Vain Oblations.

BY REV. EDWARD C. JONES.

The rich man knelt in his cushioned pew, And his was an earnest mien, And as the prayers by the Priest were said, His amen was heard between; He prayed for the sick and fatherless, Like a Christian firm, I ween.

The rich man sat in his parlor gay, Bedight with the choicest gear, His mirrors flashed in the coal-grate's ray, And his chair to the fire was near; He was full of thoughts on a gainful scheme

And the thousands he should clear. A ring at the bell and a feeble plaint, Comes dying along his hall,

And in sadness blent with a mother's groat
Is the wail of an infant small:

Who sanctions the claim of the weary ones, But the God who hath made us all

Bread for the fainting! no husband now Can toil for a wife and child; Bread for the fainting! the widow's brow,

With its aching throes, is wild.

The voice passed into the gorgeous hall,
Where the rich man sat and smiled. To the ruby blaze he turned again, And his slippers the brussels prest,
It hid his foot with her handiwork,
Of his daughters fair the best;
But she crossed his will and wedded poor,

And now she may bear the rest.

Shall she come there in a beggar's hood, To darken his hall so wide Who, but for a woman's stubbornness, Might have been a Banker's Bride Shall she come there with a puling babe, To stab to the core his pride?

The rich man sipped of his sherry wine, And his evening paper read, And the vision sad of a haggard face, From his iron bosom fled; No care had he of the drifting snow, Or a child's unsheltered head.

The rich man knelt in his cushioned pew, And a pen divine was there,
Writing the words—"But Rottenness,"
On gilt-edged book of prhyer,—
Ah! what shall he do when the final day Shall lay the crime all bare!

Love is the Gospel, and Love the Law, And he who no church-door sees, Can pray by his acts of sympathy, Nor go to his bended knees, While Vengeance never flits o'er him, Like a Petrel on the Seas.

The pride of caste must be beaten down, And the Idol Self must shrink, Ere the poor can come to that fountain broad The Heart's deep well to drink,
For if Faith holds the chain of fellowship,
'Tis Charity knits the link.

Judge not by Appearances.

In one of the narrowest and dirtiest streets of Paris, on the ground floor of a trumbling old house, is the shop of Mons. Thomas, a rag merchant. In the back of this shop is a sort of glass office, exceedingly beautiful and accomplished girl not long since transacted the business of the establishment .-This young girl was M'lle Julie, old Thomas' daughter.

Not a great while ago, an elegant looking young man, chancing to pass through this dirty street, observed the pretty girl in a glass cage, and involuntarily halted to admire her. The next day he came again, but it was not chance which brought him this; for after passing in the street, as before, he entered the shop under pretext of asking his way, but in reality to approach nearer the object of his sudden admiration. A very few words sufficed to confirm and fasten first impressions, and he was about to go away in a very disconsolate frame of mind, when he observed a pile of second-hand books among the junk which the shop contained. Seizing upon this as an excuse to prolong his stay, the young man turned over the well-thumbed volumes, and purchased several of them, promising the fair saleswoman that he would replenish his library from time to time at her establishment. He must have been very studious that day, for early the next morning he returned after another supply. So, too, the next and the next; until at last troubling himself no more about the old books, he came and passed much of his time in soft conversation at the window of the glass cage, and finally wound up by asking Mons. Thomas to give him his daughter in marriage. As the old fellow had seen all that had transpired, without being seen himself and liked the youth's appearance, he at once granted his prayer on condition that the demand should be made by the gallani's father

Here was a serious difficulty. The father of the lover, Mons. George, was a dry goods merchant, having a handsome store in one of the most brilliant quarters of the city, and looked for something better for his son than a rag merchant's daughter. However, as there was nothing else for it, the young man introduced the subject to his parents. At first he was laughed at for his folly; but as he frequently returned to the charge, his father and mother, in hope of diverting him by other means from his mad project, finally invited old Thomas and his cut, and his inability to give his daughter a respectable marriage portion, would put an end to the affair. The invitation was accepted and the parties came. At the desert the merchant endeavored to jest with old Thomas and turn him into ridicule. That didn't seem to work to particular well, and nothing remained but to try the financial question. This was Madam George's part, and she com-menced by asking Thomas what amount now. Another time-' 'Not at all young man,' interposed Mons. Thomas; 'let us talk of it at once, since your mother wishes it. A little ready money does a newly married pair no harm, certainly. If madam will state how much it is proposed to give her son, I will endeavor to furnish a like sum.'

