TRAINED WORKERS NEEDED

The Civil Service Commission authorizes the following:
How many of us realize what would become of our forces in France if the organization at home for producing the material of war should fail? Charging armies and thundering battleships are easy to visualize, but not so easy to accomplish. There can be no going "over the top," no paralyzing broadsides, unless, to sustain the blow, there is material in abundance to back up the human effort.

Right now the civilian branches of the Army and Navy are in urgent need of thousands of highly trained workers, and before this year passes these branches must be increased by at least 20,000. The Ordnance Department of the Army needs great numbers of men who are trained as mechanical engineers, mechanical and other kinds of draftsmen, chemists, metallurgists, and the like.

Literally thousands of inspectors are also wanted for the work of passing upon the quality of everything conceivable in the way of ordnance, ammunition, and other munitions. For office work the Ordnance Department wants a great many statisticians, accountants, experts, and assistants in business administration, and clerks trained in special lines, such as clerks qualified in business administration, index and catalogue clerks, and clerks qualified in statistics or accounting. The Quartermaster Corps of the Army is in need of several thousand examiners and inspectors of everything that enters into the personal and camp equipment of the soldier. Passenger and freight rate clerks are also wanted in this branch. The Signal Corps of the Army is short of aeronautical mechanical draftsmen. The Navy has an unlimited number of places for draftsmen of various kinds and for a long list of technical workers. Practically all branches of the service are in need of stenographers, typists, bookkeepers, statistical clerks, multigraph operators, and calculating-machine operators.

The United States Civil Service Commission, whose duty it is to fill these civilian positions, urges, as a patriotic duty, that qualified persons offer their services for this work, work vital to pushing the war. Good salaries are offered, and the work is all in the United States. With the exception of a few of the clerical positions, applicants will not be assembled for written examinations, but will be rated upon their education, training, and experience, as shown in their applications, supplemented by corroborative evidence. Representatives of the Civil Service Commission at the post offices in all cities are prepared to furnish definite information and application blanks.

A MOVING TIME

(By Samuel Parker)

When May-day approaches it should bring near unmeasured delights of sunshine and cheer. The air should be balmy and sweet the song heard from lip of mortal or throat of bird. But alas, alas, the song runneth away at the mere mention of moving day. Is there word in the book that puts man on the rack or sends the ague to his back, or more quickly cools the embers of love, than that dreadful word, "We've got to move"? Now Brown had been careless, for well he knew this one thing he must surely do—that lease on its face says so sign up for a year or out you go. And out they went on that old route. Brown as a slacker had lost out. He might argue, his wife might scold, but on the first of May they were out in the cold. Hurrah, hurrah, cried Madam Brown, today I found in the north town a cottage new and clean, much better than this we are in. So early tomorrow get a truck to convey our belongings and we will away. Brown found it not easy to find a dray and the price fairly took his breath away. Brown's goods in the house looked so tidy and neat, but seemed struck by a blizzard when piled on sidewalk and street. Nor was it by good order struck when piled and stacked and roped on the truck. While top of all was the portrait of Brown, mere accident it was upside down. But the neighborhood kids made merry and said, "Say, that's the guy that moved in on his head." Meanwhile the smile clings to the maid's face o'er the way. With her it is not moving day.

RED CROSS LIFE INSURANCE

The American Red Cross has arranged for the furnishing of life, health, and accident insurance to its own workers abroad who are not eligible for the benefits of Government war-risk insurance.

All foreign workers are to be given free of cost and without medical examination, $1,000 life insurance on the term plan payable, in event of death or at the end of two years, in event of total and permanent disability and also, accident and health insurance providing for weekly indemnity payment in case of disability from sickness or injury.

All foreign workers are also to have the privilege of buying additional life insurance on the ordinary life plan with medical examination, up to a total of $5,000 including the $1,000 above mentioned. The worker will pay the regular normal premium on same and the American Red Cross will assume the extra war-risk premium so that the worker is thus enabled to procure this insurance as if he were at home engaged in ordinary occupations.
