Trade-Mark—Registration—Alteration in Register—Patents, Designs, and Trade Marks Act, 1883, s. 92.

Motion, under sect. 92 of the Patents, Designs, and Trade Marks Act, 1883, for leave to make alterations in the Register of Trade-marks with reference to ten trade-marks which had been registered by a firm of Edward & John Burke. The marks had been assigned to a company, called Edward & John Burke (Limited), which had acquired the business of the firm. This motion was by the company, and it asked for leave to add to the register the word "Limited," in print, under the signature "Edward & John Burke," on the trade-marks, and also to omit certain specified words from one of the marks. Notice had been given to the Comptroller, who had stated that he had no objection to the proposed alterations.

John Outler, for the company.

NORTH, J., at first felt some doubt whether the proposed addition of the word "Limited" would be, within the meaning of sect. 92, an alteration in a particular "not essential"; but, on the authority of In re Guinness (5 Rep. Pat. Cas. 316), he made the order. He also gave leave to omit the words as asked.

Petition by a creditor for the winding-up of the company by the Court. The petition was presented on the 3rd of December, 1890, but did not come on for hearing till now. The question was raised, whether, having regard to the amount of the paid-up capital of the company, the jurisdiction to make a winding-up order was not, under sub-sect. 3 of sect. 1 of the Companies (Winding Up) Act, 1890 (which came into operation on the 1st of January, 1891), in the County Court.

R. J. Parker, for the petitioner.

R. W. Harper, for the company and for another creditor, consented to the petition.

NORTH, J., held, that sub-sect. 3 of sect. 1 did not apply when the petition had been presented before the 1st of January, 1891, though it was not heard till after. Consequently, the jurisdiction was in the High Court. And his Lordship made the ordinary compulsory order.

In re THE HALIFAX SUGAR REFINING COMPANY.

Company—Winding-up—Contributory—Shares not paid up in Cash—Principal and Agent—Notice to Principal of Agent's Knowledge.

On the formation of this company in 1882, 1200 5l. shares, credited as fully paid, were allotted to Messrs S. N. & Co., who had been promoters of the Company. The certificates for these shares represented them as being fully paid up, but they were not in fact fully paid up, and no contract in respect of them was ever filed with the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies as required by sect. 25 of the Companies Act, 1867. In 1884, Hugh McCalmont lent S. N. & Co. 30,000l. on these 1200 shares, together with a number of other securities, and he afterwards required S. N. & Co. to transfer all the securities for this loan, including the 1200 shares, into his own name. A transfer of the 1200 shares, dated the 31st of January, 1885, was accordingly executed to him; the certificates of the shares were handed to his agent, and the transfer was duly registered in the books of the company. The company was afterwards ordered to be wound up, and, McCalmont having meanwhile died, the liquidator of the company took out a summons in the winding-up, to settle McCalmont's executors on the list of contributories in respect of the 1200 shares.

It was not made out by the evidence that McCalmont himself knew that the shares had not been paid up in cash; but it was found by the Court that on the occasion of his taking some other shares in the company in 1884 he had employed one Gardiner, who was his confidential clerk, to investigate the financial position of the company, and that Gardiner knew that these 1200 shares had not been paid up in cash.

Clare, for the liquidator in support of the summons.

Sir H. Davey, Q.C., Buckley, Q.C., and Prior, for the executors.

STIRLING, J., said, that although it had not been made out that McCalmont knew that the shares had not been paid up in cash, Gardiner, who as McCalmont's confidential clerk had been charged with the investigation of the company's affairs, and was, to use the phrase adopted by Kindersley, V.C., in Bourso v. Savage (Law Rep. 2 Eq. 184, at p. 142) his alter ego, did know that the shares had not been paid up in cash. Under these circumstances notice of the matters known to Gardiner must be attributed to McCalmont, and consequently McCalmont's executors must be placed upon the list of contributories.

MOORE v. KNIGHT.

Partnership—Misrepresentation—Liability of Co-partner—Solicitor and Client—Statute of Limitations (21 Jac. 1, c. 16)—Trustee Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 59), s. 8.

Between the years 1867 and 1874, the plaintiff deposited with Messrs M., G., & B., her solicitors, sums of money amounting to 351l. for investment.

G. died in 1877; B. died in 1887. In 1888 M. was adjudicated bankrupt, and he died early in 1889.

Down to G.'s death, interest at 5 per cent. was paid by the firm to the plaintiff, and after his death down to 1886 interest at the same rate was paid to her by the surviving partners.

This was an action against the trustee in bankruptcy of M. and the respective legal personal representatives of G. and B., in which the plaintiff alleged that, with the exception of 50l. which they had invested on F.'s security, M., G., & B. had converted her moneys to their own use.

In the view taken by the Court of the evidence, the following facts were established: The money came without fraud into the hands of the firm for investment; no investment was made (except that on F.'s security); but the money was by some act (of which the Court was willing to believe G. was innocent) misappropriated, and applied to the purposes of the firm. In 1876, before G.'s death, an account was rendered by the firm which contained misrepresentations as to all the sums except that invested on F.'s security, and by a continuance of such misrepresentations the plaintiff was prevented from discovering the truth until 1886.

The legal personal representative of G. alone really defended the action; the defence was based on a plea of the Statute of Limitations (2l Jac. 1, c. 16), and the Trustee Act, 1888; and his counsel contended that the Act of 1888 had rendered the decision in Blair v. Bromley (2 Phil. 354; 5 Hare, 542) no longer applicable, and that the present case did not fall within any of the exceptions in the 8th section of the last-mentioned Act, viz., "where the claim is founded upon any fraud or fraudulent breach of trust to which the trustee was party or privy, or is to recover trust property, or the proceeds thereof still retained by the trustee, or previously received by the trustee and converted to his use." To this it was replied on behalf of the plaintiff: (1) that the case fell within these exceptions; and (2) that Blair v. Bromley did not proceed upon any principle or rule specially applicable to trustees, and that the propositions laid down in that case, viz., (1) that a partner was bound by the representations of his co-partner in matters within their business and amounting to a guarantee to the parties concerned; and (2) that the effect of the misrepresentations so far as regarded the Statute of Limitations was the same as if they had been made on the day after the fraud was discovered, were propositions which remained unaffected by the statute of 1888.

Ribton and Bartley Dennis, for the plaintiff.

Hastings, Q.C., and Woodroffe, for the defendant, the legal personal representative of G.

B. Fossett Lock, for the trustee in bankruptcy of M.

Ribton, in reply.

Our. adv. vult.

Dec. 18. STIRLING, J., said that the decision in Blair v. Bromley rested on principles of the law of partnership, not on those of trust, and was unaffected by the provisions of the Trustee Act, 1888; and he held (1) that the plaintiff was entitled to the amount of her claim out of the partnership assets of the firm of M., G., & B., which assets were within the control of the Court in another action, in which action the plaintiff must have leave to apply; and (2) that the plaintiff was also entitled to a declaration that if the joint estate of M., G., & B. was not sufficient to satisfy her claim, she was entitled to recover the balance out of the separate estates of G., B., and M.

In re WHITELEY AND ROBERTS' ARBITRATION.

Arbitration—Award—Arbitrator—Misconduct—Setting aside Award—Motion—Oral Evidence—Admission by Arbitrator after Award—Evidence.

For some time prior to the 7th of October, 1890, N. Whiteley had been in the habit of lending money to S. Roberts, who gave as security I O. U.'s, promissory notes, and other forms of security. A dispute having arisen between the parties as to the amount due from Roberts to Whiteley, R. Clough was, by a submission to arbitration, dated the 7th of October, 1890, and executed by Whiteley and Roberts, appointed arbitrator to determine the amount of Roberts' debt.

On the 13th of October, 1890, Clough published his award, by which he awarded that a much less sum was due to Whiteley from Roberts than the former had claimed.

On the 25th October, 1890, Whiteley commenced an action against Roberts, claiming, amongst other things, to have the award set aside on the ground of its having been improperly procured; and on the 4th of November he served notice of motion, in the matter of the arbitration and of the Arbitration Act, 1889, on Roberts and Clough, to have the award set aside on the ground that Clough had misconducted himself in the arbitration by acting in collusion with Roberts, and in various other ways mentioned in the notice of motion, and on the ground that the award had been improperly procured through the fraudulent conduct of Clough.

On the 7th of November, 1890, the motion was directed by Kay, J., to be set down in the witness list to be heard on oral evidence, and on the 12th, 13th, 16th, and 17th of November, it was heard with witnesses by Kekewich, J.

Renshaw, Q.C., and Waggett, for Whiteley, called witnesses (including Whiteley), who alleged that on the 22nd of October, 1890, nine days after the publication of his award, Clough made use of language in their presence which amounted to an admission that he had been bribed to make the award as he did, and had misconducted himself in the arbitration as alleged in the notice of motion; but they did not call Clough himself.

Warmington, Q.C., and Dare, for Roberts, submitted that no admission made by the arbitrator after the publication of the award was evidence against Roberts.

Renshaw, Q.C., contra, cited Mills v. Master, &c. of Bowyers' Company (3 K. & J. 66), Earl v. Stocker (2 Vern. 251), and Morgan v. Mather (2 Ves. 15).

Butcher, for Clough.

KEKEWICH, J., said that the point had never been expressly decided. Earl v. Stocker to a certain extent supported Whiteley's contention, but that case stood quite alone. All that Wood, V.C., decided in Mills v. Bowyers' Company was that he could not set aside the award in that case without the evidence of the arbitrator, which must be given to the Court. There was nothing, therefore, to take the case out of the ordinary rules of evidence, and the objection taken on behalf of Roberts was a good objection, and the motion failed as against Roberts.

Renshaw, Q.C., then stated that he did not propose to proceed as against Clough, and the motion was accordingly dismissed with costs.

Limited Company—Reduction of Capital—Reduction of one Class.

This was a petition by the company for reduction of capital. The company had both ordinary and preference shares, and desired only to reduce the former.

Warmington, Q.C., and Eve, for the company, referred to the conflicting decisions by Kay, J., in In re Union Plate Glass Company (42 Ch. Div. 518), where the reduction of one class of capital only was refused; and by North, J., who took a contrary view in In re Gatling Gun, Limited (43 Ch. Div. 628), and In re American Pastoral Company (62 L. T. (N. S.) 625).

KEKEWICH, J., said that if the decision of Kay, J., had stood alone, he would have followed it; but North, J., had differed from that decision, and had done so after a consideration of it. Under these circumstances, his Lordship felt bound to exercise his own judgment, which was in favour of the view of North, J., and not of that of Kay, J. It was to be hoped that the point would soon be settled by the Court of Appeal. His Lordship would give no opinion whether the Court could sanction the reduction of one part of one class of capital. Here it was sought to reduce the whole of one such class, and an order for such reduction must accordingly be made.

SAXBY v. THOMAS.

Dec. 17.

Vendor and Purchaser—Objection to Title after Time limited for Requisition—Purchaser's Right to rescind and recover Deposit.

The defendant was a mortgagee of leaseholds, and put them up for sale by public auction on the 14th of March, 1889, and the plaintiff purchased Lot 1, at the sale, and signed the usual contract and paid a deposit of 126*l.* The conditions of sale provided that the purchase should be completed on the 25th of April, 1889; that all requisitions on the title should be sent in within ten days after the delivery of the abstract; and that, subject only to such requisitions, if any, the title was to be deemed to be accepted, and in this respect time was to be of the essence of the contract; and that if the purchaser failed to complete in accordance with the conditions his deposit should be forfeited to the vendor.

The abstract was delivered on the 20th of March, and the requisitions were sent in on the 30th of March, 1889. The abstract so delivered shewed that a Mrs. Bedgrave and one J. W. Wesley, who were trustees, and who had executed the mortgage under which the defendant was selling, had no power to mortgage the leaseholds in question. This objection, however, was not raised by the plaintiff until the 1st of July, 1889, when he refused to complete unless the defendant shewed that Mrs. Bedgrave was solely interested in the purchase-money, or procured all persons beneficially interested in the property to concur in the conveyances. The defendant declined to comply with this requisition, and insisted that the objection came too late.

On the 26th of July, 1889, the plaintiff refused to complete, and claimed the return of his deposit. On the 30th of July, 1889, the defendant, for the first time, shewed (as the fact was) that at the time he took his mortgage the defect in the mortgagors' title was not disclosed to him, and that he was in fact a bonâ fide purchaser for value without notice, and could make a good holding title. The plaintiff, however, insisted on his objection, and brought this action claiming rescission of the contract and the return of his deposit.

Neville, Q.C., and L. S. Bristowe, for the plaintiff, relied on Want v. Stallibrass (Law Rep. 8 Ex. 175).

Cavanagh and Terrell, for the defendant, argued, contrâ, that the case was distinguishable from Want v. Stallibrass, and that as the defendant could shew a good holding title before action brought it was not a case for return of the deposit: Nottingham Patent Brick and Tile Company v. Builer (16 Q. B. D. 778).

ROMER, J., held that the principle of Want v. Stallibrass applied. Even if the defendant did shew a good holding title on the 30th of July, 1889, he did not shew it until after the plaintiff was in a position to rescind and recover his deposit, and had insisted on his right to do so. The defendant was therefore too late; and the plaintiff was entitled to the relief he claimed.

THE QUEEN v. ASSESSMENT COMMITTEE OF ST. MARY ABBOTTS, KENSINGTON.

Poor Rate—Procedure—Valuation List—Metropolis—Assessment Committee—Appeal against Valuation List—Right to appear by Agent—Valuation (Metropolis) Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 67), ss. 19, 32.

Rule nisi for a mandamus directing the assessment committee to hear and determine the matter of objections made by and on behalf of the prosecutor, and to hear his agent and witnesses. The prosecutor appealed against an alteration in the quinquennial valuation list. He was a member of a rate-payers' association, and the manager of the association appeared before the committee as his agent. The committee declined to hear the manager as agent for the prosecutor, on the ground that he was not the householder, or a member of his family or household, or a counsel or solicitor.

Henn Collins, Q.C., and J. V. Austin, shewed cause.

Philbrick, Q.C., in support of the rule.

THE COURT (Pollock, B., and Charles J.) held, that as the Valuation (Metropolis) Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 67), contains no provisions limiting the right of a householder appealing to the assessment committee to appoint an agent to act on his behalf, the agent was entitled to be heard.

Rule absolute.

Supreme Court of Judicature.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Q. B. D. GOWER v. TOBITT. Jan. 12.
Practice—Appeal from Official Referee—Application for New Trial—The Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1890 (53 & 54 Vict. c. 44), s. 1.

In this case the whole cause had been referred to an official referee for trial, and judgment entered for the defendant. The plaintiff gave notice of motion for a new trial, and the case was entered in the new trial paper, in the Queen's Bench Division. Subsequently the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1890, came into operation, and the new trial list was transferred for hearing to the Court of Appeal. This was an application by the plaintiff to remove the motion for a new trial from the list in the Court of Appeal, and to have it set down for hearing before the Queen's Bench Division.

Newson, in support of the application.
Germaine, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., Bowen and Fry, L.JJ.) were of opinion that the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1890, s. 1, only applied to motions for a new trial in cases tried with a jury, and that the motion for a new trial in this case did not come within the Act, and could not be heard by the Court of Appeal. The present application would be referred to the Divisional Court, who would give such direction to the associate as might be necessary.

Settled Land Act—Application of Capital Money—Improvements—Devise of Settlor's Real Estate to uses of Settlement—Money liable to be laid out in Land—Settled Land Act, 1882, ss. 2, 25, 33.

This was an appeal from a decision of North, J. (Weekly Notes, 1890, p. 173), on an application under the Settled Land Act for investment of certain moneys, forming part of the residuary estate under a will, which were directed to be laid out in the purchase of land to be settled on the trusts of a settlement in certain proposed works on land comprised in the settlement. North, J., held that the proposed works were improvements within sect. 25 of the Settled Land Act, 1882, but doubted whether the will and the settlement constituted one settlement, and whether the money could be treated as "capital money," and applied in improvements on the settled land, without first laying it out in land and settling it to the uses of the settlement and then selling the land again. He, therefore, refused the application, in order that the question might be decided by the Court of Appeal.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and Diddin, for the appellants.

THE COURT (Lindley, Lopes, and Kay, L.JJ.) held it to be clear that the settlement and the will formed one "settlement" within the meaning of the Settled Land Act, and that the money could be applied in the way proposed without first investing it in land and then selling it again. The point had been so decided in In re Mackenzie's Trusts (23 Ch. Div. 750), and in In re Tennant (40 Ch. Div. 594), and they approved of those decisions. The appeal was, therefore, allowed.

LOPES v. HUME DIOK.

Investment of Trust Funds—Power to vary Investments—Trust Investment Act, 1889.

A testator, who died in 1858, gave his residuary personal estate to trustees upon trust to invest it in the purchase of land, and in the meantime to invest it in Government securities, without any direction that they might vary investments. They had in their names a large sum of Consols arising from the investment of part of the residuary personal estate. The trustees applied for directions as to whether they had power under the Trust Investment Act, 1889, to sell out part of these Consols and invest the money on mortgage of freeholds. Mr. Justice Stirling held that they had not. The tenant for life appealed.

Beale, Q.C., and Farwell, for the appeal.

THE COURT (Lindley, Fry, and Kay, L.JJ.) held, that the trustees had the power, for that the concluding words of sect. 3 empowered trustees not only to vary the investment of funds invested by them under the powers of that section, but any investments of any of the descriptions mentioned in that section.

Napier Higgins, Q.C., and Medd, for the appeal.

Coxens-Hardy, Q.C., and MacSwinney, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Lindley, Lopes, and Kay, L.J.J.) expressed great doubt whether, having regard to the letter of the 14th of May, the correspondence constituted a contract, but held that, if it did, the defendant had effectually rescinded it after discovering the want of title to the minerals. The appeal was, therefore, dismissed.

Royal Mine—Rights of Crown—Gold Mine—Gold mingled with other Minerals—1 W. & M. c. 30, ss. 3, 4; 5 W. & M. c. 6, ss. 2, 3.

This was an appeal from a decision of North, J. (Weekly Notes, 1890, p. 173).

This action was brought on behalf of the Crown to restrain the defendant Morgan from selling or removing any gold or gold ore from the Gwynfynydd Mine, in Merionethshire, without the licence of the Crown. The Crown claimed the mine as a gold mine; the defendant alleged that it was not a Royal mine, as it contained copper, iron, and lead as well as gold, and relied on the Acts 1 W. & M. c. 30, and 5 W. & M. c. 6. North, J., held that the mine was a gold mine, and that the defendant was not protected by the Acts referred to. The defendant appealed.

The defendant supported the appeal in person.

Sir R. E. Webster, A.G., Napier Higgins, Q.C., and Vaughan Hawkins, for the Attorney-General, were not called on.

THE COURT (Lindley, Lopes, and Kay, L.J.J.) agreed with the opinion of North, J., and dismissed the appeal.

WOODWARD v. HESELTINE.

Bills of Sale Act, 1882 (45 & 46 Vict. c. 43).—Address of Witness—Description of Parties.

This was an appeal by Simmons, holder of a bill of sale, from a decision of North, J. (Weekly Notes, 1890, p. 221). The bill of sale was expressed to be between Heseltine of the one part, "and the Discount Bank of London, of 6, Duncannon Street, Charing Cross, in the County of Middlesex (of which said bank Lewis Simmons of the same place is the sole proprietor), of the other part."

NORTH, J. held, the bill of sale void on the ground that the address of the attesting witness was not correctly given.

Bosanquet, Q.C., and Poulter, for the appeal.

Napier Higgins, Q.C., and Ingpen, for the plaintiff.

Alexander, for the widow.

THE COURT (Lindley, Lopes, and Kay, L.J.J.) dismissed the appeal, holding that the address of the attesting witness was sufficient, but that the name of the grantee was not properly given, and the bill of sale was therefore void as not being in the form prescribed by the Act.

Chitty, J. DASHWOOD v. MAGNIAO Jan. 14.

Tenant for Life and Remainderman—Waste—Timber—Timber Estate—Beech Woods—Periodical Cuttings—Directions to Repair—Ornamental Lake—Liability to Cleanse.

Sir G. Dashwood, who died in 1862, devised his estate at West Wycombe to trustees for 100 years upon trust, after providing for certain annuities, to pay the residue of the "rents and profits" thereof to his widow during her life, and to permit her to reside at and have the use and enjoyment of the mansion-house, lands, and ground usually in hand; subject to this term, the estates were settled on divers persons successively for life without impeachment of waste, with remainder to their first and other sons in tail. The widow was directed to keep the mansion-house, outbuildings, and grounds in good repair and condition, and was empowered to fell timber for this purpose.

Part of the estate consisted of beech woods, which the testator and his predecessors in title had cultivated and managed for the produce of saleable timber, which they had periodically cut in accordance with what was alleged to be the due course of management of beech woods in the neighbourhood; the timber so cut was regularly sold, and the proceeds treated as income.

From 1862 to May, 1889, the date of her death, Lady Dashwood had continued, with the consent of the trustees, the same system of management, and during this period had received some 50,000*l.* from the proceeds of sale of the timber periodically felled. By the custom of the county of Bucks, beech is timber, and the plaintiffs, the tenant for life and a remainderman, brought this action against Lady Dashwood's executors and the trustees of the will for the purpose of making Lady Dashwood's estate liable for the proceeds of timber cut and sold by her, and also to recover damages or compensation in respect of an ornamental lake which they alleged that Lady Dashwood had allowed to become choked with mud and weeds contrary to the direction in the will to keep the grounds in good condition.

Sir H. Davey, Q.C., Latham, Q.C., Fellows, and P. H. Lawrence, for the plaintiffs, contended that beech being "timber" by the custom of Bucks, it was waste for a termor or tenant for life impeachable for waste to cut it, and that any custom of management could not override the general law as to timber.

Rigby, Q.C., Byrne, Q.C., and Ribton, for Lady Dashwood's executors, argued that the estate was a "timber estate," and therefore an exception to the general law as to timber, as laid down in Honywood v. Honywood (Law Rep. 18 Eq. 306, 309); that with regard to this estate there was a custom that all timber and timber-like trees in the beech woods were seasonable wood, and might be cut in due course of management and at seasonable periods, and that such cutting was not waste.

Whitehorne, Q.C., and H. Terrell; Sir A. Watson, Q.C., and R. F. Norton; and D. Sturges, for the trustees.

CHITTY, J., held, that the West Wycombe estate, so far as regards the beech woods, was a "timber estate," and therefore within the exception laid down by Jessel, M.R., in Honywood v. Honywood (Law Rep. 18 Eq. 309, 310), in favour of owners of timber estates; that the law as laid down by that decision was correct; and consequently that Lady Dashwood's executors were not liable to refund or account for any moneys received by her for the periodical cuttings; that with regard to the other claim against the executors for the omission to keep the lake in good condition, that no obligation was imposed upon Lady Dashwood by the will to clean out the lake, and that upon this point also the Plaintiffs' case failed.

In re QUEENSLAND MERCANTILE AND AGENCY COMPANY.
Ex parte AUSTRALASIAN INVESTMENT COMPANY.
Ex parte UNION BANK OF AUSTRALIA.

Conflict of Law—Transfer of Chose in Action—Company—Calls—Notice.

The Queensland Mercantile and Agency Company, Limited, were a company incorporated by registration under the law of the colony of Queensland, having its principal place of business in that colony. They were indebted to their bankers, the Union Bank of Australia, to a large amount, and gave the bank as security certain debentures, including a debenture for 10,000*l.* and a debenture for 50,000*l.* These two debentures, as his Lordship held, created valid charges according to the law of Queensland, which in this respect is the same as that of England, on the amounts unpaid in respect of certain specified shares in the Queensland Mercantile and Agency Company, numbered from 1 to 2500 inclusive, for the amounts secured by the debentures. The shares were 100*l.* shares, on each of which 50*l.* was paid up. In December, 1886, the company passed resolutions calling up the unpaid capital on the shares payable by four equal instalments in February, April, June, and August, 1887, respectively. Notice of the calls was served on the shareholders; but no notice of the charge given by the debentures was ever given to them.

In February, 1887, the Australasian Investment Company, a Scotch Company, commenced an action for negligence against the Queensland Mercantile and Agency Company in the Scotch Court of Session, and the same day issued a process called "arrestment on the dependence" of the action against the shareholders of the Queensland Company resident in Scotland, and the shareholders were "intimated" or served with notice of the arrestment. The effect of the proceeding was that the unpaid calls of the Scotch shareholders were arrested, and, according to the evidence of Scotch law that was before the Court, according to Scotch law, the Australasian Investment Company became the holders of a first charge on such unpaid calls for what they should recover in the action, the charge of the debenture-holders having no effect till notice was given to the shareholders, and being postponed to the charge created by the arrestment by reason of the arrestment being first "intimated."

In the months of May, July, and August, 1887, numerous judgments were obtained in the High Court by English creditors against the Queensland Company. On the 28th of October, 1887, an order was made in Queensland for the winding-up of the Queensland Company; the effect of that order was, under the terms of the debentures held by the Union Bank of Australia, to make the 60,000*l.* secured by such debentures presently payable. On the 14th of January, 1888, an order was made in England to wind the Queensland Company up. Proceedings were taken in the English winding-up, which led to the calls on the English and Scotch shareholders being lodged in the hands of the English liquidator, without prejudice to the right of the Australasian Investment Company in respect of their arrestment. The amount of damages the latter company were taken to be entitled to in the Scotch action in respect of negligence was fixed in the winding-up.

The matter was now brought on on summonses by the Union Bank of Australia and the Australasian Investment Company, and the question was raised whether the latter company, by virtue of the arrestment and prior intimation, had priority on the proceeds of the call on the Scotch shares, or the former company by virtue of their debentures, which were prior in point of time.

Sir Horace Davey, Q.C., Buckley, Q.C., and Samuel Dickinson, for the Union Bank of Australia.

Everitt, Q.C., and Swinfen Eady, for English judgment creditors.

Crackanthorpe, Q.C., and Rawlins, for the Australasian Investment Company.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and Kenyon Parker, for the liquidator.

NORTH, J., held, that the assignment of the calls effected by the arrestment and intimation being effectual by the law of Scotland, where the property was situated, was not postponed to the charge of the debenture-holders by reason that the latter would have had priority according to the law of the place where the Queensland Company, from whom the transfer was effected, were domiciled; and, therefore, that the Australasian Investment Company were entitled to priority.

Will—"Superstitious use"—Bequest to Persons resident Abroad—
Testator domiciled in England—1 Ed. 6, c. 14.

This was the further consideration of an administration action. The testator in the action had made the following bequest: "I give and bequeath unto the Priests of the Society of Jesus at Richmond, Victoria, 2000*l.* sterling, to be spent in masses for the soul of my late wife, Catherine Elliott, and my own." The testator died domiciled in England.

Burleigh Muir, for the plaintiff in the action:—A legacy of a sum of money to be spent in masses for souls is for a superstitious use, and void by implication under 1 Ed. 6, c. 14.

Theobald, for the priests:—The gift is good according to the law of Victoria, and it is only in consequence of and by analogy to statute that it is made void in England; the statute does not extend to the colony of Victoria, and does not make the gift bad for a purpose that is not bad and immoral in itself, to be carried out beyond the realm; in the same way as a gift for charitable purposes involving the purchase of land in Scotland is not necessarily void.

Charitable Bequest—Waterworks Mortgage—Pure or Impure Personality—Mortmain.

The question in this case, which came on upon an originating summons adjourned into Court, was whether the money secured by a Borough of Preston Waterworks mortgage, part of the estate of a testatrix who died in 1883, ought, or ought not, to be treated as pure personality so as to pass under a bequest in her will for charitable purposes.

By the mortgage in question the Corporation of Preston, in exercise of their powers under the Preston Waterworks Act, 1853, the Local Government Supplemental Act, 1861, and the Preston Improvement Act, in consideration of 150*l.* paid by the testatrix for the purposes of those Acts, granted to the testatrix, "her executors, administrators, and assigns, such proportion of the rents, rates, and waterworks which by the said Acts . . . the corporation are authorized to charge, levy, purchase, and take . . . as the principal sum doth or shall bear to the whole sum which is or shall be borrowed," to hold to the testatrix, her executors, administrators, and assigns, until the principal, and interest thereon at 3*l.* 10*s.* per cent., should be paid and satisfied, and the mortgage provided that the principal should be paid upon a specified day.

Sefton Strickland, for the next of kin of the testatrix, argued that the mortgage, being a charge upon "the rents and waterworks," conferred upon the mortgagee an interest in land within the meaning of the Mortmain Acts.

Ingle Joyce, for the charities interested under the will.
Rawlins, for the executors.

STIRLING, J., said that the mortgage given by the Corporation of Preston was in substance a mortgage of the general undertaking as a going concern, and held, that according to the principles laid down in Walker v. Milne (11 Beav. 507), Gardner v. London, Chatham, and Dover Railway Company (Law Rep. 2 Ch. 201), Holdsworth v. Davenport (3 Ch Div. 185), Attree v. Howe (9 Ch. Div. 337), and Re Yerburch's Estate (62 L. T. (N.S.) 55), such a mortgage did not confer upon the mortgagee an interest in land within the Mortmain Act's, and consequently that the mortgage debt was pure personality.

Practice—Winding-up—Petition—Affidavit of Service—"Seal of the Court"—Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890—Companies Winding-up Rules, 1890, rr. 3, 73, Appendix, Forms 14 and 15.

The new General Rules, made pursuant to sect. 26 of the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, provide, in rule 8, that the forms given in the appendix, where applicable, and where they are not applicable forms of the like character, with such variations as circumstances may require, shall be used; and in rule 35, that every petition, unless presented by the company, shall be served at one of the places and upon one of the persons specified in the rule. The appendix to the rules gives, in Nos. 14 and 15, the forms of the affidavits of service of the petition to be made in the cases therein specified, and in each of these forms the deponent purports to swear that he has served a copy of the petition "duly sealed with the seal of Court," and in each case the affidavit concludes with the statement, "a sealed copy of the said petition is hereunto annexed."

By the interpretation clause in rule 2, the term sealed means "sealed with the seal of the Court."

Eviden now applied to the Court for the petitioner in this matter for directions as to what seal was to be used, or for leave to omit the words referring to sealing from the affidavit. He stated that upon application on behalf of the petitioner at the registrar's office to seal a copy of the petition with the seal of the Court, the applicant was informed that there was no such seal, and that the only stamps in use were the registrar's stamp and the entry clerk's stamp. The difficulty had probably arisen from the adoption of a form similar to that in use in the Court of Bankruptcy, which Court was possessed of a seal.

STIRLING, J., said that he could not direct the omission of the words from the affidavit; but that in his opinion, as there was at present no seal of the Court, the omission of the words would not vitiate the proceedings if the service of the petition and the affidavit were in accordance with the old practice before the Act of 1890 came into operation. The question would have to be considered and decided when it became necessary to put in force rules 39 and 40 as to service of an order to wind up which specifically referred to the seal of the Court.

Settlement—Hotchpot Clause—Valuation of Life Interest brought into Hotchpot.

By a settlement certain funds were settled upon trust for the children of the settlor as he should appoint, and in default of appointment for the children equally, with the usual hotchpot clause. The settlor by his will appointed the funds in moieties between two of his daughters for their respective lives, with remainders over which were held to be void as being either too remote or in excess of the power. The question was raised on an adjourned summons, whether the life interests of the daughters ought to be immediately valued and brought into hotchpot, so that the interests of the other children in the unappointed reversionary trust funds might be ascertained.

Renshaw, Q.C., and Ingle Joyce, in support of the summons.

Sargant, for the children, other than the two daughters, referred to Eales v. Drake (1 Ch. Div. 217).

Warmington, Q.C., Percival, and Carson, for other parties.

KEKEWICH, J., held that the life interests of the daughters must be brought into hotchpot and at once valued. It was fair to the other children that they should have their interests in the trust funds immediately ascertained. The value of the life interests must be calculated, not by reference to the duration of them, but by an actuarial valuation of them at the time when they first took effect, i.e., at the death of the settlor.

Practice—Discovery—Deposit—Application for increase of Deposit—Time for Application—Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order XXXI., rr. 25, 26, 27; Order LXV., r. 6.

This was a summons taken out on the 1st of October, 1890, by two defendants in the action, asking that the plaintiffs might be ordered to increase the amount paid by them into Court to "Security for Costs Account," on their application for discovery to the sum of 200*l.* The usual order for discovery of documents by the defendants had been made on the 19th of August, 1890, on the application of the plaintiffs, who had paid into Court the usual deposit of 5*l.* On the part of the plaintiffs, the objection was now taken that any application for further security than the prescribed 5*l.* ought to be made at the time when the order for discovery is made, and that the present application was too late. It was not disputed that the documents of which production was required were very voluminous, being several thousands in number, and involving numerous matters of detail.

Renshaw, Q.C., and Farwell, in support of the summons.

L. Sanderson, for a co-defendant.

T. E. Mansfield, for the plaintiffs.

KEKEWICH, J., held, upon the construction of Order xxxi., r. 26, and putting aside the consideration of the general provision in Order LXV., r. 6, that the power of the Court to order a further payment in excess of the prescribed deposit of 5*l.* was not limited to the time when the order for discovery was made.

His Lordship thought that the intention of the rules was not that the amount deposited should be sufficient to cover the costs of discovery, but that it should be a guarantee of bona fides, and made an order for further security to the amount of 100*l.*, but with liberty to the plaintiffs to apply for a reduction of the amount on their reducing the extent of the discovery sought.

QUEEN'S BENCH DIVISION.

Q. B. D. WESTMORE v. PAINE. JAN. 21.

Justices—App'ral by Case stated—Application in Writing—Service—Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1879—Rules of 1886.

Case stated by two justices of the borough of Dover, under 20 & 21 Vict. c. 43, and 42 & 43 Vict. c. 49, s. 33, subject to a preliminary point, whether a legal application was made to them so as to give them jurisdiction to state such case.

It appeared that at a Court of summary jurisdiction, composed of five justices of the borough, of whom two only had signed the case, an information by the respondent against the appellant, under sect. 243 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, was heard and determined, and the appellant was convicted and fined. Immediately after the decision of the Court had been given, oral application for a case to be stated on questions of law was made, and the Court granted the application.

The information was in a case to be tried and determined "by a Court of summary jurisdiction, consisting of two or more justices" (42 & 43 Vict. c. 49, s. 20, sub-s. 9). By sect. 33 a person aggrieved by a conviction of a Court of summary jurisdiction may "apply to the Court to state a special case," and by rule 18 the application to a Court of summary jurisdiction to state a special case shall be made in writing within seven days.

Within seven days after the hearing, the appellant served each of the two justices but not the others, with a written application for a case, and also served a copy on the clerk, and entered into recognizances. Having regard to Lockhart v. Mayor of St. Albans (21 Q. B. D. 188), the two justices doubted if the 42 & 43 Vict. c. 49, s. 33, and rule 18 of the Rules of 1886 made under it, had been complied with.

Corrie Grant, for the appellant, argued that service of the written application on the two justices who signed the case was sufficient, and that it was unnecessary that all those who heard the information should be served.

Finlay, Q.C., and Mansfield, for the respondent, did not raise the objection, and were willing to waive it; but

THE COURT (Pollock, B. and Charles, J.) held, that the written application, not having been served on all the justices forming the Court, the statutory conditions precedent had not been complied with, and there was no jurisdiction to hear the appeal.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Prob. Div. Jan. 19.

DE VERE BEAULIERK v. DE VERN BEAULIERK.

Divorce—Wife's Petition—Husband's Cruelty and Adultery—Delay in presentation of Petition—Divorce and Matrimonial Causes Act, 1857 (20 & 21 Vict. c. 85), s. 31.

In this case the husband and wife were married on the 1st of December, 1853, and the only child of the marriage, a boy, was born in 1866. In 1870 the parties separated by agreement. A separation deed was then executed by them, and they had lived apart ever since. The wife never took any proceedings against the husband until August, 1890, when she presented a petition for a dissolution of the marriage upon the ground of her husband's cruelty and adultery.

The cruelty which she alleged was not cruelty in the shape of actual violence, but a long course of conduct on his part, in living for many years with successive mistresses and making his wife acquainted with the fact, which, coupled with his neglect of her, she contended amounted to cruelty in law, within sect. 27 of the Act of 1857 (20 & 21 Vict. c. 85). She also proved adultery on his part in 1888, and she accounted for her long delay by saying that she desired to give her husband an opportunity of repentance, and also that she wished before taking proceedings to have her son's opinion after he should have attained his majority, which he did in 1887.

The suit was undefended, and Butt, J., when it came on for hearing before him in October, 1890, directed the papers to be sent to the Queen's Proctor so that the questions might be argued. The petition came on again before Butt, J., on the 1st of November, 1890, when his Lordship, after hearing counsel for the Queen's Proctor, held that the conduct of the husband did not amount to cruelty within the meaning of the Act.

The wife appealed.

The Divorce and Matrimonial Causes Act, 1857, in sect. 31, empowers the Court to pronounce a decree declaring a marriage to be dissolved, but provides (inter alia) that the Court shall not be bound to pronounce such a decree "if the petitioner shall, in the opinion of the Court, have been guilty of unreasonable delay in presenting or prosecuting" the petition.

Sir Charles Russell, Q.C., Inderwick, Q.C., and Temple Franks, for the petitioner.

Sir E. Clarke, S.-G., Bargrave Deane, and Priestley, for the Queen's Proctor.

W. T. Raymond, watched the case on behalf of the husband.

THE COURT (Lindley, Lopes, and Kay, L.J.J.) affirmed the decision of Butt, J., and dismissed the appeal with costs, holding that the petitioner had given no satisfactory explanation of her delay of twenty years in taking proceedings, and that irrespective of the question whether or not the facts raised a case of legal cruelty, such a delay was so unreasonable as to disentitle the plaintiff to the relief she claimed.

BARNEY v. JOSHUA STUBBS, LIMITED.

Company—Debenture-holders—Action—Receiver—Winding-up—Liquidator—Substituting Liquidator for Receiver.

Appeal from decision of Kekewich, J. (Weekly Notes, 1890, p. 217).

Benahara, Q.C., and Ashton Cross, for the appellant, the official liquidator.

Warmington, Q.C., and R. J. Parker, for the plaintiffs in the debenture-holders' action.

Swinfen Eady, for the defendant Abbott.

THE COURT (Lindley and Kay, L.J.J.) expressed their approval of the general rule that, in order to avoid the expense and inconvenience of two officials being concerned in the winding-up of a company—the liquidator and the receiver appointed by the Court in a debenture-holders' action—the liquidator should be appointed to act as receiver, he being, by virtue of the powers vested in a liquidator under the Companies Acts, the better qualified for conducting the business of the winding-up; but they refused in the present case to interfere with the discretion exercised by Kekewich, J., as it now appeared that the only shares remaining to be called up were eighteen of 10l. each.

Appeal dismissed with costs.

Practise—New Trial—Stay of Execution—Application to Court—Special Circumstances to support Application.

Application by the defendant for a stay of execution.

The case was tried before Grantham, J., with a jury, and the verdict and judgment passed for the plaintiff. A stay of execution was applied for but refused.

Keap, Q.C. (Horace Browne, with him), applied for a stay of execution until the hearing of the application in the Court of Appeal for a new trial on the ground of misdirection.

Scwilt, for the plaintiff, was not called on.

LORD EBBER, M.R. :—Since this Court has had to deal with motions for new trials, instead of their going to a Divisional Court, we have been most anxious not to change the practice which prevailed in the Divisional Court, and not to alter the rights of the parties. We have made inquiries, and find that the practice in the Divisional Court has been similar to that as to appeals in this Court in cases of trials before a judge without a jury. It has never been the practice in either case to stay execution after the judge at the trial has refused to grant it, unless special circumstances are shown to exist. It is impossible to enumerate all the matters that might be considered to constitute special circumstances; but it may certainly be said that the allegations that there has been a misdirection, that the verdict was against the weight of evidence, or that there was no evidence to support it, are not special circumstances on which the Court will grant a stay of execution.

Application refused.

Lunatic—Judgment Creditors of—Charging Orders against Fund in Lunacy—Death of Lunatic—Validity of Charging Orders—1 & 2 Vict. c. 110; 3 & 4 Vict. c. 82.

In 1889 four judgments were obtained against L., a person of unsound mind, and four charging orders were made in favour of the judgment creditors, upon a sum of 4984. New Consols, representing the sale moneys of certain furniture which had belonged to L., and had been sold under an order made in the lunacy, and was in Court to the credit thereof.

The lunatic died on the 20th of April, 1890. Letters of administration were granted to his widow, and upon an application by her for the sale and payment to her of the proceeds of the fund in Court, the question arose whether she was entitled thereto, or whether the persons who had obtained charging orders had not a prior right to the fund to the extent of such orders.

R. F. Norton, for the administratrix, in support of her summons.

D. L. Alexander, for one of the judgment creditors.

THE COURT (Lindley and Kay, L.JJ.) held, that upon the true construction of sect. 14 of 1 & 2 Vict. c. 110, and sect. 1 of 3 & 4 Vict. c. 82, the charging orders were valid and effective, and that to the extent of such charging orders the fund did not belong to the estate of the lunatic; and they directed that the amount due on the several charging orders, with costs, should be paid to the judgment creditors, and that the rest of the fund should be transferred to the administratrix of the lunatic.

Right to Trial by Jury—Actions in Chancery Division—Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order XXXVI., rr. 6, 7.

This was an action brought by one mine-owner against another for an injunction and an account. The plaintiffs issued their writ in the Chancery Division, and named Glamorganshire as the place of trial. They, in due course, applied for an order that the action might be tried in Glamorganshire by a special jury. Stirling, J., made an order that it should be tried by a judge at the next Glamorganshire Assizes, without a jury. The plaintiffs appealed.

Sir E. Clarke, S.-G., and J. G. Wood, for the appeal.

Hastings, Q.C., and Clare, for the principal defendant.

Dunning, for the tenants.

THE COURT (Lindley, Lopes, and Kay, L.JJ.) held that Order XXXVI., r. 6, did not apply, and that the plaintiff could not claim a jury as a matter of right. The Court held, that the case came under rule 7, and, being of opinion that Stirling, J. had not given due importance to the advantage of a view in this case, ordered a trial in Glamorganshire by a judge and special jury.

Winding-up—Staying Action—Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, ss. 2, 32, sub-a. (2)—General Order of Nov. 29, 1890.

On the 20th of January, a petition was presented for winding up the company. The petition was attached to the Court of Kekewich, J. On the 24th a creditor recovered judgment against the company in an action brought in the Queen's Bench Division, and on the same day a fiery factas issued, under which the sheriff took possession.

On the 27th of January the company applied to Kekewich, J., to restrain the sheriff from further proceeding under the execution. Under the Companies Act, 1862, s. 85, the Court of Chancery had power, after a winding-up petition had been presented, to stay actions against the company; but after the passing of the Judicature Acts it was held, in In re Artistic Colour Printing Co. (14 Ch. Div. 502), that the application must be made to the Court in which the action was pending. The application to Mr. Justice Kekewich was made on the ground that by virtue of the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, ss. 2, 32, sub-a. (2), and the order of the Lord Chancellor of the 29th of November, 1890, the application ought now to be made to the Court having jurisdiction over the winding-up. Kekewich, J., held, that the practice was the same as before the recent statute, and refused the application. The company appealed.

North, J. HAMILTON v. BROGDEN. Jan 16.

Practice—Rules of Supreme Court, 1888, Order XLII., r. 32; Order L., r. 15 (A)—Equitable Execution—Receiver—Discovery.

The plaintiffs were the present trustees of a will. The defendants were Alexander Brogden and James Brogden, former trustees. The plaintiff had obtained under Order XIV. an order for payment by the defendants of a sum of money and costs in respect of a liability for breach of trust (Weekly Notes, 1890, p. 197).

The plaintiffs had taken steps to levy execution under a writ of fiery facias on certain furniture, as being chattels belonging to the defendant, Alexander Brogden, and also to get equitable execution of certain shares in a company standing in the name of Alexander Brogden; but the ownership of the furniture and the shares was in dispute, and nothing had been realized. The defendant, Alexander Brogden, was a director of several joint stock companies, and the defendant, James Brogden, was the director of one company. Nothing had been recovered in respect of the judgment.

The plaintiffs had obtained an order on the defendant, James Brogden, under Order XLII., r. 32, to attend before one of the examiners to be examined as to his property. No examination had been held.

A motion was now made on behalf of the plaintiffs that a receiver might be appointed by way of equitable execution, to receive and get in all debts and sums of money which were, or might become payable to, and all other property and effects of the defendants, other than the furniture, and the shares taken in execution, and that the defendant, Alexander Brogden, might be ordered to attend before the examiner to be examined as to his property.

A. Hopkinson, for the plaintiffs.

Mulligan, for Alexander Brogden.

Levett, for James Brogden.

NORTH, J., refused to appoint a receiver, considering that it was not the practice of the Court to appoint a receiver of a judgment debtor's property generally. He made an order on the defendant, Alexander Brogden, to attend before the examiner to be examined as to his property.

COOKBURN v. RAPHAEL.

Charity—Two Charities for one Object—Application of Funds of one in Discharge of Mortgage upon Property belonging to the other.

The testator in this cause left a considerable sum to be disposed of by his heirs or executors in manner by his will directed, viz.: "The interest to be applied for the fund of a school for the poor Armenian boys in such number that may be sufficient with such produce of interest that the boys and their masters should live decently."

By a decree of the Court of Chancery of the 26th of December, 1890, an inquiry was directed "to whom and in what manner the charity fund ought to be transferred and paid." In answer to this inquiry the Master reported that Alexander Raphael (who was one of the persons referred to by the testator as his heirs) stated that Venice was to be preferred to any place in Europe or elsewhere for the foundation of such a school as mentioned in the will, and that the monks of the convent of St. Lazzaro in Venice were admirably qualified to instruct the boys; and the Master reported to that effect, recommending that the income of the charity fund, which was then in Court, should be paid to the abbot of the convent for the time being, for the purpose of founding and supporting such a school as mentioned in the will. By an order dated the 28th of July, 1894, this report was confirmed, and directions were given for paying the income to the abbot for the time being of the convent for the purpose aforesaid.

A petition was subsequently presented by Alexander Raphael, with the object of having the administration of the Charity taken out of the hands of the abbot of the convent, (1) on the ground that he had misapplied the income, and (2) on the ground that the Court had no jurisdiction to make the order of the 23rd July, 1894. This petition was dismissed with costs on the 22nd January, 1892. Alexander Raphael appealed, and his appeal was dismissed with costs on the 7th May, 1892, by the Lord Chancellor. The order on appeal is referred to in Walsh v. Gladstones (1 Ph. at p. 292).

By orders dated the 5th August, 1892, and the 12th February, 1896, the Court sanctioned the payment of certain sums out of the capital of the charity fund to the abbot of the convent, to be invested by him in the purchase of lands in Italy for the use of the school.

The convent also administered a precisely similar charity, founded by one S. M. Moorat, and the income of the two charities had for many years been applied as one fund for the purposes of a single school. Part of the property of the charity founded by S. M. Moorat consisted of an estate in Italy, which was subject to a mortgage for 8000*l.*

This was a petition by the abbot of the convent to have 8000*l.* raised out of the funds in Court belonging to the Raphael Charity, and applied in discharge of the mortgage on the estate belonging to the Moorat Charity.

The Attorney-General was the only respondent.

Sir B. E. Webster, A.-G.; and Ingle Joyce, for the Attorney-General.

Revenue—Legacy Duty—Will—Trust to carry on Testator's Business in conjunction with his Son—Annuity given to Trustees while carrying on the Business—Annuity given to Son while carrying on the Business—8 & 9 Vict. c. 76, s. 4.

Petition in an administration action, to determine whether certain annuities given by the testator to his trustees, and an annuity given to his son, were liable to legacy duty.

The testator was a manufacturer of cattle food. By his will he gave his factory, and the stock-in-trade, plant, and goodwill of his business, to his three trustees and executors, upon trust to carry on his business in conjunction with his son, as therein mentioned. And the testator directed, that whilst the said trustees should be carrying on the business each of them should receive the annual sum of 250*l.* out of the profits thereof; and that, whilst his son should be managing the business in conjunction with the trustees, he should be entitled to the annual sum of 250*l.* After the death of the testator, the trustees carried on the business in conjunction with the son until his death, and they and the son received the annual payments in accordance with the provision of the will. The Commissioners of Inland Revenue claimed legacy duty in respect of the amounts thus received by the trustees and by the son.

Joseph Higgins, Q.C., and Charles Macnaghten, for the trustees of the testator, and for the executors of the son, contended that the annuities were not "gifts" within the meaning of sect. 4 of the Stamp Act (8 & 9 Vict. c. 76), but were of the nature of salaries for work done.

Youghan Hawkins, for the Crown.

North, J., held that legacy duty was payable as claimed by the Commissioners. A bequest of a gross sum to an executor in his trouble had always been held liable to legacy duty. The trustees as such were bound to carry on the business without any remuneration, and the annuities given to them were a bounty under the will. The son was not bound to manage the business without remuneration, and he might have been forced to do so. But he had chosen to accept the annuity given him by the will, and, in his Lordship's opinion, it was a gift, and liable to duty.

Company—Alteration of Memorandum of Association—Confirmation by Court—Registration of Order—Default in delivering Office Copy of Order to Registrar—Companies (Memorandum of Association) Act, 1890 (53 & 54 Vict. c. 62) ss. 1, 2.

This company passed a special resolution altering the provisions of its memorandum of association with respect to objects of the company. A petition was presented under sect. 1 of the above Act for the confirmation of the alteration by the Court. On the 29th November, 1890, Mr. Justice North made an order confirming the alteration. In consequence of the Christmas Vacation the company's solicitors were unable to obtain an office copy of the order until after the expiration of fifteen days from its date, and therefore they could not deliver the office copy of the order within fifteen days from the date thereof, as is required by sect. 2 of the Act, and on this ground the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies declined to register the order. Sub-sect. 2 of sect. 2 of the Act provides, that "if a company makes default in delivering to the registrar any document required by this Act to be delivered to him, the company shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding 10*l.* for every day during which it is in default."

Seddon, for the company, now mentioned the matter to the Court.

North, J., said that he had no power to order the registrar to make the registration; but he thought that the registrar ought to do so. If the omission to deliver the office copy to the registrar within the fifteen days prevented it from being delivered at all, the result would be that the company would for ever be in default, and the penalty imposed by sub-sect. 2 of sect. 2 would go on for ever. He did not think this was intended. He thought the penalty was to continue till actual delivery of the document to the registrar, and that the registrar had power to register on actual delivery.

Company—Winding-up—Jurisdiction—County Court—Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890 (53 & 54 Vict. c. 63), s. 1, sub-ss. 3, 5.

This was a petition to wind up the above-named company. The registered office of the company was within the jurisdiction of the Westminster County Court. By sect. 1, sub-sect. 3, of the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, "Where the amount of the capital of a company paid up or credited as paid up does not exceed 10,000*l.*, and the registered office of the company is situate within the jurisdiction of a county court having jurisdiction under this Act, a petition to wind up the company . . . shall be presented to that county court"; and by sub-sect. 5, "The Lord Chancellor may by order exclude a county court from having jurisdiction under this Act, and for the purpose of such jurisdiction may attach its district, or any part thereof, to the High Court, or to any other county court." By an order dated 29th Nov., 1890, made under sect. 1, sub-sect. 5, of the above Act, the Lord Chancellor ordered "that a county court which at the time of the coming into operation of the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, is excluded from having jurisdiction in bankruptcy, shall be excluded from having jurisdiction under the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, until further order, and the district of any such county court shall, for the purposes of jurisdiction under the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, be attached until further order to the Court to which that district is attached at the time of the coming into operation of this Act, for the purposes of jurisdiction in bankruptcy." The Metropolitan County Courts being by the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, excluded from jurisdiction in bankruptcy, the Court to which their districts are attached for that purpose being the London Court of Bankruptcy, the question arose to what Court their districts were attached for the purposes of jurisdiction under the Companies (Winding-up Act), 1890.

Emden, for the petition, referred to sects. 92 and 93 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, and submitted that the districts of the Metropolitan County Courts were for this purpose attached to the High Court.

STIRLING, J., held, that the effect of the Order of 29th Nov., 1890, was to attach the districts of the Metropolitan County Courts for the purposes of jurisdiction under the Winding-up Act, 1890, to the High Court.

Bankruptcy—Composition—Scheme of Arrangement—Approval by Court—Debtor—After-acquired Property—Order of Discharge—Title of Trustees—Bankruptcy Act, 1883, ss. 18, 44.

A scheme of arrangement under the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, operates to convey to the trustee only such property as the debtor is entitled to at the date of the approval of the scheme by the Court, when the scheme becomes completely operative, and, therefore, does not include any property coming to the debtor subsequently to that date, as, for example, a legacy bequeathed by the will of a testator dying after that date; there being nothing in the Act saying, or implying that the property belonging to the trustee under the scheme shall include all property coming to the debtor at any time before his order of discharge, if any.

Married Woman—Equity to a Settlement—Amount to be settled—Special Circumstances.

A married woman was entitled to reversionary interests under the wills of two testators who died previously to 'the Malins' Act (20 & 21 Vict. c. 57). The interests were put up for sale by auction, and sold for 170*l.*, and in consideration of that sum she and her husband, by deed acknowledged by her, assigned the reversionary interests to the purchaser. There was evidence tending to shew that she received or had the benefit of the purchase-money. One of the reversions fell in, and a sum of about 500*l.* in respect of it was (notwithstanding the assignment) as to 100*l.*, part thereof, received by the husband, and as to the rest applied in payment of debts due from him and in the maintenance of the husband, wife, and children, the wife not then claiming her equity to a settlement. The other reversion had also fallen in, and was now represented by a sum of 501*l.* in Court to the credit of the representatives of the assignee under the deed, subject to the wife's equity to a settlement. No settlement had been made on the marriage, and the wife was not entitled to any other property. The husband had formerly had money of his own, but had none at the present time. He had been lately employed as a tramcar driver, but had been out of work for sixteen months. When in work he had contributed but little to the support of his wife and children, and the lady (who was the daughter of a clergyman) was with difficulty maintaining the family by her own exertions. The question was now raised on a summons taken out by the representatives of the assignee, whether the whole or part of the fund ought to be settled on the wife and children.

Warmington, Q.C., and Tucker, in support of the summons.

S. Dickinson, for the wife.

KEKEWICH, J., said, that if he were to hold that, because the lady received a part or the whole of the purchase-money of 170*l.*, she was therefore deprived of her right to a settlement, he should be giving to the deed of assignment an operative force which the law denied to it. The evidence shewed that in one way or another the husband had received one-half of the entire fortune of the wife. The case fell within the principle of In re Suggitt's Trusts (Law Rep. 3 Ch. 215), and other cases which had been cited. There was no authority to shew that because a married woman did not claim her equity to a settlement in respect of one fund, she was therefore prejudiced in her claim against another fund. What the Court had to consider was the position of the parties when the equity was claimed, and the current of authority and practice of the Court alike required that the whole of this small fund should be settled.

Valuation, Liability for—Representation—Negligence—Contract.

A person who has advanced money on the faith of a valuation made without reasonable skill and care, but not fraudulently, has no right of action for damages against the valuer for loss sustained thereby unless he substantiates a contract between himself and the valuer.

The liability arising (apart from fraud or contract) from a representation or invitation made to a person, intended to be, and subsequently, in fact, acted upon by him, is not to be extended beyond the two cases—(1) where one person invites another to come on his premises and is bound to use reasonable care in providing for the safe condition of the premises, e.g., Heaven v. Pender (11 Q. B. D. 503); (2) where one person uses or leaves about in such a way as to cause danger to another something that is dangerous or deleterious in itself: Langridge v. Levy (2 M. & W. 519; 4 M. & W. 337); George v. Skivington (Law. Rep. 5 Ex. 1).

HIS LORDSHIP held, that Canr. v. Willson (39 Ch. Div. 39) is inconsistent with the decision of the House of Lords in Derry v. Peek (14 App. Cas. 337), which impliedly negatived any such general rule as was laid down by Chitty, J., in that case.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. Div. MILLS v. DUNHAM. Jan. 29.

Agreement in restraint of Trade—Reasonableness—Construction of Agreement.

This was an appeal by the defendant from a decision of Chitty, J. (Weekly Notes, 1890, p. 215).

Levett, Q.C., for the appeal.

Byrne, Q.C., and Upjohn, for the plaintiffs.

THE COURT (Lindley, Lopes, and Kay, L.JJ.) held, that though the terms of the prohibitive clause were, if taken in their strict literal sense, so wide as to impose an unreasonable restraint, since they would prevent the defendant from having any business dealings whatever with anyone who had during the defendant's employment been a customer of the plaintiffs, yet, taking them in connection with the other clauses, the true construction of the clause was the limited one adopted by Chitty, J., viz., that it only prohibited the defendant from transacting business of a kind similar to that carried on by the plaintiffs with any one who had had during the defendant's employment been a customer of the plaintiffs—that such a restriction, though not limited as to time or space, was not unreasonable, and was therefore valid. The appeal, therefore, was dismissed.

Trusts—Liability—Investment—"Company incorporated by Act of Parliament."

This was an appeal from a decision of North, J. (Weekly Notes, 1890, p. 208).

A testator authorized the investment of his estate (among other things) in "the shares or securities of any company incorporated by Act of Parliament." The trustees invested part of the trust funds in shares in the London Assurance, which was a company incorporated in 1720 by a Royal Charter, which King George I. had been specially authorized to grant by an Act of Parliament (the 6 Geo. I. c. 18). By a subsequent Private Act (The London Assurance Consolidation Act, 1853) the capital stocks of the London Assurance and another corporation called the London Assurance for Houses and Goods from Fire, were consolidated, and certain fresh powers were given to the London Assurance. The shares having depreciated in value, this action was brought by one of the cestuis que trust, seeking to make the trustees liable for a breach of trust on the ground that the London Assurance was not a company incorporated by Act of Parliament. North, J., held that the trustees were not liable, and the defendant appealed.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and F. O. Gore, for the appellant.

Everitt, Q.C., and R. Norton, for the defendants, were not called on.

THE COURT (Lindley, Lopes, and Kay, L.JJ.), were of opinion that, inasmuch as the charter of the London Assurance, although a Royal Charter, could not have been granted without the authority of Parliament, it might fairly be held to be a company incorporated by Act of Parliament within the meaning of the investment clause; and the appeal was accordingly dismissed.

If any difficulty arose as to what particular expenses should be borne by capital or income, the trustees of the will might apply for directions by summons in the action.

Appeal from the decision of the Queen's Bench Division, (ante, p. 4).

The application to the Divisional Court (Pollock, B., and Charles, J.) was for a mandamus to the assessment committee, to hear and determine the objections made by the prosecutor to the valuation list for the parish of St. Mary Abbots, and to hear the prosecutor's agent and witnesses. The committee had refused to hear a surveyor, acting as agent for the prosecutor in the matter, on the ground that their rule was only to hear a party in person, or one of his family or household, or a member of the legal profession. The Divisional Court granted the mandamus.

J. V. Austin, for the assessment committee.

Philbrick, Q.C., and A. Glen, for the prosecutor, were not called upon.

CHANCERY DIVISION.

Chitty, J. In re VIOLET NEVIN (an Infant). Jan. 29.

Infant—Guardian—Religious Education.

This application raised the question of the guardianship and religious education of a penniless infant. The father was a Protestant, the mother a Roman Catholic, and previously to their marriage a printed agreement was signed by them both, which provided that the children of the marriage should be brought up in the Roman Catholic religion. A daughter was born in March, 1883, and was baptised privately by a Roman Catholic priest, and afterwards publicly in a Roman Catholic church, the godfather and godmothers being also Roman Catholics. The father died intestate in March, 1886, at the house of his wife's cousin, a Miss M., a Protestant, where he was staying with his wife and child. The mother died in October, 1889. Miss M. had taken care of the child, with the mother's consent, during nearly the whole of the time from the father's death till June, 1890, when it was forcibly taken from her by C., the mother's brother, a Roman Catholic, and sent off to America. The child was subsequently brought back to England under habeas corpus proceedings which had been commenced against C. C. now applied to have himself appointed guardian of the infant, in conjunction with a Roman Catholic Bishop, a Roman Catholic solicitor, and the lady superior of a religious home. The application was opposed by he respondents, the paternal uncle, and Miss M., Protestants, who proposed themselves as guardians.

Costelloe, for the applicants, contended that the father had abandoned his right to have his child brought up in his own religion, and had by his conduct indicated a wish that she should be brought up as a Roman Catholic; and that, even if Miss M. should be allowed to have the custody of the child, she ought to be directed to bring it up as a Roman Catholic.

T. Willes Chitty, for the respondents, stated that Miss M. declined to accept the guardianship if the direction suggested by the applicants was imposed.

Cur. adv. vult.

Jan. 29. CHITTY, J., held that C. had by his conduct shewn himself an unfit person to be entrusted with the guardianship of the infant, and that the case of appointing the strangers whom he proposed as associates with him in the office of guardianship, necessarily fall to the ground with him, unless the Court was constrained on religious grounds to have recourse to them. Acting in accordance with the principles laid down in Andrews v. Salt (Law Rep. 8 Ch. 622), his Lordship came to the conclusion, after duly weighing all the circumstances of the case, that he was free to consult the best interests of the child, and that it was most for her well-being in the future that she should be entrusted to the charity of the lady whose kindness she and her parents had already experienced. His Lordship, therefore, appointed the paternal uncle and Miss M. guardians of the infant, and gave the custody of the child to Miss M., with liberty to bring her up as a Protestant.

HYSLOP v. MOREL BROTHERS, COBBETT, & SON, LIMITED.

Company—Prospectus—Misrepresentation—Rescission of Contract—Application for Shares by Agent.

The plaintiff being induced by the prospectus to take shares in the defendant company, instructed his clerk M. to apply for 100 shares. M. applied for the shares in his own name, and they were allotted to M., who was duly registered as the holder of these shares. The money for the shares was found by the plaintiff. The shares were, after standing in his name for some five months, transferred to the plaintiff.

The plaintiff subsequently discovered and alleged, that he had been misled by misrepresentations in the prospectus, and brought the present action for rescission of the contract to take shares and rectification of the register of members by removing his name therefrom.

Whiteborne, Q.C., and G. Henderson, for the plaintiff.

Crackanthorpe, Q.C., and Bramwell Davis, for the defendant company.

CHITTY, J., held, that the plaintiff was not entitled to be relieved from these shares on the ground of any misrepresentation in the prospectus, on the faith of which he himself did not apply for shares. It was not alleged that M., when he applied for the shares, communicated to the company the fact that he applied as agent for the plaintiff; the original contract was made with M., through whom the plaintiff's title as transferee was derived, and it was not alleged M. had been misled by the prospectus. The action, therefore, must be dismissed with costs.

Summons to vary taxing master's certificate.

S. charged certain policies of assurance with the repayment to Messrs. L. & B., a firm of solicitors, of certain advances made by them to him, and also with the payment of any other sum in which he was then or in which he might at any time be liable to them or their firm.

S. became bankrupt, and the trustee under his bankruptcy brought a mortgagor's redemption action against L. & B., and L. & B. acted as solicitors for themselves therein.

In this action the usual judgment was given directing an account to be taken of principal, interest, and costs due to the defendants and the costs to be taxed. The defendants delivered their bill of costs, and the taxing master in taxing it allowed the defendants profit as well as out of pocket costs.

The plaintiff objected to the allowance of all the items in the bill except such as were for out of pocket expenses, on the ground that the defendants were mortgagees, and had acted as their own solicitors in the action. The objection was disallowed by the taxing master, and the plaintiff then took out the present summons.

Macnaghten, for the plaintiff, in support of the summons.

Maidlow, for the defendants, contra.

Cur. adv. vult.

Jan. 31. STERLING, J., after saying that there seemed to be no established practice, and that the question must be decided on principle, held that upon principle a mortgagee-solicitor was entitled to costs out of pocket, but not to remuneration for personal trouble, and he accordingly allowed the objection to the certificate, and remitted it to the taxing master to be varied.

PITMAN v. HOLBORROW.

Annuity—Direction for Purchase of Government Annuity out of Proceeds of Land when Sold—Death of Annuitant before completion of Sale—Right to receive Value of Annuity.

A testatrix, who died in May, 1890, by her will gave several annuities charged on real estate, including an annuity of 10*l.* a year to M. R. for her life. Subject to the annuities, the testatrix devised her real estate to trustees upon trust for sale. By a codicil to her will, the testatrix declared that her trustees might purchase Government annuities for the annuitants to be in place of the annuities given by her will, the purchase-money to be the first charge upon the proceeds of sale of the estates charged, and the estates, upon the purchases being made, to be respectively discharged. On the 7th of August, 1890, the estates charged with the annuity to M. R. were sold by the trustees, the 29th of September, 1890, being the day fixed for completion. The sale was duly completed on that day, and moneys were, pursuant to the conditions of sale, deposited at a bank for the purchase of annuities in place of those charged on the land sold; but such annuities were not actually purchased. M. R. died in September, 1890, previously to the 21st of that month, and the question accordingly arose whether her estate was entitled to the value of her annuity, which had been duly paid down to her death.

Upjohn, for the representative of M. R., the annuitant.

Warmington, Q.C., and Badcock; Marten, Q.C., and Daddy; and Dibdin, for other parties.

KEKEWICH, J., held, that as M. R. did not survive the actual completion of the sale, and the money was not paid until after her death, she was not entitled to the value of her annuity. In all the decided cases (of which Yates v. Compton (2 P. W. 308) was perhaps the best example) there had been an enforceable trust for sale. Here, by the act of God, when the money was received in respect of the annuity, the annuitant was not there to receive it, and there was no trust enforceable by her, and no vested right in her to receive the money.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Palatine Ct. Oct. 30, 31; Nov. 1, 10, 1890; Feb. 10.
In re STANDARD MANUFACTURING COMPANY.
Ex parte LOWE.

Company—Winding-up—Debenture—Bill of Sale—Non-registration—Execution Creditors—Bills of Sale Acts, 1854 (17 & 18 Vict. c. 36), 1878 (41 & 42 Vict. c. 31), and 1882 (45 & 46 Vict. c. 43), s. 17.

Appeal from County Palatine Court of Lancaster.

A joint stock company with limited liability, whose business was the manufacture of fullings and the purchase and sale of cotton and other materials, issued in 1888, under their borrowing powers, debentures in the ordinary form, charging its undertaking and all its property, both present and future, with payment of the sums secured; and providing that the charge should be a floating security, and that the company might in the course of its business deal with the property charged as it thought fit. Early in 1889 certain creditors obtained judgments against the company; and on June 19, 1889, an order was made by the County Palatine Court that the company should be wound up. The question who was entitled to priority of payment then arose between the debenture-holders and the execution creditors; and the execution creditors contended that the debentures ought to have been registered under the Bills of Sale Acts. The Vice-Chancellor of the County Palatine Court, on May 29, 1890, was unable to distinguish the case from Jenkinson v. Brandley Mining Company (19 Q. B. D. 568), where Grove, J., and Huddleston, B., held that the exception in sect. 17 of the Bills of Sale Act, 1882, was not in favour of debentures generally, but only of debentures of mortgage or loan companies or companies ejusdem generis with mortgage or loan companies; and his Honour, following that decision, held that these debentures required registration under the Bills of Sale Acts, and that the execution creditors were entitled to priority.

The debenture-holders appealed.

Rigby, Q.C., Astbury, and T. M. Whitehouse, for the appellants.

Neville, Q.C., and Radford, for the execution creditors.

E. S. Ford, for the liquidator.

Cur. adv. vult.

Feb. 10. THE COURT (Halsbury, L.C., and Bowen and Fry, L.JJ.) allowed the appeal. Their Lordships did not agree with the decision in Jenkinson v. Brandley Mining Company, that the words "or other incorporated company," in sect. 17 of the Bills of Sale Act of 1882, were limited to companies ejusdem generis with mortgage or loan companies; but even if it were otherwise, they thought that any incorporated company which was authorized to raise money on loan or mortgage would, for the purpose of this section, be ejusdem generis with a "mortgage or loan company;" and their Lordships held, that on the true construction of the Act of 1878, the mortgages or charges of any incorporated company, for the registration of which statutory provision had already been made by the Companies Clauses Act, 1845, or the Companies Act, 1862, were not bills of sale within the scope of the Bills of Sale Act, 1878.

From Ch. Div. In re ARBIB AND CLASS'S CONTRACT. Feb. 10.
Will—Construction—"Return to England"—Conditions of Sale—Right to rescind "notwithstanding previous Litigation"—Summons under Vendor and Purchaser Act.

Appeal from a decision of North, J. (Weekly Notes, 1890, p. 186).

W. Bucknall, by his will, appointed his son, F. E. Bucknall, then residing in Australia, "if and when he should return to England," and C. G. Class and a third person (who died before the testator), trustees and executors of his will, and devised a freehold estate to his trustees with power of sale. F. E. Bucknall never proved the will, or acted in the trusts, but he executed a power of attorney to C. G. Class, to act on his behalf as one of the trustees and executors. This power of attorney, however, was void, not having been stamped. Some years after the death of the testator, F. E. Bucknall came to England for his health, and stayed about six months, and then returned to Australia. Class, as sole surviving trustee, appointed H. J. Pennrick to be trustee jointly with himself, and they sold the estate to Arbib under the power of sale. One of the conditions of sale provided that if the purchaser made a requisition which the vendors were unwilling or unable to comply with, the vendors might rescind the contract "notwithstanding any previous negotiation or litigation," in which case the purchaser was to receive back his deposit, but without costs or compensation.

The purchaser having objected that F. E. Bucknall was a trustee under the will, and ought to join in the conveyance, a summons was taken out by the vendors under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, asking for a declaration that they had made a good title. North, J., held, that the condition as to F. E. Bucknall returning to England had been complied with, and that he was a trustee of the will. He, therefore, dismissed the summons; and afterwards, by an order in Chambers, ordered the deposit to be returned to the purchaser, and that the vendors should pay him the costs of the investigation of the title.

The vendors appealed against both these orders. They also gave notice to the purchaser to rescind the contract under the conditions of sale.

Byrne, Q.C., and Grosvenor Woods, for the appellants, contended—(1) that the condition of returning to England was not satisfied by a mere visit in this country for a temporary purpose, and (2) that they had a right to rescind the contract and return the deposit without paying the costs of investigation of the title.

Casson-Hardy, Q.C., and Bloby, for the purchaser.

Lord Coleridge, C.J., said that the evidence shewed no intention on the part of Bucknall before he came to England to disclaim, but rather the contrary; and, without laying down a hard and fast rule as to what length of residence in England would fulfil such a condition, he was of opinion that, under the circumstances of this case, the residence in England, being for a substantial time, was sufficient to satisfy the condition, and that the estate vested in Bucknall. The decision of North, J., was therefore right. With respect to the other question, namely, whether the vendors could now take advantage of the conditions of sale and rescind the contract without paying the purchaser the costs of the investigation of the title, he was of opinion that it was too late to do so after a judicial opinion had been given adverse to the title. The words, "notwithstanding previous litigation," could not be strained so as to include a final judgment on the question in dispute. It had been decided by authority that the Judge had jurisdiction, under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, to order the vendor in such a case as the present to pay the costs of the investigation of title; and he was of opinion that in this case North, J., was right in so doing. Both appeals must be dismissed.

Lindley and Kay, L.J.J., gave judgment to the same effect. Solicitors: J. M. Mitchell; Wild & Wild.

Tenant in Tail — Base Fee — Fee Simple absolute — Married Woman — Acknowledgment by — Concurrence of Husband —

Fines and Recoveries Act (3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 74), s. 40—Married Women's Property Act, 1882, (45 & 46 Vict. c. 75), s. 2.

By an indenture dated in 1884, and duly enrolled, A. and B. being then spinsters, and entitled as tenants in tail in remainder under the will of W. to certain lands barred their estates tail and conveyed the lands to S., thereby passing to S. a base fee in remainder, the consent of the protector of the settlement not having been obtained.

In August, 1889, the protector of the settlement died, and the base fee fell into possession.

In December, 1889, A. and B., being then married, executed an indenture which was duly enrolled for the purpose of turning the base fee into a fee simple absolute in favour of S. This deed was in the usual form, but was not acknowledged by A. and B., nor did their husbands concur in it. The deed purported to convey and dispose of the lands to the use of S. in fee discharged not only from the estates tail barred by the indenture of 1884, but also from all remainders over on the determination or in defeazance of such estates.

On a sale of part of the lands the purchaser took an objection to the title on the ground that the indenture of December, 1889, had not been acknowledged by A. and B., nor concurred in by husbands, as provided by sect. 40 of the Fines and Recoveries Act, and therefore that the base fee created by the deed of 1884 had not been enlarged into a fee simple absolute.

Held, that the indenture of 1889 was effectual to pass the fee simple to S., sect. 2 of the Married Women's Property Act, 1882, having in the circumstances of the case rendered the acknowledgment by the married women and the concurrence of their husbands unnecessary.

BOLTON v. SALMON.

Feb. 10.

Principal and Surety—Giving of Time—Covenant to pay Mortgage Debt—Covenant in Consolidated Mortgage to pay at later Date—Discharge of Property as well as of Personal Liability of Surety.

By a mortgage of 1854, two undivided fourth shares in a freehold farm belonging respectively to B. and S. B., and an equitable mortgage on the entirety of the said farm, belonging to S. B., were conveyed to M. as security for 1000*l.*

By a mortgage of 1857, the mortgagor, and S. B. as his surety, covenanted for the payment of the mortgage debt of 450*l.*, on the 4th of March, 1858, and by the same deed certain property of the mortgagor, and S. B.'s said undivided fourth of the said farm, and her equitable mortgage on the entirety, were conveyed, subject to the mortgage of 1854, to the mortgagee as security for the said sum of 450*l.* By a deed of the 15th of December, 1884, the said mortgage for 450*l.*, and various other mortgages, including other property, made by the mortgagor, were consolidated, the plaintiff advancing the total sum of 3200*l.* for payment to the various mortgagees of the amounts of their respective debts, and taking assignments of such debts and conveyances of the mortgaged properties with the full benefit of the covenants contained in the respective mortgage deeds, and of all securities for the same.

S. B. was not a party to this deed.

In April, 1889, S. B. paid off the 1000*l.* secured by the said mortgage of 1854, and caused the same to be transferred to the defendant Salmon as trustee for her.

The plaintiff brought the present action against the defendant Salmon and S. B., claiming a declaration that he was entitled to reclaim the said mortgage of 1854, and for consequential relief.

Byrne, Q.C., Haldane, Q.C., and Chubb, for the plaintiff.

Jason Smith, for the defendants.

CHERRY, J., held, that the effect of the deed of 1884, by giving time to the principal debtor without consulting S. B. the surety, was not only to discharge S. B. from all personal liability under her covenants in the deed of 1857, as had already been decided in Bolton v. Buckenham ([1891] 1 Q. B. 278), but also to release the securities which she, as surety, had included in that mortgage, and, consequently, that the plaintiff no longer had any right to redeem, that his action failed, and must be dismissed with costs.

North, J. PROCTER v. CHESHIRE COUNTY COUNCIL. Feb. 5.

Practice—Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order XVI., rr. 11, 12—Adding Defendant.

The plaintiff sued as clerk to the committee of visitors of the Cheshire County Council at Parkside. The defendants were the Cheshire County Council, and the guardians of the two unions of Macclesfield and Stockport, who had been appointed by orders of the Court to represent themselves and four other Cheshire unions. A statement of claim had been delivered; it alleged, that the Parkside Asylum was built in 1871 out of county funds; that it was established for the purpose of receiving pauper lunatics chargeable to the county of Chester and the six unions represented by the defendants; that by the receipt of pauper lunatics from other counties and non-pauper lunatics the visitors had made profits, and that they had in their hand accumulations arising from such profits; that the Cheshire County Council and five of the unions represented by the defendants had claimed to be interested in the accumulated fund. The plaintiff claimed a declaration that the visitors were entitled in their absolute discretion to deal with the accumulations; or in the alternative, a declaration as to the rights and interest of the parties to the action in the fund.

A motion was now made on behalf of the Birkenhead County Council, that the plaintiff should be ordered to add them as defendants, on the ground that their district contributed to the funds out of which the expenses of providing the Parkside Asylum were defrayed, and they were interested in the question how the accumulated fund was applicable, and were not properly represented in the action.

Everitt, Q.C., and Edward Ford, for the motion.

Cosens-Hardy, Q.C., and Procter, for the plaintiff, contra.

NORTH, J., had great difficulty in ordering the plaintiff to add the applicant as a defendant at this stage of the proceedings. He thought that the object of the applicant would be obtained by directing the motion to stand over till the trial, and no injury would be done to the plaintiff by his doing so.

The motion was accordingly directed to stand till the trial.

International Copyright—Foreign Painting—English Copyright—Registration—Right to sue for Infringement—International Copyright Acts, 1844, 1862, and 1886—Berne Convention—Order in Council, Nov. 28, 1887.

The plaintiffs were the owners of the copyright for the United Kingdom of a panoramic picture of Jerusalem and the Crucifixion, the original of which was painted by Bruno Piglhein, a German artist, and exhibited in Berlin.

The defendants were exhibiting a panorama in London which the plaintiffs alleged to be an infringement of their copyright. It was held by the Court that the defendants' panorama was, in fact, an infringement of the plaintiffs' copyright, and the only question calling for a report was whether the plaintiffs had so registered themselves as proprietors of the copyright as to entitle them to sue in respect of the infringement.

They had made two registrations, one on April 17th, 1888, of their ownership of the copyright, and the other on the 1st of February, 1890, under the Copyright Act of 1862, of the assignment of the copyright to them. In this second registration the name and place of abode of the author was entered as "Bruno Piglhein, Munich, Germany," and it was contended that this was insufficient.

Hastings, Q.C., and Swinfen Eady, for the plaintiffs.

Rigby, Q.C., and Eve, for the defendants.

STIRLING, J., held, that taking together sect. 4 of the International Copyright Act of 1886, and sect. 4 of the Copyright Act of 1844, while the provisions of the International Copyright Acts as to registration did not apply unless it was so directed by an Order in Council, yet the provisions of the General Copyright Acts did apply unless there was something in the Order in Council excepting the work in question. By article 2 of the Berne Convention, which was adopted by this country by an Order in Council, made on the 28th of November, 1887, it was provided that the authors of the countries of the contracting States should enjoy in other countries for their works, whether published in one of those countries or unpublished, the rights which the respective laws did then or might thereafter grant to natives. But there was nothing either in the Order in Council or in the Convention directing registration, or enabling any objection to be taken for want of registration under the International Copyright Acts. The provisions, however, of the General Acts as to registration must apply unless excepted by the order. There was nothing in the order excepting them, and accordingly, in order to entitle the plaintiffs to sue, they must register under sect. 4 of the Act of 1862.

His Lordship then held that the registration which the plaintiffs had made was sufficient. The object of requiring the name and abode of the author was that he might be identified, or communicated with, and there was no evidence that the description here given was insufficient for that purpose. The injunction would accordingly be granted.

Company—Winding-up—Examination of Witness—Presence of Clerk to Liquidator—Taking Notes—Companies Act, 1862, s. 115.

In the winding-up of the above-named company, an order was made under sect. 115 of the Companies Act, 1862, directing the attendance of Oscar Berry for examination as a person able to give information. In pursuance of this order, the witness attended on the day fixed for his examination, but refused to answer questions unless two persons named Horton and Simpson were excluded from the room. Horton was formerly engaged as chief clerk of the company, and since the liquidation had been employed as clerk by the liquidator, but was not now in his employ. Simpson was a clerk of the solicitors to the liquidator, who was present at the examination, to take notes of the evidence, for the purpose of the cross-examination of the witness.

This was a summons taken out by the liquidator, asking that the examination might proceed, notwithstanding the presence of the persons objected to.

Bibton, for the motion.

Hastings, Q.C., and Clarke Williams, for Berry.

STIRLING, J., said that the power conferred by sect. 115 was in doubt somewhat inquisitorial, and the Court should see that it was not abused, and that no improper use was made of the information obtained by means of it. The object was that the liquidator might obtain such information as would guide him in the winding-up; and the practice was that the depositions should not be made public, but returned to the chief clerk. But it was also the duty of the Court to see that the liquidator was not unduly hampered. In this case Horton had been employed by the liquidator in the investigation of certain accounts, and he had acquired a special knowledge of those accounts, and the liquidator said that the presence of Horton was necessary to assist him in obtaining the information he required from the witness. It would be unduly hampering the liquidator to say that Horton was not to be present at the examination. In so deciding, his Lordship was not departing from anything laid down in Western of Canada Oil Company (6 Ch. D. 109). Then as to the clerk, he was required to take notes of the evidence for the purpose of cross-examination. That was a legitimate employment of the clerk of the liquidator's solicitors, but it must be understood that the notes so taken must be used solely for the purpose of the cross-examination of the witness, and must be destroyed immediately afterwards.

LACON v. LACON.

Will—Specific Bequest—Shares in a Brewery—Ademption—Purchase for Value.

Sir E. Lacon, by his will, dated the 24th of December, 1884, bequeathed his twenty-one twenty-fourth parts or shares in a brewery to his three sons, the plaintiff, T. Lacon, and the defendants, E. Lacon and H. Lacon, in equal shares as tenants in common. The defendant, E. Lacon, was actively employed in the concern at a salary of 1000*l.* per annum, but his two brothers were not engaged in it in any way. The remaining three twenty-fourth shares were held, as to two shares by Admiral Willes, and as to one share by a Mr. Nightingale, and they carried on the concern in partnership with Sir E. Lacon.

In 1886, after the death of Mr. Nightingale, a new deed of partnership was executed, under which the defendant, E. Lacon, was admitted a partner, and took two twenty-fourth shares, and ceased to be a salaried manager, and a Mr. S. Nightingale succeeded to the share of the deceased partner, and Sir E. Lacon held nineteen shares, and Admiral Willes two shares. This deed recited that Sir E. Lacon had assigned or made over two of his twenty-one shares to the defendant, E. Lacon; and, although no deed of assignment was actually executed, the defendant, E. Lacon, was from that time credited in the partnership books with two twenty-fourth shares, and received the profits in respect thereof.

In 1889 Sir E. Lacon died without having altered his will, and the plaintiff brought this action, claiming a declaration that the gift in the will to the defendant, E. Lacon, was adeemed to the extent of the two shares which he took under the partnership deed. The defendant, E. Lacon, contended that he was a purchaser for value of the two shares which he took under the partnership deed, and that he was entitled to one-third of the nineteen shares which the testator possessed at the time of his death.

Sir H. Davey, Q.C., and Borthwick, for the plaintiff.

Rigby, Q.C., Neville, Q.C., and Begg, for the defendant, E. Lacon.

Haldane, Q.C., and P. S. Gregory, for the defendant, H. Lacon.

E. S. Ford, for the trustee of the will.

ROMER, J., held, on the evidence, that the defendant, E. Lacon, did not become a purchaser for value of the two shares which he obtained on being admitted a partner. They were a valuable gift to him from Sir E. Lacon. In his Lordship's opinion there was nothing in the case to rebut the presumption against double portions to which the circumstances gave rise. The plaintiff, therefore, was entitled to the declaration for which he asked.

Appeal of the defendants from the decision of the judge of the Newport, Monmouthshire, County Court upon sub-s. 1 of sect. 12 of the Coal Mines Regulation Act, 1887, in favour of the claims of the plaintiffs, who were miners to be paid for raising slack under the circumstances described in the decision of the House of Lords in Netherseal Colliery Company v. Bourne (14 App. Cas. 228). The contention of the defendants, the colliery owners, was, that in consequence of the substitution of the expression “actual weight gotten of mineral contracted to be gotten” in sect. 12, sub-sect. 1, of the Coal Mines Regulation Act of 1887, for “weight of the mineral gotten” in sect. 17, sub-sect. 1, of the Coal Mines Regulation Act, 1872, that decision no longer applied.

REID'S BREWERY COMPANY, LIMITED v. MALO.

Revenue—Income Tax—Deductions—5 & 6 Vict. c. 35, s. 100—16 & 17 Vict. c. 84, Sched. D.

Case stated by Commissioners of Income Tax on appeal against an assessment under Sched. D. of 16 & 17 Vict. c. 84 in respect of profits of trade.

The appellants, in a return of the average profits of their business, deducted certain sums for “bad debts” in arriving at the balances of profit. It appeared that the appellants carried on the business of brewers, and as a branch or adjunct thereof, the business of bankers and money-lenders. They advanced money on loan to their customers on deposit of deeds, mortgages, promissory notes, and acceptances. In no case was any loan or advance made by way of permanent investment, but only in connection with the current dealings and transactions of the customer with the appellants.