'We intend to give our son 50,000 francs !" 'Well, well,' said old Thomas, with a dry shrug, 'I must say that I expected better than that for my little girl's husband; but as the young people like each other, I shall not throw any obstacle in the way. Julie is my only child, and on the day of her marriage I shall give her 400,000 francs in hard money down!'

It may be readily imagined that the Georges changed their gait in a hurry about this time. But now came another difficulty. Expecting to frighten him off, Madam George had rather stretched the truth in being able to give 50,000 francs as her son's wedding present, and both she and her husband were now anxious to see their son so richly married. Accordingly, sacrifices were made and loans negotiated, in order to get together the sum mentioned.

Things went on this vay for some time and the ceremony had been several times postponed, when one morning the merchant received a package containing fifty bank notes for a thousand francs each, with these few lines:

'I see where the shoe pinches; but as for a trifle, I don't want to have things drag on any longer, I send you the needful. Another time be more candid with your friends, and don't put on any more airs with poor people. On the fifteenth of next month, I wish the wedding to take place.'

WHAT'S A WIFE.—"A Wife," says Hyacinth Self-will Lofty, "why a wife is a woman that belongs to a man. She is a pretty little creature made to tickle his house is kept in order; that the dinner is in the whole household econemy ever interfere with his comfort. In short, a wife is a pleasant sort of universal servant to for man's good. She is a compound of flowers, music, and domestic animal, very useful and very ornamental-all the more desirable for her lack of mental powers, because, where she not in this respect so much inferior to her decreed lord and master, she might become so presumptuous as to think that a shoe that fits one foot ought to fit the other; that good rules work both ways; and that just as much comfort and delight as she gives she has a right to command in return; that so much honor and respect as she pays she should receive; in short, that she is in numbers and importance, of rights and privileges, the peer of her husband.

Thus saith Mr. Hyacinth Self-will

But James Just Common Sense Esq., answers. "Nay, but a wife is given neither for a toy, nor for a servant, but for a steadfast friend; she is, indeed, a fount of joy and pleasures, such as, to a true heart, there is not elsewhere on earth: she is, indeed, the brightener of his house, and the wise and careful guardian of his family-of her family, for whatever is his is her's; between wedded hearts the words mine and thine are impudence and absurdity. But she is more than thisshe is his confidant, his adviser, his ever sympathising friend, his able and most tender consoler, his strength ever when his courage droops; she is the voice of God's love and comfort to him as he toils and struggles through this weary world. That is what a wife is, if she answers to her Master's ideal; but she is seldom found, alas! because, man is so unworthy."

Somebody was describing to young Dumas, lately, the death of a distinguished man in the following terms:

"He seated himself, he turned his head, removed his spectacles, and-was gone!

"Ah!" said the young scapegrace, "he daughter to a family dinner, in order to took off his spectacles first. Then he talk the matter over. It was hoped that the ridiculous figure the old man would | himself die."

THE ADVANTAGES OF DEET.—A dashing young woman having written to her absent husband for the means to pay off "a few small debts," received in reply the following fiscal and philosophical ad-

"My Dear Chicken-Never attempt to get out of debt. The woman who owes nobody is a poor, miserable being; nobody manifests any interest in their welfare-nobody carcs a continental cent whether she lives or dies. She is lean, hungry, and generally as poor and wilted as where the pin-feathers of Job's turkey. Look at our great men; they are all debtors—owe everybody, our men of science, our authors, our sensation ministers-all the entire cohort of them are deeper in debt than Pharoah's army in the Red Sea.

"Debt ennobles a woman; gives her a more expanded and liberal view of human nature; makes her energetic, healthy and active, and keeps her moving-especially if she never pays rent or anything else. Nothing will cure the consumptive quicker than a good, strong dose of debt, properly taken. To owe, is human; to pay, divine. Therefore, until woman becomes superhuman she shouldn't attempt to emulate divinity. The science of payment—the true modern science is get in debt to somebody enough to pay somebody else whom you owe. By this means, you avoid getting out of debt, and yet maintain a reputation of paying. The greatness of a nation increases with its national debt. Make a note of this at ninety days. Your indebted husband.

