CONTRACT LET FOR NEW GAS HOLDER

Will be Erected by British Firm at Pembroke Street
Large Contract Will Involve Additional Mains

The B.C. Electric Railway Company has awarded a contract, on behalf of one of its subsidiary companies—the Victoria Gas Company—for a two-story spiral-guided gas holder, working in a steel tank, to Robert Dempster & Sons, Limited of Eiland, Yorkshire, England.

This holder is designed to add a third lift when required, increasing the capacity from 500,000 cubic feet of gas to 750,000 cubic feet. It will be erected in the yard of the Victoria Gas Company at Pembroke Street. The contract calls for completion within nine months.

This will be a new type for this part of the world, there being no upright standards. The tank will be lifted by spiral guides on the sides, hence the name.

The cost of this gas holder, together with other enlargements of the plant and gas mains will involve an expenditure of from $150,000 to $175,000.

All the work is to be taken in hand and carried to completion as soon as possible. The holder has become necessary owing to the fact that at the peak loads, with the increased use of gas for cooking purposes, the storage capacity is unable to keep pace with the manufacturing. The making of gas is simply provided for in the plant installed by the West Gas Improvement Company eighteen months ago, a company which has secured a large contract for gasworks for the Vancouver interests of the B.C. Electric.

To complete the arrangements, P. H. Hewlings, secretary of the Victoria Gas Company, was in Vancouver this week, conferring with executive officers of the B.C. Electric.

MacDonald Says Looks For Russian Conference Success

York, Eng., April 19.—Premier MacDonald, addressing a crowded Labor meeting here to-day, declared he believed the Anglo-Russian Conference in London would succeed.

Before the meeting part of the crowd sang "The Red Flag."

Lady Cassels, Widow of Judge, Died in England

London, April 19 (Canadian Press Cable).—Lady Susan Cassels, widow of Sir Walter Cassels, Ottawa, judge of the Exchequer Court of Canada, died here yesterday. She was on a visit to England with her daughter and planned to sail for Canada May 1 and take up residence in Toronto. She suffered a stroke ten days ago.

Japanese-Soviet Fishing Agreement

Moscow, April 19.—It is reported from Vladivostok that representatives of the Japanese fishermen have accepted the Soviet claims of nearly 3,000,000 yen for their old fishing contracts and that new agreements have been concluded.

NEW COMPANIES TOTAL $14,238,000

Toronto, April 19.—Authorized capital of $14,238,000 is represented in the weekly returns of the Registrar of Companies reported to The Monetary Times during the week ended April 12, as compared with $15,108,000 during the corresponding week last year.

POSTAL BANK DEPOSITORS GIVEN NEW PRIVILEGE

Ottawa, April 19.—The Post Office Department has made arrangements to issue instructions to post-office managers of savings bank offices to permit direct withdrawals by savings bank depositors from the post office of any sum up to $25 without having to make application to the department at Ottawa, as has been the practice since the savings bank was established in 1868.

SERAFINI-NIERI TRIAL SET FOR MAY

Montreal, April 19.—Giuseppe Serafini and Ciro Nieri, alleged members of the gang of bandits which held up and robbed a bank of Hochelaga collection car of $142,288 and mortally wounded Henri Cloux, bank messenger, with whose murder they are charged, having been committed for trial, will appear at the May term of the Court of King's Bench.

Men Charged With Murder As Result of Robbery in Montreal

Montreal, April 19.—Giuseppe Serafini and Ciro Nieri, alleged members of the gang of bandits which held up and robbed a bank of Hochelaga collection car of $142,288 and mortally wounded Henri Cloux, bank messenger, with whose murder they are charged, having been committed for trial, will appear at the May term of the Court of King's Bench.

SOCIAL SERVICE OFFICIAL NAMED

Toronto, April 19.—The Social Service Council of Canada has appointed as associate secretary to Rev. Dr. J. G. Shearer, Rev. J. Phillip Jones of Lethbridge, Alberta. He will enter upon his duties September 1, and will reside in Western Canada, although having a share in the work throughout the Dominion.

SHOE MEN ASK INCREASED DUTY

Canadian Manufacturers Request Ottawa to Provide More Protection

Montreal, April 19.—Appealing for the provision of customs safeguards before the situation becomes still worse, the shoe manufacturers of the United Kingdom during the seven months ended February 29, 1924, exceeded in value the imports from the corresponding eleven months of the previous financial year by 73.3 per cent, and exceeded the 1921-22 period by 127.7 per cent.

Fire Inquiries To be Held in All Canadian Provinces

Montreal, April 19.—Within the next six weeks the investigation of the causes of the fire in Quebec and Ontario, will, it is expected, extend its operations to the whole of Canada and Newfoundland. From May, 1923, when the bureau was formed, to the end of February last, its records show that 27,000 fires occurred in Quebec and Ontario. Montreal and Toronto are about on a level so far as fires go, but Quebec City has shown an abnormal in the matter of outbreaks.

Man Accused of Burning Hands of His Little Girl

Welland, Ont., April 19.—The police are looking for Alex Rowson of Port Colborne, who is charged with having burned his little girl's hands because she stole six cents. He was arrested and gave $400 bail, which he forfeited when the case was called.

PRIVY COUNCIL OF JAPAN TO MEET NEXT WEEK AND DISCUSS UNITED STATES EXCLUSION ACT

Tokio, April 19.—Premier Kiyoura and Foreign Minister Matsui, are to appear before the Privy Council April 23 to explain the situation wherein the United States Congress has passed legislation excluding Japanese. From all indications the Privy Council is disposed to endorse the present Government.

It is understood authoritatively that new instructions will not be sent Ambassador Hanihara at Washington until after the Privy Council meeting.

Editorials in this morning's newspapers range between the conservative Chugai Shogyo's moderate and hopeful plea for self-restraint and the jingoistic Yamato's insistence for forceful action.

AUSTRALIANS START CONSTRUCTION OF TEMPORARY HOME FOR THEIR FEDERAL PARLIAMENT AT CANBERRA

The drawing above shows the provisional Parliament Buildings of Australia as they will appear when completed. The estimated cost is $220,000, and they are expected to be ready for occupation at the end of next year. May 2 has been fixed by the Cabinet as the date on which the Governor-General, Lord Forster, will be asked to lay the foundation stone. It will be a number of years before the permanent Parliament Buildings in the new capital city are erected.

MINERAL PRODUCTION IN B.C. FOR YEAR IS VALUED BY SLOAN AT $41,304,320

Official statistics issued by the Hon. William Sloan, Minister of Mines, place the value of the mineral production of British Columbia for the year 1923 at $41,304,320. This is $1,604,562 better than the estimate issued at the beginning of the present year and $6,145,477 greater than the monetary value of the output during 1922, an increase of 17.5 per cent.

The above figures are taken from the annual report of the Minister of Mines which is in the hands of the printer and, Mr. Sloan states, will be available for distribution at an early date. In summing up conditions during the past year, the report says in part:

"It is extremely gratifying to note that the above-mentioned output for the year 1923 has only been exceeded twice in the history of mining in the Province, and that in 1915, when production reached $42,290,462, and in 1919, when the figure of $41,782,474 was attained. In these two years, the production was the result of the wartime stimulus of output and wartime prices of the metals.

"In the face of the explanation of the causes of these higher years, the output of 1923 is very creditable and indicates that normal conditions are returning and may be expected to remain.

"As noted in last year's report, and equally true as yet, Europe is the world's metal market, to which practically all export metals find their way. As Europe is the consumer, the industrial conditions of Europe regulate the consumption of and demand for the metals.

"That Europe is still in a decidedly unsettled condition at the present time cannot be questioned, but for all that, the consumption of the metals does seem to have increased, and the greatly overstocked metal market of this continent, which accounted for the tremendous drop in the metal prices in 1921, have been somewhat relieved with the result that metal prices in 1923 have been materially higher than in 1920, 1921 or 1922.

Inventor Flies His Helicopter Over Half a Mile

Paris, April 19.—Marquis Raoul Pescara, the Argentine aviator-inventor, is beginning to get rewards for his perseverance in his experiments with his helicopter.

Yesterday, he flew his strange-looking machine more than half a mile, keeping at a uniform height of seven feet. The test was carefully timed and controlled by representatives of the Aero Club.

FORM COMMUNIST PARTY IN CANADA

Leaders of Workers' Party Decide to Affiliate With Internationale

Toronto, April 19.—Decision to set up a Communist Party in affiliation with the Third Internationale was made yesterday at the annual convention of the Workers' Party of Canada, which opened here. The convention was held behind closed doors, beyond which no one passed unless he presented a card of membership.

A. C. MACDONELL DIED IN TORONTO

Toronto, April 19.—Angus Claude Macdonell, former Senator and a distinguished lawyer, died yesterday in his sixty-third year.

He had been in poor health for the last three years, since his retirement from the Senate in 1921, and had been living retired.

First elected to the House of Commons in 1908, he defeated H. H. Stewart, K.C., by 429 votes, he took a leading part in the notable debates on the eight-hour bill, the Lennox convention measure and the Elections Act.

In 1917 he was appointed to the Senate, where he continued to serve with distinction until his health in 1921 forced his retirement.

Senator Macdonell came of a prominent family. His paternal ancestors were United Empire Loyalists and the family had been prominent in the development of Upper Canada. His grandfather was a member and speaker of the first Assembly of Upper Canada.

He was one of the founders of the Catholic Review, since merged with The Catholic Register, and he was an associate editor of the Canadian Law List.

Besides his brother, Major-General Macdonell of Toronto, he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Henrietta German, Port Colborne, Ont., and Miss Marie Macdonell, of Toronto.

The funeral will take place on Monday morning from St. Helen's Roman Catholic Church, Toronto.

Russians Formed Soviet at Cherbourg; Hindered Liner

Cherbourg, France, April 19.—Russian migrants fleeing Bolshevism, who have been employed here as stevedores while awaiting the opening of the new United States quota, declared the formation of a Soviet last night and refused to handle the thousands of mail bags carried by the liner Olympic.

The 120 Colborns were forced to remain in the harbor overnight, proceeding to Paris this morning.

Capt. Amundsen and His Five Companions Planning to Make Polar Flight in Middle of July

Copenhagen, April 19.—Captain Roald Amundsen estimates his proposed aeroplane flight over the North Pole this Summer will require the expenditure of $250,000, according to The Politiken.

Only six men will participate in the flight, which will be started about the middle of July, but about thirty men will be required to take care of the various phases of activity. Provisions for the expedition are now being collected.

The Dornier aeroplane presented to Captain Amundsen by Premier Mussolini of Italy is to be flown from Pisa to Spitzbergen, whence the Polar aviators plan to hop off. Captain Amundsen, it is said, thinks there can be no better test of the machine's capacity than a flight from Italy, which is longer than that planned across the Pole.

INSIST ON PRESSURE IF BERLIN DEFAULTS

French Will Not Surrender Present Means Unless Allies Agree on Action

Paris, April 19.—France will give up none of the means of pressure on Germany which she now possesses unless the Allies agree to replace them by pre-arranged concerted action between them, fixed in advance and to apply automatically in case of a new default by Germany, says The Matin, which of late has been particularly well informed regarding Premier Poincare's intentions.

The French Government, moreover, according to the newspaper, will not consider the reparations question settled until France is assured of 20,000,000,000 gold marks, plus such amounts as she may be called upon to pay on her inter-allied war debts.

Views still differ.

The Matin adds that the British point of view is still in contradiction with the attitude of the French Government and that negotiations will be necessary before the suggestions made by the committee of experts can become effective.

The British, according to The Matin, insist that the question of the eventual pledges to be taken in case of a new default by Germany should come up only after such default has been duly brought to the Allies' notice by the Reparations Commission.

The paper says this does not satisfy M. Poincare, who does not intend to give up the hold he now has on Germany until sure it would be replaced by one equally effective.

SHOUTHAMPTON STRIKE TO END NEXT WEEK

Shipyard Men Throughout Britain Will be Put Back to Work

Southampton, April 19.—The engineers and the other shipyard strikers here decided at a meeting this afternoon to return to work next Wednesday. It was the unauthorized strike of these workers for higher pay and their refusal to return when ordered to do so by the union officials which caused the shipbuilding employers to declare a lockout throughout the country and it is assumed that the lockout, which has tied up all the country's shipyards since April 12 and thrown 100,000 men out of work, will be terminated as the result of the strikers' decision to-day.

PRAIRIE M.P.'S GATHERING FIRST-HAND INFORMATION IN MARITIME PROVINCES

Party of Progressive Members Spends Easter Holiday at Halifax, St. John and Other Eastern Points; Men From Plains See How Fish Are Handled in Quantity in Nova Scotia

Halifax, April 19.—"It has been a most enjoyable and instructive visit. Several of our members have eaten lobsters boiled alive and seen the lobsters in their native state for the first time in their lives."

So Thomas H. McConica, M.P. for Battleford, Saskatchewan, described the visit of the party of Progressive members of Parliament to the Maritime Provinces, at a dinner on board the steamship Regina last night.

Yesterday's programme included a formal welcome from provincial and civic officials, visit to the buildings of some of the leading fish dealers of Nova Scotia, a reception tendered at Government House, a dinner by the White Star-Dominion Line aboard the steamship Regina, afternoon tea at the home of W. A. Black, M.P. drive around the city and inspection of the immigration quarters and the witnessing of the landing of 700 transatlantic passengers.

To-day a deep-sea trip has been arranged, after which the party will proceed to St. John on route to Ottawa.

SHIPS MOVE AGAIN ON GREAT LAKES

Port Arthur, Ont., April 19.—Navigation was opened at Port Arthur this morning with the clearing of the steamer Thomas J. Barium for Port Colborne with 300,000 bushels of wheat. The Barium had been wintering here with a storage cargo. The bay is now practically free of ice.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., April 19.—The steamers F. B. Squire and C. O. Jenkins reached the ship canal on the United States side of the Soo this morning, thus opening the navigation season. The Jenkins was the last ship of the season downbound last year.

EARTH SHOCK IN CENTRAL ENGLAND

Tremors To-day in the Midland Colliery District; Little Damage Reported

London, April 19.—Earth tremors were again reported to-day in the Midland colliery district between Alfreton and Sutton-in-Ashfield. They lasted only a few seconds. The characteristics of the disturbance were similar to those of the recent earthquake in this district, but it was of less severity. Little damage was reported.

Two New Officials To Guard Ontario Treasury Soon

Toronto, April 19.—Instead of the oft-mentioned Comptroller of Provincial Finances, it may be necessary to employ two men to guard the Treasury of Ontario, Hon. W. H. Price, Provincial Treasurer, said yesterday. On account of the large amounts involved it was pointed out that a knowledge of banking, exchange, accounting and other branches was required, which would be extremely hard to find in one man, no matter how capable.

Mr. Price stated Premier Ferguson had promised to allow whatever assistance was necessary.

TWO IN CUSTODY FOLLOWING FIRE

Chicago, April 19.—Samuel Moore and Leo Unell, owners of a sporting and novelty concern, were in custody to-day for questioning in connection with the fire here in which eight firemen and one civilian lost their lives last night.

Samuel Polinsky, said to have had insurance dealings with Moore and Unell, was declared by the police to have had insurance policies aggregating $22,000 issued to Moore and Unell, in his possession. Polinsky and Adolph Friedman are held as witnesses for the inquest.

ROOF GAVE WAY

Firemen first to arrive on the scene found the entire upper story in flames, and calls were sent in for more apparatus. The firemen mounted to the third floor in an effort to fight the flames on the floor above them. As the roof started to buckle, the firemen were ordered from the blazing building. Some of them stepped to the roof of a building adjoining but about a dozen feet distant to descend by way of the fire escape. Some of these firemen were toppled into the burning building when the roof collapsed, carrying two floors with it, this being followed by an explosion which sent the front wall crashing to the ground.

HURLED BY EXPLOSION

Some of the firemen were thrown clear of the fire by the force of the explosion. Others pitched headlong into the flames. A water tower set up in front of the burning building was demolished by the crashing stone and brick, and firemen manning this apparatus and spectators who had crowded through the police lines were buried under the debris.

BRITISH COLUMBIA SHINGLES BEING SHIPPED IN TRAINLOADS NOW TO EASTERN PART OF U.S.

Chicago, April 19.—A special train of fifty carloads of cedar shingles, the first to come from British Columbia through the United States, is due here April 24 over the Burlington Road from Vancouver, destined to points east of Buffalo, N.Y.

The consignment is the first of several trainloads expected to come east during the Spring and Summer. Heretofore virtually all lumber and its products from the Pacific Northwest to the district east of Chicago have gone by way of the Panama Canal.

Enough shingles, made to last forty or fifty years, to roof 800 buildings of average size, which would house 1,000 people, are contained in the shipment, which required 1,125,000 logs to produce.

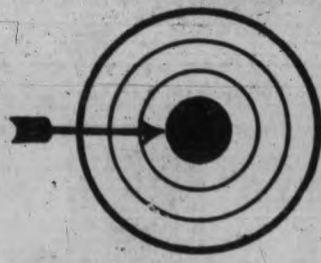

Easter Bonnets Are Now Insured Against Rain

White Plains, N.Y., April 19.—Many bonnets to be seen in the Easter parade here have been insured against rain.

If one-tenth of an inch of rain falls between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. the policyholder may have her money back and keep the hat.

The cost of the insurance is about nine per cent of the cost of a hat.

DOMINION EXPRESS MONEY ORDER. C.R.R. STATIONS DOMINION EXPRESS AGENCIES. CHANGING TO BE IN VICTORIA MONDAY. New Chinese Consul-General in Canada Will Arrive on Ss. Empress of Russia. Vancouver, April 19.—The Hon. Lo Chang, China's new consul-general for Canada, will arrive in Victoria on the Canadian Pacific steamship Empress of Russia on Monday. Mr. Lo, who succeeds Dr. Chihien Tsai at Ottawa, has acted as Chinese Consul-General in London, England, and Singapore. He is the son-in-law of the famous Chinese reformer, Kung Yu Wei, who with seven of his associates was ordered to be executed by the late Dowager Empress for certain drastic Government reforms which he sponsored. Six of these men were executed, but Kung Yu Wei, with Leung Chi Chow, now widely known as one of the greatest Chinese writers, escaped to Japan. Kung later crossed to Victoria and thence to England, where he was granted an audience at Buckingham Palace by the then queen, and became a constitutional form of Government for China patterned after Government of the British Empire. Chang is an ardent advocate of a republican form of Government for China. He has written many authoritative books on Government reform.

MAN WHO WRONGLY CLAIMED V.C. DIED. London, April 4 (Canadian Press Mail)—There has just died in a double sense—who went under the name of Corporal Arthur Henry Richardson. He claimed to be the Corporal Richardson of the Canadian contingent who in South Africa won the Victoria Cross. For nine years the canny folk of Aberdeen accepted him as such. He was once presented to the King and to King Haig, and his military career was closed with a full military funeral. THE REAL ONE. The real Corporal Richardson, V.C., has now been identified by Herbert Richardson, who is working for the Liverpool Corporation Tramways. "I don't talk much about myself," he said when questioned. "If I did I might have done better for myself. This chap seems to have had a good time on the strength of my V.C. I don't know how he got it, but he mentioned anything about this matter now, but my friends in Liverpool all know it was me, the V.C. with the Canadians in South Africa. If I did not speak now they might think it was not true after all." WITH R.N.M.P. The real Richardson, V.C., who served with the Strathcona Horse, has his pension papers, showing him to be the holder of the V.C. and entitled to a pension of £10 a year. When he was fifteen years old he went to Canada and spent fifteen years with the Northwest Mounted Police. "The Boer War he returned with the coveted honor to the Mounted Police and left the service as Sergeant-Major. He came back with them now," he said. His post was in the frozen North, and his wife's health gave way. He was obliged to leave her in the country. He is now widower.

MAYOR RENOUNCES EXECUTORSHIP. Will of D. A. N. Ogilvy Admitted to Probate. Mayor Hayward to-day announced that he would formally renounce the executorship of the will of the late David Alexander N. Ogilvy, an eccentric pioneer who placed the estate in the hands of the Mayor of Victoria at the time of his demise. His Worship, in making this statement, said that he thought it would be better for the court to place the disposition of the estate in the hands of some public official whose duties were permanent and not in that of a mayor whose term of office was transitory. From what he had seen of the letters, he believed the niece, Mrs. W. Hunt Hogan, of San Remo, Italy, was a person with whom the future of the estate was secure. The will was probated to-day, with Mrs. Hogan as beneficiary. His property at David Street Ogilvy left her in hand, and the balance of the estate consists chiefly of cash balances at the banks and the David Street property, valued at $500,000. Other People's Views. A FITTING MEMORIAL. To the Editor.—Two letters appeared regarding "A Fitting Memorial" in your paper the last of March, which the Lady Douglas Chapman has pleasure in referring to, and acquainting the writer with some of the activities of the chapter along historical lines since the war, since then it has not been so easy to make the large sums of money needed for our work. The chapter have, however, kept faithful to its motto, "Keep on hand on the traditions of the past and green the memory of our illustrious dead," and are now working in cooperation with the British Columbia Historical Society in erecting a tablet on Gonzales Point marking the landing of George Vancouver. Some years ago a tablet was erected to mark the spot where Sir James Douglas's home stood on Elliott Street. We are now furnishing a sunporch at Jubilee Hospital in his memory. There has been urgent need among our brave soldiers' families and the Chapter endeavor to give assistance to young mothers and infants, and financial assistance is given to soldiers' children, who wish to continue with secondary education. Ninety-two graves of our beloved men were cared for last year. It may be of interest to our native sons to know that this Chapter by the prompt action of our members the late Mrs. McKicking, saved the "Bastion" at Nanaimo from being sold for taxes. The Native Sons and the "Bastion" Chapter of the I.O.G.T. Nanaimo were very grateful for our assistance in preserving this historic landmark. Our anniversary tea was on March 16, Victoria's birthday, and the citizens of Victoria were invited to meet with the Chapter. We were favored with very interesting remarks by the members of Sir James Douglas's family and prominent Native Sons. We appreciate the suggestion and confidence given to us, and we trust the future will bear testimony that it has not been misplaced. EXECUTIVE OF LADY DOUGLAS CHAPTER. A. C. SMITH, Secretary.

