

Several years ago, and before the late unpleasantness, we had a call from a gentleman whose home was in Macon, Georgia, and who visited Boston in the month of June. At that time harbor excursions were not so much in vogue as they are now—

There was but one boat running to Hingham. Nantasket Beach was a terra incognita to ninety-nine one-hundredths of the people of Boston, and Mr. Downer had not yet dreamed of Melville Garden. There were but two theatres—and the Museum, in the city, and all of them were closed for the season. We were anxious to give our friend from the hospitable South some idea of northern hospitality—

As we were not at that time "keeping house," we could not entertain him at our home, and we decided to show him that though Boston was crooked, and probably was then the crookedest city on this continent, (he had got lost half a dozen times in attempting to find State street, starting from the Beverly House), the surroundings of the city are not surpassed by those of any other city in this country.

Our route was through the south end, (which was not built up at that time, but showed acres of unoccupied land, at present covered with magnificent hotels and elegant private residences), past the Norfolk House in Roxbury, (the latter now bearing the stupid, unmeaning name, Boston Highlands, which has, we are pleased to note, never been recognized by the post-office department), to Forest Hills Cemetery, which, at that time displayed a comparatively new place, displayed natural beauties, signs of what was to become a rival, though in miniature, of Greenwood, in Brooklyn, New York.

From Forest Hills we rode through Jamaica Plain and around that most beautiful, romantic sheet of water, beautiful, which preceded Lake Cochichewick in furnishing a portion at least of Boston with pure water. Our friend requested us to pause on the high ground south of the pond and overlooking the whole of it, while he drank in all of the loveliness of the view spread out before him.

EAST WEYMOUTH.

The way people here come up to one and talk and question, taking all knowledge for granted, reminds us of the fabled old man who asked his neighbor and asked him excitedly, "Can I have your watch?" The neighbor looked at him in astonishment and thought he had done good.

Well, the facts of the case are read. The man had had a cow fall on his head and a chain to draw her out. On the way he got so worked up that when he fell he could not get up.

Mr. E. L. Pool is building quite an addition to his home.

Mr. Frank Fearing, who works at C. Dizer's, split his thumb with a sharp knife.

Complicated Case of Catarrh Cured.
e. Boston, March 15th, N. Y., June 2, 1870.
J. BRIGGS & Co.—Gents:—I have been your catarrh specific for a severe and comed case of catarrh. About three years since a severe cold while camping out on a boat e, ever since I have been troubled e, which at last became chronic and e, combined with e, I was partially deaf and e, constant roaring and thumping in my ears, e, seemed to me at times as if "fog" was e, for me, so great was the aural disture. I read your advertisement in a New York e, and for the catarrh specific and received e, and truly think that you have at last solved e, difficult problem of producing a radical cure e, and its accompanying derangement, e, seems complete, discharges have ceased, e, of smell and hearing restored. I shall cone, to recommend your catarrh specific for the e, and troublesome diseases of the e, of the head and throat.

Yours, very respectfully, J. S. P. Bond,
e, by E. L. WARREN, and ALFRED WYMAN, e, Weymouth, Mass.

Nervous Headache Cured.
e, headache—the most, or a total affliction of the e, in all cases all classes suffer. The head never e, when the various organs are working in e, along with nature. There can be no headache e, or human machinery is in a healthy condition, e, which may arise from some particular part e, of system being deranged, or the whole. It e, comes from many and various causes. It may be e, nervous prostration, fear or passion, over-e, exertion, lack of sleep, great mental labor, anxe, iety, general debility, local disease in some part e, of body, lack of proper nourishment, fasting or e, eating too much, eating live coal, or indigestion, e, food, dyspepsia, liver complaint, constipation e, of the bowels; in fact, the causes are so varied e, that they cannot well be enumerated, but e, BRIGGS' ALLEEVATOR will banish every spe-e, of headache, restoring the entire system to e, regularity, bringing rest, comfort and quietude e, to the sufferer. Sold by druggists. Address Dr. e, JOSEPH BRIGGS, Newark, N. J. Sold by E. e, WARREN, and ALFRED WYMAN, Weymouth, Hemorrhoids and Piles.

e, Piles—Does suffering humanity has endured e, ages torture beyond description from internal e, and external and itching piles. Have you e, ever money fresh, bought every nostrum offered, e, and laid far and near to constant eminent men in e, relation to their sufferings, and, disheartened and e, and out by repeated failures. But hope revived: e, new remedy is discovered, has been tried and e, found reliable. BRIGGS' PILE REMEDY will e, cure internal, bleeding, external and itching piles, e, try its soothing and discouraging mortals, and e, try its certain remedy to you for years une, dered. Sold by druggists. Address J. BRIGGS,

ALL AROUND THE HUB.