ECONOMIZING TIME.—The Rev. Dr Balch of Georgetown, was blessed with an unruly set of 'olive branches.' George, a little fellow of between six and eight years, was the ringleader in fun. One Sabbath, to secure the double object of keeping George quiet and of preserving order in the family pew, Dr. Balch took him into the pulpit with him. The first prayer was uncommonly long. George's patience was exhausted and in the midst he put on his father's spectacles, which were lying on the pulpit, and opening the hymn-book, said:

'Come, my brethren, while the "prar' is going on, let us sing a hime!'

It is needless to say the 'prar' did not go on, though doubtless the congregation

'Tis true.

> John Randolph was one of the most sarcastic men that ever lived. One time a young man attempted to make his acquaintance. He obtained an introduction, and among one of the first remarks,

"I passed by your house recently, Mr Randolph."

"I hope you always will," was the reply.

Another twitted him as to his want of education. "The gentleman reminds me," said Randolph, in reply, "of the lands about the head of the Montgomery, which are poor by nature, and cultivation has ruined them."

Dean Swift, in traveling once, called at a house, the lady of which was greatly elated at having so noted a guest, and with much eagerness and flippancy asked him what he would have for dinner. Will you have an apple pie, or a gooseberry pie, sir; or a cherry pie, or a plum pie, or a pigeon pie, sir? 'Any pie, madam, but a magpie,' replied the Dean, in his usual dry, sarcastic manner.

A Methodist Minister, at the West who lived on a small salary, was greatly troubled to get his quarterly installment. He at last told the non-paying trustees that he must have the money, as his family were suffering for the necessaries of life. "Money?" replied the steward, "you preach for money? I thought you preached for the good of souls?" "Souls?" replied the Minister, "I can't eat souls and if I could, it would take a thousand such as yours to make a meal.'

"John," said a father to his son one day, when he caught him shaving the "down" of his upper lip, "don't throw your shaving water out where there are any bare footed boys, for they might get their feet pricked.

Young Men.-The most anxious moment in the history of a young man is that moment when he forsakes the parental roof and goes forth into the wide world to seek a livelihood. The interests of life are crowded into that period. The tears of a mother, the counsels of a father consecrate that eventful moment .-Away from old associates and settled in some new home, how apt the former restraints are to be cast off! The trial of virtue now comes. The test of the principle is now applied. If he holds fast his integrity, the prayers of his mother and father, rising up when the still dews are falling, will bring blessings, thick as manna that fell around the camp of the Israelites, down upon his path. But if he prove faithless, then will his memory embitter his life, then will his parents welcome the grave, that may hide their dishonor in the dust.

LARGE SALES OF ORCHARD LANDS.-We learn from our Oregon friends that one-half an orchard of fifty acres, eight years old, has changed hands for $20,000. Another orchard of fifteen hundred trees, four years old, has been sold for fifteen thousand dollars, being an average of ten dollars per tree. This in some measure seems to answer a question often asked as to what is the value of a bearing orchard tree .- Cal. Farmer.

Cold-Its Effects on the Human System.

The term cold is relative, and, perhaps strictly speaking, it should be restricted to that sensation that is produced in the animal body by the abstraction of caloric from it, in consequence of the application of any solid, fluid. or gas, of a lower temperature than itself.

Cold is generally spoken of, as a positive agent-even men of science have supposed it to be as distinct a principle or agent as caloric, or the matter of heat.

The result of some experiments instituted to prove that cold may be radiated in the same vay as caloric, did confirm this opinion in some minds-; but the effects produced by these experiments are explicable on the supposition that caloric is radicated, and not an agent of an opposite character.

The sensation of cold is not always produced by the same degree of temper-

It depends entirely on the state of the body previous to its application. Indeed, what may be called a low temperature under some circumstances will cause the sensation of warmth, and a comparatively high temperature will produce that of cold.

To illustrate: this proposition immerse the right hand in a basin of water at the temperature of 80° of Fahrenheit, and the left in an equal quantity of water at 40° the former will receive the sensation of heat, and the latter that of cold.

Should the two quantities be then mixed and both hands dipped into the mixture at the same time, the feeling of cold will be produced in the right hand and the feeling of warmth in the left .-Hence no fixed temperature can be called either hot or cold.

