January 2021 Platform Evolution/Structured Data Metrics

Platform Evolution & Structured Data
		Change from Baseline	Year End Goal
Structured Data Used across Wikis	110.3 M	26.8%	80.0%
Non-text Content Used across Wikis	30.9 M	-0.8%	10.0%
% of Wikidata Items Reused on Other Projects	20.6%		25.0%

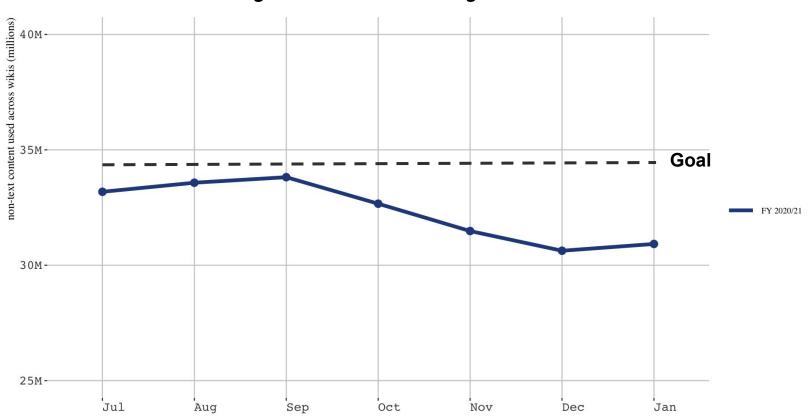

Key trends

- Growth for structured data used across wikis slowed down in January, because of decrease in SD bot edits.
- The number of files used on content pages has declined each month since July 2020. We suspect this decline is organic as curators clean up pages.
- The growth rates of wikidata items and reused wikidata items were very close. As a result, % of reused items was nearly constant.

- The increase in pageviews was driven by an overall 8% YoY increase in English and Japanese Wikipedia, from external search engine and internal referral.
- We continued to see stronger growth in desktop than Mobile web this month. The growth was most prominent in German, Japanese, Spanish and Russian Wikipedia.
- Consistent with the spikes we saw in overall traffic, unique devices increased YoY across countries, especially in Japan and India.

On 29 April 2020, Analytics Engineering implemented new bot detection to identify previously-unidentified bots as "automated" agents. For consistency in reporting with prior years' metrics, we will include "automated" agents in our high-level reporting through the end of FY20-21. See Wikitech for details about bot detection.
