EARL KITCHENER LOSES HIS LIFE

WAR COUNCIL MET FOLLOWING NEWS OF KITCHENER'S DEATH

Grey, McKenna, Lloyd George and Gen. Robertson Attended; Kitchener Had Been War Secretary Since Aug. 8, 1914; Accomplished Wonderful Work for Empire

London, June 6.—When the news of the sinking of the cruiser Hampshire with Earl Kitchener and his staff on board was received in London a meeting of the war council of the cabinet was called at once. Gen. Sir William Robertson, chief of the imperial staff, who probably will become the head of the war office; Sir Edward Grey, secretary for foreign affairs; Rt. Hon. Reginald McKenna, chancellor of the exchequer, and Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, minister of munitions, were present at the council.

The newspaper reporters at the war office, who at the time had not heard the news regarding Earl Kitchener, announced: "Neither Earl Kitchener nor Mr. Asquith was present."

Since August 3, 1914.

Earl Kitchener was appointed secretary of state for war on August 3, 1914, a few days after Great Britain's declaration of war on Germany. He was regarded as Britain's greatest soldier, and the decision of the government to entrust him with supreme direction of the war was received with unanimous approval.

He faced a task of stupendous proportions, for he had to create out of the raw material of the British Isles an army of a size sufficient to meet the requirements of the world's greatest war. With the silence for which he was always noted he set to work, using every ounce of physical strength at his command through the long hours of each day he toiled. He was one of the first to foresee the nature of the task that confronted the allies and the length of the war upon which they had entered.

He had supreme charge of all the multitudinous details of organization until the government awakened to the fact that the supervision of the production of munitions for so huge an undertaking was enough to occupy the whole time of a minister not otherwise engaged, and appointed Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George to the new post. Later some of the great burden was taken from Lord Kitchener's shoulders by the appointment of Gen. Sir William Robertson, known as one of Great Britain's most capable soldiers, as chief of the imperial general staff.

Honored by Sovereign.

As has been the fate of all great men in the British empire, Lord Kitchener drew forth criticism. It came chiefly from the Northcliffe press and its supporters. The opinion those who would make such an attack at such a time was held in by the sovereign and the government was plainly indicated when King George created Lord Kitchener a Knight of the Order of the Garter, an act which but echoed the sentiments of the public.

Marvelous Results.

Earl Kitchener's marvelous accomplishments during the war are recognized universally. Foremost of his achievements is the creation from Britain's untrained manhood of a huge army. At the beginning of the war Great Britain had only a few hundred thousand trained men. To-day more than 5,000,000 men are enrolled for the various branches of the service. There have been no recent reports of Earl Kitchener's movements. He was last mentioned in a cable dispatch of Friday when he went to Westminster Palace to answer questions members of the House of Commons wished to ask regarding the conduct of the war. No intimation was given that he intended to leave England.

CASUALTY LIST GIVEN OUT AT OTTAWA TO-DAY

Ottawa, June 6.—The following casualties were announced to-day:

Infantry.

Killed in action—Pte. Robert Myles Elliott, Pioneer Herbert Matthews, Pte. Thomas Randall, Pte. Thomas Wallace. Died of wounds—Captain Philip Victor Cornish, Lance-Corporal Andrew James Taylor-Smith, Pte. James S. Stephens, Australia.

Previously unofficially, now officially reported prisoner-of-war at Fredrickshof Lager—Pte. John Jenkins, Australia.

Previously reported missing; now unofficially reported prisoner-of-war at Glessen—Pte. Samuel Roach. Dangerously ill—Pte. George Patience, Pte. William George Smith, Pte. Herbert Edward Tanner.

CANADIANS HOLDING SECOND LINE NOW

First Line Trenches No Longer Exist; Demolished by Shells

WERE ONLY MAKESHIFT TRENCHES; GROUND LOW

Ottawa, June 6.—Official advices received here indicate that the Canadians now are holding the line that at the beginning of the battle southeast of Ypres was the second line of trenches. The first line is believed to be practically over. It is doubtful if what was originally the first line of Canadian trenches is held now either by Germans or Canadians, as the trenches have been totally obliterated by the heavy artillery fire. Owing to the low and boggy nature of the ground on this section of the Ypres salient, the ordinary type of trenches has never existed, the trenches being merely parapets or barriers built up from the ground. These undoubtedly have been swept away by the artillery, first by the German guns, and subsequently by the Canadian artillery.

Word has been received here that immediately upon the receipt of the news in England of the heavy Canadian losses 59 Canadian soldiers clamored to be sent to the front to fill the gaps. So insistent has been the demand of the Canadian troops to be sent toavenge their comrades in arms that it will be difficult to choose the reinforcements to take the place of the men who have fallen.

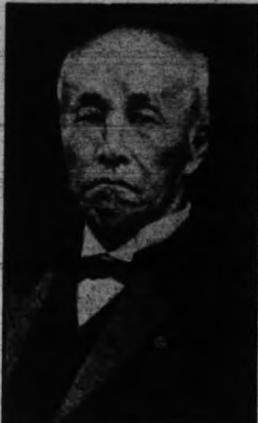

Casualties Among Officers.

The casualties among officers in the great fighting at Zillebeke, which is the place the Canadians fought, so far announced total something in the neighborhood of 180, with about 30 killed or dead of wounds and about the same number missing. This morning's list gives the names of 55, of whom 3 were killed in action and one died of wounds, 13 are missing and 23 wounded. Lieut.-Col. A. W. Tanner, of Moosomin, and Major C. W. Stewart, of Calgary, are among the dead. Those reported dead in to-day's list are Lieut. F. F. Elliott, Vancouver; Major G. W. Stewart, Calgary; Capt. M. Green-shields, Montreal; Lieut. C. McGowan, Elora, Ont.; Lieut. G. K. Cragg, Toronto; and Lieut. A. G. Carding. Lieut.-Col. Tanner, of Moosomin, died of wounds.

Chief Sufferers.

Vancouver, Calgary, Port Arthur and Montreal are the chief sufferers, according to to-day's list. Vancouver has had two officers killed, seven wounded and two missing; Calgary, one killed, two wounded and two missing; Montreal, two killed and 7 wounded. While all the addresses are not given, only one Toronto name, that of Lieut. C. E. Cragg, is included in the list of the killed in action. Lieut. Holloway, of the Eaton Machine Gun Battery, also is numbered among the wounded. Officers of all branches of the service, from the field and howitzer batteries, the machine gun sections and the engineers to the ambulance corps and the infantry are numbered among the missing. The casualties among the rank and file are coming into the casualty branch rapidly and are being issued just as soon as next of kin are notified.

RUMOR COUNT OKUMA WAS ASSASSINATED

Shanghai, June 6.—A message received here to-day said Count Okuma, premier of Japan, had been assassinated.

There is no confirmation from Japan of this rumor.

MAY BE WAR MINISTER; DAVID LLOYD GEORGE

It is possible that Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, whose great ability has been displayed so strikingly during his work as minister of munitions, will be made secretary for war in succession to Field Marshal Earl Kitchener, whose death the whole empire now is mourning.

DEATH OF KITCHENER HAS CAUSED PROFOUND SORROW AMONG BRITISH; LLOYD GEORGE MAY SUCCEED HIM

News of Death of Great Field Marshal Came as Heavy Shock to People of Britain; Keen Sense of Loss Empire Has Sustained; Opinion as to Successor Divided Between Lloyd George and Gen. Robertson

London, June 6.—The announcement of the death of Field Marshal Earl Kitchener came as one of the greatest shocks of the war. The sorrow and sense of loss caused by the news is profound. One hears on all sides the statement that almost any other high officer of the state could have been spared rather than Lord Kitchener, who above all other things inspired confidence among the people.

With the great war at its height it will be necessary to have a successor at the war office without delay. The names most frequently mentioned as those of possible selections are those of Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, whose great capacity has been shown so strikingly in his work as minister of munitions, and General Sir William Robertson, whose capacity as a military leader has earned for him the post of chief of the imperial staff. It is thought in some quarters that General Robertson could not be spared from the sphere in which his present duties lie, and in which he is making so conspicuous a success, and that therefore Mr. Lloyd George will be asked to assume the duties of the late Lord Kitchener.

A considerable section of the populace, however, seems to be under the impression that Gen. Robertson, who already had taken over the war secretaryship temporarily when Lord Kitchener started on his journey, will be chosen. The general has the full confidence of the country. While he could not become secretary of war until he is raised to the peerage, a member of the House of Lords might be put at the head of the war office with the understanding that the general, like Earl Kitchener, would have a free rein.

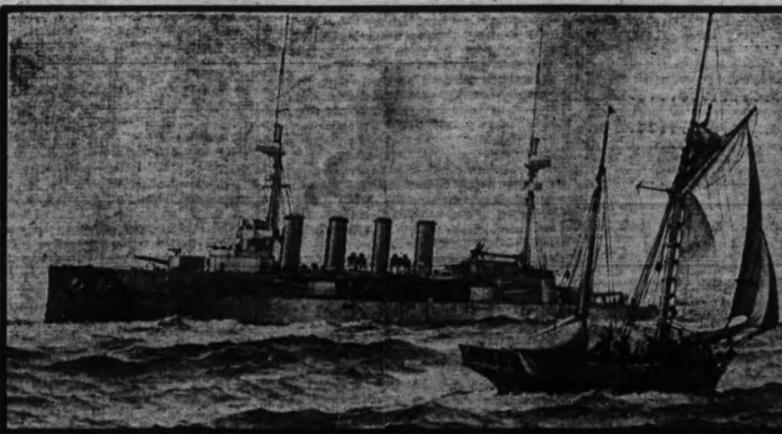

ENEMY FORCES SOUTH OF PRIPET MARSHES OVER 600,000 MEN

Petrograd, June 6.—It is estimated that the Russians in their offensive campaign on the southwestern battlefield are opposed by forces numbering between 600,000 and 650,000. The line between the Pripet Marshes and the Roumantan border is more than 250 miles in length.

KITCHENER'S DEATH KILLED BUSINESS ON LONDON EXCHANGE

London, June 6.—Business on the stock exchange was suspended when the news of Earl Kitchener's death was received. The members stood idly about the floor discussing the empire's loss. The market had been firm all day on the report of the victorious inauguration of the Russian offensive movement, and closed subdued.

SUNK WITH LORD KITCHENER ON BOARD; CRUISER HAMPSHIRE

FIELD MARSHAL KITCHENER DROWNED WHEN HAMPSHIRE SUNK ON VOYAGE TO RUSSIA

Cruiser Met Disaster West of Orkney Islands Last Evening While Carrying Britain's Greatest Soldier and His Staff to the Czar's Country; Either a Mine or a Torpedo, Says Admiral Jellicoe

Observers on Shore Saw Four Small Boats Get Away From Sinking Warship; Heavy Sea Was Running; Only a Few Bodies and a Capsized Boat Have Been Found so Far By Searchers

London, June 6.—Field Marshal Earl Kitchener, the war secretary, and his staff, were on board the cruiser Hampshire on the way to Russia when she was sunk about 8 o'clock last evening west of the Orkney Islands, either by a mine or a torpedo from a German submarine. Up to the present only a capsized small boat and a few bodies have been found, and Admiral Sir John Jellicoe holds out no hope of there being any survivors.

Admiral Jellicoe's report to the admiralty follows:

"I have to report with deep regret that his majesty's ship Hampshire, Capt. Herbert A. Saville, R. N., with Lord Kitchener and his staff on board, was sunk last night at about 8 o'clock to the west of the Orkneys, either by a mine or a torpedo.

GERMANS FAILED IN VAUX REGION

French Repulsed Two Attacks Between That Point and Damloup

Paris, June 6.—Two attacks by the Germans on the French lines between Fort Vaux and Damloup, on the Verdun front east of the Meuse, were repulsed by the French last night, the war office announced this afternoon. The heavy bombardment of Fort Vaux continues.

The text of the statement follows: "On the right bank of the Meuse two German attacks last night against our positions between Vaux and Damloup resulted in complete failure.

"No change has been recorded in the situation at Fort Vaux, which the enemy is bombarding with violence. "There has been continued intermittent cannonading on the remainder of the front."

German Claim.

Berlin, June 6.—French troops on the right bank of the Meuse in the Verdun sector last night made four determined efforts to eject the Germans from positions on the Fumin ridge, says the statement issued to-day at army headquarters. All the attempts were repulsed by the East Prussian regiments with especially heavy losses to the attackers.

"Four boats were seen by observers on shore to leave the ship. The wind was north-northwest and heavy seas were running. Patrol vessels and destroyers at once proceeded to the spot and a party was sent along the coast to search, but only some bodies and a capsized boat have been found up to the present. The whole shore has been searched from the seaward. I greatly fear that there is little hope of there being any survivors.

"No reports have been received from the search party on shore. "H. M. S. Hampshire was on her way to Russia."

BORDEN'S TRIBUTE TO EARL KITCHENER

Served With Distinction and Success; Inspired Confidence Throughout Empire

Ottawa, June 6.—Of Lord Kitchener, Sir Robert Borden said:

"It is with the deepest regret and sorrow we have learned of the loss of Lord Kitchener and his staff, who with the captain, officers and crew of H. M. S. Hampshire, have perished by the sinking of that ship.

"During a period of many years Lord Kitchener served the empire with great distinction and success. It will be recalled that in the early weeks of the war he foresaw the magnitude of the struggle and its long duration. His presence at the war office inspired confidence not only in the British Isles, but throughout the empire.

"But however great the loss, his place will be filled and the empire will not relax in the slightest its efforts or its determination. Another man assuredly will arise to meet the needs of the hour and the confidence which Lord Kitchener's presence inspired will be renewed and maintained."

PAGE MAKES REQUEST REGARDING P. FOX

London, June 6.—Mr. Page, United States ambassador, lodged with the government to-day a request that Peter Fox, an American citizen who is under arrest in connection with the late disturbances in Ireland, either be tried for that offence or set free. A month after the Sinn Fein uprising the ambassador learned that Fox was in prison at Wandsworth, a suburb of London. Inquiry developed that Fox had been living of late in Ireland with his mother in Carrickmore, County Tyrone. Just where he was arrested or what offence he had committed was not brought out.

GERMAN WAR CREDIT.

Berlin, June 6.—A bill for a war credit of 12,000,000 marks has been introduced in the Reichstag by the government.

Kitchener's Staff. Accompanying Earl Kitchener as his staff were Hugh James O'Boine, former councillor of the British embassy at Sofia; O. A. Fitzgerald, Earl Kitchener's private military secretary; Brigadier General Bloorshaw and Sir Frederick Donaldson.

Gen. Sir William Robertson, chief of the imperial staff, is in London.

The Orkney Islands, off which the Hampshire went down, are off the north coast of Scotland. The Hampshire was on her way into the Atlantic and around the northern end of the Scandinavian peninsula into the White Sea. Earl Kitchener probably intended to debark at Archangel.

The Hampshire. The cruiser Hampshire belonged to the Devonshire class. Completed in 1905, she displaced 10,859 tons, being 450 feet in length, with a beam of 88½ feet and a maximum draught of 26½ feet. Her designed speed was 22.25 knots, but on her trials she attained 23.4 knots. Undoubtedly her speed had fallen off in the intervening years. She carried four 7.5-inch guns, six 5-inch guns, two 12-pounders and twenty 3-pounders, and was fitted with two submerged torpedo tubes.

The other ships of the Devonshire class are the Devonshire, Carnarvon, Antrim, Roxburgh and Argyll. The Hampshire cost $4,250,000, her complement in peace times was 655 men.

On Special Missions. The Hampshire has been in use as a scout boat and for carrying officials on various missions. She was too old to take a place on the fighting line. When the war started she was in the Far East and was reported to have been in a fight with German vessels in the South China Sea. She was one of the British squadron which was sent to the United States for the Jamestown exposition in 1907.

CANADIAN GUNNERS DID SPLENDID WORK

London, June 6.—Wounded Canadian officers who have arrived here describe the work of the Canadian artillery during the recent heavy fighting southeast of Ypres as the best the Canadian gunners have done since they took their place in the battle line. The bombardment carried out by the Germans was so formidable that it put the Dominion artillerymen to the test as never before, but they measured up to the German guns in splendid style, through their excellent marksmanship keeping the German bombardment of the rear positions down as well as could be done.

KITCHENER A TOWERING FIGURE; ORGANIZER OF VICTORY; COOL, OF INFINITE RESOURCE, INFLEXIBLE

Once Having Set His Mind on His Goal, No Obstacle However Great Remained Between Him and Success for the Empire; Absolutely Thorough in All He Did; a Sketch of His Character

One of the most excellent sketches of Field Marshal Earl Kitchener was written by Alexander Baird in November, 1914, at a time when every eye in the British empire and in France and Russia was fixed on the great leader, who a few weeks before had undertaken the most stupendous task of his kind a military leader was ever called upon to bear. The article is given below as it was written:

"He would be a splendid manager of the war office; he would be a splendid manager of anything," wrote the late Mr. G. W. Stevens, of "K. of K.," as Field Marshal Lord Kitchener is familiarly known over the whole of the British empire. "His precision is so unhumanly unerring, he is more like a machine than a man." And another critic has declared him to be another Wellington, but more terrible, "a man without bowels, without a friend, hated by many, feared by all," and "a man who will pull things through."

At the time the foregoing words were written Lord Kitchener was busy "pulling things through" in the last South African war; but nobody ever dreamed that he would be set to such a task as he is now engaged upon, of endeavoring to "pull things through" as minister of war.