OUR SCHOOLS. The school committee are in a quandary and have been very much troubled lately over the matter of the salaries of the teachers, a majority of the committee favoring a general reduction of five and one-half per cent. This is a very strong and very intelligent minority is opposed to any reduction. There is no doubt the cost of education is becoming more and more expensive, but it will be a long time before the amount of money paid to the teachers, who earn, on an average, less than $1,000 a year, will be increased. Our schools are unnecessarily expensive. We have no need of buildings costing $100,000 and more. We should have a few good buildings which will give the children of the city a common school education, and we may add that the long narrow school buildings are a great source of annoyance, caused by criminal carelessness in putting in the heating apparatus, would pay for the heat several years. While we feel that our schools are not doing as well as they should, we do not know that if our schools were what they should be, there would be no need of such expensive buildings. A common school education is all that the city should furnish—it is all that ninety-nine per cent. of the children need, or can use. But after a year there are new fangled notions suggested in regard to the management of our schools which make the duties of the teacher more arduous, which prove a severe tax to the parents, and which do not improve the school in the least. The people understand this, the press frequently urges greater simplicity in the studies in our public schools, but that backward step to the past is not what we want. The cost of educating a child now is many times more than it was a year ago. Why do we not extend to the children in our Boston schools as in any respect better education than we are giving to the children in the schools in the other cities of the country? Why do we not show of learning, and that is all the taxpayers get for the greatly increased expenditure?

On a special motion of A. J. Richards it was voted that the Collector for 1878, 1879, 1880, 1881, 1882, 1883, 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887, 1888, 1889, 1890, 1891, 1892, 1893, 1894, 1895, 1896, 1897, 1898, 1899, 1900, 1901, 1902, 1903, "Sings and stars, and flowers of all dyes, And innumerable and innumerable,
Be as fond of this sort of thing as you may—
To make up a word, go a very short way."

Just as the east gales, bells in a great city were falling fast, and the charming "help" in the little gate one forenoon but Aunt Nancy, followed by a railway porter with her baggage—came to stay a week.

Possibly, had the girl not felt so utterly weary, she would have been glad to see the "help" in the little gate one forenoon, but Aunt Nancy, followed by a railway porter with her baggage—came to stay a week.

"You tell me, my dear," said the spinster next day, "how do you get on with your housekeeping?"
"Well, ma'am, to be candid, I'm afraid I don't know much about it. Our cook and my stairs girl were long with Fred's mother, and came here before I did, so I do not require to interfere."

"But, my dear child, do you think it right to be a mere cipher in your own house? By the way, you were so soon married after my last visit in Blank square, that I suppose you never had the cooking lessons about which I spoke to your mother?"

"No, Aunt Nan; but to let you into a secret—when Fred is in town I am sometimes so dismal for want of occupation that I should almost be glad to scour blankets for a variety."

"The spinster's visit was a decided success, before his consumption had discovered that, even if Maude wished to take my charge of her own house, the late Mrs. Seymour's elderly domestics would resent her interference."

"Yes, ma'am," said the young wife, "although I am somewhat of a novice, I never consider less than a couple of white elephants, he would feel it a mark of disrespect to his mother's memory were he to give up their places. Watson really sent up very good money, but I do not like it particularly like either her or Agnes, things must just be as they are, I suppose. You are quite right, however, about my uselessness, and it has just struck me that were my husband to lose his appointment, I should drag upon him instead of a blessing."

