Report of the School Committee

To the Voters of the Town of Middleton:

Middleton, Mass., February 10, 1915.

The School Committee is pleased to be able to report that the Middleton Schools are in the same good condition as they have been in for some years. The same high standard is being steadily maintained and Superintendent and Teachers are working harmoniously and effectively with this end constantly in view.

A table showing the enrollment and attendance, statistics and other information will be found in the report of the Superintendent which is submitted herewith.

Superintendent

Mr. Harvey R. Williams, the district Superintendent, continues to give the same painstaking and efficient effort which has always marked him as a valuable officer and has contributed in large measure to the high standard of our schools.

Teachers

Early in 1914, Miss Richardson having retired from the position of teacher of the third and fourth grades, Miss Frances C. Hinckley of Beverly, was chosen to fill the vacancy and has given most satisfactory work.

A new supervisor of drawing, Miss Paula L. Clough, was chosen at the opening of the school year in September, 1914 in place of Miss Beatrice Randall who resigned to accept a position at the State Normal School in Salem. The new drawing supervisor seems to be fully equal to her task and the committee feel that they were fortunate in their choice.

Miss B. Gertrude Hayward was chosen sewing teacher in the Fall of 1914 and has given great satisfaction. She is a Middleton woman and her good work must be a source of gratification to her fellow town's people.

Miss Manning, as Principal and teacher of the seventh and eighth grades, Miss Knight, teacher of the fifth and sixth grades, Miss Henderson, teacher of the first and second grade and Mrs. Kimball, teacher of music, have all continued to serve in their respective capacities to the satisfaction of the Committee and the benefit of the school.

School Savings Bank

In January 1915, pursuant to a vote of the Committee, a School Savings Bank was started in the school. This is a thing which is more or less common in the schools of cities and large towns and is considered a most desirable adjunct of the schools.

The object is to teach the children thrift by giving them the opportunity to make weekly savings of small amounts if they so desire. The work of keeping the accounts is done largely by the pupils of the eighth grade, under supervision of the teachers, which adds an educational feature to the matter which is in every way desirable and beneficial. The system is approved and recommended by the Bank Commissioner. Each child, when he makes his first deposit, is furnished with a card showing credit for the amount he puts in the bank and all subsequent deposits and withdrawals are likewise entered thereon. A ledger account is kept at the school with each child who opens an account. The money is deposited in a regular Savings Bank in the name of the school. At stated times the accounts of such children as have saved to the amount of a dollar or more are transferred to accounts in the regular Savings Bank and regular Bank Books are issued to them. They may continue to deposit in the school bank and their savings will be transferred as above indicated, whenever they have again reached the prescribed amount, and added to the Bank Account which they already have.

This School Savings Bank entails no expense whatever on the Town as all the necessary stationery and blank forms are provided by the Bank. The money of the Middleton School is deposited in the Salem Savings Bank which conducts similar banks in the public and parochial schools of Salem.

School Building and Grounds

The School Building is in need of some repairs on account of a defect which has developed in the gutters and conductors which has allowed rain water at times to leak down into the interior of the building which would in time cause damage.

The system of disposal of sewage has given considerable trouble by the occasional overflowing of the cess pool. This, if allowed to continue, might become a serious menace to the health of the children and the Committee is considering some changes which will overcome the difficulty.

Before long there will have to be new seats in one of the school rooms.

The foregoing matters have led the Committee to ask for a somewhat larger sum from the Town than they have had in some previous years but it is felt the people of Middleton desire that their children be provided with proper accommodations and their health and safety in every way protected.

The Committee, in closing, would again express its appreciation of the good work of the Superintendent and Teachers in maintaining the already high standard of the Middleton Schools.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANK S. PERKINS
GEORGE W. EWING
ANSEL P. TYLER

School Committee.

Superintendent's Report

To the School Committee:

Gentlemen:

I have the honor to submit herewith my fifth annual report of the Middleton Schools.

As one sits down to the task of writing the annual report, he is confronted with the inconsistencies arising from trying to make such a report in the middle of the school year. The data at hand are largely for the year which closed six months ago and which is now of only passing interest to most people.

