"Clear its Radiance Shines"

Today we climb the steps of South Building and know that tomorrow these steps, worn by future processions of Tar Heel students, will continue to shine radiant in their service. Yesterday a crude construction, now redecorated, in years to come perhaps something new, this castle of administration stands a symbol of our growth—of the expansion taking place here, around us and within. From the basic elements, students, faculty, the Hill itself, evolves a growing body of educated citizens, serving teachers, and a University, building and re-building.

“ . . . for Service ”

Now a legend to the students at Carolina, Archibald Henderson, to whom this book is dedicated, symbolizes over a period of fifty years' service the energy of youth he worked with, the spirit of broad intellectual endeavor, the scope of many varied interests, the sincere desire to understand, interpret and improve life and thought of his times.

To attempt to telescope the achievement of a life so full as his in a few words of dedication is as impossible as catching all the colors of a sunlit prism. Called "the most versatile scholar of America." Dr. Henderson's career is a shining example of a marvelously full and fruitful life. His retirement last summer marked the end of his formal career of teaching mathematics at the University of North Carolina. Throughout his rise to world fame and prestige, Mr. Henderson remained foremost loyal to his Old North State.

His state and the students of his state appreciate him. This book is gratefully dedicated to Dr. Henderson, a man who "can teach mathematics as a profession; interpret and evaluate the main currents of thought of his time; write a definitive biography of a great dramatist; explain Einstein's theory of relativity; encourage a whole region to fulfill its cultural capabilities; write a history of his state; and clear up any questions anyone might want to ask about the 'constructability of Fermagoric triangles' ". To such a man we dedicate the 1948 Yackety Yack.

"The [unclear]"

"The Carolina"

"Tall Columns"

Through the years the dignity of the old joins value with improvement of the new, and the continued construction and reconstruction marks the trend of all of Carolina. Alumni Hall stands tall and strong, as a bulwark amidst the shovels and the timbers of something new going up.

"Youth and Strength"

Wild horses couldn't hold down the Carolina process. Youth and strength and vibrancy that means being worn down and always bouncing back for more enables this myth of growth to come true. Person Hall, its ivy covered brick and its flagstone patio, point to the arts, another direction in which to grow.

Chiming High "

"Meet you after the game" . . . "Hark the Sound" . . . fat, green boxwoods, and the Mordecai Patterson Bell Tower stands serene and steady, deep in the pines of Davie woods.

THE OLD

Seen from the new brick walk that borders the academic quadrangles, what used to be the Gymnasium and now houses the struggling journalists, reminds us of the changes that come . . . clay paths to brick walks, swimming pools to typewriters.

the Old . . . the New

...THE NEW

In actuality little more now than a hole in the ground, a few foundation walls, and a cornerstone, we look with hope toward the new field of learning and growth to be found with the completion in 1949 of the Morehead Planatarium.

"Nine O'Clock"

Shown here is the essence of our hope. The inevitable passage of time . . . from dawn of college days till dark, from start of life to finish. We chart our time, our change, our growth, all three intangible. Through the trees shines the light behind revolving hands and tiny wheels that go and go and go with endless continuity.

"And All is Well"

From days of founder Davie when the Old Well was just a place to drink, till now, the evolution has been slow and sure, but no matter how the clock strikes and moves on, this center of the campus will always testify that all is well.

Leading to

Toward light, toward liberty, we build and we climb a flight of steps; we scale the tower of books; and move upward through the collection of knowledge from the ancients to the new. We discover yellowed pages of old writings sharing the shelf with new ideas, new facts, new people to meet, to learn, and to eventually know.

"Lux Libertas"

Convocations, concerts, grades, pep rallies, flu shots, all remind us of Memorial Hall . . . the big open auditorium where you see all your friends and wish the seats would be reconstructed with accent on comfort instead of callouses.

A poplar tree that isn't of the poplar specie, the tall and leaning Davie Poplar represents all the forest and the foliage that means Chapel College, no matter what people, buildings, or events come and go.

SYMBOL OF SPIRIT

Lonely and beautiful in its emptiness, becalmed Kenan Stadium curves gracefully around the straight, green field, and quietly awaits the return of cheering crowds and fighting fullbacks . . . but maybe Kenan means more than just a game . . . it means a spirit, a summer night, and a broad expanse of stars to match the silent stands.

"Proud and True"

Dr. Frank P. Graham
President

“Dr. Frank”

From whither his directions come, Frank Graham's leadership of the Greater University of North Carolina stands strong and straight and clean like the girders of a great colosseum or a huge arena that will house the present and future generation of Tar Heel students in their struggles through the cycles of building and rebuilding for life and youth and freedom.

Though necessity may call our president to far corners of the globe, and away from his desk in South Building, a symbol of liberal, honest democratic belief necessarily remains to grow and expand itself throughout the structure of the University. Its work here is to build . . . to build people, to build a nation, to build a world. . . . Cornerstones of education and broad experience cannot be overlooked. The steady hand of a simple, expert architect is vital to a solid, durable result.

This year has been a strenuous one with many excavations, bricks added to bricks, strong foundations, and then, new blueprints; but Dr. Frank continues as the eloquent engineer who stands to survey and guide our work: the process of construction.

... From

Chancellor
Robert B. House

Dean Ernest L. Mackie

Though the load of managing a University rests heavily on the shoulders of Chancellor R. B. House, our chief administrator always has a smile and a tune on the harmonica for students and faculty. Problems of all types and sizes occur daily, but insight and appreciation of values enable Mr. House to endeavor steadily for improvement of the old and discovery of new fields of education and growth.

South Building

Dean Ernest L. Mackie

As Dean of Students, Dean E. L. Mackie has completed another full and fruitful year symbolizing mutual faculty-student concern for the progress of the University and the people whom it serves. His advisory positions in many campus organizations do much to channel student time and energy in the right directions.

Dean Katherine K. Carmichael

From her offices to the English classroom, Dean of Women Katherine K. Carmichael's influence and leadership are felt as living parts of the life of UNC students, the coeds in particular. The friendly, informal charm of Miss Carmichael and her co-workers helps make a valuable college experience more and more inviting to women students.

Dean Fred H. Weaver

A quiet "good morning", a twinkle in his eye, and a serious determination to see a job through are some of the characteristics of Dean of Men Fred Weaver. All Carolina men feel the impact of Dean Weaver's work for the solution of campus problems of all kinds, from food and housing on down.

DEANS

Long before registration day and the actual start of classes, the administrative officials spend many hours planning class schedules and the general academic agenda for the student body. For Guidance, Know

The task of a University is education. The job of education is to teach. What part of a University are its teachers? They are half of the two-part process of teaching and learning. They are the resources, the guides, the directors of the growth and development of the student. They are the searchers of new knowledge. They are the prime examples of educated man: the goal of our student community.

And where in a yearbook is the place for the faculty? The University of North Carolina teaching staff of four hundred plus cannot be pictured here. Suffice it to include administrative and college heads . . . but add a word of thanks.

From the Instructors to the full Professors, Carolina faculty members serve the students with their time, their knowledge, and their interest.

Edge and Growth

Intimate acquaintance and friendship between the huge student body and the overworked faculty are impossible, but we are proud that Carolina has not fallen completely into the depths of cold dishing out of assignments, lectures, and quiz questions. There are still "coffee hours", some corny jokes, and a greeting on Franklin Street. We are proud of the mutual respect of students and faculty. Our honor system, our scholarly tradition of high standards, and our Carolina spirit makes the process of education a little more pleasant to both under-paid teachers and harassed students.

In the pictures on this page several phases of academic life are featured, but, though we laugh at ourselves, our socializing in the Y, and our crossword puzzles, we can be serious, and we sincerely offer our thanks to the faculty and all University employees for a job well done.

GOVERNOR R. GREGG CHERRY

President ex-officio of the Board of Trustees

Board of Trustees

This year the bi-annual trip of the Visiting Committee of the Board to the University stood out as a real chance for students to air their views and problems to the authorities, and to hear the opinions of representative trustees. After a series of hearings and meetings, students, faculty, and trustees were able to reach a fuller understanding of each other and Carolina itself.

The Board of Trustees, under the General Assembly, has full power over the affairs of the University of North Carolina. A member is elected to the Board from each county in the state for eight-year terms which are so staggered that one-fourth of the number is elected every two years. An Executive Committee is authorized to act between meetings as the Board's general agent.

Alumni Association

The variety of jobs performed by the Carolina Alumni Association enlarges as the University it represents grows in size and scope. From the Central Office of the Association, located in the Carolina Inn, a far reaching program is extended across the state and the nation to unite more than 37,500 graduates and former students in an association which dates back to 1843. The group includes members of classes from 1873 to 1948.

Working through this Central Office, local alumni clubs, permanently organized classes, a General Assembly, and the official magazine, "The Alumni Review", the Association maintains up-to-date records of all alumni, and promotes interest in current activities of the University.

Any graduate or former student is eligible for membership in the Association. General in its service to the University and personal in its relationship to the alumni, the Alumni Association links all parts of Alma Mater.

Student Government

TOM ELLER
President

JACK FOLGER
Vice-President

SAM DANIELS
Secretary-Treasurer

It has been the object of student officers, acting with the knowledge that out of something good can come something great, to improve and enlarge upon the functions of Student Government. Student control of the social life, publications, and the many student organizations make our system one which every student learns by using. Acceptance and utilization of full student government, respecting the rights and needs of all, has obtained for us a student government which is rarely equaled.

Major functions of Student Government, which operates through the utilization of two codes—the Campus Code and the Honor Code, have included orientation of entering students, making the students conscious of all phases of their government, expenditure of student fees, and the hearing of reported violations of the Honor System. We look forward to better orientation, not only for new students but for all who are a part of government here at Carolina.

The many problems that face the student body in the course of their college life are sometimes effectively and sometimes ineffectively dealt with by the student officers. These officers are chosen in elections held twice a year, one of which is in the fall, and the other in the spring. The largest of the two, the spring elections, carries with it all the excitement and ballyhoo of national elections. At this time the majority of the student leaders, who will decide the policies of university life and government, are chosen.

Executive Branch

The executive branch of student government is composed of the president of the student body together with the heads of the various departments, committees, boards which are deemed necessary by the constitution, and such other subsidiary bodies which may be necessary and proper to aid the president in the performance of his duty. All committees heads are appointed by the president and directly responsible to him.

Among the groups which are made mandatory by the constitution are the Elections Board which holds and regulates all elections; the Dance Committee whose place it is to act as a regulatory and quasi judicial body, and through whom all final permission must be obtained before dances are held; the Student Entertainment Committee which plans and maintains a full-time entertainment program on the campus; and the House Privileges Board which reviews all rules and regulations concerning coed visiting privileges and passes them on to the Interfraternity Council for enforcement. The constitution also provides for an orientation committee whose duty it is "to devise and conduct an adequate program of orientation for all entering students."

The many financial problems involved in student government are solved by the Budget Committee and the Student Audit Board. Both groups are composed of students who have successfully passed accounting courses.

A unique and interesting addition to the Executive branch is the Coalition Advisory Council which brings all the diverse opinions of the students into one group so that they may combine their efforts and suppress their differences in the interest of a more effective student government.

A valuable aide to the president is the attorney-general who is the president's personal advisor.

The many letters of inquiry which the executive offices handles daily serve as proof of the fact that student government on the Carolina campus is a living organ in practice as well as theory.

Seated: Margaret McWilliams, Betsy Ann Barbee, Nan Guy, Nina DeBerry. Standing: Bob Kirby, Jim Paschal, Bob Broughton, Jim Castleberry, Al Lowenstein.

Student Council

Standing at the top of Carolina's judicial ladder is its Student Council, the group of student-elected members who are the supreme court of campus affairs. To the council come cases of constitutional interpretation and appeals from the men's and women's honor councils.

The Council is comprised of nine members, three from the male student body, three from the coed student body and three members from the campus at large. A requirement of completion of at least one academic year at the University is demanded of all members.

During the past year the Council has been the battleground of several major campus issues. Biggest of the big and the one to draw the greatest share of the college spotlight was the Interfraternity Council decision whereby the validity of the House Privileges Board's rules and ruling were upheld by the Council after several elongated and furiously argued sessions.

The recent history of the Council is similarly battlescarred. Last year saw an attempt to remove the appellate power of the council, but such an action was defeated by the student body in the spring elections and the powers of the Council remained as originally stated in the Constitution.

ROBERT BROUGHTON
President

Seated: Vivian Parks, William K. Tate, Charles Lambeth. Standing: Michael Carr, Marty Carmichael, Dick Walker, South Trimble, Oliver Fleming, Walt Talley.

Men's Council

The Men's Council is a judicial body of the Carolina student government whose duty is to enforce the Honor Code, covering cases of cheating, stealing, and lying, and the Campus Code, which regards gentlemanly conduct. Violators of the Honor and Campus Codes are brought before the Council where their cases are heard and corresponding disciplinary measures taken.

In addition to its strictly judicial activities the Council undertakes several projects each year which it feels are in need of attention. These projects better acquaint the student body with policies which the Council feels should be carried out in order that Student Government might function at its best. The following projects were adopted for this year:

1. The restoration of Student Government to its pre-war level.
2. Proper orientation of all new students on entering the University.
3. Amending Student Government Constitution so as to allow only one student group for trials with appeal being made to a faculty group instead of another student group.
4. Complete abstention of students from vandalism.

This year's officers were: William K. Tate, Chairman; Vivian A. Parks, Vice-Chairman; and Charles F. Lambeth, Secretary.

WILLIAM K. TATE
President

Seated: Dorothy Dashiell, Margaret Cole, Marshall Spears, Margaret Healy. Standing: Dabney Little, Sarah Buchanan Porter, Donleen MacDonald, Caroline Warren, Jane Rogers.

Women's Council

The Women's Council, campus coed judiciary, handles all cases of violations by women students of the Honor Code and of the Campus Code. In connection with these duties the members of the council instruct entering coeds in the origin and meaning of the codes and obtain their signatures on them.

It is also their responsibility to attempt to discover and correct the source of any individual maladjustment. It is one branch of the tripartite system of coed self-government, working with the Coed Senate and the Women's Interdormitory Council as a living example of the coeds' desire and ability to govern themselves.

Three juniors, three seniors, one graduate student, and two members at large are elected by the coeds to this important body. There, in cooperation with the parallel Men's Council, and in addition to their other duties, the members work to improve the "Carolina way of life."

Officers for the year were: Chairman, Donleen MacDonald; Secretary, Dorothy Dashiell.

DONLEEN MacDONALD

Student Legislature

JACK FOLGER
President

Smug, snoozing,
but oh so serious
legislators!

Carolina's first student legislature to operate under the amended constitution began its work in September of this year. Its duties included levying, collecting, and distributing fees, passing upon executive appointments, making election laws, determining what constitutes an offense against the student body, making and hearing recommendations from various subsidiary bodies and committees, and promoting the general welfare of the student body.

Having disposed of the consideration of changes in the constitution by submitting several amendments to the student body for their consideration, and the issue of having a humour magazine published on the Carolina campus by creating Tarnation, the legislature was left at the beginning of the year with time to tie in the loose ends of the general outline of student government and consider various minor issues.

