ONE KILLED IN POLISH RIOTS

Warsaw, July 19.—Rioting in which one person was killed and twenty-six were wounded followed yesterday's widespread strike, called on account of the increasing cost of living.

The trouble was most serious at Lodz, where 70,000 employees in the textile mills were at work. The Communists organized a mass meeting, which the police ordered to disperse because of its alleged anti-government character.

Fighting also took place at Czeszowa. One workman was wounded by a police bullet.

GIRLS WHO PAINTED HOUSES NOW DREAM OF ART CAREERS

Two young girls are giving New Jersey artists a lesson in versatility. Although only sixteen and seventeen respectively, Muriel Horne and Flora Rose paint anything from canvas to flat-sole shoes.

To keep in trim for their outside work, these painters engage in athletics, running, jumping and playing leapfrog.

It steadies the nerve as well as the hand," they say. "Their painting careers started accidentally some years ago. They lived next door to each other; and each did pretty much what the other did."

One day Flora found a brush and some paint and began decorating the outside of her home. Muriel followed suit. They painted pictures and spruced up the walls.

Both have been graduated from the city's Fawcett School of Art, and expect to continue their studies in Pratt Institute.

"We are going to study as long as we can," says Flora, perched on a rafter high above the ground. "And when we finish, we'll show the world."

"Sure thing," chimed in Muriel. "We'll do big things. This house painting is not in our line, but we do it for the experience, novelty and air it affords."

WORLD ORANGE COUNCIL MEETS

Convention in Winnipeg Addressed By Rev. David Ness

Winnipeg, July 20.—(Canadian Press)—With the accustomed pomp and ceremony, the 18th triennial convention of the Imperial Grand Orange Council of the World opened this morning, with Rev. David Ness, M. A., of Glasgow, Scotland, presiding.

Frederick Dane, of Toronto, Imperial Grand Vice-President, will be elected to succeed Rev. David Ness as president, while it is expected T. R. Lavery, M. P., of Newmarket, Ireland, probably will be the choice of the convention to succeed Mr. Dane.

Between 400 and 500 Orangemen were in attendance at the opening session this morning.

Winnipeg, July 20.—(Canadian Press)—Passage of a resolution by the Imperial Grand Orange Council of the World appealing to the British Government immediately to withdraw the British envoy to the Vatican, "as diplomatic relations with the Pope are an infringement of the Protestant constitution and a grave menace to the welfare of the British Empire," was appealed for by Rev. David Ness, of White Inch, Glasgow, Scotland, in his address as Imperial Grand President at the opening session of the eighteenth triennial convention of the Imperial Council this afternoon.

It was a gross violation of the Protestant bill of rights for the King to visit the Pope, he declared. It was unconstitutional for the King of this Protestant nation to visit the greatest enemy of the British Empire, "as diplomatic relations with the Pope are an infringement of the Protestant constitution and a grave menace to the welfare of the British Empire," was appealed for by Rev. David Ness, of White Inch, Glasgow, Scotland, in his address as Imperial Grand President at the opening session of the eighteenth triennial convention of the Imperial Council this afternoon.

Declared a Menace Mr. Ness said the Orangemen profoundly deplored the existence and growth of proletarian Sunday schools "which by their teaching of sedition and revolution and their hostility to the church and Christianity, are fast becoming a menace to the security and stability of the democratic constitution of the country, as well as our home life, moral standards and national character."

Irish Free State "Since the Council met in Belfast in 1920," said Dr. Ness, "much has happened in Ireland. Numerous crimes have been perpetrated in the Free State, resulting in many women, men and children being killed or wounded and property destroyed."

"Statistics of the membership of the various churches reveal how steady the decline is," he said. "The majority of those who have left have gone overseas or to Great Britain or Northern Ireland with heavy hearts and with a feeling that they were deserted in cowardly fashion by the British Government. One result of the infamous treaty will in the end be the practical extermination of Protestantism in the Free State. The whole atmosphere tends that way."

Ulster "The complete tranquility which now reigns throughout the Northern State allows no doubt as to the ability and competence of the local counties to administer their own affairs, or as to their determination, under present conditions, to remain independent of their southern neighbors," said the Imperial Grand President.

HENDRIE FUNERAL Hamilton, Ont., July 20.—To the roll of muffled drums, the bugle notes of the Last Post and the wailing of a firing party, Sir John Hendrie, K. C. M. G., C. V. O. formerly Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario and ex-mayor of Hamilton, was laid to rest in a soldier's grave at Hamilton this afternoon. The funeral service was held at Strathearn, Sir John's former home.

Colonel Fotheringham represented Governor-General Lord Byng at the funeral. The chief mourners were Sir John's son, Major John Hendrie, and his brothers, Colonel William Hendrie, Hamilton, and G. M. Hendrie.

"We are going to study as long as we can," says Flora, perched on a rafter high above the ground. "And when we finish, we'll show the world."

"Sure thing," chimed in Muriel. "We'll do big things. This house painting is not in our line, but we do it for the experience, novelty and air it affords."

1924 Convention in Sault Ste. Marie

Winnipeg, July 20.—(Canadian Press)—Finishing its business in record time and with a unanimity never equalled in the annals of the Order, the Grand Orange Lodge of British America concluded its sessions last night by re-electing all the principal officers of the institution by acclamation and selecting Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, as the place of meeting of the ninety-fourth convention of the Grand Lodge. The Ontario city's convention, though both Vancouver and Halifax were expected to put bids for the 1924 gathering.

Endowment Fund.
The raising of an endowment along the lines suggested at the 1922 convention will be proceeded with immediately by the Grand Lodge. It was decided at yesterday afternoon's session. This fund, when raised, will be placed in trust, H. C. Hocken, M. P., Toronto, informed the representatives, and only the interest will be used for charitable and educational purposes of the institution, the principal remaining untouched.

The proposal of the endowment committee was approved by the representatives in attendance, and instructions to go ahead with the project with the assurance that no collection would be made by the Grand Lodge for the next three years.

As a result of the speed with which the Grand Lodge concluded its deliberations, the way was clear for the opening of the 18th triennial convention of the Imperial Grand Orange Council of the world this morning.

Two distinguished visitors from the Motherland arrived in Winnipeg last evening in the persons of Rev. T. J. Williams-Fisher, of Birmingham, England; Grand Master of the Midland Province, and Grand Arch Chaplain of England, and David Catt, London, Grand Master of England.

Officers Elected.
The following are the officers elected at the closing session of the Grand Orange Lodge of British America:
Grand Master—Hon. W. D. McPherson, K.C., Toronto.
Deputy Grand Master—Hon. J. W. Edwards, M.D., Toronto.

LIQUOR SHIPMENTS ARE DISCUSSED

Questions Asked in British Commons Regarding West Indies and U. S.

London, July 20.—(Associated Press)—Shipment of liquor from the West Indies to the United States again formed the basis for several questions in the House of Commons yesterday, various members appearing anxious to know if the British Government was prepared to do everything possible to prevent violation of United States laws for British interests.

Ronald McNeill, replying for the Foreign Office, said a note received from the United States Government a year ago had suggested that clearance papers be refused vessels known to be carrying liquor. The British Government, then, as now, was without power to give effect to the suggestion under existing law, which did not, either in the United Kingdom or the West Indies, authorize refusal of clearance papers on the ground that a vessel was believed to be engaged in the liquor trade. Mr. McNeill added that the Government was fully aware of the desirability of doing everything within its power to dissociate itself from this traffic and the whole matter was being carefully considered.

SINGAPORE PLAN GIVEN APPROVAL BY BRITISH COMMONS

London, July 20.—After a spirited debate in the House of Commons last night on the merits and demerits of the Singapore naval base, the Government obtained a victorious vote, carrying the naval estimates under closure by 217 to 129.

Cooke, late of London, will be in charge of the zone embracing Winnipeg, Saskatoon and Yorkton, with headquarters in this city.

FOUR KILLED IN A TRAIN SMASH

Crawfordsville, Ind., July 20.—Four members of the crew of a freight train on the Pennsylvania Railroad were killed last night when the engine left the tracks and went over an embankment three miles north-east of here.

EMPIRE CABLE PLAN DISCUSSED

London, July 20.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Replying to a question in the House of Commons yesterday, W. G. Granby-Gore, Under-Secretary for the Colonies, said the Government of Trinidad had accepted the proposals of the British Government in regard to a system of all-British cable communications. The general attitude of the West Indian Governments concerned was favorable to the scheme, said the Under-Secretary, and if the proposals commended themselves to the Canadian Government, it was hoped a beginning might be made with the execution of the plan in the coming Autumn.

BACK TO INDIA.

Vancouver, July 20.—Mr. Justice Gregory has refused to interfere with the proposed deportation of eighteen-year-old Jewala Singh, on whose behalf a writ of habeas corpus was sought. Following Jewala's arrival here arrangements were made for his enrollment in the class of the Kitikano High School, but the Immigration Department convened a board of inquiry and ordered him deported. Mr. Justice Gregory decided he was powerless to disturb the board's decision.

IT WORKS BOTH WAYS.

While all reports suggest that there is practically an unlimited market for Canadian cattle in Great Britain our friends across the border are beginning to realize that the Fordney tariff, which is almost as effective as the British embargo that is now no more, is having a rather serious effect upon the industry in the United States.

How this is viewed is reflected in the conclusions reached after a thorough investigation conducted by the American Farm Bureau Federation. It explains that "there is practically no benefit to any phase of the American cattle industry from the new tariff and a distinct injury to the cattle feeders." It bases its observations upon the fact that "most of these Canadian cattle are stockers and feeders, and being very high grade animals have been most profitably fattened and conditioned for the market on American farms, being in fact, simply raw material for our beef animal manufacturers. Now, however, our farmers are losing this business, and their other cattle, turned into dressed beef, must compete with the products of the Canadian cattle in the British markets."

Nor does the report overlook the fact that the tariff on our cattle has injured other industries because "it has reduced the purchasing power of Western Canada in United States markets generally." Meanwhile, as the trade with Great Britain develops, a business that was obviously very beneficial to many American farmers is disappearing—and the Federation says, "perhaps irretrievably." All of which goes to show that Fordney tariff methods on both sides of the border, with suggestions of progressive retaliation, are not good business.

Perhaps the efforts of many American agricultural interests to obtain relief from the Tariff Commission may succeed in a new review of these matters and result in better trade relations all round.

OUR CURATIVE ESTABLISHMENTS.

There is ample proof that the establishment whose corner stone Dr. MacLean laid at Essondale on Wednesday afternoon is a necessary addition to the property that forms part of the vital services of the Province. The building will be used exclusively by those unfortunate who are mentally afflicted. Its cost will be somewhere in the neighborhood of $600,000—a modest outlay compared with the importance of the humanitarian work for which it has been designed.

Wednesday's ceremony and the Minister's observations upon the importance of hospitals bring into relief once more the question of better provision for the people of this Province who are either suffering from tuberculosis or are cases that may be placed in the pre-disposed category. At the present time there are less than four hundred beds available for a tuberculous population of many times that number. The Tranquille establishment is always fully taxed and there is usually a waiting list of people who could be given hope of complete recovery if their cases could be dealt with immediately.

This condition should inspire an inquiry—even from the most concerned about civic financing difficulties—as to what could be done towards eliminating the white plague from British Columbia if one half year's profit from the business conducted in the Government's liquor stores could be devoted to the provision of another institution in which the T. B. patient could be treated and maintained until his condition warranted discharge.

We shall take it for granted that a good deal more education will be necessary before such a proposal will be as popular as the Tuberculous Veterans' Association and the unfortunate afflicted would like it to be. Sooner or later, however, the state will recognize the value of the human asset and move heaven and earth to preserve it.

CLUMSY GERMANY.

There are still some humorists in Germany. She is excelling herself in her suggested conditions for the ending of passive resistance. If French and Belgian troops will kindly remove themselves and leave an "invisible skeleton," if France will return all the money she has appropriated, if all arrested persons are released, if conditions almost akin to those existing prior to the invasion are restored, Germany will drop her present policy of obstruction and resistance.