Changes in teachers usually occur during the summer vacation and at this time the new ones have not had time to show results that can be passed upon with any degree of fairness to them or to ourselves.

A school report made in June or after the school year had closed could cover the work of one unbroken year, and one making such a report would be justified in tabulating and commenting upon the results of such work. Combined with a report made in the summer could be a manual of the school department, giving much information that would be of value to parents and teachers throughout the year following. I believe this plan is worthy of serious consideration.

There were but two changes of teachers at the opening of present year. Miss Fannie C. Hinckley of Beverly, was secured for the third and fourth grades and Miss Paula Lang Clough of Greenwood, Mass., was elected drawing supervisor.

These teachers entered heartily into the spirit of the Middleton school and have already given evidence that we were fortunate in securing their services.

Concerning the work the school is doing in the "practical arts," woodworking, sewing, basketry, etc., I have but to call attention to other parts of this report, the report of the principal and the lists of prizes from the Topsfield Fair, awards in penmanship, etc.

In the interest of the health of the children, especially the care of the eyes, and on account of the increasing activities of the school, requiring much better accommodations than are now possible, I believe that the town should very soon give attention to some plan for improving the school building. According to the accepted standards of lighting school rooms, not one of the rooms in this building is lighted as it should be. They either have cross light, or the light comes directly opposite from what it should. In both of the rear rooms, in spite of what has been done to improve conditions, the light is insufficient in clear weather and it is almost intolerable on dark, cloudy days. This must result in many headaches for the children and the premature necessity for wearing glasses. Again, with the interest shown by the boys and girls in manual work, it would seem advisable that they have some place other than a small hallway in which to carry on such work.

We should like very much to have in the schools cooking for the girls, but it is out of the question until some place is provided for the work. All these activities are very valuable in connecting the school with the home by giving the boys and girls opportunity to apply regular school work in the activities of the home and of the community.

The opportunities for this school to increase its efficiency for the boys and girls, and for the community as a whole, depend upon conditions that make for good health, and upon the chance it is given to enlarge upon the scope of work it is now doing so well.

It is in the interest of the children that these suggestions are made for future consideration.

Following are the special reports which are approved and offered as a part of this report.

In closing, I wish to record my sincere appreciation of the hearty co-operation of all who have been connected with the schools either directly or indirectly.

Respectfully submitted,

HARVEY R. WILLIAMS.

Superintendent of Schools.

January 19, 1915.

Principal's Report

Mr. Harvey R. Williams.

My dear Mr. Williams :

As you requested, I have reviewed and outlined the manual work during the four years since its establishment.

In the beginning the most elementary work, both in sawing and whittling, was done by the pupils of the last four grades. All the needed tools and materials were furnished by the pupils.

The following year, the work was broadened along all lines. More constructive work was accomplished by the boys of Grades VII and VIII because they had been supplied with tools. The enthusiasm and industry of the classes have made possible the successful results.

Last year for the first time, the girls were aided in sewing by a teacher who was devoting all her time to that subject, and the results were noticeably much improved; but according to that plan, they had a lesson of one hour, only every two weeks. This was found to be inadequate for the best results. This year we are fortunate in having Miss Hayward with us for a two hour lesson every two weeks, and both teachers and pupils thoroughly appreciate the advantage.

This leaves the room teachers their entire time for the boys' manual work, and this arrangement is most satisfactory to all.

Whittling is begun in Grade V and the boys' beginning with the most simple problems, work on to those completed in Grade VI, where original designs are used in many models.

Originality in plan and design, and tool work form the basis of the course in Grade VII, although much time is spent with the sloyd knives and coping-saws. In Grade VIII, the problems planned have been, first, practical, and second, constructive. Some plans have been original, and some adapted from working drawings of others.

As a rule the smaller models are purchased by the makers, but the larger ones are left in the building.

At present we have there, a dictionary stand, book-cases, umbrella stands, book-shelf, and table.