The Commissioners, having regard to Watney v. Musgrave (5 Ex. Div. 241), considered that sums advanced by the appellants on the security of public-houses were employed as capital for the purpose of extending their business as brewers, and that the losses arising therefrom could not be deducted.

Sir Horace Davey, Q.C., and Pollard, for the appellants.

Danckwerts, for the respondents.

THE COURT (Pollock, B., and Charles, J.) held, that on the facts in the case the business carried on by the appellants was one business, and the money advanced was used for its purposes, and was not capital invested, and that they were entitled to the deductions claimed.

General Grant of Administration reduced to a Limited Grant—Sureties allowed to justify for double the Reduced Amount.

The plaintiff as executor propounded the last will and testament of H. Williams Askew, late of Walton-on-Thames, in the county of Surrey, dated the 9th of November, 1890, and the defendant, who was the eldest son and heir-at-law of the deceased, opposed it on the ground that the will was not duly executed, that the testator did not know and approve of the contents, and that he was not of sound mind, memory, and understanding when the will was executed.

The estate consisted of real estate and of personalty to the amount of 57,000*l.*, and the plaintiff had been appointed administrator pendente lite and receiver, but finding a difficulty in obtaining sureties to justify for so large an amount,

Barnard, on his behalf, now moved to limit the administration to two sums of 4800*l.* and 400*l.*, due to the estate on mortgages which were about to be paid off, and to give power to the administrator to receive for six months the income of certain shares and securities comprised in the personal estate. He also asked that sureties should be allowed to justify for double the sum of this limited amount.

THE COURT limited the administration and the administration bond as prayed.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. Div. COOKE v. SMITH. Feb 10.

Practice—Discovery—Security for Costs—Manner of Deposit—Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order XXXI, rr. 26, 27; Order LXV., r. 6.

This was an appeal from an order of Kekewich, J., increasing the deposit to be paid by the plaintiffs, on their application for discovery of documents, from 5*l.* to 100*l.* (ante, p. 10).

Collins, Q.C., and T. E. Mansfield, for the plaintiff who appealed.

Benshaw, Q.C., and Farwell, Q.C., for the principal defendants.

L. Sanderson, for another defendant.

LINDLEY, L.J., said, that he had no doubt that the Court had power under the rules to increase the deposit, although the application was not made when the order for discovery was made. It was often impossible to know at first how much trouble and time would have to be expended in making the discovery, and in arranging and scheduling the documents to be produced. He was also of opinion that the sum of 100*l.* was not, under the circumstances of the case, too much. The appeal must, therefore, be dismissed.

KAY, L.J., gave judgment to the same effect.

Vendor and Purchaser—Purchaser's right to rescind and recover Deposit.

This was an appeal from a decision of Romer, J. (ante, p. 4).

The action was brought by the purchaser of certain leasehold premises which were sold by the defendant, who was a mortgagee, under his power of sale. The mortgage was made by Mrs. Redgrave and J. W. Wesley, as trustees under a will, and the plaintiff objected that they had no power to mortgage the property, and asked that all parties beneficially interested under the will should join in the conveyance. The defendant declined to comply with this requisition, and the plaintiff then rescinded the contract, and claimed the return of his deposit. The defendant then insisted that when he took his mortgage, he had no notice of the defect in the mortgagors' title, and claimed to make a good title as bona fide purchaser without notice. Romer, J., held, that it was too late to set up that title, after the purchaser had rescinded the contract, and allowed the plaintiff's claim. The defendant appealed.

Coxens-Hardy, Q.C., Cavanagh, and H. Terrell, for the appellant.
Neville, Q.C., and L. S. Bristowe, for the respondent.

THE COURT (Lindley, Lopes, and Kay, L.JJ.), were of opinion that the two trustees, Mrs. Redgrave and J. W. Wesley, had power to mortgage the property, and therefore the difficult questions which were argued in the Court below, respecting the right of the plaintiff to rescind the contract and claim a return of his deposit, did not arise. The defendant had shewn a good title as mortgagee, and the appeal must therefore be allowed, and the plaintiff's action must be dismissed.

PAYNE-COLLIER v. VYSE.

"Annuities"—Income of Residue—Restraint on Anticipation.

The testator, who died in October, 1883, directed his trustees to stand possessed of his residuary estate upon trust, out of the income thereof, to pay an annuity of 300*l.* to Mary Lawrenson for life, to Georgina Lawrenson 800*l.* for life, and to Jane Aynsworth 600*l.* for life, with a gift over of the first annuity to the other two annuitants, which failed. "And in case my two nieces, Jemima Aynsworth and Agnes Payne-Collier, shall jointly survive the said Georgina Lawrenson and Jane Aynsworth, then I direct my said trustees or trustee to pay the annual sum or sums payable to each of the said last-mentioned beneficiaries at their respective deaths in equal shares to my said last-mentioned nieces, from and after the respective deaths of the said annuitants, during their joint lives, and the whole of the said annual sum or sums of to the survivor of them during her life. And subject to the trusts aforesaid, and in addition to all other benefits hereinbefore mentioned, upon trust, to pay the remainder of the annual income of my said residuary estate as to one moiety thereof to my said niece, Jemima Aynsworth, during her life, and, as to the remaining moiety thereof, to my said niece, Agnes Payne-Collier, during her life. And I direct that the several annuities hereinbefore bequeathed shall be for the respective separate use of the annuitants without power of anticipation, and shall be deemed to commence immediately after my decease, and shall be paid quarterly."

Mrs. Payne-Collier in 1885 (Georgina Lawrenson and Jane Aynsworth being both living) took out an originating summons to have it decided whether the restraint on anticipation extended to her life interest in the income of the residue as well as to her interest in the annuities. Pearson, J., on the 1st of July, 1885, decided that it extended to her share in the income of the residue, as well as to the contingent reversionary interest in the annuities given by the will. The order was not drawn up till December, 1890. Mrs. Payne-Collier appealed.

Cosens-Hardy, Q.C., and Macnaghten, for the appeal.

LINDLEY, L.J., said, that there was some difficulty in the language, but that on looking at the intention he came to the same conclusion as Mr. Justice Pearson. The gift of a share of income of the residue was given by way of increasing the annuity. Then it was directed that the annuities should be for the separate use of the annuitants without power of anticipation. If any reason could be given for imposing a restraint upon the alienation of one interest and not of the other the case might stand differently; but it did not appear that any reason could be given.

Ancient Lights—Crown Property vested in Trustees—Sale by Trustees—Prerogative of the Crown—Prescription Act (2 & 3 Wm. 4, c. 71), ss. 2, 3.

In 1820, the site of the old Bankruptcy Court, in Basinghall Street, was purchased by the Crown, the conveyance being taken to trustees for the Crown as provided by the statute under which the purchase was made. In 1886 the site was sold by the Crown, and the defendant, under a building agreement with the purchaser, was erecting on the site buildings which obstructed the access of light to windows in adjoining buildings, the owners of which sought to restrain such building.

No prescriptive right to such access of light had been acquired prior to 1820, owing to the custom of the City of London, which prevents the acquisition of such light (Wynstanley v. Lee, 2 Sw. 833); but it was contended on the part of the plaintiffs that such right had been acquired under sect. 8 of the Prescription Act.

Seward Brice, Q.C., and Beaumont, for the plaintiff in the first action.

Seward Brice, Q.C., and Stokes, for the plaintiff in the second action.

Byrae, Q.C., and Butcher, for the plaintiffs in the third action.

Whitehouse, Q.C., and W. F. Hamilton, for defendant.

Held, that the Crown not being named in the section, was not bound by the Act, and that the prerogative of the Crown prevented the plaintiffs acquiring any right to the access of light over the defendant's buildings, and that the actions accordingly failed.

RICKETTS v. RICKETS.

Feb. 6.

Mortgage—Charging Order—Foreclosure Absolute—Order to Transfer—Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order LV., r. 5 A.

The plaintiff was the defendant's wife. An order absolute was made in the Queen's Bench Division, dated the 12th of August, 1889, entitled in a suit of the Probate, Divorce, and Admiralty Division, between the parties to this action, by which certain Consols belonging to the defendant were charged with alimony that had been ordered to be paid by him to the plaintiff. This was a mortgage action commenced by originating summons to enforce the charge. The summons did not specifically ask for a transfer of the Consols.

The defendant made default in appearance. On the 8rd of April, 1890, a foreclosure order was made directing an account of what was due to the plaintiff under the charging order, and for costs; that upon payment by the defendant of what should be found due within six months of the certificate being made the defendant should be released and discharged of all claim under the charging order; but that in default of payment by the defendant by the specified time, it was ordered that he should be foreclosed. The order did not direct the defendant in case of default to transfer the Consols to the plaintiff.

Notice of motion on behalf of the plaintiff was filed against the defendant for an order for foreclosure absolute, and an order on the defendant to transfer the Consols to the plaintiff.

Butcher, for the motion.

NORTH, J., held, that, by analogy to the cases where delivery of possession had been ordered with an order for foreclosure absolute of real estate, though the order nisi did not provide for delivery of possession, and there was no claim for delivery of possession, he could order a transfer of the Consols to the plaintiff, and did so.

THE INDIGO COMPANY v. OGILVY.
Practice—Service out of the Jurisdiction—Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order XI., r. 1 (g).

The plaintiffs were an English company formed to acquire the right in India to patents for a process of manufacturing indigo and to manufacture in India by the process. In the months of May, 1887, and May, 1888, they entered into contracts in writing, executed in India, with Messrs. Gillanders, Arbuthnot & Co., a Calcutta firm, who were the managers and part proprietors of the indigo estates in India. The contracts provided for the manufacture of indigo on the two estates by the plaintiffs' process, and for the sale of the indigo in Calcutta. Messrs. Ogilvy, Gillanders & Co. were the London correspondents and agents of Messrs. Gillanders, Arbuthnot & Co., the members of the two firms being to a large extent the same.

In January, 1890, the plaintiffs wrote to Messrs. Ogilvy, Gillanders & Co., undertaking, in consideration of their telegraphing to the Calcutta firm, to ship indigo to this market instead of selling in Calcutta, to accept drafts of the Indian firm for the amounts due to the proprietors of the estates in respect of the indigo plus disbursement for freight insurance and shipping charges. Messrs. Gillanders, Arbuthnot & Co. shipped 410 cases of indigo, consigned to Messrs. Ogilvy, Gillanders & Co., and drew bills on the plaintiffs against the indigo. The bills were negotiated in Calcutta. On presentation, the plaintiffs dishonoured them on the ground that the amount drawn for was in excess. The bills were taken up by Messrs. Ogilvy, Gillanders & Co. for the honour and account of the drawers, and the indigo was sold on their behalf.

The writ in this action was issued on the 9th of October, 1890. Ogilvy Gillanders & Co. and their brokers were made defendants. The claim endorsed on the writ was for (1) a declaration that the plaintiffs were entitled to the 410 cases of indigo; (2) delivery of the goods or their proceeds; (3) an injunction to restrain the defendants from selling or disposing of the goods, and receiving or dealing with the proceeds; (4) damages for wrongful conversion.

On a motion in the action for an injunction, which ultimately stood over till the trial, the evidence on the part of the plaintiffs shewed that they alleged that they were entitled to damages against Messrs. Gillanders, Arbuthnot, & Co., the Calcutta firm, by reason of certain frauds alleged to have been committed by the native agent of the proprietors in working the tests in the manufacture by which, under the agreements, the sums payable by the plaintiffs to the proprietors for the indigo was ascertained. On the 15th of December, 1890, the plaintiffs obtained from the judge in chambers an order ex parte giving leave to amend by adding Messrs. Gillanders, Arbuthnot & Co. as defendants, and by making such amendments in the endorsement as might be necessary in consequence of the joinder of new parties, and giving leave to issue a concurrent writ for service out of the jurisdiction. On that occasion it was not called to the attention of the Court that the plaintiffs made a claim against the Indian firm in respect of the alleged frauds.

The plaintiffs amended their writ by adding Messrs. Gillanders, Arbuthnot & Co. as defendants, and amended the endorsement by adding a claim against the defendants, Messrs. Gillanders, Arbuthnot & Co. for (5) 5000*l.* for money received by them for the use of the plaintiffs and for damages for breach of the agreements of May, 1887, and May, 1888.

A motion was now made on behalf of Gillanders, Arbuthnot & Co., who had been served with a concurrent writ to set aside the order of the 15th of December, 1890, giving leave to add them as defendants unless the plaintiffs undertook to confine themselves in the action to such breaches of the agreements as took place within the jurisdiction.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and Cababé, for the motion.

Napier Higgins, Q.C., and W. S. Robson, for the plaintiffs, opposed.

NORTH, J., held, that, though Messrs. Gillanders, Arbuthnot & Co. could be properly made parties and served in India with a concurrent writ in respect of the claim to the indigo shipped to this country, they could not, by reason of their being thus made parties to the action, be sued in this country in respect of the alleged frauds of their agents in India; and, the plaintiffs having refused to undertake to confine the action to breaches of the agreements within the jurisdiction, he set aside the order of the 15th of December.

Mortgage—Foreclosure—Increase of Value of Mortgaged Property before Foreclosure Absolute—Re-opening.

Summons to open foreclosure.

In December, 1889, the first mortgagees of a policy of assurance for 4,000*l.* on the life of P. obtained the usual foreclosure decree.

In March, 1890, the Chief Clerk made his certificate, fixing the 17th of September, 1890, as the date for payment. There was a subsequent extension of time for redemption, the mortgagees having received money in the meanwhile; and on the 8th of December, 1890, a second certificate was made fixing the date for payment on the 22nd of December. The persons entitled to redeem were a second mortgagee and the trustee in bankruptcy of the mortgagor. On the 29th of December the life dropped, and the policy moneys became payable. On the 31st of December the first mortgagees applied ex parte for foreclosure absolute, and the chief clerk made the order, although he was informed of the death of the assured.

The amount of the policy moneys exceeded the first mortgagee's debt, and this was a motion of the trustee in bankruptcy to re-open the foreclosure.

Hastings, Q.C., and Bradford, for the applicant.

Rowden, for the second mortgagee, in support of the summons.

C. James, for the first mortgagees.

STIRLING, J., held, following Campbell v. Holyland (7 Ch. D. 171), that the foreclosure must be re-opened. There would be a subsequent account and a further period of one month for redemption.

Vendor and Purchaser—Voluntary Settlement—Sale by Trustees—Title as against Trustee in Bankruptcy of Settlor—Bankruptcy Act, 1883, s. 47.

By a voluntary settlement, dated the 18th of December, 1888, J. B. B. conveyed certain land to trustees on trust for sale, and to pay the income arising from the proceeds of such sale to himself for life, and after his death upon trusts for his issue.

On the 21st of December, 1889, the trustees of the settlement contracted to sell the settled land to the London County Council for the purposes of a public park.

To this contract J. B. B. was a party. Upon examination of the title, the purchasers objected that the settlement, being voluntary, would under sect. 47 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, be void against the trustee in bankruptcy of B. if he should become bankrupt within two years of the date of the settlement; and would become void if he should become bankrupt within ten years of that date, unless the parties claiming under the settlement could prove that he was at the time of making the settlement able to pay all his debts without the aid of the settled property. To this objection the vendors answered that it was doubtful whether the section would affect a purchaser from the trustees; and that if B. concurred in the sale the purchasers would be in the same position as if they bought directly from him.

This was a summons taken out by the vendors under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874, asking for a declaration that a good title had been shewn.

Hastings, Q. C., and Gaselee, for the vendors.

Beale, Q. C., and J. L. Casson, for the purchasers.

STIRLING, J., held, that the title was not such as could be forced upon an unwilling purchaser. The burden of proof of the solvency of the settlor at the date of the settlement was thrown by the section upon "the parties claiming under the settlement." It was contended that that term did not include bona fide purchasers and lessees from the trustees. His Lordship could not agree with that construction; the words of the section were too wide to admit of it. The proceeds of sale might be lost, or circumstances might occur to induce the trustee in bankruptcy to have recourse to the property originally settled rather than to any substituted for it. It was said, however, that a title might be made by B. concurring in the sale and conveying to the purchasers, and their paying the purchase-money by his direction to the trustees. That would amount to an avoidance of the settlement by B. under the 27 Eliz. c. 4, and a resettlement by him of the proceeds of sale. If the purchasers consented to accept a title so made, his Lordship thought it would be good, but it could not be forced upon them.

ENGEL v. SOUTH METROPOLITAN BREWING AND BOTTLING COMPANY.

Receiver—Prior Incumbrancer in Possession—Motion.

On the 8th of November, 1887, certain premises were demise by the applicant to S. H. Harwood, who subsequently, without the applicant's leave, sub-let the property to the company. On the 29th of December, 1890, the applicant levied a distress for rent due from Harwood under the lease. A petition having been presented to wind up the company on the 5th of January, 1891, an order was made in the winding-up restraining the applicant from proceeding with his distress. This order was discharged on the 17th of January. On the 7th of January, in a debenture-holder's action against the company, a receiver was appointed without prejudice to the rights of any prior incumbrancer. On the 20th of January, 1891, the receiver obtained leave to pay out the distress, and on the same day, although informed of this, the applicant gave notice of motion for the 23rd of January, 1891, for leave to proceed with his distress. On the 21st of January, the distress was paid out by the receiver.

The applicant now brought on the motion for costs.

Alexander Young, for the motion.

Solomon, for the plaintiff, objected that the motion was altogether unnecessary, as the applicant, being already in possession before the appointment of the receiver, did not require leave to prosecute his distress.

He relied upon Johnes v. Cloughton (Jac. 573), Evelyn v. Lewis (3 Hare, 472), and Underhay v. Read (20 Q. B. D. 209).

STIRLING, J., dismissed the motion with costs.

LORD JERSEY v. UXBRIDGE UNION RURAL SANITARY AUTHORITY.

Local Authority—Judgment for past Debt—Execution—Writ of Elegit.

In 1885, the plaintiff obtained judgment with costs against the defendants in an action to restrain them from discharging sewage into a brook on his land. The costs were not taxed until 1890, when the taxing master by his certificate dated the 25th of April certified them at 633*l.* 2*s.* 10*d.*

On the 7th of August, the plaintiff obtained a garnishee order attaching rates in the hands of the defendant's treasurer; but this was afterwards set aside by Williams, J., on the ground that rates levied in 1890 could not be applied to the payment of a debt incurred in 1885. The plaintiff then issued a writ of elegit against the lands of the defendants, and the defendants now moved to discharge it, on the ground that their land ought not to be taken in execution to satisfy such a debt.

Macmorran, for the motion, contended that, by reason of the time which had elapsed, the defendants could not now lawfully pay the defendant. He referred to Attorney-General v. Wilkinson (28 L. J. (Ch.) 392; 29 L. J. (Ch.) 41), and Worral Waterworks Company v. Lloyd (Law Rep. 1 C. P. 719).

Pollard and Hornell, for the plaintiff.

STIRLING, J., said that the motion was premature. It must not be assumed that because a past debt could not be paid out of present or future rates, the defendants had no property out of which the debt could be satisfied. It would be wrong to set aside the writ before the sheriff had made his return. That being so, the application must be dismissed with costs.

GREENWOOD v. TURNER.

Feb. 6.

Vendor and Purchaser—Specific Performance—Default by Purchaser—Purchaser remaining in Possession—Purchase-money—Payment into Court—Option of giving up Possession.

On the 22nd of August, 1889, the plaintiffs contracted to sell a house to the defendant, who was in possession under an underlease from a tenant of theirs, for 5000*l.*, the contract to be completed on the 24th of June, 1890, the date of the determination of the original lease. The purchaser paid a deposit under the contract, but failed to complete on the day named. He, however, remained in possession, and refused to pay the balance of purchase-money, or to pay interest or rent. He made no objection to the title. In this action, which was for specific performance, the plaintiffs moved that the defendant, having accepted the title and being in possession, might be ordered, within four days after service, to pay into Court the balance of purchase-money, with interest, from the day fixed for completion to the day of payment in. The defendant denied that he was in possession under the contract, but offered to pay rent, without prejudice to his defence in the action.

Warmington, Q.C., and Daunev, for the plaintiffs.

Theobald, for the defendant.

KEKEWICH, J., said that, according to the rule laid down in Levis v. James (32 Ch. D. 326), and other cases, a purchaser in possession, provided he had done nothing to interfere with the value of the property, had the option of going out, and was not ordered to pay the purchase-money unless he elected to stay in. He therefore declined to make an order for payment in of the balance of the purchase-money, but ordered the defendant to elect within a month to pay it in or give up possession. If he gave up possession, he must pay interest at 4 per cent. on the balance of purchase-money from the day fixed by the contract for completion till the day of giving up possession. The costs of the motion to be costs in the action.

Evidence — Admissibility — Promissory Note insufficiently stamped not admissible in Evidence as a Receipt for Money — Stamp Act, 1870 (33 & 34 Vict. c. 97), s. 54.

The defendant's case was that he was entitled to an equitable mortgage over certain land in respect of money lent to the plaintiffs' predecessors in title. As evidence of the advance of part of the money, a document was tendered which was in form a promissory note, but was stamped as a receipt with a penny stamp.

Renshaw, Q.C., and E. Bray, for the plaintiff, objected that the document, not being stamped as a promissory note, was inadmissible in evidence: Stamp Act, 1870, s. 54.

Marten, Q.C., and C. E. Jenkins, for the defendant, contended, that as the document was stamped as a receipt it was admissible as evidence of the receipt of the money: Evans v. Prothero (1 D. M. & G. 572, 575).

KEKEWICH, J., referred to the authorities, and held, that as the purpose for which it was proposed to put the document in evidence, was not one merely collateral to, but was of the very essence of, the purposes of a promissory note, the document could not be admitted in evidence.

Appeal from Chambers.

A dispute having arisen between a building society and one of its members, the matter was referred to arbitration, and the arbitration duly held under the provisions of the Building Societies Act, 1874. During the progress of the arbitration the member applied to the arbitrators to state a special case raising a point of law for the decision of the High Court. The arbitrators declined to state a case, and proceeded with the reference, and eventually made their award. The member, being dissatisfied with the refusal of the arbitrators to state a case, obtained an order in Chambers calling upon them to do so, from which order the building society appealed.

Macoun, for the appellants.

Fillan, for the respondent.

THE COURT (Wills and Vaughan Williams, JJ.) held, that the power given to the High Court in ordinary cases by sect. 19 of the Arbitration Act, 1889, to order an arbitrator to state a special case, did not apply to arbitrations under the Building Societies Act, 1874, which were excluded from the operation of that section by reason of the provisions of sect. 24 of the Arbitration Act, 1889.

The firm were adjudicated bankrupt in 1884; and in October, 1884, on a report of the official receiver, were absolutely refused an order of discharge.

In October, 1890, the appellant, one of the firm, applied "for an order of discharge notwithstanding the order of October, 1884, and in the alternative for an order to vary the order of October, 1884," and supported the application by evidence of good conduct since the refusal. The application to vary was withdrawn at the hearing, and the judge refused to grant an order of discharge.

Feb. 16. THE COURT (Cave and Vaughan Williams, JJ.) held, that there was jurisdiction under sect. 104 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, to reconsider an absolute refusal of an order of discharge, and, considering the evidence of subsequent good conduct satisfactory, granted the appellant his discharge.

DANIEL v. FERGUSON.

Feb. 25.

Mandatory Injunction—Building accelerated.

The plaintiff was entitled to long leases of three adjoining houses in a terrace. The defendant began, in September, 1890, to erect on an adjoining piece of ground a building which, if completed, would materially darken the plaintiff's windows. On Saturday, the 29th of October, 1890, the plaintiff commenced this action for an injunction, and the writ was served between 12 and 1 o'clock on that day along with notice of motion for injunction on the Friday following. At 2 P.M. on Saturday, the 29th, the defendant turned on a large number of men, who went on building all through the night and until 4 P.M. on Sunday. They resumed work on Monday, and carried the wall up to a height of about thirty feet. On Monday the plaintiff obtained ex parte an interim injunction till Friday, and notice of this was given to the defendant in the evening of Monday. The defendant then ceased to build. The motion was disposed of on the 19th of December, when Stirling, J., granted an injunction against building, and a mandatory order to pull down the wall. The defendant appealed.

Horace Kent, for the appeal, objected to the order to pull down.

H. B. Buckley, Q.C., and F. Watson, for the plaintiff, were not called upon.

THE COURT (Lindley and Kay, L.J.J.) said that the appeal must be dismissed without going into the merits, which turned upon the question—possibly a nice question—whether there had not at one time been a unity of possession such as to prevent the plaintiff's houses from acquiring an easement of light. Their Lordships considered that where a person, after notice that an injunction was going to be applied for, hurried on his buildings in the hope that when they were once up the Court might decline to order them to be pulled down, then if the plaintiff had such a case as would justify an injunction for the purpose of keeping matters in statu quo, it was right that the buildings should be pulled down without regard to what the result of the trial might afterwards be, and to hold otherwise would be an encouragement to other parties to try to evade the jurisdiction of the Court by hurrying on their buildings.

Feb. 17.

Will—Construction—Gift during Widowhood—Gift over on Death.

This was an action for the administration of the estate of John Tredwell, deceased, who died in 1874, having made a will and codicil. After giving certain pecuniary and specific legacies, the testator devised all his real estate to the use of his wife "during her life, provided she shall so long remain my widow." He bequeathed his personal estate, and, subject to the interest of his wife, he devised his real estate to the trustees of his will upon trust; as to the personal estate, either to sell or keep it in the same state of investment as it should be at the time of his death; as to the real estate, at their discretion after the decease or marrying again of his wife, or in her lifetime with her consent to sell. As to the money to arise from the sale of his real and personal estate, he directed his trustees to pay his debts, testamentary and funeral expenses, the pecuniary legacies he had previously given, and certain other legacies to the amount of 4250*l.*, and to invest the surplus and pay to, or permit his wife to receive, the income during her life or until she should marry again; and on her marrying again, "in lieu of the provision" thereinbefore made for her to pay her an annuity of 2000*l.*, during the remainder of her life. After a trust for the benefit of one Eliza Skilliter, the next trust declared was, "from and immediately after the decease of my said wife upon trust thereout, to levy and pay the legacies hereinafter given and bequeathed, all which said legacies, although the payment thereof is postponed until after the decease of my said wife, I direct shall be deemed and taken as vested immediately upon my own decease." The testator then enumerated legacies of varying amounts which he gave to forty-seven different persons, and made the following bequest: "I give and bequeath unto my executors and trustees the sum of 5000*l.*, upon trust to divide the same amongst such charitable institutions as my said wife shall by her will name and appoint," and gave his residue among three persons.

By his codicil he increased legacies to servants, and after the death of his wife gave "further" pecuniary legacies, to some of the forty-seven persons to whom he had by his will directed legacies to be paid after the death of his wife, and revoked eight legacies out of the forty-seven he had bequeathed, payable after the death of his wife, and directed the legacy of 5000*l.*, bequeathed for such charitable institutions as his wife by will should appoint, to be paid out of such part of his residuary personal estate as was legally applicable to charitable legacies.

The testator's wife married in 1890 a Mr. Fletcher. A summons taken out by her was now heard to determine whether the legacies directed to be paid after her death became payable on her marriage, and whether the legacy of 5000*l.*, directed to be held on trust for such charitable institutions as she should by will appoint, ought to be immediately appropriated, and if so how the income of it ought to be applied.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and William Druce, for residuary legatees.

NORTH, J., held, that the legacies given by the will after the death of the testator's wife were payable on her marriage; that the seven legacies given by the codicil instead of eight legacies given by the will, were also payable on her marriage; that the further legacies given by the codicil to legatees named in the will, and the 5000*l.* charitable legacy, would not be payable till after the death of the testator's wife.

THYNN v. SABL.

Feb. 17.

Practice—Foreclosure—Order Absolute—Delivery of Possession—Form of Order—Identification of Property—Issue of Writ of Possession—Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order XLVII, rr. 1, 2—Appendix H, Form No. 7A, 8.

This was a foreclosure action commenced by originating summons. An order nisi was made in chambers in the ordinary form, directing an account of what was due by the defendants to the plaintiffs, and that, in default of payment within the time fixed, the defendants should be foreclosed of all equity of redemption in the hereditaments comprised in the mortgage deed. The account having been taken, the defendants failed to pay the amount found due within the time limited, and the plaintiffs applied at chambers for an order of foreclosure absolute, and also an order for delivery of possession of the property in accordance with the plaintiffs' claim, and an order accordingly was made by the chief clerk. The minutes of the order as given out by the registrar described the property, in the order for foreclosure absolute, simply as "the hereditaments comprised in the mortgage," and the order for delivery of possession was "to deliver possession to the plaintiffs of the said mortgaged hereditaments." When the plaintiffs' solicitor took the order to the Writ Department, in order to obtain a writ for delivery of possession, the officer of that department declined to issue a writ, on the ground that the order for delivery of possession did not contain a sufficient identification of the property to enable the writ to be properly expressed for the guidance of the sheriff.

Mickletham, for the plaintiff, now mentioned the matter to the Court.

NORTH, J., said that, so far as the order directed foreclosure absolute, it must follow the terms of the order nisi. But, when it went on to order delivery of possession, he could see no objection to adding (after the words "the said mortgaged hereditaments") the words "consisting of," and then inserting the description of the property contained in the mortgage deed. He thought it was quite right that the order should indicate the property of which possession was to be delivered. It might, perhaps, be convenient in future to add to the order nisi the description of the property contained in the mortgage deed. But this had not been done in the present case, and the order absolute must follow the terms of the order nisi.

North, J. AYLWARD v. LEWIS. Feb. 20.

Practice—Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order XVI., r. 46—Mortgages—Foreclosures—Deceased Mortgagor—Representative for the Action.

This was an action to foreclose mortgages of property let to weekly tenants. A receiver was appointed in the action. The defendant made default in pleading. Judgment for foreclosure nisi was pronounced on the 15th of February, 1890, limiting the time for redemption to six months from the chief clerk's certificate being made. The certificate was made on the 22nd of May, 1890, finding a sum of 1572*l.* 19*s.* 8*d.* due in respect of the mortgage. After the date of the certificate, the defendant died insolvent. He had no personal representative. By an order dated the 14th of November, 1890, made under Order XVI., r. 46, his brother, Augustus Lewis, one of his next of kin, was appointed to represent the estate of the defendant for all the purposes of this action, and it was ordered that the plaintiff should serve Augustus Lewis with that order by the 19th of November, 1890, and that upon such service being effected in default of payment of the sum found due on the 24th of November, 1890, the said Augustus Lewis as such representative should be foreclosed. The order had been duly served.

The receiver had in his hands 7*l.* 2*s.* 11*d.*, the balance of the moneys received and expended from the time of his appointment not included in the chief clerk's certificate. This was a motion on behalf of the plaintiff for an order on the receiver to pay the balance to the plaintiff, and to discharge the receiver, and to limit a further time till the 27th of February, 1891, for redemption on payment of the amount fixed by the chief clerk to be due, reduced by the sum of 7*l.* 2*s.* 11*d.*, according to the form of the order in Jenner-Fust v. Needham (32 Ch. Div. 582).

Vernon Smith, for the motion, referred to Peat v. Gott (Weekly Notes, 1885, p. 46), and Neal v. Barrett (Weekly Notes, 1887, p. 88), as shewing that the proper course had been pursued in appointing the defendant's brother a representative for the purposes of the action, and that the Court would make an order for foreclosure absolute.

NORTH, J.— I am not satisfied that it was right to make the order in Chambers appointing a representative. It does not follow if it was right that the estate can be foreclosed. I am asked to make an order for foreclosure against the estate when I have not got the mortgagor's estate here in any way, except in so far that a person has been appointed to represent the estate who may have no interest in it. I am not satisfied with the order appointing him. It may be a right order as a step in the right direction. I decided long since, following the Court of Appeal, that an insolvent trustee was not a sufficient party to a suit to bind the cestui que trust. I am not satisfied here that a person who has not got the mortgagor's estate to pay with properly represents that estate for a foreclosure action in the absence of any person who has the control over the property. I can make no order at present.

North, J. HAMILTON v. BROGDEN. Feb. 20.

Practice—Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order L., r. 15A—Equitable Execution—Receiver.

This was an adjourned motion by judgment creditors, the plaintiffs in the action, to obtain the appointment of a receiver of property of a judgment debtor, Alexander Brogden, one of the two defendants to the action. The notice of motion was against the two defendants, and it comprised an application for an order that the defendant, Alexander Brogden, should attend before an examiner to be examined as to his property. The motion was heard on the 16th of January, 1891 (ante, p. 14). His Lordship, refused to appoint a receiver then; but ordered Alexander Brogden to attend before an examiner and be examined. He had been examined; it appeared as the result of the examination that he had three classes of property: (1) He had some furniture which he had let with a house of which he had been tenant; his tenancy had expired; the tenant in possession continued to occupy the house under the person who had been the superior landlord, and rented the furniture from Alexander Brogden. (2) He had an interest in some debentures; the debentures were in pledge to one King, to secure an obligation of a company, for whose debt Alexander Brogden had made the pledge. Subject to the pledge, the debentures belonged to Alexander Brogden. (3) Alexander Brogden was director of some companies; about 600*l.* was owing to him in respect of fees.

Hopkinson, for the motion, asked to have a receiver appointed of the furniture and the debtor's interest in the debentures and anything that might be receivable from the company in case the property pledged was realised by King, and of directors fees not yet earned, on the ground that the debtor's interest in those properties could not be taken by legal execution. He asked as a matter of convenience that the order for a receiver might be extended to the amounts due for directors' fees.

Mulligan, for Alexander Brogden.

NORTH, J., appointed a receiver of the rent of the furniture and of the debentures. He refused to appoint a receiver of unearned fees; he observed that they were not large, and the effect of making such an appointment might be to destroy the property. He refused to appoint a receiver of the fees due on the ground that there was a legal mode of execution against them by attachment.

This was the further hearing of a petition by King's College, Cambridge, asking that a sum of India 8½ per Cent. Stock, which was in Court, and which represented the purchase-money of land belonging to the college which had been taken by a railway company, and the purchase-money of which had been paid into Court by the company under the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, might be sold, and the proceeds of sale applied in paying the cost of the erection of some new buildings at the college, and that the petitioners might be at liberty to refund the money thus provided by thirty equal annual instalments, to be paid into Court, and to be invested, when paid, in the purchase of similar stock. When the petition came on for hearing, North, J., held (Weekly Notes, 1890, p. 221) that, by virtue of sect. 27 of the Act of 1858, sect. 4 of the Act of 1880, sect. 48 of the Settled Land Act, 1882, and sect. 2 of the Board of Agriculture Act, 1889, it was necessary to obtain the consent of the Board of Agriculture to the petition, and the hearing was adjourned for that purpose. The petitioners did not ask for costs against the railway company.

Coxon-Hardy, Q.C., and Gaselee, for the college.

G. Pemberton Leach, for the Board of Agriculture, consented to the petition.

Hornell, for the railway company, contended that the Court had no jurisdiction to sanction what was asked. The proposed application of the money was really a permanent reinvestment in land within sect. 69 of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, and the Court had no jurisdiction to sanction the repayment of the money by instalments. The proposed application of the money was not an interim investment within sect. 69. Additional costs would be thrown on the company.

NORTH, J., held that he had jurisdiction. He thought the effect of sect. 4 of the Act of 1880 was to provide, in the case of college land taken compulsorily by a railway company, another mode of investment of the proceeds of the sale, in addition to those which were mentioned in sect. 69 of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act. If the college had asked that the costs of the petition should be paid by the company, he thought they would have been entitled to have them so paid. But they did not ask for that. What the effect of their not asking for costs might be in the event of any future petition for the investment of the purchase-money, it was not necessary to consider now. Possibly, the result might be that the college would fall between two stools, and not obtain any costs from the company. As to the consent of the Board of Agriculture, strictly speaking, it should have been evidenced by an order such as was mentioned in sect. 27 of the Act of 1858. But, as the Board had appeared by counsel and consented, his Lordship thought that the order need not be required. He sanctioned the proposed course.

GEDYE v. COMMISSIONERS OF HER MAJESTY'S WORKS AND PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

Public Body—Compulsory Purchase of Land—Payment of Purchase-money into Court—Purchase of Land as Freehold—Title to Leasehold Interest only shewn—Expiration of Term—No Claim by Reversioner—Payment to Person in possession—Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, s. 79.

Summons in a suit, commenced in 1867, for the transfer to the applicant of a fund in Court.

In 1866, the defendant commissioners, under the powers conferred on them by the Courts of Justice Concentration (Site) Act, 1865 (with which the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, was incorporated) gave notice to N. Gedye that they required to take for the purposes of their Act a house, No. 13, Clement's Lane. Gedye claimed to be the owner of the house in fee. On the 23rd of April, 1866, the amount of the compensation payable to him was assessed by a jury under the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act at 1110*l.* Gedye had acquired the house by purchase in 1856. His vendor then stated that his title was derived under a long term of years, the date of the commencement of which was unknown, but that there was a recital in an old deed that at Michaelmas, 1771, the term had 107 years to run. No rent had been paid for many years, and none was ever paid after the purchase by Gedye. In 1864, Gedye granted a lease of the house for a term of twenty-one years, from September, 1863. As Gedye could shew only a leasehold title to the house, the commissioners would not complete the purchase from him. In the investigation of the title to some adjoining houses, the commissioners' solicitors discovered that in 1578 a lease was granted, for a term of 300 years from Midsummer, 1578, of a piece of land upon which No. 13, Clement's Lane, and other adjoining houses, were afterward built, at an annual rent of 5*l.* for the whole. A claim of title to the reversion subject to this lease was made to the commissioners, but it was not prosecuted.

The suit was for the specific performance of the contract to purchase No. 13. On the further consideration of the suit, in March, 1869, an order was made by consent, and without prejudice to Gedye's claim to the reversion of the house, that his leasehold interest should be taken at the value of 500*l.*, and that this sum should be paid to him by the commissioners, and that upon payment thereof he should assign his leasehold interest to them. And it was further ordered, that the commissioners should pay into Court 705*l.*, as the value of the reversion in fee simple subject to the lease, and that the money should be invested, and the dividends thereon accumulated. The lease expired at Midsummer, 1878. No further claim had been made in respect of the reversion. More than twelve years having elapsed since the expiration of the lease, the present applicant, who had acquired in 1871 the interest of Gedye, asked by this summons that the fund in Court, which represented the 705*l.*, and the accumulations, might be transferred to him, as being the person in possession of the house within the meaning of sect. 79 of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845.

Borthwick, for the summons.

Vaughan Hawkins, for the commissioners.

NORTH, J., refused the application. He said that the case was distinguishable from Ex parte Chamberlain (14 Ch. Div.

823), Ex parte Winder (6 Ch. Div. 696); and Re Evans (42 L. J. (Ch.) 357), because the applicant was not in possession of the house when the term expired in 1878, and neither he nor Gedye had ever had any inchoate possession of, or title to, the reversion.

Adjourned summons.

By an agreement dated the 5th of February, 1890, the plaintiff agreed to sell, and the defendant to purchase, the plaintiff's leasehold interest in certain premises for the sum of 3500*l.* A deposit of 175*l.* was paid by the defendant, and the agreement stated that possession was to be given "on payment of the balance of purchase-money, viz., 3325*l.*, on the 10th of December next. If not completed, interest on said balance of 3325*l.* to be paid . . . from that date to completion." The defendant did not complete on the date named, and the plaintiff brought this action, and specially indorsed his writ with a claim "for 3325*l.* balance of the purchase-money payable on the 10th of December, 1890, by the defendant to the plaintiff under and by virtue of" the above-mentioned agreement; and the indorsement further recited the agreement, and that the plaintiff had shewn, or offered to shew, a good title, and had been on and since the 10th of December, 1890, ready and willing to convey.

This was a summons by the plaintiff for leave to sign final judgment under Order XIV. r. 1, and the question was whether the case was a proper one for a special indorsement under Order III, r. 6.

John Chester, for the plaintiff, relied on Poole v. Hill (6 M. & W. 885), and Mattock v. Kinglake (10 Ad. & E. 50).

Alexander Young, for the defendant.

STIRLING, J., held, following Laird v. Pim (7 M. & W. 474), that although such an action was maintainable at law, yet what was recovered was not a liquidated demand, but merely damages. In equity an action for specific performance would lie, and if a good title was shewn the Court would order payment of the purchase-money; but here, there being no averment that the title had been accepted by the purchaser, it was open to him to shew that a good title had not been made. The summons therefore failed, and must be dismissed with costs.

Company—Winding-up—Certificate of Incorporation—Evidence of Registration—Memorandum of Association in fact signed by Six Persons only—Companies Act, 1862, ss. 6, 18.

Resolutions for the voluntary winding-up of this company were passed, a liquidator was appointed, and on the 6th of November, 1890, an order was made continuing the voluntary winding-up under the supervision of the Court. A petition was now presented by creditors for a compulsory winding-up order, on the ground that an independent investigation into the affairs of the company was necessary. In the course of the hearing it appeared, from the evidence tendered on behalf of the petitioners, that the memorandum of association, though apparently signed by seven persons, was in fact only signed by six, as one of the signatories had signed twice in different names. The objection was thereupon taken, that, as the company had never been legally constituted, the Court had no jurisdiction to make a winding-up order. In reply, it was contended that, as under sect. 18 of the Companies Act, 1862, the certificate of incorporation is conclusive evidence that all the requisitions of the Act in respect of registration have been complied with, the objection could not be entertained.

KEKEWICH, J., held, upon the authorities, that the certificate of incorporation could not be treated as conclusive of the fact that seven persons signed the memorandum of association, and that, as it appeared that the company was never incorporated, the Court had no jurisdiction to make a winding-up order. He accordingly dismissed the petition with costs, to be paid to the liquidator.

This was a motion by a solicitor residing and carrying on business at Sheffield, raising the question whether his bill of costs against his clients, a company carrying on business in Liverpool, ought to be taxed by the registrar of the Liverpool district registry, or in London by one of the taxing masters of the High Court. The business done by the solicitor for the company was the collection of certain debts in Sheffield and, principally, in London. The company had, on a petition of course presented to the district registry, obtained an order against the solicitor for delivery of his bill and taxation before the registrar. The solicitor now moved that the order might be discharged for irregularity on the ground that a district registrar had no jurisdiction to make it, or that the taxation might take place before one of the taxing masters of the High Court, and not before the district registrar.

KEKEWICH, J., referring to Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, Order XXXV., r. 6A, sub-r. 2, and Order LXII. r. 18, held that the district registrar had jurisdiction to make the order for taxation, and to tax the bill himself; and refused to order the taxation to take place in London, especially as the company's books were at Liverpool, and it was practically as easy for the solicitor to attend the taxation in Liverpool as in London. Motion refused with costs.

Trade-mark—Registration—Fraudulent User—New Mark—Patents, Designs, and Trade Marks Act, 1883 (46 & 47 Vict. c. 57), ss. 62, 64.

This was an application for the registration of two trade-marks as new marks. Each mark consisted of three labels, to be used for tobacco manufactured and unmanufactured. Two of these labels each represented two female figures, Commerce and Agriculture, holding a medallion with the head of a female depicted on it, over which was written, "La Republica Francesa de la Union, Fabrica de Tabacos Superiores." The third label was an oval containing the words "Vera Cruz," and the signature, "J. Fuente." The registration was opposed by a firm, Messrs. Pinto, who objected that the said mark had previously to 1887 (when the Merchandise Marks Act was passed) been used on cigar boxes with the word "Habana" in connection with it, and that this conveyed a misrepresentation, as the applicant had no manufactories at Havana at all, his cigars being Mexican. The other trade-mark represented a plantation, and had the words "Plantacion de la Union—Fabrica de Tabacos Superiores," and below, the words, "De J. Fuente, Vera Cruz." To this mark the same objection was made, namely, that previously to the date above mentioned it had been used with the word "Habana" in such a way as to imply that the cigars came from Havana, whereas they were Mexican.

Neville, Q.C., and Muir, for the applicants.

Aston, Q.C., John Culler, and MacColl, for the respondents.

ROMER, J., held, that as the same mark had previously been used with a fraudulent addition, implying that the cigars came from Havana, whereas they came from Mexico, that to allow the mark to be registered minus the fraudulent addition would in fact be permitting the applicant to obtain the benefit of his previous fraudulent user. The Court could not assist such a scheme. Moreover, if cigars were sold under the new mark, the public, not noticing the omission of the word "Habana," might imagine they were Havana cigars. The application, therefore, must be refused.

Public Road—Footway and Bridle-path—Public Obstruction—Highways Act, 1835 (5 & 6 Wm. 4, c. 50), s. 109.

By an inclosure award made in 1800, a road leading from Colnbrook to Hoxton was set out fifteen feet wide as a public bridle-path and footway, and as a private carriage-road for the owners of the allotments adjoining it. For several years past across a portion of the road (eleven and a half feet) a locked barrier, consisting of a post and swing-gate, had been maintained by such adjoining owners, who alone had the keys of it, with a view to prevent the user of the road by the public for carriages. The defendants, surveyors of highways in the district, had broken down the barrier, claiming to act under the powers of the Highways Act, 1835, on the ground that the barrier obstructed them in repairing the road.

The plaintiffs, adjoining owners, accordingly brought this action to restrain the defendants, insisting that the right which the public possessed was not obstructed, the space which was left open (three and a half feet), being sufficient for all purposes of a footway and bridle-path.

Neville, Q.C., and Grosvenor Woods, for the plaintiffs.

Haldane, Q.C., and D. L. Alexander, for the defendants, were not called upon.

ROMER, J., held that the barrier was a public obstruction, each foot-passenger and each horseman having a right to walk or ride along the road for its whole width throughout its entire length, and that the user of the obstruction for a long period was no answer to public rights; and dismissed the action with costs.

HIS LORDSHIP further held, that the case did not fall within sect. 109 of the Highways Act, 1835, so as to entitle the defendants to costs as between solicitor and client.

This was a special case referred for decision from the County Court at Birmingham. The bankrupt was chaplain to the Birmingham Workhouse, and to the Birmingham Workhouse Infirmary, and his joint stipend or salary was 250*l.* per annum. The joint appointment was solely in the hands of the Birmingham guardians, and the salary was paid out of the rates. The bankrupt had in December, 1889, mortgaged his stipend to one Coulson, to secure 49*l.* and interest. The trustee in bankruptcy claimed that the stipend now vested in him. The questions stated for the opinion of the Court were, (1) whether the mortgage to Coulson was void as against public policy; and (2) whether the stipend vested in the trustee as and when received by the bankrupt.

Muir Mackenzie, for the trustee.

T. Willes Chitty, for the mortgagee.

CAVE, J., held, that the stipend, subject to the charge, vested in the trustee as part of the bankrupt's estate. The office held by the bankrupt was not a public office, and the mortgage was not void as against public policy. A clergyman with the care of souls was not a public officer. To make his office a public one, in the strict sense of the term, his stipend must be paid out of the national funds, and not out of local funds. Here the stipend was paid out of local funds.

The plaintiffs sued the defendant under 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 15, s. 2, to recover four penalties of forty shillings each for infringements of their dramatic copyright; the defendant paid the amount claimed into Court. Upon taxation of the plaintiffs' costs, the defendant objected that the plaintiffs had recovered less than ten pounds in an action founded on tort, and were therefore, under sect. 116 of the County Courts Act 1888, not entitled to any costs of the action. The master was of opinion that the defendant's contention was sound, and refused to tax the plaintiffs' costs. The plaintiffs thereupon took out a summons before a judge in chambers, for an order directing the master to tax the plaintiffs' costs upon the footing of an indemnity, under 5 & 6 Vict. c. 97, s. 2, which summons was referred by the judge to the Court.

There was no defence to the action, and the plaintiffs signed judgment against Schofield by consent. Subsequently the plaintiffs, with the consent of Schofield applied in the district registry for an order that the judgment might be set aside, and that the writ should be amended by adding one Thomas as a defendant in the action. The application was founded upon an affidavit stating that since the date of judgment signed against Schofield, the plaintiffs had discovered that Thomas was a partner of Schofield, and joint proprietor with him of the newspaper. COURT OF APPEAL.

- From Ch. Div. Feb. 26.
- COUTTS & Co. v. THE IRISH EXHIBITION IN LONDON.
- Banker—Projected Company—Liability of Promoters for Overdraft—Novation.

This was an appeal from a judgment of Kekewich, J., dismissing the action (Weekly Notes, 1890, p. 181).

The facts, which are stated more at length in the previous note, were shortly as follows: In April, 1888, the defendants Lord A. Hill, H. Gladstone, the Earl of Leitrim, J. H. Rafferty, J. McCarthy, and E. Hart, formed themselves into a council with the view of establishing an Irish Exhibition in London; and four of them, with the authority of the others, opened an account with the plaintiffs, Messrs. Coutts & Co., bankers, in the name of "The Irish Exhibition," on the understanding that cheques might be drawn by any two of the council, and countersigned by Lord A. Hill, who acted as honorary secretary, and that they should be allowed to overdraw to the amount of 10,000*l.* for the purpose of the Irish Exhibition. On the 21st of June, 1888, the Irish Exhibition was incorporated under the Companies Act, 1862, by the name of "The Irish Exhibition in London," and the plaintiffs received notice of the fact; but no alteration was made in the heading of the account, which was then considerably overdrawn, and cheques continued to be drawn as before.

The Exhibition was not successful, and the plaintiffs in the autumn of 1888 continually pressed for a reduction of the overdraft or for security; and on the 12th of October, 1888, the defendant Rafferty sent to the plaintiffs a document not under seal, purporting to be an equitable charge by the Irish Exhibition in London on certain specified book debts in favour of the plaintiffs, to secure the overdraft. On the 8th of November, 1888, the Exhibition executed under seal an assignment of all its assets in favour of the defendants, the National Agricultural Hall Company, for value. On the 15th of December, 1888, the exhibition was ordered to be wound up, and at that time the overdraft was about 4000*l.* The National Agricultural Hall was also ordered to be wound up. The plaintiffs brought this action to enforce their charge against the two companies, and in the alternative to make the above-mentioned six defendants personally liable for the overdraft. Kekewich, J., held, on the evidence, that the charge could not be maintained against the Irish Exhibition in London, or the National Agricultural Hall, and that the six defendants were never customers of the bank; and that the bank looked for repayment of the overdraft, not to them personally, but to the money that might be received through the Exhibition.

The plaintiffs appealed. The only question on the appeal was between the plaintiffs and the six defendants who had opened the account.

Sir H. Davey, Q.C., Warmington, Q.C., and Vaughan Hawkins, for the appellants.

Reid, Q.C., Levett, Q.C., and H. J. Hood, for the six defendants.

LINDLEY, L.J., reviewed the documentary and other evidence, and said that it was incredible that Coutts & Co. only expected to be paid their overdraft if the Exhibition was a success, or that they desired to finance the Exhibition. There could be no doubt that they looked to the members of the council as their customers. It was contended that even if these gentlemen were originally responsible, the plaintiffs had accepted the liability of the Irish Exhibition in London when it was incorporated. In June, 1888, when the company was formed, the plaintiffs had notice of it; but nevertheless they went on precisely in the same way as before, and made no change in their account, and the account was overdrawn from the commencement till the action was brought. It was absurd to suppose that Messrs. Coutts had substituted as their debtors such a company as this for six gentlemen of responsibility. The appeal must be allowed.

LOPES and KAY, L.J.J., gave judgment to the same effect. Solicitors: Farrer & Co.; A. M. Bradley; Ellis, Munday, Bartrum; Campbell, Reeves, & Hooper; Lewis & Lewis.

WHITWOOD CHEMICAL COMPANY v. HARDMAN.

Contract of Service—Manufacturer's Manager—Agreement to give whole time—Specific Performance—Injunction.

Appeal from Kekewich, J.

By an agreement dated July 24, 1889, between the plaintiffs and the defendant, it was provided that the defendant, a manufacturing chemist, with a special knowledge of the plaintiffs' business, who had already been their manager for four years, should be their manager for an extended term of ten years from September, 1885, with a salary and commission, and that he "shall give the whole of his time to the company's business; he shall give due diligence to the performance of his duties and shall conform to the reasonable requirements of the board of directors." The agreement contained no negative contract by the defendant.

In January last, the plaintiffs ascertained that the defendant was engaged in the formation of a rival company, to carry on a similar business in the neighbourhood of their works, of which company he was to be a director; they then brought this action, and Kekewich, J., on the 6th of February, held that by contracting to give his whole time to the plaintiffs the defendant had agreed not to give any part of it to anyone else; and his Lordship granted an interlocutory injunction to restrain the defendant until judgment or further order from giving less than the whole of his time to the plaintiffs' business.

The defendant appealed.

Marten, Q.C., and Archibald Brown, for the appellant.

Warmington, Q.C., and Dibdin, for the respondents.

THE COURT (Lindley and Kay, L.J.J.) said, that if the defendant had committed a breach of his agreement, the plaintiffs had good ground of complaint; but the question was one of remedy. The defendant had never contracted not to set up a rival business; and as a general rule the Court would not decree specific performance of a contract of service, or grant an injunction for breach of such a contract. Their Lordships looked upon Lunley v. Wagner (1 D. M. & G. 604) as an anomaly; and, considering that the Court had in the present case gone beyond any previous decision, they allowed the appeal.

ELLIS v. DADSON AND F. A. ELLIS & Co.

Company — Voluntary Winding-up — Motion to restrain, Confirmatory Resolution for — Companies Act, 1862, s. 129.

The above-named company was formed in 1889 for the purpose of taking over the business of manufacturers of patent furniture for umbrellas, carried on by the plaintiff, in partnership with one Scarlett, under the style or firm of F. A. Ellis & Co. The capital of the company was 6000*l.*, divided into 6000 shares of 1*l.* each, the first fifty being founders' shares, and the remainder ordinary shares.

The plaintiff and defendant Dadson were (with the exception of the five other subscribers to the memorandum of association, who each subscribed for one share, and who it was admitted were all nominees of Dadson) the only shareholders in the company.

By an agreement filed with the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies, dated in April, 1889, and made between Scarlett and the plaintiff, called the vendors, of the one part, and the company of the other part (the principal provisions of which were embodied in clause 11 of the articles of association), the vendors agreed to sell to the company the plant and goodwill of the business, and in particular the benefit of a licence of November, 1887, then vested in the vendors, and as a separate agreement the plaintiff agreed to sell to the company all the patents comprised in the licence then subsisting, subject as to a patent of the 25th of May, 1887, to the payment of a certain royalty, the company to pay to Scarlett 500*l.*, and to allot to the plaintiff fifty founders' shares fully paid up, the same to be entitled to one-half the profits of the company available for dividend in every year, so long as they should be held by the plaintiff, and he acted as director. In case of the death of the plaintiff during the term for which the letters patent, dated the 25th of May, 1887, should be in force and valid, thirty-five of the fifty shares to be treated as ordinary shares in respect of dividend, and the remaining fifteen, so long as held by the wife and children of the plaintiff, to remain founders' shares and entitled to three-tenths of one half of the profits. In case of the death of the plaintiff after the term for which the said letters patent to be in force, then forty-five of the fifty shares to be treated as ordinary shares, and the remaining five so long as held by the wife and children of the plaintiff to remain founders' shares and entitled to one-tenth of one-half of the profits.

The plaintiff, in consideration of the premises, further agreed with the company that he would not for a period of twelve years from the date of the agreement, if the company should so long carry on business, be concerned or engaged in any other business or employment than that of the company.

On the 28th of January, 1891, the company having been, in the opinion of Dadson, unsuccessful, a special resolution was passed for winding up voluntarily.

This was a motion on behalf of the plaintiff to restrain the defendants from confirming the resolution.

Farwell, Q.C., and George Henderson, in support of the motion, contended that the company had contracted itself out of the right to wind up voluntarily.

Byrne, Q.C., and Percy Wheeler, for the defendants, contended that a company cannot contract itself out of the statutory right to wind up voluntarily conferred upon it by sect. 129 of the Companies Act, 1862, and referred to Walker v. London Tramways Company (12 Ch. Div. 705).

CHITTY, J., held, that by the above section the legislature had conferred upon every company a paramount statutory power to put an end to its existence, and that it would require a very strong case to be made out in order to shew that such power was not to be exercised, and dismissed the motion with costs.

BONNARD v. PERRYMAN.

March 8.

Libel — Newspaper — Interlocutory Injunction.

The plaintiffs were Gustave Richard Bonnard and Arthur Henry Deakin, who carried on business under the name of the Mercantile and General Trust as financial agents.

The first of the two defendants to the action was Charles Perryman, the editor and proprietor and publisher of a weekly newspaper called the Financial Observer and Mining Herald. His name also appeared on the issues of the paper in evidence as that of the printer; but the actual printer of those issues was Clement Allen, the other defendant;

A motion was now made in the action on behalf of the plaintiffs to restrain the defendants from selling, circulating, or communicating to any person any copy of the Financial Observer of the 7th of February, 1891, containing an article headed, "The Fletcher Mills of Providence, Rhode Island," or the article in any form, and from printing or publishing in that newspaper or otherwise any statement imputing to the plaintiffs or either of them in connection with the promotion or floating of Sykes Brewery, or the City of Baltimore United Breweries, as limited companies, or the promotion of the proposed Providence and National Worsted Mills, Limited, or imputing or suggesting that the plaintiffs had bribed, suborned, or conspired with the proprietor or editor of the Financial News or any other newspaper proprietor or any other person, or that they had been guilty of stealing, or any other dishonest conduct.

The defendant had about forty copies of the impression in stock which he desired to sell. It was his practice to reprint from time to time articles which had previously appeared in his newspaper. He refused to give an undertaking either not to sell the copies in hand or not to reprint the article in question. But there was in an affidavit made by him a paragraph to the effect that he did not intend to print, circulate, or sell any more copies.

His Lordship was of opinion that the statements in the article complained of were calculated to injure the plaintiffs in their business; that so far as the evidence now before the Court went, any jury would find that it was established that the statements were untrue in three material respects, and that the defendant Perryman could not be believed in respect of his affidavit that he did not intend to print, sell, or circulate the article.

Napier Higgins, Q.C., and Dunham, for the plaintiffs.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and E. Vernon, for the defendant Perryman.

Eve, for the defendant Allen.

NORTH, J., granted an injunction to restrain the defendant Perryman from selling, circulating, delivering, or communicating to any person any copy of the newspaper of the 7th of February, 1891, or of the article in question, or any copy of, or extract from, or any material part thereof, so far as it affected the plaintiffs. He said he could not grant an injunction in respect of future libels. With respect to the defendant Allen, he considered it unnecessary to grant an injunction because the injunction against the other defendant would sufficiently protect the plaintiffs. He directed the motion to stand till the trial as against him, and ordered the costs of the plaintiffs to be costs in the action against both defendants, and the costs of the defendant Allen to be costs in the action, and the defendant Perryman to pay his own costs of the motion.

TURNER v. MERSEY DOCKS AND HARBOUR BOARD.

Damage to Ship—Negligence of Dock Official—The County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868 s. 3—The County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Amendment Act, 1869, s. 4—Costs.

The plaintiff, owner of the screw steamer Zeta, brought an action against the Mersey Docks and Harbour Board, in the Probate, Divorce, and Admiralty Division (Admiralty) of the High Court of Justice, for injuries to his steamship by a collision with the wall of the pierhead on the east side of the entrance to the Nelson Dock, Liverpool. The vessel was at the time proceeding from the Stanley Dock into the Sandon Graving Docks, under the orders of the dock officials in the employment of the defendants.

The Court, on the advice of the Trinity Brethren, found that owing to the strong westerly wind blowing at the time the ship got out of position, and, on the ground that this would have been prevented if the defendants' servants had not negligently omitted to require a bow rope to be made fast to the entrance of the next dock before the vessel left the entrance to the Nelson Dock, the Court gave judgment in favour of the plaintiff. The amount claimed was 240*l.*

On the question of costs,

Barnes, Q.C., and Joseph Walton, for the plaintiff, contended that the action was properly brought in the High Court, an action in personam in respect of a collision with a dock wall not being within the meaning of the statutes conferring Admiralty jurisdiction on county courts, and the amount claimed was greatly in excess of the limit for a common law action for negligence in the county court.

*Carver, and A. Hyslop Maxwell, for the defendants, relied on the words of sect. 8 of the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868 (31 & 32 Vict. c. 71): "Any county court having Admiralty jurisdiction shall have jurisdiction to try the following causes . . . (8) as to any claim for damages . . . by collision . . . in which the amount claimed does not exceed three hundred pounds;" and sect. 4 of the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Amendment Act, 1869 (32 & 3 Vict. c. 51): "The third section of the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868, shall extend and apply to claims for damage to ships whether by collision or otherwise when the amount claimed does not exceed 300*l."

THE PRESIDENT held, that the action ought to have been brought in the county court of the district, as it fell within the words of the amending Act. He therefore refused to plaintiff the costs of the action.

THE HOUSE (Lord Halsbury L. C., the Earl of Selborne, and Lords Watson, Herschell, Macnaghten, and Morris, Lords Bramwell and Field dissenting) after consideration reversed the decisions of Charles J. (22 Q. B. D. 103) and of the Court of Appeal (23 Q. B. D. 243) and gave judgment for the appellants; Lord Herschell on the ground that the payees were "fictitious or non-existent persons" within the meaning of the Bills of Exchange Act 1882 s. 7 sub-s. 3, and that the bills might therefore be treated by the Bank as payable to bearer; the other noble and learned Lords for different reasons turning on the conduct of the parties.

Lords BRAMWELL and FIELD were of opinion that the judgments below should be affirmed, Lord Bramwell saying, "it was some comfort to him to think that the head-note of their opinion might be expressed in the most abstract form—viz. 'A banker cannot charge his customer with the amount of a bill paid to a person who had no right of action against the customer.' The head-note of the majority's opinion should be in a strictly concrete form, stating the facts and that on them it was held that judgment should be for the appellants."

COURT OF APPEAL.

FROM Q. B. D. BRANDON v. MOHENRY. March 2.
Bankruptcy—Annulment of Bankruptcy—Rejection of Proof by Trustee—Bankruptcy Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 71), s. 81.

Appeal from an order of the Queen's Bench Division (Wills and Wright, J.J.) setting aside execution issued upon a judgment dated July 15, 1885. The facts were so far as material in substance as follows:—

The respondent, the judgment debtor, in 1879 filed a liquidation petition under the Bankruptcy Act, 1869. Resolutions accepting a composition under sect. 126 of that act were subsequently passed by the creditors, and registered in 1883. Under those proceedings the appellant sent in a proof claiming 4084*l.* in respect of costs alleged to be due to him as a solicitor. The composition agreed upon was not paid. In 1885, a judgment was signed by the appellant against the respondent by consent for the amount of the claim for costs. In 1886 the Court adjudged the respondent bankrupt under the last clause of sect. 126 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869. The proofs sent in under the previous proceedings were transferred to the bankruptcy proceedings. The trustee in bankruptcy examined the appellant upon his proof and rejected it. The appellant gave notice of appeal to the Court against the decision of the trustee, but failed to prosecute such appeal. In February, 1890, the bankruptcy was annulled. The appellant then issued execution upon the judgment. An application by the respondent to set aside the judgment and execution was refused by the master. His decision was affirmed by the judge at chambers. On appeal to the Divisional Court, they refused to set aside the judgment, but set aside the execution.

Murphy, Q.C., Lumley Smith, Q.C., and Herbert Reed, for the appellant.

Sir E. Clarke, S.G., and W. Baugh Allen, for the respondent.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and Fry, L.J.) were of opinion that sect. 81 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, which provides that "whenever any adjudication in bankruptcy is annulled all sales and dispositions of property and payments duly made, and all acts theretofore done, by the trustee or by any person acting under his authority, or by the Court, shall be valid," was applicable to the rejection of the claim as being an act done by the trustee within the meaning of the section; that such rejection, therefore, remained valid; that, inasmuch as in bankruptcy proceedings the trustee and the Court of Bankruptcy could go behind the judgment, and consider whether there was any consideration for it, the rejection of the claim made in respect of the simple contract debt had the same effect as if the claim had been made in respect of the judgment debt and rejected, and therefore that the appellant could not proceed to enforce the judgment after the annulment of the bankruptcy. They therefore dismissed the appeal.

From Q. B. D. STODDON v. LEE. March 5.

Married Woman—Separate Property—Married Women's Property Act, 1882, s. 1.

Action against a widow to recover the balance due upon a covenant contained in a deed of charge dated the 20th of January, 1883.

The defendant was formerly the wife of C. L. Thorpe, and afterwards the wife of P. Lee.

On the 20th of November, 1875, a deed of separation between Mr. and Mrs. Thorpe was executed. By this deed Thorpe covenanted with the trustees of the deed that he would, during the joint lives of himself and his wife, pay to the trustees an annuity of 500*l.* And it was declared that the trustees should stand possessed of the annuity during the continuance thereof, upon trust to pay the same to the wife "for her separate use, without power of anticipation." There was a proviso that, in case the husband should at any time thereafter obtain a decree absolute for a divorce against the wife in respect of any circumstances occurring after the date of the deed, or in case the wife should at any time thereafter be proved to be leading a notoriously unchaste life, then and in either of such cases and thenceforth the annuity should absolutely cease and determine. Thorpe died on the 7th of October, 1877, having by his will bequeathed the sum of 5000*l.* to trustees, on trust to pay the income arising therefrom to his wife for her life. And he declared that she should not have power to alienate, charge, or anticipate the income of the legacy bequeathed for her benefit.

At the time of Thorpe's death a considerable arrear was due from him in respect of the annuity under the separation deed. In April, 1880, Mrs. Thorpe married Lee. On the 20th of January, 1883, an agreement was executed whereby, in consideration of advances to the amount of 1320*l.*, which had been made by Stogdon to Mrs. Lee, Lee, and Mrs. Lee, to the intent to bind her separate estate, jointly and severally covenanted with Stogdon to pay the sum of 1320*l.* with interest. And Lee and his wife, according to their several and respective interests therein, did thereby charge, in favour of Stogdon, as a security for the payment of the 1320*l.* and interest, (1) the income and arrears thereof owing from the 5000*l.* to which Mrs. Lee, or her husband in her right, was entitled under Thorpe's will; (2) the amount due from Thorpe's estate to Mrs. Lee, or her husband in her right, in respect of the annuity under the separation deed. This agreement was executed by Mrs. Lee alone; but it was afterwards confirmed by Lee by an agreement dated the 26th of April, 1883.

In August, 1883, Stogdon received out of Court, in an action to administer Thorpe's estate, the arrears due in respect of the annuity under the separation deed. In October, 1886, Lee died. In March, 1889, the present action was brought by Stogdon against Mrs. Lee, to recover the balance of the 1320*l.* and interest, after deducting what he had received in the administration action. The action was tried by Day, J., without a jury, and judgment was given for the plaintiff. The defendant appealed.

Cosens-Hardy, Q.C., and Aspland, Q.C., for the defendant.

Channell, Q.C., and Herbert Reed, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and Bowen and Fry, L.JJ.) reversed the decision and gave judgment for the defendant. They approved of the decision in Palliser v. Gurney (19 Q. B. D. 519), that, in order that a married woman should effectually charge her separate estate, she must have some separate estate at the date of the charge, though, if she has some separate estate at that time, the charge will affect after-acquired separate estate. Upon the construction of the separation deed their Lordships held that the separate use thereby created did not extend beyond the joint lives of the husband and wife. Consequently, after the death of Thorpe, the arrears of the annuity were not separate estate of Mrs. Thorpe. And, on the construction of the will, their Lordships held, on the authority of Baggett v. Meux (1 Coll. 138), that, there being no words expressly giving the income to Mrs. Thorpe for her separate use, the subsequent restriction upon alienation did not create a separate use by implication. Consequently, at the date of the charge in favour of the plaintiff, Mrs. Lee had no separate property, and the charge was inoperative so far as she was concerned, though it operated to charge Lee's interest in her right.

Practice—Costs—Higher Scale—Order for Costs on—Appeal—“Special grounds arising out of the nature and importance, or the difficulty or urgency of the case.”

Appeal from order of Stephen, J., at the trial.

The action was for a fraudulent representation alleged to have been made by the vendor on the sale of the goodwill of a public-house. The trial lasted several days, and a great number of witnesses were called. The jury found a verdict for the defendant, and the learned judge made an order giving him costs on the higher scale, under Order LXV., r. 9. That rule provides that “the fees set forth in the column headed ‘higher scale’ in Appendix N may be allowed . . . if, on special grounds arising out of the nature and importance, or the difficulty or urgency of the case, the Court or a judge shall . . . so order.”

The plaintiff appealed against the order.

Crispe, and Minton Senhouse, for the plaintiff.

Jelf, Q.C., and H. E. Duke, for the defendant.

Cur. adv. vult.

March 9. THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., Bowen, L.J., and Fry, L.J.) gave judgment, allowing the appeal on the following grounds. By the terms of the rule, in order that the judge may have jurisdiction to make the order, there must be special grounds arising out of the nature and importance, or the difficulty or urgency of the case. Therefore an appeal will lie, if no circumstances which could constitute such special grounds existed; but, if such circumstances did exist, the Court cannot interfere, because they would not have exercised their discretion in the same way as the judge has done. In the present case the Court saw no facts that could possibly constitute special grounds within the meaning of the rule.

Appeal allowed.

In re GOVERNMENTS STOCK INVESTMENT COMPANY, LIMITED.

Company—Alteration of Memorandum—Objects—Main Purpose—The Companies (Memorandum of Association) Act, 1890, s. 1, (5), (a), (b).

The memorandum of association of the above-named company stated that its objects were—(2) To invest the money received from payments on shares, in the stocks or obligations of British, Foreign, or Colonial Governments, States, provinces, or municipalities, or of railways or other public undertakings guaranteed by any British, Foreign, or Colonial Government, State, province, or municipality. The company passed a special resolution to alter the memorandum by extending clause (2) so as to have power to invest in or upon mortgages, debentures, stocks, and shares of any corporation, company, or undertaking at home or abroad, or in or upon the stocks of any trust or investment company or corporation, and now presented a petition under the Companies (Memorandum of Association) Act, 1890, for the confirmation by the Court of this special resolution.

Farwell, Q.C., and A. D. Maclaren, for the company.

R. B. Yardley, for certain debenture-holders, opposed, on the ground that the proposed alteration would entirely change the original character of the company, and alter the conditions upon which the debenture-holders had advanced their money.

CHITTY, J., said, the act of 1890 was not one in general terms for enabling companies to alter their memorandum of association, nor one conferring a general power on the Court to alter them; but the alteration to be authorized must be confined to those objects which were carefully specified in sect. 1, sub-sect. 5. In exercising its discretionary power, the Court had to regard the rights and interests of the members of the company as well as of the creditors, and must first of all be satisfied that the proposed alteration fell within the exact terms of sect. 1, sub-sect. 5. The “main purpose” of this company, taking the words of sub-sect. (b), which had been used designedly, was to invest its money in Government securities, using the word Government in its wide sense, as defined by the memorandum of association (2), and the proposed alteration was not an "improved means" of attaining this main purpose, neither was it within sub-sect. (a), and it was admittedly not within the other sub-sects.; therefore it was not within sect. 1, sub-sect. 5, at all. But even if it had fallen within the section, his Lordship considered that the proposed alteration ought not be sanctioned, because the debenture-holders had advanced their money on the faith of this being a Government investment company, and they were entitled to say that the company should not be turned, against their will, into an omnia investment company; therefore, it would be his duty to refuse to confirm this special resolution, not merely at the instance of the debenture-holders who appeared and opposed, but on behalf of those who did not appear, and who presumably had left the matter, as was often done, to the care of the Court. Some of the shareholders in like manner might also have left this matter to the Court. His Lordship, therefore, dismissed the petition with costs.

Company—Winding-up—Voluntary Winding-up under Supervision—Restrictions imposed on Liquidator—Committee of Inspection—Form of Order—Companies Act, 1862, s. 151.

The above-named company carried on the business of warehousemen in London and Melbourne. The company was in difficulties, and at a meeting of some of the principal creditors a voluntary winding-up was resolved upon, a voluntary liquidator appointed, and a committee of five of the creditors was also appointed to act as a quasi committee of inspection to assist and control the liquidator. Subsequently a creditor presented a petition asking for a compulsory winding-up by the Court.

Byrne, Q.C., and Eve, for the petitioner.

Furwell, Q.C., and C. E. Jenkins, for the creditors amounting to 41,000*l.*, asked to have the voluntary winding-up continued under the supervision of the Court, with a committee of inspection analogous to that furnished by the Companies (Winding-up Act) 1890, sect. 6, to assist and control the liquidator, and asked that the five persons already appointed, and for whom he also appeared, might be the committee of inspection.

Alexander, for debenture-holders, supported this application.

Oswald, for other creditors, and Ribton, for foreign creditors, supported the petition, but opposed the winding-up under supervision as proposed.

Micklem, for the company.

CURRY, J., considered that the wishes of the large majority of creditors ought to be attended to; that though he had no jurisdiction to appoint a committee of inspection, and had no intention of doing so, yet that he had power under the Companies Act, 1862, sect. 151, to impose restrictions on the exercise of the powers given to the voluntary liquidator: the restrictions proposed on behalf of the majority were useful and reasonable. His Lordship, therefore, made an order continuing the voluntary winding-up under supervision, the material parts of which were as follows:—

And the persons hereinafter named by their counsel consenting to act in manner hereinafter mentioned and without remuneration, Direct that the liquidator appointed to conduct such winding-up may exercise all the powers conferred upon him by the above statutes without the sanction or intervention of the Court, in the same manner as if the company were being wound up altogether voluntary, subject, until further order, to the restrictions hereinafter imposed, viz.:

(a) The liquidator shall not without the sanction of a majority of the following persons [here followed the five names], being the persons nominated by the creditors of the company to act as a committee, or of the Court, carry on the business of the company, or bring or defend any legal proceedings, or exercise any of the powers conferred by sects. 159 or 160 of the Companies Act, 1862;

(b) The liquidator shall not, without the sanction of a majority of the aforesaid persons, or of the Court, sell or enter into any contract for the sale of the company's business;

(c) The liquidator, except in cases of urgency, shall not, without the sanction of a majority of the aforesaid persons, or of the Court, employ a solicitor or other agent to take any proceedings or do any business which the liquidator is unable to take or do himself;

The liquidator to be at liberty to pay out of the assets of the company the actual out-of-pocket expenses necessarily incurred by the aforesaid persons acting as aforesaid, subject to the approval of the Judge in Chambers. Liberty to apply in Chambers in the event of any of the aforesaid persons dying or retiring.

Charity—Endowed School—Dismissal of Schoolmaster—Action for Injunction—Consent of Charity Commissioners—Charitable Trusts Act, 1853 (16 & 17 Vict. c. 137), s. 17.

The plaintiff was the master of an endowed school; the defendants were two of the trustees or managers. The defendants had given the plaintiff notice dismissing him from his office, on the alleged ground that the school had not been conducted by him for the benefit of the school and its scholars, and that he had been negligent of his duties. No meeting of the three trustees had been summoned to consider the question of the plaintiff's dismissal, and no opportunity had been afforded to him of being heard in answer to the charges made against him. There was nothing to shew that the third trustee had been consulted. By this action the plaintiff claimed an injunction to restrain the defendants from removing, or purporting to remove, him from his office until after the holding of a meeting of the three trustees, and until he should have had an opportunity of being heard at such meeting in reply to any charges made against him in respect of his conduct in his office. The consent of the Charity Commissioners to the bringing of the action had not been applied for. The plaintiff now moved for an interlocutory injunction.

E. Outler, Q.C., and H. Lynn, for the motion.

Coxens-Hardy, Q.C., and J. F. Popham, for the defendants, objected that the consent of the Charity Commissioners ought to have been obtained.

NORTH, J., was of opinion that Rendall v. Blair (45 Ch. Div. 189) shewed that it was not necessary to obtain the consent of the Charity Commissioners to the obtaining of such relief. There the question was, whether the persons who had given a notice of dismissal to the plaintiff had been duly appointed to the office in virtue of which they purported to be acting; in the present case the question was, whether the defendants, assuming that they had good cause for dismissing the plaintiff, could do so without first giving him an opportunity of being heard in his defence. It was contrary to the elementary principles of justice that a person accused should not have an opportunity of explaining his conduct before sentence was pronounced against him. His Lordship expressed no opinion as to the merits of the case. He granted the injunction until the trial of the action or further order.

Solicitor—Costs—Taxation—Common Order to Tax—Suppression of Material Facts—6 & 7 Vict. c. 73, s. 37.

Motion by a solicitor to discharge a common order for the taxation of his bill of costs.

On the 27th of June, 1890, the client commenced an action against the solicitor in the Queen's Bench Division, claiming 75*l.*, money received by the solicitor for his use. On the 12th of July the solicitor delivered his defence, by which he claimed to set off against the client's demand professional charges to the amount of 90*l.*, and some other sums for which he said he had become liable for the client. On the 1st of July the solicitor had delivered his bill to the client. On the 1st of October the client obtained ex parte in the Chancery Division the common order for the taxation of the bill. The order was not served on the solicitor till the 29th of October, and no proceedings were taken under it. On his application for the order, the client did not state the existence of the action. On the 11th of February, 1891, the client obtained ex parte a second common order for the taxation of the bill. On his application for this order, the client did not state either the existence of the action, or the first common order to tax. The solicitor moved to discharge the second order for taxation as irregular.

Oswald, for the solicitor, argued (1) that, after obtaining and serving one common ex parte order to tax the bill, the client was not entitled under sect. 37 of the Solicitors Act of 1843 to obtain another order of course; that in not stating the action or the first order to tax the client had suppressed material facts; and that the application for taxation ought to have been made in the Queen's Bench Division.

Foa, for the client.

NORTH, J., thought the argument was well founded, that a person was not entitled, after having obtained a common order to tax a solicitor's bill, to obtain another common order to tax the same bill, suppressing the fact that he had obtained the first. If he could do this, he might, by obtaining [twelve successive orders, prevent the solicitor for twelve succeeding months from taking any proceedings to recover his bill. Again, in not stating the existence of the action or the first order to tax, the client had suppressed material facts. In the action the solicitor claimed a right of set-off, and the order to tax provided for payment by the solicitor of what he certified to be due from him. His Lordship thought that the order was improperly obtained. No doubt, as a general rule, an order which had been irregularly obtained ought to be discharged. But it would be for the convenience of the parties, and would save expense, to leave the order standing so far as it directed taxation and the certifying of the amount due, and to omit the latter part which directed payment of the amount certified. In doing this he should be following the course adopted by the Court of Appeal in In re Thompson (30 Ch. Div. 441). The solicitor was entitled to the costs of the motion to discharge the order, and the master would be directed to tax those costs and certify the amount separately. The question of the payment of that amount and of the amount certified under the order of the 11th of February, would be left to be dealt with by the judge of the Queen's Bench Division in the action.

Local Board—Sewer—Drain connecting Premises with District Sewer—Absence of Notice by Owner of Intention to connect—Notice by Board to close Communication—Injunction—Public Health Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 55), ss. 15, 17, 21, & 257.

The plaintiffs were mill-owners in Yorkshire, and the defendants were the local board for the district.

In 1883, the plaintiffs had constructed on their premises certain water-closets which they connected by a drain with a sewer under the control of the defendants. This sewer had originally been an open watercourse, and it discharged into a natural stream. Proceedings having been commenced by an owner of property upon the stream to restrain the defendants and the plaintiffs from allowing sewage to flow into that stream, the defendants gave the plaintiffs notice, under sect. 21 of the Public Health Act, 1875, to disconnect their drain from the sewer, on the ground that the plaintiffs had never given the board any notice of their intention to cause their drain to empty into the sewer. The only bye-law relating to the matter was No. 16, which only applied to new buildings.

The plaintiffs moved for an injunction to restrain the defendants from disconnecting the drain, and contended that no notice was required by the defendants' bye-laws, and that the defendants had acquiesced in a state of affairs which had existed since 1883.

Hastings, Q.C., and Bardswell, for the plaintiffs.

Cyril Dodd, Q.C., and Swinfen Eady, for the defendants.

STIRLING, J., held, upon the construction of ss. 15, 17, & 21 of the Act of 1875, that the right conferred upon the plaintiffs by s. 21, was to drain into the existing sewers of the board, and that it was for the board to see that their sewers did not convey sewage or filthy water into any watercourse until it had been freed from all noxious matter. There was nothing in the bye-laws of the board requiring the plaintiffs to give notice of their intention to connect their drain with the sewer, and therefore they had not acted in contravention of sect. 21, and the injunction asked for must be granted.

Motion.

This was an application by the plaintiffs, on behalf of themselves and all other the holders of mortgage debentures of the defendant company, asking for the appointment of a receiver and manager of the property and business of the company. The debentures, which were issued in June, 1888, constituted an equitable charge upon the undertaking of the company, and provided that the principal moneys secured thereby should immediately become payable—(a) "If any interest due on this debenture shall be in arrear and unpaid for two calendar months after such interest shall have become payable." The half-year's interest, payable on the 1st of February, 1891, not having been paid, this action was commenced, and the plaintiffs now moved for the appointment of a receiver.

Hastings, Q.C., and Bissill, for the plaintiffs.

J. G. Butcher, for the company, contended that, the interest not being two months in arrear, the principal was not yet payable. The mere fact of interest being in arrear did not give the plaintiffs the right to have a receiver appointed.

STIRLING, J., held, that the order for a receiver ought to go. The interest on the debentures was in arrear, and the company could not say when they would be in a position to pay it. In the case of an ordinary legal mortgage, if interest was in arrear the mortgagee could take possession; but in the case of an equitable charge like the present, the only remedy the debenture-holder had was the appointment of a receiver.

Practice—Examination of Witness before Examiner—Correction of Transcript of Shorthand Notes—Application to take Transcript off File.

Motion by plaintiffs, owners of the steamship Drumhendry, in an action of damage by collision, for an order to direct that the transcript of the evidence of a witness on behalf of the defendants (the owners of the Knutsford) examined before one of the examiners of the Court, should be taken off the file and returned to the examiner for amendment, so as to make it correspond to the evidence given by the witness.

In pursuance of an order dated the 12th of February, 1891, the defendants produced four of their witnesses for examination before one of the examiners appointed to the Admiralty Division. The defendants' solicitors requested the examiner to obtain a shorthand writer, and, with their approval, one was engaged to attend and take a shorthand note of the evidence of the witnesses.

On the completion of the examination, the transcript of the evidence was furnished to the examiner by the shorthand writer, and the transcript was, in the usual way, without the perusal of the examiner, filed with the following certificate of the shorthand writer, and return of the examiner:—

"I, Thomas Sanders, shorthand writer, certify that I attended and took notes of the examination of (four witnesses named), and that the foregoing is an accurate transcript of the same."

"I, Richard Stephens Jackson, examiner, hereby certify as follows:—On the 14th day of February, 1891, previously to the examination of the witnesses herein for the defendants, it was agreed between Mr. Butler Aspinall, counsel for the plaintiffs, and Dr. Raikes, counsel for the defendants, that the evidence should be taken by a shorthand writer, and that the reading over and signing by the witnesses of their depositions should be dispensed with. I, then having by consent of the said parties first duly sworn Thomas Sanders, shorthand writer, faithfully and correctly to take down and transcribe the evidence to be given before me in the action, I, in the presence of the aforesaid counsel, administered the usual oath of a witness to and caused to be examined the following witnesses who were produced before me on behalf of the defendants to give evidence in this action namely (names of four witnesses)."

The solicitors of the plaintiffs subsequently called the attention of the examiner to the fact that the evidence of Robert Williams, a witness, as filed and printed by the defendants' solicitors, did not contain a statement made by that witness upon cross-examination by the plaintiffs' counsel, and omitted a portion of the re-examination by the defendants' counsel. The examiner thereupon sent for the shorthand writer, and for the original notes of the evidence, and in the presence of the solicitors for the plaintiffs and the defendants, requested the shorthand writer to read from the notes. The examiner then found that the transcript of the notes was both incorrect and incomplete.

Butler Aspinall, for the plaintiffs:—The mode adopted for the examination of the witness whose evidence is now in question is in accordance with the established Admiralty practice existing before the Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883. As it is a convenient and expeditious mode of having the evidence taken down, it has continued to be the practice, and the transcript is admitted to prove the oral evidence of the witnesses; but after the transcript of the shorthand writer's notes has been certified by the shorthand writer as correct, and returned by the examiner into the registry, there would seem to be no means of getting it off the file in order to correct it without an application to the Court.