More Than Soldier.

What Stevens foresaw some fifteen years ago the British government has only lately realized. A soldier at the head of the war office has never been known before, never been dreamed of. But "K. of K." is more than a soldier. He is one of the greatest diplomatists of his day; a man of infinite tact and resource, strong willed; a man who will not budge an inch until he can see clearly whether he is going; a man who spares neither himself nor those acting with and under him in getting ready; a man who acts upon the old Scotch saw, "Never put in your hand any further than you can easily draw it back again"; a man who never draws back once he has set forward; a man who has never known defeat. In a word, Lord Kitchener of Khartoum is thorough. All that he has accomplished in his career is proof of that.

That Kitchener came within an ace of so, at least, he has said himself—of missing the great opportunities which have come to him is enough to make the British soul tremble in view of what is happening now.

Fought in France.

As a boy knocking about the Kerry hills he became infatuated with the Kerryman's love of France, and when the Franco-Prussian war broke out he crossed the channel and took his side with France. He afterward called it a "madcap step," but he is none the worse for his madness to-day.

"When I saw France being beaten to the earth I could not resist the temptation to fight for her," he said while the war was still going on, "even though it is a hopeless business, as I fear it is. I got into Sandhurst, although I fear it will not be possible. We have good friends and the authorities may overlook my escapade, which may be very foolish, but it is at least not dishonorable."

Kitchener got through, and he has got through many other things since then. That he will "get through" his part in the present war with the same success that he has always achieved no one in Britain doubts. With "K. of K." organizing the British army, speeding its reinforcements on the way to the front, building up for Great Britain an army such as she has never possessed in her history, all to the British mind, cannot fail to go well.

Stopped at Dover.

All Britain has been perfectly calm, placidly watching the progress of the war with never a doubt as to its ultimate result, ever since his dramatic appointment to the war office. The British public demanded that Lord Kitchener should be made secretary for war, and never did a government so quickly submit to the will of the people. Lord Kitchener was stopped at Dover, on his way to Egypt, and called back. He came and accepted the office, but only on condition that he should have an absolutely free hand, that he alone should be supreme, that all his directions should be carried out without "let or hindrance." How far he is succeeding all the world can judge.

The public chafed at the apparent delay in sending troops to the front. But they were far from fooled. An army of 100,000 men, rapidly increased to 200,000 of Britain's best troops fighting on French soil before the public realized it. Lord Kitchener, thorough in everything he does, was thorough then, as he always has been.

Of Irish Birth.

Like most of Britain's greatest generals, Lord Kitchener of Khartoum is of Irish birth; he first saw the light at Crofter House, Ballylongford, County Kerry, on June 24, 1850. Like many other distinguished generals he was the son of a distinguished army officer, his father, the late Colonel H. H. Kitchener, having at one time been in command of the Thirtieth Dragoons. Some biographers say that it was while this regiment was quartered in County Kerry that the future field marshal was born, but his father had left the army three years before young Horatio's birth.

From his birth he was destined for the army, though the selection of the Engineers for him did not promise great opportunities. Instead of fighting and winning his spurs early in life, he was set to the drudgery of surveying in Palestine. But what in the case of most people would have foredoomed them to obscurity, in Kitchener's case was a stepping stone to success; for the leisure that might have been wasted or misused was utilized for the acquiring of dialects, which, perhaps more than anything else afterward procured for him his appointment of sirdar in Egypt.

Brilliant Career.

When he volunteered for service in the Egyptian army and became a bean salutar in a native regiment of cavalry he had an immense advantage over his comrades. He could speak Arabic like a native. He could disguise himself so that the most astute native could not detect him. In this way he dwelt among Arabs and discovered their secrets, obtaining over them a hold and a power which enabled him to render perfectly harmless and discount their discontent. From that time his career has been one of steady and unbroken brilliance.

CREATED BRITAIN'S HUGE FIELD FORCES

FIELD MARSHAL THE RT. HON. EARL KITCHENER

The above picture was taken early in 1915 as the great soldier stood reviewing some of the units of his new armies.

His ceaseless activity and faculty for organization overcame all obstacles. One difficulty overcome, he has always shown eagerness to encounter another. It was his hand that fashioned the native Egyptian army, built up a splendid fighting force out of the rawest material and made the conquest of the Sudan a possibility.

Wounded.

Lord Kitchener was in command of the Egyptian cavalry in 1882 at the outbreak of the Sudan war, when a bullet from a heavy Remington rifle missed, as by a miracle, both windpipe and jugular and was imbedded in the back muscles of the neck. It was a spent bullet, which, by the way, is much more immediately painful to the victim than the other kind. It knocked the commandant out of the saddle and set him coughing for a couple of hours. Moreover it altogether declined obstruction. There were no X-rays in those days. For nearly six months that bullet stuck there. At last, through the vicarious agency of an errant fishbone, the bullet fell to coughing violently and suddenly found Osman Digna's sewer in his table napkin.

It was during this period in his career that he performed most of his feats, disguising himself, passing into the enemy's camp, learning their plans and making the acquaintance of suspected spies by pretending to be a spy. So well disguised was he that on one occasion one of his soldiers cut his head open with a stone.

Lord Kitchener's most important adventure at this period was when after the fall of Berber he undertook to reach the mysterious Mudir Mustapha Zear of Diga. With 1000 men in argument he set out on a six days' camel ride across the desert and did not return until he had changed the Mudir's intention to become one of the Mahdi's Emirs.

He Was Sure.

In his reconquest of the Sudan Kitchener may have been slow, but he was sure. He followed the Roman policy of building roads and advancing toward his goal by short stages, only in the Sudan the roads were railroads. His motto was that difficulties were made to be overcome. His work in the Sudan was hardly finished when he was called upon to co-operate with Lord Roberts as chief of staff after Sir Redvers Buller, Lord Methuen and General Gatacre had met with disaster in South Africa. Kitchener changed the whole aspect of the Boer war.

Work in India.

As commander in chief in India he reorganized the whole system, and when his term of office expired he left behind him nine divisions of well-trained troops ready for active service, instead of the three there had been when he took command.

His Character.

The character of Lord Kitchener has been described as sullen, sombre, unending, but that is the description of certain newspaper correspondents who, perhaps, have studied him from a distance. I have mentioned that he is known familiarly as "K. of K.," and a nickname is usually the hallmark of a good fellow. He is a good fellow with a keen sense of humor. A raw subaltern was sent out to

Heart's Action Was Weak And Circulation Poor

He Was Always Tired and Nervous and Had Pains in Feet and Legs—Dr. Chase's Nerve Food Cured

The heart is a wonderful worker, plodding away year in and year out, forever pumping the blood through the body. So long as the blood is rich and nourishing it renews its own waste and keeps up a vigorous circulation of the blood through the arteries and veins of the human system. But when the blood gets thin the heart's action weakens and the circulation is slow. The hands and feet feel cold, there are cramps and pains in the legs and through the body. digestion fails, you become nervous and irritable and do not rest or sleep well. This letter will give you some idea how admirably Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is suited to overcome derangements of this nature. It is, above all, a creator of new, rich blood, and with the blood in good condition the nerves are soon restored and bodily organs resume their natural functions. Mrs. E. A. Hutchings, "Prairie View," Elva, Minn., writes: "Before using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food my husband had tried almost every remedy recommended as a tonic. He suffered with cold feet, poor circulation of the blood and was always tired. He had pains in his feet and legs, and could get no rest or sleep at night. After the first box of the Nerve Food we could see an improvement, and now after using it for six months, he is an entirely different man. He eats and sleeps well and has no pains in his feet and legs. It has built up his health wonderfully, and we can recommend it as a splendid nerve tonic." YUAN SHI KAI DEAD; LI YUAN SUNG PRES.

Head of Chinese Govt. Succumbed in Peking Yesterday Morning

STOMACH TROUBLE GIVEN AS CAUSE

Peking, June 6.—Yuan Shi Kai, president of the Chinese republic, died yesterday morning. Premier Tuan Chi Jui immediately advised Li Yuan Sung, the vice-president, of his succession to the presidency.

Yuan Shi Kai had been ill for several days with stomach trouble, which was followed by a nervous breakdown.

Quiet prevails to-day in the capital. The death of the president apparently solves the heated political problem. Li Yuan Sung's succession to the presidency meets the demands of the leaders in the southern provinces.

Yuan Shi Kai was reported on May 28 to have been taken seriously ill. At that time dispatches from China said it was believed in Peking that the president had been poisoned, but this report was denied by the Chinese ambassador at Washington, who insisted the president was not even ill.

Yuan Shi Kai has died while the storms of revolution still were gathering in increasing strength. The revolt broke out in 1915, when the president announced his intention of establishing a monarchy and ascending the throne as the first emperor of a new dynasty. His coronation was set for early in February of this year, but was postponed indefinitely owing to the extraordinary rapidly with which the revolt spread through Southern China.

Several attempts were made on the president's life and a bomb plot was discovered in the imperial palace.

The establishing of a monarchy was strenuously opposed by Japan and the final abandonment of the plan was largely credited to the representations made by Tokio.

The revolt progressed, however, and in March the governors of many of the Chinese provinces demanded the resignation of the president. In May the provinces of Shansi and Shantung announced their independence and a provisional government was established by the generals commanding the revolutionary forces in the south. President Yuan Shi Kai announced on May 28 his intention to resign when a suitable successor was chosen. It was reported a little later that the president intended to take refuge in Japan and dispatches from Tokio said that he was negotiating for a residence in the Japanese capital.

CASUALTIES AMONG CANADIAN SOLDIERS

Ottawa, June 6.—The following casualties have been announced:

BRITISH ACCOUNTED FOR GREAT TONNAGE

Adding German Losses Reported to Those Admitted, Total Over 125,000

ENEMY UNDERSTATED RESULTS OF BATTLE

London, June 5.—Since Saturday last, when the British admiralty stated the full losses sustained by the British fleet in the battle of Jutland on May 31, there has been no addition to and no subtraction from the figures then given. The losses were stated quite frankly by the admiralty at the very beginning of the battle, and it is when the various units engaged had reported. Therefore the losses suffered by the British fleet can be stated definitely as follows without fear of their being any subsequent change:

Battle-cruiser Queen Mary, 27,000 tons, eight 13.5-inch guns.

Battle-cruiser Indefatigable, 18,750 tons, eight 12-inch guns.

Battle-cruiser Invincible, 17,250 tons, eight 12-inch guns.

Cruiser Defence, 14,500 tons, four 8.2-inch guns.

Cruiser Warrior, 12,550 tons, six 9.2-inch guns.

Cruiser Black Prince, 13,550 tons, six 9.2-inch guns.

Destroyers Ardent, Fortune, Shark, Sparrowhawk, Turbulent, Tipperary, Nomad and Nestor.

Total ships lost, 14. Total tonnage approximately 112,500.

Total officers and men lost, between 4,500 and 5,000.

Enemy Misstatements.

There is no doubt that the Germans falsified their losses in the statements they gave out. In the official statement issued on Sunday night the British admiralty said: "That the accounts they have given to the world are false is certain. We can not yet be sure of the exact truth, but from such evidence as has come to our knowledge, the admiralty entertains no doubt that the German losses are heavier than the British, not merely relatively to the strength of the two fleets, but absolutely."

There seems to be the strongest ground for supposing that included in the German losses are two battleships, two dreadnought battle-cruisers of the most powerful type, two of the latest light cruisers, the Wiesbaden and Eilbing, a light cruiser of the Rostock type, the light cruiser Frauenlob, mine-destroyers and a submarine.

German Admissions.

The German admiralty has admitted the following losses:

Dreadnought Westfalen, 18,900 tons, twelve 11-inch guns.

Pre-Dreadnought Pommern, 13,200 tons, four 11-inch guns.

Light cruiser Wiesbaden, a new vessel of probably between 4,000 and 5,000 tons.

Light cruiser Eilbing, a new vessel of between 4,000 and 5,000 tons.

Small cruiser Frauenlob, 2,715 tons, ten 4.1-inch guns.

Six destroyers of a total tonnage of probably between 5,000 and 6,000 tons.

Thus the Germans in the announcements which the British admiralty brands as understating the enemy's losses admit a loss of only approximately 49,350 tons.

Reiterated.

The British admiralty reiterated in its statement on Sunday night that there was the ground for believing that in the German losses are two battleships, two battle-cruisers of the most powerful type, besides the light cruisers admitted by the Germans and a light cruiser of the Rostock type, three destroyers in addition to the six admitted by the Germans and a submarine the loss of which has not been admitted by the Germans.

MISS EDWARDS MUST APPEAR ONCE MORE

Carvell Says She Should Attend Before Commission; No Ruling by Latter

Ottawa, June 6.—J. S. Ewart, K. C., counsel for Maj.-Gen. Sir Sam Hughes, stated before the Meredith-Duff commission yesterday that the information had been received that Mr. Kyte had publicly declared that Col. Allison had committed perjury and that Maj.-Gen. Hughes had lied. The speech was said to have been made during the election campaign in Nova Scotia. On behalf of the minister of militia, Mr. Ewart requested that Mr. Kyte be called to explain these statements, unless Mr. Carvell could assure the commission that the reports were untrue.

Mr. Carvell stated that he had no knowledge of the incidents at all, but promised to see Mr. Kyte about the reports.

I. F. Hellmuth, K. C., government counsel, read a letter from E. W. Bassick, in which the latter said that he was unable to attend the commission at the time asked, but that he would be willing to send any information which the commission might desire from him.

Miss Edwards.

Mr. Carvell asked if Miss M. G. Edwards's book had arrived, adding that he wished her to be present and identify it, and to answer some more questions. Mr. Henderson produced the book explaining that Miss Edwards had gone for a holiday, thinking that she was no longer needed.

On examining the book, Mr. Carvell remarked that "it only shows the importance of having the young lady back. Miss Edwards told the commission that certain small amounts had been withdrawn for her personal use. All we have in this book is an entry of $16,900. There are no withdrawals nor balance struck. I do not want to criticize the book, but I have greater reasons why she should come back than I had before."

The commission gave no ruling as to the production again of Miss Edwards's Ohmer.

Wilfrid Ohmer, of the Recording & Computing Machinery Company, of Dayton, Ohio, was the first witness.

Mr. Carvell brought out the statement from the witness that their deliveries had been delayed for several months because 15 out of 42 of the drawings furnished by the Canada Car & Foundry Company were wrong.

Up to the present time, he said, 44,554 fuses had been accepted at Dayton and shipped; 32,000 more had been accepted and were ready for shipment, while more than 200,000 have been assembled ready for inspection. Witness said that he had other fuse contracts, but they were not for Britain's enemies.

"I will not manufacture for them," he said.

"Have you had any difficulty with them?"

By Prussians.

"Yes, we have had conspiracies, raids, fires, gun shots and threats of all kinds by the Prussians. Two of them belonged to the Duma crowd."

Mr. Ohmer said his company employed more than 70 secret police and detectives.

Sir William Meredith received a telegram from the Dowler-Forbes Company, of New York, stating that Mr. Dowler would be unable to attend the inquiry, but that he would send a written statement.

Mr. Ewart announced that he had received a telegram from the Pinkerton detective agency objecting to Sir Sam Hughes's statement the other day that the Sir Courtenay Bennett people were run by Pinkerton detectives in the pay of the Germans. The Pinkerton people declared in the message that they had never done a dollar's worth of business for Germany or her allies, nor had any connection with Sir Courtenay Bennett. Mr. Ewart declared that Sir Sam Hughes had authorized him to say that "he had used Pinkerton detectives" as a generic term and did not mean the Pinkerton agency specifically.

KITCHENER A TOWERING FIGURE; ORGANIZER OF VICTORY; INFLEXIBLE

His probity, too, is splendid. For corruption, jobbery, intrigue, he has the most intense detestation. While he was in South Africa the contractor was held in an iron grip. He will never try to fit any but the square man into the square hole. It is no use pointing out to him that a candidate for a position is a good fellow, a first rate polo player, that his uncle is the Duke of —, and that he was educated at Eton.

His policy is that of Napoleon's. "What has he done?"

each other in most serious business. "Kitchener the mystic," he has been called by one of his critics. But one wonders if he was then a real seer into the future.

In any case the conversation ended with the Egyptian flag floating over the fort at Fashoda.

Another Side.

And then Kitchener did a thing characteristic of another side of his nature. When he met Major Marchand he noted that he and his gallant French comrades were half dead with fever and hunger. Sending for doctors, drugs and wine, he carried Marchand off to his tent, filled for himself and his guest stiff glasses of whisky and soda, and in this exchange of courtesies passed one of the most perilous crises that ever occurred in the relations of two great nations.

There is no record of Kitchener ever having spoken of this affair, except in his report to the war office. He was ever modest in discussing his own experiences. A war correspondent has told how, after Athbara, when the great blow had finally been struck at the power of the khalfia, he went to Kitchener's quarters to congratulate him. The general held up his hand. "Thank you! thank you!" he said earnestly. And then, as if to himself, in a terror of the thoughts to which his visitor's words gave birth, "My God! If I had failed!"

The correspondent told how on one occasion he presented himself to Kitchener to get his signature for a pass to the front. Every one knows the Field Marshal's stern objection to newspaper correspondents accompanying the armies in the field. He disliked them at the time of the South African war, but he did not carry his objections so far as he is doing in the present war.

