Preface.

EVERY human being is, willy nilly, interested in the fundamental questions—whence he came, and whither he goes ; and, in my humble opinion, the genealogist alone can give all answer that ever will be given to these queries ; beyond his limits all is mystery, unthinkable, incomprehensible.

The study of genealogy is invaluable, too, as a training in the weighing of evidence and as an introduction to history. I can conceive of no more attractive or thorough manner of teaching history to school classes than to provide for them a well-equipped antiquarian library, and make each pupil work up the history of a man, family, or town, from the printed records.

And lastly, the history of a family, properly studied, should serve as a guide to the future career and behaviour of its members. For example, if I may say so, a study of the Emerson family leads me to think the genius—if I may use the word—of our family is for a life of action, e.g., commerce, pioneering, military or naval service or administration.

I trust the general reader will pardon my offering a genealogical history of our kith and kin, for there is a danger of every genealogist overrating the importance of his own family. I hope, however, I have not fallen into this error, and this historical sketch must speak for itself.

This sketch then can be of interest only to the members of the family and a few antiquaries who care for these things.

The writer hopes he will be forgiven the importance he has given to the Ipswich, Massachusetts, Emersons ; but he feels that that family has perhaps done more for humanity than any other branch, in that they have the proud distinction of being amongst the original English conquerors of America (for this English conquest was a far nobler and greater conquest than the Norman conquest, and its influence on civilization incalculable ; a thousand years hence any details of any of the conquerors who lived 1620—1640 will be eagerly sought for and treasured by historians). Besides, many of the members of this family have fought for their country, whilst a great many others have, from the earliest times, done much to shape the intellectual thought of the keen-witted citizens of the United States of America ; and, above all, there has never yet been a single member of this family who has dishonoured the name. Sacrificing everything for freedom to worship God in their own way, they have ever maintained that independence of mind, chivalrous honour and courage which first started them in a small vessel across the great, stormy and comparatively unknown Atlantic Ocean in 1638, to settle in the wilds amongst blood-thirsty, cunning and brave savages.

This sketch does not deal with the various early families after the year 1700; it is intended to trace the various roots to the original ancestor and then leave them; and thus, of course, are omitted, with a few exceptions, the families who rose to wealth and distinction in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries—a goodly number.

The writer has endeavoured to make the pedigrees as accurate as possible, but with such a multitude of similar Christian names, errors there must be; and he would point out that he has not, in the pedigrees, printed all the evidence attainable for each step, for the cost of printing had to be considered; and as the writer thought the work would be more valuable if all the abstracts from the original documents were printed in an Appendix, he decided to avoid repetition by giving meagre data in the pedigrees. Any interested person can therefore fill up the lacunæ from the Appendix.

Some modern pedigrees have been printed in Chapter V.—answers sent to a circular issued in 1896; but the writer wishes it to be clearly understood he takes no responsibility for the accuracy of these pedigrees. They are printed as contributed—merely having been cast into a more convenient form for the printer. Some great man may one day arise from some of these families, and they may then prove useful guides to research.

The writer offers his apology for including the biographical sketch of himself with its multitudinous photographs. But as he has often been asked for “biographical notes,” he took advantage of A. A.’s kind offer to get together some facts to which he could in future refer the curious, and some of the numerous photographs he possessed, for being connected a great deal with the photographic world, he has been, as most other photographers have been, an endless target for the “snap-shooter,” and hence these pictures, which may interest his posterity. His thanks are especially due to Mr. T. R. Dallmeyer, Mr. Boughton, Messrs. Gibson and Sons, Mr. Maxwell, Mr. T. B. Glascock and others for their “sun-pictures,” and to A. A. for the kind compilation of facts of his early career.

And now it is the writer’s pleasant duty to thank the various courteous correspondents who have helped him in his task. Unfortunately, the only ill-bred correspondents he has had to deal with are clergymen—but not all clergymen are so, he is glad to say—for some whose names are given below, have been kindness and courtesy itself. But there is a class of upstarts in the Church, the result of cheap universities and theological colleges who are a disgrace to their profession. Several clergymen have deliberately attempted extortion, asking thrice their correct fees, and one man actually stooped to post a letter in a disguised hand at a place distant from his residence, in which he stated he was a “gentleman,” and proved his ignorance of the law regarding the fees for searches in registers. But I am glad to say the men from the good colleges of Oxford and Cambridge have behaved as one would have expected from their training, i.e., as gentlemen. In the writer’s opinion parish registers should be placed in the Public Record Office, London, for often a willing and kind clergyman is unable to read his own register. The writer then begs to acknowledge most gratefully the help and kindness of the following correspondents:—C. H. Athill, Esq., Richmond Herald, G. Ambrose Lee, Bluemantle, Professors York-Powell, Oman, Montagu-Burrows, B. K. Emerson, Rev. H. M. Gwatkin, the Bishop of Ely and his courteous Chaplain, the Bishop of Richmond, Rev. Canon Greenwell, Archdeacon Watkins, Major-General A. L. Emerson, J. J. Emerson, Esq., of Easby Hall, for much kindly help and loan of books; the late Dr. P. E. Canfield, for contributing legal proofs of the greater portion of the Ipswich Emersons; Captain Gordon of the N. Eng. Hist. and Arch. Soc.; Dr. E. W. Emerson, of Concord; Mr. E. D. Emerson, of Waltham, Mass.; Mr. W. J. Philipson, B.A., for assistance in compiling the pedigrees; Mr. Lonsdale, Librarian of Lichfield Cathedral; Mr. Heckethorne, author of "Lincoln's Inn;" Mr. Wright, Librarian of the London Library; Colonel J. P. Steel, R.E., for much valuable help; Mr. W. Brigg, Mr. G. L. Glascock, Mr. W. M. Egglestone, Mr. Phillimore, Mr. E. Fry, Mr. W. Rye, for the law re fees for searching parish registers; Rev. Dr. Browne, author of "The Pilgrim Fathers and their Successors;" Mrs. C. C. Stopes, Mr. A. C. Fox-Davies, for publishing queries in the Genealogical Magazine; Mrs. Batson, Mr. Gepp, of Chelmsford; Mr. Rylands, for examining the "disclaimers" for Miss Walford; Captain R. P. Lee, R.E., of the Ordnance Survey Office; Sir J. Evans, K.C.B., for his kind loan of the "medal;" Mrs. Sewell, for copies of two early Lincoln pedigrees; Mr. J. J. Taylor (Gloucester), Mr. Venn, Librarian of Caius College; Mr. Sharpe, of the Friends' Society; Mr. C. Golding (Sudbury), Mr. G. T. Sherwood, Mr. S. H. Miller, Mr. Sweeting, Editor, Fenland Notes and Queries; Lord Braybrooke, Mr. A. S. Ellis, Mr. C. Grant, Bursar of King's College, Camb., Mr. W. J. Watson (Barnard Castle), the Registrar-General, Mr. J. J. Wall (Durham), Mr. F. A. Manley (Durham), Mr. Goulding (Louth), Mr. Kenyon W. Wilkie (Ramsgate), Mr. H. A. Mitton, M.A., Master of Sherburn Hospital; Mr. Smith, the Bishop's Secretary, Lincoln; Mr. A. T. Geare, Head Master, Bishop's Stortford Grammar School; Mr. W. C. Ellison, of St. Margaret's, Westminster; Mr. T. Jesson, F.G.S. (Chiswick), Mr. Jordan (Teignmouth Cemetery Co.), Mr. Newby (Stockton), Mr. Warner, Chaplain to the Bishop of Ely. And the following courteous clergymen:—Rev. Airey (St. Helen's, Bishopsgate), Rev. W. M. Shepherd (Appleby), Rev. A. Cooper (Filey), Rev. R. Kennedy (Wressle), Rev. Isaacson (Kirk Fenton), Rev. T. Seaton (Cleckheaton), Rev. W. Reid-Smith (Middleham), Rev. W. M. Osborne (Bulmer), Rev. A. Grimston (Stillingfleet), Rev. H. Knight (Laceby), Rev. J. Bailey (Addlethorpe), Rev. W. Giffard (Wootton), Rev. W. Dunnings (Hutoft) Rev. W. Hacon (Searby), Rev. C. F. Brotherton (Barnetby), Rev. W. Seed (Goxhill), Rev. J. Inge (Goxhill), Rev. J. Mason (Bonby), Rev. G. W. Rowntree (Wraby), Rev. W. Barritt (Bletchley), Rev. H. Southey (Woburn), Rev. E. Drewe (Lostwithiel), Rev. A. J. Begbie (Horton), Rev. C. Balfour (Coldaston), Rev. G. Alford (Mangotsfield), Rev. F. C. G. Cass (Monken Hadley), Rev. E. F. Hay (Kelvedon), Rev. F. E. Sadgrove (Kelvedon), Rev. H. Boddy (Grindon), Rev. W. Symons (Thorney Abbey), Rev. A. Greig (Cottenham), Rev. F. Beaumont (Coventry), Rev. T. W. Downing (Coventry), Rev. J. R. Mills, D.D. (Coventry), Rev. Chichester (Sandwich), Rev. E. Payne-Smith (St. Lawrence), Rev. H. N. C. Hewson (Cosgrove), Rev. M. Collins (Welton Burgh), Rev. E. Woodruffe Peacock (Cadney), Rev. S. A. Stoodley (Folkingham), Rev. A. T. Ryan (Adlingfleet), Rev. R. Mann (Swaton), Rev. D. M. Melville (Market Rasen), Rev. Harrison (Bishop's Norton), Rev. H. T. Lane (Bishop's Stortford), Rev. J. K. Olorenshaw (Rattlesdean), Rev. J. N. Spurgeon (Guist), Rev. J. R. Garret (Helmingham), Rev. Canon Beeching (Hilgay), Rev. W. J. Packe (Feering), Vicars of Red-marshall, Long Newton, Hurworth, Conniscliffe, Denton, Ryton, St. John's, Newcastle, Stranton, Marshfield, and the Rev. Cookson, of Ipswich, Co. Suffolk.

The photogravures and prints therefrom and line blocks are the work of Mr. W. Colls, of Barnes, and the half-tone blocks and prints in the Edition de Luxe were done by the Meisenbach Company. The writer had the good fortune, too, to secure the services of Miss Walford and Miss Stokes for research in the Public Record Office, Mr. J. J. Howe for the provincial wills, and Mr. F. Johnson for work in East Anglia, and he is greatly indebted to their accuracy and courtesy, and most especially to Mr. F. Johnson of Gt. Yarmouth, who kindly sent him many gratuitous notes.

And still the writer feels he has forgotten some kind correspondent, and will strive to make amends for the omission by a story repeated to him by Mr. F. Johnson as it was given him.

In 1896 the writer issued a circular (vide Cap. VI.), posting one to every address in Kelly's Directories. It chanced one of these circulars went to the cottage of an Emmerson in Norfolk, a labourer. Very puzzled was he, and rustic-like suspected the Government, but since he could not read he laid in wait for the village surgeon, to whom he handed the paper, asking him to read it to him. All proceeded merrily until the question came—"Do you bear any arms, and if so, what?" The labourer's face was "all eyes and mouth," and scratching his head, he said, with puzzled voice, "Wal, neow, sir, to think them Gover'ment chaps should be so sharp. I sartinly hev an owd gun, but she ain't bin loosed now twenty year, so I never took no licence. But do you make it all right with the gentleman, won't you, sir?"

THE ENGLISH EMERSONS.

CHAPTER I.

The Surname: Emerson.

THE surname EMERSON is derived from Aimeric = Aimerick = Haimerico = Emericus = Aimeri = Emeric = Aimery = Emery = Aimeris = Emry = Emries = Eimery = Emerie = Imrie (these all being slight differences of script or dialect for Haimericus) + son. Emerson, like other "son-names," is only to be found in the parts of Britain colonized by the Danes and Northmen—i.e., always in the north of England, never in the south, save by migration. HAIMERICUS, the oldest form I have found in any English authorities, is a derivative from Haim + riks (haims and reiks in Gothic, the oldest form to be got at until one gets back to the Arch-Teutonic altogether). It is, like all old Teutonic names, composed of two elements: viz., Haim = home, dwelling, estate, e.g., O.N. Ham-dér; and Rik = rule, power, kingdom, e.g., Mod Eng. Frederick. The two together do not mean anything, but they make a name, often half of the name being used by several of the family, as Wolf from the Ylfings, or in compound names as Wolf + grim—Grim + wolf; Wolf + bert—bert + wolf, or Ethel + wolf + bert + bold + red + ric in King Alfred's family. The name suggests a clan-name-element, e.g., there were Ethelings—there would be Haimings.

Aimeric, Eymer, Emery, etc., are Gascon (Poitevin) and southern names and not French, i.e., not from the Franks of France.

The formation of surnames was a gradual process, and so we get in early records—e.g.,

John Wilson
 Will Johnson

which show the surname was not yet formed. In the same way we get filius Emerici (e.g., Parliamentary writs for thirteenth century) and fils Eméri, e.g. (Richmond Domesday), "Foeda militum, p. 27. De fædo Alani fili Eméri in Aynderby Viconte Sutton and Synderby 71 Fæd. Hen. II. Be Briano filio Alani pro 4 foed," but no surname was yet formed. We ought to find something like this—

Emery Rolf's son
 Rolf Emeryson.

But I have found no early Emerysons in Richmond, Yorkshire, so must conclude that though filius Emerici (which would be in French fils Eméri) occurs the surname Emeryson was never formed there in early times.

There were many Emerys in early records, from Aimeris of Leland's Battle Abbey roll (which, like all Battle Abbey rolls, is later than it pretends to be, open to grave suspicion, and unreliable), to Haimericus of Domesday Book. Later we find Emerys in Durham, Lincoln, Northampton, Hunts, Middlesex, Kent, Essex, Surrey, Norfolk, Dorset and Hants, but none in Boldon Book (Durham Domesday), 1183, nor in Hatfield's Survey, 1377 (Durham), though it contains Emeryson. In other counties the Emerys were:—

YORKSHIRE DOMESDAY (RICHMOND).

Alani fil Emery.

Remembering the rule concerning “son-names” we find it holds good with regard to the Emersons; for we find no Emerysons (Emersons) in southern counties until after 1500—these being of course migrants from the north, as can be proved in many cases, e.g., Thomas (W.P. 1567) of Coldaston, Co. Gloucester, mentions his cousin Arthur of Weardale.

On the other hand the rule is again proved by the fact that before 1400 Emerysons are only to be found in Durham and Yorkshire—the bulk in the former county and but one in Co. York—Geoffery Emeryson (who appears in Patent Roll, 1 Ed. III., Pt. 3, for assaulting John Fitzjohn at Drypole, in Holderness, Co. York), probably a relative of Johannes filius Emerici-Burgess, returned for Parliament for Scarborough, 1309.* As there is no further record of this John or Geoffery in Co. York, or of any other Emeryson up to 1486, when the will of William Emerson of Scardeburgh (Scarborough) is proved, we may fairly conclude that Geoffery probably left no progeny or returned to Co. Durham, whence he probably came, as the Bishops of Durham held various lands in Co. York.

On the other hand in Co. Durham we find several Emerysons before 1400, who increase rapidly between 1400 and 1500, and more rapidly still subsequently, whereas with the single exceptions of the two Yorkshire Emersons cited above, we find no Emerysons (Emersons) in any other county in England until after 1500; and when we take into consideration the fact that we find not a single Emery in Co. Durham up to 1700 at any rate, except the Archdeacon Aimeric's (1196) son and grandsons, we may, I think, fairly suppose that the Emerysons originated in Co. Durham; and since they must have descended from an Emery we may go further and fairly suppose they are all descended from Aimeric, Archdeacon of Durham (1196—1214), the only one of the name of whom we have any early record in Co. Durham.

We will now pause a moment and give evidence of the existence of Emerysons or Emerissons, for the name is spelt indifferently either way, in Co. Durham, before 1400. The earliest record I have of the name is that of Johannes Emeryson, of Stanley, Brancepeth Parish, Co. Durham. This † John married in 1350 Agnes Raw, heiress of Will-of-the-Raw, and inherited, through his wife, half of Cornsey Manor and other property. An antiquarian stated in a letter to J. J. Emerson, Esq., LL.D., that he had found a deed concerning this

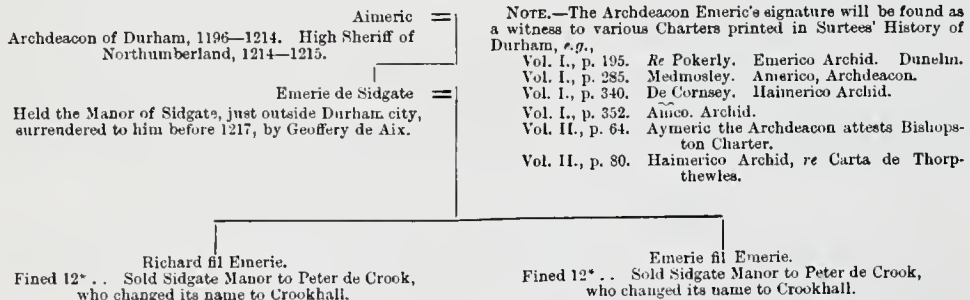

* Palgrave's Parliamentary Writs, No. 19, p. 28.

† Hutchinson's "History of Co. Durham," Vol. III., p. 388.

John and his lands dated 1312. I have been unable to trace this deed. It may be mentioned here that Emersons held lands at Stanley, Brancepeth Parish, as late as 1581—Will of Ralf Emerson of Brancepeth dated 1581. The next entry is that of Kirstan, widow of Robert Emeryson of Weardale—Cursitor Roll (vide Key Pedigree). The next, Hatfield's Survey, wherein Robert Emeryson and his son John Emeryson, free tenants*, are mentioned, Robert as holding South Bedburn Hall (Hamsterley Parish) and Gibbsclose, and John as holding a toft and croft in Weardale (Brussihows). William Emeryson is also mentioned in the Survey, probably William, Capellanus of Lanchester, who is afterwards first mentioned in the Cursitor Rolls.

We thus see the earliest records show the family were settled in Brancepeth and Lanchester Parishes and in Weardale (Stanhope Parish) and Hamsterley Parishes, from which they rapidly spread over the county in 1400—1500, and later, after 1510, began to run over the borders into Yorkshire, Cumberland, Westmoreland, Northumberland, etc.

Now having got so far, we must seek the Emery from whom they sprang, and the only Emery I can find at any time in Co. Durham was Aimeric, the Archdeacon of Durham, 1196—1214, nepos (probably son or grandson) of Bishop Phillip of Poitou, Prince Bishop of Durham 1195, and previously clericum et familiarem of Richard Cœur-de-lion. We shall go into the Archdeacon's history fully in another chapter, suffice it to say here that Aimeric left issue, having obviously been married before he was made Archdeacon, as was Bishop Phillip of Poitou. The pedigree given in Surtees, Vol. IV., p. 137, is as follows:—

* Part of date illegible, but after 1217.

Now the link is missing between the Archdeacon's grandsons and John Emeryson of Stanley, 1312, but when the evidence I have adduced is taken into consideration, it may fairly be supposed, I think, that John Emeryson, 1312, of Brancepeth and Lanchester Parishes, and Robert Emeryson of Weardale, who died in 1350, were immediate descendants of either Richard fil Emeric or Emeric fil Emeric. It must be remembered that Brancepeth Parish extends right up to Durham, and Crookhall is in Lanchester Parish, also next to Durham.

I am aware I have not proved this descent, and leave my suggestions and reasons for the judgment of others. And in this connection the close relations of the Emersons to the Bishops of Durham must not be forgotten. This could not be mere chance. We have William: Capellanus at Lanchester, 1377, Robert: Parker to the Bishops before 1400, succeeded by a long list of hereditary bailiffs, parkers and high foresters of the name, as well as Richard: Scriba of the Priory, 1483. Will Emerson, also held† lands of Finchale Priory (1411), at Smalleys (Wols. Parish).

It is worth while pointing out here that Aimeric sometimes wrote his name Amerigo, which is, of course, merely an Italianized form of Aimeric, and perhaps assumed in Lombardy, where the Archdeacon may have been trained, as was the custom in those days.

In the earliest records the name is written indifferently, Emeryson or Emerisson, or in their contracted forms, Em^oson = Em^yson = Emy^oson; and this brings us to a caution, for careless scribes, by omitting the "er" or "o" of the contracted form, have occasionally written the name Emson or Emyson, which is quite incorrect, these being both quite distinct names, as we shall show later on. But where this error has occurred,

* Free tenants were "nobiles" in these days.

† Surtees' Soc. Pub. (Vide Appendix.)

it has generally corrected itself, i.e., one finds the sons' or grándsons' names in the correct spelling, EMERSON; e.g., Roger Emson of Marshfield, Co. Gloucester Register; Richard Emyson of Church End, Cottenham, W.P., 1567, have descendants written correctly Emerson. On the other hand, Emson and Emyson can never become or be written Emerson, save by wilful deception. Readers of early records must, therefore, keep all early Emsons or Emysons under observation, and watch their subsequent forms.

Next we come to corrupt forms of the name, due originally to phonetic scribes. These misspellings are numerous, and it would be idle to quote them all! We shall merely discuss those that have become fixed types, i.e., been transmitted from father to son. They are:—

1. Emmerson (very common).
2. Embersons (common).
3. Amersons (rarer).
- 4.(?) Amberson (rarest).

I often get my own name misspelled Emmerson and Amerson to-day; and Emberson is a form that sprang up by introducing the "intrusive or excrescent b," which we know from the common word thumb, O.E. thuma, and was not uncommon in earlier times.

All the middle-period records of Co. Durham give the name Emerson; yet the returning officers for the Durham Hearth Tax Rolls chose to give themselves extra trouble, and wrote most of the names Emmerson (vide Appendix), but in only a few cases was this form used by the families themselves.

Examples of Emerson becoming Emberson, and then Emerson again, are not rare. This happened even in the United States. The Rev. John, son of Thomas of Ipswich (ob. 1666), is written in an Essex land-deed, 25th day, 9th mo., 1648, as John Emberson, but he lived and died and was buried as Emerson, and his father in the same deed is called Thomas Emerson. In Northumberland, Essex, Huntingdonshire, Hertfordshire and Middlesex we find Embersons before 1700; and in a pedigree compiled by me of the Emersons of Bluntisham, we get both spellings, e.g.:—

Richard Emerson of Bluntisham, W.P., 1637.

Matthew Emberson, s. and h. of the above (sic in register).

We find in the seventeenth century Amersons transmitting their names in Co. York and at Coventry. The Coventry family wrote themselves Amerson for two or three generations, but finally reverted to the correct Emerson; e.g., wills:—

Thos. Amerson of Coventry, W.P., 1559.

John Emerson of Coventry, Adm., 1608.

John Emerson of Coventry, W.P., 1615.

All these are members of the same family, vide pedigree under Emersons of Co. Warwick.

Amberson I am doubtful about. Bardsley⁹ gives two Bristol Ambersons and suggests it is for Emerson, but I have been unable to find examples of Ambersons subsequently becoming Emersons, or Emersons subsequently calling themselves Ambersons. It seems to me, however, Emberson might easily be miswritten Amberson by a thick-eared scribe. But I must leave this point open for further evidence.

All Emmersons, Embersons and Amersons, then, who wish to change their names back to the original and correct Emerson are justified in doing so. They are all sprung from Emersons, and are not, as a foolish person wrote to me,—“Emerson, American; Emmerson, English (Yorkshire)—two different families.”

These, then, are the positive facts concerning the surname. It is our task now to criticize various writers on the subject who are generally accepted as authorities, but whom, I regret to say, I find generally quite untrustworthy. I shall consider only the latest editions of these guess-workers.

Taking first W. A. Lower's second edition of “Patronymica Britannica.” This writer says:—“Emerson is a baptismal name, the genitive case of Emary from Almeric, and that Amery, Emery and Amerigo are from Amalrich, an exalted ruler (ric).” As we have said, Emeric is a name of Teuton-heathen type. Moreover, Emery is in no way connected with Emary, nor is it derived from Almeric, nor are Emary and Almaric in any way connected.

We have referred to Amerigo as an Italian corruption. Bardsley, in his “English Surnames," fifth edition, p. 29, gives Emery under names introduced by the Normans. "Emery, though now utterly forgotten as a personal name, may be said to live on only in our surnames. It was once no unimportant sobriquet. Americ, Almeric, Almaric, Emeric and Eimeric seem to have been its original spellings in England, and thus, at least, it is more likely to remind us that it is the same name to which, in the Italian form of Amerigo, we now owe the title of that vast expanse of western territory which is so indissolubly connected with English industry and English interests. Curter forms than these were found in Aylmar, Ailmar, Almar, Aymer and Amar. The surnames it has bequeathed to us are not few. It has had the free run of the vowels in our Amorys, Emerys and Imarys, and, in a more patronymic form, we may still oftentimes meet with it in our Emersons, Embersons* and Imeson."† This writer makes the same error of considering Emery and Almaric equivalents, and the additional one of mixing up a fourth name, Ailmar = Aylmer = Æzelmar, etc., with Almeric and Emery and Amalric. Aymer and Amer are not equivalents, nor are they the same as Emery; nor does Amory = Emery. On the other hand, Amory = Amaury = Amalric (Hamal + reiks) Gothic. Nor does Imeson = Emerson. It is probably a corruption of Emmeson (fil Emme).

Fergusson, in "English Surnames," says:—"Hari, a warrior. Old German, Einaher, Einhari. Tenth century, English, Ember or Emery. French, Iner, Emmery." . . . "Perhaps our Emery and Emerson may be from Ymir, a giant of Northern Mythology." Einhari has nothing to do with Emery, and Professor York-Powell tells me Ymir can have no possible connection with Emery and Emerson.

In addition to these writers, Professor B. K. Emerson quotes other guesses in his "Emersons in America." He quotes "a most learned anonymous work," "The Norman People,"‡ in which the writer says:—"Amory and Amery come from Hamars, near Caen." Now, Amory cannot come from Hamars, but, as we have said, from a form which in Gothic would be Hamal + reiks, moreover, once more, Emery = Emory or Amory, and does not = Emery. Again, the author of "The Norman People" says:—"Dormer from Amars or Amory, near Caen." But Dormer cannot come from de Amars or de Amory. This "most learned work," like the rest, is absolutely untrustworthy on names.

A Professor Rygh, of Christiania, is said to have suggested that Aymer-son is an early Scandinavian form of Emerson. Aymer has no more to do with Scandinavian than has Robin or Hodgkin.

A Professor Emerson, of Burlington, Vermont, has suggested the name originated from the town Emmerich, which is a Rhenish Prussian name, and has nothing to do with Emery.

Professor B. K. Emerson goes on quoting—Graff VI., 986 Patt., "Die Personen und Familien namen," 1, 259, who derives Emmerich from Emeric, old high German Emheri (heri = exercitus), which is bad philology.

Bardsley suggests the Persian Emir, but Emery and the Oriental titles Amir, Emir, Ameer, have nothing in common.

These books then are all useless and untrustworthy, nay, misleading, and no person with proper philological training could have written such stuff. Modern philology is a science, and the origin of surnames is no guesswork, as these writers have made it.

My chief delight in this little research has been in finding the results confirming my ideas gathered from other sources as to the origin of the family, i.e., that it first originated in Aquitania.

Up to 1525 I have only been able to trace the following Emersons in other counties than Durham, viz. :—

Robert Em^{son} of Coton, Co. Cambridgeshire. Lay Sub. Roll $\frac{1}{4}\frac{1}{2}$, 14—15 Hen. VIII.

John Em^{son} of Bishop Lynn, Co. Norfolk. Lay Sub. Roll $\frac{1}{2}\frac{1}{4}$, 16 Hen. VIII.

Ed. Em^{son} of Holt, Co. Norfolk. Lay Sub. Roll $\frac{1}{2}\frac{3}{4}$, 14 Hen. VIII.

* "Richard Amberson and Robert Amberson may be seen in Barrett's 'History of Bristol' (index). If not sprung from Ambrose, they will be but a variation of Emberson."

† Barrett's "History of Bristol," pp. 549 and 561, refers to Mr. Robert Amberson (1655 and 1656). No mention of Ric. Amberson, as stated by Bardsley.

‡ I suggest this is an error and from Emme, fil Emmes = Emmeson or Immeson.

§ Henry S. King & Co., 1874.

John Enderson of Papworth Agnes, Co. Hunts. Lay Sub. Roll $\frac{1}{3}$, 15—16 Hen. VIII.

(This entry is of course doubtful.)

There are many names that look like corruptions of Emerson at the first glance, but are no more connected with Emerson than with Smith, Jones, or Robinson. The commonest of these is EMMESON and its variants Emson, Empson, Emison, Emminson, Emmet, Emmetson, Emmotson, Ems, Emms, Emmes, Emyson, etc. All these names are derived from Emma, old form Emme—originally an English pet name, applied first in history to a Norman count's wife Emma. Dieu vous sauve, Dame Emma, was a popular saying in the days of Piers Plowman. To be just, Mr. Bardsley is quite correct on these names,^o viz., when talking of surnames derived from Christian names of women, he says Emma is commemorated in little companies of Emms, Emsons, Empsons, Emmotts, Emmetts and Emotsons, and he might have added Emetsons, Eminsons, Emysons, Emisons, Emmisons, Emmesons and Emesons.

This, as I have said, is fully confirmed by my researches. These sons of Emma are, of course, very numerous, and appear in almost every county in early times, but especially on the northern and eastern side of England. We get them in early records as fil' Emme: son of Emma; then, as a rule, as Emmesons, as in Norfolk, year 1200 (John Emmeson); then we get the various corruptions and misspellings, as Empson, Emison, Emmenson, Eminson, etc.

The typical contraction and rendering of this name is, of course, Emson; but many of the variants have become fixed, and descended from father to son, so that now they may be looked upon as separate names, e.g., Empson, Emmetson, Ems, Emmet, Emetson, etc. We find a number of these in the hundred rolls, Vols. I. and II. In Close Rolls (printed), Vol. I., 485, Robertus fili Emme; 14 Hen. III., p. 1, No. 17, Henry, son of Emma of Lincoln; and many subsequent entries at Norwich, Oxford, etc. In Chancery proceedings, Bundle 61, No. 47, we get William Emetson of Croft, Co. Lincoln—the very man whose son impudently adopted the name of Emerson (vide chapter on Lincolnshire Emersons). In Patent Rolls, 12 Ed. I, No. 2, Richard, son of Emma of Chester, 1284, in Salop, 1299, in Appleby, etc. Anyone who casts his eye over the Index to Patent Rolls, published in Appendix, will see how they were spread about over the country, and how numerous the varied sons of different Emmas must be. In Inq. P.M. in Vol. IX., Rich. III., we get the name at Gunthorpe, Co. Lincoln; and in Lay Subsidies it abounds in Lincolnshire, 1324 (Emmeson); in Northumberland, 24 Ed. I. $\frac{1}{3}$, at various places, and later as Emson; in Westmoreland, 6 Ed. III., as fil' Eme and Emmeson, and in 2 Ric. II. as Emson; in Leicestershire, 6 Ed. III., as fil' Emme, and 15 Hen. VIII. $\frac{1}{3}$, as Ameson; in Cambridgeshire as Empson and Emson (the same person), viz., $\frac{1}{3}$, 14 Hen. VIII., Kennett; Thomas Empson, roll $\frac{1}{3}$, 14 Hen. VIII., Kennet; Thomas Emson; in Northampton, $\frac{1}{3}$, 15 Hen. VIII., as Emsonne, in $\frac{1}{3}$ as Thomas Empson, and in $\frac{1}{3}$ as Thomas Emson, the same person, and a very wealthy family; in Warwickshire, 6 Ed. III., as Emmesone and fil' Emme, 2 Ric. II. as Emston and Emsonne, and 14 Hen. VIII. as Empson; in Cumberland, 6 Ed. III., as fil' Emme, in will as Emotson, and in Register (Lazonby) as Emetson—the two last the same person; in Co. Gloucester, 1 Ed. III., as Emmeson; in Bucks, 6 Ed. III., as Emmesone; in Notts, 6 Ed. III., as fil' Emme; in Herts, 19 Ed. I., as fil' Emme.

I have not given the references to the rolls except where some point is made, i.e., when the name is spelt Emson or Empson indifferently; but the full references to the rolls are given in the Appendix (q.v.).

If the reader will now turn to the Appendix, he will find various wills of this family Emison or Emyson, printed on purpose to show different spellings of the name, as Emison and Emyson. Then if he will turn to the extracts from Cursitor Rolls, Co. Durham, he will find references to the few fil' Emme or sons of Emma in Co. Durham, for some there were there too, spelling the name Emson, or Emetson, or Em, or Emme, or Emyson, or Emson, but they were few and far between and confined chiefly to Stockton Ward. However, we find the earliest in Bishop Pudsey's time—Emme de Monasteriis. Then we find them in various Cursitor Rolls (vide Appendix); and again in Hatfield's Survey, 1377, we find them all described. They held by servile tenure, and were not well off. In this Survey we get in Easington Ward, Matilda Emson, Petrus Emmeson, also written Petrus Emson, Robertus Emson; in Stockton Ward, Johannis filius Johannes Emmeson and Thomas Emmeson and Willelmus Emme and John fil Roberti Emme. Evidently the above John and Thomas, written Emme or Emmeson, and once we get it written Eme.

* Bardsley's "English Surnames," pp. 1, 2, 33.

In Cursitor Roll, No. 12, 1348—1362, and No. 13, we get Ric. Emson, Will Emmeson; and at Sedgefield, Will Emmeson and John Emmeson; and in Darlington, William Emmotson and Thomas Emmotson; and at Middleham, Robert Emotson. It is evident these Emotsons of Darlington are the same as the Emsons of Middleham, and in both rolls Isabella is given as the wife of William.

In the next Survey, Langley's Survey, we get the sons of Emma in Easington Ward again—Peter Emmeson and Rob. Emson. Hutchinson, in his "History of Durham," says a family of the name took the local name of Morton—"A resident family assumed the name Morton, and we find Petrus de Morton died seized of West Morton 5^o Bury, which family after fell into female issue." In an original P.M. Agnes fil' Rob of Morton 4^o20, Hatfield, 1365, is mentioned; also Sibilla fil' de Emme 4^o20, Hatfield. This may account for their disappearance in Co. Durham, and the only will I find of this family in the county is that of John Emson of Greatham.

Perhaps nothing could have proved more clearly that the EMERYSONS and EMMESONS (did it require proof) are altogether distinct families than the Durham records cited. Emmesons were to be found in many counties before 1500, but no Emersons except in Durham and Co. York. In short, the sons of Emma are no more connected with the sons of Aimeric, than are the sons of John, Thomas, Dick or Harry. All Emersons are related, having come from one common stock. Evidently very few Emmeson families are connected, as they obviously sprang from dozens of unconnected Emmas.

There are AMISONS, Amysons and Ames; e.g., Patent Rolls, 24 Eliz., but these names have nothing to do with EMERSON, and cannot be derived from Emericus. Amis and Amysons are found plentifully in Cheshire and Suffolk, for example.

Other names that are in no way connected with Emerson are EMBERTON, EMERTON and AMORY. We will briefly discuss these distinct names, citing examples.

In the Black Book of the Exchequer,⁹ A.D. 1166, we find Paganus de Emberton holding a fee of the barony of Dudley in Co. Bucks. In Lay Subsidy 2⁴/₂ 6 Ed. III., we find the name at Newport Pagnel; also in roll 7²/₂ 14 Hen. VIII., and in many rolls of 14 Hen. VIII. in the same county (vide Appendix, Lay Subsidies, Bucks.) In 14 Hen. VIII., it also occurs in Northamptonshire. Emberton may have here and there become corrupted into Emerton through the writing of the old contracted hand, when it was written Emb^oton for Emberton. But Emerton is possibly a distinct name in origin. In the Hundred Rolls (Vol. II. printed vols., p. 609) we get Simon de Amerton holds two acres of land for 12d., Co. Hunts Inq. taken 7 Ed. I. In Lay Subsidy Bucks 7²/₂ 14 Hen. VIII., we get Emerton, and frequently as Em^oton. We also find it tempe 14 Hen. VIII. in Northampton, and, like Emberton, we do not find it in Durham.

Taking lastly the name AMORY, we get in Inq. P.M., Vol. VI., 14 Ed. III., 1 Ric. II., Amorys in Bedfordshire and Essex.

And family nomenclature is a matter heralds should pay attention to, for I note a Notts family of Emertons who have (if it be genuine) what is evidently an exemplification of Ralf of Foxton's coat. Emertons are just as much entitled to the arms of Jones, being no more connected with the Emersons than are the Jones, and this should particularly be noted in the case of the sons of Emma, as Emeson, Emmison, etc. For example, there are armigerous Emsons, but they are in no way connected with Emersons, and vice versa, Emersons are in no way connected with Emysons.

In the Appendix the reader will possibly note several Emersons als (alias) somebody, e.g., Emerson, als Robinson (Langley's Survey). It must not be hastily concluded that these are necessarily all illegitimate sons. On the other hand, in early times it was the custom for posthumous sons to take the widow's maiden-name. Later they do sometimes represent illegitimate sons, who usually take the mother's name.

Of all the surnames beginning with "E," Dr. Farr (formerly Registrar-General) calculated that 2·4 per cent. only of the population of Great Britain begin with the letter E; and since this letter includes the common names Evans and Edwards, Dr. Farr having estimated that in 1885 there were 93,000 Evans and 58,100 Edwards out of a total of 3,253,800 names, it shows that, large as have been the families of many Emersons, they are comparatively rare.

Finally, let the name increase and multiply, and let no false malthusian doctrines check its spread. Let every bearer of it cherish it honourably as becomes men whose ancestors in remote times were gentlemen of worth (e.g., nobiles), who, though fallen from their good estate, have not depreciated in honour and valour.

CHAPTER II.

Armorial Bearings.

PERHAPS no subject is more misunderstood of the people than Heraldry, and perhaps nothing has led more to snobbishness amongst the middle classes than the legitimate use of coat-armour by the nobility and gentry. To all interested in the subject, we heartily recommend Mr. Fox-Davies' "Armorial Families,"* the first attempt to publish a directory of persons bearing arms with authority; and until all three Colleges of Arms publish official lists of persons entitled to bear arms—great desiderata—Mr. Fox-Davies' book will suffice as the best achievement of the kind in existence.

I shall now, as briefly as possible, for the benefit of my many correspondents, explain the legal aspect of the matter, and I take leave to thank C. H. Athill, Esq., Richmond Herald, for many kind letters of help and advice.

The legal right to bear arms, then, is an honour conferred by the Sovereign only, through the officers of the College of Arms. This honour is conferred on an individual and his direct legitimate lineal descendants (unless otherwise stated in the patent) for ever, by a patent granted by Her Majesty through the Kings of Arms, and descends in the direct line (unless otherwise stated), and not to collaterals. A person, therefore, claiming an existing coat-of-arms must satisfy the officers of the College of Arms by legal proof that he is a legitimate direct descendant in the male line of the original grantee who was the first armiger entitled to the claimed coat by patent granted. The absurdity of persons of the same name as that of an armigerous family using their arms is then apparent, and a man might just as well claim a strange namesake's property because he was of the same name, as claim the arms of a namesake family.

Moreover, a man may be a legal descendant of an armiger long dead, but if he cannot prove, and does not register his descent from the deceased armiger to the satisfaction of the officers of the College, he is no more entitled to use the arms than he would be to inherit property left in Chancery by an ancestor whose relationship he could not or did not prove. Any other person using arms is a snobbish impostor, and the prey of many of the still more dishonest "heraldic stationers" of the baser sort, who would probably sell a fool a spurious title if any one were stupid enough to buy one.

There is much misconception as to the word gentleman. No man is a gentleman unless he be entitled to bear arms, or is legally granted the title, e.g., officers in the army under the rank of captain; and an armiger is the lowest grade in the order of precedence, and all others, no matter what position in life they occupy, do not rank. The word is derived from the Latin gens, or family, as opposed to plebs. An armiger is a man belonging to an officially recognised armigerous family, in fact, a "pedigree man," to use a sporting phrase, whereas all others

(with the exceptions cited) are plebeians, and the loose definitions of the word gentleman as "a man of honour," "of upright character," etc., are all alike fictions. Gentleman is as clearly and legally defined as baronet, duke, etc.

An armiger is per se a gentleman, but not necessarily an esquire, and vice versa an esquire is not always an armiger. An esquire, according to Mr. Fox-Davies (q.v.) is any person whom Her Majesty in her patents addresses as such, e.g., Royal Academicians; but persons whom the government address as esquires are not necessarily such. Ranking as esquires are e.g., Justices of the Peace, Officers in the Army and Navy of the rank of Captain and upwards, etc. Doctors, Barristers, Graduates of the Universities, Clergymen, etc., are not esquires, nor are they gentlemen—though Officers of Her Majesty's Army and Navy under the rank of Captain are styled "gents.," as are Solicitors "by Act of Parliament;" but such have no place in the scale of precedence and do not rank unless they be armigerous.

A man uses the arms or crest or both as granted him or his ancestors. A married woman may use her husband's coat whilst he is alive, but if she becomes a widow she places her husband's arms impaled with her own on a lozenge; the unmarried daughters of an armiger use the arms of their father only, also in a lozenge. And if a man dishonestly assumes arms to which he has no legal claim, an injunction can be taken out against him and he made to pay the costs thereof by the rightful owner of the coat.

By paying a guinea at the Post Office for a licence to use arms many uninformed people think they are entitled to use the bogus or stolen arms by which they proclaim themselves snobs; but this is not so, the revenue authorities merely exact the licence fee from all who claim to bear arms because it is not their duty to enquire into the legality of the arms claimed, and of course the assumption is that only genuine armigers will apply. The licence does not confer a right to arms any more than a gun licence confers a gun.

When the English and Irish Colleges issue official lists of armigers a short Act should be passed compelling the revenue authorities to grant licences to none but persons included in the official list. The Scotch College has already issued such a list. Official lists and a further short Act carrying this into effect and imposing a heavy fine for persons illegally using arms would speedily end these abuses.

Another error is to suppose that the daughter of a man entitled to bear arms who marries a man without arms can continue to use her father's arms. She cannot, and by marrying a plebs loses her right to arms pro tempore. Therefore let all honest men of the name of Emerson avoid the baser sort of "heraldic stationer" like a leper—there is one authority and only one on such matters, and that is the College of Arms.

I shall now proceed to give the arms and pedigrees of every armigerous family of the name of Emerson as recorded at the Colleges of Arms of England, Scotland and Ireland.

(I.)

EMERSON, RALF, GENT., OF FOXTON, COUNTY DURHAM.

(This is the oldest recorded Emerson coat.)

Bears per fesse indented or and vert, on a bend engrailed azure three lions passant argent; crest, a demi-lion rampant vert and bezanté, holding a battle-axe, shaft gules and head argent. This coat was granted to Ralf Emerson, of Foxton, County Durham, 26 Henry VIII. (1535), by Sir Thos. Wall, Garter King of Arms. Appended is certified copy of these arms. No motto or pedigree was registered with the coat. Nearly every armoury has given this coat wrongly—including Burke, Fairbairn and Mr. Fox-Davies. They all give for crest a lion rampant, etc., whereas a demi-lion rampant is correct. Hence the baser sort of "heraldic stationer" has been over and over again selling the arms with the lion rampant crest, and often with Sir Emerson-Tennant's registered motto, to their ignorant, vain or unscrupulous victims, who have plastered this coat all over the country-side and the colonies, as well as in the Republican States of America. And the truth is that at the present moment nobody in the whole wide world is entitled to use these arms. No one knows anything for certain of Ralf of Foxton, no one has yet been able to trace any single Emerson to Foxton, or connect any Emerson family with Foxton, and so far as I am concerned it is not for lack of trying. Days and days of work has this elusive armiger cost me, and yet he has not been conclusively captured. Ralf Emersons abound between 1500 and 1600 in Co. Durham and elsewhere, but I cannot prove the existence of a single Foxton Emerson and my appendix is a hint to the wise. Who was he, then?

The Armorial Bearings of Ralf Emerson, of Foxton, in the Bishopric of Durham, which were granted to him about the year 1535.

That is the question; but before attempting to answer it, let me consider some of the more serious claimants to the arms and their pretensions.

The arms were neither claimed nor disclaimed at the Durham Visitation of 1575; but arms (what arms unknown) were disclaimed by Thomas Emerson, of Darlington, and Brian Emerson, of Eastgate, at the Visitation of 1615. Finally, arms were neither claimed nor disclaimed by Emersons at that of 1666, the last Visitation of the County Durham. Thomas, of Darlington, and Brian, of Eastgate, may have had a right to arms and disclaimed in 1615, so as to escape paying the fees, or they may have been impostors and been disclaimed by the Heralds. In any case, we get no further on, for we do not know what arms they disclaimed. It may have been the Eastgate coat, and it may have been Ralf's coat, or even the Lincolnshire coat; therefore, it is useless to say more on this head.

The next person who must have thought he was related to Ralf, of Foxton, was Arthur Emerson, of Dublin, Gent., who got a grant of arms from the Ulster King of Arms in 1692, in Dublin, and was granted an exemplification, but as no pedigree of him exists, it is useless to consider his claims—if claims they were; and as he was in all likelihood the son of Brian, who was disclaimed in 1615, his position is unenviable. The low state of Irish Heraldry, too, prevents us from attaching any importance to this exemplification. (Vide our remarks on this head under Sir James Emerson-Tennent.)

James Emerson, afterwards Sir James Emerson-Tennent, sent an unproved, but short, for all that, pedigree to Burke, and used Ralf of Foxton's arms without authority; but in 1867, when he was knighted and compelled to prove his right to arms or take a new coat he only registered his father, an Irishman, and was allowed an exemplification, and most wrongly so, for he never proved himself to be, or gave any facts to show that he had the slightest claim to be considered even of Durham origin, which Arthur Emerson aforesaid must have done (vide Patent). I find that Sir James Emerson-Tennent's brother, who had no right whatever to arms, used Ralf of Foxton's arms. Sir James Emerson-Tennent never gave the slightest proof that he knew who was his grandfather, and yet he talked of coming from a Foxton man living in 1535 in County Durham; and, as I have said before, the state of Irish Heraldry prevents us from attaching any importance to the exemplification.

Next, the Emersons of Easby Hall must be cited; but since they have not given any legal proof of descent beyond their ancestor, James Emerson, granted arms in 1845, a Yorkshireman, their claims are obviously worthless; and I am pleased to say J. J. Emerson, Esq., LL.D., the present representative of the family, does not claim any descent from Ralf, of Foxton. Moreover, the grant to James Emerson in 1845 is based on the Lincolnshire coat—why, it is impossible to state.

And lastly, the Emersons of Ipswich, Mass., U.S.A., or rather the lineal descendants of Thomas Emerson and Elizabeth his wife, who appeared in Ipswich, Mass., in 138, claim the arms, and are demonstrably by a long way the oldest claimants to the coat, and by a long way the most likely to turn out true heirs to the coat if the matter ever be cleared up; but at present this family has no right to use these or any arms, not having given legal proof of their descent from Ralf, of Foxton, armiger. The probabilities are in their favour, and that is all, but they are strongly in their favour.

Thomas Emerson, who emigrated to Massachusetts about 1638 (if a lineal descendant of Ralf, armiger), would probably be either son or grandson (most likely grandson), which is getting close. He was a man of substance (vide his will) and a strong Puritan. If he had not really the right to the arms, at least his family knew of their existence at that period, which points to their having originated in Durham as tradition has it. One member of the family visited the College of Arms in 1709 and carried back a correct emblazoning of the arms.

Mr. C. H. Athill has kindly supplied me with the following notes left amongst Mr. Dale's papers. Mr. Dale was Suffolk Herald Extraordinary. It seems the Rev. John Emerson was anxious to obtain information concerning an Atkinson family.

DEAR SIR,—The bearer, the Reverend Mr. John Emerson, lately come from New England, wants some information out of your office. I beg you would use him as my friend and you will very much oblige,

Dear Sir, Yor. most obedt. humble Servant,
(Signed) HENRY NEWMAN.

To Robert Dale, Esqr., at the Heraldry Office.

Note in the handwriting of the said Robert Dale—
Mr. Emerson, at the Golden Acorn in Bell Alley, Coleman Street.

The drawing attested by Mr. Dale of the College of Arms is here reproduced with a certificate of how it came into the present possessor's hands. This emblazonment with certificate hangs in the rooms of the New England Historical Society, at Boston. Somewhat similar arms were again, in 1712, carved on the tombstone of Nathaniel Emerson (Thomas' youngest son), who was born in England and buried in Ipswich, Mass., U.S.A. The tombstone stands in the old Ipswich burying ground to-day, and herewith is a photograph of the stone erected in 1712. But to judge by the crest it was done from an earlier drawing than Dale's—the family seems to have possessed two or three other drawings of the coat.*

Samuel Phillips, goldsmith, of Salem, married Mary Emerson, May 6, 1687. She was the dau. of Rev. John and Ruth (Symonds) Emerson, of Gloucester, and granddaughter of Dep. Gov. Symonds, of Ipswich.

This coat of arms I obtained from Miss Harriet Russell, of North Yarmouth (Maine), who was great granddaughter of Rev. Samuel Phillips, of Andover, who was son of the above-named Samuel Phillips, of Salem. Harriet Russell died at North Yarmouth, May 3, 1851, aged 83.

This paper was obtained in 1849.

Next Sir John Evans, K.C.B., the noted numismatist, of Nash Mills, Hemel Hempstead, bought, some years ago, from a German dealer, the "medal" here reproduced, bearing Ralf's arms. The Richmond Herald, to whom I submitted the photograph, by the "mantling" places the date of the work as between 1650 and 1700, but nearer 1650 than 1700. This "work," for it is not a "medal" in the true sense of the word, was evidently done from an authentic drawing and

OBVERSE and REVERSE of a Silver Medal or portion of lid of drinking cup, bought from a German dealer by Sir J. Evans, K.C.B., in Germany. This Medal bears Rolf of Foxton's arms. Its probable date is the latter half of the seventeenth century. The Medal is tooled work.

may have been made to order for Thomas of Ipswich, who died 1666. And lastly, Mr. Edward D. Emerson, of Waltham, Mass., a direct descendant of Rev. John Emerson, of Topsfield (who was the son of Edward Emerson and Rebecca Waldo, who was the son of Rev. Joseph Emerson and Eliz. Bulkeley, who was the son of Thomas Emerson, of Ipswich), has kindly sent me the two photographs here reproduced of a beautiful old silver cup which he has inherited from the Rev. John Emerson, of Topsfield (Topsfield was the northern parish of Ipswich, Mass.). Mr. Emerson says the tradition he received with the cup is that it belonged to an ancestor of Thomas Emerson, of Ipswich, and was taken to Massachusetts by him in 1638. On the bottom are the initials ^EW.M. the old way of "marking" William and Mary or Margaret Emerson, and besides these initials are the letters I.D. in a heart, which Mr. Emerson suggests stand for “John Daniel,” who was registered as a goldsmith in 1530—50. There seems to be no hall-mark on the cup by which its age can be accurately fixed. Mr. Emerson has also a chair and a drawing of arms descended from Rev. John Emerson, of Topsfield, Mass., U.S.A., in whose widow’s will, proved 1790, the cup is devised to her son, Joseph Emerson, as an heirloom. It has been suggested that the “medal” referred to above was part of the lid of a drinking cup, but we have no proof to link the two. It is worth while pointing out in this connection that a possible Ralf, of Foxton, had a son William who died in 1624, but whose administration only unfortunately exists. Mr. E. D. Emerson suggests the William as identical with the Southwark William who died 1575,—but his wife was Anne. But it is noteworthy that his grandson Henry had a son Thomas of whom I have no further record, and a son William whose wife Mary died at St. Botolph, Aldgate, 1639—William’s brother Humphrey taking out an administration of his property until William “should return from abroad” (vide pedigree of Emerson of County Surrey (Southwark) for further details).

All this is not proof, I am aware, and does not establish the claim, but when one considers all the circumstances, the fanatic puritanism of Thomas, of Ipswich, and therefore his wilful suppression of all such vanities as coat-armour, the fact that he was a man of substance, and also that he or his family knew of the existence of Ralf’s arms and thought it worth while to get a certificate of them from the College of Arms (a document which they in their simplicity may have taken as proof that they were entitled to the arms) and then carved them on the tombstone in 1712, and that his friends were Major-General Dennison and Deputy-Governor Symonds (both mentioned in his will), his son John marrying Deputy-Governor Symonds’ daughter Ruth, and his sons, the Rev. Joseph and Rev. John, were well educated—the balance of evidence is in favour of the assumption that Thomas Emerson, of Ipswich, Mass., was a direct lineal descendant of Ralf Emerson, armiger. With these facts we must leave the case, merely adding that if “prescriptive right” held in Heraldry (which it does not) certainly the descendants of Thomas, of Ipswich, would have the right to the arms, as they at least give proofs of having used them for nearly two hundred years, and before any other existing family, but since they cannot prove the right, not any of them has any right to use the arms any more than anybody else, and so Ralf of Foxton’s arms belong to-day to nobody. And this fact American Emersons should carefully lay to heart, for any one using them is performing an illegal act and branding himself imposter. And if the baser sort of heraldic stationer sells these arms to anyone as “his arms” it would be wise to prosecute that person for “obtaining money under false pretences.”

It would be a work entailing the expenditure of much time to trace all Ralfs of the period, nevertheless many a Ralf have I followed in vain, but I shall omit to deal with absolutely futile researches.

As Ralf Emerson, of Westgate Castle, is mentioned in the 1615 Visitation of County Durham. I shall chronicle him at once as an “impossible.” He was Ralf, of Witton Gilbert, yeoman,^o according to Cursitor Rolls; doubtless a forest officer of some sort at Stanhope, for Westgate Castle was not a private residence, but the official residence of the Weardale forest officers, where the tenants paid the customary “jock pennies” and where other forest business of a like kind was transacted. The matter stands thus:—

This Ralf Emerson made an inventory of Temperley’s effects in 1577, † was in the muster ‡ of 1569 as a foot soldier in coat of mail armed with a lance (a retainer of the second sort). He had another daughter, Anna, buried Jan. 1st, 1581. § For fuller details vide the pedigree of the Ludwell Emersons, of Co. Durham.

* Cursitor Rolls, 58 (86), Roll No. I, of Matthew Hutton, Nov. 8, 35 Eliz. Emerson, Ralf, yeoman. Has license to alienate to Anthony Meaburne and Catherine his wife, a messuage, land, etc., in Witton Gilbert.

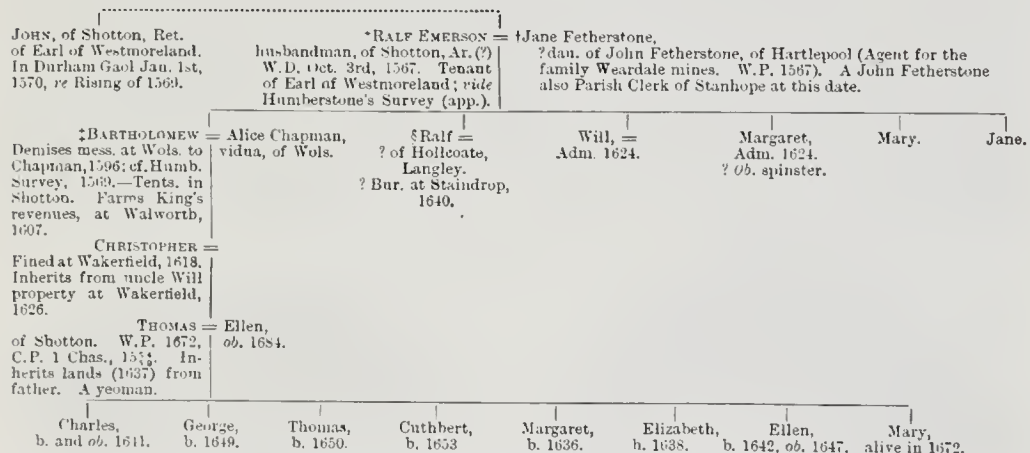

† Surtees’ Society, Pub. Wills and Inventories. ‡ Muster Roll, State Papers, Dom., Eliz. (1569).

§ Witton Gilbert Register.

I have eliminated this Ralf merely because, since he is mentioned in the Durham Visitation of 1615 under Wilkinson as of Westgate Castle, I know some people think he was Ralf armiger, and I have seen him in some genealogical publications described as Ralf Emerson, esquire, of Westgate Castle. He was a yeoman.

The only Ralf and in fact the only family of Emersons I have been in any way able to connect with Foxton, are the Emersons of Shotton. Now there are two Shottons in Durham, but evidently Shotton in Sedgefield Parish is meant, and since Shotton and Foxton form one township (Surtees' "History of Durham," etc), there is reason for going into the history of this family, as possibly the Ralf, of Shotton, I refer to was the armiger, but it must be remembered I have no conclusive proof to offer that he was the armiger. However, as Shotton and Foxton form one township, a native who was not sure of the boundaries might easily give his address as of Foxton or Shotton, and I constantly hear to-day the same sort of mistake made. I live in Oulton Parish, across the bridge is Carlton Colville, but I constantly hear people say indiscriminately they live at Oulton, or Oulton Broad, and Oulton Broad Post Office is in Carlton Colville Parish, hence considerable confusion; and so it may have been with Foxton and Shotton.

The earliest record I have of an Emerson in Shotton is of Ralf Emerson, of Shotton, whose will is dated 1567, but when he died is unknown as the date of probate is not preserved. A copy of the will is in the Probate Registry at Durham, and I give it in full verbatim et literatim in the Appendix. Now Bartholomew (his son) is a most uncommon name amongst the Durham Emersons, so I followed him a little distance but soon lost sight of him. I have had all the available registers of the surrounding country-side searched, and give herewith the result in pedigree form so far as I have been able to trace the family from various records.

* Thos. Neville, of Raby, gent., is witness to Ralf's will in 1567. This Thos. Neville's will, dated Feb. 11th, 1570, bequeaths legacies to John Emerson, of Shotton, and Lancelot Emerson, miller.

† A John Fetherstone or Fetherstonhalgh and W. Stob's are, in 1520, sureties for Alice Hardgill, wife of Robert Emerson, of Burnhope (vide key pedigree). Qy. Is Ralf Senior son of Robert and Alice Hardgill?

‡ In 1607, Bartholomew is evidently living at Walworth and is farmer of the King's lands (vide App.).

§ In Humberstone's Survey (1599), a Ralf Emerson is a tenant at will of Holloate in Langley. Qy. Is he this Ralf?

All the registers in which this family are begin after 1635, e.g., Staindrop, where Ralf was buried, Cockfield, Wols., Witton-le-Wear, etc., etc.

By the Staindrop Register we see a Ralf Emerson, of Shotton, buried April, 1640. Of course this is no proof that this is Ralf, the son of Ralf of the will, but it is possible.

There are many Emersons, of Shotton, later on. They may have migrated from elsewhere, descended from the John, of Shotton, the Emerson mentioned in Ralf's will, or from some of Ralf's sons. In this connection those interested should study the Staindrop Register, and the registers^o of Cockfield, Sedgefield, Wolsingham, Witton-le-Wear, Hamsterly, Auckland, Barnard Castle and Stanhope. I have been unable to connect Ralf, of Shotton, with any of them on sure or even probable grounds, so I have left it. Ralf, of Shotton, was a tenant of the Nevilles, and probably a parker or forester in their service, and John, of Shotton, in gaol in Durham in Jan., 1570, was in all probability the same John mentioned in Ralf's will, and probably his brother. On the whole I am inclined to doubt that Ralf, of Shotton, was the armiger, because of his description as a "husbandman," of his grandson's description as a "yeoman," and since none of the family claimed arms at the 1575 Visitation of Co. Durham, and we know many of them were living there at the time. I think the real Ralf armiger will be found in some other part of the country and that he was merely a temporary resident at Foxton when the arms were granted to him—possibly in connection with the dissolution of the Foxton Knights Hospitallers, the owners of Foxton Manor until 1534.

Ralf, the son of Ralf, was possibly Ralf, of Brancepeth, a copy of whose will, dated 1581 (no date of probate), is in the Durham Probate Registry. He left a wife, Isabel (probably Isabel Chopling), and two sons, John and George, and a daughter Mary, who married Nicholas Fetherstonhaugh—possibly a cousin. This Ralf held half of Stanley Manor with the said Nicholas Fetherstonhaugh, was a retainer of the better sort in Muster Roll, 1569, being a light horseman, armed and horsed, possibly a forester to the Earl of Westmoreland in succession to his father. He remained loyal to the Queen, however. He was sent as a messenger to Thos. Cromwell, Secretary of State to Henry VIII., by the Earl of Westmoreland from Brancepeth. Now curiously enough a John Emerson, his son in all probability, follows Lady Westmoreland into Norfolk after the failure of the rebellion and takes a message to Queen Elizabeth from Lady Westmoreland from Fremingham. The question is, did this John remain in Norfolk and have a family, for in 1600—1700 we find numerous Emersons at and near Fremingham. I cannot prove that Ralf, of Brancepeth, was the son of Ralf, of Shotton, nor do I think this possible—(1) because they were both in well-to-do positions; (2) because of their connection with the Nevilles; (3) because of their near relationship to the Fetherstonhaughs.

In Weardale two quite modern Emerson families have ventured to practice this unfortunate heraldic snobbery in religious edifices.* In St. John's Chapel is a memorial window, with Ralf of Foxton's arms, to Edward Emerson, who died in 1858 at Hotts, near St. John's Chapel, and a brass in memory of Thomas Emerson, of Newhouse, who died in 1817. In one case the arms are wrongly emblazoned, the or and vert being transposed. It is needless to say that neither of these persons had any right whatsoever to arms, and the minister in charge of St. John's Chapel would be doing a good service to heraldry and honesty if he were to insist on their instant removal. Such monuments do but bring ridicule on the families who erected them and on the innocent dead lying beneath.

EMERSON, ALEXANDER, GENT., OF SERBY, CO. LINCOLN.

Bears a field azure on a bend argent three torteaux gules. No crest or motto. The Richmond Herald informs me "that it is not known to whom these arms were originally granted, but that they were allowed to Alexander Emerson, of Serby, Co. Lincoln, in 1634 (vide official pedigree), and that the family have never established a right to a crest." It is a pre-Tudor coat, then, and probably the oldest authentic Emerson coat. Here are Messrs. Burke, Fairbairn & Co. misleading us again. They give as the crest of this family clouds issuant rays of the sun all proper, and the family never had and has no right whatever to a crest of any kind. No motto was registered either at the Visitations of 1634 and 1666.

Herewith are given a copy of the arms and certified pedigrees of the family as recorded at the College of Arms. The family does not seem in recent years to have registered their pedigree, but I have given their unregistered pedigree under the Emersons of Co. Lincoln. All that is not given in the certified copy herewith I will not vouch for, as no proofs were supplied with the statements, and to obtain the right to use these arms the present legal descendants of Alexander Emerson, of Serby (1634), must register their pedigrees to date. I have made some remarks on this coat under Thomas Emerson, of Bradbury and Blackfriars (q.v. under Emersons of Co. Surrey). It will be observed from the official pedigrees that one of the family changed his name to Amcotts, and received a knighthood for Parliamentary services, but he went out in female issue.

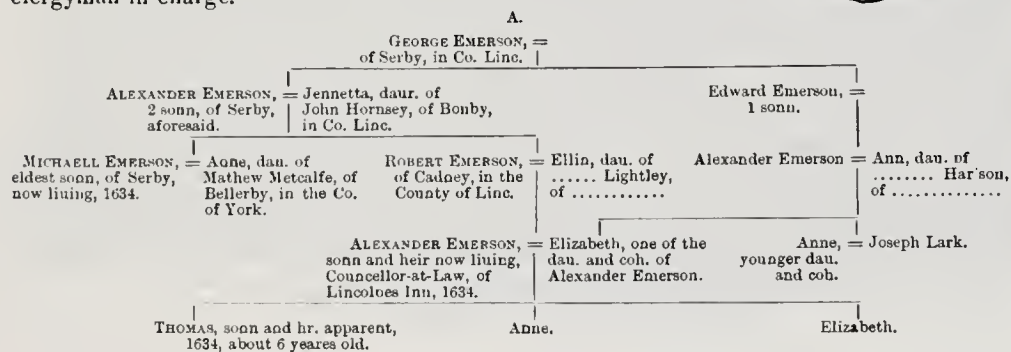

* "All Around Stanhope," W. M. Egglestone, p. 176.

I have endeavoured to trace the full number of direct lineal descendants of Alexander Emerson, armiger, 1634, who would be entitled to bear the arms now, could they prove legal and legitimate descent from him. Certainly they are not numerous, as many of his descendants died without issue or fell into female issue. This old family of Emersons are probably descended from John Em^oson, gent., of Folkingham, Co. Lincoln, whose will (p. 1541) is published in the Appendix, whose cousin William, of London, is mentioned in the will, which William was probably the founder of the Southwark Emersons—an important family fully described under the Emersons of Co. Surrey (q.v.). It was a member of this Surrey family who carved his arms on the Durham Cross, 1612, and on the Kail Cross at Newcastle at the same period, viz., Thomas Emerson, who was a barrister and steward of the Earl of Somerset for the Brancepeth and Raby properties.

The Lincolnshire family probably came from Durham via Yorkshire. Alexander Emerson, to whom the arms were granted, was a distinguished chancellor-at-law, and a man of large family, he having married thrice—firstly, his cousin Elizabeth Emerson; secondly, Esther Metcalf, daughter of Sir J. Metcalf, of Louth Park; thirdly, Frances Kelke, daughter of R. Kelke, ar. I discovered the two latter marriages, and the Richmond Herald kindly compared the signatures of the two Alexanders signing their pedigrees at the College and says they are undoubtedly the same writing, which corroborates what I had arrived at by a study of the records.

Many of the family settled in Nottinghamshire, and for further particulars see the Emersons of Co. Lincoln and Co. Surrey. To the latter branch of the family, however, there is no record of the arms having been allowed, though they used and claimed them, and some of them are described in public documents (as the Close Rolls, q.v.) as armigers.

A family of Emotsons (barbers), originating at Thorney Abbey, married into this Lincolnshire family and changed their names and impudently assumed the arms, but they have no right whatever to them. I have given their pedigree in the Emersons of Co. Lincoln—some of these Emotsons being now called Eminson—both Emotson and Eminson being as distinct from Emerson as are Jones or Smith. As it stands, then, nobody at present may use these arms, as pedigrees of the legitimate heirs have not been registered to date—the College ignoring the existence of all persons not registered; but the legitimate heirs (some of whom are given in the Emersons of Co. Somerset) could with very little trouble and expense register up to date, and I trust they will do so. These arms, too, are carved on tombs in Burnham Thorpe churchyard (Co. Norfolk) in memory of various members of a certain Isaac Emerson's family. The tombs are dated 1737, 1769, 1786, 1806 and 1807. But I regard these people as imposters, vide pedigree of Lincolnshire Emersons, in which none of their names occur. In Gunthorpe churchyard there is a slab with the same arms in memory of a certain Charles Thomas Emerson and his family, but I can find no authority for this family using them, nor are they entitled to them, and being quite modern they should be at once removed by the clergyman in charge.

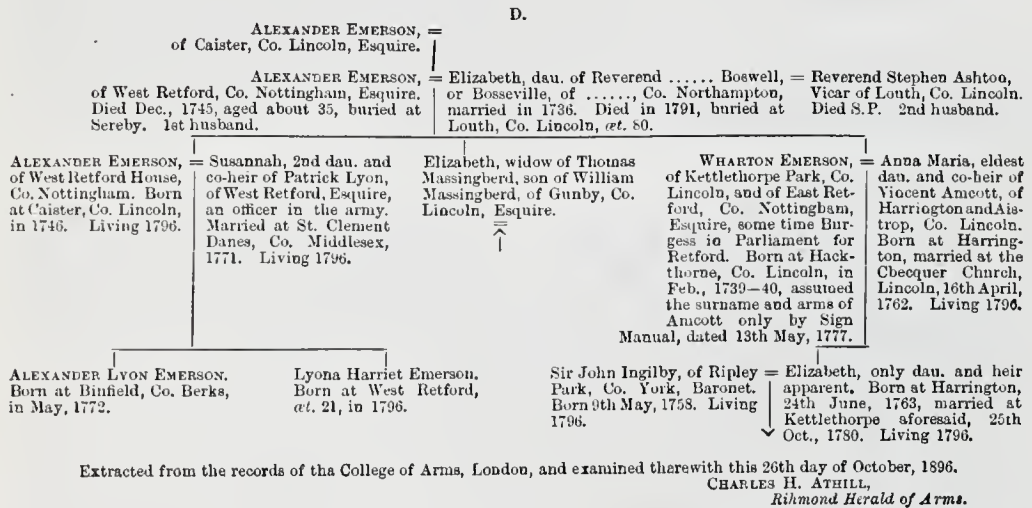

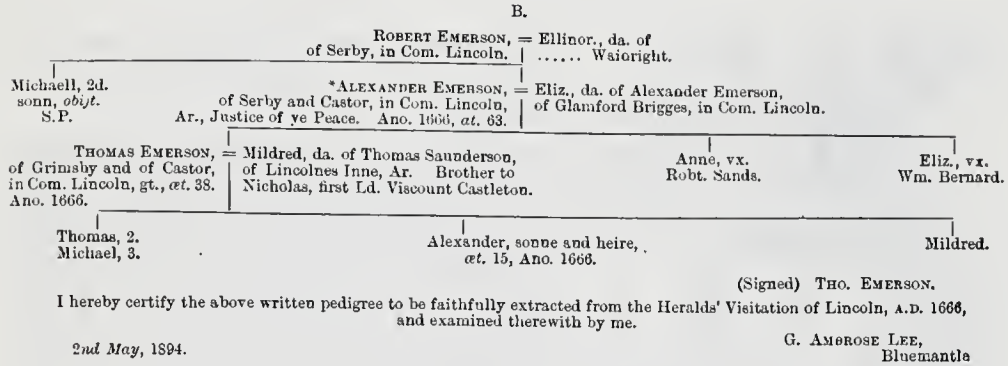

(Signed) MI. EMERSON. 1634.

I hereby certify the above written pedigrees to be faithfully extracted from the Heralds' Visitation of Lincoln, A.D. 1634, and examined therewith by me.

2nd May, 1894.

G. AMBROSE LEE, Bluemantle.

In the collections of the College of Arms, London, are to be found the following items concerning this family:—

Pulman MS.—Marriage of Emerson and Wharton. Brooke MS.—Marriage of Emerson-Amcotts. Courthorpe MS.—Pedigrees of Emerson from Visitation of Lincoln to 1808 and a pedigree from Visitation of Lincoln down to Elizabeth Emerson, wife of Sir John Ingelby, Bart. Larken MS.—A careful pedigree of the Lincolnshire Emersons.

Burke gives a Royal descent of this family through the Lushingtons. I do not know how much of it could be legally proven, but it is printed elsewhere.

In the Records of the College of Arms, London, is a Royal licence for the change of name, Emerson to Amcotts.

EMERSON, ARTHUR, GENT., OF DUBLIN, IRELAND.

Bears: vide grant herewith reproduced ; no pedigree or motto registered.

