 4 d.).
 Burning in the hands, in the morning on awaking (aft. 6 d.).
 First, heat of the hands, then perspiration of the palms.
 Much sweat of the hands.
570. The skin of the hands is chapped and rough.
 Cracked, fissured skin of the hands, full of chaps (aft. 13 d.).
 Itching in the palms (aft. 16 d.).
In the fingers, a drawing, for some moments.
 Drawing in the tips of the fingers.
575. A scratching pain on the posterior joint of the right thumb.
 Shooting pain in the anterior joint of the right index, as from a splinter in the bone, externally it itches.
 Transient stitches in the ball of the right thumb (aft. 6 d.).
 Sprained pain in the posterior joint of the thumb.
 Rigor in the evening, first of one finger, then also of the others, extending up through the whole of the arm, with tendency to faint; by quickly going into the open air all the symptoms disappeared, except a continued palpitation and heaviness in the arms (aft. 19 d.).
580. Itching on the joints of the fingers.
Rough, fissured, cracked tips of the fingers, with shooting and cutting pains (aft. 8 d.).
 The nails of the fingers are painful when grasped, as if they were bruised.
 Pecking, in the wart on the finger, in the evening, in bed, when touched, it pains as if sore.
 Burning pain in the wart on the finger, as if it would suppurate, in the evening in bed.
585. In the hip, pressure, when sitting.
 Transient drawing pain in the left hip-joint (aft. 7 d.).
 Sprained pain in the hip, beside the sacrum, when moving.
 Redness and humid soreness, in the upper inner side of the thighs (aft. 12 d.).
 Small, itching pimple in the corner between the scrotum and the thigh.

590. Severe shooting in an inveterate, painless, soft tumor, on the upper inner side of the right thigh.
 Itching on a red herpetic spot, on the upper inner side of the thigh.
 The lower limbs feel heavy.
 Sensation of coldness in the right lower limb, at night.
 Pain and stiffness in the lower limbs (aft. 5 d.).
595. Drawing pain in the left lower limb.
 Restlessness in the lower limbs; he has to keep moving them to and fro.
 The thighs are stiff and clumsy in walking.
 Pain in the left thigh when moving; she could not rise from her seat on that account (aft. 8 d.).
 Tensive pressure on the posterior side of the thigh above the hough.
600. Cramp in the thighs, all the day.
 Transient, twitching pain in the left thigh (aft. 16 d.).
 Inflamed, large pimple, above the knee.
 Large furuncle on the thigh (aft. 25 d.).
 In the knee, tension, during the first step after sitting.
605. Cramp-like pain in the knee joint.
 Cramp in the left knee, when walking.
 Straining and burning in the houghs.
 Stiffness in the knees and legs.
 Stiffness in the hough and the leg (aft. 9 d.).
610. Stiffness in the knees and ankles
 Jerking pain, with tickling, in the knee-joints.
 Tearing in the left knee, in the evening; she could not stretch it.
Stitches in the knees.
 Shooting in the right knee-joint, as from a sprain; in the evening, when walking and lying down, not when sitting.
615. Bruised pain in the knees and the tibiæ.
 Pain, as after a blow, on the patella.
 Constant paralyzing, stinging sensation of being asleep, extending from above the knee down into the foot, when walking and sitting.
 Weakness in the right knee, when walking; it disappears when the walk is continued.
 Painful weakness in the knees; in the morning, just after rising from bed.
620. Cracking in the knee, as if one of the cartilages was displaced, with pain on moving it.
 Large, red spot on the left knee, later on with pressive pain.
 Frequently a cold spot on the knee, from which a cold stream passes through the whole lower limb.
 The legs, and especially the ankles, feel as if enclosed by an iron band.
 Pain of the tibiæ, when walking.
625. Cramp in the calves, the thighs and the feet, all the day.
 Severe cramp in the legs (at once).
 Cramp-like drawing in the right tibia.

- Twitching of the right leg, beginning from the knee, painful, felt only while walking.
Tearing, shooting and pressing on a (formerly ulcerated) spot of the leg.
630. Eruptive blotches on both the calves, which itch violently.
On the foot, pressive pain and weakness below the external malleolus.
Pressure in the right heel.
Tension in the foot, when walking (aft. 7 d.).
Cramp in the sole of the foot, at night (aft. 8, 11 d.).
635. Stiffness of the foot, and when moving it cramp in the sole of the foot.
Momentary drawing in the foot, when walking.
Severe drawing and twitching in the feet (aft. 9 d.).
Tearing in the heel, in the morning, on awaking.
Cracking in the ankle-joint on moving the foot.
640. Stitches, like splinters, in the heel.
Beating in the soles of the feet, worst when getting to rest.
Sensation of swelling in the feet.
Swelling of the foot for several days.
Swelling and heat of the anterior part of the sole of the foot, for two evenings successively, for one hour, with burning.
645. Burning itching on the external malleolus.
Blisters on the heel.
Sweat of the soles of the feet.
Profuse sweat of the feet (aft. 56 d.).
The toes are drawn inward by cramp, in the evening.
650. Pressure in the ball of the big toe, as if it had been frozen, or as if there was an iron band around it.
Tearing drawing in the ball of the right big toe.
Stitches, like needle-pricks, crossing each other in the toes.
Sprained pain in the posterior joints of the toes, when treading.
Eruption between the toes.
655. In the corns, stitches.
Burning pain in the corns.
Itching of the skin, with a febrile rigor.
Itching on the whole body, in the morning, when in a half sleep.
Itching stitches all over the body, with great anxiety, at 7 P. M.
660. Stitches on the body, now here now there (2d. 3d d.)
Painful sensitiveness of the skin of the whole body, every garment presses painfully on the body.
Everything is too hard in sitting and lying.
Unhealthy skin; even small lesions suppurate and spread.
Shooting in the ulcer.
665. Liable to take cold; this causes her to feel, as it were, faint.
From a cold there ensue headache, lachrymation, inflammation of the throat, cough and coryza (aft. 2 d.).
Aversion to the open air.

- In the evening, when walking, he felt the air keenly, he was cold (in July).
He feels the open air, when walking and it is disagreeable to him.
670. After a short walk, a sort of nervous debility all over the body.
When walking, burning all over the body.
At an approaching thunder-storm, sensation as if fainting.
A slight vexation is very injurious; the taste in the mouth becomes bitter, the appetite is lost; a short walk then fatigues her; several diarrhœic stools; when going to sleep, the blood is still in violent motion; attended with eructation and nausea; restless sleep; on the following morning a quivering and trembling all through the body; diarrhœa and internal misery, so that the tears continually stood in her eyes (aft. 9 d.)
Strong circulation of the blood, at the slightest movement.
675. Violent ebullition of blood, in the evening, and bitter taste.
Strong pulse, especially on walking and going up-stairs (aft. 2, 3 d.).
Strong pulse, when walking, with paleness of the face and impeded speech (aft. 9 d.).
After driving: when leaving the carriage and walking up and down in the open air, sudden violent nausea and such weakness, that she sank down, with urging to stool, quite cold sweat on the head, neck and chest, while the face was quite pale, and blue rings around the eyes; after the stool, a violent chill and the following evening some heat.
Twitching in the noon-siesta and the night-sleep.
680. Twitches in the limbs by day (aft. 7 d.).
Sprained pain in the arms, chest and back, in the forenoon (aft. 18 d.).
Stiff, awkward arms and legs in the morning after rising.
Quivering tension all through the body, with apprehension and ill humor.
Cracking of the joints.
685. Weakness in the joints (aft. 15 d.).
The limbs feel bruised, in the evening; he knows not where to lay them (aft. 13 d.).
Gout-pain in the joints of the hip, the knees, and the ankle, at night.
Paralytic, pressive drawing, in the left tibia and the fore-arm, on the extensor-surface (aft. 24 d.).
Drawing pressure on the bones, here and there, not relieved by walking in the open air (aft. 3 d.).
690. Twitching, sharp pressure on various parts (aft. 16 d.).
Cramplike drawing and pressure in the limbs (aft. 5 d.).
Burning in the throat, the stomach, and the right side of the abdomen.
The arms and legs readily go to sleep.
Heaviness in the feet, and in the whole body.
695. Heaviness in all the limbs, and indolence.

- Intense heaviness of the lower limbs; she totters in walking.
Restlessness in the limbs; he cannot stay in any one place.
Weary pain in the top of the shoulders, the spine and the loins.
- Lassitude in the body and heaviness in the lower limbs.
700. General feeling of uncomfotableness, as if a severe disease was imminent, with tremulousness and great lassitude (aft. 3 d.).
Great lassitude without external cause (aft. 15 d.).
So weary, that the limbs pained for lassitude.
Great lassitude after a walk (aft. 11 d.).
He readily gets tired by the lightest occupation.
705. Lack of strength (aft. 7 d.).
Sensation of fainting, in the morning, after going out; when he came into the room, he felt unwell, there was heat in the face and like a veil before the eyes, with compression in the temples; he was near fainting; but when he roused himself, it all passed over in three minutes.
Sudden, almost momentary loss of strength, even to faintness, with paleness of the face and sudden nausea, which comes and goes quickly, for a quarter of an hour (aft. 4, 5 h.).
Visible emaciation, with good appetite.
Trembling in the morning, on rising.
710. Irresistible weariness.
Very weary, in the morning, in bed, the limbs are as if bruised (aft. 11 d.).
Weariness of the limbs and bruised feeling, especially in the evening in bed, when lying down.
Very tired in the morning on rising; she has to sit for half an hour to recover.
Exhaustion of the whole body, in the morning; he could only walk about in the room with difficulty, and had to lie down again.
715. Intense drowsiness, and weariness in all the limbs.
So weak, that she goes to sleep while sitting.
Drowsiness by day (aft. 17 d.).
Drowsiness in the evening, when sitting still, for several evenings.
In the evening in bed, he cannot go to sleep for a long time, and tosses about all the night.
720. He tosses about all night in bed, and only sleeps a quarter of an hour at a time.
He lies in a constant slumber.
Snorting in his sleep, in the morning.
His night's sleep is interrupted by pollutions and tenesmus of the bladder.
Much micturition at night.
725. He wakes up every night two or three times to urinate, and passes much urine.
At night, heaviness of the lower limbs and weariness in the back.
At night, cramp in the calves.
At night, cramp in the tendo Achillis.
At night, the coldness of his feet does not allow him to sleep.

730. At night, she feels at once so intolerably hot under her covers, that she has to uncover herself from time to time.
 At night, anxious heat (with itching), so that he is beside himself for despair, and can not contain himself.
 At night, first, sweat on the back, causing him to wake up at 4 o'clock; then dry internal heat with uncomfortableness, so that he cannot get to sleep again
 At night, fanciful slumber.
 At night, no sleep, but only fantasies over one and the same disagreeable subject, attended with night-sweat.
735. He imagines that somebody is lying beside him.
 He rises up in bed and gets out.
 Night sleep full of dreams.
 Annoying dreams, at night.
 Confused dreams, at night, and frequent awaking.
740. Vivid dreams, which cannot be recalled (aft. 2 d.).
 Restless sleep, and anxious dreams (aft. 10 d.).
 Vivid, gruesome dreams, every night.
 Frightful dreams of robbers, every night.
 Frightful dreams, every night; every dream continues all night, and in the morning she is weary.
745. Dream of committing lewdness and murder, with great anxiety; repeated in the afternoon siesta, as if he completed the murder of that person.
 Starting up at night from fearful dreams.
 Starting up, in the evening in sleep, so that the limbs trembled.
 She was frightened in her sleep, and experienced palpitation, trembling, vomiting and a profuse diarrhœic stool.
 In the evening, while still awake in bed, the whole body experienced a jerk.
750. Coldness in bed, in the evening, so that she could not get warm, then night sweat.
 Cold feet, every evening.
 Chilliness in the evening, then flying heat in the face.
 Febrile rigor, every evening.
 Excessive chill from the morning till noon, with dull headache and drawing toward the forehead, all the day (aft. 24 d.).
755. Severe chill in the forenoon at 10 o'clock, with coldness of the hands and of the face, without thirst for half an hour; then in the afternoon, heat in the face, especially in the eyes, with thirst, for one hour.
 Severe internal febrile rigor, in the evening at 10 o'clock, for one-quarter of an hour, for several evenings.
 Chill through the whole body, he has to lie down (aft. 72 h.).
 Chill every afternoon, at three or four o'clock, for two hours, attended with cold hands and with dryness in the mouth.
 Febrile coldness at 6 P. M. with blue nails (aft. 7 d.).
760. Fever and chill, with complete prostration and painful sensation in the whole body (aft. 2 d.).
 Febrile rigor at 7 P. M. for one hour, then sweat in the face, and on the whole body, except the lower limbs, which were quite cold at the time (aft. 6 d.).

- Fever, with full pulse and burning in the skin, but without pain.
 Heat in the head, with cold, moist hands.
 Heat before midnight, with burning pain in the mouth; after midnight, a chill (aft. 4 d.).
765. With internal heat of the body, heat and dryness in the wind-pipe; at the same time uncomfortableness, irritation and exhaustion.
 Heat and chill at the same time (almost like a febrile rigor), both internally, at 10 P. M., with disposition to weep.
 Heat in the whole body, in the morning on awaking.
 Heat, for several evenings, from five to six o'clock (aft. 9 d.).
 Sensation of heat on the whole body, for thirty-six hours.
770. Flushes of heat all over the body (aft. 5 d.).
 Flushes of heat six or eight times a day, so that she at once perspired all over.
 Flushes of heat in the face, hands burning hot, parched tongue and agitated breath, every evening from five till six o'clock.
 He very easily falls into perspiration.
 Sweat of the legs, extending beyond the knees, and of the fore-arms, especially on the wrist-joints.
775. Profuse night-sweat (aft. 6 d.).
 Very profuse night-sweat (aft. 24 h.).

PHOSPHORUS.

Phosphorus is chemically prepared from bone-acid (phosphoric acid) by distillation with charcoal; it is remarkable for its easy spontaneous combustion. It is dynamized for homœopathic use in the manner described at the end of the first part of this work, p. 147.

Phosphorus properly potentized in this manner is one of the most indispensable and chiefly antipsoric remedies.*

Nevertheless this medicine will rarely be found appropriate in cases of chronic (unvenereal) diseases, where lack of sexual impulse and weakness in the genital parts is manifest, or the female period is retarded, or generally, where there is too great weakness and lack of vital strength. If it should, nevertheless, be homœopathically indicated, in order to keep up the strength as far as possible, the transfer of vital power from a healthy person (mesmerism*) should be made use of; i. e., from time to time a kindly, strong, healthy person should hold for a few minutes the hands of the feeble patient in his hands, directing his mind upon him with compassionate heart and with an earnest desire of benefiting him; or he may lay his hands on the most enfeebled, suffering part of his body, keeping away all noise which might distract the attention of the one who communicates the force and also of the patient; no persons must be allowed to crowd up while this treatment is going on.

*How entirely medicinal substances, by potentizing through trituration and succussion (which were first used by Homœopathy), are removed out of their chemical sphere, may be seen, among other things, by the remarkable fact, that a powder of sugar of milk containing one or two pellets moistened with this medicine, potentized to, say, the decillionth attenuation, though it may have been kept a year and a day, will yet retain its medicinal virtue undiminished, and shows the dynamic effect of phosphorus, and has not, therefore, been turned into phosphoric acid, which has quite a different effect on the human health.

This medicine is best adapted to cases where there are long continued soft or thin stools.

In cases where the potentized phosphorus was homœopathically indicated, it also removed the following ailments if they happened to be present at the same time.

Lack of cheerfulness, apprehensiveness when alone; anxiety about the future; irritability and anxiety; timidity; liability to be startled; irritability and peevishness; aversion to work; vertigo of various kinds; stupefying headache; rush of blood to the head; morning-headache; shooting pains, externally on the side of the head; itching on the head; falling out of the hair; burning and erosion on the outer canthus; inflammation of the eyes, with heat and pressure as from a grain of sand; lachrymation in the wind; lachrymating eyes, closed at night by suppuration; the eyelids are difficult to open; dimness of vision; short-sightedness; day-blindness, when everything appeared covered with a grey covering; obscuration of the eyes by candle-light; cataract; glaucoma; black appearance before the eyes; black spots floating before the eyes; beating, throbbing in the ears; hissing in the ears; hardness of hearing, with respect to human speech; expulsion of blood from the nose; epistaxis; bad smell from the nose; lack of smell; dirty complexion; redness and burning of the cheeks; tearing in the upper and lower jaws, while lying down by night; toothache as from festering, in the morning when chewing; shooting toothache, every night till two o'clock; soreness in the inside of the mouth; mucus in the mouth; white tongue; dryness of the throat, by day and by night; scratching and burning in the throat; erosion and burning in the throat; in the morning, hawking of mucus from the fauces; slimy taste in the mouth; cheesy taste in the mouth; lack of taste; eructations; spasmodic eructations; sour eructations;

* So to be named after Mesmer, in thankful acknowledgment, as he was the first active promulgator of this new power.

hungry morning-nausea; longing for something refreshing; hunger after eating; ravenous hunger; after partaking of acid things, always waterbrash; nausea after eating; qualmishness in the abdomen after breakfast; heat and apprehensiveness after eating; burning in the hands after eating; after eating, indolence and drowsiness; stomach-ache; severe pressure in the stomach after eating, with vomiting of all the ingesta; a sort of constriction of the upper gastric orifice so that the food just eaten returns into the mouth; painfulness of the scrobiculus cordis when touched; digging in the scrobiculus cordis; fullness in the stomach; bloatedness after dinner; pains in the abdomen, in the morning in bed; want of tensive force in the abdomen; straining in the sides of the abdomen; rumbling in the abdomen; growling in the abdomen; torments from flatus; incarceration of flatus; inguinal hernia; severe tenesmus before the stool; tearing in the abdomen, with much tenesmus; stool too dry; chronic discharge of thin and soft stools; discharge of blood with the stool; discharge of tape-worm; itching of the anus; varices of the rectum and anus; emission of mucus from the anus, which is always open; tension in the urethra; erosion in the urethra when urinating; scalding of the urine; twitching like burning in the urethra, when not urinating; too violent erections in the evening; incessant urging to coitus; feble and too rapid emission of semen during coitus; too frequent pollutions; stitches in the vagina, extending into the uterus; menses too scanty and watery; during the menses, fermentation; leucorrhœa.

Stuffed coryza; troublesome dryness of the nose; constant flow of mucus from the nose; roughness of the throat; expectoration of mucus from the throat; tickling in the throat; exciting cough; tickling on the chest; cough caused by tickling; chronic cough; cough excited by laughter; cough leading to vomiting; cough with rawness and hoarseness on the chest; nocturnal cough with stitches in the throat; hard breathing; loud, panting breath; pressure on the chest; heaviness in the chest; stitches in the left side of the chest, where there is also a stitch when it is touched; chronic stitches in the side; pain as of sore burning in the chest; pain below the left side of the chest, when lying upon it; palpitation while sitting; pain as of a fracture in the back; stiffness of the nape; thick neck; pain of the arm on lifting it; tearing shooting in the arms and the scapulæ; heat of the hands; trembling of the hands; drawing pain in the knees; twitching in the calves; exostosis of the tibiæ; nocturnal coldness of the feet; the soles of the feet are sore as from festering, when he walks; jerks in the feet by day, and by night before going to sleep; tearing in the limbs; numbness of the tips of the fingers and of the toes; yellow spots on the abdomen and the chest; brown spots on the body; straining by lifting; pulsations all over the body; drowsiness by day; drowsiness in the morning; late in falling asleep; sleep full of dreams; frightful dreams; chilliness every evening in bed; transient heat; morning-sweat.

My fellow-observers are the Medical Counsellor, Dr. Stapf, Stf.; Dr. Gross, Gr.; the doctors Hartlaub and Trinks, Htb. u. Tr. in their "Reine Arzneimittellehre," and three anonymous persons there: Bds., Mbn. and Ng. ibid.; Dr. Hering, Hg.; Dr. Schreter, Sr., and Dr. Goullon, Gl.<sup>1</sup>

PHOSPHORUS.

Great dejection (aft. 5 d.).

Troubled, reserved, meditative. [Ng.]

Not disposed to anything, indolent, sullen. [Ng.]

Sad and dejected for a long time. [Ng.]

5. Sad and melancholy, as if some accident had happened to his beloved ones (aft. 14 d.). [Ng.]

Disconsolate sorrowfulness, with weeping and crying, in the morning (aft. 5 d.).

Sad and discouraged, but not so as to weep.

Sad and dejected. [Stf.]

Troubled mood, dejection.

10. Sadness in the twilight, for several evenings, successively at the same hour.

Melancholy.

The world seemed dreadful to him; only weeping could relieve him; soon afterward total apathy and indifference.

Melancholy of spirit and violent weeping, toward morning, on awaking from a saddening dream; he could not restrain nor calm his weeping and lamented yet for a quarter of an hour. [Htb.]

Troubled mood and very susceptible to emotions especially with respect to apprehensiveness (through the whole period). [Htb.]

15. Sad, apprehensive, pusillanimous. [Ng.]

Anguish.<sup>1</sup> [VOIGTEL, Arzneimittellehre IV., 46.]

Apprehension, as if she was grieved about something, frequently recurring. [Ng.]

Anxiety and heat in the head, with hot, red hands, frequently recurring and seemingly alleviated while standing. [Ng.]

Anxious sensation of oppression.

20. Anguish at times in the evening, as if about to die (the first d.).

<sup>1</sup> A pathogenesis of Phosphorus appears in the first edition of this work, containing 963 symptoms from Hahnemann and 62 from authors. Soon after, Hartlaub and Trinks published another one in Vol. I. of their Arzneimittellehre, without any information as to how it was obtained. To this belong the Hartlaub and the "three unknown persons" of the above list. "Bds." being Bandis and "Ng," of course, Nennung. The contributions from Stapf, Gross, Hering, Schreter and Goullon are doubtless of the usual kind. Hahnemann's own symptoms are increased by 206, and the citations from authors have risen to 84.—Hughes.

<sup>1</sup> Statements from authors.—Hughes.

Apprehensiveness, like the foreboding of misfortune.

Many anxieties, in the evening (aft. 8 d.).

Anxiously solicitous, about the unfortunate issue of her disease.

Anguish and internal restlessness, without any imaginable reason.

25. Anxiety and restlessness, with much sweat on the forehead and heat in the head.

Restlessness in the head, in the forenoon. [Ng.]

Restlessness. [VOIGTEL.]

Restlessness during thunder-storms.

Great restlessness (aft. 2 d.).

30. Fearfulness and horror, in the evening.

Dreadful fearfulness, late in the evening, as if a horrid face was looking out of every corner.

Great anxiety and irritability on being alone.

Attacks of anxiety, seemingly below the left breast, which so torments her, that she trembles all over her body, attended with occasional bitter eructations and palpitation.

Surfeit of life.

35. All the senses are excessively sensitive, especially those of hearing and smell.

Very easily startled.

Displeased and irresolute.

Ill-humored.

In very ill humor, while in the best of health.

40. Indisposed to everything. [Ng.]

Depressed mood. [Bds.]

Ill-humor and vexation. [Ng.]

Depressed on account of his health.

Sullen, every object, especially men and noise, are very distasteful to him.

45. Sullen and lazy.

Extremely discontented.

Irritable and peevish.

Very easily irritated to vexation.

Very peevish in the forenoon.

50. Very peevish and cannot forget an annoyance.

Great annoyance, before dinner, at the least trifle, then sensation of heat, followed by pressure in the stomach; then nausea with much heat in the face, and an entire loss of appetite.

Great annoyance at the least provocation, with cold hands, heat in the face and palpitation.

More peevish than ever before.

Vexed at every trifle, so that he is beside himself.

55. She would get vexed very readily.

Capricious, sensitive. [Stf.]

Great irritation of spirit.

Hypochondriac.

When he thinks of anything disagreeable, he is seized with a sort of apprehension, felt most in the scrobiculus cordis.

60. When she grasps an idea very vividly, she is seized with a heat, as if hot water were poured over her.
Disagreeable occurrences cause anguish, mixed with fear and vexation, and she becomes disposed to weep.
Very irritable mood, she takes every word ill and becomes pusillanimous from it.
Even a little annoyance affects him very violently.
Incensed at every trifle.
65. When annoyed, she falls into furious anger and malignancy.
Incensed and angry, almost without a cause.
Occasionally wildly passionate.
Obstinate. [Stf.]
Misanthropy.
70. Tenderness (after-effect).
Exaltation of the sense of common brotherhood.<sup>1</sup> [JAHN, Mat. Med. II, 293.]
Increased cheerfulness in the first days.<sup>2</sup> [KORTUM, in Hufel. Journ. X., 2, 41.]
In very good humor, especially in the afternoon. [Ng.]
Merry, in a good humor, she sings and trills. [Ng.]
75. Mirthfulness. [JAHN.]
Freedom of spirit, good-humored, with agreeable warmth all all over the body, especially on the hands, which are quite red, from a rush of blood; everything seems brighter to him (2d d.). [Ng.]
Spasmodic laughing and weeping.
She has to laugh against her will, while she is sad.
In the evening, usually of so vivid an imagination that the mere representation of disagreeable things causes horror with her.
80. Shamelessness, she strips off and wishes to go naked, as if crazy.
Great indifference to everything.
Indifferent to her child, whom at other times she dearly loved.
Indisposed to work, and without cheerfulness, but without any muddled feeling in the head.
Distracted, in the morning, though he likes to work.
85. Forgetful and dizzy.
Forgetful and stupid, so that he does something quite different from what he wants to do
Slow flow of ideas, dearth of thought. [Stf.]
Abundant flow of ideas, which she finds it difficult to arrange.
Delirious phantasies, while slumbering and when awake, as if she was on a distant island, as if she had a large business, was a distinguished lady, etc.
90. General slight obtuseness of the head. [Mbn.]
The head feels obtuse after a meal. [Bds.]
Severe obtuse feeling in the head, and vertigo, compelling one to lie down. [Mbn.]
Muddled, confused head (aft. 4 d.).
Painful dizziness, eight mornings in succession.

<sup>1</sup> General statement.—Hughes.<sup>2</sup> Effects of one grain in divided doses. This symptom not found.—Hughes.

95. Dizzy in the morning on awaking, so that she had to be led from her bed.
 Dizzy in the evening, in bed.
 Dizzy in the head, when she moved.
 Dizziness, with severe headache, shudder and a chill without thirst, alternately heat in the head, and shudder and discomfort of the whole body (aft. 36 h.).
 Feels dull and dazed, for many days.
100. Muddled and heavy feeling in the sinciput, the head tends to fall forward; diminished by cool air and by frowning; it recurs in the room and is aggravated by stooping. [Ng.]
 Stupid and muddled sensation in the head, more in the upper and anterior part of the head [Ng.]
 Gloomy feeling in the head. [Bds.]
 Gloomy, uncomfortable sensation, in the morning, after rising. [Htb.]
 Long-continued gloominess in the head, as if not done sleeping. [Ng.]
105. He cannot collect his thoughts, in the morning on rising, the head feels dizzy, heavy and painful, as if he had been lying with his head too low during the night.
 She feels stupefied on awaking at night.
 Inability to comprehend, as if he could not grasp a thought, with headache.
 Painful stupefaction of the head, in the morning on awaking; this only disappears some time after rising.
 Weakness in the head; when he reflects about anything, his head aches.
110. Great weakness in the head, so that she cannot stand any sound on the piano.
 Weakness of the head; from laughing, from a decided treading, or when stretching the limbs, there is a beating and throbbing in the head, especially severe after prolonged sitting.
 Slight stupefaction and headache between the eyes, in the forehead, ceasing after dinner, but returning an hour later, and continuing till evening. [Htb.]
 Vertigo. [Bds.]
 Vertigo, with muddled feeling or stupefaction in the head, as if she would lose consciousness, occasionally on entering from the open air into the warm room. [Ng.]
115. Vertigo, when rising from a seat. [Ng.]
 Vertigo, while things turn black before the eyes. [Ng.]
 Vertigo, then nausea and a depressing pain in the middle of the brain, with stupefaction and a sensation as if he would fall down; in the morning and after dinner; then in the afternoon, nausea, heartburn, red face and a sensation as if something was lodged in the throat; with sadness and weeping without a cause; in the evening like gauze before the eyes and itching on the eyelid. [Mbn.]
 Sensation of vertigo, in the afternoon, as if the chair on which he was sitting became much higher, and he was looking down from above; then hypochondriac mood with drowsiness and lassitude, till about 9 P. M. [Htb.]

Vertigo, as if he should fall over, in the morning after rising, [Sr.]

120. Vertigo in the morning on rising from bed.

Vertigo, in the morning, continually increasing, like a heavy weight pressing downward anteriorly in the head, with nausea like fainting; when stopping, things turn black before the eyes, with much sneezing, till evening; improved in the open air (aft. 7 d.).

Vertigo, in the forenoon; even in walking, everything turned round with her; she staggered and could walk steadily.

Whirling in the head, in the evening, when lying in bed; she could not lie still, but had to raise herself; then there followed four diarrhœic stools with severe febrile rigor, followed by severe heat and perspiration all over.

Attack of vertigo, as if it would whirl him around; he then found himself with outstretched arms, as if he wanted to seize on something to hold himself up.

125. Short but severe vertigo, in the evening, for ten seconds.

Severe vertigo, in the evening, when walking; everything turned round with her; when standing, it diminished, but returned when walking.

So severe a vertigo, at noon, that he thought he would fall from his chair.

Vertigo, frequently at noon, so that he had to be very careful when going out, so as not to fall.

Vertigo, on rising from dinner.

130. Attack of vertigo, every day after meals, so that he hardly knew whether he was conscious.

Vertigo, several times by day, she staggered against people when walking, as if she was intoxicated.

Vertigo, on closing the eyes, as if she was continually turning around.

Vertigo on stooping, with chilliness and nausea, occasionally.

Attack like vertigo, when she turned once around, she knew not where she was; so also after stooping, in the forenoon.

135. Vertigo with headache, and much gathering of saliva; she had to spit out much, for three days.

Headache, when lying down, with nausea; when this passed, a sort of vertigo.

Violent headache from stooping (in the open air) (aft. 11 d.).

Headache above the left eye, with flying specks before the sight. [Goull.]

Headache, on reflecting, in the evening. [Ng.]

140. Headache, at the least vexation.

Headache in the morning, when starting to walk, and renewed at other small exertions.

Headache in the forehead, over the eyes, awakes her every morning, and gradually passes off after rising from bed, for 21 days in succession.

- Headache, beginning immediately after lying down in bed, two evenings in succession.
- Headache, at night, after nausea in the evening.
145. Violent dull headache with nausea, eructation and gathering of water in the mouth. [Mbn.]
- Dull pain in the left side of the head. [Ng.]
- Stupid headache in the forehead with heat. [Ng.]
- Stupid headache and ill-humor, in the morning on awaking, and after rising (2d d.). [Ng.]
- Dull, stupefying headache (on the top of the crown). [Ng.]
150. Dull headache, as after reveling at night. [Ng.]
- Violent sensation of numbness and dizziness, with pressive pain in the head, incapacity and indisposition to do work, especially mental work, with drowsiness; after quietly lying down in a half sleep, it is almost quite removed, but soon begins again after rising and moving about, with a sensation as if there was no cohesion in the head, and with sore pain of single spots of the head when touched, for several days. [Htb.]
- Chaotic headache, as from incipient coryza.
- Heaviness, lack of strength and chaotic feeling in the head, in the morning.
- Heaviness of the head, he sees as through gauze.
155. Great heaviness of the head (aft. 18 d.).
- Heaviness of the head (1st d.). [Ng.]
- Fullness of the head, with stoppage of the ears, without diminution of the hearing, except when swallowing. [Ng.]
- Full and chaotic feeling in the head.
- Fullness in the brain, but not as if it was filled with blood, and without impeding thought.
160. Bruised brain, or as if shattered in the brain, from the afternoon till going to sleep in the evening, when it disappears during sleep.
- Pressive headache, here and there, turning into a pain, as if the brain was shattered and bruised on its surface.
- Pressure, darting to and fro in the head.
- Pressive headache in the forehead, extending into the eyes, as if they would be pressed out.
- Pressive headache in the forehead, in the evening.
165. Pressive and pinching headache.
- Pressive headache in the forehead over the eyes, for two days in succession, from morning till night, with burrowing in the top of the head (aft. 4 d.).
- Pressive, or, as it were, chaotic headache, with jerks in the head or tearing, every morning; on awaking, aggravated by moving.
- Pressive semilateral headache, disappearing when walking in the open air (at once).
- Pressive headache, here and there, on the surface of the brain in the crown.
170. Pressive headache, alternately in the temples and in the upper part of the head, with feeling of fullness in the brain, but not as if from congestion of blood (aft. 2 h.).

Pressure, extending from the right side of the sinciput, extending over the eye. [Ng.]

Pressure in the sinciput, toward the root of the nose. [Ng.]

Pain in the head, pressing outward, above the eyes, as if the forehead would fall out, more externally (aft. 24 h.).

Pain as if the head would burst, so violent that she wept aloud, from 6 A. M. till lying down in bed in the evening. [Ng.]

175. Constrictive headache, every other day.

Drawing pressive pain in both temples. [Stf.]

Drawing pressive headache, now on the right side, now on the left, with a muddled sensation. [Ng.]

Drawing pain on a small spot on the right side of the head, in the evening. [Ng.]

Drawing headache in the morning; toward 12 o'clock, turning into a sort of vertigo, with flickering before the eyes; disappearing after dinner, but returning at 2 o'clock; with rapid circulation, cheerfulness and excitement of spirit; on the subsequent evening unusual weariness and exhaustion, with inability to do any work. [Htb.]

180. Spasmodic drawing below the crown, with stitches in the temples.

Tearing in the forehead. [Ng.]

Violent tearing in the upper part of the head, extending to the zygoma, in the afternoon, when sitting. [Ng.]

Tearing in the temples, vertigo in the sinciput, and beating with shooting on the crown. [Ng.]

Tearing in both the temples; after pressing upon them, it is transiently diminished, but returns almost at once, more violently. [Ng.]

185. Tearing pain in the upper and right part of the head, as if she was being pulled by one hair, while sitting. [Stf.]

Slight tearing in the head, especially above the right eye. [Htb.]

Violent tearing in the right side of the head, upward, in the evening, while sitting. [Ng.]

During heavy tearing in the head, shooting in the right side of the abdomen, while sitting. [Ng.]

Frequent twitching in the upper part of the left temple, and then drawing toward the side of the forehead, after dinner. [Ng.]

190. Periodic twitching beating headache in the root of the nose, for 8 days, every day about the 9th hour, also passing into the nose and the eyes, most violent at noon, when she vomited. [Sr.]

Digging and burrowing in the head, from time to time, with stupid feeling, all day; radiating downward more toward the right side and the nose, both in rest and in motion; only diminished by cool air. [Ng.]

Pain in the sinciput, periodically mingled with stitches, especially in the left side, more in the afternoon and evening. [Htb.]

Stitches, at times burning, in the frontal region, on the crown, in the sides of the head, into the left and upper part of the head, and in the temples, at times with the sensation, as if she was

- pulled by the hair, or also as if the head would burst; at times after dinner, or in the morning, mostly while sitting, sometimes transiently relieved by rubbing. [Ng.]
- Stitches in the left half of the head. [Htb.]
195. Tearing stitches in various parts of the head (aft. 5 w.). [Htb.]
- Stitches in the right temple, in the evening (after sever. h.).
- Single stitches in the head, in the evening (aft. 5 h.).
- Stitches in the temples, in the evening, with pain in the whole head.
- Stitches on single spots of the head, especially in the evening.
200. Shooting in the right side of the head, for several days.
- Stitches in the occiput.
- Stitches as of needles, in the vertex of the head.
- At first, shooting and pressure in the occiput, then severe throbbing in the forehead.
- Throbbing in the crown, also in the left side of the head especially on the occiput. [Ng.]
205. Throbbing pain in the temples, often for half an hour at a time.
- Pulsation in the head, in the morning, on awaking.
- Throbbing in the head, when lying down.
- Throbbing pain in and upon the upper part of the head, especially painful when chewing and when touched.
- Throbbing and gnawing in the right parietal bone, seemingly in the bone itself, in the evening. [Ng.]
210. Pulsating pain in the right side of the head, deep in the brain, in the evening. [Ng.]
- Hammering and shooting in the crown, coming from the front part. [Ng.]
- Shooting pains, from the side of the head toward the root of the nose, and toward the ball of the right hand. [Ng.]
- Jerks in the sinciput, as if pieces of lead were being rattled in the brain.
- Several blows in the head, especially during the difficult stool.
215. Rush of blood to the head. [KORTUM; VOIGTEL]
- Slight ebullition of blood to the head, toward evening. [Htb.]
- Rush of blood to the head, intolerable. [WEIGEL, Diss. inaugur. de phosph. vs.]<sup>1</sup>
- Rush of blood to the head, with burning heat and redness of the face, when sitting. [Ng.]
- Humming and growling in the head, almost all the day. [Ng.]
220. Humming in the head (aft. 2 h.).
- Severe roaring in the head, mostly when sitting.
- Tickling in the head. [Ng.]
- Transient crawling headache in the forehead. [Gr.]
- Much heat and sensation of heat in the head, especially in the forehead and in the face (as also on the hands), at times with beating in the head, at times rising up (from the back), and sometimes passing off in the open (cool) air. [Ng.]

<sup>1</sup> Not accessible.—Hughes.

225. Heat in the head, then in the whole body and also on the feet, as if sweat would break out, for an hour after dinner. [Ng.]
 Rising of heat from the chest into the head and the whole body, when eating soup, with a sensation, as if perspiration would break out. [Ng.]
 Sensation of heat in the head and moving around in it, as from a foreign body. [Ng.]
 Burning headache in the frontal region, at times with nausea. [Ng.]
Burning headache in the forehead.
230. Coldness of the left side of the head, with pain, deep in the ear.
 Coolness in the head and body frequently alternate with heat in the same (aft. 2 h.). [Ng.]
 Sensation as if the brain grew rigid, while remaining in the open air.
 Her head feels easier when in the open air. [Ng.]
 After dinner, when walking in the open air, the headache almost disappears, excepting a chaotic feeling in the head and obstruction in the ears, but it recurs in the warm room. [Ng.]
235. External sensitiveness and twitching on the crown, as if some one pulled her by the hair. [Ng.]
 Boring and throbbing in the right side of the scalp, when sitting. [Ng.]
 Burning pain externally on the head; it was hot to the touch, without any increase in the heat of the rest of the body; accompanied with lack of appetite and with lying down (aft. 9 d.).
 Tearing drawing pain on both sides of the head, with pain of the hair when touched; this comes on in the evening and increases during the night (3d d.).
240. Pain on the crown, as from a bleeding sore.
 Tendency to take cold in the head.
 Pressure on single spots of the head, as if there were lumps under the skin.
 Shining, but not inflamed, painless swelling on the forehead, with the most violent headache above the eyes.
 Pressure on the hairy scalp, in the face and on the neck.
 Severe itching on the hairy scalp.
245. Much dandruff on the hairy scalp which at times itches (aft. 8 d.).
Itching little lumps on the hairy scalp; when touched they are painful like a furuncle.
 The eruption on the head forms scabs and smarts, while it itches but little.
The hair falls out frequently (the first days).
 Falling out of the hair, the roots of the hair seem dried up. [Gr.]
250. A spot above the ear becomes bald (aft. 12 d.).
 Sensation as if the skin on the forehead was too tight, with anxiety, for many days (aft. 3 h.).
 Spasmodic contractive pain on the top of the head, in the afternoon and evening (aft. 5 d.).

- In the whole left side of the head, a cold, spasmodic pain.
Tickling of the periosteum around the eyes.
255. Burrowing pain in the eyes.
Pain of the edges of the eyelids.
Pressure in the upper eyelids.
Pressure in the eyes.
Pressure and heaviness on the eyes; as it were, an inclination to sleep.
260. Pressure in the eyes, with dimness.
Dull pressive pain in the orbit.
Pressure in the eyes like sand. [Gl.]
Pressure and shooting in the eyes, they are dim and dull.
The eyeballs are painful, as if pressed upon, looking at anything increases the pain.
265. Pressure and burning in the eyes, for two days.
Tension in the eyes. [Ng.]
Stitch and tearing pain into the right eyeball, in the afternoon, while sitting down.
Shooting pain and dryness in the eyes. [Ng.]
Stitches in the left eye, and a sty on the lower eyelid.
270. Shooting behind the eyes.
Fine stitches in the inner canthi, worse in the open air, in the morning. [Ng.]
Itching in the eyelids, frequently during the day.
Itching in the eyes.
Sensation in the right external canthus, as if something acrid, salty, smarting was in it, without redness. [Sf.]
275. Smarting and dryness of the eyes, while reading.
Smarting in the left eye (aft. 3 h.). [Ng.]
Rush of blood to the eyes, he feels the presence of his eyeballs, but not unpleasantly. [Gr.]
Itching in the left eye, going off by rubbing. [Ng.]
Burning in the eyeball, for one-half of a minute.
280. Burning pain in the eye and around it.
Burning in the upper eyelids (aft. 3 h.). [Bds.]
The eyes are heated and burn, frequently during the day, for four or five minutes.
Inflammation of the eyes (aft. 27 d.).
Inflammation of the eyes with burning and itching (aft. sever. h.).
285. Inflammation of the eyes with stitches. [Hg.]
Inflammation of the right eye, while the left eye is weak.
Inflammation and redness of the eye, with itching and pressive pain.
Redness of the white of the eye, with itching and erosion, and with a flow of much burning and eroding water. [Mbn.]
Redness of the conjunctiva, with the sensation as if there was a foreign body in the eye, compelling constant wiping and rubbing. [Mbn.]
290. Redness, inflammation, swelling and suppuration closing the right eye with burning pain, for two days.

Yellowness of the white of the eye.<sup>1</sup> [WEICKARD in BOUTTAZ, concerning Phosphorus.]

Swelling of the right upper eyelid, with itching and pressure.
A sort of puffy swelling of the right upper eyelid.

Swelling of the left eyelid, with pains in the orbital bone, when touched.

295. A bump on the margin of the orbit.

Dryness of the eyes, quickly transient. [Ng.]

Dryness of the eyes, in the morning on awaking. [Ng.]

Sensation of dryness in the eyes.

Lachrymation, in the morning, while working, with dimness of the eyes (aft. 4 d.).

300. Very ready lachrymation, in the open air.

Lachrymation. [Szf.]

Severe lachrymation, even at night.

Lachrymation, smarting and mucus in the right eye, in the evening.

Watering and dimness of the eyes, while reading. [Ng.]

305. Watering of the eyes, in the warm room. [Ng.]

The eyelids stick to the eyes, from watering. [Ng.]

The eyes are closed by suppuration, in the morning on awaking, and are difficult to open. [Ng.]

The inner canthi are closed by suppuration, in the morning.

The eyes are closed by suppuration in the morning, with burning and shooting and dimness of vision as if caused by a gauze.

310. The eyes are closed by suppuration in the morning; there is suppuration and lachrymation by day.

Quivering of the eyelids and the external canthus of the left eye, returning very frequently. [Gr.]

Pupil very much contracted. [Sr.]

Weak, tired, sleepy eyes.

Especially in the morning on awaking, great weakness of the eyes, which improve somewhat on rising (aft. 5 d.).

315. The eyes fail while reading. [Ng.]

Inclination to see with only one eye.

Short-sightedness, the outlines of distant objects seem blurred.

She has to hold objects near to the eyes, if she wants to see anything distinctly; at a distance everything appears as if in a smoke, or as if through a gauze; but even when holding objects near, she cannot bear to look at them steadily for a long time; she can see better when she dilates the pupils by shading the eyes with her hand.

Early at dawn he sees more plainly than during the day.

320. Everything appears to him as seen through a veil, with some loss of consciousness.

The eyes seem very dark, he sees but little. [Sr.]

Sudden blindness, frequently, and, as it were, a grey cover before the eyes. [Sr.]

Like a black veil before the right eye.

Dark bodies and spots before the eyes. [Ng.]

<sup>1</sup> (To BOUTTAZ.) Not accessible.—Hughes.

325. Black, passing specks before the eyes.
 Large, black spots floating before the eyes, after eating.
 Objects tremble before the eyes, in the morning on awaking;
 they seem to have uncertain outlines.
 Quivering before the eyes and buzzing in the head.
 Sparks before the eyes, in the dark.
330. Green halo around the lighted candle at night.
 Sensitiveness of the eyes to candle-light, in the evening.
 The eyes are painful when reading, both by daylight and by candle-light.
 The eyes are dazzled by daylight. [Sr.]
Earache.
335. Pressure in both ears.
 Pressure in front of both the ears, in the warm room; going off in the cold air. [Ng.]
 Keen drawing pain in both the ears.
 Dull drawing pain in the lobule of the ear.
 Tearing in the right ear, also in the forenoon, while sitting down. [Ng.]
340. Painful tearing, immediately below the right ear, while sitting down, going off through friction. [Ng.]
 Dreadful tearing and shooting in the ear and all around in the head, as if it would burst.
 Twitching in the left ear. [Ng.]
 Violent twitching stitch out of the left ear into the lobule, while sitting down. [Ng.]
 Severe stitches deep in both the ears. [Bds.]
345. Shooting in the lobule of the right ear. [Ng.]
 Frequent, very sharp needle-pricks on the right external meatus auditorius. [Ng.]
 Shooting in the ear.
 Pain in the right lobule, like a severe pressure with the hand, and so much sensitiveness, that she could not bear a cloth on it;
 it goes off in the evening. [Ng.]
Severe itching in the ear.
350. Pulsation in the ear, after walking fast.
 Violent shooting beating behind the ear, on the lobule.
 [Ng.]
 Heat and redness of the ear.
 Humidity of the internal ear.
 Sensation of dryness in the ear, either with or without buzzing.
355. Pimples in the ear, with shooting. [Hg.]
 Little vesicles with burning pain in the concha of the ear.
 Eruption of vesicles behind the ears.
 The parotid gland causes a troublesome tension, especially when stooping, and is painful when touched.
 Burning at times in the parotid gland.
360. Loud re-echoing in the ears, in the morning.
 The words of others and one's own words sound loudly in the ears, like an echo. [Gr.]

Every sound loudly uttered by any one, keeps resounding in the same pitch.

Sounding in the head, when speaking loud, so that he did not dare to speak loud.

Something at times seems lodged before the right ear.

365. Something seems constantly to obstruct the ears. [Ng.]

Something seems to suddenly dart into the left ear, and then there is buzzing in it; then at times hardness of hearing, and at times a discharge of a yellow liquid, for several weeks; after pressing on the ear she hears better for a little while. [Gr.]

Severe buzzing before the ears.

Humming in the ears, as if a gauze was drawn over them.

Ringling and resounding in the left ear.

370. Constant singing before the ears, louder when lying down.

Hardness of hearing, with a sensation as if a foreign body was lodged in the ear.

Constant fluttering in both ears. [Ng.]

Violent pain in the nose, in the forenoon.

Sensation of fullness in the nose. [Ng.]

375. Pressive sensation in the nose, as in coryza. [Ng.]

Itching and tickling in and about the nose, also after dinner.

[Ng.]

Itching of the nose.

Frequent itching in the left nostril, in the morning. [Ng.]

Sore pain of both the nostrils, also when touching them.

380. Little vesicles in the right nostril, burning only when touched.

[Ng.]

Dark redness of the nose, ala nasi, with erosive pain when touched.

Inflammation of the inside of the nose, with sensation of dryness and slow bleeding of the nose.

Swelling of the nose during coryza.

Swelling of the nose, which is painful when touched.

385. Ulcerated nostrils (sore nose).

Itching and pimples on the nose. [Hg.]

In the right ala nasi, a painful pimple. [Sr.]

Vesicles in the nose and around the same; so that it is almost inflamed. [Hb.]

Many freckles on the nose, in the morning, after heating exercise at night (aft. 12 d.).

390. Clots clogging up the nose. [Hg.]

Skinny clots in the nose, without itching and stoppage. [Hg.]

Itching of the nose and bleeding after rubbing it. [Hg.]

Boring in the nose until it bleeds. [Hg.]

Bloody streaks in the nasal mucus.

395. A few drops of blood from the nose.

Bleeding of the nose (at once, also aft. 17 d.).

Severe bleeding from the nose, in the evening (aft. 7 d.).

Frequent and severe bleeding of the nose.

Very severe bleeding of the nose (aft. 24 d.).

400. Bleeding of the nose, especially during stools.

Frequent expulsion of blood from the nose when blowing it.

- Frequent blowing of blood from the nose, together with yellow mucus, in the morning.
 Greater keenness of the sense of smell, especially of offensive things. [Gr.]
 The sense of smell is especially acute during headache.
405. Paleness of the face.<sup>1</sup> [BRERA in VOIGTEL.]
 Sudden striking paleness of the face with chilliness and pains in the abdomen and head (aft. 12 d.).
 Pale, sickly complexion (aft. 8 d.).
 Paleness of the face, the eyes are sunken with blue rims (2d d.). [Htb.]
 Sunken face of earthly pallor, with deep-lying, hollow eyes with blue rings (aft. 6, 7 h.). [Stf.]
410. Pale, yellowish face.
 Pale sickly appearance, in the evening. [Ng.]
 Hippocratic face.<sup>2</sup> [VOIGTEL.]
 Broad blue rims about the eyes.
 Inordinate, almost blue redness of the cheeks, without sensation of heat, in the morning at eight o'clock. [Htb.]
415. Redness of the face. [Hg.]
 Redness and heat of the face, with light perspiration on the forehead, and a muddled feeling of the head (aft. 12 h.). [Htb.]
 Great heat of the face, toward evening (aft. 14 d.).
 Intense heat of the face, after washing, with red spots.
 A flush of heat over the upper part of the face, with increased redness, with obscuration of the sight. [Stf.]
420. Glowing heat, every evening, on one cheek or the other, for two hours, without thirst.
 Burning in the face, around the nose and upper lip, as if from acrid humors.
 Perspiration in the face, with coldness of the same and a sick feeling in the forenoon.
 Rush of blood to the face, with sensation in it of bloatedness, in the air; it goes off in the room. [Ng.]
 Inflammation of the face on the side on which he had been lying. [Hg.]
425. Inflated in the face.
Bloatedness and swelling about the eyes.
 Swelling of the parts surrounding the eyes.
 Swelling of the cheek and gums without pain.
 Pimples in the face and on the ala nasi. [Hg.]
430. Violent itching in the face, so that she scratches till everything bleeds and is raw. [Hg.]
 Eruption of pimples in the face.
 Eruption of pimples on both of the cheeks.
 Frequent pustules and scurf from suppuration in the face, after the least lesion of its skin.
 Rough, red, mottled eruption of the face, slightly elevated. [Sr.]
435. Single red pimples in the face.

<sup>1</sup> Effects of gr. ½ to ij.—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup> Preceding death.—Hughes.

Fine eruption, like farina, on the forehead and chin.

Tension of the skin of the face.

Desquamation of the skin of the face. [Gr.]

Burning smarting of the skin of the face, as after staying in cold, sharp air.

440. Aching of the bones of the face.

Twitches in the muscles of the cheeks.

Twitches in the muscles under the right eye.

Pressive pain in the cheek-bones, the parietal bones and the teeth, especially when chewing warm food, and when coming from the cold air into a warm room.

Pressure inward above the left orbit, after dinner. [Ng.]

445. Tension in the zygomata, as if they were being violently squeezed together; it goes off on friction.

Tearing in the bones of the face and the temples, as if everything would be torn out, continually increasing till 8 p. m. [Ng.]

Tearing in the jaw-bones, in the evening when lying down; it is quiescent while eating and moving the lower jaw.

Severe tearing on the lower edge of the orbit, as if the flesh there were being torn off. [Ng.]

Tearing in the zygoma. [Ng.]

450. Severe tearing under the right ear. [Ng.]

Twitching on the left zygoma, going off after friction. [Ng.]

Violent stitch from the middle of the left lower jaw, darting deep through the cheek and the eye and out at the forehead. [Ng.]

Stitch in the left cheek.

Lips dry, all day. [Ng.]

455. Dryness of the lips and the palate without thirst. [Ng.]

Blue lips. [BRERA.]

Burning stitches on the margin of the upper lip, while sitting down. [Ng.]

Burning, like fire, of both lips. [Ng.]

Burning pain on the red of the lower lip, with white blisters on the inner side of it, with burning pain (aft. 11 d.).

460. The lower lip is cracked wide open, in the middle.

An itching spot on the left lower jaw, he had to scratch it raw.

Itching of the upper lip, with pain after rubbing.

Swollen upper lip, every morning.

Eruption on the red of both the lips, at times with stitches.

465. Pustules on the commissures of the lips. [Gl.]

Painful blisters, as large as peas, on the inner side of the lower lip, full of lymph. [Gl.]

Tetter in the left commissure, with cutting and stitches.

Tetter above the upper lip.

Rough skin about both the lips.

470. Suppurated commissure of the lips (aft. 13 d.).

Eruptive pimple on the right commissure.

Painful ulcer, on the inner surface of the lower lip.

Pressure, drawing and tearing in the lower jaw, toward the chin. [Ng.]

- The jaws are closed so tightly that she cannot get her teeth apart.
475. Involuntary gnashing with the teeth, as from a spasm, with some pain.
 Twitching in the lower jaw, almost like toothache.
 Violent drawing in the lower jaw.
 Glandular swelling near the articulation of the lower jaw
 [Hg.]
 Toothache, with swelling of the cheek.
480. Violent toothache in the evening in bed, for 3 successive evenings.
 Violent toothache on the left side, and 2 days afterward a very painful swelling of the throat, with 5 large white blisters in the mouth. [Sr.]
 Toothache, only at night in bed, it goes off on rising.
 Toothache in a hollow tooth, excited and increased by the warmth of the bed (aft. 22 d.).
 Toothache while walking in the open air.
485. Toothache (tearing?) in the upper incisors, excited by breathing cold air, by warm food, and by contact.
 Toothache in the morning after awaking, in two lower molars, going off after rising. [Ng.]
 Violent pain in the left molars when violently blowing the nose; it terminates with chattering of the teeth and subsequent heat of the cheeks.
 Pressure on the left upper and lower teeth, from behind forward (aft. 8 d.).
 Drawing toothache, while the hands and feet are cold.
490. Drawing pain in the anterior incisors.
 Drawing and burrowing in the teeth.
 Drawing in a lower molar, and then shooting in the right upper jaw, extending into the ear, in the morning. [Ng.]
 Drawing in a lower molar. [Ng.]
 Twitching pain in two hollow teeth, on opening the mouth, with great sensitiveness on touching them with the finger, renewed during chewing, when food gets into them. [Ng.]
495. Very painful twitching tearing in the roots of the right upper molars. [Ng.]
 Shooting tearing in several roots of the right upper teeth; it goes off by pressing upon them; in the evening. [Ng.]
 Tearing in the teeth, every day, in the evening or morning, chiefly in the open air, or on coming in from it.
 Tearing, extending from the molars to the zygomatic arch, it goes off through rubbing; while sitting down. [Ng.]
 Tearing in the right upper molars. [Bds.]
500. Tearing in a lower socket on the left side, going off through pressure. [Ng.]
 Tearing in the right upper molars, at times in paroxysms, frequently recurring and always relieved by pressure. [Ng.]
 Tearing and boring in a left molar, in every position, also when touching it and in chewing. [Ng.]

- Violent shooting pain in the upper front teeth, with intense swelling of the upper lip. [Sr.]
 Gnawing in a left lower molar. [Ng.]
505. Constant boring in a right molar.
 Violent gnawing and boring in a tooth, in the morning and evening, while lying in bed.
 Beating, twitching and shooting in the teeth, as soon as the least air strikes them, but not in the room or if the cheek is tied up.
 Toothache as from soreness.
 The teeth feel as smooth, when biting on them in the morning, as if they were smeared with soap or fat. [Ng.]
510. Bleeding ulcer, in a hollow molar. [Ng.]
 A tooth becomes hollow (aft. 10 d.).
 Dullness of the teeth (aft. 18 d.).
 Looseness of the teeth, so that she cannot chew.
 Looseness of all the lower front-teeth, so that they can be taken out.
515. Sudden bleeding of the upper molars, without cause.
 The gums ache as if sore.
Painful sensitiveness of the gums, so that he cannot eat;
 two small boils on them.
 Itching and beating on the gums.
 Burning and sore pain on the inner side of the gums of the upper front teeth.
520. Sore, painful, swollen gums. [Sr.]
 Inflammation of the gums.
 Inflammation of the gums above a carious tooth.
 Swelling of the gums, with itching.
 Intense swelling of the gums.
525. Ulcer on the gums after toothache.
 Ulcer on the gums, with swelling of the upper lip (aft. 17 d.).
 Bleeding of the gums at the least touch.
Tendency of the gums to bleed, and to become detached from the teeth.
 Blood comes into the mouth (aft. 24 h.). [Szf.]
530. Painful lump on the inner side of the cheek.
 Pain on the frenum of the tongue and on the palate, interfering with eating and talking.
 The tongue is covered with white mucus and there is mucus in the mouth. [Ng.]
 Coated tongue.<sup>1</sup> [KORTUM]
The tongue is coated like fur.
535. Burning posteriorly on the right side of the tongue. [Ng.]
 Many small, red, bleeding dots with burning, on the anterior surface of the tongue. [Ng.]
 Two small, pellucid vesicles, burning when touched, on the tip of the tongue. [Ng.]
 Burning tongue, at night, coated white. [Ng.]
 Pricking itching posteriorly on the palate, as in coryza; she must scratch. [Ng.]

<sup>1</sup> See Sympt. 1884.—Hughes.

540. Painful spot on the palate.
 Unbearable tickling about the palate.
 Itching on the palate, for several minutes.
 Burning on the upper part of the palate.
 Blisters on the palate, which burst open and suppurate
545. Sensation on the palate, as if the skin would be detached, it became shriveled and painful.
 A stitch in the upper part of the palate, immediately after dinner. [Ng.]
 Painful sensitiveness in the mouth, on the gums and in the palate.
 Roughness in the mouth, and as if sore in various places.
 Painful vesicles in the mouth, with soreness in the throat on swallowing, and with thirst.
550. Swelling on the root of the tongue (2d d.).
 Fine stinging in the tip of the tongue.
 Prickling feeling on the frenum of the tongue. [Ng.]
 The tip of the tongue feels burnt and rough. [Ng.]
 Burning on the tip of the tongue, with sensation of an eruption on it. [Ng.]
555. Sore throat, as if the back part of the throat was raw and sore, with visibly dark redness.
 Pressure in the throat, in the morning.
 Suffocating pressure in the pit of the throat.
 Sore throat as from a swelling of the uvula.
 Pain in the throat, in sneezing and yawning. [Ng.]
560. Sore throat as if it was excoriated and grown together, during deglutition and at other times; frequent pain in the larynx on external pressure. [Ng.]
 Sore pain in the throat, during deglutition and at other times. [Ng.]
 Sore pain in the throat, when coughing. [Ng.]
Severe swelling of the tonsils.
 Severe swelling of the left tonsil on swallowing, impeding the movement of the head (aft. 11 h.).
565. Pressure in the upper part of the throat, down toward the stomach.
 Pressure in the throat, and swelling of the tonsils; when touched these cause tussiculation.
 Pressure in the throat, like a sore throat.
 Scratching in the throat, in the afternoon and evening.
 Rough scratchiness in the throat (aft. 34 h.). [Stf.]
570. Scrapy sensation in the throat.
 Shooting pains in the throat on deglutition.
 Burning in the œsophagus.<sup>1</sup> [CONRADI, in Hufeland's Journal.]
 Painful irritation in the tongue and œsophagus, as if a needle was forced down. [Ng.]
 Straining pain in the upper part of the œsophagus. [Ng.]
575. Trouble in deglutition, with pain, toward noon. [Bds.]
 Feeling of tightness about the throat. [Ng.]

---

<sup>1</sup> Cannot be traced.—Hughes.

Dryness of the tongue without thirst. [Ng.]

Dry and rough on the palate, in the forenoon. [Ng.]

Constant alternation of dryness and moisture in the mouth.

[Stf.]

580. Dryness in the mouth, accompanied with very cold feet.

Inordinate sensation of dryness in the mouth, sticky, with violent thirst; though he drinks much water, the stickiness is not diminished. [Stf.]

Dryness in the œsophagus and the fauces.

Dryness in the throat, so that she could hardly swallow, in the morning on awaking; it goes off after dinner. [Ng.]

Much saliva collects in the mouth.

585. Much gathering of watery saliva. [Ng.]

Collection of water in the mouth, with bitterness in the throat.

[Ng.]

Collection of water in the mouth. [Mbn.]

Bitter-sour saliva comes into the mouth. [Ng.]

Much watery saliva in the mouth. [Stf.]

590. Saliva in the mouth, like thick lather from soap, but without any bad taste. [Stf.]

She spits out saliva in the evening, which tastes like putrid water.

Much hawking up of mucus, in the morning.

The usual expectoration of mucus in the morning, without cough, is much diminished. [Gr.]

The mucus expectorated tastes sour. [Ng.]

595. The expectoration after hawking is gray and tastes salty.

Nasty, sticky taste in the mouth, in the morning on rising (aft. 1 d.).

Salty-sweet, sourish taste in the mouth, with a sensation in the mouth as if much saliva was collecting. [Stf.]

Sweet taste in the throat, causing collection of saliva (aft. 1½ h.).

Very sour taste in the mouth, she has to expectorate much.

600. Bitterness in the mouth, with roughness in the throat. [Ng.]

Bitterness in the mouth and throat, in the evening, with great dryness, much thirst and excessive drinking of water; it goes off after lying down. [Ng.]

Sharp bitterness in the fauces, with roughness. [Ng.]

Bitter taste in the mouth, all the day.

Bitter taste of the breakfast. [Gr.]

605. Very bitter taste in the mouth, in the morning (1st d.).

Acidity in the throat and scratching in the larynx.

Sour and disagreeable taste in the mouth, in the morning; it goes off after eating bread. [Ng.]

Sour taste in the mouth.

Sour taste in the mouth, immediately after drinking milk.

610. Sour taste in the mouth, chiefly in the morning.

Acidity after eating.

Increased acidity after every meal, and pulsating headache in the forehead.

- Everything turns sour with him, even what is most innocuous.
Bad taste of bread, especially in the morning.
615. Bread is not relished, it tastes like dough.
She relishes no food, but could drink continually.
Diminished appetite. [Gr.]
Lack of appetite, in the morning, with tongue coated white, and fullness in the scrobiculus cordis, while food has its normal taste. [Gr.]
He has a strong aversion to boiled milk. [Gr.]
620. He is without any appetite except in the morning, and feels full and uncomfortable after breakfast, as if his stomach was overloaded. [Gr.]
The appetite is increased and food has its normal taste. [Gr.]
Diminished appetite, with lassitude. [Htb.]
He does not relish his breakfast, though everything has its normal taste. [Ng.]
No appetite, no hunger (aft. 3 d.).
625. Lack of appetite and hunger; eating is quite indifferent to him, and he would not eat, but that eating-time has come; no flavor in his food and drink; everything he partakes of has only too little taste, but no foreign flavor, and almost everything tastes alike; spirituous liquors taste watery, and he lacks the customary inclination to smoke.
He is easily satisfied with tobacco, he can only smoke a little, though it does not taste badly.
Lack of appetite.
No appetite, no thirst.
Little appetite, but also no satiety.
630. Thirst at noon, before dinner.
Thirst after a meal. [Ng.]
Thirst in the morning, immediately after rising. [Ng.]
Constant thirst.
Much thirst for water.
635. No hunger all day, but when she eats, she eats with appetite.
Increased hunger and appetite (1st, 2d d.). [Ng.]
Voracity. (LOBSTEIN, Unters. üb. d. Phosphor.)
Intense appetite like rabid hunger. (BOURTAZ.)
Voracity at night, not to be appeased by eating, then lassitude with heat and perspiration, then a chill with external coldness and chattering of teeth.
640. After drinking milk, sour eructation. [Gr.]
After meals, comfortable sensation of satiety, which he formerly did not distinguish so clearly. [Gr.]
If he eats in the evening, scarcely to satiety, at once discomfort in the scrobiculus cordis, disquieted sleep, and no appetite next morning. [Gr.]
After meals, almost every day, qualmishness and discomfort like nausea, about the stomach.
After meals, the saliva tastes of the food eaten (aft. 9 d.).
645. She feels full as high up as the throat, which takes away her appetite.

Fullness in the upper part of the œsophagus, as if the food eaten stood there and had to be vomited, without nausea.

After meals, empty eructation.

The pains always begin during meals, and last while he eats, at noon and in the evening.

After meals, hiccup (aft. 7 d.).

650. After eating, even with appetite, his abdomen feels full at once.

After dinner, headache, every day.

After dinner, her head feels so chaotic that she can hardly remember anything.

At once, after eating, much heat in the face.

After eating in the evening, a sort of vertigo; objects appear either dark or they are invisible, while flickering zigzags and rings before the eyes impede vision; he feels as if his head turned, and he did not know whether he sat properly on his chair.

655. Sleepy during meals.

After meals, drowsiness.

After dinner, drowsiness (aft. 15 d.).<sup>1</sup>

After dinner, irresistible sleep.

One hour after dinner, pain in the stomach, which went off after a while.

660. After dinner, pressure in the stomach (4th d.).

After every meal, severe pressure in the stomach (aft. 2 h.).

A few hours after eating at noon, much pain in the stomach, with nausea and muddled feeling of the head.

A few hours after dinner, squeamishness, as if about to swoon; she had to sit down.

Soon after eating, violent pulsation below the scrobiculus cordis (aft. 4 d.).

665. After meals, pressure on the chest and shorter breath.

After dinner, violent throbbing of the heart for two hours, compelling her to cough frequently and often causing a flush to mount to her face (4th d.).

After eating the least quantity, tightness of breath.

After dinner, tightness of the chest, with anxiety.

After every meal, an anxious pressure in the abdomen, with inflation.

670. After meals, tension and pressure about the stomach, and great inflation of the abdomen.

After eating but little, anxiety and restlessness in the blood.

After meals, a scrapy feeling in the mouth and great lassitude, he grew very tired from walking, he was chilly and ill-humored (aft. 25 h.). [Syf.]

After meals, great weakness all over the body, and especially in the part affected.

One hour after eating, blisters on the tongue.

675. After eating, at noon and in the evening, distending pains in the abdomen, with much rumbling therein.

After eating, severe urging to stool.

<sup>1</sup> Collection of observations from authors.—Hughes.

- Frequent eructation; the stomach feels as if distended by air.<sup>1</sup>
 [ALPH. LE ROI in BOUTTAZ.]
 Pressive rising as if for eructation. [Ng.]
 Constant inclination to eructation, with nausea in the stomach.
 [Ng.]
680. First abortive eructation, then empty eructation. [Ng.]
 Abortive eructation, at times with abortive yawning. [Ng.]
Frequent empty eructation, even during meals. [Ng.]
 Eructation with pain in the stomach. [Ng.]
 Constant eructation, accompanied by fermentation in the abdomen (aft. 24 h.).
685. Frequent loud eructation. [Ng.]
 Frequent eructation with taste of urine. [Ng.]
 Eructation with taste of oranges. [Ng.]
 During eructations, pain in the cardiac orifice of the stomach, as if something would be torn off there.
 Much abortive eructation with pressure on the chest (aft. 11
 d.).
690. Abortive eructation, with colic (aft. 10 d.).
Frequent empty eructations, especially after meals.
Empty eructations (aft. 3 h.). [Sff.]
 Frequent abortive eructation, with the sensation as if it was full of air all around the hypochondria, which could not be expelled properly.
 If he eats anything he has eructations, at first empty, then often also tasting of the ingesta, as if the digestion was not proceeding.
695. Eructations with burning. [Htb.]
 Frequent eructations, with yawning (aft. 6 h.). [Mbn.]
 Eructations with gathering of water and contraction in the mouth, aggravated even to retching, with expectoration of mucus, then eructation and yawning (aft. sever. h.). [Mbn.]
 Bitter eructation. [Ng.]
 Violent eructation, with consequent pain in the chest (aft. sever. h.).
700. Violent eructation tasting of the ingesta, even when most innocuous, with movement and rolling about in the abdomen, as after a purgative.
 Eructation tasting at times of the ingesta, then again sour.
 Sour eructation after every meal.
 Sour eructation in the evening.
 Eructation with smell and taste of phosphorus and blue vapor from the mouth. [Htb. u. Ng.]
705. Eructation with taste of phosphorus, with yawning, burning and roughness in the throat, with expectoration of mucus and muddled state of the head. [Mbn.]
 Eructation with smell of olive-oil and rising through the nose, from which issues a white vapor. [Ng.]
 Rancid taste in the throat. [Ng.]
 Bitter, rancid waterbrash. [Ng.]
 Bitter regurgitation of water. [Ng.]

<sup>1</sup> Effects of three grains.—Hughes.

710. Sour rising of food, with retching up of nasty taste, at times after meals, for several days. [Htb.]
 Regurgitation of the ingesta, and belching, without bad taste.
 Regurgitation of a mouthful of bile, while stooping low.
 Rising of water from the stomach into the fauces, as after eating saltpetre. [Ng.]
 Heartburn in the morning and the afternoon.
715. Heartburn, for the first days.
 Heartburn, after eating only a small quantity of fat.
 Heartburn two afternoons in succession.
 Frequent hiccup by day, also before meals (aft. 15 d.).
 Constant hiccups. [Ng.]
720. Hiccups after dinner, so severe that the scrobiculus cordis feels pressed and pains as if sore. [Ng.]
 Loathing, also with shaking, for two days. [Ng.]
 Nausea. [LOBSTEIN.]
 Nausea, also with much expectoration of mucus, without cough. [Mbn.]
 Sick and squeamish at the stomach, in the forenoon, while sitting down. [Ng.]
725. Squeamish, sick at the stomach, as if about to vomit, with occasional rising of water. [Ng.]
 Sickness at the stomach, with vertigo and oppression in the scrobiculus cordis and eructation tasting of phosphorus. [Mbn.]
 Constant nausea. (aft. 11 d.).
 Nausea almost all day.
 Nausea with much thirst.
730. Nausea with much thirst and lack of appetite; she had to lie down.
 Nausea toward noon and in the afternoon; it goes off after drinking.
 Nausea, passing off after drinking water. [BOUETAZ.]
 Frequent attacks of nausea.
 Nausea in the evening in bed, making her speech languid.
735. Nausea in the morning, from 8 to 9 o'clock, even to swooning.
 Nausea the whole day, and vomiting in the evening.
 Nausea late in the evening, even to swooning and vomiting.
 Vomiturition even to swooning, in the forenoon and in the evening.
 Vomiturition at times with rising of water, also in the forenoon, while sitting down. [Ng.]
740. Vomiturition in the morning, till breakfast.
 Vomiturition and fainting fits, with a dull pressure in the scrobiculus cordis, so that she could not bear any cover on it (aft. 41 h.).
Waterbrash.
 Waterbrash after meals, with eructation, nausea and running of water from the mouth.
 Repeated vomiting.<sup>1</sup> [LOBSTEIN, ROSSI.]

<sup>1</sup> (TO ROSSI). Statements and observations. (Beobachtungen ueber den Gebr. des Phosphors, 1818.—Hughes.)

745. With the most dreadful tortures, he attempted to vomit but could not, only the drinking of cold water alleviated his pains. [LÉ ROI in VOIGTEL]
 Empty vomiting. [VOIGTEL.]
 Violent vomiting. [WEIKARD.]
 Vomiting with extreme weakness, small, quick pulse and pains in the abdomen—death.<sup>1</sup> [LOBSTEIN.]
 Continuous vomiting, internal spasms, absence of mind, paralysis of the arm—death. [Htb. u. Tr.]
750. Vomiting and nausea, while out driving.
 Vomiting of mucus, with taste of olive-oil, at night. [Ng.]
 Vomiting of the ingesta, in the evening.
 Biliious vomiting, several times. [KORTUM.]
 Biliious vomiting for 18 hours, and then after 24 hours, desire to vomit and lack of appetite, without any disagreeable taste in the mouth (aft. 18 d.).
755. Biliious vomiting all through the night.
 Sour, biliious vomiting, toward evening, after previous violent vertigo with nausea; first the hands, and then also the feet became icy cold and quite benumbed; the forehead was covered with clammy sweat; after repeated vomiting there ensued within two hours two ordinary evacuations; nausea and sense of coldness only passed off after lying down (26th d.). [Gr.]
 Stomach troubles, with nausea and inclination to vomit. [ROBBI.]
 Squeamishness in the scrobiculus cordis and soon afterward shuddering. [Ng.]
 Painfulness of the gastric region, when touched. [Ng.]
760. Painfulness of the stomach, in the morning, when touched externally, also while walking.
 Sensation of emptiness and fasting, in the stomach. [Ng.]
 Spoiled, weak stomach for a long time. [KORTUM.]
 Bad digestion.<sup>2</sup> [LOBSTEIN.]
 Bad digestion of food eaten at other times without trouble.
765. Stomachache, as if the stomach was empty, with rising nausea, in the morning after rising. [Ng.]
 Inflating pain in the stomach, in the morning. [Ng.]
 Pain in the stomach, as if it was full, in the evening, till he goes to sleep. [Ng.]
 Violent pains in the stomach, which gradually spread over the whole of the abdomen, with vomiting of substances at first green, later blackish. [LOBSTEIN.]
 Pressure on a small part of the stomach, and at the same time in the right temple. [Ng.]
770. Pressure in the stomach. [Mbn.; BRERA; ROBBI.]
 Pressure just above the stomach.
 Pressure at the cardiac orifice of the stomach, especially when swallowing bread, which seems to stick there.
 Pressure in the scrobiculus cordis, continuous, even when fasting, but more while sitting.

<sup>1</sup> From two grains.—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup> From repeated overdosing with Symp. 786 and 925.—Hughes.

- Pressure above the scrobiculus cordis, as from a large body, with coldness (at once). [Ng.]
775. Pressure in the stomach in the morning, in bed (aft 8 d.).
 Pressure in the stomach, in the evening (aft. 2 d.).
 Pressure in the gastric region (aft. 25 h.). [Stf.]
 Pressure in the stomach after eating, as if there was a heavy load in it. [Mbn.]
 A most severe pressure in and above the scrobiculus cordis, then also in the whole sternum and on the ribs, checking respiration, unchanged while walking and sitting (aft. 2 h.).
780. Sensation of great fullness in the stomach.
 Fullness, pressure and moving about in the stomach. [Ng.]
 Inflation in the abdomen and stomach, with inclination to eructation, though this does not always bring relief. [Ng.]
 Sensation of heaviness in the stomach. [Ng.]
 The stomach is pressed together from both sides, while sitting down. [Ng.]
785. Spasmodic sensation, like a shaking chill, in the stomach, scrobiculus cordis and the chest. [Ng.]
 Spasms of the stomach<sup>1</sup>. [LOBSTEIN]
 Spasmodic sensation in the stomach before and after supper; this then draws into the chest, from both sides.
 Spasm of the stomach in the evening when going to bed (aft. 25 d.).
 Pain in the stomach, as if it was squeezed together, in the morning in bed, after perspiring.
790. Tensive contraction in the stomach, with sourish eructation.
 Contractive pinching in the stomach (aft. 6 d.).
 Contraction and gnawing in the stomach.
Gripping in the gastric region, in paroxysms, lasting several minutes, and recurring every few minutes (22d d.).
 Gripping and writhing in the stomach, at night.
795. Drawing and stretching in the stomach, while driving in a carriage.
 Drawing pain in the scrobiculus cordis, extending to the chest.
 Cutting in the gastric region.
 Stitches above the stomach and through the abdomen, which then swelled up.
 Stitches in the scrobiculus cordis, so that she could not get her breath, going off through eructations; every evening at ten o'clock.
800. A stitch in the gastric region. [Mbn.]
 Clucking, growling and rolling in the stomach, or a sensation as if air-bubbles exploded, with tendency to eructation. [Ng.]
 Painful jerks from the stomach up into the throat, as if caused by mucus, while sitting. [Ng.]
 Sensation of coldness in the stomach, at times alternating with warmth. [Ng.]
 Sensation of warmth or heat in the stomach, occasionally accompanied with cold hands. [Ng.]

<sup>1</sup> More properly, cardialgia; see note to Sympt. 763.—Hughes.

805. Violent, burning heat in the stomach, which also proceeded like hot gas from the mouth. [LÆ ROI.]
 Burning in the stomach (aft. 10 d.).
 Burning from the stomach into the throat, like heartburn. [Ng.]
 Violent burning in the stomach and in the intestines. [LOBSTEIN.]
 Severe burning in the stomach, with violent thirst, anguish, convulsions of the face, violent shuddering, cold limbs, clear, watery eyes, pale lips, weak pulse, decrease of strength and—death. [LOBSTEIN.]
810. Burning and cutting in the gastric region.<sup>1</sup> [Hufel. Journal X., 2, 41.]
 Burning in the stomach and in the intestinal canal. [BRERA.]
 Inflammation of the stomach.<sup>2</sup> [HORN, Archiv.]
 Inflammation and mortification of the stomach and the intestinal canal, with violent burning and cutting. [VOIGTEL.]
 Burning and pressing load in the stomach. [BRERA.]
815. In the hypochondria, pinching on a small spot, especially on the right side, going off with friction. [Ng.]
 Intense pain in the left hypochondria, he could not stoop, nor lie on the right side.
 Anxious feeling on the lower part of the left side of the chest, with bitter eructation, every day.
 Stitches below the left breast, with much anxiety.
 Stitches in the left hypochondrium, also while sitting, occasionally followed by sensitiveness of the place. [Ng.]
820. The hepatic region is sensitive and when touched there is a dull pressive pain, especially while lying on the right side.
 Stitches in the hepatic region.
 Stitches in the right hypochondrium, and sometimes into it, at times with burning of the skin, which goes off by rubbing, or with a sensation as if it stuck fast there. [Ng.]
 Drawing cutting under the short ribs, while walking.
 The flatus accumulates under the ribs, with tightness of the chest.
825. Drawing, pressive pain in the epigastrium, and as if the spot was sore.
 Tension in the epigastrium, also caused by every motion of the trunk. [Ng.]
 Violent pinching in the left epigastrium, toward the region of the stomach, then sensation in the spot as of something living there, while standing and sitting. [Ng.]
 Pinching and cutting in the epigastrium, as from a purgative, while walking. [Ng.]
 Agreeable warmth in the epigastrium. [Ng.]
830. Pains in the abdomen, especially in the morning.
 Pains in the abdomen, in cool weather. [Hg.]
 Severe pains in the whole of the abdomen. [LOBSTEIN; WEIKARD.]

<sup>1</sup> Statement about over-action.—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup> Not accessible.—Hughes.

- Pressure in the abdomen on the sacrum, as from flatus, which also passes off sparingly, affording some relief. [Ng.]
- Pressure in the hypogastrium, in the forenoon and also after supper (the first days).
835. Pressure, deep in the abdomen, as for an evacuation. [Stf.]
- Spasmodic pressure, deep in the hypogastrium, near the pubes, in the morning in bed.
- Pressure in the hypogastrium, every morning on awaking, almost as if upon the bladder.
- An occasional very painful, contractive pressure in the whole of the abdomen, of short duration.
- Contractive sensation in the left side of the abdomen. [Ng.]
840. Occasional contractive pain in the intestines.
- Burning contractive pain in the hypogastrium, as if for the menses, at night (the menses had terminated a few days before); she could hardly contain herself for pain (aft. 4 d.).
- Sensation of inflation and actual inflation of the abdomen, at times pressive, relieved by moving, at times with impeded deep respiration, or with a bruised pain in the sacrum and abdomen, when touched. [Ng.]
- The inflation of the abdomen seems to be diminished by drinking coffee. [Ng.]
- Distended, extremely sensitive abdomen. [LOBSTEIN.]
845. At night great pressure and fullness in the abdomen toward the stomach, especially after midnight it feels very much dammed up.
- There is a rising up from the abdomen toward the throat, like flatus; after eructation it fell back.
- Arrested flatus, with coldness of the body and heat in the face.
- The abdomen is inflated from flatus, despite of much passage of flatus.
- Inflated, hard abdomen, with much flatus.
850. Very full in the abdomen.
- Very full, distended abdomen.
- Inflation of the abdomen (the first two days).
- Hard, distended abdomen, with little eating and slight appetite.
- The abdomen is bloated, even with good and rapid digestion.
855. Attack of colic, the pains extending from the hernial spot to the stomach.
- Flatulent colic, especially in the sides of the abdomen, as if the flatus was incarcerated here and there; the flatus for twelve hours, passes only briefly, abruptly and with great exertions.
- Pressive accumulations of flatus in the hypogastrium while sitting or lying down, hardly perceptible while walking; the abdomen seems to be drawn inward with a disagreeable sensation.
- Gripping, moving about and forcing below the navel, then urging as for diarrhœa, but only cohesive stool is discharged. [Ng.]
- Spasmodic gripping and contraction below the umbilicus, as if in the uterus, in the evening, when stooping and afterward. [Ng.]

860. Pinching in the abdomen, after dinner. [Ng.]
 Pinching in the left side of the abdomen and later on in the gastric region. [Ng.]
 Pinching and moving about in the abdomen with diarrhœa of a brown liquid, then some burning and cessation of the pains in the abdomen. [Ng.]
 Gripping in the abdomen, then diarrhœa of sour-smelling fœces, followed by some tenesmus and burning; with stiffness of the penis, in the morning. [Ng.]
 At 2 o'clock at night violent colic, and then a liquid stool, followed by burning in the anus; recurring at 5 A. M. [Ng.]
865. Cutting in the abdomen with brief tenesmus. [Ng.]
 She is awakened from her sleep by violent cutting in the abdomen, followed by a liquid stool, squirted out violently, with cessation of the pains at 3 A. M. [Ng.]
 Frequent pinching in the abdomen, as from incipient diarrhœa.
 Painful cut in the left hypogastrium across the umbilicus, during inspiration; on pressing upon it, pain as from a severely distended swelling; while walking after dinner. [Ng.]
 Violent colic.
870. Frequent cutting in the intestines, especially in the evening.
 Violent colic, in the evening, before going to sleep.
 Sudden darting cutting from the stomach to the umbilicus.
 Shooting into the abdomen, while sitting. [Ng.]
 Dull stitch into the right side of the abdomen. [Ng.]
875. Fine shooting in the left side of the abdomen below the false ribs. [Ng.]
 A long stitch from the hypogastrium to the perinæum. [Ng.]
 Shooting colic, accompanied with paleness of the face, chilliness and headache, at noon (aft. 12 d.)
 Shooting at times transversely across the abdomen.
 Twitching and shooting in the hypogastrium, above the pubes, in the morning, in bed.
880. Pinching jerk, occasionally in the afternoon, in the hypogastrium, followed by emissions of flatus.
 Pain as if something in the abdomen had burst.
 Pain in the right hypogastrium above the hip, as if something there was swollen and injured; when touched there is a bruised pain.
 Pain as from soreness or inflammation in the hypogastrium, extending to the pubes, especially painful when touched, as if the intestines were sore, with lassitude. [Htb.]
 Colic with sore and shooting pain, with alleviation by lying on the abdomen.
885. Cramp-colic of the most violent kind, first in the right side, then posteriorly toward the back (also in the right testicle) and upward toward the gastric region, with perspiration, loud groaning and contortion of the facial muscles (aft. 7 d.).
 Colicky pains, as if diarrhœa was coming on, only in brief paroxysms, but frequently renewed; then, when pressing upon it, inwardly above the ilium, severe sore pain.

- Sensation of coldness, and actual coldness in the abdomen. [Ng., Bds.]
 Sensation of warmth and actual warmth in the abdomen. [Ng.]
 Sensation of coldness in the intestines, above the umbilical region (aft. 11 d.).
890. Heat in the abdomen and face, in the morning.
 Burning and pressure in the abdomen.
 Burning in the abdomen, when eating, then after an hour, a soft stool. [Ng.]
 Sensation of weakness and emptiness in the abdomen.
 Sensation of great emptiness in the abdomen, after much passage of flatus (aft. 9 d.).
895. Sensation of great weakness in the abdomen and back, so that she had to lie down (aft. 28 d.).
 Laxness in the abdomen.
 Sensitiveness of the abdomen, below the umbilicus, when pressing on it. [Ng.]
 Itching on the right side of the chest and abdomen, going off through scratching. [Ng.]
 Itching in the umbilicus itself, not removed by scratching (aft. 6 h.).
900. Large yellow spot on the abdomen, in the region on the side of the navel.
 Two furuncles on the abdomen.
 Soreness in the left inguinal region.
 Severe pain in the hernia-spot during the menses, even when not touched.
 Swellings of the inguinal glands. [Hg.]
905. Suppurating tumor in the inguinal region, with burning pain.
 Painful pressing toward both the abdominal rings, during the flatulent colic, as if from incipient inguinal hernia.
 The inguinal hernia protrudes, during a soft stool, and pains intensely as if strangulated, while stooping or when touching it, also while walking and even while lying on the side of the abdomen; it cannot be reduced with the hand.
 Rumbling and clucking in the hernial spot.
 Moving about, grumbling, forcing and rumbling in the abdomen, also at times extending to the sacrum. [Ng.]
910. Painful rumbling in the abdomen. [Htb.]
 Rumbling in the abdomen, from flatus, as from incipient diarrhoea (aft. 48 h.).
 Rumbling in the abdomen, even after meals (aft. 4 d.).
 Very loud rumbling in the abdomen (aft. 1 h.).
 Rumbling and growling in the abdomen, with much discharge of flatus. [Gll.]
915. Ineffectual urging to discharge flatus (aft. 1 h.). [Ng.]
 Discharge of much flatus. [BOUETAZ.]
 Frequent discharge of flatus, without colicky pains (aft. 4 h.). [Stf.]
 Ready discharge of flatus at times in the evening, with tenesmus. [Ng.]

- Frequent discharge of odorless flatus. [Gr.]
920. Discharge of very fetid, at times loud flatus. [Ng.]
 Insufficient discharge of flatus, in the evening, on lying down.
 [Ng.]
 Soon after the discharge of flatus, a stool, breaking in pieces, with shooting in the rectum as from needles, and long-continued sensitiveness. [Ng.]
 Urging to stool, but only flatus is forcibly discharged. [Ng.]
 No stool, or only after a delay of several days. [Ng.]
925. Constipation.<sup>1</sup> [LOBSTEIN.]
 Stool is delayed for twenty-four hours (at once)
No stool, during the first days.
 The stool that ought to have come, is suppressed (aft 20 d.).
 Constipation for six days, with pressure in the scrobiculus cordis after meals, inflation of the abdomen and arrest of flatulence (aft. 24 h.)
930. Constipation and severe costiveness (in its after-affects?).
Difficult passage of the stool (aft. 24 d.).
 Stool only after pressing. [Ng.]
 Stool with violent pressing, first breaking in pieces, then cohesive and lastly soft. [Ng.]
 Stool with pressing, only a little piece being discharged at a time. [Ng.]
935. Violent pressing, though the stool is not hard. [Ng.]
 Stool with but little fæces, then blood from the anus. [Bds.]
 Constiveness (2d d.). [Htb.]
 Hard, firm stool (1st, 2d, 3d d.). [Ng.]
 Stool only every two days and hard.
940. Costiveness the first four days.
 Hard stool, in small lumps.
 Hard stool, covered with mucus and some blood.
 Hard stool, with cutting in the anus.
 Twice a day, a normal stool (1st d.). [Ng.]
945. Four times a day, a normal stool, but only a little at a time.
 After colic, stool with contraction of the rectum; two hours later, another stool without pinching, but preceded by much discharge of flatus, and then again contraction of the rectum (1st d.). [Mbn.]
 Very soft stool in the evening, without attendant trouble. [Ng.]
 Soft stool, with urging and cutting in the large intestines (aft. 2 d.).
 Inflation from flatus moving about in the abdomen, and instead of flatus a diarrhœic stool was passed (first 12 h.); on the second day, when the flatus moved about in the abdomen, there was a bruised pain in the intestines; the third day incarceration of flatus in the right side of the abdomen, with pressive pain; the fourth day incarceration of flatus in the right side of the abdomen, with pinching pain.
950. The stool seems hot, as it passes through. [Ng.]
 Pappy stool at an unusual time (the first days).

<sup>1</sup> See Note to Sympt. 763.—Hughes.

Diarrhœic stool, with tenesmus in the anus and rolling about in the abdomen, for sixteen days, relieved by drinking coffee. [N $\acute{g}$ .]

Stool semi-liquid, three times in the morning (6th d.). [N $\acute{g}$ .]

Stool, after moving about in the abdomen and pinching about the umbilicus, first cohesive, then semi-fluid, with burning in the anus at the time and afterward (5th d.). [N $\acute{g}$ .]

955. Semi-liquid, scanty stool, discharged forcibly. [N $\acute{g}$ .]

Diarrhœa, with discharge of ascarides.

Green stool (in the case of a suckling, whose nurse had taken phosphorus).

Green, rather soft stools. [Gr.]

Green and black stools.<sup>1</sup> [LOBSTEIN]

960. Gray stool.

Mixed with the soft stool, there are little white lumps of mucus. [Gr.]

Shining (phosphorescent) stools. [VOIGTEL]

Before the stool, some heat in the body.

Before the stool, a severe chill.

965. Before the (hard) stool in the morning, pains in the abdomen.

Before the stool, severe contractive pain, with stitches in the rectum.

Before and during the hard stool, pressure on the annus, as from excoriation.

With a soft stool, crawling and itching in the rectum.

During the passage of a stool which was not hard, excoriation in the rectum.

970. During stool, a transient pain in the os coccygis extending through the spine into the crown, pulling the head backward.

During the stool, large varices of the rectum protrude, with burning pain when touched, also in sitting and walking (aft. sever. h.).

During a stool, discharge of blood, for two mornings (the first days).

During the stool, blood, for four days in succession.

With the stool, there is an almost daily discharge of blood.

975. Copious discharge of blood from the anus (aft. sever. h.).

Blood from the rectum, with the discharge of flatus (aft.

11 d.).

A drop of blood from the rectum.

After the stool, soreness of the anus.

After the stool, pressure in the rectum.

980. After the stool, frequent sharp scraping and burning in the anus, with burning urging to urinate, without much flow of urine.

After the stool, protrusion of large varices of the anus, very painful.

After the stool, tenesmus.

For some time after the stool, intense tenesmus in the anus and the rectum.

After a slight exertion during the stool, at once pain above the anus, for 6 days in succession.

<sup>1</sup> Not found.—Hughes.

985. After a soft stool, severe burning in the anus and rectum, and great lassitude.

After a (soft) stool, great relaxation in the abdomen (aft. 3 d.).

After the second stool, he feels very dizzy, and near swooning.

After the stool, sour vomiting, or at least retching, for several mornings (aft. 14 d.).

A short time after the stool, white, corrosive mucus flows from the anus (aft. sever. h.).

990. Tearing in the rectum. [Bds.]

Formicating shooting in the anus, while walking. [Ng.]

Shooting and griping in the left side of the anus after dinner.

[Ng.]

Pain in the anus, so violent as if it would tear the body in two, with cutting and moving about in all the abdomen, with constant, ineffectual urging to stool; then heat in the hands and anxiety; the pain was only relieved by applying warm cloths (3d d.). [Ng.]

Cutting in the anus and rectum, especially in the evening (aft. 6, 7 d.).

995. Needle-pricks in the rectum, even when there is no stool. Shooting in the anus.

Burning in the rectum.

Tearing pains in the rectum, and in the genitals, so as to cause the person to sink down.

Constant, spasmodic urging about the rectum.

1000. Severe, troublesome cramp in the rectum, in the morning in bed.

Sensation in the rectum, in the evening, as if something obstructed it, which hindered the evacuation of the fæces, while the stool is not hard.

The rectum feels constricted, and during the passage of the stool, even when soft, there arises in it a sharp smarting pain as from a wound; this lasts for several hours and extends up into the abdomen.

Varices of the rectum which protrude strongly.

Sore pain in the varices of the anus, for many days, while sitting and lying down, with violent pressure and shooting therein on rising.

1005. Tickling and itching on the anus in the evening.

Erosion and itching on the anus (aft. 7 d.)

Itching in the anus, after walking and in the evening.

Frequent itching and formication in the anus, after walking in the open air.

Much urging to urinate and to pass a stool (aft. 3 h.).

1010. Difficult discharge of urine, as if there was something resisting it.

The urine stops every moment, and will not flow, with inflation of the abdomen.

Urination is impeded by a dull pain in the hypogastrium, in the morning, in bed; this prevented him from discharging the urine to the last drop; after a short interval he would again feel

- urged to urinate, when only a little would be discharged, drop by drop (9th d.). [Gr.]
- Diminution of the urine (1st d.) [Ng.]
- More frequent discharge of urine [Ng.]
1015. More frequent micturition with the usual quantity, 5 times in 2 hours, in the morning after rising, for several days [Htb.]
- Constant urging to urinate, while standing, but only a few drops are discharged at a time; this goes off when sitting [Ng.]
- Frequent micturition, but only a little at a time (aft. 40 h.). [Stf.]
- Much discharge of urine. [LOBSTEIN.]
- Increased flow of dark-brown urine, smelling of garlic and sulphur. [ROBBI.]
1020. Increase of the urine (1st d.). [Ng.]
- Increased and more frequent micturition (2d d.). [Ng.]
- Quick urging to urinate, this could hardly be retained, in the morning (aft. 3 w.). [Htb.]
- Urging to urinate, more while sitting, than while walking.
- Urging to urinate, by day (aft. 3 d.).
1025. Much micturition, while out driving (aft. sever. h.).
- Violent urging to urinate, without thirst; he could not keep back the urine, it was discharged against his will.
- Frequent micturition, also by night (the first 4 d.).
- At night frequent micturition; with only a few drops at a time; clayey urine.
- Nocturnal wetting of the bed [Ng.]
1030. Involuntary discharge of urine, frequent. [WEIKARD, LOBSTEIN, ZISLER in BOUTTAZ.]
- When he did not obey the first call to urinate, the (reddish) urine was discharged involuntarily.
- The urine tends to flow during coughing; several drops are discharged.
- Lack of urging to urinate; even when the bladder was full, she felt no inclination to micturition; but if she desired to do so, the urine flowed without trouble.
- The urine emits a strong smell of ammonia, becomes turbid and deposits a whitish-yellow sediment (aft. 6 d.).
1035. Acid urine, with a repulsive smell, like the roots of violets.
- Very fetid urine, for several days.
- Much watery, colorless urine, during the paroxysms of pain.
- Light-colored urine, clear as water [Htb.]
- Pale urine (1st d.). [Ng.]
1040. White, strongly smelling urine. [Bds.]
- Brown urine, depositing a red sand.
- Very red urine, smelling of sulphur; this deposited after two hours much thick white mucous sediment.
- The urine when passed, is of a golden yellow, but it soon deposits a whitish sediment (aft. 30 h.). [Stf.]
- Pale, yellow urine, which soon shows a cloud (3d d.). [Ng.]
1045. Urine with a white sediment, like curds.

- The urine soon becomes turbid and deposits a sediment, red like brickdust.
Opalescent, colored pellicle of fat on the urine. [Gr.]
The pale urine deposits a white crust on the sides of the vessel.
Yellow sediment in the urine.
1050. After micturition in the morning, there is at once lassitude, compelling the person to lie down.
Shooting in the urethra and in the anus.
Disagreeable sensation anteriorly in the urethra.
After micturition, a shooting pain anteriorly in the penis.
A stitch from the neck of the bladder down the penis, in the evening, when going to sleep.
1055. Cutting urine, and flow of blood from the urethra.
Burning in the urethra, with tenesmus, in the evening.
When finishing to urinate and after it, a smarting pain in the glans (aft. 32 h.). [Stf.]
During micturition, the first time after the stool, some drops of mucus flowed from the urethra, with pain in the perinæum.
Burning in the urethra. [Bds.]
1060. Quick drawing, to and fro, in the urethra, extending to the bladder with the sensation of contraction (aft. 10 d.).
Tension above the bladder in the hypogastrium.
Stitch in the glans, in the region of the frænulum.
On the prepuce, a small ulcer, which heals quickly.
Pain in the testicles, for several days.
1065. Violent drawing in the testes.
Drawing tensive pain in the spermatic cords. [Sr.]
Swelling of the spermatic cord, which is painful as well as the testes (during a soft stool).
Unusual excitation in the genital parts. [BOUTTAZ, LOBSTEIN]
More internal excitation of the genitals, in the forenoon.
1070. Violent sexual impulse.
During the first days the sexual impulse is quiescent.
Extraordinary, irresistible impulse to coitus. [LOBSTEIN, LE ROI]
Stiffness of the penis without any wanton fancies, in the evening. [Ng.]
In an old man, now and then a vigorous erection, during the first 7 days, then for 22 days, none at all, but all the more vigorous from the 29th to the 43d days.
1075. Erections by day and by night.
At night frequent stiffness of the penis (aft. 4 d.).
Frequent erections in the morning (aft. 6 d.).
Erections in the morning, after awaking. [Gr.]
Aversion to coitus on the part of the male (aft. 25 d.)
1080. Lack of erections (aft. 17 d.).
Pollution; without excitation of the fancy (aft. 8 d.).
Pollution soon after coitus.
After pollution, nervous weakness in the loins.

- Pollution at night, without any lascivious dream (aft. 8 and 10 d.). [Gr.]
1085. Pollution at night, from a stiff penis, with agreeable sensation. [Gr.]
 Juice from the prostatic gland during a hard stool. [Sr.]
 Complete impotence, no more erections.
 Aversion to coitus on the part of the female (in its after-effects?) (aft. 25 d.).
 Menses, 4 days late (aft. 17 d.).
1090. Menses, 6 days late (aft. 22 d.).
 Menses, 5 days late (aft. 41 d.).
Phosphorus in its after-effects delays the menses.
 Menses, 4 days too soon and too scanty (aft. 17 d.).
 Menses, 3 days too soon (aft. 18 d.).
1095. Menses, 9 days too early (at once).
 Menses, 2 days too early (aft. 18 d.).
 Menses, 2 days too early; usually the flow is very thick, this time a very bright red. [Ngr.]
 The menses which had been suppressed for many weeks, appear (aft. 3 d.).
 The menses which had been intermitted for 7 weeks, appear (2d d.).
1100. Flow of blood from the uterus, for two days, in the time intermediate between two monthly periods (aft. 9 d.).
 After the menses had been intermitted for a year and a half (in a woman of 51 years) they appear with violence for 5 days, the blood having an ill odor.
 The ulcer bleeds, before the appearance of the menses.
 During the menses, severe toothache, always beginning during meals.
 During the menses, severe colic (aft. 13 d.).
1105. During the menses, frequent chills, with cold hands and feet.
 During the menses, smarting itching on the varices of the anus.
 During the menses, smarting itching on the whole body.
 During the menses, the head is muddled and so lacking in tone, that she went to sleep over her reading.
 During the menses, severe pains in the back, as if bruised.
1110. During the menses, she feels very ill (especially in the evening), she has pains in the back, as if bruised and torn; drawing in the whole body, palpitation with anxiety, pinching across the stomach, with contractive pain; she felt tired and weary and as if she would fall over, and could not stay up for severe nausea, but had to lie down.
 During the menses, shooting headache in the forehead, her eyes close, she would like to lie down.
 During the menses, for two days in succession, fever; the first afternoon, first a chill, then heat and headache, without thirst; the second day, a chill at noon, for one hour, then spasmodic shaking over the whole body, with chattering of the teeth, then heat, especially in the head, and headache (aft. 10 d.).

- Before and after the menses, swelling of the gums and a swollen cheek.
- When the menses begin, severe nausea on raising herself in the bed, sour vomiting, oppression of the chest, cold perspiration on the forehead, and vertigo when walking.
1115. During the menses, spasmodic contraction of the legs, so that she could not stretch them out.
- On the margin of the labia of the pudenda, several little nodules, with a burning, stinging pain for fourteen days.
- Stitches through the female pelvis.
- A quietly tearing pain in the pudenda, as if there was something sore or ulcerated, while walking in the open air and afterward.
- Milky leucorrhœa.
1120. Slimy leucorrhœa, in the morning, while walking. [Ng.]
 Acrid, excoriating leucorrhœa (aft. 5 d.).
 Reddish discharge from the vagina (in an old woman).
 Viscid leucorrhœa, instead of the menses.
 Strongly flowing leucorrhœa, for seven days (aft. 9 d.).
 * * * * *
1125. For several evenings in succession, sneezing without coryza.
 Frequent sneezing.
 Frequent sneezing (aft. ½ h.). [Gr.]
 Frequent inclination to sneeze, and sneezing, while afraid of it on account of the severe pain in the throat, as if something would be torn out, in the morning. [Ng.]
 First abortive, then complete sneezing and eructation. [Ng.]
1130. Sneezing, at once after dinner.
 Spasmodic sneezing, with a violent sensation in the head and contortion of the limbs, with constriction of the chest. [Mbn.]
 Sneezing, attended with rumbling in the left flank. [Ng.]
 Frequent excitation to blowing the nose (4th d.). [Ng.]
 Coryza and sensation of fullness in the nose, especially in the upper part of the left side, with loose mucus. [Ng.]
1135. The nares are stopped up, every morning.
 Stoppage of the nose, so that she can only breathe through the open mouth. [Ng.]
 Sensation of dryness in the nose, with a constant sensation as if its walls would adhere to each other. [Ng.]
 Sensation of dryness in the nose. [Syf.]
 Much flow of mucus from the nose, without coryza.
1140. Water flows from the nose in the open air, without mucus.
 Frequent sensation, as if water dropped from the nose. [Ng.]
 Greenish-yellow discharge from the nose.
 Yellow mucus from the nose, in the morning, and expulsion of blood.
 Plugs in the nose. [Hg.]
1145. Sensation of stoppage in the nose, with a muddled feeling of the head as from incipient coryza.
Stuffed coryza.
 A coryza sticks to her, she has constantly to blow her nose.
 Coryza, in the evening.

- Severe coryza, with stuffing of the nose. [Ng.]
1150. Coryza, with much heat in the head (aft. 8 d.).
 Long-continuing coryza.
 Fluent coryza. [Gr.]
 Repeated alternation of fluent and stuffed coryza. [Ng.]
 Fluent coryza of water merely. [Ng.]
1155. Fluent coryza from one nostril, while the other is stuffed.
 [Ng.]
 Violent fluent coryza, with great muddling of the head, lack of appetite, and general sensation of malaise (aft. 48 h.).
 Coryza, with inflammation of the throat, and severe muddled sensation in the head.
 Fluent coryza, with discharge of much mucus. [Ng.]
 Tickling in the windpipe awakes her for two nights in succession, about midnight and compels her to a dry cough. [Ng.]
1160. Irritability of the lower part of the windpipe, with a suffocating pressure in the upper part of the chest. [Hrb.]
 Roughness and burning in the throat, during deglutition and otherwise. [Ng.]
 Roughness in the throat, exciting to cough, in the morning. [Ng.]
 Roughness in the larynx, and in the windpipe, with frequent tussiculation and hawking. [Ng.]
 Roughness in the throat, for four days, in humid weather. [Mbn.]
1165. Roughness in the throat, with severe coryza.
 Roughness on the chest (aft. 24 h.).
 Sensation of dryness on the chest.<sup>1</sup> [KORTUM.]
Hoarseness, in the morning.
 Hoarseness, the larynx feels as if covered with fur, he cannot speak a loud word.
1170. Violent catarrh, with hoarseness.
 Catarrhal filling of the chest with mucus, in the morning.
 Hoarseness. [Ng.]
 Hoarse, thick speech, for several days. [Ng.]
 Scraping in the throat incites to coughing, in the afternoon, in the open air. [Ng.]
1175. Constant ineffectual hawking (aft. ½ h.). [Ng.]
 The mucus hawked up is cool, in the morning. [Ng.]
 Cough from a constant tickling in the throat. [Ng.]
 Cough from an irritation in the windpipe, in the afternoon. [Ng.]
 Cough, consisting of a few impulses, after dinner. [Ng.]
1180. Repeated short tussiculation (aft. ½ h.). [Ng.]
 Cough, with a shooting pain below the hypochondria.
 Cough, with shooting below the scrobiculus cordis, so that she has to hold her chest.
 At every impulse of cough, a sharp pressure in the scrobiculus cordis.
 Cough, with burning in the throat. [Ng.]

<sup>1</sup> See sympt. 1249.—Hughes.

1185. During coughing, a sourish vomiting.
 During coughing, a pain in the stomach.
 During coughing, she has to press with her hand on the scrobiculus cordis, owing to the shooting pain; at the same time the throat is painful as if raw.
 Sharp, shooting incitation to cough, in the throat.
 Cough from cold air, which is severely felt on his chest.
1190. Cough during eating, loose, rattling as in old people. [Gl.]
 Cough, after dinner. [Ng.]
 Cough with sore feeling in the throat, at once after dinner.
 [Ng.]
 Cough in the open air, and pain in the chest and abdomen from it.
 Cough chiefly while drinking (cold or warm liquids.)
1195. Severe, dry cough while reading aloud, in the evening.
 Severe dry cough, merely while sitting and lying down, not when moving.
 Frequent dry, short tussiculation, from an incitation in the throat, all day, but most in the evening. [Ng.]
 Frequent, dry tussiculation in the evening, also in bed, hindering from sleep. [Ng.]
 Dry, violent cough, with pressive headache all day (at once).
1200. Dry, troublesome cough, causing pain anteriorly in her chest, awaking her from sleep, for 14 nights in succession.
 Dry cough with headache, as if the head would burst, with coryza (aft. 35 d.).
 Hollow, chiefly dry cough, with pressure in the scrobiculus cordis, so that he cannot sleep all night.
 Cough, causing pain in the abdomen, so that she has to hold it for pain.
 Cough from tickling (aft. 8 d.).
1205. Cough with chill all over the body.
 Hollow cough, chiefly in the morning in bed, and also at night, when she wished to go to sleep, it kept her from sleeping.
 Loose cough, without expectoration, with pain and sensation of soreness in the chest, so that she was afraid to cough. [Ng.]
 Violent fit of coughing, about midnight, loose, but without expectoration, relieved by sitting up; for one hour, after which she went to sleep coughing; in the morning, only a sensation of soreness in the throat. [Ng.]
 A whooping cough, with suffocation on the chest and some expectoration of mucus (aft. 8 d.).
1210. Fatiguing cough, with expectoration of viscid mucus.
 Cough with white expectoration, difficult to dissolve.
 Severe cough with expectoration of mucus, awakes her early at 2 o'clock.
 Frequent coughing, with much expectoration, also at night.
 Cough, in the morning, after rising, with expectoration of transparent mucus, and a sensation in the middle of the sternum as if something was torn away from it.

1215. Constant mucous cough with tensive pain in the chest.<sup>1</sup> [KORTUM].

Cough, day and night, with much expectoration of mucus, after several days, there came in addition shooting pains, very violent, in the chest, with severe cough.

In the slimy expectoration from the chest, there are little veinlets of blood (aft. 4 d.).

Expectoration of blood with mucus, while coughing (aft. 24 h.)

Expectoration of blood with mucus during a brief, mild cough (aft. 36 h.).

1220. Expectoration of blood with fatiguing retching, without pain, the day before and the first day of the menses.

Coughing up of little flakes of pus, with excoriative burning behind the sternum.

During the cough, sensation in the throat as if a piece of flesh had to be coughed out. [Ng.]

The breath very short, after every fit of coughing. [Ng.]

The breath is checked by fullness in the abdomen, in the forenoon, in every position. [Ng.]

1225. Fast walking takes away the breath (aft. sever. h.).

Difficulty in respiring, in the evening in bed (aft. 3 d.).

Inclination to take a deep breath. [Ng.]

Panting, when ascending a mountain.

He can only breathe with a rattling noise.

1230. Difficult breathing, on account of tension in the scrobiculus cordis. [Ng.]

The chest feels very tight, the breath very short.

Shortness of breath and vertigo.

Tightness of the chest (aft. 13 d.).

Anxious respiration during meditation.

1235. Anxious oppression in the chest, in the evening.

Anxiety and heaviness on the chest, as if this was pressed together, with arrest of respiration. [Ng.]

Anxiety on the chest, with lack of breath.

Anxiety on the chest, with throbbing in the lower part of the right side of the chest.

Tightness in the lower part of the chest, with shortness of breath, in the evening. [Ng.]

1240. Tightness of the chest, above the xiphoid cartilage, with oppression of the respiration, in the evening, when stooping, always relieved by straightening himself. [Ng.]

Frequent tightness on the chest, with nausea.

Asthma, with brief attack of nausea.

Asthma, when taking a deep breath.

Tightness of the chest, worse when sitting, relieved by eructation (aft. 22 d.)

1245. Frequent tightness of the chest.

Heaviness of the chest, as if a load was lying upon it.

Feeling of heaviness on the chest, when inspiring, while walking, immediately after dinner. [Ng.]

<sup>1</sup> See Sympt. 1249.—Hughes.

- The chest always feels so tense as if a band was laid around it.
Tension and dryness in the chest. [KORTUM, VOIGTEL.]
1250. Tension on the chest, without asthma.
 Oppressive, tensive sensation of the chest.
 Sensation across the chest as if the clothes were too tight.
 Tightness of the chest, in the morning, with palpitation and nausea, for an hour.
 Pressive tightness on the chest,
1255. Contraction of the whole of the lungs.
 Contraction of the chest, with pressing or squeezing in the epigastrium.
 Contractive pressure in the upper left portion of the chest.
 Oppressive tense sensation in the chest.
 Tightness of the chest, in the morning, in bed, for half an hour.
1260. Tightness of the chest, after walking in the open air, at night, so that she could not finish yawning.
 Oppression of the breath, with a chill and severe headache, so that he can hardly take thought (aft. 1 h.).
 Tightness of the chest, as from a rush of blood, especially in the morning on awaking.
 Asthma, after driving out, toward evening.
 Spasmodic contraction in the chest.
1265. Constrictive squeezing sensation in the extreme upper part of the chest.
 Spasm in the chest, constricting the chest, for several evenings successively. [Rl.]
 Tightness of the chest, as if the blood quite hot, was pressing up the throat (aft. 13 d.).
Rush of blood to the chest.
 Rush of blood to the chest at every violent emotion, with a spasmodic contraction between the scapulæ.
1270. Rush of blood to the heart, and palpitation, becoming violent after a meal (aft. 9 d.).
 Palpitation, with anxiety, in the evening, and in the morning on awaking in bed.
 Frequent violent palpitation.
 Violent palpitation, in the afternoon, after a slight emotion, for an hour, so that he could not remain lying down; on going to sleep, another slight attack (aft. 10 d.).
 Palpitation, in the morning, after the customary breakfast.
1275. Palpitation, at times several (2, 3 to 6) violent beats (while walking or sitting after a meal); while lying down at night on the left side, only one, two beats.
 Several strong heart-beats, during a slight motion, especially of the left arm, while sitting up in bed, stretching, etc.; it goes off while resting.
 Severe palpitation, in the morning on awaking in bed and in the evening after lying down.
 Pain as from a thrust behind the right side of the chest, under the axilla, on pressing upon it. [Ng.]