Dr. Raikes, for the defendants:—Directly it was ascertained that there were errors in transcribing the shorthand notes, the defendants consented to the transcript being taken off the file, and handed back to the examiner for correction. The present motion is therefore unnecessary, and the defendants ought not to be subjected to any costs in the matter.

THE PRESIDENT made the order in the terms of the motion. Costs reserved.

THE BOILER ex ELEPHANT.

March 3.

Salvage—Derelict Boiler—Amount of Award—Costs.

Motion by plaintiffs for judgment, in a default action in rem for salvage, against the owners of the boiler supposed to have been part of the cargo lately laden on board the screw steamer Elephant.

In February, 1884, the firm of Mandalay, Sons, & Field shipped in London for Portsmouth on board the steamship Elephant, together with other machinery, two large steel boilers, built by them under a contract with the Government for H.M.S. Impérieuse.

The Elephant passed Folkestone, and has never since been heard of.

On the 19th of October, 1886, one of the plaintiffs observed a dark object floating on the sea in a north-easterly direction about three miles off Eastbourne in Sussex. This proved to be a large steel marine boiler 16 ft. 8 in. long, and 29 ft. in circumference. The five plaintiffs in the action succeeded with difficulty, after eight hours' labour, in towing the boiler ashore, and subsequently, with the aid of men and horses, it was hauled up the beach.

The firm of engineers, and the underwriters on the cargo of the Elephant, were communicated with; but as the loss of the machinery had been the subject of litigation between them, and the action had been compromised, neither of these parties would interfere, and the Government had no interest in the boiler as Maudslay & Sons had supplied other machinery to H.M.S. Impérieuse in lieu of that lost in the Elephant.

On the 23rd of July, 1890, the present action was commenced, and the boiler, having been duly served with a writ and arrested, was sold under an order of the Court by the marshal for 85*l.* less 26*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.* expenses.

Living, in support of the motion:—The proceeds in Court amount to 58*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.*, and the plaintiffs, who are fishermen, ask for salvage remuneration on a liberal scale, on the ground that the salvage was meritorious in removing a dangerous obstruction to navigation, and that they were employed some time in the service, with consequent loss of fishing. They have also incurred 10*l.* expenses for men and horses on shore. Under the peculiar circumstances in which this boiler has become derelict, the Court will not be guided by the usual proportion observed between the value and the amount of the award, as, in the present case, such an amount would not be an adequate remuneration.

The plaintiffs also ask for a certificate for costs on the High Court scale, on the ground that at the time of the institution of the action the value of the boiler was believed to be large and though it has since turned out to be small, the cost of proceeding by motion for judgment in the High Court, supported by affidavit, is less than proceeding by default action in the county court, which would have involved the attendance of witnesses at Brighton.

The sale of the boiler at Lloyd's by the marshal actually produced a larger sum than would have been realised if the bailiff of the county court had attempted to dispose of it locally.

THE PRESIDENT awarded 50*l.* as salvage, with certificate for costs on the High Court scale, and made an order for payment of the money out of Court.

 LOWE v. COOKE.

Will—Construction—"Children then living."

A testator who died in 1865 devised his real estate to his wife during widowhood, with remainder to trustees "in trust for all my said children, F., M., A., H., and L., in equal shares, during their lives, and on the death of each of my said children in trust as to one equal undivided fifth part of my said real estate for all the children such child may have who shall live to attain twenty-one years or marry in equal shares. And if any one or more of my said children shall die without leaving a child who shall attain twenty-one years or marry, then in trust as to his, her, or their share or shares of my said real estate for all my other children then living, during their lives equally, and after their respective deaths for their respective children and the heirs of such last-mentioned children, such last-mentioned children taking respectively the share or shares his, her, or their parent or parents would have taken if living."

F. died in 1866, leaving a daughter who attained twenty-one. H. died in 1871, leaving children who attained twenty-one. A. died in 1886, leaving children who attained twenty-one. M. died without issue in 1889. L. is living.

The testator's widow died in July, 1889, without having married again.

Inquiries having been directed in a partition action as to the interests of the parties, the chief clerk found the daughter of F. entitled to one-fourth, the children of A. to one-fourth, the children of H. to one-fourth, and L. to one-fourth for life with remainder to her children.

L. and her children applied to vary this finding, on the ground that L. was the only child of the testator living when M.'s share went over. Stirling, J., being pressed by Benn v. Benn (29 Ch. Div. 839), held that M.'s share went over to L. and her children, for that the gift over was only to children then living and their children. The plaintiffs, viz., the daughter of F. and one of the children of H., appealed.

Hastings, Q.C., and Stewart Smith, for the appeal.

Farwell, Q.C., and Warrington, for the respondents.

THE COURT (Lindley, Bowen, and Kay, L.J.J.), said they had not often to differ from Stirling, J.; but in this case they could not agree with him; that the will was reasonably plain, and only became obscure if you first looked at Benn v. Benn and other cases. Benn v. Benn had no bearing on the present case because it did not contain such words as those on which the present case turned, "which his, her, or their parent or parents would have taken if living." Unless those words were modified it was impossible to arrive at the construction adopted by Stirling, J., and he would not have arrived at it had he not been embarrassed by Benn v. Benn. The true way to construe a will was to form an opinion apart from the cases, and then see whether the cases required a modification of that opinion; not to begin by considering how far it resembled the wills on which decisions had been given. The finding of the chief clerk was therefore restored.

Appeal of the defendant from the decision (noted, ante, p. 40) of a Divisional Court (Wills and Vaughan Williams, J.J.) ordering a taxation of the plaintiffs' costs in an action for infringement of their dramatic copyright, in which action they had recovered four penalties of 40s. each.

Banckes, for the defendant.

Henn Collins, Q.C., and Morton Smith, for the plaintiffs, were not called upon to argue.

During the argument on behalf of the defendant, the plaintiffs' counsel drew the attention of the Court to the case of Hasker v. Wood (54 L. J. (Q. B.) 419), which was not cited in the Divisional Court, and in which it was held by the Court of Appeal that the Judicature Act and Rules did not overrule the provisions of special statutes granting special costs in particular cases.

THE COURT (Lord Halsbury, L.C., Lord Esher, M.B., and Fry, L.J.) said that, without going into the distinction between indemnity and costs, and assuming such a distinction to exist, the case of Hasker v. Wood was directly in point, and the plaintiffs were entitled to the taxation for which they asked.

Married Woman—Equity to a Settlement—Amount to be settled—Special Circumstances.

This was an appeal from a decision of Kekewich, J. (ante, p. 15), ordering the whole of a sum of 500*l.*, which had devolved on a married woman under a will upon the death of a tenant for life, to be settled on her. While the property was reversionary, the married woman and her husband had joined in executing a deed assigning it to a purchaser for valuable consideration. All parties appear to have supposed that the assignment came within Malins' Act (20 & 21 Vict. c. 57), and that if the wife acknowledged the deed under that Act her interest would be absolutely bound. She accordingly acknowledged the deed, after having been separately examined by a commissioner. But in consequence of the will by which the fund was given having been executed before the commencement of the Act, the assignment, so far as the woman was concerned, was inoperative. A summons was taken out by the representatives of the assignee, claiming the fund, and the wife asked that it should be settled on her and her children. Kekewich, J., having regard to the circumstances of the husband and wife, who were very poor, settled the whole of the fund. The applicants appealed.

Warmington, Q.C., and Tucker, for the appellants, said they would be satisfied if half the fund was given up to them, and the remainder settled.

R. Dickinson, for the wife.

LEADLEY, L.J., said, that although the deed of assignment was repugnant against the wife, the Court could not entirely disregard the fact that the wife had, in solemn form and in such a way that she and all other parties intended that she should be bound, given up all her rights in the fund. Those that come into a Court of Equity ought to come with clean hands, and, having regard to all the circumstances, it would be contrary to the principles of Equity to allow her to have the whole fund. The applicants had consented that half should be settled, and that allowed the Court from the necessity of considering whether or what proportion should be settled. The order would be that half should be settled, and it should be done in this form: that 25*l.* a year should be paid to her out of income and capital during her life, and on her death the remainder to go to her children who should survive her; and if no children, then to the representatives of the assignee.

BOWEN and KAY, L.J.J., gave judgment to the same effect.

FORD v. NUTHALL.

Bankruptcy—Receiving Order—Subsequent Order on Judgment Summons—Debtors Act, 1869, s. 5—Bankruptcy Act, 1883, s. 9—Bankruptcy Rules, 1886, r. 361—County Court Rules, 1889, Order XXV., r. 29.

Appeal by W. F. Nuthall against an order, made by Cave, J., upon a judgment summons, that Nuthall should pay the amount remaining due on a judgment against him by monthly instalments of 10*l.*

On the 17th of July, 1888, D. M. Ford recovered judgment, in an action in the Queen's Bench Division against Nuthall for fraudulent misrepresentations in the prospectus of a company, for 148*l.* On the 5th of January, 1891, a receiving order in bankruptcy was made against Nuthall on his own petition. On the 14th of February, 1891, Cave, J., upon a judgment summons, issued by Ford in December, 1890, made an order that Ford should be at liberty to continue the proceedings on the summons, notwithstanding the receiving order. And it was further ordered that the defendant should pay the amount still due on the judgment by monthly instalments of 10*l.*, commencing on the 14th of March, 1891. From this order Nuthall appealed.

Rule 361 of the Bankruptcy Rules, 1886, provides that "the County Court Rules for the time being in force as to the committal of judgment debtors shall, with any necessary modifications, apply to all Courts exercising jurisdiction under sect. 5 of the Debtors Act, 1869, provided that any reference therein to the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, shall be deemed to extend also to the corresponding provisions of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883."

By rule 29 of Order xxv. of the County Court Rules, 1889, "where a judgment debtor shall upon the return day of a judgment summons satisfy the judge that a receiving order has been made for the protection of his estate, or that he has been adjudicated bankrupt, and that the debt was provable in the bankruptcy . . . or that an order has been made for the administration of his estate under sect. 122 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, no order of commitment shall be made, except in accordance with the provisions of the last-mentioned section," i.e., in case of default by the debtor in payment of any instalment of a debt payable in pursuance of any order under sect. 122.

The attention of Cave, J., was not called to these rules.

Muir Mackenzie, for the debtor.

Herbert Reed, for the judgment creditor.

THE COURT (Lord Halsbury, L.C., Lord Esher, M.B., and Fry, L.J.), allowed the appeal.

LORD HALSBURY, L.C., said that the case was concluded by rule 29. It was within the express words of the rule, and that was sufficient for the decision. It was a pity that the rule was not brought to the attention of Cave, J.

LORD ESHER, M.R., and FAY, L.J., concurred.

From Ch. Div. INDIGO COMPANY v. OGILVY. March 18.

Practice—Service out of the Jurisdiction—Amendment—New Cause of Action—Partnership Firm.

This was an appeal from a decision of North, J. (ante, p. 29).

The plaintiffs were an English company who owned a patent for manufacturing indigo in India. They had transactions with an Indian firm who shipped indigo to England. The defendants were an English firm who were the English correspondents of the Indian firm. The English firm consisted of five persons, who were all members also of the Indian firm; but there was one member of the Indian firm who did not belong to the English firm. The action was brought concerning certain consignments of indigo in the possession of the defendants, which the plaintiffs claimed, and the indorsement on the writ was for (1) a declaration that the plaintiffs were entitled to the indigo; (2) delivery of the goods or the proceeds thereof; (3) an injunction to restrain the defendants from selling the goods; (4) damages for wrongful conversion.

The plaintiffs obtained from North, J., ex parte, an order to amend the writ by making the Indian firm co-defendants, and to make such amendments in the indorsement of the writ as might be necessary in consequence of the joinder of the new parties; and they also obtained leave to issue a concurrent writ for service on the members of the Indian firm out of the jurisdiction. The plaintiffs then amended their writ as proposed, and amended the indorsement by adding a claim against the Indian firm for 5000*l.*, for money had and received for the use of the plaintiffs, and for damages in respect of the breach of certain agreements of May, 1887, and May, 1888, by the Indian firm.

The Indian firm having been served with the writ, moved to discharge the order which gave leave to the plaintiffs to make them co-defendants; and North, J., being of opinion that the Indian firm could not be sued in the present action in this country in respect of their breaches of agreement in India, set aside the order. The plaintiffs appealed.

Napier Higgins, Q.C., and W. S. Robson, for the appellants.

Covens-Hardy, Q.C., and Cababé, for the defendants.

The Court (Lindley and Kay, L.J.J.) agreed with North, J., that the order to amend the writ must be discharged, and dismissed the appeal with costs; but they made a fresh order, giving leave to the plaintiffs to amend their original writ by substituting for the name of the English firm the names of the members of that firm and of the Indian firm who were in this country, and to amend the indorsement by adding a claim for relief in respect of alleged breaches of the agreements of May, 1887, and May, 1888; and the members of the above firms who resided abroad and who had appeared to the original writ, were to be at liberty to set aside their appearances. And the order was to be without prejudice to any application by the plaintiffs to add as parties all or any of the co-partners of the said defendants who were not resident in this country, and to serve them with the amended writ or a concurrent writ.

CORPORATION OF WOLVERHAMPTON v. BILSTON COMMISSIONERS.
Public Health Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 55), ss. 4, 51, 52—"Water Company"—"Water Supply"—"Own Profit."

This was an appeal by the Bilston Commissioners from a decision of North, J. ([1891] 1 Ch. 315).

Moulton, Q.C., and Upjohn, for the appeal.

Covens-Hardy, Q.C., Underhill, and Ernest Moon, for the respondents.

The Court (Lindley, Bowen, and Kay, L.J.J.), directed the argument in the first place to be confined to the question: whether under the agreement of the 16th of May, 1866, ratified and made perpetual by the Wolverhampton Waterworks Transfer Act, the appellants were bound to take from the plaintiffs all the water required for their district, and decided (Kay, L.J., dissenting) that they were. The question as to the Public Health Act, 1875, was not argued, and a declaration relating to it was, by arrangement, struck out of the decree without prejudice to the appellants raising it again. The appellants were ordered to pay the costs of the appeal.

SPENCE v. DODSWORTH.

Practice—Affidavit—Description of Deponent as a "Gentleman"—Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order XXXVIII, rr. 8, 14.

In a joint affidavit made in this action by two trustees, for the purpose of proving the balance due to them on a mortgage one of the deponents, a solicitor, was only described as "gentleman." The central office, relying on the decision in In re Orde (24 Ch. Div. 271) refused to file the affidavit, on the ground that the description of one of the deponents as a "gentleman" was insufficient.

Kenyon Parker, applied that the affidavit might be received notwithstanding the alleged misdescription.

CHITTY, J., said he would allow the affidavit to be filed, and observed that he did not read the case of In re Orde as decided that an affidavit in which a deponent was described simply "gentleman" ought not to be filed at all, but only that, and the Court had to consider the question of the fitness of a proposed trustee, the value and weight of the deponent's evidence ought to be supported by some further and better description than the somewhat vague term of "gentleman."

WITHERBY v. RACKHAM.

Vendor and Purchaser—Married Woman—Reversionary Interest—Chose in Action—Policy of Insurance—Assignment—20 & 21 Vict. c. 57.

In 1863, G., then a widow, effected an insurance on her life for 2000*l.*, the policy providing that the money should be payable to her executors, administrators, and assigns three months after proof of her death.

In 1873, G. married again. In March, 1874, G., with the concurrence of her husband, by deed duly acknowledged, purported to assign her reversionary interest in the said policy for 2000*l.* to Rackham absolutely. Rackham's estate was subsequently sold by the direction of the Court, and the purchaser of the policy now applied to be relieved of his contract on the ground that the deed of March, 1874, was not an assignment within the provisions of 20 & 21 Vict. c. 57, and was ineffectual to pass such a chose in action as a policy of assurance effected in a married woman's own name.

Furwell, Q.C., for the purchaser, referred to Wolstenholme and Turner on the Conveyancing and Settled Land Acts, 5th Ed. p. 185.

Byrne, Q.C., and Martelli, for the respondent.

CURRY, J., considered that the words, "any personal estate whatsoever," in the Act 20 & 21 Vict. c. 57, were wide enough to include, and did include, a legal chose in action such as a policy of insurance effected in a married woman's own name, and were not to be confined to such equitable chooses in action as a legacy or other money or securities held in trust for her. In his Lordship's opinion there was no foundation for the doubt expressed by the learned author on this point, to which he had been referred. The purchaser's objections therefore failed, and the summons must be dismissed.

IN RE COX AND NEVE'S CONTRACT.

March 19.

Vendor and Purchaser—Objections to Title—Condition limiting length of Title—Objection to anterior Title discovered by Purchaser before completion—Delay in giving Notice to Vendor.

Summons under the Vendor and Purchaser act, 1874, by a purchaser of real estate, asking for a declaration that his requisitions and objections in respect of the title to the property had not been satisfactorily answered by the vendor, and that a good title to the property had not been shewn in accordance with the particulars and conditions of sale.

The purchaser bought the property at a sale by auction on the 11th of June, 1890. The particulars described the property as "freehold." One of the conditions of sale provided that the title should commence with a mortgage dated the 29th of July, 1852. By another condition, the purchaser was, within fourteen days after the delivery of the abstract, to send to the vendor's solicitors all his objections and requisitions as to the title, and subject thereto the title was to be deemed accepted. An answer to any requisition or objection was to be replied to within ten days after the delivery thereof, and, if not so replied to, was to be considered satisfactory, and time was to be deemed as of the essence of the condition. An abstract of title, commencing with the mortgage of the 29th of July, 1852, was delivered to the purchaser on the 24th of June. On the 8th of July, the purchaser sent various objections and requisitions to the vendor's solicitors. He was not satisfied with the vendor's replies. On the 23rd of July he delivered further requisitions, and on the 9th of August he issued the summons. In the course of inquiries which, in reference to a right of way to which one of the objections related, the vendor made of the owner of some adjoining property, he discovered that the vendor derived title to a part of the property under a deed of exchange, dated the 3rd of March, 1847, between the owner of the adjoining property and the vendor's predecessor, and that this deed contained a covenant by the vendor's predecessor, restricting the right of himself, his heirs and assigns, and any person claiming through him, or them, or any of them, as to the erection of buildings upon the property thereby conveyed to him in exchange. The purchaser (as the Court held) must be taken to have acquired notice of this covenant not later than the 23rd of July. He did not in his further requisitions, delivered on that day, refer in any way to the restrictive covenant, and the first notice which he gave to the vendor of any objection on that score was by an affidavit in support of his summons which he filed on the 16th of October. In that affidavit he stated the restrictive covenant as an objection to the title, and said that, if he had known of the existence of the covenant at the time of sending his requisitions on the title, he should have required the vendor to procure a release of it.

Everitt, Q.C., and Gaselee, for the purchaser, contended that the restrictive covenant was a fatal objection to the title.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and Hadley, for the vendor, argued that the purchaser would not have been bound by the restrictive covenant if he had not acquired notice of it before he completed his purchase, and, as he acquired that notice by means of his own inquiries, he could not make use of it as against the vendor. Moreover, the objection was taken too late. The covenant affected a comparatively unimportant part of the property, and the purchaser was only entitled to compensation.

NORTH, J., held that the covenant affected a material part of the property, and that its existence was a fatal objection to the title. He thought that the purchaser, because he had chosen to accept less than a forty years' title, would have had constructive notice of the covenant, even if he had not acquired actual notice, and would have been bound by it. If a proper forty years' title had been deduced the covenant would have been disclosed. His Lordship held, that the objection was not taken too late. The parties were already at arm's length, and the vendor had not been in any way misled by the purchaser. His Lordship made a declaration as asked by the summons, and ordered the vendor to return the deposit and to pay the purchaser's costs of investigating the title and his costs of the application.

WESTMORELAND GREEN AND BLUE SLATE COMPANY v. FEILDEN.

Company—Winding-up—Contributory—Balance Order—Action to Enforce—Action for Debt in respect of Calls—Calls made before Winding-up—Right of Action.

The defendant had been settled upon the list of contributories in the winding-up of the plaintiff company in respect of 200 shares, and a balance order was made, in the presence of his solicitors, for payment of the amount due on the allotment of the shares, and for calls made on the shares by the directors before the winding-up. The defendant being out of the jurisdiction, the balance order could not be served upon him. The company then issued and obtained leave to serve out of the jurisdiction the writ in this action claiming payment by him of the amount due on allotment, and also for the calls, the total claimed being the same sum as that stated in the balance order, plus further interest. The question was whether the company could maintain the action, having regard to the decision of North, J., in Chalk, Webb & Co. v. Tennent (36 W. R. 268; 57 L. T. (N.S.) 598).

Benshaw, Q.C., and Bramwell Davis, for the plaintiffs.

Warmington, Q.C., and J. G. Butcher, for the defendant, contended that this was merely an action to enforce the balance order, and as such could not be maintained.

KEKEWICH, J., held, that an action could not be brought to enforce a balance order, but that the plaintiffs were entitled to maintain this action as an action of debt, and, as it was established by the evidence that the defendant was liable upon his shares, were entitled to judgment, with costs.

Company—Winding-up—Execution—Mistake of Sheriff—Payment by Mistake of Law to Officer of the Court—Right to recover.

At the time of the presentation of a petition for the winding up of this company the sheriff of London was in possession of goods and chattels of the company, which he had seized on behalf of execution creditors under writs of fi. fa. The sheriff subsequently seized the money paid at the doors of the company's theatre, thereout paid the execution creditors and his own costs, and handed over a balance of 20l. to the provisional liquidator, who accepted it, and raised no objection in respect of the seizure of the money by the sheriff. The sheriff then gave up possession of the goods and chattels which he had seized. A winding-up order was afterwards made, and, on the application of the official liquidator, an order was made by North, J., directing the sheriff to refund the money to the liquidator on the ground that the seizure of moneys paid at the theatre subsequently to the presentation of the winding-up petition was wrongful. The sheriff now applied for an order that the official liquidator should pay to the sheriff out of the moneys received by the liquidator for the sale of the goods and chattels originally seized the amounts paid by and due to the sheriff.

Warmington, Q.C., and Vernon Smith, for the applicant.

KEKEWICH, J., referred to Ex parte James (Law Rep. 9 Ch. 609) and Ex parte Simmonds (16 Q. B. D. 308), and said that the principle of those cases was that if the assets in the hands of an officer of the Court on behalf of creditors or others have been increased by a transaction occasioned by an honest mistake of law, then, notwithstanding such mistake is not capable of rectification as between ordinary adverse litigants, the Court will compel its officer to recognize the rules of honesty as between man and man, and act accordingly. His Lordship held that the present case fell within that principle, and that the debenture-holders were in no better position than the other creditors; and he granted the application.

Practice—Service of Writ—Action against Firm carrying on Business in England—One Partner domiciled and resident Abroad—Service on another Partner resident within Jurisdiction—Summary Judgment against Firm—Order IX, r. 6. Order XIV, r. 1.

Appeal from chambers.

The defendants, J. E. Clark and M. Clark, who carried on business in London under the style of J. E. & M. Clark & Co., were sued in their firm name as acceptors of two bill of exchange. The defendants were both Chilean subjects. M. Clark resided in England, and J. E. Clark was resident and domiciled in South America. The writ was served in London on M. Clark, who appeared. There being no defence to the action, the plaintiffs obtained judgment under Order XIV. against the firm. The defendants then took out two summonses, one to set aside service of the writ, on the ground that Order IX, r. 6, did not apply where one of the partners was a foreign resident abroad, the other to set aside the judgment. The master dismissed both summonses. The defendants appeal to the judge, who referred the matter to the Court.

Finlay, Q.C., and Danckwerts, for the defendants.

F. W. Hollams, for the plaintiffs.

THE COURT (Cave and Grantham, JJ.) held, dismissing the appeal, that Order IX, r. 6, applied, that service on M. Clark was a good service on the firm, and that judgment was rightly entered against the firm.

Appeal dismissed.

An issue was passed to go before a jury; but the appellants objected to the issue being allowed and put to a jury on the ground that the true and obvious meaning of the letters was not to impute anything to the respondent, but only to state a supposititious case.

BROCKETT v. TOWER ASSETS COMPANY, LIMITED.

Bill of Sale—Bills of Sale, Act, 1878 (41 & 42 Vict. c. 31), s. 4—

March 21.

Bills of Sale Act, 1878, Amendment Act, 1882 (45 & 46 Vict. c. 43), ss. 3, 9.

Appeal from the judgment of Cave, J., reported [1891] 1 Q. B. 1, where the facts were fully set out.

The facts were briefly as follows: The action was for trespass to the plaintiff's goods. The plaintiff having applied to the defendants for a loan of 90*l.* on a bill of sale, the defendants made an inventory of his effects, but recommended him not to make a bill of sale, but to arrange with his landlord to put in a friendly distress, in which case they would buy the goods from the broker. The plaintiff assented to this, and also that the distress should include the tools of his trade, and, the distress having been put in, he signed a memorandum requesting the broker to sell the goods to the defendants at the condemned price, and the defendants thereupon paid the broker 29*l.* 5*s.*, and obtained a receipt from him for that sum. The plaintiff afterwards, by arrangement with the defendants, brought his wife to their office, when a hiring and purchase agreement from the defendants to her was produced for her signature and by the plaintiff's direction was executed by her. By the terms of that document the hirer was to pay the defendants 1*l.* 8*s.* a month until 50*l.* was paid; and was to pay all rent in respect of the house in which the goods were, and in case the hirer should make default in the payment of any money payable under it, it was to be lawful for the defendants to seize the goods. The hiring agreement was not registered under the Bills of Sale Act. The defendants seized the goods for default in payment of the rent. The plaintiff contended that the defendants' title depended on the hiring agreement, which, being unregistered, was void. Cave, J., held that by virtue of the arrangement by which the goods were sold upon the distress, independently of the hiring agreement, the defendants had a good title to the goods, and therefore the hiring agreement was not a bill of sale. He therefore gave judgment for the defendants.

Henn Collins, Q.C., and W. E. Hume Williams, for the plaintiff.

Sir H. Davey, Q.C., and Cock, Q.C. (Herbert Reed, with them), for the defendants.

Cur. adv. vult.

March 21. THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., Bowen, L.J., and Fry, L.J.) were of opinion that the true result of the facts was that the intention of the parties to the transaction was that the title to the goods should appear to pass absolutely by the sale under the distress, but that the beneficial interest in the goods should really only pass to the defendants if and when a subsequent hiring and purchase agreement was executed, and on the terms of such agreement; that the hiring agreement therefore was a document essential to the defendants' title; and that such hiring agreement was a bill of sale, and therefore void for want of registration. They therefore allowed the appeal, and gave judgment for the plaintiff.

Ship and Shipping—Bill of Lading—Exception of Loss

March 21.

"Pirates, Robbers, or Thieves of whatever kind, whether on Board or not or by Land or Sea."

Appeal from the judgment of A. L. Smith, J.

The facts were as follows: The action was upon a bill of lading to recover the value of goods not delivered. The plaintiffs shipped goods on board the defendants' ship for carriage from Liverpool to Buenos Ayres. The defendants gave a bill of lading containing an exception clause, by which they were to be exempt from liability in respect of loss by (inter alia) "pirates, robbers, or thieves, of whatever kind, whether on board or not or by land or sea." The goods were stolen during the stowage after they were on board by one of the stevedores' men employed by the ship to load them. The learned judge was of opinion that the exception did not apply to thefts by persons in the service of the ship, and therefore gave judgment for the plaintiffs.

J. G. Barnes, Q. C., and Hurst, for the defendants.

Bigham, Q. C., and Carver, for the plaintiffs.

Cur. adv. vult.

March 21. THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., Bowen, L.J., and Fry, L.J.), held, that the exception did not relieve the ship-owners from liability in respect of thefts committed by those in the service of the ship. They, therefore, dismissed the appeal.

Appeal dismissed.

CHANCERY DIVISION.

Chitty, J. DE PENNY v. CHRISTIE. March 21.

Practice — Writ — Service out of the Jurisdiction — Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order XI., r. 1, ss. (f), (g).

Andrew Penny, who was born in Scotland in 1831, from the year 1856 to the time of his death, in 1890, was mostly resident in Bolivia, where he amassed a large fortune. In 1882 he married the plaintiff, a native of Bolivia. In 1886 he returned to Scotland, where he purchased an estate; and in 1888 again returned to Bolivia. In April, 1890, by a codicil, he revoked a will he had formerly made in favour of his wife, and gave her an estate in her native province. In May of the same year, having started on his return to Scotland, he died in Bolivia. The plaintiff as his widow then procured from the Court in Bolivia ex parte a declaration of the deceased's testacy, and that she as "compulsory heiress ab intestato," was entitled to possession of her late husband's "movable" and "immovable" property in Bolivia, including his personalty in rem.

Shortly afterwards Andrew Penny's next of kin, who were his four sisters and resident in Scotland, obtained a decree from the proper Court in Aberdeen appointing them executrices dativo of their late brother, and they took out confirmation, which was afterwards sealed in the Probate Court here in terms of the Confirmation and Probate Act, 1858.

The greater part of deceased's personality was within the United Kingdom, the bulk, consisting of £36,000, in the hands of Messrs. Antony Gibbs & Sons, who had been Penny's agents, and were the holders of a power of attorney from the plaintiff to prosecute suits here.

This action was against Penny's four sisters as executrices and Antony Gibbs & Sons, and claimed a declaration that the deceased died domiciled in Bolivia, administration, an injunction to restrain Antony Gibbs & Sons from paying, and the executrices from receiving, the 36,000*l.*, and a receiver.

The writ was duly served on Antony Gibbs & Sons in London, and under Order XI, r. 1, s. (f) of the Rules of 1883, the plaintiff had obtained an order for service of the writ out of the jurisdiction on the executrices, and this was a motion by them to set aside the service of the writ.

Rigby, Q. C., Birrell, and A. E. Barker, in support of the motion.

Sir Horace Davey, Q. C., and S. A. Silem, for the plaintiff.

CHITTY, J., was of opinion that the Court had, under Order XI, r. 1, s. (f), authority to order service of the writ out of the jurisdiction; but as the plaintiff intended to institute proceedings in Scotland to revoke the sealing of the confirmation there, and as there was no substantial risk of the fund being lost, in the exercise of his discretion, he was of opinion that on the balance of convenience the proceedings should take place in Scotland, and discharged the order for service of the writ.

Practice — Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order XVI., r. 13; Order XIX., r. 10; Order XXVIII., r. 10 — Default of Appearance — Amendment of Claim — Delivery of Amended Writ.

This was an action brought by a beneficiary against the three trustees of a will. The original writ was indorsed with a claim to have two of the trustees removed. Those two trustees made default in appearance. The indorsement was amended by adding a claim for administration. The amended writ and other proceedings in the action were filed against the trustees who had made default in appearing. Judgment was obtained for administration and the appointment of new trustees. A motion was now made on behalf of the two trustees who had made default in appearance to set aside the judgment, on the ground that the amended writ ought to have been served on them, and that delivery by filing was not sufficient.

Napier Higgins, Q.C., and Church, for the motion, referred to In re Cassiopeia (4 P. D. 188).

Cosens-Hardy, Q.C., and Maidlow, for the plaintiff. The rules have been altered since that decision: Order XXVII., r. 10, provides for delivering an "amended indorsement or pleading," the corresponding older rule did not contain the word indorsement. Order XVI., r. 10, provides for the delivery of documents to be delivered to parties who have not appeared by filing only.

NORTH, J., held that the judgment ought not to be set aside for irregularity. He set it aside on other grounds on terms.

GOODE v. LICKORISH.

Will—Construction—Testamentary Appointment—Discretionary Trust to apply Income "for benefit of" A.—Assignable Interest—Notice of Assignment—Discretion of Trustees.

A testatrix, in exercise of a power of appointment, directed that the trustees of a fund of 15,000*l.* should stand possessed thereof upon trust to pay the income to her son T. B. during his life, or until he should become a bankrupt or liquidating debtor, or cease to be entitled to receive such income or any part thereof for his own personal use or benefit, and in case any of those events happened, then to "pay to him or apply for his benefit during the remainder of his life" either the whole or so much only of the said income as the trustees should in their or his uncontrolled discretion think fit, and "subject to that interest" the fund was given over to other objects of the power. T. B. assigned his interest for value, and subsequently became bankrupt. The trustees took out a summons for the opinion of the Court in reference to their powers as to application of the income for his benefit.

Rawlins, for the summons.

Maidlow, for the assignee, claimed only the income which accrued before notice of assignment was given to the trustees.

Warmington, Q.C., and Marcy, for persons interested under the gift over, contended that that gift had taken effect in their favour.

Ashton Cross, for other persons interested under the gift over, was willing on their behalf that the income should be applied for the maintenance or otherwise for the benefit of the bankrupt.

Colmore Dunn, for the bankrupt.

KEKEWICH, J., held that the assignment operated as from its date as a cesser of the assignor's title to receive the income. He referred to In re Coleman (39 Ch. Div. 443), and other authorities, and said that he could see no reason or principle for defeating the obvious intention of the testatrix, which was to enable the trustees, in the event of her son's bankruptcy, to apply for his benefit the income, or an adequate part of the income, which he thereupon ceased to be entitled to receive. His Lordship further held (1) that what the trustees in the exercise of their discretion did not from time to time think fit to apply for the benefit of the bankrupt went by the words of the will to those entitled under the gift over, but that they took only this overplus; (2) that the trustees might spend the whole or any part of the income in his maintenance, using that word in its most general and widest sense; (3) that the discretion was vested in the trustees, and that though they were entitled to the assistance of the Court if a case of real difficulty occurred, they must exercise it, and so long as they exercised it honestly, i.e., as men of ordinary business habits and prudence, and with due regard to all the circumstances of the case, the Court would not interfere with them.

Case stated upon a petition against the return of the respondent to the office of town councillor.

More than a year before the 15th of July preceding the election the respondent, with his wife, family, and furniture, moved into an inn kept by his mother, and a verbal agreement was entered into by which the mother was to retire from the business, and the respondent was to take it over, and she was to continue to reside in the house, and have her board, lodging, and clothing free of charge. The respondent took over the entire management of the inn; but there was no assignment of the lease or transfer of the licence to him. He requested that his name might be inserted in the rate-book as joint occupier; but this was not done. The demand notes and receipts for rates were made out in the name of the mother; but the respondent paid the rates out of the profits of the inn. Before the 1st of August preceding the election, the respondent's name was inserted on the burgess roll as joint occupier, his mother's name also remaining on the roll as joint occupier.

Henn Collins, Q.C., and Henry, for the petitioner.

Mattinson, for the respondent.

THE COURT (Cave and Grantham, JJ.) held, that as the verbal agreement between the respondent and his mother had been acted upon, and as he had in fact paid the money for the rates, he was qualified by joint occupation during the qualifying period, and by payment of rates, and was entitled to be enrolled as a burgess, and his election was valid.

Judgment declaring the respondent duly elected.

Solicitor—Bill of Costs—Taxation—District Registry—Jurisdiction of Registrar of Liverpool—Rules of Supreme Court. Order XXXV., rr. 5, 6, 6A, sub-r. 2; Order LXII., r. 18.

This was an appeal from a decision of Kekewich, J. (ante, p. 38).

Mr. Porrett, a solicitor at Sheffield, did certain work for the Mineral Products Company, a company having its registered office at Liverpool. The company presented a petition of course in the District Registry of Liverpool, and obtained an order by the Registrar against Mr. Porrett for the delivery of his bill of costs and taxation by the Registrar. Mr. Porrett moved, before Kekewich, J., to discharge the order for irregularity on the ground that the District Registrar at Liverpool had no jurisdiction to make it. His Lordship held that the Registrar had jurisdiction to make the order and to tax the bill of costs himself.

Mr. Porrett appealed.

Sir Horace Davey, Q.C., and Bardswell, for the appellant.

Warmington, Q.C., and Durandu, for the respondent company.

THE COURT (Lindley and Kay, L.J.J.), after a careful consideration of the Judicature Act, 1873, and the Rules of the Supreme Court, particularly seats. 60, 61, and 62 of the Judicature Act, and Order xxxv., rr. 6, 6A, sub-r. 2, and Order LXII., r. 18, came to the conclusion that the District Registrars of Liverpool and Manchester had no jurisdiction to make any order for taxation on an originating petition, and they accordingly allowed the appeal, and discharged the order of the District Registrar.

Ship—Charterparty—Advance Freight to be paid "if required"—Requirement made after loss of Cargo—Liability of Charterer.

Appeal from a judgment of Charles, J., reported [1891]

1 Q. B. 42.

The action was brought to recover 245*l.* for advance freight. A cargo had been shipped under a charterparty which contained the following clause: "one-third freight, if required, to be advanced, less 8 per cent. for interest and insurance." Almost immediately after the commencement of the voyage the vessel was wrecked and the cargo lost. The morning after the loss the shipowner required payment of advance freight under the clause in the charterparty. Charles, J., held, that the requirement was not too late, and that the charterers were liable to pay the advance freight. The defendants appealed.

Walton, Q.C., and Robson, for the defendants.

Cyril Dodd, Q.C., and Montague Lush, for the plaintiffs.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., Lord Esher, M.R., and Fry, L.J.) held, that the requirement must be made at a time when the charterers were in a position to insure the advance freight, and that as after the loss of the vessel and cargo they could have no insurable interest in it, the requirement was made too late, and the charterers were not liable.

Appeal allowed.

North, J. PLUMBLY v. PERRYMAN. March 20.

Practice—Libel—Injunction.

The plaintiff in this action was an outside stockbroker; the defendants were Perryman, the editor, proprietor, and publisher of a weekly newspaper called The Financial Observer and Mining Herald, and a firm of printers. The writ was indorsed with a claim for damages in respect of libel on the plaintiff contained in the issue of the newspaper for the 28th of February, 1891, and an injunction to restrain further publication of libels against the plaintiff contained in that number of the newspaper, and further libels. A motion was now made on behalf of the plaintiff for an interlocutory injunction against the defendant Perryman to restrain the further publication of the libels contained in the number of the newspaper for the 28th of February, 1891. In answer to the judge it was stated that there was a conflict of evidence as to the truth of the statements complained of. The judge called on counsel for the plaintiff to shew that the merits ought to be gone into on this application.

Napier Higgins, Q.C., Oozens-Hardy, Q.C., and Rowland Whitehead, for the plaintiff.

Cock, Q.C., and W. E. Vernon, for the defendant Perryman, were not called on.

NORTH, J., refused to entertain the application. He considered that the question of the truth of the libel ought to be determined by a jury, and the action ought to be forthwith transferred to the Queen's Bench Division. He made no order, except that the costs of each party should be costs in the action.

Company—Reduction of Capital—"Capital lost or unrepresented by available Assets"—Preliminary Expenses—Companies Act, 1867, ss. 9, 11—Companies Act, 1877, s. 8.

This was a petition by the company for the confirmation by the Court of a special resolution for the reduction of the capital of the company. The authorized capital of the company was 250,000*l.*, in shares of 1*l.* each: of these 80,000 shares had been issued, and 7*s.* 6*d.* per share had been called up. It was proposed to reduce the capital by the sum of 20,000*l.* by reducing the nominal amount of all the shares from 1*l.* to 15*s.* The company's balance-sheet shewed a deficiency of 8,555*l.* on the life assurance fund, and it was proposed to write off this sum, and also a sum of 11,415*l.* from preliminary expenses, thus making up 20,000*l.*

Cassie-Hardy, Q.C., and Wurtzburg, for the company.

NORTH, J., said that he could not take it that preliminary expenses were "capital lost or unrepresented by available assets." If the company were transferring its business to another company, there would be something to transfer in the nature of "goodwill." If the petition were well founded, the result would be, that all the necessary preliminary expenses of a company might be paid for out of capital, and then the company might at once reduce its capital by the amount so spent. He was not prepared to hold that this would be within the Act. He must dismiss the petition.

North, J. DOCKSEY v. ELSE. March 19, 25.
Practice—Mortgage—Foreclosure Absolute—Affidavit of Non-payment.

March 19. This was a foreclosure action in which an order for foreclosure in rem had been made and the time limited for redemption had expired. A motion was made to make the foreclosure absolute. The plaintiffs, the mortgagees, were two persons one of whom was abroad. An agent was acting in his behalf under power of attorney in respect of the mortgage. There was an affidavit by the plaintiff within the jurisdiction and the attorney of the other plaintiff to the effect that neither of the debtors had received any part of the money certified to be due.

Procter, for the plaintiffs, referred to Frith v. Cooke (Weekly Notes, 1885, p. 129); Barrow v. Smith (Weekly Notes, 1885, p. 136).

The defendant did not appear.

NORTH, J., directed the application to stand over till the next motion day in order that the plaintiff within the jurisdiction and the attorney of the other plaintiff might make an affidavit that neither of them had, nor to the best of their belief had the other plaintiff, received anything down to date in respect of the money certified to be due, notice being given to the defendant that the matter would be brought on on that day.

March 25. Procter, renewed the motion. The attorney of the plaintiff out of jurisdiction had made an affidavit that he had not, and, to the best of his knowledge, his principal had not, received anything in respect of the money certified to be due up to date; but the other plaintiff was travelling, and had been unable in consequence to make a further affidavit.

NORTH, J., said the order might go, on production to the Registrar of an affidavit by the plaintiff who was travelling, and a new affidavit by the attorney of the other plaintiff, bringing the proof of non-receipt down to date of any part of the debt by them, or to the best of their knowledge by the plaintiff out of the jurisdiction.

OUTBILL v. SHROPSHIRE RAILWAYS COMPANY AND OTHERS.

Railway Company—Incorporation—Parliamentary Deposit—Costs and Expenses of obtaining Special Act—Companies Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, s. 65.

Before the incorporation of the defendants, the Shropshire Railways Company, the plaintiffs, by agreement with the promoters of the undertaking, advanced the amount of the Parliamentary deposit required in respect of the introduction of the bill, upon the terms, as they alleged, of being repaid by the company when incorporated, and after the passing of the Act. The agreement was dated the 30th of July, 1888, and by it the promoters, in consideration of the plaintiffs finding the deposit, agreed not to serve, nor allow to be served, any notices to treat, nor, without the plaintiffs' consent, to do or suffer anything whereby a claim might be founded upon the deposit, and if before the expiration of two years from the passing of the Act the deposit was not repaid, the promoters were to apply to Parliament for an Abandonment Bill and for the release of the deposit, which on being released was to belong to the party finding it. The defendants were incorporated by a special Act of Parliament which received the Royal assent on the 7th of August, 1888; and the plaintiffs, who had not been repaid their advance, alleged that the defendants intended to apply to Parliament for two Acts, one to extend the period limited by the Shropshire Railways Act for the completion and construction of their works, and the other to confer authority upon the company to construct fresh railways and works. The plaintiffs now moved to restrain the company and the directors, four of whom were promoters of the Bill, from serving notices to treat, and from employing the funds of the company in applying for the Acts above referred to without first satisfying the plaintiffs' claims. The Shropshire Railways Act incorporated the Companies Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, and provided that "all costs, charges, and expenses of and incident to the preparing for, obtaining, and passing of this Act or otherwise in relation thereto, shall be paid by the company."

Hastings, Q.C., and Danckwerts, for the plaintiffs.

Buckley, Q.C., and McDonnell, for the company and some of the directors.

Beale, Q.C., and Macnaghten, for the other directors.

STIRLING, J., said that the company was not a trustee of its funds for its creditors, and, assuming the plaintiffs to be creditors of the company, they had no right to interfere with the application of the company's funds. Section 65 of the Companies Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, did not create any charge or lien on the funds of the company. It simply gave a right of action against the company. As to the agreement, the promoters could not be agents of the company, because it was not in existence at the time the agreement was entered into. The agreement was only binding on the company if it could be shewn that the company had received the benefit of it. Here the benefit of the deposit accrued to the promoters, and not to the company. The motion therefore failed, and must be dismissed with costs.

Copyright—Infringement—“Book”—“Sheet of Letterpress”—Painted Card—Proprietorship—Registration—Evidence—Certificate of Registration—Infraction—Copyright Acts, 1842 & 1862: 5 & 6 Vict. c. 45, ss. 2, 11; 25 & 26 Vict. c. 68.

Motion by the plaintiffs for an interim injunction to restrain the defendants from printing and publishing or distributing any copies or colourable imitations of a “picture or publication” called “The Happy Hand,” the property of the plaintiffs. The plaintiffs’ “picture or publication,” which they complained had been copied by the defendants, was an elaborately painted “Christmas card” representing the back and palm of a lady’s hand, gloved, with a fur cuff. The card opened bookwise, and inside, on one of the “leaves,” which represented the palm of the hand itself, were what are termed in works on palmistry, the “lines of life.” On the other “leaf” were a few lines of verse, followed by a description, also in verse, of the “lines of life,” which were indicated by letters.

The “picture” had been designed by Miss West, a lady artist, for the plaintiffs, the design being paid for by them, and the greater part of the verses had been composed by Mr. Weatherley, the “lines of life” and part of the descriptive verses being taken from one of the many works on palmistry. The plaintiffs’ “card” was first published in May, 1889, but they did not register it at Stationers’ Hall until February, 1891, just before the commencement of this action, when they registered it as a “book” and as a “painting or drawing” under the Copyright Acts, 1842 and 1862 (5 & 6 Vict. c. 45, and 25 & 26 Vict. c. 68). On February, 1889, Miss West assigned her interest in the design to the plaintiffs; but there had been no assignment by Mr. Weatherley of his copyright in the verses. The defendants, a firm of tailors and hatters, subsequently issued for advertising purposes a card or “gloved hand” of exactly the same shape in outline as the plaintiffs’, though the drawing of the hand was of a very inferior description. The name of the firm was printed on the “cuff,” which was there a plain surface, while inside, on one leaf, were the “lines of life,” as in the plaintiffs’ card, with a description of them below partly the same as that of the plaintiffs, and on the other an advertisement of the defendants’ goods. It was not denied that the defendants’ card must have been copied from the plaintiffs’; but the defendants said they got theirs from a firm of advertising-card manufacturers at Leeds.

Warrington, Q.C., and T. E. Scrutton, for the plaintiffs.

Marten, Q.C., and Morton Daniel, for the defendants.

KEKEWICH, J., held that the plaintiffs’ card was protected by both of the Copyright Acts. It had been contended on the part of the defendants that the plaintiffs’ card was not a “book” within the Act of 1842 (5 & 6 Vict. c. 45). Sect. 2 said that the word “book” included, amongst other things, a “sheet of letterpress.” It was difficult to say what a “sheet of letterpress” would cover; but his Lordship came to the conclusion that this was a sheet of letterpress within the definition. Then it was said there had been no proper registration; but his Lordship did not see how Miss West could be registered as interested in this “book,” nor why Mr. Weatherley should be registered as the person who composed the letterpress, so long as, at the date of the registration, the proprietor was properly described, and as to this sect. 11 made the certificate of registration, which had been produced, prima facie proof. There was, therefore, prima facie evidence that the Act had been complied with. On that ground the plaintiffs were entitled to relief. His Lordship further held that there had been sufficient registration under the Act of 1862 (25 & 26 Vict. c. 68) also. Upon the balance of convenience and inconvenience in granting an injunction, he thought he ought to decide against the wrongdoer. The conduct of the defendants in making this barefaced copy of the plaintiffs’ card fairly turned the balance in favour of the plaintiffs. Accordingly, there must be an injunction until the trial or further order; but, in order to avoid a decision on any point which could properly be left open for the trial, the word “work” should be substituted in the order for the words “picture or publication.”

Romer, J. BARKER v. FURLONG. March 23.

Conversion of Chattels—Title of Plaintiffs—Auctioneers—Liability of—Practice.

The possession of chattels by a cestui que trust in accordance with the provisions of the trust instrument is in law the possession of the trustees for the purpose of enabling the trustees to maintain an action against a wrongdoer for the conversion of the chattels, and the defendant to such an action cannot set up as an answer the title of a third person who has not asserted or who waives his claim to the chattels.

If a broker or auctioneer does nothing more than settle the price as between vendor and purchaser of goods and takes his commission, he is not liable as for conversion if it should turn out that the vendor is not entitled to sell—in other words, where the broker or auctioneer acts merely as a conduit pipe. But where an auctioneer receives goods into his custody, and on selling them hands them over to the purchaser with a view to passing the property in them, he is to be treated as having converted the goods, and is liable to an action accordingly, his case differing from that of a packing agent—Greenway v. Fisher (1 C. & P. 190)—or carrier in that they merely purport to change the position of the goods and not the property in them.

After the defendant’s case had been closed, an application by the plaintiffs’ counsel for leave to call as his witness a defendant whom he had expected to be called in support of his (the defendant’s) own case refused, plaintiffs’ counsel admitting that he had not been misled by any representation to the effect that the defendant would be called. His Lordship held that to grant such an application would be to make a precedent which, if established, would lead to an improper laxity in the conduct of the plaintiffs’ case.

Haldane, Q.C., and E. Ford, Neville, Q.C., and Mulligan, and Johnston Edwards, were the counsel appearing.

COURT OF APPEAL

From Bkey Ct. In re WALLIS. April 10.
Ex parte BOARD OF TRADE.
Bankruptcy—Discharge of Bankrupt—Jurisdiction to allow Withdrawal of Application—Bankruptcy Act, 1883, s. 28.

Appeal against an order made by Mr. Registrar Brougham, on the 27th of January, the day appointed for the hearing of an application by the bankrupt for an order of discharge, that no order should be made on the application, except that the bankrupt should not be at liberty to renew it without the leave of the Court, and notice to the Official Receiver and to certain opposing creditors, and on payment of those creditors' costs of the day. Notice of the application had been given to the bankrupt's creditors, and the Official Receiver had made a report in which (inter alia) he stated that the bankrupt had been guilty of fraud. When the application was called on for hearing, counsel for the bankrupt asked for leave to withdraw the application. This was opposed by the Official Receiver, who was acting as trustee in the bankruptcy, and by counsel on behalf of some creditors. The registrar held that there was jurisdiction to allow the withdrawal, and made the above order.

The Board of Trade and the Official Receiver appealed. Sir E. Clarke, S.G., and Muir Mackenzie, for the appellants, contended that, after notice of the application had been given to the creditors, and the Official Receiver had made his report, the Court had no jurisdiction to allow the application to be withdrawn, but was, under sect. 28 (2) of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, bound to consider the bankrupt's conduct, and to decide whether he was entitled to a discharge.

Sidney Woolf, Q.C., and F. Mellor, for the bankrupt, were not called on.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., Lord Esher, M.R., and Fry, L.J.), dismissed the appeal. They held that prima facie every Court had an inherent power to allow a person who had invoked its jurisdiction to withdraw his application, and that there was nothing in the Bankruptcy Act to take away this power.

CHANCERY DIVISION.

Chitty, J. In re DIQIDO PIER COMPANY. April 11.
Company—Reduction of Capital—Payment off of Preference Shares—Sinking Fund—Companies Act, 1877, s. 4.

This was a petition for reduction of capital. The nominal capital of the company was divided into ordinary and preference shares, each of 50*l.*, which, according to the memorandum of association, were to "have the rights specified in the articles of association." The articles of association provided for a preferential dividend of 8 per cent. on the preference shares, and for setting aside, out of the net profits, a sum equal to 20 per cent. of the amount of the preference shares for the formation of a sinking fund, to pay off these shares at the expiration of five years from the commencement of business by the company; subject to these payments, the rest of the net profits were to belong to the holders of ordinary shares.

The company had been most successful, had regularly paid the 8 per cent. on the preference shares, and set aside 20 per cent. as a sinking fund, besides paying a very large dividend on the ordinary shares. The company now proposed to pay off and cancel all the preference shares; but as this involved a reduction of capital, this petition was presented.

Ingen, for the company.

CHITTY, J., considered that the effect of the memorandum and articles of association was to make a contract binding on both classes of shareholders that a portion of the profits of the company should be set apart for the redemption and extinction of the preference shares; and that the reduction, as proposed, did not involve a "payment to any shareholder of any paid-up capital" within the provisions of the Companies Act, 1877, s. 4; and he therefore made an order sanctioning the reduction as prayed, without referring the petition to chambers for inquiries as to creditors.

North, J. GREEN v. MOORE. April 7.
Practice—Setting aside Judgment in Default of Pleading—Motion for Judgment—Short Cause—Notice of Motion given for Short Cause Day.

This was a motion by the defendant to set aside a judgment which had been obtained against him for default in pleading.

The writ was issued on the 21st of January, 1891. The statement of claim was delivered on the 12th of February. On the 11th of March, the defendant being in default in delivering a defence, the plaintiff served him (by leaving it at his chambers) with notice of a motion to be made before North, J., on Saturday, the 14th of March, for judgment in accordance with the statement of claim. The notice stated that the action would be marked as "short." The 14th of March was the regular "short cause" day. The defendant was absent and did not receive the notice, and he did not appear, and judgment was given in his absence in accordance with the statement of claim. On the 18th of March he returned, and found the notice. On the 19th of March he delivered a defence, which was returned by the plaintiff's solicitors, on the ground that judgment had been already given in the action. The defendant who then for the first time became aware of the judgment, gave the present notice of motion on the 23rd of March.

The regulations as to motions for judgment made by the Master of the Rolls and the Vice-Chancellors in 1876 provide that such motions are to be set down in the cause book, and can then be marked "short," on production of the usual certificate of counsel, "and will then be placed in the paper on the first short cause day after the day for which notice is given."

Bibb, for the defendant, urged that the case came into the paper prematurely on the 14th of March, and that, according to the regulations, the notice being given for a Saturday, which was a short cause day, the case ought not to have been placed in the paper until the following Saturday, the 21st of March, which was "the next short cause day" after the day for which notice was given.

Vernon R. Smith, for the plaintiff.

North, J., set aside the judgment, on the terms of the defendant paying the costs of the motion and the costs subsequent to the statement of claim. His Lordship did not think the plaintiff was wrong in his proceedings. There was some ambiguity in the wording of the regulation; but his Lordship thought that "the first short cause day after the day for which notice is given," meant "the first short cause day available after the giving of the notice." If the notice was given for a Saturday, he did not think it was necessary to lose a whole week. If the notice was given for any day but a Saturday, the difficulty could not arise. His Lordship did not think the defendant was in any way misled; but, having regard to all the circumstances, he thought it was fair that the defendant should have an opportunity of defending on the terms above mentioned. The judgment would be set aside, and leave given to deliver a defence.

RADCLIFFE v. BEWES.

April 14.

Marriage Settlement—Power of Appointment among Children—Release of Power by Tenant for Life—Right of Tenant for Life to call for Transfer of Share of Deceased Child.

The plaintiff, as the survivor of himself and his wife, had under his marriage settlement a power to appoint the funds subject to the trusts thereof among the children of the marriage. In default of appointment, the funds were to be held on trust for the children in equal shares, to be vested interests at twenty-one or marriage. The only issue of the marriage were three sons, one of whom died in early infancy. The other two attained twenty-one, and one of them died a bachelor and intestate. Administration to his estate was granted to his father. The father had executed a deed poll, by which he absolutely released his power of appointment. He then called on the defendant, who was the sole surviving trustee of the settlement, to transfer to him a moiety of the trust funds. The defendant declined to do so without the direction of the Court. The plaintiff issued an originating summons, by which he asked for an order declaring that, in the events which had happened, he was entitled to a moiety of the trust funds, and to have the same transferred to him.

Str. H. Davey, Q.C., and George Lawrence, for the plaintiff.

Cecilia Hardy, Q.C., and Warrington, for the defendant.

North, J., said that, if he had been unfettered by authority, he should have seen no reason why the order asked for should not have been made. But Ounynghame v. Thurlow (1 Russ. &

My. 486) was precisely in point, and it shewed that, under such circumstances, though the release of the power was perfectly valid, the Court would not assist a tenant for life in obtaining a transfer of his deceased child's share of the trust funds by means of a transaction which the Court could not approve. That case was recognised by the Court of Appeal in In re Little (40 Ch. Div. 418); and Smith v. Houbton (26 Beav. 482), and Shirley v. Fisher (47 L. T. (N.S.) 109), were not inconsistent with it. No order would be made, but that the trustee should have his costs, charges, and expenses out of the trust fund.

JOHN MORLEY BUILDING COMPANY v. BARRAS.

April 10.

Company—Incorporation without Articles of Association—Signatories to Memorandum of Association—Directors—Meetings—Notice—Companies Act, 1862, s. 67; Table A, arts. 85, 52, 53, 58, 62, 71.

In March, 1890, a company was incorporated, without articles, and therefore subject to the regulations of Table A to the Companies Act, 1862, and twelve persons signed the memorandum of association.

The first general meeting of the company was held on the 3rd of September 1890, and a subsequent general meeting was held on the 25th of September, 1890; but nothing was done at either meeting.

In the meantime no directors were appointed by the subscribers of the memorandum, nor did they collectively act as directors; but three of them and four other persons constituted themselves, and acted as, directors of the company.

On the 10th of January, 1891, a circular was issued by one of the subscribers to the memorandum convening a meeting of the subscribers for the 12th of January, 1891, on which day ten of them attended. Two of them delivered a written protest, and then withdrew; but the remaining eight appointed the six defendants directors of the company. On the same day seven of the subscribers signed a document purporting to appoint other persons directors of the company. Three of these seven persons afterwards repudiated the document on the ground that their signatures had been obtained by misrepresentation; but by the authority of the rest of them an action was commenced in the name of the company to restrain the defendants from holding themselves out or acting as directors, or interfering in the affairs of the company.

The defendants then moved, in the name of the company, that all proceedings in the action might be stayed, on the ground that it had been instituted without the authority of the applicants; and that the solicitors by whom the writ was issued might be ordered to pay the taxed costs of the defendants, and also to pay the applicants' costs of the action, and of the application, as between solicitor and client.

Hastings, Q.C., and D. L. Alexander, in support of the motion.

Buckley, Q.C., and Quin, for the solicitors who had issued the writ, and their clients.

STIRLING, J., said the real question was, Who were the directors of the company? Under sect. 67 of the Companies Act, 1862, and art. 71 of Table A, the acts of the de facto directors might, as regarded strangers, bind the company; but these persons had never been duly appointed directors. Notwithstanding the withdrawal of two subscribers from the meeting of the 12th of January, eight remained, and they formed a majority of the twelve subscribers, and if that was a duly constituted meeting, the defendants were then elected as directors. The signatures of three of those who signed the document purporting to appoint other persons as directors appeared to have been obtained in a way which would invalidate the appointment; but, even if seven subscribers signed, that was not a proper appointment under art. 52 of Table A. It was then said that arts. 58 and 62 applied; but art. 62 (providing that vacating directors should, if their places were not filled up at the adjourned general meeting at which an election ought to take place, continue in office till the ordinary meeting in the next year) did not apply to mere de facto directors, but only to directors duly appointed in pursuance of the articles. Nor was the argument tenable that under arts. 53, 58, and 62 the subscribers of the memorandum, not having been displaced from the directorate at the general meetings, remained directors until the ordinary meeting in the next year. Art. 58 (providing that at the first ordinary meeting all the directors should retire) did not apply to the subscribers of the memorandum. The seven days' notice required by art. 35 was not necessary to convene a meeting of subscribers to the memorandum. Such a meeting was in the present case properly convened by the notice which had been given, for no particular time for convening a meeting of subscribers was mentioned in Table A, and only reasonable notice was necessary. The defendants had therefore been properly elected, and an order must be made on their motion in the form prescribed in Newbiggin-by-the-Sea Gas Company v. Armstrong (13 Ch. D. 310).

SHACKELL v. COLNETT.

Mortgage—Payment off by supposed Owner of the whole Property—Effect as to real Owner of a Share—Presumption of Intention to keep Mortgage alive.

Thomas Pride, who died in or prior to 1850, had six children, including Susan Spring and James Pride, and by his will he gave his residuary real and personal estate to the six children in equal shares. Part of the property consisted of tithes which, with other property, was at the time of Thomas Pride's death subject to a mortgage. James Pride, by purchase or otherwise, acquired the other shares of his father's residuary estate, except the one-sixth of Susan Spring.

By a deed dated the 19th of April, 1859, Susan Spring executed a deed by which she purported to assign her one-sixth share to James Pride; but in 1862 she commenced a suit to set aside this deed. By a deed dated the 1st of February, 1864, in consideration of James Pride paying the balance due on the mortgage, the mortgagees reconveyed the property to him free from the mortgage.

In February, 1864 (after the execution of the reconveyance)

Susan Spring obtained a decree in her suit setting aside the deed of 1859, but directing an account of what had been received by James Pride in respect of the property comprised herein, and of what he had paid to her, and that her remainder in the property expectant on her coverture should be charged with what on the balance of accounts should be found due to James Pride. This decree was affirmed on appeal: Spring v. Pride (4 D. J. & S. 395). In the present action, which was brought against the trustees and executors of James Pride, the chief clerk by his certificate found that the mortgage was not now subsisting, and the defendants took out a summons to vary the certificate, on the ground (inter alia) that, notwithstanding the reconveyance to himself, James Pride must be presumed to have intended to keep alive the mortgage as against Susan Spring, in respect of her one-sixth of the mortgaged property.

Hastings, Q. C., and Frederic Thompson, for the defendants.

Birrell, in support of the certificate.

STIRLING, J., said, that on the execution of the deed of 1859, if that deed and the other deeds were good, James Pride became owner of the whole property subject to the mortgage. In Adams v. Angell (5 Ch. Div. 634), Jessel, M.R., said that the mere fact of a charge having been paid off did not decide whether it was extinguished; if paid off by a tenant for life, without any expression of his intention, it was presumed he intended to keep it alive because it was manifestly for his benefit; but when the owner in fee or in tail paid off a charge, the presumption was the other way, though, if there was any reason for keeping it alive, equity would not destroy it. But if the interest, even of a tenant in tail, could not be barred (as when he was restrained from alienation), the rule as to the charge having been extinguished did not apply: Countess of Shrewsbury v. Earl of Shrewsbury (1 Ves. 227). Even when the charge was paid off by an owner in fee, there were certain exceptions, as in Drinkwater v. Combe (2 S. & S. 340), where the estate was subject to an executory devise. The presumption in either case was that there was an intention to keep the charge alive, because to do so was for the benefit of the person paying it off. Here the owner of five-sixths of the estate paid off the mortgage pending a suit to set aside a sale of the other one-sixth, and the presumption was that the person paying off was intended to be benefited.

LONDON, CHATHAM, AND DOVER RAILWAY COMPANY v. SOUTH EASTERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

Interest—Railway Companies—Contract as to Joint Traffic—Monthly Balances—Rate of Interest.

By an agreement entered into and an award made between two railway companies, for the purpose of ascertaining the amounts receivable by each of them in respect of certain joint traffic, it was provided that monthly accounts should be exchanged between the two companies, and that, after the expiration of a fixed period, the balances from time to time appearing by such exchanged accounts to be due from the one company to the other should be paid. Disputes having arisen as to the construction of the agreement, an action was brought, and it was referred to an official referee to take the accounts. The referee allowed interest at the rate of 5 per cent. in respect of unpaid balances. His report was objected to on the grounds (inter alia) that the balances were not sums certain, payable at a time certain, so as to carry interest under the statute 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 42, s. 28, and, further, that under the circumstances interest (if payable at all) should have been allowed at the rate of 4 per cent. only.

Sir H. Davey, Q.C., Haldane, Q.C., and Levett, Q.C., for the plaintiffs.

Willis, Q.C., Seward Brice, Q.C., and Charles Mitchell, for the defendants.

KEKEWICH, J., referred to Duncombe v. Brighton Club Company (Law Rep. 10 Q. B. 371), Mackintosh v. Great Western Railway Company (4 Giff. 633), and Hill v. South Staffordshire Railway Company (Law Rep. 18 Eq. 154), and held that the case was within the statute, and that interest was payable. With reference to the rate of interest his Lordship (as on previous occasions) expressed his opinion that the question was one which deserved full consideration, but said that he did not think it would be wise or right for him now to deal with it. It was the practice for juries to give, and for judges to direct juries to give, interest at 5 per cent. Until the present day the view had prevailed that that which was called in the statute the "current rate of interest" might be given at 5 per cent., notwithstanding that it was very difficult for prudent persons to get so much as 3 or 4 per cent. on their investments, and that persons engaged in trade could not obtain those large returns which had been common in former times. These last-mentioned considerations had prevailed with Kay, J., in In re Metropolitan Coal Consumers' Association; Wainwright's Case (62 L. T. (N.S.) 90), where interest was given at 4 per cent.; and the same thing had been done in other cases of a like character. But it was of extreme importance that there should be one ordinary settled rule of general practice to guide juries, and judges in directing juries, and his Lordship thought it would be wrong for him, in a case where the official referee had followed the general rule, to vary his report and change the rate of interest from 5 to 4 per cent. If such a change was to be made, it must be on some consensus of judicial opinion or by higher authority.

Kekewich, J. TURNELL v. SANDERSON. April 11.

Arbitration—Partnership—Staying Proceedings—Question whether or not there ought to be a Dissolution.

In an action for dissolution of partnership on the ground that it could not be carried on at a profit, the defendant denied the allegation of the plaintiff, and contended that there had been a profit. The articles of partnership contained a comprehensive arbitration clause, and the defendant moved to stay proceedings in the action with a view to a reference to arbitration of the question whether or not there ought to be a dissolution.

Warmington, Q.C., and J. R. Brooks, for the defendant, in support of the motion.

Renshaw, Q.C., and Morshead, for the plaintiff, referred to Joplin v. Postlethwaite (61 L. T. (N.S.) 629).

KEKEWICH, J., said that the case cited contained a distinct expression of the opinion of the Court of Appeal, which he was bound to follow. It was there held that the question whether there ought or ought not to be a dissolution of a partnership was one which, whether it was or was not strictly within the terms of an arbitration clause in the partnership articles, ought not to be referred to arbitration. The application must, therefore, be refused.

Practice—Motion for Judgment—Reference to Official Referee—Report of Referee going to whole Cause of Action—Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order XL, r. 7; Order XXXVI, rr. 54, 55—Arbitration Act, 1889 (52 & 53 Vict. c. 49), ss. 13, 15.

An action for an injunction to restrain alleged nuisance by noise was referred to the Official Referee for inquiry and report. He made a report finding that there was no nuisance. The defendants moved under Order XL, r. 7, for judgment dismissing the action with costs. The plaintiffs did not appear.

Renshaw, Q.C., and E. Beaumont, for the defendants, submitted that the notice of motion under Order XL, r. 7, was sufficient, and that in a case such as this, where the report of the referee directed no act to be done, an eight days' notice under Order XXXVI, r. 55, was not necessary. They referred also to the Arbitration Act, 1889, ss. 13, 15; Walker v. Bunkell (22 Ch. Div. 722); Burrard v. Calisher (19 Ch. Div. 644), and Order XXXVI, r. 54.

KEKEWICH, J., said that Order XXXVI, r. 55, was a rule enabling the Court to give effect to the report of a referee, irrespectively of the trial of the action, where further consideration had not been adjourned, and did not apply to a case such as the present. He held, therefore, that the motion for judgment under Order XL, r. 7, was rightly made.

Romer, J. MOORE v. NORTH WESTERN BANK. April 14.

Company—Transfer of Shares—Non-registration of Transfer—Pre-existing equitable Title to Shares.

As between two persons claiming title to shares in a company formed under the Companies Act, 1862, with articles of association regulating the transfer of shares, which shares are registered in the name of a third person, the prior title prevails unless the claimant second in point of time can shew that as between himself and the company, before the company received notice of the claim of the first claimant, he has acquired the full status of a shareholder; or at any rate, that all the formalities have been complied with, and that nothing more than some purely ministerial act remains to be done by the company, which as between him (the second claimant) and the company, the company could not refuse to do forthwith, so that as between himself and the company he may be stated to have acquired "a present absolute unconditional right to have the transfer registered before the company was informed of the existence of a better title": per Lord Selborne, in Société Générale de Paris v. Walker (11 App. Cas. 20, 29).

When, therefore, having regard to the articles of association of a company, a transferee of shares, although claiming under a transfer perfectly right in form, could not insist as against the company on a right to be treated as a shareholder immediately on execution of the transfer, or to require immediate registration of his transfer, he was held not to have acquired such a title to the shares as to defeat a pre-existing equitable title.

Application at the instance of the Incorporated Law Society for an attachment, under 23 & 24 Vict. c. 127, s. 26, against A. H. Louis, an unqualified person, for contempt of Court in acting as a solicitor contrary to 6 & 7 Vict. c. 73, s. 2. It appeared that the defendant carried on business in London as a law stationer, confidential agent, and process-server, under the style of Flowerdew & Co. The alleged offence was his having settled the affidavit of a person employed by him which had been used upon an application for an order for substituted service made by the solicitors for the plaintiff in an action.

Channell, Q.C. (with him, Hollams), for the Incorporated Law Society, supported the motion.

Finlay, Q.C. (with him, Pollard and E. C. Robinson), shewed cause.

Application on behalf of Sir E. Stepney, one of the parties to an arbitration, to refer back the award on the ground that the arbitrators had exceeded their jurisdiction in awarding that the applicant should pay the costs of the reference. It appeared that the arbitration had been held and the award had been made during 1890. The reference was of certain claims of J. R. Williams upon the applicant under a lease of mines and minerals made in 1839 between their predecessors in title pursuant to an arbitration clause therein contained. This clause did not provide that the costs of references held under it should be in the discretion of the arbitrators.

W. B. Odgers, contra.

THE COURT (Mathew and Day, JJ.) considered the effect of sects. 2 and 25 of the Arbitration Act, 1889, and held, that as the submission was entered into before the commencement of the Act and did not give power to award costs, the arbitrators had exceeded their jurisdiction.

Application for joint grant of administration.

Mr. Dickinson, late of Benton, in the county of Northumberland, died on the 24th of February, 1891, leaving a widow and five children surviving him—of whom four were of age, and the fifth was twenty years and six months.

The deceased died intestate, but left a testamentary paper which he had signed—but which was not attested—in which he expressed his desire that his property should be equally divided, and that his business should be carried on by his wife and two sons. Accordingly an application was made in the Registry, by consent of all parties, for a joint grant to the widow and the two eldest sons of deceased; but it was refused on the ground that such grants were unusual, and that a grant could not be made in this case because all the parties whose consent was necessary were not of age.

Searle, now moved the Court for a joint grant, and pointed out that in the case of In the Goods of Neubold (Law Rep. 1 P. & M. 235), relied on in the Registry, several of the children were very young.

JAMES, J.: Under the special circumstances, and considering that the only infant is so very near to not being an infant that a joint grant may be made to the widow and the two eldest sons.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Q. B. D. DE SOUZA v. COBDEN. April 15, 16.
 County Council—Election as Member—Women, Incapacity of—

Lapse of Twelve Months—Disqualification—Penalties—Municipal Corporations Act, 1882 (45 & 46 Vict. c. 50), ss. 41, 73—Local Government Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 41), ss. 2, 75.

Appeal from the judgment of Day, J., at the trial without a jury.

The action was brought against the defendant for penalties for acting as a member of the County Council, though disqualified, under the 41st section of the Municipal Corporations Act, 1882, which is incorporated by the Local Government Act, 1888.

The facts were as follows: The defendant, a single woman, was elected a member of the London County Council. Twelve months having elapsed without any proceedings taken to question the validity of her election, she acted after the twelve months on certain occasions as a member.

By section 41 of the Municipal Corporations Act, 1882, it is provided that, if a person acts in a corporate office without having made the declaration by this Act required, or without being qualified at the time of making the declaration, or after ceasing to be qualified, or after becoming disqualified, he shall for each offence be liable to a fine not exceeding 50*l.*, recoverable by action. Section 73 of the same Act, also incorporated by the Local Government Act, 1888, provides that every municipal election not called in question within twelve months after the election, either by election petition or information in the nature of a quo warranto, shall be deemed to have been to all intents a good and valid election. The learned judge held that the defendant was liable to the penalties, and gave judgment accordingly.

Rigby, Q.C., and Bigham, Q.C. (Costelloe, with them), for the defendant.

Bosanquet, Q.C., and S. H. Day, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., Lord Esher, M.R., and Fry, L.J.), were of opinion that the defendant was liable to the penalties under section 41, notwithstanding section 73. By LORD ESHER, M.R.: Section 73 does not render the election of a woman valid after the lapse of twelve months.

Appeal dismissed.

Misrepresentation in Prospectus—Action of Deceit—Onus Probandi.

This was an appeal from a decision of Romer, J. (Weekly Notes, 1890, p. 210). The plaintiff sued for damages in an action of deceit against directors of a company, alleging that he had been induced to take shares in the company, relying on a misrepresentation in the prospectus issued by the authority of the defendants, to the effect that full reports of the value of the property had been prepared for the directors; whereas in fact none had been prepared by their instructions or on their behalf, and the report on which the plaintiff chiefly relied had been prepared on the instructions of the agents of the vendor from whom the company had purchased the property. The value of the shares had considerably decreased. Romer, J.

held that the misrepresentation was substantial and material, and gave judgment for the plaintiff. The defendants appealed.

Rigby, Q.C., Asquith, Q.C., and Grosvenor Woods, for the appellants.

Sir H. Davey, Q.C., and T. R. Hughes, for the respondent.

LINDLEY, L.J., said that it was conceded that the defendants, as directors of the company, were responsible for the issue of the prospectus. The plaintiff complained that the statement in the prospectus, that the reports had been prepared for the directors, was untrue, to the knowledge of the defendants, and claimed relief on the ground of fraud. But it was remarkable that the judgment of Romer, J., did not find as a fact that these directors had been guilty of fraud; he only held that the statement in the prospectus was not true, and therefore the defendants were liable. His mind did not seem to have been directed to the particular point whether the defendants in making the false statement had been guilty of fraud. Before the decision of the House of Lords in Derry v. Peck (14 App. Cas. 337) he thought this action might have been supported; but that decision had settled once for all that an action against directors for negligent, as distinguished from fraudulent, misrepresentation, could not be maintained. After examining in detail the evidence of the various defendants, his Lordship came to the conclusion that none of them saw the importance of the statement complained of. The judge who heard the evidence had not found them guilty of fraud, and he did not think that the Court of Appeal ought to find them guilty on the same evidence. Consequently, the action could not be maintained against them; but as the defendants had been guilty of gross carelessness, the action would be dismissed against them without costs.

This was an appeal by the two executors who had proved from a decision of Kekewich, J. (43 Ch. Div. 643), that the executor who had renounced was competent to act in the exercise of a power given to "my executors herein named" to select charities to take the residue.

J. D. Crawford, for the appeal.

Ingle Joyce, for the Attorney-General.

The renouncing executor did not appear.

THE COURT (Lindley, Bowen, and Kay, L.J.J.) held, that on the construction of this particular will the power was given to the executors in their official capacity, and was exercisable by those who had proved, and by them only.

Libel—Publication—Interlocutory Injunction—Jurisdiction—Discretion—Judicature Act, 1873, s. 25 (8).

Appeal by the defendant against an interlocutory injunction granted by North, J. (ante, p. 48), restraining, until the trial of the action or further order, the publication of an article which had been published in the defendant's newspaper, and which the plaintiffs alleged to be a libel upon them. No pleadings had been delivered; but the defendant deposed that he should be able at the trial to justify the libel by proving its truth.

Cosens-Hardy, Q.C., and W. E. Vernon, for the appellant.

Napier Higgins, Q.C., and Dunham, for the plaintiffs.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., Lord Esher, M.R., and Lindley, Bowen, Fry, and Kay, L.J.J.), allowed the appeal, and dissolved the injunction, Kay, L.J., dissenting from the majority.

THE COURT were unanimous in holding that there was jurisdiction to grant such an injunction, but that the jurisdiction should be exercised only under very special circumstances. The majority of the Court were of opinion that the circumstances of this case were not such as to justify the granting of an injunction.

KAY, L.J., was of opinion that under the circumstances the injunction should be granted.

Will—Satisfaction—Shares in a Brewery—Double Portions—Purchase for Value.

This was an appeal from a decision of Romer, J. (ante, p. 25), holding that a bequest in a will of certain shares in a brewery to his son, E. Lacon, was satisfied pro tanto by a subsequent gift to him of two of the shares. E. Lacon appealed.

Rigby, Q.C., Neville, Q.C., and Begg, for the appellant.

Sir H. Davey, Q.C., and Borthwick, for the plaintiff.

Haldane, Q.C., P. S. Gregory, and E. S. Ford, for other parties.

LINDLEY, L.J., said that the law as to double portions was clearly laid down by Lord Eldon in Ex parte Pys (18 Ves. 140). But the question was whether in this case the presumption against double portions was rebutted. There was great difficulty, looking at all the circumstances under which the new partnership arrangement was made, in saying that the two shares were given to E. Lacon by way of anticipation of the provision made for him by the will. But assuming that both provisions were portions, the question was whether the circumstances were sufficient to rebut the presumption against a father giving a double portion to one of his children. He was of opinion that the circumstances shewed that the father's intention was not only to anticipate the provision he had made by his will, but to give his son an increased payment for his services in the brewery. He probably thought it an advantage to the family that one son should be brought up to the business, and intended to give him an additional interest in the business beyond what he would have under the will. The appeal must therefore be allowed.

BOWEN and KAY, L.J.J., gave judgment to the same effect.

FARNHAM LOCAL BOARD AND FARNHAM ELECTRIC LIGHT COMPANY v. SMITH.

Urban Authority—Street—"Area of User"—Poles and Electric Wires—Powers of Lighting—Trespass—Injunction—Public Health Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 55), ss. 149, 161.

The defendant was the owner in fee of land abutting on a highway repairable by the inhabitants at large, and vested in the plaintiff local board. The board had entered into a contract with the plaintiff electric light company for the lighting of the district by electricity. No licence from the Board of Trade or provisional order had been obtained under the Electric Lighting Acts, 1882 and 1888, but the poles and overhead wires had been set up under a licence from the board. The defendant desired to build, and alleged that the posts and wires were so placed opposite his frontage as to interfere with his proposed plans; he also claimed, as owner of the land adjacent to this highway, to be entitled to the subsoil of the adjoining half of the road, and also to be entitled to treat the plaintiffs as trespassers. The plaintiffs thereupon commenced this action for an injunction to restrain the defendant from cutting or otherwise interfering with the electric wires and poles.

*Whitehorn, Q.C., and A. Glen, for the plaintiffs. F
 Farwell, Q.C., and B. W. Smith, for the defendant.*

CHITTY, J., held, after assuming in the defendant's favour that he was right in his claim to the subsoil of the adjoining half of the road, that still the road in question was a street vested in the local board under the Public Health Act, 1875, sect. 149, and that, according to Coverdale v. Charlton (4 Q. B. D. 105), and Wandsworth Board of Works v. United Telephone Company (13 Q. B. D. 904), what was comprised in the term "street" was not merely the surface of the road, but what had been described as the "area of user" therein, i.e., the soil beneath the actual road to such a depth beneath, and the space over the surface to such a height above, as was reasonably required to enable the local authority to execute its statutory powers and perform its statutory duties; that the right of a local board, under the first part of sect. 161 of the Public Health Act, 1875, to provide light by "other means" than gas, viz., as in this case by electricity, was not affected by the subsequent paragraphs, which were only inserted to prevent an urban authority from invading the regulated monopoly of any gas company in its district; that the work done by the electric light company, under the licence of the local board, was within the "area of user" vested in the board, and that the defendant was not entitled to interfere, and that the plaintiffs were, consequently, entitled to an injunction in the terms asked.

IN RE HARRIS.
FITZROY v. HARRIS.

Condition precedent—Act of God.

John Creighton Harris, having survived his wife, had, by virtue of a marriage settlement, a power of appointing certain property among the children of the marriage and their issue, subject as to part of the settled property to his own life interest, and as to the other part to a life interest in other persons. He had one child only, Mabel Isabella. By a deed poll, dated July, 1881, he appointed the income of the settled property for a period of twenty-one years, subject to the previous life interests, to his daughter Mabel Isabella, "if she shall so long live, and remain a spinster, or shall marry with the previous consent in writing of the said John Creighton Harris, during his life, and after his death and during the same term of the trustees or trustee for the time being, of the said settlement." There was [an appointment over in favour of the children of his daughter who should be living at the expiration of the term of twenty-one years, and being sons, should attain twenty-one years, and being daughters, attain that age or marry.

In February, 1884, John Creighton Harris was found a lunatic. He never became of sound mind. In November, 1884, his daughter married Stephen John Tothill. John Creighton Harris died in April, 1890.

This was an originating summons raising the question whether Mrs. Tothill was entitled under the appointment to the income of the settled property during the twenty years, notwithstanding that she had married without the consent of her father in his lifetime, he being at the time of the marriage incapable of giving such consent.

Morshead, for the plaintiffs, the trustees of the settlement.

Percy Wheeler, for Mrs. Tothill:—(1) The appointor had no power to impose the condition depending on his own consent being given to the marriage; the appointment itself stands, and amounts to an appointment in any event. (2) The fulfilment of the condition literally became impossible by the act of God; it is to be considered as if it were fulfilled. The Court will read the condition as if it were in case of the daughter marrying with the consent of the father (while capable of consenting).

Waylet Ellis, for the daughter's infant child:—The conditions did not, in fact, become impossible of performance, by reason of the father's becoming of unsound mind, for he might have recovered.

NORTH, J., held, that the condition, which had become incapable of fulfilment by the act of God, being a condition precedent, the appointment did not take effect, and Mrs. Tot-hill was not entitled to the income during the twenty-one years.

Trust for Sale—Power to appoint New Trustees—Exercise by Heir—“Acting Trustees”—“Bare Trustees.”

By lease and release, dated the 22nd and 23rd of November 1856, real estate was conveyed unto and to the use of W. D. and T. P., their heirs and assigns, upon trust that W. D. and T. P., or their assigns, or the survivors of them, or the heirs and assigns of such survivor or other the trustees or trustee for the time being, should sell the real estate. There was also a proviso that if any of the trustees thereby appointed should die or decline to act, it should be lawful for certain persons therein named (who died without exercising the power), and the survivors and survivor of them, and after the death of such survivor “to and for the acting trustees or trustee for the time being, or the executors or administrators of the last acting trustee, to appoint” new trustees.

T. P. survived W. D., and died intestate in January, 1855, leaving his eldest son and his heir, T. H. P., surviving.

T. H. P. died intestate in 1857, leaving his eldest son and heir, T. S. H. P., surviving.

T. S. H. P. died intestate on the 4th of September, 1876, leaving three daughters, his co-heiresses, him surviving.

These daughters never received the rents or otherwise acted in the trust until the 7th of June, 1890, when they executed a deed by which, as trustees, they purported to appoint three persons as new trustees.

The new trustees having entered into a contract of sale, the purchaser objected that the deed of 1890 was not a valid appointment, and the question whether the vendors had power to sell was raised on a summons under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874.

H. F. Lawes, for the vendors.

Warrington, for the purchaser.

STIRLING, J., said that, on the authority of In re Morton and Ballis (15 Ch. Div. 143), the co-heiresses could have exercised the trust for sale, and therefore they were trustees for the time being. But were they “acting trustees”? They did not receive rents, but on being called on they did act by exercising the power of appointment. Mr. Warrington had raised the point that, as T. S. H. P. had died after the coming into operation of sect. 48 of the Land Transfer Act, 1875, the trust estate vested in his personal representative because he was a “bare trustee.” On this point there were the conflicting opinions of Mill, V.-C., in Christie v. Orington (1 Ch. Div. 279), and of Jessel, M.R., in Morgan v. Swansea Urban Sanitary Authority (9 Ch. Div. 582), and his Lordship preferred the former opinion.

The new trustees were therefore validly appointed, and could make a good title.

Company—Alteration of Memorandum of Association—Extension to New Business—Sanction of Court—Conditions—Companies (Memorandum of Association) Act, 1890, s. 1 (3), (4), (5), (d).

The memorandum of association of a company defined one of its objects to be “to invest money in the purchase of, or otherwise acquire and hold, any bonds, stocks, obligations, or securities of foreign or colonial or British Governments, states, dominions, sovereigns, provinces, municipalities, or ruling or public authorities, or the shares or obligations of foreign railways, or other undertakings having the guarantee of or subsidized by a foreign or colonial or British Government, state, dominion, sovereign, province, municipality, or ruling or public authority, or any other security for the payment of which the credit, or any property or revenue of, any such government, state, dominion, sovereign, province, municipality, or ruling or public authority, is pledged, charged, or made liable.” The large funds of the company could no longer be confined to investments in this limited class of securities, and resolutions were passed and confirmed that the memorandum should be altered by inserting therein a clause extending the class of securities by authorizing the investment of the company's money in “bonds, debentures, debenture stock, obligations, or mortgages of any companies or corporations formed or incorporated under British, foreign, or colonial law.”

A petition was presented for obtaining the confirmation, by the Court, of the resolutions.