To all and Singular as well Noblemen and Gentlemen as others to whom these presents shall come I Sir Richard Carney Knt: Ulster King of Armes of all Ireland send Greeting. Know yee that whereas it hath bene the most antient custome of all well governed Kingdoms that ye desearving acts of worthy persons should be recommended to posterity by Sundry Monuments of their good desearts amongst which the chiefest and most usuall have been the bearing of Signes and Tokens on shields commonly caled Armes which were diversely distributed according to the quality of the person meriting the same to the intent that such persons as have done Service to their Prince or Country either in Warr or Peace may not only receive due honour in their owne lives, but that the same may remaine as an hereditary mark of honor to their posterity for ever. And whereas Arthur Emerson late of Durham Gent., and now of the City of Dublin having requested me to make search in my Office for what Armes he may lawfully beare to distinguish him without prejudice to any other of his name or family and upon search thereof I finde he may lawfully beare these Armes and Crest following viz: Party per fess Dauncette Or and Vert, on a Bend Engrailed Gules between Two Roundles Counterchanged 3 Lyons Passant Argent, and for his Crest on a Helmet and Wreath of his colours A Demy Lyon Vert, charged with 5 Besants, holding a Pole-Ax, Or, Mantled Gules, Doubled Argent as in the margint above depicted more plainly doth appeare. Which Armes and Crest and every part & parcel thereof, I the said Ulster King of Armes by the Powre and Authority to me granted under the Great Seale of Ireland do hereby give, grant, ratifie, and confirm unto the said Arthur Emerson and his Posterity for ever, by these presents the same to use, beare, and enjoy at all times, and upon all occasions giving their due difference according to the Law of Armes, without lett, trouble or controlement of any manuer of person or persons whatsoever. In full Testimony whereof I have hereunto Subscribed my Name and Title, and affixed the Seale of my Office this tenth day of May Anno Domini 1692.

CHARLES H. ATHILL,
Richmond Herald.

This exemplification was granted to Arthur Emerson, gent., of Dublin, in 1692.

From this grant we gather Arthur Emerson came from Co. Durham. It would be idle to spend much time in conjecturing from what Durham family he originated, but I would venture to suggest he may have been the son of Brian Emerson, who was disclaimed in 1615. For by an indenture in the Book of Merchant Adventurers, Newcastle, Arthur Emerson, the son of Bryan Emerson, yeoman, of the Eastgate, in Co. Durham, was on 20th of April, 1613, apprenticed to William Jennison the elder, merchant adventurer, for 10 years. Indenture dated 20th of June, 1612. Arthur finally became a merchant adventurer, and possibly went to Dublin to set up business. He registered^c no pedigree, or at least there is none on record at the College of Arms in Dublin, so that his arms, too, are nobody's to-day, and any Irishman imagining himself to be a descendant must prove his pedigree back to the grantee, which should be no difficult matter if there are any of his descendants, and to such I would suggest continuing the search for the link that binds Arthur to Brian in the direction I have indicated, and if the disclaimer and Arthur were father and son then my key pedigree will help the searchers on a step or two higher, for the disclaimer of 1615 was always well to do, at least for those days.—Vide my subsequent notes on the disclaimers. Though this Arthur Emerson, of Dublin, was granted an exemplification there is no evidence of any kind that he was related to Ralf, of Foxton, indeed the evidence is all the other way—but I have remarked upon this elsewhere. I cannot find his will at Dublin, but I have record of his daughter marrying Sir Anthony Percy, Lord Mayor of Dublin, in 1699.

* On the authority of the Richmond Herald.

* Died without issue.—P. H. E.

It will be seen the Emerson portion of this coat is an exemplification of Ralf of Foxton's arms. Sir James Emerson-Tennent evidently could not register pedigree beyond his father, yet it being the Irish College of Arms an exemplification of an English family's arms was granted to him. The low state of Irish and Scotch heraldry is well known and this is another unfortunate example of it. James Emerson took the name of Emerson-Tennent and was granted arms by Sir John Bernard Burke, Ulster King of Arms. His arms, patent and certified pedigree are printed above. The only son, William William, died without issue, so that beyond quarterings on the female side this coat is already extinct, though heraldic stationers have been supplying the late Sir James' registered motto, "Deus Protector noster," freely with Ralf of Foxton's coat and a spurious crest belonging to nobody, to whomsoever chose to pay them for their dishonesty.

There is no record whatever of Sir James Emerson-Tennent's origin and will; I can find only two Irish wills before 1700. It is to be hoped that Irish Heralds will never grant an exemplification of Ralf of Foxton's arms to an Irishman, but invent fresh coats for new grantees. Nothing can be more calculated to bring heraldry into disrepute than such practices.

EMERSON, JAMES, ESQUIRE, OF STOKESLEY, CO. YORKSHIRE.

Bears, azure on a bend raguly or a hurt between two annulets of the field a bordure wavy of the second. Crest, a demi-lion guardant erased azure holding between the paws a hawk's lure and gorged with a plain collar or.... Motto, "Fideliter et honeste." This exemplification of the Lincolnshire arms was allowed to James Emerson, of Stokesley, by patent dated Nov. 2nd, 1845. A drawing of the arms is given herewith, and the legal pedigree as registered in the College of Arms is appended.

JAMES EMERSON, = Ann Dorothy, only child of Eleazer Biggins, of Stokesley aforesaid. Married at Hartlepool, Co. Durham, 30th July, 1846. Died 17th May, 1880, buried in the Mausoleum at Easby Hall.

Born 21st July, 1877. Bapt. at Redcar aforesaid, 22nd Aug. same year. Living unmarried 1897.

Constance Ann Dorothy.
Born 4th Aug., 1878. Bapt. at Redcar 7th same month. Living unmarried 1897.

Extracted from the records of the College of Arms, London, and examined therewith this 25th day of June, 1897.

CHARLES H. ATHILL,
Richmond Herald of Arms.

Those entitled to bear these arms at present are:—James John Emerson, LL.D. (Cantab.), J.P., Esq., Easby Hall, Gt. Ayton, Co. York; Eleazer Biggins Emerson, B.A. (Cantab.), J.P., Esq., of Tollesby Hall; Charles Arthur Emerson, gent., of Manor House, Deighton, North-allerton; and their issue as per annexed pedigree. For a fuller account of this Yorkshire sporting family see under Emersons of Co. York.

NOTE I.—In the Visitation of Yorkshire, 1563—4, is recorded "Mawde, dau. of Jane and William Percehay, wyff to Lyonell Emerson." I have been unable to connect this Lyonell Emerson to any family.

NOTE II.—In the Visitation of Gloucestershire, 1623, is recorded the following short pedigree:—

Walter Strange. = Elizabeth.
 Gertrude, u. Thomas Emerson.

I have been unable definitely to identify this Thomas Emerson; he was evidently the "Filacer" mentioned in John Farewell's will, and was in all probability one of the Southwark family (q.v.).

(VI.)

EMERSON, PETER HENRY, GENT., OF OULTON,
 CO. SUFFOLK.

Bears, per fesse nebuly or and vert, on a bend invected azure guttée d'eau a battle-axe between two lions passant argent. Mantling or and vert. Crest, on a wreath of the colours, in front of a demi-lion vert charged on the shoulders with two burrlets dancettée or, holding in the dexter paw and resting on the sinister paw a battle axe erect, a club fessewise entwined with a serpent proper. Motto, "Audacter et Hilare."

This exemplification of Ralf of Foxton's arms was allowed to P. H. Emerson, gent., M.B., B.A. (Cantab.), by patent dated Sept. 24th, 1897. Dr. P. H. Emerson and his children alone are entitled to use this coat. For further particulars of this family see following notes and the Emersons of Co. Suffolk.

Herewith certified copy of drawing of arms and legal pedigree, as registered at the College of Arms, London, and reprint of original grant.

On the back of the Patent is written the following:—

Recorded in the College of Arms, London.
 EDWARD BELLASIS (Lancaster and Registrar). Passed by CHARLES H. ATHILL, Richmond Herald.

In the drawing "depicted in the margin" the mantling is or and vert, and the motto registered is "Audacter et Hilare." will there is no description of him, but "his faithful friends," Hon. Samuel Symonds,* Deputy-Governor, and Major-General Denison are appointed overseers and a son James "over these" is mentioned. I have often wondered if this James were Lieut.-Colonel James Emerson, of Tangiers, who died at Tangiers—W. P. in Principal Register, 1664—in which he left a wife Lydia and a daughter Lydia, who married Stubbings, a citizen of London. This Lieut.-Colonel James Emerson I have been so far unable to connect with any family, and he may be the man referred to in the will who is to receive a legacy "if he shall come over into this country." Thomas' inventory was valued at £251 3s. = £1255 15s. of our money, and considering that he had already given his sons lands, etc., this was a good sum of money for the period and for the colonies, where land was of course comparatively cheap. The inventory gives no utensils or implements indicating any trade or profession, but to judge from the valuation of the furniture the house must have been well furnished for the times, as "books and bibels" are valued at £2. He was buried at Ipswich, Mass., U. S. A. His eldest son, the Rev. Joseph Emerson, of Mendon, was admitted a freeman of Ipswich, Dec., 1648. He married Elizabeth Woodmansy, a daughter of Mr. Robt. and Margaret Woodmansy, of Boston and Ipswich. Mr. Woodmansy was a schoolmaster at Boston and held land at Ipswich. It is probable he was one of the ninety University men who emigrated to Massachusetts Colony between 1620 and 1640. The Rev. Joseph had two children by this marriage, Joseph, Jun., and James. In 1652 Elizabeth, his wife, had inherited land from her father, Mr. Robt. Woodmansy, and the Rev. Joseph (who is known to have been a minister as early as 1648) sold the land to his father, Mr. Thomas Emerson, the deed being dated Sept. 14th, 1652. In 1653 he was called as a minister to Wells, Maine, and took the freeman's oath there in July, 1653. It is not known exactly when he left Ipswich for Wells, Maine, where his income was £65 per annum in cash, together with a subscription from York, Maine, and the parishioners were to give sundry help. But dissension arose in the Church between the Massachusetts and Maine party and the Rev. Joseph left, being a strong adherent of the Massachusetts party. So bitter was the fight that the Massachusetts government soon afterwards disbanded the Church. The Rev. Joseph's two sons, Joseph (mentioned in his grandfather's will dated 1653) and James, were probably born at Wells, Maine, but not certainly as Professor B. K. Emerson says, and since the early Ipswich records are lost, the Wells records have no record of such births and the York records were burnt, the matter will probably never be cleared up. It is possible the Rev. Joseph still held some property in Maine after he left, for his grandson Joseph held some land at Falmouth, Maine—Falmouth having been formerly Wells. Professor B. K. Emerson says that after leaving Wells (1664) he went as first minister to Milton, Massachusetts, and was dismissed for asking for an increase of salary in view of his approaching second marriage, which would lead me to conclude his first wife died in Maine. Professor B. K. Emerson says he had a daughter born at Milton called Lucy Ann, b. on 2nd Oct., 1667, by his first wife, Elizabeth Woodmansy, but he offers no proof whatever of his statement, and since he says he was dismissed for asking for an increase of salary in view of his second marriage and since we know that he married his second wife, Elizabeth Bulkeley, daughter of Rev. Edw. Bulkeley, of Concord, and granddaughter of Rev. Peter Bulkeley, first minister of Concord, on Dec. 7th, 1665, at Concord, † Professor B. K. Emerson is obviously at sea. The fact is Lucy Ann, if his daughter and born at Milton, Massachusetts, was the first child of his second marriage with Elizabeth Bulkeley, and that he was not dismissed at all for asking for an increase of salary in view of his approaching marriage. On Dec. 1st, 1669, he "settled, through the interest of the Bulkeleys," as minister of Mendon, at a salary of £45 (bettering Dr. Primrose by £5) and various contributions. Dr. Canfield sent me the agreement which is printed in Professor B. K. Emerson's book. The Rev. Joseph Emerson remained minister at Mendon until the town was partially destroyed by Indians, when he retired to Concord, where he died the 3rd of Nov., 1679, † and not the 3rd of Jan., 1680, as stated by Professor B. K. Emerson. He was buried at Concord, but no gravestone remains. He died intestate and the inventory of his goods is dated Oct., 1680. The inventory includes several parcels of land in Mendon, books to the value of £18, plate £10, etc., and making a total, after paying debts, of £129 7s. = £646 15s. of our money, not bad for a parson passing rich on £45 per annum. His widow married Captain John Brown.

The next son, Rev. John Emerson † was born in England in 1635 and died at Gloucester, Massachusetts, 2nd Dec., 1700. He married Ruth Symonds, daughter of Hon. Samuel Symonds, Deputy-Governor. He graduated B.A. at Harvard College in 1656, Oct. 21, and M.A. 1659, and was ordained Oct. 6th, 1663. Was first minister of Gloucester all his life at a salary of £60 per annum. He also owned a house and saw and grist mills at Gloucester, and three farms (one 250 acres, one 600 acres) at Ipswich. His will is dated 3rd Feb., 1697—8, and was probated Dec. 23rd, 1700. He names his only son John and daughters Ruth (Newman), Martha (Cogswell), Mary (Phillips), from whom Rev. Phillips Brooks, Bishop of Massachusetts, and Wendell Phillips, and through them Oliver Wendell Holmes, are descended.

His only son John Emerson, of Salem and Ipswich, was born at Ipswich, Mass., 14 May, 1670, and died June 21st, 1732. He graduated at Harvard, 1689. He married Mary Batter, and was minister of Newcastle, N. H. In 1712 he went to England for his health, and was received at Court by Queen Anne, who, in admiration, became a patron of his church at Newcastle, and sent frequent gifts to it. He was a handsome and cultured man, and unfortunately, left no male issue, his only son dying as a baby. His daughter Ann married Captain Greenleaf. So the second son of Thomas, of Ipswich, John, finally went out in female issue in the third generation.

The next son of Thomas, of Ipswich, Nathaniel, died at Ipswich in 1712, et. 82. On his tombstone Ralf of Foxton's arms were carved (vide Chapter on Heraldry). He married Sarah, who died in 1670. Nathaniel lived in the Homestead and farmed his lands—the Turkey Shore Farm. He married secondly Lydia Wells, a widow, who died in 1716. He lived in Ipswich (Chebacco Parish). He left a large family—Elizabeth (King); John (1654—1712), m. S. Carter; Nathaniel, 1657—1738, m. Martha Woodward; Sarah, 1659; Thomas, 1671—1738, m. 1685 Philippa Perkins; Hannah (Glazier).

Concerning the son James "over the seas" we know nothing.

Elizabeth, the daughter of Thomas, of Ipswich, married J. Fuller, of Ipswich, Mass. This family of Fullers is reported to have come from Topcroft, in Norfolk, in England (not Toperton, as Professor B. K. Emerson has it); but no evidence is given by Professor B. K. Emerson, who also gives two more children of Thomas, of Ipswich, but does not support his contention by a particle of evidence. He says there was a son Thomas, who married an Elizabeth, and died in 1653 before his father sine prole, and a daughter Sarah, who died in 1640 (Boston Record). Professor B. K. Emerson does not quote the entry in the Boston Records, or prove the identity of the parents, Thomas, of Ipswich, and the Thomas of the Boston record; so it is unsupported. As for the son Thomas who marries Elizabeth and dies sine prole, I have never seen a reference to any such son in any of the records collected and supplied to me by Dr. Canfield for purposes of registering the pedigree at the College of Arms; and though I have written to Professor B. K. Emerson and Captain Gordon, Secretary of the N. E. Historical Society, I have had no proof offered me. Mr. Gordon tells me he was a baker and sold a farm in 1650. At any rate, according to Professor B. K. Emerson, he died sine prole, and if he was a son of Thomas, of Ipswich, in a new country younger sons must, and elder sons may, turn their hands to anything. But I require legal proof of his connection with Thomas, of Ipswich, and Professor B. K. Emerson offers none.

This disposes of the second generation. Recurring now to the Rev. Joseph of Mendon's children, Joseph, Jun., married a Mary, and lived in Boston, where he died before 1708, leaving two daughters, Mary (Nokes), b. at Boston, 1677, †, married in 1699, and Jane (Orcutt). Joseph, Jun., was mentioned in his grandfather's will, and born at Ipswich or Wells. His daughters inherited his two-sevenths of Rev. Joseph's estate—he getting two-sevenths as eldest son. The Rev. Joseph's second son, JAMES EMERSON, was born at Ipswich or Wells, Maine. He married Sarah —, b. 1663, ob. at Mendon, 13 Oct., 1732, et. 69. He lived at Ipswich until 1709, when he moved to Mendon. His children, Elizabeth, b. 1687 (cf. Savage), James, Jun., John and Joseph, were born at Ipswich, and Nathaniel at Mendon in 1701. There is no record where the other, Ebenezer, was born. James was taxed at Mendon in 1703, $399.00—a very considerable sum of money, and he owned a great deal of landed property, including the Homestead, left by his father, the Rev. Joseph, of Mendon, a property that continued in the family for some generations. He seems to have avoided death duties by giving his sons freeholds in his lifetime. These deeds of gift are recorded in deeds. In the Suffolk Deeds he is referred to as Mr. James Emerson, whereas his younger half-brothers, Edward, Peter, Ebenezer and Worcester Co. Land Records, Book V., p. 303, 1717; James, Sen., and Sarah his wife, give land to their son John, of Mendon. Worcester Co. Land Records, Book X., p. 416, 1718; James, Sen., of Mendon, gives to his son Joseph, of Reading, land inherited from his father, the Rev. Joseph, of Mendon. Worcester Land Records, Book VII., p. 448, 1733; James gives land to his son Ebenezer, of Uxbridge, April 5, 1733. Worcester Land Records, Vol. XIV., p. 254; James Emerson sells to his son Nathaniel the Homestead in Mendon, May 22, 1740. The son Joseph dies intestate and sine prole, circa 1745—46, for John Emerson, his brother, administers his estate in Falmouth, Co. York, Maine; the inventory is given in Worcester Probate Records, Book V., p. 151, 1745—8; and in Worcester Co. Land Records, Book XXXVIII., p. 330, there is a deed registered, dated February, 1747—8, in which James Emerson and John Emerson, of Uxbridge* (formerly Mendon), Ebenezer Emerson, of —, and Nathaniel Emerson, of Douglass, and Elizabeth Taft (nie Emerson, and wife of Captain Joseph Taft), sell their brother Joseph of Reading's portion for £500 "old tenor money," to David Taft; thus proving James was a wealthy man. In 1757 John Emerson and Eliz. Taft appeared to swear that James and Ebenezer signed certain interlined portions, and John Read swore that Nathaniel sine decedent signed. James, Jun., we know was dead in 1757, and from this it is probable Ebenezer too was dead in 1757. James, Sen., left no will, nor is the place of his death and burial recorded; but it is known he had to keep very wide awake on account of the Indians who frequented these districts, and were by no means over-friendly. He farmed his own lands, and held office as the Town Surveyor. It is evident from the deed (1747) in which Joseph's brothers sell his land for £500 that James, Sen., and his wife were both dead; indeed, we know his wife died in 1732, and I have no record of James, Sen., after selling the Homestead to Nathaniel in 1740. Yet Professor B. K. Emerson says he died in 1756 at Mendon, Mass., evidently confounding him with his son James (Jun.), who was demonstrably dead in 1757, for his brother John is, by a deed in the Worcester Probate Court, dated 17 March, 1757, appointed by Judge J. Wilder (trusting in the care and fidelity of John Emerson) guardian to Sarah Emerson, the elder, widow of James Emerson, of Uxbridge, deceased, in 1757—Sarah, the younger, being his eldest daughter. He had given evidence in February of the same year, 1757, to James' feebleness re deeding a gift of land, value £500, to his son Jonathan (Worcester Co. Land Records, Vol. XXXVIII., p. 159, 1757). In my opinion James, Sen., died at Reading or Falmouth, Maine, where the family undoubtedly held some lands that belonged to Rev. Joseph and to James' son Joseph (vide inventory made by John Emerson).

The Rev. Joseph's third son and the first son by his second wife was Edward, born at Concord, † 26 April, 1670. Professor B. K. Emerson says he was born at Mendon—he was born at Concord. He was a shopkeeper and Justice of the Peace in Charlestown (vide Worcester Land Deeds, Lib. 24, p. 172). He married in 1697 Rebecca Waldo, and had three sons and a daughter, and is the direct ancestor of Ralph Waldo Emerson, viz. :—

The next son Peter, of Reading, a freeholder, married Anna Brown, and left a large family. The next son, Ebenezer, of Reading, also a freeholder, married Bethia Parker, and left a large family. The youngest son Daniel, of Boston, was a shipwright, and married Jane Armitage, and left a family of three. The Bulkeleys came originally from Co. Bedfordshire, England, and were of good family. Rev. Peter Bulkeley was a fellow of St. John's College, Camb., and Rector of Odell, Co. Beds.

Going back now to my direct line—the children of Mr. James Emerson, Senior, and Sarah—we come first to Elizabeth Emerson, born at Ipswich, 1657, married Captain Joseph Taft, 1708, son of Judge Robert and Sarah Taft (Taaffe). They resided at Uxbridge, where Elizabeth died in 1760. The descendants of this marriage have borne distinguished careers, having been represented in the United States Services, Legislative and Judicial Benches of Massachusetts, Vermont, Michigan, Iowa and Ohio, and in the National Executive Cabinet. The Hon. Alphonso Taft, LL.D., of Cincinnati, Ohio, judge of the Supreme Court, United States Secretary of War and Attorney-General under President U. S. Grant; United States Minister to Austria, 1882—4, and to Russia, 1884—5, was a direct lineal descendant of this Elizabeth Emerson, sic—

Captain Joseph Taft, of Uxbridge. = Elizabeth Emerson, m. 1708.

Curiously enough, I am also related to this Taft family on my grandmother's side, viz., Margery Morse, sic—

Samuel Morse, of Uxbridge. = Jane Taft, of Uxbridge, dau. of Robert and Eliz. Taft.

Jesse Morse, of Uxbridge. = Rachel Hill Allen, widow, m. in 1754.

Marjorie Morse, of Uxbridge, b. 1773. = Lieut. Thos. Emerson, of Rochester and Green Creek, Ohio.
(My grandparents.)

James, Jun., whom we have referred to, land and that of his brother John was separated by a brook called Emerson Brook, which name it retains to-day, the stream working many mills at Uxbridge, and a local historian says, "Emerson Brook is one of the finest trout brooks in this section."

James, Jun., married, first, Sarah Lock, Feb. 21, 1722, at Mendon, ob. 1734 (?). He had by her Sarah (Thayer); James, b. 1726, m. Eliz. Emerson, 1752; Jonathan, b. 1729, m. S. Marshall; Abigail, b. 1732, m. Philip Cady, 1754. He married secondly, Sarah, March, 1734, and left issue—Elizabeth, b. 1735; Susan, died in infancy. The second wife was alive in 1757, John Emerson (brother to James) being appointed her guardian by the Probate Judge in 1758 in a deed registered in the Worcester Probate Office; and she did not die in 1737, as Professor B. K. Emerson states. She was non compos, hence the guardianship when she became a widow in 1757.

The next son of James, Sen., and Sarah, is John Emerson, of Mendon (in 1727, Uxbridge). He was born at Ipswich. He was married by Judge Pool, at Mendon, Nov. 23, 1721, to Mary Rise (not Rice, as Professor B. K. Emerson has it). Rise is a Dutch name, and in Mr. Hallen's list of English Huguenots is a Mr. Rise, merchant, a Dutchman. Professor B. K. Emerson has most amusingly described him as a "blacksmith," "surveyor and considerable landowner." The two latter he was; but he was no more a blacksmith than Professor B. K. Emerson himself, though I dare say he mended his own tools. In all the deeds quoted above he is described as a freeholder; he is so described in his will, and in no place whatever is he described as a "blacksmith." Professor B. K. Emerson had the error pointed out to him, and has not seen fit to correct it—hence my criticism. He was a man of great probity and character, and wealthy, as his will, allowed June 5, 1780, and dated July 12, 1768, shows. He died at Uxbridge, and was buried there in 1780.

The next son, Joseph Emerson, of Reading and Falmouth, died sine prole, 1745—6, probably at Reading. We have referred to his brother John administering his property at Falmouth, and to his brothers and sister selling his Reading land for £500. The youngest son Nathaniel married Joanna, and lived at Reading and Mendon, where he was born, in the Homestead that belonged to his father James, purchased in 1740, and to his grandfather, the Rev. Joseph. He left a large family of sons and daughters—two by his second wife, Mary Burnham (m. 1747), see Stimpson (?). Of Ebenezer, mentioned in the deed of sale of Joseph's land, we know little; he was evidently dead in 1757. In 1730 he married Elizabeth Walcott, and resided at Attleboro. Professor B. K. Emerson gives Sarah (Hall) as a daughter of James, Sen., and Sarah; but this statement is unsupported by any evidence.

Coming back now to the main line, we recur to the family of JOHN EMERSON, Sen., and Mary Rise, of Mendon (later, 1727, incorporated with Uxbridge). The eldest son, Captain John, was born at Mendon, 1722, moved to Douglass, and became at the time of the Revolutionary War a captain in the 8th Co. 3rd Worcester Regiment, Colonel E. Woods. Appended is his certified Revolutionary War service. It will be seen there is an error in his age, but that is quite intelligible under the circumstances, and it is a small error, of three years. He married, Feb. 27, 1745, Mary Wood. Professor B. K. Emerson describes him as a resident of Uxbridge; this is partly an error—he lived at Douglass in later life.

This was apparently the only Emerson of this family who took part in the Revolutionary War. John, his father, was, of course, too old in 1776, and Luke Emerson, his brother, was already dead in 1774: so that none of my direct line were able to fight.

Thomas, the second son, married Abigail Marsh, of Uxbridge, 25 Nov., 1748, and moved to Rochester, Vermont, joining the Church there 14 Oct., 1794 (?). He was a landowner. Professor B. K. Emerson describes him as of Uxbridge; this is partially correct. He left Uxbridge for Rochester about 1794. James is mentioned in his father's will, but nothing seems known of him. Luke, the fourth son, receives the Homestead, lands, buildings, tenements, stock and utensils etc. Luke was evidently his favourite son; but, alas for the plans of men! Luke died before his father in Nov., 1774, and so John made a codicil dated Dec. 3, 1774, giving his two grandsons, John and Thomas, sons of Luke, what he had intended for Luke. To his son Ezekiel, then an undergraduate at Princeton University, he leaves a remembrance. This Ezekiel took his degree, and was ordained, and as the Rev. Ezekiel Emerson married, 27 Mar., 1790, Catherine Dorr, daughter of Rev. Joseph Dorr, and was given a living at Georgetown, Maine, which he kept for forty-four years. My father was named after him.

John, Sen., leaves his daughters, Mary (), Sarah (i. Sabin, ii. J. Hoskins), Hannah (Darling), legacies, and bequeaths his pew to his family. Professor B. K. Emerson says that Mary died early; she did not, for she was born in 1730, and is mentioned in her father's will, dated 1768, when already thirty-eight years of age and alive: that Luke resided at Rochester, Vt.; he did not. He was born at Uxbridge, lived at Uxbridge and was buried at Uxbridge, cf. Uxbridge Town Records, and his will dated 1774, and the will of his father. A daughter Phoebe is given by Professor B. K. Emerson as born Aug. 17, 1743, married John Hurlburt (qy. Hurlburt), Dec. 1, 1759. Her birth is correct, but as she is not mentioned in her father's will, possibly she is the daughter who died young; at any rate, I have no other record of her.

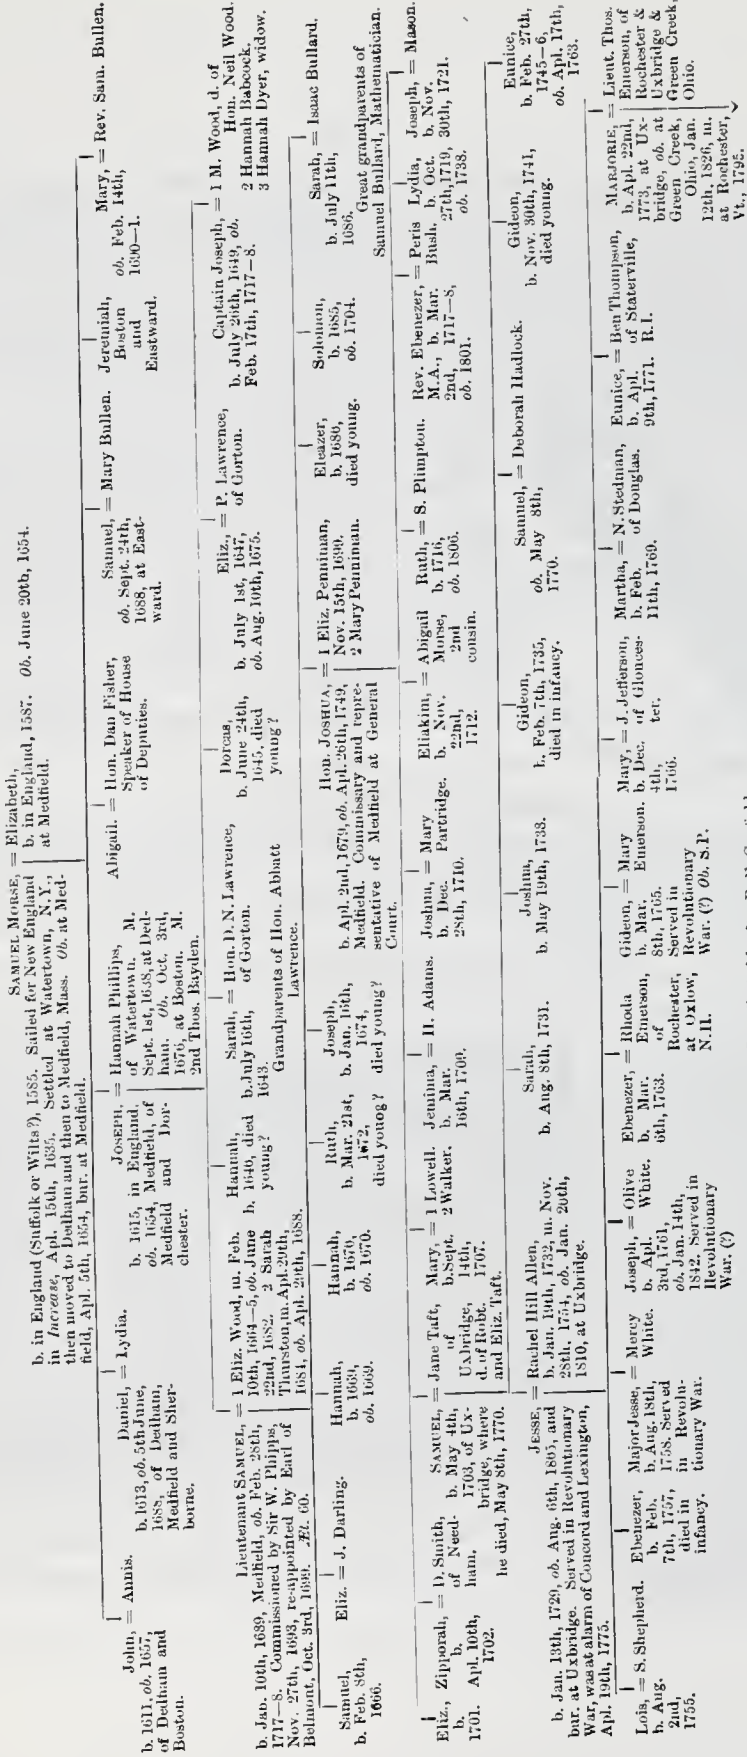

Recurring to the main line we come to LUKE EMERSON, son of John and Mary Emerson (the next in the direct line), who died as we have said in Nov., 1774. He married his cousin, Ruth Emerson, a direct lineal descendant of Nathaniel (son of Thos. and Eliz.), on whose tomb the arms were carved in 1712—so that I am descended from two sons of Thomas, of Ipswich, viz., Rev. Joseph and Nathaniel. Ruth's pedigree in direct descent is as follows:—

Luke left his lands and tenements to his wife Ruth. To his sons, John and Thomas (minors), who also inherited their grandfather's legacy to Luke; and to his five daughters, Ruth, Susan, Louis, Rhoda (Morse) and Sally, he leaves legacies.

In the Worcester Probate Office is a deed dated Feb. 29th, 1788, in which appeared before the Judge of Probate, Joseph Dorr, personating Thomas Emerson, a minor about 14 years of age (b. in 1773, q. v.), son of Luke Emerson, late of Uxbridge, and made claim of Enoch Emerson, of Rochester, Co. of Windsor, Vermont, for his guardian. In the same deed B. Green, gent., and others, stand surety for £1000 before the same judge, to be paid to the judge as a surety in sale of the real estate of Thomas Emerson, a minor, son of Luke. I refer to the deed to show that Thomas must have been heir to a considerable property according to the bond required, and to show how he came to go to Rochester. There is another deed with reference to an earlier guardian at Uxbridge, a Mr. B. Green, who is surety for £300. We see by a deed dated 1787 that Ruth Emerson sold all her interest in Luke Emerson's estate, Vol. C1., p. 338. In 1788 (Vol. XXI, p. 497) occurs the division of Luke's estate. The widow quit-claims to S. Gifford her thirds and also John's share, and there is set land to Thomas Emerson, Ruth (Jefferson), w. of Joseph Jefferson, Susan (Jefferson), w. of Jediah Jefferson, Rhoda Emerson, m. E. Morse afterwards, and Sally Emerson. Louis was recorded as dead in 1788. Luke had other children who died young, viz., eldest son David, d. Jan. 17th, 1756; Rhoda and Reuben (twins), b. Jan. 30th, 1763, died Feb. 10th and 7th, 1763. John, the eldest son, went to Rochester circa 1780. We come next to Lieutenant THOMAS EMERSON, son of Luke, the minor spoken of above. He was born at Uxbridge, vide pedigree, and taken to Rochester in 1788 by his guardian, Enoch Emerson. He was mentioned in his grandfather's and father's wills. He lived at Rochester and married, in 1795, Margery Morse, of Uxbridge. The Morses were a warlike race and I append a pedigree of my grandmother, Margery Morse, and the Revolutionary War services of my great grandfather, Jesse Morse, and his son Jesse, Jr.

When the war of 1812 broke out, my grandfather served throughout the war as a lieutenant, but which side he fought for I have been unable to discover. He was, of course, by birth an Englishman, having been born 1773, before the colonies revolted and cast themselves free. I have had the New York State Archives for the war, the Pension Records at Washington, and the War Service Archives of the State of Vermont searched; but all these records are very imperfect, and do not seem to be nearly as complete as the Revolutionary records. Adjutant and Insp.-General T. S. Peck, of the State of Vermont, tells me, "Our records are very imperfect and unsatisfactory." I have been unable to find anything, so far, in the records of those serving on the English side. But he is too near for there to be any doubt on the subject. Dr. P. E. Canfield, referred to in the Preface, was daughter of Jesse Emerson, my uncle, and she writes me that my grandfather fought at the battle of Plattsburgh, his family being hidden in a cellar during the battle in a house where the bullets frequently penetrated. My grandfather after the war went to Green Creek and settled—one of the earliest to settle in that district (vide letter in Appendix). It will be seen from the letter my grandfather had the early pioneering instincts. He started for Ohio some time after the war, but when is uncertain, as we do not find his name in the Green Creek, Ohio, records until August 19, 1822, when there is a record in the Auditor of States Office, Columbus, Ohio, of his buying the east half of the north-east quarter of Section No. 7, township No. 4, north range No. 16, east, in Green Creek Township, Sandusky Co., Ohio. He owned land and saw mills. He died at Green Creek, Ohio, and was buried in the Oakwood Cemetery, at Fremont, Ohio. His widow died on Jan. 21, 1826, at Green Creek, Ohio, and is buried in the same cemetery. Judge Sherwood, his son-in-law, was a witness to his will. In his will he mentions Marcus, Jesse, Thomas, Stephen, Ezekiel, and daughter Pauline and his wife Margery.

Demarcus and my father, after their father's death, came back to their Morse relatives in Massachusetts, and in 1826 my father went off to Cuba, which was then the El Dorado. He began coffee planting, and owned the La Esperanza and another estate near Cardenas, in Cuba, which he subsequently sold, and went into partnership with J. B. Phinney in the La Palma estate, near the Eucrociada, Sagua-la-Grande, Cuba. This was a large estate, some seven square miles in extent. My father bought his partner out, and was sole proprietor when he married in New York City, Jane Harris Billing. They were married by the Rev. James Millet, of the Holy Martyrs' Church, New York—witnesses, Mr. J. B. Phinney and Mrs. L. A. Phinney. My mother was a descendant of the very old Norman family of Billouns alias Treworder, who settled in Cornwall before 1210. I append a short note on my mother's family.

BILLING alias TRELAWDER.

"This family is of Norman descent. The name is still found in France. It is of great antiquity in Cornwall under the following and other forms:—Byllun, Billon, Billion, Billoun, Bylloun, Bullon, Byllung and Billing and Belling."—Sir J. Maclean.

The arms allowed at the Herald's Visitation in 1620, were as given in the drawing. It being a pre-Tudor coat there is no crest.

There is a long pedigree registered at the College of Arms beginning with Richard Billing, of Treworder, Co. Cornwall, 1620. His elder son goes out in female issue, Elizabeth, co-heiress, marrying Geo. Viell, of Wood, Allington Parish, Co. Devon, and Margaret marrying John Kestell, of Kestell. The younger son, Thomas, however, left male issue, which subsequently went out in female issue, too, Elizabeth Billing marrying (1) S. Trelawney, (2) R. Lower, M.P., Physician to Charles II.

At the 1638 Visitation arms were allowed to William Billing (et. 25), of Lanke, by Sir John Borough, Garter Principal-at-Arms, 8th March, 1638, i.e., (1 and 4) Billing (as above) quarterly with (2) Bleuot and (3) Hocken. This William was son of Reginald Billing and Ann Hocken, some time of St. Mabyn and afterwards of Gt. Lanke, in St. Bieward, where he built a mansion in 1627. This William left several descendants and he had a brother John.

I have not yet had time to trace my mother to the registered pedigree, but her short pedigree is (so far as I have gone):—

Billing, of Bodmin, =

William Billing, = Jane Harris,
b. 1795, Surgeon, of Lostwithiel. Ob. Sept. 5th, 1850, of an old Cornish family.
and bur. Sept. 10th, 1850, et. 55, by Rev. E. C. Bond, at Woburn, Beds. Sometime of Lostwithiel, Cornwall.

bap. Apl. 18th, 1818.

Jane Harris Billing, = H. E. Emerson,
bap. on Dec. 7th, 1820, at Lostwithiel, Cornwall, of the La Palma Estate, by the Rev. — Bower. Died at Grasmere, bur. July, 1855.
at Teignmouth, Devon, Sept. 12th, 1881.

Other brothers and sisters.

My uncle told me his great great grandfather was William Billing of St. Teath, Co. Cornwall, but knowing how inaccurate people are in such matters I place but little value in the statement, unsupported as it was by evidence.

Sir John Maclean, in his "History of Trigg Minor, Co. Cornwall,"* goes very fully into the history of this important old Cornish and Norman family, as he married into it himself. Anyone interested in the matter I refer to his work.

In 1864 my father's health began to give way, and so he moved to the United States in the wet season, buying a house, No. 818, West Street, Wilmington, Delaware. My sister and father died there on May 20th, 1865, and Mar. 30th, 1867, respectively. They are buried in the Wilmington and Brandywine Cemetery, Lot 10, Sec. C.—Vide tombstones. My mother married a second time and died without issue by this second marriage at Grasmere, Westmoreland, Sept. 7th, 1881, and was buried (as J. H. Hudson) in the Teignmouth Cemetery, Sept. 12th, 1881. Tombstone in cemetery and memorial clerestory window (to J. H. Emerson) in Cranleigh School Chapel, Cranleigh, Surrey.

I was born on my father's estate and baptized privately by Don Juan Ezequiel Martin on the estate, on June 17th, 1857, as Pedro Enrique (Peter Henry), Don Antonio Roque and Doña Ana Harris Billug as padrones. Baptism registered in Church of St. Maria Magdalena, at Cifuentes, Cuba, in the Baptism Book, fol. 62, numero 282. I was married at Rivington Chapelry by Rev. T. Low, assisted by Rev. Ritson, on June 22nd, 1881, by license to Edith Amy Ainsworth, daughter of the late Joseph Ainsworth, Esq., of The Thorns, Bolton, Lancashire, who was born at The Thorns, Jan. 28th, 1854, and bap. at

Co. Lancs., and of the Ainsworths, Lords of Plessington Manor, whose arms and pedigree are registered at the College. Arms—3 pole-axes argent on a shield gules. No crest or motto.

My children—Leonard Ainsworth was born at 4, Park Side, Cambridge, May 12, 1882, and baptized there privately by the Rev. T. J. Garness, July 26, 1882, and has adopted engineering as his profession. Sybil was born at 4, Park Side, Cambridge, Jan. 21, 1884, and baptized by the Rev. H. Bellamy at St. Benet's Church, Cambridge, June 13, 1884. Gladys was born at 26, Downshire Hill, Hampstead, London, N.W., May 23, 1885. Zoe Orchis was born at Claringbold, Broadstairs, Kent, Nov. 12, 1892, and baptized by the Rev. M. N. Kearney at Oulton Church, Oct. 6, 1897. Ralf Billing was born at "The Nook," Oulton Broad, on July 3rd, 1897, and baptized at Oulton Parish Church by Rev. M. N. Kearney, Oct. 6, 1897.

My brother, Just William Emerson, was born on the estate and baptized by Rev. J. E. Martin, baptism recorded in the book of St. Maria Magdalena, Cifuentes, Cuba. He was a fellow-commoner of Downing College, Cambridge, and took his B.A. in 1885. He resided in Florida, U.S.A., and owned the "Mount" and "Lakeside" in Lakeland, and married his cousin, Grace Canfield. They had one child (posthumous), William Canfield Emerson, born at Council Grove, Kansas, Sept. 8, 1893, living in 1897. My brother died at Tampa, Florida, March 3, 1893, and was buried at Oakwood Cemetery, Fremont, Ohio.

It will be seen from these notes and the pedigree that the fighting and pioneering instincts have predominated in our branch of the family. First there was Nathaniel, who served against the Indians, direct ancestor of Luke's wife; then Captain John, who served in the Revolutionary War, his brother Luke being dead, his father John too old, and his nephew Thomas, my grandfather, a baby; and my maternal grandfather, Jesse Morse, serving from Lexington Alarm all through the war, together with three of his sons, in the Revolutionary War; and my grandfather serving in the war of 1812, and pioneering afterwards; and then my father pioneering, and lastly, Rob. Boyd Emerson, my cousin, killed in the Civil War. Most of the other descendants of Thomas, of Ipswich, have preferred the gown to the sword. Ours has been the fighting branch; and I trust some of my descendants may draw the sword for the honour of England, and I hope none of them will take to priestcraft.

ARMIGEROUS EMERSONS AT PRESENT LIVING.

The following having given official proof (q.v.) that they are entitled to bear arms are all the living Emersons who are so entitled, for though some of the Lincolnshire armigerous Emersons would have the right did they register their pedigrees up to date, they have pro tempore lost that right until they do so register them. Those whose pedigrees are fully registered and their patents of grants are duly recorded at the College of Arms are:—

- | | |
|--|--------------|
| (1) John James Emerson, esquire, LL.D. (Cantab.) | } Yorkshire. |
| (2) Eleazer Biggins Emerson, esquire, B.A. (Cantab.) | |
| (3) Charles Arthur Emerson, gent. | |
| (4) Peter Henry Emerson, gent., M.B., B.A. (Cantab.), Suffolk. | |

Armigerous minors:—James John Emerson, gent., of Trinity Hall (Camb.); Ethel Mary Alice Maud Emerson, spinster; Constance Ann Dorothy Emerson, spinster; Leonard Ainsworth Emerson, gent.; Sybil Emerson, spinster; Gladys Emerson, spinster; Zœe Orchis Emerson, spinster; Ralf Billing Emerson, gent.

The following living members of the armigerous Lincolnshire family of Emersons would be entitled to bear arms did they register their pedigrees at the College of Arms:—

- (1) Thos. Wharton Emerson, gent.; (2) Major-General Alexander Emerson, esquire; (3) Alexander Theodore Emerson, gent.; (4) Charles Edward Emerson, gent.; (5) Wharton Amcotts Emerson, gent.; (6) Catherine Mary Emerson, spinster; (7) Lyon Emerson, gent.

Minors:—(8) Ethel Mary Emerson, spinster, only child of Major-General Alexander Emerson.

No Emersons in the United States of America or Colonies are entitled to bear arms, nor is any Emerson in Scotland, Ireland, or Wales entitled to bear arms. Sir James Emerson-Tennant's only son died without issue, but one daughter—Mrs. Butler—is entitled to have her arms impaled on her husband's, if he be an armiger.

ARMS NOT AUTHENTICATED BUT PROBABLY GENUINE AND THE RECORD LOST.

EMERSON, OF EASTGATE, CO. DURHAM.

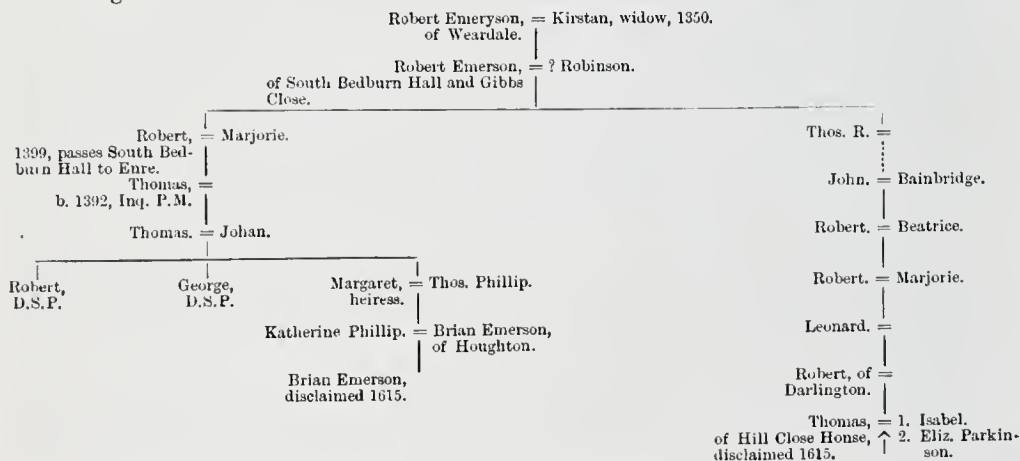

Bears, azure on a bend argent three spread eagles sable.

This coat was found in Lansdown MS. 865, fo. 87, in 1895, by Miss Walford, whom I had requested to search the MS. It is obviously a pre-Tudor coat as no crest is registered with it, and before the Tudors only persons of knightly rank were allowed crests. The Eastgate is Eastgate in County Durham. Possibly it was granted to the early forest officers who dwelt at Eastgate in Weardale, but as the matter stands no one is entitled to use this coat, nor will anyone ever be entitled to do so, for it is not recorded in any of the Visitations, or at the College of Arms. It is probably (if genuine) the first coat ever granted to an Emerson, but this also is mere conjecture. This coat, then, is at present of purely historical interest and is likely so to remain. This coat is tricked above.

It will be seen by reference to the key pedigree of Durham Emersons that the first Eastgate Emerson described in the Cursitor Records as gent. was George Emerson, of the Eastgate, High Forester and Bailiff to the Bishop of Durham, ob. 1508.—Cursitor Rolls. If the coat was originally recorded and lost sight of, as some coats were during the Commonwealth and afterwards, this was probably the coat claimed by Thomas, of Darlington, and disclaimed by the Heralds in 1615. It would, too, account for the foresters being described as “gents.” But all proof is absent, so that everything is mere conjecture, except the existence of the coat in the Lansdown MS., and the statement that it belongs to Emerson, of the Eastgate, Co. Durham. The pedigree of this branch of the family is given more fully under Emersons of Ludwell (Co. Durham), many of whom are certainly described in Cursitor Records as “gentlemen.”

EMERSON DISCLAIMERS.

The official records of the College state that Thomas Emerson, of Darlington, and Brian Emerson, of the Eastgate, disclaimed arms and gentry at the Visitation of 1615 (Sept. 16th) of Co. Durham. Their names do not occur in Ryland's Disclaimers, however; and since they were disclaimed or did not put in an appearance it is assumed they had no right to arms. My researches prove that both could not have had a right to the same arms and Brian was the recalcitrant—for he was connected with the Darlington Emersons merely by marriage. The Darlington Emersons were one of the most important Emerson families in Co. Durham, and I suspect had a right to the Eastgate coat aforesaid. Certainly I can find no Ralf in their pedigree, circa 1570—1600, so assume they must have claimed some other coat than Ralf of Foxton's. In making up my key pedigree for the County of Durham I soon found I was engaged upon the Darlington Emersons, in later times called the Hill Close House Emersons, and it was one of these who was disclaimed in 1615 (Longstaffe's “History of Durham”). My key pedigree will be published in a subsequent chapter, so I will confine myself here to publishing the pedigrees of the two disclaimers that I have compiled, merely publishing here the direct descent of each and showing Brian the disclaimer's actual relationship to Thomas, of Darlington.

The reader will see the eldest son of Robert Emerson and ——— Robinson goes out in female issue, Margaret the heiress marrying Thos. Phillip; their daughter, Katherine Phillip, marrying Brian the disclaimer, who was a Houghton Emerson (q.v.). On the other hand, the issue of the second son, Thomas, is continued to the Darlington family, represented by Thomas, disclaimed in 1615. I cannot trace that this family ever had a right to arms and think they were probably quite fairly disclaimed in 1615. But, nevertheless, I have been able to compile a good pedigree of them, but who are the living representatives of this ancient family I know not—they are probably pretty numerous, as towards the end of the seventeenth century they were very prolific, as can be seen by the key pedigree. But they sold their property to the Richardsons and I presume scattered far and wide. And these are the only two Emersons I have been able to find who were disclaimed arms and gentry at any of the Visitations.

SPURIOUS CRESTS AND ARMS OF NO AUTHORITY.

Burke, Fairbairn and others give arms and crests as belonging to Emersons and Emmersons which are of no authority whatever, and of which no record exists at the College. Mr. Fox-Davies' edition of Fairbairn's crests, 1892, p. 149, Vol. I., gives the following crests:—

1. Emerson, Northumb., a sinister wing ppr., charged with a bend or, and thereon three torteaux.
2. Emerson, Lincs. and Norf., issuing from a cloud rays of the sun all ppr.
3. Emmerson, a cock ppr.

The first crest is spurious. There is no record of such a crest in the College of Arms, neither is there any armigerous Northumberland family of Emersons. This crest was doubtless invented and first used with the Lincolnshire arms by John Emerson, merchant, of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, the son of a yeoman and a member of the Ludwell family of Emersons. He doubtless copied the arms from the Kail Cross, Newcastle, where they had been placed by Thomas Emerson, of Bradbury, one of the Surrey Emersons, who himself had no legal right to them although he was in all probability related to the Lincolnshire Emersons (vide Emersons of Co. Lincoln and Co. Surrey). This crest was carved on a memorial tablet placed in St. Nicholas' Church, Newcastle, to the memory of the above John Emerson, with the Lincolnshire arms, and impaled upon them are the arms of his three wives. It is to be hoped they had more claim to the arms than the said John Emerson. These arms ought to be at once removed from the church. No Emersons of Northumberland are or ever were entitled to arms of any kind.

The second crest, supposed to belong to the Emersons of Lincoln and Norfolk, is equally spurious—the Lincolnshire family have no crest, it being a pre-Tudor coat. And no family of Norfolk Emersons was ever granted arms or proved any relationship to the Lincoln armigerous family of Emersons.

The third crest, the "proper cock crowing," is pure invention also, nor is any family particularized. No such crest was ever granted to an Emerson or Emmerson, nor have any Emmersons ever been granted arms.

Finally, in America the descendants of Michael Emerson, of Haverhill, U.S.A., claim—Or out of the midst of a fesse sable, a lion rampant, naissant gules armed and languid (sic) azure. Motto, "I will or die." No crest. This coat is spurious like the above, no such coat ever having been granted to any Emerson or anybody else, to judge from the "heraldry," and is probably the work of John Coles, the infamous spurious heraldic painter of Boston, who lived during the last century. The descendants of Michael Emerson have no arms of any kind, and are possibly descended from Jo. Emerson, baker, who emigrated in the Abigail, 1635, Oct. 20th, for New England (vide Licences to pass beyond the seas). This Jo., as given in the original licence, was possibly a contraction for Jonathan, father of Michael Emerson, who settled at Haverhill, circa 1656, and left a large family, one of whom was the heroic and historic Hannah Dustin (née Emerson) who avenged her family by scalping a number of Indians with her own hands—a well-known historical episode.

Professor B. K. Emerson, in his "Emersons in America," says Rev. John, grandson of Thomas, of Ipswich, had "arms certified to him"—this is sheer nonsense. Before the College would have "certified arms" to him he would have had to prove his right to arms, which he never did. All he did was to buy a certified copy of the arms of Ralf of Foxton, which anybody can do who is not even an Emerson. An equally ridiculous statement in the work referred to is that a descendant of Thomas, of Ipswich, the Rev. Daniel Emerson, who was a chaplain of the forces, 1755, "was considered the ranking officer, because of his family coat of arms bearing three lions." The Rev. Daniel Emerson was never entitled to any arms, and if he had been, that he should be considered ranking officer on account of the "three lions" is grotesque.

And here we must leave the matter of "arms," and trust the various correspondents who have written us so many questions on the subject will now clearly understand the matter. And I trust American readers will see how ridiculous are their claims to use arms—one cannot be a republican and an aristocrat at the same time.

The Key Pedigree.

As I have said before this is a genealogical history of the Emersons, of the sons of Aimeric, and my first difficulty is the matter of their origin, i. e., are they all descended from one man—Aimeric, Archdeacon of Durham, or were there two families, one the Archdeacon's, and a second the sons of Emery, of Co. York, mentioned in the Richmond Domesday? I have been unable to obtain sufficient evidence to clear this matter up, or to connect the earliest roots, the filii Emeri of Durham and York, with each other, or with the earliest recorded Emerysons; but what evidence I have been able to obtain leads me to think the family sprang from the Archdeacon of Durham, i. e., the earliest Emeryson held manorial lands in St. Oswald's and Brancepeth Parishes close to Durham and the earliest members of them held under the Bishops of Durham, and were forest officers, bailiffs and scribæ to the Bishops, which offices they continued to hold in Weardale to comparatively modern times—tempe Jac. I.

Some future genealogist may be able, with more means at his command, to clear the matter up, as it doubtless could be were the very voluminous early Pipe Rolls and other records searched. Besides these lacunæ I have been unable to connect several collaterals with the main stem for lack of proof, which doubtless further research would produce.

We will now proceed to give the result of my studies of this key pedigree and the various documents connected therewith.

To begin with Aimeric, Archdeacon of Durham, son or nephew (nepos) of Bishop of Durham, Phillip of Poitou, whom I hold to be the founder of the family, takes us at once to the times of Richard Cœur-de-Lion and Aquatania, for Bishop Phillip of Poitou was clerk-in-attendance to the great lion-hearted King Richard I. But in order that the reader will the better understand the connection of Aquatania with England and the character of its people, we venture to give a long extract from Professor Montagu Burrows's* (with his kind permission) writing on this subject, as this period of history is ignored in most historical works.

"There are no records for the century which elapsed after Eleanor of Guienne,† or Aquitaine (for the words are really the same, and in her case had the same meaning), brought (in 1151) a duchy and a county, which were very like a kingdom, to Henry Plantagenet, Count of Anjou, who was to add, immediately afterwards, the realm of England to his great possessions. The Gascon Rolls do not commence till 1242.‡ We hear of little else in this century besides the great feudal baronage of the provinces. All the notices which reach us in the reigns of Henry II. and Richard I. bear conspicuous marks of a powerful and semi-independent body of lords, who played an important part in the struggles between the harassed father and his rebellious sons. Forced to yield to the hand of a master in Cœur de Lion, the special head of his mother's inheritance, and to do so even when he was a mere boy, they did pretty much as they liked when the strong hand was withdrawn. Indeed, by his junction with the French king against his own father Richard taught them a lesson which they were not slow to learn.

"The English Sovereignty had placed these barons in a position more convenient and agreeable to a feudal society than any other in Europe. While the 'Roy Outremer' was their liege lord, he himself as Count of Anjou and Poitou, and Duke of Guienne, owed fealty for these provinces to the Kings of France; and as the latter, by absorbing the possessions of the Peers of France, gradually emerged out of the rank of petty sovereigns, they, very naturally, the more insisted on a definite recognition of their suzerainty over the English lordships in the south. Thus the nobles served two masters, which, with the best intentions, is not easy. But these were not two masters in the ordinary sense: they were two kings. Such a position often involved disagreeable consequences; but they were more than balanced in the eye of these lords by the exquisite satisfaction of being thus enabled to play off, on every possible occasion, one against the other. This they were accustomed to do so effectually that the process almost advanced to the rank of a science; and it was by this process that they, as well as the people generally, acquired the English sanction of their valuable and peculiar privileges. It was thus that they learnt to appreciate, and a large proportion of them to cling with affection to, a dynastic arrangement which first gave or recognized their rights, and then, from the action of natural causes, tended to conserve them.

"And here it may be remarked that the anomalous relations of England to her provinces beyond sea, formed as they had been at first by the personal ties of inheritance, and not by conquest, could never have lasted for three centuries unless it had been for the interest of both parties that they should continue. It is remarkable that even so observant a writer as Hallam should have failed to notice this great historical fact. Sustained upon the principle of mutual advantage, far more than on ancient feudal and family relations, the substantial affection of the inhabitants for the English rule, especially in the maritime and commercial centres, is the leading feature in the complicated series of circumstances which the historian will have to trace. It will be evident enough when the subject is once presented in full.

‡ Which renders them useless for all research concerning Bishop Phillip of Poitou and his nephew Aimeric, the Archdeacon of Durham, who reigned at Durham, 1195—1215.—P. H. E.

"The confusion of feudal obligations here mentioned, common in a sense elsewhere, but never so accentuated as in Aquitaine, coincided with the differences of race and history which distinguished the people from their neighbours. It was in these provinces that the old Gallo-Roman population had successfully resisted absorption by the Teutonic conquerors of the rest of Gaul. Even as late as the early part of the twelfth century they were hardly at all connected with the Crown of France. They had long previously bought a practical independence by the highest of all claims—self-sacrifice for Christendom. It was under a Count of Aquitaine, a virtual king, that the first fierce onset of the invading Moors and Arabs, before their final overthrow at the hand of Charles Martel, was splendidly met and shattered by the Christian heroes of the province. The independent spirit of their neighbours, the Basques, who gave their name to Gascony, was not without its influence on the character of the people; and the jealous chivalry of Gothic Spain, with constitutional rights ever asserted against its kings, could not but affect a country with which it was in close relation. Thus was maintained and strengthened from generation to generation an active, sturdy, vigorous nature, not unlike that of the English themselves, but more lively, more impregnated with the brightness of southern suns.

"The variety of the climate and territory—mountain and plain, barren waste and fertile valley, the unique river system, fed from the Pyrenean snows, and spread like a network over the whole country, gathering up into the stately Garonne, and centreing in Bordeaux, the queen of French maritime cities, the long seaboard and navigable estuaries which bred a race of hardy seamen, the aptitude of the soil for the growth of the vine—all this had also its peculiar effect; but far above all this, above the Basque and Spanish influences, above even the effects of gallant resistance to external foes, we must place the underlying traditions of individual liberty derived from the old institutions of the Roman province. The traces of these institutions, especially in the allodial landed system of Aquitaine, are to be found everywhere contending with the feudal system introduced by the Teutonic settlers, and so tending to nationalize and localize the whole province. Not knowing how their rights and privileges had been acquired and preserved through the earlier 'Dark Ages,' the simple people of Aquitaine were accustomed to account for them as follows:—'When the great King Charles went to reconquer the country from the Saracens, he took into his pay the nobles and knights who would not otherwise serve him, but the common people served without pay, and asked for nothing. That is why, when he bestowed lands on the nobles, he bound them to military service and other duties; but to the lower class, out of gratitude, and in order to encourage population, he granted their properties free from all obligation of service, declared them entirely free, and required nothing from them beyond their assemblage for the purpose of promoting public order.*

"Thus in the country districts, all alike—nobles, small landholders, and peasants—were born and bred to an inheritance of freedom, differing in many respects from the condition of any other people.†

"The effect of all these peculiarities in isolating Aquitaine even from its neighbouring province of Languedoc, with which it had much in common, was very distinctly marked at the period of the Albigensian Crusade. The ambition of Philippe Auguste, the prowess of Louis VIII., the fury of the Popes and their diabolical agents, the ferocity of the first Simon de Montfort, were sufficient to break up for ever the independence of the powerful Counts of Toulouse—the greatest event perhaps, and the most far-reaching, of the century. The condition of Aquitaine was left practically untouched by the movement. And yet it had not been without its share in the various influences which had made their way to Languedoc through Italy and Aragon.

"The age succeeding that of the early Plantagenet rulers of Aquitaine was marked by essential differences in the relations of England to the province, but the characteristics of the baronage and the mixed influences above described are more and more conspicuous. In the lifetime of Eleanor of Guienne, of her husband and her sons, the well-accustomed tie of feudal lordship presents itself as a living thing. The English kings appear before their southern subjects as Dukes of Guienne. Their continuous dominions in France afford a ready means of communication with all their provinces alike, independent of maritime intercourse. But the loss of Normandy and its dependencies made a vast change. The 'Roy Outremer' could no longer reach his subjects by land, and Bordeaux became the great central meeting-point of the two races. The anarchy of the reigns of John and Henry III. produces its natural effect. We find ourselves present at a continuous struggle to prevent the absorption of the Plantagenet dominions by the rapidly-growing power of the Kings of France. Following this, the reigns of the three Edwards form a distinct period of their own. The decadence of the Plantagenets under Richard II., the brief resumption of continental power under Henry V., and the final decay which issues in the expulsion of 1453, make up a fourth division of the subject.

"In all these periods alike, the earliest as well as the latest, we have, in dealing with the history of these provinces, to lay our account not only with the peculiarities of race, situation, inherited personal rights and feudal obligations which the English found when they came, but with a developed communal system in all the large towns, rapidly completing itself under the English domination, confirmed again and again by Eleanor and both her sons, and enfranchised more extensively than in any other part of France in the matter of wills, wardship, marriage, succession, and the right of accused persons to bail; in short, in the liberties which make a man free. Thus we find ourselves in the midst of a society in which there is an unusually marked variety of conflicting elements, which nevertheless have to mingle with one another as best they may, under the hand of a King of England who is, for these provinces, a vassal of the King of France.

"Bearing in mind these peculiarities of country, people, and institutions, we shall better understand the progressive steps by which the English government of Aquitaine was brought to the condition in which we find it during the Hundred Years' War. It is then that the subjects of our narrative present themselves prominently on the stage. But the preceding age of Henry III. will also receive some illustration from the notices of their clan which are at our disposal, and we must now look at it somewhat more in detail.

"The reign of Henry III. might not unfairly be described as a long, persistent, and, on the whole, successful effort to establish an efficient government of Aquitaine from Bordeaux, and thus to bring the naval strength and commercial resources of England to bear in the best possible manner against the growing power of the French Crown. After the shock which the English position had sustained under John, and during the minority of Henry, such a task, in the hands of so feeble a prince, might well appear impossible. That it succeeded, so far at least as to form an effective basis for the work of Edward I., was due to the action of feudal forces on a larger area than that of the English provinces, taken by themselves. For a time those greater forces absorbed and neutralized the smaller.

"The minority of Louis IX. offered exactly the same opportunity for English interference in France which the earlier minority of Henry had offered for the French interference in England. It was a case of simple retaliation. Just as Louis VIII. had been called in by John's discontented subjects, so Henry was summoned to head the resistance of the great feudatories who fiercely writhed under the vigorous regency of Blanche, the French Queen-mother. Henry towered far above the heads of these men. Though actually he only held Aquitaine, he still received homage from Brittany and La Marche; he still regarded Normandy, Maine, Anjou, Touraine, and Poitou as his own, torn shamefully by the French kings in its hour of weakness from the English Crown. It was a fine opportunity for a prince of a different sort from Henry. But though he exposed his deficiency in nearly all the qualities by which Blanche and the youthful Louis succeeded in saving their country, his wars and alliances, his very failures, were not without their effect in binding the people of Aquitaine to the English allegiance. He was obliged to be often present amongst them; and, when once there, the occeanus dissociabilis was not so easily dealt with as it is now-a-days, in a steau yacht supplied with every luxury. It was a serious sea voyage through the Bay of Biscay. Vast sums of money were spent in the province, by which Bordeaux especially benefited. English knights and archers, fighting under the same banner with their fellow-subjects, mingled freely with them, and learnt to distinguish friend from foe. Trade and commerce took a high development, and, indeed, became practically free. The system of administration became solidified. The result of the war was to simplify the task of government, for there was but one group of provinces left to deal with—those of Aquitaine in its more restricted sense.

"It was well both for France and England that Henry failed, and that Louis, now of age, safe at last from the renewal of the English claims upon North France, had the far-sighted wisdom to leave to his discomfited opponents a task in Aquitaine which would assuredly have been beyond his own powers. France had already, and somewhat rapidly, taken into her system as much as she could digest and assimilate. Both countries were thus left free to march forward in the paths of constitutional progress. For Aquitaine it was a clear gain that her nobles should for a time feel even the violent hand of Simon de Montfort, Earl of Leicester, contrast it with the gentle but feeble rule of Henry, and learn to value the firm and politic government of Prince Edward. In short, under Henry III.'s long reign we may compare the Gascons to some high-mettled, half-broken steed, struggling to throw the unskilful rider, but not quite succeeding, nor quite running away with him.

"Let us now descend from the height of these necessary generalizations, and, by way of obtaining a more particular view of the work that was going on in the reigns of Henry III. and the Edwards, suppose the reader to glance his eye over the middle portion of Carte's 'Catalogue of the Gascon Rolls.' The provincial organization being now nearly complete, it would be strange if the reflection did not occur to an Englishman that he is witnessing something with which he is more familiar than he expected to be. Is it mediæval Aquitaine, or is it modern India, whose government he is studying?—not, of course, in any sense whatever as to the people governed, but as to the multifarious nature of the administration, the multitude of English families engaged in the process, the interchange of products, the action and reaction of the two countries upon one another in peace and war, and the extremely delicate nature of their mutual relations. No colonial dependency of England has ever offered a similar parallel, nor, it may be safely said, ever will. In Aquitaine and in India alike the Englishman was, and is, a foreigner, with a home elsewhere; in our colonies men, with their families, settle, and only now and then return. Perhaps even, after an interval of five centuries, and in spite of glaring differences, something may yet be learnt from the parallelism. Not that ours is the only country which has had similar experiences; but when we have wearied ourselves with exploring the meagre colonial records of ancient and modern times, it is possible that we might find more satisfaction in studying what lies so near at hand.

"We have summed up Henry III.'s work, roughly enough no doubt, under the word 'Bordeaux.' This is the first idea which strikes the student of the Gascon Rolls. In the organization of Aquitaine it holds the central and all-important place. It will be admitted by the French themselves that they owe the development of this noble city to the English. Under their rule it became what it is now—the metropolis of South-western France. Here dwelt the Senechal of Aquitaine, a veritable viceroi; here, in time of war, the king's lieutenant; here was the King of England's palace. Here dwelt the Coastable and Controller of Bordeaux; hence the Archbishop, a mighty Metropolitan, governed the Church of the Province. Here was that famous Municipality whose roots struck down into the early ages of Christendom.

"Many were the great buildings left behind them by the English at this place. It was a capital worthy of its political and commercial importance, and singularly adapted to be the point of union between a maritime people and a dependency which could only be reached by sea. Situated far up the estuary of the spacious Gironde, and yet not so far but that the largest fleets could ride safely on its 'noble tide,' while it was capable of the strong fortification which the English took care to provide, this place was pointed out by nature as the great emporium and citadel of that part of Europe, the radiating centre of a great civil and military administration.*

* Though of course many things have changed, the traveller finds it easier to conjure up the past at Bordeaux than at most places, for the river is the one great feature, and that does not change. The Garonne at Bordeaux is a far finer stream than the Thames at London, but it is more like it than any river in Europe on the point of its usefulness as a means of communication. Every species of merchandise finds its way, in spite of railways, from the sea-coast or the up-country in the great barges which "No commercial city in France or England could compare with Bordeaux. London was wealthy and squalid: Bordeaux was wealthy and beautiful. On its ample quays were landed the corn, cheese, butter, skins, fish, leather, rope, and, above all, the tin, the wool, and the cloth of England. From thence issued forth to the British and Flemish ports great fleets of wine-ships, generally sailing together for mutual protection, and governed, like men-of-war, by codes of laws. Free trade between the English and Gascons anticipated by centuries the modern lessons of political economy, and gave unfettered vigour to the commerce of both countries. Not only did all the roads of the province converge to Bordeaux, but it was the centre of that remarkable river-system already mentioned. The Garonne, the Dordogne, and the Adour, with their numerous affluents, circled throughout the whole extent of the land, and afforded admirable means of communication with the neighbouring provinces. Hence the extraordinary magnitude of the Gascon wine trade. This formed the staple commodity of the whole province, and bestowed life and wealth on the whole population. The merchants sailed with their own wines in their own ships. Of such value were these wines to England that the nobles, bishops, clergy, the king himself, and the queen, all traded on their own account.* Sure of a hospitable welcome in the English ports, this fine Gascon commerce, not unnaturally, attracted the jealousy of the French, and numerous were the conflicts in which the Gascon and English traders fought on the same side against their rivals of the northern and north-western coasts of France. These contests never attained the dimensions of the great and furious battle between the Anglo-Gascon and Franco-Norman fishing fleets, which was the prelude of the Hundred Years' War; but they were the same in kind.

"In short, each country was useful to the other in a degree which it requires in these days a stretch of imagination to conceive. No wonder, then, that the policy of the English Government was uniformly and consistently favourable towards its Gascon subjects, and so formed a powerful counterpoise to the inducements which were always presenting themselves in favour of the growing French sovereignty. As the northern and south-eastern, and then the eastern and the north-eastern, provinces of France came, one after another, under the direct dominion of the French Crown, it was impossible but that the fashion of the times, the pressure of the ever-tightening circle drawn round this isolated province, and the ties of blood, should operate in many directions towards incorporation with France. Even the language of the hereditary English princes and governing class was beginning to change under English influences; and the Gascons, however patriotically they might adhere to their own provincial dialect in preference to French, could not but feel English to be a foreign tongue. Each generation brought out the foreign element more and more. On the other hand, generation after generation had grown up under most advantageous relations with their hereditary princes, princes who had poured the resources of England into their lap; and they felt that they were holding a higher position as England's favoured dependency than they could expect to hold as an incorporated portion of overgrown France. If Aquitaine had been bounded by any natural frontier, its independence, it is easy to see, would have had a much longer duration. As it was, Bordeaux, the heart to and from which the arteries and veins of social and political life set forth and returned, retained its English vitality so much longer than all the rest of Gascony, because it had a frontier of its own in the broad river which washed its quays. Only after a prolonged struggle, maintained by the loyal city to desperation, was its final transference to France accomplished. Only by the light of these events can the subsequent history of the Bordelais be understood. It is a very interesting history, and not a little suggestive.