The process of generating animal heat is continual in the body, more active at some times than at others.-The abstruction of heat from the body within given bounds may be regarded as a salutary process; on this circumstance the degree of vigor observable in the human frame, in temperate climates, so much greater than either the Forrid or Frozen Regions does measurably depend.

The abstruction being neither so great as to leave the system-torpid nor so slight as to render it oppressed.

Instinct and reason have attempted to contrivances for cooling the air in hot | cold be voluntary by the vital being. regions, to protect the system against the effects of excessive heat.

Nature by a wise provision accomplishes the same object in the animal kingdom.

The wool and hair grow abundantly long and thick on animals in a cold climate, thereby protecting them amply from the cold. In hot climates their skins are scarcely covered. The same animal on being removed from a cold to a warm country, or from a warm to a cold ly pernicious to the animal economy. one, is found to change the length of its Pacific Methodist College Located!

Thus dogs taken from Hudson Bay to the west Indies will often lose all their

The temperature of the atmosphere which is probably the most congenial to human body is a range between 55° and 70° Fahrenheit.

Habit has much to do with this as with almost every thing connected with actions of the animal economy.

An extreme degree of heat may be often endured without much inconvenience by those who have been long habituated to it; the same may be said of cold.

But when the system has been long making an effort, to resist the bad effects of either a very low or high temperature a great or sudden change in the surrounding atmosphere is always productive of inconvenience.

This remark refers, not to a change of climate only, but to the vicissitudes, that take place in the temperature of the air in the same climate.

Strong healthy and robust persons feel less inconvenience from these sudden changes than those that are weakly.

Hence the importance of regulating the quantity of clothing according to the powers of the system and especially according to the vigor with which the cirsulation of the blood is carried on.

A very frequent exposure to changes of temperature will often enable the body to resist the ill effects of these changes, and affords another instance of the power of habit.

This is illustrated, by the good health often enjoyed by persons who attend large furnaces, glass-blowers, smelters etc.

The wonderful power of the body to accommodate itself to the circumstances under which it is placed, is, in this particular, exemplified in a very striking

Hence, nodoubt originated the various modes of attempting to harden the system, so as, to resist the morbific agency

There is no question that such means will often give tone to weakly persons and prepare them for the vicissitudes of climate.

Much care is requisite that the plan is not carried too hastily into effect.

Many by any care cannot be brought to bear it.

Warm clothing must be mainly depended on as a defense from the sedative ac-This leads to the more special consideration of the morbid effects produced on the human body by the undue degree of the abstraction of heat from it. Heat acts as a stimulant when applied to the animal body, its effects being local or general according to the extent and degree of its application.

Like most other stimulants, it increases the action of the heart and blood-vessels.

Not unlike other stimulants, a secondary effect supervenes, which consists in ary effect supervenes, which consists in for ten years, say they can confidently affirm a collapse-vital forces are lower than that they have never been in a more healthy natural after the excitement has sub-

Now, effects exactly the contrary to these take place from the application of Heat is therefore a stimulant and cold

The exact mode in which heat or cold acts on the body will probably never be accurately known.

The sedative action of cold lowers the circulation by contracting the capillarias and thereby impairing the momentum of the blood through the extremities. The surface of the hands and feet resemble the skin of a plucked goose; hence the technical term "cueis anserina."

The skin of the scalp becomes contracted causing the hair to stand on end;

The extremities become cold first and begin to suffer as the toes fingers and ears, &c. They become sensibly smaller and smaller so that finger rings and even shoes become loose and fall off.

The sedative influence of the cold is undoubtedly first upon the Brain-the regulate by various artificial means, this nervous system being in a measure under cooling effect of the surrounding air in the powers of the will; in proportion to cold climates and seasons, as well as by the act of volition will the resistance to Cold conduces hermorrhages, local inflammations, flushes, &c.

A meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Pacific Methodist College was held at the M. E. Church, South, Sacramento City, on Tuesday, 29th November. In the absence of the chairman of the Board (Hon. D. O. Shattuck) Rev. Morris Evans (proxy) was called to the chair. Rev. O. P. Fitzgerald was appointed Secretary. The proceedings were opened with prayer by the chairman.