- Painful, dull shooting below the left side of the chest, deep within, on rising from a seat [Ng.]
1280. Shooting and stitches in various parts of the chest, especially while sitting, at times with burning. [Ng.]
- Shooting in the middle of the sternum, as from a knife, extending into the right scapula, from morning till evening, somewhat diminished during breakfast; this is so violent that it arrests the respiration, worse on inspiring, less when moving (4th d.). [Ng.]
- Stitches in the left side of the chest, when respiring.
- Severe stitches in the chest, on the left and the right side, both at rest and in motion.
- Stitches in the left side, below the ribs, for five days.
1285. Stitches in the right side of the chest, when breathing. [Gll.]
- Transient stitches in the upper part of the chest, where the neck commences.
- Stitches externally on the chest, unaffected by respiration.
- Burning hot rising from the stomach into the chest, while sitting, with anxiety and with perspiration on the forehead and the chest, while sitting (aft. 2 h.). [Ng.]
- Burning sensation at the lower end of the sternum, extending toward the left clavicle, after dinner. [Ng.]
1290. Pain in the chest, especially on inspiring.
- Pressure on the chest, so that he cannot breathe well.
- Pressure on the lower part of the chest.
- Pressure on the upper part of the chest, pulling downward, and then empty eructation.
- Bruised pain in the upper part of the chest, when stooping, moving, or while touching it.
1295. Itching within the chest.
- Itching in the chest (windpipe) and below the pit of the throat, with dry cough which does not relieve.
- Lassitude in the chest.
- Lassitude in the chest, for several days, and a sensation as if she should discover a pain there.
- Violent pain in the great pectoral muscle.
1300. Sore pain on the clavicle, per se and when touched.
- Pain in the fleshy part of the right side of the chest, as if the glands were pressed violently.
- Stitches in the mamma [Ng.]
- Pain in the right side of the chest, as if the skin was being raised up with a needle. [Ng.]
- Touch as with the tip of the finger on the right side of the chest while sitting. [Ng.]
1305. Stitch in the right clavicle, on the top of the shoulder. [Ng.]
- Very warm, externally on the chest. [Ng.]
- Burning pinching externally below the right breast, with rising of heat into the head. [Ng.]
- Erysipelas in one of the breasts, both of which are covered with eruption, with swelling, redness, burning, stitches and finally suppuration.
- Inflammation and swelling of the left nipple and of the whole

- of the left breast, with great pains; after 10 days it passes into suppuration.
1310. The coccyx pains when touched, as if there was an ulcer there.
 Pain on the coccyx, hindering all motions; she could not find out any comfortable position; then painful stiffness in the neck (2d d.).
 Pain in the sacrum, when raising himself from a stooping position and in standing, less while walking.
 Pain in the sacrum after sitting for a long time (aft. 11 d.).
 Gnawing pain in the small of the back and the sacrum, it goes off by friction. [Ng.]
1315. Pain in the small of the back above the sacrum and the neighboring parts of the ilium, especially when sitting in a stooping position and after dinner, with great lassitude. [Htb.]
 Weakness and paralytic sensation in the small of the back.
 Weakness in the small of the back as if it were going to sleep, while sitting and while rising from a seat.
 Burning in the small of the back, especially during a delay of the menses.
 Much pain in the sacrum and the back, so that he could hardly rise from his seat.
1320. Violent pain in the back, when sitting for a time.
 Pain in the back, after walking.
 Heaviness and weariness in the back, while lying down.
 Unbearable pains in the back, recurring periodically and hindering in walking.
 Uninterrupted stitches in the spine, all the day, at various hours (aft. 22 d.).
1325. Violent stitch in the muscles of the back above the left hip (aft. 7 d.).
 Stitches in the lumbar vertebræ, compelling him to scream. [Ng.]
 Pressure close below the scapulæ.
 Pain as from a peg driven into the left scapula.
 Sensation as if some one was seizing her firmly by both the scapulæ, when lifting and carrying with both hands. [Ng.]
1330. Tearing in the left scapula, going off by friction. [Ng.]
 Tearing in the right scapula.
Stitches in the right scapula: [Ng.]
 Stitches below both of the scapulæ, frequent stitches for a quarter of an hour.
 Stitches in the scapula (2d d.). [Sr.]
1335. Shooting pain in the right scapula.
 Twitching pain in the left scapula, extending into the top of the shoulder, while sitting. [Ng.]
 Beating and tearing in the right scapula, seemingly in the bone, soon recurring after friction. [Ng.]
 Beating pain, on a small spot between the shoulders. [Ng.]
 Sensation in the nape as from a heavy load.
1340. Pressure in the nape of the neck.

Tearing in the nape, while stooping and at other times. [Ng.]
Stiffness of the neck.

The occiput and the nape are painful and quite stiff.

Stiff neck.

1345. The anterior muscles of the neck are keenly painful when touched and when moving.

Stitches in a tumor on the neck.

Hard knot as large as a filbert on the neck, below the chin, painful when touched. [Gr.]

Twitches in the muscles of the neck.

Tearing in the arteries of the right side of the neck, extending into the top of shoulder. [Ng.]

1350. Stitches in the left side of the neck. [Ng.]

Stitching pinching, externally on the neck, when walking in the open air.

Stitches on the front part of the neck, toward the right ear, and from there tearing, extending into the crown. [Ng.]

Sensation of cold and tearing on the left side of the neck. [Ng.]

In the axilla, pimples, which itch violently and burn after scratching. [Hg.]

1355. Swelling of the axillary glands, with burning pain in the skin of the arms. [Sr.]

In the right axilla, violent itching, and a glandular knot there as large as a pea.

Pressure and drawing in the shoulders. [Gll.]

The shoulder is painful when touched in the morning.

Pain of the shoulder-joint, after walking in the open air.

1360. Tearing in the top of the left shoulder, especially at night in bed.

Tearing in the top of the left shoulder, also in the joint, occasionally accompanied with tearing in the knee, chiefly after dinner. [Ng.]

Shooting and stitches in the top of the right shoulder. [Ng.]

Dull, painful stitch in the top of the left shoulder, after dinner; it goes off through moving, but the spot for a long time remains sensitive. [Ng.]

Boring in the top of the right shoulder, after dinner, increased by moving, diminished while at rest. [Ng.]

1365. Rheumatic pain in the top of the right shoulder, extending to the upper ribs, for one hour (aft. 7 d.).

Rheumatic pain in the top of the right shoulder, in the morning after awaking (aft. 36 h.).

Tearing in the left shoulder, with headache.

Pain, as from a sprain, in the top of the right shoulder, especially when raising the arm.

Stitches in the axillæ, passing out through the shoulders.

[Ng.]

1370. Dull shooting, spreading out widely under both the axillæ.

[Ng.]

Cracking in the shoulder-joint.

Heaviness in the shoulders and arms (aft. 2 d.).

- Drawing straining in the muscles of the arms, from the shoulders to the half of the fore-arm.
- Drawing pain in the whole arm, increasing in the evening.
1375. Tearing in the left arm and in the hand.
The left arm goes to sleep, with numbness of the fingers (without coldness), while they are drawn up crooked, especially in the morning, after which the arm becomes quite fatigued.
The arm on which the head rests, goes to sleep.
The arms go to sleep.
The right arm goes to sleep, in the morning (aft. 8 d.).
1380. Much itching on the arms.
Lassitude in the arms, so that she did not want to move (aft. 16 d.).
Lassitude in the joints of the arms, while the arteries on the hands are distended.
Paralytic, sore pain in the arm, with trembling, when she holds anything in her hand.
Pain, as from a sprain, in the right arm.
1385. Pain, sensation of numbness, and lack of strength in the right arm, chiefly about the elbow-joint, in the evening when lying down in bed, going off by a change of position, but soon returning and frequently thus recurring. [Htb.]
Tearing on the outer surface of the right upper arm, appearing after rubbing on the forearm, where there was a visible sub-sultus. [Ng.]
Bruised pain in the right upper arm, while sitting. [Ng.]
Bruised pain in the left humerus, from the elbow to the top of the shoulder, drawing up and down. while sitting. [Ng.]
Rheumatic pain in the right upper arm, after a slight cold.
1390. Tearing in the upper arm.
Great weariness of the upper arms.
Burning on the skin of both the upper arms. [Sr.]
Painful pressure in the periosteum of the humerus and the radius, like pain of the bones (aft. 6 h.).
The elbow-joint is painful, as if broken.
1395. Tearing and drawing in the right elbow-joint.
Tearing and boring in the elbows up to the top of the shoulders. [Ng.]
Tearing extending downward from the elbow on the inner side of the fore-arm, to the joint of the thumb, as if it would tear out the bone, going off after friction. [Ng.]
Tearing and shooting in the right elbow. [Ng.]
Stitches in the elbow-joint, after a fright, and then also stitches in a spot of the foot, which is rubbed sore.
1400. Gnawing pain in the right elbow, extending to near the top of the shoulder, while sitting. [Ng.]
A shock and twitching in the olecranon processes, while sitting. [Ng.]
Red points with gnawing itching on a spot of the bend of the right elbow, as large as the hand.
Severe tearing on the inner side of the left forearm, as if it would tear off the skin, in the morning. [Ng.]

- Tearing in the forearms, especially about the wrist-joint.
[Ng.]
1405. Tearing in the wrist-joint, with paralytic weakness, in the evening. [Ng.]
Bruised pain in the right radius. [Ng.]
Tearing pain and tearing in the hands and wrist-joints. [Ng.]
Pain as from a sprain in the wrist-joint. [Ng.]
Tearing in the metacarpal bones. [Gl.]
1410. Tearing in the hand, especially in the knuckles, chiefly at night in bed.
Transles tearing in the knuckles and the thumb.
Drawing in the hand and in the fingers, after moistening the hands with lukewarm water.
Burning and shooting on a spot of the right inner edge of the hands. [Ng.]
Formication of the hands in the open air, while yawning (aft.  $\frac{1}{4}$  h.). [Ng.]
1415. Heaviness and trembling of the hands, on letting the arms hang down, with redness and swollen veins, with a sensation as if much blood rushed into them. [Ng.]
Rush of blood to the hands (and the head), as if coming from the stomach, with swollen veins on the dorsum of the hands. [Ng.]
Cold hands. [Gr.]
Trembling in the hands.
Trembling of the hands, in the morning.
1420. The one hand is at times as if paralyzed, for several hours.
Both hands are asleep, in the morning on awaking, the fingers had no sensation (21st d.).
The right hand is asleep, in the morning, in bed (aft. 9 d.).
Itching of the hands.
The skin on both the hands is very rough and dry.
1425. Warts come on the hands.
Sudamen on the dorsum of both the hands, with itching, worse at night. [Gr.]
Burning sensation in the hands, with external heat.
Burning sensation in the palms.
Keenly painful stitches in the wrist-joint while at rest (aft. 17 d.).
1430. Sudden swelling of the hands and the fingers.
Swelling of the wrist-joint, with beating in it as in an ulcer, and tearing extending into the fingers, even when at rest, and much worse when moving the wrist which is very stiff (after taking cold?).
Pain as from a sprain in the thumb, when seizing anything.
Swelling of the posterior joint of the thumb, painful when touched, and with tensive pain as if from a strain in gripping, when moved.
Pain as from a sprain, or as from a strain, in seizing, in the posterior joint of the thumb, when moving.
1435. Pain of the finger-joints as from a strain (aft. 6 d.).

- Numbness and insensibility of the fingers of the one hand, while those on the other feel asleep.
 The middle finger of the right hand becomes quite numb, dead, bloodless and cold in moderately cold air.
 Twitches of single fingers. [Gll.]
 Paralytic twitching occasionally in the right thumb, while writing, so that he can hardly hold his pen. [Gr.]
 1440. His fingers are occasionally drawn together, as from a spasm.
     Weakness and twitching in one finger, all the day.
     Severe twitching in the left little finger.
     Heaviness in the finger tips.
     Spasmodic drawing and tearing in the little finger.
 1445. Tearing in the right little finger. [Ng.]
     Paralysis of the fingers, so that although they can feel, they can hardly be moved. [Gll.]
     Tension in the fingers of the left hand.
     Tension in the fourth and fifth fingers of both hands, as if strained.
     Swelling of a finger, with pain, chiefly when knocking it against something.
 1450. Tedious Paronychia, which will not heal.
     The skin of the finger joints crack, as if from great cold.
     The nates are painful as if festering within, when sitting for some time.
     Pulsation in the nates.
     Quivering in the nates. [Gll.]
 1455. Visible but painful twitching in the one natis and in the thigh.
     The right hip-joint is painful.
     Painful, paralytic sensation in the left hip, in the evening, so that he can hardly tread; without trouble, however, in sitting and lying down. [Sr.]
     Sensation in the region of the right hip, as if it was held tight, without pain in sitting. [Ng.]
     Severe pain in the bend of the left thigh. [Ng.]
 1460. Pain in the hips as if sprained.
     Shooting in the left hip, it goes off by friction, after dinner. [Ng.]
     Violent stitch in the right hip toward the chest. [Stf.]
     Itching on both the hips.
     In the lower limbs, great weakness, she readily falls down.
 1465. The left leg goes to sleep, without cause, in the morning.
     Severe, paralytic sensation in the right lower limb, at night.
     Weariness in the lower limbs, in the morning.
     Pain in the lower limbs, in the morning on rising, as after a long foot-tour.
     Heaviness and weariness in the lower limbs, especially on going up stairs.
 1470. Straining in the whole of the right lower limb, also when at rest.
     Tension in the lower limbs and pressive pain, causing stiffness in the left lower limb.

Spasmodic contraction in both the legs and feet, with jerks.

Severe pressive pain in the left ischium, when sitting for a long time.

Great restlessness in the legs, with icy cold hands, chiefly in the evening.

1475. In the thigh, severe drawing, hither and thither, during the siesta.

Drawing pain in the thighs, relieved by walking; to which it compels him.

Momentary, tearing pain in the left thigh, up from the knee.

Rhythmic tearing on the posterior part of the thigh, in the evening after lying down. [Ng.]

Tearing jerks, on the upper part of the posterior side of the thigh, extending to the knee, while walking in the open air and afterwards, every four minutes, with sore pain of the spot when touched.

1480. Shooting and burning on the right thigh, just above the knee, in brief paroxysms, going off by friction, while sitting. [Ng.]

Burning in the thigh, much aggravated by touching it.

Bruised pain in the middle of the thigh; the spot pains so much when touched that he cannot walk for pain,

Itching on the thigh and on the patella.

Severe itching on a small spot of the thigh, with erosion after scratching.

1485. Large pimples, painful when touched, posteriorly on the thighs.

Soreness on the inner side of the thighs. [Hg.]

Herpes above the knees and below the patella.

Constant coldness in the knees, at night in bed.

Trembling in the knees.

1490. Spasmodic drawing in the knees, when walking.

Tearing in the knees in the open air, for several evenings.

Tearing in the knees and in the patellæ, at times as if in the bone; occasionally going off by friction; also after dinner. [Ng.]

Severe tearing from the knee down the inner side of the calf, as if the flesh was being torn from the bone, passing off through friction; after dinner. [Ng.]

Drawing pain from the knees down into the feet.

1495. Drawing from the left knee down into the foot (aft. 20 d.).

Drawing from the knee into the foot, in the evening, and after every drawing, a painful jerk (aft. 15 d.).

Tearing in the right hough, at night.

Straining of the tendon of the houghs, while walking, as if too short.

Gouty tension in the knees, as if strained; they are hot when touched.

1500. Paralytic sensation in the left knee. [S.]

Pain, as from a sprain, in the left knee.

Dull pain about the right knee-joint.

Shooting in the knees, at night, in paroxysms.

Stitch on the inner surface of the right knee, at every step;

- but when sitting and lifting the thigh, a bruised pain above the knee, which goes off on rising from the seat. [Ng.]
1505. Tearing from the knee down into the dorsum of the foot, while the anterior part of the left foot is asleep; it goes off by friction. [Ng.]
 Red inflamed puff, quickly formed between the calf and the hough, with eroding pain.
 Tension in the right calf, while walking.
 Cramp in the calves. [Gll.]
 Cramp in the calves, and twitching upward of the leg when stretching it in walking.
1510. The leg from the calf to the foot is asleep, as if the circulation had been checked below the knee by a tight ligature.
 Severe itching on the calves and the tibiæ.
 Pain of the tibiæ, while walking.
 Bruised pain in the tibiæ.
 Bruised pain in the periosteum of the tibia, which also feels sore when touched.
1515. Rhythmic tearing on the left tibia, anteriorly above the foot, in the morning, on awaking. [Ng.]
 Tearing stitches, down the tibiæ.
 Many small spots, like freckles, on the lower part of the tibia. [Sr.]
 Many small, bluish-red spots, almost like petechia, on the legs.
 Pain in the left ankle-joint, extending up to the calf.
1520. Violent tearing and shooting in the feet, so that he cannot sleep for it by night.
 Tearing on the inner border of the sole of the left foot, from the heel forward, while sitting. [Ng.]
 Tearing in the left ankle, at night, so that he could not sleep.
 Severe itching on the soles and toes, in the evening.
 Crawling in the feet and toes, as from ants.
1525. Crawling under the toes. [Sr.]
 Crawling in the feet, at night, as if asleep.
 Pain in the ankle-joint as if sprained, while walking; there is tension on treading (aft. 4 d.).
 Proneness of the ankle-joint to sprain and to give way while treading.
 Paralytic sensation in the feet.
1530. Icy cold feet, which even refuse to get warm in bed (in June). [Gr.]
 Paralytic drawing pain in the ankles to the knee.
 Sweating of the feet.
Heaviness in the feet, as if they were swollen.
 Heaviness of the feet (aft. 11 h.). [Htb.]
1535. Swelling of the tendons on the right ankle.
Swelling of the feet, in the evening (aft. 7 d.).
Swelling of the feet, when walking.
 Swelling of one foot. [Hg.]
Swelling of the feet, even in the morning. [Sr.]
1540. Spots on the feet. [Sr.]

- Blisters and ulcers on the feet keep multiplying. [Hg.]
 Stitches in the swelling on the feet.
 Shooting pain in the right ankle, with swelling round about it, she cannot tread for pain.
 Pain of the soles of the feet, as if she had walked too far.
1545. Pain in the soles of the feet when walking; they are red.
 Troublesome sensation of dryness in the soles of the feet (aft. 27 d.).
 Cramp in the soles of the feet (aft. 3 d.).
 Constant tendency to cramp in the soles of the feet and in the toes.
 Cramp in the soles. [Sr.]
1550. Jerks in the feet, with fornicating cramp in the soles. [Sr.]
 Jerks and dartings in the feet. [Sr.]
 Tearing stitches in the soles of both the feet.
 Tearing and shooting in the soles, so that he cannot tread.
 Ticking pain in the heels, at night, she must rub them warm, to gain relief.
1555. The left foot goes to sleep, on crossing the legs. [Ng.]
 Weakness and sensation of going to sleep in the feet, with great restlessness. [Sr.]
 Formication in both the heels.
 Tension in the heels, in the morning in bed.
 A blister on the heel, which opened, became humid, and very painful when walking (aft. 14 d.).
1560. The heels and toes formerly frozen, begin to be very painful, especially in the shoes, in walking (aft. 48 h.).
 The toes formerly frozen, have a pressive and burning pain, in the shoes, in walking.
 Violent pain in the left big toe.
 Itching under the toes and on the soles.
 Severe stitches in the ball of the big toe, with inflammation there.
1565. Chilblains form in March (aft. 9 d.).
 Shooting in the left big toe, more when moving, in the evening.
 Tearing in the toes, when sitting; it goes off by friction. [Ng.]
 Twitching in the left big toe, while sitting. [Ng.]
 Violent stitch in the right big toe. [Ng.]
1570. The big toe pains as if frozen. [Sr.]
 Pains in the corns, piercing through bone and marrow.
 Severe shooting pressure in the corns, like boring with a knife.
 Shooting in the corns, when walking.
 Old corns begin to be painful on the little toe, which also swells up.
1575. Corns on the heels are keenly painful, on the slightest pressure, even from the pressure of the bed covers. [Gr.]
 Shooting in the corns (which later pass away). [Sr.]
 Itching formication in the paralyzed parts. [ROBBI; LOBSTEIN.]

- Itching (or also smarting as from ants) here and there; it goes off by friction. [Ng.]
General itching on the body (aft. 22 d.).
1580. Itching in the back and in the houghs.
 Severe itching, at night, in the arms, the legs, the back and the abdomen (aft. 12 d.).
 Much itching and gnawing about the abdomen, the arms and the thighs; scratching produced red streaks (aft. 26, 27 d.).
 Itching all over the body, at night, with much heat and dryness in the mouth (aft. 12 h.).
 Burning itching all over the body (aft. 10 d.).
1585. Frequent, small bites on the skin of the body.
 Frequent bites in the skin, like flea bites.
 Single pressive stitches here and there on the body.
 Itching nettle rash in large blisters all over the body, also in the face.
Round herpetic spots all over the body. [Sr.]
1590. Much itching, eruptions, and blisters from scratching. [Hg.]
 The lumps and lumpy spots, as also the brownish and reddish blue spots, are deepened in color. [Hg.]
 Translucent coppery spots on the body. [Hg.]
 Brownish, dark, sometimes raised spots in the houghs, on the chest, the forehead, and below the labial commissures. [Hg.]
 Lumps in the skin (of the nates). [Hb.]
1595. Painful hard blisters, here and there, without itching. [Hg.]
 Blisters as from burning, which opened and were humid. [Hg.]
 Itching vesicles between the fingers and in the houghs. [Hg.]
 Small furuncles in the nape, on the chest, and the thighs.
 Large furuncles on the thigh, on the chest and on the forehead.
1600. Eroded spots on the skin, rubbed open, with redness and exoriative or shooting pain, on various spots on the body.
 Scaling off of the epidermis. [Gr.]
 Itching of a wart, on the forehead.
 Burning in a wart, as in an ulcerating wound, in the evening; after lying down.
 Pinching, contractive pain, in a spot that has already formed a cicatrix.
1605. Discharge of black blood, from an old vesicatory cicatrix.
 Tensive drawing in the glands, also on the neck.
 Increased sensation of warmth in paralyzed parts. [ROBBI.]
 Burning in the hands and legs.
 Burning on the arms and thighs.
1610. Burning on the whole of the right side of the body.
 Shooting on the chest and in the back, also in the right arm, on moving, especially at night, in bed (aft. 11 d.).
 Drawing in the arms and legs, with tendency to weep (aft. 13 d.).
 Tearing in the righ fore-arm and knee, as soon as she gets cold.
 After eating, in the afternoon, most of the troubles cease. [Ng.]

1615. The open air relieves him, and he seems to feel better in it (aft. 1, 2 h.). [Ng.]
Sensitiveness to cool weather.
He feels changes in the weather in advance, by his pains.
During a thunderstorm, heaviness in the limbs.
She feels impelled to walk way off into the open air.
1620. Readiness to take cold in the open air, and thence colic, pain in the nape, stiffness of the arms, toothache, lachrymation, hiccups, cutting and shooting in and above the scrobiculus cordis, muddled feeling in the head, or finally cold and clammy feet and hands, accompanied with a hot cheek, etc.
A walk is followed by coryza.
Sensation of taking cold in the whole of the body, with chilliness and drowsiness.
After slightly wetting and chilling the feet, weariness in all the limbs, burning in the hands, headache and has to lie down; the next day, coryza.
After slight nocturnal perspiration, on rising, cold and toothache with slight jerks in the teeth.
1625. Blood in great ebullition.
Frequent ebullition of the blood, and occasional intense palpitation.
In the evening, always ebullition of blood, and sensation of warmth.
Rush of blood to the chest and head (aft. 48 h.).
Ebullition of blood, at night, he, as it were, hears the blood rush along in the body.
1630. Ebullition of blood; from his customary smoking of tobacco (aft. 24 h.).
Ebullition of blood, at night, with chill and trembling, at the same time restlessness in the intestines.
Small wounds bleed violently.
Discharge of blood from various parts of the body, as coughing blood, bleeding of the gums. of the varices ani, etc.
She perspires violently, at the least motion.
1635. Lively speaking causes heat in the head and chest.
All the limbs feel sprained, with quick movements.
The hands and the feet are asleep.
Hands and feet feel dead.
Hands, feet and nose feel numb,
1640. A sort of insensibility in the whole body (MENZ in BOUTTAZ.)
Cold, lack of warmth in the whole body (MENZ.)
Icy cold hands and feet, all day, also in bed.
Chilliness while sitting down, not while walking.
Hysterical lassitude, so that she cannot move a foot, with constant yawning, hiccupping, and torment and pressure on the chest.
1645. During the fits of pain, constant yawning and watery urine.
In the morning, he is tremulous, with sensible twitching in the limbs (aft. 8 d.).
Sensation of chattering of the teeth, and general trembling, in the morning, on awaking.

- Trembling of the hands. [Htb.]
 Trembling of the hands, so that he cannot write. [Ng.]
1650. Tremulous feeling all over the body, like pulsation. [Ng.]
 Trembling in the thighs, like shuddering. [Ng.]
 Trembling. [LOBSTEIN.]
 Tremulous in the chest and in the hands, as if she had drunk too much coffee.
 Disagreeable sensation of illness and discomfort in the whole body, especially in the stomach, even in the open air. [Ng., LE ROI.]
1655. Emaciation, especially of the hands, so that the veins clearly show. [Htb.]
 Consumption and hectic fever.<sup>1</sup> [LOBSTEIN.]
 Convulsions. [LOBSTEIN.]
Death, caused especially by mortification and inflammation; in one case the corpse was luminous in all its parts. [BRERA, HORN, WEIKARD, LE ROI.]
 Pain in all the limbs.
1660. The pains are worst from the afternoon at five, six o'clock till toward morning.
 Fatigue, bruised feeling of the limbs.
 All the joints are painful, most when moving.
 Languid, prostrated, joyless, not disposed to anything.
 Bruised pain of all the limbs.
1665. Bruised sensation all over the body, strengthless and always drowsy; at the same time very pale, yet with appetite for eating.
 Bruised pain and heaviness in the left knee and elbow.
 Hands and feet feel as if beaten all over.
 Heaviness of the hands and feet.
 Heaviness of the whole body.
1670. Clumsiness of mind and body (2d d.).
 Painful heaviness of the whole body, now in the head, now in the chest, now in the thigh, then in the leg, then again everywhere at once; this makes him quite inactive and peevish; before the heaviness, general, weakening perspiration.
Hands and feet are heavy, like lead.
 Heaviness in the legs (aft. 4 d.).
 Heaviness of the limbs, in the back, in the legs, almost solely in the morning, on awaking.
1675. Heaviness of the limbs, in the morning before rising. [Htb.]
 Heaviness in the joints of the arms and knees. [Htb.]
Indolence and heaviness of the limbs.
 Indolence of the limbs, more in the forenoon.
 Disagreeable sensation all over the body, lassitude and weakness in the joints, especially of the knees, when moving and sitting (aft. 14 d.). [Gr.]
1680. Constant weakness in the joints of the arms and knees. [Htb.]
 Much weakness and lassitude, especially in the legs and knees, with sensation of looseness in the knee-joint, so that he can hardly stand, at times improved by walking. [Ng.]

<sup>1</sup> With sympt. 763, 786 and 925.—Hughes.

Weakness and lassitude in the limbs, especially in the knee-joints, with slight shooting and burning there; occasionally most in the morning after rising, and aggravated by resting, relieved by walking, for several days. [Htb.]

Great weariness in the limbs, for more than three weeks. [Bds.]

Great weakness, in the morning, on rising and through the day, general sensation of weakness, heartburn, and after moving quickly, ravenous hunger and trembling of the limbs. [Htb.]

1685. Walking fatigues him much.

Unusually fatigued by a slight walk, and then some headache

Weariness and fatigued, toward noon, without any cause; she had to lie down for an hour (aft. 15 d.).

Often sudden fits of great lassitude.

General great, sudden prostration.

1690. Great lassitude, with nausea.

Sudden general prostration, with much heat in the face (aft. 11 d.).

Weariness, oppressed sensation all day.

Weariness all over the body, especially in the thigh (in a man else robust) (aft. 9 d.).

Lack of tension for several days, especially in the chest.

1695. Lack of tension in mind and body, in the morning.

Weariness and lack of tension in the whole body, in the morning after awaking; it goes off after rising. [Ng.]

General lack of tension toward noon, less in the afternoon.

[Ng.]

Sensation in the chest and abdomen, as if everything would collapse.

After sitting down, he feels paralyzed, for several minutes.

1700. He feels paralyzed and ill, all over the body.

Lack of strength in all the limbs, especially in the joints, as if paralyzed, with good appetite.

The whole right side feels paralyzed, with nausea.

He walks as if lame, without perceiving it himself.

He feels mentally and bodily, as it were, paralyzed, in the morning after rising and all the day.

1705. Paralysis in all the limbs, in the morning in bed; it goes off after rising.

Feels paralyzed in the back and in the arms, after the siesta.

After taking a little wine, in the afternoon, he soon feels so weary that he had to sleep for several hours; then a sleepless night (aft. 48 h.).

All the strength seems annihilated. [LOBSTEIN.]

Swooning. [ROBBI.]

1710. Fits of swooning.

He wants to yawn continually and cannot, it is abortive.

Frequent yawning, with chilliness in the evening. [Ng.]

Frequent yawning, stretching and drowsiness, also after dinner. [Ng.]

Drowsiness. [Bds.]

1715. Much drowsiness, in the evening.

- Sound, long sleep in the morning (2d d.). [Ng.]
Difficulty in falling asleep, and frequent awaking. [Ng.]
 Sleeplessness (aft. 16 d.). [BRERA.]
 Sleeplessness and restlessness, in the evening in bed (aft. 36 h.).
1720. In the evening in bed, he is not sleepy, then a light sleep, so that even the least noise awakes him.
 She could not fall asleep at night, on account of a sensation as if her eyes could not close, but had to be kept closed with the hands, and would turn around in her head (aft. 6 d.).
In the evening and at night, after waking up, he is long in getting to sleep again.
 He cannot fall asleep before midnight, he feels impelled to rise, and only then, after lying down again, he falls asleep. [Gr.]
 He lies abed for a long time in the evening, before he falls asleep.
1725. He can only lie on his right side, at night.
 Lying down on his left side, at night, causes him anxiety (aft. 19 d.).
 General sensation of illness keeps him from going to sleep before 2 A. M.
 Disturbed sleep at night. [Htb.]
 He cannot get to sleep at night before two to four hours.
1730. He could not fall asleep for restlessness before 1 A. M., nor get his feet warm, for four nights successively.
 Sleeplessness at night, from one to four o'clock.
 Restless sleep, with lascivious dreams and pollutions, which rouse him fully, then but little sleep, only some confused slumber in the morning hours before six o'clock. [Htb.]
 Waking up at 10 P. M., with intense vertigo and nausea. [Ng.]
 At night in bed, dull pain in the bones of the hips, as from a hard mattress; he had continually to change his position; in the morning after rising it soon went off.
1735. After the noonday-nap, he feels as if his back were asleep or sprained.
 At night, she awakes from a pressure in the hypogastrium, almost as if on the bladder.
 At night, severe drawing in the right arm and leg.
 At night, sensation as from a spoiled stomach.
 At night in bed, unbearable itching of the hands. [Gr.]
1740. At night, very keen, stinging itching on the dorsum of both the hands, so that he could not go to sleep; not relieved by scratching. [Gr.]
 At night, eructation as from rotten eggs.
 At night, great thirst.
 At night, restlessness from pressure on the stomach and nausea.
 At night, bruised pain in the lower limbs, as from too great fatigue.
1745. At night, painfulness of the external ear, which wakes him from his sleep.

At night, violent stitches through the ear and the teeth.

At night, frequent awaking from boring in the tooth.

At night, violent palpitation (5th n.).

At 1 A. M., awaking, from colic, for one hour (aft. 21 d.).

1750. He wakes up very much discouraged, every night after midnight.

In his sleep by day, even while sitting down, saliva runs from his mouth.

At night, a pressure in his abdomen (the first days.)

Fit of asthma at night; he feels as if he would suffocate.

[RI.]

At night, awaking with a sensation of constriction of the larynx and windpipe, as if he should suffocate.

1755. At night, much inclination to vomit and continual eructation of the ingesta.

At night, he is awaked by stuffing of the nose and difficult respiration.

In the evening, when turning over in bed, a sort of vertigo, as if all the blood rushed to the head.

In the evening in bed, vertigo, as if the bed turned about in a circle.

At night on awaking, he feels stupefied, intoxicated, dizzy and reeling.

1760. Drowsy, as if reeling, without being able to sleep.

She lies by day in a stupefied slumber.

Frightened starting up when falling asleep.

After falling asleep, he at once dreams of frightful things and awakes again.

She cannot go to sleep in the evening, for restlessness, and when she wakes up she has the same restlessness (aft. 5 d.).

1765. In the evening in bed, at once great anxiety and restlessness.

Anxiety the whole night, without heat, as if he had killed somebody, with constant tossing about.

Frightful fancies when falling asleep, as if a wicked man seized him by the throat and was going to throttle him (aft. 4 d.).

She awakes toward morning with a start.

She awakes every morning with anxiety.

1770. At night, great restlessness with anxiety.

Repeated awaking, at night, with chilliness. [Ng.]

Frightened starting up in sleep, toward morning. [Ng.]

Tormenting dreams about lice. [Ng.]

Tossing about and whimpering, all night, with very anxious dreams.

1775. Anguish during an unconscious sleep, subdued weeping, wringing the hands as if in despair, lamenting, tossing about, short breathing; she timidly clings to those standing about, or snatches at them in a frenzy.

At night, much heat and dryness in the mouth, she had to drink, for several nights.

At night, repeated awaking, from sensation of heat, without any sweat.

At night, dry heat, without thirst, with pain of the parts on which she had lain, as from a hard bed.

At night, after awaking from anxious dreams, chill and trembling all over the body, especially on the abdomen, violent ebullition of blood and constriction of the chest, so that he can get no breath and could hardly rise (aft. 10 d.).

1780. Frequent awaking at night, with an actual chill.

Restless sleep with tossing and dreaming, and while awake, anxiety all over the body.

Having fallen asleep, after long restlessness, she awoke with an oppression as from a load on the chest, impeding the respiration (aft. 22 d.).

Very restless sleep. [Stf.]

At night, confused dreams.

1785. Vexatious dreams.

Nights, restless, owing to many dreams.

Sleep, restless and full of dreams; in the morning on awaking, headache.

Restless sleep, with many dreams, and frequent awaking, for several nights.

Sleep full of dreams, interrupting, fatiguing.

1790. He has to keep turning over at night.

He lies on his back at night, the left hand under his occiput.

Restlessness at night, impeding sleep, for several nights.

Very restless at night, and constant dreams.

Heavy, anxious dreams, toward morning.

1795. Awaking after 3 hours' sleep, tormented with heavy anxious dreams.

Vivid dreams. [Htb.]

Vivid dreams, full of restless activity and business, which he could not finish.

Anxious dreams (aft. 48 h.).

Many anxious dreams.

1800. Anxious dreams about necessary business, to accomplish which she frequently rises, and makes preparations.

At night, screaming and talking in sleep.

Anxious dream about animals that bite, she screamed and awoke in great anxiety.

Anxious dream, as if an insect stung her behind the ears.

Dream, as if she was pinched in the back, in the chest, etc., and tickled on the soles of her feet.

1805. Dreams about robbers.

Dreams of fire, with screaming and beating about with her hands.

Dreams about hemorrhage.

Sad dreams.

Vexatious dreams.

1810. Frightful and anxious dream (1st n.).

Funny dreams.

Historical dreams, every night.

At night, uninterrupted well-remembered dreams about the business of the day.

- Dreams vivid, can be partly recalled. [Ng.]
1815. Dreams about deceased people, about scuffling, etc. [Ng.]
Drowsiness by day (aft. 10, 11 d.).
Drowsiness by day, after walking in the open air, and after dinner.
Intense drowsiness by day, even before dinner.
Great tendency to go to sleep, sitting, with the head inclined forward (aft. 5 h.). [Gr.]
1820. Great somnolence.
Dull, very long sleep.
In the morning has not slept enough, languid and indolent.
Extending the limbs and stretching the chest, in the morning, in bed.
In the morning on rising, much weariness.
1825. In the morning, soon after rising, great weariness in the limbs, chiefly in the thighs.
Even quiet sleep does not refresh her.
In the morning after rising, as if paralyzed and bruised (aft. 6 d.).
In the morning after rising, the hands and feet feel paralyzed.
Sensation of coolness all over the body. [Ng.]
1830. Imperceptible shaking chill all over the body, even by the warm stove. [Ng.]
Coldness of the hands, even while they are warm, red and the veins distended. [Ng.]
Chill in the evening about 6 o'clock, and going to sleep for weariness; toward midnight, awaking from heavy dreams, with copious, general perspiration. [Bds.]
Coldness of the limbs. [VOIGTEL, BRERA.]
Shudder, repeated with yawning and occasionally with goose-skin on the arms. [Ng.]
1835. Slight shudder, with heat alternately on the head and hands (aft. 3 h.). [Ng.]
Shudder with pains in the head and the stomach (aft. 3 h.). [Ng.]
Always more shuddering, than warmth; the latter is only brief, the shuddering cannot be removed by the warmth of the stove (aft. 3 h.). [Ng.]
A slight shudder at 7 P. M. [Ng.]
Shuddering all over the body, without chill.
1840. Shuddering chill over the back. [Szf.]
By day, a chill runs up the back.
Repeated chill, the first days.
Chilliness, in the evening, when going to sleep.
Chill, several evenings, after going to bed.
1845. Chilliness in the evening, with anxiety.
Chill, every evening, with shuddering, without thirst, but with dryness in the throat.
Chill and shuddering, with lack of appetite, without any following heat.
Coldness, every afternoon, and lassitude for several days.

Chill lasting two hours, in the morning, with yawning, without any heat following.

1850. Severe shaking chill; the following night, perspiration; the preceding day, great restlessness, for two days (9th d.). [Sr.]

Violent shuddering chill, it ran cold over his back, he had to lie down and cover up, when he became warm only slowly, and when he stretched out his hand out of his bed, he at once felt a new shudder; his hands at the same time were numb with cold, his head felt painfully muddled, without subsequent heat (aft. 26 h.). [Sff.]

Internal chill, for several afternoons, for a half or a full hour, and at times a sensation as of hot water in the scrobiculus cordis and the the back.

Severe shaking chill, at night, with four times purging; then great heat and perspiration all over, and since then for several nights, perspiration before midnight.

Long-continued coldness, without thirst, then nocturnal thirst, after the fever, diarrhœa. [Ng.]

1855. Fever in the afternoon from five to six o'clock; first a severe chill, so that he could not get warm, then heat with thirst and internal chill, and when the latter was passed, heat and perspiration all the night in bed, till morning (aft. 8 h.).

Frequent increased warmth all over the body, occasionally going off when sitting in the open air, or after dinner; at times also with anxiety, as if perspiration would break out. [Ng.]

Internal warmth all through the body, with muddled feeling of the head. [Htb.]

Anxious heat all over the body, after breakfast (aft. ½ h.). [Ng.]

Heat, first in the hands, then in the head, then in the nape, with a sensation as if perspiration would break out (aft. 3 h.). [Ng.]

1860. Frequent rising of the heat from the back into the head, with redness of the face, in the afternoon, while sitting. [Ng.]

Sensation of heat and actual heat. [BRERA, KORTUM, VOIGTEL.]

Heat all over the body, especially in the head and hands, with bitterness of the mouth and nausea in the stomach (aft. 2½ h.). [Ng.]

Febrile heat and perspiration, at night, with a voracious hunger that cannot be satisfied, then a chill with chattering of the teeth and external coldness; after the chill, internal heat, especially in the hands, while the external coldness continues.

At night time, awaked by fever, alternately heat and chill, with severe pains in the head, the abdomen and the lower limbs; in the forenoon then, vomiting, for more than twenty-four hours, causing all appetite and sleep to vanish (aft. 14 d.).

1865. After midnight, great heat, from one to four o'clock, with short breathing, without thirst, with a general brief sweat, dry lip and dry tip of the tongue; the back part of the mouth is moist.

Flushse of transient heat, especially in the evening, with slight feverish restlessness and burning heat in the palms.

General heat in the evening, about eight o'clock, with adipsia, without preceding shuddering.

Heat in the forenoon, for two hours, with thirst for beer and a shaking chill before and a chill after; all in a slumber full of dreams, with much moving of the hands.

General, not disagreeable increase of the warmth of the body.

1870. Constant heat, perspiration and thirst. [Hg.]

Febrile heat, in the afternoon from two to three, and from six to seven o'clock, especially in the face (aft. 14 d.).

Afternoon fever for many days, heat with or without previous chill.

Repeated attacks of heat, especially in the face, with dryness of the mouth, without thirst.

Warmth of the whole body, with internal itching. [WEIGEL.]

1875. Much heat in the evening, especially in the face with vertigo (aft. 8 d.).

Occasional fits of anxious heat (aft. 6 d.).

Anxiety and heat. [CONRADI.]

Nocturnal heat, without thirst and sweat; this often awakes her.

Warmth and perspiration all over the body, long continuing, especially on the top of the shoulders, only the feet are dry, an hour after dinner. [Ng.]

1880. General heat with sweat, without thirst from seven o'clock till noon. [Ng.]

Brief heat and perspiration on the head and the hands (aft. 2 h.). [Ng.]

Heat and perspiration on the head and the hands and even on the feet, with only a moderate amount of external warmth, for three minutes, then at two o'clock almost every half hour, and also on the following days, but at longer intervals, and even in the open air. [Ng.]

Fever with small, hard, quick pulse.<sup>1</sup> [LOBSTEIN.]

Fever with thickly coated tongue. [KORTRUM.]

1885. Quickened circulation. [JAHN, ROBL.]

Beating of the arteries of the neck. [KORTRUM.]

Increased pulse, with augmented warmth and comfort through the whole body. [LOBSTEIN.]

Quickened, small, heavy pulse. [Htb.]

Pulse quick and full.<sup>2</sup> [Ng., LOBSTEIN.]

1890. Pulse, quick and languid. [Bds.]

Pulse quick and small. [BRERA; VOIGTEL.]

Pulse slower, occasionally at the same time full and hard (aft. 2, 3, 8 h.) [Ng.]

Pulse not quickened during the attack of heat. [Ng.]

Perspiration only on the head, after exercise in the open air, in the room (aft. 1 h.). [Ng.]

<sup>1</sup> For "quick" the original has "very quick."—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup> In LOBSTEIN'S case no fullness is mentioned.—Hughes.

1895. Perspiration on the head and the hands, frequently alternating with brief coolness (aft. 3 d.). [Ng.]
 Perspiration only on the head and the palms, after eating soup (aft. 1½ h.). [Ng.]
 Perspiration in the palms (aft. ¾ h.). [Ng.]
 Perspiration, at first only in the anterior half of the body, especially on the abdomen, later on the chest, then in the axillæ and on the back; it goes off during dinner.
 Perspiration during dinner. [Ng.]
1900. Perspiration running over the body, in the forenoon. [Ng.]
 After midnight, perspiration while asleep, until morning without thirst. [Ng.]
 In the morning, a slight perspiration, after awaking (3d, 4th d.). [Ng.]
 Increased secretion of perspiration and urine. [JAHN, LOBSTEIN.]
 Perspiration smelling of sulphur. [VOIGTEL.]
1905. Luminous perspiration on the forehead.<sup>1</sup> [VOIGTEL.]
 Every morning, a fatiguing sweat all over (aft. 24 h.).
 Sweat on the body, with coldness of the head.
 Anxious sweat (aft. sever. h.).
 Night-sweat (aft. 1 and 5 d.).
1910. Profuse night-sweat (1st n.).
 Night-sweats for six nights (aft. 4 d.).
 At night, perspiration and turbid urine, after weariness during the whole day (at once).
 Sweat and sensation of anxiety, toward morning. [Gl.]
 Perspiration in the morning in bed, especially about the feet and the hands. [Sr.]
1915. Sweat in the morning, for three days. [Sr.]

---

<sup>1</sup> Not found.—Hughes.

PHOSPHORICUM ACIDUM. PHOSPHORIC ACID.

It is best to take for the preparation of this medicine for homœopathic use, one grain of Phosphoric acid melted and preserved dry in a well stoppered vessel. This acid may be gained directly from the phosphorus by applying nitric acid, or, it may be gained from bones in the following manner, first practiced by myself: Take a pound of calcined white bone, broken in pieces; pour over this in a porcelain bowl one pound of the strongest Sulphuric acid and stir the mixture around several times in 24 hours with a glass rod. The mash thus gained is then well-mixed and thinned with two pounds of strong whiskey or rum, the whole is then tied up in a linen bag and pressed out between two smooth boards weighed down with heavy weights. What remains in the bag may be again thinned with two pounds of strong whiskey, and what is pressed out may be mixed with the quantity first obtained; it may then remain covered for a few days so that the turbid matter may settle down. The clear liquid is decanted and boiled down in a heated porcelain bowl and then melted at a red heat. The melted Phosphoric acid must be of crystalline clearness. While still warm, it is broken in pieces and preserved in a well-stoppered bottle, as it quickly and totally deliquesces in the open air into a thickish fluid of watery clearness. The dry acid may be used like other dry substances, being triturated with sugar of milk, in the manner described in the first part of this book up to the millionth powdered attenuation. One grain of this may then be dissolved and further potentized by succussion.

A too violent action of Phosphoric acid is modified by Camphor.

In cases where the properly potentized Phosphoric acid was indicated, it also cured at the same time the following ailments:

Morning-headache; intolerance of noise and talking; scabs on the dorsum of the nose; fetid odor from the nose; burning in the cheeks; pimples on the chin; pimples about the forehead and chin; burning in the hypogastrium; nocturnal micturition; pain in the liver, during the menses; roughness of the throat; scraping on the larynx inciting to cough; shortness of breath and inability to talk long at a time; weakness of the chest from speaking; eruption of pimples on the arms; sweating of the feet; herpes; corns; night-sweat.

Dr. Hering cured with it: Incapacity for mental work with great discouragement, and indolence of mind and body; heaviness of the head, as if it were full of water; inflammation of the eyes with burning; lachrymation; aversion to sunlight; the teeth become yellow; constant nausea in the throat; after meals the stomach seems to rock up and down; hawking up of viscid mucus; gnawing pain in the testes; hacking cough with expectoration of mucus, in the morning; repeated stools; furunde on the nates and in the axillæ; swelling on the natis; swelling of the feet; the testes are sore to the touch; itching of an ulcer; flat, painless ulcers on the leg without redness, with jagged, uneven fundus and dirty looking pus; great weariness after waking; milky urine.

The abbreviation of the names of my fellow-workers are: Br., Becher; Frz., Franz; Gr., Gross; Gtm., Gutmann; Fr. H., Friedrich Hahnemann; Hrm., Herrmann; Htm., Hartmann; Mr., Meyer; Stf., Staff; Tth., Teuthorn; Wsl., Wislicenus; Hg., Hering.

PHOSPHORICUM ACIDUM.

Dejection (aft. 4 d.).

Sad.

Sad and full of solicitude, afraid she might fall ill.

Restless and full of anxiety, that she might get ill.

5. Continually brooding over his disease. [Hg.]

Sad and solicitous about the future. [Gtm.]

Tendency to weep, as from homesickness. [Tth.]

Sad, serious, disheartened, only while walking in the open air, increasing the longer he walks; at home it gradually passed off and he became more serene.

Anxiety and restlessness through the whole body.

10. Great anxiety, he has to lie down in the afternoon (3d d.).

Oppression, as if the chest was too tight, with internal heat (aft. 8 h.). [Hrm.]

Internal anxiety hinders him from work.

Hurried in talking; he cannot get anything fast enough.

Very much irritated, oppressed in spirit, weary in body.

15. Constantly vexed and indisposed to talk.

Taciturn peevishness. [Hrm.]

He does not like to talk, it is an effort for him. [Stf.]

He talks little, and does not like to answer questions. [Hrm.]

Indisposed to talk. [Lgh.]

20. Discontented with himself, reproaches himself. [Lgh.]

Very ill-humored, peevish, irritated. [Stf.]

<sup>1</sup>In the Mat. Med. Pura (Vol. v.), where this pathogenesis first appears, it contains (in the second edition) 268 symptoms from Hahnemann himself and 411 from twelve fellow-observers. The present list is increased by 139 symptoms, most of which are credited to Hering, and were probably observed by him on the patients mentioned above as cured by him with the acid.—Hughes.

- He looks very ill-humored and peevish, so that everyone asks him what is the matter with him; but he was not sick. [Stf.]
 Obstinate about everything.
 He easily gets vexed and passionate.
25. At a slight offense, he is, as it were, beside himself and passionate.
 Taciturn and indifferent, he bores much in his nose. [Hg.]
 Indifferent, restless. [Stf.]
 Indisposed to work.
 Very merry and good humored. [Br.]
30. Cheerful, lively mood (aft. 24 h.). [Frz.]
 Very merry and often quite frolicsome.
 She danced about unconsciously, violently and extravagantly, for several days, without lying down except at night. [Fr. H.]
 His reason is affected. [Fr. H.]
 He cannot get his ideas into their proper connection.
35. He cannot get rid of one thought, and the other thoughts to be connected therewith do not come in.
 He cannot find the right words in talking (aft. 2 h.).
 He dare not be alone, else he falls into vacancy of thought and unconsciousness, in the morning. [Frz.]
 Lack of ideas and weakness of mind; on reflecting, he becomes dizzy. [Hrm.]
 Indolent, dull mind, without elasticity, no imagination; indisposed even for pleasant mental work. [Stf.]
40. While reading, a thousand other thoughts crowd into his mind; he could not comprehend anything, what he read was dark to him, and he forgot everything at once, with difficulty in recollecting what he had known a long time already. [Mr.]
 Illusion of the senses, as if he heard the clock strike or as if lofty things lying out of his horizon were moving near him. [Frz.]
 In the evening, while sitting down, nothing but numbers appeared before his eyes, he felt stupid and ill in the head, and at last very hot.
 Dullness in the head (aft. 4 d.).
 Chaotic sensation in the head, for three hours. [Frz.]
45. Muddled feeling all over the head. [Hrm.]
 Muddled feeling of the anterior part of the head, especially of the orbits. [Gr.]
 Muddled feeling of the head, as from excessive coitus, for three days (at once). [Fr. H.]
 Muddled feeling of the head, incapacity to think. [Hg.]
 Chaotic sensation in the head and in limbs, as after a spree, or as if he had not slept enough. [Frz.]
50. The head is befogged, in the forenoon, as if from excess at night, or as after reveling at night.
 Weakness of the head, in the morning after rising, as if he should reel.
 Vertigo, all day.
 Vertigo, toward evening, while standing and walking, as if intoxicated, he reels; for several evenings.
 Vertigo, while stooping. [Hg.]

55. Vertigo, while sitting; he is always afraid of falling over. [H<sub>g</sub>.]
 Vertigo, in the morning, as if he would fall over, while standing.
 Vertigo, for several mornings, while rising from bed.
 Vertigo, the head feels as if it would sink forward and backward (at once). [H<sub>rm</sub>.]
 Vertigo, on rising after sitting a long time.
60. Vertigo, after reading.
 Vertigo, in the morning in bed; on closing his eyes, he felt as if his feet raised up and he came to stand on his head. [B<sub>r</sub>.]
 Vertigo, repeatedly, from heat in the head, even while sitting down; he often had to nod involuntarily while writing; things seemed to turn around, and the table seemed to turn over; in walking and standing, it seemed as if he would fall forward, and he had to make a step forward to keep up. [M<sub>r</sub>.]
 Headache, at once early in the morning on awaking; it goes off on rising.
 Headache, in the forehead, when quickly turning the head and when treading firmly.
65. Headache, in the occiput, obliging one to lie down.
 Severe headache, causing one to lie down, with stiffness of the nape.
 Constant headache. [H<sub>rm</sub>.]
 Headache, excessively increased by the slightest concussion or by noise. [H<sub>rm</sub>.]
 Severe headache above the eyes, so that she could not open them.
70. Headache, as after straining in lifting, sensation of heaviness in the head.
 Heaviness of the head. [G<sub>tm</sub>.]
 Great heaviness of the whole of the head, with violent pressure, drawing toward the left frontal eminence. [H<sub>tm</sub>.]
 Heaviness and pressure forward in the occiput on inclining the head forward; it goes off by inclining it backward. [H<sub>tm</sub>.]
 Dull headache in the forehead and the temples, with considerable cheerfulness. [F<sub>rz</sub>.]
75. Dull, crawling headaches in the sinciput, with perspiration on the forehead. [F<sub>r</sub>. H.]
 Stupid headache, when he comes into the warm room in the evening.
 Stupid headache with humming in the head; then while coughing pain as if the head would burst.
 Pressive pain in the right occiput, partly also extending forward, all day, aggravated by pressure and by turning the head (aft. 1 h.). [G<sub>tm</sub>.]
 Pressure in the brain, behind the left ear. [G<sub>tm</sub>.]
80. Painful pressure in the right side of the occiput, outward (aft. 1½ h.). [H<sub>tm</sub>.]
 Intermitting dull, shooting pressure, deep in the left side of the crown. [G<sub>r</sub>.]

Pressive dull pain above the orbits, with shooting behind the ears, in the afternoon. [Th.]

Severe pressure on the left side of the forehead. [Hrm.]

Violent pressure outward in the right frontal eminence. [Htm.]

85. Pressure in the forehead, as after a spree. [Mr.]

Severe pressure above the left temple, extending into the occiput, with aversion to moving. [Mr.]

Pressure in the head, especially while going up stairs.

Severe pressure, almost like bruised pain, in the forehead or in the temple, seemingly on the surface of the brain, on reflecting especially in the evening, not however preventing thought.

Violent, excessively severe pressive pain, as if in the surface of the brain and in the periosteum of that part of the skull on which he is then lying, after midnight on awaking; aggravated so as to become unbearable, by remaining lying on the same side, and when he turns to another side, it begins there with the same fury, while ceasing in the former spot.

90. Severe pressure, extending from the forehead down toward the nose.

Pressure in the head, as from a load, from above downward, or as if the head was shattered at the top.

Severe pressure in the forehead, in the morning on awaking, so that she was quite stupefied and could not open her eyes; the pain hardly allowed her to speak, and was aggravated by the slightest motion.

Excessively severe pressure in the head, in the afternoon.

Headache, as if the brain was being pressed upward, with painfully pulsating throbbing therein.

95. Pressive and shooting pain in all parts of the head, in paroxysms.

Severe pressure in the right temple outward. [Htm.]

Squeezing pressure in the parietal bones, more violent on moving. [Hrm.]

Pressure in the occiput, as if it was lying on something hard. [Mr.]

Squeezing, dull, severe pressure in the left temple, in rythmical intervals. [Gr.]

100. Squeezing pressure and tearing in the brain, now here, now there. [Hrm.]

Squeezing tearing pressure in the occiput, aggravated by noise and by the slightest motion. [Hrm.]

Squeezing pressure in the right temple. [Gr.]

Squeezing pressure in and on the right temple, more violent when moving. [Hrm.]

Pain in the whole brain, as if it was squeezed together. [Gtm.]

105. Pain as if both the temporal bones were being pressed together with a pair of tongs. [Gr.]

Pain in the evening, in bed, as if both the temples were being constricted in various parts. [Frz.]

Violent forcing and pressure out at the crown, for three days

- Twitches through the head, from behind forward, in rythmical intervals, like pulsations. [Wsl.]
 Twitches in the head.
110. Drawing pressure in the right crown and in the occipital bone, more violent on moving. [Hrm.]
 Drawing in the left temple and in the anterior cartilage of the ear, on moving; it turns into pressure. [Hrm.]
 Tearing in the crown and the occiput. [Hrm.]
 Tearing in the left temple, extending into the forehead, worse when moving. [Hrm.]
 Shooting above the left eye, upward in the head.
115. Dull shooting, out at the middle of the forehead. [Gtm.]
 A dull stitch darts, as from an arrow, into the right temple, extending deep into the brain, in repeated paroxysms. [Gr.]
 Violent shooting in the right temple, extending into the eye. [Mr.]
 Severe shooting in the right temple. [Htm.]
 Shooting with drawing in the crown, diminished by pressure. [Wsl.]
120. Single sharp thrusts in the right temple. [Htm.]
 Single blows in the head, as from a hammer.
 Hacking in the head, as with a hatchet (Staphis. cured this.). [Hg.]
 Pricking headache, early on rising, till noon.
 Burning headache in the upper part of the brain.
125. Burrowing boring in the right side of the occiput. [Gtm.]
 Boring with pressure in the left temple. [Frz.]
 Boring in the head, as if holes were being bored into the skull, especially in the vertex. [Fr. H.]
 Painful concussion in the head, while walking.
 Buzzing in the head.
130. Pain in the skin of the head, when touched, as if sore, or as from pulling the hair.
 Dull pain on the hairy scalp. [Gtm.]
 Pressure on the occiput as from a hard couch, alleviated by rubbing. [Mr.]
 Pressive pain in the right temple. [Gtm.]
 Pressure and gnawing on the forehead, on the root of the nose. [Frz.]
135. Itching gnawing on the forehead. [Wsl.]
Itching on the hairy scalp.
 Bruised pain on the occiput where the muscles of the neck begin. [Frz.]
 Drawing pain in the occipital bones, every day.
 Burning shooting on the head. [Frz.]
140. Pointed, long-continued stitch, externally on the vertex, aggravated by touching it.
 Burning pain on the right side of the hairy scalp. [Gtm.]
 Burning pain in the skin of the left side of the forehead. [Gtm.]
 Sensation of warmth on the side of the frontal bone. [Frz.]
 Sensation of coldness on the hairy scalp. [Hrm.]

145. Painful elevation of the skin of the head, with the sensation as if he was being pulled by the hair; on touching it, bruised pain.
 Profuse falling out of the hair.
 The eyelids are heavy as if they would close. [Gr.]
 The eyes are painful in the morning on opening them, she can not keep them open long.
 Sudden pain in the left eye, as if a grain of sand were pressing there, or as if there was a pimple on it. [Frz.]
150. Pressure on the left lower eyelid. [Hrm.]
 Pressure on the right eyelid and feeling of heaviness therein. [Hrm.]
 Constant pressure on the eyes, as when looking too long at an object, compelling him to close the eyes. [Htm.]
 Pressure of the eyes, as if they were too large, with immovability of the same, as if he had not slept enough, with dullness in the head. [Mr.]
 Pressure below the lower left eyelid, increased by pressing upon it, and then at once going off. [Gtm.]
155. Pressure in both eyes, toward the posterior parts. [Hrm.]
 Pressive squeezing in the upper margin of the left orbit. [Gr.]
 Pain as if the eyeballs were being violently pressed together and squeezed into the head. [Gr.]
 Sensation as if the eyes were being pressed out, and thence frequent winking. [Hrm.]
 Itching in the eye.
160. Itching and pressure in the eye.
 Drawing shooting through the eyelids, from one canthus to the other, with sharp stitches in the canthi and in the circumference of the orbits. [Wsl.]
 Dull pain, now shooting, now burning, pressed the right eyeball toward the outer canthus, then there seemed to be before the eye a long surface of snow, on which fiery points fell down, and later a plane all on fire on which glittering white points fell down. [Br.]
 Rapid, as it were, electrical stitches below the right eyelid; he had to close his eyes. [Mr.]
 Sharp shooting in the thin bony wall of the orbit, toward the root of the nose. [Mr.]
165. Sensible coldness of the inner edges of the eyelids on closing the eyes. [Htm.]
 Burning in the eyes, with scalding tears. [Mr.]
 Sudden burning in the left eye. [Mr.]
 Burning and pressure in the eyes; she cannot look into the light in the evening.
 Burning in the eyelids all day long, and burning itching in the inner canthus.
170. Burning beneath the upper eyelid.
 Burning in the inner canthus, mostly in the afternoon, as if too much light and air pressed in; it is diminished by pressing the eyes shut.

- Smarting burning in the eyes, especially in the evening, by candle-light.
- Inflammation of the eyes and a sty in the upper lid.
- Swelling and redness in the lower eyelids. [Lgh.]
175. Swelling of the lower eyelids and below the lids. [Mr.]
- Lachrymation of both the eyes. [Htm.]
- Smarting water runs from both of his eyes (aft. sev. h.).
- Dry pus on the lids, in the morning, with erosion of both eyes on cleansing them.
- The eyes are closed by suppuration.
180. A yellow spot in the white of the eye, toward the inner canthus, but more toward the cornea, attended with dimness of vision, which goes off on dilating the pupil by holding the hand before the eye. [Mr.]
- Both eyes look glassy, with almost spontaneous mobility of the eyeballs, most of all in looking straight before him. [Br.]
- Languid, glassy eyes. [Tth.]
- Lustreless eyes. [Hrm.]
- Languid, sunken eyes. [Hrm.]
185. Twitching of the lower eyelid, toward the inner canthus (aft. 9 h.). [Wsl.]
- Staring look. [Hrm.]
- At first dilatation, then contraction of the pupils for 16 hours (aft. 1 h.). [Tth.]
- Contracted pupils for several days (aft.  $\frac{1}{2}$  h.). [Stf.]
- Contracted pupils, without change in the visual power (aft.  $\frac{3}{4}$  h.).
190. Dilated pupils for 6 hours (aft. 3 h.). [Mr.]
- Dilatation of the pupils (aft. 1 h.). [Lgh. and Htm.]
- Enormous dilatation of the right pupil, the more in proportion as the eyes are strained, and even after seven days, it was four times larger than the left pupil (at once). [Br.]
- Strongly dilated pupils (aft.  $8\frac{1}{2}$  h.). [Htm.]
- Short-sightedness, in sewing, reading and writing, it seems as if a gauze was before the eyes; she does not recognize the letters; but at a distance she sees everything clearly and distinctly; when she looks away from her work for a moment, she can better distinguish things close by; but the dimness quickly returns on reading, without pains of the eyes.
195. He can see better at a distance (curative effect in a short-sighted person). [Lgh.]
- Increased short-sightedness. [Hg.]
- Everything beyond six steps is with him enveloped in mist. [Hg.]
- Dimness of the eyes, with quivering before them and pressure in the inner canthus when she looks long at one place; on rubbing them, tears come and the dimness passes off.
- Weakness of the eyes, more in the forenoon than in the afternoon; distant objects seemed enveloped in fog, and only became plainer on looking more attentively; every near object at all bright, dazzled him, and caused a pressure in the eyes; so also when he suddenly came into the dark.

200. Black streak before the eyes; wiping them is of no avail; she feels as if she ought to be able with bowed head to look beyond the forehead above. [Hg.]
 Flickering before the eyes, while reading by candle-light.
 In the ear, a cramp-like drawing pain.
 Cramp-like drawing pain in the right ear. [Htm.]
 Drawing in both the inner and the external meatus auditorius on the right side. [Hrm.]
205. Fine twitching in the lobule of the right ear. [Wsl.]
 Twitching tearing, occasionally only simple tearing in the cartilage of the left ear. [Hrm.]
 Tearing in the inner and the external ear. [Mr.]
 An almost painless stitch in the left ear, which went off on inserting the finger (aft. 6½ h.). [Gtm.]
 Stitches in the ears, only at every musical tone, and at every stroke of the bell, even when singing oneself. [Br.]
210. Stitches in the ear, with drawing pain in the jaws and teeth.
 Stitches in the ears, with drawing pain in the left cheek.
 A long-continued fine stitch, deep in the right ear.
 Burning stitches in the ears.
 Itching stitches in the interior of the right ear, continuing while moving the lower jaws (aft. 27 h.). [Gtm.]
215. Shooting itching on the lobule of the right ear (aft. 2 h.). [Frz.]
 Swelling and heat of both ears, with burning and itching.
 Large lump behind the lobule of the right ear, especially painful as if sore, when touched.
 Loud resounding in the ear, of every sound. [Hg.]
 Constant singing before the ears, loudest when lying down.
220. Ringing before the ears, as from bells. [Mr.]
 Ringing in the left ear, by night.
 Crying in the ear, when blowing the nose.
 Whizzing of the ears, every day.
 Whizzing before the ears from evening onward, though not heard while lying down, it returns in the morning.
225. Roaring before the ears, especially before the right ear (aft. 15 h.).
 Roaring before the ears, with hardness of hearing.
 He does not hear the tick of a watch at a moderate distance at all, three spans from the ear, he hears it more distinctly; quite close to it, he only hears a hissing, no ticking. [Br.]
 The watch which he used to hear at a distance of 20 steps, he now hears only at a distance of 10 steps. [Br.]
 For a long time he could not bear musical tones. [Br.]
230. A very acute sense of smell.
 The tip of the nose itches, he must scratch it. [Mr.]
 Tingling and burning on the nose.
 A little pimple on the tip of the nose, with throbbing in it, and pain when touched.
 Swelling of the dorsum of the nose, with red spots, also on the sides; these come and again disappear, with a sensation of tension. [Mr.]

235. Itching scab on the lower part of the septum of the nose.
 Stoppage from mucus in the nose.
 From the posterior nares a bitter mucus frequently flows into the fauces and the mouth.
 Cold nose. [Hg.]
 Flow of pus from the nose.
240. Bleeding from the nose and frequent expulsion of blood, when blowing it.
 Paleness of the face. [Fr. H.]
 Paleness of the face, in the morning, just after rising, with tendency to staring [Br.]
 Blue rims around the eyes. [Hrm.]
 Blue-rimmed eyes. [Mr.]
245. Sunken, weary eyes. [Hrm.]
 Heat in that side of the face on which he was not lying. [Frz.]
 Face often momentarily quite dark red, with a transient heat of the face.
 Tension of the skin of the face, as if the white of eggs had dried on it, with external sensible heat in the same.
 Crawling and creeping in the face, as from an insect, also on other parts. [Hrm.]
250. Fine, quickly transient drawing through the left cheek, extending into the ear. [Wsl.]
 Burning pain in the skin of the cheek, beside the right corner of the mouth. [Gtm.]
 Burning pain on a small spot of the left cheek. [Fr. H.]
 Itching in the whole face.
Large eruptive pimples in the face.
255. Red pimples, smaller than a lentil, on the cheeks and nose, filled with pus, and itching, especially when touched. [Hrm.]
 Large pimple on the forehead, with sore pain, also when touched.
 Small nodules on the forehead.
 In the lower lip, a violent burning pain, continuing when moving it. [Gtm.]
 Burning pain on the left side of the lower lip. [Gtm.]
260. Dull shooting and crawling on a point in the red part of the lip. [Frz.]
 The lower lip is cracked open in the middle.
 An oblique tear, like a cut, on the right side of the upper lip, with sore pain, especially on moving the lip, for several days. [Stf.]
 Burning painful pimples on the red of both lips.
 Ulcerative, depressed spots on the red of both lips, with tensive smarting even per se; a dark-colored skin is formed there, which is easily rubbed off in washing it, when they bleed, and when they are touched exhibit a sore pain and smart.
265. Eruption on the margin of the lower lip, near the corner of the mouth.
 Yellowish-brown, crusty, purulent eruption on the lower lip, toward the corner of the mouth, without pain, for six days. [Fr. H.]

The lower jaw is painful in front near the ear, as if it was being torn from its articulation, more severe when chewing. [Hrm.]

Pain, like a broad pressive stitch, on touching the gland below the left angle of the lower jaw, attended with internal sore throat.

Dull pressive drawing pain on the right angle of the lower jaw. [Gtm.]

270. Toothache, a severe pain in a hollow tooth, when anything gets into it during eating, it goes off when this is removed.

Pain of the wisdom-tooth.

Jerking tearing in the right upper molars, not affected by chewing.

Tearing in the teeth, extending into the head, as if the tooth was forced asunder, and pressed out; aggravated by the warmth of the bed, as well as by everything hot or cold.

Boring, shooting toothache, terminating in a swelling of the cheek.

275. Sensation of coldness (painful in the morning) in the roots, especially of the molars, when he masticates anything; it goes off when eating. [Htm.]

Grumbling in a hollow tooth, like a grumbling burning.

Burning pain in the anterior teeth, at night.

Dullness of the teeth, as from a corroding acid.

Profuse bleeding from a hollow tooth.

280. The inner side of the gums is swollen and painful during eating and when touched.

Sore pain of the whole of the gums when touched, with bleeding on rubbing them.

Bleeding of the gums at the slightest touch.

Pain in the mouth, as if it was sore and raw, when not swallowing.

Great dryness of the mouth, in the afternoon, with much insipid, sticky, soapy mucus, which he often spits out. [Stf.]

285. Much frothing saliva in the mouth, of harsh taste (aft. 2 h.). [Fr. H.]

Much sourish saliva in the mouth.

Slimy, oily and thirsty in the mouth, in the morning.

The tongue is quite dry (aft. 24 h.).

Sensation of dryness on the tongue, and on the palate, without thirst. [Frz.]

290. Shooting in the tip of the tongue. [Frz.]

Itching shooting on the tip of the tongue. [Wsl.]

Shooting pain in the right side of the tongue. [Gtm.]

Itching on the tongue for several days.

Burning on the tongue (at once.).

295. Burning on several points of the tongue, as from a corrosive substance. [Wsl.]

Swelling of the tongue, with pain on talking.

The palate is dry, without thirst. [Frz.]

Burning, posteriorly on the velum palati, as if it was inflamed and sore. [Frz.]

- Painful soreness on the velum palati, and rawness in the throat, especially on expiring. [Frz.]
300. Sensation of swelling and soreness on the posterior nares. [Frz.]
 The throat is painful on deglutition, in the region of the thyroid cartilage.
 The throat aches as if raw; she had to retch, and it was painful in talking and in swallowing.
 Sensation of soreness in the throat, in deglutition.
 Sensation of erosion in the throat, when not swallowing.
305. Scraping in the throat, when swallowing bread.
Shooting in the throat, when swallowing food.
 Pressive stitch in the throat, as long as he swallows saliva.
 Sore throat on the left side, like an ulcer, throbbing, tense and as if dry, when not swallowing; talking is troublesome, and in swallowing, there is a scrapy sore pain, extending into the ears, where there is also a scrapy shooting pain.
 Inflammation of the throat, with a vesicle with smarting pain.
310. He could not swallow well; he felt as if there was an obstruction behind the palate. [Mr.]
 Taste putrid, disagreeable. [Gtm.]
 Constant sourish taste in the mouth. [Wsl.]
 Putrid, vapory taste in the mouth.
 Taste as of herbs, in the morning, also during breakfast.
315. Long after-taste of the bread eaten, with some scraping in the throat.
 Taste of the food, especially of bread long after eating it, in the morning.
 Aversion to rye-bread, even to looking at it, and especially to its sourish smell, also when eating it; it almost makes him vomit. [Br.]
 Bread tastes as bitter as bile, while the taste is otherwise normal. [Fr. H.]
 Violent thirst. [Fr. H.]
320. Thirst for cold milk, it can hardly be satisfied. [Br.]
 Much thirst for beer, after the pains in the abdomen, all the day. [Mr.]
 Lack of appetite. [Hrm.]
 The child wants to eat all the time, without eating much. [Hg.]
 Food has but very little taste, but no foreign taste. [Fr. H.]
325. After meals and during meals, the head feels muddled.
After every meal, pressure in the stomach as from a load, with drowsiness, so that he cannot work.
 After a meal (breakfast), so much exhaustion that she collapsed, and had to be carried to bed.
 After eating and drinking, pressure in the stomach and great drowsiness.
 After eating, heaviness like lead, in the stomach.
330. After eating, the head feels muddled, for two hours.
 After a meal, feeling of fullness, discomfort and anxiety.

- After a usual feeling of fullness in the abdomen, but tolerable appetite.
- After a meal, constant, frequent eructation of air, every time preceded by rumbling in the stomach. [Tth.]
- Frequent eructation of air. [Wsl.]
335. Abortive, offensive eructation. [Frz.]
- Sourish eructation, an hour after a meal. [Frz.]
- Acidity in the stomach. [Hg.]
- Burning, sourish eructation, not audible and not reaching the mouth. [Br.]
- Nausea, seemingly in the palate. [Hrm.]
340. Sensation of nausea on the chest, with gathering of water in the mouth. [Frz.]
- Tendency to vomit, in the region of the stomach. [Tth.]
- Very much inclined to vomit. in the evening, compelling the person to lie down.
- Severe nausea, so that she had to lie down (after a meal), preceded by writhing in the stomach. [Fr. H.]
- Vomiting of the ingesta, and then vomiting almost every hour, day and night, till morning. [Fr. H.]
345. Sour vomiting. [Hg.]
- Pressure in the stomach, even before and also after a meal, aggravated by motion.
- Pressive stomachache, at every touch of the scrobiculus cordis; he dare not button up tightly.
- Pressive shooting in the scrobiculus cordis, as if something would be drawn away. [Hg.]
- Shooting in the scrobiculus cordis and from there a drawing toward the small of the back.
350. Coldness in the stomach.
- Burning in the stomach, below the scrobiculus cordis, then drawing to the left side. [Mr.]
- In the hypochondria, squeezing and pressing with great anguish, as if he could not live, most while standing. [Frz.]
- Periodical pressive squeezing below the short ribs. [Gr.]
- Pressive squeezing, immediately above the hepatic region, and from there into the umbilical region, after a short walk. [Gr.]
355. Squeezing in the hypochondria, toward the left side. [Gr.]
- Sensation of heaviness in the liver.
- Shooting in the region of the liver and the spleen.
- Burning pain on a spot in the hepatic region.
- Inflation of the abdomen, removed even by the emission of some flatus. [Htm.]
360. Distention of the abdomen, with sensation of fullness, without flatulence. [Tth.]
- Tensive pain in the epigastrium, almost taking away the breath. [Gtm.]
- Distended abdomen, with nausea.
- Pressure on several places of the hypogastrium. [Hrm.]
- Pressive, pinching pain in the abdomen, like flatulent colic, while walking (in the open air).

365. Squeezing pain in the abdomen, in the evening, when taking a walk.
 Constant, severely pressive squeezing in the umbilical region.
 [Gr.]
 Periodical pressive squeezing in the umbilicus. [Gr.]
 Contraction of the intestines, in the morning, during a stool, and then smarting in the rectum.
 Excessive, pinching contraction of the intestines from both sides of the umbilical region. [Htm.]
370. Gripping and pinching in the umbilical region, while sitting.
 [Mr.]
 Cutting, pinching in the abdomen, as if diarrhœa was setting in, in the evening before going to sleep. [Frz.]
 Cutting pain, right across through the abdomen in paroxysms.
 [Frz.]
 Cutting pain in the abdomen, while walking. [Frz.]
 Cutting pain in the abdomen and simultaneously a dull shooting pressure in the coccyx. [Gtm.]
375. Tensive shooting pain in the whole of the right side of the abdomen and chest, almost taking his breath. [Gtm.]
 Cutting pains in the abdomen, with drawing in the pelvis, by night.
 Intermitting, pressive, dull stitches about the umbilical region and in many other parts of the body and of the limbs. [Gr.]
 Fine, intermitting stitches in the abdomen up toward the scrobiculus cordis, especially when raising up the body while sitting. [Wsl.]
 Shooting pain in the abdomen, below the last left rib, more violent when inspiring. [Gtm.]
380. Boring stitch in the skin of the epigastrium, continuing during inspiration and expiration. [Gtm.]
 Shooting in the lowest part of the abdomen, just above the groin, solely when changing his position, when he begins to walk or when he sits down.
 Needle-pricks in the abdominal muscles of the left side.
 [Wsl.]
 Burning and erosion in the umbilical region, when walking in the open air.
 In the left groin, a cutting pain. [Gtm.]
385. Swelling of the inguinal glands. [Htg.]
 Forcing outward in the right groin, as if a hernia was developing, while walking, aggravated by pressing upon it. [Gtm.]
 Single, clucking twitches in the right groin.
 Incarceration of flatus.
 Loud growling in the whole abdomen, especially in the epigastrium, solely while lying down. [Gtm.]
390. Growling and rumbling in the gastric region. [Htm.]
 Audible rumbling in the abdomen. [Br.]
 Violent rumbling in the left side of the abdomen.
 Clucking in the abdomen, as from (the swashing of) water, when he bends forward or backwards, also when touching the abdomen.

- Much flatulence and discharge of flatus. [Htm.]
395. Stool only after 32 hours, first hard, then pappy. [Mr.]
 No stool, with torment from flatulence, for two days (aft. 10 d.).
 No stool, while the abdomen is very much distended.
 Repeated call to stool.
 Ineffectual urging to stool for 24 hours, then difficult stool, the next day, none at all. [Frz.]
400. Hard stool (aft. 5 h.). [Gtm.]
 Hard, lumpy stool. [Mr.]
 Very hard, difficult stool (aft. 30 h.). [Frz.]
 Stool with great effort, though it is not hard.
 Daily stool, for the first 6 days, then only every 48 hours, later only every 72 hours.
405. Stool, soft and frequent (aft. 72 h.). [Br.]
 Soft stool, every 2, 3 hours (aft. 24 h.). [Fr. H.]
 Diarrhœa, not weakening.
 Diarrhœic stool, four times, every quarter of an hour, with pain in the abdomen. [Fr. H.]
Whitish-gray diarrhœic stools.
410. Involuntary, pappy, light-yellow stool, with sensation as if a flatus would be emitted.
 During the stool, protrusion of the varices of the rectum, as large as pigeons' eggs.
 After a difficult stool, smarting of the anus, as from something acrid.
 After the stool, long continued forcing and straining, without colic; the first part of the evacuation was always hard, the subsequent pappy. [Th.]
 Tearing in the anus and on the penis, in the evening and morning.
415. Tearing in the rectum, and urging as for diarrhœa, without stool. [Frz.]
 Itching stitch in the outer circumference of the anus. [Gtm.]
 Itching gnawing above the rectum, on the coccyx.
 Smarting itching on the anus.
 Retention of urine during the first 7 hours, then more frequent, but less copious micturition than usual, with burning in the neck of the bladder. [Mr.]
420. Urging to urinate, with scant emission (aft.  $\frac{1}{2}$  to 3 h.). [Lgh.]
 Urging to urinate, some 8 times a day and 2 or 3 times a night.
 Urging to urinate, attended with burning.
 Urging in the urethra and the rectum, as when the urine cuts in its emission.
 Frequent micturition (aft. 24 h.).
425. Enuresis with cutting scalding in the urethra, and spasmodic pain in the sacrum.
 Frequent and copious micturition, for many days. [Hrm.]
 More frequent and copious flow of urine, during the last days. [Htm.]

Frequent emission of watery urine, which often he can scarcely keep back (aft. 10, 14 h.). [Frz.]

Frequent, dark-colored urine, which forms a cloud (2d d.).

[Frz.]

430. Light-colored urine, transparent like water. [Wsl.]

Urine, clear as water, with sediment after standing. [Hg.]

Very pale urine, which at once forms a thick, whitish cloud.

[Gr.]

During micturition, burning, and then increased flow of the gonorrhœa.

Sensation toward the end of micturition, as if a load lying in the hypogastrium pressed toward the genitals (aft.  $\frac{1}{2}$  h.). [Gr.]

435. Severe burning in the urethra, which impedes the flow of urine, but then continually urges again to micturition.

Burning during micturition, and before the water is emitted, a cutting with ineffectual urging.

Drawing in the urethra, extending to the anus,

Frequent sensation of rawness in the urethra, at times with shooting there.

Shooting in the urethra, when not urinating (at once.).

440. Tingling in the urethra, when not urinating.

Painful stitches at the termination of the urethra. [Wsl.]

Painful spasmodic constriction of the bladder, without urging to urinate. [Htm.]

Swelling of the orifice of the urethra.

On the penis, posteriorly on the outside, a formicating itching. [Frz.]

445. In the glans, a sensation of heaviness, especially during micturition. [Hrm]

Itching, fine shooting on the glans. [Hrm.]

Fine shooting in the tip of the glans. [Lgh.]

Burning cutting in the glans, with straining pains in the groins, pressing outward.

Itching tingling on the frænulum.

450. Vesicles beside the frænulum, itching only when pressed upon.

Humid, itching vesicles on the frænulum, after previous formication there.

On the figwarts, heat and burning.

Sore pain on the figwarts, while going and sitting.

In the testes, drawing erosion, as from soreness.

455. Pressure in both the testes aggravated by touching, and by walking. [Hrm.]

Burning tearing in the left testicle, and burning in the prostatic gland, attended with frequent erections. [Frz.]

Itching on the scrotum.

On the scrotum a long, itching stitch. [Frz.]

Formication on the scrotum as from ants, turning into burning and a sore pain after scratching. [Htm.]

460. Sore pain on the scrotum. [Frz.]

Inflammatory swelling of the scrotum.

Swelling of the left testicle. [Hg.]

- Hardness and tension of the spermatic cord. [H.]
 Swelling of the spermatic cord, attended with a muddled feeling of the head.
465. Small red pimples on the scrotum and on the posterior part of the penis, with a sensation of heat there. [Br.]
 Falling out of the hair on the sexual parts. [Br.]
 Sexual instinct is deficient.
 Swelling of the penis, for several minutes, without any cause. [Htm.]
 Inclination to stiffness of the penis, in the morning, while standing.
470. Erection in the morning, in bed.
 Excessive stiffness of the penis, without sexual impulse.
 Emission of semen, while pressing for a stool. [Hg.]
 Far too frequent pollutions.
 With a sufficient bodily and spiritual excitation to coitus and continual potency, the penis finally at the acme of the act relaxes limp, without emission of semen.
475. The menses, suppressed for many months, are restored at full-moon.
 Leucorrhœa, after the menses for several days.
 Copious yellowish leucorrhœa with itching, for four, five days, several days after the menses.
 *       *       *       *       *       *       *       *
- Dry nose. [Hg.]
 Catarrhal fever; all his limbs are painful and he has no relish for anything.
480. Violent coryza, while the edges of the nose are red. [Hg.]
 Contractive pains, as it were, constricting the pit of the throat, worse when bending the neck. [Gtm.]
 Roughness in the throat, impeding speech. [Fr. H.]
Severe hoarseness.
 Excitation to cough at times, causing, however, merely a few stitches in the palate, but no cough.
485. Excitation to cough, from a tickling in the pit of the throat.
 Cough, as if caused by the tickling of a feather, from the middle of the chest to the larynx. [Hg.]
 Constant excitation to cough.
 Cough, caused by burning in the chest.
 Severe cough, which causes heaving for vomiting, but without pain. [Fr. H.]
490. Cough, with inclination to vomit.
 Cough, with vomiting of food.
 Dry cough, caused by tickling deep in the chest, just above the scrobiculus cordis; the cough is worst in the evening, after lying down. [Fr. H.]
 Cough, with expectoration, after the chest felt full on awaking.
 Violent cough, with copious expectoration, causing the abdomen to pain.
495. Cough, in the morning, with yellow expectoration.

Cough with an expectoration having an herb-like taste and smell.

Before the cough, the child cries in advance, on account of the pains in the abdomen.

Headache from cough, as if the skull would burst open.

During the cough and the fluent coryza, burning in the chest and in the throat, extending into the mouth, even while she was not coughing.

500. Respiration difficult and oppressed, with small stitches between the short ribs, mostly in the left side. [Htm.]

Smells take away his breath.

Lack of breath, on awaking from a half-hours' nap in the forenoon, with restlessness and perspiration on the body.

Very much oppressed on the chest.

Pain in the chest, as from weariness, or as after sitting a long time; this extends through the whole chest, but is relieved by walking.

505. Pain on the lowest ribs on the right side, when pressing upon them.

Tightness of the chest, in the afternoon; his chest was contracted with stitches.

Painful tightness of the chest, when starting to walk. [Stf.]

Pain in the chest, as if it was constricted.

Painful spasm in the chest or the diaphragm, in the region of the lowest ribs on the right side, rising suddenly and unexpectedly; she cannot straighten herself quickly, but has to sit bent over, and there are stitches there when respiring.

510. Pressure in the chest, for several hours (5th d.).

Pressure in the chest toward the stomach, making her feel oppressed

Pressure on the chest, at night, so that he can only breathe with difficulty. [Hg.]

Severe pressure all over the chest, waking from sleep at night; it drew off toward the abdomen, and disappeared after the emission of flatus.

Pressure and tightness behind the sternum, impeding the respiration. [Frz.]

515. Pressive pain in the left side of the chest, most violent while respiring. [Gtm.]

Pressure in the middle of the chest, most violent while expiring, as if it would press out the sternum, more violent when pressing on the sternum, and in stooping and coughing. [Gtm.]

Squeezing pressure in the right side of the chest, in the region of the seventh rib. [Gr.]

Intermitting, squeezing pressure near the sternum, about the seventh rib. [Gr.]

Squeezing pressure in the region of the left nipple. [Gr.]

520. Squeezing pressure anteriorly near the sternum, below the last false rib on the right side. [Hrm.]

Squeezing pressure below the right axilla, over against the nipple. [Hrm.]

Violent squeezing pain in the cardiac region and toward the sternum, in paroxysms, in the evening while walking. [Hg.]

Cutting pressure on the left side of the chest, when breathing deeply. [Wsl.]

Stitches in the lower part of the chest on the right side, when inspiring while sitting; it disappears in walking.

525. Dull stitches in the middle of the sternum. [Gtm.]

Dull shooting in the left side, between the lowest rib and the pelvis, through the whole abdominal cavity, more violent while inspiring. [Hrm.]

Sharp stitches in the region of the lower ribs on the right side. [Hrm.]

Sharp stitches in the upper part of the chest, below the right arm, for a moment arresting the respiration. [Mr.]

Boring, dull, continuous stitch in the left side of the chest, more violent during inspiration. [Gtm.]

530. Boring pinching in the left side of the chest, continuing during inspiration. [Gtm.]

Pinching shooting in the whole of the chest. [Gtm.]

Burning sore pain internally on the last rib. [Frz.]

Burning externally on the chest.

Burning on the chest [Fr. H.]

535. Burning, cutting pain in the left side of the chest, while sitting, more severe on touching it. [Mr.]

Crawling pain in the chest, while at rest; there is a pain on the sternum when stooping, when touching it and at every movement.

Sensation on the side of the chest as if the ribs were crushed in. [Frz.]

Sharp pressure in the left mamma. [Fr. H.]

Itching biting, as from many fleas, between the two breasts, awaking her about midnight, and neither allowing her to lie nor to sit quietly, she has to rise and walk about. [Fr. H.]

540. Erosive itching on the right false ribs, he has to scratch. [Hrm.]

Palpitation every time she starts up from sleep.

On the coccyx an itching stitch. [Gtm.]

Fine stitches on the coccyx and on the sternum. [Wsl.]

In the small of the back a vivid pain, like drawing and pressing, occasionally tearing, only distinctly perceptible while standing. [Frz.]

545. Intermitting, quickly drawing, pressive pain in the sacrum, most while standing, less when walking; it goes off through pressing upon it, through sitting down and bending forward.

Intermitting tearing in the sacrum, after rising from stooping down; while standing still, it quietly draws in jerks. [Frz.]

Burning pain in a spot just above the sacrum. [Frz.]

Severe stitch in the sacrum, when rising after crouching down.

Itching and perspiration in the back.

550. In the dorsal vertebræ, a painful drawing, as if they were beaten in two, most while sitting. [Frz.]

Tearing pain in the back at night.

- Pinching pain in the middle of the spine. [Wsl.]
 A stitch in the loins when lifting something, this continued while sitting, but at once disappeared on moving.
 Stitches in the renal regions.
555. Small, violent, jerking stitches in the middle of the spine. [Htm.]
 Erosive itching about the lumbar vertebræ and in other parts of the trunk, also on the thigh; he has to scratch. [Hrm.]
 Red pimples on the back, the chest and the nape, especially above the scapulæ, chiefly in the evening, less visible in the morning, only troublesome as the clothes rub and touch them; they last 14 days. [Wsl.]
 Eruption on the scapula, without itching, only painful when touching it.
 On the left scapula, a painful tearing, while sitting with the body bent forward. [Frz.]
560. Concealed drawing and pressure on the bones like gnawing, under the apex of the scapula. [Frz.]
 In the nape a drawing, shooting pressure, going imperceptibly toward the occiput and disappearing there. [Htm.]
 Twitching sensation in the nape, while at rest, but more frequently yet when raising the head. [Br.]
 Feeling of stiffness in the nape, while at rest; it goes off by moving. [Htm.]
 Burning sore pain on the side of the nape. [Frz.]
565. On the neck, in front and on the sides, a pressure. [Hrm.]
 Pinching pain on a small spot of the neck. [Frz.]
 Painful pressure on the left side of the neck, as if it would get sore on the inside, but it is not aggravated either by swallowing or by talking. [Frz.]
 Spasmodic drawing in the right cervical muscles, extending even to the eye, when turning the head.
 The cervical muscles on the right side are very painful.
570. Painful stiffness of the left cervical muscles, the turgidity extends into the head.
 Swelling of an axillary gland, which passes off of itself.
 In the shoulder-joint, drawing and beating.
 Rheumatic, paralytic pain in the right shoulder-joint. [Hg.]
 Tearing in the top of the shoulder and in the left hand.
575. Squeezing pressure on the top of the right shoulder. [Hrm.]
 Furuncle on the right shoulder. [Hg.]
 On the arm, here and there, and on the shoulder, burning as from red-hot coals.
 Weakness in the arm, so that it trembled, in the forenoon.
 The (injured) arm becomes stiff and pains at every movement; the hand becomes heavy as lead; the ulcer throbs and stings and in the ball of the thumb and in the fingers, there is a tearing and stinging pain; in the hand, internally, a painful burning, and when the arm is allowed to hang down, the blood shoots down into the hand.
580. Drawing in both arms, down from the top of the shoulder.

- In the upper arm an itching stitch, not removed by scratching. [Gtm.]
 Muscular twitching in the upper arm, removed by moving. [Gtm.]
 Painful twitching tearing in the arms, in the fingers, and in the limbs, generally. [Gr.]
 Paralytic squeezing pressure on the upper arms, aggravated by touching. [Hrm.]
585. Sensation of icy cold on the right upper arm. [Mr.]
 Drawing in the upper arm, from the elbow toward the shoulder.
 In the elbow-joints, a burning sensation.
 Pain in the elbow-joint, when touched.
 Drawing cutting in the joints of the elbows and the hands, and in the posterior finger-joints.
590. The fore-arms are painful as if bruised, when resting them upon the table. [Frz.]
 Squeezing pressure on the fore-arm, inward and downward. [Hrm.]
 Painfully squeezing heaviness in right fore-arm. [Htm.]
 Sharply shooting boring on the inner side of the left fore-arm, near the bend of the elbow, worst while at rest. [Gtm.]
 Paralytic pain on the outer side of the fore-arm, below the elbow; it does not, however, impede the movement of the arm.
595. In the wrist, a sensation of stiffness and squeezing, aggravated by moving. [Htm.]
 Pinching squeezing between the metacarpal bones of the right hand, as if they were squeezed together. [Htm.]
 Tearing rolling up and down, at times with stitches in the bones of the hands, the fingers and the fore-arms. [Br.]
 Pinching pain above the right wrist-joint. [Wsl.]
 Tearing transversely across the right wrist. [Mr.]
600. Drawing shooting in the palms. [Htm.]
 Increased warmth in both the palms. [Fr. H.]
 Trembling of the hands in writing, with formication and itching therein. [Wsl.]
 Itching on the dorsa of both the hands, increased by scratching.
- Exostosis between the metacarpal bones, very painful, especially by night, most of all when touched.
605. Rough, shriveled, dry skin on the hands.
 In the finger-joints, stitches.
 Tearing in the fingers, especially in the joints, with tension on moving them, as if the tendons were too short. [Hrm.]
 Violent sharply shooting tearing in the posterior phalax of the right middle finger. [Htm.]
 Cramp-like pain in the fingers of the left hand, unaffected by motion. [Gr.]
610. Painfully pressive drawing on the little finger, especially in the joint, going off by clinching the finger into the hand. [Frz.]
 Intermitting dull stitches in the ball of the thumb. [Gr.]

- Fine shooting through the dorsum of the right thumb, extending under the nail. [Wsl.]
 Inflammation and suppuration behind the finger-nail.
 Erosive itching on the left middle finger, soon returning after scratching. [Gr.]
- 615 Dying off of one side of the left index during the chill, with sharp demarkation. [Frz.]
 The fingers go to sleep, become cold, yellow and shriveled, while the pulse is slow, very small and hardly perceptible. [Mr.]
 Numbness of the finger-tips.
 Deep-seated, hard, itching vesicles in the ball of the thumb. [Hg.]
 Red spots, like pimples, on the dorsa of the fingers, without sensation. [Br.]
620. Little red pimples, as large as a pin's head, on and between the fingers; without any sensation, for five days; at last a white apex forms in their middle joint (aft. 11 d.). [Br.]
 On the nates, a furuncle.
 Cramp-like drawing in the left natis, while walking. [Frz.]
 Itching twitching in both the glutei muscles. [Gtm.]
 Itching on the right hip.
625. The hip-joint is painful as if broken, while walking and when touching it.
 Pain in the hip-joint, when rising from one's seat. [Hg.]
 Cramp in the hip-joint, tearing through the whole thigh, unbearable while eating and sitting. [Hg.]
 Tensive and bruised pain in the hip-joint, worst when moving. [Br.]
 Heaviness and paralysis in the hip-joint, when starting to walk after sitting; it goes off after some exercise. [Him.]
630. Both the thighs and the legs ache as if bruised, when walking. [Mr.]
 Tearing on the lower limb, from the thigh down into the big toe. [Hg.]
 Heaviness, which soon becomes painful, in all the joints of the lower limbs. [Hg.]
 Rheumatic paralytic sensation of the whole of the left leg. [Hg.]
 The lower limbs go to sleep, while sitting down.
635. On the thigh, a dull pressure. [Hrm.]
 Pressive cramp-like pain in the right thigh. [Hrm.]
 Tearing on the upper part of the thigh, as if coming up from the hough. [Frz.]
 Tearing pressure on the upper part and the outer side of the thigh and of the tibia. [Frz.]
 Burning sensation in the posterior muscles of the thighs, while standing, it goes off when walking. [Frz.]
640. Severe stitches in the thighs, on moving, but most when sitting down and when rising from a seat.
 Boring dull stitch in the left thigh, near the abdominal ring, while at rest. [Gtm.]
 Bruised pain in the muscles of the thighs.

- Bruised pain, transversely across the middle of the thighs; they feel as if they would give way in walking; so that he reels. [Mr.]
 The thighs feel as if beaten all over; he can hardly drag himself along; worse after sleeping. [Hg.]
645. The glands of the thighs are painfully swollen, he cannot stretch his legs. [Hg.]
 Weariness and anxious restlessness in the thighs, while sitting; he has to keep moving his feet. [Mr.]
 Sharp pressure in the muscles of the right thigh, extending to the knee. [Wsl.]
 Painfully pulsating twitchings from the middle of the thigh to the knee. [Wsl.]
 Pressure on the thighs, one hand's breadth above each knee. [Hrm.]
650. Pressive squeezing above the knee, on the outer side of the thigh [Gr.]
 Distending pain in the tendons of the houghs, worse when moving, also when touching them. [Br.]
 Painful drawing deep in the left knee and down toward the tibia, while walking; when the body in walking, rests upon this lower limb. [Gr.]
 Shooting pain in the right patella, worst when moving. [Gtm.]
 Violently itching pimples on the knee and on the calf, by day, and especially by night in bed, with burning after scratching; the pimples became confluent, spread about and readily became bleeding ulcers. [Mr.]
655. Pressure in the legs, below the two knees. [Hrm.]
 Dull, squeezing pressure, just below the left knee, every five or six minutes for two to six seconds. [Gr.]
 Spasmodic drawing in the leg, also by night in bed; by day she had to get up and walk on account of it; by night she had to lay the limb now in one position, now in another.
 Perceptible pulsation in the left leg, when at rest. [Gtm.]
 Itching erosion on the left leg, soon recurring more strongly after scratching; to which it incites. [Hrm.]*
660. Weariness in the legs, while walking. [Mr.]
 Formication on the right leg. [Gr.]
 On the tibia, itching
 Pressive pain in the right tibia, while at rest; disappearing in walking. [Gtm.]
 Nocturnal burning tearing in the tibia, from above downward. [Hg.]
665. Sharp lacerations on the lower part of the tibia. [Lgh.]
 In the calf, cutting shooting, downward. [Htm.]
 Spasmodic pinching in the left calf, relieved for a time by friction. [Wsl.]
 In the ankle, a dull, paralytic pain when at rest, with a crackling sound when moving it. [Gtm.]
 Pain, as if from a strain, in the ankle, even in the morning in bed.

670. Cramplike pains in the feet, from moving. [Hg.]
 Tensive, shooting pain on the right inner ankle, extending up the tibia.
 Tension and going to sleep in the fore part of the right foot and the toes, when walking. [Gtm.]
 Squeezing pressure on the soles of the feet. [Hrm.]
 Violent, jerky stitches on the sole of the right foot. [Htm.]
675. Intermitting pressure on the sole of the left foot, toward the big toe. [Hrm.]
 Shooting in the sole of the foot and the heel, and leaden heaviness therein, while at rest. [Hg.]
 The heels and the balls of the toes are painful as if sore, when treading. [Hg.]
 Excoriative pain on the outer side of the right foot, in the morning.
 Burning shooting in the soles of the feet, especially in the evening; in the morning there is only burning therein.
680. Burning in the feet and the soles of the feet.
 Burning in the soles of the feet and in the head. [Hg.]
 Burning heat of the soles of the feet, with excoriation between the toes.
 Constant coldness of the legs from the ankles to the calves.
 The left foot is quite numb, senseless and dead, solely when walking.
685. Severe itching on the ankle, the spot becomes red from scratching.
 Itching on the heels.
 In the ball of the left big toe, tearing stitches. [Htm.]
 Squeezing pressure on the two last toes of the right foot [Hrm.]
 Continuous boring stitch in the left little toe, both in rest and in motion. [Gtm.]
690. All the toes are painful, as if ulcerated. [Hg.]
 A nail grown into the flesh causes inflammation and pain.
 Swelling of the knuckle of the big toe with burning and beating; when touched there are gashes as from a knife, causing the toe to twitch; even fear of approach to it and also hiccupping, excite these pains. [Hg.]
 Water blisters on the balls of the toes. [Hg.]
 In the corns, shooting, and burning, for eight days.
695. Formication all over the body as from ants, with some single fine stitches. [Hrm., Wsl.]
 Crawling, like formication, now here, now there. [Gr.]
 Itching crawling on the body and on the hands, in the evening after lying down. [Gr.]
 Quickly arising itching, here and there on the body, on the back, the arms, the pubic region and even on the scalp; only briefly removed by scratching. [Stf.]
 Violent, burning shooting itching in several spots; after scratching, increased burning and shooting with more intense redness.

700. The skin everywhere is painful, even shaving causes pain.
 [Hg.]
 Red spots on the upper and lower extremities, burning like fire.
 Increased redness of the whole body, with single large red spots on the top of the shoulders, without sensation and red streaks above the patellæ and from the hips to the navel, attended with great sensitiveness to the air; the warmth of the bed is agreeable.
 [Wsl.]
 Eruption of red, smooth nodules on the fore arm and the neck with red ariolæ; only painful as if sore, when touched.
 Rash all over the body, more burning than itching.
705. Itch-like vesicles on the natis, the balls of the toes and the toes. [Hg.]
 Sore places on the toes, the groin and the pubes. [Hg.]
 The ulcers exhibit a burning pain.
 Every injured spot on the body pains as if sore.
 Erosive pain in the wounds, even in wounds of the bones.
710. All pains from phosphoric acid remain unchanged through external pressure. [Gr.]
 The nocturnal pains may be relieved by pressure. [Hg.]
 He has to continually shift his position, because the pains are less during motion than while at rest. [Hg.]
 Coffee seemed to disturb, but not rum. [Hg.]
 Keen pain like scraping with a knife, on the periosteum of all the bones. [Mr.]
715. Spasmodic drawing in the hands and feet, as if they were asleep, in the evening and morning.
 The arms and legs go to sleep at night, so that he had to get some one else to move his limbs.
 Tingling from going to sleep, and lack of strength in the upper and lower extremities.
Bruised feeling in all the joints, in the morning, in the arms, the legs and the nape.
 Bruised feeling of the hands and feet, as if paralyzed.
720. Contractive sensation of the limbs. [Fr. H.]
Bruised feeling in the hips, arms, thighs and nape as from growing, with single tearing stitches in all these parts simultaneously, especially when going up-stairs and when starting to walk. [Br.]
 Muscular twitching, here and there, especially in the legs.
 Tumultuous movement in the blood.
 Great restlessness, a forcing and driving in the blood, he is, as it were, beside himself.
725. In the evening, restlessness in the body, with itching in the canthi, the nostrils, the face and the hairy scalp.
 With much talking, there is heat in the head, with icy cold hands.
 Attacks of perspiration all over, while sitting down.
 He perspires immoderately while walking.
 Very sensitive to cool air. [Hg.]
730. Very much fatigued by walking, languid and dejected; at home chilliness (aft. 24 h.).

- While walking in the open air, profuse sweat all over, especially on the genitals.
- Emaciation, with wretched appearance and deep-lying eyes.
- Awkwardness of body, inactivity of mind.
- Weary in body, oppressed in mind (4th d.).
735. He imagines, he totters while walking. [Fr. H.]
- After going up-stairs, weakness, with pain in the scrobiculus cordis. [Hg.]
- Weaker and more languid.
- So weak and pale of face, in the morning after rising, that she has to lie down again for awhile, when she feels well.
- Weariness in all parts of the body. [Hrm.]
740. Weariness of the body. [Wsl.]
- A sort of epilepsy (at once). [Fr. H.]
- Much yawning, while the water runs from his eyes.
- Constant yawning and stretching of the arms, with drowsiness. [Htm.]
- Great drowsiness and weariness by day; it goes off in walking; at night, sleeplessness, heat and perspiration from the evening till midnight.
745. Drowsiness, which closes his eyes, with yawning, all day, especially also in the evening. [Frz.]
- Somnolence after dinner; he falls asleep while talking. [Mr.]
- He falls into a fast and deep sleep, even while writing, being unable to resist. [Fr. H.]
- He gets sleepy early in the evening, and is very sleepy in the morning, for a long time.
- Cannot be roused in the morning and is very sleepy.
750. He goes to sleep earlier and sleeps more soundly than usual, seemingly from weariness.
- Sound sleep by day, the sleep at night is interrupted. [Hg.]
- Sleep is so sound that he can hardly be roused in the morning. [Htm.]
- Late in falling asleep, in the evening (aft. 3 d.).
- Late in falling asleep in the evening; for several hours nothing but numbers appeared before his eyes; this went off on raising himself in bed.
755. In the evening, before going to sleep, heat in the cheeks and ears.
- Restless sleep, with dry heat (6th n.).
- At night, he is waked up by voracious hunger.
- Anxious awaking.
- Too early an awaking at night, and difficulty in going to sleep again. [Fr. H.]
760. In the morning in bed, restlessness.
- In the morning, on rising, very ill-humored, languid and drowsy.
- In the morning, pressure in the head, and bitter taste in the mouth (5th d.).
- In slumber, he whimpers much.
- In slumber, his hands twitch, and he talks and laments with half open eyes.

765. Now laughing, now weeping features in slumber, with contorsion of the half open eyes.
 Singing when asleep. [Hg.]
 At night in sleep, he often bites his tongue. [Hg.]
 At night, emission of semen, without erection (1st n.).
 Sleep full of dreams, with erections.
770. Lewd dreams, with emission of semen. [Gtm.]
 Dreams, in part vexing, in part indifferent; toward morning he puts his arms under his head, and they go to sleep. [Frz.]
 Vivid dreams, as if it were day, about banqueting.
 Dreams, every night, about what had occurred last in the evening.
 Queer dreams.
775. Disquieting dreams.
 Before midnight agreeable dreams, afterward frightful dreams, remembered imperfectly. [Gtm.]
 Vivid, gruesome dream, which he does not, however, remember. [Szf.]
 Anxious dreams about dead persons, with fear on awaking. [Frz.]
 Dreams full of scolding and strife; a restless night. [Lgh.]
780. Frequent starting up at night, as if he was falling down from a height, or into water. [Lgh.]
 At night, about 1 o'clock, awakening with troubled, solicitous thoughts, with consciousness pretty clear for half an hour; then again a quiet sleep till morning. [Szf.]
 Attack of shuddering in the evening, then in the night, exhausting sweat (2d d).
 Frequent chills running over the body, with chilliness and palpitation.
 Chill, in the evening, on lying down, and after the first awakening, heat all over without thirst (aft. 12 h.).
785. A shaking chill, in the forenoon, with blue nails; tearing in the wrists and paralytic weakness of the arms.
 Chill, even to trembling, in the evening; then in the morning, heat in the face, dryness in the mouth, and shooting pain in the throat on deglutition.
 Severe shaking chill, from the afternoon till the evening at 10 o'clock, then dry heat, so intense that he almost became unconscious.
 Chill over the whole body, with drawing in the limbs, awakes her in the evening after a half hour's sleep, every night, without subsequent heat.
 Chill and coldness for hours, toward evening, without subsequent thirst and heat.
790. Alternation of shuddering and heat, in the evening.
 Frequent alternations of chills and heat, in the evening; the dry heat of the face is without redness, attended with chill; after the cessation of the heat a still more severe chill, it runs cold all over his body; toward morning a profuse sweat during the night-sleep; i. e., when he had gone to sleep again after awaking.
 Feeling of chilliness in the face, the temples and the forehead, as from being breathed upon by a cool breath, with sensation of cold in the finger-tips, which were also externally quite cold. [Stf.]

Shudder over the abdomen, attended with cold finger-tips, for two hours without thirst, most of all at the least approach of fresh air, without subsequent heat. [Th.]

Frequent sensation of coldness on the right cheek; with sensation of heat in the left cheek, without any sensible change in their external temperature. [Br.]

795. Sensation of cold, with chilliness and coldness in the abdomen. [Hg.]

Chilliness, even while walking in the warm room. [Stf.]

Chill, all over the body. [Mr.]

Chill, all the forenoon, coming on by jerks, like a general shudder, even in the room, with blue, icy-cold hands and dry palate, without any special thirst. [Frz.]

Shaking chill all over the body, with icy-cold fingers, without thirst (one hour after eating); after 4 hours, increased warmth, without thirst. [Mr.]

800. Occasional chilly shudders, lasting for minutes at a time, without thirst, with immediately following heat, alternating as quickly with chilliness. [Gr.]

Pulse irregular, frequently intermitting, for one or two beats.

[Wsl.]

Pulse fuller, with distended temporal and radial arteries.

[Wsl.]

Strong pulse. [Br.]

Cannot bear heat. [Hg.]

805. Febrile heat without thirst, from 11 to 5 o'clock, by day. [Hg.]

Heat all over the body, in the evening, followed by a restless night.

Dry heat, on going to sleep (4th d.).

Heat in the whole of the head, in the evening after lying down, with very cold feet and the body only moderately warm.

[Htm.]

Heat in the face, with thirst, in the afternoon, without redness. [Frz.]

810. Much heat in the face, at night. [Br.]

Internal heat all through the body without thirst, not sensible externally and without redness of the cheeks, with deep breathing and apprehensiveness. [Wsl.]

Heat on the cheeks and flushes of heat on the back, in the evening, while walking in the open air. [Frz.]

Much heat and perspiration all over, by day and night, with violent thirst for water.

Profuse night-sweat for two nights, about midnight and while awake, beginning at the head and most violent on the chest.

815. Morning-sweat, with heavy dreams of dead persons and as if he was being chased.

Profuse morning-sweat.

Perspiration all night, with hot feet and hot forehead. [Hg.]

Perspiration in the nape, especially during the siesta. [Hg.]

PLATINA.

Chemically pure platina which is soft and can be cut with a knife, is dissolved in heated aqua-regia (nitric acid and hydrochloric acid), the golden yellow solution obtained, is properly diluted with distilled water, a smoothly-polished steel rod is suspended in it, on which the platina deposits as a crystalline crust. This is readily friable, is sweetened by repeated washing in distilled water and well-dried between blotting paper. One grain of this is used for the preparation of the homœopathic dynamizations as shown in the concluding part of the first volume of the Chronic Diseases.

When Platina is properly homœopathically indicated in a case of disease, it relieves simultaneously the following ailments, if present:

Lack of appetite; eructation after eating; constipation while traveling; emission of prostatic juice; induration of the uterus; weariness of the lower limbs; cold feet; stuffed coryza.

Too violent effects of Platina are relieved by Pulsatilla and by smelling of sweet spirits of nitre.

The symptoms marked Gr. are by Dr. Gross, of Jueterbock.<sup>1</sup>

PLATINA.

Dejected, taciturn, sad. [Gr.]

She imagines herself deserted and standing alone in the world. [Gr.]

Anxiety, with trembling of the hands and ebullition of heat. [Gr.]

Anxiety and palpitation, especially during a walk.

5. Anxiety is frequently suddenly felt all through the body. [Gr.]

Great anxiety, with violent palpitation, when she wishes to talk in company; so that speaking is hard for her. [Gr.]

Anguish as if about to die, as if unconsciousness would ensue, with trembling in all the limbs, arrested breathing and intense palpitation. [Gr.]

Anxious and oppressed about the heart, and peevish all day long. [Gr.]

Sensation as if he would have to die soon, with horror at the thought. [Gr.]

10. Sensation as if she would have to die soon, with great inclination to weep and actual weeping. [Gr.]

<sup>1</sup> To the above-named fellow-observer most of the symptoms of Platina are credited. They are taken from a proving instituted by him, chiefly on "a damsel both bodily and mentally healthy and blooming, though somewhat excitable," who took doses of the 1st trituration equivalent in all to between two and three grains of the metal. The results of this proving were originally published in Vol. I of the Archiv.—Hughes.

Great restlessness of mind, so that she knows not where to stay, with gloominess which spoils even what should be most enjoyable; she imagines she is not fit for this world, is tired of life, but has a great horror of the death she believes to be approaching. [Gr.]

Very much depressed and indolent, in the morning (aft. 48 h.). [Gr.]

Sullen and discontented. [Gr.]

Ill-humored for a long time, from a slight vexation; he only talks when he is obliged to; extremely unkind, abrupt and quarrelsome. [Gr.]

15. At odds with all the world, everything is too close for her, with inclination to weep. [Gr.]

Sensitive mood

Sad and sullen, she sits solitary, without speaking and she cannot ward off sleep; then inconsolable weeping, especially when she is addressed. [Gr.]

Taciturnity and involuntary weeping, even after the most friendly address, so that she gets vexed about it herself. [Gr.]

Tendency to weep and weeping, after a mild reproach. [Gr.]

20. Lachrymose, gloomy mood, especially in the evening. [Gr.]

Much affected, especially in the afternoon and evening. [Gr.]

Very much inclined to weep, and peevish; she has often to weep involuntarily; this relieves her. [Gr.]

Inclination to weep and gloominess, worse in the room, better in the open air. [Gr.]

Very much inclined to weep, and too much affected by the least cause.

25. Sad and sullen on the first morning; the next morning inexpressibly happy, especially in the open air, so that she felt like embracing everybody and could have laughed over the most sad things. [Gr.]

Very serious and taciturn the first day; the next day everything seems to her funny and ludicrous. [Gr.]

Great merriment, so that she could have danced, half an hour after the weeping. [Gr.]

At first great merriment for two days; everything seems joyful, she could have laughed at the most sad things; then on the third day great sadness, in the morning and evening, with weeping, even about joyful and ludicrous matters, also when she is addressed. [Gr.]

