

AT THE COMMANDERY

GLENDALE SIR KNIGHTS HOLD APPROPRIATE SERVICES CHRISTMAS MORNING

Christmas Day was celebrated by Glendale Commandery No. 53, Knights Templar, at the Commandery asyllum, in the Masonic Temple, on Saturday, December 25, at 9 a. m., Pacific time, which corresponds to 12 noon, Washington, D. C., time, which is the standard time in accordance with which in every latitude throughout the United States similar services were celebrated. Similar services are held all over the world by the Knights Templar commanderies in honor of the birth of Christ.

The program was opened by greeting from Acting Grand Master Lee Smith of the Knights Templar of the United States. This was responded to by Sir Knight the Rev. J. Henry of Tropic.

Greetings were then given by Grand Commander Perry Weidner of the Knights Templar of California. This was responded to by Sir Knight David J. Crofton. Sir Knight Mattison B. Jones responded to the toast "Knights Templar in the United States."

There was a full attendance of the Sir Knights of the local commandery and quite a number of visitors.

MRS. HUNTER AT REST

Just as the shades of night were falling and surrounded by her children, Mrs. Virginia Hunter passed into the last sweet sleep of this earthly life, at the family home, 335 Orange street, Friday, December 24.

Born in Stanton Va., May 22, 1846, is where most of Mrs. Hunter's girlhood was spent. While still very young she married the late Colonel Robert Finley Hunter, U. S. A. and not until after his retirement did she really know the true home life. It was then the Hunters occupied an attractive home in Washington, D. C., where they enjoyed to its fullest the gay life of the nation's capital. Six years ago Mrs. Hunter and her five children came to California to make their home. For two years, they lived in Los Angeles, the past four having been spent in Glendale. The passing of this dear, lovable woman of so sterling a character, and a devoted mother, will be mourned by all, for to know her was to love her.

Services were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family home, simply and beautifully conducted by Rev. E. H. Willisford of the First Congregational church.

The gray velvet casket was banked with violets, carnations and roses, many beautiful floral offerings being sent by friends.

The interment took place at Forest Lawn cemetery.

Mrs. Hunter was 69 years of age and until the evening of December 14 had enjoyed excellent health.

The children at the bedside until the end were Miss Virginia Hunter, Mrs. Claude Bernard Guitard, Mrs. George Albert Mangum, Mrs. Edwin Kirby Harris, Jr. and Mr. Robert Hunter, all of Glendale.

The Scovern-Letton-Frye company were the funeral directors in charge.

B. W. RICHARDSON FUNERAL

With the solemn and impressive ritual of the Masonic Order, the remains of B. W. Richardson were committed to the grave in Inglewood cemetery this morning at 10:30. Funeral services were held at the family residence 245 Mira Loma avenue, Tropic, by the Rev. J. Ryder. The funeral and interment was in charge of the Scovern, Letton & Frye company. Mr. Dan Campbell, past master of Glendale Unity lodge, No. 368, officiated at the grave.

Learned and daughter, Miss Mary Learned. The diningroom was attractively done with festoons of red and green, bells, palms and colored lights. Snapshots were taken and are to be presented later to each guest present.

The near relatives of the two young people were present to witness the taking of the marriage vows.

The home was decorated in the Christmas colors. At 6:30, the young couple took their places under a bower of green where they were met by Rev. E. E. Francis of the Christian church, who performed the beautiful and impressive double ring ceremony. The bride was gowned in a pretty creation of white crepe de chine and carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses.

GLENDALE RECORDER OUTDISTANCES RIVAL TO TOP OF MOUNT WILSON AND BACK

Glendale's septuagenarian recorder, Judge Whomes, who was modest enough to say beforehand that he thought he could "trail behind" the others to the top of Mount Wilson and back on Christmas Day, led the whole procession to the summit and was the only one of the climbers who was able to walk down the whole distance. The Mount Wilson hike of septuagenarians and octogenarians, which originated with George M. Bennett of Pasadena, excited the greatest interest in that city. The trail of the climbers was watched by parties with telescopes from various point of vantage and their progress reported from time to time to interested groups.