Rev. J. C. Stewart, Agent, presented the following report and exhibit of subscriptions: To the Board of Trustees of the Pacific Methodist

Gentlemen: -We may boldly say, "the Lord is my helper:" in proof of which allow me to lay before you the following preamble and subscriptions:

WHEREAS, the Pacific Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, of the State of California, have determined to erect a College in some county of this State, to be called The Pacific Methodist College, and have nominated a Board of Trustees for the purpose of making the necessary preliminary arrangements, and carrying into effect the speedy erection of said Institution:

And whereas, the said Church in said Conference determined, as an inducement to effort in raising funds for said design, to locate said College in the county offering the highest sum for the purchase of an eligible site, and the erection of suitable buildings:

And whereas, the County of Yolo, from its healthy climate, being equally removed from the inclement winters of the Nevada, and the mists and fogs of the ocean valleys; from its vast and increasing agricultural resources; and from its central position, not only as regards the State, but also in reference to its large cities, Sacramento, San Francisco and Marysville, offers inducements to an enterprise of this character unequalled, perhaps, by any other portion of this State :

Therefore we, the undersigned, for the purpose of securing to the county of Yolo said location, promise in the event that location is made at Cacheville, in said county of Yolo, to the Trustees or such Agents as may be legally entitled to receive the same, in two equal installments as follows, to-wit: One half on first of October A. Cary, 100. YOLO COUNTY, Cal., Nov. 1, A. D. 1859. In connection with the above subscriptions, permit me to specify some of the advantages of Cacheville, Yolo county, as an eligible site for your College:
1, It is healthy as mentioned in the pream-

ole. Rev. J. L. Cox informed me, that for two successive years he went all over the county, to asses the taxes, and the first year he saw no sick person, and the second, only one. Some of the first settlers, after trying it locality It is a very beautiful situation. Part of the ten-acre plot of ground donated to the College by Mr. J. A. Hutton, where the College building is to be erected, is so elevated that, when it rains, water will run from it in every direction, and the other part is covered with a charming grove of noble oaks, where the students can study and take exercise with 3. It is delightfully retired. Situated on Cache creek, midway between Sacramento river and the Coast Range, some 20 miles from the city, and about 6 miles from Knight's Landing on the Sacramento river, in a farming and grazing country, it will doubtless always remain quiet and secluded—just the place for families to settle, that their children may be properly educated.

4. As mentioned, it is central and easy of access. There is now constant communication with Sacramento City and Knight's Landing, by lines of stages, daily and tri-weekly, and the railroad from Marysville to Vallejo, which is now partly graded, when finished will pass near Cacheville.

The supply of fuel is almost inexhaust-There are many thousands of acres of land on Cache creek that are very well timbered-and not far distant, portions of the Coast Range are also covered with woods.

6. The soil is adapted to making brick. Several kilns of passable brick have been burned, and it is supposed that with proper care, excellent brick can be made.

Parts of the land in Yolo is not encumbered with Spanish grants, and where there are grants, they have all been confirmed or reected with the exception of, perhaps, one or two. Much of the land on the plains, and nearly all on Cache creek, is quite fertile .-Grain orchards, vineyards, &c., may be grown

It has rained but little in Yolo, for three years past, until lately, and in consequence a The effects of a very low temperature company has been formed and stock taken to the amount of 13,500 dollars, to bring the waters of Cache creek, in a long ditch, through the farms along the stream, for nearly a distance of five miles. This will serve to irrigate and fertilize the land, and as it will run near the College grounds, they may be irrigated and beautified-and besides, it will afford an abundant supply of clear, pure water for bathing purposes. It should be mentioned in this connection that the well water at Cache-It should be mentioned in

8. The character of the people here strongly recommends the place. They are generally moral and religious. Within a few years past they have been visited by several gracious revivals of religion. They were sometimes so large-hearted as to support three camp-meetings at the same place, in one year. This year they received their preacher, Rev. J. G. Johnson, with open arms and warm hearts, abundantly supplying his wants and furnishing the parsonage with stoves, carpets, chairs, bedsteads, &c. At Cacheville, there are pleasant, religious families, where students can procure board and lodging.