Involuntary inclination to whistle and sing. [Gr.]

30. While the mind is cheerful, the body suffers, and vice versa when the mind is affected, the body feels well. [Gr.]

Sensation of augmented strength, mental tranquility and disposition to think. [Gr.]

Very cross, and readily becomes passionate; he could have cudged innocent persons. [Gr.]

Very cross and irritated at harmless matters and words; so that she at times would have liked to have beaten herself and friends. [Gr.]

Vacillation of mind. [Gr.]

35. Illusion of the imagination; on entering the room after walking for an hour, everything around her seemed very small and all persons physically and bodily inferior to her, but she herself great and lofty in body; the room appears to her gloomy and disagreeable; attended with anxiety, gloomy and cross humor, a whirling vertigo and discomfort in her surroundings which before were pleasant to her; in the open air, in the sunshine, everything vanishes at once. [Gr.]

Contemptuous, pitying looking down on people at other times respected, with a certain disdain, in paroxysms, against her will. [Gr.]

During this caprice of contempt, suddenly a voracious hunger and eager, hasty eating; at the usual meal-time there is then no appetite, she eats without relish. [Gr.]

Haughty, proud feelings. [Gr.]

Indifferent, cold, abstracted in company of friends, in the open air; she only answers when she has to, and only reflects afterward whether her answer had been proper; her thoughts were always absent, without her being conscious on what they dwelled. [Gr.]

40. Indifference, he felt unconcerned as to whether his absent wife would die or not. [Gr.]

She feels as if she did not at all belong to her family; after a short absence everything appears to be quite changed. [Gr.]

Absent-mindedness; she listens to conversations, but at the end she knows nothing about them. [Gr.]

Great absent-mindedness and forgetfulness, she does not even hear what is spoken before her, even when she is addressed emphatically and repeatedly. [Gr.]

Indisposed to mental work. [Gr.]

45. Muddled feeling, especially in the forehead. [Gr.]

The head feels pre-occupied. [Gr.]

Dull, painful muddled feeling in the forehead. [Gr.]

Dull, pressive pre-occupation of the head, as if there was a board before the head, frequently. [Gr.]

Vertigo, in transient fits, in close succession, in the evening, while standing, as if he would lose his consciousness. [Gr.]

50. Severe vertigo, so that she dare not move her eyes, more by day than by night, mostly with palpitation.

Headache, after the vertigo, like tearing and rending to pieces.

Transient headache, above the left eyebrow. [Gr.]

The head aches as if in a vise, with a dull pain. [Gr.]

Tensive numb sensation in the whole sinciput, as after a blow, extending to the nasal bone. [Gr.]

55. Sensation of numbness in the sinciput, as if constricted, in a warm, crowded room; aggravated even to a severe dull burrowing, pressing the head together, with annoyed impatience, and heat in the upper part of the body, especially on the head, as if the sweat of anguish would break out; in the evening in the cool air he feels unusual heat, and when starting to walk, a painful concussion of the brain, as from a ball beating against the skull; afterward while lying in bed, a fluttering in the ears; then he goes to sleep, the pains having abated. [Gr.]

A spasmodic contraction suddenly darts from the right temple to the left; then a sensation of numbness, as if the head was bandaged too tightly, with tremulousness of both sides of the head. [Gr.]

Cramp-like pain in the right temple, in the afternoon. [Gr.]

Cramp-like pain in the forehead, as if it was in a vise. [Gr.]

Cramp-like drawing constriction in the head, occasionally, especially about the forehead; it begins weak, augments to violence, then again decreases. [Gr.]

60. Cramp-like pressure, inwards, in the temple. [Gr.]

Cramp-like tension in the temples, as if they were in a vice. [Gr.]

Compression of the forehead, in paroxysms. [Gr.]

Violent pressure in the forehead, as if everything was coming out, with a sensation of a load upon the head, which closed the eyes and pressed out tears; aggravated by bending forward and by the least motion of the head; before the fit, there is great anguish about the heart, then she feels as if struck on the forehead, so she cannot speak; with increasing anguish, with burning heat and intense redness of the face and violent thirst, with augmented headache till ten o'clock; this recurred for several days about the same hour. [Gr.]

Transient pressure inward, on the middle of the crown. [Gr.]

65. Dull, sudden pressure inward into the left side of the forehead (aft. 3 h.). [Gr.]

Undulating pressure inwardly in the left temple. [Gr.]

Pressure below the right frontal protuberance, increasing and decreasing by paroxysms. [Gr.]

Pressive headache, as if water was in her head, wakes her at midnight; attended with great dryness and severe scraping in the throat, great crossness and a general perspiration in large drops, especially in the face. [Gr.]

Pressure, with a dull burrowing, in the left half of the forehead, after dinner, while walking in the open air, and then also continuing in the room. [Gr.]

70. Sudden contusive pain on a small spot on the left parietal bone. [Gr.]

Dull pressure in the right parietal bone as if a peg was sticking in it. [Gr.]

Pressive cramp-like pain in the left temple, commencing mild, increasing and diminishing. [Gr.]

Pain as from a blow on the right anterior side of the head. [Gr.]

Transient pain as from a contusion, on the right frontal eminence. [Gr.]

75. Cramp-like drawing from the left side of the occiput to the lower jaw, through the head. [Gr.]

Jerking drawing on the right and the left sides of the head. [Gr.]

Drawing from the left side of the forehead into the temple, where it presses. [Gr.]

Sharp stitches in the left side of the head, in the evening in bed. [Gr.]

Single dull stitches in the sinciput. [Gr.]

80. Dull, corrosive shooting on a small spot of the left parietal bone, in paroxysms. [Gr.]

Burning pricking as from a needle in the left temple, going off by scratching. [Gr.]

Violent boring in the middle of the forehead gradually becoming less and disappearing. [Gr.]

On the top of the crown, a dull pain, as if the scalp was being contracted and as if a heavy weight lay upon it (aft.  $\frac{1}{2}$  h.). [Gr.]

Crawling, like formication in the right temple, then down the side of the lower jaw, with sensation of coldness. [Gr.]

85. Burning on the head. [Gr.]

Painful drawing on various parts of the head. [Gr.]

Painfulness of the integuments of the head, unbearable, at night, as if he was lying on hard stones; he had to sit up.

A chill runs over the occiput down to the cheek, where there is a dull burning pain; then there is a drawing in a hollow tooth. [Gr.]

Above the right orbit, an undulating, stupefying pressure. [Gr.]

90. Intermitting cramp-like pain, beside the exterior border of the right orbit. [Gr.]

Pain as after a blow, on the arch of the right orbit. [Gr.]

Erosive gnawing, as if rubbed open, on the upper margin of the orbit. [Gr.]

Tensive pain in the upper margin of the orbits, and in the eyeballs which feel compressed. [Gr.]

Burning sensation of heat in the eyes, with drowsiness, as if they would close; on closing the eyes, less pain; on attentively looking at an object, sensation as if water was gathering in them; more in the room than in the open air. [Gr.]

95. Drowsy pressure in the eyes, in the forenoon, without inclination to sleep (aft. 2 h.). [Gr.]

Frequent formication in the right canthus; he has to rub it. [Gr.]

Erosion and a sensation of coldness in the right eye. [Gr.]

Quivering of the eyelids. [Gr.]

Sensation as if a grain of sand had gotten into the right eye, she must wink. [Gr.]

100. Painless drawing about the left eye, with dimness of vision as through gauze, and a sensation as if the eye was glued fast together. [Gr.]

Pain of the eyes in the evening by candle-light, and when looking attentively at anything; they first itch, so that she must rub, then they begin to suppurate, are very painful; there is a glittering and quivering before them, so that she does not see anything, and must close her eyes, when she falls asleep. [Gr.]

- Straining, cramp-like pain in the ear, in both ears. [Gr.]
 Tearing, drawing and dull shooting in the right ear, a sort of straining pain. [Gr.]
 Dull shooting in the right meatus auditorius, in paroxysms. [Gr.]
105. Dull shooting jerks in the right external ear, with a sensation of numbness and coldness, extending through the cheek into the lips. [Gr.]
 Sensation as if cold air drew into the right ear. [Gr.]
 Burning heat of the ears, sensible also externally, with redness. [Gr.]
 Burrowing in the right ear and jerking drawing in the left ear. [Gr.]
 Erosive gnawing about the left lobule of the ear; he must rub. [Gr.]
110. Erosive formication in the right meatus auditorius (aft. 1 h.). [Gr.]
Ring in the ears.
 Ringing in the ears, then tearing in them. [Gr.]
 Loud ringing and formication in the right ear, for some time. [Gr.]
Buzzing in the ears, with stitches in the head.
115. Spitting (as of cats) in the ears, as if they were stopped up, aggravated by the least noise, so that she hears spoken words with difficulty.
 Roaring in the right ear. [Gr.]
 Rushing sound in the right ear, as from the pinion of a great bird. [Gr.]
Fluttering and dull rolling in the ears every morning, and later on, also every evening after lying down, for several weeks, at the same hour. [Gr.]
 Fluttering in the right ear, with a cramp-like pressive muddled feeling of the head. [Gr.]
120. Thundering jerks in the right ear, like the roar of far-off cannons. [Gr.]
On the nose, erosion, as from something acrid.
 Cramp-like pains on the right side of the nasal bone, with a numb sensation. [Gr.]
 Cramp-like twitches in the left ala nasi, in rhythmical intervals. [Gr.]
 Pulling on the nose, above the left ala nasi, as if he was pulled by a hair, then sensation of numbness, as if a hair had been torn out. [Gr.]
125. Face, pale and sunken. [Gr.]
 Pale, wretched appearance; for several days. [Gr.]
Intense heat of the face, the eyes burned and itched violently.
 Burning heat of the face with glowing redness, with great dryness of the mouth, with violent thirst, pressive headache, and dizzy quivering before the eyes, with lachrymation; for several evenings; from 5 to 9 o'clock. [Gr.]

- Heat of the face and of the whole head, sultriness and dull pain in the forehead; she cannot contain herself. [Gr.]
130. Sensation of coldness, formication and numbness in the whole of the right side of the face. [Gr.]
 Cramp-like, painful sensation of numbness in the left zygoma. [Gr.]
 Tensive sensation of numbness in the zygomata and the mastoid processes, as if the head was in a vise. [Gr.]
 Dull, stupefying pressure in the right zygoma and that half of the nose. [Gr.]
 Dull pressure as from contusion on the left mastoid process, on pressing upon it. [Gr.]
135. Burning fine stitch in the left cheek; he must scratch. [Gr.]
 Itching stitch in the skin of the cheek, as from a splinter, at once going off by rubbing. [Gr.]
 Erosion on the cheeks; soon recurring, after scratching, to which it incites. [Gr.]
 On the chin, below the corner of the mouth, dull, painful sensation of coldness. [Gr.]
 In the upper lip, intermitting, cramp-like twitching, in the morning, in bed. [Gr.]
140. Sore gnawing about the mouth, inciting to scratching, as after shaving with a dull razor. [Gr.]
 Water-vesicles on the outer border of the lower lip, with smarting pain (aft. 6 h.). [Gr.]
 A vesicle on the inner edge of the upper lip, with a violent shooting pain only when touched. [Gr.]
 Dry upper lip, as if burned. [Gr.]
 Great dryness and roughness of the lips. [Gr.]
145. Peeling off of the lips and bleeding, for many days, with violent excoriative pain in the open air. [Gr.]
 Excoriation on the lower lip, just below the vermilion, as if rubbed sore. [Gr.]
 Erosion on the inner side of the lip, with painful sensation of looseness of the upper teeth. [Gr.]
 Erosion on the inner surface of the lower lip and on the gums of both jaws. [Gr.]
 In the chin, tensive sensation of numbness, as if in a vise. [Gr.]
150. Dull jerks in the chin, as if it was knocked upward. [Gr.]
 Slowly intermitting dull thrusts on the lower part of the chin. [Gr.]
 Sore, erosive gnawing on the chin; he must rub it. [Gr.]
 Little bluish-red reticulation of veins on the chin, as from varicose veinlets, without pain, for several days. [Gr.]
 On the lower jaw on the left side, a cramp-like pain. [Gr.]
155. Cramp-like pain on the lower edge of the lower jaw, unchanged by moving, [Gr.]
 Toothache with transient, cramp-like drawing through the lower and upper rows of teeth. [Gr.]
 Numb pain in the left lower row of teeth, in the morning after rising. [Gr.]

- Constant, burrowing drawing in a hollow incisor and in a sound one. [Gr.]
- Drawing and throbbing in a molar, first in the upper, then in the lower row, as if it were hollow. [Gr.]
160. Jerking drawing, first on the right side of the neck, then in a hollow tooth, at last in the ear, where there is a dull jerking shooting. [Gr.]
- His mouth all day feels sticky and slimy, especially after eating, also in the morning, attended with a good deal of ill humor. [Gr.]
- Gathering of water in the mouth, at times. [Gr.]
- Burning under the tongue or also on its right side. [Gr.]
- Formication on the tongue. [Gr.]
165. Sensation on the upper side of the tongue as if burnt, much increased by rubbing over it with the teeth. [Gr.]
- Scrapy in the throat as if raw, in the evening, after lying down and on the following day, at times with an incitation to a hacking cough. [Gr.]
- Painful sensation of rawness in the throat, as if a piece of skin was hanging down, when not swallowing and during empty deglutition. [Gr.]
- Excoriation, as if raw and sore in the right half of the palate, with crawling in the left nostril. [Gr.]
- Scraping in the throat, as for coryza, or as from eating smarting food; she has often to clear her throat, causing a shooting pain. [Gr.]
170. A slight pain in the throat quickly passes on as a sensation of heaviness drawing through the head. [Gr.]
- Cramp-like drawing in the throat, around the os hyoides, as if everything was constricted. [Gr.]
- Pressure in the throat, as if it was being constricted. [Gr.]
- Sensation as if the uvula were elongated. [Gr.]
- Painful swelling on the right tonsil.
175. Mucus in the throat, occasionally, during the scraping; she has to clear her throat. [Gr.]
- Sweet taste on the tip of the tongue. [Gr.]
- Almost constantly hungry.
- Lack of appetite. [Gr.]
- She loathes food, accompanied with a weeping mood. [Gr.]
180. There is relish for the first morsels, but soon fullness and satiety. [Gr.]
- She is satiated at once in the evening, on account of great sadness; later on she eats. [Gr.]
- Though he has a desire for tobacco, there is no relish, and soon there is an aversion for it. [Gr.]
- After a meal, pinching in the umbilical region as for diarrhœa. [Gr.]
- Empty eructation, in the morning, before breakfast. [Gr.]
185. Frequent eructation of air, at any time. [Gr.]
- Empty eructation, with a hungry stomach (aft.  $\frac{3}{4}$  h.). [Gr.]
- Loud eructation of air, before and after meals. [Gr.]

Hiccuping, eructation and passage of flatus after eating. [Gr.]

Sudden eructation of a bitter-sweet liquid, causing him to choke, so that he had to cough, with long continuing scraping in the throat; also after dinner. [Gr.]

190. Sensation of loathing in the gastric region. [Gr.]

Qualmishness in the gastric region, in the morning. [Gr.]

Nausea and qualmishness in the scrobiculus cordis before eating, which afterward goes down into the abdomen with a slight pinching. [Gr.]

Nausea, while there is appetite for the food (which tastes normally). [Gr.]

Constant nausea, with great weariness, anxiety and sensation of trembling through the whole body, in the forenoon. [Gr.]

195. Inclination to vomit, without vomiting, aggravated in paroxysms, with great qualmishness and fatigue of the lower limbs. [Gr.]

In the gastric region, visible stitches, like muscular subsultus. [Gr.]

Pressure in the pit of the stomach, also when touched. [Gr.]

Pressure in the pit of the stomach after eating (bread and butter), as from undigested food. [Gr.]

Fullness in the stomach and abdomen, in the morning before breakfast, as if from overloading the stomach, with much empty eructation. [Gr.]

200. Sensation in the scrobiculus cordis, as if she had swallowed too much air, with rising up to the pit of the throat and abortive effort at eructation, much aggravated at every empty deglutition. [Gr.]

Inflation of the scrobiculus cordis and of the stomach, with a sensation of scratching and tearing in pieces in the stomach.

Pressive drawing pain below the scrobiculus cordis, as from a strain in lifting. [Gr.]

Contractive pain about the scrobiculus cordis, as if laced too tightly, so that she could not breathe for it. [Gr.]

Painful sensation about the scrobiculus cordis, as if laced too tightly, with an inclination to eat, as if that would make it go off. [Gr.]

205. Oppression about the scrobiculus, unaffected by respiration. [Gr.]

Pinching in the precordial region, immediately followed by pressing down toward the hypogastrium, like flatulent burrowing; it only went off after a movement of flatus, which was not, however, emitted till later and with difficulty; the sensation in the groin kept recurring with the distention of the abdomen. [Gr.]

Crawling in the pit of the stomach, extending up to the throat, as from swallowing feathery dust; she had to retch. [Gr.]

Itching writhing in the gastric region; it goes off by friction. [Gr.]

Fermentation in the gastric region.

210. Dull, hammering beating in and beside the scrobiculus cordis, on a costal cartilage (at once). [Gr.]

- Violent stitches on the right side, beside the scrobiculus cordis. [Gr.]
- Dull thrusts in the scrobiculus cordis. [Gr.]
- Violent, dull shooting thrusts in the scrobiculus cordis, in slow paroxysms (aft.  $\frac{1}{4}$  h.). [Gr.]
- Gnawing and writhing in the stomach, in the morning, with voracious hunger and gathering of water in the mouth; not relieved by eating. [Gr.]
215. Pain in the abdomen, toward morning, aggravated by raising himself in bed, and then gradually ceasing. [Gr.]
- Abdomen much inflated in the evening.
- Distended abdomen after dinner. [Gr.]
- Cramp-like distention of the abdomen, in various places, like large bubbles, in other spots cramp-like drawing inward and depression of the abdomen.
- Sensation in the whole of the abdomen, as if laced too tightly. [Gr.]
220. The whole of the abdomen is pinched together in the umbilical region; this extends into the back. [Gr.]
- Painful pinching together under the left short ribs. [Gr.]
- Jerking pinching, now here, now there, in the abdomen. [Gr.]
- Jerking drawing in the right side of the abdomen, with some arrest of breathing. [Gr.]
- Pinching in the umbilical region, as from incipient diarrhœa. [Gr.]
225. Jerking pinching in both sides of the abdomen, relieved by passage of flatus. [Gr.]
- Cutting and pinching about the umbilicus, as from flatulence; this then draws downward, with urging to stool and emission of flatus. [Gr.]
- Cutting pain darts quickly through the abdomen, followed by weariness in the knees. [Gr.]
- Drawing through the abdomen, from the chest toward the groins, coming together in the genital parts with pains. [Gr.]
- Writhing about the navel, with oppression of breathing and tremulous sensation throughout the whole of the body. [Gr.]
230. Very painful stitch, deep in the abdomen, above the navel, when raising himself suddenly after crouching down. [Gr.]
- Dull stitches in the middle of the navel. [Gr.]
- Dull intermitting thrusts in the abdomen, just below the short ribs. [Gr.]
- Stitches in the abdomen, in the morning.
- Fine shooting in the right side of the abdomen, when lying upon it, it passes forward into the umbilical region and into the left side; aggravated by lying on the left side. [Gr.]
235. Pain in the abdomen as from fright, after a sensation of anxiety in the whole of the abdomen; with urging as for diarrhœa, though only some ordinary fœces are discharged with a great effort. [Gr.]
- Slight burning about the umbilicus. [Gr.]

Sudden burning darting down in the right side of the abdomen. [Gr.]

Burning sensation on a small spot of the left side of the abdomen, in paroxysms. [Gr.]

Externally on a small spot of the abdomen, transient twitches, like a dull thrust (at once). [Gr.]

240. Dull pain, as from a thrust, in the middle of the abdomen, below the navel. [Gr.]

Dull pressure on a left short rib; with a pain as from a blow or fall, after pressing upon it. [Gr.]

Beating, like dull thrusts, on a lower true rib. [Gr.]

Moving about in the abdomen, like the burrowing of flatus. [Gr.]

Growling in the epigastrium, in the morning before breakfast (aft.  $\frac{1}{2}$  h.). [Gr.]

245. Clucking in the abdomen, in the morning before breakfast, as from a liquid, with pinching restlessness in the intestines (7th d.). [Gr.]

The flatus only passes with difficulty and sparingly, and always accompanying the stool. [Gr.]

A flatus is discharged with a sensation as if diarrhoea would ensue. [Gr.]

Short, abrupt passage of flatus, usually only with an exertion of the abdominal muscles. [Gr.]

Frequent emission of inodorous flatus. [Gr.]

250. Much emission of flatus during the day.

Constipation, even lasting for several days. [Gr.]

Constant tenesmus. [Gr.]

Frequent urging, with slight stool, which is discharged only in lumps after severe pressing, with a painful sensation of weakness, and a feeling of turgidity in the abdominal muscles. [Gr.]

Ineffectual call to stool. [Gr.]

255. The stool is difficult, with much colic, burning and protrusion of the varices of the anus.

Hardened stool, as if burned, with slight urging before and after. [Gr.]

Scanty evacuation of a tough stool, cohering like clay, after long pressure and straining of the abdominal muscles (aft. 2 h.). [Gr.]

Pappy stool in the morning, half digested and somewhat bloody, then increased tension in the left hypochondrium and in the sacrum.

Pappy stool, in the evening, with discharge of ascarides.

260. With urging to stool, a piece of a tape-worm is passed.

Stool every two days, with much pressing and at times with blood.

Stool rather thin, with slight straining in the anus before and afterward. [Gr.]

Stool thinner than usual, passing quickly and violently. [Gr.]

Forcible, noisy expulsion of stool, after dinner, first thin, then firm, with more intense urging, in pieces which must be squeezed out singly, so dry as to be almost friable; after the passage shaking and shuddering especially in the trunk, and after rising, slight pain and sensation of weakness about the umbilicus. [Gr.]

265. Even when the stool is not hard, severe straining and then every time, a violent stitch in the anus, with subsequent spasmodic contraction of the nates, extending toward the sacrum; she has to stop pressing, owing to the pain. [Gr.]

After the passage of a stool and of urine, he shakes with a shudder in the head, chest and arms (aft. 2 h.). [Gr.]

Much discharge of blood from the anus.

Crawling tenesmus in the anus, as from diarrhœa, every evening before going to sleep, about the same time. [Gr.]

Crawling and itching in the anus, in the evening, as from ascarides, for three weeks. [Gr.]

270. Burning in the rectum, during stool, and then intense itching there.

Severe dull stitches, anteriorly in the rectum, so that she feels like screaming. [Gr.]

Transient sensation as from diarrhœa, up the rectum; it goes off after the emission of flatus. [Gr.]

Violent pressing in the rectum, without stool. [Gr.]

The urine flows slowly, but he must urinate frequently.

275. Pale-yellow urine, in the morning; in the afternoon, clear as water. [Gr.]

Very red urine, with white clouds.

The urine becomes turbid and colors the sides of the vessel red.

By the side of the parts, an erosive gnawing, as if rubbed open. [Gr.]

On the scrotum, frequently an erosive gnawing, as if rubbed open, so that he has often to change its position; even while lying in bed; for many days. [Gr.]

280. Erections toward morning. [Gr.]

Constant erections in sleep, with amorous dreams (aft. 6 d.). [Gr.]

Constant nocturnal erections, without emission of semen, and without lewd dreams. [Gr.]

Coitus with very little enjoyment, and very brief.

In both the groins, a painful drawing, as if the menses would set in. [Gr.]

285. Pressure in the hypogastrium, with qualmishness, as before the appearance of the menses. [Gr.]

Painful pressing down toward the sexual parts, as for the menses, at times with tenesmus, drawing through the groins above the hips to the sacrum, where there is a long-continued pain. [Gr.]

Painful sensitiveness and constant pressure on the mons veneris and in the sexual parts, with internal, almost continuous shuddering chill, and a coldness, sensible externally (except in the face.). [Gr.]

In the indurated uterus, cramp and shooting.

In the evening in bed, the urging for the menses disappears at once, but it returns again in the morning, immediately after rising. [Gr.]

290. Cutting in the hypogastrium, as for the menses, with drawing headache (at once). [Gr.]

On the second day of the menses, colic, then pressing-down in the groins, alternating with pressure in the sexual parts, with increased congestion of blood and discharge of blood [Gr.]

With a copious flow of the menses, urging in the hypogastrium, with ill-humor.

Menses too early by six days, attended with diarrhœa.

Menses too early by fourteen days and very copious. [Gr.]

295. The menses, suppressed for months, reappear after eleven days.

Menses too early by six days (at once in the evening), lasting eight days, with drawing pain in the abdomen on the first day. [Gr.]

On the first day of the menses, discharge of much coagulated blood.

Voluptuous crawling in the sexual parts and on the abdomen, with anxious oppression and palpitation; then painless pressure below in the sexual parts, with languor, and stitches in the sciniput. [Gr.]

Leucorrhœa, like the white of eggs, without any sensation; only by day, at times after micturition, at times after rising from a seat.

* * * * *

300. Tingling in the nose, with ineffectual incitation to sneezing and with lachrymation; he must rub it. [Gr.]

Stuffed coryza in one nostril; then, while walking in the open air, fluent coryza with sneezing; then in the same way, stoppage in the other nostril, followed by fluent coryza. [Gr.]

More secretion of mucus in the nose. [Gr.]

Sudden arrest of breathing in the throat, as when walking against a sharp wind. [Gr.]

Oppression of breathing, with a warm rising from the scrobiculus cordis to the pit of the throat; she has to breathe deeply; attended with a hoarse voice which goes off again after the oppression. [Gr.]

305. Great oppression and anxiety in the chest, with frequent warm rising from the scrobiculus cordis into the pit of the throat. [Gr.]

Weakness of the chest, as if the breath would give out, she breathes deeply, but cannot breathe deeply enough, because impeded by the weakness of the respiratory organs. [Gr.]

Lack of breath, on taking a short walk. [Gr.]

Deep breathing, from a sensation as if a load lay on the chest. [Gr.]

Frequent deep breathing, without anxiety or oppression of the chest. [Gr.]

310. Asthma, as if she was laced too tight, with difficult, slow respiration. [Gr.]
 Pressive pain in the chest, as after straining in lifting. [Gr.]
 Cramp-like pain in the left side of the chest, gently increasing and decreasing. [Gr.]
 Dull thrusting pressure in the left half of the chest, partly under the axilla, partly in the middle of the chest, unaffected by the respiration (aft. 3 h. and on 8th d.). [Gr.]
 Intermitting cramp-like pressure in the chest, below the right clavicle. [Gr.]
315. Dull thrusts on a costal cartilage on the left side near the lower part of the sternum. [Gr.]
 Cutting thrusts upward, in the right half of the chest. [Gr.]
 Dull pressure on a small spot of the upper part of the chest. [Gr.]
 Dull, painful stitch, frequently in the right side of the chest, especially on inspiring (aft. 5 h.). [Gr.]
 Sudden stitch in the left side of the chest, below the top of the shoulder, so that he started up. [Gr.]
320. Burning between two of the left ribs, on the chest, at rhythmical intervals. [Gr.]
 Burning and shooting in the lower part of the heart.
 Twitching pricking on a spot on the right side of the chest, recurring after scratching. [Gr.]
 Sensation in the chest of fasting, as after rising too early; this lasts long after rising, and is gradually aggravated, with nausea; it goes off about noon. [Gr.]
 In the coccyx, sensation of numbness, as after a blow, while sitting. [Gr.]
325. Cramp-like pain in the sacrum; when pressing on it, a contusive pain. [Gr.]
 Pain in the sacrum, as if it was broken, especially sensible on bending backward. [Gr.]
 Pain in the back and sacrum as if broken, after walking for one hour. [Gr.]
 Dull pressure as from a peg, on the right side, beside the middle of the spine; when pressing on it, a pain as in a sore wound, long-continuing. [Gr.]
 Dull pressure and slowly intermitting dull thrusts in the middle and in the left side of the back. [Gr.]
330. Excoriative shooting on the right half of the back, as from needles (7th d.). [Gr.]
 Sensation on the left side of the back, as if it was rubbed open, while sitting, with burning, dull, intermitting stitches. [Gr.]
 In the right scapula, jerking drawing through the whole of the arm, extending into the hand. [Gr.]
 Intermitting sensation of pressive soreness, on the outer border of the right scapula (aft.  $\frac{3}{4}$  h.). [Gr.]
 Pressure with sensation of coolness on the lower end of the left scapula. [Gr.]
335. Pain as from a blow on the top of the left shoulder, beginning weak, gradually increasing and as gradually decreasing. [Gr.]

Pressive pain on the top of the right shoulder, as if he had carried a heavy load upon it.

Weakness of the nape, the head sinks forward.

Weakness in the nape, as if she could not hold up her neck. [Gr.]

Sensation in the nape of a tensive numbness, close to the occiput, as if there was a ligature (aft. 3 h.). [Gr.]

340. Cramp in the posterior cervical muscles as from a hard couch, worse on moving. [Gr.]

Cramp-like pain on the side of the neck, on turning it toward the shoulder. [Gr.]

In the goiter, a slight tickling and aching, especially on touching it (at once). [Gr.]

In the top of the shoulder, great weakness.

Cramp-like pain, just beside the top of the shoulder, as also in the chest, as if everything was tightly constricted. [Gr.]

345. Sharp stitches in the top of the shoulder, so that his arm twitches, and he almost had to let it sink down. [Gr.]

Relaxation of both arms as if she had held something heavy, relieved by moving them to and fro, but at once recurring while at rest, with drawing as if by a thread, extending from the top of the shoulder into the hand. [Gr.]

Pain of the arms as if bruised and shattered.

Sudden paralysis, as after a blow, on a small spot, now on the right, now on the left arm. [Gr.]

Heaviness in the arms.

350. As if paralyzed in the left arm, so that she inclined to let it sink down, much worse on resting her arm on the chair in sitting; also in merely resting the shoulder against it. [Gr.]

Weariness and weakness of the left arm, with drawing in it. [Gr.]

Burning in the right arm from the top of the shoulder into the wrist. [Gr.]

In the upper arm, a dull pain as from a blow, most sensible on moving and stretching it. [Gr.]

A small, painless blue spot on the left upper arm, which soon becomes smaller and dark-red. [Gr.]

355. On the elbow, erosive burning, as if scraped or rubbed with a woollen cloth. [Gr.]

Pain in the right elbow, seemingly in the periosteum. [Gr.]

Pain just above the elbow-joint, as from a contusion or a blow, with an undulating increase and decrease (aft. 10 m.). [Gr.]

Cramp-like pain in the fore-arm, on resting the elbow on something. [Gr.]

Twitching pain in the shaft of the left radius in the tendon, close to the wrist-joint, in every position, in paroxysms. [Gr.]

360. Paralytic sensation in the right fore-arm, drawing from above downward. [Gr.]

Pain in the right fore-arm, while the fingers are drawn inward on straightening the arm. [Gr.]

Undulating, beating pain, on single spots of the bones of the fore-arm and the legs. [Gr.]

Cramp-like sensation of rigidity in the left fore-arm and the hand. [Gr.]

Cramp-like, intermitting pressure on the flexing side of the left fore-arm. [Gr.]

365. In the hand, sensation as from ants, or as from a breath of cool air. [Gr.]

Cramp in the hand, on exerting it. [Gr.]

Twitching cramp in the metacarpal bone of the thumb and in its joint, more violent when strongly moving it. [Gr.]

Trembling of the hand and the finger, on holding it out.

[Gr.]

Cramp-like pain in the hand, behind the first two fingers.

[Gr.]

370. Cramp-like pain in the ball of the left hand. [Gr.]

Cramp-like pain in the hands and fingers, especially in the joints, chiefly on firmly grasping anything. [Gr.]

Cramp-like, rhythmical twitches, just below the exterior knuckle of the hand. [Gr.]

Burning fine stitches in the metacarpal joint of the index; recurring soon after the scratching to which it compels. [Gr.]

Itching and corroding on the right wrist, so that he cannot scratch enough. [Gr.]

375. Itching pricking on the dorsa of the hands, going off after scratching. [Gr.]

Burning pricking as of nettles, inciting to violent scratching.

[Gr.]

Cramp-like drawing in the right hand and index, by jerks.

[Gr.]

The fingers are drawn crooked, with painful drawing up the arm, when bending the arm downward. [Gr.]

Acute sensation of numbness and trembling of the right thumb, in the morning, as from contusion. [Gr.]

380. Numbness of the little finger, for a considerable time. [Gr.]

Pain in the last phalanx of the index, as if a felon would break open. [Gr.]

Itching (griping) in the left index, forcing him to scratch.

[Gr.]

Formication on the inner side of the right thumb. [Gr.]

In the hip, right above the joint, a squeezing, tensive pain, as after a blow, increasing and decreasing in paroxysms. [Gr.]

385. In the lower limbs, muscular twitching, after a short walk, chiefly in the legs. [Gr.]

Tendency to bare his lower limbs by night, although he does not feel too warm. [Gr.]

Formication as from going to sleep in the lower limbs, when they are crossed, while sitting. [Gr.]

The thighs are painful as if broken, while the lower limbs are stretched out; with an undulating cramp-like darting through them, when drawing up the legs. [Gr.]

Sensation of weakness, with tremulous restlessness in the

- thighs, especially toward the knees, as after fatigue from walking; only while sitting. [Gr.]
390. Sensation of weakness in the thighs (and the whole of the lower limbs), as if bruised, with tremulous restlessness in them, while sitting and standing (aft. 2 h.). [Gr.]
 Straining of the thighs while sitting, as if bandaged too tightly, with sensation of weakness in them. [Gr.]
 Cramp-like pain in pulsating paroxysms in the middle of the thigh, while sitting down. [Gr.]
 Cramp-like sensation of numbness, as after a blow, on the anterior surface of the right thigh. [Gr.]
 Cramp-like pain on the posterior side of the thigh, while sitting. [Gr.]
395. Cramp-like pain on the inner side of the right thigh. [Gr.]
 Bruised pain of the thighs. [Gr.]
 Bruised pain in the middle of the thighs, more when sitting than when walking. [Gr.]
 Drawing on the upper part of the left thigh; on treading, this is so violent that her limb gives way. [Gr.]
 Jerking drawing in the thighs, above the knees. [Gr.]
400. Drawing and tearing toward both the thighs from the middle of the groin, much aggravated by touching, as well as by inspiration. [Gr.]
 Dull pain, as after a fall, on the upper part of the left thigh, while sitting (6th d.). [Gr.]
 In the knee, first drawing, then burning, and while treading, there is a sprained pain. [Gr.]
 Burning pricking on the right knee. [Gr.]
 Violent tension in the left hough, after walking quickly in the open air. [Gr.]
405. Dull pressure on the inner side of the left hough, while sitting with drawn up legs. [Gr.]
Pain as after a severe blow, in the left knee. [Gr.]
 Contusive pain above the knee, on the left side. [Gr.]
 Tremulous sensation of numbness, as if tied too tight, in the knees, extending to the foot. [Gr.]
 Sensation of numbness and weakness, like a dull pressure on the inner side of the left hough, while sitting. [Gr.]
410. Sensation of great weakness in the knee-joints and around them, more when standing than when sitting, with vacillation. [Gr.]
 Weakness in the knee-joints, even so that they give way, more when standing than while walking, worst when going up-stairs. [Gr.]
 Sensation of weakness in the knees, when walking; also in the thighs, when sitting, as after fatigue by walking. [Gr.]
 Painful sensation of weakness, just below the knee, when treading, in walking. [Gr.]
 In the legs below the knee, painful weariness, while sitting. [Gr.]
415. Excoriative pulsation in the middle of the right leg, on the anterior surface. [Gr.]

Cramp-like jerks down the legs, with sensation of rigidity, also in the feet, while sitting, especially in the evening. [Gr.]

Acute blows down along the tibiæ. [Gr.]

Tremulous formicating restlessness in the legs, while sitting, with sensation of numbness and rigidity, especially aggravated in the evening and also in bed. [Gr.]

Weariness of the legs, after a short walk, with oppression of the breath, more in the beginning of walking than later; at last nausea. [Gr.]

420. Cramp-like drawing through the right calf, on sitting down after a short walk. [Gr.]

Straining and beating in the right calf, so that the foot trembles, while sitting. [Gr.]

The feet are weary, with a sensation of swelling about the ankles; when sitting, the weariness extends with turgidity even into the calves, in the evening. [Gr.]

Pain in the ankle-joint, as from a misstep. [Gr.]

Sensation of numbness and weariness in the feet, as after a strain in standing, only while sitting. [Gr.]

425. Painful tearing on the dorsum of the left foot, with dull cutting right across the same. [Gr.]

Tensive pain in the bend of the foot, when bending forward while standing. [Gr.]

Erosion above the ankle-joint, on the outer side. [Gr.]

Sore gnawing and erosion about the ankles, paining when touched by the dress as if raw and rubbed open. [Gr.]

Stinging erosion on a small spot of the sole; he must scratch. [Gr.]

430. Violent stitch above the ankle-joint, not alleviated by scratching. [Gr.]

Shooting in the balls of both the feet, in the evening after lying down, till midnight. [Gr.]

Painful pulling on the sole of the right foot while standing, and a formicating pressure under the same, while sitting. [Gr.]

Hard pressure on the bottom of the sole of the right foot, near the toes. [Gr.]

Cramp-like pain in the metatarsal bone of the right foot. [Gr.]

435. Cramp-like drawing in the right heel. [Gr.]

Tremulous pain on a spot on the dorsum of the foot, as from an external pressure. [Gr.]

In the big toe, pain as if it was bandaged too tight. [Gr.]

Cramp-like burning tension in the left big toe. [Gr.]

Cramp-like drawing in the toes, especially in the big toes.

[Gr.]

440. Cramp-like beating in the left big toe, at irregular intervals.

[Gr.]

Painful beating on the bottom of the little toe. [Gr.]

Tearing with picking, as in an ulcer, in the right toes, especially in the big toe. [Gr.]

Smarting itching on the bottom of the big toe. [Gr.]

Itching formication in the right big toe, so that she would like to always scratch. [Gr.]

445. Burning, crawling shooting on the bottom of the big toe, as from many needles. [Gr.]

Sore pain in the (formerly frozen) balls of the toe, chiefly while walking. [Gr.]

Swelling of the ball of the toes, with nocturnal tearing pain. [Gr.]

Attack of nausea, while walking in the open air, especially when walking against the wind; relieved in the room, when resting the head upon the table; but when raising it again, it is intolerably aggravated, with a whirling vertigo, much aggravated when looking upward; at the same time the sight is dimmed as from smoke; when he lays down his head, there is at once a state intermediate between sleeping and waking, with vivid dreams; on raising the head, everything disappeared. [Gr.]

Pressive drawing pain, transversely across the precordial region, rising and decreasing in paroxysms, when it also darts into the middle of the upper arm, as if it was violently seized with paralysis and numbness of the arm; the pain in the side is increased by laughing, inspiration and pressure, and at every step there is a painful concussion there. [Gr.]

450. Burning in the limbs, now here, now there. [Gr.]

Drawing in various parts of the body in succession, now in the side of the chest, now in the occiput, then in the abdomen, the shoulders, etc. [Gr.]

Transient stitches all through the body.

Itching erosion, smarting pricking and burning tickling, here and there, especially in the arms, the hands and the scrotum, so that he cannot scratch enough, aggravated in the evening, when he gets into his bed. [Gr.]

Burning pricking, here and there on the body, quickly disappearing of itself (aft.  $1\frac{1}{2}$  h.). [Gr.]

455. Itching smarting all over the body, as if from vermin, not removed by scratching. [Gr.]

Pricking, now burning, now itching here and there, compelling him to scratch (aft.  $\frac{1}{2}$  h.). [Gr.]

Aggravation of the symptoms in the evening, before going to bed.

Painful sensation of numbness, as from a blow, here and there, especially on the head, always in small spots. [Gr.]

Contractive pain, here and there, however quickly going off. [Gr.]

460. Cramp-like twitching, here and there, in the limbs, like beating jerks. [Gr.]

Transient, cramp-like drawing here and there, as from colds. [Gr.]

The places seized by the cramp, when pressed upon, showed contusive pain. [Gr.]

Painful tremulousness of the whole body, with throbbing in the arteries.

Occasional sensation of trembling all through the body. [Gr.]

465. At first, sensation of trembling in the hands and feet, then chilliness and violent trembling of the whole of the body, as in the most severe shaking chill, with chattering of the teeth; the face at the same time is warm, the hands cold. [Gr.]
 Tired, languid, exhausted. [Gr.]
 Weariness in the whole body, she is ready to fall over, and totters while standing. [Gr.]
 Sensation of great weariness, all over the body, as if she had slept too little. [Gr.]
 Weariness from the open air, disposition to sleep. [Gr.]
470. Staggering while standing, as if his legs had no firmness (aft. 2 h.). [Gr.]
 Weakness, especially while sitting, the feet feel tired out, full of tremulous unrest. [Gr.]
 Lassitude, with a sensation in the face as if a cold sweat would break out. [Gr.]
 Extreme exhaustion and drowsiness, at once after dinner. [Gr.]
Great inclination to violent, almost spasmodic yawning. [Gr.]
475. Yawning in the afternoon, without drowsiness. [Gr.]
 Frequent yawning in the afternoon, so violent that her eyes water. [Gr.]
 Violent yawning, after meals, so that her cervical muscles ache from it. [Gr.]
 She has to extend and stretch herself, which feels very pleasant, in the afternoon. [Gr.]
 Unusual exhaustion and drowsiness, in the evening. [Gr.]
480. In the evening she is very sleepy, she falls asleep while talking. [Gr.]
 Great drowsiness in the evening; as soon as she closes the eyes she dreams of far off, foreign things, but at once wakes up over them. [Gr.]
 In the evening, great sleepiness; she goes to sleep over her reading and repeatedly awakes from her sleep, asking: What? because she indistinctly heard the talk of those around her; at night she sleeps soundly, without awaking from noise. [Gr.]
 Starting up, in the evening, after falling asleep while sitting. [Gr.]
 Late in falling asleep, not till after midnight, with tearing in the ball of the toes. [Gr.]
485. He cannot go to sleep before midnight, the sleep then is short, with constant dreams.
At night she wakes up as if stupefied, and it is long before she can gather her thoughts.
 She awakes at night as if dazed, and cannot think at all, where she is and what time it is. [Gr.]
 Waking up at midnight, with ideas which he cannot get rid of, and which he anxiously holds fast; no sleep till morning. [Gr.]
 He awakes about midnight, tosses about, and does not find any position to suit him. [Gr.]

490. He awakes about midnight with melancholy thoughts, and with intense thirst, but goes to sleep again in an hour. [Gr.]

Anxious dreams, and when he quickly wakes up, gloomy thoughts and troubled images before his fancy.

Anxious confused dreams of war and bloodshed. [Gr.]

She dreams about the death of her distant sister, and is astonished, that she had no foreboding about it. [Gr.]

Dreams which are not remembered. [Gr.]

495. Incoherent dreams in the evening, when dropping off into a slumber.

Dreams about a conflagration, she cannot get ready with her preparation to go there. [Gr.]

Even in his noonday-nap, he dreams confusedly of ordinary matters, and on awaking, he cannot at once recollect what he dreamt. [Gr.]

Sleeplessness after 3 A. M., no position suits him. [Gr.]

She wakes up at 3 A. M., without any pains, and she soon goes to sleep again, for several nights. [Gr.]

500. He awakes in the morning very peevish and anxious, as if something evil had happened to him in his sleep, and as if he had wept much. [Gr.]

Sound sleep, with pleasant, well-remembered dreams. [Gr.]

After a long, sound sleep, there is, nevertheless, drowsiness in the morning. [Gr.]

Unusual long sleep in the morning. [Gr.]

In the morning, on awaking, he lies with out-stretched lower limbs, or with thighs closely drawn up and knees wide apart, with one or both hands above the head, and always upon his back, with a great tendency to bare his thighs and constant erections. [Gr.]

505. In the morning on awaking he lies with out-stretched lower limbs, with the right hand under his head, the left hand on the bare pit of the stomach, with a tendency to bare the thighs and the body, but without any heat. [Gr.]

At night, restlessness in the abdomen, as from a cold. [Gr.]

At night, burning pain in the toes. [Gr.]

In the morning on rising, yawning, though he had a long and refreshing sleep. [Gr.]

At night after rising, cramp and bending of the soles of the feet. [Gr.]

510. At night, intense itching all over the body.

Chill, in the evening while undressing, with chattering of the teeth.

Chill in the evening before going to sleep, also in bed there is still some coldness; attended with restless sleep and frequent awaking with anxiety, a tremulous sensation through the whole of the body, nausea and headache. [Gr.]

Constant sensation as if he would feel cold, with frequent shuddering passing down the lower limbs, especially in the open air, though this is warm. [Gr.]

A shaking chill all over the body, even down to the feet. [Gr.]

515. A chill runs over his back. [Gr.]
 Trembling from a chill, in the evening. [Gr.]
 Constant sensation of shuddering through the body, especially through the lower limbs. [Gr.]
 Repeated chilliness from above downward over the arms and the whole body, as if from incipient goose-skin. [Gr.]
 A febrile shudder after yawning, runs through the whole body. [Gr.]
520. A shaking chill runs over her, on coming into the open air from her room. [Gr.]
 Sudden shuddering in the head, chest and arms, after entering into a moderately warm room. [Gr.]
 Chilliness in the forenoon, with drowsiness. [Gr.]
 Chilliness and shuddering, alternating with flying heat, with peevish taciturnity, in the open air; later, an agreeable warmth all through the body, with return of cheerfulness. [Gr.]
 She suddenly feels quite hot, and she imagines that she looks very red, though she had only her usual color.
525. Repeated thirst for water and repeated drinking. [Gr.]
 Thirst, immediately after supper, so that she drinks very much at one time, which appeased the thirst. [Gr.]
 Perspiration during the sleep. [Gr.]

SARSAPARILLA. SASSAPARILLA.

When Syphilis was being cured by immoderate doses of Mercury (even 300 years ago), the long, thin root of Smilax Sarsaparilla was casually discovered by the common people in South America to be of great use in the great derangement of health resulting thence. This has since been imitated in Europe in similar cases, but it is always ordered by the physicians in a boiled form. It was, therefore, necessary, in order to get an effective medicine, frequently to use an ounce and more of this expensive root every day, an expense which only rich patients could afford; especially, when the treatment had to be continued for years, as was sometimes the case. It was, as may be seen, not perceived, even in the course of several centuries, that the root, which in itself is very strong, loses almost all its effective parts by boiling. It was therefore no great loss for the patient, when the apothecary mixed in or substituted for the very expensive sarsaparilla root, the similar long and thin roots of the sea-zeed-grass (Carex arenaria) which had no medicinal virtues at all, drawing an immense profit from the transaction. For a long time even the physicians supposed that the root of the Carex arenaria might with propriety be substituted for the sarsaparilla, because it also was a long, thin root, and probably of similar virtues. This was an arbitrary action of the fabricators of the common Materia Medica, having no foundation in fact, as they also decreed, that the bark of Salix and of Æsculus hippocastanum was of like medicinal virtue as the cinchona bark.

The truth is, that the genuine sarsaparilla, especially the brown kind which grows on Hayti (San Domingo), is a drug which is very powerful even in a small dose; but it must be given to the patient in some other form, and not as a decoction, as it thereby, as before mentioned, loses nearly all its virtue.

Homœopathy only uses the most genuine medicines (it needs but a small quantity of each), and it uses them in their most effective form.

The tinctures drawn out with alcohol from all the dry drugs, do not contain all of their medicinal virtues. I have become convinced of this by experience now for several years.

We therefore scrape off one grain of the bark from a small piece of good sarsaparilla root which has not been kept on hand too long; the same is triturated for homœopathic use with ninety-nine grains of sugar of milk to the hundred fold powder-attenuation, and so on to the millionth powder-attenuation; one grain of this in solution is then potentized further, as taught at the end of the first part of this work.

In cases where Sarsaparilla was homœopathically indicated, it also removed the following ailments, if they happened to be present:

Nauseas, blood with the stool; cold feet before going to sleep; perspiration on the forehead, in the evening in bed; stuffed coryza of many years standing; bruised weariness of the hands and the feet.

Smelling of Camphor is an antidote; Vinegar seems to aggravate the ailments in the beginning.

The abbreviations are Br., Brunner; Htm, Hartmann; Hrm., Hermann; Ng., Anonymous; Tth., Teuthorn; Sr., Dr. Schréter.<sup>1</sup>

SARSAPARILLA.

Dejected.

Lachrymose, and very ill-humored, in the forenoon.

The soul is extraordinarily affected by the pains, the spirit is oppressed, the mind troubled; he feels unhappy and groans involuntarily.

<sup>1</sup> In the Mat. Med. Pura (vol. iv) Sarsaparilla has thirty-four symptoms from Hahnemann and one hundred and eleven from four others. Nennig then proved it (in his usual manner) for Hartlaub und Trinks' Arzneimittellehre, the second volume of which contains three hundred and forty-seven symptoms from him. In the present pathogenesis these are incorporated, together with some new symptoms from Schréter.—Hughes.

- Sad and dejected; engrossed in himself. [Ng.]
5. Great anxiety, first in the head, then in the whole body, with trembling chiefly in the feet. [Ng.]
 Inactive, languid, indisposed to work, awkward.
 Indisposed to work, sullen and hot in the face (at once).
 Sullen, without disposition to work. [Tth.]
 Sullen, but disposed to work. [Htm.]
10. Taciturn peevishness. [Hrm.]
 Very ill-humored, in the morning, with heaviness in the head. [Ng.]
 Very bad humor, all the day. [Ng.]
 Disgusted with everything, she has no pleasure in anything, only in the forenoon. [Ng.]
 Extremely peevish, the fly on the wall vexes him.
15. Very much vexed and cannot forget vexatious matters.
 Readily insulted by a word. [Htm.]
 Very changeable mood, every two or three days. [Ng.]
 More bright and cheerful than usual (1st, 2d d.).
 Very good-humored, merry and joking all day long. [Ng.]
20. Disposed to work, in the afternoon. [Sr.]
 More bright and cheerful than at other times (1st, 2d d.). [Sr.]
 Absent-mindedness.
 Inability to do mental work (at once).
 Obscuration in the head, attended with flatulence.
25. Stupid feeling and heaviness in the head, at times, as if the temples were being pressed together. [Ng.]
 Heaviness in the left temple. [Sr.]
 The head feels somewhat heavy in the left temple, till noon. [Sr.]
 Heaviness in the head with tension in the right side of the neck, especially on moving the head. [Ng.]
 Muddled feeling in the head when sitting for a while, with a mist before the eyes, bruised sensation in the limbs, stuffing of the nose and troubled mind. [Sr.]
30. The muddled feeling in the head always passed away toward evening. [Sr.]
 Dull and muddled in the head, all the forenoon, in the afternoon peevish and ill-humored.
 Weakness in the head, as after a fever, with stupefaction.
 Vertigo; standing by the window, he suddenly fell unconscious, backward to the ground; his throat also was swollen, there was sour eructation before and afterward, the chest felt oppressed, and in the following night, profuse perspiration.
 Vertigo frequently, all the forenoon. [Ng.]
35. Vertigo and staggering, as if intoxicated. [Ng.]
 Vertigo with nausea, in the morning when looking for a long time at an object. [Ng.]
 Vertigo while sitting and walking; the head inclines to sink forward. [Hrm.]
 Headache, as from the pressure of a heavy load in the head which tends to sink forward. [Hrm.]

Pressure in the left side of the forehead.

40. Pressure in the forehead and the occiput. [Htm.]
 Pressure on the left side of the head, especially in the temple, both when at rest and in motion. [Htm.]
 Pressive pain, more in the upper part of the head, slowly increasing and decreasing. [Htm.]
 Squeezing, pressing pain in the forehead. [Htm.]
 Pressure and itching deep within the right half of the head, in the morning. [Ng.]
45. Pressure and sensation of heaviness about the whole forehead, in the forenoon, and after dinner. [Ng.]
Pressure with frequent stitches in the left side of the head, in the morning. [Ng.]
 Pressure in the right frontal eminence, with fine stitches, slowly augmenting. [Htm.]
 Severe pressure in the right temple, with drawing stitches from the occiput toward the forehead. [Htm.]
 Violent pressure and stitches on the vertex, on the right side. [Hrm.]
50. Violent pressure, and then shooting in the left frontal eminence. [Htm.]
 Pressive, shooting pain on the temporal bone, aggravated by touching. [Hrm.]
 Dull headache, as if the head was bandaged or in a vise. [Ng.]
 The head feels as if screwed together in both sides of the head, after breakfast. [Ng.]
 Spasmodic, on-sided headache, beginning with flickering before the eyes, while everything turns black; he is at the same time as if unconscious, has to lie down and cannot speak, as every word resounds in the head.
55. Tearing in the whole frontal region, at times also deep in the brain, only when walking and talking. [Ng.]
 Pressive tearing in the whole of the left side of the head. [Htm.]
 Shooting tearing in the left side of the crown. [Hrm.]
 Shooting tearing on the parietal bone. [Hrm.]
 Shooting pain on the left side of the occiput. [Htm.]
60. Shooting, extending from the right temple into the lower teeth. [Ng.]
 Dull shooting in the left side of the head, extending to the neck.
 Violent shooting in the forehead, going off in the open air. [Ng.]
 Lively, fine stitches in the middle of the forehead. [Htm.]
 Penetrating stitches in the left frontal eminence, in the evening. [Ng.]
65. A penetrating, frightening stitch in the right temple. [Ng.]
 Shooting, now in the head, now in an ear. [Ng.]
 Violent, pressive tearing stitches in the right side of the head, so severe as to cause him to shudder. [Htm.]

- Throbbing headache in the evening; at night more severe, with violent nausea and sour vomiting.
- Throbbing in the right frontal region, when walking in the open air. [Ng.]
70. Beating in the head, till toward noon. [Ng.]
Severe throbbing in the right side of the head, deep in the brain. [Ng.]
Buzzing in the head, toward noon. [Ng.]
Fluttering and ebullition in the head. [Ng.]
Very warm in the head, during dinner, with sweat on the forehead. [Ng.]
75. External pain of the head, like pressure and cutting.
Pressive tearing on the head, here and there, aggravated by motion and walking. [Hrm.]
Pressive drawing on the right temporal bone and the cartilage of the ear. [Hrm.]
Shooting drawing, extending from the right mastoid process to the left frontal eminence. [Hrm.]
Shooting drawing on the right parietal and temporal bones. [Hrm.]
80. Dull shooting on the left temporal eminence. [Hrm.]
Pulsating shooting on the forehead.
Burning dull stitches on the left temporal bone. [Hrm.]
Pulling on the right side of the occiput. [Ng.]
The pains in the head are aggravated when it is touched and in walking. [Hrm.]
85. Falling out of the hair with great sensitiveness of the scalp, when combing it. [Ng.]
Itching behind the hairy scalp.
Pain in the eyes, when he looks at anything by daylight.
In the morning all objects affect the eyes.
Pressure in the pupil in the evening, when reading by candle-light, while the paper has a red sheen.
90. Pressure in the left eye, as from a grain of sand. [Ng.]
Pressure in the left eye, then also in the right eye, with dim-sightedness. [Ng.]
Shooting frequently in both eyes, as if there was dust or sand in them, it seems to be better in the open air. [Ng.]
Shooting in the eye, when closing the lids, and severe pain when pressing on the closed eyes; at the same time, a broad red streak from the cornea toward the outer canthus; the inner canthi look blue, and the right canthus is somewhat swollen. [Ng.]
Constant burning in the eyelids, at times alternating with pressive pain therein.
95. Violent burning and agglutination of the eyes, in the morning on awaking. [Ng.]
Inflamed dry eyelids.
Lachrymation, every other day. [Ng.]
Lachrymation by day; in the morning the eyes are glued together (4th d.). [Ng.]
Quivering in the right upper eyelid.
100. The pupils are dilated (aft. 2 h.). [Th.]

- Dim-sightedness, as in a fog (1st d.). [Ng.]
 A fog before the eyes; he finds it hard to read. [Hrm.]
 Constant fog before his eyes (2d d.). [Ng.]
 Great dimness of the left eye, as if there was a gauze over it.
 [Ng.]
105. In the ear, a violent pressing and squeezing, extending into the temple, where there is a pressure. [Htm.]
 Contractive sensation in the right ear. [Htm.]
 Painful contraction on the external right ear. [Htm.]
 Tearing in the right ear, in the morning (4th d.). [Ng.]
 Pressive tearing in the cartilage of the right ear and the external meatus auditorius. [Hrm.]
110. Ulcerative pain deep in the left ear and about its anterior part. [Ng.]
 Violent dull shooting, deep in the right ear. [Ng.]
 Dull shooting on the root of the right mastoid process, ceasing on touching it. [Hrm.]
 Violent itching in the outer left meatus auditorius, in the morning, not relieved by scratching. [Ng.]
 Drawing and visible pulling in the lobule of the ears. [Ng.]
115. Scurf on the lobule of the ear, first with burning pain, then itching.
 Tearing upward behind the left ear, frequently in the afternoon. [Ng.]
 Shooting below and before the left ear, in the morning (6th d.). [Ng.]
 Tingling in the left ear. [Htm.]
 Ringing in the left ear, for some time (6th d.). [Ng.]
120. Inflammation and swelling of a gland under the right ear, which then passes into suppuration. [Ng.]
 In the tip of the nose, pricking as from a needle.
 Itching eruption under the nose, as from an acrid discharge.
 Itching on the left side of the nose and about the eyes.
 Itching eruption under the nose.
125. Eruption in the left nostril, a sore nose.
 Bleeding of the nose, with a sensation as if little blisters in it cracked open. [Ng.]
 Bleeding from the right nostril.
 Bleeding of the nose. [BRUNNER, in Rahn's Magazin I.]<sup>1</sup>
 Heat in the face, transient, with perspiration of the forehead and with heat on the chest and on the back, combined with needle-pricks from within outward, most frequent and severe on the neck. [Hrm.]
130. Drawing shooting tearing in the right masseter muscles, which seem to have contracted spasmodically. [Htm.]
 Stiffness and tension in the chewing muscles and in the articulation of the jaws, on moving those parts. [Ng.]
 Pain in the face, as if beaten black and blue, on the lower border of both the orbits, in the morning on awaking, but only when pressing on them. [Ng.]
 Fine stinging itching in the face and on the hairy scalp, as

<sup>1</sup> Not accessible.—Hughes.

- also about the neck and the shoulders, with sensation of great warmth in those parts; after scratching it begins right away in another part. [Hrm.]
- Pale red, rough spots, slightly elevated, on the forehead, as large as lentils, without itching. [Sr.]
135. Itching pimples on the cheek, which become inflamed all around, with intense burning; it formed a thick, large scurf, with tearing pains in the open air (aft. 19 d.).
- Pustules in the face, without sensation. [Hrm.]
- Pustules in the middle of the forehead. [Ng.]
- Itching pimples on the chin. [Ng.]
- Itching vesicle below the chin. [Ng.]
140. Eruptive pimples on the sides of the chin, with itching, soon forming pus in the apex.
- Clear vesicle on the right side of the lower lip. [Ng.]
- Herpes on the upper lip, with pains as from many pin-pricks. The jaws ache, as if they were broken.
- Pressive shooting pain on the lower and inner edge of the lower jaw, but only when touching it and when bending the head backward. [Hrm.]
145. Toothache, for two evenings in succession. [Ng.]
- The molars on both sides begin to ache. [Ng.]
- The right upper teeth are very sensitive when biting with them. [Ng.]
- Toothache on the right side, with crawling in the roots of the teeth; after picking the teeth till they bleed, the pain, which for a time has been violent, ceases, in the evening. [Ng.]
- Drawing toothache in the right lower row, with heaviness of the head, especially on the right side, from morning till evening. [Ng.]
150. Tearing in the teeth from a cold draught or a cold drink. [Sr.]
- Shooting in a tooth which had been painful for some time before. [Ng.]
- The gums of the right lower row are painful, when smoking tobacco. [Ng.]
- Tearing in the gums of the right lower row, in the evening. [Ng.]
- Shooting tearing in the gums and the root of the last lower molar on the right side. [Hrm.]
155. Swelling and sore pain of the gums on the inner side of the lower jaw.
- The tongue feels rough, several mornings on awaking; it passes off after eating. [Ng.]
- Stitches in the tongue.
- The tongue has a whitish coat, in the morning, while the taste is normal. [Ng.]
- Aphthæ on the tongue and on the palate. [Sr.]
160. Mouth slimy, in the morning. [Ng.]
- Constant gathering of saliva in the mouth. [Ng.]
- Dryness in the mouth, without thirst. [Ng.]

- Dryness in the mouth and throat, in the morning, in bed. [Ng.]
- Tough mucus in the throat, in the morning, cannot be loosened by hawking, for several days. [Ng.]
165. Constant hawking of mucus, in the morning; the mucus is constantly renewed. [Ng.]
- Pressive drawing pain in the soft palate. [Hrm.]
- Dryness in the throat and shooting, when swallowing, in the morning. [Ng.]
- Pain in the right side of the neck, with shooting in swallowing, as from the awn of an ear of barley, extending up on the side and passing out at the ear; it only ceases in the afternoon, after lying down. [Ng.]
- Spasmodic urging in the throat, at night. [Ng.]
170. Constrictive sensation in the throat and the chest with difficult breathing, frequently during the day. [Ng.]
- Spasmodic contraction of the throat; he has too loosen his clothes to get breath, and even this does not avail. [Ng.]
- Rough and dry in the throat, in the morning, on awaking. [Ng.]
- Roughness in the throat, frequently recurring. [Ng.]
- Roughness in the throat, every other day. [Ng.]
175. Continuous sweet taste in the mouth, for several days. [Ng.]
- Sweet taste in the mouth, while smoking tobacco. [Ng.]
- Bitter taste in the mouth, in the morning, after rising. [Ng.]
- Bitter taste on the lower lip, in the morning (8th d.). [Ng.]
- Bitter taste of bread. [Th.]
180. Bad, herby taste in the mouth.
- Metallic taste in the mouth, for two days. [Sr.]
- Flat, sweetish taste. [Sr.]
- Nasty, very sour and slimy taste in the throat, in the morning, like leaven.
- No appetite and no hunger, the food had too little taste, and he felt after the meal as if he had not eaten anything; as if the stomach lacked sensibility.
185. No appetite for breakfast (6th d.). [Ng.]
- No hunger and no appetite at noon; he ate but little (2d d.). [Ng.]
- Better appetite than usual, for several days. [Ng.]
- No appetite for smoking tobacco, its taste seemed to him totally changed. [Ng.]
- Unusual lack of thirst, while eating (1st to 4th d.). [Ng.]
190. Total lack of thirst, during the whole time. [Ng.]
- Thirst, frequently by day. [Ng.]
- Thirst, at once in the morning, with general warmth (3d d.). [Ng.]
- Thirst for water in the afternoon, after a chill in the forenoon. [Ng.]
- Constant abortive eructation. [Htm.]
195. Ineffectual efforts at eructation; with cramp like writhing in the stomach; just after dinner. [Ng.]

- Sobbing eructation, soon after taking the medicine. [Ng.]
 Repeated empty eructation, in the forenoon and evening.
 [Ng.]
 Eructation with the taste of the ingesta, after dinner. [Ng.]
 First bitter-sour, then empty eructation. [Ng.]
200. Bitter eructation in the morning after rising, with bitter taste in the mouth. [Ng.]
 Bitter eructation, during dinner. [Ng.]
 Bitter eructation after drinking and after eating soup. [Ng.]
 Constant sour eructation.
 Hiccups, in the evening, long continued. [Ng.]
205. Hiccup after dinner. [Ng.]
 Bitter-sour belching up in the evening. [Ng.]
 Bitter belching up before and after dinner. [Ng.]
 Sour belching up, in the afternoon. [Ng.]
 Feels nausea and inclination to vomit; constant heaving.
 [Ng.]
210. Great nausea, with constant ineffectual urging to vomit.
 [Ng.]
 Constant nausea, without inclination to vomit. [Ng.]
 Loathing, when thinking of the food eaten.
 Nausea in the throat, from the rising up of a disagreeable vapor into the mouth, while the head is muddled.
 Intense nausea in the morning, even to vomiting, with increased, herblike taste in the mouth.
215. Nausea and languor after dinner.
 Even when he eats ever so little, his stomach is at once distended, as if he had eaten much.
 Pressive pain in the scrobiculus cordis and just below the xiphoid cartilage, increased by touching it. [Hrm.]
 Pressure in the scrobiculus cordis, in the evening when sing-
 ing. [Ng.]
 Frequent spasmodic sensation in the scrobiculus cordis.
220. Constriction in the stomach, with nausea, it goes off at night.
 [Ng.]
 Heat in the stomach, as after spirituous liquors, after eating a bite of bread. [Ng.]
 Heat and burning in the stomach. [Ng.]
 The left hypochondriac region is painful, as if bruised, with throbbing. [Ng.]
 Shooting in the left hypochondriac region, especially when bending to the right. [Ng.]
225. Shooting in the left side of the abdomen (soon).
 Shooting below the left ribs, in the lumbar region, for two hours, unaffected by respiration. [Ng.]
 Severe shooting below the right ribs and in the abdomen, one hour after dinner. [Ng.]
 The abdomen very sensitive, when pressing upon it. [Ng.]
 Forcing constriction in the hypogastrium, passing off after the emission of flatus, in the evening and forenoon. [Ng.]
230. Contractive pain in the intestines, then violent rumbling and growling, sometimes around the navel, sometimes up toward the chest, then again downwards as if diarrhœa was setting in. [Ng.]

Frequent spasmodic sensations in the abdomen.

Colicky pains in the abdomen, in the morning (2d d.). [Ng.]

Great fullness in the abdomen, every time he eats. [Ng.]

Inflation of the abdomen. [Ng.]

235. The abdomen feels empty and void, soon after breakfast (8th d.). [Ng.]

Severe pinching in the abdomen, and then painful contraction of the sphincter ani. [Htm.]

Pinching and growling in the abdomen, after a meal, later on it passes up on the left side toward the stomach, and only removed by bending double. [Ng.]

Pinching and rumbling in the abdomen, from the afternoon till midnight, preventing the person from falling asleep. [Ng.]

Cutting in a small space about the navel, in the morning. [Ng.]

240. Cutting about the navel, with every yawn. [Ng.]

Cutting about the navel, then going about in the abdomen; it goes off after emitting flatus. [Ng.]

Cutting in a small strip of the left side of the abdomen, over against the back; then rolling in the abdomen, while the pain goes off. [Ng.]

Violent colic, in the afternoon, then frequent, half-liquid diarrhœic stools. [Ng.]

Pressive pain in the left side of the abdomen.

245. Pressive drawing in the abdomen, as after a cold. [Hrm.]

Painful inward pressure and pinching in the left side of the abdomen, in a small spot, only aggravated by deep breathing. [Htm.]

Shooting in the left side of the abdomen, in the morning, when sitting; it goes off on moving. [Ng.]

Shooting, now in the right side, now in the left side of the abdomen. [Ng.]

Burning and heat in the abdomen. [Ng.]

250. Coldness and moving about in the abdomen. [Ng.]

Going about in the abdomen with burning. [Ng.]

Rumbling in the abdomen, with sensation of emptiness therein. [Hrm.]

Rumbling and clucking in the abdomen, with sensation of emptiness therein. [Hrm.]

Loud croaking in the abdomen, as in cramps, intermitted for a time after eructation. [Ng.]

255. Going about in the abdomen all day, as if diarrhœa was setting in. [Ng.]

Growling and rolling in the abdomen, every day. [Ng.]

Emission of flatus, above and below.

Frequent emission of flatus, all day long (aft. 8 d.). [Ng.]

Emission of flatus with putrid odor, in the evening. [Ng.]

260. Emission of fetid flatus.

In the right groin, severe tension.

Pinching in the left inguinal region. [Htm.]

No stool (3d and 4th d.). [Ng.]

Call to stool, but no evacuation.

265. Intense urging to stool, with contraction of the intestines and excessive forcing downward, as if the abdominal intestines should be forced out with it, for several minutes; only then something is discharged by jerks, with severe tearing and cutting in the rectum, succeeded at once again by tenesmus, as if the rectum was being pressed out, so that he can hardly sit still for pain.

Sensation of inaction in the intestines.

Irrepressible, severe urging, and yet only a slight, soft evacuation, passing with difficulty through the rectum which seems to be contracted.

Evacuation with much urging and forcing in the rectum.

Hard stool and frequent micturition (10th d.). [Ng.]

270. Hard stool, the first day; next day, constipation; on the third day, first a hard then a soft evacuation of fæces. [Th.]

Scanty, hard stool, with cutting in the abdomen. [Ng.]

Very hard stool (2d d.). [Ng.]

Twice a firm stool (1st d.). [Ng.]

Frequent urging to stool, with slight evacuation and with subsequent tenesmus in the anus. [Ng.]

275. Pitchlike, sticky, adhesive evacuation, for several days. [Ng.]

The stool is softer than usual, with a slight pressure in the gastric region. [Sr.]

Soft, copious evacuation (1st d.). [Sr.]

Stool half-liquid, at the conclusion (9th d.). [Ng.]

Evacuation, hard in the first part, while the latter part was soft; with burning in the anus afterward. [Ng.]

280. Soft stool with tenesmus in the anus afterward (2d d.). [Ng.]

Two diarrhoic stools (4th d.). [Sr.]

Repeated diarrhoic stools, every day, with pains in the abdomen. [Ng.]

Liquid stool, in the evening, with burning in the anus afterward. [Ng.]

During the stool, in the evening, a fit of swooning.

285. During the diarrhoic stool, sensation of corroding acidity in the rectum, during the evacuation.

During the diarrhœa, rumbling and fermentation in the abdomen, with emission of fetid flatus.

Itching on the right side of the anus, going off by scratching. [Ng.]

Sore pain in the anus wakes him at night, and then passes into a burning itching, lasting all day.

Ulcer on the anus as large as a nut, with a black blister on it, quickly bursting open with pains and discharging pus.

290. Frequent urging to urinate, while there is only a slight discharge with burning. [Ng.]

Frequent urging to urinate, while only a few drops are discharged without urging; also at the termination of the menses. [Ng.]

- Frequent urging to urinate, with slight but painless emission of urine. [Ng.]
- The scanty urine discharged with frequent urging is clear and red. [Ng.]
- Tenesmus with only a slight discharge of urine. [Ng.]
295. Tenesmus of the bladder, with pressing and bearing down on the bladder, yet the urine will not come, and when it does come, it cuts.
- Almost all day there is urging to urinate, while only little is discharged.
- Severe tenesmus of the bladder, as in urinary calculus, with discharge of white, acrid, turbid matter, with mucus. [BRUNNER.]
- Urine very scanty, discharged with frequent intermission, with frequent urging and burning (4th d.). [Ng.]
- Urine and stool much delayed and very scanty (2d d.). [Ng.]
300. Only once a day there is micturition, the urine scalds as it is discharged, but the quantity is sufficient. [Ng.]
- No micturition in the forenoon; thrice in succession in the afternoon, discharge of much pale urine, then again, none. [Ng.]
- Repeated micturition (1st d.). [Ng.]
- The urine is discharged with every day more frequently and more copiously than usual, without any especial thirst. [Th.]
- More frequent and copious micturition (aft. 4 h.). [Htm]
305. Repeated discharge of pale, copious urine, which becomes turbid in standing, like clayey water (5th d.). [Ng.]
- Discharge of much watery urine, with burning in the urethra (1st and 2d d.). [Ng.]
- Pale urine, discharged in a thin, weak stream, with flakes in the urine. [Sr.]
- The frequently emitted urine deposits a cloud (6th d.). [Ng.]
- The urine becomes again more copious on the ninth day, and he has to get up also at night for it. [Ng.]
310. He has to get up two or three times at night to urinate, and discharges much more than usual, for 14 days (aft. 2 and 4 d.). [Ng.]
- He is awakened from sleep every morning by an urging to urinate. [Th.]
- The urine is discharged without sensation. [Th.]
- Pale urine in the afternoon. [Ng.]
- The deep-yellow urine deposits a thin cloud (8th d.). [Ng.]
315. Deep-colored, apparently more copious urine, during the menses (16th d.). [Ng.]
- Very scalding urine, but without burning. [Ng.]
- Red, scanty urine, in the morning. [Ng.]
- At the termination of the discharge, the urine is mixed with blood. [Sr.]
- The urine becomes turbid on standing, and deposits much clay-colored sediment for several days (aft. 48 h.). [Ng.]

- 320 The urine is turbid already when discharged, it scalds (3d d.).
 [Ng.]
 Urine turbid, at once after its discharge, like clay-water, scanty (6th d.). [Ng.]
 Scalding during micturition, with a discharge of longish flakes. [BRUNNER.]
 Scalding during micturition. [Sr.]
 Scalding in the whole urethra, at every act of micturition.
325. During micturition, scraping scratching in the whole urethra (aft. 12 h.).
 Painful constriction of the bladder, without tenesmus. [Htm.]
 After the emission of the urine, a burning and itching tearing pain from the glans to the root of the penis.
 Sharp cutting stitches in the urethra (aft. sev. h.).
 Discharge of yellow pus from the urethra, with redness and inflammation of the glans and fever (as from a wound) in the evening, with shuddering. [Sr.]
330. Insufferable fetor about the genitals.
 Herpes on the foreskin.
 The erections seem diminished. [Ng.]
 Pollution (the 1st n.).
 Painful pollutions, almost every night, with lewd dreams.
 [Sr.]
335. Inclination to coitus, for several days, with repeated emissions of semen. [Sr.]
 Menses delayed by three days, and at every complete discharge, the tenesmus of the bladder ceases. [Ng.]
 It delays the appearance of the menses by five days.
 Menses very scanty, but very acrid, with burning on the inner side of the thighs, so that she cannot put the thighs together for pain, the blood flows only occasionally. [Ng.]
 Menses too early by three days (aft. 14 d.).
340. Before the menses, for three days, an itching eruption on the forehead; on being rubbed it burns and becomes humid.
 At the appearance of the menses, the bend of the right hip becomes sore, attended with urging to urinate. [Ng.]
 The menses are attended with colicky pains.
 During the menses, griping in the scrobiculus cordis, toward the sacrum.
 Slimy, rather copious leucorrhœa, while walking. [Ng.]
 * * * * *
345. Abortive sneezing (8th d.). [Ng.]
 Sneezing in the morning, after rising. [Ng.]
 Sneezing and fluent coryza, only in the morning (2d d.).
 [Ng.]
 Stoppage of the nose, in the forenoon. [Ng.]
 Stuffed coryza without sneezing: no air passes through the nose.
350. Coryza and cough.
 The mucus from the nose is very thick. [Ng.]
 Severe coughing by day, caused by the sensation as of a tickling ulcer in the fauces.

- Dry cough, caused by roughness in the throat. [Ng.]
 Dry cough, with burning in the nose on blowing it. [Ng.]
355. Cough and headache (2d d.). [Ng.]
 During coughing, roughness in the throat, in the morning (2d d.). [Ng.]
 Breathing, hard and short, after dinner. [Ng.]
 Ill-smelling breath.
 Very asthmatic, he must often take a short breath. [Ng.]
360. Arrest of breathing, and tightness of the chest, in the evening and on the following morning. [Ng.]
 Severe arrest of breathing while working; he can hardly get air enough (4th d.). [Ng.]
 Oppression of the chest, which renders respiration difficult, in the morning. [Ng.]
 So much asthma, difficulty in breathing, and exhaustion, that he had to loosen the kerchief round his throat, for some time. [Ng.]
 Arrest of breathing, as if through a spasm, or as if from an impediment in the lungs, with constriction in the throat and great anxiety. [Ng.]
365. His chest feels generally as if in a vise, and everything is too tight, in breathing and in walking, so that he had to loosen his clothes, to get enough air. [Ng.]
 Painful constriction in the chest, often alternating with sudden expansion. [Ng.]
 Frequently catching a deep breath, after dinner. [Ng.]
 Pain, when catching a deep breath, as if something was lodged in the back.
 Pressure, frequently on the chest (2d d.). [Ng.]
370. Pressure on the chest with short breath (6th d.). [Ng.]
 Pressure and tightness on the chest, at night and in the morning. [Ng.]
 Pressure on the sternum, worse when touched. [Hrm.]
 Pressive drawing on the clavicle, beside the sternum. [Hrm.]
 Shooting in the middle of the sternum, in the morning. [Ng.]
375. Shooting in the right side of the chest, also in moving and while standing. [Ng.]
 Shooting in the left side of the chest, when walking in the open air, and at the same time in the forehead, in the morning. [Ng.]
 Violent shooting in the region of the left ribs, so that he had to bend double for pain, in the evening while sitting. [Ng.]
 Stitches in the middle of the chest, beside the sternum, unaffected by the respiration. [Hm.]
 Stitches in the right side of the chest, unaffected by the respiration. [Htm.]
380. Pressive shooting under the last true rib. [Hrm.]
 Shooting pain in the left side of the chest, on walking.
 Externally on the chest, a tensive pain, as if too short, on straightening up and walking upright (aft. 24 h.).
 The nipples are withered, insensible, without irritability.

- Itching about the nipples.
385. Frequent palpitation by day.
 Almost continuous palpitation, with some anxiety and fear.
 Pain in the sacrum, passing on both sides around the pelvis forward, toward the genitals, worst at night and when moving.
 Tensive pain at the slightest movement, extending from the sacrum over the left hip, impeding walking.
 Violent pain in the sacrum, when stooping and afterward.
 [Ng.]
390. Bruised pain in the sacral region, in the evening. [Ng.]
 Crawling in the sacrum, as from ants. [Ng.]
 In the back, between the scapulæ, small, violent stitches.
 [Htm.]
 Shooting, also of a tearing kind, beside the spine, extending from the right scapula to the last false rib, much aggravated on inspiring, and totally arresting the breath when taking a deep breath. [Hrm.]
 Pain in the back, augmenting with violent pressure on stooping down, relieved by rest, but breaking out again in stitches at every turning of the body (4th d.). [Sr.]
395. Pain in the nape, in the morning, on moving the head. [Ng.]
 Tension in the nape, with shooting on moving the head.
 [Ng.]
 Tearing in the nape and extending thence over the vertex on the right side toward the forehead. [Ng.]
 In the cervical muscles, a pressive shooting, aggravated by touch and movement. [Hrm.]
 Violent, continuous drawing stitches in the right cervical muscles, from the clavicle into the os hyoides. [Htm.]
400. Pressive, painful stitches in the thyroid cartilage, unaffected by deglutition. [Htm.]
 Sprained pain in the left side of the neck, on moving the head.
 [Ng.]
 Throbbing or twitching in the left side of the neck. [Ng.]
 Swelling of the right side of the neck, with pain when touched.
 In the arms, sensation of stiffness, when moving them after resting. [Ng.]
405. Tearing in the right arm, from the top of the shoulder to the wrist. [Ng.]
 Tearing in the left arm, from the top of the shoulder to the finger-tips, at times attended with pressure on the chest. [Ng.]
 Pain in the shoulder as from a thrust or blow, on moving the arms, less when resting. [Ng.]
 In the top of the shoulders, tearing, extending into the elbow, frequently. [Ng.]
 Shooting in the top of the shoulders, on raising the arm.
 [Ng.]
410. Paralytic pain in the right shoulder-joint, only when moving the arm. [Ng.]
 Cracking in the right shoulder-joint, on moving it. [Ng.]

On the upper arm, near the shoulder-joint an external shooting pain, intermitting like the pulsation. [Th.]

Dull shooting in the upper and anterior portion of the humerus. [Hrm.]

Tearing on the upper surface of the left upper arm, extending to the wrist-joint, with shooting in the right side of the chest, in the evening. [Ng.]

415. In the elbow, a pain as if a tendon was strained, when quickly turning the fore-arm inward.

Paralytic weakness in the elbow-joints.

On the fore-arm, beside and near the elbow-joint, paralytic tearing, worse when at rest, than when moving. [Hrm.]

Pressive tearing on the ulna, at times extending to the metacarpal bone. [Hrm.]

Pressive shooting in the muscles on both the ulnas. [Hrm.]

420. Drawing shooting tearing on the inner side of the right fore-arm. [Htm.]

Tearing stitches above the left wrist-joint, upward. [Htm.]

Tearing above the fore-arm, on the upper side, behind the wrist-joint, with drawing tearing stitches toward the finger.

[Htm.]

The hand is painful, without swelling. [BRUNNER.]

Tearing in the left wrist-joint. [Ng.]

425. Spained pain in the right wrist-joint, drawing toward the fourth finger. [Htm.]

Intermitting pressive shooting in the metacarpal bone of the right index for two days. [Hrm.]

Cold hands, colder toward the finger-tips, for eight days.

[Th.]

Itching on the hands and on the dorsum of the fingers.

Sensation of stiffness, itching and burning heat in the hands, with distended veins, improved by moving about. [Ng.]

430. Clear watery blister on the right wrist, first itching, then burning; after it opens, water pours out, there is increased burning, inflammation and a scurf, with itching especially at night.

[Ng.]

On the dorsum of the fingers, tearing, toward the tips. [Ng.]

Pressive shooting in the muscles of the left thumb, both when at rest and when moving. [Htm.]

Small stitches in the posterior joint of the right little finger.

[Htm.]

Shooting, as from innumerable needles in the first joint of the thumb, later on, the spot also hurts when touched.

435. Pain of the finger-tips, when pressing on them, as if festering below, or as when salt gets into a wound.

Drawing tearing through the bones of the right fourth finger, passing through the bones, aggravated by moving the joints.

[Htm.]

The fingers go to sleep.

The thumb is inflamed, with throbbing and burning, worst at night.

Profuse perspiration of the hands.

440. Herpes on the hands.
 Large chaps in the skin of the thumb, with burning pain
 [Ng.]
 Itching pustules on the fingers and on other parts of the body
 (aft. 9 d.).
 On the right ilium, pressive stitching, in every position of the body. [Hrm.]
 In the hip-joints, paralytic feeling, bruised and tired; she has to sit down, but this does not relieve her.
445. Pressive heaviness in the left thigh, when sitting and walking, without pain. [Htm.]
 Dull pressure on the right thigh, somewhat above the hough, while sitting. [Htm.]
 Pressure on the inner side of the left thigh, near the knee-joint. [Hrm.]
 Pressive tearing on the thigh, near the knee-joint, directed upward and outward. [Hrm.]
 Tearing, frequently, above the left knee, from the evening till midnight. [Ng.]
450. Shooting pressure on the left thigh, near the patella. [Hrm.]
 Shooting drawing pressure, above the right knee. [Htm.]
 On the knee, several lively, fine stitches on the inner side.
 [Htm.]
 Swelling and stiffness of the knee with stinging pain, so that he could scarcely move the knee sideways for pain.
 Painful tearing in the right knee, when yawning, while stand-
 ing. [Ng.]
455. Tearing in the left knee. [Ng.]
 First, violent shooting; then, tearing in the left hough. [Ng.]
 In the leg, tearing, deep in the left tibia. [Ng.]
 Tearing, extending downward, in the right tibia. [Ng.]
 Dull drawing, upward over the right tibia. [Htm.]
460. Tearing in the muscles of the right leg. [Htm.]
 Stiffness in the right leg, as if contracted in the hough and calf. [Sr.]
 Cramp extending from the tibia into the toes.
 Pain in the calves, as after cramp.
 Severe cramp in the calves.
465. Red herpetic spots on the calves, with severe itching.
 The soles of the feet are keenly painful.
 Violent tearing in the sole of the left foot, after midnight, extending from the heel even toward the toes, then severe itching, and after scratching, a severe stitch through the heel into the dorsum of the foot. [Ng.]
 Itching drawing on the sole of the foot.
 Painful drawing, passing over into twitching on the dorsum
 of the right foot. [Htm.]
470. Stitches as from needles above the outer ankle of the right foot. [Hrm.]
 Painful, pressive and shooting beating, on the inner side of the sole of the right foot, and then on the whole sole, while sitting. [Htm.]

Tensive sensation in the muscles and toes of the left foot, as if it would draw the toes inward, in the morning. [Ng.]

Feeling of tension in the right foot, as if swollen.

Sensation of swelling in both feet, with itching and heat in the soles of the feet, relieved after some moving about. [Ng.]

475. Swelling and redness of the right tarsus, with pain aggravated in the afternoon. [BRUNNER.]

Swelling of the feet.

Formication in the foot, on raising it and setting it down.

[Ng.]

Cracking in the foot-joint with every motion. [Ng.]

Coldness of the feet.

480. The toes feel pressed upon under the nails as if swollen. [Sr.]

In the big toe of the right foot, a drawing tearing. [Htm.]

Tearing in the left big toe, more near the tip in the evening.

[Ng.]

In all the joints of the body, a tearing, now here, now there, for several days, but of brief duration. [Ng.]

Tearing in almost all the limbs, at night, followed by headache. [Ng.]

485. Drawing pain in the scapulæ and the lower limbs.

Drawing pains dart about here and there in the body and the head.

Itching in many or almost in all parts of the body, at various times, also on the hairy scalp and in the face. It is not generally removed by scratching, or returns after it. [Ng.]

Itching every night before going to sleep; it goes off in bed.

Itching on the fore-arm, toward the hand, and on the inner side of the knee, above the hough, especially in the evening in bed.

490. Shooting itching all over the body, in the evening from five to seven o'clock and in the morning when rising.

Burning itching all over the body with a shaking chill.

Burning itching on the abdomen and on the thighs.

Itching all over the body, here and there, worst in the evening, before and after lying down, much increased by scratching.

[Ng.]

Itching with burning after scratching below the calves, in the evening and morning. [Ng.]

495. Itching with vesicles or with pimples after scratching, on the fore-arms, thighs, knees, calves and other places. [Ng.]

Red pimples of the size of a pin's head, without humidity, on the back and the thighs, only itching (erosively) in the warmth, this only goes off transiently through scratching. [Hrm.]

Eruption of blotches, like nettlerash, intolerably itching and stinging, on the neck, the chest, the eyelids, the hands and all the body, with severe burning after rubbing.

Miliary pimples, as soon as he goes from the warm room into the cold air.

Herpes break out in all parts of the body.

500. Many small warts.

The pustules scratched open, pass into ulcers suppurating for a long time. [Ng.]

Small suppurating pustules on the right side of the nose, on the dorsum of the right foot, on the left natis, at times with shooting pain on touching it. [Ng.]

The person feels better in the open air. [Ng.]

Fit of nausea after breakfast, with sour eructation; standing by the open window, he became dizzy, he lost his consciousness and fell backward to the ground; after he was raised up, he regained consciousness and felt a great tension over the chest.

505. Trembling of the hands and feet, with tearing in the forehead and pinching in the abdomen. [Ng.]

Great weariness especially in the lower limbs, and especially in the thighs, knees and feet, also during the menses. [Ng.]

Sensation of prostration and languor all over the body; it goes off in the forenoon after eating. [Ng.]

Frequent yawning with lachrymation of the eyes, or also in the forenoon, with shuddering. [Ng.]

Constant yawning.

510. Sleepiness with yawning (very soon).

Very sleepy and indolent, in the forenoon. [Ng.]

Going to sleep early at night, with violent starting up (8th d.). [Ng.]

Waking up at night as from a startling report. [Th.]

Restless sleep, turning over frequently.

515. Restless, unrefreshing sleep.

Restless sleep at night, with inclination to coitus, effusion of semen, and twitching in both the fore-arms. [Sr.]

Sleep very much interrupted (10th d.). [Ng.]

Night almost sleepless, without any cause (1st d.). [Ng.]

Little sleep, with starting up. [Ng.]

520. Restless sleep, with dreams of accidents.

Frightful dreams, in a sound sleep.

Dream of fearful things, e. g., a large spider.

Dreams of the departed, of ghosts, and of fisticuffs with them; attended with epistaxis. [Ng.]

Dreams of vexation. [Ng.]

525. Voluptuous dreams. [Ng.]

Dreams about business and happenings during the day. [Ng.]

Heavy, frightful dreams of falling, etc., with frightened starting up. [Ng.]

Frequent starting up at night, and then difficulty in going to sleep again. [Ng.]

At night, she started up hastily, scratched the thigh unconsciously, and immediately continued to sleep. [Ng.]

530. Half-awaking at night from pain, without being able to tell where; but in the morning she thought it must have been in the abdomen (one day before the menses). [Ng.]

Waking up after midnight, from cutting in the abdomen. [Ng.]

Waking up several nights about two o'clock, and then staying awake for some time. [Ng.]

Repeated waking up at night, with sensation of coldness.

[Ng.]

At night, cramp in the calves.

535. At night, on awaking, profuse perspiration in the joints.

At night and in the morning, on awaking he finds himself lying on the back; for many nights.

In the hours before midnight, he cannot sleep, from restlessness all over and extraordinary mobility in all the limbs.

Frequent chilliness on the arms, the thighs, the back, on and in the abdomen.

Feverish chilliness, frequently by day, with blue nails and loss of all the vital warmth in the arms and legs.

540. Internal chill and drowsiness.

Shudder all over the body, from below upwards. [Hrm.]

Brief cold thrills running over him in the forenoon. [Ng.]

He finds it difficult to get warm in the warm room, all the forenoon. [Ng.]

Chilliness, also in the warm room (2d d.). [Ng.]

545. Chill and shaking, without external coldness. [Ng.]

Violent chill before dinner, with shaking and chattering for a quarter of an hour. [Ng.]

In the evening, chill for an hour, without subsequent heat or sweat [Ng.]

Chill and coldness all over the body, even by the stove, with unusual warmth of the face and chest. [Hrm.]

Severe chill at night in bed, with very cold feet, while the face and chest are hot. [Hrm.]

550. Chill at night on awaking (9th d.). [Ng.]

Shaking chill at night, without subsequent heat (5th d.). [Ng.]

Chill, early in bed, for one-fourth of an hour. [Ng.]

A chill runs over her as soon as she comes into the open air.

[Ng.]

Shudder with goose-skin, with violent eructation, in the forenoon. [Ng.]

555. Shaking chill, in the evening on lying down; it goes off in bed (2d d.). [Ng.]

Inclination to chill and shaking in the forenoon, then till evening; warmth with perspiration all over the body. [Ng.]

Increased warmth, cheerfulness and sensation of strength, in the evening (9th d.). [Ng.]

Heat all over the body for a short time. [Ng.]

Very warm all over the body, as if sweat would break out, after breakfast. [Ng.]

560. Heat, in the evening in bed, an hour before going to sleep; the blood is in ebullition, the heart beats, and there is perspiration on the forehead; two evenings successively.

The whole body seems to be constantly in a feverish state.

SEPIA, SEPIA SUCCUS.

This brownish black juice (before me used only for drawing) is found in a sac in the abdomen of the large sea animal, called cuttlefish. This the animal occasionally squirts out, to darken the water around it, probably in order to secure its prey, or to conceal itself from its enemies.

The juice-bladder of this animal, which is most frequently found in the Mediterranean Sea, is dried, and then exposed for sale in Rome to draughtsmen, and is to be gotten thence.

This dry sepia juice (sepia) is easily dissolved in water in all proportions, but in this, its raw state, it is insoluble in alcohol.

This sepia is prepared for homœopathic use like other dry and crude medicinal substances (see conclusion of Part I., Chron. Dis.).

Sepia has proved especially useful, when after a choice otherwise agreeing with the symptoms of the disease, one or another of the following ailments were also present:

Dejection and weeping; gloominess; melancholy; pensiveness; discouragement; anxiety in the evening in bed; anxiety and apprehensiveness with flushes of heat; readiness to take fright; aversion to one's occupation; indifference toward his family; momentary fits of vertigo with unconsciousness, while walking in the open air and while writing; vertigo; weak memory; muddled feeling in the head and incapacity for mental work; heaviness of the head; headache with nausea; fits of gout in the head with a boring pain, compelling the person to scream and with vomiting; beating headache, especially in the occiput; rush of blood to the head, when stooping; coldness on the head; itching on the head, in the nose and in the ears; falling out of the hair; the head jerks forward; incapacity of opening the eyelids at night; heaviness and sinking down of the upper eyelid; pressure in the eyes; pricking in the eyes, in the evening by candle light; nightly agglutination of the eyes; swelling of the eyes in the evening; dry scurf on the edge of the eyelids, in the morning on awaking; far-sightedness; sensation of a gauze before the eyes; black points and fiery streaks before the eyes; black spots flitting before the eyes; amaurosis, with contracted pupils; excessive sensitiveness of the hearing to music; difficulty in hearing; roaring and rushing sound before the ears; chronically inflamed and eruptive tip of the nose; frequent blowing of blood from the nose; frequent epis-taxis; defect in smelling; yellowness of the face; itching in the face; erysipelatous inflammation and swelling of the whole side of the face, starting from the hollow root of a tooth (Gll.); dry lips which peel off; swelling of the gums; bleeding of the gums; soreness of the gums; shooting toothache; dryness of the mouth; fetor from the mouth; white-coated tongue; soreness of the tip of the tongue; contractive twitching in the throat; viscosity in the throat; hawking up of mucus, in the morning; thirst in the morning; voracity; acidity in the mouth, after a meal; aversion to eating; aversion to meat and to milk; the food will not go down; great eagerness for food; greediness; disagreeable eructation with nausea, after eating fat things; eructation; sour eructation; eructation with the taste of the ingesta; waterbrash, especially after drinking; waterbrash with previous qualmishness and writhing about in the stomach; pressive shooting pain in the scrobiculus cordis and the gastric region; beating in the scrobiculus cordis; pain in the scrobiculus cordis when walking; stomachache, after supper; perspiration after eating; pressure in the stomach while eating; pressure in the stomach after a meal; difficult digestion; after eating, scratching and burning, extending up the fauces; emptiness in the stomach; shooting in the liver; burning in the stomach and the abdomen; boring in the hypochondria; shooting in the left hypochondrium; burrowing, pressure and cutting in the hypogastrium; pressure in the hypogastrium, extending up into the precordial region; sensation as of something lodged and of hardness in the hypogastrium; bloated abdomen in mothers; sensation of emptiness in the abdomen; coldness of the abdomen; dropsy of the abdomen; frequent generation and incarceration of flatus; rumbling and growling in the abdomen, especially after eating; colic after bodily exercise; ineffectual call to stool; retarded stool; evacuation too soft; mucous stool; passage of blood with the stool; discharge of mucus from the rectum, without stool, with shooting and tearing extending up the anus and rectum; insufficient stool; evacuation like laurel berries; burning in the rectum during stool; oozing of moisture from the rectum; crawling in the rectum; itching in the anus; pressure of blood to the anus; protrusion of the varices of the rectum; prolapsus of the rectum during stool; urging to urinate; nocturnal micturition; involuntary micturition during the first sleep; dark urine; erosion in the urethra during micturition; painfulness of the testicle; weakness of the genitals; itching about the genitals; swelling of the scrotum; suppressed menses; pressure and bearing down on the genitals; soreness in the pudenda and between the thighs; heat in and on the genitals; menses too weak; bruised pains during the menses; flow of yellow water from the vagina.

Stoppage of the nose; troublesome dryness of the nose; coryza; stuffed coryza; hoarseness; the catarrh changes into coryza; cough in the morning and evening, with salty expectoration; cough from irritation and tickling with constipation; expectoration which is hard to detach; shortness of breath in walking; asthma, tightness of the chest and shortness of breath in walking, in ascending and in lying abed in the evening; pressure in the sternum; ebullition in the chest; sore aching in the middle of the chest; pain in the chest from moving; oppression of the chest; shooting in the left side of the chest; stitches in the chest, when working with the head; pain in the side, during breathing and coughing; pain in the sacrum; pressive pain in the sacrum; beating in the sacrum; weakness in the sacrum while walking; pain in the back and sacrum; frequent pain in the back, burrowing, cutting and pressing; chilliness in the back; itching eruption on the back; tearing and cramp in the back; stiffness of the back; stiffness of the nape; sweat in the axillæ; humid herpes below the left axilla; weariness of the arms; straining in the arms; sprained pain in the shoulder-joint; tension in the fore-arm; paralytic drawing in the arm, so that he has to allow it to sink down; shooting in the wrist, when moving it; burning in the palms; cold sweat on the hands; malformation of the finger-nails; tearing shooting from the upper edge of the pelvis around the inguinal articulation, extending anteriorly to the thighs; paralytic sensation in the legs; coldness of the lower limbs and feet; jerks like stitches in the thigh, compelling him to draw up the limb; stitches in the tibiæ; running along in the leg as from a mouse; drawing pain in the legs and in the big toe; cramp in the calves; swelling of the legs and feet; shooting on the dorsum of the foot; burning and pricking in the feet; twitching in the foot during the siesta; sweating of the feet; checked sweat of the feet; burning in the feet; crawling and going to sleep of the soles of the feet; stitches in the corns; the arms and legs go to sleep, especially after manual labor; rigidity and lack of suppleness of the joints of the hands, the knees and the feet; ulcers of the joints of the fingers and the toes; restlessness and beating in all the limbs; burning pains in many parts of the body; attacks of flying heat; heat from anger and during important conversations; fits of heat, while sitting and when walking in the open air; ebullitions of the blood; palpitation; perspiration while sitting; copious perspiration during slight bodily exercise; lack of natural bodily warmth; sensitiveness to the open air; readiness to catch cold; easily overstrained; tearing boring extending from the gastric region to the lumbar vertebræ; cramp in the stomach, simultaneously with a fit of asthma; muscular twitching of the limbs; brownish spots on the chest, the abdomen and the back; jerks and twitches of the limbs by day; frequent extension and stretching of the limbs; great ill effects from vexation; tremulous weariness; indolence and awkwardness of the body; lack of strength; lack of strength on awaking; lack of firmness in the body; fits of weariness; readily tired when taking a walk; when exerting the body, stitches in the arm; drowsiness by day; drowsiness, too early in the evening; illusion in sleep, that he was being called; ravings during sleep; many dreams; anxious, frightful dreams; frequent awaking at night, without cause; unrefreshing sleep; night-sweat; morning-sweat; sour morning-sweat.

Too strong an action seems to be relieved by vegetable acids, but the strongest antidote is smelling of sweet spirits of nitre; less effective is the smelling of the billionth attenuation of Antimonium crudum, or tartrate of antimony; but in cases where the circulation has been too much excited, smelling of a potency of aconite.

The abbreviations of my fellow-provers are: Gll., Goullon; Gff., von Gersdorff; Gr., Gross; Htb., Harilaub; Whl., Wahle.<sup>1</sup>

SEPIA.

Dejected, sad.

Sad, especially in the evening.

Sad and troubled, most of all when walking in the open air.

Very sad with unusual weariness.

5. Sad about her health.

Troubled thoughts about his disease and about the future.

Melancholy, especially in the morning.

Troubled about her health, anxious, irritated and very weak.

She has none but troubled thoughts about her health, thinks she is getting the consumption and will die soon.

10. All her troubles present themselves in a very sad light to her mind, so that she is despondent.

If he only thinks of his past troubles, his pulse is quickened and his breath fails him.

Great sadness and frequent fits of weeping, which she could hardly suppress.

Lachrymose.

Irritably lachrymose.

15. She might have wept for displeasure at every thing, without cause.

Melancholy, she feels unhappy without cause.

Dread of men.

She wishes to be by herself and to lie with closed eyes.

He must not be alone for a moment.

20. Solicitous and anxious, with peevishness.

<sup>1</sup>The original pathogenesis of Sepia in the first edition contained 1242 symptoms, obtained by Hahnemann in the usual way. In its present form, of the 413 additional symptoms, all but 160 are also his own. We have no information as to the manner in which the 160 were elicited by the fellow-observers who furnished them.—Hughes.

- Apprehensive trembling, with cold sweat on the forehead.
 Anxiety, in fits.
 Intense anguish in the blood.
 Anxiety, apprehension, at various times.
25. Anxious, toward evening.
 Anxiety in the evening, she becomes quite red in the face, and the flushes of heat keep alternating from time to time.
 Great internal restlessness, for many days, with hastiness; he wants to be done with his work even as he begins it.
 Restless and lacking serenity, for many days; occupied with sad memories, and anxious, she has not the patience to stay long in a place.
 Discouraged and peevish.
30. Entire lack of spirits (aft. sever. h.).
 Extreme loathing of life; he felt as if he could not any longer bear this miserable existence, and as if he would pine away unless he made away with himself (aft. 24 h.).
Very easily frightened and timid.
 Discontent.
 Very readily offended.
35. Peevish and indisposed to all work.
 Depression, especially in the morning.
 Sorrowful mood, as after secret vexation.
 Excitableness.
 Very much excited all over her body.
40. The nerves are sensitive to every noise,
 Very much affected from playing the piano.
 The remembrance of past trouble puts him into extreme ill humor.
 Vexatious occurrences from past times keep recurring of themselves, which makes him so irritable that he gets quite beside himself, and cannot contain himself, with anguish, palpitation, and perspiration all over the body (15th d.).
 She finds fault with everything, does not wish what others desire; with weeping and heat of the face.
45. She finds fault with everything, approves of nothing.
 He gets vexed at every trifle.
 Peevish and disposed to quarrel.
 Vexatious sensitiveness. [Gff.]
 Peevish, especially in the morning.
50. Great inclination to get vexed.
 From vexation, she is so excited that she fears an apoplectic fit, and everything turns black before her eyes.
 Inclined to anger.
 Angry, peevish.
 Very morose and violent.
55. A trifle may produce a violent ebullition of anger, with trembling (especially of the hands). [Gff.]
 Very sensitive at the slightest cause; a fit of desperately furious gestures with sobbing; she throws herself on the bed and remains lying there all day, without eating (just before the menses).

Indolence of spirit and dejection (aft. 23 d.).

Indolence of spirit (aft. 6 d.).

Great indifference to everything, no real vital feeling.

60. Indifference.

Very indifferent to everything, insensible and apathetic (aft. 6, 7, 8 d.).

No disposition to work, inattentive, distracted (aft. 6, 7 d.).

Alternately merry and sad.

Alternate involuntary laughing and weeping, without corresponding moods.

65. Weak memory (aft. 20, 48 h.).

He often makes mistakes in writing.

He was distracted, talked incorrectly, using the wrong words (aft. 9 d.).

He thinks, what he does not wish to think, uses expressions which he himself knows are incorrect; he resolves to do what is against his intention, and is thus in conflict with himself and, therefore, in a disagreeable, restless mood (aft. 24 h.).

Cannot collect himself and is lost in thought, though well disposed to work.

70. Difficult flow of ideas.

Gloominess and inability to think, all the forenoon and many afternoons in succession.

She feels stupid, by turns, with shuddering and momentary arrest of breathing; then she had to breathe deeply.

Muddled feeling in the head (aft. 24 d.).

Muddled feeling in the left side of the occiput (aft. 3 h.).

[Gff.]

75. Muddled feeling of the sinciput (aft. 3½ h.). [Gff.]

Muddled sensation of the head, as in severe coryza, with reeling.

Muddled feeling in the head, with pressure in the eyes, aggravated by walking in the open air.

Weakness of the head, so she can hardly think at all, especially in the afternoon.

Muddled sensation in the whole of the head and vacillation of the same, with tension of the muscles of the neck and nape.

80. The head often feels befogged in the morning, when rising from bed.

Painful obscurity in the head, especially in the forehead. [Hib.]

Dim and dull in the head, with whirling in it, for four days.

Dazed and dizzy in the head, so that often he does not know what he is doing.

Constantly feels stupefied in the head.

85. Stupefaction of the head, with tightness of the chest and weakness in the whole body.

Heaviness of the head, every morning on rising; this only improves after several hours.

Vertigo in her head, she can hardly hold it up.

Whirling and reeling.

Vertigo in the morning in bed, on raising himself, as if everything moved in the room.

90. Vertigo, when walking, as if all objects were moving.
 Vertigo, so that he stumbles on walking and looking up aloft.
 Vertigo, only when walking in the open air, she had to allow herself to be guided.
 Vertigo, when she sees a large level plain before her.
 Vertigo, on moving the arms.
95. Attacks of vertigo on walking in the open air, lasting two to three minutes; she felt as if something tumbled about in her head and this made her stagger; then in the evening, headache and humming in the ears.
 Very dizzy at times, with dislike for every employment.
 Vertigo, even to falling down, every morning on rising.
 Vertigo every afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock, everything turns in a circle around her, while walking, sitting and lying.
 Dizzy vertigo, every afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock, while sitting and walking.
100. Two impulses of vertigo as if his senses would leave him, while stooping, after supper.
 Vertigo with coldness of the hands and feet (aft. 34 d.)
 Turning around and vacillating, while drinking innocuous drinks, while sitting down, so that he thought he would have an apoplectic fit, for five minutes; then flushes of heat, lasting five minutes each.
 Headache, once every minute, it seemed to come up the back; a shooting in the head, at every step.
 Dull headache, every morning, but only after rising from bed.
105. Acute headache in the morning, on awaking (and after rising).
Headache, in the morning, with nausea till noon.
 Headache, in the morning, in the forehead, as from incipient coryza.
 Headache in the forehead and the vertex; then anxiety in the scrobiculus cordis, with trembling; then severe epistaxis.
 Sensation of paralysis in the forehead.
110. Headache most violent toward evening, especially on shaking the head.
 Headache, as from a concussion, after the siesta.
 Concussion of the brain, on knocking the foot against something.
 Movement in the brain on shaking the head.
Rush of blood to the head (aft. 5 d.).
115. Heat in the head, so that it burns out at the ears, as it were; this causes a hard hearing and dim vision.
 Severe heat in the head, in the morning, with a sensation as if the nose would bleed.
 Painful heat in the head, often with flushes of heat over the body.
 Violent heat in the head, rising up, every five minutes.
 Heat in the head, in the evening (aft. 3 d.).
120. External heat was unbearable to her, with violent headache, and yet she felt cold.
 Headache as if the head would burst, also with cough.
 Throbbing headache, in the evening.

Beating in the head, on the side on which she is lying.

Severely throbbing headache in the temples.

125. Painful beating in the occiput.

Beating headache at every motion.

Beating, very painful headache in the vertex, in the morning, soon after rising (aft. 6 d.).

Beating in the upper part of the head, very painful, at the slightest motion; on turning the eyes, and when moving the head or body, it presses upward; even when in the greatest rest, there is an indistinct beating.

Pinching jerks in the head, in the morning, on rising.

130. Single, violent, undulating jerks of pressive headache, quite anteriorly in the forehead (aft. 35 h.). [Gff.]

Very painful twitches in the forehead.

Pressure, twitches and pecking, with heat in the head, as if everything was pressing out at the forehead and the eyes, for three days.

Pressive headache in the hot forehead, in the evening from 7 to 8 o'clock (aft. 4, 5 d.).

Headache only in the sinciput, mostly toward the forehead, a pressure on the brain, recurring eight to ten times every hour, and alleviated in one-half a minute; then it intermitted for one or one and a half hours; it also returned somewhat the second day (aft. 22 d.).

135. Pressure mostly in the forehead and the eyes; at last nausea with spitting of much saliva.

Dull pressive pain on a small spot of the occiput. [Gff.]

Pressure on the upper part of the sinciput. [Gff.]

Violent pressure on the head, all day, with vertigo, lachrymose mood, and profuse coryza.

Pressive headache in the right side of the occiput. [Gff.]

140. Pressive headache in the occiput, in the evening till midnight.

Pressive aching as if on a sore spot, on the left side of the occiput.

One-sided, deeply-seated, pressive headache, with pressive pain in the molars.

Pressure and tension in the forehead and eyes, with burning.

Pressure on top of the vertex, after mental work.

145. Pressive heaviness of the head, in the temples and above the forehead as if the head was turgid with blood, as in severe coryza.

Heaviness in the occiput, especially in the morning.

Heaviness of the head, so that she could hardly raise it.

Heaviness of the head, in the evening, and after lying down, one-sided headache.

Pressive, burrowing itching headache, with stiffness of the nape and sensitiveness of the head when touched.

150. Boring, burrowing headache in the forehead, lasting from the forenoon all day, at the slightest movement.

Squeezing pain in the vertex and in the upper part of the occiput, with a feeling of soreness, which at last became burning.

[Gff.]

- Pressing together in the upper part of the head, all day, with much asthma (aft. 11 d.).
 Headache, as if pressing from within outward (aft. 13 d.).
 Headache, as if the eyes would fall out.
155. Violent headache, as if the head would burst.
 Contractive headache in the forehead.
 Pressive contractive pain in the upper part of the head (the first days).
 Vibratory contraction in the upper part of the head, in the evening.
 Pinching pain on one side of the head, in paroxysms.
160. Headache in the forenoon, as if the brain were contused.
 Painful cracking in the head, as if something in it were breaking, with pain in the nape on turning the head.
 Shooting pressive headache, constant, in the lower part of the forehead, close above the left eye, worse on moving about in the room, much better on walking in the open air.
 Shooting headache (aft. 18 d.).
 Shooting in the forehead, now here, now there.
165. Stitches in the forehead, as from needles, daily, when walking fast, with inclination to vomit.
Shooting in the forehead, with inclination to vomit (she could not eat anything); improved by lying doing.
 Dull stitches in the whole of the head, at last in the occiput, incapacitating him for work.
 Severe stitches in the occiput toward the vertex.
 Single occasional stitch through the head.
170. Shooting in the left temple.
 Shooting in the temple.
 Shooting headache in both temples, in the evening.
 Frequent stitches in the left side of the head, in the afternoon; also in the occiput, in the evening.
 Violent shooting above the left orbit outwardly, with total contraction of the eyes, three days in succession, in the morning after rising, till noon; somewhat relieved in the air. [Htb.]
175. Shooting in the head, above the ear, for several minutes.
 Shooting headaches, from the eyes outward, all the day.
 Drawing in the occiput.
 Frequent drawing pain in the occiput. [Gff.]
 Painful drawing, now in the right, now in the left side of the occiput, inferiorly (aft. 5 h.). [Gff.]
180. Drawing pain in the occiput, which, when touched, pains externally as if festering underneath.
 Drawing pain, seemingly externally on the forehead, extending to the occiput, in single fits.
 Rheumatic drawing on the left side of the head.
 Superficial drawing and boring in the head, more at night, so that she could not stay in bed about midnight; it drew into the temple, the ear and the teeth (aft. 6 d.).
 Tearing on the head, above the forehead and in the eyes, from 2 P. M. till going to sleep at night.