Those who took part in the novel competition were: George M. Bennett, aged 74; T. Crew, 74; Judge J. Whomes, 77; A. F. Wightman, 84; Jonathan Maxson, 83, and S. O. McGrew, 78. Only four of these reached the summit of the mountain and only Judge Whomes accomplished the entire distance up and down the mountain on foot. He outdistanced all the others and is now "undisputed champion" of septuagenarian climbers.

Judge Whomes' record is as follows: Left Pasadena 7 a. m.; arrived at the summit at 12:30 p. m.; started down at 3:30; arrived in Pasadena at 8:15 p. m. T. Crew, aged 74, was second at the summit. George Bennett, who originated the hike, was third, arriving at the top of the mountain an hour later, very tired. Jonathan Maxson, 83, was next. S. O. McGrew, 74, and A. F. Wightman, 84, reached the summit of the mountain only by getting a lift on the stage.

Whomes was the only one of the competitors who was able to walk down the whole way. Crew and Bennett walked part of the way. The others were glad to accept defeat and ride down to the foot of the mountain.

Much attention was paid the competitors by Pasadena people. The Hotel Green gave them a banquet in the evening after their return. A huge birthday cake with a multitude of candles, supposed to represent the combined ages of the party, was the centerpiece of the table. Speeches were made, in the course of which Judge Whomes demonstrated oratorical powers in addition to his already exemplified physical prowess.

Judge Whomes, who seems all the better for his lively hike up Mount Wilson, said to a representative of the Glendale Evening News: "I have seldom enjoyed a more pleasant experience than my trip up the mountain. The good people of Pasadena treated us like princes. The management of the Hotel Green was hospitality itself. Mr. George Bennett, the originator of the hike, did everything in his power to make our day pleasant. He also founded the "Eros" club, of which the men who made the ascent on Christmas day are the first members.

"We all hit a pretty hot pace going up the mountain. This soon told on the competitors who began to trail off in a long queue along the road. Crew and I kept together in the lead, followed by Maxson some way behind. There is a toll gate within a few hundred yards of the summit. Crew was leading me a couple of hundred feet or so at that point. He stopped to strike up a flirtation with the pretty tollkeeper and I handed in my toll check, avoiding all feminine allurements and putting on a good pace, reached the summit. "At the summit we had a good din-

SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTISTS INSTALL OFFICERS WITH IMPRESSIVE SERVICE

Five of the newly-elected officers of the Glendale Seventh-day Adventist church were ordained at a solemn service conducted at the church at the corner of West Third and Isabel streets last Saturday morning. E. E. Andross, president of the Pacific Union Conference, had charge of this service; J. E. Bond, president of the Arizona Conference, and C. E. Kimlin, one of the local elders, assisting. Those ordained were: Dr. C. A. Burrows, as a local elder; Henry Rosenburg, deacon; Mrs. Charles Burnham, Mrs. N. Simpson, and Mrs. Louise R. Davidson, deaconesses.

Pastor D. A. Parsons, of Los Angeles, a Seventh-day Adventist minister, well known in the southern part of the state, has accepted a call to Pittsburg, Pa., and left yesterday. He will engage in evangelistic work in his new field of labor. He preached at the Glendale Adventist church last Saturday morning, preceding the ordination ceremony. "Christ, when he appears to redeem his people, will be escorted by a vast company of angels, whose glory will far outshine the sun," said the speaker. "The host, as it descends to the earth, will resemble an immense fiery chariot, blazing with the glory of God. The living righteous will be changed in an instant, and all God's people who have passed under death will be resurrected to immortal life. Together the great throng will ascend to the city of God, where wars, and sorrow and pain are forever ended." As proof texts the speaker quoted Joel 2, Revelation 1:7, First Thessalonians 4:15-18.

KINDERGARTEN PROGRAM

A very interesting program was given by the Colorado Boulevard kindergarten children in their cozy open-air bungalow last Thursday morning from 9 to 12 o'clock.