It all sounds very simple; but it is another stupid German attempt to "kick" the nations that are beginning to know exactly what value to put upon her word. It is particularly clumsy because the proposal is made public at a time when Mr. Baldwin and his colleagues are framing a plan that might furnish the means of ending the deadlock. In the face of the suggestion from Berlin, however, he is more than likely to stiffen British attitude. At all events Germany must not expect any particular consolation from Downing Street. She must not imagine for one moment that Anglo-French friendship is going to be broken by a pat on Germany's back.

LIUTENANT MAUGHAN'S BAD LUCK.

Until the late Sir John Alcock and his colleague flew across the Atlantic in a little over sixteen hours the future of the heavier-than-air machine had presented a number of problems that made speculation upon continued flight of many hours somewhat difficult. That memorable journey, however, over an uncharted aerial course and under conditions unplumbed by navigators of the air, opened up enormous possibilities and set the pace for new and even more ambitious development.

Progress has now been made to the point that a flight from the Atlantic to the Pacific is within reach of accomplishment during the hours between dawn and dusk. That an American aviator should have made two unsuccessful attempts to perform this feat is merely an incident and does not in any way mean that victory is far distant. For records in continuous flight already have been set at a length of time in excess of that which would be required for this particular trans-continental experiment.

As a matter of fact Lieutenant Maughan's programme is more concerned with speed and the absolute reliability of his engine than with the covering of great distances without coming to earth. And he had gone just a little over two-thirds of the distance yesterday at an average speed of one hundred and sixty-five miles an hour when mechanical trouble forced him to give up the attempt. But he has proved conclusively that it is possible to cross the continent in one day's daylight. It is just a matter of time before this record will be hung with a collection of others equally marvellous.

THEY WERE NOT "HAD."

Those people who were induced to invest in the L. R. Steel enterprises on the understanding that high officers of the company had reinvested their own salaries and commissions in the concern will have experienced a rude shock on reading the announcement that these gentlemen merely nibbled at the bait that caught so many of the general public.

According to the findings of the official investigator the president of the L. R. Steel Service Corporation received $125,000 in commissions and salary and reinvested something like $4,000. The vice-president of the same concern got $90,000 for his labors and put back a little more than $6,000. And it is further stated that the five chief officials of the company netted a total of $364,000 while the campaign of stock selling flourished in the land. Of this total there was only $13,500 reinvested.

All these disclosures merely emphasize the necessity for British Columbia to adopt a Blue Sky law at the next session of the provincial Legislature. Provinces in this country and States in the Union where such legislation was in operation at the time of the Steel venture were able to report a clean slate of protection. It is no argument to say that a fool cannot be protected from his folly. There is a public responsibility that should not be shirked.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Those people who have been persuaded to buy marks in the hope that German exchange would strengthen and make fortunes for them must feel rather down in the mouth these days. One pound sterling would have bought nearly two millions of them in London to-day. Before the war a twenty mark gold piece was worth 19s. 6d.

Germany ought to be able to win a cup for foolish proposals. Imagine what would happen if France and Belgium were to agree to withdraw their troops because the debtor nation promised to end her policy of resistance to reparations collection. The Berlin Government ought to know her ancient enemy better than this by now.

United States immigration officials detained 521 Britshers because the quota has been filled for the month of July. Then somebody discovered that a 521-person mistake had been made and the number in question were admitted. Our neighbors apparently know when they see a good thing. We shall have to learn our lesson from them.

The sick man of Europe seems to have risen from his bed in a fairly healthy condition. Mustapha Kemal Pasha can pat himself on the back for the part he has played for his country in latter day international transactions. Turkey comes back with added prestige and no loss. Yet at the end of the war she was virtually flat on her back. The attending physicians fell out and the patient rallied by her own initiative.

OUR CONTEMPORARIES

MR. WOOD AS TIMBER. Montreal Gazette:—Henry Wise Wood, regarded as the father of the Progressive movement, has always refused to offer himself as a political candidate. Perhaps he fears that someone will remark that Wood would be good cabinet timber if a farmer government came into power.

THE WIRELESS CHAIN. London Daily Telegraph:—The more carefully the whole tangled story of the Wireless Chain is studied, the more apparent it becomes that the British and Dominion governments cannot do better than set up a wireless board, somewhat resembling the Pacific Cable Board, which has worked with a great measure of success. If any progress is to be made there must be a fresh start, ignoring the futile controversies and jealousies of the past, the unprofitable records of which are still apparently preserved in the official files of the post office.

LAW OF THE JUNGLE. Natal Advertiser:—In the jungle the longest claws and sharpest teeth get the fattest prey; and why in the jungle of civilization should anyone be foolish enough to think that the law is reversed? Happily for themselves and their own comfort, however, the poor wretches who think more about giving of their best to mankind than of getting the best from mankind in return, entertain the idea that the final setting day is hereafter, when every man will be rewarded for his work whether it be good or whether it be evil. Let us hope for their sakes, if not for our own, that they are right.

THEFT NOT INTENT SAYS ACCUSED

Dog Removed From Foul Bay Beach to Sidney By Poundkeeper

Charged before Magistrate Jay in the City Police Court to-day with the theft of a Gordon Setter dog valued at $25, Gordon McEwan, poundkeeper of Sidney, pleaded not guilty, and was remanded for hearing on Wednesday. The prosecution entered its evidence to-day.

Herbert Stevenson, the owner, said the dog was missing on Foul Bay beach on Friday last. He found it chained in the yard of the accused at Sidney some days later. The accused refused to give it up, said witness Alfred West, chief of police, when he saw the accused put the dog in a cart and drive off. He identified dog and man. Donald Taylor identified the dog as one he saw chained up on the beach, and Inspector George T. Maurice, of the S. P. C. A., testified that he examined the dog at the police station. The accused had alleged it to be starting witness found nothing the matter with the setter, and described its condition as perfect. The Crown closed its case at this point.

In his own defence the accused said he had moved a traveling "coconut shy" to Foul Bay beach. There he saw the dog playing with six or seven other dogs. He recognized it as valuable and fancied it. Finally he took the dog in his cart to Sidney. He did not intend to steal, said the accused.

At this stage the accused requested a remand to retain counsel, and the hearing adjourned. The Court ordered the return of the dog to its owner.

J. S. Gow was fined $5 for improper parking. Leo S. Company was fined $10 for neglecting to circle a traffic spot. Compliance would have meant being struck by a street car, said the accused. The car should have been stopped held the court. Wong charged on remand with possession of opium was further remanded when J. A. Aikman will appear for the defence. W. Blommore was remanded until Monday, charged with possession of a vicious dog. Cecil Morgan was fined $5 for failure to display a driver's license. The accused had a provincial license. A Nainimo license, he said. A city one was also necessary held the court. Charged with the theft of an overcoat from a convict's closet, Joseph Singh was remanded until to-morrow for hearing.

ABANDON AEROPLANE ATTEMPT TILL 1924

Renewal of Attempt. The flight, several times cancelled owing to inclement weather or newly discovered defects in the aircraft, was a renewal of the unsuccessful attempt which Maughan made on July 7. On that trip he was forced down at Avenue City, Mo., ten miles from St. Joseph, the terminal of the second lap of his flight. A clogged oil feed line caused temporary abandonment of plans for the flight. The trip was being made largely to demonstrate the feasibility of moving aerial war-craft from one coast to the other of the United States as a war time maneuver. Winging his way westward, Maughan raced from the Atlantic seaboard across the Mississippi and Missouri River valleys and toward the Rocky Mountains throughout yesterday morning.

Familiar Landmarks. On the first leg of his trip from Mitchell Field to Dayton, Ohio, Maughan played safe, flying the usual airways between the two cities and using familiar landmarks, to obviate the danger of becoming lost, which cost him a delay of more than an hour in his first attempt. He left at Dayton at 8:25 a.m. Eastern standard time, 51 minutes behind his tentative schedule. He had covered the first lap of his trip, 576 miles, in four hours 27 minutes and 15 seconds. The 1,925-mile journey, during most of the journey, had registered 155 miles an hour.

At St. Joseph, Missouri. At 11:25 o'clock Central standard time, Maughan arrived at St. Joseph. He was greeted effusively by the townspeople, who had witnessed the disappointing termination of his first attempt, more than 1,200 spectators gathering to see him alight. A distance of 1,140 miles from New York, he was already halfway across the continent, but still slightly behind the schedule he had set. His plane was examined and tuned up again and he took off at 12:32 p.m., headed for Cheyenne, the third stopping point on his schedule. His route from St. Joseph to Cheyenne was carefully charted as he progressed and he continued to race along at the average speed which he had set earlier in the flight. At St. Joseph, Maughan had announced he was saving his speed for later in the day after he had passed the Great Divide.

At Cheyenne. The first protracted break in Maughan's schedule came at Cheyenne, where he landed at 2:32 p.m. (Mountain Standard Time) after encircling the air mail field three times. Fifty-five minutes later, still suffering from the effects of the nausea which had resulted from the fumes of the leaking oil, he arose, determined, despite the handicap he then was under, to complete his transcontinental trip before daylight vanished.

Maughan had covered 1,850 miles. On the basis of the total elapsed time since he had left Mitchell Field, he had traversed nearly two-thirds of the continent at an average speed of 134 miles an hour.

He hopped off at 3:27 p.m. after the oil leak had been hastily soldered and the plane refueled and inspected and he had received some rest from the illness induced by the oil fumes.

At 170 Miles an Hour. From Cheyenne to Rock Springs, Maughan drove his plane at a speed of 170 miles an hour for 245 miles. When forced to land at Rock Springs he had come within 645 miles of his goal.

PRINTER'S "PIE" MIXED PREMIER'S STORY

There was a story on the front page of The Times last night from Premier Oliver telling how he has cut the travelling expenses of his ministers to three-fifths of what they were under the Conservatives, despite the increased cost of transportation since the war.

The last two paragraphs dealt with the reply of the Premier to the pessimistic letter of J. Thornley, of Saanich, but printers mixed up some of the lines of type and so made it unintelligible. This is the way it was written and should have read in type: "At the same time the Premier sent Mr. Thornley an effort to stimulate the flow of settlers to this country. Mr. Thornley wrote that it was making improper representations, as people in England were getting on to the truth about real conditions here through letters that were being sent to them and communications published in newspapers there by residents here. The Premier explained that the B. C. Government is not paying Mrs. Smith at all, and that under those conditions Mr. Thornley's outburst of sarcasm was wasted."

WET GAS FOUND IN ALASKA NOT FAR FROM ANCHORAGE

Anchorage, Alaska, July 20.—Discovery of wet gas 1,600 feet down in the Chickaloon coal field, seventy-five miles northeast of here, has been confirmed by the United States Geological Survey.

The discovery was made, according to reports, with a diamond drill in prospecting for coal. Dr. Alfred H. Brooks, formerly chief of the Geological Survey, had expressed the opinion that gas underlay this field.

"Now, young man, are you sure that these shoes for my little baby are well made?" "Madam, they will last him a lifetime."

BETWEEN TIMES.

The train, as usual, crawled along—you know the line—and then stopped dead. "Conductor," shouted a passenger, "may I get out and pick some flowers?" "Afraid you won't find many about here," said the conductor good-naturedly. "Oh, there'll be heaps of 'em," commented the jovial one. "I've brought a package of seeds."—Pathfinder.

ROYAL VICTORIA

A double tragedy that would have robbed the shadow screen of two of its most popular leading men nearly occurred during the filming of Thomas H. Ince's "What a Wife Learned," the much-discussed production which will be the attraction at the Royal again to-day.

To get shots of a big scene at the climax of the play when John Bowers and Milton Sills, who are featured in the picture, are trapped by flood waters and swept over the spillway of a dam, the two actors climbed upon a temporary staging built just below the big Laguna Dam at Santa, Arizona. At a given signal a dam structure which had been built for the filming of the sequence was destroyed by a rush of waters released from the dam and a flood tide swept on down to the lower site where Bowers and Sills were clinging to the staging.