The people of the whole county have taken a liberal interest in the college. By reference to the subscriptions it will be seen that men belonging to different churches, and to no church at all, have subscribed with great unanimity and generally without reference to party or sectional distinctions. Men from the South, West, North, and East, have taken stock in the enterprise. By the citizens generally it is regarded as a county interest. It with encouragement too outside of Yolo. The Messrs. Wolfskill, Gregory, &c., in Solano county, have subscribed liberally. It will be noticed also that two gentlemen of Sacramento City-W. W. Stovall, Merchant, corner of K and 8th street, and D. E. Callahan, of the Golden Eagle Hotel—have each sent a subscription of fifty dollars. Not only however have large-hearted men devised liberal things, but the subscription list contains the names of several true-hearted, noble women-some of whom, when subscribing their twenty-five and fifty dollars, remarked to their husbands, we don't want you to pay this; we will make butter, and raise chickens and turkeys enough to pay it ourselves." May God bless the noble mothers in our land, and may their sons and daughters prove worthy of them!

Some of the citizens are enthusiastic in favor of the college. Rev. J. L. Cox spent two weeks with me in canvassing for the above subscriptions, which, valueing the land donated at 40 dollars per acre, foot up eight thousand one hundred and ten dollars. Some of those names now on the list have promised than their present subscriptions; others, whose names are not on the list, have also promised to aid, and many that we have not had time to call upon, or who were absent from home when called upon, will also doubtless help forward the work, so that it is hoped the subscription will be raised to ten thousand dollars by the time it is needed.

The people of other locations are desirous th. first of May A. D. 1860, and one half on the of having the college in their midst. In Suisun Valley four thousand dollars were subscribed to have it there-several liberal-spirited gentlemen subscribing as much as six hundred dollars each.

But in view of the fact, that the above sub-scriptions are larger than those offered anywhere else, and that the proposed situation is possessed of the above mentioned advantages, allow me, gentlemen, to recommend that the Pacific Methodist College be located at Cacheville, Yolo county, California, and that Messrs. J. L. Cox, J. A. Hutton, A. Griffith, W. G. Hunt, T. R. Lowe, W. Gordon, D. Hershy, J. D. Stephens and S. C. Wolfskill be appointed a committee to have a suitable building for the college erected, and that they be empowered to solicit further subscriptions for said purpose. [Three members of this committee will be a quorum for the transaction of business.] All of which is submitted,

SACRAMENTO CITY, Nov. 29th, 1859. Letters were read from Rev. A. M. Bailey with reference to the location of the College in

After free and full consideration, the recommendations of the Agent in the above report were unanimously accepted. The College is thus located at Cacheville, and the gentlemen above named constituted a building com-

Provision was made for the support of the Agent. And the Board then adjourned with thankful hearts and buoyant hopes with regard to the future of the Pacific Methodist College.

Court of Sessions.

The Court of Sessions met at a regular term, on Monday the 5th inst. Hon. Isaac Davis, Judge, Associates Gibson and Carpenter. The Court ordered a Grand Jury to be called, and adjourned to Thursday the 8th.

Court met according to adjournment on Thursday. After the usual charge to the Jury, the case of John Carver for Grand Larceny, indicted by the last Grand Jury, for stealing seven head of horses, valued at $400, from one Graves. An application for a change of venue, to Sacramento County, was granted by the Court. The Grand Jury made their report to the Court, finding a true bill against John Hayser, for assaulting James Ashbury with a deadly weapon, near the town of Washington, on the night of November 11th. Case continued to the next term of Court, at instance of the District Attorney. Court then adjourned until this morning at 10 o'clock.

The Weather.

The weather during the present week has been unusually cold for this country -especially the nights. There has been ice every morning through the week .-Otherwise, the weather has been rather pleasant. The clear sky, with the lovely moonlight nights is truly delightful. The indications (metereologically) have been most favorable to the farmers. From what we have seen and heard we believe that the present prospects of the farmers in this vicinity are as good if not better than they were ever before. We would say to the farmers be cheerful and industrious.

Homicide.—On Tuesday last, about half-past 12 o'clock, a runner for the California Steam Navigation Company named San Juan Jack, shot Henry M. Hughes, a runner for the steamer Dashaway, in a fight on the Levee. Hughes died in about 20 minutes after receiving the wound.

