The Luxurious Hotel

There are people—in Seattle and other places--who are unacquainted with the advantages of

and to such we address a few remarks.

If you really appreciate a hotel that is absolutely fire proof, splendidly located, European plan, spacious sample rooms with baths, every convenience known to the best hotels, taking into consideration exceptional service, moderate rates, say single rooms with bath as low as $2.50, you will be satisfied with the “New Washington.”

As to the excellent Cafe in connection it will satisfy the most discerning.

If you are thinking of a visit to Seattle, better write

OVER 10,000 COPIES OF

Raymer's Dictionary of Greater Seattle

Have been sold within the city limits besides those sent all over the world.

BETTER THINK IT OVER

FOREWORD

The purpose of this volume is to give the stranger a guidebook to the city, which shall also contain descriptive and historical matter, giving him a brief outline of the city's greatness. The field chosen for this work can only be covered by a book of this kind and its alphabetical arrangement will be found a great convenience. In a certain sense the book is a directory. Under the headings, Amusements, Churches, Clubs, Hotels, Parks, Public Buildings, Railroads, Street Railroads, and Theatres, will be found complete information on any of these subjects, while appendant to the dictionary is a map and accompanying street directory.

While intended chiefly for use of visitors, this book contains much that will be found of value to the residents of Seattle, and, as a book of ready reference, contains much concerning the city that will be found of value to each individual citizen.

It is to be supposed that a work of this kind and character involves the mention of many business names. As a result the value of the work must be judged by the disinterested character of such a mention. The useful capacity of a guide-book would be obviously destroyed if the reader was to be misled at every step. A legitimate guide-book should contain none but the plain, unembellished facts, and this principle has been carefully observed by the publisher. But it must also be remembered that the primary object of such a work is to point out to the stranger places of interest, whether of a public or private nature. There are advertisements, but they appear openly as advertisements. No advertisements appear under the guise of reading matter, nor has any mention been influenced by the presence of an advertisement.

The average stranger will hardly sojourn in the city over two or three days, and in that case a hotel would suggest itself as the most convenient place of abode. The publisher has been careful to select the names of none but the first class hotels, but should less expensive accommodations be desired, there are many rooming houses advertised, which will fill all requirements. The reader may be referred to the subject "Places of Interest," but we would suggest that the sight-seeing stranger read the book through, before beginning his tour. The salient features will easily attract the eye and give the reader a comprehensive idea of what he should see and where he should go.

Of course it is impossible to compile a perfect book, and the publishers would be pleased to have corrections and suggestions sent in to Raymer's Old Book Store, 1522 First Ave., Seattle, Wash.

Raymer's Dictionary of Greater Seattle and Vicinity

About Seattle—Seattle, the metropolis of the State, is as proudly located as Rome on her seven hills. Nothing in the State of Washington more charms the eye than the commanding location and superb growth of the City of Seattle. It is the queen city of a great State and running over with rare and undeveloped opportunities. It fronts west on Elliott Bay, and its wonderful harbor is four miles long and two miles wide. On the east is Lake Washington, a fresh water lake twenty-five miles long and from two to four miles wide. Within the city limits are Lake Union and Green Lake. The general surface of the city is hilly, consisting of long ridges which rise to an elevation of three hundred feet above the sea. The natural scenery is magnificent. Puget Sound, the Olympic Mountains and the snow-crowned peaks of the Cascades forming a total which rivals much of the far-famed European scenery. Geographically Seattle is near the center of Western Washington, and it is the most eligible point for the rails of transcontinental transportation companies to meet the ocean liners that ply to Alaska and the Orient.

The city railway system covers the city with a network of lines that make all suburban localities easy of access to the business center. The population comprises people from all parts of the globe, being, perhaps, in this respect, different from almost any other city in the United States. There are over 125 churches and church societies in Seattle. It is also a favored location for manufacturing and its people are kept busy making a multitude of commodities that find a ready sale in the rapidly growing Northwest.

Seattle is essentially a city of homes, and the beautifully kept lawns of both the palatial residences and humbler cottages attest this fact.

The many handsome public buildings, elegant hotels and imposing business blocks, all form an impressive total on the Eastern tourist.

Abstracts of Titles—Five different concerns make a specialty of this business, besides the different attorneys and real estate dealers.

FRANK P. RUTHERFORD, Attorney, 623 Alaska Bldg., makes a specialty of the examination of titles.

Academies—(See Colleges and Schools.)

Accountants, Public—Number at present writing, fourteen different firms and individuals.

Advertising—This business is well represented in its different branches, numbering over fifty individuals and firms, among which may be mentioned—

THE EDWIN WEBER CO., 418 Crary Bld., Ind. L 4796, advertising novelties and manufacturers' agents.

The advertisements in this dictionary represent the energy and push of our city and it is with pleasure that we acquaint the public with them. These are the people who accomplish things in business and make the city what it is by supporting all enterprises tending towards its betterment. When you patronize those advertising you help those who will reciprocate in the same broad manner. But the drones and sponges figure to keep all they make and endeavor to never patronize anyone.

Agriculture—All of Western Washington, and particularly the section adjacent to Seattle, offers splendid opportunities to those who wish to engage in the business of dairying, stock raising, gardening, fruit raising or other similar enterprises. The valleys and level lands in the Puget Sound section are very fertile and produce wonderful crops of fruits, vegetables, hay and grain. The dairying industry is assuming considerable importance. There are more than 300 creameries in the western part of the state, a number of which are located in King County. There is an extensive condensed milk factory at Kent and another at Auburn. The product of these factories finds a ready market on the Pacific Coast, in Alaska, and the Orient.

Similar enterprises are being established in other sections and a great increase in the dairying interests is in immediate prospect.

Seattle is the best market on the Pacific Coast for fruits, vegetables and dairy products, owing to the fact that it is the base of supplies for the logging camps, lumber mills, and mining interests of Washington, Alaska and the Northwest territory.

Alaska—To those who have the time and means a journey to Alaska will prove an interesting and profitable trip. It requires about ten days to sail to Skagway and return, covering a distance of about 2,000 miles. On the trip one may visit many of the old historic totem pole villages, viewing Muir, Davidson, Taku and other large ice fields; inspecting the famous Treadwell stamp mills at Juneau, paying a visit to Sitka, the old Russian city.

The Alaska gold receipts, 1898 to date, $187,087,439. Yearly trade, $25,000,000.

The Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition—The Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, held in Seattle in 1909, opening June 1 and closing October 15, was an important international exposition. The primary purpose was to exploit the resources and potentialities of Alaska and Yukon and to make known and foster the vast importance of the trade of the Pacific Ocean and of the countries bordering thereon. It also demonstrated the marvelous progress of Western America.

The exposition cost approximately $10,000,000. Seattle citizens bought stock in a single day to the amount of $650,000. The State of Washington appropriated $1,000,000. Many other states made appropriations for participation. At least twenty commonwealths had buildings. Foreign participation was limited to the countries of the Pacific and many of them took part. The United States government spent $1,175 - 000 on its participation.

The grounds are located on the unused portion of Washington University and cover 250 acres. The site borders on Lake Union and Lake Washington and is the most beautiful ever utilized for such a purpose. The snow-clad Olympic and Cascade mountains are in plain view from the grounds.

Twelve large exposition buildings formed the nucleus. Some of these are permanent and were turned over to the University for educational use after the exposition closed.

Alki Point—One of the popular resorts near Seattle. Located four miles across Seattle harbor, and reached by regular boat and street car service. At the Point may be found a bathing beach, bath houses, natatorium, sanitarium, summer hotels and amusement grounds.

Ambulance Service—An important adjunct to the city police department is the ambulance service for cases of sickness or injury on the streets. The summons by the usual police call will bring an ambulance to any quarter of the city with all promptitude. Various hospitals of the city have their own private ambulances, all of which are equipped with the greatest attention to the comfort of the invalid.

E. R. BUTTERWORTH & SONS, 1921 First Ave., Ind. 949, M. 949, have an ambulance service, both Motor Car and Drawn Ambulances.

American District Telegraph Co.—Located at 701 First Ave., furnish messengers day and night. Telephones, Sunset Main 234, Independent 234.

Amusements—The visitors in Seattle will find plenty of places for entertainment, there being several first class theatres, some of them having continuous performances during evening and matinees in the afternoon. The various parks, of which there are a goodly number, and summer resorts will afford both pleasure and recreation to the sight-seeker. (See Parks, Excursions, etc.)

Anacortes—On Fidalgo Island, is a thriving city with a population of eight thousand. Prominent among the many industries is the fishing business, which has long identified Anacortes with the Puget Sound salmon trade. Canneries are numerous and with other industries, Anacortes is fast coming to the front as a manufacturing city.

Animals—Regardless of the fact that this is a populous part of the state and Seattle is a large city, yet wild animals abound in the mountains nearby. Good hunting and trapping is to be had here in the open season. An interesting collection may be seen at Woodland Park. (See Game Laws.)

Antiquarian Books—(See Old Books.) Although Seattle is comparatively a young town, yet our Public Library, the Library at the State University and many private libraries contain some choice specimens of the antique in books. Raymer's Old Book Store, 1522 First Ave., makes a specialty of supplying such works.

Apartment Houses—Seattle has a large number of modern, up-to-date apartment houses, and many more are now in the course of construction. (See Hotels for list.)

Apples—Washington Apples are fast becoming a great factor in the prosperity of the state. The crop for 1910 has been estimated to be at least worth $10,000,000 and of this amount over $6,000,000 will be paid for those packed for export. The bulk of the crop is made up of Spitzenberg, Newtown pippins, Winesap, Jonathan and other winter varieties. Much of the crop is shipped to the Atlantic coast markets, and England, France, Germany, Australia and the Orient. They are handled in the highest priced markets of the world. Every case is taken in the packs, the fruit being select and of uniform size, color and flavor. Every apple is wrapped by hand. Barrels being too unwieldy, pine boxes 18 inches in length and 12 inches square, received "knock down" at 12½ cents each, to which should be added 1 cent for nailing, are the usual packages used. Packers and pickers are usually paid $2.25 to $3.00 per day, in instances by the box or job; the average cost is about 25 cents per box, including box. It is not in apples alone that Washington has come to the front as a fruit producing state. (See Fruit.)

Architects—The city is well supplied in this profession, numbering over one hundred firms and individuals. There is an architectural club in the city that gives an annual exhibit.

Architecture—Our city is essentially a modern metropolis and consequently partakes of all that is best and new in architectural development. In the business section are solid and substantial modern buildings. It is, however, in the residence section that the diversity of styles are found. A drive, automobile ride, or trolley car excursion through the suburban district will present as large a variety as any city in the United States. Houses built after the old colonial fashion, replicas of old California missions, the Feudal castles of old England, are styles representing every school from Greek to English. Even to the Swiss chalet.

Area of the City—Total, 83 sq. miles; land area, 50 sq. miles; water area, 28 sq. miles.

Armory—(See National Guard.)

Art—We are not behind any Western city for art. Many fine specimens and collections are owned by residents. An Art Society and School are among our institutions.

Art Schools—Art in its various branches is taught in both public and private schools. The Seattle Art School, 420 Boston Blk., is a commendable institution.

Art Stores—There are twelve in the city where the would-be purchaser can supply his wants. The Seattle Art Co., Union and Fifth Ave., is recommended.

Ashes and Garbage—The city's board of health does not provide for the removal of garbage, rubbish or ashes, but this is cared for by private individuals, usually foreigners. It might be well to add that it is best to make a bargain before hand if one wishes to avoid inconveniences that often arise, as such persons are unreliable and are apt to charge an exorbitant sum for the removal of same.

Assay Office—A United States Assay Office was established in Seattle July 15, 1898, to accommodate the mining interests in the Northwest. It is located at 617-619 9th Ave.

Asylums—(See Benevolent Societies and Hospitals.)

Athletics—The Seattle Athletic Club, one of the important organizations of the city, is located on the corner of 4th Ave. and Cherry St. The Young Men's Christian Association, which has also an athletic department, is located on 4th Ave. and Madison St.

Attorneys—(See Lawyers.)

Automobiles—The popularity of the automobile for both pleasure and business has made a wonderful advance in the last four years and Seattle numbers several hundred machines. Many public and private garages are maintained. Fine, up-to-date automobiles are kept for hire. There are many single cars run by individuals. The following rates have been established by the city council: Driving any number of persons, $5 for first hour, succeeding hours not over $4. Special rates can be made with the owners. To and from depot same as hack rates. Hack and auto rates double of regular depot rates.

ACME RUBBER CO., Northwest Agents Republic Tires, 1425 Broadway. Phone, E. 1660.

THE SEATTLE AUTOMOBILE CO., 1423-25 Tenth Ave., and 1422 Broadway, are agents for the Franklin Motor Cars, supplies of all kinds, do repairs and maintain one of the largest garages in the Northwest. Tels. E. 1213, Ind. 1917.

Baggage.—(See Express Wagons.)

Bakers—The city directory gives the number of bakers as seventy, but, as many restaurants, groceries and confectionery stores run bakeries in connection with their business, some doing a large business, yet not listed as bakeries, this list is undoubtedly a conservative one.

Ballard—Recently annexed to the city, includes the district located on Salmon Bay and occupying the 13th ward, which contains about 20,000 people. It has a splendid harbor, which is being improved by the government, as part of a ship canal, connecting Puget Sound with Lake Union and Lake Washington. In this district are located some of the principal manufacturing establishments of Seattle. At present lumber manufacturing is the largest single industry, but other interests are locating here because of the cheapness of factory sites and the proximity to railroads and water.

Ballard now has fifteen shingle mills with a daily capacity of 3,000,000 Washington red cedar shingles, and four immense lumber manufacturing mills with a daily output of 450,000 feet. This district has the unique distinction of being the shingle manufacturing center of the World. In addition to the lumber industry there are iron foundries, machine shops, planing mills, brass foundries, ship yards, where the big ocean going lumber schooners are built; marine ways, where the large freighters and lumber carrying ships are lifted up gently in cradles, and every part of the ship made available within twenty minutes; drop forge works where tons of nuts are turned out daily on the only machine of its kind west of the Mississippi. Wood pipe works and thousands of feet of wire wrapped water and sewer pipe are being shipped daily all over the Coast. There are boiler works equipped with pneumatic tools for riveting, while the fishing industry is represented by twenty boats equipped with gasoline engines for hauling in the nets and bringing the catch to port. The monthly payroll of the various manufactures is over $100,000.

Ballard affords opportunities from the kindergarten to the High School preparation for the University of Washington. Over fifty fraternal orders are represented, among which are the Masons and Elks, the latter having recently spent $5,000 in furnishing their hall, now one of the finest in the west.