"I suppose you have come for your papers," he said, and then, twisting the pass between his fingers, he added: "Do you know what I would like to do with you? I would like to have you sent to the rear and shot. But as I cannot have my way, I suppose I must give you the pass." And with a stroke of the pen he completed and laughingly handed over the license for the civilian critic.

Shy and Reserved.

Born ruler of men as he is, as cool, stern, remorseless in war as he is, Lord Kitchener has also the tenderness of hearts. His cold manner is probably very largely the result of shyness, for, strange as it may seem, he is shy and reserved. He is a man who "keeps himself to himself," as the verse goes, to an extent that would be remarkable in a man of any position in any class of society. At the Service Club, of which he occasionally makes use, he is never by any chance seen in conversation with another fellow member. He lunches by himself, and after luncheon betakes himself to a corner of the smoking room, where, sitting alone, he glances through a newspaper while drinking his coffee. He will only be occupied thus for the fewest possible minutes. Then he gets up, leaves the club, and goes, as he came, alone.

But his kindness of heart, combined with duty, could frequently be shown, if one could only learn what he takes every precaution should not be told. One story is vouched for by a non-commissioned officer on Kitchener's staff who once became intoxicated, and, affected by the blazing sun, fell from his horse.

The following day the man was ordered to appear before his chief, and was fully prepared for reduction to the ranks, with probably a severe punishment in addition. To his surprise, however, Kitchener received him alone in his tent, with neither escort, witnesses nor orderlies present, and gave the man a sound talking to on the folly of taking strong drinks in a hot climate.

"This done, Kitchener went on to ask about the injuries he had sustained by his fall, and finally sent him back to his place, after making him promise never to drink again when on duty.

Before the man left the tent he made him also promise never to repeat what had passed between them. But such things will out.

Loved Peace.

Equally his disciplinarian methods are all that his popular reputation in this respect makes him appear. But stern and unrelenting though he may be in the fight, Lord "K. of K." is a man who loves peace. His kindness and consideration to the vanquished when peace was declared at Vereeniging has never been forgotten by the Boer population in South Africa. He called together the peoples of the various denominations and told them that he was desirous of celebrating the happy event. It was his wish to avoid anything that appeared like a triumph over the enemy. He therefore proposed the thanksgiving service in which both Boer and Briton could join.

The English bishop, thinking to draw the general, said that he would like to give out the hymn, "Now Thank We All Our God," and asked Kitchener what he thought about it. Without moving a muscle, Kitchener replied that he thought it a very good hymn, but that "Godward Christian Soldiers" was equally fine.

And so it happened that a great service was held in which British soldiers and the fighting farmers of the Transvaal, with their wives and children, united in thanksgiving for the blessing of peace.

Daddy, I just got to have Grape-Nuts

No wonder children are fond of Grape-Nuts food. Its crisp, attractive form and delicious barley sweetness appeal wonderfully to the child's taste.

Grape-Nuts is made of Nature's finest food grains—wheat and barley. It is ready to eat direct from the sealed packet—convenient, economical, easy to digest, richly nourishing—the most perfect cereal food ever devised.

But above all, this food makes children sturdy and helps them to get big A's in their studies. For bounding health and vitality every boy and girl should have a daily ration of Grape-Nuts with cream or good rich milk.

EARL KITCHENER.

Through the heartrending calamity of the Orkney Islands last night the empire has lost its most distinguished soldier, the cause of freedom and justice one of its truest friends and the world a great and noble figure.

Earl Kitchener will always be remembered as a vast, compelling figure in this greatest of world upheavals. To him the historian will credit perhaps the most remarkable achievement in military annals, the transformation of a peace-loving people with an inherent hatred of militarism into a nation in arms.

Only prodigious mastery of detail, inflexible determination, unwavering patience and cold, unerring judgment, could have accomplished this modern miracle. But there was another factor—a compelling personality whose influence pervaded every quarter.

But more was expected of Earl Kitchener, when the nation enthusiastically welcomed his selection as war minister, than flesh and blood could perform. There was a tendency to leave everything to him, to make Great Britain's military preparation a one-man task.

remains for Sir William Robertson to hurl it.

Earl Kitchener was not a great strategist or field leader. He was more an organizer of victory. And he was more than a soldier-organizer, his career in Egypt and India showed him to be a great statesman and administrator.

It is a sombre coincidence that last night's terrible tragedy should have followed so closely the death of Kitchener's counterpart in France, General Gallieni. Between the two there existed a striking resemblance, which extended to disposition, temperament, and even in some ways to personal appearance.

RUSSIA MOVES.

Russia has begun an important offensive between the Pripiet marshes and the Roumanian frontier, the opening stages of which have brought her thirteen thousand prisoners. Whether this blow by Russia is the beginning of a general offensive by the allies or a move to relieve the pressure upon Italy a few days will disclose.

FILLING THE GAPS.

Reports from Scandinavia yesterday stated that the German admiralty had recalled to their bases important units of the Baltic squadron which had been cruising outside the Gulf of Riga.

EVERY COUNT TRUE.

There is not a single count in Mr. Brewster's indictment of the government which we printed yesterday that has not been proved from the record. Illegality has been rampant for years in the administration of our affairs.

shown to be illegal. Moral considerations, the question of right or wrong, the doctrine which such a plea denotes, it demands in effect that Mr. Bowser be permitted to take seven million dollars of the public funds and hand them over to a railway company in utter defiance of the law or to ignore or suspend any other statute according to his own will or the political expediency of the moment.

That sturdy independent from Vancouver, Dr. McGuire, has at last reached the summit of his ambition—a place in the "business men's cabinet." We have observed of late a marked decline in the fervor of the Doctor's philistinism. He no longer makes speeches on the coal supply question convertingly criticizing the government.

Von Bethmann-Hollweg has passed from a pleading to a defiant mood. He is making a virtue of necessity. Germany, he says, no longer asks for peace. Inspired by the glorious traditions of the past, she will fight to the bitter end.

Lord Kitchener was a man of war from his youth up, and he died chief war lord of the empire he served so faithfully and successfully. Failure never was writ against anything to which he set his hand. But the fates decreed that he should not live to behold the full fruition of the greatest undertaking, probably ever assigned to any man.

Dr. McGuire made a profession of kicking and deserting, and verily he has his reward. He is now entitled for a brief space to write "Hon." before his name, being in "honorable" company. The whitewashing brigade have all been rewarded with the exception of Mr. Mackay, and doubtless he will not be overlooked in the distribution of prizes in the gift of the government.

The Kaiser dreamt about the glories of war and conquest and spoils and enlarged dominions for more than forty years. Now he is confronted with realities. The clank of the sword is not the sweet music in his ears it was in the days of army manoeuvres. He is known as "Bloody Wilhelm," and his people are hungry.

The Hon. Thomas Taylor is Minister of Public Works again. Col. R. H. Thomson, late chief engineer of Strathcona Park ($15000 per annum), will be delighted to hear it. He ought to stand a chance of getting his old job back.

The Russian roller appears to be getting steam up again. The All-Highest may be squelched if he does not get out of the way.

Evidently there is going to be more news this summer than ever there has been before. "Der Tag" is drawing near.

Constantine of Greece may be the first of the Kaiser's esteemed and faithful relatives to "get the hook."

LORD KITCHENER WAS FRIEND OF CANADIANS

Name Will Go Down in History, Says Maj.-Gen. Hughes

Ottawa, June 6.—On learning of the sinking of the cruiser Hampshire with Field Marshal Earl Kitchener on board, Maj.-Gen. Sir Sam Hughes said:

"Let us hope that it may transpire that Earl Kitchener may yet be saved. He has been a great asset to the British Empire, a worthy example of patriotic statesmanship, an inspiration to the youth and mature manhood in all lands, and in this great struggle for human liberty, a stay, a balance, a steadier of public opinion, as well as a source of confidence to the brave soldiers of the empire."

"To us above all he was a tried and true friend of Canadians, individually and as soldiers of the empire. Personally it has been my privilege long to regard the distinguished officer as a friend. He has been the model for many a soldier. His loss will be greatly felt."

"While there may have been criticisms of his policy and plans, yet his critics were possibly not so present as Earl Kitchener. From the outset he realized the seriousness of the great problem and planned for a long, tedious, bloody struggle. Whoever follows in his place must accept much of his plans."

"His great name will go down in history as unique, and if immortality ever falls to the lot of a soldier, Earl Kitchener will rank high on the honor roll of immortality."

GERMANS FORCED TO SLACKEN EFFORTS

Feeling Effect of Attempts East of Meuse; Reforming Units

Paris, June 6.—Fort Vaux, one of the northeastern defenses of Verdun, continues to be the centre of the German efforts, but the French still hold the main fort and all approaches except the northern moat, in which the Germans gained lodgment several days ago.

The Germans now are directing their efforts towards bringing up masses of reinforcements through the ravines between Vaux and Dambloup for the purpose of gradually wearing down the determined resistance of the French. Although two infantry attacks were made yesterday they lacked the intensity of the previous rushes. The conclusion is drawn by French commentators that the heavy recent losses of the Germans are compelling them to proceed less vigorously for the moment while they are reforming their scattered and decimated units.

LESS ACTIVITY ON THE BRITISH FRONT

London, June 6.—The official statement issued last night said: "There is no material change at Zillebeke. The night (Sunday) passed quietly, but to-day (Monday) there has been a good deal of shelling by both sides. The enemy made a slight night attack in this locality, but was easily repulsed. On the other parts of the front several minor surprises were

"VICTORIA'S MANHOOD FACTORY"

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

The town of Donald was on fete last Wednesday when Mr. H. E. Beasley, assistant superintendent of the C. P. R., was married to Miss Catherine Griffith, sister of Mr. J. B. Griffith, resident engineer of the company. Rev. J. C. Kemm officiated.

At the city council last evening it was decided that the mayor and aldermen should wait on Mr. Oakes, president of the Northern Pacific railway on the occasion of his approaching visit to discuss the subject of assuring railroad communication for Victoria with the mainland.

Attorney-General Davis arrived in Ottawa this morning.

ARRANGING CAMPAIGN

Two interesting points were mentioned in the civic court of revision this morning by H. M. Fullerton, who was appearing for McPherson & Fullerton Bros' agencies.

The property owners on View street paid for the extension of the street from Broad to Government at the time of the fire, and when the Central building and the Union Block building were erected with their backs to Trounce Alley, the property owners gave ten feet to widen the alley, thus the buildings are 66 feet deep, less 10 feet. The owners are now assessed for the portion thrown into Trounce Alley.

Mr. Fullerton urged that the court ought to consider the properties on View street, between Government and Broad streets, as inside lots, owing to the fact that the owners and not the city had paid for the improvement. The owners, he submitted, had themselves created the value additional as corner lots, and ought not to be assessed for them as well as pay the local improvement assessment upon the property.

He was appearing in the case of the Central block which on the assessment roll is divided between the firm named and Elliott, Maclean & Shandley. Mr. Fullerton explained that the property is really owned by the Central Block Company, and undertook to give a written statement to the assessor. It was stated, however, that until the title is so registered in the land registry office, the two names must remain on the city roll. He also transpired that the assessed value of the site is $104,800, which is the same as the Arcade building across the street for an equivalent site area.

The matter was laid over to hear Mr. Shandley, on behalf of his law firm, before any decision on the assessment is given.

The other point was one that was to be expected from the delay over the construction of the drawspan for the Rock Bay bridge. McPherson & Fullerton Bros. are interested owners at the corner of Store street and Discovery street, and have been influential in urging the council to proceed with the work.

It was pointed out this morning that the whole assessment of Store street property had depreciated by the lack of connection with Victoria West, and that the council will be forced to proceed immediately if the property is not to be confiscated by the city in the absence of any revenue for owners.

The mayor pointed out to Mr. Fullerton when he mentioned the hardships with which property owners in the district were confronted by the delay, that the city was not to blame, and that the government insistence on a draw span of 70 feet had held back progress. At length the plans for the wooden bridge were going to Ottawa for approval.

Mr. Fullerton—Almost every week we have notices in the papers that the bridge is to be reconstructed at once.

The case in question was held over till the inspection of the property at the conclusion of the court's work.

The court made more progress to-day than has been the case for some days, a number of appeals being heard.

Difficult Position Created by the Amendment of the Moratorium Law.

The effect of the moratorium extension on the holding of tax sales this year is causing considerable uncertainty in the municipalities. Allusion has already been made to the effect of the measure in a denunciation sent by the real estate exchange to the aldermen last Friday. No official action has been taken on the subject yet, but it will doubtless have to be considered carefully.

The Saanich council must advertise its sale shortly, if it is to be held at the scheduled time. Apparently the council will have to refer the matter to their solicitors, as few of the delinquent properties are entirely free from some association or other with men on active service. If the land registry record and the alleged ownership of property conflict, as is the case in many properties bought by syndicates in the time of the boom, and it is shown that soldiers have an interest in the property, the matter will become one to be straightened out by the lawyers.

The subject will be brought to the attention of the Saanich works committee by the assessor at the meeting this evening.

Rev. Hugh Ross Delivers Address in First Presbyterian Church Hall.

Rev. Hugh Ross delivered an address at last night's service at the First Presbyterian Church hall. The subject was the "Communion of the Holy Ghost," and this was explained to mean, in the first place, the fellowship that God, the Father enjoys with the eternal son, a sinless fellowship, a countless fellowship, undimmed by any misunderstanding caused by lack of knowledge, a deathless fellowship. But, further, the words were shown to mean the fellowship that may exist between the soul and God, for the apostle prays that the Communion of the Holy Ghost may be "with you all," that is, with all the members of the church at Corinth, many of whom were as yet very weak and faulty Christians. This superlative idealist, Paul, prays that the very weakest and unworthiest of them may come to experience a fellowship with God as holy and profound as the fellowship of the Father with the Son, for

ARRANGING CAMPAIGN

Clerks Advance Organization for Referendum Poll Next Week.

Wholesale and retail clerks met at the Saturday half holiday committee rooms last evening, with President James Talbot in the chair.

After the legislation had been explained to the wholesale clerks, also its effect on their present arrangements for Saturday afternoon closing, they agreed to support the movement for uniform Saturday closing advocated by the Retail Employees organization. They will also co-operate in the canvass, and secure autos for polling day next week.

The following resolution was passed: "The wholesale clerks present express their entire sympathy with the Saturday half-holiday movement, as the Wednesday interruption of business would result in serious disorganization of trade."

Another resolution was passed calling a meeting for to-night; also calling upon all retail and wholesale clerks along with sympathizers who are willing to work on the campaign committee. This meeting is to be held at 1003 Government street.

A number of very interesting letters for the prize essay competition have been received, and contestants are again advised that their efforts must be sent in not later than Wednesday next.

A number of those present expressed the opinion that a fancy costume and advertising parade should be held terminating in a mass meeting in the old Victoria theatre. It will be decided to-night if it is to be held.

Funds for the campaign are coming in steadily, and a large display of goods to demonstrate many new designs which will automatically be created by the innovation of the week-end public holiday are on show in the window. Merchants who wish to contribute to this display are invited to send in suitable goods immediately. Anyone desiring information will request prompt attention at the campaign committee room, which is open from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. each-day, or phone 4367.

MAJOR M. V. ALLEN

Capt. S. J. Redpath, who is reported among the recent casualties as wounded, practiced in Victoria for four or five years in partnership with Dr. Harper in the dental firm of Harper & Redpath. Capt. He was with the 26th Battalion for a short time after transferring from the 50th, but returned to practice later on. During the early part of last year, however, he went over to New Westminster and volunteered with the 47th Battalion, being given a commission, and leaving with that unit when it went overseas. Capt. Redpath was born in England, and had been in this country only a few years. He has a wife and several children. Dr. Harper, his partner, was navy dentist for some time at the Esquimalt station, but left some months after the war for England, where he was appointed to a similar office in the Royal navy. It is not improbable that he was on one of the ships engaged in the big fight in the North Sea last week. Major J. T. Bardolph and Major M. V. Allen, whose names appeared in the same casualty list as among the wounded, were both officers in the 2nd C. M. R., which left here just a year ago yesterday on active service.

GOSDEN WOULD NOT STOP AT POISON

Tells Jury He Would Not Hesitate at Murder if He Thought Circumstances Justified It

PRISONER GOES ON STAND IN OWN BEHALF

Has Been Mixed Up in Labor Troubles and Was Deported From United States

R. R. Gosden, who is on trial for perjury, would not hesitate to put poison in the coffee of any man if he thought the circumstances were justifiable—and, of course, the judge of the justification would be himself.

This statement was made by him just before the luncheon adjournment today, and was made with the utmost coolness. He had just been telling the jury, in answer to questions put by the crown prosecutor, that he had been mixed up in labor troubles, that he served three months in jail in Prince Rupert for intimidation, that in San Diego he had lain in jail for nine months in connection with his offences against city by-laws prohibiting riotous crowds, and that he had since been deported from the United States.

The jury was taken this morning to the post office corner where Gosden alleges he was paid money by a tall man, Matt Fraser, who claims to have been with Gosden at the time, described the respective positions of the three people who are said to have been present. There is light shed on the spot from three directions, and the corner where Fraser says he was "concealed" is so lit up from Wharf street that it would be impossible for anyone to be there and not be seen by the man to whom Gosden is said to have been speaking, while the features of the men could not help being visible clearly to Fraser, six feet away.