Buckley, Q.C., and E. Cecil, supported the petition, but referred to In re Governments Stock Investment Company (ante, p. 48), where Chitty, J., seemed to have held that such an alteration as that proposed was not within sect. 1 (5), of the Companies (Memorandum of Association) Act, 1890.

STIRLING, J., said, that the case was within sub-clause (d) of sect. 1 (5) of the Act, which empowered the Court to confirm an alteration enabling the company “to carry on some business or businesses which, under existing circumstances, may conveniently or advantageously be combined with the business of the company.” His Lordship had consulted Chitty, J., with reference to the case cited, and found that he had expressed no opinion on the point whether the case came within sub-clause (d). In exercising its discretion the Court could impose conditions, and the sanction of the Court in the present case must be conditional on the company altering its name in such a way that persons dealing with it might not be misled into supposing that its investments were limited to government securities. The petition must stand over to enable steps to be taken to alter the name.

This was an application to alter registered trade labels by expunging from them the words "trade mark." The application was made in consequence of certain words reported to have been used by Fry, L. J., in the recent case of In re The Apollinaris Company's Trade Marks (85 Sol. J. 153), which had led to an apprehension that where the words "trade mark" were used in proximity to a particular part of the mark, the effect might be that such particular part only was protected, and protection for the mark as a whole was lost.

Cosens-Hardy, Q.C., and Sebastian, for the applicants.

Sir R. E. Webster, A.G., and Ingle Jeyes, for the Comptroller-General, did not oppose the application provided proper terms were imposed in the interest of the public. The words "trade mark" as used indicated to the public the part of the label which was essential, and if those words were taken off the applicants ought to be required to state what particulars were essential and what were not, so that the public might know which part of the label they might take without infringing the rights of the applicants.

Cosens-Hardy, Q.C., submitted that no terms ought to be imposed which were not in accordance with the Act of 1883, under which the labels were registered.

KEKEWICH, J., thought that the course suggested on the part of the Comptroller was necessary to meet the justice of the case. The applicants came to the Court for an act of grace, and they must take it on proper terms. His Lordship granted the application on the applicants undertaking to indorse on their application and enter on the register a statement of the essential particulars of each mark, and a disclaimer of the exclusive right to the added matter, if any, to the satisfaction of the Comptroller, but with liberty to apply to the Court.

Application by the defendant for a writ of prohibition, directed to the judge and officers of the City of London Court and the plaintiff, referred by Pollock, B., at chambers, to the Court.

The plaintiff sued the defendant in the City of London Court to recover 38*l.* money lent, upon a default summons. The defendant did not reside or carry on business within the City, but was employed within the City.

By sect. 39 of the London (City) Small Debts Extension Act, 1852, jurisdiction was given to the City of London Court over defendants who "had employment within the City." By the County Courts Act, 1888, in which the City of London Court is included within the definition of County Court, it is provided by sect. 185 that "the judge and officers of the City of London Court shall have the like jurisdiction, power, and authority as the judge and officers of the County Court," and that the "rules and orders in force in the County Courts and forms of proceedings therein shall be in force in the City of London Court to the exclusion of any other rules and orders." County Courts have no jurisdiction over a defendant who is only employed within their district, and none of the forms are applicable to a default summons against such a defendant.

Appeal from County Court.

The plaintiff was tenant to Lady Emily Foley (one of the defendants) of a cottage and garden down to the 24th of June, 1890, when his tenancy was determined by a valid notice to quit. The lessor was desirous of pulling the house down and building a new one on its site, and informed the plaintiff of that fact; but the plaintiff refused to quit. On the 3rd of September a warrant was issued by justices under 1 & 2 Vict. c. 74, directing the constables to give the lessor possession after twenty-one days from the date of the warrant. On the same day, the 3rd of September, the defendant Baker, a builder who had contracted with the lessor for the rebuilding of the cottage proceeded to remove the roof, whereby certain tiles unavoidably fell from the roof on to the plaintiff's furniture in the room below and damaged it. The plaintiff brought an action in the County Court for trespass and injury to furniture. It was contended on his behalf that the issuing of the justices' warrant suspended the lessor's right of entry until after expiry of the twenty-one days; but that even if that were not so, the act of the defendants in stripping off the roof amounted to a forcible entry, and that consequently the defendants could not justify the injury to the furniture. The verdict and judgment passed for the plaintiff.

The defendants appealed.

R. H. Amphlett, for the defendants.

A. T. Lawrence, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Day and Lawrence, JJ.) held (1) that the freeholders' common law right of entry was not affected by the issuing of the possession warrant; (2) that the removal of the not did not amount to a forcible entry, and that the facts relied on by the plaintiff established no cause of action. They accordingly ordered judgment to be entered for the defendants.

Q. B. D. JOYNER v. WEEKS. Jan. 20; April 17.

Landlord and Tenant—Lease—Breach of Covenant to deliver up in repair—Reletting of House—Measure of Damages.

Action for damages for breach of covenant by the lessee of a house to keep it and deliver it up in repair, referred for trial to the official referee under Order XXXVI. At the trial the breach was proved, and the cost of making good the dilapidations was allowed to be 70l., which the plaintiff claimed to be the measure of the damages to which he was entitled. Previously to the determination of the defendant's lease, the plaintiff had executed a new lease of the house to one Lewis, to commence on the expiration of the defendant's tenancy, by which Lewis covenanted to lay out 200l. in making alterations to the house, and to keep the premises in repair. Immediately after the determination of defendant's tenancy, Lewis entered and made the alterations and effected repairs amounting to 45l.; he made no claim on the plaintiff for the cost of the repairs. The defendant contended that the plaintiff had suffered no loss, and was only entitled to nominal damages. The official referee assented to this contention, and gave judgment for the plaintiff for one farthing, and ordered him to pay the whole costs of the action. The plaintiff moved an appeal to enter judgment for 70l. or in the alternative for a new trial.

THE COURT (Wills and Wright, JJ.), held (1) that the official referee was wrong in holding that, in consequence of his having relet the house to Lewis, the plaintiff had suffered no loss, and was entitled to nominal damages only, and (2) that the proper measure of damages in an action brought after the expiration of the term for a breach of covenant to repair was the diminution in value of the lessor's estate by reason of the non-repair, and sent back the action to the official referee for a new trial.

Case stated by an alderman of the City of London, sitting at the Guildhall Police Court.

By sect. 2 of the Nuisances Removal Act, 1863 (26 & 27 Vict. c. 117), the inspector of nuisances may examine any animal, carcass, &c., exposed for sale, or deposited in any place for the purpose of sale or of preparation for sale, and intended for the food of man, and may seize unsound meat and obtain a justice's order for its destruction; "and the person to whom such animal, carcass, &c., belongs or did belong at the time of sale or of exposure for sale, or in whose possession or on whose premises the same is found, shall upon conviction be liable to a penalty," &c.

The appellant, a farmer in Northamptonshire, sent certain meat to a salesman in the Central Meat Market in London for sale; the meat was unfit for human food when sent, and it was found in the case that it was unfit to the knowledge of the appellant. The salesman, seeing that the meat was bad, did not expose it for sale, but put it aside, and called the attention of the inspector to it, who removed it, and obtained an order for its destruction. The appellant was then summoned as the owner of certain pieces of meat deposited for the purpose of sale, and was convicted.

Toller, for the appellant, contended that the penalty was only imposed upon the owner in cases where the meat was actually exposed for sale, and that unless such exposure took place mere ownership was insufficient to render him liable to a penalty.

G. M. Freeman, for the respondent, contended that the meat having been knowingly sent up for the purpose of being used for human food, exposure for sale was unnecessary, and that mere ownership was sufficient to render the appellant liable to a penalty.

THE COURT (Day and Lawrence, JJ.), held that, there having been no exposure for sale, the owner was not liable under the language of the section, and allowed the appeal without costs.

Conviction quashed.

CAREW v. CAREW.

Divorce—Alimony pendente lite—Order to produce Partnership Books for Inspection—Refusal to obey—Attachment.

This was a suit by the wife for dissolution of marriage.

A petition had been presented by the wife praying for the allowance of alimony pendente lite; and the respondent, who was in partnership with Mr. Vaile as a financial agent and bill broker, had filed a balance-sheet shewing a loss on his last year's business. A subpoena duces tecum had been served on the firm to produce the partnership books for the last year. Messrs. Vaile & Carew attended the hearing before the registrar, and produced the ledger of the firm, but declined to allow it to be inspected. The registrar made a formal order on them to permit inspection, but they refused to obey it.

Crump, Q.C. (Barnard, with him), now moved for an attachment to issue against Messrs. Vaile & Carew, and cited Elder v. Carter (25 Q. B. D. 194); Jennings v. Jennings (Law Rep. 1 P. & M. 35); Divorce Rules, 191.

Inderwick, Q.C. (B. Deane, with him), submitted that no order of inspection could be made on an interlocutory matter, and that the balance-sheet afforded sufficient information to enable the registrar to make a temporary allotment of alimony. They referred to Hadley v. McDougall (Law Rep. 7 Ch. 312), Kearsley v. Philips (10 Q. B. D. 36), Reid v. Langlois (1 Mac. & G. 627).

JEVNS, J., granted an attachment, but allowed it to lie in the registry for ten days.

Salvage—Action in Personam—Cargo Owners out of the Jurisdiction—Service of Notice of Writ—Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order XI., r. 1 (g).

Motion by defendant cargo owners, out of the jurisdiction, to set aside the service, by the plaintiffs, upon them, of notice of a writ served upon the defendant shipowners, within the jurisdiction, in an action in personam for alleged salvage services rendered to ship, freight, and cargo.

The facts were shortly as follows: On the 21st of September, 1890, the screw steamer Elton, belonging to some of the defendants, whilst carrying from Nicolaieff to Bergen, a cargo of grain belonging to the other defendants, stranded in the Black Sea, and the plaintiffs' screw steamer Cervin, having come to her assistance, succeeded, it was alleged, in towing her off.

On the 24th of November, 1890, the writ in the action was issued by the plaintiffs, the owners, master, and crew of the Cervin, against the owners of the Elton, and against the owners of her late cargo, and was served upon the shipowners within the jurisdiction.

On the 9th of December, 1890, the President (Sir James Hannen), on an ex parte application by the plaintiffs, gave leave to serve notice of the writ on the defendant cargo owners at Bergen, in the Kingdom of Norway.

Sir Walter Phillimore, and Stubbs, for the defendant cargo owners, contended that leave ought not to have been given to serve the notice of the writ on foreigners residing in Norway in respect of a cause of action which did not arise within the jurisdiction, and that these foreign cargo owners were not necessary or proper parties to an action of salvage in personam against the owners of the salvaged ship.

Builer Aspinall, for the defendants, the owners of the Elton.

J. P. Aspinall, for the plaintiffs, the owners of the Cervin.

JEVNS, J., rejected the motion on the ground that under the Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, Order XI., r. 1 (g), the cargo owners were "proper" parties "to an action properly brought against some other person duly served within the jurisdiction." Costs to be costs in the cause.

WALTHAMSTOW LOCAL BOARD v. STAINES.

Public Health Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 55), ss. 150, 257, 268—Road not a Highway repairable by Inhabitants at large—Expenses of sewerage and making good—Recovery of, by Local Authorities—Charge on Premises—Enforcement of, by Action against a Frontager and his Mortgagees—Dispute as to Amount of Apportionment—Appeal to Local Government Board.

This was an action to enforce charges upon property under sect. 257 of the Public Health Act, 1875, in respect of expenses incurred under sect. 150 of that Act, in sewerage, paving, levelling, and making good certain roads. These roads had been laid out in 1867-8 by a land company, who afterwards sold the adjoining land in building plots. On these plots, houses, the drains of which were connected with the land company's sewer, were built at various times between 1871 and 1878, and in 1881 some of these houses had become the property of the defendant Hulbert. At that time both the roads and the sewer were in bad repair, and on the 25th of May, 1881, the plaintiffs, who were the local board for the district, served notices upon the frontagers, including Hulbert, requiring them to sewer, level, pave, and make good the roads. The frontagers did not comply with the requirement, and the plaintiffs employed a contractor to do the works, which were completed in March, 1883.

In October, 1883, Hulbert mortgaged his houses to the defendant Bellamy and other persons, also defendants to the action. In February, 1884, the plaintiffs served Hulbert with notices of the sums apportioned upon his houses in respect of the expenses of executing the works. The total sum apportioned included certain items consisting of an estimated sum of 4 per cent. for extras, a sum for legal and other expenses, and a further sum of 4 per cent. for expenses of collection.

In June, 1884, they served Hulbert with notice of demand for payment of the sums apportioned on his houses. Hulbert did not comply with the demand, and the plaintiffs summoned him before a magistrate, who in May, 1885, made a personal order against him for payment. Hulbert did not comply with the order; and the plaintiffs, without taking any steps to enforce the order against him personally, on the 17th of January, 1887, brought this action against him and his mortgagees. The action was tried before Caity, J., in July, 1890, and the learned judge found upon the evidence that the roads in question were not highways repairable by the inhabitants at large (as had been contended by the defendants); and held that such roads were not properly seweraged to the satisfaction of the plaintiffs within the meaning of sect. 150, and that the items for extras, legal and other expenses and costs of collection, were properly included in the total sum apportioned; and he made an order charging the property with the sums claimed and costs.

Some of the defendants, other than Hulbert, appealed.

Pollard and Hugh Mitchell, for the appellants.

Byrne, Q.C., and Shebbeare, for the respondents.

THE COURT (Lindley, Bowen, and Kay, L.JJ.), upon the evidence, agreed with the findings of Chitty, J., that the roads in question were not highways repairable by the inhabitants at large, and were not seweraged to the satisfaction of the local authority within the meaning of s. 150 of the Public Health Act 1875; and their Lordships considered that the local authority were entitled to add to the actual expenses of the works the item above mentioned, but held that the appellants were in no better position than their mortgagor, Hulbert, and were not entitled to raise the question as to the apportionment in these proceedings the only remedy for any complaint in respect of the apportionment ment being by appeal to the Local Government Board under sect. 268 of the Public Health Act, 1875.

Infant—Necessaries—Premium for Education—Deed of Apprenticeship—Liability on Covenant to pay Premium.

Motion by the defendant for a new trial of the action, or that judgment might be entered for him.

While the defendant was an infant he was, with the consent of his mother as his guardian, apprenticed to the plaintiff to learn the business of an auctioneer, valuer, and farmer. A deed was executed to which the mother, the defendant (then an infant), and the plaintiff were parties, and by it the defendant covenanted to pay a sum of 300*l.* to the plaintiff, by way of premium, at a future date. The action was brought on this covenant, the defendant having now attained full age. The defendant pleaded (inter alia) infancy at the date of the deed.

GRAHAM, J., held that, notwithstanding his infancy, the defendant was bound by the covenant.

C. Gould, for the defendant.

Dugdale, Q.C., and E. W. Garrett, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and Fry and Lopes, L.JJ.) affirmed the decision and refused the motion. They held that education, for the purpose of learning a trade or business, might be a "necessary" for an infant, and that, if it was a necessary, as it was shewn to be in the present case, the infant was bound by his covenant to pay for it, the amount not being unreasonable. This conclusion was in accordance with Co. Litt. 172 A, Ayliff v. Archdale (Cro. Eliz. 920), Bussell v. Lee (1 Lev. 86), Keane v. Boycott (2 H. B. 511), and *Cooper v. This was an appeal from a decision of Chitty, J. (ante, p. 19).

Murphy, Q.C., Costelloe, and W. H. Stevenson, for the appeal.

T. Willes Chitty, for the respondents, was not called upon.

THE COURT (Lindley, Bowen, and Kay, L.JJ.) said, that as the girl had neither father, mother, nor guardian, there was no person who had any right to her custody, or any right to say that she should be brought up a Roman Catholic. The Court then had only to consider what was most for the benefit of the child. The antenuptial undertaking that the children should be brought up Roman Catholics created no legal obligation on the father, and could not bind the Court. It was for the child's benefit that she should be given to the lady who had taken care of her from her father's death, to whom she was attached, and who undertook to make a provision for her. She would be at liberty to bring up the child as a Protestant, and she and the brother of the child's father were proper persons for guardians. The appeal, therefore, was dismissed.

Revenue—Legacy Duty—Will—Trust to carry on Testator's Business in conjunction with his Son—Annuity to Son while carrying on the Business—8 & 9 Vict. c. 76, s. 4.

Appeal from North, J.

The Stamp Duties Act, 1845 (8 & 9 Vict. c. 76), s. 4, provides that every gift by any will of any person which, by virtue of any such will, shall be payable, or have effect, or be satisfied out of the personal estate or effects of such person, whether such gift shall be by way of annuity, or in any other form, shall be deemed a legacy within the meaning of the Legacy Duty Acts, and shall be liable to such duty.

A testator who died in November, 1876, by his will gave his business to three trustees upon trust to carry it on in conjunction with his son, and directed that whilst the trustees should be carrying on the business each of them should receive 250*l.* out of the profits thereof; and that whilst his son should be managing the business in conjunction with the trustees, he should be entitled to the annual sum of 250*l.*

After the testator's death, the trustees carried on the business in conjunction with the son down to the time of his death, and they and the son received the annual payments provided by the will. The Commissioners of Inland Revenue claimed legacy duty in respect of the amounts thus received by the trustees and his son, and North, J., on the 24th of January, 1891, held (see ante, p. 15) that legacy duty was payable as claimed.

The trustees of the testator and the executors of the son appealed.

Napier Higgins, Q.C., and Macnaghten, for the appellants, contended that the annuities were not gifts, but in the nature of salaries for services rendered.

Vaughan Hawkins, for the Crown, was not called upon.

THE COURT (Lindley, Bowen, and Kay, L.JJ.) held, that the payments in question were gifts by a will payable, or to have effect, or to be satisfied out of the personal estate of the testator, and just as much taxable legacies as any other kind of legacy; and they affirmed the decision of North, J., and dismissed the appeal with costs.

Company—Winding-up—Certificate of Registration—Memorandum of Association alleged to be signed by only Six Persons—Companies Act, 1862, ss. 6, 18.

This was an appeal from a decision of Kekewich, J., dismissing a petition for winding up the company, which was already being wound up voluntarily, on the ground that the evidence shewed that only six persons signed the memorandum of association, and consequently that he had no jurisdiction to make a winding-up order (ante, p. 38). The petitioners appealed. Some fresh evidence was given before the Court of Appeal.

Warrington, Q.C., and C. E. E. Jenkins, for the appellants.

Marten, Q.C., and Warrington, for the liquidator.

G. White, for creditors.

THE COURT (Lindley, Bowen, and Kay, L.JJ.) agreed with Kekewich, J., that if there had been less than seven signatories to the memorandum of association the Court would have had no jurisdiction to make a winding-up order; but held, on the evidence, that there were, in fact, seven signatories; and being of opinion that a compulsory order for winding-up would be for the benefit of the creditors, they made the order asked for.

ELLIS v. BARFIELD.

Company—Shares—Tenant for Life—Bonus—Income and Capital.

This was an originating summons to determine whether the proceeds of the sale of certain new shares issued to trustees as the holders of existing shares in the European Gas Company were income or capital as between the parties interested in the estate. The plaintiffs were the trustees of the will of William Northage, who died in 1852. The defendants were Samuel Barfield, who was entitled as assignee to the income of one-half the residuary estate of the testator during the life of a third person, and Alexander Meldrum, who was beneficially entitled to the residuary estate, subject to the interest of the defendant Barfield. The testator's estate, in 1890, comprised 150 fully paid-up shares in the European Gas Company. At that time the shares of the company were all 10s. shares, some of which were paid in full, some had 7s. 10s. paid up, and the rest 5s. paid up. At a meeting of the company, held in July, 1890, resolutions were passed: (1) Authorizing the directors to distribute among the shareholders 250,545s. cash, standing to the credit of depreciation and redemption account and representing accumulated profits, to be payable on the 6th of September, 1890, to the shareholders in proportion to the amounts paid upon their shares, such bonus dividend being, at the option of any shareholder, applicable to the amounts then due in respect of any new shares or in respect of calls. (2) That the capital should be increased to 840,150s., by the issue of 13,203 new 10s. shares to be paid up in full. (3) That the new shares should be offered to holders of shares fully paid and holders of shares with 7s. 10s. paid up, in the proportion of one share for every two fully paid shares, and one share for every eight shares with 7s. 10s. paid up. It was resolved at the same meeting that a call should be made of 2s. 10s. a share on the shares with 7s. 10s., and 5s. paid up.

The trustees were offered 75 new shares. They accepted them, and the bonus dividend allocated in respect of the 150 old shares they held was applied in paying for them; the new shares were sold for 1863s. This was done with the consent of the parties interested, without prejudice to their rights in the advantages arising out of the transaction.

H. Charlton Hawkins, for the trustees.

Cohen, Q.C., and Edward Ford, for the defendant Barfield, admitted that the difference between 1863s. and the bonus dividend of 750s. belonged to the inheritance. They claimed that 750s. was income belonging to the tenants for life.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and Brinton, for the defendant Meldrum: NORTH, J., held that the 750s. was as between the persons interested in the testator's estate income.

Solicitors for the trustees and the defendant Meldrum: EM & Ellis.

Company—Director—Qualification Shares—Contributory.

This was a summons by Lord Inchiquin to have his name removed from the list of contributories of the above company in respect of forty 5s. shares, on which nothing had been paid. The company was registered in October, 1888. Lord Inchiquin was one of the original directors of the company. The articles provided that each director should hold at least forty shares in the company. By the minutes of a directors' meeting of the 25th of October, 1888, it appeared that forty shares were allotted to Lord Inohiquin; his name was placed on the register of shareholders in respect of those shares before he acted as director.

Lord Inohiquin never applied for any shares, and did not know till the company was wound up that any shares had been allotted to him, or that his name had been placed on the register of shareholders in respect of the shares allotted to him. He first acted as director by attending a meeting in November, 1888, where he acted as chairman. He acquired forty fully paid-up shares in January, 1889, which were duly transferred to him and registered in his name.

WELCH v. COLT.

April 25.

Power of Revocation and New Appointment—Exercise by Will—General Devise—Wills Act, 1837, s. 27.

Originating summons by the trustees of the will of a testatrix, to determine whether the will operated as an exercise of a power of revocation and new appointment, which was vested in the testatrix by a deed.

By the deed executed in 1870, a house called Heron Lodge was appointed by the testatrix and her husband to certain uses, and ultimately to the use of trustees in fee upon trust for sale, and to stand possessed of the proceeds of sale upon trust for all and every the children of a niece of the testatrix equally, at twenty-one or marriage. Power was reserved to the testatrix and her husband during their joint lives by deed, and to the survivor of them by deed or will, to revoke the uses therein declared, and by the same or any other deed or will to declare her uses. The testatrix survived her husband, and the uses declared by the deed of 1870, prior to those in favour of the trustees for sale, came to an end. The joint power of revocation and new appointment was never exercised, nor was the power reserved to the testatrix as survivor ever exercised by her by deed. Her will she devised all her real estate to the plaintiffs on trust for sale, and to pay certain legacies out of the proceeds, and to hold the residue in trust for two of the daughters of the testatrix in equal shares. The testatrix had no real estate of her own. On behalf of the two daughters of the niece, it was pleaded that, by virtue of sect. 27 of the Wills Act, the will operated as an exercise of the power of revocation and new appointment which the testatrix had under the deed of 1870, and by virtue of that power the testatrix had power to appoint Heron Lodge "in any manner she might think proper."

Quinn, for the plaintiffs.

Coomes-Hardy, Q.C., and R. F. Norton, for the two daughters of the niece, and for the trustees of the marriage settlement of one of them.

Rigby, Q.C., and Ingle Joyce, for two sons of the niece; and Clark, for the third daughter of the niece, were not called on.

NORTH, J., held, that the will did not operate as an exercise of the power. In his opinion, sect. 27 did not apply, because the existing appointment had to be got rid of by a revocation before the power of new appointment could be exercised. His Lordship could see nothing to displace the appointment in favour of the five children of the niece, and there was, therefore, no power which could be exercised by the will. In his Lordship's opinion the point was really concluded by Pomfret v. Perring (5 D. M. & G. 775); Palmer v. Newell (20 Beav. 32); and Charles v. Burke (43 Ch. Div. 223, n.).

KENSINGTON AND KNIGHTSBRIDGE ELECTRIC LIGHTING COMPANY v. LANE FOX ELECTRICAL COMPANY.

Patent—Agreement to Assign—Action by Patentee for Infringement—Threats by Equitable Assigns—Injunction to restrain Threats—Patents, Designs, and Trade Marks Act, 1883, s. 32.

L., by an agreement dated the 31st of July, 1890, agreed to assign certain letters patent to the defendant company, of which he was the managing director, and in which he was a large shareholder. He remained registered owner of the letters patent, and on the 15th of November, 1890, commenced an action against the plaintiffs for an alleged infringement of his patent. Whilst this action was pending, the defendant company, on the 21st of February, 1891, sent to a customer of the plaintiffs a letter and circular, threatening him with liability for an alleged infringement of the patent.

The plaintiffs then commenced an action against the defendant company to restrain the continuance of the threats, and moved for an interlocutory injunction.

Hastings, Q.C., and Roger Wallace, for the plaintiffs.

J. C. Graham, for the defendant company.

STIRLING, J., said the defendant company, who were uttering the threats, had no legal rights in the patent, and were only entitled in equity to an assignment thereof on terms not disclosed. If they wanted relief they must bring an action against L. to complete their title. The proviso to sect. 32 of the Patents, Designs, and Trade Marks Act, 1883, enacted that the section which gave the right to bring an action to restrain the threats should not apply "if the person making the threats with due diligence commences and prosecutes an action for infringement of his patent"; but the defendants, who were the persons threatening, had not brought an action and were not entitled to sue, as was shewn by the fact of L. suing. The defendants were not within the proviso, and the injunction must be granted.

Settled Land Act, 1882 (45 & 46 Vict. c. 38), s. 2, sub-s. 5; s. 56, sub-s. 2; s. 58, sub-s. 1—Tenant for Life—Heir at Law entitled for Life under lapsed Devise—Powers of Leasing—Consent of Tenant for Life.

A testator, who died in 1869, devised real estate to trustees upon trust, after paying certain annuities, to accumulate the rents during the life of the testator's son and after the son's death in trust for the son's children; and gave the trustees a power to grant building leases at their discretion. The period of accumulation allowed by the Thellusson Act having expired, the son, as heir-at-law, became entitled to the rents for the remainder of his life. The son was a lunatic not so found by inquisition, and the trustees, being desirous of exercising the power of leasing, took out a summons for the opinion of the Court whether the consent of the son was necessary to the exercise of the power.

Sturges, and F. A. Jones, for the trustees.

KEKEWICH, J., held, that the son as heir-at-law being beneficially entitled for his life was tenant for life, or a person having the powers of a tenant for life under sect. 2, sub-sect. 5, and sect. 58, sub-sect. 1, and that his consent to the exercise of the power was necessary by virtue of sect. 56, sub-sect. 2.

Kekewich, J. DAVIES v. LOWEN. April, 24.
Covenant—Contract of Service—Restraint of Trade—Severing Covenant—Injunction.

The defendant, on entering the service of the plaintiffs, a London firm of "foreign carriers and express agents in London, Liverpool, and New York," agreed with them in writing that he would not, "within twelve calendar months after the termination of this agreement, from whatever cause, carry on or be engaged or interested in, either directly or indirectly, in the cities of London, Birmingham, Liverpool, and New York, or any of such cities, or within fifty miles thereof, either as principal, agent, clerk, or otherwise, in any business similar to the business now or hereafter to be carried on by" the plaintiffs. On the 21st of February last, the defendant gave the plaintiffs a month's notice of his intention to leave their service, and at the end of the month he entered the service of a rival firm of carriers in London, when, it was said, he proceeded to solicit orders from various customers of his former employers. The plaintiffs then brought this action to enforce the agreement, and now moved for an interim injunction to restrain the defendant from carrying on, &c., until the 21st of March, 1892, in the form of the above words of the agreement, except that the concluding words of the notice of motion were "or otherwise, in any business similar to that carried on by the plaintiffs."

Marten, Q. C., and Ingle Joyce, for the plaintiffs.

C. E. E. Jenkins, for the defendant.

KEKEWICH, J., said that, as he understood the law applicable to such a case as the present, having regard to the judgments of the Court of Appeal in Davies v. Davies (36 Ch. Div. 359), it was that where you had a covenant in restraint of trade limited with regard to space, and also limited with regard to time, you must first ascertain whether in those respects the covenant was reasonable; and, secondly, as a necessary incident to that first inquiry, you must inquire whether it was reasonably required for the protection of the parties. Here the covenant, limited with regard to time to twelve months from the termination of the defendant's service, was a reasonable stipulation. With regard to space, it was clearly a reasonable limitation so far as regarded the nature of the plaintiffs' business which they were carrying on in London, though "Birmingham" ought to be omitted from the injunction, for it was not clearly proved that the plaintiffs had any connection with Birmingham. Upon the second ground, that the agreement was too large, and that the prohibition against the defendant acting as "principal, agent, clerk, or otherwise," was not required for the protection of the plaintiffs, his Lordship thought that, having regard to the character of the plaintiffs' business, the words were not in excess of what was reasonable. As to the stipulation that the defendant should not "hereafter" carry on any business similar to the plaintiffs, it was impossible to contend that was reasonable, and the notice of motion had been properly limited to the business actually carried on by the plaintiffs.

The agreement was thus good in part and bad in part; but, according to the authorities, such a covenant was divisible, and it was therefore possible to hold that it was good as to the business actually carried on by the plaintiffs, though as to the business "hereafter" to be carried on it was bad. Accordingly, there must be an injunction, as damages would not meet the requirements of the case, and the injunction would be in the terms of the notice of motion, but omitting the word "Birmingham," and limiting the business which the defendant was to be restrained from carrying on to that "carried on by the plaintiffs during the employment by them of the defendant."

Licensing Acts—Beerhouse—Change of Occupancy—Grant of Licence to New Tenant under 9 Geo. 4, c. 61, s. 14—Application by same Tenant for a second Licence under same Section—Jurisdiction of Justices to grant.

Mandamus to Justices.

On the 2nd of September, 1889, one Thomas John being then the licensed tenant of a beerhouse gave up possession of the premises, and one Roberts became tenant of the house. On the 27th of September, Roberts applied to the justices sitting at a special transfer sessions for a grant of a licence under 9 Geo. 4, c. 61, s. 14, to himself, as being the "new tenant or occupier of the house having so become unoccupied." That licence was granted, and expired in the ordinary course on the 10th of October, 1889.

On the 3rd of January, 1890, Roberts applied at another special transfer sessions for a grant to him under the same section of a second similar licence, to enable him to carry on the business of a beerhouse keeper until the following 10th of October. The justices refused the application on the ground that they had no jurisdiction to grant more than one such licence to the same tenant. Roberts then obtained a rule nisi in the nature of a mandamus to the justices, to hear and determine his application for such licence.

David Lewis, for the justices, shewed cause.

THE COURT (Smith and Grantham, J.J.) held that the justices had no jurisdiction to entertain the application, and discharged the rule.

Q. B. D. REG. v. JUDGE OF HALIFAX COUNTY COURT. April 22.

County Court—Jurisdiction—Action for Infringement of Patent —Franchise—County Courts Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43), s. 56.

Rule nisi, obtained by the plaintiff in an action in the Halifax County Court, for a mandamus commanding the county court judge to hear and determine the action. The claim stated on the plaint was as follows: "The plaintiff's claim is for an injunction to restrain the infringement of the Letters Patent, dated 18th June, 1885, No. 7425, assigned to the plaintiff, and for an account and damages." The defendant's solicitor gave notice that he intended to dispute the validity of the patent, and at the trial the defendant's counsel objected that there was no jurisdiction to try the action in the county court. On that ground the judge declined to hear the case, and this writ was accordingly obtained.

Feb. 10. T. Terrell, for the county court judge, and the defendant in the action, shewed cause.

R. A. Dale, for the plaintiff, supported the rule.

Cur. adv. vult.

April 22. THE COURT (Pollock, B., and Charles, J.) discharged the rule, holding that the right or privilege granted by letters patent for a new invention was a "franchise" within the meaning of sect. 56 of the County Courts Act, 1888, and that an action in which the title to a patent came in question was therefore excluded from the jurisdiction of the county court.

THE FINSKA ANGFARTIGS AKTIEBOLAGET v. BROWN, TOOGOOD, & Co.

Practice—Costs—Claim and Counter-claim.

Appeal from Chambers.

In an action for 33*l.* for freight, the defendants by the defence admitted the claim, subject to a counter-claim for unliquidated damages for improper stacking of the cargo on a quay.

The action was tried by Charles, J., without a jury. The learned judge gave judgment for the plaintiffs on the claim for the full amount, with costs of the action, and judgment for the defendants on the counter-claim for 45*l.*, with costs of the counter-claim on the High Court scale. On taxation, the Master decided, that as the claim was admitted by the defence, the plaintiffs should have full costs of the action up to that stage, but a small part only of the subsequent costs of going to trial and the costs of signing judgment. A summons to review the taxation was dismissed by Wright, J., at Chambers.

Montague Lush, for the plaintiffs.

Ashton, for defendants.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., and Mathew, J.) said that, as the case was tried without a jury, and the learned judge had power over costs, and had ordered that the plaintiffs should have the costs of the action, they were therefore entitled to the costs of the action.

Q. B. D. REG. v. HUGGINS AND OTHERS. April 24.
Justices—Mandamus—Justices of the Peace—Refusal of Summons—41 Vict. c. 19, s. 4.

Rule nisi for a mandamus to justices to hear and determine an application for a summons under 41 Vict. c. 19 (Matrimonial Causes Act, 1878), s. 4, to reduce the amount of an allowance ordered to a wife.

The justices remitted affidavits, from which it appeared that they heard and refused the application. By sect. 4 an order having the effect of a judicial separation may be made by a magistrate on a husband convicted of an aggravated assault on his wife, to pay a weekly sum for her maintenance, and the magistrate may from time to time on application reduce the amount upon proof that the means of the husband or wife have been altered since the original order, and all orders made under this section shall be subject to appeal to the Probate and Admiralty Division.

Gore-Browne, shewed cause.

Pritchard, in support of the rule, argued, that by refusing the summons the magistrates deprived the applicant of his right of appeal.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, O.J., and Mathew, J.) held, that as the justices had a discretion to grant or refuse the summons, and had exercised it bonâ fide, the rule must be discharged.

Q. B. D. REG. v. SECRETARY OF STATE FOR WAR. April 27.
Mandamus—Servant of Crown—Secretary for War—Royal Warrant, Jurisdiction to grant Mandamus to enforce Terms of Order nisi upon an application by Colonel Edward Mitchell, a retired lieutenant-colonel of the Royal Engineers, calling on the Secretary of State for War to shew cause why a writ of mandamus should not issue to him commanding him to consider and determine, under the terms of a Royal Warrant issued in 1884, what was a just equivalent for any loss the applicant might have incurred by the operation of any Royal Warrants of a later date than the 4th of July, 1872.

The applicant, who entered the Army in 1855, became a major in 1878, and a lieutenant-colonel in 1882; under the conditions affecting his term of service in force when he joined the service he had the option of retiring on a pension of 600*l.* per annum after thirty years' service, or of continuing to serve on full pay, if his health permitted, until attaining the rank of major-general.

By art. 80 of the Royal Warrant of 1884, a lieutenant-colonel appointed to the Royal Engineers after the 30th of September, 1877, was compulsorily to be placed on half-pay after five years' full-pay service; and by art. 972 he was permitted, instead of remaining on half-pay, to retire with retired pay of 450*l.* per annum after five years' service. By art. 973, an officer who held rank not below that of major in the Royal Engineers on the 30th of September, 1877, and who retired from the Army after having been removed from his regimental position of lieutenant-colonel under art. 80, "shall be granted such an addition to his retired pay fixed by art. 972 as the Secretary of State shall consider on the report of the Army Commissioners a just equivalent with reference to any loss which such officer may have incurred by the operation of any of our warrants of a later date than the 2nd of July, 1872. The principle on which such equivalent shall be calculated shall be determined with the concurrence of the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury." A Treasury minute of 1882 laid down the sum of 600*l.* per annum as the limit of retired pay and compensation for loss of employment.

The applicant having been compulsorily placed on half-pay under art. 80, elected to retire from the Army, and was awarded 450*l.* per annum retired pay, and 150*l.* per annum compensation for loss of employment. He contended that upon proper actuarial calculations he was entitled instead of 150*l.* per annum compensation, to 260*l.*, or a lump sum in lieu thereof and eventually filed a petition of right, asking for payment of the full amount of compensation to which he alleged himself to be entitled. A demurrer to the petition of right having been sustained, the present rule was obtained on behalf of Colonel Mitchell.

Sir B. E. Webster, A.G., and Henry Sutton, shewed cause.
Lewis Edmunds, in support of the rule.

Cur. adv. vult.

April 27. THE COURT (Cave and Charles, JJ.), without deciding whether the Secretary of State had as a fact determined what was a just equivalent, held that the Royal Warrant of 1884 did not impose any duty on the Secretary of State for War of public nature in which the applicant was interested, or which an officer or soldier could enforce, but imposed on him a duty or obligation towards the Sovereign only, and that therefore writ of mandamus would not lie.

Assignment of Debts—Right of Assignee to sue—Trust in respect of Moneys recovered—Judicature Act, 1873 (36 & 37 Vict. c. 66), s. 25, sub-s. 6.

{Application to set aside verdict and judgment entered for plaintiff at trial before Pollock, B., with a jury, and to enter them for the defendant.

The facts were as follows. The plaintiff sued as assignee of debts due from defendant to various tradesmen. By deed made between the creditors and the plaintiff, which recited that it had been agreed that the debts should be assigned to the plaintiff on the terms that he should proceed to recover the same and pay to the creditors respectively the amount of their respective debts, or such part thereof as might have been recovered, they assigned their respective debts to the plaintiff to hold the same absolutely. It was contended for the defendant that this was not such an absolute assignment as entitled the plaintiff to sue under sub-sect. 6 of sect. 25 of the Judicature Act, 1873. The learned judge overruled the contention, and verdict and judgment were entered for the plaintiff.

SALAMAN v. WARNER AND OTHERS.

Practise—Order whether Final or Interlocutory—Point of Law raised by Pleadings—Order dismissing Action—Order LVIII., r. 3; Order XXV., rr. 2, 3.

Appeal from the decision of the Divisional Court (Day and Lawrence, JJ.) upon a point of law raised by the defendants on the pleadings, and ordered to be heard before the trial under Order XXV., rr. 2, 3. The point of law so raised was that the statement of claim disclosed no cause of action. On argument the Divisional Court were of opinion that that was so, and made an order dismissing the action with costs. Thereupon the plaintiff gave a four days' notice of appeal as from an interlocutory order.

Sir E. Clarke, S.G., and Cock, Q.C. (A. T. Lawrence, with them), for the defendant Warner, took the preliminary objection that the order was final, and that a fourteen days' notice should have been given under Order LVIII., r. 3.

Sir R. E. Webster, A.G. (C. F. Gill, with him), and Sir Charles Bussell Q.C. (H. Sutton, with him), appeared for the other defendants.

Meulton, Q.C., and T. Willes Chitty (Finlay, Q.C., and McKenna, with them), for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., Fry, L.J., and Lopes, L.J.) thought that the true definition of a "final" order was that suggested by Lord Esher, M.R., in Standard Discount Company v. La Grange (3 C. P. D. 67), viz., that it was an order made upon such an application or proceeding that, in favour of whichever side the order was made, it would finally determine the litigation; that in the case before them, if the order had been in favour of the plaintiff, the action must have proceeded, and therefore the order was not final; and therefore the notice of appeal was rightly given.

Objection overruled.

GEDYE v. COMMISSIONERS OF WORKS.

Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, s. 79—Compulsory Purchase—Leasehold—Payment to Person in Possession—Right to Value of Reversion—Reversioner unknown.

This was an appeal from a decision of North, J. (ante, p. 37), dismissing the summons of C. J. Jolland, by which he claimed a sum of money paid into Court under the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act as the purchase-money for the freehold reversion of a house taken by the Commissioners of Works in 1866. The applicant appealed.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and Borthwick, for the appellant.

Vaughan Hawkins, for the Commissioners, was not called on.

THE COURT (Lindley, Bowen, and Kay, L.J.J.) held, that the decision appealed from was correct, and dismissed the appeal.

Will—Construction—Gift of Fund during Widowhood—Gift of Legacies out of Fund after Death.

This was an appeal from a decision of North, J., holding that certain legacies which were given by the will of J. Tredwell after the death of his wife were payable on the wife's second marriage (ante, p. 35). The residuary legatees appealed.

Sir H. Davey, Q.C., Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and W. Druce, for the appellants.

Willis Bund, and Chataway, for persons in the same interest. Rigby, Q.C., and Methold, for the pecuniary legatees.

Ingle Joyce, for the Attorney-General.

THE COURT (Lindley, Bowen, and Kay, L.J.J.) were of opinion that both the express words and the whole scope of the will shewed that the testator meant the legacies to be deferred till his widow's death, and not to be paid on her second marriage. There was no ambiguity in the will, and therefore the cases which the learned judge had followed were not applicable. The appeal was therefore allowed.

Trade-mark—Registration—"Old Mark"—User before the 13th of August, 1875—User in conjunction with other Words—Rectification of Register—Trade Marks Registration Act, 1875, s. 10.

Appeal by the plaintiffs against an order made by Kay, J. (Weekly Notes, 1890, p. 194), that two trade-marks which they had registered should be expunged from the register of trade-marks, on the ground that they had not been used by the plaintiffs as trade-marks before the passing of the Trade Marks Registration Act, 1875. One of the registered marks was the word "Monopole"; the other consisted of the words "Dry Monopole." There was evidence that the plaintiffs had never used these words alone as their trade-marks, but had always used them in conjunction with other words.

Sir H. Davey, Q.C., Rigby, Q.C., Renshaw, Q.C., Sebastian, and R. M. Pattison, for the plaintiffs.

Sir R. E. Webster, A.G., Aston, Q.C., and J. Outler, for the defendants.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.B., and Fry and Lopes, L.J.J.) dismissed the appeal. They held that "user" as a trade in sect. 10 of the Act of 1875 meant user alone, not user in combination with other words. In the present case the words in question had only been used as part of a trade-mark. Their Lordships expressed their approval of In re Spencer's Trade-marks (3 Rep. Pat. Cas. 78).

HUNT v. GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

Libel—Privileged Occasion.

Appeal by the plaintiff against the judgment of Stephen, J., at the trial of the action for the defendants.

The action was for libel. The plaintiff was a guard in the service of the defendants. The defendants, in June, 1889, dismissed him from their service, on the ground that he had been guilty of gross neglect of duty. They refused to pay him any wages in lieu of notice, and they published his name (with others) in a printed monthly circular or calendar addressed to their servants, stating in it that he had been dismissed and the nature of the offence for which he was dismissed. The circular was headed—"Great Northern Railway. The staff are informed that the following punishments have been inflicted for serious offences during the month of June." The plaintiff sued the defendants in the Leeds County Court for wages in lieu of notice, and obtained judgment against them. Stephen, J., held, that the occasion of the publication of the libel was privileged. The plaintiff appealed.

Lawson Walton, Q.C., and T. L. Wilkinson, for the plaintiff.

Murphy, Q.C., C. Dodd, Q.C., and Montague Lush, for the defendants, were not called upon.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.B., and Fry and Lopes, L.J.J.) dismissed the appeal, holding that the occasion was privileged, because the company had an interest in informing their servants, and the company's servants had an interest in knowing, that certain things would be treated by the company as gross misconduct, and would be followed by dismissal from their service. There was no evidence of malice or abuse of the occasion. The case was perfectly clear.

May 5.

Slander—Privileged Communication—Privileged Occasion—Publication in discharge of Social or Moral Duty.

Action for slander.

On the 19th of June, 1890, S. and the plaintiff, S.'s valet, who had both been staying for some days at the W. Hotel in Edinburgh, went to Newcastle and stayed at the Mansion House there as the guests of the defendant, the mayor, till the next day. While they were staying at Newcastle, the chief constable of that town received a letter from the chief constable of Edinburgh to the effect that a lady who had been staying at the same hotel with the plaintiff had lost a gold watch, and that suspicion had fallen on the plaintiff as the person who stole it. The chief constable of Newcastle shewed this letter to the defendant, who read and returned it, and, just before S. left Newcastle, told him privately that a lady's gold watch had been stolen at the W. Hotel, and that suspicion had fallen on the plaintiff. Some days afterwards S. told the plaintiff what the defendant had told him, and dismissed the plaintiff from his service upon the ground that he could not keep in his service a person who had been suspected of dishonesty.

The plaintiff then brought this action against the defendant. The action was tried before Wills, J., at Leeds, on the 11th of August, 1890. That learned Judge told the jury that the communication made by the defendant to S. was not privileged, and the jury found a verdict for the plaintiff with 250*l.* damages.

The defendant then moved to have that verdict set aside, and a verdict entered for the defendant, on the ground that the occasion of the communication in question was privileged, and there was no evidence of malice; or alternatively, if the Court were of opinion that there was evidence of malice, that a new trial should be directed on that issue.

The motion was heard before the Court of Appeal on the 2nd of February, 1891, and their Lordships reserved their judgment.

Tindal Atkinson, Q.C., and T. Willes Chitty, for the defendant, in support of the motion.

Lockwood, Q.C., and Robson, for the plaintiff, contra.

May 5. THE COURT OF APPEAL delivered judgment; and it was held by LINDLEY and KAY, L.J.J. (LOPES, L.J., dissentiente), (1) that it was the moral or social, though not the legal, duty of the defendant to communicate to S. the information which he had received, and consequently that the occasion was privileged, and the judge should have directed the jury to that effect; (2) that the evidence disproved malice, and shewed affirmatively that the defendant acted bona fide in the discharge of his duty; and accordingly that the verdict must be set aside and the action dismissed with costs.

JOYNER v. WEEKS.

May 5.

Landlord and Tenant—Lease—Breach of Covenant to deliver up in Repair—Measure of Damages—Reletting of House.

Appeal from order of Queen's Bench Division, reported supra, p. 79.

The action was for damages for breach of covenant by lessee of a house to deliver it up in repair, referred for trial to an official referee. At the trial the breach was proved and the cost of making good the dilapidations was proved to be 70*l.*, which the plaintiff claimed as the measure of the damages to which he was entitled. Previously to the determination of the defendant's lease, the plaintiff had executed a lease of the house to one Lewis, to commence on the expiration of the defendant's tenancy, by which Lewis covenanted to lay out 200*l.* in making certain alterations and to keep the premises in repair. Immediately after the determination of the defendant's tenancy, Lewis entered and made the alterations and effected repairs amounting to 45*l.*, in respect of which he made no claim on the plaintiff. The defendant contended that, the result being that the plaintiff had suffered no loss by the breach of the covenant, he was only entitled to nominal damages. The official referee assented to this contention, and gave judgment for the plaintiff for one farthing, ordering him to pay the whole costs of the action. The plaintiff moved to enter the judgment for 70*l.*, or to refer the case back to the referee.

The Divisional Court (Wills and Wright, JJ.) held, that the referee was wrong in holding that the plaintiff was entitled to nominal damages only, and that the proper measure of damages was the diminution in value of the lessor's estate by reason of the non-repair; and they sent the case back to the referee for a new trial to ascertain this amount. The defendant appealed from this decision, and the plaintiff gave notice of cross-contention that the judgment ought to be entered for 70*l.*

Jdf, Q.C., and Olay, for the defendant.

Imanley Smith, Q.C., and Cecil Chapman, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and Fry, L.J.) were of opinion that the Court below were right in holding that the damages were not nominal; but they held that the general rule was that the measure of damages in an action for breach of a covenant to leave in repair was the cost of the repairs, and that there was nothing to take the case out of this rule; and they therefore ordered judgment to be entered for the plaintiff for 70*l.*

Administration Action—Jurisdiction—Trustee—Solicitor—Personal Advantage.

This was an action for the administration of the estate of Charles Loftus Thorpe. The defendants were the two executors and trustees of his will. Under an order made on further consideration certain costs had been taxed and paid to Messrs. Saffery, Huntley, & Son, the solicitors in the action, to the plaintiff and defendants. One of the defendants, Walter Butler, was a solicitor. In 1869 he sold his business to Messrs. Saffery, Huntley, & Son. Under some arrangement connected with the payment of the purchase-money for the business, Messrs. Saffery, Huntley, & Son paid over to the defendant Walter Butler half the profit cost received by them in respect of this business.

This was a summons by the person having the conduct of the action for an order on the defendant Butler to pay the sum received into Court.

HANLBY AND BUCKNALL COAL COMPANY v. NORTH STAFFORDSHIRE RAILWAY COMPANY.

Mines—Railway—Canal—Injury—Damage—Leaving Mines unworked—Compensation, Mode of assessing—Special Act—Special Remedy—Issue at Law—“Justice of Assize and Special Jury”—Tribunal—Judge of Chancery Division—Jurisdiction.

By a special Act of 1 Will. 4, c. 55, consolidating the provisions of the several Acts relating to the canal navigation from the Trent to the Mersey, it was enacted by sect. 177 that, if any mine-owner should work his mines near or under the canal in such a way as, in the opinion of the canal company, to endanger the canal, the company should treat with the mine-owner for the minerals near or under the canal and necessary to be left for the preservation of the canal; and that in case any question or dispute should arise between the company and the mine-owner as to how much of such minerals should be left unworked for such purpose, or as to the satisfaction to be made for the minerals so to be left, or in case of failure to treat or agree, the question should be “ascertained, settled, and determined by an issue at law in manner hereinafter mentioned.” Then, by sect. 178, it was enacted that in order to try, ascertain, settle, and determine all questions and disputes which were thereinbefore directed to be tried, ascertained, settled, or determined by an issue at law, such issue should be “tried before the justice of assize for the county in which the cause of action shall arise, by an action upon a feigned issue, to be commenced and prosecuted in one of His Majesty's Courts of Record at Westminster”; that the action should proceed by declaration and plea; that in case the parties differed as to the terms of the issue, it should be settled by the proper officer of the Court in which the action should be commenced; and that such issue should be tried before a special jury, as in the cases of actions at common law; and that the said Court should have power to direct a new trial if necessary, and should give judgment for the sum awarded by the verdict of the jury.

In 1846 the canal became vested in the defendant company, who thereupon acquired all the rights and became subject to all the liabilities of the canal company. In August, 1889, the plaintiffs gave the defendants notice of their desire to work part of certain coal mines in Staffordshire lying under and adjacent to the canal, and requiring the defendants to treat with them for the purchase of such minerals as would be necessary to be left for the preservation of the canal. The defendants, however, declined to purchase any part of the plaintiffs' coal under or near the canal, and accordingly the plaintiffs commenced this action in the Chancery Division claiming compensation in respect of the following matters:—(a) coal necessary to be left by the plaintiffs for the security or preservation of the canal; (b) coal necessary to be left by the plaintiffs for the security or preservation of their mines against the canal; and (c) for the plaintiffs being endangered, damaged, and impeded in the past and future working of their mines. In their statement of defence the defendants alleged that the plaintiffs' mines lay at such a depth that no damage had been or could be occasioned to the canal or mines by the working of the mines in the ordinary manner in which mines were worked in the neighbourhood; and they also raised the objection that the question ought to have been tried, not by the present action, but by an issue at law, as provided by section 178 of the above special Act. On the action coming on for trial, the preliminary question was argued whether, having regard to that section, this Court had jurisdiction to entertain the action.

Finlay, Q.C., and O. Letgh Clare, for the plaintiffs.

Sir R. Webster, A.G., Renshaw, Q.C., and Ingle Joyce, for the defendants.

KIRKWOOD, J., said there was no claim for damage in respect of anything which had hitherto actually occurred, and therefore, on the face of the claim, there was not any cause of action at common law. The compensation claimed by the plaintiff must be compensation under the special Act, and not compensation recoverable for damages, in the sense of damages recoverable for tortious acts by the defendants already done. In other words, the plaintiffs came to enforce the Act, which was an Act giving them a new right—a right which, but for that Act, they could not obtain. It was for the convenience of both parties that the provision was made, and it was made in order to prevent litigation of the ordinary kind. There then being a special kind of claim, the Act provided a special remedy for its recovery. This special claim for compensation was to be tried under a procedure provided by the Act, this procedure being by an issue at law to be tried before a justice of assize in the county in which the cause of action arose. No doubt, a judge of the Chancery Division was now upon an equal footing in all respects, as regarded jurisdiction, with the judges of the Queen's Bench Division, and all the Courts of Record at Westminster were now concentrated in the High Court of Justice; but it was impossible to read this sect. 178 without seeing that it was the intention of the Legislature that this question of compensation should be tried in a particular manner, not necessarily that there should be a view of the locality or the mines in question, but that there should be the possibility of a view; and that the question should be tried before a jury. He did not see how a judge of the Chancery Division could be regarded as equivalent, even without a jury, to a "justice of assize for the county in which the cause of action should arise"—in this case the county of Stafford. Therefore he must hold that this action was not properly before him. The action was, however, a proper one in which an issue might be settled. The plaintiffs must pay the costs thrown away by reason of the action having been put into the paper for trial.

CITY AND SOUTH LONDON RAILWAY COMPANY v. LONDON COUNTY COUNCIL.

Local Government — Metropolis — Buildings beyond "General Line"—Effect of Special Act—Metropolis Management Amendment Act, 1862 (25 & 26 Vict. c. 102), s. 75.

Case stated on appeal from the order of a metropolitan police magistrate for the demolition of so much of the appellants' railway station in Kennington Park Road as was beyond the "general line" of buildings in such road within the meaning of sect. 75 of the Metropolis Management Amendment Act.

The appellants relied on the terms of the 4th section of their special Act, the City of London and Southwark Subway (Kennington Extension) Act, 1887, which authorized them to construct a subway with, inter alia, "all necessary buildings," and contended that under it they had a right to erect a reasonably convenient station on the land acquired, without reference to the provisions of the Metropolis Management Acts.

Appeal by the defendants against a decision of the Queen's Bench Division (Mathew and Vaughan Williams, JJ.).

The action was brought in the Queen's Bench Division, claiming 180l. damages in respect of a collision in the River Thames between a barge belonging to the defendants and a schooner belonging to the plaintiff. Before the action was brought the defendants paid 50l. to the plaintiff. The plaintiff continued the action. By their defence the defendants admitted negligence; but they said that the 50l. was sufficient to satisfy the plaintiff's claim. The action was referred for trial to an official referee. He found that the plaintiff was entitled to 50l. more. But he gave the plaintiff no costs of the action, on the ground that the action ought to have been brought in the City of London Court, and that, as it had not, sect. 9 of the Act 31 & 32 Vict., c. 71, disentitled the plaintiff to costs. The Divisional Court held that that section had been impliedly repealed by Order LXV., r. 1, of the Rules of the Supreme Court 1883. The defendants appealed.

Finlay, Q.C., and Edward Pollock, for the defendants.

Barnes, Q.C., and Hugh Boyd, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and Fry, L.J.) affirmed the decision. They were of opinion that the case was governed in principle by Garnett v. Bradley (3 App. Cas. 944). They approved of Tenant v. Ellis (6 Q. B. D. 46).

Lord Esher, M.R., added, that in his opinion Lord Hannen did not intend in The Asia ([1891] P. 121) to lay down any binding rule.

Will—Construction—"Contents of desk"—Choses in Action.

A testator, who died in December, 1887, gave to his nephew J. his "old mahogany desk with the contents thereof"; he also gave him a legacy of 200*l.*, and made him one of his executors. The "desk" was in fact a bureau, the upper part of which was a secretaire. After the death of the testator, there was found locked up within the secretaire, bank-notes and coin, a banker's deposit receipt for 60*l.*, a cheque for 4*l.* to the order of the testator, but unindorsed, divers promissory notes payable to the testator or order for considerable sums, and a promissory note payable on demand; also some old papers and other articles of no appreciable value. It was admitted that the coin and bank-notes passed to the nephew J. under the gift; but it was contended on behalf of the residuary legatees, that the other contents, being choses in action, some of which did not confer a title on the bearer, did not pass.

Whitehorse, Q.C., and Levett, Q.C., for the nephew J.

Byrne, Q.C., and Ingle Joyce, for the residuary legatees.

CHITTY, J., held, that by the desk and its "contents" the testator intended to pass the money and securities found therein at his death, and that the words used were sufficient to pass all the choses in action, including those which were negotiable only after indorsement by the executors.

Trade Mark—Registration for entire Class—User for Part of Class—Exclusive Title for entire Class—Infringement—Trade Term.

The plaintiff's trade-mark consisted of a device of three crowns within a shield, the words "three crowns" printed above, and the word "mixture" printed below the shield. In 1879 the plaintiff registered this mark under the Trade Marks Act, 1875, in Class 45, for the whole class. Since the registration, the plaintiff had used this trade-mark on packages containing tobacco, but had never used the whole of the mark as registered with reference to cigars. The defendants, cigar manufacturers, labelled their boxes with a device consisting of a shield containing three crowns. The plaintiff now applied for an injunction to restrain this infringement.

Byrne, Q.C., and T. Terrell, for the plaintiff.

Willis Bund, for the defendants, admitted the similarity of his mark with that of the plaintiff, but contended that the trade term "mixture," and the particular user by the plaintiff, shewed that the registration must be restricted to part only of the class, and that as the defendants only affixed their label on boxes of cigars they could not be interfered with.

CHITTY, J., held, that the plaintiff could not, by registering a trade-mark for an entire class and yet only using it on one article in that class, claim the exclusive right to use it for every article in that class, and that under the circumstances the plaintiff's application must be refused.

Infant—Settlement—Covenant by Wife to settle after-acquired Property—Infants Settlement Act (18 & 19 Vict. c. 43), s. 1.

Summons by the trustees of a settlement executed on the 3rd of October, 1883, in contemplation of the marriage (afterwards solemnized) of Charles Johnson with Helen Lawrence, to determine the question, whether the wife (who was an infant aged 18 at the date of the settlement) was bound by a covenant contained in it for the settlement of her after-acquired property. The settlement was made with the approbation of the Chancery Division, under the Act 18 & 19 Vict. c. 43, and by it certain property of the wife was assigned to the trustees, on the trusts of the settlement. The covenant in question was by the wife and the husband separately, that if the wife "now is, or if at any time or times during the intended coverture she, or C. Johnson in her right, shall become entitled in any manner and for any estate or interest to any real or personal property of the value of 100*l.* or upwards at one time and from one and the same source (except jewels, &c.), then and in every such case the said C. Johnson and H. Lawrence and all other necessary parties shall (at the cost of the trust estate) as soon as may be, and to the satisfaction of the trustees or trustee, convey such real or personal property to the trustees or trustee" upon the trusts therein declared of the wife's property.

In July, 1888, upon the death of her mother, the wife became entitled to a legacy under her will. The question was, whether this legacy was bound by the above covenant of the wife, or whether she was entitled to have the legacy paid to her. The legacy had been paid by the mother's executors to the trustees of the settlement.

P. S. Stokes, for the husband and wife.

Holland-King, for the children of the marriage.

NORTH, J., held, that the interest of the wife under her mother's will was at the date of the settlement "property in expectancy" within the meaning of sect. 1 of the above Act, and that it was bound by the wife's covenant. The trustees were, therefore, entitled to retain the legacy on the trusts of the settlement.

Company—Winding-up—Petition by Shareholder—Notice of previous Petition by Creditor—Costs—Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, s. 8.

Two petitions were presented for the compulsory winding-up of this company, the first by a creditor on the 10th of April, the second by a shareholder (holding 300 shares out of about 15,000 issued, all being fully paid up) on the 11th of April, with notice of the first. On the 14th of April the company resolved on a voluntary winding-up, and the resolution was confirmed on the 30th of April. On the 2nd of April a receiver and manager had been appointed in an action by debenture-holders. The receiver was appointed voluntary liquidator. The plaintiffs in this action gave notice that they should oppose the petition.

Napier Higgins, Q.C., and Emden, for the first petitioner.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and Stutfield, for the second petitioner.

Everitt, Q.C., and J. Chester, for the company.

S. Hall, Q.C., and Herbert Lake, for the plaintiffs in the action, desired that a supervision order should be made.

Edwards, for another debenture-holder.

NORTH, J., made a supervision order on the first petition, but he dismissed the second petition with costs. The allegations made by it were not such as to entitle a shareholder to a compulsory order against the wishes of the majority of the shareholders. Section 8 of the Act of 1890 might assist the Court in ordering a compulsory winding-up in cases in which it could not previously have done so; but a shareholder who differed from the majority must allege and prove grounds for supposing that he would derive substantial benefit from a compulsory order. The petitioner had not made out a prima facie case for an investigation under the provisions of sect. 8, contrary to the wishes of the majority. In his Lordship's opinion, a shareholder who had notice of a previous petition by a creditor was justified in presenting a separate petition on proper independent grounds, if he could prove them. This the petitioner had not done. The plaintiffs in the action were entitled to costs. They had objected to the making of a compulsory order, and they had succeeded.

The plaintiff, Miss Smith, was owner of a several fishery on the Thames, between Maidenhead and Bray, where the river is a non-tidal highway. She was also seised in fee of the soil under and the eyots in that part of the river. She claimed an injunction restraining the defendant from fishing in her several fishery without her leave. The defendant set up by way of defence, first, a common law right; secondly, a prescriptive right in the public to fish.

In proof of her title, entries in rate-books showing the tenants of her predecessors in title had been rated were tendered as evidence by the plaintiff's counsel.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., Willis Bund, and Stuart Moore, for the plaintiff.

Henn Collins, Q.C., and Edward Abinger, for the defendant. They withdrew an objection to the admissibility of the rate books as evidence.

NORTH, J., held that no common law public right of fishing in non-tidal waters exists, and the defence of a prescriptive right in the public was bad in law.

In re SMITH'S SETTLED ESTATES.

Settled Land Act, 1882 (45 & 46 Vict. c. 38), ss. 4, 21 (x), 46 sub-s. 6, 47, 55, sub-s. 3—Costs of attempted Sale—Payment of Capital Monies—Charge on Settled Land.

The tenant for life of land comprised in a settlement was also tenant for life of land devised by a will. The limitations of the settlement were similar to, but not identical with, those expressed in the will. By the will the trustees thereof were empowered to apply moneys in their hands in paying off or discharging "any charge or encumbrance" affecting the hereditaments devised by the will, or any hereditaments similarly settled. The tenant for life, in exercise of the power of the Settled Land Act, 1882, put up the whole of the land for sale by auction in lots. The reserve prices, amounting together to 97,080*l.*, were not reached (except as to two small lots), and the sale thus proved ineffectual. The costs of the sale amounted to 1171*l.* The capital moneys in the hands of the trustees of the settlement were not sufficient to defray the amount; but there were ample funds in the hands of the trustees of the will. On a summons taken out by the tenant for life, two questions were argued, (1) whether the costs of the attempted sale were properly payable out of the capital moneys in the hands of the trustees of the settlement, and (2) whether if they were, they constituted a "charge" on the settled land so that the moneys in the hands of the trustees might be applied in payment of them.

Warmington, Q.C., and Brinton, for the tenant for life.

E. Hood, for infant remaindermen.

Austen-Cartmell, for mortgagees of the life estate.

KEKEWICH, J., upon the first point, held that the tenant for life, having with honesty and due diligence attempted to sell the settled lands, was entitled to have the costs properly incurred by him in the unsuccessful sale paid out of the "capital moneys" in the hands of the trustees. He entirely followed the decision of Stirling, J., on the point in In re Lloyd (37 Ch. Div. 317). Upon the second question, his Lordship held, upon the construction of sects. 46, sub-s. 6, 47, and 55, sub-s. 3, that the costs were payable out of the property subject to the settlement, and therefore in effect charged upon the settled land, and he made an order declaring that they were so payable, and directing that they should be raised by means of such a charge.

BLACKMAN v. Fysh.

May 12.

Will—Construction—Contingent Remainder or executory Devise—Cesser of Life Estate on being "taken in execution by any process of Law"—Appointment of Receiver by way of equitable Execution.

A testator by his will devised lands unto his son for his life, and, after his decease, unto and amongst all and every the child and children of his son, whether then or thereafter to be born, who should live to attain the age of twenty-one, or being a daughter marry under that age, and devised other lands to his (the testator's) daughters and their children, and in case his son or either of his daughters should die without leaving lawful issue, or leaving issue all such issue should die under the age of twenty-one years without leaving issue, he devised the estates thereinbefore given to such son or daughter so dying, or whose issue should so fail, unto the survivors equally and their issue. The testator directed that neither of them, his said son or daughters, should have any power to sell, dispose of, mortgage, charge, or otherwise anticipate his or her life estate, and in case his said son or daughters, or any or either of them, should attempt to sell, dispose of, mortgage, charge, or anticipate the same, or should become bankrupt or insolvent, or the estates thereby given or devised to such son or daughters should be taken in execution by any process of law, for the benefit of any creditors or creditor, then he declared that the gift and devise thereof to such son or daughter should immediately become absolutely void and cease, as if such son or daughters were then actually dead, and that the estates so given and devised to such son or daughter should thenceforth completely vest in and belong to the person or persons who under the devises and limitations thereinbefore contained should be next entitled thereto.

On the 9th of December, 1877, an order was made on the application of a judgment creditor of the testator's son for the appointment of a receiver of the rents, profits, and moneys recoverable in respect of the interests of the son under the will. At that date there were in case two children of the son, viz., the plaintiff, a daughter, who had attained twenty-one, and another daughter who was an infant. Other children of the son were subsequently born.

Macnaghten, Q.C., Macnaghten, and A. J. Chitty, for the plaintiff, contended that the receivership order operated as a cesser of the life estate of the son, and that consequently, according to the principle of Festing v. Allen (12 M. & W. 279), the limitation over, being a contingent remainder, took effect in favour of the plaintiff only.

Wynne Bady, for the son, the tenant for life, contended that, as the estate of the son was legal, and therefore capable of being reached by legal execution, the receivership order was not a taking "in execution by any process of law" within the meaning of the will.

Methald, for the children born after the receivership order, contended that the limitation over on the cesser of the life estate, being an executory devise and not a contingent remainder, took effect in favour of all the children of the son.

Richings, for the second daughter, contended that as on the cesser of the life estate the son was to be treated as then actually dead, the limitation over took effect in favour of the plaintiff and the second daughter only.

Edward Clayton, for another defendant.

KEKEWICH, J., held, that the receivership order, which must be treated as valid and effectual, operated as execution by process of law within the meaning of the will, and that, therefore, the life estate of the son became void and ceased on the 9th of December, 1887. Referring to In re Lechmere and Lloyd (18 Ch. Div. 524), and Miles v. Jarvis (24 Ch. Div. 633), his Lordship further held that the limitation over was an executory devise, and that according to the true construction of the will, the persons who became entitled upon the cesser of the life estate were the plaintiff and the other children of the son, born or to be born, contingently upon their respectively attaining the age of twenty-one, or in the case of females marrying under that age.

ALEXANDER PIRIE AND SONS, LIMITED v. GOODALL AND SON.

Trade Mark—Infringement—Validity—Rectification of Register—Fancy Word—"Distinctive Brand"—Patents, Designs, and Trade Marks Act, 1833 (46 & 47 Vict. c. 57), ss. 61 (c) and 74.

The plaintiffs claimed an injunction to restrain the infringement of a trade-mark (No. 43,549), registered by them in March, 1885, for paper and envelopes. The trade-mark consisted of the words "Pirie's Parchment Bank." It was accompanied by a disclaimer in the following terms: "The applicants do not claim any right to the exclusive use of either the word 'parchment' or the word 'bank' appearing in connection with this mark." The mark was used by the plaintiffs as a water-mark on a particular class of paper of their manufacture, and it was also used on the wrappers in which the paper was contained. The defendants admitted the use of the words "parchment bank" on paper of their own manufacture; but their defence was that the words, whether used singly or in combination, were descriptive of particular qualities of paper, and were, at the date of the registration of the plaintiffs' mark, words common to the trade, and they applied for the removal of the mark from the register. By sect. 64 of the Patents, &c. Act, 1883, "a trade-mark must consist of or contain at least one of the following particulars: (c) A distinctive device, mark, brand, heading, label, ticket, or fancy word or words not in common use."

On behalf of the plaintiffs, it was contended that, notwithstanding their disclaimer, they were entitled to use the words "parchment bank" in combination as a trade-mark; that such words in combination were meaningless, and were "fancy words" within sect. 64, and that even assuming that this was not so, the mark was capable of registration as a "brand."

Moulton, Q.C., and Willis Bund, for the plaintiffs.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and E. S. Ford, for the defendants.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., held, that the mark ought to be removed from the register. In his Lordship's opinion it was not open to a person claiming words in common use as a trade-mark to escape the prohibition contained in sect. 64, clause (c), by saying that he claimed the words in combination only. But, however that might be, his Lordship thought that the words, whether used separately or in combination, were not fancy words. It was contended for the first time since the passing of the Act of 1883, that this trade-mark, though not otherwise capable of registration, could be supported as a brand; but in order that that contention should succeed there must be evidence that the mark had been used as a brand exclusively. Further, assuming the mark to be a brand, it was not distinctive. His Lordship desired to add that in his judgment a brand was not confined to a mark impressed upon goods by burning or stamping; a water-mark was capable of being a brand.

HARRISON v. SOUTHWARK AND VAUXHALL WATER COMPANY.

Nuisance—Noise—Water Company—Execution of Statutory Works—Negligence—Waterworks Clauses Act, 1847, s. 12.

The defendants were authorized by their special Act to sink a shaft in land adjacent to the plaintiff's house, and in sinking the shaft pumping operations, extending over a period of many months, became necessary in order to pump out the land-water which ran into the shaft while it was being sunk. The defendants commenced pumping early in October, 1890, and for this purpose they used certain lift-pumps, the noise of which seriously interfered with the plaintiff's comfort. On the 20th of October, 1890, the plaintiff commenced this action against the defendants for nuisance, claiming an injunction and damages. On the 28th of October the defendants, in consequence of the action, substituted centrifugal pumps for the lift-pumps then in use. The substituted pumps did not cause the plaintiff any inconvenience. For the first three weeks of the pumping it became necessary to lower the pumps from time to time; but at the date when the centrifugal pumps were substituted the work of sinking the shaft had arrived at a point at which this operation had ceased to be necessary. It was proved that it was physically possible for the defendants to have used the centrifugal pumps from the commencement, but that they were less convenient, partly on account of the difficulty of lowering them; that their use involved an increase of labour and risk to the workmen; and that they were not the pumps ordinarily used in sinking shafts, even in populous neighbourhoods.

Lawson Walton, Q.C., and A. D. Maclaren, for the plaintiff. Finlay, Q.C., and R. J. Parker, for the defendants.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., was of opinion that the obligations of the defendants in respect of the sinking of the shaft were similar to those of a private landowner who desired to carry on pumping operations on his land for any lawful purpose, and that in determining what amounted to a nuisance, the object and duration of the thing complained of ought to be taken into consideration. The defendants had been guilty of no negligence and were not liable. Even assuming the sinking of the shaft would have been a nuisance if done by a private person, the defendants were authorized to sink the shaft together with all things reasonably necessary for the execution of the work Fenwick v. East London Railway Company (Law. Rep. 20 Eq. 544) was not in point, because that was a decision as to the work authorized to be executed, and not as to the manner of execution. The action failed.

LONDON PRINTING AND PUBLISHING ALLIANCE, LIMITED v. COL

Copyright in a Picture—Infringement—Licence—Assignment—25 & 26 Vict. c. 68, ss. 3, 6.

This was an action for infringement of copyright in a picture.

The plaintiff Keep was, on the 20th of May, 1890, registered as the proprietor of the copyright design, No. 9715, being the picture in question. The plaintiffs, the London Printing and Publishing Alliance, had entered into a contract with the plaintiff Keep for the supply by him of several thousand coloured copies of the picture for the Christmas number of a newspaper of which they were the printers and publishers.

The defendant was the proprietor of the Queen newspaper. In April, 1890, the author of the picture, who was then the proprietor of the copyright therein, gave to the defendant written licence to publish a sketch of the picture in the Queen and handed a photograph of the picture to the defendant for that purpose; and in August, 1890, the defendant published an engraving of the picture in his newspaper. Keep had a notice of the licence to the defendant at the time when he acquired the copyright in May, 1890.

The plaintiffs claimed an injunction; damages; delivery of all copies, electrotypes, and plates of the defendant's design penalties under the Copyright Act (25 & 26 Vict. c. 68).

Lawson Walton, Q.C., and Grosvenor Woods, for the plaintiff. Finlay, Q.C., and P. Gye, for the defendant.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., held, that a licence was not equivalent to a partial assignment. That point had been decided in the case of a patent by Heap v. Hartley (42 Ch. Div. 461), and the case of copyright by Stevens v. Benning (1 K. & J. 16 & D. M. & G. 223), and Roads v. Bentley (3 K. & J. 27). In his Lordship's opinion, the plaintiff Keep took his assignment wholly unaffected by the antecedent licence. No case was made out for an injunction or damages; but the plaintiff Keep was entitled to an inquiry as to penalties. As regards the other plaintiffs, there would be judgment for the defendant.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. Div. SCHOLES v. BROOK. May 14.

Valuer—Liability of—Mortgage—Negligence—Contract.

This was an appeal from a decision of Romer, J. (ante, p. 16). The action was brought by a mortgagee against a valuer who had valued the estate and advised the plaintiff to advance money on it. The estate was very insufficient, and ultimately the plaintiff entered into possession of it and sold it by auction for a very trifling sum. The main question argued was whether the defendant was employed by the plaintiff or by the mortgagor.

Romer, J., held that there was a contractual relation between the plaintiff and the valuer, and that the valuer had been negligent in performing his duty. His Lordship gave damages to the plaintiff representing the whole loss he had sustained through the deficiency of the security. The defendant appealed.

Haldane, Q.C., and Oswald, for the appellant, contended on the evidence that the appellant was not employed by the plaintiff; and also that the measure of damages (if any) ought to be the difference between the value of the estate as stated by the valuer, and the real value at that time.

Rigby, Q.C., and Hatfield Green, for the plaintiff, called the attention of the Court to the fact that the defendant in his statement of defence had admitted that he was employed by the plaintiff.

LINDLEY, L.J., said that in the face of the defendant's admission it would be impossible for the Court to hold that the defendant owed no obligation to the plaintiff. But independently of the pleadings he was of opinion that the evidence led to the same inference. As to the damages, there was no evidence that the plaintiff had acted otherwise in respect to the premises than an ordinary mortgagee was entitled to do, and he was therefore of opinion that the mode of estimating the damages adopted by the judge was correct. The appeal must, therefore, be dismissed.

LOPES and KAY, L.JJ., gave judgment to the same effect.

Pauper Lunatic—Expenses of Maintenance—County Lunatic Asylum—Additional Charge—Power to fix Amount of Charge—Committee of Visitors—Arbitration—16 & 17 Vict. c. 97, s. 54—Local Government Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 41), ss. 62, 86.

Appeal by the defendants against the judgment of Denman, J., at the trial of the action for the plaintiff.

The action was brought by the clerk of the Kent County Lunatic Asylum against the Corporation of Maidstone, for the recovery of a sum alleged to be due to the Asylum in respect of the maintenance of some pauper lunatics who were sent from Maidstone to the Asylum. The only question was, how the amount due ought to be ascertained. The plaintiff contended that, notwithstanding the Local Government Act, 1888, the committee of visitors of the Asylum had still power, under sect. 54 of the Act 16 & 17 Vict. c. 97, to fix the amount. Denman, J., held that this was so. The defendants appealed.

The appeal was argued on the 20th of March.

Channell, Q.C., and R. M. Bray, for the defendants.

Henn Collins, Q.C., and F. Low, for the plaintiffs.

THE COURT (Lord Halsbury, L.C., Lord Esher, M.R., and Fry, L.J.) allowed the appeal, and dismissed the action.

Fry, L.J., delivered the judgment of the Court, to the effect that, by virtue of the Local Government Act, 1888, s. 86 (4), the committee of the Asylum had no longer the power, which they formerly had under sect. 54 of the Act 16 & 17 Vict. c. 97, to fix the amount to be paid by the borough. Under sect. 62 of the Act of 1888, the amount must be determined by agreement between the two authorities or by arbitration. This not having been done, the plaintiff had no present cause of action.

In re AN ARBITRATION BETWEEN KNIGHT AND THE TABERNACLE PERMANENT BUILDING SOCIETY.

Arbitration—Building Society—Dispute between Society and Member—Reference to Arbitration—Power of Court to order Arbitrator to state a Special Case—Building Societies Act, 1874 (37 & 38 Vict. c. 42), s. 36—Arbitration Act, 1889 (52 & 53 Vict. c. 49), ss. 19, 24.

Appeal from the decision of the Queen's Bench Division, reported Weekly Notes, Feb. 21, p. 32.

A dispute having arisen between a building society and one of its members named Knight, the matter was referred to arbitration under the Building Societies Act, 1874. During the arbitration, an application was made on behalf of Knight to the arbitrators to state a special case raising a point of law for the decision of the High Court, but was refused by them. Application was then made at chambers for an order directing the arbitrators to state a case, and granted.

The building society appealed to the Divisional Court, who rescinded the order for a special case on the ground that there was no power to make such order.

The Arbitration Act, 1889, provides (sect. 19) that "any arbitrator may . . . and shall, if so directed by the Court or a Judge, state in the form of a special case for the opinion of the Court any question of law arising in the course of the reference," and (sect. 24) "this Act shall apply to every arbitration under any Act passed before or after the commencement of this Act, as if the arbitration were pursuant to a submission except in so far as this Act is inconsistent with the Act regulating the arbitration."

The Building Societies Act, 1874, s. 36, provides that every determination by arbitrators under the Act of a dispute shall be binding and conclusive on all parties, and shall be final to all intents and purposes. . . . provided that the arbitrators may at the request of either party state a case for the opinion of the Supreme Court of Judicature on any question of law.

Fillan, for the appellant.

Macoun, for the respondents.

Cur. adv. vult.

May 15. THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and Fry, L.J.) was of opinion that the provisions of sect. 19 of the Arbitration Act, 1889, were not inconsistent with those of sect. 36 of the Building Societies Act, 1874, and were therefore applicable and that consequently there was power to order the arbitrators to state a case. They therefore allowed the appeal.

BOSTOCK v. D'ERMOURT.

Will—Construction—Joint Tenancy or Tenancy in Common—Words of severance.

Summons by the trustees of the will of a testator who died in 1826, for the determination of a question arising on the construction of his will.

By his will the testator devised real estate to his trustees, upon certain trusts during the lives of his sons and daughters and the survivors and survivor of them. And from and after the decease of the survivor of his sons and daughters, or during the lives or life of all or any, with their concurrence, upon trust to sell the property and to hold the proceeds "upon trust for all and every my sons and daughters who shall be then living, and the issue of any then dead (such issue standing in loco parentis) share and share alike." The testator left six children surviving him. The last survivor of the six died in 1877. Two only of the testator's children had issue. The property was not sold till 1890. Before the sale took place, two of the testator's grandchildren had died. The question was, whether the grandchildren took as joint tenants or as tenants in common.

Leonard Field, for the plaintiffs.

Coxens-Hardy, Q.C., and Davenport, for one of the grandchildren.

Napier Higgins, Q.C., and Ingen, for another grandchild.

Kearitt, Q.C., and Hume; and G. Williamson; for other parties.

NORTH, J., held that the grandchildren took as joint tenants. He was of opinion that the words "share and share alike" applied only as between the sons and daughters of the testator, and the issue of a deceased son or daughter as representing their parent. But, there not being double words of severance, there was nothing to create a severance as between the grandchildren inter se, and they took as joint tenants. Shepherdson v. Dale (12 Jur. (N. S.) 156) was inconsistent with many other cases, and he could not follow it.

CHILD v. BULMER.

Joint Tenancy—Severance.

Adjourned summons.

In this action a fund had been carried over to the separate account of "the infant plaintiffs as joint tenants." W., the eldest of these infant plaintiffs, who were three in number, attained twenty-one on the 19th of March, 1890, and thereupon became entitled to have one-third of the fund in Court paid out to him. On the 20th of March, 1890, his father, upon his request, instructed solicitors to take the necessary proceedings to get the fund paid out of Court. On the 21st of March, the London agents of the solicitors instructed, obtained leave to amend a pending summons for payment out of a share standing to another separate account, by adding to it an application for the payment out to W. of his one-third; and the amended summons was made returnable on the 28th of March. On that day the parties attended, and the evidence was complete, but owing to pressure of business the summons was not reached, and it was adjourned till the 22nd of April. On the 2nd of April, W. died. W.'s father took out representation to him, and now applied for payment out to himself of one-third of the fund. The other plaintiffs were still infants, and the question was whether what had been done in the lifetime of W. amounted to a severance of the joint tenancy between himself and the infant plaintiffs.

Hastings, Q.C., and B. Eyre, and Methold, appeared for the parties interested.

STIRLING, J., said, that in order to amount to a severance, the act of the joint tenant must be such as to preclude him from claiming by survivorship any interest in the subject-matter of the joint tenancy; but in the present case all that had been done by or on behalf of W. was to take out a summons for payment of one-third to himself, on which summons no order was made. Nothing had happened on the 2nd of April to prevent the surviving plaintiffs from asserting title to the fund by survivorship, and the application must be dismissed.

Company—Winding-up—Shares made payable by Instalments—Right of Liquidator to make immediate Call—Companies Act, 1862 (25 & 26 Vict. c. 89), ss. 7, 38, 98, 102.

This company was incorporated with a memorandum and articles providing for its acquiring the property and undertaking of another company and adopting and carrying into effect an agreement whereby (inter alia) shareholders in the old company were to be entitled to shares in the new company, such shares to be treated as paid up to the extent of three-fourths of the amount already paid, and the balance to be payable by seven specified half-yearly instalments. The agreement was duly adopted by a resolution of the company. An order for the compulsory winding-up of the company having been made at a time when four half-yearly instalments were still to come in, the official liquidator applied for leave to call up the unpaid balance at once, notwithstanding that the specified dates had not yet arrived.

Warrington, Q.C., and Ashton Cross, for the official liquidator.

Rawlins, for shareholders, opposed the application.

KEKEWICH, J., held, that the provision in sect. 102 of the Companies Act, 1862, that calls might be made on contributors "to the extent of their liability" must be read in connection with the definition of liability contained in sect. 7; that the agreement must be deemed to endure only during the life of the company, except for the purpose of justifying a claim for damages; that upon the winding-up the power given to the liquidator supervened, and was exercisable notwithstanding the agreement; and that the liquidator was therefore entitled to make an immediate call.

E. Ford, S. B. L. Druce, and Vernon Smith, for the respective persons representing the three classes.

KEKEWICH, J., said, that in a previous case before him an objection upon the drawing up of an order had been made by the registrar, that where parties were not actually before the Court, but only by means of a representation order, costs as between solicitor and client could not be given. His Lordship did not agree with that view; so far as he was aware it never had been the law of the Court, and, if it were, the result might be very pernicious, as persons might then be made parties unnecessarily, and costs might be increased for the mere purpose of inducing the Court to allow costs. He thought that a representation order went this length, that the parties represented were before the Court for all purposes of argument, and that one of the purposes of argument was to obtain a decision how the costs were to be paid. Costs were therefore given as between solicitor and client.

In this case the petitioner had obtained a decree nisi dissolving the marriage on the ground of his wife's adultery with the co-respondent. The Queen's Proctor intervened, and charged the petitioner and co-respondent with collusion. The petitioner appeared, and conducted his own case in person; but the co-respondent, who had been cited by the Queen's Proctor, did not appear.

The case was heard before Henn Collins, J., without a jury, who having found all the issues for the Queen's Proctor, rescinded the decree nisi, dismissed the petition, and condemned the petitioner in costs.

Inderwick, Q.C. (Marshall Hall, with him), who appeared for the Queen's Proctor, then moved that the co-respondent be also condemned in the Queen's Proctor's costs. He has been found guilty of collusion, and was a cause of the intervention.

HENN COLLINS, J.:—In Blackhall v. Blackhall (13 P. D. 94.) Butt, J., refused to condemn the co-respondent in costs because he was not a party to the suit.

Inderwick, Q.C.:—Here the co-respondent has been made a party. In Blackhall v. Blackhall the co-respondent was not concerned; it was the petitioner and respondent who were charged with collusion, and the Queen's Proctor did not make good his charge.