Both Bowers and Sills got the fright of their lives when a wall of water, forty feet high, bore down on them. The head of water from the gates to be opened had been miscalculated and the scene described in the script became terrifyingly realistic. The two actors were thrown into the water with terrific force while even the cameramen on the side lines were knocked off their feet.

DOMINION

Can any member of the geography class bound Dobrudja?

For the benefit of those who can't, it is a province of southeastern Rumania bounded by the Black Sea, the Danube and Bulgaria and it is the locale of Dorothy Dalton's latest Paramount picture, "The Law of the Lawless," which will be the big feature at the Dominion Theatre for six days.

According to the geographers and Konrad, Bercevic, the gypsy author who wrote the story of "The Law of the Lawless" directly for the screen, the province is the melting pot of the Near East, populated by Tartar tribes and wandering bands of gypsies, and it is of these that Bercevic writes in this picture.

Dorothy Dalton plays the role of a young Tartar girl, daughter of a once wealthy Tartar landowner who, through reverses, has been forced to pledge his entire worldly possessions, including his daughter to the local money-lender. The latter offers to cancel the debt in return for the hand of the daughter. But the girl has a sweetheart and refuses the offer.

As a result of this rebuff, the money lender forecloses his loan and orders the girl's father to be sold on the auction block. His daughter offers herself in her father's stead and Costa, the leader of a wandering band of gypsies, buys her after a spirited bidding contest with the money lender. Her Tartar sweetheart follows the gypsy tribe but proves himself to be unworthy. The girl discovers that she is in love with her gypsy master who has respected her wish to remain alone.

Eventually the gypsies led by the girl capture the Tartar village, destroy the treacherous money lender and all ends happily. It is a story of stirring action, riotous color and romance. The star is supported by three of the screen's most capable leading men—Theodore Kosloff, who plays the Tartar sweetheart; Charles De Roche, a French star, who makes his American debut in this Paramount picture as the gypsy chief; and Tully Marshall, who has the part of the money lender.

Other members of the cast are Margaret Lockhart and Fred Huntley. Victor Fleming directs.

COLUMBIA

It's all very well to have an Alladin at one's service to change one into a different personage or transport one into a different place. But it's still better to be able to do it yourself—like Harold Lloyd. All he has to do is don some grease paint and the well-known spectacles. Then he has a little conversation with his staff of scenario-writers. That's all the magic necessary to transform Harold Lloyd from a likable young chap into an adventurous sailor, a love-sick coward, a "sunshine" doctor, a big week department store clerk, or any other role he happens to fancy. Just this mysterious combination of grease paint, spectacles, and scenario-writers have transformed Harold Lloyd into the "old-time" up-to-date American department store in the comedian's new seven-reel Pathé comedy, "Safety Last," which is playing to-day at the Columbia Theatre.

THE PLAYHOUSE

"The best performance and play presented by the Compton Comedy Company," was the verdict returned by many of the audience leaving the Playhouse on Wednesday night.

With Douglas Dancers at Pantages Friday and Saturday

A local boy, exceptional talent, the latest dance steps from New York, a remarkably well selected company, and beautiful costumes are only a few of the many features contained in the 1923 song and dance revue which Hamilton Douglas, a local man, is offering at the Pantages to-day and Saturday.

Tee dancing, the latest New York fox trot, waltz, tango, and one-steps, wooden shoe dancing and Scottish dancing are included in the dance numbers, while the musical programme is provided by Glen Wells and his jazz band. Russel MacDonald, the boy wonder, performs on the xylophone and has something in the way of a surprise.

The company itself is a large one, comprising one of the most talented and largest aggregations of child performers that has ever come to this city. The brilliant revue has been receiving a splendid ovation en route, and Victoria theatregoers are expected to enjoy the programme just as well.

Certainly, judging by the roars of laughter which were continuous throughout the evening, and by the loud and sustained applause which greeted the efforts of the players, it seems that this opinion is really justified. "Billeted" is a delightful comedy, and its one of the biggest London successes of recent years should on no account be missed. It is eminently well suited to the Compton Comedy Company, and their combined efforts succeeded in producing the play in a very praiseworthy manner. Miss Peggy Dundas in particular, in the role of Betty Taradine, gives the best performance she has given since she opened here. In a part which calls for a very delicate understanding and an intuitive sense of the values of comedy, she shines brilliantly, and positively radiates an atmosphere of charm and daintiness.

"ENEMIES OF WOMEN" WILL BE SHOWN AT THE DOMINION

"Breaking the bank" is not unheard of at Monte Carlo. But Alan Crossland, the director, accomplished the feat of turning sunrise into sunset in that gaily tragic little principal one day last Summer.

It was during the filming of Blasco Ibanez's story, "Enemies of Women," which will be seen at the Dominion Theatre next week. Many of the scenes of the picture were made on the actual location of the story. Mr. Crossland, with Lionel Barrymore, Alma Rubens and other members of the cast, spent six weeks in Monte Carlo, Paris and Nice securing them.

The Monte Carlo scenes had to be made between the hours of six p.m. and in the morning. Even these limited working hours were only obtained after a great deal of urge and personal appeal from influential people. Monte Carlo has been besieged in films frequently, and the staunch inhabitants of the place have their pride—plenty of it.

Life in Monte Carlo starts at ten in the morning. Gaming in the Casino stops at twelve midnight. It is both unusual, and rather un-fashionable, to be seen on the terrace before ten-thirty of a morning. "By six in the evening, life has quickened again—the orchestras are unleashed, women are frocked for tea or cocktail, the eternal promenade is flourishing in fullest bloom. This at six of an evening. Alan Crossland staged the same scenes at six of a morning.

News flew quickly about of the invasion of a big American company, with big American dollars. Actors from the French cinema, many of whom had found a place in their own country capitulated gaily to the money offered them, and the surety that it would be paid. They had many chances for mere histrionics in their own French companies. But the American salary was sure, which could not always be said of their native corporations.

By six-thirty a. m. Monte Carlo stood glowing under the sun with all the trappings of her regular six p.m. array. The gay old girl must have elevated her perfectly plucked eyebrows a bit at the sight. Perhaps she smiled behind a veil of bit of lace, and lipped her lips, and, undoubtedly her lips moved with those dearly loved Continental words—"Those Americans!"

But turning the "clock back on its funny old face, as Director Crossland did, resulted in some remarkable scenes for a remarkable picture.

"I've had a hard day at the office, dear, and I'm hungry as a bear. Is dinner ready?"

"No, love, I'm afraid we'll have to wait. I'm returning to-night. I've broken the tin-opener."

Shot from Guns

WHAT fun your children think it is—eating delicious food that has actually been shot from guns! It dwarfs any experience of "Alice in Wonderland"!

What a satisfaction to the mother to have her children prefer these wholesome steam exploded foods to anything else she can provide! At any hour of the day when children are hungry, puffed dainties are always ready and always joyously welcomed. Children love to carry the crisp grains in their pockets, and nibble them as they would nuts.

Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice are nourishing, whole grain foods in the appetizing form of light, delicate, nutty morsels. Served with milk, they provide ideal nourishment, because they supply the food elements which milk lacks. They are delicious with berries and cream, or sprinkled with melted butter.

How the Grains are Puffed

To the invention of Dr. A. P. Anderson, we owe the unique process of making Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice by shooting the grain from guns. The selected grains are first cleaned and then scaled in huge guns of heavy iron. The guns revolve for an hour in a fierce heat. This cooks the grain and turns all its moisture to high pressure steam. When the guns shoot into a great room of fine wire mesh the grains are exploded. Each grain is puffed to 8 times its normal size, and 125 million steam explosions take place in each kernel. Every food granule is thus broken into minute fragments and the whole grain becomes easy to digest and delicious to eat.

VICTORIA HELPED BY FINE EXHIBIT

Kumtuks Members Had Attractive Display at Portland Convention

Excellent advertising for Victoria in particular and Vancouver Island in general was achieved at the recent national convention of business and professional women's clubs in Portland. At the British Columbia booth, which was generally conceded to be one of the most striking in the many exhibits arranged in the convention auditorium, were displayed many beautiful colored photographs of local beauty spots, the photographs being generously loaned for the occasion by Messrs. H. U. Knight and Mavers, of this city. A fine collection of Vancouver Island wool in the raw and finished states, loaned by Mrs. Dennis Harris, attracted much admiring comment from visitors, as did also the attractive totem poles and specimens of handicraft from the Deco-Art studios. The Victoria exhibit was arranged by the members of the Kumtuks Club.

A supply of literature from the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau was quickly exhausted, and those in charge of the exhibit were kept busy answering enquiries from women who contemplated visiting this playground of the West.

MUSICAL SUCCESSES.

In the recent examinations held in Victoria by Maurice Bealy, on behalf of the Associated Board of the Royal Academy of Music and the Royal College of Music, London, England, the following pupils of Miss Archbutt were successful:

Intermediate local centre: Marjorie Judd. School examinations, elementary: Mary Banister, Phyllis Barton, Barbara Barker, Jane Wilson. Primary Grade: Muriel Davenport, Chimaki Kamakura, Margaret Brinkman, Vera Cookson.

Successful Snapshots

"Oh, dear! Out of twelve films, only three pictures that are good enough to keep!" exclaimed a young mother who had opened the little green envelope with great eagerness and whose face had promptly fallen with disappointment. She had leveled a careful camera at her youngest hopeful, playing unconsciously in his sand-box, and had tried her hardest to get good results.

"What do you suppose is the matter?" she went on. "Just see this one. His face is as black as ink, with no eyes showing at all, and his rompers look like snow-white blobs. And this one is too dark and this one too light. I don't know what's the matter to get good results."

"We are not all as bad as we are kodaked!" quoted her husband mischievously. "But I'll tell you, dear, what a man in the office told me. He takes prizes for his amateur photography, and he gave me some pointers.

MERRY WIDOWS' CLUB MEET WIDOWERS

Amusing Incident Happens in Little Town in Alsace

Paris, July 20.—In the little town of Neudorf, in Luxemburg, all the widows there, to the number of fifty-two, have founded a club from which wives and spinners are rigorously excluded. Each week-end the club visits some locality and is feted by the inhabitants.

In the town of Grevenmacher, not far away, is a club of which the membership is confined to widowers, and this association invited the merry widows to be their guests. The widowers entertained the widows with a banquet and a ball. When the time came for departure many of the widows burst into tears. Then the secret leaked out that many of them had blighted their troth.

The widowers have now been invited by the widows to visit Neudorf, and the meeting is expected to be marked by a further batch of engagements.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How to Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any drugstore a few ounces of Bismarck's Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating.

This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bismarck's Magnesia (in powder or tablet form) is a most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes.

It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How to Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any drugstore a few ounces of Bismarck's Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating.

This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bismarck's Magnesia (in powder or tablet form) is a most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes.

It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

ROBERT DOLLAR CO. TO PLACE SHIPS IN INTERCOASTAL RUN

Will Withdraw Large American Vessel for New Service

To Make Tri-Weekly Sailings; Five Vessels to Operate

That shipping companies are taking a decided interest in the development of the intercoastal service between the Atlantic seaboard and the Pacific Coast is indicated by the fact that in addition to the announcement of augmenting this service by the Furness-Withy Line, the Robert Dollar Company announces that it will take all the large American registry vessels of the company's fleet and place them in the intercoastal service.

Rapid development has been made in the past year in this service and an ever-growing interest is being taken by other companies. Passenger service has not been seriously considered, but steps which the freight services have been taking in this direction are sufficient to encourage the belief that there will yet be an excellent intercoastal service.

The various steamship companies are realizing the importance of developing this route for speedier and cheaper transportation and it is becoming most popular, steamship officials say.