"These observations apply in a minor degree to the whole of Aquitaine, though of course the interests of the cities were not only far from identical with those of the proprietors of land, but often opposed. The social and commercial quarrels common to the Middle Ages were to be found in full vigour, yet perhaps not more developed than elsewhere. But it may be safely said that nowhere was a politic rule more necessary in order to keep the two countries working together in tolerable harmony, and this policy was more easily understood, formulated, and maintained in reference to the commercial cities and classes than to the rest. Indeed, it came to very little more in the end than letting them do what they pleased. The popular Assembly gradually became the actual Government, though under the gentle control of English, or Anglo-Gascon, officials. But it was a much more difficult matter to deal with the great nobles and inland proprietors. It is of them chiefly, no doubt, that Froissart speaks when he says: 'Never were the Gascons firmly attached to one lord for thirty years together. Such is their unstable nature.'† The very necessity under which the English lay to grant concessions, pardons, and privileges formed an incessant inducement to turbulence.

"Nor was it to be expected that, however plainly the governing race might, as a whole, perceive the necessity of a mild and beneficent rule, its particular members, placed in situations of command, should always make themselves agreeable. The English have not always been celebrated for conciliatory conduct, and that those in command must be English was in times of trouble—and these were the rule—a necessity. The chief military and civil posts were thus held by noblemen, knights, esquires, and ecclesiastical lawyers, who were too often regarded with jealousy and dislike. Perhaps, as in the case of Simon de Montfort, they were not so much disliked by the smaller landholders as by the larger; but no doubt M. Monlezun is right when he says: 'We line the whole length of the quays; but, unlike the Thames, these quays retain their ancient shelving construction, so that ships are still loaded and unloaded in the stream just as they were in the time of the English. Few views are finer than that from the end of the great bridge, from whence a forest of masts and a continuous crescent of handsome buildings meet the eye for more than three miles. It is still more striking at night. The citizens can hardly be blamed for anti-English feeling in having got rid of the civil buildings, erected by the English, for they have actually carted away the beautiful and unique Roman monument called "Piliers de Tutelle," which, even in the last century, occupied the site of the present fine Opera-house; but it is nevertheless true that the only buildings, with one slight exception, which imagination can people with the ancient rulers of Aquitaine, are the churches. Of these, the Cathedral is the one most identified with the English, but it is not of a style which does much credit to their architects, and loudly calls for judicious restoration. The beautiful Romanesque facade of La Sainte Croix, and the interesting interior of St. Seurin, were built before their time, but within those walls they worshipped. The chief remaining glory of the English period lies not in Bordeaux, but in the handsome country churches which sprang up under English influences, calling out, as their system of government did, local energy and individual taste

Gascons, a gay and lively race, were never able to adapt themselves to the grave and solemn manners of the English. To this antipathy was soon added the pain of seeing all the seneschalties and captaincies given to the men "d'outremer."* But he is contradicted by a multitude of facts when he makes the sweeping statement that "the English Government had never been favourably received by the Gascons, notwithstanding the material advantages they had received from it." Much more truly does the learned historian of the Monastery of St. Sever remark: "The citizens and monks of St. Sever were always faithful to the English, not only because they recognized them as the legitimate lords of the province, but because of the numerous benefits they received from them. For this reason many a time have they suffered from the hostility of the French; but they bore themselves like brave men, accustomed to arms, and over and over again drove back the enemy."† Nor may we refuse to believe that most accurate geographer, Adolphe Joanne, when he tells us that "Les Landes, like a large part of Aquitaine, exhibited the warmest sympathy for the English, who, in a certain measure, reaped liberty, municipal privileges, and decentralization."‡ References of the same sort might be multiplied to any extent.

"Under these general circumstances a very large portion of the Gascon Rolls is, as we might expect, occupied with embassies and alliances, grants and forfeitures, appointments of officers, commissions of inquiry, musters of troops, and commercial privileges. Nor is it impossible, when once set upon the track, to perceive, as time goes on, amidst the coming and going of officials and the multitude of official details, a certain undercurrent of policy, sparingly indeed, but persistently pursued. This is the policy of gradually entrusting the Gascons themselves with their own government, educating with this view promising young men at the English Court—even settling them in England, and using the services of the more capable amongst them for civil and military purposes in England itself. Thus the two parts of the little Empire were to be knit together, and the reciprocal advantages in trade and commerce, which formed the basis of the connection, to be extended to the social life and territorial inheritances of both peoples. It is needless to say that it is under the reign of the great statesman-monarch, Edward I., that we begin to trace the progress of these ideas, but the way had been prepared by himself during the reign of his father."

The reader now understands the type of man that Gascony bred in those days, and that Richard Cœur-de-Lion had about him, and Philip of Poitou was one of his most trusted followers.

Turning from the history of the milieu in which Philip of Poitou lived, let us see what mediæval history has to say of the man himself.

In the Chronica Rogeri de Hoveden we read:—

A.D. 1195, Dec. 29. "Eodem anno, quinto Natalis Domini die, Bertramus,|| Dnnelmenis ecclesiæ prior, occurrit Huberto Cantuariensi archiepiscopo apud Alvertonam, et ibi coram eo eligit magistrum Philippum clericum et familiarem Ricardi regis Angliæ in Duuelmensem episcopam."

Gervasius§ too tells us of the election of Philip to the Bishopric of Durham. Walter di Coventria has much to say about Philip of Poitou. He tells us he was made Archdeacon of Canterbury by King Richard (1198) and nominated by Geoffery to the deanery of York, being elected to the see of Durham at Northallerton. He was sent to England by Richard to visit the exchequer, had a license to coin, gave the Archdeaconry of Durham to his nephew Aimericus, and in addition procures that of Carlisle for him. He then went to Rome on Richard's behalf, and was consecrated there; after which he went to Cologne to the Imperial election. He recovered Sadberge and had license to Cliffe and Crayke. At this time King Richard corresponds with him and he loses the Manor of Cliffe and has disputes about Coldingham, in which he yielded. After this he was directed to meet the King of Scots and to consecrate the miserable Giraldus. He was allowed a fair at Northallerton, and is again directed to take the King of Scots to London, being present at the homage ceremony. He then went on a pilgrimage to Compostella, and was at St. Jean D'Angleby at Easter in the year 1201, after which he returned from Compostella, and was a witness of Berangarina's marriage, dying in 1208—the see of Durham remaining vacant until 1213.

Bishop Philip was originally the clerk-in-attendance on Richard Cœur-de-Lion, and Professor H. M. Gwatkin of Cambridge tells me it must not be assumed that he was then in priest's orders. He could receive them after election, if he were only a deacon before.

The same then can be assumed of Aimeric, his son or nephew, for after all it is to him we have been working. Indeed we know that both Bishop Philip and Aimeric were laymen before they "took orders." Let us see then what the historians of the Middle Ages have to tell us of Aimeric, his son or nephew:—

nepoti Philippi Dunelmensis electi, archidiaconatum Carleoli, et dictis Philippus dedit dicto Aimerico nepoti suo Archidiaconatum de Dunelmo, et ecclesiam de Acelet, quæ prædictus Bucardus habuerat."

Idem. A.D. 1198, p. 118, Vol. II. "Eodem anno Aimericus, Dunelmensis archidiaconus, disseisariat monachos Dunelmensis ecclesiæ de Villa de* Herserville, quam Henricus de Puteaco eis dederat in puram et perpetuam eleemosynam, ad sustentationem monachorum in Fincheale Deo servientium. Servientes vero, qui missi fuerant ad præfatam disseisinam faciendam, fregerunt ostia domorum monachorum, et monachos ibi inventos violenter eiecervnt. Cum autem idem Aimericus, interrogatus si violentia illa per illum facta fuisset, et respondisset quod non, monachi Dunelmenses, convocatis dero et populo civitatis in ecclesia beati Cuthberti, excommunicaverunt omnes hujus violentiæ auctores, consiliarios, factores, accensis candelis, et pulsates majoribus ecclesiæ campanis."

Idem. A.D. 1198, Vol. II., p. 136. "Sed qui Aimericus Dunelmensis archidiaconus obsedit ecclesiam Sancti Oswaldi in Elvet, in qua monachi se receperant, et non permuset victualia ad eos deferri. Quadem autem die, post appellationem a monachis ad summum pontificem factam, idem Aimericus fecit ignem apponi ostio ecclesiæ, at sic per fumum et vaporem ignis monachos eieceret. Semiusto igitur ostio, funesti satellites intraverunt ecclesiam, et vi et armata manu eiecerunt monachos."

We find then from the above that he was elected Archdeacon of Carlisle and Durham in 1196, and had the church of Acelet presented to him. In 1198 he gets quarrelling with the monks about Herserville Church, and his servants eject them by force, which Aimeric denied. The enraged monks excommunicated all their violent ejectors. Aimeric then besieged St. Oswald's Church in Durham, in which the monks had taken refuge, and cut off all food supplies, and finally smoked them out of the church.

Besides adding his signature to various deeds (already quoted) Aimeric did not make much history that we wot of, and in 1214, whilst still Archdeacon of Durham, he was made High Sheriff of Northumberland† for the year. I have read some other statements regarding him of doubtful authority, e.g., that he was made Prebendary of Lichfield 1215. The librarian of Lichfield Cathedral has kindly made search in the Lichfield records, and tells me there is no record of any such fact at Lichfield.

Aimeric left issue, probably born before his consecration as Archdeacon, and Surtees‡ gives the issue as printed in the previous chapter, a son and two grandsons called Richard fil Emeric and Emeric fil Emeric, selling their lands in St. Oswald's Parish to Peter del Crook in 1200 and something (date obliterated, so Surtees tells us).

Then we next hear of Johannes Emeryson, who holds land in 1312 (?) at Stanley, in Brancepeth Parish, next to St. Oswald's Parish. Johannes must have been born in 1290 at the latest to be of age in 1312, and we know he was alive after 1350, as Hutchinson tells, quoted in the previous chapter. The earliest Emersons then we have record of were lords of manors, and freeholders possessing a hall and other tenements and messuages.

Then we get Geoffrey Emeryson in Yorkshire (1324), and next our earliest Cursitor Roll records Kirstan, widow of Robert Emeryson, of Weardale, mentioned in 1350; and Robert of Hatfield's Survey and William of Hatfield, the capellanus of Lanchester, first appear in the Cursitor Records|| before 1400, and from these the key descends without difficulty to modern times.

Judging from the dates Aimeric must have brought his son over with him in 1198, when he was appointed Archdeacon, and in this connection it is interesting to follow Peter del Crook, and see how Crook Hall reverts to the Emersons for a time. For an Emerson marries Emma de Ryton, a widow (alive in 1350) and heir to John de Kirby of Crook Hall. They have issue Thomas Emeryson of Swalwell (alive in 1413), who has issue Robert Emerson of Swalwell, who sells lands to Roger Thornton, Jun., in 1463. Crook Hall seems to have passed away from the Emersons again.

And we shall find the Emerysons connected with the Church throughout early times, as tenants, as "Scriba," as parkers, as high foresters of the Bishops. We find, too, the name Richard coming down from the earliest times, as also we find on one occasion later the name written again Emeric, and on the other hand the surname Emery never occurs in Durham records. Miss Walford does not remember having met with it in all her searches. Mr. Howe of the Probate Registry says there are no wills in the registry under that name up to 1700, and I have not once seen the name Emery mentioned in connection with Co. Durham since 1300. The Emerys settled in the East and South of England—Lincoln, Kent and Hampshire.

|| Ivide Cursitor Records printed in Appendix.

As I have said before, I am aware the above is not proof of my contention, but until it is disproved I shall abide by it.

Then we start on firm ground with Robert Emeryson, of Hatfield's Survey—Robert, the first parker of the Bishop's Park in Weardale, so far as is known; but since the early records are in such a bad state Robert the husband of Kirstan may have been parker before him. Robert and his son John were the free tenants (liberi tenentes) and held by no servile tenure, but by military tenure, and Robert was comparatively well off for the times, though not so well off as John Emeryson, of Stanley. I merely state these facts to show the earliest Emersons were no ordinary free socagers, but minor gentry and noble freemen from the very earliest times, and if of Aquatanian origin, as I submit, never were other than free and independent men, and their descendants have inherited their independence of mind in all times and places.

We find, according to Hatfield's (1377) Survey, that Robert Emeryson held South Bedburn Hall (Hamsterley Parish) and Gibbseclose, and land in Weardale (Horsley). John his son held land in Weardale (Brussihous), and William the capellanus of Lanchester, also held in Weardale. Professor York-Powell found the following at the Bodleian, showing that Robert, Jun.'s, wife's name was Margery—Bod. Cal. Rolls, ch. 153: Robt. Emeryson and Margt. his wife, etc., etc., Apl. 29, Ric. II. (1399), of Hamsterly and S. Bedburn. The Cursitor Rolls then give us Robert's children and those of Adam, one of his sons, and they tell us that Adam and Thomas were appointed parkers first and high foresters of Weardale afterwards to the Bishops of Durham.

On examining the pedigree we see then how the Wolsingham family originated with Robert himself, who held property there, which descended to Adam, whose descendants held property there to modern times; how Thomas' descendants inherited the Weardale property; how Robert, son of Thomas, brought the Darlington (Bondgate) property into the family; how these properties were divided between his sons Robert and Thomas; how Robert's sons Richard, Thomas and Christopher died without issue—their property descended to Robert, a descendant of Leonard, the younger brother of Thomas and Robert aforesaid; and how Thomas' children Robert and George inherited part of the property, and they dying without issue it descended to the sole survivor Margaret, who married one T. Phillip, one of whose daughters, Katherine, married Brian Emerson, of Weardale and Houghton, and so he joined the family by marriage, and was disclaimed in 1615 with Thomas of Darlington, a true descendant and the direct lineal descendant of the family.

This family was connected with the Eastgate, and possibly it was one of them who had the Eastgate coat granted to him. They were always in good position.

As for John, the eldest son of Robert of Hatfield, he may have been John Robinson Emerson referred to in the Cursitor Rolls, and probably was; if so he had a son John Robinson Emerson, who probably died without issue, as he bequeaths Rookhope property and his office to William, the son of William, vide pedigree. If he was not John Robinson Emerson I can find no further record of him as bearing issue.

I have incorporated Richard in the pedigree as a son of Robert of Hatfield, on the authority of the Court Rolls, but this is not proof of identity.

It will be seen that down to 1500 most of the names mentioned can be linked on to the tree, but in 1511 a number of names appear as foresters and tenants of the Bishops which I have been unable to place. They were obviously children of Robert's or William's sons, and all descended from one or the other; and though many of the records existing at the end of the sixteenth century are obviously records of these very same persons, one is unable to give legal proof of the connection. The names of 1511 too show us how the family began to spread and take up positions, where many of them are to be found in modern times—such as at Horsley, Brotherlee, Eastgate, Westgate, etc., and other parts of Weardale; Eastgate being the residence of the forest officers, and Westgate Castle the place where the forest court was held and the military tenants paid their "jock-pennies."

The connection of the family with Brancepeth, Brearton, Houghton (Barmeton), Sunderland, Newcastle, Wolsingham, Lanchester, and other places in the county, are shown by the records, but it has not been worth while to elucidate these more fully in this place; and anyone compiling a pedigree of his family will probably find material enough at hand to carry him back to 1511; fewer will find material enough to carry them back to 1350.

Turning now to William of Hatfield, "capellanus" of Lanchester, placed in the pedigree, Hatfield's Survey (1377—1380) gives him as holding lands value altogether 8s., but in the margin is added Robertus Emerisson, which leaves a doubt. This William may have been a brother of Robert of Hatfield, or a son—either is possible—and it will be noticed he held an office at Lanchester, when John of Stanley held "lady-land." Robert of Hatfield may have been the son of Robert, whose widow Kirstan lived in 1350, and William may have been issue of John of Stanley, who married Agnes Raw, who may have been brother of Robert of Weardale, whose widow Kirstan died in 1350; if so, this first Robert who married Kirstan, and John of Stanley, were probably sons of Richard Emeric—as the name Richard descends through the pedigree of Robert of Hatfield. But it is unprofitable to go on conjecturing, and I have only done so much to indicate lines of search to my successor when he appears.

William's family descends to 1511, when William is parker to the New Park and lives at Brotherlee. His will exists, and his descendants may be traced on from this time should anyone find it worth their while to do so.

I have tried later on in all cases to give what might be called the stolon pedigrees of the real Emersons in every county up to the end of the eighteenth century, so that future genealogists wishing to trace back would have little difficulty in going back to my roots, and should any important man arise from one of these roots they could easily work back; for it is obviously not worth while to trace endless stolon families of no importance to the fountain head, even if we were able to do so and willing to give valuable time to the work.

The Weardale Forest, where so many Emersons held office, was the hunting ground of the Prince Bishop of Durham, who in those days was more of a man than the Bishops of to-day. A number of the villains in Bolden Book held by forest service, whilst later other portions were held by military tenure by free tenants, as the Fetherstonehalghs, Emersons, Rogerleys, Merleys, Maddisons, Nevilles, Blacketts, etc., all of whom were connected by marriage and the ancestors of important English families.

* Gradually the increase of tenants began to encroach upon the forest, so that a chase or park was enclosed and kept in order by the palacer, four high foresters and park-keepers, and later circa 1449, a new chase or park was enclosed. These enclosures were known by the names of Old and New Park. The New Park lay between Eastgate and Westgate and Northgate and Gate Castle on the South, at which cardinal points the foresters' lodges were situated—many of these officials holding farms as well. Leland gives its area at some fourteen miles.

It would be out of place to go into this matter in a genealogical history, and we give these few notes to show what manner of life was led by the early Emersons, for they were hereditary foresters and parkers, as the following imperfect list which I have compiled will show. There was a forest at Wolsingham too, and the bailiffs often lived at Wolsingham. This office in the palatinate of Durham was a very important office, the duties devolving on the officials being the same as those that occupied the Sheriffs of other counties.

 1621. William Emerson.

Down to 1511 most of the family were in good circumstances; e.g., in 1511 Robt. and John Emeryson give 100 marks for the pasturage of Stanhope Park and various frithopes. But after that time they increased so rapidly that many fell to yeomen and some even to labourers, as the Cursor Records show. As I have said before, these Weardale tenants held by military tenure, i.e., "The tenantry of Weardale in those times held by military tenure, a service on the borders, and keeping watch and ward in the bishopric. Being troubled by inroads from the Scots, the customary tenants and leaseholders had to do their service unto Her Majesty upon the borders fourteen days upon their own costs and charges, having ten days' duty on the borders, the other four days being allowed for the repairing thither and the return journey. Both night and day watches were also to be observed in the park and forest, upon the fells as occasion required, but more particularly from Lammas till Michaelmas, which, however, was often extended till St. Andrew's Day. The several watches were to be observed at Northgate, Winter Gap, Woolley Gate, White Hills, Dockehead, Middlehope, Wellhead, Hatfaw Newke, Chesterhooks, Sledgapp, Whitestones, Bayhill, Langingend, Irongrovehill, Old Irongrove, Burnthills, Cowhouse-head, Greenlaws, Windiep Sike (there several watches), in Harthope Cleugh (there several watches); and the duties being stated that the inhabitants within the forest and park were to keep due and true watches at the above places as appointed by the officers."^{*}

There were watch-places on the low grounds too, including Ludwell-field, Whestnophope-burn-pot, Burniehope and Shittlehope—all residences of early Emerson families, whose duty it was to watch and kill the thieving and "fair-spoken" Scots. They also had to follow their chieftains on service and appear at musters, on horse or foot according to their means. They are reported to have been good soldiers and ever more than a match for the bragging Scots, as the old ballad of "Rookhope Ryde" commemorates, wherein less than 50 Englishmen led by Rowland Emerson, after an hour's fighting, killed four Scots, captured eleven, and routed the remaining 85, with the loss on the English side of their leader, Rowland Emerson.

ROOKHOPE RYDE.

(OLD BALLAD.)

ROOKHOPE stands in a pleasant place,
 If the false thieves wad let it be;
 But away they steal our goods apace,
 And ever an ill death may they dee!
 And so is the men of Thirlwa'nd Willie-haver,
 And all their companies thereabout,
 That is minded to do mischief,
 And at their stealing stands not out.
 But yet we will not slander them all
 For there is of them good enow;
 It is a sore consumed tree
 That on it bears not one fresh bough.
 Lord God! is not this a pitiful case,
 That men dare not drive their goods to t' fell,
 But limmer thieves drives them away,
 That fears neither heaven nor hell?
 Lord, send us peace into the realm,
 That every man may live on his own!
 I trust to God, if it be his will,
 That Weardale men may ne'er be overtbrown.

For great troubles they've had in hand,
 With Borderers pricking hither and thither,
 But the greatest fray that e'er they had,
 Was with the men of Thirlwa'nd Willie-haver.
 They gather'd together so royally,
 The stondest men and the best in gear;
 And he that rade not on a horse
 I wat he rade on a weel-fed mear.
 So in the morning, before they came out,
 So weel I wot they broke their fast;
 In the [forenoon they came] unto a bye fell,
 Where some of them did eat their last.
 When they had eaten, aye and done,
 They say'd, some captains here needs must be!
 Then they choosed forth Harry Corbyl,
 And Symon Fell, and Martin Ridley.
 Then o'er the moss, where as they came,
 With many a brank and whew,
 One of them could to another say,
 "I think this day we are men anew."

* W. M. Egglestone, "Stauhope and Neighbourhood," p. 24.

" For Weardale men is a journey ta'en,
 They are so far out o'er yon fell,
 That some of them's with the two earls,
 And others fast in Bernard Castell.
 " There we shall get gear enough,
 For there is nae but women at hame ;
 The sorrowful fend that they can make,
 Is loudly eries as they were slain."
 Then in at Rookhope Head they came,
 And there they thought tul a bad their prey,
 But they were spy'd coming over the Dry-rig,
 Soon upon Saint Nicholas' day.
 Then in at Rookhope Head they came,
 They ran the forest but a mile ;
 They gather'd together in four hours
 Six hundred sheep within a while.
 And horses I trow they gat,
 But either ane or twa ;
 And they gat them all but ane,
 That belang'd to great Rowley.
 That Rowley was the first man that did them spy,
 With that he raised a mighty cry ;
 The cry it came down Rookhope Burn,
 And spread through Weardale hastily.
 Then word came to the bailiff's house,
 At the Eastgate where he did dwell ;
 He was walked out to the Smale-burns,
 Which stands above the Hanging-well.
 His wife was wae when she heard tell,
 So weel she wist her husband wanted gear ;
 She gar'd saddle his horse in haste,
 And neither forgot sword, jack, nor spear.
 The bailiff got wit before his gear came,
 That such news was in the land ;
 He was sore troubled in his heart,
 That on no earth that he could stand.
 His brother was hurt three days before,
 With limmer thieves that did him prick ;
 Nineteen bloody wounds lay him upon,
 What ferly was't that he lay sick ?
 But yet the bailiff shrinked nought,
 But fast after them he did gie ;
 And so did all his neighbours near,
 That went to bear him company.
 But when the bailiff was gathered,
 And all his company ;
 They were numbered to never a man
 But forty under fifty.
 The thieves was numbered a hundred men,
 I wat they were not of the worst
 That could be choosed out of Thirlwa' 'nd Willie-
 [I trow they were the very first.*] [haver,
 But all that was in Rookhope-head,
 And all that was i' Nuketon-cleugh,

Where Weardale-men o'ertook the thieves,
 And there they gave them fighting enegh.
 So sore they made them fain to flee,
 As many was " a " out of hand ;
 And, for tul have been at home again,
 They would have been in iron bands.
 And for the space of loog seven years,
 As sore they mighten a' had their lives ;
 But there was never one of them
 That ever thought to have seen their wives.
 About the time the fray began,
 I trow it lasted but an hour,
 Till many a man lay weaponless,
 And was sore wounded in that stour.
 Also before that hour was done,
 Four of the thieves were slain,
 Besides all those that wounded were,
 And eleven prisoners there was ta'en.
 George Carrick and his brother Edie,
 Them twa, I wot they were both slain ;
 Harry Corbyl, and Lennie Carriek,
 Bore them company in their paio.
 One of our Weardale-men was slain,
 Rowland Emerson his name height ;
 I trust to God his soul is well,
 Because he fought unto the right.
 But thus they say'd, " we'll not depart
 While we have one ;— speed back again !"
 And when they came amongst the dead men,
 There they found George Carriek slain.
 And when they found George Carriek slain,
 I wot it went well near their heart ;
 Lord, let them never make a better end,
 That comes to play them sicken a part.
 I trust to God, no more they shall,
 Except it be one for a great chance ;
 For God will punish all those
 With a great heavy pestilence.
 Thir limmer thieves, they have good hearts,
 They never think to be o'erthrown ;
 Three banners against Weardale-men they bare,
 As if the world had been their own.
 Thir Weardale-men, they have good hearts,
 They are as stiff as any tree ;
 For if they'd every one been slain,
 Never a foot back man would flee.
 And such a storm amongst them fell,
 As I think you never heard the like ;
 For he that bears his head so high,
 He oft-times falls into the dyke.
 And now I do entreat you all,
 As many as are present here,
 To pray for [the] singer of this song,
 For he sings to make blithe your cheer.

It is curious to note how the Aquatanian emigrants to England were notable for their love of sport. As Professor Montague Burrows has shown us in the history of the Brocas family, the hereditary masters of the Royal Buckhounds were of Aquatanian origin, so I find were the hereditary high foresters of Weardale—the Emersons. Doubtless many of the Emersons, who early in the sixteenth century migrated to other parts of England, went thither as foresters, for we find them settling in districts where there were Kings' chases and other forests, e.g., Thomas Emerson, of Skelton, high forester, W.P. 1516; Thomas Emerson, of King's Barton, Co. Gloucester; Emersons, of Enfield; Emersons about Waltham, Co. Essex, and Emersons of Hatfield, mentioned in the Black Book of the Northern Forests, etc. Then John Emeryson, of Folkingham, is found on the Earl of Lincoln's property, and the Southwark family, originated with a Lincolnshire bowyer,* William Emerson, W.P. 1575. It is not surprising, therefore, if in modern times this love of war, sport and nature should show itself in the family.

There is little more to say of this early family apart from genealogical facts. A family of minor gentry sprung from Aquatania, where men had ever been free, they brought this love of freedom, war and sport with them, and far from the madding crowd lived honourable and healthy lives with nature and their few sympathetic friends, doing their share to protect the marches of England from the fair-spoken Scot, and the red-deer from its multifarious enemies—leading a sane and healthy life, neither ambitious nor distinguished—and would that more of the name could follow such a life to-day.

CHAPTER IV.

History of the Various Emerson Families in Different Counties.

I.

EMERSONS OF CO. NORTHUMBERLAND.

As will be remembered Northumberland was (until quite recently) under the government of the Bishop of Durham, and probably the first connection of the Emerson family with the county was in 1214, when Aimeric, Archdeacon of Durham, was made High Sheriff of Northumberland† for one year; very possibly leaving a son or grandson in the county, for by the early Assize Roll, Northumberland, 40 Hen. III. (A.D. 1256), there is mention of Ricardus de Emmers—possibly the Archdeacon's grandson, Richard Emeric, whose name was misspelt by a scribe. Richard may have been living in Co. Durham however, and most likely so, for the name does not once appear in the early Northumberland records, including the Lay Subsidies to 32 Hen. VIII.—in which, however, it is noteworthy to remark some filii Emme appear. And though Emmers is a curious spelling of Emeric, the scribes of that day were guilty of far more careless versions of a name.

The next Emerson that appears (in Durham records) is James Emerson, of Lowyk, in Northumberland, who seeks sanctuary at Durham in 1514 for having killed one Walker at Lowyk with "bastardo sworde" for insulting him. This James was doubtless in the border service to check the inroads of the thievish Scots, and it is to be hoped the man Walker was a Scot, as his name suggests. The hot blood of Aquatania evidently still ran strongly in James' veins. "Nicolao Swinburn, literato, testibus."

The next is a sailor, Rowland (a good Weardale name) Emerson, master mariner, and probably the first marine Emerson that ever lived, who appears in the muster roll of 30 Hen. VIII., 1539, "as one of sixty-four who promised to provide harness for the King's service." Rowland evidently knew a good king when he had him.

We now come to undoubted Durham families settling in the county, but chiefly at Newcastle; the earliest record that I have of them being an indenture, dated 7 March, 1561—2, between John Marley, of Whickham, yeoman, and George Emerson, of Newcastle, yeoman, concerning land in Whickham (printed in Appendix).‡ These early Newcastle Emersons demonstrably came from Durham, and they afterwards held lands at Whickham and Lamesley close by. They seem to have intermarried with some of the great merchant families of Newcastle, as Carr, Tomlinson and Barker, as can be seen by the wills of these merchants in the Appendix. Some of the family kept to agriculture, others became merchants, skinners and glovers, and others maltsters—which I take “hoastmen” to mean—and some smaller tradesmen.

The gaps in registers, and more especially wills, of the period are too numerous to build up a solid pedigree of the family; but such an one as I have been able to compile I append, and George Emerson, yeoman, will proved 1596, is the first man I can place at the top. From what Durham branch he came I cannot positively say, but the evidence seems to me sufficient to hazard a conjecture that he was a son of Humphrey, of Ryton, who married a Marley.

Swalwell.*

Emma, widow of Thomas de Ryton, heir to John de Kirkby, of Crook Hall, marries an Emerson. They have a son, Thomas Emerson, who has lands at Swalwell. He has a son, Robert Emerson, of Swalwell, who sells lands to Roger Thornton, of Newcastle. Robert has a son George, of Swalwell, who has a son Ralph, of Swalwell. Crook Hall is in Lanchester Parish.

At the end of the sixteenth century we find one Thomas Emerson keeping a tavern at Barwick (Berwick), 1592—3, who is a freeman of London and gives evidence before the Committee for the North denying that he was ever in Flanders, “or spake of an army coming to Ostend.”† It does not say where he was born, but his pedigree is given under the Emersons of London and Middlesex (q.v.).

In the seventeenth century we find several Emersons coming to be apprenticed to Newcastle merchant adventurers: (1) Arthur, son of Brian, of Eastgate, apprenticed to William Jennison, 1612; possibly afterwards Arthur Emerson, of Dublin, armiger, 1692. (2) John Emerson, son of George, of Ludwell, apprenticed to Robert Bewick, 1616 (vide Ludwell Emersons)—the spurious armiger. (3) Thomas, son of Thomas, gent. (?), of Kilham, apprenticed to Robert Ellison, 1675. (4) John, son of John, of Newcastle, apprenticed to Sir Nathaniel Johnson, knight, 1681.

The above Thomas was son of Ralf Emerson, of Kilham (adm. 1654 by his wife Alice), who was the only son of Ralf Emerson by his wife Alice, of Kilham, whose administration was granted 1653. Thomas, the father of Thomas, Jun., was convicted of recusancy (Recusant Rolls, 1669). Whence this family came I know not. Since Thomas is described as a “gentleman,” the family must have been of some substance. Fuller details of these indentures will be found in the Appendix.

John Emerson, of Newcastle, who was of the Eastgate Emersons (vide Ludwell Emersons), was an important and wealthy merchant of the time; a Puritan, moreover, and elected as sheriff in 1639, in troublous times. He was alderman and mayor of the town at the Visitation (1660). He is the John Emerson who bought part of Wolsingham Manor in 1646, and signed the indenture for Parliament. He was a uxorious man and married his three wives as all good Emersons should, leaving mostly female issue, as far as I can trace. There is a mural tablet to his memory in St. Nicholas Church, Newcastle, the arms he used being impaled with those of his three wives; but I regret to say, though John was a good citizen, he was an imposter so far as his arms were concerned, for on this tablet is given the Lincolnshire coat and other details referred to in Chapter II., on armorial Emersons. The Newcastle Emersons never had a coat of arms, and probably Mr. John Emerson took them from the Kail Cross at Newcastle, where they had been placed in 1617 by Thomas Emerson of the Southwark family, when he presented the crosses to Durham and Newcastle. Let it be hoped we shall never hear of the arms of the Newcastle Emersons again. He was a merchant; his brother Ralf, of Witton Gilbert, was a yeoman, as were his other brothers, the Eastgate Emersons, which see under Ludwell Emersons. He was not even one of the Newcastle families of Emersons, i.e., descendants of George, who first appears in 1561 in the indenture with Marley re Whickham lands. He left no male issue.

I find other stragglers of the family at Newcastle, and one John Emerson at Screnwood, whose inventory amounted to £387 3s. 4d., the administration being dated August, 1663 (he left a son George and a widow Jane); but no others of much consequence beyond those already mentioned or their descendants, although the first Emerson who entered the medical profession is probably Cuthbert Emerson, who signs the ordinance of the barber-surgeons of Newcastle, 13 June, 1635—probably Cuthbert of Gateshead. In 1657, Ralph (qr. brother of Thos. of Kilham), of Dilston, Northumberland, witnesses Sir Ed. Redcliffe's will. A Robert Emerson, of Ludwell, went to Fetherstonehalgh, probably on the border service, after 1610. I find one John Amerson^o in Northhamshire again in 1670—1, who has to pay £11 for moiety of corn tithes to the Ancroft Chaplery, Subsidy Act, 1670—1, possibly a descendant of James, of Lowyck (Northhamshire), who killed Walker. I find a Robert Emberson at Newcastle in 1572, one of the earliest spellings in this variant.

It is evident that the Emersons never grew very thickly in Newcastle or in Northumberland, and that such families as there were hailed from Co. Durham.

II.

EMERSONS OF CO. DURHAM.

All essential details of the majority of these families are given in the printed pedigrees, so we will not repeat them here.

Durham City.

The earliest record of the family is of course the Archdeacon, 1195, and his sons and grandsons, Lords of Sidgate Manor (just outside Durham), afterwards called Crook Hall.

Our next record is Robert Emerson, gent., 1433, given in a list of gentry published in Surtees' "History of Co. Durham." This Robert I cannot at present place for certain.

Next we have Richard, the scribe of the Priory, 1486, who marries Isabell, and who with George = Alice are in the Liber Vitæ as subscribers to the rebuilding of the cathedral.

Then wills and registers allow us to compile the following pedigree of Durham City, Lanchester, Brancepeth, Trimdon, Twizell, White Hurworth and Reedmarshall—all in the neighbourhood. Some families we cannot connect at all. It will be seen some of them are connected by marriage with the Waltons, Pallocers, Rawdons, and other old families.

Emersons of Lanchester.

As we have said John Emeryson, of Stanley, Brancepeth Parish, appeared early in this parish, Surtees, Vol. I., p. 340. In 1350 Will de Raw (Cornsey) died, seized jointly with Jemina his wife of half manor of Cornsow by fealty and $\frac{1}{16}$ knight's fee of service, leaving Allan, son of John Bell, his nephew and heir. By Inq. 7^o Hatfield (1352) he is said to have held 20 acres of the Bishop and 20 acres of Lord Hedley by fealty and 12d. and 8 acres. William Bell, brother of Allan Bell, was now heir. William Bell forsook the name of Bell and took that of Raw (Cornsay Raw) after his manor, and he died 20^o Hatfield, 1365, as Will-o'-the-Raw, and left Agnes his sister, wife of John Emeryson, of Stanley, as heir. So John Emeryson became Lord of Cornsey Manor, also holding land in Hedleyhope and ladie lands of Lanchester Deanery. We then get Will, of Lanchester, Capellanus, evidently his son, though I have not the proof of the missing link. Will is also described of Buttesfield, Broomsheils and Satley.

* Raine's "History of North Durham."

Next we get Robert, of Lanchester. For in Surtees we read that in 1607 Sir H. Lumley and another grant ladic-lands, formerly occupied by Robert Emerson, evidently a descendant of John Emeryson, who married Agnes Raw. The Lanchester Registers are unfortunately very imperfect and some lost, the only record being that of Ralf Emerson. We have referred to Emersons of Broome under Co. Durham. Then we have Robert Emerson, who marries Alice Hardgill, collector of Lanchester, and holding lands at Burnhope and Hamsteels, which descend to his sons, Thomas, chaplain of Darlington, and Christopher, collector of Brancepeth, 1494, who both die without issue, and so they pass to another branch, vide Emersons of Darlington. In 1542 we find Henry, Forester of Roughside, in this parish, and we find later a William, of Eshe, claiming lands at Collierly, and later Anthony, of Pontop, vide Durham pedigree.

We cannot connect these people, and alas no Lanchester Emersons' wills survive, but these and those of Brancepeth are obviously descendants of John Emeryson, of Stanley (Brancepeth), and Agnes Raw, who held property in both places, John Emeryson having been co-Lord of the Manors of Stanley (Brancepeth) and Cornsey (Lanchester Parish). Stanley passed into possession of the Nevilles, nevertheless we find the vill held by Ralf Emerson (of Brancepeth) and his son-in-law, Nicholas Fetherstone, 1569 (Humberstone's Survey, etc.). This Ralf Emerson was well-to-do and appears in 1569 as a light horseman, armed and horsed, the wealthiest of the Emersons in that muster. He was probably a retainer of the better sort, but whence his origin I am unable to say. His will is dated 1581. I have been unable to trace his later issue for certain and guesses are useless.

There are several references to Emersons of the parishes close round Durham city in the records printed in the Appendix, but not sufficient data to compile pedigrees other than those given. It will thus be seen that though the family probably originated in those parishes and began as Lords of Manors and free tenants, or gentlemen of the period, owing to lost registers, etc., a complete pedigree cannot yet be made out. It will be seen, too, that the wealthier members of the family moved away to Hamsterley and into Weardale and elsewhere. Ralf, of Brancepeth, I once thought was possibly the long-lost armiger, Ralf, of Foxton, but on further search there is nothing whatever to connect him with Foxton and all the evidence points the other way, that he was not the armiger. The chief interest in these families is their pedigrees which are published above. Proceed we now to neighbouring parishes in which data sufficient for building short pedigrees exist.

Emersons of Witton Gilbert.

Ralf, of Witton, whose pedigree is given in the Ludwell Emersons. His daughters married Wilkinson and Meaburn. He was a yeoman and held office at Westgate office, the forest castle where rents, etc., were paid. In Surtees, Vol. I., p. 369, Robert Wrangham, Ralf Malome and others pardoned for purchasing 10 mess., 10 barns, 5 tofts, 5 gardens, 200 acres, 200 meadow, 100 pasture, 40 wood, 500 furze, 200 moor; and a little later, 28 Eliz., we get Ralf Emerson and others pardoned for purchasing the above Manor of Witton from Thos. Knevett, so he, too, was part Lord of a Manor though a yeoman as described in the Court Rolls. He was in the muster of 1569, armed with a spear and corselet. He was not the armiger Ralf as some have thought, and went out in female issue.

Emersons of Witton Chaplery (North Bedburn, Witton-le-Wear).

We find few records of Emersons in this parish. From the records we have been able to compile the following short pedigree:—

In 1714 Ezra Emmerson, M.A. (Edin.), was curate of this Chaplery until 1735—the same Ezra Emerson who left £50 in his will to the Barnard Castle poor.

Emersons of Hamsterley Chaplery (Hamsterley, Lynesae and Softly, South Bedburn).

Bishop Philip, of Poictou, held lands here in 1200, and curiously enough we find Robert Bishop's Auckland. The following short pedigree is all that I can compile of this place from the register:—

Rev. Ezra Emmerson, Parson of Bishop's Auckland, ob. Dec. 25th, 1733, leaving £50 per annum to poor of Barnard Castle.

There is an isolated James in Muster Roll, 1569. ob. 1590, and Robert, alive 1494.

Helen's Auckland. There is a short pedigree of Tobias Emerson, who is evidently Tobias, a scion of the Lynesake family; the pedigree will be found under Lynesake. There is an isolated Ralf, of Helen's Auckland, in 1574.

Emersons of Sedgfield Parish.

The earliest record of Emersons in this place is John Emerson, of Sedgfield (1616), Cursitor Roll. He was on the jury and therefore one of the most prominent inhabitants, evidently a farmer; evidently the man described as a "common calliver" in 1612. Emersons then appear as copyholders, when John Emerson (copyholder, 1630) buys a house in North Street, rent 2d., fined 6d., which descends to John, admitted 1701 (vide App.). The next record is the mention of Morland House in Sedgfield, 1727, belonging to John Emerson, of Stokesley, Co. York, an ancestor of the Emersons of Easby Hall, q.v. under modern pedigree (Co. York). This house was probably bought by John Emerson, Senior, as Sedgfield was noted at that period for its genial climate. I have been unable to compile any satisfactory pedigree from the well-kept register, but give a tentative skeleton. It is possible John, of Morland, and John the last of the copyholders are related.

About 1800 a gardener moved to Sedgfield, one John Johnson Emmerson, and I append his pedigree compiled from the register.

Emersons of Fishburn and West Murton.

We find a small family of Emersons here. John, s. of Thos., and John, of Fishburn, are probably related.

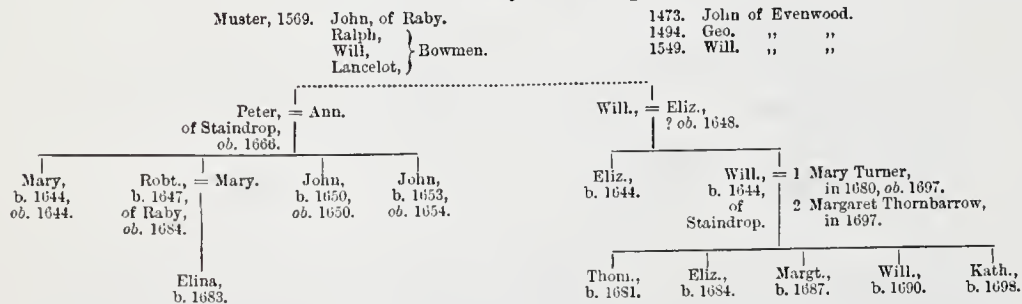

Bradbury. The manor belonged to Thomas Emerson, Esq., of London, Barrister (vide Emersons of Co. Surrey for his history and pedigree). This is the same man who was steward to Earl of Somerset, and placed his arms on Market Durham Cross and Kail Cross, Newcastle.

Township: Foxton and Shotton. The other Emersons of Shotton, descended from Ralf Emerson, are fully described and their pedigrees given in Chapter II. No Emerson ever held of the Bishop in Foxton, and none claimed at 1575 Visitation of arms. It is possible the armiger Ralf, of Foxton, was merely living here for a short time when granted arms and so gave his address as Foxton, and that he belonged to a family in a different part of the country. I hardly think the Shotton Ralf was the armiger, as he is described as a husbandman in his will and his children are described as yeomen in their wills, and no one appeared at the 1575 Visitation to claim the arms.

Emersons of Staindrop.

East Murton. In Sedgfield Register we find one Ralf Emerson, of East Murton, and a family of Emmesons of Sedgfield Parish (West Morton) took the name of Morton, viz., Peter Emmeson of Hatfield's Survey. Inq. P.M. Agnes fil Emme fil Rob. de Morton, Ao 20 Hatfield. Inq. P.M. Sibilla fil de Emme, etc., Ao 20 Hatfield. This accounts for the disappearance of some of the family of Emmesons given in Hatfield, etc. A few members of the West Murton family survived and migrated to Yorkshire, one Ralf, of Romanby, a yeoman, going out in female issue (vide will in Appendix).

Emersons of Stranton Parish.

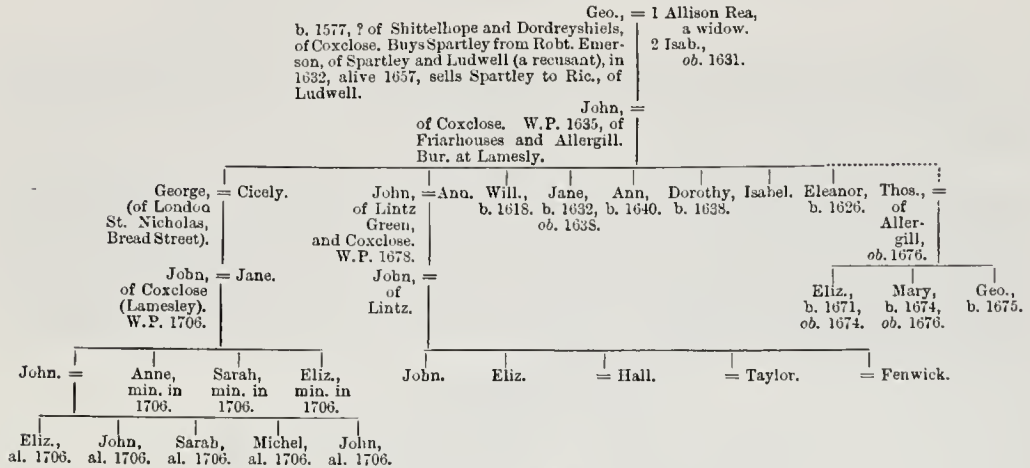

Stranton. The presentation of this living was in the hands of the Prior of Gisburn. A family of Emersons appears here in the sixteenth century, and I append a long pedigree compiled from the well-kept register, wills, etc. It will be seen that one vicar, Rev. John Semer, al. 1539—1561, married an Emerson and left lands at Reedmarsh to Francis Emerson, of Brearton (ob. 1582).

Owton. Some of the above family lived here.
Brearton. Some of the above family lived here. Vide also key pedigree. These were descendants of Adam R. Emerson (q.v.).

Emersons of Heighington.

Stanhope Parish.

Weardale in this parish is not the cradle of the Emersons as some have thought ; indeed, the evidence shows conclusively that the Emersons migrated to Weardale from other parts of the county, and the Weardale family was probably founded by Robert Emeryson. His total properties are not given, but he was in good position, holding Gibbs Close, in Weardale, and South Bedburn Hall, in Wolsingham Parish. His son John held (by Hatfield) a toft and croft (Brussihous) in Weardale, and William the capellanus held a small tenancy. The family came hither from Wolsingham Parish. They at first held small holdings, but as they increased and became High Foresters, Parkers and Bailiffs to the Bishops their holdings became larger and more numerous. They held by military tenure as we have said in a previous chapter, and evidently divided later on into three sets—the chief or High Forester set, the mining families, and the purely agricultural families: the foresters living at Eastgate, Westgate, Northgate and Gate Castle, the four entrances to the park ; the miners living about Lynn Rigg and Easter Blackdean, etc.; and the pure farmers at Horsley and Ludwell, etc. Doubtless Weardale forest was a training ground for many of the family who went as foresters elsewhere in England, for evidence goes to point that the Gloucester, Enfield, Skelton, Hatyfield and Windsor Emersons were originally foresters, and in the case of the Gloucester family we find they came from Weardale, as probably did the others. Members of the family intermarried with the other chief Weardale families, e.g., the Fetherstonehalghs, Marleys, Blackitts, Nevilles, Maddisons and Muschamps, etc., and some doubtless migrated thence, inheriting lands in other parts of the county and possibly in other counties, e.g., the Emersons of Newcastle inherited Marley lands.

LEY, BURTFORSFORD AND SUORTHORNS.

Wills, Registers and Durham Records.

Though Stanhope was the chief town of the Weardale, but few Emersons seem to have resided there in early times, though the register (q.v.) is full of them. There are more of the name in Weardale to-day, too, than in any other place, some holding the same farms they held 400 years ago. And though Weardale has been for so long the cradle of so many of the family, not a single distinguished and but one very wealthy man—John Emerson, of Newcastle, Lord of Wols. Manor, 1646—of the name has as yet originated directly from the dale; the successful men have required other influences and associations, especially the intellectual stimulus of town life of some sort. But though the Weardale Emersons have, like a well-governed country, none but humdrum history to boast of, yet they have produced a long line of sane and healthy beings, who were and are perhaps happier in their peaceful and agricultural life than those who have gone farther and grown more distinguished. Moreover, whilst the family has such a nursery it can never die out, as many a family has already done.

EMERSON WEAR-HEAD.
(Co. Durham.)

(Drawing by J. R. Fetherstone. Engraving by Collard.)

We will now give various pedigrees of these Weardale families, compiled from wills, registers and Durham records, including the key pedigree (q.v.). The accompanying block is an engraving of a farm in Weardale called Emerson Wear-head, and is taken from Mr. Fetherstone's "Men and Manners in Weardale."

Emersons of Horsley.

As far back as Hatfield's Survey, 1377, Emersons held lands here, vide pedigree of the family.

Emersons of Ludwell.

This too is an old family, and contains most of the Foresters, Parkers and Bailiffs who lived at the Eastgate. One of the family migrated to Essex, but returned, vide pedigree.

Emersons of Lynn Rygge and Easterblackdene, etc.

This family contained the miners, vide pedigree for further details.

Emersons of Brotherlee and Gatecastle.

This family is very old too, and produced some of the forest officers, and William Emerson the Mathematician. For further details vide the pedigree.

Emersons of Stanhope.

Hugh of Stanhope, Brewer, 1503.

The above most likely belonged to families in the neighbourhood of Stanhope; the register only gives one W. Emerson of Stanhope, bur. 1621, but since in the wills they are called of Stanhope, I print them here not being able to connect them elsewhere.

For full details of the Rookhope, Pow, Darlington and Wolsingham Emersons, see the key pedigree; but there is one Wolsingham family that I cannot attach to the key, so I give it here.

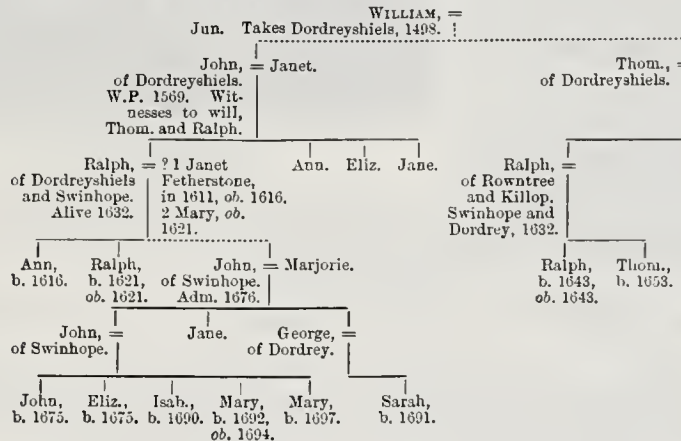

The multitude and similarity of Christian names in the wills, registers and records of this parish make the work most complex and puzzling; but though I have endeavoured to be as accurate as possible, errors there must be.

EMERSONS OF WESTGATE, DORDREYSHIELS AND SWINHOPE.

Compiled from Wills, Registers and other records.

1483. Roger, of Westgate, formerly of Sunderland and before that of Middleton.
 1511. Nich., of Westgate.
 1511. Alex., of Westgate, Gatecastle and Swinhope (1478).
 1530. Henry, of Westgate, held Lumley lands.

Emersons of Houghton.

This family originated in Weardale; one of them, Brian, was disclaimed in 1615, and several of them also owned considerable property in Weardale. Many of them appear in the Recusant Rolls. Brian, of Houghton and of the Eastgate, was probably the father of Arthur Emerson, merchant, of Dublin, who was granted arms in 1692. This conjecture is based upon the Newcastle indentures of apprentices (q.v.). For further particulars see pedigree.

Emersons of Barnard Castle.

This family seem to have migrated somewhat late to Barnard Castle, but whether they originated in Co. Durham or Co. York is uncertain. One of them, Arthur, of the Hearth Tax Rolls, was in good circumstances, but beyond this is no history attaching to them that I know of, save that they "increased and multiplied," a good enough work. Vide pedigree.

Emersons of Coniscliffe.

We find in the Threkeld pedigree compiled by Mr. Jackson and published in the Westmoreland Arch. Soc. Pubs., a John Emerson marrying a Threkeld, and Surtees gives a note on the same.

In 1546 Richard Thirkeld (Threkeld), of Coniscliffe, made his will and mentions Agnes Emerson, "my sister's daughter."

In 1472 John Thirkeld and Maud his wife give their lands in Stainton for life to his son, John Thirkeld, and Agnes his sister till she married.

This family may have moved to Brancepeth.

The Coniscliffe Registers allow us to compile the following short pedigrees—

And this meagre information is all we have of the Coniscliffe Emersons.

Hurworth-on-Tees. The birthplace of William Emerson, the celebrated mathematician, a descendant of the Gatecastle Emersons of Weardale, vide pedigree. The best life of this genius is that written by Rev. W. Bowe, and printed in "Tracts" by W. Emerson, Nourse, 1798. Mr. Bowe is only unjust as to the great mathematician's religious belief. W. Emerson's view of these matters was purely agnostic. He and his wife were buried at Hurworth. He left no issue. The life of William Emerson in Mr. Leslie Stephen's "Dictionary of National Biography" is as feeble as it is commonplace in style.

Emersons of Brancepeth.

Included in Durham City pedigree (q.v.). Ralf, of Brancepeth, was a retainer of the better sort; his son John went as "servant" to Lady Westmoreland, to Co. Norfolk (q.v.), and is there lost record of. John Emerson, son of Thomas, of Bradbury (vide Southwark Emersons), hired the West Park of Brancepeth, and his father held Staindrop church, but this family is not otherwise connected with Co. Durham. Thomas, of Bradbury, came hither as steward to the Earl of Somerset, of Raby and Brancepeth Castles.

III.

EMERSONS OF CO. CUMBERLAND.

The early Lay Subsidies give us no Emersons, though the subsidy of 6 Ed. III. gives several filii Emme, and some at Lazonby, where we find them in later times in the will of Thomas Ematson, given in the Lazonby Register—Thos. Ematson, s. of Thomas. If anyone will take a map they will find Lazonby is just over the Durham border, and just the weak spot in the Cumberland marches where an overcrowded Weardale family of Emersons would squeeze through; and one John Emerson must have crossed the border in the latter end of the sixteenth century, for we find his administration at Carlisle dated 1597; but up to 1700 there are only three wills, though by the Hearth Tax Rolls for this county we find nine of the name taxed (1673—4) at the latter end of the seventeenth century; and in the Durham wills we find a family settled in Garragill Chapelry in the seventeenth century. There are also several wills of the Workington and Cockermouth families amongst the Richmond wills at Somerset House.

From different sources I have compiled three short pedigrees—one of the sixteenth century family, and two of the seventeenth century families.

Lazonby Emersons.Garragill Emersons.Workington Emersons.Cockermouth Emersons.

It is more than likely that all the above are connected, as the Christian names Roland, William, Nicholas and Arthur are found together in contemporary Durham families. And to anyone interested a fuller pedigree could doubtless be compiled without great research, when the names given in the Hearth Tax Rolls and Lazonby Register, that it has not been possible to include in the above pedigree, could be added. My object has been as hitherto merely to trace the roots of the Emersons of Cumberland who were undoubtedly the genuine breed; whilst the wrongly indexed will of Thomas Ematson shows us descendants of the various filii Emme to be found in the Lay Subsidy.

N.B.—Part of Cumberland was formerly under the jurisdiction of the Bishop of Durham.

EMERSONS OF CO. WESTMORELAND.

Though there are some Emsons in the early Lay Subsidies for Westmoreland, I find no trace of Emersons until the seventeenth century, when Robert Emerson, of Appleby, appears in a chancery suit (22 January, 1642), having bought a mess., tent, and burgage in Appleby of John Winter and Rowland Wilson, who now try to "stripp and defeat" him of the same. In the Appleby Freeman's Rolls⁹ the name of Emerson occurs between 1614 and

* Kindly supplied by the Appleby town clerk to Rev. W. M. Shepherd, who very kindly forwarded the information to me.

1661, after the several Christian names of Charles, William, Robert and Leonard. Charles Emerson is first mentioned in 1614 and dies the same year, and between 1614 and 1634 lived William Emerson, and between 1628 and 1634 lived Robert Emerson. This was doubtless a yeoman family, who migrated into Westmoreland most probably from Cumberland, possibly from Yorkshire or Lancashire. In the Carlisle Registry only two Emerson wills are to be found up to 1700—from which this short pedigree is compiled.

Charles was probably the father of William (W.P. 1663) and Robert (Chancery Proceedings 1642). Unfortunately the registers of one church were burnt, and the incumbent of the other church was not able to find any Emersons up to 1640, but he seemed by no means sure of his power of reading the register, so it is possible Emersons are to be found in the St. Michael Register for that period; but the family was not of sufficient importance for me to carry further. There is a good sporting name in the pedigree—Machell, and that is all that is interesting. Finally I have not found the link that binds them to Durham, but they are within all human probability real Emersons from Durham.

V.

EMERSONS OF CO. YORK.

Large as is this division of England and although it borders Co. Durham I have been unable to trace many Emersons therein and only one family whose descendants may be found there to-day, i.e., the Skelton Emersons.

The earliest record I have is of Geoffrey Emerson, who is mentioned in the patent rolls in 1324 for assaulting Alan FitzHugh, of Drypole, for which he had to appear at the courts of oyer et terminer at Lincoln and afterwards at Nottingham. He evidently lived near Hull, and it would be interesting could the link with Durham be found. He was possibly named after Geoffrey Neville, of Brancepeth.

In the printed Lay Subsidies for York City and County only—Kirkby's Inquest, 1284—5; Subsidy 25 Ed. I.; Poll Tax Ric. II., 1378—9, and Subsidy 15 Hen. VIII., 1524 (York City and Ansty only)—I find no Emersons.

The next earliest record I have is the will of a William Emerson, of Scarborough, proved in 1486—a man of considerable means, who orders his land in Thwyng to be sold for the benefit of his children by one Johanna Wright, their names being withheld; but in Yorkshire⁹ Feet of Fines 8 Hen. VIII. (1517), we find Sir W. Conyers, Simon Emerson and others negotiating a transaction of the manors of Thwyng and Octon and fifty mess. in Swathorp-Kyllam and Langtoft. At Filey, close by, we find a little later two brothers Edward and John, husbandmen, whose wills, proved 1551 and 1553, tell us that Edward died without issue and John left a son Thomas, whom I lose sight of. It is probable these three were William's children. The Conyers were a Durham family. This doubtless accounts for William Emerson's migration to Yorkshire. The Conyers held Skelton Manor and it is probable that Scarborough and Filey Emersons were descendants of Thomas the forester of Skelton.

Having disposed of this little seaside coterie we will return to the second earliest mention of the name in Dame Elizabeth Vavasor's will, proved 1498, of Thornton-le-Hill, wherein the old lady, widow of William Vavasor, of Thornton, gent., gives Henry and Edward Vavasor and Richard Emerson a horse each, and appoints William Emerson one of her executors. In this connection we will go on with the will of John Emerson, of Wresle (Howden), proved 1540, for in it he mentions Master John Vavisour. We find this John in the Feet of Fines, 1517†

* Yorkshire Arch. and Top. Soc. Records, Vol. II., p. 30.

† Yorkshire Arch. and Top. Soc. Records, Vol. II., p. 307.

—Thos. Abbot v. John Emerson and Anne his wife re lands in Howden. Now Wresle is in Howden Parish and both Howden and Brantingham were held of the Palatinate of Durham. This little group of Howden Emersons then probably held from the Bishop of Durham, and were evidently pretty well off. In 1532 we find Edward and Isabel Wilberforce, his wife, at Howden. In Yorkshire Fines,* 1576, we find John Emerson again re lands in Howden and Westholme, and in this connection are mentioned the Herons, a Durham family, and in De Banco Rolls, 23 Hen. VIII. (1532), we find George Cecil, of Howden, suing Edmund Emerson and Isabel his wife, daughter and heiress of Adam Wilberfoss, for "I mess, vastatu." in Howden.

I append what Professor Montague Burrows would call an approximate pedigree of the Howden Emersons—the unproved links indicated in the usual way.

In Joseph Foster's Visitations of Yorkshire, 1584—5 and 1612, the only mention of Emerson is in the Lyon-Maude Percehay pedigree, where we have the names of Vavasour and Emerson connected.

In the W.P. 1589 of Ric. Emerson, of Ludwell, we find his brother Lionel referred to as being in Rydale, Co. York. Whether these two Lionels are identical I have been unable to prove, and since Mr. Percehay is described as of Ryton, Co. Durham, the inference is they are not the same; at the same time the Lionel that is mentioned in the will referred to is the only positive link I have connecting Durham and Yorkshire Emersons.

In Yorkshire Fines,† 1511, we have John Heron, Esq., and George Emerson re the manor of Rysome and lands in Hollington (was he the Thomas of Skelton the forester's son?); and in a fine levied 1507 Henry Wyatt, Esq., and George Emerson acquiring lands in Great and Little Fenton, Co. York. H. Wyatt, Esq., was afterwards Sir Henry Wyatt, of Allington Castle, Kent, and probably "Hollington" supra is for "Allington." Was Alice, u.c. George Emerson, sister to H. Wyatt? The only Rysome I can find in Co. York is near Skeffington, which is near Hull, where we found Geoffrey Emerson in 1324.

A little group of Amersons next call for attention, the earliest record being the will of Robert Amerson, of Fairburn, proved 1520, leaving two sons, John and Thomas Amerson. A John Amerson's (of Bretherton Close) will is proved 1542, but only his wife is named. Next is a will of Robert Amerson, of Stockton in Bugthorpe, proved 1675, leaving a son Seth and daus. Isabel and Jane, Isabel = an Emerson and has a son Will, and lastly an administration of Robert Amerson in the Honour of Knaresboro, 1700. They are probably all connected, but I have no record of Thomas, son of Robert, of Fairburn, ob. 1519, or Seth Amerson, son of Robert, of Stockton. But it is as well to remind the reader that the Coventry Emersons spelt their name Amerson in earlier times, but I found no link binding the families. The Amersons, to judge by wills, were pretty rare in Yorkshire, and evidently connected.

I find an early family at Grimston and at East Cottingwith, but have nothing to suggest their origin or connection; and I suspect William Emerson, of East Cottingwith, should be William Emission, a breed of the old Holme-in-Spaldingmore Emmesons, Emissions or Emsons, whose name is spelt wrongly as Emerson once or twice in the wills and once or twice in Holme Register.

A Ralf Emerson is found at Northallerton, and his will is proved 1597. He is probably the same Ralf in the Fines,* 18 Eliz., re a mess. with lands in parish of Sigston, and hailed from Sedgfield, Co. Durham; but who the Roger Emerson, of Pickering, is, I know not, mentioned in the same Fines.† Ralf evidently held of the Bishop of Durham and went out in female issue as his will proves.

* Yorkshire Arch. and Top. Soc. Records, Vol. V., p. 108.

In 1598 (40 Eliz.) we hear of Anthony, nuper de Sherburn, in the Session Rolls of York,‡ a husbandman. In Kirk Fenton Register we find the name recurring in 1632, when Anthony, son of Thomas, is baptized, also Thomas, son of Thomas, in 1635.

Two of the sixteenth century Yorkshire families I have left until the present because I think they are connected and because one of them has representatives living to-day—the present occupier of the property being 92 years of age.

In an ancient deed, Vol. II., c. 421. Henry Wyat, Esq., cited above, grants to George Emerson and Alice u.r. lands in Stratford Longthorn. West Ham, Essex. This George acquired by fine levied Easter 1507, lands in Great and Little Fenton, Co. York, and in 1511 lands in Ryosome, Co. York. Now I have been unable to trace the son George of the next early family of Skelton: possibly the above explains his absence from Skelton, possibly another George is referred to. But there is a will of a Thos. Emerson, of (Biggin) Fenton, dated 1658, possibly a descendant of George. He names a brother Henry, wife Jane or Joan and children Thos., Eliz., Anne and Anthony.

At South Burton there is an early family, viz., Robert and John, brothers; Robert (W.P. 1566) = Ellen, who leave issue Ed., Janet = Stevenson, Christopher; but I am not sure whether these be Emersons or Emmesons.

At Turby-on-Humber we have Christopher = Judith (ob. 1703), who leave issue Charles (b. 1696), Christopher (b. 1698), Will. (ob. 1702), Eliz. (b. 1700).

We now come to the oldest existing Yorkshire family—the Emersons of Skelton in Cleveland. By the will of Thomas Emerson, forester of Margreve Park in Skelton, proved May 4, 1525, we find he holds lands of Gisburne Priory, leaves a wife Agnes and sons Christopher and George (vide supra). Margreve Park is in Skelton Parish. Skelton after the Conquest belonged to the Bruces and in 55 Hen. III. it descended by marriage to Walter de Fauconbridge. Sir Thomas Fauconbridge, a descendant, had a daughter Joan, who married Sir W. Neville, Kt., who in 7 Hen. VI. was in her right created Lord Fauconbridge and afterwards Earl of Kent. He died 3 Ed. IV., and it passed by marriage to John Conyers, afterwards Lord Conyers, in whose family it remained until 3 and 4 P. and M. The Emersons doubtless came there with Sir W. Neville, Kt.

Gisburne Priory held divers tenements in Stranton Parish, Co. Durham, and the church of Stranton was in the gift of the Prior of Gisburne. This suggests the route by which Thomas the forester may have come. For a Weardale branch of Emersons settled at Stranton in early times, and evidence goes to prove these Stranton Emersons|| were descended from Adam Robinson Emerson, son of Robert Emerson, of South Bedburn Hall, no doubt the same line as Thomas the forester of Skelton.

By the help of the Parish Register and wills I have been able to compile a pedigree of the family, but one early link is missing—the link that connects Thomas, the forester, and Phillip, who heads the pedigree—otherwise all goes merrily. Phillip may have been son or grandson of Thomas the forester, more probably son, and not named in the will for some reason—a not uncommon practice in those days, as I have frequently noticed. Now Phillip was a rare Christian name amongst the Emersons in those days. However it is obvious Phillip was descended from Thomas the forester, but I have not the link and have not thought it worth while to search further for it, but doubtless with much work and vexation any future and interested seeker can recover the link.

The following is the pedigree compiled up to to-day—a good pedigree it is too, which many families far superior in position to the present representatives might be proud of.

|| Fide Emersons of Stranton, under Durham.

There remain only small and scattered families to deal with.

At Kelfield—

At Hunsworth—

At Lockington—

At Welborne—

At Clifton—

Then we find Nicholas = Margt., of York, Adm. 1613; Robt. = Isabel, d. Anne, of Bursey (near Hull), Adm. 1633; Ric. = Margt., for Ric., s. of Will., Adm. 1603 of S. Cliffe; Robt. = Joanna, s. ? Rob., Adm. 1561, of Crambe; Will., of Crosse Houses (Easington), W.P. 1638, cousin Jane Emerson, of Whitby; Anthony = Ellen, of Redcar, Adm. 1569.

At Bolby Par. Easington—

At Stillingfleet—

At Yarm—

John Emerson, of Yarm, was a felon. One of the Stranton, Co. Durham, Emersons, Francis, is described of Yarm in the sixteenth century, probably the founder of this family.

At Eryholme there was a Rev. John Emerson, W.P. 1571, ob. S.P., and later John, a tailor, at Gilling (Anne, his mother's W.P. 1682), whilst later still there is another family mentioned at Richmond (Thomas, W.P. 1721, leaving a widow, Margt., and children, Geo., Eliz. and Margt.). All three of these wills are found in the Richmond wills and they are the only Yorkshire wills in that collection.

Amongst the London wills (Principal Registry) of the sixteenth century there is only one Emerson from Yorkshire, i.e., the Rev. Christopher Emerson, of Barton-le-Street, will proved 1657, son of Roger, of Pickering. Now though parsons, widows and orphans are the delight of the "outside broker," to the genealogist they are the devil. You never know whence a parson came, nor can I trace the Rev. Christopher, for he is not in the "Varsity" lists. However, I have traced his numerous progeny to Hackney, and they can be followed up by the reader under London Emersons—this link is sure and strong. The reason for the family leaving York seems to have been some act of outlawry, for in Rot. Lit. Pat. 16 Eliz. pt. 1, m. 29, we find a pardon to T. Bawne, late of Co. York, Christopher Emerson, late of Barton, Richard P. Kelke, of Co. Lincoln, yeoman, for failing to appear in Queen's Benches in answer to R. Thornton, who tried to recover a debt.

The Yorkshire wills at London and York and the various peculiar courts during the seventeenth century amount to under two dozen and most of them are of men in inferior positions and none really wealthy. Early Yorkshire Emersons for that period are scarcely worth noticing; they are doubtless scattered heirs of the families noticed earlier, excepting perhaps a family at Yarm, which possibly descended from Francis of the Stranton (Co. Durham) family, but I have no link. A stray Leonard Emerson,* of Melsonby, is mentioned in the will of Margery Pinkney, 1659. The Bulmer Register gives the baptism of one Maria in 1633, whilst Stillingfleet Register gives us a William Emerson, who was churchwarden, and has a son Richard, baptized 1622, and some daughters; but, alas! there are few ancient churches in Yorkshire and their registers, like that of Howden, are often reported "burnt" or "lost." Nevertheless the Yorkshire Emersons ancient were of some importance, teste the Parliamentary writs for Scarborough, etc., but most of them were yeomen. I find no gentry amongst them and only one who lived to rise to professional station—the Rev. Christopher; but the Thwng, Rysome, Howden and Skelton Emersons are undoubtedly the real breed from Co. Durham, though some of the others called Emerson I have my doubts about, especially W. Emerson, of East Cottingwith, whom I think was an Emission of Holme-in-Spaldingmore. The Hodgsons witnessed more than one will of that family of Emissions.

Altogether it is not much that I have gathered up from the vast wastes of records of this wild and straggling county, and the greatest curiosity is the burial of four† Emersons in one coffin in 1795, at Drypool, E. Riding—the register giving amongst the burials 1795, Oct. 15, Mary, wife of Wm. Emmerson; Abraham, son of Wm. Emmerson; Isaac, son of Wm. Emmerson; Jacob, son of Wm. Emmerson; all buried in one coffin. Was this affection or economy?

VI.

EMERSONS OF CO. LANCASHIRE.

I can find none of the name in this county until the seventeenth century, when two families appear—one at Bury and one close by at Upper Houlcoats in Tottington. These families were evidently related and their records are to be found in Bury Church Register‡ and one will.

These two, George and Francis, were most likely brothers and as no will remains of George, he may have left the county ere his death. Francis (will proved 1671)|| was a small miller and yeoman (inventory £2 18s. 4d.), a copyholder of the manor of Tottington, his holdings being named in the will; and since he only mentions Peter and Joseph in his will, it is probable the two elder sons had died before its execution. Whence they came I do not know, but it may be noted there was a miller, Robert Emerson, at Hunsworth, Co. York, will proved at York, 1680, and Hunsworth is only across the moors.

In 1672 we find a Hugh Emmerson brought before the Manchester Court Leet concerning "a new measure half a quartern advantage in . . . vi.d."§—possibly one of the family. A

* Only the direct legitimate descendants of this Alexander are entitled to the Lancashire arms (vide Chap. II.)

William Emmerson is also beadle about the same period. It is most probable some of the family spread about the county and their descendants may be there to-day, for in Warrington Parish Register, 1754, I find Jonathan Emerson, of Urwicke, marries Catherine Richardson. At any rate, Lancashire Emersons trying to trace their pedigrees will know in what direction to look round. But the only two families I have found up to the end of the seventeenth century are far too unimportant for me to carry further; but I should have cleared up the Bury Register had a courteous man been the parson, and a capable and scrupulous man the clerk. Again I repeat, parish registers should be placed at the Public Record Office.

The future pedigree hunter in search of this family must not forget the Warwickshire Emersons as possible connections, i.e., Oswald Amerson (Emerson) witnesses the will, 1553, of Rev. Molyneux, parson of Sefton, Co. Lancashire. There may be nothing in it, but there may be something.

EMERSONS OF CO. CHESHIRE.

A single family in humble circumstances is found at Nantwich in the seventeenth century. Hugh Emmerson, a joiner, of Nantwich, leaves a will proved in 1638, by which he bequeaths his property to his son Richard, who was fourteen years of age at the time the will was made, and if he did not attain his majority the little property went to persons named.