This time was used to good advantage proving even more conclusively the Carolina contention that students can govern themselves.

The legislature combined all national charity drives into one Community Chest. made provision for the bi-weekly publication of a record of its doings in the Daily Tar Heel, and began the procedure of requiring all legislators to take tests in parliamentary law. They were ahead of similar bodies in the state and nation in that their record was published either to them or to the student body as a whole, and in that they are one of the few existing legislative bodies requiring the above-mentioned parliamentary law tests.

Composed of fifty members, half of whom are elected each six months, the legislature is intended to represent a cross-section of Carolina thinking. It is presided over by the vice-president of the student body, and continually works for an honest expression of student interests in a better student government.

The 1947-1948 Student Legislature. Officers were: Speaker, Jack Folger; Speaker Protem, Miles Smith and Charlie Long; Parliamentarian, Pete Gerns; Clerk, Steve Millikin and Bill Jerrigan; Chairman of Ways and Means, Tag Montague and Basil Sherril; Chairman of Rules Committee, Herman Baker and Jim Fort; Chairman of Elections Committee, Miles Smith and Jess Dedmond; Chairman of Finance Committee, Bill Mackie and Ernest House.

All set for Orientation, the Coed Version

Coed Senate

BARBARA CASHION
President

Formed in the spring of 1941, the Coed Senate is the major legislative body of the Women's Government. It is the responsibility of this organization to introduce rules pertaining to coeds, to vote on social measures recommended by the Inter-dormitory Council, and to supervise all coed elections. The Coed Senate is also responsible for drawing up budgets and passing on all expenditures in the Women's Government, which include Honor Council, Women's Athletic Association and donations to subsidiary organizations.

Members, which number approximately one for every fifty coeds, are elected by the women students in the spring campus elections. Four juniors are chosen each December to serve for one year.

The Coed Senate annually sponsors an orientation program for new women students. This past year it voted to inaugurate new and stronger orientation plans for the purpose of familiarizing the women students with the constitutional government of the University.

One night each year, during the week immediately following this orientation period, the Senate "introduces" the new coeds to the University of North Carolina at its Coed Ball. The event this past fall was a highlight and the beginning of a successful year.

Coed Senate officers were: Barbara Cashion, Speaker; Katie Guion, Speaker Pro-tem; and Sue Everett, Secretary.

Interdorm

Serving as a court of appeal to hear cases coming up from men's dorm councils, and making rules affecting the conduct of the men are two of the main functions of the Men's Interdormitory Council. The administration of men's dorms at Carolina is left in the main to this council. The group is composed of the presidents of the dorms and the counselors appointed by the University.

President of the Men's Interdormitory Council this year was Emile Saleeby.

Dormitory Councils

MARGARET McWILLIAMS
President

Composed of dormitory presidents and sorority house managers, the Women's Interdormitory Council acts as a go-between for the coeds, the Dean of Women, and housemothers in providing for a system of social rules, supervising house councils, and generally conducting the business of governing the residence and some of the actions of Miss Carolina Coed.

It is their function to regulate dormitory life through house meetings, and recommend improvements to the Coed Senate. For these purposes, they meet once a month with the Residence Board which is composed of dormitory hostesses and sorority housemothers.

Officers during the past year were: President, Botsie McWilliams; Secretary, Norma Hotard; and Representative to the Graham Memorial Board of Directors, Miriam Evans.

Seated: Dean Fred Weaver, Monroe Landreth, Mr. J. A. Williams. Standing: Roy Moose, Jack Swanner, Dick Culberson, Ralph Hodges.

Student Audit Board

With the purpose of fostering a more efficient supervision of all organizations which receive student fees or use university property, the Student Audit Board was organized here in 1931.

Since that time, it has operated as a custodian of student fees and as a student government accounting service. Any organization on the Carolina campus may utilize its bookkeeping and auditing services.

Monroe Landreth served as student chairman during this past year. The faculty advisors are Dean Fred Weaver and Mr. J. A. Williams.

From under the lofty branches of Davie Poplar we go—into the world to expound our learning and to gain by it that greater knowledge which lies ahead. Our years at Carolina have been fleeting ones—years which we lived to the fullest and which we shall always cherish among the best.

Long will we hold to the myriad of memories, the conglomeration of events, emotions, and experiences that we have shared upon the Hill. We will look at them, turn them, focus them, reconsider them, view them in the new light of years' perspective—and though our values change, their value will remain.

These years have been the formative ones in spite of what the psychologists say of "the ages 2 to 6" or "12 to 13." These years have supplied the materials, the blueprints, the concrete, the marble of our personal construction. The final finishing, the moulding of the elements may come later, may never be achieved; but we can always appreciate the start, the impulsion, the momentum that only Carolina could give to us.

The spirit of the Hill, our Hill, is old, is familiar, is almost trite to the persistent readers of year-books: but for each senior class it is a new incentive, a new inspiration for the future. Commencement becomes a beginning, not an end . . . a start of examination in the realistic sense—just plain living, instead of the mere cessation of formal mid-terms and finals.

Carolina in its very essence has laid the foundation. The super-structure will be completed through our own initiative, satisfying Carolina's blueprints. We aspire to be monuments to future generations; and if and when we achieve this goal, our lives will be testimony to the feeling and the determination we share as we graduate—the determination to prove that the foundations will not fall to ruins, but will become an everlasting edifice, impelling us and those who follow to live and to fulfill the ideals of the University—Lux Libertas . . .

Barron Mills

Barron Mills

"Lapsley". DTH dictator, southern accent with a briar pipe. Slow moving, square dealing, but kept tabs on communists and columnists alike. Put our large 8 column Daily with more of everything. Respected and well-liked. Authority on Powers' Models.

Tag Montague

Co-ed's delight who found time between MC'ing beauty contests and politicking to Chair Legislature Ways and Means Committee. Top man on Graham Memorial Board of Directors and founder of he-she jokes. We'll remember his brograms.

Tag Montague

Donnie Mac Donald

Conscientious Chairman of Womens' Council, champion of Co-ed rights, with a dash of N'awlins drawl, and lots of pep. Loves those sports.

Jack Fitch

The versatile one. Jet-powered half-back, Delegata of the Grail and big dog in the C. A. A. Smooth, neat dresser with Phi Beta to boot! Man behind the man behind the politicos, and do we need mention his popularity?

Jack Fitch

Donnie MacDonald

Ruth Evans

This year rotated between the "Y" (2d door on the right) and the crowded "Yack" Office. Sincere, charming, and amiable—"everybody likes Ruth". Acknowledged Queen of pub row. Valkyrie and Co-ed Senate. "From the Land of beautiful horses, 'P. J.', and 'gold bricks'."

Wayne Brenengen

"Jack of all trades," with current emphasis on Carolina Dance Committee. Has a Hoosier heart buried deep in the Hill. Born campaigner. Small guy with a big smile. So conscientious.

Jack Folger

"Cactus Jack" from Dobson, N. C. Able arbiter of Student Legislature's pitched battles, with a flare for partying and terrific jokes. One of the harder working officers—and to think he was a dark horse! Might we add his charm and suavity?

Ruth Evans

Wayne Brenengen

Margaret Jean Taylor and R. Foo Giduz

Margaret Jean Taylor

Pan-Hell, Politics, appealing Pulchritude—these are Margaret Jean. "I only want a buddy, not a sweetheart"—has both! Graham Memorial Habitué.

Roland Giduz

"Foo to you"—Peck's bad boy of Publications, via the inevitable "Carolina Carousel". Pet likes—Wine, Women, and Chesterfields.

George Sparger

Hard-driving center who shared football captaincy with friend, Joe Wright. Game contributor to team victories. Active in Monogram Club activities.

Gene Johnstone

Friendly, subtle. "Yack" backbone for, lo, these many years—three times an Editor. Spends hours with the PU Board—Graham Memorial Bored! Genial Gene—party boy, and worthy product of the deep South.

Gene Johnstone

George Sparger

Joe Wright

Tarheels' '47 blocking back who have those opposing linesmen fits . . . with influence extending beyond the stadium through Fraternity life and a brand-new wife. Futhermore, he's the "studious type."

Joe Wright

Marshall Spears

Calmness deep in the whirl of Co-ed activities. Mogul of the W. A. A., Valkyrie. Treasurer of everything, and soft-spoken owner of that yellow convertible. Authority on Argyles.

Marshall Spears

Bill Tate

Tall, blond, and a married man! Activities list that reads like an encyclopedia—ranging from Chairmanship of Men's Honor Council to top-spot of the German Club. Polished product of the Tennessee Mountains, Bill's a prominent vote-getter.

Tom Eller

"Wheel of wheels", Prexy of the Student Body, characterized by a cowlick and confabs on Constitutional Revision. Grail, Fleece, and "Wither Student Government?"—all parts of honest, sincere 'old Tawm'. Next residence—Manning Hall.

Bill Tate

Tom Eller

The vets returning from the war and the coeds leaving two years in girls' schools behind, entered into a campus life which bore the Carolina label . . . our rowdy meetings at the Y court "coffee counter" . . . lingering walks through the Arboretum . . . Sadie Hawkin's revelry and the parade down Franklin Street . . . the Grail dance featuring Vaughan Monroe's "Ballerina" . . . "Choo Choo" and the Tar Heels plunging through Duke's line to victory . . . liberalism voicing itself in the Tar Heel . . . chimes from the Bell Tower vibrating at dusk . . . and eating steaks and French fries at Brady's.

But there was a new atmosphere at our university, too. With leap year and post-war change another era was inaugurated which showed the ear-marks of a "new look" in fashions, progress and purposes. We were veteran "Carolina gentlemen" with outlooks tempered by the international horizon, and the domestic crisis in inflation. We, who remembered Sunday evenings spent at Dr. Frank's read of him in Indonesia. We coeds appeared as "Gibson Girls", and in hooped formals—to be compared with mother's college days. Senior Walk exchanged its quiet and trailing ivy for shovels and hammers, and the angular orange skeleton which reared at last was a symbol of the new character of Carolina.

Modernism had tugged hard at the main string, but the spirit of our Carolina was immutable. We passed the Old Well, cheered Rameses on Kenan's turf, and recognized tradition. With "Hark the Sound" stirring our hearts we pushed toward the brighter future, a peaceful world.

We looked to our first year and smiled a little at the confusion we saw . . . As Sophomores, we no longer had fears of being late to that eight o'clock . . . no more consulting a football program for the players' names . . . more coed phone numbers and week-end memories . . . better quiz grades . . . and above all a feeling that we belonged here, and were a part of this crowded whirl called Carolina.

We became more serious and began choosing our courses with care . . . We took part in Sadie Hawkins Day and later danced to Vaughn and "Racing with the Moon" in a packed gym . . . We hung on the fence and watched the new Planetarium going up . . . hoping we'd get to use it . . . Some of us found homes in Victory Village while others cooked and studied in trailers . . . The "new look" slowly gained our approval as the fashion-wise coeds took over . . . And above it all we learned to sing "Hark the Sound" just a little louder . . . We took these memories with us as we finished another spring quarter and looked toward the summer months . . . Next year we would be back and one step nearer that Kenan Stadium graduation . . . Our future as Juniors looked good!

Note the absence of women? Strictly a man's world,

As Freshmen at Carolina, we displayed the same eagerness, made the same mistakes, and were just as uncertain as the many classes that had gone before us. To most of us, Chapel Hill was a strange place of long registration lines, double-decked bunks of Miller, Nash, and the quonset huts, crowded cafeterias, and afternoon Phys. Ed. We found, however, friendly faces and advisors eager to help us. Our courses weren't as hard as we had expected, and only three classes a day suited us fine. We yelled as loud as anyone else at the football and basketball games, and a Carolina victory had new thrills for us. We quickly joined the campus in reading Lil Abner, seeing midnight movies, and wearing rain-coats.

All wasn't play, and good grades suddenly took on an added meaning. We learned to cram for finals as studying past twelve became common. English compositions took time, and Chemistry labs often went over two hours. We worked hard, but we didn't mind. Carolina was our new home, and it hadn't taken long for us to come to love it. With our Freshmen year behind us, we look to next September with confident hope and assurance.

SCHOOL OF PHARMACY

David D. Claytor, William M. Jordan, and Rex Paramore

Officers

- DAVID D. CLAYTOR President
- REX PARAMORE Vice-President
- WILLIAM M. JORDAN Secretary-Treasurer

Our School of Pharmacy is getting old. On November 13, 1947, appropriate ceremonies celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of the school were held in Howell Hall. The School enters the second half of the first century with bright prospects for the future.

Along with the advancement in enrollment which was 223 this year, is an advancement in the graduate program. During this past academic year a number of graduate assistantships and fellowships were established.

Highlights of the year included some of the following big events and projects: The annual weiner roast in the fall to welcome the new students, the rushing of new students by the pharmaceutical fraternities, the establishing of the North Carolina Pharmaceutical Research Foundation to promote graduate work in pharmacy, the Christmas party given by the Pharmacy Girls Association, the initiation of the large number of students into Rho Chi, the honorary pharmacy fraternity, the meetings of the Student Branch of the N. C. P. A., the Pharmacy Senate, and the annual pharmacy week-end gaiety of picnics and a dance. All these things plus many hours in the labs and classrooms make up what goes on within the School of Pharmacy.

The School of Pharmacy student body has a group of officers, and the four classes are also organized under an executive system.

Officers of the School were: David D. Claytor, President; Rex Paramore, Vice-President; William W. Jordan, Secretary-Treasurer.

Officers of the Fourth Year Class were: Edward S. Powell, President; Viola Richards Howell, Vice-President; Robert H. Seaborn, Secretary-Treasurer.

Officers of the Third Year Class were: G. R. Pittman, President; W. W. Jordan, Vice-President; Jean Snyder, Secretary-Treasurer.

Officers of the Second Year Class were: John L. Jones, President; Reginald C. Ferrell, Vice-President; Anna L. Slack, Secretary-Treasurer.

Officers of the First Year Class were: Earl C. Williams, President; Robert L. Dewar, Vice-President; Henry D. Smith, Secretary-Treasurer.

DR. E. A. BRECHT

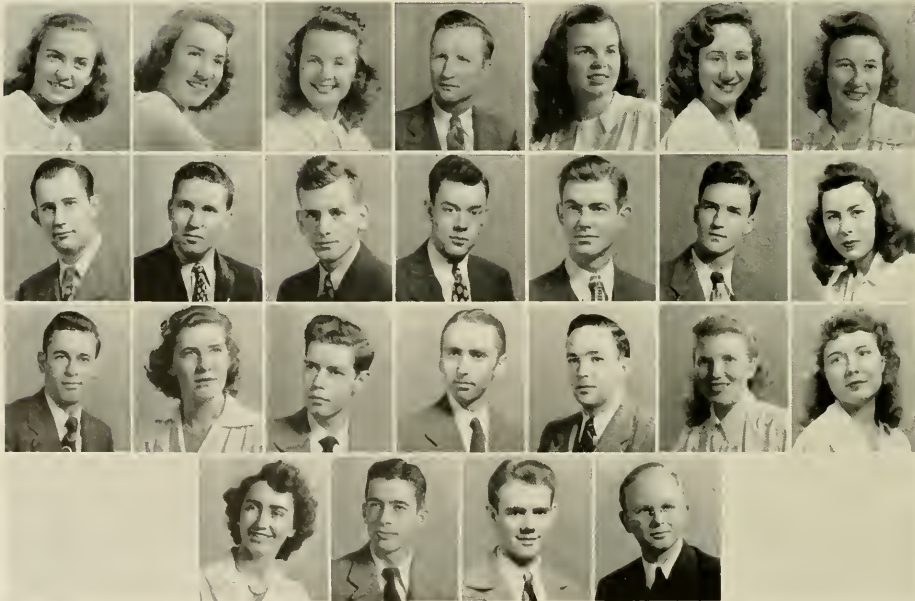

The Senate has as its purpose the stimulation of increased knowledge and appreciation of the profession of Pharmacy by free discussion of its various phases. Membership is limited to students and practitioners in the field of Pharmacy.