A. A. Moran, traffic manager for the Robert Dollar Co., San Francisco, announces that the Diana Dollar, which is at present in the round-the-world service, will be transferred to the intercoastal run, while the Stanley Dollar will make one more round-the-world trip before she enters the new service. The Sigart Dollar will be taken off the Oriental run for placement in the Atlantic-Pacific service, which will be operated in such a manner as to give a three-week service. There will be five Dollar ships in the service with tri-weekly sailings.

FURNESS-WITHY LINE TO AUGMENT PACIFIC SERVICE

Will Take Vessel From New York-London Run for Service to This Coast

The Atlantic-Pacific service as supplied by the Furness-Withy interests will be augmented, it was intimated today. The Siberian Prince, Captain Milliken, which passed through Victoria late Wednesday night bound for Vancouver with a large consignment of cargo, brought the information to this coast.

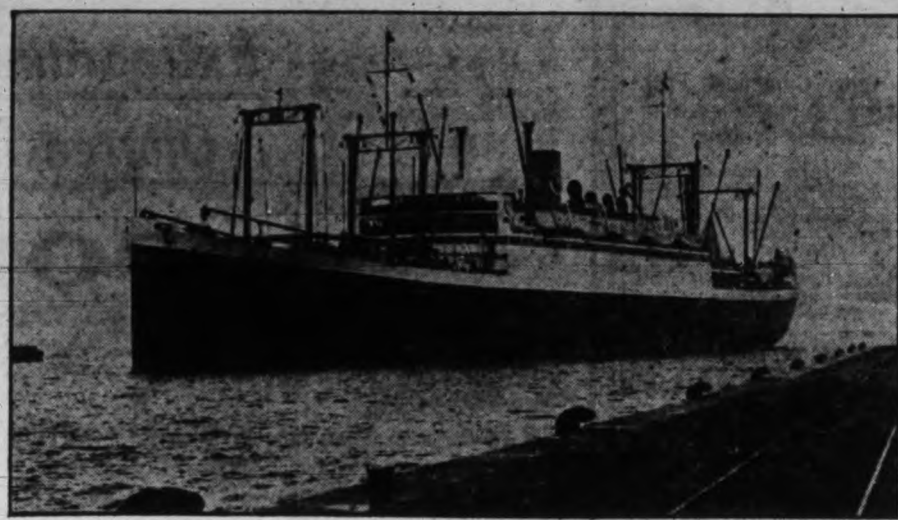

"The Furness-Prince Co. will inaugurate a fortnightly service from the Atlantic seaboard to this coast in place of the present schedule of one ship every three weeks," is the announcement which is made. To provide for this, new vessels, of fifteen knots speed, are to be taken from the New York-London service commencing in October, and put on the Pacific run. Two of the vessels which will be placed in the newly augmented service will be the London Merchant and the London Skipper. Both these vessels are equipped with fan ventilators and cool-air refrigeration. The Siberian Prince, it is reported, had 2,000 tons of tinplate, 1,000 tons of galvanized iron, glass, radii and other metal materials from England and Europe. Outward bound she will load some 2,000 tons of wheat, a quarter million feet of lumber, 200 tons of zinc, a considerable quantity of copper and 4,800 cases of salmon.

Ocean Steamship Co. To Call Tenders Soon

Will Proceed With the Construction of Two Palatial Steamers to operate in Sydney-San Francisco Run — Will Reduce Schedule to Eighteen and a Half Days — Vessels to Have Many Feature Appointments—Most Advanced Machinery to Be Installed

Transportation between this continent and Sydney, Australia, will be further facilitated, it was learned today. The Oceanic Steamship Company had planned the building of two first-class turbo-electric passenger-liners for the San Francisco-Sydney run if it was successful in obtaining certain United States Government mail contracts.

The negotiations have been successfully completed, and the Oceanic Steamship Co. proposes going forward with the building of the two palatial liners. With Department, the Oceanic Steamship Company commenced preparing detailed specifications and drawings for the vessels, and will no doubt be calling for tenders very shortly.

"What a terrible thing it must be," said he. "For a woman to discover a love letter in the pocket of her husband's coat just after she has mended it neatly and lovingly!" The woman smiled. AFTER NARROW ESCAPE FROM FIRE, ANYOX IS TO RESUME MINING hopelessly against an evergalling element, the men of the big camp desperately, doggedly, with buckets and every other known method, in their effort to save lives and property. But the roaring flames gained headway, and the smoke fell increased. Brands were whirled by the wind to distant parts of the forest to start new fires.

The explosion of the powder magazine when the flames reached it broke hundreds of windows and wrecked two mine buildings, but did not affect the great oil tanks nearby. Had it done so, the vast quantity of oil would have swept in a blazing flood across Anyox. Superhuman efforts were extended to save the magazine, but in vain. The flames caught the building, and then the feeling came that all was over. Still the fire gangs stayed at their posts, fighting as best they could. The roar of flames and wind, the belching smoke and flying brands made an inferno.

Powder Blow Up. Breathlessly the miners and their people awaited the blast which would come when the dynamite was reached. The flames touched the explosive. Fortunately no detonators were stored with it. The dynamite burned steadily without going off. Many tons had been consumed when the black powder was reached. This, of course, went off as soon as fire touched it, and it acted as a detonator for the remaining dynamite. Still, the terrific explosion which followed was but a gentle puff to what would have been had the black powder been ignited first.

Appearance of Town. Anyox, according to passengers of the ship, looked like a town that had been surprised by an enemy who swept ruthlessly through and over it before the inhabitants could flee. Outside the doors of the residences were piles of bedding and household goods which were left there when the heat forced the inhabitants to the fire lines or the mines. Some of these heaps were smouldering wrecks. Houses, charred and blackened, stood here and there on the outskirts of the town.

VICTORIA JUST MISSES CUP FOR BEST TIME TEST

Mr. Carmichael Is Second in Five-Minute Talk Test

Northwest Real Estate Association in Session

Portland, July 20.—Real property is carrying an "unjust burden" of taxes which should be cut down, the Northwest Real Estate Association convention declared in resolutions to-day. The resolutions favored continued efforts by real estate boards for more equitable distribution of taxation, relieving real estate of its alleged unjust burden.

The trophy for the best five-minute talk delivered at last night's session was awarded this morning to B. B. Houston of Tacoma. Second prize went to Alfred Carmichael of Victoria, president of the Victoria Real Estate Board.

MENZIES CALLED TO END BEE WAR

Rev. Thomas Menzies, M. P. P. for Comox, known as an expert apiculturist as well as for his parish and political activities, was called in by the Government to-day to settle the bee war that has been raging on the Lower Mainland between the Williams Hugh and the anti-Williams Hugh factions over efforts to enforce foul brood protective regulations.

Mr. Menzies left this afternoon for the Mainland, where he will be met on arrival by A. B. Paterson, M.P.P. for Delta, who is taking an active part in the controversy. Mr. Paterson will take Mr. Menzies on a tour of the whole district to meet the growers individually in an effort to settle the troubles. To-morrow he will attend the conference of money producers that has been called at Ladner.

Because of the trouble over regulations, foul brood has been spreading fast and creating heavy losses among the hives of the whole Lower Mainland.

Mr. Menzies accordingly has been forced to cancel his attendance at the picnic of Canadian Colliers' employees at Royston to-morrow.

GIVES WARNING TO HUNTERS

New Regulations Are Promulgated To-day By Attorney-General

Regulations for the shooting of game during the year of 1923-24 are announced to-day by Attorney-General Manson.

While there are no specific differences in the definition of the season, a novelty of the order is a series of "don'ts" and memorandums for the hunters of the Province, attached to the end of the order.

Open season for caribou, male, throughout the Province except Queen Charlotte Islands and the section south and east of the Canadian National main line, will be from September 1 to December 15.

The open season for bear, except Vancouver Island, will be September 1, 1923 to June 15, 1924. On Vancouver Island it will be from November 1, 1923, to May 31, 1924, but trapping will not be allowed.

Other open seasons include: Deer, mule, white tail and Coast bucks only. Queen Charlotte and North and South Saanich and Highland Districts, September 15 to December 15. Willow grouse in Cowichan, Esquimalt and Saanich districts, December 1 to December 15. Throughout remainder Vancouver Island September 15 to October 31.

Quail—Vancouver Island, except Oak Bay and terminal and Comox—October 15 to November 30.

The Loyal True Blue Association will hold a social in the Orange Hall to-night at 9 o'clock in aid of the lodge fund.

CURFEW PROBLEM UP AGAIN; PLAN NEW REGULATIONS

The curfew question will be put squarely up to the City Council again Monday night, it was made known by City Council members to-day. The Council will be asked by the City Police Commission to start enforcing the curfew law here, again after years of non-enforcement, it was announced.

It will be necessary for the Council to re-shape the whole Curfew By-Law, it was explained at the City Hall. Draastic amendments which will make the law effective, it was stated by Council members, are needed if the ordinance is to be effective.

The first problem which the Council must overcome in its plan to protect young Victoria boys and girls is the necessity of installing some satisfactory curfew bell or other warning to kiddies to go home before dark. The present Curfew By-Law, which has been lying in some dusty City Hall pigeon hole so long that city officials forget when it was put there, provides that a curfew whistle shall be sounded every night to warn kiddies to go home.

"This whistle," says the by-law solemnly, "shall be known as the Curfew Bell." But the whistle-bell has disappeared long ago and some new warning must be discovered.

FOUL BAY DELIGHTS MANY HUNDREDS

Foul Bay, easily accessible to the city, has, since the closing of school, proved the popular beach for family parties. Particularly on Saturdays young folks for several weeks past the sands have been crowded with happy sunburned youngsters enjoying to the full all the delights that a bay by the sea offers, while their parents take advantage of the shade of arbors at the foot of the beach, where they can keep an eye on their adventurous offspring and spend a most refreshing and relaxing breeze from the sea, while the youngsters find a vent for a superabundance of energy.

The attractiveness of the beach has been added to by the liberal distribution of picnic tables dotted around on the sands and by a number of picnic sites improvised out of the numerous logs on the beach.

The logs are the children's delight. Log rolling and riding on rafts offer sport of which the children never tire, and there is enough floating lumber for all. The ingenuity of youngsters is shown in some of the rafts they make. Two or three logs are often bound together with seaweed and boards placed across, on which many as four youngsters are able to ride. Each armed with a long board to serve as a double-bladed paddle, the children roam the waters of the bay for hours. Shorter logs or flat pieces of lumber provide individual rafts on which the budding oarsmen stage thrilling races. Log riding, a difficult and alluring sport, is much to the adults as well as to the youngsters.

After the children have left the beach many of the adults can be seen "surf riding" on the boards the boys and girls have left.

The abundant supply of wood on the beach only adds to its attractiveness as a pleasure ground. With the tide out there is a fine stretch of sand, and the wood at its edge provides the fuel for many a fine outdoor evening party. Circled, or rather squared on log seats around a huge bonfire, parties have taken advantage of the long cool Summer nights for convivial outdoor gathering, with the ideal setting and unexcelled weather making the time speed by so rapidly that midnight arrives at the rest of the camp fire circle before they realize how the time has flown. A party of Edmonton visitors left Victoria at midnight for the rest of the province and its attractions as the result of a farewell party staged in this manner. Dancing on the sands to the music of gramophones and the light of a farewell party staged in this manner. Dancing on the sands to the music of gramophones and the light of a farewell party staged in this manner.

Virtually every Summer cottage in the neighborhood of the beach is rented, in addition to the rooms which people have to let in houses near the beach.

ESQUIMALT PEOPLE THANK COMMITTEE

The Esquimalt Retail Merchants wish to thank all those who contributed to the success of the big municipal picnic last Wednesday, in any way, as it was one of the most enjoyable outings of its sort ever held by the people of the district. Particularly the merchants want the following to recognize their sincere thanks and appreciation: Frank Cook and E. Wood, who made arrangements for the affair; those who donated cash or prizes for the sports; Mr. Lloyd, who supplied the milk; W. Worth, who was in charge of the transporting of the persons to the "Rosebank"; Geiger's Band, which proved so excellent, and supplied the music for the dancing and community singing, and all those who were on committees.