Ballard is supplied with Cedar River water, which flows clear and sparkling from the snow-capped Cascade mountains by a gravity system. It is furnished at a very moderate cost to the consumer and is as pure and healthful as any water in the world.

Bank Clearings—Clearings of Seattle banks in 1909 totalled $586,696,824.60, an increase of 36 per cent over the preceding year. The clearings in the first three months of 1910 aggregated $148,821,824, or $34,171,526 more than the clearings in the corresponding period of 1909, a gain of 29 per cent. Seattle alone of the cities of the United States whose annual clearings amount to as much as $100,000,000 a year, showed an increase of 36 per cent in 1909 over the preceding year—Edgar Royer, Editor Royer's Financial Record, of Seattle.

Bank deposits, 10 years gain 837 per cent.

Bank clearings, 10 years gain 750 per cent.

Bar Association—Seattle Bar Ass'n., Pres., H. H. A. Hastings; Sec., Loren Grinstead.

Barbers—The barber shop is found in every location in the city. In the down town districts all the leading hotels maintain finely appointed tonsorial parlors and there are also many excellent separate shops. Most of those in the down town district have baths connected, Turkish, Russian, etc. The so-called ladies' barber shop is no longer a novelty in Seattle, there being a number of them scattered through the city.

Baths and Bathing—All of the hotels and many of the large barber shops have bathrooms attached, equipped with every convenience and luxury. Plain hot or cold baths may be procured in the best establishments for the uniform price of 25 cents. Some of the larger establishments are also equipped with Turkish baths, employing skilled attendants. Among which may be mentioned

THE TOURIST HOTEL, Occidental and Main.

Good bathing in the sound may be had at Alki Point, the Natatorium at Luna Park, the fresh water lakes, and many other places in and near the city.

Bazaars—Few cities contain as many curious, quaint and interesting bazaars as Seattle, not the least of which are the Japanese and Chinese bazaars among which may be mentioned M. Furuya Co., 216 2nd Ave. S., 1302 2nd Ave.

Bellingham—Located on the north shore of Bellingham Bay, has a bright future. Many large buildings are being erected in every direction and the city now boasts of a population of nearly forty thousand. Bellingham is the headquarters of the Sound fishing business and many large salmon canneries are located there. The lumber industry has helped to make the city one of the busiest on the Sound. Big ocean carriers may be seen at the docks, taking on cargoes for various parts of the world. There are also many large shingle mills near Bellingham and the annual output from the lumber and shingle industry reaches into the millions each year.

Benevolent Societies and Institutions—Amidst all the wealth and business affluence of Seattle there is much human suffering, but in no other city is there manifested a higher spirit of sympathy for the submerged one-tenth. In addition to the charities maintained by the city and county, all the religious denominations have societies devoted to the relief of the poor and unfortunate. There is also a non-sectarian institution that does excellent work in ameliorating the conditions of the poverty stricken people of the slums and lower quarters. Prominent among these are the Charity Organization Society, Central Office, where all applications for aid may be sent from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., 527 N. Y. Bldg. The Salvation Army, Volunteers, Labor Unions, fraternities and many others do much unostentatious and good work.

Bill Posting—For information on this subject consult the Foster & Kleiser Co., 1933 8th Ave.

Biological Collection—One of the best biological collections on the Pacific Coast is the collection of animal and plant life owned by Mr. James F. Illingworth, head of the department of biology at the Washington high school. This mass of material is arranged in a very systematic and convenient manner and is valued at $10,000. It may be seen at any time upon visiting the high school.

Birds—Contrary to a common impression of tourists, there is a great variety of bird-life in Washington. Three hundred and sixty-eight species of birds have been listed as occurring in the State, and of these about 200 may be expected to occur at any given point on Puget Sound. The apparent scarcity is due partly to the absorption of bird-life by the forests; partly to the mildness of the climate, which does not necessitate migration, and more to the almost total difference of the birds themselves as compared with Eastern species. The innumerable parks and driveways of Seattle afford ample opportunity for the study of the birds. One hundred and twelve species of land birds are enumerated in Samuel Rathbun's list, and sea-fowl of many sorts not only enter Elliott Bay, but even venture curiously up to the very docks. The dainty Audubon Warbler winters on the University campus, and the Varied Thrush, although a timid recluse of the mountain forests, nests in the depths of Ravenna Park. Among the birds of song prominent in Seattle may be mentioned the Western Meadowlark, Russet-backed Thrush, Lutescent, Macgillivray, Audubon and Black-Throated Gray Warblers, Nuttall and Rusty Song Sparrows, and the vivacious Seattle Wren (so named by Prof. Ridgway, of the U. S. National Museum.) Chief among the birds of plumage are the Western Evening Grosbeak, Lazuli Bunting, Crimson-headed Tanager, and the exquisite Violet-green Swallow.

The most notable feature of Seattle bird-life is the winter population of Gulls. These birds to the number of thousands hover about the water front or gather to feast at the garbage dumps and packing houses on the tide flats. The larger birds are Glaucous-winged Gulls (Larus glaucescens) but eight other species are represented in the throng. Needless to add the birds are strictly protected, not only because of their usefulness as scavengers, but because of their picturesque grace and beauty.

The Washington State Audubon Society, an organization for the protection of birds, has its headquarters at 320 Jefferson Street. "The Birds of Washington" by W. Leon Dawson, "the Seattle Birdman," describes in detail all the birds of this State, and is a very notable work. (Brought out as a subscription work by The Occidental Publishing Co., University Station, Seattle).

Blocks and Buildings—The city contains a large number of blocks and buildings, but as the town is growing rapidly it is impossible to keep a list up to the minute. Board of Education—(See City Government.)

Board of Health—(See City Government.)

Boarding Houses—Are almost a thing of the past, being divided into the rooming houses with rooms from $2 per week and up and restaurants with meal tickets from $3 and up.

Boating—One of the chief summer diversions in and about Seattle is boating and anybody who favors this form of recreation can obtain a canoe, sailing boat, or row boat at almost any of the many lakes in and around Seattle, also at different places along the Sound. Steamers run from all points on the Sound and lakes to the many summer resorts bordering them. Lake Washington affords delightful canoeing.

Bonded Warehouses—(See Federal Offices and Officers.)

Bonds, City—Authorized $9,436,380, of real value, $212,660,922. Bonded limit, $17,813,671.

Bookbinders—

GENERAL LITHOGRAPHING & PRINTING CO., 113-117 3rd Ave. S.

METROPOLITAN PRESS, Central Bldg.

Book Exchange—It is no longer necessary to buy late fiction and paper novels, as the same may be had in the form of a circulating library scheme at Raymer's Old Book Store, 1522 First Ave., particularly paper books and late fiction, of which they carry a large and extensive line.

Books of Reference—Among the mass of pamphlets, and literature on Seattle and the Puget Sound district, there is very little of permanent or available value for reference. R. L. Polk & Co. publish annually a city directory which, though a useful and valuable work, is hardly available as a hand book for the general public. There are also small "vest pocket guides." The public library contains a reference department, but even this is hardly convenient at all times for the general public. It is with these facts in view that the "Dictionary of Greater Seattle" is published and the co-operation of the people is asked in revising and circulating the same.

Bookstores—It is not possible in the scope of this volume to give an extended directory of any line of business, the object being to point out to the stranger or resident who does not feel posted the best known and most accessible places where he can get what he wants. In the bookstore category may be mentioned, LOWMAN & HANFORD, 616 1st Ave.; S. F. Shorey, 701 3rd Ave.; Raymer's Old Book Store, 1522 1st Ave.; The Archway Bookstore, 224 Pike St.

LANE, CLARENCE C., 308 Union St.

Boots and Shoes—Five different concerns are engaged in the manufacturing of boots and shoes, over fifty retail dealers and six wholesale dealers, besides the numerous department stores.

Boulevards—(See Parks, Boulevards and Speedway.)

Bowling—Bowling is one of the popular sports in Seattle and great interest is taken in the game. There are a number of city leagues in which competition for the honors is keen.

Bremerton—(See Excursions.)—The site of the Puget Sound Navy Yard, sixteen miles across the bay from Seattle, is on an arm of the Puget Sound. From an obscure naval station Bremerton has in the last six years become one of the most important as well as one of the best navy yards in the United States. It has every natural facility to make it second to none and as to its harbor, there are few naval ports, if any, that can surpass it. The harbor is deep as well as commodious, and is capable of accommodating the navies of the world. Being located as it is, the Puget Sound yard is of great strategic value. Commanding a large sweep of coast line, it would, in a crisis, prove of inestimable worth. It guards Puget Sound, one of the world's greatest inland seas, the Strait of Fuca and every inch of coast line from the extreme northern boundaries of Alaska to the Columbia river.

Boats of the Navy Yard Route leave Colman Dock for Bremerton. Round trip, 50 cts.

Breweries—Seven breweries and many outside concerns having agents here make our city anything but a dry town.

Brokers—This business is represented by numerous different firms, especially in ships, mining stocks, grains, fish, etc.

Brush Factory—

MORCK & RICHARDS, 2619 Western Ave. Makes brushes of all kinds.

Buddist Temple—1020 Main St.

Buildings — The Prominent — (See Blocks and Buildings.)

Building Industry—During the first six months of 1910, although following immediately after the exposition and predictions by sore heads that it would drop off, nevertheless we have made a wonderful record of over six thousand buildings erected at a cost of $7,365,250.

Building—10 years gain, 1800 per cent.

Building permits, 1909, $18,746,-640.

Building Loans—The WASHINGTON SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSN., 104 Cherry St., Tel M. 351.

Business Colleges — Seattle schools where business rules, stenography and kindred branches are taught are numerous and well ordered. Among these are the Seattle Business College at 4th and Pike, Acme Business College, Union and 4th Ave.; Seattle Commercial College at 2nd Ave. and Pike St.; Wilson's Modern College, 1524 2nd Ave.; Y. M. C. A., 4th and Madison.

Cab Service—(See Hacks and Cabs.)

Cabinet-Making—P U G E T SOUND CABINET WORKS, 3011 California Ave. Ind. West 188, Maple Mfg. Co., 2937 First Ave. Ind. L 5387.

Cafes—

THE TOURIST HOTEL, Occidental and Main.

Candy Factories—There are plenty of candy factories in Seattle to satisfy all the sweet-tooths of the city. As there are many retail dealers in the city who manufacture their own candy a complete list is unobtainable.

Canning Factories—Fruit, Vegetables, etc.—Great opportunities are offered in and about the Puget Sound country. (See fruit, apples, etc.) Parties interested should write the Commercial Club for information. C. E. Fioda, 123 Eastlake Ave.; Z. Hyde & Co., Rainier Ave.; N. Mortland Mfg. Co., 8th Ave. and Snoqualmie St.

Canoeing—(See Boating.)

Capitol Hill—A beautiful residence district in the northeast section of the city, where will be found many handsome residences and grounds that will repay a visit. It is reached by the Capitol Hill car.

S. M. CONSTANTINE & CO.,
1901 2nd Ave., cor. Stewart. Tel.
DA. 5915.

Carriage Factories—The carriage and wagon factories of the city number nine, not counting the retailers. Among the leading houses in this line are the Puget Sound Wagon Works, 1216 Western Ave., and the Pacific Wagon and Carriage Works, 2224-28 Western Ave.

Cemeteries—

Calvary (Roman Catholic)—At Yesler.

Crown Hill—W. 86th and 11th N. W.

Cereal Factories—Anything in the line of cereals and health foods may be had at the three leading Milling Companies—Albers Bros. Milling Co., foot of Massachusetts; Morton Milling Co., Ballard, and the Chas. H. Lilly & Co., foot of Main St.

Chamber of Commerce—The Seattle Chamber of Commerce is an association of the leading business and professional men of the city, maintained for the purpose of promoting the commercial and civic welfare of the community, for the extension of trade relations, for the development of the wonderful resources of the Pacific Northwest, and for making known to the world at large the opportunities offered in this vicinity for men with energy, ambition and capital. It occupies more than 6,000 square feet of floor space on the top story of the Central Building, Third Ave. and Columbia St. An observation tower above these quarters commands a magnificent view of the harbor, business district and the mountains. One of the most important adjuncts is the Transportation Bureau of the Chamber, W. F. Mears, manager. J. D. Lowman is president of the organization, and C. B. Yandell, secretary. The total membership May 1st, 1910, was nearly one thousand. The annual dues are $20.00 per annum. All visitors are cordially welcomed, and particular care is exercised to give reliable information about the city and surrounding country. Inquiries by letter or otherwise are given careful and prompt attention, and free descriptive literature is furnished on application.

Children—The various organized charities of the city endeavor to rescue and protect children who are without parents, or not provided for in the proper manner by them. There are several asylums for waifs and orphans, among others, there are the Washington Home, 65th and Jones St.;

Rainier Home, 705 25th Ave. S., and the Seattle Children's Home, 10th Ave. W., N. E. cor. McGraw.

Chinese—The Chinese population of Seattle is one of the most interesting features of the city, especially the Joss House. They conduct many unique and interesting business establishments. Among those that may be mentioned are "Chinese Grill," 900½ 2nd Ave., upstairs, where Chinese and novelty dishes are served in a very neat and interesting Tea Room.

THE JUE YOUNG WO, Chinese Medicine Co., entrance to Brunswick Hotel, Columbia St.

Chinook—A dialect consisting of a jargon of Indian, English, French and other words and phrases used in intercourse between Indians of various tribes and traders in the northwestern part of the United States. It contains many words from the language of the Chinook Indians, hence its name. "A Dictionary and How to Use the Language," by Geo. C. Shaw, is published at 50 cents, and may be had at Raymer's Old Book Store, 1522 1st Ave.

