'LOST' AMERICAN FLYER REACHES ICELAND!

DAWES PLAN AGREEMENT REACHED

Long Plenary Session Ends When Reports Adopted By Delegation

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service.
LONDON, Aug. 2.—After a plenary session of two and one-half hours by the allied reparations commission, Col. J. A. Logan, official American observer, announced this afternoon that an agreement had been reached upon all points.

The heads of the delegations later went into conference to decide the terms of the invitation to Germany.

The plenary session adopted the reports of the first and third committees, but the question of the future status of the Ruhr railways was left to the "big seven" for adjustment.

It was decided that there should be the right of appeal from the transfer committee—the committee which will transfer Germany's reparations payments to the allies' governments.

A committee of jurists was appointed to draft regulations for appealing from the committee.

It is expected that the invitation to the Germans will be sent to Berlin this evening.

Colonel Logan characterized today's session as the "biggest step forward since the Versailles treaty."

United States and Mexico Relations Are 'Satisfactory'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Relations between the United States and Mexico are on a more satisfactory basis now than at any time since the Diaz administration, Charles Beecher Warren, who, on Monday, will resign as the American Ambassador to Mexico, declared today. Warren predicted that his successor would be appointed without delay, as President Coolidge, whose guest he is at the White House, is desirous of filling the post before the American-Mexican claims commission meets at Mexico City.

Seek Permission for Mother to Enter U. S.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2.—While a heart broken mother is waiting in Vancouver, B. Leopold, Loeb 'Mentally Sick', Asserts Alienist

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service.
CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Both Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard A. Loeb, were "intellectually capable" of choosing between right and wrong on the day they kidnaped little Bobby Franks and mashed his head with a cold chisel and hid his body in an isolated culvert, but "morally they had no feeling attitude about it."

This conclusion was drawn from Dr. William A. White, one of the alienists retained by the state's attorneys, today, on cross-examination by State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe.

REALTORS TO BOOST FOR GLENDALE

Local Board Members Meet To Plan for Stunts at Pasadena Gathering

Glendale is going to be in the limelight every minute that the annual convention of the California Real Estate association is in session at Pasadena in October if the plans outlined at last night's meeting of a number of realtors at the W. L. Twining home at 1734 Hillside drive are carried out.

Mr. Twining, as chairman of the convention committee, was host to a selected list of twenty members of the Glendale Realty board at a dinner at which the campaign to impress Glendale on the mind of every visitor to the convention was prepared in detail.

Program of Stunts
From the minute the south-bound caravan of northern realtors approaches the city limits until the last gavel rap marks the close of the convention, Glendale will be in evidence and the stunts that are to be presented will form one of the high lights of the sessions and will help to relieve the tedium that might otherwise develop through too close an application to business.

The reception committee that will welcome the caravan will be headed by L. H. Myers, Lon J. Haddock and his committee will work out the stunts program that is to include a lot of novel features; Secretary Jas. W. Pearson will have charge of the banners, pennants and achievement reports, which will include the report on the educational work of achievements during the past year; and George D. McMill will prepare the plans for holding the Home Town oratorical contest to select a representative for Glendale.

Other Assignments
E. P. Hayward was appointed to prepare for the nomination and election of directors of the Glendale board before the opening of the convention and other chairmen who will work to make Glendale's share in the convention a success are W. S. Kirk, advertising; Peter Hanson and W. L. Finlay, headquarters; H. L. Rhoades, finance; W. A. Horn, publicity; J. M. Boland, entertainment.

Blame Wind Gust for Death of Mail Pilot

RENO, Aug. 2.—Experienced flyers expressed belief today that a sudden gust of wind was responsible for the nose dive which carried William F. Blanchfield, United States air mail pilot, to his death late yesterday as he prepared to drop a wreath on the grave of Samuel Gerrans, world war veteran and air mail service mechanic. The plane crashed on a house, three women narrowly escaping. The gasoline tank exploded and plane and house went up in flames.

'No Accident Week' In Glendale, Aug. 10 to 16

While it is the desire of automobile drivers to reduce the number of accidents to the minimum all times of the year, yet there is something commendable in making a special effort for the period of one week to reduce automobile accidents.

Therefore, The Glendale Evening News calls attention to the period of time beginning Sunday, August 10 and ending Saturday, August 16, which will be known as "No Accident Week."

May the days of that week be significant on account of extra careful driving of automobiles.

If every driver will look out for his own safety and the safety of his fellow driver, accidents will be lessened still more, and possibly entirely avoided.

The great majority of Glendale drivers are careful and seek to avoid accidents. It is possible, therefore, through the exercise of every precaution, to eliminate accidents entirely.

"No Accident Week" will have the hearty support of the Glendale Automobile Dealers' association, and it will also have the support of the Glendale branch of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

FOREST FIRE CONTINUES IN NORTH

Little Progress Is Made In Combatting Flames as More Men Drafted

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—Despite almost herculean efforts to check forest fires burning throughout California little progress has been made in combatting the major blazes.

In the vicinity of Quincy, Plumas county, a fire which for a time was threatening the town was nearly out today, but the great fire near Nelson Point, a few miles to the northward, was raging today with renewed intensity, according to advices from Quincy.

Out of Control
The fire was sweeping up Feather River canyon and seven-five more fire-fighters were hastily recruited today and sent to the front to relieve and reinforce tired fighters who have been "on the line" for nearly a week. Additional men will be sent forward later.

The Hutchinson fire near Oroville, likewise, was reported out of control today and burning fiercely.

In the far south the Cleveland national forest fire was still out of control and causing grave concern. Paul G. Redington, district forester, is personally directing the battle against this blaze.

ANNEXATION MAY SOLVE PROBLEM

Sycamore Water Co. Seeks To Quit Service; City Gives District Aid

It is probable that a district in Sycamore canyon comprising about 300 acres and containing some twenty-five homes will have to consolidate with Glendale in order to assure a continuation of water service, according to Ray L. Morrow, city attorney, who represented Glendale yesterday in a hearing by the Sycamore Canyon Water company before the State Railroad commission, in Los Angeles, on an application to discontinue service.

The company was represented by Wellborn, Wellborn & Wellborn, Los Angeles attorneys, who claimed as grounds for the application that it is impossible to maintain and operate the service at a profit. The commission was presided over by Examiner Williams. After hearing the evidence, the application was taken under consideration.

Bills Uncollected
It was brought out that the Sycamore Canyon Water company has not collected its bills for the past three months, Mr. Morrow stated, and that there are no meters in the territory, a flat rate of $1 a month being charged each consumer.

Decisions handed down by the Superior court of California and by the Supreme court of the United States were read, according to Mr. Morrow, whereby it would appear that the company cannot be compelled to continue service on a losing basis.

Glendale Gives Aid
The city of Glendale has been furnishing water to the people of this district, Mr. Morrow stated, but is under no obligation to continue to do so. Annexation is probably the only way the problem can be solved, he declared.

In the event the people of this section desire to consolidate with the city of Glendale, a petition would have to be filed and a district election called, which according to Mr. Morrow could be accomplished within thirty days.

