

Describing two knives changes the meaning of a news story...

“He had two knives...”

When a Wikinews article says this, it asserts as a fact that he had two knives. All sources agree. There is no need to question this statement.

“Police said he had two knives...”

When a Wikinews article says this, it asserts that the fact of the person having two knives is in question. The actual fact is the police made this claim.

When writing an article, be clear on the facts.