I find there were several families of Amysons in Cheshire and about this very district, the name Hugh being common amongst them—indeed there are a number of Amyson wills in the Chester Registry of this period and the testators too were in much the same position as this Hugh Emmerson; and since there is no record in Nantwich Church Register of the birth of any Emmersons or Emmersons after 1615 and up to 1635, I am inclined to think this Hugh Emmerson was a misspelling for Hugh Amyson, the will having been written by some illiterate scribe, and as we hear no more of the family my thesis is strengthened.

VIII.

EMERSONS OF CO. DERBY.

I find one will of William Emerson and Felicia his wife granted to Elizabeth Emerson, the daughter, of the parish of All Saints, Derby, dated 26 Mar., 1601, and as they went out in female issue I have no further record; but I wrote to the parson in charge of All Saints, and he proved to be one of the mannerless men—a “coprolite,” verb. sap.

In Trinity College, Dublin, is the will of Sir Hugh Cullen, of Cloughwater, Co. Cavan, Kt., ob. 19 Feb., 1630, who married Mary Emerson, of Derbyshire, and left issue.

IX.

THE EMERSONS AND EMOTSONS ALS EMERSONS OF CO. LINCOLN.

The elucidation of the history of these families has given me great trouble and all because a family of the sons of Emma (Emotsons, said to be of the Thorney Abbey Emotsons) ventured to take a name to which they were not entitled. The Lincolnshire Lay Subsidies give us no help and down to 15 Hen. VIII. (1523) I find no record of the name in the county, though the ubiquitous filii Emme appear in the fourteenth century (1332) and curiously enough with the names Robert and Alexander Emmerson, of Broughton. A family of Emerys we have, some of whom kept the name and some took that of Paull, but never an Emeryson. In the Muster Roll of Henry VIII. (no date), however, I find two Em^osons, William and Richard, able-bodied men, at Billsby; and as in all these cases these early Em^osons must be looked upon with a certain amount of suspicion, for the name may have been a misspelling for Emson, but I am inclined to think them genuine Emersons, though it is “not proven.”

Wills are our next earliest record, and in 1541 was proved the will of John Em^oson, of Folkingham, gentleman, who mentions his cousin William in London and various children.

We know that the arms allowed to the Lincolnshire Emersons in 1634 are pre-Tudor, i.e., there is no crest belonging to them, and we know that the Southwark Emersons, originating with William Emerson, a bowyer, also claimed and used these arms seventeen years before they were allowed to Alexander, of Caistor, in 1634, e.g., Thomas Emerson, Esq., of Blackfriars, placed them on the Durham Market Cross in 1617, and remembering the reputation of Lincolnshire archers we can only surmise that William, of London, and John, of Folkingham, were cousins or nephews, for the old testators often designated their nephews as "cousins." For further suggestions on this point the reader must consult the history of the Southwark, Co. Surrey, Emersons. Thus we have three Em^osons in the south of the county in Henry the Eighth's reign, probably all connected.

In Patent Roll 38 Hen. VIII., pt. 5, is recorded a grant to George Emerson of a mess. in the Royal Demesne of Serby, Co. Lincoln, with a close, and 10 bovates of land, all part of the possessions of Sir Robt. Constable, Kt., fallen into the Crown from his attainder, and let to George Emerson for twenty-one years at 60s. per annum and a £3 fine.

Now the point that I have been unable to clear up is this. Was John Em^oson (Emerson), of Folkingham, the father of this George, of Serby, or did George come direct from Durham or elsewhere? John, of Folkingham, mentions a George in his will and a Giles, and amongst the descendants of Thomas Emerson related to this family is a Giles. This may be coincidence, but I am inclined to think George, son of John, of Folkingham, gent., and George, of Serby, are identical, but I cannot prove the identity, and thus must leave the question. I have placed John, of Folkingham, at the head of the pedigree, with the usual dotted lines of "not proven," but probable. We find amongst the early wills a Richard Em^oson, of Swaby, will proved 1534, and a William Emmeson, of Calcethorpe, will proved 1547—possibly the two at Billsby, in the muster, and if so the evidence is again confusing as to their being Emsons or Emersons; but as Richard only leaves a son Robert, whom I do not find afterwards, and William goes out in female issue, no more time need be wasted on them. But the will of Thomas Emerson, of Cadney, proved 1561, evidently refers to the father of Thomas Emerson, of Cadney, yeoman, who in Chancery Proceedings B. and A. Eliz. 2^d, 10 May, 1568, complains of detention of his deeds relating to lands in Boothby. Now Boothby is again in the south and not far from Folkingham and Billsby, so it looks as if he too had moved north, possibly with George, of Serby, on his good fortune in 1545. But on the other hand George, of Serby, speaks in his will, proved 1567, of his brother Phillip, and I can find no trace of a Phillip in Lincolnshire, though it must be remembered Thomas, the forester of Skelton, had a son George and probably a son Phillip. This suggests a Yorkshire origin for George, of Serby, and if he was the son of John, of Folkingham, we know he had two sisters, by John of Folkingham's will, proved 1541. John, of Folkingham, gent., in the will speaks of six children, but mentions only two sons, Giles and George. I have added Edward, of Serby, and Thomas, of Cadney, as the other two likely sons, but wish it to be clearly understood this is "not proven," and I have indicated this by the usual dotted lines of doubt. The pedigree annexed from George, of Serby, Thomas, of Cadney, and Edward, of Serby, is, however, on firm ground, and having said this much we may proceed, neglecting John, of Serby, admon. dated 1553, as we have no record of his issue. So that the doubtful portions are here clearly indicated.

Edward leaves a number of daughters and a son William by his second marriage. Giles is probably the son of Giles, who dies 3 Mar., 1572, and there is no further record. George, of Serby (yeoman), is the forelder of the important family that follows him in the pedigree, and whose lineal descendant Alexander, of Caistor, was allowed the arms in 1634, and Thomas, of Cadney (yeoman), is also the forelder of a small family of yeomen, none of whom, however, got allowed arms, and their history is shown by the pedigree, and they soon disappear. But George's descendants need further treatment. He had three sons, Edward, Alexander and Richard. Richard was father to numerous daughters and one son, who married his cousin, daughter of Thomas, of Cadney, and is evidently the Richard referred to in Chancery Proceedings B. and A. Eliz. S.s. 1^o, 1572, as a constable and trustee re properties in Goxhill. He was destined to be the least important of the three. Edward, on the other hand, was father to a family (Alexander and George) of brothers who settled at Glamford Bridge, this Alexander becoming very wealthy indeed, and the lord of several manors, whilst George's issue mostly migrated to East Retford, and founded the unimportant family of East Retford Emersons, who soon appear to have died out. Alexander of Brigg's history is to be read in the records. We find him in Patent Roll 43 Eliz., pt. 19, m. 23, taking the manor of Rainthorpe als Ranthorpe, a mess. and three cottages, 200 acres of land, 30 acres of marsh, 40 acres of pasture, 40 acres of underwood, 40 acres of ling and 40 acres of moor in Ranthorpe and Appulbie, Co. Lincoln, from the Crown-in-chief. In Rot. Lit. Claus., 10 Jas. I., p. 39, m. 44, 1612, we find him and his son Alexander taking half Corisholme Manor to go to Robert, son of Alexander, of Serby, in default of his son. In Rot. Lit. Claus., 11 Jas. I., p. 31, m. 20, we find him and the same son taking half the rectory and advowson of Goxhill Rectory, and in the same records Car. I. E.e. 1/10, we find the unfortunate history of his weak son Alexander, who is inveigled into marriage with Katherine Neville, the daughter of an innkeeper, Christopher Neville, of Lincoln city, and thereby gets disinherited, the bulk of the great properties held by Alexander, senior, of Brigg, going to George's descendants, through the marriage of Alexander, of Caistor, grandson of George, of Serby, with Alexander of Brigg's daughter Elizabeth. And though the wealthy brother seems to have had other sons they probably died in minority or were equally foolish, and so were passed over. The nouveau riche Alexander of Brigg dies in 1631 and his will is proved the same year, and in an inquisition, P.M., taken at Lincoln, 7 Chas. I., p. 1, m. 95 (1631), we get a record of his wealth, for an account of which I refer the reader to the inquisition printed in the Appendix. He died very wealthy, though, poor man, possibly with a broken heart, due to his weak son. And these properties passed over to George of Serby's descendants through the marriage, as I have said, of Alexander (George's grandson) with Elizabeth his cousin.

Two of George of Serby's sons go out, George, Jun., in female issue, and Michael sine prole. Two more, Thomas, of Cadney and Howsam, and John, are the forelders of yeoman families, John's family dwindling out and Thomas of Cadney's increasing largely, but never rising beyond the position held by their father. Some people have thought Thomas Emerson, of Ipswich, Mass., was this Thomas, of Cadney, or one of his sons, but the pedigree disproves this for good, though one of Thomas of Cadney's descendants, Michael, may have been the Michael who emigrated to Haverhill, United States, circa 1656; but if so it must be remembered this branch of the family is non-armigerous: no arms were ever allowed to them.

Richard, another of George's sons, had several sons, yeomen, living about Goxhill, and possibly one of these, Samuel, was an early emigrant to the United States, and if so it must be remembered that this family too was not armigerous, being yeomen and labourers. Robert, however, had issue, two sons, Michael and Alexander, both evidently barristers. Michael went out sine prole, and so Alexander, described as of Serby and later of Caistor, was the man who raised the family. He is described as a councillor-at-law, and was evidently able; rich we know he was as heir to Alexander, of Glamford Brigg, whose daughter Elizabeth he married, and prolific and uxorious we shall show he was, for he married thrice. This was the man who had the arms on page 16 allowed him in 1634, and his direct lineal and legitimate descendants only have any right to these arms. We find him in one or two lawsuits re parcels of his property, but they are not of sufficient account to notice fully. In S.P. Domestic, Vol. A. 141, p. 70, 19 June, 1650, we find a record of him as having furnished two horses and arms in the siege against Hull, and having helped the King with money. Alexander of Caistor's cousin and wife did not live long (ob. 1634), and we find him marrying in the same year Esther Metcalfe, daughter of Sir F. Metcalfe, of Louth Park. She too died, and the plucky and amorous Alexander marries for the third time, Frances Kelke, daughter of Robert Kelke, ar., an old Lincolnshire family, who had held the rectory of Barnetby the Wold for some 200 years, as appears by two Chancery Proceedings E.e. $\frac{1}{3}$, 21 May, 1647, when Sargent and Kelke, who had formerly demised Rectory of Barnetby to Alexander of Caistor, who demised it to Bishop of Lincoln 16 Ap., 1641, for lives of Thomas, Alexander and Dorothy, his children. This shows Alexander probably married F. Kelke before 1641. Alexander registered himself and his descendants at the College of Arms, but no date is given with the registration of the Kelke portion, but the Richmond Herald tells me the signatures origin gives the previously quoted:—De Banco, Easter, 23 H. VIII., 1532. George Cecil, of Howden, sued Edmund Emerson and Isabel his wife, daughter and heiress of Adam Wilberfoss, for “1 mess. vastator” in Howden. Mr. Ellis tells me this is not in the Wilberforce pedigree. Possibly this Edmund is a descendant of the Robert whose daughter Jane is supposed to have married into the Cecil family.

In addition we have the following Emerson families in Co. Lincoln in early times, the majority of them being in lowly circumstances—some of them may be connected with the Serby and Cadney families, but I have not the links.

Beginning, then, in the north of the county we find families at Saxby, Worlaby and Bondby, viz. :—

N.B.—I have no proof of the identity of Geo., of Bondby, and Geo., of Saxby, but think they are identical.

At Worlaby —

At Bottesford, to the east, is Simon Emerson, who marries Margt. Stocks in 1627 and has sons, Will., Ric. and John. Simon is rare and a Saxby name—probably they are related.

At Wootton and Brockelsbie, neighbouring places, we have two families, viz., at Wootton four brothers, Ric., Sam., Geo. and John, W.P. 1624 = Ursula, leaving issue John and Anne, and at Brockelsbie two brothers, Will., W.P. 1660, and Godfrey = Anne, leaving issue Stephen and Judith; whilst at Cabourn nearby we find two brothers, Will. and John, with six sisters. Will., W.P. 1659, leaves a son Will. and daus. Joan = W. Symons and Mary = Markham.

This brings us to the middle of the county where we find some wealthier families in trade at Atterbie (Bishop's Norton) and the Rasens. Robert, of Atterbie, W.P. 1653, was a wealthy miller, who leaves a half-brother Thomas, and children Robert and Anne: whilst at East and Market Rasen we find three families—two brothers, Will. and Geo. = Jocosa Field, vid. in 1603, leaving issue Eliz., Jane, John and a son (name lost); Ed., having two daughters and a son Edw., 1609—22; and John = Ann, Adm. 1615. But I have no links to connect these families. Then moving eastward to the eastern midland coast we come upon another group again in poor circumstances, chiefly small farmers and labourers residing at the Theddlethorpes, Trusthorpe, Gayton-le-Marsh, Sutton, Hutoft and Swaby.

At Theddlethorpe we have—

At Gayton-le-Marsh—

And a Mary, vidua, W.P. 1667, leaving children Thos., Dorothy, Ed., Alice, Will. and Jonas, and a grandchild Edw. whom I cannot link on, and a Geo. = Eliz., leaving issue Jonas, Martha, Hester and George, who are also "loose" branches. At Trusthorpe I get John, W.P. 1588, = Alice Johnson, and at Mablethorpe, Robt., W.P. 1600, leaving a widow Joan and a son Thos. and a sister who marries a Maddison, and at Swaby to the south-west a Richard, W.P. 1534, leaving issue Robt., Eliz., Janet and Agnes, and lastly at Sutton we find Thos., W.P. 1697, leaving a dau. Ann and a brother Nathaniel and sister Elizabeth.

Going southward to Burgh we find another group, possibly once Emotsons and descendants of Emotsons als. Emersons spoken of below. We find Ed., of Burgh, W.P. 1651, and his children Thos., Ann and Mary; and Alice, vid., of Firsby (near by), W.P. 1593, with two daughters and a son Seal, who has a son Thomas; and Ann, of Addlethorpe, vid., W.P. 1617, leaving a sister Frances. Working south we find a family at Algakirk, near Boston—a well-to-do man Isaac, W.P. 1630, leaving Ellen, vid., and brothers Thos. and Will., Thos. having two sons, Thos. and John, and Will. a son Thomas. Working towards Folkingham, the cradle of the family in this county, we find families at Swaton and Screddington, but of no importance.

Whilst at Tydd St. Mary on the borders of Norfolk we find—

There are various other isolated and scattered records, proving that other families existed, but no details of any value—except perhaps an Enos, of Scotter, W.P. 1699, who leaves a son Enos and two daughters. There are also stray families about Wraby and Serby, who evidently belong to the Lincolnshire Emersons, but I am unable to connect them. Such are some of the Goxhill and Cadney families, as Ric., of Cadney, W.P. 1578, who leaves two sons, Ed. and Ric., and five daughters; Will., of Cadney, who leaves sons Edward and Will. and daughters; Thos., of Cadney, who has a large family born between 1614 and 1629, viz., sons, John, Ed., Thos., Michael and Rob., and four daughters; and the Goxhill Emersons, q v.

And now we come to the spurious Emersons or Emotsons who took the name of Emerson.

At the Principal Registry in London we have the will of JOHN EMOTSON (11 Bucke), dated Dec. 21, 1550, of Burgh-le-Marsh, enumerating various places round about. Evidently this man was a leaseholder under one Mr. Eton, and is John Emotson of the Muster Roll, tempe Hen. VIII., of Burgehe. Next in 25 Eliz. (1583) we have an Inq. P.M. re JOHN EMOTSON ALS EMERSON, of Gunby, near Burgh, yeoman, who held lands at Gunby, Gt. Steeping, Bratoft, Wainfleet, all places near Burgh-le-Marsh, evidently a descendant of the JOHN EMOTSON of Burgh whose will is dated 1550, i.e.

It will be noticed that William is the only son mentioned, and he is described as the heir. But curiously enough the Inq. P.M. referred to gives us JOHN EMOTSON ALS EMERSON near the same place. Now there is no date of John Emotson of Burgh's proof of will. Possibly he is the man who died circa 1583; but the Inq. P.M. says THOMAS is his son and heir, whereas WILLIAM was son and heir of JOHN OF BURGH. I should say that William had died and John, of Gunby, was a younger brother, but in any case we get the following pedigree from the Inq. P.M. :—

John Emotson als. Emerson, of Gunby (near Burgh), yeoman, ob. June 5th, 1583. Inq. P.M.	=	Mary.		Michael Emotson.
Thomas Emotson als. Emerson, gent. , b. 1582, ob. May 19th, 1618, of Gunby. Inq. P.M.	=
William Emotson als. Emerson, gent. , b. 1610. Inq. P.M.	=

The inquisitions prove all this, but the exact links between John Emotson, of Burgh, and JOHN EMOTSON ALS EMERSON, of Gunby (near by), I have not found, nor do I particularly require it. I give this to show a family in the act of taking the name EMERSON—EMOTSONS or true-blooded sons of EMMA, and obviously all connected. Now if the reader will turn to the abstract of inquisition of JOHN, of Gunby,⁶ he will see lands referred to all round Gunby and Burgh. The reader, however, must remember that in the Lay Subsidy 14 Hen. VIII., there were two, Ric. Em^oson and Will Em^oson, at Billsby, close to Burgh, so there may be genuine Emersons and spurious Emersons in that district to-day, descendants of the above; and only persons working out their own pedigree will be able to tell from which they spring. But my object has been to prove that a family of Emotsons (fil Emme) took the name of Emmerson, and I have been informed that their descendants describe themselves as Thorney Abbey Emersons. As I have shown in the chapter on Cambridgeshire no such Emersons ever existed, but a humble family of Emotsons did live at Thorney, and their history I have given under Cambridgeshire. A descendant of the real Emersons, of Serby, married one of these Emotsons als Emersons, so Major-General A. L. Emerson informs me, vide registers app.

And here I must part company with the real Emersons who at various periods have owned so much property in Lincolnshire, and been connected with so many good Lincolnshire families, hoping that another Alexander will arise and conquer new worlds for the family fallen from its old estate; and as for the spurious Emersons, may they speedily waste and become extinct.

And finally there is a family of Emmisons in Lincolnshire who claim descent from the Emotsons, of Thorney Abbey, and it is quite possible they can substantiate this claim, and I trust Dr. B. F. Emmison will work the matter out. But I have not included them in this work because they are not Emersons. They are undoubted filii Emme, brothers and sisters of the Emsons, Empsons, Emotsons, Ematsons, Emetsons, Emansons, Emisons and Emysons, scattered over the kingdom, which makes the following most ridiculous.

One member of this family, a Colonel Emmison, of Seaham Harbour, was using and is still probably using Ralf Emerson's, of Foxton, Co. Durham, arms (the crest being incorrect), together with Sir James Emerson-Tennent's registered motto, and a Mrs. Emmison, of Gonnerby, claimed the same arms.

Dr. B. F. Emmison, who is as modest as he is fully informed concerning this family, can only express pity for such puerile vanity, and personally I can only express contempt for such arrant snobbishness. These Emmisons might as well use any coat of arms in existence. They have an equal right to them all, which is no right. Nor am I aware that any Emmison ever had coat armour granted him.

EMERSONS OF CO. NOTTINGHAM.

The Subsidy Rolls down to 14 Hen. VIII. (1523) give none of the name, though the sons of Emma flourished there, and the first record I have is of the migration of Alexander Emerson from Glamford Brigg, Lincolnshire, who settled at East Retford, circa 1600. They do not appear (vide Lincolnshire pedigree) to have left many, if any, descendants.

Later on a wealthier branch of the same family married into the Wharton family and migrated to West Retford, owning West Retford House, which they subsequently sold and left the county. As all the history of this family and pedigree is given under the Lincolnshire Emersons there is no need to repeat it here, for I have traced no Emersons but these to this county down to 1700.

* Vide Appendix, Inq. P.M.

trace him at College, but could not. However, I find a John Emerson,^o of Northampton, pleb., Brasenose College, matric. 24 Nov., 1598, aged 17, B.A. from St. Edmund's Hall in July, 1600. And Mr. Hewson tells me there are deeds existing with reference to the lands of a John Emerson, of this period. There was a John Emerson, M.A., curate of Horsham and rector of Shoreham in Sussex in 1634; whether these are one and the same I know not. But I find nothing whereby I can trace whence this family came into Northamptonshire and conjecture is useless. Christopher is a good Durham name and that is all that can be said, except that it was perpetuated in the family after the death of the Rev. Christopher, for in Close Roll, 22 Jas. I., 1.25, I find Christopher Emerson, of Cosgrove, Co. Northampton, yeoman, acknowledging a debt of £40 to one of the masters of the Court of Chancery.

EMERSONS OF CO. WARWICK.

In the various Lay Subsidies we have the usual fil Emme, Emotson and Emson, but no Amerson or Emerson, or anything like it, not even in the subsidy of 14 Hen. VIII., 1523. And there is no Muster Roll for Warwick tempe Hen. VIII. Nor does the Coventry Muster Roll tempe Henry VIII. help us—none of the name appear; but wills come to the rescue, and the earliest of the name is a parson, i.e., Rev. William Amerson, rector of Solihull (Birmingham) and curate of Foleshill in the city of Coventry, where he evidently died, the inventory of his goods being dated 36 Hen. VIII. or 1545. Whence he came I know not, and since his name is spelt Amerson and his brother's Amorson, it must be looked upon with a certain amount of suspicion, though it is probably a broad spelling of Emerson, and as the later members of the family spell the name Emerson this is more than probable. Probably the family moved into Warwickshire with the parson, and it must be remembered there were Amersons in Yorkshire about this period, but I have no link binding the family to any county. It is evident, however, they were pretty well to do, a probable member of the family goes to Oxford, others are chandlers and merchants, and we know by Foster's "Alumni Oxoniensis" that another goes to Oxford, and may have been the man who afterwards became canon of Chichester, 1610, or rector of Wisbeach, 1615.

Next we have an Oswald Emerson witnessing the will of Anthony Molyneux,† parson of Sefton, in Co. Lanc., in 1553.

There is a will of a Paul Amorson ‡ (1566—75), querister of New College, Oxon, who mentions his brother John. A Paul is missing, i.e., brother to Rev. William, and this is probably the man.

Wills then carry us on to 1598, when we find Oswald (Oswald Emerson) and Margaret Emerson engaged in a Chancery suit (Ch. B. and A. Eliz. B.b. $\frac{2}{8}$) re property in Coventry. Margaret is said to be a "widow and very aged."

In Foster's "Alumni Oxoniensis" we find Thomas Emerson, of Co. Warwick, pleb., matriculated at Queen's Coll., Oxford, 1586, æt. 16, and graduated B.A., 1590, M.A. 1595.

We find in Stepney Register John Emerson, of Coventry, merchant, father of a child baptized in 1615—16.

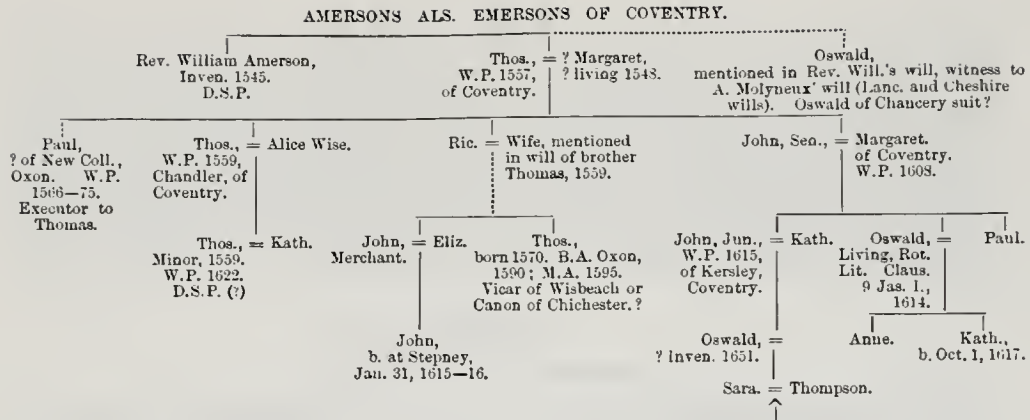

Next we get the family in Rot. Lit. Claus, 9 Jas. I., p. 45, n. 141, 10 May: John Pywell, par. of St. Peter, Cornhill, London, salter, and Oswald Emerson, of Coventry, in the courts of the city of Coventry, chandler, acknowledge a debt of £100 to Ed. Phillips, Kt., master of the rolls.

The registers of St. Michael's were destroyed by fire in 1698, and as the Lichfield transcripts only begin in 1669, that source of information is cut off, and as the majority of these testators were buried at St. Michael's we may assume their records of baptisms and marriages were lodged there. The Trinity Register of baptisms between 1615 and 1635 only contains one name—Kath., a daughter of Oswald, bap. Oct. 1, 1617.

* "Alumni Oxoniensis," J. Foster.

‡ Principal Registry.

The above pedigree is only approximate, as records are so incomplete. Whether Paul was son of Thomas and whether he is Paul of New College is not proven. Whether John and Thomas are sons of Richard is unproven, and which Oswald dies in 1651 and leaves all his property to Sara is not proven; but I have indicated the non-proven links in the usual way with the dotted lines of caution, otherwise it is pretty firm, and as we get no wills after 1651 up to 1700 we may fairly conclude not many male members lived at Coventry during that period.

The chief interest concerning this family is their possible connection with the Emersons als Skakespeyer, testator, of Hathurn, Co. Leicester, concerning whom vide Leicestershire.

EMERSONS OF CO. LEICESTER.

The Lay Subsidies down to and including 14 Hen. VIII. give none of the name; nevertheless in 1516 we get at Leicester Registry the will of Robert Skakespeyer als Emerson, of Hathurn.

Before leaving this very curious will I will just record that John Mowbray, Duke of Norfolk, married Katherine Nevill, daughter of Ralf, Earl of Westmoreland, and he died in 1433, when she had Goscote Manor assigned to her as widow, after which she married Thomas Strangways (a Durham family). Rot. Lit. Claus., 11 Henry VI., No. 13.* Mr. Nichol's History contains no Emersons in the index, nor have we any record of any, this curious will excepted (vide will printed in extenso in Appendix).

Now it will be noticed in this will that Sir Edward Fisher and Mary Brown are witnesses. On turning to Dugdale's "History of Warwickshire," Vol. II., p. 354, we find Fishers, but not a contemporary Edward, though Thos. Hankins als Fisher, of Warwick, ob. 1576, left a son Edward, knighted 36 Eliz. Possibly the Edward Fisher who witnessed the will, however, was a relative. On page 90 we find Brownes of Warwickshire referred to—Edward Browne, et. 22, 37 Hen. VIII. The question arises, was this Robert Emerson als Shakespeare the progenitor (grandfather) of the immortal William Shakespeare? It is more than possible and I will leave some Shakespeare scholar to clear the matter up.

XIV.

EMERSONS OF CO. HUNTINGDONSHIRE.

The early Lay Subsidy returns give us no Emsons or Emersons, but in the subsidy 15—16 Hen. VIII., we get at Papworth Agnes, Johes. Enderson, in bonis xx.s. viii.d. Now this Enderson may be a misspelling for Emberson or Emerson, and again, on the other hand, it may be a misspelling for Henderson. But as we find no Emersons at Papworth Agnes for me, and finds no Emsons or Emersons holding of the College in the sixteenth century, so that they must have become tenants later, as shown by the wills. The early Croyland Abbey Court Rolls have been searched in the hope of clearing up the matter, but neither Emson nor Emerson appears. Finally, the Muster Rolls for Cambridge have been searched (tempe Hen. VIII.), but there are no names given.

Now if the Robert Em^oson in the subsidy of 14 Hen. VIII. was the progenitor, I have no evidence that he left any issue, and certainly he left no will, for the first will is that of Richard Emyson (spelt as is the name of the Holme-in-Spaldingmore Emysons or Emisons). Altogether, I am inclined to think this family are spurious Emersons, and have obtained the name by the misspelling of scribes; but this is by no means certain, and no doubt deeper search of other records to the interested would reveal the truth. But the family is not of sufficient importance to warrant this, ancient though it be; and the evidence on the whole points to their being sons of Emma, descendants of Alice Emson, of Cottenham, given in the Lay Subsidy 23 Hen. VIII.

The Cambridgeshire wills printed in the Appendix show the family history—yeomen, mechanics, spreading over the county, some turning tradesmen and becoming bakers, whose descendants are to be seen to this day supplying bread at Cambridge, the first to bake being Richard, of Linton, will proved 1 March, 1739.

The will of Christopher Emerson, the Ely watchman (proved 1680), however, does not belong to this family; he was one of the Norfolk Emersons, of Hilgay. Co. Norfolk (q.v.).

I give a pedigree of the Cottenham family, compiled from wills down to 1800, so that any member of the family can easily carry it further.

In this county, too, at Thorney, were a family of Emotsons, which I briefly examined, because some correspondents spoke of Thorney Abbey Emersons. No such people ever lived. A family of Emotsons lived there, and their wills during the eighteenth century I print, beginning with that of a barber, Robert Emotson, who held a lease under the Duke of Bedford. Major-General Alexander Lyon Emerson, of the Lincolnshire Emersons proper, tells me that a branch of these Thorney Abbey Emotsons went to Lincolnshire and took the name of Emerson, and no doubt the family referred to is the Emotson alias Emerson family of Burgh, fully described under Lincolnshire.

EMERSONS OF CO. NORFOLK.

The very heavy Lay Subsidy Rolls, including the first payment, of 15 Hen. VIII., for this county have been searched, and we get two of the name in the early part of the sixteenth century—Roll $\frac{1}{2} \frac{2}{3} \frac{0}{8}$ 16 Hen. VIII., Bishops Lynn, John Emerson, in goods, xl.s. xii.d.; Roll $\frac{1}{2} \frac{3}{8} \frac{0}{8}$ 14 Hen. VIII., Hundred of Holt, Holt Market, Edward Em^oson, in goods, xl.s. xii.d.—two genuine Emersons comfortably off, evidently in business, as they are taxed in bonis and are living in towns.

Of Edward Emerson, of Holt, I have no further record; but of John, of Lynn, yes. In the muster for Lynn, 1573, S.P. Dom.,^o Vol. XCIV., No. 12, we get—In the ward of Robert Buntinge, Alderman, John Emerson: evidently the John of the Lay Subsidy, 1524, or his son. But curiously we get no wills of any Lynn family until 1660, when an administration is granted to Ralf Emerson, husband of Alice Emerson als Dale, late of Lynn, deceased. This Ralph was the gaoler of Lynn. But probably a thorough search of the Lynn registers would give the pedigree of this family, a few of these are given in the Appendix (Registers).

The next earliest record is of John Emerson, retainer of Lady Jane, wife of Charles, Earl of Westmoreland, who was ruined by the rising of 1569. I publish two abstracts from Mr. Swallow's history of the Nevilles, which will explain the matter. John came from Brancepeth with Lady Westmoreland after the failure of the rising of 1569 and ruin of the Nevilles, for we find him taking a letter to Queen Elizabeth from Brancepeth before they moved to Norfolk. As to his origin, I have referred to that under Brancepeth and Raby Emersons (vide Emersons of Co. Durham). Whether he was one of those buried under the "four old stones" at Kenninghall, I know not; but there is no record of any Emerson in Kenninghall and Framingham Registers up to 1700.

* "Norfolk Antiq. Miscellany," Vol. I., p. 202.

Abstracts referring to John Emerson, of Brancepeth and Framingham.

H. J. Swallow's "De Nova Villa":—"Abstract from letter from Lady Westmoreland to Lord Burghley: 'In consideration whereof I beseeche your Lo. to shewe me so much favour as I maye have a newe lese granted for twenty years . . . and that it maye pass in the name of thys herar, my servant John Emerson. . . . From Fremyngham, the 10th of October, 1574. JANE WESTMORELAND.'"

"There are," says Bloomfield, in his 'History of Norfolk,' 'four old stones in the nave of Kenninghall Church, in the shape of coffins, but no inscription or memorials of any kind; yet I find on the 30th of June, 1593, here was buried Jane, Countess of Westmoreland, wife of Charles Neville, Earl of Westmoreland, Lord of Raby, Staindrop and Brancepeth, Winkworth and Sherryhutton and Middleham, daughter of Henry Howard, Earl of Surrey, and sister of Thomas, Duke of Norfolk (Kenninghall Parish Register).'"

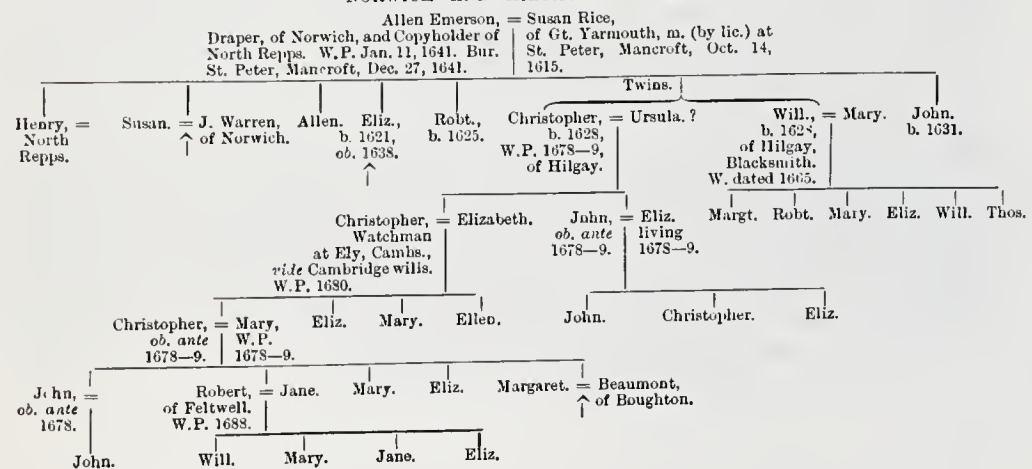

Sharp's "Rebellion of 1569," Appendix, p. 415:—"1616, Thomas Emerson, Esq., Steward and Surveyor General of all the manors, etc., belonging to the Earl of Somerset." Also it remains in custody of the officers of Lady Westmoreland, "who I thinke will answer upon their lives for anything done thereon"—Lord Sussex to Cecil.

We must leave John the Faithful lost in obscurity. The next record is of Henry Emerson, of Loddon, yeoman, in Chan. Pro. B. and A., Eliz. E.e. $\frac{1}{27}$, 1592, by which we learn that he married (circa 26 Eliz.) Joan Smithe, widow of James Smithe, of Loddon. By Loddon Register we know he was buried in 1623, evidently leaving no issue. The origin of this Henry I know not. The Loddon Register records his death and none other of the name appear up to 1700, nor yet at Chedgrave. Mr. F. Johnson, of Great Yarmouth, got the Bacon Manor Rolls searched (vide Appendix: Miscellaneous), and it is evident this Henry died without issue. Henry, however, is a name preserved in the next family, of which he was possibly a relative, i.e., the Emersons of Norwich, drapers, of whom Allen Emerson (will proved, Norwich Registry, 1641) is the first recorded. Allen leaves properties at North Repps, freehold and copyhold. He leaves sons—Henry, Allen, Robert, Christopher and John, and a daughter Susan, who married Warren. Mr. Walter Rye, in his "Rough Materials for a History of the Hundred of North Erpingham," quotes, in subsidy 14 Chas. II. $\frac{1}{11}$ (q.v.): In North Repps, Allen Emerson, 5s.; in 15 Chas. II., Allen Emerson, xx.s. viii.d.—obviously Allen, Jun., the son of the testator, who also has three hearths at North Repps 24 Chas. II.

At Hilgay, Co. Norfolk, we find Christopher Emerson dies, and his will proved 1678 (q.v.), and in 1688 Robert dies at the same place, and has his will proved; and a widow, Mary, also dies at Hilgay in 1678. This Hilgay family in all probability descended from younger sons of Allen Emerson, the draper of Norwich, ob. 1641.

In 1660 an administration is granted to Ralf Emerson, husband of Alice Emerson alias Dale, late of Lynn, deceased, at Principal Registry. In 1777 we find some more Emersons at Lynn (vide Dew's "Monumental Inscriptions of Hundred of Holt"), as also at Longham Churchyard, 1719 and 1720, and later at Swanton Novers Churchyard.

NORWICH AND HILGAY EMERSONS.

N.B.—This pedigree is compiled from wills (vide Appendix), but it must be clearly understood that the proof of the identity of Christopher, son of Allen, baptized 1628, and Christopher, of Hilgay, will proved 1678—9, is not to hand; nor that of William, son of Allen, and William, of Hilgay, will dated 1665; and it may possibly turn out these are two different Christophers and Williams—but I do not think so. Otherwise the pedigree is on legal basis (vide Wills and St. Peter Mancroft Register in Appendix).

Colonel Steele, who has examined some thirty-six transcripts of Norfolk Registers (vide Appendix, Norfolk Registers), says he only finds in them—William Emerson, buried at North Walsham, 1638; Elizabeth Emerson, buried at North Walsham, 1638. But some others of this family will be found in the Appendix (Par. Registers), also at Guist.

In the Chancery Proceedings, 13 Chas. I., pt. 11, 1637, we get William Emerson a/s Anderson, of Wigganball, St. Peter, Co. Norfolk, yeoman, selling Sparks Chantry and lands in Wigganball, St. Peter. Possibly this was the North Walsham Emerson.

In the East Anglian, Vol. III., p. 34, extracts from St. Lawrence Register, Norwich, I find the following very curious entry:—"Ye day of a great blowe by powder in ye city, Charles Emerson executed on the Castle Deckes as one of the pretended mutineers when the then Committee house was blown up with eighty barryls of powder, Jan. 2, 1648—9." Who this mutinous Charles was, what he did, etc., remains cryptic. I have no record of any Charles Emerson in Norfolk, and whether he was a native or "foreigner," "I must leave," as they say in Norfolk. I dare say, if Norfolk born, any descendant hankering for a villainous ancestor could easily find him.

Another Norfolk family contemporary with the draper's is a Yarmouth mariner, named Nicholas Emerson, will proved (Principal Registry) 1656—and well off for a mariner, too! This family were Huguenots, and their names are recorded in the lists of Huguenots who came to England; when they left it, I know not.

At Norwich Registry there is a will of Widow Emerson, 1664 (wife of Richard Emerson, mariner), who leaves a son, Robert, and as the will is made in the presence of Widow Emerson, late wife of Thomas Emerson deceased, we may conjecture the above Thomas is referred to, and that the families were related.

The Hearth Tax Rolls show how widely these various families had spread over this county, for we find the name at Wickhampton, Hilgay, Woodnorton, Guist, Serowthy, Riburgh parva, Methwold, Berney, Wickmore, Docking, Swaffield, Paston, Dickleburgh, North Repps, Binham, Hindringham, Great Walsingham, Norwich.

In the eighteenth century we find two Emersons at Langham Church*—Nov. 9, 1719—20, John Emerson buried, æt. 80; Feb. 12, 1720—22, Mary Emerson buried, æt. 76; and at Swanton—Mary Emerson, d. April 13, 1782, æt. 61; Mary Emerson, d. May 5, 1782, æt. 19; Elizabeth Emerson, d. June 23, 1813, æt. 79; John Emerson, d. June 6, 1818, æt. 85; possibly descendants of John, of Lynn, in the Lay Subsidy of 15 Hen. VIII.

Mr. F. Johnson tells me that in Gunthorpe and Burnham Thorpe churches are memorials commemorating two Emersons, and on whose tombs are arms carved, i.e., azure on a bend argent three torteaux; crest, issuing from clouds rays of the sun all ppr.; and Carthew in his "History of Lounditch Hundred" gives—Jacob Emerson, gent., 26 Sept., 1804, æt. 80; Mary, his wife, 30 Nov., 1818, æt. 97. In Foster's "Alumni Oxoniensis" we get—Emerson, Robert, s. Robert of Titchwell, Norfolk, armiger, Magdalen Hall, matric. 18 Oct., 1777, æt. 28.

Now, as already said, I have been unable to trace a single armigerous Emerson to Norfolk, nor do I find the names Jacob, Robert, etc., in the Lincolnshire pedigree about the period those persons lived, and I am forced to believe these persons have been claiming and using the Lincolnshire coat, and certainly they prove themselves imposters by using a crest that never legally existed. No Norfolk Emersons were ever granted arms, and I can find none before 1700 that ever rose to even professional rank—merely tradesmen and mechanics, farmers and

* "Monnmental Inscriptions in the Hundred of Holt," W. N. Dew. Ed. by W. Rye. Pp. 96 and 134.

I have no further record of this family, but their probable origin is indicated below.

And lastly, at the end of the seventeenth century we get in the Principal Registry the administration of Elizabeth Emerson, of Easton Bavents, Co. Suffolk, 1658, and wills of the children (at Ipswich Registry), from which the following short pedigree has been compiled.

There is also a will of Robert, of Bromeswell, Co. Suffolk, sackcloth weaver, dated 1679, devising lands at Clopton and Patistry to his sister Rose (King), mother Eliz. Wood.

It will be noticed that George, Robert and Susan occur in the register of St. Clement's, Ipswich, and in all probability these Emersons originated from the Ipswich family above.

Mr. F. Johnson kindly gave me the reference for the Suffolk ship tax (1640), Harl. MS. 7540, fo. 46, and there we find Emersons at Buxall, Helmingham, Fressingfield, Saxted, Hoxne (?), Wingfield and Playford. In some of these parishes the early registers are lost; in others they have been examined and are printed in the Appendix (q.v.). The Hearth Tax Rolls, taken some twenty to thirty years later, show some of the name at Eye (?), Oakley, Hoxne, Brandiston and Easton, where some are found in the nineteenth century, but none of them seem to have been families of any importance. I owe Mr. J. Johnson many thanks for the various register extracts published in the Appendix (Par. Registers), q.v.

Colonel J. P. Steele, in transcribing the Lowestoft Registers to 1786, found two of the name, viz., 1685, buried Mar. 13, Margaret Emerson; 1694, buried Feb. 1, Bridget Emerson, doubtless relatives of the Will Emerson, farmer, referred to in the curious document supplied by Mr. Cox (vide Appendix: Miscellaneous).

EMERSONS OF CO. BEDFORD.

I can find none of the name until the latter half of the sixteenth century in this county, and he was from London.

In May, 1561, was proved the will of William Emerson,^o of Woburn, by Elizabeth Laxe alias Bromley, his sister. This Emerson, though described as a yeoman, was evidently very wealthy, for he bequeaths an annuity of £22 6s. 8d. to his sister Elizabeth Laxe; his leases of Burses and Brenttoll to Mr. John Easton; to his sister £136 13s. 4d.; "also £63 for the occupation of my malt mill at Oobourne, my lease of Church Hale and Bygyngese in Pachilsam and Great Stanbridge, Co. Essex;" also his leases of the manors of Warnors, Asplinge and Newlands in Great Waltham in Co. Essex; also half of £64 out of tenths, first-fruits, etc., of the parsonage of Pecholsham, and also his house at Ooborne (Woburn) and several minor legacies. Pretty good for a yeoman.

Now the Rot. Lit. Claus. record a little of his history. He was a yeoman of London, for in roll 1 and 2, P. and M. (1554), pt. 8, we find a grant by Henry Warner, of Great Waltham, Co. Essex, to William Emerson, yeoman, of London, "in consideration of his help and services in Warner's difficulties," and aid in recovery of said Warner's bonds, of an annuity of £22 6s. 8d. out of the manor of Churchawe, parish of Paraclesham, Co. Essex. In roll 2 and 3, P. and M., pt. 5, we find that "William Emerson, of London, enters into his own recogns. in £600 to Thomas Segree, of Ooborne (Woburn), Co. Beds, to abide decision of arbitrators appointed to decide all matters between them." In roll 3 and 4, P.M. (1556), pt. 2, William Emerson, now described of Pechelsham, Co. Essex, yeoman, enters into his own recog. to Thos. Broke, of Earl's Court, as security for one Henry Cruche, of Greysburg, Co. Derby. And next we get his death and will, and possibly he was a bachelor and left no issue, and a Bromley snaps up the sister or sister-in-law, Elizabeth Laxe. Who this lone man was, and whence he came, I know not, though he could probably be traced, were it desirable, through the land records. I like his straightforward remarks on his enemies in his will.

A Ralf Emerson was vicar of Potton (vide Appendix), 1720—32, and though there is no record of him, there is the burial of a Miss or Mrs. Emerson in 1633, some years before his incumbency. This vicar afterwards went to London.

There was a prolific family of Emmensons at Little Barkford, and I have printed the will of one (proved 1637), but they are evidently Emmensons.

Finally, there was an Edward Emmerson, a husbandman, at Bedford, whose will is proved in 1657. This is in all probability the brother of Stephen Emmenson above, the name having been misspelt, and as he evidently goes out sine prole, it matters little.

There is no Emerson in any of the churches of Bedford itself between 1615 and 1635.

I have referred to these two families in case any pedigree hunter traces his quarry to Co. Bedford and gets fogged, for of course the name Emmenson in the will may have been spelt wrongly, and Edward Emmerson, of Bedford, may not be Stephen's brother, and he may have left issue, though not referred to in the will; but the onus probandi of these matters rests with the pedigree hunter, and personally, I think these two families are not Emersons at all, but Emmesons.

And this is all Bedford has to tell us.

XIX.

EMERSONS OF CO. ESSEX.

The earliest Emerson I have found in this county is George Emerson, whose wife is Alice, probably Alice Wyatt, daughter or sister of Sir Henry Wyatt, of Allington Castle, Co. Kent. This George went from Yorkshire, and was obviously a man of considerable importance, wealthy and influential. The first notice I have of him is in Yorkshire Fines, 1507—Henry Wyatt, Esq., and George Emerson acquiring lands in Great and Little Fenton, Co. York. Henry Wyatt, Esq., was afterwards Sir Henry Wyatt, of Allington Castle, Co. Kent, and in 1511 we find in Yorkshire Fines John Heron, Esq., and George Emerson re the manor of Rysome and lands in Hollington. In Ancient Deeds, Vol. II., C 421, Henry Wyatt, Esq., grants to George Emerson et Alice ux. lands in Stratford Langthorne, West Ham, Essex—his first appearance in Co. Essex. In 15, 17 and 23 Hen. VII. and 2 Hen. VIII. we find in De Banco Rolls, memb. 419, 430, 82 and 633, George Emerson acting attorney for several gentlemen; but in memb. 568 (Roll 26), 7 Hen. VIII., we find this same "George gave the king 6s. 8d. for a licence granted to him with John Bushe, Sen., and Johanna ux., Robert Warrent and Isabella ux. and Kath. Chaperfeld: 3 parts of 4 mess., 60 a. of land, 4 a. of meadow, 6 a. of pasture, 2 a. of wood, etc., in Ugyele (Ugley). Bierden (Berden), Bolyngton and Stanstede Mont Fichet (Stanstead Montfichet), in Co. Essex. Undoubtedly the same George as the above, for we find no further record of him in Co. Yorks; so that George held lands in West Ham Parish and in Stanstead Montfichet Parish and neighbourhood soon after 1500—as I have said before, a man of considerable wealth. Now Thomas Emerson, the Skelton forester, W.P. 1525, had a son George, of whom I have no further record; possibly the two Georges are identical.

Now curiously the next earliest of the name is Thomas Emerson, of Great Dunmow, a few miles from Stanstead Montfichet, and who has a son Robert, baptized 1561, in all probability Robert of Stortford; and probably the Herts Emersons of Standon, Bishop's Stortford, Great and Little Hadham and Sawbridgeworth, which are next to Stanstead Montfichet (though in Co. Herts) are sprung from this George and Alice. Possibly William Emerson, gent., who marries Mary Nuce at Great Hadham (Herts) in 1529 (London Marriage Allegations) was his son. This William had a sister Alice, it is worthy of remark. And possibly Thomas Emerson, of Romford, whose administration was granted to Joan, his relict, in 1595, is identical with Thomas of Great Dunmow. Important Emersons lived in these parts in later times too (vide Emersons of Co. Herts). In 1723 an Emerson was Vicar of Little Hallingbury, and presented a book to Bishop's Stortford Grammar School.* They were also connected with London. It will be noticed in the records that William Emerson, of Thweng, W.P. at Scarborough 1486, and William Emerson, of Thornton-le-Hill, Co. Yorks, are both especially designated as "yeomen," whereas George Emerson aforesaid has no description, either in Ancient Deeds or De Banco Rolls. Thomas, of Romford and Great Dunmow, have no description of status; whereas the other Essex Emersons before 1600 were yeomen and husbandmen, e.g., David, of West Bergholt, W.P. 1585, a yeoman; Ric., of Felsted, yeoman, W.P. 1626. Ralf, of Unthanke and Kelvedon (to be noticed presently), returned to Co. Durham, and possibly the various yeomen families round Great Waltham are sprung from the wealthy William Emerson, of London, yeoman, who died at Woburn, Co. Beds, W.P. 1561 (q.v.).

On referring to the Herts Emersons, it will be seen that Bushes in later times resided at Standon, Herts, and it must be remembered George Emerson, of Stanstead Montfichet, had lands licensed to him, and a Bushe and his wife. This looks as if the Stanstead Montfichet Emersons and the Herts and some of the Essex Emersons were all sprung from this George, who went thither in 1516. And as the Herts Emersons, William and his son Ric., are called in early documents (Inq. P.M.) "gents.," at a period when juries, etc., were very particular about these matters, it looks as though they were armigerous; lords of manors we know they were.

In the Black Book of the Northern Forests, we get under Hatyefield Forest (Co. Essex), fo. 7, "The custos de Brodehome sayeth that one Richard Emerson and others about six years ago slew three deer.—5 June, 30 Hen. VIII." This Richard was probably a forester of Hatfield Forest, and most likely a descendant of George and Alice, and related to the Herts Emersons. Other facts that make me think the Herts Emersons originated in Co. Essex are that Lay Subsidy, 14 Hen. VIII., no Emersons are taxed—the tenants in capite would not be; and that in Herts in a list of persons able to dispense xl.s. per yere, 1480, no Emersons are found, and we know the Standon Emersons were very wealthy for the times.

The next record is in Rot. Lit. Claus. 1 and 2 P. and M., pt. 8, where William Emerson, yeoman, of London, is granted an annuity of £22 6s. 8d. by one Warner out of the manor of Churchawe, Paraclesham. In 3 and 4, P.M., pt. 3, we find this William described of Great Waltham and Peckelsham, and in the Principal Registry is his will, proved May, 1561, he having died at Woburn, Bedfordshire. By his will (vide Appendix), he possibly went out in female issue, leaving all his properties to his daughter Elizabeth. Curiously enough, a Mr. John Easton is frequently mentioned in the will, and as the Eastons were closely connected with the Southwark Emersons, and as this William is first described of London, I suspect he is a scion of that family.

The Essex wills at Somerset House record various early members of the family in Essex. The peculiars of Bocking, Writtle and Good Easter give us no Emersons, but in the archdeaconry of Colchester, 1498—1585, we have a David Emerson, of West Bergholt, W.P. 1584, a Phillalego Emerson, of Wivenhoe, W.P. 1585, who goes out in female issue, and a Thomas Emerson, of Romford, W.P. 1595. David Emerson's family is given in the pedigree (q.v.), and of Thomas, of Romford, I have no further record. He is possibly Thomas, of Great Dunmow.

Next we meet with a doubtful Emerson, Ed., of South Fambridge. In Chaucery Proceedings B. and A., Chas. I., E.e. 3^r, 25 Nov., 1626, he is called Edward Emerson, of "Southsabridge" (South Fambridge?), and is described as a yeoman, and Mary, his wife, as widow of Joseph Bridge, late of St. Lawrence, Co. Essex. But in Ship Money Tax, S P. Dom., Chas. I., Vol. 358 (1637), he is described as Edward Emerson, of Eastwood Willows, Ed. Emeson, of Rochford and Woodes, and in his will, P.C.C. Wootton, fo. 13, he is described as Ed. Emison, of Lee, W.P. 1657. A grandchild, Sarah Emyson, is mentioned, and his wife is styled Sarah (evidently a second wife). I must, therefore, place him as an Emison or Emeson and leave him. The other Emesons of that district whose wills are at Somerset House are probably his relatives.

The next family connected with Essex is Ralf Emerson, of the Eastgate, Co. Durham, but whether he was himself ever in Essex seems doubtful, for he seems to have lived for some years at Brandon (Ferry), in Co. Suffolk; but he evidently held property in the county through marriage, for in Chancery Proceedings, B. and A., Chas. I., E.e. 1st, 1 May, 1627, we get the facts that Ralf Emerson, gent., then living at Wolsingham, married about thirty years ago (circa 1597) Mary Wright, daughter of Joseph Wright, gent., of Kelvedon Hall, Co. Essex, and this dispute is about land at Brandon Ferry, Co. Suffolk, that belonged to Joseph Wright, her father, together with lands at Kelvedon. It appears from the proceeding that Ralf and his wife Mary lived for about ten years at Brandon Ferry, and then returned to his (Ralf's) native county, Durham. The early entries in the Kelvedon Register (beginning 1558) give no Emersons until 1633, and the early Brandon Ferry Register is missing. It may be safely concluded then, I think, that Ralf and his wife, Mary Wright, never lived here, but probably returned to Co. Durham (vide the pedigree of Ludwell Emersons).

* Bishop's Stortford Grammar School Records.

If the reader will now turn to the pedigree, he will see that there are probably five contemporary Essex families at the beginning of the seventeenth century, one styling themselves "gents." at Vange, Dagenham, Nevendon and East Hanningfield; and the others yeomen at West Bergholt and Kelvedon; at Felstead, Rayne, Stebbing and Little Dunmow; at Sible Hedingham and White Notley; and lastly at Black Notley.

Now, curiously, the Ship Tax Money (1637) give only—Hineford Hundred, Stebbing, Wm. Emberson, 2s. 0¹/₂d.; Saling Magna (out-dwellers), Widow Emberson, 2s. 4d.; Rayne Parva, Widow Emerson, 3s. 9d. This proves, I think, that the tax returns are imperfect. I had the Felstead School Register searched, and the only record is "Extraordinary charges, 1621. Paid to Ric. and John Emerson for straw 9s."

The various relationships of these families will be seen from the pedigree, and no further notices of them are required. It is evident the name was spelt indifferently Emberson or Emerson.

In Patent Rolls, Vol. 248, n. 103, May 12. 1594, we have a Thomas Emerson giving evidence that "Nicholas Owen, who was with Mr. Gerrard, Jesuit, at Xmas at Mr. Emerson's house at Felstead." Felstead is in the immediate neighbourhood, and the Mr. Emerson of Felstead is evidently Ralf Emerson, the Jesuit, who is referred to in the Patent Roll, 1584. This Thomas was probably a relative and of the St. Bride's family (q.v.). He tells in his examination that he was never in Flanders, and only went to Norway, that he was apprenticed, 1584, to John Edwards, of the "King's Head," in New Fish Street, and served for his freedom six years, when three years ago he took a tavern, the "Three Kings," in Fish Street, which he kept till recently, when he went to Berwick-on-Tweed. And two years he was allowed the Lord Chamberlain's livery, through Mr. Sadler. It must be remembered the Sadlers held land in Hertfordshire too, and in Co. Gloucester, where the other Embersons appear. Now Foley's "History of the Jesuits" shows Ralf Emerson was a native of Co. Durham, and born circa 1561, and the Recusant Rolls, No. 43, show us Ralf, of Wolsingham, to have been a recusant; also his sons, George and William, of Barmeton (Houghton), roll 42. Now turning to the Ludwell pedigree we get—

Therefore, Ralf, of Wolsingham, and the Jesuit Ralf are not connected, but the Ralf who married Joseph Wright's daughter, of Kelvedon, is the recusant in the roll, and so are his sons.

Turning now to Ralf, of Felstead, evidently the Jesuit, it may be said he was a Durham man, and most likely bought or took a house at Felstead pro tempore, and of course left no issue. He seems to have had a rough time, and considering the cause he served, one does not regret it. I give elsewhere a condensed abstract of his life from Foley's "History of the Jesuits," and admire only his tenacity and pluck, and deplore his services in such a loathsome cause. It would be difficult to say from what Durham branch he sprang, but it is quite easy to point to many branches from which he did not descend, and one of those is Ralf, of Shotton, for his son Ralf was evidently of age in 1567, when his will was dated, and this Ralf is said to have been born circa 1561.

Turning next to the Hearth Tax Rolls, we find the family has greatly increased in the county, and Emersons are in 1666 taxed at Felstead, Great Wakering, Vange, Moulsham, East Mersea, White Notley, Terling, Little Waltham, Rayne, Rayleigh, East Hanningfield, Dagenham and Nevendon, full details of which are given in the Appendix, under Lay Subsidies (q.v.). It will be seen that the ubiquitous, and to us confusing, sons of Emma are also plentiful.

In the New Court Repertorium Eccl., London—a compilation from various sources—we find Thomas Emerson presenting the living of Downham Rectory, in 1694, to Thos. Hervey, M.A. Probably this Thomas was one of the Vange family, who are described as gents., probably a descendant of Thomas, of Great Dunmow, who was probably an armiger, for in Symond's MS. Coll., Essex, in the College of Arms there is record of a coat in Great Dunmow Church, which appears to be the "Lincolnshire" coat slightly differenced.

And, lastly, in Essex Wills, No. 4, East Anglian, p. 383, we find in the will of Thomas Cartwright, Bishop of Chester and Vicar of Barking, 1689, that he mentions lands in Barking bought from Mr. Emerson at £10 per annum. This Mr. Emerson was probably Mathew Emerson, gent., one of the Southwark family (q.v.), who according to Rot. Lit. Claus., 7 Chas. I. (1632), p. 27, n. 23, buys Tootingbeck Manor, in Co. Surrey, and other parcels in London and parcels in All Hallows, Barking, and All Saints, Barking. The registers of All Hallows and All Saints, Barking, give no Emersons born between 1615 and 1635, or about and previous to the purchase by Matthew Emerson, which strengthens the conjecture that he came from elsewhere and is the Mathew of the Close Roll above.

EMERSONS OF CO. HERTFORD.

In a list of persons in Co. Herts taken in 1480 who could "dispense x.l.s. per yere," no Emersons occur.

The Lay Subsidies down to 14 Hen. VIII. (1523) give none of the name, and the earliest record we have is the will of William Emerson, gent., of Standon, proved 24 March, 1533. As I have said under Co. Essex, I think all these Herts Emersons originated in Essex, and are descendants of George Emerson and Alice Wyatt, found at Stanstead Montfichet in 1516. From this document (q.v.) we get the following short pedigree:—

In a Chancery Inq. P.M., 1 Mary, pt. 1, No. 49, taken at Bishop's Stortford 4 June, 1554, we find the above William was seized of Doos Manor and other lands in Standon Parish, that the manor was held in capite and besides copyhold lands were held of Sir Ralf Sadler, Kt. They found that that William died a year later than he did, that Richard was his son and next heir and came of age in 1534, and that Mary died 29 Aug., 1542, and held the above properties until her death, when one W. Vance occupied them, King Henry VIII. consenting.

In Rot. Lit. Claus., pt. 2, 14 Eliz. (1562), we get Clement Nuce, Sen., passing to Richard Emerson, of Standon, gent., and others, various manors and messes, in Much Hadham, Standon, Thorley and Sawbridgeworth, Co. Herts.

In an Inq. P.M., 5 Eliz., pt. 1, n. 76 (1562), taken at Ware after the death of Richard Emerson, gent., it was found that he died seized of Doos Manor and other lands, and so seized he made his will (q.v.), 23 Oct., 1562, in which he mentions in addition his house in Trinity Gate without Aldriche (Aldgate), in London. James Hennage is his kinsman and next heir to wit, son and heir of W. Hennage and Alice his wife, sister of Will. Emerson, father of Richard. So passed Doos Manor to the Hennages. Richard's will, P.C.C., was proved 1562 (q.v.). The Newces, or Nuces, were people of some importance, and Mr. J. E. Cussans in his excellent "History of Hertfordshire" under Standon says, "Thomas Newce, Esq., sold Bartrams to William Fen, of Harrow-on-the-Hill, having obtained it from the Bands." On the floor of the nave of Standon Church is a brass to Richard Emerson, which bears the following epitaph—

*Among the mo. . . whome death in wonted wise
Hath call'd from restles toyl and carking care
Of wretched world—Here Richard Emerson lies,
To teach the rest that lyre even what they are.
Three tymes fyve hundreth yeres threc score and twane,
October on the eight and twenty day,
He chaunged lyfe, he cold not here remayne,
His tyme was fixed, for so the Scriptures say.
Vitam mors superat post mortem fama superatcs.

In London wills is the administration of Mary Emerson, 1639—40, of St. Botolph beyond Aldgate, granted to Susan Newce, her sister. We have no further record of this family, as the Standon Register begins long after this date.

The next record I have is the will of Robert Emberson, a "currier" and landholder of Bishop's Stortford, proved 1620—1. He probably was a migrant from Essex, and the son of Thomas Emerson, of Great Dunmow, baptized 1561. A sister Joan is baptized 1562, and a brother John baptized 1565. Great Dunmow and Bishop's Stortford are within a few miles of each other (seven), and as the Stortford Register begins 1561 and no Emersons appear till Robert, m. in 1578, we must conclude he came from elsewhere. The same remark applies to Thomas, of Great Dunmow; the Register begins in 1537, and the first baptism is in 1561. His pedigree from the will is as follows:—

In the churchwardens' book of St. Michael's, Bishop's Stortford,† we find—1636, Thomas Emerson, collector for poor; 1642, Southstreate, Robert Emerson (for clerk's wages), 4d. We have no further record of this family, but it is worth while pointing out that Lieutenant-Colonel James Emerson, of Tangiers, W.P. 1664—5, talks of his nephew Mr. Roberts of Bishop's Stortford.

In Recusant Rolls, 1 Chas. I., we find George Emberson, gent., of Much Hadham, fined £60. I have had Much or Great Hadham and Little Hadham and Thorley Baptism Registers from 1559—1635 searched, with no result. And later, we find Emmersons at Sawbridgeworth, as the following short pedigree, kindly supplied me by the Richmond Herald, proves. I had the baptisms from 1558 to 1750 searched, and no Emersons appear; so that this again points to the family having originated elsewhere—in Co. Essex I again suggest.

* "History of Hertfordshire," J. E. Cussans, p. 177.

† "Record of St. Michael's Parish Church, Bishop's Stortford." Ed. J. L. Glasscock, Jun. 8vo. 1882.

It will be remembered that Richard Emerson, of Standon, held land at Much Hadham and Sawbridgeworth, so that probably all these Emersons are connected, but I have no links at present, though possibly a thorough search through the registers in the neighbourhood may bring them to light.

XXI.

EMERSONS OF CO. BUCKINGHAM.

Never an Emerson do the Lay Subsidies give us, but they are of great interest as showing this to be a home of the Embertons—indeed, I believe there is a vill called Emberton in the county; but they are in no way connected with the Emersons, and the first record we get is that of Edward Emerson, of Hansloppe, who migrated into the county from Northamptonshire (vide Emersons of Co. Northampton), but we have no more positive information about him. One of the Southwark family, too, held property in this county (vide Emersons of Co. Surrey), but we have no further record of him either; so that probably both of these Emersons were merely temporary residents; but to those who think they are related to Edward, of Hansloppe, a study of manor rolls, if they exist, may help them.

My researches in this county have been of chief use in throwing light on the name Emberton, and its probable variant Emerton; but, nevertheless, we find the Emerson family appearing here, and in Somerset House we find the will of Eliz., of Lavendon, proved 1684; and the will of Justin Emerson, of Bletchley, proved 1692; and of a George Emerson, of Great Brickhill, which, unfortunately, gives us very meagre details, though he speaks of brother and nephews, but does not name them. The Newport Pagnell Emersons in the modern pedigrees are probably descendants of these families.

The following is the only short pedigree I can compile from the records:—

EMERSONS OF CO. OXFORD.

The early Subsidy Rolls give us none of the name, and though Emersons were at college at Oxford in the fifteenth century, we shall not include them under Oxford Emersons.

The earliest record I have is:—"Particulari compote Owini Jones, Fulkini Emerson, W. Potter et J. Birde gen collectores tercie et quarte xv.^{me} et x.^{me} xv.^{arum} et x.^{arum} domine Regine nunc Elizabethæ a laicis omne regni sui xxxix. circensarum in civitate predicta." *

Fulk Emerson's (of Oxford city) will † was proved Feb. 12th, 1617—18, wherein he is described as a tailor. In this document he bequeaths his lands to his son John, and his dwelling-house to his son Fulk, and he names three daughters. And this is the only Oxford Emerson will up to 1700. Whence Fulk, Senior, came, I know not—possibly from London; at any rate Fulk, Junior, goes to London after his University career, for in Foster's "Alumni Oxoniensis" we find Fulk Emerson matriculated at Brasenose College as "plebs," 10 Nov., 1621, æt. 17; but there is no further record, so we may conclude he took no degree. I next find him in London, in St. Bride's, Fleet Street, register:—Baptisms, July 24, 1631, Elizabeth, dau. to Foulke Emerson wyef Mary. And again, in 1640 in Hunter's list of principal inhabitants of London, we get one Emerson only, i.e., Fulke Emerson, of St. Gregory's (by St. Paul's). In Rot. Lit. Claus., 22 Oct., 11 Chas. I., p. 24, n. 5, we find an indenture between Andrew Throughton, citizen and grocer of London, and Foulk Emerson, citizen and haberdasher (so he kept to his father's trade), and another for 5s. selling a mews in "White Hart lying in Buckler's Burg in par. of St. Stephen in Walbrooke in the ward of Cheap, London." In the Patent Rolls, 13 Chas. I., No. 2, the King allows Fulconi Emerson and others to alienate two messes in the parish of St. Stephen's, Walbrook.

And this is the last I hear of him. His will I have found nowhere, nor have I any record of his brother John, who may have stayed on at Oxford. That Fulk was pretty well off is evident, and his Christian name being distinctive I thought I might be able to trace him to his end; but such has not been the case, though no doubt an extended search amongst London parish registers would complete his record, for my search of the St. Bride's register stopped at 1635.

Appended is a short pedigree of the family.

Finally, since none of the name appear in the Lay Subsidies for Oxford* and none appear in the Hearth Tax Rolls,* we may fairly conclude the family went to Oxford late in the sixteenth century, and that John also left Oxford, or died, before the Hearth Tax. And there is no evidence as to what branch of the family they were an off-shoot; their origin I do not know.

XXIII.

EMERSONS OF CO. GLOUCESTER.

After a long search through the Lay Subsidies of this county, including the very heavy rolls of Bristol city up to 14 Hen. VIII., 1523, and the Muster Rolls for the county tempe Hen. VIII., no Emersons are to be found—not a single one, and only one son of Emma. A Durham family first migrated to Gloucester, probably tempe Queen Elizabeth, for in the will of Thomas, of Coldaston and Mangotsfield, proved 31 Oct., 1586, his cousin Arthur, of Stanhope, is mentioned, thus proving the link with Durham.

This Thomas, of Mangotsfield (near Bristol) was well off. He mentions his wife Joan and his kinsman Thomas, of Coldaston, and Richard Emerson; but does not seem to have left any issue, unless Richard was a son—which is possible, for these old fellows had most peculiar methods of making their wills.

The next record is of this Richard in an Inq. P.M., dated 9 Jas. I., No. 44, in which Richard Emerson, of Barton Regis, near Bristol, was found to have died Dec. 7, 1602, and that Andrew (aged 7 in 1602) was his son and heir. The Registry Index gives the will of Richard Emerson, of Horton, dated 1603; but this document is not to be found at the registry. The Rev. Begbie very kindly searched the Horton Registers for me, and found some of Richard's descendants—a son baptized in 1625, and daughters baptized in 1630 and 1632. This Andrew married an Elizabeth, and in the Principal Registry in London an administration is granted to Eliz. Emerson, of Mangotsfield.

Next, at Bristol, we have Thomas Emerson, will proved 22 Nov., 1637, a dyer, bequeathing £50 to his son Thomas at his age of 21, and mentioning his brother Harnois' children, his wife's name being Mary. Then we have a Thomas Emerson, filacer (who marries in 1624 Gertie Strange, of Mound's Court, Gloucester Visitation), mentioned in the will of Thos. Farewell, of Holbrooke, Co. Somerset, whom he succeeds; this was probably one of the Southwark family.

* Oxford Historical Society publications.

And the origin of Thomas, of Coldaston, the kinsman of Thomas, of Mangotsfield, is still unaccounted for. His issue is given in the accompanying pedigree.

It may be noted in this connection that in 35 Hen. VIII. the manors of King's Barton and Abbots Barton were held by Ric. Andrews and Nicholas Tempest, and that in 1608 the manor of Clifton was held by Sir Ralf Sadler, and that Robert Symonds purchased the manor of Hewetsfield Driffeld of the daughter of Sir Nic. Throckmorton, half the manor having been held 5 Eliz. by R. Townsend by marriage with daughter of Sir H. Browne. Horton Manor belonged to the Pastons in 1608.

The Great Orphans' Book, Freemen's Rolls, Customs Records and registers of Marshfield, Mangotsfield and Bristol (vide Appendix), have all been searched. A modern family (vide modern pedigrees) is descended from these early Gloucester Emersons.

EMERSONS OF CO. BERKSHIRE.

We get none of the name in the Lay Subsidies down to and including 14 Hen. VIII. (1523). The earliest record that looks like the name is that of Richard Em^oson, who in Patent Roll, dated 5 Ed. VI. (1552), is described as a yeoman, and is pardoned for shooting a "prickete" in the Great Park, Windsor. We hear no more of this Richard, but in the Berkshire Admon. Act Book, p. 11, 1632, fo. 232, is record of a Thomas Emerson, of Old Windsor, ob. 1596, possibly one of the same family. His will, proved 1596, proves him to have been a yeoman. He speaks of his mother, Jacanim Stevens, of Elizabeth his wife, and his son Thomas, a minor.

Next we get the administration of Giles Emerson, of Newbury, yeoman, who died intestate, his estate being granted on Aug. 8, 1632, to Sibilla Emerson, his relict; sum of inventory, £34 18s 6d. Whilst in 1666 we get the administration of Giles of Abingdon, a cutler, granted to Anne, his relict. And in Foster's "Alumni Oxoniensis" we get Thomas, the son of Giles Emerson, of Newbury, matriculated at New Inn Hall, 18 Feb., 1624-5, aged 18; B.A. from Magdalen Hall, 24 Jan., 1627-8; M.A., 8 June, 1630. This Thomas died at Hagbourne, Berks, in 1655, for an administration was granted to his widow Elizabeth on 20 Jan., 1655; no children mentioned.

As there are no other records of wills up to 1700, it may be fairly conjectured that one of the name wandered into the county in the sixteenth century, and his descendants rested for a generation or two, and finally, probably went out sine prole—in this case in all probability as a parson.

XXV.

EMERSONS OF LONDON AND CO. MIDDLESEX.

The Lay Subsidies for London and Middlesex down to and including the rolls of 14 Hen. VIII. give us no Emersons, nor do the early Middlesex Fines or Inq. Post Mortems. And before proceeding it is necessary to say we have not included the Southwark Emersons in this chapter, having treated of them under Co. Surrey, though they owned property in London. The same remark applies to Fulk Emerson, a prominent citizen of London, but a native of Oxfordshire, in which county he is included, as the history of his family is there given. Also William, of Woburn, Will. and Richard, gents., of Stondon, Herts, who are included in their various counties. Apart from these families there do not seem to have been any very prominent Emersons in London and Middlesex up to 1700, but such as there were we will now give a short account of.