A new line of evidence was opened up at the outset of the day's proceeding by Mr. Moore, for the defence, as to Mr. Macdonald getting a loan of $50 from the Empress hotel on the day when Gosden alleges that he was paid that sum. Mr. Macdonald did happen to get money that day, for the reason that he had neglected to draw any before he left Vancouver owing to the previous day being a bank holiday, but he got it before 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Gosden has sworn that at 2 o'clock, when he says he met Mr. Macdonald at the post office, the latter had no money and had to make an appointment for a later hour that night in order to get some.

C. E. Courtney, law clerk of the legislative assembly, stated that it was possible for members to obtain advances on their sessional indemnities through the clerk of the legislative assembly, Thornton Fell, K. C. On Easter Tuesday Mr. Fell was away and witness was acting for him. That afternoon Mr. Macdonald asked him if it was possible to get an advance and witness said he could not.

To his lordship the witness explained that the clerk got an advance from the treasury at the opening of the session, about $10,000, and paid it out to members on his own cheque.

Mr. Justice Murphy—That is a common practice? Yes, nothing out of the way. Mr. Moresby—Hadn't Mr. Macdonald asked you if 2 o'clock would be a good time to see you about it? He may have.

Miss Allen, cashier at the Empress hotel, where Mr. and Mrs. Macdonald are guests, produced her petty cash book, which showed that she had loaned Mr. Macdonald $50 on April 25. Next day he paid $100, taking up his

I. O. U. and allowing the other $50 to go on his hotel bill. She stated that she gave the money before 2 o'clock. Mr. Moore proposed to show the jury the book, but his lordship stopped him. The book was not evidence, he said, but was only a means of assisting Miss Allen to refresh her memory.

Asked by the crown prosecutor what denominations the money was given in Miss Allen said it was probably in tens and fives and perhaps one twenty.

Matthew Fraser was again recalled for cross-examination by Mr. Moresby on a plan of the post office which he proposed to prove later on, and upon which no measurements were marked. Fraser yesterday afternoon swore that the money was paid to Gosden on Courtney street, whereas Gosden's story to the committee was that the alleged transaction took place on Government street. The point marked by Fraser as that where he stood is near Wharf street than Government street. He swore that he could not see the features of the man because the light was behind him.

Mr. Moresby—Would it surprise you to know that the light shown on this plan down towards Wharf street sheds a light on the face of a man standing at the point which you have marked as that where the man alleged to be Mr. Macdonald stood, a light so strong that you can see every feature clearly? I am talking about my own eyesight. Mr. Justice Murphy suggested that it would be useful to take the jury down for a view of the place, and this was done at once.

Fraser stationed himself in the corner of the heavy buttress which stands about half-way between the main entrance to the corner of Government and Courtney streets and the side door to the postmaster's office on Courtney street. He placed Detective Inspector Ferdue and Special Constable Brethour at the outer corner of the buttress to represent the prisoner and the tall man. They would be standing within six feet of him and he would be in the glare of the street light in front of the G. T. P. office, so that he could not have escaped observation.

On the return to the courthouse Fraser was further questioned by Mr. Moresby, and asked about his return to Victoria from Alert Bay, where he was landed after he had been recalled to town by wireless to the Leebro, to come here as a witness before the legislative committee. He went first to the office of Green & Burdick Bros., the agents for the Leebro, to find out what was wanted, and was sent to Mr. Moore. He swore that he did not see Gosden until after he had seen Mr. Moore.

Mr. Moresby, reading from Fraser's evidence, pointed out that he had sworn to the committee that he saw Gosden about half past twelve and Mr. Moore about half past two, and then that he had seen Mr. Moore first, but stuck to the time he had seen the latter as about half past two.

Fraser still swore that he had seen Mr. Moore first. To the latter he said his eyesight was not the best, because he was a marine fireman. Gosden described himself to Mr. Moore as a man who worked at anything he could get to do. In this country he had worked at longshoring, steamboating, house building, painting, odd jobs even to snow shovelling; the latter was moving garbage after the big snowstorm. In the Victoria election he had worked under John T. Scott, who had a permanent staff of eight men under him. He got out lists of longshoremen and waterfront workers, in which he was assisted by Phil Robertson. There was a list made out and afterwards he made out two lists, or two more were made at his dictation.

Mr. Moore—Did you make any other lists? I caused to be prepared the not-to-be-challenged or eleven-hour list. They were in a series of three lists for Wards Three, Four and Five.

Was it a legitimate or crooked list? Certainly a crooked list. I might say, my lord, that was the intention. Mr. Justice Murphy—And you knew it? Oh, yes.

Mr. Moore—Did you get any money to spend? Yes. When Scott asked us, Robertson and me, to get any information for him as to voters or their political complexion that cost money and it was expenses. We must have spent all of $800 between the two of us.

Was any of that for your own personal remuneration? Oh, yes.

Was there any other money you were to get? We were to get a bonus each of $100. Did you get it? No.

Did you get paid anything? I suppose we got $25 or $40 apiece after the election on account. With the bonus there was about $125 coming to each of us.

Gosden swore that he made several attempts to get his money. On the Monday after election there was some row over the not-to-be-challenged lists, and he was called on by Scott to clear this up so he could draw the money to pay them up. He went before a Liberal committee and informed it that the lists were drawn up at his idea and instructions. He did not tell the committee that Scott had instructed him about the lists. Scott introduced him and Robertson at that time to Mr. Macdonald, this being the first time he had met the member personally. The investigation did not produce the money and they kept on at Scott for it. Scott kept promising them and it seemed all right, because they had arranged to go on with the work they had been engaged in for the general election.

He and Scott came over here to see Mr. Macdonald, but he did not see the member. Scott came to see Robertson and he about the money—at that time the Annance trial was coming on and Scott was deciding in his own mind whether he should jump out or keep under cover—and sent them to a lawyer named Eyre, saying the money would come from him. There was no money from Eyre, and at another visit to Scott the latter volunteered to give them a note to Mr. Macdonald, which Robertson delivered. This stated that they were good men, had done good work, and were owed $125 each, nine weeks at $15 a week.

That night he and Grey went to Mr. Macdonald's house and he had a talk with Mr. Macdonald in the street. He asked Mr. Macdonald where he stood in regard to getting paid, explained the difficulty they were having in collecting from Scott and said they wanted the money badly. Mr. Macdonald asked what they had been doing and he answered that they were canvassing. Mr. Macdonald said he had only $15 or $16 and would need that to go to Victoria, but he would meet witness at the post office here at six o'clock next night; that he could not manage $100 apiece but would let him have $50 apiece. That was the agreement and they parted.

That night he came over here on borrowed money and in borrowed clothes, had dinner with Spencer Howland, visited the Socialist hall, went up and saw J. H. Haythornthwaite in his office for an argument, walked in Pioneer Park and round by the city hall, and arrived across the street on Government street from the post office at ten minutes to six. "Mac" came up on the other side, witness crossed over to him, "Mac" said he had made a mistake about the date—thought the previous day was Sunday—and had not gone to the bank until too late, but he thought he could get the money for him next morning.

Witness demurred and wanted the money that night. "Mac" said he might borrow some money and to call him up at a quarter to nine. After leaving "Mac" he met Tony Silvee, and from his room telephoned to "Mac," who said he had "made the connection" or something that meant he had the money.

As the prisoner had sworn in the committee that he telephoned at a quarter to nine, and other evidence showed that any message must have been very much earlier, Mr. Moore helped him out about the time. Gosden said he thought he must have made a mistake in giving his evidence before the committee; it must have been between eight o'clock and half-past eight. Tony Silvee gave him half a dollar to get dinner; he would not insult me by giving me a loan.

On Government street he met Matt Fraser and walked along to the post office. When he saw "Mac" coming he told Fraser to "beat it," and Fraser got behind a buttress. "Mac" walked along towards him and he walked to meet him. They were talking together not more than half a minute, "Mac" slipped the roll into his hand and said:

10 DAYS' OPPORTUNITY SALE RICHARDSON & STEPHENS FIT-RITE CORNER GOVERNMENT AND YATES STS. 10 DAYS' OPPORTUNITY SALE

"Here is fifty; that is the best I can do now, and I will give you the balance in a couple of weeks when I come over," and hurried away. Gosden told Mr. Moresby that he comes from the north of England, is about thirty-five years old and has been in Canada for twelve years. He has been all over Canada practically and in the States, but never took an interest in politics much till he came to British Columbia. He had never been in Nova Scotia; never to stay. He admitted, however, that he had been in Gloucester Bay, N. B., and being interested in labor was engaged in troubles there. He was in no sort of trouble directly. Mr. Moresby—Are you a Socialist? I could not truthfully say I am a Socialist; there are so many kinds of Socialists. Are you an I. W. W.? I was. Were you in any disturbance amounting to a breach of the peace in Gloucester Bay? Not so far as I am concerned. What part of the States have you been in? All parts of it from New York to San Francisco. Have you been in the States and been deported? Yes. What for? For expressing my opinions too freely. On what line? Free speech. Where was that? In San Diego. Ever been in Fort Angeles? Yes. What is their opinion of you over there? They don't know me. You got into trouble in Prince Rupert? Yes. In consequence of which you were convicted and sentenced to three months in jail? Yes. For what? Leading a strike. For intimidation, was it not? That may have been the charge. Is that the only time you have served time? That is the only time I have served time in Canada. What do you mean by the only time in Canada? Have you served time elsewhere? A man can be in prison, and not serve time. I was nine months in prison in San Diego. On what charge? Conspiracy to break a city ordinance. They arrested a lot of us on charges of breaking the city ordinance, prohibiting free speech. Apart from these cases my record criminally is clean. Clean so far as you have not been caught? Absolutely clean. You took part in troubles in Ladysmith? No. You were prepared to take part? Yes. You were prepared to lead the strikers? In one way. In what way? There is only one way. BARRISTER BRINGING MORE SAANICH CARGO

The Inbound Harrison Direct Freighter Has Waterpipe for Local Delivery

Another large shipment of iron waterpipe, comprising about 500 tons, consigned to the Saanich municipality, is aboard the Inbound Harrison Direct Line steamer Barrister, according to advices received by Balfour, Guthrie & Co.

It was expected that the Barrister would reach Victoria at the end of the present week, but owing to the strike it is impossible to forecast her arrival.

LOST HIS LIFE WHEN DEFENCE WENT DOWN

Post Captain Stanley Venn-Ellis, R. N., Was Formerly on the Esquimatt Station

Post Captain Stanley Venn-Ellis, R. N., serving aboard H. M. S. Defence, under Rear Admiral Sir Robert Arbuthnot when the British cruiser was sunk in the recent naval engagement off the Jutland coast, was among the gallant British officers lost.

When the British North Pacific squadron was stationed at Esquimatt, Capt. Venn-Ellis came here as a sub-lieutenant on H. M. S. Imperieuse, later being promoted to the rank of lieutenant and assigned to H. M. S. Phaeton.

After leaving the Esquimatt station the late Capt. Venn-Ellis was appointed to the rank of commander aboard H. M. S. Achilles.

Early in his naval career, Captain Venn-Ellis served as midshipman aboard H. M. S. Nile, and was stationed at Malta aboard this ship at the time of the memorable collision between the Camperdown and Victoria.

The late captain was cut off in his prime, being but 39 years of age. He was the son of Rev. H. Venn-Ellis, of Alderton Rectory, Woodridge, Suffolk.

WILLARD'S FIRST FIGHT IN SAPULPA

Big Jess Loses on a Foul After a Farcical Contest

Sapulpa sports were mildly interested five years ago in a boxing bout which had been arranged for their amusement by a local promoter. The Oklahoma town—which is fourteen miles southwest of Tulsa and in the oil and gas region where Sinclair accumulated the kale which helped to keep the Federal League alive. Boxing was the favorite sport, and, although the affair arranged for February 15, 1911, brought together a couple of novices, a big crowd turned out to witness the bout.

Louis Fink was one of the principals, and the reception he got proved that he was the favorite of the crowd. His opponent was a great, towering giant who was introduced as Jess Willard. It was Jess's first appearance in the ring, and it was evident that he was afflicted with a bad case of stage fright. It seemed to the young farmer that Sapulpa's masculine population had suddenly grown to a million or so, and that the whole bunch was there to see him make a bally ass of himself. Jess would doubtless have given a lot to be back on the old farm. He was so nervous that he could scarcely get his gloves on, and there was a perceptible quaking of the giant's knees when the bell rang and Jess faced his opponent.

Sapulpa sports nearly laughed themselves to death during the bout. Jess was as green as the grass of his native Pottawatomie county, and Fink wasn't much better. At times they seemed to be determined to turn the bout into a wrestling match, and the perspiring referee worked overtime prying them apart. As the affair progressed, Willard gained in confidence. He discovered that although Fink had lambasted him with blows that were the best he had in the shop, he wasn't in the least hurt. Willard had a bad cold at the time, and often he stopped to blow his nose. Fink was an obliging chap, and calmly waited until Jess had finished the ceremony. Then Willard would call out, "Come on, Lou," and they would resume fighting. If the combatants hadn't been such novices, it would have seemed like the most barefaced hippodrome, but the fans knew they were in deadly earnest, and appreciated the naive exhibition to the fullest extent.

If anybody had suggested that big Jess was the coming champion of the world, he would have got the merry ha-ha. He was disqualified for fouling in the tenth round, so his first battle was recorded as a defeat. Jess has always insisted that he was not guilty of a foul, and that the referee had it in for him. As a matter of fact, Jess probably didn't know what a foul was at that period of his career, and the referee would have been well within his rights if he had disqualified both warriors in the first minute of the first round.

At that time the fans of Sapulpa, Tulsa and other eastern Oklahoma towns were wildly excited about Carl Morris. The engineer had knocked out the old veteran, Marvin Hart, in Sapulpa only a couple of months before, and a month or so afterward Morris put old Mike Schrock to sleep in the same town. Sapulpa's looked upon Carl Morris as the coming champion, and Jess was dismissed from their minds as just an amusing rube who would soon go back to the farm and give up his ambition to become a fighter.

Jess landed only one solid blow in his first bout. That one swing knocked Fink clear out of the ring, and, if it had landed in a vulnerable spot, would have ended the argument. The result of that blow, and the fact that Fink's many punches hadn't hurt him in the least, decided Jess to keep on in the game. The following month he fought Fink again, in Oklahoma City, and knocked him out in the third.

BACK ON A VISIT.

Ed. Steele, the local semi-pro ball player, who is with the Port Angeles club this year, is in the city for a short visit. He says that ball is going good in Angeles this season, some of the best clubs in Washington having played there this year. On Saturday the Times Ducks, of Seattle, journeyed to the little city across the Sound and were sent home on the small end of a 5 to 3 score. Steele was doing the backstopping for the Ducks and was badly spiked when Reid, the Angeles first-sacker, made a dive for the plate in the third inning. Steele, who is playing short for the Washington town and holding down the lead-off position in the batting order, drove out four hits in as many times at bat, including a three-base hit.

NO PRACTICE TO-NIGHT.

Mr. Payne, secretary of the Five C's Cricket Club, wishes to announce that owing to the death of Lord Kitchener there will be no practice of that club to-night.

PITCHERS BADLY NEEDED BY MAJORS

Lack of Good Hurlers Has Been the Downfall of Many Clubs

Young man, if you wish to land a big league job, become a pitcher—a winning pitcher. Right now there is a greater dearth of reliable hurlers in the majors than ever before in baseball history, says a New York writer.

Both circuits are cluttered up with batters. But good pitchers are rare. Look over the records for the season and you will find that the derrier has been used on boxmen often so far this year than in many, many moons. The pitchers, as a whole, are not good enough to repulse the onslaught of the clouters.

A week or so ago twenty-five hurlers figured in four games. Only on rare occasions has the inaugural pitcher gone the route. Sooner or later he has met his Waterloo. And very frequently the first relief slabman has been driven to the water-shed by a fusillade of blows.

Maybe when warmer weather comes the pitchers' arms will be working better and there won't be so many knocked out of the box. But that will not nullify the indictment that the major league pitchers, collectively, do not measure up to the required standard. The greatest trouble with the Giants has been its pitching staff weakness. The New Yorkers have clubbed out close to four runs per game behind their slabmen—but the margin hasn't been enough this year. Their own pitchers usually have yielded from five to eight. The Tigers also have banded the horsehide in lusty fashion—but their foes have batted the Detroit pitchers a bit harder in many cases.

Failure of the White Sox and Yankee pitching staffs to hold the enemy in check has forced them down from the top. The Phillies have slipped in the standing of clubs because, outside of Alexander, their pitchers have been going poorly. The hurling squads of the Pirates, Cardinals and Athletics are notoriously weak—and rate where those clubs are located.

The Dodgers haven't been hitting or fielding any better than have the Giants, Phillies and Braves. But their pitchers have been going strong—and look where those Dodgers are! The Indians aren't hitting or fielding much beyond any of their rivals. But their moundmen have been breezing along at a great rate. And the Clevelanders head the Johnsonian parade!

It seems rather strange that some club does not ape the 1914 pitching scheme of George Stallings. You'll remember that he worked Rudolph, Tyler and James in order, week after week—and he won a world's championship. Stallings proved then that a pitcher can work every third day and still be a winner.

Our belief long has been that the best results come from working a star pitcher every third day. Giving most of them a longer rest "rusts" their arms. Working every third day keeps it in good shape. Some folks cling to the theory that too much work will hurt a pitcher's arm. By using the arm every third day hardly can be called too often.