The Pharmacy Senate was organized and created at the University of North Carolina as the "brainchild" of Dr. E. A. Brecht, instructor of Materia Medica and Pharmaceutical Chemistry. Since its formation in February 1940, it has been adopted in form (if not in name) by several other colleges of Pharmacy throughout the country.

In addition to regular meetings held every other week during which new drugs, price controls, merchandising policies, community health programs are discussed, an annual trip to some large Pharmaceutical Manufacturing house was held.

Officers for 1943: Evelyn Blanchard, President; Robert Seaborn, Secretary-Treasurer; Nina Moseley, Recorder; Patsy Burgiss, Reporter.

E. G. MCGAVRAN
Dean of The School of Public Health

School of Public Health

The School of Public Health of the University of North Carolina is one of the nine professional schools in the United States accredited for the teaching of Public Health. Public Health is one of the newer professions. It is a profession that uses the basic skills and knowledge of Medicine, Engineering, Nursing and Education. Our graduates are then Public Health specialists in Medicine, Engineering, Nursing Education and Laboratory Science.

The day of obtaining adequate protection of the public health by a single profession or a single individual is long past. It takes a team of professionals, skilled in prevention to deal with the highly complex society in which we live.

The purpose and goal of our School is then to train for the ever increasing demand of communities, this team of specialists in the various professional fields, who will guide and lead the communities in prevention of disease, in prolongation of life and in providing fuller, happier, and more productive citizenship for all.

Faculty of the School of Public Health: Bernard Reidle, Lucy Morgan, Elta Mac Mast, H. G. Baitz, E. T. Chanlett, C. G. Sheps, J. Wright, J. Eason (Secretary), Dean E. G. McGavran, John Larsh, Paul D. Hance, S. Halbert, Eunice Tyler, Margaret Blu, A. Hughes Bryan, Ruth Hay.

The purpose of the national honorary chemical sorority, which was established in 1944 by the women students in the chemistry department, is to promote an interest in chemistry and to foster mutual advancement in academic, business and social life among women who have chosen the same field of study.

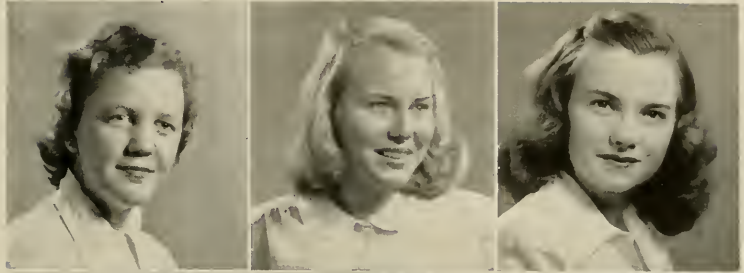

Each year the members have an opportunity to hear qualified speakers in the field of chemistry. Many graduate students in chemistry are heard at the weekly meetings in Venable Hall.

Another outstanding project is the annual visit to a nearby industrial laboratory to see industrial chemistry in operation.

The officers of Theta Psi Epsilon for 1948 are as follows: Elizabeth Cook, President; Carolyn Neel, Vice-President; Oveida Mayo, Recording Secretary; Helen Ershler, Corresponding Secretary; Mary Kellam, Treasurer; Anne Carter Hagan, Historian.

Rho Chi

The Xi Chapter of Rho Chi honorary society was established at University in 1929, with eight members. This year's tapping brought the membership to the largest in its history. Evolved from a local pharmaceutical organization at the University of Michigan in 1908, Rho Chi has become the highest honorary fraternity in pharmacy. Membership is the most coveted award of a pharmacy student.

The object of the Society is twofold: to promote the advancement of pharmaceutical sciences and to promote good fellowship among undergraduate and graduate students and faculty members, bringing them together in fraternal and helpful comradeship.

Faculty members are: Dr. M. L. Jacobs, Dr. E. A. Brecht, Dr. H. O. Thompson, Dr. I. W. Rose, and Dr. F. Sememink.

Officers for 1948: Sam Koonce, President; Doris Gilliam, Vice-President; Oliver Fleming, Secretary.

Alpha Chi Sigma

Alpha Chi Sigma, the only professional chemical fraternity in the United States and a member of the Professional Interfraternity Conference, has as its objectives the advancement of chemistry, improving the professional status of and promoting fellowship among chemists. Founded at the University of Wisconsin in 1902, it now has 53 collegiate and 29 professional chapters and over 16,000 members. Rho chapter was established at the University of North Carolina in 1912.

Working in close cooperation with the faculty of the chemistry department and the North Carolina section of the American Chemical Society, it encourages scholarship and professionalism among students by: sponsoring lectures by men prominent in the chemical profession, and panel discussions on job opportunities; making awards for scholastic excellence; and gifts of books to the library.

The chapter has its social side, too. Frequent parties, picnics, smokers give us a chance to get away from days and nights of work amid the fumes and smells of Chem. Lab.

The 1948 officers were: Louis Foster Theiling, Jr., President; Claude Edward Teague, Vice-President; Terry O. Norris, Secretary; Frank B. Tutwiler, Corresponding Secretary; Thomas H. Guion, Treasurer; Raymond L. Hayes, Master of Ceremonies.

"To foster the highest principles and practices of an ancient and honorable profession; always striving to do a better thing than has been done, that the people of our life, may be free from pain and disease. To promote the principles of honesty, integrity, and trustworthiness in ourselves and our associates, necessarily the basic requirements for custodians of public health, remembering always, that we are the guardians of life, and that as such, we must place the welfare of our patrons before our personal desires. This then is our creed. . . ."

Officers: Benson McCutcheon, President; Robert Sing, Vice-President; Conway Rose, Secretary-Treasurer; Dr. S. B. Knight, Faculty Advisor.

Alpha Epsilon Delta is a group of pre-medical students outstanding for high scholastic standing and superior character.

The fraternity attempts to inculcate in the minds of the pre-medical students those motives, attributes, and ideals which make medicine a most honorable profession. Also, it provides recognition for achievement in the pre-med school.

This group bridges the gap between the pre-medical school and the medical school, while at the same time it acts as a force in crystallizing any movement for the good of the pre-medical student.

Phi Alpha Delta

Law Fraternity

The Ruffin chapter of Phi Alpha Delta was organized in 1921 for the purpose of carrying out the principles of the National Law Fraternity—the duty of improving scholastic and professional standards and the development of leadership through association. Inactive during the war, the chapter was re-activated in February, 1947, and grew to its voluntary limit of forty members by the end of the school year. In addition to its luncheons at which eminent members of the legal profession speak, the chapter endeavors to present, at intervals, nationally renowned figures of the bar and bench, in its effort to render interesting as well as educational and informative service to the students. Ruffin chapter also works to cooperate with the faculty and administration in their activities.

Graham

The corner of the campus, but truly the center of activity. Under the direction of quiet, unassuming Bill Shuford, the Graham Memorial Student Union has forged ahead this year, from a limbo of wartime oblivion, to a point where at present it is the master control board of nearly every extra-curricular activity on the campus.

More than just a building, Graham Memorial is actually an increasingly successful experiment in the art of education outside the academic realm.

It was opened some fifteen years ago as a memorial to former University president, Edward Kidder Graham. Service to students is the watch word of Graham Memorial from the Rendezvous, student social center on the ground floor, through the publications offices, tucked in many small rooms on the top floor. During the present year more than 130 recognized campus organizations have made the student union their meeting headquarters.

Seated: Hilda Lawrence, Marion Evans, Tag Montague, Audrey Bryson • Standing: Gene Johnstone, Bill Shuford, Sam Magill, Joe Johnson, Dean Fred Weaver, Mr. K. S. Cate, and Dr. E. J. Woodhouse.

Offices of the four student publications, student government headquarters, and several meeting rooms and lounges are among the chief features of the physical plant. The large oak-paneled main lounge has been called the most beautiful room in the South by many alumni.

But students don't see the main tasks of this student union. For nearly fifteen hours a day the office staff stays busy taking care of every imaginable situation, all in their regular line of duty. Brains behind the office efficiency is Mrs. Dorothy Cooke, GI wife, and ever-ready office manager.

Special features include a complete photo darkroom, music room and record collection, art shop, and a travel agency. In addition, many recreational and entertainment features are regularly sponsored by Graham Memorial.

Supported entirely by a blanket student fee of $1.00 per quarter, the building's policies are directed by a twelve-man board of directors drawn from the students, faculty, and administration. Members of the Board this year were: Tag Montague, chairman; J. Maryon Saunders; Dean of Men Fred H. Weaver; University Escheats Officer Kemp S. Cate; Professor E. J. Woodhouse; Reverend W. S. Poate; Gene Johnston; Miriam Evans; Hilda Frances Lawrence; Audrey Bryson; Joe Johnson; and Sam Magill.

Carolina Independent

The Carolina Independent Coed Association was organized in 1941 by thirty-four "Stray Greeks" and independent coeds who felt the need of a coordinating body for non-sorority women. Its purposes are the promotion of good will and fellowship among all coeds through sponsorship of social functions, the creation and stimulation of coed interest in campus affairs, and the provision of organized support for qualified independent candidates in coed elections.

Since its founding seven years ago, the Carolina Independent Coed Association has earned a reputation of a democratic group working for the benefit of all Carolina. This past year the Constitution of the organization was rewritten to improve the unity and strength of the group. The new independents were welcomed by entertainment at an Open House in Graham Memorial at the beginning of the Fall quarter.

Many worthwhile projects were undertaken by the association. Working with Pan Hellenic Council, the group presented a fashion show and party during orientation week. These same groups cooperated in presenting the May Day pageant. The Carolina Independent Coed Association plays one of the larger parts in the Sadie Hawkins Day Festivities, which has proven to be one of the most popular events at the University. Christmas caroling was a gay mid-season event. Spring activities included a fashion show and the annual Spring dance.

Officers this year were: President, Sarah Blair Pearson; Vice-President, Mary Swann; Secretary, Mary Ellen Reaves; Treasurer, Helen Xanthos; Social Chairman, Anne Scott Dellinger; Publicity Chairman, Jane Mears.

The Executive Council consisted of the above officers and two members at large—Elizabeth Thomas and Myrtle Westbrook.

Spiritual growth and development are the twin goals of YMCA organizations everywhere. As the University of North Carolina division of this organization, the local YMCA is primarily concerned with the welfare and interests of Carolina students.

It is its purpose throughout the year to promote this growth of its members. By working in the "significant areas" of Christian Heritage, Personal Relations, Social Responsibility, and World Relations, it attempts to gain these ends.

On this campus, the YMCA sponsors Religion-in-Life week and helps to sponsor the Institute of Human Relations. It has, during the past year, attempted to promote the religious life of its members through a program of worship, study, and action.

The YMCA here also works with boys' clubs in the local high school and with the Freshman Friendship Council.

This year's president was Charlie Foley.

Long active at Carolina, the YWCA tries to assist every girl to channel her interests into some student activity, and to help her develop a variety of experiences into a full personality and life. Membership in the organization is open to any girl on the campus.

Working in the main through committees, the group serves a variety of purposes, including social services, leadership of discussion groups, and recreational activities.

During this past year, the YWCA sponsored and participated in a number of special projects. In the fall, cabinet members led the orientation of new girls and held a retreat in Winston-Salem. Their direction of the World Student Service Fund drive was outstanding, and the community Christmas program was an important campuswide event.

The February retreat with the YMCA was another major and successful program.

Working throughout the year with church groups, the YWCA sponsored several speakers. Weekly vesper services were held in the dormitories and sorority houses, and in the spring an all-campus vesper service was an important event.

The president of the organization this year was Ruth Evans. Vice-President was Emily VonBorries; Secretary, Julia Ross; Treasurer, Marshall Spears; and Executive Director, Mrs. Betty Rose Dowden.

The Dialectic Senate, the first extra-curricular organization at Carolina and still one of the most outstanding, has completed its 152nd year of service to the students and to their university, their state, and their nation. Since its initial meeting on June 3, 1795, the Di has been noted for the prominent leaders it has sent from its rostrum to campus, state, and national office, including noted personalities like James K. Polk, Zebulon Baird Vance, Frank P. Graham, Wiley P. Mangum, Robert B. House, Archibald Henderson, Thomas Ruffin, William R. Davie, and Thomas Wolfe.

Through parliamentary procedure and free debate the Di has produced the liberal minds which, as early pioneer pilots, originated the strong student government for which Carolina is famous, and since that day have channeled the history of the student body along a liberal course. Modeled after the North Carolina General Assembly Senate in Raleigh, the Di now meets every Wednesday night to debate its proposed bills in sessions which are open to any interested students, faculty members, and townspeople. Recent discussions covered the United Nations, World Federation, disloyalty and un-American affairs investigations, state politics, and further improvements in university life. Authoritative speakers are often on hand to answer questions and set the sparks of argument. Bills pertaining to campus problems which are tested and passed on the Senate floor are often referred to the student legislature or proper officials for consideration.

This year the Senate has strived to re-stimulate forensic interest on campus and to renovate the Di Hall in New West. Towards the first objective the Di worked with the Debate Council to revive intramural debating in Chapel Hill. Secondly, the Senate chamber, which already has the finest portrait collection in the South, was completely redecorated.

Officers for the fall quarter were: Charles O. Long, President; John Zucker, President Pro-Tempore; Kirby Sullivan, Critic; Earl Fitzgerald, Clerk; John Gaskin, Treasurer; William Harding, Sergeant-at-Arms; Gran Childress, Chaplain; Charles Hodson, Representative to Debate Council.

Accepting its past as a challenge, the Dialectic Senate in the future will continue to mould student opinion wisely, to forge a greater number of capable leaders, and to extend the principles of free thought which have already placed the Dialectic Senate among the most outstanding groups on campus.

The Philanthropic Assembly

Claiming kinship with such illustrious predecessors as Vice-President William King, General James J. Pettigrew, Governors Aycock and Craig, and Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, the members of the Philanthropic assembly have steered the organization through its 153rd session on the Carolina campus.

The assembly, popularly known as the Phi, has as its objectives the formulation of a better understanding on public speaking, and service as a medium for the exchange of ideas.

In serving these ends, the Phi has sponsored this year the appearance on the campus of State Treasurer Johnson, Senator Umstead, the honorable Melville Broughton, and other leading public figures. Regularly on Tuesday night they have met and debated the issues of the day, and have attempted to take a positive stand on all of the issues discussed.