Diary of a Fashion Model. By GRACE THORNCLIFFE. She Sees a Stunning Coat at a Musical Comedy. Gaby and I treated ourselves to a theatre party last night. We decided that we needed a diversion. "There are times when nothing will serve quite the place of a good musical comedy," Gaby said. "I feel exactly like one to-night," she added. "Do you?" "Well, I don't care if I do go," I replied. "Let's," she said, and it was settled. We went to Gaby's apartment and cooked dinner together. "Sometimes I find cooking or any kind of domesticity most disagreeable," I remarked to Gaby as we prepared the salad. "But if you do it as a lark, it is a lot of fun." "That's the trouble about taking domesticity as a lark," Gaby said. "It's fine at times, but it can get to be a bore, they tell me." Gaby smiled. "Is that a warning?" she asked. "Yes and no," I replied. "You're being wilfully vague," she returned, stirring the French dressing at a great rate. We found little difficulty in opening a can of peas and frying two chops. "It's easy to cater for us," I said. "But I don't know about a masculine appetite. Doubtless one would have to prepare steak and potatoes of a great rate." The few dishes were quickly washed, and we were on our way. We settled down at the first table or the curtain, and were soon laughing delightedly at a very funny comedian. "The costumes are stunning," Gaby whispered to me after the first act. "Which costume did you approve most?" I asked. "Like the yellow outfit," she answered. "So did I," I agreed with her. The scene had been Florida, and the costume a wimpy, long, deep yellow light wool coat, worn over a frock of the same shade in orange de Chine. "Like the costume idea," Gaby said. "That one was so simple, and so effective because it was simple," she added. "I liked the little covered buttons all down the front, and the fact that the coat seemed to snap beneath them, MUCH EASTER TRAVEL TO BRITAIN. Millions go to Seaside Resorts and to Points in the Country. London, April 19.—Great Britain's Easter holiday, which for the majority of the people extends from Thursday night until Tuesday morning, is being favored this year with exceptionally fine, warm weather—an experience in nowise common to Easter-tide here. Coming suddenly after a prolonged spell of cold, dreary weather, the sunny prospect has drawn millions out of the cities to the country and seaside. The trains are loaded to capacity and every road is thronged with motoring. The exodus from London has been particularly great, and business houses are closed throughout every other transportation organization is getting big returns from the movement of holiday and extra transport firms are losing an opportunity through the continuance of their dispute with the pilots on the wage question. MANY DISAPPOINTED. There is a big holiday traffic to the Continent, much of which for their stoppage. Some of this has been writers, escapees to whom planes continue to ply to and over the channel but, although working to the utmost capacity, these are unable to take the demand caused by the exceptionally favored flying weather of the last few days. The British air lines have done no flying since the beginning of April, and consequently have not qualified to receive the monthly Government subsidy.

FRENCH DISTURBED. Paris, April 19.—French official circles are considerably disturbed by the attitude of the British press toward the proposed repatriation of the German prisoners of war. It is deplorable that the general run of the British press should be so hostile to the repatriation of the German prisoners of war. The French Government, it was explained, is heartily in favor of the repatriation of the German prisoners of war, and even the advice of the judges who are chosen from among the highest and best-known musicians of England and this continent. The festival is essentially democratic. It appeals to the many rather than the few, and in this respect both the development and encouragement of the music in our schools. Then, too, a most important factor and one which cannot be appreciated by every contestant, is the scholarly, experienced and timely advice of the adjudicators who are chosen from among the highest and best-known musicians of England and this continent. FEDERATION IN SESSION TUESDAY. About 1,000 teachers will attend the annual convention of the British Columbia Teachers' Federation, which will be held in Vancouver next week, or about one-half of the members of the federation in this Province. Secretary Harry Charlesworth states that the representation from Victoria and district will be thoroughly representative. The most important phase of the gathering this year will be the section on professional ethics. Among the notable men to speak at the gathering will be Dr. John Adams, head of the Department of Education, University of London, and G. W. Miller, Professor of Education at the University of B.C. H. C. Newland, president of the Canadian Teachers' Federation, is to be a speaker. Among local teachers taking part in the programme are Principal J. M. Campbell, Miss Katherine Laing Mackay, Miss Eveline de Courcy Meade, Miss C. M. M. Miss K. Scanlan, Principal D. L. MacLaurin, H. Smith of the High School, Gordon Downes, G. Braidner and George Anstey. Miss Blaxter will report on the recent conference held here on domestic science.

OBITUARY. Service was held at the Thomson Funeral Home, 1625 Quadra Street, on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock for the late Fred Talbot, who passed away Tuesday morning. Rev. A. Nixon, of Royal Oak, conducted the service and the remains were laid to rest in Ross Bay Cemetery. The late Mr. Talbot was a native of Quebec and had been a resident of this city for the past four years. Funeral services over the remains of the late Charles Bishop Innes were held yesterday afternoon at St. Paul's Church, Esquimalt. Rev. F. C. Chalmers officiated and the large congregation sang the hymns "Rock of Ages" and "Aldie With Me." After the service the remains were conveyed to the wharf en route to Vancouver, where they will be cremated. The honorary pallbearers were H. Bullock-Webster, Geo. Mathews, K. R. Streetfield and Col. C. Peck, V.C., and active bearers included W. H. Wolfenden, J. Matthews, E. M. After, H. J. Crane, J. Devereux and G. Baston.

DISTRICT HALLS FIRE CHIEF SAYS. District Halls Closed. Fire Chief Says Loss $50,000 Annually if Insurance Rates Respond to Reduced Protection. "It really means that there will be a closing down of fire halls," in these words Chief Vernon Stewart of the Victoria Fire Department replied to the query as to what action he would take in regard to the holiday relief dilemma now before him. Under the Fire Departments Hours of Labor bill the chief must give one day off in seven to firemen. The council turned down an increase in this year's vote to permit taking on extra men and have instructed the chief that the appropriation would be $10,000, and that he is to govern himself accordingly. The Duchess Street fire hall, serving Oak Bay, will be likely one of the first slated for disuse, it is understood. The city receives $6,500 for this building, and the money, however, going to general revenue, and not into the fire protection appropriation. If the city's fire department is forced to close down outlying halls and resort to a central station along the fire insurance rates will automatically increase. A strong section of business men urging a review of the situation, who will appear before the council. Victoria carries $100,000,000 in fire insurance, it is estimated. The actual figures are $7,000,000. Of this $35,000,000 applies on merchandise; $40,000,000 on buildings, and $25,000,000 on household contents. A closing of fire halls would mean a raise of five per cent in the insurance rates, or $50,000 against $11,000 for the cost of additional men.

MAY 1 CHOSEN AS CHILD WELFARE DAY

Co-ordinated Efforts by the Various Organizations in United States

Washington, April 19.—May Day is to be made the occasion for a co-ordinated effort by the various organizations interested in the welfare of American children. President Coolidge has lent his endorsement and assistance to the project in a letter to Secretary Hoover who, as president of the American Child Health Association, presented the matter to him in a letter that made some startling statements concerning child life in this country.

"With all the light and all the prosperity of our great people," said Mr. Hoover, "we find that in five other nations there is a lower death rate among infants; we find in sixteen other nations a lower rate of fatality amongst mothers at childbirth. The great national draft indicated that something like eighty per cent of the men examined were deficient in some particular or another."

COMMUNITY SAFEGUARDS

While the greater part of the 35,000,000 children of the U.S. are objects of the utmost solicitude on the part of parents, Mr. Hoover pointed out that no amount of individual solicitude can correct the dangers to which children are in many instances subjected by failure of community safeguards. "We find," he said, "in many of our communities impure sources of water and impure supplies of milk; in others we find inadequate provision for health inspection and playgrounds; we find archaic systems and incompetent administration of public health in many cities and towns, and we still have large numbers of children at work in factories when they should be in school."

NEW PROBLEMS

In order to awaken community and national thought and secure co-ordinated effort on child welfare that May Day, traditionally and peculiarly children's day, be proposed for the purpose, and President Coolidge has given it his unqualified support. "The tremendous growth of urban population," the President says in his letter to Mr. Hoover, "constantly presents new problems of child life and health. These problems should be met by action within each community. Governors of states, commissioners of health and education, mayors of cities, various organizations, the press, the motion picture industry, radio broadcasting and all other suitable agencies have been asked to join in stimulating the observance of May Day as a 'Day of Child Welfare.'"

$100,000 FIRE IN KINGSTON, ONTARIO

Harrisburg, Va., April 19.—Explosion of a gasoline engine in the office of The Kingston Times caused a fire which destroyed thirty-five buildings in the heart of Franklin last night and entailed a property loss estimated at $100,000, according to reports received here.

In an area of four blocks only the brick jail house remained to-day. As far as is known no one was injured.

WAGES QUESTION

Boston, April 19.—Instructions to "fight if any attempt is made to reduce wages" or "lengthen working hours" will be sent next week to all local unions affiliated with the United Textile Workers of America.

The emergency board of this union decided at a special meeting here yesterday. The force of this order, it is understood, would be to sanction local bodies to declare strikes without waiting for the permission of the central organization.

PREPARING FOR GREAT GATHERING

G. F. Mara Stage Manager of U.S. Democratic National Convention in New York

New York, April 19.—Behind the scenes of the great task of making arrangements for the smooth operation of the Democratic National Convention, which will come here this year for the first time in 54 years, there is one all-powerful stage manager. He is George F. Mara, a Bridgeport, Connecticut, lawyer who the party credited with having successfully conducted the mechanics of the 1920 convention in San Francisco. He has been called "The Human Dynamo."

With the guiding reins in his hands, Mr. Mara, since the convention site was decided as Madison Square Garden, has insistently controlled a veritable labyrinth of interlocking tasks. With military precision and efficiency he has directed an undertaking fraught with difficulties and overlaid with ramifications anything but military and yet, unlike a commander-in-chief, he has been unseen and even unknown by many of those entrusted with the detailed aspects of the plan of action.

CORPS OF WORKERS

In January Mr. Mara, officially cloaked with the title "executive secretary of the national convention arrangements committee," quietly established a corps of workers who were aided by the citizens' committee and the mayor's committee. Under his direction, under-committees and sub-committees were created. Among the tasks accomplished have been:

Organization of a non-partisan committee of 2,000 business men to help finance the convention; organization of committees from the scores of local social, commercial and political groups; inspection of hotel accommodations and allocation of space to campaign committees, delegates and alternates;

ALTERING BIG BUILDING

Preparation of plans for altering Madison Square Garden and for conveniently housing within it and in nearby hotels of convention committees; execution of these plans and of others for the installation of telegraph, telephone, wireless and radio-phonograph communication; letting of concessions; engagement of bands, orchestras, stenographers and other personnel;

Apportionment and distribution of tickets to the press, delegates and others; arrangements for tickets for amusements and apportionment of tickets for the scores of entertainments, boat trips, concerts, theatricals, ball games, etc., which have been arranged; and the assembling and printing of the bulky convention programme.

ARRANGING FEATURES

In addition to these routine tasks Mr. Mara has had to think of the features, such as the nominating and demonstrating sessions which he proposes to hold at the Yankee Stadium or the Polo grounds, and the huge military spectacle, land, water and air, which local committeemen wish to undertake.

ROBBER WAS EXECUTED IN ARKANSAS TOWN

Little Rock, Ark., April 19.—"Diamond Joe" Sullivan, last of a trio of desperados whose meteoric careers rivaled the lurid tales of the pictureous two-gun men of twenty years ago, walked calmly to his death in the electric chair here yesterday, protesting his innocence to the end.

Sullivan was convicted of the murder of Luther C. Hay, a city detective, here last July.

CANNING INDUSTRY HAS GROWN GREATLY

Food Products so Handled in United States in Year $628,000,000

Sacramento, Cal., April 19.—The canning industry gained its greatest growth during the World War, and because of it, according to Irving Engler, secretary of the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce. In 1914 the value of all canned food products in the United States was $243,000,000, and the value to-day is $628,000,000. Of fruits in cans, peaches are the most popular.

Food first was hermetically sealed by Nicholas Appert, a Frenchman, in 1809. His idea was to use the plan for sailors at sea. The French Government purchased the process and Appert was given 1,200 francs by Napoleon, who in turn allowed manufacturers plants in England and France to use it. The process was guarded with great care, but in 1815 Ezra Daggert, an American, put it into effect in this country, marking the beginning of the industry here. Daggert also invented the tin can. At that time salmon, lobster and other sea products were the principal foods canned.

At first tin cans were made by hand, and one man by a big day's work could turn out sixty. In 1847 Alex Taylor invented the stamp cast made by machinery. Since then the progress of the industry has been rapid.

NEW PLAN TRIED AT U.S. COLLEGE

Students at Antioch Spend Alternating Periods at Study and Work

Yellow Springs, Ohio, April 19.—Successful as an engineer in charge of several of the largest flood control projects in the United States, Arthur E. Morgan, as president of Antioch College, has introduced a pronounced innovation in college training with the result that educators all over the United States are watching the outcome with keen interest.

Antioch is one of the older educational institutions of the country, having been founded in 1853 by Horace Mann.

As an engineer Mr. Morgan employed more than 1000 college graduates, and from experiences gained by contact with these men he formed the opinion that the programmes of both liberal and technical colleges "give an incomplete training for modern life in the complex economic and social system of to-day." Mr. Morgan is not a college graduate.

STUDY AND WORK

Perhaps the most striking feature of Mr. Morgan's plan, in the public estimation, is the so-called co-operative idea, under which the student body is divided into two groups for alternating periods of five weeks of study and five weeks of work. A student attends college for five weeks and then goes to work in some industry, business or professional office. Meanwhile, the student's alternate comes back to college from the position the two have in common.

STUDENTS CONSULTED

This plan is carried out regardless of the financial or social standing of the student. Positions are provided by a department of the school, and the students are consulted regarding the nature of the work they desire.

Mr. Morgan asserts that a fund of information, combined with reasoning power and the habit of diligent study, while they fill the requirements of academic excellence, do not prepare a young man or woman for effective living. Only by actual experience with the real world he or she is to enter on leaving college can they complete their preparation, he declares.

AID FOR VISITORS FROM CANADA IN LONDON FOR FAIR

Montreal, April 19.—In order that visitors from Canada may be assured of the best hotel accommodations during their stay in London while the British Empire Exhibition is in progress arrangements have been completed by the Canadian National Railways through their London office to assist visitors in obtaining hotel accommodations. The Canadian National Railways will during this period maintain a hotel booking bureau in London whose services will be free of charge to Canadian visitors. When possible this bureau will reserve accommodation direct, but falling this an understanding has been entered into with the London Hotels Association to do the booking.

INSURANCE COMPANY WINS $20,000 SUIT

Montreal, April 19.—Because Dr. Bourgeois of Three Rivers failed to mention in replying to questions on an application for insurance that he had previously delayed a medical insurance examination on advice of a physician, the Court of King's Bench, appeal division, has awarded a decision to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company for $20,000, the amount which the widow of Dr. Bourgeois, Dame Kierman, claimed under an insurance policy issued on the life of her late husband. The appeal was made from a decision by Mr. Justice Duplessis, who had awarded the $20,000 to Dame Kierman.

EASTER

In the end of the Sabbath, as it began to dawn toward the first day of the week, came Mary Magdalene and the other Mary to see the sepulchre.

And, behold, there was a great earthquake, for the angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat upon it.

His countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow.

And for fear of him the keepers did shake, and became as dead men.

And the angel answered and said unto the women, Fear not ye; for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified.

He is not here; for He is risen, as He said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay.

And go quickly, and tell His disciples that He is risen from the dead; and, behold, He goeth before you into Galilee; there shall ye see Him; lo, I have told you.

And they departed quickly from the sepulchre with fear and great joy; and did run to bring His disciples word.

And as they went to tell his disciples, behold, Jesus met them, saying, All hail. And they came and held him by the feet and worshipped him.

—St. Matthew, xxviii., 1-9.

PADRE ANDREWS

A large part of Victoria on this eve of Easter is sad with the grief of a personal loss through the death of the Rev. G. H. Andrews, rector of St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay.

Padre Andrews, as he was known, because of his war record, was beloved for his geniality and Christian character by the members of his congregation and a circle of friends outside which widened steadily.

The Church of St. Mary's and its community hall stand as a monument to the success of Padre Andrews' labors of only eleven years in this city. After quarter of a century of service as chaplain and teacher in army schools in England, he came to Victoria with the rank of colonel and at a time in his career when most men would have thought of retiring.

Padre Andrews' cheering presence will be missed from the life of Victoria. He was a good Christian and because of that a good citizen.

THE ONLY DETERRENT

A FEW days ago a bank robber in Montreal was sentenced to imprisonment for twenty-five years and a whipping. The Solicitor-General at Ottawa remitted the whipping.

His reasons for this course were not given in the press dispatches reporting the case. He may have concluded that inasmuch as criminals who commit acts of robbery with violence against others have not been ordered whipped there was no good reason for whipping this one because he held up a bank.

Undoubtedly it is no greater crime to rob a bank at the point of a gun than to hold up a workman on the public highway and relieve him of his hard-earned wages; in fact, if any distinction is to be drawn at all it is that the man with the humbler victim is worse than the man who robbed the bank. In any case both are bad.

But this would have been a good time to resort to the only means of chilling the criminal ardor of the thug. Imprisonment will not do it, for the desperate criminal always cherishes hope of escape, or looks for an early pardon from the well-meant but fatuous intervention of certain people who think the best way to uplift these tigers of the social jungle is to let them loose.

NORDIC RACES FAVORED

PEOPLE of the races from the north-western part of Europe, the Scottish, English, Irish, Scandinavian and German—the so-called Nordic races—are the ones the United States wants to draw on more largely for its new population.

This is the meaning of the adoption by the Senate at Washington of the 1890 census as the quota basis in the new immigration law. Under the plan voted for, two per cent. of the number of persons of each nationality in the country in 1890 will be allowed to enter the United States as immigrants in any one year.

The object in choosing the 1890 census as the quota basis is that the proportion of the Nordic races in the country in that year was larger than it has been since, because of the more recent swarming across the Atlantic of the peoples of Southern and Eastern Europe.

Under the new law, the annual immigration of all races will be restricted to 160,000 persons a year, which is about 40,000 less than the number entering during this last year. After July, 1926, the total will be cut to 150,000 a year. Nothing is said about restricting the immigration of native Canadians, who will enter as they have in the past, although other nationals who seek to get in through Canada as a side door, will come under the quota.

Japanese immigration, of course, is to be excluded totally, unless President Coolidge interposes his veto. The United States is in a position to pick its immigrants. In doing so it is working on experience as to what races contribute the best to the new country from the standpoint of citizenship.

The weather forecaster has lots of competition these days. United States Senators almost talk as if they had been reading speeches delivered in the British Columbia Legislature on Japanese immigration.

Labor leaders in Britain are bringing the strike threat rather close home to the Labor Government by threatening the stoppage of the supply of heat and light to the Houses of Parliament, the royal palaces and public buildings, because of the refusal of Public Works Commissioners to increase the wages of cleaners and other men in government buildings.

Bismarck's wife was in one way like a good many people in the world of late years. She did not hesitate to express her dislike of Wilhelm Hohenzollern. Her letters, which have been published on the centenary of her birth, tell how after the former Kaiser had given Bismarck a bottle of Rhine wine she wrote: "What makes him give this present? Certainly not love."

GETTING BACK TO TRADITION From The Toronto Star THE basic industries of agriculture, dairying, mining, quarrying, lumbering and fishing are favored by the budget. The tools and machinery used in these industries have had one-third of the tariff protection taken off and the sales tax cancelled.

THE budget introduces many changes, but this is the outstanding feature. On this all the controversy that is to follow will hinge. A few days ago a public speaker declared that low tariff was the tradition of the Liberal party, and The Manitoba Free Press replied with the comment that this was more a matter of tradition than performance. That was fairly true last week, but not now.

SPRING MILLINERY IN 18TH CENTURY

THERE is not so variable a thing in nature as a lady's head-dress. Within my own memory I have known it rise and fall above thirty degrees. About ten years ago it shot up to a very great height, inasmuch that the female part of our species were much taller than the men. At present the whole sex is in a manner dwarfed, and shrunk into a race of beauties that seems almost another species.

REBURECTION Falls the brown seed From the tree mother's breast; Gently the elements Lay it away Under the brown earth. Into the dark, Sadly, consigned To death and decay.

Softly its requiem Slings the south wind; Tenderly bends For our children The warm sun overhead; Mournfully drops The spring rain, comes the dew O'er the brown seed Deep in its dark bed. Something within, Forever unquenched Climbs from its bondage After death's strife— Something proclaiming In fragrance and bloom: "My resurrection, I am the Life!" —Eva Warner.

The Wonder of Easter

We Glory in the Risen Lord Who Was Crucified in Weakness, But Lives in Power

FASTER comes once more with its perpetual wonder. Before the festive force of its message is as wonderful to-day as it was 1890 years ago.

Perhaps the most wonderful thing on that first Easter was the sudden transition from despairing dismay to invincible faith. THAT vivid French writer, De Pressense, said that when Jesus died His disciples imagined that Christ's cause was ended. The possibility of a resurrection does not seem to have entered their minds. Their hearts were filled with sorrow and dismay.

It was as if the great stone of Christ's sepulchre had been rolled upon their feeble faith. Then was their mouth filled with laughter, and their tongue with singing. Then said they to one another: "The Lord is risen indeed!" They, who had been so timid, suddenly became bold. Traitorous and cowardly disciples became brave.

They spoke of His resurrection before kings and were not ashamed. The doubters and deniers faced the world undaunted. In Jerusalem itself, and in the very face of the rulers, they flung to the winds their fears. Before the majesty of princes, and the pride of philosophic Athens they preached Jesus—and the resurrection. They proclaimed the living Christ.

They did not preach a Christ who lived and was dead, but a Christ who died and was alive, alive forevermore. They preached the death of Death.

"O Death, where is thy sting? O Grave, where is thy victory?" "Christ has abolished death and brought life and immortality to light."

THE wonder of the Gospel of the Resurrection can never cease. To-day we glory in the Risen Lord who was crucified in weakness, but lives in power.

The bold Mr. Wells assures us that we are soon going to have a new religion that shall away all mankind. But this new religion idea has been tried. They tried it at the time of the French Revolution, but it would not work. Men's lives still were cold, and hearts still heavy laden and dark with woe. And when his champion said to Talleyrand "Why can't I get people to believe in my new religion?" that brilliant cynic answered: "That's easy enough! All you have to do is to get crucified or put to death, and three days afterwards rise from the dead."

ONCE more then left the Easter bells peal out the triumph of His Resurrection! Once more let countless singers sing forth their faith in Easter anthems! Death is dead. Dry up the tears, ye sons and daughters of sorrow!

Canst thou the Apocalyptic vision, O ye that hear His name, of the Living God, Whose Life is light, Whose Light is love, Whose Love is joy, Whose Joy is peace undying. And year by year until He comes again, wreathed not with thorns, but crowned with glory and honor, let the ever-clinging throng of living witnesses attend with joyful acclaim the Easter-angel: "Now is Christ risen from the dead." I am He that liveth, and was dead. The Lord is risen indeed! —DYSON HAGUE

Dr. Frank Crane On "Best Creeds for Our Children"

A MAN'S real creed is not what he does, but what he wants his son to do.

A woman's truest convictions are not those she shows in her own conduct, but can be seen in the kind of conduct she seeks to impose upon her daughter.

Our real self is the kind of person we wish our children to become.

A man may be a drunkard, and resent it if you try to reform him, but few men teach their boys to use alcohol.

A woman may be indiscreet, even immoral, and defend that for our children.

When we ask, therefore, what is the best education, we should not look to ourselves for the answer, but ask ourselves what sort of an education we would like for our children.

The child is the test of the world. To the new souls coming into life we can apply our unmixt moralities, our unadulterated convictions.

And probably all living men and women would wish for their child these three things in education: That he be

An aristocrat in his tastes: A democrat in his wealth: And a Puritan in his conduct.

The word aristocrat is made up of two Greek words, one of which means "the best," the other "rule." Certainly not all who call themselves, or who have been called aristocrats are the best people, but it was this idea that coined the word, nevertheless.

There is one realm in which every person should be an aristocrat—in his tastes. Not one of us but would wish for his child a liking for the best things.

ALL HUMBUG Uric Acid Never Did Cause Rheumatism

Free Book Explains Why

If you want to get rid of rheumatism, you must first get rid of the old belief that uric acid causes it.