It's true that the arm of James never has been the same since he helped, by his every-third-day pitching, to land world's honors for the Bostonians. But that isn't due to overwork. If it was, why then aren't the arms of Tyler and Rudolph on the blink? They worked as often—and as hard—as James. Many a youngster breaking into the majors falls because he doesn't get enough work. He needs to exercise his wing every third or fourth day—and sometimes he has to wait a week or two before he gets a chance to go in. Practice makes perfect, y'know!

Back in the old days the hurlers worked from 60 to 70 full games per season. Oftentimes they pitched five or six games in a row. Radbourne hurled something like 17 in succession. And the frequent work didn't kill the arm of the oldtimers. Are the fins of the present generation more fragile than those of the past?

CONNIE MACK'S INFIELD.

Time was when fans were inclined to ridicule the assertion that Mack possessed a $100,000 infield. Yet if you were asked to purchase that infield to-day you might find something like this: Baker, $75,000 (doubtful if he would be sold for any price); Collins, $75,000 (and Chicago fans never forgive Comiskey for the sale); McInnis, $25,000, and Barry not more than $5,000 less than McInnis. Total, $190,000, and doubtful if that money would compass the deal. That about sums up the advance of baseball as a show business.

NOT THE OLD TINY.

Time surely works wonderful changes in a pitcher. Five seasons ago "Tiny" Leonard, now with Tacoma, was the best looking bush prospect in California. In those days "Tiny" pitched for St. Mary's College and speed was his forte. He could throw a fast ball with the best of them. He finally went to Connie Mack and hurt his arm. Now "Tiny's" best effort is a dink curve that creeps up to the plate on all fours and begs piteously for mercy.

INDIANS TAKE FIRST FROM SEATTLE GIANTS

Spokane pounded Roser hard in the first innings at Spokane yesterday, scoring five times on a single, double and three-bagger, aided by a couple of bases on balls. Seattle could do nothing with Evans, and the Giants finished on the small end of a 6 to 1 score. The score:

ENTRIES COMING IN FOR BOXING BOUTS

Davies and Yeates to Meet Again in Feature Event

If the class of the entries that have been pouring in for the V. I. A. A. boxing tournament is any criterion, Billy Davies has certainly lined up an all-star card for next Thursday. The main event will be a return bout between A. Davies and stoker Teddy Yeates, and those who saw their last fight will certainly not overlook a chance to see these two boys battle again.

In addition to the main bout there will be many other feature events, the C. M. R. having entered most of the battalions' champions, while a class list has also been sent in by the Rainbow.

The entries already received are as follows: Rainbow—Stokers-Sinclair, R. Wood, out—By Evans, 3; by Rose, 4. Left on base—Seattle, 7; Spokane, 4. Time—1.53. Umpire—Bush.

CHAMPION GOLFER WILL NOT COMPETE

H. Chandler Egan, two times national amateur golf champion, several times Western champion and present Pacific Northwest amateur champion and Potlatch open champion, will not be at Spokane the last week of June to defend his Pacific Northwest title, according to advices received from Portland. Pressure of private business will keep him from his desires in this direction.

At the Tacoma championships last year, where he won the sectional title, Egan said that he hoped to take part in the Pacific Northwest fights as long as he lived in this section of country. He counted it the one golf outing in the year for him, the one vacation he felt he could take away from his big orchard duties at Medford, Ore.

Evidently the desire is strong, but other things are more important than the Spokane scraps for H. Chandler Egan. The truth of the matter is that Egan is not so busy over his orchard duties just at present. He is really up to his neck in golf, or rather, in golf course architecture.

This is what he's doing: He's supervising the construction of the new traps at the Waverley Club links, Portland; at Medford, Ore.

The two New York teams are making a great fight for the lead in both leagues and the Big City fans are supporting the clubs royally.

GOODYEAR MADE IN CANADA

GOODYEAR MADE IN CANADA

The Increased Price of Imported Tires Gives No Increase of Quality

When you buy a tire manufactured outside of Canada you pay from 40 to 50 per cent more than the consumer in the country from whence that tire came.

Yet the added cost of imported tires gives you no increase in quality—no better tire value than the consumer obtains in the home-market of the manufacturer.

In the United States many of the brands that are exported to Canada sell at a lower price than Goodyear Tires. Yet the sale of Goodyears is much greater.

By thus giving their preference to Goodyear Tires motorists of the United States have decided that Goodyear offers the greatest values even in competition with lower-priced brands.

But in Canada most of these tires sell at higher prices than Goodyears.

How much greater then, is Goodyear value in Canada!

"MADE IN CANADA"

Cuts the Cost of Goodyear Tires

"Made in Canada" brings a direct, substantial saving to every purchaser of Goodyear Tires.

Were Goodyear Tires not made in Canada they would cost you more in price.

How big that increase in price would be you can judge from the tables given here.

The Lower Price Buys the Same Goodyear Excellence

Making Goodyear Tires in Canada lowers the price—but does not lower the excellence of Goodyears. The results of Goodyear tests, Goodyear experiments, the ever-to-be maintained prestige of Goodyear internationalism, the Goodyear skill of Goodyear laboratories, combine to make Goodyear Made-in-Canada Tires give longer and more satisfactory service.

VANCOUVER ISLAND SCENERY UNEQUALLED

Tourist From St. John Enthusiastic After Trip of 13,200 Miles

That the "government of British Columbia should open up more of the country on Vancouver Island as quickly as possible by building automobile roads, because the island is one of the greatest attractions for tourists on this continent and because its year as it becomes more widely known in eastern Canada and in the United States as a place to spend the summer, is the opinion of H. P. Ross, a lawyer from St. John, N. B., who arrived in Victoria again yesterday after a trip as far north on the island as his large automobile could take him.

He made his statement after comparison with other scenic trips famous over the continent. He left New Brunswick last November, alighting the automobile to Pueblo, Colo., and from there made a tour of the southern part of this continent, spending the winter months in the south. Then he traveled to San Francisco, where he said, the winds and cold drove him out in three days. He then came north and reached Victoria last week. Yesterday he got back from the island journey, after a trip in fine weather, and left for Port Angeles later in the day. From there he will go to Portland and east to St. John. His speedometer showed 13,200 miles for his trip when he left here yesterday. He is accompanied by Mrs. Ross and their son, who has driven the car throughout the journey.

Every tourist who came here, Mr. Ross said, would be a booster for Vancouver Island. The more roads that were opened up the better would be the advantage for the island. His advice as a tourist in search of scenery was that as much of the island should be opened to the tourist as possible. It should be made a place where people could stay some time. In all the trip, he said, there was nothing to gratify the sense for beauty so much as the scenery from Central lake down. There was every advantage here for the tourist. The roads were better than most of those over which he traveled on the Pacific Highway.

Mr. Ross was particularly interested in the progress of the Canadian Highway, a project taken up vigorously by Aid. Todd with the Automobile Association. Mr. Ross said that when there was a road across Canada, similar to that on the Pacific Highway, there would be continual automobile traffic on it during the tourist season. The cross run would end on Vancouver Island, where there was better lake, brook and stream scenery than anywhere on the continent.

He complimented the island hotelmen on the comfort and fare they provide and left here a confirmed advertiser for Vancouver Island scenery.

Replied to Dr. Young - To the Editor - Will you kindly publish the following letter which I am sending to Dr. Young in reply to his letter of May 21, which appeared in your columns: H. S. Young, Esq., M. D., Chairman of the "Returned Soldiers' Commission, Victoria, B. C.

Dear Sir, - With great pleasure we acknowledge the receipt of your letter in which you express the appreciation of the returned soldiers' commission, of the spirit which actuates our proposed undertaking, and we assure you that the Women's Canadian Club heartily agree with the commission with regard to a co-operated and centralized organization in dealing with aid to the returned soldiers.

We have not at any time considered organizing a separate bureau for distributing the fund we proposed to raise; but our intention is to work in conjunction with the associations already existing. Your suggestion is a meeting being held for the purpose of bringing together the different associations which are working for the same object, we think is one of great practical value. We hope that you will carry out the suggestion.

You mention the creating of a national fund to be used in this connection. It would indeed be a splendid thing. We sincerely hope it will come to be in the near future. But such funds are not made in a day. The Patriotic Fund did not begin work until about three months after the necessity for the work arose. But the wives and children of the soldiers did not go uncare for during those three months. A local committee was quickly formed which raised a fund and did the work until the larger organization was in running order.

HIS HEART BADLY AFFECTED

"Fruit-a-lives" Soon Relieved This Dangerous Condition

"For two years, I was a victim of Acute Indigestion and Gas in The Stomach. It afterwards attacked my Heart and I had pains all over my body, so that I could hardly move around. I tried all kinds of Medicines but none of them did me any good. At last, I decided to try 'Fruit-a-lives.' I bought the first box last June, and now I am well, after using only three boxes. I recommend '

RED CROSS FUND

Oak Bay to be Visited Saturday Morning by the Rotary Club Collectors.

The Rotary Club committee met last night to consider the plan for a collection of second hand articles in Oak Bay municipality on Saturday morning next, and a report was received that full arrangements had been made. The garbage department of the municipality and the road superintendent had agreed to assist. The municipality had been divided in six districts for convenience of collection and Uplands would be taken separately and be covered by automobiles.

The undertaking is to be advertised in the municipality by hand bills and posters and on Saturday morning residents are requested to contribute when the carts come round all the old rags, bottles, boots, rop, rubber and metal that they have no use for. The proceeds will go to the Red Cross.

"I am afraid, madame," said a man who was looking for rooms, "that the house is too near the station to be pleasant." "It is a little noisy," assented the landlady, "but from the front windows one has a fine view of the people who miss their trains."

ARNOLD INSURANCE IN APPEAL COURT

New York Life and Other Companies Ask for Reversal or New Trial

The June sitting of the court of appeal opened here this morning with the full bench of four judges. Arrangements were made in settling the list for the earlier hearing of the appeal by the Westholme Lumber Company in its suit against the city of Victoria. This case will come fifth on the list, by consent of all counsel engaged in other cases. When the matter was mentioned, W. J. Taylor, K. C., said there was another appeal in connection with the same suit for the purpose of having the report of the expert assessors who sat with Mr. Justice Murphy at the trial added to the appeal book.

W. B. A. Ritchie, K. C., appearing for the city of Victoria, consented to this appeal being heard before the main trial.

Other King's counsellors who are appearing at this court are Sir Charles H. Tupper, E. S. Davis, F. J. Staurope, L. G. Phillips, V. Hodgson, E. S. Taylor, Joseph Martin and H. A. Macleuan.

The first appeal on the list was in the action of Dominion Trust Company (in liquidation) against the New York Life Company, the Mutual Life and the Sovereign Life companies. The insurance companies are the appellants, asking a reversal of the judgment, or, failing that, a new trial. The action was for the payment of insurance policies obtained by W. B. Arnold, who was manager of the Dominion Trust Company, and whose death precipitated the failure of the company. The appellants are represented by E. P. Davis, K. C., for the New York Company, and Sir Charles H. Tupper, K. C., for the other two companies. Joseph Martin, K. C., appears for the respondent-plaintiff.

Mr. Davis informed the court that there had been three actions set down for trial in the supreme court and that the chief justice had ordered them to be consolidated. The action in which the New York Company was concerned had been brought to recover $100,000 on an insurance policy written on behalf of W. B. Arnold on September 18, 1914. It was delivered early in October and the assured died on October 12. The policy contained a provision that if Arnold committed suicide within a year after the issuing of the policy he could only recover the premiums that he had paid. There were no premiums paid because he gave notes for them and they had not matured at the time of his death. It was shown at the trial that the notes had been returned to his executors and that the contract for the insurance had been rescinded.

The defence also set up suicide and that the true answers had been made in the application. These were that when making the application Arnold had answered the question whether he had any other application for insurance pending with any company or society, in the negative, whereas he had. The evidence, undisputed, had shown that on October 16 at 3 o'clock the insurance solicitor had been in Arnold's office with a physician to get the application, and that half an hour earlier the solicitor of the B. C. Life Company had got an application for $50,000 insurance which on the 19th was changed to $150,000. The New York people were waiting in the outer office while the B. C. Life men were inside and Arnold had told the latter the opposition were waiting and they had better leave by the rear elevator so as not to see them.

It was held also, Mr. Davis said, that an untrue answer had been given to the New York Company's medical officer in answering family questions in reference to the death of Mr. Arnold's father, who, he testified, had died of pneumonia after six days' illness. It has been testified, however, that he committed suicide by taking carbolic acid in a hotel on Granville street, Vancouver. Evidence had been given that he might have had pneumonia and become deranged through it and then taken the acid. The trial judge had held it possible.

Another defence set out was that it changed conditions before the policy reached him, and the insured did not notify the company, he would thereby invalidate his policy. In this connection Arnold had made other applications for insurance between the times of application and issuance of the policy. He had taken out applications for $100,000 in the Great West, $150,000 in the B. C. and $100,000 in the New York companies within three days and later made another application to the Great West for another $100,000, and later had reaffirmed the statements made in the New York application, to a second medical adviser of the company.

Mr. Davis said the appellants wanted a new trial on these grounds and because the order to consolidate the actions was improper, and on the ground of the wrongful admission of evidence. Counsel asked for an expression of the court on the manner in which supreme court judges admit evidence at trials. He said an expression would be of very great use in practice. In the trial in the lower court a witness had proceeded to tell the court how the accident that caused Mr. Arnold's death might have happened. When this suggestive evidence was opposed, the judge had replied that it might as well go on the notes as the trial judge seemed to be merely for taking evidence. Mr. Davis said it was embarrassing and there was an extra loss of practice of letting in evidence that was irrelevant in the lower court.

The chief justice remarked that the practice gave the appeal court a considerable degree of embarrassment when the trials went up to that court if the judges allow themselves to become a mere machine for taking down evidence.

The argument of the appellant was continued this afternoon.

MAY BE THRASHED OUT IN VANCOUVER

Whole Question of Constitutionality of Legislation Passed Since March 15

Vancouver, June 6.—The whole question of the constitutionality of the legislation enacted at Victoria since March 15 may be tried out in the Supreme court before Mr. Justice Morrison within the next week or so, following an intimation given this morning by H. E. Harris, of Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper's firm. In a motion which was adjourned for further argument until Monday next, Mr. Harris raised the point that the War Relief Act, protecting soldiers from actions in the civil courts, is unconstitutional.

The case before the court was an interesting one in itself, and shows the uses to which the War Relief Act may be put. It was a motion against Captain A. N. Daykin, who in civil life is head of the legal firm of Daykin, Findlay & Burnett, to charge his interest in the firm's profits with the payment of $2,500 and some $1,375 law costs arising out of the recent suit brought by Miss Bertha Kory against the directors of the Traders' Trust Company. Mr. Daykin, along with other directors of the concern, was held liable for directors' misfeasance and made liable for the return of the $2,500 to Miss Kory and for the costs of the trial. In the alternative, a charge of $180 per month until the amount is paid is being asked for.

Mr. Harris said he took the ground that the War Relief Act did not apply to protect a soldier or officer from liabilities for breaches of trust, but J. J. Thomson leave to-morrow on a political tour of the island. They will travel by motor, and at Nanaimo will be joined by H. S. Clements, M. P., Michael Manson, candidate for Comox, and A. E. Planta, candidate for Nanaimo. On Wednesday evening they will arrive at Parkville for luncheon, and speak that evening at Alberni. There Mr. Campbell will leave on an inspection trip, while the party will proceed to Qualicum beach, and thence to Cumberland and Courtenay. At the last named centre a banquet will be held.

What is that way?
Acts of violence.

You made statements in Vancouver about Mr. Bowser and poison?
I made statements to him.

About putting poison in his coffee?
No, I said if he and his government were not careful about the way they treated labor he had better be careful or it would be wise for him to have someone taste his coffee in the morning.

Thinking it over now away from the excitement of the moment, do you think you would go as far as putting poison in a man's coffee?
If any man found the circumstances were justifiable, yes. Tyrants should be handled in tyrannical way, the same as they handle others.

This afternoon the crown prosecutor is delving into the matter of the alleged blackmailing of John Fullerton and other incidents in the prisoner's career.

BOWSER GOVERNMENT IS REORGANIZED

Room is Made for Dr. McGuire and Ernest Miller; Portfolio of Finance Open

The reconstructed cabinet announced this morning is as follows:

Premier and attorney general, Hon. W. J. Bowser.

Minister of mines, Hon. Lorne A. Campbell.

Minister of public works, Hon. Thomas Taylor.

Minister of lands, Hon. William R. Ross.

Minister of agriculture, Hon. William Manson.

Minister of education and provincial secretary, Hon. Dr. G. A. McGuire.

President of the council, Hon. Ernest Miller.

Acting minister of finance, Hon. Lorne A. Campbell.

The ministry of finance will be held temporarily by Hon. Mr. Campbell till the government secures a suitable man from the city of Victoria, and will presumably continue in this position till the general election. The Times sometime ago anticipated the appointment of Dr. McGuire to a cabinet position. Mr. Manson is transferred from the ornamental post of president of the council to the department of agriculture, a portfolio created by recent statute.

Three of the ministers, the premier, the ministers of works and mines, and H. B. Thomson leave to-morrow on a political tour of the island. They will travel by motor, and at Nanaimo will be joined by H. S. Clements, M. P., Michael Manson, candidate for Comox, and A. E. Planta, candidate for Nanaimo. On Wednesday evening they will arrive at Parkville for luncheon, and speak that evening at Alberni. There Mr. Campbell will leave on an inspection trip, while the party will proceed to Qualicum beach, and thence to Cumberland and Courtenay. At the last named centre a banquet will be held.

