"What has the present Council done for the city of New Orleans" is the tide.of an anosymose pamphlot we have received. It presents a succinot, interacting, and seemingly impartial regions of the acts of the Council, and its statements are seatimed by the authority and weight of statistics. The writer begins by charging the Democratic administration of the sity in 1835 with the greatest extravagance, with ruisous contracts, and with projected improvements without the means of payment. The improvement of the published estimate of that year, was $452,390; for wharves and levees $725, white the Democratic Council acknowledged a deadcit of income, and a reported failures to collect a large portion of every species of

From this document it appears that on the Ist January, 1855, the foosing debt of the city in treasury warrants and matured liabilities, amounted to the grand total of $505,566 41.

Every dollar of this large sum has been paid, except about $40,000 which has not been presented to the treasury, and on January 18t. except about $10,000 which has not been presented to the treasury, and on January 1st, 1-56, the balance on hand was $80,367.48. This was effected with the ordinary income, used with great accome. his was exected with the ordinary incomes, said with great economy, and a rigid adher-ince to the principle of avoiding all contract of doubtful expediency.
