

Do you want to help organize the world's biggest Wikipedia conference in Stockholm in August?

Do you read Wikipedia articles? Ever wondered who writes them?

Wikipedia is the most known project of the Wikimedia Movement projects, and Wikimania is the largest annual conference worldwide of this Movement. This year, Wikimania is organized for the first time ever in the Nordics and will gather more than 1200 attendees, leaders and professionals within free knowledge, Wikimedia platforms and cultural heritage.

Wikimania, which took place last year in South Africa, comes now to Stockholm between 14 and 18 August 2019. You have a unique opportunity to attend this event by being a volunteer and helping to organize the biggest Wikipedia event ever in the world.

There are four volunteer tracks in Wikimania 2019. By scanning the QR code below, you will be able to register your interest and choose the track you would prefer to work within.

<http://bit.ly/wmvolunteers2019>

If you volunteer enough time, you will get free lunch during the conference, free entrance, a conference clothing, a unique networking experience with world free-knowledge leader and lots of fantastic experiences!

Contact and information: info@wikimedia.se
Wikimania website: <https://wikimania.wikimedia.org/>