Pretty gifts for the parents, made by the children, were artistically displayed on a Christmas tree and about the room, as were also other decorations.

A large number of the kindergarten mothers and friends were present and greatly enjoyed the program.

Among the friends present were Mr. R. D. White, supervising principal of Glendale school; Mrs. Charles H. Toll of Glendale, and Miss Em'ly Pryor, kindergarten supervisor, South Pasadena, Cal.

Much credit is due Miss Ormsby, teacher of this kindergarten school, for the able and efficient manner in which this work is being conducted.

ner and all of the hikers but three of us started down hill in the stage. We three started on foot and I outdistanced my companions who gave up the struggle and got into the next stage coach. They all urged me to do likewise, but I said that I had come to make the trip up and down on foot and would finish it that way. Thus I was the only one of the competitors who completed the journey. "We were feted and feasted at the Hotel Green where a fine dinner was served, in which the pieces de resistance were broiled halibut steak, a la maitre d'hotel and imperial turkey with chestnut dressing and cranberry sauce. All the other accompaniments were in keeping with those seasonable dishes. The menu of the dinner was a curiosity. Each of the hikers had his name printed on the menu with a fancy military title. Corporal, adjutant, major, chaplain, wagon-master, private, were the titles of the others, while I masqueraded as "bugler." Altogether, this was one of the pleasantest days of my life.

EFFECT OF DARDANELLES FAILURE

Failure to accomplish an important object in war is often as serious a matter as defeat. The failure of the British expedition to force the Dardanelles has naturally created a profound sensation in the oriental mind. The Turks think themselves now invincible and are already discounting the time when they will retake Egypt and march on India, rousing the Mohammedan tribes and slaughtering the Hindus. They have a most exaggerated idea of their own prowess and are even beginning to think they can do without the Germans, to whose skill and training they owe the success of the Constantinople defense.

It is a long way to Egypt, however, from Turkey, and that British protectorate is perfectly safe unless the native Egyptians should rise against the British, which is not so unlikely as might be thought. The Egyptian has never been noted for gratitude. The British have governed the Egyptian province with skill and success; have rescued the land from poverty; raised its population from about 4,000,000 to 12,000,000; extinguished its debt and stimulated its manufactures. They built the famous Nile dam at Assouan and assured abundance of irrigation for the fields. They built schools and trained and taught the youth of the land.

In addition the British recovered the province of Soudan from the Mahdi's hands and introduced into it culture similar to that which they had introduced in Egypt, and by stimulating agriculture and giving the land peace have also given it prosperity.

Notwithstanding all this, however, no one who has come in contact with the Egyptian mind would believe for a moment that the Egyptians are grateful. They are in a state of continual mental unrest and are entirely at the mercy of their religious teachers and fanatics. At any moment the population of Egypt, at present peacefully occupied with agriculture, might go any lengths were agitation once started.

This Dardanelles fiasco has given the Turks and the Germans the chance to represent that the British are in a bad way and that now is the time to rise against them. Should this be contrived the war will spread to the East. Those who imagine that a war of such dimensions as the present can be extinguished by a few gentle words are deluding themselves. There is no saying where it will spread.

Germany is even now talking of a Zeppelin raid to destroy the Suez canal and stop all traffic through it. Were it possible to carry out such a plan the effect on the excited populations of the East could be imagined. The Mohammedan people throughout Asia would be a source of danger. They are everywhere. The United States has them among her dependents in the Philippines; Russia, China, in every land, they are to be found. Their exploitation as good war material is now possible and it is evident from what the foreign newspapers say that the Germans and Austrians are even now planning a raid on the Suez canal. So far-reaching is the effect of a failure in war.

LESSON OF THE CLOSING YEAR

Freighted with the sins and sorrows, the faults, the errors and the shortcomings of its brief days, the old year is fast descending into that night whence it shall nevermore return. Whatever opportunities humanity may have had in those expended days is over. If unimproved they will never be offered us again; if improved they abide to take on new shapes and forms in the days to come.