"BLOODLESS - SURGERY"

Under the above heading may be grouped the various manipulatory schools of combating disease by restoring normality to the physiological conditions of the human machine through processes of accurate scientific adjustments along mechanical principles. Freeminently among these may be classed the recently rediscovered science of Chiropractic known to all advanced races in all ages of civilization. True, forty years ago the world had many good physicians. At that time were known also many good horses, oxen and even donkies; there were also many fine clipper-ships, etc., but all have long since been superseded by the electric trolley, the automobile and the fast ocean liner. So, along parallel lines of progress, the old school physicians, good, bad and indifferent, are being more or less rapidly displaced along with all their orthodox but unnatural arts by the extraordinary successes scored in the domain of healing by the votaries of the more advanced schools to whom all of the more intelligent of the present generation already adhere with the certainty to judge by their rapidly increasing numbers, that the coming generations will follow in a body to become adherents to the natural methods of healing. The Seattle Institute of Natural Therapeutics, justly renowned for its many cures of even so-called incurable diseases, has been under the able direction of Dr. P. Rudolph, a graduate of the parent College of Naturopathy in the U. S. A., an institution embracing within its liberal curriculum all of the known methods of nature cures in addition to the orthodox school of Materia Medica. Hence under Dr. Rudolph's care patients may avail themselves of all that which is really good in both the old and new schools. Following are some of the most popular treatments daily administered at the above institution: Chiropractic, Osteopathy, Physical Culture, Breath Culture, X-Ray, Electro Therapeutics, Bakeoven, and Medicated, Vapor and Steam Baths, Stretcher Treatments, Light Apparatus and Sun Treatments, Finnsen Rays and Magnetic Manipulations, Solar Rays and Toxo Absorbent. Acute Fevers, if desired, are handled upon a cash guarantee basis. Chronic cases are expected to take their chances together with the doctor. Dangerous operations are being perennially prevented and complete and lasting cures, instead, induced. Many references on file and offered for personal investigation among former patients of the Institute now long since cured. Dr. Rudolph is authorized under the laws of the State to practice Benedict Lust's System, graduates of which have to pass the New York State Board of Medical Examiners and who are among the most efficient Naturopaths as well as M. D.'s.

Circulating Libraries—When the stranger has exhausted his resources in sight seeing, his thoughts naturally turn to reading. At such a time one appreciates finding a good up-to-date library, where all kinds of good literature both old and new may be found. Such a place including a fine circulating library of latest fiction may be found at:

RAYMER'S TAXI-LIBRARY AND MAGAZINE EXCHANGE, 1522 1st Ave. M. 1597; Ind. 3886.

THE TABARD INN LIBRARY, 816 3rd Ave. M. 8685.

City Government —(City Hall)
—Municipal elections are held the first Tuesday in March, on all the even years, all elected for two years, except councilmen-at-large, who are elected for four years. Mayor, H. C. Gill.

City Hall—A new and up-to-date steel structure located at 4th and Yesler Way, where will be found the various officials of the city, also the Police headquarters and station.

Cigars—This business both wholesale and retail is well represented in our city.

City Limits—By a glance at the map of Seattle one will observe that the city has Lake Washington as a water-front on the east and Puget Sound on the west; 85th street on the north and Rainier Beach addition on the south, making the city about 12 miles long and seven miles in width, covering an area of about 78 square miles.

Climate—In Seattle the climate is equable. Only two seasons are spoken of—summer and winter. The summers are cool, or moderately warm, and the winters are mild and rainy. In summer the temperature rarely reaches 90° and in the winter never goes below zero. The average mean temperature is 51.4°, ranging from 40.6° in January to 64.7° in August. The average low temperature is 43° in December and 38° in January. The annual rain fall is 37.65 inches in Seattle. While winter is called the rainy season and summer the dry season, it should be understood that every month in the summer has some rainy days, and there is considerable clear weather during the winter months. Thunder and lightning are of rare occurrence, and violent windstorms entirely unknown. The yearly precipitation is no greater than in the States of the Middle West.

The climate is delightfully healthful, the death rate being only 7 per thousand, the lowest of any city in the U. S.

Clubs—Club life in Seattle is represented by—

Coal Basin—The Puget Sound Coal Basin covers an area of about seven hundred and fifty square miles. There are several distinct districts or fields within this basin. The character of coal differs in each separate field. It varies in quality from a lignite to rich bituminous coals. The leading coal mines in the vicinity of Seattle may be found at Renton, Coal Creek, Black Diamond, Issaquah, Newcastle and Franklin.

Coast, The—Is the title of a neat, up-to-date magazine, published for furnishing information about the Pacific Coast, especially that of Washington and Oregon and besides contains plenty of good miscellaneous reading.

One dollar sent to The Coast Publishing Co., Seattle, will bring it for one year. Ten cents a copy. Honor L. Wilhelm, editor and manager, Central Bldg., Third Ave.

Colleges and Schools—Seattle is well supplied with graded schools, high schools and the State University. It also has many private schools and colleges, among which may be mentioned the following: Academy of the Holy Names, 21st Ave. N. and E. Roy St.; Adelpia College, 12th Ave. N., cor. Miller; Anderson Preparatory, 1611 Belmont Ave.; College of Our Lady of Lourdes, South Park; School of Musical Art, 1529 Summit Ave.. The University of Washington is located between Lakes Union and Washington, North Seattle.

School census in 1909, 38,866.

School expenditures, 1908, $1,086,889.

Value of school grounds and buildings, $3,705,000.

School buildings, 68; teachers, 855; enrolment, 30,062; average attendance, 29,058.

Comfort Stations—All large cities are making towards a better and more humane treatment of the strangers of the laboring class, especially the male population, and many and various are the schemes that are devised for their comfort and convenience, and, as much as we realize the smallness of the results, yet it is a move in the right direction. Seattle is to be commended for the establishment of comfort stations, one at Pike Place, between First and Western Avenues, and in the various parks and playgrounds.

Commercial Club—An institution composed of business men of Seattle, with commodious quarters in McDougal Bldg., Columbia and 1st, M. 4462, Ind. 1826, where is maintained a reading-room, billiard tables and general meeting place. The secretary will not only answer all inquiries from out of the city about this part of the country, but gladly extend every courtesy to the "stranger within our gates."

Commission Merchants—Are to a great extent located on Western Ave.

UNITED PRODUCE CO., dairy produce, 806 Western Ave. M. 3281, Ind. 3281.

Confectioners—There is no more pleasant resort for the tired shopper, nor any more largely patronized, than the confectionery establishment and cafe as it exists in the retail district of Seattle. Ice-cream, ices and other refreshments are served in these down-town confectionery stores. The Palace of Sweets, 706 1st Ave.; Stokes Ice Cream Co., 916 2nd Ave.; Haynes Confectionery, 813 2nd Ave., and Wirth's 205 Pike St.

Congressmen—W. L. Jones, Yakima, and Wm. E. Humphrey, Seattle, represent this district in Congress.

Consuls — Foreign Consuls of nearly all the great countries are maintained in the city.

BELGIUM—Vice Consul, E. C. Neufelder, People's Savings Bank.
CHINA—Goon Dip, 314 Epler Blk.

CENTRAL AMERICA — Capt. Richard Chilcot, Pier 2.

DENMARK—Vice Consul, John P. Jacobsen, 534 New York Blk.

FRANCE—Consular Agent, John B. Joun-Roche, 661 Colman Bldg.

NETHERLANDS—Vice Consul, Christian Damerer, 600 Leary Bld.

NORWAY—Vice Consul, T. H. Kolderup, Alaska Bldg.

PERU—F. Albert Bartlett, Colman Dock.

SWEDEN—A. Chilberg, Sandinavian-American Bank, Alaska Bldg.

"ESPERANTO"—Charles E. Randall, 1522 1st, Consul of the International Esperanto Society. Transacts business with any part of the world in the international language, "Esperanto."

County Court House—Located on 7th Ave., between Terrace and Jefferson Sts., and occupies a commanding position from which a most beautiful view may be had of the city and harbor. The structure, although large, has been outgrown by the phenomenal growth of the city and county, and will be replaced shortly by a larger one.

County Hospital—The county hospital is located at Georgetown, south of the city.

Counties of Western Washington—

CHEHALIS — Area, 2,600 sq. miles; population, 15,124; county traversed by the Chehalis River, which is navigable for a long distance. Many fine farming districts; the fishing industry is also an important factor. County seat, Montesano.

CLALLAM—Area, 2,000 sq. miles; population, est., 5,603. Largely mountainous and densely covered with timber. A rich agricultural land; principal industry lumbering. A good quality of coal has been discovered, and in the Olympic mountains ledges of gold and silver ore are known to exist. County seat, Port Angeles.

CLARKE—Area, 600 sq. miles; population, 13,419; contains large areas of grain, producing plains and bunch grass land; well adapted for agriculture and grazing; there are also a large number of dairies and cheese factories in this county. County seat, Vancouver.

COWLITZ—Area, 1,100 sq. miles; population 8,000; country mountainous and interspersed valleys; many fine orchards in the Cowlitz and Lewis Valleys, bearing prunes, apples, pears, plums and cherries. Large quantities of coal await development near the towns of Kelso and Castle Rock. In the mountains low grades of gold quartz, silver and copper, have been found. Logging is carried on extensively, and salmon packing is an important industry. Kalama is the county seat.

ISLAND COUNTY is composed of the Islands of Whidby and Camano. The area of Whidby Island is 11,500 acres and Camano 30,000 acres; population, 1,870. Both islands are heavily timbered. Some of the oldest orchards in the State are located on Whidby Island. Coupeville is the county seat.

JEFFERSON—Area, 2,000 sq. miles; population, 5,712. This county contains many great forests, lumbering being at present the chief industry. Large deposits of iron ore and ledges of the precious metals are known to exist in the Olympic mountains. There are three dairies and cheese factories in the county. County seat, Port Townsend.

KING—Area, 2,000 sq. miles; population, 300,000. Counties numerous fine valleys of great fertility. The products of the county are timber, coal, hay, potatoes, live stock, fruit and fish of numerous varieties. The industries are lumbering, coal mining, hop-raising, dairying, manufacturing, etc. Seattle is the county seat.

KITSAP—Area 406 sq. miles; population, 8,000. This county is penetrated in all directions by the arms of the Puget Sound, and has within its limits Port Orchard Bay, Port Washington Bay, and Dog Fish Bay, all fine, land-locked harbors. The county has also some of the largest saw mills in the State. Oyster culture is progressing finely at the State Experimental Station at Keyport. Port Orchard is the county seat.

LEWIS—Area, 3,000 sq. miles; population, 16,000. Dense forests of timber constitute the greatest natural resources of this county, though with development, its coal will prove of great commercial value. Lumbering is carried on extensively, and it has a vast area of agricultural land. There are also many large orchards; there are thirteen dairies in the county. Chehalis is the county seat.

PACIFIC—Area, 900 sq. miles; population, 8,000. Along the western line of the State inclosing the Columbia River is a narrow strip of land enclosing Willapa Harbor. The soil in these valleys is very fertile. Hop culture and dairying are among the rising industries. On the peninsula a number of cranberry marshes are being cultivated and oyster culture is another important industry. Lumbering and shipbuilding are also carried on to a great extent. South Bend is the county seat.

PIERCE—Area, 1,800 sq. miles; population, 100,000. Largely agricultural land, notably the Puyallup Valley, noted for its hop crops, apples, plums and prunes. The principal natural resources are timber and coal. Dairying has also reached an important stage of development in this county. Tacoma is the county seat.

SAN JUAN—Area, 500 sq. miles; population, 5,000. These islands are well adapted for grazing, and there is a large portion of agricultural land, marshes and fern prairies. Fruit grows in profusion; poultry and eggs form a large portion of the industry; oats, barley, rye, potatoes, timothy and clover yield large crops. Lime rock of 98 per cent pure rock is found here, and Roche Harbor Lime Works is one of the most important industries in the county. Friday Harbor is the county seat.

SKAGIT—Area, 1,800 sq. miles; population, 15,000. The county is drained by the Skagit River, which is navigable for sixty miles from tide water. The tide marsh lands have been diked, and the most productive lands in the county are found here. There are splendid farms, which are noted for their great crops of oats. As an agricultural community, Skagit is one of the richest in Western Washington. The natural resources are timber and coal; in the eastern part are found ledges bearing gold, silver and lead. The fishing industry is also important. Mount Vernon is the county seat.

SKAMANIA—Area, 1,600 sq. miles; population, 3,500. This county is mountainous, being traversed by the Cascades, and is remarkable for its scenery. About 2,000 acres are under cultivation. Salmon and sturgeon fishing are important industries. Lumbering and the cutting of cordwood also furnish employment to many men. Stevenson is the county seat.

SNOHOMISH—Area, 2,500 sq. miles; population, 40,000. Fertile lands and fine farms in the valleys, producing oats, hay, hops and other vegetables; many fine orchards are found on the high lands. The chief industry is lumbering and agriculture, but mining and manufacturing are steadily on the increase, and the canning of fish is also important. There are fourteen dairies in this county. Everett is the county seat.

THURSTON — Area, 700 sq. miles; population, 10,000. This is one of the leading fruit growing counties in the State. The principal industries in the past have been lumbering; there are many saw, shingle and flour mills, a wooden pipe factory; coal is found in the southeast portion, and at other points; there are valuable quarries of blue and buff sandstone. Olympia, the county seat, has been the center of the oyster industry in past years. There are over fifty creameries in this county.

WAHKIAKUM—Area, 274, sq. miles. The uplands of this county are covered with a dense growth of timber, and lumbering and logging are important industries. The chief industry, however, is fishing. There are eight large creameries in this county, which employ a large number of men. Cathlamet is the county seat.

WHATCOM—Area, 2,226 sq. miles. Population, 95,000. The western portion of the county is a remarkably productive agricultural land, with numerous river valleys, wide level areas and gently rolling uplands. Oats and grass give phenomenal yields, and dairying, fruit growing, truck gardening and poultry raising, and special industries flourish. The eastern portion is rough and mountainous, with numerous rivers and lakes and contains splendid deposits of gold, silver, copper, lead, coal and other minerals, while the rivers furnish enormous power for the generation of electricity. The industries of the county are agriculture, lumbering, fishing and mining. The county seat and chief commercial center is Bellingham, with a population of over 40,000. The Great Northern, Northern Pacific, and Bellingham Bay and British Columbia railways, and all Puget Sound and coast steamship lines, reach Bellingham.

County Court House—It is located on 7th Ave., between Terrace and Jefferson Sts., and occupies a commanding position, from which a most beautiful view may be had of the city and harbor. The structure, although large, has been outgrown by the phenomenal growth of the city and county, and will be replaced shortly by a new and larger one. Open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

County Clerk—D. K. Sickles.

Treasurer—Matt H. Gormley.

Auditor—Otto A. Case.

Assessor—Albert E. Parish.

Engineer—James R. Morrison.

Sheriff—Robert T. Hodge.

Prosecuting Attorney—Geo. F. Vanderveer, Mehlhorn Bldg.

Coroner—James C. Snyder.

School Superintendent—A. S. Burrows.

Commissioner 1st District—M. J. Carrigan.

Courts — Justice - District - Terms—The Justice Court holds sessions daily, except Sunday, at the City Hall, from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Western Washington is one judicial district in two divisions.