185. Tearing in the upper right part of the forehead (aft. 8 h.).
 [Gff.]
 Tearing in the left frontal eminence (aft. 11 ½ h.). [Gff.]
 Tearing above the eyes.
 Tearing in the left temple, extending into the upper part of the left side of the head. [Gff.]
 Intermittent, slight tearing, deep below in the left side of the occiput, near the nape.
190. Tearing in the occiput.
 Tearing, drawing and shooting, from the forehead and the occiput toward the vertex.
 Pain in the occiput, mostly at night, and worst when lying upon it, as if hollow, and as if festering underneath, externally and internally, relieved by pressing upon it with the hand.
 The scalp is painful when touched, as if the roots of the hair were sore (aft. 3 d.).
Frequent falling out of the hair (aft. 1 and 8 d.).
195. Motion of the scalp forward and backward; he has to bite his molars together.
Much itching on the hairy scalp (aft. 16 d.).
 Itching on the vertex of the head, with frequent falling out of the hair.
 Itching on the occiput in the evening.
 Erosive itching on the hairy scalp.
200. Severe itching on the head, when the headache passes away.
 Humid hairy scalp.
 A number of scurfs on the head (for 40 days).
 Small exfoliations with intense itching on the occiput, toward the nape, which then became an ulcer of an inch in size, with a rough crust, under which the humidity continued for a long time.
Swelling on the head, above the temple (aft. 48 h.).
205. Swelling on the forehead (aft. 4 and 15 d.).
Little red pimples on the forehead, a rough forehead (1st, 6th d.).
 Painful nodules on the forehead.
 Painful pimples on the forehead.
 The head jerks and twitches forward some 6 or 7 times in the morning, during full consciousness.
210. Repeated eyeache, with headache and heat in the eyes.
 Rush of blood to the eyes.
 Pressure above the eyes, when he goes about in bright daylight (aft. 11 d.).
 Pressure, heat and flickering in the eyes, like a thousand suns.
The eyelids are painful on awaking as if too heavy, and as if he could not hold them open.
215. Two mornings in succession on awaking, the eyes are as firmly contracted, as if lead was pressing upon them, without agglutination.
 Pressure on the lower part of the right eyeball. [Gff.]
 Painful pressure on the upper part of both eyeballs, especially frequent in the right one. [Gff.]
 Pressive pain, on turning the eye to the right.

- Pressure in the right eye, as from a grain of sand fallen into it, aggravated by rubbing; most sensible on pressing the eyes shut. [Gff.]
220. Tearing pressure in the orbits, especially in that of the left eye. [Gff.]
 Crawling on the inner border of the left orbit. [Gff.]
 Itching of the eyelids.
 Itching of the eyes.
 Itching of the eyeballs.
225. Violent itching in the left external canthus, with sore pain after rubbing it. [Gff.]
 Itching of the inner canthus, in the morning, after awaking; after rubbing, there is smarting and profuse lachrymation, and then a sensation of soreness in the external canthus, which is somewhat agglutinated. [Gff.]
 Intensely itching smarting in the inner canthus of the left eye, with lachrymation and somewhat reddened conjunctiva. [Gff.]
 Smarting in the right eye, in the evening, with an inclination in the lids to close forcibly.
 Shooting in the left eye.
230. Erosive pain in both eyes.
 Burning of the eyes in the morning and weakness of the same.
 Burning in the outer canthus, for an hour, frequently by day.
 Burning sensation on the edge of the left lower eyelid, toward the outer canthus. [Gff.]
 Heat in the left eye, in the morning, with swelling in the inner canthus.
235. Inflammation of the eyes, with redness of the white and shooting pressure therein.
 Inflammation of the eyes; they do not bear any cold water.
 Inflammation of the eyelid, with a styne thereon.
 Swelling and some redness of the right upper eyelid, in the morning. [Gff.]
 Swelling under the eyes, in the morning after awaking.
240. Severe, red swelling of the lower eyelid, with pressive and burning pain.
 Redness of the white of the eye (aft. 17 d.).
 Redness of the white of the eye, in the morning after awaking, with burning smarting and pressure.
 Swelling of the eye, with headache on the same side.
 Scurf in the eyebrows, for eight weeks.
245. A red herpetic spot on the upper eyelid, scabby and peeling off.
 Glassy appearance of the eyes.
 Swimming appearance of the eyes, in the morning on awaking with smarting in the canthi. [Gff.]
 Lachrymation of the eyes, in the morning and evening (aft. 12 d.).
 Lachrymation of the eyes, in the open air.
250. Suppurated eyes, agglutinated with pus, in the morning.
 Agglutination of the eyelids, only in the evening.

- Twitching on the eyelids.
 Quivering of the eyelids.
 Daily quivering below the eyes.
255. Frequent quivering on the left lower eyelid, with sensation as if there would be lachrymation, compelling him to frequently wipe it.
 The eyes are affected by reading and writing, and are painful as if sore in the inner canthus. [Gff.]
 On straining the eye, there is a sensation of nausea and anxiety.
 Dimness of vision, while writing, so that he could hardly recognize anything any more.
 Sudden failing of vision.
260. He can only see the one half of objects clearly, the other half is obscure to him.
 A fiery zigzag before his eyes impedes his vision.
 Many black spots before his eyes.
 White flickering before the eyes.
 Fiery sparks before the eyes, with great lassitude.
265. Flickering before the eyes, on looking into a bright light; he sees a colored halo surrounded by a zigzag.
 Green halo around the candle-light.
 Daylight blinds the eyes and causes headache.
 The candle-light troubles the eyes, when reading and writing, through a contractive sensation.
 Earache in the left ear, as if it was being torn out.
270. Tearing in the eminence behind the right ear. [Gff.]
 Drawing pain and heat on the right ear.
 Drawing shooting pain in the internal ear, proceeding outwardly.
 Pressive and shooting straining pain in both the ears. [Gff.]
 Violent pressure, pressing inwardly, below and in front of the left and the right ears. [Gff.]
275. Straining pain in the ear (aft. 24 d.).
 Pain in the ears, in the evening, like a straining pain (aft. 16 d.).
 Constant straining in both the ears, at night.
 Pressing outwardly in the ear, when pressing during a stool (aft. 3 d.).
 Sore pain in the ear.
280. Pain, as if festering in the meatus auditorius externus, on inserting a finger.
 Stitches in the weak ear, causing her to wail aloud.
 Intense shooting in the left ear and the left cheek.
 Shooting in the parotid gland, which swells, and when the head is turned, there is tensive pain.
 Single pointed stitches in the interior of the left ear. [Gff.]
285. Crawling in the right ear.
 Heat and redness in the left ear. [Htb.]
 Swelling at the opening of the meatus auditorius, which pains violently on pressing against the parts beside the antihelix.
 Much itching, daily in the weak ear.

- Much itching in the sound ear, intense buzzing and accumulation of purulent, whitish ear-wax.
290. Thin pus flows from the ear, with itching.
 Much purulent eruption on the external ear.
 Very sensitive to noise.
 Crepitation before the ear, as from paper.
 Clucking in the ear, on rising up from stoopnig.
295. Frequent ringing in the ears (aft. 24 h.).
 Singing before the ear.
 Rumbling in the right ear.
 Rushing sound and beating in the ear.
Strong resounding and humming in the ears (at once).
300. Roaring and rushing in the ears, with the sensation that they were stopped, and yet she heard.
 Rushing sound before the ear, in the evening when writing, with whistling between.
 Deep-sounding howling in the ears, following the rhythm of the pulse, while lying on the ear, for two nights.
Roaring in the ears; then she could no more hear in it.
 Roaring and pulse-like hissing in the right ear at night.
 [Gll.]
305. Sudden, brief deafness of the ears, as from a plug in them.
 In the root of the nose, pressive pain.
 Shooting pain in the tip of the nose on touching it, as if a pointed hair was sticking itself in there.
 Itching of the tip of the nose.
 Sore feeling in the nose, at every inhalation of air, very painful.
310. Swollen, inflamed nose; the nostrils are sore and ulcerated.
 Very painful, inflamed swelling of the nose.
 Scurfy nostril.
 A little boil in a nostril, of long duration.
 A nodule on the root of the nose, painless.
315. Eruptive pimple beside the nose, like a blood-blister.
 Small pimple beside the right nostril, forming a large scurf.
Painful eruption on the tip of the nose.
 In the morning, he blows from his nose a little coagulated blood.
Blowing of blood from the nose and epistaxis (aft. 6, 7, 9 days).
320. Bleeding of the nose on blowing it, in the evening.
Violent epistaxis (aft. 12 d.).
 Bleeding from the nose for seven hours, but only a few drops from time to time.
 Paleness of the face (aft. 24 h.).
 Sick, pale appearance in the morning, with dim, red eyes.
325. Yellowness of the face and of the white of both eyes, for a day.
 Yellow spots in the face and a yellow saddle across the upper part of the cheek and the nose (aft. 20 d.).
 Redness and flying heat in the face.

- Heat in the face, every morning on awaking.
 Face very much heated, in the evening, with heat in the head.
330. Great heat and redness in the face at noon, attended with cold feet.
 Heat in the face, in the morning; in the evening, paleness of face.
 Talking at once causes redness of the face.
The face is puffed up (aft. 5 and aft. 40 d.).
 Severe swelling of the face, without redness.
335. Tension and contraction of the skin of the face, especially of the forehead.
 First a slight tickling on the left temple, then sensation as if the skin was drawn up. [Gff.]
 Pressive pain in the zygoma and the nasal bone.
 Tearing pain in the left cheek, extending thence over the ear to the occiput.
 Spasmodic pain in the facial bones.
340. Drawing pain in the face, with swelling of the cheeks.
 Short violent tearing, extending from the forehead down to the side of the right ala nasi. [Gff.]
 Slight tearing on the right cheekbone, below the temple. [Gff.]
 Tearing in the upper jaw. [Gff.]
 Tearing in the left articulation of the jaw, just before the ear. [Gff.]
345. Itching of the whole of the face.
 Itching in the upper part of the cheeks, and after rubbing them, a burning smarting.
 Eruptive pimples on the right cheek.
 Pimples in the face, which itch somewhat.
350. Eruption in the face, like a red roughness of the skin,
 Many black pores in the face.
 The lips are hot.
 Violent burning of the upper lip, close below the nose.
 Cutting in the upper lip, as from a splinter.
 Sore pain on the right side of the lower lip, toward the corner of the mouth. [Gff.]
355. Yellowness about the mouth.
 Herpetic eruption about the lips.
 Humid eruption of pimples on the edge of the vermilion of the upper lip.
 Eruption of pimples in the middle of the vermilion of the upper lip (4th. d.).
 Extensive scurfy eruption in the vermilion of both lips (after traveling in the cold).
360. Eruption at the commissure of the lips, with pain when touching it.
 Painful ulcer on the inner side of the lower lip, relieved by cold water.
 The inner lower lip feels sore, and is full of painful blisters.
 Very painful pustule in the middle of the lower lip.
 Tension of the lower lip.

365. Severe swelling of the lower lip, in the morning.
Herpetic blotches about the mouth.
Herpes on the mouth.
On the chin, eruptive pimples, with ulcerative pain when touched.
Itching eruptive pimples on the chin.
370. Long-continued scurf on the chin.
In chewing, the jaws feel as if they could not be separated, and as if the articulation would crack.
Spasmodic pain in the lower jaws, and previously in the throat.
The submaxillary gland is swollen; and when pressing on it, there is pain in the tooth.
Pain in the submaxillary glands per se, as if they were being squeezed; they are also painful when touched.
375. Fine shooting pain at times in the left lower jaw and the glands below, especially when touched.
Toothache when biting, or when pressing on the tooth with the tongue.
The teeth are very painful when touched and when speaking.
He bites his teeth together at night in sleep; this is very painful.
Disagreeable sensation of coldness in the lower fore-teeth.
380. Drawing sensation of coldness in single upper incisors.
She cannot bear any draught of air on her teeth; she has no pains in bed, only in the morning, an hour after rising; there is no pain when the teeth are touched or cleaned.
Dull pain in the old roots of the teeth; cold things cause an acute pain to dart through them.
All the teeth are painful, especially a hollow molar, which aches as if too long and pressed upward, with swelling of the gums and cheeks which terminates the pains. [Htb.]
Pain from heaviness in the upper incisors.
385. Humming in the front teeth. [Gff.]
Nocturnal toothache, so she cannot sleep, and in the morning when they ceased she was so irritated, that she could not even then go to sleep in spite of great weakness.
Drawing pain in the hindmost molars and on the right and the left sides. [Gff.]
Drawing in the upper molars. [Gff.]
Drawing toothache, when hot or cold things are taken into the mouth.
390. Drawing in the teeth as from cupping.
Drawing in a hollow tooth extending even into the ear, aggravated by cold water.
Drawing pain in a sound tooth, when the air got into it in a warm room, but not in the cold open air.
Drawing, cutting toothache.
Tearing below the incisors, in the lower jaw. [Gff.]
395. Tearing toothache, passing out of the left ear, during and after eating.

Rheumatic pressure draws through the teeth and through the forehead in single jerks. [Gff.]

Tearing and jerking in the teeth, in the afternoon, after every fourth respiration; worse when lying down, attended with a copious flow of saliva.

Tearing and jerking toothache from 6 P. M. till after midnight about 1 or 2 o'clock; for four days in succession.

Single jerks in the teeth, by day and by night, when a draft of air got into the mouth or the ear, followed by disquieting mutterings therein.

400. Pressive jerks in the molars, most when stooping.

Dull pressive pain in the molars, with pain in the submaxillary glands (aft. 24 h.).

Burrowing in the upper teeth.

Gnawing in the posterior molars.

Shooting toothache, so that she could have cried.

405. Shooting in the front teeth.

Stitch extending into the eye-tooth, below the right eyelid, apparently in the bone.

Shooting in the tooth and in the jaw, extending into the ear; she could not sleep for it by night, and by day she had to bind a cloth over it.

Shooting beating in various roots of the teeth, with burning in the gums, renewed on entering a room after walking in the cold, as also after eating and chewing, especially when touched by something warm, for eight days, after which the tooth begins to turn black and hollow.

Beating toothache; on the third day, shooting; the tooth quickly becomes hollow.

410. Thumping in an upper incisor. [Gll.]

The teeth quickly become hollow.

Great dullness of the teeth, for seven days.

An incisor starts out of its socket and becomes too long.

Looseness of the lower incisors.

415. All teeth become loose and painful, and the gums bleed readily when expectorating (6th d.).

Profuse bleeding of the teeth, in the morning.

In the gums above the two upper incisors, drawing. [Gff.]

Shooting in the gums.

Swelling on the inner side of the gums.

420. Thick, dark-red gums, with painful pecking as from incipient suppuration, so that it is almost intolerable.

Painful swelling of the gums.

Much pain in the swollen gums of hollow teeth, with swollen cheeks.

Vesicles on the gums, with burning pain when touched.

Sore painful swelling of the gums.

425. Sore pain and swelling of the gums; they become detached and bleed at the slightest touch.

Sore ulcerative gums. [Gll.]

Bleeding of the gums, almost without any cause.

The mouth is swollen internally, so that he can hardly eat any food.

Swelling of the internal of the mouth and the gums, with burning in the mouth extending into the throat.

430. Swelling of the skin of the buccal cavity, and of the inner side of the gums, so that the inside of the mouth seems contracted.

The tongue pains as if sore (aft. 17d.).

White tongue.

Coated tongue.

Slimy tongue, 1 or 2 hours after eating.

435. The tongue pains as if burned, for 5 days.
Pain on the tongue, as if burned, during the (customary) smoking.

Tearing and smarting as from pepper, posteriorly on the right side of the tongue. [Gff.]

Acrid smarting, anteriorly on the tongue (aft. 32 h.). [Gff.]

Vesicles on the tongue, and pain as if burned.

440. Painful vesicles on the tip of the tongue, above and below.
Pain on the right side of the tongue (which is then covered with thick mucus), which impedes chewing and plain speaking.

Pimple on the tip of the tongue, and very sweet saliva.

The palate pains anteriorly as if burnt.

Pain as from burning, anteriorly on the palate, just behind the teeth, on touching with the finger or the tongue.

445. Much flow of saliva, in the evening.
Gathering of salty saliva in the mouth.

He has to spit much, constantly.

Dryness and roughness of the tongue and the palate.

Intense dryness of the tongue, in the morning on awaking, as if it were burnt.

450. Frequent dryness of the mouth, as if her tongue would cleave to it, without thirst.

Dryness of the mouth, throat and the tongue, which is quite rough in the morning.

- Dryness of the mouth, and throat, in the morning on awaking, so that she could not utter a sound, nor speak (aft. 6 d.).

Dryness in the throat, all day.

Dryness in the fauces (aft. 11 d.).

455. Dryness in the throat, in the evening before going to sleep; not diminished by drinking (aft. 8 d.). [Gr.]

Always dry and as it were tense in the throat,

Toothache, smarting and scratching, back in the fauces and in the upper part of the palate, as before a violent coryza. [Gff.]

Scratchy in the throat, in the evening.

Scratchy sensation in the throat, on swallowing. [Gff.]

460. Roughness in the fauces and burning, increased on hawking.
Much mucus in the throat; he has to clear it and to hawk up the mucus.

Much mucus on the velum pendulum palati.

Hawking of mucus in the morning (aft. 4 d.).

Frequent expectoration of mucus from the fauces.

465. Bloody mucus in quantities is hawked up (15th d.).
Slight formication in the throat, with sensation of hoarseness, exciting to frequent clearing of the throat. [Gff.]
First a smarting, then cutting, occasionally also a pressive sensation on the left side of the fauces. [Gff.]
Sore throat with swelling of the cervical glands.
Pressive sore throat in the upper part of the right side. [Gff.]
470. Pressure in the throat, even when the neck is covered in the loosest manner.
Pressure in the throat, in the region of the tonsils, as if the cravat was tied too tightly.
Pressure in the throat toward the back, on swallowing food and drink.
Pressure in the throat, as if he had swallowed something that had lodged.
Pressure in the throat, as if from a plug, which he imagines he has to swallow down; mucus is discharged by hawking or coughing.
475. Sensation of a plug in the throat.
Sensation as of a plug in the throat, when swallowing, in the evening.
Constrictive pressive throatache, close above and on the larynx. [Gff.]
Finching in the throat, from the larynx upward.
Painful contraction and pressure in the throat.
480. Sore pain in the throat, when swallowing.
Shooting scraping sore pain on the pharynx, during empty deglutition.
Shooting sore throat during deglutition.
Numb feeling in the right tonsil (aft. 4 d.).
Sensation of heat in the throat.
485. Inflammation of the throat.
Inflammation and swelling in the upper part of the throat.
Inflammation, severe swelling and suppuration of the left tonsil; he could not swallow for pain, had heat in the whole of the body, thirst, and burning in the eyes (aft. 11 d.).
Difficult deglutition; the muscles of deglutition seem paralyzed for several evenings (aft. 36 d.).
When swallowing food, intense pain in the cardiac orifice of the stomach.
490. Painful jerk from the throat to the scrobiculous cordis, in the morning on raising himself in bed.
Smoking tobacco does not agree with him, it contracts the fauces.
Bad smell from the mouth.
Mucus of putrid taste on the tongue.
Taste of manure in the mouth (aft. 5 d.).
495. Acid taste in the mouth (aft. 20 h.).
Sour taste in the mouth, attended with costiveness (aft. 11 d.).
Sour taste in the mouth, in the morning on awaking.

- Sour bitterish taste in the mouth (aft. 5 d.).
 Repulsive, bitter taste in the mouth, in the morning.
500. Nasty taste in the mouth, like old coryza.
 Bitter taste in the mouth, only when hawking.
 Bitter taste of the food.
 Nasty taste in the morning, and dry and shiny in the mouth.
 Putrid taste in the mouth after drinking beer.
505. Sugar-sweet taste in the mouth.
 Much thirst (aft. 13 d.).
 Adipsia (aft. 9 d.).
 Much thirst in the evening.
 No appetite, but thirst.
510. As if over-sated, with sensation of loathing and languor.
 [Gff.]
 Loathing of all food, especially of meat; he could only eat bread and butter and soup.
 Even the thought of eating caused him nausea, with normal taste in the mouth.
No appetite, nothing had any taste to her.
 No appetite, she did not relish anything.
515. The food will not go down.
 Fullness of the stomach at noon.
 Diminished appetite, everything tastes too salty.
 Little appetite, but much thirst.
 Little appetite, but he relishes the food when he eats.
520. It seems to make smoking distasteful (in its after-effects).
 Desire for vinegar.
 Passable appetite, but none at all for meat, which he utterly loathes for several days.
 Intense desire for wine, which he did not usually drink.
 Ravenous hunger, and when it is not satisfied, the water gathers in the mouth.
525. When he sees food, water gathers in the mouth, and he feels appetite.
Immoderate appetite, she did not get satisfied; after eating, lassitude, eructation of food, even into the mouth, like regurgitation.
 Intense hunger, in the evening.
 He continually desires to eat, and when he thinks of eating, water gathers in his mouth.
 Sensation of emptiness in the stomach.
530. Emptiness in the stomach, with nausea, as soon as she thinks of eating any food.
 Painful sensation of hunger in the stomach.
 After eating but little, eructation.
 After eating and drinking, much eructation.
 After eating, eructation of mere air.
535. After breakfast, bitter eructation.
 During a meal, intense bitterness in the mouth.
 After supper, hiccup.
 After dinner, intermission of the beat of the heart.

During eating, pulsation in the scrobiculus cordis, and the more he eats, the worse he gets.

540. During eating, there is such anguish and heat, that her face becomes quite puffed and red, the eyes, ears and nose are affected by it, and there are drops of perspiration on the finger-tips.

During supper, colic and then three evacuations with forcing (3d d.).

Immediately after dinner, feverish movements.

Digestion causes heat and palpitation (aft. 3 d.).

After meals, heat in the face.

545. After meals, vertigo, so the person had to hold himself up.

Immediately after eating, muddled feeling in the head, any covering of the head, hat or cap, oppressed him.

After warm food, profuse perspiration in the face.

After eating, stitches in the head.

Immediately after eating, dull tearing in the forehead.

550. After dinner, general profuse perspiration, with sensation of heat.

During the meal and just afterward, the pains are renewed and aggravated.

After dinner and supper, tearing in the whole of the thigh especially in the knees.

Immediately after eating, sensation of soreness in the throat, and of cramp on the inner side of the cervical vertebræ.

After meals, indolence.

555. After eating, a dry cough.

After eating, pressure as from flatulence, on the right side deep in the hypogastrium, and later in the side, only sensible when moving the part and when stooping forward. [Gff.]

After dinner, inflation of the abdomen, diminished by eructation, till the evening, when it went off without emission of flatus.

After eating (soup), at once a strong inflation of the abdomen. [Gff.]

After dinner, the abdomen is much inflated.

560. After partaking of boiled milk, diarrhœa.

An hour after dinner (and even before), drawing pain in the stomach and a gnawing extending to the back, where it is most acute, then great exhaustion and lassitude.

Eructation in the evening, constant and severe; preceded by severe inflation of the abdomen.

Very frequent eructation (also aft. 24 h.).

Eructation with heaving to vomit (aft. 26 h.).

565. Frequent gurgling, empty eructation. [Gff.]

Bitter eructation, in the morning on rising, with bitter taste in the mouth and throat; but he relishes his food, and after eating, the bitterness is gone.

Bitter eructation with nausea.

Sour eructation after supper.

Eructation, as of rotten eggs.

570. During eructation in the morning, pinching in the stomach, as if something would be torn off,

During eructation, shooting in the scrobiculus cordis, in the left side and between the scapulæ.

After eructation, burning in the stomach. [Gff.]

Painful eructation, bloody matter rises from it into the mouth (after riding fast) (aft. 4 h.).

During eructation (in a very warm room) blood came into his mouth, which he spit out.

575. Eructation, alternating with hiccups.

Hiccups after eating, for a quarter of an hour.

Hiccups during the (customary) smoking of tobacco, and contraction in the fauces, with a sensation of a plug there, causing nausea, while the water gathers in the mouth.

Burning rising up from the stomach. [Gff.]

Heartburn in the forenoon and afternoon, for several hours, extending from the pit of the stomach into the throat, where there is an acid taste and a scraping sensation.

580. Like water-brash, much water collected in the afternoon in the mouth; it went off through eating.

Nausea, by jerks, all day, also after meals, with a gathering of watery saliva, with constant sourish bitter taste in the mouth, without appetite, but the food tastes normally (aft. 4 d.).

Nausea, in the morning before breakfast, for several mornings.

Nausea, in the morning on awaking, also toward evening and at night. [Gff.]

Nausea in the morning, as if everything in the abdomen was turning around.

585. In the morning, on rinsing the mouth, there was heaving as for vomiting.

Nausea in the morning, during the (customary) drive.

Nausea and weakness.

Nausea (almost at once), then drawing through all the limbs.

Nausea, every morning at 10 o'clock, without eructation, for several minutes.

590. Nausea with bitterness in the throat, without vomiting.

Nausea, only every morning, vanishing after eating something.

Inclined to vomit; anxious, dizzy.

Vomiting after morning nausea, and after partaking of something, and then still there is retching.

Vomiting (during pregnancy) is such a strain, that frequently blood comes up with it.

595. Violent, repeated vomiting, at night, with intense headache (aft. 12 h.).

Vomiting of bile, for two mornings (aft. 3 d.).

Daily two fits of one hour each of contractive griping in the hypochondria with nausea, passing thence like shooting into the back, then also shooting in the chest, and yawning, till he vomited bile and food.

Vomiting of milky water (during pregnancy), although she had not drunk any milk.

Pressure in the stomach after eating and when touching it.

600. Pressure in the scrobiculus cordis.
 Pressure in the scrobiculus cordis (aft. 30 h.).
 Pressure in the stomach, at night, for three nights successively.
 Pressure in the stomach, as from a stone.
 Hard pressure in the pit of the stomach as from a stone, even while fasting, but more after eating bread.
605. Pressure in the stomach, as if sore within.
 Pressure in the pit of the stomach, going off through a fermenting movement downward (aft. 3½ h.). [Gff.]
 Pressure in the stomach, lasting from the morning till 1 P. M.
 Pressure in the stomach in the evening, succeeded by headache.
 Violent pressure on the left side below the ribs, it goes off by lying down.
610. Tearing pressure around the pit of the stomach. [Gff.]
 Heaviness in the stomach, with dull pain about the whole of the abdomen.
 Spasmodic pain in the stomach and abdomen.
 Contraction in the gastric region.
 Shooting pain in the stomach and in the inflated abdomen, in the afternoon.
615. The least pressure in the gastric region causes intense pain.
 Burning in the stomach and in the scrobiculus cordis.
 Heat in the stomach and in the scrobiculus cordis, with a sensation as if eating would relieve her.
 Sudden stitches in the scrobiculus cordis, on rapidly swallowing during a meal.
 Stitches in the scrobiculus cordis.
620. Fine needle-pricks in the scrobiculus cordis.
 Shooting close below the scrobiculus cordis, on inspiring. [Gff.]
 Rumbling in the stomach.
 In the hypochondria and in the scrobiculus cordis shooting tensive pain, on moving while stooping.
 Tensive shooting pain about the hypochondria, impeding all movement, and worse while walking.
625. A stitch lasting for minutes, about the right lowest rib toward the scrobiculus cordis; it goes off through empty eructation. [Gff.]
 Stitches dart across the epigastrium below the hypochondria, so that she would like to scream, frequently.
 Frequent stitches below the right ribs.
 Shooting pain below the right short ribs, during a dry hacking cough in the evening.
 Beating in the hepatic region.
630. Stitches in both sides of the epigastrium, when coughing.
 Stitches occasionally radiate from the epigastric region, close below the scrobiculus cordis, extending obliquely up into the left side. [Gff.]
 Stitches transversely through the abdomen, from the right side to the left, as quick as lightning (aft. 36 d.).
 Shooting pain in both sides of the hypogastrium.
 Severe shooting in the left side of the abdomen.

635. Shooting in the side of the abdomen, for an hour, then difficulty of breathing.
Violent shooting in the hepatic region, in the evening for eight minutes, it was then also painful when touched, attended with costiveness.
Dull stitch in the hepatic region (aft. 3 h.). [Gff.]
Sore pain in the hepatic region (aft. 5 h.). [Gff.]
Pain in the right side of the abdomen.
640. Simple pain in the liver, close below the last rib, arresting the breathing while driving on an uneven road.
Sensation of fullness in the hepatic region.
Violent squeezing in the hepatic region, diminished by eructation and the emission of flatus. [Gff.]
Drawing pressure in the hepatic region, in the evening. [Gff.]
Pressive pain in the hepatic region.
645. Pressive pain in the right side of the abdomen.
Some twitches in the liver.
Drawing pain in both sides of the abdomen, in recurrent attacks.
Painful sensation in both sides of the abdomen, as from a rigid body there, or a plug; this made stooping painful or impossible.
Pain in the abdomen, from the navel to the pubes; most when touching it.
650. Stitches transversely through the abdomen, right above the hips.
Alternate shooting and pinching in the intestines, in fits lasting 10 minutes.
Stitches from the navel to the pudenda, when conghing and retching.
Shooting pain in the muscles of the right side of the abdomen, with visible twitching.
Shooting in the groin.
655. Stitches, in the morning, through the left groin.
Erosive boring pain in the right side, besides the umbilicus (aft. 18 d.).
Pressure in the abdomen.
Pressive aching in the epigastrium, in the afternoon. [Gff.]
Pain about the navel, very acute when coughing and stooping.
660. Pressive aching in the tense epigastrium, for an hour after dinner and after some exercise in the open air. [Gff.]
Pressure in the whole of the abdomen, for 3 days successively increased after meals, with muddled feeling in the head and tenseness of the scalp. [Htb.]
Much pressure and tension in the epigastrium, at times relieved by internal fermentation; at the same time pressure and shooting in the umbilical region. [Gff.]
Pressure in the abdomen, going off after an evacuation.
Heaviness in the abdomen.
665. Sensation as from a load in the abdomen, when moving.

Pain in the middle of the abdomen, lasting from the afternoon till going to sleep; it lay fast there like a lump; the pain drew upward toward evening, with drowsiness, still she could not sleep at night.

Pressure in the hypogastrium on the left side below the navel, and at times quite in the left side. [Gff.]

Pressure anteriorly in the hypogastrium, on the right side. [Gff.]

Undulating pressure in the right inguinal region, from within outward. [Gff.]

670. Painful pressure in the hernial region, when laughing aloud.

Drawing tensive pressure in the abdomen. [Gff.]

Inflation of the abdomen (also aft. sever. h.)

Distention of the abdomen, in the morning (aft. 2 d.)

Very much distended abdomen, without stool.

675. Severe inflation of the abdomen, especially in the evening.

Painful inflation of the abdomen, when out driving.

Hard, inflated abdomen, especially in the evening; also the veins in the skin of the abdomen are distended; with shooting pain in the abdomen.

Accumulation of flatulence in the abdomen, while walking in the open air.

Frequent hard inflation of the abdomen, with cutting in the intestines.

680. At first severe inflation of the abdomen, then loud rumbling and motion therein.

Inflation of the abdomen, with diarrhœa and colic.

Pain in the abdomen, in the morning in bed.

Pain in the abdomen, in the morning, quite down in the pelvis, pressing outwardly, winding and contracting. [Gll.]

Violent cutting across the abdomen, as from flatus, it goes off through moving; at the same time a cutting in the left testicle.

685. Violent cutting in the abdomen, extending to the chest, with flatus passing around without finding egress (aft. 4 d.).

Cutting in the abdomen, at night with urging to urinate.

Cutting pains in the abdomen, after midnight. [Gff.]

Violent colic, in the morning.

Cutting in the hypogastrium, in the afternoon, constant and also in single jerks.

690. Colic with frequent nausea.

Frequent fits of colic, she has to quite double up for several minutes.

Pinching cutting in the intestines, with groaning anguish, as if an evacuation would be discharged involuntarily.

Pinching in the abdomen, almost every morning for an hour with nausea, qualmishness and gathering of saliva in the mouth.

Daily pinching in the abdomen, without diarrhœa, as if several successions of flatus were generated, relieved by eructation.

695. Frequent pinching in the abdomen, without flatulence.

Pinching in the hypogastrium, all day, in fits lasting a quarter of an hour, with only one hard stool a day, for three days in succession (aft. 48 h.).

- Gripping in the intestines, with sensation as if they were being turned over.
- Cramps in the abdomen (aft. 17 d.).
- Spasmodic contraction in the right side of the hypogastrium.
700. Frequent fits of contractive pain in the right side of the abdomen, worse in the morning, and then intense, constrictive pain in abdomen, whence the pain passed into the chest, removed by eructation.
- Violent pain in the abdomen, so that she had to bend double.
- Burrowing and contracting in the abdomen, with discharge of much flatus.
- Burrowing in the abdomen with nausea.
- Burning in the abdomen, while walking in the open air.
705. Burning pain on the left side below the navel. [Gff.]
- Burning and sensation of heat in the lumbar (renal) region, on taking a deep breath.
- Burning in the right side of the abdomen, in walking a good distance.
- Burning in the right flank. [Gff.]
- Burning in the abdomen, while sitting, passing away in walking.
710. Pain in the abdomen, as if the intestines were beaten short and small.
- Pain in the abdomen, in the afternoon, as if the intestines were being torn out.
- Beating, here and there, in the abdomen.
- The abdominal muscles are painful, when moving, only by night.
- Voluptuous itching in the left groin, in the evening in bed, intolerably aggravated by rubbing, but quickly removed by slightly tickling with the finger-tips.
715. Sensation of emptiness in the abdomen.
- Disquiet in the abdomen.
- Disquiet in the abdomen, as if diarrhœa was coming; it goes off by emission of flatus.
- Rumbling and whistling in the abdomen with inflation of the same. [Gff.]
- Rumbling in the abdomen.
720. Loud growling in the abdomen.
- Violent fermentation in the abdomen. [Gff.]
- Rumbling and motion of flatus in the abdomen, as in diarrhœa.
- Rumbling in the evening, and incarceration of flatus moves about in the abdomen.
- Rumbling in the abdomen, with eructation (aft. 2 d.).
725. Fine, quick clucking in the right half of the spigastrium. [Gff.]
- Externally sensible clucking in the left side of the hypogastrium above the hip.
- Rumbling in the abdomen, while lying down (aft. 10 d.).
- Loud rumbling and sensation of emptiness in the left side of the abdomen, every day.

- Copious emission of fetid flatus (aft. 15 d.).
730. Diarrhœa, during the first days.
Diarrhœa, after partaking of milk.
Exhausting diarrhœa, during the first days.
Soft pappy stool, of very fetid, sourish smell, passing off quickly at once.
Putrid, sourish fetid evacuation.
735. Three thin acrid stools a day, after which the varices of the anus protrude; these are very humid and pain acutely in sitting (aft. 12 d.).
Many gelatinous stools with colic.
Stool of whitish color (3d d.).
Slimy diarrhœa, with distended abdomen.
Stool after several days, with fœces at first hard, then soft.
740. Constant tenesmus, but only little is evacuated.
Ineffectual tenesmus toward evening, then in the morning a stool frequently hard and in lumps.
Ineffectual tenesmus, only slime and flatus are discharged, with a sensation in the rectum as if there was a plug in it.
Difficult evacuation even of soft fœces, of thin formation.
Two stools a day, and always with some tenesmus.
745. The stool, by no means hard, is discharged with much exertion.
The brownish stool, though not hard, is evacuated only scantily and with strong pressing. [Gff.]
During the later days, the stool becomes hard, also at times knotty and insufficient.
Hard stool, discharged with difficulty, also at times mixed with slime.
Hard stool with cutting in the rectum.
750. Before the stool, there commences a flatulent colic, with moaning and groaning.
Before the natural stool, colic (aft. 4 d.).
Before every liquid stool, nausea (aft. 5 d.).
With difficult stool, emission of prostatic juice.
During the stool discharge of blood (aft. 11, 20 d.).
755. With every stool, blood, for eight days.
Discharge of blood with the stool, though this is not hard.
Much blood with the stool, after cutting in the abdomen.
Some blood with the stool every day, for a long time.
After the stool, discharge of bloody slime.
760. After a second stool, stiffness and sensation of hardness in the back, and an apparent tension in the scrobiculus cordis, with oppression of breathing.
After a stool which is not hard, pressive headache in the forehead.
After the stool, emptiness and relaxation of the abdomen.
After a pappy stool, headache.
After a thin stool, pain in the abdomen, like erosion in the belly.
765. After two hard and considerable stools, great weakness in the abdomen and total lack of appetite.

Discharge of ascarides.

- In the rectum, contractive pain, extending into the vagina (aft. 6 d.).
- Contractive pain in the rectum, extending from there into the perinæum and into the vagina.
- Contractive pain in the anus and thence forward up into the abdomen, during the stool.
770. Frequent painful contraction in the anus.
- Sensation of squeezing in the anus, going off after fermentation in the abdomen. [Gff.]
- Tensive pain in the anus (and in the rectum) (aft. 4 d.).
- Tension in the anus, after the stool.
- Tenesmus in the anus, with sensation of soreness, at times in jerks. [Gff.]
775. Pain in the rectum during the stool, and afterward for a long time while sitting (aft. 7 d.).
- Before and during the hard stool, excessive cramp-like pain in the rectum (aft. 4 d.).
- Violent cutting in the anus and rectum, at night.
- Cutting in the rectum during the stool, with some discharge of blood.
- Feeling of weakness in the rectum, in the evening in bed, and from this, restlessness, so that he cannot go to sleep.
780. Cutting in the rectum, in the afternoon, drawing toward the hypogastrium with subsequent ineffectual straining and urging to stool.
- Stitches in the anus (aft. 8 d.).
- Violent stitches in the rectum, by night.
- Several dull stitches in the anus, in succession. [Gff.]
- Shooting in the anus, after the morning stool, lasting till the afternoon (aft. 7 d.).
785. Severe shooting in the anus, especially on drawing it in, and during external pressure on the same.
- Slow stitch in the left groin, from below upward, during the stool.
- Shooting and tearing in the anus.
- Stitches in the perinæum, toward the rectum, while sitting, in the evening.
- Shooting and burning in the anus.
790. Burning in the anus.
- Burning in the anus, during the stool (aft. 21 d.).
- Burning in the anus daily, with a hard stool, with intermixed empty tenesmus (the first days).
- Burning in the rectum, all day.
- Burning in the rectum, during the latter part of a soft stool (aft. 6 d.).
795. Heat and swelling of the margin of the anus.
- Soreness on the anus.
- Sore pain in the rectum, chiefly between stools; it feels like a pressing out of the same, even while lying down; in paroxysms lasting for hours; at the same time there are varices of the anus, painful when touched.

Itching and shooting in the rectum.

Itching in the rectum and anus.

800. Itching on the anus, also by day.
Severe itching on the anus and crawling in the rectum (1st d.).
Scratchy sensation in the anus, during the stool.
Protrusion of the rectum (aft. sever. h.).
Prolapsus of the rectum. (aft. 30 d.). [RI.]
805. Bearing down on the anus in the afternoon, soon after dinner (aft. 5, 12 d.).
Profuse perspiration, just above the anus, before and during the stool.
Biting in the rectum, after the stool.
Protrusion and itching of the varices of the rectum.
Severe protrusion of the varices of the rectum, on walking.
810. Severe protrusion of the varices of the rectum, during stool.
Protrusion of a humid, painless varix from the anus, after a normal stool.
Pain of the varices of the anus, after a normal stool (aft. 4 d.).
The varices of the anus become painful (aft. 2 h.).
Pain of the varices of the anus while walking.
815. Varices of the anus, without costiveness.
The varices of the anus seem indurated.
Bleeding of the varices of the anus, when walking.
Scanty discharge of urine (the first 7 d.).
Pressure upon the bladder, in the morning, and urging to urinate, but urine only comes after several minutes.
820. Constant urging to urinate, with painful forcing in the pelvis in the morning. [GL.]
Frequent and intense urging to urinate.
He has to urinate two or three times an hour; there is a bearing down on the bladder, but still he has to stand a long time before the urine comes, which is then emitted without pain; if he tires to do without urinating, he feels anguish, and pressure on the bladder (aft. 48 h.).
Sensation as if drops were discharged from the bladder (which yet was not the case), especially while at rest.
After urinating, some liquid remains in the urethra, which afterward issues of itself from the orifice.
825. After two hours' heat, redness and puffiness of the face, followed by many hours' paleness, for fourteen hours there is inability to urinate, followed by a repeated urging to urinate, every quarter of an hour, when but little is discharged; then several such periods of suppression and of urging to urinate; in the last period, despite of much drinking the suppression of urine lasts for twenty hours (1st d.).
Little micturition, with much thirst (aft. 3 d.).
At night he dreams that he is urinating into the vessel, while he allows the urine to flow into the bed (aft 17 d.).
Also at night he has to get up to urinate, as often as he is awakened, with thirst even at night.

- Pressure on the bladder and frequent micturition, with tension in the hypogastrium.
830. Pressure on the bladder, in the evening, with burning after the discharge.
 More frequent micturition (aft. 4 d.).
 Far more liquid is discharged than corresponds with what he drinks (aft. 36 d.).
 Water-colored urine in abundance (2d d.).
 Pale-yellow urine, without sediment, not even after a night and a day. [Gff.]
835. The urine on standing becomes turbid and ill-smelling, with a white deposit (aft. 1st, 4th d.).
 The urine is frequently turbid and dark at once when discharged, as if mixed with mucus.
Urine with much white deposit and fetid.
Turbid urine with red-sandy sediment.
 Turbid, clay-colored urine, with reddish deposit in the vessel. [Gll.]
840. Blood-red urine.
 The urine deposits blood in the vessel.
 After urinating (at noon) discharge of a milky liquid from the urethra.
 After urinating, discharge of prostatic juice.
 Pinching pain in the bladder.
845. Cramp in the bladder. [Gll.]
Violent burning in the bladder, without urging to urinate.
 Burning in the urethra.
Burning anteriorly in the urethra (aft. 9, 20 d.).
 Smarting in the urethra during micturition.
850. Smarting anteriorly and in the orifice of the urethra (aft. 13 h.). [Gff.]
 Drawing smarting in the urethra anteriorly, in the morning on awaking.
 Tearing in the anterior part of the urethra. [Gff.]
 Severe tearing in the urethra.
 Violent, continuous cutting, then also shooting in the urethra.
855. Erosion in the urethra during micturition.
 Erosion through the urethra. [Gll.]
 Itching in the urethra.
 The male genitals perspire profusely (aft. 3 d.).
 In the penis, stitches.
860. Burning in the penis during coitus (aft. 10 d.).
 Itching inflammation of the penis, much augmenting the excitation during coitus.
 The glans is hot and itching, with soreness of the prepuce.
 Hot glans, with a pale red, sometimes itching, eruption.
 Red dots on the glans.
865. Copious humidity on the lower side of the glans, the humor is purulent, of sourish salty smell, with itching.
 The prepuce suppurates and itches constantly.
 Red nodules, almost sore, disappearing and returning, on the - inner side of the prepuce and on the glans, with tickling sensation when touched.

 The scrotum perspires profusely.
 Heat in the testicle.
870. Cutting in the testicle.
 Pinching tearing in the testes (1st, 2d d.).
 Rheumatic drawing in the testes, also beside them in the thigh. [Gff.]
 Great increase in the sexual impulse (the first 5 d.).
 Lewd thoughts without erection (4th d.).
875. Impulse to coition, with quick emission of semen with but little voluptuous sensation; then tension in the hypogastrium, extending into the spermatic cords (5th d.).
 Strong, somewhat painful erection after the siesta, while sitting. [Htb.]
 Vigorous erections (2d d.) but after the twenty-ninth day the erections are brief, with premature emission of semen during coitus.
 Fewer erections (curative effect) (the 1st days).
 At night, long-continued erections (aft. 16 h.).
880. Violent, obstinate erections, at night.
 Lack of erections (aft. sever. d.).
 Long-continued erections after coitus and pollutions.
 Nocturnal emission of semen, with a lewd dream (aft. 12 h.).
 Repeated incipient pollution, but suppressed every time by awaking (aft. 20 h.).
885. Incomplete pollution, in a lewd dream. [Gff.]
 Weak and watery pollution. [Htb.]
 Pollutions cease in its after-effects.
 After pollution, burning anteriorly in the urethra.
 After pollution, indolent, languid, sensitive to the damp air; the urine is turbid, there is also vertigo and constipation.
890. After coitus, first erection, then weakness of the thoughts, vertigo, despondency, exhaustion; in the evening dejected and inclined to start (14th d.).
 After coitus, anxious and restless all day.
 After coitus, great weakness in the knees.
 But little voluptuous sensation during coitus (2d d.).
 Coitus with insufficient erection (aft. 20 d.).
895. Painful stiffness, apparently in the uterine region.
 Pressing downward, in the uterus, constricting the breath, as if everything would fall out, with colic; she has to cross her thighs to prevent a prolapsus of the vagina; but nothing protruded, there was only an increase of the gelatinous leucorrhœal discharge (aft. 10, 20 h.).
 Soreness and redness on the labia, in the perinæum and posteriorly between the thighs
 Twitching upward in the vagina, in the morning after awaking from a dream.
 Shooting in the pudenda (aft. 3 d.).
900. Violent stitches in the pudenda, extending almost to the navel.

- Stitches up the vagina, every three or four seconds, and after a quarter of an hour, a similar attack.
- Itching on the pudenda (aft. 21 d.).
- After coitus, flow of blood from the vagina.
- Aching in the abdomen, as from incipient menses (aft. 4 d.).
905. Menses too early by six days (aft. 4 d.).
- Menses too early by two days.
- Menses too early by seven days.
- Menses too early by fourteen days (aft. sever. h.).
- Menses too early by several days (aft. 48 d.).
910. Menses too early by eight days, and too scanty, only in the morning.
- Flow of a few drops of blood from the vagina, fifteen days before the regular time (aft. 8 d.).
- Discharge of blood from the vagina, only while walking.
- The menses, suppressed for four months, reappear (aft. 18 d.).
- The menses, at other times regular, come too early by seven days (20th d.).
915. The menses appear eight days late (in the after-effects) (aft. 28 d.).
- The menses, which had been suppressed for two months in an elderly person, reappear after forty-eight days, with drawing, extending from the teeth to the cheek, which swelled up.
- The menses, which had been suppressed for several months in an aged person, reappear once more (aft. 20 d.).
- Menses too late by three days (aft. 19 d.).
- Menses delay five days, till full-moon (aft. 22 d.).
920. Before the menses, violent colic and fainting sensations.
- Two days before the menses, shuddering all over, all day.
- Before the menses, burning on the pudenda.
- Before the menses, a smarting leucorrhœa, with soreness of the pudenda.
- Before the menses, sensation as if the sexual parts were dilated.
925. A few days before the menses, pressure in the abdomen, and when this had passed, soreness in the perinæum and swelling of the pudenda, before the flow of blood appeared.
- During the menses, very much exhausted, in the morning.
- During the menses, tearing in the tibia.
- During the menses, toothache and throbbing in the gums.
- During the menses, things seem dark and black before her eyes, with great weakness, which goes off on lying down.
930. During the menses, severe pressure on the forehead, with expulsion of indurated, fetid matter from the nose.
- During the menses, drawing in the teeth, up the cheek.
- During the menses, drawing from the teeth into the cheek, which swelled up.
- During the menses, bleeding from the nose, three evenings successively.
- During the menses, very melancholy, especially in the morning.

935. During the menses, she cannot sleep at all, owing to tearing in the back, chill and heat, with thirst and painful contraction of the chest.
 During the menses she had to be in bed for two days, owing to restlessness in the body, drawing pains in the legs and in the abdomen, with rumbling; the second day, palpitation for several hours, in the forenoon, with asthma (aft. 9 d.).
 Discharge of leucorrhœa, with stitches in the uterus (aft. 25 d.).
 Leucorrhœa, with itching in the vagina (aft. 3 d.).
 Bloody, mucus discharge from the vagina.
940. Yellowish discharge from the vagina (aft. 24 h.).
 Leucorrhœa, colorless, like water (aft. 22 d.).
 Leucorrhœa of slime, transparent like water.
 The leucorrhœa flows more copiously during eructations, and when retching to vomit; she then also becomes paler in the face.
 Discharge of a greenish reddish liquid from the vagina, during pregnancy.
945. Leucorrhœa, especially profuse after micturition.
 Leucorrhœa, looking like pus.
 Leucorrhœa, looking like milk, only by day, with burning pain; causing soreness between the thighs.
 Copious leucorrhœa of pieces of mucus with putrid odor, with drawing pain in the hypogastrium.
 Much pain while walking, caused by soreness from leucorrhœa.
 * * * * *
950. Very viscid mucus from the nose (aft. 24 h.).
 He blows out from his nose a piece of yellowish green skin, with blood on its border (aft. 4 d.).
 Sensation of dryness in the nose and fauces.
 Dryness in the posterior nares, and yet much mucus in the mouth, with involuntary urging to swallow.
 Dryness in the nose.
955. The left nostril is frequently too dry, as if swollen, yet without coryza.
 Stopping of the nose, indurated mucus is discharged.
 Stopped nose, for seven days (aft. 8 d.).
 Stopping of the nose, and difficult breathing (aft. 11 d.).
 The nostrils are suddenly stuffed, in the morning.
960. Stuffed coryza, only in the left half of the nose. [Gff.].
 Stuffed coryza (the first days).
 Severe stuffed coryza (aft. 4 and aft. 6 d.).
 Severe stuffed coryza, with roaring in the head and in the ears (aft. 24 h.).
 Stuffed coryza, with pricking headache in the forehead and in the eyes, constant inclination to cough, and much dry cough during sleep, without waking up.
965. Sensation as of catarrhal fever, with lassitude in the legs and drawing in the arms.
 Coryza, for three days in succession.
 Coryza for several weeks (aft. 7 d.).
 Coryza which he had not at other times; he keeps snuffing up.

- Coryza with diarrhœic stool.
970. After blowing his nose, yellow water comes from the nose, with cutting headache in the forehead.
Fluent coryza (at once).
Frequent sneezing, almost without coryza, for several days.
Sneezing, every morning at six o'clock in bed.
Fluent coryza, with sneezing, preceded by tingling in the nose. [Gff.]
975. Fluent coryza, with sneezing, she had not had any for two years. [Htb.]
Profuse fluent coryza, mucus constantly drops from the nose.
Severe fluent coryza, with great pain in the occiput, and painful drawing in the hips and thighs, for several weeks.
In the larynx, in the morning, frequent pressure, but without pain.
Dryness in the larynx, in the morning.
980. Sensation of dryness in the windpipe (aft. 3 d.).
Sudden hoarseness (aft. 7 d.).
Hoarseness and fluent coryza (aft. 4 d.).
Hoarseness, she cannot sing high notes.
Hoarseness, he cannot speak a loud word.
985. Hoarseness, attended with languor and chilliness (aft. sever. h.).
Hoarseness, with dry cough, from a tickling in the throat (aft. 5 d.).
Cough, from titillation in the larynx, without expectoration.
Cough, from titillation in the windpipe, toward morning, without expectoration.
Severe excitation to cough, from fornication in the chest (aft. 5 d.).
990. Cough with coryza, every morning till nine o'clock; she even sneezes, early in bed.
When going to bed, tussiculation (4th d.).
In the evening, before going to sleep (from eight to nine o'clock), cough until she expectorates something, when it goes off.
In the evening, severe cough.
In the evening after lying down, the cough is worst.
995. Dry, short evening-cough, with intermitting stitches in the right hypochondrium for several hours.
Cough, chiefly in the evening, with vomiting.
Dry cough, with vomiting of a bitter fluid, in the evening in bed.
During coughing, she feels nausea, at times she must retch, which makes her feel hot and perspire.
Severe cough with but little expectoration, but with vomiting, mostly bitter, but only in the evening in bed.
1000. Cough, which strongly affects the chest and the stomach.
The excitation to cough frequently comes on so suddenly and so violently, that he can not get breath enough, and it spasmodically contracts the chest.
Spasmodic cough.

Dry cough, seeming to come from the stomach and the abdomen, or from constipation, or as if something had lodged in the stomach that cannot be discharged.

Dry cough by day, which compelled the person to lie down, and then ceased; when lying down also by night, there was no cough, but stuffed coryza.

1005. Severe dry cough, with stitches in the right side of the chest.

Cough, with stitches in both sides of the epigastrium.

Cough, with stitches in the back.

During coughing, the upper part of the sternum is painful.

Scratchy cough; he feels oppressed in the chest.

1010. Cough, frequently dry, whooping and hacking, with pain in the scrobiculus cordis; and scrappy, raw, sore pain in the larynx, not felt when swallowing food; she is not waked from sleep by coughing, but after awaking, it is very severe and constant; at times there is a slight rattling in the windpipe and expectoration of mucus.

Awakened by coughing at night.

Cough, day and night; causing pain in the scrobiculus cordis.

At a slight impulse of coughing, there is a painful tearing in a small spot in the brain as if something was torn loose.

Accumulation of much mucus in the larynx, expectorated with difficulty through coughing; but it may readily be swallowed down, even during a deep inspiration (aft. 24 h.).

1015. After rattling of mucus on the chest, there is severe cough with expectoration, while the throat aches as if raw and sore, even half an hour afterward.

Slight expectoration with the cough, with whistling and a slight rattling on the chest.

Until the expectoration is coughed up, croaking in the chest.

Expectoration of mucus from the chest, without much coughing and without asthma.

Much coughing, with expectoration, solely before midnight, as soon as he gets into bed, not by day (aft. 14 d.).

1020. Mucous, white expectoration, like grains of millet (aft. 14 d.).

[Gr.]

Violent cough, with much expectoration of white mucus, every night for one hour, for several weeks.

Much cough with expectoration, day and night; by night, she is awakened by the cough, with a sensation in the chest as of hollowness and erosion there, as if sore.

With much coughing and expectoration, he feels quite raw on the chest.

The expectoration from the chest tastes very salty.

1025. Gray and yellow expectoration from coughing.

Yellowish expectoration from coughing, with a taste of rotten eggs.

Putrid taste of the expectoration from coughing, and putrid smell of the air exhaled with it.

The expectoration from coughing after meals is streaked with blood.

- Blood is expectorated during coughing, every morning, without pain in the chest.
1030. Short, hacking cough, in the evening, after lying down, with much expectoration of clean, coagulated blood, once every minute (aft. 8 d.). [Gr.]
 Much expectoration of pus, with severe coughing, with great oppression of the chest and rattling; the least movement takes away her breath and she feels all gone (aft 23 d.). [Gr.]
 When she cannot expectorate anything with her cough, she cannot breathe.
 The breath is much shorter.
 Short breath (at once).
1035. Short breath, during a walk.
 Short breath, during a walk, as if the chest was full.
 Asthma, with mucus firmly lodged on the chest.
 Impure breath, as if she had mucus on her chest.
 Loud puffing during inspiration.
1040. Lack of breath at the slightest movement.
Tightness of the chest, in the morning and evening.
 The breath is arrested while standing.
 Much oppression on the chest, especially while walking.
 Asthmatic, especially during palpitation after emotional excitement.
1045. Oppression of the chest, in the morning on awaking.
 He awakes in the morning in a perspiration, with intense asthma; it continues for four hours.
 Severe oppression of the chest, in the evening, rendering respiration difficult, and much aggravated on lying down; she had to sit up in bed; attended with flickering before the eyes.
 He cannot breathe deep on account of tightness round about the lower part of the chest.
 The respiration is difficult rather than short.
1050. Tightness and oppression of the chest, with shooting in it on breathing deeply.
 Oppressed and very tight in the chest, he awakes at night; he had to breathe with difficulty and deeply for an hour, and felt somewhat tight even in the morning after awaking (aft. 2 d.).
 Fit of asthma at night; he lay, bending his head forward, he felt tightness in his chest and had to breathe deeply to get air, for one hour; then cough with the expectoration of viscid saliva (aft. 4 d.).
 Severe oppression of breathing toward evening, caused by a pressure above the scrobiculus cordis.
 Oppression of the breathing in the evening, from a pain below the right short ribs, which prevented the least motion on her part.
1055. Oppression of the chest, very severe, without touching it.
 Pressure on the chest when stooping and breathing deeply.
 Pressive pain upon the chest, aggravated by certain movements.
 Pressive pain on the left lowest ribs, also when touching them.
 [Gff.]
Intense pressure on the chest, in the evening in bed.

1060. Pressive pain on the left lowest rib, only when waking.
 Pressure in the upper part of the left side of the chest, toward the axilla, mostly when strongly expiring; on touching it, the spot aches as after a blow. [Gff.]
 Intermittent pressure on the right side of the chest, relieved by empty eructation. [Gff.]
 Pressive drawing on the right false ribs, toward the back; it goes off by moving and by rubbing. [Gff.]
 Pressure on the upper part of the sternum, as from a load.
1065. Sensation of heaviness on the chest, compelling deep breathing.
 Fullness and contraction of the chest, impeding respiration.
 The chest feels constricted, in the morning (aft. 7 d.).
 Tensive pressure on the chest, more on the left side.
 Attacks of tension on the chest.
1070. Tension extending backward on the left ribs, as after a cold.
 Aching of the whole chest.
 Shooting in the left side of the chest, in coughing (aft. 6 d.).
 Shooting in the right side of the chest and the scapula, during respiration and coughing.
 Shooting, toward evening, in the right side of the chest, on inspiring.
1075. Shooting in the right side, while walking in the open air.
 Shooting in the right side, in the morning, after being half asleep. [Gff.]
 Shooting deep in the interior of the chest.
 Shooting pain in the right side of the chest, while expiring (aft. 10 d.).
 Violent shooting in the chest at every inspiration; he could only draw in a little air; this caused his head to be muddled (aft. 5 d.).
1080. Constant stitches in the left side of the chest, unaffected by respiration.
 Short, sharp stitch in the right side of the chest (aft. 4 h.). [Gff.]
 Stitch, for one minute, in the region of the right lowest rib, toward the pit of the stomach, going off through eructation. [Gff.]
 Shooting in the heart, in the afternoon (aft. 5 d.).
 Rawness in the chest, as of raw flesh.
1085. Severe burning in the sternum.
 Burning pain in the sternum, while drinking beer.
 Burning sore pain in the upper part of the left side of the chest, also when touching it. [Gff.]
 Tearing pressure, high in the upper part of the left side of the chest, beside the shoulder-joint; after being relieved by eructation, it soon returns with violence. [Gff.]
 Violent tearing in the lower right ribs. [Gff.]
1090. Ebullition and rush of blood to the chest, as if spitting of blood would ensue.
 Ebullition, like clucking, in the left side of the chest.
 Beating in the scrobiculus cordis, in the morning, then ebulli-

- tion in the chest, like palpitation, then burning heat in the face and the body, without any externally noticeable heat and redness, and without thirst, but with some perspiration.
Beating in the left side of the chest (aft. 26 d.).
1095. Palpitation, in the evening, for a quarter of an hour.
Palpitation, with shooting in the left side of the chest.
The heart palpitates convulsively, with great anxiety and trembling of the fingers and the lower limbs.
Palpitation with sensation of anxiety, compelling one to breathe deeply, without affecting the mind, for several days (aft. 22 d.).
Intermission of the heart beats, with anxiety.
Intermission of the heart beats, chiefly after meals.
1100. Itching on the chest (aft. 4 d.).
Itching on the upper part of the sternum.
Itching of the left nipple, it bleeds at times and threatens to ulcerate.
Shooting in one of her breasts.
Shooting in the right mammillary glands, worse when she gets cold in walking or driving, but she does not see or feel any other ailment therein.
1105. Pain in the sacrum (aft. 5, 16 d.).
Pain in the sacrum, while walking, in the afternoon (aft. 5 d.).
Weary pain in the sacrum.
Sprained pain in the sacrum, above the hips, in the evening in bed, and in the afternoon (aft. 12 d.).
Tired in the spine from walking, so that the lower part of the spine feels broken.
1110. Drawing pressure on the left side, in the lower part near the sacrum (aft. 28 h.). [Gff.]
Oft repeated, sharp pressure on the sacrum, and a little below it. [Gff.]
Clucking on the right side, beside the sacrum.
On lifting something, something like a stitch darted into the sacrum, so that he dared not move for pain there, he had to walk stooping forward, and felt severe shooting, when he knocked against anything with his foot.
Stitches, posteriorly above the right hip, for four days almost continually, she could not lie on the right side for pain, and when touched, the spot ached as if festering underneath.
1115. Intermitting pressure just above the right hip, somewhat toward the spine. [Gff.]
Red spot, like herpes, above the hips.
Pain in the back, merely when sitting, and even when sitting but a little while.
Pain in the back, only when walking, arresting the breathing.
- Pain in the upper part of the back, every morning, when she dresses somewhat tightly.
1120. The whole back is painful, when sitting bent over in writing. [Htb.]

Pressure on the spine, above the sacrum, with rheumatic drawing in the nape. [Gff.]

When stooping, suddenly an intense pain in the back, like a blow with a hammer, attended with a shooting, tearing pain, so severe that he thinks he will sink down and give up breathing; the pain is relieved by pressing his back against a hard object.

Burning pressure in the spine (aft. 1, 3 d.).

Stiffness in the lower part of the back, so that he can only straighten himself with difficulty.

1125. Stiffness in the back, diminished while walking.

Tensive pain on the right side of the back, below the scapula, especially while lying on the left side.

Drawing pressure near the spine, beside the left scapula, at times drawing into the nape. [Gff.]

Heaviness in the back, in the morning on awaking, as if she could not readily turn over or raise herself, or as if she had not lain in a good position, almost like going to sleep.

Drawing pressure below the right scapula, now on the back, now more in the side, especially sensible while sitting, when the arm is held out from the body. [Gff.]

1130. A pretty strong pressure on a small spot, between the upper part of the scapulæ. [Gff.]

Tensive pain in the left scapula, toward evening.

Tensive pain between the scapulæ.

Drawing in the scapula intermingled with jerks (aft. 19 d.).

Tearing in the left scapula, as from a cold (aft. 4 h.).

1135. Drawing between the scapulæ and in the upper part of the chest (aft. 23 d.).

Shooting in the left scapula.

Stitches between the scapulæ. (oft. 24 d.).

Shooting pressure between the scapulæ.

Fine shooting pain from the scapula down through the ribs, on the right side of the back, at every inspiration; always lasting as long as the inspiration, in every position of the body, only less when walking in the open air.

1140. Fine shooting in the scapula, also extending into the side and into the chest, only when sitting and when walking fast; it ceases when walking moderately, so also when leaning against the painful spot; chiefly in the evening and afternoon.

Burning constrictive pain about the shoulders, chest and neck, in the evening.

In the nape, drawing and shooting, even when at rest, arresting the breath.

Sensation of swelling in the nape.

Stiff neck.

1145. Painless swelling as large as a hazelnut, in the neck.

Severe itching in the neck.

Twitching in the nape, with shaking of the head.

Pressive sore pain in the lowest cervical vertebra, in the evening, while walking in the open air.

Tensive pain on the one side of the neck, as if it was swollen

1150. Stretching-out of the neck, straining of the cervical muscles, contortion of the facial muscles (11th d.).
 Red herpetic spots, intensely itching, on both sides of the neck.
 Large furuncle on the neck, below the left jaw, with shooting pain.
 Her head was jerked backward, in the morning on rising.
 In the right axilla, tickling burning. [Gff.]
1155. The gland in the right axilla swells up and suppurates.
 Swelling of the axillary glands.
 Itching in the axillæ.
 In the right shoulder, and in the whole side, a squeezing drawing.
 Pressive pain as from a sprain, just below the left shoulder-joint, on the back. [Gff.]
1160. Dull, drawing, tearing, sprained pain in the shoulder-joint (after dinner).
 Tension and drawing in the left shoulder-joint, going off when it is moved. [Gff.]
 Tearing on and in the left shoulder-joint. [Gff.]
 Violent pain in the shoulder-joint, on lifting the least weight, also in resting his elbow in a high position, like a keenly painful pressure with trembling of the hand.
 Sprained pain in the shoulder-joint, on resting his arms in writing (3d d.).
1165. Severe pain, in the shoulder-joint as if it would tear off, even so as to cause the person to scream; much eructation relieves for a quarter of an hour.
 Pain in the morbidly raised shoulder, also on touching it. [Htb.]
 Stiffness of the left shoulder; she cannot raise her hand up to her head (aft 13 d.).
 Drawing pain in the shoulder-joint, early in bed, lasting for one hour after rising.
 Pulling and drawing in the top of the shoulder, while at rest.
1170. Great pain in both shoulders.
 Pressure on top of the shoulder at night; it felt asleep and sprained.
 Pressive sore-pain on the top of the shoulders, as if rubbed open.
 Pain on the head of the humerus, on the tendon of the pectoral muscle, on bending back the arm and touching it.
 The arms are very tired and go to sleep while at rest.
1175. Stiffness and sensation of coldness in the arm, as if there was no blood in it, but without any externally sensible coldness.
 The arm goes to sleep while resting the head upon it.
 Paralytic sensation in the left arm, but proper movement in it, as also in the fingers.
 Paralytic sensation in the arm, then throbbing therein.
 Drawing down in the arms, even into the fingers (aft. 24 h.).

1180. Twitching in the right arm, then trembling of the hand, so that he cannot write.

Tearing in the arm, from the wrist into the top of the shoulder, so that he can hardly move the arm for pain; when he lets the arm hang down, it gets blue and rigid; most pains are at night, less by day at rest.

On the upper arms externally, just under the shoulder-joint, burning on the skin, as from a vesicatory. [Gff.]

Crawling, humming pain in the upper arm, aggravated by motion and by stooping, going off while at rest and while lying in bed; the pain extends to the shoulder-joint and causes restlessness in the arm, for three days (aft. 24 h.).

Muscular twitching in the upper arm.

1185. Severe bruised pain in the left upper arm.

Bruised pain in the right upper arm, also when moving.

Large blister on each one of the upper arms, with violent itching.

Tearing in the left upper arm, on a small spot above the elbow. [Gff.]

Drawing pain first in the one, then in the other upper arm.

1190. In the bend of the elbows, itching.

Tension in the elbows, as if too short.

Stitches in the elbow-joints.

Brown spots, as large as lentils, on the elbows, and around them the skin looks herpetic.

Itching acidity, posteriorly on both elbows. [Gll.]

1195. In the fore-arm, cramp while walking.

Pressive tearing on the left fore-arm, in and about the bend of the elbow. [Gff.]

Humming in the fore-arms.

Drawing tearing in the lower part of the fore-arm. [Gff.]

Tearing, now in the left fore-arm, now in the right, near the wrist-joint. [Gff.]

1200. Tearing drawing from the outer side of the left hand, through the fore-arm, extending into the elbow. [Gff.]

Red swelling on the fore-arm, with pain, as from pressure on a boil.

In the left wrist, shooting tearing (aft. 5 d.).

Drawing pain in the right wrist-joint. [Gff.]

Tearing in the hand.

1205. Numbness or going to sleep of the hand when he holds anything firmly or carries something in it.

Weakness in the muscles of the hand. [Gff.]

Visible twitching and jerking with shooting pain in the inner muscles of the hand.

Heat in the hands by day, with excitement of mind.

Icy coldness of both hands in the warm room, so that they spread a chill all over the body. [Gff.]

1210. A wart seems to form on the outer side of the hand.

Peeling off of the skin of the palm.

A place on the tip of the index, on which a cicatrix had already formed, begins of itself to bleed again.

- A roundish, bright-red spot in the ball of the right hand, with intense itching, not removed by scratching, in the evening. [Gff.]
 Large blister on the right thumb, with itching.
1215. The thumb is immovably clenched inward, toward the little finger.
 Tearing in the posterior phalanx of the right thumb. [Gff.]
 Tensive pain in the middle joints of the fingers, especially on closing them.
 Drawing and shooting in all the fingers of the left hand.
 Shooting in the middle joints of the fingers.
1220. Gouty drawing in the finger-joints.
 Crawling in the extreme tip of the little finger (aft. 3 d.).
 Numbness of the right fingers, in the evening.
 Violent needle-pricks in the tip of the left thumb. [Gff.]
 Painful tickling under the nail of the left index. [Gff.]
1225. Almost painful tickling under the nail of the left index.
 Tearing under the nail of the right index. [Gff.]
 Paronychia on the left index, with severe throbbing and shooting therein (aft. 23 d.).
 The index is clenched, from early morning; he could not stretch it out.
 Tearing in the posterior joint of the right index. [Gff.]
1230. Between the nates, soreness with burning pain.
 Intermitting drawing pressure close above the right natis. [Gff.]
 Drawing from the right hip down into the soles of the feet, all day (aft. 8 d.).
 Spasmodic pain in the hip-joint; she had to walk about to relieve it.
 Tearing, cramplike pain on the hip, extending down into the foot, suddenly while walking about, for eight to ten minutes.
1235. Bruised pain in the right hip-joint, only when lying on that side.
 Bruised pain and weakness in the hip-joint, worse when rising from a chair, so that she could not walk off without holding to something; it became better as she continued to walk.
 Tearing pressure above the right hip, toward the back. [Gff.]
 Pressure in the right hip-joint close to the abdomen, starting slowly, then increasing and finally gradually diminishing. [Gff.]
 Burning tearing on the inner border of the left natis. [Gff.]
1240. Pain in the nates, so that he could hardly sit.
 Visible, but painless twitching in a natis and thigh (aft. 8 d.).
 Something runs up and down in the left lower limb, like a mouse.
 The left lower limb twitches up, while sitting, in the forenoon (aft. 4 d.).
 Twitching in the left lower limb.
1245. The lower limbs go to sleep, while sitting down.
 Stiffness of the lower limbs, extending into the hip-joint.

After sitting a while, the lower limbs become quite stiff and go to sleep, with formication in them.

Straining in the left thigh and leg, like as if painful from going to sleep, extending into the soles of the feet (aft. 21 d.).

Numbness from going to sleep and sudden sensation of paralysis of one lower limb while standing.

1250. Great restlessness, in the evening, in one lower limb, as it were, a sort of internal, incomplete itching.

Icy coldness of the lower limbs, from the forenoon till going to sleep (aft. 16 d.).

Trembling of the thighs and knees, with twitching of the muscles of the thighs, while she was not chilly.

The femoral bones ache while sitting, she had to continually change her seat (10th d.).

The posterior muscles of the thighs are very painful, while sitting.

1255. Spasmodic twitching of the muscles of the thighs, while walking.

Tearing in the right thigh, when walking, with pain in the spot when touching it.

Drawing in the thighs (aft. 48 h.).

Drawing pain, extending up the long bones of the thighs.

Pressive shooting tearing pain in the groin, extending into the thigh, when striding and walking (4 th. d.).

1260. Undulating pain in the upper part of the long bone of the thigh. [Gff.]

Cramp in the thighs, while walking.

Cramp on the inner side of the thighs, while walking.

Attacks of formication in the thigh, extending down to the toes, often for a quarter of an hour at times, several days in succession.

Bruised pain of the thighs when touched, with tension therein while walking.

1265. Paralytic tension in the right thigh and in the hip-joint, while walking.

Painful shooting in the left thigh, while walking (aft. 11 d.).

Tearing stitches in the thighs, while walking; these momentarily deprived the lower limbs of all strength, and almost paralyzed them, attended with chilliness.

Tearing stitches, severe enough to cause screaming, in the left thigh while at rest; then ulcerative pain in the same spot.

Brief pain in the right thigh, in the evening after lying down, but so severe, that she had to remain lying down without moving, for sixteen evenings in succession (aft. 2 d.).

1270. Furuncle on the thigh (aft. 17 d.).

In the knees, a drawing pain. [Gff.]

Gouty drawing in the knees.

Severe drawing pain in the knees, on walking and on rising from a seat.

Drawing pain in the knee-joint, in the evening.

1275. Tearing shooting between the patella and the knee-joint.

- Tearing in the right knee, as soon as she gets cold; no pain in it when touching the part.
- Tearing about the knees and the ankles, only while sitting and lying down.
- Tension in the tendons above the knee, on going up stairs.
- Tension about the knee.
1280. Tension in the knee, when walking in the open air.
- Shooting in the knee.
- Shooting and cutting in the hough.
- Shooting just below the patella, when walking fast.
- Boring pain in the left knee-joint, while at rest.
1285. Cracking in the knee-joint.
- Great weakness in the knees.
- Cold knees, at night.
- Painful swelling of the knee, with straining in the knee, both at rest and in motion.
- Soft, painless swelling on the patella; on kneeling down there is rigor and straining in the knee; the swelling feels numb.
1290. In the legs, restlessness, every evening, with formication therein.
- Pressure and drawing in the legs, extending from the knees to the toes, more while sitting and lying down, better while walking.
- Slight tearing, between the left knee and the calf. [Gff.]
- Heaviness of the legs, extending to the knees, as if they would drop off.
- Bruised pain of the knees and tibiæ, more when sitting than when walking.
1295. Pain in the tibia and fibula, but especially in the ankles, as if the bone was about to be forced asunder.
- Bruised pain of the tibia.
- Pain in the tibia, as from a blow.
- Bruised pain and weariness of the legs; she irresistibly sank into a slumber full of anxious phantasies.
- Sore pain on the tibia, but only when moving.
1300. Tearing, sometimes above, sometimes below the right calf (aft. 14 h.). [Gff.]
- Tearing anteriorly, just below the right knee (aft. 32 h.). [Gff.]
- Drawing pain in the leg, extending to the heel, with stinging therein.
- Drawing pain, deep in the right leg, extending down below the ankle. [Gff.]
- Burning in the lower half of the legs, at night in bed, she had to uncover herself.
1305. Tensive pain in the calf (aft. 14 d.).
- Bruised pain in the muscles of the calves and the tendons of the knee.
- Swelling of both legs (aft. 13 d.).
- Swelling between the tibia and the calf (aft. 13 d.).
- The swelling of the legs augments while sitting and standing, extending up to the knees, it disappears in walking.

1310. Cramp in the calves, at night (after taking cold.).
 Tension in the calves. [Gl.]
 Drawing tension, like cramp in the calves, extending from the ankle to the knee.
 Pressive pain on the lower part of the right calf, as if there would be cramp. [Gff.]
Severe cramp of the calf, at night in bed, while stretching the legs, and on the following day constant straining of the calves, as if too short.
1315. Severe itching on the tibia.
 Many itching pimples on the legs.
 Pointed pimples on the calves, even up to the knee, which cause itching, and where the clothes press upon them, stinging.
 A violent, tickling stitch, on the lower part of the right tibia. [Gff.]
 Tensive pain in the tendo Achillis.
1320. The ankle-joint is painful after walking in the open air, as if pressed together.
 Tensive pain in the dorsum of the left foot, so that she could not walk on the pavement.
 Pressure in the left ankle-joint, as if the boot was too tight.
 Pain in the tendons of the ankle-joint while walking, as if they were too short.
 Tension in the bend of the tarsal joint, as if too short, when walking (the first day).
1325. Pain in the foot, on walking in the open air, as if a tendon in the ankle had been strained.
 Swelling of the feet (aft. 27 d.).
 The feet are swollen up from much walking.
 Heaviness in the feet, extending to the knees, from early morning.
 Buzzing in the foot (aft. 4 d.).
1330. Formication in the feet while standing.
 The right foot goes to sleep (aft. 2 d.).
The feet go to sleep, frequently while sitting, especially in the morning.
 Tearing in the extreme lower part of the right foot (aft. 11 h.).
 Perspiration of the lower limbs, so violent by day that the moisture penetrates through the double covering. [Gr.]
1335. Sweating of the feet.
 Profuse sweating of the feet, but without smell or soreness.
 Sweating of the feet, especially on the toes, for two weeks.
 Profuse sweating of the feet with an unbearable smell; the toes become sore.
 Burning in the feet at night.
1340. Heat in the feet, by night.
 Tendency to cold feet.
 Icy cold feet, in the afternoon and evening, while sitting.
Very cold feet in the evening, chiefly in bed; when this passes off, very cold hands.
Icy cold feet, especially in the evening, even for a long time in bed they do not get warm.

1345. Fetor of the feet which usually perspire.
Stinging pain in the sole, also when touched; she can hardly walk.
Stinging in the dorsum of the foot, especially painful when walking on the pavement.
Eruptive pimples on the dorsum of the foot, severely itching, till they bleed from scratching.
Pricking in the soles of the feet, and pain in the corns.
1350. Tingling or pricking stinging in the soles and on the lower side of the toes, more while at rest than when walking (aft. 4 d.).
Shooting in the sole of the left foot, even while sitting.
Frequent shooting in the sole of the right foot (1st d.).
[Htb.]
Tearing in the sole of the right foot, close by the toes. [Gff.]
Frequent cramp on the inner margin of the sole of the foot.
1355. Long-continued cramp in the soles of the feet, in the evening in bed.
Itching on the outer side of the sole of the left foot. [Gff.]
Stinging in the heel, only by night (aft. 41 d.).
Stinging in the heel and in the corn, by day.
Burning, shooting and stinging sore pain in the heel, while sitting down.
1360. Cramp-like shooting in the heel, as if the tendons were too short, in the evening, when undressing and stretching out the foot.
Shooting and tearing in the heel, by day and by night, more painful when treading than when at rest; she was pale and cold, and when touched, the parts felt numb.
She readily gets a blister on the heel from walking.
Tearing in the right little toe.
Tearing in the big toe. [Gff.]
1365. Shooting pressure in the left big toe, more when at rest than when walking.
Burning shooting in the extreme tip of the big toe. [Gff.]
Tickling on the tip of the right big toe. [Gff.]
Bone-pain in the ball of the big toe.
First a tickling then a stinging pain in the anterior joint of the left big toe, frequently recurring. [Gff.]
1370. Cutting in the toes as with a knife, at night, most when lying on the back, with redness of the tips of the toes; in the morning the pain has disappeared (aft. 41 d.).
A toe-nail that for years had been crippled, passes into suppuration, and a new, sound one comes in its stead.
Pain on top of the toes, as if sore and erosive.
Itching on the toes.
Cramp in the toes, recurring for several days.
1375. Cramp in the second toe.
Pressive burning pain in the corn, even in large shoes.
Drawing pain in the corn, in the evening.
Shooting in the corns, even when at rest; when knocking against them, stitches causing screaming (aft. 48 h.).
Burning and shooting in the corn. [Htb.]
1380. Inflammation of the corn.

The ailments are quiescent during violent motion, as when walking in the open air, fencing, etc. (riding excepted); but they appear most frequently and most violently when sitting down quietly, in the forenoon and evening. [Gff.]

The ailments are far worse in the evening and night than by day.

Drawing in all the limbs (almost at once).

Gouty drawing in the knees and in the finger-joints.

1385. Drawing everywhere, even in the long bones of the arms.

Drawing tearing from below upward, in the arms and legs, all the day, but only while at rest, with great lassitude.

Tearing in the knees and the elbow-joints (aft. 16 d.).

Drawing and tearing in a spot on the skin, injured some time before.

Twitching and shooting here and there in the body (aft. 5 d.).

1390. Paralytic stiches here and there; after every stich there remained behind a certain immovableness in the part, for several minutes.

Twitching sensations here and there in the body, also in the head, on the right side and the left.

When he moves any limb, it twitches.

The right lower limb twitches at times by day, and then the right hand trembles so that he cannot write.

All the parts of the body, on which she sits or lies, are painful.

1395. Pain in all the limbs, especially in the hips (aft. 2 d.).

Purring in the legs, arms and hands.

The limbs readily go to sleep, even when stooping, crossing the legs, reaching up high with the arms, etc.

She feels as if she could readily hurt herself; sprain herself, strain her joints, etc.

Tendency to overlift oneself in working, and stiffness and straining thence in the nape.

1400. Impatience while sitting, like restlessness in the bones.

Restlessness in the whole body (aft. 24 h.).

Restlessness in the limbs (aft. 6 d.).

Timorousness, while driving in a carriage.

Anxiety in the limbs; he cannot rest anywhere.

1405. Frequent trembling all over the body (aft. 10 d.).

Trembling, quivering motion all over the body.

Ebullition of blood in the body, three days in succession (aft. 27 d.).

Ebullition of blood, with pressure of blood toward head and chest (aft. 16 d.).

She feels the pulsations all over the body, especially in the whole of the left side of the chest.

1410. She feels the pulsation in the head and in all the limbs, by day and by night, but more by night.

Much heated from a short walk.

After a walk, violent heat in the head and in the face.

When walking in the open air, the headache and lassitude are much aggravated.

After slight exercise, a flush of heat.

1415. Hot, oppressed and anxious from (his customary) smoking.
 Very warm and oppressive in the evening.
 Heat in the tip of the left toes; this darts quickly like an electric spark through the left side into the head, and leaves there a troublesome heaviness; lasting only one-half a minute.
 In walking, a profuse perspiration.
 In walking, much perspiration and exhaustion.
1420. In moving about, a profuse perspiration, smelling almost like elder-blossoms.
 The least motion, even a little writing, causes perspiration.
 She either feels too cold, or is heated, terminating in a perspiration.
 Icy cold hands, attended with warm feet, and vice versa; but often both are icy cold. [Gff.]
 Sensitiveness to cold air. [Gff.]
1425. He is much averse to cold air.
 Very sensitive to cold air from the north.
 The pains are accompanied with shuddering.
 Local application of heat relieves the pains.
 After getting wet, an unusual kind of a cold; violent shaking chill; after several hours, attacks of swooning; the following day, coryza.
1430. Owing to a cold, cramp in the stomach, with burning contraction.
 Readiness to take cold; after drinking a glass of cold water, an inordinate chill and a watery, mucous diarrhoea, till bed-time.
 After slight exposure to catching cold, tearing in the left scapula.
 Swelling of the whole body, of the face, the abdomen, the legs and the arms even to the wrist, without thirst and with much shortness of breath; for three weeks, with fever every two or three days, alternating with chills and heat, at varying hours, even at night; the heat is attended with perspiration all over (aft. 48 h.).
 In the evening, swelling in the wrist, in the bend of the elbow and about the ankles; the joints are rigid on moving them; in the morning the swelling had disappeared, but the parts were painful when touched.
1435. The skin of the whole body pains as if sore.
 The skin of the whole body is painfully sensitive at the least impact.
 Pin-pricks over the skin, in the evening in bed, when he gets warm.
 Itching in the face, on the arms, the hands, the back, on the hips, the feet, the abdomen and the pubes (aft. 2, 20, 23, 28 d.).
 The itching turns into burning.
1440. Itching and itching pimples in the joints, especially in the bend of the elbow and the hough, and in the ankle, more in the evening and the morning, than by day (aft. sever. h.).
 Itching blisters and blotches in the face, on the hands and on the feet.

Itching in an ulcer.

Burning and shooting in an ulcer, especially by night.

A sore place swells, becomes hot and burns painfully.

1445. The cuticle peels off in larger and smaller mostly roundish spots, especially on the hands and fingers, without pain (scaling off) (aft sever. d.).

Claret-colored spots on the neck and under the chin, without sensation. [Htb]

Red insensible nodules, like lentils, here and there on the hands; on puncturing them, they emit some humor. [Htb.]

After a bee-sting, redness and an itching red miliary eruption all over the body, inflamed eyes and drops of perspiration in the face; all in a few minutes.

On walking in the open air, slight attacks of vertigo and palpitation.

1450. On walking, there is usually pressure in the liver.

On walking, inflation of the abdomen, with discharge of flatus.

On walking in the cold air, all kinds of pain in the long bones, especially in their extremities.

At every movement of the body, he feels nausea, as if about to vomit and so weary, that in the open air, he had at once to lie down on the ground; all the limbs were devoid of tension.

On walking in the open air, there is at once accumulation of flatus in the abdomen.

1455. Attack of nausea, in the morning, while walking; things turned black before his eyes, there was heat from one P. M. till six P. M. with tearing in all the limbs, with long-continued nausea; in the evening, weakness even to swooning, with melancholy; everything affected his nerves, he was very easily frightened; at night an inordinate quantity of very fetid flatus was discharged (aft. 4 d.).

Attack of pressive drawing pain in the umbilical region, then mucous discharge from the anus, with violent urging and shooting; soon after, a rush of blood to the chest, with anxiety and restlessness, which after dinner passed into a sort of fever; alternately internal heat and chill, with perspiration on the head from one till four o'clock, then a headache which left behind it a certain pain in the nape; it returns in the same way on the following day.

Attack of a sensation as from an icy-cold hand between the scapulæ, then coldness all over the body, then cramp on the chest as if he should suffocate, for several minutes; then clonic convulsions of the right lower limb and twitching therein, and twitching of the right arm, when the leg was held fast; finally trembling in the lower limbs all day (aft. 10 d.).

Fit of nausea, in the forenoon after walking; things became black before his eyes; he did not relish food; even before his meals, there was heat and pain in all the limbs; the nausea remained, he had headache, and while in company, he felt faint even to swooning; every trifle affected him and he was very timorous.

While driving slowly, a swoon.

1460. Cramps, like nervous debility, last all day for a whole week, with the pulse sometimes languid, sometimes spasmodic.
Sensation of numbness in all the nerves, also those of the tongue, with muddled sensation in the head and absence of thoughts, in the evening. [GU.]
She felt best while resting and lying down.
During the menses, things turn black before her eyes, with weakness, so that she has to lie down, which relieves her.
Sultry air before the storm oppresses him; he feels cheerful when it lightens and thunders.
1465. By a half hour's walk, he is so much exhausted, that he felt sick and could not breathe, the windpipe felt contracted to the scrobiculus cordis.
So weak, that she thought she would swoon (aft. 7 d.).
Very languid in the morning, with restlessness in the abdomen.
Attack of swooning, in the forenoon (aft. 23 d.).
Attack of vertigo with fainting for two hours, with very short breath.
1470. The lower limbs have a bruised feeling; every nerve in them aches; they were also painful when touched; it disappeared after dancing.
The lower limbs ache as if bruised; she longs to sit down and when she is sitting, she feels as if she ought to rise.
Much lassitude in the lower limbs.
Great exhaustion, in the evening at 7 o'clock.
Indolence of body and mind, with difficult breathing (aft. 8 d.).
1475. Very weary and short of breath, as in a continuous fever.
Heaviness in all the limbs.
Heaviness in the feet, when walking.
Heaviness in the feet, when taking a walk (aft. sever. h..)
Weary, especially in the knees.
1480. Sudden paralysis of a lower limb for several hours.
She becomes lame from vexation.
Great weakness (aft. 24 h.).
Weariness in all the limbs, with chill (3d d.).
She was weary and had to lie down, in the forenoon (aft. 2 h.).
1485. Feeling of clumsiness (aft. 24 h.).
Very tired, in the morning, on rising from bed.
Great weariness in bed, on awaking early; cannot fall asleep again.
In the morning, after waking up bright, in a few hours there is lack of tone and discomfort, so that he would rather have slept than worked.
Faint, in the morning, on rising from bed, even so as to sink down, with absence of thought; then chilliness with goose-skin and yawning for an hour; the tongue is very pale, the pulse, slow and weak.
1490. In the afternoon, after eating a little, lazy and drowsy.
Sleep for several afternoons (aft. 2 d.).
Extremely drowsy at noon, bright again in the afternoon.
Very drowsy by day, and indisposed to do anything.

Drowsiness by day, she goes to sleep, as soon as she sits down.

1495. When sitting, he is sleepy, and on reading, he falls asleep.
Very tired and drowsy by day, but there is sound sleep by night.

Inclination to sleep, even in the forenoon; she has to sleep for an hour.

Sleepiness early in the evening, with pressive muddled feeling in the head (aft. 72 h.)

- Goes to sleep (almost at once), with perspiration in the face.
1500. Somnolence of a tertian type, recurring four times; the child sleeps almost the whole day; wherever it sits down, it falls asleep, and complains of a pain in the forehead. [Hib.]

Much yawning at noon and in the afternoon, after a walk.

Much yawning and stretching.

Extending and stretching, in the morning, in bed.

She remains awake late in the evening.

1505. Late in going to sleep, in the evening, due to her being wide awake.

Late in falling asleep, in the evening.

Late in falling asleep (aft. sever. h.). [Also Gff.]

She cannot go to sleep for restlessness.

Late in falling asleep, if she does not go to bed early, and she then also wakes up early.

1510. He sleeps at night only from ten to four o'clock.

Restlessness in bed in the evening, he also wakes up very early.

Wide awake insomnia, at night, from a rush of ideas.

She wakes up at 1 A. M. and cannot go to sleep again.

Wide awake and excited all night, and yet well and vigorous by day.

1515. Restless sleep for several weeks, with many dreams and tossing about; later, a quiet sleep.

Restless sleep, with frequent awaking after midnight. [Gff.]

At night, great restlessness in the limbs.

Frequent awaking at night, many nights in succession (aft. 6 d.).

Sleep is sound, though with many vivid dreams. [Gff.]

1520. But slight sleep at night, with vivid dreams about the last day's occurrences.

The sleep is interrupted by vivid, disagreeable dreams (aft. 16 h.).

Many dreams, at night, and loud talking in sleep.

He talks aloud in his sleep.

She groans and grunts at night in her sleep, without any bad dream that she can remember.

1525. Restless sleep with an annoying dream; he cries out aloud, kicks with his feet, and lifted up his arm, which he then slowly put down again.

He rises up about midnight, as if delirious, and begins to laugh; when questioned, he presses his eyes shut, and sits quite rigid, with stretched out arms and hands and with clenched teeth;

after taking a drink of water, he asks, what he should do with the great quantity of water in his stomach, but he drank more, and held up his hand partly closed, as if he was still holding the tumbler, and laughed and said: "This is nice, the water has prevailed." Then he talked of three couriers, who were coming, and pointed to people, who according to him were standing about, here and there.

Endless dreams, the whole night. [Gl.]

Vexatious, horrible dreams.

Anxious dream, at night, as if he was being chased, and had to run backward; when awakened, he imagined, that something which oppressed his chest was coming down upon him from above; then crawling and stitches in the chest.

1530. Anxious dream, as if his body was deformed.

Frightful dream, as if he was falling down from a high mountain.

Frightful dreams; she cries out in her sleep.

A dream full of strife.

1535. Anxious dreams, which drive him from his bed (aft. 19 d.).
He wakes up at night with fright and a shriek.

Screaming at night in one's sleep.

Horrible, vexing dreams.

Lascivious dreams and erections disturb the night's sleep.

Anxious dreams of a threatened rape (aft. 2 d.).

1540. Voluptuous dream with pollution.

Lewd dreams disturb the sleep (14th n.).

At night he has to get up and walk about for half an hour.

Many apprehensions at night.

About midnight, during a profuse sweat, a sort of syncope, for a quarter of an hour, with consciousness, but without ability to speak or to move a finger; he lay in the deepest faint, like a dream, in which he contended with a spirit; scarcely awakened from this, he fell into a second swoon, with a dream, as if he had gone astray in a wood.

1545. On falling asleep, there was an internal trembling, with itching on the thigh, which went off after scratching.

On going to sleep, a frightening, oppressive ebullition of blood.

Restless sleep at night, owing to anxious dreams and heat; she could not lie quiet for five minutes (aft. 7 d.).

At night, much ebullition of blood in the whole body, causing uneasiness.

At night, awaking with heat, causing anxiety.

1550. At night, heat and consequent restlessness.

In the morning, on awaking, very much heated.

At night, febrile heat with anxious fancies and fanciful dreams, with perspiration on the head.

Insomnia at night, and when he sleeps, ravings.

When he closes his eyes at night, while awake, many fantastic images at once appear before his phantasy, which vanish again as he opens his eyes.

1555. About midnight, awaking with a chill, great anxiety, twitching and spasmodic drawing in the thighs, the chest and the jaws, for half an hour.

At night he awakes with a violent anguish, and cramp in the abdomen, then in the mouth, the chest and the hip-joint, with palpitation.

At night, but little sleep, owing to pain in the hip-joint when moving.

At night, severe tearing, extending from the hip-joint to the foot, impeding sleep.

At night, twitching of the limbs.

1560. Frightened starting from the siesta.

When going to sleep, repeated starting up.

On falling asleep, twitching of the legs.

At night, she could not lie still for great uneasiness in the whole of the body, but had to turn over continually, and she dared not close her eyes, as this aggravated it.

At night, after a brief sleep, he awakes with great restlessness of body, which hardly allowed him to lie still.

1565. In the morning, on awaking, anxiety; this goes off after rising.

He wakes up at 3 a. m. and cannot go to sleep again.

She wakes up several mornings at 4 A. M.

She wakes up at 1 A. M. and cannot go to sleep again from being wide awake.

Before midnight, quiet lying abed, without sleep.

1570. Sleepless night, without ailment; only she could not lie still (aft. 20 d.).

At night, drawing and pressure in the scrobiculus cordis (aft. 12 h.).

At night, a pressive and bruised pain in the hypogastrium awakes her, for several nights.

Several nights, awaking from a burning shooting in the heel (aft. 5 d.).

At night, violently throbbing headache (aft. 20 d.).

1575. At night, pressure in the eyes (aft. 2 d.).

At night, a severe itching in the right ear, with moisture there.

In the morning, on awaking, pressure in the left ear, for a quarter of an hour.

At night, frequent awaking from a drawing pain in the molars, extending up into the forehead.

At night, frequent awaking from throbbing in the molars, across the cheek, toward the occiput.

1580. At night, a muttering in the molars.

The whole night, drawing in the corns.

At night, while waking up frequently, stitches in the tip of the elbow.

At night, vertigo, on raising oneself in bed.

At 2 A. M. awaking from violent colic, at times also a pressive pain above and around the navel, attended with a trembling motion of the heart, which is externally sensible (without palpitation), with a full pulse; accompanied with nausea and sensation

- of great lassitude; three nights in succession, with great dryness of the mouth. [Gff.]
1585. In the evening in bed, violent palpitation of the heart, and throbbing of all the arteries.
 In the evening in bed, violent pulsation in the head, and sensation as if the head were moving.
 The sleep at night is interrupted, with pain in the sacrum (aft. 12 d.).
 At night the arms go to sleep and this extends into the hand; this is especially painful when they are under the cover, when there is a tearing straining.
 At night, a dry tickling cough, with a sort of spasm in the chest, both of which had disappeared in the morning.
1590. Sleep disturbed by frequent coughing and aching in the feet. [Gr.]
 At night, she cannot shut an eye for coughing.
 At night, she has to rise frequently to urinate.
 At night, the hands frequently go to sleep (6th n.).
 At night, he often awakes with vomituration.
1595. At night, in sleep, severe bruised pain and exhaustion in the thighs and the upper arms, but only while slumbering, it disappeared at once when awaking.
 In the morning, on awaking, the arms and legs seem without strength (aft. 5 d.).
 In the morning, on awaking, feeling of weakness, like nausea. [Gff.]
 Long sleep, without refreshment (aft. 23 d.).
 Fatiguing sleep (aft. 15 d.).
1600. Late, difficult awaking, with weariness of the limbs. [Gff.]
 He finds it hard to get up in the morning; he has no inclination for it. [Gff.]
 In the morning, after awaking, weary, also alternately febrile shuddering with short breath, as if from internal heat, which he did not, however, feel.
 In the morning, after awaking, great thirst.
 In the morning, after awaking, some perspiration.
1605. Awaking in the morning, with much chill and internal unrest (aft. 24 h.).
 Slow pulse, from fifty-six to fifty-eight beats (aft. 32 d.).
 Complete adipsia, for eleven days. [Gff.]
 Feverish, languid; the urine is hot.
 Shuddering, several times during the day, without chill.
1610. Constant febrile shudder, during the siesta.
 Constant chill, day and night, with colic, for several days.
 Continual chill and chilliness.
 Internal chill, in the warm room, all day long, for several days.
 Chill for several nights in bed.
1615. Chill in the evening at 6 o'clock; he has to lie down.
 She could not get warm all day in the warm room.
 She is always chilly in the warm room, at every motion.
 Chill with thirst toward evening; the following night, sweat

Severe chill for an hour, and afterward, thirst, in the evening (aft. 36 h.) and in the morning (aft. 48 h.); he had to lie abed. 1620. Shaking chill, even on the head, with icy-cold hands, yawning and great lassitude. [Hib.]

Shuddering till he went to bed; then, in bed, heat in the face.

In the afternoon, at five o'clock, fever; first thirst, and after drinking cold water, chilliness and inclination to lie down, then sleep, and inclination to a general light perspiration.

In the forenoon at eleven o'clock, while writing, first the feet then the rest of the body became cold, with a shaking chill; he had to lie down; he became warm and at four A. M., hot, with tendency to perspire, and he perspired all night, all over the body, but only moderately (9th d.).

At four P. M. chilliness and heat on the forehead, for half an hour.

1625. Febrile shuddering, alternating with heat, till night.

Alternately heat in the head. and chilliness in the lower limbs (aft. 13 d.).

With febrile heat and intermingled shaking chills, a severe headache, a dull and heavy feeling in the forehead, after previous flickering of light before the eyes, as from a thousand suns, with heat and pressure therein; attended with much nausea and oppression of the chest, as if everything was constricted, but without short breath, from morning till evening (aft. 72 h.).

Almost uninterrupted heat of the whole body, with redness of the face and perspiration on the head and the body, with severe headache, like heaviness; also palpitation, and trembling all over the body; after the heat, a chill and coldness, with dying off of the hands; for four days.

Intermittent fever, frequently by day, at indefinite periods; first, a general heat, with perspiration of the face, violent thirst and bitterness in the mouth; then again a chill with general coldness in the face, with inclination to vomit, pressure in the forehead extending to the temple; during the heat, vertigo, as if she should sink down.

1630. Violent shaking chill, for one hour; then severe heat with unconsciousness; then profuse perspiration, in the evening; the urine being brown and having a sharp smell (1st d.).

In the morning some chill, then the whole day, heat of the face and the hands, with paleness of the face, with thirst and without perspiration; at the same time in the forenoon, pressive stomachache and headache on stooping (aft. 6 d.).

Fever with pressure, in the temples, in paroxysms of several minutes, and short breath, as from internal heat, all through the night; then in the morning, weary in the lower limbs, thirst, lack of appetite, drowsiness; through the day, febrile shuddering, sore throat and swelling of the submaxillary glands.

Constant, dry, febrile heat, with redness in the face, great thirst, painful deglutition, stitches in the left scapula, arresting the breathing, and tearing in the upper and lower limbs (aft. 13 d.).

Flushes of transient heat, as if hot water was poured over the body, with redness in the face, perspiration all over the body, and anxiety, without thirst, but with dryness in the throat.

1635. In the afternoon, heat for two hours on the forehead, and drawing in the thighs, as in a fever.

Anxious heat, from four to five in the morning, and from five to six o'clock in the evening.

Attack of heat, every day from one to six in the afternoon, for several days.

Flush of heat, in the evening; then itching.

Intense heat till midnight (the first 8 n.).

1640. Steady, slight perspiration, day and night.

In the evening, before falling asleep, always a slight perspiration.

Profuse general night-sweat, from evening till morning.

Much perspiration during sleep, especially on the head.

Night-sweat from above downward, to the middle of the calves.

1645. At night, cold perspiration on the chest, back and thighs (aft. 36 h. and aft. 6 d.).

Perspiration every other night.

Perspiration every morning in bed, after awaking, especially on the lower limbs.

Morning-sweat all over, after awaking.

In the morning after awaking, perspiration which continued in great profusion all day and fatigued him so much, that he could not stand up in the evening (aft. 13 d.).

1650. Profuse morning-sweat (aft. 3 d.).

Morning-sweat for several mornings, with anxiety.

Slight, odorless perspiration in the morning, for three hours, several mornings in succession, without subsequent lassitude.

Perspiration which smells sour (aft. 30 d.).

Sourish night-sweat, for five mornings (aft. 7 d.).

1655. Offensive smell of the perspiration, almost like elder-blossoms.

SILICEA TERRA, SILICEOUS EARTH.

Take half an ounce of rock-crystal which has been comminuted by repeated heating and immersing in cold water, or clean, white sand, washed with distilled vinegar; this is mixed with two ounces of powdered natrum, melted in an iron crucible, till all effervescence is over and the liquefied mass is clear, when it is poured out on a marble-slab. The glass thus obtained, which is transparent like water, is reduced to powder while still warm and is put into a bottle, adding at least four times its weight of distilled water. If the bottle is thus filled to the top and corked immediately there is formed a solution which remains clear and transparent; but if it is poured into an open tumbler, only loosely covered with paper, it is at once decomposed, and allows all the snow-white silica to be deposited as a sediment. The causticum of the natrum (which is not yet recognized by the anti-phlogistic chemistry), during melting, combined with the atmospheric air, forming almost instantaneously the (so-called) carbonic acid* which was necessary to neutralize and moderate it, so as to allow the silica to be precipitated. The transparent liquid decanted is pure, mild natron, which effervesces with all the other acids.

To lixivate the silica, the water must be mixed with some alcohol, so that the liberated silica may the more easily settle down. Then it is freed from water on a filter of blotting-paper; this is finally laid between several sheets of dry blotting-paper, and weights are laid upon it, so as to withdraw the moisture as far as possible from the silica, after which it is entirely dried in the air, or in a warm place.

Silica is dynamized like the other dry medicines. It shows itself especially beneficial, when after having been properly selected, some of the following symptoms were present:

Disposed to get vexed; lack of cheerfulness; indisposition to work; intense irritability; vexation and anxiety about every trifle, owing

---

* This acid also is not originally present in coal, but is only formed from the caustic substance set free by the ignition of the coal, when this (during the exposure of the coal to the cold air) combines with the atmospheric air; this takes place even in air which has been before deprived of any carbonic acid which it may contain, through shaking it up with cold, freshly distilled water. This carbonic acid does, therefore, not belong to coal as such; the acid is, therefore, denominated "carbonic acid" only arbitrarily and improperly. See the article on Causticum in the previous part of this work.

to great nervous debility; lack of courage; restlessness; lack of memory; fatigue from reading and writing; inability to think; gloominess of the head; great dizziness in the evening, as if intoxicated; gloomy, dull feeling in the head; vertigo so that he must hold to something; heat in the head; headache from getting heated; headache from the nape up the vertex, hindering the sleep at night; daily headache, a tearing with heat in the forehead in the forenoon; daily headache from noon till evening, a heaviness pressing outward at the forehead; drawing pain in the head, as if it would come out at the forehead; pain in the head, as if it would burst; throbbing headache; headache on one side; tearing and shooting out at the eyes and in the bones of the face; perspiration of the head in the evening; itching, humid, scurfy scald head; elevations like lumps on the hairy scalp; falling off of the hair; far-sightedness; photophobia; the eyes are dazzled in the bright daylight; cataract; black motes floating before the eyes; obscuration of the vision as from a gray cover; amaurosis; fiery sparks before the eyes; weakness of the eyes; when reading by candle light, the letters flow together; pale face when reading; attacks of sudden blindness; the spectacles are indispensable for writing and reading; fistula lachrymalis; lachrymation in the open air; smarting of the eyes; agglutination of the eyes; redness of the eyes with pain in the canthi; inflammation of the eyes; sounding in the ears; noise before the ears; stoppage of the ears, which sometimes open with an explosion; deafness, without any noise in the ears; hardness of hearing; fluttering before the ears; boring pain in the ears; shooting outward from within the ears; eruptive pimples on the nose; redness of the tip of the nose; eruptive pimples in the nose; troublesome sensation of dryness in the nose; stoppage of both the nostrils; lack of olfaction; epistaxis; the skin of the face is chapped and cracked open; heat in the face; swelling of the bones of the lower jaw; nightly drawing and shooting in the lower jaw; the closing of the jaws is hindered by turgidity of the neck; ulcer in the red part of the lower lip; herpes on the chin; swelling of the submaxillary glands; digging and stitches in the teeth; boring pain in the teeth; tearing pain in the teeth and in the whole of the cheek, by day and by night; jerks in the tooth, when he sucks it with the tongue; tearing toothache, which during eating darts out at the ear; bleeding of the gums; dryness in the mouth; soreness of the tongue; lack of the sense of taste; constant mucus in the mouth; bitterness in the mouth, in the morning, eructation; sour eructation; eructation with the taste of the ingesta; in the morning, nausea; constant nausea and vomiting; nausea after every heating exercise; nausea after meals; vomiting every time after drinking; nausea, every morning, with headache and eyeache, on turning the eyes; cannot digest meat; waterbrash with shuddering; intense thirst; he is averse to all food; aversion to cooked food; loathing of meat; the child refuses the mother's breast and vomits after sucking; pressure in the stomach; pressure in the stomach from drinking quickly; painfulness of the pit of the stomach when pressing upon it; grasping in the pit of the stomach, also after eating; pressure in the stomach for many years, waterbrash followed by vomiting, after every meal; fullness after eating; hardness and inflation in the hepatic region; hardness and inflation of the abdomen on the right side and in the middle above the navel, with pain when touched; distended, hard abdomen (with children); distention of the hypogastrium; burning in the abdomen; growling and grunting in the abdomen, while exercising; incarceration of flatus; difficult discharge of flatus; painful inguinal hernia; pinching in the abdomen; colic; cutting in the hypogastrium, without diarrhœa; colicky pains from constipation; colic with diarrhœa; worm-fever with scrofulous persons (Whl.); several pappy stools a day; costiveness; constipation; the stool is delayed; costiveness with many ineffectual calls to stool; itching on the anus; frequent micturition; nightly wetting the bed; lack of sexual impulse and weakness of the sexual powers; frequent involuntary lewd thoughts; excessive sexual impulse; itching on the prepuce; menses too scanty; menses suppressed for several months; menses too early and too weak; discharge of blood from the uterus when suckling; acrid, corrosive leucorrhœa; leucorrhœa discharged during micturition; leucorrhœa like milk, in a rush, preceded by cutting in the umbilical region; itching on the pudenda.

Abortive sneezing, she cannot finish sneezing; excessive or too frequent sneezing; stoppage of the nose for many years; dry coryza; constant coryza; frequent fluent coryza; fluent coryza, relieving a chronic obstruction of the nose; hoarseness; asthma and short breathing, while at rest; shortness of breath during slight manual work; shortness of breath when walking fast; panting on walking fast; arrest of breathing, while lying on the back; arrest of breathing when stooping; arrest of breathing while running; arrest of breathing; coughing with purulent expectoration; coughing with expectoration of mucus; suffocating night-cough; pressure on the chest; pressure on the chest, while coughing and sneezing; beating in the sternum; shooting from the chest through into the back; shooting under the left ribs; pain in the sacrum, both per se and when touched; spasmodic drawing in the sacrum compelling one to lie down, and not allowing the person to rise; shooting in the back; tearing in the back; aching in the trunk, as if broken and bruised; shooting in the loin above the pelvis, while sitting and lying; bruised pain between the scapulæ; weakness in the sacrum, back and nape; swelling of the glands in the nape of the neck; pain in the arm on which he lies, as if it was asleep; heaviness of the arms; he cannot hold it up long; the arm feels paralyzed and trembles from a slight amount of work; drawing pain in the arm; tearing in the arm; warts on the arms; incipient paralysis of the forearm, the hand allow things to fall down, which it should hold; nocturnal shooting in the wrist, extending up to the arm; formication in the fingers; aching in the finger-joints, when pressing upon them; stiffness; want of flexibility and loss of strength in the fingers; panaritium; drawing and straining in the lower limbs; pressure in the muscles of the thighs; swelling of the knee; drawing pain in the legs; numbness of the calves; the feet go to sleep, in the evening; after manual labor there is cramp of the calves in the evening; shooting in the ankles, when treading; coldness of the feet; sweating of the feet; suppressed sweat of the feet and coldness of the feet; fetor of the feet; swelling of the feet; when slightly scratching a small spot on the sole of the foot, a voluptuous titillation, almost driving one to madness; painful, hard callosity on the skin of the sole of the foot; corns; stitches in the corns; ulcer on the big toe, with shooting pain; ebullition of blood, and thirst, from drinking a little wine; tendency to strains; perspiration during a short walk; readiness to take cold on uncovering the feet; chilliness; exostosis; fetor of the ulcers; itching all over the body; ulcers on the legs, with sickly complexion of the face; itching ulcer on the thigh and on the ankle; carbuncle (inflamed boil); nightly shooting in all the joints; difficulty in learning to walk; twitching of the limbs, by day and by night; epilepsy; tearing in the arms and legs; cramp in the arms and legs; the limbs go to sleep; paralytic feeling in the limbs, in the evening; bruised feeling in the limbs in the evening; nervous debility; general lack of strength; faint feeling while lying on the side; drowsiness in the afternoon; frequent yawning; late in falling asleep, in the evening in bed; the sleep at night is too light, like a slumber; many dreams and frequent awaking; many dreams, every night; snoring in sleep; anxious dreams; starting when asleep; twitching of the body, at night, in sleep; raving, at night, with anxious dreams; talking in sleep; night-sweat; dreadful images before the eyes, at night; nightly dryness of the nose; frequent shaking chill, every day; profuse sour sweat, at night.

I have found only Hepar sulphuris calcareum to antidote silica. Repeated smelling of a dilution is sufficient for this purpose; this may be repeated as occasion demands. Camphor gives but a slight and insignificant relief.

The abbreviations of names are: (Hg.) Herring; (Gr.) Gross; (Stf.) Stapf; (Gll.) Goullon; (Whl.) Wahle; and (Ng.)<sup>1</sup>

SILICEA.

Dejected.

Dejected and melancholy. [Gll.]

Longing for home.

Disposed to weep, for two hours, without any particular thought.

5. The least remark makes her weep.

He is frequently seized by anguish, so that he cannot sit still.

Restlessness and impatience frequently seize upon him, so that he cannot contain himself.

He feels the greatest conscientious scruples about trifles; as if he had done a very great wrong. [Gr.]

Very much inclined to start.

10. After a fright, there is great anxiety.

Sensitive to noise, which makes him apprehensive.

Loud talking is oppressive to him.

Unsteadiness and confusion in his actions.

She could not and would not attend to anything, for ill humor.

15. Moroseness and despondency.

Internal surfeit of life.

Self-willed.

Capricious and disposed to take things ill.

Discontent.

20. Peevish.

Everything annoys and vexes her.

Sullen (9th d.).

Angry and sullen. [Ng.]

Angry and quarrelsome, in the evening.

25. Frequently vexed at trifles.

The child becomes self-willed, obstinate and headstrong.

With the best intentions, he is easily put out.

Disposed to get angry.

Very irritable, although cheerful.

30. Lack of memory, forgetfulness.

Forgetful and dizzy, every morning.

Apt to use wrong words in speaking. [Gll.]

Great distraction, in the forenoon, with restlessness in the head and in the scrobiculus cordis.

Distracted, he is almost always, as to his mind, in two places at a time. [Gr.]

35. Difficulty in thinking (1st d.). [FOISSAC.]

<sup>1</sup>Silicea is one of the medicines appearing for the first time in the first edition; it there contains 567 symptoms, having the usual origin in Hahnemann's practice. Of the additions made in the present list, 476 are also his, the remaining 150 being (save Neuning's) of unknown origin.—Hughes.

Even from little conversation, his head at once becomes muddled and there is general exhaustion, so that he has to break off the conversation. [Gr.]

Mental work becomes difficult to him.

Muddled state of the head, with a bruised feeling in the body.

She continually feels intoxicated.

40. Queer feeling in the head, as if she should fall hither and thither, with ringing in the ears.

Dull feeling in the head, without pain, as if there was too much blood in it. [Stf.]

Dizzy, he feels silly, he could not think of the proper expression and almost continually used the wrong words (at once).

Inability to read, write and think, this increased from noon till 6 P. M. and disappeared after supper (2d d.). [FOISSAC.]

Great readiness in thinking and facility in expressing himself in a fluent style (7th, 8th and 9th d.). [FOISSAC.] (After-effect.)

45. Vertigo, on going forward; he imagined he was going backward.

Slight vertigo, all day, with some nausea.

Constant vertigo, as if something was moving to and fro in the head, even while sitting, less while lying down.

Inordinate vertigo, in walking, she sometimes does not know where she is, she feels as if she would fall sideways, first to one side, then to the other.

Vertigo, with inclination to vomit; she belches up water.

50. Sensation of vertigo, in the morning, while fasting.

Vertigo, in the morning while rising, and when stooping to his work, even so as to fall over. [Ng.]

Vertigo, as if he were being raised up.

Vertigo, from merely raising his eyes to look up.