"The result of several such conversations, had before his consumption had discovered that, even if Maude wished to take my charge of her own house, the

ITALIAN CARNIVALS.
BATTLE WITH FLOWERS AND BOBBERS.
The carnival at Nice was opened by that charming and graceful tournament known as the battelle des fleurs.
The battelle des fleurs is principally carried on between the occupants of the carriages who peck each other as they pass with such missiles as violets, forget-me-nots, carnations, heliopsis, hyacinths, etc., done up into bouquets of various sizes; some of these bouquets are of microscopic dimensions while others are of such handsome proportions that they cannot and are not intended to be thrown, but are a preliminary skirmish with the smaller ones.
She had a very sweet voice, and this being a time and place where even Aunt Nancy would have voted for music, the strangers were treated to some charming ballads, and felt more convinced than ever that Fred's wife was the Kob-I-Noor of her sex.

But the upshot of the story was the best of all, for what should the millionaire do next morning after breakfast but ask his hostess to send for the carriage, with him as his son and daughter, saying, with quaint old-fashioned politeness, as he kissed her hand, "I shall have the handsomest and clearest lady at the head of my table when I move to New York, where I have purchased a house."

Which accordingly came to pass, to Aunt Nancy's immense satisfaction.

GEN. JOUBERT
THINKS OUT TO BE AN AMERICAN.

Daniel S. Joubert, the commander-in-chief of the Hoers in South Carolina, was born in a cabin in Fayette county, Penn.
About forty-one years ago Jacob Joubert and his wife Barbara emigrated from Holland and settled in Brownsville, Fayette county. A few months later they removed to Uniontown, in the same county, where they lived two years, and Jacob working at his trade, molding bricks by hand. Sometimes he did odd jobs for Daniel Sturgeon, a resident of Uniontown, then United States senator from Pennsylvania. In the spring of 1841 Barbara Joubert bore a son, who was christened Daniel Sturgeon Joubert; senator Sturgeon purchased for the infant a stylish new dress of rich material. The parents never grew tired of informing their neighbors in broken English that the boy was the son of senator Sturgeon, and he was called after the infant a stylish new dress of rich material. The parents never grew tired
of informing their neighbors in broken English that the boy was the son of senator Sturgeon, and he was called
after the infant a stylish new dress of rich material.

In 1845 they changed their residence to Connellsville, in the same county, where they accumulated some money.
About 1850, or probably 1851, the boy was sent to school, leaving his mother and father, and he was called after the infant a stylish new dress of rich material. The parents never grew tired of informing their neighbors in broken English that the boy was the son of senator Sturgeon, and he was called
after the infant a stylish new dress of rich
material.

The first thing that was to lead Watson to bed, let Agnes to lie down in her's, and let Peter to prepare for laying the cloth for dinner. The gentleman's wife knew how to do the cooking school, and boiling, but she was clearly and willing, so as Maude understood the more recherche dishes, by five o'clock matters were so well in train that her spirits grew quite light again; Fred would not be long after after all.

Joyfully she danced up to the dining-room, gave a finishing touch to the table arrangements, instructed him how to wait single-handed, and promised if he did his best to be liberally rewarded next day.

"As when she spoke, crack went the nut of a bottle of sherry he was uncork-ing and cut his right hand fearfully. So Maude, now faint and sick, heard six o'clock strike while she still held his hand, and the poor little fellow's sound was like a bell to her ears. She was arrived with the four strangers this fresh mishap would have "floored" her entirely, but again she screwed up her courage to the point of duty.

One comfort was that the culinary operations were proceeding satisfactorily for him, and she said, "I am sure you will dish everything nicely, and be sure the plates are hot."

"Yes, ma'am, but I'm astonished how well a young lady like you understands such sort of matters at the cooking school, where I began at the beginning with scullery work."

"Dear me, ma'am! It's wonderful how ladies do things nowadays; and I must say you make puff-paste first-rate.
But what can be so good about waiting?
That stupid boy is quite helpless with his hand."

"I mean to wait myself."
"You, ma'am?"
"Yes, there's no help for it. Stay. I shall bustle this turkey while you go down to the kitchen, and when you find me one of her caps and a clean apron. My husband is so short-sighted he'll never find out the difference, and as for the others, they never saw me in their lives."