The officers this year were: Speaker, John Giles, Speaker Pro-tem, Chester ZumBrunnen; and Parliamentarian, Peter Gerns.

Debate Council

The Debate Council is the coordinating agency of all the forensic activities on the campus. Composed of six students and two faculty men, it concerns itself with the administration of Carolina's intercollegiate debate program. It determines the policy of and governs the debate squad, membership in which is open to every University student.

The Tar Heel speakers regularly participate in the Atlantic, Dixie, Grand Eastern, and Grand National Speech and Debate Tournaments and engage in numerous exchange intercollegiate debates.

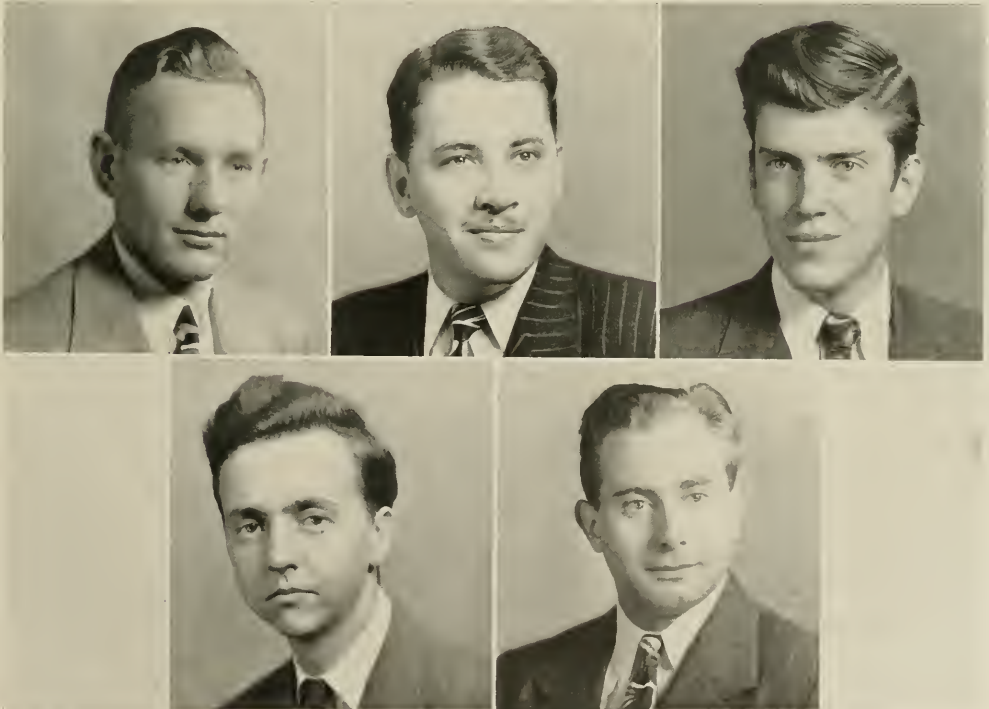

The Council feels that its contribution to the University has been particularly significant, for students have been given the opportunity to study together current problems.

Members of the Debate Council were: E. Maurice Braswell, President; Earl Fitzgerald, Vice-President; James Taylor, Secretary-Treasurer; Peter H. Gerns, Charles Hodson, Blanton Miller, Dr. G. A. Barrett, and Dr. C. C. Carter.

The Collegiate Council for the United Nations was organized at the second Annual Institute of the United Nations in New York, June, 1947. It is sponsored by the American Association for the United Nations, and is designed to stimulate interest in this organization.

The University of North Carolina was chosen as the state's headquarters and the Carolina delegate to the Institute, Lincoln Kan, was appointed State Director. On June 9, the first meeting of the newly founded CCUN was held in Chapel Hill with Hugh J. Mitchell, legal advisor, as guest speaker.

From October 1 to 3 the Carolina Council held a Salute to the United Nations Conference with delegates from eight North Carolina colleges in attendance. At this conference the guest speakers were: the Yugoslavian Ambassador, Sava N. Kasanovic; British Minister. Sir John Magowan; Minister Alfred Stirling from Australia; the Syrian Charge D' Affairs. George Tomch; and Counsellor John Reid of the New Zealand Legation.

The Carolina Council, under the leadership of Roberta Stirling, State Secretary-General, worked in its capacity as a service group by securing films, speakers, and information for established campus organizations, and producing programs of its own.

Meanwhile, State Headquarters, with the cooperation of the Carolina chapter, was working toward its main goal—the organization of a CCUN chapter on every campus in the state. Twenty colleges have expressed an interest in this organization thus far.

It is this group's hope that through the efforts of the CCUN, the people in North Carolina will realize that the United Nations is important as an instrument of world peace, and will support it to the fullest extent.

International Relations Club

Delegates to the International Relations Club regional conference held at the University of North Carolina in February, 1948. Delegates came from colleges and universities in Virginia, Tennessee, and North Carolina.

Believing that the greatest need in world politics today is a clear understanding of the problems which obstruct peace and the factors which cause war, the International Relations Club has endeavored to bring an unbiased view of current history to the University of North Carolina campus.

In lively weekly discussions, in faculty forums, and through speeches by noted international experts, the IRC has served its campus and community well.

Plausible and constructive solutions to international problems have been offered whenever possible. The furthering of better relations between nations has been encouraged by the IRC.

This year the club played host to the annual conference of IRC delegates from Virginia, Tennessee, and North Carolina. This conference proved highly successful, as did the entire IRC year.

Officers were: President, Bill Patterson; Vice-President, Ed Hecht; Secretary, Bob Rolnik; and Treasurer, Fred Bates.

Carolina Political Union

The Carolina Political Union is a non-partisan organization, formed on the campus in 1936, controlled and operated by the student members of the University. Its purpose is to study intelligently the processes of government, an essential element in any well-working democracy, and to discuss and gain a better understanding of important political and economic problems of the day.

The group stepped toward gaining this understanding by bringing to the campus outstanding representatives of all sides of pertinent political issues and arranging for students to talk with these visiting notables, by conducting campus polls, and by organizing panel discussions among students.

In addition to conducting these discussions on current political interests, the Carolina Political Union has brought to the campus each Sunday night through several years such outstanding speakers as President Franklin D. Roosevelt; President Harry A. Truman; Secretary of the Navy, Frank Knox; Postmaster-General, James Farley; Congressman, Joseph Martin; Socialist Presidential Candidate, Norman Thomas; Senator Robert A. Taft; and many others.

Men's Glee Club

University Day in October marked the beginning of another season for the one-hundred-sixty voice Men's Glee Club. Then on December 5th and 7th, in combination with the Women's Glee Club, the organization presented the ever popular Carolina Christmas concert.

After touring several of the state's cities, the club climaxed its season with the annual spring concert. Appearing under the direction of veteran Paul Young, the men received high praise on each of their outings and the season at the finish had become not "another" one but "the" one.

Its officers this year were: President, Richard Cox; Vice-President, William Fitzgerald; Secretary, Joseph Albertson; Business Manager, James Davis; and Publicity, James Castleberry.

RICHARD COX

The University of North Carolina Men's Glee Club

Women's Glee Club

One of the younger organizations of the Carolina campus, The Women's Glee Club has added another successful year to the growing luster of their short history.

Their first outing this year was in combination with The Men's Glee Club at the Convocation on University Day. Following this, the organization, which is composed of more than one hundred girls, was a prominent part of the annual Christmas concert.

Returning to school after the Christmas vacation, the girls carried on with a number of special broadcasts as they worked towards the twin events of the spring which are the highlights of the group's year.

These occasions are their tour of many of the cities and towns of the state and their climatic spring concert. Both were fine successes and furnished a suitable finish to a good year.

The officers were: Jo Fishel, President; Gray Simpson, Vice-President; Mary Swann, Secretary; Ferne Hughes, Business Manager; and Doris Newburn, Publicity Chairman.

Curtain call . . .

Sound and Fury laughed its way through another round of gala shows this past year to add new brilliance to its already shining reputation as a producer of slightly hilarious musical comedies.

With the advent of the traditional Freshman Night show, which featured a number of stellar performances united into a small review, the hard-working group got off to a flying start, and immediately began work upon the first big show of the year, GIN LANE, an original musical melodrama by Pete Strader and Ken Gammage. Under the leadership of Douglas Gardner as President, and with Strader acting in the multiple capacities of Director, Scenic Designer, Costume Designer, and actor, the group was ably assisted by Frank Matthews as Music Director, Forrest Covington as Choral Director, and Howard Meyers as Orchestra Conductor. GIN LANE proved to be a howling success from the standpoint of achievement as well as that of providing a good time for all concerned.

Gammage succeeded Gardner as President, and plans were laid for the second show, held in the spring quarter, which proved to be even more successful than the first. Sound and Fury looks forward with anticipation to bigger and better productions next year.

Carolina Playmakers

The Playmakers dedicated this past year, and their thirtieth anniversary, to the classics. Opening with the Forest Theatre streamlined production of MACBETH, in the spring of 1947, they continued in the fall with George Bernard Shaw's SAINT JOAN; a new American translation of Henrik Ibsen's AN ENEMY OF THE PEOPLE by two of the Carolina staff, Kai Jurgensen and Robert Schenkan; Gilbert and Sullivan's THE MIKADO; and Thomas Dekker's THE SHOWMAKER'S HOLIDAY.

Since the masterful hand of Frederick Koch placed the Carolina Playmakers foremost among college theatres of America, the Chapel Hill group has met the original challenge this year as always before by offering to the students a first-rate bill of dramatic entertainment.

Production Memos

“Alice Goes Awandering” — 1944

EMPIRE's first motion picture was filmed in full color as a picturesque travelogue of our nation's capital, Washington, D. C., based upon the quaint fairy tale of “Alice in Wonderland”.

“The Call of Carolina” — 1945

Moving to the college community of Chapel Hill, EMPIRE felt the pulse of its life, and attempted to capture the bustle of activity and the sense of honor which make up the traditional “Carolina Spirit”.

“The Memoirs of a G. M. Assistant” — 1946

Swinging into full force as a campus organization, EMPIRE made this movie for the Graham Memorial Board of Directors, depicting the function of a Student Union on the college campus.

“Carolina In Color” — 1947

In this second color film, the company tried to visualize the natural beauty of the University and the Chapel Hill community as seen through the eyes of an artist.

FEATURE

FEATURES

A History with a Purpose

From a dream of childhood of two high school students, EMPIRE FEATURES has grown into a reality. Its motivating influence was first felt beyond the campus limits. Then, impressed by the natural friendliness and the atmosphere of history and tradition which have made the University great, the company sought to preserve that spirit on celluloid as a cross-section of campus life lifted out of the pages of time.

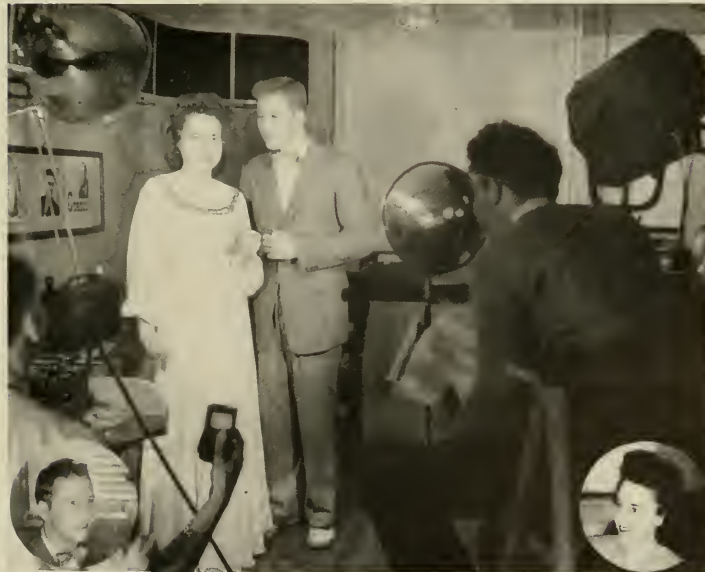

During the past four years, EMPIRE FEATURES has become integrated into the host of campus organizations, seeking to record pictorially the progress and the purposes of them all. It has been the sincere desire of the company to do its bit toward fostering the modern medium of motion pictures, which the University can and will apply to the continuation of its progressive spirit. We hope that in some way this effort has been of service to Alma Mater.

In grateful appreciation of the services and cooperation rendered toward our purpose, EMPIRE FEATURES has nominated the persons designated at the right in its Honor Roll of Campus Affiliates.

CHUCK VOIGT
President

"For the University", the motto of the University Club, is self-explanatory of the purpose of this representative body. Composed of a junior class representative from each of the men's dormitories and fraternities and a senior class representative from each of the women's dorms and sororities, the club has functioned efficiently this past year under the leadership of Chuck Voigt, in fostering school spirit and sponsoring pep rallies.

Along with its other activities the club sponsored a display contest during the Homecoming week-end for the North Carolina State football game and awarded cups to the Kappa Sigma fraternity and Old East dormitory for the most original exhibits.

In order to improve intra-school relationships the University Club sponsored a "Hey How You" day. This is an annual affair when every student on campus calls a hearty "hey, how you" to every other student he meets on the gravel walks.

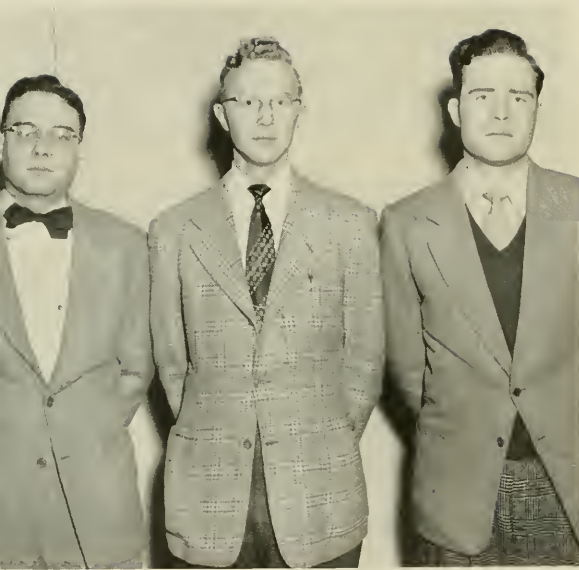

All in all the University Club did a commendable job in moulding the old "Carolina Spirit". Officers this year were: President, Chuck Voigt; Vice-President, Emile Saleeby; and Secretary-Treasurer, Martin Carmichael.

UNIVERSITY BAND

The University Band was organized to give the students a chance to participate in a marching musical organization, and to provide the campus with good band music.

During the fall the main project of the band was playing and marching at the football games. The band also led the torchlight parades and informal pep rallies before the games. This year they have received much praise for their original and outstanding programs.

The Director of the Band is professor Earl Slocum and the Assistant Director is Hubert Henderson. Other officers were: Frank West, President; Bob Prunty, Vice-President; Bynum Weathers, Secretary-Treasurer; David Arner, Business Manager; Gene Stryker, Publicity Manager; Norman Clark, Librarian; Kenneth Stroup, Assistant Librarian; Harold Andrews, Editor of Band Notes.