Northern Division — Includes Counties of King, Kitsap, Jefferson, Clallam, Snohomish, Island, San Juan, Skagit and Whatcom, and all Indian reserves. Terms held at Seattle, in the Federal building, first Tuesday in May and November. For San Juan and Whatcom, first Tuesday in April and October.

Southern Division — Includes Counties of Pierce, Mason, Thurston, Chehalis, Pacific, Lewis, Wahkiakum, Cowlitz, Clarke and Skamania, and all Indian reserves. Terms held at Tacoma first Tuesday in February and July.

King County Superior Court—Civil, criminal and equity divisions; open daily at Court House, Seattle, from 9:30 a. m. to 12 m., and 2 to 5 p. m.

Crematory—Washington Cremation Assn., Mt. Pleasant Cemetery.

Curiosity Shop—There are many places of interest in and about Seattle that should attract the visitor, and even the resident, but we advise all to reserve a portion of their time to visit M. Rhodes & Co., Alaska Bld., 612 Second Ave., where will be found one of the most interesting and curious collections, as well as the largest of its kind, of any establishment on the coast. Also the OLD CURIOSITY SHOP, of J. E. Standley, Colman Dock.

Customs—The customs house receipts for 1899 were $153,826 but for the year 1909 they reached $1,198,061.

Dairy Produce—Among the many dealers along this line may be mentioned:

UNITED PRODUCE CO., THE 806 Western Ave., Ind. 3281, M.
3281. Make a specialty of this line.

Dairies—There are great opportunities for dairy farms near Seattle where the product finds a ready market at good prices.

Denny Park—(See Seattle Park, under Parks.)

Dentists—Our city is well supplied with good dentists, among whom may be mentioned:

BRAGDON, DR. GEO. W., 404
Mutual Life Bld. Ind. 4022, M.
3882.

Department Stores—Our city is well supplied in this direction, and compares favorably in the thorough and up-to-date system of management with any to be found in the large cities of the East. They practically control the bulk of the retail trade in drygoods, wearing apparel, and also to a certain extent, in fancy and staple articles. Among the leading department stores, Frederick & Nelson, 2nd and Madison; Mac-Dougall-Southwick Co., cor. 2nd and Pike St.; Bon Marche, 1413-
35 2nd Ave.; Stone-Fisher Co., cor.
University and 2nd Ave.; London's,
1107-13 2nd Ave., and Rhodes Co.,
1321 2nd; J. A. Baillargeon & Co.,
2nd and Spring.

Depots—The King Street depot located at Third Ave. and King St., is the terminal station of most of the railroads that enter the city, the exceptions are The Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound Ry. and The Columbia & Puget Sound Ry., which use the station at Main St. and Railroad Ave. The new Oregon & Washington depot now under construction at Fourth Ave. South and Jackson will add materially to the railroad terminal facilities of the city.

Devil Fish—A fifty-pound devil fish was caught at Interbay on April 11, 1908. The second brought in within three days.

of a daily newspaper's income is earned from advertising.

The newspaper carrying the largest amount of advertising at the highest price in any community possesses, therefore, the necessary coin to produce the most interesting paper for its readers.

The Seattle Daily and Sunday Times carries the second largest quantity of advertising of all the once-a-day publications in the United States, and carries this at a rate which is the highest per inch, although the lowest in point of circulation, of any paper in the Pacific Northwest.

This not only enables The Times to spend more money on its daily issues than any other paper in the Pacific Northwest, but enables it to maintain a family of readers of one hundred per cent. value to advertisers.

This circulation is maintained without circulation contests or premiums. Its advertising rates are absolutely maintained according to a published card.

Drives—Our city is fast becoming a city of pretty parks, drives and speedways, among the latter of which may be mentioned the Washington Park Speedway, along the Washington Boulevard, and the Capitol Hill Drive and Speedway at 15th Ave. and Galer St.

Druggists—There are druggists galore in the Queen City, among which are even the "cut-rate druggists." In all, they number about 110, to say nothing of the large department stores, all of which have a drug department, making the competition brisk, as those believing in "competition is the life of trade" would desire. The city directory gives the names of the various drug stores, but as new firms are being added, the list is frequently changed and constantly growing.

ALOHA STREET PHARMACY, 824 5th Av. N., Ind. 7950.

CAMPBELL DRUG CO., 4559 California Ave., Phone Ind. West 45.

WILLETT DRUG CO., 2600 California Ave., Ind. West 255.

Dry Goods Stores—In all the large cities exclusive dry goods stores are nearly a thing of the past, for nearly all have developed into department stores.

MOORE, S. E., Dry Goods., 4215 14th Ave. N. E. University Bazaar, Tel. North 819.

Dugdale Athletic Park—Situated on Yesler Way near 12th Ave. Used by clubs from cities forming the Northwestern League of Professional Base Ball Clubs for championship games during regular playing season, which is from May to September. Privilege granted amateur athletic organizations to use grounds during absence of Seattle Base Ball Club. D. E. Dugdale, president and general manager, 512 2nd Ave.

Dungeness—Is the shipping point for the famous Dungeness crab. It is also a produce and butter shipping center. The country back of Dungeness is a good farming and dairying district and there is a long stretch of desirable agricultural and grazing lands from Port Townsend westward.

Duwamish River—Flows into the bay in the south part of the city. About four miles in the same direction is situated Duwamish Heights, a new addition to the city.

Eagle Harbor—About ten miles from Seattle across the Sound, is a most charming little bay, where a number of Seattle people have summer homes. There is a large ship-building plant and marine railway there, and as a rule the harbor is thronged with vessels. Steamers run twice a day from Seattle to this harbor.

Education—(See Colleges and Schools.)

Electricians—The electric spark has certainly struck the West. With electric car lines, lights, telephones, wireless telegraphy and various other enterprises, we are decidedly up-to-date. Electrical establishments are numerous, including not less than two hundred individuals and firms, among which may be mentioned:

ULRICH & SMITH, 2605 California Ave. Phone Monroe 224.

Electric Street Car Lines—The Loyal Railway Co. operate cars from Ballard to Golden Gardens Park, week days every forty minutes, Sundays every twenty minutes. Intersects all lines from Seattle to Ballard. (See Street Cars.)

Electric R. R. in county (value) $7,477,860.

Electric Light—Seattle owns her own electric lighting plant; cost, $650,000. The Seattle Electric Company, which secures its power from a plant at Electron, and also operates practically all the street car lines of the city, furnishes an extensive electric lighting service to commercial patrons. The Seattle-Tacoma Power Company, getting its power from Snoqualmie Falls, supplies a portion of the demand for electric light.

City light receipts for 1909 were $419,000. City light plant (value) $1,743,574.

Electric Power Plant—The Puget Sound Company has recently completed a most modern plant on the Puyallup River, about forty miles from Seattle. This plant supplies the power for the operation of the street railway systems of Seattle and Tacoma; also for many other purposes.

Employment Agencies—There are many of such bureaus in the city, and the prices charged range from $1 to $2. There are also regular agencies conducted on a large scale, which contract for laborers on railroads and large public works. A full list of these places can be found in the city directory under the head of "Employment Agencies." Laborers should be careful that the agents are reliable. The city operates a free employment agency at Fourth Ave. South, near Yesler Way.

Esperanto—The international language has a firm hold in this city, having three thousand adherents. Charles E. Randall, is consul of the International Society. Books, dictionaries and pamphlet literature along this line may be obtained at Raymer's Old Book Store, 1522 First Ave.

Excursions—(See Trolley Trips) —There is no place in the country that offers better facilities for excursions than Seattle. Lake, Sound, Sea and Electric Railroads all contribute excellent offerings.

Many suggestions might be made, but owing to our limited space we simply give a few hints and leave the rest to the visitors initiative. For the tourist whose itinerary calls for a brief visit to Seattle, the trip to the Puget Sound Navy Yard, is one of the ideal short excursions. Visitors may visit the Navy Yard in an afternoon with ample time to inspect the dry docks and board the big war vessels. Round trip 50 cts. Boats leave Colman Dock.

An interesting and profitable trip to Tacoma may be had on the steamer Indianapolis at Colman Dock or the Flyer, at Flyer Dock, 50 cents for round trip. Then one should continue the trip to Everett, Colman Dock, round trip, $1. Anacortes, on Fidalgo Island. Port Angeles, situated on the Strait of Juan De Fuca, 85 miles from Seattle, Colman Dock, fare $1 and don't forget Bellingham, headquarters of the Sound fishing business and a lumbering town of about forty thousand inhabitants, Colman Dock, fare $1. Olympia, the State Capitol, Galbraith Deck, fare $1. Port Gamble, Port Blakely and Port Ludlow will be of interest to those in the lumber business. One should remember Vancouver and Victoria, B. C., the latter said to be "more English than England." Pier A, special excursion rates; last, greatest of all, a trip to Hood Canal, one of the most beautiful scenic trips in the United States. (See articles in this book on the places named.) A pleasant and inexpensive excursion may be had on Lake Washington. Take Madison street cable cars to end of line. Phone E. 567, Ind. L 9236 for time of steamers, fare, etc.

Connections are made at SEATTLE with rail and steamers for all local, Alaska, California and Eastern points.

TACOMA with rail and steamers for Olympia, Steilacoom, Gig Harbor, Burton, Quartermaster Harbor, Paradise Valley, Longmire Hot Springs, etc.

PORT TOWNSEND with Port Townsend Southern Railroad for Quilcene and other points and with steamers for Port Hadlock, Forts Casey, Flagler and Worden.

PORT ANGELES with stage for Lake Crescent and the Olympic Mountains.

VICTORIA, B. C., with rail for all points on Vancouver Island.

(See Alaska.)

Exemption Laws — Favor the homeseeker on personal property, $300 free from taxation; homesteads, private library, household goods, cows, etc., exempt from execution.

Express Wagons—The charges for miscellaneous hauling vary somewhat. To save annoyance it is best to make a settled bargain in the beginning. The regular rates are: For one trunk or piece of baggage within one mile, 50c; for each additional mile or fraction thereof, 25c; for each additional trunk or piece of baggage, 50c; for piece of baggage; for valises, handbags and small pieces of baggage of like character, 25c; for each additional mile or fraction thereof, 25c.

Among the baggage and transfer companies may be mentioned:

Fire Department—We have an up-to-date and growing fire department that compares favorably with other cities of same size.

Fishing—One of the greatest industries of the State of Washington, and a close rival to its great lumbering interests. The waters of the Puget Sound contain a greater variety of fish than can be found in any other part of the country, but very little effort has been made to utilize them for other than local consumption owing to the overpowering importance of the salmon. Many thousand cases of salmon are packed yearly, their united value footing up into the millions. The sportsman who loves fishing will find opportunity for enjoyment in the lakes, streams and sound.

Flats—(See Hotels.)

Florists—All over the city are establishments where the finest cut flowers and bouquets may be procured as well as elaborate designs for funerals, public celebrations, etc. Among those who may be consulted with safety and satisfaction are the Alki Floral Co., 114 Cherry; Woodlawn Floral Co., 810 2nd; Capitol Hill Floral Co., 1524 15th N., and Puget Sound Nursery & Seed Co., 120 Pike.

Flowers—The home of flowers, is the name often given to the State of Washington. They grow in profusion from mountain to forest, the sandy plains along the sea beach contain many beautiful varieties. The rhododendron is the state flower.

Ours is fast becoming known as a rose city and beautiful rose gardens are to be found all over the city. Even the thornless rose has been recently cultivated by an enthusiastic florist.

Forestry—The wonderful forests of Western Washington are among the densest and heaviest in the United States, with the exception perhaps of the redwood forests of California. The durability of Washington fir and cedar have been well tested in comparison with other common woods of the United States and the test resulted in a verdict favoring the former. The trees are large, some reaching twelve to fifteen feet in diameter and 250 feet in height, with the timber mainly red and yellow fir, mingled with spruce, hemlock and cedar. Fir grows from 18 inches to 9 feet or more in diameter, and it is not uncommon to cut 200 lineal feet of good logs out of a single tree. Cedar often grows to be of immense size, but is shorter bodied than fir, running from 60 to 100 lineal feet. The Washington cedar shingles are known everywhere. Spruce grows very large and is found in greatest abundance on the straits of San Juan De Fuca and Grays Harbor, and nowhere is found hemlock of such good quality and so long bodied as on Puget Sound.

Fort Lawton—Within the city limits lies Fort Lawton, a United States military post, the site of which was donated to the government by the city of Seattle. It includes 605 acres of land on a magnificent prominence that overlooks the Sound and comprises a beautiful park and commodious drill grounds. Take Fort Lawton car on First Ave.

Free Masons—(See Societies, for list of lodges.)

Fremont—(Now ninth ward) is reached by the Green Lake, Fremont-Ballard, Wallingford and Woodland Park car lines, and is the site of a number of manufacturing plants.

Fruit—(See apples.) The Puget Sound country is unequalled in the industry of fruit raising by any part of the United States. Reports compiled by State Fair Commissioner Huntley shows that in almost four full townships of apple trees, the state had at the beginning of last year 949,229 plum and prune trees, 764,956 peach trees, 500,633 pear trees, 243,459 cherry trees, 30,689 apricot trees, 23,862 English walnut trees, 15,185 almond trees and 6,988 quince trees and that thousands of trees have been planted since these statistics were gathered.

Fuel—The sawmill industry, near-by forests and coal fields solve the fuel question for Seattle. Its mild winters and long summers make the subject of less worry than our more severe Eastern climates. Mill wood sells for $1.50 to $3.00 a load, according to distance of hauling. Coal $6 per ton.

Furnished Rooms—Seattle, with its many apartment and lodging houses does a very large business in renting furnished rooms, as quite a large percentage of its population are transients. One may also find furnished rooms in a great many of the private homes in the residence districts of the city.

Furniture—Among the many mercantile establishments of the city, that invite the admiration of the public, the furniture and house furnishing stores are conspicuous. The latest designs and the most costly makes of furniture can always be found in stock and displayed with artistic effect in the windows and interiors. The most notable houses of this kind in the city are the Grote-Rankin Co., 1407-11 Second Ave.; Frederick & Nelson, Second Ave. near Madison St., and the Standard Furniture Co., corner Second Ave. and Pine St.

THE PEOPLE'S OUTFITTING CO., 1017 Pike St., buy, sell and exchange furniture. Phones, Ind. 3219, M. 4266.

Furniture Factories—The furniture industry in Seattle in the past few years has grown considerably. There are at present ten factories where furniture is manufactured.