Michigan Sugar Beet Prospects Favorable

DETROIT, Aug. 2.—The Michigan sugar beet stand this year is excellent. In the northern part of the state, the beets are about two weeks late, but this applies to but 30 per cent of the Michigan acreage. The remaining 70 per cent is maturing finely. Abandonment has been negligible and insect pests and fungi are below the average. Shrinkage from all causes is not expected to be below 10 per cent, compared with 25 per cent last year, when 205,000 tons of beets were harvested from 41,377 acres yielding 76,550,000 pounds of sugar. Labor is plentiful and the Michigan Sugar company has 92,333 acres planted.

Oil's Well! for Nation's Capital Is Out of Debt!

It is the first time in history that the city has been out of debt, and it is believed that it is a record seldom equaled by any large city in the country.

Buyers of Dry Goods Place Heavy Orders

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 2.—Jobbers and retail stores here have been large buyers of dry goods in the last week and most of them have provided for present needs. Orders for fall shipments showed material improvement during the last few days as a result of activity in the primary goods markets. Most of these orders came from sections of the south not affected by dry weather. Merchants in districts where drought prevails still are indisposed to place orders until the crop outlook is more assured. Lumber sales have run nearly as high as in January, the best month of 1924, so far.

COMPANIONS FORCED TO GO BACK IN FOG

Lieutenant Nelson Travels 565 Miles From Scotland Over Misty Atlantic

ON BOARD U. S. CRUISER RICHMOND, HOUTON BAY, OFF SCOTLAND, Aug. 2.—(By Radio)—Lieutenant Erik Nelson, piloting the United States round-the-world airplane New Orleans, arrived at Houton bay late this afternoon.

Nelson became separated from Lieutenant Lowell Smith and Lieutenant Leigh Wade during a fog twenty-five miles off the Orkneys, but continued on his way, while the others turned back at Kirkwall. Nelson traveled the treacherous 565-mile stretch from Scotland to Iceland over the misty Atlantic in about nine hours.

Lieutenant Smith and Lieutenant Wade will leave for Iceland when better weather permits. Nelson followed the Faroe island route, passing the American destroyers Reid and Billingslee.

A radiogram from the Raleigh at 9:20 o'clock tonight said Lieutenant Nelson was twenty-five miles off the coast at 4 o'clock, Greenwich meridian time. Another wireless ten minutes later reported Nelson safe.

Change In Weather Causes Two of Planes to Put Back

KIRKWALL, Orkney Islands, Scotland, Aug. 2.—A sudden fog which rose above the North Atlantic after the United States army "round-the-world" fliers had left Houton bay at 9:25 o'clock for Iceland separated the aviators and upset plans for today's leg of the long flight.

Lieutenant Lowell Smith, the flight commander, and Lieutenant Erik Nelson in a fog bank twenty-five miles off the Orkneys and turned toward Houton. They did not know if Nelson continued his journey or tried to turn back to the starting point.

Residents of Kirkwall were surprised when at 11:16 o'clock an

POLITICAL WAR IN NEW YORK

The followers of Senator La Follette and Senator Wheeler, the real new senatorial presidential oligarchy, rose up today to remark that they, too, are going to fight for New York state in the coming election. Furthermore, the Progressives, as they call themselves now, are going to raise funds in New York city to help carry on their fight. It is asserted in most positive fashion, however, that none of it will trickle in from Wall Street.

State adherents of the La Follette-Wheeler political merger are planning to hold a big convention in Albany in about two weeks, and there has been some talk that they might endorse Mayor Hylan of that city, who is looking for a demand to come from the people that he run for governor against Al Smith in the event John W. Davis, the Democratic presidential candidate, is successful in getting Al to stand for a third term. Mr. Smith already has carried the Democratic banner in the state three times, twice successively, and is anxious to retire to private life, but national leaders of the party are insistent that he make one more stand in an effort to swing the forty-five votes of the Empire state into the Davis column.

Mayor Hylan is watching every move made by or in behalf of Governor Smith, and is holding out his own threat of an independent candidacy as a means of discouraging the Democrats in naming the governor a fourth time. The governor and the mayor love each other like a couple of strange bulldogs. The La Follette-Wheeler third party coalition might be to the liking of the mayor, but the third party people themselves seem a bit dubious about the mayor. They do not know whether he would stay put or not and most of the spokesmen of the conglomeration of forces arrayed under the La Follette banner are desirous of putting one of their own men at the head of the state ticket so there will be no danger of some one running away with the party at a crucial moment in the campaign.

The state conference for Progressive political action, which is still the name the La Follette followers cling to in New York state, has decided upon an active program and a full state ticket. There has been some talk that friends of Governor Smith among the disaffected political elements gathering around the La Follette flag may attempt to stampede the Progressive convention into an endorsement of the governor for a third time. These elements, however, are finding the same opposition which applies to Mayor Hylan. An endorsement of Al Smith, it is argued, might result in swallowing up of the entire Progressive movement in New York and work to the advantage of Mr. Davis and President Coolidge.

The Progressives are being urged to greater efforts by the national leaders at Washington. They are being told that the movement is growing like wildfire the country over, and there is no reason why the flames of discontent with the two old parties should not be fanned into full blaze here in the heart of the conservative east. The Progressives have been immensely pleased with the publicity they have been getting, and by the consideration given them by the Republican and Democratic managers. The third party is feeding fat upon the denunciations being heaped upon it and is gathering strength by the Republican announcement that it will draw its support from the Democrats and the Democratic statements that it will draw its support from the Republicans.

New England Republicans have come out with declarations that La Follette will get his greatest vote among the labor element in that section, which is said to be normally Democratic. Democrats of the middle country and northwest have predicted La Follette would get his greatest vote among the Republican farmers. The La Follette people are grinning at all this, and say it is evidence of extreme discomfiture on the part of the old line politicians.

MANY PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS

Public improvements are expected to act as a balance wheel in regulating the occupation of both capital and labor for the remainder of the year. This is indicated by the tremendous volume of municipal, county and state bond issues which have been absorbed by investors in the last two months. Money has been cheap and some municipal issues have recently been disposed of at a premium, enabling taxpayers to get public improvements under way under favorable financial circumstances.

The output of state and municipal bonds placed in June broke all previous records for a single month with an aggregate of $268,113,094 and the rate of absorption has been fully maintained in July. The previous high record was made in December, 1921, when a total of $220,466,661 was reached. The highest previous June was last year when the amount issued was $161,070,397.

An indication of the trend is furnished by the $11,000,000 issue of New Jersey highway bonds bearing 4 1/2 per cent interest which sold at a premium of about $163,000, permitting several additional miles of concrete highway to be built without cost to the state.

A partial list of the improvements to provide funds for which 576 issues were made by 431 municipalities and states, includes roads, street paving, schools, fire stations, parks, sewers, garbage and sewage disposal systems, waterworks, subways and bridges. These activities are expected to absorb a very large part of the labor which now is idle, or which may be released by any further curtailment of industrial activities and from the harvest fields.

The expenditure of the large sums indicated will have a marked influence on manufacturers of lumber, brick, steel and other construction materials. Prices of materials are being well maintained in most sections, but costs of building construction are showing a tendency to drop.

