About Jack

Jack is a 14-year-old student who lives in London with his parents and two younger sisters. He finds them all unbearably irritating.

School is really boring and he's looking forward to high school and eventually getting out into the world. His mother has been hassling him about what his future plans are, but he doesn't have any. He wants to find something new and interesting to do, but he doesn't know what that is yet and has no clue where to start.

Jack made his first edit on English Wikipedia at his friend Mo's house two years ago. They were looking up Satanism and dared each other to write 'hail satan' on the page. It got reverted in less than a minute but it was well worth the laughs for them.

Their new game is to add something that's not true to a Wikipedia page and see how long it stays on the article. They've actually gotten pretty good at it. Jack only edits anonymously, and if an IP gets blocked, it's not hard to get around it.

> " HAIL SATAN
> lololol u mad bro?

The reason why Jack has been making all these silly edits is because he actually finds Wikipedia really interesting. Years from now, when he's out of school and more mature, there will be a day when he signs in with a username and becomes a trusted member of the community. Today is not that day.

When Jack and Mo hang out, they often see graffiti they can relate to.[1]

Along with 'vandalizing' Wikipedia pages, Jack has had his fair share of table art as well.[2]