Those who worked on the committees were as follows: Messrs. F. Cook, R. Wood, H. Craven, W. Pulmer, Deaville, McPherson, A. Young, Stueck, See, Lloyd, Hall, Goring, Scott, Hobson, Angus and Hodgson; also Misses Phillips Yates and Monroe. All of these persons worked very hard to make the picnic a success and their services are greatly appreciated.

REFRIGERATOR MAY BE REOPENED HERE

Plant Near Outer Docks to Be Inspected By Industrial Group

At a meeting of the executive of the Industrial Group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce to-day, a committee was selected to look over the fish curing and refrigerator plant near the Outer Docks, and to make a report on them to the Group. It is believed that this plant will be made use of in the near future, and possibly rearranged and installed with modern appliances.

Communications have been received by the Group relative to the establishment of a Ladies' Garment Manufacturing Concern here, which will make crepe de Chine and silk clothing. Such an industry, the group believes, might well be fostered as Victoria is in close touch with the Orient, from which the supply of silk is easily and cheaply obtained.

The booklet for the purpose of advertising the local industrial plants and manufactures is now close to completion, and the members of the executive are working hard to finish it.

PROBE ORIGIN OF MAN CHARGED WITH ATTACK ON WOMAN

Police are investigating the nationality of Edward Thomas, who is now in a Vancouver jail, charged with attempting to assault a woman outside Campbell River recently and who was almost lynched by loggers. It was reported at first that the man was a negro and later that he was an Indian, but police are now in complete doubt about his origin. It is thought that he has white and Asiatic blood. Early descriptions of Thomas as a negro were strongly resented by colored people living here, and Indians protested against him being called an Indian, if he is not a native. In a recent trial here, the judge, it will be recalled, declared that he had never known of a full-blooded Indian attacking a white woman.

NEWS AND NOTES FROM THE MINES

Chilean Copper Shipments.
Shipments of copper bars from the Antofagasta district of Chile in 1922 amounted to 73,532 metric tons, and is thought to be the largest in the history of the industry, says a report to the American Department of Commerce. The stocks carried over from 1921 were materially reduced, the bulk of the shipments going to the United States, although large quantities also went to Germany and other European countries. The exports of copper ore amounted to 23,363 metric tons in 1922, compared with 36,001 tons in 1921. This ore was exported principally to the western coast of the United States for smelting. The largest producer of refined copper, an American company, worked regularly during 1922, and has recently increased production to full capacity but the small smelters remained idle during the past year.

Silver-Smith Mines.
The annual report of the Silver-Smith Mines, Limited, Sandon, contains many interesting figures and facts regarding the operation of this property.

The statement, which covers the period from June 1, 1922, to May 1, 1923, reports a balance of $94,337.15, cash in banks; government bonds totaling $50,000, on hand; ore in transit, $25,081.05, and ore on hand, $20,631.10.

The gain for the year is stated to have been $254,366.59. Dividends paid during the year totaled $125,000, and there is $28,601 remaining in surplus account. President John B. White in his report states that the new mill and other improvements have been completed and that there should be no further capital outlay which would interfere with a cash surplus for dividends.

Operations include 52 feet of cross-cutting, 894 feet of drifting and 147 feet of raising. Clean ore, mined from stoping, totaled 522 tons, and mill feed ore mined, 34,843 tons. The average assay of the mill feed had been 24.92 ounces of silver, 3.92 per cent lead and 7.50 per cent zinc.

A 200 h.p. Diesel engine has been added to the power equipment as an auxiliary, for use in the winter when the water is low. In concluding his report, President White states: "The enclosed statement shows a gain for the year of 1251,363.59, before charging off to depletion reserve $127,183.29. We believe this is a creditable showing for the fiscal year and that next year will show more of a gain, as operations will not be hindered by construction work. It may be further mentioned that the mine has as much ore exposed as it ever had and that the mill, mill, and equipment are in the best shape for economical operation at a profit with a favorable metal market."

SAYS THERE IS DEMAND FOR ALL LOGANS ON ISLAND

W. Dale Johnson, of Laurel Canning Company, Can Save Crops

Wants Co-operation of Farmers in Manufacturing Enterprise

The disheartening reports on the loganberry markets which have been worrying the growers of Sanich and other districts of the lower Island, have been answered by statements of W. Dale Johnson, general sales manager of the Laurel Canning Company here. Mr. Johnson takes issue with the statement that two-thirds of the fruit which has been produced this year on the vines may not be picked owing to the lack of demand for it. Mr. Johnson stated that there was a demand for fruit and that with the co-operation of the farmers, he could use every berry of the crop, and much more besides, and also get a good price for it.

More Promising.
The loganberry situation at present existing on the Island is more promising than the majority of fruit growers and the public believe, he said to The Times to-day.

"Although there are 175 acres bearing loganberries on the southern portion of Vancouver Island, yet there is a demand which would make 500 acres of the vines the most profitable industry in which farmers could participate.

Lack Capital.
"What we require," said Mr. Johnson, "is co-operation with the farmers. We need aid from the growers in this way: We have the machinery, and we have the connections, but we have not got the sugar and the cans. What we lack is capital.

"The British market alone can consume 25,000 cases of our canned logans. This order actually would take, roughly, the produce from 200 acres of the vines. This is more acreage than we have at the present time on the whole Island. From Vancouver alone we have had to refuse an offer for 20 tons of dehydrated berries, which represents 100 tons of the fresh fruit. We are paying 4 to 6 cents per pound for logans, and we are asking the farmers to become shareholders in our company, which entails an outlay of $50 per head, and 10 per cent. of their fruit. This means that in seven years the entire factory would be owned by the growers. The price offered by the Vancouver firm for dehydrated berries was 33 cents per pound.

Old Country Price Offered for Canned Fruit was $2.40 per dozen tins, f.o.b. This price shows a very good profit for a canning concern.

Eat Ripe Fruit.
"The reason why there has been difficulty with the crops this year is this," said Mr. Johnson. "When the fruit is ripe and fit to eat it cannot be shipped, no matter what precautions are taken to keep it fresh. The reason that so many people object to loganberries is that they have been eating fruit that is not ripe, and the seeds are hard and unpleasant. But when the fruit is matured these seeds literally melt in one's mouth.

With the present plant and machinery for the manufacture of canned fruits we are turning out 1,200 cans per day. With the new machinery due to arrive to-morrow we will be turning out between 3,000 and 4,000 cans each day.

"We can grow loganberries on the Island better than Oregon or any other part of the Mainland, and there is the reason why we should have one acre of land, on the southern end of the Island particularly, lying idle," said Mr. Johnson, emphatically.

HORSES ARRIVING FOR RACES HERE; CROWDS COMING

Nearly 300 Animals to Start Willows Meet Next Week, Sangster Says

Nearly 300 race horses will be here by the middle of next week to race in the Willows Park meet which will open a week from Saturday, Alderman George Sangster said. The B. C. Agricultural Association, announced to-day.

Race horses are beginning to arrive here now for the meet, Alderman Sangster said. Within a few days, he stated, over 250 more animals would reach here from Vancouver and other mainland points. A number of horses, he added, were coming from Calgary and other prairie cities. Alderman Sangster returned this morning from Vancouver, where he attended races at Hastings Park. "I found that hundreds of people from Vancouver are planning to come here for our meet next week," he said to-day. "It looks as if the meet would draw unusually big crowds. The horse owners are coming in large numbers, as Victoria is always a popular place with them."

Preparations for the meet are almost complete at the Willows now, Alderman Sangster said. The track, he declared, will be in good shape, and adequate arrangements are being made for the large crowds that are expected to witness the races. Requests to secure information about the meet should telephone Alderman Sangster at 2520.

MARBLE QUARRY.
Napoleon Martel, of Vankleek Hill, Ontario, has been looking over the marble claims of E. J. Martel, of Spences Bridge, and his associates. He speaks very highly of the quality of the marble and is greatly interested in the further development of the property is expected in the near future. Martel & Cummings, Vankleek Hill, are manufacturers of finished marble and their products are shipped widely.

PREPARES NEW CLUB LICENSE PLAN FOR CITY

Vancouver Beer Attracts Visitors; Victoria Loses Trade, Sangster Says

Despite the announcement that city legal officials are opposed to the plan, Alderman George Sangster is determined to press for the passage of a club by-law which would raise revenue for the city from numerous social clubs and beer clubs here. Following conferences with City Solicitor H. S. Pringle, who has advised against such a by-law, Alderman Sangster announced to-day that he would bring his proposal before the Council shortly.

"I have not altered my views and certainly will not let the new drop Alderman Sangster said to-day. He added that he expected support from Alderman J. H. Gillespie, who is due to arrive here during the next day or two, after his lengthy trip to the Old Country.

Alderman Sangster said that his investigations had revealed the fact that clubs operating in Vancouver now under the new club by-law were attracting large numbers of people who otherwise would come to Victoria. He had heard, he said, of many Vancouver Island loggers going to Vancouver for holidays instead of coming to Victoria. In one island logging camp which had closed down for repairs, he said, 400 men had been released. Of these 300 had gone to Vancouver and only 10 had come here, he understood.

City officials have advised the City Council here that if the club by-law proposed by Alderman Sangster is passed numerous new clubs will spring into existence as they did in Vancouver. Mayor Hayward and a majority of aldermen fear that if the Council licenses clubs it would put itself in the position of recognizing and condoning illegal beer sales, but Alderman Sangster holds that the Council has nothing to do with the liquor question, which is in the hands of other authorities.

"AMERICANUS" TO BE MAGNET

Will Be Illustrative of Development of United States

Seattle, July 20.—Pageantry, combined with drama, oratorio and grand opera, on a scale never before attempted in this country, is the promise of the management of "Americanus," to be presented in the University of Washington Stadium in Seattle each evening in the week of July 23 to 28. This gigantic production will take the place of "The Wayfarer" as the outstanding entertainment feature in the Pacific Northwest this summer.

During "Americanus" will be week the American battleship fleet will be assembled in Seattle harbor and President Harding, returning from his trip to Alaska, will review the fighting machines, the largest collection of naval strength ever seen in the Pacific waters. President Harding will make his Alaska speech in the University Stadium July 27. Because of its wonderful appeal for world peace, founded on the principles of justice and right, it is expected "Americanus" will be of vital interest to the President.

Thousands of sailors and marines from the fleet and soldiers from the surrounding army posts will participate in the production besides the 10,000 actors and singers from Seattle and other cities. The great chorus which will be upwards of 5,000 voices, will be the largest body ever assembled to render the works of the world's most famous composers. The chorus will be accompanied by a 100-piece orchestral band and in the grand finale a musked band of 1,000 instruments will play.

Another big feature of "Americanus" will be the singing of Miss Sophie Braslau, nationally famous operatic star, direct from the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York. Each evening Miss Braslau, who will take the role of the Indian woman Sacajawea, will sing the "Robin Woman's Song" which she created an international sensation in the American opera "Shanewis." Miss Braslau is considered America's greatest contralto singer and in addition to singing the "Robin Woman's Song" also will render concert numbers between episodes while scenery is shifted. Miss Braslau's reputation is known to music lovers throughout the civilized world, and never before in the annals of the Pacific Northwest has a soloist of her standing been engaged for an entire week.

Reduced rates have been made to and from Seattle during "Americanus" week, July 23 to 28, via all railroads.

DRIFTWOOD CREEK.
N. B. Holland and Jack MacKay have returned from prospecting trip in the Babine and report finding a big lead on the property they located last Fall during a hunting trip over the divide from Driftwood Creek. Mr. MacKay states that they have been working for some time on the vein, which has a width of 52 feet. They had a great deal of graphite in the iron capping, but in breaking through this they struck quartz with good ore. Mr. MacKay had some assays made for the ore and he says the values are so good in gold and silver that they intend to do some more work at once.