This is not due particularly to lower wages, although some crafts have accepted wage reductions in certain sections. The general trend of prices in the skilled trades still is upward, but the payment of bonuses is not so widespread. There is but little shortage of skilled artisans at present, but it is estimated that 35,000 such workers die or withdraw to other lines of industry each year, and it is doubtful if the number of apprentices now undergoing training will be more than sufficient to meet the ordinary needs in the next year.

"South America Could Feed Europe" says the Literary Digest. Still, North America would no doubt be expected to pay the board bill.

Candidate Dawes' accomplishments are such that he may be able to administer the oath of office and swear himself in next March.

WHAT'S A FELLOW GOING TO DO?

Some Popular Beliefs

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the arctic explorer, writing in the London Spectator, demolishes many popular errors to which most of us still cling, although they are vestiges of uncritical ages.

Many people have been indignant that their time-honored beliefs should thus be attacked and have written letters protesting against the Stefansson article.

1. In the first place Stefansson says that the north pole is not the coldest place on earth, as many people imagine.

Oceans always act as a moderating influence upon temperature and the north pole is surrounded by the sea.

There are parts of the United States and of Siberia where the cold is greater than at the north pole.

The temperature at the pole never falls below 60 degrees. In Montana thermometers have registered 60 degrees and in Siberia there are places where 70 degrees and 80 are not uncommon, and one of them has experienced 93 degrees, which is 30 degrees below the temperature of the north pole.

2. Another popular belief is that ostriches bury their heads in the sand. This superstition, Stefansson says, is thousands of years old, but exists only among races unfamiliar with ostriches' habits.

Colonel Roosevelt told Stefansson that when in Africa he had diligently inquired of all negroes he ever met whether they had ever seen ostriches bury their heads. They had never heard of such a thing and on the contrary expressed the greatest respect for this bird's astuteness.

"You see," said Colonel Roosevelt, "those negroes had not the advantage of an American education."

It is reasonable to suppose that if ostriches were as stupid as reputed they would all fall prey shortly to other predatory animals.

3. Another superstition which Stefansson attacks is the habit of rubbing snow on any part affected by frost-bite.

"This," he declares, "is an interesting survival in folk lore of one of the most fundamental principles of ancient logic, that 'like cures like.'"

He tells us that the Eskimo never employs this method and when it is suggested to him he rejects it as in the highest degree absurd and dangerous.

"It is possible," says Stefansson, "to get thousands to testify to the beneficial effect of the snow treatment of frost-bites, but not nearly as many as would have testified, in Columbus' time, to the flatness of the earth, or, in Washington's time, to the efficacy of blood-letting."

4. The next superstition attacked is that human beings cannot live on meat alone. He himself has gone four hundred days without tasting vegetable food.

Certain Eskimo tribes subsist solely on meat and fish and eat vegetables only in the direst straits, to avoid starvation.

5. He denies the belief that Eskimos are especially fond of fat and that they drink oil.

"The Eskimos," he writes, "undoubtedly would be fond of fat and might even drink oil, if it were true that they were exposed to more cold than the rest of us, but the fact is that the Eskimos are actually exposed to less cold than the average American or Englishman."

He supports this declaration by informing the reader that Eskimo houses in winter are so superheated that the inhabitants frequently sit naked around the open fire with perspiration running down their bodies. And when they go out they are clothed as warmly as though they were inside a thermos bottle.

6. Another common assumption which Stefansson attacks is that the languages of primitive peoples are simple. On the contrary, the Eskimo language is enormously complex, with twenty-seven forms for every noun and elaborate declensions of verbs.

Furthermore, the Greenlandic everyday vocabulary is many times greater than that of the average American or Englishman.

While our English dictionary contains vastly more words than the Eskimo dictionary it is because we preserve many thousands of dead words, and because science has given us highly specialized words with which only the exceptional man is familiar.

The Eskimos, on the contrary, have no written language at all, so that every word contained in the Eskimo dictionary is in use today.

The Ravings Of a Grouch

A crony of mine who thought he had been treated unfairly by his employer said to me the other day: "There is no justice in the world." And sometimes when I look about I have to admit that he is not far from the truth.

As for myself, I have enjoyed prosperity and I have suffered the reverse. But those things do not mean very much to me as long as I have the reasonable amenities of life. But I never could understand why, or reconcile myself to the fact that some little children have to be born in poverty and suffer all sorts of hardships, such as hunger and cold, lack of schooling, hard labor, perhaps leading to a life of crime, while others have too much care and attention. To me this is most appalling injustice. I cannot reconcile it with the truth of a loving God.

It is often said that there is no such thing as luck. That we can make our lives what we will. That is a pretty-sounding theory and true, in a measure. Nevertheless there are those who can affirm that there is really such a thing as ill-fortune and good-fortune, as ill-fortune and good-fortune, that, try as we will, we cannot all attain the same intellectual heights, we have not all the same capacity for amassing wealth. Some of us really do have limitations that cannot be overcome. Many a fellow has been a success in life because he has had no opportunity to be anything else, and the reverse is true, too. Of course I know that many have won their way to high places by their own efforts alone.

I have seen boys and girls trying to acquire the education they should have had in childhood and playing a losing game in their efforts to make good in some position. Others with no better qualifications, but with greater opportunities outstripped them in the race. When men are well along in years you may say: "This one made the most of his opportunities, that one neglected his." But you cannot say this of children or young people just starting out in life.

I have seen people who had every care in their childhood turn against their parents in old age. Is this justice? Some surround their aged parents with luxuries and others have to see their mothers, equally dear, do without the things that would make life easy for them.

The man who steals a bottle of milk or a loaf of bread is punished and he should be. The one who can hire legal talent to help him keep his thefts within the law goes free. Where is justice?

I am apt to be pessimistic when I get to thinking of this question of justice.

Horoscope

This should be a fairly fortunate day, according to astrology. Saturn, Venus and Mercury are all in benefic aspect. Mars is adverse.

While this configuration prevails women should benefit greatly. Whether in the world of business or in home associations.

Happy should be the bride who weds under this way of the star, for she should have many years in which prosperity as well as love will safeguard her.

Labor matters should be more satisfactory insofar as workers are to gain political power.

There is a promising rule for women who sign contracts. Actresses may count this their lucky day.

All who would settle accounts and systemize their financial affairs are supposedly to be wisely guided by this day's aspects.

Again the planetary government is most auspicious for all who engage in advertising or publicity work.

Politics continually subject to a direction of the stars making for misdirected energy, personal quarrels and general uncertainty.

Libels and misrepresentations will be numerous while this rule prevails. Sensational incidents will be numerous, it is prophesied, as this month wanes.

Women are now subject to planetary vibrations making for great satisfaction with old political parties and many will seek indepen-

Smiles

BOTH ARE RIGHT
A conductor and a brakeman on a Montana railroad differed as to the proper pronunciation of the name "Eurelia." Passengers at this station are often startled to hear the conductor yell:

"You're a liar! You're a liar!" And it does not help matters when the brakeman immediately pops his head through the rear door and remark:

"You really are! You really are!"

Bankruptcies in New Zealand year totaled 95; in 1921 there were 366 and in 1920 only 145.

The seers declare that in this new era women are to attain great power in business as well as in government affairs, but this year they will merely begin what is to be the revolutionary in world co-operation.