ARTIFICIAL LIMBS FOR THE MAIMED

Wonders Are Seen at Queen Mary Hospital at Roehampton

London, June 6.—When a wounded soldier or sailor is sent to hospital nowadays the amount of patching up made possible by modern science is so wonderful that by the very nature of its success it escapes full appreciation. Thus, if one sees a fine looking young man walking round briskly with no more support than a walking stick one is not likely to realize that a short time ago he had no legs at all. An impressive number of marvels of this kind is to be found at Queen Mary hospital at Roehampton, where the fitting of artificial limbs is being accomplished on a scale that has never been known before.

Sergt. Kent, of the Fifth Wiltis, lost his legs in his country's service at the Gallipoli. Yesterday, consciously proud of his facility, he took an afternoon stroll round the grounds of the hospital, with only two walking sticks to help him. For six days he has been rehearsing how to walk—a joyful experience for a man who had contemplated a life with crutches.

In one of the limb shops yesterday disabled heroes were finding their feet with the aid of parallel bars. In order that the legs may suit them as nearly perfectly as possible, it is usual for the men to take their first steps in the practising room before the limbs are finished.

A one armed man strode along a corridor swinging the one arm—his left—as he walked. His hand was gloved, and when the fingers gripped those of the visitor they were found to be unaccountably hard. The lower part of the one arm was artificial and the opening and shutting of the hand and the delicate swing of the limb were operated by shoulder movements. Private Chapin, of the Welsh Fusiliers, is the owner of this wonderful hand, with which, among other accomplishments, he can write remarkably well.

"It was a bit of a job at first," he admitted. "You see, it's a left arm."

SIR PARTAB SINGH, AGED 71, AT FRONT

Famous Soldier of India Wishes to Die in Trenches

London, June 6.—Sir Partab Singh, the famous soldier of India, wants to die in the trenches if he has to die, and although the Indian troops have gone from France to other fighting zones, Sir Partab has returned to the western front at his own request. This veteran Indian fighter, 71 years of age, comes of the mighty Rajput warriors and since youth has followed the life of a soldier.

An Indian writer in one of the London newspapers in telling the story of Sir Partab, says:

"Thirty-eight years ago Sir Partab went to Kabul as a member of the mission that was sent there. Nineteen years later he accompanied the Mohammedan expedition as an extra aide-de-camp to Gen. Ellis. The next year he served in the same capacity with Gen. Lockhart in the Tirah campaign on the Indian Northwest frontier. While serving in the last campaign he received a wound in the hand which he hid from everybody until the general noticed it and ordered the doctor to attend to it—just in time to avoid blood poisoning.

"When the Indian troops were being sent to assist in quelling the Boxer Rebellion in China Sir Partab persuaded Lord Curzon, then viceroy and governor general of India, to let him accompany the expeditionary force, while serving in China the Maharajah learned to hate the Europeans, who went out of their way to treat him and other Indian rulers as 'coolies.'

"Sir Partab is as good an administrator as he is a soldier. His administrative genius has been demonstrated by the work he did in Jodhpur—a state more than three times the size of Belgium and with about as many inhabitants as Denmark—during his 'two terms of regency and another as prime minister of that state. His rule over Jdar, a state in the Bombay presidency, 2,600 square miles in area, extending from 1902 to 1911, also was progressive and enlightened. He voluntarily abdicated the gadi (throne) of Jdar in favor of his adopted son in order to assume the Regency of Jodhpur."

Weekly Half Holiday Act

Whereas the Legislature of the Province of British Columbia has by the "Weekly Half Holiday Act" imposed a duty on the Municipal Council of the City of Victoria to submit a vote to the Municipal Electors qualified to vote for Mayor, the following questions:

(A) Are you in favor of a weekly Wednesday half holiday?

(B) Are you in favor of a weekly Saturday half holiday?

Which vote is required to be taken on Wednesday, the 14th day of June, 1916, between the hours of 9 o'clock in the forenoon and 7 o'clock in the afternoon, the City of Victoria has resolved that the vote shall be taken by ballot, and that the votes shall be taken at the election of Mayor, the City of Victoria, qualified to vote for Mayor, be taken on the 14th day of June, 1916, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 7 p. m., of such of the City of Victoria, as are entitled to vote at an election for Mayor, to cast their vote for or against the questions quoted above and marked (A) and (B), viz.:

SCHEDULE B.

WEEKLY HALF HOLIDAY ACT.

(A) Are you in favor of a weekly Wednesday half holiday?

(B) Are you in favor of a weekly Saturday half holiday?

Place a cross (X) opposite the day you favor for half holiday.

The vote will be taken by ballot, and will be conducted in the same manner as an election for Mayor.

Of which every person is requested to take notice and to govern himself accordingly.

Given under my hand at Victoria, British Columbia, this 5th day of June, 1916.

WM. W. NOTERHOFF,
Returning Officer.

125 MILES INTO GERMAN E. AFRICA

Belgian Forces Have Moved Forward Steadily Since April 15

Hayre, June 6.—The Belgian forces operating in German East Africa have penetrated 125 miles into the enemy's territory since the middle of April, according to a statement issued by the Belgian war office. The statement says:

"At the end of May the situation of our forces in German East Africa was as follows:

"One left column rested on the river Karema. Our centre had crossed the river Anjanara, where the enemy forces were reported to have concentrated. Our right column was approaching the town of Usumbura.

"According to the statement of prisoners the enemy is demoralized by his reverses. A provisional government has been established by us in Rumanda."

MADE LIFE MEMBER

Mrs. Miller, Regent of Agnes Deans Cameron Chapter, Presented With Pin and Certificate.

The Agnes Deans Cameron Chapter, L.O.E.F., met at the Y.W.C.A. library last evening, a very important part of the proceedings being the presentation of life membership certificate and pin to Mrs. David Miller, regent of the chapter. The presentation was made by Mrs. Griffiths, regent of the Municipal Chapter, who paid a tribute to Mrs. Miller's ability and pronounced her worthy of the honor which was conferred by her chapter. It was with pleasure that she presented the well-deserved rewards.

Mrs. Miller thanked the chapter for their kindness and appreciation. A letter of regret at her inability to attend, but extending congratulations to the Agnes Deans Cameron Chapter, regent on the recognition which was being given her services by her colleagues was read from Mrs. Henry Croft, regent of the Provincial Chapter. Mrs. Hasell, Provincial Chapter secretary, was present, and spoke a few congratulatory words; and there was also present Mrs. T. W. Paterson, honorary regent of the Agnes Deans Cameron Chapter.

The meeting considered a number of business matters prior to the presentation. Three new members were elected, and it was reported that the book presented to the Y.W.C.A. library during the month was "Sweet Apple Cove." The secretary reported on Municipal Chapter work. The chapter endorsed two resolutions sent down from the Municipal Chapter with reference to a jam shower for the men at the front and another in the bidding farewell of troops leaving for the front. In the latter connection it has been decided that the L.O.E.F. as a body will go to the wharf and bid Godspeed to the men who are starting on overseas service.

Mrs. Hardie was appointed convener of the Alexandra Rose Day committee. Mrs. Miller announced a meeting to be held next Thursday in the King's Daughters' rest room when reports of the delegates to the national annual convention will be received. Mrs. Dorman reported 74 pairs of socks, 10 shirts, 3 mufflers and 2 washcloths handed in during the month.

WHEN KITCHENER WAS BUILDING HIS ARMIES

Field Marshal Lord Kitchener.

This is a picture that was taken early in 1915 when Field Marshal Kitchener was at Liverpool reviewing units of the great armies he was creating.

Mrs. Dugald Gillespie will be at home on Thursday, June 6, at "Aighwood," 1021 Moss street.

J. H. Henderson, of Johnson Bros., Vancouver, and E. Hay, of the Stevens Company, also of Vancouver, are spending some days in the city and are at the Westholme.

WILL ARRIVE TO-MORROW

Mrs. Pankhurst is to Speak at Afternoon and Evening Meetings Here.

Mrs. Pankhurst, who is to speak here twice to-morrow, will arrive at 1 o'clock to-morrow afternoon. She has just completed a short tour in the Pacific Coast states, having visited San Francisco on Friday and Saturday, and being in Portland to-day. She is traveling under the auspices of the Women's War Auxiliary, and is coming to Victoria to speak under the auspices of the war emergency committee, an organization which has done much to help women adversely affected by the war.

The first meeting at which Mrs. Pankhurst will speak will be that which is being held in her honor at the Women's Victoria Club, Campbell building. In order that teachers and others may have the opportunity of hearing her speak, the address will not take place until 4.30, after tea, which will be served at 4 o'clock. Mrs. Pankhurst's subject on this occasion will be "Women's Part in the Great War."

In the evening, at the Old Victoria theatre, Mrs. Pankhurst is to speak her subject on this occasion to be "The Ideals of National Service." The latter meeting is to commence at 8.30, and beside the chairman, H. C. Brewster, there will be on the platform Bishop Macdonald, the Very Rev. Dean Schofield, Lt.-Col. Henkler, Dr. C. T. Scott, Rev. William Stevenson, a representative of the Women's Canadian Club, and others. Regrets have been sent by the premier, who is out of the city; and by the mayor, who will be unable to attend owing to another engagement. The meeting is to be a public one, and everyone is invited.

A CAREER FULL OF WORK FOR EMPIRE

Kitchener Had Been Serving Since He Entered Engineers in 1871

Horatio Robert Kitchener, or, with his full title, Field Marshal the Rt. Hon. Earl Kitchener of Khartoum, G. C. B., G. C. M., G. C. S., G. C. I., G. C. E., was born at Cotter House, Ballylongford, County Kerry, Ireland, June 24, 1850, a son of Lieut.-Col. Kitchener, of the British army. From his father, who was an Irishman, Lord Kitchener inherited the dash and fire which characterized the typical soldier of Celtic blood, while from his English mother, who came from a Suffolk clergyman's family, he inherited coolness and persistence.

Being the son of a soldier and ambitious for a military career young Kitchener was educated at the Royal Military Academy, Woolwich. Having completed his course of training, he entered the Royal Engineers in 1871. During the first ten or eleven years of his service he was engaged in making military surveys in Palestine and Cyprus, leading a roving and exploring life in which he found a great deal of enjoyment. His longing for active work as a soldier, however, brought him, in 1882, the command of the Egyptian cavalry and thenceforth he was a man of action.

On the Nile. In 1884 he served on the staff of the British expeditionary force on the Nile, which vainly attempted to rescue Gen. Gordon at Khartoum. His promotion to brevet lieutenant colonel for his services. In 1885 he was commissioned in the delimitation of Zanzibar and, returning to Egypt in the following year, he was made commandant at Suakin, which post he held until 1888. While leading his troops at the battle of Handoub in 1888, he was seriously wounded in the face by a bullet. In the following year he was given the Cross of the Bath for his part in the action at Tokki under Gen. Grenfell. For four years he was adjutant general, and in 1892 he succeeded Sir Francis, afterwards Lord, Grenfell as Sirdar of the Egyptian army, and completed his task of reorganizing the forces of the Khedive.

Khartoum. For several years Kitchener had been preparing for the recovery of the provinces of Egypt which had been lost to the power of the Mahdi. With the capture of Dongola in 1896 his active campaign toward this end began. Advanced to the rank of major general, he completed the defeat of the Derwishes at the battle of Omdurman and captured Khartoum. After the victory of Omdurman in 1898 Kitchener was raised to the peerage as Baron Kitchener of Khartoum, and received the thanks of parliament and a grant of £30,000. It was after that battle that Kitchener found Major Marchand and a French force at Fashoda, on the White Nile. In his handling of the delicate situation thus created the sirdar showed great diplomatic ability. Early in 1899 he was appointed governor general of the Sudan.

In the autumn of that year the Boer war broke out, and after the "Black Week," with its bad results for the British troops under Gen. Buller, Lord Roberts was appointed commander-in-chief in South Africa, while Lord Kitchener was chief of staff. While engaged in maintaining lines of communication with Cape Colony Kitchener came into frequent engagements with the Boers, and on one occasion he narrowly escaped capture by Gen. De Wet, whom he later defeated. When in December, 1900, Lord Roberts returned to England, Kitchener succeeded to the position of commander-in-chief. In the negotiations culminating in the peace of Vereeniging he again gave proof of his diplomatic skill. He was advanced to the dignity of viscount, promoted to the substantive rank of general "for distinguished service," and received the thanks of parliament and a grant of £50,000.

India. In 1902 he was appointed commander-in-chief of India, and during the seven years in that capacity he proved himself thoroughly efficient in reforming and reorganizing the British and native forces. In 1909 he was promoted field marshal and succeeded the Duke of Connaught as commander-in-chief and high commissioner in the Mediterranean, after inspecting the forces of the empire, and assisting the dominions to draw up schemes of defence, Lord Kitchener declined to take up the Mediterranean command. He had charge of the military arrangements for the coronation of King George, and carried the third sword at the ceremony in the Abbey.

Nothing can ever dim the glory of the record Field Marshal Kitchener made in organizing the huge British armies during this war. Appointed war secretary on August 5, 1914, the great leader plunged into the most stupendous task that ever confronted a soldier. Silently, with absolute thoroughness, as many hours every day, Sunday and week-day alike, as his physical strength would stand, he worked, and to-day the world is able to judge of his success by the great British armies that have sprung into being. A sense of security swept the empire on the announcement that he had been made secretary for war, and the empire has found that the implicit faith it placed in Kitchener to organize for victory was not misplaced.

Lord Kitchener was unmarried and had the reputation of being a confirmed woman-hater. It was only to those closely acquainted with him that the finer qualities of his character, concealed from the public eye, were known.

BETHMANN-HOLLWEG

MADE ANOTHER SPEECH

Admitted Privations in Matter of Food Are Being Experienced

Berlin, June 6.—A profound sensation has been caused by the great speech made yesterday before the Reichstag by Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, in which he declared that any further suggestions of peace by Germany would be futile and evil. His eloquent appeal to the nation to hold on until victory was theirs and the categorical defiance he hurled at Britain were greeted with thunders of applause. At the conclusion of his speech the chancellor received a tremendous ovation, the cheering being renewed again and again. All parties joined in the ovation, with the exception of the Conservatives and the Socialist who seceded with Dr. Liebknecht.

The chancellor appealed for the unity of all parties, declaring that political lines ought to be obliterated during the prosecution of the war. The conclusion of his speech brought almost the entire House to its feet in a wild outburst of enthusiasm.

"I see the entire nation," he said, "in heroic stature fighting for its future, our sons and brothers fighting and dying side by side. There we see the same love for home in all. The sacred flame of love of home steels every heart so that they defy death and suffer death in thousands. Only a heart completely dried up can escape an affecting impression of the great primitive strength of this people. My belief in my people and my love for my people, give me a conviction firm as a rock that we shall fight and conquer as we have fought and conquered hitherto."

Hunger Devil. "Our enemies wish to let go the war to the end. We fear neither death nor devil, not even the hunger devil which they wish to send into our country. The men who fight under our arms, Verdun, who fight under Hindenburg, our proud blue-jackets, who showed Alton that rats bite, are fashioned from a bread that knows how to bear privations also. These privations are here. I admit it calmly and openly even to foreign countries, but we will bear them."

"In this fight against hunger we also will make progress. Gracious heaven allowed a good harvest this year. It will not be worse, but better than in the previous hard years. This calculation of our enemies on our economic difficulties will prove deceptive. Another of their calculations was sharply corrected by our young navy last week. This victory will not make us boastful. We know it does not mean that Britain is beaten. But it is a token of our future wherein Germany will win, for herself and also for smaller peoples, full equality of rights and lasting freedom of sea routes, now closed by Britain's sole domination."

CRITICISM OF BRITISH NAVAL OFFICERS UNJUST

London, June 6.—The admiralty, in a communication last night referring to aspersions cast by newspapers upon the professional conduct of the higher command officers in the Jutland battle, said: "It cannot be stated too clearly that as no definite report from the commander-in-chief has been published, or even read, any attempt to criticize the direction of operations must be wholly conjectural, and that such aspersions inflict grave injustice upon able and gallant officers, to whose care is confided the command of his majesty's squadrons and ships."

BRITISH FOUGHT AS PLANNED; ONLY POOR LIGHT SAVED GERMAN NAVY FROM BEING DESTROYED IN DETAIL

Vice-Admiral Beatty Handled His Battle-Cruisers in a Masterly Manner; Outflanked German Battle-Cruisers Through Superior Speed; How the Grand Fleet Worked; Comprehensive Story of the Fight Off the Coast of Jutland

London, June 6.—The Daily Chronicle publishes from the Glasgow Herald the following realistic description of the various phases of the battle of Jutland.

"The first phase—3.45 p.m., May 31.—Vice-Admiral Beatty's battle-cruisers, consisting of the Lion, Princess Royal, Queen Mary, Tiger, Infatigable, Indomitable, Invincible, Indefatigable and New Zealand, were on a southeasterly course, followed at about two miles distance by the super-dreadnought Queen Elizabeth. Four enemy light cruisers were sighted, and shortly afterwards the head of the German battle-cruiser squadron, which consisted of the new cruiser Hindenburg, the Seydlitz, Derfflinger, Lutzow, Moltke, and possibly the Salamis.

"Vice-Admiral Beatty at once began firing at a range of about 20,000 yards, which shortened to 16,000 as the fleets closed. The Germans could see the British distinctly outlined against the light yellow sky. The Germans were covered by a haze, and could be but very indistinctly made out by the British gunners. The Queen Elizabeth opened fire. One after another, as they came within range, the German battle-cruisers turned to port and drew away to about 20,000 yards.