Vertigo, after his customary smoking and snuffing of tobacco; when he closes his eyes everything turns around with him; this passes off, as he again opens his eyes.

55. Vertigo, while sitting and standing, in the evening. [Gr.]

Attack of vertigo, toward evening in the open air; the least effort to think aggravated the ailment. [Gr.]

Vertigo on rising. [Gll.]

Severe vertigo, which never left him, with great obtuseness of the head.

In the morning, on raising her herself in bed, she had at once to sink back again, owing to vertigo with inclination to vomit.

60. Stupefying vertigo, in the morning, on rising.

In the morning, on rising from bed, he staggers.

The attacks of vertigo seem to rise up, attended with pain from the back through the nape into the head, so that she does not know where she is, and always tends to fall forward.

Frequent vertigo, only while sitting, not when walking, especially in going out driving, where he suddenly loses his consciousness for a minute, but things do not turn black before his eyes.

Dizzy, while things whirl around him, every morning, for half an hour after rising, while walking and sitting, with headache for one to two hours; when stooping, he feels as if he should fall over.

65. In the morning, intense vertigo, so that she had to hold to something in walking; she felt drawn to the right side, with nausea; for several days in succession, and in the afternoon, it was so violent, that she had to lie down (12th d.).

Vertigo, during breakfast, as if the head would fall to the left side, with heat in the face and perspiration in the forehead.

In the morning, on rising, a dizzy stupefaction of the head, with nausea as if about to vomit; it is relieved by driving in the open air, but returns on coming back to her room; the room seemed to turn around with her, and she staggered to and fro (aft. 38 d.).

Dizzy, unsteady in his walk, he staggers.

Gloomy and dizzy in the head, so that he was always afraid of falling when he moved or stooped; he could not walk safely for several weeks.

70. Gloomy feeling in the head (aft. 4 d.).

The most violent headache, with unconsciousness, so that she groaned and called for help (aft. 46 d.).

Rush of blood to the head, with stitches in the occiput.

Severe rush of blood to the head, on rising from a seat, with sensation of fullness in the brain.

Rush of blood to the head; the top of the head and the forehead throb, while the head is heavy.

75. Rush of blood to the right temple.

Ebullition of blood in the head, with redness and burning of the face. [Ng.]

Weariness of the head (1st d.). [FOISSAC.]

Heaviness of the head.

Headache from heaviness, as if there was lead in the brain, increasing from the forenoon till night.

80. Heaviness, tearing and stitches in the head, most in the forehead; her head is at the same time drawn sideways. [Ng.]

She feels as if she could not hold up her head.

Heat in the head.

Heat in the head, with anxiety.

Resounding concussion in the brain, when treading strongly or knocking his foot against something.

85. In walking, there is a pinching in the head.

Painless jerks and twitches in the head.

Headache; a pressive jerk in the middle of the forehead, renewed on quickly turning around, on stooping and on talking (aft. 10 d.).

Headache from hunger.

Headache at night. [Gll.]

90. From slight mental work, a pressive headache in the forehead (aft. 3 d.).

Pressive headache, with ill humor and with heaviness in all the limbs.

Pressure in both sides of the occiput. [Gll.]

- Pressure in the occiput, soon afterward, shooting in the forehead, with chilliness in the nape and back.
- Pressure in the temple and over the right eye, after a slight cold. [Gl.]
95. Pressure in the occiput and nape, in the morning. [Gl.]
 Pressure the in head, with lassitude of the body.
 Pressure, in the morning, above the nose.
 Pressive pain in the occiput, relieved by wrapping up the head warm.
- Pressure, in the evening, on the vertex of the head, extending into the eyes (aft. 18 d.).
100. Pressure in the forehead, from morning till evening.
 Pressive sensation as from a heavy load in the forehead, above the eyes.
 Pressure in the right temple, from noon till evening (aft. 19 d.).
 Pressive pain in the forehead and the eyes, as from a coming coryza.
 Pressive pain in the forehead, in the morning, a while after rising, not aggravated by moving.
105. In the morning, a severely pressive headache, extending into the eyes; attended with a severe chill, in the afternoon, with nausea and lassitude, so that she thought she would faint; the eyes were painful on being turned to the side or closed, and the closed eyes pained even more when touched (11th d.).
 Pressure, tension and squeezing in the head, as if it was forced together, or as if pressed apart.
 Pain of the cerebrum, as if it was squeezed together, increased from twelve to two o'clock (1st d.). [FOISSAC.]
 Compression of the brain (2d d.). [FOISSAC.]
 Hard, jerking pressure in the upper part of the head, extending deep into the brain, in paroxysms of one to two minutes.
110. Tension in the eyes and the forehead, with lassitude of the body.
 Headache, as if the brain and the eyes were pushed forward.
 Headache, as if everything was coming out and as if the skull would burst.
 Severe headache, as if severe stitches would pierce the vertex.
 Headache, extending from the nape up toward the vertex, coming apparently from the back (aft. 21 d.).
115. Disagreeable sensation, as if everything in the head was alive, and turned and whirled about in it.
 Boring headache in the forehead, for many days in succession.
 Tearing pain, as if the head would burst, and beating therein from the vertex, seemingly at the same time within and without, with chilliness; he had to lie down, and turned about in bed, for four hours; bandaging the head relieved it.
 Tearing in the sinciput, every afternoon from four to seven o'clock.
 Tearing headache in the forehead, toward the parietal bones, all the day, aggravated toward evening, worse on moving (aft. 13 d.).

120. Tearing, throbbing headache with eructations. [Gl.].
Tearing and shooting in the head, in the afternoon.
Stitches in the temples.
Stitches in the occiput.
Stitches in the brain, upward.
125. Acutely shooting pain in the forehead (aft. sever. h.).
Disagreeable shooting in the head, with great ill humor and much moroseness (aft. 11 d.).
Shooting and throbbing in the forehead, in the morning.
Drawing, pressive shooting on the vertex and above the eyebrows.
Throbbing headache in the forehead, in the afternoon, for an hour.
130. Beating pain in the left side of the forehead (4th d.).
After the headache everything turns black before his eyes.
[Gl.]
Sensitiveness of the head, as after a severe headache (aft. 17 d.).
The head was painful externally on being touched.
Bruised pain on the vertex.
135. The covering of the head caused acute pain on the protuberances of the occiput.
Twitching headache in the forehead, chiefly by night.
Itching pain in the right side of the occiput.
A thrill running over the hairy scalp, as if the hair stood on end, but without a chill.
The forehead feels numb and as if dead.
140. Itching on the occiput.
Severe itching on the left side of the head (aft. 14 d.).
Much itching on the hairy scalp.
The itching spots on the head are painful after scratching, as if sore.
Itching pimples on the hairy scalp.
145. Itching lumps on the head and in the neck.
Much hair comes out in combing. [Gr.]
Pressure and erosion in the orbits.
The eyes are painful in the morning, as if they were too dry and full of sand.
Pressure in the eyelids (aft. 8 d.).
150. Pressure in the eyes, every afternoon at 4 o'clock,
Pressure and squeezing in the left canthus.
Pressure in the upper eyelid, with violent stitches in it as from a splinter, and failure of the vision (aft. 4 h.). [Stf.]
Tearing and burning in the eyes on pressing them shut.
Burning smarting on the right lower eyelid, in the morning.
155. Itching on the upper eyelid.
Itching in the right eye, in the evening. [Gl.]
Itching in the eyebrows.
Itching in the sore eye, at once.
Burning itching of the eyelids. [Gl.]
160. Smarting in the canthi, in the morning, also when not lying down.
Erosion in the eyes.

Heat in the eyes.

Redness of the white of the eye, with pressive pain. [Also Gl.]

Redness, first all around the eyes, then also of the white of the eye, with inflammation and lachrymation.

165. Sensation in the left eye, as if it was full of water.

Lachrymation in the outer canthi.

Lachrymation and a sort of obscuration of the eyes.

Much eye gum in the inner canthi.

Agglutination of the eyes, in the morning.

170. The eyes are glued together with mucus, in the morning.

[Ng.]

The eyes are agglutinated, at night, with erosion of the eyelids.

Swelling in the region of the right lachrymal gland and lachrymal sac (aft. 6 d.).

Ulcer on the left eye.

Quivering of the eyelids (aft. 4 and 10 h.).

175. Painful cramp in both eyes, which closes them so tightly, that she can only open them again with a good deal of effort.

She cannot open the eyes in the morning on account of the painful effect of light.

Flying muscæ before the eyes. [Gl.]

Photophobia; the daylight dazzles him.

The eyes are dazzled by the daylight, so that momentarily he cannot see anything, in paroxysms.

180. Attacks of photophobia, alternating with inflammation of the white of the eye, with lachrymation (aft. 10 d.).

The eyes feel as if there was a gauze over them (2d d.).

She can neither read nor write, everything before her eyes is blurred.

Beating in her ear shakes her eyes, so that objects seem to rise and sink.

Drawing pain in the meatus auditorius, like straining in the ear.

185. Drawing pain on the right ear and down the neck.

Cramplike drawing in the right ear (aft. 24 h.).

Twitching pain in the left ear.

Twitching cutting in the bone behind the ear.

Tearing in and about the ear. [Gl.]

190. Tearing behind the right ear. [Gl.]

Painful pressure in the meatus auditorius.

Pressive pain in the left ear on blowing the nose.

Itching in the ear, especially during deglutition.

Heat on the auricles of the ear and on the head (aft. 8 d.).

195. Itching on the outer ears.

Scurf behind the ears.

Inflamed, humid margin of the ears.

Swelling of the outer ear, with discharge of humor from the inner ear, with a lissing which takes away the hearing.

Discharge of humor from the left ear (aft. 5 d.).

200. Humid ear-wax in abundance (aft. 9 d.).

- The ears feel as if closed.
The ear seems stopped up,
 The hearing is very sensitive.
 Over-sensitive to noise, even to starting from it.
205. Painful sensitiveness of the ear to loud sounds.
 Diminution of the hearing, owing to buzzing in the head.
 Difficulty in hearing the human voice.
 Transient deafness in both ears. [Ng.]
 Clucking in the right ear.
210. Clucking in the right ear, as if something beat against the tympanum, which resounds in the head and makes him anxious.
 Cracking in the ear when swallowing.
 Rhythmic puffing before the left ear.
 Throbbing in the right ear.
 Throbbing before the ear on which he lay at night.
215. Dull humming in the ear, with hardness of hearing and a sensation as if there was something in it, especially in the morning, on rising, for four days. [Szf.]
 Thundering roaring and muttering in the ear (aft. 36 h.).
 Roaring in the ears, like ringing of bells, so loud that he cannot lie still for it at night, but has to rise and walk about for a quarter of an hour at a time (aft. 5 d.).
 Whizzing in the ears.
 Roaring in the left ear, before and after meals.
220. Chirping in the ear, as from crickets.
 Fluttering noise in the ears.
 Swelling of the parotid gland, with shooting pain.
 Hard swelling of the parotid gland on each side, on moving the head and on touching it, there is a straining pain.
 Itching of the nose.
225. Itching in the nose. [Gll.]
 Miliary vesicles under the nostril, with red areolæ, and painless. [Gr.]
 Reddish vesicles on the nose with scurf. [Gll.]
 Itching, and small vesicles around the alæ nasi. [Gll.]
 Sensation as if pieces of food had gotten into the posterior nares.
230. On swallowing, food gets into the posterior nares.
 Sensation of great dryness in the posterior nares.
 Pecking pain in the nasal cavities, as if they were ulcerated, radiating into the brain and causing a straining, beating headache in the forehead; the tip of the nose, when touched, was painful as if there was a subcutaneous festering, for two days (aft. 10 d.).
 Painfulness of the septum of the nose.
 On the side of the nose, a burning stitch.
235. Fine drawing tearing in the nose. [Gll.]
 Tearing in the left ala nasi. [Gll.]
 Drawing in the root of the nose and in the right zygoma. [Gll.]
 Crawling and burrowing in the tip of the nose.
 Itching and sore pain in the forehead, behind the ala nasi (without soreness).

240. Eruptive pimple on the nose.
 Voluptuous itching about the nose, he has to rub it continually. [Ng.]
 Itching pimples on the side of the nose. [Ng.]
 Erosively painning scurf deep in the right nostril.
 A spot on the lower part of the septum of the nose, with a sore pain, which on being touched exhibits a stinging pain.
245. Much acrid water runs from the nose without coryza, making the inner nose and nostrils sore and bleeding; at the same time a smell from the nose as of blood, or as from a freshly slaughtered animal, for five days.
 Bleeding of the nose, after inserting the finger, with dryness of the nose.
 Drops of blood fall from his nose at times, only from stooping.
 He blows bloody mucus from the nose.
 Epistaxis (the first days).
250. Severe epistaxis (aft. 20 h.).
 The sense of smell is too acute (curative effect).
 Paleness of the complexion.
 Paleness of the face, as after a tedious illness. [Ng.]
 White spots occasionally on the cheeks.
255. Red spots on the cheeks and a red nose, with burning pain, at a slight exertion, especially after meals.
 Heat and burning in the face, after washing it with cool water; for two hours.
 Swelling of the face, and of the glands of the lips and the neck, with chilliness and icy cold feet.
 Drawing pain in the cheek-bone and behind the ear, worse when touched.
 Tearing in both the cheeks for four hours, then dullness of the left molars. [Sff.]
260. Bruised pain before the left ear, in the articulation of the jaws, on touching it and on chewing.
 Itching in the whiskers.
 Severe itching on the forehead, extending down the nose.
 Eruption in the face.
 Eruptive pimples on the forehead and above the nose.
265. A pimple on the eyebrow.
 A large furuncle, with slight pain, on the cheek, beside the nose (aft. sever. h.).
Eruption on the lips, vesicles on the margin of the upper lip, with fine stinging or erosive pain on touching them.
An eruptive pimple on the margin of the red of the upper lip, first itching, then as a scurf, with merely erosive pain.
 Two large pimples on the upper lip.
270. Itching scurf on the upper lip, on the margin of the red (aft. 16 d.).
 Painful ulcer on the commissure of the lips (aft. 37 d.).
Ulcerated corner of the mouth, with itching and scurf for many days (aft. 24 h.).

- A very painful little pimple on the margin of the red of the lower lip.
- A spongy little sore on the inner side of the lower lip.
275. Vesicles with erosive pain in the red of the upper lip.
Burning itching around the mouth, without eruption (aft. 2 d.).
Severe swelling of the lower lip for two days (aft. 17 d.).
Swelling of the upper lip and of the gums, very painful when touched.
On the chin, an eruptive pimple.
280. Red, itching, elevated herpetic spots on the chin. [Hrb.]
A furuncle on the chin, with stinging pain when touched.
The submaxillary glands are painful when touched, without swelling.
Stitches in the swollen submaxillary glands (aft. 3 d.).
Swelling of the submaxillary glands, painful when touched, with drawing pain therein, and with sore throat when swallowing, as if swollen internally (aft. 24 h.).
285. Painfully contractive spasm in the left articulation of the jaws, and then in the temple. [Gl.]
Toothache, particularly when eating warm food, and when cold air gets into the mouth.
Toothache after every meal. [Gl.]
The boy gets a sort of teething-fever, although he has all his teeth; the saliva runs from his mouth, he puts his finger in his mouth and in the evening he has heat in the head.
When eating, pain darts into an incisor (aft. 19 d.).
290. Toothache, in the morning, on awaking, until some time soon after rising.
Dull pain in the teeth, especially in the molars, after dinner and after drinking.
Simple steady toothache, quiescent during eating; at night it is most violent and impairs the sleep.
Violent pressure in the hollow tooth.
Violent toothache, also aching of the whole of the lower jaw, pressure and jerks, so that he cannot sleep all the night.
295. Twitching in a molar. [Vg.]
Tensive toothache.
Drawing pain in a hollow tooth.
Drawing in a hollow tooth, in paroxysms. [Gr.]
Drawing in the lower incisors.
300. Tearing toothache, merely when eating and continuing afterward for a quarter of an hour.
Tearing shooting toothache in a hollow tooth, only while eating (aft. 10 d.).
Shooting toothache, which does not allow him to take anything warm or cold into his mouth.
Stitches, from a strong wind, in a sound tooth, which then pains when touched, as if festering underneath; then swelling of the lower jaw (aft. 18 d.).
Shooting toothache, which prevents him from sleeping at - night, with heat in the cheek; he could not take anything warm into his mouth.

305. Burning shooting in several teeth, which begin to pain after eating; they rage worst by night, aggravated by cold air getting into the teeth; with heat in the head and burning in the cheek.
A molar pains, while biting with it, as if it were festering below.
Teeth loose, and sensitive when chewing.
A lower molar is painful, as if too long.
Dull teeth, for four weeks.
310. Dullness of the upper teeth, as if from acids.
Inflammation of a posterior molar, with swelling and soreness of the gums. [Gll.]
The gums are painfully sensitive when cold water gets into the mouth.
Swelling of the gums; warm drinks cause a burning, and when chewing there is a sore pain.
Painfully inflamed swelling of the gums (aft. 6 d.).
315. Sore gums.
Blisters with sore pain on the gums and on the inner side of the lips.
A small gum-boil on the swollen gums.
His mouth and lips are dry.
Constant dryness of the mouth (aft. 30 h.).
320. Slimy sensation in the mouth, in the morning after awaking, and qualmishness in the stomach. [Ng.]
Much saliva in the mouth (aft. 8 d.).
The water gathers in his mouth, he has to spit much.
Sensation anteriorly on the tongue, as if a hair lay upon it.
Sore tongue, with painful spots on its tip. [Gll.]
325. Coated tongue. [Gll.]
Numbness of the tongue. [Gll.]
Swelling of the right half of the tongue, without pain (aft. 5 d.).
Heat comes out of her mouth.
Itching on the palate, all the way behind and in the velum palati.
330. Single stitches in the velum palati.
An ulcer on the palate, extending to the gums.
The uvula is lengthened, attended with dryness in the throat.
Swelling of the uvula. [Gr.]
The throat very dry, with hoarseness, and itching in the meatus auditorius on both sides.
335. Much mucus in the throat, she has constantly to hawk it up (aft. 24 h.).
Frequent hawking up of thickish mucus (1st d.). [FOISSAC.]
Hawking up of salty mucus. [Gll.]
Expectoration of yellow, very fetid little balls, by hawking.
Sore throat with very much mucus in the throat (aft. 48 h.).
340. Pain in the laryngeal region, when lifting a heavy load.
Pressive pain on the left side of the throat, on swallowing.

- Sore throat on swallowing, like a lump on the left side of the throat (aft. 4 d.)
- Scrapy sore throat, in the morning; in the evening, a stinging pain.
- Aching in the throat, as if he had to swallow over sore spots, with occasional shooting therein.
345. Sore in the larynx, from singing,
Shooting sore throat, only when swallowing, with pains in the throat also when it is touched.
- Difficult deglutition; the food goes down slowly; first there is growling in the fauces, then gradually in the stomach, the food does not get down until three seconds afterward.
- Bad smell from the mouth, in the morning, almost as in mercurial typhalism.
- Bitterness in the throat, apparently coming from the stomach.
350. Bitterness in the mouth, in the morning after rising. [Ng.]
Bitter taste of everything partaken of, even of water. [Ng.]
Bitter taste, in the morning.
Putrid taste, in the morning, on awaking. [Gl.]
Oily taste in the mouth (aft. sever. h.).
355. Taste of blood in the mouth, in the morning.
Sour taste in the mouth, with some bitterness.
Acidity in the mouth, whatever he may partake of (aft. 3, 10 d.).
Offensive, slimy taste in the mouth.
Sensation of loathing in the throat, in the afternoon.
360. Much thirst, (aft. 5 d.)
Very much thirst and dryness of the throat. (aft. 10 d.)
He drinks more than usually [Gr.]
Much thirst, without any longing for drinks, also during the chill [Ng.]
Entire lack of appetite.
365. Repugnance to meat.
Appetite merely for cold, uncooked food,
She eats little; she loathes everything at once. [Ng.]
Lack of appetite, with clean tongue. [Ng.]
Appetite for he knows not what, while water gathers in the mouth.
370. He has much hunger, eats properly, and yet he complains that the upper part of his throat is closed.
Voracious hunger, while the water gathers in her mouth.
Rapid hunger, which is satisfied by lying down a while.
She is hungry, but no food will go down.
Voracious hunger before supper, with total lack of appetite, and trembling in all the limbs; then chill and coldness all over the body, with heat in the chest (2 d d.).
375. Voracious hunger in the evening, and after eating something, sensation of nausea in the pit of the stomach. [Gr.]
Voracious hunger, in the morning. [Gl.].
Gnawing hunger, which may be appeased for a short time by a morsel of wheat-bread.
Excessive hunger.

- Hunger, in the evening; he ate more and yet did not become sated, but after one-quarter of an hour the stomach felt full (aft. 15 d.)
380. Constant hunger; and after eating, fullness in the stomach, and yet there is still hunger.
 After a meal, a faintness similar to voracious hunger, which after renewed eating (without appetite) disappeared (1st d.).
 After the meal, weakness in the stomach. [Gl.]
 Though there is good appetite, the stomach seems inactive. [Gl.]
 After eating, pain in the abdomen, like writhing in the intestines. [Gl.]
385. After eating, pressure in the stomach. [Gl.]
 Immediately after eating, expectoration from the windpipe. [Gl.]
 After any food, eructation and acidity, and rising from the stomach, a nasty taste, which remains, until she eats again.
 After eating, a sensation as of a stone in the stomach, with a feeling of fullness.
 After supper, severe eructation.
390. During the meal at noon, severe vertigo, without inclination to vomit, with good appetite.
 After every meal, eructation with taste of the ingesta. [Ng.]
 After eating even the least thing, at once, nausea even to vomiting. [Ng.]
After eating, oppression of the stomach,
 After eating, attacks of spasmodic pain of the stomach.
395. After dinner, cutting in the epigastrium (aft. 6 h.).
 During dinner, sensation as if the hair stood on end.
 After the meal, fullness, for several hours; only relieved by eructation.
 After eating, the taste of the food remains for a long time in the mouth.
 After eating, difficulty in hearing.
400. During eating and speaking, perspiration.
 After the meal, a chill (24th d.).
 After dinner, palpitation for half an hour, with anxiety.
 After the meal, severe heat in the face.
 After the meal, he feels befogged; the eyes feel dazzled; he cannot open them (aft. 10 d.).
405. After eating, very sleepy and tired; he must sleep.
 After eating, nausea, which goes off after lying down.
 After eating a little, at noon and in the evening, keen colic, which goes off after much eructation.
 After eating, he feels as if everything was too full, and as if his clothes were too tight upon him, with indrawn abdomen.
 Even after some hot-pot, violent colic, which goes off after rumbling and empty eructation (aft. 2 d.).
410. Frequent empty eructation (aft. 48 h.).
 Repeated empty eructation. [Gr.]
 Loud belching.
Sour eructation, in the evening.

Sour eructation with burning in the throat, after a meal.

[Gl.]

415. Sour and bitter eructation, in the morning, as from a spoiled stomach.

Warm rising from the stomach into the throat.

Heartburn, rising from the stomach, after every meal; the water collects in the mouth, she has to spit much (aft. 7, 20 days).

Hiccup before and after meals.

Hiccups for twenty-five minutes, between twelve o'clock and twelve thirty (3d d.). [FOISSAC.]

420. Hiccup in the evening, in bed.

Nausea, as after taking an emetic.

Sick at the stomach and inclined to vomit, for several mornings.

Nausea, very often, without vomiting, also in the morning before breakfast, seemingly in the pit of the stomach, with good appetite and relish for food (aft. 20 d.).

Sick and uncomfortable after eating; she has to lie down.

[Ng.]

425. Nausea with pain in the stomach and ineffectual disposition to eructation [Ng.]

Nausea with pressure in the stomach and loathing of everything. [Ng.]

Brief nausea in the morning, then sudden lassitude and chill till noon.

Sick, faint and tremulous, suddenly, during his (customary) smoking.

Nausea, seemingly in the hypogastrium, this rises and goes down, several days in succession.

430. Attacks, in the morning, worst when rising from bed; there is a writhing in the pit of the stomach, then nausea rises up, with severe palpitation and severe pressure in the sternum, even up into the throat; she has to retch up bitter water; relieved by eating; no food is vomited.

Vomiting of the ingesta. [Ng.]

Food causing flatulence presses like a lump in her stomach, she has to vomit it up.

Pressure in the stomach (aft. 14 d.).

Heaviness, like lead, in the stomach.

435. Sensation of heaviness in the stomach, with lack of appetite. First a pressive, then a squeezing pain in the stomach, after a single eructation.

Pressure in the stomach and cutting in the intestines, every half hour.

Pressure in the stomach, increased by walking in the open air, with frequent empty eructations.

Sensation of screwing together in the gastric region, and then a soft stool. [Ng.]

440. Gripping, pinching and clawing over the stomach and the hypochondria in frequent attacks, for a week.

Gripping and clawing in the abdomen (aft. 1 h.).

Colicky pain and gnawing in the stomach with nausea, and chills running over the back and the nape, with audible rumbling in the abdomen; it goes off when lying down with the legs drawn up.

Violent pain in the pit of the stomach, it goes off by bending double. [Ng.]

Burning in the pit of stomach.

445. Burning above the scrobiculus cordis, almost like heartburn. Drawing, pinching and shooting in and about the pit of the stomach, and in both the hypochondria, extending to the hip-joints.

In both the hypochondria a gradually drawing, dull pain, extending behind to the spine, less by night.

Constant pressure in the right hypochondrium. [Gl.]

Pain under the left ribs, as if something would tear there.

450. Pain under the right ribs, behind (in the renal region), in the evening.

Constant stitching pain under the left ribs, worst when taking a deep breath, the ribs themselves are painful when touched.

Stitches in the hypochondria. [Gl., Ng.]

Her abdomen is inflated, up to the stomach (aft. 24 d.).

The abdomen is thick and heavy, like a load.

455. The abdomen is very much inflated, which usually increases after meals, so that it is always very much distended.

Hot, distended abdomen, with grumbling and growling therein, and constant diarrhœa. [Whl.]

The abdomen is violently inflated, no emission of flatus, but eructation.

The abdomen is always prominent, highly distended, making her feel very uncomfortable.

Pain in the abdomen, as if from incarcerated flatus, with urging toward the rectum, as if flatus would be discharged.

460. Severe pains in the abdomen, the child cries day and night on account of pain in its abdomen. [Whl.]

Tearing in the abdomen (aft. 10 d.).

Writhing pain in the abdomen.

Pinching pain in the abdomen, two hours after a meal, renewed from time to time.

Violent, but brief, colic, almost every afternoon.

465. Cutting in the umbilical region, from time to time (aft. 2 d.).

Cutting pains in the abdomen, chiefly about the navel, also by night. [Ng.]

Cutting pains in the abdomen, in paroxysms, also by night (aft. 13 d.).

Severe cutting in the hypogastrium, with incarceration of flatus; she is painfully sensitive to every step (after lifting a light load).

Cutting in the hypogastrium, without diarrhœa.

470. Single stitches in the left side of the abdomen, in the evening (1st d.).

Shooting pain in the left side of the abdomen, more externally only when walking (aft. 6 h.). [Sf.]

Burning in the intestines.

Shooting burning in the epigastrium, in the morning after rising, for one hour, not quite removed by a stool, with pressure in the rectum.

Pressive pain in the abdomen.

475. Pressure in the abdomen after a meal. [Gl.]

Pressure in the whole of the abdomen in the morning, with rumbling and emission of flatus, without relief. [Gl.]

Pressure in the umbilical region.

Pressure below the umbilical region, both shortly before and during the stool. [Stf.]

Violent pain in the abdomen, with a sensation as if she was becoming rigid; the hands turn yellow and the nails blue, as if they had died off (aft. 5 d.).

480. Pain in the abdomen, with much inclination to extend and stretch the body.

Constant pains of the abdomen, also with constipation.

Warm cloths relieve the abdominal pains. [Ng.]

Squeezing in the hypogastrium, at noon and in the evening, partly toward the rectum, partly toward the genitals, like a forcing.

The hernial spot aches, with distention of the abdomen.

485. Pain in the right groin.

Tearing in the groins, in the evening. [Ng.]

Drawing and tearing through the right inguinal canal. [Gl.]

Pain in the inguinal hernia (aft. 2 d.).

Pain in the hernial spot, as if something was being torn out there.

490. Sensation of swelling in the left groin, or as if a hernia was being protruded.

The inguinal glands are inflamed, as large as peas, painful when touched.

Severe trembling in the abdomen.

Rumbling in the abdomen, after the cessation of the pains in the abdomen. [Ng.]

The flatus passes about audibly in the abdomen.

495. Very fetid flatus (2d d.).

Growling and rumbling in the abdomen, especially in the region of the inguinal hernia (aft. 12 h.).

Frequent emission of flatus. [Gr.]

Before the emission of flatus, pains in the abdomen.

Before every emission of flatus, colic.

500. Constipation during the first days, then a very hard stool.

Constipation for two days [Gr., Ng.]

Constant ineffectual call to stool. [Ng.]

No stool (1st d.).

Costiveness (1st d.).

505. Hard stool, mostly also lumpy and difficult (3d and 5th d.). [Ng.]

The first days, hard stools, after that, normal.

Constipation for three days (aft 14 d.), then stool composed of little, hard, roundish lumps.

- Constipation the first three days, despite of repeated calls to stool; during the subsequent days, insufficient, very hard stool with straining. [Sff.]
 The fæces remain for a long time in the rectum, as if this had not strength sufficient to expel them.
510. Difficult, scanty stool (aft. 24 h.). [Gr.]
 After a lengthy pressing and urging, even until the abdominal muscles were sore, the fæces, already protruded, continually snap back.
 Normal stool, but with much pressing and forcing.
 The stool is of a lighter color than usual. [Gr.]
 Very often a soft stool, for two days, without diarrhœa (aft. 13 d.).
515. Diarrhœa for several days, by day and night, without colic (aft. 7 d.).
 Repeated discharge of a little fetid liquid of cadaverous smell. Stool with mucus, then itching in the anus (19th d.).
 Pappy stool, with shiny, membranous particles, then a smarting burning in the anus (6th d.).
 Almost liquid, mucous, frothy stool, then burning and smarting in the anus (7th d.).
520. Repeated urging to stool, but only mucus was discharged, with chilliness of the body and qualmish nausea in the throat.
 Reddish mucus with the stool.
 Stool mixed with bloody mucus; then smarting in the anus.
 Discharge of blood and mucus from the anus, with intense burning (11th, 20th d.).
 Ascaris with the stool.
525. After the stool, burning pain in the prepuce.
 After a soft stool, pressure in the anus.
 After a soft stool with straining, there is pressure in the right temple; later, empty eructations (aft. 16 d.).
 With the stool, painful shooting and itching in the rectum.
 After a dry hard stool, burning in the anus. [Ng.]
530. After the stool, worse oppression on the chest.
 After the stool, the colic is relieved somewhat; he is quite exhausted, falls into a light slumber, from which he awakes again with the most violent colic. [Whl.]
 Twitching, almost dully stitching pain in the rectum.
 Shooting in the rectum.
 A long stitch in the rectum.
535. Severe stitches in the rectum, toward the genitals, while walking (aft. 30 d.).
 Shooting in the anus [Ng.]
 Cutting in the rectum.
 Tension in the anus.
 Contractive pain in the anus, from behind forward (in the perinæum).
540. Pain in the anus, as if it was constricted, during the stool.
 Itching of the rectum, in the evening.
 Itching of the anus and in the varices.
 Burning at the anus (5th d.).

- Burning in the rectum, during the stool, for several days.
545. The varices of the rectum protrude far, during the stool, difficult retrocession of the same, and bloody mucus is discharged from the rectum.
 Moisture on the anus.
 The varices of the rectum, which protruded during the stool, are incarcerated in the anus (aft. 21 d.).
 A vein distends to the thickness of a quill, on the anus, with itching and pressing (aft. 4 d.).
 The varices of the rectum, though protruding but little, are painfully sensitive (aft. 24 h.).
550. Shooting pain in the varices of the rectum.
 Boring, cramp-pains extending from the anus into the rectum and the testes.
 Scurfy, raised spots above the fold on the coccyx. [Hib.]
 Repeated burning pain in the perinæum, especially after coitus.
 The urine becomes quickly turbid.
555. Yellow sediment, like farina, in the urine (the first days).
 Reddish, sandy sediment in the urine.
 The urine deposits yellow sand.
 Frequent urging to urinate.
 Constant urging to urinate, while the discharge comes only drop by drop, with severe burning in the urethra. [Ng.]
560. Urging to urinate, with only slight passage of urine. [Gr.]
 Urging to urinate, with copious flow of urine. [Gr.]
He has to get up almost every night to urinate. [Gr.]
 He has to urinate every quarter of an hour, at 7 o'clock A. M., for several days.
 Involuntary flow of urine, after urinating, while sitting.
565. Repeated, but ineffectual urging to urinate.
 Copious stool and urine. [Gl.]
 Frequent but scanty micturition. [Ng.]
 Urging to urinate, with erosion in the urethra.
 During micturition, erosion in the urethra.
570. Cutting of the urine (16th d.).
 Hot, pale, yellow, scalding urine. [Gl.]
 Pressure in the bladder on urinating, with burning afterward.
 [Gl.]
 Continuous fine stitches anteriorly in the urethra.
 During urination, burning in the urethra.
575. Little urine, with burning. [Ng.]
 During micturition, troublesome itching on the pudenda.
 On the mons veneris, painful eruptive pimples.
 Itching, and red spots on the glans.
 Pressing from the prostate forward. [Gl.]
580. Under the prepuce, itching.
 Redness of the prepuce, near the corona, as if excoriated, with frequent itching.
 Swelling of the prepuce with itching, humid pimples, on the outside.
 The testicle is painful, worse by night, but only while lying down.

- Pain in the right testicle, as if it was indurated.
585. Distensive or compressive pain in the left testicle, as from a severe swelling there.
 Formication on the scrotum.
 An itching and moist spot on the scrotum.
 Perspiration of the scrotum, it itches all over.
 Perspiration of the scrotum, in the evening.
590. Hydrocele of the testes. [Whl.]
 Pressure in the spermatic cords, while the testes hang down, relaxed (the first days).
 The sexual impulse is very much excited the first three days; night and day, erections lasting for half an hour, with the testes drawn up.
 Lewd thoughts, by day (1st, 2 d d.).
 Lewd thoughts in bed in the morning, with erections (1st, 14th. d.).
595. Strong erections with relaxed scrotum (aft. 5 d.).
Strong erection, by night, with sexual excitement.
 Frequent violent erections, by day, without cause (the first days).
 Violent erections, with drawing pains in the testes.
 The erections develop but slowly (aft. 23 d.).
600. No erections, not any trace of them (aft. sever. d.).
 Sexual impulse very weak, and almost extinct (the first 5 w.).
 Sexual impulse very weak (the first 3 weeks).
 The sexual impulse stronger (aft. 21 d.), with erections.
 Frequent and repeated pollutions.
605. Pollution the first night and then repeatedly.
 Pollution with heavy dreams, in a married man (1st. n.).
 Discharge of prostatic juice at every stool.
Discharge of prostatic juice at the strained stool.
 After coitus, a sense of paralysis in the right side of the head.
610. After coitus, bruised sensation of the whole body (23d d.).
 She feels nausea during coitus (aft. 21 d.).
 The fœtus is very active in a pregnant woman.
 Sensation like labor-pains in the vagina,
 Itching on the pudenda. [Gll.]
615. Menses too early by two days (aft. 7 d.).
 The menses. suppressed for three months, reappear.
 Menses too early by three days (aft. 5 d.).
 Some flow of blood at the new moon, for several days, 11 days before the menses, which appear at the right time.
 The menses are suppressed. [Ng.]
620. Menses too late by five days,
 It retards the menses by three or four days (aft. 18 d.).
 When taken during the menses, silicea seemed to suppress them for four days, but then they flowed for four or five days, and then did not return for six weeks.
 Much less discharge of blood during the catamenia.
Augmented menstrual flow (aft. 13, 20 d.).

625. Augmented menstrual flow, with repeated attacks of icy coldness all over the body at its appearance.
The blood of the catamenia has a strong smell.
Before the menses, intense thirst and an oppressive feeling over the eyes, as if something heavy was lying there.
Immediately before and during the menses, costiveness.
During the menses, icy cold feet.
630. During the menses, everything before her eyes has a pale color.
During the menses, a melancholy anguish in the scrobiculus cordis, urging her to take her life by drowning.
During the menses, severe burning and soreness in the pudenda, also eruption on the inner side of the thighs (aft. 23 d.).
During the menses, drawing between the scapulae, only by night; she had to bend backward to get relief.
After the menses, there is almost at once a flow of bloody mucus from the vagina.
635. Leucorrhœa, with smarting pain, especially after partaking of something sour.
Discharge of much white water from the uterus, with severe itching on the pudenda.
Watery discharge from the vagina, subsequent to pinching around the navel, or to micturition. [Ng.]
* * * * *
- Repeated sneezing (aft. 36 h.).
Much irritation to sneezing, but mostly abortive sneezing (aft. 28, 48 h.).
640. The chest aches when sneezing, as if it would burst.
Complete stoppage of the nose, so that she could scarcely speak, and had to open her mouth wide, in order to breathe (aft. 12 h.).
Much discharge of mucus from the nose, without coryza.
Fluent coryza (aft. 5, 6 and 12 d.).
Violent coryza (aft. sever. h.).
645. Stuffed coryza, in the morning, on awaking. [Gll.]
Stuffed coryza, with husky voice. [Ng.]
She cannot get rid of her coryza, which at one time is stuffed at another fluent.
Severe coryza for weeks (the first days).
During coryza and coughing, there is a swelling of the submaxillary glands, pain in the throat when swallowing, great chilliness, she had to lie down; after an hour in bed, burning heat all over the body.
650. Hoarseness of the voice (1st d.). [Foissac.]
Throat very rough.
Roughness of the throat, with irritation to cough after dinner. [Ng.]
Roughness and dryness of the throat, especially when speaking. [Ng.]
Hoarseness, with repeated dry tussiculation (aft. 3 d.).

655. Sensation of soreness in the larynx, like as from sore throat, when respiring.
 Cough with hoarseness (19th d.).
 Cough from irritation in the throat. [Gl.]
 Cough, especially after meals, with expectoration of white mucus.
 Frequent dry tussiculation (aft. 3 d.).
660. Tickling itching in the region of the pit of the throat, threatening suffocation, until a deeply concussive cough breaks out, lasting for many hours and causing pain in the hypogastrium and throat.
Her chest aches as if sore, from long continued dry tussiculation.
 Cough for five weeks.
 Much pressure on the chest, when she wishes to cough; she cannot cough sufficiently for pain.
 Sensation as if there was a hair on the tip of the tongue, extending into the windpipe, causing a tingling, so that he has frequently to retch and to cough slightly (aft. 10 d.).
665. Dry cough from drinking cold things.
 Dry cough, also waking up at night from sleep, or early after awaking, with pain in the upper part of the sternum. [Ng.]
 Every effort at speaking causes cough.
 Coughing, only when lying down, by night and in the morning.
 Tussiculation from nocturnal titillation in the larynx.
670. Cough, which is especially tormenting in the evening after lying down, and in the morning after awaking, for eleven days.
 Fatiguing cough, in the evening, while lying in bed, with rattling in the throat.
 Cough, in the morning and after going to sleep.
 Nocturnal cough (aft. 15 d.).
 Cough, for two evenings, lasting all night, with fever; it ceased after warming the abdomen.
675. Frequent, dry cough, only in short impulses.
 Dry spasmodic cough for a quarter of an hour at a time, with severe rawness of the chest and throat.
 Spasmodic cough (aft. 12 d.).
 Cough, with vomiting during expectoration.
 Cough, causing vomiting of mucus.
680. Excessive, continuous cough, with expectoration of much transparent mucus.
 Much expectoration during coughing, in the morning and by day, at times salty, at times somewhat fetid and brownish.
 Much expectoration of mucus, without coughing, in the morning. [Gr.]
 Expectoration, which makes the water turbid; the sediment has a fetid smell.
 Expectoration of yellowish-greenish, fetid clots by hawking.
685. Thick, purulent expectoration of mucus from the windpipe. [Gl.]
 Purulent expectoration during cough. [Whl.]

Expectoration of whole masses of pus, when vomiting, to which the cough excites. [Will.]

Coughing up of bloody mucus.

Bloody expectoration, in the morning, with severe coughing (aft. 7 d.).

690. Expectoration of bright, pure blood, toward noon, with deep, hollow cough; soon after, a fainting fit (4th d.).

With cough and expectoration, for sixteen days, there is a scrapy, painful sensation on the chest, with indisposition to work, peevishness and weariness all over the body.

After a violent cough, pain in the scrobiculus cordis.

While coughing, the chest is painful, as if bruised.

Even while respiring, the chest is painful, as if bruised.

695. During respiration, scraping sensation on the chest.

Repeated, deep, sobbing respiration.

Tightness of the chest (aft. 3 d.).

Tightness of the chest, alternating with pain in the back (after a cold?) (aft. 19 d.).

Tightness, repeatedly, in the chest and the head, with anxiety.

700. Asthma, in the morning, on awaking (aft. 17 d.).

Tightness of the chest, as if the throat was constricted, especially after meals.

Severe tightness of the chest, but painless; he cannot take a deep breath.

Weakness in the chest; in speaking he has to exert the whole of the chest, in order to bring out the words.

Pressure on the chest, repeatedly, in the morning in bed.

705. Pressive tension, especially in the left side of the chest. [Gl.]

Pressure in the left side of the chest, in the morning; on rising. [Gl.]

Pressure and shooting in the left side of the chest. [Gl.]

Pressive pain on the sternum, toward the scrobiculus cordis. [Gl.]

Pressive pain in the left side of the chest, on the false ribs (aft. 10 d.).

710. Sharp pressure on the left side of the chest.

Pressure and drawing in the right side of the chest toward the axilla.

Severe pressure on both sides of the chest, for about an hour.

Pinching jerk in the muscles of the left ribs, frequently by day, unaffected by breathing, or by touching it.

Pain in the left side of the chest, as if it was being torn.

715. Severe stitch through the right side of the chest (aft. 9 d.).

Shooting under the right ribs when breathing.

Shooting in the right side (aft. 12 h.).

Stitches in the left side of the chest. [Gl.]

Stitches in the chest, especially when taking a deep breath. [Gl.]

720. Shooting on the sternum, after dinner, especially on inspiring. [Ng.]

Shooting behind and below the left mamma, on expiration, also during dinner. [Ng.]

Shooting in the left side of the chest does not allow her to lie on that side for three days. [Ng.]

Severe contractive pain, anteriorly in the chest, while walking; it proceeds from the back; the chest was oppressed, the breath short, and the pain more severe, the more he moved about; but when he stood still and leaned against something, it passed away entirely; nor did it return on moving about again (5th d.).

Rush of blood to the chest (aft. 10 d.).

725. Heat in the chest, with chill and coldness all over the body (20 d.).

Burning pain in the chest.

Transient ebullition in the heart, for eight days.

Palpitation while sitting still, with trembling of the hand, in which he is holding something,

In the cardiac region, a heavy pressure (3d d.). ]FOISSAC.]

730. Pain under the right arm, as if the dress pressed upon it; but, nothing could be seen.

Itching miliary eruption on the sternum.

Induration in the fleshy part of the left side of the chest

[Rl.]

The coccyx aches, as after a long drive in a carriage.

Severe pain in the sacrum (aft. 9 d.).

735. In the sacrum, he feels a longing to stretch.

Paralysis in the sacrum (aft. 15 d.).

Pain in the sacrum, as if paralyzed, in the morning on rising (aft. 30 d.).

Pressure and tension in the sacrum. [Gll.]

A startling stitch in the sacral region. [Ng.]

740. Pain in the back, in the morning, after awaking, on starting to move; it goes off afterward.

Stiffness in the back.

Severe stiffness in the back and the sacrum, after sitting; he could not straighten himself (aft. 8 d.).

Pain in the spine, which is curved.

Pressure in the back.

745. Pinching pains in the right side of the back, for one hour.

Beating in the back.

Severe tearing or pecking pressure in the back, with a chill, later passing over into a dull pressive headache, with heat in the head (the first days).

Burning in the back, while walking in the open air, when he gets warm.

Chilliness in the back.

750. Itching in the back.

Painful cutting in the back, all day long (aft. 8 d.).

Between the scapulae, a pain of rending asunder.

Tearing pain under the scapulae, when walking.

Tensive drawing in the right scapula (aft. 21 d.).

755. Drawing pain in the scapulæ, in paroxysms; then it passes into the nape and into the head, where she feels dizzy, as if she should fall down.

Pressure on the scapulæ, as if there was a load lying upon them, more violent in the morning while resting, than when moving; they seemed to him to be swollen, and the pain took his breath away when he leaned with the back against anything.

Frequent shooting in the right scapula (aft. 5 d.).

Stitches between the scapulæ. [Gl.]

Formication in the left scapula.

760. Quivering in the skin of the scapulæ.

Burning pain in the left scapula (aft. 4 d.).

Sensation as of tension in the nape (aft. sever. h.).

Stiffness of the nape (2d d.). [Foissac.]

Severe tearing in the middle of the nape. [Ng.]

765. Pinching pain in the right side of the nape, which abates only while she rests her hand upon it. [Ng.]

Stiffness in the nape, while the head aches.

Glandular swelling in the nape.

Eruption of pimples on the nape.

Itching pimples on the nape, like a nettle-rash (aft. 9 d.).

770. Furuncle on the nape.

The cervical muscles on the right side are swollen.

Stiffness of one side of the neck; he could not turn his head for pain (aft. 46 h.). [Sf.]

Pressure on the left side of the neck as if the veins were swollen.

Swelling of the Cervical glands (aft. 5, 25 d.).

775. Swelling of the glands in the neck and the nape (aft. 9 d.).

The thyroid cartilage is swollen; the place itches, and when touched there is a stinging.

Stitches in the cervical glands.

In the axillary gland, a drawing aching (aft. 19 d.).

Severe swelling of the axillary glands. [Rl.]

780. Pain in the top of the shoulder, like a pressure, extending into the hand, with a sensation as if she could not lift up anything heavy, although she can make a proper use of her hand (at once).

Severe pressive pain in the right shoulder, extending to the elbow, as soon as the shoulder is bared and becomes cold, chiefly by night.

Painful jerk in the right shoulder-joint, in the evening, throwing his arm up high (aft. 7 d.).

Tearing in the top of the shoulder, when moving.

Stitches in the shoulder-joint in the morning.

785. The arms are heavy, as if full of lead.

Weak in the arms, in the morning, in bed.

Slight muscular twitching in the arms.

Rheumatic stiffness in the left arm, more painful when moving than while at rest

Drawing in the arm, extending into the little finger. [Gl.]

790. Twitching tearing in the arm, extending into the thumb. [Gl.]

- Tearing in both arms.
 Restlessness and trembling in the right arm.
 The arm goes to sleep when resting it on anything. [Gl.]
 Severe pressure on the left arm, seemingly in the marrow of the bones.
795. The skin of the arms and hands cracks (17th d.).
 Rush of blood to the arms, when working continuously while stooping, they seemed swollen and trembled, for one hour.
 Many furuncles on the arms, also very large ones.
 Beating on the right arm after a meal.
 Beating in the right arm, so that the twitching of the muscles can be felt with the other hand; the arm was paralyzed by it, and it recurred when he held up his arm on high (aft. 10 d.).
800. In the upper arm, a tearing pain (aft. 13 d.). [Also Ng.]
 Pain in the upper arm, when pressing upon it.
 Twitching pain in the right upper arm (aft. 10 d.).
 In the elbows, a drawing pain, as if in the marrow (3d d.).
 Paralytic tearing in the left fore-arm. [Gl.]
805. Paralytic pain in the extensor tendons of the fore-arms. [Gl.]
 Twitching pain in the left fore-arm.
 Quivering in the muscles of the left fore-arm (aft. 10 d.).
 Many hard blisters of the size of peas on the lower arm; they appear on a red base, with burning itching and last only one night; they extend from the wrist to the elbow.
 In the hands, a drawing (aft. 13 d.).
810. Drawing pain in the right hand.
 Tearing in the wrist-joint, this pains also severely when touched, and when moved, as if it would break.
 Sprained pain in the wrist-joint.
 Paralytic sensation in the wrist-joint, in the morning. [Gl.]
 Cramp in the hand, while writing.
815. Cramplike pain and paralytic sensation in the hand at a slight exertion.
 The hands are asleep at night.
 The right hand is asleep, at night.
 Prickling sensation and numbness of the hands.
 Exostosis on the dorsum of the hand, between the third and fourth metacarpal bones, it pains as if sprained, on bending the hand; and as if bruised, when moving it (13th d.).
820. Exostosis between the second and third metacarpal bones (1st d.).
 The hands perspire profusely.
 Severe itching under the skin of the left palm.
 Pustule on the dorsum of the hand.
 In the fingers, a paralytic drawing.
825. Sensation as of burning, on the dorsum of one of the fingers.
 Pain as from a splinter on the flexor side of one of the fingers.
 Tearing pain in the middle finger.
 Tearing in the fingers. [Gl.]
 Tearing in the joints of the fingers and in the thumbs. [Gr.]

830. Twitching pain in the index, violently increasing for five minutes.

Sensation of numbness in a finger, as if it was thick and as if the bones were distended.

Stitches in the ball of the thumb. [Gl.]

Cramplike pains in the joint of the thumb. [Gl.]

Weakness in the right thumb, disabling almost the whole hand (1st d.).

835. The left middle finger is bent double and stiff; on again straightening it, there is great pain in the whole of the extensor tendon in the dorsum of the hand.

Great dryness of the finger-tips, in the afternoon. [Gr.]

Sensation as if the finger-tips were festering underneath.

Pain in the left index, as if a paronychia was forming (aft. 20 d.).

Rough, yellow finger-nails.

840. Gray, dirty nails, as if decayed; on cutting them, they jump about like powder, and are divided into several super-incumbent layers. [Wh.]

Frequent paronychia. [Also Wh.]

A little fissure on the index begins to ache and burn; a lymphatic there grows inflamed even up beyond the wrist-joint, and on the sore place an erosive blister forms, with burning, pressive, shooting pain.

An erosive blister, severely itching, on the posterior-joint of the left index.

Blisters as if caused by the heat, on the fingers, with tingling itching. [Gr.]

845. Stinging pain, as from going to sleep, first in one finger, then in another, then also in the arms.

Stitches in the little finger. [Gl.]

Twitching stitches in the left middle finger (aft. 2 d.).

Pricking shooting in the ring-finger (aft. 3 d.).

On the nates, itching.

850. Pain in the left hip, on stooping, for one-quarter of an hour. Drawing, twitching pain in the right hip-joint, making it impossible to move the limb (aft. 16 d.).

On rising from the seat, the lower limbs are quite lame from sitting, on continuing to walk, this goes off.

Tearing in the whole of the left lower limb, now here, now there. [Ng.]

Weakness in the lower limbs. [Gl.]

855. Restlessness and paralytic sensation in the joints of the upper and lower limbs, when walking and sitting. [Gr.]

Sensation of paralysis in the whole of the right thigh, with painful sensitiveness of the morbidly affected ball of the toe, when walking. [Gr.]

Heaviness of the legs.

From a short walk, great weariness in the lower limbs, so that he has to rest. [Gr.]

The right lower limb goes to sleep all the way down.

860. The lower limbs go to sleep, in the evening while sitting, making her stiff, until she gets to moving again.
The leg goes to sleep while sitting. [Gll.]
Muscular twitching in the left leg.
Much itching on the left leg.
Stinging pricking on many parts of the lower limbs, gradually decreasing after severe scratching. [Gr.]
865. Pain of the femora as if bruised, while walking, sitting and lying down, even in the morning on awaking in bed.
Drawing in the thighs, extending into the feet.
Twitching pain in the muscles of the right thigh.
Tearing, dashing, to and fro, in the left thigh, and in the knee, disappearing on rising [Ng.]
Tearing, extending from the pelvis to the hough. [Gll.]
870. Prickings as from needles in the left thigh, when walking.
Shooting in the left thigh.
Itching on the inner side of the thighs. [Gll.]
Several furuncles on the posterior side of the thighs.
The knee is painful, as if bandaged too tightly.
875. Painful sensation of stiffness in the knees, while walking and standing. [Gr.]
Aching in the left patella.
Drawing in the left knee (12th d.).
Tearing in the knees, while sitting; it goes off on moving.
Tearing about the right knee, extending into the foot, in rest and in motion, more in the forenoon (aft. 2 d.).
880. Weakness in the knees.
The legs, up to the knees, and the feet, are icy cold in the evening, and he has to lie in bed for one-half hour, before they get warm; for many days successively.
Coldness of the legs up to the knees, in the warm room.
Drawing pain in the evening, down in the legs, always terminating in starting or jerking in the lower limb.
Quivering in the legs from the knees down to the feet, like a trembling, without a chill, from 6 to 7 P. M. (aft. 15 d.).
885. Itching in the legs.
Itching miliary eruption on the calves.
Furuncle on the calves.
Sensation when walking, as if the calves were too short; this passed off at once when sitting down.
Painful cramp in the right calf, in the morning, in bed.
890. Tearing in the left calf with a chill, then also in the top of the left shoulder; in the evening in bed. [Ng.]
Shooting in the calves, on striding in walking.
Shooting above the calf, when walking in the open air (18th d.).
Pressive pain in the left tibia, for two hours.
Pinching pain on the left tibia and knee.
895. Red, keenly painful, erosive spot on the right tibia, for two days.
Swelling of the legs, but only extending down to the feet.
The feet get cold at first, when walking.

Cold feet, which become warm at night, every day.

Coldness of the feet in the evening in bed, hindering from going to sleep.

900. Icy cold feet by day; but at night in bed, burning heat in the feet and hands, with drawing pains in the feet, extending to the knees.

Cold feet, all day. [Gr.]

Icy cold feet, in the evening, even continuing so in bed. [Gr.]

Burning of the feet.

Burning in the soles of the feet.

905. Burning of the feet, by night.

Burning in the sole of the right foot, by night.

Shooting in the external right malleolus, also by night.

Sprained pain in the ankle.

Tendency to sprain the foot in treading. [Gl.]

910. Tension in the ankle, even when sitting.

Stiffness and weariness in the ankle, with swelling about the ankles.

Swelling of the left foot, extending to the ankle.

Swelling of the feet, chiefly in the morning, when rising, less in the evening; very tense while walking.

Swelling of the feet, with redness, in which pressure for a time leaves a white spot; with pain from the toes to the ankle.

915. Tearing shooting in the left foot and heel, causing him to shake, then also in the top of the right shoulder, so that he has to let it hang down. [Ng.]

Tearing in the sole of the right foot with external tension.

[Ng.]

Pain as from a bruise, on the dorsum of the foot.

The feet are in a fetid perspiration.

Unbearably foul, cadaverous fetor of the feet, without sweat, every evening (aft. 3 d.).

920. Unbearably sour fetor of the feet, without perspiration (aft. 13 d.).

Profuse sweat on the soles of the feet and between the toes; he became quite sore in walking.

Large erosive blister on the heel, with intense itching.

Shooting in the heel and in the big toe, when standing and sitting.

Tearing in the heel (12th, 23d d.).

925. Cutting in the sole of the foot. [Gl.]

Pain on the ball of the foot.

Shooting in the soles of the feet.

Cramp in the sole of the foot.

Painful cramp in the sole of the right foot and especially in the big toe, during a lengthy walk (aft. 2 d.).

930. The toes are stiff; she cannot bend them.

Soreness of the soles of the feet, especially towards the toes.

[Gl.]

Sprained pain in the joint of the big toe. [Gl.]

In walking, two of the toes are painful, as if from the pressure of the boots (aft 7 d.).

- Constant violent pain in the big toe, so that he can hardly tread.
935. Tearing in the big toes (in the evening). [Also Gll. and Ng.]
 Tearing in the right big toe.
 Pain under the nail of the big toe and stitches therein.
 Itching, cutting pain under a toe nail.
 Cutting shooting in the right big toe.
940. Spasmodic shooting in the toes.
 Violent stitches in the big toe.
 Stitches in the distorted toe.
 Stitches in the joint of the big toe. [Gll.]
 Frequent boring in the big toe. [Gll.]
945. Stitches in the big toe; so violent that the whole limb twitches (6th d.).
 The big toe which had healed, begins to pain intensely as if ulcerated, but only while treading and walking.
 Itching, purulent scab on the toes, which had been frozen.
 A corn forms on the big toe with intense burning.
 The corn is extremely sensitive when touched.
950. Stitches in the corn, causing his foot to jerk upward (6th d.).
Violent stitches in the corns. [Also Gll.]
 In all the parts of the body such restlessness that he cannot sit still and continue writing.
 After sitting for a long time there is restlessness in the body and headache.
 The whole body feels painful as if ulcerated on the side on which he lies, with constant chilliness when it is even slightly uncovered, with insufferable thirst and frequent flushes of heat running through the head. [Ng.]
955. When rising, after sitting for a time, there is severe pain in the chest, and in the lower limbs, a pain as if paralyzed (aft. 48 h.).
 In the morning the hands and feet feel as if dead.
 She feels every change in the weather in her head and in the limbs.
 The thunderstorm, while approaching and when present, makes a strong impression upon him; when walking, his strength fails, he cannot proceed and has to be led along; he becomes very weary and drowsy, with heaviness and heat in the body.
He is very chilly, all the day.
960. In the evening a constant chill, sensible also externally. [Gll.]
 Constant internal chill with lack of appetite.
 Chilliness, even while walking in the warm room, but in the open air she is so chilly that she trembles (aft. 32 h.).
Chill at every motion, all the day; in the morning great weariness, even to falling asleep.
 He takes cold very easily. [Htb.]
965. Very chilly, even in the warm room. [Ng.]
 She cannot stretch her hand out of the bed without at once getting chilly, by night and also by day. [Ng.]

After walking in the open air, coldness in the knees and arms; the finger-nails become white.

Disagreeable sensation of chilliness in the afternoon, especially on the arms, in the warm room.

Icy cold shudders frequently run all over the body.

970. Chill, during the shooting pain.

Constant internal chill at night, from taking a cold, with lack of appetite and shooting and burning headache.

Aptness to take cold, and cough in consequence (11th d.).

At times a chill, then again heat, frequently through the day.

Much heat. [Gl.]

975. A warmth, not unpleasant, throughout the whole body, for two days.

Frequently during the day, brief flushes of heat.

Frequent flushes of heat in the face and on the whole body; then perspiration, even while at rest; at the least motion she is then covered with sweat.

Heat, without thirst (22 d.).

With severe heat and redness of the face, very cold hands and feet.

980. In the morning, heat in the cheeks and in the palms.

Tearing in the joints and in the soles of the feet, with involuntary jerks in the feet, as if affected with St. Vitus's dance, which caused him a hundred sleepless nights.

Some painless shocks through the body.

Pustules like small-pox on the forehead, the occiput, the bones of the chest and the spine; they are extremely painful, and finally form profusely suppurating ulcers. [Whl.]

The lower limb twitches once convulsively, then the head seems to shake as in a shaking chill, with horripilation, while the bodily warmth is normal.

985. Itching on the back, on the scapulæ and the thighs.

After lying down, itching and smarting of the whole body, which cannot be removed by scratching. [Ng.]

Quick running over the body as of fleas, in various parts of the body; aggravated in some parts to an unbearable itching; this lasts all day, but is worse in the evening, while undressing, [Htb.]

Crawling itching all over the body, and also on the head.

Eruption all over the head, like chicken-pox, with intense itching before, and while it prevails, as also afterward.

990. Stitches in the skin, here and there, like flea-bites.

Itching in various parts, especially by night, with stinging.

[Gl.]

Small lesions of the skin are slow in healing, and suppurate.

[Htb.]

The ulcer pains as if it was festering.

Erosive pains in ulcers before painless.

995. Pressive pain in the ulcers on the legs.

Pressive shooting pain in the ulcerated spot on the leg.

Shooting in the ulcer on the leg.

Shooting and burning in the ulcer on the leg and round about it.

- Boring pain in the sore place on the leg (aft. 14 d.)
1000. Tendency to strains from lifting, causing stitches in the scrobiculus cordis and frequent vomiting by night; also at times cutting in the hypogastrium with incarceration of flatus.
- The neck, chest and head ache; yea, everything in her body aches (aft. 24 h.).
- Painfulness of the whole of the body, sensible in the morning, even while yet asleep, and then on awaking (especially in the right upper arm and in the left shoulder); it diminishes after rising.
- The whole body is painful, as if beaten all over (aft. 48 h.).
- Bruised pain all over the body, as if he had lain in a wrong position by night.
- 1005 Paralytic pain on the external condyle of the humerus, and on the internal condyle of the leg when moving. [Gl.]
- Pain in all the muscles, when moving.
- Great irritability and painful sensitiveness of the skin when touched (aft. 4 d.).
- Acute pain in the bones, now here, now there, especially in the morning, when rising, before she has moved about. [Rl.]
- Drawing in the ears, the jaws, the hands and the tibiæ.
- 1010 Partly spasmodic and partly acute drawing in the limbs.
- Palpitation and pulsation in the whole body while sitting.
- A fit; after a sensation of severe cold in the whole of the left side of the body, and after frequent slumbering and starting up as if she was about to go away, without knowing whither, she began to lose her senses, spoke unintelligibly, did not recognize any one any more, and became so weak, that she could not turn over by herself; then violent convulsions, with staring gaze, distortion of the eyes, twitching of the lips, heaviness of the tongue, stretching and twisting of the head, as well as of the limbs, for a quarter of an hour; then a terrible roaring; dropping of tears from the eyes, foam before the lips; then a warm perspiration all over the body, the breathing became freer, there was slumber and after several hours her senses and speech returned, and she was again able to speak (aft. 46 h.).
- A fit; she became pale, quiet and without appetite, she weepingly complained about very violent stitches in the ears, she vomited, and her hands became weak, so that she could not carry a cup to her mouth (aft. 5 h.).
- Lack of appetite; pale, wretched appearance; every morning; she, occasionally, has a profuse perspiration; heaviness and weariness in the lower limbs, compelling her to lie down; nausea; chilliness every evening before lying down; shooting, now here, now there, in the side of the chest, the abdomen and the limbs, at times so violent, that she starts up; pain below the sternum during inspiration, and itching on the arms and legs, with small pimples. [Htb.] 1015. Attack of disagreeable sensations, first in the genitals; then it drew up on both sides of the trunk like a cutting pain, then into the top of the shoulders and thence down into the arms, which became as if asleep, and there was straining in them. The attacks came on while at rest, every quarter of an hour, mostly while sitting and standing, but not at night (aft. 14 d.).

Epileptic fit, at night, near the new moon, first the body is stretched out, then it is tossed about, but without cries or biting of the tongue (aft. 16 d.).

Silicea seems to produce most of its ailments about the time of the new moon.

The pains are aggravated by motion. [Gl.]

Extreme emaciation. [Whl.]

1020. Trembling of all the limbs, in the morning, especially of the arms, which feel paralyzed. [Gl.]

Great stiffness in the limbs.

After sitting a while, stiffness in the back and the sacrum.

While walking in the open air, suddenly so exhausted and drowsy, that she had to hasten to get home.

While walking in the open air, a sort of nausea.

1025. While walking in the open air, dryness in the mouth.

While walking in the open air, pinching in the abdomen (20th d.).

While walking in the open air, severe lancinating pain in the tendo. Achillis.

While walking in the open air, heaviness of the lower limbs (1st d.).

After a walk, there is a very faint and tremulous feeling, in the evening.

1030. The upper and lower limbs feel heavy, as if poured full of lead.

Great exhaustion (aft. 28 h.).

Bruised feeling in all the limbs; she could not remain in any one position for pain. [Ng.]

She feels all through her body as if broken on the wheel; she had to keep her bed for weakness, for three days. [Ng.]

Great emaciation, while lying in bed for five days. [Ng.]

1035. Careless, clumsy gait.

Weakness in the back, and he feels paralyzed in the lower limbs; he can scarcely walk about (8th d.).

Weakness in the joints, so that they give way.

In the afternoon, indolence, walking is hard for him (14th d.).

At noon, before dinner, he is so exhausted, he has to lie down.

1040. So weak that he cannot walk; but without pains (4th d.).

Weariness in the lower limbs, in the morning.

In the morning, after awaking, very weary.

In the morning, while rising, great weariness.

Great indolence in intellectual work; he almost went to sleep while teaching.

1045. Much yawning.

During yawning, pressive pain in the angle of the lower jaw, extending into the ear.

Sound, long sleep after dinner, then weariness (aft. 5 d.).

- In the evening, great drowsiness (aft. 20 d.). [Also Ng.]
Great drowsiness, very early in the evening.
1050. Great drowsiness by day; he had to go to sleep, even before dinner.
At night, she is so stiff, her whole body seems to have gone to sleep, with anguish, so that she could not fall asleep.
She lies during the nights without getting any sleep, merely the strongest fancies and ravings.
She lies awake all night; no sleep comes to her eyes.
Entire insomina, for some eight to ten days.
1055. Nocturnal sleeplessness.
He cannot go to sleep for two evenings in succession, before the lapse of an hour and a half, on account of the crowding in of ideas (aft. 7 d.).
Having waked up at 2 a. m. he cannot go to sleep again, on account of a rush of ideas. [Gr., Ng.]
Restless sleep, but without pains.
Frequent awaking, and no sleep after midnight.
1060. Repeated awaking, with restlessness and chill, but without any dreams.
She sleeps restlessly, starts up and talks in her sleep.
He wakes up very frequently and starts up; without dreams.
He awakes at night in a perspiration, with an urging to urinate
Starting up from his noon-sleep (12th d.).
1065. Frequent starting up during his drowsiness in the afternoon.
Starting up from sleep at night, with trembling all over the body.
At night, rush of blood to the head.
At night, ebullition of blood, it throbs in all the arteries.
1070. Much nocturnal thirst; her mouth always gets dry (aft. 48 h.).
In the evening, when going to sleep, first a jerk in the head, then beating in the right ear.
Nocturnal nausea (the 1st n.).
Several nights, he awakens at eleven o'clock, after having slept an hour and a half, and then goes to sleep again. [Gr.]
He awakes after midnight, with burning in his stomach and inclination to vomit; then empty eructations tasting of the ingesta, without any offensive taste (aft. 15 d.).
1075. At night, while lying in bed, on the right side of the throat, a rough and scrapy feeling, causing her to cough for half an hour, with expectoration of mucus; for several nights.
At night, shooting in the left side of the chest, down to the last rib, at every inspiration.
At night, dry cough, even to vomiting, and with anxious sweat; he had to get up from his bed.
In the evening, on going to sleep, there was repeated twitching of the arms and the right lower limb, and she grasped at something with her hands.

In the evening, after going to sleep, she starts all over her body, with fright and awaking.

1080. Twitching upward of the body at night, in a dreamless sleep, for an hour and a half (aft. 4 d.).

In the evening after lying down (and falling into a slumber) he began to beat about unconsciously with hands and feet, and to twitch, with closed eyes (without screaming) and with loud snoring; the foam came out of his mouth; then he lay motionless, as if dead, and was quite stiff, when they tried to raise him up, then he opened his immobile eyes and commenced to babble; (epileptic fit?) (aft. 6 d.).

At night, incarceration of flatulence, and then contraction of the chest (aft. 12.).

At night, pain in the sacrum, as if bruised.

In the evening in bed, jerks through the head, terminating in a stitch in the occiput.

1085. At 2 A. M. he is awakened by a painful rush of blood to the head, with heat and stinging.

At night, pressive headache; she does not remember where she is, everything turns around and her heart palpitates (aft. 17 d.).

At night, in the midst of a dream, there is vertigo with nausea.

About midnight, vertigo, even in sleep, with heat in the head.

At night, his little finger becomes quite stiff; he could not bend it.

1090. At night, severe pains in the hypogastrium, like contraction, then a profuse perspiration all over.

Nocturnal, weakening diarrhœa (20th d.).

At night, he awakes and has to go to stool (aft. 5 d.).

In the evening, in bed, transient pinching pain, close below the right eye. [Gr.]

At night, urging to micturition, with erection. [Gr.]

1095. At night, pain in the ulcer on the leg.

At night, troublesome cough, till four o'clock (aft. 5 d.).

At night, while half asleep, he is very cold, without waking up.

At night, great weakness, even to fainting.

At night, pain in the sacrum, and on the top of that shoulder on which he is lying.

1100. At night, he often wakes up from a pain in the stomach, which at first is pressive, then pinching.

In the evening, when going to sleep pulsations in the head, beating in the heart and shuddering all through the body, for several minutes.

Awaking with anguish and a stupefying vertigo. [Gl.]

Awaking with a quicker pulse, palpitation, sensation of heat, eructation and pressure in the pit of the stomach; then retching vomiting of bitter mucus.

He awakes with anxiety and incarceration of flatus, both of which disappeared on walking about in the room, without any discharge of flatus (aft. 8 d.).

1105. He awakes after midnight with restlessness, difficulty of breathing, and dryness of the skin (aft. 9 d.).
 Restless sleep and frequent waking up with a chill.
 He awakes in great anguish from dreaming that he is to be murdered; he feels as if he should suffocate, without being able to speak (aft. 15 d.).
 Anxious awaking about 3 A. M.
 In her nightly fancy her head seems to her excessively large.
1110. When she wakes up at night, owing to an anxious dream, she remains very anxious and her heart beats audibly,
 Restless sleep with repeated awaking and many dream-images, one of which dispels the other. [Gr.]
 At night, incoherent dreams (2d n.), [FOISSAC.]
 He wakes up a good deal, after midnight, and when he goes to sleep again about 2 or 3 o'clock, he goes off into ravings.
 He repeatedly talks in his sleep.
1115. He dreams much at night, and screams in his sleep.
 The boy is restless at night and screams.
 The boy awakes at night, with violent weeping, he does not become conscious, but laments anxiously, with inarticulate babbling.
 Evil dreams with violent weeping, [also Gll.]
 Terrifying dream about snakes (aft. 5 d.).
1120. Terrifying dream as if she was about to be throttled, she could not scream, but could only kick with her feet.
 Terrifying dream, that he was accused of murder and betrayed,
 Terrifying dream, as if he was being drowned.
 Dream full of disputes and mortification (aft. 4 d.).
 Terrifying dream; he is being chased.
1125. Dreams that somebody seized him by the finger, so that he was frightened.
 Anxious dream about robbers, with whom he wrestled, he awakes heated, anxious, oppressed and in a perspiration.
 Dreaming about robbers and murderers, which causes him to wake up and say that he will likely catch them.
 Dream full of cruelty, without anger.
 Fearful dreams in the first hours of the night.
1130. Horrid dreams at night, and often, restless awaking.
 Dreams and fanciful ravings as soon as she goes to sleep.
 Dreams about transactions of the day, and about big dogs pursuing him. [Gr.]
 Repeated awaking, at night, and immediately after going to sleep again, dreams about his daily employment. [Gr.]
 Dreams of occurrences in his youth. [Gr.]
1135. Youthful dream-images awake him from his sleep and float before him so vividly on awaking that he can only with difficulty tear himself away from them. [Gr.]
 Vivid dreams about former times. [Gr.]
 Many dreams about distant journeys. [Gll.]
 Immediately after going to sleep, fearful ravings; he jumps back, starts up and screams.
 Annoying dreams.

1140. Continuing loud laughter while asleep, after midnight.

In his dream, everything that had occurred and been heard during the day comes before him in confused images.

In a sort of somnambulist dream, he vividly sees regions he had never seen before and far distant, and also objects which he longed for (aft. 8 d.).

While sleeping, he starts to get up out of bed.

She rises up while asleep, climbs over chairs, tables and a pianoforte, and then lies down in her bed again, without becoming conscious.

1145. He dreams and raves much during the nights, he rises up and often does not know, when walking about in the room, where he is.

Sleep full of ravings; he rises from his bed like a somnambulist.

In his dream, he imagines he has an epileptic fit, which draws his head to one side (aft. 13 d.).

A half-awake dream, as if innumerable spirits wanted to seize him; when he waked up, he could not move a limb, and lay in a sweat with great anguish and palpitation, subsequently great timidity (aft. 12 d.).

Dream after midnight, of a spectre which pursued him (aft. 13 d.).

1150. Dream, that he had to die. [Gl.]

When half awake, a nightmare, with great anguish, as if a rough animal weighing many hundred-weight lay upon him, so that he could not move, nor utter a sound.

About midnight, he wakes up in great anguish, could not move in spite of all his efforts, and imagined that thieves were breaking in; on rising he grew calmer, but on lying down again, his anguish returned (aft. 37 d.).

Dreams, of a loathsome, repulsive character. [Gr.]

His numerous dreams are diminished. [Gr.]

1155. Having waked up about 4 A. M, from dreaming about war, he feels a rheumatic pressure between the scapulæ, especially on moving the left arm. [Gr.]

Many dreams at night of a historical and an amorous nature. Amorous dreams of marriages.

Lewd dreams (5th n.).

Lewd dreams and strong sexual impulses (aft. 13 d.).

1160. Lewd dreams and emission of semen (2d n.).

Lewd dream, very repugnant to her.

Lewd dream of practicing coitus, but being disturbed in it, on awaking, erection and voluptuous fancies (aft. 6 h.).

Lewd thoughts in the evening, and in the morning while abed, with erections. [Gr.]

Nocturnal emission of semen and perspiration on the back, with waking up about 2 A. M.

1165. Cramplike chill, in the evening in bed, so that it shook him (14th d.).

In the evening, a severe chill, especially in the shoulders. [Gl.]

Shaking chill; she has to lie down in the evening, and could not even get warm in bed for a long time. [Ng.]

During the chill, painful shooting behind the left mamma, by night and by day. [Ng.]

Shuddering for half an hour, repeatedly during the day, followed by some heat, chiefly in the head and face.

1170. Violent, uninterrupted internal chill, for several days.

Fever in the evening: after lying down, a severe chill, so that she could not get warm in bed; it causes pain in the stomach (aft. 16 h.).

First some chilliness down the back, with icy cold hands, then intense heat, with distention of the abdomen.

Fever; in the evening, heat all over, with thirst, not followed by perspiration.

Dry heat and thirst, for several evenings, followed by pains in the abdomen and the head.

1175. Fever, with severe heat in the head, dark redness of the face, and thirst, four days in succession, from noon till evening; half an hour before the heat, the headache commenced.

For many evenings, heat in the face and in the tip of the ear.

His blood readily passes into ebullition, and he is always excited.

In the afternoon, fever, consisting merely of heat, with fearful thirst and very short breath. [Whl.]

Febrile heat, all night, with intense thirst and croaking breathing, [Whl.]

1180. The whole body of the child during the fever is burning hot, with red, puffed up face, the glands hard, like peas, around the neck and down by the shoulders, with distended abdomen and constant diarrhœa. [Whl.]

The intermittent fever of silicea has little perspiration, it usually appears from 10 A. M. to 8 P. M.; also after midnight till 8 A. M. [Whl.]

During the time intervening between the attacks of fever, the children are very obstinate and weep, when they are touched or addressed. [Whl.]

Every night in bed, there is a light perspiration all over the body (the first nights).

Every night, severe sweat toward morning.

1185. Every night, profuse sweat, with lack of appetite and a feeling of decrepitude, as if he were going into consumption.

Nocturnal sweat on the chest.

Strongly smelling sweat.

Morning-sweat.

Night-sweat, especially on the trunk. [Gr.]

1190. Profuse, general night-sweat. [Gr.]

General light perspiration, at night, in bed. [Gr.]

Perspiration, merely on the head, running down his face. [Whl.]

Profuse, dripping sweat, at night, especially on the loins. [Gr.]

STANNUM, TIN.

Tin beaten out into extremely thin lamina by the gold-beaters, as tin-foil, is the purest tin, which may be dynamized for Homœopathic use, like other dry drugs, according to the medicinal methods peculiar to Homœopathy.

No physicians made any use of tin before this, as they did not suppose it to contain any medicinal virtues. Alston alone (in Mater. Med. I, p. 150.) first made known a Scotch domestic remedy against the tape-worm (fluxeworm), containing in syrup a powder of English tin, not in its pure state, however, but alloyed with 1-20 part of other metals; it had to be taken in large quantities, and followed by a purgative. Later physicians took tin filings instead. The tape-worm, however, was never killed by the remedy, but perhaps stupefied for a time, so that the purgative could then carry it off. But even this seldom took place. After frequently repeating these doses of tin, the tape-worms seems only to extend further in the bowels, and to increase the trouble; workmen in tin also not seldom suffer to a high degree from tape-worm (tænia Solium). Tin, therefore, seems rather to be a palliative to its unpleasant movements in the sensitive bowels; seeming in its after-effects to work more to the detriment than the advantage of the patients.

What manifold, far more useful employment there may be made of the great medicinal virtues of tin in Homœopathy, may appear from the following artificial symptoms of disease, observed through its effects on healthy persons:

Pressive heaviness in the forehead; pains in the abdomen during the menses; pressure and shooting in the left hypochondrium; burning pain in the hepatic region; too great excitability of the nerves; unbearable restlessness, so that persons know not how to contain themselves.

The abbreviations of the names of the provers are as follows: Fr., Franz; Gr., Gross; Gtm., Gutmann; Hrm., Herrmann; Htm., Hartmann; Lgh., Langhammer; Wsl., Wislicenus; Hl., Haynel.<sup>1</sup>

---

<sup>1</sup>Of the proving of Stannum appearing in the sixth volume of Mat. Med. Pura, the present article is but a reproduction, with the preface abridged and the notes omitted. The symptoms, both of Hahnemann and of his fellow-observers, were presumably (in Gross' case certainly) obtained by provings on the healthy with a low trituration of the metal.—Hughes.

STANNUM.

- Gloomy, hypochondriac mood.
 Indescribable anguish and melancholy, for several days.
 Aversion and distaste for human society.
 Indisposition to talk.
5. No pleasure in anything, without being peevish.
 Discouraged mood.
 Dawdling and irritated, with heat in the face; she wanted to do a number of things, but accomplished nothing.
 Restless and distracted, no perseverance in her work (at once.)
 Restlessness, which does not allow him to stay long anywhere.
 [Hem.]
10. He is ineffectually busied, as if he was prevented by superabundance of ideas from finishing his work at a certain time; he thinks of a number of things which he ought yet to attend to.
 [Gr.]
 Annoyed, nothing was done according to his desire. [Lgh.]
 Not disposed to any work, and incapacitated from thinking.
 [Hrm.]
 Dull in spirit, indifferent to things around him, out of sorts; with paleness and dimness about the eyes. [Gtm.]
 Peevishness, which disappears in the open air, all day long.
 [Frz.]
15. Discontentedness.
 The mind is quiet, introverted, solicitous about the future.
 [Lgh.]
 Taciturn looking down before him, with great discomfort of body. [Gtm.]
 Taciturn peevishness, he does not want to answer, and does so abruptly; he is easily vexed, and readily becomes passionate. [Gtm.]
 Vexation and quickly passing sensitiveness, (the first 3 days.)
 [Gr.]
20. Readily flying into a passion, and inclined to violent anger (4th d.). [Gr.]
 Vehement, but quickly passing passion [Gr.]
 Quiet, good-humored (aft. 14 h.). [Lgh.]
 Talkative, sociable. [Lgh.]
 Excessively merry. [Gtm.]
25. Lack of memory, in the morning, on awaking.
 Dizziness in the whole head. [Hrm.]
 Muddled and stupid feeling in the head, as if from incipient coryza, but this does not come on; with sneezing.
 Heaviness and muddled feeling of the head, worse in the evening.
 Heaviness in the head, both when at rest and in motion, in the evening for two hours (aft. 9 h.).
30. Stupefying vertigo, only when walking in the open air; he staggers as if he would fall. [Lgh.]
 Vertigo while sitting, as if he would fall. [Gtm.]
 Sudden attack of vertigo, while taking a rest. [Wsl.]

Vertigo, as if all objects were too far distant. [Wsl.]

Vertigo, as if the brain turned round; he loses all thoughts and cannot read on and is sitting, seemingly unconscious. [Hrm.]

35. Headache, almost every morning, with lack of appetite, nausea and peevishness.

Pressure outward on the left side of the occiput. [Hl.]

Pressive heaviness; with sensation of emptiness in the left half of the brain. [Htm.]

Pressive pain outward at the right side of the head. [Gtm.]

Pressive pain outward at the right temple, almost as if it was external. [Gtm.]

40. Pressure in the left temple, beginning weak, then increasing and then gradually decreasing; as if the forehead would be pressed in. [Gr.]

Pressure, extending from the middle of the forehead deep into the brain. [Gtm.]

Pressure in the forehead, the temple and the vertex, relieved by external pressure. [Gr.]

Pressure on the right temple, when lying on it, going off on rising. [Gtm.]

Pressure in the forehead, aggravated by bending backward, relieved by pressing upon it. [Gr.]

45. Pressure in the forehead.

Sudden sharp pressure on the vertex, with a sensation as if the hair was moved. [Gr.]

Dull pressure outward in the forehead. [Hem.]

Pressure outward at the forehead, with drowsiness diminished by pressing upon it. [Gr.]

Pressure outward in the frontal eminences. [Gr.]

50. Pressive stupefying pain in the brain, right above the eyebrows, both at rest and in motion. [Lgh.]

Dizzy pressure all through the head. [Hrm.]

Painful pressure of the brain against the vertex and the occipital bone, in the evening, continuing even after lying down. [Hl.]

Pain like as if the temples were pressed in, all day long.

Pressing together on the temples and on the occiput.

55. Pain as if the brain was being pressed apart and tense.

Compression in the occiput, below the vertex. [Frz.]

Constriction and pressure suddenly all through the upper part of the head, gently increasing and decreasing, [Gr.]

Contractive pain in the right side of the occiput. [Gtm.]

Sensation frequently as if the head was in a vise, with slow jerks or a drawing pressure, occasionally here and there. [Gr.]

60. Spasmodic headache, as if the head was externally drawn together with a band.

Violent jerks through the front part of the head, alternating with a dull pressure. [Htm.]

Suddenly a pressive jerk in the left side of the forehead and in the left temple, so that he screams out aloud. [Gr.]

Pain as if the forehead was shattered.

- Boring, pressive pain in the right temple, going off through external pressure. [Htm.]
65. Boring pain in the left temple, all day long.
 Boring, pressive, stupefying pain in the left half of the brain, on the surface. [Htm.]
 Boring in the occipital bones; with acutely painful heaviness. [Htm.]
 Drawing through the forehead and the vertex, with a pressive sensation. [Gr.]
 Drawing pressure from the right parietal bone toward the orbit. [Gr.]
70. Drawing pressure on the upper margin of the left orbit. [Gr.]
 Pressive drawing in one temple and one-half of the forehead, causing gloominess. [Gr.]
 Tearing on the left side of the parietal bone and in the forehead. [Hrm.]
 Tearing pressure in the right half of the head. [Hrm.]
 Pressive tearing through the right side of the head. [Wsl.]
75. Pressive tearing in the right side of the forehead, in paroxysms, more violent when stooping. [Htm.]
 Pressive tearing in the left occipital bone. [Htm.]
 Pressive tearing in the forehead. [Hrm.]
 Pressive tearing in the left side of the vertex. [Hrm.]
 Pressive tearing on the left side, in the occiput. [Hm.]
80. Drawing tearing, resembling jerks, externally above the left eyebrow. [Lgh.]
 A long dull stitch on the left frontal eminence. [Gr.]
 Shooting headache in the forehead, also when at rest, for several days; when stooping, it feels as if everything was coming out at the forehead.
 Shooting in the temple, resembling pulsation, with heat in the head, chill in the body and weakness of the head, so that he could hardly comprehend anything; attended with slumber and loss of sense.
Throbbing headache in the temples.
85. Heat in the forehead, sensible also externally.
 Burning pain in the one-half of the sinciput, resembling fire, so also in the nose and in the eyes, with heat of the parts, sensible also externally; unchanged by rest or motion; he had to lie down; attended with nausea and retching as if to vomit; from morning till evening.
 Painful sensation when shaking the head, as if the brain was loose and beat against the skull. [Gr.]
 Buzzing in the head; external noises caused it to resound.
 Sensation of weariness in the head and sleepiness.
90. Pain, externally on the head, as if it was festering within.
 Fine shooting in the middle of the forehead. [Frz.]
 Quick, dull stitches in the right half of the upper side of the head. [Gr.]
 Headache like stitches, especially on the left side of the forehead, with fluent coryza. [Lgh.]
 Burning shooting on the vertex. [Frz.]

95. Burning tension, anteriorly, on the hairy scalp, just above the right side of the forehead. [Gtm.]
 Pain in the eyes, as from rubbing with a woolen cloth, diminished on moving the lids.
 Pressure in the left eye, as from a sty on the lids. [Frz.]
 Pressure in the left inner canthus, as from a sty, with lachrymation of the eyes. [Hrm.]
 Pressive pain in the right inner canthus. [Hrm.]
100. Pressure in both the upper eyelids. [Gtm.]
 Pressure in the eyes.
 Sensation behind the right eyelid, as of a hard body. [Gtm.]
 Sudden jerks on the upper margin of the right orbit, and on other parts, with acutely painful stupefaction of the head. [Gr.]
 Sudden, acutely painful dull shocks on the outer side of the upper margin of the left orbit. [Gr.]
105. Tensive stitch in the left eyeball, most violent when moving it. [Gtm.]
 Burning shooting in the right eye, toward the outer canthus. [Gtm.]
 Fine shooting burning in the left canthus. [Gtm.]
 Violent, short, burning stitches in the lids of the right eye, more toward the outer canthus. [Htm.]
 Burning pain in the left lower eyelid. [Gtm.]
110. Burning in the eyes.
 Itching in the inner canthus.
 Itching in the left eyeball, going off somewhat by rubbing. [Gtm.]
 Smarting in the eyes, as after rubbing with a woolen cloth. [Frz.]
 Nightly agglutination of the eyes, and weakness of the same by day.
115. Suppurating swelling on the inner canthus of the left eye, like a fistula lachrymalis.
 Contraction of the eyelids, with redness of the white in the eye and a burning sensation.
 Quivering on the right inner canthus. [Hl.]
 Quivering of the left eye, for a week.
 Twitching of the eyes.
120. The eyes protrude and are painful as after weeping.
 Weary, dim, sunken eyes (aft. 2 d.). [Hrm.]
 Dim eyes.
 The pupils first contracted, then dilated. [Lgh.]
 By candle-light he sees a rainbow.
125. Straining pain in the external ear, with drawing pain. [Gr.]
 Drawing, repeatedly, in the left ear, like straining. [Gr.]
 Tearing in the right meatus auditorius, like straining in the ear. [Hrm.]
 Drawing in the whole of the right ear, the inner and the outer, more painful on moving the lower jaw. [Gtm.]
 Pain from cramps in the whole of the right ear, for eight hours. [Gtm.]
130. Pinching tearing through the cartilage of the left auricle,

- with the sensation occasionally, as if a cool breeze was blowing upon it (aft. 4 h.). [Wsl.]
 Drawing stitch in the upper wing of the left ear. [Gtm.]
 Pressure externally on the bone behind the ear.
 Boring pain in the right ear, while the feet are cold.
 Itching in the left ear.
135. The hole for the ear-ring in the lobule is ulcerated.
 Sound of screaming in the ear, on blowing the nose.
 Ringing in the left ear. [Lgh.]
 Rushing sound in the ear, as from blood streaming through.
 [Frz.]
 Creaking before the left ear and within it, as from a gate, in the evening. [Frz.]
140. Sensation of stoppage of the left ear, with deafness, diminished by blowing the nose, in the morning, after rising, for four days. [Hl.]
 In the upper part of the nostril, sensation of heaviness and stuffing. [Hrm.]
 Epistaxis in the morning, just after rising from bed. [Hl.]
 Violent epistaxis in the morning, immediately on awaking.
 The face is pale and sunken; sickly, long-drawn face. [Hrm.]
145. Transient heat in the face, sensible internally and externally.
 [Gr.]
 Cramplike pressure in the muscles on the left zygoma. [Wsl.]
 Stupefying pain in the face, especially on the forehead.
 [Lgh.]
 Contractive pain in the facial bones and the teeth on the right side, as if this were being drawn shorter. [Gr.]
 Contraction and pressure internally under the right cheek.
 [Frz.]
150. Drawing pressure in the facial bones on the right side, especially in the zygoma and the orbit; it comes by jerks. [Gr.]
 Pressive gnawing on the left side of the face, especially on the zygoma. [Wsl.]
 Tearing, extending down from the zygoma into the lower jaw, beside the corner of the mouth. [Gr.]
 Burning itching shooting on the zygomas.
 Burning pain in the right cheek, below the eye. [Gtm.]
155. In the evening, a burning pain from cramps in the left cheek, and soon after, swelling of the cheek, which only pains like cutting, when the face is distorted; the pain feels as if there were splinters of glass between the cheeks and the teeth. [Frz.]
 Pain and swelling of the upper jaw; the cheeks are red and they sting.
 Painful swelling of the left cheek, with a gum-boil; the pains deprive her of sleep.
 Itching pimples in the face, with sore pain when they are touched or washed.
 A pimple in the left eyebrow, with burning pain per se but with pressive pain when touched.
160. In the lower lip on a small spot, a shooting tearing pain.
 Anteriorly on the chin, broad cutting stitches. [Wsl.]

On the right side of the angle of the lower jaw, a red tumor with drawing pain, which is aggravated by touching it, for eight days.

Painful swelling of the submaxillary glands (aft. 8 h.).

The teeth seem too long.

165. Twitching toothache in all the teeth, soon after eating (anything cold or warm); with heat of the face; only relieved by the open air.

Looseness of the teeth.

Tough mucus in the mouth.

Gathering of saliva in the mouth. [Frz.]

Sourish saliva runs from his mouth, in the morning, on awaking.

170. The tongue coated with yellowish mucus (aft. 5 d.). [Gtm.]
He finds it hard to speak.

He finds it hard to talk, as he lacks the strength. [Gr.]

Sore throat, like a swelling, with sensation of dryness, and drawing, tensive pains.

Pain in the throat, as if it swelled up with a sore pain, unaffected by deglutition; after much hawking, he talks at a higher pitch of voice than usual.

175. Cutting in the fauces, as with knives, when swallowing. [Frz.]

Parching shooting in the upper part of the fauces, while not swallowing. [Frz.]

Sensation of dryness and shooting in the throat on the right tonsil; it incites to cough, and goes off somewhat by coughing and swallowing. [Frz.]

Scratchy scraping below the pit of the throat, internally. [Gr.]

Scrapy in the throat, in the evening.

180. Scratchy sensation in the throat, in the morning.

Much mucus in the throat.

In the evening, there is an irritation to hawking up mucus, followed by severe sore pain in the throat.

Disagreeable taste in the mouth. [Gtm.]

Bitter sour taste in the mouth.

185. Bitter taste of everything partaken of (food and drink), except water; no bitter taste when not eating.

Bitter and sour taste in the mouth (1st-3d d.).

A sweetish taste rises up into her throat.

The beer has an herb-like taste. [Gtm.]

Beer tastes flat and sour bitter.

190. Tobacco tastes acrid and dry, in smoking it.

Bad smell from the mouth.

Fetor from the throat.

Lack of appetite, while food tastes normally. [Gtm.]

Lack of appetite, while there is emptiness in the stomach, only once at noon. [Gr.]

195. Great appetite and hunger; he could not get satiated. [Gr.]

Increased hunger and appetite. [Hrm.]

The child leaves its mother's breast, because she had taken Stannum, and it does not want to drink any more.

- Increased thirst. [Hrm.]
 When the morsel swallowed is near the orifice of the stomach, there arises a dull growling in the abdomen. [Gr.]
200. Hiccup, soon after eating, during the customary smoke. [Frz.]
 Repeated hiccups. [Lgh.]
 Occasional hiccups.
 Repeated empty eructation. [Lgh.]
 Eructation with a flat taste and with much saliva in the mouth. [Frz.]
205. Bitter eructation, repeatedly, after meals.
 Sourish eructation, followed by roughness of the fauces, while walking in the open air. [Gtm.]
 Eructation, at once in the morning, first tasting of rotten eggs, then mere air. [Gr.]
 Shuddering from loathing, repeatedly, with nauseous fullness in the scrobiculus cordis.
 Nausea and bitterness in the mouth. [Frz.]
210. Nausea and inclination to vomit, in the fauces. [Hrm.]
 Nausea after eating.
 Nausea as if about to vomit, in the fauces and œsophagus. [Hrm.]
 Retching to vomit, in the evening, then at first sour taste, then bitter taste in the mouth (1st d.).
 Retching to vomit, with great nausea and sensation as from a spoiled and bitter stomach (2d and 3d d.).
215. Nausea, and bitter, bilious vomiting, after eating some soup. Sour vomiting.
 Vomiting of undigested food, after violent retching (aft. 2 h.).
 Vomiting of blood. [GEISSCHLAEGER, in Hufel. Journ. X., 3, 165.]<sup>1</sup>
 Vomiting of blood was stopped by Stannum, as if by a charm. [ALSTON, Mater. Med. I., p. 152.]<sup>2</sup>
220. Pressure in the stomach, in the forenoon.
 Pressure in the stomach. [GEISSCHLAEGER.]<sup>3</sup>
 Pressure in the stomach and uncomfortable feeling, after eating some soup.
Pressure and damming up, in the scrobiculus cordis, which pains when touched as if festering. [Frz.]
 Violent pressure in the stomach.
225. Anxious pressure in the scrobiculus cordis, when lying down, as if he should have a hemorrhage, for several hours; it goes off by pressing upon it. [Gtm.]
 Tensive pressure in the scrobiculus cordis. [Gtm.]
 Dull, hard pressure on the left side, near the scrobiculus cordis, just below the last costal cartilage, somewhat relieved by pressing upon it. [Gr.]
 Cutting about the stomach.
 Grasping in the stomach and about the umbilicus, like a

<sup>1</sup> Effect of swallowing granulated tin.—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup> Statement of a case as reported to him.—Hughes.

<sup>3</sup> In the original this is "unleidliches Druuecken" (unendurable pressure).—Hughes.

- cramp, with constant nausea, and with anxious rising toward the pit of the stomach.
230. Long fine stitch on the xiphoid cartilage, soon after eating. [Gr.]
Sensation in the pit of the stomach, as after spoiling the stomach. [Frz.]
Fullness and inflation of the stomach, and yet attended with hunger. [Gr.]
Sensation of puffiness under the skin in the region of the stomach, with pinching in the abdomen when walking. [Frz.]
It causes ailments in the stomach and the bowels. [STAHL, Mat. Med. Cap. VI.]<sup>1</sup>
235. Below the diaphragm, a quickly transient burning. [Frz.]
Hysterical and hypochondriacal cramps in the region of the diaphragm and the abdomen.
Cutting in the right hypochondrium, more severe when sitting bent forward. [Wsl.]
Pressive cramp-pain in the left hypochondrium, now weaker, now stronger. [Htm.]
First a simple pain in both the hypochondria, then dull shocks from the left to the right side; they seem worse when pressing on the right side. [Gr.]
240. Sudden painful jerking together in both sides under the true ribs. [Gr.]
Pains in the abdomen, in repeated paroxysms.
Pain in the abdomen, extending into the stomach and to both sides under the ribs, when pressing with the hand upon the umbilical region.
Pressure in the hypogastrium, here and there, with urging to stool. [Hrm.]
Drawing pressure in the abdomen, now here, now there. [Hrm.]
245. Pressure in the upper part of the liver. [Frz.]
Pressure in the hepatic region.
Dull, slow pressure on the right side, near the navel. [Gr.]
Burning pressure in the right side of the abdomen. [Frz.]
Tensive pain in the abdomen, more toward the sacrum, most violent when stooping. [Gtm.]
250. Fullness in the abdomen, after eating.
Painful distention of the abdomen, with painful sensitiveness to the external touch.
Inflation of the abdomen.
Cramplike pain below and above the navel, soon passing by lying across a table, without any discharge of flatus.
Pinching between the pit of the stomach and the navel, as if some one pinched the muscles together. [Gr.]
255. Pinching cutting in the umbilical region, almost the whole day.
Pinching pain close above the left os ilium, as if a tendon had been strained, while stooping. [Htm.]

<sup>1</sup> Not accessible.—Hughes.

- Pinching in the abdomen, at times with grumbling, as from incipient diarrhoea. [Frz.]
- Pinching in the umbilical region, as from a cold. [Gr.]
- Pinching movement in the abdomen, as from incarcerated flatus. [Lgh.]
260. Pinching and pressure in the abdomen, especially in the umbilical region, with call to stool. [Hrm.]
- Cutting pains transversely across the hypogastrium, as from knives. [Hrm.]
- Drawing cutting in the abdomen, close beside the right hipbone. [Htm.]
- Burrowing in the abdomen, before every stool.
- Painful burrowing in the abdomen, above the umbilical region; when pressing upon it, pain, as if it touched a sore spot. [Gr.]
265. Sensation of soreness in the whole of the abdomen, worse when touched. [Gr.]
- Erosive pain in the abdomen.
- The abdomen is painful when touched, as if festering within, with shortness of breath. [Frz.]
- Shooting in the right side of the abdomen, then drawing in the right shoulder; she had to lie down, with sweat in the face and on the arms, after which a chill ran over her.
- Several violent stitches in succession in the right side of the abdomen, especially when coughing and respiring.
270. Boring stitch in the left epigastrium, while walking. [Gtm.]
- A stab as from a knife suddenly, on inspiring, darted from the left to the right side through the abdomen, so that she was frightened and startled. [Gr.]
- Dull stitches in the renal region, going inward. [Frz.]
- Fine shooting pain in the hypogastrium. [Gtm.]
- Fine shooting at the symphysis pubis on the left side. [Frz.]
275. Burning pain in the abdomen.
- Burning in the hypogastrium.
- Sensation of distention in the abdominal muscles on the right side, above the spinous process of the ilium. [Frz.]
- Bruised pain in the left side below the ribs.
- Sensation of great emptiness in the abdomen (but without hunger), as if everything there was languishing; he relished the food; he ate a good deal and then felt better; followed by a sensation as if the body could not support itself. [Gr.]
280. Sensation of emptiness in the abdomen, after a meal. [Hrm.]
- In the inguinal glands, pressure, with some swelling there.
- Fine pinching in the left groin. [Wsl.]
- Shooting in the right groin, when stooping, as if he had jumped too far; on raising himself up, it passed off. [Lgh.]
- Sensation in the left groin, as if a hernia would protrude. [Frz.]
285. Clucking in the abdomen. [Gr.]
- Loud grumbling in the abdomen, after every meal, only while lying down. [Gtm.]

- There is rumbling about in his abdomen. [Gr.]
 Growling in the abdomen, as if from emptiness, on stretching the body. [Lgh.]
 Growling in the abdomen. [Hrm.]
290. Frequent accumulations of flatus in the abdomen. [Frz.]
 Incarceration of flatus.
 Crawling motion in the right side of the abdomen, as from a purgative. [Lgh.]
 No stool for twenty-five hours. [Hl.]
 The stool comes six hours later than usual. [Gtm.]
295. Frequent call to stool. [Gr.]
 Frequent ineffectual urging to stool. [Gr.]
 Ineffectual urging to stool.
 Frequent urging to stool, which, however, is normal. [Hrm.]
 Sudden call to stool, which is at first normal, then pappy, and finally thin, while a shudder passes through the body, from above downward, and there is a drawing from the sacrum through the thighs; when he is about to rise, he always feels as if he was not done yet. [Gr.]
300. Shortly after the stool, there is again an urging thereto. [Frz.]
 Frequent urging to stool, when but little fæces, at times only mucus passes.
 Scanty stool.
 Constipation sometimes, both with the mother and her suckling.
 Dry stool, in lumps.
305. Dry, thickly shaped stool, with violent cutting pain. [Hl.]
 Passage of a single hard lump, with straining. [Lgh.]
 Difficult discharge of thickly formed but not hard fæces, as if the bowels had not strength enough to expel them (aft. 24 h.). [Wsl.]
 Firm stool, which seemed to him to be slippery, without actually being so. [Frz.]
 In the forenoon, a soft stool, in the afternoon, a thin stool. [Gtm.]
310. Repeated, continuous urging as if to diarrhœa, in the evening, with pinching and painful movements in the abdomen, as from a cold, and with shocks in the left side as from a foetus in the womb, with distention of the abdomen; then thin stool, with the urging remains; and constant pain in the abdomen until she got to bed. [Gr.]
 Stool with vermiform mucus.
 Greenish, scanty stool.
 After the stool, at once sensation of soreness and erosion in the anus, with fine stitches. [Wsl.]
 After the stool, burning pain in the hepatic region.
315. After the stool, a dull pressure in the rectum.
 After the stool, discharge of mucus.
 Burning of the anus unconnected with the stool, and also just after it.
 Pressive pain in the rectum. [Gtm.]
 Itching stitch in the rectum. [Gtm.]
320. Continuous itching about the anus. [Gtm.]

A little knot on the left side of the anus, like a varix, and sore when touched. [Gr.]

Erosive gnawing pain around the anus, when walking and sitting.

Retention of urine.

Urging to urinate, only as if from a sensation of fullness in the bladder; the urine is scanty, fetid and rare, but without any pain.

325. Frequent urging to urinate, also compelling the person to rise at night to urinate for three days, then micturition becomes more rare and scanty than in the days of health. [Lgh.]

After micturition, acutely painful pressure in the neck of the bladder and in the urethra; there is always a feeling as if more urine should come, and when a few drops come, the pressure is even worse. [Htm.]

Burning anteriorly in the urethra, especially when urinating; there was an urging every minute and he passed much water.

A vesicle on the margin of the orifice of the urethra.

Soreness of the tip of the urethra.

330. In the penis there is twitching, extending even to the posterior part, almost as if for the emission of semen.

Burning in the interior genitals, like a violent irritation to the emission of semen (aft. 24 h.).

No sexual impulse, nor any potency, even when there is actual excitation (after-effect).

Unbearable voluptuous thrill in the genitals and in the whole body, even to the emission of semen (aft. 40 h.).

Burning pain in the glans, followed immediately by an urging to urinate [Gtm.]

335. Burning stitch in the glans. [Gtm.]

Pricking sensation in the glans, as from needles. [Gtm.]

Immediate erection; on the following days, lack of any erection.

Pollution, without lascivious dreams. [Lgh., Gtm.]

Prolapsus vaginæ is troublesome during a very difficult stool.

340. Pressure in the hypogastrium, as for the menses; worse when pressing upon it. [Gr.]

The menses are more copious than usual (12th d.). [Gr.]

The week before the menses, great anguish and melancholy, which ceases with the flow of blood.

Before the menses, pain on the zygoma, when touched; during the menses, pain on the zygoma, as from a blow, even when merely moving the facial muscles.

Leucorrhœa of transparent mucous from the vagina.

345. The leucorrhœa ceases.

* * * * *

Repeated sneezing, without coryza. [Lgh.]

Severe stuffed coryza; he can only get air through the right nostril; at noon on the fourth day, his nose is free again. [Gr.]

The left nostril has no air and is externally swollen, red, and painful when touched.

Severe coryza (aft. 4 d.).

350. Roughness of the throat.

Hoarseness, weariness and emptiness of the chest, when beginning to sing, so that she had every now and then to cease and to take a deep breath; some impulses of cough occasionally removed the hoarseness for a few moments. [Gr.]

Mucus in the windpipe, in the forenoon; it is thrown out by light impulses of cough, with great weakness of the chest, as if it was emptied out, and with weariness in the whole body and in all the limbs, in which a faint feeling draws up and down; many mornings in succession. [Gr.]

The chest seems full of mucus, with rattling while breathing, this is sensible within and also audible without. [Frz.]

Tickling crawling in the throat (in the larynx?) with sensation of dryness, forcing to cough.

355. Incitation to cough in the windpipe, while breathing, as from mucus, while the cough is neither mucous nor dry; more noticeable when stooping forward in sitting, than when walking. [Frz.]

Short cough from time to time, as if from a weakness of the chest, with a hoarse, weak sound. [Gr.]

Tussiculation, with a triple impulse. [Frz.]

Constant incitation to tussiculation, as if caused by much mucus on the chest, with an internal sensation of panting and rattling. [Frz.]

Constant incitation to cough, from a continuous constriction of the windpipe. [Frz.]

360. Tickling-cough, as from soreness deep within the windpipe; it scratched upward into the throat.

Much incitation to cough, before midnight, with slight expectoration, for several nights.

Violent, convulsive, deep cough.

Fatiguing impulses of cough, causing the scrobiculus cordis to be painful as if bruised.

During coughing, he always feels much oppressed.

365. Scrapy cough, with greenish expectoration of a repulsively sweetish taste, worse in the evening before lying down; with hoarse speech; after every impulse of coughing (the incitation to which comes from the lower part of the windpipe), there is a sensation of soreness in the chest and windpipe.

Fearful cough, with expectoration and spitting of blood.

Yellow expectoration from the windpipe, of a putrid taste.

Expectoration tasting salty.

Attack of asthma, short breath and anguish, in the evening.

370. The breathing becomes shorter in the evening, with anguish; he has for a long time to breathe hurriedly, until he can at last take a deep breath, when all is over.

Asthma and lack of breath on going up stairs and at the slightest motion. [Hrm.]

Asthma, as if the clothes were too tight; he has to open them to breathe properly. [Hrm.]

Tightness as from a load on the chest, he has often to take a deep breath; with sensation of great emptiness in the pit of the stomach. [Gr.]

- Tightness in the chest, as if something rose up into the throat, which arrested the breathing. [Gr.]
375. When taking a deep breath, there is frequently a feeling of pleasing lightness. [Gr.]
- Occasional sensation of expansion of the chest while at rest, as if the chest was enlarged, and yet attended with a sensation of anxiety as in palpitation. [Gr.]
- Short, troublesome breathing, from weakness of the respiratory organs, with great emptiness of the chest, but without deficiency of air. [Gr.]
- Tightness of the chest, as if it was internally contracted, with a sensation as if the air was very dry when inspired. [Frz.]
- Pressive pinching on the chest, while sitting down, aggravated by inspiring. [Htm.]
380. Pressure deep in the chest, as from a load. [Frz.]
- Tension and pressure across the upper part of the chest, in the morning when rising from bed.
- Constriction of the chest, with anguish, in the evening.
- Contractive pain in the chest under the right arm; when moving it becomes shooting.
- Shooting in the chest and in the shoulder-joint, while respiring.
385. Violent shooting in the chest and side, impeding respiration, for several forenoons; in the afternoon, the abdomen is distended.
- Tensive stitch in the sternum, constant while respiring. [Gtm.]
- Tensive stitch in the left side of the chest, constant while breathing, worst when stooping. [Gtm.]
- Tensive stitch in the right side of the chest, almost taking away his breath. [Gtm.]
- Suddenly a long-continued startling stitch in the left side of the chest, a handbreadth below the axilla. [Gr.]
390. Sudden sharp stabs, as from a knife, in the left side of the chest. [Gr.]
- Sharp piercing pricks, as from needles, on the clavicle. [Gr.]
- Repeated, cutting stitches darting up through the chest and out at the uppermost ribs, unaffected by the breathing. [Wsl.]
- Burning stitches in the left side of the chest, more when expiring; while walking in the open air. [Hll.]
- Stitches, as from a flea-bite, in the last true rib on the right side and in the first false rib on the left side. [Frz.]
395. Tearing cutting in the left side of the chest, while walking and standing. [Lgh.]
- Cutting pain in the right side of the chest.
- Pinching cutting in the right ribs, when walking, merely on inspiring. [Htm.]
- Pressure in the chest below the right nipple, in an outward direction. [Hrm.]
- Aching in the whole of the chest, especially above the scrobiculus cordis, worse when inspiring. [Gr.]
400. Bruised pain of the chest, both at rest and in motion.

Sore pain in the whole of the chest, from the throat down.

[Gr.]

Burrowing pain in the chest, and descending thence into the abdomen, with a call to stool. [Gr.]

Drawing pressure on the united cartilages of the last ribs on the left side. [Gr.]

Drawing from the clavicles, extending into the left axilla. [Gr.]

405. Sudden drawing below the left side of the chest on raising oneself in bed; then sharp stabs, as of knives, from there into the clavicle, toward the top of the shoulder, where the pain remains, and drawing down on the left side it goes into the hypogastrium; on drawing in the abdomen, on pressing upon it, and especially on inspiring and while retching, when there is always a painful jerk, it is aggravated. [Gr.]

Muscular twitching in the upper part of the chest, near the left axilla. [Gtm.]

In the sacrum, intense formications.

Quivering twitches on the muscle of the false ribs. [Gtm.]

Intense itching on the nipple.

410. In the sacrum, somewhat to the right, pressive burning. [Frz.]

In the left side of the back, above the hip, a pain, pressing from above downward. [Gr.]

An undulating shock in the back above the left ilium, causing him to start with fright. [Gr.]

Shooting pinching on the back, on the false ribs. [Wsl.]

Violent tearing in the lumbar vertebræ, extending from both sides into the renal region, more violent with every motion of the trunk. [Hrm.]

415. Dull shocks in the lumbar region, with a sensation of coldness affecting him from without.

Sharp, twitching stitch in the left side of the back and at the same time in the left thigh. [Gtm.]

Burning fine shooting on a small spot in the middle of the back. [Htm.]

Fine shooting in the back outward. [Gtm.]

Burrowing shooting in the muscles of the right side of the back, continuing during respiration. [Gtm.]

420. Stitches like bearing on the left side of the back, upward, while standing. [Lgh.]

Pressive drawing in the spine, below and between the scapulæ, more violent when moving, especially when turning the body. [Hrm.]

On lifting a load, a pain suddenly darted between her scapulæ, as if she had strained herself, more on the left side; at the same time violent sharp stabs, as of knives, at the slightest movement, respiration or yawning; on bending backward she feels unbearable pains. [Gr.]

Drawing tearing in the left scapula, partly toward the back, and partly toward the top of the shoulder.

Slow, intermitting dull stitches between the scapulæ, in the middle, toward the spine.

425. Sharp, broad stitches in the spine, between the scapulæ, from within outward. [Wsl.]
 Violent, burning shooting on the upper part of the scapula, passing off only for a short time by rubbing. [Hl.]
 Burning stitch in the top of the right shoulder. [Gtm.]
 Itching stitches in the neck, in the morning in bed. [Wsl.]
 Boring, dull stitches, from the interior fauces out at the cervical muscles. [Gtm.]
430. There was a drawing up the neck, with sensation of stiffness, so that she could not move her head properly. [Gr.]
 Pain in the nape, on bending the head forward. [Gr.]
 A sudden, acutely painful stitch in the lower part of the nape. [Gr.]
 Weakness of the cervical muscles, as if the head could not hold itself up, with pain on moving the head. [Gr.]
 Cracking of the cervical vertebræ, when she quickly shakes her head; it is audible also to others. [Gr.]
435. Anteriorly on the neck a red spot, somewhat elevated, with a little white pimple, entirely painless in its middle. [Wsl.]
 On the top of the shoulder, a sensation of compression.
 Tearing on the left shoulder. [Gtm.]
 Pressure and drawing as from a load, on the left shoulder, on the outer side of the upper arm, and from the elbow down into the deep-lying muscles of the fore-arm; it gradually passes off in the room. [Frz.]
 Paralytic tearing in and below the right shoulder-joint, more violent when moving. [Hrm.]
440. Sudden, acutely painful blows on the top of the right shoulder. [Gr.]
 Itching stitches in and below the axilla. [Wsl.]
 Paralytic sprained pain, close below the shoulder-joint, merely when at rest; only transiently passing off through motion. [Gtm.]
 In the arms and legs, weariness; he has to let his arms sink down. [Gr.]
 Great lack of strength in the arms and legs, as if they had no power, and as if the lower limbs were unable to bear up the body. [Gr.]
445. Acutely painful twitching, now on the arm, then on the hand, then again on a finger, as if he received a heavy blow there. [Gr.]
 Sprained pain in the arm joints; she could not bend them without great pain.
 Arms and fingers are almost wholly immovable.
 Paralytic weariness and pressive heaviness of the arms, especially of the right arm, and particularly in the upper arms and the joints, aggravated by every motion, and at times with lack of breath. [Hrm.]
 Paralytic weakness in the arms, if he holds up a small weight even for a short time. [Wsl.]
450. The arms readily grow wearied from even a moderate exertion, so that he lets sink down whatever he may be holding. [Hrm.]