Speculative activity is likely to mark the first days of this month, but only the very wise may hope to reap gains.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the forecast of a year in which they will meet many friends and they should beware of accidents. Young girls will receive offers of marriage.

Children born on this day may be headstrong and quick tempered but clever and abundantly able to win success. Girls should marry happily. These subjects of Leo usually have pleasant lives.

Today's Poem

IN OUR BOAT
Stars trembling o'er us and sun-set before us,
Mountains in shadow and forests asleep;
Down the dim river we float on forever,
Speak not, ah, breathe not—there's peace on the deep.

Come not, pale sorrow, flee till tomorrow;
Rest softly falling o'er eyelids that weep;
While down the river we float on forever,
Speak not, ah, breathe not—there's peace on the deep.

As the waves cover the depths we glide over,
So let the past in forgetfulness sleep,
While down the river we float on forever,
Speak not, ah, breathe not—there's peace on the deep.

Heaven shine above us, bless all that love us;
All whom we love in thy tenderness keep!
While down the river we float on forever,
Speak not, ah, breathe not—there's peace on the deep.

GLENDALE, LOS ANGELES COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, AUGUST 2, 1924

"Ye Market Place", Built Entirely Of Stone-Tile, Nears Completion

A Glendale product, STONE-TILE, is used exclusively in the construction of the latest business block addition to the commercial district on Los Feliz road, between Brand boulevard and Central avenue, which has a frontage of 200 feet on Los Feliz road, and a depth of 175 feet. There will be thirty stores under one roof when the building is completed, each store having outside frontage. A unique feature will be a large court for entrance with plenty of parking space. Every convenience for shoppers will be provided in the completed structure, and the grouping of the thirty stores under one roof will enable the housewife to buy all necessary articles for the house, without becoming weary from a long shopping tour. "YE MARKET PLACE" will be ready about September 1, and when completed will stand as a monument to the rapid growth and marvelous gains in the business activities of Glendale. This building is only one of the many structures now being built or completed in this territory within the last year where STONE-TILE was used exclusively in the construction.

WANT LOWER COSTS FOR BONDING

Present $20 Charge Is Too High, Says Association's Law Committee

Indiscriminate bonding of applicants for a real estate broker's license is frowned upon by the legislative committee of the California Real Estate association, and efforts are to be made to reduce the cost of a $200 bond, now fixed at $20, through conference with the representatives of the surety companies.

Freeman H. Bloodgood, former real estate commissioner of California, is the chairman of the committee which held a preliminary meeting to ascertain what recommendations should be made at the quarterly meeting of the state directors of the California Real Estate association to be held in Long Beach, August 16.

It was decided to call upon President Barbour to appoint a committee to confer with the bonding interests to the end that a reduction in the cost of the bond may be brought about.

It was further suggested that the purpose of the legislation creating the bond feature of the Real Estate Act should be more closely adhered to, and that each applicant for a bond should be required by the surety companies to answer a questionnaire fully setting forth his financial responsibility, his moral character and his general business reputation in his community. Only those qualifying to the tests required for the average bond should be granted a bond, according to the committee.

Girl Scouts Will Go To Camp at Laguna

LA CRESCENTA, Aug. 2.—Sunday morning the Girl Scouts of La Crescenta valley will assemble at the home of Scout Captain Jessie Hansen at 6:45 a. m. The Captain asks each Girl Scout to bring her full equipment and to be on time. No truck being offered the girls, they have had to practically drain their bank accounts to hire one, and as there was a shortage of cars to carry the Scouts themselves, they will ride with the equipment in the truck.

About sixteen Scouts will go the first week, all of them being from the older patrol, and next week the younger girls will go to the camp at Laguna. In the provisions is a large box of marshmallows and on the last night of each patrol's holiday there will be a marshmallow bake on the beach. Mrs. Hansen has provided a steamer trunk of clothes for giving impromptu plays around the camp fires in the evening.

Hoover to Speak at Iowans' State Picnic

LONG BEACH, Aug. 2.—A speech by Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, native of Iowa, and one of California's foremost adopted sons, is advertised as the big attraction at the Iowa state picnic in Bixby park here August 9, one week from today, which will be attended by no less than 50,000 former residents, it is predicted.

Alhambra Men Head $100,000 Corporation

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2.—Articles of incorporation have been filed with the county clerk here by the Western Carbon Paper Manufacturing company of Los Angeles, the directors, C. K. Bland, E. W. Rutledge and Alfred Barstow, all residing in Alhambra. Capital stock is $100,000.

REALTORS TO CONTINUE STUDIES

University Course Will Be Available In October, Chairman Claims

Increased activity in educational work is promised by Harrison J. Lewis, chairman of the educational committee of the California Real Estate association, for the fall semester. In co-operation with the realty boards and the University of Southern California classes were established in fifteen cities last spring, the last class having completed its first thirteen weeks of lessons last Tuesday.

About 1000 real estate brokers, salesmen and property owners took the course under the auspices of the realty boards of the state association. All of these boards will continue their educational work and additional classes will be organized.

According to Chairman Lewis it is likely that by the first of October the University of California will have completed a course in real estate practice similar to the one now used by the University of Southern California.

Upon graduation in the courses now given by the University of Southern California in conjunction with the California Real Estate association, a diploma is being awarded to those who have satisfactorily completed the lessons. It is believed that such a diploma will subsequently be accepted by the State Real Estate commissioner as prima facie evidence of the ability of an applicant to hold a broker's license, and that all holders of such diplomas will not have to answer a questionnaire or pass any further examinations to procure a license.

Prominent Business Men of City Are Members Of Company Which Will Put Glendale on Map as Great Commercial Center

With a frontage of 200 feet on Los Feliz road and a depth of 175 feet, comprising some thirty individual store buildings under one roof, "Ye Market Place," which is now nearing completion between Brand boulevard and Central avenue, is assuming added importance each day, not only as an attractive show place for Glendale, but as concrete evidence of the progressive spirit of the forward looking business men of this rapidly growing city.

"Ye Market Place" is all that the name implies—a complete market place where practically every want of the family can be taken care of insofar as the purchase of merchandise is concerned, being owned by a company composed of the following prominent Glendale men, to whose keen business acumen it will be a standing monument for many years: C. L. Peckham, president; John G. Crofton, secretary and treasurer; J. L. Flint, Chas. T. Green, G. K. Bolt, C. T. Mace, C. T. Ray, directors.

Big Parking Space
As a building "Ye Market Place" is a real achievement in design and construction, being so arranged that each store space has outside frontage, with a large court for entrance and parking which is approximately 140 feet by 145 feet. There will be thirty individual stores under the one roof, each store being 14 feet by 30 feet in size.

The entire building is constructed of Stone-tile throughout, a Glendale product, manufactured by the Concrete Brick and Tile company of this city. R. E. Johnston, president of this company, is well known throughout the Glendale district, being a prime mover in practically all of the activities which are fast putting Glendale on the map as a business city of more than average importance.

Stone-tile was selected as the building material for "Ye Market Place" because of its many features which are coming to be realized as highly desirable for structures of all classes, such as: Permanency, strength, resistance to fire and its attractiveness and over-all economy. The arches throughout the building are also built of Stone-tile, the east, west and south walls being what is termed "struck," or pointed, presenting a very attractive grey wall effect. The front of the entire building is to be stuccoed in white, and will be very beautiful.