HOMICIDE IN SAN FRANCISCO-A MINSTREL SHOT BY A FRIEND.—About 10 o'clock on Monday night last, an affair occurred at the Bella Union concertroom, on the Plaza, which resulted in the death of the well-known Tom Raleigh (Mahan), by the hands of his best friend, Frank Hussey. The circumstances, as we learn from those who were present, are as follows: The minstrels were in the midst of a performance. Hussey had just retired behind the curtain, when one Frederick Ellmore entered the dressing-room, and commenced shaking him. Hussey told Ellmore to go away, that he | This morning a motion for a new trial for was fatigued, and did not wish to be bothered. Ellmore continued his fool- and finally overruled by the Judge." ing, took the cap from Hussey's head, and then drew a dirk-knife. Raleigh, who had just came from the stage, saw the act of Ellmore, rushed towards him and caught his arm. At this instant Hussey stooped down to his trunk, which was within a few feet of him, took out a small sized pistol, and fired, doubtless at Ellmore, who still held the knife. But the ball pierced the breast of Raleigh and passed through his heart, killing him almost instantly. Raleigh, after receiving the fire, threw up his arms and exclaimed, "My God, I am killed," then fell to the floor and expired. His friends immediately gathered around him, but could him. In his ravings he refers to the render no aid. Ellmore, the cause of the difficulty, was arrested and taken to the station house. Hussey gave himself up to the custody of an officer, and was also taken to the station house.

Mahan was known throughout the State as Tom Raleigh, and, wherever known, was respected. He was a popular actor, and a good vocalist. He was pleasing in his address, and has troops of friends. He came originally to this country in 1849, returned to his native city, Philadelphia, in 1855, and was employed there in the house of David Ray & Son, clothing merchants, on Market street .-He came back early in 1857, and has since been performing as a minstrel. He was 27 years old, and unmarried. His uncle and other relatives reside in Philadelphia. Raleigh was possessed of some means, and had a certificate of deposit for $3,500, which is in the hands of the Coroner. An inquest will be held in the Police Court room this afternoon.

Frederick Ellmore was arrested on Tuesday morning, on a complaint by the proprietor of the Union Theater, on Commercial street, for misdemeanor, by flourishing a knife in the theater in a threatening manner, a few evenings since .-Last week he was arrested on a charge made by his mother, for petit larceny; but her refusal to appear against him he was discharged.

HARPER'S FERRY-COOK'S TRIAL. The Harper's Ferry trials are over for the present, and excitement throughout the country is pretty much subsided. The following dispatch from Charlestown, Va., Nov. 10th, gives the conclusion of the proceedings of yesterday: "The Court remained in session until nine o'clock, when the jury in the case of Cook rendered a verdict of guilty of murder and insurrection. No Hope for Brown.—The editor of the N. Y. Herald says he has seen a letter from Gov. Wise, in which he says he will neither pardon nor respite Brown .-The impression prevails that he will be executed on the day fixed by the Court.

THE BROWNSVILLE INVASION .- The N. O. Delta publishes a letter, dated Corpus Christi, Nov. 7th, which says it is almost certain that the town of Brownsville has fallen into the hands of Cartinas. The Persian to his altar bore Sweet blossoms fresh with morning dew, And veil'd the old false worship o'er With beauty borrowed from the true;

Around Palæmon's flowery shrine Their maze of grace the maidens wound, And wove the wreaths of Isthmian pine Wherewith the victor's brows were crown'd;

And we to-day, amidst our flowers And fruits, have come to own again The blessing of the summer hours, The early and the latter rain;

With manhood's strength and maiden's glance, To lend our Christian holiday The beauty of the Persian dance, The vigor of the Grecian play;

To see our Father's hand once more Reverse for us the plenteous horn Of Autumn, filled and running o'er With fruit and flower and golden corn.

Once more the liberal year laughs out O'er richer stores than gems or gold ; Once more with harvest song and shout Is Nature's bloodless triumph told.

Our common mother rests and sings Like Ruth among the garnered sheaves; Her lap is full of goodly things, Her forehead gay with autumn leaves.

Oh, favors old, yet ever new!
Oh, blessings ith the sunshine sent! The bounty overruns our due, The fullness shames our discontent.

We shut our eyes, the flowers bloom on ; We murmur, but the corn-ears fill; We choose the shadow, yet the sun That casts it shines behind us still.

God gives us, with our rugged soil, The power to make it Eden-fair And richer fruits to crown our toil Than summer-wedded islands bear.

Who murmurs at his lot to-day? Who scorps his native fruit and bloom? Or sighs for dainties far away, Beside the bounteous board of home?

Thank Heaven, instead, that Freedom's arm Can change a rocky soil to gold; That brave and generous lives can warm A clime with northern ices cold!