The earliest London Emerson I have is Nicholas Emerson, freeman and householder of the Skinners' Company, 1538 (vide Midd. and Herts. Notes and Queries, Vol. III., No. 9, p. 39, and Vol. III., No. 11, p. 154). A Nicholas Emerson is buried at St. Saviour's Southwark, Oct. 24, 1582—probably the same; but I have no further record, and the Secretary of the Skinners' Company had no record of this one, but that he was a member in 1538 is proved by Mr. Salisbury's researches (q.v.).

St. Bride's Emersons (London).

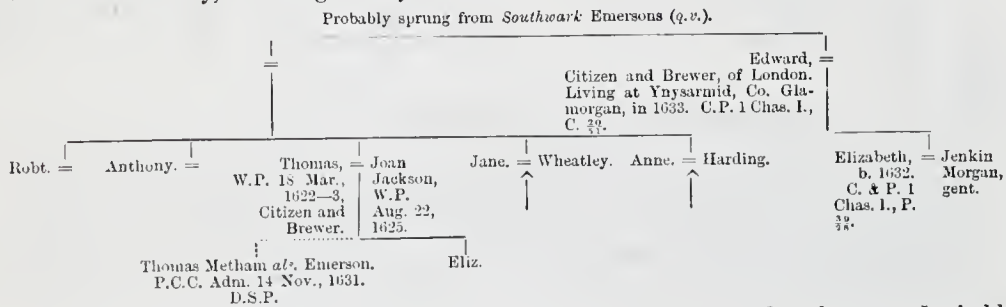

Evidently next to the Southwark, Oxford, Herts and Bedford Emersons, one of the richest London families at this period. Their pedigree, so far as I have been able to trace it, is short but secure, but whence they originated I am unable to trace, though it is possible they came from the Southwark family, who it must be remembered owned "brewhouses" and held the famous "Salutation Inn." These Emersons of St. Bride's were also brewers and inn-keepers.

In S.P. Domestic, Vol. CCXLVI., No. 141, we get a history of this Thomas Emerson, who was examined 24 Nov., 1593, concerning some political affair. In the examination Emerson gives his history. He was apprenticed 1584—1585 to John Edwards, of the "King's Head" in New Fish Street, and served for his freedom about six years, when about three years ago next Lent he set up for himself at the "Three Kings" in Fish Street, where he remained till the last Annunciation Day, when he went to Berwick-upon-Tweed, and remained until these six last voyages intended for Hull. About two years since he obtained the Lord Chamberlain's livery through one Mr. Sadler, and has worn it ever since. He never served any other person, or spoke of any army that was to come to Ostend or was in Flanders, though he was once in Norway for Hawks about May last.

In Chancery Pro. B. and A., B. $\frac{3}{35}$, 1622, we get this family referred to—Thomas Emerson, Innholder, and Edward Emerson. Thomas tried to arrange a marriage between R. Barrowe and Elizabeth Emerson, dau. of Edward Emerson, a kinsman of said Thomas; and now said Thomas refuses to carry out his contract.

Various other records refer to this Edward and Thomas, e.g., in State Papers Domestic, Vol. XXXV., No. 48, Edward is bound for the debts of Thomas, and paid £4000, but owing to the plague, twelve of his servants died, and various losses had made him a bankrupt, so that he was taken to the debtor's prison; although in 1620 Edward was executor to Roger Bellowe, brewer (Rot. Lit. Claus., 18 Jas. I., p. 9, n. 14). There are other references in the State Papers and Patent Rolls, printed in the Appendix, to this unfortunate family, referring chiefly to their troubles.

In B. and A., 1 Jas. I., T. $\frac{9}{46}$ and T. $\frac{12}{3}$, we get Thomas referred to as Innholder and his uncle Edward, and it proves that Thomas died in debt, and his estate was not sufficient to pay his debts. And as Edward only left a daughter, the family goes out—excepting Robert and Anthony. I find an Anthony in St. Nicholas, Deptford, Register, with a numerous progeny, spelling their names Emberson, and possibly the ancestors of the Essex Embersons, of Kelvedon and neighbourhood—for Deptford is not far off.

In C.P. 1 Chas. I., m. $\frac{3}{4}$, we get Christopher, Arthur and Marie Emerson, probably related to this family. Fulke Emerson and his wife Mary have a daughter Elizabeth baptized at St. Bride's. There is also a widow who married into the Southwark family (q.v.), and lastly a mysterious bachelor Thomas Emerson als Meatham, ob. S.P., adm. 1631.

Enfield Emersons.

Next we come to the Enfield Emersons, who, I think, are descended from the Southwark Emersons too. Enfield is an old forest quarter.

In Rot. Lit. Claus., 44 Eliz., p. 24 (1602), we get an indenture between a brewer of Enfield and Hugh Browker and Thomas Emerson, of Inner Temple (this Thomas of the Southwark family, and H. Browker, his brother-in-law), whereby the Enfield brewer grants a mess., garden, barn, stables, parcel of meadow, 3 a. at Bulles Crosse in Enfield to Thomas Emerson, Sen., and Hugh Browker, Sen. The Enfield Register give us a John Emerson and his family residing there at this period, whose pedigree is as below. In Chancery Proceedings B. and A., B. $\frac{1}{6}\frac{1}{4}$, 1622, we find litigation re this property, when Thomas Emerson claims it for sums of money paid to Hugh Browker, uncle of defendant. i.e., mother's brother. Now considering the brewery and the connection with the Southwark family, it is very probable this family of Enfield Emersons were connected with that family, and descendants of Humphrey (vide Southwark Emersons). Edward is possibly the St. Bride's Edward (q.v.).

The Mooken Hadley Emersons and St. Helen's, Bishopsgate, belong, of course, to the Southwark Emersons (q.v.).

Hackney Emersons.

I have referred to this family under Yorkshire, whence they originated. In the Principal Registry is the will of Christopher Emerson, of Barton-le-Street, in Co. York, clerk. The pedigree is as follows:—

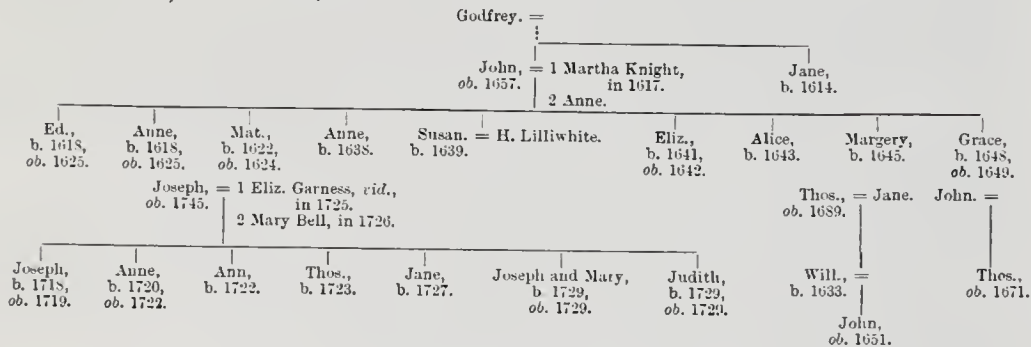

The will of John Emerson, of Hackney, proved P.C.C. 1669, proves the family moved to Hackney, and gives the other particulars noted in the pedigree (vide will in Appendix).

We will now record several minor London and Middlesex families.

St. Andrew, Holborn. Here we find Magdalen, adm. 1570; Cuth., adm. 1668, with a daughter Martha; Ralf, adm. 1688, with a widow Sidney (sic): and Geo., adm. 1723, with a widow Eliz.; also—

St. James, Clerkenwell.

St. Botolph, Aldgate. Cuth., adm. 1626; Cuth., mariner, W.P. 1685, D.S.P.; Ric., adm. 1625 to brother John; Ebenezer, adm. 1726 to relict Eliz. We find here two of the Herts Emersons—Mary, adm. 1639 to her sister Susan Nuce (of Gt. Hadham), and Thos. Adams, gent., = Eliz. Emerson, of Cheshunt, vid. at 30 in 1641. It will be remembered Ric. E., gent., of Standon, Herts, owned property in the parish (vide Inq. P.M.).

St. Katherine Coleman. John Emerson, gent., a "waiter" in the East India Co., dies S.P. in 1693, evidently a wealthy man; dies in the ship Le Armenia Merchant, on the way to the Indies.

St. Katherine, Christchurch. Rob. Emerson, citizen and lorrymer, W.P. 1533, names his wife Elin and relative Elizabeth Emerson.

St. Augustine. John Emerson, a tailor, marries Eva Bayley in 1602.

St. Botolph, Bishopsgate. A Roger Emerson dies in 1584; Geo. E. = Isabel Conadine, vid. in 1603, and has a son Thos., who dies in infancy; John E. has a son James, who also dies in infancy; Ralf E., of Newcastle = Anne Young in 1701.

St. Dunstan-in-the-East. A widow, Eliz. Emerson, W.P. 1563, leaves three daughters, Eliz., Mary and Kath., one of whom marries W. Girdler, citizen, of London.

St. Mary Abchurch. John Emerson, adm. 1646, to Kath., his relict.

St. Nicholas Olave. We find Geo. and Cecilia, of Coxclose, Co. Durham; Geo., adm. 1660.

St. Matthew, Friday Street. John E. = Ann Price in 1677.

Holy Trinity the Less. We find the will of Ralf Emerson, tailor, proved 1625, which mentions kinsmen Geo., a carpenter, and his wife Eliz., and Ann = Fludd. Francis E. = Hester Tyte in 1663, a cloth-drawer.

All Saints in muro. We find John, a yeoman, W.P. 1639, D.S.P., which names his brothers Geo. and Will.

Trinity, Queenhithe.

John. =	Ruth Cawthorne, in 1631, W.P. 1692, vid.	Sara. =	Wiltbery.
	Ruth. = Attwood.

St. Martin-in-the-Fields. The chief family here was Christopher Emerson, whose adm. is dated 1672. He left a widow Ann, a sister Ethelreda = W. Wise, gent., in 1633, and a son John. He was a merchant, and owned property in Co. Herts and Co. Lincoln; in the former he was part lord of Abbots Langley Manor in 1644. There is a John E. = Mary Norman in 1604; but in all probability not John, son of Christopher. Then we have a family in humble circumstances, viz., Thos., a beadle, who married Agnes Gilbert in 1595, and died in 1636, leaving issue—Rob., b. 1597; Kath., b. 1601; Margery, b. 1605; and Elinor, b. 1610—the rest of his large family having died of the plague when young, viz., Jane, John, Margt., Eliz., Thomasine, and Makeway and Jane, twins. A Kath., vid., = R. Nicholson in 1675. There was an early family here, for we get Rhoda, b. 1582, and Ann, ob. 1601. A Henry (vir.) dies in 1629.

Grey's Inn Lane and St. Andrew, Holborn. Geo. Norreys, gent., marries in 1623 Elizabeth Emerson, vid. of Christopher, of St. Andrew's, Holborn, possibly the father of Ferdinand, the cutler, W.P. 1633, who leaves a wife Joan and children John and Mary. This family were greatly persecuted as recusants, and were Roman Catholics, alas!

St. Mary Aldermary. We get a George, of Bowe Lane, = Eliz. Gill, with a child bap. 1621.

St. Thomas the Apostle. We find Robert with a son John, b. 1590, but no further trace of them. ? Robert, of Stortford (q.v.).

St. Michael, Cornhill. We find a Will., with a dan. Dorothy, b. 1598, and afar off a Martha, ob. 1736.

St. Anne, Blackfriars. Besides records of the Southwark Emersons, we find Francis Emerson = Mary Foxall in 1633, son Geo. bap. 1634; possibly the Francis, s. of Thos., of Southwark, b. at Deptford, 1609.

St. Helen, Bishopsgate. There are records of the Southwark family (q.v.).

St. Bartholomew the Great. We have a John, s. of John, b. 1616.

Deptford. There is an Anthony Emberson (sic) at Deptford, but whether the Anthony given above, I have no proof. The pedigree is—

St. Peter, Cornhill. The Rev. John E., of Horsham, marries Margery Poulson (by lic.), vide Sussex Emersons.

Christchurch, Newgate. We find the Southwark family again, and a well-to-do family, whose pedigree is given under the Surrey Emersons, one of them having married a Garth, of Morden, of Co. Surrey (q.v.). There is also a Ric., with a daughter Rebecca, b. 1605.

St. Ethelburta. Rev. Ralf, vicar, vide Newcastle Emersons.

St. Albans, Wood Street. Gives us merely a Rob. (adm. 1587) = Frances; Eliz. (d. of Robt. E., clothdrawer), = Will. Michael in 1665.

St. Giles-in-the-Field. Gives us another of the rare Phillips, adm. 1690, to Eliz., relict.

St. Giles, Cripplegate. Gives us Thom. E. = Ann Tomlins in 1649; Eliz. E., vid., = R. Alton in 1670.

St. Margaret, Westminster. We have an interesting family or two here. Roger Emerson, Yeoman of the Guard, W.P. 1548 by his widow Eliz. Then we get emigrating families—Geo., who died in the Bermudas in 1693, has his goods administered by his sister Jane Chapman; Ellis Emerson, who has sons, Thos., b. 1613, Rowley or Robert, b. 1617, and Agnes, b. 1626. This may have been the Ellis who emigrated with two servants to Virginia in 1625 (vide Hotton's lists) to Martin's Hundred, where Rob., s. of Mr. Emerson, dies; but I have not had time to search the register, and hope to clear this up later; this is the only Ellis I have discovered. And lastly, we have Thomas, with wife Mary and children Susan, b. 1628, and Thos. A John E. marries here in 1602.

St. Michael, Bassingshaw. We find a Mathew, W.P. 1592, leaving a widow Margt., and a Thos., adm. 1611, a draper, leaving a widow Katherine. Whether this Matthew is related to Mathew, W.P. 1673, who leaves a son Nic., and daug. Eliz. = Seeres and Ann, I know not, for the latter have no parish given in the will; neither have a James and his brother Robt., who dies in Scotland in 1650, and leaves a dau. Elizabeth.

St. Margaret, Lothbury. We find a Leonard, W.P. 1628, leaving a widow Alice.

St. Paul, Shadwell. We find Ralf E., gent., of Newcastle, at 21, s. of John, of Newcastle, = Eliz. Kemball in 1690—Ralf born 1670. He was vicar of Pottou, Beds, in 1693, and returned as vicar of St. Ethelburta, London, in 1720 (q.v.).

And this brings us lastly to the sailors' parishes of Whitechapel, Wapping, Shoreditch and Stepney.

At Wapping we find a well-to-do Chandler, possibly related to Rev. Christopher, of Hackney (q.v.).

And then mariners crop up, old sea-dogs with and without wives.

Wapping.

There is a John of Wapping = Mary, and issue Len. b. 1621, Ann b. 1622, and Mary b. 1624; and a Will. dies in 1636, leaving a widow Sara to mourn him. A James, too, dies in 1619, leaving a widow Eliz. and a dau. Alice, but I am not sure that these three were sailors; but all the following Stepney people are "sailors bold."

Stepney and Whitechapel. Michael, W.P. 1631, leaves a sister Magdalen Farroe. Henry, W.P. 1635, mentions a brother John drowned at sea. John, W.P. 1694, mentions his sister Eliz. Joseph, W.P. 1695, mentions his widow Mary, of Aldgate; and Henry, W.P. 1694, mentions his wife "Ulsey," of Stepney.

Shoreditch. At Shoreditch we only find John E. = Eliz. Calthropp in 1679; James, adm. 1704, to his widow Mary; and Ric., adm. 1731, to his widow Rebecca—possibly sailors, though there is no record of this.

Rotherhithe. At Rotherhithe, however, we get two more genuine sailors—Geo., a bachelor, W.P. 1688, and Will., a bachelor, W.P. 1691. Whilst we get in 1633 the adm. of Thomas, a bachelor, "died in parts beyond the seas," granted to his brother John, and Hugh, "died in parts beyond the seas," adm. in 1653, given to his widow Margaret. The Emersons have thus given their share to fill the "ocean graveyards."

We will now move out into the country round London, or rather into that part of it contained in Middlesex.

At Ealing we find Ralf Emerson, whose adm. is given to his widow Francis in 1587. At Old and New Brainford we find three families—Will., a waterman, W.P. 1586, leaving a widow Magdalen, and a son Ralf; Ric., adm. 1634, leaving a widow Elizabeth; and John, with a widow Eva, dying in 1629, and leaving a son Ric., adm. 1634—possibly the aforementioned Richard. At Norton Folgate there is a doubtful family—whether Emerson or Enson, I am not sure, and as there is no male issue it matters little; but at Uxbridge is a family of tailors—Rob., W.P. 1691, leaving two sons, Rob. and Ric.; Rob., Jun., leaving a son Rob., and Richard two children, Ric. and Mary, all alive in 1691. Later there is a Thos. = Eliz., whose adm. is dated 1731, doubtless a descendant of the previous family.

EMERSONS OF CO. KENT.

The very heavy Lay Subsidy Rolls of this county give us none of the name. In $\frac{124}{188}$ 15 Hen. VIII. (1523), however, we get—City of Canterbury, Ward of Newyngate, Gerard Enson, doucheman, goods xl s.—ii. s. A doucheman—obviously not an Emerson. Next in certificates of residence we get Bundle III., 18 Ric., 1620, Emerson, Thos., Kent., Hundred of Blackheath, ar in bon, viii. li. xiii. s. iv. d. This is most likely one of the Southwark family living at Blackheath at the period. Evidently a man of means, and a reputed armiger, who moved to some other part of England—in all probability to Monken Hadley, Co. Middlesex, and so would take his certificate with him to prove he had paid his subsidy at Lewisham. As a son, Francis, of Thomas Emerson, was born at Deptford in the Hundred of Blackheath, this seems to make the matter more than likely.

Then we come to wills, and the only will at the Canterbury Register up to 1700 is that of Robert Emerson, of St. Lawrence, Ramsgate, in Thanet, "Taylor," will proved 1636, possibly a descendant of the Uxbridge tailor. The Rev. Payne-Smith and Mr. Wilkie kindly searched the St. Lawrence Register for me, and Mr. Wilkie remarks in a footnote that the first entry in the St. Lawrence Register is the marriage of Robt. Emerson and Jane Angram, 1598, and that a branch of the family probably migrated from the cinque port of Sandwich (6 miles distant), the Ramsgate portion of St. Lawrence being limb or liberty of Sandwich, and the name has been known both at Sandwich and Ramsgate down to the present time.

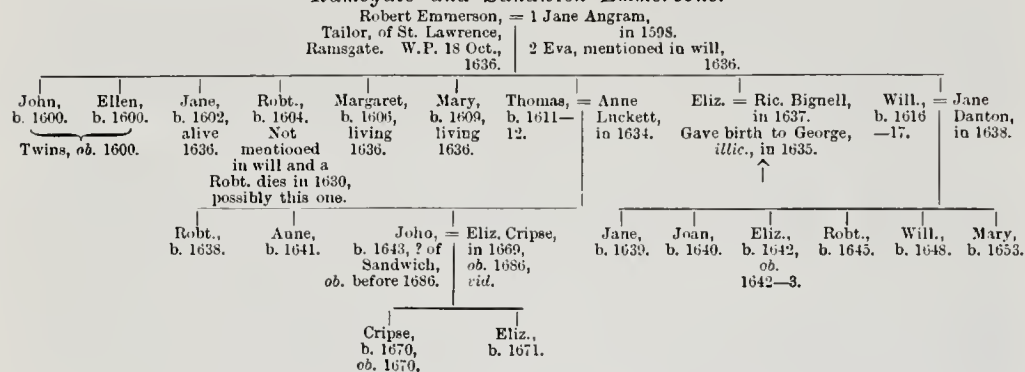

But I must call the reader's attention to the modern Emersons living at Ramsgate, who went in recent times from Lincolnshire, and who, I presume, are therefore unconnected with the family referred to above, and in addition at the Principal Registry is an adm. granted to Elizabeth Emerson, relict of John Emerson, late of Sandwich, Co. Kent, who died in parts beyond the sea, dated 1673. In S.P. Dom., Vol. CXLIV., No. 31. 1629, is an examination of John Emerson, mariner, re "acts of scorn practised against him by the mariners of the Waterhound in Dover Harbour," held before Sir Ed. Dering, Lieut. of the Castle. That is probably the above John who died abroad. Not having found any clue to Robert's origin, and as the modern Sandwich family seem indifferent and contented with a vague tradition that they came from Yorkshire, I did not do as much as I would have done had they given me all information in their power; but certainly they are not armigerous.

It will be noticed in the first two baptismal entries the name is spelt Emerson, but in the third baptism (child of the same parents) the name is spelt Emmerson; and so it is in the will of Robert, the tailor, proved 1636, and so it is spelt at Sandwich to-day.

I append a short pedigree of the St. Lawrence family of Emmersons compiled from the will and Parish Register.

Ramsgate and Sandwich Emmersons.

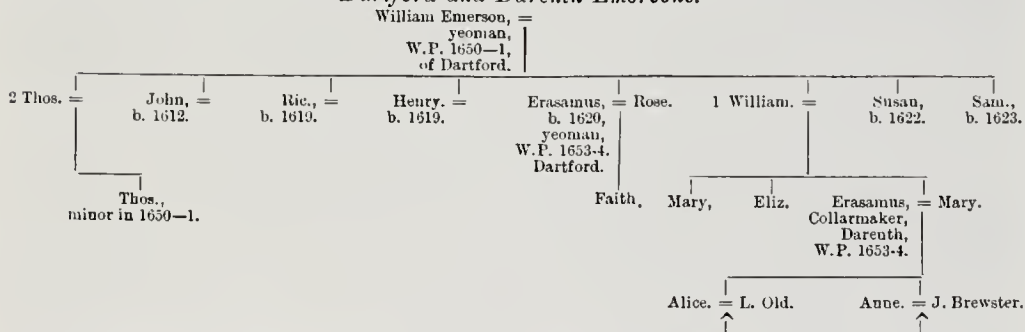

Sandwich Emmersons (descended from the above).

In the north of the county we find another family of Emersons in the sixteenth century, also tradesmen and yeomen. Some of their wills being in the Principal Registry.

Dartford and Darenth Emersons.

Adm. of S. Free ā Emerson, dated 1654, leaves an illic. son, Israel Free. The Dartford Register was only examined for baptisms 1615-1635. The entries, however, show there were other families of the name living at Dartford at this period (vide Registers Appendix). Whether this family and the Ramsgate and Sandwich Emersons are connection I have not traced, but it is interesting to give the following in this connection:—In the publications of the Lewisham Antiquarian Soc. under the register of St. Mary, Lewisham, is the following entry:—"Burial, 1588, Thomas Em . . . at Dartford." Possibly the Dartford family originated from this Thomas, who, I presume, resided at Lewisham.

In the wills at Somerset House we find two or three documents referring to Emersons of the eighteenth century living at Strood, Chatham, Snodland, and Igham, and Downe Chaplery, and Gillingham. We find Thomas Emberson, and Mary, his wife, at Gillingham, Thomas Emerson, M.A., to officiate in the chapel of Downe, 24th May, 1638—no further particulars. The Snodland pedigree is short.

Of the Chatham Emersons we have only an adm., 1707, and of the Wilmington Embersons only an adm. dated 1725. But all these are probably connected, and as none are of any importance except the M.A. of Downe, whom I cannot trace, we need not go deeper into the matter. There are some modern Emersons at Chatham possibly descendants.

And so the County of Kent has not been prolific in Emersons, although it seems to have been one of the homes of the Emerys, who, as I said before, seem to be of south of England origin.

In the Archæologia Cantiana, Vol. II., p. 162, 1687, we read in the Radclyffe Household Book accounts of Mrs. Helen Emerson, wife of W. Wright, porter, brewer and baker to Sir F. Radclyffe, Bart. The Radclyffes were a Northumberland family, and in Archæologia Æliana, Vol. I., p. 209, new series, 1657, we read that Ralf Emerson was a witness to the will of Sir Ed. Radclyffe, of Dilston, Co. Northumberland—possibly this was Ralf, of Kilham.

XXVII.

EMERSONS OF CO. SURREY.

This is by far the richest family of the name that I have been able to trace in this country. I am uncertain as to their origin, but as will be seen later on, I conjecture they came from Lincolnshire to London, and probably William Emerson is the cousin of John Emerson, of Folkingham, Co. Lincoln, gent., mentioned in his will, proved 1541 (q.v.). Now for my reasons:—

(1) The London and Middlesex Fines and Lay Subsidies down to 14 Hen. VIII. give us none of the name, not a single Emerson.

(2) The Surrey Lay Subsidies down to 14 Hen. VIII. give none of the name.

(3) William Emerson, of Southwark, was a citizen and bowyer. Lincolnshire was noted for its bowmen in those days.

(4) And above all, the arms. The Lincolnshire Emersons were allowed the pre-Tudor coat in 1634. This family claimed and used the same arms, though there is no record at the College of their having been allowed them. But if the reader will turn to the records, especially the indexes of Close Rolls and Patent Rolls, he will find members of the family, especially Thomas Emerson, Esq., described as armiger in the various deeds, and it was this Thomas Emerson who in 1617 placed these arms on the Market Cross at Durham with the saltire of the Nevilles.

Market Cross erected by Thos. Emerson, Esq., of London, at Durham, in 1617. The Lincolnshire arms with T. E. around them are to be faintly seen on the front, 1617, whilst all around are the Neville saltires. (Traced from Surtee's "History of Durham," by Sybil Emerson.)

I am aware this is not conclusive, but I have not the proof, and must leave it as it stands. Everything points to Lincolnshire as their home.

The next record is in an Inq. P.M. taken at the Guildhall, 15 Oct., 1560, after the death of John Swingfeld, who died seized of 21 tents in the alley situate in Southwarke . . . 2 gardens, then in the tenure of William Emerson.

The earliest record I have of this family is Rot. Lit. Claus., 3 and 4, P. and M., pt. 2, 1556, when William Emerson, citizen and bowyer of London, and John Redman, ditto, take a mess., etc., in Bermondsey St., parish of St. Olave, Southwark, for £17, mess. called the "Woolsack." Southwark at this period comprised much the same land as it does now, vide Charter of Ed. VI.* 1550, which granted the manor of Southwark to the city of London. In this charter several parcels and tenements, etc., are mentioned, but Mr. Heckethorne tells me no Emersons are to be found therein. In Rot. Lit. Patent, 7 Eliz., pt. 10, m. 23, we get William Emerson taking a mess. in Wannesworth, annexed to the Royal Honour of Hampton Court, and called "Le Savage," @ 110/- per ann. This was probably William, senior or junior, of Southwark.

Of William Emerson, citizen and bowyer, we know that he was a vestryman; we have his will in the Principal Registry, proved July 9, 1575, and in the "Annals of St. Mary, Overy," now St. Saviour's, Southwark (by W. Taylor), we read the following:—

"On the right of Jones's is the curious little monument engraved on the plate of Monumental Remains. It consists of a diminutive effigy of a man in a winding sheet, an emaciated figure, lying on a marble sarcophagus, at the back is a black tablet, on which is the following inscription, in letters of gold:—

"Here vnder lyeth the body of William Emerson, who lived and died an honest man. He departed out of this life the 27th of Jvne, Anno 1575, in the year of his age 92.

"Vt svm sic eris."

"It is not easy to account for these monuments of diminutive proportions, they are not very commonly met with; Gough mentions a few among his funeral monuments. This was brought here from the Magdalen Chapel, prior to which it was placed against one of the great pillars supporting the tower. The name of William Emerson, with that of Thomas Cure, occurs among the first vestrymen of this parish."†

This monument is there to-day.

By William the elder's will we see that he was possessed of the "mess, or bruehouse called the 'Salutacon' (Salutation), 2 tents adjoining thereto, 6 acres of ground in St. George's Field (Par. St. Geo., Southwark), houses in St. Michael's Hill, nr. Crooked Lane (Par. St. Michael), part of the Woolsack in Bermondsey St. (Par. St. Olave's, Southwark), mess. or tent, formerly called Hardeles, now 'The Axe,' in St. Saviour's, and 2 other tents, adjoining thereto; a house in St. Saviour's and 2 tents, adjoining thereto, also the tent, 'Backhouse' or the 'Windmill'; also the site, circuit and precinct of the late par. church of St. Margaret's in the said parish; also 4 houses in Deptford, Detford Strands, and East Greenwich." A man of wealth, and large family, named in the will. In the Rot. Lit. Claus., 22 Eliz., pt. 13, Anne the widow and Thomas the second son take lands at Deptford. It will be best to follow this family in groups, tracing each son of William, the citizen, downwards as far as we have information. Anne, the widow's, will was proved 19 March, 1582—3, and the order of the children's seniority is given therein.

To begin with John Emerson then, the eldest son, who inherits the "Salutacon" and 2 tents, and 6 acres of ground in St. George's Field. He married Elizabeth Padgett, and had three sons, Thomas, John and Christopher, and two daughters, Judith and Anne, who married Anthony Skinner and R. Symme, respectively. We get their births recorded in the St. Saviour's Parish Register. John seems to have continued as a bowyer, and we get his will, proved 1597. As he does not mention his son John in his will, and as I have no further record of him, it may be presumed he died young. But in his son Thomas we have probably the wealthiest Emerson that ever lived.

* Index Library, Pts. 57—60, pp. 209, 216.

Thomas described as of Lincoln's Inn. He was a barrister; at any rate we hear nothing of him until King James came to the throne, when suddenly Sir J. Ramsey and he appear in the Patent Rolls and Close Rolls receiving grants of manors all over England. There is a tradition that he and Ramsey saved the King from the Gowry conspiracy. In Harleian Miscellanea I find Ramsey's name, but not Thomas Emerson. However, he must have rendered the King some very special service, which King James generously recompensed; but there is not an atom of proof it was concerning the Gowrie conspiracy, as stated by Professor B. K. Emerson.

It has been quite a labour to compile an approximate list of the manors and other properties held by him, and to my certain knowledge the list is far from complete as it stands, but I give a large number to show his wealth. He was probably one of the wealthiest commoners in England in King James' reign, and that he got no title shows he cared nothing for such things. For further details concerning the properties, I must refer the reader to the abstracts from the rolls in the Appendix.

STATE PAPERS (DOMESTIC), JAS. I.

A repetition of some of the above grants of manors and the following references:—Vol. LXVI., No. 29, 1611. Discourse with Mr. Emerson (the said Thomas, of St. Helen's) re the Earl of Northumberland's absentsing himself from Parliament on Gunpowder Plot Day. Thomas Emerson, Esq., we know, was steward to the Earl of Somerset in 1613 (vide his survey printed elsewhere). A local caretaker Sanderson seems to have been aggrieved, and we get:—Vol. LXXXIII., No. 37, No. 59, Sanderson's complaints. Notwithstanding in Vol. CIII., No. 88, we get Thomas Emerson reappointed steward after Somerset's death in 1618. In Vol. XCIV., No. 14, 1628, we get references to Mr. Emerson's stewardship. This was of course after his death in 1624; and in Vol. CL., No. 9, we get a widow of Captain Aley begging for arrears re Bradbury and Hilton Manors granted to the late Thomas Emerson. In Vol. CCCLXXVIII., No. 37 (1637—8), we get Bradbury and Hilton Manors granted to Edward Manning. In Vol. LXVI., No. 29, we get fuller details re Thomas Emerson's remarks re the Gunpowder Plot, and in Vol. LXXXIII., No. 26 I., we get Thomas Emerson's doings as steward to the Earl of Somerset. In Vol. LXXXIII., No. 26 II., Sanderson's remon. comes out again, and in Vol. LXXXIII., No. 37 (1615), we get more of the numerous Sanderson complaints; but the confirmation of the stewardship in 1618 shows what they were worth.

CHANCERY PROCEEDINGS.

Thomas Emerson, senior and junior, kept out of legal wrangles, but in Ch. B. and A., Chas. I., Ee. $\frac{11}{12}$ and ditto Ee. $\frac{17}{17}$, we get the plaints of the two Elizabeths, fatherless and motherless children of Thomas Emerson, Esq., and the history of the wrangling over the great properties.

CLOSE ROLLS.

These from 2 Jas. I. are full of Thomas Emerson, Esq., and his son and their properties, and I must refer the reader to them in the Appendix. We gather the various changes of residence from these deeds:—Thomas Emerson, Esq., of Lincoln's Inn, of St. Helen's, of Blackfriars, of Brancepeth, Co. Durham, and finally of Monken Hadley, and his son, of Monken Hadley and Ratcliffe.

Thomas married Jane Turner, and we find him variously described as of St. Helen's, Bishopsgate, Durham, Ratcliffe, St. Martin-in-the-Fields, and Monken Hadley. King James granted Brancepeth, Raby and other castles to the Earl of Somerset, and we find this Thomas Emerson was his steward, and Mr. Swallow in his "House of Neville," gives the following, taken I believe from Sir Cuthbert Sharpe's MSS.

"Survey of Neville Manors," taken 1614, shows a shocking scene of desolation. James I. made his favourite Robert Carr, Baron Brancepeth and Earl of Somerset, and the castle was in the occupation of the baronet from the year 1613 to the date of his condemnation (1616). In the survey made by his steward and surveyor Thomas Emerson, the windows of the castle are described as filled with marvellous glass of Normandy, wrought with arms and imagery, the gallery being adorned with the whole history of our Saviour Jesus Christ, from His birth to His ascension, 'the like not to be got for almost any money.'—"De Nova Villa," or "The House of Nevill," by H. J. Swallow, 1885. But before leaving Southwark we find Thomas^o and his mother subscribing to the church. "Eliz. Pagett, 1618, by will: paid by Thomas Emerson her son to 4 poor women 3d. a week each, £50 for an annuity, £2 10s. 9d." 1620: Thomas Emerson by deed to two poor men 1s. a week, but now given to six men at 3d. per week. Charged on garden plot in Maid Lane, now built upon, and was formerly let for £5 4s. 0d., now £50. 1620: Thomas Emerson to the poor an annuity yearly for ever out of the Dagger tenements, St. Saviour's £100 for an annuity, £10 10s. 0d. (J. Symonds). Sir John Fenn, † land at Ipswich to St. Saviour's Church. Could the Ipswich, Co. Suffolk, Emersons have originated by any chance from Southwark?

In 1617, when King James visited Durham and Newcastle, this Thomas erected a Market Cross at Durham, and the Kail Cross at Newcastle, bearing his arms, and saltire of the Nevilles. There has been much conjecture why he placed the Neville's saltire on the cross, but no one has suggested any reasonable explanation.

After Somerset's death we find Thomas Emerson and his wife and family settling at Monken Hadley, Co. Middlesex, where we will follow his history in Rev. F. C. Cass' "History of Monken Hadley," pp. 59—63.

"Mr. Emerson, before acquiring possession of the manor, had been a liberal benefactor to the church, and it must have been with a pang of deep regret that Mr. Ely Tournor wrote down the entry in the burial register:—

'1624, June 20. Thomas Emerson, armig. dominus huius manerii et donator huius libri, est sepultus.' †

"In this one instance only does Mr. Tournor depart from his custom of making the entries in English. To the generous lord of the manor he concedes the distinction of Latin.

"The date of the earliest extant register is 1619, when a book was given for the purpose by Mr. Emerson. It contains the following title in the handwriting of Mr. Ely Tournor: Insipit Ely Tournor (Deo auspicante) decimo tertio die mensis Martii Anno doi. 1618 (1618—9). There is also a list, in the same hand, of this and other benefactions of the patron at this date.

"This booke was the free gift of Thomas Emerson, esq., sometimes Ld. of the Mannor of this parish of Hadly, and this booke was given in the yeare of or. Ld., 1619.'

"Ite. in the same yeare he gave to the use of poore of thia parish, Hadly, the some of thirty ponuds of lawfull english mony, the pitts thereof yearly to be given to the poore.

"Ite. in the same yeare, at his owne pp. coste, he beautified the Chancell and both the Isles, and the whole body of the Church with wanescott pews and sieled the church with wanscott.

"Ite. in the same yeare he built the screene betwist the Chancell and the Chnrch.

"The said Thomas Emersom, esq., departed this mortall life the 18th day of Junne, 1623 (sic), and lieth buried in north isle of this parish church of Hadly under the north window of the said isle."

"Judged by the standard of an improved taste these renovations were no doubt barbarisms, and what the eyes of simple Ely Tournor regarded with complacency would have met with unreserved condemnation in our own day. Still, Mr. Emerson dedicated, we may be snre, the best in his power and, like David of old, in the matter of Arannah's threshing floor, would have scorned to offer unto the Lord his God of that which had cost him nothing. The actors in any given age, however uncongenial to them, cannot shake themselves altogether free from its prejudices. We must place ourselves, in imagination, in the year of grace, 1619, in order to estimate aright what might or might not then have been done.

"In 1619 the tide which, in the latter portion of Elizabeth's reign, had set steadily towards Puritanism, was now widening its channel and flowing apace, soon to carry everything before it—church, crown, constitution—in the reaction against Rome and prerogative. Land vainly endeavoured to stem it a few years later, and æsthetic beauty stood little chance of being understood, much less considered, under any circumstances where the merest utility was in question. The erection of a screen seems, notwithstanding, to indicate a certain amount of respect for ecclesiastical arrangement, unless the object were simply to separate from the rest that portion of the sacred edifice to which the lord and patron laid claim. At the same time we know that Ely Tournor was himself deprived under the Commonwealth, and any influence he may have possessed, at the period of which we are now speaking, may consequently have been, as far as it extended, on the side of decency and order. Those wainscot pews, synchronised nevertheless with the introduction of that new order of things when parishioners, and even non-parishioners, if persons of weight and dignity* were permitted to fence off such unsightly enclosures for the benefit of themselves and their families, and to erect galleries here, there, and everywhere, in defiance of the most elementary principles of architectural design. It is likely, too, that the wainscot ceiling now first intervened between the worshippers and the timbered roof of Tudor times, and that the beautiful arch between nave and tower was now concealed from view.

"These evidences of his handiwork have all been swept away, but the name of Emerson will not be forgotten so long as the Communion plate which he bestowed is still in use to attest his munificence. The family arms are visible upon the three pieces given by him: Az. on a bend arg. three torteaux.

"The connection of this family with the parish was not of long duration. The register records the burial of Mr. Thomas Emerson, probably a grandson, 31 Dec. 1624, and by letters patent, dated 2 Jan., 2 Car. A.D., 1627, the Sovereign gave his royal licence to Jane Emerson, widow, Thomas Emerson, Esq., son and heir of Thomas Emerson, Esq., deceased, and Nicholas Hawes, gent., to alienate the manor and free chapel to Michael Grigge, Esq., of London, and Mary, his wife, during their lives and the life of the longest liver of them, and afterwards to their heirs and assigns for ever, to be held of the King, his heirs and successors in capite p. service inde debita et de jura consueta. On the 15th of the same month,† by virtue of the letters patent, Michael Grigge and Mary, his wife, became the purchasers of the premises in question, and on the ensuing 12 Feb. (Hil. T. 2 Car. 1.), presented themselves in person and demanded seisin.‡

"On one later occasion only are the Emersons met with in connection with Hadley. A deed still extant, under the date of 30 Augst. 1626, 2 Car., and made between Thomas Emerson, of Monken Hadley, co. Middx., esq., and Jane Emerson, mother of the said Thomas Emerson, of the parish and county aforesaid, widow, of the one part, and Ely Tournor, of Hadley, aforesaid, clerk and minister of God's Word there, John Gale, Thomas Saddler, John Hawkins, Godfrey Maidwell, Robert Boncher, Francis Atkinson, of Monken Hadley, gentlemen; Thomas Fletcher, Thomas Prudden, Richard Gould, the elder, John Sage, the younger, Thomas Bigg, John Pierson and Thomas Huckle, of Monken Hadly, yeomen, of the other part, witnesses that Thomas and Jane Emerson, in consideration of £40 § paid to them by the said fourteen persons, bargain and sell all that messuage or tenement, with a garden, then in the tenure of William Bowman, to have and to hold the same for ever, upon trust, nevertheless to "ymploie all and every the annall yssnes and profits of all and singuler the said premises to and for the comon good, benefitt and advantage of ye inhabitants of the said parish." Provision is made that so often as the number of Co-feeoffees is reduced to six, the vacancies are to be supplied by the inhabitants, and the vendors constitnte William Cattle, of Hadley, yeoman, their attorney to enter into and deliver up the premises to the Co-feeoffees.

"In a report of the Commissioners of Inquiry concerning Charities, dated 23 Jan., 1823, it was found that the trust had been duly kept up agreeably to the provisions, that the premises had been demised in 1728 to Charles Poulton for 99 years from Michaelmas, 1719 at 40s. per ann., and that the lease having become vested, in Andrew Hopegood, he surrendered the same on condition of receiving a new lease of 61 years from Lady Day, 1808, at an annual rent of £8. The premises consisted of a small house and garden abutting east and south on the premises of the said Andrew Hopegood, and formed the eastern portion of the present residence of E. H. Hay, Esq.,* who holds of the Hopegood family. In pursuance of a resolution of the Trustees made in April, 1809, the rent was applied to the purchase of coals for the church stove. It had previously been laid out in coals for the poor. The house was afterwards sold to meet the contribution required of Hadley towards the erection of the Barnet Union House, and this Charity, which had been known as Emerson's, thus came to an end.

* Mrs. Jane Emerson was buried at Hadley, 29 Feb., 1628,† and her son, Thomas Emerson, Esq., 30 Sep., 1631.‡ The grave had consequently closed over three generations, each bearing the same Christian and surname, within the short interval of seven years.

“Concerning Mr. Michael Griggis’ tenure of the manor and patronage of the free chapel, nothing has come down to us. Neither have I been able to discover the date and circumstances of their next transfer. Clutterbuck, in mentioning the marriage of Richard Grigge, his daughter, to Richard Peacocke, Esq., of Finchley, lord of the manor of Totteridge, says that he was a London Alderman, but the name is not met with in the lists. Both he and his son-in-law were elected Governors of the Barnet Grammar School, 29 May, 1634. It was during his connection with Hadley that the country was convulsed by the Civil War, and its vicissitudes had affected the little village in the deprivation of Mr. Ely Tournor. The name occurs only once in the parish register, but that of South Mimms contains the marriage of his daughter Mary, 23 Dec., 1646, and Sir Richard Gamen, whom his brother-in-law, Richard Peacocke, under the will of 28 Feb., 1664, constituted

His widow Jane evidently died at St. Andrew’s, Holborn, in 1628, and was taken to Monken Hadley and buried. And the Chancery Proceedings now give us the sad story of the scattering of these properties, and the children, as confirmed by the will of Thomas, the son, proved 1631.

There is a tradition in the United States that Thomas of Ipswich, Mass., and Thomas of Bradbury are identical. This is simply impossible as proved by the Chancery Proceeding quoted on the pedigree, which shows all the children were minors in 1624 (vide Pedigree). Professor B. K. Emerson is again very wrong in “spotting” Thomas, Junior, as Thomas of Ipswich. Neither do I know what became of William or John, that is if they left issue. I think this tradition must have arisen from a spurious pedigree in Burke, which suggested Thomas of Bradbury and the Market Cross as a relative of Ralf of Foxton, which there is not an atom of evidence to make probable, and indeed which, if Ralph of Shotton is the armiger, is absurd. Thomas of Bradbury’s connection with Durham as steward, lord of the manor of Bradbury, etc., and erector of the Market Cross has puzzled a good many; but that there were three Thomas of Bradburys is now evident, and the pedigree clears the matter up. They were of the Southwark family. It is possible, however, that Thomas of Ipswich, Mass., had an ancestor who was connected with this family, but there is no proof of this.

Second son of William, citizen and bowyer.

William, senior, bequeaths to him $\frac{1}{2}$ mess. in St. Michael’s Hill, near Crooked Lane, and part of the Woolsack; Bermondsey, and his mother, Anne, leaves him £30.

In Rot. Lit. Claus., 22 Eliz., pt. 18 (1574), we find William, junior, citizen and bowyer of London, obtaining a house called “Bolers,” in West Wickham, Co. Kent. The St. Saviour’s Register describes this Will. as a Chandler, and dying Aug. 16, 1597, leaving issue three sons, William, Peter and Richard, concerning whom I have no further record, nor have I his will, nor any Inq. P.M. regarding him.

Third son of William, citizen and bowyer.

Thomas inherits “The Axe” and 2 tents, adjoining; and from his mother plate. He is mentioned in Rot. Lit. Claus., 22 Eliz., pt. 13, with his mother, Anne as taking 1 mess. in Deptford and lands in Croydon Lane (Crooked Lane). In same records, 28 Eliz., pt. 7, 1586, he is described as of Furnival’s Inn, and he buys a tent, in Dunstable, Co. Bedford, with lands for £80. In pt. 9, he is described as of Southwark again, re the same lands. In same, 29 Eliz., pt. 6, he buys a mess. in “Le Backside,” next the “Three Tunnes.” In the same, 37 Eliz., pt. 22, he and his wife Margaret sell all the tents, in Dunstable to Ordney, for £130. The St. Saviour’s Register gives his marriage to Ann Robiant, Jan. 1580—1. They had one son Henry, bap. Feb. 15, 1581—2, and Anne dies 1582—3. Thomas then had a liaison with Margaret Horneblowe, widow of the "Gilt Harte," and they had four illicit children, Thomas marrying Margaret evidently on his death-bed, for he was buried Jan. 28, 1595, at St. Saviour's. In an Inq. P.M., 38 Eliz., pt. 7, n. 163, we gather particulars of the Robiant property, including dates of marriage with Anne Robiant and Margaret Horneblowe. The Chancery Proceedings, Eliz. Ee. 2³, 1600, give us the rest of the history. Henry's grandfather William is spoken of and Thomas's properties in St. Michael's, near Crooked Lane, $\frac{1}{2}$ Woolsack, lands in Deptford, and lands in Southwark and Essex inherited from the Robiants. John Lowe, gent., of Sevenoaks, is given as his guardian. His uncle Humphrey evidently "misplaced" the deeds and hence the suit. It seems the son Henry was sent to Cambridge, and made a mésalliance with one Norton, and for that reason the uncle claims to deprive him of his inheritance. However, Henry must have been compensated, for in the Close Rolls, 2 Jas. I., p. 9, Henry, then of Lambeth, buys for £83 10s. 0 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. Cook's Farm, in West Wickham, Co. Kent, and 70 acres of land. In 6 Jas. I., p. 45, n. 96, Henry, now of Warneham, Co. Sussex, s. and h. of Thomas, of Southwark, sells the Deptford property. In 16 Jas. I., p. 34, n. 10, Henry, again of South Lambeth, acknowledges a debt of £500. In 23 Jas., Rot. Claus., p. 9, Henry of Stockwell, in par. Lambeth, inherits the "Cock and Key" in St. Dunstan's, in the West Fleet Street, and sells it to J. Hopkins. In 1 Jas., E. 7⁵, Henry is spoken of as taking copyholds in Fauxhall (Vauxhall), 1610, of W. Easton, and his dau. Eliz. m. R. Painter. Henry's family is given in Chan. Pro., B. and A., Chas. I., E. 7⁵, 1630, who is then dead, viz., Mathew, Thomas, Henry, Humphrey, Will. and John, of South Lambeth, the last three being stated to be very poor. The elder sons must have inherited some property, for the eldest son Mathew, in 7 Chas. I., p. 27, n. 23, is described as of Streatham, Co. Surrey, gent., and then he buys the manor of Tooting Beck, properties in Seething Lane, London, and in Tower Street, All Hallows and All Saints, Barking, and the mansion of Colbrandes in Streatham. Mathew was baptized at St. Saviour's, 31 Oct., 1602. What became of the other children, or of Mathew himself, I have not traced. But his Barking property is referred to under Essex.

Fourth son of William, citizen and bowyer.

Humphrey, by his father's will, inherited the family house at Southwark and 2 tents, in St. Saviour's, and 1 mess., or backhouse, "the Wyndmill," also his "site, circuit and precinct" of the late parish church of St. Margaret's, in Southwark. From his mother £40. Humphrey was a vestryman and twice married; (1) Johan, by whom he had a large family—seven children, and (2) Emma Berry, a widow, in 1598, by whom he had none. All these children and marriages are in the St. Saviour's Register. In Close Roll, 22 Eliz., p. 17, Humphrey and his wife Johan buy a mess. in Camberwell, and in Roll 39 Eliz., pt. 20, Humphrey acquires reversion of lands in Meastham ās Merstham, Co. Surrey. Humphrey's will was proved 3 Dec., 1603. His wife is to have his house in "Dullege," and his nephew "Henry," if he keep to his agreement . . . The children seem poorly provided for.

Such is the brief outline of this wealthy family, many of whose descendants must be living to-day. Whether any record will ever be discovered proving their right to the arms allowed to the Lincoln family in 1634 is doubtful, but I cannot but think that William the bowyer was the cousin William of Loudon mentioned by John Emerson, gent., of Folkingham, Co. Lincoln, in his will proved 1541. It must be noticed this family never used a crest to these arms, and were probably legitimate heirs to the coat.

I append a sheet pedigree compiled from various records, but chiefly from the St. Saviour's Register. Most probably John Emerson, the curate of Horsham and Rector of Shoreham, 1634, was an illicit son of Thomas and Margaret Horneblowe; but I have no proof. It is noteworthy that Henry, Thomas's only legitimate son, should not be recorded in the Cambridge graduates. Perhaps he never graduated, and hence the omission.

In Manning and Bray's "History of Surrey," Pt. II., p. 490, under Croydon Hundred, Morden, we get Richard Garth, Esq., Lord of Morden Manor, marrying Elizabeth Emerson, sic.

Now in Hasted's "History of Kent," Farningham Church, we get William Emmerton, Esq., described as of Chipsted Manor (Surrey), marrying Eliz., dau. of Sir John Beale, Bart., and we get William's arms given as "on a bend or three lions passant," obviously a plagiarism of Ralf of Foxton's arms.

Since writing the above I have found a will which clears the matter up and shows that Eliz. Emerson who m. Ric. Garth, was not the dau. of William Emmerton, of Chipsted, and Elizabeth Beale, but the daughter of a William Emerson, of Kensington, "gent.," W.P. 1720.

Besides these families we find in the Archdeaconry of Surrey no Emerson wills.

XXVIII.

EMERSONS OF CO. HAMPSHIRE.

The only family I have been able to trace to this county is Ralf Em^{son}, of Buryton. From his will the following short pedigree is compiled:—

EMERSONS OF CO. SUSSEX.

The curate at Horsham and the Rev. John Emerson, of Shoreham (1635), are the only two of the name that I can trace to Sussex up to 1700.

John Emerson, M.A., clerk, has a licence to officiate at the parish church of Shoreham and the chapel of Orford thereto annexed 25 July, 1635. Act Bk., 1629—42, fo. 17 (Shoreham and Croydon). The Sussex wills give us Anne, evidently his widow, admon. dated 1678.

XXX.

EMERSONS OF CO. SOMERSET.

Some of the Gloucestershire branch lived at Bath Easton as already said, and Thomas Emerson, Esq. (of the Southwark family), takes Mr. Farewell's (of Holbrooke) place as Filacer.

XXXI.

EMERSONS OF CO. HEREFORD.

"Richard Emerson buys Manor and Castle of Riccards, Castle Hereford, in 1648"^o is the only meagre record of this county.

XXXII.

OTHER ENGLISH COUNTIES.

I have no record up to 1700 of any of the name.

XXXIII.

EMERSONS OF WALES.

I have recorded in the Emersons of St. Bride's (London), "Mr. Edward Emerson goes to Wales."

XXXIV.

EMERSONS OF SCOTLAND.

Up to 1700 I have been unable to trace a single Emerson to this country, though I have had the Wills at P.R.O. searched by Rev. W. McLeod.

XXXV.

EMERSONS OF IRELAND.

Up to 1700 I find few Emersons in Ireland. Up to 1625 I have had the indexes of English that settled in Ireland searched with no result, and as the records are unindexed after that date I have not searched later. All the wills at the P.R.O., Dublin, and at Trinity Coll., Dublin, have been searched, and only three of the name appear, viz.—

And we know an Arthur Emerson, of Dublin, gent., was granted arms in 1692. So our knowledge of early Irish Emersons is very scanty, but probably most of the modern Irish Emersons are descended from one of the above-named families, notwithstanding some of the Irish family traditions.

CHAPTER V.

Modern Emerson Pedigrees arranged under Counties.

THE following pedigrees and notes were received in answer to the following circular posted to all of the name in the United Kingdom and public services:—

THE NOOK, OULTON BROAD, LOWESTOFT, 1896.

Dear Sir,—I am collecting materials for writing a history of the Emerson family, and venture to address you in the hope that you will lend your kindly aid so that the work may be as complete as possible. If you are so disposed, will you be good enough to tell me the following details:—(1) Your pedigree so far back as you can give it, with dates, if possible. (2) What county your branch originally came from. (3) If your name was always Emerson, or Emberson, or Emmerson, or if during your history your family took the name of Emerson, and if so, when? (4) Any distinguished members of your branch, distinguished in any way including athletics. (5) If any of your family went abroad, and if so, who, and at what dates, and where they went, and their ages when they went. (6) With whom have the women inter-married? (7) Do you claim any arms, and what, and on what grounds? Trusting to your kindness, believe me, dear sir, faithfully yours, P. H. EMERSON, B.A., M.B. (Cantab.).

The compiler does not vouch for the accuracy of these pedigrees, they are printed as sent, merely having been arranged in order by him. They are printed under the counties according to the directory addresses, i.e., where the contributors lived in 1896. They will doubtless be useful to many to help trace their relatives or pedigrees should they wish to do so.

The total numbers printed at the end of each county merely show the number of separate addresses of the name printed in the directory referred to. These numbers must not be looked upon as accurate, but serve as a rough guide merely, for the reason that I find the directories not always accurate: persons dead or removed to other counties are still given at the old address; names are misspelled, two "m's" creeping into one "m" names. Then trade and private addresses are often given in the same town so that one person is counted twice, and in the London section probably three or four times, and so on. It will be seen Durham still heads the list as to numbers of Emersons, Yorkshire coming second, London and Middlesex of course being excluded. The author begs to thank most heartily every contributor to this section.

All the following counties have made no returns or contain no Emersons. Addresses taken from Kelly's Directories unless otherwise stated:—Wales, 1895, Emersons 2, no returns; Warwickshire, 1896, Emerson 1, no return; Huntingdonshire, 1894, none; Hampshire, 1895, none; Wiltshire, 1895, 1 Emmerson moved to Wincanton, Somerset (q.v.); Dorsetshire, 1895, none; Cornwall, 1893, none; Worcestershire, 1896, none; Derbyshire, 1895, Emersons 0, Emmersons 6, no returns; Hertfordshire, 1895, Emerson 1, no return; Oxfordshire, 1895, Emerson 1, Embersons 0, no return; Northampton, 1894, Emersons 0, Emmersons 2, no returns; Lancashire, 1892, Emersons 17, Emmersons 10, Embersons 0, including Liverpool, 1896, and Manchester, 1896, 2 returns; Cumberland, 1894, Emmersons 6, no returns; Westmoreland, 1894, none; Devonshire, 1893, Emersons 2, no returns; Hereford, 1895, Emerson 1, no return; Shropshire, 1895, none; Colonial Office, 1896, 1, Nova Scotia, no return; Army List, 1896, Emersons 5; Navy List, 1896, Emmerson 1, no return; Medical Register 1896, Emersons 7, Emmersons 2, Embersons 0; Imperial Calendar, 1896, Emersons 0, Emmerson 1, Emberson 1, no returns. Thirty-two circulars were returned through the dead letter office marked "gone," or "deceased," or "left two to seven years ago," or "not known."

Co. NORTHUMBERLAND.

(1) John George Emerson, of Orchard Cottages, Hexham.

George Emerson, b. 1798 in Weardale, Co. Durham, a bookbinder, m. Ann Johnson. Served 21 years in the army and went through the Peninsular War. Retired circa 1846—7 and settled at Hexham, an army pensioner with two medals. His father died and was buried at Sunderland after many years spent in the service of the Earl of Durham. George Emerson married a second time "when abroad" and had a second family (vide infra). George Emerson died and was buried at Gateshead. George Emerson had a brother living in Weardale, name unknown. The family has always spelt the name Emerson and claim no arms.

(i.) George Emerson and Ann Johnson had issue:—(1) John, b. Sept. 22, 1821 (vide infra). (2) Ann m. Ogg and went abroad, whereabouts not known. (3) Maria m. W. Arkle. Married secondly and had issue:—(1) George, a mariner. (2) William, of Gateshead. (3) Fenwick, of Blaydon-on-Tyne. (4) Robert, of London. (5) A daughter.

LIST OF DOCUMENTS IN POSSESSION OF J. J. EMERSON.

April 1, 1784 Appointment by Archbishops' Court of James Emerson, of Marton, "Administrator of all good, etc., of John Emerson, late of the parish of Middlesbro' (Linthorpe)."
 Probate of will of James Emerson, Jany., 1804, leaving to his wife Dorcas plate, etc., for life. To his son John his property at Marton, Middlesbro', etc., and at Sedgfield, in the Co. of Durham, and to his son James lands at Dromanby, Stokesley, etc.
 May 5, 1759. Settlement on the marriage of James Emerson and Dorcas Mewburn, made between John Emerson, of Ormesby, James, son and heir apparent of the sd. John by Susanna his wife, and several Mewburns.
 June 3, 1760. Settlement on marriage of Thos. Burdon and Mary Emerson, between several Burdons and John Emerson, of Ormesby, and May, only daughter of the sd. John and Susanna his wife.
 There are some leases, the earliest is March 5, 1746, made between Sir Wm. Pennynman and John Emerson.
 A certificate that Rob. Hobkirk sold to John Emerson a pew near the Chancel of Marton Church, Feb. 5, 1745. Witnesses, Chas. Barker, Philip Kitchen, Vicar of Marton.
 A bond May 10, 1756, of Rob. Campion for £200 to John Emerson, of Ormesby.
 A lease dated May 4, 1759, by which John Emerson and James Emerson, his son and heir, let property at Stokesley to Geo. Mewburn.
 Also wills of his father, grandfather and his brother John.

The first two Johns on the pedigree are taken from the Copyholders' Surrenders of Durham, in the Exchequer Office, Durham (vide Appendix). It is at present uncertain whence the first John (of 1714), who bought Morland House, came. The last three generations of the family have been registered at the College and will be found under armorial families (q.v.).

1735, 10 ber. 16. Mr. John Emmerson of ye parish of Eston and Mrs. Susanna Gill of ye sd. parish were married by vertue of a Licence had of the Rev. Mr. Bradley, of Yarm.
 I, George Wilberforce Trevor, Incumbent of Marton-in-Cleveland, hereby certify that the above is a true copy from the Register of the parish of Marton-in-Cleveland, made this 27th of December, 1896. G. W. TREVOR.

The following short account shows that the love of sport and athletics has shown itself in members of the family within the last 116 years.

James Emerson, Dr. Emerson's great grandfather, was very fond of horse-racing, and together with Captain Thos. Burdon (who married his sister) kept a fairly good stud of race-horses and won some, at that time, important races, as shown by the following extract from an old book on Racing at York and Doncaster:—

York Race Meeting, Aug. 19, 1780. "His Majesty's Hundred Guineas," won by Duchess, the property of Capt. Burdon and Mr. J. Emerson.

York Race Meeting, Aug. 23, 1780. "The Great Subscription Stakes," won by Duchess, etc.

Doncaster Race Meeting, Sept. 27, 1780. "The Doncaster Cup," won by Duchess, etc.

And at the same Meeting the next day, Sept. 28, Duchess also won "A Plate of £100."

So much for Dochess. She was a b.m., 5 yrs. old, by Le Sang out of Calliope by Slouch. It is also stated of her that she had previously won at York, Aug. 25, 1779, a "Sweepstakes of 800 guineas," for 4 year olds.

Doncaster Race Meeting, Sept. 25, 1780. "A Plate" was won by Mr. Emerson's b.g. Wonderful by Young Match'em.

York Meeting, Aug. 21, 1780. "His Majestie's Hundred Guineas" for 6 year olds was won by Capt. Burdon and Mr. Emerson's Orpheus. At the same Meeting three days later, Aug. 24, Orpheus won "The Great Subscription."

Orpheus was brother to Duchess, stood 15 hands 3 inches high, was after racing used as a stallion and was sire of Ticket, Touchstone, Postboy, Toothdrawer, Enchanter, etc., etc. Orpheus died at their stables in 1803, aged 29 years.

Besides these many more races were won by them. Dr. Emerson has heard that one horse won these two sportsmen in stakes, etc., no less than £30,000. I surmise that Duchess was the one. She was to the fore again in 1781, when at York she won "The Great Subscription Stakes," 4 miles. Appended is a full list of wins.

RACES WON BY JAMES EMERSON AND HIS BROTHER-IN-LAW BETWEEN 1780—1790.

Duchess won 20 races, including "Doncaster Cup," "His Majesty King Geo. III.'s Plate," 4 times, at York, Newcastle, Carlisle and Edinburgh, and "The Great Subscription," at York, twice, £800 and £277. Orpheus won 6 races, including "His Majesty's Plate," at York, and "The Great Subscription," also at York. Wonderful won 8 races, including "His Majesty's Plate" twice, at Newcastle and Carlisle. B.F. by Picture won 3 races. Ticket won 6 races, including "His Majesty's Plate,"

A Coursing Cup won by Mr. Emerson's "Nettle," in 1774.

Old Sporting Guns and Pistol belonging to Dr. J. J. Emerson's grandfather and great grandfather. [Flint lock guns. The oldest gun has a barrel 44 inches long and engraved steel over the lock and steel ornamentation let into the stock, the wood is also carved and reaches to the muzzle. The pistol is 13 inches long, with brass barrel.]

at Nottingham. Tickler won 4 races, including "H.R.H. The Prince of Wales' Plate," at Stockbridge. Frolic won 1 race. Omen won 3 races, including a "Match for 200 guineas." Harlequin won 1 race, a "Match for 200 guineas." Bald Charlotte won 3 races, including "The City Plate," Salisbury. Venus, a pony, won 1 race, "Match for 100 guineas," at Epsom. Royal Oak won 1 race. B.F. by Orpheus won 2 races. Czarina won 1 race, "Match for 100 guineas." Mr. Emerson's Gr.G. won 1 race, Sweeps, of £25 each, gentlemen riders, at Epsom. Whitelegs won 1 race, "County Members' Plate," Durham. Ch.F. by Barum Banke won 1 race. Miss Jupiter won 1 race. Centaur won 1 race. Making a total of 65 wins, including "The Doncaster Cup," "His Majesty's Plate," 8 times, "Prince of Wales' Plate," "City Plate," Salisbury, and "County Members' Plate," at Durham, etc., etc.

J. J. EMERSON, Esq., LL.D. (Cantab.), J.P. (1897.)

We now pass to the next generation, Dr. Emerson's grandfather James, and his brother John. "John still stuck to racing and early in this century won a good stake at Newcastle Races. James took up greyhound coursing and kept a number of greyhounds, for pleasure only I believe, he did not enter for stakes. (I should here remark that I have an old coursing cup won by this James' father in 1772.) He was also fond of shooting and Dr. J. J. Emerson has an old flint-lock gun, single barrel, with which he shot game.

Now for Dr. Emerson's father. He was a thorough sportsman, fond of coursing, hunting and shooting. In his younger days he kept between 30 and 40 greyhounds, simply for coursing for pleasure. Latterly shooting was a favourite sport, and he was undoubtedly an excellent shot. He played a good game at billiards and a very good hand at whist.

Next as regards present generation.

John James (Dr. Emerson himself) played in the Cricket Eleven of his School (Shrewsbury) in seasons of 1864—5—6, also in the Football Team for seasons 1863—4, 1864—5 and 1865—6, he and his brother both being among the few who succeed in obtaining the "double blue." In the sports, 1864, Dr. Emerson won the 100 yards. On going up to Cambridge he rowed in his first year in his College 2nd boat, which during the races went up two places, from 10th to 8th, on the river. He gave up rowing and frequently played for his College (Trinity Hall) at Cricket. He took honours in Law and proceeded to the Bar at the Inner Temple without further examination.

His brother, E. B. Emerson, was also at Shrewsbury and played in the Eleven in 1866—7, and also in the Football Team in 1865—6 and 1866—7. In the sports he won the high jump and long jump. At Trinity Hall, Camb., he rowed in the 1st boat two years, 1869 and 1870, the boat being 4th on the river, and his name was sent in by his College Captain for the "Varsity" trial Eight, but he declined to row. E. B. Emerson and three Varsity friends won the four-oared race at Durham Regatta, 1870, and in 1871 after he left Cambridge, he, with M. B. Dodds, won the "Ladies' Plate," and gold medals, at Durham Regatta for pairs.

His youngest brother, C. A. Emerson, was able to hold an Enfield rifle by the muzzle out at arms length, a feat which comparatively few men can do.

(1) H. G. Emmerson, of Heaton Norris.

“To answer your questions in full would be rather difficult, as we have not at any time attempted to thoroughly trace our pedigree. I, myself, am a nephew of the late John Thomas Emmerson, C.M.G., of Peover, Knutsford, Cheshire, his brother, my father, the late Joshua Emmerson, having died at the age of 33, in the year 1862, at Stockport, leaving two sons, myself and John Thomas Emmerson, now deceased. The above, my uncle and father, were the sons of the late Joshua and Mary Emmerson, of Durham. In St. Hildas Church, West Hartlepool, the east window, consisting of seven separate windows, was erected by the aforesaid John Thomas Emmerson, to the memory of his mother, Mary Emmerson, the inscription at the foot reading: ‘These seven windows were erected in affectionate remembrance of Mary Emmerson, of Hartlepool, by her son John Thomas Emmerson, of Peover Superior, Knutsford, in the County of Chester.’ In the chancel is placed a tablet, the inscription on the face reading, ‘To the memory of Joshua Emmerson, of Durham, who died 22 Aug., 1843, aged 53 years; also Mary, his wife, born at Hartlepool, 20 Dec., 1795, died 20 Dec., 1846, erected in affectionate remembrance by their son John Thomas Emmerson.’ Further than this we have not tried to trace, but there is not the slightest doubt that the Emersons who lived at Hill Close House (which I believe is close to Darlington) were our ancestors. After the death of Henry Emerson, in 1689, the estates passed to the Richardsons, a family who were known to be our relations. Our branch of the Emmerson family appear to have left Hartlepool for Stockport about 1845, where the J. T. Emmerson, in fact both of them, but the former principally, became associated with an engineering works, under the style of ‘Emmerson, Murgatroyd & Co., Ltd.’ They were very successful and executed many Government contracts, including Floating Docks at Bombay and Malta, also the famous Anderton Lift over the River Weaver, at Northwich, will also be an everlasting remembrance of the firm. However, after the death of Mr. Emmerson, which occurred at Peover, on the 15th Sept., 1883, the firm wound up. He was interred at Lower Peover Church, and his widow erected a window to his memory in the same church. They had issue, one son who died in infancy.

“Durham is our native county, our family having resided at Long Elveat, in the City of Durham during the latter part of the last century, and afterwards at West Hartlepool.

“None of our family appear to have distinguished themselves, excepting the J. T. Emmerson above referred to, who was vested with the order of C.M.G., about the year 1880—81. He was also a magistrate for the County of Cheshire, and was one of the originators of the 4th Volunteer Battalion Cheshire Regiment, of which he was Captain.

“Our name appears to have always been spelt as Emmerson. There only appears to have been one marriage connected with the family, to my knowledge, on the feminine side, a sister of the above J. T. Emmerson, who married a gentleman of the name of Mutter, and now resides in Liverpool.

“None of the family appear to have been abroad except for business purposes. No arms claimed.” Signed, H. G. Emmerson, Heaton Norris, 14 July, 1896.

(2) Elizabeth Emerson, of Chester, Widow.

Married James Emerson, a professional cricketer. Her husband started to go abroad, but the wreck of the Royal Charter turned his purpose. James and Elizabeth have a son. Her husband had relatives at Grimsby (Joseph), and Lincoln. Her husband's father m. Mrs. Briggs, of Lincoln, and his brothers, William and Thomas, lived at Lincoln. Her husband had relatives at Hull and Lowestoft who were well off. Her father-in-law was a cattle dealer and so was his son. The father-in-law retired and bought a brewery outside of Lincoln. No arms. Signed, Eliz. Emerson, Chester, July 22, 1896.

(3) L. Emerson, New Brighton, Widow.

Widow of William Emerson, a native of Cumberland, ob. 1890, æt. 50, who was the son of William, of Calbeck, Cumberland. William, Jun., and L. had issue:—(1) Annie. (2) Mary, m. Ray, æt. 27. Co. LINCOLN.

(1) Henry Emerson, of Theddlethorpe, Co. Lincoln.

(i.) Richard Emerson, ob. at South Somercotes, Co. Lincoln, m. Elizabeth. He left issue:—

(ii.) Robert Emerson, m. Ann Found by banns, 9th day of Jan., 1811, at Alvestone Par., Co. Southampton. Robert Emerson went into the Navy and was supernuated as boatswain of H.M.S. Sheldrake, June 30, 1817, given at Chatham 3 July, 1817. He was wrecked in H.M.S. Boreas (Commander Scott) on the Hanny Rocks, off Guernsey, in 1807. He also served in H.M.S. Victory. He was bap. Oct. 5, 1777, at South Somercotes, Co. Lincoln. He left issue:—

(iii.) William, ob. at Theddlethorpe, circa 1836, who left issue:—(1) Robert, ob. 1893, æt. 84. (2) Girl, m. George Penton, of Gribly, near Spilsby. (3) Girl, m. Moses Vissey, of Panton, near Wragby, living in 1895.

(iv.) Robert left issue:—Henry (the contributor). Has always spelt the name Emerson. Claims no arms. Tells of land in North Somercotes Parish called "Emerson's Dale," which is said once belonged to a Dr. Emerson. Signed, Henry Emerson, Theddlethorpe, July 4, 1896.

(2) John Emerson, of Lincoln.

(i.) Great-grandfather lived at Willoughton and Normanby-by-Spittal, Co. Lincoln.

(ii.) Grandfather, Joseph, maltster, brewer and farmer, had cousins in good positions, one dying at Morton, near Gainsborough. A man of prodigious strength, reputed to have broken a man's heart by "cutting him out" at mowing. Had a cousin named Walter at Thorrock, near Gainsborough.

(iii.) John had issue:—(1) John (the contributor), no issue. (2) Mary Ann, m. Smith, of Bracebridge. (3) William, living, no issue. Always spelt the name Emerson. No arms. Signed, John Emerson, Lincoln, July 7, 1896.

(3) W. Emmerson, Scotterfield.

An amusing letter with no information.

(4) Edward Emmerson, of Louth, Co. Lincoln.

(i.) Edward Emmerson, a soldier at Waterloo, m. Lizzie Moody and had issue:—Edward Emmerson (the contributor), b. 1848, at Low Toynton (?), near Spilsby. Name always Emmerson. Claims no arms. None of family went abroad. Signed, Edward Emmerson Louth, July 6, 1896.

I found two families of Eminsons—Captain Eminson, of Seaham Harbour, who was born in Lincolnshire, using a spurious version of Ralf of Foxton's arms and Sir James Emerson-Tennent's motto, Deus Protector nos (sic), and Anne Eminson, of Sutton House, Great Gonerby, claiming the same arms. The absurdity of this snobbishness is painful. Were either of these families Lincolnshire Emersons the use of a Durham family's arms would be absurd; but a Jones, Smith or Robinson might as well claim Emerson arms as an Eminson, for the Eminsons are in no way connected with the Emersons; the Eminsons being the same as Emsons, Empsons, Emmetsons—i.e., filii Emme.