VISIT OF DENTIST APPRECIATED

Government Sends Professional Man Into Sayward Valley

Sayward, V.I., July 20.—Dr. Moore, of Vancouver, spent the week in the valley, first attending to the needs of the school children, later doing considerable work for the adults. He was helped in his work by the district nurse, Mrs. J. Walls. The residents greatly appreciate the assistance given by the government in the matter of attending to dental needs of the school children. It is also a great help by reducing the cost of the dental work needed by the adults. With the present transportation facilities of this district, it means at least an outlay for transportation to Vancouver and return of at least $2. Then there are hotel expenses, so that through the attention of the government his expense has been saved those who take advantage of the visit. Dr. Moore was greatly impressed with the valley and the amount of development which had taken place. He stated that it was to be regretted that the Island Highway was not extended into this district.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Brown entertained a number of friends to supper on Monday evening, after which a very pleasant social evening was spent. This was given in honor of Mrs. Brown's sister, Mrs. J. Robinson, and daughter, Miss Jean, of Vancouver, who are spending their holidays in the valley as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Brown.

The Sayward Progressive Agricultural Development Society held its regular meeting on July 9 at the home of the secretary, J. E. Armlshaw. There was a large attendance of members and much important business was transacted. Considerable correspondence was read by the secretary, including a very encouraging letter from Dr. Wainwright, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, regarding the society's agricultural fair. It was decided to try and make the fair a district one and to invite the surrounding settlements to cooperate in making the fair a success by sending in exhibits. The society is requesting the Union Steamship Company to grant a cheap excursion rate to Sayward. It is hoped that this will be the means of bringing in a large number of visitors and creating a greater interest in agriculture. A letter was read from the Sayward Women's Institute, promising its full support in the fair. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Armlshaw at the close of the meeting.

The weather continues fine and having in general in the valley, with a bumper crop.

SIDNEY AID FOR CATHEDRAL FUNDS

Special To The Times.

Sidney.—The monthly meeting of St. Andrew's W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. Manning on Wednesday afternoon, the president, Mrs. Critchley, being in the chair. Mrs. J. Brethour, the secretary, read the minutes, which were adopted. The treasurer, Mrs. Philip, read the financial report, which was passed. All the members agreed to work for the coming year of work in Victoria in November in aid of the new cathedral funds, when North Saanich will receive the baby stail. After other business was discussed, Mrs. Manning served tea.

There was a large audience at the recital in the auditorium given by Miss May Ford, Victoria. Miss Matthews gave several vocal solos. Master B. H. Ramsay, of Winnipeg, presented Miss Ford at the end of the evening with a beautiful bouquet.

Mrs. Slade gave a picnic on Sunday at Satellite Channel. The day was spent on the beach. Those present were Mrs. H. H. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. McLeod, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. J. Mr. and Mrs. Wassner, Mrs. Jost, Mrs. Johnson, of Vancouver, the Houldsworths, and Messrs. G. McLeod and E. Knight.

SEPARATIONISTS DISTORT TRUTH, JACKSON CHARGES

country reached a new condition of unity, until her two races were fully amalgamated. Canada has behind it the unifying force of the British Empire.

A Personal Friend.

"Mr. McCrossan is a personal friend of mine," Mr. Jackson declared. "I have known him since he was knee high to a grasshopper. I have great admiration for George. He is an ambitious fellow and I'm glad that he felt, however, that Mr. McCrossan was intoxicated by too much reading of the celebrated Kingdom Papers."

Dealing with Mr. McCrossan's speech in detail, Mr. Jackson stated that Canada was governed by the "whims" of Downing Street. He asked his audience whether any of them had felt the operation of these "whims" in their own experience.

Referring to Mr. McCrossan's attack on the Imperial Privy Council, Mr. Jackson denied the statement that the Privy Council had to do with politics more than law. "There is no politics in the selection of these judges. I wish that were so in Canada," Mr. Jackson asserted. "They are elected purely for their capacity to sit upon the bench as judges." The action of any young lawyer like Mr. McCrossan in impugning the Privy Council members and saying they were governed by political considerations required "no answer but only pity."

To Twist Opinion.

He charged that Mr. McCrossan had tried to twist people's minds and arouse discontent by saying that the Privy Council had arisen from the Star Chamber. Mr. Jackson recalled Canadian historical facts to prove that Canada's constitution, the British North America Act, had been drafted by Canadians. The bargain was made by us," he declared.

The Canadian constitution, Mr. Jackson said, had developed as the British North America Act had been interpreted, until now Canada enjoyed complete partnership with the Mother Country. This condition had been reached largely by interpretation of B.N.A. Act through Privy Council. He quoted well known legal authorities who praised the work of the Privy Council in Canadian legal cases.

Mr. Jackson warmly assailed Mr. McCrossan's statement that if Canadians could make laws they should be able to interpret them. It was his contention, he said, that Canadian disputes should be settled by an independent, impartial arbitrator, just as judgment of private disputes was rendered by an outside party, by the people who were in conflict.

To support this Mr. Jackson quoted a speech by Sir Charles Hilbert Tupper, who vigorously defended the Privy Council and referred to its advantage in being in an impartial atmosphere. Such a tribunal, Sir Charles felt did not rob Canada of any job of self-respect or power.

Settling Vexed Issues.

Mr. Jackson quoted other authorities to show how useful the Privy Council had been in interpreting the laws of Canada and settling vexed and serious questions.

If the Privy Council were useless, as Mr. McCrossan thought, why, Mr. Jackson asked, did Canadian lawyers so frequently take their cases direct to the Privy Council instead of to the Supreme Court of Canada? If the Privy Council were useless this was a reflection on Canadian legal thought, because a leading Canadian judge had always sat on the Council's judicial committee. To-day, Mr. Jackson pointed out, Mr. Justice Duff, of Victoria, was a distinguished member of the Judicial Committee.

Copyright Law.

Referring to Mr. McCrossan's attack on present copyright law conditions in Canada, Mr. Jackson admitted that Canada had accepted an unsatisfactory international copyright agreement. It was true, Mr. Jackson said, that the British Government had listened to powerful publishers and had refused to allow Canada to withdraw from the copyright agreement. Later, however, these influences had been removed and now Canada had a free hand in copyright matters.

"Is this a real grievance?" he demanded. "It is a fair sample of the grievances that are worrying men like Mr. McCrossan."

Mr. Jackson went on to discuss Mr. McCrossan's statement that Canada could not control naturalization. "As a matter of fact the dominions enjoy greater powers in regard to naturalization, in some respects, than do the people of the 'Old Country,'" he asserted. The Hanayata Maru case, he said, had shown that Canada could even prevent the entry of British subjects from India. If it wished to do so. In any case, legislation passed by the Imperial Parliament in 1914 had given the dominions the same power to grant certificates of naturalization as the British Government.

Spirit of Rebellion.

Mr. Jackson bitterly assailed Mr. McCrossan and others for stamping up and down the country and raising a spirit of rebellion over imagined grievances like that of naturalization. Grievances raised by the misconstruction and misinterpretation of facts. "I resent it!" he exclaimed.

Mr. Jackson said he was unable to find anything oppressive in Canada's shipping laws about which Mr. McCrossan had complained. He felt proud that Canada's ships were merely "British ships," as Mr. McCrossan had said—ships of the greatest marine organization in history.

Trade Treaties.

Mr. McCrossan's statement that Canada could not make trade and commercial treaties was equally absurd, Mr. Jackson proceeded. Canada, he said, did negotiate her trade treaties and had done so for years. More than this, no treaty signed by the British Government bound Canada until ratified by the Canadian Parliament. Thus, by gradual steps Canada had reached a state of complete freedom, Mr. Jackson affirmed.

Mr. McCrossan's statement that Canada had reached a state of complete freedom, Mr. Jackson affirmed. He thought that his audiences were simple and gullible.

Sealing Situation.

Mr. Jackson attacked Mr. McCrossan's insinuation that the British Empire should leave the Crowns of the United States over the sealing dispute, and his reflection on the British navy for not defending Canadian leads that would any British or Canadian leader have approved a bloody disastrous war with the States on this issue, he demanded.

And Canada were an independent nation, Mr. McCrossan desired a war with the United States would be ridiculous. Canada, standing alone, and with her small population, would be but a morsel for any imperial nation, he declared. The geography, the division of the country in many parts made it necessary for her to have some form of defence against the attacks of Britain herself, he warned. Until Canada was completely unified, until the French and British races were amalgamated, Canada must have the unifying force of the British Empire behind it, the speaker urged.

A Real Sovereignty.

Mr. Jackson quoted the late Lord Bryce and other eminent authorities to show that Canada had a real sovereignty, finally pointing out in the Versailles Treaty of 1919. The important thing to consider was that Canada did govern herself and could, if she wished, even refuse to support a war declared by the British Government.

"Discussing Canada's Oriental problem," Mr. Jackson quoted authorities to prove that the white race was menaced to-day by the growing colored race. The colored races were combining as they did in the middle ages for another onward sweep for land for their increasing numbers. In the face of this the white people of the world should combine instead of fighting among themselves, he said.

CLEGG RE-ELECTED INSURANCE CHIEF

Local Agents Met Last Night at Dinner, and Chose New Officers

The Victoria and District Fire Insurance Agents' Association members held their regular annual meeting last night at the Cadboro Bay Hotel, at which they discussed various important business matters of interest to agents here, and followed the opening remarks of the chairman, and S. Clegg, who was appointed president of the association, when W. Day was elected vice-president, re-elected by a unanimous vote and also by a unanimous vote and members of an executive were elected, as follows: A. C. Pitt, Frank Jordan, W. Campbell, H. E. Brett and T. J. J. The report of the president, Mr. Clegg, summarized the work of the association, and drew particular attention to the question of banks and trust companies entering the field of insurance business, declaring that a Dominion wide organization of fire insurance agents was the goal to be aimed at by every individual, and that co-operation between all parties was necessary to promote the best interests of the agents and the public.

The Report.

According to the report of F. E. Fatt, local secretary of the Fire Insurance Agents' Association, there are now 57 first agents in Victoria, and only three of these are non-members of the association. There are also 32 second agents, and all of these are members of the local body, with the exception of two. The total number of agents is 89, and 84 of these are association members. These figures were a source of pleasing information to the association last night.

The report of Mr. Fatt read, in part, as follows: "S. Clegg was elected November 1, president of the association here, owing to the fact that the ex-president, W. S. Day, removed his office to Vancouver. At this time the three Coast Associations started exchanging copies of their minutes, so enabling one another to keep in touch with the work each was doing."

"The association," continued the report, "has sent delegates to Vancouver four times during the year, and the other executives have visited the Victoria office." The report outlined the many activities of the association during the year and was considered most satisfactory.

The assembled company sat down to dinner at eight o'clock, about fifty men being present, presided over by Mr. Clegg. The guests of honor were J. F. Dougherty, Provincial Superintendent of Insurance, J. H. King, Secretary of the Canadian Automobile Underwriters' Association, Toronto, and A. E. Goodman, Secretary of the British Columbia Automobile Underwriters' Association, Vancouver.

Following the toast to the King, was one to the department of insurance, represented by Mr. Dougherty. L. U. Conyers proposed this, and the assembly sang, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." Mr. Dougherty gave a most interesting informal address, quoting facts and figures which were important to the men assembled in a business way, yet introducing no little amount of humor into his remarks, which kept his audience highly amused.

To Eliminate Idiots.

"Out of the 1,400, approximately, fire insurance agents in the Province," said Mr. Dougherty, "I have refused licenses to about 400 on various grounds. No lawyers in towns of over 1,000 in population should be permitted to sell fire insurance, and the only women agents are those who are widows or wives whose husbands are deceased." He continued, saying that owing to the work of his department many of the agents who were at present taking things easily and not representing their companies properly, would be eliminated from the list of insurance agents in British Columbia, owing to the efforts of his department. Speaking of the Insurance Act, he said that this would prove beneficial both to the agents and to the public.