Ring out the old, ring in the new,

Ring happy bells across the snow;

The year is going, let him go,

Ring out the false, ring in the true.

Ever memorable will be the passing year as the first full year of the great war, which, dislike it as we may, still casts its shadow over every land and like the waves created by some mighty storm, which agitate the shores of distant lands, makes its influence felt everywhere. In politics, in commerce, even in religion, the great war is working mighty changes. The whole world is learning lessons of vast value from the war, which cannot fail to influence the future course of every nation on the face of the earth. Out of the chaos and bloodshed of the universal clash in Europe will arise new combinations of governments and the rise and fall of thrones and dynasties.

To those who mark with interest the evolution of the nations which never halts, never rests, the manifest lesson to all is the value of preparedness in all things. It is the preparedness of forty years past that has enabled Germany to mobilize titanic hosts in a few days, marshal them by the network of railroads built to the frontiers in those years and hurl them on unprepared lands like gigantic thunderbolts. It is the preparedness of Britain on sea that has held the German fleet inactive and imprisoned it in the Kiel canal; captured or destroyed all her mobile cruisers on the high seas, and taken or shut up in neutral ports all her vast merchant fleet.

By the efforts for preparedness of one or two men, such as Gen. Joffre, France was saved from being crushed entirely in the beginning of the war and has been able to hold her own up to this point. By unpreparedness Russia has suffered enormous losses of her best fighting men and been forced to permit the Teutons to occupy vast areas of her territory. The close of this year finds the Allies striving hard to compensate for their oversights by tremendous efforts that are costing ten times as much as they would have done ten years ago.

Whether in nations or individuals organization and systemization mean success and are cheapest in the end. In the struggle of life which is another kind of warfare the individual who is best prepared is the one who survives even under the greatest stress and strain. One of the most significant maxims of proverbial wisdom is that of Ecclesiastes, "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do do it with thy might; for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom in the grave whither thou goest."

Nation, community or individual bearing into the coming year that lesson from the days that are past is formed for endurance and final triumph. The unready and those who will not learn by experience "are like the chaff which the wind driveth away."

WISHING each and all a Prosperous New Year, and thanking our liberal patrons for our most successful season in business in Glendale.

With the return of Henry Ford, patron of the Peace Ship party, owing to serious illness brought on by the wear and tear of the expedition, the hope that the mission will produce any effect seems rather small. Ford was not only the man who financed the party; he was also its life and soul. Whatever may be thought of the advisability of the undertaking there is no denying Ford's sincerity. His effort may have been based on mistaken grounds and may have originated from a narrow outlook, which only contact with the conditions in Europe could dissipate, but Ford himself was actuated by a strong desire to do good. All Ford's instincts are good, however they may clash with accepted conditions. At least he did what he thought was best to stop the cruel slaughter in Europe and demonstrated that one man was ready to do something more than talk. It may be that future use of these good intentions may be possible, though the time chosen for their manifestation was premature and the manner of carrying out the mission divorced from the regular channels of such attempts.

ODD DISHES MET WITH HERE AND THERE

Butterscotch Pie—One meets with many new concoctions and ways of serving foods in cosmopolitan New York, but only recently have we had our first introduction to candy pie. Though the recipe was difficult to procure, it was finally captured, and the experimenter may try it. Line a pie plate with light flaky crust. Bake the shell first. When removed from the oven, have ready the following mixture: Two cups of maple sugar, a half cup of butter, two tablespoons of rice flour mixed well together. Cook gently and allow it to come to boiling point; boil until thickened. Turn at once into the hot crust and set aside to cool and jell. Serve cold.

Banana Sweet Pickle—This is a good sweet pickle to serve with cold meats. It is much used by the Cubans in Havana, but is a strange dish to northerners. Make a very thick sirup of two cups of sugar and a half cup of water, add to it three tablespoons of vinegar, cloves, allspice and cinnamon to taste. While the sirup is hot pour it over a sliced dozen ripe bananas that have been sliced crosswise. Let the pickle stand several hours before serving.