Second Phase. "The second phase—4.40 p.m.—A destroyer screen then appeared beyond the German battle-cruisers. The whole German high seas fleet could be seen approaching on the northeastern horizon, in three divisions, coming to the support of their German battle-cruisers. The German battle-cruisers now turned right around 16 points and took their station in front of the battleships of the high seas fleet.

"Vice-Admiral Beatty, with battle-cruisers and supporting battleships, therefore, had before him the whole of the German battle fleet, and Admiral Jellicoe still was some distance away. The opposing fleets were now moving parallel to one another in opposing directions and but for master manoeuvring on the part of Vice-Admiral Beatty the British advance ships would have been cut off from Admiral Jellicoe's Grand Fleet.

Speed Counted. "In order to avoid this and at the same time to prepare the way so that Admiral Jellicoe might envelop his adversary, Vice-Admiral Beatty immediately also turned right around 16 points, so as to bring his ships parallel to the German battle-cruisers and facing in the same direction. As soon as he was around he increased to full speed in similar manner concentrated on his line. He was able to do this owing to the superior speed of the British battle-cruisers. Just before the turning point was reached the Indefatigable sank, probably as a result of striking a mine, and the Queen Mary and Invincible also were lost at the turning point where, of course, the high seas fleet concentrated its fire. A little earlier, as the German battle-cruisers were turning, the Queen Elizabeth had in similar manner concentrated her fire on the turning point, and destroyed a new German battle-cruiser believed to be the Hindenburg.

"Vice-Admiral Beatty now had got round and headed away with the loss of three ships, racing parallel to the German battle-cruisers. The Queen Elizabeth followed behind, engaged the main high seas fleet.

Third Phase. "The third phase, 5 p.m.—The Queen Elizabeth now turned short to port, 16 points, in order to follow Vice-Admiral Beatty. The Wapsite jammed her steering gear and failed to get around, and drew the fire of six of the enemy, which closed in on her. One is not surprised that the Germans claim her as a loss, since, on paper, she ought to both been lost, but as a matter of fact, though repeatedly straddled by shell fire, with water boiling up all around her, she was not seriously hit, and was able to sink one of her opponents. Her captain regained control of his vessel and brought her around and followed her consort.

"In the meantime the Barham, Valiant and Malaya turned short, so as to avoid the danger spot where the Queen Mary and Invincible had been lost, and for an hour, until Admiral Jellicoe arrived, fought a delaying action against the high seas fleet. The Wapsite joined them about 6.15 and all four ships so successfully manoeuvred in order to upset the spotting corrections of their opponent that no hits of a seriously disabling character were suffered. They had speed superior to their opponents by fully four knots, and were able to draw away from the part of the long line of German battleships which almost filled up the horizon.

"Lizitz" At Work. "At this time the Queen Elizabeth was steadily firing at the flashes of the German guns at a range which varied between 12,000 and 16,000 yards, especially against those ships which were nearest. The Germans were enveloped in mist and only smoke and flashes were visible.

By 6.45 half of the high seas fleet had been left out of range and the Queen Elizabeth was steaming fast to join hands with Admiral Jellicoe.

"Now to return to Vice-Admiral Beatty's battle-cruisers. They had succeeded in outflanking the German battle-cruisers, which therefore were obliged to turn at a full right angle to starboard to avoid being headed. Heavy fighting was renewed between the opposing battle-cruiser squadrons, during which the Derfflinger was sunk, but towards 6 o'clock the German fire slackened very considerably, showing that Vice-Admiral Beatty's battle-cruisers and the Queen Elizabeth had inflicted serious damage on their immediate opponents.

Fourth Phase. "The fourth phase—6.05 p.m.—The Grand Fleet was now in sight, coming up fast in three directions. The Queen Elizabeth and her consorts altered their course four points to starboard and drew in towards the enemy to allow Admiral Jellicoe to deploy into line. The Grand Fleet was perfectly manoeuvred, and the very difficult operation of deploying between the battle-cruisers and the Queen Elizabeth was perfectly timed. Admiral Jellicoe came to and fell in behind Vice-Admiral Beatty's battle-cruisers, and followed the damaged but still serviceable Queen Elizabeth, steamed right across the head of the German fleet.

"The first of the dreadnoughts to come into action were the Revenge and the Royal Oak, with their 15-inch guns, and the Agincourt, which fired from her seven turrets with the speed almost of a Maxim gun. The whole British fleet had not become concentrated. The ships had been perfectly manoeuvred so as to cross the "T" of the high seas fleet, and, indeed, only decent light was necessary to complete their work of destroying the Germans in detail.

"The light did improve for a few minutes and the conditions were favorable to the British fleet, which was now in line approximately north and south, across the head of the Germans. During the few minutes of good light, Admiral Jellicoe smashed up three of the German ships, but the mist came down and the visibility suddenly failed, and the defeated high seas fleet was able to draw off in ragged divisions.

Fifth Phase. "The fifth phase, night.—The Germans were followed by the British, Admiral Jellicoe on the west and Vice-Admiral Beatty on the north, and Evan Thomas, with the three Queen Elizabeths on the south. The Wapsite had been sent back to her base. During the night the British torpedo boat destroyers heavily attacked the German ships, and although they lost seriously they succeeded in sinking two of the enemy.

"Co-ordination of the units of the fleet was practically impossible to keep up, and the Germans discovered by the electric rays of their searchlights, the three Queen Elizabeths not more than 4,000 yards away. Fortunately the Germans were then able to escape between the battleships and Admiral Jellicoe, since the British were not able to fire, as their own destroyers were in the way.

As Planned. "So ended the battle of Jutland, which was fought as had been planned, and was very nearly a great success. It was spoiled by unfavorable weather conditions, especially at the critical moment, when the whole British fleet, concentrated, was engaged in crushing the head of the German line. It was an action on the part of the British big guns, except, of course, for the destroyers' work, since, at a very early stage the British big guns ceased to feel any anxiety from the German destroyers. The German small craft were rounded up by the British opponents and soon ceased to count as an organized body."

KITCHENER WAS GOING AT PETROGRAD'S REQUEST London, June 6.—Earl Kitchener was going to Russia, at the request of the Russian government. He intended to land at Archangel and visit Petrograd and probably go to the Russian front. His mission had chiefly to do with the supply of munitions for Russia.

The earl expected to be back in London for the re-opening of parliament on June 30. An official statement issued this evening says that Earl Kitchener was to have discussed important military and financial questions with Emperor Nicholas.

WILHELM'S ACTS. Amsterdam, June 6.—Kaiser Wilhelm, according to a Berlin dispatch, has promoted Vice-Admiral Scheer, commander of the German battle fleet, to be admiral. Vice-Admiral Hipper has been awarded the Order Pour le Merite. War decorations of various kinds also have been awarded officers and men who distinguished themselves in the North Sea battle.

The Kaiser laid wreaths on the graves of a number of dead buried in the garrison cemetery at Wilhelmshaven. The Kaiser and kaiserin have visited the wounded in the hospitals at Wilhelmshaven.

"Hubby" announced Mrs. Stoyler, "I'm going to town to-morrow to see the new hats." "You forget," her husband reminded her, "that to-morrow is Sunday. The shops will be closed." "Who said anything about shops?" she retorted. "I'm going to church."

Russians Continue To Win; Have Taken 25,000 Men Already

Petrograd, June 6.—The Russians continue to develop the successes won in their newly inaugurated offensive. It is reported that up to the present time they have captured 25,000 men, 17 cannon and 15 machine guns.

Amsterdam, June 6.—Dispatches from Vienna report that a violent battle has been raging during the last 24 hours on the Russian front along a sweep of 300 kilometres (about 200 miles). The correspondent describes countless waves of Russian infantry being sent into the battle.

General Brusiloff, who is believed to be in command of the Russian forces on that front, seems, according to the advice, to be following the tactics pursued by the Russians in the Carpathians, making attacks in mass in an effort to break through the hostile line.

FIGHTING STILL ON CANADIAN FRONT

Terrific Bombardment Described by a Major Who Was Wounded

London, June 6.—Major Weaver, of Edmonton; Lieutenant Drabble, of Winnipeg; Lieutenant Paton, of Calgary, all wounded in the recent fighting southeast of Ypres, are in a hospital in London and all are doing well. Major Weaver is suffering from general abrasions and shock. It was feared at first that he had sustained internal injuries, but this has proved groundless and he hopes to be back to the front in three weeks. Others in this little company of wounded have recovered sufficiently to visit friends, and some have gone to see specialists.

Fighting still continues intensely in the region where the Germans for a time wrested some ground from the Canadians, but the latest news is that nearly all the ground has been recovered. Survivors speak feelingly of the deadly tenacity with which the battalions from Western Canada held on while the enemy poured in his awful hail of high explosives.

"Nothing could possibly have remained alive in such a region," said one major, who had been forced during the hottest period to back his men. "As it was, whole companies already had been wiped out, large numbers were simply buried in debris of the trenches and dugouts where they had been crouching. The German artillery swept the region to and fro. Retirement became as hazardous as to remain."

News has come to hand of the death of several well known officers, but it is not permissible to mention the details.

SHORT COVERING HEAVY IN PIT WHEAT PRICES

Chicago, June 6.—Traders quite recently of a bullish persuasion were inclined to switch to the bull position in wheat values. News was reckoned of a kind to hinder growth in the spring crop area, Kansas reporting "too much rain." Prices gained one cent and closed inherently strong. There was considerable short covering in the market, and, broadly speaking, outside participation on the long side was not in proportion. Cash markets were up fractionally.

TO-DAY'S TRADING ON THE WINNIPEG MARKET

Winnipeg, June 6.—Wheat closed 1/8c up for July, 1/8c up for October, and 1/8c up for December; oats up 1/8c for July and 1/8c for October. The short interest in the market caused a rally, though there was no particular news to strengthen wheat. Foreign buyers were busy in the south, but little new business was reported. It was thought to be also short covering on their part. The same was true of Winnipeg. Only a few loads were worked, though exporters were good buyers around the opening. Coarasa grains were firm. Oats was higher in sympathy with wheat and on a good cash demand. In the cash market the demand for wheat was only fair, and No. 1 Northern was dull from heavy offers at 1/8c under July. The demand for oats was excellent, with offers scarce and premiums firm.

POLITICS LEADING DISCUSSION TOPIC

European News Disruptful but Traders Did Not Depress Security Issues

(By F. W. Stevenson & Co.) New York, June 6.—Aside from the instance of a few specialties, fluctuations for the most part reflected the backing and filling of room traders. News was hurtful, but was not fearfully construed, and discussions centred principally around the probable outcome of the Republican convention. The motor issues were not so excited and the coppers exhibited a dropping tendency. A narrow market may be expected for a time until political news becomes less of a factor.

CANADA COPPER WAS STRONG AT SESSION

Local List Had Varying Aspect This Morning; Rambler Dropped Three Cents

Canada Copper hardened in price, but some other issues only feigned strength in view of the restricted character of inquiry. A three cent setback in Rambler was not conducive to staunch support, so that finally the list presented a varying aspect. Lucky Jim gathered moderate interest and Snowstorm held up well, while Standard M. & D. showed a decrease in buying power and Slocan Star was quieter without having to sacrifice any part of its value.

GOSDEN CONCEIVED BLACKMAIL SCHEME

Gordon Head Farmer Threatened With Prosecution for Shooting Pheasant

STORY TOLD BY ONE, WHO DENIES ANY COMPLICITY

Further Evidence Is Put In for the Defence in the Perjury
 Case in Afternoon

The sensation which was promised in the Gosden case yesterday morning materialized in the afternoon, when a friend of the prisoner, who was one of the three men concerned in what is alleged to have been a blackmailing scheme worked on a Gordon Head farmer, told the story of that incident.

This man was Matt Fraser, who is the man whom Gosden, in his second story before the legislative committee, said was with him at the post office when he claims to have been paid fifty dollars. Fraser, Gosden and another man named Portray were digging wells for farmers at Gordon Head when a hen pheasant fell near them.

There appears to have been some conversation with John Fullerton on the part of Gosden, and the upshot of this was that they were given a cheque for twenty dollars, but this was stopped before it could be cashed by Gosden, who figures as the chief participant. It is alleged that there was a scheme concocted to lay information that Mr. Fullerton had been shooting three of them against one it looked very like a sure conviction if they carried out their threat.

At the moment Mr. Fullerton took the easiest means of preventing this by paying the men money, but in doing so he also paid them for work they had done for him and took a receipt for the whole payment. This he made out "in full for all reasonable and unreasonable claims," but Fraser objected to the word "unreasonable" being in it and it was struck out with the same pencil with which the three men signed it. Next morning Mr. Fullerton returned and demanded his money back and when he did not get it he stopped the cheque.

Fraser denied that he had any part in anything illegal in this, and was closely questioned by the judge, with the result that it was left between Gosden and Portray. The man Grey, who sometimes has gone by the name of Peterson, had nothing to do with this incident. While he was out there for a day helping the men Gosden and Fraser it does not seem to have been the day when this occurrence took place, and he is thus relieved from any suspicion of being concerned in it.

Tony Sivens, for many years in the city and a well-known railway man, told of meeting Gosden on Government street, about 6.15 on April 25, in front of the old post office, and of Gosden accompanying him to his room in the St. James hotel. Gosden noticed that there was a telephone in the room, took down the directory and looked up the Empress hotel number. Witness was out of the room for some few minutes, and heard no telephone call, but a five-cent charge has been made to him for a call from his room on that date. They left the room together about 8.15 and walked as far as the Two Jacks, he giving Gosden fifty cents to buy dinner with. They parted there and he saw no more of Gosden.

The witness was with great difficulty kept from telling what he said and what Gosden said, although repeatedly warned by the judge that this was not evidence, and one of two statements he made they were particularly cautioned by his lordship must not be considered as having been heard by them.

James Grey was recalled in regard to the receipt given Mr. Fullerton. On the receipt being examined it was found that it was signed by Gosden, Fraser and Portray, not Peterson. The witness stated that he knows Portray, but never worked with him in his life.

Mr. Moresby—Did you ever hear of him being out at Gordon Head with the others?

I heard that he was out there, but never saw him out there.

You worked out there with the others?

I was out there for a day working on a job with them.

And this was for McNaughton, a neighbor of Mr. Fullerton's?

Yes.

But you never worked for Mr. Fullerton in your life?

No.

Dean Sparrow, clerk in the St. James hotel, stated that a telephone call was charged to Mr. Sivens on April 25. This was made by a stranger between 7.15 and 7.45, not later than the latter hour. He did not recollect the number. Mr. Moore wanted to know if he had not told the committee the number, but Mr. Sparrow replied that when asked by the committee if he could not recollect the number he answered that he could not.

Mrs. E. P. Cuthbertson stated that she keeps a boarding-house in Vancouver and has as boarders Gosden, Grey and Williams. On Easter Monday he owed her $15 and that night he left for Victoria, as she understood. On his return he bought a suit of clothes and paid her the $15 from a little roll.

Mr. Moresby tried to get her conception of "a little roll," but she was rather indefinite. Gosden paid her up to April 25, and now "owes her a little." How much she does not know, and she does not know whether he has paid her anything since or not.

The witness said the three men were the only boarders she has. Gosden pays her $5 a week for room and board, "when he can," and the same indefinite contracts exist between herself and the other two men.

Mr. Moresby—Any tie between you?

No.

None whatever?

None whatever.

Have you lived here?

I had a house at Cloverdale.

Know these men then?

Yes, they boarded with me.

You kept a small boarding-house?

Yes.

Did you do anything else?

There are little booklets I sold and I have some money of my own.

What has Gosden worked at while living with you?

He has been a longshoreman and worked at the parliament buildings as a janitor.

How long have you known Gosden?

Three years.

What accommodation have you in your house?

Quite sufficient. I have three men and a companion whom I have always had.

Does this keep things going?

I had a little money of my own.

How long have you had this money?

Was I subpoenaed here to answer personalities or this perjury charge?

The witness asked.

You are here to answer any questions that are put to you, his lordship instructed her.

"I will answer questions regarding this case only from now on," said the witness.

Mr. Moresby—How long have you had this money?

Some time.

How long?

Over three years.

What money have you made out of selling books?

I cannot give you any idea. It varies. Is it a very profitable engagement?

I find it so for my small means.

To Mr. Moore she said she had had as boarders here the wife and two children of William Portray.

Matthew Fraser, marine fireman, now on the Lecho, told a story of meeting Gosden on Government street on the evening of April 25 at the post office corner, and of both walking down Courtney street. As they met, the city hall clock struck nine. In consequence of what Gosden said to him he got in behind the third butress, six or eight feet from Gosden, and a tall man came up to Gosden. While he would not swear exactly to the words the tall man said something like: "That is all I can do for you at the present time, and I will fix it up when I come down again." Gosden greeted him as "Mac." Witness and Gosden crossed to the Windsor bar and had a beer, and Gosden lent him $5.

To the crown prosecutor Fraser repeated that he was a marine fireman, but he worked at almost anything. He had known Gosden a long time and had worked with him.

Mr. Moresby—Ever do any well-digging at Gordon Head?

Yes.

Ever get a nice little piece of money out there from Mr. Fullerton?

No.

Did you sign a receipt?

For the cheque.

Did you get ten dollars with the cheque?

No.

What was the receipt for?

For money for work done.