"When the party arrived in high spirits they went to look for his wife, who had not yet put on her official "finings," and sat, quietly, "Peter has cut his hand so badly he can't wait, so one less at the table would be convenient when there's dinner to be done. Besides, don't you think, dear, you men will enjoy yourselves better without me, and when you come to the drawing-room I shall be ready to serve and make myself generally agreeable."

"All right, wife. Be sure you put on your pink dress."
"I mean to wait myself."
"You, ma'am?"
"Yes, there's no help for it. Stay. I shall bustle this turkey while you go
down to the kitchen, and when you find me
one of her caps and a clean apron. My husband is so short-sighted he'll never

BRADLEY'S SUPERPHOSPHATE.

Twenty Years' Unparalleled Success.

1861, 500 TONS. 1881, 60,000 TONS.

BRADLEY'S Phosphate has been used in the State of Louisiana, and has given universal satisfaction to all crops and on all kinds of soils. From New Orleans to Louisiana, the demand having increased the production from 500 tons in 1861 to over 100,000 tons per year. Its reputation was established on the sea coast, and is always maintained as the "First among all phosphates."

It is a high grade bone Superphosphate, containing 18 per cent of phosphate, and 12 per cent of soluble phosphate in each bushel, with the practical experience of twenty years has proved to be the best, and is a Complete Manure for all crops. It is manufactured at each period of its growth. It greatly improves the quality and largely increases the yield of all crops, and matures them in time to reap the early harvest.

Phosphates giving full directions for use, and testimonials from industrial farmers, sent free on application.

SOUTH WEYMOUTH.

Grand Reception.

A grand reception was given at the Parsonage last Monday evening. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Tyler, moved into the new parsonage some three weeks ago, and last Sabbath an invitation was given by the pastor for the pupils, for all the society to meet at the parsonage Monday evening, and at most two hundred responded to the invitation. The pastor gave them a cordial welcome, and after a short interval had been spent in the exchange of pleasant congratulations an invitation was given to the company to examine the rooms above and below, which were found to be very pleasant and convenient, and elegantly furnished. This part of the entertainment being over, a supper was next in order, for which the ladies had prepared a rich and beautiful supply of delicacies. About 75 sat down to the tables in the dining-room, which presented an elegant appearance through their ornamentation of silver cake baskets, fruit dishes, &c., filled with their luscious contents, while a beautiful supply of ice cream was passed round by the young ladies and gentlemen officiating as waiters.

After an hour had been spent in refreshment, Rev. Mr. Chapin invoked the divine blessing, some of the best of our musical talent favored the company with singing of choice selections of church melodies under the lead of C. H. Newton, and Mr. Tyler then addressed the company in a very pertinent manner, extending a hearty welcome to all. He alluded to the special interest manifested by his people in behalf of him and self and family, and said there was one noticeable thing in his society which was an especial pleasure to him, and that was the large number of young people, as even the older ones, in their mingling with the youth, appeared as young as any he had ever seen, and he hoped that the future and spirit would always exist between them and their pastor that had ever been manifested.

Mr. and Mrs. Tyler were the happy recipients of several elegant presents, which was a grand surprise to them. These gifts were a marble top table, cack rocking chair, two beautiful white bedspreads and pillow shams, toilet set for their spare chamber, one large and handsome picture of a forest scene by moonlight, by Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Noyes, of Boston; a scrap urn by Master Willie S. Torrey.

Dea. James Torrey was the oldest person present, being about 71 years of age, and as the pastor said, he was as young in spirit as any present. We were happy to meet, on this occasion, with Mr. and Mrs. Buckman, the lady being a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tyler. She has followed her parents as a pupil for some ten years, and has made several long voyages to Australia, Java, and other places. On her last voyage, to Matanzas, his young wife accompanied him, the return trip being very rough. They arrived in New York March 1st, and reached here in time to participate in the reception. Mr. Buckman intends to spend some two or three months at home, and is to have a new vessel on his voyage as master.

LADIES' ask your grocer for Williams' Pink Pills, a splendid chromo is given with every box.

The reception of which we have made brief mention, was a most enjoyable occasion, and will long be remembered by all present as one of the happiest evenings of their lives.

Service.