"Russell Houghton Emerson, son of Russell and Ellen Emerson, was born at Holkham, Norfolk, May 6, 1827. He received a liberal education and married Feb. 11, 1851, Mary Moody, eldest daughter of Captain John Moody, of York (Commodore in the Peninsula and Oriental S.S. Co.). In 1851 Mr. Emerson went to the United States and took up lands in Grant Co., Wisconsin, the Eldorado at that time for farming; returned in 1858 to join his father-in-law, Captain Moody, in the establishing of the first steamers on the river Dart, Devonshire. In 1859 Mr. Emerson again went to the United States and purchased the Etna Estate, in La Fayette Co., Wisconsin, where he engaged in milling, farming and mining, and where he died July 10, 1893, after a successful and honourable career. Russell Houghton Emerson was esteemed for his genial nature, broad-minded convictions, honourable commercial dealing and moral worth. While not entering much into the strife of political life, he took great interest in all that concerned the welfare of the country in which he lived, and especially in the great imperial interest of the mother-land of his birth. A true Englishman and a faithful son of the Church of England, he worked hard in the service of religion and took an active part in the religious work of all denominations, and amongst his personal friends there were none from whom he received greater evidence of regard than from General U. S. Grant, President of the United States. Russell Houghton Emerson left a widow, two sons, John Moody and Arthur Russell, and four daughters, to mourn his loss."

INGENIO LA PALMA - CUBA

the Normal Schools at Platteville, Wisconsin, and Galena, Illinois, U.S.A. After having been engaged in business with his father in America, came to England in 1879 and joined a firm of milling engineers in Manchester, where amongst other of his inventions he brought out, in connection with the Anglo-Hungarian System of Flour Milling, his patent 'Premier Semolina Purifier,' which has proved the most successful machine for the purpose of the day. Mr. Emerson has also recently greatly developed the inventions of his grandfather, the late Captain John Moody, for 'Rayed Lightships,' 'Floating Electric Telegraph Stations,' and 'Rayed Uncapsizable Steam Lifeboats,' and was awarded at the Liverpool Marine Exhibition, in 1887, two gold medals and one silver medal for his exhibit of models of the same. Mr. Emerson is known to the flour millers of the United Kingdom as a flour-milling expert, and for his correct forecasting of the markets, and his papers on the 'Appreciation of gold and the fall of prices,' read at the Annual Meetings of the 'British and Irish Millers' Association,' have been most favourably received, and also obtained for him the thanks of the Council of the Bi-metallic League of Great Britain. In 1893 Mr. Emerson married Annie Robinson, at St. Andrew's, Edinburgh. Residence, 'Ventnor,' West Kirby, Cheshire." Signed, J. M. Emerson, West Kirby, Nov. 1, 1897.

Co. SUFFOLK.

(1) Dr. P. H. Emerson, of The Nook, Oulton, Suffolk.

Dr. P. H. Emerson has hitherto refused all applications for his biography, though he has more than once been approached on the subject by enterprising editors. He has, however, kindly permitted the present compiler to collect and note the chief points in his career, allowing that a family history is the place for a writer's portrait and biography if such record be worth anything at all—a point on which the doctor seems more than doubtful.

Pedro Enrique Emerson, as the subject of these notes was christened, was born in the Casa Grande on the La Palma Estate, Cuba, on May 13, 1856. He was baptized privately on the estate on St. Peter's Day (San Pedro), hence his first name. His pedigree is published in full under Armigerous Emersons, from which it will be seen that he is a "son of the Revolution" through the Morses; a descendant on his mother's side of one of the oldest Norman families, the Billings als Trelawders, of Cornwall, and a double descendant of Thomas Emerson's sons, Joseph and Nathaniel, for his great-grandmother, Ruth, was a direct lineal descendant of Nathaniel Emerson, ob. 1712—the Emerson on whose tomb are carved the arms of Ralf of Foxton, a descendant of the high foresters of Co. Durham, and military custodians of the marches of England. His relationship to Ralph Waldo Emerson will be seen from the pedigree. Further notes of his forbears are needless as they are given in the annotated pedigree published under Armigerous Emersons (Cap. II.), where are also given his arms.

Dr. Emerson's early life, up to eight years, was spent on his father's estate in Cuba, where he appears to have led a romantic existence with his sister, two years his junior, and together they were commonly spoken of as Paul and Virginia. This part of his life he has himself fully described in his book, "Caoba, the Guerilla Chief." Even in his very early years his "history" began; when yet an infant and journeying to see his grandmother in Cornwall, his energetic spirit induced him to explore, unattended by the careless nurse, the mysterious depths of a long porthole. It is reported that but few inches remained between him and the waves when the steward came to the rescue and indignominously withdrew the enterprising young voyager legs foremost. That he was also once a passenger on a cholera-stricken Cuban coaster, and that on another occasion he and his mother with their servants were overtaken by a terrible storm while in an open boat, the two Spanish sailors of which alternately drank and raved until the storm abated, are other details of his early youth, which might well prepare us for the unconventional and original life that follows.

In 1864 the family went to America, to Wilmington, Delaware, and there lived in the American style in hotels and boarding houses, until in 1866 a house, 818, West Street, was bought. This period of his life has remained very vividly in the memory of Dr. Emerson, for the great Civil War had just broken out and amongst the fellow-boarders at Mrs. Keene's boarding house was General Dent, Grant's brother-in-law; while Admiral Gillis, General French and General Thomas, of Gettysburg fame, were intimate friends of Mr. Emerson, Sen., the young Frenchs becoming companions to young Pedro. General Smith's great funeral also occurring while the family was at Wilmington, made a great impression on the boy.

While at Wilmington he attended Mr. T. C. Taylor's day school, a large establishment at the corner of Eighth and Wollaston Streets, which meant a long walk morning and evening and one very trying in the severe winters to which he was totally unaccustomed. It was then that the first great grief of his life fell upon him—the death of his bright and beautiful little sister, who at seven years of age was carried off by an attack of typhoid, contracted from drinking bad milk given at recess hour in a girls' school well known in the town.

For four years the family lived on at Wilmington, Mr. Emerson, Sen., going to Cuba during the dry seasons, and it was on one of these visits that he was attacked by dysentery, which caused his death in 1867.

The intellectual development of young Pedro does not seem to have received much stimulus from his school, but more chiefly depended on his own voracious appetite for home reading, his favourite books being "travels" and poetry; indeed, I remember his telling me of a long walk of several miles taken one bitter snowy night to hear Bayard Taylor lecture, and this must have been before he was ten years old. Base-ball and football, in which last game there seemed to be no rules beyond that of trying to kick the ball into the opponents' goal, skating and sledding (tobogganing, as we call it), and excursions in the Brandywine woods and along the Brandywine river and through the marshes round the Christiana Creek, the haunt of the reed-birds, formed the most delightful and perhaps useful part of the curriculum.

On the whole, life must have been amusing and exciting. Often torchlight processions celebrated some victory over the South, and one day great excitement was produced throughout the town by a telegram posted in a chemist's window of "Richmond has fallen," which virtually meant the end of the Civil War; or it would be ragged confederate prisoners being marched to Fort Delaware; or again, regiment after regiment of the North passing through, their hats and caps nondescript and riddled with bullets, their clothes in rags, themselves adorned with laurel leaves and devices in fancy broad, and many of the men wounded. The hoardings were covered with offers of rewards for bounty-jumpers and substitutes, and once a "drawing" for troops took place in the market-place. Dr. Emerson says he remembers seeing nearly everybody crying on market-day when President Lincoln was assassinated. Dances, fairs (bazaars), 4th of July celebrations and fights were the chief amusements—the better class boys having continual "town and gown" rows with the lower class boys. Dr. Emerson was also the best runner in his street at this period.

DON H. E. EMERSON,
Of the La Palma Estate. Taken 1866

In 1867 Mrs. Emerson sold the Wilmington property and leaving her husband and little daughter in the Wilmington Cemetery, she with her sons sailed for Havana in the autumn. The old life was now resumed at La Palma Estate—riding, lasso throwing, shooting, swimming, collecting butterflies. The year 1868 was spent between Philadelphia and Wilmington, with an occasional tour to Niagara, Saratoga, or Lake Champlain, and finally Pedro was placed in a military school at Claymont, on the banks of the Delaware. Trinity College seems to have been a "Do the boys' Hall" as far as education was concerned, but perhaps to this early training in what we may call a "military academy" may be traced the military aspirations which were later declared in the Doctor. The boys were dressed as cadets and drilled to the tune of "Hail, Columbia," the Doctor himself acting as standard-bearer, and proudly carrying the Stars and Stripes. At this novel kind of school every boy had a garden and it was considered a matter of honour to build a water-mill on the river. Besides these studies in horticulture and hydrostatics, football of a kind, base-ball, skating, sledding, and realistic playing at Indians in Darley's Woods, swimming and bird-nesting seem to have constituted the chief work. Latin and French, it is true, were sampled, but the Doctor tells me he knew little about either when he left though he was in the Third Class. The old school reports show he often obtained "full marks" for English Subjects and Arithmetic; but no prizes were ever given at this mercenary establishment. Drawing, too, he took kindly to, one of his drawings being selected by the American artist, F. O. Darley, for speech-day exhibition.

In June, 1869, the family left the States and sailed to England in the "rolling" Jara. On arrival in England the family went to Aldershot, where a brother of Mrs. Emerson was stationed, and it was owing to the fact that his young cousins were at Cranleigh School that young Emerson also went there, his uncle having a great prejudice against English public schools. Emerson entered Cranleigh in Sept., 1869, a delicate-looking, but really wiry, slip of a boy, and owing to his desultory early education began low down in the school—in the Second Form in general subjects and in the Third Form in Mathematics. Handicapped urther by his complete ignorance of cricket and of football as played in England, he had to make his way against long odds. But the way was made, and term after term, according to the school calendars, he passed up from form to form, taking each year his form prize, until in 1874 he stood second in the school, having during his career taken the form prizes of Lower III., Mathematics (1870); Lower IV., General Subjects (1871); Form V., General Subjects (1872); Lower VI., General Subjects (1873); and gaining a prize for "The best essay on trees," as well as having collected the best lot of wild flowers, birds' eggs and butterflies: these with some of his American and Cuban eggs and butterflies are now in the Cranleigh School Museum. Emerson was especially honoured by being made Prefect whilst in the Fifth Form, and was afterwards Senior Prefect and Secretary of the School Games; for although the school elected him Captain of the Games in 1874, the Headmaster said that for a boy to be Senior Prefect, Scholar and Captain was too much power, and as Emerson was a most useful Senior Prefect the Headmaster unjustly overruled the school election and made an inferior man Captain, though Emerson was his superior as an all-round athlete. He and his rival, L. C. Wooldridge, now fought for the top of the school. The coveted place was won by the rival, who afterwards passed a most distinguished University course and obtained a European reputation in physiology; a man whose brilliant career was cut short at a very early age by blood-poisoning, but who at 30 had already been made Lecturer at Guys' and Examiner at the College of Surgeons. Emerson was at the same time awarded one of the junior scholarships of the school. In this last year at school he made his first appearance as a writer, contributing to the Surrey County Advertiser and school magazine.

Throughout his school career athletics had been cultivated as well as class work, and we find him playing for the School First Football Eleven during two seasons, 1873—4 and 1874—5; and for the Cricket First Eleven, which meant one of eight, as three masters played in the Eleven—Street and Jupp, of Surrey fame, being the school professionals. Emerson was the Eleven long-stop. He won several prizes at the athletic sports, for the open 100 (2nd), quarter (2nd) and throwing the cricket-ball; running as fox at paper chases, never being caught and always in first as fox, having once swum a canal with his paper bags, and during the last year running and winning the "Strangers'" quarter in 57 secs. on grass and in sandshoes from a professional and the village champion, several masters and a scholar (nine in all), as scholars, and therefore Emerson inter alia, were not allowed to compete in the school sports, the Strangers' Race excepted. He was also in the first class in gymnastics, of which a speciality was made at Cranleigh, and a good fives player, representing his Dormitory, the Prefects and the Scholars on separate occasions.

Among other accomplishments that of amateur acting was cultivated, Emerson taking the chief characters in "Macbeth" and "Hamlet." His Dormitory Football Eleven tied for the Champion Dormitory under Emerson's captaincy. Emerson says his slogging style learnt at base-ball spoilt him for cricket, whereas his base-ball fielding marked him as a fielder, for he was, according to the magazine, a splendid "field." As a scholar Emerson had to teach various forms in the school in English, French, Geography, etc., and edited the school magazine. In 1874 Emerson ran at Broadwater Sports and won the third prize in the open quarter and second in the open three-legged race, being beaten by the brothers Marshall of All England Rugby Football fame.

In 1875, after a brilliant school career, he passed the preliminary at the Apothecaries' Hall, as at that period he merely wished to qualify in medicine, never intending to practice but contemplating becoming a scientific traveller, and went into chambers at King's College, London, to study medicine. Here, though up to now ignorant of Rugby, Emerson was at once chosen to play forward in the Hospital First Fifteen, which he continued to do throughout his career and finally became Captain of King's College, London. He also played for the First Fifteen Ravenscourt Park Club until its dissolution, and every year took down a scratch team to play Cranleigh, a custom which afterwards developed into the "Old Boys" yearly match. He also played on Wednesdays for Kensington, East Sheen, and in the holidays for Teignmouth and East Devon one summer winning a prize at Torquay Sports and every season playing cricket regularly for the Teignmouth Eleven.

In April, 1877, Emerson passed his first College of Surgeons Examination. Probably no student ever passed with less work. In the intervals of work in 1877 we find him helping to found the King's College Cricket Club, forming one of the Committee, being Secretary and playing in the First Eleven, and being President of the King's College Resident Debating Society.

The King's College Magazine being started about this time Emerson became a constant and vigorous contributor, and finally edited the magazine. In the July number we find him first writing on art, an article entitled "Fashionable Art," a gibe at the Academy and its frequenters, and later on in the same year other articles. At the same time, with that versatility that all through his career has characterized him, we find Emerson running for and winning a race at the King's Sports. He now joins the Victoria Rifles and soon wins his marksman's badge and a cup for shooting, as well as being chosen for the Company's "tug-of-war" team. He is also boating on the Thames, he and two others keeping a "lock-up" at Chelsea. He played once or twice for the Cranleigh "Old Boys" at Cricket and Football.

In 1878—9 he becomes Captain of the Football Club and gets one of the two presentation football caps. During his Captaincy he organized the Club splendidly, King's often sending out three Fifteens at once, a thing never known before or since. This same year he became Treasurer of the Athletic Club and left a good balance, and played for the United Hospitals' First Fifteen. During these athletic successes Emerson kept up his literary work, and we find in the December number of the College Magazine a very amusing article, "Behind the Scenes," a description of his experiences as an amateur super in "Il Trovatore" at Her Majesty's Theatre. In the same number we find it reported that Emerson with another is representing King's at the meeting for the formation of the United Hospitals' Cricket Club, and an interesting account of Emerson dancing the "Saud Dance" at a "Nigger Minstrel" entertainment got up to pay off the debt of the Cricket Club. In 1878, after organizing matches for the First, Second and Third Cricket Elevens and playing in the First himself, he comes out fifth in batting averages. During Emerson's captaincy of the Football, the Club had the best season on record up to that time, playing such strong teams as Cambridge University and being close up for the Hospital Cup, which was lost over a disputed goal; many of the players representing counties and playing for the United Hospitals, while one member was an International. Emerson gained his colours in the United Hospitals in 1877—8, and was chosen to represent the County of Devon in Rugby inter-county matches for two seasons, in 1877—8 and 1878—9.

In 1879 work comes to the fore and we find Emerson passing his final for the M.R.C.S., while for relaxation after this grind we find him at the King's College Athletic Sports throwing the cricket ball, and one of five students representing the Medical Department in a tug-of-war against other Departments of the College, in which the medicos won the day; Emerson is

P. H. EMERSON, 1879, M.R.C.S. ESO

During his career as a student, there appears no doubt that Emerson drank deep of the draught of life in London, as may be gathered from his "Paul Ray at the Hospital" and "Signor Lippo," and he confesses that he worked hard only for his M.R.C.S. examinations, spending his holidays in Devonshire cricketing, fishing, footballing, running, sailing and driving, of which he became very fond. One short amusing episode in his career must not be omitted, that of gaining the Leathes Theological Prize, a feat that neither friend nor enemy would have expected from him; for it was much more in Emerson's line to fill his rooms with the most cheerful of companions on some boat-race night, and forget the fact that the gates were closed at twelve, of then assisting the guests down the convenient spout; or, perhaps, himself, supping out, having to climb into his chambers over the roof of the dissecting room; stories exist of "wines" prolonged into the small hours, of fights with roughs on illumination nights, of bals masqués at Cremorne, or suppers at Evans', and all the wild jokes of youth full of vitality.

On his return from Switzerland Emerson decided to go to Cambridge and enter for the Natural Science Tripos, but before going thither he took locum tenens for one of the residents, and work at Queen Charlotte's to oblige a friend. Then in October he entered at Clare College, Cambridge, which then had the reputation of containing "good athletes." There he was chosen to play in the First Football Fifteen and to row in one of the College trial Eights, rowing five in a race that took place in floating ice, the crew in which Emerson was rowing winning a hard fought race. He also won a prize in the College Sports. Emerson says he found the bulk of Clare men a set of "anaemic prigs," with a few nice boys, and he was on the point of migrating to Jesus when he heard that the post of Assistant House Physician was unexpectedly vacant at King's College Hospital and he was advised to enter for it. This post, which was given by competitive examination, he obtained, and returning to Cambridge, celebrated the event by a wild wine party, in which midnight processions with milk punch figured largely, and which afterwards formed the text for a sermon in Clare Chapel by an "ex-gutter-snipe."

In London he now shared a garret in Buckingham St., Strand, with Mr., now Dr. John Phillips, and daily attended the Hospital to carry out his duties, returning at night to his abode, amid the "be-lated actresses, painted h- —s and prowling cats" as he himself put it.

In 1880 he distinguished himself in the law courts in an action against the Aquarium Company for illegally ejecting him; the Company had accused him of having thrown the detective in the seal tank the previous night. The case was immediately given by Judge Cockburn against the Company, who had to pay costs and damages. It was a case of mistaken identity, the real culprit being a Sandhurst cadet aided by his friends.

King's College Hospital being closed for repairs that summer, the residents received an idemny for the loss of their board, and with a fellow-officer Emerson went to Norway, an account of which he wrote for the King's College Magazine. Here again we see the keen love of sport and athletic competition so inherent in his character. A walking race was arranged, international, one might say, to the Voringfos, and out of the total number of eight, Emerson and a stalwart Norwegian alone reached the goal, and together drank scöl in the cool of the spray. During this tour, it is said, a Norwegian lady fell in love with him and followed him to his railway carriage with tears; furthermore the captain of the steamer did the same in a more prosaic manner, wishing to take him into partnership in making and selling a quack pill of sheep's dung. Emerson declined the advances of both syrens and resumed his legitimate medical studies as full House Physician when the Hospital re-opened. The work of the Resident Medical Officer of King's College Hospital in those days was one of the most responsible and hardest worked posts in London, there being no permanent Resident Officer as at most other Hospitals. Emerson liked the work and stood the strain well, though it killed more than one of his fellow-residents. His organizing powers stood him good stead, and his well-known faculty of leadership came out here as well as in all his other undertakings.

In November, his term of office being up, he returned to Cambridge to find he could not go in for the Natural Science Tripos, as he had been engaged in scientific work away from the University for a year, so he commenced at once to work for the First M.B. Probably he made a mistake in taking the General B.A. at all, and should have been content with the M.B., for he could easily have got honours in the Science Tripos when he first went up to Cambridge, and by taking the General he got with a class to which he in no way belonged.

Just at this time another event took place to further interrupt the regular career of his University career. Emerson fell in love in a romantic manner, and engaged himself to one of the Grey Sisters of the Nursing Sisterhood of St. John's. This obliged him to settle in Cambridge as a married undergraduate. He also was elected a member of the Mermaids' Reading Club, and of the Hawks' Social Club, of which he was made a life member, having been a Hawk in residence nine terms. At that time the Hawks' Club was the most exclusive Social Club in Cambridge, where only athletes of reputation were admitted, but now ils ont changé tout cela.

This same winter Emerson spent his holiday in South Wales, and was so much interested in the Welsh that he returned there in later years as will be seen. On his return to the University he was chosen to row five in the new College boat at the Lent races, but an attack of rheumatism prevented him rowing. He also played for the First Rugby Fifteen and in a match for the United Hospitals v. the University.

Afterwards Mrs. P. H. Emerson.

In the following spring he shot in the Wimbledon Competition for badge, but never completed the ranges, and competed once or twice unsuccessfully for C Company Challenge Cup, and winning a scratch four. Emerson making 45 out of the total 144. Later on in the same year he went in for his marksman's badge, getting 59 points at 300 and shooting off his second class, but he never shot off his first class, and this is the last Government rifle shooting Emerson did.

Emerson was this year elected an Associate of King's College for having completed his studies "with distinction." After passing the second part of his Little Go, and a short stay in London, where farewell dinners were given to his old friends, he went north to be married, taking with him various presents from his old brother-residents and clinical clerks at King's and Cambridge friends.

The honeymoon, spent at Grasmere, was occupied in writing "Paul Ray at the Hospital" (in a fortnight), botanising with his wife over the hills, climbing Helvellyn and the neighbouring hills and boating on the lake. It was brought to a sad end by the death of his mother, who had joined her son and daughter-in-law in search of health. As he was one of his mother's executors he had to return to Devonshire, where she had lived, until the beginning of term, when he went into residence as a married undergraduate, at 4, Park Side, Cambridge. That autumn he was elected captain of the Clare Football (Rugby) Club, but had to decline, and the post was offered to and accepted by C. J. B. Marriot, who was afterwards Captain of England. Emerson, it may be said, retired from sports, for the time, on his marriage. He worked hard for six weeks for his General and passed at Christmas.

The Christmas vacation was spent in Italy with his wife and two nieces, the party returning in time for term, and bringing back with them Mrs. Emerson's portrait, painted in the Villa de Medici, by L. Doucet, a Prix de Rome student. On their homeward journey they stopped a Monte Carlo, and Emerson relates a story that shows his strength of mind. He determined to risk £5 on the tables. He won and lost until some 15 francs remained, which he gave to the girls of the party to have enamelled and made into brooches, and promptly left Monte Carlo.

On his return to Cambridge he began to work seriously for his medical degree, spending his spare time in botanising and "birding" with A. H. Evans in the fens. At Easter a jaunt with his wife to his old school, Cranleigh, broke the work, and after returning, he broke the monotony of work with occasional drives over to the race meetings at Newmarket. His interest in athletics prompted him also to join the Isthmian Club, then newly formed, and he was one of the original members of the University La Crosse Club. In May of this year we find him going to London to buy a photographic outfit, for it had been arranged that Emerson and Evans (the ornithologist) should go the following "Long" on an ornithological expedition to the valley of the Petchora. Emerson was to photograph the birds and Evans write on them. In this way did Emerson become a photographer, receiving his first lessons from E. Griffiths, F.R.S., with whom he was working in physics and chemistry at the time, and from this date onwards, photography, science, literature and natural history went hand in hand.

Emerson's first book, "Paul Ray," published by private subscription, now saw the light, and very soon after, his eldest son also, on May 12th, 1882.

With the energy and enthusiasm that ever characterized him, Emerson assiduously photographed everything, indoors and out, making experiments of his own, taking, as he did, all through his life, and still does, nothing for granted that he himself has not verified, and making rapid strides where other tyros made futile and feeble stumbles. At the same time he did a great deal of good microscopic work, mounting and staining specimens.

He tells me he moved a good deal in the local society of Cambridge as a married undergraduate. It would seem he found the "dons," even when young, as they, some of them then were dull, priggish, prejudiced, fusty, wholly provincial, and generally objectionable, with a very few exceptions, who were "good sorts;" the undergraduates nice, over-fed boys, or priggish bounders and "saps," and as far as real modesty, humanity and breadth of view are concerned, he considers them children, and rather objectionable children as compared with medical students, who are, in his estimation, the finest and jolliest set of students alive. On the other hand, curiously enough, Emerson does not care for the full-fledged and provincial practising medico, and he thinks, more often than not, they develop into prigs, snobs and commercial bounders, whilst on the other hand, the "nice boys" of the University often develop later into good fellows.

During this summer Emerson went to Scotland with an old fellow-student and brother athlete, en route for Iceland, but as the Danish mail boat never called, the friends toured through Scotland and the Shetlands. Many and amusing are the stories he tells of Scots' brag, Scots' manners, Scots' laziness and Scots' cant, and says he found himself in perfect accord with Dr. Johnson in his opinion of this truly overrated nation. But he allows he came across one splendid Scottish gentleman, Stewart, of Duntullum—a magnificent man, jovial as an Englishman. He was the first breeder of Highland cattle. Emerson had taken his camera on this tour, and together with Dr. Rudolph Credner, Professor of Erdkund, of Griefswald, photographed and made notes on the Skye peasants. Doubtless here was the germ of Emerson's after works on the English peasantry.

Emerson sent his first pictures to Pall Mall in September of this year, some in platinotype, and one of the two platinotypes in the exhibition. He also passed his first M.B. at Christmas in spite of the worries of Cuban business matters, and finishing off his executorship of the English property, so serious was the Cuban business that he decided to go out to Cuba, and sailed in the S.S. Pavonia on December 30, 1882, having an exceptionally stormy voyage of thirteen days to New York. In Havana Emerson delivered his letters of introduction to one of the chief merchants in the island, and was at once elected a member of the Union

Club, and proceeded to business. In his spare time he took many photographs, but owing to the climate and brilliant light he made several blunders. He tells me he revelled in his native climate and thoroughly enjoyed his trip.

The two most interesting personages he met were General Badeau and the public executioner, a negro who had committed eight murders. On his voyage out Emerson had made friends with Caruncho, one of the proprietors of the Intimidad cigar factory, and when in Havana he took photographs of the processes of cigar-making, some of which he afterwards sent to the Pictorial World. It will give some idea of the morality of the journalistic so-called artist, when it is known that these photographs appeared years afterwards, signed by one Dudgeon, with the titles and descriptions ludicrously wrong, and remarks by "our artist." The paper had changed hands several times in between, and there seemed no redress, and we can hardly be surprised that Emerson has concluded, from this and other experiences of the kind, that there are many bounders in journalism.

In February Emerson left Cuba and taking the S.S. Gallia at New York returned to England. One of his fellow-passengers on this voyage was Seynour Hadyn, the etcher, who we are told made speeches in bad taste and got himself generally disliked on the voyage. Emerson edited the ship's journal and many good stories and bons mots were printed that journey.

Three days after his arrival back in Cambridge, Emerson was acting locum tenens for Dr. Bradbury, now Downing Professor of Medicine, so for a fortnight Emerson was a Consulting Physician at Cambridge, and as it turned out this was his first and last practice. For the rest of the term dissecting lobsters, worms, etc., and generally reading science occupied him, and at the end of the May term he passed the "Special" in Botany, having the first class to himself, for the remaining dozen were all in the second class. June 16 sees him take his B.A. degree, and as recreation we find him going to stay at Bristol Hospital with old King's friends in residence there, and later at Wells in the Vicar's Close with other old friends. This we find him characterizing as "oh, so sleepy." In August the family spent the holidays at Southwold, in Suffolk, this being the first introduction to the district he has made his own by intimate knowledge as well as by his original treatment and poetical writing. On this first trip he took several photographs that were destined to revolutionize photography and to make his name in photographic circles.

INGENIO LA PALMA - CUBA

In October, 1883, Emerson joined the Photographic Society of Great Britain, and again exhibited some excellent instantaneous work, at the same time giving a share of his attention to his old love, horse racing, and winning some money on Tonans, whose owner he had met at dinner a few nights previous to the race. A flying visit paid to Yarmouth this autumn left him delighted with the place and ever since this first acquaintance with the town it has kept a corner of his heart, just as it did with Dickens. In December the Second M.B. was passed, twenty-seven out of the fifty candidates being plucked.

At the beginning of the year his eldest daughter, Sybil, was born at Cambridge, and the Sambrooke Medical Registrarship at King's was gained in January, 1884. This appointment entailed Emerson's presence at the Hospital to supervise the clinical clerks, to coach them and the students, "to take" the difficult cases and to keep the records. The post carried a scholarship worth £50 and was the penultimate step to the staff, and was therefore of importance. Emerson took rooms in Woburn Place, attended the Hospital daily during the week and returned to Cambridge, and later on to Southwold, at the week-ends all through the year. Much of his spare time was devoted to photography, at which he worked assiduously, making experiments. He also saw much of his old schoolfellow Wooldridge, and at Queen Charlotte's his fellow-student Woolby.

The following June a new branch of study claimed his attention, that of Hygiene or State Medicine at University College Laboratory.

At this time we find Emerson beginning to be interested in politics, and his sympathies were mainly with the Liberals; he at this time joins the National Liberal Club and other Liberal Associations.

Leaving Cambridge "with few regrets" he took a cottage on the common at Southwold, designated by the stately name of Wellesley House. His photographs had now begun to attract considerable attention for their freshness, naturalism and decorative qualities, and by his entirely new methods of treatment. He gained his first medal at Falmouth this summer.

The following December he passed the second or medical part of the Third M.B., eleven out of twenty-two were plucked, and in January, 1885, started to read for the last part of the M.B., the surgical part. He had been delayed in starting this by the registrarship, with the constant backward and forward journeys; for his duties continued up to the end of 1884. It was at Southwold that Emerson made the acquaintance of A. G. Bell, a painter, and his wife, who under the name of N. D'Anvers wrote on art. They were much delighted by Emerson's work, and Bell tried to persuade Emerson to study art, but he went on with his photographic and medical work, and began to make notes on the peasantry to satisfy his energetic mind, his only holiday being a short trip to London to take the chair at the dinner of the King's College Football Club, and a few days in Norwich and Cromer. Not satisfied with these pursuits, he fitted up his house as a meteorological station of the second order, and became a member of that Society and of the Microscopical on the proposal of Dr. L. Beale, F.R.S.

GLADYS EMERSON, 1896, et. 11.

He also began to cultivate bacteria and stain them for microscopical slides. It may be said that Emerson made his first great photographic success in April of this year in the "Amateur Photographers' at Home Competition," and obtained the first and other medals at the Bond Street Amateur Photographic Exhibition; Mr. Crane, Walter Crane's brother, and another artist being the judges.

The surgical part of the Third M.B. exam. was passed in May, after which Emerson relaxed by a tour round the picture shows in London, his interest in art being now very keen. At this time his second daughter, Gladys, was born. On his return to Southwold he settled down to write his thesis for the M.B. degree on "Washleather Skin," which he read before Dr. Paget on June 10th. He was much complimented on its originality both by Prof. Paget and by Prof. David Ferrier, F.R.S., and on the following day Emerson took his M.B. degree and returned to Southwold. A few days after he was called to consult in a case of diphtheria, a farmer's little girl. Emerson was horrified at the ignorance and conceit of the local practitioner, and took this fatal case as the text for a diatribe on the lax regulations for the qualifying of medical men, advocating very much stiffer examinations and compulsory practical work, urging the necessity for the constant refusal of incompetent candidates.

Emerson's energies now overflow into efforts to form the Camera Club, he being one of the original founders, Captain Abney, Linley Samborne, H. B. Irwin, J. Harris Stone, M.A., and others co-operating with him in the Art and Science Committee.

It was at this period that Emerson and his brother hired the yacht Emily and made his first cruise on the Norfolk Broads. He was enraptured by the landscapes and took some photographs of great beauty and originality that were afterwards published in "Life and Landscape on the Norfolk Broads." On the trip he met T. F. Goodall and H. H. La Thangue, A.R.A., landscape painters. After the trip was over, his ever-bubbling spring of energy instituted paper-chases on horseback at Southwold, in which he and his wife rode recklessly up cliff sides, through mud and mire and across ploughed fields, to the horror of the Cambridge riding master who joined the chase. Thus and with reading and shooting wild fowl on the Blyth he filled up his time until he went to London. Here he had a partnership offered him in Teneriffe and another in Yorkshire, but as he had a private income he felt it unnecessary to jump at the first offer, more especially as the question had been for some time present to him whether he should set up in London as a consulting physician, or leave medicine for literature. Literature pulled most, and soon after Emerson was on South Walsham Broad aboard the little Lucy with T. F. Goodall as a companion, and a Suffolk fisherman as factotum. At the same time he won a prize tour competition for his writing and photographs, Sir W. Besant and Sir J. Linton being the judges. From South Walsham he and Goodall roamed about taking photographs and making notes all day, returning at night to the yacht to develop the negatives. In December, the trip over, he returned to London with the material for "Life and Landscape on the Norfolk Broads." One of his final excursions had been to Sir Savile Crossley's decoys, of which the pictures appeared later in "Pictures of East Anglian Life." About this time he wrote on "An Ideal Photographic Exhibition," an article which he afterwards amplified, and upon which the best of the modern photographic exhibitions are based.

At the beginning of 1886 "Life and Landscape on the Norfolk Broads" was accepted by Messrs. Sampson Low, who undertook to publish it at their own expense on the half profits system, and Emerson read a paper on "Art and Photography" to a crowded audience at the Camera Club, and exhibited several slides, his paper and work exciting considerable attention for their novelty and beauty. All the early part of this year was spent in polishing up the articles for "Life and Landscape," supervising the printing and reproducing of photographs, etc. An offer of £100 a year as retaining fee to a rich London merchant who wanted him to settle in London and become a general practitioner, and another of a post on the staff of a Throat Hospital, failed to tempt him, and indeed, from this time, he throws his lot in with literature. He wrote a "shilling shocker," to shock, but could not get a publisher, and tore it up. A portfolio of photogravures, "Field and Fen," had better luck, and was published by Messrs. Bell, and then Emerson went to Paris with a friend, to see the pictures chiefly. On his return he judged at the Cambridge University Photographic Exhibition, his first judgeship. At Easter he went back to the Broads, living on board the little five-ton yacht, the Lucy, and doing much literary work and photography, natural history, etc., one of which photographs, "Gathering Water-Lilies," was published by the Autotype Company as a photogravure, probably the first single photogravure after nature published as a plate on its own merits. In July he is again on the Broads, until September, and then finally decides to give up medicine, thus cutting short a brilliant career, one for which he was eminently fitted by his keen observation, his genius for diagnosis, his varied education; indeed, when Sir George Johnson, F.R.S., heard of his decision, he said, "It is a great loss to medicine," and Sir George was senior physician to King's, and under him Emerson had worked as House Physician and Medical Registrar. Not only was it a loss to medicine, but also to society, for Emerson rapidly became a recluse, and his wit, humour, geniality and general bonhomie were buried in the country. He threw away ambition for his love for nature and character. But, on the other hand, as Prof. Karl Pearson has said, "The best training for observation and description is that of a clinical clerk." And how well Emerson's natural faculties of observation and description were trained, we may judge by his having been, not only clinical clerk, but also House Physician and Medical Registrar; so that he started well equipped for his new profession, "the interpretation of nature and man," and with what success he has followed this career, the unprejudiced know.

In the autumn of 1886 Emerson moved with his family to 10, Marlborough Crescent, Bedford Park, occupying the house just vacated by Pinero. But curiously enough, instead of pushing himself in London, and cultivating editors, his natural modesty led him to remain in retirement, staying at home, writing—and once not leaving the house for three months; indeed, during the whole of his life in London he never made the acquaintance of a single literary man, though he knew most of the young Chelsea artists. He simply stuck to his work. That he gained as many as eleven photographic medals in 1886, and with what was often called “heretical work,” was elected on the Council of the Photographic Society, and made a judge at the Photographic Exhibition at Pall Mall in this year, shows that Emerson had “arrived,” and after a swift journey to the front. But this success had its dark side; plagiarists sprang up among low born and dishonest upstarts, old-fashioned and pompous “authorities” were outraged and got jealous, and then began, in what was at that time a “reptile” press, anonymous attacks and abuse. But Emerson soon proved he could fight as well as he could photograph, and he punished his enemies for libel and gibe, lie and innuendo, ignorance and traduction, with a pen veritably dipped in gall. He finally won his battles, but he would have done better to ignore the vulgar abuse and plagiarism of his work and ideas, for all the “brains” of the photographic world at home and abroad were with him.

This same year the Autotype published a portfolio of prints, “Idyls of the Norfolk Broads,” and Emerson was awarded the only silver medal for landscape at the Edinburgh Exhibition; but as he remarked, bitterly, “being a Scotch Exhibition, the silver medal was awarded in paper.”

“Life and Landscape” was through the press in November, but its publication was unwisely delayed until the new year.

At this time there was a proposal for Emerson to photograph the birds and beasts at the Zoo., on which his friend A. H. Evans was to write a book. Professor Newton was delighted with the idea, but no publisher being willing to take the work, it fell through.

The early spring of 1887 Emerson spent at Rye House and the neighbourhood, executing a commission for illustrations to R. B. Marston's centenary edition of “The Complete Angler.” Emerson did the Lea portion, and the old and new style of photography can be nicely compared in this edition, the Derbyshire photographs being the work of an expert of the old “sharp school.” During this stay at Rye House Emerson began to write his “Nature Stories, Myths and Phantasies.”

But the Norfolk Broads still held sway over him, and in the following June we find him buying the old hulk on which the Maid of the Mist was afterwards built, and whose career is so graphically described in “On English Lagoons.” In July Emerson had finished the MS. of “Pictures of East Anglian Life,” and then went to join his friend T. F. Goodall in his house-boat on Breydon Water, and here stayed until September, Goodall painting or going photographing with Emerson, while Emerson alternated photographing with writing “Wild Life on a Tidal Water,” and finished his “Nature Stories.” His “Wild Life” is, many think, the happiest of his works.

In the autumn his methods had so far triumphed that his “Poacher” was medalled at the Pall Mall show, whereupon Emerson decided not again to show for competition, for his object in competing had been to fight the old ideas, to make converts to the new by being medalled by artists, and he usually obtained chief honours where artists were the judges. Before the year was out he was correcting the proof of “Pictures of East Anglian Life,” which had been accepted by Sampson Low & Co., and was, besides, writing articles for year books, and beginning a novel, “The Mate of the Silver Cloud,” which, however, he abandoned for other work, and it was never finished.

Finding his photographic ideas were being misrepresented, he began to embody them in a book, "Naturalistic Photography," and for the first three months of this year he worked hard at this task, only seeing very few friends, one of whom was J. Havard Thomas, the sculptor. "The Idyls of the Norfolk Broads" were now published and well received. In order to thoroughly understand sculpture, Emerson now attended his friend Thomas' studio, and daily modelled, working hard for nearly three months. Thomas would have persuaded him to go in for sculpture, but Emerson preferred to keep to his work.

When in the summer of this year "Pictures of East Anglian Life" was published it caused considerable stir, and vexed the Tory reviewers by its grim humour and satire, so that the author got dubbed a socialist, though he laughed at socialism, and by temperament is exclusively aristocratic; but the gross inhumanity and greed of many of the upstart English landlords aroused his just ire, and as he has often said, when he compared this state of things with the humanity and kindness with which the work-people on his father's estate were treated, his indignation knew no bounds. Afterwards he came to modify some of his strictures printed in "Pictures of East Anglian Life," for up till then he had come across only landlords of the nouveaux riches or risen yeoman types, and he now confesses that many of the old county gentlemen are humane and kind; more, he says, than the now spoilt peasant deserves. To this experience is to be traced Emerson's youthful Liberalism; now he is an uncompromising Tory, Church matters excepted, his view of religion being uncompromisingly agnostic. Bismarck "without the religion" is his political ideal.

Emerson, with Thomas, went to Paris to see the Salon, and on his return he competed for the presentation print of the Edinburgh Photographic Society, and his print, "A Suffolk Dike," was chosen, copies being presented to the members. Valentine, Sutcliffe and others had also competed.

About the same time Emerson was approached about writing a book on the Irish peasantry, but as he would not bind himself to see any particular side of Irish peasantry, nor yet write for party ends, the commission fell through. He tells me he was not much impressed by the brain force of the Irish M.P.s whom he met.

In August "Naturalistic Photography" was finished, and Emerson afterwards went off to the Broads again with his sculptor friend as a companion in his newly fitted up wherry The Maid of the Mist.

September, Emerson spent in London alone, and "English Idyls" was begun. Messrs. Sampson Low & Co. accepted "Naturalistic Photography," and it was printed in November, while at Christmas the centenary edition of Walton came out. I understand that this wonderfully beautiful work might have been much more beautiful but for the number of bad prints sent in by Messrs. Dawson.

Towards the end of the year we hear of him going to Holland for a short trip with Thomas, the sculptor, and Colls, the photo etcher.

"Field and Fen" was published this year, and through delay in the photo etching, some of Emerson's earliest plates (contained in "Field and Fen") were published after later plates (contained in "Life and Landscape").

In 1889 "Naturalistic Photography" was published. It would be impossible to describe the stir this book made in photographic circles, the bad blood it aroused, the fierce contentions, the immense amount of good it did; for though Emerson's photographs had really already worked the revolution, this book told willing converts and opponents alike, in very forcible language, his reasons for his views and convinced some of them against their will. To outsiders no idea of the effect this book had can be conveyed; to photographers it is well known. A second edition was soon called for and Emerson had no time to make important revisions. He has often told me he was forced to write this book in self-defence, and had he been treated fairly he would have printed some matters as they appear in his revised third edition, now running through the pages of the Photographic Times. Emerson gave copies of "Pictures of East Anglian Life," or portfolios of the best of the prints, to every British Photographic Society and all foreign Societies so that the members might see examples of the tenets that he preached—thus everybody in the photographic world had specimens of his work before them in 1889, and a host of imitators and otherwise sprang up, but Emerson was the pioneer, the man who did the work in Great Britain, the Colonies, the United States and on the Continent. A few minor prophets then sprang up to try and rob him of his kudos, but the best photographers were too clear sighted, and now not one of the false prophets but is discredited; and the final triumph was in 1895, when the Royal Photographic Society presented him with its Progress Medal for artistic photography, the first time the medal had been awarded for anything but scientific advancement, and probably the last.

From S. Low & Co. a book was published, the dainty "English Idyls," which brought a letter of admiration to the author from the fastidious Walter Pater. This little book soon passed into a second edition, and without doubt it belongs to literature and will live—the work of an artist who is also a scientific man and knower of nature, a rare combination.

In January Emerson was asked to become a member of the Society of Arts and did so, but left it on account of prejudiced treatment later on. He read a suggestive paper on "Science and Art" at the Camera Club Conference there in March. This year the Edinburgh Society again chose one of his plates for their presentation print, "Gathering Water Lilies."

He much wished to start a new quarterly magazine, to be called Nature and Art, and got up a specimen copy, but as he wished everything to be in the best style, the publishers thought it would not pay, and the idea fell through. Besides all this work Emerson was hotly fighting the Philistines in the photographic press, including artists and among others Mr. Brett, A.R.A.

He joined the new Society of Authors about this time, which he subsequently left and then we find him taking his ease on the Norfolk Broads once more with his friend Thomas, and accepting the post of English correspondent to an American paper. On returning to town he also takes up photogravure, learning the process from Colls, going to his studio at Barnes daily, and at intervals writing articles to Naturalists' Record, and the Camera Club Journal and other papers, and then taking a short holiday in North Wales. In September his "Nature Stories, Myths and Phantasies" were published, and this same month the author went to Paris to see the pictures, and his criticism of the great exhibition pictures is that Scandinavia is the only country that has recently struck a new note in art. He wrote one or two critiques on pictures and reviewed one or two books, but soon gave this work up, considering it unnecessary, degrading and mean. In October he started with his friend Thomas for Italy, but was wrecked off Cape Cornwall, getting ashore with his clothes only, but losing all his property. However, nothing dashed they took the next vessel and reached Capri on Nov. 9th. There they lived, taking trips on the mainland, on one of which, the drive from Salerno to Pæstum, Emerson considers he saw the finest scenery of his lifetime. In January he returned to London, picking a patient up en route.

The year 1890 was begun by writing an appreciation of Mrs. Cameron for "Sun Artists," refusing however to have his own photographs included in the series. Sampson Low had just accepted "Wild Life on a Tidal Water," and Emerson was soon busy correcting proofs and beginning "East Coast Yarns." In September he started on his year's cruise on the Broads, which voyage is graphically given in his charming "On English Lagoons," published by Mr. Nutt. He also contributed several letters to the Fishing Gazette during this voyage. The lonely life gave him ample time for deliberate thought, and it ended in his withdrawal of "Naturalistic Photography" for revision, for his researches into photography and nature on this trip led him to conclude that however charming photographs were, they were not art. Messrs. Hurter and Driffield's researches helped him also to form this opinion. A paper in the Mugazine of Art and more letters to the Fishing Gazette include all his contributions to contemporary journalism at this time, but he was also hard at work during this year, 1890—91, writing his extraordinary novel of manners, "A Son of the Fens," a classic, and making studies for his "Birds, Beasts and Fishes of the Norfolk Broadland."

CLARINGBOLD, BROADSTAIRS, RESIDENCE OF DR. P. H. EMERSON, 1892—95.

On his return the family left London for Southport, where they lived a few weeks and then moved to Beaumaris, North Wales, where he took Chaucery House for six months, a house supposed to have been built with stolen Royal Charter money and to be therefore haunted, but no ghost is chronicled as appearing to Emerson. These were busy six months, for Emerson plunged into the Welsh folk and peasant lore with an ardour worthy of Grimm, collecting new Welsh fairy stories (up to then only four had been discovered) and collecting notes for two new books, "Welsh Wales" and "A Welsh Rover."

In the spring of 1892 he removed to Ramsgate, finding Wales too damp; he had had a mild attack of rheumatic fever while there. The famous Hickling Broad right of way trial now came off, Emerson giving evidence that Hickling Broad was tidal, but the judge gave the fishing and shooting against the public, but allowed the right of sailing. Emerson was most indignant at this miscarriage of justice, for the whole question turned on whether or not the waters are tidal, and he maintains they are distinctly so, and moreover that tides do not follow the recognized mathematical theories. Lovers of Ramsgate will be delighted to learn that Emerson considers it the ugliest and dullest seaside he ever visited. He took a charming house, formerly occupied by Mrs. Lyne Stephens, Claringbold, at Broadstairs, and with his usual energy threw himself heart and soul into gardening, and with this new occupation and his "Birds, Beasts and Fishes" passed the summer and autumn.

At Easter, 1893, Emerson formed one of a crew to row a four-oared galley from Dover to Broadstairs, and this he did when out of training and though he had been in the house nearly all the winter writing. He was one of the founders of the new Broadstairs Rowing Club. A few weeks after he rowed a fixed-seat four from Herne Bay to Broadstairs with a crew of three. During the summer he wrote several short stories and went into training for the Broadstairs Regatta, in which he rowed in a pair oar in the wherry boats let out by the fishermen, he and his partner winning the first prize easily. Then he went back to the Broads for a last cruise in his wherry, which he afterwards sold; so the Maid of the Mist passed into other hands.

In the autumn of 1893 Emerson began "Caóba, the Guerilla Chief," on the advice of Prof. York-Powell, who is a great admirer of "The Son of the Fens," which was published in 1892. This year also "English Lagoons" was published, and like the author's previous books was received most cordially by the best critics.

The following year he published "Welsh Fairy Tales" and "Tales from Welsh Wales," and during the same year he finished writing "Caóba." At the same time he was elected Captain of the Broadstairs Rowing Club, and by his untiring energy got together money for two racing galleys, and got into rough shape two crews for the south coast regattas, himself rowing three in the first boat. These races, rowed as they are on courses of four to six miles, half of which is against the tides, are a much stiffer trial than the Inter-University Race. Emerson's crews did well—the first boat winning five prizes and the second carrying off the Novice Challenge Cup at Brighton Regatta. Emerson also as Secretary of the Broadstairs Regatta organized a very spirited and successful regatta, Emerson and a friend, also an old Cambridge man, winning easily the race for pair-oared galleys from four other crews. The sea was so rough that day that some of the small yachts dared not sail, and a characteristic true story is told at Broadstairs of this race. Emerson's partner in the pair-oared skiff at first rowed timidly, being unaccustomed to such rough seas, and they fell behind to last. Emerson burst out with a long list of expletives winding up with "What in the — does it matter if you are drowned?" Thus exorcised, the rower pulled himself together and the pair soon passed all their rivals and won the race by one minute and fifteen seconds from the second boat. And as this was Em-were due to Emerson's personal efforts, as he had only a labourer gardener to carry out his instructions. Emerson also knows his botany, and has often been asked why he does not write upon wild flowers. He says except in masses he thinks them insignificant, and this "weed admiration is mere hysteria," he preferring in flowers art or garden flowers to nature or weeds.

Thinking probably that there was no end to his energy and recognizing perhaps the stuff erson's last appearance as an athletic competitor we have induced him to let us give a photograph of his prizes. It must be remembered he was over forty when he won the last prizes for sea rowing on long and stiff courses.

Yet another side to this many-sided man comes to the fore this year, for we hear of him obtaining two medals for horticulture; one, the Banksian Medal of the Royal Horticultural Society for foreign vegetables grown in the open, and the Kelway Medal for gaillardias.

Both these medals that reformers are made of, the inhabitants of Broadstairs asked Emerson to stand for the District Council; but Emerson had decided to leave the neighbourhood and in January, 1895, he moved to Lowestoft and joined the Norfolk and Suffolk Yacht Club. He was already a member of the Royal Corinthian Yacht Club. Early this same year he was awarded the Progress Medal of the Royal Photographic Society.

We find him joining the Norfolk Naturalists Society, and he sent them a paper, but the Editing Committee so stupidly mangled the paper that Emerson determined never to send them another line.

"Birds, Beasts and Fishes of the Norfolk Broadland" saw the light this year, and later

"Marsh Leaves," this latter containing some most enchanting photographs and writing.

Fresh interests being necessary to this versatile mind, we find golf and cycling are his new pastimes; but he never waxed enthusiastic over either sport, the water proving more attractive. Golf he describes as an excuse for "walking," and cycling he disliked, as he is a hater of roads—"dust, horse manure and ragged hedge-rows," as he describes them. He had a Daimler motor launch built in which he cruised about the Broads. The build of the boat, however, and the uncertainty of the engines led him to get rid of her after a short time.

In the following year he removed to The Nook, Oulton Broad, close to the site of George Borrow's old house.

While at Lowestoft Emerson had made the acquaintance of Colonel Steel, of the Royal Engineers, who was a keen genealogist, and as Emerson had been asked by an American cousin to look up a few facts about his family, he was persuaded to go into the family history. With his usual energy and thoroughness he began at once to dig deeply into the subject.

For three years he worked almost incessantly at "The English Emersons," almost giving up exercise for the time—indeed, for the last year never going out of the grounds of The Nook. Besides this work we find him contributing collections of words to Prof. Wright's new "Dialect Dictionary," correcting proofs for third edition of "Naturalistic Photography" for Photographic Times and doing other literary work.

"Caóba, the Guerilla Chief," was published in 1897, and a second edition was quickly called for.

Besides attending the Photographic Convention in 1897, and leading a steamer load of photographers to Oulton Broad, Emerson did little in photography this year except making some experiments with new lenses.

What Emerson will do next after this onerous and arduous work on "The English Emersons" is not known. He tells me that genealogical work is the hardest, most heart-breaking and exhausting work he has ever done, and that after these three years of "penal servitude" in the cause which has exhausted him and his pockets of his holiday allowances, he will have earned a holiday.

It is not our purpose to write an appreciation of Emerson, but we venture to say that some books and many photographs have never been surpassed in their line, and few equalled, and that some of his books will live as literature and become better known in years to come. He would have been more magazines, which bring into notoriety and hold up for admiration false gods. He feels that England will become a second-rate power, unless the present "greed for gold" is stamped out, and men learn that noblesse oblige has some meaning, and that wealth is the last thing to be regarded in the estimate of a person. All weak and diseased should be forbidden marriage by law, and that for the sane and healthy polygamy is advisable. He believes in the "strong hand" in politics, and that we should hold integrity and honour beyond all other virtues, for he finds that clever and brave men are common enough, genial men abound, but the really chivalrously honourable men are the rarest and the most valuable gold of the State. Cant he looks upon as the prevailing sin of to-day, cant and petticoat government and the allowing "the fool to have his say." His disgust at the eulogies on Mr. Gladstone knew no bounds, for he regards "Professor Gladstone" exactly as did Bismarck, and says he was of the barren type that are a curse to this country—the learned bourgeoisie. He thinks the populace is being "over-educated," and that for the bulk of them popular already had he not had the honest knack of calling a spade a spade. We should like to see a popular edition of his books with all such "spade a spade" portions cut out, and think it would pay any publisher to print such an edition in cheap form, could he obtain the author's sanction, for plagiarists and imitators of his work are already cropping up in journalism.

When one reviews his past life one cannot but be struck by the strength and the versatile strength of the man's character and physique. Truly nothing short of a Prime Minister's work would have satisfied his craving for doing.

At The Nook his youngest child Ralf was born, and one cannot do better than finish this short record with photographs of his youngest child Ralf, and a bas-relief of himself cut in the "living marble" from life, by his friend J. H. Thomas, in 1888. His eldest son has adopted engineering as a profession, and his daughters are good violinists for their age, being pupils of Mr. C. Gang, and Sybil is a very promising art student, the pupil of Mr. T. F. Goodall.

Dr. Emerson's views on some matters may be of interest. In art teaching he thinks we should revert to the old apprentice system, and that none should adopt the profession unless he gives early promise of success. Literature he considers is being ruined by journalism and the three R's should be taught, the clever ones alone being pushed on, and he says in rural districts about 12 per cent. of the children belong to this class. Socialism he considers a dream fit for the angels. And, finally, he believes the United States of America will be masters of the world before the year 2000, for, he says, people in this country are forgetting how to work, and traces much of our degeneracy, in this respect, to the public schools and other educational systems.

(1) John Bolton Emmerson, M.D. (Dur.), Biggleswade.

(i.) John Emmerson, of Chester-le-Street. Accidentally drowned whilst bathing at South Shields in 1857. He was married, and ob. intestate, and the law proceedings were conducted before Thomas Emerson Headlam. He probably married a Miss Lovely, and they had issue:—

(ii.) William Lindsay Emmerson, b. Dec. 27, 1820. William Lindsay, named after an uncle Lindsley or Lindsay, a shipowner, was a Doctor of Medicine of Aberdeen, and m. Alice Adams Bolton, eldest dau. of Dr. Bolton, of Ebchester. Vide obituary from Lancet.

The death of Dr. Emmerson, at the age of seventy-two, occurred on Wednesday, the 17th inst. He had suffered for two or three years past from painful bladder and kidney troubles, and latterly had been in the habit of taking chloral freely. His nervous system was always highly sensitive, and in his earlier days he suffered more intense migraine than falls to the lot of most men. In the intervals he was a most cheerful and almost brilliant man, with wide scientific knowledge and sympathies. A little after the middle period of life the intense headache ceased to trouble him, and he developed regular gouty attacks. Dr. Emmerson was born in Chester-le-Street, and after holding the appointment of surgeon to the Consett Ironworks, Shotley Bridge, and later practising in North Shields, he went to Leicester to practise. There his knowledge of chemistry and microscopy stood him in good stead, and he was appointed public analyst to the counties of Leicester, Northampton and Rutland. While in practice in North Shields he published statistics of 1000 obstetric cases in the Report of the North of England Medical Society for 1855. He was a very versatile man and could range over any kind of subject with a certain speculative interest. It was probably in this sort of way that at a certain time of his life he dabbled in homoeopathy; but he was too acute a man and too conscious of the great lines of medical science to depart seriously from them. In private life he was kind and sociable. He married in early life Miss Bolton, the daughter of an able practitioner in Ebchester, near Newcastle-on-Tyne. Mrs. Emmerson, greatly esteemed and beloved by all who knew her, died some years ago, to the great loss of Dr. Emmerson and his many children.

Dr. and Mrs. Emmerson had issue:—(1) Amelia Lindsley Emmerson, b. April 7, 1846, m. Dec. 1866, Alfred Densham, founder of the "Mazawattee Co." (2) Mary Margaret, b. Mar. 13, 1848, ob. Nov. 14, 1864. (3) Rosa Alice, b. Jan. 9, 1850, m. Benjamin Densham, brother of the above. (4) William Lindsley, Lic. Med. Durham, M.R.C.S. and L.S.A. Newcastle Infirmary and Westminster Hospital, b. Dec. 9, 1851, practised at Syston, Newcastle, Waltham near Melton, and now at Leicester; m. Sarah Norton, of Syston, and has issue. Dr. Emmerson has kindly communicated particulars concerning his father's cousin, H. H. Emmerson, a northern artist of considerable repute. I am especially indebted to Dr. Emmerson for these particulars and the photograph—P. H. E.

(i.) Henry Hetherington Emerson was my father's cousin. He was the son of Joseph Emmerson, of Chester-le-Street, who married Catherine Hetherington at St. John's, Newcastle, on Nov. 5th, 1826. They had issue inter alia :—

H. H. EMMERSON, artist, ob. 1895.

(ii.) Henry Hetherington (artist), b. at Chester-le-Street, Nov. 11th, 1831, m. Mary Bolton, of Ebchester, Aug. 12, 1857. They left issue:—(1) Mary May, spinster, b. May 28, 1858. (2) Kate, m. Dawson, b. Nov. 8, 1859. (3) Henry Bewick, m. ?, b. July 24, 1861. (4) Hugh Percy, b. Feb. 16, 1865. (5) Amy Densham, m. Sinclair, b. Feb. 11, 1867. (6) Edith Bolton, spinster, b. Aug. 27, 1870. (7) Gertrude Miller, spinster, b. July 25, 1872.

Lord Armstrong was very friendly to him, bought many of his pictures, and gave him a house, "Tossen Towers," Rothbury, rent free. He taught Henry, who has since become well known as a sea painter. For a time he lived at Stocksfield-on-Tyne, and finally at Cullercoats. He was a great athlete in youth, and a few days before his death, went to London and back in one day to witness a football match. H. H. Emmerson was well known as a runner, having won many prizes, and up to the day of his death could out-run many people.—J. B. E.

OBITUARY NOTICE FROM THE "ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS."

An artist whose reputation in the North was extremely high has died in Henry Hetherington Emmerson. He was born at Chester-le-Street in 1831, of a family which claimed Ralph Waldo Emerson as a descendant. While learning the art of engraving at Newcastle he displayed such artistic skill that he became a pupil at the Government School of Art under Mr. W. B. Scott. By the generosity of a clergyman young Emmerson enjoyed six months' study in Paris. Subsequently he entered the Royal Academy school and devoted himself especially to the study of children. In many Royal Academy Exhibitions Mr. Emmerson's pictures attracted popularity. "The Queen's Letter," "The Critics," "The First Suit," were all conceived in so sympathetic a spirit that they speedily found warm admirers. Portraiture came easily to Mr. Emmerson, who painted, among others, pictures of the late Marquis of Salisbury and Lord Armstrong. One of his last works was entitled "God's Nursery," and depicted children of all races gathered together. Mr. Emmerson was in younger days a fine athlete. At Cullercoats, where he died on Aug. 28, he was one of the best known and esteemed residents.

OBITUARY FROM THE "NEWCASTLE DAILY JOURNAL."

DEATH OF MR. H. H. EMMERSON. A TYNESIDE ARTIST'S CAREER.

At nine o'clock this morning Mr. H. H. Emmerson, the well-known artist, passed quietly away at his residence, 16, John Street, Cullercoats. He was 64 years of age. . . . He leaves a widow and a grown-up family of two sons, both of whom follow their father's profession, and five daughters. . . . The remains of the deceased artist will be interred at Preston Cemetery, North Shields, on Sunday afternoon, though whether the funeral will be of a public or private character has not been decided. At Cullercoats Look-out House this morning the flag was hoisted half mast in token of respect to the memory of the deceased.

Mr. Henry Hetherington Emmerson was born at Chester-le-Street in 1831. He may be said to have sprung from an illustrious family, both Emerson the philosopher and Emerson the mathematician, although the names are spelt differently, belonged to the same family which was originally located at Huiworth-on-Tees. Mr. Emmerson was born with a genius for his art, and in his earliest years used to devote long hours to drawing. It is a remarkable circumstance that in spite of his close application to that sedentary amusement, young Henry also excelled in athletic sports. Indeed, when ten years old he was accounted the fastest runner of his age in the world, and a public challenge from him to run any lad of his age met with no response. When he had barely entered his teens Emmerson created quite a sensation in his own countryside by executing with pencil and brush a faithful representation of the village barber. That important person ignorantly imagined himself aggrieved thereby, although the picture was not at all in the nature of a cartoon, and tried his utmost to get hold of the little work of art in order to destroy it. He was frustrated in his design, but the irate barber's daughters avenged their father's grievance by pouncing unexpectedly upon the lad one night and giving him a severe pummelling. When Emmerson was thirteen it was thought desirable that he should have the best available instruction to be obtained in the district. Accordingly he was sent to Newcastle, where he studied under Mr. W. B. Scott, Principal of the Government School of Art. After two and a half years' tuition under Mr. Scott, who took a great interest in his promising pupil, young Emmerson took an important step. His talents had attracted the notice of a clergyman, who sent him to Paris for six months. At the French capital the artist occupied his time in making copies of paintings in the Louvre. At the termination of the six months he went to London and copied subjects in the National Gallery. In due time he succeeded in gaining admission to the Royal Academy as a pupil. Having his living to earn as well as his studies to prosecute, the young man endured not a little hardship and privation during the earlier part of his residence in the metropolis, but after a while he received introductions to many noble patrons, from whom he received commissions. Among them was the Marquis of Salisbury, father of the present premier. He had gained a reputation for his skill in painting children and orders poured in to him. One of his pictures, "The Village Tailor," was accepted at the Royal Academy about this time. The great writer on art, Mr. John Ruskin, had noticed some of Emmerson's pictures very favourably. Emmerson left the metropolis, came north and settled at Ebechester, where he met the lady who became his wife. The first ten years of his married life he spent at Stocksfield-on-Tyne, where he painted many important works, several of which were accepted at the Royal Academy. Among the products of his brush while residing in that village were "The Queen's Letter," which depicted an incident connected with the Hartley Colliery disaster, "A Foreign Invasion" and "The Branks" (the two latter being purchased by Sir William Armstrong), and "The Critics," the engravings of which commanded a very large sale. Having received several commissions from Sir William Armstrong, which rendered it necessary that he should reside in the neighbourhood of Craigside, Mr. Emmerson removed to Tosson, near Rothbury. There he painted the portrait of Lord Armstrong which was exhibited at the Newcastle Jubilee Exhibition; "Johnnie Armstrong's Return," now at Jesmond; "Faithful Unto Death" and many others. For many years Mr. Emmerson has resided at Cullercoats, and it may be imagined that the fisherfolk and the fine seascape there have afforded him abundant subjects for his brush. The venerable-looking artist, who was of a genial, happy disposition, was very popular among the seaside residents, being known personally to nearly all, young and old. He was a very warm lover of his art, and used to work at his easel from eight o'clock each morning, and sometimes much earlier, till nine at night. Previous to his illness he was engaged on a companion picture to his "God's Nursery," to be named "The Shadow of the Cross," and also with some Shakespearian subjects for one of the Newcastle theatres. Only the day before he was incapacitated from work he had completed some alterations to the portrait of the late Mr. Shotton, which hangs in the Free Library, at North Shields, and which was one of Mr. Emmerson's works. The portrait of Mr. Joseph M. Moore, the ex-town clerk of South Shields, which hangs in the South Shields Council Chamber, was painted by Mr. Emmerson a few years ago, at the time when Mr. Moore was severing his long and honourable connection with the Corporation. Mr. Emmerson was widely and favourably known for the ready and valuable assistance he was always willing to render to young and struggling artists or to any institution of an artistic and educational character. He was one of the founders of the Berwick Club, established in Newcastle about fourteen years ago, and was elected its first President, a position he has ever since held. He also rendered valuable aid in founding the South Shields Art Club, of which he was a Vice-President, whilst of the Tynemouth Art Club he was also a warm supporter. The deceased gentleman never lost that interest in athletics which has already been referred to. There was no more ardent admirer of the Rockcliff Football Team, and whether they played at home or visited other clubs in the neighbourhood Mr. Emmerson rarely missed their matches, which he followed with a keen relish and close knowledge of the game.

An exhibition of his collected works was held at Newcastle, December, 1895, the artist having died on August 28, 1895. In the catalogue of the exhibition fuller details are given as to his life and work, which we have no space to incorporate. Mr. H. H. Emmerson claimed relationship with Ralph Waldo Emerson, and though, doubtless, he came of the same original stock, as do all real Emersons, the relationship was probably very remote; at least, no proof whatever has been adduced to the contrary. The photograph, however, shows a family likeness to Emersons we have seen, and the Chester-le-Street Emmersons were doubtless originally Emerysons, and not Emmesons (vide Cursitor Rolls, etc.). On the athletic side of his character, the old forester blood comes out.—P. H. E.

(9) Emma Emerson, of Archway Road, London.

Asks me if I am related to the Emerson family, if there is money in the Emerson family, and if I am writing a book, tries to bargain for a copy for information. Declined with thanks.—P. H. E.

(10) Mark Emberson, of London, S.E.

(i.) Abraham of Great Waltham, Essex, ob. Dec. 1887, æt. 90 (contributor's grandfather). Believes his father and grandfather were farmers in the same county. He had a brother William at Great Waltham. Says his uncle is still a farmer in Essex, and sends me a cutting from Scott's "Pirate," from the end of Chapter XXIV., where occurs the name Emberson.—P. H. E.

(11) Ernest Sugden Emerson, of London, S.E.

(i.) James, b. at Bristol, where he was town clerk and owned a brass foundry called "The Castle Green Foundry." He entertained William IV. at Bristol. He had a brother Thomas who went to U.S.A. He m. (1) Hon. Miss Walcot, niece to Lord Lyons, and had one son, Dr. James Lay Emerson, now dead. (2) Charlotte Scofield Sugden; had issue, including the contributor; all the boys were christened "Sugden."

(ii.) Ernest Sugden Emerson. Has heard that a great-grandfather was hung in the Irish Rebellion. Has always spelt the name Emerson and claims no arms. Signed, E. S. Emerson, July 7, 1896. Mr. Emerson kindly sent me the copy of a letter he received from Ralf Waldo Emerson which proves that R. W. E. did not know his own pedigree beyond his grandfather.

(12) H. Emerson, of London, S.W.

Asks me for my pedigree, and tells me some Emersons in this part of the world have a pedigree that won't bear looking into (I think I know them), and promises me his pedigree. I sent mine, but have received no reply.—P. H. E.

(13) W. R. Emerson, London, S.W.

States that his people came from Buckinghamshire.

(i.) Robert Emerson, left issue:—(1) William, ob. 1877, æt. 34, m. Sarah Harmer, of Brixton. (2) Emma Anne, m. Robert Line, her cousin, of Bucks. (3) Susanna Esther, m. Goulding, of Dorsetshire. (4) Sarah Elizabeth, m. W. Henley, of Bucks, her cousin.

(ii.) William and Sarah Harmer left issue:—(1) William R. (the contributor), æt. 22, 1896, and six daughters. Has always spelt the name Emerson and claims no arms. Signed, W. R. Emerson, London, S.W., July 11, 1896.

(14) F. A. Emmerson, Willesden Green.

Has forwarded my circular to his eldest sister in America, but I have had no further information.—P. H. E.

(15) Arthur Emerson, Brentford.

Father came to Brentford from Cottenham, Cambs., about sixty years ago, and has recently died. Has always spelt the name Emerson, and claims no arms.

(16) William A. Emerson, London, S.W. (vide Fisher Emerson, of Bath, and Emerson, of London).

Question 1.—Vide pedigree of Fisher Emerson, of Bath, Mr. W. A. E. belongs to that family.—P. H. E.

Question 2.—Northumberland, but a very long time ago.

Question 3.—My own name has always been Emerson. Some members of the Emerson family for some reason or other assumed the name of Emerson-Tennent.

Question 5.—I used to know one young Emerson, a cousin or second cousin of mine, who went out to South America, where he had relatives of his own name (probably relatives of mine also, although unknown), but this young fellow died out there.

Question 6.—With Cooks, Pecks, Longs of Wootton-under-Edge, Gloucester, Keables of West Lavington, Dyers of somewhere, and Randalls of Devizes.

Question 7.—Not being well up in heraldry, I do not quite understand the meaning of this question. The family crest, I have always been taught, was a "sinister hand gules," i.e., a baron's hand. It appears thus in Warburton's book of crests, and also in Fairbairn's, where it is quoted as belonging to the county of Northumberland. My father, grandfather, and probably generations before them, had used this as a trade mark on sacks, etc. I have lately heard that an old seal is somewhere in existence in possession of some member of the family, in which the hand is charged with a heart, with the motto "Love truth." [There is no record of any such Emerson crest; it must have been a trade token.—P. H. E.]

P.S.—I have heard that an Emerson, a great-uncle or some such relative of mine, was a big man in the Spitalfields silk trade when that was in its palmy days. I have also heard that Kew Bridge "belonged" to an Emerson, another great-uncle or something of that kind. Also have hear tales of other Emersons, sailors who were shipwrecked, and men of thrilling adventures in the bush, who used to turn up unexpectedly in England in impecunious condition.

(i.) John Emmerson, b. at Cottenham, Cambs. Had issue:—

(ii.) (1) John Emmerson, b. 1812, at the same place. Had issue:—

(iii.) (1) John (the contributor), b. Jan. 4, 1844. (2) William. (3) Josiah. Both living.

The family are tall, powerful men. Has spelt the name Emmerson always. No arms. Signed, John Emmerson, Croydon, July, 1896.

(18) William Emerson, of The Sanctuary, Westminster, London, S.W.

A distinguished architect. His pedigree will be found in the Emersons of Bath (q.v.).

(19) Robert Emerson, Uxbridge Road, London, W.

Parents owned the original "Old Hat" at Ealing. Father's brother went abroad. Brother George in the Royal Marines at Chatham. He served in the Egyptian campaign of 1897. Sisters living—(1) Jane. (2) Mary Ann. (3) Elizabeth. (4) Isabella, ob. in 1896. Signed, R. Emerson, Dec. 3, 1897.

Kelly's London, Suburban and Middlesex Directories, 1895; (Middlesex), London and Suburbs (1896). The addresses are therefore often counted twice over. Emersons 59, Emmersons 37, Embersons 7 = 103.

(1) Thomas G. Emerson, M.D., Ch.M. Queen's University, Ireland, of Wantage.

(ii.) Thomas, lived at Hilton Park, Clones, Co. Monaghan. His grandfather was a keen sportsman, but unlucky in horse-racing. He left issue:—(1) Thomas, emigrated to Australia (Sydney?) circa 1845—50. (2) John (vide infra), lived at Amchurch House, Clones, b. circa 1820, ob. circa 1884. (3) Mary, spinster, ob. circa 1886.

(iii.) John, m. Ann Sharpe, b. Co. Cavan, Ireland, circa 1836, and had issue:—(1) Thomas Gilbert Emerson, M.D. (2) John, surgeon at Saltaire, Yorks. (3) J. S. Emerson (broker), living at Washington, U.S.A. (4) ——. (5) ——. (6) ——.