Furriers—This business is well represented by several firms who do a substantial business, among whom may be mentioned

W. H. HAHLO & CO., 1203 1st Ave. Tel., M. 803.

Gambling—There are stringent laws against all forms of gambling or betting, which are enforced by the municipal administration. Still, there is always gambling in various games throughout the city, but they are on a small scale and quietly conducted.

Game Laws—It is unlawful to buy, sell, offer for sale, barter or trade at any time, game animals or birds except ducks, geese and brant in November; to hunt without a license; to sell, salt or otherwise preserve trout or other game fish for market; to transport game or fish for market—except ducks, geese and brant in November, and then not over 25 can be sold in one season; to use any boat other than one propelled by hand, or sneak boat in waterfowl shooting; to use any gun other than one fired from the shoulder; to fire a gun, or use a flashlight on waterfowl feeding grounds, one hour after sunset, to one-half hour before sunrise; to remove or disturb nests or eggs of any birds; to in any way interfere with song birds or have skins or plumage of same; to receive game or birds for shipment except in open season, then affidavit must be made that they are not shipped for sale or profit; to have game in cold storage; to kill females of any game animal, except deer, in open season; to run deer with dogs, except west of the Cascades in October on the main land only; to fire, hunt, trap or ensnare, or hunt for hide or horns of any protected animals or birds; to catch or kill game fish by any other means than hook and line; to run deer with dogs on islands; to shoot on Mercer Island in Lake Washington; to take fish in any manner within 300 feet of any fishway; to pollute any stream frequented by game fish; to dump sawdust or mill refuse in any waters of the state; to kill quail and Chinese pheasant in Okanogan county till 1912; to kill geese, brant and other water fowl on Columbia and Snake rivers in Klickitat, Walla Walla, Franklin, Yakima, Kittitas, Columbia, Douglas, Garfield and Whitman counties.

Gas Co.—The gas business is controlled by the Seattle Lighting Co., with offices in the Post-Intelligencer Building, 325 Union St.

Georgetown—Formerly a city within the city, has been annexed and will, probably, soon be known as the 15th ward of Seattle.

Germans—Although Seattle is largely made up of people from the Eastern cities, it has a sprinkling of foreigners, not the least of which is the German element, of which it is estimated that there are nearly ten thousand. Washington Staats Zeitung, printed in the German language, is a well edited paper and represents that nationality in a creditable manner. A. Geisser, 707 Lowman Block, is the German Consul.

Girls' Retreat—Deaconess Home at 1803 18th Ave., and the House of Good Shepherds at N. 50th and Sunnyside.

Glaciers—There are more glaciers in the Chelan country than in any other equal area in the United States. The largest, known as the Lyman glacier, covers more than 2,000 acres to a depth of 250 feet. It is about three miles long by more than a mile in width. This glacier lies in the lap of the mountains at an elevation of 7,000 feet, being bounded by peaks that rise 2,000 feet higher. There are seven smaller glaciers above the Lyman wonder, six of which are interconnected and discharged onto the main body of ice. These glaciers feed a series of lakes and streams that leap down the mountain sides in wild cascades, and there are numerous waterfalls plunging over precipices hundreds of feet in height. One of these makes a sheer fall of nearly 900 feet.

Golden Gardens—(See Parks.)

Golf and Country Club—The Seattle Golf and Country Club is located three miles north of the city on the Everett Interurban line. The links are as fine as any in the state.

Government Building—(See Federal Building.)

Green Lake—Is located in the northern part of the city, and is about a mile long and a half mile wide. Woodland Park, one of the finest parks in the city, forms its southern boundary.

Green River Hot Springs—Is situated on the Green River on the main line of the Northern Pacific Ry. about 60 miles from Seattle. It is a beautiful scenic spot at the foot of the Sierras, where one can enjoy climbing, hunting and all the beauties of the mountain scenery. The Green River and its tributaries are the home of trout, the speckled pride of every piscatorialist. Many is the one who returns from the day's outing with a full basket of rainbow-hued beauties and an appetite that makes the trout, properly prepared by the able chef, taste as never did the viands of a king.

The Hot Springs is one of the best and most noted of the mineral springs on the Northern Pacific. Their medicinal properties are a wonder, rivaling those at Hot Springs, Ark., and making a mecca for tourists on the coast.

The Hotel, established and maintained by Dr. J. C. Kloeber, is first class and thoroughly up-to-date. Parties wishing to spend a short time in or near the mountains, where they may still enjoy the pleasures of a first class cuisine and home, should go to Green River Hot Springs.

Information in regard to trains, etc., can be had from the City Passenger Agt. of the Northern Pacific Railway.

Grocers—There is no lack of competition in this line, as the last city directory gives over 400 retail and 9 wholesale grocers. This does not include the department stores and a host of establishments that are listed under cigar and fruit stores, some of which do a thriving business in small groceries. Among the finest grocery stores is that of Augustine & Kyer, 815 First Ave.

Growth of Seattle—During the first twenty years the growth of Seattle was very slow, its population in 1870 numbering but 1,107, in 1880 it had increased to 3,533. With the advent of the railroad in 1884 the city entered upon a new period of prosperity and at the present time the population is estimated to be at least 300,000.

Hacks and Cabs—Passengers—for one or more persons, within half mile, 50 each; for one person over half mile and within one mile, $1; for one person, over one mile and within two miles, $2; for each additional passenger, 50c; for one passenger over two miles, for each additional mile, $1; for each additional passenger, any distance, 50c. Hand baggage free with any conveyance.

Hacks or Carriages—For use of any hack or carriage for calling or driving, per hour, $1.50; for opening top after hire, extra charge, $1.00. For use of an auto, calling or driving, per hour, $5; each additional hour, $4.

Theatres, Balls, Parties—For one or two persons, to and from, within two miles, $4.00; for three or four persons, to and from, within two miles, $5.00; for each additional mile, to and from, for vehicle, $1.00.

Funerals—Funerals, Lake View and Mount Pleasant, $6.00; funerals, Calvary and Oak Leaf, $7.50. (See Taxicabs.)

Harbor Charges—A. P. Spaulding is the Port Warden, with offices at the City Wharf, foot of Madison St. There are no specified rates regulated by law for pilotage and towage to Port Townsend and the straits. Tugs make their own prices, which vary. It is unlawful to throw rubbish into the bay without permission from the Harbor Master.

Hardware—There are over sixty wholesale and retail hardware dealers in Seattle, the largest wholesale stores being those of the Seattle Hardware Company, 501-11 First Ave. So., and the Schwabacher Company, at First Ave. S., S. W. corner of Jackson. All of the department stores carry hardware.

High School—The Washington high school is located at Broadway and East Pine Street. It is a fine sandstone building, occupying a large block. Four car lines run past it. The Lincoln high school is located on Interlake Ave. and N. 44th St. Ballard high school is at 5308 Tallman Ave.

Historical Facts—Seattle was first settled by white men in 1851, and named Seattle after a friendly Indian chief of that name in 1852. In 1884 railroads entered the city and financial prosperity began. From 1853 to 1889, Washington remained a territory. In 1889 the city of Seattle suffered from a terrible fire which made an epoch in its history. During the business depression of 1893 to 1896, the city again suffered greatly, but in 1897 entered upon its greatest period of growth, co-incident with the large gold discoveries of the Klondike and Alaska.

Hood Canal—This is a long, narrow inlet, extending about seventy-five miles inland from Puget Sound, varying from one to five miles in width. The Kitsap Peninsula, consisting of rolling land and hills, covered with evergreen forests, except where the land has been cleared for farms and orchards, lies on the east side, while to the west the Olympic Mountains rise in rugged grandeur from the water's edge to elevations of seven or eight thousand feet. The sunsets seen on the canal are of extraordinary beauty and artists come from all parts of the world to sketch them. No one should miss taking a trip to Hood Canal, as it is one of the great scenic excursions.

Hospitals and Homes — Seattle has a number of well kept hospitals and homes. The majority of them are managed by private parties or denominations. A list follows:

Pacific Hospital, cor. 1st Ave. and Wall St.

Seattle General, 5th Ave. near Marion.

Providence Hospital, 5th and Madison.

Marine Hospital, office 515 Oriental Bldg.

Maternity and Woman's Hospital, 1st and Cedar.

Immigration—The striking fact which appears in the annual report of the commissioner general of immigration is that in 1907 there entered the port of Seattle twice as many as in 1906, more even than San Francisco. The detention quarters are at the Great Northern docks situated at Smith's Cove, three miles from Pioneer Square.

Industrial Museum—A fine exhibit of Seattle products is to be found on the top floor of the Central building. Interest is daily growing in the enterprise, and we are fast convincing the people that our products are of a high quality and can be put on the market at prices lower than Eastern goods. The Museum is open to the public every day.

Institutes—

THE NEAL INSTITUTE.—A perfectly appointed sanitarium for the cure of the intoxicating liquor habit. Issues a contract bond to each patient, guaranteeing a perfect cure in three days or treatment will be free. For full information (mailed in plain, sealed envelope), address: Robert H. Knittle, Manager, 1735 16th Ave., cor. E. Howell. Phones, East 4381; Ind., Cedar 431.

Insurance—

CALHOUN, DENNY & EWING, Alaska Bldg. Ind. 4165, M. 4166.

DAUGHERTY, W. J., dealer in Cash Estates, 301 Hinckley Bld. Tel. M. 3364, Ind. 4593.

Irrigated Lands—Among the many firms that handle irrigated lands and may be consulted with satisfaction is—

CALHOUN, DENNY & EWING, Alaska Bldg. Ind. 4165, M. 4166.

Italians—There is a large Italian population, the working class living mostly in the Rainier Valley in the southeast portion of the city. They are engaged in common labor, but of course a fair sprinkling in a higher grade of occupation. Dr. A. J. Ghiglione, located in Peoples Bank Bldg., is the Italian Consul.

Japanese—Like all Pacific cities, Seattle has a large Japanese population, estimated to be about 6,000, and while a great many of these are engaged at common labor, various branches of trade are well represented. Among these are two banks, six photographers, two book stores, seven magazines and papers, nineteen restaurants, six confectioners, six drug stores, twenty-nine barber shops, twenty laundries, seven billiard and pool rooms, twenty-one groceries, five shoe makers, three bamboo stores, thirty-three tailors, thirteen contractors, six fuel dealers, fifty-nine hotels and boarding houses, six watch makers and jewelers, three dentists, seven physicians, two butchers, seven fruit dealers, and several bazaars, among the most interesting of the latter is that of M. Furuya & Co., 216 2nd Ave. So. and 1302 2nd Ave. The Oriental Trading Co., at 214 5th Ave. So., do a wholesale business in Japanese staple and fancy goods. As to their religious, educational, and social institutions, there are three Christian churches, one Japanese school, one Buddhist church, two women's homes and one commercial club, besides the Japanese association of the state of Washington, which is the representative body of the Japanese community.

Jewelry and Silverware—Among the most attractive shops and stores in the city are those of the dealers in silverware and jewelry. There are about sixty-five wholesale and retail dealers in the city. This list does not include the department stores, which carry a stock of such goods. The most important jewelry stores are those of Albert Hansen, 1st Ave. and Cherry, and Thomas Hardy, 2nd and Marion. For beautiful antique and hand-made jewelry the store of Schuchard Co., 1207 2nd Ave., cannot be excelled.

Kindergartens—The growth of this very valuable adjunct to the educational system of the city has been remarkable, and well attests its popularity. The kindergarten system is employed in all the primary grades of the public schools to a greater or less extent.

Lakes—(See Lake Washington, Green Lake and Lake Union. 30 sq. miles of fresh water lakes within our city limits.)

Lake Union—(See Fremont.) Lake Union has a shore line of over seven miles. It lies two miles from Pioneer Place.

Lake Washington—Lake Washington, lying along the eastern boundary of Seattle, is one of the largest lakes of the state. It is twenty-two miles long, from one to four miles in width, and of great depth. The surface area is fifty square miles. The water is clear and cold. The gracefully curved shores are covered with richest verdure.

When connected with the Sound by the Lake Washington Canal, it will be one of the finest fresh water harbors in the world. It is protected from all storms by its wooded shores and will be easy of access by all vessels making this port. It will make Seattle one of the ideal ports of the world, for fresh water kills the barnacles that encrust the bottoms of ocean-going craft.

Beyond the lake the land stretches away in gently rising slopes and wooded hills to the foothills of the Cascade Mountains, where it becomes broken and rough until it reaches the snow-clad summits of the distant Cascade range. Mt. Baker, ninety miles to the north, and Mt. Rainier, sixty miles to the south, rise above the level of the sea to the elevations of 11,100 and 14,256 feet, respectively, and an unbroken range of high, rugged mountains extends from one peak to the other, forming a most beautiful panorama.

It is the ideal spot for boating, yachting, a trip on a launch or on the steamers plying on the different routes. Each trip is a continual round of ever changing beauty, and the tourist or resident who enjoys nature, and the sports and pleasures incident thereto, will find this the most promising place about Seattle.

There are a number of boat houses and yachting clubs on the lake. At the boat houses one can hire nearly any kind of a boat desired and for nearly any length of time. The launches are let with or without the pilot and engineer, and will be fitted to suit the patrons.

Lake Washington Canal—This canal when completed will connect Lake Washington, Lake Union and the Sound.

Land Offices—Located at 404 Pacific Block. (See Homestead Lands.)

Landscape Gardening—With our many beautiful public parks and private grounds the visitor to our city will acknowledge that we are well advanced along this line.

JOHN DICK, 4449 40th S. W. (West Seattle), Landscape Gardener.

Lawyers—There are over five hundred lawyers in the city at the time of writing, showing this could hardly be considered a lucrative field for new arrivals in this line.

Libraries and Reading Rooms—Seattle Public Library, 4th Ave. between Madison and Spring Sts., open week days from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m. and on Sundays and holidays from 3 to 10 p. m. The library also maintains six branch libraries, which are open on week days from 2 to 9 p. m. They are located as follows: Ballard, 2026 Market St.; Columbia, Rainier Boulevard; Fremont, 705 Blewett St.; Green Lake, East Green Lake Boulevard and 4th Ave. N. E.; University, 10th Ave. N. E. and 50th St.; West Seattle, College St. W. and 42nd Ave. S. W. The library contains 112,000 volumes. There are also many smaller li-Lithographers — General Lithographing and Printing Co., 113-115-117 Third Ave. So.

Livery—The visitor to the city may get information as to the location of livery stables and the usual range of prices, by inquiring of the hotel clerk.