In Many Buildings
The Concrete Brick and Tile company has furnished Stone-tile for many new buildings in this district during the past year, and at the present time, according to President Johnston of the Concrete Brick and Tile company, there is a large number of buildings under construction in which its product is being used. Among others are the following:

Montrose theatre, Montrose, one of the largest jobs in this district, which is being built entirely of Stone-tile.

The L. H. Wilson garage, 520 West Garfield street.

One story building being erected by May and Hellman, contractors, at San Fernando and Los Feliz roads.

The Messenger building, also being erected by May and Hellman, for garage purposes, at Harvard street and Glendale avenue.

The Sontag store building on Glendale avenue near Broadway, which was designed by Alfred Priest, Glendale's well known architect.

Building for J. F. Baudino on rear of lot at corner of Los Feliz and San Fernando roads.

A fine new building for O. M. Newby near the corner of Broadway and Central avenue, being built by Contractor S. S. Beran.

It is the intention of the owners of "Ye Market Place" that business of practically every desirable kind will be represented in this complete market center, being limited to one of each different line, so that the busy housewife can utilize her limited time to the very best advantage, eliminating countless steps going to and fro on shopping tours. Every convenience will be provided for the comfort of patrons, including telephone stations, drinking fountains and a number of individual rest rooms for the tired shopper.

ATTACKS ON SOUTHLAND REFUTED

Anti-California Propaganda Disproved by Facts In Editorial

Under the caption of "Truth," the following editorial appeared in the Los Angeles Reator, the official publication of the Los Angeles Realty board:

Since time immemorial Los Angeles has been the object of bitter, jealous attack from various other sections of the United States. But never before has there been a more sustained flood of misrepresentation and innuendo than has added and swirled over various eastern cities and middle western states regarding this city and its environs during the last six months.

The delegates from the Los Angeles Realty board who attended the Washington convention were met with the query on every hand from representatives of almost every part of the United States—"My, what a terrible slump you are having in Los Angeles! I hear the bubble has burst. How about it?"—and other expressions of like import.

As a matter of fact, for the first six months of 1924, the dollars and cents involved in realty transactions are 20.5 per cent greater than represented in the real estate transfers during the same period of 1923 which was a record year for Los Angeles realty activity. These figures were specially furnished The Reator by E. L. Farmer, vice-president of the Title Insurance & Trust company, and one of the most careful business statisticians in the west.

Fair Barometer
While these figures are for Mr. Farmer's company alone, they represent the same proportion, practically, for all other title companies. Owing to the method of transacting realty operations in Los Angeles, this percentage is a fair barometer and is strictly attack proof.

Taking the same standard of comparison, the first six months of 1922 represent an increase of 35.56 per cent in dollars and cents over the same period of 1921, while 1923 was 193 per cent greater than 1921, and 1924 has shown a 145 per cent increase over 1921.

The terrible "slump" caused the building permits for the first six months of 1924 to be practically two-thirds of the 1922 total for the entire year, and it is only $14,000,000 behind the record breaking 1923 building pace for the first six months which nobody of sound and rational mind expected would be equaled in 1924.

These figures are taken from reports issued by J. J. Backus, head of the city building department, and the compilation was made by his chief statistician, R. L. Balaam, and the authenticity of these statements certainly never will be doubted by any critic.

Bank Deposits Grow
The "slump" is furthermore indicated by an increase in Los Angeles

Lane Makes Offer to Buy Vernon Franchise

An offer of $175,000 for the franchise of the Vernon baseball club was made by William Lane, owner of the Salt Lake team, to Ed Maier yesterday, according to Harry A. Williams. It is believed that if Lane can obtain a fifty-year lease on the new Wrigley park the deal will go through.

Williams states that Lane would be a popular owner if he should obtain the franchise. In Salt Lake he has proved his gameness time and again since he has taken hold of the club in 1917. Lane is a bachelor and a millionaire several times. He owns five mines in Utah and has been a miner the greater part of his life.

Montrose Residents Select Name for Park

MONTROSE, Aug. 2.—The park at Glendale and Crescent avenue has been named Washington Place by the citizens of Montrose, who recently gathered there to consider a name for the spot. Captain Famel made the motion to adopt this name and it was seconded by E. G. Leuntzel. Captain Famel also pledged his services as caretaker for the coming two years, having acted in this capacity for the past two years, watering and caring for the shrubs free of charge.

Dense forests of valuable timber are found in interior Guiana.

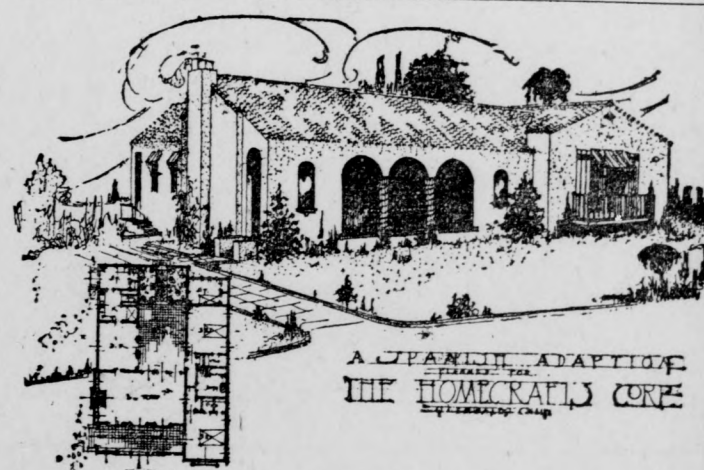

WILL AWARD TROPHIES AT MEET

Realtors Will Compete for Prizes of Value at October Convention

Many cups and trophies will be awarded to the realty boards and members of the California Real Estate association at the twentieth annual convention to be held at Pasadena October 8, 9, 10 and 11, probably none is more important or more sought after than the famous Fred E. Reed "Home Town Contest Cup," awarded to the real estate broker who in five minutes makes the best address setting forth the advantages of the city in which he lives and operates. But one member may represent a board in this contest, and already entries are being made at the offices of the state association.

Pasadena holds the trophy now, having won it last year at Sacramento when President Robert A. Swink delivered his prize-winning

SPORTS

FAST BALL GAME ON BILL SUNDAY

White Sox Meet Champions Of Entire U. S. Navy Here Tomorrow

One of the fastest semipro baseball games ever staged in Glendale is promised for tomorrow when the champion White Sox take on the title bearers of the navy, the Air Fleet Station team of San Diego. The airmen won the naval pennant by victories over every battleship and station fleet in the entire United States, while the White Sox defeated every team in the summer league twice, and has piled up a record of twenty-five consecutive victories.

Advance dope from down towards borderland is that the White Sox are due for an upset tomorrow afternoon. To assist the airmen in putting a game into their endeavor to turn back the pale horse wearers and cut short the string of unbroken victories, a collection of nearly 2000 loyal fans is coming from the southernmost port on the Pacific coast to root for the airmen.

It behooves every true, dyed-in-the-wool baseball fan of this and surrounding cities to be present at the park on San Fernando road tomorrow to lend moral support to the White Sox by long and frequent cheers, thus offsetting to a degree the clamor the San Diego fans are going to make.