- Paralytic tearing in the left arm, especially in the wrist, more violent on moving it. [Hrm.]
- Tearing in the left arm, especially in the upper arm, deep within. [Hrm.]
- Drawing in the left deltoid muscles, seemingly from lack of strength. [Frz.]
- Transient drawing from the elbow up toward the upper arm. [Gr.]
455. Tearing, anteriorly on the upper part of the right upper arm. [Hrm.]
- Pressive tearing in the middle of the right upper arm, quickly rising and disappearing. [Hrm.]
- Tearing pressure in the middle of the left upper arm, extending backward and inward. [Hrm.]
- Pressive tearing in both upper arms, in paroxysms. [Hrm.]
- Muscular twitches on the inner side of the left upper arm, on resting the arm on something; it disappears on changing the position, but returns on resuming the former position. [Hl.]
460. Quivering in the muscles of the upper arm, above the elbow-joint, while at rest (aft. 5 and 26 h.). [Gtm.]
- Burrowing stitch in the right deltoid muscle. [Gtm.]
- Bruised pain on the lower part of the left upper arm.
- Piercing pain, in the left humerus, as if it was being compressed and crushed, in paroxysms, both while at rest and in motion.
- On the tip of the elbow, tension and feeling of soreness, especially on bending the arm. [Wsl.]
465. In the right forearm, cramp-like stiffness. [Frz.]
- Paralytic tearing on the right forearm. [Hrm.]
- Pressure on the right forearm, forward and outward. [Hrm.]
- Sprained pain above the left wrist, on the styloid process of the radius. [Frz.]
- Sprained pain in the left wrist-joint. [Frz.]
470. Pressive tearing in the right wrist-joint, more violent on moving it. [Hrm.]
- Transient twitching on the left hand, above the wrist. [Gr.]
- Pinching close above the wrist-joint on the side of the radius. [Gr.]
- Quick drawing, in short paroxysms, from the radial side of the wrist toward the hand. [Gr.]
- Cramp-like pain on the dorsum of the left hand, between the index and the middle finger. [Frz.]
475. Cramp-like contraction of the left palm. [Frz.]
- Jerking tearing in the hand, from the fingers upward. [Gr.]
- Intermitting pressive tearing in the bones of the hand and the wrist, as well as in the posterior finger joints. [Hrm.]
- Pressive shooting burning in the outer margin of the metacarpal bone of the left little finger. [Hrm.]
- Fine, dull, acutely painful shocks on the metacarpal bone of the left index, and on other parts of the hands, as if a tense nerve were touched with a little hammer. [Gr.]

480. Weakness of the hands and trembling of the same, most when resting the hands (on the table), and on writing, which is thereby rendered difficult. [Hrm.]
 Quivering and sensation of heat in the left hand.
 Swelling of the hands in the evening.
 Burning itching on the dorsum of the hand as from the sting of a fly; it cannot be removed by rubbing; for eight hours.
 Small, red, painless spots on the dorsa of both the hands.
485. Small blotches below the wrist, itching by day; rubbing aggravated the itching.
 Chilblains on the hands, during mild weather.
 Pressive tearing on the posterior phalanges of the fingers of the right hand, more violent when moving. [Hrm.]
 Drawing shooting in the posterior joint of the left index, extending toward the tip of the finger.
 Cramp in the fingers, which remain contracted for a long time.
490. Cutting in the ball of the left little finger, more violent on bending it. [Htm.]
 Shooting in all the finger tips.
 Fine needle pricks in the tip of the left middle finger. [Frz.]
 Drawing, in the posterior phalanx of the left thumb, and below the wrist. [Frz.]
 Cramp-like drawing pain in the left middle finger, with jerks, so that the finger trembles. [Gr.]
495. Acute, twitching pain between the thumb and the index, while holding the pen; when he lets the pen go, or ceases writing, he feels nothing; but the twitching soon returns and continues for a long time. [Gr.]
 Tearing on the posterior joint of the index; it gradually goes off on moving the hand. [Lgh.]
 Sprained pain on the whole of the left index, often recurring, for five days, while bending or stretching it, and during rest. [Lgh.]
 Very painful agnails on the fingers.
 On the left natis, near the anus, a continuous itching stitch. [Gtm.]
500. Muscular twitching on the left natis. [Gtm.]
 Severe pain in the muscles about the hip joint, on raising the thigh.
 Transient dull pressure in the ischium, while sitting. [Gr.]
 Sprained pain on the right hip, while walking, so that he was almost compelled to limp, for several hours. [Lgh.]
 Drawing in the left hip. [Frz.]
505. Paralytic pain in the hip-joint, while walking. [Gtm.]
 Sprained pain, close below the hip-joint, on the thigh, only while walking. [Gtm.]
 Restlessness in the lower limbs, he had to change their position, first in one way and then in another, in the evening. [Hl.]
 Paralytic heaviness and weariness in the lower limbs, especially in the thighs and the knee joints; he can hardly walk, but has to sit and lie down. [Hrm.]

- Sensation of weakness in the lower limbs, as from weariness due to over-exertion. [Gr.]
510. Great weariness and heaviness of the lower limbs, after walking for two hours. [Gr.]
 Great heaviness of the lower limbs, she can hardly go up stairs, and has then to sit down immediately. [Gr.]
 Painful weariness of the lower limbs, while standing, with lack of firmness and with tottering; the limbs cannot sustain the body. [Gr.]
 Bruised pain of the lower limbs in going up stairs; in coming down they are so unsteady and weak, that he is in danger of falling. [Gr.]
 Weakness of the right lower limb, especially of the thigh, seemingly in the bone, so that the thigh pains while standing, he had to rest himself on the left limb. [Hl.]
515. Lack of strength in the thighs. [Frz.]
 Itching stitch at the very top and on the inner side of the thigh. [Htm.]
 Stitch-like pain in the muscles of the right thigh, only while standing. [Lgh.]
 Pricking, as from a needle, on the inner side of the left thigh. [Frz.]
 Pressive drawing on the inner side of the left thigh, in the groin, extending from the ascending ramus of the ischium to the posterior part of the thigh, then from the hip across the sacrum toward the right side; at time grumbling in the os ischii. [Gr.]
520. Cutting in the interior of the left thigh. [Frz.]
 Pulsating, dull pressure on the inner side in the middle of the thigh. [Gr.]
 Sprained pain in the thigh, below the hip-joint, in walking. [Gr.]
 Drawing tearing in the left thigh, both while at rest and in motion. [Lgh.]
 Pressive drawing on the outer side of the right thigh, which in sitting he had crossed over the left thigh. [Lgh.]
525. Shooting itching on the outer side of the thigh, going off only transiently through rubbing (aft.  $\frac{1}{2}$  h.).
 Small itching pimple on the left thigh.
 Pressure in the right knee-joint. [Hrm.]
 Tensive pain in the left hough.
 Stiffness in the right hough.
530. Sudden stiffness of the knee, so that she can only bend it with great pain.
 Drawing tearing in the bone from the knee to the middle of the thigh, while sitting. [Htm.]
 Tearing pressure in the articulation of the right knee, in front, from without inward and below the patella. [Htm.]
 Tearing in the ligaments on the inner side of the left knee. [Lgh.]
 Burning scratching on the outer side of the left knee. [Gr.]
535. Dull shooting in the outer side of the right knee, only while

- standing; on moving the limb and sitting down, it goes off. [Lgh.]
 Fine painful stitches on the right knee and the hough, while sitting. [Hl.]
 Weariness in the knee-joint, so that he can hardly walk, with inclination to slumber. [Frz.]
 Itching quivering below the patella. [Gtm.]
 Bruised pain in the houghs and calves, as after a long foot-tour, in the evening, both while at rest and in motion.
540. Very cold knees and feet.
 In the leg, drawing tearing, while sitting. [Lgh.]
 Cramp-like tearing in the right leg, while walking. [Lgh.]
 Painful drawing on the calf on the outer side of the leg, both while resting and in moving. [Lgh.]
 Tension in the left leg. [Gtm.]
545. Drawing from the right hough to the calf. [Frz.]
 Great weariness in the legs, especially in the left leg, drawing in jerks upward from the feet and in the knees, especially while standing, with sore pain in the soles of the feet. [Wsl.]
 While walking, especially in the sun, her knees threaten to give way, with weariness of the whole body and a weary perspiration in the face. [Gr.]
 Painful straining on the inner side of the left calf, while standing. [Gr.]
 Severe cramp in the calf, almost all night.
550. Pressure in the whole of the right calf. [Gtm.]
 Pressure below the left calf, both while at rest and in motion. [Gtm.]
 Pinching on the upper part of the inner muscles of the calf. [Htm.]
 Pain from heaviness, frequently, in the outer muscles of the left calf, while walking. [Htm.]
 Sensation on the leg, as if it was firmly bandaged.
555. Painful sensation in the left leg, which in sitting hung down, having been crossed over the other, as if a heavy weight hung upon it. [Gr.]
 Pulsating pressure on the right tibia. [Gr.]
 Little yellow, round spots on the left leg, for 2 days.
 Slight swelling on the tibia, with a red point upon it, which is painful when touched, as if the flesh was detached from the bones.
 The feet are painful, from a point above the ankles even to the soles, while sitting, less while standing and walking. [Gr.]
560. Disagreeable heat in the feet, but little noticeable externally. [Gr.]
 Violent burning in the feet and hands.
 Transient heat in the feet.
 Reddish swelling of the feet, especially about the ankles, with a sensation as if the feet were bandaged too tightly,
 Sudden swelling about the ankles, in the evening.
565. Pain below the two ankles, as if the heels were being torn off, in the evening while lying in bed.
 Tearing with jerks in the outer and inner ankles of the right foot, and extending thence into the toes, while sitting; it seems milder while standing, but then it tears upward from the toes. [Gr.]

Formication in the feet, as after a severe foot-tour, or as if they would go to sleep; it gradually rises into the legs. [Gr.]

Itching stitch below the inner left ankle, and on the external ankle. [Gtm.]

Itching on the dorsum of the left foot. [Gtm.]

570. Tearing pressure in the right heel. [Hrm.]

Drawing tearing between the metatarsal bones of the last two toes. [Htm.]

On treading on the outer side of the right heel, it presses, obtusely, shooting up into the calf, only while walking; it disappears on raising up the foot. [Htm.]

Cramp-pain on the sole of the right foot, while sitting. [Lgh.]

Sharp pressure across the sole of the right foot, while sitting.

[Gr.]

575. Shooting pinching, alternately, in various spots of the body.

[Gr.]

Pressure with heaviness now in one bone, then in another. [Htm.]

Heaviness in all the limbs, weariness in the chest and alternately, violent anxieties.

Bruised pain in the limbs, and especially also above the sacrum.

Paralysis in the left arm and foot, caused by fright; it passed off during the night,

580. After walking in the open air, internal heat, especially in the chest and abdomen, without thirst.

Itching burning stitches all over the body, especially in the trunk, particularly early in bed, for several days [Gr.]

Gnawing itching all over the body while undressing; he has to scratch. [Lgh.]

Fine needle-pricks all over the left side of the body; next day only on the right side. [Hl.]

Itching eruption all over the body.

585. Many of the pains, especially those of the pressive-drawing kind, begin gently, slowly increase to a high degree, and then decrease just as slowly. [Gr.]

The ailments seem to disappear while walking; when at rest they at once return; only the weariness is most sensible while walking. [Gr.]

It causes emaciation and consumption. [Stahl.]

Excessive relaxation of spirit and body, he cannot stay at one piece of work, he is irresistibly overcome by drowsiness and has to lie down and sleep, when he frequently wakes up from indifferent dreams. [Hrm.]

Lack of strength, as if her lower limbs were bruised. [Gr.]

590. Excessive clumsiness; he continually wishes to sit or lie down, and on sitting down, he, as it were, sinks down upon the chair, because he lacks the strength necessary to do this slowly. [Gr.]

Great weariness, with constant inclination to sit down; while walking slowly, he feels this most, wherefore he involuntarily walks fast. [Gr.]

When moving quickly, he feels less his lack of strength, but the more so afterward. [Gr.]

Tremulous and unsteady all over the body and the limbs; but his hand trembles more when resting it lightly, than when grasping firmly. [Gr.]

Weariness all over the body, especially after going up-stairs, for seven days.

995. Great weariness by day; he has to lie down, but cannot sleep, and whenever he falls into a slumber, he is seized with vertigo, abstraction of mind, and stupidity for half an hour.

Very weary and drowsy, so that he can hardly control himself.

Great weariness on coming down-stairs, so that she can hardly breathe, she feels nothing when going up-stairs. [Gr.]

(Real epilepsy)<sup>1</sup> [MEYER ABRAHAM, diss. Cautel. de Anthelmint. Goett. 1782.]

Stretching the arms and yawning (aft. sever. m.)

600. Much yawning, while walking in the open air, but with tightness as from a hoop around the chest.

Much as he was incited to yawn, he could not finish yawning, even when he opened his mouth ever so widely.

Frequent yawning, as if he had not slept enough. [Lgh.]

Drowsiness after a walk in the open air, caused especially by music, and when she closed the eyes, she had at once a vivid dream.

Drowsiness and inclination to yawn, his eyes close. [Hrm.]

605. Slumber in the evening, impeded by constant restlessness in the legs.

Repeated starting up in bed, at night, as from fright. [Lgh.]

Repeated waking up at night, as if he had done sleeping. [Lgh.]

At one o'clock at night, after awaking, restlessness all over the body, with burrowing in the tibiæ.

Deep sleep, for several nights.

610. (He talked in his sleep and decided as to the uselessness of an external remedy against an internal ailment, as if he were in a somnambulist state.)

The child moans at night, while asleep, it weeps, begs and entreats timidly.

Very vivid, anxious dreams, at night.

Anxious dreams of contention, quarrel and strife. [Gtm.]

Anxious dreams, as of neglected business, two nights in succession, the same subject. [Frz.]

615. Confused dreams, which cannot be recalled. [Gr.]

Confused, vivid dreams in which many perverse things happen to her, and she at times talks aloud, tosses about in her bed, wakes up repeatedly, and every time finds herself sitting up in bed. [Gr.]

<sup>1</sup> Observation.—In a boy who suffered frequently from convulsive attacks, especially in the morning, fasting. Tin was given to destroy the worms which were supposed to be present, whereupon the fits increased and multiplied to perfect epilepsy.—Hughes.

Vivid, confused dreams, only one half of which can be recalled. [Gr.]

He hears a loud detonation in his dream.

Dreams of fire. [Hl.]

620. Vivid dream full of cruelty (2d n.). [Lgh.]

Agreeable dreams of earthly splendor and greatness, which, on her waking up, continue to keep her in a cheerful mood. [Gr.]

Lewd dreams, with emission of semen, without erection. [Lgh.]

Lewd dreams with erections, without pollution. [Gtm.]

Nocturnal erections without lewd dreams. [Lgh.]

625. At night, on awaking, he is lying on his back, the right leg stretched out, the left drawn up and half bare. [Gr.]

At night, after awaking, jerks deep in the hand, drawing in an undulatory manner, seemingly in the nerves, so that he could have screamed aloud. [Gr.]

Quick in falling asleep in the evening after lying down, and late in waking up in the morning. [Gr.]

Dizzy in the morning on awaking from a deep sleep, as if he had not done sleeping. [Gtm.]

In the morning, on rising, the back and lower limbs ache as if bruised; she is weary, as if she had slept too little, as if her body had not rested enough; some hours after rising, this is somewhat relieved. [Gr.]

630. On getting up out of bed, while dressing, she is suddenly seized with a fit of weariness, so she can hardly breathe. [Gr.]

In the morning on awaking, pain and heat in the head.

Shivering only in the left arm, causing it to jerk.

Shivering in the evening, only in the left foot, extending half way up into the thigh.

Shivering, for several forenoons at ten o'clock, with coldness of the hands, dying off of the fingers, and insensibility in the finger-tips.

635. With slight sensation of cold and moderate shivering, goose-skin over the arms and continuous chattering of the teeth, like a convulsion of the masseter muscles.

Chilliness all over the body, for half an hour. [Hrm.]

Quickly transient chilliness, especially along the back.

[Hrm.]

Sensation of heat, especially internally. [Hrm.]

Great heat in the head, with hot forehead, also at times with redness of face, with a general, though slight heat of the body, worse in the evening, with much thirst, for five evenings in succession (aft. 5 d.).

640. Sensation of heat all over the body, especially on the thighs and the back. [Hrm.]

Severe heat all over the body, especially on the chest and the back, with a sensation as if hot sweat was running down, without externally sensible heat. [Hrm.]

Anxious heat, as if sweat would break out, seizes him in paroxysms. [Gr.]

Anxious heat and sweat break out continually, even at the slightest motion. [Gr.]

Hot sweat all over the body and complete exhaustion, even from slight exercise. [Hrn.]

645. Heat and perspiration all over the body, in the afternoon (from four to five o'clock), followed by chilliness; during and after the heat, thirst, which returns for several afternoons at the same hour.

Profuse night-sweat, for two nights (aft. 48 h.).

Every morning after four o'clock, profuse perspiration.

Morning-sweat, chiefly on the neck, in the nape and on the forehead.

SULPHUR.

For homœopathic use the roll sulphur of commerce is redistilled at a gentle heat, forming flowers of sulphur (flores sulphuris) and then washed by shaking with alcohol to remove any acid that may adhere to it.

For more than 2,000 years sulphur has been found a most efficacious remedy against the itch, while not a single physician noticed, or had even the faintest idea, that this was effected by the law of similars (Homœopathy). The itch, which is so common among workers in wool, causes a sort of unbearably agreeable, tingling, itching gnawing, as from lice; this is also described by some as an intolerably voluptuous tickling itching, which ceases as soon as the finger is applied to it, to scratch it, and then begins to burn, and after scratching it continues to burn on that spot. So also the sulphur taken by healthy persons frequently causes similar pimples and vesicles with a burning itching, also chiefly on the joints and by night. This great specific virtue of sulphur against itch was during all these centuries merely abused to drive away the itch from the skin by external applications, while the internal itch-malady remained uncured. This eventually manifests itself in another form through the breaking out of a great number of tedious diseases of the most varied kind, after the cutaneous eruptions [which had acted vicariously for the internal itch-malady (psora)] had been driven out through exsiccatory remedies, especially sulphur-ointments, rubbed into the skin. In the same way syphilis does not arise before chancre (which prevents the breaking out of syphilis) has been destroyed by local applications.

Many physicians, indeed, also gave sulphur internally; but the ointment rubbed in had already driven away the disease from the skin and some acute or chronic disease is the inevitable sad consequence of this treatment. The sulphur given by allopathic physicians is also crude sulphur in doses which excite purging and which, therefore, can never cure, nor have ever cured any itch by the internal application alone.

If the mere drinking of sulphureous mineral waters without their external application has ever been able to effect such a cure, this was done because this substance had been comminuted in the bosom of the earth in a mechanical manner similar to that employed by the homœopath, and thus its internal medicinal virtues had been developed.

Sulphur, given by the hand of the physician who does not proceed homœopathically, and who, therefore, has not first dynamized (potentized) this drug, and, indeed, potentized it highly, has never cured the (primary) itch of workers in wool, through its merely internal application, which is the only safe way of applying it. The more highly and intensively more strongly the sulphur has been potentized, the more surely will it cure.

Formerly I considered the extract of sulphur, made with alcohol and called tinctura sulphuris, as sufficient; but now, after having experimentally compared it, I consider it far inferior to the other preparations, effected by triturating the flowers of sulphur with one hundred parts of sugar of milk, up to the millionth-potency and the further dynamization of the solution of this potency, in the manner employed with other dry drugs. The latter dynamization I am compelled to recognize as the most perfect sulphur-medicine. The alcohol in the tinctura sulphuris seems only to attract some particular portion of the sulphur, but not all of its constituents without exception, i. e., not the entire sulphur.

In cases where sulphur was homœopathically indicated, it also relieved the following ailments, if present at the same time:

Irritability; peevishness and dejection; tendency to start; timidity; inclination to weep; ill humor; unconsolable state concerning every action in herself which she considers wrong; fixed religious ideas; fits of anxiety; anxiety which compels the person to loosen the clothes and to seek the open air; violence; muddled state of the head and difficulty in thinking; weakness of memory; frequent fits of vertigo; vertigo while sitting; heaviness of the head and unconsciousness from stooping; vertigo after meals; rush of blood to the head, with flushes of heat; nocturnal headache at the slightest movement in bed; heaviness in the head; heaviness in the occiput; daily drawing headache, threatening to burst the head; shooting headache; shooting and buzzing headache; beating headache in the vertex; beating, clucking headache; tingling, humming and roaring in the head; coldness of the head; a cold spot on the head; closing of the eyelids in the morning; far-sightedness; gauzy appearance before the eyes; short-sightedness; drawing pain in the ears; stoppage of the ears, while eating; dull hearing; humming and din before the ears; buzzing in the ears; roaring in the ears; dryness of the nose; stuffing of one nostril; inflamed swelling of the tip of the nose; blowing blood from the nose; epistaxis; pale, sickly complexion; roughness of the skin in the face; heat in the face; hepatic spots on the upper lip; evening toothache; toothache, apparently from looseness of the teeth and from loose gums; swelling of the gums, with beating pain; sore throat, as if swollen within, impeding deglutition; long-continued sensation as of a plug in the fauces and the throat; the food is not relished; the appetite too strong; in the morning, a putrid taste in the mouth; sour taste in the mouth; aversion to fat food; aversion to sweet and to sour things; loathing of rye-bread; it makes wine-drinking distasteful; voracity; after partaking of anything, tightness over the chest, like a load; burning, sour eructation; bitter eructation; abortive eructation; ill-smelling eructations at night, while sleeping; eructations; regurgitation of the food and drinks; the food regurgitates up into the throat; acid belching up into the mouth; qualmishness before meals; nausea after meals; morning-nausea; waterbrash; contractive, pinching pain in the stomach, immediately after meals; burrowing in the pit of the stomach; shooting about the stomach; shooting in the left side of the abdomen, while walking; shooting in the left side of the navel, while walking; stitches in the abdomen; pain in the left side of the abdomen, as if something was being torn out; contractive pain below the umbilicus; long-continued pressure in the epigastrium; pressive pain in the left side of the abdomen, even to screaming, with constipation from incarceration of flatus; pain in the abdomen after drinking; the hypogastrium is painful when touched; pain in the abdominal muscles in the morning, as if they were too short; incarceration of flatus; loud rumbling and growling in the abdomen; hard stool; stool only every two or three days; involuntary stool, while urinating; during a difficult evacuation, prolapsus of the rectum; shooting in the anus, during stool, itching of the anus; urging to urinate; nocturnal wetting the bed; deficient sexual powers; too sudden emission of the semen during coitus; fetid perspiration about the genitals; itching and burning about the pudenda; menses too early; the menstrual blood has too little color; bearing down on the genitals; itching on the pudenda, before the menses; headache before the menses; leucorrhœa.

Coryza; stuffed coryza; profuse fluent coryza; roughness of the larynx; tingling in the larynx, causing cough; nocturnal cough; continual feverish cough with expectoration of blood, and stitches in the chest; difficult respiration; asthma, with wheezing and rattling on the chest and visible palpitation; nocturnal suffocating asthma; fullness in the chest; heaviness in the chest, in the morning; weariness of the chest from singing; stitches in the sternum; shooting through the chest, extending into the left scapula; burning, extending upward in the chest; pressure in the sternum; itching on the nipples; pain in the small of the back; creaking in the sacrum; pain in the back, after manual labor; drawing in the back; tension in the nape; twitching in the shoulder-joint; drawing in the joints of the elbows, wrists, and fingers; swelling of the arms; perspiration of the palms; trembling of the hands in fine work; deadness of several fingers; callus on the fingers; tingling in the tips of the fingers and toes; red spots on the lower limbs; stitches in the thigh, when walking fast; heaviness of the lower limbs; coldness of the thighs, while the legs perspire, in the morning, in bed; weakness in the knees and arms; formication in the calves and arms; sprained pain in the ankles; stiffness in the ankle; sweating of the feet; restlessness in the feet; erysipelas on the leg; cold feet; coldness and stiffness of the toes; coldness of the feet and hands; eroding blotches on the toes; chilblains on the feet; foot-sweat; single jerks of the limbs, while sitting or lying down; drawing pains in the knee and the remaining joints; nettle-rash; itching all over the body; yellow spots on the body; suffusion of blood from a slight blow; sensitiveness to air and wind; flushes of heat; the limbs go to sleep; shooting pains; internal trembling; muscular twitching; strain from lifting; swoons and convulsions; the head is bowed, while walking; fatigue from talking; drowsiness by day; too long sleep at night; feels as if he had not slept enough, in the morning; unrefreshing sleep; drowsiness after dinner; nocturnal colic; jerking and twitching, during sleep; fright during sleep; sleeplessness; the sleep is too light; nocturnal insomnia, owing to formication in the calves and feet; raving, anxious dreams; frightful, restless dreams, and talking during sleep; illusion, in the morning, on awaking, as if he saw persons who are not present; nocturnal thirst; perspiration by day and by night; nocturnal sweat; sour sweat, every night; morning-sweat; copious sweat, while working; chilliness.

My fellow-provers were: (Fr. H.)—Friedrich Hahnemann, and

(Ng.) the anonymous prover in Hartlaub and Trinks, Reine Arzneimittellehre.<sup>1</sup>

SULPHUR.

Dejection.

Dejected, indifferent to others.

Sad, without courage.

Often during the day, attacks lasting for several minutes, when she feels herself utterly miserable, without any cause, like melancholy; she desires to die.

5. Sad, pusillanimous, full of weariness of life. [Ng.]

Moaning and lamentation and wringing of hands, day and night, with much thirst and light appetite, though she swallows her food hastily.

Troubled about her disease and ill-humored.

Deeply hypochondriacally troubled and sighing, so that he could not speak loud (the first week).

Sad the whole day, without cause (the 2d d.).

10. Anxious and lachrymose. [Ng.]

She finds her state very agonizing and she is apprehensive about the future.

Great anxiety and ill-humor.

Great anxiousness in the evening after lying down, so that she could not go to sleep, for one hour, but without palpitation.

Anxiety, timidity (2d d.).

15. Apprehension, as if he had to lose his life at once.

Excessively inclined to start.

Violently frightened, even from being called by name.

In the afternoon, when wide awake, he starts right up, and at the same time a shudder runs all through his body.

Great inclination to weep, without cause.

20. Acutely sensitive and readily inclined to weep about slight troubles.

Very great inclination to weep.

Now disposed to weep, then again to laugh.

During the nocturnal cough, the boy has long weeping fits, with great restlessness of the body.

She imagines that she might give people something wrong, which might kill them.

25. She is apprehensive for others, with anxiety (aft. sever. h.).

Anxiety with heat in the head and cold feet, so that he does not know what to do; he forgets every moment what he desired to do.

Involuntary hastiness in grasping at things and in walking.

<sup>1</sup>The pathogenesis of Sulphur has grown from the 151 symptoms it had on its first appearance in the Mat. Med. Pura (Vol. IV, 1st ed., 1818) to the 1959 it here presents. Most of the additions are Hahnemann's own, and—the drug being in constant use by him in the treatment of chronic diseases—were pretty certainly symptoms observed on patients. Those of Fr. Hahnemann (and of Fr. Walther, not mentioned above, but to be found in the pathogenesis) appeared in the original list, and like those of Nenning, were obtained from provings on the healthy.—Hughes.

Restlessness and hurriedness (by day), he could not restrain himself.

She has no rest anywhere, neither by day nor night. [Whl.]

30. He greatly feels the need of tranquillity of spirit, as his spirit is ever active.

Great distraction; he cannot fix his attention on the present subject and carries on his business awkwardly.

Dawdling, undecided.

Aversion to every occupation.

Dawdling excitement, almost as after drinking coffee.

35. He imagines he is getting thin.

Very ill-humored, peevish and inclined to weep, especially in the morning and evening.

Extremely annoyed and ill-humored, nothing suits her (aft.  $\frac{1}{2}$  h.).

He gets vexed about everything, takes every word ill and gets insulted, he imagines he ought to defend himself and gets angry.

He allows himself to be carried away by vexation.

40. Peevish, frowning and gloomy in his head, as from an out-breaking coryza.

Peevish, irritable, disinclined to talk. [Ng.]

Annoyed and passionate. [Ng.]

Ill-humored; she becomes vexed at herself.

Ill-humored and in a criticising mood.

45. The child becomes intolerably passionate and hard to quiet.

Irritable humor; readily thrown into a passion, and always introverted.

Indolence of spirit and body during the day and indisposed to work or to move about (aft. 7 d.).

Whatever she undertakes, makes her impatient.

He has no pleasure in anything.

50. He is averse to the least work.

For hours he sits motionless and indolent, without any definite thoughts, though he has many things to attend to.

In the evening quite indisposed to everything, to work, to enjoyment, to talking and moving; he feels very uncomfortable, and knows not what is the matter with him.

He is so peevish and obstinate, that he will not give an answer to anybody, he cannot bear to have anyone around him, and cannot get quickly enough what he wants.

Surly and vehement.

55. She cannot contain herself for internal ill-humor, cannot do anything so as to please herself, is obstinate and unyielding, without herself knowing why.

The mind is embittered, as if he had been insulted.

His mood is quarrelsome and contentious about everything.

In walking in the open air, she suddenly becomes sad; she thinks of nothing but anxious, annoying and dejecting thoughts, which she cannot get rid of; this makes her apprehensive and peevish, unto tears.

A number of ideas from her past life, mostly disagreeable, causing indignation and mortification (but also merry things and melodies) come into her mind; one after the other rush in upon her memory, so that she cannot get rid of them, while she has nothing to do; they are worst in the evening in bed, hindering her from falling asleep (aft. 4 h.).

60. Indifferent things and such things as naturally occur in life are attended in her mind with annoying, mortifying ideas from her past, which continually connect themselves with recent annoyances, of which she cannot rid herself. This is attended with a resoluteness of mind, which is ready for great resolves.

Great inclination to philosophic and religious ravings.

She imagines that she has beautiful clothes, she takes old rags for beautiful clothes, she takes a coat for a jacket, a cap for a hat. [Whl.]

Insanity; she spoils her things and throws them away, imagining she has an abundance of everything; at the same time she becomes emaciated, like a skeleton. [Whl.]

She talks day and night without rhyme or reason. [Whl.]

65. Startling forgetfulness, especially as to proper names.

Very forgetful.

She forgets the word in her mouth.

So forgetful, that even the most recent events are only obscurely recalled.

He seems dull, cannot remember, is embarrassed and shuns intercourse with others.

70. If any one addresses him, he is deep in meditation and seems to wake up from a dream; he looks idiotic and has to make an effort in order to comprehend and to answer properly.

Words and expressions heard, involuntarily pass again through his head.

Sensation of mist in the head and dizziness, which makes him sad; the ideas are indefinite, with irresolution.

She ran about in the room for five minutes, with open eyes, without knowing where she was.

She could not connect two ideas together and seemed weak-minded.

75. Muddled in the head, as if from loss of sleep.

Muddled feeling in the head, in the morning and pressure in the forehead till noon.

Muddled feeling in the head, in the evening.

Muddled feeling in the head, after a walk in the open air.

Feeling of great dullness and gloominess.

80. Dizziness, with shooting in the head.

Dullness in the head as from pressure of blood to the head, especially on going upstairs.

Dizziness, like a buzzing and humming, coming out at the forehead, when she walks fast or moves her head quickly.

Reeling in the head.

Reeling, stupefaction and great weariness, in the forenoon at 11 o'clock, she had to lie down and lay till three o'clock in restless slumber, in which she heard everything.

85. Weakness in the head, like stupefaction, while walking in the open air, with obscure, disagreeable ideas, for several minutes, now weaker, then stronger.

Stupefaction of the head, so that she imagined she had lost her reason.<sup>1</sup> [MORGAGNI de sede et caus. morb. LV, 8.]

Vertigo, while sitting; staggering, while rising.

Whirling vertigo, in the evening, after lying in bed for a quarter of an hour, as if he should faint, and everything turned about in his head; two evenings in succession.

Vertigo, if she lies on her back at night.

90. Vertigo, with some bleeding at the nose, in the morning.

Vertigo and weakness, in the morning when rising, causing him to fall.

Severe vertigo, in the morning on rising; as soon as he tried to stand, he every time fell over on the bed, this only ceased after half an hour (10th d.).

Brief vertigo, with tendency to fall sideways.

Vertigo while walking, like reeling.

95. Vertigo, with tendency to falling forward, when quickly rising from a seat.

Vertigo while walking; like a mist before the eyes, a staggering toward the left side, for several minutes (3d d.).

Dizzy unsteadiness in the head and the body, in the morning, for three hours, as if she stood on a vacillating floor (3d d.).

Vertigo, while stooping.

Vertigo, while walking in the open air (after supper), she could not stoop, nor look down, and had to hold on to something to keep from falling.

100. Vertigo, for eight minutes, while walking in the open air up a slight eminence; he could not tread firmly, while his senses were clouded (aft. 4 d.).

Fit of vertigo, while walking, and apprehensiveness, when she looks down before her; this also causes a swimming before the eyes.

Vertigo, when walking over running water, even so as to cause the person to fall down, and sensation of paralysis in all the parts.

Vertigo, in the evening, while standing, with rush of blood to the heart.

Vertigo, with inclination to vomit.

105. Vertigo, with inclination to vomit, with tendency to fall sideways, while walking in the open air.

Headache with nausea.

Headache, as from incarceration of flatus.

Headache, every morning, above the eyes, as from stuffed coryza; he has to sneeze continually.

Headache, worse in the open air, less in the room. [Ng.]

110. Headache, while the eyes are, as it were, drawn shut.

Headache, only when going upstairs.

Severe headache in the vertex of the head, recurring several days like fever, for twelve hours.

<sup>1</sup>Stupefaction in the original is "perturbatio."—Hughes.

Pain in the upper part of the vertex, when chewing or coughing, or when blowing the nose.

Severe pain in the centre of the head, from coughing and sneezing.

115. Much headache, especially when stooping.

He feels every step painfully in his head.

Headache in the occiput, from noon onward; in treading there was a stupefying resonance there; she had to sit quite still for four hours.

Headache in the vertex, as if there was a pressure on the brain from above downward (9th d.).

Pressure in the fore part of the head, as after nocturnal excesses; this after several days passes over into a glowing tearing in the right side of the head and in the teeth; it is worse when touched by cold water.

120. Pressive pain in the forehead, chiefly in the forenoon.

Pressure in the head, in the morning, just after rising.

Pressive headache, he painfully feels every step in his forehead, with perspiration there.

Pressive headache (also in the morning, after rising), mostly in the vertex, as if the eyes were pressed down. [Vg.]

Pressive headache above the left eye, in the afternoon.

125. Pressive headache in the forehead, more violent when moving.

Pressure in the head, from one temple to the other, in the morning after rising.

One-sided sharp pressive headache under the left parietal bone, immediately after supper.

Pain in the whole head, as if it had been pressed upon from without, e. g., by a tight hat.

Pressive headache in the room, when pressed by a tight head-gear; it passes off by uncovering the head.

130. Pressure in the head, every other morning, about eight or nine o'clock, and thus alternately till going to sleep.

Violent pressure in the forehead.

Pressure in the temples, and tension in the brain, when meditating and during intellectual labors.

Painful, intermittent pressure, from the vertex above inward deep into the brain, especially late in the evening and at night in bed; the pain causes the forehead to wrinkle and the eyes to contract.

Nocturnal headache, an intolerable, continually increasing pressure in the lower part of the occiput and in the vertex, with pressure on the eyes, which he had to close, and with a chilliness which could not be removed by any amount of covering; the perspiration is of intense fetor, and he had to walk up and down the room while it lasted (aft. 5 d.).

135. Pain in the forehead, pressing outward. [Fr. H.]

Headache, especially in the forenoon, as if the head was drawn forward and downward.

Sensation of fullness in the head, as if it was surcharged with blood.

Sensation of fullness and heaviness in the head.

Sensation of heaviness in the vertex.

140. Heaviness of the head, so that every movement becomes disagreeable.

Heaviness of the head, while sitting, lying, moving about and stooping.

Sensation of heaviness and dullness in the head, as if it would fall forward, relieved while walking, but then succeeded by fine stitches in the head. [Ng.]

Headache, as from a load pressing down from above in the brain, and like a hoop around the head.

Headache, as from a board before the head.

145. Tension in the forehead.

Tensive pain in the head.

Tensive headache in the eyes, but only while raising them, for several mornings in bed, on awaking.

Headache, as if forced together in a vise, and above the forehead.

Contractive pain in the temples, for several mornings.

150. Pain, as from screwing together, in the left side of the head.

[Ng.]

The brain is pinched together, from one temple to the other, often for minutes.

Drawing through the forehead and temple, very acute, as if a worm were creeping through there (the first days).

Drawing pain in the occiput, so severe when chewing, that he has to cease eating. [Fr. H.]

Tearing in the head, out at the ear.

155. Tearing in the head, as with a saw.

Tearing and pressure in the left temple and the eye.

Tearing in the forehead.

Tearing in the head, more in the afternoon than in the forenoon, with weariness and heat without thirst; he had to rest his head on the table to get relief.

Tearing in the head, most in the sides and the forehead, occasionally attended with drawing, shooting and ulcerative pain, and especially relieved or removed by moving the head, by pressing upon it and by the open air. [Ng.]

160. Nocturnal headache, as if it would tear out the skull.

After awaking from the noon-day sleep, on opening the eyes, a quickly arising, mostly semi-cranial headache, as if the brain was torn or wounded (aft. 36 h.).

Stitch-like tearing, after long, unequal pauses; sometimes through various parts of the head, sometimes through the cheekbones, the region about the ears, the lower jaw and other parts of the face.

A stitch in the head.

Shooting headache in the temples.

165. Shooting pain in the forehead, but only while walking.

Stitches in and above the forehead.

Stitches in the forehead, in the evening; these became continually more violent later on.

Stitches, shooting out at the forehead when talking and coughing violently, so that she has to hold her forehead with the hand, chiefly in the evening for many days.

Stitches shooting out at the forehead with every step, every day; also when speaking loud and coughing she was compelled to frown.

170. Stitches in the head and shooting out at the eyes.

Shooting out at the forehead, every day from 11 A.M. till evening.

Several stitches in the vertex of the head.

Shooting headache at various times, at times also continuing at night, with tearing in the lower jaw or bruised pain in the side of the head afterward, sometimes transiently relieved by compressing the head; at times compelling one to lie down. [Ng.]

Painful whirling and tingling in the temples.

175. Twitching headache.

Twitching pains above the right eye.

Beating in the head, in the morning.

Beating in the head (the temples), on the neck and about the heart; everything on him pulsated and trembled.

Single shocks all through the head.

180. Painful blows in the right side of the head, in the evening, while sitting. [Ng.]

Hammering headache when speaking lively.

Very painful hammering in the head.

Pulsation in the left side of the occiput, passing over finally into twitching.

Pulsating beating, sensible externally on the head.

185. Rush of blood to the head, even with a soft stool and after driving out.

Rush of blood to the head; there was a pressure in it and out at the eyes; she seemed deaf before the ears.

Ebullition of blood in the head and frequent flushes of heat.

Rush of blood to the head, like a gentle pressure over the head.

Pain in the left side of the occiput, as from stagnation of blood, on awaking from sleep.

190. Heat in the head, in the morning.

Heat in the head, in the evening, with cold feet.

Severe, dry heat in the head, with glowing face, in the morning on awaking.

Heat rising into the head, with redness of the face and warm forehead. [Ng.]

Burning and shooting on the right side of the occiput. [Ng.]

195. Buzzing in the upper part of the vertex.

ringing roaring through the head, coming out at the ears.

Pain at every nod of the head, as if the brain were beating against the skull.

The brain beats against the skull, on moving the head, with a pressive pain.

External aching of the head on the left side, on being touched, it aches as if festering underneath.

200. The vertex is very sensitive per se and when touched. [Ng.]
 A spot on the vertex is painful when touched.
 Severe pain on the vertex, in the evening, as if the hair was being torn out, and the hair stands up on the sensitive spot.
 The hair of the head aches, when scratching the head.
Pain of the roots of the hair, especially when touched.
205. Falling out of the hair.
 Much hair falls out.
 Pressure externally on the vertex, toward the forehead.
 Boring headache in the upper part of the head, below the vertex; the spot is also painful when touched.
 There is occasionally a burning aching of a small spot of the head, below on the nape, while lying upon it, and especially after scratching.
210. Sensation of coldness on the head.
 There is always a cold spot on top of the head.
 Itching on the head, with impatience.
 Itching on the occiput.
 Itching on the forehead.
215. Severe itching on the forehead.
 Shooting on the forehead, seemingly on the bone.
 Itching pimples on the hairy scalp (the first 14 d.).
 Itching pimples on the forehead; on rubbing there was a stinging.
 Nodule on the forehead, painful when touched.
220. Moving of the skin of the head, from the nape over the vertex to the forehead.
 The eyelids are heavy in the evening.
 Heaviness in the eyes.
 Pressure in the eyelids, in the evening.
 Pressure in both the orbits.
225. Pressure in the upper eyelids.
 Pressure in the pupils, on walking in the open air.
 Pressure in the eyes every evening, as if to go to sleep, without drowsiness.
 Pressure in the eyes, especially when working in the sunshine.
 [Fr. H.]
 Pressure in the eyebrows and in the pupil.
230. Pressure and itching in the eyes, and vertigo when stooping.
 The pupils are painful, when he moves them.
 Painful pressure over the eyebrows.
 Drawing pains in the bones of the orbit.
Itching on the eyelids, as if they would be inflamed.
235. Much itching in the eyebrows and on the tip of the nose.
 Itching and biting in the outer canthus (aft. 6 h.).
 Itching and biting on the inner canthi. [Ng.]
Smarting in the eyes, as if from spirits of ammonia.
 Smarting in the eyes, every evening and then lachrymation.
240. Stabbing in the right eye, as from a knife.
 Shooting and burning in the outer canthi, with dimness of vision in the evening. [Ng.]

- Bruised pain of the eye, on pressing them shut and grasping them.
- Pain as from dryness in the pupils, and as if they rubbed against the lids.
- Erosive pain as from dryness in the edges of the eyelids.
245. Erosion in the eyes, with a sensation as of lachrymation.
- Erosion in the eyes in the evenings; the light out of the candle looked like a red wheel; he could not see from it.
- Erosive sore pain on the inner side of the eyelids, after midnight; then a sensation of rubbing dryness on the inner surface.
- Sensation of heat in the eyes.
- Sensation of fullness of blood in the eyes.
250. Burning in the eyes.
- Burning of the eyes, with great sensitiveness to daylight.
- [Ng.]
- Burning of the eyes, with redness of the outer canthus and flow of corroding tears. [Ng.]
- Burning jerk in the right eyelid.
- Sensation as of many burning sparks on the eyelids, which were immediately drawn shut.
255. Burning externally on the eyelids.
- Burning on the upper eyelids.
- Burning in the eyelids, which are inflamed and red and are tense when moving.
- Burning, and inclination of the eyes to get wearied by reading.
- Burning in the eyes, without redness of the same.
260. Burning and pressure in the eyes; they were closed by supuration in the morning, and swollen, as was the whole of the face.
- Redness of the eye during the day; in the evening violent itching therein.
- Burning pain above and below the eyebrows, every afternoon.
- [Fr. H.]
- Inflammation of the lower eyelids, without any particular swelling.
- Swelling of the upper eyelids and dry pus in the eyelashes.
265. Swelling of the upper eyelid, with redness and burning pain.
- Swelling and pain of the eyelids, with lachrymation of the eyes.
- Swelling and redness of the eyes, with pimples on the lids.
- Stye on the upper eyelid, in the inner canthus.
- Eruptive pimples on the upper eyelid.
270. White vesicle in the white of the eye, close to the cornea.
- Dryness on the inner surface of the eyelids.
- Dryness of the eyes. [Also Ng.]
- Lachrymation, in the morning; subsequently dryness of the eyes.
- Lachrymation and burning of the eyes, in the morning.
- [Ng.]
275. Tears, feeling fatty, come from both eyes. [Fr. H.]
- Purulent mucus in the eyes (aft. 3 d.).

- The eyes are closed by swelling, for two mornings (aft. 20 d.).
- The eyes are closed by swelling and agglutinated in the morning (after burning in the evening). [Ng.]
- The eyes agglutinated in the morning, the lids are thick and red; later dry mucus in the eyelashes.
280. Twitching in the eyelids, mostly in the afternoon. [Fr. H.]
- Twitching on the lower eyelid.
- Twitching in the left lower eyelid, almost constant.
- Twitching in the eyelids.
- Quivering of the lower eyelid, every day.
285. Quivering of the upper eyelid.
- Quivering of the eyelids, for several days.
- Trembling of the eyes.
- Often in the morning after rising her eyelids are drawn shut.
- The pupils are too contractile.
290. Distortion of the left pupil.
- The vision is obscured while reading.
- A veil seems to be before the eyes, and dim-sightedness both for near and distant objects.
- Objects seem more distant than they are.
- Dark points and spots before the eyes.
295. Dimness of vision, as through a fog, during the headache. [Ng.]
- Illusion of vision, as if her complexion was yellow. [Ng.]
- Black flies seem to float near the eyes (aft. 12 h.).
- A white spot before the eyes, when looking into the air.
- Flickering before the eyes (aft. 48 h.).
300. The eyes seem dazzled, after looking at an object for some time.
- The eyes are as it were dazzled, in the morning.
- The sunlight is unbearable.
- In looking into the flame of a candle light, the eyes ache.
- When the lids of the closed eyes are touched, the eyes are painful.
305. Otagia in the left ear.
- Severe pressing in the ears, during swallowing and sneezing.
- Drawing in the left ear, during eructation from the stomach.
- Tearing in the left ear, extending into the head. [Also Ng.]
- Stitches in the left ear (6th d.).
310. Shooting pain in the ear, extending to the fauces.
- Sensation as if the external ear had gone to sleep, for eight days.
- Severe itching externally on the ears.
- Tickling in the ear.
- Itching in the ear (at once), and then itching and heat of the external ear.
315. Itching in the left ear. [Ng.]
- Painful tingling and gnawing in the left external meatus auditorius. [Ng.]
- The internal part of the ear aches, when cleaning it.

- A large furuncle on the tarsus of the ear.
Severe stitches in the swelling of the parotid gland, for several days.
320. Splashing in the ear, as if water was in it, with oversensitiveness of the hearing (at the cracking of a whip).
Over-sensitiveness of the hearing.
Over-sensitiveness of the auditory nerve, with a lady hard of hearing, so that she became sick from playing the piano.
Every noise is troublesome to him.
Disagreeable sensation of stoppage of both the ears, for several days.
325. Deafness of both ears, quickly transient (aft. 9 d.).
Something stopped his left ear, so that he could hear everything, indeed, but could not understand human language.
During the blowing of her nose her ear always gets stopped.
Sensation, while blowing the nose, as if air got into the ear.
Buzzing in the ears with hardness of hearing, during which the ears seemed not to hear the sound, which was only obscurely perceived as by an interior sensation.
330. Humming in the ears for several days.
Buzzing before the ears, now before the one, then before the other, and then she is hard of hearing on the buzzing ear.
Buzzing and pulsation in the ear.
Roaring in the ears.
Roaring before the ears in the evening in bed, with a rush of blood to the head.
335. Much tinnitus aurium, while sitting.
Severe tinnitus aurium, in the morning, in bed, for five minutes.
Ringing in the right ear. [Ng.]
Tinnitus in the ears during dinner, with deafness. [Ng.]
Ringing in the ears and rushing, as of wind, especially after lying down.
340. Cracking in the ears, as from the explosion of an air-bubble.
Cracking before the ear, in the articulation of the jaw, while chewing.
Frequent detonation in the ear: as if a violin string broke.
Fluttering noise in the ear.
A sort of cramp in the nose.
345. Boring above the root of the nose.
Pressure in the right nasal bone, in the evening.
Cracking, or like the explosion of an air-bubble, in the upper part of the nose.
Dryness of the interior of the nose.
Pain of the tip of the nose when touched.
350. Tearing in the nose, after dinner, passing off for a short time by pressure upon it. [Ng.]
Itching in the nose.
Redness and burning of the nostrils, as if eroded. [Ng.]
Inflammation of the nose (aft. 9 d.).
Swollen nose.

355. Pain on the nose, which is swollen and internally ulcerated.
Inflamed, swollen alæ of the nose.
Black sweat-holes on the nose, upper lip and chin.
Sensation as of rush of blood to the nose, especially in the open air.
A yellowish, sticky, strongly smelling liquid drips from the nose, two evenings and mornings, without coryza.
360. Blowing out blood from the nose.
Clots of blood pass from the nose whenever it is blown.
Epistaxis, for seven days (aft. 11 d.).
Blowing of blood from the nose. [Also Fr. H.]
Severe epistaxis in the morning when blowing the nose.
365. Occasional epistaxis for several days. [Fr. H.]
Epistaxis for two afternoons (at three o'clock) in succession; then pain of the nose when touched.
Loss of olfaction.
He cannot bear any smells.
Smell in the nose as from soaked peas.
370. Sharp smarting smell in the nose, as from smoke.
Smell in the nose, as from burned horn.
Smell in the nose, as from old, fetid coryza.
Ill smell of the mucus blown from the nose.
Dull sense of olfaction.
375. Paleness of the complexion.
Pale, wretched look, as after a long illness, with great discomfort. [Ng.]
Blue borders around the eyes.
Deep-lying eyes, with blue borders around them.
Dark redness and heat in the face, especially when walking in the open air.
380. Transient heat in the left cheek, for an hour in the forenoon and in the afternoon.
Heat and burning in the face, with some especially red spots between the eye and ear.
Heat of the face every afternoon from five to nine P. M.
Burning, painful heat in the face and on the neck, with red spots in the face.
Redness and heat of the face, with burning, especially about the mouth.
385. Burning in the face and on the neck, without redness.
Redness and intense burning on both the cheekbones.
Heat of the face during the day, with burning on the zygoma and redness of the whole of the nose.
Sensation as if cold water was poured over her, under the skin of the face, with perceptible coldness of the face, in fits of several minutes.
Sensation of running about in the face.
390. Quivering, occasionally on the zygoma, at times on the chin.
Pressure and burning in the cheeks and the cheekbones.
Painful pressure on the zygoma and below the eye.
Drawing pain on the left side of the face, seemingly in the skin, above the eye, on the temple and on the zygoma, extending to the lobe of the ear, worse in the morning.

Tearing in the right side of the face.

395. Tearing in the zygoma, also at other times in the lower jaw, as if these parts should be torn out. [Ng.]

Bruised pain in the right zygoma, also by night. [Ng.]

Gnawing in the bone before the left ear, also during deglutition. [Ng.]

Swelling of the cheeks, with lancinating pain, and also pain when touched, for eight days.

Red, painless swelling of the cheeks.

400. White, itching spot on the cheeks.

Severe itching in the face, with small, painless pimples, which are humid after scratching.

The lips are always hot, shooting and burning.

Burning of the lips.

Dryness of the lips.

405. Dryness of the vermilion of the lower lip, with scabs and tensive pain.

Cracked lips.

Burning chaps in the lower lip. [Ng.]

Peeling, dry, rough upper lip and edges of the nose with burning. [Ng.]

Swelling of the upper lip, also in the evening, with pain.

410. Swelling of the lower lip, with eruption thereon.

Trembling of the lips.

Twitching in the lips.

A blister on the middle of the lower lip.

A red itching point in the middle of the upper lip. [Ng.]

415. Red blotch on the margin of the vermilion of the lower lip, with shooting pain only when touched.

A scabby ulcer, with burning pain, at the edge of the vermilion of the lower lip.

Raised, herpetic eruption on the corner of the mouth, toward the cheek.

Itching around the chin.

Painful eruption around the chin.

420. In the jaws, a spasmodic drawing.

Drawing jerk in the left side of the lower jaw.

Twitches in the lower jaw when falling asleep.

Tearing in the right side of the upper jaw, in the evening.

Shooting in the lower jaw, darting out at the ear.

425. Painful swelling on the upper jaw, above the gums (aft. 3 d.).

Painful swelling on the lower jaw, below the gums.

Thick, painless lump on the lower jaw, tense when chewing.

Swelling of the submaxillary glands.

Pin-pricks in the submaxillary glands, which are also painful when touched.

430. Toothache in the open air.

A molar is painful when touched.

Toothache, at the least draught.

Toothache, renewed by rinsing the mouth with cold water.

Toothache, which passes over into a swelling of the cheek.

435. Toothache, in fits of two or three hours, followed by burrowing; she can better bear cold things than warm on her teeth.

Great sensitiveness of the crown of the upper teeth on the left side, worse from cold water, with shooting pain; also in the morning. [Ng.]

Painful twitching in a hollow tooth, after dinner. [Ng.]

Pressive toothache, with pain in the submaxillary gland below it.

Drawing toothache.

440. Severe drawing pain in an incisor until 11 P. M., then sleeplessness till near morning.

Drawing pain in the molars, aggravated by drawing in cold air.

Drawing pain of the teeth, in the open air.

Tearing drawing toothache, now on the right side, then on the left, for hours, and often with intermissions of a half or a whole hour; also by night on waking up.

Drawing and tearing in the teeth, mostly aggravated by cold water, at times relieved by warm water; often with twitching in the crown of the teeth. [Ng.]

445. Grumbling and drawing in the teeth.

Jerks through single teeth.

Jerks and stitches in the teeth, periodically, also after midnight, and in the morning, while eating and at other times; when drawing in air, the pain darts into the gums, which pain per se, as if loose and detached.

Shooting toothache in all the teeth, by day and by night, aggravated by biting while eating.

Shooting toothache in all the teeth, by day and by night.

450. Shooting toothache extending into the ear; it caused the person to wake up at night.

A severe stitch through the teeth from every cold drink.

Shooting, burning and throbbing in the teeth, extending into the orbits and the ears.

Throbbing, drawing toothache.

Beating and boring in the teeth.

455. Boring in the teeth, as with a hot iron.

Boring pressure in the teeth and on the outside of the head, only some minutes after eating.

Frequent cutting through all the teeth on the right side, like a cold draught of air.

Toothache every afternoon, as if the teeth were being broken out, with a chill; it passes off in bed.

Sensation of looseness in the teeth, in the evening.

460. The teeth feel loose when biting with them, and paralyzed while eating.

Looseness of the teeth and bleeding of the gums, for three weeks.

A molar becomes loose and feels too long, with simple pain when striking against it and in chewing.

- The tooth feels elongated, with simple pain, even when not touched and when not chewing.
- The teeth became elongated, so that she could scarcely chew.
465. The teeth seemed to her elongated.
The teeth were painful, as if too long, and as if they resounded within like vibrations.
The front teeth seemed too long, with sensitiveness when pressing upon them and in the air, where there is a twitching pain; followed by tearing extending upward into the left temple, which is also painful when pressed upon. [Ng.]
Dullness of the teeth.
Dullness of the teeth, and pain merely when biting; he was not able, for pain, to chew rye-bread (aft. 5 d.).
470. Brown mucus adheres to the teeth.
Red, saltish-sour water comes from a hollow lower molar on the left side. [Ng.]
The teeth bleed.
The gums bleed, when spitting.
Bleeding of the gums. [Ng.]
475. Swelling of the gums, with beating pain therein.
Swelling of the gums on the old roots.
Contractive sensation in the mouth.
Vesicles in the mouth, with burning pain.
Blisters in the mouth, painful while eating.
480. Small blisters with sore pain in the mouth; even slightly salted food causes smarting.
The skin on the inner side of the cheek peels off.
The mouth is very slimy, in the morning.
Dry in the mouth, after eating.
Dryness in the mouth and scratching in the throat, as if the food would not go down.
485. The mouth is dry and sticky and has a disagreeable taste, in the morning. [Ng.]
Burning in the mouth, in the morning, without thirst.
Dryness in the mouth, and taste of blood.
Burning in the mouth with eruptions around it.
Burning in the mouth as from pepper, causing a thirst which no drinking assuages, both day and night.
490. Much heat in the mouth and much thirst, at night.
Heat in the mouth, without thirst (aft. 19 d.).
Spasmodic contraction of the mouth, at the first morsel.
Bloody saliva.
Hawking up of blood, with sweet taste in the mouth. [Ng.]
495. Expectoration of bloody saliva, with sweet taste in the throat. [Ng.]
Salty saliva. [Ng.]
Gathering of water in the mouth, rising up from the stomach; it passes after eating. [Ng.]
Gathering of saliva in the mouth, even after eating.
Gathering of saliva in the mouth, sour and bitter.
500. Bad smell from the mouth, after a meal.
Bad smell from the mouth, in the morning, on rising.

Bad smell from the mouth in the evening.

Intense bad smell from the mouth, in the morning, also later on.

Much collection of mucus in the mouth after midnight, with tickling, causing frequent hawking. [Ngr.]

505. Sour smell from the mouth.

On the tongue, a burning pain.

Smarting on the tongue, as if there were little blisters upon

it.

An erosive vesicle on the right side of the tongue.

Red tongue, with white dots like aphthæ.

510. White tongue.

White tongue in the morning; in the afternoon it is red and clean.

Coated tongue.

Very dry tongue in the morning,

Every morning, a salty mucus adheres to the tongue.

515. Quivering on the tongue.

He frequently stutters when talking.

Dryness of the throat; the tongue cleaves to the palate, but it is humid and there is a frothy mucus (aft. 6 d.).

Great dryness in the throat in the morning, and then very salty taste in the mouth, which passes off after eating.

Dryness in the throat at night, and on awaking there is much mucus on the tongue.

520. Parched feeling in the throat.

Severe dryness on the palate, with much thirst; she has to drink much.

Dryness in the fauces,

Expectoration of mucus, without coughing.

Blisters on the upper part of the palate, hindering both in eating and in talking.

525. Sore throat, with swelling of the cervical glands.

Pressive pain in the throat, during deglutition as from a swelling of the palate.

Pressure in the throat, as from a peg, during deglutition and per se.

Pressure in the fauces, seemingly in the nape, in paroxysms through the night till morning, noticeable even while respiring.

Pressure in the upper part of the throat, during deglutition, and pain in the upper part of the chest.

530. Sensation during eating, as if something had lodged in the throat and was pressing there; this goes off again after eating.

Sore throat during empty deglutition, as if she was swallowing down at the same time a morsel of meat, or as from an elongation of the uvula.

During deglutition there is a pain in the ear, as if it was suppurating.

Choking and sensation of soreness in the throat, as if the tonsils were swollen, with shooting extending into the ears; only while swallowing. [Ngr.]

Something like a hard ball rises in her throat, and seems to contract her fauces and oppress the breathing.

535. Feeling of swelling in the throat, while hawking up of a large, solid piece of white mucus. [Ng.]
 Contraction in the throat as from astringent substances, with small stitches, worse when swallowing. [Ng.]
 Sensation in the throat, as if it was being stretched.
 Spasmodic sensation of constriction in the middle part of the œsophagus, the food will not go down.
 Contraction in the œsophagus, with a sensation as if she could not get food or anything else down, while she could do it (aft. sev. h.).
540. Sensation as if the throat was swollen up, with stitches therein while eating; she feels this swelling of the throat also externally on the angles of the lower jaw, like a swelling of the throat.
Stitches in the throat when swallowing.
 Shooting in the throat, more during empty deglutition than when swallowing food; when not swallowing, pain, as from a lump.
 Scratching in the throat; hawking and clearing the throat.
 Scratchy and rough in the throat, with thirst, in the evening. [Ng.]
545. Elongation of the uvula (the uvula has sunk down).
 Redness and swelling of the tonsils.
 Burning in the fauces, in the evening, with heat on the tongue.
Burning, extending up the throat, with sour eructation. [Fr., Walther.]
 Fermentation in the upper part of the throat.
550. Taste in the mouth, pappy, in the morning.
 Doughy taste in the mouth.
Flat taste in the mouth, with lack of appetite.
 Putrid taste in the mouth in the morning.
 Sensation in the throat, as of fatty vapor rising from the stomach.
555. Great sweetness in the mouth in the morning on awaking, with much mucus.
 Constant sweetish taste in the mouth while fasting, with frequent hawking up of mucus.
 Offensive sweetness in the mouth, causing nausea, the whole forenoon.
 Sweet putrid taste in the mouth.
 Sweetish and nauseous in the mouth, all the day.
560. Coppery taste in the mouth in the morning, on awaking. [Ng.]
 Sourish taste in the mouth.
 Sourish taste in the mouth, in the morning; lasting till after breakfast.
 Very sour taste in the mouth, in the evening, before going to sleep.

- Sourish taste in the mouth, in the morning, after a sound sleep. [Ng.]
565. Sourish taste, like vinegar, in the mouth, all the day.
Bitter taste in the mouth, with ill-humor and muddled feeling in the head.
Bitter taste in the mouth, in the morning, on awaking.
[Also Ng.]
Bitter, spoiled taste in the mouth, every morning.
Bilious bitter taste in the mouth, while fasting; but the food tastes good.
570. Bitter taste in the morning, going off by eating. [Fr. H.]
Mucus, tasting bitter in the mouth, worst in the morning.
Bitter taste in the palate and throat, in the morning, on awaking; diminished by hawking up of mucus.
Bitter taste soon after eating.
All food tastes bitter, e. g., bread.
575. Bitter taste of all food, while the tongue is thickly coated.
Bitter-sourish taste in the mouth, at noon, while eating.
Salty sour taste in the mouth, while eating.
All food tastes too salty.
No taste in foods; they all taste like straw. [Fr. H.]
580. Whatever he eats tastes like nothing, like rotten wood.
The customary smoker does not relish smoking tobacco.
Food smelled to him like lime, but tasted good.
His dinner smelled to him putrid, but it tasted good.
Entire lack of appetite; his only inclination is for sour things.
585. Without hunger and appetite, she only eats from habit, while the food has its normal taste. [Ng.]
Lack of appetite; she has no relish for anything.
Entire lack of appetite, as if constricted in the precordial region.
Sensation of emptiness in the stomach in the forenoon.
Aversion to meat; she feels like vomiting after it.
590. Appetite only for soft food, not for bread or meat.
Aversion to sour and to sweet things.
All sweetish food and dishes made with milk are all at once repugnant to him.
Milk is troublesome; it is vomited in a curdled state.
After milk, sourish taste in the mouth and sour eructation.
595. Drinking milk is at once followed by a sour taste as of vinegar in the mouth.
After milk there is a bitterish, scratchy eructation.
Milk causes violent eructation, even to vomiting of mucus.
Acids cause oppression; she cannot bear them.
Dishes made of flour cause him abdominal troubles.
600. Irresistible craving for sugar.
Sensation of hunger in the abdomen, but it feels full quickly from a few morsels.
He feels appetite, but as soon as he even sees the food his appetite vanishes, and he feels, as it were, full in the abdomen; when he starts to eat he feels loathing.

- Excessive hunger and appetite. [Fr. H.]
 Thirst for several hours (at once). [Walther.]
605. Very much thirst by day. [Fr. H.]
 Increased appetite the whole of the first part of the proving.
 [Ng.]
 Intense thirst, and always more thirst than hunger. [Ng.]
 Thirst, with dryness and cleaving together of the mouth.
 [Ng.]
 Intense thirst for beer. [Fr. H.]
610. Constant, intense thirst for beer, worst one hour after eating.
 Severe thirst, without heat; what he drinks tastes good, but does not assuage his thirst, and also seems to load the stomach.
 Craving for sugar-water.
 Without any appetite at all, but constant thirst.
 Even a little beer is apt to cause ebullition of blood with him.
615. Long-continued after-taste of beer.
 Voracious hunger, which often compels him to eat something;
 if he does not eat he gets headache, great lassitude and has to lie down (aft. 10 d.).
 He can neither eat meat nor fat things in the evening; they lie heavily pressive in his stomach, draw his abdomen upward and impede the stool.
 After a meal, headache, with pressure in the eyes.
 After a meal, headache above the eye and nausea; then heaviness of the head.
620. During dinner, weakness and muddled feeling of the head, continuing till evening.
 During a meal, perspiration in the face, and redness of the white of the eye.
 After a meal, redness in the face and perspiration.
 During dinner, pain in almost all the teeth.
 Immediately after a meal, severe colic.
625. After a meal, loud growling in the abdomen.
 After a meal, rumbling in the abdomen.
 After eating but little, the abdomen at once feels full, as if overloaded, with oppression of the breathing.
 Immediately after a meal, pressure in the stomach.
 An hour after a meal, pressure in the stomach with nausea and waterbrash.
630. An hour after dinner she feels much fatigued, as if she had suffered hunger for a long time.
 After dinner, inert in all the limbs, especially in the lower limbs.
 Generally after dinner, a stool.
 Several hours after a meal, intense oppression of the breathing, followed by yawning.
 After meals, always much fatigue and without tone.
635. After dinner, a severe chill.
 After a meal, sour eructation.
 If she only eats a little too much, she has on the next day a horrid, sour, fetid taste in her mouth.
 When beginning to eat, collection of saliva in the mouth.

- Especially after meals, a troublesome stuffed coryza, making the head gloomy.
640. During the meal he is tormented with coldness of the feet, with itching in the nostrils, from which drops water; attended with impatience, which makes everything troublesome.
 After dinner, great coldness of the feet and palpitation.
 After meals, shuddering and sensation of coldness.
After a meal (and in the morning) chilliness.
 After a meal, chilliness in the abdomen.
645. After a meal, burning in the hands.
 After a meal the œsophagus feels as if it was closed above.
 After a meal, hiccup, while walking in the open air.
 As soon as she eats or drinks anything she has to vomit.
A sort of indigestion (aft. 7 d.).
650. Hiccups, in the morning fasting; also in the evening, continuing even in bed. [Ng.]
Eruclation, empty, at once after every meal.
Empty eruclation, every morning.
Frequent empty eruclation (10th d.).
 Empty eruclation, with frequent yawning, with exhaustion.
 [Ng.]
655. Abortive eruclation when going to sleep.
 Eruclation with hiccups, with pain behind the palate every time.
 Before eruclation, pressure in the splenic region.
 Eruclation, as after onions.
Eruclation like rotten eggs, with nausea. [Also Ng.]
660. Sweetish eruclation in the morning.
 Sour eruclation and much trouble from acidity in the stomach.
 Sour eruclations after meals (2d d.).
 Sour eruclation, with taste of lead.
Sour eruclation, repeatedly during the day. [Fr. H.; Ng.]
665. Sour eruclation, several times a day, and pressure in the scrobiculus cordis.
 Bitter, scratchy eruclation of the ingesta.
 Scratchy eruclation after drinking small beer (Weissbier).
Eruclation with the taste of the ingesta.
 Regurgitation of the food an hour after partaking of it.
670. Regurgitation of the breakfast eaten (aft. 3½ h.).
 Regurgitation of undigested food.
Heartburn all the day. [Also Ng.]
 Heartburn in the morning; there is tingling and burning anteriorly in the chest.
 Rancid taste as of heartburn in the throat, when swallowing, especially when she at the same time presses upon the windpipe.
 [Ng.]
675. Nausea every morning.
 Nausea, even to fainting.
 Nausea before meals.
 Nausea in the stomach, with treembling all over the body.
 [Ng.]

- Nausea, with gathering of saliva in the mouth, after breakfast.
680. Nausea, with eructation, first like mucus, then bitter and scrapy.
Nausea and inclination to vomit.
Inclination to vomit, three mornings in succession.
Inclination to vomit, very frequently, even when she has not eaten anything.
Inclination to vomit, transient, but frequently during the day.
685. Inclination to vomit, at night, and writhing in the scrobiculus cordis as in waterbrash.
Waterbrash, immediately before dinner; he feels dizzy and qualmish, after which much water runs out of the stomach.
Waterbrash after meals, at noon and in the evening; preceded by pressure in the pit of the stomach.
Waterbrash, with choking and rising of water from the stomach, in the morning, while rinsing the mouth and hawking up mucus.
Waterbrash twice a day; there is writhing in the pit of the stomach, it writhing and choking, and much water rises from the stomach and runs from the mouth.
690. Waterbrash in the evening; he had to allow much water to run from his mouth, and could not speak during this time; then vomiting of food eaten seven hours before.
Waterbrash, two hours after eating; there is eructation; the water runs out of his mouth and he has to vomit what he has eaten, with great nausea and shuddering.
Vomiting.<sup>1</sup> [WALTHER.]
Vomiting with profuse sweat (aft. 24 h.). [Fr. H.]
Vomiting of a very salty liquid, clear as water.
695. Sour vomiting.
Vomiting of the ingesta, in the morning, with trembling of the hands and feet.
Vomiting of the food eaten at noon, in the evening (1st d.).
Vomiting of mucus, with choking and inclination to vomit, in the morning.
Bitter vomiting, in the afternoon, with nausea.
700. She vomits blood and a blackish tasteless liquid, in a fainting fit, at the appearance of the menses.
The gastric region becomes extremely painful when touched, and even the coverings of the bed cause pain; but there is no pressure from eating.
Stomachache as from a spoiled stomach. [Ng.]
Pressure in the stomach, with mucus (at once).
Pressive pain in the stomach with anxiety. [WALTHER.]
705. Pressure below the stomach, very violent while lying down.
Pressure below the pit of the stomach. [Fr. H.]
Anxious pressure in the stomach.

<sup>1</sup>This Walther is a different reference from the F. Walther, mentioned before, and belongs to a treatise entitled "Progr. de Sulph. et Marte, Lips. 1743." It is not accessible (S. 604, 704, 870, 984, 1363, 1804 ascribed here to "Walther" simply, in the Mat. Med. Pura are credited to "Fr. Walther."—Hughes).

Intolerable pressure in the pit of the stomach and the epigastrium, in paroxysms, mostly in the morning, somewhat relieved by pressing upon it with the hand, for several days (aft. 6 d.).

Violent pressure in the stomach, a few hours after meals; the pain extends into the back.

710. Pressure, as of heaviness, in the stomach.

Heaviness in the stomach.

Sensation of fullness in the stomach, as if it was inflated, without distention of the same.

Sensation in the stomach, as if it was quite full.

The stomach feels full and distended, with violent thirst, in the afternoon. [Ng.]

715. Sensation of hollowness in the region of the stomach.

Swelling in the pit of the stomach.

Tension in the evening in the stomach and the chest, extending into the back, as if he had eaten too much, with pain in the pit of the stomach on pressing upon it and touching it.

Grasping sensation in the stomach, extending up into the throat.

Contractive pain in the stomach.

720. Contractive pain in the gastric region, which takes her breath.

Contractive pain in the stomach, all day, with boring in the nape, aggravated after a meal, with great sensitiveness of the scalp (the day before the menses). [Ng.]

Screwing together and bruised pain in the stomach, and at the same time on the right side in a lower rib, and in the hip. [Ng.]

Cramp-like contraction in the pit of the stomach, at noon before the meal, taking away the breath.

Violent spasm in the stomach, at night, for several hours.

725. Severe cramp in the stomach, before dinner, and then profuse perspiration till late in the evening.

Grasping in the stomach, in the morning, on awaking.

Pinching in the gastric region, drawing downward. [Ng.]

Smarting pain in the stomach.

Cutting in the stomach, in the afternoon.

730. Painful gnawing in the stomach, then in the abdomen, followed by two stools. [Ng.]

Shooting in the abdomen.

Shooting in the pit of the stomach, in the morning, while standing.

Shooting in the pit of the stomach, when breathing deeply.

Frequent pricking in the pit of the stomach, as from needles.

735. A dull stitch frequently from the region of the right side of the stomach, extending to the lumbar region, at every inspiration, in the evening. [Ng.]

Sensation of coldness in the region of the stomach.

Cool sensation in the stomach.

The gastric region feels cold externally.

Sensation of heat in the gastric region, and hacking therein, while sitting quietly.

740. Burning in the stomach and in the abdomen, chiefly while walking and standing.

- Burning in the pit of the stomach, and around it.
Burning in the stomach, several times a day.
 Burning in the stomach, like intense heartburn.
 Burning, cutting and writhing in the stomach.<sup>1</sup> [ARDOYNUS, de venen. Lib. II., C. XIV.]
745. Burning in the stomach, then rumbling in the abdomen, followed by a diarrhœic stool. [Ng.]
 Beating in the pit of the stomach, with sensation of swooning, or while sitting, like a pulsation, with ebullition in the chest, as if it would stop her breathing. [Ng.]
 The hepatic region is painful when touched.
Pressure in the hepatic region immediately after dinner.
 Pressure in the liver awakes him at night, while the white of his eyes is yellow.
750. Severe pressure and contraction in the hepatic region.
 Tensive and burning pain in the hepatic region.
 Drawing pain in the hepatic region took her breath away; she had to walk bent double, all the day.
 The liver seems swollen, impeding her respiration.
Stitches in the hepatic region, and in the right groin, frequently.
755. Shooting and stitches in the right hypochondrium. [Ng.]
Transient stitches in the hepatic region, from within outward.
 Stitches in the hepatic region, especially while walking in the open air.
 Lancinating pain under the right short ribs.
 Pinching in the right hypochondrium, while walking.
760. Boring pain in the hepatic region, after dinner.
 Beating and quivering in the hepatic region from time to time.
 Tension and beating on a right lower rib, only transiently relieved by pressing upon it. [Ng.]
 Cutting and burning on the left lower ribs. [Ng.]
 Burning, and while stooping over in sitting, fine burning stitches in the region of the left lower ribs. [Ng.]
765. In the left hypochondrium especially, the movements of flatus are painful, like stitches.
Shooting in the left side of the abdomen when taking a deep breath and when walking in the open air.
 Shooting at times in the left side, and at times in the right side of the abdomen.
 The left side of the abdomen is asleep, with chilly sensation.
 Pressure under the left ribs.
770. Below the ribs (in the midriff?) across the body, pain when blowing the nose and in coughing.
 Sensitiveness, in the morning, in both the hypochondria, which when touched pain as if sore.
 Pain in the epigastrium, just below the chest, as if everything

<sup>1</sup> Statement.—The original from which this symptom is taken is "fortis calor in corpore, et dolor in hepate, et tensio intestinorum, et gravado linguæ et stomachi et solutio plurima ventris," i. e., intense heat in the body, and pain in the liver, and tension of the intestines, and heaviness of the tongue and stomach and much looseness of the belly.—Hughes.

there was becoming detached and was suffused with blood, only when moving and breathing.

Pain in the abdomen after every meal. [Ng.]

Pain in the abdomen, at night, as if crushed within and suffused with blood.

775. Painful over-sensitiveness in the abdomen, as if everything there was raw and sore, as immediately after a delivery, while something within seemed to move, or to shoot there suddenly and to dart thence into the whole of the head.

Movement in the abdomen, as from the fist of an embryo.

Pain in the abdomen, which compelled the person to bend double.

Pressure across the navel, with little appetite; he cannot sleep for it at night.

Pressure in the hypogastrium.

780. Pressure in the left side of the hypogastrium, as if something hard was lying there; the pain draws her together, so that she has to walk bending over to one side.

Pressive pain in the right hypogastrium, when standing or when walking against the wind, or when turning over on the left side after lying on the back.

Sore pressure in the hypogastrium, after a meal, with eructation.

Full and clumsy in the abdomen, after eating, as if overloaded.

Fullness of the abdomen, after eating but little.

785. Frequent inflation of the abdomen.

Fullness and inflation of the abdomen, also in the morning in bed, when it goes off after discharging flatus. [Ng.]

Inflation and hardness of the abdomen, especially in the evening.

Sensation of inflation and tension of the abdomen, every morning on awaking.

Tension in the abdomen.

790. Tension in the abdomen, as from incarcerated flatus

Tension and pressure in the umbilical region.

Tense, oppressed sensation in the whole of the abdomen, especially in the hypochondria; with anxious hypochondriac mood; for several hours after dinner (aft. 4 d.).

Sensation in the abdomen, as if something was violently forcing its way through the bowels.

Spasmodic, contractive pain in the abdomen, extending into the chest, the groin and the pudenda.

795. Squeezing, contractive pain around the umbilicus, while sitting, passing off after rising. [Ng.]

Colic, after midnight, painful in the side of the abdomen.

Violent pinching and tension in the abdomen, from noon till evening.

Pinching about the navel, up toward the stomach, going off through discharge of flatus, in the afternoon and evening. [Ng.]

Shooting pinching just above the hips and on the last false rib.

800. Violent pinching in the hypogastrium, so that she could hardly walk, and could have cried; after entering the room, and preceded by rumbling in the abdomen and discharge of flatus; with frequent intermission. [Ng.]
 Cutting in the epigastrium, as if in the chest.
 Violent cutting in the abdomen, lasting some moments.
 Cutting in the abdomen, in the evening, and weariness when going upstairs, as if the menses would set in.
 Cutting in the abdomen, in the morning in bed (aft. 3 d.).
805. Cutting in the abdomen, below the navel (at once).
 Cutting pain in the abdomen, after dinner.
 Severe cutting in the abdomen, with great inclination to vomit and so profuse a sweat, that the shirt and bed became ringing wet.
 Cutting in the abdomen, at various times, also after dinner, with moving about of flatus in the abdomen; or with a flow of saliva to the mouth, coming up from the stomach; or in the evening with inflation, relieved by discharge of flatus, and going off after a thin stool. [Ng.]
 Cutting in the hypogastrium, when straining for a stool, or when pressing on the hypogastrium, or when bending backward; not when sitting as usual.
810. Cutting in the abdomen and sacrum awake her after midnight, then diarrhœa, followed by tenesmus; so also the next morning, three times. [Ng.]
 Sudden shooting in the abdomen, darting all through the body. [Fr. H.]
 Shooting in the lesser intestines in the epigastrium, as from needles, lasting three quarters of an hour. [Fr. Walther]
 Transient shooting in the abdomen.
 Shooting and pinching in the abdomen, in the morning.
815. Burning shooting on a small spot beside the navel, for a quarter of an hour.
 Stitches and violent burning deep in the hypogastrium, with a spasmodic pain in the right lower limb.
 Constant burrowing in the abdomen, and yet only one stool a day, for several days.
 Heat in the left side of the abdomen.
 Anguish in the abdomen followed by a sensation of weakness in the feet, extending above the ankles, like an internal trembling.
820. Pain as from arrested flatus in both sides of the abdomen, in the morning on awaking; the flatus was only short and abrupt, without relief.
 Flatus accumulates in the left hypochondrium, with anxiety.
 When she has had no stool for some time, the flatus is incarcerated and comes into the left side of the abdomen with a severe pressure, causing her to scream out at the slightest motion.
 Rumbling in the abdomen; as from beer with yeast in it, then a sudden call to stool, and a stool attended with colic; the first part of the stool is hard, the rest liquid, without mucus; in the morning and late in the evening. [Fr. Walther.]

- Growling and rumbling in the abdomen at night, for almost two hours. [Ng.]
825. Growling in the hypogastrium, as from emptiness.
Growling, rumbling and grumbling in the abdomen (at once).
 Loud rumbling in the left side of the abdomen.
 Clucking in the abdomen.
 Much flatus.
830. Much discharge of flatus, especially in the evening and night; also flatus with the smell of rotten eggs. [Ng.]
Very fetid flatus, for many days.
 The abdominal muscles are painful as if bruised, when touched.
 The abdominal muscles are relaxed, so that he cannot readily straighten himself.
 The abdomen is painful when touched and when walking, with a dull pain in it.
835. The clothes press upon the abdomen.
 At night, much itching on the epigastrium and the hypogastrium.
 After dinner, itching about the abdomen, and rubbing causes a pinching together and squeezing together of the intestines, especially in the groin, seemingly toward the middle; worst when stooping and when breathing deeply, better when walking.
 Constant pressure in the groin, all over the whole pubic region, as if she was tightly bandaged there.
 Tearing in both the inguinal glands.
840. Stitches in the right flank, also arresting the breath. [Ng.]
 Burning stitches in the left flank, in the evening. [Ng.]
 Painful swelling of the inguinal gland. [Whl.]
 Urging in the abdominal ring, as if from incipient hernia.
An incipient inguinal hernia protrudes itself forcibly, with pain as from crushing and bruising; it cannot be kept back with the hand (aft. 4 h.)
845. An old hernia is again protruded; he has to put on his truss.
 Drawing pressure in the right groin, and in the left side of the abdomen.
 Constipation for two days, then a single stool without colic; it comes on unexpectedly. [Fr. H.]
 Intermitting stool. [Ng.]
 Occasional costiveness.
850. Stool only every two, three or four days, hard and troublesome.
 Very hard stool and then pain in the anus.
 Hard stool with burning pain in the anus and rectum.
 Hard stool; it looks burnt.
 Hard, scanty, griping stool; with a sensation as if the rectum would protrude. [Ng.]
855. Hard, black stool, falling to pieces, as if burnt. [Ng.]
 Knotty stool, though not hard.
 Knotty stool, mixed with mucus.
Insufficient, too scanty stool.

Stool with a sensation as if something had stayed behind, and not enough had been discharged.

860. Frequent abortive calls to stool.

Hurried call to stool, and yet he has to strain before anything is passed, though the stool is soft and normal.

Urging before and after the stool.

Tenesmus. [Walther.]

Urging to stool, as if the rectum would be pressed out, with pressure on the bladder; he has to get up three times at night on account of it.

865. Much pressure and tenesmus after the stool, for one hour; then she could not sit for pain in the anus.

Constant urging to stool at night; she had to get out of bed ten times, could neither lie nor sit still on account of shooting and sore pain on the anus; she felt as if she had pressed out everything, and it was painful, especially when drawing the anus inward.

The stool passes off suddenly and almost involuntarily; he can not get out of bed fast enough. [Fr. H.]

Stool four times a day, attended with pinching in the abdomen before and afterward.

Soft stool, of very thin formation.

870. Frequent pappy stool, with cutting in the abdomen. [Walther.]

Soft, half liquid stool, frequently.

Soft stool with bloody mucus, after previous cutting in the abdomen. [Ng.]

Soft stool with tenesmus and burning of the anus in the evening; preceded by inflation of the abdomen, then passage of hot, fetid flatus with pinching in the sacral region. [Ng.]

Thin stool every morning, with cutting in the hypogastrium, for twenty days.

875. Two thin stools, followed by pressure in the stomach, in the forenoon.

Thin, pappy stool looking like bile, passes off involuntarily, with a sensation as if only flatus would be discharged.

Diarrhœa, for four days (aft 48 h.).

Diarrhœa, like water, every half hour, every time preceded by growling in the abdomen, without pain (3d d.).

Diarrhœa, six times, followed by fainting, first with heat, then warm sweat, then with cold sweat on the forehead and feet, with white tongue.

880. Frequent frothy diarrhœic stools, with tenesmus, even at night. [Ng.]

Diarrhœic stools with tenesmus and cutting in the abdomen; the tenesmus goes off by applying warm cloths; at 4 and 6 A. M. [Ng.]

Pale colored stool.

Sour-smelling stool.

Discharge of undigested food with the stool.

885. Stool covered with mucus.

Three stools a day, covered with mucus.

Very mucous stool.

Reddish mucous stool, with fever, lack of appetite, attended with lying down and colic.

Mucous stools, without fæces, several times a day, mixed with red veinlets of blood, for several days (aft. 5 d.).

890. Blood during stool, in the evening.

Ascarides pass with the stool.

Frequent passage of single ascarides.

The ascarides cause itching in the rectum.

Lumbrici pass off after violent pains in the abdomen, with a hard stool. [Ng.]

895. Tapeworm discharged with a hard stool. [Ng.]

Before every stool colic.

Before the stool, as it were, an aching in the intestines.

Before the diarrhœic stool, searching and pinching in the abdomen, much discharge of flatus, at times with pain, as if it would tear the anus, and with urging to stool or tenesmus after the stool. [Ng.]

During stool, palpitation, which disappeared afterward.

900. During the morning-stool, obstinate and inclined to weep.

During the stool, in the evening, nausea, as if she had to vomit.

During the (soft) stool, painful pressure in the rectum.

During the soft stool, rush of blood to the head.

During the stool, sensation as if there was a contraction within.

905. With a normal stool, cutting in the rectum.

During stool, burning in the rectum.

During stool, sensation of burning in the anus, which seemed red and inflamed, and studded with little varices.

During stool, protrusion of the rectum.

Before the morning-stool, pinching in the abdomen.

910. After the stool, pinching in the abdomen.

After the stool, a bruised feeling in the intestines.

After the stool, great exhaustion.

After a soft stool, pressure in the anus and rectum, as after a hard stool.

After a difficult, though not hard stool, so violent a pin-pricking, extending from the anus up the rectum, that he almost became unconscious for pain, then chill and weariness.

915. After stool, a beating pain in the rectum, all day long.

After a thin stool, burning in the anus.

After a soft, formed stool, burning in the anus, for several minutes.

After the stool, contractive pain in the anus.

Bearing down toward the anus.

920. Pressure in the rectum.

Tearing in the rectum.

Violent stitches in the rectum, especially in the evening.

Severe stitches in the rectum, even between stools, arresting the breathing.

• Burning on the anus, after sitting a while (4th d.).

925. Severe burning on the anus.
Choking; sore pain in the rectum, while lying down.
Sore pain between the nates.
Itching on the anus.
Itching in the rectum.
930. Severe itching in the rectum, repeated during the day.
Crawling and itching in the rectum, as from worms, in the evening, while sitting.
Growling in the rectum.
Urging fullness in the rectum.
Swelling of the anus, with burning itching.
935. Varices of the anus, which are humid, even after a normal stool.
Humid varices on the anus, with erosion and shooting, when walking and sitting.
Dull stitch in the varices of the anus, so that he is startled.
Involuntary discharge of humor from the anus, with subsequent itching there.
Contractive sensation in the perinæum.
940. Urine scanty (the first 36 h.). [Also Ng.]
Violent urging to urinate, with burning in the urethra.
Constant urging to urinate; some drops pass from her involuntarily.
Violent urging to urinate, though he has not drunk anything for a long time (aft. 2 h.).
Impatient before urinating.
945. After a pollution, he awakes with violent urging to urinate, which does not abate even after much micturition, on account of the irritation (not in the bladder) at the orifice of the urethra.
Frequent quick urging to urinate; she has to urinate frequently.
Frequent quick impulse to urinate.
Sensation in the urethra, as if he had to urinate all the time.
Violent urging to urinate; he has to urinate at once, else the urine would be discharged involuntarily.
950. Constant inclination to urinate, but little is discharged at a time.
The urine is discharged with much violence.
Frequent urging to urinate; he can hardly resist for a moment.
Frequent discharge of urine (aft. 6 d.).
She was frequently impelled to urinate, always preceded by cutting in the hypogastrium.
955. Increase of urine, especially at night. [Ng.]
Very frequent micturition, almost every half-hour, with voluptuous urging extending into the anus. [Whl.]
He has to rise after midnight to urinate, and passes much urine.
He has to rise twice during the night, to urinate.
At night there is twice a passage of urine, but slowly.
960. At night very violent urging to urinate.
Urine is passed at the discharge of flatus.

- Urine is passed during coughing.
 The stream of urine is far thinner than usual.
 The stream of urine is intermittent.
965. Very frequent discharge of urine looking like water.
 Dark-brown urine.
 The urine in the evening is red, and deposits a sediment over night. [Ng.]
 The urine becomes turbid after a few hours.
 Turbid urine.
970. The urine is whitish, even when passed.
 Whitish sediment, like flour, in the urine.
 Reddish sediment in the urine.
Fatty scum on the urine, for seven days.
 The urine is very fetid.
975. The fetor of the urine is like that of sweaty feet.
 Blood is discharged with the urine, which was quite mucous.
 Before micturition, cutting in the abdomen.
During micturition, burning anteriorly in the urethra.
 [Also Ng.]
 When finishing micturition and afterward, a cutting in the urethra, as if the urine was acrid, like corroding lye.
980. During micturition, burning in the urethra.
 After micturition, urging in the bladder, in the morning after rising. [Ng.]
 Intense pressure on the bladder.
 Stitches in the bladder, or in the hypogastrium.
 Cutting in the urethra, before and during stools. [WALTHER.]
985. Erosion in the female urethra.
 Burning anteriorly in and on the urethra when not urinating.
Burning in the urethra, when not urinating. [Ng.]
 Itching in the middle of the urethra.
 Stitches anteriorly in the urethra.
990. Transient shooting pain in the urethra (9th d.).
 Stitches or cuts in the urethra and in the hypogastrium.
 Shooting and tearing in the urethra.
 Pain in the urethra, as from incipient gonorrhœa.
 Redness and inflammation of the orifice of the urethra.
995. In the mons veneris frequent itching and humidity.
 Stitches in the penis.
 Shooting in the penis, in the morning, during micturition, especially in the glans, as if the urethra was being pierced; the urine, in consequence, only drips out in the beginning, later it is suppressed. [Fr. H.]
 The member is discolored, bluish, is always cold and the prepuce retracted. [Whl.]
 Itching on the glans.
1000. Glans and prepuce icy cold.
 Burning and redness of the prepuce.
 Redness and swelling of the prepuce. [Whl.]
 Phimosis, with dropping out of the fetid pus below the prepuce.
 [Whl.]

- The prepuce hangs down far beyond the glans and is divided by fissures into four to five lobes. [Whl.]
1005. The prepuce becomes quite stiff and hard like leather; on the inner surface it shines and secretes a thin humor of offensive smell. [Whl.]
- In the testes and the genitals, a resounding.
Pressure and tension in the testes and spermatic cords.
Pin-pricks in the testicle.
The testes hang down limp, for several weeks.
1010. The epididymis is thickened and swollen.
The testes and scrotum very flaccid, in the evening in bed.
Coldness of the genitals, in the morning.
Male impotence, even during amorous imagination.
Resistance of the genitals to a complete evacuation of the semen.
1015. Hardly any sexual impulse remains. [Whl.]
Increased sexual potency (aft. 56 h.).
Great urging to seminal emission, without erection.
Extreme voluptuous irritation in the internal genitals, in the morning after awaking, with an erection lasting an hour and a half, at first strong, but finally weak; this passed over into a burning pain, which only gradually subsided after a seminal emission (aft. 24 h.).
Excitation of the sexual impulse.
1020. Several pollutions (the first nights.)
Profuse pollution of watery semen.
Pollution with burning pain in the urethra.
Pollution in an aged man, who for many years had not had any. (6 th m.).
Pollution in the noon-siesta, while sitting, in a man of seventy years, who had not had the like for twenty years (aft. 5 h.).
1025. Discharge of prostatic juice.
Discharge of prostatic juice, dripping in long threads from the urethra after micturition and stools.
Sensation of weakness in the genital parts.
Occasional itching in the vagina.
Troublesome itching on the genitals, with eruptive pimples around.
1030. Painless vesicles on the external pudenda.
Burning in the vagina, so that she could scarcely sit still.
Burning in the pudenda, without itching.
Inflammation of one of the labia, with burning pain, mostly while urinating.
A sore place on the pudenda and one on the perinæum, for 10 days.
1035. Intense itching on the clitoris.
During coitus, sensation of soreness in the vagina.
Menses one day too early, very strong, with violent pains in the abdomen and the sacrum; preceded by a chill all over the body. [Ng.]
Menstrual flow lasts two days longer and is stronger. [Ng.]

- Menstrual flow stronger, thick and black, and so acrid, that it erodes the thighs. [Ng.]
1040. Almost daily discharge of some blood from the uterus, for several weeks after the restoration of the long-suppressed menses (aft. 3 d.).
- Menses almost at once, seven days before the time.
- Menses too early by seven days, and more scanty (aft. 15 d.).
- Menses too early by two days (aft. 34 h.)
- Menses too late by ten days, and lasting eight days, with pains during the first days. [Ng.]
1045. Menses too early by eleven days, preceded by cutting downward in the hypogastrium. [Ng.]
- Menses retarded for three days.
- Menses retarded by two days, with much illness and oppression (9th d.).
- Menses retarded by two days, with constipation and inflated abdomen.
- The menses stopped at once. though it was in full force, after having lasted two and one-half days. [Also Ng.]
1050. Stronger flow of the menses, which had a sourish smell.
- Restlessness and apprehension, the day before the menses.
- Just before the menses, cough in bed, in the evening; she had to get up to gain relief, then it passed away.
- Before the menses, cramp below the left hypochondrium.
- Three mornings before the menses, shooting in a hollow tooth from seven to eight A. M.
1055. Just before the menses, burning in the throat like heartburn.
- Just before the menses and soon after them, epistaxis.
- Before the menses she feels so full on the chest that she has to take a deep breath frequently.
- During the menses, on the third evening, epistaxis.
- During the menses, sleepiness by day.
1060. During the menses, now a cutting, then a contractive pain in the hypogastrium.
- During the menses, in the morning, with slight flow of blood, violent pains in the abdomen and the sacrum, with inflation; in the afternoon, a stronger flow of blood, with a diminution of the pains, which are relieved by active movements. [Ng.]
- During the menses, pinching in the abdomen, pain in the sacrum (and chill all over the body). [Ng.]
- During the menses, cramplike pains in the hypogastrium, as if the intestines were being drawn together with threads into a small lump; she could neither lie nor walk, but had to sit up as upright as possible.
- During the menses, drawing pains in the abdomen.
1065. During the menses, pressure in the forehead, mostly in the afternoon.
- During the menses, pressure in the pit of the stomach.
- During the menses, a great rush of blood to the head.
- During the menses, severe pains in the hypogastrium, with great heat, chill and a sort of epilepsy; she became quite rigid, distorted her mouth, and moved to and fro, without speaking, her forehead and hands being cold.

After the menses, for many days, an itching on the outer side of the nose.

1070. Leucorrhœa, very severe (2d d.).

Leucorrhœa, two days before the menses. [Ng.]

Thin leucorrhœa, in the morning after rising, preceded by pinching in the abdomen.

Yellowish discharge from the vagina, preceded by pinching in the hypogastrium. [Ng.]

Discharge from the vagina, for fourteen days after the appearance of the menses, for two days, like nasal mucus.

1075. Discharge from the vagina, which smarts like salt as it passes. Leucorrhœa, corroding the pudenda, with burning pain (2d d.).

Leucorrhœa, preceded by colic (13th d.).

At the first movements of the embryo, severe palpitation and heat in the face, then burning in the abdomen.

* * * * *

Inclination to sneeze, which shakes her almost spasmodically.

[Ng.]

1080. Very frequent sneezing, in the evening and morning.

Frequent sneezing,

Severe sneezing for several days.

Very frequent sneezing, preceded every time by nausea.

Painful sensation of dryness in the nose, with severe coryza.

1085. Tingling in the nose, as from incipient coryza.

Coryza (aft. 14 d.).

Severe coryza (aft. 5, 17 d.).

Frequent short fits of coryza.

Fluent coryza, like water.

1090. Fluent coryza of scalding water. [Ng.]

Fluent coryza, and when blowing the nose, also bloody mucus.

Water drops from the nose.

Stopping of both nostrils, with frequent sneezing.

Fluent coryza; the mucus has to be drawn through the posterior nares.

1095. The nose feels stuffed in the upper portion, there is fluent coryza and a sore burning, with a flow of smarting water, while the voice is a rough bass, in the afternoon and evening. [Ng.]

Severe stuffing of the nose, for several days; when blowing the nose, little clots of blood are sometimes discharged.

Coryza, with chilliness, catarrh and cough.

Severe coryza with rawness on the chest, and cough with much expectoration.

Frequent secretion of thick, yellow, purulent mucus in the nose, for several days. [Ng.]

1100. Roughness in the throat.

Drawing and dryness, occasionally in the larynx.

Very great roughness in the throat (aft. 16 d.).

Hoarseness and total aphony (aft. 24 h.).

- Hoarseness in the morning. [Fr. H.]
1105. Hoarseness, in the evening.
Hoarseness and roughness of speech, with dryness in the throat and burning during swallowing. [Ng.]
 Voice obscured by coryza, with sensation of stuffing in the root of the nose, in the morning. [Ng.]
 Hard pieces of mucus, like starch, are thrown out by hawking. [Ng.]
 Scratching in the throat, with inclination to cough, in the evening in bed. [Ng.]
1110. Coldness in the throat, during inspiring.
 The air expired is hot.
 There is always mucus on the chest, he has to cough slightly.
 The chest and throat are full of mucus.
 When he eats anything dry, it lodges in his throat, arrests his breathing and he has to cough it out again.
1115. The larynx feels swollen.
 A painful impulse in the larynx while coughing.
 The mucus collected in the chest over night causes an inclination to vomit on awaking.
 Tingling in the larynx; talking causes cough.
 Inclination to cough after a meal; this is so violent that he cannot cough quickly enough; it spasmodically contracts his chest, and he choked, as if he would vomit.
1120. He wants to cough and cannot; objects turn black before his eyes.
 At every breath he has a fit of two or three impulses to cough, worse in the afternoon.
 Dry, short cough, only while walking in the open air.
 Hacking cough, in the evening, while sleeping, sitting up.
 Cough, caused every time by roughness in the larynx.
1125. Much coughing, when going to sleep, with heat in the head and face, and cold hands.
 Dry cough, for a long time in the evening in bed, before falling asleep, and more violent than by day.
 Dry cough wakes him at night from sleep.
 Cough, only by night.
 Dry cough, only by night, keeping the person from sleeping.
1130. Dry cough, with hoarseness, dryness in the throat, and fluent coryza of clear water. [Ng.]
 Brief tussiculation, with sore burning in the fauces, which becomes worse in the open air, but goes off after lying down. [Ng.]
 Sudden dry cough, as if it would tear out the lungs, with increased headache. [Ng.]
 Dry cough in the evening, or also in the night, and then toward morning it is attended with some expectoration, and the sensation as if little bubbles burst within. [Ng.]
 Loose cough with sore sensation or pressure on the chest and expectoration of thick mucus, also with rattling in the windpipe and hoarseness. [Ng.]
1135. Dry cough by day, with stitches in the right side of the abdomen; with stuffed coryza.

About midnight, he is awaked from sleep by coughing; he has to cough for one-half an hour, until expectoration ensues; in the morning, while dressing, there is again cough, with expectoration, then no more during the day.

Dry, short, violent cough, with pain in the sternum, or with stitches in the chest.

Expectoration from the chest, tasting of old coryza.

Coughing up greenish flakes, of sweetish taste.

1140. Hawking, at every deep breath.

During cough, headache, as if bruised and torn.

During cough, severe pain in the occiput, as from an ulcer (at once).

Owing to a (brief) cough, pain in the vertex, like a resounding, and pain under the right ribs.

From cough, pain in the head and abdomen.

1145. During cough, stitches in the parietal and occipital bones.

During coughing, stitches, outward in the forehead, so that she had to hold it with her hands.

During coughing, painful shocks in the head.

During coughing, vomiting.

During coughing, the throat and chest feel as if cut in two.

[Ng.]

1150. During coughing, concussion in the abdomen and chest.

During coughing, stitches in the region of the xiphoid cartilage.

During coughing, putrid smell of the breath.

During coughing, stitches below the right breast.

During coughing, pain on the right side of the chest; on touching the spot, it ached.

1155. During coughing, pain in the scapula.

During the cough, sensation as if the lungs touched the back.

During a day cough, sensation of emptiness in the chest.

During cough, lancinating pain above the left hip, extending into the sacrum.

Asthma.

1160. Arrest of breathing, in paroxysms, partly when moving and walking, partly when sitting and lying down; he must then forcibly take a deep breath, when the asthma immediately vanishes.

The most severe asthma, twitches and death (aft. 4 d.).<sup>1</sup>

[MORGAGNI.].

Asthma, after taking a walk; he has frequently to take a deep breath, till evening (aft. 28 h.).

Short breath while walking in the open air. [Also Ng.]

Short breath from talking much.

1165. Arrest of breathing, from pressure upon the chest.

Wheezing and rattling on the chest, relieved by expectoration.

Frequent stoppage and arrest of breathing, even to suffocation, by day.

Arrest of breathing, also while speaking.

<sup>1</sup> From free drinking of sulphur in wine.—Hughes.

Failure of breath, suddenly at night, while turning over to the left side; it passed off on sitting up.

1170. Frequent arrest of breathing, while sleeping; she had to be waked up to keep her from suffocating.

Suffocative fit at night while asleep, but without pain.

Just after falling asleep, at night, the breath failed; she was about to suffocate, started up with a loud scream, and could not get her breath; toward morning, violent palpitation; followed by an exhaustive sweat.

After walking twenty steps, her chest feels constricted, she would stand still, every now and then, to recover her breath.

Though not short of breath, it is impossible for him to take a very deep breath.

1175. When he wants to take a deep breath, his chest feels contracted.

Asthma, in the morning, while fasting, until he takes something; the impediment to respiration seems to be in the scrobiculus cordis.

Tightness and a pressive squeezing all over the body, still more about the chest, as if external, attended with anxiety, in the afternoon and evening; after lying down, he perspired and felt quite free.

Tight sensation on the chest, as if something had grown fast there.

Oppression of the chest, on bending forward.

1180. Tightness of the chest, with shooting in the left side, unaffected by breathing. [N.g.]

The breathing is quickened involuntarily, while stepping into bed and afterward.

Difficulty in breathing; he had to breathe deeply, more while sitting than while walking.

Feels fatigued in the chest, she could only breathe with difficulty.

Weakness of the chest while talking.

1185. Anxiety on the chest.

The whole chest feels tight.

Painful sensitiveness on the upper part of the sternum, also when touched, with oppression. [N.g.]

Tension in the right side of the chest and the right shoulder.

Pressure on the upper part of the sternum, when walking in the open air, it goes off when walking further.

1190. Pressure across the middle of the chest, as after swallowing too large a morsel.

In the morning in bed, a pressure on the chest, continually augmenting; he had to rise, when it passed off.

Pressive pain in the sternum, while walking; he does not feel anything when touching it.

Pressure on the chest, with anxiety.

Sensation of heaviness on the chest, for several days, with dry cough. [N.g.]

1195. Contractive pain about the chest. [N.g.]

Painful screwing together in the chest, frequently, while moving. [Ng.]

Spasms of asthma, in the evening, in the warm room; she breathed with difficulty, and could not get air enough, with violent palpitation; worse from moving; it passed off from lying in bed.

Violent occasional spasm in the chest.

Extremely violent pain, in the evening, as if some one seized the chest deep within, and was trying to twist it around and lift it out, or to crush it and tear it asunder.

1200. Stitches in the chest, extending into the back (aft. 16 h.).

Stitches in the left side of the chest, when respiring, for several days.

Short stitches in the cardiac region.

Stitches in the cardiac region, or in the right side of the chest, at night, while lying on the back, at the slightest movement.

Stitches in the sternum.

1205. Violent stitches from the right side of the chest through the scrobiculus cordis and the stomach.

A stitch from the right side of the chest, extending into the scapula (4th. d.).

Lancinating, contractive pain in the muscles of the chest, which ache also when touched.

Stitches in the back at every breath.

Shooting pain in the sacral bone, at every expiration.

1210. Shooting in the chest, and in the muscles of the back.

Shooting or straining in the middle of the sternum, more externally. [Ng.]

Painful, frightening stitch into the right side of the chest. [Ng.]

Constant shooting, extending into the left side of the chest, causing a scream, only transiently relieved by taking a deep breath. [Ng.]

Cutting, deep in the chest, with burning, after walking in the open air. [Ng.]

1215. Startling cutting in the middle of the chest, down into the scrobiculus cordis. [Ng.]

Beating deep in the chest, at night. [Ng.]

Cracking in the sternum on moving.

Sensation of being heated, in the chest, in the morning on awaking.

Burning in the throat. and hot breath in the morning on awaking.

1220. Burning in the chest and intense warmth in the face.

Burning in the right side of the chest, quickly coming and going. [Ng.]

Burning and contraction on a small spot of the sternum, more on the outer side. [Ng.]

Sensation of cold in the chest and in the abdomen. [Ng.]

Sensation of cold in the chest, like a chilly tension.

1225. A strange movement in the cardiac region.

Beating in the sternum, as from an ulcer.

Shocks in the left side of the chest, toward the heart, arresting the breathing, with great thirst.

Crepitating pulsation in the left side of the chest, while sitting and lying, this ceases on holding the breath.

Quick and severe palpitation, in the evening, when going to sleep.

1230. Palpitation at any time during the day, without anxiety.
Palpitation with hardly any cause, without anguish, e. g. when lying down for the noon-day nap.

Violent palpitation at the moment of rising.

Palpitation every forenoon.

Anxious beating of the heart.

1235. Pressure in the cardiac region, toward evening.

Sensation as if the heart had not room enough.

Sensation of hollowness in the cardiac region.

Much rush of blood to the heart.

Rush of blood toward the chest, in the morning on awaking.

1240. Severe ebullition of blood toward the chest.

Violent ebullition of blood in the chest, like a boiling up, with qualmsiness even to fainting and trembling in the right arm.

Pain in the chest, as if sprained, with tightness.

The chest is painful on moving the arms.

The right ribs are painful, especially when touched.

1245. Pain in the sternum.

Shooting in the sternum, per se, and more yet when touched.

Shooting in the thoracic muscles, on moving the arm.

Pain in the upper part of the chest, as if he had fallen on it.

Bruised pain in the upper part of the chest, when touching it.

1250. Burning deep in the middle of the right clavicle, extending into the sternum. [Ng.]

Itching on the chest.

Erysipelas on the chest; it is inflamed, becomes red, hot and hard with red radiation, starting from the nipple, and with stitches therein.

Twitching in one of the breasts, which swelled up, as if milk would shoot in.

Pain in the sacrum, so that she could not stand up straight; she had to walk stooping.

1255. Severe pains in the sacrum, tensive as if everything was too short, only when stooping down; the pains passed over the abdomen into the scrobiculus cordis and into the knee.

Stitches in the sacrum.

Stitches transversely across the sacrum.

Pulsating stitches in the lumbar and renal region.

Severe tearing in the left loin on moving.

1260. Burning pain in the sacrum, near the anus.

Hard pressure in the sacrum, diminished while walking.

Pressure in the sacrum, disappearing while walking, returning while sitting.

Pain above the sacrum.

- Pain above the sacrum, while walking, not in sitting.
1265. Pressure in the sacrum, when standing in a stooping posture. Painful gnawing on a small spot of the sacrum; after pressing upon it, there is only a bruised pain. [Ng.]
Severe bruised pain in the sacrum and coccyx. [Ng.]
Painful stiffness in the sacrum; he can rise from his seat only with difficulty.
Pain in the sacrum, on rising from the seat.
1270. Sudden pain in the sacrum and the lower part of the back, as if sprained.
Drawing and weakness in the sacrum.
Drawing pain in the sacrum.
Cracking sound in the sacrum, extending to the anus.
Sudden violent sprained pain in the sacrum when sneezing, then drawing pain close to the spine, and extending thence to the left groin and the testes, especially painful on rising from the seat and in walking.
1275. Pain in the back, as if strained, on making a misstep.
Sprained pain in the region of the left side of the pelvis and between the scapulæ, while at rest, with unbearably painful jerks at the slightest movement.
Pains in the back and sacrum, as if beaten all over.
Bruised pain on a spot of the back.
Pain in the back when stooping.
1280. Severe pain in the renal region, after continued stooping.
Pain in the back, as after long-continued stooping.
Sensation of weariness on the left side of the back, on moving the arm, as after too great a strain on the parts.
Heaviness in the back, in the morning, as if he had lain in a wrong position, and weariness, as if he had not slept enough.
Stiff in the back and in the sides, as after taking cold.
1285. Stiffness, sometimes in the back, sometimes in the hip, painful when turning over in bed; he has then to hold his breath.
Stiffness in the back, after sitting.
Stiff in the back, when sitting for some time; this is diminished by walking.
Pressive pain in the back, below the scapulæ, in the evening.
Drawing in the spine, extending upwards, while stooping.
1290. Lancinating pain in the back, while walking.
Itching stitches on the back.
Growling, extending inside along the spine.
Hot streaming down on the back.
Burning and biting in the back.
1295. Tearing in the back.
Corrosive burning between the shoulders, under the right shoulder-joint, on the sacrum and on the natis, in the evening after lying down. [Ng.]
Burning on the back below the axilla. [Ng.]
Tearing in the left scapula, while sitting. [Ng.]
Tearing between the scapulæ, so also shooting, in the evening. [Ng.]

1300. Burning pain between the scapulæ.
 Burning between the scapulæ.
 Tensive aching between the scapulæ, when lying down and moving.
 Tension and bruised pain between the scapulæ and the nape, which, on moving the head, extends into the top of the shoulder. [Ng.]
 Tension between the scapulæ and on one side of the neck.
1305. Tensive pain in the left side of the back, on moving the arms.
 Drawing pain in the right scapula, in the evening, when going to sleep.
 Sprained pain in the right scapula, on moving the arm.
 Shooting pain in the left scapula, when resting oneself on the left arm.
 Several stitches under the scapula, arresting the breathing, and not allowing any stooping.
1310. Stiffness of the nape and paralytic sprained pain in the nape.
 Creaking sound in the cervical vertebræ, on bending the head backward and pressing it into the pillow.
 Cracking of the vertebræ in the nape.
 Tensive pain in the nape, and extending thence around above the eye, where there was a lancinating pain.
 Drawing twitching in the muscles of the nape. [Ng.]
1315. Tension and shooting in the nape, when sitting stooping forward; it goes off on stretching. [Ng.]
 Drawing pain in the nape and the scapulæ.
 Tearing and tension in the left side of the nape, before midnight, after awaking, with a sensation as if it was too short; on moving the head she had to cry out for pain; this was diminished during rest. [Ng.]
 Stitches in the nape when stooping. [Ng.]
 Inflammation and swelling of a gland in the nape, close to the hair of the head, with an itching sensation.
1320. Tetter in the nape.
 Constant perspiration in the nape, almost all the day, at times with a sensation of coldness and shivering, for fourteen days.
 Stiffness of the neck.
 Pain in the right side of the neck on bending the head to that side.
 Drawing pain on the right side of the neck.
1325. Pressure on the neck if she talks much.
 Pulsation in the arteries on the left side of the neck.
 Painful swelling, anteriorly on the outside of the neck. [Fr. H.]
 Itching on the neck.
 Heat-pimples on the neck.
1330. A swollen gland on the scutiform cartilage, is painful when touched.
 Swelling of the axillary glands.
 A swollen, humid gland under the right arm. [Ng.]
 Suppurating swelling of the axillary glands.

Perspiration of the axillæ.