Ham Muffins—These muffins are a Mexican delicacy and are unusual enough to be interesting. They are quite easily made. Beat one-quarter of a cup of butter to a cream; add gradually three-quarters of a cup of cold boiled ham chopped very fine, a well-beaten egg, one cupful of graham flour and one cupful of white flour sifted with two heaping teaspoons of baking powder and a cup of sweet milk. Have the muffin tins hot and well buttered, and bake the muffins for twenty-five minutes.

Artichoke Pie—The artichoke pie is made with an under crust. Boil two pounds of Jerusalem artichokes until tender, drain and mash them well, adding two dessertspoons of butter, half a cup of whipped cream, pepper, salt, and a dash of sugar. Slice one Spanish onion, fry lightly in butter and put a layer of the slices at the bottom of the crust-lined pie plate. Cover these with the mashed artichokes and cover the top with sliced potatoes that have been marinated for fifteen minutes in melted butter or olive oil. Dust with a little pepper and salt, and bake. The piecrust and potatoes will be done at the same time.

Chicken Chop Suey—This Americanized Chinese dish which New Yorkers have formally adopted is not as complicated or difficult to make as it would seem when one is eating it. It is quite within the possibilities of the home cook. Take the meat of a plump chicken and fry, after seasoning it well, in hot lard; add a cup of finely chopped ham, a half cup of finely minced celery, a half cup of green beans, a half cup of bamboo sprouts, and a half cup of thinly sliced button mushrooms. Add also a half cup of rich stock, and a quarter of a cup of Chinese sauce. Cover closely and cook until the chicken is tender. Thicken the sauce with flour beaten smooth in two tablespoons of cream, and add a tablespoon of finely chopped parsley. Serve hot with boiled rice.

Norwegian Fish Pudding—This pudding is seldom served outside of Norwegian surroundings, where it is a great favorite; but as it is easily made and very good, it is worth while to add its recipe to the home cookbook. Take two pounds of cold boiled codfish, free it from all skin and bones, and flake it. Add to it a Spanish onion chopped very fine, a pint of bread crumbs, a gill of melted butter, two tablespoons of chutney sirup, one cup of cream, and a half cup of milk. Put all into a buttered pudding dish and steam for an hour and a half. Unmold on a hot dish and have ready a rich drawn butter sauce, not too thick, in which a hard-boiled egg has been diced. Turn the sauce over the pudding and serve at once.

Japanese Salad—This dainty salad is served at an exclusive Japanese club of New York, and adds another unusual salad to the already long list. Chop two tart apples and add to them one cup of chopped celery. Dust all with pepper and salt, add six sliced truffles and a little finely chopped red pepper. Fold all in heavy mayonnaise and serve in lettuce leaves garnished with slices of preserved kumquats.

Polish Chops—It is seldom that we meet with recipes from Poland, but like all other nations, the Poles have their favorite dishes and this is one of the unusual ones. Select as many loin veal chops as are needed to serve one to a portion. Fry them quickly in fat in a hot frying pan. When done remove and drain. Have ready two onions chopped fine with a tablespoon of parsley, and a quarter of a pound of calf's liver chopped with four slices of bacon; mix all together; season, adding a little dusting of sweet herbs, and spread one side of the chops with the mixture. Dot each with little lumps of butter, put them in a buttered baking pan and turn around them a cup of heavy stock. Let them cook in the oven until the dressing mixture is done, basting often. Remove to a hot platter and turn the gravy over them.

Jewish Shallit—This recipe is an addition to the pie list and is seldom served outside of a Jewish home. As Jewish women are noted for their good cooking, their recipes are worth preserving. Line a deep pie plate with good crust. Put in a layer of chopped apple, a little grated lemon peel, bits of butter and two tablespoons of thin vanilla sirup. Cover with another layer of pastry; put on top of this another layer of chopped apple with a half cup of seeded raisins, half a cup of chopped nutmeats, the juice of half a lemon; dot with butter and add three tablespoons of vanilla sirup. Put on the top crust and seal it with the white of an egg. Butter the top and bake.