Elmer Reiger, who has hurled the Sox to victory in a number of games in recent weeks, will draw the pitching assignment for tomorrow, according to Boss Carl Sawyer. Big Boy Joe Sullivan will be behind the plate to do the receiving. Shellenbach will play his customary good game at first, Sawyer will hold down the key-stone sack, Shields will cavort around third and Hirigoyen will be stopping 'em at short. In the outer gardens, waiting for the pelings of the airmen, will be Cy Young, Charlie Dorman and Frency Orsatt.

Two scouts from major league teams will be on hand to look over the work of some of the players. One scout is from the Chicago Cubs, while the other is hunter for the St. Louis Cardinals, and it is almost certain some of the players will receive tempting offers if they play like they have been recently.

Line-Up For Tomorrow

Dan Kelly and Carl Klindt are expected to reach here tonight with the Air Station team, champions of the entire United States navy, for their game tomorrow with the Glendale White Sox to decide the semi-pro title of Southern California. Branch will be the airmen's choice for the mound, while Reiger, who has been working out the last few days with the Vernon Tigers, will hurl for the local team. The line-up for tomorrow's game will be:

Helen Wills Returns With Olympic Honors

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Back from "a wonderful trip" and winner of the Olympic tennis championship, Miss Helen Wills, American tennis champion, had only one regret today and that was that she did not get to engage Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, French tennis star, on the courts. I am proud and glad over the outcome of my contest," said Miss Wills. "I saw Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen play one set at Wimbledon. My only regret of the entire trip was that I was unable to arrange a match with her."

Church Deacon Faces Non-Support Charge

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—Benjamin J. Richards, a deacon and prominent in local church circles, was brought to city prison here on a charge of failure to provide for his family. Richards was arrested in Santa Monica, California, where he has been for many days and his body was the object of an extensive search following receipt by Mrs. Richards of a suicide note in which he planned to end it all.

Cardinals and Phillies were idle on account of rain.

SAGE, M. ROCKSON BATTLE TO DRAW

Three Knockdowns and Lots Of Slugging In Main Bout Last Night

Fight followers who crowded the Hollywood Legion stadium last night saw one of the best battles ever presented at that emporium of mits, when Bob Sage, Detroit lawyer, who has recently stepped into the fight game, and Mickey Rockson, who won fame by getting a draw with Bert Collins, battled four fierce, fast and furious rounds to a great draw. Sage refused on the canvas in the first and second rounds, while Rockson inspected resin at close range in the third, and was on the verge of losing the fight then and there. Both men played to the face most of the time, but in the third and fourth rounds, Sage shifted his attack and hit to the body a great deal. The fight pleased the fans, and the two lads are sure of more milling at Hollywood.

The main-windup failed to cause much excitement. Johnny Lamar getting the decision over Johnny Drew without much effort. Frankie Osner copped the decision over Ernie Ross in the special bout, Frankie winning the last three rounds after being floored for a count of seven in the opening stanza. Jim Pimenthal and Toby Montoya boxed a good draw. Red Williams gave Jack Moore a lesson in handling his mitts and keeping out of range, and walked away with an easy decision. Chuck Borden won over Joe Sacco, and Billy Hart won from his opponent by doing any further damage to Kid Texas in the second round.

URGENT FORMATION OF ONE BOROUGH

Problem Agitates Residents Of Eagle Rock; Charter Ruling Quoted

EAGLE ROCK, Aug. 2.—The borough problem is greatly agitating residents of this community. Some, and among them Mrs. H. R. Collins, president of the Eagle Rock Improvement association, favor one large borough including all of northwest Los Angeles. Chairman C. W. Young of the borough committee, on the other hand, contends that it is impractical to consider a union of Eagle Rock with Rockdale, Highland Park with Annadale, owing to transportation problems. While Occidental college is taking no active part in the discussion, Professor Thompson stated at a special meeting Tuesday at the city hall that Occidental college "fundamentally belongs with Eagle Rock" and declared that whatever decision the Eagle Rock people reached in the matter, Occidental college would be included.

CHARTER RULING

According to the city charter, a borough must consist of either 4000 acres or 40,000 population. Frank H. Bowen, secretary of the Highland Park Improvement association, voiced no opinion on the matter, and later explained that the borough question had not yet been constituted an issue in Highland Park. He denied the report published in a Rockdale publication to the effect that the people of Highland Park had been occupied in deciding upon boundaries and stated that the borough question had not yet been discussed before the association, but that he expected that it would be eventually taken up.

PHILIP BEGUE AND TWO SONS

Philip Begue and two sons, Frank and Philip, Jr., who are known throughout Southern California for their prowess as deer hunters, packed their trusty rifles and camp equipment yesterday and started for the land of the elusive deer, with several other Glendalians in their party. Richard Uriquedes, of 601 West Vine street, headed another party in the general direction of Frazier mountain, with deer as their goal. H. R. Bowers, of Western avenue, and Bob Morrow, of 410 North Adams, are at the head of another party seeking deer in that territory. Mr. and Mrs. Sol A. Rehart of 626 North Jackson street, will go to Piru for several weeks. Walter F. Vickery and family, of 1223 Campbell street, left Glendale today for a two weeks' fishing trip along the coast.

OPEN HERE SEPTEMBER 16

The season for deer in the inland country north of here will not open until September 1 and will extend to October 15. Deer hunting in Los Angeles county is permitted from September 16 to October 15. The limit is two deer during the season, and they must be forked horned animals. The sage hen season also opened yesterday in all districts except district 45. The limit is four a day and eight a week. There is very little sage hen hunting in Southern California at the present time, according to reports.

That's All Democrats Look For Row Candidacy Of La Follette Political Writer Quits The Beaches And Sunburn

By Gil A. Cowan

With nothing better to quarrel about the Democrats have raised a row over National Defense day—September 12 having been set aside by President Coolidge for the purpose of calling attention to the need of America recognizing the service of its fighting arms, the army, navy and marine corps. In no sense was it to be a preparedness measure, but more for less an effort to educate the public.

Of course there are those who oppose anything militaristic in the belief that militarism means war. In this they are mistaken, for there is nothing a soldier wishes to do anything else but, as the saying goes, Fighting is the last resort; be prepared is the first step in peace or war. The arguments offered against National Defense day are silly.

Senator Frank Willis expresses the opinion that La Follette's candidacy will hurt the Democrats more than the Republicans. He believes the Wisconsin senator will find much discontent in the west as the result of John W. Weeks being named standard-bearer of the Bourbons.

And with a prosperity coming along with its smile for the farmer there is no doubt but what the Republican lines will hold fairly fast.

All of which looks like an easy victory for Coolidge.

With the retirement of Eddie Hamilton, San Francisco political writer, and the rest of the old statesmen at Sacramento, there is not going to be so much virile copy emanating from the capitol this next session of the Legislature.

There is no doubt but what a determined fight will be made on Governor Richardson's program, but he has shown himself capable of taking care of problems as they arise and there is every evidence that his stand will be reinforced, instead of weakened by the new class of legislators.

Partially bearing out the governor's attitude in the school situation is the incomplete report of the investigating committee which has found that the system in California lacks the "human" element.