HENN COLLINS, J.:—I think sect. 7 of the 23 & 24 Vict. c. 144, together with sect. 2 of 41 Vict. c. 19, gives the Court power to condemn any of the parties to a suit in the costs of a Queen's Proctor's intervention. The co-respondent is a party, and I therefore condemn him in costs.

Probate Suit—Defendant a Minor and resident Abroad—No appearance to Citation—Official Solicitor appointed Guardian ad litem of the Defendant—Rules of Supreme Court, Order XIII., r. 1.

George Ludwig Duvernay died on the 5th of December, 1890, leaving a will bearing date the 28th of August, 1890. The plaintiff propounded the will as executor, and cited the defendant, who was the niece and sole next of kin of deceased. The defendant was a minor and resident at Frankfort, and though notice of the writ had been served on her and her guardian appointed by the German Court on the 23rd of January, 1891, no appearance had been entered on her behalf, and from a communication received from a firm of solicitors in London, to whom the defendant's guardian had referred the plaintiff, they declined to enter an appearance.

Application was made in the Registry to appoint the official solicitor of the Court guardian ad litem to the infant; but the registrar refused the application, being in doubt whether r. 74 of the Contentious Rules of 1862 was supplanted by Order XIII., r. 1, of the Rules of the Supreme Court.

Searle, now renewed the application (in chambers).

JEUNE, J., was of opinion that Order XIII., r. 1, governed the practice, and made an order appointing the official solicitor guardian ad litem of the defendant, directing that his cost should be provided for by the plaintiff out of the plaintiff's costs.

MANGAN v. METROPOLITAN ELECTRIC SUPPLY COMPANY.

Practice—Trial by Jury—Action in Chancery Division—Rules of Court, 1883, Ord. XXXVI., rr. 6, 7.

In this case an action for an injunction and damages on the ground of nuisance was commenced in the Chancery Division, and came twice before North, J., on application for an injunction. Afterwards North, J., on the application of the plaintiff, made an order for transfer to the Queen's Bench Division, that the action might be tried by a judge with a jury. The defendant appealed.

Napier-Higgins, Q.C., and Butcher, for the appeal.

Coxens-Hardy, Q.C., and Percy Gye, for the plaintiff, were not called upon.

THE COURT (Lindley, Bowen, and Fry, L.JJ.) said, that they ought not to interfere with the discretion of the judge as to the mode of trial unless in a very strong case. In Jenkins v. Bushby ([1891] 1 Ch. 484) they had interfered, but only because they considered that there was risk of a failure of justice if the trial took place without a view of the premises.

Poor Law—Removal by Order before the Divided Parishes Act, 1876—Subsequent Residence without Relief—Settlement—"Pauper removed"—39 & 40 Vict. c. 61, s. 36.

Case stated by consent upon an appeal against an order of removal.

By sect 34 of the Divided Parishes Act, 1876 (39 & 40 Vict. c. 61), a settlement may be acquired by residence for three years, and by sect. 36 "the provisions relating to settlement shall not apply to any pauper removed under any order of removal, or without such order under the provision in that behalf contained in the Union Chargeability Act, 1865, before the passing of this Act, or in receipt of non-resident relief lawfully given, or in respect of whom any order of removal shall be pending at the passing of the Act."

The pauper, who was the legitimate daughter of her parents, was born in 1862 in the parish of Hove, and under an order of removal in 1866 was removed with her mother to the latter's settlement in the Shipston-on-Stour Union; her mother died in the same year. In 1870 the pauper came to Brighton, and resided continuously within the parish of Brighton as a domestic servant in different houses until 1881, when she went to Paris: she acquired no fresh settlement after 1881. The pauper having become chargeable to the Strand Union, an order of removal was made adjudging her last legal settlement to be in the parish of Brighton, which was the order appealed against.

The Divisional Court (A. L. Smith and Grantham, JJ.) held that sect. 36 did not apply to every person against whom an order of removal had been made before the passing of the Divided Parishes Act so as to prevent them under any circumstances from gaining a fresh settlement after that date, but applied only to paupers against whom an order of removal had been made before the Act, and who were still paupers at the time of the Act being passed, and therefore upheld the order of removal. The Brighton guardians appealed.

Lumley Smith, Q.C., and Gore, for the appellants.

Poland, Q.C., and A. Glen, for the respondents.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., Lopes, and Kay, L.JJ.) were of opinion that the Divisional Court was right in restricting the meaning of the words "pauper removed before the passing of the Act" to those paupers who had been removed and who still remained paupers when the Act was passed.

Appeal by J. Gamgee from a receiving order made against him by Mr. Registrar Linklater on the petition of R. J. Ward.

Ward was the assignee for value of a judgment debt due from Gamgee to W. H. Davis.

As to part of the debt Gamgee was a trustee for another person, who was not joined as a co-petitioner, and had not given his consent to the petition. On this ground it was objected by the debtor that the petition could not be maintained. The Registrar overruled the objection. The debtor appealed.

F. Cooper Willis, for the appellant.

Cautley, for the petitioning creditor.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and Lopes and Kay, L.JJ.)

affirmed the decision. They held that the case was distinguishable from Ex parte Dearle (14 Q. B. D. 184), because there the petitioner was a bare trustee, having no beneficial interest, and therefore it was held that the cestui que trust must join in the petition. That reason did not apply to the present case.

METCALFE v. METCALFE.

Will—Forfeiture Clause—Bankruptcy before death of Testator—Annulment.

This was an appeal from a decision of Kekewich, J. (43 Ch. Div. 633; Weekly Notes, 1889, p. 223).

T. Metcalfe, by his will dated the 10th of May, 1864, gave certain real and personal property upon trust to permit his wife to receive one-third of the rents and profits during her life or widowhood, and to pay the remaining two-thirds to his children living at his decease for their respective lives, and the life of the survivor of them, and directed that on the death or second marriage of his wife, the said children should share equally between them the rents and profits during their lives, and the life of the survivor of them. It was then provided that if by any act or default, or by operation of law, the part or share, parts or shares, or the whole of the said rents and profits, or any other sums of money or interests, limited or bequeathed in trust for his said wife and children or child, grandchildren or grandchild, or any of them, shall be aliened, charged, or disposed of, either in part or as to the whole of the said several and respective shares and interests, whereby the same respectively would but for this provision vest in or become payable to some other person or persons other than his said wife, children or child, grandchildren or grandchild, or either of them, then his said trustees or trustee should, upon such act or default, or upon such operation of law as aforesaid, pay or apply the share or shares, interest or interests, so aliened, charged, or disposed of, or attempted to be so dealt with, as and in manner aforesaid, to and among the others or other of the persons or person who would have been entitled to the same by survivorship, in remainder or otherwise, under the aforesaid will, as in the case of the death or deaths of the person or persons so aliening, charging, or disposing of his, her, or their respective shares and interests, or attempting the same, as and in manner aforesaid.

The testator died in 1884, leaving five children, one of whom, the plaintiff, Georgina Metcalfe, had been adjudicated bankrupt in the testator's lifetime, namely, in March, 1882. Her bankruptcy was annulled in June, 1887. In 1885 she had succeeded to a reversionary interest under another will; but the money was not received till January, 1887. Another of the testator's children, G. A. Metcalfe, died in January, 1885. The trustees had treated the estate as if the whole interest of Georgina Metcalfe had been forfeited. The object of the present action was to obtain a declaration as to the effect of the forfeiture clause. Kekewich, J., decided that the plaintiff had forfeited her shares both in the rents and profits divisible on the testator's death, and in the accrued share which fell in on the death of G. A. Metcalfe. The plaintiff appealed.

Warmington, Q.C., and Bateman Napier, for the appellants.

Neville, Q.C., and Gaselee, for the respondents, who were entitled under the gift over.

LINDLEY, L.J., said, that the authorities were quite clear that such a forfeiture clause as the present must be held to relate to a liability which occurred before the testator's death—that is, before the will came into operation. The only question was whether there was such a state of circumstances in this case that the gift over took effect. Was there ever a time at which the defendants were entitled to demand from the trustees of the will payment of the bankrupt's share? There could be no doubt that there was. For a long time after the testator's death the state of her affairs was such that the trustee in bankruptcy would certainly have sold her share to satisfy her creditors if he could have got possession of it. The trustees of the will had therefore rightly paid over to the defendants her share of the rents and profits both of the original and accruing shares. In his opinion, the decision of Kekewich, J., was right and the appeal failed.

BOWEN and FRY, L.JJ., gave judgment to the same effect.

Originating summons by the executors of a will.

The testator gave a freehold house unto Thomas Price "the conditions to be as follows: that the property be left to him for his life and the life of his heir, after which it becomes the property of the Boiler Makers and Iron Ship Builders' Society." Then followed a bequest in similar terms of a leasehold house to H. Poole, followed by similar conditions, and a devise in similar terms of another freehold house to T. H. Williams, followed by similar conditions. The Boiler Makers' Society was a trade union, registered under the Trade Union Act, 1871. Sect. 7 of that Act enables a trade union registered under the Act "to purchase or take upon lease in the names of the trustees for the time being of such union, any land not exceeding one acre." The sites of the houses given by the will, together with the land already held by the society, did not altogether exceed one acre.

Robertson-Macdonald, for the plaintiffs.

Charles Church, for Price and Williams.

J. C. Gordon, for Poole.

Hood, for the heiress-at-law and next of kin of the testator.

Upjohn, for the Boiler Makers' Society, argued that the word "purchase" in sect. 7 was used in the technical sense, "acquire otherwise than by descent or escheat."

NORTH, J., held that the word "purchase" was used in the ordinary sense of "buy," and that consequently the gifts to the society were void, inasmuch as the society could hold land only by virtue of the Act. His Lordship also held, that there was nothing repugnant to law in a gift to a man for his own life and the life of his heir. At the moment of the man's death his heir would be an ascertained person. The gift must be read literally, and after the death of the heir of the devisee or legatee the property would go over to the testator's heir or next of kin.

Practice—Ex parte Application—Injunction—Interim Order—Irregularity—Suppression of Facts—Motion to continue Order—Cross Notice of Motion to discharge, whether necessary.

If, upon the hearing of a motion by a plaintiff for an injunction, or, in the alternative, to continue an interim order for injunction already obtained ex parte, it appears that the interim order was irregularly obtained in consequence of a suppression of facts, the Court may, on the hearing of that motion, discharge the ex parte order without any cross notice of motion for that purpose by the defendant; though the Court may, upon the evidence adduced upon the plaintiff's motion, grant the injunction asked for.

JONES v. THE MERIONETHSHIRE PERMANENT BENEFIT BUILDING SOCIETY.

Agreement—Validity—Illegal Consideration—Stifling a Prosecution.

C., who was the secretary of the defendant building society from 1877 till 1889, misappropriated various sums received by him as such secretary on behalf of the society.

In 1889 C.'s frauds were brought to the notice of the directors, and they suspended him from his office, and required him, under threats of criminal proceedings, to make good his default, which amounted to 626*l.*, by a specified day. C. then applied to the plaintiffs, who were respectively his mother-in-law and brother-in-law, for assistance, and mentioned that he was in danger of being prosecuted. The plaintiffs thereupon undertook to pay to the society 176*l.* in cash, and to give to them two joint and several promissory notes for 200*l.* and 150*l.*, and also to deposit certain deeds with the society as collateral security. This offer was accepted by the directors at a meeting at which C.'s brother-in-law was present. At this meeting the directors said nothing as to their intention to prosecute C., and they did not in terms promise not to prosecute him. The transaction was completed on the evening of the same day when a document was signed by the plaintiffs which was addressed to the society, and provided as follows: "In consideration of your not suing C. to recover the sum of 536*l.* being part of a sum of 626*l.*, being the whole amount owing by him to you, we undertake to see you paid the said sum of 536*l.* in the manner following." The document went on to state that a portion of the money was to be paid in cash, and the balance secured by promissory notes as above mentioned. At the same time the money was paid, and the promissory notes and deed were handed over to the society. The plaintiffs would not have given this undertaking except for the purpose of saving C. from criminal proceedings, and this fact was known to the directors.

The plaintiffs now brought an action against the society for a declaration that the promissory notes and the deposited deeds were void, on the ground that they were given upon illegal consideration.

Jelf, Q.C., and H. Terrell, for the plaintiffs.

Haldane, Q.C., and W. D. Rawlins, for the defendants.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., said, that, when the friends of a man who had been guilty of a criminal act came forward and undertook to make good his default, in order to vitiate the criminal action, it was essential that the persons coming forward should be actuated by a desire to prevent a prosecution; it was essential that the persons to whom such undertaking was given should intend or threaten a prosecution and should be aware that the persons giving the undertaking would not have come forward but for the threat or the probability of the prosecution. All these elements were present in this case. The defendants had traded on the fear of the plaintiffs that their relative would be prosecuted. There must be judgment for the plaintiffs.

 TOMKINSON v. BALKIS CONSOLIDATED COMPANY.

Company—Transfer of Shares—Transferor having no Title—Issuance of Certificate to Transferee—Repudiation by Company—E. toppel—Damages.

Appeal by the defendants against the judgment of Pollock B., for the plaintiffs at the trial of the action without a jury.

In December, 1888, the plaintiffs, who were stockbrokers lent 250l. to one Fowler, on the security of a deposit by hi with them of a blank transfer of 1000 shares (the numbers of which were stated in an indorsement) in the defendant company. The transfer was neither dated nor filled up with the name of any transferee. On the transfer was a "certification," signed by the company's secretary, which stated that the certificate of the shares had been deposited with the company. In May, 1889, the plaintiffs filled up the transfer with their own names as transferees, and the date 13th of February, 1889, and executed it, and on the 17th of May they sent it to the company's office for registration. At first the company's officers declined to register it, but after communication with Powter they did so, and on the 1st of July, 1889, they issued a certificate which stated that the plaintiffs were the proprietors of the 1000 shares (the numbers being given). The certificate was signed by two of the directors, and countersigned by the secretary, and was sealed with the company's seal. In August, 1889, 193*l.* 14*s.* 6*d.* remained due to the plaintiffs by Powter on the security of the shares, and he instructed them to sell the shares for the purpose of paying the debt. The plaintiffs then contracted to sell the shares for 426*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.* The certificate was sent, with the transfer executed by the plaintiffs, to the company's office, and a "certification," signed by the secretary, was written on the transfer. The transfer was then handed to the purchaser in exchange for his purchase-money, which he paid to the plaintiffs. The plaintiffs retained out of it the 193*l.* 14*s.* 6*d.* which was due to them, paid 110*l.* to Powter, and applied the balance of 123*l.* 3*s.* in satisfaction of other debts due to them by Powter. The company subsequently refused to register the transfer to the purchaser, on the ground that the plaintiffs had no title to the shares. It then appeared that in January, 1889, Powter had executed a transfer of the same shares to Maitland and Balfour, who, on the 14th of January, 1889, were registered by the company as the owners of the shares, and a certificate was issued to them by the company. In order to complete their contract with the purchaser, the plaintiffs were obliged to buy in the market another 1000 shares at a cost of 717*l.* 10*s.* The whole of the company's shares had been issued. The plaintiffs claimed payment by the company of the 717*l.* 10*s.* which they had paid, with interest, or, in the alternative, damages. Pollock, B., held that the company were estopped by the certificate which they had issued to the plaintiffs from denying their title to the shares, and that In re Bahia and San Francisco Railway Company (Law Rep. 3 Q. B. 584) applied. He also held that 717*l.* 10*s.* was the true measure of the damages, and gave judgment for the plaintiffs for that amount. The defendants appealed.

Finlay, Q.O., Buckley, Q.O., and H. Sutton, for the defendants, argued that the plaintiffs when they advanced their money did so, not on the faith of a certificate, but only on the faith of the "certification" on the transfer, by which, as was held in Bishop v. Balkis Consolidated Company (25 Q. B. D. 512), the company were not estopped. Moreover, the 717*l.* 10*s.* was not the proper measure of damages, if the plaintiffs were entitled to any.

Reid, Q.O., and F. W. Hollams, for the plaintiffs.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and Lopes and Kay, L.J.J.) affirmed the decision. They held that the certificate was a representation by the company to the plaintiffs, on which it was intended that they should act by selling the shares, that they were the owners of the shares, and that the company were estopped from denying the plaintiffs' title. Their Lordships held, also, that the plaintiffs had applied the 426*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.* as they were legally entitled to do, and that the sum which they paid for the purchase of the other shares was the true measure of the damages.

Appeal from a judgment of the Queen's Bench Division ([1891] 1 Q. B. 793), discharging a rule for a mandamus to the judge of the Halifax County Court to hear and determine the action. The claim was for an injunction to restrain the infringement of letters patent. The defendant's solicitor gave notice that he intended to dispute the validity of the patent. On the objection of the defendant's counsel, the county court judge held, that he had no jurisdiction, and his judgment was supported by the Queen's Bench Division.

Lewis Edmunds, and R. A. Dale, for the plaintiff.

T. Terrell, for the county court judge and the defendant.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., Lopes and Kay, L.J.J.), affirmed the judgment of the Queen's Bench Division, that the right or privilege granted by letters patent for a new invention was a franchise within the meaning of sect. 56 of the County Courts Act, 1888, and that an action in which the title to a patent came in question was excluded from the jurisdiction of the county court; and held further, that such an action was also excluded from the jurisdiction of the county court by the Patents, Designs, and Trade Marks Act, 1883 (46 & 47 Vict. c. 57).

Arbitration—Award—Costs—Submission—Arbitration Act, 1889 (52 & 53 Vict. c. 49), ss. 2, 25, 26.

Appeal from the judgment of the Queen's Bench Division ([1891] 1 Q. B. 700) on an application by one of the parties to an arbitration to set aside or refer back the award, on the ground that the arbitrators had exceeded their jurisdiction in awarding that the applicant should pay the costs of the reference. The arbitration was commenced after the commencement of the Arbitration Act, 1889, under an arbitration clause in a lease made in 1839, which was silent as to costs. The arbitrators awarded costs to the successful party, and the Queen's Bench Division held that there was no authority to do so. On appeal,

W. B. Odgers, for the appellant.

W. Graham and Gwynne James (Glascodine, with them), contra.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., Lopes and Kay, L.J.J.) held that the whole Act, including the schedules, applied to an arbitration commenced after the commencement of the Act, on a submission made before the commencement of the Act, and consequently the arbitrators had power to deal with the costs of the reference and award.

Will—Legacy to Wife—Priority.

The testator, after specific bequests of furniture, ornaments, and plate to his wife, gave her a sum of 600*l.* to enable her to provide and furnish a suitable house and to defray any other expenses, "such pecuniary legacy to be paid to my said wife within three months after my decease." There were numerous other legacies and annuities. The estate proved insufficient to pay in full all the legacies and annuities given by the will.

Will — Construction — Protected Life Interest — Forfeiture — Receiving Order — Bankruptcy Act, 1883, ss. 9 & 70.

The testator directed his trustees to pay the income of his residuary estate to his son A. during his life, or until he should assign, charge, or otherwise dispose of the said income or some part thereof, or become bankrupt, "or do or suffer something whereby the said income, if belonging to him absolutely, or some part thereof, would become payable to or vested in some other person," and on the determination of this trust, then over upon trusts for the benefit of the son and wife and children.

In November, 1890, a receiving order was made against the son, upon which at present no further steps had been taken. The trustees declined to pay the income received since the receiving order to the son, contending that the gift over had taken effect by reason of the receiving order.

L. H. Jenkins, for the son's wife.

Woolf, Q.C., and Bingwood, for the son, contended that the income was still payable, as the receiving order had not diverted his right to receive the income, and did not vest in the Official Receiver any interest in the trust fund.

OHITTY, J., said the effect of the receiving order was, that the income was no longer "payable" to the son, and consequently that the son's life interest had determined, and the gift over in favour of the wife and children took effect.

TIPPETT v. STRUTT.

June 4.

Life Insurance—Lapse of Policy—Payment ex gratia—Mortgage.

In 1877 George J. Tippet, the father of the plaintiff, mortgaged certain leasehold premises in London, and certain policies of life insurance, to trustees of the Guardian Assurance Company. One of the policies mortgaged was a policy on the life of George F. J. Tippet in the Guardian Company. In 1879 George F. J. Tippet agreed to sell, and subsequently assigned to Hedley Strutt and two others (herein called Messrs. Strutt) the leasehold premises subject to the mortgage. By the terms of the agreement for sale, the policies remained the property of the vendor. It was stipulated that the vendor should pay the premiums, but that the purchasers should, at the vendor's expense, concur in any arrangement that the vendor was able to make for releasing the policies from the mortgage, provided that no such arrangement should be detrimental to the interest of the purchasers by causing the rate of interest to be increased or the principal to be called in.

In February, 1887, the policy in the Guardian Company became vested in H. T. W. Tippet, the plaintiff, by an assignment from his father's trustee in bankruptcy. The premiums on the policy in the Guardian office having become due, the Guardian Assurance Company informed Messrs. Strutt that, unless that policy was kept up, they would call in the mortgage money. Messrs. Strutt, in consequence, paid certain premiums, and kept the policy alive.

In 1888 Messrs. Strutt commenced an action in the Chancery Division against the present plaintiff, claiming a lien on the policy for the premium they had paid. The action was heard by Mr. Justice Chitty, who gave judgment for the defendant. Messrs. Strutt appealed. The appeal was dismissed (Weekly Notes, 1890, p. 23).

Pending the action, default was made in paying premium, and the policy lapsed. The Guardian Assurance Co. subsequently ex gratia allowed a sum of 907*l.* in respect of the policy (the amount of surrender value the policy would have had if kept alive, less certain costs), and that sum was written off the mortgage debt. The 907*l.* was less than the amount of the premium which Messrs. Strutt had paid. The plaintiff brought this action against Messrs. Strutt and their mortgagees. He claimed payment of the 907*l.* and interest, and a declaration that he was entitled as surety to stand in the place of the guardian trustees, and to have a lien on the leasehold premises for that sum and interest.

MORRIS WILSON & Co. v. COVENTRY MACHINIST COMPANY.

Practice—Designs—Particulars of Objection—Leave to amend—Costs.

This was an action to restrain infringement of a registered design. The defendants pleaded want of novelty. They had delivered particulars of their objections for want of novelty. They obtained an order in Chambers giving them leave to amend their particulars on terms that the plaintiffs should be allowed within a fortnight to discontinue their action, and that in case they elected to discontinue, the costs down to the delivery of the first particulars of objection by the defendants should be borne by the plaintiffs, and subsequent costs by the defendants. The defendants now moved to have the order made in Chambers varied by striking out the terms.

FREME v. LOGAN.

June 5.

Contingent Remainder—Failure of particular Estate—Mortgage—Reconveyance—40 & 41 Vict. c. 33.

This was an action to determine certain questions arising in the administration of the estates of W. P. Freme, who died in 1878. By his will, executed before the passing of the Act to amend the law as to contingent remainders (40 & 41 Vict. c. 33), he devised certain real estate and bequeathed certain leasehold estate to his son James for his life, and the remainder to such of the children of his son James as, being sons, should attain twenty-one, or, being daughters, should attain twenty-one or marry; he devised and bequeathed his residue to his son James. At the time of his death some of the freehold estate was mortgaged; some was unincumbered; the leasehold was mortgaged. In 1887 trustees were appointed of the settlement created by the will and codicil of the testator, for the purposes of the Settled Land Act, 1882. In 1888 James Freme, acting as tenant for life, sold and conveyed to the purchasers a part of the unincumbered freeholds. Out of the proceeds the mortgages on other part of the freeholds, and on the leaseholds, were paid off, and the freeholds so discharged from incumbrances were reconveyed to the uses of the will, and the leaseholds were reconveyed to the trustee of the will.

James Freme died in 1888, leaving three children only, all sons, and infants. The two younger sons were the plaintiffs; and the defendants were the trustee of the will, and the eldest son of James Freme, the trustees for the purposes of the Settled Land Act, and the executor of the will.

One question for the decision of the Court was whether the effect of the reconveyance of the freehold estate was, by converting an equitable estate into a legal estate, to defeat the contingent remainder. Another question was, whether the rent of the equitable freehold estate after the death of James Freme belonged to his heir or personal representatives.

Napier Higgins, Q.C., C. Ashworth James, and Dibdin, for the trustees for the purposes of the Settled Land Act.

NORTH, J., held (1), that the contingent remainder was not defeated by the reconveyance of the freeholds to the uses of the will; (2) that the rents in question belonged to the heir of James Freme.

In re UXBRIDGE RURAL SANITARY AUTHORITY.
EARL OF JERSEY v. UXBRIDGE RURAL SANITARY AUTHORITY.

Judgment—Execution—Writ of Elegit—Rural Sanitary Authority—Land acquired for Purposes of Sewage Works for Contributory

Place—General Expenses—Public Health Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 55), ss. 229, 230, 233, 242.

In 1885 the plaintiff obtained an injunction against the defendants restraining them from doing certain acts, and they were ordered to pay the costs. The costs were not taxed till April, 1890, when they were certified at 633*l.* 2*s.* 10*d.* On the 22nd of January, 1891, the costs not having been paid, the plaintiff sued out a writ of elegit directed to the sheriff of Middlesex to enforce payment of his debt; and on the 10th of March, 1891, it was found upon an inquisition taken thereunder that the defendants were seised of certain lands. These lands had been acquired by the defendants for the purposes of sewage works for the parish of Norwood, a contributory place within the meaning of the Public Health Act, 1875, and they were paid for out of money borrowed for that specific purpose under ss. 233 and 242 of the Public Health Act, 1875. The sheriff caused these lands to be delivered in execution to the plaintiff, who presented a petition under 27 and 28 Vict. c. 112, for the sale of the lands, and for application of the proceeds in satisfaction of his judgment. The defendants then moved to set aside the writ of elegit and the inquisition thereunder on the ground that the lands were held under a special trust for the benefit of the contributory place of Norwood.

The question was whether the defendants had any interest in the lands in question which could properly be made available for satisfaction of the plaintiff's debt.

Hastings, Q.C., and Macmorran, for the defendants.

Pollard and Hornell, for Lord Jersey.

Buckley, Q.C., and Marcy, for the local board of the Norwood urban district, which, since the commencement of these proceedings had been constituted by an order of the County Council confirmed by the Local Government board.

STIRLING, J., held (1), that the plaintiff's costs must be treated as general expenses under sect. 229 of the Public Health Act, 1875; and (2), that the lands in question were held by the defendants not for the sanitary district generally, but for the contributory place of Norwood, and could only be taken in execution for judgment debts exclusively chargeable against that contributory place. His Lordship further held, that the motion was wrong in form, as the writ of elegit and inquisition were quite regular; but under sect. 24, sub-s. 5 of the Judicature Act, 1873, he directed that all further proceedings under the writ of elegit and inquisition should be stayed. No order as to costs of motion. Petition dismissed with costs.

Practice—Order drawn up, but not passed and entered—Oversight—Nunc pro Tunc.

Motion.

By an order made on the 3rd of June, 1885, W. R. S. Thomas and W. D. Bullis were appointed trustees of an estate settled by the will of S. A. Jones, deceased, for the purposes of the Settled Land Act, 1882. This order was entered in the Registrar's Book, and on the 12th of June, 1885, the papers were left with the Registrar for the order to be drawn up. Minutes of the order were settled by the Registrar, and the order was engrossed and taken away by the solicitor acting in the matter, but was never left to be passed and entered.

By virtue of the order, however, the trustees thereby appointed sold the settled estate, and invested the proceeds of sale upon the purchase of other property.

On the 19th of February, 1886, Thomas died. It was now discovered that the order had never been properly completed, and, the solicitor who acted in the matter having retired from practice, the engrossment of the order could not be found.

Oswald, for the surviving trustee and the tenant for life of the settled estate, applied ex parte to have the order re-drawn up, passed, and entered nunc pro tunc. He cited Lawrence v. Richmond (1. J. & W. 241); Russell v. Tapping (3 W. R. 379); Ex parte the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's (18 W. Opposed motion raising the question whether an official referee, to whom an action has been referred for trial, has power to grant a commission to examine witnesses abroad; and further, whether the decision of the referee granting or refusing an order for a commission can be reviewed by the judge at chambers, or whether an application for that purpose ought to be made to a Divisional Court.

The official referee having refused an order for a commission on the merits, an appeal was brought before the judge at chambers, and Henn Collins, J., referred the matter to the Court.

Bonsey, for the defendants.

T. W. Chitty, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Denman and Wills, JJ.), held, that the making of an order granting or refusing a commission to examine witnesses abroad comes within the words, "in the conduct of any reference or trial," in Order xxxvi., r. 50, and therefore the official referee has power to grant a commission, and his decision is subject to review by the judge at chambers. The matter was referred back to the judge at chambers to decide as to the merits of the application.

FINSKA ANGFARTYGS AKTIEBOLAGET v. BROWN, TOOGOOD & CO.

Practice—Costs—Claim and Counterclaim—Admission of Claim subject to Counterclaim.

Appeal from the decision of a Divisional Court (noted supra, p. 87).

In an action for 334*l.* for freight, the defendants by their defence admitted the claim, subject to a counterclaim, which they set up, for unliquidated damages for negligent delivery of cargo.

The action was tried by Charles, J., without a jury. The learned judge gave judgment for the plaintiffs on the claim for 334*l.*, with costs of the action, and judgment for the defendants on the counterclaim for 45*l.*, with costs of the counterclaim on the High Court Scale. On taxation the master, acting on the principle laid down in Shrapnel v. Laing (20 Q. B. D. 334), treated the claim and counterclaim as independent actions, the costs of which were to be taxed separately. Inasmuch as the plaintiffs' claim was admitted by the defence, and the only question to be litigated was whether the defendants were entitled to any and what damages on the counterclaim, substantially the costs incurred by the plaintiffs after the defence was delivered were costs of endeavouring to meet the defendants' counterclaim for damages. The master allowed the plaintiffs all the costs up to and including delivery of defence; and, on the ground that, in one sense, they had to go to trial to get their money, as, until a decision had been given on the counterclaim, it could not be ascertained whether any and what sum would be payable to them, he allowed them some of the costs of going to trial, such as the costs of setting the case down, part of the costs of instructions for brief, copies of pleadings for counsel at the trial, fees of three guineas to the leading, and two guineas to the junior, counsel, part of the charge for attending the trial and the cost of signing judgment; but he refused to allow the plaintiffs costs incurred in relation to the counterclaim, such as costs of interlocutory applications as to interrogatories and discovery which related to the counterclaim only, of the preparation of their brief which dealt solely with the counterclaim, and of the witnesses called by them to disprove the counterclaim; and he allowed the defendants the costs of the counterclaim; the result being that the amount of the costs allowed to the plaintiffs was 37*l.*, while that of the costs allowed to the defendants was 170*l.* The plaintiffs objected to the principle on which the master had taxed, and submitted that, as the amount they had recovered so greatly exceeded the amount recovered by the defendants on the counterclaim, and as, no payment into Court having been made when the defence was delivered, they had been compelled to go to trial to obtain payment of their claim, they were on that account entitled to the general costs of the action, including those relating to the interlocutory applications, the instructions for and preparation of the brief, and fees paid to counsel and to the witnesses called on their behalf; and that the plaintiffs' costs should be taxed on the same principle as would have been adopted if they had recovered judgment for the amount of their claim less the amount recovered on the counterclaim, instead of there having been two separate judgments.

Wright, J., at chambers, refused an application by the plaintiffs for a review of the taxation. The Divisional Court on appeal allowed the plaintiffs' objections to the taxation, and ordered that the case should be referred back to the master to vary his certificate accordingly (see supra, p. 87).

Bigham, Q.C., and Ashton, for the defendants, referred to Shrapnel v. Laing (20 Q. B. D. 334); Baines v. Bromley (6 Q. B. D. 691); and Bowker v. Kesteven (47 L. T. (N.S.) 545).

Montague Lush, for the plaintiffs, referred to Peat v. Jones, (8 Q. B. D. 147), and Amon v. Bobbett (22 Q. B. D. 543).

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and Kay, L.J.) held, that the decision of the Divisional Court was directly opposed to the principle laid down by the Court of Appeal in Shrapnel v. Laing (20 Q. B. D. 334), and in other cases, viz., that the costs of the claim and counterclaim in such a case must be taxed as if they were separate actions; and also to the judgment of Charles, J., who had given to the plaintiffs the costs of the action, and to the defendants the costs of the counterclaim; that the plaintiffs were not entitled to the costs which they claimed; and that the appeal must be allowed.

Appeal allowed.

Mortgage—Trustee—Inquiries as to prior Encumbrances—Misrepresentation—Concealment—Fraud—Warranty—Estoppel.

Appeal from North, J.

The plaintiff was a mortgagee of a life interest in a settlement trust fund. The security proved valueless by reason of there being a number of prior charges of which the plaintiff was not aware when he made the advance. The object of the action was to compel the defendant, the trustee of the fund, to indemnify the plaintiff for the loss he had sustained. The ground of the action was that, on inquiry being made of the defendant with a view to the advance being made, he had made misrepresentations which had induced the mortgage.

The defendant, on the inquiries being made of him by letter, omitted to state in his replies that the life interest was already subject to several charges, which were recited in a deed under which he had been appointed trustee; but it appeared that the existence of these charges was not present to his mind when he answered the inquiries.

North, J., held that the defendant was liable to indemnify the plaintiff for the loss.

The defendant appealed.

Rigby, Q.C., Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and Morshead, for the appellant.

Everitt, Q.C., and Church, for the respondent.

THE COURT (Lindley, Bowen, and Kay, L.J.J.) held that, as regarded the obligation of trustees to answer inquiries made by persons about to deal with their cestuis que trust, there was no equitable, as distinguished from legal, obligation to answer such inquiries, and that if a trustee gave an honest answer he discharged the only obligation he was under. Fraud, breach of duty, warranty and estoppel being all negated in the present case, there was no ground on which the action could be supported.

Appeal allowed, with costs.

Company—Director—Qualification Shares—Contributory.

Appeal from North, J.

This company was registered on the 22nd of October, 1888, under articles of association which provided that each director should hold at least forty shares in the company.

On the 25th of October Lord Inchiquin was appointed one of the original directors. By the minutes of a directors' meeting held on the same day, it appeared that forty shares were allotted to Lord Inchiquin; and his name was placed on the register of shareholders in respect of these shares before he acted as a director. Lord Inchiquin, however, never applied for any shares, and, according to his evidence, he never knew until after the company was ordered to be wound up that these shares had been allotted to him, or that he had been placed on the register in respect thereof. He first acted as a director on the 24th of November, 1888, when he attended a meeting and was elected chairman. He attended subsequent meetings of the directors on the 16th and 18th of January, 1889, and on the 19th of January, 1889, he acquired forty fully paid up shares in the company, which were duly transferred to him, and were registered in his name. On the 28th of January, 1889, he retired from the board of directors. The company was subsequently ordered to be wound up, and upon an application to remove Lord Inchiquin's name from the list of contributories in respect of the forty shares allotted to him on the 25th of October, 1888, it was held by North, J., that as Lord Inchiquin had, when he first acted as a director, no other shares except the unpaid shares then registered in his name, he must be taken to have had notice of his being on the register so as to bind him to have agreed to take such shares, and accordingly that his name must not be removed from the list.

Lord Inchiquin appealed.

Covens-Hardy, Q.C., and R. C. Saunders, for the appellant.

Beddall, for the respondent, the official liquidator, was not called on.

THE COURT (Lindley, Bowen, and Fry, L.JJ.), held, (1) that Lord Inchiquin must be taken to have known that it was his duty to qualify for the office of director by taking forty shares within a reasonable time; and (2) that a reasonable time had elapsed, if not by the 24th of November, at all events before the meetings in January, 1889. The decision of North, J., was right, and the appeal must be dismissed with costs.

SMITH v. BENCE.

Will—Construction—Remoteness—Divisibility of Gift Over.

A testator gave a share of his real estate to his daughter, Mrs. B., for life, and, after her decease, unto and among such children of hers as should live to attain twenty-one, or, being daughters, should attain that age or be married, and also such children of any son or daughter of hers who might die under twenty-one, as should live to attain the age of twenty-one years, or, being a daughter, to be married, in equal shares per stirpes. There was a gift over in case Mrs. B. "shall depart this life without leaving any lawful issue who shall live to attain a vested interest" in Mrs. B.'s share of the trust premises.

Mrs. B. died without ever having had a child, and the question was whether the gift over took effect. Kekewich, J., held that it was void for remoteness. This was an appeal from that decision.

Hall, Q.C., and G. Daw, for the appeal.

A. L. Ellis, for one of the respondents, supported the appeal.

Upjohn, for the heir-at-law.

THE COURT (Lindley, Bowen, and Fry, L.JJ.) dismissed the appeal, holding that they were precluded by authority from severing the gift over so as to make it effectual in the event which had happened, as it would have been if the event of not having a child had been expressly mentioned, and that the case was not governed by Evers v. Challis (7 H. L. C. 581).

Minerals—Settled Estate—Compensation Moneys—Capital or Income—Apportionment—Tenant for Life—Remainderman—Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, ss. 7, 9, 69, 70.

A tenant for life, unimpeachable for waste, sold and conveyed minerals to a railway company under the powers conferred by the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, and the compensation money, 1519*l.*, as settled by two surveyors, pursuant to sect. 9, was paid into Court. The tenant for life now applito have the whole of this compensation money paid out to him, on the ground that he would probably have been able to work out the whole of the minerals during his lifetime. There was evidence that the whole of the minerals could be completely worked out in twenty years, and that portions of them could be worked out in five, eight, and fifteen years respectively. The tenant for life was forty-seven years of age.

Becker, for the tenant for life, relied on in In re Barrington (33 Ch. Div. 523), and contended, that the tenant for life was at least entitled to such an apportioned part of the compensation money as would represent what might have been reasonably obtained from the minerals during his life.

Stallard, for the remainderman and trustees, opposed.

Gargant, for the railway company.

Curry, J., held that In re Barrington, being a decision under the 74th section of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, did not apply to the present case, which was entirely governed by sect. 69; that the tenant for life was not absolutely entitled to any part of the compensation money, as sect. 69 did not contemplate or direct any apportionment, and that the whole of the money in Court must therefore be invested, and the income only paid to the tenant for life.

G—v. L—

Judice—Ward of Court—Custody—Enforcement of Order—Contempt—Sergeant-at-Arms—Tipstaff—Form of Order.

This action was instituted for the purpose of making an infant a ward of Court. The infant and the father were plaintiffs. By an order of the 1st June, inst., the mother of the infant had been directed to deliver him to the father's nominee on a certain day, and at a time and place specified in said order. This order had not been complied with. The father, being unwilling to proceed by attachment or committal against his wife, now applied for an order directing the Sergeant-at-Arms attending the Court, or other the proper officer, to go and take the infant into his custody and deliver him to the person named in the order of the 1st of June.

Dickinson, for the father, stated that, owing to the changes made by the Judicature Acts, there was some doubt whether the Tipstaff was still such an officer as the Sergeant-at-Arms attending the Court, and whether the Tipstaff was not constantly the proper officer to execute such an order as was asked for.

Curry, J., said, that from inquiries he had caused to be made at the House of Lords, it appeared that there still was a "Sergeant-at-Arms attending the Court," who would, if needed, execute such an order; that it was not necessary, in the circumstances, that any notice of this application should be given to the mother, nor that the infant should be brought into Court, only to be handed over to the nominee of the father. The order would therefore be, that the Sergeant-at-Arms attending the Court do take this infant into his custody, and deliver him to the person mentioned in the order of the 1st of June. This, in his Lordship's opinion, was the right form of order for obtaining the custody of the person of a ward of Court.

Company—Winding-up Petition—Resolution to wind up voluntarily—Wishes of Shareholders—Right of Creditor to Compulsory Order—Companies Act, 1862, s. 145—Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, ss. 8, 9.

Two petitions were presented for the compulsory winding up of this company. The first was presented on the 18th of April by Mrs. Hodge, a creditor. She had in April, 1890, lent 200*l.* to the company, on the security of a mortgage of some of its property, at 7½ per cent. interest. She had recovered judgment against the company on their covenant in this mortgage, and had issued a fi. fa., to which there was a return of nulla bona. The petitioner alleged that the company had ceased to carry on business, and that it was insolvent.

The second petition was presented (with notice of the first), on the 28th of May by P. Krell, a judgment creditor of the company for 850*l.* He alleged that there was no property of the company on which he could levy execution. He also alleged that the mortgage to Mrs. Hodge had been improperly given by some of the directors of the company, and that her petition was not presented bona fide in the interest of the company's creditors, but was presented with the connivance, if not at the request, of the company and of some of the directors, with a view to protect their interests.

On the 1st of May the company passed a resolution to wind up voluntarily, and this resolution was confirmed on the 20th of May.

Gregson, for the first petitioner, was willing to accept a supervision order.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and H. B. Howard, for the second petitioner, and for other creditors, asked for a compulsory order. They urged that, inasmuch as, by virtue of the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, the Court had now much larger powers in a compulsory winding-up than it had in a voluntary winding-up under supervision, a reason existed for making a compulsory order which did not before the Act of 1890 exist in such cases as In re New York Exchange (39 Ch. Div. 415). The Act of 1890 had modified the effect of sect. 145 of the Companies Act, 1862.

Napier Higgins, Q.C. and C. Rose-Innes, for the company and the voluntary liquidator.

Everitt, Q.C., and Wace, for creditors and shareholders, desired a supervision order.

Methold, for a creditor and two shareholders; and W. Baker, for two shareholders; also desired a supervision order.

North, J., made a supervision order on the first petition, and dismissed the second petition with costs. He said that Krell was entitled to present his petition, though he had notice of the first, and, if he had shewn good ground for it, his Lordship would have made a compulsory order. But he had not shewn good ground for it. The creditors were pretty evenly divided, and a large majority of the shareholders desired a supervision order; and Krell had not satisfied his Lordship that he would be any better off if a compulsory order were made. His Lordship was not satisfied that an investigation of the internal affairs of the company would be of any benefit to the creditors. His Lordship thought that Krell had not shewn, as required by sect. 145 of the Companies Act, 1862, that his rights would be prejudiced by a voluntary winding-up, and there was no reason why the wishes of a large majority of the shareholders should be ignored. The Act of 1890 gave the Court much larger powers, but the law still was that a creditor must shew that his rights would be prejudiced by a voluntary winding-up. If a creditor made out a case for investigation, there would be a stronger reason than before the Act of 1890 for making a compulsory order. But Krell had not shewn such a case. His petition was an experiment, and it must be dismissed with costs.

BENTLEY v. MANCHESTER, SHEFFIELD, AND LINCOLNSHIRE RAILWAY COMPANY.

Statutory Right to Commit Damage—Assessment of Compensation—Failure of Special Tribunal—Jurisdiction to assess Compensation in an Action.

By an Act, 12 Geo. 1 c. xxviii, s. 1, the Company of Outliers in Hallamshire, their successors and assigns, were appointed undertakers of the navigation of the river Dun, and were empowered to lay rubbish taken from the river, in order to the making or preserving of the said navigation, upon the banks of the river or lands adjacent or near the places where the same should be dug or taken out, giving satisfaction for the damages thereby done.

Sect. 2 enacted that certain noblemen and gentlemen therein named, or any seven or more of them together assembled, should be commissioners for determining all matters about which any difference should arise between the undertakers and the riparian owners, and to determine what compensation should be paid the latter for the damage sustained.

Under several Acts of Parliament the undertaking and statutory powers became vested in the South Yorkshire Railway and River Dun Company. The last-named company conveyed a portion of the land adjoining the river to the plaintiff, saving and reserving to the grantors, over and along the land conveyed, a right of towing-path, with all such liberties and privileges as were specified in the several Acts relating to the river Dun navigation, or the towing-paths thereof, and with all the rights and privileges incident and necessary to the use and repair of such navigation.

The undertaking and the powers of the undertakers subsequently became vested in the defendants, who damaged the plaintiff's land by depositing thereon dredgings from the river.

It was admitted that all the persons named as commissioners in the first-mentioned statute were dead, and that no other commissioners had been appointed in their places.

Chadwyck Healey, Q.C., and Hatfield Green, for the plaintiff.

Neville, Q.C., and C. A. Russell, for the defendants.

ROMER, J. held, (1) on the construction of the Acts and the conveyance, that the defendants had no right to deposit rubbish on the plaintiff's land without paying compensation, though the payment of such compensation was not a condition precedent to the exercise of the right to deposit rubbish; (2) that, as the plaintiff's right to compensation could not be enforced in the manner pointed out by the first-named Act, the amount of compensation could be assessed in an action.

COOMBS v. WILKES.

June 15.

Contract—Sale of Land—Description of Vendor—Statute of Frauds.

The defendant signed a document, dated the 7th of October, 1889, whereby he agreed to purchase a freehold farm for 650*l.* The document stated that he has paid 20*l.* by way of deposit, and in part payment of the purchase-money, to Messrs. R. "as agents for the vendor." The document continued: "I hereby agree to pay in the usual way for the tenant-right (the landlord to be considered as an outgoing tenant according to the custom of the county); and, further, agree to execute a contract for the purchase of the said hereditaments when required, such contract to be prepared by the vendor's solicitor, and to complete the said purchase and pay the remainder of the said purchase-money."

The defendant paid a further sum of 80*l.* on account of the purchase-money, and in a subsequent letter to the solicitor of the plaintiff, he asked that the balance of 600*l.* might be allowed to remain on mortgage, and concluded: "Kindly write and let me know by return of post; and then Mr. Coombs could sign off the deeds, as I do not want to keep him waiting any longer. I should like a copy of our agreement."

In an action by the vendor for specific performance, the purchaser pleaded that there was no sufficient agreement under the Statute of Frauds, and contended that the vendor was not sufficiently described in the document of the 7th of October, 1889, or sufficiently identified in the subsequent correspondence.

J. Gatey, for the plaintiff.

Methold, for the defendant.

ROMER, J., held, that it could not be gathered with any certainty from the document of the 7th of October, 1889, that the landlord was the vendor, or that "Mr. Coombs," because he was to sign the deeds, was the vendor in the written contract, or that the copy of "our agreement" was a copy of the written contract in question, or that by "our agreement" was meant an agreement between the defendant and the plaintiff; and the action was dismissed, but without costs.

This was an appeal from an Interlocutor of the First Division of the Court of Session, recalling a decision of the Lord Ordinary (Lord Kinnear) (27 Scottish Law Reporter, 819).

The Solicitor-General for Scotland (Sir Charles Pearson, Q.C.), and W. C. Smith (of the Scotch Bar), heard for the appellant.

The Lord Advocate (J. P. B. Robertson, Q.C.) and Henry Johnston (of the Scotch Bar), for the respondents, not called on.

THE HOUSE (Earl of Selborne, and Lords Watson and Bramwell, Lord Morris dissenting) being of opinion, after hearing the whole of the evidence, that the decree of presbytery drawn up for the purpose of fixing the boundaries of the glebe was unambiguous, and that, therefore, its limits could not be extended by evidence of possession of a larger boundary,—dismissed the appeal with costs.

Company—Winding-up—First Meeting of Creditors—Right to Vote—Proof—"Unliquidated Debt"—Admission of Proof by Official Receiver—Right to Appeal—Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, Sched. I, clauses 7 and 11—Companies (Winding-up) Rules, 1890, rr. 110 and 111.

At the first meeting of creditors in the liquidation of the above-named company, a proof was tendered by Messrs. Golds, a firm of accountants, in respect of work done, partly before and partly after the commencement of the winding-up, in reference to a scheme to reconstruct the company. The proof was supported by an affidavit of a member of the firm in which the number of days' work, and the charge per day for principals and clerks, were specified, and the total amount of the debt claimed to be due from the corporation in respect of these charges was distinctly sworn to. The official receiver, who was chairman of the meeting, admitted the proof for the purpose of voting. This was a summons taken out by other creditors, asking that the decision of the official receiver might be reversed and the proof expunged. It was alleged by the applicants that they had objected to the proof at the meeting; but on this point there was a conflict of evidence.

Stutfield, for the summons, contended that the case came within clause 7 of Sched. I to the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, which provides that "a creditor shall not vote in respect of any unliquidated debt, or contingent debt, or any debt the value of which is not ascertained"; and that by clause 11 the decision of the official receiver was subject to appeal, and the vote subject to invalidation.

Giffard, Q.C., and Jason Smith, for Messrs. Golds.

Bramwell Davis, for the official receiver.

STIRLING, J., said that the question turned upon clauses 7 and 11 of the schedule, and rules 110 and 111 of the Winding-up Rules. For the purposes of his decision, he assumed that these rules applied, and that the creditors in this case were entitled to appeal. Upon the construction of clause 7, the case of Ex parte Ruffle (Law Rep. 8 Ch. 997) was in point, being a decision upon an identical rule under the Bankruptcy Act, 1869. There the creditor claimed to vote in respect of an estimated amount due for untaxed costs, and it was held that it was an unliquidated debt, and the proof was rejected; but here there was no such defect, the creditor having pledged his oath to a particular sum. And in that case also Mellish, L.J., defined what was meant by an "unliquidated debt," a "contingent debt," and a "debt the value of which is not ascertained." Applying those definitions to the present case, his Lordship held that the debt did not fall within clause 7, and he accordingly dismissed the summons with costs.

MERVIN v. CROSSMAN.

Will—Bequest to a Class—Vested or Contingent Gift—Period of ascertainment of Class—Remoteness.

Adjourned summons.

A testator by his will, which was dated in 1848, devised his real and residuary personal estate upon trust for sale, conversion, and investment, and after giving certain annuities, he directed his trustees to hold the investments and the income thereof, "upon trust to pay and divide the same equally between the present children of my said son, J. M., viz, R. P. M., E. W. M., M. H. M., A. W. M., J. W. M., and any other children who may hereafter be born, as and when they shall respectively attain the age of twenty-five years, with power to my said trustees in the meantime to pay and apply the whole, or any part of the remainder of the income of the said investments, for the maintenance and education of such grandchildren during their minority." The testator also empowered his trustees to pay or apply to or for the benefit or advancement of his said grandchildren any part not exceeding half of the capital to which they or he might be entitled on their or his attaining the age of twenty-five.

At the testator's death in 1879, his son, J. M., had five children living. One child was born four months after the testator's death, and two more were subsequently born, and were still living. R. P. M., the eldest son of J. M., attained the age of twenty-five in January, 1890.

The principal question was whether the bequest in favour of the children of the testator's son, J. M., was void for remoteness.

Warrington, W. Druce, and Ingle Joyce, for the various parties interested.

STIRLINGS, J., held, (1) that the children of J. M. did not take vested interests; (2) that the gift was a gift to a class which must be ascertained when the first of the children of J. M. attained twenty-five; and (3) that according to the rule established by Pearks v. Moseley (5 App. Cas. 714, 719), the gift was void for remoteness.

GRIGG v. NATIONAL GUARDIAN ASSURANCE COMPANY.

Bill of Sale—Furniture—“Delivery Order”—Registration—Bills of Sale Act, 1878, ss. 3, 4—Bills of Sale Act, 1882, s. 8.

In May, 1890, the plaintiff applied verbally to the defendants for a loan of 250*l.*, offering as security certain furniture belonging to him and warehoused at Taylor's Depository, Finsico. The defendants thereupon advanced the 250*l.*, and also a sum for warehousing charges, taking promissory notes for the two sums, and two memoranda, by each of which the plaintiff agreed to pay interest on each sum in case of default in payment of the promissory note for that sum by the appointed day. On the same day the plaintiff signed and handed to Taylor the following delivery order: “Deliver to Mr. Thomas James Browne”—the defendant's secretary—“or his order, all property warehoused with you in my name on payment of your charges.”

The plaintiff having made default in payment of the promissory notes and interest, the defendants, under the authority of the delivery order, removed the furniture from Taylor's to an auctioneer's, and advertised it for sale.

The plaintiff then issued the writ in this action, and now moved for an injunction to restrain the defendants from selling, on the ground that the delivery order was in effect a bill of sale, and ought to have been registered as such: Bills of Sale Act, 1878, ss. 3, 4; Bills of Sale Act, 1882, s. 8.

By consent, the hearing of the motion was treated as the trial.

Minton-Senhouse, for plaintiff.

Warrington, Q.C., and Dundas Gardiner, for defendants.

KEKEWICH, J., held, that the delivery order was not within the Bills of Sale Acts, the transaction being one of pledge, and the delivery order being equivalent to possession; and made an order for the delivery up of the goods to the plaintiff, only upon the terms of his paying to the defendants the amount of principal, interest, and costs.

Building Society—Winding-up—Advanced and Unadvanced Members—Contributories, Advanced Members not liable as—Companies Act, 1862 (25 & 26 Vict. c. 89), s. 200.

A building society formed under 6 & 7 Will. 4, c. 32, but not registered under the Building Societies Act, 1874, was ordered to be wound up. By the rules of the society advanced members were not liable to contribute to losses, but were entitled to a fair proportion of surplus profits in respect of their shares. The liquidator having placed upon the list of contributories the trustees and executors under the will of a deceased advanced shareholder, they now applied to have their names struck off. The mortgage given by their testator was to secure payment of “all shares or subscription money, expenses, fines, forfeitures, and moneys whatsoever to be paid by the mortgagor pursuant to the rules of the society in respect of the shares . . . received by him in advance . . . or otherwise in respect of his being a member of the said society.”

Booms, for the applicants, relied on Brownlie v. Russell (8 App. Cas. 235) and In re Middlesborough, &c., Building Society (58 L. J. Ch. 771).

Eve, for the liquidator, contended that the advanced members, being entitled to share in surplus profits, were “persons liable to pay or contribute to the payment of any sum for the adjustment of the rights of the members amongst themselves,” within the meaning of sect. 200 of the Companies Act, 1862, and were therefore liable to be settled on the list of contributories.

KEKEWICH, J., held, upon the authority of the cases cited, that the applicants were not liable to be put on the list of contributories. The cases shewed that there was a distinction between an ordinary shareholder and an advanced shareholder in such a society as this, and that the money which the advanced shareholder paid back was really paid not because he was a contributory, but according to the contract to advance to him, and that as regards such repayment, though calculated in reference to his share, he was a debtor, and not a shareholder liable as a contributory. The decision in the Middlesborough Case (which appeared correctly to work out the principle of Brownlie v. Russell) did not depend on the circumstance that the advanced shareholders repudiated any desire to participate in the surplus assets.

June 17.

Landlord and Tenant—Lease—Proviso for Re-entry on Bankruptcy of Lessee or Assigns—Assignment of Lease—Subsequent Bankruptcy of Lessee—Forfeiture.

Trial before Wright, J., without a jury.

The plaintiff in 1889 let a house for a term of years to one Duncan, the lease containing the usual covenants by the lessee to pay the rent and to repair, and also a proviso that if the lessee, his executors, administrators, or assigns should become bankrupt, the lessor should have power to re-enter, and the indenture, and the term thereby granted, should determine and be void. In June, 1890, Duncan assigned the lease to the defendant. Subsequently to such assignment, a receiving order was made against Duncan, and he was adjudicated a bankrupt. Thereupon the plaintiff brought an action against the assignee to recover possession of the premises under the proviso for forfeiture contained in the lease. It was contended on behalf of the plaintiff that, inasmuch as the lessee's liability under his covenants would continue after assignment, and the remedy in respect of such liability would be impaired by his bankruptcy, it was intended by the proviso that the forfeiture should take place as well where the lessee's bankruptcy occurred after assignment, as where it occurred before.

F. Safford, for the plaintiff.

W. P. Boxall, for the defendant.

WRIGHT, J., held that the proviso referred only to the bankruptcy of the person for the time being holding the estate, and gave judgment for the defendant accordingly.

Bankruptcy—Assets—Salary or Income—Power to order payment to Trustee—Wages of Workman—Bankruptcy Act, 1883 (46 & 47 Vict. c. 52), s. 53, sub-s. 2.

Appeal from the decision of the judge of the county court at Wrexham, who had refused to make an order under sect. 53, sub-sect. 2, of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, for payment of part of the earnings of the bankrupt to the trustee in bankruptcy. The bankrupt was a workman in the employment of a colliery company, and was earning wages which it was stated averaged from twenty-five to thirty shillings a week.

THE COURT (Cave and Charles, J.J.) held, following Ex parte Benwell (14 Q. B. D. 801), that the wages earned by the bankrupt were not "salary or income other than as aforesaid" within the meaning of sect. 53, sub-sect. 2, of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, and therefore no order could be made.

Company—Compulsory Winding-up—Transfer of Shares after Winding-up Order—Rectification of Register—Companies Act, 1862 (25 & 26 Vict. c. 89), s. 35.

Appeal from Darlington County Court.

The Onward Building Society had been ordered to be wound up compulsorily. The assets proved to be more than the liabilities. The appellant, who had bought shares after the date of the winding-up order, and obtained a transfer of them, applied to the judge of the county court for an order under sect. 35 of the Companies Act, 1862 (25 & 26 Vict. c. 89), directing the liquidator to place the name of the appellant on the register of members. The application was refused by the learned county court judge on the ground that he had no jurisdiction.

IN THE GOODS OF JOSEPHINE REEVES.

An administration bond had been executed in Sydney, New South Wales, to the late President, Sir J. Hannen, who, when it was brought into the principal Registry, had ceased to be the President. The Court refused to substitute in the bond the name of the present President for that of the late President, and ordered that the bond should be re-executed.

Josephine Reeves, late of Sydney, New South Wales, deceased died intestate, leaving property in this country. John Reeves of Ashfield, in Sydney, the husband of deceased, applied in the court for administration of her estate and effects, and with two sureties executed an administration bond in the penal sum of 200*l.* to the Right Hon. Sir James Hannen, as the President of the Probate and Divorce Division. On the bond being brought into the principal registry, the registrar refused to receive it without an order from the Court to substitute the name of Sir C. P. Butt for that of Sir J. Hannen.

G. Murray, now moved to substitute the name of Sir C. Butt for that of Sir J. Hannen, and referred to In the goods Legrand (not reported).

JUNE, J.:—In that case the Court did not substitute the name of the President for another, but suggested that the President might assign the bond to the present President. This was an exceptional case, and perhaps I went further than should be inclined to go again in making that suggestion. The difficulty which presses on my mind is that there is no bond at all given to the judge as required by the statute. I cannot dispense with the bond, and I cannot grant the motion; and I must therefore require that the bond be re-executed.

FINSKA ANGFÄRTYGS AKTIEBOLAGET v. BROWN, TOOGOOD & Co.

Practice—Costs—Claim and Counterclaim—Admission of Claim subject to Counterclaim.

Appeal from the decision of a Divisional Court (noted supra, p. 87).

In an action for 33*l.* for freight, the defendants by their defence admitted the claim, subject to a counterclaim, which they set up, for unliquidated damages for negligent delivery of cargo.

The action was tried by Charles, J., without a jury. The learned judge gave judgment for the plaintiffs on the claim for 33*l.*, with costs of the action, and judgment for the defendants on the counterclaim for 45*l.*, with costs of the counterclaim on the High Court Scale. On taxation the master, acting on the principle laid down in Shrapnel v. Laing (20 Q. B. D. 334), treated the claim and counterclaim as independent actions, the costs of which were to be taxed separately. Inasmuch as the plaintiffs' claim was admitted by the defence, and the only question to be litigated was whether the defendants were entitled to any and what damages on the counterclaim, substantially the costs incurred by the plaintiffs after the defence was delivered were costs of endeavouring to meet the defendants' counterclaim for damages. The master allowed the plaintiffs all the costs up to and including delivery of defence; and, on the ground that, in one sense, they had to go to trial to get their money, as, until a decision had been given on the counterclaim, it could not be ascertained whether any and what sum would be payable to them, he allowed them some of the costs of going to trial, such as the costs of setting the case down, part of the costs of instructions for brief, copies of pleadings for counsel at the trial, fees of three guineas to the leading, and two guineas to the junior, counsel, part of the charge for attending the trial and the cost of signing judgment; but he refused to allow the plaintiffs costs incurred in relation to the counterclaim, such as costs of interlocutory applications as to regarded a charge for compensation paid by them, in a case in which proceedings to obtain compensation were pending at the time of the landlord's death.

ALLDRED v. WEST METROPOLITAN TRANS COMPANY.

Tramway Company—Liability for Damage from Non-repair of Road—Contract with Road Authority—Transfer of Liability—Tramways Act, 1870 (33 & 34 Vict. c. 78), ss. 28, 29, 55.

Application for new trial.

The action was in respect of personal injuries sustained by the plaintiff. The defendant's were a tramway company subject to the Tramways Act, 1870. The surface of a road upon which the defendant's tramway was laid being worn down so that one of the rails of the tramway stood up above the roadway, the wheel of the plaintiff's carriage caught the rail, and, the carriage being upset, the plaintiff was injured. The defendants had entered into a contract under sect. 29 of the Tramways Act, 1870, with the road authority, the Vestry of Hammersmith, by which the latter undertook to maintain and repair the portion of the road on which the tramway was laid. The learned judge at the trial held, that the case was within the authority of Howitt v. Nottingham Tramways Company (12 Q. B. D. 16), and that the defendants were therefore not liable. The judgment was therefore entered for the defendants.

McCall, Q.C. (Guiry with him), for the plaintiff, moved for a new trial on the ground of misdirection.

Kemp, Q.C., and Atherley Jones, for the defendants, were not called upon.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., Bowen, L.J., and Kay, L.J.) held that Howitt v. Nottingham Tramways Company (12 Q. B. D. 16) was rightly decided; that, assuming that liability for the repair of the portion of the road on which the tramway was laid was prima facie imposed upon the tramway company by sect. 28 of the Tramways Act, 1870, nevertheless, where there was a contract by the road authority to undertake the repairs under sect. 29, the liability of the tramway company ceased; and that the application for a new trial must therefore be refused.

Application refused.

EVERY v. WOOD.

July 1.

Copyright—Taxation—"Full Costs"—5 & 6 Vict. c. 45, c. 26.

This was an action to restrain an alleged infringement of copyright and for damages. At the trial it was dismissed "with full costs to be taxed by the taxing master." The question was whether the costs were to be taxed as between solicitor and client, or as between party and party. North, J., held that they were to be taxed in the latter way. The defendants appealed.

Hopkinson, for the appeal.

Spokes, for the plaintiff, was not called upon.

THE COURT (Lindley and Fry, L.JJ.) said, that if the matter were res integra there would be much to be said for the appellant's contention that "full costs" must mean something more than "costs"; but that having regard to Irwin v. Reddish (5 B. & A. 796), the statute 5 & 6 Vict. c. 45, s. 26, must be taken to use the expression "full costs" in the sense in which it had been taken by the Court; and Jamieson v. Trevelyan (10 Ex. 748) confirmed this view. The appeal was dismissed.

Motion ex parte, by way of appeal from a decision of the Queen's Bench Division refusing a rule nisi for a mandamus to compel a stipendiary magistrate (who had made an order under sects. 91 and 96 of the Public Health Act, 1875, for the abatement of a nuisance caused by the emission of black smoke from the applicant's chimneys) to state a case.

Sir Horace Davey, Q.C. (Joseph Walton, with him), now moved ex parte, in the Court of Appeal, for a rule nisi for a mandamus.

THE COURT OF APPEAL (Lord Esher, M.R., and Bowen and Kay, L.JJ.) held, that the application for a mandamus was by way of appeal from a decision in a "criminal cause or matter" within the meaning of sect. 47 of the Judicature Act, 1873, and the motion was therefore dismissed.

Practice—Winding-up Petition—Parties attending the Hearing—Costs—Notice of Intention to Appear—Companies Winding-up Rules (February), 1891.

On the hearing of a petition for winding-up this company, it appeared that one set of creditors supporting the petition had omitted to state, in the notice of intention to appear pursuant to rule 3 of the Companies Winding-up Rules (February), 1891, whether they intended to support or oppose a winding-up order.

CHITTY, J., said, it was important that all parties attending the hearing of winding-up petitions should strictly comply with these new rules, and take particular care to state on their notices, whether they intended, at the hearing, to support or oppose the petition. These rules had been made for the express purpose of putting an end to an evil practice, that had grown up, of giving ambiguous instructions to counsel appearing on these petitions, and for the future his Lordship wished it to be clearly known, that no one appearing on these petitions would be allowed any costs of appearance by his Lordship, unless the rules were strictly complied with, and unless the notice of intention to appear, shewed on the face of it whether the person giving it intended to support or oppose the petition.

Mulligan, Ashton Cross, Maidlow, and Pajet, were the counsel appearing.

WALKER v. CRAWSHAY.

June 25.

Settlement—Construction—Agreement to Settle after-acquired Property—Life Interest determinable on Alienation.

Summons by the trustees of a sum of 15,000*l.* for the determination of the question, whether the defendant, C. F. Crawshay, by virtue of an agreement for a settlement, made by him in September, 1881, previous to his marriage, or a settlement made by him in October, 1885, after his marriage, in pursuance of the agreement, had forfeited his interest in the 15,000*l.* under the will of his mother made in January, 1885. The mother by her will, in exercise of a power of appointment given to her by the will of her father, appointed that a sum of 15,000*l.*, part of a larger sum, should be held upon trust that the trustee or trustees should, subject to a proviso thereafter contained, pay the income thereof to the defendant, C. F. Crawshay, during his life, and after his death, upon certain trusts for the benefit of his children. There was a proviso that if C. F. Crawshay should at any time or times assign, charge, or otherwise dispose of in the way of anticipation the annual income thereinbefore directed to be paid to him during his life, or any part thereof, or by any deed or writing attempt to do so, &c., his life interest should cease as if he were dead, the subsequent trusts therein declared of the principal sum of 15,000*l.* being accelerated. The testatrix died in July, 1889. The agreement of September, 1881, provided, that after the solemnization of the marriage (then intended) of C. F. Crawshay, a settlement should be executed whereby certain specified property belonging to him, "and any further moneys and property which C. F. Crawshay shall receive and be entitled to under the will of his mother," should be conveyed, assigned, and assured unto trustees, upon trust for the wife during her life for her separate use, and after her death upon trust for C. F. Crawshay during his life, and after his death upon certain trusts for the children of the marriage. The settlement executed in 1885 in pursuance of the agreement contained a covenant by C. F. Crawshay (following the words of the agreement) for the settlement of any property which should come to him under the will of his mother.

G. Murray, for the plaintiffs.

Bramwell Davis, for C. F. Crawshay, argued that there had not been a forfeiture. He contended (1) that the life interest, being given to C. F. Crawshay by an appointment under the power contained in his grandfather's will, did not come to him under his mother's will; (2) that the words of the agreement did not extend to life interests; (3) that, if they did, they did not include a life interest which would be forfeited by the assignment of it to the trustees of the settlement upon trusts which would take it away from C. F. Crawshay himself, the result being that the persons whom the settlement was intended to benefit would derive no benefit at all.

Reginald Winslow, for the children of C. F. Crawshay, who were in infants.

NORTH, J., held that the life interest came to C. F. Crawshay under the will of his mother. It would not have come to him if she had not made the will. It was not necessary to decide whether the agreement comprised life interests. Assuming that it did, his Lordship was of opinion that it did not extend to that which was in effect an inalienable life interest. The object of the agreement for a settlement was to secure for the persons who were intended to be benefited by it, something which, but for it, they would not have had. It was not intended merely to destroy the interest of the husband in a fund when the wife and children would not get that interest under the settlement. The agreement was not intended to prejudice or destroy an outside interest which could not benefit the persons who were intended to be benefited by the settlement. His Lordship came to this conclusion on principle; but he was glad to find that Chitty, J., took the same view in In re Allnutt (22 Ch. Div. 275). The object of the forfeiture clause was to secure the income to the person whom the testatrix intended to be the recipient of it, and to prevent any outsider from taking it—to make the life interest incapable of alienation. The result was that there had been no forfeiture of the life interest.

Railway—Compensation—Accident—Document Discharging all claims, Finality of—Verbal Reservation.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Second Division of the Court of Session, affirming the judgment of the Lord Ordinary (28 Scottish Law Reporter, 130).

The respondent's bodily system was injured in a railway accident on the appellants' line. His injuries were not external or apparent at the time. Nine days after he received from the appellants 27*l.*, and signed a document which set forth that the 27*l.* was received in full of all claims competent to the respondent in respect of the injury and loss sustained. Eighteen months afterwards the respondent brought an action against the appellants, and after a proof the Lord Ordinary awarded him 500*l.* as damages. This award was affirmed by the Second Division.

The appellants pleaded that the action was barred by the discharge. The respondent contended that the document he signed was not understood by him as being a complete or final settlement; that he was not in a fit state to transact business; and that he had, on signing, told the representative of the appellants that if he did not get better he would make a fresh demand on them.

Finlay, Q.C., and Haldane, Q.C. heard for the appellants.

Rhind, and J. R. Baxter (both of the Scotch Bar), heard for the respondent.

THE HOUSE (Earl of Selborne, and Lords Watson, Bramwell, Macnaghten, and Morris) being of opinion that the document was in terms a final discharge, and that the evidence adduced did not establish either that the respondent did not understand what he was doing, or the alleged reservation—Reversed the judgments of the Courts of Session; and assoziated the appellants from the conclusions of the action.

DOBELL & Co. v. WATTS, WARD & Co.

July 3.

Skip—Charterer—Discharging Cargo—Delay from Strike of Workmen—Demurrage.

This was an action by the shippers of a cargo of timber against the owners of the ship for breach of a charterparty made between them at Quebec in July, 1889, for the carriage of the timber from Quebec to London.

The charterparty provided that the ship was to deliver her cargo afloat in London, but did not fix any time for such delivery; and clause 13 was as follows: "Cargo . . . to be received from alongside ship at port of discharge as customary, as fast as steamer can deliver in ordinary working hours, Sundays always excepted, loading or discharging; not less than 100 standards a day loading or discharging, and ten days on demurrage over and above the said laying days at 70*l.* a day."

The ship arrived with the cargo, which amounted to about 1000 standards, at a London dock on the 19th of August, 1889, and was ready to discharge on the 20th, and a small part of the cargo was, in fact, discharged on that day.

It was the duty of the ship to put the deals and timber over the side into the barges provided by the plaintiffs, and by the custom of the port of London the ship had for that purpose to engage a stevedore, who supplied men to discharge the cargo. These men struck work on the 21st of August, and the crew of the ship were unable or unwilling to discharge it. Between that day and the 16th of September, when the strike ended, small portions of the cargo were discharged by the crew; but, owing to the strike, the cargo was not fully discharged till the 28th of September. In the ordinary course the ship would have been unloaded by the 30th of August, or the 31st of August at the latest.

The plaintiffs contended that their barges were all this time ready to take delivery of the cargo, and that the defendants, not having protected themselves by a special provision in their contract applicable to a strike, were responsible for the delay, and they brought this action alleging breach of the charterparty, and claiming damages for delay in the delivery of the cargo, and for detention of the barges, and repayment of 280*l.* which had been paid by the plaintiffs under protest to the dock company as stakeholders in respect of four days' demurrage claimed by the defendants. The defendants contended that upon the true construction of clause 13 of the charterparty, there was an absolute obligation on the cargo-owner to take delivery of not less than 100 standards of timber a day, and they pleaded that the plaintiffs were not ready to take delivery, and claimed the 280*l.* paid for the demurrage.

Wills, J., before whom the action was tried, decided that the words "not less than 100 standards a day," were a provision for the protection of the cargo-owner, which bound the ship to deliver not less than 100 standards a day; but he declined to give judgment for the plaintiffs as to the whole 280*l.*, and declared that the defendants were entitled to one day's demurrage, the jury having found that one day's delay was due to the default of the cargo-owners in not providing sufficient barges.

The defendants appealed, and the plaintiffs also appealed as to the demurrage.

Lawson Walton, Q.C., and English Harrison, for the defendants.

Gorell Barnes, Q.C., and Arthur Russell, for the plaintiffs.

THE COURT (Lindley, Fry, and Lopes, L.J.J.) affirmed the decision of Wills, J., and dismissed the appeal with costs.

Copyright—International Copyright Act, 1886 (49 & 50 Vict. c. 33)

—Foreign Composer—Musical Work first produced in Foreign Country—Production of Work in England before operation of Act of 1886—Act of 1886, s. 6.

The 6th section of the International Copyright Act, 1886 (49 & 50 Vict. c. 33), enacts in effect that, upon an Order in Council being made, foreign composers shall be entitled to copyright in the United Kingdom in respect of works first produced before such order comes into operation, "provided that when any person has, before the date of the publication of the Order in Council lawfully produced any work in the United Kingdom, nothing in this section shall diminish or prejudice any rights or interests arising from or in connection with such productions which are subsisting and valuable at the said date."

The Order in Council applying this Act to French subjects came into operation on the 6th of December, 1887. In November, 1877, the plaintiff, a Frenchman, composed and first produced in France 'The Caprice Polka.' He duly registered it in France according to the provisions of the copyright laws of that country; but he took no steps to acquire the copyright or sole right of performance in this country. In February, 1887, an English publisher printed and published 'The Caprice Polka' in England, and before the above-mentioned order came into operation the defendant, a bandmaster at Brighton, bought from the English publisher for 5*s.* a copy of the polka. He had it performed by his band, both before and after the 6th of December, 1887, and it became part of his répertoire.

The plaintiff subsequently brought this action against the defendant in the Brighton County Court, and claimed damages for an infringement of the plaintiff's sole right of performance, and an injunction.

The defendant claimed the benefit of the proviso in the 6th section of the Act of 1886, and contended that at this date, when the order came into operation, the polka had been "lawfully produced" in England, and that he had a right or interest in the production which was "subsisting and valuable" at that date. The county court judge gave judgment for the defendant, and the Divisional Court affirmed that judgment on appeal. The plaintiff now appealed from the Divisional Court—Asquith, Q.C., Rose Innes, and Roskill, for the appellant.

Cutler, Q.C., and Megone, for the defendant, were not called upon.

THE COURT (Lindley, Fry, and Lopes, L.JJ.) held that the right or interest of the defendant in the production could not be considered as of no value, affirmed the judgment of the Court below, and dismissed the appeal with costs.

In re QUEENSLAND MERCANTILE AND AGENCY COMPANY.

Ex parte UNION BANK OF AUSTRALIA.

Practice—Appeal—Stay of Execution—Winding-up—Companies Act, 1862 (25 & 26 Vict. c. 89), s. 122.

The Queensland Mercantile and Agency Company were domiciled in Queensland. The company was ordered to be wound up in the Queensland Court, and also in the High Court. The proceeds of calls from shares held by persons domiciled in Scotland were invested in the name of the English liquidator in Consols. The Australasian Investment Company were a Scotch Company. They took out a summons in the English winding-up for the purpose of having the amount of a debt, due to them in respect of a claim for negligence and for costs, satisfied out of the Consols in the hands of the English liquidator in priority to other debts, on the ground that certain legal proceedings they had taken in Scotland gave them such priority. The Union Bank of Australia also took out a summons in the English winding-up to have the whole of the Consols paid to them on the ground that they were entitled to them as the holder of debentures issued by the Queensland Mercantile and Agency Company. The summonses were heard together, and the Court decided ([1891] 1 Ch. 536) that the Australasian Investment Company were entitled to priority.

This was a motion on the part of the Union Bank of Australia that execution under the order made on the two summonses might be stayed pending the hearing of an appeal by them.

Dickinson, for the motion:—The circumstance that the Australasian Investment Company is resident out of the jurisdiction in Scotland is sufficient reason to prevent the Court allowing the fund to go out of its control pending the appeal.

Rawlins, contra.

NORTH, J., held that, inasmuch as the order of the Court of Appeal would be enforceable in Scotland under sect. 122 of the Companies Act, 1862, there was no reason to stay execution. He refused the motion.

Where an alleged shareholder in a limited company has commenced an action against the company for rescission of his contract to take shares on the ground of misrepresentation in the prospectus, and has delivered his statement of claim containing specific allegations upon which he bases his claim for relief, he cannot, upon a winding-up petition being subsequently presented, upon which an order is made during the pendency of the action, proceed to amend his statement of claim by alleging new grounds for relief, although he may have only for the first time become aware of those grounds through a decision upon a successful summons for rescission taken out by another shareholder before the presentation of the petition; but he is at liberty to amend by enlarging his original allegations merely with a view of making them more accurate and distinct.

AKERMAN v. AKERMAN.

Administration—Debt owing to Estate barred by Statute of Limitations—Residuary Real and Personal Estate—Proceeds of Sale of Real Estate—Specific Gifts—Debts owing by Beneficiaries whether to be brought into Account.

A testator, who died in 1890, by his will gave (inter alia) three freehold properties to three of his sons, and devised and bequeathed all his residuary real and personal estate to trustees upon trust to sell and convert the same into money, and thereout to pay his debts and funeral and testamentary expenses, and to divide the net residue into seven parts, three of which were given to his three sons absolutely.

The testator, in his lifetime, advanced various sums of money to his three sons, taking from them acknowledgments or promissory notes. As to some of these advances it was open to question whether the testator had not by his conduct released the debts thereby created, and as to this, inquiry was directed to ascertain the facts. It appeared, however, that assuming the advances, or any of them, to be subsisting debts, the right of action in respect of them was barred by the Statute of Limitations. The question accordingly arose (and was now argued upon an originating summons taken out by one of the three sons) whether the executors of the will had any right in the nature of set-off or retainer, in respect of the advances, as against (1) the freeholds specifically devised to the three sons, or (2) their shares in the proceeds of sale of the residuary real estate.

Warmington, Q.C., and Butcher, for the plaintiff.

Dunham, Duncan, Stokes, and Upjohn, for other parties.

KEKEWICH, J., held, that there could be no such right as suggested, in respect of the properties specifically given; but with reference to the shares in the proceeds of sale of the residuary real estate, was of opinion that the principle of the cases of Cherry v. Boulbee (4 My. & Cr. 442), and Courtenay v. Williams (15 L. J. (N.S.) Ch. 204) applied. That principle was that a person who owed money to an estate, and who was therefore bound to increase the general mass of the estate by a contribution of his own, could not claim an aliquot share given to him out of that mass, without first making the contribution which completed it. Nothing was in truth retained by the representative of the testator, and nothing, in strict language, was set off, but the contributor was paid by holding in his own hands part of the mass, which, if the mass were first completed, he would receive back. There must, therefore, be a declaration that the three sons ought to bring into account, as against their respective shares of the testator's residuary real and personal estate, any sums due by them respectively to the testator at the date of his death, with interest at 4 per cent. from that date.

Building Estate—Lease of part to A. by Mortgagor in Possession—Conveyance of other Part to B. by Mortgagees—Obstruction to Light by Hoarding—Injunction—Conveyancing and Law of Property Act, 1881, s. 18.

A mortgagor in possession of land, laid out for building, granted a building lease of part of the land to the plaintiff. The lease was made pursuant to sect. 18 of the Conveyancing, &c., Act, 1881, and the mortgagees were not parties to it. The houses were built, but building operations remained in abeyance on the remainder of the estate. Subsequently the mortgagees conveyed the portion of the estate adjoining the houses to the defendants, who laid it out as a cricket ground, and hoarded on their boundary adjoining the houses a hoarding, the purpose of preventing their cricket ground being overlooked by the occupiers of the houses. The result, however, was to cause a substantial diminution of light to the plaintiff's windows of the houses. Thereupon the plaintiff brought this action, claiming an injunction to restrain the defendants from permitting the hoarding to remain. The defendants contended that the plaintiff took his land with notice of liability to obstruction of light by building; and also that, as the mortgagees were not parties to the plaintiff's lease, they and those claiming under them were not bound thereby, and could not be restrained from obstructing the light to the plaintiff's windows.

Wille, Q.C., and Terrell, for the plaintiff.

Edwyck Healey, Q.C., and Freeman, for the defendants.

PERKINS, J., held, that although the plaintiff may have taken the lease with notice that it comprised land which was part of a building estate, and therefore subject to obstruction to light from buildings to be erected on other parts of the estate; yet that, subject to such obstruction, a right to an unobstructed access of light had been granted to him by his lease. Further, the lease having been granted to him pursuant to sect. 18 of the Conveyancing, &c., Act, 1881, was binding on the mortgagees and those claiming through them. In his Lordship's opinion, the obstruction complained of did not arise from a building properly so called, and therefore the plaintiff was entitled to the injunction he claimed.

THE COUPÉ COMPANY v. MADDICK.

Bailment—Bailor and Bailees—Bailees for Hire—Master and Servant—Liability of Bailees for Hire for Negligence of Servant.

Appeal from the Bloomsbury County Court. The question raised was whether the defendant, who had hired a horse and carriage for a year, was responsible to the owners, the plaintiff company, for damage done to them by the negligent driving of the defendant's servant, when the servant, instead of taking the horse and carriage to his master's stable in the ordinary course of his duty, for his own purposes and to serve a friend, took the horse and carriage in a contrary direction, and they were injured by his negligent driving while thus engaged. The county court judge held that the hirer was not responsible, on the authority of Storey v. Ashton (Law Rep. 4 Q. B. 476), in which it was held, under similar circumstances, that the master was not liable to a person who had been run over and injured by the servant, on the ground that he was not acting in the course of his employment.

Appeal from the judge of the Leighton Buzzard County Court.

The action was to recover damages for the loss of certain calves which were alleged to have died owing to the negligence of the defendants in and about their carriage. At the trial the jury gave a verdict for the plaintiff; but upon a subsequent occasion the defendants applied for and obtained an order from the county court judge for a new trial upon the ground that the verdict was against the weight of the evidence. The plaintiff appealed.

Bankruptcy—Disclaimer of Lease—Trustee's Costs—Higher or Lower Scale—The Bankruptcy Rules, 1886, r. 112—The Bankruptcy Act, 1883, s. 55.

The proceedings in this case were instituted in a county court, and the trustee applied to the Court for leave to disclaim certain leaseholds. The application was opposed by a mortgagee. In the result the Court gave leave to disclaim, and directed the costs of the trustee, and of the mortgagee, to be taxed and paid out of the bankrupt's estate, which was admittedly under 300*l.* The costs of the mortgagee were taxed at 5*l.* 6*s.* 6*d.*, and were paid in full. The costs of the trustee were taxed at 21*l.* 11*s.* 4*d.*; but the Board of Trade objected to their being paid in full, on the ground that they were "costs of proceedings under the Act," and must therefore be taxed on the lower scale under rule 112 of the Bankruptcy Rules, 1886. The decision of the registrar of the county court was, however, upheld on review by a bankruptcy taxing master of the High Court. The matter was then referred to the judge.

Muir Mackenzie, for the Board of Trade.

Stevenson, for the trustee, relied on In re Dowson (21 Q. B. D. 417).

CAVE, J., held, that rule 112 of the Bankruptcy Rules applied, and that the costs must be reduced to three-fifths of the amount as therein directed. These costs of the trustee were, as a general rule, payable out of the estate, and were costs incurred in a proceeding under the Act. The fact that the Court had a discretion in the matter did not prevent the application of rule 112. In re Dowson was distinguishable. There the Court was dealing with the costs of third parties.

County Court—Admiralty Jurisdiction—County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868 (31 & 32 Vict. c. 71), s. 21 sub-ss. (1), (2)—County Courts Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43), s. 74.

By the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868 (31 & 32 Vict. c. 71), s. 21, "proceedings in an Admiralty cause shall be commenced (1) in the county court having Admiralty jurisdiction within the district of which the vessel or property to which the cause relates is at the commencement of the proceedings; (2) if the foregoing rule be not applicable, then in the county court having Admiralty jurisdiction in the district of which the owner of the vessel or property to which the cause relates . . . resides."

By the County Courts Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43), s. 74, "except where by this Act it is otherwise provided, every action or matter may be commenced in the court within the district of which the defendant . . . shall dwell or carry on his business at the time of commencing the action or matter . . ."

The plaintiffs, the Bristol Steam Navigation Company, Limited, with registered offices at Bristol, and owners of the steamship Hero, brought an action in personam, in the County Court of Glamorganshire, holden at Cardiff, against the defendants, Messrs. Watsons, timber merchants, carrying on their business at Cardiff—and charterers of the vessel, and consignees of a cargo of timber brought by the Hero from Uleaborg to Cardiff—for 66*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* damages for four days' detention in the nature of demurrage.

The county court judge, on the application of the defendants, made an order dismissing the action for want of jurisdiction on the ground that, as the ship was not at the time of the commencement of the proceedings within the district, and the plaintiffs did not reside there, neither sub-s. (1) nor sub-s. (2) of the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868, had been complied with.

The plaintiffs appealed.

L. E. Pyke, for the defendants.

Held by the PRESIDENT (SIR CHARLES BUTT) and JUNE, J., sitting as a Divisional Court, that the county court had jurisdiction, as the language of sect. 74 of the County Courts Act, 1888, was general in its terms, and therefore included defendants in an Admiralty action who, at the time of commencing the action, carry on their business within the district.

