The Commissioners of the Alms House have liberally appropriated part of the building for the reception of females during their accouchements. This department will be under the immediate charge of the Professor of Obstetrics.

To enable the Student to become acquainted with disease peculiar to the negro race, the old College has been converted into an Infirmary, where such Medical gentlemen as may frequently be in Charleston, will send their patients, and give a History of their case, with the plan of treatment.

The Faculty would also in the hope of being thus enabled to contribute more than formerly to the public good, invite the Medical Society, and the profession everywhere else enjoyed. No effort shall be wanting to render the College worthy of the patronage of a liberal and enlightened public.

MR. LANAVIT states, that when he left the house corner of Bourbon and Custom House streets, he was indebted to the firm of Carriere & Borduzat about $9000; that previous to this, say about two months, Mr. Borduzat called upon him, and said that if he did not immediately pay the money he owed him, he would compel him to become a bankrupt—and that although it was against his interest he would do it, even at the loss of four or five thousand dollars.

Mr. L. replied that if Mr. B. would give him time to find a purchaser satisfactory to the above firm he would endeavor to obtain one, and that he offered Mr. Lorellhe, then his book-keeper, and well acquainted with the business, who gave as security Messrs. Vandecourt & Landreau, which were accepted very willingly by Mr. Borduzat. Although Mr. Lanavit at the time declined endorsing this note, observing at the same time that he intended to be reimbursed by the firm for any amount due, above the debt of Messrs. Carriere & Borduzat, which was instantly agreed to by all parties, and the balance was afterwards paid into the hands of Mr. Lanavit.

The conclusion to every honest man must be, that if Mr. Borduzat considered Mr. Lanavit in his debt to the amount of about $9000, would he have refunded the sum of 3 or $4000 which Mr. Lanavit did receive, when the affairs were closed.

Mr. Lanavit has receipts to prove, the above which he is willing to submit to arbitration.

If Mr. Borduzat considered Mr. Lanavit as a dishonest man, why did he after the above transaction again endorse for him, to the amount of $2500, when Mr. Lanavit entered into copartnership with Mr. Desbois for the stock of Madam widow Dupuy?

Mr. Lanavit further states that when he dissolved business with Mr. Desbois, it was advertised in the newspapers of this city that all debts due from the concern should be paid by said Desbois, consequently Mr. Borduzat must have been acquainted with the same.

LANAVIT.

We, the undersigned, at the request of Mr. Lanavit, called upon Mr. Borduzat, of the firm of Carriere & Borduzat, to obtain an explanation, if he could give any, of certain expressions used towards Mr. Lanavit, and if not, to inform him that other steps would be resorted to; that he replied until Mr. Lanavit reimbursed to him the sum of about $9000 he could enter into no further explanation.

We then returned to Mr. Lanavit for further information and received from him the following document for publication, and from all that he represented to us we cannot but believe in his honesty, and more especially as he has consented to have the whole business transaction between them referred to a fair arbitration.

Seeing that Mr. Lanavit had no other mode of obtaining redress, as after we had returned to Mr. Borduzat with the before mentioned document for his inspection, he still declined any explanation or apology, we deemed it our duty as friends of Mr. Lanavit, to pursue the present course, after which he might seek redress elsewhere if he saw fit.