Read the book that is helping thousands. It's called "The Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism," and it's well worth reading because it tells, in simple words that anyone can understand, the truth about rheumatism, gout, neuritis, sciatica and lumbago.

The tenth edition is just off the press, and a free copy will be mailed to you if you will send your name and address (a postal will do) to-day to H. P. Clearwater, Ph. D., 323-D Street, Hallowell, Maine. Better send to-day, as another edition will not be printed unless necessary.

A Sure Relief For Women's Disorders Orange Lily is a certain relief for all disorders of women. It is applied locally and is absorbed into the suffering tissue. The dead waste matter in the congested region is expelled, giving immediate mental and physical relief; the blood vessels and nerves are toned and strengthened, and the circulation is restored to normal. As this treatment is based on strictly scientific principles and acts on the actual location of the disease, it cannot help but do good in all forms of female troubles, including delayed and painful menstruation, leucorrhoea, falling of the womb, etc. Price $2.50 per box, which is sufficient for one month's treatment. A Free Trial Treatment, enough for ten days, worth 75c, will be sent free to any suffering woman who will send me her address. Lydia W. Leach, Windsor, Ont. SOLD BY LEADING DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

TO HONOR ACTIVE WOMAN WORKER

Farewell Reception For Mrs. E. S. Hasel Wednesday Next Mrs. E. S. Hasel, who has perhaps been more closely associated with, and held more offices in women's organizations than any other woman in Victoria, is to be honored at a reception at the Alexandra House, Courtney Street, on Wednesday afternoon next. The reception will be in the nature of a farewell gathering on the eve of her departure for England. Among the many organizations with which Mrs. Hasel has been closely identified, and whose members are participating in Wednesday's affair, are the Daughters of the Empire, which she has been honorary president for many years, the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire of which she is a National Councillor and life member, the Women's Auxiliary of the Jubilee Hospital, the Victoria Alumnae Association, the Women's Parish Guild of Christ Church Cathedral, the Playhouse Nightingale Chapter, I.O.D.E., Patriotic Aid Society, Red Cross, Local Council of Women, King's Daughters and the Island Arts and Crafts Club. At Wednesday's reception afternoon tea will be served in the ballroom and there will be an interesting programme. It is hoped that besides the members of the above organizations, any women interested in honoring one who has contributed so much to the welfare of the community, will accept this invitation to attend.

Easter Dance at Empress Hotel

The Easter Monday dance under the auspices of the Navy League Chapter, I.O.D.E., and the patronage of the administrator and Mrs. Macdonald at the Empress Hotel, on April 21 promises to be a very enjoyable affair. Professor Heaton's orchestra has been engaged for the event. Dancing will take place from 8 until 11, and a buffet supper will be served in the dining-room at 11 o'clock. The committee in charge of the arrangements are Mrs. J. D. Digton, Mrs. W. H. Hibberd, Mrs. Whittier, Mrs. Cullum and Mrs. Mortimer Appleby. Tickets may be had at Spencer's music store, N. H. Hibberd, 100 Government Street, Owl Drug Store, Campbell Building, and the Empress Hotel.

DIGGON'S STAFF AT HOUSE PARTY

The members of the Diggon Printing Company's staff were guests at a most enjoyable house party on Thursday evening at 2803 Parkview Drive, where they assembled on the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Diggon. The function partook of the nature of a celebration in honor of Mr. Harold H. S. Parkook who has just completed his apprenticeship with the firm. Mr. Walker, the recipient of a beautiful gold pocket, suitably inscribed, the same being presented to him by Mr. Diggon on behalf of the firm. An impromptu programme of vocal and instrumental numbers, games and dancing occupied the major part of the evening. Songs were rendered by Miss Etienne Diggon, Mr. Diggon, and Mr. Jack H. Trace. Mr. Diggon, assisted by Mr. Trace, performed some clever and mystifying card tricks. Music for the dancing was supplied by Misses Diggon and Anderson and Messrs Harold Walker and E. F. Wilson. An attractive number was a radio concert furnished by Mr. Jim Elder, on his excellent three-tube radio set. During the evening a delightful supper was served. In addition to the host and hostess, those present were: the Misses Louvena Perrin, Etienne Diggon, Newman, Norma Kenny, Eleanor Dalziel, Constance Stubbs, S. McConnell, Nora C. Cutler, Ethel Anderson and Mrs. J. Elder and Messrs Alfred J. Johnson, Frank H. Neelds, Harold H. S. Walker, William Neil, James Elder, James Gardner, Walter Cuts, G. A. Hebban, Walter Butler, Jack H. Trace and J. F. Wilson.

NURSES ASK FOR WAR PENSIONS

French Organization to Memorialize Government For Aid Paris, April 19.—French war nurses, wounded or broken in health, are suffering under "the war is over" forgetfulness. More than 1,200 of these women are entitled to pensions. Madame Guerin-Charvet recently told the seventh national congress of associations representing veterans, widows and war victims at Cherbourg. Madame Guerin-Charvet is secretary-general of the wounded nurses association. With tears flowing she recited the trials in peace of the nurses who, she said, "already suffered too much in war." She asked, and the congress promptly complied, that the government be urged to put nurses on exactly the same basis as combatants. Now, she said, nurses were awarded scant pensions when able to prove beyond question that their wounds were war wounds. Most of the victims could not do this, many because there was no agency to keep such records, others because they were too busy caring for the soldiers to protect their own interests, and some because the government pension authorities took the view their illnesses had no direct connection with war. Miss Audrey Tooley, daughter of Col. Tooley, Howe Street, has gone over to Seattle to visit friends for the holidays.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. A. C. Burdick has returned home after a few days in Vancouver. Princess Alexandra Lodge 18 Daughters and Maids of England, held a very successful treat drive at the home of Sister Hibberd, on Wednesday evening when the following were the winners at the various tables: 1. Mrs. Singsby, 2. Mrs. Druce, Mrs. Caldwell, 3. Mrs. Fieldhouse; gentlemen, 1. Hatcher, 2. Hibben; 3. Mrs. Hunter. At the close of the drive dainty refreshments were served by the hostess. A pleasant surprise party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Dunford, 1438 Edgeware Road on Saturday night. Cards, dancing and games were much enjoyed. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Druce, Mr. and Mrs. Hurley, Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis, Mr. and Mrs. Fike, Mr. and Mrs. Cowdery, Mr. and Mrs. Crombie, Mrs. Swanson, Miss Greenie, Miss Joan and Betty Cowdery, Master Dunford and Master Comber. A delightful musicale was held on Thursday afternoon in the sunroom of the Tubercular ward, Jubilee Hospital, by the Victoria Nightingale Chapter, I.O.D.E. Among those assisting were Mrs. Jessa Longfield, Mrs. Morley, Mrs. Griffiths, dramatic reading by Miss Ella Pottinger; pianoforte solo, Miss Vivian Morgey; and Mrs. Jamie Cameron acted as accompanist. During the afternoon delicious refreshments and Easter favors were served to the patients under the direction of Mrs. George Mellor. A number of friends of Mrs. Wm. Fossil paid a surprise visit at her home, 840 Bay Street, on Thursday evening in honor of her birthday. The self-invited guests brought their best wishes in the form of many attractive gifts. Games were enjoyed and delicious refreshments were served. Those present included Mrs. and Miss Cramer, Mrs. McLeod, Mrs. Dickson, Mrs. Griffiths, Mrs. Leonard, Mrs. Moorhouse, Mrs. Luney Sr. and Mrs. Clem Davies, the party being later swelled by other guests. A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Grant, 1924 Johnson Street, last night on the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding. Those present included Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Sole, Mr. and Mrs. Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. E. Rutledge, Mr. and Mrs. Dupain, Mr. and Mrs. Goddard, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McDonald, Mrs. Sidney Junkins, Mrs. Mayne D. Hamilton, Mrs. Cecil Merritt, Mrs. A. Bull, Mrs. J. C. Donald, Miss A. A. Gibson, Mrs. Montzambert, Mrs. G. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. H. Kerr, Mrs. Reginald Tupper, Mrs. M. S. Townsend, Mrs. C. Donohue, Miss Geraldine Cambie, Mrs. Herbert Hulme, Mrs. Charleson, Miss Edith Charleson, Mrs. J. H. Bushnell, Mrs. Stanley Henderson, and Mrs. D. H. Wilson. The prettily appointed table, centred with a shower of daffodils and narcissi, was presided over by Mrs. Guy Kirkpatrick and Mrs. D. H. Wilson. A quiet and pretty wedding took place on Thursday evening at "Breadalbane," Mrs. J. Chapman's residence, when the Rev. Dr. Campbell officiated at a ceremony which made Miss Florence Sarah Law, of Victoria, the bride. The bridegroom, Mr. Glen Valley, was given in marriage by Mr. Arthur Stanley Woodard, her brother-in-law. The bride wore a gown of navy blue serge with hat en suite, and carried a bouquet of daffodils and maiden hair fern. She was attended by Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Woodard, her sister, in a handsome gown of grey tulle, carrying a bouquet of daffodils and fern. The bridesmaids were Miss Joyce Woodard, the bride's niece in a dainty frock of white muslin with flower girl, and carried a basket of daffodils and fern. The bride and groom left by the night boat for Vancouver and the Sound cities, after which they will make their home on their ranch at Fort Langley, B.C.

WOMEN'S THRILLS IN JAMAICA JUNGLE

Two London Artists Lived Nearly Two Years Among Natives London, April 19.—Two years ago two London women artists, desiring new subjects, sailed to Jamaica. They have just returned with a large number of oil and water-color paintings. Except for a few weeks which they spent together on the coast after their arrival in Jamaica, the artists, Miss Y. M. Jones and Miss V. H. Bradshaw, went separately on their adventures and lived alone with the natives in their villages. Miss Jones stated that she was "not a bit scared of the natives." Often she would be alone with one of them in the jungle, painting his portrait, and he would sit "as though in a trance." At first they thought I wanted to put the paint on their faces, and they were amazed when they saw themselves reproduced on canvas. They are an extraordinary witty people, and while I painted, the onlookers would make uncomplimentary remarks to the sitter. Once while staying in a fishing village called Ocho Rios, I became very ill with fever. Three most wonderful black women looked after me as though I were their own daughter; but their remedies were terrible. They made a concoction of boiled herbs and forced me to take a bath in it. It was black and horrible—but it cured me of fever! Miss Bradshaw had many exciting adventures, including a fall in a motor-car over a precipice. "header" from a buck-jumping mule into a deep river, and an unwitting bath in an alligator's breeding-place. "But I loved every bit of the time I was there," she told a press representative, "and we both want to go back."

SHERWOOD AUXILIARY ELECTS OFFICERS AT ANNUAL MEETING

Mrs. Sargent was elected president of the Sherwood Missionary Auxiliary at the meeting held at the home of Mrs. F. W. Grant, Chestnut Avenue, on April 17. She succeeds in this office Mrs. W. H. Gee, who has been the efficient and zealous president for the past seven years. Other officers are: Vice-presidents, Mrs. F. W. Grant, Mrs. Gee, Mrs. German; recording secretary, Mrs. W. H. Gee; assistant recording secretary, Mrs. John Hall; treasurer, Mrs. John Grant. An interesting address was given by Miss H. M. Paul, missionary of Michell, B.C. A letter was also received from Dr. Darby of Bella Bella Hospital appealing for two girls with high school education to enter the hospital there for two years' training, then to enter the Vancouver General Hospital for one year before graduation. Afternoon tea was served by the hostess, Miss Spencer presiding at the tea table. Solos were charmingly sung by Mrs. Downard and duets by Miss May Hall and Mrs. John Hall.

LADYSMITH

Lady Smith, April 19.—Miss Ethel Hunter of the B.C. Telephone staff, Vancouver, is spending the Easter holidays with her father and sister, Esplanade. Miss Edna Wallace and Miss Francis McLean of the local teaching staff left for Victoria to spend the Easter holidays. Miss Lois Hudson, East Cedar School, is visiting her parents over the week-end. Sidney, April 19.—Miss Aileen White returned home from Vancouver, where she has been for some weeks. The many friends of Mrs. Bodkin will be sorry to hear she is ill in the Jubilee Hospital, where she had to undergo an operation. Mrs. Bodkin is now getting on well. Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Jones have left here and gone to live in Oak Bay. Mrs. Jones has been transferred from the Bank of Montreal, Sidney, to the Douglas Street branch, Victoria. Mrs. B. Matthews and small son of Blaine are staying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. McKillican. DUNCAN Duncan, April 19.—Miss Violet Hayward will leave on April 24 for the Old Country to rejoin her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hayward. She will sail on the Minnedosa from Montreal.

MARRIED AT FOURTEEN; GIVES BIRTH TO HER TWENTY-FOURTH CHILD

San Francisco, April 19.—Mrs. Sebastiana Broquin Thursday gave birth to her twenty-fourth child, Mrs. Marroquin, who is forty-four years old, and who first was married at the age of fourteen. "I have been married twice. Fifteen of her children are alive and even still live at home. Marroquin is a cement worker. MOIR'S Chocolates The Emperor Montezuma of Mexico, in ancient Aztec days, was "fascinated" by fond of chocolate—so historians tell. No less than 50 jars or pitchers of chocolate were prepared for his own daily consumption and 2,000 more were allowed for that of his household. The world is abundantly supplied with chocolate. The cocoa bean grows in many tropical countries, and the finest varieties are those from favored lands that seem to possess the humidity favorable for the most delicious fruit. It is in islands such as Ceylon and Jamaica that Nature does her best work, so naturally Moir's Chocolates are made from the finest cocoa beans that these islands grow. Moirs have gone to the ends of the earth to acquire and maintain the highest and delicious flavour so long associated with their famous chocolate confection. Royal Message Brings Aid to B.C. Crippled Children

Dr. MacLean Hands $432.59 to Women's Institute Fund; Part Profits Sale of Records of Empire Day Greetings

As a result of the sale of the gramophone records of the address given by the King and Queen to the children of the Empire on May 24 last year the Crippled Children's Fund of British Columbia has profited to the extent of $432.59, a handsome and welcome windfall.

HELPED MANY CASES

The Crippled Children's Fund has been in existence and actively functioning for ten months. It has been supported by voluntary contributions of small amounts from the Women's Institutes of British Columbia. Following the inauguration of this work active measures were taken to afford relief to some of the cases of which, unfortunately, there are so many in British Columbia. The success of the work has been very gratifying indeed and up to the present time some sixteen cases have been treated, cures effected, and others are still under treatment and are making splendid progress towards recovery.

PROFITS FROM RECORDS

In February, 1924, the Hon. Dr. J. D. MacLean, Provincial Secretary, received a communication from His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor advising that the sum of $200 was available for distribution to children's hospitals in Canada. This money represented the profits placed at the disposal of Their Majesties the King and Queen by the gramophone company who had charge of the work in connection with Their Majesties' address to the children of the elementary schools of the Empire on May 24 last.

Their Majesties decided that these profits should be distributed to children's hospitals and children's wards of general hospitals, and that a large sum should be given to a few institutions rather than a small amount to a greater number. It was decided that the best way to carry this out was for the Government of each province to recommend one such children's hospital or ward to share in the benefits of this fund.

W.I. UNDERTAKING

In reply to this request Hon. J. D. MacLean suggested for consideration that such an amount should be allocated to British Columbia should be given for distribution under the Provincial Secretary's Department to the Fund for Crippled Children. Dr. MacLean recognized the self-denying efforts that were being made by the women's institutes in undertaking to carry out so successfully such a beneficent work and felt he was justified in making the recommendation he did as a recognition of these splendid efforts.

MUCH HELP GIVEN

In addition to the above amount of $432.59 there has been received by way of contribution from the institutes for this year the sum of $562.75 in monthly payment, January 1924, February 222.75, March 1924, $137.25. Some of the institutes are making monthly payments and it is very encouraging to note that the interest in the movement is extending to the parent-teacher associations who have expressed approval of the work and are showing their approval in the very practical way of contributing.

HOSPITAL IS GOAL

While the expenditures so far have been made towards the treatment of cases yet the primary object of building an orthopaedic hospital is not lost sight of. The sum of one thousand dollars has been set aside as a nucleus for the building fund. Negotiations are under way for a site. An offer of five acres at a rental of $1 per year, payment to be made at the end of twenty years at the price which may be agreed on now.

The work undertaken by the institutes contains in itself an unspoken appeal to the underlying sympathy towards a cripple and is trying to voice in a practical manner the effort to relieve the deformity and pain that condemns the patient to a life of misery.

The women's institutes are doing splendid work for the "home and country," but there has not yet been any work that has brought out so markedly the maternal instinct, that prompts the institutes to assume as their duty the development of all that means the improvement of the home and country in the expectation of making Canadians and Canada a great nation.

LLOYD GEORGE'S PROTEGEE WED

New York Wedding Culminates Romance of Welsh Singer

New York, April 19. (By Canadian Press).—A romance which began in the "Old Land," culminated in the wedding here Saturday of Miss Lillian Megane to T. Osborne Roberts, Mrs. Roberts, who as a protegee of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd George, sits under Jean de Resaie in Paris, first met Mr. Roberts when he awarded her the prize for singing at the time-honored Welsh musical festival called the Ristodoffed. Mr. Roberts, a Welsh composer of note, afterwards became the concert accompanist and musical manager of the young contralto.

Under his guidance Miss Megane followed a good star in London and Paris and became the friend of many musical societies, including among her acquaintances the Prince of Wales and Lord and Lady Astor. It was on the advice of Otto H. Kahn, who heard her sing in London, that her manager and husband-to-be, decided to bring her to the United States. A brilliant season culminated in her marriage in the Welsh Presbyterian Church here. The bride was attended by Mrs. Peter Hughes Griffiths of London, who is in the United States as a representative of the Welsh Women's Peace Society.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberts will spend their honeymoon in England, but they will return next year and Mr. Roberts says they plan to tour Canada, visiting Quebec, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Turks to Brand Persons Medically Fit For Marriage

Constantinople, March 19.—Under the new marriage law enacted by the province of Constantinople, both men and women who wish to marry must submit to medical examination. They must then appear before a court of magistrates and prove their identity. A seal is then placed on the arm of every applicant for matrimony by the magistrate.

Only such persons are branded with this seal, which guarantees their identity, and provided with a medical certificate from a recognized physician, will be given consideration when they apply for a marriage license.

Manitoba I.O.D.E. Would Put Ban on American Fruits

Mrs. Colin Campbell Anxious to Help Canadian Growers; Oppose Adoption Canadian Flag

Winnipeg, Man., April 19.—(By Canadian Press).—Appealing to the Daughters of the Empire in annual convocation assembled to ban American fruits from breakfast tables, Mrs. Colin Campbell, provincial president, declared that thousands of growers in British Columbia were starving, while Canadians bought fruit south of the line. "Banish grapefruit and oranges; eat Canadian apples," was Mrs. Campbell's slogan.

A resolution condemning the adoption of a Canadian flag passed unanimously. "One Flag, One Throne, One Empire," was the motto of the Order. Another resolution pressed for a simpler form of organization at National Headquarters.

Bolehevich teachings were being thrust upon an unenlightened population of new Canadians, said Mrs. A. Wilson Smith, in the report of the Education Committee. It was a great pity, she said, that because of financial stringency schools were being closed and these people were not taught to appreciate protection of life, property, health and religion. She urged the Daughters to make "Canadianizing of the new Canadian" the most important feature of the educational work. Dealing with the war memorial, thirty-five bursaries and eighteen overseas scholarships were awarded. Already several applications were in hand for next year. The foundation fund for these scholarships was not complete, $20,000 still being required to enable the Daughters to send one university graduate overseas from each province every year. Report of the treasurer, Mrs. T. S. English, showed that $23,355 had been raised by chapters in Manitoba for patriotic and other work. One thousand dollars was raised by Manitoba for the National War Memorial. The total raised this year was smaller than last year, owing to the fact that the city had dropped its $5,000 grant.

Mrs. Bracken, welcoming the delegates, commended overseas scholarships, declaring they made for closed relations between Canada and the Motherland. The war pictures made the sacrifices of Canada's sons live in the minds of the younger generations. Reports of individual chapters in the province showed that small towns are over-organized and in several instances chapters turned in their charters. The question of immigration was dealt with by Mrs. A. Wilson Smith, and she urged the forming of committees within the chapters of the I. O. D. E. for the purpose of meeting new arrivals in the country, and lending them a helping hand.

The resolutions carried include: "That prizes of $15, $10 and $5 be given annually to children in standards 9 and 10 for the best essays on subjects pertaining to the British Empire." This applies to schools in the province. "That the tax per capita paid to the national chapter at Toronto be reduced from 20c to 25c."

Mutual Policyholders Received $5,369,743 in 1923

THE MUTUAL LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA

Five million three hundred and sixty nine thousand seven hundred and forty three dollars

W. H. Somerville & Co. Book

IN the year 1901 the claims and dividends paid by The Mutual Life came to a little less than half a million dollars. Last year The Mutual Life of Canada paid to policyholders and their beneficiaries $5,369,743—more than ten times the amount paid in 1901!

Who can say what sorrows were sweetened, what anxieties were eased, by the distribution of these great sums? Who is there that doubts the benefit of Mutual profit participation when $2,193,081 out of the above amount was paid in cash to participating policyholders in profits for one year.

Let our agent explain Mutual Profit Participation. Write us for literature.

DEPARTURE FROM FAR EAST DAYLIGHT MONDAY WITH LARGE PASSENGER LIST

TOYOOKA MARU
DUE TO-NIGHT
FROM FAR EAST

Two Days Ahead of Schedule; Bringing Member of Consular Staff

Reaching William Head at 6 o'clock to-night the N. Y. K. liner Toyooka Maru, will later tie up at the Outer Wharf to discharge 250 tons of cargo.

The vessel left Yokohama on schedule time and is docking two days earlier than expected. She was not due to arrive here until Monday. Aboard the liner is the new member for the Vancouver Japanese Consular staff Norihito Oki, who is a chancellor of the Japanese Home government. He will depart at Victoria, being the only passenger bound for this port. Eight first class passengers will proceed to Seattle. An unusually large cargo is being brought by the liner including a large silk shipment not only for Seattle but also for Victoria. Of the 250 bags of mail for Seattle twenty-one will be put off at Seattle.

Outbound for the Orient the Toyooka Maru will dock here to-night to pick up twenty passengers, and over seventy bags of mail in addition to a consignment of cargo. The holds of the vessel are filled almost to capacity.

VESSEL MOVEMENTS

EMMA ALEXANDER TAKING OUT 200 TO CALIFORNIA

Leaving from this port at 9 o'clock to-morrow the Pacific Steamship Company's liner Emma Alexander will take out a passenger list of 200, exactly the same number that she brought with her on the trip north from California.

Of the 200 leaving for California ports eighty will embark here. Among the Victoria passengers embarking are Miss Ethel Irvine, W. T. McCrum, Mr. and Mrs. A. Moffat, A. Warrington, Miss Ruby Macfarlane, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Strickler, Mrs. Edith Le Neveu, Alfred Seaton, Mrs. Cecelia M. Roy, Miss Ellice Andros, Mrs. Olive Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Watson and two children, and Mrs. Watson and two children.