Western North Carolina Club

The aim of the Western North Carolina Club is to take an active part in varied campus affairs, and in doing so, bring together those students from the western part of the state.

Every year the club participates in many of the outstanding activities on the campus. This year they sponsored Sadie Hawkins Day which is one of Carolina's traditional annual events. They participated in the many drives and social functions on the campus. The club has social activities of its own which include square dances, vacation dances in Asheville, and other forms of entertainment that are of interest to all its members.

The Western North Carolina Club grew considerably this year, and through its large membership was able to do a great deal in promoting the main campus events.

The square dance team, a main attraction for Carolina, has proved to be very successful. It has helped to teach the art to high school students and to other groups in and around Chapel Hill.

Officers this year were: President, Bud Reagan; Vice-President, Gordon Bullock; Secretary, Merrily Brooks; and Treasurer, Dick Johnson.

The Wesley Foundation

The Sunday night suppers, the picnics, the group singing, the plays, baseball games, and square dances were just a few of the many activities of the Wesley Foundation of the Chapel Hill Methodist Church this year.

This organization, which includes all denominations and faiths in its membership, has as its aims the training of students in ethical and social standards; the improvement of personality limitations through group recreation; and, especially, the development of a spiritual inspiration which may help guide the students in life.

In addition to editing a paper, the Wesley Worker, and holding panel discussions and receptions, the group took an overnight bicycle hike to Hillsboro. This annual affair proved very successful.

Officers this year were: President, Jim McAllister; Vice-President, Bob Allen; Secretary, Caroline Warren; Treasurer, Basil Sherrell; and Editor of Wesley Worker, Bob Dulin.

Baptist Student Union

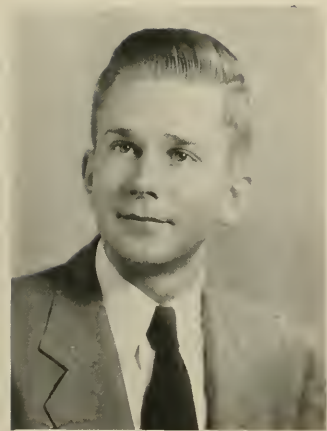

Serving two thousand Baptist students on the campus, the Baptist Student Union promotes many activities designed to encourage Christian education and spiritual growth. The program includes morning worship in the church, four Church School classes, Friday night forums, and Sunday evening vespers.

The Baptist Student Union Council meets every Friday night to determine policies and plan programs.

A monthly newspaper, The Christian Student, is published, and a weekly news sheet is sent to every member to keep up interest in the organization.

Through the Council on Religion in Life, the Baptist Student Union cooperates with other religious groups on the Carolina campus.

Vivian Parks served as President this year.

Hillel Foundation

Hillel Foundation is a student organization formed under the sponsorship of B'nai B'rith, national Jewish fraternal organization. It has as its goal the stimulation of interest among Jewish students in the religious, cultural, and social ideals of their people. With Dr. A. L. Sacher as its national director, Hillel is a supplement to university life and extra-curricular activity. It is meant neither to segregate nor separate.

Within the organization there are a variety of student groups planned to carry out some particular function of Jewish student life. Social, Religious, Interfaith, and Cultural are a few of the titles under which the activities fall.

The Carolina Hillel was headed this year by Paul L. Furgatch, President, and Mrs. Lillian Rosenberg, Counselor.

Aquinas Club

An organization of Catholic culture and fellowship, the Aquinas Club was formed to bring closer together the students of Catholic faith on the Carolina campus.

During this past year, its members have held regular discussions on the fundamental doctrines and modern precepts of the Church in weekly discussions designed to enrich the spiritual life of the Catholic students.

Through the spiritual and social fellowship of these discussion groups and such functions as Communion breakfasts, and with the helpful guidance of Father Morrisey, each of the members has been more successful in meeting the religious problems of life on a college campus.

Officers this year were: President, Paul Baschom, Jr.; Vice-President, Lucy Evans; Secretary, Mary Jo Parrish; and Treasurer, Don Vincent.

Town Girls Association

Since its organization several years ago, the Town Girls Association has come to form an important part of coed activities at Carolina.

The Town Girls Association endeavors to help girls who live in Chapel Hill to become acquainted with campus life, and interested in campus affairs and extra-curricular activities. It provides organized support for Chapel Hill girls qualified for candidacyship in coed elections, and supports athletic teams in intramural events.

Several social events highlighted Town Girls Association's program this year. They included the Orientation Week coke party, the fall picnic for new U. N. C. town girls, a Christmas dance, a spring picnic, and a traditional tea for the girls of the Chapel Hill High School graduating class. The organization also sponsored a monthly supper forum meeting which proved highly successful and popular.

The officers this year were: President, Betsy Anne Barbee; Vice-President, Liz Hazlett; Secretary, Jeanne Basnight; and Treasurer, Betty Vashaw.

University Veteran's Association

JOHN CLAMPITT
President

The University Veteran's Association represents a different group from other campus organizations. The men and women are former service personnel. The University Veteran's Association has united them so that through their collective efforts they may be better enabled to pursue their common goal of education.

This year the Association has taken an active part in establishing a student cooperative store. In business sessions investigations of housing and food prices were discussed, definite stands on Veteran's legislation were taken and these opinions sent to Congress.

A special activity of the Veteran's Association has been the maintenance of the popular Vet's Club. Here veterans and their dates have found relaxation and entertainment all during the school year.

With a total membership of around thirteen hundred, the Veteran's Association has become one of the major organizations on the Carolina campus.

Johnny Clampitt was this year's President.

The Campus Party

Organized in March, 1947, by a group of students headed by Johnny Jones and Chuck Heath, the Campus Party was originally made up of people who believed that there was a need for a third political party on the Carolina campus.

Its members were united by the one objective of making student government more representative. Only its members may vote in nomination meetings, assuring that the will of the real membership of the party will be reflected in any nominee selection.

Its foremost objective, in addition to the one already mentioned, is to secure a more efficient student government. It is always ready to support any issue or any man who will advance these aims.

During the 1947 spring election, the party sponsored a review in Memorial Hall, and afterwards elected four members to the student legislature.

The members of the C. P. held and continue to hold hopes and plans for the continuing improvement in student government.

Jess Dedmond capably served as chairman this year.

The University Party

MILES SMITH
Chairman

Founded late in the roaring twenties, the University Party has endeavored to strengthen student government on the Carolina campus through its policy of consistent selection of superior candidates.

Having over this span of time proved that it is a party that can do the job, the party and its members continued throughout 1947 to hold to this basic principle. The only party on the campus whose meetings cannot be "packed", the group's steering committee is composed of one voting representative from each of its member organizations.

Any student group of twenty-five or more members can qualify as an organization and obtain a vote on this committee which elects a chairman and publicity manager and nominates all candidates.

Chairman this year was Miles J. Smith of Salisbury; and the publicity manager was Herbert Nachman; Vice-President was Ernest House; Secretary, Ben Beale; and Treasurer, Norman Ripps.

F. Blackwell.

The Student Party

The Student Party on the campus was organized in the spring of 1946, and has been controlled by a group of people who believe that campus politics are in need of the introduction of a "big stick".

Since its inception, the party has attempted to select its ticket exclusively on the basis of "capability". Its success in the 1947 spring elections was the culmination of a year's drive to organize all campus factions and give voice to the largest number of voters possible.

The Student Party prides itself in being the only party in which every Carolina student is accorded the privilege of attending all meetings, speaking on all policies, and voting on all issues.

Under the leadership of Charlie Long, the party has striven to assure its voters that their officers are "on the job" improving student government.

The Wilmington-Carolina Club

Hailing from Wilmington, a group of industrious students this year decided to form into an organized club to promote a spirit of fellowship and good will, to familiarize themselves with their fellow Wilmingtonians, and to create a bond of friendship to benefit their college days and after-college years. Thus the Wilmington-Carolina Club was created.

These students also have had as their aims, during their initial year, group social functions, spiritual growth for the club, and the promotion of a closer and more active union between the Carolina alumni of Wilmington and the campus organization.

Serving as officers this year were: Marion Woodbury, President; Fields Clark, Vice-President; George Daughtry, Secretary; Eloise Jacobi, Treasurer; and Dan McClain, Social Chairman.

The Carolina Conservative Club

JOHN YORK
President

A new organization brought to the Carolina campus in August, 1946, the Conservative Club was formed to combat the "radicals" of the University of North Carolina and to represent the Right in Chapel Hill.

Their purposes include the support of Churchillian thinking and the retention of England as a great world power. They also champion a two party system for the South which they claim will eradicate the "near-stagnation" of Southern progress, racial equality through a slow, reasonable process, and the role played in American affairs by the business man.

Officers this year were: John York, President; Paul Mullinax, Vice-President; Charlie Kauffman, Secretary; and James Craddock, Treasurer.

Freshman Friendship Council

An important branch of the University of North Carolina Y. M. C. A. is the Freshman Friendship Council. active on the campus for over twenty years. Having as its purpose the guidance of entering freshmen, the Council meets weekly to plan special programs for the entire year.

This year a conference was held before the opening of school for entering freshmen. The conference was in Winston-Salem and was a two-day affair at which over fifty people were present. Also highlighting this year were the two exchange dances with Woman's College in Greensboro.

The Council not only advises freshmen at Carolina, but each year they visit high schools in the surrounding vicinity to talk to all boys interested in entering the University.

The work of the Friendship Council is very important to the entering students. It gives them the advice and direction necessary, and orientates them to the Carolina way of college life.

Publications Union Board

The Publications Union Board was established to act as a go-between for the printers, contractors, and engravers and the four student publications, The Daily Tar Heel, The Yackety Yack, Carolina Mag, and Tarnation.

The Board makes and approves an annual budget for each publication; thus an orderly financial condition in the businesses is assured.

Another task is the approving of various staff appointments upon recommendations of the respective editors-in-chief.

This past year the Board approved several new contracts, notably one providing a large printing set-up for The Daily Tar Heel, the University of North

The Board of Editors: RUTH EVANS, GENE JOHNSTONE, HAROLD BURSLEY

"Have you ever worked on a yearbook before?" we asked the applicants in September. And we took down their answers and filled out their cards and told them we'd call later.

But we didn't tell them just how soon we'd call, or that we had worked on a yearbook before, and we knew what it was like, and maybe we are writing this now as a labor of conscience.

And maybe we didn't tell them because we knew what working on a yearbook could be like and how could we tell them about the reward that just looking at your work can be?

But it comes after you have put a year of your life into it—and we have put a year of ours into it and know that just glancing through this brown and gold book makes it worth all of it.

It's been a hard year—full of postponements, full of deadlines that weren't met and deadlines that were, and great plans that never came off and some that did, and people that cooperated and some that didn't. We worked on it and sometimes it didn't seem worth it.

We overcut all our afternoon classes; then we cut them again, and we almost didn't pass fall quarter. The work ran behind and tempers ran short and paper ran out. And then it all happened over again.

There was the day that the package—but perhaps that's better forgotten. Anyway, eight months, and 240 days, and 5900 hours, and two quarters, and forty reams of paper, and 9270 packs of cigarettes went—and the staff wilted and revived and wilted again.

And we finally watched them set the last word of the last sentence of the last page and the presses started to hum. And we probably can't express it to you and maybe we don't understand it ourselves.

Because it's been a tough year and material has been short and talent is hard to find and money doesn't grow on trees and all that.

But it's been fun and experience and friendships and good, honest work. And it's a pretty good Yackety Yack—or anyway, we hope you like it.

The Daily Tar Heel, proud of its record as the oldest college daily in the southland and as the only college daily in the southeast, added another chapter to its successful history during the past year.

With its first fall issue, the Daily Tar Heel, under the leadership of Editor Barron Mills, expanded from its old six column format to an eight column, standard newspaper size. Publishing in the new $30,000 Colonial Press plant owned and managed by former editors Orville Campbell and Horace Carter, the new Daily Tar Heel was turned out on a duplex press, capable of printing, folding, cutting, and counting an eight page, eight column newspaper at the rate of 3,500 copies per hour.

Tar Heel

On the campus, the Daily Tar Heel continued to furnish the university community with complete coverage of campus happenings and to keep an accurate and unbiased record of the day-to-day events of the Carolina passing parade.

The columns of the paper carried comment and feature work by campus journalists and augmented it with syndicated material from cross-word puzzles to L'il Abner and Drew Pearson. Full United Press wire coverage was also carried.

The Daily Tar Heel's recognized eminence in the field of college journalism, its conscientious coverage of all the news, and its headlines of such events as Carolina, 21; Duke, 0—all these went into the making of a newspaper and a record of which the campus and the staff may well be proud.

With Mills as Editor, the staff was managed early in the year by Earl Heffner who was succeeded as Managing Editor by Ed Joyner. Chuck Hauser reigned supreme in the news room while next door the sports staff labored under the leadership of Co-Sports Editors, Bob Goldwater and Billy Carmichael.

The business office was directed by Harold Bailey, Business Manager and Owen Lewis as Circulation Manager.

There were approximately 30 other staff members associated with the paper during the course of the year.

"It's too arty! Jokes are needed!"

"Darn good magazine! A well balanced publication."

"Perhaps no other editor in the history of journalism has evolved the tricky technique of picquing reader interest by snipping ending paragraphs from each story before the publication goes to press."

Such human Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde accomplishment in editing a magazine has been the job of Fred Jacobson who for the second succeeding year has served as the Editor of Carolina Magazine.

In spite of the calm seas of praise as well as the avalanche of adverse criticism from which no creative effort escapes, the Carolina Magazine placed among the first ten college publications according to an announcement by the National Scholastic Press Association.

Magazine policy, seeking the greatest amount of reader interest and entertainment through the presentation of the largest variety of creative talent available on campus, has been generally successful. This success has been due to the excellent staff work which succeeded in publishing eight truly representative issues worthy of Tar Heel

Outstanding in their work as Managing Editors, Jud Kinberg and Charlie Gibson performed with alert ingenuity and industriousness. John Sink, as Associate Editor, John Davis, in charge of art, John McDowell, literary head-man, deserve much credit toward shaping the Magazine into an interesting and readable student publication. If nothing else ever produced an impression on a reader, Wilson Yarborough's photography drew praise consistently.

With the work of the business staff under the direction of Ben Perlmutter and Mel Cohen, enough advertising was collected to allow the Magazine many extra expenses not made possible through student funds.

It is hoped by the staff that the Carolina Magazine will continue to grow in its own right as a true reflection of the University of North Carolina.

Tarnation's contents are not necessarily limited to writings of a strictly humorous nature. Straight features, light in tone and readable to a high degree, are also included. An example of the straight writing is "The Tarnation Profiles"—biographies of various "student personalities."

A Dream Come True

A DREAM COME TRUE . . . athletics for all . . . everything from baseball to badminton, from soccer to swimming . . . the complete athletic program for varsity star and Joe College alike . . . a shining tribute to the man who wielded the major hand in the building of the South's greatest athletic empire—Coach Bob Fetzer.