Lodging Houses — The term lodging house in its local significance refers to the numerous large and densely populated buildings where the poorest class of men are provided with beds at the very cheapest rates, the prices ranging down to 10 cents. Formerly these places were hotbeds of disease and crime, but they are now pretty well regulated from a sanitary standpoint, and provided with baths, and the transient dweller in the city who can afford no better quarters can secure a night's lodging from 25 cents up.

Lost or Stolen Children—Should your little one be lost, go at once to the nearest police station and notify the desk sergeant in charge, giving a full and accurate description of the child, as to clothing, the features, etc.

Lumber Dealers—We are well supplied with lumber dealers, among whom may be mentioned—

LEIGH LUMBER & MANUFACTURING CO., 2325 Western Ave. M. 5626. West Seattle Branch, California Ave., one block south of High School. Ind. West 53.

BRATNOBER LUMBER CO., 9th St. and California Ave. Ind. West 41.

Lumbering—(See also Forestry.)

The lumbering industry is one of the greatest in the state of Washington. The largest and best piece of timber now standing in the world is located on the North Pacific Coast, and the densest portion of this growth is on the Puget Sound. Prof. Henry Gannet, the United States government expert, estimates the standing timber of the state at 195,687,966,000 feet, which is a larger amount of timber than is to be found in the combined states of Minnesota, Michigan, Wisconsin, and all the yellow pine states of the South. With the increasing local demand, the growing car trade, and the extension of the export business, the demand is steadily on the increase. Washington makes the best shingles in the world.

Luna Park—Located in West Seattle, is one of the most popular pleasure resorts in the city. Here is to be found the large natatorium and although under the shelter of a large commodious bath house, it will be found as healthful as any sea bath. Luna Park is the Wonderland of Seattle, and everything in the way of amusements, from the Laughing Gallery to the Scenic Railway, will be found here.

Madison Park—(See Parks.)

Madrona Park—(See Parks.)

Magazines—(See Periodicals.)

Manicures—There are a number of manicure establishments in the down town district, where expert operators correct blemishes of the hands and beautify the nails.

Manufacturing — Good markets, cheap raw materials, cheap fuel, cheap power, cheap transportation and convenient facilities for the distribution of her products, make manufacturing profitable in Seattle and will make her a great industrial center. Her market for fish and lumber products is the greatest in the whole civilized world. Her principal markets for her other products are the Pacific Slope, Alaska, Mexico, Central and South America, the countries of the Far East and Hawaiian Islands. As to raw materials there are within easy distance two hundred billion feet of timber, vast deposits of iron, copper and other minerals. Within a few miles of the city are all the mines of Washington. All the materials for the manufacture of glass are found in great abundance, and the rivers and streams of Western Washington being large and rapid are capable of furnishing an almost unlimited water power. The leading industries of the city are ship-yards, sawmills, flour, feed and cereal mills, brick yards, terracotta works, foundries, machine shops, breweries, sash and door factories, factories for woodenware, excelsior, barrels, boots, shoes, clothing, cars, wagons, carriages, furniture, tinware, soap, crackers, candy, pickles, brooms, baking powder, drugs, jewelry, saws, fish-nets, woolen goods, trunks, stoves, etc. Some of the largest plants established during the year are the rolling mills of the Seattle Co., the works of the Portland Cordage Co., and the Bemis Bag Company's factory. Manufactures value, $60,000,000.

Markets—(See Public market.)

Masonic Temple Block — 2320 First Ave., where all the Masonic bodies of the city meet. (See Secret Societies.)

Mercer Island—One of the most beautiful places about Seattle. The island is heavily wooded and nearly all of its shore line slopes down gradually to the water's edge. A modern hotel is conducted on the western shore of the island and the steamers Cyrene and Xanthus make regular trips from Leschi Park to East Seattle. On the island is a state game preserve, also the state reformatory. The island is in the extreme southeastern part of Lake Washington.

Messenger Service—(See American District Telegraph Co.)

Mines and Mining—Coal mining is one of the leading industries in the State of Washington and particularly in King County. In addition to the coal product the mines produce many thousand tons of coke. The coal fields of Washington cover an area of many thousand square miles. All of the large mines except those of the Roslyn district in Kittitas County, are located within fifty miles of Seattle. These mines give employment to over 5,000 men, at wages averaging $2.70 per day. There are many extensive deposits of iron ore in the state, but as yet they are undeveloped. Gold in paying quantities has been found in several localities. These mining enterprises add much to the prosperity of Seattle, on account of the large trade in machinery and supplies.

Mountain Climbing—(See Olympics.)

Mt. Rainier—One of the wonders of Western Washington is Mt. Rainier, a volcanic peak rising 14,525 feet above sea level. This peak was first seen by Capt. George Vancouver on May 10th, 1792, and named by him for a British Lord of the Admiralty. In 1862 it was named Mt. Tacoma by Theodore Winthrop, who claimed that as the Indian name, but in 1890 the United States government decided as the name Rainier had been used in Vancouver maps and for many years had been accepted as authority, it should also be used on all government maps. The scenery around Mt. Rainier is some of the most beautiful in the world. On clear days it can easily be seen from any part of the city.

Music Schools—Seattle is as appreciative of the arts and sciences as any city of its size in the United States, especially of music. Among those that may be mentioned is the Aramenti School of Vocal Music, 206-7-8-9 Arcade Building, Tel. M. 3015.

National Guard—This is a body of volunteer citizen soldiers maintained for the purpose of suppressing riots and other outbreaks against the laws of the state, and to train men in tactics and discipline for their higher efficiency in case of war. The armory is on Western Ave. near Lenora St.

National Park Inn—Situated at the base of Mt. Rainier, the inn commands the approaches to all places of interest, and from its verandas the view of the mountains is unsurpassed.

Navy Yard—(See Excursions)

One of the most delightful short excursions to be made from Seattle is a trip to the Puget Sound Navy Yard on Port Orchard Bay. This yard is located sixteen miles due west of Seattle on one of the numerous, winding arms of Puget Sound. The approach lies between green wooded hills, dotted here and there with little farms and gardens, white cottages and more imposing suburban homes. At the entrance, Fort Ward, with its heavy disappearing guns and mortars, protects the port against all invaders. The navy yard itself is a complete ship-building plant, fully equipped with all the latest labor-saving devices for the building and repairing of ships of every kind. The dry dock is the largest on the Pacific Coast. It is 627 feet long, 39 feet deep, 67 feet wide at the bottom, and 130 feet wide at the top. Visitors allowed every day from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. Boats leave Colman Dock. Round trip 50 cts.

News Agencies — (Also News Depots.) The news dealer is very much in evidence, the business being carried on by cigar, fruit, drug and department stores, besides the regular book and news stores, of which there are several. Among these are Lowman & Hanford, 616 First Ave.; O. P. Mooney, 1329 Second Ave., Wilson & McVey, 104 Occidental; The Archway Book store, 226 Pike St., Frank B. Wilson, 318 Pike St.; Raymer's Old Book Store and Subscription News, 1522 First Ave., and TOURIST HOTEL News Stand, Occidental Ave. & Main St.

Newspapers—(See Periodicals.)

Nome Season—Navigation between Seattle, Nome and the Tanana districts of Alaska opens every year on the first day of June, for it is not until then that the long winter of the North is broken up sufficiently for the great summer trade between these Alaska points and the cities of the Pacific Slope. From June 1st until the first of November, the traffic with these northerly ports is very heavy, for in these summer months are taken in all the supplies to last that country during their long winter. As summer is also the season of work and prospecting, many passengers crowd the decks of the northward bound steamers to work in the gold fields, the new railroads that are constantly developing this country and many to prospect for themselves. Not only is Seattle awakening to this great northern trade, but every large mining manufacturing concern, every large mercantile house in the United States is also becoming deeply concerned.

Office Buildings—(See Blocks and Buildings.)

Office Furniture—

LOWMAN & HANFORD, 616 1st. Ave.

Old Books—(See Antiquarian Books.) The literary element of the city is of a high order. Among its citizens are many collectors of, not only, up-to-date historical and standard books in many branches, but some bibliophiles who love and collect rare old tomes. The antiquarian book trade is represented by S. F. Shorey at 701 Third Ave., corner of Cherry St., who has a large and well arranged stock, and Raymer's Old Book Store, 1522 First Ave.

Olympia is the county seat and the seat of government of the state. The town is admirably located on Budd's inlet, lying sufficiently above sea level to afford splendid drainage. The population is about 10,000. The state capitol is an imposing structure built of native sandstone, and houses the state officers and the two branches of the legislature when in session.

Old Three Tree Point—(See Seacom Beach.)

Olympics—The Olympic Mountains lie in the form of a delta, occupying the center of the peninsula forming the northwesterly corner of the State of Washington and surrounded on three sides by the Pacific Ocean and its giant arms, the Strait of Fuca and the Puget Sound. In extent they are about 100 miles long north and south by 90 miles wide, and occupy portions of the four big counties of Jefferson, Mason, Clallam and Chehalis. The Olympics are accessible from all four sides.

Omnibus and Baggage Transfer—(See Hacks and Cabs.) This business is well represented by several large concerns besides the many express and baggage wagons that are found on the various corners of the streets.

Opera House—(See Theatres.)

Opticians—Among those along this line may be mentioned—

Oranges—That hybrid oranges will grow in the Puget Sound district is proved by an experiment conducted by the department of agriculture through Ferdinand Schmitz. Thirteen citrange trees, of four different varieties, were sent last October to Mr. Schmitz, who planted them on his land at South Alki; and has carefully tended them through the winter.

Osteopathy—Has a number of representatives in Seattle, a full list of which will be found in the City Directory.

Oysters—The State of Washington has many natural oyster beds, the total area embracing them being 4,291.6 acres. Nearly all the oysters raised in Puget Sound come from the bays of Mason, Thurston, Whatcom and Skagit Counties. This industry alone should net the state a large revenue, as it receives an annual license of two dollars for each man tonging oysters from the natural oyster beds.

Paint Manufacturers—Three different concerns in the city manufacture paint.

Paper Mills—The Pacific Board and Paper Co. are constructing a plant on the shore of Lake Union, and at this writing have a large lot of material on hand to convert into paste-board.

Parks—The growth of the cities and towns of the Northwest has been so rapid that in most cases parks and boulevards have been an after-thought, but in this respect Seattle has been a notable exception with the result that we have the finest system on the Pacific Coast and far ahead of many older and larger cities. Seattle has at present a park area of over eleven hundred acres, and when the complete plan of Olmsted Brothers has been perfected two thousand acres of area and fifty miles of boulevards will have been realized. At this time the city has fourteen improved parks, briefly described in the order of their size and importance, as follows:

COWEN PARK—Rather a unique park of twelve acres, highly improved, located in the University Heights district. A wooded ravine, with a charming brook, makes it a very attractive small park. Reached by University cars on Third Avenue.

DENNY PARK—Located in the North Seattle district, is the oldest park in the city and is a very popular community park. Is rich in vegetation and plantations, containing more varieties of growth than any other park in the city. Reached by North Queen Anne cars on Second Avenue.

DENNY-BLAINE PARK—A small but attractive park on the lake north of Madrona Park, used almost entirely as a community park. Reached by James Street cable cars.

EVERGREEN PARK—A natural park of ten acres in the North Queen Anne Hill district. Reached by North Queen Anne cars on Second Avenue.

FRINK PARK—Located on the steep slopes overlooking Lake Washington, a twenty-acre park with many beautiful natural features which are being preserved and augmented. Reached by Yesler Way cable cars.

INTERLAKEN PARK—A thirty-five-acre tract located in the North Capitol Hill district and covered completely with natural growth. The serpentine Interlaken Boulevard winds its way through this park and is its principal feature. Reached by Nineteenth Avenue cars on Third Avenue.

KINNEAR PARK—Located on a high bluff overlooking the harbor in the Queen Anne Hill district. Contains but fourteen acres, but is highly improved and on account of its unequalled marine and mountain view, is considered by many to be the prettiest park in the city. Reached by Kinnear Park cars on First Avenue.

LESCHI PARK—On the shores of Lake Washington, a small but highly improved park, one of the oldest in the city. Has all the features of a lakeside park and being but fifteen minutes' ride from the heart of the city is a very popular park. Reached by Yesler Way cable cars.

MADRONA PARK—Also located on Lake Washington, but is more in the nature of a family or picnic park, being located on a series of wooded slopes, the natural beauty having been preserved. Reached by James Street cable cars or lake steamers from Leschi Park.

MOUNT BAKER PARK—Along and overlooking Lake Washington in the southeastern part of the city. Its lake side walks, picnic grounds and recreation pier make it a popular place in the summer season. Reached by the Mount Baker Park cars from Pioneer Place.

SALMON BAY PARK—Located in Ballard, the thriving shingle mill suburb in the northern part of the city, is a very attractive small community park. Reached by Ballard or Fremont-Ballard cars on First Avenue.

SCHMITZ PARK—Lovers of nature will find a treat in store for them at this beautiful natural park of forty acres on the West Seattle Peninsula. Reached by Alki Point cars from Pioneer Place.

VOLUNTEER PARK—The nearest park to the downtown district, located on Capitol Hill on the highest elevation in the city, giving an unsurpassed panoramic view from its observation tower. The most extensively improved park in the city. Reached by Capitol Hill cars on Third Avenue or Broadway-Pike cars on Second Avenue.

WASHINGTON PARK—A natural park of one hundred twenty-eight acres extending from Madison Street to Union Bay. The second largest park in the city, but slightly improved, however, aside from the scenic driveways and walks which pass through it. Reached by Madison Street cable cars or Twenty-Third Avenue electric cars from Pioneer Place.

WOODLAND PARK—A beautiful natural park of two hundred acres located on the west shore of Green Lake in the northern part of the city. A first-class "Zoo" is maintained here and recreation facilities for outdoor sports are well provided for, also unlimited picnic grounds. Reached by Green Lake cars on Second Avenue, or Phinney Avenue cars on Second Avenue.

PLAYGROUNDS — Seattle has four fully equipped playgrounds with modern apparatus installed and men and women supervisors in charge during the summer season. They are reached as follows:

LINCOLN PLAYFIELD—Broadway and Pine Streets; Capitol Hill cars on Third Avenue, Broadway cars on Second Avenue or East Union cars on First Avenue.

COLLINS PLAYFIELD—Washington Street and 15th Avenue South; Yesler Way cable cars.

B. F. DAY PLAYFIELD—Fremont Avenue and North 40th Street; Phinney Avenue cars on Second Avenue.

BOULEVARDS — At this time Seattle has a north and south boulevard twelve miles long, known as the Lake Washington Boulevard, extending along the shore of or overlooking Lake Washington from Mount Baker Park on the south to the State University Grounds on the north. The boulevard system can be reached from the downtown section via Interlaken Boulevard at 19th Avenue and Galer Street on Capitol Hill.