(iv.) Thos. Gilbert Emerson, M.D., m. Mary Evelyn Provis. No issue. The family came from Co. Monaghan, Ireland. Educated at Carmichael Sch. of Med., Dublin; Richmond and Mercer Hospitals, Dublin; Trinity Coll., Dublin, and Queen's Coll., Galway. First Prizeman in Anatomy, Physiology, Surgery, Mat. Medica, Medical Jurisprudence at Carmichael Sch. of Med., Dublin. Claims no arms, but says his father did, but does not know on what grounds. Always spelt name Emerson. Signed, Thos. G. Emerson, Wantage, July 13, 1896.

(2) David Emerson, of Newport Pagnell.

Family originally belonged to Bletchley (Bucks), and many generations lived there. His father and uncle lived there too, and were copyholders, and had to beat the bounds once in three years for custom. They once omitted to do this, and so rendered their title void, and the land reverted to the lord of the manor, Sir P. P. Duncomb. In trying to dispute the point, it was found that they had held the land for ten generations, but it was of no avail. Name always spelt Emerson.

(i.) John Emerson, brother of Thomas, m. twice. 1. 1st wife, and had issue:—(1) John. (2) Thomas. (3) George, who was at the battle of Waterloo. (4) William. 2. 2nd wife, and they had issue:—(1) James, ob. at Bletchley. (2) Mary Anne, ob. at London. (3) Elizabeth, ob. at Salford (Beds). (4) Robert, ob. at Salford (Beds). (5) Daniel, ob. at Bletchley. (6) David, b. 1802, ob. at Newport Pagnell, 1861.

(ii.) David (father of contributor), youngest son of John, b. 1802, ob. 1861. Had issue:

CO. KENT.

(1) R. Joynes Emmerson, of Sandwich, Kent.

Born 1812. Has always spelt the name Emmerson, and there is a tradition that his ancestors came from Yorkshire. Signed, R. Joynes Emmerson, Sandwich, June 18, 1896.

Does not claim arms, but uses a demi-lion with battle-axe as crest, such as was never granted to any Emerson, let alone Emmerson, none of whom have ever been granted arms.—P. H. E.

(2) Captain T. Emerson, Ramsgate, Kent.

Was for many years in the service of the Trinity House, London. Was 19 years in command of one of their steam vessels, and for 28 years superintendent of the Great Yarmouth district, inspecting lighthouses, light-vessels, buoys and surveying sands in the vicinity as required. Has a son in command of one of the Trinity House steamers. His grandfather came from Lincolnshire, and has always spelt his name Emerson and does not claim any arms. Thinks he is connected with a branch of Emersons formerly well known at Watton, in Norfolk.

(ii.) Thomas Griggs, who had issue:—

(3) Mrs. Mary Emerson, Ramsgate, Kent.

Married eldest son of Captain T. Emerson, of Ramsgate. Her husband now dead. Signed, M. Emerson, Ramsgate, July 5, 1896.

(4) Jacob Emerson, Swanley, Kent.

(i.) John Emerson, b. 1755, buried 1839, at. 84. Born and buried at Tittleshall, Norfolk. John Emerson m. Mary ?, b. 1762, buried 1846, at. 84. These extracts are from the Tittleshall Parish Register. They left issue:—

(ii.) Father, b. at Tittleshall, Norfolk, March, 1793, ob. at Ryburgh, Norfolk, 1871. He left issue, eighteen children, seven of whom are alive, but the only surviving son besides contributor is ———, who has no issue. One sister m. Donath, another m. Hurst. There are some of the name who claim relationship in Sydney, N.S.W., but knows nothing of them. Father's brother William was an army pensioner, D.S.P. One of father's sisters m. Spendlove.

(iii.) Jacob Emerson (the contributor), m. Annie Mace, and has issue:—(1) Ernest Edward, et. 29, of Swanley, married. (2) Rowland, et. 26, of Swanley, married. (3) Alice, et. 28, spinster. (4) Mary, et. 16, spinster. Is manager of Army and Navy Stores, and has been for 25 years. Has given much evidence and done much work on the railway rates controversy, see Blue Books, 1889, 1890, 1891. (1) Major-General Alexander Emerson, of Collake House, Taunton.

The following notes are based on Burke's account, but revised and brought up to date from notes kindly supplied me by Major-General Alexander Lyon Emerson, and my own researches.

Lineage.—One of the earliest records of this Lincolnshire family is the will, proved 1605—6, of Alexander, the son of George Emerson. He appears to have been father of five sons. One of which,

Robert Emerson, of Glamford Briggs, Co. Lincoln, m. Elinor Wainwright, and was father of

Alexander Emerson, Esq., of Caistor and Glamford Briggs, an eminent barrister, who

* I received a letter from a member of this family in Nova Scotia who used Ralf's (of Foxton) arms with Sir James Emerson-Tennent's motto, "Deus protector noster." No person originating from Lincolnshire has any claim to arms granted to a Durham family, nor claim to another man's motto; this is obviously the work of the "awindling heraldic stationer," and the writer will pardon my calling attention to such folly. Mr. Emerson, of Bognor, however, himself claims no arms, and since the family hail from Lincolnshire, if they are entitled to arms, there is obviously but one coat to which they are entitled.—P. H. m. in 1666 his cousin, (1) Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Alexander Emerson, of Glamford Briggs, and had a numerous family by his three wives, the eldest son of which was :

Thomas Emerson, Esq., of Grimsby and Caistor, b. in 1628, who m. Mildred Saunderson, only dau. of George, third Viscount Castleton, and dying in 1667, was succeeded by his son,

Thomas Emerson, Esq., of Caistor, Adm. 1710, who m. Isabel Ascough in 1686 and left issue :

Alexander Emerson, Esq. ^o of Caistor, who m. Alice, sole heiress of George Wharton, Esq., of Retford, Notts, and had two sons :—

Thomas, who D.S.P., and Alexander Emerson, Esq., of Caistor, who succeeded under the will of G. Wharton, Esq., to the estate of West Retford, Co. Nottingham. He m. Elizabeth, second dau. and co-heiress of the Rev. Thomas Bosvile, rector of Ufford, Co. Northampton, by Elizabeth, his wife, sister and co-heir of John Bolle, Esq., of Thorpe Hall, Co. Lincoln, and by this lady (who m. secondly, in 1745, the Rev. Stephen Ashton, vicar of Louth) had issue :—(1) Alexander, heir (vide infra). (2) Wharton (Sir), Bart. and M.P., of East Retford House, Notts, and Kettlethorpe Park, Co. Lincoln, b. at Hackthorne, Co. Lincoln, in Feb., 1739—40, m. first, April 16, 1762, Anna Maria, eldest dau. and co-heir of Vincent Amcotts, Esq., of Harrington and Aistrop, Co. Lincoln, assumed in consequence the surname of Amcotts, and was created a Baronet in 1796; he had by her an only dau., Elizabeth, m. in 1780 to Sir John Ingilby, Bart., of Ripley. Sir Wharton m. secondly Amelia Teresa Campbell, and by her had one dau., Sophia Louisa, m. in 1826 to Matthew Wilson, Esq., of Eshton Hall, Co. York. Sir Wharton ob. in 1808. (3) Elizabeth, m. to Thomas Massingberd, Esq., of Gunby Park, Co. Lincoln.

The heir, Alexander Emerson, Esq., of West Retford House, Co. Notts, b. 1743, m. Susannah, second dau. (and co-heiress with her sister, Anne, wife of Major John Clutterbuck, Esq., of Warkworth, Co. Northumberland) of Captain Patrick Lyon, of East Thetford, a descendant of the noble house of Strathmore, and left (with a dau., Harriet Lyona, m. first to Joseph Cavie, Esq., and secondly to Colonel Campbell) a son and successor, Alexander Lyon Emerson, Esq., M.D., of West Retford House, Notts, and of Ulverscroft Abbey, Co. Leicester, also of Cumberworth and Thorpe, Co. Lincoln, and Gasington, Co. Durham, b. May 10, 1770, who entered the army March 5, 1795, and served throughout the campaigns in Holland, Egypt, Spain, Cape of Good Hope, etc. In 1817 he was one of the few promoted by the Prince Regent to the rank of deputy inspector of hospitals. Dr. Emerson was a good botanist and musician, playing extremely well on the organ. The organist to George III. bequeathed him a bust of Handel, now in Major-General Lyon Emerson's possession. Dr. Emerson m. Elizabeth, dau. of — Hunsdon, Esq., of Maldon, Co. Essex, and has issue :—(1) Alexander Lyon, his heir (vide infra). (2) William Henry, of Cumberworth and Thorpe, Co. Grace Emerson, Rostrevor, July 10, 1896.

Miss Grace Emerson has a tradition that her great-great-grandfather was an Englishman, who came over with William III and fought at the battle of the Boyne and settled in Ulster. Sir J. Emerson-Tennent claimed kindred with her grandfather.

Miss Emerson has sent me a volume of poems by her two uncles, Joseph Martin and Ruthven Emerson, entitled "Lays of the Deep" (London: Marlborough & Co., 1878). These brothers were both water-colour artists as well. Joseph Martin was ever a rover on the sea, in which he finally found his grave (July, 1849), and Ruthven was a stay-at-home, never leaving Rostrevor. Of the two writers, Joseph appears to me the better, and his poems are distinctly good, showing keen observation and knowledge of the sea and ships, a certain power of expression, and a great love of nature. These poems, if not of first rank, are a long way ahead of much of the writing of the "minor poets" given in Mr. Traill's article, but these brothers knew nothing of, and cared less for, log-rolling and booming. I must refer the reader to the volume itself. The drawings of Ruthven are rather formal, but he has a good sense of colour and decoration, lacking only the exquisite draughtsmanship which proclaims the master.

RUTHVEN EMERSON, born 1810, ob. 1880.
From a painting by himself.

Miss Emerson's brother, whose portrait is here given, is an able and distinguished officer, whose record I append in brief.

Major John Emerson, Commandant of the Military Police Corps, Provost Marshal of the Army, at present on the staff of His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, the General Officer commanding Aldershot, was born at Rostrevor, Co. Down, in the year 1847. He was educated at Dr. Stackpole's Academy, Kingstown, and at Major Mark E. Frost's

Academy, Portsmouth. He joined the Royal Navy in 1865, and received his commission as Paymaster in July, 1869. He served in the Lion, guardship at Greenock, and H.M.S. Bristol flagship of Admiral Sir G. Hornby on the west coast of Africa, and the Vestal, Investigator, "Dr. Livingstone's old ship," and on many others on the north coast of America, West Indies, west coast of Ireland for a number of years. He left the Navy in 1871, and joined the 5th Princess Charlotte of Wales Dragoon Guards, commonly called the "Green Horse." He was employed on the recruiting staff, London, for some years, and obtained the regimental rank of Orderly Room Sergeant-Major before volunteering for active service on the outbreak of the Egyptian campaign, 1882. He accompanied Lord Wolseley through the campaign as the Sergeant-Major of the Combined Military Mounted and Foot Police, and took part in the battle of Tel-El-Keber and the advance on and the capture of Cairo. He was attached to the staff of Sir General Graham, V.C., K.C.B., during the first Eastern Soudan Campaign, 1884, and was present at the landing of the troops at Triukitat, the battle of El-Teb, the relief of Tokat, the reconnaissance of El-Dubar and Affaffect, the battle of Tamai, the destruction of Osman Digna's village, and the affairs of Tamach and Handoub. He was mentioned in despatches in the London Gazette of the 24th of May, 1884, and was awarded the distinguished conduct medal for gallantry in the field, with two dates, (1) Feb. 29 and (2) March 13, 1884. He served on Lord Wolseley's staff during the whole of the Nile Expedition until the evacuation of Soudan. In Sept., 1885, he was commissioned Quartermaster on the staff of the Army, and appointed Assistant Provost Marshal at the Curragh Camp, Ireland. In 1886 he was appointed to the commission of the peace for the town of Belfast, and during the riots of this year was dangerously wounded whilst endeavouring to protect the life of a man. He was Governor of the Military Prison, Curragh Camp, from 1885 to 1894. He was awarded the Royal Society medal for saving life from fire, 1891. The decorations in Major Emerson's possession are: the Egyptian medal with four clasps, distinguished conduct medal, Khedive's star, Humane Society medal. He was strongly recommended by His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge twice for the Albert medal for saving life, also for the medjidie of the 4th Class for service in Egypt. Major Emerson was appointed the rank of Major on the 19th of Sept., 1895.

Thomas Emerson, B.A. (Cantab.), of Serajganj, Eastern Bengal.

Came from Galway, Ireland, where his father, a builder, is at present living. His family has resided in the county of Clare, at Corofin, since early in the seventeenth century. His father was born there in 1824 and m. Miss Roberts in 1839. His paternal grandfather was born at the same place circa 1790. His mother's father lived at Parsonstown, and her mother was Sidney Catherine Macmahon, a famous beauty. Through the Maemahons, lands in Clare came to his mother's brother. Has always spelt the name Emerson and claims no arms. Signed, Thomas Emerson, Serajganj, Eastern Bengal, Aug. 9, 1896.

Mr. Thomas Emerson, an Indian Civil servant, was educated at Clongowes Wood College, the Royal University of Ireland, and Emmanuel College, Cambridge, where he graduated B.A. After the examination of 1873, he was appointed to Bengal, where he arrived Dec. 23, 1874, and serves in Bengal as assistant magistrate and collector (vide Indian Official List, 1896).

CHAPTER VI.*

Emersons of Ipswich, Mass., and Hertfordshire.

DR. PAULINE E. CANFIELD, 1896.
Ob. 1897.

ABOUT three years ago, Dr. P. E. Canfield, my cousin, the enthusiastic genealogist of the registered branch of the Ipswich (Mass.) Emersons, wrote to me and asked me the following questions:—

(1) Who was Ralf of Foxton, what was his pedigree, and what relation was he to the Ipswich Emersons who claim his arms?

(2) Who was Thomas of Bradbury? what relation was he to Ralf of Foxton and to the Ipswich Emersons?

(3) Whether I could find out whence Thomas of Ipswich emigrated in England?

Dr. Canfield informed me Professor B. K. Emerson had spent twelve years searching everything in America, and that nobody knew whence the Ipswich Emersons had come, though it was said Co. Durham, and suggested Thomas of Bradbury and Thomas of Ipswich were identical.

These simple questions, which it has taken me exactly three years' hard and unremitting work to answer, gave rise to this book. At the start I luckily made the acquaintance of

* This chapter was written after the book had gone to press.—P. H. E.

Colonel J. P. Steel, R.E., who had for some years been working at a history of his own family, and he gave me much valuable help. The London Library was put under levy for books, and I began with zeal. I soon found nothing whatever was known of Thomas, of Ipswich, as regards his English life; and although Colonel Steel warned me it was very "chastening work," this genealogy—I should call it heart-breaking—I determined to solve these questions, and after I had in a year amassed a certain amount of information, I printed it in a little tentative pamphlet, entitled "Rough Notes on the Emerson Clan" (1896), to be distributed privately and to serve the purpose of occupying the ground, and of circulating with a view to gaining further information and corrections of errors. Like most of my brother genealogists, I soon began to find what absurd and often vain "family traditions" people perpetuate, and, worse than that, that many of the publications containing pedigrees of the better class were absolutely untrustworthy. On proving a pedigree given in Burke was spurious, I determined to trust nobody and believe nothing unsupported by legal evidence. But, alas! I made this discovery after the publication of my "Rough Notes," in which I had naively assumed certain printed pedigrees were trustworthy, and consequently based some of my suggestions thereupon. When I had learnt the ropes fairly well, I determined to pass every English county and Scotland and Ireland through a coarse-meshed strainer, as it were, feeling sure I should thus find answers to my questions—as I have done. In June, 1897, Professor B. K. Emerson sent me advance proofs of his "Emersons in America." I begged him to omit the chapter on "Emersons in England," warning him that I had discovered certain printed pedigrees were spurious, and that therefore some of my suggestions in "Rough Notes" were no longer to be entertained; in effect, that his matter on the "Emersons in England" was worthless, and calculated to harm the good work he had done on the "Emersons in America;" but he declined to listen to my advice and to correct some matters which were mere idle conjecture, and it is a matter for regret that he took this view of the matter, for my last and latest discovery proves the fallacy of his theories as to the origin of the Ipswich Emersons.

But to return. After nearly three years' hard work, my whole time being given up to the subject, I have partially succeeded in settling the Ralf of Foxton problem, so far as, I fear, it ever will be settled, in proving that there were three Thomases of Bradbury, and that he was not related to Ralf of Foxton, that neither of the three Thomases of Bradbury emigrated to Massachusetts, that they were descendants of William Emerson, of Southwark, Co. Surrey, bowyer, and were in no way connected with any Durham family, so far as is known. I had passed every county except Herts and Essex through my strainer, and only awaited a few documents to finish my rough search of them. When I got so near the end of my allotted task, I determined to print the book, and Mr. D. Nutt sent out prospectuses, advertising its probable publication in March, 1898. As I had to be ready for the printer, I advertised a reward of £15 in the new Genealogical Magazine, June, 1897, for the baptism certificates of the children of Thomas and Elizabeth Emerson, who emigrated to Ipswich, Mass., circa 1638. When my MS. went to the printers in February, 1898, I had a few registers remaining to be searched between 1615 and 1635—some dozen in Essex and three or four in Co. Herts.

On March 4, 1898, I wrote to Mr. F. Johnson, of Great Yarmouth, who has done a good deal of work for me, and asked him to go to Herts and Essex for me at once and search some dozen registers. He was at the time very busy, and wrote me in reply on March 5, 1898:—

DEAR DR. EMERSON,—I really am afraid I ought not to say I am willing to go to Herts and Essex, because I have not yet been to Lincoln and am not sure when I can go there as I am fairly busy here for some time. What part of Herts or Essex is it? Yours faithfully, (Signed) FRED. JOHNSON.

In reply, I told him various parishes in and about Bishop's Stortford, Co. Herts, and Great Dunmow in Essex, and that I should ask him to start at Bishop's Stortford. He was unfortunately unable to go, so I posted reward notices to all the Essex parishes, and wrote to Mr. W. Brigg, Editor of the Herts Genealogist, on Friday, March 11, Miss Walford, whom I had asked to look for any transcripts of Bishop's Stortford, Stondon and Sawbridgeworth at Somerset House, having told me of him. A copy of the letter to Mr. Brigg may be of interest, and is here printed, together with a "reward bill."

£15 REWARD. The above reward will be paid to the first person who supplies certified copies of the baptisms of Joseph, John, James, Elizabeth and Nathaniel, children of Thomas and Elizabeth Emerson, born between 1615 and 1635. Nathaniel born 1631. Clergymen will find it worth while to examine their register of baptisms for the above period in hopes of finding the information required. The above reward will be paid by P. H. EMERSON, B.A., M.B. (Cantab.), The Nook, Oulton Broad, Lowestoft, to whom communications should be addressed.

THE NOOK, OULTON BROAD, LOWESTOFT, MAR. 10, 1898.

DEAR SIR,—Miss Walford has mentioned your name to me as an authority on Herts and Essex. In the first place I enclose a bill of a reward I am offering for certain baptisms. These people are Ralf Waldo Emerson's ancestors, who emigrated to Ipswich, Mass., U.S.A., circa 1638. Now I have traced Emersons to Herts and Essex, and I think very probably Essex or Herts is the county whence they emigrated. I have traced Emersons to Standon (Herts), Bishop's Stortford, Sawbridgeworth. Perhaps you have access to printed registers of these places and could look through the indexes. Also to various places in Suffolk.* I should be glad to hear from you if you could help, and be glad also to pay the reward if you could find what I require. Yours very truly, (Signed) P. H. EMERSON.

— Brigg, Esq.

To my great joy, on the Sunday following (March 13) I received, about ten o'clock in the morning, the following telegram† :—

Harpenden, 9.4 a.m.	9.30 a.m.	Stamp. Postal Emerson, The Nook, Oulton Broad, Lowestoft.
Eureka, will obtain certificates to-morrow. Brigg.

And I knew the last problem was at last solved and my work done, for I knew Mr. Brigg was to be relied upon. Mr. Brigg went to Bishop's Stortford on Monday and bespoke the certificates, and sent them on after his letter of how he was fortunate enough to discover them, an extract of which I append :—

HARPENDEN, HERTS, 13 Mar., 1898.

DEAR SIR,—I am very much obliged to Miss Walford for mentioning my name to you, and more especially as I think the information I can give will be interesting. I am pleased also to think that another distinguished American will be able to trace his ancestry back to Hertfordshire. Quite recently I was instrumental in tracing Mr. Secretary Olney's ancestors at St. Albans. I have a large collection of genealogical information relating to this county, and late last night came across the following items. (Here follows all entries of the name Emerson to 1612.) The above are all from the registers of Bishop's Stortford and I think must be what you want. I sent you a wire this morning announcing my discovery, and will go in to Stortford to-morrow to obtain the certificates you require and shall be pleased to accept the reward you have offered. Yours faithfully, (Signed) WILLIAM BRIGG.

I paid Mr. Brigg the reward as I had promised on the receipt of the certified copies of the entries, attested by Mr. Lane, the Vicar of St. Michael's Church, Bishop's Stortford.

So after hard and serious work all over England, success was reserved for the last moment and for one of the smallest counties in England. I was, I may say, led to think Bishop's Stortford "very likely" from Robert's, of Bishop's Stortford, will, and I had also actually examined Mr. Glascock's printed "Churchwardens' Accounts" before I wrote to Mr. Brigg; in fact, I was following my usual method of searching all extant registers (between 1615 and 1635) of any parish to which any record led me; and, curiously, I had sent a searcher to Much Hadham, the next parish, a year before. Bishop's Stortford, then, is the English home of the Ipswich Emersons, and I presume it will in future be added to the list of shrines which

* This is a clerical slip for Essex.

† A curious matter in this connection is that the telegram was wrongly dated. It was stamped March 12, or Saturday's date, instead of Sunday, March 13, which had it not been a mere matter of genealogy, but of legal importance, might have proved serious; but villagers in Suffolk are always sleepy.

American visitors to this country never miss. I am unable to give more than the accompanying pedigree and to say that Robert Emerson owned a freehold property some twelve acres in extent in Bishop's Stortford, called Muggle's Dale, and that Thomas, his eldest son, acted as collector for the poor of Bishop's Stortford in 1636, proving, therefore, he did not emigrate in the Elizabeth and Anne in 1635, as Professor B. K. Emerson states tradition has it, and which I have previously pointed out I very much doubted. There is no description of Thomas' occupation in the register. His wife was one Elizabeth Brewster, as will be seen by the pedigree—possibly a relation of William Brewster, the famous Pilgrim Father; but these and other matters I must reserve for a small and detailed work I shall write later on "The Emersons of Co. Herts and U.S.A." and fully illustrate—tracing Thomas' ancestors in the direct line as far back as I can, and giving every detail I can obtain of the family's life at Bishop's Stortford. This work I shall begin at once. I think I can descry the William and Mary who owned the silver cup which Mr. E. D. Emerson, of Waltham, possesses, and believe James Emerson, the son who did not go to Massachusetts, to be Lieut.-Colonel James Emerson, of Tangiers, W.P. 1664, as I had previously thought, and that Robert is the son of Thomas, of Great Dunmow, in Essex, and was baptized there in 1561. Great Dunmow is only seven or eight miles from Stortford, and I think, as I have previously stated, all these Herts and Essex Emersons are descendants of George and Alice Emerson, who held lands at Stanstead Montfichet in 1516; but as I have not at present proofs of the identities, etc., I will conjecture no more. It will be seen two of the dates of the baptism of Thomas's children were conjectured aright in America, viz., Joseph in 1620 and John 1625, and it is a great pity Professor B. K. Emerson ever meddled with the Hammett papers, and suggested John, who emigrated in 1635, æt. 25, was John, the son of Thomas. He was not, as I have already pointed out. Nor are there the additional children, viz., Thomas, Jun., and Sarah, as suggested by Professor B. K. Emerson. I have said before in this book that there was not an atom of proof to suppose the view that there were such children, and it is now plain that he had no such children. It is evident, too, that the age on Nathaniel's gravestone is incorrect. He is given as æt. 83, whereas he was born in 1630 and ob. 1712, æt. 82. The four additional children will come as a surprise. And, lastly, now we are a generation nearer Ralf of Foxton, we may speculate on the arms carved on Nathaniel's tombstone. Robert, if the Robert baptized at Great Dunmow in 1561, and if related to Ralf of Foxton, will be a grandson. That he was connected with well-to-do people I believe, for William Emerson, W.P. 1533, was lord of Doos Manor in Standon, as was his son Richard, W.P. 1562; and I may say I think Mr. Ed. D. Emerson's silver cup probably belonged to William and Mary Emerson, of Doos Manor, Standon. The cup was probably the work of a goldsmith, John Daniel, who worked 1530 to 1550 (Cripps); but proofs of this relationship must be sought. The possession of the cup by Thomas, son of Robert, is, however, primâ facie evidence. I may say that Mr. Ed. D. Emerson, of Waltham, now the owner of the cup, is the only member of the family who had a correct idea whence the family came, for in a letter to me, dated March 8, 1898, he says:—

"Thomas himself was one of the best educated men in the Colony, and a man of considerable pecuniary means. I should perhaps think that he came from the neighbourhood of London; of this I have no record, but that his family as well as himself were people of education and refinement would seem to point to the metropolis rather than the country."

And he proves to be correct. The Durham theory does not seem to have had any weight with him. I may say the statement by Professor B. K. Emerson in a letter to Dr. Canfield, that he had record of the property owned by Thomas Emerson in Weardale, and that he had letters giving the tradition some hundred years old, obviously require explanation, for these statements misled me considerably, and caused me an enormous amount of work, which I should never have otherwise undertaken, as also the statements, without an atom of proof, published by Mr. Egglestone, a local antiquary in Weardale. As I have said, I am under the impression Ralf of Foxton left Durham before 1575, when a Visitation of the county was held, for unless he died sine prole before that date, some of his descendants would surely have claimed the arms in 1575.

Joseph was then 18 in 1638, John 13, Nathaniel 8, Elizabeth 15 and Susan 6. The earliest register of Bishop's Stortford is unfortunately lost, the present register beginning in 1561, but the first Emerson entry is 1578—the marriage of Robert Emerson and S. Crabbe. For the benefit of English readers, we may repeat that Ralf Waldo Emerson is the direct lineal descendant of Joseph Emerson (Rev. Joseph, of Mendon), baptized at Bishop's Stortford, June 25, 1620.

(Interior.)

On May 2 I went down to Bishop's Stortford and made the acquaintance of the courteous antiquary of the town, Mr. J. L. Glascock, Grange Road. Mr. Glascock was extremely kind to me and together we walked out to "Muggle's Dale," a field on the extreme northern limit of the town, on the very borders of Herts and Essex. Robert and his son Thomas's house he could not at present identify, but Mr. Glascock pointed out to me that a Robert had a house in the South Street in 1642 which returned no communicants, i.e., they were nonconformists, and he suggests the house was on the west side of South Street and recently pulled down. On Tuesday, May 3, I went to early service in the old church where our ancestors were married, baptized and some of them buried. Mr. Glascock tells me it is in much the same state it was in in 1637—8, when they emigrated—all above the clock in the steeple only being new. We then in the presence of the Rev. H. T. Lane, the courteous Vicar, examined the register; the entries of the baptisms of the children of Thos. and Eliz. who emigrated 1637—8 are beautifully and clearly written. Of the four additional children not hitherto known there was record of two only up to 1660, which was as far as we searched—Benjamin, died in infancy, and Ralf who fell from a tree and was killed in 1626, at. 11. This fact is registered with his burial. Mr. W. Brigg and Mr. J. L. Glascock* intend shortly printing the Parish Register with the Vicar's leave, whilst the Vicar will send certificated copies of the entries to anyone paying the usual fees, or will show the register to anyone on payment of the usual fees. Mr. Glascock says there are no gravestones left with any of the family names thereon, and he has kindly permitted me to say he will be glad to see any antiquarian pilgrims at his house. Mr. Glascock tells me he discovered that Major-General Denison, whom it will be remembered was mentioned in Thomas of Ipswich's will as his friend, emigrated from Bishop's Stortford too, so they probably knew each other in England. At present there is no record known which gives Thomas Emerson's occupation at Bishop's Stortford.

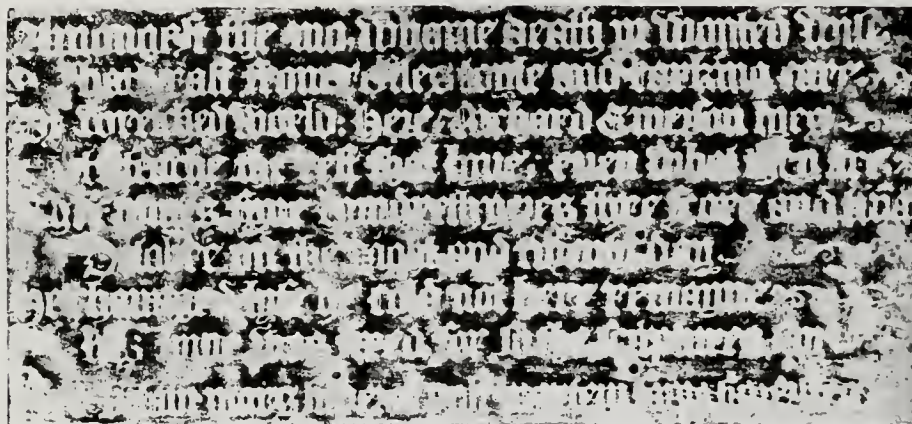

I am now inclined to think all the Emersons who emigrated to the United States, except John of the Abigail, 1625, were connected. The Rowley Emersons were probably descendants of Robert, s. of Robert, whom I have lost sight of, or of Robert, brother of Thomas, and the Haverhill Emersons were also probably connected with this family, for they were described as "leather-sealers" or "stampers."

* Mr. J. L. Glascock's "Records of St. Michael's Church, Bishop's Stortford," can now be obtained of Mr. Boardman, printer, of Bishop's Stortford, Co. Herts (price 5s.), and doubtless he will obtain the register for anyone when printed.

(Thos. Emerson was collector here in 1636.)

I walked along the silver thread, the Stort, to the breezy and pretty town of Sawbridgeworth; and another day I spent in exploring Standon and Much Hadham—places situated in valleys amid the rolling green hills of Hertfordshire. At Standon I was able to make this rubbing of the brass over Richard Emerson's grave, but the brass is so dented and bent, that it is very imperfect.

Rubbing of brass to Richard Emerson in Standon Church, Co. Herts.

The wording is already printed under Emersons of Co. Herts. Bishop's Stortford is within half an hour's ride from London, and Americans visiting it will find the old "George" comfortable—an historic old inn. From this centre they can explore the neighbourhood, and drive or cycle over to Standon, Much Hadham, Sawbridgeworth, Thorley and Great Dunmow, all places where the Emersons owned property in early days. I trust they will have better weather than the first "native"—myself—who returned to the home of his ancestors had. One walk was for sixteen miles in rain and mud and wind. I made a short entry in the visitors' book of the "return of the native," which my successors may see.

We were only enabled to search the Stortford register up to 1660, and found no further children of Robert, Junior. As I have said, however, Messrs. Brigg and Glascock are about to print the register, and we shall then know if there are any other recorded Emersons, but I fear not, and think that the remaining progeny of Robert, Jun. (if any), will be found in London, with which I have reason to believe the family were connected, and I hope in my new work referred to to clear the matter up. Should it turn out the Rowley and Haverhill Emersons are not connected with the Bishop's Stortford Emersons, as I submit, I fear I shall not discover their origin. John, son of Robert, Sen., is obviously not the Abigail emigrant, who emigrated in 1635, et. 20, therefore born in 1615 (lic. to go beyond the seas), therefore, not John, son of Robert, Sen., of Bishop's Stortford (vide pedigree).

The first Emersons to emigrate to America were the Virginian Emersons, viz., Ellis Emerson and his wife and child, Thomas, et. 11, in 1623, who went with two servants to Martin's Hundred; obviously there were other children, for in 1624 Hotten gives further record: Alice and Robert, children of Mr. Emerson, died at Martin's Hundred—obviously the same Ellis Emerson. I could find no Ellis Emerson, but just before this chapter was sent to press, Mr. Ellison, churchwarden of St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, sent me the following record of an Ellis Emerson occurring in the St. Margaret's Parish Register, Westminster. It is the only Ellis Emerson I have except the Virginian.

Now $11 + 1613 = 1624$, the date of emigration, when Thomas is given as aged 11. The Rowley and Agnes may be misspellings in the register or American record for Robert and Alice who died in Virginia in 1624, which, if this be the same family, still leaves an error to be corrected in the date of baptism of Agnes. Errors were frequent in these registers, and are frequent in their indexes now, and this Ellis is probably the emigrant; but the matter requires investigation, which cannot be undertaken now, as this chapter must needs go to press at once. I shall endeavour to clear the matter up in the small work I have already spoken of above.

The following notes and tracing of "Muggle's Dale," the field owned by Robert, of Stortford, and inherited by his son Thomas, of Ipswich, were kindly supplied by Mr. G. L. Glascock, and the two photographs were taken by his son, T. B. Glascock for this work, and my thanks are due to both for their great kindness.

ADDENDA.

Frontispiece (portrait).—The engraver has shaded the charges on the bend wrongly, they should be argent.

Cap. I. To p. 2.—The Coram Rege Roll, Mich., 17 Ed. IV., m. 65, gives us a John Emerson, yeoman, at Jafford, Co. Yorks. (1477). In the De Banco Rolls, 17 Hen. VII., roll 136, 15 Hen. VII., m. 419 dors., 17 Hen. VII., m. 430 dors., 23 Hen. VII., m. 82, we find George Emerson acting attorney for various persons in Notts, Yorks and Northumberland, and in 7 Hen. VIII., m. 568, we find this George licensed to lands in Co. Essex. So this George et Alice ux must be added to Emersons (p. 6) in various English Counties before 1525, to wit, to Co. York and Essex. And this George was apparently of considerable influence and social position—a lawyer of some sort (vide Emersons of Co. Essex and Herts). And the more one enquires into the early history of the family the more possible does it seem that it originated in Co. York, from Alan fil Emerie and Brian his son, who are mentioned in Richmond Domesday, vide p. 1, Cap. I.

Cap. II. It will be noticed in the Richmond Herald's certified copy of Ralf of Foxton's arms, he says, “Ralf of Foxton, in the Bishopric of Durham.” Now it has since occurred to me that the possible solution of the Ralf of Foxton identity is this—that he was not a Durham man at all but a Yorkshire man and hailed from the Yorkshire Foxton, which was in 26^o Hen. VIII. in the “Bishopric of Durham,” though not in the County of Durham, and curiously enough in Yorkshire Fines, Record Series, Vol. VII., p. 103, we find Ralf Emerson, of Sigston, Co. Yorks, which adjoins Foxton, Co. Yorks. I have said under “Emersons of Co. York” that Ralf, of Northallerton, was probably identical with Ralf of Romanby (Humberstone's Survey); his will, proved 1597, is given in the Appendix, wherein a second wife, Isabel, and a dau. are mentioned, and this Ralf, of Northallerton, is distinctly described in his will as a yeoman and he came from Sedgfield. I think on consideration that probably Ralf of Sigston and Foxton, Co. York, and this man were not identical, as I suggested, and possibly Ralf of Sigston and Foxton is the long-lost armiger. Ralf, of Northallerton and Romanby, certainly was not an armiger. I hope to clear the matter up later, but as this new theory has struck me in time to make a note but not to investigate it. I print it. The Chancery Proceedings show Ralf, of Shotton, and his issue were not armigerous, i.e., they were yeomen, vide Chancery Proceedings (App.), and surely in legal proceedings and in their wills they would not have been described as yeomen if they were gentlemen, as I have all along suggested. Further thought too leads me to conclude that Ralf, of Brancepeth, W.P. 1581, was not the son of Ralf, of Shotton, W.D. 1561. His son was obviously Ralf, of Hollcoats, mentioned in Humberstone's Survey, and is most probably the Ralf bur. at Staindrop, 1540, probably dying sine prole. I conjecture that Ralf, of Sigston and Foxton, may now have been the son of George et Alice (Wyatt?) mentioned repeatedly in the De Banco Rolls, who migrated to Essex from Co. York; and if this should prove correct, it looks more than ever as if the early Essex and Herts Emersons were armigerous, and therefore the Emersons of Ipswich, Mass., were, as they claim to be, relatives of Ralf of Foxton, armiger. But all this must be proved and I give here a working hypothesis and a tentative pedigree, upon which lives further research may be carried out by those interested.

Should this prove to turn out correct all would be explained. William is called gent. in the Inq. P.M. and so is his son Richard; this is not proof but probability that they were armigerous. Richard obviously dies sine prole, vide his will and the Inq. P.M. Here would be the William and Mary of the silver cup taken to the United States in 1638 (vide p. 12). Gt. Dunmow Register begins 1538 and there are no Emersons baps. till 1561, when Robert, son of Thomas, appears; obviously this Thomas moved there from elsewhere. Bishop's Stortford Register begins 1561, but there are no Emersons until Robert's marriage to Susan Crabbe, of Bishop's Stortford, in 1578; obviously Robert moved there on his marriage, and is in all likelihood identical with Robert, of Gt. Dunmow, b. 1561. William, of Standon, and Ric., his son, were obviously stout Roman Catholics, probably Ralf was as stout a Protestant, They may have quarrelled and the Stortford family been disinherited on this account. The "medal" in the possession of Sir John Evans suggests Ralf the armiger and his descendants were Protestants. Robert, of Stortford, was obviously an extreme Protestant, as we know his son Robert was, being returned as a "non-communicant," and Thomas' emigration to Ipswich was solely on this account. It is quite possible the relationships of this family may turn out differently, but I feel sure all the above are related and descendants of George and Alice (Wyatt?) who came into Essex in 1509—11. But I repeat all the above is merely a working hypothesis. Ralf, of Sigston and Foxton, Co. York, will have to be proved Ralf the armiger, and his relationship to George and Alice, of Yorks and Essex, will have to be proved. It will have to be proved that William, of Standon, is related to George and Alice ux.; that Thomas, of Gt. Dunmow, is related to Ralf, armiger; and that Robert, of Stortford, and Robert, of Gt. Dunmow, bap. 1561, are identical; and finally, if necessary, that Richard, of Hatyfield Forest, Co. Essex, is a relative. To Alexander, of Serby's, pedigree I have nothing to add except that Michael who was abroad in 1677 is not the Michael who emigrated to the United States. Whoever he was he returned and his Adm. is dated 1702, whereas Michael, of Haverhill, died in New England at a different date and never returned.

Cap. IV. To p. 19.—I have said William William Emerson-Tennent died without issue. This should be without male issue; he left two daughters according to Rev. Edwin Emerson.

To p. 24.—Morant in his history of Essex gives many particulars of Dep.-Gov. S. Symonds' family. His father was Richard Symonds, ar., a cursitor in chancery, of Gt. Yeldham, Co. Essex. He married Eliz. Plumb, d. of Rob. Plumb, of Yeldham Hall, 9 Jan., 1580, and was buried at Gt. Yeldham, 8 July, 1627, his wife having been buried 24 June, 1611. They left five sons. Dep.-Gov. S. Symonds m. Dorothy Harlackden, and was Lord of Oliver's Manor, Topsfield, before emigrating and a Cursitor in Chancery.

To p. 31.—It will be seen by the key pedigree that there are one or two errors in the skeleton pedigree given on this page. John = Bainbridge should come out, Robert = Beatrice, being the son of Thomas R. Emerson, and Robert and Kirstan be removed from the top as they are possibly Emsons and not Emersons. The Brian disclaimed in 1615 was probably Brian, senior, too.

To p. 38.—Though I have included Kirstan, vid. of Robt. Emerson, here, I must on further consideration omit her, as the Cursitor Rolls has the name spelt "Emusson," and probably this was an Emson, more especially as there is no record of an Emerson in Kellawe's Register. Kindly eliminate this couple from the pedigree sheet.

To p. 44.—Ralf, of Swalwell, marries Johanna Eskirk and has 9 ells of land in Wols. Par. in 1518, leaving issue a dau. Joan who m. J. Bird.

To p. 48. —Dr. J. J. Emerson has found the proofs which join John Emerson, of Morland House, to John Emerson, of the North St., 1630. It was an error of mine to state that John Emerson, of Sedgfield, was on the jury; he was not, but was as described a "common calliver," vide Cursitor Rolls. The Sedgfield Emersons must not be confused with the East and West Murton Emersons, evidently different families. Whence John Emerson, of Sedgfield, came is unknown, possibly from Bishop's Auckland. Ralf, of Sedgfield, moved to Romanby (North-allerton), Co. York, was a yeoman and went out in female issue, vide his will in App.

To pp. 48 and 57. —I do not think Ralf, of Sigston, Co. York, and Ralf, of Romanby, are identical.

To p. 55. —Vide previous notes on earliest Yorkshire Emersons.

To p. 64. —This pedigree refers to Lord Burleigh's family, vide original MS.

To p. 77. —I was able to add Thomas Emerson, of Gt. Dunmow, here and to the Emersons of Herts in the revised proofs, for they were not discovered until July by Mr. F. Johnson.

To p. 81. —Robert Emerson's description as "curryer" is open to speculation. This may mean a currier of leather or a "courrier" on the great post system, for the words were often spelt in the same way in old days. If Eliz. Brewster, his son Thomas' wife, was a daughter of William Brewster, the Postmaster at Scrooby and famous elder of the Pilgrim Fathers, I should incline to the latter reading, and then the use of the field, Muggle's Dale (vide Cap. VI.), could be understood for pasture for horses—for curing leather it was useless—and as Robert was not an agriculturalist his possession of it has to be explained.

To p. 109. —The Cottenham (Cambs) Emersons are descended from the ancient Cottenham Emersons, vide Cap. IV.

To p. 142. —Mr. A. Emerson has moved to London, N., and writes me he does not claim any arms.

To sheet (key pedigree). —The line between Thomas Emeryson, Commissioner of Arrays, 1413, and his son Thomas = Johanna, should be dotted as not proven. I think a Robert should intervene here.

APPENDIX OF AUTHORITIES

ABSTRACTED FROM

Printed and Manuscript Sources.

EMERSON, EMMERSON AND EMBERSON WILLS,
 PROBATES, INVENTORIES, ADMINISTRATIONS, ETC.,
 AT THE DIFFERENT PROBATE REGISTRIES IN GREAT BRITAIN.

THE earliest wills are those enrolled in the Court of Hastings (beginning 1258), next the early wills at Doctors' Commons begin 1350, but it must be remembered that until 32 Henry VIII. a testator could not dispose of a single foot of land by will—but only of money and personal property by testament, which was rarely signed and was oftentimes not written, but made by death-bed testament before witnesses, such being called a nuncupative will. If a person died without making any such declaration, an administration was granted in early days to his ordinary, but later on his next-of-kin.*

Thousands of wills have been destroyed; one clerk at the Durham Registry in past days having lighted his pipe with them, and chuckled jocosely every time, "There goes another testator." Mr. Howe, of that Registry, estimates some 10,000 Durham wills, etc., have been lost for the period between 1540 and 1700. Many of the Registry indexes are badly done, and some wills are at out-of-the-way, "peculiar courts," so that, as in most work of this kind, the records here given are but very fragmentary; but I have tried to secure all wills existing to-day from the earliest record (generally in the sixteenth century) to 1700, omitting only the comparatively unimportant "peculiar courts."

There are, no doubt, other wills buried in private collections and at various public libraries, but all that are to be found at the various Registries in England and Wales, at Somerset House, and at the P.R.O. at Dublin and Edinburgh, are here given up to 1700.

I have printed the Durham wills in sections or groups, representing as nearly as possible the various families and the districts where they lived in early times.

* Robert Emerson, of South Burton. 31 March, 1566. [XVII., 640.] To be burd. near the pulpit at S. Burton. To the church, 3 belstryoges and xii. d., that the churchwardens owe unto me. Son Edward Emerson, a cottage and 6 acres of freehold land wh. I bought of Mr. Edward Crane, Brother John Emerson, a beehyve. Xtofer Emerson's wife, a bee hyve. Son Edward to give to Jennet Stevenson a swarne of bees. Wife Ellen, the house that I dwell in, with 5 acres of land belongy thereto, for her life. To every one of my sister's children, 4d. Witnesses of this my will, 4d. each. Residue to wife. Sons Xtofer and Edward, and daur. Jennet Stevenson, exors. Witnesses:—Edward Alford, my curate (xii. d.), Anthony Ferrer, John Buske, John Rosse. Proved at York, 17 April, 1567, by the exors. * There was a numerous family of Emmersons at Holme, in Spaldingwaere. The name has been misspelt a few times in the Parish Register as Emerson, and one or two of the wills are headed Emerson, but most are correctly headed Emyson or Emison. The above testator appears to me to have belonged to that family, but I print his will, as possibly he was a true Emerson. I have not printed the Emyson wills.—P. II. E.

SCOTCH WILLS.

"All the old Commissary (Probate) Registers in Scotland from the institution of the Court down to the years 1823—30, are now deposited in the General House, Edinburgh."—J. E. Currie, Commissary Office, Edinburgh.

"Scotch Confirmations (Probates Anglicæ) are now granted and recorded in the Sheriff Courts, i.e., the County Courts of which the Sheriff of each county is the Judge. The Burgh register here relate mainly to titles of heritable property within the Burgh, and are of little genealogical value. The name Emerson does not occur in the Forfar Town or District Register, and I should think it extremely rare in Scotland."—A. N. MacHardy, Town Clerk of Forfar, N.B.

"The Records of the Commissary Office, Edinburgh, go back to the Reformation."—J. E. Currie.

"No charge is made for searches at the Record Office, Edinburgh, prior to 1780, if it is intended to print the result."—M. Livingstone, Record Office, Edinburgh, N.B.

The Rev. W. McLeod, of Edinburgh, kindly searched the Testamentary Register of the Lothians at Edinburgh, 1514—1700, and the Chronological Index in the Register House, and finds no Emersons, Embersons or Emmersons.

I take leave to thank Mr. McLeod especially for his courtesy and kindness.—P. H. E.

EMERSON:—CHANCERY PROCEEDINGS.

(1558—1600) $\frac{1}{2}$. Bill, dated 24 June, 1563, by Anne Emerson v. John Millington. John Emerson, brother of Oratrix, entrusted £10 legacy to Anne, under their mother's will, to one, John Millington; and which £10, the present suit. (No Co. named, but Buckingham is given in the Index, q.v.) Answer of John Millington, not dated, says that he and the compt., about 6 years ago, were both in the house of Sir Nichs. Strelley, decd., the deftd. being his servant, and the £10 in question was money which his master sent him to fetch from John Emerson, and which he gave to sd. Sir Nicholas. The replication and rejoinder give no further information. (Strelleys a Lincolnshire family.—P. H. E.)

$\frac{2}{2}$. Bill, dated 10 May, 1568, by Thomas Emerson, of Cadney, Co. Linc., yeoman, v. Robert Woode, of Thourby, sd. Co. Complains that deftd. detains deeds, etc., relating to a mess. and lands belonging to Comptt. in Boothby, Co. Lincoln. Woode denies the assertion.

$\frac{3}{2}$. Bill, dated 30 May, 1567, by William Emetson, of Lincoln, v. Christopher Cocker, regarding delivery of lands in the Manor of Crofte. Gives no genealogical particulars. (Much damaged.)

Elizabeth. E.e. 2. Bill, dated 23 April, 1592, by Henry Emerson, of Loddon, Co. Norf., yeoman, James Smith, Nicholas Elye and James Foster, yeomen, v. William Dorlett. The late James Smith (decd. about 13 years since) was seized of 14 a. l. in Loddon, held under the manor of Bacons. By his will he left same to Joan, his wife, until his son, William, was 21. About 4 years after (i.e., circ. 26 Eliz.), said Joan married Comptt. Emerson, and still occupies property because her son is not 21. Dorlett has brought action agst. Emerson and the other complainants (who also occupy lands in right of their wives), and they seek redress therefrom.

E. 2. Bill, dated 7 Nov., 1596, by John Emmerson, of the City of Lincoln, fishmonger, v. Nicholas Sanderson, Henry Jenkinson and William Adams. Thomas Barker, late of Lincoln, fishmonger, orator's grandfather, held lease of farm called Bliton's lands in Canwick, Co. of City of Lincoln, etc. By his will, dated in Aug., 1580, he left legacy to his sister, Helen Banister; the lease of said farm to orator, when 21; and legacy to his then wife Elizabeth and others. The defendants are the representatives of the exors. of said Thomas Barker, and are sued for legacies to orator. The replication of John Emerson states he came of age 5 Jan., 38 Eliz.

E. 3. Bill, dated 14th Oct., 1596, by George and Cuthbert Emerson, brothers, of Stanhope Parke, Co. Durham, v. George Lynsley, of Tudday, yeoman. About 5 years since orators bought the mess. called the Gate Castle of said Geo. Lynsley, wh. had been previously sold to him by Robert Emerson, of Gatecastle. The suit is brot. for detention of deeds.

E.e. $\frac{3}{4}$. Bill, dated 25 Oct., 1600, by Henry Emerson, s. and h. of Thomas Emerso, late of Southwark, Co. Surrey, gent., decd., being under 19 years old, by John Loane, of Sevenoke, Co. Kent, gent., his guardian, v. Humphrey Emerson, of Southwark, gent. William Emerso, the elder, late Cit. and Bowyer of London, decd., Orator's grandfather, died seized of various messuages, etc., one in St. Saviour's in the Boro' of Southwark, now in tenure of Margaret Emerson, widow; others in St. Michael's Hill, near Crooked Lane; and $\frac{1}{2}$ mess. called the Woolstack, in St. Saviour's, in tenure of Thomas Emerson or William Counden or their assigns; and also of lands, etc., at Deptford; and by his will, dated 14 Dec., 17 Elizabeth, left the property in Southwark, etc., to his eldest son Thomas Emerson, and his heirs, and after his death sd. Thomas entered into possession. Sd. Thomas married Anne Robiout, only child of John Robiout, nephew and heir of one Lawrence Robiout, cit. and grider of London; said Anne being heir of messuages and lands in Southwark and Essex, devised by will of said Lawrence Robiout, dated 8 Oct., 5 and 6 P. and Mary. The whole of the premises have descended to Orator, s. and h. of Thomas and Anne. One Humphrey Emerson, of S^thwark, has possessed himself of deeds, etc., relating to property, and keeps orators from his inheritance. Humphrey Emerson, in his answer dated 25 (and 7) Nov., 1690, says Thomas Emerson, father of Orator, did by will, dated about June, 37 Eliz., bequeath the messuages in S^thwark, etc., to defendant, to his use for 8 years after decease of Margaret Emerson, then wife of said Thomas, for the education of John, Sara and Susan Emerson, his children, with remain. to Complt. and his heirs, then to said John and his heirs, and in default again, to John Emerson and the defendant, his brothers. The said Margaret, his widow, still survives. Defdt. was apptd. guardian to all Thomas's children. He placed Complt. at school in the country, and afterwards sent him to Cambridge, where he continued till about 6 mths. ago, about which time he unadvisedly contracted himself to a young woman, and has since married her; and the suit is probably brought at the suggestion of the friends of the wife. John Lowen, associated with complt., was lately a recusant, and in no way allied to Complt. or his father.

* Called in answer "Robiante."

E.e. 37. Bill, dated 23 June, 1596, by Richard Emerson, of the City of London, r. Cuthbert Emerson. Robert Emerson, of Gatecastle, Co. Durham, Orator's father, was seised of mess. and lands in Stanhope in Wardell, held of the Bp. of Durham as of his Mr. of Stanhope. About 9 years ago, for the preferment of Orator, his eldest son, he conveyed $\frac{1}{2}$ the same to one Geo. Lyndley, who was to grant the same to Orator; and he accordingly put orator in peaceable possession. The deed granting property to Lyndley, with other papers, has come into hands of one Cuthbert Emerson, of the East yeat, Co. Durh., who has taken possession of the premises. The answer of Cuthbert Emerson, dated 13 Nov., 1596, says Robert Emerson, senr., about 31 Eliz. sold premises in question to George Emerson, senr., defent.'s father, who left them to George Emerson, theyr., defdt.'s brother; who in turn granted them to defdt. Lyndley's claim may refer to tent and question, and also to one called Gatecastle, whereof Robert Emerson was never lawfully seised; and Complt. probably puts Lyndley forward so as to claim both. Defdt. has served process on Lyndley with regard to the Gatecastle.

A.a. 2. Bill, dated 14 Apr., 1573, by Alexander Allen, of London, Vintner, v. Raffe Emerson, of Northallerton, Co. York, yeoman, and others. Anthony Allen, late of York, merchant, Orator's father, was seised of mess. in Northallerton, etc., and lands in Fallyfot, etc. Defendants have wrongfully entered into said premises. The answer, replication and rejoinder contain nothing further re Emerson.

B.b. 13. Bill, dated 12 May, 1598, by Jonathas Bancks, v. Oswell Emerson, Margaret Emerson and Elizabeth Wilkes. The defdts. (Elizabeth Wilkes being widow of Walter Wilkes, decd.) hold deeds relating to a mess. in Coventry sold by said Walter to defdt.; but the purchase was not completed owing to Walter's death. They refuse to carry out the agreement. Defdts.' answer says Margaret Emerson is a widow, and very aged.

L.l. 25. Bill, dated 23 Jan., 1596-7, by Elizabeth Lego and others, v. John Emerson, William Clayton, Hugh Bowker and George Marre. John Redman (father of Complainant, Elizabeth Lego) and William Emerson, citizen and Bowyer, of London, conjointly bot. the Woolsack, in Bernondsey St., Southwark. The suit regards possession. John Emerson, in his answer, dated 3 Feb., 1596-7, says that Redman and Wm. Emerson agreed on 30 June, 4 and 5 P. and Mary, that the longest survivor should (inherit?) John Redman predecd. Wm. Emerson, defdt.'s father. There is a great deal about Redman's family, but nothing further re Emerson. (Part decayed.)

W.w. 17. Bill dated 26 Nov., 1595, by Richard Welch, of London, Shoemaker, v. Richard Emerson and Agnes his wife. Complt.'s sister, one Martha Welch, on coming to London from Co. Glouc., confided her goods and chattels to one Rd. Emerson, of Horton, Co. Glouc., yoman, and Agnes his wife. Martha died a year ago, and defdts. repudiate claims on them.

S.s. 12. Bill, dated 16 June, 1572, by Edward Stanhope, of Grey's Inne, Esq., v. Henry Welbye . . . Richard Emerson, and others. Richard Emerson is one of the trustees appointed by defdt. Welbye, with regard to premises in Gouxhill, Co. Lincoln, in order that wrongs committed by said Welbye on Complt. with regard to the property may be taken out of the cognisance of the common law. In the defendant's answer, Richard Emerson is styled the constable, and he and other defdts. were called in as witnesses, and to see the peace kept.

Eliz., Jas. and Car. I. E. 13. Emerson v. Hilyard. Suit by Alexander Emerson, gent., Edward Welcome, gent., and Susanah Fawdyn, widow, v. Henry Hillyard, Esq., and John Barnard, Depns. taken at Goxhill, Co. Lincoln, 22 Dec. 16 Car. I. Emerson and Welcome are owners of the Rectory of Goxhill. The suit regards lands asserted to belong to said Rectory.

V. Depns., etc., in suit of John Emerson, gent., v. William Holmes and Thomas Reedshaw; taken at Rippon, Co. Yorke, 18 April, 1649. Suit brought on a c. of misdemeanours, etc., committed by Complt.'s apprentice, John Race. John Emerson is apparently a merchant-adventurer, dealing especially in grain.

Ser. II. (1596-1616) 25. Bill, dated 4 Nov., 1596, by Humphrey Emerson, exor. of last will of Thomas Emerson, late of the Boro', Southwark, gent., decd., v. Margaret Emerson, widow of sd. Thomas, and others. Before her marriage with sd. Thomas sd. Margaret was widow and exx. of late Wm. Hornblowe, late Citizen and Goldsmith of London. By indenture made 23 Aug., 36 Eliz., before their marriage they gave security for payments to Thomas and John Hornblowe for certain sums due. The suit is brot. by exor. of Thomas against the other parties to the Indenture.

(1587-1596) 23. Bill, dated 23 Apr., 1594, by Cuthbert Emerson, of Hanslope, Co. Bucks, yeoman, v. Robert Emerson. Cuthbert Emerson, Orator's grandfather, was seised of mess. in Conesgrave, Co. Northt., with land, bot. of one Henry Rigbie. He left 3 sons, viz., Christopher, the eldest, orator's father; Hugh, the second, and Robert, the third. Said mess. descended to Christopher, and on his death, to Orator; but Robert, as exor. to his father Cuthbert, keeps the evidences, etc. The replication states Cuthbert's will to have been made 1 & 5 Philip & Mary.

CHANCERY PROCEEDINGS. JAS. I. AND CHAS. I.

Jas I. E.e. 3. Bill, dated 17 May, 1622, by Richard Emerson, of Blantshane, Co. Hunts., gentu., v. Christopher Vernon, gent., regarding title to messuages, etc., in Steinkley, Co. Hunts, whereof William Vernon, decd., father of Defdt. and father-in-law of Complt., was said to be seised; accusing Defdt. of trying to defraud his sister Bridget, wife of Complt., of her rights. The Answer is annexed. (Bill considerably faded.)

E.e. 3. Bill, dated 22 Nov., 1613, by Michael Emerson, of Sereby, Co. Linc., gent., on behalf of himself & Francis and Fretchwell Dannatt, minors, sons of Daniell Dannatt, late of Luceby, Co. Linc., yeoman, decd., v. Richard Clarke and Margaret, his wife. Margaret Clarke is the widow and exx. of said Daniel Dannatt, and Emerson sues as trustee for the children under Dannatt's will. His replication is annexed.

E.e. 3. Bill, dated 19 Oct., 1618, by George Emerson, of Barneton, Co. Durham, William Emerson, of the Eastgate, sd. Co., and Francis Fullthropp, of Dighton, Co. York, gent., v. John Wadsworth, of the city of York, merchant-adventurer. Defendant is sued with regard to non-fulfilment of contract in the apprenticing to him of Brian Emerson, brother of Complt., George wh. took place about 3 years since. It does not appear what relation William Emerson was to Brian.

Car. I. E.e. 17. Bill, dated 10 Oct., 1632, by Alexander

Emerson, of Glamford Briggs, Co. Linc., gent., v. Christopher Nevill, Rowland Farmery, and Katherine, his wife. One, Alexander Emerson, the elder, late of Glamford Briggs, Co. Linc., decd. about 2 years since, bot. moiety of Rectory of Goxhill, Co. Linc., and also a mes. and lands in Barton on Humber, making his only son, Alexander, joint purchaser with him, though he paid no part of the purchase money, and could not alienate any part, etc. The son was a weak man, and when his father sent for him from London, where he then was, to bestow him in marriage with a gentlewoman, Christopher Nevill, then an inkeeper in Lincoln, tried to inveigle him into a marriage with his dau. Katherine (July, 1626). Alexr., junr., was then a minor, and he was married to her within a few hours. Alexander, senr., settled the Manor of Beuningholme, Co. York, on his said son, which, as soon as he came of age, he sold. Alexander, the father, and son, paid a sum to Christopher and Katherine to be quit of all annoyance and to recover title deeds of lands first mentioned; but a few days after, sd. Katherine married One Rowland Farmery, of the City of Lincoln. In spite of which they conspire together to defraud your Orator (Alexr., Junr.).

E. e. ⁷/₁₅. Bill, dated 8 Feb., 1635—6, by Richard Emerson, of Blunshan, als. Bluntesham, Co. Hunts, v. Joane Vavisor and John Vavisor, Nicholas Palferriman and John Piers. Suit arises out of a proposed exchange of lands between the parties, who are all copyholders at Blunshan, of the Queen's Manor or Soke of Somersham, said Co. (Answer of 2 last defts. annexed.)

E. e. ¹/₁₄. Bill, dated 25 Nov., 1626, by Edward Emerson, of Southsabrige, Co. Essex, yeoman, and Mary his wife, late the wife and exx. of Joseph Bridge, late of St. Lawrence, sd. Co., yeoman, v. Abraham Bridge and Richard Eve, regarding lands settled on oratrix, March 21, Jas. I., by Abraham Bridge, father of late Joseph Bridge, on her marriage with said Joseph; who afterwards entered into a bond to pay his father an annuity of £20. Joseph died leaving 2 children and no means. Orators beg to be relieved of responsibility of bond. Answer of Richard Eve annexed.

Jas. I. E. e. ³/₁. Bill, dated 31 Jan., 1621—2, by Thomas Emerson, of the town of Nottingham, v. Vincent Wharton. A great intimacy existed between Barbarie Emerson, wife of Orator, and Margerye Widdowson, now decd., Barbarie having been nurse to 3 of Margerye's children. In 10 Jas. I. Barbarie lent money to Vincent Wharton, clerk, s'n-in-law of William an lsd. Margerye Widdowson; where aint the present suit.

E. e. ¹/₁₀. Bill, dated 6 May, 1623, by Henry Emerson, of South Lambeth, Co. Surrey, v. Robert Norton, William Easton and Alice his wife and ors. (i. e., Roger Painter and his wife). Orator, about 1610, took 21 yrs. lease of certain copyhold lands in the Manor of Fauxhall, Co. Surrey, of Wm. Easton and his wife. About Sept., 10 Jas. I., on marriage of his dau. Elizabeth with Roger Painter, Orator entered into a bond with regard to her marriage portion, which being unable to satisfy, he took Painter and his wife to live in his own house. Upon this Robert Norton, of Lambeth, uncle of said Elizth. on the mother's side, conspired with William and Alice Easton (the latter his sister) to enforce execution of said bond. Five other of Orator's children mentioned, viz., Mathewe, Henry, Humfrey, William and John. His wife was dead. Begs relief from the conspiracy.

E. e. ²/₇. Answer, dated 27 Nov., 1615, of John Lopton, Esq., defnt., to Bill of Thomas Emerson, Esq., re demise by defnt. to Compt. of moiety of the Manor of Little Leake, in the pshes. of Great Leake and Over Chilton, Co. York, dated about 4 Oct., 6 Jas. I.

Chas. I. E. e. ²/₈. Bill, dated 1 June, 1644, by Christopher Emerson, of London, merchant, and Anne his wife, v. Edward Howsden, Clerk, Margaret Allen, and James Merry. Oratrix Anne is nece of Edward Howsden, parson of Hornemeade, Co. Hertford, and about 8 years since, on her marriage with orator, agreed to give her a marriage portion. Howsden conspires with Margaret Allen his maid-servant, and James Merry, her father, to defraud orators of 10 a. l. promised them in Hornemeade, and money, etc. (Answer annexed.)

E. e. ¹/₁₂. Answer, dated 29 Nov., 1645, of Morris Moseley, one of the defts., to the bill of Christopher Emerson, re a debt in money.

E. e. ¹/₁₅. Bill, dated 12 Oct., 1642, by Christopher Emerson, of Lambou, merchant, Jon. Hockenull and Michael Oldisworth, of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, Esqs., and William Wise, of Lincoln's Inn, Esq., v. Richard Derham and others, re interests in Sutton Marsh, Co. Lincoln, Duchy of Lancaster.

E. e. ¹/₁₇. Bill, dated 8 Feb., 1630, by Humfrey Emerson, William Emerson and John Emerson, 3 of the younger sons of Henrie Emerson, late of South Lambeth, gent., decd., v. John Bennett and ors. In the suit (abstracted above) and other controversies between the late Henrie Emerson and Norton, Easton and Painter, the parties agreed to abide the decision of arbitrators. The award made provided a certain sum for the education of the six sons of Henry Emerson, viz., Mathewe, Thomas, Henry, Humfrey, William and John; Mathewe, Thomas and Henry being the elder sons. The Compts., poor and fatherless young men, sue the defendts., who are trustees for the said sum. (Answer annexed.)

E. e. ¹/₁₃. The answer, dated 22 June, 1646, of Adrian and Giles Peters, 2 of the defendts. to the Bill of Christopher Emerson, Michael Oldisworth and William Wise, Esq., re interests in Sutton Marsh, Co. Linc. (See suit abstracted above—bill.)

Chas. I. E. e. ⁴/₁₀. 20 Aug., 1643. Christopher Emerson and Will. Kellaway, of London, gent., v. Tobye Conbr., esq., and John Conbe, senior, gent. Defts. having sold the manor of lordship of Abbots Langley als Lees Langley, in Co. Herts., 1 cap mess. and other lands and tents. there to pfts. now with others of their name pretend title to the said premises, and disturb pfts. in their enjoyment thereof.

E. e. ¹/₁₇. 1646. The answer of Joseph Peters, one of defts. to bill of Christopher Emerson, Mic. Oldisworth and others. [Bill missing.] Mentions Sutton Marsh.

E. e. ⁷/₄. 22 June, 1639. Alexander E., of Caster, in Co. Linc., gent., Edw. Welcome, of Market Staynton in sd. Co., gent., and Susanna Fawdyn, of Goxhill, in said Co., widow. Hen. Welby, esq., was seised of certain parts, dales and plots of meadow in the marshes of Goxhill, cout. more than 330 a. which paid tithes to the rectory of Goxhill, and pfts. being seised of sd. Rectory are also seised of a movable fee-simple in sd. prem. They demised sd. rectory to divers tenants. The said meadow has since the death of said Welby, come to Hen. Hillyard, esq., who has demised them to John Sands, Nic. Smyth, John Barnard and — Burrell, who refuse to pay any tithes to sd. rectory. (Answer annexed.)

E. e. ¹/₁₁. This is merely a continuation of the above, in which the name of Ric. Derham occurs. No Emersons.

E. e. ¹/₁₉. The answer of John Browne, merchant, to bill of Christopher Emerson, merchant. Before plt. travelled beyond the seas, he and deft. "came to an accompt.," when it was found that plt. owed him more than £200.

E. e. ¹/₁₉. 22 June, 1642. Bill of Robert Emerson, of Appleby, in Co. Westmoreland, r. John Winter and Rowland Wilson. Pft. having bought a mess., tent and burgage in Appleby of defts. in order to help the sd. Rowland, who had "become much necessitated for moneys," defts. now try to "stripp and defeat" him of the same.

E. e. ¹/₁₂. 22 July, 1647. Hen. Emerson, of City of Norwich, draper, v. Thomas Underwood and Will. Harryman, citizens and drapers of London. Susan E., plt.'s mother, relict of Allen E., about March, 1642, became bound to defts. to pay them £70, being debts of sd. Allen. The said Susan sold her business to John Warren, her son-in-law, now decd., who agreed to pay her debts. The sd. John died intestate, and Christ. Jay, of Norwich, took out Letters of Admon., and defts. sued him upon the security given by the sd. Warren.

E. e. ¹/₁₇. Bill, dated 13 Nov., 1633, of John Emerson, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, merchant, v. Will. Anderson, of the same, merchant. It was agreed that deft. for £400 should convey to plt. the burgage called the New Building, sometime parcel of a great burgage called the Earle's Inne in Newcastle, then in the poss. of John Blakeston, merchant of Newcastle, and this he did by conveyance dated 29 Ap., 7 Ch. s. I [1631]. Now deft. keeps some rooms in sd. tent. to his own use.

E. e. ¹/₁₇. Bill dated 27 Ap., 1627, of Christ. E., of Tunstall, in Co. Durham, yeoman, and Ann his wife, dau. of Philip Suddicke, decd., v. John Ditchant and Margaret his wife, Francis Suddicke and Robt. Catchside, defts. The said Philip, having lands in Hesleden, in Co. Durham, agreed to be thereof seised to use of himself and Anne his wife, for their lives, and afterwards to use of Michael, one of his sons (he had several children) and Anne, one of pfts. The sd. Mic. d. ed in lifetime of sd. Philip, so the moiety of said lands came to Frances his dau. Defts. refuse to pay £50 to sd. Anne, left her by will of her sd. father.

E. e. ¹/₁₇. Bill, dated 21 May, 1647, of Alex. Emerson, of Caster, in Co. Linc., Esq., v. Rob. Sergeant, of Barnetby. Robt. Kelke, esq., whose ancestors for about 200 years had held the Rectory, parsonage, or tithes of Barnetby, in Co. Lincs., for the sum of £100, demised same to plt., who, about the beginning of 1641, surrendered to Bp. of Linc. the original lease thereof, made to John Parker. The sd.

Bp. by ind. dated 16 Ap., 1641, demised sd. prem. to plt. for the lives of Thos. and Alex., 2 of the sons, and Dorothy, one of the daus. of plt. The sd. Rob. Sergeant being a contentious man of a very "crabbed and crookt conseruacion," about 3 or 4 years ago persuaded Mrs. Parker and her dau. to pretend a title in sd. prem. in order to do plt. out of same.

E. a. 13. Bill, dated 30 Oct., 1630, of George Emerson, of Brackenhill, in Co. Durham, gent., v. Chrstr. Harrison, of Eastgate, in Stanhope Park, in sd. Co. By ind. dated July, 14 Jas. I. [1616], Wm. Bp. of Durham demised to George E., of the Eastgate, in Stanhope Park, gent., decd., the mess. called the Eastgate, in Werdale, and a parcel of ground there called the High of the Parke, in the ten. of sd. George, during the lives of plt. Geo. E., John E., and Hen. E., sons of Raphé E., of Unthanke, in Co. Durham, gent. So seised the sd. Geo. E., of Eastgate, by ind. dated March, 15 Jas. I., made bet. himself of 1 part, and the sd. Ralph, by the name of Raphé E., of Wolsingham, bro. of sd. Geo. Ric. E., of Ludwell, Geo. E., of Barneton, and plt., by name of Geo. E., s. of sd. Raphé, gent., of the other part, granted sd. prem. to sd. Raphé, Ric. Geo. and plt. for lives of plt. and of the said John and Hen. E. A lease of the sd. prem. for 8 years had been made to Chrstr. Harrison, of Ea-gate, and at his request a further lease for 5 years was made to him by ind. dated Dec. 2 Chas. I. [1626], bet. the sd. Geo. E., of Eastgate, and plt. by name of Geo. E., junior, of Wolsingham, gent., and the sd. Chrstr. H. at the yearly rent of £90. Geo. E., of Eastgate, made his will about Oct. 3 Chas. I., and devised sd. prem. to plt., as his nephew, and £10 year to sd. Christopher H., his bro.-in-law, and made plt. his exor. The sd. Chrstr. have got poss. of sd. original lease, now refuses to pay rent.

E. e. 13. Bill, dated 4 Nov., 1633, of Eliz. Emerson, the elder, and Eliz. E., the younger, "fatherless and motherless children," daus. of Thos. E., late of Hadley, in co. Midd., esq., decd., by Anth. Skynner and Rob. Nun, gents., their guardians, v. Thomas Hensloe and Mary, his wife, and Will. Conyers. The sd. Thos. E. was poss. of divers manors, lands, etc., in cos. Midd., York, Bucks, Surre, Durlam and Linc., and in the cities of London and Bristol; also of estates and leases in many manors, etc., in the same and other counties, of great yearly value, particularly of manors of Bradbury and Hilton, in co. Durlam, of yearly value of £1000, and the west park of Brancepeth of yearly value of £160, and of plate, jewels, etc., of value of £1000 at the least. About 18 Sept., 1620, sd. Thos. made his will and beq. to plt. the said manors of Bradbury and Hilton, wherein he had estate for 1000 years, for 7 years; he died about 2 years after leaving plt. under the age of 7 years. The sd. will got into the hands of Rob. Mottelot, now of London, who hid it. Jane, widow of sd. Thos. E., took out Letters of Admon., but died about 3 years after her husband. Then John E., 2nd s. of sd. Jane, thinking she d. intestate, combined with Thos. E., his eldest bro., and took out admon. of her goods, valued £1000. The sd. Thos. made his will, 1 Oct., 1631, and beq. to his younger bro. Thos. [sic] and to plt. all his lands, etc. Admon. thereof granted to Mary, his relict, who poss. herself of sd. manors of Bradbury and Hilton and park of Brancepeth; which sd. Mary has since marr. Thos. Hensloe, gent. The defts. h. ve all combined to defraud plt., who pray for remedy. (2 several answers attached.)