Just how could a perfectly odd machine be human, anyway?

If it is not too late a word of warning again about sunburn. Do not think that you are immune unless you have acquired a coat of tan.

Many people will visit the beaches tomorrow and disport themselves in much of nature's garment. Oil the skin well before cooking it, folks.

Otherwise you will suffer from sunburn that is more painful than words will describe.

Glendale has a huge program of bonding ahead. Every taxpayer should study the various proposals of the city. A million and three quarters in cash is a considerable sum of money for investment.

Personally, if it were yours to spend, you would know the wherefor and why. The same should be true with the city's funds.

GLENDALIANS OFF ON DEER HUNTING

Frazier Mountain Is Goal Of Parties as Season Declared Open

With the opening of the deer season yesterday in districts 2, 2 1/2 and 3, which embraces all coast counties north of Los Angeles county, several parties made for Frazier mountain, where the deer hunting is reported the best in years, according to information received at Cornwell & Kelly, headquarters for hunters and fishermen.

Philip Begue and two sons, Frank and Philip, Jr., who are known throughout Southern California for their prowess as deer hunters, packed their trusty rifles and camp equipment yesterday and started for the land of the elusive deer, with several other Glendalians in their party. CHAPTER XVIII

About a week after the party Craig told her, casually and in Kraut's presence, that he had seen Kronski again. Mrs. Dwyer had given him an evening reception after his last New York concert; Kronski had been sailing in the morning. Craig did not tell her that the young violinist, with his shock of black hair, and his black eye-glass ribbon, and the tiny colored emblem of his foreign decoration in his buttonhole, had been a surprisingly imposing, almost forbidding, figure, in the Dwyers' elaborately equipped music-room. He, Craig, had found him impressive, oddly restored by his very ungraciousness to that pedestal upon which he had originally placed him. There was nothing of the genial peasant in Kronski seen thus; Mrs. Dwyer indeed had pronounced him to be dissembling and conceited, and with some truth. But Craig could forgive the musician for showing his worst side in that particular atmosphere.

Hilary reminded herself bravely, "since those terrible days seven years ago, when Father died. We are both well, and out of debt, and we have saved money for study, as I told him we would. And we love each other, and we do have lots of fun working out verbs with Madama Gheechi, and improvising, and everything! I head to pray in those days, and dedicate myself to what I had planned to do, and ask God to help me do it. And now I must make a fresh start, and plan again, and pray more than I do."

"And first of all," she reminded herself, more than once, walking through the shabby old streets in the heavy January weather, "first of all, I must put this nonsense about Craig Spaulding out of my head! Even supposing that he did love me, I could not marry him with the idea that I could help Butterfly that way! Every marriage is a whole job by itself, and I should have a pretty hard time keeping up with those friends of his, and not making stupid mistakes! And what would Butterfly do? What could she do, except marry some miserable young spendthrift like Victor Morrill?"

"Besides, it's all so silly! Craig Spaulding doesn't ever think of me—he's in love with that pretty little Mrs. Vanderwort, if he is with anybody. So now that's settled, and I know that if I do my share God will find me the right place in life, and help me become a good, busy, happy woman!"

But spring began to come to Mount Holly, coquettishly and slowly, as is the fashion of spring in New Jersey; but with an infinite sweetness and graciousness, and with spring several elements as cold as the winter winds, and as hard as the packed snow, began to soften and to melt in several human hearts.

One of these hearts was Violet Vanderwort's. She drew Craig Spaulding aside, at a certain February dinner, and said to him very softly, with her eyes dropped to the little hand she laid on his forearm:

"Craig, I don't want to see too much of you now for awhile. You and I have got to go different places, and not even think about each other!"

"What have I done, Violet?" Craig asked, after a pause.

"You?" She flashed him a look, looked down again. "No," she said, in a low voice, "but it's because I don't want people to say that it's on your account that

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY RAKES THE LAWN

"Good morning, Uncle Wiggily!" called Mrs. Moo, the lady cow, as she stood looking over the fence of the rabbit gentleman's hollow stump bungalow one day. "Don't you want your grass cut?" she asked switching her tail from side to side. "It is growing very long."

"Why, yes, thank you, Mrs. Moo; I think perhaps it might be a good idea for you to cut my lawn," replied Mr. Longears sort of slow and careful like, as a Scotchman might be in pouring out molasses.

So the lady cow jumped over the fence, which was easy for her to do, since once she had jumped over the moon, the day the dish ran away with the spoon.

Wrapping her tongue about bunches of grass, Mrs. Moo pulled them up out of Uncle Wiggily's lawn. You know a cow has no teeth in her upper jaw, though she has some below, and when she wants to bite off grass she must wind her tongue about it and pull.

"It is a very good thing to have a lady cow cut your grass," said Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy to Uncle Wiggily, as they watched Mrs. Moo out on the lawn. "It makes the place look better and Mrs. Moo can also eat the grass and turn it into milk. Which couldn't be done if the grass were cut with a lawn mowing machine."

"That is very true," said Uncle Wiggily. "And when Mrs. Moo has finished cutting the grass I will rake the lawn to make it look smooth."

Pretty soon Mrs. Moo had pulled off enough grass from the rabbit gentleman's lawn, having eaten as much as she wished.

"I will bid you good-day, Uncle Wiggily," she said, as once more she jumped over the fence. "I'll come another time when your grass needs cutting."

"Thank you," spoke the rabbit gentleman, with a pinkie of his pink nose, which is just the same as a twinkie of his pink nose, only backward. "Now I will get the rake and smooth the lawn," he added, for Mrs. Moo had dropped bits of grass here and there.

While Uncle Wiggily was raking the loose grass off his lawn, all of a sudden, along came the Woozie Wolf.

"I want to nibble your ears," howled the Wolf.

"Oh, do you? Very well, replied Uncle Wiggily, calm and confident like. "Well, sit down on the lawn and wait until I finish raking it. Then we shall talk about nibbling ears."

"Hum!" mused the Wolf, "you don't seem very frightened of me, must say, and he sat down on the grass with his fluffy tail sticking out straight behind him.

However, Uncle Wiggily was frightened, only he didn't let the bad Wolf know it. All the while the bunny rabbit was trying to think of a trick to play on the Wolf as he raked the grass. At last Uncle Wiggily cried:

"I have it!"

"What have you?" howled the Wolf.

"Your tail!" shouted the rabbit. With that he suddenly jabbed the sharp teeth of the rake in the Wolf's tail, tangling up the bad chap's long hairs, and pulling them as hard as he could.

"Oh, my tail! My tail! Let me go! Let me go!" howled the Wolf.

"Right gladly will I let you go, and I hope I never see you again!"

Some of us, the Vanderworts and the Pickings, saw him off on the Aquitania the next morning. Craig told Hilary, the girl who felt a bitter resentment seize her. What was the matter with her in these days?—she asked herself, impatiently. What was it to her, if some idle rich people went laughing and chattering to the big liner, to wave good-bye to Konrad Kronski? They had always been doing these pretty, agreeable things, and they always would. Why should it so suddenly begin to prick Hilary Collier?

Nevertheless, the pain persisted, and against her own better judgment she found herself telling Dora about it that evening.