Twenty-five years ago Coach Bob came to Carolina. Little Bynum Gymnasium and Emerson field were the total facilities. But Coach Bob was a dreamer, and as he looked to the future, he foresaw the complete, balanced athletic plant. In quest of this goal, Coach Bob encountered fellow dreamers—Kenan, Woollen, Gray—and together they turned dreams to realities. Today, the task nears completion. The change from ideals to ideas to edifices is being accomplished, and the University, with pardonable pride, can boast an athletic plant unsurpassed in the nation.

Yet, to Coach Bob the building of material structures will never give the satisfaction he has obtained in building and developing the minds and bodies of young Tar Heels.

This has been his life's work, a lifetime that has seen Carolina athletic greats from Branch to Justice, has seen a Tar Heel trackster race to fame in Olympic competition, has seen the University win its first national championship. It was fitting that this crowning achievement should come as a 25th anniversary present and should come in the sport nearest to Coach Bob's heart—track.

Thus, a humble tribute to a great educator, coach, and friend of all. May his next 25 years be filled with athletic champions and championships and leaders of men for this power behind the throne of sporting kings.

MONOGRAM

THE CLUBHOUSE

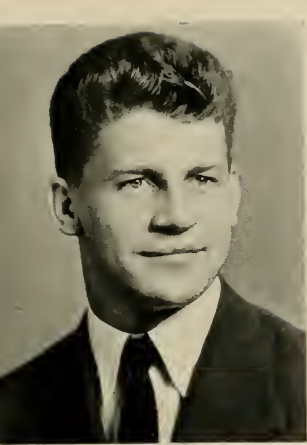

The Monogram Club was organized for the purpose of establishing friendship among all the winners of Carolina Monograms. Since the war, the club has grown considerably, and throughout the years it has sponsored many outstanding social functions.

During Freshman Orientation Week the club had "Meet the Coach and Athletic Night" in order to help the freshmen become acquainted with one another and with the athletic association. During the year the club also sponsored a dance, the Wake Forest game on October 11th, and sponsored the winning candidate, Lillian DeArmon, for "Miss Pay Off" during the World Student Service Fund drive. The "Blue and White Day", one of their largest events, ended the Spring football season. The club was also active in entertaining the winning teams in the various sports.

The end of each year is high-lighted for the Monogram Club with the awarding of a trophy to the athletic coach who is voted to have served most outstandingly with his team.

FOOTBALL

Coach Snavelly

The 1947 Tar Heel football season was one of ups and downs. The Carolina eleven, rated as a pre-season national great, squeezed by its opening game with Georgia, only to go down to disastrous defeat on the next two Saturdays, first at the hands of the powerful Longhorns of Texas, and then before slightly-less potent Wake Forest.

But with the better late than never spirit in their hearts, the pupils of Coach Carl Snavelly came roaring back on the next seven straight Saturdays to roll over William and Mary, Florida, Tennessee, State, Maryland, Duke, and Virginia in that order.

Once rolling, the Tar Heels were not to be tangled with, if one wished winning results. A high-geared running attack built around the ball-bearing abilities of such standout backs as Charlie Justice, Walt Pupa, Hosea Rodgers, and Jim Camp, combined with the aerial talents of the first three gave the locals a scoring punch rivalling any in the nation.

Up front, the Carolina team was equally well equipped, sporting an array of line talent that could be found to be deep in-reserve strength and usually deep in some opponent's backfield.

The Tar Heels' eight and two record could be considered somewhat of a successful season, though there were those, of course, who expecting more, were disappointed.

If nothing else was accomplished, the Tar Heels were still building for greater seasons to come.

The much-heralded replay of the Carolina-Georgia Sugar Bowl clash didn't quite live up to its pre-season press notices with both teams showing too much defense and a like amount of early season awkwardness. But the Tar Heels finally came to life in the second half to discount an early Bulldog touchdown, and then go on to triumph, 14-7, in the closing minutes on a Pupa-to-Weiner ariel.

Tar Heel hopes of the greatest gridiron season in the school's history went up in smoke that October afternoon in Austin as the powerful Texas Longhorns teamed with the powerful Texas sun to send the visiting lads from Chapel Hill stampeding home with a 34-0 defeat on their shoulders. The Texans scored early on two tremendous pass plays and though the Tar Heels marched from one end of the field to the other, they could not produce a single score while their opponents were rolling to three more tallies.

Carolina Downs Indians 13-7

Determined to prove to themselves if to no one else that they could play winning football, the Tar Heels journeyed to Williamsburg to do battle with the potent Indians of William and Mary. The game developed into one of the roughest and hardest-fought of the season with the Carolina boys moving to a 7-0 lead at halftime and then matching the Virginians touchdown for touchdown in the last half to emerge a 13-7 winner.

Gators Fall to UNC 35-7

Florida became the next victim of the now-moving Tar Heels in the fifth game of the season. A filled-house of Gator homecoming alumni sat in the hot Gainesville sun to see the best Carolina performance of the season. Hosea Rodgers ran seventy-odd yards on the first play from scrimmage, and the Tar Heels followed with two more quick scores before most of the patrons were even seated. The rout continued for most of the afternoon with the Snavelly-men coming out on the long end of a 35-7 count.

Snavelymen Drop Tennessee 19-7

The Tar Heels returned to Kenan the next Saturday to give the home folks a view of their "New Look" football team at the expense of the visiting Volunteers of Tennessee. The Carolina team had the million-dollar flavor to it in the first half and assumed a commanding 19-0 lead at the halftime. The Vols rallied throughout the remainder of the game though, to neutralize the Tar Heels' attack and score once themselves, forcing the local entry to settle for a 19-7 victory.

The Battle of the Brothers between Carolina and State, renewed this season by popular demand, failed to reach the heights of conflict that had been expected as the Chapel Hill entry showed no mercy at all in running rough shod over the West Raleigh lads to exact a 41-6 victory.

The Tar Heels' six touchdown victory parade started early and lasted late as Coach Snavelly used all hands with seemingly equal success to send the State College Team cow-tailing homeward. Pupa, Justice, and Camp paced the high-powered offensive.

Carolina Outcrawls Terps 19-0

Mud and a staunch Maryland defense were the next opponents of the triumphant Tar Heels, as Washington's Griffith Stadium saw two of the South's best teams battle scorelessly for the opening half in a quagmire that left one player indistinguishable from another.

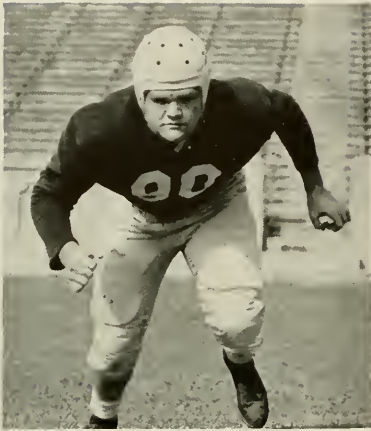

The second half began in the same manner, but a Tar Heel recovery of a Terrapin fumble deep in Maryland territory led to a quick Carolina touchdown late in the third period. Within seven minutes, the Tar Heels had tallied twice again on Maryland-made breaks and a 19-0 triumph was assured.

Blue Devils Routed Again

The dream of all Tar Heel fans and footballers alike came true on November 22 as a Justice-led Carolina football team outmanned, outplayed, outfought, and what counts—outscored a rather hapless Duke Blue Devil eleven to gain a 21-0 victory in the traditional series.

The Tar Heels were held in check during the early part of the game by a stubborn Duke defense and several penalties possibly attributed to over-anxiousness. But the running of Charlie Justice. Walt Pupa, Jim Camp and end-arounding Art Weiner could not be denied as the Snavelymen took a 12-0 halftime lead on a short dash by the Asheville ambler and a Justice-to-Cox aerial.

The visitors from Chapel Hill maintained their supremacy of wet, muggy Duke Stadium throughout the second half which saw them tally the odd combination of nine points. The first six came when a Tar Heel drive sputtered and stalled on the Duke five-yard line, but on fourth down Pupa tossed to Justice in the flat, who slipped by three Duke tacklers and tumbled into the end zone.

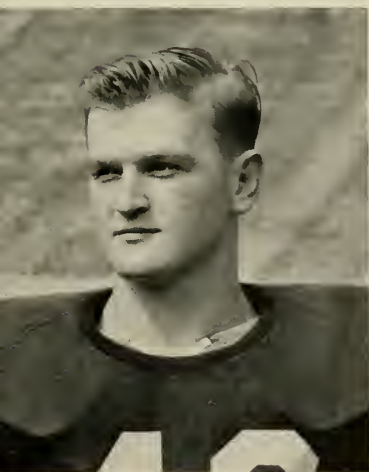

Bob Cox, who had missed the three extra points, made up the deficit by kicking a 22-yard field goal to complete the scoring.

Wahoo's Deflated 40-7

A highly-rated Virginia eleven was the final opponent of the 1947 Tar Heel football team, but the Snavelymen proved very unhostipable to their visitors from the Old Dominion as they applied a 40-7 shellacking to the Cavaliers in Kenan Stadium.

The Tar Heels delivered another six touchdown lesson in the art of football, moving up and down the field with powerful ease. They scored both on the ground and through the air and added their last touchdown on a Virginian miscue to round out the variety of the program.

It was the last college game for seniors George Sparger, Joe Wright, John Tandy, George Roberts, Ted Hazelwood, Emmett Cheek, Walt Pupa and Jim Camp, all who had well served the Blue and White.

Jayvee Football

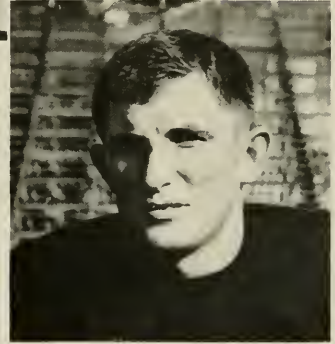

Jayvee football under the guiding eye of Head Coach Crowell Little established an enviable record as the team defeated Navy, South Carolina, State and Duke and had its record blemished with a tie against Virginia.

Standout players for the Jayvees were backs Merle Norcross, Jack Brasington, Bob Koontz and Dick Bunting. The line standouts were Dick Featherholf, Pete Rywak, Roscoe Hansen and John Stioff.

Many of these men will be high on the list when Coach Snaveley sends his varsity into action next fall.

Soccer

Soccer under Coach Marvin Allen enjoyed a highly successful season in its first year as a monogram sport.

Wins were posted over High Point College, Duke, Virginia, Roanoke. The squad dropped games to Duke, Navy and Loyola. The loss to Navy was no disgrace as the final score after an overtime was 2-1. Navy is generally regarded as top collegiate team in the country.

Al Williams and Gus Johnston were co-captains of the Tar Heel aggregate. Williams, Johnston, Dave Boak and Frank Nelson were invited to participate in the Olympic tryouts.

Cross Country

Carolina's 1947 cross country season was a fine success as the team ran the consecutive win streak to 17 straight by downing Georgia Tech, Tennessee, Duke, N. C. State and Virginia.

The highlight of the season was Jack Milne's triumph in the NCAA event in Lansing, Mich. Milne, running in six-inches of snow and freezing weather outlasted better than 100 runners to bring the University its first national title.

Milne also placed third in the New York IC4A event to aid the team in a 12th place finish. The same day as the New York event the reserve harriers took seventh place in the Southern Conference event which saw Maryland completely dominate.

BASKETBALL

The Carolina basketball team of 1947-'48 ran hot and ran cold. The local cagers started like the proverbial house afire in the early part of the season, winning their first 12 games to enter New York's famed Madison Square Garden a major undefeated aggregation.

But in the Gotham playing without their newly-molded star Bill Miller, who had been declared ineligible on the eve of the trip, the Tar Heels floundered badly before the powerful Violets of NYU, in one of the worst defeats in the history of the school.

Norm Kohler

Though they lost also to Temple in their northern swing, the charges of Coach Tom Scott returned to the victory trail in Philadelphia the next week-end by dumping highly-touted Penn, and from there on, enjoyed a rather creditable season.

The Tar Heels dropped both of their season's encounters to State College's high-scoring quint and left the Carolina entry with a 10-3 Conference mark, which in turn gave the Scottmen a comfortable berth in the loop tournament in Durham.

In that event, Carolina polished off stubborn VPI in the opening round, only to meet their great nemesis, State, in the semi-finals by the luck of a draw. The outcome of this game was eventually similar to the first two meetings, but not until the Tar Heels had given the Dickey-less State team the scare of their lives through the back-from-the-grave efforts of John "Hook" Dillon.

The tournament defeat left the Tar Heels with a 20 and 7 record for the season which seemed creditable enough in these days of heavy competition at all sides.

Captain Bob Paxton was the individual high scorer for the cagers, tossing in a total of 329 points besides pacing the team through the season with brilliant displays of floor and backboard play.

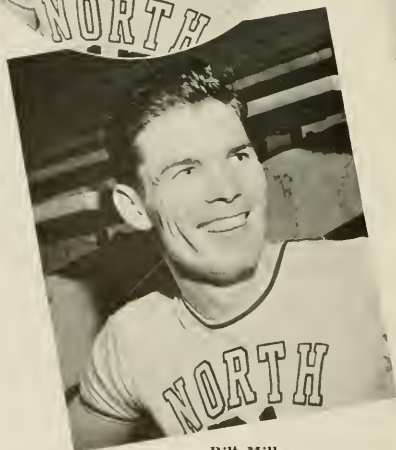

Runner-up high scoring honors went to centers Nemo Nearman and Dillon. Coy Carson, Roger Scholbe, Fred Swartzberg, and Miller were other standout forwards in addition to Paxton.

At the guard posts, King Cole and Norm Kohler handled the majority of the work, with Taylor Thorne, and Dan Nyimicz handling the relief work.

WRESTLING

Handicapped by the early-season loss of several standbys, Carolina's 1948 wrestling team failed to retain its Southern Conference title, but still turned in a creditable 4-2 record for the season. Though small in number, the squad of Coaches Chuck Quinlan and Hobie McKeever made up in fight what was lacking in number.

Highlight of the campaign came in the closing match, when a pin in the final bout by Captain Bill Kemp provided the winning margin in a 14-12 victory over Duke. Other decisions were gained over N. C. State, Davidson, and VMI, while losses were inflicted by VPI and the new conference champions, Washington and Lee.

Other leading members of the team included Oscar Guppton, Tom Urquhart, Phil Kemp, Carrol Fisher, Doug Thompson, and Marvin Wilson.

SWIMMING

Acclaimed as "The greatest swimming team ever assembled in the South," the Blue Dolphins of 1948 topped all achievements of previous years by splashing to 10 consecutive victories, then completing their supremacy by dominating the Southern Conference championship meet for the sixth year in a row. With none of the season's engagements at all close, most of the opposition for the charges of Dick Jamerson was furnished by the stopwatch, but this year's tank edition was more than equal to the task and shattered loop marks in seven of the nine events.

Leading the assault on the record books was Dick Twining, who turned in three new marks and shared in the establishment of still another, in the relay. Other record-breakers included Co-Captains Jesse Greenbaum and Mike Morrow. Floyd Drew, Bob Ousley, and Jim Thomas, a freshman sensation. Ousley's feat of returning to collegiate competition after a five-year layoff to regain his 1941-42 conference crown in the breaststroke was one of the highlights of the season. Although not a record-smasher, Norm Sper was another standout, defending his diving title won last year.