And by these altars, wreathed with flowers And piled with fruits, awake again Thanksgiving for the golden hours, The early and the latter rain.

AN ACTRESS IN SEARCH OF HER LOV-ER. - One of the most beautiful actresses, of a theater on the Paris boulevards received daily, for about a month, a little penny bouquet of violets. She found the bouquet in her box or with the doorkeeper every evening as the play was about to commence, and this simple offering of an unknown love affected her in spite of herself. While acting she looked carefully around—at the boxes, the parquette, and even behind the scenes-but to no purpose; she saw nothing by which to recognize the man of boquets. And thereupon she gave her immagination free rein, and the immagination of an actress is very similar to that of other folks.

Was he a foreign prince, who wished her feet his crown and treasures? Or its product all at the same time, and his passion? She interrogated the box- the little end of the same car. He rekeeper, the tire-women—in short every- commends farmers always to break their body employed in the theater; but nobody knew anything about it. Still the butt ends only for seed. boquets came.

Do they tell us that constancy is a chimera?' murmured she. The other evening, as she entered the theater, she suit, but improved agricultural machinery received a fresh boquet of violets, and this time the flowers were accompanied by a letter. 'At last!' said she, and ing the plow, to follow it on foot, it is as opening it by the light of a reflector, she 'Mademoiselle,-I have loved you for a long time, for it is not beholding and loving you the same thing? Every day I come to admire you, to applaud you, to delight myself with the brightness of your eyes and the charm of your voice.'

'He must be in the house,' thought the actress, and she peeped through a hole in the curtain. The audience had but just commenced to assemble. She resumed her reading:

'Of your voice. You are indeed beautiful and charming, and happy are they who may approach you. What would I one of your smiles?' No!'

'Ah! that is nice,' she sighed; and turning the page she continued: 'No! And yet I dare to love you,-to

'Well,' said she, 'no signature-no name given ;-but let us see, here is a postscript.'

BEST AGE TO PLANT FRUIT TREES .-At a recent meeting of the Cincinnati Horticultural Society, the above subject was discussed.

One member said that he thought that apple trees two years old were better for transplanting than older ones, and that they would produce fruit as soon as those set at four years old.

It was said that a distinguished peach grower uniformly selected trees one year old, not only peach trees, but also apple and pear trees, and he, in view of his experience, would prefer them of that

Another member, who had 30 years' experience, thought that trees two years old better than younger ones, but in no case would he set them over three years

. A member who had during the past ten years, transplanted over 30,000 fruit trees, said that he preferred peach, and plum trees at one year, and apple trees at two years old. He also said that the ground, when the trees were set, should be mellowed some inches below the roots. and that in staking, not to do the work in such a manner, as to have the trees hold the stakes up, instead of the stakes supporting the trees.

MULCHING TREES .- The mulching of young fruit trees is being practiced to considerable extent at present; but some people commit an error in placing the mulch to close around the trunks of the trees. It should always be noticed, that the roots of trees generally extend laterally to a diameter equalling that of the height of trees in their natural growth, and therefore a mulch, in order to be of the most benefit, should extend far enough to cover the roots. For instance if a tree be 12 feet high, the roots will, after a few years growth be found to extend about 12 feet from the trunk on every side, and over this surface a mulch should extend, if its greatest advantages are secured. Trees that have been set but one or two years, where roots were on setting cut to a diameter of four or five feet, will not, of course, require mulching over an area of more than six or seven feet in diameter.

One object in mulching, is to keep the ground moist in dry weather, and another, to prevent the growth of grass and weeds under trees, which say the virtue of the SIGN OF THE GOLDEN MORTAR, soil more or less.

IMPORT OF FOREIGN BEES.—The Agricultural Bureau of the United States Patent Office received intelligence of the shipment from Havre, France, of a large swarm of Lombard bees. They are of larger size than the ordinary bee, and, having a longer bill, are able to suck flowers inaccessible to the American bee. The product of an old hive of these bees ey in one season. These bees will not be Oils and Paints, is expected to rear, from the swarm now in transitu, stock enough for six hundred | Fresh Herbs, PROFITS OF SUGAR CULTURE. - James N. Brown, of Iberville, died a few weeks ago, at the age of 54, leaving an estate which is variously estimated at from $790,000 to $1,000,000, all accumulated in sixteen years, from a small investment in sugar planting.