GOLD DREDGING IN CALIFORNIA FIELD

The Great Valley of California spreads out to the north and south in low undulations and plains as far as the eye can see. The great gold-dredging fields of California lie along the belt of country where the Sierra slope merges into the valley plain, but none of these fields is crossed by the Overland route. One productive district is near Folsom, about ten miles south of Rocklin, on American river. This district produced gold to the value of $2,498,603 in 1913. The Marysville dredging district, on Yuba river, about 30 miles northwest of Rocklin, produced $2,420,455 in 1913, and the Oroville district, on Feather river about 25 miles north of Marysville, $1,918,050. The gold is obtained by powerful electrically driven dredges—huge floating scows, some of them 150 feet long, provided with great buckets, linked together in an endless chain, for scooping up the gravel and with complete machinery for screening and washing the gravel and recovering the gold. Once floated in a pond, the dredges are made to dig their way through fields, or anything in their way, filling in behind them with washed gravel. The gold was brought down from the slopes of the Sierra Nevada and deposited in recent geologic time by the rivers near which the dredges are working. Of late years the hard boulders left by the dredges have been crushed and utilized as broken rock for road building. Some effort has been made also to restore the dredged ground to arable condition. Where this has been successfully accomplished in the Sacramento region vineyards and olive groves occupy areas from which gold and road metal have been mined.

LA CRESCENTA BRUSH FIRE

A brush fire that spread into considerable dimensions, driven by the strong winds of last night, started somewhere north of the Canyon walls, between La Crescenta and the Summit. The flames destroyed a large quantity of brush and small trees and also wiped out one small cabin. Some of the little vineyards in that district also were damaged. The fire has been mostly extinguished.

DISASTROUS $150,000 BLAZE DESTROYS PAVILION DE DANSE AND OTHER CONCESSIONS

For three days, yuletide revelry had been at its height at the Pavilion de Danse, Ocean Park. Midnight of Sunday came with the usual closing of concessions on the Fraser pier, and residents of the resort had retired to their homes, a tired and happy throng.

At 1 o'clock, a blaze, not unlike that of an explosion, broke forth from the dance pavilion. The flames quickly spread to adjoining amusement places and in thirty minutes when the first stream of water was turned into the roaring furnace, it seemed as though the million-dollar pier was doomed. This is the second time a disastrous fire has visited Ocean Park within three years.

The ever-spreading flames licked up concessions, pool hall, bowling alley, and began to eat its fiery way into the Ben Hur racing coaster. It was here that the Venice and Santa Monica fire departments, by desperate efforts, confined the fire.

Morning found the concessionaires moving their goods to places of safety. A force of men was at work clearing away the debris and boarding up the dangerous parts of the pier. The last embers of the burning piles, which had the night before supported a $150,000 amusement pier, were slowly dying out.

As the Evening News reporter in company with Chief Randall and several movie camera men, crossed over the charred plank of what was once the dance floor, Harry Middleton, manager of the destroyed pavilion, called out hopefully, "We begin rebuilding today, chief."

ISADELLE VAN EPPS GETS DOLL GIVEN AWAY BY GLENDALE HOUSE FURNISHING CO.

A big crowd was present at the drawing of the $10 doll given away at the store of the Glendale House Furnishing Co., at 417 Brand Blvd., Saturday evening, December 24. In all over 2500 tickets were brought to the store. The winning coupon was No. 2400, presented fifteen minutes after the drawing by little 12-year-old Isadelle Van Epps, of 431 South Louise street, Glendale. The young lady and her doll were taken home in state by Ezra Parker, proprietor of the store, in his auto. Mr. Parker says that as an advertising "stunt" the drawing was most successful.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

The Christmas musical service as given in the Glendale News was carried out in full. The cantata, "The Light Eternal," was rendered with great ability. The solo parts were sung with much effectiveness and the choruses exhibited a wonderful harmony in production. It would be invidious to speak of the personal efficiency manifested. All did admirably.

The splendid audience present was delighted and hearty in its praise of the work of the musicians. No more finished music has ever been given in this church. So great was the interest manifest that arrangements will be made for the reproduction of the cantata next Sunday evening.