What was the work?

Examining a well.

What were you doing out there?

Fixing wells.

Whose did you start on?

Aikens's.

Anyone else?

Evans's and McNaughton's.

Is this your signature? (showing witness a small piece of paper).

Yes.

Who struck these words out? I see it is in indelible pencil; who struck out those words there that are crossed out in indelible pencil?

I could not tell but when it was made out I objected to that.

Listen to this: "Gordon Head, B.C., January 7, 1916. We, the undersigned, have received twenty dollars ($20) in full for all reasonable claims against John Fullerton." After the word "reasonable" are the words "and unreasonable" in full for all reasonable and unreasonable claims against John Fullerton." Now, who struck out those two words that are struck out there in indelible pencil?

I didn't make the receipt out; Fullerton did.

The receipt is made out in ink?

Yes.

This receipt is signed by R. R. Gosden, William Portray and Matthew Fraser in indelible pencil?

Yes.

You objected to the words "and unreasonable"?

Yes.

Why should Fullerton put these words in?

Ask him.

I will possibly, later, but I am asking you now?

I didn't.

Have you any idea who did it?

It is just as all employers think everything is reasonable and all laborers think everything is unreasonable.

Fullerton was a working man?

I would not class him as a working man.

He is a farmer?

I would class him as a farmer and a farmer is not a working man.

You three men, Gosden, Portray and yourself, had in your possession a hen pheasant, and you went to Fullerton, Gosden did the speaking, and told him that unless he came through you were going to lay a charge of shooting out of season?

Not with me.

Which of you is it true with?

I don't know.

They might have done it?

It may have been.

That is the reason for Fullerton putting in the words "and unreasonable"?

I don't know.

But anyway the whole three of you were prepared to swear that Fullerton did shoot a hen pheasant out of season?

I don't know.

What are you prepared to swear?

I am prepared to swear now and was then that it was for work in Fullerton's well that was absolutely worth $20.

What was the hen pheasant worth?

Nothing to me.

Was there a hen pheasant there?

Certainly.

There were only three of you; which of you had the hen pheasant?

Who had the hen pheasant?

Mr. Justice Murphy—Who had the pheasant; was it Fullerton?

I don't think so.

Then that reduces it to one of the three of you; it wasn't you?

I didn't do it.

If it wasn't you then it must have been either Gosden or Portray. Which one of them was it?

I could not say for either of these two.

It must have been one or the other?

I could not say.

You say there was a hen pheasant there; you didn't have it, Fullerton didn't have it; therefore it must have been one of the others?

It must have been.

You cannot say which?

No.

Who shot it; was it dead?

When I saw it it was dead.

What were they doing with it?

What were they doing with it?

Yes.

It was lying there.

Mr. Moresby—Where was it?

Lying on the lot there, where we happened to be working.

Somebody picked it up?

I think Gosden did.

Was it necessary to take it into the house?

I don't know.

Just about that time Gosden made a trip to the house?

I could not tell you.

Did he come back and talk to you two men after the trip?

I can't tell you because I don't remember.

Where was that receipt signed?

Signed at the shack we had out there.

Fullerton came out of the shack?

Yes.

And gave you the cheque?

For twenty dollars?

Yes.

And went back into the house?

Who?

Fullerton?

He came into the shack we had.

Did he come back again?

Let me see—came back the following morning.

For what?

For the cheque.

What did he tell you?

There was going to be trouble about it.

What else?

I can't tell.

Why should there be trouble?

He said he was going to stop it.

Why should there be trouble?

I don't know.

Why should he stop it?

Why should he stop it?

Yes, why should he?

Like lots more that stop cheques.

Mr. Justice Murphy—Is that all he said?

Yes.

Mr. Moresby—Didn't he tell you he only should have given you ten dollars?

Yes, he accused us of having ten dollars that we should not.

And you told him to go to hell?

Quite possibly.

You told him you had him, that there were three of you against him, that you were three to one, and that you would stick to it that he had shot this hen pheasant out of season?

Not so far as I know.

What became of the cheque?

So far as I know it was handed to Mr. Bass, the lawyer.

Of Bass & Bullock-Webster?

Yes.

What became of it after that?

I don't know.

Did you present the cheque at the bank?

I think Gosden did.

What luck?

No luck at all.

If this cheque was for two days' work examining a well—

Excuse me, I didn't say that, I said lying around two days.

What kind of lying is that?

Lying around the premises.

Not the other kind of lying?

No.

There was nothing illegitimate about that; why didn't you go ahead and collect on the cheque?

If I gave you a cheque and stopped it what could you do?

What did you do?

Put it in the hands of a solicitor.

What did he do?

Told us we could have ten dollars and we said we wanted twenty. We told him we had no money and we dropped the matter.

Gosden attended to the business?

Yes.

You didn't.

No.

And as far as you know Portray didn't?

No, Portray went out of town.

Why didn't you get your receipt back?

I didn't see Fullerton.

When you found the cheque was stopped and you were not getting your money, why didn't you get your receipt?

That was up to the solicitor.

These words, "and unreasonable" you had strong objection to?

Most certainly.

Why?

Because any work I done wasn't unreasonable.

What became of the hen pheasant?

I don't know. Maybe Fullerton eat it.

Mr. Justice Murphy—Where did it come from in the first place?

I saw it shot.

Mr. Moresby—And you accused Fullerton of it?

No, no one was accused.

You saw it shot?

We saw it fall.

Do you want to name the man that was shooting?

I would not swear.

It was not one of you three?

We had no gun.

But you used it as a means to get money out of Fullerton?

No. Not that I am aware of. I didn't.

You qualify your answer?

I would not qualify it further.

Mr. Justice Murphy—You emphasize that you didn't. Did either of the other two do so to your knowledge?

Not to my knowledge.

Did you hear them?

No.

So far as you know no one made a claim?

The claim was about the well and him keeping us lying around.

So far as you know no one made a threat or tried to blackmail Mr. Fullerton?

Not so far as I know.

Mr. Moresby—I will give you a chance to show your mathematical power in making up an itemized bill. How did you arrive at this $20 that you say you claimed about the well?

Three dollars a day for two days.

That is eighteen dollars for the three of you. What about the rest?

Then there is two dollars for wear and tear.

Mr. Justice Murphy—What human wear and tear?

The wear and tear of the gear.

Mr. Fullerton was called forward from the body of the court where he was sitting and was identified by Fraser as the man they had been working for and from whom they received the cheque in question.

Mr. Moresby—Didn't either you, Portray or Gosden, one of you, go to the house with the hen pheasant?

Not that I know.

Mr. Justice Murphy—At all events you did not?

No.

Then one of the others must have?

I don't know; it wasn't me.

Fraser swore that the tall man at the post office was dressed in dark clothes and that he wore a bowler hat. On this point of the hat he was positive before the committee, but he now qualified that according to the outline it was a bowler hat. He admitted to Mr. Moresby that he had heard since that other people had seen Mr. MacDonald that night in a fedora hat, but he did not care; he was swearing to a bowler hat, he said.

Mr. Moresby—Don't you think it a strange thing that if Gosden told you in the Windsor bar that he had got a piece of money and expected more he never made any attempt to get more?

No.

From your evidence I gather that you have a grudge against the world so far as capital is concerned?

I would like more of it myself.

You are an I. W. W.?

I certainly am; at least I was.

And your grudge extends to the poor old farmer?

It certainly does.

The witness told Mr. Moore that they are not regular well-diggers. He claimed to have seen two men shooting pheasants one day and to have seen one fall.

Mr. Moore—It is not true that you tried to get money out of Mr. Fullerton?

Not that I am aware of.

A juror—Did you expect to get money from Gosden if he got any from the man he said he was expecting it from.

He said he was to get a bit of money and if he did he would give me a bit. Did he tell you how much he got?

He didn't say, but he said he got a bunch.

Mr. Moore intimated to the court that he had been informed of some unexpected evidence which he wanted to put in but it was not ready yet. This was all he had except that of the accused, who would be a lengthy witness. In view of this the court adjourned soon after four o'clock.

WILL COME THIS WAY
 Many Influential Americans May Be Expected, Says New York
 Capitalist.

That many influential Americans, who formerly went to Europe, will come to the Pacific Northwest this summer is the opinion of Nelson Robinson, of New York, who, with Mrs. Robinson, is making a short stay in the city. For some years Mr. Robinson has withdrawn from active business pursuits, but he has a number of interests, and among them is the Britannia mine, to which he proposes now to pay a visit.

Mr. Robinson was in France when the war broke out, being on a visit to Aix, in the Savoie district, but avoided the confusion of the early days of mobilization by using his car to motor across the country. Mr. Robinson takes a car with him on his journeys. He is most favorably impressed with Vancouver Island, and notes the great changes in Victoria since he was here a dozen years ago.

Mr. Robinson says that apart from the attractions which drew people to California in 1915, to see the expositions, there will be a stream of wealthy people of leisure who hitherto have had no knowledge of the Pacific except the resorts of Southern California. He anticipates a large movement this summer, many of whom will stay a short time at the Rocky Mountain resorts.

STREET CAR AND WOOD WAGON COLLIDE

Two Injured in Accident on Douglas Street; One Victim in Hospital

James Wilkinson, motor driver for the B. C. Electric railway, is confined to his house with a punctured vein of the left arm and his fingers injured, and a Chinaman Lum Tim, driver of a wagon, is in the Jubilee hospital with a cut and bruised head, as a result of a collision between a street car and the wagon yesterday about 5.30 p. m.

Wilkinson was in the cab of his car when the Chinaman's wagon came into contact with the street car on Douglas street, near the intersection of Caladonia avenue. The ambulance was requested from the police in a call from the freight shed of the B. C. Electric railway and on arrival at the spot the injured men were given attention. Dr. Sinclair sent Wilkinson home and the

"BRITAIN PREPARED" A MAGNIFICENT FILM

Spectacular Pictures of Grand Fleet Forms Part of Entertainment at Royal Victoria

"Britain Prepared," the wonderful film which is running at the Royal Victoria theatre each afternoon and evening this week, is no manufactured allegory of the movies or ancient history rehearsed for modern eyes by paid actors. It is an actual photograph of things which have happened and are happening every hour in this era of the great war, and shows events on sea and land, in the army, the navy, the air-service, the munitions factories, which otherwise only a few single individuals, fortified with special 'cards of admission' from the government, would be privileged to see.

The pictures made a great impression, and the absolute verity of the facts portrayed held the attention of a well-filled house. The navy pictures, which came at the last, were by far the most spectacular, and, coming so closely on the heels of the naval engagement of last Wednesday, excited the most intense interest and enthusiasm.

Recruits Wanted

A second speaker during the evening was Lt.-Col. Bruce Powley, O. C. 143rd Battalion, B. C. Bantams, who also paid a tribute to the reality of the pictures. He had been through some of his experiences shown. He had seen "it" trained from the crude raw recruit to the finished product, and there was nothing finer than that self-same finished article; anything that was said about the fine spirit of an Englishman under fire he knew to be true.

"I wonder how many of the men we have seen on the screen are still fighting," said Col. Bruce Powley. "They went into the thing with a fine spirit, a spirit which cannot be rivaled by any other nation. We want some men to come and fill the gaps of the men who have gone. We cannot see the boys out there at the front fighting without the prospect of reinforcement, who will take their places if they are knocked out. I want to see every young man in Victoria enlist."

The pictures are running all week, afternoon and evening.

COLONEL GREGORY LEAVES FOR VERNON

Accompanied by D. O. C., He Goes to Take Over Camp for Summer

Col. Stuart, D. O. C. military district No. 11, and Col. R. W. Gregory, camp commandant at Vernon, who reached Victoria yesterday, left last night for the interior. Col. Gregory, it is understood, will take over the Vernon camp at once, the first regiment now being established there. It will be two weeks before the whole 5,000 mainland troops are located there.

Recruits are needed at once by the Royal Canadian Regiment. Captain Tweedie announces that they will be sent overseas within one month, and will be attested on the usual C. E. F. basis and not on the three years basis of the permanent force. Recruits can apply at Troncau alley and Broad street.

TO COLLECT DATA ON TELEPHONE TOLLS

Legislative Committee of the Council Will Take Up Matter

The city council last evening referred to its legislative committee the two resolutions passed by the executive of the Union of B. C. Municipalities at the meeting last week. These resolutions are sent to all B. C. municipalities by the executive to secure data on the telephone toll situation, in view of the sitting of the board of railway commissioners in Victoria on June 28, when the executive proposes to submit a statement on the matter of tolls before the expiry of the date for filing the schedule, as set out in the new Dominion charter.

The mayor explained the situation fully.

Alderman McNeill asked if it was the intention to submit the executive's case before the company's case had been disclosed?

Alderman Bell also inquired if the work of the committee was to be limited to collect information merely about Victoria, or should it be general?

The mayor said all available data would be gathered. It was necessary to get the data in by the date mentioned above.

HOW THIN PEOPLE CAN PUT ON FLESH

Thin men and women—that big, hearty, filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-protein nutriment it contained? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like a submarine through an open grate. The material was there, but your food doesn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly eat enough nutriment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is the truth of the world over. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilation, are probably saddy out of gear and need reconstruction.

DOES THIS MEAN YOU?

Are you one of the many who are suffering with eczema, obstinate sores, ulcers or any other skin trouble? If so, lose no time in trying Zam-Buk, and you will be amazed at its curative powers.

The healing power of any ointment is in proportion to its medicinal ingredients. Ordinary ointments being composed chiefly of animal fats, with only a small percentage of medicinal ingredients, have not sufficient healing power to overcome a bad case of skin trouble. Zam-Buk, on the contrary, is purely herbal, and is all medicine, which explains its superiority over other ointments, and its many marvellous cures.

Besides being best for eczema, ulcers, and skin diseases of all kinds, it is equally good for blood-poisoning, piles, burns, cuts, head rashes, sore and blistered feet, insect bites and sunburn. 50c. box all druggists, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Send 1c. stamp for postage on free trial box.

RUSHING OF MEASURE CRITICIZED SHARPLY

Alderman Todd Refers to Method of Passing Half-Holiday Act

The formal motion fixing the date for the referendum on the weekly half holiday went through city council last evening. The vote of the electors will be taken to-morrow week at the Pottery building.

The premier formally acknowledged receipt of a copy of the resolution sent by the city council with regard to an uniform half holiday in Victoria and district, but said it came to hand after the passage of the act.

Alderman Todd, in moving that the communication should be received and filed, said in part: "It is to be regretted that legislation on an important matter of this kind should be rushed through in the way this legislation was rushed through the House, and that public bodies who might be expected to be interested in the matter were not given an opportunity to express opinions on the bill. Further, in connection with the resolution which was passed by the council last week, this resolution was passed at the earliest possible moment after the contents of the bill were made public, and both newspapers gave the wording in full prior to the council meeting. Notwithstanding four city members, who are supposed to be looking after the interests of Victoria, the bill was permitted to go through the House without inclusion of our representations. It is a matter to be regretted that the city members did not take notice of what this council proposed to ask, and a moment's reflection would have convinced them that it was something that would have pleased not only those who favor the half holiday, but also those who opposed the matter."

The resolution passed without further comment.

TO CONSIDER AGREEMENT

New Bridge Scheme, Involving Increase of Contribution, Will Be Examined on Thursday.

A special meeting of the city council will be held on Thursday evening to consider the agreement, as re-drafted by the civic harbor committee, with the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway Company. The principal change in that already approved by the company, but not signed on account of reasons which have already been explained, is a request for the sum of $150,000 in place of $20,000 offered as the company's contribution.

This sum is set because it is the amount claimed to be involved by the added strengthening between an ordinary highway bridge and one for railway traffic. Further provision is made for paying the Cormorant street approach to the proposed bridge, which was not provided for in the former draft agreement. Opportunity to cancel the agreement at a five years' no-

ESQUIMALT COUNCIL WANTS JITNEY BOND

Cars Plying Regularly in the Municipality Must Be Licensed

The Esquimalt council last night passed the jitney by-law in its re-drafted state, and from July 1 all jitney car men operating in the municipal bounds will require to have licenses for their cars and drivers and to provide a bond for $5,000. The council was unanimous, having given the by-law consideration in committee a week ago.

The Esquimalt by-law also requires that jitney men plying in that municipality shall have plates attached to their cars stating the number of passengers for which the car is licensed. This must be placed in a conspicuous place. The license fees are $3 annually for the car and $3 annually for the driver. The bonding is to the extent of $100 for legally established personal claims and $5,000 for collective claims.

There is a clause in the by-law which exempts automobile drivers who are called out of the city on hire trips and do not regularly ply for hire within the municipality.

The council received a letter of inquiry from J. L. Foster, of Saskatoon, in reference to the possibilities at Esquimalt for a company that might be formed to establish a shipyard there. The council will send Mr. Foster full information as to the advantages of Esquimalt harbor for shipbuilding purposes.

Things had certainly looked black for the very young lieutenant when his colonel discovered him in sweet communion with his daughter. What could he say when he was summoned to explain himself? As a general rule, men are helpless as babes when in love, but not so our lover. He was made of sterner stuff than to knuckle under. "Have you any explanation to offer for you conduct?" the colonel demanded sternly. "Sir," answered our hero, bringing his hand up to a smart salute, "I have the honor to report to engagement at close quarters, in which I have been entirely victorious. It now only remains for you to give consent to the terms of surrender!" He carried the day.

"But, mamma! I am grown up. When may I wear short dresses?"—Pilegende Blatter.