GOLDEN GARDENS—One of the finest natural parks in the Northwest. It contains fifty acres, lying along the shores of Puget Sound, has a beautiful sandy beach and about five miles of shady trails. Here one will find more rustic work than any park on the coast. A magnificent dancing pavilion for private parties. Plenty of tables and swings for picnic parties. We advise every visitor to Seattle to visit this beautiful nature spot. It is reached from Ballard by the Loyal Street car line, by boats and the Great Northern trains.

Parochial Schools—(See Schools and Colleges.)

Patents—The patenting of various articles in this day and age has become almost an art and in consequence it is necessary to employ experts as attorneys to make out the papers, follow up and in many ways see that the patent is secured promptly and with special regard to the legal protection of the invention. Among those who may be consulted with safety and profit is the firm of

ADAMS & BROOKS, 625-6 Colman Block. M. 3407.

Paved Streets—There is about 178 miles of paved and planked streets in Seattle, and work in this direction is going on continually. Many more streets are expected to be paved and improved in the following year. Graded streets, 433 miles.

Pawn Brokers—These gentlemen ply a most profitable calling. Representatives of all nationalities are engaged in business. It is conducted under police supervision, and pawnbrokers are obliged to make a daily report. There is no particular location where pawnbrokers congregate, but places of this kind are well scattered throughout the business district.

Penitentiary — Is located at Walla Walla, and in the institution there is a jute mill and a brick yard which give employment to a large number of the inmates. There is also a farm maintained in connection and a prison library. The federal prison is located on McNeil's Island, between Tacoma and Olympia.

Picnic Grounds — The public parks are always open to small parties of picnickers and are daily resorted to during the summer season by family groups, who have taken their lunch to spend the day in the open air, and by Sunday School, public school picnics and other bands of children on similar pleasure expeditions. (See Parks, Excursions, etc.)

Pioneer Place—A small triangle lying in the heart of the city at the junction of First Avenue and Yesler Way. The "totem pole," which occupies a place here, is a section of a large cedar tree fifty-two feet high, carved by the Alaska Indians to represent the figures of animals, birds, faces, etc., painted in a variety of colors, as symbols of their tribal genealogies.

Places of Interest—Almost every establishment enumerated elsewhere in this book is a place of interest to the visiting tourist who has time sufficient to inspect them all; but the sightseer who is making a hurried trip should visit the following places, which can be recommended as of first importance:

A.-Y.-P. Fair Grounds, State University—University cars, 3rd.

Plasters, Masons, Etc.—This business is well covered by several hundred contracting firms and individuals, among which may be mentioned—

NICOL & BLYTH, 4514 Walker St., West Seattle. Ind. Grant 103.

Playgrounds—(See Parks.)

Pleasant Beach—Pleasant Beach is a popular resort for picnic parties and excursions. It is located on Bainbridge Island, about ten miles from Seattle, and is reached by the steamers on the Port Orchard route several times a day.

Plumbing—Among the many plumbers in the city may be mentioned the following—

HENRY, T. F., Plumbing and Gas Fitting, 2654 California Ave. Ind. 350.

JUNCTION PLUMBING CO., 4515 California Ave. Phone, West 361.

SUNDT, J. M., Plumbing, 1716 Arck Ave., West Seattle. Ind. Adams 336.

Police Court—Situated in City Hall.

Police Department—The department is under the general supervision of the Chief of Police and a board of commissioners. Theoretically at least appointments and promotions are made through a system of civil service. The department consists of: Chief of police, three captains, one inspector ranking as captain, nine sergeants, one sergeant of detectives, eleven detectives, three drivers, three jailers, three clerks, one hundred and seventy-five patrolmen, two matrons, one dog catcher and two assistants, pound master and two assistants, one ambulance officer, in all nearly two hundred and twenty-five, which with the constantly increasing population must of necessity compel an increase of the force.

Population—The population of Seattle is steadily on the increase, now being estimated to be about 300,000.

Port Angeles—Situated on the Straits of Juan De Fuca, is about eighty-four miles from Seattle and about sixty-five miles from the Pacific Ocean and has a landlocked harbor. Port Angeles was intended for a Government reservation, but in 1890 people began taking up homesteads and later acquired full ownership of the property. Port Angeles business men are progressive and are doing all in their power to make the city one of the best on the Sound. In the Olympic Mountains, about sixteen miles from Port Angeles, is Lake Crescent, where the fishing is unequaled.

Port Gamble and Fort Ludlow—Have always been associated with the world-wide lumber trade of Puget Sound. Both are well known shipping centers and many coastwise and foreign vessels load cargoes at both places. The lumber mills are among the largest in the world and the two ports are enjoying a steady growth. Port Gamble boasts of a $50,000.00 hotel, the structure being modern in every respect. Port Gamble and Port Ludlow are both becoming summer resorts of importance and the advantage of superior hotel accommodations in the two towns adds much to the attractions.

Port Townsend—The American port of entry for Puget Sound, where the Government has erected several fine public buildings, including a postoffice, custom house and marine hospital. The harbor at Port Townsend is one of the finest on the Sound and affords excellent anchorage for vessels. Industries tributary to the city are lumbering, shipping and fishing. The population of Port Townsend is estimated at six thousand.

Postoffice—Federal Building, located at corner of 3rd and Union.

Post office receipts for year ending June 30, 1909, $842,111; 10 years' gain, 446%.

Public Halls, Blocks and Buildings—(See Halls, Blocks & Buildings.)

Public Libraries and Reading Rooms—(See Libraries, etc.)

Public Market—This institution was first opened on Saturday, August 17th, 1907, at the west end of Pike St., on which day only a few wagons showed up, disposing of their produce so quickly that the market became so popular that, within the first week, there was hardly room to accommodate the teams, and agitation at once started for the building of a permanent building and place. A vacant lot was secured on Pike St., corner of Western Ave., where at present the city market has several fine spacious buildings and its trade has increased wonderfully. It is not only of benefit to the farmers, but to the people as well, prices being much more reasonable than formerly.

Public Schools—(See Colleges and Schools.)

Puget Sound—Puget Sound in itself is a beautiful inland sea, extending from the Pacific Ocean more than 200 miles into the very heart of Western Washington. Its shore lines aggregate 1,600 miles in length. It is free from shoals, reefs and hidden obstructions to navigation and has numerous arms, bays, inlets, straits and harbors. The water is from sixty to one thousand feet in depth. It is dotted with beautiful green islands, ranging from a few acres to more than a hundred square miles in extent. There are long sandy beaches and precipitous cliffs rising abruptly from the water's edge. As a rule, however, boats can land at any point upon the 1,600 miles of coast. The summer climate on Puget Sound is all that can be desired.

Pure Food Laws—The rules and regulations promulgated by the commissioners, conform to the requirements of the new state law, which became operative Oct. 1, 1907, and provides for the inspection of everything to be eaten or drank.

Queen Anne Hill—One of the grandest panoramas in the Puget Sound country may be seen from the top of the stand-pipe of the city water works located on the summit of Queen Anne Hill. By climbing up the winding stairway, which is also an observatory, the whole city can be seen, with its wharves and fleets of vessels in front, Salmon Bay and the lakes to the north and east, Puget Sound to the north and south, and the lofty Cascades and Olympic Mountains to the east and west. On Queen Anne Hill may be found some of the finest residences and apartment houses in the city. Take Queen Anne car line.

Railroads—Five transcontinental railroads enter Seattle—the Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific, and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul.

Railway Terminals—The new railway terminals, located just south of Jackson St., form one of the greatest improvements made in our city in recent years. The King Street passenger station, the freight depots and terminal tracks, and the tunnel under the city, represent an expenditure of several millions of dollars and forms facilities for the transaction of railroad business. Everyone who is interested in modern transportation facilities should visit these terminals. Steam R. R. in county, value $1,882,242. Steam and sub. elec. R. R., 224 mi. R. R. operated, 7. R. R. building, 2.

Rainier—(See Mt. Rainier.)

Ravenna Park—Ravenna Park is one of the most attractive spots in the state. It consists of a fine tract of native forest, with immense trees towering hundreds of feet high, with an undergrowth of smaller trees, shrubs, vines, ferns and other native plants in great variety, covering hillside and valley. A beautiful clear stream flows through the wooded vale, and white sulphur springs flow from beneath the hillside.

It is worth the time to go there to see the giant firs and cedars, which have been growing for centuries. But in addition to the large trees, which range from eight to fifteen feet in diameter, the park presents a natural forest scene, with but little change made by man.

Admission to the Park is 50 cents. Take University cars on 3rd Ave.

Razor Blades—Used on safety razors can be resharpened by

THE KEENEDGE CO., 831 Central Bldg.

Real Estate—In spite of the close money market during the winter and spring of 1907-8 prices have remained firm and in many cases advanced, and will steadily advance in the coming years. One has but to glance through this book to see that Seattle is destined soon to be a metropolis of no mean size, and it behooves those who wish to take advantage of this phenomenal growth that is going on to buy now. Real estate transfers in 1909, over $25,000,000. To those who are inquiring, we would recommend the following firms: The Jones, Thompson Investment Co., 113 Seneca St.; W. C. BASKETT, California and Lander, West Seattle, Grant 224; Calhoun, Denny & Ewing, Alaska Bldg., Ind. 4165, M. 4166; Coast Realty Co., 1522 1st Ave., near Pike St.

POLAND, C. G., Real Estate, Alki Point. Tel., Ind. Adams 69.

Reformatories—The State Reformatory is located on Mercer Island, Lake Washington.

Regrading—Three years ago the tremendous task of removing some of the hills from the midst of our city was undertaken and a great deal has been accomplished, 16,000,000 cu. yds. of earth and rocks having been removed by the hydraulic system at a cost of $6,000,000. It will still cost as much more 'ere the work is completed. This regrading of Seattle is one-fifth as large a project as the construction of the Panama Canal, and already one-sixth as much earth has been removed.—W. L. P.

Renton—Is a small town located on the Cedar River, about twelve miles southeast of Seattle. It is the nearest coal mining point and is reached by rail and two electric lines.

Residence District—Those who wish to see the beautiful residence districts can very easily do so by taking any of the car lines to the tops of the hills, and then getting off and walking in any direction. The Madison St., James St., Broadway, Broadway-Pike, Capitol Hill, Union St., Kinnear Park, Beacon Hill, Jackson and Jefferson St. lines run into some of the popular sections.

Restaurants—To meet the wants of the transient population, as well as the residents whose business duties require their absence from home a great part of the day, there are numbers of restaurants throughout the city, and they vary in character and grade as do the people who patronize them. There are cafes where the patron can spend as much as he pleases for a dinner as finely served as anywhere in the world.

Roycrofters—Gather informally and converse distractedly on various subjects at 1522 First Av.

Rubber Goods—All branches of this industry are represented by agents and stocks.

ACME RUBBER CO., Agts. Republic Tires, 1425 Broadway. Phone, E. 1660.

Rugs—(See Carpets and Rugs.)

Rural Free Delivery—On April 1, 1897, the first rural mail delivery was established in the State of Washington in the Yakima Valley. Since that the growth of the service in Washington has kept pace with its growth throughout the country. The routes are not confined to any locality, but are distributed through all portions of the state.

Safety Deposit Vaults—Our city is well supplied with up-to-date deposit vaults, among which may be mentioned the NORTHERN BANK & TRUST CO., 400 Pike St.

Saloons—There are over three hundred saloons in Seattle. By a charter amendment the number cannot be increased until the population of the city has reached the number of 500,000. Most of the saloons are located in the downtown district. In some of the residence districts the people have made provisions for keeping them out permanently.

Scandinavians—Our city has many Scandinavians. Books and papers may be had at WILLIAM MORCK'S, 1323 1st Ave., Ind. A 2784.

Schools and Colleges—(See Colleges and Schools.)

Sea Lions—All kinds of fish and animals appear occasionally in the waters of Puget Sound. On Aug. 14, 1907, an enormous sea lion, weighing 1400 pounds, the largest ever caught in the Sound, was killed in a fish trap at North Edmonds.

Seattle Park—(See Parks.)

Seacoma Beach—Is located on the mainland between Seattle and Tacoma, and contains two hundred and fifty acres of the choicest beach on Puget Sound, and is within an hour by rail or an hour and a half by carriage from Seattle. It is an ideal spot for the "Good Old Summer Time."

Second-Hand Furniture—This class of business is well represented in dealers scattered over the business section of the city.

Secret Societies—(See Societies.)

Senators, U. S.—Are Sam H. Piles, Seattle, and Wesley L. Jones, North Yakima.

Sewers—Over 240 miles of sewers have been installed, and new extensions are being added, old replaced and improvements being constantly made.

Shingle Mills—Several large shingle mills are located at Ballard, a suburb of Seattle. Many smaller shingle mills are to be found in the various lumbering towns of the Sound country, the largest shingle mill in the world being located at Everett.

Ship Building and Shipping—Ship building is one of the most important industries in the City of Seattle and King County. The Moran Company's ship-building plant is an industry well worth a visit. While this may not be the largest, it is one of the most modern and up-to-date ship-building plants in the United States. It is practically new and has all the equipment necessary for the building of ships of any size or character. There are other marine engine works and ship-building companies in Seattle, Ballard, West Seattle and at Quartermaster Harbor on Vashon Island, all located in King County. These plants have marine ways and floating drydocks, and carry on extensive construction and repair work, giving employment to a very large number of skilled workmen. During the year 1905, according to the report of the Bureau of the Census, Washington rose from eleventh to sixth place as a ship-building state. The rise of five points in the ranking of the ship-building states was made in the five years following 1900. The ranking of the states in ship-building are as follows: Pennsylvania, first; California, second; Virginia, third; Massachusetts, fourth, Maine, fifth; and Washington sixth.

The shipping trade of Seattle is carried on chiefly with Japan, China, Hawaiian Islands, Philippine Islands, Australia, other countries of the Orient and Alaska, also along the Pacific slope, Mexico, Central and South America. Its chief exports are lumber, coal, fruit, gold, wheat and manufactured articles. Its imports are chiefly cotton, coffee, sugar, tea, rice, indigo, spices, silks, other manufactured goods and is the gold market for Alaska. The foreign imports, according to the report submitted by the Harbor Master to the Mayor of Seattle, aggregated $58,604,097, while the exports aggregated $70,721,532, making a grand total of $129, 325,620.