When the Emma Alexander arrived from the South last Thursday night she brought 200 passengers, seventy of whom departed here. They were returning residents and California tourists. Sixty of the departing party here proceeded to Vancouver. An express cargo of citrus and perishables was also brought in by the liner. Nearly 5,000 boxes of oranges were discharged here.

LEVIATHAN BEATS OLYMPIC TO PORT

Cherbourg, France, April 19.—The giant American liner Leviathan, making her first voyage since her recent conditioning arrived last evening.

The ship, which was expected to arrive at Victoria on Monday, was held up by a race with the British liner Olympic. Captain Hartley refused to risk damaging the Leviathan's machinery by forcing his pace after the Olympic had been held out of commission; nevertheless the Leviathan came in first. The Olympic forged ahead during the first part of the trip, but gradually the American ship caught up.

The Leviathan passed the Olympic yesterday, arriving several hours in advance.

RUSSIA DUE HERE DAYLIGHT MONDAY

Liner Has 150 Tons of Cargo And 1,200 Bags of Mail For Victoria

Latest advices on the Canadian Pacific Express of Russia, Captain A. J. Hosken, R.N.R. states that she will make William Head quarantine station at daylight Monday.

She will discharge 150 tons of general cargo here and a shipment of mail, totaling approximately 1,200 bags. The majority of this mail is for trans-shipment to Seattle.

The vessel is bringing one of the largest salmon passenger lists that has been brought from the Far East for several months. There are 130 first-class passengers, 103 second class and forty-four third class in addition to the 500 Chinese steerage. Of the 500 steerage sixty-eight will embark here. The total number of passengers aboard the Russia is 777.

Many inquiries have been received at the local office regarding the Bellingham Tulip Carnival excursion on May 2. Tickets have already been sold and those who were disappointed last year are advised to buy their tickets early as the number is limited to 1,000. The steamer Princess Louise is being used on this excursion.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia to Overcome Trouble Caused by Fermenting Food and Acids Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach, accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating, are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of follies to neglect such a serious condition or to cover with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any drug store a few ounces of Bisulphate of Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and heat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisulphate of Magnesia in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk—is harmless to the stomach, irrespective of how acid the stomach contents may be. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals without more fear of indigestion.

QUEBEC TO HAVE "SAFETY WEEK" First of June

Quebec, April 19.—"Safety Week" is to be arranged by the Province of Quebec Safety League to be held during the first week of June, it is announced. Among the latest plans suggested is the safety pledge certificate, which seems to have given satisfactory results in New York City.

SPRING STORM LASHED CITY

Department Store Flooded When Drainage Overflow Became Clogged

Flicking shingles off roof tops and mockingly brooking hanging signs and dead boughs, the southwest gale yesterday flouted a mischievous spirit.

NARROW ESCAPE
One city resident had a narrow escape from death when an oak tree parted with a limb that crashed to the ground a few inches away from where he was standing. Wires sagged with the weight of the wind and parted in several instances. A flagstaff that had done ceremonial duty for a great many years gave up its struggle to stay erect.

WATER FLOODS STORE
The heavy rainstorm on Thursday night found a fault in the drainage of the overflow on the roof of the Commercial Building and poured down on the south side. Considerable damage was done to stock in the affected portion, while on the lower floors the water rose to a height of several inches.

NEW INTERCOASTAL SERVICE STARTED BY C.G.M.M. SHIP

Canadian Importer Passes Out to Sea on First Voyage in Service

The Canadian Merchant Marine freighter Canadian Importer passed out to sea at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon inaugurating the first sailing in the new Canadian Intercoastal service. It was the importer that inaugurated the Australian service, and also the United Kingdom service. Now she has set out on her first voyage in the new intercoastal service.

The vessel is loaded to capacity with lumber.

Two new vessels will be seen on this coast in the service. They are the Canadian Importer and Canadian Spinner. Both are large freighters of the same type as the Canadian Importer, being of 3,100 gross tons each.

The Canadian Importer, which will inaugurate the service from the east coast, is scheduled to leave Montreal on May 6. She will be followed by the Canadian Spinner from that port on June 6. Following the Canadian Importer from this coast will be the Canadian Scottish on May 12.

Yankees Beaten in First Series by Boston Sox

Champions Shift to Washington; Sisler Hits Hard Again; Mays Wins

New York, April 19.—Scenes shift in baseball's big show-to-day. Some teams remain undisturbed as road outfits exchange locations. In the American League, the Yankees somewhat bedraggled, but still "champions of the world," leave Boston after losing the series for Washington. Connie Mack's young Athletics test the Red Sox, Cleveland enters Chicago, and St. Louis invades Detroit.

Chicago and Cincinnati fight it out at Redland Field in the National League and Pittsburgh meets St. Louis, Brooklyn leaves New York for Philadelphia, and Dave Bancroft brings his team to the Polo Grounds for a series with his former teammates.

All the games in the East yesterday were cancelled by rain and cold weather. In the West both Chicago teams made it three out of four in the inter-city series with St. Louis. The White Sox won 3-2 by scoring runs in the ninth when Krenner, an American League but Boston, with one victory and no defeats, tops the clubs in the National.

SISLER STILL HITTING Home runs by Grimes and Miller were instrumental in the six-three Club victory over the Cardinals, who used nineteen players. Rogers Hornsby's first homer failed to help. The White Sox with Eddie Collins continuing a home run two, and a home run by Ray Kopp and a home run by Mays, pitched for Cincinnati.

Chicago's National League debut allowed the Pirates six hits in eight innings. He was relieved by a pinch hitter. The Reds won 3-2 by scoring runs in the ninth when Krenner, an American League but Boston, with one victory and no defeats, tops the clubs in the National.

Dempsey Is Ready to Box Any Time—Chance Is Given

Bars no One But Finds That Promoters Not Anxious to Put on Bout

Plenty of Talking But no Action; Jack Says He'll Never Make a "Sheik"

By ROBERT EGREN "Yes, I've heard a report that I'm not going to fight for a year," said Jack Dempsey when he came in from Universal City, where he is getting ready to train and take pictures through at least a good part of the Summer.

"That's news to me—Doc hasn't told me about it. How about it, Doc?"

"It's news to me," he said. "I expect to have something done by Labor Day, at the latest. No fighter without going back. Fighting now and then is worth all the training in the world. Jack hasn't any idea of retiring for a long time, and he's going to take the best that come along, as often as the promoters show us something to fight for."

"It's no fault of Dempsey's and it's no fault of mine," said Jimmie Fiske. "Everybody talks about challenges and matches and when you try to pin something down where you can get action, there's nothing but more talk. The promoters don't get anywhere. I'm a business man and I like to cut out the talk and get action. Now we've fixed up this moving picture contract to keep Jack busy for while. Dempsey is one of the best business men in the world, and it's foolish while everybody talks."

"How about Fiske?" Kearns was asked. "He'll change his mind again," said Kearns. "I expect to get him before the season is over. I don't blame Fiske for remembering that he was socked on the button, but he'll be back. Is he dangerous? Well, there were moments when I thought he was dangerous, last September. But Dempsey knows all about him now. I don't think the next fight will go far. If we made any mistake last time they won't be repeated. Did you ever notice what happens the second time Jack meets a man? There was Carl Morris at New Orleans. Jack knew every move Morris would make. He got Morris with the first sock and he never had a face with his tongue out so far that he had to get the resin off it with a brush."

"REAR ANY TIME" "Willis?" "That's been too much talk," said Kearns. "Jack is ready to hit him any time the public wants the match and a reliable promoter makes a fair offer for it. Nobody knows the complications connected with matching Jack up with Willis. When the New York Boxing Commission put it up to us to sign for a contract of years ago they never thought we'd do it. We surprised them by signing the moment they showed us the articles. We wanted to combine the moment it was known Jack was willing, politics stepped in and the match-making was blocked. It's been blocked ever since. Always something the promoters couldn't get over. Willis hasn't done anything in the past two or three years. He makes the public anxious about his fight Dempsey. For my part, I'd rather have Willis than two or three others I could name as far as boxing chances is concerned. I knew Willis when he was fighting Sam Langford and Sam McVie—and other names. He was a California ten years ago. He was at his best then—and he wouldn't have worried me. I had Dempsey against him. Willis could punch as strong as Jack. If he fought Jack I wouldn't care whether he was allowed to hold and hit or not. It would be bigger than Jack. He'd fight without holding; and if he tried to hold Dempsey he'd be torn to pieces. Jack liked nothing better than to have a man stick always in front of him. Willis could punch him where he can do a little inside stuff. Willis gets away with it with the best of hands. Jack is strange in the arms and shoulders than Willis, and Willis would think he was trying to hold a wildcat."

"NO ONE GOOD ENOUGH" "Renault?" He was a good sparring partner for Jack at Atlantic City and he's coming along fine. He shows good sense not trying to get a match with Dempsey yet. He can have his chance any time he's ready. Dempsey doesn't bar anybody from the public views. His business is boxing, and when he isn't good enough to hold the championship title sooner or later he'll be beaten. We know it, we know it the better. Dempsey never will stall along and hold the title by dodging matches. He's in the same position to-day that Jim Jeffries was after he beat Munroe, and there wasn't anyone in sight to give him a real battle. Jeffries dropped out and made the mistake of waiting too long before coming back into the game. Dempsey may not get fights as often as he used to, but he's going to keep in shape and be ready for anything that turns up."

"SURE," said Dempsey. "Nobody's ever going to call me a sheik because I take on a picture or a theatrical turn. That's just business that comes in handy when there's nothing doing in my real line. Boxing is the thing I'm interested in. I only wish they'd find a new furore about every six weeks or so rather than once a week than once a year if I could. It's the most exciting sport I know of. There's nothing like the thrill of a fellow staying there in the corner waiting for the bell, trying to remember everything he's figured out about the other fellow and wondering if the other fellow will pull anything he hasn't thought of, and if he can sock the other fellow before the other fellow has a chance to get in a fight. Some young fellows will come along some day and sock me the way I've socked a lot of other boys. That's all in the game. I might have done it if he'd known as much about punching as I do. His punches didn't have the real snap in them, or I wouldn't have taken so many. The first one he caught me must have been a darp. The only thing I'm sore about is that I must have missed half the fun of the first round because I was knocked so cockoo when I jumped into that first punch that I didn't know what was happening until I reached the corner and got a whiff of the smelling salts. I sure missed a lot of excitement from what they tell me. Next time I'll try to duck that first one so I won't miss anything."

"KEEPING IN SHAPE" "I am keeping close to my Toledo condition," said Dempsey. "If I ever goes to the States, I'll be in good shape. It'll be because some fellow outwrestled and outpunched me. I've seen lots of champions flop because they were careless about condition. I'm going to have a gymnasium on the lot when I'm working in these pictures and I'll train every day. I'm bringing on my sparring staff. I'll be ready to jump right in and finish up my training."

"No, I'm not tied up with an agreement not to fight this year. If I have to go through the year without a bout it won't be my fault."

Queen's Prize is Feature Race in England Monday

London, April 19.—Easter Monday, always a popular day for racegoers throughout the United Kingdom, will be no exception to the rule this year, there being no fewer than fifteen courses on which racing will be held on Monday. Racing under the auspices of the National Hunt and Jockey Clubs, will be carried on, so that devotees of the chase as well as those who prefer racing over the flat will be well provided for.

The outstanding race of the day is the Queen's Prize, run over the mile and a half course at Kempton Park. The probable starters include Parth, Conover, Bhuidhach, Thoughtless, Evander, Bowood, Scullion, Ceyless, Harpenden and Hurry Off.

The Queen's Prize is a highly popular event and is one of the few big races that the purely holiday crowd has an opportunity to witness. It has a value of 1,000 sovereigns and many good horses have made their appearance in this event.

Seattle Golfer Is Medalist in the B.C. Golf Tourney

Scott Moncrieff, of Victoria, Finished Three Strokes Behind Bon Stein

Vancouver, April 19.—"Bon" Stein of Seattle was the medalist in the thirty-six-hole qualifying round yesterday of the British Columbia amateur golf championships at the Shaughnessy Heights Club links.

He was paired with Jack Fraser, Shaughnessy champion, and both scored 125, but Bon Stein won out on the ensuing three-hole play-off.

Sons Will Meet Vets in the Final for Brown Cup

Englishmen Disposed of the Wards Yesterday While Vets Defeated Wests

Wind Spoiled Good Games, Making Control of Ball and Shooting Hard

Lone goals scored by Phillips of the Sons of England, and Preston of the Veterans, turned in victories for their clubs yesterday and brought them into the finals for the Brown Cup. The Sons succeeded in eliminating the North Wards, while the Veterans took the measure of the Victoria Wests.

Being the only soccer attractions for the holiday good crowds attended for their club yesterday and brought them into the finals for the Brown Cup. The Sons succeeded in eliminating the North Wards, while the Veterans took the measure of the Victoria Wests.

The Sons of England came back with another win over the Wards. Their last victory was in the Jackson Cup series when they defeated the north-enders in the finals. The teams went along without a score yesterday. Martin well into the second half, when Phillips got a smart shot away and it skimmed into the net for the only tally of the game.

Both clubs played good soccer and tried very hard to put more counters on the score sheet, but the wind broke up many good plays and caused some poor shooting.

Victoria Golf Club

At the Victoria Golf Club yesterday a thirty-six hole handicap competition with full handicap club members played. There were twenty-five entrants. A. E. Haynes was the winner. The scores were as follows:

Barbara Bedford Stars at Capitol in "Women Who Give"

Barbara Bedford, who plays the aristocratic Emily Swift, who steps down from her pedestal and falls in love with a fisherman in "Women Who Give," the Reginald Barker production for Metro, produced by Louis B. Mayer, now playing at the Capitol Theatre, is one of the few players whose rise to screen fame came almost overnight.

Born in Lake Du Chien, Wis., Barbara moved on to Lake View to be educated. When she had successfully completed her scholastic activities, she turned to motion pictures; so in 1920, when Lambert Hillyer was casting William S. Hart's "The Cradle of Courage," a beautiful brown eyed girl walked hesitantly into his office and said frankly that she had never been on the stage or the screen before, but that she wanted a chance to become an actress.

The girl was Barbara Bedford, now known to thousands of film followers. Her frank declaration, so different from that of the average motion picture applicant, impressed Mr. Hillyer and he gave her a leading role in the picture.

Dominion—"A Society Scandal." Playhouse—"The Barber and the Baronet."
Pantages—Francis Compton, Royal—"Wee MacGregor's Sweetheart."
Capitol—"Women Who Give." Columbia—"The Thrill Chaser."

Miss Bedford has appeared in "The Last of the Mohicans," "Deen Waters," both of which were directed by Maurice Tourneur; "Big Punch," "The Unfoldment," "The Face of the World" and more recently in "The Spoilers."

In Emily Swift in "Women Who Give," Miss Bedford has a role which fits her like the proverbial glove. Bernard McConville and J. G. Hawks adapted the picture from Sarah F. McLean Green's story, "Cape Cod Polka," and A. P. Younger wrote the scenario. Percy Hilburn was the cameraman.

Compton Comedy Company Gives Excellent Play

Favorites of Oscar Wilde Again Delights Victoria Audience

The brilliant dialogue of Oscar Wilde, which placed him among the most famous dramatic writers of the last generation, finds its fullest scope in "The Importance of Being Earnest." That three-act comedy, which has charmed thousands, found its way to the Compton Comedy Company at Pantages Theatre last evening. Most appreciative interpretation, as well as a careful understanding of the dramatist's delicate irony.

Mr. Compton, as John Worthing, recognized the opportunity which a role of that nature affords for inflections of voice and histrionic subtlety, and his whole performance was marked with polished finish. As Brandon gave a sympathetic interpretation to the part of Algernon Moncrieff, particularly in the romantic passages with Miss Peggy Dunda's as Cecily Cardow. Miss Dunda's role in this play does not quite quite the scope for her fullest talent, but she lost no opportunities in making the best of the part of the young girl.

The third male part, that of Canon Chasuble, was delightfully done by Frank Urson, the stage clergyman being a part which calls for finesse and true art.

Most notable among the feminine parts was that of Lady Bracknell, of whom Miss Marion Goddard made the fullest use, her share of the dialogue being given with due emphasis, and her depiction of the aristocratic presence as general dictator of the family caught the fancy of the audience. Miss Dorothy Stuart Robertson appeared as the Hon. Gwendolen Fairfax, a role which calls for considerable tact, and

"Tillie" Presented at Playhouse for Last Time

Another well known novel makes its appearance on the local screen when "Tillie" is presented at the Playhouse Theatre as the latest Mary Miles Minter Rehearsal starring vehicle. "Tillie" is an Alice Eytan adaptation of the Helen R. March novel "Tillie," a Menomonee Maid and play by Frank Howe, Jr. Mary Miles Minter appears as "Tillie," the forlorn little girl whose youth has been bogged down by almost unbelievable narrow mindedness and cruelty; who is given a glimpse of the real world of books and people just as she is emerging into womanhood; given this glimpse in a manner that provides tremendous dramatic emphasis to a really absorbing story.

Miss Minter is supported in the production by an excellent cast including Noah Berry, Alan Forrest, Marie Treboal, Ashley Cooper, Robert Anderson and Virginia Adair. To Frank Urson goes credit for the excellent direction. Elmer Harris supervised.

Gibson's Latest Pictures Woes of Screen "Extras"

Some of the amusing incidents of daily life in the motion picture studios of Universal City, California, are shown in "The Thrill Chaser," Universal-Gibson special production which is showing at the Columbia to-day.

A raw amateur of an extra man right off the ranch, caught his Roman spear in a very important scene and pulled the set down with a crash that rivaled "The Last Days of Pompeii," which is what the company was filming. This same extra man, not used to camera technique, wandered on to every one's set in front of cameras and ruined fine emotional scenes—these are some of the humorous experiences which are told in the story.

Besides the regular cast, including Billie Dove, Gino Gerardo, James Neill, William E. Lawrence, and others, such celebrities as Mary Philbin, Norman Kerry, Laura La Plante and Reginald Denny appear.

Col. Noel Campbell Praises Plans for Forthcoming Visit

Colonel Noel Campbell, general stage director for Sir John Martin Harvey, was in the city for a short time making a final survey of the Royal Theatre stage and inspecting the work of the advance stage crew.

The colonel has been in the city for the past few days adapting the Royal Theatre stage to the massive productions which Sir John will bring for his engagement here next week. Colonel Campbell stated that he considered the Royal one of the best equipped theatres on the North American continent and that there would be no difficulty whatever in putting on the production of "Oedipus Rex" and "Hamlet" here without the slightest deviation from the original. The Colonel reports that Sir John's Canadian tour has been one continual ovation from coast to coast and that he would be most pleased to convey the news to Sir John of the great interest which his visit here has aroused.

'Great White Way' Capitol Feature on Monday Next

Shirley Vernon, who has succeeded Marilyn Miller in the leading feminine part in "Sally," makes her motion picture debut in "The Great White Way," Cosmopolitan Production's new surprise feature which will have its premiere Monday in the Capitol Theatre.

The cast is headed by Anita Stewart, I. Roy Barnes, Oscar Shaw and Tom Lewis, and includes such well known Broadway figures as Tex Rickard, Ned Wayburn, Irvin Cobb, Earle Sander and "Bugs" Baer.

Miss Vernon appears in the musical comedy scene of the picture in which the services of the entire "Zeigfeld Polka" chorus are utilized. This scene was especially featured in the picture in the Frolic Theatre, with Anita Stewart playing the leading role and Ned Wayburn acting the part of the stage director.

Miss Swanson's new dressing room, the most elaborate of its kind so far to be built for a popular star, mounted on wheels so that it can be moved to any corner of the studio where she may be working, it is as complete as a luxury cabin on an ocean liner.

"A Society Scandal," an Allan Dwan production with Rod La Rocque and Ricardo Cortez playing in support of the film, will be shown at the Dominion Theatre this week. It's a screen version of the stage success, "The Laughing Lady," by Alfred Sudo.

Canada will have Militia Air Force. Small Permanent Establishment to Instruct Large Volunteer Force.

CARL STOCKER TO BE "KING JOY"

Will Have Charge of Carnival Feature at Celebration

Nightly street carnivals, presided over by King Joy, an individual in whom the keen eyed may be able to detect a strong resemblance to Carl Stocker, whose performance with the Kiwanis minstrels stamped him as the man par excellence for the post of monarch of merriment, will be among the chief features of the Victoria Day celebrations this year.

On Friday, May 23, the first of the two nights of fun and frolic, special vaudeville turns of a humorous nature will be presented on an open air stage in the centre of Yates Street. Here stunts vying with those of Richards and Malini will mystify the throngs, while lively bands fill in the intervals, and clowns and minstrels romp about from stage to street and instill the carnival spirit in the spectators. This evening will be known as "A Night in Venice" and special illuminating effects will be used to bring out the desired effect. The E.C. Electric Company has agreed to put up a series of powerful novelties in the form of illumination, while City Electrician Mr. Hutchison is also giving his services as a sure, spectacular and gorgeous scenery about Yates Street for the occasion.

Gloria Swanson Stars in Offering at Dominion

To celebrate the completion of her new movable dressing room, the last word in studio comfort, Gloria Swanson, during the filming of her new Paramount picture, "A Society Scandal," entertained about one hundred of her friends at a "house warming" in the Paramount studios in Long Island City.

One corner of the great studio floor was converted into a reproduction of a garden with paths leading into the new "house," and here among real trees and flowers the star regaled her guests with a repast in the garden was used as a dancing floor and the other was given over to refreshment tables.

Miss Swanson's new dressing room, the most elaborate of its kind so far to be built for a popular star, mounted on wheels so that it can be moved to any corner of the studio where she may be working, it is as complete as a luxury cabin on an ocean liner.

"A Society Scandal," an Allan Dwan production with Rod La Rocque and Ricardo Cortez playing in support of the film, will be shown at the Dominion Theatre this week. It's a screen version of the stage success, "The Laughing Lady," by Alfred Sudo.

Canada will have Militia Air Force. Small Permanent Establishment to Instruct Large Volunteer Force.

Coming into existence quietly and without any fanfare, the Royal Canadian Air Force is now established as the third arm of Canada's National Militia, issued in the Canada Gazette of March 15, the "K. R. and O." as applicable to the R.C.A.F., gives a comprehensive insight into Canada's latest weapon of defence.

X-RAY INDICATED CANCER, RELIEVED BY "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Splendid Fruit Medicine Performs Another Miracle

The incalculable value of "Fruit-a-tives" can best be appreciated when it completely relieves some dangerous, deadly malady that is sapping the health and strength of the sufferer. After reading this letter, it is easy to understand why Mrs. Glover was glad to write about "Fruit-a-tives" in the hope that her experience would guide others to try this wonderful fruit medicine.

"For years I was a sufferer with chronic Dyspepsia, Indigestion and Constipation; the stomach pains were dreadful and finally my health broke down completely. After five X-rays had been taken, I was advised that my condition strongly resembled Cancer of the Stomach and an immediate operation was necessary. Dreading an operation, I consulted other physicians but grew steadily worse. I had almost given up hope when I decided to try 'Fruit-a-tives' recommended by many friends.

Immediately my condition began to improve. Pains disappeared, soon Dyspepsia and constipation were things of the past. After a few months I was perfectly well again and have been in the best of health for over a year now. MRS. ANNIE GLOVER, 16 Henry Street, Ottawa."