The 10 easy victories included wins over four of the South's top swimming teams. Navy, N. C. State, Georgia Tech, and Emory. Also on the list of stars for the season were Steve Osborne, Bill Pritchard, Jerry Cook, Dan Breedon, Mae Erle, John Bippart, Ike Norwood, Ronnie Basescu, Allison Pell, and Bob Hutton. BASEBALL

Carolina's 1947 baseball club looked impressive in copping the first two encounters on a 26-game slate and appeared even more so in the final pair of the year. But in-between these two extremes, the Tar Heels could perform at only a .500 clip and thus completed their campaign with a record of 15 wins and 11 losses.

In competition in two circuits, Carolina finished third in Big Four play with a 5-7 mark and turned in an 8-7 card against Southern conference opponents to end up in sixth place.

With veteran Coach Bunn Hearn absent most of the season while convalescing from a long illness, the coaching reins fell to Walter Rabb and Henry House. They managed to field an outfit that was fairly well off in the hitting department, but erratic fielding and a shortage of dependable pitchers did little to brighten the picture.

Even the weatherman smiled with disfavor on the Carolina crew. As a result of numerous postponements caused by rain, the Tar Heels found themselves engaged in seven contests in eight straight days—the other day was Sunday—during the final weeks of the season. Three more games in five days — including another Sunday—followed immediately. Needless to say, the small mound staff failed to weather the flood of games and a losing streak that extended through five games was enough to erase Carolina from contention in both league races.

But the season did have its bright spots, such as the two successive victories over N. C. State in the last pair of games on the slate. The Big Four record showed the Chapel Hill entry with even splits in the four-game series with State and Wake Forest, but with only one win in four outings against Duke. Outstanding inter-sectional triumphs were also scored over Michigan, Michigan State, Cornell, Navy, Villanova, and Cincinnati.

In individual performances, an outfielder and a pitcher paced the Blue and White team. Rightfielder Jim Kelly captured the Big Four batting title with a .500 average in 10 games, and the league's top southpaw, Vinnie DiLorenzo, led the loop in the strikeout parade with 50 to his credit. Kelly, with four hits in his final seven trips to the plate, established a new high for the Big Four batting championship. DiLorenzo racked up seven of the club's 15 triumphs and Monk Whiteheart, the high-kicking righthanded ace, was second with five.

Co-Captains Harry Beason and John Gregory led the list of other standbys, that also included the 1948 co-captains, Jim Hamilton and Jim Hayworth. Winning the first Southern Conference championship in the history of local golf, Carolina's 1947 links team rose to previously unattainable heights in winning eight matches while losing only to Duke in dual competition.

Such national greats as LSU and Michigan fell before the might of such swingsters as Dick Doeschler, conference medalist, Harvie Ward, Junie Bailey, Ray Taylor, Mike Nolan, Bob Cox, and Ed Ashby.

CHEERLEADERS

Under the tonsil-torturing tutelege of Cheerleader Myrt Sherard, the 1947-48 Tar Heel yell squad turned in a fine job of building, conditioning and maintaining the renowned Carolina spirit.

The usual pep rallies and torchlight parades were displayed with a new look and new twists, while Saturday afternoon activity from the stands of Kenan Stadium had much to do in the backing of a Tar Heel football team which got off to a slow start early in the season.

The high point of the cheery season came on the caravan trip to the Carolina-Maryland game in Washington which saw a motorcycle-escorted parade led by Sherard and company through the street of the astounded capital.

With plans being formulated for mass color card display for the coming season, Carolina spirit looked well on its way to a post-war revival.

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The purpose of the Women's Athletic Association is to develop qualities of leadership, to promote interest in women's athletics, and to provide opportunities for participation in the varied campus sports. All the women students automatically become members of the association upon entering the University.

The work of the Women's Athletic Association is directed by a council composed of sorority and dormitory athletic managers, and is advised by Miss Frances Burns.

The activities of this year included a swimming party given during orientation week, tournaments in all the various sports throughout the year, and a high school and college play-day which occurred in the spring.

At the end of each year the association holds its annual banquet at which time individual awards are made and the "best all around" trophy is presented to the group totaling the highest number of points throughout the year.

The officers this year were:

President, Marshall Spears; Vice-President, Bill Lloyd; Secretary, Betsy Ann Barbee; Treasurer, Janet Crinkley; Publicity Chairman, Miriam Evans; Point System Chairman, Butch Goodwin.

GIRLS' SPORTS

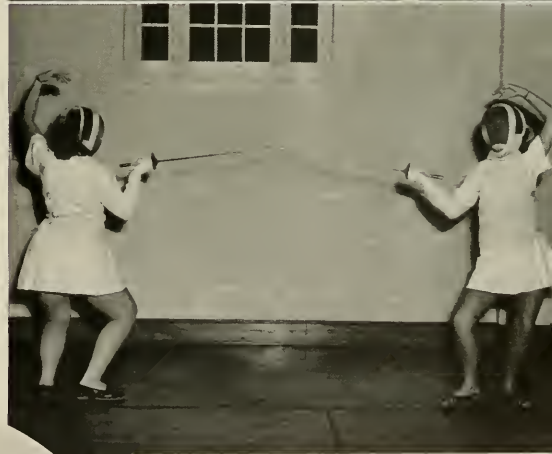

In addition to the organized work of the WAA, there is a physical education program for Carolina coeds. Junior girls are required to take three quarters of classes of their choice, and courses offered follow regular sports seasons. Other women students are urged to participate voluntarily in the activities of the department.

Instruction is given in tennis, swimming, hockey, basketball, softball, modern dance, and physical fitness; and special interest clubs handle specific competitions and activities.

The Splash Club has big times doing formation and pattern swimming. The Hockey Club challenges and plays various teams across the state. The Tennis Club sponsors and manages a tournament in the spring, and the Modern Dance Group has been active in presenting recitals and programs throughout the year.

There is a full course for "phys. ed." majors, and each year the department graduates a class of qualified teachers. It is the hope of the department to provide opportunities for athletics for all women in the University, both through broad intramurals and the WAA, and through the regular curriculum and special club groups. The women's gym is always a busy place.

Do we need words for this awful reality? I mean, how morbid can we get?

You say you're soaking up education by osmosis?

“The time has come,”

Once upon a time there was a Carolina Character. This Character has no definite sex, no definite features, no definite action, being, or state of being.

This Character is really qualified to be so named, but unlike most characters, he has very little substance. He is the man behind the man behind the mystery of what Carolina really is. . . .

For instance, look at us at our best!

That hungry feeling sneaks around again.

"Oh you beautiful doll!"—Call the Powers Agency, Bet!

From dawn (and if you think 8:00 isn't the same as dawn, you're crazy) to dark the madhouse is the same.

Hands across the table (library table, that is) . . . doughnuts 'n such at the Scuttlebutt . . . 10:00 break . . . we entertain ourselves. The Character at least goes through the motion of buying books . . . then sells them back unused, for half price . . . some days you just might as well stay in bed. . . .

The high and low of it—buying books, that is.

"as Davie did in days of old—" He did?

And furthermore, I shall continue to fight. . . .

the walrus said,

See what the real subjects of life are. "From out of the mouths of college babes" . . . and the walrus . . . or somebody, there is always lots to say about lots of things. Our Character might be on the receiving end of the rostrum in Memorial Hall, or a ringed bridge table in a frat house, or Dr. Frank's front porch, but always the same . . . yap, yap, yap . . . and they say let more coeds in!

But what does the Character answer to all this barrage of blasting? His reaction—go from wild to wilted . . . and he brags about what he calls "ludicrous, 'lastic, liberalism".

Talk about the Y court! . . . and coffee between classes. Why, we have Y court affairs we haven't even used! Take the Sadie Hawkins gyrations, and the unpictured rendezvous . . . when the gals set their traps, and the fellers trap their squirrels.

'to talk of many things...

So what of these gals? Just check these phases of the Character's life. . . if it ain't serious conversation on a divan it's "Cheers" en masse (always with "the boys"). Now don't get any ideas about that fire in the lower left next door. There just couldn't be any connection between the ice cold snow gal and the flames shown elsewhere. But back to the Character . . . let's just rack this exciting stuff up as a real, important part of the "many things".

of ships and shoes...

Then there was the day the Character compared legs with fellow characters. You guess which of the three pairs belong to our little friend. But those limbs are good for something besides posing . . . long walks, by chance?

Now we won't bring spring into this, or blankets, but our Character stopped and watched the ditch diggers, the sway and swing - - ing coat of a hepcat, the glamour of a beauty court, and the inevitable trek up the library steps . . . with books . . . what a day! and the Chapel Hill boulders dig into the Character's clay-worn feet . . .

This Character bears description. His face is a mixture of earnest determination and casual good humor. He wears remnants of G. I. days, raincoats, and saddle shoes, with a smattering of the new look. He has a cheery greeting, complains about the "wicked ways of college men, and how they come and go," and he regrets the end that must come to these frantic days. Proper attitude toward such thoughts: "Lock 'em in a box, tie 'em with a ribbon, and throw 'em in the deep blue sea".

So now we take our Character through some of the confusion of Carolina and things become all jumbled together . . . cabbages become king . . . and then the psychological effect of a chaotic domicile causes the "one" (Character, that is) to resort to all sorts of last straws . . . (latest style at the Curve Inn, drink it thru a straw).

First a dream of purty girls . . . the need for a boost, stimulating cup of coffee, that is . . . and then the final something. Graduation, or the last word. "I do".

University Dance Committee

The University Dance Committee is really back in the swing of things on a real pre-war basis. According to the new campus constitution the standards of representation are back up to the old-time high, and it is to this group of men that congratulations go for a most successful year. The primary function of this committee is to act as host and maintain order at dances sponsored by various campus organizations, and in this capacity the University Dance Committee has worked to attain the goal of meeting the satisfactory approval of both faculty and students.

With the completion of a task well-done, Chairman Taylor Thorne resigned at the end of the Fall Quarter and was succeeded by Charles Johnston, who with the cooperation of Dr. E. L. Mackie, Senior Faculty Representative, and Mr. Marvin Allen, Junior Faculty Representative, will continue to work toward attaining their top goal, "the perfect Carolina dance".

Winter's week-end. Unable to get a big name band for the occasion the week-end was canceled.

The two big week-ends that the German Club sponsored were the Finals and Fall Germans of 1947. The Finals featured Charlie Spivak and his band, and we played host to Randy Brooks for the fun laden week-end in the fall. Both dances were huge successes and the thirteen fraternities of the German Club, with their dates, enjoyed the extensive events of the week-ends. The Finals week-end featured many parties at Hogan's Lake with plenty of baseball games. Many members went to the dances, as was witnessed by the large crowds both nights. The highlights of the Fall German week-end were the U. N. C. Tennessee game and parties at Terrace View, plus of course, the two dances and concert. Both dances met the expectations of the coeds, imports and "Carolina Gentlemen".

Fall Germans

The first of the series of seasonal dances given by the German Club was underway on October 31 when Randy Brooks and his orchestra opened the curtain on the first act of Fall Germans. The afternoon concert featured vocalists Gracie Barrie and Phil Brito, who also had prominent roles throughout the performance. Act Two was transferred to Wool-len Gymnasium for dancing that night, and the setting remained the same for the finale which was a dance to top the week-end.

Finals

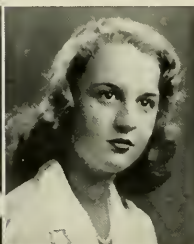

With the advent of spring, thoughts turned to May Finals, 1947 which were held in the early part of May. Charlie Spivak and his band furnished the music for the event and the German Club members and their dates provided the fun for the gala week-end.

Sponsors for the Finals were Miss Mary Montgomery with Carroll Tomlinson, President; Miss Mary Frances King with Guy Andrews, Vice-President; Miss Betty Brown with Earl Woodward, Secretary; Miss Evelyn Smith with Jesse Jernigan, Treasurer; Mrs. Helen Ettenger with Mr. Robert Ettenger, Miss Jean Ann Ramsdell with Judson Hawk, Miss Dee Genther with Barnes Boyle, Miss Frances Ruseau with Dick Johnson, Miss Barbara Folger with Ben Cooper, Miss Gloria Van Dyke with Bob Lee, Miss Irene Williams with Frank Frazer, Miss Dorothy Parks with Carl Durham, Miss Betty Simmons with Louie Nicou, Miss Elizabeth Petesch with Walter Alston, Miss Marietta Thompson with Dick Wright, Miss Frances Mann with Bill Tate, Miss Phena Darwer with Tony Capehart.

The week-end was opened with a concert Friday afternoon by Charlie Spivak and his band, which was followed by dancing that night in Woollen Gymnasium. Saturday night was the climax of the two-night stand which brought the week-end's entertainment to a close. Both Dances were open to members of the German Club only.

IN SINCERE APPRECIATION

The 1943 Yackety Yack takes this space to gratefully extend their thanks to MR. LAVERGNE JOHNSON, who freely gave his time and talents to the Yack in photographing the winners of the 1943 Beauty Parade. His willingness and ability are appreciated by the editors and the staff. The following pages give proof of his perfection in presenting to the student body the beauty and grandeur of U. N. C. beauties.

Judges were: James A. Davis, William M. Prince, James Street, Roy Armstrong.

The Yackety Yack Beauty Parade which was held in Memorial Hall on January 9, 1948, was an event of great interest and speculation among the various organizations that had entries in the contest. Twenty-six campus organizations submitted a total of forty-five beauties to vie for the title of Queen of the Yackety Yack. The judges, Mr. William M. Prince, Mr. James Street, Mr. James Davis, and Mr. Roy Armstrong, performed an excellent job in selecting the Queen and her court of fifteen equally beautiful coeds. A bouquet of orchids was presented to the Queen by Mr. Davis and an orchid corsage to each member of the court.

I. F. C. Executive Council

LEON TODD
President

Inter-Fraternity

I. F. C. Court.

Carolina Gentlemen will come and go but the spirit that makes Carolina Gentlemen will stay on. This spirit is exemplified in the workings of the Interfraternity Council. This guiding force for all fraternities on the campus has done a job this year that will stand out in years to come as an example of "working together."

A scholarship fund has been set up for high school graduates who would not ordinarily have a chance to come to college. This fund is to be administered by the University. The I. F. C. has continued to work for better student government as in the past. Relations between fraternities and faculty have been strengthened through the efforts of the I. F. C.

Composed of two members from each fraternity, the President and a junior member, the I. F. C. continued to create a high standard of building better students to fit in with the rest of student life. Brotherhood, living and working together, friendship and high standard of values still will be the ultimate of fraternity relationships thanks to the workings of the Interfraternity Council.

The Pan-Hellenic Council under the direction of Margaret Jean Taylor, has capably guided sorority activities on the campus. With the publishing of the Pan-Hellenic Manual, the Council established an improved and simpler rushing system. In cooperation with Chi Delta Phi, the Woman's Glee Club, CICA, and the Playmakers, the Pan-Hellenic Council again successfully managed Mav Day.