James Forman responded to the toast to the British Columbia Underwriters' Association, telling of the useful work done by the administrative committee in re-organizing the province as a whole, and of the 25,000 inspections of special risks which had been carried out. In six or eight months this task would be completed, he said. "The total of premiums in B. C.," said this speaker, "is $5,000,000, and in Quebec, a province of five times the population the total amount of premiums is only $12,000,000."

F. B. J. Stevenson proposed a toast to the insurance business in Victoria, and this was replied to by J. W. Campbell. The latter spoke of the need of a more democratic method of carrying out fire insurance operations and said that there were many things which required rectifying. That many agents in B. C. were highly ignorant of their occupation and out of touch with the going of the associations regarding the business was a lamentable fact, he said.

His final plea was for greater co-operation within the association. Toast of the Guests.

The toast to the guests was read to by Mr. King, secretary of the British Columbia Automobile Underwriters' Association, and he impressed upon the agents the fact that they were not insuring motors, but the men who drove the cars. The company should know the man which was being insured, and should be informed of his record through the agent. Fortunately the class of insurance agents there were parasites being attracted to the business he believed, Mr. Goodman, secretary of the B. C. Automobile Underwriters' Association, spoke very briefly of the friendly relations existing between the Provincial and Dominion bodies of underwriters.

The evening was partly enjoyed, and it was felt by that it had been beneficial to agents and officials, and to the public.

FATHER, BO AND IAN DROWNED

Hamilton, C., July 20.—In an attempt to save Bruce Nichol, aged ten years, from drowning, Archie Nichol, aged thirty-seven, his father, and Howard Gold, a visitor from Stratford, were drowned with the boy in the Grand River yesterday.

The head of the firm had caught the off-duty boy telling a lie. "Boy," he said, "you know what they do with us that tell lies." "Yes, sir," was a reply, "when they are old enough, the firm sends them out as travellers."

ISLAND'S AGENT IN SEATTLE BUSY

Harold Palmer Directing Many Tourists Towards Vancouver Island

Information has been received by the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau from Harold Palmer, who is at present working among tourists in Seattle and endeavoring to get them to come to Vancouver Island, to the effect that he was being literally besieged by enquiries from residents of the city and tourists passing through it, for information on Vancouver Island, and Victoria in particular. Mr. Palmer asserts that those tourists coming south from Vancouver for the most part do nothing but find fault with the Island, and many of them go so far as to advise tourists not to come here, but to see Vancouver first and then go south again. Many tourists have come to him, says Mr. Palmer, for confirmation of these reports, and as a rule his denial is sufficient to send them on their way north again to Vancouver Island, for which they were originally headed.

Every day Victoria's representative in Seattle sends a list of parties which are headed this way, and the Publicity Bureau is always welcoming them when they arrive. An endless procession of motors is coming northwards, and their destination is generally the Vancouver Island highway and points near and about Victoria. Mr. Palmer is working hard to interest the motorists going through Seattle in the possibilities offered the tourist on this Island, and is making a great success of the work.

It is expected that the results of the work of the agents in this city in Seattle and other American towns will be productive of big things. Undoubtedly their efforts are the means of greatly increasing the motor travel on the Island's roads, and the city of Victoria and other places on the Island all benefit accordingly.

RETAIL MERCHANTS TO GATHER IN EAST

H. S. Stevenson Is Victoria's Delegate to Big Conference

H. S. Stevenson will be Victoria's representative at the Dominion Convention in Montreal of the Retail Merchants' Association. He was chosen by the local dealers some time ago, and with other delegates from British Columbia will leave shortly for the East, where the first session of the convention will begin August 6. This day is set as secretary's conference day. Two more days will be taken up with the general business of the association.

Other delegates from British Columbia will be as follows: Daryl Kent and J. T. Crowder, of Vancouver; R. J. Gordon, of Kelowna; J. H. Main, from Nanaimo; J. H. Ashwell, from Chilliwack, and the Victoria representative, Mr. Stevenson.

Meetings of the association have been held in Vancouver, and Victoria has presented several suggestions and arguments for changes in the laws governing retailers and stockholders generally. These will in all probability come up at the convention in Montreal in August. Merchants here are hopeful that they will be enabled to get some definite action through the gathering in the East, and that the questions which are at present bothering them will be threshed out once and for all.

ELEVATOR SPACE IS INCREASED
 Preparations to Handle Great Crop Made on Prairies
 Call for Many Harvesters will Soon Be Heard

Winnipeg, July 20.—The wheat fields of the prairies will shortly send forth their call for harvesters. From present indications the need this year will be greater than ever before, and the prairie farmers everywhere faced with the prospect of the greatest crop in the history of the West, are wondering who will help them harvest their grain. Already the question of harvest labor is being seriously canvassed. Travelers reaching Winnipeg from the West all tell the same story of wonderful fields of grain, the like of which they had never seen before. In certain small areas damage from hail is reported, but it must be remembered that the hail damage, in the main, was confined to small strips of territory. In most cases very narrow, while the areas surrounding these small strips are promising the best yields of their history.

Sixty-one Thousand Needed
 The present estimate shows a need of some 61,000 harvesters, for whom plenty of work is assured. This estimate has been reached only after a most careful check of all sources of information. Local and provincial labor officials have all been asked to make a very careful estimate, and these officials in turn have collaborated with the Dominion Government and railway officials, so that every safeguard against misleading estimates has been taken. Special provision for the transportation, handling and distribution of this harvest labor after it reaches the prairies is being made by the railway, and employment service organizations and harvesters from the Southeast and West will be given every assistance to enable them to reach the fields where their labor is needed without delay or difficulty.

Elevator Space
 As an evidence of the way in which this year's crop is viewed by the grain dealers themselves, it is notable that along many of the lines of the Canadian National Railways throughout the three prairie provinces the construction of additional line elevator capacity is being rushed in order to accommodate the unprecedented yield of grain which this year is expected.

LIONS WITH A KICK
 Green was always spinning yarns about his experiences in Africa and usually he wound up by saying he never yet saw a lion he feared. One night after he had finished yarning, as was taken over by one of his audience, who said:
 "That's nothing. I have thrown myself down and actually slept among lions in their wild, natural state."
 "I can't believe that," said the bold hunter.
 "It's the truth, though."
 "Can you prove it? Were they African?"
 "Well, not exactly African lions. They were dandelions."

BRINGING UP FATHER

FOR THE CHILDREN
The Sandman Story For To-night
FIVE BAD GOBLINS

Once in a garden, long, long ago there grew a rose bush, and in those days, so the fairies say, the rose bush had no thorn to prick your fingers. And the fairies say it never would have had thorns if something had not happened which made it necessary for the protection of the little fairies that every pretty rose bush should have thorns.

In this long-ago garden one night five dainty little fairies, after they had finished their work tinting the flowers, crept into the half-opened buds of five roses and went to sleep. They did not intend to sleep very long, just long enough to rest before joining their sister fairies at the Queen in the dell below for a midnight frolic. But the little fairies were tired, and they did not wake up at the magic hour when all the little magic folk are abroad.

The goblins reached the end of the path they tumbled right into the garden. "Oh," exclaimed one little goblin, "this is a flower garden and the tinting fairies have been here. Let's spill every flower that has been colored. The Queen will be sure to see it and scold them!" To every goblin who went and pulled off a petal and, of course, they came to the rose bush where the five little fairies were fast asleep. The goblin that had climbed the rose bush where he discovered the sleeping fairies quickly scrambled down and ran to tell his brothers. "They are fast asleep and we will steal their wands and hide them," he said. "No, let us carry them off to our home, and change the stones into things we want," said another. "Yes," whispered the others, but while they were climbing the rose bush to get the wands one goblin whispered it would be great sport to pull the rose buds apart and let the fairies tumble out.

To each rosebud went a goblin. First he took the wand from the sleeping fairy and tucked it under one arm. Then he pulled at the rose bud, and amid the falling rose petals each little fairy fell out on the ground. The five bad goblins jumped and away they ran before the bewildered little fairies could pick themselves up or know just what had happened. Five little fairies jumped up and rubbed their sleepy eyes, but it was only a second before they discovered that their wands were gone. "It was the goblins," said one. "They must have wandered into the garden and climbed the rose bush and carried off our wands." "Look, sisters," said another little fairy, "those bad goblins came here to do mischief. Look at the pretty flowers that we tinted. Every one has lost a petal." "They came to destroy our work and happened to find us asleep, so they stole our wands. We must hurry to the dell and tell the Queen what has happened." "When the fairy Queen heard their story she did not scold, she smiled and said: "Wait and see what happens. You shall have your wands this very night, I promise you. Now run along and join in the dance with your sisters!" How long the merrymaking of the fairies had been going on no one could tell, but long before daylight streaked the sky five unhappy-looking goblins came slowly into the dell and made their way to the throne of the Queen. They were all dressed in white and carried a bundle of thorns on their backs. Under one arm each held the wand they had stolen just as he carried it away from the rose bush. They had not been able to do anything else, for when they tried to take the wand from under their arm each goblin found he could not move it to his arm either. All of their brother goblins tugged and pulled at the wands, trying to help them. But it was of no use, the arm and wand could not be moved.

Meanwhile, Turkish forces very ill-equipped, were making threatening gestures at Egypt across the desert of Sinai.

And while the Germans were thus striking at Britain, their least accessible and most formidable antagonist, through the air and under the sea, the French and British were also embarking upon a disastrous flank attack in the East upon the Central Powers through Turkey. All of their brilliant campaign was finely imagined, but disgracefully executed. Had it succeeded the Allies would have captured Constantinople in 1916. But the Turks were given two months' notice of the project by a premature bombardment of the Dardanelles in February, the scheme was also promptly betrayed through the treachery of the British and French forces were landed upon the Gallipoli Peninsula. In April, they found the Turks well entrenched and better equipped for trench warfare than themselves.

The Allies trusted for heavy artillery to the great guns of the ships, which were comparatively useless for trench warfare, and among every other sort of thing that they had failed to foresee, they had not foreseen hostile submarines. Several great battleships were lost; they were blown up in the same way, and once sailed to their fate at Salamis. The story of the Gallipoli campaign from the side of the Allies is an epic heroic and brilliant story of courage and incompetence, and of life, material and prestige wasted, culminating in a withdrawal in January, 1916.

Greece and Bulgaria.
 Linked up closely with the vacillation of Greece was the entry of Bulgaria into the war (October 12, 1915). The King of Bulgaria had hesitated for more than a year to make any decision between the two sides. Now the manifest failure of the British at Gallipoli, coupled with a strong Austro-German attack in Serbia, swung him over to the central powers.

While the Serbs were hotly engaged with the Austro-German invaders upon the Danube, the Austro-Serbian in the rear, and in a few weeks the country had been completely overrun. The Serbian army made a terrible retreat through the mountains of Albania to the coast, where its remains were rescued by an Allied fleet.

An Allied force landed at Salonika in Greece, and pushed inland towards Monastir, but was unable to render any effectual assistance to the Serbs. It was the Salonika plans which sealed the fate of the Gallipoli expedition. To the East, in Mesopotamia, the British, using Indian troops chiefly, made a still more risky attack upon the Central Powers. An army, very ill provided for the campaign, was landed at Basra in the November of 1914, and pushed up towards Baghdad in the following year. It gained so they had to come to the Fairy Queen for help. Very shamefaced did those five naughty goblins look as they approached the Queen; they did not have to tell her they had come. She gently touched each arm that held the wand and down fell the wand and away scampered those five goblins so fast that their heels looked like tiny pebbles tossing up and down in the moonlight. They did not even thank the Queen. All they thought of was getting away from the fairy dell and locking themselves in their rocky homes. But the roses had to be thought of, and the Queen thought of the fairies always used them to sleep in when they were away from home. So the Queen that very night started off in her pearl coach with its white mice horses, visited all the rose bushes and placed thorns on every one.

And now you know why the sweet roses have thorns on their stems—to keep the goblins from disturbing the fairies if they happen to fall asleep in a rose bud. For I am certain you will agree that once a goblin pricked his finger with a sharp thorn he would scamper away and never touch a rose bush again.