Victoria Canines Have Built Up Great Reputation Hundreds of Ribbons and Trophies Brought Here By Beautiful Dogs

Dog breeders in Victoria have built up for the Capital a reputation which is the envy of all other cities on the Coast. Canines are sent from here to the kennel shows in adjacent towns and they always come home with all the prizes that are at stake in their classes. Victoria has always been the home of well-shaped and well-appearing sporting dogs but when the public fancy swung around to terriers and house dogs the local breeders proved that they could build up a stock in these lines and as a result Victoria's colors are always found flying high in these classes. From time to time the Victoria Kennel Club holds parlor shows and tops off its annual programme with a Spring show which brings together all the good dogs in the surrounding country. The club has arranged its show this year for May 16 and 17, and the breeders are now busy getting their pets groomed to put on the benches.

Dog Has Always Been Faithful Friend of Man

Canines Endowed With Great Instinct and Almost Human in Displaying Affection

Dogs have been friends to man since time immemorial. Probably they are his closest animal friends. Their understanding and instinct border on the marvelous, and in many instances their actions have been almost human. There are many tales of wonder and pathos told of dogs and their affection for their masters, sometimes in the face of terrific hardship and danger.

It is no mere instinct which influences the dogs of the north country to strain over endless miles of snow and ice, drawing man's burdens behind them, but they are taught through careful training to obey and work at his command, even until they fall exhausted. Such is the faith of these animals. The marvelous work of the dogs trained for police work and the obvious intelligence that exists in the canine world of ailments is another proof of the dog's keen faculties and brain power.

There are a dozen different things in which man finds dogs not only convenient but a necessity. Always they are reliable. Furthermore, they are easily trained. Sheep dogs, the collie or the Alsatian, or dogs especially bred for this work, seem endowed at birth with an understanding of man's instinct. In the case of the collie, for instance, the instinctive manner in which he will herd sheep is amazing.

A dog, "Prince," although he had never before come in contact with sheep, a pure-bred collie of the best stock, once was observed racing about a flock of the woolly animals which was grazing on Macaulay Point, in Esquimalt, near the water. It was apparent that the dog belonged to the animals to be venturing too close to the sea, and every time one of the flock would venture near the cliff edge the collie would immediately set off in pursuit of him, barking madly. Not once did he stampede the flock, nor would he allow the sheep to get far apart. When the herdsmen tried to drive him away the collie was obstinate, and insisted upon standing guard.

FAITHFUL ANIMAL Another even more remarkable instance of the strange intelligence of a dog was noted during the war. "Barney," a thoroughbred Gordon setter, was at a loss to explain the absence of his soldier master. He was one of these out-of-door dogs, and was a constant companion of his owner in rambles about the country, fishing, shooting and walking. Through the first few days of his master's disappearance he was only slightly concerned, but instead of him growing used to the new situation, he became even more anxious. As time went on he grew more and more dejected. On every opportunity he would rush into the house, run up the stairs, and proceed directly to his master's old room, where he would hunt about frantically for his departed inmate, crying piteously all the while.

During the last three years of the war the dog seemed to have some-what recovered from his grief. To him the situation was hopeless. And then was the home-coming of his master. In his excitement the dog did not recognize the soldier, for he paid little attention to the stranger. But no sooner had the dog's master changed into his old clothes, than with a bound of joy and bursts of wildest excitement, "Barney" leaped upon him. He had recognized his old comrade in the instant. To this, an authentic local story, there is a very pathetic sequel. Six months after the return of the soldier-master, and before the two could enjoy another hunting season together, "Barney" picked up poison. For three months the master and two veterinarians worked desperately over the canine life, but without avail. And even as he died, while his master patted his head, poor "Barney" wagged his tail, and his moist brown eyes spoke an undying love.

DOG WAR-HEROES Through the war the red-cross dogs were conspicuous for their intelligence and valor. Unfettered they realized that they were going into danger. Often through a mass-storm of bursting shells, invasions of wire, mud and water, these valiant dogs would rush, taking succor to the injured, and doing a great amount of good in various ways. There are many stories of the work of the army dogs, and the same breed has done valuable work for police departments the world over. And their splendid achievements are not in any way exaggerated. It is not only the pure-bred dogs which possess those qualities which make them trusted friends of man, and even blood-winner, but has been stated on good authority that mongrels are easier to teach and quicker to learn tricks than are their pure-bred brothers.

The Bulldog, "Kilburn Tank," C.K.C. 20184 (imported), by Cambrai Tank out of Vimy Girl and owned by R. Cupitt, Olympic Bulldog Kennel, Victoria. He is a dark brindle with white chest, exceptionally well coupled and low to ground; he is all bulldog, from the tip of his nose to the end of his tiny tail. He was imported from England, where he was a big winner, annexing over fourteen firsts and specials as a puppy. Since arriving in America his wins include: Ottawa Exhibition—One first and reserve winner, Judge Hoagate; C.N. Exhibition, Toronto—Two firsts, reserve winner, Judge Hop-ton; New York Madison Square Gardens—Two seconds, Judge Buchanan.

The Scottish Terrier, "Champion Omond-Rab," C.K.C. 5644, by Al-bourne Modelson out of Omond Peggy. Owned by Mr. Walter Eas-mussen. This great champion was imported from the famous Dobson Kennels in Galashiels, Scotland. "Rab" is a beautiful brindle dog, weighing 15 1/2 lbs., the ideal size. He is straight in front, with great bone and substance and a head full of real Scottish expression and character, stamping him as an ideal sire. Having been benched at all the big shows he has wins galore. In fact, he has won every time exhibited.

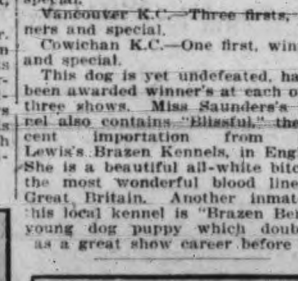

The Wire-haired Fox Terrier, "Champion Merstone Bantam," C.K.C. 37229, by Waterloo War Cry (imp.) out of Oakdene Grace, owned and bred by A. H. Dodds, Merstone Kennels. This very famous little terrier needs no other comments as to his great quality except his ideal weight of 17 1/2 lbs. His winning record tells its story. At New West-minster, 1921, he was awarded special best dog all breeds in show, under Dan Shuttleworth, the international judicial authority. His championship points were gained with winner's ribbons at Vancouver Exhibition show, 1921, New Westminster Exhibition 1921, Vancouver Exhibition 1922, Van-couver Exhibition 1923.

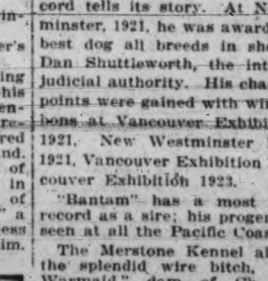

The Boston Terrier, "Intruder Tye," A.K.C. 379568, by Intruder II out of Tye "Chummy," owned and bred by Miss A. D. Watson, 423 Admiral's Road, Victoria. This young dog has only been shown once, and that at a local parlor show, where he captured best Boston puppy, best non-sport-ing puppy. Miss Watson always has a few puppies for prospective pur-chasers, and is pleased to show her stock to any and all visitors.

The Pekinese, "Lyncroft Saw-See," C.K.C. 28644, by Boy See out of Fu Sang of Cardiff, owned by Mrs. M. H. McCoy. "Saw-See" is a beautiful dark red bitch with excel-lent feathering, white chest and paws. She is low to ground and very sturdy. Her wins include eight firsts, several specials and winners at Vancouver K.C. 1922, Terminal City K.C. 1922, and Cowichan K.C. 1922, also reserve winner at Van-couver Exhibition.

The English Setter, "Ch. Pag o' My Heart," C.K.C. 24164, Sire Bachelor Rackett, dam Rowlands Sparkling Beauty. Owned by Mr. Frank Topp Turner. Victoria City, 1920—Reserve win-ner. Sutherland Avenue Nu Tan, imported from Mrs. Frances M. Weaver's kennel in London, England. He has sired some beautiful puppies which have won both in Canada and the States, while many more home-lands of great promise may still be produced from this kennel, which is located at 1455 Begbie Street.

The Cocker Spaniel, "Patricia," C.K.C. 32242, owned by F. Smith, vice-president of the V.C.K.C. Up to the present this very fine little bitch has been awarded one winner, ten firsts, and three seconds in open shows. She has produced some pup-pies of great quality. One of her pup-pies recently at Portland took win-ners, three firsts, a special and a cup, while another captured a cup along with two firsts in Victoria. Puppies can usually be seen at this well-known kennel at 1617 Myrtle Avenue.

The Springer Spaniel, "Chummy," V.C.K.C. 1922—First open and owned by H. Jones, 512 Burdett Avenue, claims the following wins: Mr. Jones's kennel also contains "Springbang of Avandale" and "Se-mour Wenda," a winning bitch. The owner considers this grand breed the ideal of strength and sagacity for sportmen, always ready for a good day on land or water, as well as a great home companion. Puppies can usually be procured at this kennel.

The Boston Terrier, "Hy-Born Carlson's Thrills," Hy-Born Boston Terrier Kennels (registered) are owned by Bert Pritchett, secretary of the local kennel club. Heading this kennel is the dog "Hy-Born Carl-son's Thrills," C.K.C. 34242, A.K.C. 34496. This dog is sired by the well-known Ch. Peter's Tiny Captain, one of the most celebrated Boston-terrier ever bred. Other inmates of this kennel are "Blossom Reno," winner every time shown; "Hy-Born Fascina-tion," "Berkin Browne" and "Hy-Born Full-o-Pep." All dogs are reg-istered and can hold their own at any British Columbia shows.

The West Highland White Terrier, "Kilmartin Badger," K.C. 34959, by Luthian Babro out of Kilmartin Snowflake. Owned and bred by Alec McCloy, Kilmartin Kennels, registered. "Badger" is a real aristocrat of the breed and admitted by experts to be one of the best on the American continent. His sire won best pup in show (all breeds) at Toronto, 1921, where 800 dogs were benched. His dam is an undefeated bitch. Many of this dog's ancestors have been sold at prices ranging from $500 to $1,500, of which eleven were champions. This dog will shortly be placed at stud to approved bitches. Inquiries should be ad-dressed to the owner at 1744 St. Ann Street.

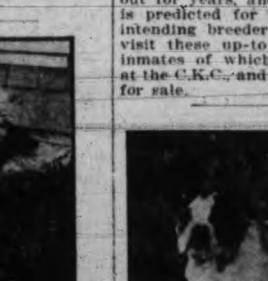

The Bulldog, "Orphan Baby," reg-istered by Burnaby Baker out of Pacific White Jeanie II. Owned and bred by James Haynes, Shrop-shire Kennels, 257 Pattieford Avenue. This is a very promising puppy, with the best blood lines in Canada behind her.

The Irish Terrier, "Bleocort Nipantuk," C.K.C. 33811, by Ch. Raloo Prince out of Ch. Raloo Princess, both imported from Belfast. Owned by P. R. M. Wallis, Bleocort Ken-nels, Victoria. During 1923 this fine dog had a very successful bench show year. His wins were as follows: Victoria C.K.C.—Five firsts, win-ner's and special, under Judge Shuttleworth. Vancouver K.C.—One first, under Judge Robertson. Vancouver Exhibition—First, win-ner's and special, under Judge Brad-shaw. Cowichan K.C.—First, winner's and special, under Judge Fletcher. Nanaimo K.C.—Second open, win-ner's reserve, under Mrs. W. H. H. Bleocort Nipantuk has also done good work at stud; his progeny hav-ing already found favor east and south of British Columbia.

The Spitz, "Snowball," well-known Spitz owned by Mrs. Hilton. This dog secured two firsts and special at Nanaimo and two firsts and special at Duncan in 1923. It also has nu-merous parlor show wins. Mrs. Hil-ton also owned "Queenie II," a female which did more winning than any other Spitz on the Coast. This breed is very popular in Victoria, and it is safe to say that this city has produced more good Spitz than any other city on the Pacific Coast. Mrs. Hilton expects to bench sev-eral of her favorites at the forthcom-ing Spring show.

The Pomeranian, "Victor," owned by Mr. E. J. Rogers, a promising contender for honors at the forth-coming Victoria City K.C. annual show, which will be held on May 16 and 17.

Victoria Dog Fanciers Stage Spring Show May 16-17 Set For Twenty-Third Exhibition of Victoria City Kennel Club

The twenty-third annual Spring show of the Victoria City Kennel Club will be staged on May 16-17 at a place to be chosen. It is probable the exhibition will be held in the old Weiler Building, George Pearson, veteran fancier of Vancouver, will judge the en-tries, assisted by Mrs. T. S. Bol-dere, formerly owner of the famous Ennerdale Kennels, Eng-land, in the bulldog classes. Secretary B. Pritchett, 512 Qu'Appelle Street, is now receiving entries, which close on May 10. The show will be held under the Canadian Kennel Club rules, and a bumper show is anticipated. An attractive list of prizes has been drawn up for the affair, which annually attracts the best in Victoria dogdom to its hall.

FINE RECORD The Victoria City Kennel Club has a long and honorable record. It was formed in 1901, with Charlie Miner as president; T. P. McConnell, vice-president; O. C. Bass, secretary-treasurer, and such men as C. E. Turner, Dr. E. F. Tolmie, Dr. Hamilton and others interested in its well-fare. The first show was held in the Philharmonic Hall on April 4, 1902, in those days gun-dogs were a big entry, and a most attractive showing was made. Fashions in dogs change much as in other things, and to-day, though the hunter is still a large part of every show, it is the toy dogs that attract the greatest attention. The cost of the annual showing is placed in the neighborhood of $1,000, out-side of many prizes donated in sup-port of the annual exhibition.

NOTED JUDGES In years gone by the Victoria dog show has been attended by noted judges in the kennel world, including Messrs. J. Mortimer, J. W. Bradshaw, J. Cole, C. H. Mason, J. Hol-gate, H. M. Robertson, D. Shuttleworth, Chris Shuttleworth, Major Taylor and many others. The present honorary president, Dr. Garesche, and Secretary, H. Dodds, have been members of the club for the past eighteen years. Other officers include F. Smith, vice-president; Dr. Keown, veterinar-ian surgeon. The bench show com-mittee include Messrs. H. Dodds, H. Jones, P. R. M. Wallis, J. Angus, A. G. Carmichael, A. Cowie, and Messdames T. S. Boldero, W. Jooby, Cowie, and A. G. Carmichael.

The Bulldog, "Pacific White Ras-cal," C.K.C. 33216, sired by the late Pacific White Rasca! and out of that beautiful heavy-weight bitch Names Lee Victoria. This dog, owned and bred by A. G. Carmichael, of the Pacific Bulldog Kennels, has been fear-lessly shown throughout British Col-umbia, having won over twelve firsts and specials and going to winners at the Cowichan K.C. show in 1922, also being awarded best non-sporting there. Rasca! is white and brindle, fa- young dog not two years old. This is a most wonderful dog, with a thor-oughly smashed-up face, and he is not finished yet. He has a grand front with his body awing between deep chest, and tucked up in loin. His head proportions stamp him as one of the foremost stud dogs on the Coast. One of the finest young dogs out for years, and a brilliant career is predicted for the youngster, and intending breeders would do well to visit these up-to-date kennels, and the inmates of which are all registered at the C.K.C., and puppies are usually for sale.

The Bulldog, "Orphan Baby," reg-istered by Burnaby Baker out of Pacific White Jeanie II. Owned and bred by James Haynes, Shrop-shire Kennels, 257 Pattieford Avenue. This is a very promising puppy, with the best blood lines in Canada behind her.

The Irish Terrier, "Bleocort Nipantuk," C.K.C. 33811, by Ch. Raloo Prince out of Ch. Raloo Princess, both imported from Belfast. Owned by P. R. M. Wallis, Bleocort Ken-nels, Victoria. Vancouver K.C.—One first, under Judge Robertson. Vancouver Exhibition—First, win-ner's and special, under Judge Brad-shaw. Cowichan K.C.—First, winner's and special, under Judge Fletcher. Nanaimo K.C.—Second open, win-ner's reserve, under Mrs. W. H. H. Bleocort Nipantuk has also done good work at stud; his progeny hav-ing already found favor east and south of British Columbia. He is a most wonderful-bodied dog with heaps of bone, and possessing that rare type so essential to a real Irish dare-devil. Mr. Wallis's ter-rier also contains that splendid Irish terrier bitch, "Raloo Countess," which has won under America judges at Regina, Winnipeg and Victoria. Among others of the Bleocort pro-duce are "Bleocort Breda," "B. Boun-cess" and "B. Bander" to be heard from before long. Registered quality puppies can always be procured from this kennel at 1264 Hillside Avenue. (Concluded on page 23)

Britain's New "Death Ray" May Cripple Aeroplanes

BRITISH REGAIN GERMAN TRADE AND CUT TARIFF

Former Enemies Return to British Market With Rush of Buying

Dye Industries of Two Countries Get Together in Big Amalgamation

London, April 19.—One of the most significant facts in Britain is the changed attitude toward Germany. The war animosities have now practically died out in England and the desire to admit Germany into whatever League is finally organized and to proceed with the work of the world.

One of the first acts of the new Labor Cabinet was to send friendly notes to Germany and Russia, as well as a remonstrance to France. And during the past week, the special tariff against German goods was reduced from twenty-six to five per cent.

In February a combination of British and German dye companies was organized. This was a very significant step. It indicated that the British policy of creating a British "key industries" has been quietly abandoned.

RETURNING TO FREE TRADE
The British people have voted against protection. They are at present slowly moving back toward free trade. This means that they must resume trading with Russia and Germany.

In 1923 Germany bought six per cent of British exports. This year the percentage will be much higher, probably twice as much.

The Germans are buying in all directions. They are buying in the United States, in the Soviet Union, in the President of the Associated Chambers of Commerce.

The reason for this buying campaign, so many people believe, is that Russia and Germany are afraid of a revolution and are buying heavily through German agents.

This may or may not be true; but the British people are not trembling about the source of the welcome orders. They prefer to think well of their customers; and they don't believe in quarrelling with good fortune.

TRADE WITH GERMANY
During the last month, prices have risen at least two points, and 120,000 of the unemployed have found jobs. The main reason of this slight, but steady prosperity is the buying of British goods by Germans.

Britain is reciprocating by buying more heavily of German goods. The Colonies, too, are now forgetting the past and sending orders to Germany. The South African and Indian governments have ordered locomotives from Krupp. They will pay for these locomotives with money borrowed in London, yet no London newspaper has raised any objection.

The Irish Free State, too, has recently given an order to a German firm for a hydro-electric plant.

Italian Royalty To Visit England

London, April 19.—Crown Prince Humbert of Italy will accompany the King and Queen of Italy on their visit to England this summer. The Prince, like his sisters, speaks English very well.

ARTHUR LORD BALFOUR, former prime minister of Britain, is a firm believer that exercise is for efficiency. Nine years younger than John D. Rockefeller, he is strong for a golf and still indulges in a bit of strenuous tennis. Here you see him holiday making at the French Riviera.

MEN MEMBERS ANXIOUS TO KEEP ON RIGHT SIDE OF WOMEN M.P.'S

BY LADY MARY
LONDON, April 19.—The individuality of Lady Astor never will permit itself to be overshadowed. She has allowed herself to change no whit since her earlier days in "old Vauxhall."

"Now, girls!" I heard her saying the other day to her women colleagues in the House of Commons. "If you know England as well as I do you would understand the novelty of such a situation. But the British women members of Parliament didn't mind. The mercurial Nancy also is the hard-headed, shrewd, politically clever Nancy and they all are well aware of it. She knows the ropes. She knew them twenty minutes after she first heard of them. Since it is the men who do, she is of the utmost importance in large doses without hesitation and never spills a drop of ink."

That is one reason for her astonishing success—perhaps almost as much the reason for it as the fact that she is wholly different from anything that England ever saw, let alone ever had in the House of Commons, before. And now that the Labor Government is in and some of the newcomers are women, she is of the utmost value. She is so refreshingly irreverent of ancient British traditions. Inasmuch as the mere presence of the women in the House is perhaps the greatest violation of them ever known, and as the women (I believe) feel this more keenly than the men do, she is a comfort to her sister legislators.

Take my word for it, unless she puts some measure through, which is quite likely, the women of the present House are likely to be "legislators" in name only. The others, very wisely, are taking slight, if any, initiative.

LONDON'S RUM-RUNNERS FOCUS TRADE IN SLIMS

Limehouse, Famous Underworld District, Infested With Bootleggers

Prohibition Sleuths Baffled as Upwards of 600,000 Gallons Go Out in Week

London, April 19.—Limehouse, the famous underworld district of England, is now infested with gangs of bootleggers whose business is to keep supplies of liquor passing through the city on their way to the United States and other nations given over to prohibition.

The waterfront sections seem to have become the centre of bootlegging operations, and the headquarters of the gangs once established in the Bahamas, as well as others which worked out in Scotland and from various points along the coasts of Norway and Finland.

Every week, it is said, thousands of gallons of liquor are handled by these men, and their ships are busy passing up and down the Thames. They work with a certain amount of stealth and cunning which keeps them within the law. Their methods do not appear to arouse unusual interest, and they are left more or less to themselves.

One of the newcomers to "Rumrunners' Row," says a leading London newspaper, who has shifted from the Bahamas, is a mysterious "Captain Candi," formerly a shipbroker. He is said to have an extensive organization to own several ships, and to have established his headquarters in one of the public-houses of Limehouse.

It is almost impossible to keep an accurate record of the liquor shipped from the port of London every week. An estimate places the amount at about 600,000 gallons. However, most of the liquor which is said to find its way into the bootleggers' hands is handled originally by confederate firms.

The reason for the selection of London as headquarters by these bootleggers is said to be that the new liquor treaty between the United States and England, which is really regarded as dangerous, soon after their appearance here, the bootleggers were hounded by small army of prohibition agents, but so far their work seems to be ineffective. Their difficulties are great, for there are about 7,000 firms in England and Scotch liquor shippers and wholesale selling.

TAX FREE TOWN
Good Time Coming for Brighton, Alderman Predicts, But Not Until About 1974

London, April 19.—Alderman Herbert Carden, an ex-mayor of Brighton, who has been described by his colleagues on the council as the man who thinks in millions, says that according to his calculations the millennium is to arrive in Brighton by 1974, perhaps sooner.

"No one in Brighton," he said, "will be paying rates in fifty years' time, if not before. We shall own £3,000,000 worth, and live together in the municipal undertakings, will easily bring in all the money needed for the rates. To-day we have 4,000 acres of wild land for more than half a century. The surplus in the treasury of the colony at the end of 1923 was £3,750,000. The revenue was $17,400,000. JONAH NOT SWALLOWED BUT HAD 'OVERSEA RIDE' IN MOUTH OF THE WHALE
London, April 19.—Souls who have been troubled with doubt that Jonah could have lived three days in the uncomfortable quarters afforded by a whale's belly will find comfort in an explanation by E. J. Sewell in his "Gunsling Primer" which he has read before the Victoria Institute. He says: "Jonah, when thrown overboard, was washed by the storm into the open mouth of a huge cetacean, one of the whalebone whales known to exist in the Mediterranean. These animals obtain food by swimming slowly on or near the surface with their jaws open. The screen of whalebone opens inward and admits solid objects to the animal's mouth. The screen does not allow the egress of any solid matter, but only of the water. The gullet is very small and does not allow any but very small objects to pass. "Jonah was, therefore, imprisoned in the animal's mouth. It could not swallow him, and his egress was rendered impossible by the whalebone screen. The whale is an air-breathing warm-blooded animal and can only dive because of the reservoir of air in its gigantic mouth. When this air becomes unfit to breathe the animal must, and does, rise to the surface and get a fresh supply. "As long as the diving whale had in its mouth air to breathe Jonah had it also. During the periods he was in perfect darkness, but was warm and dry."