Sunday last Rev. Mr. Perry, at the Universalist church, delivered a very able and instructive sermon on "Repentance," from 2d Cor. 7, 10. Next Sunday, being Easter Sunday, the pastor will preach a discourse appropriate to the occasion, and we expect to see the house well filled. The chapel is to be handsomely decorated with flowers and everything appropriate for the day. In addition to these attractions music will be furnished by a large choir of singers under the direction of J. W. Bartlett, Mr. T. P. Cleverly, organist.

The W. C. T. U. will hold their regular meeting at Mrs. Win. French's, next Tuesday evening, at 7 o'clock.

Mrs. H. A. Miller is doing a rushing business in the sale of advertising cards, and any one wishing anything in that line would well to give her a call.

The public will bear in mind that the entertainment complimentary to H. A. Miller will be given in the Pilgrim vestry next Wednesday evening, the 20th. Reserved seats are selling rapidly. Come early, if you wish a seat.

Mr. H. F. Cushing has resumed work again, after being confined to the house for eleven weeks.

S. & D. Ford have planted a piece of potatoes, but the cold storm this week will keep their eyes closed awhile.

The Haverhill Daily Bulletin says that "Miss Bartlett, of the Art Studio, has received orders for New York parties for decorated work. We are glad to know that this gifted young lady's talents are appreciated out of town, as well as here." Miss Bartlett is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bartlett, of Old Spain, and is a highly accomplished artist. Specimens of her paintings have been exhibited at the Weymouth fair the past three or four years, for which she received the first prize.

Improvements.

At Bradley's Phosphate Works Stephen Cain, of East Weymouth, has just finished a new structure to be used in the manufacture of acid. It is called the "Glow Tower," being twin brick towers 40 and 50 feet high, lined with lead. The space between the wall and lining is filled with flint rock, through which the vapor passes and condensed. The amount of acid produced in the improvement is said to be very much increased. In the use of acid produced, as the flint rock does not absorb the acid. The present product of fertilizers at Bradley's works is immense, and many vessels are constantly arriving and departing, laden with the "nutriment."

Mrs. Arthur Bartlett is spending a week in Haverhill, visiting her friends.

Death of an aged Pastor.

EAST BRAINTREE.

Work upon that portion of the factory hired by the rubber company is being rapidly pushed forward, preparatory to their occupation. We learn that they will be ready for the machinery some time next week. They are to manufacture rubber cloth. A large portion of the land in immediate proximity was built for the purpose of drying the cloth. The tables are to be 180 feet in length and 3 feet wide.

In taking down the chimney in the house of Mr. Joshua Wilkins, the timbers were found to have been so much decayed, and in some places charred, that more extensive repairs are to be made than was at first intended.

Mr. Alverdo Mason who has been suffering for some time with rheumatism, being confined to his bed, is expected to be about again.

His son has been taking his place in the grammar school.

The annual meeting of the Spiritist-Liberals Association of BRAINTREE and Weymouth, was held in Williams' Hall, Weymouth Landing, on Tuesday evening. From the report of the treasurer, the association was found to be in good financial condition with a small surplus in the treasury. The association have held meetings twice or three Sundays, having two lectures each Sunday, and from the report of the officers we notice that the interest in the meetings and the attendance upon them has been gradually increasing. The annual election of officers took place, and the following were elected: President, Mr. J. W. Wilkins; Vice President, Mr. C. N. Wallace; Secretary, Mr. J. W. Wilkins; and his oldest son are travelling in the west.

The farmers have commenced their spring work, and they who had their land ready to plant their early peas will have the satisfaction of doing so over again on account of the new frost of yesterday.

The introduction of the BRAINTREE Reporter into our midst, unquestionably was a great success, but we hear only words of commendation, and wishes that it may prove a success, on every hand.

Miss Deane's Concert.

The very bad weather Wednesday evening affected the attendance in a marked degree. Miss Deane being ill, the programme was curtailed to one act, and the concert was given at the residence of Mr. C. W. Bailey filled Mr. Orace Allen's place, and also acted as a brief digressor of the programme produced—1. Spring song, by Miss Deane; 2. Song commencing "They were crowded in a cabin," and followed by an encore piece, "Flocked in the snow," by Miss Deane; 3. Violin solo, by Miss Deane; 4.