1335. Very offensive smell of the perspiration of the axillæ.
Pinching, now in the left shoulder, then in the feet. [Ng.]
In the top of the shoulder, pain as from rheum.
Rheumatic pain in the top of the left shoulder.
Pain in the top of the right shoulder, when respiring.
[Fr. H.]
1340. Pressure on the top of the shoulder, as from a load, while walking in the open air.
Drawing pain in the shoulder-joint and in the arm.
Tearing, extending from the shoulder-joint down into the humerus.
Tearing in the top of the shoulders, or in the shoulder-joints, especially at night, with gnawing or severe bruised pain and shooting, first aggravated, then relieved by moving the arm. [Ng.]
Stitches under the right axilla. [Ng.] 1345. Tearing in the shoulder-joint while at rest, this goes off on moving. [Ng.]
Stitches, extending from the top of the shoulder in the chest, only while moving.
Stitches, extending from the shoulder-joint forward into the arm, on lying upon it, and during inspiration and expiration.
Beating in the left shoulder, seemingly in the bone. [Ng.]
Pain of the shoulder-joint, as if dislocated from a fall, especially at night, while lying down.
1350. The arms ache as if bruised.
The arm is asleep for twenty-four hours.
The arm frequently goes to sleep for a quarter of an hour, especially after working, he has to let them lie still.
Cramp in the arms, after midnight.
Pressure and drawing internally in the arm, more when moving than while at rest, especially on stretching or raising the arm.
1355. Drawing and tearing in the arms and hands.
Twitching drawing at night in bed, from one joint of the arm to the other, but more in the joints themselves.
Tearing, slow jerks down from the shoulder or elbow-joint through the limb, but most painful in the joint itself, compelling a frown and contraction of the eyes.
Tearing, and paralytic sensation in the right arm.
Tearing in the arm, unaffected by motion.
1360. Red, burning spots on the upper arm and the fore-arm (after washing with soap-water).
On the upper arm, a sensation as if something heavy hung upon it.
Weakness in the upper arm, so that she cannot raise it up.
Twitching pressure in the deltoid muscle of the upper arm.
[WALTHER.]
Tearing in the left humerus on the anterior surface. [Ng.]
1365. Straining shooting in the right upper arm. [Ng.]
Bruised pain in the left upper arm, which is sensitive also to external pressure. [Ng.]
Hard, hot swelling on the left upper arm, with shooting pain.

Below the bend of the elbow, a burning pain; on being touched, it feels as it were turgid or numb.

Bruised pain about the right elbow-joint, on raising something with the arm and on clenching the fist.

1370. Painful sharp drawing in the right elbow joint.

Pressure in the elbow-joint, on moving it.

Tearing from the elbow-joint up the upper arm and down the fore-arm; also while at rest.

Tearing in and above the right elbow-joint, while at rest; it goes off through moving the arm. [Ng.]

The tendons of the elbow-joint feel tense.

1375. Suppurating blisters on the bend of the elbow, with much itching.

In the fore-arm, slow, painful drawing, seemingly in the nerves, extending from the elbow into the wrist and back again.

Itching in the elbow-joints and the wrist-joints, and especially on the hands, chiefly in the evening; here and there little vesicles full of yellowish water show themselves.

Tension on a spot of the right fore-arm, as if the skin were being raised up with a needle; after rubbing it, this turns to itching. [Ng.]

Tearing in the bones of the fore-arm, at times relieved by pressing upon it and moving it. [Ng.]

1380. The right fore-arm feels as if gone to sleep and heavy. [Ng.]

The right fore-arm feels paralyzed and without any sensation, this goes off by rubbing; at night, while lying on the left side.

[Ng.]

Tearing in the knuckles of the hand.

Tearing pain in the wrist-joints.

Drawing on the hand, with alternate stitches.

1385. Painful stitches dart outward through the wrist-joint.

A sudden, burning stitch on the dorsum of the hand.

Tearing in the dorsum of the right hand, at times seeming to be in the bones, at other times in the tensor-tendons. [Ng.]

Sprained pain in the right wrist-joint, during rest and slight movements, but finally going off entirely through violent exercise.

[Ng.]

Pain in the wrist-joint, as if sprained.

1390. Stiffness of the wrists, especially in the morning, passing off during the day.

Burning in the hands.

Swollen veins on the hands.

Frequent swelling of the hands.

Formication in the hand, as from ants.

1395. The hands go to sleep, with formication, as soon as the hands are dipped into cold or warm water.

Weariness of the right hand, with tearing in the thumb.

There is no strength in the hands, in the morning, after rising; he has to make quite an effort to hold anything with them.

Trembling of the hands, while writing.

Trembling of the right hand, in the morning.

1400. Tremulous sensation in both hands.
A sort of anxiety in the hands; he has to grasp something.
Involuntary grasping with the hands, most in the afternoon.
[Fr. H.]
Sweaty hands.
Itching in the palms.
1405. Itching in the palms; he has to rub them, when they burn.
Itching, stinging burning in the palms; he has to rub them.
Itching eruption of vesicles on the dorsum of the hand
(4th d.).
Nettle-rash on the dorsum of the hand.
Redness and swelling of the hands and fingers, as if frozen, with itching in the evening and with tension on moving them.
1410. Hard, dry skin on the hands.
Chapped skin on the hands.
The skin of the hands chaps, almost without pain, especially where the fingers commence. [Fr. H.]
Fissures and cuts in the skin of the hands, especially in the joints, with sore pain.
The hands are chapped and rough like a grater, about the posterior knuckles of the fingers.
1415. A slight lesion on the finger becomes malignant, with pulsa-tion; later on a corroding blister forms, and the whole hand swells up, but without pain, except when touching it.
The tendons in the palms behind the first two fingers seem shortened, are hard to the touch and tense, so that he cannot spread his hand flat on the table.
In the fingers, drawing pain, in single, brief jerks, in the afternoon.
Cramp in the middle three fingers.
Involuntary twitching of the fingers. [Fr. H.]
1420. Tearing in the fingers. [Also Ng.]
Tearing in the posterior joint of the thumb, extending into the metacarpal joint and the middle of the dorsum of the hand.
[Ng.]
Tearing shooting behind the nail of the left ring-finger, as if a needle was pushed in, especially violent in the evening. [Ng.]
Sensation of cramp, of a bruise and of swelling in the middle joint of the third and fourth finger (during the menses). [Ng.]
Pinching and pressure on the ball of the left little finger, every five minutes; on resting the elbow on something it radiates up into the arm, with a chill; during the day, the pain changes into severe stitches, also with a chill, while all his limbs felt heavy as after severe exertions.
1425. Constant burning, tearing stitch on the dorsum of the middle finger.
A burning jerk in the left middle finger.
Burning in the balls of the fingers (in the forenoon).
Burning in the finger-tips.
Sprained pain in the posterior joint of the thumb.
1430. Pain in the flexor side of the right middle finger, as from a splinter piercing it.

Stitches in the finger-tips.

Tingling and pricking in the finger-tips, very painful; worse when the arm hangs down.

The last two fingers go to sleep, in the evening in bed.

Numbness of the little finger, for some time.

‡435. Both the little fingers are numb and go to sleep.

The sensibility of the fingers dies away, in the morning; they become void of blood, with loss of color and tingling therein, while the skin shrivels up at the tips, for two hours, three days in succession.

Dying off of the fingers, in the forenoon.

Coldness of the fingers. [Fr. H.]

Severe swelling of the middle three fingers on both hands.

[Fr. H.]

‡440. Thick, stiff, red finger-joints, as if frozen, with tingling therein.

Swelling of the fingers, in the morning.

Thick, red chilblains on the fingers, itching severely in the warmth.

Peeling off of the fingers (the epidermis peels off in round spots).

Profuse sweat between the fingers.

‡445. Pain in the finger-tips, in the morning, as if a nail was cut too short.

Many agnails on the fingers.

Paronychia (panaritium) on the fingers, twice in succession.

The right natis is painful.

When he sits for a long time the whole fundament and the ossa ischii become painful.

‡450. Itching erosion on the nates.

In the hip-joint, a tensive pain when walking.

Severe pain in the right hip-joint, at the slightest motion in bed, as if dislocated, so that he cannot tread in the morning, nor walk; also pain when touched.

Frequent twitching, deep in the left hip; it passes off on moving. [Ng.]

Bruised pain in the right hip, on sitting down and on moving the body to one side. [Ng.]

‡455. Pain in the hip, only when moving and when touching it, as if he was beaten black and blue there, or had fallen on it.

Pain in the ossa ischii, so that she could neither sit nor lie down, also when touched, it felt as if festering; on rising from the seat, the thigh felt as if fallen asleep, with pinching on the os ischii.

Cramplike, sudden, very painful jerks about the hip-joint.

Drawing pain in the left hip.

Nettle rash below the hip.

‡460. In the lower limbs, a drawing pain, in the morning and evening in bed.

Severe tearing in the lower limb, from the heel into the thigh, and into the hip-joint; worst in the knee-joint, while standing; walking relieved and finally removed it altogether. [Ng.]

Violent tearing in the right lower limb and the hip-joint, in paroxysms, in the evening while walking; nor could she without pain remain sitting on a low seat without stretching out the limb.

Bruised pain in the lower limbs, after walking in the open air.

Restlessness in the lower limbs, so that she could not remain in the room, for two evenings, till bed-time.

1465. Dry heat in the lower limbs.

Coldness in the left lower limb.

The right lower limb feels numb, even while lying down.

Sensation, while lying down, as if he could not raise up the one leg, while yet he could do so.

Often while sitting, he has no sensation in his lower limbs; they are, as it were, asleep.

1470. The left lower limb is asleep, for an hour, two evenings in succession.

Both lower limbs are asleep, in the morning in bed, with great heaviness.

Heaviness in the lower limbs; and tension in the knees and thighs, more at night than by day.

Painful heaviness of the lower limbs.

Heaviness and weariness of the lower limbs, in the morning in bed; this passed off at once on rising.

1475. Heaviness and weariness of the lower limbs after short walks.

Extreme weariness of the lower limbs when walking, almost as if paralyzed.

Humming of the lower limbs, as if from weariness.

Sensation of anxiety and weakness in the whole of the right lower limb, when walking.

Weakness in the lower limbs, so that she could scarcely walk, and pain, as if there was no marrow in the bones.

1480. Sudden weakness of the lower limbs, especially of the legs, after taking a short walk.

In the thigh, a sort of lameness, seemingly in the hip, above the nates.

Twitching in both the thighs, seemingly in the bone. [Ng.]

Cramp in the right thigh.

Formicating itching on the inner side of the thigh. [Fr. H.]

1485. Dry heat in the thighs and the sacrum, while the back is cold.

Pain in the posterior muscles in the thighs, while sitting down.

The thighs feel as if tied together with a bandage.

Twitching in the thigh and leg.

Drawing pain in the thigh.

1490. Violent tearing in the right thigh, from the knee to the crest of the ilium, and then a bruised exhaustion of the whole body.

Tearing in the thighs, also in the bones, frequently extending into the knee, mostly relieved by walking. [Ng.]

Shooting and burning on the inner side of the left thigh, relieved by rubbing. [Ng.]

Bruised pain on the outer side of the thigh, also when touching it.

Violent pain in the thigh, at night, as after a blow.

1495. Pain on the inner side of the right thigh as if wounded, in the evening.

Soreness between the thighs, especially when walking in the open air.

Itching pimples on the inner side of the thighs.

Pain in the knee, as from stiffness, when rising from the seat.

Stiffness in the houghs.

1500. Rigidity in the knees.

Sensation in the knees as if they were grasped with both hands, in the evening. [Ng.]

Tension in the knees, on rising from the seat, while walking, and especially while going up stairs.

Tension in the right knee, so that he cannot stretch his lower limb.

Straining in the houghs, when treading, as if too short.

1505. The tendons of the lower limbs feel too short, when standing.

Tension in the houghs, extending to the foot.

While in bed, the knees are several times spasmodically bent and stretched out again. [Fr. H.]

Violent, cramp-like pressure in the hough, extending to the ankle, chiefly while sitting, twice a day, for an hour at a time, in the afternoon, attended with great weariness and straining headache.

Pressure on the left patella, while sitting and walking.

1510. Pressure in the knee-joint, on moving it.

Dull shooting pressure on a very small point in the extreme tip of the knee.

Tearing in the left knee, only while walking. [Ng.]

Tearing externally in the left patella, disappearing by continued walking. [Ng.]

In the evening, tearing and sprained pain in the left knee, only while treading; after lying down it disappears, but it returns in the morning. [Ng.]

1515. Shooting in the right knee.

Shooting in the knee and the tibia (3d d.).

Shooting in the right knee, only while standing, then in the left wrist.

Shooting pains in the knees.

Long stitches in the knee, causing shivering and starting.

1520. Shooting in the knee at the least motion (there is a crunching sound in it) and when going up stairs, but hardly at all while walking on a level.

Glowing burning stitch in the left hough, so that she was startled. [Ng.]

Paralytic weakness in the knee, as if strained, on going down stairs.

Weariness in the knees, especially in the forenoon; after going up one flight of stairs there is a burning in the joints.

Bruised pain of the knee, on rising from the seat and bending them.

1525. Weary pain in the knee-joints.

Sensation of weariness in the knees, in the morning in bed.

Looseness in the knees, as if they would give way.

The knees give way in walking.

Cracking sound in the knees (2d d.).

1530. Itching about the knees.

The leg is, as it were, asleep and burns and tingles, when rising.

Coldness and cold feeling of the legs, in the evening.

Swollen veins on the legs.

Trembling and weariness, shooting and tearing in both legs, from the knees into the feet; when sitting, there is more tearing; when walking, there is shooting and tension, while the toes are icy cold.

1535. Tearing in the legs, from the knees to the feet, while walking and sitting.

Tearing in both legs, extending up to the middle of the thighs.

[Ng.]

Tearing from the knees to the toes, with heaviness of the feet, so that she can hardly drag them along.

Bruised pain on the inner part of the legs, near the tibiæ, when touched, as if the flesh was detached from the bones; in the evening.

Tendency to cramp in the leg, when stretching the foot.

1540. The calves are very painful when going up stairs.

Shooting pain in the right calf.

Drawing, alternately in the calf, in the tibia, and in the sole of the foot.

Grasping drawing in the calves, while sitting; relieved by walking. [Ng.]

Glowing burning and boring in the right calf, in the evening.

[Ng.]

1545. Weary pain in the calves, at night, only in bed. [Ng.]

Clucking, extending down the left calf, as from drops of water. [Ng.]

Tearing, with shooting to and fro, from the calves into the toes, in the evening; when standing and when sitting down, the feet twitched within, with a tremulous sensation all over the body, heaviness and tearing all over the back, chill without thirst, with red cheeks, unattended with heat there; then it extended to the scrobiculus cordis, with tension and contraction below the ribs, with oppressed breathing and many stitches in the whole of the chest and in the epigastrium.

Contractive pain in the calf.

Straining, tension and contractive pain in the calves, as if they were sewed together.

1550. Cramp in the calves, even while walking, when the calf aches, as if too short.

Severe cramp in the calves, in the morning in bed.

Cramp in the calves while dancing.

Tremulous sensation in the calves, while standing.

Swelling of the calves.

1555. The feet are icy cold in the evening until bed time.

Cold feet, all the day and the evening, till going to bed.

Coldness in the soles of the feet.

The feet are always cold, she cannot get them warm in the evening in bed.

The soles of the feet become soft, sensitive and painful in walking.

1560. The soles of the feet are painful, when treading and walking, as if they were festered.

Still pain in the soles of the feet.

Severe, momentary pain in the left heel.

Straining in the soles of the feet, as if too short, in treading.

Tension in the hollow of the foot.

1565. Straining about the ankles in walking.

Tension in the right foot on moving the toes.

Cramp in the soles of the feet at every step.

Stiffness in the ankle-joint, about the ankles.

Drawing in the feet and up into the hip, with cracking of the joints at every motion.

1570. Drawing on the outer side of the heel, in the evening after lying down. [Ng.]

Drawing pain in the soles of the feet, in the morning, in bed; also when treading, there was a severe pain in them.

Painless twitching in the soles of both feet; it goes off through motion. [Ng.]

Tearing in the sole of the right foot; it goes off by rubbing, in the evening. [Ng.]

Tearing in the right foot.

1575. Tearing in the right heel, for half an hour.

Tearing and shooting in the sore foot, at night.

Shooting in the right foot.

Severe stitches on the tendo Achillis almost every five minutes.

Shooting below the left ankle, even while at rest, but more yet when stretching out the foot, and also at the least motion; it impedes his walking.

1580. Stitches in the sole of the foot.

Stitches in the ball of the right foot.

Shooting in the right heel, as from a splinter.

Squeezing shooting in the dorsum of the right foot, worse when moving.

Shooting tingling in the right heel.

1585. Beating as from the jumping of a mouse, on the outer border of the right foot. [Ng.]

Sudden, burning stitch on the dorsum of the left foot.

Cutting in the heel, extending to the hollow of the foot.

Burning across the dorsum of the foot.

- Burning and itching in the soles of the feet, especially intolerable while walking.
1590. Burning in the soles of the feet, in treading after sitting for awhile.
- Severe burning in the hollow of the left sole in the evening. [Ng.]
- Burning pinching in the ankle-joint; after friction the burning augments.
- Swelling of the feet in the warmth of the bed; it goes off outside the bed.
- Swelling of the right foot on walking in the open air.
1595. Swelling on the ankle, with sprained pain on moving.
- Pain, as from a misstep, in the left ankle, both when standing and walking.
- The ankle gives way in treading, as if dislocated.
- The foot gives way in walking.
- The ankle tends to give way especially when going down stairs.
1600. The ankle joint cracks when it is moved.
- Numbness and formication in the sole of the foot; it goes off through rubbing. [Ng.]
- The sole of the left foot goes to sleep, in the evening. [Ng.]
- Great heaviness in the feet, especially in the ankle.
- Beating in the hollow of the sole of the foot, in the evening, with severe burning for an hour.
1605. Sweat in the sole of the foot.
- Cold sweat on the sole of the left foot.
- Cold sweat of the feet.
- Blue spots and varices about the ankles.
- Eruption of pimples around the ankles.
1610. Ulcerating vesicles on the soles of the feet.
- In the toes, cramp, on stretching the feet.
- Cramp and contraction of the toes, with bruised pain; improved by strong pressure; during the menses. [Ng.]
- Tearing in the posterior joint of the right big toe. [Ng.]
- Stitches anteriorly in the left big toe. [Ng.]
1615. Stitches in the tips of the toes, while sitting and lying.
- Fine stitches in the middle and the big toes.
- Pressive pain and aching of the inner side of the nail of the big toe.
- Pain of the nail of the big toe.
- Dull pain in the ball of the left toe.
1620. Inflammation and swelling of the big toe, with pain.
- Swelling of the toes.
- Itching in the toes formerly frozen (the first days).
- Between the toes, white, painful pimples.
- The corns ache, as if pressed by tight shoes.
1625. Frequent violent shooting in the corns.
- Shooting burning in the corn, while wearing large shoes.
- Inflammation of the corns, with pain.
- The limbs go to sleep at once on lying down.

The limbs are apt to go to sleep, as also the cervical muscles, the scalp, the nates and the feet, especially when lying down.

1630. Pressure in the upper and lower limbs, as if they would go to sleep.

Drawing pain in the limbs, in the evening.

Straining in the limbs, almost like drawing.

A pain that had passed away six weeks before, caused by a contusion (on the chest), is renewed as a pressive pain, especially in the evening.

Drawing in the knee, the arm and the shoulder, for a few moments.

1635. Tearing in the back, in the knees and the legs, in the evening in bed.

Sudden tearing or jerks, here and there in the body. [Ng.]

Drawing pain in the abdomen and in all the limbs, in the arms for hours, and in the thighs for days.

Severe drawing and tearing through the knees and the tibæ, especially in the evening; she knows not where to lay her lower limbs.

The drawing (tearing) pains in the limbs are aggravated under feather-beds, so as to be unbearable.

1640. External warmth diminishes the pains, coldness increases them. [Ng.]

Most of the ailments only arise while at rest, and pass off on moving the suffering part, or when walking. [Ng.]

The ailments, especially those of the head and stomach, appear in the open air, while walking.

Bruised feeling in the limbs in the morning, just after rising.

Bone-pains in the limbs, when touched, as if the flesh was detached.

1645. She feels worst while standing. [Ng.]

Cracking in the knees and the elbows.

Pinching here and there in the muscles.

Uncomfortable sensation, as if her whole body was pushed out of its natural shape.

Queer, pressive sensation through all the body.

1650. Tension in all the limbs, as if they were too short; he had to stretch.

Tensive aching in all the limbs, and in the tendons of the feet, after a short walk.

After a short walk at noon, palpitation and trembling of the hands.

Formication on the skin of the whole of the body.

Stinging pricking on the skin of the whole body, in the evening, after getting warm in bed.

1655. Burning on the hands and feet, with weakness and weariness of the whole body.

Stinging on the skin of the cheeks, the top of the shoulder and of the thighs.

Shooting itching, especially when walking in the open air.

Burning on the skin all over the body.

The itching spot pains after scratching.

1660. After slight rubbing, the skin aches much and for a long time, as if bare of skin and eroded.
 Biting, as of fleas, in the evening, after lying down and at night, impeding sleep; after scratching, it always appears in another place. [Ng.]
 Offensively tingling itching, with pain of the spot after scratching.
 Itching burning on various parts; after scratching there was a sore pain.
 The itching spot bleeds and stings after scratching.
1665. Itching, worst at night, and in the morning in bed, after awaking.
 Itching in the axillæ and houghs.
 Itching in various parts of the body, mostly going off after scratching, at times with shooting or also with burning afterwards. [Ng.]
 After scratching the spot becomes, as it were, hot.
 Eruption on the skin.<sup>1</sup> [Hufel. Journ., Vol. III, p. 733.]
1670. Miliary rash all over the body, with itching stinging.
 Miliary rash all over the body, with severe itching, then peeling off of the skin.
 Severely gnawing miliary rash in the face, on the arms and legs.
 Nettle-rash with fever (26th d.).
 Itching blotches all over the body, on the hands and feet (aft. 35 d.).
1675. Eruption, with burning itching.
 Red (itching) pimples, which at times burn after scratching, on the nose, the upper lip, around the chin and on the fore-arms. [Ng.]
 Pimples, without sensation, on the back, after severe itching in the evening. [Ng.]
 Eruption, as is wont to arise after varioloid
 Hepatic spots on back and chest, itching in the evening.
1680. The old herpes begin to itch severely; he has to scratch them till they bleed (aft. 9 d.).
 Scaly eruption of herpes, which had been repelled by external application, reappears, with violent itching, burning after scratching. [Whl.]
 An old wart (below the eye), begins to sting and tickle (aft. 5 d.).
 The skin chaps here and there, especially in the open air.
 Furuncle.
1685. Ulcers in the intestines.<sup>2</sup> [ANDOYNUS.]
 Profuse bleeding of old ulcers.
 Tensive pain in an ulcer.
 The ulcer on the nail begins to be very fetid.
 The pus of the (scurfy) ulcer smells sour.

<sup>1</sup> From local application.—Hughes.

<sup>2</sup> Put forth only hypothetically by Andoynus.—Hughes.

1690. A little cut commences to ache, first with erosive, then with burning pain, and then becomes inflamed, with a beating pain.

Single twitches of one hand and one foot, by day.

Muscular twitching, here and there, as if excited by electricity.

Repeated cramplike twitching in the whole body, after supper, with pain in the back and then also in the right side of the abdomen.

Attack of epilepsy, after a fright, or after a quick run.

1695. Attack of epilepsy, darting from the back or from the arm, like a mouse, drew the mouth to the left and the right, went about painfully in the abdomen, then it turned the left arm, with a clenched thumb; then trembling in the right arm; then it tossed the whole body, shaking it up and down with very short breath, which, after the attack, became even shorter; she screamed in her attack, but could not speak (aft. 12 d.).

Attack, while going across the street; sudden rising into her head, and things become black before her eyes; she walks backward about fifteen steps, then suddenly sits down, as if she had fallen on the stones, as if unconscious, and allows herself to be conducted home just as unconsciously; then she becomes, as it were, stiff in all her joints.

After being washed, the child lets its head hang to the side, and after straightening it, on the other side, the face and lips become pale, the eyes stare for two minutes, then it sneezes, firmly closes for a moment mouth and eyes, and lets the mucus run from the mouth; subsequently a sweet sleep (aft. 3 d.).

Attack of obscuration of the sight, when walking in the open air, with violent pressure and beating in the head, nausea and weariness (6th d.).

Attack of stitches in the sacrum, which take away the breath, with pain in the head and nape, followed by frequently alternating chill and heat, with anxiety about the scrobiculus cordis, until evening.

1700. Attack, toward evening, of much eructation, with nausea, relaxation of the body, severe rolling in the abdomen and discharge of flatus.

Chilliness, owing to disagreeable news; then she could hardly get warm during the night in bed.

Talking fatigues her very much and excites pain with her.

Twitching and jerking of all the limbs, while he bites his teeth together, and moans softly, for eight minutes; then a slumber for a quarter of an hour, then again jerks and spasmodic drawing in the limbs, after which he is very much fatigued. [Fr. H.]

The body is tossed up high, as in violent twitchings. [Fr.

H.]

1705. Concussion through the whole body, in the evening in bed, like shivering passing over the skin.

Quivering sensation in the arms and lower limbs.

Inclination in the hands and toes to stretch and contract.

Great restlessness, which does not allow him to sit for any

- length of time; also in lying down, he has to continually move his feet.
- Intense ebullition of blood, and burning in the hands.
1710. Restlessness in the blood, with swollen veins on the hands.
 Dry heat in the body, every room is too hot for him.
 Internal heat with thirst.
 Frequent flying, quickly transient flushes of great heat.
 Sensation of heat all over the interior of the body; it burns upward in her chest; but without any thirst; she has to compel herself to drink.
1715. Unsteady in walking and tremulous in the hands, in the afternoon.
 Trembling of the limbs, especially of the hands.
 Severe trembling of the left scapula, the arm and the hand, in the forenoon.
 Tremulous sensation through the whole body, in the morning, but attended with warmth.
 Chilliness.
1720. Frequent chilliness.
 Very much disposed to catch cold.
 The child is extremely sensitive to the open air, and is unwilling to go out (the first days).
 When moving more violently, greater excitement and passionateness.
 After walking in the open air, intense palpitation.
1725. While walking in the afternoon, headache and weariness; in the evening it passes over into toothache and drowsiness (aft. 8 d.).
 After walking, nausea and exhaustion, with trembling of the limbs.
 While walking in the open air, dry, short cough.
 The open air makes him feel as chilly as if he were naked.
 While walking in the open air, profuse perspiration.
1730. Profuse perspiration while sitting; no sweat at night.
 Profuse sweat at the slightest motion or manual labor.
 At the slightest movement, inclination to perspire.
 While sitting, reading, writing, speaking and walking, great tendency to perspire.
 At the least exertion, drops of perspiration in the face.
1735. In the morning in bed, perspiration in the face and nape, and bruised feeling in the limbs on rising.
 Very heavy and fatigued in the limbs, from morning till evening.
 Lack of tone, all day.
 The strength failed him in his upper and lower limbs, somewhat like fainting; he was near losing consciousness (7th d.).
 Swoon, for a quarter of an hour.
1740. He felt heavy in all his limbs.
 Always weary and fatigued.
 Fatigued, as after an illness.
 Weariness in the feet.
 Weariness, disappearing while walking.

1745. On lying down, weakness, even to fainting.
 Very much exhausted, weary and averse to work, she is indisposed to everything, even to talking. [Ng.]
 After walking a while, all weariness has disappeared from the limbs, but this returns in the room, only more faintly. [Ng.]
 Weariness of the limbs, so that she trembled at every movement. [Ng.]
 Trembling of the hands and feet, with great exhaustion. [Ng.]
1750. Lack of vital force, like an internal coldness; almost always attended with chills alternating with heat; pale complexion with blue rims about the eyes; afraid of heat when it is cold, and afraid of cold when it is hot.
 Quite weary and tremulous after walking (subsequent to smoking cigars).
 He is very much fatigued by a short walk.
 After slight exertion he is breathless and weary, with constant inflation of the abdomen and repeated swelling of the feet.
 In the afternoon, swoon and vertigo, with much vomiting and perspiration.
1755. Heavy feet when walking in the open air, when going on they become lighter.
 Walking is hard for her; the feet refuse to carry her; it feels as if there was a load on them; attended with tension on the chest.
 Weary and dejected, in the afternoon.
 So tired from driving, that he cannot recover from it; he slept all day after it.
 Very tired in the afternoon; he had always to sit down, having no strength for walking.
1760. Spasmodic, incessant yawning, in the evening before going to sleep.
 Frequent yawning and stretching, without drowsiness. [Ng.]
 Very weary and drowsy, all the day.
Much yawning and drowsiness by day.
 Frequent yawning and cold hands.
1765. Irresistible sleepiness by day, she cannot keep from going to sleep while sitting at her work.
 He cannot keep from sleeping for several hours during the day.
 Inevitable sleepiness by day; as soon as he sits down he falls asleep.
Drowsiness in the afternoon.
 Very weary and sleepy every afternoon from 2 to 3 o'clock.
1770. In the evening, very sleepy, as soon as the light comes on the table, she has to sleep.
 In the evening, for an hour, almost constant yawning, and an unconquerable weariness.
 Long sleep; he has to compel himself to get up in the morning.
 He sleeps too much, and is, nevertheless, unrefreshed in the morning.
 Not refreshed in the morning through the night's sleep.

1775. Without any inclination of getting up in the morning.
Drowsy till eight o'clock in the morning, with indisposition for work.
In the morning he feels as after a debauch, the eyes are swollen, there is an inclination to stretch.
For many mornings, for half an hour, very lazy, with pain in the back and the lower limbs, so that she has to sit down often.
In the morning it is hard for him to get up.
1780. Deep sleep toward morning, without any visible respiration.
In the morning on awaking, heat in the face, with nausea.
In the morning, on rising, heaviness in the back and lower limbs.
She is very sleepy at night, and her eyes close, as if heavy, but she can in no way get to sleep, though nothing is the matter with her. She cannot go to sleep before twelve, then she awakes frequently and tosses about.
She cannot go to sleep before 12 at night, then wakes up often and tosses about.
1785. She cannot fall asleep in bed in the evening for an hour, but without feeling any ailment.
She has difficulty in falling asleep, and wakes up every hour.
[Ng.]
Difficulty in falling asleep, owing to a rush of ideas. [Ng.]
She frequently awakes from a sound sleep without cause. [Ng.]
He cannot get to sleep before midnight, owing to great unrest. [Ng.]
1790. He wakes up at night every half hour, and can only sleep a few hours toward morning.
Difficulty in getting to sleep, with tendency to perspiration.
Sleepless the whole night and wide awake.
He often is half awake at night, and does not fully wake up, but he can think and he feels cold in bed.
He wakes up early every night, at 3 o'clock and cannot go to sleep again.
1795. Sleeplessness, as if from over-excitement and restlessness.
She does not sleep a quarter of an hour during the night, though she is tired
Sleepless and wide awake all night, as in daytime,
Restless tossing about, at night in bed.
Frequent turning over at night in bed without awaking.
1800. Too wide awake in the evening, the blood rose to his head and the night was sleepless.
Ideas about a business already finished, involuntarily press upon her again in the evening.
In the evening, while slightly occupied, she perspired for a short time, and afterward had a waking dream, as if she had a dress on her, which she had to be very careful not to soil.
Loud talking in sleep about conversations had during the day.
Restless nights, he awakes every time in a fright, as from a fearful dream, and was occupied, even after awaking, with anxious fancies, as of spectres, and he could not rid himself of them. (WALTHER.)

1805. Restless sleep, full of dreams; he talks wildly in his sleep, before midnight, as if in anxious delirium.

She imagines that she has really experienced things which she has only dreamt.

She dreams at night mostly such things as she actually sees the next day.

She starts up when going to sleep in the evening in bed, twice in succession.

At night when falling asleep he is much startled by an imaginary noise, causing a fright to pass all through his body.

1810. She frequently starts up anxiously from her sleep.

Much startled when going to sleep.

Starts up from the noon-nap.

Twitches in the foot, while slumbering. [Ng.]

At night, violent headache, disturbing the sleep, she cannot rest in any position. [Ng.]

1815. In the morning, awaking with the head in a dizzy, muddled condition.

At night, on awaking, muddled feeling in the head.

He is frequently awakened at night by beating of the blood in the head, then also in the chest.

At night, when turning over in bed, severe palpitation.

At night, he blows blood from his nose.

1820. At night, digging in the forehead.

At night, burning in the mouth, with thirst.

At night, after awaking, compressive pain in the stomach, it goes off through bending the body double.

At night, pressure in the stomach, for an hour, relieved by eructation.

At night, oppressive pressure in the scrobiculus cordis, with palpitation; lasting for hours, for several nights.

1825. After midnight, pressure in the stomach and a beating headache.

At night, on awaking, vertigo.

At night, while perspiring, vertigo and nausea, so that everything seemed to turn around with her, lasting till morning.

At night, pain in the front teeth.

At night he often wakes up with nausea, but without vomiting.

1830. About midnight she is awakened by shooting and cutting in the abdomen.

Nocturnal flatulent colic, with retching anguish and muddled feeling of the head.

At night, sharp stitches in the abdomen, and then frequent discharge of flatus.

At night, spasmodic pressure in the hypogastrium.

At night, sudden contractive pains in the abdomen.

1835. At night, while lying in bed, pressure and squeezing downward in the abdomen, awaking her.

At night, while lying in bed, protrusion of the umbilical

- region in a pregnant woman, as if caused by the uterus, in fits of several minutes (aft. 14 d.).
- At night, perspiration all over the abdomen, extending to the groin, while the feet up to the ankles are cold, and there is a dull cutting in the soles of the feet.
- At night, while asleep, a humor flowed from the anus, and then also fæces.
- In the evening in bed, asthmatic.
1840. At night, attacks of failing of the breath.
- At night, oppression of the chest, as if a heavy load lay upon it, which pressed upon him as soon as he moved; he had to sit up.
- He awakes in the morning with rawness on the chest.
- At night, shocks in the left side of the chest, toward the heart, taking away her breath, with great thirst (aft. 3 d.).
- In the evening, just after lying down, tussiculation for an hour, making her hot; she waked up from it again at three o'clock.
1845. At night, expectoration of blood, with fatty, sweetish taste in the mouth.
- In the evening, in bed, after turning over several times, the heart-beat is quickened.
- Several nights, severe pains in the back, with bruised feeling in the sacrum, so that she cannot sleep, with great ebullition in the blood.
- At night, severe pain in the hip-joint; he cannot tread; it is also painful when touched.
- In the evening in bed, painless jerks in the sacrum.
1850. The whole night, a pressive pain in the thigh.
- At night in bed, tearing in the thigh and leg; she could not get warm in bed.
- At night he has to lay his lower limbs outside of the bed on account of tearing pains.
- At night there was a tearing in both feet, which then felt rigid, robbing him of all sleep.
- At night in bed, shooting in the corn.
1855. At night, cramp in the calves, when stretching the lower limb.
- At night in bed, heat in the feet, with a burning sensation, so that she had to uncover them for several hours; then restlessness, itching and formication; she had to rub them.
- At night, tossing in bed, with hot feet.
- At night in bed, for two hours, a tickling formication in the left arm and lower limb, forcing him to draw them up repeatedly.
- At night much extending and stretching the body.
1860. When sleeping he lays his arms over his head.
- Snoring in sleep.
- Sleeping with eyes half-open. [Whl.]
- At night in bed, palpitation.
- Unintelligible murmuring in sleep. [Whl.]
1865. At night, while half awake, a sensation as if everything in the body trembled and pulsated.
- In the evening in bed (at full moon) great anxiety.

At night, awaking with great anguish and heat all over, and with the sensation of a convulsive state in the body.

After midnight, the sleep is restless; she dreams that she has fever and awakes in full perspiration, with great heat, especially in the face, so that she could not bear to be covered in bed, with great thirst and a shaking chill, which was aggravated on moving, even to chattering of the teeth.

Restless sleep, or frequent awaking at night, followed by chilliness without heat. [Ng.]

1870. Unconscious screaming in sleep; she imagined she was black, etc. [Ng.]

Screaming in sleep. [Also Ng.]

He laments and moans in sleep.

At night, great heat, alternating with chill.

Frightful dream, as if a dog bit him.

1875. Vivid, anxious dreams.

Frightful dreams, about a fire, all night.

Anxious dreams, as if fire fell down from heaven.

Anxious dream, as if something would crush him (night-mare).

Dreams every night, sometimes anxious, sometimes indifferent.

1880. Anxious dreams after midnight, every night.

Frightful anxious dreams, every night.

Frightening, anxious dreams of mortal danger and about the dead. [Ng.]

Frightful dreams, as if he was falling from a height.

Annoying, anxious dreams.

1885. Dreams full of loathing, and on awaking, nausea.

The first three nights he walked from his bed asleep, like a somnambulist, as if unconscious, and said: "My head, my head! I am delirious!" and seized his forehead; after walking about a while, it ceased.

Anxious dreams, in which she rose unconscious from her bed; then violent headache (aft. 3, 4 d.).

Anxious dream, before midnight; she gets up and walks in her sleep; she believes that there is a fire, dresses, talks out at the window, and is frightened when she hears that it is nothing; then for three days she is exhausted and as it were bruised.

Many and vivid dreams at night, and frequent awaking.

1890. Before going to sleep, ridiculous fancies in a half dream; she laughs aloud; for many evenings.

For three nights in succession, he lay in raving phantasies and talked aloud, whatever his fancy brought before him, with open eyes.

As soon as he closes his eyes there appear dream-images.

In the evening in bed, when she closes her eyes, there appear horrible, grotesque larvæ, of which she cannot rid herself (aft. 4 h.).

At night, on awaking, an arithmetical number appeared before his fancy, it expanded and the strokes in it became of the thickness of a quarter of a yard; when lying on the other side it vanished.

1895. Fear that he might catch cold in the open air; he does not know whether this fear comes from his fancy or from his body.

In the evening, in bed, before going to sleep, chilliness and then heat.

Much chill, at night.

Shivering at the least movement in bed.

Brief chill, every afternoon, then heat with thirst, with cold feet and sweat in the face and the hands, with dry cough at night, as soon as he gets into bed.

1900. Formicating shiver over the skin, without chill.

Transient chill on the chest, the arms and the back.

Coldness of the nose, the hand and the feet.

Sensation of coldness for several hours, without chill; then heat with little thirst, slight perspiration, with headache and hoarseness, great weariness and lack of appetite.

Sensation of coldness through all the limbs, without subsequent heat, in the forenoon.

1905. Chill extending up the back, in the evening, for an hour, without subsequent heat.

Internal chill, frequently without thirst.

Chill, at night in bed, for four hours, preceded by colic, attended with heat without perspiration; but the following night, profuse perspiration.

Chill every evening, not removed by the warmth of the stove; in the bed, there is great warmth and every morning sourish perspiration.

Chill with diarrhoea, for several hours. [Fr. H.]

1910. Shaking chill, in the evening, and intense paleness of the face.

Often in the evening a shaking chill.

In the evening from 7 to 8 o'clock, a shaking chill without thirst, with cold hands and severe pressure in the stomach, as from heaviness; later on again, the usual warmth with thirst.

Chill and coldness in the whole body, in the evening from 5 to 6 o'clock, also from the afternoon till evening. [Ng.]

Chill from 9 A. M. till 5 P. M. [Ng.]

1915. A thrill of chill creeps up the back, removed by the warmth of the stove, in the evening. [Ng.]

Chill, with thirst, also in the warmth of the stove, after dinner, till 4 p. m. [Ng.]

Chill, and, later on, shivering all over the body, seemingly from the toes upward, without subsequent heat or thirst, from 4 till 6 P. M. [Ng.]

Chill with headache, in the evening; it goes off after lying down. [Ng.]

A chill runs continually up her back from the sacrum, without subsequent heat or thirst, from 6 to 8 P. M. [Ng.]

1920. Chilly, at night in bed, especially on the abdomen, she cannot get warm. [Ng.]

Chill, with perceptible heat, with frequent shivering, almost every half hour. [Ng.]

Chill and shaking, from 5 to 6 P. M.; then, after lying down, heat on the hands and the soles of the feet, soon passing off, without thirst. [Ng.]

Chill and coldness in the whole body, from 10 A. M. till 6 P. M.; she had to go to bed, where the chill ceased; then burning heat in the palms, and finally warmth of the whole body except the head, for one hour, without any thirst. [Ng.]

Chilliness with thirst, without subsequent heat, in the afternoon. [Ng.]

1925. Shivering from the feet up over the back, extending into the arms, at 6 P. M., for half an hour. [Ng.]

Shivering all over the body, from 8 to 9 P. M. till bed-time, without subsequent heat or thirst. [Ng.]

In the evening, first shivering, then heat in the face and the hands, with thirst.

Awakes at night with febrile shivering and, nevertheless, is warm to the touch; then some heat.

Much sensation of heat, in the afternoon; then she became warmer, but the feet remained cold.

1930. Chilly, in the forenoon; in the afternoon, sensation of heat, though she was cold to the touch.

Shivering in the morning, at eight o'clock, for five to eight minutes.

Chilliness for one hour, at 10 A. M., then rest till 3 P. M., when there ensued heat in the head and hands, with thirst for beer; repeated for several days.

In the afternoon, the hands and feet are quite cold, then a shaking chill with blue face; then heat and perspiration till half past nine o'clock.

In the evening, chilliness; at night, a slight perspiration.

1935. Severe chill, in the evening in bed, then raving fancies, then heat and profuse perspiration.

Severe chill from 7 P. M. through the night and the following day (aft. 33 d.).

Chill at 5½ P. M., then heat, then again chill with some thirst, till 8 P. M.

Flying heat in the face, then coldness and sensation of coldness all over the body, followed by weariness of the bones of the lower limbs, especially sensible while sitting, as if there was no marrow in them.

Severe heat in the face toward evening, with chill over the back and hairy scalp.

1940. Flying heat in the face, with febrile shivering on the body.

Heat, in the afternoon, intermingled with chills and constant palpitation.

Heat in the face by day, then every evening about five or six o'clock, a chill for half an hour, followed by heat all over, for one hour.

Sensation as if warm air blew upon the legs, now more, now less, at 8 P. M. (1st d.) [Ng.]

Fever, at noon, much internal heat, with redness of the face and at the same time a chill; all the limbs were weary, as if bruised, with great thirst, till twelve o'clock at night, when chill and heat abated, and she fell into a perspiration all over, for three hours (19th d.).

1945. Febrile heat, first in the face, with a sensation as if he had gone through a severe illness; after the heat, some chill, with much thirst (aft. 4 d.).

Fever, every forenoon, an internal chill, every day more violent, with vertigo, as if her head would sink down, without thirst; then so great a weariness that he could not get up stairs any more, with perspiration day and night, only on the head, which was bloated.

Chill, lasting for two hours, every evening at 8 o'clock, without heat; the night following, on awaking, heat without thirst.

In the morning, very thirsty.

Much thirst by day.

1950. From noon till evening, febrile heat with thirst.

Heat, with much thirst, but only during the whole day, not by night.

Dry heat, in the morning in bed.

Heat, in the morning on awaking; it passes soon.

In the morning in bed, anxious, disagreeable heat, with perspiration and dryness in the throat.

1955. Heat, toward morning, as if perspiration would break out.

Frequent morning-sweat, only on the itching parts. (F. WALTHER.)

In the morning while sleeping, perspiration; this goes off on awaking,

In the morning, perspiration on the hands and feet.

Morning-perspiration, every morning on awaking, about 6 or 7 o'clock.

1960. Profuse morning-sweat, which comes only on awaking.

At night, perspiration, only in the nape, so that the shirt and the neck-cloth were wet through. [Ng.]

Night-sweat, only after awaking.

Night sweat, of a sourish burnt smell.

Sourish, profuse night-sweat, commencing at once in the evening.

1965. In the evening, before lying down, perspiration, especially on the hands; and after lying down, at once heat and difficulty in falling asleep.

In the evening in bed, some perspiration.

In the evening, anxious perspiration with trembling; then vomiting; during the anxiety, urging to stool; then heaviness in the head and weakness in the arms.

Anxiety, feverish delirium with severe asthma, burning in the stomach, vomiting, twitching of the whole body—death. (MORGAGNI.)<sup>1</sup>

Pulse 84 and after one-half hour, 73 beats (aft. 1 h.). [Ng.]

<sup>1</sup> This occurs six months after taking the sulphur.—Hughes.

SULPHURICUM ACIDUM, SULPHURIC ACID.

This well-known acid, very corrosive in its concentrated state, is now made directly from sulphur, but formerly it was gained by the distillation of green vitriol (or copperas) and was on that account called oil of vitriol or vitriolic acid.

One drop of sulphuric acid in its concentrated state is dynamized for homœopathic use by being shaken up with 99 drops of distilled water by concussive strokes. To continue this potentizing, one drop of this potency is shaken up with 99 drops of alcohol, and so on for further potencies.

Sulphuric acid, where homœopathically indicated, removed also the following ailments:

Tension in the eyelids, in the morning; short-sightedness; hardness of hearing; inguinal hernia; chronic looseness of the bowels; profuse menstruation; discharge of blood from the uterus; roughness of the throat; asthma; swelling of the feet; coldness of the feet.

The abbreviations of the names of my fellow-observers are as follows:

Fr. H., Friedrich Hahnemann; Frz., Franz; Gr., Gross; Lgh., Langhammer; Ng., is the anonymous contributor in the annals of Hartlanb and Trinks.<sup>1</sup>

SULPHURICUM ACIDUM.

Dejection, surly mood. [Lgh.]

Melancholy and tired of life.

Great apprehensiveness, from morning till evening (13th d.).

[Ng.]

Apprehensive and solicitous, with inclination to weep (2d d.).

[Ng.]

5. Very gloomy, irritable mood.

Inclined to weep, without cause (1st d.). [Ng.]

Fearing many things, exceedingly suspicious.

Very much afraid, dejected, vexed.

Grieving vexation.

10. So irritable and affected that she gets frightened at everything.

Restlessness (aft. 12 h.).

<sup>1</sup>The pathogenesis of sulphuric acid is made up of one published in Vol. VIII of the Archiv (1828), containing 217 symptoms, and of another by Nennig, as above. From the date and the names of the provers it is possible that the symptoms of Hahnemann and his associates were obtained in his earlier manner.—Hughes.

Hastiness; everything she does, she cannot accomplish fast enough; but it fatigues her exceedingly.

Bad humor, all day; she was averse to speaking with anybody.

Dull, gloomy mood, in the morning. [Frz.]

15. It annoys her to have to talk. [Ng.]
 Vexed, peevish, impatient, at once, when he does not succeed in his work. [Ng.]
 Peevish, passionate, she answers only with reluctance. [Ng.]
 Very much vexed, in the morning, on awaking.
 Very much vexed, also by day.
20. Diminution in the anxious, oppressed feeling, and in the pusillanimity, alternating with exaltation, and instead of it (as a curative effect), a tranquil coolness. [Frz.]
 Sedate, serious mood.
 Too great an inclination to joke.
 Elevation of spirit and of mind.
 Great distraction; she frequently gives answers which are quite unsuitable. [Ng.]
25. Stupor of mind.<sup>1</sup> (JACOBSON, in Hufel. Journ. XIX, 2, 164.)
 Weakness in the head. [Fr. H.]
 Pressive muddled feeling in the head.
 Muddled feeling and heaviness of the head, in the morning. [Ng.]
 Heaviness and sensation of fullness in the head, she has to stoop forward. [Ng.]
30. Sensation of heaviness in the left side of the head. [Ng.]
 Heaviness of the head, and pain in it, as if the brain fell forward and were coming out.
 The right side of the head suddenly becomes obscured, as from smoke, while sitting. [Ng.]
 Stupid and full feeling in the head, almost the whole forenoon. [Ng.]
 Vertigo in the room, passing off in the open air. [Ng.]
35. Vertigo, in the afternoon while sewing, as if she would fall from her chair.
 Vertigo causing staggering; he had to keep lying down, for as soon as he raised himself up the vertigo returned.
 Vertigo while sitting; the objects whirl around him (soon.) [Ng.]
 Stupefying, beating pain in the right side of the head on raising himself up after stooping. [Ng.]
 Pain in the head, as from being dashed to pieces, in the morning, after awaking, and a continued great drowsiness. [Ng.]
40. Dull pain in the head, as if it was full. [Ng.]
 Pain, as if the head would burst.
 Pressive pain on the vertex, while standing. [Ng.]
 Pressure and shooting in the left side of the occiput. [Ng.]
 Frequent pressive and burning pain in the head, in the forehead and the eyes.

<sup>1</sup>Observation on fever patients.—Hughes,

45. Pressure in the right side of the forehead as from a blow, first increasing, then suddenly disappearing. [Gr.]
 Compressive pain in the sides of the occiput, relieved even by holding the hands toward the head, without touching it. [Ng.]
 Sensation in the left side of the head, as if screwed together in a vise, above the ear. [Ng.]
 Constriction of the forehead, first increasing, then suddenly disappearing. [Gr.]
 Pressing inward in both the temples. [Gr.]
50. Drawing headache in the evening.
 Drawing and tension in the head.
 Drawing in the left temple, more externally and on a small spot. [Ng.]
 Drawing headache, especially in the right side, toward the forehead. [Ng.]
 Painful tearing in the middle of the forehead, toward the left side. [Ng.]
55. Tearing and shooting in the right part of the sinciput, relieved by pressing upon it, in the evening. [Ng.]
 Tearing in the right temple, toward evening. [Ng.]
 Painful tearing in the left temple, while sitting, during breakfast. [Ng.]
 Tearing in the whole head, day and night. [Ng.]
 Occasional muttering in the temporal bones. [Gr.]
60. Severe jerk from time to time below the left frontal eminence, quickly disappearing. [Gr.]
 Painful, quick jerks above the left frontal eminence. [Gr.]
 Shocks in the right temple, as if a peg sticking there was pressed in ever more deeply. [Gr.]
 Single thrusting jerks in the right temple. [Gr.]
 Pain as from a peg driven in, just above the left orbit, first increasing, then disappearing quickly. [Gr.]
65. Stitches, sudden, dull and very painful, like shocks, below the left frontal eminence, extending into the brain. [Gr.]
 Dull stitch, extending deep into the brain, below the left frontal eminence, suddenly increasing, then diminishing and at last suddenly disappearing. [Gr.]
 Dull stitches in the sinciput, now on the right side, then on the left, extending deep into the brain. [Gr.]
 Lancinating pain, now in the forehead, then in the occiput.
 Shooting in the head, now here, now there, when walking in the open air. [Ng.]
70. Burning pain in the temple, as from a blow or bruise, in undulating paroxysms. [Gr.]
 Pain as from a blow, beside the left frontal eminence, first increasing, then suddenly disappearing. [Gr.]
 Painful sensation of soreness above the left frontal eminence, which in single jerks becomes more painful. [Gr.]
 Sensation in the frontal region, as if the brain were loose and falling to and fro. [Ng.]
 Acute pain below the right frontal eminence, as if the brain

- were loose and painfully knocked against the skull, on shaking the head. [Gr.]
75. External pain of the whole of the head, as if festering underneath, also painful when touched;
 Intense itching on the hairy scalp.
 Severe itching on the head. [Ng.]
 Severe eruption on the head, in the face and neck.
 The hair turns gray and comes out.
80. The eyelids sink down, and he cannot open them.
 Sensation in the right outer canthus, as from a foreign body, in the morning, while walking; it passes off in the room. [Ng.]
 Pressure in the outer canthus.
 Shooting itching on the lower eyelid; he has to rub it. [Gr.]
 Frequent biting in the right eye (1st. d.). [Ng.]
85. Biting, burning and lachrymation of the left eye, while reading by day. [Gr.]
 Burning and lachrymation of the eye, while reading at the beginning of twilight. [Gr.]
 Frequent intense burning of the eyes (aft. 6 d.). [Ng.]
 Burning pressure in the anterior side of the eyeball, in the open air; in the room the pain ceased, and then it only pained when looking closely, so that she must cease looking. [Fr. H.]
 Red eyes, with photophobia and constant lachrymation.
90. Lachrymation of the eyes. [Ng.]
 The eyes are somewhat closed by suppuration in the morning.
 Twitching in the right inner canthus. [Ng.]
 Dimness of vision, in the morning.
 Whirling sensation before the eyes with lassitude.
95. Intense tickling in the concha. [Ng.]
 Drawing in the right meatus auditorius, as if from within outward. [Gr.]
 Tearing before the left ear and passing up the temple. [Ng.]
 Tearing deep in the left ear, then formication there. [Ng.]
 Several severe startling tearings before the left ear, extending into the cheek, where there was a tingling. [Ng.]
100. Tearing and shooting in the right ear, more on the outside.
 Twitching in the right ear; preceded by an agreeable warmth, passing outward. [Ng.]
 Diminution of the hearing, as if a leaf was drawn before the ear. [Ng.]
 Loud ringing of bells in the right ear. [Lgh.]
 Rushing sound in the left ear, on opening the mouth, as from a waterfall, during dinner. [Ng.]
105. Roaring in the ears, in the evening.
 Violent roaring in the ears, for four hours.
 Rhythmical roaring in the ears.
 On the right side of the nose, a fine shooting pricking, which he has to rub. [Gr.]
 Bleeding of the nose, in the evening, while sitting and standing. [Lgh.]

110. Face very pale; and a moving about in the stomach (4th d.).
 [Ng.]
 Redness and sensation of heat in the right cheek.
 Burning, causing coldness on the left cheek. [Gr.]
 Sensation as if the face was stretched and as if the white of an egg was drying on the skin. [Ng.]
 Swelling of the left cheek. [Ng.]
115. Repeated twitching in the face, about the left ear, at every movement of the head; later on also while at rest. [Ng.]
 Tearing in the left facial bones, then in the right side of the head. [Ng.]
 Tearing on the margin of the right orbit, toward the temple, seemingly under the skin. [Ng.]
 Pinching in the skin of the cheek below the right eye, first increasing, then disappearing. [Gr.]
 Frequently a severe stitch running up the right cheek. [Ng.]
120. Bruised pain in the left zygoma, first increasing, then quickly diminishing. [Gr.]
 Little pimples on the forehead and the sides of the nose. [Ng.]
 The lips become fissured and peel off. [Ng.]
 The inner surface of the lips peels off, without pain. [Ng.]
 Pressure just above the left commissures of the lips, as from a finger. [Ng.]
125. Sore pain of both the commissures of the lips. [Ng.]
 In the lower jaw, tearing, now here, now there.
 The glands of the lower jaw are painful all the way into the tongue, as if swollen, the tongue feels burnt.
 Swelling and inflammation of the submaxillary glands, occasionally with shooting therein.
 Toothache, in the left lower row, in the evening, after lying down. [Ng.]
130. Pain in a right upper incisor, pressing inward. [Ng.]
 Toothache, aggravated by cold, relieved by warmth, allowing no sleep at night. [Ng.]
 Painful, frequent tearing in the teeth on the left side. [Ng.]
 Tearing in the left lower teeth from evening till midnight, in bed. [Ng.]
 Tearing in the left eye tooth and in the lower jaw, all night, during the menses. [Ng.]
135. Gnawing toothache in the right lower row; in the evening, worse after lying down, till 2 A. M. [Ng.]
 Gnawing pain in a molar and an incisor, only when biting on something hard. [Ng.]
 Digging pain in a hollow molar, during and after chewing something hard. [Ng.]
 Dullness of the teeth, all the afternoon (aft. 4 h.).
 Dullness of the teeth, at various times. [Ng.]
140. The gums have a pithy feeling, bleeding at the slightest impulse. [Frz.]
 Gumboil on the right lower jaw; when pressing upon it, pus comes out. [Ng.]

- Gumboil.
 In the mouth, transient dryness.
 Disagreeable sensation of dryness in the mouth, for two days.
145. Much gathering of saliva in the mouth, also in the morning, with sweetish taste. [Ng.]
 Frequently watery saliva in the mouth.
 Gathering of saliva in the mouth as from hunger, for several hours. [Lgh.]
 Salivation, with quickened pulse.<sup>1</sup> [KINGLAKE, in phys. med. Journ., Leipsic, 1802.]
 Violent salivation, without taste. [Ng.]
150. Vesicles on the inner side of the left cheek. [Ng.]
 Aphthæ in the mouth. [JACOBSON.]
 Dry tongue. [JACOBSON.]
 Mucus frequently comes into the mouth, causing choking and retching; he has to quickly swallow it down. [Gr.]
 In the throat, a sensation of mucus, which will neither pass up nor down, nor does it call for clearing the throat. [Ng.]
155. Roughness in the throat, after almost every new dose. [Ng.]
 Scratchy and rough in the throat. [Ng.]
 Scrapy in the throat.
 The throat aches during deglutition, in the evening, worse on the left side. [Ng.]
 Shooting in the fauces, worse while swallowing, on the left side, also in the evening, with external pain when touching it. [Ng.]
160. Contractive sensation in the throat, especially on the right side, during deglutition and at other times. [Ng.]
 Swollen in the throat, as if there was a plug in it.
 Bad taste in the mouth in the morning after awaking (5th d.). [Ng.]
 Disagreeable and pappy in the mouth, in the morning in bed, which passes off after rising. [Ng.]
 Very bad, putrid taste in the mouth.
165. Lack of appetite, and discomfort; food tastes normally, yet not agreeably. [Gr.]
 Loathing of food, which goes off toward evening. [Ng.]
 She is hungry, but as soon as she brings anything to the mouth, she feels loathing. [Ng.]
 She is averse to the smell of coffee; it causes her weakness and trembling.
 Bread tastes bitter like bile, and presses heavily in the stomach.
170. Milk causes flatulence.
 Taste for fresh plums. [Ng.]
 After partaking of milk, weary and exhausted, in the morning. [Ng.]
 She is hungry, but eats without appetite, feels uncomfortable in the stomach after eating, for several days. [Ng.]

<sup>1</sup> In the English original this is IV, 484.—Observations on patients with cutaneous diseases.—Hughes.

Increased hunger and appetite (1st d.). [Ng.]

175. Great appetite and relish for food; but qualinishment after eating, so that he had to stop eating without being sated. [Gr.]

Immediately after dinner, which he relished, more ailments arose. [Gr.]

During and after dinner, heat, with good appetite. [Ng.]

When partaking of anything warm there is at once a cold perspiration, especially on the forehead and the face, also on the rest of the body. [Frz.]

After eating, colic and immediately afterwards, burrowing and restlessness in the abdomen, without diarrhoea.

180. After eating, extraordinary lassitude. [Frz.]

After eating, tightness in the region of the stomach, as if it would burst.

Drinking causes cold in the stomach, unless something spirituous is mixed with the liquid.

Frequent, long-continued, empty eructation (soon). [Ng.]

Sour eructation, also while walking in the open air (soon).

[Ng.]

185. Sourish eructation.

Acidity in the throat.

Sourish bitter regurgitation (4th d.).

Bitter eructation, repeatedly after dinner. [Ng.]

Bitter eructation. [Ng.]

190. Regurgitation of sweetish water. [Ng.]

Rising of water from the stomach into the mouth. [Ng.]

Repeated regurgitation of water, passing off after dinner.

[Ng.]

Rising of salty water into the mouth, before vomiting. [Ng.]

Eructation tasting of onions.

195. Loathing and gathering of saliva in the mouth, with frequent contractive pain in the stomach and abdomen (8th d.). [Ng.]

Loathing in the mouth, toward noon, though food and drink taste good. [Fr. H.]

Hiccups during the (customary) smoking of tobacco. [Lgh.]

Continuous hiccups.<sup>1</sup> [JACOBSON.]

Hiccups at night. [Ng.]

200. Nausea with a chill.

Inclination to vomit, in the stomach, with sensation of mucus in the throat. [Ng.]

Inclination to vomit, without any loathing; it goes off through an eructation (soon). [Ng.]

Inclined to vomit, and sensation of a spoiled stomach. [Ng.]

He has to violently restrain himself, so as not to vomit.

205. Severe nausea; everything in his stomach turns over, regurgitates and seems about to come out; but she has to swallow it down again. [Ng.]

Vomiting of mere water, after sudden sickness at the stomach (3d d.). [Ng.]

<sup>1</sup> Repeatedly occurring after clysters containing the acid.—Hughes.

- Vomiting, first of mere water, then of the food eaten the evening before, the nausea still continuing. [Ng.]
 After the vomiting, thirst. [Ng.]
 The gastric region is very sensitive externally.
210. Pressure in the stomach, with a sensation as if a hard, very bitter body was rising in the chest; combined with frequent regurgitation of mucus; this is afterward only felt in the throat. [Ng.]
 Constant pressure in the stomach, with ineffectual tendency to eructate (1st d.). [Ng.]
 Pressure in the stomach, as from a stone, this pressure moves upward, with rising of watery saliva in the mouth, after which the pressure passes off. [Ng.]
 Pressure in the stomach, with constant loathing and yawning. [Ng.]
 Fullness and loathing in the stomach, after every dose, long-continued. [Ng.]
215. Fullness and sensation of inflation in the stomach. [Ng.]
 Contractive sensation in the stomach, with loathing, as if about to vomit. [Ng.]
 Violent contractive pain in the stomach and abdomen. [Ng.]
 Sudden, anxious contractive pain in the pit of the stomach, impeding respiration. [Gr.]
 Painful constriction in the pit of the stomach, long-continued. [Ng.]
220. Grasping in the stomach, every evening, as after taking cold.
 Cutting on the left side near the stomach, drawing off toward the back. [Ng.]
 Cutting about the stomach and painful moving about in it, while sitting and walking, repeatedly, in short paroxysms. [Ng.]
 Shooting in the stomach. [Ng.]
 Stitch in the stomach, lasting five minutes (aft. 1 h.).
225. Agreeable sensation of warmth in the stomach (aft.  $\frac{1}{4}$  h.).
 Burning in the stomach with stupid feeling in the head (at once). [Ng.]
 Sudden burning in the stomach, so that he was startled. [Ng.]
 Coldness in the stomach (soon after a new dose). [Ng.]
 Coldness and relaxation in the stomach, with lack of appetite. [Frrz.]
230. Pinching, just below the scrobiculus cordis; when this is pressed upon, there is an acute pain as after a blow. [Gr.]
 Stitch in the hepatic region, near the stomach.
 Shooting in the region of the right ribs, aggravated by inspiring, during the menses. [Ng.]
 Dull pressure inward, below the right ribs, aggravated in paroxysms. [Gr.]
 Clucking pain in the right side of the abdomen, almost toward the back. [Gr.]
235. In the left hypochondriac region, a stitch, when bending toward the right side. [Ng.]
 Shooting in the left hypochondriac region, going off by pressing upon it. [Ng.]

Shooting on the left lower ribs, often simultaneously with shooting in the chest. [Ng.]

Slow, pulsating clucking pain below the left ribs. [Gr.]

Burning in the two hypochondria, while sitting, all the day.

[Ng.]

240. Inflation of the stomach, with rumbling and (noiseless) discharge of flatus. [Ng.]

Pressure on the umbilicus, on the surface, but violent. [Gr.]

Pinching pain in the abdomen, also in the evening. [Ng.]

Pinching in the hypogastrium, toward the lumbar region, so that an anxious sweat broke out.

Pinching in the abdomen, at night.

245. Pinching and cutting in the abdomen, with violent urging to stool, at night (1st d.).

Violent pinching, cutting and writhing in the abdomen, with laborlike pains, as if everything would gush out, with nausea like fainting (aft. 30 d.).

Laborlike pains, all through the abdomen, extending into the hips, and then sensation as of bruising in the sacrum.

Cutting and moving about in the umbilical region. [Ng.]

Cutting around the umbilicus, more when walking in the open air than in the room [Ng.]

250. Shooting in the left hypogastric region, like stitches in the spleen, on moving about; it passes off when sitting. [Ng.]

Long, dull stitch on the left side, near the umbilicus, extending into the abdomen. [Gr.]

Burning and pressure below the umbilicus, seemingly in the uterus. [Ng.]

Sensation in the umbilical region, as of a morbid warmth, or as in heartburn. [Gr.]

Anxious sensation in the abdomen, in the morning in bed.

255. In the right groin, a squeezing pain. [Ng.]

Twitching in the left flank, and pressure outward as if with a finger, first arising and going off while sleeping, then it comes back while standing, and goes off while walking; finally it appears also while walking. [Ng.]

Pinching in the left flank. [Ng.]

Tearing in the left inguinal region, while sitting. [Ng.]

Shooting in the left flank. [Ng.]

260. Stitch in the left flank on inspiring, and then fine stitches on the upper left side of the chest; in the evening after lying down. [Ng.]

Burning in the right flank, during tussiculation. [Ng.]

Protrusion in the right inguinal region, in the morning in bed, as if a hernia was forming; it goes off on rising, but returns repeatedly. [Gr.]

Severe pain in the right inguinal region, while walking and standing, as if a hernia was protruding, so that he dare not cough nor take a breath; later on, especially while talking, but also without any cause, a hernia occasionally protrudes with great pain, which on keeping quiet, and especially on sitting down, is again

- reduced; and then it allows breathing and coughing without any trouble. [Gr.]
- Sudden, protruding pain in the right groin, as if from an incipient inguinal hernia, on rising after a stool, irrespective of coughing and breathing. [Gr.]
265. Irresistible protrusion of a hernia out of the abdominal ring, with excoriative pain in the abdominal ring, even after restoring the hernia (aft. 2 h.).
- Beating, for several days, in the place where the inguinal hernia protruded.
- Stitches in the region of the inguinal hernia.
- Sharp twitches spread over the hypogastrium, more on the surface, almost like colic, twitching in fits and starts. [Gr.]
- Severe rumbling in the abdomen, with discharge of flatus. [Ng.]
270. Loud growling about the umbilicus, in the evening, before lying down, and next morning after rising. [Ng.]
- Growling about the umbilicus, with a sensation as if a stool would come. [Ng.]
- Growling and rumbling in the abdomen, with voracity; this goes off after eating.
- Swashing as from water in the abdomen as this is moved by breathing, while lying down.
- Flatus, short and abrupt, discharged with difficulty. [Gr.]
275. Intermittent stool (1st, 3d, 19th d.). [Ng.]
- Ineffectual call to stool, for two hours (1st d.). [Ng.]
- Hard stool, sometimes retarded (not before evening) also at times with pains in passing it. [Ng.]
- Hard, difficult, knotty stool, as if burned, or like sheep-dung (4th, 6th, 7th d.). [Ng.]
- Very hard, bloody stool (19th d.). [Ng.]
280. Hard stool, in small, cohering, black knots, mixed with blood, and with pin-pricking in the anus, so severe that she had to rise for pain; during the menses. [Ng.]
- First hard, then soft stool, in the morning.
- The stool is of very thick formation.
- Soft, pappy stool, with pressing in the anus during and after the discharge (aft. 6 h.). [Lgh.]
- Soft stool, very thin formation (3d d.). [Ng.]
285. Soft stool, preceded by shooting in the anus (2d d.). [Ng.]
- Soft stool with sensation of emptiness in the abdomen afterward (4th d.). [Ng.]
- Diarrhœa, lasting till evening; only foaming mucus is passed, with burning in the rectum, with flatulence and rumbling.
- Watery, green diarrhœa. [JACOBSON.]
- Yellowish white stool.
290. The child has frequent stools, as if hacked, yellow as turmeric and of viscid-mucous consistence.
- Stools very ill-smelling, half solid, half liquid, with much liquid mucus with bloody streaks.
- Stool colored with blood.

- Bloody stool, hard and only every two or three days (aft. 25 d.). [Ng.]
 Bloody stool, first hard, then soft, with burning in the anus. [Ng.]
295. During the stool, pinching in the sides of the epigastrium. [Ng.]
 During the stool, pain, as if the rectum was being torn.
 After the stool, sensation of exhaustion in the intestines.
 Much rush of blood toward the rectum.
 Varices of the anus, with shooting and burning.
300. Severe itching of the varices of the anus.
 Humidity of the varices of the anus and pain on touching them.
 The first effect of the medicine seems to be a retention of the urine and the stool. [Ng.]
 The urine is suppressed (2d morning). [Ng.]
 He only urinates in the morning and evening, attended with burning (5th d.). [Ng.]
305. Diminished urine, with burning while passing it (2d d.). [Ng.]
 Constant pressure to urinate, and every time before the last drops, there is a severe cutting in the urethra, for seven days; then every time straining in the groin and in the loins.
 In the morning, first increased, then diminished secretion of urine, with burning (3d d.). [Ng.]
 Increased flow of urine (aft. 4 to 12 d.). [Ng.]
 She has to rise at night to urinate (aft. 2 d.). [Ng.]
310. Urine like water.
 Urine like water, soon depositing a thin sediment of mucus (1st d.). [Ng.]
 Thick urine, in diminished quantity. [Ng.]
 The urine becomes turbid in standing, like clay-water, and later deposits a clayey sediment. [Ng.]
 White sediment in the urine.
315. Brownish-red urine.
 Urine with sediment like blood, and covered on the top with a fine pellicle.
 Before, during and after urination, pinching in the hypogastrium. [Ng.]
 Pain in the bladder, when he does not at once satisfy the urging to urinate.
 Intense pressure on the neck of the bladder, as if everything would gush out, equally violent while walking, standing and sitting, compelling him to press his thighs together; improved by coitus (the first 10 days).
320. In the genitals and the testes, warmth.
 Relaxation of the scrotum.
 Itching pain on the upper rim of the gland.
 Erections by day, without amorous thoughts.
 Seminal emission, without voluptuous sensation.
325. After coitus, burning in the urethra.
 Much excitation with the female to coitus, the excitation

- exists more in the external pudenda; but she is not strongly excited by coitus.
- Dream of a female of practising coitus twice, and also two discharges (the first night).
- Dream of the female, as if she desired coitus, and on awaking there is a violent, irrepressible desire for it, felt more in the clitoris (aft. 40 h.).
- Squeamish feeling in the abdomen, as if the menses would appear.
330. It delays the appearance of the menses by eight days, without ailments.
- Menses delayed by five days, with pains in the abdomen and sacrum. [Ng.]
- Menses, six days too early. [Ng.]
- Two days before the menses, at night, nightmare; as if something heavy lay on her; she could not speak, she felt as if some one compressed her throat, and she awoke in a perspiration.
- During the menses, thirst and dry tongue, [Ng.]
335. During the menses, stitches in the abdomen and in the vagina.
- After the menses, great disposition to coitus (aft. 11 d.).
- After the menses, great aversion to coitus (aft. 38 d.).
- Frequent discharge of mucus from the vagina, with eroding sensation (aft. 16 d.).
- Sharp, burning leucorrhœa.
340. Leucorrhœa, transparent, or like milk, without sensation.
- Discharge of bloody mucus from the vagina, as if the menses would appear (aft. 2 h.).
- * * * * *
- Abortive inclination to sneeze. [Ng.]
- A vapor went through her nose; then sneezing twenty times, followed by obstruction of the nose. [Ng.]
- Coryza, with loss of olfaction (4th, 5th d.). [Ng.]
345. Severe coryza with sore eyes.
- Obstinate stuffed coryza.
- Violent stuffed coryza; one or the other nostril does not admit any air occasionally. [Gr.]
- Fluent coryza (4th d.). [Ng.]
- Much water runs from her nose, while one nostril is obstructed. [Ng.]
350. Hoarse, dry and rough in the throat and larynx. [Ng.]
- Hoarseness, inclination to coryza and cough.
- Pain in the larynx; he talks with difficulty, as if the proper flexibility and mobility was lacking in these parts.
- Lancinating pain in the larynx.
- Cough and coryza, with severe hunger (aft. 14 d.).
355. In the morning, on awaking, he feels a catarrh on his chest, there is an inclination to cough, without detaching anything; after several hours, there is a slight expectoration of mucus.
- Cough, caused by the open air.
- Cough, only when walking in the open air (6th d.). [Ng.]
- Tussiculation. [JACOBSON.]

- Single (rare) dry impulses to cough; also in the morning after rising. [Ng.]
360. Frequent brief tussiculation. [Ng.]
Loose cough, with mucous expectoration in the morning. [Ng.]
Dry, short cough, with panting impulses.
At every impulse of cough, a dull shock, just above the edge of the right eyelid, outward. [Gr.]
After coughing, there is a regurgitation of the food.
365. After coughing, in the morning, first empty, then bitter mucous eructation.
Hemoptysis, while walking slowly. [Fr. H.]
Asthmatic at times, for moments.
Oppression of the breathing and choking in the throat, often at night.
Oppression on the chest, in the morning, with nausea.
370. So weak on the chest, that she could only talk with difficulty.
Fullness on the chest.
Pressure on the left side of the chest and in the pit of the stomach.
Drawing tension in the left side of the chest. [Ng.]
Dull pain in the middle of the sternum, as from a blow. [Gr.]
375. Shooting pressure on the chest and in the throat, checking the breath, equally violent standing and walking, improved by the open air, in continuous paroxysms.
Shooting in the right side of the chest. [Ng.]
Violent shooting in the right side of the chest, frequent and continuous; by pressing upon it, the pain penetrates more deeply (5th d.). [Ng.]
Severe stitches in the sternum, on entering a room from the open air; these extend into the other side of the chest, deep within; in the evening (1st d.). [Ng.]
Dull stitches on the left side, near the sternum, on a cartilage of the ribs. [Gr.]
380. Sudden, dull stitch, violent and piercing, in the upper left side of the chest, extending into the back. [Gr.]
Fine stitches, deep into the left side of the chest, with arrest of breathing, or with sensitiveness afterwards in a small spot on the left side, above the xiphoid cartilage. [Ng.]
Shooting in the left side of the chest, worse during inspiration and coughing; while walking; relieved while resting.
Stitches in front of the left axilla, on putting down a heavy load, then severe bruised pain on a large part of the sternum. [Ng.]
Many violent stitches through the heart, by day and by night, with sore pain soon afterward.
385. Palpitation without anxiety, while the upper part of the body is thrust forward, while resting both arms on something, with inclination to breathing deeply, which can also be done without trouble. [Gr.]

- Frequent single burning pains in the left side of the chest.
 [Ng.] Burning frequently, on the outer left side of the chest, as from boiling water, now stronger, now weaker. [Ng.]
 Pain in the sacrum, as if bruised, while standing and sitting.
 [Ng.] Pain in the sacrum and back.
390. Pain in the sacrum on moving, like soreness, or like a spasmodic drawing.
 Burning pain in the sacrum.
 Pain in the back, as if sore and bruised. [Ng.]
 Drawing pain in the back, on moving and treading.
 Stiffness in the back, which passes by day while moving, for several mornings.
395. Fine stitch in the spine and at the same time in the left side of the neck. [Ng.]
 Furuncle on the back.
 Cutting between the shoulders, with burning, as if it would be cut through there. [Ng.]
 The left axillary glands are painfully sensitive.
 Pain, as from an ulcer under the right arm, extending to the chest, especially when ascending a height, but also while walking, this is so severe that he has to sit down. [Fr. H.]
400. Drawing on the right side of the neck, under the ear.
 Pain between the side of the neck and the top of the left shoulder, as from a load pressing down. [Gr.]
 On the top of the left shoulder, a tremulous pressure, in unequal paroxysms. [Gr.]
 Shooting in the shoulder-joint, on raising the arm.
 Shooting tearing in the top of the left shoulder.
405. Jerk in the right shoulder-joint, on writing. [Ng.]
 Cutting pain before the left axilla. [Ng.]
 Shooting before and below the right axilla. [Ng.]
 While writing, occasionally in the right arm, a drawing and spasmodically contractive, paralytic pain.
 Heaviness of the arm.
410. Stitches in the arm-joints.
 Twitching, fine tearing in the right arm, often extending from the thumb into the chest, while sitting. [Ng.]
 Painful tearing on the right upper arm, posteriorly, below the shoulder-joint and upward to it. [Ng.]
 Eroding pain, as if beaten sore, on the outer side of the left elbow. [Gr.]
 In the shaft of the left radius, close to the wrist-joint, every 3 seconds a pain like a blow, which begins suddenly with violence, then becoming weaker, it radiates up the arm, where it vanishes.
 [Gr.]
415. Tensive pain in both the elbow-joints.
 Bluish spots on the fore-arm, as from suffused blood.
 In the wrist-joint, drawing and weariness.
 Tensive pain and heaviness in the right metacarpus, while walking in the open air with the arms hanging down, as if the blood was accumulating in them. [Gr.]

Twitching in the metacarpal bone of the right index, extending up into the arm, very painful. [Gr.]

420. Acutely painful beating in the metacarpal bone of the right index. [Gr.]

Painful jerks, like dull blows, where the metacarpal bone of the thumb joins the wrist, at times this darts up the wrist even into the arm. [Gr.]

Dark-red small elevations on the dorsum of the hand, with a slight scurf, under which there appears to be some pus, lasting 4 days, but painless. [Fr. H.]

Eruption on the hands and between the fingers; it itches more after midnight.

The fingers twitch together spasmodically, while slumbering, and are clenched into a fist, so that he is startled. [Gr.]

425. Twitching pain in the finger-tips, seemingly in the nerves. [Gr.]

Burning or eroding fine stitches on the side of the middle finger. [Gr.]

Burning, shooting formication in the tip of the little finger, as from going to sleep, as also on a small spot of the middle finger. [Gr.]

Sharp, twitching pain through the right thumb, starting from its tip. [Gr.]

Fine tearing in the right thumb, seemingly in the bone of the posterior joint. [Ng.]

430. Dull stitches in the middle finger-joints.

Tearing under the nail of the index, as in a whitlow, aggravated by dipping it into cold water. [Gr.]

Several small chilblains on the fingers, with acute pain.

In the right hip, cramp.

The right lower limb is much inclined to numbness.

435. The left thigh goes to sleep, while sitting, still more while walking. [Ng.]

Extending and stretching of the lower limbs.

Heaviness of the lower limbs.

Tearing in the swollen veins of the right thigh and leg, in the morning in bed.

Cutting pain in the thigh.

440. Spasmodically contractive, paralytic pain in the right thigh and leg.

Intermitting pinching on a small spot on the inner side of the left thigh. [Gr.]

Pressure on the upper part of the inner side of the right thigh, in paroxysms. [Gr.]

Contraction quite low down on the thigh, which intermittingly darts down into the legs. [Gr.]

Burning, cutting formication on the thighs, in unequal intermissions, like soreness from something corrosive. [Gr.]

445. Dull shooting pressure on the outer side of the middle of the left thigh. [Gr.]

- In the knees, painful weakness in standing, and acutely painful jerks therein. [Gr.]
 Tearing, deep in the left knee, up and down, going off by rubbing. [Ng.]
 Acute pain, as from a blow, obliquely across the left knee in undulatory intermissions. [Gr.]
 Painful jerks on the inner side of the left knee, like dull shocks. [Gr.]
450. Dull stitches, like shocks, in the middle of the right knee, while sitting; afterward for a long time, a single pain in it. [Gr.]
 Burning shooting on the left knee. [Gr.]
 Acute pricking stitches in the left hough. [Gr.]
 Burning pain in the right hough.
 In the left tibia, formication.
455. Burning, itching, red spots on the tibiæ with a lump in their middle; after scratching, the part swells up and after the cessation of the swelling, the itching begins again. [Ng.]
 Cramp in the calves, while walking, with formication in them.
 Pain in the calves, more in sitting, than in walking.
 On the left tendo Achillis, fine, pricking stitches. [Gr.]
 On the right instep, a painful pressure, decreasing and increasing. [Gr.]
460. Tearing in the left heel, in the morning on awaking, for one quarter of an hour.
 Burning stitches in the heel.
 Stiffness of the ankles, when walking.
 The left foot goes to sleep in the evening, when sitting down. [Ng.]
 Dull, painful pressure, below the external malleolus of the left foot, in paroxysms like shocks or jerks. [Gr.]
465. Bruised pain in the sole of the left foot, first increasing, then jerking, then suddenly disappearing. [Gr.]
 Twitching pinching in the middle toe, in paroxysms. [Gr.]
 Pricking, fine, piercing stitches under the big toe. [Gr.]
 Stitches in the corn.
 Tearing in the corn, so that he had to draw up his foot.
470. Itching, here and there in the body, even on the head; after scratching, it reappears in other places. [Ng.]
 A general itching all over the body which had before prevailed, now disappears (curative effect). [Frz.]
 Stinging sensation on the skin, as from woolen clothing.
 Shooting in a cicatrice left from a burn.
 Eroding sensation in an ulcer.
475. Jaundice (in the workmen in distilleries of oil of vitrol).
 Dull pressure in various small spots of the body, first increasing, then suddenly disappearing. [Gr.]
 Tearing in all the limbs, especially in the evening, during the menses. [Ng.]
 Rheumatic tearing and drawing all over the body, even in the face (at once).
 Inclination to cramp, in hands and feet. [Lgh.]

480. Subsultus tendinum. [JACOBSON.]
 She seems to be worse in the open air. [Ng.]
 Chilliness, all day.
 While walking, a sensation as if he would sink down on either side.
 Weakness in the lower limbs and in the sacrum, so that he could scarcely stand unsupported.
485. Weariness of the whole body, so that she scarcely dares lift her arm.
 Tremulous sensation all over the body, without trembling, less in the morning. [Fr. H.]
 Weariness, with headache in the forehead, relieved in the open air. [Ng.]
 Frequent yawning, after dinner. [Ng.]
 Very sleepy in the morning, after awaking, as if he had not slept at all. [Ng.]
490. Inability to go to sleep in the evening, but afterward the sleep is sound.
 Late in going to sleep in the evening, and ready awaking at night.
 She is late in falling asleep, she then sleeps restlessly, and frequently wakes up.
 In the evening, in bed, rattling on the chest, quick pulse, short breath.
 He wakes up at night after two hours, being wide awake, as if he had done sleeping.
495. Alert and wide awake, all night.
 Frequent starting up from a sound sleep. [Ng.]
 During sleep, startling twitches and flow of saliva.
 Waking up after midnight, without cause (2d n.). [Ng.]
 Waking up after midnight, with heat, dryness in the throat and thirst; she could not bear to be uncovered. [Ng.]
500. At night, violent asthma, with two hours' coughing (1st n.).
 While sleeping, she feels pain in her joints, which disappear on awaking.
 Vexing dreams, causing the person to scream.
 Anxious dreams about fire, about deceased persons, about danger. [Ng.]
 Frequent dreams, though she cannot recall them (1st n.). [Ng.]
505. Chilly, she continually wishes to sit by the stove (20th d.). [Ng.]
 Chilly, in the morning, in the room, less in the open air (aft. 12 d.). [Ng.]
 Momentary shaking, as from chill, with goose-skin (at once). [Ng.]
 Transient shivering, occasionally, through the trunk, more internally, without touching other parts. [Gr.]
 Constant shivering, downward in the trunk, without chilliness. [Gr.]
510. Warmth, passing over the body, while the hands are icy cold. [Frz.]

Dry heat in the evening after traveling for eight hours, with intense thirst till eight o'clock; accompanied with burning of the eyes, and once a transient chill (7th d.). [Ng.]

He continually feels more warmth than cold, opposite to his former disposition. [Ng.]

Great warmth all over the body, in the evening after lying down (3 d.). [Ng.]

Increased, also agreeable warmth in the whole body (2d, 3d d.). [Ng.]

515. Pulsation more frequent by ten beats. [Ng.]

Small, quick pulse.<sup>1</sup> [KINGLAKE, JACOBSON.]

Tendency to profuse perspiration, at every motion.

She perspires much while sitting, especially on the upper part of the body.

Readily moved to perspire by day. [Fr. H.]

520. Profuse morning-sweat (aft. 20 h.).

Sourish morning-sweat, followed by hoarseness.

ZINCUM, ZINC.

Rub a piece of pure metallic zinc on a whetstone under distilled water, in a clean porcelain bowl; the gray powder deposited on the bottom is dried on white blotting paper, and one grain of it is used to prepare the dynamized preparations of zinc, in the same manner as with other dry drugs, in the manner described at the conclusion of the first part of Chronic Diseases, but with a greater number of successive strokes than is indicated there.

Where the dynamized preparation of zinc was homœopathically suitable, it also removed, if given in proper doses, the following ailments, if present:

Indisposition to work and to walk; thoughts of death, as if she had to die; weakness of memory; constant muddled sensation of the head; gloominess; sore pain in the head; humming in the head; pain of the hairy scalp, as if festering underneath; baldness; dryness of the eyes; amaurosis, with contracted pupils; paralysis and closing of the eyelids; buzzing in the ears; looseness of the teeth; painfulness of the teeth when chewing; sore pains in the teeth; salty taste in the mouth; after eating bread, pressure in the stomach with nausea; tensive pain in the sides of the abdomen; inguinal hernia; constipation; soft and liquid stool; involuntary discharge of stool; itching on the anus; tenesmus of the bladder, when he wishes to urinate; involuntary urination, while walking; the urine cannot be retained when coughing, sneezing and walking; continuous erections by night; seminal emission during coitus is too rapid; the menses come too soon; painful menses; during the menses, inflation of the abdomen; leucorrhœa. Coryza; cough; tensive pain in the sternum; palpitation; palpitation with anxiety; irregular, spasmodic movement of the heart; shocks of the heart, arresting the breathing, intermission in the heart-beats, causing the breathing to be arrested; pains in the sacrum; pains in the back; drawing pain in the arm, of long standing; sensation of dryness in the hands, in the morning; the fingers go to sleep in the morning, while rising; stiffness of the ankle-joint after sitting; painful chilblains on the feet; insensibility of the body; sensation of coldness in the bones; exostosis; in the morning, a feeling of not having slept enough, sleepiness; desire to sleep after meals; the sleep at night, full of ravings; frightful dreams; talking and screaming in sleep; tendency to perspire by day; nocturnal perspiration.

<sup>1</sup> Not found in Kinglake.—Hughes.

Too violent an action is moderated, but only for a short time, by a solution of camphor; (sometimes by smelling of a preparation of ignatia); but the greatest moderation is effected by smelling of a preparation of sulphur.

To the observations as to the peculiar symptoms of zinc, given in no 2 of Vol. VI of the Archiv fuer homœopathische Heilkunst by the Doctors Franz, Frz.; Hartmann, Htm.; Haubold, Hbd.; Rückert, Rkt.; and Stapf, Stf.; as well as by Councillor, Baron von Gersdorff, Gff., I have added my own observations as well as those of a young learned man from Switzerland, Lesquereur, Lqr., and those of the Doctors Schweikert, Sw.; Rummel, Rl.; Hartlaub, Htb., and also the later observations of the above mentioned Councillor, Dr. Baron von Gersdorff, who has done so much to further the homœopathic art of healing. The symptoms marked [Ng.] are from the well-known anonymous prover in the Reine Arzneimittellehre of Doctors Hartlaub and Trinks.<sup>1</sup>

ZINCUM.

Dejected and sad. [Ng.]

Peevish, surly and vexed, in the afternoon. [Ng.]

Peevish and surly in the evening, and yet good-humored.

[Ng.]

Peevish, taciturn mood, especially in the evening. [Gff.]

<sup>1</sup> Hahnemann's own contribution to the pathogenesis of Zinc consists mainly of the 753 symptoms credited to him in the first edition, which from the preface we may gather to have been observed on patients taking the 18th dilution. Those of Franz and his five associates above referred to were obtained mainly from provings with the 1st trituration. The sources of the rest (save Neuning's) are unknown.—Hughes.

5. Extremely sad and surly. [Hbd.]
 She looks quite peevish, sullen and out of sorts, also in the morning. [Ng.]
 Peevish in the morning (8th. d.).
 Ill-humored. [Sw.]
 Ill-humored and sad (2 d. d.).
10. Irresistible sadness. [Lgr.]
 Fear of thieves or of horrible phantoms, seen while waking, as if in a feverish fancy.
 Apprehensive and inclined to weep; it goes off in the evening. [Ng.]
 Apprehension and ennui; she seeks company. [Ng.]
 Despondency.
15. Tranquil thoughts of dying, in the afternoon, when weary.
 Hypochondriac mood, three hours after dinner, with pressure under the short ribs, especially on the right side; with disinclination to work and discomfort all over the body, but without any trace of flatulence or over-loading of the stomach (aft. 5 d.).
 Relaxed mood (aft. 6 d.).
 Indifferent (aft. 13 d.).
 Aversion to employment, disinclination to work.
20. Annoyed and anxious.
 Peevish and surly for several days; inclined to internal chagrin and vexation; he is generally silent and is annoyed when he has to speak a word. [Frz.]
Moaning for vexation; without any external cause, with pressure in the upper part of the head.
Easily angered. [Also Ng.]
 Easily excited to anger, but tranquil.
25. Easily excited to anger, and much affected thereby. [Gff.]
 He would like to have some one, on whom he might wreak his (causeless) anger. [Lgr.]
 Irritable, easily startled.
 The mind is irritable, prone to grieve; he cannot bear to hear any one talk, nor to hear any noise. [Gff.]
 Very sensitive to noise.
30. Every least mental excitement causes an internal tremor. [Gff.]
 After a slight mental excitement, a long-continued trembling as from a chill. [Gff.]
 Excited imagination (1st d.). [Lgr.]
 His nerves are affected when others, even persons whom he likes, talk much, and this makes him peevish and impatient. [Gff.]
 Very impatient, but without ill-humor. [Lgr.]
35. Restless, unstable mood (aft. 2 d.).
 Very changeable mood; at noon, sadness and melancholy; in the evening, contentment and gladness (2d, 3d. d.). [Egr.]
 Alternately irritable, easily startled, passionate, despondent, melancholy.
 At noon irritable, annoyed, and easily startled; less so in the evening.
 Occasionally very merry. [Lgr.]

40. He can frequently laugh very much over a trifle, but is just as ready to get vexed.
 Fits of great loquacity. [Gff.]
 Very merry, excited mood, especially toward evening. [Gff.]
 Out of sorts and indolent during the first days; later on lively and more cheerful.
 Cheerful and good-humored. [Hbd.]
45. Good-humored and loquacious. [Ng.]
 Incapable (after vomiting) for any work; he feels most comfortable when lying down with closed eyes. [Ng.]
 Illusion of fancy, when holding down her head, as if she had a large goitre, which prevented her looking beyond it. [Ng.]
 Unconnected ideas (aft. 16 d.).
 Difficulty in comprehending and in connecting ideas.
50. Lack of thoughts and slumberous state of the mind.
 Forgetfulness of the things done during the day.
 Great forgetfulness.
 Dizzy, confused and heavy in the head, as if there had not been enough sleep. [Ng.]
 Heaviness of the head, as if it would fall off. [Ng.]
55. Sense of weakness in the head, especially in the eyes (aft. 2, 4 and several days.) [Lqr.]
 The head feels very much muddled, after meals (aft. 7 h.). [Frz.]
 Muddled sensation and painful heaviness of the occiput (aft. ¼ h.). [Htm.]
 Stupefied and dizzy, at noon.
 Dizzy stupefaction in short paroxysms, while things turn black before the eyes, and general weakness, especially in the afternoon and evening, for several days (aft. 11 d.). [Lqr.]
60. Vertigo, while sitting and standing, it goes off on walking.
 Vertigo, with weakness in the head and abdomen, so that she had to lie down (aft. 3 d.).
 Vertigo in the whole brain, especially in the occiput, as if he would fall over, without reference to the eyes; while standing (aft. 1, 2, 4 h.). [Frz.]
 Dizzy drawing, deep in the right side of the occiput, while sitting. [Frz.]
Vertigo in the occiput while walking, as if he should fall to the left side (at once). [Frz.]
65. Intense vertigo, while sitting in bed, as if the bed was constantly rocking to and fro (aft. 7 d.).
 Vertigo, in the morning on awaking, as if the head moved up and down, so also the images floating before his fancy fluctuated; all this while half conscious. [Rl.]
 Vertigo, as if he would get a stroke, with fear of falling down.
 Dizzy, nauseous weariness, on staying up somewhat longer, in the evening, as from smoking tobacco which was too strong. [Rl.]
 Vertigo in the occiput, in the evening, while sitting, during the (customary) smoking of tobacco, with call to stool. [Frz.]

70. Violent vertigo after rising from stooping, as if everything whirled around her, with humming in the head, also in the morning. [Ng.]
 Headache after dinner, in the region of the left frontal eminence. [Frz.]
 Headache at night. [Lqr.]
 Violent pain in the head, the abdomen and the eyes, on lying down. [Lqr.]
 Violent headache, diminished by washing with cold water. [Ng.]
75. Violent pains in the head and eyes after drinking a glass of his (customary) wine. [Lqr.]
 Dull pain in the forehead, with unusual impatience. [Lqr.]
 Dull pain in the left half of the head. [Lqr.]
 Pain as if the whole brain was torn.
 Bruised pain in the occiput. [Ng.]
80. Stupefying headache, he had to lie down (aft. 4 d.)
 Stupefying headache, all the morning, as from coal gas (aft. 10 d.). [Lqr.]
 Pressure in the head with a stupid feeling (aft. 5 d.).
 Pressure in the forehead, with muddled feeling, rendering thinking difficult. [Gff.]
Pressure in the sinciput with a muddled feeling, at noon and in the evening. [Gff.]
85. Pressive headache in the right frontal eminence. [Frz.]
 Pressive headache in the forehead, with a general muddled feeling in the head, sleepiness and eyeache, in the forenoon. [Gff.]
 Pressive headache in the forehead, every morning (aft. 7 d.).
 Violent pressure on a small spot in the middle of the forehead, with short intermissions. [Gff.]
Pressive headache in the forehead, frequently. [Lqr.]
90. Pressive headache in the forehead, with a sharp pressure, in the morning, on awaking, this, later on, becomes a mere pressure in the temples. [Rl.]
Pressure in the sinciput, with a muddled feeling, extending into the eyes, after dinner [Gff.]
 Pressive pain in the sinciput, worst in the two temples. [Htm.]
 Pressure in the left temple. [Htm.]
 Pressure in the right temple, darting into it quickly. [Htm.]
95. Constant pressure, now in the temples, now in the occiput. [Htm.]
 Continuous pressure and squeezing in both temples. [Htm.]
 Pressure in the right side of the occiput. [Gff.]
 Pressure in the occiput for several hours, after walking in the open air.
Sharp pressure on a small spot in the forehead, in the evening. [Sw.]
100. Dull shooting pressure on a small spot of the occiput. [Gff.]
 Sharp, pinching pressure in the left temple. [Gff.]

Cramplike dull pressure from without into both the temples.

[Htb.]

Frequent pain, screwing the head together from both sides, in the evening. [Ng.]

Straining on the right side of the head, pulsating, pressive and almost unendurable. [Ng.]

105. Pain in the right side of the occiput, as if pressing it asunder.

[Htm.]

Painful pressing asunder in the left side of the occiput, close to the cervical vertebræ. [Htm.]

Drawing in the left side of the occiput. [Gff.]

Drawing and beating in the forehead. [Ng.]

Drawing in the occiput, with gnawing in the forehead, as from worms. [Ng.]

110. Drawing and shooting in the forehead, with pain as if the crown was split open. [Ng.]

Tearing in the right temple. [Ng.]

Tearing pain and crawling, anteriorly in the forehead, during supper, [Ng.]

Tearing in the right temple, or also close above it. [Gff.]

Tearing in the temples after dinner, with stitches in the right ear (aft. 2 d.). [Frz.]

115. Tearing in the right half of the head (2d and 8th d.).

[Gff.]

Tearing in the right side of the head and in the teeth, in the afternoon (aft. 16 d.).

Tearing in the anterior left half of the head, above the forehead. [Gff.]

Tearing in the upper part of the head and above the forehead. [Gff.]

Tearing, anteriorly in the forehead (4th d.). [Gff.]

120. Tearing, in the left frontal eminence. [Gff.]

Tearing, in the right frontal eminence, extending into the orbit and the upper eyelid. [Gff.]

Tearing in the forehead, with severe pain. [Ng.]

Tearing behind the vertex of the head (9th d.). [Gff.]

Tearing in the left and right side of the occiput (3d and 4th d.). [Gff.]

125. Tearing in the occiput, on the right side, with dull stitches on the top of the head. [Gff.]

Tearing in the right side of the occiput, when laughing.

[Ng.]

Sharp tearing in the vertex and in the left parietal bone.

[Gff.]

Transient tearing in both the temples. [Gff.]

Pinching tearing in the right and left temple, at various times. [Gff.]

130. Pressive tearing on the right side, beside the vertex (aft. 3 d.). [Gff.]

Pressive tearing in the left frontal eminence, after dinner. [Frz.]

Drawing tearing in the left half of the head. [Gff.]

- Drawing, pressive tearing in the upper part of the head, and still more in the forehead, in frequent, transient paroxysms. [Gff.]
- Twitching tearing above the left temple. [Gff.]
135. Shooting tearing in the forehead, with great but ineffectual incitement to sneezing; toward noon. [Lqr.]
- Shooting tearing in the temples. [Lqr.]
- Tearing and shooting in the right side of the head, after dinner. [Ng.]
- Sharp, tearing shooting in the skin of the left side of the forehead, above the eyebrow. [Gff.]
- Shooting in the forehead, with a tearing there, as if the head would burst open. [Ng.]
140. Shooting and tearing in the head, and cutting in the abdomen, with yawning, during and after dinner. [Ng.]
- Stitches in the left temple, as from needles. [Frz.]
- Dull stitches, occasionally, in the right temple (aft. sever. h.). [Frz.]
- Fine, burning stitches in the middle of the vertex. [Sw.]
- Boring, dull stitch, just above the right frontal eminence (9th d.) [Gff.]
145. Boring pain in the right side of the head, more in the occiput, in the evening. [Ng.]
- Boring into the left parietal bone. [Ng.]
- Boring in the right parietal bone, with a sensation of bursting, in the evening, while standing. [Ng.]
- Extremely painful, pressive boring and pressure in the right side of the head (19th d.). [Ng.]
- Pressive drawing boring in the left side of the head, after dinner. [Ng.]
150. Beating pain in the right side of the head, in the evening. Beating and tearing in the occiput, after dinner. [Ng.]
- Severe beating and tearing in the whole of the head, especially in the right frontal region, from the morning till evening after lying down. [Ng.]
- Painful raging, like the beating of waves, with sensation of heat in one spot on the right side of the occiput, extending over the vertex, in the evening. [Ng.]
- Painful raging, now here, now there, in the head. [Ng.]
155. Sounding and echoing in the head during loud speaking. Sensation in the frontal cavities as if the air penetrated there too acutely.
- Sensation of heat in the head, with redness of the face. [Ng.]
- Heat in the head, in the evening, with redness and increased warmth of the cheeks. [Ng.]
- The pains in the head are slighter in the open air, more severe in the room. [Ng.]
160. External sensitiveness of the vertex when touched, as if there was an ulcer there, in the evening.
- Drawing in the skin on the vertex. [Ng.]
- Painful, sore sensation on a small spot on the right side of the hairy scalp. [Gff.]

Painful gnawing on the right protuberance of the occiput, as from a mouse. [Ng.]

Pain as from festering, on one side of the hairy scalp.

165. Sore pain of the outer integuments of the head, without reference to the touch (aft. 3 d.). [Frz.]

Sore itching, frequently, on a small spot in the middle of the hairy scalp. [Gff.]

Itching pimples on the hairy scalp. (aft. 5 d.).

Itching, humid eruption on and above both the temples.

Sensation as if the scalp was forced together in one spot.

[Rl.]

170. Sensation as of horripilation, especially above the left ear.

[Gff.]

Pain of the hair on the vertex, even at the slightest touch.

The hair of the head keeps coming out.

Pain in the eyes, as if they were pressed inward. [Lqr.]

Pressure above the right eye, quickly arising and painful, with a sensation as of pressing down in the lids. [Htm.]

175. Pressure on the eyes toward evening. [Gff.]

Very frequent pressure on the eyes. [Lqr.]

Constant pressure in the left eye in the evening. [Frz.]

Pressure on the edge of the left lower eyelid, near the inner canthus. [Gff.]

Violent pressure in the right eye and in the temple.

180. Painful pressure in the right inner canthus, with redness of the conjunctiva.

Tensive pressure in the right eye, as if rheumatic. [Gff.]

Pressive tearing in the left eye. [Gff.]

Shooting tearing in the eyes and in the head. [Lqr.]

Fine, shooting tearing in and above the left eyebrow. [Gff.]

185. A tearing stich above the left eye and at the same time in the umbilical region. [Lqr.]

Fine pricking as with needles in the lower right eyelid and in the left upper eyelid. [Gff.]

Pressive shooting in the right eyeball (3d d.). [Gff.]

Cutting pressive stich in the right eye (1st and 6th d.).

[Gff.]

Itching of the eyes (5th d.). [Lqr.]

190. Itching on the edge of the left upper eyelid. [Gff.]

Severe itching in the left eye, going off by rubbing.

[Ng.]

Frequent tickling in the right eye, as if dust had penetrated into it (aft. 4 d.). [Lqr.]

Biting of the left eye; it goes off by rubbing. [Ng.]

Biting in the inner canthus of the right eye, going off by rubbing. [Ng.]

195. Pricking itching in the lower part of the left eye, and below it on the cheek. [Gff.]

Itching of the eyes with a sore pain, especially in the right eye, in the evening. [Gff.]

Sensation of soreness in the inner canthi (9th d.).

[Gff.]

- Sensation of soreness on the right upper eyelid. [Gff.]
 Soreness of the outer canthi, with a biting pain.
200. Burning and soreness, with photophobia, in the eye in which there is lachrymation especially in the evening, while it is agglutinated in the morning.
 Constant burning in the eyes, in the afternoon. [Ng.]
 Burning of the left eyelid, as if it was too dry. [Rl.]
 Much burning in the eyes and lids, in the morning and evening, with sensation of dryness and pressure therein. [Rl.]
 Pressive burning, especially in the left eyelid, while reading. [Rl.]
205. Inflammation and redness of the conjunctiva of the right eye; the inner canthus suppurates; in the evening and night, the eye is most painful, as from sand therein, with frequent lachrymation; also the upper lid is red and swollen, toward the inner canthus.
 Violent inflammation of the eyes, without photophobia (during the menses.)
 Lachrymation in the morning, on awaking, as also in the open air. [Ng.]
 Profuse humidity about the eyes by day; in the morning they are closed by suppuration.
 The inner canthus is agglutinated in the morning, with a pressive, sore sensation (aft. 13 d.).
210. Quivering in the left lower eyelid. [Ng.]
 Quivering in the left eyeball. [Ng.]
 Twitching in the arch of the left eyebrow (very soon and aft. 2 h.). [Sw.]
 Great restlessness and unbearable pain in the left eye, often attended with great weakness in the head (aft. 6 d.). [Lqr.]
 The eyes are wearied (continually). [Also Lqr.]
215. Morbid sensation of weariness in the eyes. [Frz.]
 Failure of the eyes, with lachrymation and burning, after dinner and frequently while writing, for fourteen days. [Ng.]
 The eyes are immovable (they fail), with absent mindedness.
 Obscuration of the eyes (aft. 34 d.).
 Dim and misty appearance before the eyes, in the morning after awaking. [Ng.]
220. Flickering before the eyes.
 Yellow, blue and green wheels before the eyes, with cachectic appearance and sleepiness. [Ng.]
 Fiery flakes fly in great arches before the eyes, when looking up into the sky. [Rl.]
 Dread of the sunlight, attended with dim and lachrymating eyes. [Ng.]
 Tearing in the ears. [Gff.]
225. Tearing in the ears, at various times, occasionally attended with itching, or in the morning with a crawling sensation, or in the evening with burning. [Ng.]
 Pinching drawing behind the left ear, extending into the lower jaw. [Gff.]
 Painful cramp in the left lobule of the ear. [Rl.]

- Violent cramp-like pain in the left lobule of the ear, down toward the neck, on boring with the finger in the left ear.
- Shooting in the right ear (7th d.). [Gff.]
230. Shooting and itching in the ear.
Violent stitches in the ears. [Lqr.]
Continuous, frequent, acutely painful, tearing stitches, deep in the right ear, near the tympanum (1st and 2d d.). [Frz.]
Shooting and tearing on the left ear, close to the lobule. [Ng.]
Itching in the left ear, with sensation, after inserting the finger, as if fleas were jumping about in it. [Ng.]
235. Itching in the right ear, disappearing on boring in it. [Ng.]
Tickling in the left ear, not passing away through rubbing. [Ng.]
Discharge from the left ear (aft. 24 h.)
A fetid humor comes from the left ear (aft. 18 d.).
Much discharge of pus from the left ear, day and night; the ear at its orifice is hot and swollen, with headache on the left side (aft. 24 h.).
240. Very severe hardness of hearing.
Fluttering before the right ear. [Gff.]
Dull fluttering and pulsation in the ear in the evening, very troublesome while writing. [Frz.]
Crashing as of a window pane, when going to sleep. [Rl.]
Ringing in the right ear, at night. [Ng.]
245. Loud buzzing in the ears.
Detonation and beating in the ear, after breakfast. [Ng.]
Lancinating pain in the septum of the nose when touched. [Rl.]
Pressure on the root of the nose, as if it would be pressed into the head, almost unendurable; frequently, mostly about noon. [Lqr.]
Pinching in the root of the nose, with muddled feeling in the forehead. [Gff.]
250. Pinching in the root of the nose, with shooting in the jaw. [Lqr.]
Pinching in the root of the nose, drawing into the eye. [Lqr.]
Drawing and tearing extending up the right nostril, after dinner. [Ng.]
Twitching tearing in the right side of the nose. [Ng.]
Fine tearing pain externally on the right side of the nose. [Ng.]
255. Sharp cutting on the inner edge of the left ala nasi. [Gff.]
Sore sensation high up in the nostrils, tearing in the right nostril. [Gff.]
Swelling of the right side of the nose (aft. 48 h.).
Swelling and painfulness of the left ala nasi. [Rl.]
Itching in the right nostril. [Ng.]
260. The tip of the nose and the lobule of the ear freeze in slight cold (aft. 36 h.).

A red, swollen, hard point on the left ala nasi, painful when pressing upon it, for three days. [Ng.]

Blowing blood from the nose, frequently, during the first days.

Paleness of the face. [Fz. u. Hbd.]

Face of an earthy paleness, as after a long illness. [Ng.]

265. Pain in the bone below and in front of the right ear, as after a blow, while touching the spot. [Gff.]

Pressive, contractive pain in the bone below and in front of the right ear, with muddled feeling in the forehead. [Gff.]

Pressive pain in the upper jaw, beside the left ala nasi. [Gff.]

Tearing in the bone before the left ear. [Gff.]

Tearing in the left cheek. [Ng.]

270. Tearing in the right zygoma, with bruised pain of the spot when pressing upon it. [Ng.]

Bruised pain of the bones of the face and the orbit (aft. several h.).

Pricking, as from needles, in the face, by jerks.

Pressive, sudden stitch from the right zygomatic arch to the upper margin of the orbit, deep in the bone, and then great sensitiveness of the spot, in the evening. [Ng.]

Swelling and itching of the left cheek.

275. Itching in the face in the evening.

Eruption of pimples in the face. [Rl.]

Pain in the lips, twitching tearing in the right side of the upper lip. [Gff.]

Fine stitches in the upper lip (aft.  $\frac{1}{4}$  h.). [Sw.]

Transient stitch in the upper lip (aft. 20 min.). [Sw.]

280. Violent muscular twitches in the side of the upper lip. [Gff.]

Swelling of the upper lip (aft. sever. h.).

Swelling of the lips.

Itching on the upper lip, the chin and about the mouth, without eruption (aft. 24 h.).

Burning in the right corner of the mouth (1st. d.). [Gff.]

285. Eruptive pimple on the upper lip (aft. 14 h.).

Vesicles, clear like water, or also suppurating pustules on the upper lip. [Ng.]

Flat, red pimple in the middle of the upper lip, on the margin; painful when touched.

Small, white pimples, with some humidity on the upper lip, on the chin and on the forehead (after moderate drinking of wine). [Frz.]

Large, yellowish white, itching pimple on the lower lip.

290. Thick, viscid humor on the lips, without smell and taste (6th d.). [Lqr.]

Dry, cracked lips.

Sore, ulcerated corner of the mouth. [Hbd.]

Sore upper lip, ulcerated in the middle. [Rl.]

A yellow, little ulcer on the inner surface of the lower lip (aft. 4 d.). [Sw.]

295. Tensive painful chap on the lower lip. [Ng.]

Burning rhagade on the inner side of the upper lip. [Ng.]

On the chin, severe itching and redness on the whole of its prominent part (aft. 2 d.).

A pimple, itching intensely, almost in the middle of the chin.

Many little pustules, close together, under the chin, severely itching (aft. 8 d.)

300. Tearing stitches in the chin and on the neck, passing over into one another (6th d.). [Lgr.]

In the lower jaw, now and then cramplike tearing, especially in the chin (3d d.). [Gff.]

Shooting pain in the articulation of the jaw, below and in front of the left ear, on sliding the jaw along, on biting strongly and on pressing with the finger on the articulation.

Swelling of the submaxillary glands.

Frequent toothache, with drawing pain in the roots of the incisors. [Gff.]

305. Drawing in the left upper incisors. [Gff.]

Drawing pain in the roots of the upper front teeth and at the same time in the fauces, extending into the cervical muscles. [Gff.]

Drawing, now on the right side, now on the left, in the postreme lower molar. [Gff.]

Acutely painful drawing in the upper front teeth, with sensation of soreness in the gums, toward noon (aft. 9 d.).

Pressive drawing in the right lower molars. [Gff.]

310. A beating drawing, alternately in the posterior lower molar on the right side and on the left. [Gff.]

Jerking, sharp drawing in the last two upper molars, at various times. [Gff.]

Sharp, jerking drawing, suddenly, in all the incisors. [Gff.]

Twitching in the right lower molars, in the evening, after lying down, till falling asleep. [Ng.]

Twitching in the left teeth, occasionally. [Ng.]

315. Painful jerk in a tooth (aft. 1 h.).

Twitching violent tearing in the last lower molars on the right side. [Gff.]

Tearing in the last lower molar on the left side, in the evening. [Ng.]

Tearing in the last lower molar on the left side, above and below; then tearing in the cheek extending up on the temple and into the forehead. [Ng.]

Tearing in a hollow molar; by sucking, blood is drawn out, and by pressing upon it, the pain is occasionally increased. [Ng.]

320. Tearing, extending from the root of an upper tooth on the right side toward the temple, in the evening after lying down. [Ng.]

Tearing in the right upper roots (soon). [Ng.]

Tearing and drawing in the left lower teeth, especially in the incisors. [Gff.]

Tearing in the left upper molars. [Gff.]