10,000 Laying Boarders in 'Hotel de Chicken' RADIO PROCESS PLACED UNDER BAN OF SECRECY

"HOTEL DE CHICKEN" AND SOME OF THE FAIR ATTENDANTS

ST. NEOTS, England, April 19.—"Hotel de Chicken," finest location in England, situated at the highest point in Huntingdonshire, overlooking the charming valley of the River Ouse. All rooms outside rooms bright and sunny. Electric elevator. Electric lights. Hot water heat. Running water in each room. Terms cash—one fresh egg per day.

A. E. Priestley, gentleman farmer of Paxton Hill near this little town, hasn't inherited any such "fad" in any newspaper for the simple reason that Leghorn and Wyandotte hens don't read the papers—as yet.

But such an "ad" would well describe what is the biggest poultry house in all Great Britain. It is the skyscraper among hen houses and can be seen for miles away from St. Neots. When completed and in running order it will be the last word in scientific planning for intensive egg production.

Priestley already has 22 acres of hen houses and chicken runs where little chicks are allowed to run at large while being fattened for the market of London.

But the Hotel de Chicken will be devoted only to two things—incubating eggs on the first floor, and egg-laying hens on the other floors. The building is five stories high, 100 feet long, and over 40 broad, with arrangements so that it can be doubled or tripled in size and use made of the same building and heating plant, if necessary. Something like 10,000 hens will be accommodated in the place.

One of the mammoth incubators on the first floor can hatch out 2,400 eggs at once. In another part of this same floor there are rooms for the mixing of chicken feed, which is then carried by an endless belt up to the other stories and automatically emptied into the containers.

The zinc floors of each story are to be cleaned by patent devices. Water, of which the birds drink 150 gallons per day, runs continually through the building. Over 2,000 pounds of food are required for them weekly.

The new England that has evolved out of the war is strikingly manifested in the type of employees who are to handle this vast army of chickens and big supply of incubators. They are all girls who have either had practical training on chicken farms or who have graduated from agricultural colleges. An elaborate system of records is kept, so that not only is the live product of each incubator noted down, but also the week-by-week egg production of every hen in the place.

RADIO PROCESS PLACED UNDER BAN OF SECRECY

Navy Has First Option; Others Race to Discover Its Principles

Claimed it Will Stop Enemy Motor Transports and Electrocute Troops

London, April 19.—A screen of secrecy descended to-day on H. Grinnell-Matthew's invention, the "death ray" for bringing down aeroplanes, stopping hostile motor transports and electrocuting enemy troops.

Arrangements which had been made for certain interested persons to witness the laboratory demonstration of the invention were postponed indefinitely. The inventor spent some time instead in secret conference with British naval authorities.

In view of this incident, it is assumed in independent quarters that the public will hear little more of the ray until the British military and naval authorities have decided whether they want first option on it.

A well informed non-British source said there is a desperate race on between scientists of the United States, Germany, France and England for perfection of an instrument which will do what Matthews claims for his.

Already several German inventors have offered for sale inventions which they asserted send out a "death ray." In each instance it was found these devices were unworkable or inefficient.

However, scientists in several countries have progressed so far in development of a "death ray" that other scientists are working on the problem of neutralizing its effects.

British Sportsmen To Restore Streams With New Game Fish
London, April 19.—Thousands of American game fish will be imported into Britain to fill the depleted streams and add to the limited variety which now make up the angler's bag, if the plans of several angling clubs are carried out.

The fact that their membership has gradually fallen off and there has been little interest in angling caused many of the clubs to look about for the reason for this very un-English interest in the home of angling.

The clubs soon found out that there wasn't a game fish within many miles of London, and even where the fish are fairly plentiful they are confined to reach, dace and perch. There are plenty of fishing streams throughout England and Scotland which could be filled with game fish, and the clubs owning them are preparing to re-fill them with fish from the United States and Canada.

Most English fishermen are well acquainted with the various kinds of American fish, and they are anxious to import some of the better known species, which it is known will settle in English streams. Some of the clubs, paying attention also to the eating qualities, therefore have decided to import black bass, silver bass, strawberry bass, crappies, pike and pickerel, and certain species of trout.

The fish will be purchased from breeding associations in North America, and brought to England in specially-built tanks.

Astors Donate $100,000 For Home Trust to Plymouth
Plymouth, April 19.—Lord Astor is supplementing Lady Astor's donation of $50,000 to form a housing trust for Plymouth, by an additional $50,000.

The situation now is that Lord and Lady Astor are prepared to found a trust with a joint gift of $100,000 which will be used to purchase the site, build and institute and erect suitable dwelling houses.

4 Men in 7 Bald at 40

91% needlessly, by tests

Costs Nothing
Unless you grow hair. The Van Ess 3-bottle treatment is absolutely guaranteed. You are the sole judge. The nearest hair dealer. All we require is a signature showing you have purchased a ninety-day treatment. If it fails, we refund your money. Hence you assume no risk making this test.

Our experience shows falling hair most always due to infected Sebum. Now quickly overcome.

Written Guarantee to Grow Hair Under Our 3-Bottle Treatment Plan or Money Refunded

This is to offer you, under absolute money-back guarantee, the new VAN ESS treatment, which, under actual tests, grows hair on 91 heads in 100. It embodies a new principle. A principle heretofore unknown to science. New high scientific admit. Baldness may be greatly diminished. For hair roots seldom die from natural cause. And this method revives them. Test it yourself at our risk.

Hair Roots Rarely Die
We estimate that 6 men in 7 are bald or partially bald, at 40. Our investigation proves this to be unnecessary. Properly about men in 100 need ever be bald. Baldness is a symptom of a disease. Not this fact and mark it. It is most frequently a symptom of infection of the Sebum—the scalp oil.

Remove this Infected Sebum and hair will almost always grow. Under the bald scalp the hair roots are generally alive. We have demonstrated that it grows new hair!

Now We Remove It
For years, science has experimented to combat Infected Sebum. We found a 91% effective treatment.

It is applied in a new way—a 3-bottle system. Observe the illustration at right. It penetrates to the follicles of the hair. It combats the Sebum and removes it. The roots are marked. They are quick. It stops falling hair. We have demonstrated that it grows new hair!

We urge you to try this new way. It is today the only drug or department store. Observe the VAN ESS 3-bottle treatment. With it you will get a signed guarantee. Hence it is safely not to try it.

HEROIC WIFE IN OVERALLS IS BLIND HUSBAND'S EYES

Congressman and Helmpet Conquer Together—Were in Trenches and on Torpedoed Boat

In her way she is just as celebrated as the Lady with the Lamp—the Lady in Overalls. She is the inspiration of Washington.

The story of Margaret Schall is the story of a woman's heroism, and, incidentally, of her husband's as well.

In the office building of the House of Representatives at Washington, you can find this extraordinary pair. On the door is the inscription: "Thomas D. Schall, Minnesota."

Inside, you meet Thomas Schall, the blind congressman, and Margaret, his wife, his eyes, his secretary, in very truth his helmpet, and she is wearing blue overalls.

People look at her twice, not because of the overalls, but because of herself; short of stature, with tiny hands and feet, blue twinkling eyes, and a mass of wavy blond hair and blue overalls.

"I began to wear them in wartime," she told the author of the Boudoir Mirrors of Washington, "when we didn't have much money for dresses, and they are so comfortable and convenient I always wear them for the office. When it comes to filling books and papers, Mrs. Schall finds that overalls help a great deal in climbing up and down ladders to reach the proper bookcase or cabinet."

It was at college that they met. Tom had struggled up from obscurity. He had been a chore boy, bootblack, newsboy and janitor to his own law office in Minneapolis.

Then they were married. Four happy years passed, and success was just in the offing. Then—tragedy hurled its fateful bolt.

Tom Schall was never to see his wife's face again. He leaned down to light his cigar at the electric cigar lighter. There was a short circuit, and Thomas Schall was blind.

"What shall I do?" he asked. "I will be your eyes and you shall still practice law," said Margaret Schall.

Blindness did not conquer Tom Schall and his little wife. She went through law to be able to help draft her husband's bills. When he ran for Congress, she drove his car, choosing the right place so that the wind would blow his voice towards the crowd. When they went abroad in 1918 permission was granted to her to accompany her husband into the front line trenches, where she described for his sightless eyes the pages of history that were being written in blood.

Homeward bound, the greatest test of her courage unexpectedly came. But it was unexpected to her, used to foreseeing things. She had arisen early the morning the torpedo hit their ship. Hurrying below, she assisted her husband to the deck. Then she tied him to her waist with a rope. As they were both good swimmers, she counted on guiding him at sea as she had guided him on land.

The captain thrilled when he saw the sight. No hysterics. No weeping. Simply "Good-morning, Captain," in a cheery voice.

The captain cited Margaret Schall for bravery. After the war, she was presented with a decoration, which she is saving for her two-year-old daughter Peggy when she grows up.

Thomas Schall is recognized as one of the ablest men in Congress. You can think what you like about Margaret Schall. "You don't find her at the women's clubs, at the bridge luncheons, at receptions, or jangling till dawn," says the anonymous chronicler. "Her life is too full of work, or sacrifice, and most wonderful of all, of a great joy for what she has achieved."

SHEER MERIT WON POST FOR KING'S SECRETARY

Master of Tact and Discretion—Former Private Secretary of Queen Victoria Had Creditable Military Career

NOT every man in England knows as many secrets of state as Lord Stamfordham, private secretary of the King. It is he who sorts out the wheat from the chaff in the sovereign's private correspondence and in the despatch boxes from the government each day.

The term private secretary is somewhat misleading. Lord Stamfordham is more than that. There is scarcely a government office of importance which does not send every day to the palace where the King may happen to be residing, boxes of documents, orders, warrants and directions, requiring the royal signature and immediate attention. To convey the idea of this quantity of papers submitted to the King every day, it may be mentioned that the average number which he is called upon to sign amounts to almost three hundred. All these have to be read before receiving the royal signature, and each of them necessarily passes through the hands of the monarch's private secretary, as do copies of all important despatches received at the foreign office, and every paper of any moment in draft for royal approval before being sent abroad by the secretary of state for foreign affairs. It was thanks to this practice that Queen Victoria was able radically to change in a conciliatory sense the draft of the despatch to the United States about the Trent affair during the Civil War, which had it been forwarded in its original form would probably have caused war.

It is difficult to overrate the importance of an office such as that of Lord Stamfordham. He is invariably a member of the privy council, of which the cabinet is merely a committee. For all communications to the sovereign pass through his hands, and he is constantly intrusted with the duty of conveying his royal master's views, opinions and desires, even of the most confidential nature to the various ministers of the crown.

One of the romances of British official life has been Lord Stamfordham's career. The influence of no aristocratic family was behind him. The son of Rev. J. F. Bigge, the plain rector of Stamfordham, Arthur Bigge began his career in the army. At the Royal Military College at Woolwich he was a classmate of the Prince Imperial, the ill-fated son of Empress Eugenie, and a warm friendship sprang up between them. They went to South Africa together in the Matabele campaign. It has always been one of the greatest regrets of Lord Stamfordham that he was engaged upon some other duty the day the young prince was sent out to reconnoitre. Had Bigge been with the party he would never have left his friend alone to face the savage warriors. As the intimate friend of the prince, Bigge was selected to escort his remains home to England, and, later on, when the Empress Eugenie made her memorable pilgrimage to the scene of her son's death, Arthur Bigge was designated to attend her.

The empress developed a great liking for the young artilleryman, and on her return spoke about him so highly to Queen Victoria that he was appointed to her household as groom-in-waiting, then assistant private secretary before nine months were past.

Few men suffered so much from the last war as Lord Stamfordham. His only son, the Hon. John Neville Bigge, fell at the front in 1915. His son-in-law, Capt. H. H. Adeane of the Coldstream Guards, was killed in the same year. Two years ago, the death of his wife at St. James' Palace, ended forty years of their particularly happy married life.

The ideal man for the office, Lord Stamfordham, who took his title from his native town, cannot be relieved from his duties by his close friend, the King. Along with great tact and discretion goes a blend of deep religious sentiment and capacity for fun in his nature that has endeared him to the royal family.

Superstitious See Curse Of Hope Diamond for McLean

Stone Taken From Idol's Breast Leaves Trail of Misfortune Wherever It Has Been—Brings Fatalities to Owners—Possibility of Bad Luck Foreseen By McLean in Clause of the Agreement of Purchase.

HAS nothing been heard of the notorious Hope diamond for a few years? "Just wait," say the superstitious.

Then comes the Tea Pot Dome oil scandal. If the Hope diamond isn't mixed up in that brew—for almost everything seems to be mixed up in it—something will be wrong with Fate as a mystery writer.

Then the papers ring with the name of Edward Beale McLean, who has sent $100,000 in checks to Albert B. Fall, secretary of the interior, before that gentleman was driven from the garden of Washington.

The Hope diamond is in the limelight again.

Mrs. McLean wears it sometimes around her neck. Philip Laszlo, the eminent Hungarian portrait painter, shows it in his famous canvas of Mrs. McLean. The "bad luck" gem hangs from the shorter of the two chains about her neck. It is of a wonderful blue and weighs slightly more than a quarter of an ounce.

Thirteen years ago, when he bought the Hope diamond, Edward B. McLean was not as superstitious as he probably is now.

Even without the Hope diamond his story was as queer a romance as modern chronicles can produce. All his life Ned McLean has had someone looking after him. His millionaire father saw to that. When the young man of 33 tried to break his father's will he found that it was iron-clad. By the terms of a compromise, the son might have a voice in the management of all his father's properties, including the Washington Post and the Cincinnati Enquirer, but his income was restricted to the $1,000,000 interest; he could make no business actions without the approval of bankers and lawyers his father had named. But there were the $50,000,000 in his wife's fortune, the millions of Thomas F. Walsh, the Colorado mining magnate who from a humble Irish origin had risen to become the partner and close personal friend of King Leopold of Belgium.

The memorandum of sale seems to prove that McLean had a few doubts about the stone of lurid tragedy. "Should any fatality occur in the family of Edward B. McLean within six months," said Hope diamond is agreed to be exchanged for jewelry of equal value at the selection of Wilton J. Lambert," read an ominous clause.

It was eight years later before tragedy came. This was the celebrated case of the "hundred million dollar baby," their first child, who was wheeled around in a specially constructed steel go-cart, rocked to sleep in a gold cradle, and guarded night and day from threatened kidnapping by more armed detectives than in the suite of the president of the United States. But one day in 1919, while playing outside the beautiful Washington estate of his parents called Friendship, he suddenly eluded his guards, and, dashing through the gates to the roadway, was killed by a passing Ford car.

It was from Cartier of Paris that McLean had bought the accursed stone for $300,000, in spite of its tragic history, stretching back, according to semi-legend, to the seventeenth century, when it was stolen from the breast of a Burmese idol for Tavernier, the great French traveler. For his diamond and his discoveries, he was ennobled by Louis XIV. of France, tradition says. But Tavernier was torn to pieces by wild dogs at the gates of Moscow. Madame de Montespan, the favorite of Louis XIV, who wore the gem, immediately lost her place in the grand monarch's heart. In 1792 the Princess de Lamballe wore the diamond at the bidding of Marie Antoinette. It was not long before her head was being carried through the streets of Paris on a pole by the revolutionaries and Marie Antoinette was guillotined. It is even hinted that Marat had possession of it before he was assassinated by Charlotte Corday.

The notorious gem then went to Antwerp. The son of William Fals, the lapidary, stole it from his father's shop. The parent committed suicide. Fals, the younger, sold it to a man named Beaulieu who died from dissipation in London in 1820. Daniel Ellason, a London jewel merchant, bought the great diamond from Beaulieu, and sold it for $90,000 to Henry Hope, a rich Englishman and grandfather to Lord Francis Hope, who inherited it.

Of interest to Canadians is this part of the story. Although bankrupt, Lord Francis Hope, in spite of the offer of a million dollars to give her up, married May Yohe, the beautiful favorite of the London music halls. Years ago, she sang during a tour in the Canadian theatres. Her song, "Honey Ma Honey," and her laughing carefree face won all hearts.

But troubles started for May Yohe when she began to wear the Hope Diamond. To it she attributed all her marital troubles. Lord Francis divorced her. In 1910 she was even reduced to running a third rate boarding house at Seattle. Only a year or two ago, did she win her way back to the vaudeville stage.

Meanwhile, the Hope Diamond went on its way to E. B. McLean. Simon Frankel, of New York, bought it for $168,000. He had financial misfortunes. Jacques Colot, its next owner, went mad and committed suicide. A Russian prince lent it to an actress and that night as she wore it on the stage he shot her dead. A Greek merchant sold it to Sultan Abdul Hamid, of Turkey, and was killed in an accident, while the sultan, after being deposed, died insane.

Mr. McLean secured the notorious stone from Pierre Cartier, a French jeweler, who acted as the agent of the Young Turks. The superstitious, pointing to the strange clause in the purchase agreement, show how even at the time of the sale, McLean in the back of his mind had hidden fears about the result.

AUTHOR PRAISES GARLIC WOMAN FAINTS AWAY

Mr. Robt. Lynd, Addressing Society for Suppression of Parsnip-Eating, Succeeds Beyond Wildest Hopes

I WAS invited the other evening to attend a dinner given by the Society for the Suppression of Parsnip-eating," says Mr. Robert Lynd, the distinguished English editor and essayist.

"When my turn came to speak, I resolved not to care twopence what I said so long as I kept talking. After a few perfunctory words about the guest of the evening, I talked heavily, not only about the parsnip, but about every vegetable that I could remember; spoke of the different methods of cooking sprouting-broccoli, the use of garlic as a preventive of influenza, the deprecations of snails on lettuce, finger-and-toe disease in turnips, and the arguments for and against planting broad beans before Christmas.

"Within five minutes I had the audience fast in the grip of deadly boredom. In twenty minutes they looked haggard. At the end of forty minutes a woman fainted. When I sat down at the end of an hour, there was not a single handclap to disturb a silence that told me I had succeeded beyond my wildest hopes."

Congressman's Wife Wears Overalls

THIS is Mrs. Thomas D. Schall, wife of the "blind congressman" from Minnesota, as she appears when ready to attend to her heavy work of cleaning the five rooms used by Congressman Schall in the capitol. Mrs. Schall also is secretary for her husband and sits with him during congressional sessions. When it comes to filing books and papers, Mrs. Schall finds that overalls help a great deal in climbing up and down ladders to reach the proper bookcase or cabinet. During the eight years her husband has been in congress, she has always helped him in his official duties. Despite his blindness, the congressman is very active, and is recognized as one of the ablest men in congress.

GUELPH'S BLIND PIANIST INSPECTS HIS NEW HOUSE

A GOOD story is told of Mr. Albert Kaiser, Guelph's well known blind pianist. Some few years ago Mr. Kaiser was having a house built. One Saturday afternoon a friend of his was passing the new home which at the time was practically only a skeleton of a house. Two or three children playing thereabouts remarked that a blind man had gone in there, pointing to the house. The gentleman immediately became alarmed about Mr. Kaiser, as there were no floors or stairs as yet erected in the place. He found Mr. Kaiser up on the second floor feeling his way with his cane. He remarked to him, "What are you doing here." The reply came back, "Oh, I just came up to see how the men are getting along with the roof."

FLAHERTY'S VOICE BEATS EVERYTHING BUT RADIO

NEARLY everybody that rides on the C. N. R. between Toronto and Sarnia, has heard or heard about Charlie Flaherty. For the benefit of those who haven't he is the veteran depot master at Guelph and is possessed of a voice which for distance has everything but the radio.

TOO MUCH FOR BALFOUR

MR. (now Lord) BALFOUR was one day strolling near his Scottish home at Whittinghame when he was accosted by an old man halting from a neighboring village. On being presented with a shilling, the man whispered to Mr. Balfour: "Mon, dae ye ken what I'm gaun to tell ye?" "No," replied the statesman. "Well," was the rejoinder, "It's gaun tae rain seventy-two days." Mr. Balfour, thinking to have a little fun with him, remarked: "That cannot be, for the world was entirely flooded in forty days." "But," returned the old fellow, "the world wisn sae weel drained then as it is noo."

BAGDAD BAGGINES

SOME people when talking to royalty are too nervous to think. The wit of Mr. Henry Ainley is not subject to these "frozen by fright" fits. As you know, he plays the part of a portly Bagdad confectioner in "Hassan" at His Majesty's Theatre. Queen Mary and the Queen of Norway were so impressed by his performance that they summoned him to the royal box during the interval.

NEWS AND NOTES OF THE CHURCHES

Local Ministers Point to Easter as the Happiest Festival of the Christian Calendar Annually

Easter, the greatest festival of the Christian Church, and a perpetual reminder in the northern hemisphere of the beauty of Spring, brings to all denominations a common unity in worship of the Almighty, and recollection of the supreme example in history of self sacrifice.

The greatest artists have found in the scenes of Calvary, and the first Resurrection, an inspiration which has been immortalized in innumerable paintings which successive ages have admired, and which have inspired the sufferings of martyrs, and the devotion of saintly men and women who have gone forth to foreign lands and hostile races bearing the message of the Cross.

Just as Good Friday is the eternal reminder of self sacrifice, so Easter morning is the remembrance of faith, translated into sight, the doubt of the watchers in the garden, illuminated in the knowledge of the resurrection—the passing from death to life, the dominating feature of Christian hope and belief.

Beautiful flowers in the churches to-morrow will testify of God's greatest gift to his people in this world, emblem of that revival which Nature annually presents after the storms of Winter. Special music, changing from the Passion to the Triumph of the happy Easter morn, will appeal to large congregations at the churches.

Some of the ministers of the churches have kindly given The Times some brief messages on the meaning of the Resurrection, and these are here appended.

THE HOPE OF IMMORTALITY
"The joyous Easter message is two-fold. Easter is twice blessed," said Rev. F. A. P. Chadwick, rector of St. John's Anglican Church. "The Resurrection of Jesus Christ, the most fully attested fact in history, gives us the blessed hope of immortality, death hath no more dominion over us. But it also gives us the power to live the 'risen life' here and now, in which sin hath no more dominion over us. May we all strive to gain this two-fold resurrection. The resurrection to the life of righteousness now, and the resurrection to the life of glory in the future."

INTO THE RICHER LIFE
Rev. Dr. W. J. Sipprell, Pastor of the Metropolitan Church, said: "Easter transforms the Christ of memory into the Christ of an imperishable hope. It gives the world a gospel that faces all the facts of human experience and furnishes life with a new meaning. It reveals to us the assurance that the Love that suffered on the Cross will some day become triumphant and bring the world out of the shadows that have rested upon all since into a new and an enjoying life. It settles the fact for ever that the time will come when death shall have no more dominion. A recent writer has well said, 'Our Christian faith is the monument of the Resurrection.' It stands as a deathless witness to a deathless Christ."