H.G. WELLS FAMOUS OUTLINE OF HISTORY The Romance of Mother Earth

The Catastrophe of 1914

The Coming of the Tank.

A victory at Ctesiphon, the ancient Assyrian and Sasanid capital, within twenty-five miles of Baghdad, but the Turks were heavily reinforced, there was a retreat to Kut, and there the British army, under Gen. Townshend, was surrounded and forced to surrender on April 29, 1916. Armies Slowly Learning. All these campaigns in the air, under the seas, in Russia, Turkey and Asia, were subsidiary to the main front, the front of decision, between the main millions lay entrenched, slowly learning the necessary methods of modern scientific warfare.

There was a rapid progress in the use of the aeroplanes. At the outset of the war this had been used chiefly for scouting, and by the Germans for the dropping of marks for the artillery. Such a thing as aerial fighting was unheard of. In 1916 the aeroplanes carried machine guns and fought in the air; their bombing work was increasingly important, they had developed a wonderful use of aerial photography and the aerial use of the aeroplane, both with aeroplanes and observation balloons, had been enormously developed.

But the military mind was still resisting the use of the tank, the obvious weapon for decision in trench warfare. Many intelligent people outside military circles understood this matter clearly. The use of the tank against trenches was an altogether obvious expedient. Leonardo da Vinci understood an early tank, but what military "expert" has ever had the wit to study Leonardo? Soon after the South African war, in 1903, there were stories in magazines describing imaginary battles in which tanks figured, and a complete working model of a tank made by Mr. J. A. Corry, of Leeds, was shown to the British military authorities—who of course rejected it—in 1911. Tanks had been invented, and re-invented before the war began. But had the matter rested entirely in the hands of the military, there would never have been any use of tanks.

It was Mr. Winston Churchill, who was at the British Admiralty in 1915-16, who insisted upon the manufacture of the first tanks, and it was in the teeth of the grimest opposition that they were sent to France. To the British navy, and not to the army, military science owes the use of these devices. The German military authorities were equally set against them. In July, 1916, Sir Douglas Haig, the British commander-in-chief, began a great offensive which failed to break through the German line. In some places he was unsuccessful. There was a huge slaughter of the new British armies. And he did not use tanks.

The First Tanks.
 In September, when the season was growing too late for a sustained offensive, tanks first appeared in war-

Toronto, July 20.—Crown Attorney Eric Armour, K.C., has announced that on and after Monday, July 23, the new Ontario statute respecting the publication of betting information, and the recent amendment to the Criminal Code regarding the importation of racing forms would be vigorously enforced. "As the officers of the Crown are of the opinion the Ontario act is intra vires, no test cases will be taken," he said.

250 BOYS AND GIRLS COMING TO THIS COUNTRY

London, July 20.—(Canadian Press Cable)—A party of 250 Barnado boys and girls left Southampton yesterday on the Steamship Minnedosa for Canada.

A few were put into action by the British in a not very intelligent fashion. Their effect upon the Germans was profound, they produced something like a panic, and there can be little doubt that had they been used in July in sufficient numbers and handled by a general of imagination and energy they would have ended the war there and then.

At that time the Allies were in greater strength than the Germans upon the Western front. The odds were roughly 7 to 4. Russia, though fast approaching exhaustion, was still fighting. Italy was pressing the Austrians hard, and Rumania was just entering the war on the side of the Allies. But the waste of men in this disastrous July offensive brought the Allied cause to the very brink of disaster. Directly the Allies failure of July had reassured the Germans, they turned on the Rumanians, and the Winter of 1916 saw the same fate overtake Rumania that had fallen upon Serbia in 1915. The year that had begun with the retreat from Gallipoli and the surrender of Kut, ended with the crushing of Rumania and with volleys fired at a landing party of French and British marines by a royalist crowd in the port of Athens. It looked as though King Constantine of Greece meant to lead his people in the footsteps of King Ferdinand of Bulgaria. But the exact line of Greece is one much exposed to naval attack. Greece was blockaded, and a French force from Salonika joined hands with an Italian force from Valona to cut the King of Greece off from his central European friends.

(In July, 1917, Constantine was forced to abdicate by the Allies, and his son Alexander was made King in his place.) On the whole, things looked much less dangerous for the Hohenzollern imperialism at the end of 1916 than they had done after the failure of the first great rush at the Marne. The Allies had wasted two years of opportunity. Belgium, Serbia and Rumania, and large areas of France and Russia, were occupied by Austro-German troops. Counterattacks after counterattacks had failed, and Russia was now tottering towards a collapse.

Had Germany been ruled with any wisdom, she might have made a reasonable peace at this time. But the touch of success had intoxicated her imperialists. They wanted not safety, but triumph, not world welfare, but world empire. "World peace" or "downfall" was their formula; it gave their antagonists no alternative but a fight to a conclusive end.

NOBODY'S MAN

"You mean that I ought to be husband hunting," she said. "I quite admit that a husband would be a very wonderful addition to life. I have none of the sentiments of the old maid. On the other hand, I am rather a fatalist. If any man is likely to come my way whom I should care to marry, he is just as likely to find me here as though I trapped the thoroughfares of the world, searching for him. At last! she went on, in a changed tone, as she poured out his coffee, "to hope you will find it good. The cigarettes are at your elbow. This is quite one of the moments of life, isn't it?"

He agreed with her emphatically. "A counsel of perfection," he murmured, as she sniffed the delicate Turkish tobacco. "Tell me some more about yourself?" She shook her head. "I am much too selfish a person," she declared, "and nothing that I do or say or am amounts to very much. I want you to let me live a little of your life. Talk either about your soldiering or your politics. You have been a Cabinet Minister and you will be again. Tell me about it. I should like to be one of the world's governors?"

"Not in the least. I am content to leave that entirely to fate." "Bucolic? Intellectual? An artist? A man of affairs?" She made a little grimace. "How can I tell? I cannot conceive caring for an ordinary person, but then every woman feels like that. And, you see, if I did care, he wouldn't be ordinary—to me. And so far as I am concerned," she insisted, with a shade of restlessness in her manner, "that finishes the subject. You must please devote yourself to telling me at least some of the things I want to know. What is the use of having one of the world's successful men lute-a-tete, a prisoner to my hospitality, unless I can make him gratify my curiosity?"

The thought created by her words burned through his mind like a flash of destroying lightning. "One of the world's successful men," he repeated. "Is that how I seem to you?" "And to the world," she asserted. He shook his head sadly. "I have worked very hard," he said. "I have been very ambitious. A few of my ambitions have been gratified, but the glory of them has passed with attainment. Now I enter upon the last lap and I possess none of the things I started out in life to achieve."

"But how absurd!" she exclaimed. "You are one of our great politicians. You would have to be reckoned with in any regrouping of parties." "Without ever a seat in the House of Commons," he reminded her, bitterly. "And again, how can a man be a great politician when there are no parties?" "The confusion among the parties has become chaos, and I for one have not been clear-sighted enough to see my way through."

"Of course, I know vaguely what you mean," she said, "but remember that I am only a newspaper-educated politician. Can't you be a little more explicit?" He lit another cigarette and smoked restlessly for a moment. "I'll try and explain, if I can," he went on. "To be a successful politician, from the standard which you or I would aim at, a man needs not only political insight, but he needs to be able to adopt his views to the practical programme of one of the existing parties, or else to be strong enough to form a party of his own. That is where I have come to the cul-de-sac in my career. It was my ambition to guide the working classes of the country into their rightful place in our social scheme, but I have also always been an intensely keen Imperialist, and therefore at daggers drawn with many of the so-called Labor leaders. The consequence has been that for ten years I have been hanging on to the thin edge of nothing, a member of the Coalition Government, a member of a hot-patch party which was created by the combination of the Radicals and the Unionists with the scheme of seeing the country through its great

PLAN FOR DISPLAY IN BRITISH EMPIRE EXHIBITION

Local Firms Rally to Support of Show Next Year

Before leaving yesterday J. S. McKinnon, of Toronto, representing the Canadian Industrial Department of the British Empire Exhibition, informed The Times that his negotiations here had been most successful, both with the Provincial Government and with the manufacturers. Apart from the official exhibits, he had received promises from J. H. Todd & Sons, the British-American Paint Company, and other firms that they would be represented directly.

This great exhibition, Mr. McKinnon pointed out, will provide a remarkable opportunity for the display of Canadian products. The Canadian manufacturer would not be discriminated against through competition by Canadian firms with London offices securing more advantageous space. Those firms could not secure it simply by proximity to the exhibition, as a guarantee was given that all space in the Canadian Building would be located in Canada, through his department.

manufacturer had a great chance to build up trade within the Empire. The imports entered for consumption totalled $179,557,900 from ports within the British Empire, while Canadian exports to places within the Empire aggregated $439,600,000. The imports from the United States were $249,800,000, and exports to that country $259,000,000 or as the total trade was $508,455,000 of imports, and $292,451,000 of exports. It could be readily seen there was a very large margin of imports and exports of articles which could be produced in British countries. In British Columbia, the Oriental trade was of exceptional importance, and it might be stated that the exports last year to China were $5,125,000 and the imports $1,460,000, while to Japan the exports were $7,211,000 and the imports $14,516,000.

Mr. McKinnon met a number of local manufacturers before leaving for the Mainland. He stated that the location was ideal for P. C. exhibits in the Canadian Building, upon which work had already started. It will be in the Neo-Grec architecture, on a commanding site in Westminster Park, London. The building will be 415 feet long, and 200 feet wide, with a floor space of 124,500 square feet. The Canadian exhibit will be a separate building, entirely by the Federal Government. The estimated cost is $1,000,000. On the adjacent site will be two additional buildings for the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways, with a floor space each of approximately 10,000 feet.

WESTERN ONTARIO TRADE BODY COMING

Hundred Members of Associated Boards Will See Victoria's Possibilities

One hundred members of the Associated Boards of Trade of Western Ontario will arrive here August 30 from the East, and will be entertained by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

The visitors have notified the local authorities of their intended sojourn here, and expect to see the most attractive sights of a city, the fame of whose beauty they say has spread far and wide on this continent, and even across the oceans. The Chamber of Commerce is making arrangements whereby the visiting Boards of Trade members may be driven about the city by automobile and shown "this beauty."

It seems probable, in the opinion of the Chamber of Commerce and Publicity Bureau representatives here, that the delegates who come to this city and see the various attractions which it has to offer, cannot fail but return to their homes with tales of happy days and memories in the Victoria Chamber of Commerce. This fact should prove a valuable means of drawing settlers and tourists to Victoria and Vancouver Island, they say. Local officials are anxious to let them see everything there is to impress them with Victoria's possibilities as an industrial centre.

ISLAND DELEGATES TO MEET AUGUST 30

A telegram from Nanaimo to the Chamber of Commerce here definitely set August 14 as the date for the convention of the Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island and the Victoria Chamber of Commerce at the mining city. Victoria will send two delegates, besides the President of the Chamber, C. T. Cross.

It is expected that business affecting the Island as a whole, will be the chief topic of discussion. Representatives from all the chief industrial centres of the Island will be present and all have their problems of local import and general interest to bring up. Such a meeting will establish more amicable relations between the cities and towns of the Island, and will mean the beginning of true co-operative work, it was explained to-day.

BARBERS CHOOSE SLOGAN

Say No Movement These Days Is Complete Without a Catchword, So They Pick on the Safety Razor.

No event of importance, these days is complete without a slogan. Victoria barbers' movement is no exception to-day. Words put into a fitting phrase to express the heart-throb of the barber's movement, that attracts or inspires the achievement, has come to be nearly as necessary as toothpicks at a banquet or suckers to an oil well promoter, they say.

The barbers of Victoria feeling the need of something along this line in conjunction with their most successful summer carnival and picnic, that is to be held early in August, have put into motion a string of five words which they assert cover their deepest sentiments both in a business and holiday respect. This is it:— "T— with the safety razor."