"Hi!" Dora commented, compressing her lips as she tightened an E string. They went through a duet conscientiously; stopping dutifully to repeat and repeat and repeat a troublesome passage. Then Dora added suddenly: "We do the work, and introduce him to Craig Spaulding, and then these Dwyers who don't know Strauss from jazz take him up and make much of him!"

Hilary felt a pang of compunction. The thought had been pricking her all day; but might she not have been a little more enough to spare Dora? The shadow on the lovely little face haunted her, and during the next few days, as she went to and fro, she discovered new heights of courage and self-denial in herself, and rose to them heroically.

"I have gotten a long way,"

Diet And Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

"Dear Doctor Lulu—I have been following your instructions for reducing for four months. At the beginning, I weighed 276, now I weigh 240, a reduction of 36 pounds. At present, I seem to be at a standstill; have not reduced in 30 days. Am exercising to some reducing records, but I find that unless I'm following a strict diet, I don't reduce. Am very grateful, however, to be rid of 36 pounds.—Mrs. S."

It is not uncommon for the diet upon which one formerly reduced, to become apparently the maintenance diet. I think in these cases it is better to have one very low calorie day a week, of not more than 500 to 600 C., rather than to reduce the diet still lower, especially if you are on a diet as low as 1200 C.

Skim or buttermilk or orange juice are good for this low calorie day. Skim or buttermilk are 80 calories to the glass, and orange juice 100 calories to the glass. You will lose one pound or so on this low day and you won't gain on your 1200 C., so your weekly loss is accomplished. But—haven't you gone on some eating spree? Search your heart carefully. You know the prophet Jeremiah says: "The heart is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked." Of course, we don't believe this, but you had better think about it a little.

All the reducing records that I have investigated are good. It is very pleasant to take exercise to music, but you have demonstrated that you have to diet also.

Marion—If you keep the skin on your hands soft and pliable, and get some vigorous outdoor exercise every day, your circulation ought to be so good that your hands should not be red. Glycerine, one part, and rose water four parts, is a good lotion. Or you can rub a few drops of the pure glycerine into your hands and add enough ordinary water to make that proportion. Use this always after you wash your hands and rub it on good.

Mrs. C. H.—Osteitis deformans, a slow inflammatory condition of the joints causing deformities, is in most cases of infectious origin. Among other things the infection may come through diseased gums (pyorrhoea) or diseased teeth or tonsils, or through intestinal putrefaction. These conditions, if present, must be corrected. The natural resistance of the body has to be built up by correct hygiene and correct diet. We know now that the resistance of the mucous membrane is markedly lowered by a diet which does not contain sufficient mineral elements and vitamins, so plan your diet accordingly. You know, if you follow this column, that milk, fresh vegetables and fruits, and natural grains are the chief vitamin foods.

There are different methods of local treatment: electricity, hydrotherapy (water treatment, hot and cold), dry hot air, orthopedic apparatus, ultra-violet rays (not those given off by the beautiful tubes you get in the drug stores, but by a specially constructed quartz-mercury vapor apparatus). Vaccine therapy has not been very successful in osteitis deformans, according to information I got from an article in the American Medical Journal.

Mrs. G.—If you really dieted and exercised, to the extent you say you did, and cannot reduce, I think you are one of those rare cases that has some deficiency of the internal secretions. I advise you to go to a good physician who specializes in these disorders. Ring up your county medical society and it will give you a list.

My Dear Followers.—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps externally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible for me to answer you or to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the a. s. e. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

Harmony Promised "Let's do the unique thing all the way through the convention," urged Mr. Twining, "and make people talk about us. Let's live up the long-dragging discussions and put a stop to the mutual admiration business that so frequently clogs up the proceedings at these conventions."

One of the features that will help to put Glendale before the convention will be a quartette of vocalists, and, judging from the talent that was shown during last night's festivities, Mayor Spencer Robinson's laurels as a singer are liable to be shredded out fine among several members of the Glendale Realty board.

Truth About Southland Is Striking Confirmation Of Prosperity

glens national bank deposits of $1,481,000,575.55 from March 31 to June 30 of this year. During the last twelve months, the total increase for the national banks alone has been almost ten billions of dollars.

It would be hard for the most rabid assailant to find any loophole to penetrate the report of the national banks which, when compared with the report of a year ago, certainly reflects a period of steady, substantial growth in the twelve months.

Health. Condition From the real estate angle, from the building angle and from the financial angle, Los Angeles reflects a healthy condition despite exaggerated and distorted rumors to the contrary circulating in almost every part of the country.

There is no question but that readjustments are taking place in the economic life of Los Angeles, but they are most healthy readjustments and indicate a normal condition in this city of one million people. But always it should be borne in mind that with all this readjusting, the general onward trend is just as steady, just as irresistible and just as permanent as any ever carried on by any municipality in the history of the world.

Los Angeles is all right basically. If any reader has doubts in his mind, let him read this editorial over again and check up the figures for himself. Then apply the universal principles of logic and there can be but one answer.

Alluring Home Is Shown

The compactness and convenience of the residence outlined below make a strong appeal to prospective home builders. The Bentley Lumber Company's service department has these plans on file.

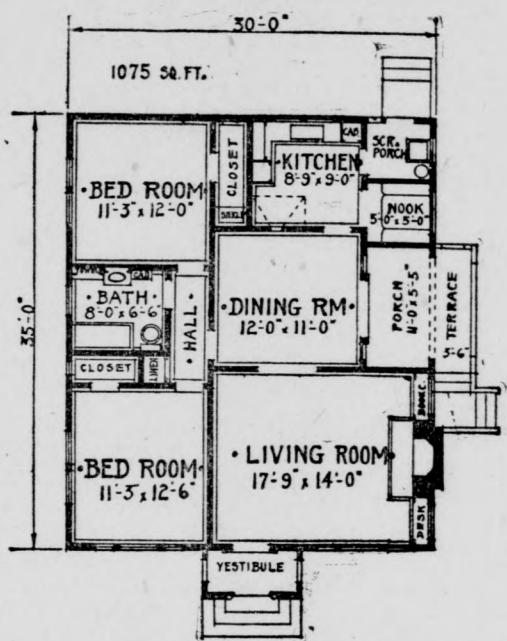

This little model home specially created for your consideration, reflects details and competent execution not usually found in home plans as small as this.

The wall construction calls for stucco over brick, tile, composition plaster board, metal or wood lath while the roof is shown in tile, composition or slate shingles would be practical.

There are many features incorporated in the interior arrangement which will make strong appeals. The specially detailed fireplace with bookcases and writing desk with cabinets occupying one entire side, the spacious closets connecting bed rooms, the well arranged bath and modern kitchen showing every conceivable convenience—breakfast nook, ironing board, cooler closet, cabinets, hood over range, and on the back porch is located ice box, heater and stationary tubs.

It's a little dream home and you can't help but like it.

The Enthusiasm Cup, awarded by the Convention Publicity Committee of Pasadena, to the board showing the greatest enthusiasm at the convention, is certain to bring out many novel stunts by the various boards to attract attention to their city. Already the majority of the boards have arranged some ingenious advertising stunts to attract attention at the state conv.

At the meeting next Tuesday the page rank will be conferred.