INVITES ANEW
"Easter," said Rev. Dr. W. L. Clay, by way of a message to his congregation of St. Andrew's, and the public of Victoria generally, "standing as it does for the Resurrection of Our Lord, breathes a message of confidence and hope to the weary, disillusioned and almost despondent age. No face of history is more strongly evidenced than the actual resurrection of Jesus Christ. He who conquered death must necessarily conquer all lesser foes. To him, as Lord and Saviour, this Easter invites anew, all mankind."

IMMORTALITY'S VITAL FLAME
Rev. Dr. Clem Davies, Pastor of Centennial Methodist Church, states: "Immortality as affirmed by Jesus, and illustrated by His resurrection, is the fundamental fact of the New Testament. If the granite door of death has opened for one man to pass through, it is open for all. Jesus said 'It is expedient for you that I go away.' Spiritual truths could not be comprehended so long as the disciples turned to the physical Christ. Thomas said, 'Except I see in His hands, the print of the nails, I will not believe.' To us on the Resurrection morning, comes the voice of the risen Christ, 'Blessed are ye who have not seen, yet believe.'"

EASTER MUSIC AT CHURCH OF HOLY SAVIOUR

At the Church of the Holy Saviour, Victoria West, the music at the Choral Eucharist will be Adam's adaptation of Gounard's "Messe Volontaire." In the evening, Barnby in A flat, for the "Magnificat" and "Nunc Dimittis," and the anthem, will be Clara's "Why seek ye the Living Among the Dead?" There will be an augmented choir, and the acting Rector, the Rev. C. Reed, will preach at both services.

SPECIAL SERVICES PLANNED BY CHURCHES FOR EASTER

Churches throughout the city have planned most attractive and striking services for Easter Sunday. Special musical services have been arranged.

At the First Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening a well-chosen musical service will be held, at which the following carols will be sung: "We Do Adore Thee, O Christ," "Easter Flowers Are Blooming Bright," "Christ Is Risen," "Moonbeams Are Streaming," "Come See the Place Where Jesus Lay," "List the Cherubic Host" (ladies' chorus), baritone solo by J. Petrie, "The Sweet By-and-by," sung by a male quartette, solos by Mrs. Wilson and Miss Nora Jones.

Special Easter music has been arranged for both services at the First Congregational Church to-morrow. At the evening service the full choir will present Harry Rowley Shelley's cantata "Death and Life" and the solo parts being taken by Mrs. Hanbridge, soprano; Miss Strickland, contralto; Mr. Ellis, tenor, and Austin Curtis, baritone. An attractive feature of this service will be the appearance of Master Leighton Winter, boy soprano, who will sing "The Voice of the Father." Ivor Blake will render especially appropriate numbers on the organ. Frederic King will act as conductor.

At the James Bay Methodist Church the choir, under the direction of J. W. Buckler, will render special music as follows: Morning service, solo, "The Resurrection Morn," Miss Blakey; anthem, "Christ Is Risen," Caleb Simper; evening service, anthem, "They Have Taken Away My Lord" (Sir John Stainer), solo part, Mrs. Charles Smathers; duet, "O Divine Redeemer" (Gounod), J. W. Buckler and Miss Evelyn Buckler; anthem, "My Task," specially arranged. Appropriate Easter selections will be rendered on the piano by Ira Dilworth.

ST. ANDREW'S MUSIC
The following is the special music which will be given on Easter Sunday at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church: Morning—Organ, "Easter Dawn"; solo, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," Mrs. Mayell; anthem, "This is the Day," organ, "Triumphal March," Evening—Organ, (a) "Jubilato Deo," (b) "The Resurrection Anthem," "The Victory of the Cross," solo, "Resurrexit," organ, Beth Simpson; anthem, "As It Began to Dawn," solo by Miss Yeaman; "King of Kings," solo by Miss Ruth Melville; solo, "He Is Not Here," Mrs. Longfield; organ, "La Resurrectione."

AT ST. PAUL'S
Special Easter services will be conducted at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Princess Avenue and Chambers Street. Rev. E. F. Kibler will preach on the theme "He Is Risen." In connection with the morning service holy communion will be celebrated. The choir will render Easter music. At 7.30 o'clock a special service will be conducted with special Easter music. The pastor will preach on the subject "The Easter Message." The choir will sing "Again the Morn of Gladness" by Hilleton; "I Will Give You Rest," by John A. West, and "The Lord's Prayer" by Gower, elaborated by St. Paul in his Epistles. The second part closes with an old Easter Choral, by Scott and Gibbons, the remainder of the text being taken directly from the Scripture without paraphrasing. The solo parts together with several duets and a male quartet are well written and are balanced with fine chorus work. One of the most effective parts is the soprano recitative, "Mary stood without the sepulchre weeping," followed by the chorus, "Why weepest thou?" with which is sung in obbligato, "They have taken away my Lord and I know not where they have laid Him." The soloists are soprano, Miss Evelyn Buckler; contralto, Mrs. Muriel Dickson; tenor, Mr. Maurice Thomas; basso, Mr. James Matheson. Mrs. F. Grace Davies plays the organ accompaniment. There will be a brief Easter message by Dr. Davies for the morning worshippers.

At the hour of the evening service, the usual children's service will be provided. Dr. Davies will preach at 7.30, his sermon topic being "Immortality." In this Easter address he will deliver some timely utterances regarding the future life. A half hour musical prelude precedes the evening service and the choir will render special Easter music during the hour of worship.

TWO CHOIRS SINGING
The two choirs of Wesley Methodist Church are providing specially attractive music for the Easter services. The girls' choir, composed of thirty-three members, will render three anthems at the morning service, while in the evening the senior choir will open the service by singing "Tis Midnight in the Garden Now." Two anthems will be rendered, two solos will be given by the ever-popular tenor singer, George Guy, and the closing of the service by the choir singing a hymn of "Victory."

At the Easter services in St. Aidan's Presbyterian Church, Mount Soliman, 11 a.m. and in Gordon Head Hall, 7 p.m., the united choirs of Gordon Head and St. Aidan's will render special Easter music at both services. F. J. Jennings, choirmaster; Mrs. F. Dawson, organist; and Rev. M. D. McKee, minister, will officiate.

EVANGELIST TO SPEAK
Mr. McTurk, the well-known evangelist and preacher, who has recently been conducting successful missions in various parts of the city, is to be the special speaker on Sunday afternoon at the Reformed Episcopal Sunday School. The service will be of a special Easter nature. Hymns by school children and hearty congregational singing. Parents and friends are cordially invited—the service commencing at 2.45 p.m. in the church.

Easter will be observed by the Grace English Lutheran Church with a communion service at 11 o'clock, when the Rev. Theo. A. Jansen, who has recently come to Victoria, will administer the sacrament for the first time to the congregation. The choir has prepared special music for the occasion. An Easter song service by the Sunday school has been arranged for the evening service, which will begin at 7.29 o'clock.

THE FEAST OF HOPE
"Easter—the resurrection of our Lord from the dead, fills the Christian with joy and consolation, for 'As Christ is risen from the dead, so we also may walk in newness of life,'" said Rt. Rev. T. O'Donnell, Bishop of Victoria. "Easter is a feast of Hope! How can we be downcast and heartbroken, as if we knew not God, when we remember the glorious Resurrection of Christ, our brother? We know that He went before us through life, and His life was one of poverty, persecution and suffering, so that we might be able to bear with God-like patience the obstacles and difficulties which beset our path. 'What seemed more impossible on Good Friday than that the 'risen

CHRIST CHURCH CATHEDRAL

Special Easter music to be rendered at the Cathedral on Easter Day will include the following:

Matins 11 a.m.
Smart's Te Deum in F.
Choral communion service in D flat, composed and dedicated to Christ Church Cathedral choir by J. Douglas Macey.
Credo from Simper in F.
Evensong 7 p.m.
Evening service, Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis Festival setting by Tours in F.

The Easter anthem from Handel's Messiah, part three, "For Since by Man Came Death, by Man Came Also the Resurrection From the Dead."

A "Choral Hallelulah" (Traditional Seventeenth Century) arranged for solo and chorus.
Organ numbers will include the first organ sonata by Borowsky, Toccata and Fugue in D Minor, Bach. Communion and finale in E Major-Guilmant.

IN CASE OF RAIN

Should there be a downpour of rain, the service will be held at the Arena, at the same hour. The building is already seated for the Price Mission, and nearly 8,000 people can be accommodated.

and broken Christ will rise again from the dead? His heart had gushed forth its last drops of blood. He was carried to the grave, a large boulder closed the tomb, the soldiers of His enemies watched the grave. All these were difficulties to be overcome only by the power of God!

"Glorious Easter dawns Christ rises glorious and immortal from the dead. 'Nor bolt, nor grave, nor seal, nor stone, nor rock can withstand Him.'
"The power of Christ is at the call of every one who hopes in Christ, 'whosoever shall hope in Him shall not be confounded.'
"Let us, therefore, cast our cares upon the Lord, for 'The Lord is the Lord hath made, let us rejoice and be glad therein.'"

IMMORTALITY IS THEME OF EASTER SUNDAY SERVICES

Choral Service Will be the Feature Sunday at Centennial Church

"Immortality" will be the theme of the Easter Sunday services at Centennial Church. In the morning service at 11 o'clock, the vested choir in connection with the morning service will render "The Easter Cantata" of that name by R. M. Stuts.

The cantata is written in three parts, the first containing the Resurrection as announced to Mary according to the accounts given in the Gospels, and third presenting the assurances of immortal life as given in the words of Jesus and elaborated by St. Paul in his Epistles. The second part closes with an old Easter Choral, by Scott and Gibbons, the remainder of the text being taken directly from the Scripture without paraphrasing. The solo parts together with several duets and a male quartet are well written and are balanced with fine chorus work. One of the most effective parts is the soprano recitative, "Mary stood without the sepulchre weeping," followed by the chorus, "Why weepest thou?" with which is sung in obbligato, "They have taken away my Lord and I know not where they have laid Him." The soloists are soprano, Miss Evelyn Buckler; contralto, Mrs. Muriel Dickson; tenor, Mr. Maurice Thomas; basso, Mr. James Matheson. Mrs. F. Grace Davies plays the organ accompaniment. There will be a brief Easter message by Dr. Davies for the morning worshippers.

At the hour of the evening service, the usual children's service will be provided. Dr. Davies will preach at 7.30, his sermon topic being "Immortality." Noted International Journalist of the Last Half of Last Century and Now a Resident of Victoria

"MAD enough to do it!"

Mr. Mundella's phrase hit the mark in the disastrous blunder-pull of the world in 1870. The world is but a lunatic asylum, used to say Robert Owen.

If the founder of New Harmony were right in speaking thus, then France from July 23, 1870, to the end of May, 1871, was the centre of the world. For never was any madhouse larger and so dreadfully sad to contemplate as this gigantic hospital or asylum with its two millions of infuriated inmates.

All that took place justifies but too painfully such a view. All the events that occurred in France for more than a year seemed to be the work of madness itself—"Mad enough to do it!"

England, who, according to Alison, met growing clamors for reform at home during the last century by plunging into a war with France.

NAPOLEON UNPOPULAR

This state of affairs made Napoleon and his conduct very unpopular in England. The immediate effect of the declaration of war emphasized the defects of national and international events, "trade" and the Stock Exchange, were visibly affected. Before a year had passed, the worsted mills of Wakefield commenced running half time; the trade of Great Britain fell to a minimum; 150 dock laborers were dismissed from Grimsby docks; and Hull, and the other Eastern ports, showed that their occupation was gone. There was a panic on the exchanges of Liverpool, Manchester, and of course, London, while, on the other hand, the gun manufacturers of Birmingham worked night and day. Alarmists trembled at the undefined state of things, and the Londoners, far from being afraid, with regard to London, were entertained.

An agitation began in England protesting against Napoleon's awful war. I took part in the movement. I was impelled thereto by the recollection of his previous crimes and I felt as when led (describing a soldier's chapter) I regarded him as having wounded my "uncle" in 1848 and killed him in 1852.

STRONGER FEELING

The feeling against Napoleon grew stronger day by day, the events of the war moved rapidly. While the French were croaking themselves hoarse with "a Berlin, a Berlin" the King of Prussia, was, avowedly, "trusting in God" and leading his troops to the front. A journalist named Victor Noir with a revolver, perturbed and obsessed Napoleon in an uncomfortable manner, and the best way to draw off attention from reforms was to plunge into a war and thus arouse the ancient chivalry of the nation. This recalls the traditional policy of the Tory party in grammatical farewells, to the special care and protection of the National Guard. He arrived near the Valley of Saar.

On August 2 was enacted that burlesque "The baptism of fire" and the picking up by the young

Every one knows what followed. There came the astounding news accurately the strength of this current which is being delivered, and the operator varies the amplification so that off tones will be audible to the listener and the extremely loud tones will not overtax the capacity of the apparatus.

RECEIVING TROUBLES

Receiving set are found in so many varieties that no general remarks are possible. The most common sources of trouble, however, are these. Getting good results with a receiving set is largely a matter of the various pieces of apparatus with a proper understanding of their characteristics. Transformers have been the cause of much trouble, and the cause of the distortion which too commonly characterizes the output of an amateur's outfit.

SOME REVERBERATIONS NECESSARY

In the arrangement of a broadcasting studio a room which gives no reverberation is just as bad as one giving too much. It is generally recognized that a bare room is undesirable, and the greater the reverberation the better. This condition also makes it very difficult for a singer or violinist to keep on the key, as they are accustomed to get their own sound from the reverberation of the preceding one.

Variometer is Valuable For Tuning Device

Now that radio fans are changing their single circuit receivers to ones that are more efficient, the variometer is coming into prominent notice. This instrument is a valuable one because it may be used in many places as a tuning device. For the benefit of those who do not understand how variometers operate, to obtain a wavelength variation, the following paragraphs have been prepared.

The variometer is made up of a stator and rotor winding. The material from which the instrument is made will not be considered here. The coil on the stator is divided into two parts, both being connected together. This stator coil is either wound on the inside of the form or on the outside. The rotor is usually a standard rotor ball with wire wound over it.

The rotor and stator are connected in the following manner. One end of the rotor is connected to one end of the stator, and, the remaining rotor and stator leads are used to connect the instrument in the circuit.

The theory of operation is this: When the two coils are connected together and a current is flowing through the instrument, magnetic fields are set up around each coil. As the rotor is turned in a circle the windings will be brought

ENGINEERS WORK ON BROADCAST PROBLEMS

Point to Present and Past Mistakes and Admit Little Is Known of Reproduction and Heavy Amplification; Progress Through Research

When radio broadcasting started the man who had any sort of set at all drew gasps of wonder from his friends when they heard some local station grinding out phonograph music. A year later the craze was for long-distance records. Then came loud speakers whose raucous bleatings were an insult to the publisher's quality and volume of reproduction. Developed by men of brief experience in the art, and having little or no knowledge of the acoustic principles involved, many of the early loud speakers were merely glorified telephone receivers, fitted to a horn and designed "by guess and by gosh."

Now that radio is settling down to a means of entertainment that must stand on its own merits in competition with other forms, the public is demanding a quality and volume of reproduction that is faithful to the original that the listener can close his eyes and forget that he is not in the studio or concert hall. In other words, it must reach him in the form in which he would care to hear it if he were free to choose his own location with respect to the source of sound.

SOME REVERBERATIONS NECESSARY

In the arrangement of a broadcasting studio a room which gives no reverberation is just as bad as one giving too much. It is generally recognized that a bare room is undesirable, and the greater the reverberation the better. This condition also makes it very difficult for a singer or violinist to keep on the key, as they are accustomed to get their own sound from the reverberation of the preceding one.

When, as is often the case, the program is presented in an assembly room or concert hall, it is obviously impossible to change the acoustic properties of the room. The best solution of the problem is to locate the microphone in a room which is not too reverberant. When a symphony concert is broadcast, the best place for the microphone has been found to be from thirty to fifty feet in front of the orchestra and ten or twenty feet from the ceiling. This location picks up the sound of the orchestra as a whole, and does not catch too much reverberation or incidental noise from the audience. It is not desirable to scatter several microphones through the orchestra, as with this arrangement the noises from part of the instruments will be transmitted with greater intensity than that from others and the balance of the ensemble will be lost.

VARY AMPLIFICATION

Some idea of the difficulty of artistically transmitting a programme by radio is given by the fact that in one selection by the microphone the volume of sound produced may be 100,000 times greater at one time than at another. As no broadcasting equipment has yet been devised which will handle such a range of intensities, it is necessary to vary the amount of amplification given the current from the microphone so that the sending apparatus will not be overloaded. This adjustment is made at the amplifier associated with the receiving apparatus, and the greatest skill and care and the assistance of testing and recording instruments of extreme precision. A "volume indicator" bridged across the wires from the microphone follows

Care Needed in Buying Condensers

In buying condensers, do not merely ask for a twenty-three or forty-three plate condenser, as you may be, if you require is a .0005 or .001 condenser.

The capacity of a condenser is dependent upon many factors besides the number of plates. For instance, the plates of one condenser may be larger or smaller than the plates of another, or the plate material may vary in thickness, or they may be spaced closely in one condenser and more widely apart in another.

All these and many other factors of design and construction have a direct bearing upon the capacity of the condenser, and so all twenty-three plate condensers do not necessarily have the same capacity.

Therefore, in buying condensers, do not specify the number of plates, but ask for one having a capacity of .0005, .001, or whatever capacity it is that you require. Also see that the rated capacity is indicated on the condenser or on the box in which it is packed, so that no mistake is made. Getting the correct capacity of the condenser is of great importance to the proper operation of the set to allow of any carelessness when buying condensers.

YET ANOTHER ROLE FOR THE MALE PARENT

A group of boys in a Scottish village had just emerged from the Sunday School and were having a heated debate as to whether or not there was such a thing as a corporal devil. Finally one of them in voice, the boys down all opposition declared:—Ah kent whit it is. There's nae such thing as a devil. It's like Santa-Claus—jist yer ain father.

From 1:30 to 3 p.m.—Entire evening service. Dr. Clem Davis will preach on "Immortality."

Boiler Process is Invented by Woman

London, April 19.—The claim of Mrs. Maud Dickenson to have discovered a new process which prevents scaling of boilers was tested when the boilers of the Brighton Corporation Baths which had been treated with her process for nine months were opened.

Mrs. Dickenson claims to have discovered radio-active crystals, the rays of which it is said are capable of disintegrating matter.

Cylinders containing the crystals were placed in the inflow tanks. When the boilers were opened only a slight flaky substance was present. The superintendent described the result as wonderful.

VARIABLE GRID

A variable grid condenser is quite useful in some circuits. One size is an eleven or twenty-three plate size.

The glitterance of a tinselled court. I now saw the beautiful capital of Paris, the death struggle of the empire of which it was the heart.

Arrived at Paris, the peculiarities of a city in a state of siege were obvious. They consisted more in the dread of something to come than in the presence of an existing evil. Even on the Napoleon fete day, that "feast of all feasts," there was little remarkable to be seen. There were no illuminations. The singing saloons and theatres were not free, as was usual on this occasion—but all performances were for the benefit of the wounded.

FRENCH CO-OPERATION

As the war progressed, excitement became intense. The Parisians did not trouble themselves about the origin of the war, even if they ever knew what it was. They recognized that France was at war with her Prussian neighbor, and they felt that in the end France must win. If this feeling had not been uppermost the Prussians would not have shown so united a front, as in Paris, imperialists and proletarians are hard to get mixed in sympathy. French dispatches were given up to unmitigated lying, as seems to be the case in all wars, wherever. Gravelotte and Metz was declared to be a French stratagem. The greater battles were declared to have not been fought, but a victory gained in some paltry skirmish was exaggerated into a glorious victory, all with the skill of a boasting real estate agent.

ZOUAVES PRACTICAL

The Zouaves were much more practical. Each one had a monkey on his back and the French yell of the beasts almost unnerved the iron-willed Prussians, who imagined they were fighting the devil himself, and might have thus become what military men call "demoralized."

HATED BRED

The German residents in Paris did not mind the feeling into a flame. At the outbreak of the war the Germans in Paris were allowed to return to their homes, and this was a great number remained behind. One of these painted on the shutter of his shop "Any Frenchman starting here will be kicked out." Of course a riot ensued, and a few deaths were the consequence.

WIGOROUS RESISTANCE

The Parisians commenced vigorous steps to resist the foe, and spoke of nothing but driving him from their sacred soil. 40,000 rifles were bought in England in one week; and the crops and villages in the valleys of the Seine and Marne were laid waste, and the Emperor, at last awakened from the madness I have spoken of, surrendered his real estate agent.

RECEIVING TROUBLES

Receiving set are found in so many varieties that no general remarks are possible. The most common sources of trouble, however, are these. Getting good results with a receiving set is largely a matter of the various pieces of apparatus with a proper understanding of their characteristics. Transformers have been the cause of much trouble, and the cause of the distortion which too commonly characterizes the output of an amateur's outfit.

SOME REVERBERATIONS NECESSARY

In the arrangement of a broadcasting studio a room which gives no reverberation is just as bad as one giving too much. It is generally recognized that a bare room is undesirable, and the greater the reverberation the better. This condition also makes it very difficult for a singer or violinist to keep on the key, as they are accustomed to get their own sound from the reverberation of the preceding one.

a French workman, who, I supposed, he was at war with her Prussian, and asked him to join in a German demonstration against the French. An alarm was at once raised. The man was captured, and taken before the Commissaire of Police. While being interrogated, he suddenly pulled out a dagger, and stabbing one of the guard, he rushed out of the door. He succeeded in getting into the street, and with a revolver in each hand fired away right and left, killing a child, wounding several men, and ultimately made his escape. This sort of thing naturally incensed the French, and made them implacable in their feelings against their enemies.

NAPOLEON AN AUTOCRAT

On the other hand, Napoleon was totally ignorant of the principles of government. He had a false conception of the meaning of liberty. It has been said that for eighteen years he kept France quiet. Yes, as we keep maniacs quiet; he chained it down—and more than that, he held a pistol at his waist.

Under his rule, there was nothing but a sham liberty, though he struggled to hide the slave's chains by festoons of flowers.

No nation can be called "free" that has an officially gagged and lying press; that has denied to it the right of meeting and public discussion; and that is even deprived of the privilege of private conversation amongst themselves. And what has been the result? A man bold enough to speak at the pier, conversation amongst themselves. And what has been the result? A man bold enough to speak at the pier, conversation amongst themselves. And what has been the result? A man bold enough to speak at the pier, conversation amongst themselves.

Of Course you ASK for "Thermos" but be sure you GET the GENUINE THERMOS VACUUM BOTTLE

A Thermos Vacuum Bottle will give you years of service. With ordinary care it will last a lifetime. Should an accident happen and you break the glass, your dealer will supply a refill for a small sum. You cannot possibly expect "Thermos" service from ordinary vacuum bottles, for the Thermos was the original vacuum bottle, introduced by us 2) years ago, and is the best vacuum bottle today. It is not the amount you pay that counts but the value you get for your money. Always ask for "Thermos" and see that the name is on the bottom of the bottle. No other is genuine.