The morning sermon on "The Spirit of Christ," by the pastor, was especially helpful and inspiring. The speaker emphasized in particular five characteristics of the Christ: (1) His compassion; (2) His consideration; (3) His service; (4) His sacrifice; (5) His joy. It was shown how these same things are needed in the world of today.

Somebody has found a good word to say for joy riders—they are not abusing horses.

The patrons of the Broadway school were most delightfully entertained on Thursday afternoon.

The pupils of the various grades, including kindergarten, gave a pleasing program consisting of songs, recitations and short plays.

The closing number is worthy of special mention. Members of the fifth grade, under the direction of their teacher, Miss Elizabeth Paul, gave the scene from "The Bird's Christmas Carol" where the Ruggles family are being groomed and trained for their Christmas dinner at the home of the Birds.

Immediately following the program there was a short business session. The picture went to the kindergarten room, Miss Nay, teacher.

LUTHERAN CHURCH

Large numbers greeted the pastor of the Lutheran church, the Rev. R. W. Mottern, when he opened his special services Christmas morning. All services were well attended. At the special Children's services Sunday evening a program of song and recitation by the little ones was of great interest. P. E. Leichinger presided at the organ and gave a fine rendering of "The Messiah" as opening voluntary. The choir gave some interesting pieces and a quartette, which stationed in an anteroom sang "Silent Night" was very effective. Elizabeth Mottern sang, with great effect, several solos and also aided in the organ accompaniments. A fine Christmas tree electrically lit, brought presents to the children and to all the classes. A Biblical drama illustrating the story of the Wise Men of the East, the Shepherds and the Star was cleverly given by the children and was well set off by electrical effects. The pastor announced that $100 had been raised toward clearing the mortgage on the church lot. It was also pleasing to note that all branches of the church have increased numerically 75 per cent during the past year.

AVOID BECOMING ECCENTRIC

Every young person should avoid, as far as possible, forming the habit of being eccentric. Everyone should act wisely and agreeably instead of cultivating the habit of being odd. Neighbors and others have rights which we are bound to respect. It is not a good place for a man to think so much of self that he forgets all about the rights of others.

A deathbed's a detector of the heart: Here tired dissimulation drops her mask, Through life's grimace that mistress of the scene; Here real and apparent are the same. —Young.

When man's stomach works harder than his hands everything will become a bore to him sooner or later.

GOVT. OWNERSHIP

U. S. FORESTER'S REPORT SAYS NATIONAL FORESTS CONSERVE TIMBER RESOURCES AND WATER POWER

The annual report of the forester of the Department of Agriculture made public today comments on the government ownership of water-power sites and timber as exemplified by the National Forest system. Financial burdens resting on private owners of uncut timber are held to have forced the manufacture of lumber without regard to market demands, and with consequent demoralization of the lumber industry and wasteful use of timber resources; while facts and figures regarding the water-power situation are given to prove that more rapid development of water-power in the west is mainly prevented by the lack of consumers, rather than by the absence of suitable legislation.

Water power permits taken out for National Forest projects, says the report, involve a total of 1,261,560 horsepower. Free permits cover 70,628 horsepower and the plants actually constructed or operating June 30 had an output of 341,276 horsepower; the rentals paying $89,000 during the year. The report comments on the water-power situation as follows: "New legislation permitting the government to grant a more secure tenure for the lands used, through the issuance of fifty-year leases, would, without doubt, make the financing of power developments on the public lands both easier and cheaper, and is very desirable; but the main obstacle to more rapid development than that which is now taking place is not lack of a new law but lack of a broader market for power. It is at least doubtful if either an amended law or private ownership of the public power sites would result in any general or material increase in power development in the western states in the immediate future. With rare and minor exceptions, existing power developments in these states are far in excess of market demands. The forest service is being constantly importuned to extend periods of construction on power permits on the plea that there would be no market available for the power if the project were developed. The per capita use of water power development in the three Pacific and the eight Mountain states is far in excess of that in any other section of the United States and more than five times the average for the United States as a whole. The development of the Pacific States is about 180 horsepower per thousand of population and in the Mountain states 120 horsepower, with a balanced average of 160 horsepower. New England, which is next in order, has less than 40 horsepower per thousand of population, and the whole United States about 30 horsepower."