Easement—Right of Way—Servient and Dominant Tenement—Owner of both Tenements—Mortgage of Servient Tenement without reservation of Right—Devise of the Two Tenements to different Persons—Implied Grant.

Mrs. B. was the owner of two adjoining houses, situate back to back, one in Church Way, and the other in Bedford Street, North Shields. Mrs. B. occupied the Church Way premises, and let the Bedford Street premises. There was a paved and walled passage from the Church Way premises to Bedford Street, along the side of the Bedford Street premises. This passage was not a way of necessity, and was used only from time to time, and not continuously by Mrs. B. In May, 1882, Mrs. B. mortgaged the Bedford Street premises without reserving any right of way over the passage, and she died on the 28th of August, 1886, having by her will, made in January, 1886, devised the Church Way premises to her husband for his life, with remainder to R. J., and the Bedford Street premises to the defendant. The will contained no words descriptive of or appropriate to any right of way. Mrs. B.'s husband died in March, 1887, and R. J. then sold and conveyed the Church Way premises to the plaintiff, purporting to include a right of way through the passage in the Bedford Street premises. In April, 1887, the defendant paid off the mortgage on the Bedford Street premises, and the mortgaged property was reconveyed to her by deed dated the 25th of April, 1887.

The defendant having removed a door at the end of the passage with the intention of building across the passage, the plaintiff sued her for trespass in the County Court of Northumberland, and the defendant counter-claimed for an injunction to restrain the plaintiff from trespassing upon the passage. The county court judge gave judgment for the plaintiff, and the defendant appealed to the Queen's Bench Division.

The appeal was heard before A. L. Smith and Grantham, JJ. who held that the right of way, not having been reserved by Mrs. B. when she mortgaged the Bedford Street property, and not being a way of necessity, was extinguished by the mortgage and that it did not pass by the will. The plaintiff appealed.

Warrington, for the plaintiff.

W. Baker, for the defendant.

Warrington, in reply.

THE COURT (Lindley, Fry, and Lopes, L.JJ.) affirmed the judgment of A. L. Smith and Grantham, JJ., and dismissed the appeal subject to the right (if any) of the plaintiff to redeem the mortgage.

Mine—Wages—Payment by Weight of Mineral—"Actual Weight of Mineral contracted to be gotten"—Coal Mines Regulation Act, 1887, s. 12, sub-s. 1—Coal Mines Regulations Act, 1872 s. 17, sub-s. 1.

These were appeals from judgments of a Divisional Court affirming the decisions of the judge of the County Court of Monmouth ([1891] 1 Q. B. 496; Weekly Notes, ante, p. 26). The questions in both actions were identical. The plaintiffs were employed in the defendants' collieries to cut large coal as wages which depended on the weight gotten according to a scale agreed on by masters and workmen. The coal raised was screened at the pit's mouth, and the defendants made deductions from the plaintiffs' wages in respect of the small coal which was brought up with it. It was proved that the coal was cut in large blocks according to the contract, and that the small coal was mainly produced by the friction of the block while being brought to the surface. The plaintiffs sued for the amounts so deducted. The Divisional Court held, that the case of Netherseal Colliery Company v. Bourns (14 App. Cas. 225), under the Coal Mines Regulations Act, 1872, applied, that the deductions were illegal under sect. 12, sub-s. 1, of the Coal Mines Regulations Act, 1887, and that the plaintiffs were entitled to recover. The Court held, also, that the plaintiffs were entitled to be paid for the small coal at the same rate as fixed by the contract for the large coal, on the ground that the case was originally part of the other. The defendants appealed.

Sir B. E. Webster, A.G., and A. T. Lawrence, for the appellants.

Finlay, Q.C., and Abel Thomas, for the plaintiffs.

The Court (Lindley, Fry, and Lopes, L.JJ.) agreed with the Divisional Court both as to the illegality of the deductions made by the defendants and the rate of payment for the small coal, and dismissed the appeal.

LONDON AND SOUTH LONDON RAILWAY COMPANY v. LONDON COUNTY COUNCIL.

The Court (Lindley, Fry, and Lopes, L.JJ.) dismissed the appeal, holding that, as the station was a necessary building for the purposes of the railway, the company had power to erect on any part of the land acquired by them, without regard to the building line.

BODMAN v. BODMAN.

Will—Construction—"Shares"—Debenture Stock.

The above-named testator made a specific bequest of "all my shares" in the H. District Gas Company. The testator, at the time of making his will and at his death, held ten 10l. shares of 200l. debenture stock in the above-named gas company.

H. Percival, for the specific legatee, claimed both the shares and the debenture stock on the ground that a gift of "shares" in a railway had been held to pass railway "stock" (Morrice v. Aylmer (Law Rep. 7 H. L. 717)), and that "debenture stock" was nothing but "stock" with an extra preference.

E. Clayton, contra.

CHITTY, J., said that debenture stock was nothing more than borrowed money capitalized for purposes of convenience, and stood on an entirely different footing from the ordinary "shares" or "stock" of a company: that words used were insufficient properly to describe debenture stock, and that the ten 10l. shares only passed by this gift to the legatee.

WHITE v. ELLIS.

Chose in Action—Assignment—Notice to one of several Trustees—Subsequent Incumbrances—Inquiry of Trustees—Duty of Trustees to Answer—Absence of Answer—Death of Trustee who had Notice—Priority of first Assignment.

By a marriage settlement dated the 14th of July, 1864, the equitable interest of the wife, in the proceeds of sale of freeholds and leaseholds directed to be converted by her grandfather's will, was settled upon certain trusts. The settlement was executed under circumstances which, according to the view taken by the Court, shewed that S., one of the two trustees of the will, had notice of it. The husband and wife subsequently mortgaged the wife's share under the will without disclosing the settlement.

The mortgagees before advancing their money inquired of both the trustees of the will as to the existence of incumbrances. In answer to their inquiries S. simply referred them to the will; the other trustee replied that he knew of no incumbrance upon the share. The mortgagees then gave formal notice of their mortgages to both trustees; but S. did not acknowledge the receipt of such notice.

S. afterwards died, and a new trustee was appointed in his place. In an action to administer the estate of the testator, the chief clerk by his certificate disallowed any claim under the settlement. This was a summons by the trustees of the settlement to vary the certificate.

Hastings, Q.C., and S. B. L. Druce, for the summons.

Rigby, Q.C., E. S. Ford, and Jason Smith, for the mortgagees.

Spence, for the trustees of the will.

STIRLING, J., said that Smith v. Smith (2 Cr. & M. 231) and Willes v. Greenhill (4 D. F. & J. 147) were distinct authorities that notice to one of several trustees gives priority. Whether there was or was not any duty on the part of S. to answer the inquiry of the intending mortgagees (and according to the decision of the Court of Appeal in Low v. Douverie (ante, p. 117) it seemed there was not), the mortgagees had been content to take their mortgages in the absence of any information from him. They therefore acquired no better title than their mortgagors could confer, and the settlement was entitled to priority; and such priority was not taken away by the death of S., notwithstanding that the surviving trustee had notice of the mortgages, but not of the settlement.

LEVESON v. BEALES.

Will—Legacy to Debtor of Testatrix—Appointment of Debtor as Executor—Release of Debt—Rebuttal of Claim in Equity by Evidence of Intention of Testatrix—Admissibility.

The testatrix by her will, dated 9th of August, 1886, gave to the plaintiff a legacy of 100*l.*, and a further sum of 100*l.* to be used by him in the restoration of his church, and also gave him the pictures in her house. She gave her residuary estate to the defendant, and appointed him and the plaintiff to be her executors. By a codicil dated the 11th of July, 1837, she confirmed her will, and gave the plaintiff an additional legacy of 700*l.* She died on the 23rd of June, 1888, and the defendant alone proved the will, power to do so being reserved to the plaintiff.

In proceedings taken by the plaintiff to obtain payment of his legacies, the Chief Clerk found by his certificate that at the death of the testatrix the plaintiff was indebted to her in various sums amounting to 2397*l.* 15*s.* 6*d.* The plaintiff took out this summons to vary the certificate. The sum of 2397*l.* 15*s.* 6*d.* was made up of sums which the testatrix had during her lifetime paid to, or on behalf of the plaintiff, with whom she was on terms of great friendship and intimacy, and the plaintiff claimed that such payments were intended as gifts to him. The defendant was a party to the making of the codicil in the form which it actually took, and was aware (as his Lordship held) of the intention of the testatrix that the legacies should be paid to the plaintiff.

It was contended for the plaintiff on the authority of Strong v. Bird (Law Rep. 18 Eq. 815) that the debt was released at law by the appointment of the plaintiff as executor, and that there being evidence of intention on the part of the testatrix to forgive it, any claim in equity was rebutted. For the defendant it was argued that the defendant was not released at law, because the plaintiff had not proved the will, and further that evidence of intention on the part of the testatrix to forgive the debt was inadmissible (Brown v. Selwin, 3 Bro. P. C. 607):

Hastings, Q.C., and Hatfield Green, for the plaintiff.

Buckley, Q.C., and Popham, for the defendant.

STIRLING, J., held, (1) that it was not necessary for the plaintiff to prove the will in order for the debt to be released at law, but even if it were necessary, the plaintiff was ready and willing to prove, and ought to have the opportunity of so doing; (2) that Brown v. Selwin was not inconsistent with Strong v. Bird, and accordingly that evidence of intention was admissible to rebut any equitable claim to the debt; and (3) that even if this were not so, the defendant, being a party to the making of the codicil and being aware of the intention of the testatrix that the legacies should be paid in money, could not, upon the authority of Wekett v. Raby (2 Bro. P. C. 886), set up as against the plaintiff any debt due from him to the testatrix. The certificate must therefore be varied accordingly.

GENERAL AUCTION, ESTATE, AND MONETARY COMPANY v. SMITH.

Incorporated Company—Trading Company—Implied Power of Borrowing Money.

This company was incorporated under the Companies Act 1862, with the object of selling, letting, and managing estate houses, and other property, making valuations and advances on property intended for sale, and loans on the deposit securities, discounting commercial bills, and purchasing houses and lands. By the 55th of its articles of association (which were similar to those in Table A), the directors were empowered to manage the company, and to exercise all such powers were not required to be exercised by the company in general meeting.

No borrowing powers whatever were conferred either by the articles or memorandum of association.

The company carried on business for some years, and amongst other things, discounted bills and received money deposit, which money was applied for the purposes of the company, as defined by its articles of association. After time it was ordered to be wound up, and a question arose as to the validity of an equitable mortgage of certain real estate given by the directors to secure an advance made by the defendant to the company for the purpose of repaying a depositor. This action was then brought by the liquidator set aside the security upon the ground that the company had no borrowing powers, and consequently that the security was void. The directors had given was invalid.

The defendant contended that the company was a trading company, and that powers to borrow money were necessary and incident to such a company in the course and conduct of its business.

Clare and C. E. Bovill, for the plaintiffs.

Hastings, Q.C., and Horace Kent, for the defendant.

STIRLING, J., held that the company was a trading company, and as such had an implied power to borrow money to assist its conduct which was reasonable and necessary for the proper conduct of its business; and held further, that the borrowing in the present case was properly incident to the course and conduct of the company's business for its proper purposes, and that the security given to the plaintiffs was a valid security. Kekewich, J. REPUBLIC OF CHILI v. ROTHSCHILD. J.
THE SAME v. BARING.

Practice—Action by Foreign Power—Agent—Government recognised by British Government—Right to Sue.

Motions were made in these two actions for interim injunctions to restrain the defendants respectively from parting with, except for the external debt of the Republic of Chile, moneys now or hereafter deposited with them, or in their hands, belonging to the Republic, and standing either to the credit of the Republic or to the credit of any person or persons who was, or were, a trustee or agent, trustees or agents, of for the Republic, to any person or persons other than persons duly authorized by the Republic through the S and Chamber of Deputies. The motions were supported by an affidavit by one Ross, describing himself as "confidential agent of the Government of Chili," and stating that the present "President" was in "rebellion" against the "Provisional Executive Power," or "Junta," appointed by the "National Congress, the sole constitutional and legitimate power in Chili."

A preliminary objection to the motions was raised by the counsel for the several defendants, on the ground that, in the present disturbed condition of Chili, there was no Government of the Republic of Chili at present recognised by the British Government, and that therefore this Court could not recognise any right on the part of the plaintiffs to sue under the title of the "Republic of Chili."

Renshaw, Q.C., and Method, for the plaintiffs.

Rigby, Q.C., and John Henderson, for the defendants, Rothschild.

Martin, Q.C., and A. Young, for the defendants, Baring.

KEKEWICH, J. said that Ross, in describing himself as the confidential agent of the Government of Chili, did not profess to be agent in the proper sense of agent of a sovereign power, but only agent of one of the powers in Chili now contending for the mastery; and he had not proved that there had been any convention competent in any way to give him authority, or that authority had been given to him. It would be contrary to elementary law to recognise him as agent of the Republic of Chili without his giving, at all events, some proof that he had been properly appointed agent. It would be opposed to all ideas of administration of justice if this Court were to treat him as the representative of Chili, or as holding the even lower position of representative of either contending party. The objection must therefore be allowed, and the costs of the defendants in each action must be costs in the action.

PROTHERON v. TOTTENHAM AND FOREST GATE RAILWAY COMPANY.

Railway Company—Lands—Notice to Treat—Deposited Plans—Books of Reference—Description—Limits of Deviation—Lands only partially described on Plan.

By sect. 5 of the Tottenham and Forest Gate Railway Act, 1870, the defendant company were empowered to make and maintain their railways and works in the lines or situation, and according to the levels shewn on the deposited plans and sections, and to enter upon, take, and use such of the lands delineated in the said plans, and described in the deposited book of reference, as might be required for the purpose of their undertaking.

Included within the limits of deviation on the deposited plans was part of certain land belonging to the plaintiffs, described in the book of reference as "nursery garden," and therein and on the plans numbered 235. The plans shewed the garden to be intersected by footpaths, some of which were projected northwards beyond the northern limit of deviation, but left unfinished so that there was no indication on the plans as to the extent or boundaries of the area of the "nursery garden"; but part of the eastern boundary line of the garden was indicated in the space within the limits of deviation, and projected northward beyond the northern limit of deviation, though it was left unfinished, like the footpaths. On the west side there was no boundary shewn outside the northern limit of deviation.

The company subsequently served the plaintiffs with notice to treat in respect of a strip of the garden lying along the northern limit of deviation, and proposed to take it under their compulsory powers; but this was resisted by the plaintiffs, on the ground that the strip was not "delineated and described" in the deposited plans and book of reference. The plaintiffs accordingly commenced this action, and now moved for an interim injunction to restrain the company from proceeding on their notice to treat.

Warmington, Q.C., and Dibdin, for the plaintiffs.

Renshaw, Q.C., and R. J. Parker, for the defendants.

KEKEWICH, J., said that, looking at sect. 5 of the defendant Company's special Act, it was clear that all any one had to do who desired to ascertain whether the company, in taking lands, were acting within their powers, was to inquire, "Are these lands delineated in the deposited plans and also described in the deposited books of reference, and are they required for the purposes of the Act?" The land 235 was described in the book of reference as a "nursery garden," so that, according to the book of reference, the company might take the whole of 235. The difficulty arose on the deposited plans. What was the position of a landowner who, on taking into his hand the book of reference, found it included the whole of the nursery garden, that is, the whole of 235, but on the plans only a part of it indicated? He must be taken to have known that some part of 235 might be required; and, if so, the case came within the observations of Hall, V.C., in Dowling v. Pentypool, Cuerleon, and Newport Railway Company (Law. Rep. 18 Eq. 740), where he said he thought "delineated" meant "sketched or represented, or so shewn that landowners would have notice that the land might be taken." The necessary conclusion of any man looking at these plans and knowing what the land was, as a landowner would be supposed to know it, would be that possibly the company might require this land, and that it was sketched or represented on the plans for that purpose. His Lordship thought the land was sufficiently delineated and described in the deposited plans and book of reference, and refused the motion with costs.

LAWSON v. DUNCAN.

Scotch Testator—English and Scotch Realty—Annuities—Charitable Legacies—Administration.

A Scotch testator by his will, drawn in Scotch form, appointed the plaintiff and the defendants his trustees and executors, and devised and bequeathed to them all his real and personal estate wheresoever situated upon trust (inter alia) to pay his debts, testamentary and funeral expenses, and various annuities and legacies, and directed his residuary estate to be distributed amongst his children, and in the event of failure of children (which event happened) such residuary estate was to be divided amongst divers charitable institutions. And for the purposes of his will the testator empowered his trustees to sell the whole or any part of his estate; and the testator declared that he desired his affairs to be administered and wound up as far as practicable in accordance with the law of Scotland. The testator died possessed of considerable Scotch and English real estate. His personal estate was also amply sufficient to pay and satisfy all his debts, testamentary and funeral expenses, and the legacies and annuities.

In February, 1889, Kay, J., on a case remitted from the Scotch Court to the High Court of Justice in England, for its opinion on certain questions of English law, held, that the bequest of the residuary estate to charitable institutions, so far as they were payable out of the English real estate, were void by virtue of the Statutes of Mortmain, and that the plaintiff, as the testator's heir-at-law, was entitled to the English real estate, or the proceeds of sale thereof.

The plaintiff then commenced this action, claiming a declaration (1) that the charitable gifts, so far as they were payable out of the English real estate, were void; (2) that the testator's personal estate was the primary fund for payment of his debts, testamentary and funeral expenses, and the legacies and annuities, and that the plaintiff, as heir-at-law, was entitled to the English real estate discharged from any liability to contribute to the same. This was the trial of the action.

Haldane, Q.C., and R. Younger (of the Scotch Bar), for the plaintiff.

Chalwyck Healey, Q.C., J. G. Wood, and Brodie Innes, for the defendants.

ROMER, J.:—It is admitted that the charitable gifts, so far as they are payable out of the English real estate, are void, and to that extent the plaintiff is entitled to a declaration. But the rest of his claim fails. It appears from the expert evidence that by the law of Scotland the debts, testamentary and funeral expenses, and legacies of a Scotch testator, are primarily payable out of personal estate, but annuities are primarily payable out of real estate; and that the Scotch Courts in administering the estate of a Scotch testator would apply the law of Scotland to the testator's real estate wherever situated unless prevented by the lex loci. By the law of England annuities are primarily payable out of personal estate: but it does not prevent their being charged upon real estate. The testator here has clearly intimated his intention that his estate is to be wound up by the law of Scotland. It follows that that law must prevail, and that the English real estate is subject, rateably with the Scotch real estate, to provide for the annuities bequeathed by the will; and it may be that trustees may, for that purpose, have to exercise the power of sale conferred on them. The plaintiff therefore is not entitled to have a declaration as sought by the second branch of his claim. The costs of this action must come out of the English real estate.

IN THE GOODS OF STEPHEN SWEET.

July 14.

Where all the three attesting witnesses to a will, of which the attestation clause was defective, refused to make an affidavit as to the execution, the Court made an order directing them to attend in Court to be examined.

Stephen Sweet died on the 11th of April, 1891, leaving a will dated the 26th of September, 1881, of which he appointed George Sweet, his son, his executor. There were three attesting witnesses to the will—George Hulbert, Elizabeth Ellis, and Annie Sweet. The attestation clause was defective, and it was necessary, therefore, that there should be an affidavit as to due execution.

Elizabeth Ellis was a beneficiary under the will, and Annie Sweet was the wife of a beneficiary, and both of them refused to make an affidavit; George Hulbert also refused to make an affidavit, but his reason was not stated.

The executor made an affidavit in which he proved the signatures of the testator and the three attesting witnesses, and stated that no other persons were present at the execution of the will.

Barnard, on behalf of the executor, moved for probate, or in the alternative that the attesting witnesses be ordered to attend to be examined as to the circumstances under which the will was executed. He referred to rule 70 of the Non-Contentious Rules, and to Harris v. Knight (15 P. D. 170).

JUNE, J., was of opinion that probate could not be granted under such circumstances without some kind of evidence as to execution where the witnesses and their whereabouts were known. But sect. 24 of the 20 & 21 Vict. c. 77, gave the Court power "in any suit or other proceeding" to require the attendance of any person to give evidence; and he would therefore make an order directing the attesting witnesses to attend to be examined as to the execution of the will.

Mistake of Law—Officer of the Court—Company—Winding-up—Execution—Assets increased by honest Mistake of Sheriff—Right of Sheriff to recover Money Paid—Debenture-holders—Floating Security—Priority.

Appeal from Kekewich, J. ([1891] 2 Ch. 154).

Marten, Q.C., E. Beaumont, and Manby, for the appellants, the liquidator and debenture-holders.

Warmington, Q.C., and Vernon Smith, for the respondent, the sheriff.

THE COURT (Lindley, Fry, and Lopes, L.JJ.) held, that the right of the sheriff could not prevail. The goods, which were the subject of the order of the Court below, were comprised in the security of the debenture-holders. It was clear from In re Standard Manufacturing Company ([1891] 1 Ch. 627) that, at any rate before the goods were sold, such security would be good against execution creditors. The order could not stand in its present form, because it overlooked the rights of the debenture-holders, but it might be that the sheriff was entitled to be paid out of moneys, if any, not comprised in the debentures. The appeal must be allowed without prejudice to any application by the sheriff for payment out of moneys not covered by the debentures.

Will—Bequest—Charity—Tomb, Repair of—Condition—Perpetuities.

Appeal from Stirling, J.

Sir James Tyler, deceased, by his will, dated in 1882, made the following bequest: "I give to the trustees for the time being of the London Missionary Society the sum of 42,000*l.* Russian 5 per Cent. Stock, with a rent charge to my brother, Charles Tyler, Esq., of 1000*l.* for life; also, I commit the keeping of the keys of my family vault at Highgate Cemetery to the (sic) care and charge; my brothers to be buried in the same vault if they wish, and to use the same if they wish for any member of the family, the same to be kept in good repair and same legible, and to rebuild when it shall require; failing to comply with this request, the money to go to the Blue Coat School, Newgate Street, London."

The question was whether the above condition to the legacy was valid.

Stirling, J., held, on the authority of Christ's Hospital v. Grainger (1 Mac. & G. 460) that the condition was valid.

The London Missionary Society appealed.

Buckley, Q.C., and Comyns Tucker, for the appellants.

Vaughan Hawkins, for the Blue Coat School, otherwise "Christ's Hospital."

Micklem, for the trustees of the will.

THE COURT (Lindley, Fry, and Lopes, L.JJ.), following Christ's Hospital v. Grainger (supra), held that Stirling, J., was right, and dismissed the appeal.

Charity—Application by Trustees—Scheme by Charity Commissioners—Jurisdiction—Withdrawal of Application—Charitable Trusts Act, 1860, s. 4.

The above-named charity was founded in 1690, since which its affairs had been managed by a succession of trustees. In November, 1888, formal application was made to the Charity Commissioners, by a majority of the trustees—eight out of the eleven trustees—for a scheme. The scheme proposed by the Commissioners did not meet with the approval of the trustees, and on the 25th of February, 1891, the same eight trustees signed and sent a formal notice to the Commissioners, stating that they objected to the Commissioners proceeding further on the application previously made to them, and that they, the trustees, revoked and annulled their application. Notwithstanding this notice, the Commissioners, on the 27th of February, 1891, caused their seal to be affixed to an order establishing a scheme for the regulation of the said charity. The trustees now applied by petition to set aside this order, and to be made without jurisdiction.

Byrne, Q.C., and Prior, for the petitioners.

Sir H. Davey, Q.C., and Vaughan Hawkins, for the Charity Commissioners.

CHITTY, J., said the Charitable Trusts Act, 1860, s. 4, provided that the jurisdiction of the Charity Commissioners over certain large charities, such as this, should not arise except upon the application of the trustees, but that Act nowhere contained any provision for withdrawing the application when made. In his Lordship's opinion, as soon as the condition precedent imposed by sect. 4 had been complied with, and a proper application by the trustees had once been made, the jurisdiction of the Commissioners attached absolutely to the charity, and that such jurisdiction could not be stopped, or put an end to, by a withdrawal of the application before the scheme was completed, and that consequently the objection of the petitioners on the ground of want of jurisdiction failed.

BRADBURY v. SHARP.

July 10.

Copyright—Periodical—Registration of First Number—Protection of future Numbers—Injunction, Form of—5 & 6 Vict. c. 45, s. 19.

This was a motion on behalf of the plaintiffs, the publishers and registered proprietors of Punch, for an interim injunction to restrain the defendants, the publishers and registered proprietors of a monthly magazine called the Ludgate Monthly, from publishing as part of the contents thereof, and whether under the heading "Advertisements," or otherwise, an illustration taken from Punch of a little boy with a dog, and entitled, "Easy for the Judges," or any other illustration, with or without letterpress, colourably taken from Punch. The defendants stated by counsel that the illustration had appeared in their magazine by an oversight, and offered to have the motion treated as the trial, and to submit to a perpetual injunction. It appeared that only one number—the first—of Punch had been registered under the Copyright Act.

Warmington, Q.C., and Waggett, for the plaintiffs, submitted that, having regard to sect. 19 of the Copyright Act (5 & 6 Vict. c. 45), the injunction might be taken in a form protecting future numbers of Punch, the original registration of the first number being sufficient; otherwise it might be necessary to bring repeated actions for the protection of each number.

A. Rowden, for the defendants.

KEKEWICH, J., said he saw no objection to the injunction extending to the protection of the contents of future numbers of Punch, and granted a perpetual injunction in the terms of the notice of motion, together with the costs of the action.

WOOD v. THOMAS.

July 15.

Will—Construction—Tenant for Life and Remainderman—Power to Trustees in their absolute discretion to retain Securities—Right to Income in Specie.

A testator gave his residuary estate to trustees upon trusts for sale and conversion, and empowered them, in their absolute discretion, to retain any securities or property which should belong to him at his decease unconverted and in their existing state of investment for such period as they should think fit; and directed them out of the moneys which should arise from the sale and conversion before directed, and the moneys which should belong to him at his decease, to pay his debts and funeral and testamentary expenses, and to invest the residue in manner specified, with power to vary such investments, and also any retained investments, into or for others of the nature thereby authorized, and the testator declared that his trustees should stand possessed "of the stocks, funds, shares, and securities for the time being constituting or representing the said residuary personal estate, and of the income thereof" upon trust to divide the same into six shares, and to pay the income of such shares to certain persons for their respective lives with remainder to other persons in succession.

The residuary personal estate comprised American bonds which were liable to be paid off at par at a future date, but of which the present market price was considerably above par, and these bonds had been retained by the trustees. The question was, whether the full income of the bonds ought to be paid to the tenants for life.

Vernon Smith, Upjohn, Christopher James, George Henderson, and Ashworth James, appeared for the various persons interested.

KIRKWHIGH, J., held, that by the terms of the will the full income was payable to the tenants for life. His Lordship, however, observed that he was by no means prepared to hold that where there is a direction for conversion of personal estate followed by a power to retain securities in the absolute discretion of the trustees, and then there are trusts for tenants for life and afterwards for remaindermen, the power of retention necessarily gives the tenants for life the right to enjoy in specie the income of the retained investments.

SWAIN v. BRINGEMAN.

Trustee—Breach of Trust—Legacy—Statute of Limitations—Trustee Act, 1888, s. 8, sub-s. 1 (b).

A farmer, who died in 1872, by his will bequeathed his residuary personalty to G., W., and T., upon trust to convert the same into money as soon as convenient after his death, and to stand possessed thereof, after payment of his debts and funeral and testamentary expenses, upon the trusts thereafter declared as to the proceeds of sale of his realty. And the testator devised his realty to G., W., and T., upon trust, when his youngest son, X., should attain twenty-one, to sell the same, and stand possessed of the proceeds of sale and conversion of his realty and residuary personalty, and after payment of expenses and mortgages, to invest the same and pay the income, together with the rents of the real estate until sale, to his wife P., during her widowhood, she maintaining and educating the testator's family, and after her death or second marriage upon the trusts thereafter mentioned. And the testator directed that when X. should have attained twenty-one, the trustees should invest 1400*l.*, pay the income thereof to P. during widowhood, and after her death or second marriage should pay the 1400*l.* to testator's four daughters. And upon further trust that his said trustees should stand possessed of the residue of the moneys arising from the sale of the real and personal estate, upon trust to pay the same, as soon as convenient after X. should have attained twenty-one, equally amongst testator's four sons, therein named (including X.). And the testator appointed G., W., and T. his executors.

G., W., and T. proved the will, and, instead of selling, allowed the widow and children to occupy testator's farm. G., W., and T. carried on the farm for the benefit of the family till 1884 when X. attained the age of twenty-one years, and about that time the personalty and realty were sold.

In 1890, X. and one of his brothers commenced an action to make T., the surviving executor and trustee, liable for the breach of trust committed by not sooner selling the residuary personalty, and by carrying on the farm with the testator's assets, and to recover their share of the alleged loss to the estate. T. pleaded the Statute of Limitations.

Ohadwyck Healey, Q.C., and A. Birrell, for the plaintiff, contended that the action was brought to recover a legacy that prior to the passing of the Trustee Act, 1888, after a lapse of twelve years, the statute 37 & 38 Vict. c. 57, a. could have been pleaded as a bar to an action for such legacy, and that therefore sect. 8, sub-sect. 1 (b), of the Trustee Act, 1888, did not apply so as to enable the defendant to plead a lapse of six years as a bar "in the like manner and to the extent as if the claim had been against him in an action for debt."

Farwell, Q.C., and Swinfen Eady, for the defendant, contended that the defendant could not be sued as executor, because he had assented to the legacy (if any); that he was sued as trustee for a breach of trust; that prior to 1888 "no existing Statute of Limitations" could have been pleaded to such an action, and, therefore, that sect. 8, sub-sect. 1 (b), of the Trustee Act, 1888, enabled the defendant to plead that by the lapse of six years the action was barred.

ROMER, J., held, that the action was brought, not to recover a legacy, but against a trustee to recover money in respect of a breach of trust, and was "one to which no existing statute of limitations applied" when the Trustee Act, 1888, was passed; that sect. 8, sub-sect. 1 (b), applied; and that, more than six years having elapsed, the action failed.

COURT OF APPEAL

From Q. B. D. July 21.
REG. v. LERESCHE AND ANOTHER, JUSTICES OF LANCASHIRE.

Husband and Wife—Desertion—Discontinuance of Cohabitation under Separation Deed—Offer by Wife to resume Cohabitation—Married Women (Maintenance in Case of Desertion) Act, 1886 (49 & 50 Vict. c. 52), s. 1.

Appeal from the order of a Divisional Court refusing a rule calling upon magistrates to state a case under 20 & 21 Vict. c. 43, and 42 & 43 Vict. c. 49. The facts were as follows:—

A husband and wife were living apart under a separation deed, by which the husband covenanted to pay to a trustee for the wife seven shillings a week. The husband after a time discontinued the payment of the seven shillings a week, and was sued for the arrears by the trustee. He suffered judgment to go by default, but did not satisfy the judgment. A judgment summons was taken out, and the husband was ordered to pay the amount of the judgment by instalments. These instalments were not paid, and an order for commitment was made, execution of which was suspended for a time. The wife then went to the husband's house, and asked to be allowed to resume cohabitation with him. He, however, refused to allow her to do so. She then took out a summons before magistrates under sect. 1 of 49 & 50 Vict. c. 52, as a married woman "deserted by her husband," for maintenance. The magistrates ordered him to pay seven shillings a week, and refused to state a case for the opinion of the Court. Application was made to the Divisional Court for a rule calling on them to state a case, but refused. On appeal, the Court of Appeal granted a rule nisi. On the argument of the rule it was agreed by counsel, to save expense, that the facts were correctly stated in the affidavit of the magistrates, and that on such facts the Court should determine, as on a case stated, the question whether in point of law there had been a desertion of the wife by the husband within the Act.

Atherley Jones, for the wife, shewed cause against the rule. Trevor White, for the appellant, the husband, supported it.

Our. adv. vult.

July 21. THE COURT (Lopes, L.J., and Kay, L.J.) were of opinion, on the authority of Fitzgerald v. Fitzgerald (Law Rep. 1 P. & D. 697) and Pape v. Pape (20 Q. B. D. 76) that there had been no desertion of the wife, inasmuch as cohabitation had been discontinued under the separation deed, and that the offer by the wife to resume cohabitation did not amount to a constructive resumption of cohabitation. They therefore quashed the order of the magistrates.

Order of magistrates quashed.

Company—Compulsory Winding-up—Transfer of Shares after Winding-up Order—Rectification of Register—Companies Act, 1862 (25 & 26 Vict. c. 89), ss. 85, 87, 158.

Appeal from the order of the Queen's Bench Division on an appeal from the Darlington County Court (reported ante, p. 124).

The Onward Building Society, incorporated under the Building Societies Act, 1874, had been ordered to be wound up compulsorily. It appeared that there would probably be a surplus of assets over the liabilities. A company called the Assets Realization Company had, after the winding-up order, bought a number of shares in the society from members which were transferred by such members to nominees of the company. The transferee of certain of these shares had applied to be placed on the register of members of the society in order that the company through him might have a power of voting in the liquidation proceedings. The liquidator refusing to place his name on the register, he applied to the judge of the county court for an order under sect. 85 of the Companies Act, 1862, directing the liquidator to place his name on the register of members. The application was refused by the county court judge on the ground that he had no jurisdiction to make such an order in the case of a transfer made after the winding-up order. On appeal to the Queen's Bench Division, the Divisional Court held that his decision was right.

Meek (Sir Henry James, Q.C., with him), for the appellant.

Seward Brice, Q.C., and W. Howland Jackson, for the respondent.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., Bowen, L.J., and Kay, L.J.) held that a person to whom shares had been sold and transferred after the winding-up order could not claim to be registered as of right; that, though the Court had a discretion to allow such a transfer as good against the company, and to order a rectification of the register by inserting the name of the transferee, such discretion ought only to be exercised under exceptional circumstances, and if a very strong case were made shewing that it was just and for the benefit of those interested in the winding-up; that it ought not to be exercised merely for the purpose of allowing persons who had bought shares speculatively in a company in liquidation to obtain a preponderating voting power in the winding-up; that no sufficient case was made out; that the result of the judgment of the Divisional Court was therefore correct, and that the appeal must be dismissed.

Appeal dismissed.

GUARDIANS OF TENDRING UNION v. DOWTON.

Local Government Acts—Street Improvement—Expenses of Paving—Charge upon Premises—Sale of Premises free from Restrictive Covenant.

This was an appeal from a decision of Stirling, J. (45 Ch. Div. 583; Weekly Notes, 1890, p. 118). The defendant, Dowton was the owner in fee of a piece of vacant ground called Anglefield, which abutted on a street called Anglefield Road, Clacton-on-Sea, Essex. He was subject to a restrictive covenant, restraining him, his heirs or assigns, from erecting buildings on the land, as they might obstruct the view of the sea from the adjoining houses. The plaintiffs, who were the sanitary authority, put into operation the 150th section of the Public Health Act, 1875, and served notices on the owners or occupiers of land adjoining Anglefield Road, requiring them to level and pave it; and, the notices not having been complied with, the plaintiffs did the work themselves, and apportioned the expenses between the owners and occupiers, Dowton's proportion being 131l. Dowton did not pay the amount payable by him, and the plaintiffs brought this action, claiming a charge on the premises, in respect of the amount assessed on them, under section 257 of the Public Health Act, 1875, and that for the purposes of enforcing that charge these premises might be sold freed from the restrictive covenant. The defendant Slimon was appointed to represent all persons entitled to the benefit of the covenant. Stirling, J., granted the relief prayed, holding that the case was governed by the Corporation of Birmingham v. Baker (17 Ch. D. 782), and the defendants appealed.

Hastings, Q.C., and Ingpen, for the appellants.

Buckley, Q.C., and Macmorran, for the plaintiffs.

LORD HALSBURY, L.C., said that the whole language and framework of section 257 were inconsistent with the right claimed by the plaintiffs. The whole machinery pointed to the "owner" as the person against whom proceedings were to be taken, and the meaning of owner as defined in the Act excluded such a person as the defendant Slimon. The language of Jessel, M.R., in Corporation of Birmingham v. Baker did not apply to such a case as this. "Owner" included successive owners with all their interests in the premises; for they all had the benefit of the expenditure in proportion to their interests. But the definition did not include a person who, like Slimon, had no interest in the land, but was entitled to the benefit of a covenant which restricted the enjoyment of the land. There was nothing in the Act which enabled the land to be freed from such a covenant. The appeal must be allowed.

COCKSEIDGE v. METROPOLITAN COAL CONSUMERS' ASSOCIATION.

Practice—Company—Winding-up—Misrepresentation in Prospectus—Amendment after commencement of Winding-up.

This was an appeal from a decision of Kekewich, J. (Weekly Notes, ante, p. 182).

A shareholder in a limited company brought an action against the company for rescission of his contract to take shares on the ground of misrepresentation in the prospectus. After the statement of claim had been put in, a petition was presented, and an order made for winding up the company. The plaintiff then obtained leave to continue the action against the liquidator, and amended his statement of claim, alleging new grounds for relief, and also adding fresh instances of misrepresentation in the prospectus. The liquidator put in an amended statement of defence, and the judge directed it to be set down for argument as a question of law, whether the plaintiff was entitled after the winding-up order to rely on the amendments which he had made in the statement of claim. His Lordship held, that as to those amendments which alleged new grounds of relief, he could not rely on them; but that he was at liberty to rely on the amendments which alleged additional misstatements in the prospectus. From the latter part of this decision the liquidator appealed.

Warmington, Q.C., and H. Terrell, for the appellant.

Marten, Q.C., and Ashton Cross, for the plaintiff.

LINDLEY, L.J., said, that it was a very inconvenient way of raising the point in dispute to set it down for argument as a point of law; but he was of opinion that the gist of the plaintiff's case was that he was misled by misrepresentations in the prospectus, and he did not allege a new cause of action merely by adding fresh instances of misrepresentation when he discovered them. The appeal must, therefore, be dismissed.

FRY and LOPES, L.JJ., were of the same opinion.

Lunacy—Petition for Inquiry—Pending Petition—Examination of alleged Lunatic.

In a pending petition in lunacy presented by a separated husband for an inquiry into his wife's state of mind, the respondent had already been examined personally by the master; and before the close of the petitioner's case an application was made on his behalf for a compulsory order that the respondent should submit to an examination by two medical men nominated by him. Lopes, L.J., doubted whether there was jurisdiction to make the order, and adjourned the application into Court.

Hon. A. Lyttelton, in support of the application, referred to In re —, an alleged Lunatic (18 Ob. Div. 26), and In re Gilbert Scott, unreported.

Costelloe, and Colam, for the alleged lunatic, opposed the application, upon the ground that there was no precedent for such an order, and no jurisdiction to make it, at all events where the application was opposed by or on behalf of the alleged lunatic; and that the real object of the application was to improve the petitioner's case, which ought to be established by his own evidence.

Cur. adv. vult.

July 24 THE COURT (Lindley and Lopes, L.J.J.) said, that an order upon an alleged lunatic to submit to an examination ought not to be made against his will without great caution nor without real necessity; and whilst they did not doubt that such an order could be made by the master, and, if necessary, by the Court, they held that no such order ought to be made by the Court adversely to a person pending an inquiry into his state of mind, unless the master or other person conducting the inquiry informed the Court that its order was necessary to enable him to come to a decision upon the subject. His Lordship accordingly dismissed the application with costs.

THE QUEEN v. THE REGISTRAR OF JOINT STOCK COMPANIES, Ex parte JOHNSTON.

Company—Registration—Private Partnership—Companies Act, 1862, Part VII. s. 180—"Company duly constituted by Law."

This was an appeal from a decision of a Divisional Court, consisting of Cave and Charles, JJ.

On the 13th of March, 1891, O. E. Johnston and six other persons, constituting the firm of W. H. Allen & Co, who had for some years carried on the business of publishers, executed a deed which contained recitals that the partners had sold the business to a company incorporated under the Companies Acts, in consideration of 20,000 fully paid-up shares in the company of 5l. each, and that those shares were then the only assets of the partnership; that the partners were desirous of defining the terms of their existing copartnership with the modifications thereafter appearing, with a view to the registration of such copartnership as an unlimited company under Part VII. of the Companies Act, 1862. The deed contained mutual covenants that the partners and the several persons, if any, who should become members of the company thereby constituted, should be and continue until dissolved, under the provisions thereafter contained, a company under the regulations following. Among the regulations specified were these: That until the registration of the company there should not at any time be more than twenty members; that the objects for which the company was established were to continue and carry on the copartnership previously existing between the partners, and to realize and get in the assets of the copartnership and to satisfy its liabilities; that the capital of the company should be 770l., divided into seventy-seven shares of 10l. each, to be apportioned between the seven partners as therein mentioned; that the 20,000 shares in W. H. Allen & Co., Limited, should be brought into the company by the partners; and that the provisions of Table A of the Companies Act, 1862 (except those specially mentioned, which relate to the conversion of shares into stock and to directors), should apply to the company as if they had been set forth at length.

An application was made to the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies by Johnston to register the company as an unlimited company under Part VII. of the Companies Act, 1862. The registrar refused to register the company on the ground that it was not one to which Part VII. of the Act applied. Johnston appealed to the Divisional Court for a mandamus to compel the registrar to make the registration, and the application was granted. The registrar appealed.

Sir R. E. Webster, A.G., Ingle Joyce, and H. Sutton, for the appellant.

Finlay, Q.C., Buckley, Q.C., and Theobald, for Johnston.

LINDLEY, L.J., said, that the application for registration in this case could not succeed. The parties had sold their whole business to a limited company, and they were partners only in the sense that they had not formally dissolved partnership, and were not discharged from their liabilities; but they were not carrying on any business, nor did they profess to do so. The whole object of the deed was to obtain registration as a company under Part VII. of the Act of 1862. It appeared to him quite contrary to the whole scheme of the Act that a company should be formed merely for the purpose of registration under Part VII. The Act was framed on the theory that companies which were to be formed by registration under it were to be registered under Part I., and sect. 6 appeared to him to involve this negative, that a company was not to be formed and registered under the Act except under sect. 6, and he thought it was impossible to carry out the provisions of the Act otherwise. The applicant here applied for registration under sect. 180, and he contended that the company came within the words, "any company hereafter formed . . . being otherwise duly constituted by law." Was this a company at all? And, if so, was it "duly constituted by law"? It was contended by the applicant that this was a company in the ordinary acceptance of the word, because its shares were made transferable by each member without the consent of the others by virtue of the incorporation of Table A in the deed. But, assuming that this was a company, was it "duly constituted by law" within the meaning of the 180th section because (as had been contended) there was no law against it? He would not go so far as to say that there could not be a private partnership of less than twenty members formed since the Act of 1862, for actually carrying on business which would be capable of being registered under Part VII.; but if so, that would not apply to the present case. He could find nothing in Part VII. to warrant the notion that a company formed for no purpose but that of registration under Part VII., and so evading the provisions of Part I., could be registered. The appeal must, therefore, be allowed.

Fry, L.J., said that he had come to the same conclusion.

The inclination of his opinion was, that the words of sect. 180, "otherwise duly constituted by law," did not include a private partnership in which the shares were not transferable without the consent of all the members. He thought that those words referred to companies ejusdem generis with those previously mentioned, namely companies which were not constituted merely by the consensus of the parties, but by something which the law imposed, like letters patent, or an Act of Parliament. But even if the words of the section did bear a larger meaning, they could not be held to apply to a company which was formed for the mere purpose of registration under Part VII. Those who desired to form a company under the Act must do so in manner prescribed by Part I, and in no other manner.

LOPEZ, L.J., concurred. He said that if it were necessary to define the true meaning of the words of the 180th section, he should entirely agree with the view entertained by Fry, L.J., that they were not intended to apply to companies constituted only by consensual contracts.

Practice—Service out of Jurisdiction—Trade-mark—Removal from Register—Originating Notice of Motion—Service on Foreign Company—Patents, &c., Act, 1883, s. 90—Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order v., r. 9 (c); Order XI., r. 1; Order XII., r. 30; Order LXVII., r. 5.

This was an application on behalf of a foreign company asking that the service upon them of an originating notice of motion might be set aside, and the costs paid by the person on whose behalf it was served, on the ground that the company had no place of business in the United Kingdom, and that no leave had been asked or obtained, or, if asked, could have been obtained, for the service of the notice out of the jurisdiction.

The applicants carried on business abroad, having their chief office in Paris, and having no premises in England. They were the proprietors of mineral springs in Hungary, and had registered certain trade-marks in England in respect of the waters sold by them. The respondent to the present application was the widow and administratrix of a deceased owner of mineral springs in Hungary, and she had, without leave obtained or asked for, served the originating notice of motion in question upon the applicants by leaving it with the secretary at the company's office in Paris.

The notice was intitled, "In the matter of the Registered Trade-marks Nos. 49,266, 49,493, 49,494, 50,050, of the company, and in the matter of the Patents, &c., Acts, 1883-88."

It was addressed to the Comptroller-General of Trade Marks and to the company, and asked to have the marks in question expunged from the register.

It was assigned to the Chancery Division by certificate, and marked with the name of the judge by the proper officer under Order v., r. 9, and the original document bore an indorsement of service upon the company in the same form as if it had been a writ.

Hastings, Q.C., and Sebastian, for the applicants.

Moulton, Q.C., and Grosvenor Woods, for the respondent, contended that the service of the notice was only meant to inform the company of the proceedings affecting their interest, and not to compel their appearance, and that by placing their names on the English register they had in fact submitted to the jurisdiction of the English Courts.

STIRLING, J., held, that the notice of motion could not be treated as a mere intimation to the company that something was going to be done which might affect their interests. It was a notice that the Court was about to exercise its jurisdiction under the Trade Mark Acts, by virtue of which (Act of 1883, s. 90), an order might be made against the company for payment of costs. Such a notice served upon a foreigner out of the jurisdiction without leave was an abuse of the process of the Court, and the service must be set aside, with costs, to be paid by the respondent.

Subsequently, on the ex parte application of Moulton, Q.C., his Lordship directed that the name of the company should be removed from the notice of motion, the motion to stand over till Friday, the 31st of July, and a letter to be sent to the company with a copy of the notice of motion, stating that an application would be made on that day affecting their interests.

WILLIAMS v. MITCHELL.

Settlement—Power of Appointment, General or Limited—Words of Exception—General Devise—Execution of Power—Mortgage by Donee of Power—Equity of Redemption—Reservation of New Estate—Wills Act (1 Vict. c. 26), s. 27.

By a settlement of the 12th of April, 1862, certain freehold hereditaments, then vested in Ann Byron, widow, subject to a mortgage in fee to John Colley for 200*l.* and interest, were conveyed by her to trustees in fee, upon trust to permit her daughter, Mary Stephens Reynolds, to receive the rents for her sole and separate use, free from the control of her then present and any future husband, and upon further trust "for such person or persons (not being her said present husband, or any friend or relative of his) and for such estate or estates as the said Mary Stephens Reynolds shall, or may, notwithstanding her coverture, by any deed or other instrument in writing, to be executed by her, and attested by one or more witnesses, or by her last will and testament, direct, limit, or appoint," and in default of such appointment, then upon certain trusts in favour of Ann Williams, with an ultimate remainder to the right heirs of the said Ann Byron. After the date of that settlement, Mary Stephens Reynolds expended a considerable sum of money in rebuilding one of the houses on the land so conveyed, and in repairing and improving other houses comprised in the deed.

By an indenture dated the 7th of September, 1868, containing no recitals, the hereditaments comprised in the said settlement were conveyed by the said Mary Stephens Reynolds and Ann Byron to the said John Colley in fee (subject to the said mortgage debt of 200*l.*) by way of mortgage to secure the repayment by the said Mary Stephens Reynolds to the said John Colley of 120*l.* and interest, the proviso for redemption being that on payment by the said Mary Stephens Reynolds to the said John Colley, of the 120*l.* and interest on the day therein named, the said John Colley should, at the request of the said Mary Stephens Reynolds, her heirs, executors, administrators or assigns, reconvey the said hereditaments "unto the said Mary Stephens Reynolds, her heirs or assigns, or as she or they shall direct."

¶ Mary Stephens Reynolds died on the 5th of October, 1885, leaving by her will, dated the 30th of September, 1885, her husband being then dead, disposed of all her estate in the following terms: "I give, devise, and bequeath unto my sister Ann all my real and personal estate during the term of her natural life, and then to be realised and divided between her sons, James and Charles Stephens, her daughter Mary, and her granddaughter Anne, share and share alike."

At the time of her death, M. S. Reynolds had real estate which passed by her will other than that comprised in the settlement of 1862. Her sister "Ann" mentioned in her will was the Ann Williams mentioned in the gift over in the settlement.

John Colley, the mortgagee, died on the 24th of February, 1869. The two mortgage debts were still due to his estate.

The question raised by originating summons was, whether the will of Mary Stephens Reynolds operated under sect. 27 of the Wills Act, 1 Vict. c. 26, as an execution of the power contained in the settlement of 1862.

Blackmore, R. J. Parker, Lyttelton Chubb, and P. F. Wheeler, for the parties.

Kekewich, J., held, first, that the words "not being her said present husband, or any friend or relative of his," destroyed the generality of the power given by the settlement, and that consequently it was not a power "to appoint in any manner" the testatrix might "think proper," within the meaning of sect. 27 of the Wills Act; so that, looking at the settlement and the will of Mary Stephens Reynolds alone, the general devise under the will did not operate as an exercise of that power.

Then the second question was, whether the reservation in the mortgage of 1868, of the equity of redemption to Mary S. Reynolds, her heirs and assigns, or as she or they should direct, instead of to the uses or upon the trusts of the settlement, got rid of the original power and made the property absolutely her own. That was covered by Plomley v. Felton (14 App. Cas. 61), where it was held that a reconveyance under a proviso for redemption in a mortgage should be made according to the original limitations in the will in that case, and not according to the alterations made for the purposes of the mortgage. Accordingly, the terms in which the equity of redemption had been reserved were not sufficient to alter the nature of the power given by the settlement.

On both grounds, therefore, the will was inoperative as to the hereditaments comprised in the settlement.

OTHWAITE v. TAYLOR.

Trustees—Investment—Appropriation—Annuity—Trust Investment Act, 1889, ss. 3, 6.

Robert Othwaite, deceased, by his will, dated in 1886, gave his real and personal estate to trustees upon trust for sale and conversion, and to invest the proceeds of sale in any of the Parliamentary stocks or funds of Great Britain, or in Government or real or long leasehold securities in England or Wales, and to hold the same upon trust, in the first place, to pay an annuity of 100*l.* to his son during his life, or until alienation, with divers trusts over. And he thereby directed and authorized his trustees to "set apart and invest" in any of the investments in which the proceeds of sale and conversion of his estate were "thereby authorized to be invested," such a sum of money as should be sufficient, at the time of such investment, to pay the same annuity, and to pay the same accordingly, with power to resort to the capital of the appropriated fund wherever the income of the same should be insufficient for payment of the annuity.

By a codicil in 1887, the testator increased the annuity to 250*l.*, to be subject to the same provisions as had been declared by the will as to the annuity of 100*l.*

The question was whether the trustees could, under sections 3 & 6 of the Trust Investment Act, 1889, appropriate India 3½ per Cent. Stock, one of the securities authorized by the Act, to answer the annuity, or whether they were limited to the actual securities authorized by the will.

Marten, Q.C., Warmington, Q.C., Mulligan, and J. W. Williamson, and Fossett Lock, for the parties.

KEKEWICH, J., said the Act was so far applicable to the will that it gave power to the trustees to invest in any of the securities mentioned in the Act, there being no express prohibition under sect. 3. But the Act could not be read into the will as if the latter enabled the trustees to appropriate any of the investments "hereby authorized, or authorized under any statutory power." The Act had not stated that trustees should have a power of appropriation as well as investment. Accordingly, although the trustees had power to invest any of the proceeds of the residuary estate in any of the securities authorized by the Act, including India stock, they were not at liberty to appropriate such investments for the purpose of the annuity.

Nuisance—Local Board—Sanction to Construction of Drainage—Communications with Houses—Subsequent Nuisance outside District—Right of Board to cut off Communications—Right to compel Board to proceed against Occupier of House—Right to compel Board to exercise Statutory Powers—Injunction—Public Health Act, 1875, ss. 21, 85—Nuisances Removal Act, 1855, s. 11.

A detached portion (called "Clerkenwell Detached") of the parish of the defendants, who were the local authority under the Metropolis Local Management Act, 1855, adjoined the district of the Friern Barnet Local Board, who were the Urban Sanitary Authority of that district.

Within Clerkenwell Detached several houses were erected about 1887. There was no system of main drainage within that district. The sewage from the houses passed through pipes into cesspools, which had overflow pipes connected with drains or sewers laid down in new roads within Clerkenwell Detached. These roads had been laid out by owners of land within the Clerkenwell Detached, but had not been taken over by the defendants.

The cesspools and drainage communications (by means of the overflow pipes) between them and the sewers or drains had been constructed with the sanction of the defendants as the local authority under the Act of 1855.

The sewers or drains communicated with watercourses within the Friern Barnet district, and the sewage from the cesspools passed through the sewers or drains into the watercourses, and caused a nuisance within the Friern Barnet district.

An information and action was commenced by the Attorney-General and the Friern Barnet Local Board for an injunction to restrain the continuance of the nuisance.

Baldane, Q.C., and C. Lyttleton Chubb, for the plaintiffs.

R. T. Reid, Q.C., Chadwyck Healey, Q.C., and Edward Clayton, for the defendants.

ROMER, J., held, (1) that Charles v. Finchley Local Board (23 Ch. Div. 767) was not an authority that the defendants could cut off the communications between the cesspools and the sewers or drains, because in that case the defendants had only sanctioned the passing of pure water through the communicating pipe, which was being used to pass sewage; (2) that assuming the defendants could stop the nuisance by proceeding against the occupiers of the houses under sect. 85 of the Metropolis Local Management Act, 1855, or sect. 11 of the Nuisances Removal Act, 1855, Attorney-General v. Dorking Union (20 Ch. Div. 595) was a decision that an injunction ought not to be granted to compel the defendants to take such proceedings; and (3) that if the defendants could exercise other powers of altering or dealing with drainage in their district which would prevent the houses draining into the sewers or drains within their district, Glossop v. Heston and Isleworth Local Board (12 Ch. Div. 102) was an authority that the defendants could not be forced by injunction to exercise such powers. On the defendants undertaking not, until the further order of the Court, or without the plaintiffs' consent, to permit any future communications between houses within their district and the main pipes, the injunction asked for was refused.

Napier Higgins, Q.C., and Borthwick, for the motion.

In Aylward v. Lewis ([1891] 2 Ch. 81) North, J., doubted whether it was right to appoint a representative of a deceased mortgagor for the purpose of a foreclosure action, and refused to make a foreclosure writ absolute in the absence of a properly constituted representative of the mortgagor. The present case differs because the plaintiff is not a creditor of the deceased party, and cannot himself obtain representation. The deceased party to the action was one of a class of defendants, and the widow of the deceased is already a party to the action.

ROMER, J.:—I appoint the widow representative of the deceased, for the purposes of the action, until some person other than herself is duly appointed his legal personal representative. Notice of the order I now make should be advertised as in the Times.

Petition under the Companies (Memorandum of Association) Act, 1890, by the above Company, asking for the confirmation of the Court of a special resolution for an alteration of the memorandum of association. By the memorandum as it stood the area of the company's operations was limited to India. It was proposed to remove this limitation, so that the business could be carried on in any part of the world. The company had not issued any debentures or debenture stock. R. J. Duncan, for the petition.

ROMER, J., said, that if this alteration was made, the present name of the company would be misleading. The name should be altered in such a way as not to suggest that the company's operations were limited to India.

Frank Evans, Amic. Cur., referred to In re Foreign and Colonial Government Trust Company ([1891] 2 Ch. 395).

Duncan:—The company are willing to alter their name either by striking out the word "Indian," or by inserting the words "and general" after it.

ROMER, J., said that either of those alterations would be sufficient. The order would not go until the alteration of name had been made. The petition must be mentioned again after this had been done.

This was a petition similar to that in the preceding case, the only difference being that the proposed alteration of the name in the present case was for the purpose of enabling the company to undertake the supply of electricity and the manufacture of electrical appliances for purposes other than telephonic communication, to which purposes it was limited by the memorandum as it stood.

Criminal Law—Intimidation—Trade Union—Threat of Strike unless Employer ceases to employ Non-Union Workmen—Conspiracy and Protection of Property Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 86), s. 7, sub-s. 1.

Cases stated for the opinion of the Court in respect of prosecutions of members of trade unions for "intimidation" within the meaning of sect. 7 of the Conspiracy and Protection of Property Act, 1875. The section is as follows: "Every person who, with a view to compel any other person to abstain from doing or to do any act which such other person has a legal right to do or abstain from doing, wrongfully and without authority,

"1. Uses violence to, or intimidates such other person, or his wife or children, or injures his property . . . shall on conviction thereof . . . be liable, &c."

In Connor v. Kent, it appeared from the case, that the appellant, the person convicted of intimidation, had been examined. The Court held, that for this reason the conviction could not be sustained.

Lawson Walton, Q.C., and Askew, for the appellant.

Poland, Q.C., Forrest Fulton, and R. J. Neville, for the respondent.

In Gibson v. Lawson, it appeared from a case stated by justices of Northumberland that the appellant and the respondent, the person accused of intimidation, were both employed as fitters in the yard of an iron ship building company carrying on business near Tynemouth. The respondent was a member of the Amalgamated Society, the appellant was a member of the National Society, two trade unions. On the 3rd of December, 1890, a meeting of the Amalgamated Society was held, at which it was resolved that the members of that society would strike unless the appellant left his society and joined theirs. The respondent communicated this resolution to the foreman of the shipbuilding company, who communicated it to the appellant. Thereupon the appellant had an interview with the respondent. In the result the respondent informed the appellant that the Amalgamated Society were determined to carry their resolution into effect, but gave him till the morning of the 6th to make up his mind. The appellant adhered to his own society, and the shipbuilding company, in order to avoid a strike, dismissed him from their yard. It was expressly found in the case that no violence or threats of violence to person or property were used to the appellant; but he swore that he "was afraid, because of what the respondent had said, that he would lose his work, and would not get employment anywhere where the Amalgamated Society predominated numerically over his society." The respondent was acquitted.

Poland, Q.C., and Simey, for the appellant.

Lawson Walton, Q.C., and Hedderwick, for the respondent.

In Curran v. Treleaven the recorder of Plymouth affirmed a conviction by magistrates who had convicted the appellant and two other secretaries of trade unions in Plymouth for having intimidated Mr. Treleaven, a shipowner, within the meaning of the section. In order to prevent the employment by Mr. Treleaven of non-union men, the three secretaries told him that if he did not cease to employ non-union men they, the secretaries, would call off from their employment by him all the members of their respective unions. The case stated, "On the 14th day of October there was a meeting of the unions, at which it was resolved to adopt the course which the defendants had stated at their interview would be adopted, and accordingly on the 15th the defendants, in the presence of Mr. Treleaven, whom they had asked to attend, made the following statement to Mr. Treleaven's workmen and others who were assembled on the wharf: "Inasmuch as Mr. Treleaven still insists on employing non-union men, we, your officials, call upon all union men to leave their work. Use no violence, use no immoderate language, but quietly cease to work and go home." The orders thus given were obeyed.

Sir H. James, Q.C., and Besley, for the appellant.

Poland, Q.C., and Duke, for the respondent.

Cur. adv. vult.

July 14. THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., Mathew, Cresswell, A. L. Smith, and Charles, JJ.) held, that the facts proved did not constitute "intimidation" within the meaning of the section, and quashed the convictions in Connor v. Kent, and Curran v. Treleaven, and dismissed the appeal in Gibson v. Lawson.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Q. B. D. HICK v. RODOCANACHI. July 30.

Ship—Bill of Lading—Demurrage—Delay caused by Strike.

This was an appeal from a judgment of Mathew, J., on the trial of an action to recover demurrage and damages for the detention of a ship.

The plaintiff was the owner of the ship, which was chartered by the defendants, Rodocanachi & Co., to bring home a cargo of grain from the sea of Azoff to London. The charterparty contained stipulations that six days were to be allowed for unloading, and that a form of bill of lading, called the 1885 bill of lading, should be used, and should be considered as incorporated in the charterparty; also, that the freighter's liability on the charter should cease, when the cargo was shipped, on arrival at the port of discharge. The other defendants were Raymond and Reid, who were consignees of the greater part of the cargo. The bills of lading did not refer to the charterparty, and contained no limit of time within which the cargo was to be unloaded, but contained a stipulation that the goods were to be applied for within twenty-four hours after the ship's arrival, otherwise the master was to be at liberty to unload them into lighters at the risk of the consignees. The ship arrived safely at the port of London on the 14th of March, 1891; the cargo was applied for in due time, the crew were ready to do their part, and the consignees proceeded to unload the cargo. But after three days the labourers in the docks struck, and the unloading was delayed for about a month, and was then completed with due dispatch by all parties. The plaintiff brought this action against the charterers and the consignees of the cargo, claiming demurrage and damages for detention of the ship. The only question on the appeal was, who were responsible for the delay occasioned by the strike of the dock labourers. The jury at the trial were discharged by consent, and the points at issue left to the judge, who held, that the liability of the charterers ceased on the arrival of the ship under the cesser clause in the charterparty; but that the consignees, Raymond and Reid, had undertaken the liability to receive the cargo within a reasonable time, and that they had not discharged this liability. He, therefore, dismissed the action against the charterers, and gave judgment against Raymond and Reid, the consignees, for the amount claimed.

The consignees appealed.

Sir R. Webster, A.G., Bucknill, Q.C., and Leek, for the appellants.

Barnes, Q.C., and Robson, for the respondent.

LINDLEY, L.J., said, that two questions were raised by the appeal—(1) Were the consignees in default in not unloading sooner than they did? (2) Assuming that they were, did the bills of lading relieve them from liability to damages? He would dispose of the second question first. He was of opinion that the clause which empowered the master to land the cargo at the risk of the consignees was inserted in the bill of lading, to give the shipowner an additional remedy for the recovery of what was due to him for freight, and not as a substitute for any other remedy he might have. The master was under no obligation to land the goods himself, although he was empowered to do so. Moreover, the right given by the clause was only in the event of the goods not being applied for in due time, which was not the case here. It was, therefore, impossible to hold that the consignees were relieved by this clause. With respect to the other question, namely, the liability of the consignees for the delay caused by the strike, no special time was mentioned in the bills of lading for unloading the cargo, therefore the only obligation upon the defendants was to accept delivery within a reasonable time. The real question therefore was, how is the reasonable time to be ascertained? Is it to be ascertained with reference to what is usual, or with reference to what did actually happen? The defendants did all that they could under the circumstances which happened; were they bound to do more? On this subject the leading decisions were very difficult to reconcile. His Lordship then reviewed at considerable length the authorities, particularly Ford v. Cotesworth (Law Rep. 4 Q. B. 127; 5 Q. B. 544), Postlethwaite v. Froelund (5 App. Cas. 599), Adams v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Company (5 C. B. (N.S.) 492), and Wright v. New Zealand Shipping Company (4 Ex. D. 165, note), and said that in this state of the authorities it appeared to him most in accordance with principle to act upon the maxim, Lex non cogit impossibilia, and to hold that where no time for unloading was fixed by contract, the merchant's obligation was to use all reasonable diligence under the circumstances which existed at the time of unloading, unless, indeed, those circumstances are attributable to his own conduct. In the present case the strike was beyond the control of the merchants, and the risk ought to be borne by the shipowner, and not by the merchants.

The appeal must be allowed, and judgment entered for the defendants.

FRY, L.J., gave judgment to the same effect.

LOVE, L.J., concurred.

Copyright in a Picture—Infringement—License—Assignment—Registration—25 & 26 Vict. c. 68.

This was an appeal by the defendant from a decision of Vaughan Williams, J. (ante, p. 100).

Finlay, Q.C., and P. Gye, for the appellant.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and Grosvenor Woods, for the respondents.

THE COURT (Lindley, Fry, and Lopes, L.JJ) were all of opinion that the letter by the artist which was relied on by the defendant did not amount to a license, but was only the commencement of a negotiation, and that the question decided below as to the effect of a license did not arise. FRY and LOPES, L.JJ., however, were of opinion that Keep before registration had, on the 19th of April, assigned his interest in the copyright to his co-plaintiffs; that he therefore was not the proper person to be registered, and, being improperly registered, could not sue; that the Alliance, not being on the register, could not sue, and that the appeal must therefore be allowed. LINDLEY, L.J., doubted whether Keep was the owner until some time after the 19th of April, 1890, and held that, if he was, the transaction of that date amounted only to an agreement to sell the copyright, and did not prevent his being properly registered, and afterwards suing as trustee for the Alliance; but FRY and LOPES, L.JJ., being of opinion that he could not sue, the appeal was allowed.

McNAIR & Co. v. AUDENSHAW PAINT AND COLOUR CO., LIMITED.
HELLIWELL AND ANOTHER (CLAIMANTS).

Practice—Appeal against Judgment of Judge on Interpleader Issue—Time for Appealing—Order LVIII., r. 15.

Application to strike out an appeal from the decision of a judge on an interpleader issue on the ground that the appeal was brought out of time.

The facts were as follows. The plaintiffs, McNair & Co., had recovered a judgment against the defendants, the Audenshaw Paint and Colour Company, and issued execution, under which certain goods had been seized. The goods were claimed by the trustees for debenture-holders of the company, under a mortgage deed. Interpleader proceedings being taken by the sheriff, an issue was directed at chambers to try the title to the goods as between the claimants and the execution creditors. At the trial of the issue before Lawrance, J., without a jury, on the 3rd day of March, 1891, the learned judge gave judgment on the issue finding that the claimants were entitled to the goods as against the execution creditors. On the 22nd of June the execution creditors gave notice of appeal from his decision.

Ernest Radford, for the claimants, contended that under Order LVIII., r. 15, the appeal should have been brought within twenty-one days. He cited McAndrew v. Barker (7 Ch. Div. 701); Salaman v. Warner ([1891] 1 Q. B. 734).

McCall, Q.C., and John Andrew Hamilton, for the execution creditors, contended that the judgment of the learned judge was a final judgment, or a final order, of such a nature that the appeal might be brought within a year. They relied on Hughes v. Little (18 Q. B. D. 82), and Order LVII., r. 13.

THE COURT (Bowen, L.J., and Kay, L.J.) held, that the case was governed by McAndrew v. Barker (7 Ch. Div. 701); that Hughes v. Little (18 Q. B. D. 82) was not in point, having been decided on Order LVIII., r. 8, not on Order LVIII., r. 15; and that an appeal from the judgment of a judge on an interpleader issue must be brought within twenty-one days, and the appeal was therefore too late. They, however, thought that under the circumstances the time for appealing should be extended, and, it being admitted that the judgment of the learned judge could not be supported, the Court of Appeal having since decided the point in question in another case the other way, the Court, with consent of the parties, treated the matter as the hearing of the appeal, and allowed the appeal.

Appeal allowed.

CHANCERY DIVISION.

Chitty, J. ASHBURNER v. SEWELL. July 30.
Vendor and Purchaser—Right of Way—Latent Defect—Compensation—Rescission.

By an agreement entered into between a vendor and a purchaser, it was agreed that the vendor should sell and the purchaser buy the hereditaments described in the schedule and the inheritance thereof in fee simple in possession at a price of 2000*l.*, and by clause 6 it was stated that the description of the property in the schedule was believed to be correct; but if any error should be found therein the same should not annul the sale, but compensation be allowed in respect thereof; and clause 8 was to the effect that if the purchaser should insist on any objection or requisition in respect of the title which the vendor should be unable or unwilling to remove or comply with, the vendor should be at liberty to rescind the contract.

The schedule described the property as "all that messuage or dwelling-house called Thatched House, in the parish of Beddington, Surrey, with the stabling and outbuildings and garden thereto belonging, and also the piece of land adjoining, which said premises contain about three and a half acres, and are more particularly shown in the plans hereto annexed."

Until after the contract had been entered into and the title investigated, neither the vendor nor purchaser was aware of a right of way which existed over a portion of the land contracted to be sold.

The purchaser insisted on his right to compensation under clause 6; but the vendor gave notice of rescission under clause 8 of the agreement, and commenced this action to enforce his right.

This was a motion which by consent was taken as the trial of the action to have it declared that the notice of rescission was good under clause 8.

Byrne, Q.C., and Stokes, for the plaintiff, contended that the objection of the purchaser was one of title, and fell within clause 8.

Whitehorne, Q.C., and Dauney, for the purchaser, contended that this was an error which fell within clause 6, and that no errors which fell within clause 6 were within clause 8.

CHITTY, J., held, that the purchaser's contention was not well founded, that it was clear the objection raised was one of title falling within clause 8, and that the vendor was entitled to rescind.

Trade-mark—Registration—Practice—Alteration of Register by omitting words "Trade Mark"—Old Mark—Patents, &c., Act, 1883 (46 & 47 Vict. c. 57), s. 92.

Labels registered in 1878 as old marks, contained, with other matter, the words "trade mark," so placed as to appear to have particular reference to the device on the labels, rather than to the labels as a whole. In consequence of the observations of Fry, L.J., in In re Apollinaris Company's Trade Marks ([1891] 2 Ch. 186) the owner of these marks now applied, under the Patents, &c., Act, 1883, s. 92, for leave to alter the registration by striking out the words "trade mark."

John Culler and Mortimer Davis, for the application, contended that the application should be granted upon terms similar to those imposed in In re Colman's Trade Marks ([1891] 2 Ch. 402).

Sir R. Webster, A.G., and Ingle Joyce, for the comptroller, opposed the application.

CHITTY, J., held, that in the exercise of his discretionary jurisdiction under sect. 92 he ought not to grant the leave asked. First, because the marks, being old marks, ought to be registered just as they were used, and that to strike out the words "trade mark" would be a material alteration. Secondly, because, in these old marks, as registered, there had been an indication of an intention to claim only the device as the trade-mark, and traders and the public were entitled to have the same indication of a restrictive claim and the consequent protection retained on the register; and that the present application was on several grounds distinguishable from In re Colman's Trade Marks.

Where the mortgagor has paid to the mortgagee all that is due to him for principal, interest, and costs, and the mortgagee has given the mortgagor a release, the mortgagee's solicitor has no right to retain the deeds as against the mortgagor, even for costs due to the solicitor for the mortgagee for work done relating to the mortgaged property pending the mortgage.

The equitable right of the mortgagor to have back from the mortgagee his deeds, on payment of principal, interest, and costs, prevails against the solicitor's lien claimed in right of the mortgagee.

RICHARDSON v. LEASK.

Practice—Originating Summons—Administration—Creditor's Action—Absence of Legal Personal Representative—Defendant Next-of-Kin—Intention to take out Administration.

This was an originating summons under Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, Order LV., by a judgment creditor, for the administration of the personal estate of Lucy Leask, a married woman, who had died intestate, the defendant being her husband, though he had not yet taken out administration, and there was in fact no legal personal representative of the intestate yet constituted. The plaintiff now moved for the appointment of a receiver; but the preliminary objection was taken on the part of the defendant, that the plaintiff had no right of action, and that no effective order could at present be made on the summons, there being no legal personal representative before the Court.

In opposition to the motion, an affidavit had been made by the defendant, stating that "since his wife's death he had taken all necessary steps to take out letters of administration, and it was his intention to do so immediately, and then to sell the property of the intestate and divide the same among the respective creditors."

Warmington, Q.C., and E. Ford, for the plaintiff.

A. d.B. Terrell, for the defendant.

KEKEWICH, J., said, the summons was entirely bad, even treating it as a writ, and no order could be made upon it. According to the old terminology it was "demurrable." It was not a summons coming within Order LV. at all. The motion must be refused, with costs.

Vendor and Purchaser—Contract—"Rents and Profits" in lieu of Interest—Stone Quarry subject to Lease—Vendor and Purchaser Tenants in Common.

One of two tenants in common in fee of a stone quarry entered into a contract for sale of her interest in the quarry to the other tenant in common, and the contract contained a provision that if the purchase were not completed on a specified day, the vendor should receive the "rents and profits" of the premises until completion, in lieu of interest on the purchase-money. The quarry was subject to a lease, and previously to the contract the payments made by the lessees, whether for head-rent or royalty, had been divided between the vendor and purchaser according to their respective interests. Subsequently to the date of the contract, the lessees continued working in pursuance of the lease, and the rents and royalties were divided in the same manner as theretofore. On a summons by the purchaser under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874, the question was raised whether the vendor was bound to make compensation or to account for the stone which had been abstracted since the date of the contract, or the money received in respect thereof.

Marton, Q.C., and Benjamin Eyre, for the summons.

Warmington, Q.C., and Baker, for the vendor.

Renshaw, Q.C., and Chadwick, for other parties.

KEKEWICH, J., was of opinion that, according to the authorities, if the rights of the parties fell to be determined according to the general law, the vendor, not being able now to convey the whole property contracted to be sold, would be bound to make compensation or to account, but held that, upon the construction of this particular contract, "rents and profits" included whatever was payable under the current lease; that it was to be implied from the terms of the contract that the vendor was not to be interfered with until the fixed day; and that therefore the vendor was entitled to the rents and royalties received in respect of stone gotten from or under the lands comprised in the contract since the date thereof.

Annuity—Perpetual Annuity—Cash Value, how to be ascertained.

In the administration of the estate of a testator, the question arose what sum of cash ought to be paid to the owner of a perpetual annuity, adequately secured on the estate, who was willing to receive the cash value of his annuity.

Warmington, Q.C., and Cann, for the annuitant.

Renshaw, Q.C., and Macaskie, Bush, Q.C., Theobald and Ingpen, for other parties.

Aug. 1. KEKEWICH, J., said, that his practice in recent cases as to terminable annuities had been to direct the investment in New Consols of such a sum as, treating the interest as 2½ instead of 2¼ per cent., would yield the required amount, and that reasonably met the just claims of all parties concerned, because there was thus provision for a fall of a quarter per cent. below the present rate of interest, and no further reduction during the annuity period need be anticipated. In the present case, the National Debt (Supplemental) Act, 1888, appeared to indicate the proper solution. Under that Act the Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt were bound to treat 2½ per cent. as the rate of interest governing their calculations in granting Government annuities. They were concerned only with terminable annuities, but nevertheless this seemed to be a safe guide. His Lordship, therefore, held that the amount of cash to be paid to the redeemed annuitant must be such a sum as at the price of the day (brokerage excluded) would purchase 2½ per cent. stock sufficient to produce the annuity.

Romer, J. BELLAMY v. DAVEY. July 29.
Contract to make an Article on Premises of Purchaser—Sub-contract—Property in Incomplete Article—Lien for Purchase-money.

The subject-matter of this action was purchase-money, payable by Messrs. Davey & Goulden (the first defendants on the record) on the completion of the two petroleum tanks in course of construction on their premises by the plaintiff. The other parties to the action were Bramham & Peech, Limited (an insolvent company), and debenture-holders who had a charge on the undertaking of the company. A receiver had been appointed of the assets of the company in an action brought by one of the defendant debenture-holders on behalf of himself and the others.

By letter dated the 24th of May, 1890, Bramham & Peech, Limited, accepted an offer by the plaintiff to "supply or erect" for them two steel petroleum tanks on Messrs. Davey & Goulden's premises, in accordance with drawings and specifications, on certain terms.

By letter dated the 26th of May, 1890, Messrs. Davey & Goulden instructed Bramham & Peech, Limited, to erect on their premises two petroleum tanks in accordance with similar drawings and specifications to those referred to in the letter of the 24th of May, 1890, at a price differing as to terms of payment and in excess of the price the plaintiff had contracted for.

At the date of the issue of the writ one tank was nearly completed; the other had been commenced. The tanks were not fixtures; they were erected on concrete beds. They were of great size, and by reason of their great weight could not be removed.

The plaintiff claimed a declaration that the tanks were his property; that on completion and delivery of them he would be entitled to a lien on the purchase-money payable by Davey & Goulden for the purchase-money he had contracted for, and an injunction to restrain Davey & Goulden from paying, and the other defendants from receiving purchase-money without first satisfying or securing his purchase-money.

A motion was made on the part of the plaintiff for an injunction according to the writ. An arrangement had been made that the tanks should be completed by the plaintiff, and that he should receive in any event the costs of such completion, and that the rights of parties should not be prejudiced.

All parties concurred in asking that the final rights might now be determined on the understanding that they would themselves adjust their rights when the questions of principle were settled by the Court. The motion was now heard on that understanding.

Romer, J. In re MILNER'S SETTLEMENT. July 31.
Married Woman—Restraint on Anticipation—Conveyancing and Law of Property Act, 1881 (44 & 45 Vict. c. 41), s. 39.

On the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Milner in February, 1882, a settlement, to which they were parties, was executed. By the settlement it was agreed and declared that Mrs. Milner's after-acquired property should be settled on certain trusts, giving her a life interest for her separate use without power of anticipation. Mrs. Milner at the time the settlement was made was under age. Soon after she attained twenty-one she executed a deed-poll, dated October, 1883, confirming the settlement.

Under the will and codicil of Charles Burslem Saunders, who died in December, 1888, Mrs. Milner became entitled to certain property.

Mrs. Milner and Mr. Milner joined in executing deeds of mortgage and further charge dated February and March, 1890, respectively, by which she purported to assign to John Robins her interest under the will of Charles Burslem Saunders, to secure advances to the extent of 2000*l.* and interest at 6 per cent. Mr. and Mrs. Milner also executed a deed dated May, 1890, by which Mrs. Milner purported to assign her interest under the will of Charles Burslem Saunders, to secure advances made by Richard Furber and interest at 7 per cent.

At the time those deeds were executed the parties were under a misapprehension as to the effect of the marriage settlement and the confirmation of it, and the mortgagees were informed that there was no settlement or other incumbrance affecting Mrs. Milner's interest under the will of Charles Burslem Saunders. Mr. Milner was in embarrassed circumstances, and the money advanced was applied towards freeing him from embarrassment and in obtaining the assignment to Mrs. Milner of certain policies on his life, which he had assigned to creditors. He held an important office as senior surgeon to a London special hospital, and had a lucrative private medical practice producing an income of over 2000*l.* a year.

His health was precarious owing to a malady in which mental anxiety was injurious. His income provided proper maintenance and education for his family independently of any property belonging to Mrs. Milner. There was due on the first mortgage 2000*l.*, on the second about 4800*l.* The income of the property belonging to Mrs. Milner under the will of Charles Burslem Saunders was 230*l.* It was proposed by the mortgagees that the policies assigned to Mrs. Milner and other policies on the life of Mr. Milner should be subject to the mortgages, and held, so subject, on trust for Mrs. Milner, and that if the Court would remove the restraint on anticipation, the rate of interest on the mortgage debts should be reduced to 5 per cent., and the income of Mr. Milner's property under the will of Charles Burslem Saunders should be applied, first in paying the premiums on the policies, and secondly, so far as it would go, in keeping down the interest at 5 per cent. on the mortgage debts.

This was a motion, on the part of Mrs. Milner, by way appeal from an order in chambers refusing to remove the restraint on anticipation.

Coxen-Hardy, Q.C., and George Henderson, for the motion.

ROMER, J., made an order removing the restraint on anticipation to the extent that, till further order the income should be applied in the first place in paying the premiums on the policies, and secondly, towards payment of interest reduced to 5 per cent.

Mortgagee—Payment off—Right to Six Months' Interest in lieu of Notice—Mortgage of Reversionary Interest.

Petition by the trustee of a settlement for the distribution of a sum of Consols in Court. The tenant for life of the fund had recently died. The settlor, to whom the fund belonged subject to the tenancy for life, had, before he made the settlement, mortgaged the fund, subject to the life interest, and the settlement was made subject to the life interest and to the mortgage. By the mortgage deed the fund was assigned to the mortgagee, to have, receive, and take the same, and, in default of payment of the mortgage debt and interest, the mortgagee was empowered to sell the fund, and was to stand possessed of the proceeds of sale, upon trust in the first place to pay costs and expenses, and in the next place to pay the mortgage debt and interest, and on trust to pay the residue to the trustee of the settlement. The only question was, whether the mortgagee was entitled to six months' interest in lieu of notice to pay off the mortgage. Notice was given by service of the petition. The mortgagee had not taken any steps to obtain payment.

Oswald, for the petitioner, argued that the mortgagee was not entitled to any interest in lieu of notice, because, by the terms of the mortgage deed, he was to receive the fund when it fell into possession, and to apply it as mentioned in the deed. He referred to Fisher on Mortgage (4th ed.) pp. 734, 5, and Letts v. Hutchins (Law Rep. 13 Eq. 176).

McSwiney, for the mortgagee.

Ribton; Bramwell Davis; and E. A. Jennings; for other parties.

ROMER, J., said that it was the settled rule that, after default in payment of the mortgage money in accordance with the terms of the deed, the mortgagor must give the mortgagee six calendar months' notice of his intention to pay him off, or must pay him six months' interest. No doubt there was an exception to the rule when the mortgagee had demanded payment, or had taken steps to compel payment. In such a case no notice was required. In Letts v. Hutchins the mortgagee had taken steps to obtain payment, and his Lordship thought that was the ground of the judgment of Vice-Chancellor Wickens, though he did not expressly say so. His Lordship was not aware of any other exception to the rule founded on the nature of the mortgaged property, and he would not be the first judge to make a new exception. He should adhere to the rule. In the present case the mortgagee had not demanded payment or taken any steps to compel it, and he was entitled to six months' notice or six months' interest from the service of the petition. If the mortgagee of a reversionary interest applied for and obtained payment of his mortgage debt when the reversion fell into possession, probably in that case he would not be entitled to interest in lieu of notice. But that was not the present case.

DUKE OF SUTHERLAND v. HEATHCOTE.

Deed—Construction—Conveyance in Fee—Mines and Minerals—Exception—Reservation—Re-grant—License—Exclusive Right.

In this case the plaintiff claimed to be entitled to the coal and other mines under certain lands conveyed by a deed of exchange, dated in October, 1783, and made between the predecessors in title of the plaintiff and the predecessors in title of the defendant J. H. By this deed Earl G. and Viscount T. appointed, exchanged, and granted to J. E. H. certain lands in fee simple, "saving and reserving nevertheless to the said Earl G. and Viscount T. and to their heirs and assigns full and free liberty by all necessary and convenient ways and means to search for, get, dig, drain, and carry away the coal, ironstone, and other minerals which may or shall be found within the said several lands hereby granted and exchanged."

This deed took effect as an exercise of a power of appointment conferred on Earl G. and Viscount T., the legal estate in the premises being at the date of the deed, not in the appointors, but in their trustees.

The mines had not been worked by the plaintiff or his predecessors in title since 1783, and the contents of the deed had been only recently discovered by the plaintiff.

It was contended on behalf of the plaintiff, first, that the clause above set out was to be construed as excepting the mines and minerals from the conveyance; secondly, that, assuming the clause was to be construed as a re-grant of a license by J. E. H., the license was exclusive.

Rigby, Q.C., Neville, Q.C., and Hadley, for the plaintiff.

Finlay, Q.C., Haldane, Q.C., and Decimus Sturges, for the defendant J. H.

Phipson Beale, Q.C., and Rashleigh, for other defendants.

Sidney Wright had a watching brief for the Stafford Coal and Iron Company, Limited, tenants of the defendant J. H.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., held, that the clause did not operate as an exception and a reservation to the appointors, as the words of the clause were not apt for that purpose, especially having regard to the fact that the alleged reservation was to the appointors, although the legal estate was in their trustees; secondly, that upon the authorities there existed a prima facie presumption against a mining license being exclusive, and that there was not in the language of the deed any indication of an intention to grant an exclusive license sufficient to rebut that prima facie presumption, and he dismissed the action.

HART v. HART.

July 28.

Where a respondent who had been ordered after decree nisi to pay a certain sum into Court to meet the petitioner's costs had not complied with the order, the Court refused to enforce the order by issuing an attachment, but varied the order by directing the payment to be made to the petitioner's solicitor on the undertaking that he should lodge it in Court.

Application for attachment for non-payment of costs.

In this case a decree nisi had been pronounced on the 17th of April, 1891, and on the 13th of May, 1891, an order directing the respondent to pay into Court the amount of the petitioner's taxed costs was served personally on the respondent. The money had not been paid nor had the respondent in any way complied with the order. On the contrary, his solicitor had written to say that he did not intend to pay anything as he had left a houseful of furniture in the possession of the petitioner.