Socially, the Council's year centered around the Faculty Tea held in February. The Council added to the orientation program by sponsoring a fashion show featuring two models from each sorority.

Margaret Jean Taylor, President

Following their tradition, the Council awarded the annual silver loving cup to the sorority with the highest scholastic average. Miss Audrey Branch became the advisor to the Pan-Hellenic Council filling the position of Miss Ruth Duncan.

The Pan-Hellenic Council is made up of three representatives from each sorority and two representatives from the organization of Stray Greeks. Officers were: Margaret Jean Taylor (Alpha Delta Pi) President; Norma Hotard (Delta Delta Delta) Vice-President; Carolyn Driver (Alpha Gamma Delta) Secretary; Mary Bright Jernigan (Pi Beta Phi) Treasurer.

Kappa Alpha

The crimson rose of Kappa Alpha's southern gentlemen burst into full bloom that very first day when the "grand old gang" returned to its home at 110 West Cameron and began what turned out to be the most eventful and fun-packed year ever.

The events have passed, but memories remain, of good times, good spirits, high ideals, and a hundred unforgettable KA brothers.

... For how could we forget ... "Smiley" Ingram and his classic remarks ... Bland and his poop sheet ... Hunter and the etchings in his bondoir ... Mason and Katherine, getting along fine, as usual ... "Hookus" and Sammy T, starring in that 2 a. m. football game with those fellows across the way ... "Yogi" and his strip-tease ... Bready and "who th'hell tracked that mud in here" ... Kurbjon falling in love ... "Weasel" finally gaining a pound, ... "Push 'em down! Push 'em down! Waaaaay down!" ... "Canvas Back" meeting Bob Phillips ... Ricks changing majors still another time ... "Soldier" getting a name straight ... and Massey doing such a grand job with his social committee.

And then there were ... Those week-end blackouts in the social room ... All those "ace lads" during rush week ... Afternoon labs at the Curve Inn, checking the curves ... And many other memories about many good times at Carolina—at the KA house ... Again we leave, but our hearts forever stay ... And they bound themselves together and they called it old KA.

Chug-a-lug!

It's friendship.

The chapter started another great year with a promising outlook for the future. The football season brought together many old grads and new members. A great interest is being taken by the new pledge class in the workings of the fraternity. Many week-end parties have been held and everyone seemingly had a fine time—a mighty fine time! We copped the cup for the homecoming display last fall as a result of some tireless work by some of the boys.

The boys in the end room are at rest with Heavy gone . . . Bruno finally has Brer Bear in line again . . . P. G. Hinkle and L. L. Easter are at their same old game . . . Tau Epsilon Phi

No change in Tau Epsilon Phi had ever been more significant than the initiation of the nineteen pledges in the Spring. For the first time since the war Tau Epsilon Phi had returned to normalcy as the foundation was laid for the regular progression of classes over a four year span—an unknown procedure in the hectic postwar years. Finally TEP had hit its stride again. Moving ahead with seven league boots, brothers and pledges helped to make this the most successful school year, scholastically and socially, as well as in sports and student activities.

The Fall marked the return of the native . . . all sorts of the new models: Chevy & Shirley. Plymouth & Connie, & Irma . . . Lemo rushes boys, for a change . . . the nineteen chosen chose TEP . . . Alumni reminisce on football week-ends . . . Robinson makes legislature his island . . . Kinberg finally Varsity material . . . Arner, the Jaffas, Rosenberg, Hoffman banded together . . . Found on Greensboro road: Diamonds . . . Harvey warms the Chair in the House and gym. . . .

House party: Chaperoned by Lambda Chi and ATO . . . Nachimow leaves poison Iris at home, turns traveling salesman complete with vacuum cleaner . . . Terrace View banquet: cold chicken, cold beer, and cold women. . . .

After 8 years of college, grandfather and guardian of the House (Pappy Arner) starts all over again by enrolling in Chapel Hill High . . . Lieber trying to outdo his record . . . Gabby joins YWCA . . . Howie takes permanent cut. Smith counts loss . . . Galinkin goes baty in the Spring . . . He blinks . . . Kemtone Berman sees pink . . . Jean, Ann, Harriet: our housemothers . . . Buddy ru(i)ns kitchen . . . That one day: No bridge session and Jacobson did not go to office . . . Four seasons Epstein centers on Communication Center . . . Sappeltine discovers things . . . the big Bear nursing his bottle before the prohibitionists: Lemo & George . . . Some had sense, others went to Med. School. . . .

Lots of friends, lots of fun. It was a good Tau Epsilon Phi year.

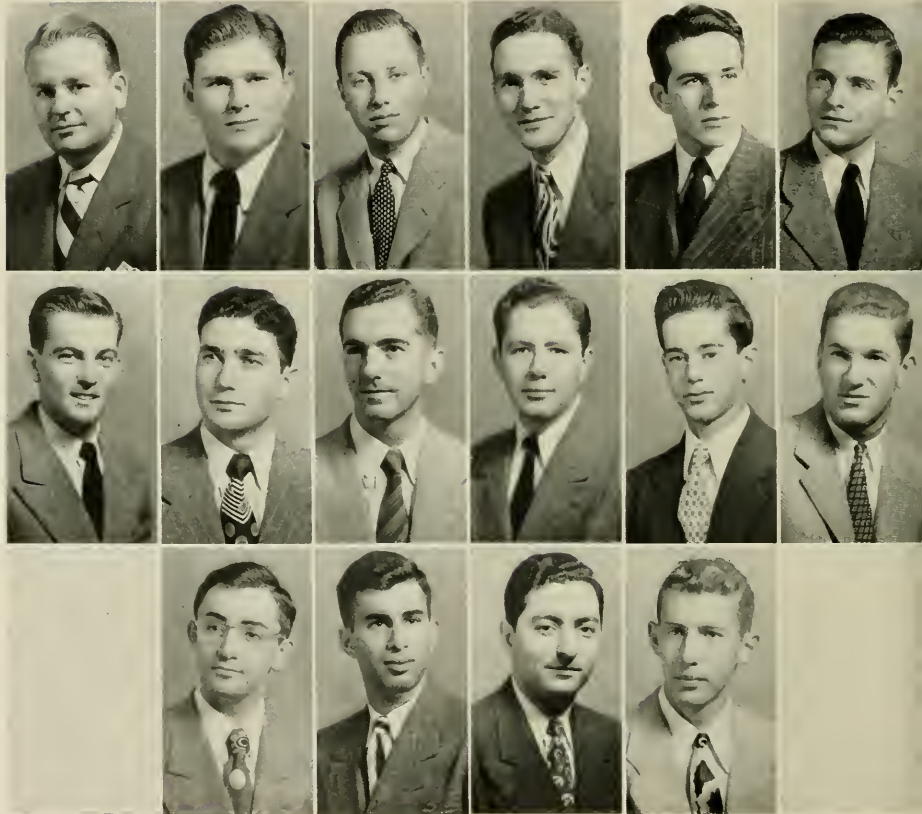

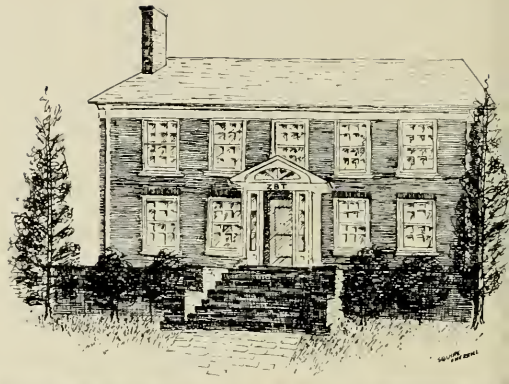

Gingerale on the house.

It's a hot night!

Zeta Beta Tau

Thirteen Z. B. T.'s gathered around a Sugar Bowl on Jan. 1 . . . Prexy Weill checked, checked again and finally passed . . . Freed gathering Hurricanes at Pat O'Brien's . . . Everyone joined the Anti-Saloon League until the Water Wagon hit a bump at the Valentine's Day House Party . . . Dark cabin party on Friday night, who knows what happened? . . . Initiation of brothers, Marks, Pearson, Salmon, Kanter, and Wolfe . . . Salem, Averett, Newcomb, and W. C. women moved in for Spring House Party . . . Formal banquet and dance at the Inn . . . 14 graduates and 3 Phi Betes . . . The tenacious ten for summer session . . . A far western jaunt for Freed and Weill, red centerlines on all highways . . . Brothers Art Friedman, Shore, and Rosenbloom initiated . . . Elaine's Hell Week, or Two Lost Week-ends with a Week Between, or "Ain't You Gone Yet?" . . . Beach Party at Jake's joint . . . Comes September, football, and the return of the last of the Navy, Bob Friedman . . . Parties galore . . . The singer and her sad notes . . . Kanter changed the lock on my door (the hook) . . . Friedman's sack's attraction for the passers . . . Race horse and Cue Games . . . Argo and Hugo . . . Wild Bill Sr. and Jr. . . Are you a turtle? . . . Casey was hit . . . Mammy and Swancee . . . Someone's gonna get a stump down their throat . . . I'll give you a clue . . . Fish and his Motherly date . . . Hey, Boy, Saslow kicking a rock . . . What happens when the hostess' father comes in at 3:00 a. m. . . New social room being built . . . And then Z. B. T.'s Alpha Pi Chapter Comes of Age Party for February.

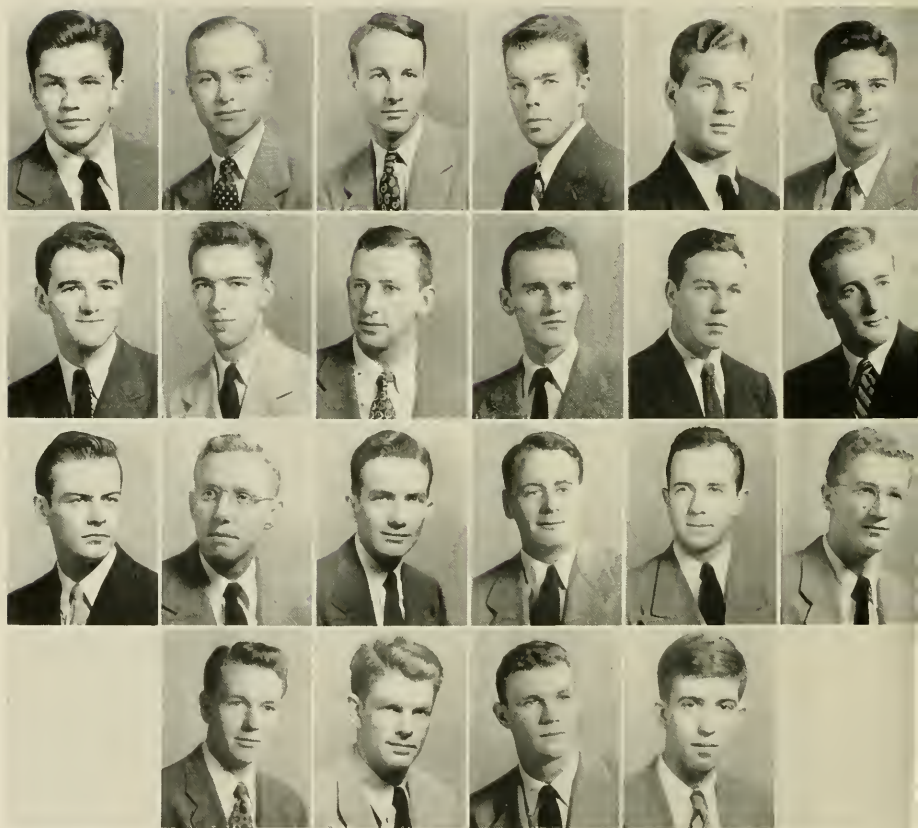

Tell me a sea story, Daddy!

Let's go, Carolina!

Upsilon Chapter

First Row: Charles H. Alexander, Claude B. Barbee, Robert F. Beasley, Elmer C. Brown, Adville B. Boyle, Deuward G. F. Baltman • Second Row: Richard B. Burns, Collier Cobb, Gideon Gilliam, III, John Tilley Gregory, Robert H. Hackney, James Hedgpath • Third Row: Samuel C. Jenkins, Robert E. Kirkland, Bishop C. Leonard, William C. Long, Stephen P. Milliken, Robert K. Morrow • Fourth Row: Augustus W. Peters, William B. Schell, John C. Williams, Marvin P. Wilson.

Zeta Psi

Another year, and the first ones back at the Zete House were "Money-bags" Kirkland and Steve scheming new ways to get our money . . . As things got settled, the poker players, "Blue," "Cluny," "Rooney" Ward, "Dude" Bultman, "Sonny," and Brack "Most Worthy" Schell, fought for the card table with the bridge fiends, "Henri" Tull, "Bunny," Seth, and Vic. . . . While up in the "Cosmo Room" an enthralled audience, "Tug" and "Ford," listened while "Boston Blackie" told tales of his trip to Norway . . . As usual the juveniles, Cobby and "Burl" Long, were on hand with an occasional outcry . . . And as the year wore on, we learned to be tolerant towards such things as: "Sweetheart" Manning, selling socks . . . "Doc" Kirkland and his perpetual formaldehyde smell . . . Our budding lawyers, "Senator" Warren, "Sam" Winborne, "Red-eye" Joyner, "Blackdog," "Junebug," "Spool," and "Robbi" Gilliam, discussing 'habeas corpus' and 'status quo' . . . Penick and "Dutch" with their homecoming display . . . Bill Browne, showing up only for meetings and parties . . . "Beautiful" Barnes and Reece with their women . . . "Humphrey" Hackney, fresh-air fiend of the sleeping proch. . . . "Mr. Central," hurdling puddles on his way to class . . . "Bud" and "Root", practically living at the gym . . . "Mole" and "Tex" Brown, Faith Followers of Finchley Fashions . . . And John C. (period) . . . And for upholding our scholastic end throughout it all, we give our thanks to "L. C." Ed Cox and "Lewcy" Thorp . . . But, love played the most vital part with "Adamhead" and "Beaz" making plans for the future while taking lessons from John T. and Sam . . . And our local Romeos, "Cid," Pete, and "Swans" Graves, mixing courtship with studies . . . While Neil and "Deacon" Cunningham are expressing their love for—Greensboro. . . . And "Bo Jenks," "Influence," "Gee," and "Starvin Marvin" are leaving for distant parts and their one and only's . . . Thus the year wore on.

White collar workers.

Regal apparel for a Pair of Queens . . .

Taylor's fit-for-a-queen fashions are taken seriously by Miss Pat Hole, '49, of Chapel Hill and Miss Joyce Peterson, '48, of New York City—Yackety Yack Queens for 1946 and 1947 respectively. Queen Joyce, foreground, is crisp and cool in an Adele Simpson crashmere dress which combines rich British tan with bright white spiced by pretty gold and enamel buttons. Queen Pat, in and out of the mirror, wears a chic Mary Stevens dress also in crashmere. The white tunic top buttons in back and is encircled by a bright red leather belt. Her skirt is a 360° "new-look" affair in turf tan. Both dresses and Miss Hole's hat from Taylor's third floor. Both queens wear smart new Barbara Gay shoes from the first floor Shoe Salon.