Starved Hearts

A SERIAL STORY

By MILDRED BARBOUR

CHAPTER XLIX

"I WONDER WHAT THE END WILL BE"

Life had been going badly for Barbara. If she had hoped for happiness with the coming of her child, she met only bitter disappointment. She had prayed that its tiny baby fingers would open for her the door to Lane's heart, and that, in her selfless devotion to him and his child, she might forget her unhappy love for Duane Farley.

The secret door had swung wide, it is true, but only to admit the child, Stephen Lane, Junior. Before she could reach it, it had closed again, leaving her in the same chill darkness outside. Even the companionship of her child was taken from her. Lane had definite ideas on the upbringing of children, which he at once put into execution. Before the baby was a month old, its future had been planned in minute detail to the very day it should issue from a university and take its father's place in the profession which had emmassed him millions. Its clothes, its food, its waking and sleeping hours were directed by him. The child's whole life had been absorbed by his dominant purpose.

Again loneliness gripped Barbara's white throat and laid its icy fingers on her heart.

Ann Ordway, dropping in one day, shortly after her visit to Madelon, found her looking positively ill. She was writing at a desk by the window in her sitting-room.

"Don't let me interrupt," observed Ann, nodding to the written pages that strewed the desk. "I dropped in only to see how you were. Go on with your letter."

Barbara laid down her pen.

"It is finished," she said quietly.

Ann paused in the act of drawing off her gloves and looked at her sharply. There was a curious finality in Barbara's tone, out of all proportion to the words she spoke.

"I had a letter from Madelon today," Ann said.

Barbara motioned to a sealed and stamped envelope lying on the pen-rack. "I have just written her," she said.

"She seems to love her work, but it does seem curious for Stephen Lane's only niece to be working for a living," Ann remarked.

"Yes, doesn't it?" agreed Barbara listlessly.

She picked up her pen again, drew an envelope toward her and addressed it. Then she gathered up the scattered sheets on her desk, folded them, slipped them into the envelope, sealed and stamped it.

"I wonder if I could trouble you to drop these letters in the box for me when you go?" she asked.

Ann nodded.

"You don't look quite fit, Barbara. Aren't you sleeping well?"

"Not very."

Barbara's head rested wearily on her hand. Her fingers toyed with a small round pasteboard box that lay on the desk. She seemed curiously remote, detached, as if she brought her troubles back to her guest with difficulty.

Ann, who had long since guessed the secret of Barbara's attachment to Duane Farley, had the uncomfortable feeling that Barbara might be planning some momentous step. If Farley had not been so honorable she might have feared an elopement. Stephen Lane was driving her to the wall, of late.

"I must be off," Ann rose briskly. "Got some people coming in for tea. Would you care to come down?"

"Thank you—I'm afraid I'm not up to it today," Barbara forced a smile.

There was real anxiety in Ann's searching glance. Her eyes fell on the little pasteboard box in Barbara's restless fingers.

"Sleeping powders?" she hazarded.

Barbara handed over the box, and Ann looked at the prescription.

"Hm! Rather a dangerous drug. How many do you take?"

"One—sometimes two, when I am very wakeful."

"Be careful you don't overdose," Barbara smiled faintly.

"So Dr. Grant warned me."

"You need rest and change," declared Ann. "Why don't you go away somewhere?"

Barbara nodded.

"I think perhaps I shall."

"Better go up to see Madelon. You'll have the time of your life."

Ann picked up the letters Barbara had requested her to send and went on her way. She carried away with her a picture of Barbara, lovely before her desk, weariness in every line of her posture.

She passed Lane in the hall downstairs, and answered his cool, remote greeting with a cheery nod.

On the front steps she met Stephen, Junior, and a nursemaid coming in from an afternoon walk. She stopped, and, raising his chubby rosy face, looked down at him with eyes grown soft and wistful.

"Hello, youngster, how goes it?" she asked, controlling her impulse to crush him in her empty arms.

"Master Stephen is very well to-day, thank you," the nursemaid answered primly for him. "Give Miss Ordway your hand, Master Stephen."

Ann shook the little gloved paw laughingly, and went on to the mail box, where she stopped to post Barbara's letters. The second one hung for a moment in the slot before it descended into the box. Ann's eyes unconsciously caught the superscription.

It was addressed to Duane Farley.

"Poor Barbara!" sighed Ann. "I wonder what the end will be."

CHAPTER L

THE SUMMONS HOME

"Barbara died last night. Come at once—Stephen Lane."

Madelon re-read the telegram incredulously.

"Barbara dead? Impossible! It was some cruel trick of Lane's to make her come home."

"Ain't there no answer?" the messenger boy, shifting impatiently from one foot to the other, enquired sharply.

She held out her hand for the blanks he shoved at her, accepted the dirty stub of pencil, and scrawled a few words.

Then she went back to her interrupted breakfast. But her desire for food was gone. She seemed to be groping in a mist of unreality.

Barbara couldn't be dead! She was so young, so alive even under that frozen exterior, so beautiful!

She looked around her pretty breakfast room, at the sunlight streaming in through crisp, ruffled curtains, shining on her polished copper percolator on the low vase of jonquils in the centre of the table.

Surely Death had not been so cruel as to take all that from Barbara. Barbara, who loved the warm sunlight so! She couldn't believe it! She wouldn't!

Howard Chandler's death had left her unmoved. Despite her efforts to force grief into her heart, she had been dry-eyed. She could not crowd out of her consciousness the welcome knowledge that she was free at last of her unhappy bargain.

But this—this was horrible to think of! She loved Barbara much more than she had even realized. They could have had these happy years together if Lane had not been so relentless. Was it all too late now?

Mindful of the time if she would make the train she had mentioned in her answering wire, she sprang up, rang for her maid, and gave her a few brief directions.

Before the hastily summoned taxi was at the door, she was ready in her trim, traveling costume, her bags closed and waiting. She drove to the school and acquainted Mrs. Gullbert with her sorrowful errand. An hour later, she was on the train speeding westward.

It was night when she reached Stephen Lane's home. The house was in darkness except for a light in the entrance hall.

She shuddered with the thought of what that darkness portended, and, unconsciously, her eyes went to the wing that had been Barbara's. By the arc light on the corner she could see that the curtains were closely drawn there. How many times poor beautiful unhappy Barbara had stood by those windows staring out at the life that drifted gaily up and down the Avenue.

Masters, impassive as ever, admitted her and ushered her into the library where Lane was waiting.

Madelon had no time to wonder what her welcome would be after the years that had elapsed since last they saw each other.

He rose from his chair by the fire, and she saw that some subtle change had passed over him. He seemed older, his erectness was less evident. He was much greyer. No trace of emotion showed in his face, though his greeting was kindly, almost gentle.

Madelon kissed his cheek impulsively. Quick tears had sprung to her eyes.

"Poor Uncle Stephen! I'm so terribly, terribly sorry! How did it happen?"

Lane shook his head sadly.

"She wasn't ill at all—that we knew. It was her heart. She fainted quietly in the night. Her maid found her this morning."

He sat down suddenly, motioning her to the chair opposite. It was the chair in which Barbara used to sit, silent, immobile in the shadow.

"An old man, Madelon!" he said, shaking his head wearily. "Getting to be an old man. . . . You must come back to me. I shall need you now that Barbara's gone."

Madelon made no reply. She was deeply sorry for him. She could not have refused him at that moment.

She left him after awhile and went up through the darkened house. Ann met her at the top of the stairs and kissed her. Her plain, kindly face showed that she had been weeping. She drew Madelon into the gay little sitting-room that had been Barbara's. The lights, springing up under their peach-colored shades, seemed a sacrilege in the presence of death. A fire was burning on the hearth, Barbara's favorite sea-coal—fire. A frivolous little French clock still ticked on the desk.

It seemed to Madelon incredible that the lovely spirit, around whom all this had centred, was flown. She could almost feel Barbara's presence, an intangible something like the brush in invisible wings.

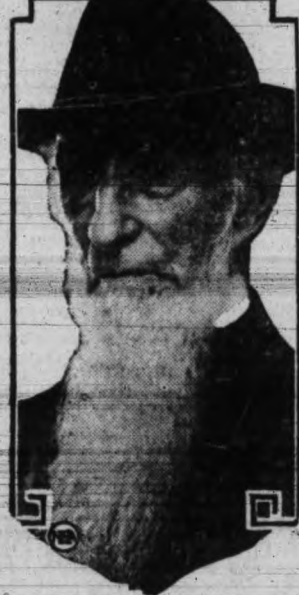

"I want to show you something," said Ann in a low voice. "But you swear never to tell."

She went to a wardrobe and came back with a tea gown of Barbara's flung over her arm, a lovely trailing thing of rainbow chiffons.

Here are the first pictures of the British plane G-EBHO hopping off in the spectacular round-the-world race with United States aviators. Watched by millions throughout the world, this globe-circling contest is making adventure history. Above, the English plane is shown dipping into the sea just before hopping off, while the other picture shows it leaving Calshot, on Southampton Water, England, with cheering crowds gathered on the pier.

RECORD FLIER—Mrs. Oliver Atkey is the first woman to fly across the English Channel with a passenger. She is also the first woman to obtain a British air pilot's license.

WILL BE "LION" OF STADIUM—Frederick G. H. Roth, former president of the National Sculpture Society, shown working on huge lion which will be presented to Columbia University and will be made into a bronze of heroic size for the Columbia stadium.

Famous Waterworks Lawsuit Takes New Phase in Latest Application

Sketch of Westholme Lumber Company vs. the City of Victoria

In view of the reopening next week of the Westholme Lumber Company's case against the city, in connection with the construction of Sooke water works, which has been before the courts at intervals since 1915, a review of the protracted lawsuit will be of interest.

Like the famous case of Jarndyce versus Jarndyce, some litigants and counsel who were "in it" have died out of it, and new faces have become associated with the suit. While since the death of W. B. A. Ritchie, who represented the city from 1915 to 1917, City Solicitor Pringle, and H. B. Robertson, K.C., city counsel, have at various times represented the city, and will do so again on Wednesday.

there is a minute of council which declares that in the event of protracted litigation arising again on this issue the city solicitor who prepared the original contract be engaged again. T. R. Robertson, K.C., the solicitor concerned, was an adviser in this matter for R. W. Hamington, then the city solicitor, when he acted in 1916 in this case, but since that time after leaving Winnipeg he went home to Halifax where he is now in practice.

In the present action the plaintiff company, whose liquidator has instituted proceedings, has engaged a neutral engineer, P. W. W. Bell, as a party to the defence. Mr. Bell came on the scene in 1918, and gave some study to the case under circumstances which appear below.

GENESIS OF ACTION

The contract between the city and the Westholme Lumber Company was entered into in January 1912, for the construction of Sooke water works. After a few months the then water commissioner, James L. Ray, engaged the contractors on the ground that the undertaking was not being expeditiously carried out. This was not done without protracted negotiations extending over months and during that time the city released the ten per cent deposit lodged with the contractor in place of security bond. Meanwhile the city engineer, C. H. Rust, who had taken office in May 1912, had been appointed water commissioner, and the council decided to complete the undertaking itself.

The actual completion of the undertaking proceeded the contract price, apart from land damages, by nearly $350,000. The pressure line from Rimphook was opened in January 1914, and the complete system in May 1915 at Sooke Lake.

Meanwhile suit had been started by the Supreme Court of B.C. against Westholme Lumber Company, which has been represented throughout the proceedings by W. J. Taylor, K.C., alleging fraudulent misrepresentation, damages, and an equivalent compensation for work done. Damages were set at $250,000 before the city was prepared by T. R. Robertson, K.C., then city solicitor.

The case came on for trial in January and February 1916 before the Justice Murphy, and two engineering assessors, J. G. Kerry, of Toronto and Col. T. H. Tracy, of Vancouver. It proved to be one of the longest trials, with the most numerous exhibits for many years, and the evidence therein presented occupied two bulky volumes, the perusal of which is of itself a task.

FROM COURT TO COURT

Mr. Ritchie acted for the city, and ultimately the court found for the defendants, who were the corporation of Victoria, its water commissioner, two of its engineers, the Mayor of 1912 and two aldermen who had been a committee to investigate the matter.

In May, 1916, before the appeal could reach the B.C. Court of Appeal, an interim application was made to deal with the reports of the assessors as part of the judgment in the Supreme Court, but was rejected, the Court Appeal, in June, first disposing of this appeal before going on with the main appeal. Chief Justice Macdonald, Justices Martin and Galihier were the trial judges, and they sustained the judgment in the court below.

Owing to the submarine menace and the regulation then existing to prevent foodstuffs and war material, the city had a great difficulty in getting the necessary appeal books shipped for the hearing before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, but eventually it was reached in the summer of 1917, and on July 28 of that year a cablegram came announcing the dismissal of the appeal.

THE CRUCIAL POINT

However before that was done an undertaking was given by Mr. Ritchie at the request of Lord Parker of Waddington, one of the trial judges, that a neutral engineer should be appointed to adjust questions of account, owing to the consulting engineer being himself a part of the defence.

Mr. Ritchie therefore gave that undertaking, but unfortunately his death soon after his return to British Columbia prevented any personal knowledge of what exactly was intended.

On the recommendation of City Engineer Rust, an engineer, P. W. W. Bell, was engaged to carry out the work, and Mr. Bell was accepted by the plaintiff company. A dispute then arose the city claiming that all progress estimates made by the former engineer were binding and that the new appointee should only have power to determine the liability without reopening such progress estimates. The plaintiff company then applied for and obtained a mandamus to compel the city to proceed with the reference before the engineer decided upon.

THE EARLIER CASE

The city appealed to the Court of Appeal against this order which came before the Court of Appeal in September, 1918. In view of the distinction between the application heard then and the present one, it is best to quote the exact language of the judgment which was:

"a mandamus to compel the defendants to proceed to arbitration before Peter Warren Wentworth Bell on the reference or submission without restriction or limitation as to his powers and duties under the contract between the plaintiff and the defendant and its water commissioner, dated December, 1911, for the construction of a waterworks system from Sooke Lake to the city of Victoria, in pursuance of the reference undertaken in that behalf given to the judicial committee of the Privy Council upon the hearing of an appeal in the action of the Westholme Lumber Company, Limited, plaintiff, vs. the Corporation of the City of Victoria, the water commissioner of the said corporation, J. L. Raymur, J. L. Beckwith, Wynn Meredith, consulting engineer of the said corporation, and George A. Oshel, George Anderson and Boyd Ehle, defendants."

The B.C. Court of Appeal held that neither the contract nor the undertaking contains any provision for a reference to the engineer. Under the contract the city water commissioner is to account to the plaintiff, and although the engineer may be called upon incidentally to decide matters referred to him by the contract, when it is not alleged that some concrete question which ought to have been submitted for his decision was not submitted, the order appealed from should not have been made.

Here the matter has rested for four years, the judgment mentioned above being given by the Chief Justice, with the concurrence of Justices Martin and Galihier in March, 1920.

court says that the plaintiff claims as against the defendants for "a mandatory order to compel the defendants to proceed to a determination of the questions between the Corporation of the City of Victoria, the water commissioner of the said corporation, J. L. Raymur, J. L. Beckwith, Wynn Meredith, consulting engineer of the said corporation; George A. Oshel, Geo. A. Anderson and Boyd Ehle, arising out of the contract entered into by the Westholme Lumber Company, Limited, and the Corporation of the City of Victoria for the construction of the Sooke waterworks system."

It is taken out in the name of Ernest Temple, as liquidator of the Westholme Lumber Company, and is supported by an affidavit of Solomon Cameron, president of the company, in which the statement is made that the outstanding claims of the Westholme Company require to be settled up.

Parades of the Battery will take place at the Drill Hall, Bay Street, on Tuesday, April 22, 1924, and on succeeding Tuesdays until further notice, at 8 p.m., sharp.

Dress—Muff or uniform (optional). Recreation—Rifle shooting, basket ball, swimming tank, billiard room and refreshments. Each member is urged to take part in the basket ball exercise and to make use of the swimming tank.

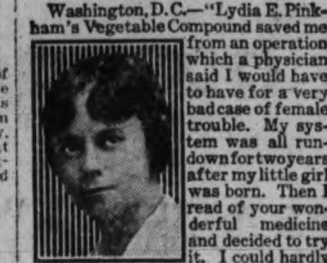

G. G. AITKEN, Major, O.C. 12th Seige Battery, C.A.

A cordial invitation is extended to young men, especially those who may have recently come to live in Victoria, to visit the Battery with a view to taking part in the Battery activities during the present season.

The work of the Battery is interesting, providing study of the application of mechanics and mathematics and a channel for progressive development of personality and character in a clean and manly atmosphere.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

Now Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Washington, D.C.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation which a physician said I would have to have for a very bad case of female trouble. My system was all run-down for two years after my little girl was born. Then I read of your wonderful medicine and decided to try it. I could hardly drag one foot after the other, and after taking six bottles of the Vegetable Compound I felt like a new woman. I now do all my household work, also washing and ironing, and do not know what real trouble is. My health is fine, and I weigh 140 pounds. When I started taking it I weighed 97 pounds—I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any one who is suffering from female trouble or is run-down. You may use this testimonial for I am only too glad to let suffering women know what the Vegetable Compound did for me."—Mrs. IDA HEWITT, 1629 Penna. Ave. S.E., Washington, D.C.

Such letters from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

McCALL PRINTED PATTERNS

The Modern Efficient Pattern Is the McCalls "Printed" Pattern

PEOPLE used to read by candle light, ride in stage coaches, try to warm themselves by open fireplaces. It isn't done any more.

And the modern woman who knows how to spend her time is making clothes with the only new pattern—the McCalls Printed Pattern, which is so easy to use and so satisfying in its results.

Notice to Breeders of Livestock

Mr. Erick Bowman, the discoverer of The Bowman Remedy, claims that in treating 70,000 cattle in the United States the results have been successful in 98% of the cases treated. Are your dairy cows and heifers causing you trouble? Are you obtaining results in calves and milk that satisfy you? Do your cows (according to your knowledge of their capacity) produce as much milk as they should—or are you marking time and feeding a number of boarders that should be sent to the butcher? These are matters that can be put right. Delays are fatal. Why not consult

AIN'T SCIENCE WONDERFUL?

1 MAY 25 1944

OH GEE! THIS IS THE HARDEST PROBLEM I EVER HEARD OF - THAT OLD TEACHER ALWAYS GIVES ME THE HARDEST LESSONS IN THE BOOK - I KNOW WHAT I'LL DO - I'LL ASK MY FATHER TO HELP ME - HE'S THE SMARTEST MAN IN THE WHOLE WORLD -

PAPA - WILL YOU HELP ME DO THIS PROBLEM? I'VE TRIED TO FIGURE IT OUT A MILLION TIMES BUT I ALWAYS GET THE WRONG ANSWER -

THAT'S RIGHT, MY BOY - ALWAYS COME TO YOUR DADDY WHEN YOU WANT A CORRECT SOLUTION TO ANYTHING - WHAT'S YOUR PROBLEM -

IT'S MY ARITHMETIC LESSON AND IT HAS ME PUZZLED - IF I DON'T HAVE THE RIGHT ANSWER TOMORROW THAT MEAN OLD TEACHER WILL KEEP ME AFTER SCHOOL AND THEN I'LL MISS MY PRACTICE WITH MY BASEBALL TEAM -

WELL, I WOULDN'T HAVE SUCH A TERRIBLE CATASTROPHE HAPPEN FOR THE WORLD - LET ME HEAR THE PROBLEM -

A FARMER BUYS 100 HEAD OF YOUNG STOCK WITH $1000 - CALVES ARE $10 A HEAD - PIGS $3 AND LAMBS 50¢ - HOW MANY OF EACH DOES HE BUY TO GET THE MOST FOR HIS MONEY?

DO YOU MEAN TO SAY A BIG BOY LIKE YOU IS STUCK BY SUCH A SIMPLE LITTLE PROBLEM AS THAT? I THOUGHT IT WAS A MATHEMATICAL QUESTION REGARDING HOW FAST LIGHT TRAVELS FROM PLANET TO PLANET -

WELL, IT MAY BE EASY FOR YOU 'CAUSE YOU'RE SMART BUT IT FOOLS ME -

NOW TO BEGIN WITH THE FARMER HAS $1000 - SIMPLY FIND OUT HOW MANY CALVES, PIGS AND LAMBS HE COULD BUY WITH THAT SUM AND YOU HAVE THE CORRECT ANSWER - NOW RUN AWAY A FEW MINUTES AND FATHER WILL FIGURE IT OUT -

I'LL HAVE TO DO THIS QUICK AS I WANT MY BOY TO KEEP ON THINKING THAT HIS FATHER CAN DO ANYTHING FASTER AND BETTER THAN ANYONE ELSE IN THE WORLD -

NOW LET ME SEE - IF CALVES WERE $10 A HEAD HE COULD BUY NINE CALVES, THREE PIGS AND TWO LAMBS - STILL, IF HE BOUGHT LESS CALVES AND MORE PIGS HE WOULD GET MORE FOR HIS MONEY - HE COULD BUY 30 PIGS, ONE CALF AND --- NO, THAT'S WRONG - HE WOULDN'T HAVE A CENT LEFT TO BUY LAMBS WITH -

NOW I HAVE IT - FIRST HE'D BUY A CALF FOR $10 - THEN A LAMB FOR 50¢ - THAT WOULD BE $13.50 - $13.50 GOES INTO $1000 - NO, THAT WOULDN'T COME OUT EVEN - NOW IF HE PAID $50 FOR 100 LAMBS AND $10 FOR A CALF HE WOULD THEN HAVE $40 LEFT TO BUY 13 PIGS - NO - THAT LEAVES A DOLLAR OVER -

NOW LET ME SEE - I'LL PRETEND I AM THE FARMER - I HAVE $1000 TO INVEST IN STOCK SO I DIVIDE MY MONEY INTO THREE EQUAL PARTS - THAT GIVES ME $333.33 - WRONG AGAIN - THE FELLOW WHO STARTED THIS PROBLEM MUST HAVE HAD A GRUDGE AGAINST THE HUMAN RACE - BUT I'LL GET THE RIGHT ANSWER OR DIE IN THE ATTEMPT -

ARE YOU FINISHED YET, PAPA?

FINISHED YET! WHAT DO YOU MEAN BY WASTING YOUR FATHER'S VALUABLE TIME WITH SUCH A SIMPLE LITTLE PROBLEM? I'M SURPRISED AT YOU - NOW YOU TAKE A LITTLE TIME - USE YOUR BRAIN - AND WHEN YOU HAVE THE RIGHT ANSWER BRING IT TO ME -

GEE, PAPA - YOU'D HELP ME -

AND I AM GOING TO HELP YOU TO BE A STRONG, SELF-RELIANT BOY - WHAT DO YOU THINK I WOULD HAVE AMOUNTED TO IF I HAD RUN TO MY FATHER WITH EVERY LITTLE PROBLEM - NOW YOU'RE A SMART BOY - USE YOUR HEAD - AND WHEN YOU GET THE RIGHT ANSWER I'LL GIVE YOU A QUARTER -

IT'S A LUCKY THING FOR THAT BOY THAT I DIDN'T GIVE HIM THE RIGHT ANSWER - A LITTLE MENTAL EXERCISE IS THE BEST THING IN THE WORLD FOR HIM - NOW DAYS CHILDREN ASK FOR TOO MUCH HELP - BUT IT WILL NEVER BE SAID OF ANDY GUMP THAT HE HELPED TO MAKE HIS SON STOP THINKING FOR HIMSELF -