Shoe Manufactories and Repairing—Our city has several shoe manufactories, agencies of Eastern concerns, a large number of cobblers, besides the numerous so-called "quick repair" shops where repairs are made by machinery. Among the latter may be mentioned—

THE SEATTLE SHOE MFG. CO., Quick Repairs Works, 2011 First Ave. Ind. L 1417.

Smith's Cove—A small arm of the bay situated about three miles northwest of the city. Here is located the Great Northern docks and the detention quarters where immigrants are held, examined, etc.

Snoqualmie Falls—Is one of the greatest attractions in this country of natural wonders. There, in a narrow mountain gorge, the great volume of the Snoqualmie plunges over a precipice in a perpendicular fall of 270 feet. The falls are thirty-two miles east of Seattle. The Seattle-Tacoma Power Co. has installed an electric plant at the falls with a capacity of 19,000 horsepower.

Soap Lake—This marvelous body of water lies in Douglas County. It claims great curative qualities.

Societies—A. O. F.: Evergreen No. 8034, Pioneer Block, every Tuesday; Friar Tuck No. 7921, Masonic Temple, every Thursday.

F. of A.: Enterprise No. 3, 3rd and Madison, every Friday; Excelsior No. 17, 3rd and Madison, every Thursday; Pride of Seattle No. 7, Fremont, every Monday; Crescent No. 8, Ballard, every Tuesday; Court Madrone No. 108 (West Seattle), Madrone Hall, every Wednesday.

THE BIBLIOPOLE

Mr. Charles D. Raymer.

A NOTABLE addition to the ranks of the bookmen of Seattle is Mr. Charles D. Raymer, who established in Minneapolis "Raymer's Old Book Store" away back in 1885, where many of us were accustomed to buy, sell and trade our school books, in our childhood days, and later to receive our first lesson in "bibliophilism," before emigrating to the far West.

Twenty years later we met him in Spokane, and in September, 1907, he bought out the "Seattle Book Exchange," at 1522 First Avenue, at once changing the name. The store now becomes headquarters in Seattle for old, rare and curious books and the popular resort of the book-hunters of the Puget Sound country.—Literary Light.

Tacoma—The leading city of Pierce County, with its fine residence districts, paved streets and natural parks, is easily reached from Seattle by a ride of a little more than an hour on the fast steamships Indianapolis and Flyer, operating on a schedule of eight round trips daily, tourists have an opportunity to visit Tacoma and return to Seattle in time for the theatre in the evening. Tacoma has a population now estimated at 90,000 and is growing rapidly. There are many fine buildings in the city and the hotel accommodations are excellent. The trip from Seattle to Tacoma is through inland waters and the time spent on the decks of the vessels in sightseeing makes the trip one of the most pleasant and least expensive of any of the Sound excursions. Round trip, 50 cents. Trip can be made by Seattle-Tacoma Interurban. Round trip, $1.00.

Tailoring—We are well supplied in this line, among which we mention—

COHEN, P., 418 James St. Ind. A 4358.

MOORE, M. A. & CO., 200-201 Arcade Bldg. Ind. L 3909.

OKAZAKI, Y., 2106 First Ave.
SHERIDAN, R. P., 216-218
Washington Bldg., 705 First Ave.
Ind. Phone, A 2862.

Telephones—Seattle has the farce of competing telephone companies having a combined list of nearly 5,000 subscribers, compelling business houses to the necessity of having two telephones instead of one.

Theatres—There are many places of amusement in this city, not the least of which are the vaudeville and moving picture shows, most of which will be found in the business center. The following is a list of the theatres:

Alhambra Theatre—Pine and Westlake.

Grand Opera House—Cherry, bet. 2nd and 3rd. Seats 2,200.

Lois Theatre—2nd and Seneca.

Majestic Theatre—2nd & Spring.

Moore Theatre—2nd & Virginia.

Orpheum, 3rd and James.

Pantages Theatre—2nd & Seneca.

Seattle Theatre, cor. 3rd and Cherry. Seats 1500.

Star Theatre, S. E. cor. 1st and Madison.

Tide Lands—The tide flats will be of interest to visitors. These lands are covered with water at low tide. An extensive work of improvement has been carried on for some years by which large areas have been filled with material obtained from dredging ship channels through the flats, by sluicing the earth from Beacon Hill to the eastward, and by grading streets and blocks. This land when filled is very valuable as sites for industrial enterprises, warehouses and railroad terminals.

listed in the last City Directory over one hundred and twenty-five Timber Land Agents.

Timber Testing Station—The University of Washington has recently installed a modern timber testing station, which is to be used by the U. S. Forest Service in its co-operative timber testing work, as well as by the University for purposes of instruction.

Totem Pole—Webster defines a totem as "a rude picture of a bird or beast used by the North American Indians to designate their clan." A totem pole is usually erected in front of their dwelling, and bearing the family totem. There are, however, three different classes of totem poles, the first of which we have just described, and which is the most common; the second, called the death totem, a pole containing the ashes of the departed, and the third, erected to commemorate any important event that has taken place in the family history. The very fine totem that stands in Pioneer Place is one of the best specimens of these unique family trees. It was brought from Tongas, in Southeastern Alaska, by a party of Seattle business men, and presented to the city, where it stands a monument to a race of people which is fast dying out. Only five tribes carve and venerate totemic symbols, which are held in superstitious reverence. Some villages have as many as 200 immense standing poles, which are hollowed for holding ashes of celebrated chiefs. Totems are read from the top downward.

Toys—Nearly all the large department stores carry a large line of toys.

Trolley Trips—(See Excursions)

—A few points of interest the stranger can visit while in the city: First, in order to get a general lay of the city, visit the water tower on Queen Anne Hill—West Queen Anne or Cedar St. cars. From here take West Queen Anne car and transfer to Green Lake cars—Pike and 2nd Ave.—and loop the loop, seeing Lake Union and Green Lake. If you care to stop off, get off at Woodland Park, one of the most beautiful parks in Seattle. There are a large number of animals to be seen here. Returning, transfer to University cars—3rd and Union (here while waiting for your car may be seen the new Federal building) and visit the State University and the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition grounds, and Ravenna Park, the home of the big trees. This ride takes you on the opposite shores of Lake Union. On both of these routes may be seen the proposed Government Canal connecting Lake Washington with salt water. Returning from the University grounds, transfer to Capitol Hill cars and view Volunteer Park. This is a very pretty ride. The next transfer will be to the Madison line, 2nd and Madison, at the end of which you will find Madison Park and Lake Washington. Here you cannot afford to miss a trip on the lake, which are made on regular schedule, taking in Kirkland, Bothell, East Seattle and around Mercer Island. This is a most delightful trip. The White City is the name of the pleasure resort at Madison Park. The Y. M. C. A. and new Carnegie Library are situated at Fourth and Madison. If you stop off here, take in the roof garden, top of Lincoln Hotel. Returning, a transfer may be taken to Second Ave. and from there to James St. and from James to Madrona. On this trip points of interest are Madrona Park, Lake Washington and the Catholic Cathedral, 9th and Madison Sts. Returning, transfer to Fauntleroy Park car—First and Yesler. This is a long ride, going around the Eastern side of Elliott Bay to West Seattle and then out through the forest to Fauntleroy Park. Take in the large steel works at Youngstown on this trip. If you want to go to Luna Park or Alki Point, transfer to Luna Park cars—First and Yesler. Luna Park is a large pleasure resort, and at Alki Point is the natatorium and summer resort. Returning, take the West Seattle Ferry, from which a panoramic view of the entire water front may be had.

Leschi Park cars are also taken at First and Yesler. Returning from Leschi, Chinatown may be taken in. Get off at 5th Ave. and walk to Washington St. At First and Yesler or James is the famous totem pole. Another long and interesting ride is through the Rainier Valley, down the boulevard of that name. Take cars at First and Washington.

Trust Companies—

NORTHERN BANK & TRUST CO., 400 Pike.

Turkish Baths—This business is well represented, among which may be mentioned—

THE TOURIST HOTEL, Occidental Ave. and Main St., where good accommodations may be had.

Undertakers—In case of death any undertaker will do all that is necessary and required by law in regard to death reports, burial permits, and the like, in addition to performing his usual services.

E. R. BUTTERWORTH & SONS, 1921 First Ave., may be consulted with satisfaction. Both Phones 949.

University of Washington—Located about five miles from Pioneer Place, on Lake Washington. Take University or Wallingford Ave. cars. Statistics issued in April, 1910, showed the official registration total of 1,846 students enrolled in the University this year, as compared with 1,592 last year, a net growth in the University of 20 per cent this year.

The school of law has had a greater growth than any other department in the University. Last year's registration showed a total of 128 members, while this year there are 162 students in the law school, thus showing a growth of 30 per cent. In the graduate school there were 39 students last year, and this year 53 students are working for their master's degree.

By Schools—Graduate school, 53; college of liberal arts, 881; college of engineering (chemical engineering 17, civil engineering 151, electrical engineering 114, mechanical engineering 36), total 318; school of mines, 85; school of pharmacy, 62; school of forestry, 41; school of law, 162; foresters' short course, 40; miners' short course, 15; Saturday special teachers' courses, 22; total, 1,674; summer school of 1908, 235; total for the year, 1914; deduct summer school students now attending University, 68; net total for the year, 1,846.

Vancouver, B. C.—The commercial metropolis of British Columbia, is situated on the main land and is a distributing point for the northern and interior districts. The present population is estimated at 80,000. Many fine public buildings impress the visitor at once. The trade of the city is steadily increasing, as is the population, and few cities on the Pacific Coast have as fine a future outlook as Vancouver. The city has a complete electric railway system reaching to all the points of interest. Stanley Park, with its groves of firs and cedars, is one of the most beautiful pleasure resorts in the country and is visited annually by thousands of tourists from every part of the world. The harbor of Vancouver is land-locked and deep enough for the largest vessels afloat.

Victoria, B. C.—Is one of the beautiful points for the tourist from Seattle. It is located on Vancouver Island about eighty miles from Seattle, and one of the most picturesque cities in North America. The Puget Sound Navigation Co. boats leave Seattle daily except Mondays, giving the tourist a beautiful daylight ride. Victoria is the capital of the Province of British Columbia.

Volunteer Park—(See Parks.)

Washington, The State of—From the standpoint of its physical features, Washington may be divided into six regions—the Olympic Mountains, Puget Sound Basin, Cascade Mountains, Columbia Plain, Okanogan Highlands and Blue Mountains. Lying in a general north and south course between the Olympic and Cascade Mountains is a great trough known as the Puget Sound Basin. With a mild climate, a virgin soil and a home market, Puget Sound country is all that may be desired, and in all the great state, with its diversified lands, nothing more beautiful in the way of scenery or more fertile under cultivation can be found than this same Puget Sound country. East of the Cascades the climate is more of a continental character, the winters more rigorous and the summers warmer. However, as in Western Washington, the nights are cool. The central section extends west to the Columbia River; this section spreads north and south, and consists principally of rolling prairie. The northern, northeastern and northwestern sections are rough and broken, but have numerous wide river valleys, where agriculture is extensively carried on. The southeastern section is hilly, but not rough. Nearly every acre can be cultivated, and this section is noted for its fruit. In the northeastern section the most fertile part of the Inland Empire, the Easterner gets his first glimpse of this state as he crosses the boundary. The towering mountains rise before him, and his surprise knows no abatement as wonder after wonder is piled up in his progress across the state, and he is at last ushered into the magnificent city of Seattle, one of the greatest marvels of this marvelous state, which with only twenty years of statehood has made so great a progress.

Washington Hotel—The New Washington Hotel, at the corner of Second Ave. and Stewart St., in Seattle, occupies a space fronting 145 feet on Second Ave., with a depth of 108 feet to alley on Stewart St. It is thirteen stories high, and of steel and brick construction, containing 275 guest rooms and 235 private bath rooms. On the roof is a garden, one-half of which is inclosed in glass. The entire building is occupied strictly for hotel purposes, there being no stores on the ground floor, such space being devoted to dining room, grill room, banquet rooms, bar, etc. Cost, about $850,000.

Washington Park—(See Parks.)

Water Front—The city water front, with its extensive docks and warehouses, its fleet of small steamers running in and out at all hours; its large sailing vessels and great ocean steamships from every part of the world, are never-failing attractions to visitors. We have a sea-water shore line of 40.5 miles.

Water Works—The water supply of the city is brought through to the city in large conduits from Cedar Lake, nearly forty miles away. The lake being much higher than the city, forms a natural pressure, thus avoiding the necessity of a large and expensive plant. The city having grown at such a rapid pace, the conduit now used has become inadequate for the great needs of the city; thus, until new conduits, already provided for, are laid, stringent rules are enforced for the regulation of hours for sprinkling of lawns, the evening hours being from 7 to 8:30. The fine for disobeying the rules is $2 for the first offense, and usually $5 or more for future violations. Heavier fines are imposed for sprinkling without a nozzle and using an automatic sprinkler, unless a meter has been installed. Special permits may be obtained from the Water Department.

The city water supply daily, 43,000,000 gal. Extensions well under way will give 65,000,000 gal.

West Seattle—(14th ward)—Located directly across the bay from the main portion of the city and on a high plateau 300 feet above the water: It is very favorably located, commanding a fine view of the mountains, and has an excellent climate the air being so devoid of smoke and gas. The transportation facilities are good, being easily accessible by both trolley and ferry.

Wholesale District—Everyone should take a walk through the wholesale and jobbing district on Western, First, Occidental, Second and Third Avenues South and note the business activity of the city.

Wireless Telegraphy—Is represented in Seattle by a station on Queen Anne Hill and a city office in the Pioneer Hotel. The company operating these plants handles business for Victoria and other Sound Points. Visitors are not permitted to inspect the station.

Woodland Park—(See Parks.)

Yachting—Any sport that needs a large or small body of water meets its full capacity here. Yachting is enjoyed and races are usually held every year. The yacht Spirit won the cup from the Canadian yacht Alexandra in 1907. C. W. Willey is the Secretary of the Seattle Yacht Club.

Young Women's Christian Association—The Y. W. C. A. is a flourishing organization, having its headquarters at Fourth Ave. and Seneca. A dining hall on the plan of a cafeteria is run here, where at reasonable prices a working girl may obtain a good meal. A gymnasium and comfortable reading rooms, with an evening course of instruction, are maintained. Recently the plan has been adopted of establishing homes where from eighteen to sixty-five of their number can live under the same roof and enjoy all the comforts of a home at a limited expense. These homes will be located at a dozen places in the city. The first home is located at 1216 Sixth Ave. W.