"The drop of thirty per cent in the demands for National Forest stumpage," the report goes on to say, "as indicated by the falling-off in new sales, is a significant index of the unstable market for lumber and the serious conditions now obtaining in the forest-using industries." These conditions which are now the subject of a special study conducted by the Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the Federal Trade Commission and the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, "are related primarily to the carrying of enormous quantities of raw material, exploitable only during a long period of time, in private ownership. This load of uncut timber, with its far-reaching financial burdens, hampers or prevents the private operator from conditions of his market and to the competitive factors of more or less recent development. Hence a tendency toward a lumber output governed not by the requirements of the country but by the financial necessities of the owners of stumpage with its resultant market demoralization and wasteful use of timber resources. Had the National forests never been created, the conditions of trade depression and wasteful exploitation, detrimental alike to the interests of the lumber industry and the public, would have been markedly accentuated. The value of public ownership of a considerable part of the timber resources of the nation has never been demonstrated more strikingly than by the results of private ownership now manifest."

Although large commercial sales fell off, due to the depressed condition of the lumber market, says the report, the number of sales to settlers, farmers and small dealers at cost rates nearly doubled in number, while more than 40,000 free timber permits were issued—an increase of 549. The steady increase of this use, the Forester adds, indicates the importance of the National forests to the communities in which they lie and the stability of the local demand for their products.

The report discusses in detail the work of the Forest Service during the fiscal year ended June 30 last, showing a general increase in all forest activities except commercial timber sales. It predicts, however, a larger revenue from all sources for the fiscal year 1916, the general improvement in business conditions throughout the country having been already felt in the National forests, as shown by an increase during the first three months of about $119,000 over the earnings of the same period last year. During the fiscal year the total revenues were $2,481,469.35, an increase of $43,759.14 over 1914. Of the $5,662,094.13 provided by the regular appropriation for the Forest Service, says the report, $5,281,000 was expended for protection, utilization, and improvements, the cost of protection being increased by an extraordinarily severe fire season which necessitated emergency expenditures that were partly provided for by a deficiency appropriation of $349,243. An additional sum of about $196,000 was spent under the law which permits 10 per cent of the Forest receipts to be employed in road development for the public benefit.

The expenditures include, says the report, the protection of resources which as yet can not be made to bring in cash returns, such as inaccessible timber, as well as those which yield great general benefits not, however, measurable in money values. In this connection the report mentions that timber given free to settlers and others was worth more than $206,000 while that sold under the law at cost was worth $33,000 more than the government got for it. The revenue also foregone by allowing free use of certain grazing lands, adds the report, is estimated to exceed $120,000, while a moderate charge for privileges that are free would bring in at least $100,000 more. All this, says the Forester, has never been entered on the credit side of the Forest Service ledger.

DODGE BROTHERS CARS AS DESERT STAGES

Out in the Imperial Valley of California a fleet of eighteen Dodge Brothers motor cars are used as stages. They are known as the "Pickwick Stages," because of their starting at the Pickwick theater, San Diego.

Their route lies across a portion of the California desert and each car averages about 1000 miles per week. Various makes of motor cars were tried out by the Pickwick Stage company, which operates the line. About six months ago the first Dodge Brothers car was purchased and subjected to many tests on the route. The success was so striking that several more were bought and this number has been added to until there are now eighteen in use, and more are to be bought within a short time.

According to Mr. Hayes, one of the proprietors of the company, the upkeep on these cars has been remarkably light, and within a year he expects to operate Dodge Brothers cars only.

It's a safe bet that Orville Wright got more for his aeroplane interests this year than he would have got ten years ago.

Speaking of lessons of the war, the most impressive is that it is not going to be worth what it costs.

Persuasion indicates a strong will and obstinacy a strong won't.