Notice of the motion to commit him for non-compliance with the order was served on the respondent on the 22nd of July, and

B. Deane, now moved to attach the respondent for contempt in not complying with the order.

JEUNE, J.:—You cannot attach for non-payment of money. You must proceed in the ordinary way to recover the money.

B. Deane:—The order is not to pay to the petitioner, but to pay into Court, consequently we cannot proceed by judgment summons. It has been usual to enforce these payments by attachment.

JEUNE, J.:—If a party has been ordered to pay or give security, and he does neither, you can attach him for contempt of Court in not obeying the order to give security. But you cannot enforce the money payment by attachment. The best course will be to vary the order—and order that the respondent pay the money to the petitioner's solicitor on the undertaking that he pays the money into Court.

Ship—Transmission of Share to Alien—Forfeiture to Crown—Merchant Shipping Act, 1854 (17 & 18 Vict. c. 104), ss. 62, 63, 64, 103 (3)—Practice—Sale of Share without Appraisement—Costs.

Motion by the plaintiff, the Inspector of Customs in London, for the sale of one sixty-fourth share of the steamship Millicent, forfeited to the Crown.

The facts were briefly that:—On the 10th of August, 1885, a Miss Kate Hill purchased one sixty-fourth share in the British registered steamship Millicent, and on the 9th of March, 1887, in contemplation of marriage with a Captain Courvoisier, of Neuchâtel, Switzerland, executed a settlement of her property on the usual trusts. On the 19th of March the marriage took place, and on the 1st of September, 1888, Mrs. Courvoisier died, intestate, leaving one child and her husband surviving. On the 18th of December, letters of administration to her estate and effects were granted to the husband out of the principal registry. It was admitted that the share in question, valued at 75*l.*, did not pass to the trustees of the settlement, and therefore became vested by transmission in Captain Courvoisier, who, as an alien, was not qualified to be the owner of a British ship.

No application, within the prescribed period, was made on behalf of Captain Courvoisier under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854 (17 & 18 Vict. c. 104), ss. 62, 63, for an order for a sale of the share, and the payment of the proceeds, less expenses, to him, and the share, therefore, under sect. 64 of the same Act, became forfeited to Her Majesty. Under the provisions of sect. 103 of the above-mentioned Act the vessel was seized and detained by an officer of Customs, but subsequently released under a bond.

On the 8th of May, 1891, an action in rem, in the Probate, Divorce, and Admiralty Division (Admiralty), was commenced by the plaintiff, the Inspector of Customs in London, against the parties interested in the vessel, claiming the forfeiture to Her Majesty of the one sixty-fourth share and an award to him of such proceeds of the sale thereof as the Court might think fit.

The vessel was thereupon arrested by the marshal, and on the 25th of June, Jeune, J., on the application of the defendants, the owners of the Millicent, made an order, with the consent of the Crown, for the release of the ship, on the defendants undertaking to give bail for the agreed value of the share.

Cope (McConnell, with him), for the plaintiff, asked for an order for the sale of the share as forfeited to the Crown.

J. P. Aspinall, for the defendants, the owners of the Millicent, suggested that as a purchaser, a British subject, could be named who was willing to pay not less than the agreed value, the Crown should, to save expense, consent to an order that the sale take place by private contract; and he further submitted, that as the defendants, the owners of the remaining shares in the Millicent, had been involved in expense, but were not themselves in any default, and had not put the Crown to the cost of proving the facts relied upon as a ground of forfeiture, they should be allowed their costs out of the proceeds of the sale after the expenses of the Crown had been deducted.

Cope, for the plaintiff, consented, as the advisers of the Crown only desired to see the provisions of the statute (as to the share not remaining vested in an alien) duly complied with, and did not propose to enforce the forfeiture as to the proceeds, which would be handed over, less expenses, to the representative of Mrs. Courvoisier.

JEUNE, J., pronounced that the one sixty-fourth share was liable to forfeiture, and condemned the share as forfeited to Her Majesty, her heirs and successors. He further decreed the share to be sold by the marshal by private contract, without appraisement, for the best price that could be obtained, but not under the sum of 75*l.*, the marshal to pay the proceeds into Court, and the costs of the defendants, the owners of the remaining shares, to be paid out of the net proceeds.

Ex parte ADOR.

Bankruptcy—Proof of Debt—Interest—Debt payable in futuro with Interest in meantime—Bankruptcy Act, 1883, ss. 37, 40; Sched. 2, rr. 20, 21.

Appeal by Gustave Ador against a decision of Mr. Registrar Giffard.

The debtors, who were partners, had jointly guaranteed to Ador the payment, with interest, of a sum of 1000*l.*, lent by him to one of them. The loan was made on the 30th day of April, 1885, for a period of ten years, "with a gradual amortization of 20 per cent., beginning after five years have elapsed, so as to completely extinguish the debt on the 30th day of April, 1895." Interest, at the rate of 6 per cent.

per annum, was to be paid half-yearly on the balance of the loan from time to time remaining due.

In March, 1890, the debtors presented a bankruptcy petition, on which a receiving order was made, and ultimately a scheme of arrangement with their creditors was approved by the Court. No part of the principal of the loan had been repaid before the receiving order. Ador tendered a proof under the scheme for 1000*l.* principal, and 1*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.* interest thereon.

The trustee under the scheme rejected the proof as regarded interest, and allowed it for the principal only. Ador did not appeal from this rejection. The trustee afterwards proposed to pay him a dividend of 14*s.* in the pound upon the 1000*l.*, reduced by a rebate of 210*l.* Ador then moved for an order that the trustee should pay him a dividend of 14*s.* in the pound on 1000*l.*, without any rebate or discount, or, in the alternative, that the proof might be increased.

The registrar dismissed the motion with costs. Ador appealed.

Finlay, Q.C., and Yate Lee, for the appellant.

Sidney Woolf, Q.C., and F. M. Abrahams, for the trustee.

THE COURT (Lindley, Bowen, and Kay, L.J.J.) held, that the proof must stand for 1000*l.*, without any rebate from that sum, or from the dividend payable in respect of it.

LINDLEY, L.J., said, that it had long been a settled rule in bankruptcy that interest accruing after adjudication was not admitted to proof. This rule was inflexible, and it had been recognised as subsisting in Ex parte Bath (22 Ch. Div. 450), which was decided in 1882, after the class of liabilities provable had been enlarged by the Bankruptcy Act, 1869. But, notwithstanding this rule, the Act 7 Geo. 1, c. 31, which had been continued by subsequent Acts, provided that debts payable at a later date than the adjudication should be provable subject to a rebate; and in Ex parte Dowman (2 G. & J. 241) it was decided that a debt payable in futuro, with interest in the meantime, was to be treated as if the principal sum was presently due without interest. The observations of Mellish, L.J., in Ex parte Stone (Law Rep. 8 Ch. 917) were to the same effect. Later legislation had not altered this in principle. In Ex parte Bath proof for future interest was disallowed, but the whole of the principal was proved as a present debt without any reduction. Neither sect. 40 (5) of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, nor rule 20 in the Second Schedule to the Act, had reference to the mode of dealing with interest after the date of the receiving order on a debt payable at a future date, with interest, under an express contract. Sect. 37 and rule 21 in sched. 2 must be worked together. The language of sect. 37 was large enough to include, not only a debt payable at a future time, but also a liability to pay interest thereon at a rate which the debtor had agreed to pay. Upon the true construction of sect. 37 and rule 21 his Lordship thought the proper course was, (1) to prove the debt as a present debt, and apply rule 21 to the dividend payable on it; (2) then to value the liability to pay interest, and prove for that value, and pay a dividend on that value without rebate, the words of rule 21, being confined to debts. If by agreement the debt bore interest at 5 per cent., then, as under rule 21 interest for the purposes of rebate was to be calculated at that rate, the result would be the same as if the principal sum was treated as a present debt not bearing interest, and was proved and paid accordingly. If the interest agreed to be paid was more or less than 5 per cent., the value of the liability to pay interest and the rebate under the rule would not neutralize each other. In ordinary cases the rule which prevented proof for future interest produced no injustice. When by rule 21 a rebate would be deducted from a future debt which by contract carried interest, the application of sect. 37, by allowing a proof for that future interest, and setting that off against the rebate, prevented the operation of rule 21 from inflicting a loss upon the creditor by a rebate which would be unjust. If the proof for future interest should be greater than the rebate under rule 21, as when the interest contracted for was more than 5 per cent., possibly sect. 37 could not be invoked so far as to allow proof for the amount beyond the rebate. But it was not necessary now to decide this point, the appellant being content to prove for the principal sum of 1000*l.* alone.

LANE v. CAPSEY.

Aug. 5

Practice—Receiver—Right of Way—Obstruction—Inhabited House—Leave to abate notwithstanding Receiver.

The Cavendish Permanent Benefit Building Society had obtained a judgment from Mr. Justice Stirling, in an action against Capsey and others, that they were entitled to a right of way over a certain footpath that was obstructed by a house erected thereon by the defendants, but they failed at the trial to obtain a mandatory injunction for the removal of the obstruction. A receiver having been appointed in the action of Lane v. Capsey of certain property of the defendants, which included the obstructing house, the society now applied, in the last-mentioned action, for leave, notwithstanding the appointment of the receiver, to proceed under their common law rights to take such steps as they might be advised to abate the obstruction of their right of way.

Byrnes, Q.C., and W. S. Robson, for the application.

Farwell, Q.C., and Beddall, for the defendants, contended that leave ought not to be given unless the Court was satisfied that the applicants had a prima facie case for exercising right claimed; that in the present case no right to abatement had been shown, and, as the obstructing house was inhabited, the applicants were not justified, according to Perry v. Pitts-hous (8 Q. B. 757), and Jones v. Jones (1 H. & C. 1), in pulling it down.

F. Watt, for the plaintiffs.

CHITTY, J., said, it was not the course of the Court to refuse liberty to try a right claimed against its receiver, unless it was perfectly clear there was no foundation for the claim. In the present case the applicants had the decision of Mr. Justice Stirling in their favour, that they had a right of way along the path at present obstructed by this house; that though they had failed in obtaining a mandatory injunction, still other means were open to them of asserting their right of way. The case of Davies v. Williams (16 Q. B. 546), which was a more recent authority than that relied on by the defendants' counsel, shewed that after notice and request to remove the obstructing house, the applicants might pull it down, although it was actually inhabited; and under these circumstances his Lordship gave the applicants leave, notwithstanding the receiver, to pursue any remedies or do any acts that they might lawfully take or do to abate the obstruction.

LONDON AND MASHONALAND EXPLORATION COMPANY, LIMITED
v. NEW MASHONALAND EXPLORATION COMPANY, LIMITED.

Contract of Service—Chairman—Rival Companies—Director acting for another Company—Absence of Negative Stipulation—Injunction.

Motion on behalf of the plaintiff company to restrain the defendant company from publishing any announcement that Lord Mayo was one of its directors, and to restrain Lord Mayo from authorizing or permitting any such publication, and from acting as director of the defendant company.

The above-named companies were incorporated for the same object, and were rival companies. The plaintiff company was registered in March, 1891, and in the following month a resolution was passed at a meeting of the directors appointing Lord Mayo a director and chairman. The plaintiff company alleged that Lord Mayo accepted the appointment, and approved of a prospectus privately circulated, wherein his name appeared as director and chairman, and that numerous applications for shares had been received upon the faith of such prospectus. In July the prospectus of the defendant company was circulated with the name of Lord Mayo at the head of its list of directors. It was admitted that Lord Mayo had never acted as a director, nor attended any board meeting of the plaintiff company, and that he had never agreed, either expressly or by the articles of association, not to become a director of any similar company.

Maidlow, for the plaintiff company.

E. Ford, for the defendant company.

Swinfen Eady and Peterson, for Lord Mayo.

CHITTY, J., said, even assuming that Lord Mayo had been duly elected chairman and director of the plaintiff company, there was nothing in the articles which required him to give any part of his time, much less the whole of his time, to the business of the company, or which prohibited him from acting as a director of another company; neither was there any contract express or implied to give his personal services to the plaintiff company and to another company. No case had been made out that Lord Mayo was about to disclose to the defendant company any information that he had obtained confidentially in his character of chairman: the analogy sought to be drawn by the plaintiff company's counsel between the present case and partnerships was incomplete: no sufficient damage had been shewn, and no case had been made for an injunction: the application was wholly unprecedented, and must be dismissed with costs.

EICHBAUM v. CITY OF CHICAGO GRAIN ELEVATORS, LIMITED.
Company—Surrender of Shares—Issue of New Shares in Exchange—Power of Company to pass special Resolutions—Preference Shares.

In this case it was held by Stirling, J., that the decision in Teasdale's case (Law Rep. 9 Oh. 54), that a company may by special resolution vary its articles so as to give itself power to accept surrenders of old shares in exchange for new shares, in a case where the surrenders are made bonâ fide, and not so as to enable shareholders to escape liability, has not been overruled by Trevor v. Whitworth (Law Rep. 12 App. Cas. 409). And his Lordship held also that a company, which by its memorandum of association had power to issue new shares with preferential rights, both as regards payment of dividends and repayment of capital, could give itself power to issue new shares with preferential rights to some of its ordinary shareholders in consideration of their surrendering an equitable amount of their ordinary shares.

Practice—Affidavits—Commissioner—Appointment—22 Vict.

[c. 16, s. 1—52 Vict. c. 10, s. 1.

This was a motion on behalf of the defendant in this action that certain affidavits made by the plaintiff might be taken off the file, upon the ground that they were not sworn before a commissioner or a person duly appointed to administer oaths, and were a fraud on the Court and the defendant; and that the plaintiff and his solicitor might be ordered to pay the costs occasioned by such alleged affidavits and of the application. The affidavits in question purported to have been sworn before one J. H. Jonas, who had formerly been a solicitor, but had been struck off the Rolls in 1838.

In 1875, whilst Jonas was in practice as a solicitor, he was appointed by the Court of Exchequer a commissioner to administer oaths, and his commission had never been superseded either by the Court of Exchequer or by the Lord Chancellor, in whom the jurisdiction was afterwards vested. The commission by which he was appointed was not forthcoming; but it appeared to have been in the form in use before the Judicature Acts, according to which it continued in force during the pleasure of the Court, and not merely during good conduct, and was not limited, as is the practice since the Judicature Act, to the period during which the commissioner continues to practise as a solicitor.

It appeared that Jonas had continued to act as a commissioner after he had been struck off the Rolls, and that there were many other affidavits which had been sworn before him in addition to those now in question.

Hastings, Q.C., and Oswald, in support of the motion, contended that, inasmuch as the power conferred by the statute 22 Vict. c. 16, upon the Lords Chief Justices, the Lord Chief Baron, and the other judges and barons of the Courts of Queen's Bench, Common Pleas, and Exchequer, was a power to appoint as many persons as they should think fit, "such persons being attorneys of the said Courts respectively, and practising within ten miles of Sergeants' Inn, or other fit and proper persons, to administer oaths," &c, upon the true construction of the Act, the duration of the commission must be limited, in the case of attorneys, to the period during which the commissioner was a practising attorney, and, if necessary, words effecting that limitation must be imported into the commission.

Ashton Cross, for the plaintiff, contra.

Cur. adv. vult.

Aug. 8. STIRLING, J., said he could not accede to the contentions of the defendant. The limit of the duration of a commission to administer oaths, granted, as this was, by the Court of Exchequer, was the pleasure of that Court; and in order to put an end to the commission it must be revoked. The power of appointment and revocation was under the Commissioners for Oaths Act, 1890 (52 Vict. c. 10), now vested in the Lord Chancellor, with whom, therefore, it would now lie to revoke the commission; and he (STIRLING, J.) had taken steps to bring the facts of the case before the Lord Chancellor. It was clearly improper that Mr. Jonas, after what had happened, should continue to act as a commissioner; but upon the question of construction the words suggested could not be imported into the commission. The Court was indebted to the applicant for calling attention to the circumstances of the case, but could not make the order asked for. It was not, however, a case in which the respondent ought to have costs.

DAW v. HERRING.

Partnership—Articles giving Partner option of Purchase at termination of Term by effluxion of Time—Expiration—Continuance of Business as Partnership at Will—Application of Provisions of original Articles.

This was a summons taken out by the defendant in a partnership action, in which the usual order for accounts and inquiries had been made, and a receiver had been appointed, asking a declaration that the applicant was entitled to purchase the plaintiff's share and interest in the business and the goodwill and effects of the partnership lately subsisting between them, on the terms and under the provisions of certain clauses in a deed of partnership dated in November, 1882. By that deed (clause 2) the partnership was to commence on the 29th of September, 1882, and to continue for five years; (clause 27) "within three months after the expiration or determination of the partnership by effluxion of time," an account of assets and liabilities was to be made out, and after providing for the liabilities the assets were to be divided between the partners, and if they were unable to agree, the defendant was to have the option, to be signified in writing three months after the determination of the partnership, of purchasing the plaintiff's share at a valuation; (clause 28), if either partner should die during the partnership, a like account and division was to be made, provided that the surviving partner should, upon giving three months' notice, be entitled to take the deceased partner's share at a valuation; and (clause 29) either partner was, in certain cases, to have the power of determining the partnership and expelling his co-partner.

The partnership term expired on the 29th day of September, 1887; but the plaintiff and defendant continued to carry on business without making any fresh arrangement until the 13th day of March, 1891, when the defendant gave the plaintiff notice to determine the partnership, whereupon the plaintiff gave the defendant a similar notice, and shortly afterwards commenced the present action.

The question was whether the provisions of clause 27 of the original articles giving the defendant the option of purchasing; the plaintiff's share remained in force, and were applicable to the partnership at will carried on after the expiration of the original term.

Buckley, Q.C., and G. P. Lawrence, for the defendant, in support of the summons.

Hastings, Q.C., and S. Dickinson, for the plaintiff, contended that clause 27 was inapplicable to a partnership at will, which could not be said to expire by effluxion of time.

Cur. adv. vult.

Aug. 8. STIRLING, J., said that, applying the law laid down by the House of Lords in Nielson v. Mossend Iron Company (11 App. Cas. 298), which was consistent with the view taken by Fry, L.J., in Cox v. Willoughby (13 Ch. Div. 863, 871), he had to consider whether the provisions of the clause giving the defendant the option of purchase were in their nature inapplicable to a partnership at will; and, coming to the conclusion that they were not, he held that the defendant was entitled to the option he claimed. His Lordship then made an order in the terms of the summons; and upon the plaintiff giving an undertaking forthwith to give notice of appeal, he directed a stay of proceedings under the order.

THE MARQUIS OF AILESBUURY'S SETTLED ESTATES IN THE COUNTIES OF WILTS AND BERKS.

Settled Estate—Insolvent Tenant for Life—Sale of principal Mansion House—Consent of Trustees—Sanction of Court—Settled Land Act, 1882, ss. 37, 53; 1890, s. 10.

This was a petition by the Marquis of Ailesbury, as tenant for life of the Savernake Estate, asking for the sanction of the Court to the sale by him of that estate, together with the principal mansion and the pleasure grounds, park, and lands actually occupied therewith.

The petitioner attained twenty-one on the 8th of June, 1884. He had married shortly before that date; but there was no issue of the marriage. The gross rental of the estate was £800, which was nearly all absorbed in the payment of interest and other charges upon it; so that the net income was only 900l. a year.

The petitioner was on the verge of bankruptcy, and a winding order had been made against him. In 1885 he was joined with his grandfather, the then marquis, in the sale of other estates belonging to the family in Yorkshire, and out of the proceeds of that sale he had received £2000. to satisfy his debts. At that time the estate now proposed to be sold was resettled with the object of keeping it in the family.

The petitioner came into possession of the estates in 1886, and he had since incumbered his life estate to the extent of £250,000, of which 200,000l. was claimed against him by a money-lender. This creditor had brought a foreclosure action against him, and obtained the appointment of a receiver. The mansion and lands were of great beauty and historical interest, and had been in the family for more than 200 years. The price offered by the proposed purchaser was 750,000l., and, in the opinion of the Court, represented the full value of the estate.

The sale was opposed by all the remaindermen, and by one of the trustees of the settlement. The person next entitled in remainder was possessed of considerable wealth, and was in a position to keep up the estate if he should come into it. It was proved that the sale would benefit the petitioner's creditors rather than himself.

Graham Hastings, Q.C., and Fossett Lock, for the petitioner.

Sir Horace Davey, Q.C., G. Henderson, and Stock, for the persons entitled in remainder.

Buckley, Q.C., and Ashworth James, for the trustee opposing the sale; and Muir Mackenzie, for the other trustee.

STIRLING, J., held, following In re The Earl of Radnor's Will Trusts (45 Ch. Div. 402), that the question whether the full pecuniary value was being obtained for the estate was not the only one that had to be considered; the Court must inquire whether the petitioner was filling the position of "an independent trustee for himself and all the members of the family," and was exercising his discretion "as a fair and honest and careful trustee would do under the circumstances." There was no evidence that the petitioner had so exercised his discretion. The Court, however, was bound to consider all the circumstances of the case from the point of view of an independent and careful trustee, and his Lordship came to the conclusion that the proposed sale was not one in which due regard had been paid to the interests of all the parties entitled under the settlement, and he declined to sanction it.

ALCOCK v. SMITH.

Aug. 8.

Bill of Exchange—English Bill indorsed in Foreign Country—Equities attaching to Bill by English Law—Valid Title in Indorsees by Foreign Law—Conflict of Laws—Bills of Exchange Act, 1882, ss. 2, 36, 59, 72.

An English bill of exchange, drawn, accepted, and payable in England, in each case by English firms, and payable to Andresen & Co., was indorsed by Andresen & Co. to the order of Meyer, who, for valuable consideration, indorsed it in blank, and handed it in Norway to Schiender, as agent for A. Alcock and J. F. Alcock & Co., the firm of J. F. Alcock & Co. consisting of J. F. Alcock and A. Alcock.

While in the hands of Schiender, in Norway, the bill (being still current) was seized in execution by a local official in respect of a judgment obtained in Norwegian proceedings against J. F. Alcock alone. Schiender protested; but, after hearing arguments, the local official held the seizure valid, and his decision was not appealed from.

Some months afterwards, when the bill was considerably overdue, another official, after hearing arguments for the judgment creditor and for J. F. Alcock, in accordance with the usual course of Norwegian law, ordered the bill to be sold by public auction, and the decision was not appealed from.

At the auction the bill was knocked down to the judgment-creditor's advocate, who handed it to Meyer, who sold the bill in Sweden to Köpmansbank.

Köpmansbank purchased in the ordinary course of business, without knowledge of any infirmity of title to the bill, and in reliance on their own law, under which they acquired a perfect title to the bill as bonâ fide holders for value, and as if the bill were not overdue. The laws of Sweden and Norway are the same on this point.

Köpmansbank sent the bill for collection to their agents in England, the National Bank of Scotland; but before presentation, A. Alcock and J. F. Alcock & Co. obtained an ex parte injunction, restraining the English drawers and acceptors from paying the bill, and immediately after presentation they obtained an ex parte injunction restraining the National Bank from parting with the bill. By arrangement the amount of the bill was paid to the National Bank and paid into Court, and the drawers and acceptors and the National Bank were dismissed from the action, the only parties remaining being A. Alcock and J. F. Alcock & Co. as plaintiffs, and Köpmansbank as defendants.

Neither in Sweden nor in Norway does the same rule of law apply as in England, viz., that where an overdue bill is negotiated it can only be negotiated subject to the equities attaching to it at maturity.

Haldane, Q.C., and Farwell, Q.C., for the plaintiffs.

Kennedy, Q.C., and Daniel Jones, for Köpmansbank.

ROMEB, J., said, that the action being really to recover a bill between two parties, each claiming to be entitled, as against the other, to hold it and obtain payment thereon, and there being no case affecting the drawers or payers of the bill, the proviso in sect. 72, sub-sect. 2, of the Bills of Exchange Act, 1882 (which says that, "where an inland bill is indorsed in a foreign country the indorsement shall as regards the payer be interpreted according to the law of the United Kingdom"), did not apply. The case came within the general law, that the rights of transferor and transferee on a transfer, in one country, of a document of title to a debt, or to an interest in personal property, are governed by the law of the country where the transfer takes place, although the debt may be due from persons living in, or the personal property may be situate in, another country. The defendants had a valid title by the laws of Norway and Sweden, and were entitled to the proceeds of the bill, notwithstanding any equities attaching to the bill, by the law of England, in favour of the plaintiffs.

Practice—Writ specially indorsed—Final Judgment—Appearance to Writ not specially indorsed—Summons for Final Judgment—Subsequent Amendment by special indorsement of Writ—Jurisdiction to make Order for Final Judgment—Order III., r. 6; Order XIV., r. 1.

Appeal against an order of a Master giving the plaintiff leave to sign final judgment under Order XIV., r. 1, referred by Pollock, B., at Chambers, to the Court.

The writ in the action, which was issued on the 27th of June 1891, was indorsed with a claim for 132*l.* 9*s.* 1*d.*, which was admittedly a liquidated sum, and with a further claim in respect of the use and occupation by the defendant of premises belonging to the plaintiff. The defendant appeared to the writ on the 6th of July, and on the 17th day of July the plaintiff took out a summons for final judgment under Order XIV., r. 1. When the summons was heard before the Master on the 23d day of July, the defendant objected, that as the writ contained a claim for use and occupation in addition to a claim for liquidated sum, it was not a specially indorsed writ within the meaning of Order III., r. 6, and the Master thereupon adjourned the summons, giving the plaintiff leave to amend the indorsement on the writ by striking out the claim for use and occupation. This amendment was duly made, a copy of the writ amended being served upon the defendant's solicitors. On the 6th day of August the adjourned summons under Order XIV., r. 1, again came on before the Master, when the defendant put in an affidavit of merits, but objected that the Master had no jurisdiction to make the order, upon the grounds, (1) that the defendant had not appeared to a specially indorsed writ within the meaning of Order XIV., r. 2, the writ not having been a properly specially indorsed writ at the time when his appearance in the action was entered; (2) that, at any rate, it was necessary that the writ should be a specially indorsed writ within the meaning of Order XIV., at the time when the summons was taken out. The Master overruled the objection, and, there being no affidavit of merits, made an order that the plaintiff be at liberty to sign final judgment.

Henry Kisch, for the defendant.

Arthur Powell, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Wills and Charles, JJ.) held, that the defendant had not appeared to "a writ of summons specially indorsed under Order III., r. 6," within the meaning of Order XIV., r. 1, that the summons for leave to sign final judgment was, therefore, improperly taken out; and that the order of the Master was made without jurisdiction, and must be reversed.

Enlargement of Time for doing Act—Order made by Consent.

Motion by the plaintiffs to enlarge the time limited for the defendant's compliance with an order dated the 7th day of August, 1891. The order was made in chambers on the hearing of an application by the plaintiffs, and it was thereby by consent ordered that the defendant should, on or before the 31st day of August, 1891, transfer to the plaintiff company, or their nominee, certain shares in the company. The order was passed and entered, but it had not been complied with. It had not been served on the defendant. A motion was now made on behalf of the plaintiffs that the time limited by the order for the defendant to transfer the shares might be enlarged to the 2nd day of November, 1891, or four days after service of the order to be made on the present motion.

Boome, and T. H. Dolbey, for the plaintiffs.

Company—Winding-up Petition—Irregularity in Advertisement—Invalidation of Proceedings—Companies (Winding-up) Rules 1890, rr. 34, 177.

Five petitions for the winding-up of this company were presented, and they were all in the paper for hearing to-day. No one appeared on behalf of either the first or the fourth petitioner. The first petition was presented on the 18th of September; the second on the 22nd of September; the third on the 7th of October; and the fifth on the 21st of October. The second petition was advertised in the London Gazette of the 16th of October. The advertisement stated (in error) that the petition had been presented on the 18th of September. It also stated that the 31st of October had been appointed for the hearing.

E. Ford, for the second petitioner, relied on rule 177 of the Companies (Winding-up) Rules, 1890, as shewing, that, though rule 34 had not been complied with, because the advertisement did not state the day on which the petition was presented, the proceedings were not invalidated, no substantial injustice having been caused by the irregularity.

C. E. Bovill, for the third petitioner, argued that there would be an injustice to him, because, by reason of the irregularity, his petition ought to be treated as the first presented and a winding-up order made upon it; otherwise he might be ordered to pay costs.

Innes, for the fifth petitioner.

Patullo, for the company.

A. B. Kirby, for creditors.

NORTH, J., made a supervision order on the second petition. It was the earlier in date of those which were before him, and it would be right to make the order upon it, unless the objection taken on behalf of the third petitioner was a good one. His Lordship could not see how any injustice would be done to anyone by his acting on rule 177, and holding that the irregularity did not invalidate the proceedings. No one had been misled by the error in date. He could not correct the error, but he thought no injustice had been caused by it. No order would be made on the third and fifth petitions, and the respective petitioners must pay the costs of them.

Kekewich, J. JACKSON v. KILHAM. Oct. 30.

Practice—Foreclosure Action—Appearance, Default of—Revivor, Order for—Filing—Service, Dispensing with—Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order LXVII, r. 4.

This was a foreclosure action in which no appearance had been entered on behalf of the defendant.

The order nisi was made on the 9th of November, 1889.

The Chief Clerk's certificate was made on the 14th of May, 1890, the date thereby fixed for payment of the mortgage money being the 14th of November, 1890; but the money was not paid on that day.

On the 31st of December, 1890, the plaintiff died, and on the 25th of July, 1891, an order of revivor was obtained substituting his executor and devisee as plaintiff, who, on the 11th of August, 1891, obtained an order for foreclosure absolute; but the drawing up of the order was stopped on the ground that the order of revivor had neither been served nor filed.

On the 2nd of October, 1891, in consequence of the defendant not having entered an appearance to the writ, the plaintiff filed the order of revivor at the Central Office, purporting to do so under Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order LXVII, r. 4, which provides that, "Where no appearance has been entered for a party . . . all . . . orders . . . may be served by filing them with the proper officer." The question was raised by the Registrar whether an order of revivor came within Order LXVII, r. 4.

Mulligan, for the plaintiff, submitted that an order of revivor was an "order" within the rule, and that the rules dispensing with personal service on a defendant in case of default ought to be construed widely: Dymond v. Croft (3 Ch. Div. 512; 21 W. R. 700).

Kekewich, J., held, that the rule did apply to an order of revivor, and that, therefore, the filing of it in a case where the defendant had entered no appearance was sufficient.

PETRE v. FERRERS.

Nov. 2.

Chattels—Recovery of Possession—Roman Catholic Altar Stone and Relics—Title to Sue—Fixtures—"Furniture and Articles of Household Use or Ornament."

Some time before 1867 an altar stone, consecrated by Cardinal Wiseman as Roman Catholic Bishop, and a case of relics, came into the possession of the Petre family, who were Roman Catholics, and the articles were used in their private chapel, in respect of which they held a licence for Mass from the Roman Catholic Bishop. The altar stone was not physically attached to the altar, but was placed in a cavity therein, and the relics were placed in a cavity under the altar, both altar and relics forming part of the chapel as used for religious purposes.

In 1867 the estate on which the chapel was built was settled. The first tenant for life was Lady Catherine Petre, who died in December, 1882 (her husband having predeceased her), and her son Ralph Petre, who died in April, 1884, was the next tenant for life. On Ralph Petre's death, his brother, the Plaintiff, who was then an infant, became legal tenant for life of the estate. In July, 1885 (at which time the property was in the charge of caretakers, employed by the trustees of the settlement, but whose wages were charged against the Plaintiff), the estate was demised to H. F. Ferrers, the husband of one of the Plaintiff's sisters, by virtue of a power in the settlement, the lease operating by way of revocation of uses and new appointment. The Plaintiff attained the age of twenty-one years in October, 1885, and in 1890, shortly before the expiration of the lease, the altar stone and relics, contrary to the wishes of the plaintiff, were removed by Miss Petre, another sister of the plaintiff, acting by the direction of H. F. Ferrers, and placed in the hands of Cardinal Manning, the successor in the bishopric of Cardinal Wiseman, who had died in the meantime. The licence for Mass was withdrawn in September, 1890.

In an action against his two sisters and Cardinal Manning, the plaintiff sought to recover possession of the altar stone and relics.

It was pleaded in defence that, as to the altar stone, by ecclesiastical custom it could only be used while the chapel was licensed. Mrs. Ferrers also contended that, by the will of Lady Catherine Petre, the altar stone and relics passed to Ralph Petre under a bequest to him of the "furniture and articles of household use or ornament" of the testatrix, and that they belonged to Mrs. Ferrers as the legal personal representative of Ralph Petre.

Healey, Q.C., and Ribton, for the plaintiff.

Neville, Q.C., and F. G. Bagshawe, for the defendants.

ROMER, J., held (1) that, assuming Lady Catherine was entitled to the articles at the time of her death and enabled to dispose of them by will, they did not pass to Ralph Petre under her will, and were not therefore the property of Mrs. Ferrers, as his legal personal representative, and that there was nothing to shew a title in any of the other defendants; (2), that the articles, though not physically attached to, became annexed to, and formed part of the chapel as demised; (3) that the defendants were bound to restore them; (4), that the plaintiff had sufficient interest by privity of estate to compel such restoration; (5) that, even if the articles were not part of the chapel, or included in the demise, the plaintiff had obtained such a possessory title, notwithstanding the lease, to give him, on removal of the articles, the immediate right to recover possession against Ferrers, if not as tenant, at any rate as custodian for the plaintiff.

Practice—Costs—Refreshers to Counsel—Rules of the Supreme Court, Order LXV., r. 27, sub-r. 48.

By Order LXV., r. 27, sub-r 48, of the Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, "When any cause or matter is to be tried or heard upon vivâ voce evidence in open court, if the trial shall extend over more than one day, and shall occupy either on the first day only, or partly on the first and partly on a subsequent day or days, more than five hours, without being concluded, the taxing officer may allow, for every clear day subsequent to that on which the five hours shall have expired, the following (refresher) fees. . . ."

An action of damage by collision between the owners of the steamship Wild Rose as plaintiffs, and the owners of the steamship Courier as defendants, was commenced in the Admiralty Division before Jeune, J., with two of the Elder Brethren of the Trinity Corporation as assessors, at 2.5 P.M. on the 8th of July. The vivâ voce examination of witnesses was not concluded at 4.20 P.M., when the Court rose. The case lasted the whole of the following day, from 10.30 A.M. until judgment was pronounced in favour of the defendants with costs, at 4 P.M.

The time occupied was, therefore—on the first day 2 hrs. 15 min., and on the second day 5 hrs. 30 min., total 7 hrs. 45 min.

On taxation of costs, between party and party, the leading counsel for the defendants was allowed a refresher fee of four guineas, and the junior counsel three guineas.

The plaintiffs filed objections to the taxation, submitting that under Order LXV., r. 27, sub-r. 48, and the decision in the case of Walker v. Crystal Palace District Gas Co. ([1891] 2 Q. B. 300) the defendants were not entitled to recover the refresher fees paid their counsel, seeing that the hearing of the case only lasted from 2 P.M. to 4 P.M. on the 8th of July, and the whole of the day on the 9th.

The Assistant Registrar (Mr. E. S. Roscoe), as taxing officer, answered: "I am unable to alter the taxation on this point. Considering the question first of all apart from authority, I think that the words 'for every clear day' must be read with the scale of fees which follows—that is, in other words, for every clear day subsequent to that on which the five hours have expired, there may be allowed fees not larger than those stated; but for a shorter time than a clear day, which I take to be a day of five hours, there may be given a smaller amount than the maximum, otherwise there would be this anomaly, that for a clear day there may be allowed a refresher, whereas for a day of four and a half hours over and above the first five hours none would be payable. When authorities are considered no doubt Walker v. Crystal Palace District Gas Co. ([1891] 2 Q. B. 300) is opposed to this view. On the other hand, the case of Gibbs v. Barrow (30 Sol. J. 538), is opposed to Walker v. Crystal Palace District Gas Co. Gibbs v. Barrow was a decision (in Chambers on appeal) of Grantham, J., after consultation with another judge of the Queen's Bench Division. Therefore, it seems to be an equal authority with Walker v. Crystal Palace District Gas Co.; but there are several Chancery decisions in accordance with the view I take, such as Wicksteed v. Biggs (52, L. T. (N. S.) 428), and Boswell v. Coaks (36 Ch. Div. 444). I consider, therefore, that the weight of authority is in favour of the view I take of the rule, and therefore I allow a refresher."

On appeal from the Assistant Registrar's refusal to review the taxation.

Loelnis, for the plaintiffs.

Barnes, Q.C., and J. P. Aspinall, for the defendants.

THE PRESIDENT, (Sir Charles Butt), upheld the decision of the Assistant Registrar, on the ground that, there being a conflict of authority, he, the learned judge, was not bound by the decision in Walker v. Crystal Palace District Gas Co. ([1891] 2 Q. B. 300), and in that case the attention of Denman and Wills, J.J., did not seem to have been called to the concluding words of the rule: "The like allowances may be made where the evidence in chief is not taken vivâ voce, if the trial on hearing shall be substantially prolonged beyond such period of five hours." This seemed to explain the rule, and, in his view of its meaning, the taxing officer had a discretion to allow some refresher fee for any time during which the trial was substantially prolonged beyond five hours.

Appeal dismissed with costs.

Judicial Separation—Cruelty of Wife—Permanent Alimony—20 & 21 Vict. c. 85, s. 17.

Appeal from Jeune, J., who made an order for permanent alimony for a wife against whom a decree for judicial separation had been made on the ground of her cruelty to her husband. The application was opposed on the ground that the Court had no jurisdiction to make such an order when the decree for separation had been made on account of the wife's misconduct. Inderwick, Q.C., and Pritchard, for the husband, who appealed.

Priestley, for the wife.

KAY, L.J., delivered the judgment of the Court (Lindley, Bowen, and Kay, L.J.J.). After reviewing the authorities, he said that the 17th section of the 20 & 21 Vict. c. 85, contemplated cases where the decree was made at the suit of the wife, and where the order for alimony was made in the decree for judicial separation; but it did not negative or take away the jurisdiction of the Court to grant alimony where the decree for separation was made at the suit of the husband. It left unaffected the power of granting alimony in a case of judicial separation if the Ecclesiastical Courts had power to do so under the old practice. The Court saw no reason to doubt that the Ecclesiastical Courts had jurisdiction to grant permanent alimony in a case like the present, and they could not construe the Divorce Act as depriving the Divorce Court of a like jurisdiction. The appeal must, therefore, be dismissed.

License for Sale of Intoxicating Liquors—Renewal of License—Notice of Intention to oppose—Service of Notice—Licensing Act, 1872 (35 & 36 Vict. c. 94), s. 42.

Application for a rule nisi for a mandamus to the Glamorgan-shire Quarter Sessions to hear and determine an application for a renewal of a license. The applicant applied at the last general annual licensing meeting for a renewal of his license. Objection being taken to such renewal, it was contended on behalf of the applicant that the justices had no jurisdiction to entertain the objection, because there had not been personal service by the objector of notice of intention to oppose.

renewal of the license. The justices overruled this contention, and, having heard evidence in opposition to the renewal, refused to renew the license. The applicant appealed to the quarter sessions, one of the grounds of appeal being that the justices had no jurisdiction to entertain the objection because there had been no personal service of the notice of intention to oppose. The facts with regard to service of the notice were these. It appeared that a written notice of intention to oppose the renewal had been left by the party opposing with a boy on the licensed premises, and the magistrates came to the conclusion on the evidence that it had come to the hands of the applicant in due time.

The Sessions, after going into the objection, affirmed the refusal to renew the license. The applicant thereupon applied to the Divisional Court (Mathew and A. L. Smith, JJ.) for a mandamus as above, which was refused.

The 42nd section of the Licensing Act, 1872, provides in substance that the licensing justices shall not entertain any objection to a renewal of a license, unless written notice of an intention to oppose such renewal has been "served on the holder" of the license not less than seven days before the commencement of the general annual licensing meeting.

James Paterson, for the applicant, moved as above by way of appeal from the Queen's Bench Division, and contended that the section required personal service on the holder of the license, and therefore the service was insufficient.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., Fry, L.J., and Lopes, L.J.) held that the service of the notice was sufficient, and refused the application.

Married Woman—Action on Covenant by—Money brought into Court under Order XIV.—Right of successful Plaintiff to Money so brought in.

Appeal from refusal of Charles, J., to order payment out of Court to the plaintiff of a sum of 500*l.* The facts were as follows:—The action was upon a covenant by the defendant for payment of a sum of money. At the time when the covenant was entered into the defendant was a married woman and was possessed of separate property not subject to any restraint on anticipation. When sued she had become a widow. An application being made by the plaintiff under Order XIV. for leave to sign judgment, it was ordered that the defendant should have leave to defend on bringing into court the sum of 500*l.* The defendant accordingly paid that sum into court. At the trial before the learned judge, without a jury, judgment was given for the plaintiff; but the judge directed an inquiry whether the defendant had separate property available in anticipation, and directed that the money should remain in court pending the inquiry.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., Fry, L.J., and Lopes, L.J.)

Principal and Agent—Purchase by, and Conveyance to, Agent—Denial of Agency—Statute of Frauds, s. 7.

This was an appeal from a decision of Kekewich, J. ([1891] 1 Ch. 384; Weekly Notes, 1890, 199).

The plaintiff complained that he had appointed the defendant by parol to bid for him at the sale of a house by auction, and that the defendant had taken the conveyance to himself, and refused to convey it to the plaintiff. The plaintiff asked for a declaration, that the defendant was his agent, and for an order that he should convey the house to the plaintiff. The defendant denied the agency, and pleaded the 4th section of the Statute of Frauds. Kekewich, J., held, that the 7th section of the Statute of Frauds would have been a good defence to the action if it had been pleaded; but held also, that the plaintiff had not proved that the defendant was his agent, and dismissed the action. The plaintiff appealed.

Clare, for the appellant.

Warmington, Q.C., and Upjohn, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Lindley, Bowen, and Kay, L.JJ.), without entering upon the question of the application of the Statute of Frauds, agreed with Kekewich, J., that the plaintiff had not succeeded in establishing the fact of agency, and dismissed the appeal.

Trade-mark—Fancy Word not in Common Use—Geographical Word—Symbolical Personage—Patents, Designs, and Trade Marks Act, 1888, s. 64, sub-s. 1 (c).

In 1886 the plaintiffs, soap manufacturers at Wakefield, registered under the Patents, Designs, and Trade Marks Act, 1888, as a new mark the word "Britannia" in Class 48, for perfumery and soap; they also registered in the same class two other trade-marks, consisting of representations of the symbolical personage Britannia, standing beside the lion, with a helmet on her head and a trident in her hand. The defendant manufactured and sold soap which he put up in boxes labelled "Britannia Bouquet." The plaintiffs commenced the above action to restrain the infringement of their registered trade marks, and now moved for an interim injunction.

The defendant also moved, under the Patents, Designs, and Trade Marks Act, 1888-8, to rectify the register, by striking out the trade-mark "Britannia" therefrom. The only question argued was, whether the word "Britannia" was, within sect. 64 of the Act of 1888, a distinctive fancy word not in common use.

*Byrne, Q.C., and Israel Davis, for the plaintiffs.
O. E. E. Jenkins, for the defendant.*

CHITTY, J., held, that the word "Britannia" ought to be taken in its primary sense as a geographical name; but that even if it were taken in its secondary sense as referring to a symbolical personage, it would not be a "fancy word" within the meaning of the term, as explained in In re Van Duzer's Trade-mark (34 Ch. Div. 623), and that for these reasons the word was not capable of being registered as a new trade-mark under the Act of 1888, and must be removed from the register. His Lordship, therefore, dismissed the plaintiffs' application, and directed them to pay the costs of both motions.

Will—Construction—Charitable Gift on continuing Condition—Retention of Fund in Court.

This was the further consideration of an action for the administration of the estate of a testatrix, who by her will (inter alia) bequeathed a sum of 1500*l.* "towards an endowment for a proposed Evangelical Church at Bournemouth, . . . provided conditions as laid down for Christ Church, Paignton, are carried out in every particular, which Colonel Wright (the sole executor of the will and the plaintiff in the action) fully understands, and under this stipulation alone is my executor empowered to pay it." The testatrix had in her lifetime contributed a similar sum of 1500*l.* towards the endowment of Christ Church, Paignton, and the Chief Clerk by his certificate found that one of the conditions on which the testatrix had made that gift was, "I make it an abiding condition that the black gown shall be worn in the pulpit, unless there shall be any alteration in the law rendering it illegal." The proposed church had been built, but it had not yet been consecrated. A district had been assigned and an incumbent appointed. The committee for the building of the church claimed the legacy.

Everitt, Q.C., and Morshead, for the plaintiff.

Brice, Q.C., and Dibdin, for the committee.

Cosens-Hardy, Q.C., and Vernon B. Smith, for the next-of-kin of the testatrix, contended that the condition as to the use of the black gown had not been, and could not be, performed, for it continued for all time. Moreover, the condition was illegal, for it would impose a fetter on the discretion of the incumbent, and might be contrary to the directions of the ordinary. The gift was, therefore, void.

Brice, in reply.

NORTH, J., held that the condition was not illegal. He could not see that it fettered the power of the incumbent; but, as the condition was a continuing one, his Lordship could not order the fund to be paid out. It must be carried over to a separate account, and, if the incumbent performed the condition, he would be entitled to the income. Liberty to apply would be reserved to him.

On the 4th of August, 1891, notice of motion was given by Alfred Waterworth to remove a trade-mark registered in the name of Samuel Dyson. The notice was served on the registered owner and the Registrar of Trade Marks. On the 4th of November, 1891, the applicant served notice of discontinuance of the proceedings on the respondents, purporting to do so under Order XXVI, r. 1.

Israel Davis, for the respondent Dyson:—The respondent asks for the costs of the motion as an abandoned motion. Order XXVI does not apply to an application to rectify the register of trade-marks.

Sebastian, for the applicant, contra.

NORTH, J.:—My own impression is that respondent could not have treated the notice of discontinuance as one under which he could have got his costs taxed under the rule. But it is by no means certain that he could, and I do not think he was wrong in coming here. The applicant has only himself to blame for having to pay the costs of to-day; for if he had written to the respondent Dyson and said he should have his costs, I have little doubt I should not have heard of the motion.

By the deed of settlement of the above-named company, which was constituted in 1825, the object and business of the company was defined to be "to grant and effect assurances on British and foreign ships and goods and merchandises at sea, and on freight, against the perils and dangers of the sea and all other marine risks, and to lend money on bottomry and respondentia." Under the powers of the Companies (Memorandum of Association) Act, 1890, the company passed a special resolution that the provisions of the deed of settlement should be altered so as to authorize the carrying on by the company of all or any of certain specified businesses in addition to the business authorized by the deed of settlement. The businesses so specified were all more or less connected with ships and maritime matters, but comprised (inter alia) the insurance of vessels against divers accidents; the insurance of persons and the proceeding on voyages and journeys against death, injury, accident, and sickness; and the insurance of property on land against fire and other risks covered in conjunction with sea or transit risks to or from the place or places of landing, storage, or deposition. The company now presented a petition for the confirmation of the proposed alterations. There was evidence showing that the classes of business specified in the resolution were such as were commonly transacted by marine insurance companies at the present day.

Warnington, Q.C., and Theobald, in support of the petition, referred to cases in which similar alterations had been sanctioned by the Vice-Chancellor of the Palatine Court of Lancaster and in Ireland in reference to other marine insurance companies.

KEKEWICH, J., referred to In re Foreign and Colonial Government Trust Company ([1891] 2 Ch. 395), and said that he should depart from the principle of the decision of Stirling, J., in that case if he sanctioned the proposed alterations except on the condition that the name of the company should be so altered that persons dealing with it might not be misled as to the nature of its objects and business. His Lordship, therefore, sanctioned the proposed alterations subject to the company bringing its name in such a way as might be approved of by him in Chambers.

Case tried before Collins, J., without a jury.

The action was brought by the plaintiffs for the recovery of land, of which they claimed possession as representatives of the allottee in severalty under an award of partition made in 1880 under the Inclosure Acts, 1845–1878. None of the parties to the partition proceedings had any interest in the land, and it was included in the schedule to their application and dealt with in the award by mistake. The defendants were in possession of the land, and had at the date of the award acquired a good title under the Statute of Limitations, having been in undisturbed possession since 1851. The partition was not made under an inclosure scheme; but, by the joint effect of the Inclosure Act Amendment Act, 1848, ss. 13 & 14, and the Commons Act, 1876, s. 33, sect. 105 of the Inclosure Act, 1845, is made applicable to partitions of land not the subject of inclosure, and by this section "every allotment, exchange, partition, direction, matter, and thing specified and set forth in such award shall be binding and conclusive on all persons whomsoever."

Sir H. Davey, Q.C., Asquith, Q.C., and T. V. Austin, for the plaintiffs, contended that they had acquired a parliamentary title under the award.

Channell, Q.C., and McIntyre, for the defendants, contended that the effect of sect. 105 was not to render awards of partition conclusive as to title, and that this award had been made without jurisdiction.

Appeal from county court in an interpleader issue.

On the 8th of May, 1891, the plaintiff commenced an action in the High Court against the defendant company to recover a sum of 54l. 12s. 11d. On the 26th of May, the defendants passed a resolution for their voluntary winding-up, and Gregson (the claimant) was appointed liquidator. On the same day the plaintiff recovered judgment in the above action and delivered a writ of fi. fa. to the sheriff. On the following day, the 27th of May, the sheriff entered into possession of goods of the defendants under the fi. fa. The liquidator, Gregson, having claimed the goods, the sheriff interpleaded, and on the application of the liquidator an issue was directed, which issue was remitted to the county court for trial. The county court judge held that the goods were the property of the liquidator as against the plaintiff. The plaintiff appealed.

Charterparty—"Lawful Merchandize"—Evidence of Usage.

Case tried before Charles, J., without a jury.

The principal question raised in the action was as to the construction of the words "lawful merchandize" in a charterparty made in London for a shipment from a port in Ceylon to Havre or London. The charterers put ordnance stores on board the vessel, and the shipowners claimed that this was a breach of the charterparty, for which the charterers were liable to damages.

Bernes, Q.C., and F. W. Hollams, for the defendants.

Evidence was given that by usage the meaning of "lawful merchandize" in such an instrument was confined to goods ordinarily shipped from the port of loading.

CHARLES, J., held that the usage was proved, and, as it appeared that ordnance stores were not usually shipped from Ceylon, decided the point in favour of the shipowners.

Ex parte MARDON.

Bankruptcy—Practice—Abandoned Appeal—Form of Order—Leave to Withdraw or Dismissal.

This was an appeal by a creditor against an order made by

Mr. Registrar Hope, discharging a warrant which had been issued for the arrest of the debtor. The debtor had since gone abroad, and the appellant desired to abandon his appeal, and it was admitted that he must pay the costs of it. The only question was, whether the order should give him leave to withdraw his appeal, or whether it should be in form a dismissal of the appeal with costs.

Ringwood, for the appellant, asked for leave to withdraw the appeal. He said that the debtor had commenced an action against the appellant for malicious prosecution, and it would prejudice the appellant's case before the jury if it should appear that his appeal had been dismissed.

J. G. Witt, for the debtor, was not heard.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and Lopes and Kay, L.JJ.) held that according to the practice the proper form of order was a dismissal of the appeal with costs. This could not prejudice the appellant; for, if the jury were told that the appeal had been dismissed, they could also be told that it had been dismissed on his application and with his consent, without the merits being gone into.

ALEXANDER PIRIE & SONS v. GOODALL.

Trade-mark—Validity—Fancy Words—"Distinctive Brand"—46 & 47 Vict. c. 57, ss. 64 (a), 74.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vaughan Williams, J. sitting as an additional judge of the Chancery Division (ante, p. 99).

The action was for the infringement of the plaintiffs' registered trade-mark for paper and envelopes. The trade-mark consisted of the words "Pirie's Parchment Bank," which was used as a water-mark on a particular class of their paper. The defendants denied the validity of the plaintiffs' trade-mark on the ground that the words "Parchment Bank" were common to the trade, and could not be registered as a trade-mark, and they accordingly applied that the trade-mark might be removed from the register. Mr. Justice Vaughan Williams held that the words, whether separate or in combination, were not "fancy words," and that the mark could not be registered either as an ordinary trade-mark or as "brand" under the 46 & 47 Vict. c. 57, s. 64 (c). He therefore ordered the trade-mark to be removed from the register. The plaintiffs appealed.

Moulton, Q.C., and Willis Bund, appeared for the appellants. Covens-Hardy, Q.C., and E. S. Ford, for the respondents, were not called on.

THE COURT (Lindley, Bowen, and Fry, L.JJ.) agreed with the learned judge in the Court below, and dismissed the appeal.

WILLIAM RADAM'S MICROBE KILLER COMPANY v. LEATHER.
Practice—Appeal—New Trial—Assessment of Damages before

Under-Sheriff and Jury—Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1890 (53 & 54 Vict. c. 44), s. 1.

In an action in the Queen's Bench Division, brought by the plaintiff company to recover damages for the alleged negligence and improper conduct of the defendant as managing director of the company, the defendant did not appear to the writ of summons, and upon a writ of inquiry to the under-sheriff of Middlesex, the plaintiffs' damages were assessed by the jury at one farthing.

The plaintiff now applied to the Court of Appeal, by way of appeal from the inquiry and assessment before the under-sheriff and jury, for a new writ of inquiry and assessment, on the ground that the damages given were not enough.

J. E. Palmer, for the defendant, took the preliminary objection that the inquiry and assessment of damages before the under-sheriff and jury did not constitute a trial of "any cause or matter, or of any issue therein with a jury, in the High Court," within the meaning of the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1890, s. 1, and therefore that the application for a new trial ought not to be made to the Court of Appeal in the first instance, but should have been made to a Divisional Court.

He referred to Pritchard v. Pritchard (14 Q. B. D. 55)

McLaren, for the plaintiffs, was not heard on the preliminary objection.

LORD ESHER, M.R. We decide that, where there has been a trial before the under-sheriff and a jury in a cause which is a cause in the High Court, if fault be found with the verdict of the jury, the case must come here on appeal, and not go to a Divisional Court.

Q. B. D. GRANT v. ANDERSON & Co. Nov 18.

Practice—Writ—Action against Scotch Firm—Issue of Writ for Service within Jurisdiction—Order XLVIII. A, rr. 1, 3.

The defendants were a firm of woollen manufacturers carrying on business in Glasgow, all the partners of which firm were domiciled and resident in Scotland. They employed one M'Callum, as their agent in London, to procure orders for them on commission; and for that purpose M'Callum rented an office in Milk Street, Cheapside, the rent of which he paid. His sole business was that of selling the defendants' goods. He had, however, no power to conclude any contracts between the defendants and their customers; but it was his duty on receipt of any orders to remit them to Glasgow for instructions. The plaintiffs gave to M'Callum an order for goods, which order was remitted by him to Glasgow, and accepted by the defendants there. The action was brought for breach of that contract.

The plaintiffs obtained the issue of a writ for service within the jurisdiction, and caused it to be served upon M'Callum at his office in Milk Street, as being the person having the management of the partnership business there, under Order XLVIII. A, r. 3. The defendants moved to set aside the issue and service of the writ.

W. S. Robson, for the defendants.

Asquith, Q.C., and Kenelm Digby, for the plaintiffs.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., and Wright, J.) held, first, that upon the above facts the defendants could not be said to "carry on business at a place within the jurisdiction" within the meaning of Order XLVIII. A, rr. 1, 3; and secondly, that, even if they could, the service was bad, for that Order must be read as subject to the decision of Russell v. Cambefort (23 Q. B. D. 526), and not as intended to overrule it.

Writ and service set aside.

Practice—County Court—Refusal of County Court Judge to grant New Trial—Appeal to High Court—County Courts Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43), s. 120.

Appeal of the defendant from the refusal of the judge of the Axminster County Court to grant a new trial of the action. The trial was on the 6th of July, 1891, and the defendant did not within twenty-one days appeal to the High Court against the judgment, but subsequently gave notice of motion before the county court judge for a new trial, which motion was heard on the 15th of August, and refused by the learned judge.

Lumley Smith, Q.C., and Hon. B. Coleridge, for the plaintiff, took the preliminary objection that no appeal lay, and cited the dictum in How v. London & North Western Railway Company ([1891] 2 Q. B. 496, at p. 500).

E. M. Bray, and T. Willes Chitty, for the defendant, relied on Dingor v. Matthews (88 L. T. Journ. 139).

THE COURT (Mathew and A. L. Smith, JJ.) were of opinion that they were bound by the decision in Dingor v. Matthews, and that there was a right of appeal from the refusal of the county court judge to grant a new trial.

Objection overruled.

Probate. IN THE GOODS OF MARY LEY. Nov. 10.

Where the executrix and sole legatee of a will had disappeared fifteen years before the death of the testatrix and had not since been heard of, the Court made a grant of administration with the will annexed to the next-of-kin of testatrix.

Mary Ley died in 1866, leaving a duly executed will by which she appointed her illegitimate daughter, Sarah Handforth, her sole executrix and residuary legatee. Sarah Handforth was supposed to have left this country in the year 1850, and had never been heard of since. The sole next-of-kin of Mary Ley at the time of her death were three nieces, the daughters of an only sister. Her estate consisted of a sum of 267*l.* standing to her credit in the Devon and Exeter Savings Bank, and a sum of 120*l.* in Consols. It being necessary to obtain a personal representative to her estate, Elizabeth Perry, one of her three nieces, expressed her willingness to take a grant, and the Solicitor to the Treasury having intimated that it was not his intention to take any steps on behalf of the Crown to obtain representation, a citation was issued calling on Sarah Handforth to accept or refuse probate, or to shew cause why letters of administration with the will annexed should not be granted to Elizabeth Perry. This was advertised in various newspapers, and no appearance having been entered,

Searle, now moved, with the consent of the other next-of-kin, for a grant of administration with the will annexed to Mrs. Perry.

THE COURT made the grant as prayed.

 FLETCHER v. LONDON AND NORTH WESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

Motion for New Trial—Power of Judge to non-suit Plaintiff—Non-suit without hearing Plaintiff's Evidence, and without Consent of Plaintiff's Counsel.

Motion by the plaintiff for a new trial.

At the trial, Wright, J., after hearing the plaintiff's counsel state the case which he expected to prove, and without hearing the evidence, non-suited the plaintiff, without the consent of his counsel, and in spite of his insisting that he ought to be allowed to call his witnesses.

Kennedy, Q.C., and Mansfield, for the plaintiff.

Ambrose, Q.C., and L. Sanderson, for the defendants.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and Lopes and Kay, L.JJ.) held, that there must be a new trial, on the ground that a judge has no power to non-suit a plaintiff without the consent of his counsel, when he has not heard the plaintiff's evidence, but has only heard his counsel's statement of his case.

Probate. IN THE GOODS OF SUTTON. Nov. 3.

Where an Administration Bond had been sent back to Sydney to be re-executed, the Court allowed it to be received, although the re-execution and the original oath had not been sworn before the same Commissioner.

Application was made for a grant of administration to the estate of John Alexander Sutton, late of Sydney, New South Wales, deceased.

The administration bond was sent out to Sydney and there executed by John Alwick Nutt, and two sureties, in the presence of Mr. R. W. Robbins, a commissioner of the Supreme Court for taking oaths. The bond purported to be given to Sir James Hannen, the President of the Probate, Divorce, and Admiralty Division; but when it was received in this country, on the 25th of May, Sir James Hannen had ceased to be President, and Sir C. P. Butt had become President in his place. It was then sent back to Sydney and re-executed by the same persons in the name of Sir C. P. Butt, in the presence of Mr. F. B. Wilkinson, a commissioner for taking oaths. The registrar, however, refused to receive the bond on the ground that the oath and the bond had not been sworn before the same person.

G. Murray, now moved that the bond be received, and referred to In the Goods of Parker (Law Rep. 1 P. & D. 301).

JEUNE, J., granted the motion, and ordered the bond to be received.

COURT OF APPEAL

From Ch. Div. Nov. 23
LONDON, CHATHAM, AND DOVER RAILWAY COMPANY v. SOUTH EASTERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

Interest—Railway Companies—Contract as to Joint Traffic—Monthly Balances.

This was an appeal from a decision of Kekewich J. (ante, p. 70). An agreement had been made between the two above-named companies in respect of joint traffic, and it was provided that monthly accounts should be exchanged between the two companies and verified, and that after a fixed period the balances from time to time appearing by such exchanged accounts should be paid. Disputes having arisen between the companies as to the construction of this agreement, an action was brought, and it was referred to an official referee to take the accounts. The referee allowed interest at 5 per cent. in respect of unpaid balances. His report was objected to on the ground (inter alia) that the balances were not sums certain payable at a time certain so as to carry interest under the statute 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 42, s. 28; and further, that if payable at all, the interest should be at 4 per cent. only. Kekewich, J., held that the case was within the statute, and that interest was payable on the balances; and he refused to make any alteration in the general rule as to the rate of interest payable. From this decision the defendant company appealed.

Sir E. Clarke, S.G., W. Willis, Q.C., Seward Brice, Q.C., and C. T. Mitchell, appeared for the appellants.

Sir H. Davey, Q.C., Haldane, Q.C., and Levett, Q.C., for the plaintiff company.

LINDLEY, L.J., after carefully reviewing the authorities, said that under the agreement no sum could become payable, and therefore no interest could arise, till the accounts were not only exchanged but verified, if the delay in verification took place through the default of the plaintiff company. He was of opinion, on the evidence, that the plaintiffs had been in default in not verifying the accounts which had been exchanged, and therefore they could not ask the Court to treat the accounts as if they had been verified. Therefore, no interest could be claimed on balances which might be found due. The order of Kekewich, J., must therefore be varied, and the report of the official referee must be referred back to him.

BOWEN and KAY, L.J.J., gave judgment to the same effect.

In re NORTH AUSTRALIAN TERRITORY COMPANY.

Company—Director—Liability—Qualification—Indemnity—Insurance against Loss—Promoter—Contract between Director and Promoter—Misfeasance—Companies Act, 1862, s. 165.

Appeal from Kekewich, J.

In 1887, A. being requested by S., one of the promoters of a projected company and a friend and agent of the vendor to the company, to become a director, agreed to do so upon an undertaking by S., contained in a letter from him to A., that if he, A., should at any time desire to part with the shares which he would have to take in order to qualify him as a director, A. would purchase them from him at the price he should pay for them. Accompanying that letter was a second from S. to A., suggesting that A. should say nothing about the undertaking, as it was a private arrangement between them. The company was subsequently formed and A. became a director, took the qualifying shares—fifty shares of 10*l.* each—and paid the 500*l.* for them out of his own pocket, and from time to time acted as director. In 1888 A. resigned his office as director, and shortly afterwards S., at his request, paid him the 500*l.* which he had originally paid for the shares, and accepted a transfer of them. At that time the company's shares had become practically valueless.

In 1889 resolutions were passed for the voluntary winding-up of the company, and in February, 1890, a supervision order was made.

In the winding-up the liquidators took out a summons under sect. 165 of the Companies Act, 1862, to compel A. to make good the 500*l.* received by him from S. There was no evidence that A. had made any disclosure of the undertaking to his co-directors. It was admitted that A. knew of the relations between S. and the vendor.

Kekewich, J., dismissed the summons on the ground that the company had not proved that they had suffered any loss in consequence of the undertaking given by S. to A.

The liquidators appealed.

Warrington, Q.C., and C. E. E. Jenkins, for the liquidators. Renshaw, Q.C., and Butcher, for A.

THE COURT (Lindley, Bowen, and Fry, L.J.J.) held, the principle governing the case was that stated by Mellish, L.J., in Hay's Case (Law Rep. 10 Ch. 593, 601), namely, that an agent could not, without the knowledge and consent of his principal, be allowed to make any profit out of his agency beyond his proper remuneration, and that the rule applied with peculiar stringency to a director of a joint stock company who was in the position of an agent for the company. It could not be said that a bargain of the kind complained of was justifiable as between a director and a promoter and one to which sect. 165 did not apply. It was true that the company, having got the 500*l.* for the shares, had not lost anything upon them in one sense, but the indemnity given to A. when he took and paid for the shares was a valuable consideration: though not money, it was money's worth, and the value of it was the property of the company. The indemnity belonged to them, not to A., their director and agent, and the money received under it ought to have been accounted for by him to them. His failure so to account constituted a "misfeasance" within the section. The appeal must, therefore, be allowed.

Bankruptcy—Bankruptcy Notice—"Final Judgment"—Judgment in Partnership Action—Account and Inquiry Directed—Order for Payment of Costs up to Trial—Bankruptcy Act, 1883, s. 4, sub-s. 1 (g).

Appeal by the debtor against a receiving order made by Mr. Registrar Giffard.

The act of bankruptcy alleged in the petition was the failure of the debtor to comply with a bankruptcy notice which Lindoe, the petitioning creditor, had served on him in respect of a sum of 123*l.* 4*s.*, which was the amount of some taxed costs due by the debtor under a judgment in an action brought against him by Lindoe in the Chancery Division. The debtor and Lindoe had been partners. By his statement of claim in the action Lindoe claimed that the partnership might be dissolved as from the day on which the writ was issued, and that the proper accounts and inquiries might be taken and made. The debtor, by his statement of defence, alleged that the partnership had been determined by him at an earlier date, and counter-claimed to have the accounts of the partnership taken as on that date, and judgment by the plaintiff accordingly. By the judgment at the trial of the action the Court declared that the partnership ought to stand dissolved as from the day on which the writ was issued; and it was ordered that an account should be taken of all dealings and transactions between the plaintiff and the defendant as co-partners, and an inquiry made of what the partnership property consisted; and it was ordered that the amount due from either of the parties to the other should be ascertained accordingly. The defendant's counter-claim was dismissed, and it was ordered that the defendant should pay to the plaintiff his taxed costs of the action up to and including the trial, including his costs of the counter-claim. The subsequent proceedings were reserved, and liberty to apply was given. The plaintiff's costs were taxed at 123*l.* 4*s.*, and in respect of the amount the bankruptcy notice was issued.

Wolf, Q.C., and Germaine, for the debtor, argued that the order for payment of costs was not a "final judgment" within the meaning of sect. 4, sub-sect. 1 (g) of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883. That order was only part of a judgment which was not final, because the action would have to come back to the Court after the account had been taken, and the inquiry made. This distinguished the case from Ex parte Moore (14 Q. B. D. 627).

J. K. Hamilton, for the creditor, was not called upon.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and Lopes and Kay, L.J.J.) dismissed the appeal.

LORD ESHER, M.R., thought that the case was governed by Ex parte Moore. Several matters were in dispute between the parties, and North, J., separated one of them—the question at what date the partnership was determined—from the others, and made a declaration respecting it, and he directed that the defendant should pay the costs of the action up to the trial. He did not reserve the question of those costs, or stay the taxation, but he made an out-and-out order that the costs should be paid by the defendant as soon as they had been taxed. That was a "final judgment," for it had not to come back to the Court. There was nothing to be done but to tax the costs, and, when they were taxed, the judgment would become absolutely final, and execution could be issued upon it, and it would support a bankruptcy notice.

LOPES, L.J., and KAY, L.J., concurred.

CUMBERLAND UNION BANKING COMPANY v. MARYPORT HEMATITE IRON AND STEEL COMPANY.

Practice—Order for Sale of Property—Jurisdiction—Sale altogether out of Court—Declaration as to Parties Interested—Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order LI., r. 1A.

Motion for judgment.

The action was brought by mortgagees of leasehold properties belonging to the defendants to realize those securities, and also some debentures issued by the defendant company, of which the plaintiffs were the holders, by foreclosure or sale. No other debentures had been issued. The defendant company had resolved on a voluntary winding-up, and a supervision order had been made. The motion was set down as a short cause. The plaintiffs asked for judgment according to minutes which had been prepared. The minutes provided for the taking of an account of what was due to the plaintiffs in respect of their securities, and that, the defendant company consenting, the real and personal property comprised in the securities should be sold by the plaintiffs out of court, the reserved biddings and the remuneration of the auctioneer to be fixed by the judge, and that the money to arise from the sale should be paid into court by the plaintiffs.

The minutes were not prefaced with the declaration, which is required by rule 1A of Order LI. when the proceedings are altogether out of court, that the judge is satisfied that all persons interested in the estate to be sold are before the Court, or are bound by the order for sale.

Cozens-Hardy Q.C., and E. Page, for the plaintiffs, submitted that it was not necessary to insert the above declaration, because the proceedings were not to be altogether out of court. They said that a previous order had been made by North, J., in this action in the same form as the minutes now proposed, the declaration in question being omitted.

J. G. Wood, for the defendants.

Nov. 21. CHITTY, J., thought that there was jurisdiction to direct a sale in the mode proposed, and said that he would follow the precedent of the prior order, and omit the declaration.

Nov 28. At the desire of the judge, the case was placed in the paper again to be mentioned.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and E. Page, for the plaintiffs.

J. G. Wood, for the defendants.

CHITTY, J., said that he found that the previous order had been made, not by North, J., but by the Vacation Judge in Chambers. His Lordship had also ascertained that Kekewich, J., in making a similar order for sale in another case, had directed the Registrar to insert the declaration, thus treating the sale as one altogether out of court. It was important that the practice should be uniform, and therefore, without binding himself for the future, he should follow the precedent of the order of Kekewich, J., the form of which was to be found in Seton on Decrees (5th edit.), vol. i. p. 288. There was a great deal to be said in favour of the contrary view, and he should like to consider the point with the other judges.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., said that all the parties interested were in fact before the Court, and there was evidence proving that.

Bankruptcy—Official Receiver the Trustee—No Committee of Inspection—Employment of Solicitor—Taxation of Costs—The Bankruptcy Act, 1883, ss. 22 sub-s. 9, 57 sub-ss. 3, 10—The Bankruptcy Rules, 1886, rr. 117, 337.

In this case the official receiver was the trustee without a committee of inspection, and he employed Messrs. Hatchett Jones & Co., a firm of solicitors, to do certain work connected with the bankruptcy. The bankrupt's debts were subsequently paid in full and the bankruptcy was annulled. The official receiver approved the bill of costs sent in by the solicitors, and when they came to be taxed the bankrupt attended before the taxing master and objected to several items on the ground that the solicitors were not duly authorized as required by sect. 57 (sub-sects. 3, 10) of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, to do the work charged for, and that no proper authority sanctioning the employment of the solicitors was produced. The taxing master overruled the objection, being of opinion that, as the official receiver was trustee and committee of inspection, the authority given by him from time to time to the solicitors was a sufficient compliance with the section. The matter was then referred to the judge.

Sidney Woolf, Q.C., and Ringwood, for the bankrupt.

Muir Mackenzie, for the solicitors.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., held, that when the official receiver is trustee without a committee of inspection, he is in the same position as any other trustee appointed by creditors, and must, when proceeding under sect. 57 of the Act and rule 117, obtain the direct authority of the Board of Trade for the act proposed to be done. In the present case it was said that the authority, had been given. That being so, the matter might stand over for production of the necessary authority.

Practice—Appeal from County Court to Divisional Court—Amount decreed due under 50l.—Admiralty Jurisdiction—County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868 (31 & 32 Vict. c. 71), s. 31—County Courts Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43), s. 120.

By sect. 31 of the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868 (31 & 32 Vict. c. 71), "No appeal shall be allowed unless the amount decreed or ordered to be due exceeds the sum of fifty pounds."

By sect. 120 of the County Courts Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43), the party aggrieved by the judgment, direction, decision, or order of a county court judge, in point of law or equity, may appeal to the High Court.

An action for breach of a charterparty entered into by the plaintiffs, the owners of the steamship Eden, with the defendants, Alexander A. Adams & Co. as agents for charterers, was tried on the 6th of March, 1891, before the judge of the County Court of Durham holden at Hartlepool, and resulted in a decree that the plaintiffs were only entitled to nominal damages to wit, one shilling, and costs.

The plaintiffs appealed to the Probate, Divorce, and Admiralty Division (Admiralty) of the High Court.

The defendants took the preliminary objection that, as the amount decreed did not exceed the sum of 50l., the appeal could not be heard.

F. W. Raikes, for the plaintiffs, contended that there was right of appeal under sect. 120 of the County Courts Act, 1888 and referred to the decision in The Hero ([1891] P. 294).

J. P. Aspinall, for the defendants, relied on the express words of sect. 31 of the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868, and the expression of opinion of Butt, J., in The Cashmere (15 P. D. 121).

Held, by the DIVISIONAL COURT (Sir Charles Butt, President and Jeune, J.), that the appeal could be heard, as the language of sect. 120 of the County Courts Act, 1888, was general in terms, and therefore included an appeal from a final judgment of a county court judge in an Admiralty action.

Preliminary objection overruled, and appeal heard on the merits.

COURT OF APPEAL

From Ch. Div. WHITLEY v. CHALLIS. Dec. 2.

Receiver and Manager—Mortgage of Hotel by the Hotel-keeper.

C. being tenant, under a building agreement, of premises on which he was about to erect an hotel, signed, in December, 1888, an agreement by which he charged the building agreement, "and all the premises comprised therein and the hotel or buildings to be hereafter erected as aforesaid, and the lease so to be granted as aforesaid," with the payment to W. of 75*l.* 10*s.*, and interest, subject to such prior incumbrance as therein mentioned, and agreed that he would procure the lease, and then forthwith make and execute to W. a valid second mortgage "of the premises comprised in such lease," and that such mortgage "shall be in such form and contain such powers, and provisions as the solicitor or counsel of the said W. shall advise or require."

In 1891 W. commenced an action for foreclosure or sale, asking for a receiver. The defendant was carrying on his business as an innkeeper on the premises.

The plaintiff moved for the appointment of a receiver to receive the rents and profits of the premises, and to manage the same premises. On the 6th day of November, 1891, Mr. Justice Kekewich made an order appointing a person to receive the rents of the premises, and "to manage the business of the hotel carried on upon the said premises." The defendant appealed from so much of this order as appointed the receiver to manage the business.

Mickletham, for the appeal.

Marten, Q.C., and Butcher, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Lindley, Bowen, and Fry, L.JJ.) allowed the appeal, holding that the security was only on the land and buildings, and was not extended by the clause as to previous covenants and provisions, and that as the business was neither expressly nor by implication included in the plaintiff's security, a manager of it could not be appointed.

Practice—Writ—Action against Scotch Firm—Issue of Writ for Service within the Jurisdiction—Order XLVIII. (a), rr. 1, 2.

Appeal from the judgment of the Queen's Bench Division, reported ante, p. 182, where the facts are stated.

A writ of summons in the ordinary form for service within the jurisdiction was issued against the defendants, a Scotch firm, the members of which were domiciled and resident in Scotland, in the name of their firm, and was served at an office in Milk Street, Cheapside, alleged to be the defendants' place of business in London, upon a person alleged to have the management of such business there, under Order XLVIII. (a), r. 2.

The Divisional Court held, on the facts, that the defendants could not be said to carry on business at a place within the jurisdiction within the meaning of Order XLVIII. (a), rr. 1, 2; and secondly, that, even if they could, the service was bad, because Order XLVIII. (a) must be read as subject to the decision in Russell v. Cambefort (23 Q. B. D. 526), and not as intended to overrule it. They, therefore, set aside the writ and service.

Asquith, Q.C., and Kenelm Digby, for the plaintiffs.

W. S. Robson, for the defendants.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and Kay, L.J.) affirmed the decision of the Divisional Court on the ground that upon the facts the defendants could not be said to carry on business or to have a place of business in London, and therefore Order XLVIII. (a), rr. 1, 2, did not apply, and the writ and service were bad; but expressed no opinion on the second point, viz., whether, if they had come to the opposite conclusion on the facts, Order XLVIII. (a), rr. 1, 2, would have applied to the case of a foreign firm.

Appeal dismissed.

JONES v. MERIONETHSHIRE PERMANENT BENEFIT BUILDING SOCIETY.Contract—Validity—Public Policy—Stifling Prosecution.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vaughan Williams, J. (1891] 2 Ch. 587, ante p. 108).

Cadwaladr, who was the secretary of the defendant building society, misappropriated various sums received by him as such secretary on behalf of the society. In order to induce the directors not to prosecute him, the plaintiffs, who were Cadwaladr's mother-in-law and brother-in-law, gave two promissory notes for part of the sum due, and also a deposit of title-deeds, as a collateral security. Cadwaladr having died, the society brought an action at law against the present plaintiffs on the promissory notes, to which they pleaded that the notes were given for an illegal consideration, namely, for the purpose of stifling the prosecution of Cadwaladr. The plaintiffs then brought the present action against the society to cancel the notes and to set aside the deposit of title-deeds on the same grounds. The action at law was transferred to the Chancery Division, and both actions were tried together.

Vaughan Williams, J., held that there was an implied agreement not to prosecute, and declared both the promissory notes and deposit to be invalid.

The defendants appealed.

Beid, Q.C., Haldane, Q.C., and Rawlins, for the appellants.
Jelf, Q.C., and H. Terrell, for the plaintiffs.

LINDLEY, L.J., said that two actions had been brought—one at law to enforce payment of the promissory notes, and the other in the Chancery Division to have those notes cancelled and the deposit of deeds set aside—and these actions had been ordered to be tried together in the Chancery Division. Mr. Justice Vaughan Williams had decided that the notes and deposit were invalid, and the substantial question was whether that was right. It was desirable to refer to the different kinds of proof required to enable the plaintiffs to protect themselves from payment in an action at law upon the notes and to enable them to succeed in an equitable action to set aside the notes. In an action at law where the defence depended on the ground of illegality it was essential to prove an agreement not to prosecute; a mere expectation that there would be no prosecution was not sufficient. That was laid down in Wallace v. Hardacre (1 Camp. 45), and that decision had been followed down to the present time. But if an action was brought in a Court of Equity a plaintiff was not entitled to succeed on the ground of the illegality of his own conduct. In order to obtain relief in such an action he was bound to prove pressure or undue influence. That principle was illustrated by the cases of Osbaldiston v. Simpson (23 Sim. 513) and Williams v. Bayley (Law. Rep. 1 H. L. 200). Here there was no proof of pressure or undue influence, and but for the order by which the Common Law action was transferred to the Chancery Division and the two actions were directed to be tried together the plaintiffs would have failed. But as the case now stood, the real question was, Was there an agreement not to prosecute? Upon the findings of the learned Judge below, it was impossible to avoid the conclusion, not only that the promissory notes and deposit were given in the expectation that there would be no prosecution, but also that they were given for the express purpose of inducing the directors not to prosecute. This involved an implied term or condition that they should not prosecute, and the directors took the notes with knowledge that they were offered for this purpose, and without intimating that they did not take them on the implied term or condition that they were not to prosecute. The offer thus accepted amounted to a real, though tacit, agreement not to prosecute. The appeal must therefore be dismissed; but having regard to the fact that the plaintiffs would not have succeeded but for the order consolidating the Common Law action with the Chancery action, and having regard to the extremely discreditable character of the defence set up by the plaintiffs, the appeal would be dismissed without costs.

BOWEN, L.J., concurred. With regard to the question of pressure or undue influence, his Lordship was not satisfied that, if the learned Judge below was right in holding that there was a bargain to stifle a prosecution, it would not properly follow that there was undue influence exercised upon the delinquent and upon his friends. He desired to keep the point open.

McCLATCHIE v. HASLAM.

Dec. 5.

Contract—Validity—Public Policy—Stifling Prosecution.

This was an appeal from a decision of Kekewich, J. The plaintiff was the wife of W. P. McClatchie, who was formerly the secretary of a freehold land society, of which the defendants were trustees and directors. The defendants found McClatchie to be indebted to the society in 250*l.*, at least, for moneys belonging to the society which had been used by him in payment of his own debts. After some conversation between McClatchie and the defendants, the former said that his wife would give a security for the amount due upon an annuity and certain reversionary property to which she was entitled to her separate use. This she accordingly did by a deed executed by her and her husband and acknowledged before a commissioner. Mrs. McClatchie brought the present action to set aside the deed on the ground that it had been executed for an illegal consideration, namely, to stifle the intended prosecution of her husband, and under pressure and undue influence. Kekewich, J., decided in favour of the plaintiff, and the defendants appealed.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and Dundas Gardiner, for the appellants.
Haldane, Q.C., and J. G. Wood, for the plaintiff.

LINDLEY, L.J., said that the burden was on the plaintiff to prove pressure or undue influence. Mr. Justice Kekewich had decided in the plaintiff's favour, but he had not found as a fact that there was any pressure or undue influence exercised upon her. The learned Judge based his judgment upon an erroneous view of Williams v. Bayley (Law. Rep. 1 H. L. 200). In his Lordship's opinion the plaintiff had not discharged the burden which was cast upon her. The appeal must be allowed, and the action dismissed with costs;

BOWEN and FRY, L.J.J., gave judgment to the same effect.

Dec. 7.

Lunacy—Sale of Lunatic's Real Estate—Consideration—Perpetual Rent Charge—Lunacy Act, 1890 (53 Vict. c. 5), ss. 117, 120.

R. S. H. W., a person of unsound mind not so found by inquisition, was entitled to one thirty-sixth share of certain freehold property at Manchester. His co-owners had entered into a contract for the sale of such property in consideration of a perpetual yearly rent charge, divisible among the vendors according to their respective interests therein, and to be secured by covenants and a power of re-entry.

It was a term of the contract that the sanction of the Court should be obtained to it so far as it related to the share and interest of R. S. H. W., and the question was whether the Court could authorize the sale of a lunatic's estate in consideration of a rent charge. It appeared that sales in consideration of rent charges were not unusual in Manchester, that the sale was a beneficial one, and that if it was carried out the lunatic's income would be increased from 6*l.* 1*l.* 5*d.* to 7*l.* 4*s.* 5*d.*

The Lunacy Act, 1890 (53 Vict. c. 5), provides (sect. 117) that the judge may order "any property of the lunatic, whether present or future," to be sold . . . or disposed of as the judge thinks most expedient for the purpose of raising or securing or repaying . . . money which is to be, or which has been, applied to all or any of the purposes following . . . (d.) payment or provision for the expenses of his future maintenance. Sect. 120: "The judge may by order authorize and direct the committee of the estate of a lunatic to do all or any of the following things: (a) Sell any property belonging to the lunatic," &c.

E. P. Hewitt, in support of the application.

THE COURT (Lindley and Bowen, L.J.J.) said that the first duty of the Court was to consider what was for the benefit of the lunatic, and if it was for the benefit of the lunatic that his property should be sold in consideration of a rent charge, there was nothing in the section to cut down the power of sale; and they held, that, taking the 120th section together with the 117th section, there was no doubt that the Court had power to sanction this sale: and they sanctioned it accordingly.

In re BOWMAN.BOWMAN v. BOWMAN.

Will—Description of Legatee—Name—Evidence.

A testator who died in 1889 by his will, dated in 1874, gave residuary real and personal estate upon trust for W. Bowman, E. M. Lane, John Bowman, of Bradford, "Richard Bowman, William Bowman, and Edmund Bowman, sons of my late cousin William Bowman," and J. Nanson, in equal shares.

The testator's cousin, William Bowman, who was twice married, had by his first marriage eight children, one of whom was named "George Edmund Bowman," and by his second marriage six children, one of whom was named "Edward Allison Bowman."

George Edmund Bowman was born in 1841, and at and prior to the date of the will he was to the knowledge of the testator a lunatic in an asylum in Australia, where he still was. The chief question in the action was who was the person intended by the description "Edward Bowman, son of my late cousin William Bowman."

Beale, Q.C., and Grosvenor Woods, for Edward Allison Bowman, proposed to adduce evidence to prove that the testator always called Edward Allison Bowman "Edmund" and George Edmund Bowman "George."

Hastings, Q.C., and C. E. E. Jenkins, for George Edmund Bowman, contended that such evidence was inadmissible, and referred to Charter v. Charter (Law Rep. 7 H. L. 364).

MATHEW, J., held that the evidence was admissible, and at hearing it considered it clear that the testator intended Edward Allison Bowman to be his legatee, and made a declaration t

Edward Allison Bowman was the person entitled to the beneficial interest by the will given to Edmund Bowman.

JOHNSON v. EDGE.

Patent—Infringement—Action to Restrain Threats—Circular—General Notice—Prosecution of Action—Due Diligence—Patents, &c. Act, 1888 (46 & 47 Vict. c. 57), s. 32.

This was an action under sect. 32 of the Patents, &c. Act, 1883, for an injunction to restrain the defendant from threatening, by circulars, advertisements, or otherwise, any customers of the plaintiffs or any other person, with any legal proceeding or liability in respect of any manufacture, sale, or purchase of blue packed in bags and alleged to be so packed in infringement of the defendant's letters patent.

The plaintiffs and defendant were rival manufacturers of blue. The defendant was the patentee of certain patents for wrapping up blue in packages.