In addition to this, the girls have accomplished splendid results in basketry, which have been taught for one hour on alternate weeks.

In answer to the question, "Does not the regular work suffer?" I wish to say the impetus, gained by this change in routine, more than counteracts the time devoted to it.

Respectfully yours,

C. Alice Manning.

Report of the Music Teacher

Topsfield, Mass., January 9, 1915

To the Superintendent of Schools, Middleton, Mass.

Dear Sir :

I am glad to report that the results of the year's work are gratifying. The course of study has been continued along the same lines as before. Two part songs are sung in the third and fourth grade. The Grammar grades have done splendid work in sight reading : at all times our aim is for good tone quality.

Folk dances and singing games are used in the lower grades, and with good results. They help as physical culture, and develop a grace of pose and gesture. They represent and give to us much of tradition and lore of all ages.

I have worked hard to create, in the pupils who have come under my charge, an attitude toward music, which considers it not so much an accomplishment to be mastered, as something to be attained for the pleasure there is in it. I have always held that the Supervisor could make the study of music a compulsion or a pleasure.

Interest and enthusiam seem to continue in all the grades which is helpful to all.

I believe there is no study in the school curriculum that has a greater influence on the moral character of a child, than music. So I believe a love for the best in music should be created in the schools.

It is encouraging to pupils and teachers to have parents and friends visit the music classes.

I hope the course in music will give the pupils a lasting knowledge and love of good music that will prove its success in the community. In the church choir, in the public day celebrations, in the fostering of patriotism by singing our National songs; and in many ways that reflect the early training. Written work is given and proves helpful.

We are glad of the new books for use in the fifth and sixth grades, as supplementary work.

Spencer says: "Music ranks as the highest of the fine art, as the one which more than any other ministers to the human welfare."

I wish to express my appreciation to the Superintendent and School Committee for their counsel and support, and to thank the teachers for their co-operation.

Respectfully submitted,

GENIE FULLER KIMBALL,

Supervisor of music.

Report of the Drawing Teacher

To Mr. Harvey R. Williams, Supt. of Schools:

I herewith submit my first annual report as teacher of Drawing for the Town of Middleton.

It is a well known fact that a change of special instructors is always a trying time not only for the teachers but also for the scholars: as a new line of work and entirely different methods of presenting the subject are often introduced. However it is a pleasure for me to say that we learned very quickly to work together with interest and enthusiasm.

Perhaps it would be well to state in the beginning just what we wish to do for the children. Drawing in the elementary schools is to be considered from the utilitarian point of view rather than from the aesthetic standpoint. It is our desire to develop the children in perception, powers of reasoning, muscular reaction and appreciation of the beautiful, and above all to help them to reason and act independently. We try to keep this last thought in mind constantly, so as not to err in pushing the workmanship to a high standard for results only. Where this is done children may execute very excellent work while under the guidance of the teacher, but when left to themselves, realize that they are unable to go on, and often those words, which are so dangerous to the spirit of the school-room, "I can't" are heard.

Outlines have been provided every month for the teachers. This does not mean that a rigid, stereotyped course has been planned out for all the various schools, but it is used in order that the four topics under the subject of Drawing may be given due amount of time during the year, and also that the work may be carefully graded. In many cases the lessons have been varied to meet the special requirements of the different schools.

The work has been divided into representation, which includes object and nature drawing, design, including color theory and printing, construction and constructive drawing and picture appreciation. In design we have tried to arouse a feeling of order and neatness and to stimulate an interest in improving the common objects and surroundings of their daily life. All the work given has been practical and every design has been studied for its adaption and application to specific objects.

In construction work accuracy and constructive planning are emphasized throughout the lessons. We are about to start on vellum work and elementary book binding. This will be a very important subject, for if the children become interested in recovering and repairing books, they will be better acquainted with the proper care and use of books. Wherever possible drawing should be correlated with the other school subjects, so that its need and use may be realized by the children.

I wish to take this opportunity to thank the teachers for the hearty co-operation and interest, which they have shown in the work.

Respectfully submitted,

PAULA LANG CLOUGH.