Sensitiveness of the upper molars with sore pain, with a drawing sore pain in a lower left molar, which protrudes from its

- socket and waggles; with swelling of the submaxillary gland on that side. [Frz.]
325. Constant shooting in the left lower molars, in the evening. [Ng.]
 Shooting in the roots of the left upper cuspidatus and the adjacent incisor. [Gff.]
 Stitches in the left row of teeth, in the lower jaw and down the neck. [Rl.]
 Twitching stitches in the left posterior lower molars, also in the evening after going to sleep, suddenly awaking from sleep. [Gff.]
 Pricking and pecking in sound teeth, with drawing pain in the jaws (aft. 9 d.)
330. Beating pain in a hollow tooth, only after a meal, or after getting heated and taking cold.
 Painful burning in all the front teeth, with smarting on all the lower surface of the tongue. [Gff.]
 Sensation of dullness in the teeth. [Rl.]
 Gumboil on a rotten root of a tooth, which is sensitive when touched, with sensation as if the tooth was too long; on pressing upon it, blood came out. [Ng.]
 The gums are painful on the inner surface as if sore, and detach themselves from the teeth. [Rl.]
335. Pain in the gums, so that he cannot chew because of it. [Rl.]
 Erosion and itching on the inner surface of the gums. [Rl.]
 The gums are white.
 Swelling of the gums (aft. 12 d.).
 Swelling of the gums with sore pain (15th d.).
340. Bleeding of the gums at the least touch.
Profuse bleeding of the gums. [Also Gff.]
 Bleeding from the teeth and gums. [Gff.]
 Gathering of saliva in the mouth, with inclination to vomit. [Htb.]
 Increased secretion of saliva, with metallic taste in the mouth (1st d.). [Sw.]
345. Increased secretion of saliva with metallic taste, and transient stitches in the tip of the tongue. [Sw.]
Increased secretion of saliva, with formication on the inner surface of the cheeks. [Sw.]
 Formication on the inner surface of the cheeks, as from blowing severely (soon). [Sw.]
 A small yellow ulcer on the inner surface of the left cheek, especially painful in the morning (3d d.). [Sw.]
 The tongue is painful as if sore.
350. The tongue is coated yellowish white, especially toward its root. [Htb.]
 White-coated tongue, as from cheese, without taste, but with a sensation as of icy coldness, in the morning (4th d.). [Ng.]
 Dryness of the tongue. [Ng.]
Blisters on the tongue.
 A blister on the tongue, which pains when eating.
355. Swelling of the left side of the tongue, impeding speech.

Weakness of the organs of speech, when reading aloud.

On the palate, a shooting smarting, close to the roots of the front teeth and in the same. [Gff.]

Swelling of the prominence of the palate close behind the incisors, with pain when touched, for three days. [Gff.]

Painfulness of the palate and gums during dinner, while chewing. [Gff.]

360. Simple pain posteriorly on the palate and the velum palati, especially when yawning (aft. 48 h.).

Dryness of the throat, in the evening.

Dryness posteriorly in the fauces, in the morning, on awaking and also later, with thirst. [Ng.]

Dryness in the throat during deglutition and also else, after dinner. [Ng.]

Scratchy rawness in the fauces, toward evening.

365. Roughness in the throat, also during deglutition. [Ng.]

Smarting scratching frequently, posteriorly in the fauces, as in violent coryza. [Gff.]

Sensation posteriorly in the fauces, as of accumulation of mucus, with incitation to hawking from time to time. [Gff.]

White mucus in a large lump comes into the mouth, through the posterior nares, without hawking. [Gff.]

Greenish mucus, which adheres firmly down in the throat, is hawked up, with a sore pain in the upper part of the chest.

370. Pressive pain in both the tonsils, while swallowing, in the evening and through the night.

Sensation of cramp and spasm in the pit of the throat, or in the upper part of the œsophagus like a pressure from below upward, or as in swallowing (soon). [Frz.]

Cramp-like, choking sore throat, more externally in the muscles, while swallowing even liquids. [Rl.]

Sensation of contraction in the œsophagus, while swallowing, with an urging to swallow frequently.

Pain in the throat as from an interior swelling, also during empty deglutition (aft. 2 and 6 d.).

375. Sore pain in the throat, and sensation in the œsophagus of being stuffed full.

Pain in the throat while swallowing, with swelling of the outside of the neck and of the tonsils.

Tearing, drawing sore throat, posteriorly on both sides of the œsophagus more per se during empty deglutition. [Gff.]

Sharp, twitching tearing, extending from the fauces into the left cervical muscles (5th d.). [Gff.]

Burning in the throat, like heartburn, also in swallowing. [Ng.]

380. Taste of blood in the mouth and sweet rising from the stomach. [Ng.]

Sensation of choking internally on the right side of the throat, only when not swallowing. [Ng.]

Something rose up into her throat in the evening after lying down, with a sweetish taste like blood. [Ng.]

- Taste anteriorly in the mouth as from rotten cheese; this goes off in swallowing, to which he is compelled by mucus in the throat. [Ng.]
- Taste of blood in the mouth, with a sensation of dryness in the throat, and sore sensation rising up from the chest. [Ng.]
385. Sweet taste anteriorly under the tongue. [Rl.]
Salty in the mouth and dry in the throat.
Bitter taste in the mouth (aft. several d.).
Bitter, slimy taste in the mouth, in the morning on awaking; it goes off after rising. [Ng.]
Taste in the mouth as from chewed raw peas.
390. Burning thirst (6th d.). [Lgr.]
Intense thirst for water.
Thirst for beer, in the evening. [Ng.]
Thirst from noon till evening, or also from morning till evening. [Ng.]
Thirst during dinner or after dinner. [Ng.]
395. Thirst in the evening till lying down, with increased bodily warmth. [Ng.]
Thirst with heat in the palms, in the afternoon. [Ng.]
Thirst in the afternoon during the menses. [Ng.]
Less appetite. [Frz.]
No appetite and hardly any taste.
400. Little appetite at dinner. [Lgr.]
Distaste to meat, and to cooked warm food.
Distaste for fish (which before that he was very fond of).
No hunger in the evening. [Htb.]
There is no hunger in the morning (aft. 1½ h.). [Htb.]
405. Diminished appetite at noon. [Htb.]
Less hunger at noon, but more in the afternoon. [Ng.]
He does not relish his dinner, while there is pain in the stomach as from fasting. [Ng.]
Loathing of veal, which she usually liked, in the evening; the morsel swelled up in her mouth. [Ng.]
Loathing and aversion to the sweetness of sugar. [Htb.]
410. The dinner tastes better than usually. [Ng.]
The hunger can hardly be satisfied, in the evening. [Lgr. and Gff.]
Voracious hunger.
Haste in eating.
Great voracity and hasty deglutition.
415. Insatiability and yet no relish for food.
Insatiability at noon and in the evening, yet after eating a sensation of being too full.
Incitation in the fauces to eat, also after the meal and after satisfying this desire, too great fullness in the stomach and pressure in the head.
Difficult digestion. [Lgr.]
It seems to favor acidity in the stomach.
420. After food, she has sour eructations.
Sour eructations, after breakfasting on rolls and milk.

After partaking of sweets, there is acrid rising into the fauces, producing disagreeable scratching in the larynx as from heartburn.

After dinner, there is sensation as if the food had lodged in the œsophagus.

After supper there is soon an intense bitterness in the mouth, but only for a short time. [Rl.]

425. An hour and a half after a moderate dinner, burning in the stomach, with eructation and inclination to vomit. [Gff.]

Immediately or soon after eating, great fullness and inflation of the abdomen.

Two hours after dinner, disagreeable sensation of emptiness in the stomach and abdomen, with hunger. [Frz.]

After dinner and after supper, loathing, inflation and vomituration in the stomach, with inclination to eructation, which goes off after discharge of flatus. [Ng.]

After a meal, pressure and clucking in the epigastrium. [Gff.]

430. At dinner, grasping in the epigastrium.

After eating soup, grasping, most in the epigastrium.

After dinner, brief bleeding of the nose, on blowing it, then stupefaction in the forehead, as from a blow, while objects swim before the eyes.

After dinner, dizziness. [Rl.]

After a meal, dizziness, as if he was looking through a veil.

[Rl.]

435. Eructation, frequent and empty, in the evening or forenoon. [Ng. and Gff.]

Ineffectual desire for eructation, then empty eructation, with relief. [Ng.]

Abortive eructation, with pressure on the middle of the spine. [Gff.]

By empty eructation, flatulence is discharged upward, but with pressure on the chest and not without effort. [Gff.]

Loud eructation, frequently, while the pulse is sometimes accelerated, sometimes retarded and weak. [Ng.]

440. Eructation with taste of milk, in the afternoon. [Ng.]

Sweetish eructation. [Ng.]

Sourish, empty eructation, after drinking or after dinner.

[Ng.]

Sour eructation and regurgitation. [Ng.]

Eructation with taste of the meat eaten. [Ng.]

445. Eructation during breakfast, with taste of the same. [Ng.]

Eructation, first empty then with taste of the fat eaten. [Ng.]

Hiccup, for half an hour (aft. 4 d.).

Hiccup, also very violent in the evening, or after breakfast.

[Ng.]

Nausea during breakfast. [Ng.]

450. Nausea, in the morning, as from an emetic. [Lqr.]

Nausea in the stomach, with trembling and lack of tone all over the body. [Ng.]

Sensation of nausea in the stomach, when the body is shaken up by washing and after stooping in sitting down. [Hib.]

Nausea, after a noon-siesta of half an hour; he had to expectorate much, for an hour.

Nausea, with choking and with vomiting of a bitter, slimy fluid, and lastly of the ingesta, with impulses of coughing, with a sensation of warmth, especially in the abdomen; perspiration, chilliness running over the arms, shaking of the body, empty eructation, hiccups, rumbling and pinching in the abdomen; stooping forward while sitting diminishes the nausea; but on sitting up straight, on moving and on pressing upon the abdomen, nausea and vomiting at once return (aft. 10 min. till aft 3½ h.).

[Hhb.]

455. Retching up of bloody mucus (aft. 40 d.).
 Stomachache, as if from emptiness, with nausea. [Ng.]
 Qualmish and sick at stomach, in the morning, in bed; it goes off after rising. [Ng.]
 Qualmish in the stomach after breakfast; also after dinner. [Ng.]
 Disagreeable sensation in the upper orifice of the stomach and extending somewhat up into the œsophagus. [Hbd.]
460. Pain about the stomach and in the abdomen, in the morning. [Ng.]
 Sharp pains in the stomach and in the scrobiculus cordis. [Lqr.]
 Pain in the scrobiculus cordis on inspiring; the breath is retained, after dinner. [Ng.]
 Pain in the scrobiculus cordis, which when pressed upon, burns and aches, in the evening. [Ng.]
 Pressure in the stomach, then shooting in the cardiac region, in the morning after rising. [Ng.]
465. Pressure and sensation of coldness in the stomach, at noon. [Ng.]
 Pressure in the scrobiculus cordis. [Gff.]
 Contraction from both sides of the stomach, with anxiety and increased warmth in the head and in the whole body. [Ng.]
 Screwing together in the scrobiculus cordis. [Ng.]
 Pain as if the stomach was pressed together; in the morning while fasting.
470. Frequent pinching in the scrobiculus cordis. [Gff.]
 Tightness in the scrobiculus cordis. [Gff.]
 Pinching in the depth of the region of the scrobiculus cordis, increased on taking a deep breath (aft. 1 h). [Sw.]
 Drawing in and below the scrobiculus cordis (1st and 2d d.). [Lqr.]
 Tearing and pointed lancination in and below the scrobiculus cordis, frequently repeated. [Gff.]
475. Stitches darting toward one another, from both sides of the stomach, with a simultaneous stitch in the middle of the sternum. [Ng.]
 Beating below the scrobiculus cordis, as if in the peritoneum, like pulsation or like the motion of a worm. [Ng.]
 Burning in the upper part of the stomach, while fasting. [Gff.]

- Moving about in the stomach, with sensation of coldness, at noon. [Ng.]
- Gurgling and clucking in the stomach, while yawning, at noon, also in the evening. [Ng.]
480. In the hypochondria, cramplike pains, alternating with tightness in the chest and difficult breathing. [Sw.]
- In the right hypochondrium, pressure on a small spot. [Gff.]
- Pinching pressure in the hepatic region. [Gff.]
- Pinching, squeezing pressure on a small spot of the hepatic region. [Gff.]
- Pinching in the right hypochondrium and the right side of the abdomen, as from incarcerated flatulence, increased by moving. [Gff.]
485. Jerking tearing, drawing and pressure in the right hypochondrium. [Gff.]
- Intermittent tearing in the hepatic region. [Gff.]
- Shooting in the hepatic region and the right hip. [Gff.]
- Shooting in the right hypochondriac region, during sour eructation and while inspiring. [Ng.]
- Shooting in the right hypochondrium at various times, at times simultaneously in the region of the hips, so violent as to cause screaming, or with external burning or smarting; at times also in the evening or after dinner. [Ng.]
490. Some stitches in the right side of the abdomen.
- Sharp twitching stitches in the hepatic region, after supper. [Gff.]
- Pressure on the left hypochondrium. [Gff.]
- Pressive pinching in the left hypochondrium (in the splenetic region), at times in paroxysms. [Gff.]
- Pressure with shooting, in the left hypochondrium. [Rl.]
495. Pressive shooting, deep in the splenetic region, aggravated by pressing upon the spot. [Gff.]
- Shooting in the left hypochondrium (the splenetic region). [Gff.]
- Shooting in the left hypochondrium, also in the evening, while walking and standing. [Ng.]
- Dull shooting in the splenetic region. [Gff.]
- Slowly pulsating sensation of soreness in the left hypochondrium. [Gff.]
500. The renal region on the left side is sensitive when touched. [Gff.]
- Pressure in the renal region on the left side, at times with violent pinching. [Gff.]
- Pinching in the renal region. [Gff.]
- Tearing in the right renal region, at times lancinating. [Gff.]
- Sharp, intermitting tearing in the left renal region. [Gff.]
505. Occasional cutting tearing, at times a drawing pressure in the right renal region. [Gff.]
- Shooting in the renal region, at times extending to the chest, in the evening, or after dinner. [Ng.]
- Shooting in the left renal region, in paroxysms. [Gff.]

- Dull shooting in the right renal region (9th d.). [Gff.]
Shooting pressure in both the renal regions. [Gff. and Lqr.]
510. Shooting and bruised pain in the left renal region, while standing and walking. [Frz.]
 Sore pain in the left renal region. [Gff.]
 Pain in the abdomen, as from incipient diarrhœa. [Lqr.]
 Occasional violent pains in the abdomen, with nausea and with water running from the mouth, sometimes fetid mucus runs out with it, taking away all her appetite.
 Pressive pain in the abdomen, as from flatulence. [Gff.]
515. Pressure in the whole of the abdomen (4th d.). [Gff.]
 Pressure in the right side of the abdomen, close to the hip (9th d.). [Gff.]
 Pressure in the abdomen and puffiness, from the scrobiculus cordis down to below the umbilicus, with sensitiveness of the right upper eyelid. [Gff.]
 Pressure in the abdomen, with much inflation, after partaking of only a slight amount of food (2d d.). [Gff.]
 Pressive sensation deep in the hypogastrium, with formication extending to the commencement of the urethra. [Gff.]
520. Pressure in the abdomen which is (not otherwise) inflated, toward evening, with discharge of much inodorous flatus. [Gff.]
 Pressure extending into the abdomen, from the fauces downward, as if a solid body offered resistance from below upward.
 Pressure in the hypogastrium, then an ordinary stool, with cessation of the pain. [Ng.]
Dull pressure on a small spot below the umbilicus, as from an internal induration, aggravated by external pressure, as well as by drawing in the abdomen. [Gff.]
Hard pressure, as from flatulence, in the sides of the abdomen, the hypochondria and the back, even in the morning in bed, aggravated by walking, without discharge of flatus; only slightly relieved after a stool, but renewed again by movement in walking, many days in succession (aft. 2 d.).
525. Sharp pressure between the scrobiculus cordis and the umbilicus, especially aggravated by drawing in the abdomen, but diminished by the eructation caused thereby. [Gff.]
 Pressure in the middle of the abdomen, soon after a moderate supper. [Gff.]
 Tension in both sides of the abdomen (1st d.). [Gff.]
 Sensation of tension above the navel, with sensation of qualmishness in the scrobiculus cordis. [Frz.]
 Tensive pain in the left side of the abdomen, relieved by eructations (1st d.). [Gff.]
530. Severe inflation of the abdomen, in the evening, when going to sleep without taking supper (aft. 2 d.).
 Fullness in the abdomen, immediately after eating, as if filled with flatulence (aft. 24 h.).
 Heaviness in the abdomen.
 Colicky, dull pains in the abdomen. [Lqr.]
 Constricting pain in the abdomen, arresting the breath. [Rl.]

535. Contractive pain in the left side of the hypogastrium, when walking and when pressing upon it; passing away while sitting; after dinner. [Ng.]

Severe pains in the abdomen, contracting the whole abdomen, at once after midnight while lying down, but more yet on rising (aft. 5 d.).

Very violent pinching in the forepart of the abdomen, with discharge of flatus, in the evening. [Ng.]

Pinching in the abdomen, extending to the stomach, where it is contractive, in the evening; she has to double up. [Ng.]

Pinching in the epigastrium, with frequent discharge of flatus and with itching above the hip, in the evening. [Ng.]

540. Pinching in the abdomen, at various times (also in the sides of the abdomen and about the navel), at times when yawning, or after breakfast, or with colic after dinner. [Ng.]

Slight pinching here and there in the abdomen. [Htb.]

Pressive pinching below the umbilicus, while walking, as if from flatulence.

Tensive pinching in the abdomen, then dull shooting toward the scrobiculus cordis, more perceptible on concussion and on drawing in the abdomen. [Gff.]

Shooting pinching in the umbilical region. [Gff.]

545. Pinching or cutting in the abdomen, on different days, at times in the morning, also frequently followed by soft or diarrhœic stools. [Ng.]

Cutting in the epigastrium. [Gff.]

Cutting transversely through the abdomen, below the navel. [Gff.]

Cutting in the epigastrium, while eating. [Ng.]

Cutting in the whole of the abdomen, from the evening after lying down, till morning. [Ng.]

550. Violent cutting in the whole abdomen, after partaking of milk, with growling and frequent discharge of flatus. [Ng.]

Sharp cutting stitch in the left hypogastrium, just after the discharge of some flatus. [Gff.]

Cutting stitch, transversely across the umbilical region. [Gff.]

Shooting in the abdomen, with inflation of the same.

Pricking in the hypogastrium, as from needles. [Gff.]

555. Dull shooting, as from an internal ulcer on a small spot, on the right side above the navel, aggravated by touching and by movement (5th, 9th d.). [Gff.]

Stitches in the left side of the hypogastrium. [Ng.]

Sharp lancination in the abdomen, as if the intestines were being pierced with fine needles, in paroxysms. [Lqr.]

Violent, penetrating stitch through the right os ilium, from the upper to the lower part, on bending the body over with the abdomen hard pressed against something. [Ng.]

The pressure in the abdomen, as from flatulence, arising after dinner and supper, is changed while walking, into lancinations, and is finally removed by discharge of flatus. [Gff.]

560. Burning stitches in the abdomen (8th. d.), [Gff.]

Tearing stitches in the umbilical region (8th d.). [Lqr.]

- Frequent dull tearing deep in the right hypogastrium, drawing into the flank (7th, 8th d.). [Gff.]
- Dull tearing deep in the side of the left hypogastrium, starting from the region of the hip. [Gff.]
- Writhing pain in the abdomen, before every discharge of flatus, in the morning in bed. [Rl.]
565. Itching in the whole of the epigastrium. [Ng.]
- Bruised sensation in the right side of the hypogastrium, as if a spot there was decaying. [Frz.]
- In the bend of the groin, sensation while walking, as if the muscles there were too short.
- A screwing together in the left inguinal region, extending up into the chest. [Ng.]
- Violent pinching in the right flank and the right inguinal region, as in the suppression of urine, both at rest and in motion, and renewed on rising from a seat. [Ng.]
570. Stitches in the left flank, in the morning, after awaking. [Ng.]
- Lancinating pressure, somewhat above the inguinal region. [Frz.]
- Pricking with alternate drawing in the left inguinal region, at night, disturbing the sleep (1st n.) [Sw.]
- Frequent drawing, in the region of the left flank (first day). [Sw.]
- Drawing pain in the region of the left flank, while sitting. [Frz.]
575. Drawing and pressing, in the region of the os pubis and of the flanks, many days in succession. [Sw.]
- Pressure and squeezing in the region of the os pubis, for four days (aft. 24 h.). [Sw.]
- Twitching pressure in the right inguinal region. [Gff.]
- Painful strangulation in the left flank, as if a hernia was forming. [Hm.]
- An inguinal hernia protrudes (aft. 37 d.).
580. The inguinal hernia is protruded with violence (aft. 5 d.).
- In the inguinal gland, a sensation as if swollen. [Rl.]
- Flatulent motions in the abdomen. [Sw.]
- Much flatus in the abdomen, which is not discharged; then pressive flatulent colic soon after a meal, much increased by moving and walking.
- Accumulation and incarceration of flatulence in the abdomen, more in the hypogastrium, and pressive flatulent colic, in the evening (aft. 12 h.)
585. Accumulation of flatulence in the abdomen, causing the varices to protrude; these are then very painful, especially when lying down (aft. sever. h.)
- Incarceration of flatus, in the morning, in bed, painful like colic, with loud growling and grumbling in the abdomen (aft. 4 d.).
- She suffers much from flatulence.
- Restlessness in the abdomen, without pain, but very disagreeable.

- Movements and growling in the abdomen with frequent discharge of flatus, especially in the evening, or with cutting in the hypogastrium after dinner. [Ng.]
590. Rumbling and growling in the whole of the abdomen, then painful retraction of the abdomen, with a sensation as if a stool was coming. [Ng.]
 Frequent grumbling in the left side of the abdomen, in the evening. [Ng.]
 Severe fermenting rumbling, then groaning in the right side of the abdomen. [Hhb.]
Rumbling and noises in the abdomen, in the evening (aft. 2 d.). [Hbd. u. Frz.]
 Much growling in the abdomen in the morning. [Gff.]
595. Loud and frequent rumbling in the abdomen.
Loud growling in the abdomen, violent and frequent, without pain (aft. 72 h.).
 Frequent gurgling in the epigastrium and hypogastrium (7th, 9th and 10th d.). [Gff.]
 Frequent discharge of flatus (1st d.). [Frz.]
Frequent discharge of hot flatus, both loud and soft, in the evening. [Also Ng.]
600. Hot, very fetid flatus is frequently discharged after dinner till night. [Ng.]
 Putrid fetid flatus.
 Ill-scented flatus is frequently discharged with noise toward morning, without flatulent troubles in the abdomen, for several evenings successively; the first discharges were inodorous. [Frz.]
 Call to stool, with movements in the abdomen (very soon). [Sw.]
 The stool is suppressed (1st d.). [Ng.]
605. Constipation during the whole of the first period of proving. [Lqr.]
 Constipation, but there is some call to stool. [Gff.]
 Ineffectual urging to stool (20th d.).
 Repeated ineffectual call to stool (aft. 2 d.).
 Call to stool, in the morning and after meals.
610. Long-continued call to stool, which at last only results with great efforts, though soft.
Dry, insufficient stool, only every two or three days (2d, 4th, 6th d.). [Gff.]
 Tough, scanty stool, followed by tenesmus and heat and burning in the anus (10th d.). [Gff.]
 Tough, light-yellow stool, with lancination in the anus (12th d.). [Gff.]
 Difficult discharge of the (soft) stool, with flow of prostatic juice.
615. Unshapen, thickly-formed stool, which is only evacuated with great efforts of the abdominal muscles. [Rl.]
 Difficult, hard stool, the whole of the first period. [Lqr.]
 Hard stool, with discharge of some blood (aft. 4 d.).
 Hard stool, with renewed urging afterward. [Ng.]

- Hard, often lumpy stool, only discharged in pieces, with pressure and clawing in the anus. [Ng.]
620. Hard, small, pretty dry stool, with much pressure and with rumbling in the abdomen, in the evening. [Htb.]
 Hard stool, in the commencement, which toward the end becomes easy and soft (13th d.). [Lqr.]
 Hard, thick stool, at first, toward the end it is soft; the whole of it is light-colored.
 Hard stool, in the morning, without pressing; then immediately after dinner, a very soft stool, accompanied and followed by vertigo and humming in the head. [Ng.]
 First a little hard stool, then several very scanty, soft stools, in the evening. [Htb.]
625. Soft stool, after dinner, with cessation of the abdominal pains. [Ng.]
 Several pappy, soft stools a day, enveloped in bright-red, frothy blood, and preceded by colic (1st d.). [Frz.]
 The stool is thinner and more easy than usual (aft. 6 h.). [Gff.]
 Very thin, diarrhœic stool, with much discharge of flatus (the second time during the day.) [Htb.]
 Diarrhœa, in the evening, with pinching in the abdomen (2d d.). [Ng.]
630. Two diarrhœic stools in two hours, and after these leucorrhœa (7th d.). [Ng.]
 Pappy diarrhœa for many days, without pain, only some tenesmus after the stool, as if more would come. [Stf.]
 At every discharge of stool and of flatus, pains in the abdomen (aft. 6 d.).
 During the stool, burning in the anus. [Ng.]
 Immediately after the stool, burning in the anus.
635. After the dry stool, pressure in the hypogastrium. [Gff.]
 After the (normal) stool, lancinating pain in the abdomen (aft. 5 d.).
 After a copious stool, pain in the abdomen. [Lqr.]
 The rectum seems pressed upon by flatus, but none is discharged. [Lqr.]
 Sensation in the rectum, in the evening, as if the flatus was pressed against the coccyx and there kept back.
640. Pressing and boring from the rectum into the abdomen, so that she could not remain sitting.
 Heaviness in the rectum, while standing, this goes off through discharge of flatus.
 Drawing pain in the rectum, extending into the abdomen (aft. 24 h.).
 Cutting and erosion in the rectum.
 Jerking cutting on the anus. [Gff.]
645. Tearing on the anus. [Gff.]
 Stitches in the anus (10th d.).
 Stitches into the anus. [Ng.]
 A strangulating stitch, darting like lightning and starting from the anus into the rectum (aft. 3 d.).

- Twitching stitches from the rectum into the root of the penis.
 [Gff.]
650. Burning lancination in the anus, in the evening, while walking. [Hib.]
 Crawling shooting in the anus, in the morning. [Gff.]
 Crawling pressure in the anus (6th d.). [Gff.]
Crawling in the anus as if from worms. [Gff.]
 Itching in the rectum.
655. Itching in the anus, in the evening. [Ng.]
 Itching in the anus, terminating in a dull pain. [Lqr.]
 Intense itching on the anus, after a soft stool.
 Violent itching on the anus, for several days (aft. 4 d.)
 [Lqr.]
Violent itching in the anus, almost every day. [Gff.]
660. Severe itching on the anus, and exudation of an erosive humor.
 Sore formication in the anus. [Gff.]
 Soreness in the rectum.
 Burning sensation of soreness in the anus, in the evening
 (1st d.). [Gff.]
Burning in the anus (11th d.). [Also Ng.]
665. Varices of the anus protrude, with erosive pain.
 Discharge of blood from the anus (10th d.).
 The urine presses hard upon her bladder (aft. 4 d.).
 Frequent urging to urinate, at night, with slight discharge.
 [Ng.]
 Urging to urinate, every evening, after micturition, on lying down, but only three to four drops are discharged at a time, yet without pain. [Ng.]
670. The urine is only discharged slowly and in a very thin stream.
 [Ng.]
 The urine is discharged by drops, in the evening for three days (16th d.). [Ng.]
 The urine after dinner seems diminished. [Ng.]
 Diminished, pale urine, in the evening and morning (2d and 3d d.). [Ng.]
 The urine seems increased, in the evening. [Ng.]
675. More frequent and somewhat increased flow of urine, of a color either clear as water or lemon-yellow (first days). [Sw.]
 Excessive pressure to urinate; he passes very much urine.
 Repeated passing of urine, not very copious but very light-yellow, after midnight. [Gff.]
 At night she must urinate much, without having drunk much (1st n.).
 Involuntary passage of urine while blowing the nose (after a difficult stool).
680. Reddish urine. [Gff.]
 The scanty urine becomes turbid, like clayey water (aft. 1 h.).
 [Ng.]
The urine passed during the night, is in the morning quite turbid and of a clayey color (after 2 d. and later). [Gff.]

- The yellow urine deposits at night a clayey sediment. [Ng.]
 The yellow urine has a cloudy sediment. [Ng.]
685. The urine, which is very yellow, deposits whitish flakes after standing for some time (1st d.). [Gff.]
 The clear urine of an orange color later on deposits a flaky sediment (3d d.). [Sw.]
 Flow of blood from the urethra, after painful micturition.
 Much blood passes from the urethra.
 Pressure on the bladder, but not to urinate.
690. Sensation of cramp in the bladder, with previous pain in the abdomen. [Rl.]
 In the urethra and penis, anteriorly, a very painful drawing. [Gff.]
 Acutely painful drawing and tingling, extending forward from the abdomen into the urethra. [Gff.]
 Drawing and tearing in the anterior part of the urethra [Gff.]
 Tearing and smarting, anteriorly in the urethra, when not urinating. [Gff.]
695. Biting sensation in the orifice of the urethra, after micturition (3d d.). [Gff.]
 Sharp, tearing cutting in the middle of the urethra toward the front (5th d.). [Gff.]
 Cutting in the orifice of the urethra, in the evening when sitting. [Frz.]
 Shooting at the orifice of the urethra (11th d.). [Gff.]
 A strangulating stitch in the urethra, darting quick as lightning from the very tip to the postreme part (aft. 2 d.).
700. Itching in the urethra (aft. 36 h.).
 Burning in the urethra, after micturition.
 Burning before and during micturition. [Ng.]
 Tearing burning in the urethra (6th d.).
 Sore pain of the interior part of the urethra, when not urinating. [Gff.]
705. On the genitals, frequent coming out of the hair.
 The penis is painfully sensitive during walking, as if the shirt were too rough, causing friction. [Rl.]
 Twitching from the groin toward the penis. [Rl.]
 Painful twitching on the root of the penis. [Gff.]
 Tearing drawing in the root of the penis, after a dull shooting near the genitals in the hypogastrium. [Gff.]
710. In the tip of the glans, a tearing. [Gff.]
 Dull stitches up from the scrotum into the glans.
 Shuddering on the scrotum and the adjacent parts, as in goose-skin. [Sw.]
 Shuddering on the scrotum, with shriveling of the same. [Sw.]
 Shriveling of the scrotum (2d. d.). [Sw.]
715. Itching of the scrotum, violent as from a wound, and not to be removed by scratching, for many evenings in succession. [Frz.]
 A little pimple, small, red, with sore pain, around the root of a hair of the scrotum, for three days (aft. 5 d.). [Gff.]

Sore sensation on the side of the scrotum, and on the thigh where the scrotum touches it. [Gff.]

The right testicle is painful, especially when touched (3d. d.) [Sw.]

Pressive, transient stitches in the left testicle, while at rest. [Htm.]

720. Drawing pain in the testes.

Drawing, first in the left testicle, then in the right. [Sw.]

Frequent drawing, starting from the testicles and following the course of the spermatic cord (2d, 3d d.). [Sw.]

Pricking drawing pain in the testes, most while sitting and stooping, for many days. [Sw.]

Pricking pressure and drawing in the left testicle, at times extending upward along the spermatic cord. [Sw.]

725. Either the right or the left testicle is drawn up, with some pain and swelling. [Sw.]

The sexual organ and the fancy are too warmly excited in the intercourse with females, and the semen is emitted too quickly. [Rl.]

Great excitation to coitus in the genitals, and yet the emission of semen is difficult and almost impossible (aft. 48 h.).

Severe erections (10th d.).

Long continued, violent erection, with pressure in the abdomen. [Gff.]

730. Pollution without lewd dreams, two nights in succession (7th, 8th n.). [Lgr.]

Profuse emission of prostatic juice, without cause (aft. 9 d.).

Sexual excitation with females, several times during the night, without lewd dreams (2d n.).

Irresistible impulse to onany, in a woman, without lewd dreams (7th n.).

Straining toward the sexual parts, with cutting about the navel. [Ng.]

735. Pressure in the sexual parts and in the rectum (aft. 13 d.).

Varices on the pudenda.

The lochia in a lying-in woman are suppressed, and the milk in the breasts decreases.

The menses, which had been suppressed for three months, return, with alternating paleness and redness of the face.

The menses do not appear at the usual time. [Ng.]

740. The menses reappear after a cessation of thirty-seven days, and the flow is pretty strong, especially at night and while walking, with severe cutting and urging in the abdomen and in the sacrum (26th d.). [Ng.]

The menses are too early by five days, stronger than usual and last three days. [Ng.]

Discharge of lumps of coagulated blood during the menses, mostly while walking. [Ng.]

Menses too early by fourteen days (aft. 18 d.).

The period of the menses is lengthened.

745. The menses only last three days. [Ng.]

During the menses, weariness in the feet and a soft stool, in the evening. [Ng.]

During the menses, great heaviness in the lower limbs, with intense drawing about the knees, as if they would be twisted off.

During the menses, inflammation of the eyes.

During the menses, burning during micturition. [Ng.]

750. During the menses, sudden tightness and oppression of the gastric region, so that she had to unlace everything.

During the menses, weary in the hands and feet. [Ng.]

During the menses, in the evening, heaviness in the forehead, with a sensation as if the head would be drawn backward. [Ng.]

During the menses, chilly all the day. [Ng.]

During the menses, peevish and tearful.

755. During the menses, anxieties.

During the menses, shooting, biting and itching about the sexual parts, with a sensation, as if they were swollen.

After the menses, discharge of bloody mucus, exciting itching on the pudenda.

The leucorrhœa returned, but only for one day and then no more (aft. 15 d.).

Leucorrhœa after previous cutting pains in the abdomen, with constant yawning. [Ng.]

760. Mucous leucorrhœa, with pinching in the epigastrium. [Ng.]

Leucorrhœa, especially after every stool.

Leucorrhœa of thick mucus, for three days, especially in the morning and evening, also before and after the menses (18th, 19th d.). [Ng.]

* * * * *

Sneezing after previous cutting tingling in the nose, in the evening. [Gff.]

Frequent sneezing, without coryza. ]Gff.]

765. Sneezing, in the morning and afternoon. [Ng.]

Sneezing after a meal. [Htb.]

Itching in the right nostril. [Ng.]

Itching in the left nostril, then frequent sneezing, followed by very profuse epistaxis, which was stopped by cold water (10th d.). [Ng.]

Sensation of coryza, with sore sensitiveness of the inside of the nose. [Ng.]

770. Stuffing of the nose (aft. 14 d.). [Also Ng.]

Stuffing of both nostrils; she can draw no air at all through them, and has to sleep with the mouth open (aft. 5 d.).

Coryza, suddenly in the evening, after lying down. [Ng.]

Severe stuffed coryza, all the day, with pain in the back, especially while sitting.

Fluent coryza, alternating with stuffed coryza, especially in the evening.

775. Fluent coryza at first, later on stuffed coryza.

Fluent coryza, with tingling in the nose and frequent sneezing.

Fluent coryza toward evening, with pressure on the right tonsil when swallowing and yawning.

Increased flow of mucus from the nose, without coryza (aft. 12 h.).

Severe coryza and rough throat (4th d.).

780. Roughness and dryness in the throat and in the larynx, frequently and at various times, especially in the morning, or after dinner, often impelling to hawking or coughing, at times going away after partaking of food. [Ng.]

Rough and raw sensation on the chest, and at night, heat and sweat (aft. 13, 14 d.).

Hawking up of much black, coagulated blood, after rawness and dryness in the throat, and hawking up of mucus, in the morning while walking, and with sore pain deep down in the throat, then all day a sweet taste in the mouth, dryness in the throat and bloody saliva. [Ng.]

Hoarseness and roughness in the throat, so that she could hardly breathe. [Ng.]

Hoarse, as if the chest was full of mucus.

785. Hoarseness with burning in the windpipe.

By clearing the throat (retching), much mucus is detached from the throat.

Tussiculation, at rare intervals, with constant roughness in the throat, in the evening. [Ng.]

Frequent dry tussiculation, without pain. [Ng.]

Tickling cough, very fatiguing, also by day, but worst at night.

790. Short cough, from tickling below the sternum (4th d.). [Gff.]

Suffocating cough; the tickling incitation takes his breath away.

Dry cough, in the evening, with heaviness on the chest, which goes off after lying down. [Ng.]

Dry cough repeatedly awakes her at night, during the menses. [Ng.]

Dry cough with severe shooting in the chest and sensation as if it would burst open; she can breathe and talk only with difficulty. [Gr.]

795. Cough which does not allow him to sleep all night, with shooting in the chest, with slight thirst (aft. 22 d.).

Cough with shooting in the head.

Expectoration of tough mucus during coughing, like an old coryza, and after expectoration, a sensation in the chest as if it were hollow and cold.

Expectoration of bloody mucus through coughing, after previous lincination in the side (aft. 40 d.).

Expectoration of blood during coughing.

800. Expectoration of blood during dry cough, with burning and sore pain in the chest, in the morning and evening, also before and during the menses. [Ng.]

Thick, purulent expectoration from coughing, by day and by night (aft. 18 d.).

The respiration is more oppressed than usual (1st d.). [Lqr.]

The breathing and the chest are unusually free and easy. [Lqr.]

- Tight about the chest, as if constricted, with pain in it, as if cut in two. [Ng.]
805. Tightness in the middle of the chest, below the sternum, in the evening. [Ng.]
- Tightness of the chest, when walking in the open air, as if constricted with a band transversely across. [Frz.]
- Tightness of the chest, for two evenings in succession, with dull shooting and pressure in the middle of the sternum, with small, quick pulse (aft. 2, 3 d.). [Frz.]
- Tightness of the chest, in the morning. [Lgr., Sw.]
- Tightness and pressure on the chest (aft. 7 h.). [Frz.]
810. Oppression in the chest, this goes off in the evening, with headache (aft. 13 d.).
- Pain in the chest, especially in the right side, as if the blood was violently pressing into the finest vessels of the lungs. [Hbd.]
- Pressure on the chest, at the right end of the left clavicle, in the morning (10th d.). [Gff.]
- Pressure on the chest, extending into the throat, as if a foreign body was rising up in it. [Ng.]
- Pressure in the left side or in the whole of the chest, now here, now there. [Gff.]
815. Pressive pain in the chest, frequently (during the first two days). [Sw.]
- Pressure on the chest, as from rheumatism and arrested flatulence. [Gff.]
- Pressure on the chest, upward from the scrobiculus cordis, going off through eructations (8th d.). [Gff.]
- Pressure on the upper part of the sternum, or on the lower part of the chest, after dinner, for a long time (1st, 2d d.). [Frz.]
- Pressure below the left nipple (2d d.). [Gff.]
820. Pressure, drawing as if rheumatic, just below the clavicle, near the joint of the upper arm. [Gff.]
- Pressure on the left clavicle. [Ng.]
- Sharp pressure in the right side of the chest, near the axilla. [Ng.]
- Tearing pressure in the lower part of the left side of the chest. [Gff.]
- Intermitting pressure outward and drawing tension, here and there, in the left side of the chest. [Gff.]
825. Tensive pains in the chest. [Lgr.]
- Tension and drawing on the left clavicle.
- Tension, bruised pain and shooting in the whole of the right side of the chest. [Ng.]
- Tension and shooting in the cardiac region. [Ng.]
- Pinching pain, anteriorly in the right side of the chest, then shooting in the last hypochondria on the right side, extending to the cardiac region, with long-continued bruised pain of that spot. [Ng.]
830. Pinching pain in the chest, in paroxysms, with qualmishness, in the morning (2d d.). [Sw.]
- Pinching and straining pain in the chest, occasionally. [Sw.]
- Tearing in the right side of the chest (11th d.). [Gff.]

- Tearing in the left side of the chest, below the axilla. [Gff.]
 Tearing on the right upper ribs, almost in the back. [Gff.]
835. Dull tearing pain in the chest, above the scrobiculus cordis (8th d.). [Gff.]
 Sharp, lancinating tearing in the left side of the chest (aft. 10 d.). [Gff.]
 Tearing stitches in the chest, below the axilla, with sore pain of the spot afterwards. [Gff.]
 Shooting in the chest, very violent, when walking in the open air, extending up into the left side of the neck, with very difficult breathing, for several hours.
 Shooting pain in the sternum.
840. Shooting and tightness in the middle of the chest, during and after inspiring. [Ng.]
 Shooting in any spot on the chest, when taking a deep breath. [Ng.]
 Stitches in the middle of the sternum, at times so severe as to cause screaming, when stooping; at times followed by painful pressure, deep within, extending up into the throat. [Ng.]
 Stitch on the upper part of the sternum, extending into the left lumbar region, with aversion to stooping, in the morning. [Ng.]
 Shooting in the right side of the chest, at times when turning the trunk to the right, or after dinner, followed by pressure, or alternating with shooting in the right flank and the right side of the abdomen. [Ng.]
845. Stitch below the right nipple. [Lqr.]
 Shooting, dull in the right side of the chest. [Also Gff.]
 Dull shooting on the right short ribs (7th d.). [Gff.]
 Stitch in the left side of the chest, on moving the arm. [Ng.]
 Shooting below the left breast. [Ng.]
850. Shooting in the region of the left ribs, opposite the pit of the stomach, with ulcerative pain per se, and on pressing upon it, in the evening. [Ng.]
 Shooting pain on a spot as large as the hand, on the left side of the chest, with a sensation as if the spot was decayed and crushed. [Frz.]
 Shooting in the left side of the chest, at times very violent. [Gff.]
 Shooting in the left side of the chest, in the evening while standing, with bruised pain of that spot. [Frz.]
 Stitches below the heart, like pleurisy, in the evening. [Lqr.]
855. Stitches above the heart, in the evening (24th d.). [Lqr.]
 Stitch in the left clavicle, very painful. [Ng.]
 Violent stitches in the left side, worse when respiring, better when stretching. [Rkt.]
 Sharp stitches, deep within the right side of the chest. [Gff.]
 Sharp laceration in the cardiac region, increased by a full expiration (9th d.). [Gff.]
860. Dull shooting in the upper part of the left side of the chest (5th, 6th d.). [Gff.]

- Dull stitch below the sternum, while eating. [Frz.]
 Dull pressive shooting and tension in the chest, below the right axilla (7th, 9th d.). [Gff.]
 Constantly pressive stitch in the right side of the chest, especially increased by strongly expiring. [Gff.]
 Sensation of weakness and burning in the sternum (aft. sever. h.).
865. Burning in the left side of the chest. [Gff.]
 Burning in the right side of the chest (2d d.). [Gff. and Ng.]
 The trouble in the chest is worse when moving, when she lifts something or seizes something with the hands.
 Painfully pulsating beating in the left side of the chest, in the axilla, at noon. [Ng.]
 Frequent palpitation, without any particular anxiety (aft 2 d.).
870. Painful palpitation, and with every heart-beat, a stitch.
 Pain in the chest, as from a bruise, while driving. [Rt.]
 Pain of the left thoracic muscle, as if bruised or sore.
 Pressive sore pain about the right nipple. [Gff.]
 Thin, sharp drawing about the left nipple, with sore pain when touching it, which soon becomes pulsating. [Gff.]
875. Violent pressive pain in the right mamma.
 Sensation of distension in the left female breast. [Ng.]
 Stitches into the left breast, dull and painful, in the morning, [Ng.]
 Stitch below the right female breast. [Ng.]
 Burning on a small spot on the chest, on the right side near the scrobiculus cordis, also above the left nipple. [Gff.]
880. Burning on the right side of the chest, as if in the skin, extending into the back. [Gff.]
 Pain in the sacrum, when walking and sitting down.
 Violent pain in the sacrum, when walking, so that he had often to stand still, but it was diminished more and more by continued walking.
 Straining, pressive, at times pinching, pains on the coccyx.
 Pressure above the sacrum, on the lower part of the spine, [Gff.]
885. Pressive paralytic pain in the sacrum, during a wrong position in bed, most violent when rising from a seat and when starting to walk.
 Tension and sensation of weakness in the sacrum, when sitting, with tension in the head.
 As if screwed in a vise, in the sacrum, when rising from a seat, in the evening. [Ng.]
 Drawing in the sacrum and the spine, like a painful weakness, when sitting and stooping. [Rkt.]
 Severe cutting in the sacrum, at the least motion, extending into the calves and feet, so that he cannot walk, nor stand, nor lie down.
890. Shooting tearing in the sacral bone (3d, 4th d.). [Gff.]
 Cracking in the sacrum, on walking.

- Sensation of weakness in the sacrum, when walking.
 Pain in the back, more while sitting.
 Stiffness and pain of the upper dorsal muscles, especially when moving, for four nights, not by day. [Sw.]
895. Sharp pressure in the back, close to the right scapula. [Gff.]
 Burning pressure on the spine, somewhat above the sacrum (4th d.). [Gff.]
 Pressure in the back, below the left scapula.
 Pressure on the right side, beside the middle of the spine. [Gff.]
Pressive tension in the back, below the right scapula, down the back and toward the axilla. [Gff.]
900. Tensive pressure in the back, on a small spot on the border of the right scapula. [Gff.]
 Very violent, tensive pain, as if rheumatic, in the lumbar region and on the shoulders (8th d.). [Lqr.]
 Tensive pain, as if rheumatic, in the spine. [Gff.]
 Tensive pain between the shoulders, both at rest and in motion. [Ng.]
 Sensation of tension, as from a pitch-plaster, near the inner border of the right scapula. [Gff.]
905. Pinching, and burning pain on various spots on the back.
 Burning drawing in the sacrum and the back.
 Burning tearing between the spine and the right scapula (11th d.). [Gff.]
 Tearing in the right scapula (11th d.). [Gff.]
 Severe bruised pain in the back, when walking in the open air, with weariness, so that she can hardly get home (19th d.).
910. Stitches below the left scapula, extending anteriorly into the left region of the chest. [Ng.]
 Lancinating pain in the back and the sacrum, while sitting and walking.
 Shooting, also in the back, while standing, very violent.
 Stitch into the left scapula. [Ng.]
 Constant lancination on the border of the left scapula, toward the axilla, so violent that she was startled; attended with rising of heat to the head. [Ng.]
915. Sharp lancination close to the upper part of the right scapula, most painful during eructation, for many days. [Lqr.]
 Dull stitches below the right scapula (9th d.). [Gff.]
 Dull stitches and pressure on the inner border of the right scapula. [Gff.]
 Dull, twitching shooting, just below and beside the left scapula. [Gff.]
 Burning in the left side and on the left scapula (5th d.). [Gff.]
920. Burning on the skin of the right scapula (5th, 11th d.). [Gff.]
 Itching between the scapulæ, in the evening, with much eruption.
 Itching spots on the back, and little scabs, which are painful when touched.

- Pain in the nape and the back, as if bruised, and as if over-weary with excessive exertions. [Rl.]
- Pain in the neck, when sitting and writing, as if the neck would not carry the head properly any more.
925. Weariness in the nape, in the evening, when writing.
Stiffness and pain in the muscles of the nape and of the upper part of the back, for several mornings, but not during the day. [Sw.]
- Spasmodic stiffness of the left side of the neck (1st d.),
[Frz.]
- Tension and drawing in the right side of the neck, both at rest and in motion. [Ng.]
- A lump on the right side of the neck, with ulcerative pain
when pressed upon. [Ng.]
930. The muscles of the neck are painful at night, as if the head had been for some time held in an uncomfortable position; also sensible during sleep (6th, 7th, 8th d.). [Lqr.]
- Tension in the anterior cervical muscles (aft.  $\frac{1}{2}$  h.). [Sw.]
- Straining on the left side of the neck.
- Pinching sensation on both sides of the neck, near the trunk,
[Gff.]
- Cramplike drawing extending down the cervical muscles, while chewing. [Rl.]
935. Cramplike drawing on the right side of the neck, when holding the head straight, as if the neck was stiff. [Rl.]
- Pain on the right side of the neck, extending to the shoulder, with stiffness of the parts, for several mornings in bed; it goes off by day. [Sw.]
- Pressure on the right side of the neck, as from a finger, while speaking. [Ng.]
- Tearing, on the right side of the neck, posteriorly, as also just below the maxilla, and behind and below the ear. [Gff.]
- Tearing in the left side of the neck, extending to behind the left ear. [Gff.]
940. Violent tearing, frequently, in the left side of the neck, going off every time through pressure; in the morning (13th. d.). [Ng.]
- Dull tearing on the right side, posteriorly on the neck. [Gff.]
- Tearing stitches on the neck and chin, passing over into each other (6th d.). [Lqr.]
- Shooting tearing behind and below on the right side of the neck, on a small space. [Frz.]
- Stitches in the cervical muscles (7th d.). [Lqr.]
945. Tickling on the larynx, accompanied with shooting there
(3d d.). [Lqr.]
- Frequent, severe tickling in the region of the larynx (3d d.),
[Lqr.]
- In the axillæ, sensation of soreness, on a small spot, as after a blow. [Gff.]
- Shooting in the left axilla and anteriorly down on the chest, with arrest of breathing, in the evening. [Ng.]
- Dull shooting tearing in the right axilla. [Gff.]

950. Tearing under the left arm extending into the left axilla (5th d.) [Gff.]
 Burning in the left axilla (3d d.). [Gff.]
 In the ball of the shoulder-joint of the left humerus, a rheumatic tension. [Gff.]
 Tension and tearing in both the shoulder-joints. [Gff.]
 Tearing pressure on the top of the left shoulder, where the neck begins. [Gff.]
955. Tearing on the top of the right shoulder (2d d.). [Gff.]
 Tearing on the right shoulder, with pressure in the middle of the upper arm, going off by scratching. [Ng.]
 Painful tearing in the top of the shoulder. [Ng.]
 Violent tearing in the shoulder-joint, on which she was lying, deep in the bone, in the evening in bed. [Ng.]
 Shooting tearing on the top of the right shoulder. [Gff.]
960. Shooting in the top of the left shoulder. [Ng.]
 Dull stitches below the top of the right shoulder, after dinner. [Ng.]
 Twitching in the top of the right shoulder, and then, bruised pain in the left scapula. [Ng.]
 Sensation as if the shoulder-joints were asleep.
 Little pustules, like furuncles, on the top of both the shoulders. [Gff.]
965. While asleep in the morning, the left arm twitches. [Ng.]
 Inclination to move the arms.
 Tearing in the arms and hands.
 Bruised pain in the arms, chiefly in the morning and evening.
 Bruised pain in the left arm; he cannot lift it on account of pain in the deltoid muscle.
970. In the right upper arm, a dull pain (aft. 3 h.). [Sw.]
 Rheumatic pain in the deltoid muscles of both the upper arms, increased by lifting up the arm. [Frz.]
 Rheumatic, painful drawing from the top of the shoulder down the deltoid muscles of both the arms, aggravated by raising the arm (2d d.). [Frz.]
 Drawing in the left upper arm, close to the elbow. [Gff.]
 Tearing on the anterior surface of the upper arms, on the left arm near the elbow, on the right arm near the top of the shoulder. [Ng.]
975. Tearing in both the upper arms, close to the elbow. [Gff.]
 Tearing in the left upper arm, close to the top of the shoulder. [Gff.]
 Tearing in both the upper arms, downward from the deltoid muscles (1st d.). [Frz.]
 Intermitting tearing in the middle of the inner side of the upper arm. [Gff.]
 Shooting on the right upper arm, in the morning, when dressing, unchanged by rest or motion. [Ng.]
980. Shooting and burning on the anterior surface of the left upper arm, after dinner. [Ng.]
 Bruised pain in the bone of the right upper arm. [Ng.]
 Clucking in the left upper arm. [Gff.]

- Smarting burning on the skin in the posterior upper part of the left upper arm (10th d.). [Gff.]
- A large furuncle on the left upper arm (aft. 31 d.).
985. In the elbows, rheumatic pressure. [Gff.]
- Rheumatic drawing in the right elbow. [Gff.]
- Tearing in the bend of the elbow. [Gff.]
- Tearing in the right elbow-joint, going off by rubbing, in the morning. [Ng.]
- Tearing in the left elbow, upward and downward in a spot of the breadth of a hand. [Ng.]
990. Shooting and tension in the right elbow-joint, in the evening, while yawning. [Ng.]
- Miliary eruption in the bend of the elbow. [Rl.]
- In the fore-arm, or in the fingers, at times, spasmodic drawing.
- Drawing pain in the fore-arm, seemingly on the bones. [Htm.]
- Tearing in the bone of the left lower arm, then in the knee, frequently both, while at rest and in motion. [Ng.]
995. Sharp tearing in the left fore-arm, mostly in the upper half. [Gff.]
- Bruised pain in the fore-arms, on touching and turning the arm, with occasional tearing in thick part. [Gff.]
- Clucking, dull tearing in the muscles of the inner side of the right fore-arm, not far from the bend of the elbow. [Gff.]
- Burning in the fore-arm, above the right wrist-joint, on moving the arm. [Ng.]
- Burning on the left fore-arm, at night (aft. 6 d.). [Gff.]
1000. Eruptive pimples on the fore-arm; they itch violently by day. On the ball of the left hand, pressure. [Gff.]
- Stiffness on the dorsum of the hand, and a sensation as of cramp, in the extensor muscles of the thumb, on playing on the piano (1st d.). [Frz.]
- Tension in the metacarpal bone of the little finger, toward the wrist-joint.
- Tension in the right wrist-joint, as if the muscles were too short.
1005. Rheumatic tension above the left wrist-joint. [Gff.]
- Rheumatic drawing in the right wrist-joint. [Gff.]
- Drawing pain in the right wrist-joint, as if sprained. [Rl.]
- Painful drawing and tearing in the right wrist-joint, both at rest and in motion. [Ng.]
- Tearing drawing in the left palm, between the thumb and index. [Gff.]
1010. Tearing on the hands, extending from the wrist to the posterior phalanx of the thumb, while driving. [Ng.]
- Tearing in the right wrist-joint (3d d.). [Gff.]
- Tearing on the inside of the wrist. [Gff.]
- Tearing in the bend of the left wrist-joint, with tearing stitches in the dorsum of the left hand. [Gff.]
- Tearing on the dorsum of the right hand, in the fourth and fifth metacarpal bones, and in the wrist-joints. [Gff.]

1015. Tearing in the metacarpal bones of both the index-fingers.
 [Gff.]
 Tearing in the dorsum of the left hand, occasionally also alternating with tearing on the right hand. [Gff.]
 Tearing in the right palm, near the fingers, frequently (aft. 5d.). [Gff.]
 Tearing pain in the middle of the right wrist, then tearing toward the dorsum of the fingers. [Ng.]
 Sharp tearing in the right hand, just below the wrist. [Gff.]
1020. Tensive tearing in the right palm. [Gff.]
 Pressive tearing on the wrist, in the region of the os pisiforme. [Gff.]
 Shooting tearing in the right hand, in the bend of the wrist, and in the palm, near the little finger. [Gff.]
 Pinching or pressive shooting in the ball of the left hand, behind the little finger, very painful. [Ng.]
 Weakness and trembling of the hands, while writing.
 [Also Frz.]
1025. Trembling of the hands, during the menses. [Ng.]
 Trembling of the hand, more when it is held quietly on the table, than when the elbow rests upon something. [Ng.]
 The hands grow rigid, chiefly the right hand. [Hbd.]
 The right hand feels as if it were paralyzed, it is quite bluish, looks dead, is heavy and without feeling, and the pulse in it is small, hardly perceptible, thread-like. [Hbd.]
 Cool hands (aft. 8 h.). [Frz.]
1030. Burning pain in the right wrist and in the ball of the hand.
 [Rl.]
 Burning on a spot of the left hand [Rl.]
 Burning of the skin on the edge of the right hand (3d d.).
 [Gff.]
 Biting sensation on the dorsum of the right hand, extending over the wrist, as if an eruption was coming. [Gff.]
 Itching pimple on the dorsum of the hand.
1035. Red, small, round spots on the hands and the fingers. [Ng.]
 The hands perspire profusely.
 The epidermis of the hands chaps in a slight degree of cold, it becomes fissured and painful.
 Severe chilblains on the hands, which itched intensely and swelled up (aft. 10 d.).
 Piercing shooting in the fingers (aft. 6 d.).
1040. A large prick as of a needle through the posterior phalanx of the left thumb, several times. [Ng.]
 Sharply cutting stitch in the tips of both the thumbs (5th, 7th d.). [Gff.]
 Sharply cutting tearing in the upper (anterior?) joint of the right thumb. [Gff.]
 Tearing stitches in the fingers. [Lqr.]
 Tearing stitches in the middle joints of the last three fingers in both hands. [Gff.]
1045. Tearing in the lower (posterior?) joints and phalanges of the fingers. [Gff.]

- Tearing in the right thumb, as well as behind this and the next two fingers. [Ng.]
- Tearing in the tips of the index, middle and little fingers. [Gff.]
- Tearing under the nail of the right thumb. [Gff.]
- Tearing and painful beating in the left thumb, toward its tip, as in an ulcer, with going-to-sleep and sensation of numbness therein and with heat sensible also externally. [Ng.]
1050. Tearing drawing in the anterior joints of the left ring and middle finger. [Gff.]
- Tearing drawing in the right thumb. [Ng.]
- Twitching tearing, extending from the posterior joints of the fingers of the left hand and toward the tips, in the evening. [Ng.]
- Twitching in the posterior joint of the right thumb, without pain. [Ng.]
- Pressive pain in the middle joint of the right index, and in paroxysms in its lower phalanx. [Gff.]
1055. Crawling and beating, frequently in the left thumb, with sensation of heat therein, without any perceptible external heat. [Ng.]
- Burning on the flexor surface of the fingers. [Rl.]
- Shooting itching on a spot of the left fourth finger, and soon after a red pustule there, with a beating burning pain. [Htm.]
- Lump under the skin in the anterior bend of the joint of the ring-finger. [Ng.]
- Burning painful chap between two fingers of the left hand. [Ng.]
1060. The left hip toward its posterior side is painful. [Gff.]
- Dull pressure, just above the right hip. [Gff.]
- Pressive drawing, just above the right natis. [Gff.]
- Pressure and drawing on the posterior side of the thigh, so that he cannot sit down; it gradually passes off in walking.
- Pressive tearing in the left hip. [Gff.]
1065. Drawing pain in the natis, after drinking wine. [Gff.]
- Drawing tearing and burning posteriorly on the left hip. [Gff.]
- Tearing anteriorly on the crest of the ilium, while sitting. [Frz.]
- Tearing on the natis, below the left hip. [Gff.]
- Tearing just below both the hips and posteriorly on the right hip. [Gff.]
1070. Shooting tearing on the natis, below the right hip. [Gff.]
- Bruised pain with pinching, heat and burning in the region of the left hip, extending into the middle of the thigh, with weariness of the lower limb and constant sensitiveness of the hip, while walking and standing; the pain passed off while sitting. [Ng.]
- Bruised pain in the hip-joint, as if the flesh were detached from the bones.
- Bruised pain of the gluteal muscles as well as of the posterior muscles of the thigh, for two days (5th, 6th d.). [Sw.]
- Clucking in the right natis. [Gff.]
1075. In the right lower limb, rheumatic drawing. [Gff.]

Heaviness in the lower limbs, with tearing therein, so that she can scarcely raise them.

Heaviness of the lower limbs (at once).

Heaviness of the lower limbs, especially of the calves, as after a long walk, on rising from the seat. [Ng.]

Sensation of weakness in the left lower limb, in all positions, in the evening. [Ng.]

1080. Weariness and pain in the lower limbs, so that she can scarcely tread, with sensitiveness to every breath of air in the room, in the evening. [Ng.]

Severe itching all over the lower limbs.

In the thighs, rheumatic drawing. [Gff.]

Drawing pain in the thighs, occasionally, in the evening (9th d.).

Drawing pain on the inner side of the right thigh. [Sw.]

1085. Dull twitching pain on the inner side of the thigh. [Rl.]

Drawing sore pain in the exterior muscles of the thigh. [Gff.]

Drawing tearing in the head of the left femur and below the hip (5th d.). [Gff.]

Tearing in the thighs, especially in the thick part, also severe and continuous. [Gff.]

Tearing on the inner side of the left thigh, going off through motion. [Ng.]

1090. Painful tearing in the left thigh, from the knee upward, extending to the middle. [Ng.]

Violent tearing on the outer side of the thigh, seemingly in the bone, from the hip down into the middle of the thigh; while sitting. [Frz.]

Tearing stitches in the thigh, both while walking and lying down.

Shooting on the posterior surface of the thigh, while yawning, in the evening. [Ng.]

Dull stitches in the middle of the right thigh. [Gff.]

1095. Bruised pain on the anterior side of the left thigh, which is painful also on pressing upon it, long-continued. [Ng.]

Heaviness and paralytic pain in the left femur, above the knee; while walking, standing and sitting, it is very violent; in the evening. [Ng.]

Painful sensation of heaviness and paralysis in the right thigh, while walking. [Htm.]

Paralytic pain in the right thigh, first above, then down toward the knee, while standing; relieved by sitting, in the evening. [Ng.]

Itching burning on the outer side of the right thigh, above the knee. [Gff.]

1100. Itching of the thighs and houghs, very violent, in the evening, with nettle-like blotches after scratching. [Frz.]

Itching anteriorly on the thighs, above the knees, five evenings in succession, with pimples there, which are easily scratched open. [Frz.]

Varices on the thigh, extending to the labia pudendi.

- In the knee, dull pain, gradually increasing and decreasing. [Sw.]
- Dull, burrowing pain, frequently recurring, in the knees (2d d.). [Sw.]
1105. The knee-joints seem to him while dreaming, to be painful and almost immovable, and when waking up unusually early, they actually pain him as after great exertion, but more when at rest, than in motion. [Gff.]
- Violent pains, first in the right patella, then in the left; also in the heel, in the evening and night.
- Tensive pain in the right knee-joint, when walking. [Gff.]
- Tension, then burning, just below the right knee (on the upper part of the tibia). [Ng.]
- Painful tension in the hough, when walking in the open air.
1110. Rheumatic drawing in the right knee and down in the tibia. [Gff.]
- Tearing in the right knee, as also on the outer edge of the hough, extending into the calf. [Gff.]
- Tearing on the outer side of the left patella (aft. 3 h.). [Htm.]
- Tearing, and bruised pain in both the houghs, worse while walking, easier while sitting; in the morning. [Ng.]
- Tearing in the left knee-joint, or also from the knee upward, with bruised pain of the spot. [Ng.]
1115. Tearing in the right knee, passing off by friction. [Ng.]
- Tearing and contraction in the left knee, seemingly in the bone, very painful both in rest and in motion. [Ng.]
- Tearing and gnawing in the left knee, upward and downward, very painful [Ng.]
- Gnawing and boring in the left knee, with tension in the upper part of the calf, renewed after sitting down. [Ng.]
- Stitches in the knee (aft. 15 d.).
1120. Stitch on the inner side of the right knee, like a flea-bite. [Ng.]
- Pressive stitch on the inner side of the right knee, while at rest. [Htm.]
- Painful boring in the knees, especially in the right knee, in the evening. [Ng.]
- The knees quiver while sitting, after a short walk.
- Intense itching in the right knee-joint. [Rl.]
1125. Tension and pressure downward on the leg, on the tibia. [Ng.]
- First pressure, then tearing on the inner side of the left leg, between the ankle and the calf (3d d.) [Gff.]
- Alternate pressure and drawing in both bones of the right leg. [Hbd.]
- Rheumatic drawing and tension in the right tibia. [Gff.]
- Drawing pain in the legs, in the evening.
1130. Drawing pain in the right tibia (aft. 5 h.). [Htm.]
- Drawing, downward on both the calves. [Ng.]
- Sensation of drawing and contraction in the right tendo Achillis. [Ng.]

- Tearing on the right leg, anteriorly below the knee, followed by a bruised pain in that spot. [Ng.]
 Tearing in the right and left calves. [Also Ng. and Gff.]
1135. Tearing on the right tibia (4th d.). [Gff.]
 Tearing down the tibia, extending into the dorsum of the foot. [Ng.]
 Tearing in the left leg, between the tibia and the ankle-joint. [Gff.]
 Tearing in the calf, extending to the ankle. [Ng.]
 Tearing on the lower end of the right tibia. [Frz.]
1140. Stitch above the right foot, while running. [Ng.]
 Shooting pain in both the tibiæ, while walking out.
 Piercing shooting in the tibiæ (aft. 6 d.).
 Twitching in the left calf. [Sw.]
 Turgidity and stiffness of the muscles in the calves, while walking. [Frz.]
1145. Turgidity and drawing in the calf (1st d.). [Frz.]
 Cramp-pain in the left calf, at night. [Sw.]
 Cramp-pain in the left calf and the left foot. [Rl.]
 Cramp in the leg, in the morning in bed, on drawing it up. [Rl.]
 There is a threatened cramp in the calves, on turning the body over. [Rl.]
1150. Sensation of stagnation of the circulation in the left lower limb, especially of the leg, frequently. [Sw.]
 The right leg up to the knee goes to sleep, at night.
 Weariness of the legs, worse when walking. [Ng.]
 Crawling and formication in both the calves, extending into the toes, both at rest and in motion. [Ng.]
 Burning of the skin, below the right calf. [Gff.]
1155. Burning pain on the tibia.
 Erysipelatous inflammation and painful swelling of the tendo Achillis. [Ng.]
 Pulsating tearing in the tendines Achillis. [Gff.]
 A red spot on the leg, covered itself with scurf, with itching.
 The varices on the leg go off (curative effect). [Htb.]
1160. In the left ankle, rheumatic tension, while at rest. [Gff.]
 Pain in the outer edge of the foot, as if the bones would break, while walking, while raising the foot, as well as when holding it sideways and when standing it on its tip; not at other times. [Ng.]
 Tension in the right foot, extending down the heel, as if a misstep had been made, or as if the muscles were too short.
 Straining in the sole of the right foot, as if the tendons were too short, when treading and walking, in the evening. [Ng.]
 Pressive pain below the external ankle.
1165. Drawing tearing in the right foot, extending into the ankle, with sensation of heaviness while at rest. [Htm.]
 Drawing tearing about both the internal ankles, and in the tendines achillis. [Frz.]
 Tearing in the bend of the ankle as well as on the edge and on the dorsum of the left foot. [Gff.]

- Tearing in the sole of the right foot and of the left. [Gff.]
 Tearing pain in the outer right ankle. [Ng.]
1170. Tearing in the external ankle of the right foot, going off through friction. [Ng.]
 Tearing and formication in the dorsum of the left foot, with numb sensation in the soles of the feet, disappearing in walking. [Ng.]
 Tearing on the outer edge of the right foot, toward the toes, passing off by rubbing. [Ng.]
 Tearing below the right inner ankle, extending into the heel, in the evening while sitting. [Frz.]
Tearing and tension on the edges of the right foot. [Gff.]
1175. Tearing and pain in the heels, the feet felt as if broken off from the body. [Frz.]
 Shooting tearing in the sole of the foot, in the bend of the joint of the smaller right toes. [Gff.]
 Stitches in the heel.
 Piercing shooting in the ball of the foot (aft. 6 d.).
 Burning stitches in the bones of the dorsum of the foot, here and there. [Gff.]
1180. Burning below the right inner ankle. [Gff.]
 Burning below the right heel, worst when treading and walking, less while sitting, in the evening. [Ng.]
 Burning and heat of the soles of the feet, in the evening. [Ng.]
 Burning and ulcerative pain in both soles, in the morning. [Ng.]
 Ulcerative pain in both heels, worse when walking than while sitting down. [Ng.]
1185. Unbearable boring pain in heel, after drinking wine. [Gff.]
 Sprained pain in the ankle.
 Sprained pain in the ankle, on moving the foot (aft. 4 h.). [Htm.]
 Pain in the soles of the feet on treading; they seem swollen, with a sensation as if a toothed instrument scratched on them, for several days. [Rkt.]
 Severe, inflamed swelling on the foot (aft. 11 d.).
1190. Swelling around the ankles (on a foot before diseased). [Htb.]
 Cold feet, in the evening, continuing for a long time in bed (11th d.).
Profuse foot-sweat of ill scent; the foot gets sore from walking.
 Frequent painful going-to-sleep of the feet, toward evening. [Rl.]
 Very tired in the feet, in the morning in bed; going off after rising and walking about. [Ng.]
1195. Trembling of the foot, on raising it, while sitting, not else. [Ng.]
 Itching on the sole of the foot.
 Painful itching on the sole of the right foot. [Ng.]
 Ulcerated blister on the dorsum of the right foot, as from burning (aft. 8 d.).
 The toes are painful, as if sore from walking. [Rl.]

1200. Ulcerative pain in the right big toe, in the evening. [Ng.]
Sensation, as if he had blistered his feet in walking. [Rl.]
Tearing sore pain on the tip of the big toe and under the nail
(9th d.). [Gff.]
Pain on the nail of the big toe, as if it was festering underneath, when touched.
Sprained pain in the posterior bend of the joints of the toes. [Frz.]
1205. Drawing tearing in the toes and in the anterior half of the foot. [Htm.]
Tearing on the lower side of the first two toes on the right foot. [Gff.]
Tearing in the right big toe, with twitching tearing on the outer side of the left calf. [Ng.]
Tearing in the right little toe, in the evening. [Ng.]
Shooting tearing in all the toes. [Gff.]
1210. Shooting tearing in the posterior joint of the right big toe. [Ng. and Gff.]
Shooting tearing in the bend of the anterior joints of the first two toes on the right foot. [Gff.]
Pulsating shooting in the tip of the right big toe (2d d.).
[Frz.]
Pricking shooting in the left big toe (2d d.). [Frz.] Formicating shooting, as after going to sleep, in the bend of the anterior joint of the left big toe, on the inside. [Gff.] 1215. Violent shooting itching in the anterior ball of the big toe, in the evening. [Ng.]
Burning and shooting in the ball of the big toe, when at rest, as if that part had been frozen.
Painful itching, with heat, redness and swelling, on the right toes, as if they had been frozen, in the evening; rubbing or scratching threatens to increase the pain.
Lumps on the little toe and on the ball of the foot, with shooting pain while walking.
Itching on almost every part of the skin (even on the face and on the head) at times with burning, or with redness, or with pimples and nodules after scratching; these occasionally, when touched, show a sore pain. [Ng.]
1220. Itching at night, as from lice; after scratching, it always at once reappears on another spot. [Ng.]
Itching on the bending surface of the joints. [Rl.]
Itching all over the body, without eruption (aft. 9 d.).
Itching on the arms and legs, outside of the joints.
Violent itching in all the joints in succession, at last in the hip-joint. [Rl.]
1225. Repeated itching of the skin. [Rkt.]
Repeated itching at night, as from many flea-bites, especially in the back and on the abdomen. [Gff.]
Single itching points in the skin, especially on the hands, without external redness or elevation. [Hbd.]

- Sudden itching, now here, now there, especially in the evening in bed, at once ceasing when touched.
- Shooting, now here, now there on the body, in the evening. [Ng.]
1230. Shooting pricking itching, in the evening in bed, on the forehead, the thigh, the ankle, foot and other parts of the skin. [Frz.]
- Shooting itching on the skin, with miliary eruption after rubbing it.
- Itching miliary eruption in the hough and the bend of the elbow. [Rl.]
- Red pimples on the chest and in the face. [Htb.]
- Small pimples on the thighs, calves and about the knees, itching severely, which ceases at once after scratching. [Frz.]
1235. Small pimples on the forehead, the back and third little toe. with sore pressive pain when touched. [Gff.]
- Small furuncles on the back, between the scapulæ, and in other places.
- A small lesion of the skin bleeds profusely (aft. 3 d.).
- The external parts (lobule of the ear, tip of the nose, etc.) are apt to freeze in but a slight degree of cold.
- Great sensitiveness to cold, especially in the finger-tips and feet.
1240. The pains caused by Zinc seem occasionally to be between the skin and the flesh. [Lqr.]
- Wine aggravates almost all the ailments very much, even when they seemed to have been already removed by camphor. [Frz.]
- Wine and Nux Vomica aggravate the ailments caused by Zinc (especially the nocturnal restlessness and the constipation) and they also originate them again. [Gff.]
- Most of the ailments appear after dinner and toward evening. [Frz.]
- Most of the ailments come while sitting and in general when at rest, but while moving or in the open air, she perceives them but little. [Ng.]
1245. She seems to feel better in the morning. [Ng.]
- Muscular twitching here and there on the body. [Rl.]
- Quivering in various muscles. [Rl.]
- Quivering and twitching in various muscular parts. [Sw.]
- Much visible twitching on the body and in the face (aft. 5 d.).
1250. Visible twitching in both the arms and the hands (aft. 16 d.).
- Violent trembling of all the limbs. [Rkt.]
- Attack of tremulous weakness of the lower limbs, with great paleness of the face; it disappears on walking (5th d.).
- Cramp-pain, here and there in the muscles. [Rl.]
- Cramp in the arms and lower limbs (aft. 5 d.).
1255. Obfuscation, like a slight nausea, with tremulous sensation in the chest, headache in the forehead and diminished ability of comprehending, so that he cannot understand what he reads, for two hours after dinner. [Gff.]
- The whole day, general exhaustion, sleepiness, aversion to all noise, and yet hardness of hearing, dreaminess, as after night-watching, with shuddering and cold chills running over the body, as after taking cold after perspiring.

Uncomfortable sensation of pressure and squeezing upon the inner walls of the trunk, as if the whole body would be burst asunder, without any trace of flatulence, more as if it was due to the nerves, and more severe on the right side than on the left. [Frz.]

Violent beating all through the body. [Rkt.]

Pressure here and there, on the chest and back.

1260. Pressive pain in the left groin, on the left side, near the navel, in the left side of the chest, and on the left side of the head (3d d.).

Shooting cutting pain in the whole of the right side. [Rkt.]

Very violent drawing tearing in the middle part of almost all the long bones, so that they have hardly any firmness for sheer pain. [Rkt.]

Piercing shooting in the joints (aft. 7 d.).

Shooting and tearing in all the limbs, extending into the finger-tips, worst after getting heated, while sitting down.

1265. Tearing in all the limbs, after bodily exercise and fast walking.

An almost burning heat arises while sitting, on single small spots, e. g., between the thigh and the abdomen, on the side of the hypogastrium, etc. [Gff.]

When walking in the open air, profuse perspiration (aft. 19 d.).

When walking in the open air, severe pressive pain in the left eye.

When walking in the open air, bruised pain in the back.

1270. Sensitive to the open air, in the afternoon and evening.

Shudder from a piercing wind, not from coldness.

Great heaviness in the limbs, when walking in the open air.

When walking, there is at the start increased strength and greater lightness; then great lassitude throughout the whole period of proving. [Frz.]

While walking, great lassitude in the houghs and in the sacrum all the day (aft. 2 d.). [Frz.]

1275. On starting to walk, a sensation of weakness in the sacrum and transient lassitude in the lower limbs.

Suddenly, in the afternoon, general weakness in the limbs, with trembling and sensation of voracious hunger, more while standing than in sitting (12th d.).

Paralytic weakness and heaviness in the lower limbs, in the afternoon, when starting to walk, disappearing in continuing to walk.

Weary and exhausted in body, frequently, especially after dinner, also at times with tremulousness and with heaviness of the head. [Ng.]

Sudden sensation of weakness in the arms and legs, with voracity.

1280. Great weariness in all the limbs.

Sudden swoon-like weariness while standing, so that she could hardly reach a chair for weakness.

A bruised exhaustion in all the limbs, and weariness in the morning on awaking.

He is so weary in the morning, on awaking, that he believes he cannot rise at all. [Frz.]

In the morning, on awaking, involuntary discharge of a thin stool. [Rl.]

1285. In the morning, in bed, he cannot keep the one leg bent, owing to discomfort; he has to stretch it out. [Rl.]

In the morning on awaking, his hands are asleep.

In the morning in bed, sensation of heaviness in the body and weariness in the lower limbs, also similar to the sensation after a sleep which was too heavy. [Gff.]

Indolent, and weary, especially in the lower limbs, in the morning. [Ng.]

Stretching and extending the body and the limbs, while the face is pale and sunken. [Htb.]

1290. Weariness, frequent yawning and great lack of tone in the whole of the body. [Hbd.]

Constant yawning. [Rkt.]

Much and frequent yawning, with and without drowsiness, also in the morning and evening. [Ng.]

Yawning and constant inclination thereto, in the forenoon after a good sleep at night. [Gff.]

Frequent yawning all day (1st d.). [Frz.]

1295. Sleepy, in the morning. [Ng.]

Sleepy and indolent, just after dinner. [Ng.]

Constant inclination to sleep; even in the morning, he can scarcely keep awake. [Rkt.]

She cannot fight off sleep at 2 P. M. and goes to sleep over her work; this passed off in the open air. [Ng.]

Much sleep.

1300. Drowsiness, with tensive cramp-like benumbed sensation of the head, without being able to sleep.

Late in falling asleep, on account of liveliness of spirit.

Late in falling asleep in the evening, but a sound sleep. [Ng.]

Late in falling asleep, in the evening, but he feels wide awake early in the morning. [Ng.]

In the evening, he was mentally very lively, which kept him from going to sleep early (8th d.).

1305. The sleep at night is frequently interrupted; the night seems very long to him. [Sw.]

Restless sleep; she could sleep but little at night, but slept long in the morning. [Ng.]

Frequent awaking at night, without cause (aft. 5 d.). [Also Ng.]

Frequent awaking at night, from anxiety. [Ng.]

Restlessness in sleep after midnight; he wakes up too early, with great weariness and the sensation as if his eyes were too deep in the sockets. [Gff.]

1310. Frequent awaking, at night, and difficulty in falling asleep again; toward morning anxious dreams.

In spite of great drowsiness he frequently awakes at night with severe palpitation and screaming, owing to anxious dreams about thieves.

Restless sleep with anxious dreams (4th and 33d n.)

Very restless sleep with frightful dreams. [Lgr.]

Frequent awaking owing to frightful dreams (1st n.).

1315. Restless sleep, with many vivid dreams; in the morning, on awaking, sensation of weariness. [Gff.]

Deep, fatiguing sleep, with many dreams. [Lgr.]

He dreams all night, wakes between times, and is then very tired in the morning. [Gff.]

Dreams after midnight, so vivid that they are before his eyes even in the morning. [Gff.]

Sleep full of ravings.

1320. Vivid dreams make the sleep at night restless.

Sleep very restless, full of fancies and thoughts, causing her to reflect (1st n.)

Loathsome dreams of defilement with human excrements and urine (2d d.). [Frz.]

Vexatious, or quarrelsome, or sad dreams. [Ng.]

Dreams causing anxiety.

1325. Anxious dreams, the anxiety from which remained even after awaking.

Dreams of corpses, and of horses, which change to dogs under him. [Frz.]

Restless night; when awake, he screams, as if crazy, that geese were biting him.

Dreams that she is being throttled, and in the morning, after awaking, fears that the man who throttled her would return.

In the evening, after lying down, she again rose up in bed and spoke unintelligible words; the breath was short and tremulous.

1330. Startled up from the night's sleep, with an involuntary jerk in the left lower limb (5th n.). [Gff.]

Starting up from the night's sleep, unconsciously to her, during the menses. [Ng.]

Loud screaming, at night in sleep, without knowing of it. [Ng.]

Jerks through the whole body during the night's sleep and the siesta (aft. 32 h. and 2 d.).

At night, restlessness in the lower limbs, so that he cannot let them lie still (aft. 10 d.).

1335. At night, awaking from pains in the abdomen, followed by thick leucorrhœa. [Ng.]

At night especially, anxious sore feeling in the fauces.

At night, two soft stools.

At night, eructation of the food partaken of at dinner.

At night, she is waked up by coldness of her feet (aft. 36 h.).

1340. At night, pleuritic stitches (aft. 8 d.).

At night, violent pains in the sacrum and the abdomen, with stitches in the left side and drawing pain in the lower limbs (aft. 40 d.).

At night, drawing pain in the knee.

At night, sudden violent stitches in the left side of the abdomen, aggravated by breathing and pressure.

In the morning-sleep, burning drawing pain in the sacrum and back; also a sensation of going to sleep, in the shoulder-joint, disturbing the sleep and disappearing on awaking.

1345. Shivering in the evening, so that she could not get warm in bed for a long while. [Ng.]

Shudder in the open air, passing off in the room, in the evening. [Ng.]

Shuddering discomfort, like a foreboding of storm.

Frequent feverish shivering down the back, for five days (aft. 3 d.).

Chilly shivering, in the evening, when her hand seizes anything cold; also a shaking chill, per se, so that she had to lie down, when it passed off. [Ng.]

1350. Chill, which disappears in the room; this seizes upon her as soon as she goes out into the open air. [Ng.]

Chill after dinner, till evening. [Ng.]

Chilly in the forenoon; in the afternoon, frequent rising of heat, with redness of the face. [Ng.]

Chilliness, in the morning in bed, on awaking. [Rl.]

Constant chilliness, with increased internal warmth. [Hbd.]

1355. Chill while writing, for a quarter of an hour, with the sensation as if a foreign body, hard as a stone, had gotten into his throat, with constant yawning. [Ng.]

Shaking chill from 4 P. M. till 8 P. M. on lying down, without heat, thirst or perspiration afterward; even in bed he could not get warm for a long time; but his sleep was good. [Ng.]

Attack of fever, daily several times, returning in the forenoon and in the afternoon; chilliness and shivering, flying heat all over the body, violent trembling of all the limbs, extreme sick feeling even to fainting; qualmish taste, while the morsel swelled up in the mouth; sensation of emptiness in the stomach, severe beating all through the body, short, hot breath; very dry mouth, hot and dry hands. [Rkl.]

Heat in the head, in the evening, and, after two hours, chilliness.

Severe heat in the head, in the evening, so that his eyes burned; three evenings in succession (aft. 10 h.).

1360. Heat in the face without headache, while the body is cool, all the forenoon.

Agreeable warmth with slight perspiration all over the body, in the afternoon. [Ng.]

Increased internal warmth, not perceptible externally after 6 P. M. [Ng.]

Increased warmth in the whole body, with perspiration in the axilla. [Ng.]

Increased warmth all over the body; only in the abdomen a sensation of coldness; in the evening. [Ng.]

1365. Increased warmth all over the body, except on the feet, as if perspiration would break out; in the afternoon. [Ng.]

Heat in the whole body, especially on the head, with redness of the cheeks, without external heat. [Ng.]

Sensation of heat in the whole body, especially in the back, where she imagined she perspired; not on the feet. [Ng.]

Heat in the evening, after lying down, with anxiety, all the night. [Ng.]

Sensation of heat, with coldness of the forehead, in the evening. [Ng.]

1370. Heat and thirst, with a cool skin almost all over the body, in the evening. [Ng.]

Pulse quickened (72, 79, 85 beats) in the evening, at times with a sensation of increased warmth. [Ng.]

Night-sweat all over the body, especially on the lower limbs, for many nights in succession (aft. 3 d.).

Night-sweat, the whole night, with heat; she could not bear any covering. [Ng.]

Profuse night-sweat (aft. 33 d.).

1375. Perspiration having a sour smell.

INDEX

TO THE FIRST OR THEORETICAL PART.

ABDOMINAL AFFECTIONS not unfrequently pass over into pains in the joints or into paralysis, 6; they are sometimes caused by suppressed itch, 24. Abdominal symptoms caused by psora, 59.

ADVENTITIOUS FORMATIONS mostly caused by psora, 7.

AGGRAVATION, homœopathic, as a sign of incipient cure, 120.

ALLOPATHIC TREATMENT, its effects, 1. Under allopathic treatment the aggravation of the psoric chronic diseases proceeds without any escape, 15; allopathy in sycosis, 83; in syphilis, 87, 88, 93. Allopathic excuses for suppressing itch, answered, 101. Allopathic use of sulphur is only harmful, 105. Only an allopath can advise chronic patients to drink strong pure wine to strengthen themselves, 111. The medicinal diseases caused by allopathic misuse of medicines, a great obstacle to the cure of psora, 114. Allopathy has not been able to cure any chronic disease, only to alleviate it, 139.

AMAUROSIS caused by suppressed itch, 24.

ANTHRAX, 34.

ANTIPSORIC REMEDIES, 7. While an antipsoric medicine is duly acting, no other medicine should be given to cure a slight intervening ailment, 119. The best time for taking antipsoric remedies is in the morning, fasting, 137; the patient should keep perfectly quiet, but not go to sleep, 137; not to be taken before the menses, 138. Pregnancy offers no obstruction to antipsoric treatment, but is favorable to it, 138. Antipsoric remedies, how to be recognized beforehand, 144. Most of the earths, alkalies and acids, as also sulphur, phosphorus and other combustible substances, cannot be dispensed with in curing psora, 144.

ANXIETY from psora, 75.

APOPLEXY caused by the suppression of itch, 30.

APPETITE affected by psora, 58.

ASTHMA caused by suppressed itch, 18; as also suffocating asthma, asthma with general swelling, asthma with dropsy of the chest, 20. Asthma from psora, 67, 68.

BATHS. Warm and hot baths must be discontinued during antipsoric treatment, substituting lukewarm ablutions, 141.

BEER cannot be permitted to chronic patients, especially on account of the prevalent admixture of harmful ingredients, 111.

BLADDER, symptoms caused by psora, 62, 63.

- BLOODLETTING is not needed in Homœopathy, 140.
- BOILS, recurring, from psora, 71.
- BONES. Swelling of the bones of the knee, caused by suppressed itch, 25; also pain in the bones, 25. Bones as affected by psora, 69.
- BRAIN. Degeneration of the brain caused by repressed itch, 22.
- CAPRICIOUSNESS from psora, 77.
- CARIES caused by suppressed itch, 25.
- CATARACT caused by suppressed itch, 24.
- CATARRH. Suffocating catarrh caused by suppressed itch, 19; caused by psora, 66.
- CERVICAL GLANDS, swelling of same caused by suppressed itch, 23.
- CHANCRE. The chancre, so long as it remains, keeps the venereal disease from breaking out, 39, 87. The destruction of the chancre is always followed by syphilis, 88. When the chancre disappears from the use of internal remedies, the internal syphilis is cured, 91.
- CHANGE to a new remedy, before the old has exhausted its action, ought to be carefully avoided, 122.
- CHEST symptoms caused by psora, 67.
- CHILBLAINS from psora, 71.
- CHILLINESS from psora, 70. Chills from psora, 75.
- CHOICE, the wrong choice of remedies, how to be avoided, 121.
- CHRONIC DISEASES, Homœopathic partial success in curing them before the discovery of the antipsorics, 2. They are temporarily checked by favorable surroundings, 3. All chronic non-venereal diseases have their cause in psora, 5. Most chronic diseases caused by the ancient miasma of leprosy or modern itch, 8. All chronic diseases if not cured, are continually aggravated, 9. Seven-eighth of the chronic diseases spring from the suppression of itch, 14. Enumeration of the same, 77 (note). Chronic diseases will be found varied by an intervening epidemic disease, so as to require another antipsoric to complete the cure, 133. The latest symptoms added in a chronic disease always yield first, the oldest, last, 135. When the treatment is half completed the disease returns into latent psora, but it must be followed up to its complete termination, else a new chronic disease will arise, 136. A great chronic disease of, 10, 20, 30 or more years, is quickly cured if this is done in one or two years, 136. The strength of a chronic patient ought to steadily increase under homœopathic treatment, 137.
- CLIMATIC differences cause changes in the common psora, enumeration, 143.
- CLYSTER. A clyster of clean, lukewarm water in constipation is permissible at the beginning of antipsoric treatment, 140.
- COFFEE has augmented the tendency to chronic diseases, 13; it must be discontinued in chronic psoric diseases, 109.
- COLDNESS of the body from psora, 30.
- CONFECTIONS, spiced confections, peppermint confections, etc., must be discontinued during antipsoric treatment, 141.
- CONTAGION takes places instantaneously, 35.

- CONVULSIONS caused by suppressed itch, 28.
- CORNS from psora, 71.
- CORYZA caused by psora, 66.
- COUGH, severe, caused by the suppression of itch, 21. As a symptom of psora, 66, 67.
- COWPOX, 33.
- CRACKING of joints from psora, 74.
- CRAMPS from psora, 74.
- CRISIS in diseases, 35.
- CROUP, first healed by Homœopathy, 4.
- DEAFNESS, caused by suppressed itch, 24.
- DIABETES caused by suppressed itch, 24.
- DIET s. under PSORA.
- DISINCLINATION to work, from psora, 77.
- DISTURBANCES in the cure of a chronic disease, 131; various remedies serving to remove them, enumerated, 131, 132.
- DOMESTIC REMEDIES must be discontinued during antipsoric treatment, 141.
- DOSES, too large, their harmful effects, even in Homœopathy, 120. Doses can hardly be made too small, 120.
- DREAMS as affected by psora, 75.
- DROPS. Spice-drops, stomach-drops, etc., must be discontinued during antipsoric treatment, 141.
- DROPSY. General dropsical swelling caused by suppressed itch, 22; do. dropsy of the chest, 22; also in the abdomen, 23.
- DROWSINESS from psora, 74.
- DRYNESS of the skin, of the body, from psora, 73.
- DUODENUM. Sphacelus of the duodenum, caused by suppressed itch, 22.
- DURATION of the effects of medicines, 123; of sepia in one instance, 123 (note); longer in chronic diseases, briefer in acute diseases, 124; lasts as long as it visibly advances the cure, 125.
- DYSENTERY, autumnal, first healed by Homœopathy, 4.
- EAR-AFFECTIONS caused by psora, 55.
- ELECTRICITY. Hahnemann first recommended the lightest electric sparks in paralytic and benumbed parts, but he took this back; substituting cold water (54° Fahrenheit), 141.
- ENDEMIC diseases with their striking pertinacity depend almost wholly on a psoric complication, 134.
- EPIDEMIC diseases when cured frequently leave behind them a psora developing into a chronic disease, 133. The great epidemic diseases, after completing their course, frequently must be followed by antipsoric treatment, 134. The sequelæ of epidemic diseases are really chronic diseases springing from a developed psora, 134.
- EPILEPSY like vertigo, caused by suppression of itch, 28; do. Epilepsy, 29; and Epileptic convulsions, 29.

- EPISTAXIS frequently caused by Psora, 7.
- ERUPTIONS of various kinds caused by psora, 71, 72.
- ERYSIPELAS caused by suppressed itch, 24, 54; do. of one of the breasts, from psora, 67; in the face, the limbs or on the breasts, from psora, 71.
- EXCITABILITY from psora, 77.
- EYES. Obscuration of the eyes caused by suppressed itch, also far-sightedness, inflammation of the eyes, etc., 23, 53.
- FAINTING spells from psora, 74.
- FEARFULNESS from psora, 77.
- FEVER caused by the suppression of itch, 25, 26, 27. Various fevers and their treatment, 132 (note); Epidemic and sporadic fevers, if they do not soon terminate and pass into good health, require antipsoric treatment, 134.
- FINGERS as affected by psora, 68.
- FLUSHES of heat, from psora, 70.
- FONTANELS must not be at once stopped, but checked and removed as soon as practicable, 140.
- FRECKLES from psora, 72.
- FRENZY from psora, 77.
- GLANDULAR swellings from psora, 72.
- GUMS affected by psora, 55.
- HAHNEMANN studied for twelve years to find out, why the ordinary Homœopathic remedies would not radically cure chronic diseases, 5. Why he did not communicate his discoveries to any one till 1827, 5. Hahnemann had never been affected by psora, 44 (note).
- HEADACHE, from psora, 52.
- HEARTBURN, from psora, 57, 59.
- HEAVINESS, sensation of, from psora, 73.
- HEMATEMESIS frequently caused by psora, 7.
- HEMATURIA, frequently caused by psora, 7.
- HEMOPTYSIS, frequently caused by psora, 7, 21, 67.
- HERNIA from psora, 61.
- HOARSENESS caused by psora, 66.
- HOMŒOPATHY. Its superiority, 1. Ineffective in radically curing chronic diseases without the antipsorics, 3, 4. Correctness of homœopathic principles, 4. H. first cured the idiopathic diseases, scarlet fever, purples, whooping cough, croup, sycosis and autumnal dysenteries, 4. It also first cured acute pleurisy and typhous contagious epidemics, 4.
- HUMORS. Discharge of acrid humors caused by suppressed itch, 25.
- HYDROCEPHALUS, caused by suppressed itch, 22.
- HYDROPHOBIA, 34.
- IDIOPATHIC. No idiopathic medicine among the antipsorics, 152.
- INFECTION takes place in a moment, 33.
- INSANITY caused by the suppression of itch, 30.
- INSOMNIA, from psora, 74.

- INTERMEDIATE epidemic diseases occurring during the treatment of a chronic disease must be cured first; enumeration of the same, 132.
- INTERMITTENT FEVER not infrequently passes over into asthma, 6; caused by suppressed itch, 27; from psora, 75. Intermittent fevers differ in their character and symptoms nearly every year and then require a different medicine, 132, 133 (note); illustrations, 133.
- INTESTINES. Degeneration of the intestines, caused by suppressed itch, 22. do. Inflammation of the bowels, 24.
- IRRITABILITY from weakness, from psora, 77.
- ITCH. A former eruption of itch is the obstacle in many cases to the cure of a chronic disease, 6. Sometimes an unperceived attack of itch, 7. Itch is a later form of leprosy, 8. Its removal by ointments, etc., 11, 14. After effects of such suppression, 16, 17-31. Itch is only one of the indications of internal Psora, 31. Itch a chronic miasm, 35. After rubbing the itch (which is unbearably agreeable), a long-continued burning ensues, 37. The itch eruption, while it lasts, keeps the psora as it were latent and confined, 39. Recent itch has been cured, by one dose of sulphur, or of carbo vegetabilis, or of sepia, 105 (note). Itch from a new infection when properly cured also cures psoric chronic diseases if present, 118.
- JERKS of muscles, from psora, 74.
- JOINTS, as affected by psora, 69.
- LEPROSY and itch the cause of most chronic diseases, 8. Leprosy alleviated through cleanliness, became itch, 11.
- LIMBS. Pains in the limbs not unfrequently pass into hemorrhage, 6. The limbs as affected by psora, 68.
- LIVER symptoms, caused by psora, 60, 61.
- LIVER SPOTS, caused by psora, 72.
- MAMMÆ, as affected by psora, 68.
- MANIA from psora, 76.
- MARASMUS in children caused by suppressed itch, 25.
- MEASLES, 33.
- MEDICINES, article on, 143-152. Medicines having in their crude state little or no medicinal virtue, such as salt and lycopodium, and gold, quartz and alumina, become when potentized by trituration, very powerful, 145. They change their qualities becoming soluble, while but little subject to chemical action, 145, 146; dry substances are to be prepared by trituration, as also dry vegetable substances, to the millionth powder trituration, 147; then the dynamization is continued by dissolving the attenuation in alcohol and water, and shaking it, 147. The preparation of phosphorus for medicinal purposes, 148 (note). After the first solution is made in alcohol and water, so as to dissolve the sugar of milk, the higher potencies are carried on with pure alcohol, 150. The pellets which are moistened with these attenuations should be of the size of poppy seeds, 151. Medicines are given best, dissolved in water and in divided doses, 156. This solution should be stirred every time, 156. The solution of the medicine can

- also be rubbed in on any healthy part of the body, thus increasing its action, 158. Ten strokes were used for potentizing the medicines in the attenuating bottles, 159.
- MEDICINAL DISEASES, 1. A great obstacle to the cure of psora, 114; their nature, 115, 117.
- MELANCHOLY caused by the suppression of itch 30; from psora, 75.
- MENSTRUATION, affected by psora, 64, 65; antipsorics should not be given just before menstruation sets in, 138.
- MENTAL excitements, especially grief and vexation, should be kept from chronic patients, 113.
- MERCURIAL preparation for the venereal disease, 90.
- MESMERIC. Usefulness of the mesmeric stroke in certain cases, 128.
- MIASMATIC nature of Psora, 6. There are only three chronic miasms, 9. Miasmatic maladies first become internal diseases, before external symptoms appear, 32. Contagion by chronic miasmatic diseases, 35. The miasma is incorporated at the time of infection, 36, 89. As soon as the miasm of itch touches the skin, the whole organism is infected, 37. The miasma of itch is contained in the eruption of itch, also in the tinea capitis and in the humid tetter, 39.
- MILK CRUST is not merely superficial, but is merely an indication of internal psora, 31.
- MOUTH symptoms from psora, 57.
- NAUSEA from psora, 58.
- NIGHTMARE, caused by psora, 67.
- NOSE affected by psora, 56.
- ORGANON mentioned, 106, 121, 126.
- PALPITATION, from psora, 68.
- PARALYSIS caused by suppression of itch, 30. Paralytic weakness from psora, 73.
- PAROTID GLANDS, swelling of same caused by suppressed itch, 23.
- PFRFUMERY must be discontinued during antipsoric treatment, 141.
- PHTHISIS not unfrequently passes over into insanity, 6 (note). Phthisis caused by suppressed itch, 21, 67.
- PILES frequently caused by psora, 7, 62. Caused by suppressed itch, 24.
- PLEURISY, acute, cured by Homœopathy, 4. Pl. caused by suppressed itch, 20, 21.
- POLYPI from psora, 55.
- PSORA brought back into its latent state by homœopathic medicines which were not antipsoric, note p. 2. Causes producing a relapse, 2, 3. Lack of success of Homœopaths in radically curing a developed psora without the antipsoric remedies, 3. Psora is of a miasmatic nature, 6. Psora is the internal itch disease, with or without its attendant eruption, 7. Psora the cause of most of the adventitious formations, 7. Psora the cause of many enumerated diseases, 7, 8. Psora is the most ancient, universal and destructive miasmatic disease, 9, 37. Psora the cause of all chronic diseases with some enumerated exceptions, 10. Occidental psora, called

St. Anthony's Fire, 10; it reassumed the form of leprosy through the return of crusaders, 10, described in the Bible, 10; Psora in changing from leprosy to itch, lost the persistence of its eruption, 13. Sometimes alleviated by sulphur baths, 16. Psora is the most contagious of all chronic miasmata, for it needs only to touch the ordinary skin, 37. Modes of contagion enumerated, 37. It usually takes 6, 8 or 10, perhaps even 14 days before the whole organism is transformed into psora; then follow a chill, heat and sweat and the eruption breaks out, 37, 97. The longer the psora with its skin-symptom has lasted, the more destructive are the consequences of the suppression of the itch, 40. Even at its acme psora can be healed by the internal, specific Homœopathic remedies far more easily and certainly, than after the suppression of the eruption, 41 (note) 98. Psora is ineradicable without the aid of art, 43. If the eruption of itch is at once repressed, the psora increases but slowly, 43. Symptoms of latent psora enumerated, 45, 47. Persons who have this latent psora will at a slight provocation be subject to one or another of the nameless (psoric) chronic diseases, 48, 49; illustrations in note, 48, 49, 50. Symptoms of the awakening of the internal psora enumerated, 52, 77. Article on psora, 97-141. Merely internal psora, 98. Importance of the eruption, 98. Chronic diseases removed by the reappearance of the eruption, 98; still the internal psora is then not in the same state as before, 98; this reappearance must at once be made use of to cure the disease, as it is transitory, 99. Artificially reproduced itch is of little use, 100 (note). Sulphur used externally is attended with dangerous consequences, 102; given internally in large doses, it is also harmful, 103. Developed psora is only temporarily alleviated by sulphur baths, 104. An old psora can never be cured by sulphur alone, 105; several antipsorics are necessary, 105. Recent itch has been cured by one dose of sulphur, or of Carbo vegetabilis, or of sepia, 105 (note), 106. Diet and mode of living of psoric patients, 107, 117. Some work is useful, 107; bodily exercise should be taken, 107; all domestic remedies or other medicines must be discontinued, 108; baths cannot be allowed, only ablutions, 108. Diet in chronic psoric cases need not be too strict, 109; coffee must be discontinued, 109. Also tea, 110; diluted wine in moderation can be used, 110; whiskey and brandy must be discontinued, wine may be substituted, 110. Beer cannot be permitted, especially on account of the prevalent admixture of harmful ingredients, 111. Vinegar, citric acid and acid fruits are generally injurious, 111; sweet fruits can be allowed only in moderate quantity, 111. Most spices are harmful, enumerated, 111. Certain patients should avoid chickens and eggs, 111. The food most useful, 111. Pork, pickled and smoked meat should rarely be used, 112; old cheese and potherbs should be avoided, 112. Tobacco should be limited, if it cannot be stopped, especially in the form of snuff, 112; grief and vexation should be kept as far as possible from chronic patients, 113; medicinal diseases, a great obstacle to the cure of psora, 114, 117. So also debility, 117; also the suppressed sexual instinct, 117 (note); too great age, an obstacle to cure, 117. The exhalation from swamps most strongly develops a latent psora, 134. The common psora is variously modified in different climates, 143.

PURPLES first cured by Homœopathy, 4.

PUS. Collection of pus in the chest caused by suppressed itch, 22; also cysts of pus in the intestines, 22.

- QUARTAN FEVER, caused by suppression of itch, 27.
- RACHITIS, caused by suppressed itch, 25.
- RATIONAL explanation of the mode of homœopathic cure, suggested by Count Buquoy, 103 (note). Suggested by Hahnemann, 125.
- REPETITION, immediate, of the same medicine, allowable in certain cases in acute diseases, 126; it should be in a different potency, 127; in case of recent itch, sulphur may thus be repeated, though better with the interposition of Hepar s. c., 127. With the exception of sulphur, hepar and sepia, few antipsorics bear repeating, 127.
- RUSH OF BLOOD to the head, to the chest, from psora, 71.
- SAINT ANTHONY'S FIRE, a form of the occidental psora, 10.
- SCARLET FEVER of Sydenham first cured by Homœopathy, 4. Infection with scarlet fever, 34.
- SCROBICULUS CORDIS affected by psora, 59.
- SCROTUM. Swelling of the scrotum, caused by suppressed itch, 23.
- SENSITIVENESS from psora, 78.
- SEXUAL ORGANS, affected by psora, 63, 64, 65, 67. Sexual instincts suppressed are an obstacle to the cure of psora, 117 (note).
- SHOULDERS, as affected by psora, 68.
- SIMILLIMUM. The Psorin is no more an idem with the crude original itch substance, but only a simillimum. Between idem and simillimum there is no intermediate, 152.
- SKIN symptoms of psora, 69, 70.
- SMALLPOX, 33.
- SMELL impaired by psora, 55, 56. Smelling of homœopathic medicines instead of taking them, moderates their action, 128; the effect lasts as long, 129; this mode is preferable where the action of a medicine has been interrupted, 129. This is also the preferable method with patients who are extremely irritable, 159.
- SOMNAMBULISM, from psora, 75.
- SPASMS from psora, 74.
- STOMACH. Ulcers and sphacelus of the stomach caused by suppressed itch, 22. Stomach symptoms from psora, 57-60.
- STOOLS affected by psora, 61, 62.
- SUCKLINGS should never receive medicines, the mother or wet nurse should take it for them, 139.
- SUDDEN cures of chronic diseases usually show that the wrong medicine was chosen; they do not last, 130.
- SULPHUR was early recognized as having a specific virtue against itch, 102; even by Celsus, 102; but it had dangerous sequelæ, when used externally, 102. It is only effective in homœopathic doses, 103.
- SUSCEPTIBILITY to colds, from psora, 72.
- SWAMPS. The exhalation from swamps most strongly develops a latent psora, 134.
- SWELLING. Red swelling of the whole body caused by suppression of itch, 23. Watery swellings, from psora, 73.

- SYCOSIS first healed by Homœopathy, 4. S. has in the permanence of the chancre an advantage over the itch, 12. Sycosis and syphilis the cause of one-eighth of the chronic diseases, 14; easily cured, 14. Article on sycosis, 83-85. Allopathic maltreatment of sycosis, 83. Sequelæ of suppressed sycosis, 84. Sycosis cured by Thuja, 84. Complication with other chronic miasms, 85.
- SYPHILIS, 9, 10, 11. S. has in the permanence of its external symptom an advantage over itch, 12. Syphilis and Sycosis are the cause of one-eighth of the chronic diseases, 14; easily cured, 14. Syphilis is caused by the destruction of the chancre through local applications, 36. Article on syphilis, 87-95. When the chancre or bubo disappears through the use of internal remedies, the internal syphilis is cured, 91. Even after the chancre has disappeared, even when the bubo has already formed, if there are no other complications, it can be cured by a homœopathic dose of mercury, 91, 92. Sign of this cure, 91, 92. When complicated with developed psora, it cannot be cured alone, 193. This is usually caused by allopathic mistreatment, 93. This causes the spurious syphilis or pseudo syphilis, 93. In this case the psora symptoms must first be overcome, then the others, 94. Complications with the other chronic miasms, 95.
- TEA. The use of tea has augmented the tendency to chronic diseases, 13; it must be discontinued in chronic, psoric diseases, 110. Herb teas, Baldwin tea, etc., must be discontinued during antipsoric treatment, 141.
- TEETH, affected by psora, 56.
- TERTIAN FEVER, caused by suppression of itch, 27.
- TETANUS, from psora, 74.
- TETTER, merely one of the indications of internal psora, 31.
- TINEA CAPITIS is merely one of the indications of internal psora, 31, 53.
- TOBACCO. The use of tobacco should be limited, if not stopped, with chronic patients; the use of snuff harmful, 112.
- TONGUE affected by psora, 56.
- TUMEFACATION of the bones from psora, 71.
- TUMORS, encysted, from psora, 72.
- TYPHOUS contagious epidemics cured by Homœopathy, 4. Typhus in 1813 appeared under various forms, but one or two homœopathic remedies healed all cases, 8.
- ULCERS. Dried up ulcers not unfrequently pass over into dropsy or apoplexy, 6 (note). Ulcers in the stomach caused by suppressed itch, 22; also other ulcers, 25. Ulcers from psora, 71.
- UNMEDICATED POWDER should be given to patients who desire to have daily doses, until the time may come to give another remedy, 129.
- URINE. Suppression of urine caused by suppressed itch, 24.
- VACCINATION, 33.
- VARICES on the lower limbs from psora, 71.
- VENEREAL DISEASES, radically cured by Homœopathy, 1. Venereal bubo, 6. The venereal chancre, 35. Venereal infection traced, 36, 89. Through the internal cure of the venereal disease also the chancre disappears, 36, 89. Three forms of the venereal disease, 87. The venereal disease is already developed before the chancre can appear, 89; is cured most easily while the chancre remains, 90; cured by a homœopathic dose of mercury, 90. An old case of Venereal diseases may be cured on a new infection by a simple homœopathic dose of mercury, 118 (note.)

VERTIGO caused by suppression of itch, 27; from psora, 52.

VITAL FORCE by means of homœopathic remedies cures acute diseases, why not chronic ones? 5. Vital force causes various secretions and excretions in chronic diseases, but these are only attended with temporary alleviation, 139.

VOMITING from psora, 59.

WARTS from psora, 72.

WATER at 54° Fahrenheit should be poured over benumbed or paralyzed parts, 141.

WATERBRASH from psora, 58.

WEEPING mood from psora, 76.

WHITLOW from psora, 71.

WHOOPIING COUGH first cured by Homœopathy, 4.

WINE may be allowed to chronic patients, if sufficiently diluted, 110.

WOOLEN underclothing should be removed as soon as a visible improvement through the antipsorics is apparent, 140.

CORRIGENDA TO DR. HUGHES' NOTES.

(Dr. Hughes' notes were furnished in MSS., and owing to the fact that he was unable to read the proof, an unusual number of petty errors have crept into them. The following embrace those that in any way affect the text.—PUBLISHERS.)

- Page 328. Note 1. For "Eber's" read "Ebers'."
 " 329. Note 1. Add "Hughes."
 " 335. Note 2 should have been referred to symptom 159, and note 3 to symptom 160.
 " 335. Note 4. For "185" read "183."
 " 343. The reference in symptom 425 should have been to Pfann, not to Kaiser.
 " 345. For "anxieties" read "anxietas," and omit, "i. e. anxiety."
 " 347. Note 2. Omit inverted commas.
 " 348. Note 2. For "circum" read "circa."
 " 348. Note 3. Omit inverted commas.
 " 353. Note 2. "625" should be "628."
 " 364. Note 6 is wrongly numbered 7.
 " 376. Notes 1 and 2. The "no" and the "not" should be transposed.
 " 393. Line 2 from bottom. "Trink's" should be "Trinks'," and so at bottom of page 421.
 " 496. Note, line 4. After "Chronic Diseases" add "1st ed."
 " 496. Note, line 6. For "Henning" read "Nenning."
 " 561. Note, line 11. Place inverted commas before "Aetzstoff."
 " 608. Note, line 1. Insert comma after "Foissac's."
 " 609. Note. Invert colon after "Kretschmar."
 " 621. Symptom 148. For "Lusitanus" read "Lusitanus."
 " 623. Symptom 200. For "pp. 5, 77" read "p. 577."
 " 631. Symptom 79. "Helmst" is the place of publication and should be separated and typed accordingly.
 " 635. Symptom 200. "Argent" as "Helmst" in 631, 75.
 " 637. Symptom 249. For "Eberhardt" read "Ehrhardt."
 " 637. Note 1. For "249" read "247."
 " 640. Symptom 360. "Jen." as "Helmst" in 631, 77.
 " 640. Symptom 369, 370. For "Kalschmidt" read "Kallschmidt."
 " 642. "Harnfluss" may mean involuntary micturition in common parlance, but in Hahnemann's German it always stands for "diuresis" (not diabetes, which is misleading), as it is properly rendered in Digitalis, symptom 431.
 " 645. Note 6. For "when" read "where."
 " 654. Symptom 813. For "Dropsical" read "Serous."
 " 654. Note 4. Insert comma after "Schlammersucht."
 " 654. Note 5. This belongs to symptom 870, and should be noted on next page.
 " 659. Symptom 15. Ludvig is not another author, but the editor of the "Adv. Med. Pr."
 " 659. First note. For "others" read "authors."
 " 671. Note, line 1. Insert "the" before "Materia."
 " 671. Note, line 2. For "The" read "Of the."
 " 671. Note, line 4. For "tlehre" read "tellehre."
 " 677. Note 5. For "stinking odor" read "fetid smell."
 " 677. Symptom 151. For "Ebinb." read "Edinb."
 " 682. To symptom 408 note "Effect of D. when given for mammary scirrhus."
 " 688. Note 2. For "found" read "accessible."
 " 688. Symptom 588. Omit comma before "Bl."
 " 690. Note 1, line 3. For "apoplectic" read "apoplectic."
 " 693. Note 2, line 1. For "proprie'ts" read "proprietés," and accent second "e" of "amere."
 " 693. To symptom 5 note "Observation in disease."
 " 700. Note 3. After "original" insert "has."
 " 709. To symptom 1 note "Not accessible."
 " 717. Strike out note 3.
 " 797. Symptom 446. For "Giern" read "Giorn."
 " 807. Last line. For "Trink's" read "Trinks'."
 " 862. Note, line 2. Omit bracket after "85."
 " 865. Note, line 3. For "medicine" read "medicines."
 " 910. Prefix 1 to note instead of bracket.
 " 989. Note, line 3. For "volumes" read "volume."
 " 1015. Note. Third as well as first clause in this sentence should be between inverted commas.
 " 1023. Note 2. For "392" read "292."
 " 1029. Note 2. For "experience" read "experiments."
 " 1129. Note 3. Omit inverted commas.
 " 1160. Note 1. Last line should read "Arzneimittellehre and Annalen, and in Vol. XI," etc.
 " 1168. Note 2. For "Pathogenesis" read "Pathogenesy," and insert bracket after "67."
 " 1182. Symptom 601. The reference here should be to "Alexander" not "Joerg." The symptom is from a case of poisoning by a handful of the salt.
 " 1183. Note 3. For "drachm" read "ounce."

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

00025968359