The defendant had issued (inter alia) the following circular to the customers of the plaintiffs and other persons: "Notice to grocers, &c. Information of extensive violation of Mr. Wm. Edge's patent rights has been received; all parties are warned not to infringe these rights. R. & R. C. Winder, solicitors, Bowker's Row, Bolton."

This circular was sent out in the boxes of blue supplied by the defendant, and it was also proved that he had issued other circulars in general terms threatening persons who bought other goods similar to his with legal proceedings. These circulars were first issued in or about September, 1890.

On the 11th of December, 1890, the defendant commenced an action against the plaintiffs to restrain them from fraudulently imitating his goods, but not seeking any relief in respect of infringement of his patents.

On the 16th of January, 1891, the plaintiffs issued their writ for this action.

On the 31st of January, 1891, the defendant amended his action against the plaintiffs by claiming an injunction restraining the plaintiffs from infringing his patents.

The defendant's patents were afterwards, at the instance of the plaintiffs, revoked.

The principal question in the present action was whether a general threat such as was contained in the circulars complained of was a sufficient cause of action under sect. 32.

Moulton, Q.C., and R. W. Wallace, for the plaintiffs.

Bousfield, Q.C., and T. L. Wilkinson, for the defendant, contended that to bring the case within sect. 32 there must be more than a mere general notice to all the world that a person had a patent and intended to protect it. There had been no case yet decided in which the mere issue of such a general notice had been held to afford a cause of action under sect. 32. The section was directed to a specific threat. They relied upon Ballender v. Boyle (36 Ch. D. 425) and Ungar v. Sugg (8 Rep. Cas. 385), and further contended that due diligence had been exercised in commencing and prosecuting an action within the proviso of the section. Upon this point they cited Colley v. Hart (44 Ch. D. 179).

MATHEW, J., said that the plaintiffs had brought themselves within the section. The circulars sent out by the defendant warned everybody who took the goods that the person taking them might find himself involved in liability for an infringement of the alleged patent rights if he bought other goods of a similar nature. That was what the section pointed at. His Lordship thought at first sight that the section was confined to persons to whom the threat was issued; but, when more closely examined, it was clear that it extended to any one who was aggrieved by the issue of the threat. The threat in this case was not general, but was directed to the persons to whom the circular was sent. It was not a general threat within the meaning of the decisions relied upon for the defendant. As to the proviso, his Lordship thought that the action, such as it was, was not prosecuted with due diligence, and that the defendant was driven to bring an action claiming for infringement of a patent in which there was reason to suppose he did not believe.

The plaintiffs had made out a prima facie case for an inquiry as to damages; and the defendant having undertaken not to issue the circulars any further, there would be the usual reference to one of the Official Referees.

Bousfield, Q.C., applied for a stay of the inquiry pending an appeal.

MATHEW, J., acceded to the application, and reserved the costs until he should hear the result of the inquiry.

WESTERN WAGON AND PROPERTY COMPANY v. WEST.

Equitable Assignment—Contract to advance Money—Notice—Breach of Contract—Damages—Judicature Act, 1873, s. 25, sub-s. 6.

By a deed of September, 1886, P. mortgaged freehold property to the defendants to secure 7,500*l.* and further advances up to 10,000*l.*; this deed contained an agreement by the defendants to make further advances.

By a deed of August, 1887, P. made a second mortgage of the same property to the plaintiff company, to secure 1,000*l.* and advances up to 2,500*l.*, and by this deed P. assigned to the plaintiff company his right under the agreement in the deed of September, 1886, to call for and require payment from the defendants of the further advance or advances therein mentioned not exceeding 2,500*l.* and the full benefit of the agreement.

The plaintiff company gave notice of their security to the defendants; but the defendants, in forgetfulness of this notice, subsequently made a further advance of 500*l.* to P.

The plaintiff company brought this action to recover from the defendants personally the sum of 500*l.* so paid by them to P.

Byrne, Q.C., and Maidlow, for the plaintiffs, relied on Brice v. Bannister (8 Q. B. D. 569), and further contended that, even if the plaintiff company was not entitled to recover the specific sum of 500*l.* they were at all events entitled under the assignment to recover damages for breach of contract, and that the measure of damages was the sum agreed to be lent.

Levett Q.C., and Onslow, for the defendants.

CHITTY, J., held, that inasmuch as the plaintiff company could not at any time—even before payment to P.—have obtained an order against the defendants compelling payment of the money direct to them, the agreement or contract to make a loan or further advances created no debt, and that on this ground Brice v. Bannister did not apply: that whether the assignment did or did not fall within sect. 25, sub-sect 6, of the Judicature Act, 1873, the plaintiff company could not sue for damages in their own right, but could only sue in the right of P., and that as P. had sustained no damage, the plaintiffs' claim failed on this point also; and the action must be dismissed with costs.

Land Registry — Registration of Purchaser with Indefeasible Title—Sale by Mortgagee under Statutory Power of Sale—Evidence that Power has arisen—Application to Court to direct Registration—25 & 26 Vict. c. 53, s. 17—Conveyancing Act, 1881, s. 21, sub-s. 2.

This was an originating summons by a purchaser of real estate, asking for a declaration that, under and by virtue of his conveyance, he was entitled in fee simple with an indefeasible title to the property therein comprised, and for a direction to the Registrar of the Land Registry to enter his name on the register accordingly.

The applicant had purchased the property from mortgagees thereof, who had sold under their statutory power of sale. The mortgage deed (executed in 1886) contained a proviso that the statutory power of sale should not be exercised until after the expiration of six calendar months from the service of notice upon the mortgagor by the mortgagees, or until some half yearly payment of interest should be in arrear unpaid for three calendar months.

The Registrar refused to enter the purchaser with an indefeasible title, on the ground that, by reason of the above-stated proviso in the mortgage deed, it must be shewn that the six months' notice had been served on the mortgagor, or that half a year's payment of interest was in arrear for three months. The purchaser relied on sub-sect. 2 of sect. 21 of the Conveyancing Act, 1881; but the Registrar answered that the section did not affect the proviso, because the statutory power did not arise until the notice required by the deed had been given, and a purchaser, having notice of this proviso, would be bound by it. The question was then referred to the Court, and the summons was issued. It was in the paper for hearing on the 30th of October, and North, J., then ordered it to stand over, that notice might be given to the mortgagor to appear.

An affidavit was made by the purchaser that at the date of his purchase he had no knowledge (nor had he such knowledge now) that the events mentioned in the proviso or either of them had not taken place. The solicitor of the trustees of the mortgagor's will (the mortgagor being dead) made an affidavit to the effect that, as solicitor for the trustees, he had received the usual notice from the Registrar, calling on them to state their objections (if any) to the proposed registration of the conveyance to the purchaser; but that, as he had no objection, he took no notice of the same. He added that, as solicitor for the trustees, he thereby consented to the registration of the conveyance.

T. Arnold Herbert, for the purchaser.

NORTH, J., said that the purchaser's affidavit was insufficient, for it only said that he had no knowledge; it did not say that he had no notice. But his Lordship thought that the affidavit of the solicitor was sufficient proof of the consent of the mortgagor's representatives to the registration. It was the duty of the Registrar to send notice to the mortgagor, and it must be assumed that he had done this. The solicitor must, therefore, have received the Registrar's notice from the trustees, and it might be assumed that he was authorized to consent on their behalf to the registration. The Registrar would, therefore, be directed to enter the applicant on the register as he asked. The Registrar must make a note that the entry was made by the order of the judge.

Company—Alteration of Memorandum of Association—Companies (Memorandum of Association) Act, 1890 (53 & 54 Vict. c. 62), s. 1, sub-s. 5, clause (d).

This was a petition by the above-named company for the sanction of the Court to a resolution whereby it was proposed to make extensive alterations in the company's memorandum of association, enabling the company to combine with its existing business other business of an independent though not of an unconnected character. It appeared (1) that the establishment of the new departments of business was induced by inquiries from the customers, and that it was believed that such establishment would result in trade profitable to the company; (2) that the Scotch Court of Session had confirmed alterations of the memorandum of association of another like company, substantially the same as those which the Court was now asked to approve; and (3) that at least two other like companies had memorandums of association embodying similar alterations, such companies having, as was stated, been formed by the process known as reconstruction.

Benshaw, Q.C., and R. F. Norton, for the petitioners.

KEKEWICH, J., held, upon the construction of sect. 1, sub-sect. 5, clause (d) of the Act of 1890, that the Legislature must have intended that the Court should regard as "convenient" and "advantageous" what experience and the opinions of traders reasonably shewed to be of that character. The three points above specified were all deserving of consideration; but without disparaging the first and second, he attributed the most weight to the third. It was impossible to resist the conclusion that in the view of men best qualified to form an opinion the proposed extension of business was to the advantage of the company. The proposed alteration might be sanctioned subject to certain amendments modifying provisions which transgressed the reasonable limit of combination, to the alteration of the name of the company so as to shew the extended nature of the business, and to an undertaking being given that the exte powers should not be exercised until either the present policy-holders had assented or their policies had expired; but in point of form the order would be for the petition to stand over with liberty to amend, so that the modifications might be authorized by the company and stated in the petition.

STEELE v. SAVORY.

Nov. 27.

Practice—Production of Documents—Writ of Subpoena Duces Tecum—Motion to Set Aside—Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order XXXVII., r. 10; Order LXX., r. 1.

This was a motion by Mr. Edward Trimmer, secretary to the Royal College of Surgeons, to set aside a writ of subpoena duces tecum, which had been issued by the plaintiffs in the action, and served upon him on the 6th day of November, 1891, on the ground that such writ was an abuse of the process of the Court. The motion also asked that the plaintiff might be ordered to pay the costs of the application.

The action was brought by the plaintiff Steele and others, as freemen and members of the Royal College of Surgeons, on behalf of themselves and all other members, against the president, vice-president, and members of the council of the college, claiming certain rights of access and user in respect of the hall of the college, and an injunction to restrain the defendants, their servants and agents, from closing the hall or buildings of the college on certain days, and also to restrain them from acting under by-law 17 in the college "Calendar," the principal question being as to the right of members to hold meetings unless convened by the executive council. The subpoena, which it was the object of this motion to set aside, directed the applicant to attend at the trial of the action and produce a number of charters, books of rules and bye-laws, books containing copies and translations of ancient charters, minute-books, and a great number of other documents, the enumeration of which covered more than four sheets of brief paper.

On the 27th of October last the Court of Appeal, on an application by the plaintiffs for a further affidavit of documents, had ordered to order discovery of many of the documents now required to be produced under the subpoena on the ground that it was a preliminary point to be tried to which the documents were not relevant.

The motion came before the Court on the 20th of November, 1891, and it was ordered to stand over for the applicant to make an affidavit in support.

The plaintiffs now desired to withdraw the subpoena and substitute another in its place.

R. Pa. et, for the applicant, asked for the costs of the application, and relied upon Lee v. Angus (Law Rep. 2 Eq. 59); Waller v. Appleby (43 L. J. (C.P.) 7); Beale v. McGregor (2 L. R. 311); and Dicas v. Lawson (3 Dowl. 427).

W. H. C., for the plaintiffs.

Bomer, J., said that the subpoena was oppressive and an abuse of the process of the Court. The plaintiffs having now withdrawn it, the only question was as to the costs of the application. In a case like this a witness was entitled to come to the Court at once, and was not bound to stand by and run the risk of having some motion for attachment or other proceeding made or taken against him for non-compliance with the subpoena. He was entitled to come and have it discharged. The respondents must pay the costs of the motion.

Bomer, J. MANSELL v. BRITISH LINEN COMPANY BANK. Dec. 5.

Interlocutory Injunction—Undertaking as to Damages—Restraining Sale of Shares—Measure of Damages.

In an action against A. Mackay and a bank, the plaintiff claimed, as against Mackay, an order for execution of a transfer of fifty shares in a company, alleged to have been sold by the plaintiff as the broker of Mackay at his request, and, as against the bank, an order that, on payment of what was due to them as mortgagees by deposit, the bank should deliver up their security, and, as against both defendants, an injunction to restrain them from dealing with the shares. On the 21st of March, 1890, on the plaintiff's usual undertaking as to damages, an injunction was granted, until judgment, restraining the defendants from dealing with the shares.

At the trial on the 31st of January, 1891, the action was dismissed with costs, and an inquiry was directed as to the damages sustained by Mackay and payable under the undertaking.

According to the evidence before the Chief Clerk, the best price which could have been obtained for the shares when judgment was given was 237l. 10s. It was also shewn that the shares were not quoted in the official list till the 6th of June, 1890, but the highest price which could have been obtained between that date and the 21st of March, 1890, was not stated in evidence. It was in evidence that between the 6th of June, 1890, and the 31st of January, 1891, the shares reached their highest price on the 13th of June, 1890, when they might have been sold for 600l.

The Chief Clerk certified that 362l. 10s., the difference between 600l. and 237l. 10s., was the amount payable under the undertaking.

The plaintiff took out a summons to vary the Chief Clerk's certificate.

Neville, Q.C., and Boome, in support of the summons.

Butcher, for Mackay.

Bomer, J., said, that it was most improbable that between the 21st of March, 1890, and the 31st of January, 1891, Mackay would have sold his shares exactly at the moment when they reached their highest price, and that, there being no special evidence to shew that the shares would, but for the injunction, have reached their highest price, the Court would not act on the mere presumption that such price could have been obtained. In such a case all the facts must be considered, and amongst others the price of the shares when the injunction was granted (as to which there was no evidence on which the Court could act). The matter must be referred back to the Chief Clerk, with liberty to both parties to adduce further evidence.

Vendor and Purchaser—Abstract—Reasonable Time for Delivery.

By letters dated the 23rd and 25th of August, 1890, the plaintiff and defendant came to an agreement, without the intervention of any solicitor, for the sale by the defendant to the plaintiff of a farm, upon the terms that the defendant should deduce a title thereto to the satisfaction of the plaintiff's solicitors; that the plaintiff should pay a deposit of 500*l.*, to be repayable if the defendant should fail to make out a satisfactory title; and that the defendant should remove from, and give the plaintiff possession of, the farm by the first week in October, 1890. No time was fixed for the delivery of the abstract.

On the 28th of August, 1890, the defendant sent to the plaintiff's solicitors certain documents purporting to be abstracts, but which, besides being deficient in other respects, did not apply to the freehold portion of the title. On the 30th of August the plaintiff's solicitors wrote to the defendant, pointing out that the abstracts were defective, and on the 1st of September they sent him the deposit of 500*l.* The defendant subsequently consulted his own solicitor, who communicated with the plaintiff's solicitors, and on the 15th of September they wrote to the defendant's solicitor asking for the loan of an abstract relating to the freehold title. No abstract being sent, they again wrote, asking for the freehold abstract, on the 18th and 22nd of September. On the 13th of October, the plaintiff's solicitor wrote to the defendant's solicitor, stating that the purchaser required the delivery of a proper abstract within fourteen days, and that in default he would treat the contract as at an end, and call upon the vendor for a return of his deposit and damages for breach of contract. On the 16th of October an abstract was sent, but it did not relate to the freehold title.

On the 8th of November the plaintiff's solicitors returned the abstract sent, and asked for a return of the deposit and damages for the breach of contract.

No complete abstract was sent until the 29th of November, and on the 17th of January, 1891, the plaintiff commenced an action against the vendor for a return of the deposit and for damages. The vendor counter-claimed for specific performance and damages.

Neville, Q.C., and Radford, for the plaintiff, contended that fourteen days was a reasonable period to be allowed to the vendor to furnish the abstract, and that, the abstract not having been sent within that time, the purchaser was entitled to rescind.

Chadwyck Healey, Q.C., and Ingsen, for the vendor.

ROMEY, J., said that the whole of the circumstances and the nature of the property sold must be considered. Here it was evidently intended that possession should be given on or about Michaelmas Day. The vendor had been repeatedly asked to deliver the abstract, according to his duty, a reasonable time after the contract. The purchaser's rights had been ignored, and fourteen days was not too short a period in which to require the abstract to be delivered. The vendor, having failed to deliver within this time, was not entitled to hold the plaintiff to his bargain. He must, therefore, repay the deposit, with interest at 4 per cent., and must pay, by way of damages, the purchaser's costs of investigating the title.

The question was as to the construction of a devise of lands to seven persons “as joint tenants and not as tenants in common, and to the survivor or longest liver of them, his or her heirs and assigns for ever.” The county court judge held that the effect of the limitations was to constitute the seven devisees joint tenants for life with a contingent remainder over in fee simple to the ultimate survivor.

IN THE MATTER OF AN ARBITRATION BETWEEN EYRE AND THE CORPORATION OF LEICESTER.

Practico—Arbitration—Submission to Single Arbitrator—Refusal to concur in Appointing Arbitrator—Notice to Appoint—Discretion—Arbitration Act, 1889 (52 & 53 Vict. c. 49), s. 5.

Appeal from the order of the Queen's Bench Division (Lord Cleridge, C.J., and Wright, J.) for the appointment of an arbitrator.

The facts were as follows:—By a contract for the execution of works between the Corporation of Leicester and a contractor named Eyre, provision was made for the reference of any difference that might arise to a single arbitrator. Differences arose, and the contractor made various claims on the corporation. The contractor's solicitors wrote to the town clerk stating that their client was entitled to have these matters submitted to arbitration and an arbitrator appointed, and suggesting that the corporation might either give them half a dozen names or they would give half a dozen names from which to make a selection of an arbitrator. The town clerk answered, saying that he could not assent to their views or acquiesce in their propositions. A notice signed by the contractor requiring the corporation "to concur in the appointment of a sole arbitrator" in the matter was thereupon sent by the contractor's solicitors to the town clerk, enclosed in a letter stating that they understood that the corporation disputed their client's right to an arbitration and were not prepared to take part in the selection of an arbitrator, but that, if they were, they would be glad to submit names of competent engineers to them.

The corporation taking no step, application was made on behalf of the contractor at Chambers for the appointment of an arbitrator under the Arbitration Act, 1889 (52 & 53 Vict. c. 49), s. 5, which enacts that "(a) where a submission provides that the reference shall be to a single arbitrator, and all the parties do not, after differences have arisen, concur in the appointment of an arbitrator . . . any party may serve the other parties with a written notice to appoint an arbitrator, and if the appointment is not made within seven clear days after the service of the notice, the Court or the judge may, on application by the party who gave the notice, appoint an arbitrator."

The Master refused to appoint an arbitrator on the ground that the notice given was insufficient, and the judge at Chambers on appeal affirmed his decision. On appeal to the Divisional Court they allowed the appeal, and referred the case back to the Master to determine whether the case was one for arbitration, and if so, to appoint an arbitrator.

Toller, for the corporation, contended—(1) that the notice given by the contractor was not sufficient, as it should have been a notice, not to concur in appointing, but to appoint an arbitrator, and should have named an arbitrator to be appointed; and (2) the Court had a discretion under the section, and, though it must be admitted that some of the claims made by the contractor were within the terms of the submission, it was contended that others were not, and that in such a case there ought not to be double proceedings, and therefore the corporation ought not to be compelled to go to arbitration, but the contract should be left to bring his action, and then all the matters of dispute might be referred together to the Official Referee. He cited Turnock v. Sartoris (43 Ch. Div. 150).

C. E. Jones, for the contractor, was not called upon.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., Lopes, L.J., and Kay, L.J.) held, that the notice given by the contractor was sufficient under the section, and that in a case such as this, where the parties had agreed to refer matters, and it was clear and was admitted that there were some matters in dispute which ought to be referred under the submission, and the other conditions required by the section had been fulfilled, the word "may" in the section was equivalent to "must," and the Court was bound to appoint an arbitrator. KAY, L.J., expressly reserving the question whether under some circumstances the Court might not have a discretion under the section.

THE COURT, therefore, dismissed the appeal, and modified the order of the Divisional Court by striking out the direction to the Master to consider whether the case was one for arbitration.

Appeal dismissed.

Insurance, Life—Insurance in favour of Wife—Death of Insured by Criminal Act of Wife—Action by Executors of Insured—Public Policy—Married Women's Property Act, 1882 (45 & 46 Vict. c. 75), s. 11.

Appeal from the judgment of the Queen's Bench Division (Denman and Wills, J.J.), upon a point of law raised by the pleadings and ordered to be disposed of before the trial under Order XXXIV., rule 2.

The facts stated on the pleadings were substantially as follows: James Maybrick insured his life with the defendants for 2,000*l.*, to be payable to his wife, Florence Maybrick, if she survived him, otherwise to his legal representatives. He died, and his wife was subsequently indicted for and convicted of murdering him by poison. Her sentence was, however, commuted to penal servitude for life. After conviction she assigned the policy and her interest thereunder to the plaintiff Cleaver, and he was also appointed administrator of her estate under 33 & 34 Vict. c. 23. The other plaintiffs were the executors of the will of James Maybrick, the insured. The question to be decided was whether, if it were proved that the insured died by poison intentionally administered by his wife, that would afford a defence to the action as against the plaintiff Cleaver, or against the other plaintiffs, the executors of James Maybrick's will. The Divisional Court held, that on grounds of public policy the action could not be maintained.

For Charles Russell, Q.C., and Reginald J. Smith, for the plaintiffs.

For E. Clarke, S.G., and Hextall, for the defendants.

Cur. adv. vult.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., Fry, L.J., and Lopes, L.J.) held that in such a case the policy was vested in the executors of the insured, that the trust of the policy money created under the Married Women's Property Act, 1882, s. 11, in favour of the wife, became incapable of being performed, and neither the wife nor any one claiming through her could take any interest in the policy money; that there was thereupon a resulting trust in favour of the husband's estate; that no question of public policy arose as between the executors of his will and the defendants; and that the action was therefore maintainable against the plaintiffs, the executors of James Maybrick, but not by the plaintiff Cleaver. They, therefore, allowed the appeal.

Appeal allowed.

DOWSETT v. CULVER.

Executor—Power to appropriate Specific Portion of Assets.

This was an appeal from a decision of Kekewich, J.

The question on the appeal arose in the administration of the will of G. Lapine. The testator gave his residuary, real, and personal estate to his executors upon trust to convert the same and to stand possessed of the proceeds in trust to divide the same into six shares, and to pay three of such shares to three persons absolutely, and to invest the other three shares for the benefit of the persons therein named. The will contained no special power of appropriating particular parts of the trust funds to particular legatees. The testator's personal estate consisted partly of mortgages. The defendant Culver, who was the only executor who proved the will, handed over the title deeds of one of the mortgages to G. L. Jackson, one of the residuary legatees, as part of his share of the residue, and paid him a sum of money as further part. It turned out that the mortgage debt and money paid to G. L. Jackson represented more than the proper amount of his share, and the plaintiffs sought to recover from him the mortgage deeds as having been improperly made over to him. No legal transfer of the mortgage had been made by Culver to Jackson.

Kekewich, J., held, that Culver had no power, in the absence of a special authority in the will, to hand over a specific part of the assets to one of the residuary legatees, and that the mortgage in question still remained part of the testator's estate—Jackson appealed.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and S. Eady, for the appellant.

Carson, H. Terrell, and Baker, for the respondents.

LINDLEY, L.J., said, that although there was no special power in the will to appropriate specific portions of the estate, the executor had power to do so; otherwise it would be impossible in many cases to wind up the estate; and a residuary legatee had power to accept such an appropriation in accord and satisfaction of his share or of part of his share. The appellant could not be obliged to give up the property which he had accepted, and the appeal must therefore be allowed.

BOWEN and FRY, L.J.J., gave judgment to the same effect.

Appeal from decision of Stirling, J. (noted supra, p. 167).

Rigby, Q.C., G. Hastings, Q.C., and Fossett Lock, for the appellant, the petitioner.

Sir Henry James, Q.C., and Muir Mackenzie, for the trustee approving of the sale.

Sir Horace Davey, Q.C., G. Henderson, and Stock, for the persons entitled in remainder.

Buckley, Q.C., and Ashworth James, for the trustee opposing the sale.

THE COURT (Lindley, Bowen, and Fry, L.J.J.), held, that the non-discharge by a tenant for life of the duty imposed upon him as trustee, by sect. 53 of the Settled Land Act, 1882, of regarding the interests of all parties entitled under the settlement, was not a matter affecting the title, but was a matter which rendered him personally liable as a trustee. The tenant for life was master of the situation and could override the sentimental interests of the remaindermen, though if he sacrificed their pecuniary interests he might be made liable. It would not be right, when a tenant for life proposed to sell the estate and came to the Court for its consent, to withhold that consent on the ground that by reason of his insolvency he could not have exercised his discretion. It was the duty of the Court in each case to consider all the circumstances, including the wishes of the remaindermen and the wishes of the tenant for life; but in the present case the consequences of withholding consent would result in the estate and every interest in it being sacrificed to money-getting. Notwithstanding the sympathy which the Court felt for the remaindermen, the Court ought not to be controlled by their wishes, but should take a wider view of the matter. It was contrary to public policy that property of this kind should be left for perhaps fifty years to come in the hands of a mortgagee, a person whose only interest in it would be to make the most out of it as a thing that produced money. Such a state of things was neither for the interests of the public nor of the State, nor conducive to the honour of a noble family. The learned judge below was wrong in relying upon the analogy of In re The Earl of Radnor's Will Trusts (45 Ch. Div. 402), which was a case of heirlooms, and his judgment must be reversed. The contract for sale would therefore be affirmed and ordered to be carried into execution. Costs of all parties to come out of the estate.

CAPRONI AND ANOTHER (trading as D. BAYCIANI) v. ALBERTI

Copyright—Casts of Fruit and Leaves—54 Geo. 3, c. 56.

This was an action by a London firm of modellers, sculptors, and makers of casts to restrain the defendant, who carried on a similar business at Manchester, from making or selling casts alleged to be copied or only colourably differing from certain casts or models made by the plaintiffs. The plaintiffs had not registered under the Copyright Act, 13 & 14 Vict. c. 104, s. 6, or under the Patents, Designs, and Trade Marks Act, 1884. The learned judge held, that there was no evidence sufficient to support the allegation of the plaintiffs that the defendant had attempted to pass off his casts as casts made by the plaintiffs, and the question arose whether the plaintiffs' casts were entitled to protection under the Act of 1814 (54 Geo. 3, c. 56). That Act enacts (section 1) as follows: "Every person or persons who shall make or cause to be made any new and original sculpture or model or copy or cast of the human figure or human figures or of any bust or busts, or of any part or parts of the human figure, clothed in drapery or otherwise, or of any animal or animals or of any part or parts of any animal combined with the human figure or otherwise, or of any subject matter of invention in sculpture, or of any alto or basso relievo representing any of the matters hereinbefore mentioned, shall have the sole right and property of all and in . . . every such new and original sculpture, model, copy, and cast of the subject being matter of invention in sculpture . . . for the term of fourteen years from first putting forth or publishing the same."

The plaintiffs' casts were made from models of natural fruit and leaves; there was evidence that the casts were new and original when they were first published by the plaintiffs, which was less than fourteen years ago; and also that they displayed artistic taste in the selection of the objects to be modelled, judgment in arrangement, and skill in grouping.

Hastings, Q.C., and B. Eyre, for the plaintiffs.

Alexander Young, for the defendant:—The original Act of Geo. 3, c. 71, which was passed in 1798, was entitled "An Act for encouraging the art of making new models and casts of busts and other things therein mentioned"; and it protected nothing but casts of the human figure or of animals or of parts of such subjects respectively. The Act of 1814 was an Act to amend the Act of 1798; and thus it was an Act to amend an Act dealing with a limited class of subjects, viz. casts of men and animals, and was not intended to apply to casts of flowers, leaves, or fruit.

MATHEW, J., held, that the plaintiffs' casts were "new and original" "casts of" a "subject being matter of invention in sculpture" within the meaning of, and entitled to protection under, the Act 54 Geo. 3, c. 56.

MUSTAPHA v. WEDLAKE.

Donatio Mortis Causa—Bonds deposited in Safe—Delivery of Key

M., who was by birth an Egyptian but had resided in England for thirty years, died intestate in 1890, possessed of 10,000*l.* in Buenos Ayres bonds payable to bearer. He left two daughters and a son, all of whom were infants and illegitimate; but they had always lived with him and been acknowledged as his children; and there was evidence that he intended that whatever property he left should be divided between them.

The bonds, which, with the exception of some furniture, constituted the whole of his property, were kept in a safe in his bedroom, the key of which was deposited in a wardrobe, and the key of the wardrobe was, until just before his death, kept by M. in his own possession. He was taken ill very suddenly, and during an interval of consciousness, a few minutes before he died, he summoned his eldest daughter and said to her, "Take my purse and keys." The daughter took them from the pocket of his trousers, which were hanging over the foot of the bed, and shewed them to her father, who then said, "That's all. Take the bonds. All is yours. Take care of your mother and sister."

Under this gift the daughter claimed to be entitled to the bonds as trustee for herself and her brother and sister.

T. Terrell, for the claimant, argued that there was a good donatio mortis causa:—The delivery of the key was sufficient to give complete dominion over the contents of the safe. The key was too bulky to be delivered, and the delivery of the key constituted a gift of the safe and its contents within the decision in Jones v. Selby (Prec. Ch. 300), where the delivery of the key of a trunk was held to pass the trunk and its contents.

Bastings, Q.C., and Keary, for the administrator, contended that there must be delivery of the subject-matter of the gift in order to constitute a good donatio mortis causa. The only exception was where the property was too bulky for delivery, as in Jones v. Selby. In order to pass the bonds here, the safe must have been opened and the bonds taken out and handed over to the claimant. They also relied upon Ward v. Turner (10 Ves. 431), and Tate v. Hilbert (2 Ves. 111).

Joyce, for the Crown.

MATHEW, J., held, that there had been a valid donatio mortis causa. He saw no ground for distinguishing the case from Jones v. Selby.

Deferral of Legacy—Appropriation.

A summons was now heard in Court, taken out by Henry Warton Elliott, who was an executor and trustee of the will as well as residuary legatee, for the purpose of obtaining directions to the executors and trustees as to setting aside funds to provide for Mrs. Fletcher's annuity and the deferred legacies. It was proposed that certain debentures and guaranteed and preference stock of English railways, and 9,000*l.* 2½ per Cent. Consols, one-tenth more in value should be purchased. He directed 2½ per Cent. This was a motion on the part of the defendant to an action for the administration of a trust created by the will of W. S. Grey, who died in 1864, to set aside an appearance entered on his behalf and subsequent proceedings on the ground that the proceedings had been conducted without his knowledge or authority.

The plaintiffs were persons now entitled absolutely to a portion of the trust funds. The defendant was the sole surviving trustee of the fund. He was appointed trustee in May, 1877, conjointly with the then sole trustee, who has since died. The predecessors in business of a Mr. Galloway and Mr. Galloway himself had acted as solicitor for the testator and for the trustees in the matters of the trust down to the time the action was commenced. Mr. Galloway accepted service of the writ and entered an appearance for the defendant and attended certain proceedings in Chambers, purporting to act on the defendant's behalf. The defendant had no knowledge of the proceedings in the action till after they had occurred, and had given no instructions to Mr. Galloway to act for him in legal proceedings.

Charity—School—Management—Default of Election of Managers —Meeting—Informality.

This was a motion on the part of the head-master of the National Schools of Oker Hill, Tipton, Staffordshire, to restrain persons purporting to act as the committee of management of the school from acting on a notice to dismiss the applicant until a properly constituted committee of management had considered the question and given the applicant an opportunity of being heard.

The affairs of the school were regulated by a deed dated September, 1857. The management was vested in a committee of management, consisting of the vicar of the district, his curate or curates, if nominated by him, the two churchwardens of the district, being members of the Church of England, and five other persons, the first appointed of whom were named in the deed; their successors were to be elected by subscribers, and were required to be members of the Church of England, subscribers to the school to the amount of 20s. for the current year, and either resident or property owners in the district. The deed provided that "no default of election nor any vacancy during any current year shall prevent the other members of the committee from acting until the vacancy shall be filled up." All the original five elective members of the committee had ceased by death or otherwise to be members; no other persons had been appointed in their place. The school had recently been managed by the official members, the two sidesmen of the church being asked to be present and give their advice at meetings. At Easter, 1891, there was no election of a parishioners' churchwarden; the churchwarden elected the previous year was therefore in law still churchwarden. A meeting was held on the 14th of September, 1891, at which Mr. Norman, the vicar, his curate, the vicar's churchwarden, and the two sidesmen were present. It was then resolved to dismiss the plaintiff and the other members of the staff of the school for the purpose of rearranging the staff, it being considered, from the financial position of the school, necessary to do so. At a similar meeting, held on the 28th of September, a form of notice was approved; and such notice, signed by the defendants to the action, was served on the plaintiff to dismiss him from his office from Christmas, 1891. The parishioners' churchwarden was not present at, and had not been summoned to, either meeting.

The defendants were the vicar, the curate, the vicar's churchwarden, and one sidesman.

This action was commenced and brought on an interlocutory motion to restrain the defendants from acting on the notice.

J. Culler, Q.C., and Henry Lynn, for the plaintiff. The resolution was bad because—(1) Elective members had not been appointed; (2) The parishioners' churchwarden had not been summoned to the meeting; (3) A stranger was present at and took part in the meeting; (4) The plaintiff ought to have had an opportunity of being heard.

The defendant Norman, in person.

D. P.

NORTH, J., held, that both under the clause providing default of election, and independently of special rule, the committee could act notwithstanding that no elective member existed; but that the resolution was bad because one member had not been summoned and because strangers took part at the meeting. He did not decide whether the plaintiff ought to have had an opportunity of being heard before he was dismissed for a reason other than misconduct. He granted an injunction restraining the defendants from purporting to dismiss the plaintiff till a proper meeting of the committee had been held.

Swinfen Eady, for the company, consented to a compulsory order.

NORTH, J.:—It has been my practice hitherto to allow a winding-up petition as opposed, and not to hear them if they are called the second time. It is possible that some who intends to oppose the petition, relying on this practice, may not be present yet.

Coxen-Hardy.—Rule 3 of the General Rules of February 14, 1891, under sect. 28 of the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, requires that any one who intends to appear on the hearing of a winding-up petition shall serve notice on the petitioner, and by rule 4, the petitioner is to hand to the registrar prior to the hearing a list of the persons who have given notice of their intention to appear.

North, J. :—It might well be that some person who desired to oppose a petition had given notice to the petitioner of his intention to appear, but the petitioner's solicitor had omitted to inform the registrar.

Coxen-Hardy.—It may be assumed that the solicitor has done his duty, and, if it should turn out that he has omitted it, the bill can be stopped before it is drawn up. It would be much more convenient that winding-up petitions should be heard when they are first called, if no notice of opposition has been received by the registrar. Otherwise, the hearing of an opposed petition might be postponed to that of an opposed petition the hearing of which might occupy a long time.

North, J. :—Having regard to the provisions of rules 3 and 4, I think I may properly treat a winding-up petition as unopposed, and hear it when it is first called, if no notice of opposition has been received by the registrar. But the order will be subject to the risk of its being stopped afterwards. I should turn out that notice of opposition has been given to the petitioner.

Solicitor and Client—Bill of Costs—Taxation—Withdrawal of First Bill—Sending in Second Bill—Common Order for Taxation—Special Order.

Motion by a solicitor to discharge a common order for taxation bill of costs.

On the 28th of February, 1891, the solicitor sent in to his clients, at their request, his bill of costs. The clients objected to the amount of the bill, and intimated their intention of not paying the bill taxed, and they requested the solicitor to send them all the papers and balance of money in his hands, together with vouchers for all disbursements. In reply the solicitor, on the 30th of July, 1891, sent in another bill for a reduced amount, and with the bill sent a cheque for the balance in his hands, less the amount of the reduced bill. Accompanying the bill was a letter from the solicitor, stating, "As requested, I enclose my bill of costs, together with cheque." In point of fact the clients had not "requested" the solicitor to send in a bill. The clients, in a letter, acknowledged the receipt of the bill, and enclosed a receipt for the amount of it, but only without prejudice to their right to have the original bill paid. They then obtained a common order for taxation of the bill of the 28th of February; whereupon the solicitor served with a notice of motion to discharge the order on the 30th of July, and that the bill of the 30th of July, and not that of the 28th of February, was the bill he actually delivered, and that the clients had not disclosed the real facts in their petition for taxation.

Stallard, for the solicitor.

V. R. Smith, for the clients.

KEKEWICH, J., said the decision in In re Heather (Law Rep 5 Ch. 691) as explained in In re Thompson (30 Ch. Div. 441), was directly against the applicant. The effect of those decisions, shortly, was to prevent a solicitor withdrawing a bill which he had delivered and, on his being warned of an intention to tax, substituting a bill which he thought he could maintain with a better chance of success. Accordingly, the taxation of the first bill in the present case was right, and the motion must be dismissed. Upon the question of the costs of the motion, it was necessary to consider whether the clients were right in obtaining the common order to tax. Having regard to the two authorities above referred to, his Lordship thought that, in strictness, a special, and not a common, order ought to have been obtained; but, having regard to all the facts, he could not uphold the solicitor in the course he had taken, and therefore the motion must be refused with costs.

BRUNTON v. ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING CORPORATION.

Company—Solicitor and Client—Lien—Debenture-holders—Debenture—Floating Security—Priority—"Mortgage or Charge."

In this debenture-holders' action, the question arose whether the company's solicitor could assert his lien as solicitor upon the company's documents in his possession, in priority to the rights of the debenture-holders and their receiver appointed in the action. The debentures, which were framed in a special form to meet the decision of North, J., in Wheatley v. Silkestone and Haigh Moor Coal Company (29 Ch. Div. 724), stipulated that they should rank pari passu as a "first charge" on the company's undertaking and property, "and the charge hereby created is to be a floating security; but so that the corporation is not to be at liberty to create any mortgage or charge in priority to the said debentures."

Renshaw, Q.C., and R. B. Davies, for the solicitor.

Warmington, Q.C., and S. Eady, for the debenture-holder.

KEKEWICH, J., said the debentures, being a "floating security," did not interfere with the company carrying on its business. In the ordinary course of that business the company employed a solicitor, who, in so acting for the company, acquired the lien given to a solicitor by the general law: Pilly v. Wathen (1 D. M. & G. 16). The words "mortgage or charge" did not include a lien of this kind, and even if they did, it was not "created by the company," in the sense of an incumbrance created by the company by their own act. In his Lordship's opinion the words did not apply to a charge or lien given by the general law, and arising by the company carrying on its business in the ordinary course. The solicitor's lien must accordingly prevail over the rights of the debenture-holders and their receiver.

Practice—Costs—Compulsory Powers—Payment out of Court to Charity Commissioners under City of London Parochial Charities Act, 1883 (46 & 47 Vict. c. 36)—Unnecessary Service on Parties bound by Scheme.

This was a petition for the transfer of funds in Court (amounting to upwards of 80,000*l.*) into the names of the official trustees of charitable funds. The funds had been paid into Court by various public bodies in respect of charity lands situate in numerous parishes in the city of London, and which had been taken under compulsory powers. Under the powers of the City of London Parochial Charities Act, 1883, the Charity Commissioners had made a scheme for the administration of the funds, and such scheme was binding on the several corporations or public bodies, rectors, vicars, churchwardens, and others, in whose names respectively the funds were standing. The petition had been served on these corporations or public bodies (thirty-two in number), and upon the hearing of the petition the objection was taken that such service was unnecessary, and that the costs thereof ought to be disallowed, and the case of In re The Prebend of St. Margaret's, Leicester (10 L. T. (N.S.) 221) was relied on as an authority to that effect. It was also contended that as some of the sums of stock in Court were under 1000*l.*, the costs ought to be limited to such as would have been incurred if the application as to such sums had been made by summons.

Vaughan Hawkins, for the petitioners.

W. Baker, John Henderson, Armitstead, J. G. Wood, Geare, Duncan, Hornell, and Medd, for the respondents.

KEKEWICH, J., on the authority of the case cited, held that the costs of the service objected to must be disallowed, as the thirty-two corporations or public bodies might have been joined as co-petitioners. His Lordship refused to limit the general costs in the manner proposed, as the Commissioners in presenting the petition had exercised a proper discretion.

Case tried before Denman, J.

Action brought by judgment debtors against judgment creditors, their solicitors, and the officers to the sheriff for the county of London, to recover damages for alleged illegal conduct in relation to an execution.

The proceedings alleged to be illegal were—(1) the issuing by the judgment creditors and their solicitors of two writs of f. f. concurrently for the whole amount of the judgment—one in the city, the other in the county of London; (2) a demand by the officers of the sheriff for the county of London of poundage from the judgment debtors in respect of a writ under which no money had been obtained for the execution creditors; (3) an alleged breach of the Sheriffs' Act, 1887 (50 & 51 Vict. c. 55), s. 29, sub-ss. 2-6, by the officers of such sheriff, in respect of such demand, which was said to amount to extortion, and in respect of which a penalty of 200*l.* was claimed to be due.

Finlay, Q. C., and A. T. Lawrence, for the defendants, the judgment creditors, and the defendants their solicitors.

William Everley died on the 14th of September, 1891, intestate, leaving a widow, Louisa Everley, who was believed to be his sole next of kin. She was a lunatic, and her estate had become chargeable to the Guardians of the Poor of the Union of Warminster for her maintenance. The father of Mrs. Everley, the lunatic, had renounced his right to take the grant on behalf of his daughter, and the Guardians of the Poor of the Union of Warminster had nominated their clerk, Mr. Merrick, to take the grant. The value of the deceased's estate was between 50*l.* and 60*l.*

Barnard, now moved for a grant of administration to be made to Mr. Merrick for the use and benefit of the lunatic until she recovers, and cited In the Goods of Eccles (15 P. D. 1). The only difference between that and the present case is that the next of kin of the deceased have not been cited; but since the passing of the Intestates' Estates Act of 1890, which provides that where the net value of the personal estate of an intestate dying without issue does not exceed 500*l.* it shall belong to his widow absolutely, the next of kin of the deceased have no interest.

THE COURT made the grant to Mr. Merrick as prayed under the 73rd section of the Court of Probate Act without requiring the next of kin of the lunatic to be cited.

COURT OF APPEAL.

Dec. 16.

Lunacy—Alleged Lunatic—Inquiry into Mental Condition—Costs—Alleged Lunatic found of Sound Mind—Costs out of alleged Lunatic's Estate.

A petition presented by a husband for an inquiry into the mental condition of his wife resulted in a finding by a majority of the jury that the wife was, at the time of the inquisition, of sound mind, and capable of managing herself and her affairs

This was an application by the petitioner that the Court should exercise the discretion conferred upon it by sect. 109 of the Lunacy Act, 1890, by directing that all the petitioner's costs of the proceedings should be paid by his wife. There was also a counter application by his wife that her costs should be paid by the petitioner.

Sir H. James, Q.C., Inderwick, Q.C., English Harrison, and P. S. Stokes, for the petitioner.

Sir C. Russell, Q.C., Bucknill, Q.C., and Costelloe, for the wife.

LINDLEY, L.J., said that the 109th section of the Lunacy Act shewed that in the view of the Legislature circumstances might exist under which it would be reasonable and just that a person found to be of sound mind should pay the costs of an unsuccessful attempt to prove him otherwise. No proceedings in Lunacy could be justifiably taken against any one who was not reasonably supposed to be of unsound mind; nor unless the supposed lunatic had shewn himself incapable of managing both himself and his affairs. But assuming that there were grounds for supposing a person to be insane and to be incapable of managing himself and his affairs, it did not follow that there was occasion to institute lunacy proceedings against him. In each case the position of the insane person and the kind of management wanted and available must be considered, and it would be very material to ascertain whether he could be brought to realise his own position and to submit himself to the care of others. In considering the question of costs, the relation in which the petitioner stood to the alleged lunatic and his object and conduct were important, for an unsuccessful inquiry promoted by a stranger for his own purposes must be regarded very differently from an unsuccessful inquiry promoted perhaps reluctantly by a husband or wife or relative or friend, acting bonâ fide in the interest of the alleged lunatic and for the protection of his property. Applying these principles, and having regard also to the respective means of the parties, and the amount of the costs, his Lordship came to the conclusion, upon the evidence, that there were ample grounds for instituting an inquiry into the state of the lady's mind with the view of placing her, not necessarily in an asylum, but under proper care and supervision, and he held that under the circumstances of the case the wife's application ought to be dismissed with costs, and that the petitioner ought to receive two-thirds of the amount of his costs of the petition, the inquiry, and the present application (to be taxed as between party and party) out of a sum of 10,000*l.* belonging to his wife.

BOWEN, L.J., concurred.

KAY, L.J., also concurred, but stated that under the circumstances of the case his inclination would have been not to give the husband any costs out of his wife's property.

Conflict of Law—Transfer of Chose in Action—Scotch Arrestment—Company—Calls.

This was an appeal from a decision of North J. (1891 1 Ch. 586; Weekly Notes, ante, p. 8).

The question for decision was whether the assignment of unpaid calls in the shares of the Queensland Mercantile and Agency Company, effected by an arrestment in certain proceedings in Scotland instituted by the Australasian Investment Company was to be postponed to the charge of the Union Bank of Australia, who were debenture-holders of the company, which was domiciled in Queensland. Evidence was given that according to the law of Scotland the Australasian Investment Company would be entitled to priority under the circumstances; and North, J., held that the Scotch law must govern, and gave judgment accordingly. The Union Bank of Australia appealed.

After the appeal was opened some of the most eminent Scotch lawyers were consulted, and their opinions were put in as further evidence of the Scotch law. They agreed in saying that according to the Scotch law and the jus gentium as administered by the Scotch Courts, the Australasian Investment Company was entitled to priority.

Sir H. Davey, Q.C., Buckley, Q.C., and S. Dickinson, for the appellants, contended that the English Courts were bound to act on their own view of what was the international law on the subject, and that according to the international law, as understood by the English Courts, the Union Bank of Australia was entitled to priority.

Crackanthorpe, Q.C., and Rawlins, for the Australasian Investment Company.

LINDLEY, L.J., said, that having regard to the terms of the orders made by North, J., and the Scotch judges, it was clear that their intention was that the English Court should decide the claim of the Australasian Company as it would have been decided in Scotland, and the evidence as to the Scotch law left no room for doubt that the Scotch Courts would have decided the claim in favour of Mr. Crackanthorpe's clients. It was objected by the appellants that the Scotch Courts could only decide in that way by taking an erroneous view of international law, and that upon any question of international law this Court ought to act upon its own view, and he relied upon Simpson v. Fogo (1 H. & M. 195). But there the English Court refused to recognise a judgment of a foreign Court, not because that Court had taken an erroneous view of international law but because it had disregarded every principle of international law altogether. The appellants' contention was founded upon a mistake. It was all very well to say that international law was one and indivisible, but it was notorious that different views were entertained in different civilized countries on many questions of international law, and it was not for this Court to say that the Scotch Courts took a wrong view. When international law was administered by the Scotch Courts it was as much a part of the Scotch law as the municipal law of Scotland. The appeal, therefore, failed.

BOWEN and FRY, L.JJ., concurred.

MASONIC AND GENERAL LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY v. SHARPE.

Company—Liability of Directors—Payment of Dividend out of Capital—Stale Demand.

This was an appeal from a decision of North, J

The action was brought by the liquidator of the above-named company, which was being wound up, against the personal representatives of two of the deceased directors, one of whom was Capt. Bennett, to recover from their estates certain sums of money alleged to have been improperly paid out of capital as interest or dividends, although the company had made no profits. The articles of association contained the following clauses: "(5) The capital of the company shall be allotted by the company when and as they think fit. Every applicant for shares shall pay 1*l.* per share on application. Interest at the rate of 5*l.* per annum shall be payable half-yearly on all moneys paid on the shares until otherwise determined by the directors"; "(116) No dividends or bonds shall be payable except out of the profits arising from the business of the company, including the income arising from the paid-up capital." The company was formed in 1868. Bennett became a director in 1869, and held the office till his death in 1883. The company never made any profits, but the directors made half-yearly payments at the rate of 5 per cent. on the amount of shares paid up from July, 1869, to July, 1878, when the Board of Trade interfered, and the payments were discontinued. The company was wound up in 1886. The liquidator now sought to charge the representatives of Bennett with the money improperly paid out of capital.

North, J., held, that the defendants were chargeable with the money so paid, and that the delay was not such as to disable the liquidator to succeed.

The representatives of Bennett appealed.

Crackanthorpe, Q.C., and Oswald, for the appellants.

Sir H. Davey, Q.C., Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and S. Eady, for the liquidator of the company.

LINDLEY, L.J., said that there was no doubt that the payment by the directors, of whom Captain Bennett was one, of the interest to the shareholders out of the capital of the company, was ultra vires, and that they were liable to make good the payments. The only question was whether the liquidator was barred from recovering the money from them, either by the Statute of Limitations, or by the fact that it was a stale demand. It had been decided and was well established that the directors were not mere agents, but were trustees for the shareholders, and he was, therefore, of opinion that no Statute of Limitations was a bar to the action. It was a more difficult question whether the claim of the liquidator was not what was called in equity a stale demand. He thought, however, on consideration of all the circumstances, that there had been no laches on the part of the liquidator, and that no such time had elapsed as would prevent him from recovering the money from the estate of Captain Bennett. The appeal must, therefore, be dismissed.

METROPOLITAN RAILWAY COMPANY v. FOWLER.

Land Tax—Liability to Assessment—"Hereditament"—Railway Tunnel—38 Geo. 3, c. 5, s. 4.

Appeal against a decision of Cave and Vaughan Williams, J.J. The question was, whether a tunnel, through which the railway of the plaintiff company passed, was liable to be assessed for land tax under sect. 4 of the Act 38 Geo. 3, c. 5. The special Act of the company did not require that they should purchase the surface of the land under which the tunnel passed, and they did not do so; but they had exclusive possession of the tunnel. Cave, J., held, that the tunnel was a "hereditament" assessable to land tax under sect. 4. Vaughan Williams, J., held that it was not; but he withdrew his judgment.

The company appealed.

Sir R. E. Webster, A.G., Balfour Browne, Q.C., and Walton Q.C., for the company.

French, Q.C., Scrutton, and T. Hewitt, for the defendants

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and Lopes and Kay, L.JJ.) affirmed the decision.

LORD ESHER, M.R., held that the tunnel was a "hereditament," i.e. an interest in land, and not a mere easement, and that it was within the general words of sect. 4.

KAY, L.J., concurred.

LOPES, L.J., differed. He agreed that the tunnel was a hereditament, but was of opinion that it was not assessable, under sect. 4.

Appeal against an order of Wills and Lawrance, JJ., discharging an order nisi for a mandamus to the judge of the City of London Court, to hear an action of Green v. Payne. The action had been brought by the owners of some barges, on the Admiralty side of the City of London Court, against the pilot of a steamer, in personam, to recover damages resulting from a collision in inland waters, which was alleged to have been caused by the pilot's negligence. The Divisional Court held that the City of London Court had no Admiralty jurisdiction in such a case. The prosecutors appealed.

Cohen, Q.C., and L. E. Pyke, for the appellants.

Barnes, Q.C., and B. C. Aspinall, for the defendants.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and Lopes and Kay, L.JJ.) dismissed the appeal. Their Lordships held, that the County Courts Acts did not give a jurisdiction in Admiralty to a county court in any case other than those cases in which the High Court of Admiralty would have had jurisdiction (except in the case of a charterparty, in which, according to the decision of the Court of Appeal in The Alina (5 Ex. D. 227), a county court had jurisdiction though the Admiralty Court had not). And their Lordships held that in such a case as the present the High Court of Admiralty would not have had jurisdiction.

Bankruptcy—Scheme of Arrangement with Creditors—Approval of Court—"Reasonable Security for Payment of not less than 7s. 6d. in the pound on all the provable unsecured Debts"—Bankruptcy Act, 1890, s. 8, sub-s. 9.

Appeal by the debtors from the refusal of Mr. Registrar Brougham to approve of a scheme of arrangement which had been duly accepted by their creditors.

The Registrar's order contained a recital that the Court was satisfied that facts had been proved which would under the Act justify the Court in refusing, qualifying, or suspending the debtors' discharge—viz., that the debtors' assets were not of a value equal to 10s. in the pound on the amount of their unsecured liabilities; that the debtors had omitted to keep such books of account as were usual and proper in the business carried on by them, and as sufficiently disclosed their business transactions and financial position within the three years immediately preceding their insolvency; and that the debtors had brought on their failure by rash and hazardous speculations.

The Registrar refused to approve the scheme, being of opinion that the terms of the proposal did not "provide reasonable security for the payment of not less than 7s. 6d. in the pound on all the unsecured debts provable against the debtors' estate."

Cooper Willis, Q.C., and F. Cooper Willis, for the debtors.

Sir R. E. Webster, A.G., and Muir Mackenzie, for the Official Receiver, were not heard.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and Lopes and Kay, L.JJ.) dismissed the appeal.

LORD ESHER, M.R., said that the appellants were bound to shew that the proposed scheme did provide "reasonable security for the payment of not less than 7s. 6d. in the pound." This did not mean for payment at a distant time, such as a year hence. It meant reasonable security for payment now or within a short time. His Lordship agreed with the Registrar that there was no such reasonable security.

Settlement—Power of Appointment among Children—Release of Power by Tenant for Life—Right of Tenant for Life to call for Transfer of Share of Deceased Child.

This was an appeal from a decision of North, J. ([1891] 2 Ch. 662; Weekly Notes, ante, p. 69).

The plaintiff had power under his marriage settlement to appoint certain funds, of which he was tenant for life, among the children of the marriage. In default of appointment the funds were to be held in trust for the children equally, to be vested interests at twenty-one or marriage. Two children attained vested interests, of whom one died a bachelor and intestate. Administration was taken out to his estate by the plaintiff. The plaintiff executed a deed poll by which he released his power of appointment. He then called on the defendant, who was the surviving trustee of the settlement, to transfer to him one moiety of the trust funds. The defendant declined to do so until the direction of the Court.

North, J., held, that the plaintiff had acquired an absolute interest in the fund; but he declined to order the transfer.

following the authority of Cunynghame v. Thurlow (1 Russ. & My. 436), where the Court refused to assist a tenant for life in obtaining a transfer of his deceased child's share under similar circumstances.

The plaintiff appealed.

Sir H. Dasey, Q.C., and E. Lawrence, for the plaintiff.

Cuzens-Hurdy, Q.C., and Warrington, for the defendant.

LINDLEY, L.J., said that as the tenant for life had irrevocably released his power, he had practically acquired an absolute interest in his deceased child's share. But inasmuch as the life interest and the reversion in the share of the deceased child were held by the plaintiff in different rights, there was no merger of the life interest in the reversion; therefore the trustee was justified in refusing to transfer the fund. But if the plaintiff were to surrender his life interest in that moiety to the trustee, there would be a merger, and he might then claim a transfer of the fund. The judgment of North, J., must therefore be discharged, and the order would be that, on the plaintiff surrendering his life interest in a moiety to the trustee, the trustee should transfer the moiety of the fund to the plaintiff.

BOWEN and FRY, L.JJ., gave judgment to the same effect.

On the petition for winding up this company being called on, the Registrar informed the Court, that no list of parties appearing had been left, pursuant to rule 4 of the Companies Winding-up Rules (February), 1891.

A. Eady, for the petitioner, said that on the present occasion it was not possible to comply with rule 4, because no person had given notice of his intention to appear, and consequently there was no list of parties appearing to hand in.

WHITTY, J., said, it would be more convenient for the future, in such cases as this, if the petitioner's solicitor would certify that that no persons had given notice of their intention to appear, either by a letter to this effect, addressed to the Registrar, or by sending in Form 3 ("List of Parties attending the Winding-up"), with a written notice across it, that no persons had been asked to appear, or some similar intimation.

BROMILOW v. PHILLIPS.

Dec. 15.

Contempt of Court—Committal—Attempt to intimidate Witness.

A motion by the defendant for an order to commit the plaintiff to prison for a contempt of Court in endeavouring to intimidate the witness, a witness in the action, and to deter him from giving evidence in the action, and to deter the defendant from calling him as a witness, and to deter the defendant from continuing to defend the action and from prosecuting his counter-claim thereto.

The action was for wrongful dismissal.

The defendant counter-claimed for damages for negligence and want of skill. The plaintiff had been personally served with notice of the motion; but he did not appear. Corfield was the general manager of the defendant's business. In October he made an affidavit in the action on behalf of the defendant. Evidence was now given that on the 3rd of November the plaintiff, accompanied by a police sergeant in uniform, went to the defendant's office for the purpose of seeing Corfield, and that he then, in the presence of the police sergeant, produced a copy of Corfield's affidavit, and demanded of him in a threatening tone of voice what he meant by certain statements therein contained as to the plaintiff's having taken away plans and drawings, the property of the defendant, and that he went on to charge Corfield with having sworn a false oath. There was also evidence that anonymous letters of a threatening nature had been recently received by Corfield and by the defendant, and it was sworn that those letters were in the handwriting of the plaintiff.

Daniel Jones, for the motion, referred to Smith v. Lakeman (2 Jur., N.S. 1202) and Shaw v. Shaw (2 S. & T. 517).

NORTH, J., made the order asked for, which, he said, appeared to be justified by the cases cited.

BODEN v. HENSBY.

Dec. 18

Solicitor's Lien—Partition Action.

This was a partition action, relating to property to which the plaintiff and the defendant were entitled in equal shares. The plaintiff desired a sale, the defendant partition. Judgment had been given directing the common inquiries, including an inquiry as to incumbrances. The plaintiff had changed her solicitors, and had obtained an order in Chambers on Messrs. Barton & Pearman, her past solicitors, to deliver up to Messrs. Gordon & Son, her present solicitors, such deeds, papers, and writings in their custody or power as might be necessary for the conduct of the action, and that the documents delivered up should be retained by Messrs. Gordon & Son, subject to the lien, if any, of Messrs. Barton & Pearman, and be returned to them if and when the judge should direct.

A motion was now made on behalf of Messrs. Barton & Pearman to discharge the order for delivery up.

Serrell, for the respondents.

NORTH, J., considered the action came within the rule applicable to administration actions, and that other parties than the plaintiff being interested jointly in the subject-matter of the action, the documents come to the hands of the solicitor since the commencement of the action for the purposes of the action, ought to be handed over in the manner directed by the order. He varied the order made in Chambers by limiting it to such documents.

Kekewich, J. HOWARD v. JALLAND. Dec. 19.

Practice—Partition—Sale—Conversion—Request by Infant—Carrying over Share of Infant in Process of Sale—Supreme Court Fund Rules, 1886, r. 21.

This was a partition action in which an order had been made for a sale on the request of an infant and others. One of the shares in the estate had devolved by descent upon the infant, subject to his mother's right to dower. The question was whether, under the Supreme Court Fund Rules, 1886, r. 21, this share, when carried over to a separate account, ought to be stated to be real estate.

Blakesley, for the plaintiff, submitted to the Court whether the order for sale, being at the request of the infant, operated as a conversion of the realty into personalty, and referred to Foster v. Foster (1 Ch. D. 588); Wallace v. Greenwood (16 Ch. D. 362).

Cave, for the defendants.

KEKEWICH, J., said that he could not hold that the mere request by solicitors or counsel for an infant operated as an election by the infant to take as personalty. The funds therefore to be carried over must be stated to be real estate as required by the rule.

Statutes of Limitation—Judgment—Judgment not charged on Land—Real Property Limitation Act, 1874 (37 & 38 Vict. c. 57), s. 8.

Trial before Collins, J., of issues stated by a master, one of which was whether the plaintiffs were not prevented by the above section from enforcing a judgment obtained in 1871. The words of the section are, "No action, or suit, or other proceeding shall be brought to recover any sum of money secured by any mortgage judgment or lien, or otherwise charged upon or payable out of any land or rent at law or in equity, or any legacy, but within twelve years next after a present right to receive the same shall have accrued to some person capable of giving a discharge for, &c."

T. Willea Chitty, and Ernest M. Pollock, for the plaintiffs.

Barnard Lailey, for the defendants.

The following is the substance of the judgment of COLLINS, J.:—The question raised is whether the judgment recovered in 1871 is statute-barred. This depends upon the effect of the 8th section of the Real Property Limitation Act, 1874.

This is a proceeding brought to recover a sum of money secured by a judgment, and it is said on behalf of the defendant in the issue that all such proceedings are barred after the lapse of twelve years by that section. It is contended, however, for the plaintiffs that the title and recitals of both this Act and the earlier Act (3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 27) shew them to be acts passed for the purposes of relieving land from certain liabilities, that the word "judgment" in the section, relied on for the defence, occurs in a category of securities, all of which are charges upon land; and that the section only applies to judgments if and so far as they operate as charges upon land. The words in the section in each act are, "No action, or suit, or other proceeding shall be brought to recover any sum of money secured by any mortgage, judgment, or lien, or otherwise charged upon or payable out of any land."

By the Act 27 & 28 Vict. c. 112, s. 1, it is provided that "judgment statute or recognizance to be entered up after the passing of this Act shall affect any land (of whatsoever tenement) until such land shall have been actually delivered in execution by virtue of a writ of elegit, or other lawful authority, in pursuance of such judgment statute or recognizance." It was contended that as by reason of this section the judgment was in question, which was not followed up by execution on land, did not become a charge upon the debtors' lands, it is no judgment to which the 8th section of the Act of 1874 has any application.

This argument loses its force unless the effect of judgment in operating as a charge upon the debtor's lands, which was taken away by the Act 27 & 28 Vict. c. 112, existed at the time of the passing of the earlier Statute of Limitation (3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 27), the 40th section of which was repealed by the Real Property Limitation Act, 1874, and re-enacted in section 8 of the latter with the substitution of twelve years for twenty.

Judgments were made charges upon the judgment debtor's lands by the Act 1 & 2 Vict. c. 110, s. 13, so that the earlier Statute of Limitations was clearly not restricted to such judgments as were charges upon land. Section 8 of the Act of 1874, which is relied upon by the defendant in the issue, exactly follows the wording of the 40th section of the Act of 1833 and the same construction is applicable to both sections.

The judgment sued upon is therefore statute-barred.

Salvage—Practice—Action in rem—Amendment of Indorsement of Writ.

Motion by plaintiffs, after judgment, to amend the indorsement of the writ, in an action for salvage, by altering the amount claimed from 5000*l.* to 8500*l.*

On the 12th of November, 1891, the plaintiffs, as the owners, masters, and crews of the steam-tugs Woodcock, Eagle, Stormcock, issued a writ claiming 5000*l.* for salvage rendered to the steamship Dictator, her cargo and freight on the 10th, 11th, and 12th of November, 1891, in the English Channel and River Thames.

On the 17th of November the statement of claim was delivered concluding with a claim in the usual form for "Such an amount of salvage as to the Court may seem just."

On the 26th of November the action was tried before the President, assisted by two of the Elder Brethren of the Trade House, and resulted in an award of 7500*l.*

Barnes, Q.C., and Nelson, for the plaintiffs:—The judgment has not yet been drawn up, and a difficulty has arisen owing to the amount awarded exceeding the amount claimed. By Order XL, r. 4, of the Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, the plaintiff may, in his statement of claim, alter or extend his claim without any amendment of the indorsement of the writ; but in a salvage action there is no amount claimed in the statement of claim, the sum claimed appearing on the indorsement of the writ. By Order XXVIII, r. 1, the Court may, at any stage of the proceedings, allow an amendment of the indorsement, and in Wyatt v. Kosherville & Co. (2 Times Rep. 292) leave was given to amend the claim so as to cover the finding where the jury gave the plaintiff 300*l.* more than he had claimed.

The reason why the claim was not made sufficiently large in the first instance is shown, by the affidavit filed in support of the motion, to have been that the great value of the cargo on board the Dictator (121,840*l.*) was not at that time known to the plaintiffs' solicitor. The following cases were referred to: Griffiths v. London & St. Katharine Dock Co. (13 Q. B. D. 269); The Freedom (Law Rep. 3 A. & E. 495); The Johannes (58 127).

Sir Walter Phillimore and J. P. Aspinall, for the defendants:—

Such an amendment has never been made in Admiralty, and, if made, it would be futile, as in an action in rem the sum named on the indorsement of the writ determines the amount of bail to be given, or, as in this case, the undertaking to give bail which may be substituted for it. The undertaking to put in bail for 5000*l.* now stands in lieu of the lien on ship and cargo. The ship was, in fact, never arrested, and the cargo has been distributed to its various owners. No doubt the undertaking may be exhausted to meet the award to the extent of 5000*l.*, and the costs may be recovered over and above, as a personal claim, but there are no means of obtaining more. They referred to the following cases: The Wild Banger (Br. & L. 84); The Kalamazoo (15 Jur. 885); The Nostra Senora del Carmine (1 Spka. 303).

THE PRESIDENT (Sir Charles Butt) gave the plaintiffs leave to amend the indorsement of the writ by altering the amount from 5000*l.* to 8500*l.* The costs of the motion to be paid by the plaintiffs.

Solicitors for the plaintiffs: Lowless & Co.

Solicitors for the defendants: Wynne, Holme, & Wynne, agents for Simpson, North, & Johnson, Liverpool.

COMPANIES (WINDING UP) ACT, 1890.

Statements by Liquidators in Pending Liquidations to the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies.

GENERAL ORDER BY THE BOARD OF TRADE (UNDER RULE 175 OF THE COMPANIES (WINDING UP) RULES, 1890).

It is hereby ordered by the Board of Trade as follows in regard to the matters referred to in section 15 of the Companies (Winding Up) Act, 1890, and Rules 126 and 127 of the Companies (Winding Up) Rules, 1890.

Transmission of Accounts.

The statement of account required by sub-section 1 of section 15 of the Act and by Rule 127 to be transmitted in duplicate to the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies shall be in the Form No. 1 annexed thereto, with such variations as circumstances may require, and shall be on sheets 13 inches by 16 inches, and shall be verified by an affidavit in the Form No. 2 annexed hereto.

Receipts and Payments.

The statement shall contain a detailed statement of all the Liquidator's receipts and payments on account of the Company, but bank transactions as between the Liquidator and the bank, and payments or receipts on account of investments made by or on behalf of the Liquidator, should be inserted in the columns provided for that purpose, and not in the columns for "other receipts and payments." Each receipt and payment must be entered in the account in such a manner as sufficiently to explain its nature. The receipts and payments should severally be added up at the foot of each sheet, and the totals carried forward to the next sheet, without any intermediate balance, so that the gross totals shall represent the total amounts received and paid by the Liquidator respectively.

Trading Account.

When the Liquidator carries on a business, a trading account must be forwarded as a distinct account, and the totals of receipts and payments on the trading account must alone be set out in the statement. The trading account shall be in Form No. 3 annexed hereto, shall be on sheets 13 inches by 16 inches, and shall be sent in duplicate.

Petty Expenses.

Petty expenses must be entered in the statement or trading account in sufficient detail to show that no estimated charges are made.

Realizations.

Where property has been realized, the gross proceeds of sale must be entered under receipts in the statement, and the necessary disbursements and charges incidental to sales must be entered as payments.

Dividends, &c.

Where dividends or instalments of composition are paid to creditors or a return of surplus assets is made to contributories, the total amount of each dividend or instalment of composition or payment to a contributory must be entered in the Liquidator's statement as one sum, and the Liquidator must forward with his statement separate accounts in duplicate, in the Forms Nos. 4 and 5 annexed hereto, showing the amount of the claim and the amount of dividend or composition payable to each creditor or contributory, distinguishing in such list the dividends or instalments of composition paid and those remaining unclaimed. Such list shall be on sheets 13 inches by 8 inches.

Affidavit of no Receipts or Payments.

Where a Liquidator has not during the period comprised in the account received or paid any money on account of the Company, he shall, at the period when he is required to transmit his statement to the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies, forward to the Registrar an affidavit of no receipts or payments in the Form No. 2 annexed hereto.

Form 2 shall be used in substitution for the form of advertisement prescribed by the Companies Winding-up Rules, 1890.

3. [Notice by persons who intend to appear on hearing of petitions. The notice may be in the Form No. 1 with such variations as circumstances may require. A person who has failed to comply with this Rule shall not without the special leave of the Court be allowed to appear on the hearing of the petition.

4. [List of names and addresses of persons who appear on the hearing.]—The petitioner shall prepare a list of the names and addresses of the persons who have given notice of their intention to appear on the hearing of the petition, and of their respective solicitors, which shall be in the Form 3. A fair copy of the list shall, on the day appointed for hearing the petition, be handed by the petitioner to the Registrar in Court prior to the hearing of the petition.

5. [Notice that winding-up Order has been pronounced to be given to the Official Receiver.]—When an Order for the winding up of a company has been pronounced in Court, the Registrar shall, on the day, and to the Official Receiver a notice informing him that such Order has been pronounced.

6. [Notice may be in Forms 4 and 5 respectively with such variations as circumstances may require.]

8. [The appointments for settling and passing Order.]—It shall not be necessary for the Registrar to make an appointment to settle or to give notice to any of the parties thereto, unless in any particular case the special circumstances make an appointment or notice necessary.

FORM OF STATEMENT OF RECEIPTS AND PAYMENTS, AND GENERAL DIRECTIONS AS TO STATEMENTS.

(1.) [Size of sheets].—Every statement and account must be on sheets 13 inches by 16 inches.

(2.) [Form of statement].—Every statement must contain a detailed account of all the Liquidator's receipts and payments on account of the Company, but Bank transactions as between the Liquidator and the Bank, and payments or receipts on account of investments made by, or on behalf of the Liquidator, must be inserted in the columns provided for that purpose, and not in the columns for "Other receipts and payments." Each receipt and payment must be entered in the account in such a manner as sufficiently to explain its nature. The receipts and payments must severally be added up at the foot of each sheet, and the totals carried forward to the next sheet, without any intermediate balance, so that the gross totals shall represent the total amounts received and paid by the Liquidator respectively.

(3.) [Trading account].—When the Liquidator carries on a business, a trading account must be forwarded as a distinct account, and the totals of receipts and payments on the trading account must alone be set out in the statement.

(4.) [Realisations].—Where property has been realised, the gross proceeds of sale must be entered under receipts, and the necessary disbursements and charges incidental to sales must be entered as payments.

(5.) [Dividends, &c.].—Where dividends or instalments of composition are paid to creditors, or a return of surplus assets is made to contributories, the total amount of each dividend or instalment of composition, or payment to contributories must be entered as one sum, and the Liquidator must forward with his statement separate accounts showing in lists the amount of the claim of each creditor, and the amount of dividend or composition payable to each creditor, and of surplus assets payable to each contributory, distinguishing in each list the dividends or instalments of composition and shares of surplus assets actually paid, and those remaining unclaimed. Each list must be on sheets 13 inches by 8 inches.

Dated June 19, 1891.

ORDER XLIII. RULE 33A.

1. Impounded documents while in the custody of the Court are not to be parted with; and are not to be inspected, except on a written order signed by the Judge on whose order they were impounded and by the President of the Division in which they are impounded; or in case of documents impounded on the order of the Court of Appeal by an order of that Court. Such documents shall not be delivered out of the custody of the Court except upon an order made on motion in open court.

ORDER XLVI. RULE 1A.

2. Every summons by a separate judgment creditor of a partner for an order charging his interest in the partnership property and profits under section 23 of the Partnership Act, 1890 (53 & 54 Vict. c. 39), and for such other orders as are hereby authorised to be made, shall be served in the case of a partnership other than a cost book company on the judgment debtor and on his partners, or such of them as are within the jurisdiction or in the case of a cost book company on the judgment debtor and the purser of the company; and such service shall be good service on all the partners or on the cost book company as the case may be and all orders made on such summons shall be similarly served.

ORDER XLVI. RULE 1B.

3. Every application which shall be made by any partner of the judgment debtor under the same section shall be made by summons, and such summons shall be served in the case of a partnership other than a cost book company on the judgment creditor and on the judgment debtor, and on such of the other partners as shall not concur in the application and as shall be within the jurisdiction, or in the case of a cost book company on the judgment creditor and on the judgment debtor and on the purser of the company, and such service shall be good service on all the partners or on the cost book company as the case may be and all orders made on such summons shall be similarly served.

ORDER XLVIII.

4. Order VII., Rule 2, Order IX., Rules 6 and 7, Order XII., Rules 15 and 16, Order XVI., Rules 14 and 15, Order XLII., Rule 10, and Order XLV., Rule 10, are hereby repealed, and the following Rules (1) to (11) shall stand as a separate Order in lieu thereof.

ACTIONS BY AND AGAINST FIRMS AND PERSONS CARRYING ON BUSINESS IN NAMES OTHER THAN THEIR OWN.

(1) Any two or more persons claiming or being liable as co-partners and carrying on business within the jurisdiction may sue or be sued in the name of the respective firms, if any, of which such persons were co-partners at the time of the accruing of the cause of action; and any party to an action may in such case apply by summons to a judge for a statement of the names and addresses of the persons who were, at the time of the accruing of the cause of action, co-partners in any such firm, to be furnished in such manner, and verified on oath or otherwise, as the judge may direct.

(2) When a writ is sued out by partners in the name of their firm, the plaintiffs or their solicitors shall, on demand in writing by or on behalf of any defendant, forthwith declare in writing the names and places of residence of all the persons constituting the firm on whose behalf the action is brought. And if the plaintiffs or their solicitors shall fail to comply with such demand, all proceedings in the action may, upon an application for that purpose, be stayed upon such terms as the court or a judge may direct. And when the names of the partners are so declared, the action shall proceed in the same manner and the same consequences in all respects shall follow as if they had been named as the plaintiffs in the writ. But all the proceedings shall, nevertheless, continue in the name of the firm.

(3) Where persons are sued as partners in the name of their firm under Rule (1), the writ shall be served either upon any one or more of the partners or at the principal place, within the jurisdiction, of the business of the partnership upon any person having at the time of service the control or management of the partnership business there; and, subject to these rules, such service shall be deemed good service upon the firm so sued, whether any of the members thereof are out of the jurisdiction or not, and no leave to issue a writ against them shall be necessary: provided that in the case of a co-partnership which has been dissolved to the knowledge of the plaintiff before the commencement of the action, the writ of summons shall be served upon every person within the jurisdiction sought to be made liable.

(4) Where a writ is issued against a firm, and is served as directed by Rule (3), every person upon whom it is served shall be informed by notice in writing given at the time of such service whether he is served as a partner or as a person having the control or management of the partnership business, or in both characters. In default of such notice, the person served shall be deemed to be served as a partner.

(5) Where persons are sued as partners in the name of their firm, they shall appear individually in their own names; but all subsequent proceedings shall, nevertheless, continue in the name of the firm.

(6) Where a writ is served under Rule (3) upon a person having the control or management of the partnership business, no appearance by him shall be necessary unless he is a member of the firm sued.

(7) Any person served as a partner under Rule (3) may enter an appearance under protest, denying that he is a partner, but such appearance shall not preclude the plaintiff from otherwise serving the firm and obtaining judgment against the firm in default of appearance if no partner has entered an appearance in the ordinary form.

(8) Where a judgment or order is against a firm, execution may issue:

- (a.) Against any property of the partnership within the jurisdiction;
- (b.) Against any person who has appeared in his own name under Rule (5) or (6), or who has admitted on the pleadings that he is, or who has been adjudged to be a partner;
- (c.) Against any person who has been individually served, as a partner, with the writ of summons, and has failed to appear.

If the party who has obtained judgment or an order claims to be entitled to issue execution against any other person as being a member of the firm, he may apply to the court or a judge for leave so to do; and the court or judge may give such leave if the liability be not disputed, or if such liability be disputed may order that the liability of such person be tried and determined in any manner in which any issue or question in an action may be tried and determined. But except as against any property of the partnership, a judgment against a firm shall not render liable, release, or otherwise affect any member thereof who was out of the jurisdiction when the writ was issued, and who has not appeared to the writ unless he has been made a party to the action under Order XI., or has been served within the jurisdiction after the writ in the action was issued.

(9) Debts owing from a firm carrying on business within the jurisdiction may be attached under Order XLV., although one or more members of such firm may be resident abroad: provided that any person having the control or management of the partnership business or any member of the firm within the jurisdiction is served with the garnishee order. An appearance by any member pursuant to an order shall be a sufficient appearance by the firm.

(10) The above rules shall apply to actions between a firm and one or more of its members, and to actions between firms having one or more members in common, provided such firm or firms carry on business within the jurisdiction, but no execution shall be issued in such actions without leave of the Court or a Judge, and on an application for leave to issue such execution all such accounts and inquiries may be directed to be taken and made, and directions given, as may be just.

(11) Any person carrying on business within the jurisdiction in a name or style other than his own name may be sued in such name or style as if it were a firm name; and, so far as the nature of the case will permit, all rules relating to proceedings against firms shall apply.

ORDER LIV. RULE 4A.

5. Order LIV., Rule 4, shall be read as if the following words were added thereto:—"Provided that in the case of summonses for time only, the summons may be served on the day previous to the return thereof."

6. These Rules may be cited as the Rules of the Supreme Court, June, 1891; and each Rule may be cited separately according to the heading thereof with reference to the Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883. They shall come into operation on the first day of July, 1891.

(Six Doors East of Inner Temple Lane.)

SECOND EDITION, Revised and Enlarged, 2 vols., demy 8vo., cloth price 32s.

THE HISTORY OF THE ENGLISH CONSTITUTION,

By Dr. RUDOLF von GNEIST, Professor of Law in the University of Berlin.

Translated by PHILIP A. ASHWORTH, of the Inner Temple, Esq., Barrister-at-Law.

* * * This Edition contains additional chapters on the Parliaments of the Nineteenth Century down to the Third Reform Bill (1884-86), an important Note giving the Author's Views on the Irish Question, and a new and copious Index.

"No foreigner has done more than Professor Gneist to examine and make clear the history and nature of the English Constitution. . . . He discusses such questions as, 'Whither are we drifting? How far do recent changes in the franchise accord with the old spirit of the Constitution? What is in store for us with democracy? On such questions as these the opinion of a foreigner, who is a scholar but no bookworm, and has sedulously studied our institutions, is certainly more weighty than that of most Englishmen.' . . . At this time these volumes are especially instructive. They cast light on almost all the great questions of current politics."

"As a history of the English Constitution for English readers, Dr. Gneist's book has a great advantage over existing treatises. It is not too much to say that Dr. Gneist is indispensable to the student of English constitutional history. . . . The translation is, so far as we have been able to observe, generally correct and adequate. English students have every reason to be grateful to Mr. Ashworth for introducing them to so valuable a work."—Athenaeum.

"This book is a monument of German patience and industry. . . . Dr. Gneist's book, we may say in conclusion, ought to be on the shelves of every student of constitutional history."—Saturday Review.

"Something like a natural approach is removed by this tardy recognition of the great service which Dr. Gneist has rendered to the history of English institutions."—Adelphi.

"The heavy task of translating the book has been executed by Mr. Ashworth with taste and judgment."—Scotsman.

Third Edition, Revised, with Portrait, crown 8vo., cloth, 7s. 6d.

"English readers will certainly welcome a history of the English Parliament by the greatest living authority on the Continent."—Athenaeum.

"It completes the vast survey of our English Institutions. . . . to which so great a portion of Dr. Gneist's laborious life has been devoted."—Daily News.

BRETT'S COMMENTARIES ON THE PRESENT LAWS OF ENGLAND.

By THOMAS BRETT, B.A., LL.B., of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law,

Author of "Leading Cases in Modern Equity," and Joint Author of "Clerke and Brett's Conveyancing Acts, 1881-2."

*. * A main idea of this book is to bring into special prominence the present and living law, and only to deal with past law, or that which is practically obsolete, so far as it is necessary to enable the reader to understand the present.

"Mr. Brett's work is exactly the book which the Law Society require for the purpose (the Intermediate Examination). His style is clear, and often interesting; his work is particularly accurate, and, in some cases, minutely so . . . The writer has turned from page to page expecting to find some recent decision . . . either omitted entirely or imperfectly stated; but Mr. Brett has, in all cases where principles are concerned, defeated him. . . . The book will be of use to practising lawyers as well as to the student. . . . It is a monument of industry and learning, and will rank as the best bird's-eye view of modern English law which has been written for many years."—The Speaker.

"We are able confidently to recommend these Commentaries to Students, with whom we venture to predict they will become deservedly popular. . . . Mr. Brett's Commentaries are thoroughly comprehensive, and we have little but praise for the manner in which he has discharged his self-imposed task. . . . We are of opinion that Mr. Brett has produced a work of very considerable merit."—Law Journal.

"The book may be recommended as exceedingly useful for students preparing for examinations. . . . But its merits are far beyond that purpose merely, and we repeat that the book may be confidently expected to take a prominent place among the practising lawyer's most used and best appreciated works of practice."—Juridical Review.

Sixth Edition, royal 8vo, cloth, price 38s.

ROBSON'S LAW OF BANKRUPTCY: containing a Full Exposition of the Principles and Practice of the Law. Including the Law under the Bankruptcy Act, 1883; the Bills of Sale Acts, 1878 and 1882; and Section 10 of the Judicature Act, 1875; also the Law relating to Private Arrangements with Creditors. With an Appendix comprising the Statutes, Rules, Orders, and Forms, including Forms of Compositions and Schemes under Sections 18 and 23 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883. By GEORGE YOUNG ROBSON, Esq., Barrister-at-Law.

Opinions of the Press.

"Notwithstanding the many competitive volumes which have been recently published, Mr. Robson has maintained the position of his text-book on the Law of Bankruptcy: the sixth edition of which has just been published. All the new rules and modern decisions are incorporated, and the author gives us a useful chapter on 'Compositions and Schemes of Arrangement with Creditors.' We know of no better treatise on this branch of our law, and looking to the number of editions through which it has passed, our opinion is apparently shared by the profession."—Law Times, July 16th, 1887.

"This standard work on bankruptcy has reached another edition, the author wisely considering that in consequence of the many important cases recently decided and the issue of the new rules, that a new edition was desirable. We compliment the learned author on the wisdom of keeping his work well up to date. Of this edition we may not say, as of others, no practitioner with bankruptcy work should be without it; and as long as the author pursues the wise course of issuing fresh editions well up to date, we shall be able to accord future editions the same praise."—Law Notes, July, 1887.

"The present edition of Mr. Robson's well-known work appears as a stately volume. As regards the decisions on the Bankruptcy Act and the Bills of Sale Acts of the last edition, we may say that the characteristic of former editions is preserved; the cases are digested—not merely strung together as foot-notes or the head-notes copied in the text. There are few books which have passed through so many editions and yet read so much like a new book written in view of the latest, as well as the earlier, cases. A new chapter on private arrangements with creditors has been added, in which the subject is very fully considered under the heads of compositions, assignments, and the effect of these on the remedies of creditors and on sureties and secured creditors; and forms relating to statutory arrangements with creditors have been added to the appendix."—The Solicitors' Journal, Aug. 13, 1887.

"This is a new edition of a valuable book, bringing it thoroughly down to date. Since the publication of the last edition the Rules under the Act of 1883 have come into force, and there have been numerous important decisions, both under the Bankruptcy Act of 1883 and the Bills of Sale Acts. These are all duly noticed and commented on in the new edition. The book has also been increased by the addition of a new chapter on Private Arrangements with Creditors, and also some Forms of Composition and Schemes under Sections 18 and 23 of the Bankruptcy Act, which cannot fail to prove useful to the profession. The bulk of the book has been kept within the same limits, with a slight increase in the size of the page. The new edition will be welcomed by all bankruptcy practitioners."—Law Journal, Aug. 19 1887.

BY THE SAME AUTHOR. Demy 8vo., cloth, 9s.

PRIVATE ARRANGEMENTS WITH CREDITORS (a Treatise on the Law of), with an Appendix containing the Deeds of Arrangement Act, 1887, the Bills of Sale Acts, 1878 and 1882, and the Bankruptcy (Discharge and Closure) Act, 1887, with the Rules under the above Acts. Also Precedents of Deeds of Arrangement.

"The Legal Profession will hail with satisfaction Mr. Robson's treatise on the 'Law of Private Arrangements with Creditors.' . . . The precedents appear to us thorough and practical, and the book, while it forms a useful supplement to the author's treatise on 'Bankruptcy,' must take rank with that excellent work."—Law Times.

"Those of our readers who possess Robson's 'Bankruptcy' will no doubt invest in the same author's 'Private Arrangements,' for it is professedly, as well as by its appearance, a supplement to that classical volume."—Law Notes.

"Mr. Robson's work, as will be gathered from its title, contains the whole of the law relating to private arrangements with creditors, and is intended as a supplement to his well-known treatise on the 'Law of Bankruptcy.' Like that work, it is much pleasanter reading than most law books. . . . Mr. Robson is an excellent authority on the subject."—Solicitors' Journal.