[The dates are not given in the Calendars, merely Chas. I.]

E. e. 17. Bill, dated 11 Nov., 1644, of Chrstr. Emerson, of London, merchant, and Alice Housden, widow and executrix of John Housden, v. Ric. Housden, brother (?) of Anne Housden, decd. Mentions various suits bet. the said parties commencing in 1634. This bill is of enormous length, and the right-hand side is torn away. Towards the end it says: the said John Housden made his will, 12 July, 1642, and thereby bequeathed to Chrstr. E., his son-in-law, his interest in certain moneys due to him. (No further particulars about the said Chrstr.)

E. e. 21. Bill, dated 1 May, 1627, of Raph Emerson, of Wolsingham, in Co. Durham, gent., and Mary, his wife, v. John Wright, of Kelyvedon, Esq., esq. Whereas John Canham, of Little Cressingham, in Co. Norfolk, gent., was about 20 years ago seised of 1 copyhold tont, and 40 a. of land, meadow and pasture in Brandon Ferry, in Co. Suff., in the tenor of plt. and the sd. Ralph E. having about 16 years before marr. the sd. Mary, d. of John Wright, late of Kelyvedon, in Co. Essex, esq., now decd., the sd. John Wright bought the sd. prem. and surrendered them to John, his son, to the sole use of the sd. Mary, she then having several children by the sd. Ralph. Plts. continued in poss. thereof for about 10 years, and until they went to live in Co. Durham, where the sd. Ralph had been born, and then the sd. John Wright sold the sd. prem. for £135, which he refuses to pay to plt.

E. e. 22. Bill, dated 11 June, 1638, of John Emerson, of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, Merchant Adventurer, v. Thos. Redshaw and Will. Holmes. Suit about John Race, of Rippon, who was made apprentice to sd. John E., Thos. Redshaw and Hugh Ripley being his bondsmen.

E. e. 29. Bill, dated 3 May, 1626, of Edw. Emerson, of London, brewer, v. Rob. Swann. Thos. Emerson, of London, brewer, with Robt. Swann, his surety, stood bound in the sum of £100 to one Groome, and entered into a bond, dated Aug., 20 Jas. I. [1622], for counter security for sd. Swann. The sd. Thos. died owing £1000, and the sd. Swann claimed a large sum of plt. as admor. of his goods, etc.

E. e. 33. Bill, dated 8 Feb., 1635, of Ric. Emerson, of Blunsham als. Bluntisham, in Co. Hunts, gent., v. Joan Vavisor, John Vavisor and Nic. Palferryman, of Blunsham. Exchange of lands bet. the sd. parties, defts. giving to plt. 1 "rode" of land in Higham Furlong in the fields of Blunsham, for 1½ "rode" of ground in Conway field. Afterwards dfts. put plt. out of his poss. thereof.

E. e. 39. Bill, dated 5 May, 1635, of John Emerson, of Brereton, in Co. Durham, yeoman, v. Rob. Chilton, of Brereton. Symon E., of Brereton, brother of plt., was seised of 2 mess. in Brereton, by lease made 31 May, 44 Eliz., 1602, and held the same until 3 June, 5 Jas. I. [1607], when he assigned to plt. all his interest therein. About 20 Jas. I. [1622], plt. deputed Rob. Chilton, of Brereton, to be his bailiff, and confederating with Chrstr. Armstrong, of Brereton, yeoman, got poss. of sd. Ind., and so obtained poss. of premises.

E. e. 47. Bill, dated 4 Nov., 1633, of Eliz. Emerson, the elder, and Eliz. E., the younger, daus. of Thos. E., late of Hadley, in Co. Midd., esq., deceased, v. John Emerson, Thos. Hensloe, and Mary, his wife, Ric. Manning and Rob. Matlett. [See E. e. 13. No further information.] A long answer annexed, one side of which is torn. Deft., John E., says that the sd. Thos. E., the elder, his father, revoked his sd. will, wh. was found amongst some waste papers. The sd. Thos. left to sd. John, his son, £36 per ann., issuing out of lands in Southwark and houses near the Tower of London. To Will. E., another son, an annuity of £30. Deft. "Ric. Manning . . . being bro.-in-law by marr. to the sd. Mary Hensloe, deft.," helped her to manage her affairs.

E. e. 49. The replication of Chrstr. Emerson and Anne his wife, plt., to the answers of John Dichtant and Margaret his wife, Frances Suddick and Rob. Catchside, defts. Dispute concerning the will of Phillip Suddick, whereby £50 is left to sd. Ann.

E. e. 59. Bill, dated 26 June, 1637, of George Emerson, citizen and carpenter, of London, v. Robert E., Eliz. E. and Peter Bainbrigg. Geo. E., of Cotleose, in Co. Durham, yeoman, was heretofore seised of 1 tent, and certain lands called Spartilee in Wardale, in the par. of Stanhope, in Co. Durham, worth £5 yearly. He had issue, John E., plt.'s father, whom he allowed to live in his house until his death about 2 years ago. Some time afterwards the sd. Geo. for a large sum of money conveyed the sd. prem. to plt. as s. and h. of the sd. John. As plt. lived so far away, he asked Peter Bainbrigg, weaver, who held the sd. prem. under yearly rents to take a lease thereof, but he refused, saying he held the same under Eliz. E., widow of Ric. E., late of Ludwell, in Co. Durham, and Robt. E., of Fetherston Hough, in Co. Northland, yeoman, s. and h. of Arthur E., brother and heir of sd. Ric. E., who d. without issue. Deft. have poss. of deeds, etc., relating to right, of sd. Geo. E., who is now over 80, and unable to go to law, and so they seek to defraud plt.

E. e. 77. The replication of Alexander Emerson, plt., to the answer of John Stanhope, esq., deft. Mentions the moiety of the rectory or parsonage of Goxhill, which plt. purchased of deft.

E. e. 83. The replication of Alexr. Emerson, esq., to the answer of Thos. Hoofe, deft. Dispute as to lands. County not given.

E. e. 84. The replication of Humphrey Emerson and others to the answers of John Bennett and others. Nothing to show what the suit was about.

E. e. 87. The replication of Chrstr. Emerson and Will. Wise, esquires, and others, plt., to the answers of Geo. Johnson, esq., Joseph Peters and Hen. Derham, gent., defts. Nothing to show what the suit was about.

E. e. 97. The replication of Alexr. Emerson, gent., Edw. Welcome, gent., and Susanna Fawdlyn, widow, plt., to the answers of Henry Hillyard, esq., and John Barnard, gent., defts. Concerning the titles of the Rectory of? (no name given).

E. e. 103. The replication of Geo. Emerson, Will. Emerson and Francis Fullthrop, plt., to the answer of John Wadsworth, deft. Brian E., as servant to deft., helped him in his wine business, and went abroad for him, but did not stay away longer than was necessary, and did not waste any goods either abroad or on the journey home, or in York, as in the said answer is untruly pretended.

Chas. I., E.e. 33. The answers of Thos. Hensloe and Mary, his wife, 2 of the defts. to the bill of Eliz. Emerson, the elder, and Eliz. E., the younger, by Anthony Skynner and Rob. Nun, their guardians. Defts. say that true it is that Thos. Emerson, the father, was seised of the sd. manors and lands of Bradbury and Hilton, and the west Park of Branspeth, in Co. Durham, but they do not believe the said manors are worth more than £80 per ann., besides the yearly rent payable to his Majesty out of the same; they have heard that the said Park of Brancepeth was let by Thos. E., the son, for £50 per ann. Defts. did not know the sd. Thos. E., the father, but they have heard that long after his death a "serole," or waste paper, came into the hands of the s. l. Rob. Mathart purporting to be the will of sd. Thos. E.; also that the sd. Thos. E. revoked the sd. pretended will, dated about 2 years before his death. Not long since the s. l. Thos. Hensloe, deft., saw in the hands of the s. l. Ric. Manning a deed made by the s. l. Jane E., wife of sd. Thos. E., wherein some provision was made for p'ts. out of the sd. manors of Bradbury and Hilton, in which deed there was a power of revocation upon the tendering of 10s. by the s. l. Jane, which revocation deft. afterwards saw. John E., deft., after death of s. l. Jane, took out Letters of Admon. of her goods, and afterwards by a deed for a good sum of money conveyed to the sd. Thos. E., the son, all his right in the sd. administration, and in further consideration of about £243, which the sd. Thos. paid to the King for arrears of rent out of the sd. manors of Bradbury and Hilton, and £360 due to his Majesty in "Noumine pence" for non-payment of sd. rent and for not enrolling the lease of sd. manors granted by his Majesty to the sd. Thos. E., the father, for the discharge whereof the sd. Thos. E., the son, suffered great trouble and charge, notwithstanding which the sd. lands are still liable and chargeable thereunto. Defts. believe that the sd. Thos., the son, by virtue of sd. assignment, possessed himself of the estate of sd. Jane and of all the deeds and evidences concerning the same, and soon afterwards sold the sd. West Park of Brancepeth to Hen. Gibb, Esq., for a rent charge or annuity of £55 per ann. payable during the lives of the sd. Thos., the younger, of this deft., Mary, then his wife and now the wife of deft., Thos. Hensloe, and the life of Rob. Tatton. The sd. Thos. E., the son, after the sd. assignment, received the rents and profits of sd. manors, and made his will as in the sd. bill is declared. After the death of sd. Thos. admn. of his goods was committed to sd. Mary, deft., who, by virtue thereof, possessed herself of sd. manors and the writings concerning the same. The judge of the Prerogative Court caused a commission to be taken and directed to 2 skilful and indifferent men, one of whom was chosen on behalf of p'ts., to appraise the goods, etc., of sd. Thos., which over and above the sd. manors of Bradbury and Hilton, amounted to above £321 lss. 10d. The sd. Mary, deft., says that neither before her marriage with sd. Thos. Hensloe, nor since, has she received any other goods of sd. Thos. E., the son, than the sd. lands and goods. Finding that the debts of the sd. Thos. E. far exceeded his goods, the sd. Thos. Hensloe, deft., proposed to sell the said manors of Bradbury and Hilton, and after his marr. with sd. Mary, the same were sold for £540 to Ciprian Day, about June, 1631. Deft. Mary says it is true that the sd. Thos. E., her former husband, and the s. l. Jane entered into a bond of £2500 to Sir Geo. Wrottesley, Kut., for defts' use, for her jointure, which she had good reason to expect, as she had for her portion a fair and great estate which the sd. Thos. afterwards sold for £1200, besides an annuity of £120 payable out of the said lands, which sd. bond is not yet discharged. One of the p'ts' guardians has tried hard to get the sd. bond out of the hands of sd. Sir George, hoping thereby to "defeat" the sd. Mary out of her sd. jointure. 31 Dec., 1633.

11 Jan., 1633-4. The answer of Wm. Comyers, deft. After the death of sd. Thos. E., the father, the s. l. Jane E. demised the said manors of Hilton and Bradbury to deft. for 7 years from the 3rd May, 3 Chas. I [1627], under the yearly rent of £550 payable to the King, and the yearly rent of £80 payable to the said Jane; also the herbage of Branspeth West Park, under the yearly rent of £20, payable to his Majesty, and £50 to sd. Jane. After the death of sd. Jane, i.e., about June, 5 Chas. I. [1629], Thos. E., her eldest son, having gone to inspect the sd. manors and park, caused deft. to surrender his sd. lease, and by ind., dated 20 June, in sd. 5th year demised sd. prem. to deft. for 21 years under the same rents, with a proviso that at the end of every 7 years deft. should be at liberty to give up his sd. lease. About 4 years ago the sd. Thos. E., the son, sold his interest in Brancepeth West park to Hen. Gibb, esq., and caused deft. to give up his lease, since which time deft. has held same as tenant to sd. Gibb.

CHANCERY PROCEEDINGS. JAS. I.

R. 37. Bill, dated 29 June, 1622, by Richard Barrowe, of Boughton Aluffe, Co. Kent, gent., v. Thomas Emerson, Edward Emerson and William Barrowe. Thomas Emerson, innholder, of London, advanced money to Theophilus Stackwood, orator's stepfather; and when orator came of age and entered into his property, said Emerson tried to arrange a marriage between him and a kinswoman of sd. Emerson, daughter of one Edward Emerson. After he had obtained complt.'s name to various bonds, etc., he refused to carry out his promises or the marriage. Answer of Thomas and Edward Emerson, dated 10 July, 1622, contains no further information re the Emerson family.

B. 44. Bill, dated 14 May, 1622, by Thomas Browker, of the Inner Temple, London, Esq., v. Thomas Emerson. Compl't's father was joint possessor with others of estates in Enfield, and in raising a mortgage thereon, to avoid certain claims, made an assurance of the premises to himself and one Thomas Emerson, of London, Esq., as his trustee; said Emerson has taken a treacherous advantage of his confidence, and claims rights in the premises. Answer of Thomas Emerson, dated 20 May, 1622, states that Hugh Browker, father of Compl't., was uncle to deftd., being his mother's brother, and the asserted trust was in consideration of sums of money lent by deftd.

C. 72. Bill, dated 1 July, 1612, by William Cropwell, of Cottenham, Co. Cambridge, labourer, v. William Emerson and Katherine, his wife. William Emerson, of Cottenham, husbandman, married the widow of Clement Cropwell, the said Katherine; she was married to Cropwell only a short time. Suit is brot. for payment of a legacy with which the Copyhold lands enjoyed by Katherine as Cropwell's widow, are charged. The answer of William Emerson and Katherine, his wife, dated 5 Oct., 10 Jas. I., states the copyhold is worth about £10 per an., but gives no further particulars of the family.

H. 37. Bill, dated 16 Nov., 1623, by Edward Holland, of St. George Hatley, Co. Cambridge, v. Michael Emerson. A certain mess. in Barrowe, Co. Lincoln, left by Thomas Holland, decd., uncle of orator, descended to orator, and during his minority was administered by one Michael Emerson, of Serby, Co. Lincoln, who withholds deeds and appropriates profits, etc. The answer of Michael Emerson, gent., dated 28 Nov., 1623, denies the truth of the charges, but gives no particulars about himself.

R. 33. Bill, dated 14 May, 1604, by Jane Richards, of London, widow, v. Emme Emerson and Thomas Richards. The Compl't's husband, the late John Richards, Cit. of London, by will dated 9 June, 42 Eliz., appointed Humfrey Emerson, of Southwark, his sole exor., who proved the will, but refused to satisfy Compl't. as to her legal third. The said Emerson, about Oct. last, made his will, and appointed Emme Emerson, his wife, sole exx., shortly after which he died. Thomas Richards, her son, has recd. satisfaction of his claims, and now combines with said Emme E. to defraud Compl't. The answer of Emme Emerson, widow, dated 21 May, 1604, denies having received anything since her husband's death on a/c of Richard's estate, and says her husband had often in his lifetime been greatly annoyed by complt.

R. 10. Bill, dated 22 Apr., 1618, by William Roydon and Margerie, his wife, v. Arthur Emerson and Anne, his wife, and Christopher Hopper and Isabell, his wife. Re legacy left to said Margerie by her father, Richard White, the exor. of whose will had been undertaken for his relict, Alice, appted. exx. by Thomas Cragge, her brother, with the assistance of Emerson. The said Emerson brought up Compl't., Margerie, during her minority. Emerson and Hopper are Cragg's exors., and refuse to pay the said legacy. Answer of all the defts., dated 13 Jan., 1618-9, states that Emerson took Compl't., Margerie, into his house, out of pity, about 20 years ago, and fed and clothed her for about 9 months, because she was his wife's kinswoman, but did not maintain her in any other wise.

S. 2. Bill, dated 18 April, 1608, by John Strelley, gent., Anne, his wife, and Millicent Woolhouse, v. Alexander Emerson and Alexander Williams. The deeds and evidences relating to a mess. and lands in Marshe Chappell, parish of Fulstowe, Co. Linc., formerly belonging to one Patrick Sacheverell, geat. decd., and from him descending to Compl'ts., have fallen into the hands of Alexander Emerson, yeom., and Alexander Williams, gent., and they pretend to have recd. a conveyance of the premises. By answer, dated 30 Apr., 1608, Alexr. Williams says he knows neither Compl'ts or other deftd. The answer of Alexander Emerson who was sworn at Glanford Briggs, Co. Linc., 29 Sept., 6 Jas I., states he bot. the premises in question about 2 years ago of Sir Stephen Slany, of London, Kt., the sd. Slany having them by good conveyance from Patrick Sacheverell, Alexr. Williams having previously held a mortgage on them.

S. ⁷². Bill, dated 10 July, 1614, by Sir Edward Stanhope, of Celington, Co. York, Knight, v. Alexander Emerson. About 26 Eliz. Queen Eliz. granted the moiety of the Rectory of Gawxhill, Co. Linc., to Sir Edw. Stanhope, compt.'s father, at rent of £28 per ann., for a term of lives, wh. expired. It was then granted by Jas. I. to Francis Phillips and Francis Morice, who conveyed it to John Stanhope, who, by deed dated conveyed it to Alexander Emerson, of Brigg, Co. Linc., butcher. Stanhope had previously, during his possession, conveyed the moiety of the Rectory to said Alexr. E. and Alexander, his son; no deeds were drawn, and Emerson refuses to carry out his share of the bargain. The answer of Alexander Emerson, taken at Cayster, Co. Lincoln, 17 Sept., 12 Jas. I., before Micha-1 Spencer and Michael Emerson, gent.; said defdnt. lives at Glamford Brigg, Co. Linc. In regard to the proposed conveyance of the moiety of the Rectory from Stanhope to himself, defdnt. consulted one Michael Emerson, an attorney. Gives no further Emerson details.

S. ⁷³. The answer of Alexander Emerson, the elder, to the Complt. of John Stanhope, Esq., taken at Glamford Brigg 8 June, 13 James, before Thomas Pocklington and Michael Emerson, re title to moiety of Rectory of Gouxhill, as above, wh he bot. of Complainant for £1025 in Oct., 9 Jas. I. to himself and his son Alexr. (then not above 8 years old) and their heirs.

T. ⁷⁴. Bill dated 8 May, 1609, by John Turberville, of the Boro' of Southwark, Co. Surrey, v. Henry Emerson and James Turberville. Complt. has married the widow and admrx. of estate of Thomas Norton, late of Southwark, Innholder, and after their marriage, Henry Emerson, of Southwark, gent., became a suitor for Elizabeth Norton, eldest daughter of said Thomas, whereupon Complt. promised Elizabeth a portion of £50 over and above the legacy left her by her father when she should be 18, or on marriage. Part was paid on the marriage, and Orator, about 10 Sept., 1 Jas. I., entered into a bond with one James Turberville to pay the remainder of the money to said Henry in the then mansion house of the said Henry near St. Margaret's Hill, Southwark, by Michaelmas 1604. The suit arises out of Emerson's conduct with regard to these bonds.

T. ⁷⁵. Bill, dated 25 Oct., 1624, by Robert Tilletson, of Southwark, Co. Surrey, Innholder, v. Edward Emerson and Robert Swanne. Richard Wilbraham, of London, Brewer, about 4 (?) years ago, then dwelling at the sign of the George, near Fleet Bridge, London, let the same to one Thomas Emerson, late of London, Innholder, decd., and Complt. served Emerson as tapster, paying Emerson percentage on all the ale, etc., he sold. Said Thomas Emerson died about 2 years since, of a very good and sufficient estate, his widow being admrx.; one Edward Emerson, being amongst others engaged in various sureties for sd. Thomas, persuaded said widow to resign admrx., which he took upon himself, and has turned Complt. out of the George, pretending he owes money to late Thomas' estate. The answer of defdnts., dated 1 Nov., 1624, gives nothing further re Emerson.

T. ⁷⁶. Bill, dated 26 Jan., 1623. Further matter in the same suit as above (Tilletson v. Emerson and Swan). From Edward Emerson's answer, it appears Thomas Emerson made his wife Joan his exx., but it proving that his estate was not sufft. to discharge his debts, she renounced the exon.

T. ⁷⁷. Bill dated 13 Feb., 1608-9, by Joseph Thornton, of Shopland, Co. Essex, gent., v. Thomas Emerson. Complt. has possessed premises in St. Olave's, Hart Street, near the Tower of London, originally granted by Queen Elizabeth. 28 Feb., 38th year of her reign, to Thomas Hobson and Edmund Thornton; but one Thomas Emerson, Esq., pretends he holds demise of the same premises by letters patent from King James, dated 3 June, 5 Jas. I., and demands rent therefore.

CHANCERY PROCEEDINGS. CHAS. I.

A. ¹⁰. Bill, dated 14 Feb., 1647-8, by Bartram Anderson, jnrr., of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, merchant, v. John Emerson. Complt.'s father held mess. in Newcastle, wh. has descended to Complt., of which John Emerson, merchant, of Newcastle, was tenant at will; about six years since he obtained the deeds, etc., thereof from Complt.'s grandfather, as evidence in a suit which he had against William Carr; which he still detains. The answer of John Emerson, merchant, dated 7 Apr., 1648, says the mess. in question was in the Close, Newcastle, and was called Davell's House, or the Earl's Inn, and that he bot. it of William Anderson, Complt.'s father, by deed dated 2 May, 1631. Defdnt. is a corn merch., etc.

C. ¹¹. Bill [the writ on which is dated 14 March, 8 Car. I., by Humphrey Colles, of Costlen, Co. Glouc., gent., v. Edward Emerson, William Bankes and Richard Norris. In Aug., 1611, Orator, together with defdnt., Wm. Bankes, of London, entered into a bond to pay £30 to one Edward Emerson, of London, brewer, on behalf of Sir John Chamberlaine, late of Presberi, Co. Glouc., decd. Orator has never to his knowledge seen Emerson. Money was provided at once to pay bond, because Emerson was in want of money for his rent, in order to save his lease. Bankes has kept the bond uncanceled, and now sues for payment, Emerson being a mere puppet or else an accomplice. The answer of Edward Emerson was taken at Ynsarwed, Co. Glamorgan, 16 May, 1633; he has been for many years a prisoner in the King's Bench for debt, on a/c of having been surety for Sir John Chamberlaine and ors.; he did not hide himself to avoid plttf.; but having at last legally obtained liberty, and being unable to satisfy his creditors, withdrew into a safe place.

C. ¹². Is the replication, dated 23 Oct., 1633, of Humphrey Colles, to answer of Edward Emerson; it contains nothing further.

D. ¹³. Bill, dated 6 July, 1647, by John Dalton, of Barrowe, Co. Linc., gent., v. Alexander Emerson. By agreement, dated 8 June, 1624, Complt. agreed to sell to one Alexander Emerson, late of Glamford Brigg, Co. Linc., certain premises in Barton-on-Humber, sd. Co., for £640; Alexr. granting complt. and his wife a 14 years lease at £40 ann. rent. This agreemt. was executed duly; and said Alexander conveyed his rights to one Alexr. Emerson, of Gaister, Co. Linc., Esq., and afterwards died. About 15 years since Complt. mortgaged land in Barton to sd. Alexander, the younger; and Emerson has since advanced other sums on other lands there. Sues him for various unjust entries on his property, etc., etc. The signed Plea and demurrer of Alexander Emerson, dated 14 July, 1647, states that defdnt. is exor. of will of Anne Emerson, relict and exx. of the said Alexander Emerson (the elder), decd.

D. ¹⁴. The Replication, dated Hil. term, 21 Car. I., of Richard Derham, Complt., to answer of Christopher Emerson. (Contents no facts.) The Plea of Christopher Emerson, gent. (sworn the same term) to the above Replication. The real object of the replication is to be relieved against several judgments obtained in the King's Bench by defdnt. and Wm. Wise, against complt. and other tenants of Sutton Marsh, Co. Linc. Wise, Emerson and others jointly hold the said lands. There is nothing further about Emerson.

D. ¹⁵. The answer of Alexander Emerson, gent., to Complt. of John Dalton, 29 Jan., 1647-8. Alexander Emerson, father and son, made agreement with Dalton, but as Dalton and his wife did not carry out their part, said Alexr., the son, could not be bound by it. Katherine, wife of Alexr., the son, received some part of the lands in question; and by conveyance from sd. Katherine and Alexr., the father, defendant became seised of the lands. Has received no rent since Michaelmas, 1638. (This defdnt. is the one who lent sums to Barton; so that there are 3 Alexanders mentioned in this doct., and only 2 in D. ¹⁴.) Defdnt. took an assignment of Complt.'s corn as part payment of debt; some of it was taken by the garrison at Kingston, and defdnt. recovered the keys of granary only with trouble from the Commee. at Hull; and he sent some of the rent to Gaynsburgh, then a garrison of the Parl., but it was shortly after taken and plundered by the King's party. There was an agreemt. between Anne, wife of Alexr. Emerson, the father, and said John Dalton.

F. ¹⁶. Bill, dated 13 Feb., 1627-8, by Alexander Farewell, of Houlbrook, Co. Somerset, Gent., v. Thomas Emerson, Jane Emerson and James Farewell. Complt.'s father, with Complt.'s money, about 40 Eliz., bot. annuity for said Complt., of one Thomas Emerson, then of the Inner Temple, London, Esq., out of said Thomas's Manor lands, etc., for paymt. of which he gave bond. Said Thomas died about 4 or 5 years since, when all his Manor lands and goods, etc., descended to Thomas, his s. and h., some of them being conveyed in jointure to Jane, widow of sd. Thos., decd. Said Jane and Thomas, as exors. of sd. Thos., decd., conspired with James Farewell, exor. of Complt.'s father, to defraud him. The answer of Thomas Emerson, Esq., is dated 12 May, 1628. After his father's death about 4 years ago, his mother undertook admn. of estate, which was encumbered with debts. Since then his mother also has died. His father died possessed of tents, in the Boro' of Southwark; and in the Crutched Friars, in London.

E. ¹⁷. Bill, dated 27 May, 1650, by John Elrington, of Elrington, Co. Northumbld., Esq., v. Thomas Bee, William Emerson and Lionell Emerson. In Oct., 1639, an agreement was made (to provide payment for stock bot. of Complt.) between Complt. and Thomas Bee, of the Lymstoneburne in Allendale, Co. Northbld., gent., and William Emerson, ate of Estyate, Co. Durham, yeoman; the two latter on their own behalf and also for one Ralph Emerson and Lionell Emerson, then both of Shrotonburne, yeomen. They all failed to fulfil their promise of payment, and Complt sued them in the King's Bench, Trin. term, 19 Chas. 1., but was forced to desist by the wars; said Ralph is dead, but the others ought to be made to pay.

F. 42. Bill, dated 24 May, 1637, by John Fawldinge, of Vloebly (Uloebly), Co. Lincoln, yeoman, eldest s. of Thomas F., late of Goxhill, yeom., v. Alexander Emerson and Susan Fawldinge. After death of Complt.'s father, last summer, one Alexander Emerson, of Sereby, Co. Linc., Esq., entered into land that should rightfully descend by inheritance to Complt., pretending rights as mortgagee; and has conspired with Susan, his stepmother, relict of said Thomas, to defraud Complt. Alexander Emerson's answer is dated 23 May, 1637; it gives nothing further about himself.

G. 23. The replicat on [? Hil., 2 Car. 1.] of Robert Goodhall and others, to the answer of Michael Emerson, one of the defdts. (Contains no facts.)

K. 1. Answer, dated 18 Nov., 1644, of Mahew Emerson gent., one of the defdts to Complt. of Richard Kidwell. The suit concerns the tithes and glebe lands of the Rector of Streatham. Emerson denies he was at any time a servant to the other defdt., Robert Tooker, Rector of Streatham; though he married the maidservant, or former maidservant, of sd Tooker. The lease of the tithes was granted in 1639. Emerson farmed the tithes for some time, but lost by it.

M. 30. The replication, undated, of Jenkin Morgan, Esq., Complt., to the answer of the defdts., Christopher Emerson and Robert Thompson. Edward Emerson, father-in-law of Jenkin Morgan, the Complt., took up a mortgage on certain lands of one Arthur Emerson, which mortgage was never paid off as pretended. One Marie (mentioned in the Bill, and since the act referred to decl.) got possession of the evidences; which were never conveyed to Marie by sd Arthur, nor descended from her to defdts.

M. 32. Bill, dated 21 Nov., 1648, by Edward Manning, of London gent., v. Mathew Emerson and Humfrie Emerson. One John Emerson, gent., dead, brother and h. of Thomas Emerson, Esq., dead, s. and h. of Thomas Emerson, Esq., dead, s. and h. of John Emerson, Esq., s. and h. of Wm. Emerson also dead, sold 3 mess. and a tent, used for a prison, etc., in the Boro' of Southwark, to one Rd. Manning, about 8 Jas. 1., and sd Manning (and your Orator after his death) enjoyed said premises till 2 or 3 years ago, when one Mathewe Emerson, s. of Henry Emerson, who was s. of Thomas, the younger son of William Emerson, commonly called the Boyer, long since dead, brought a writ of ejectment against Orator. Mathewe and Humfrie his brother pretend they have rights. The answer of Humfrie Emerson, dated 18th Jan., 1648-9, says Manning had right to hold sd premises only for term of life of Eme Emerson, wife of Humphrey Emerson, this defdt.'s uncle, viz., younger brother of Henry Emerson, defdt.'s father, dead, and soon after death of said Eme, i.e., about 2 or 3 days last past, Mathew, this defdt.'s elder brother, sealed lease of ejectment against Manning. The answer of Mathew Emerson, dated 25 April, 1649, says one Humphrey Emerson, being seised of the said premises, left reversion thereof to Henry Emerson, defdt.'s father, after the death of said Humphrey and Eme, his wife. Said Henry died about 23 years since. Defdt. made a lease of premises to one Samuell Gilpin, to try his title.

N. 20. Bill, dated 13 Nov., 1632, by Christopher Nevill, of the Close of Lincoln, gent., v. Alexander Emerson. Alexander Emerson, the father and son, were seised of the moiety of the Rectory of Goxhill, Co. Linc., etc. Alexander, the son, about July or Aug., 1626, married Katherine, d. of Complt., when A. the father, settled the said property on his son, Alexr., the son, and his wife, having no house, lived with Complt. for three years after their marriage; in return for which A., the son, gave complt. a lien on sd. property (by indre, dated 1 Nov., 1 Chas. 1.), after his father's death; and on 11th Nov., 5 Chas. 1., conveyed said property to trustees to use of himself and wife, remr. to Thomas Emerson, their son; after which sd. A. E., the son, died; and about 3 months afterwards the sd. Thomas died; Alexr., the father, and Katherine conspired to defraud Complt.; after wh. Alexr., senr., died (about 2 years ago). The suit is brought against Alexander Emerson, the son-in-law of Alexr., senr. The answer of Alexr. Emerson, dated 23 Nov., 1632, gives no further particulars.

P. 14. The replication, dated Hil. [? year], of Elizabeth Parham, widow, to answers of Thomas Emerson als. Metham, and Thomas Weeks, gent. (Part is torn away.)

Regarding some bond said to have been forced on Complt. by Metham als. Emerson; contains no Emerson details.

O. 23. Bill, dated 29 April, 1637, by Edmund Osborne and Margaret, his wife, v. Elizabeth Horrex, Rd. Pulley and Edward Emerson. Said Margaret is relict and exx of late Edmund Mason, of South Farnbridge, Co. Essex, yeoman; bill concerns the ownership of Southsambridge Hall Farm, some stock of which was sold to Edward Emerson (called also Emerson), not described. The answer of Edward Emerson, dated 9 May, 1637, gives no particulars of himself.

P. 27. The replication, dated 21 May [? year], of Joseph Peters and others, to the answer of Christopher Emerson, i merely a denial without recital of any fact.

P. 28. The plea (1647) of Christopher Emerson to Replication of Joseph Peters and others. This is a suit dealing with same matters as Chas. 1. D. 40. The transactions in question date from 1645 to 1647; but there are no details re Christopher Emerson himself.

P. 29. Bill, date 14 Oct., 1633, by William Pulman, of Limehouse, Co. Midd., Rope-maker, v. Anne Emerson, John Emerson, late of Ipswich, Co. Suffolk, Mariner, dead, owner of 1/2 of "The Good Intent" ship, of Ipswich, sold his interest to Orator, and went in her as master, carrying coals from Newcastle to London; the ship is lost and Emerson dead. Anne E. is his relict and Adxx., and lives at Ipswich. The answer of Anne Emerson, dated 25 Oct., 1633, says the ship and all on board were lost in a passage to Newcastle; contains no genealogical particulars.

P. 32. Bill, dated 11 Feb., 1627-8, by William Plomer, of Radwell, Co. Hertford, v. Edward Emerson and Jenkin Morgan. The late Sir Wm. Plomer, of Hill, Co. Bedf., Kt., about Oct., 1617, negotiated with one Edward Emerson, now a prisoner in the King's Bench, for the purchase of sheep belonging to Emerson; the suit concerns this transaction. Edward Emerson has lately become a bankrupt, and conspires with one Jenkin Morgan, of the City of London, who (as Complt. is informed) is Emerson's son-in-law. The answer of Edward Emerson and Jenkin Morgan is dated May, 1628. Emerson acknowledges 2 or 3 ill-assorted persons had a comm. in bankruptcy issued against him for one or two small debts not due, he being surety for and admr. of one Thomas Emerson, dead, his widow having renounced the admon. Jenkin Morgan is his son-in-law.

S. 1. Bill, dated 4 June, 1629, by James Smithe, of London, Salter, v. Jenkin Morgan, Esq., John Hyde and Edward Emerson. Re money lent to Thomas Emerson, late of London, Beer-brewer, dead, who died about 6 years since. Edward Emerson, alebrewer, admrd. The answers of the 3 defdts. are attached, but contain no information further respecting the Emersons.

S. 44. The replication, undated, of Katherine Soulyby, widow, to the answer of Thomas Emerson. See particulars of this suit below—S. 45.

S. 45. Bill, dated 17 November, 1641, by Katherine Soulyby, of Shotton, Co. Durham, widow, late wife of Anthony Soulyby, of Shotton, yeoman, dead, v. Thomas Emerson. Complt. and her late husband, together with Christopher Emerson, late of Shotton, yeoman, dead, held lease from 2 Eliz., dated 21 July, 37th year of her reign, for the term of their three lives, of a mess., etc., in Shotton, parcel of the Lordship of Raby; Kath rine conveyed her interest to said Emerson, 10 Aug., 6 Chas. 1., as security for payment for bonds entered into on behalf of her son Ralph. About £20 remained unpaid to Emerson at his death, and about 5 years since Thomas Emerson, s. and h. of said Christopher, entered into possession. He has received enough profits to discharge the remaining £20, but refuses to give up premises. Thomas Emerson's answer was taken at Barnard Castle, Co. Durham, 19 Jan., 17 Car. 1., and contains no further particulars.

S. 47. Bill, dated 11 June, 1631, by John Spence, of Rellington, Co. Yorke, yeoman, v. Christopher Emerson and Stephen Laube. Christopher Emerson, of Barton-in-the-Street, Co. York, Clerk, by Indre, dated 10 Aug., 1 Chas. 1., told 2 oxgangs of land in Barton to Complt. Since then sd. Emmerson, Maudlin his wife and Stephen Laube, servant of the said 2 oxgangs, have combined to dispossess Complt. of the deeds, etc. The plea and demurrer of Christopher Emmerson and Stephen Laube, taken at New Milton, Co. York, 27 Sept., 7 Car. 1., states the Complt. has previously exhibited the same Complt. in Ct. of Chancery, and also brought the matter to trial at the York Assizes. Stephen Laube is husband of Emerson's sister, and held lease of the land from Roger Emerson, dead, defdt.'s father, dated 20 May, 12 Jas. 1.

T. 17. Bill, not dated, by Robert Tooker, of Streatham, Co. Surrey, Clerk, v. Mathew Emerson and Richard Kidwell. Re lease of the tithes of Streatham to Mathew Emerson, of Clapham, gent. Neither the bill nor Emerson's answer dated 8 Dec., 1649, contains any further particulars than are given in a previous suit on the same subject.

T. ²³. Bill, dated 18 April, 1627, by Samuel Turner, Dr. of Physic, v. Jane Emerson, Thomas Emerson, Edmond Randall and Nicholas Hawes. Complt.'s mother, decd., Pascha Turner, lent to late Thomas Emerson, of Hadley, Co. Midd., geat., about £1000, for wh. he gave bonds in 15 and 16 Jas. I., and directed Jane his wife, and Thomas his son, to satisfy these claims out of his estate (which consisted int. al. of divers lands, etc.), after his death. Said Thomas, the father, died about Feb. 21, Jas. I., and said Jane admred.; refusing to pay Complt. Randall and Hawes were trustees of some of Emerson's property. The answer of Jane Emerson, widow of Thomas Emerson, Esq., decd., is dated 4 May, 1627; she believes her said late husband was indebted to her father in about £1000, wh. her said father gave over to her mother, the said Pascha Turner. Besides the Complt. Samuel, she had other brothers, Peter and Theodore. Her husband died much in debt, and left her with 5 sons and 2 daughters, all under age. He had interest in tents, in the Boro' and St. Olave's, Southwark; in do. near the Crucched Friars, and some land and Hadley, and had bot. reversion of certain tythes in Burneham and Chippenham, Co. Bucks. He had also bot., and made Nich. Hawes trustee for, certain tithes in Grimsby, Co. Lincoln, to estate on his son John. He also held a lease from the King, whilst Prince of Wales, of the herbage of the West Park of Bransheath (sic), etc., Co. Durham; and also had lease of a house in the Blackfriars, London.

W. ⁵⁷. The Replicatin, undated, of Dame Mary Wingfield, widow, and Sir James Wingfield, Kt., to the answer of Jane Emerson, widow. (Contains no additional facts. See suit below.)

W. ⁹¹. Bill, dated 7 May, 1627, by Dame Mary Wingfield, widow of Sir Edward Wingfield, Kt., late of Kumbalton, Co. Hunts., decd., and Sir James Wingfield, of Kerston, sd. Co., Kt., v. Jane Emerson. Sir James Wingfield bot. of Viscount Hadington the Manor of Kerston, which had been granted by letters patent of 1 Oct., 14 Jas. I., to Thomas Emerson. The said letters patent shew that Emerson's name was inserted only at Hadington's request, in return for Hadington's services to the King; and Emerson never received any of the profits and the said manor, etc. No fine was levied, and Jane, widow of Thomas Emerson, now claims a third of the said manor as her legal due. The answer of Jane Emerson, dated 29 May, 1627, states that Emerson paid Viscount Hadington for the said Manor of Kerston, and received rents therefrom.

[1582]; Also except the yearly rent of 30s. 6d. as part of the tithes or rent reserved from the manors of Sutton, Thursthorpe and Beisbye, to be paid yearly to Us and Our heirs; also except the yearly rent of 18 4s. 4d. for certain lands in Broughton, to be paid to Us yearly; To have, hold and enjoy all the said premises, except as before excepted, to the said Thomas Emerson and Richard Cowdall and their heirs to their sole and proper use for ever: To hold the said manors of Grindon, Barnes Hamylden and Clowcroftes of Us and Our heirs in chief by knights' service, to wit, by the service of the 20th part of a knight's fee; the borough of Malmesbury and the manor of Cartemeale of Us and Our heirs as of Our honor of Hampton Court, in Co. Midd., by knights service, to wit, by the 100th part of a knight's fee: And to hold all other the said premises of Us and Our heirs as of Our Manor of Eastgreenwich, in Co. Kent, by fealty only in free and common socage and not in chief or by knights service. And moreover for the full and perfect assurance, extinction and bar of all estate and right in fee tail of the said manor and borough of Wareham belonging to Us by hereditary descent and the reversion and remainder thereof, We are pleased to grant by these presents to the said Thomas Emerson and Richard Cowdall that within 1 year next following a fine shall be levied of the said manor and borough in form following, to wit, the said Thomas and Richard shall acknowledge the said premises to be Our right as of their gift, and by the same fine We will grant the said premises to the said Thomas and Richard and their heirs for ever: To hold of Us and Our heirs as of Our manor of East Greenwich, in Co. Kent, by fealty, only in free and common socage, and not in capite or by knights service, rendering yearly to Us and Our heirs for the said manor of Grindon £83 7s. 0d.; for the manors of Barnes Hamylden and Clowecrofte, £83 4s. 8d. into the Receipt of Our Exchequer at Westminster, at the Feasts of the Annunciation of the B.V.M. and St. Michael the Archangel yearly for ever. We also grant to the said Thomas Emerson and Richard Cowdall all the issues, rents, profits, revenues and arrears of the said borough of Malnesburie, the manor and borough of Wareham, the manors of Cartemele, Beisve and Bentley, and of the capital messuage of Great Broughton and Greenhagh from the Feast of St. Michael last past up to the present time, without rendering any account for the same to Us or Our heirs. And whereas the said manor or capital messuage of Grindon now stands charged before the Auditor of Our County or Bishopric of Durham at the yearly rent of £109 15s. 8d. per ann., for which said manor the yearly rent of £83 7s. 0d. only is reserved to Us and Our heirs by these presents; and whereas also the manors of Barnes Hamylden and Clowecrofte now stand charged before Our said Auditor at the yearly rent of £130 per ann., for which said manor the yearly rent of £83 4s. 8d. only is reserved to Us: We of Our abundant grace have granted to the said Viscount Haddington, Thomas Emerson and Richard Cowdall that they shall not in any way be disturbed in the enjoyment of the said premises, nor charged with the payment of any sums of money or any recompence to Us because the above recited premises are of greater yearly value than is reserved to Us by these presents. Moreover We have granted to the said Thomas and Richard that We yearly and from time to time will exonerate and acquit them of all carriages, fees, rents, annuities, pensions, portions, arrearsages of rent and sums of money and charges whatsoever issuing out of the premises to be paid to Us, except the rents, services and tentures to Us reserved by these presents. And We strictly charge the Treasurer, Chancellor and Bishops of Our Exchequer upon the sole demonstration of these Our Letters Patents to make full allowance and exonerate of all such arrearsages, etc. These Our Letters Patent shall be valid and sufficient in the law against Us in all courts as well within the Kingdom of England as elsewhere, notwithstanding wrong naming or re-iting of the said manors, etc., and notwithstanding the not finding of inquisitions, etc., etc. The said Thomas Emerson and Richard Cowdall may have these Our Letters Patents made and sealed as well under the great Seal of England and the seal of the County Palatine of Lancaster as under the seal of the Duchy of Lancaster without any writ or warrant from Us. In witness whereof. Witness Ourself at Westminster, 27 Nov. By writ of Privy Seal.

STATE PAPERS DOMESTIC. [ENGLISH.]

Jas. I., Vol. XIV., No. 3. Trustie and Wel-beloved we greete you well. Whereas wee by our letters patentes vnder our greete seale of England bearinge date at Westminster the second daie of Marche last past did give and grante vnto our Wel-beloved servante Sir John Ramseye, knight, and Thomas Emerson and their heires in fee farme (amongst other things) The Mannor of Swaffham in our Countie of Cambridge of the yearly value of—vij.l. xx.d., late parcell of the possessions of the late Priorie of Swaffham Bulbeck, And also the Mannor of Swaffham Bulbeck, in the Counties of Cambridge and Suff., of the yearly value of xxxiiij.l. v.s. viij.d. pte. whereof was late parcell of the possessions of the Bishoppricke of Ely, lately exchanged and sometimes parcell of the possessions of the said late priorie of Swaffham Bulbeck. The said Mannor of Swaffham to be holden in free socage, And the other Mannor of Swaffham Bulbeck to be holden in Cheefe as by our said letters patentes appeareth. Inasmuch as wee are informed that the foresaid Mannors and divers other parcells by reason of the imperfection in the Auditors particulars are mistaken and not sufficiently passed according to our gracious meaning to that behalfe, As namely, The said Mannor of Swaffham (at the rent of lxx.s. viij.d. per ann.) is vtterly mistaken for that there is noe such Mannor, By meanes whereof all those small farmes and Quillettes, And the landes and tenements therewith, all used and occupied supposed to belong to the said pretended Mannor lying in the townes of Cambridge, Bottesham, Barwell, Fulborn, Dullingham and Cowlinch not Named nor mentioned in the said lres. patentes Did not passe to the said Patentees by force of our said lres. patentes, And whereas the scite Capitall Howse and other howses and edifices, Dove howse, Barnes, stables, gardens and orchards being within the Scite and precinct of the home yardes of the said

Mannor and late Priorie of Swaffham Bulbeck aforesaid, And ccvij. acr. dimid. of arable land, One libertie and sheepe walke for ccc. sheepe, And also xx.tie acres of meadowe and xvij. acres of pasture rented together by the said particular and lres. patentes) sayd to be in Swaffham Bulbeck aforesaid. Whereas xiiij. acres (parcell of the said Content and number of xx.tie acres of meadowe and xvij. acres of pasture) doe lye inclosed within the foresaid homestalls and enclosures adjoining to the foresaid Scite and homeyardes, and are within the parish of Swaffham Prior in the said Countie of Cambridge, wch. said towne of Swaffham prior is next adjoining to Swaffham Bulbeck aforesaid. And whereas One Mease place or tenent, called Lambholme (Rented by the said particular at £3 6s. 8d. per annum) is by the said lres. patentes mentioned to be in the counties of Cambridge and Suff., or either of them, and by the said particular expressed to be in Swaffham Bulbeck aforesaid, Whereas the said farme lyeth in Mildehall, in the Countie of Suff. And Moreover the landes, tenements, and sheepe Walke therewith, heretofore used and occupye I were not expressed nor conteyned in the said lres. patentes, And one fishing in Mildehall aforesaid Called the Harpe, rented by the said particular at iij.s. viij.d. per annum, is mentioned by the said lres. patentes to be in Swaffham Bulbeck aforesaid, Whereas it is in the common River at Mildehall, in the Countie of Suff., and thereby it is Manifest that the said landes, tents, and fishing did not passe to the said Patentees by force of our said lres. patentes. And whereas one Messuage or tenent, in Ditton Valence alias Woodditton in our said Countie of Cambridge, late in the tenure of Henry Taylor or his assignes, and certain landes, meadowes, feedings, pastures, Rentes and other profittes and Commodities are passed by the said lres. patentes. As to the same Messuage or Tenent belonging or appeyning, Rented by the said particular at iij.l. p. ann., which is vtterly mistaken for that the said messuage, landes, meadowes, rentes and premisses are parcell of the Mannor of Ditton Valence, And whereas One Wood in Ditton Valence aforesaid called Nannes Wood als. Ditton Wood, conteyning by estimation xliij. or acres more or lesse whereof xxx. tie acres are rented by the said particular at xv.s. p. ann., and the other xliij. en acres residue are by the same particular rented at viij.s. p. ann., wch. maketh a shewe as if they were two severall things And yet is but one entier wood and parcell of the said Mannor of Ditton Valence. And whereas also One water mill in Swaffham Bulbeck aforesaid, and three Closes of Meadow and pasture Whereof One Close conteyneth by estimation halfe an acre wch. is a Tofte called Walter Halters, Whereupon a house was sometimes builded, And one Meadowe called Mill Meadowe, Cont. by estimation flower acres, And the third pece is Meadowe grounde, Cont. by estimation one acre, And the Tenent, and Crofte demised wth. the said Watermill cont. by est. one acre wch. hath bene heretofore two severall tents, and Croftes, The one called the Covent howse and Crofte, and the other a howse and a Crofte wherein the farmors of the said Watermill did heretofore moste Comonly dwell Rented all together at lxxj.s. viij.d. p. ann., Whereby it Manifestly appeareth that the said things were mistaken in our said lres. patentes. By reason of which defectes and imperfections the said Patentees can not receive the full benefit of the premisses intended to have been conveyed to them by force of our said lres. patentes, And Wee being further informed that the said Priorie of Swaffham Bulbeck wth. the members and the parsonage of Swaffham B. aforesaid, late belonging to the said Priorie were founde by the greete Inquisition made in 26 H. viij., to be but of the Clere yearly value of xl.ii. over and above the reprises, As by the records of the values of all the spiritual livings remayning in Our Exchequer wth. the Remembrance of the office of first fruits and tenthes made appeare, And that the said parsonage of S. B. is nowe parcell of the possessions of the Bishoppricke of Ely, reserved by the Lo: B. of Ely in the last exchange, And that there is noe further Charge wth. the Auditor of anye thinge belonging to the said late priorie, but only the said yearly rent of xxxviij.l. vijs. iiij.d. reserved in and by our said lres. patentes, Wee are therefore graciously pleased in respect of the said imperfections and the small value of the said Priorie to accept of a surrender of our said letters patentes as to the said possession of the said late priorie from the said Sir John Ramseye and Thomas Emerson, And our will and pleasure is that you doe fourth wth. drawe as well the said surrender as also a new grante to passe vnder our signature (at the humble suite of the said Sir John Ramseye, and in Consideracon of his faithfull service done vnto us) of the said late Priorie of Swaffham Bulbeck and of all Mannors, landes, tentes, and hereditaments, thereunto belonging within our severall Counties of Cambridge and Suff. (wth. the alteracons, addicoons, and amendeutes, aforesaid), to our Welbelovyd Subjectes John Walter, Esquier, and Richard Locksmith, gent., and their heires in fee firme reserving to us, our heires and successors the foresaid yearly rent of xxxviij. l. vij. s. iij. d. reserved in and by our said lres. patentes, which is all the rent that is nowe answered vnto vs for the same, and more than hath been answered to any of our predecessors or progenitors for the same. And the said Priorie and other the premisses to be holden of vs our heires and successors in free and common socage as of our Manor of Easte greenwich in our countie of Kent. And the same lres. patentes subscribed wth. our hande to send vnto vs to posse vnder our signature and seales at our pleasure. And these our lres. signed wth. our signe manuell shall be a sufficient Warrant and discharge in that behalfe. Given, etc. I have viewed this draught, and do fynde it (for any thinge that appears to me) to be iust and true, and no prejudice to his matie. to be granted, seing his matie. hath more reserved by this booke than ever was answered before for the possessions of the said priorie to his matie. as by the auditors particular appeareth. Edw. Coke. Sir Francis Lake to ingroe this booke for the Kinge's signature, 7 May, 1605. J. Doiset. [Endorsed.] For Sir Jo. Ramsey. To Mr. Attorney generall for passing of Swaffham, etc.

Jas. I., Vol. XIX., No. 49. James, etc. Whereas by our former warrant to you, directed vnder our greates seale of England, we have signified our pleasure for payment of the somme of xv. li. to our servant Sr. James Sandilande, knight, one of the gentlemen vsbers of our privy Chamber, to be taken as of our free giftes out of such monies as should be forfeited to vs by anie recusantes for not repairing to the Church according to the lawes of this realme vpon wch. our warrant and grant ther hath not hitherto bene anie thing payd vnto him for some causes known to us, And now the sayd Sr. James Sandilandes hath made humble suite to Us to pay the somme of 300 poundes of the seid 1500 li. to Thomas Emerson, one of his Creditors, which we are pleased to doe. These are therefore to will and comand you out of our treasure in the receipt of our Exchequer to pay or cause to be paid to the sayd Thomas Emerson the seid somme of 300 li. as parcell of the somme of xv. li. by us intended to the sayd Sr. James Sandilandes. And these our letters, etc. [Endorsed] Sr. James Sandilandes, xvj. te, Martii, 1605. Warr. for 300 li.

1 Mary, Part I., No. 49. Inquisition taken at Bishop Hatfield, in Co. Herts. 4 Jan. 1 Mary [1554], before John Brocket and others, after the death of William Emerson, by the oath of Thomas Kent, James Chaumber, etc., etc., jurors, who say that William Emerson, long before his death, was seised of 1 manor, 20 a. of land, 60 a. of pasture, 5 a. of meadow, 20 a. of wood and 8s. 4d. of rent called Doos in the par. of Stondon, in Co. Herts; 6 a. of meadow called Rothwell Meadowe there: 50 a. of pasture there called Slowfeld and Ponderofwe; 2 tenements and 10 a. of land there called Rydgewyns and Ransseis; also of 1 other tenement in Stondon Street, in his demesne as of fee. And so seised, the said William took to wife Mary Nuce, dau. of Thos. Nuce, gent., and they had issue Richard Emerson. By charter, dated 9 Feb., 25 Hen. 8 [1534], the said Wm. Emerson granted all the said premisses to Thomas Hennage, Knt., John Hennage, Edward Leventhorp, Will. Barlee, Esq., Thomas Nuce, gent., and John Perrot, clerk, for ever, to the use of the sd. William E. and Mary his wife for their lives; after their decease, to the use of their heirs; and for def., to the use of the right heirs of the said William for ever. The said premisses called Doos are held of the Queen in chief by knights service, and are worth per ann., clear, 106s. 8d. 1½ a. parcel of the sd. 6 a. called Rothwell Meadowe are held of Ralph Sadler, Knt., as of his manor of Stondon by copy of court roll, and by the yearly rent of 8s., and the other 4 acres are held of the said Ralph by fealty only, and are worth, per ann., clear, 16s. 8d. The premisses called Slowfeld and Ponderofwe are held of the manor of Meltley by the service of 4s. 10d. per ann., and are worth per ann., 63s. 4d. The premisses called Rydgewyns and Ransseis are held of the sd. Ralph Sadler as of his said Manor of Stondon by the service of 4s. per ann., and are worth per ann., clear, 30s. 8d. The tent, in Stondon Street is held of the manor of Sootes by the service 2s. 4d. per ann., and is worth per ann., clear, 10s. William Emerson died 22nd Feb., 25 Hen. 8 [1534]; the said Richard Emerson is his son and next heir, and was aged 21 years on the last day of October last past. The said Mary Emerson died 29 Aug., 34 Hen. 8 [1542]; she took the profits of all the said premisses until her death. Will. Vance (?) occupied all the said premisses after the death of the said Mary by virtue of an indenture to him made by King Hen. 8, dated 24 Nov., in the 35th year of his reign, with the assent of the Master and Council of the Court of Wards and Liveries.

5 Eliz., part 1, n. 75. Inqn. taken at Ware, in Co. Herts, 15 Dec., 5 Eliz. [1562], before Edw. Bushe and others, after the death of Richard Emerson, gent., by the oath of Thomas Warde, of Hunsden, etc., etc., jurors, who say that Richard Emerson was seised in his demesne as of fee of the manor, 20 a. of land, etc., called Doos, in Stondon, etc., etc., [lands, etc., exactly as in the above Inq. on Will. E.] So seised, the said Richard E. made his will, 23 Oct., 1562 [here given in English]. I give to Simon Carter an annuity of £5, issuing out of my lands in Stondon. My exors. to hold all my lands until this my will be performed; they to make a lease thereof to John Westwood and Agnes his wife for 41 years. My exors. to "sewe" out my heirs livery at my costs, and shall pay to my heir, James Hennage, out of my said lands, 9s. 13s. 4d. yearly. My exors. to take the profits of the sale of the wood in Bowces Wood. As to my house and tents, in London, in Trinity Gate without Aldriche Gate: I devise 1 tent, in the tenure of Crossell the tailor, to Will. Swayne, my Aunt's daughter's son, and to his heirs for ever. As to the other 2 tents, 1 whereof is used as a coalhouse and the other is in the tenure of Mother Jeninges, together with the house wherein I now dwell, I give to my exors. to sell to such of my kinsmen as will give what I paid for them. If I lie long ill and ask old Mrs. Glascocke to forsake her dwelling in the country and to stop with me in London, then she shall have part of my sd. house to dwell in during her life without paying any rent. [All the sd. premisses are held as in the previous Inqn.] Ric. E. died 28 Oct., 4 Eliz. [1562]; James Hennage is his kinsman and next heir, to wit, son and h. of Will. Hennage and Alice his wife, sister of Will. Emerson, father of the sd. Ric., and is now aged 28 years and more.

FROM THE PROCEEDINGS OF SOCIETY OF ANTIQUARIES OF NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE. VOL. VII., P. 1.

Exhibited by Richard Welford, a member of the Council, four old deeds relating to the transmission of property belonging to a family of Emersons in Newcastle.

"1561—62, March 7. Indenture between John Marley, of Whickham, yeoman, and George Emerson, of Newcastle, yeoman, by which Marley conveys to Emerson for the sum of £32 10s. 0d. a fourth part of a messuage in Whickham, and the land belonging to the same, now or late in the tenure of Alexander Bell, of Blyndon, yeoman, a fourth part of a field adjoining, known as the Flydger field, alias Lyngye field and a fourth part of a close called Fodge or Whynnye Close adjoining the said Flydger or Lyngye field, reserving to the Right Hon. John Lumley, knight [Lord Lumley], the coals, leal, iron, etc., in Flydger field, and to the said [John Marley] the seat house wherein the said John Marley doth now dwell, with the fawde and orchard on the backside of the said seat house, etc., etc. George Emerson."

"1580, December 1st. Indenture tripartite Hugh Carlell, of Sedgefield, yeoman, and Jennet, his wife, sister and one of the co-heirs of William Bell, son and heir of Alexander Bell, late of Blyndon, yeoman, of the 1st part; John Lawson, of the Streatyate, yeoman, and Elynor, his wife, another sister of the said William Bell, of the 2nd part, and George Emerson, of Newcastle, yeoman, of the 3rd part. Reciting that John Marley, of Whickham, in his lifetime, sold to the said Alexander Bell the full three parts of two closes at Whickham, called the Lyngye, or Flydger field, and the Fodge, or Whynnye close, and to the said George Emerson the fourth part of the same, and that it had been agreed among the several parties to divide the inheritance in the said fields or closes, which descended to Carlell and wife and Lawson and wife after the death of Bell, and to Emerson by purchase. [The Lyngye field being divided into three parts, Carlell and wife were to have the central portion, being one-half the area of the field, Lawson and wife to have the southern part of the same, and the southern part of the Fodge close, which abutted upon "Streatyate Loyning," while Emerson took the northern part of both fields.]

"1611. November 16. Indenture between Anne Emerson, of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, widow, and William Emerson, of the same town, skinner and glover, of the one part, and George Wheatley and Martin Wheatley, of Ravensworth, in the county of Durham, yeoman, on the other part. Foley's "History of the English Jesuits." Series 5, p. 17. Emerson, Ralph, Temporal Coadjutor, was born in the diocese of Durham about 1551; entered the Society in Rome about 1569, and was formed in Rome in 1579. He was one of the first three Englishmen of his degree who entered the Society, and left Rome with Fathers Parsons and Campion for England, April 13, 1580. He landed at Dover with Father Campion on June 25 following, and was arrested with him at the port, but by a singular providence both were soon after released. He was the special companion assigned to Father Campion in his short but successful apostolical career through a portion of England. After the martyrdom of Father Campion, in December, 1581, Brother Emerson, whom Father Campion used to call "his little man," managed to escape into France, and joined Father Robert Parsons at Rouen, who afterwards assigned him as Socius to Father William Holt in his expedition to Scotland, and later on to Father William Weston, whom he accompanied from France to England in 1584. He was seized with a number of Catholic books entrusted to his care, and committed to prison, first to the Counter in the Poultry, and then to the Clink, where he enjoyed the company of Father John Gerard for a long time. He was subsequently removed to Newgate, and finally transferred to the horrible dungeons of Wisbeach Castle, from whence he was removed to Framlingham Castle, Suffolk, upon the accession of James I., in 1603, and was sent thence into banishment with many others. He had long been completely helpless from paralysis, brought on by his intense sufferings during an imprisonment of twenty years in some of the most loathsome dungeons of the time. He died a holy death at St. Omer's College, March 2, 1604, at 53, having afforded to all an example of heroic patience and edification. [The above is very much condensed.]

Gentleman's Magazine commencing 1731. 1732: Rev. Mr. Emerson, Rector of St. Ethelberg, in Bishopgate St., died 17th June. 1734: John Emerson, of Putney, Esq., married to M—, of Fulham, widow. Emerson Money in Chancery.

In the Supplement to the London Gazette, Tuesday, Mar. 3rd, 1896, there is only one Emerson given whose descendants are entitled to money now in Chancery, viz.:- "Emerson. Ac. opened 1758. Last trans. 8 Aug., 1761. Payment out. Ord. 28 Feb., 1758. Page 1407, II 2."

Judging from several letters received from correspondents there seems to be an idea there are many sums of Emerson money in Chancery. This is an error, and anybody for fourteen stamps can obtain the only authentic and reliable list of such moneys, published annually in a Supplement to the London Gazette, by writing to Messrs. J. & J. W. Harrison, 47, St. Martin's Lane, London, W.C., the publishers.

Vol. 246. No. 14, I. The examination of *Thomas Emerson, taken 24 Nov., 1593. Deponent says he never was in Flanders, nor ever crossed the seas, save once into Norway for Hanks, about May last, when he was absent about 6 weeks. He was apprenticed about 1584 or 1585 to John Edwards, of the King's Head, in New Fish Street, and served for his freedom about 6 years; when, about 3 years ago next Lent, he set up a tavern for himself at the Three Kings, in Fish Street, where he remained till about last Annunciation Day, when he came to Barwick and remained there till this, his last voyage, intended for Hull. About 2 years since he obtained the Lord Chamberlain's livery, thro' one Mr. Sadler, and has worn it ever since. He never served any other persona, or spoke of the army that was to come to Ostend. (signed) THOMAS EMERSON.

Vol. 173, October, 1624. Sec. Conway to George Verney. To assist Mr. Lydiard and to move for Conway to have the guardianship of Alex. Emerson's children.

Vol. 173, No. 109. October, 1624. Protection for Edward Emerson, and his sureties for a year.

Charles I., Vol. 25, No. 53. April 23rd, 1628. Petition of James Cambell, of London, Alderman, to the Council. The petitioner having sued Edw. Emerson, was ordered by the Council to suspend his suit for twelve months. Twenty months more have elapsed, and no payment. He therefore prays for redress. Underwritten is an order of the Council that Emerson should satisfy the petitioner within that month, or else appear before their Lordships.

Vol. 35, No. 48. Sep. 8th, 1626. Petition of Edward Emerson, to the Council. Being bound for the debts of Thomas Emerson, deceased, petitioner obtained a protection, and paid off £4000, but being disabled by losses, during the plague year, and especially by the death of 12 of his servants as a brewer, his creditors made him a bankrupt; notwithstanding which, Alderman Cambell procured a council warrant against him, under which he has been 12 or 13 days in custody; prays that he may be dismissed, not being able to pay the Messenger's charges.

Vol. 36, No. 29. Sep. 20th, 1626. Petition of Edward Emerson to the Council. Reiterates his former petitions (Vol. 35, No. 48), having now been 24 days in custody.

Vol. 6, No. 68. September 16th, 1625. Sir William Andrewes to Sec. Conway. One Emerson having spoken foul, scilicet matter touching a great nobleman, Sir William had committed him to gaol, and sent the examinations for consideration. Incloses:—I. Information of John Marshall. II. Examination of William Emerson. III. Sir Thomas Savage and others, to Sir William Andrewes. Emerson was a fuller, and had lived two years in Cardington in good repute.

Vol. 6, No. 104. Sept. 24th, 1625. Sir John Sucklinge to Sir William Andrewes. Sir William's letter, with the examinations respecting Emerson, had been brought to Sir John who suggests that inquiry should be made upon certain other points.

Vol. 94, No. 14. Feb. 22nd, 1628. Warrant to discharge all improved rents of the lordships of Brancepeth, Raby and Baroard Castle in Durham, made by Mr. Emerson, the several rents being charged as they have been compounded for by Sir Henry Vane and Humphrey Wharton, Commissioners for the King's lands when Prince of Wales.

Vol. 117, No. 9. September 13th, 1628. Return made by Adam Flip, etc., Messengers of the Chamber, of the names of Booksellers in London who dealt in old libraries. At Godfrey Emerson's they found 2 Buchananian Cronicon, 8vo; and 1 Pareus ad Romanos, 4to, which he was charged to keep until he heard further.

Vol. 144, No. 31. June 2nd, 1628. Sir Edward Deriog, Lieutenant of Dover Castle, to Theophilus, Earl of Suffolk. Incloses:—Examinations of John Emerson and Joshua Langworth, deposing to further acts of scorn practised towards them by mariners of the Waterhound in Dover harbour.

Vol. 151, No. 9. Nov. 3rd, 1629. Petition of Sibell Aley, widow of Captain John Aley. She has found out that Thomas Emerson, deceased, took a lease of the late King of lands in Co. Durham at the rent of £550, in which lease were two clauses of nomine poene, one for not enrolling the lease at £20, for every year's default, which continued 10 years, to the forfeiture of £200, and the other of £28 13s. 4d. for every year's default in payment of rent at the times reserved on which there is a forfeiture of £160. Prays for a grant of these forfeitures.

Vol. 170 (?). June, 1634. (Acts of the Court of High Commission.) In pursuance of intimation served upon Toby Crispe, he appeared, and produced for his compurgators (amongst others) John Emerson, M.A., Curate of Shoreham.

Vol. 345. January, 1636—37. Petition of Francis Emerson to the Commissioners for saltpetre and gunpowder. Petitioner being at Beverley for making saltpetre for his Majesty's service, and having no conveyance but by sea to send his petre to the storehouse, in December last, shipped aboard the "Providence of Hull" for a pretended voyage to London, Richard Wood being master, two hogheads of saltpetre, which were cast away on New Year's Day at Yarmouth. Prays relief.

Vol. 352. April, 1637. Minutes of the proceedings of a "curia capitalis," with a view of frank-pledge, for the Lordship of Raby, Co. Durham. Thomas Emerson sued for 19s. 1d. for a gown cloth to his wife.

The same complains of the same in a similar plea for a load of oates and for part of a greater sum. xij.s. . . . Christopher Allanson complains of Thomas E. in plea of debt, being his third servant, for detaining his wages due at Whitsuntide, 1635. xj.s. vj.d. . . .

Jas. I., Vol. 66, No. 29. In L. nt last, discoursing of divers matters with Mr. Emerson at his house in little St. Helen's of contracts and country affairs, amongst other things speaking of my L. of Northumberland, and some of his affairs and "quelquechoses," I cast out a word of a man pretended who should have made my L. his heir, and whom my L. should have gone to meet about Highgate, upon Persyes conference with him at Ston, the next day, wch. was when the Parliament house should have been blown up. Mr. Emerson answered me suddenly, sitting then by his fire, "Whitlocke I have heerde speake of such a man." After my imprisonment at Westminster, last sommer, I met Mr. E. again in Westminster, where I told him of the former passage at his house, and when he acknowledged it, I added plainly that I thought I should call him to avow so much before the King and the Council. He seemed somewhat troubled thereat; but we were interrupted, and so parted. Soon after, I lying at the K. Head at Lambeth, Mr. E. came to me, where I urged him, as before. He desiring not to be pressed on the point, I replied that I thought it would prove necessary, both for his Maty and the service of the state, and also to justify myself, I having alleged so much of my own knowledge from his Lp., who stiffly denied any such thing. But if he could give me any light and make as much appear by others, I said I did not desire to bring him to examination; whereupon he gave me to understand somewhat of Sr. Joseline Percy and what he thought of Mr. Martin, Henego Jones and others. And so he departed. Now, lately, not having seen him for a long time, I spoke to him again and pressed him on the same point. He acknowledged at several times and places, and lastly on the Exchange, on the 27th of Sept. present, that Whitlocke had not only said to him that he had my L. life in his hands, and that he knew that my L. was to be away from Parliament on that day and occasion, but that my L. of Westmerland called had told him that Whitlocke had said as much to him of his hand over the Earl, and likewise of the Earl's absence that day, and, moreover, that Mr. Heriott said he knew that Percy's business with the Earl the day before was to that purpose, as the Earl said, but that he meant not to go. Yrs. to command, TIM. ELKS. 29 Sept., 1611.

Vol. 83, No. 26. May it please your honour, I have here-enclosed sent you the letter which I showed you yesterday, and another letter wh. I received 4 days before, whereby you may see what "havoce and spoile" is made of the deer at Brancepeth, for they are shamefully "kiled and stolne," not only by strangers, but even by the servants of those lewd fellows whom Emerson keeps there as keepers of the parks to serve his turn and be instruments of his designs. . . . Your honor's most humble, HE. SANDERSON. The 12th of Nov., 1615.

Vol. 83, No. 26 I. The next day after you went away Emerson took possession of most of the houses in this town and Stockley for the use of my Lo. of Somerset, namely, of those who are out of lease and not agreed with him, amongst wh. he came to old Dame Ripons, and went in to the garth and pulled up a docken and took witness that he took possession thereof for my Lo. Somerset. He hath told some of the tenants that they are fneable for every hour they have stayed in the house since he took possession, wh. he did to terrify them, with divers other things for that purpose, as lying and swearing, etc. He protests that he wishes Mark Coming and George Wilkinson as well as any 2 men in the Irdship, but surely without reason, for they disliked his proceedings: but to stop Mark's mouth he lends him £100 for a year, sells him part of his father's farm into his own, etc. Wilkinson does not yield, although he has received many favours from Emerson. There has been much ado about catching deer in the East park; about 30 were taken, whereof some were killed "presently," and some sore hurt. About 17 days ago they were catching all day, but they only took 3. Since then they have ceased because it was told Emerson that 60 deer had got into Halliwell's grounds. I saw 12 or 13 near the house wh. E. has sold in this town for 1020 years fine or purchase. On Friday night he (E.) went to Barnard Castle very suddenly. . . .

Vol. 83, No. 26 II. Emerson used the tenants here so vilely and basely with threatening words and damnable oaths and unreasonable demands for their houses and farms that it seems strange to all the country, for of Jo. White, whose rent is only 4s., he demanded £20, etc., etc. . . . SA. SANDERSON. Brancepeth Castle, 26 Oct., 1615.

P.S.— . . . Rathburn came down post to Emerson on Wednesday last to Barnard Castle, and E. got that night to Richmond about 12 o'clk. at night.

Vol. 83, No. 37. An overture touching his Matie's service, and for the good of the Cuntrie and people within the Bishopric of Durham—(1) That careful provision be forthwith had for the prevention of the practices and conspiracies of obstinate and dangerous recusants in those parts, the rather because of late some of the principal have received animation by one Emerson, employed in those parts for the Earl of Somerset. . . . (5) That Thos. E. be commanded to deliver up his commission which he lately had from sd. Earl of Somerset for settling his lordship's estate of the "sometimes Westmorland's possessions," and the same to be perused, and he forthwith be caused to make an account of the various sums of money he has received, etc. . . . HE. SANDERSON. The 16 Nov., 1615.

Lancheester, by Dorothy, his 2nd wife, dan. and co-heiress of Ralph Emerson, of Westgate Castle, in Weardale, co. Durham, Esq.). Vol. II., p. 208: Emerson. Thomas Emerson and Elizabeth, his wife, with children, John, Joseph, Nathaniel, James, and Thomas, emigrated to New England about 1638, and settled at Ipswich, Mass., where Nathaniel died on 29 Dec., 1712, aged 83 years. At his grave in the old Burial Ground at that place a monument was erected, and still exists, bearing a coat of arms identical with that granted to Ralph Emerson, of Foxton, co. Durham, in 26th year of Henry VIII. This leads to the inference that Thomas Emerson, above named, was of the Durham family. * N.B.—This should be Essex, not York (Ebor.). Vide Notes.—P. H. E.

Notes on the previous abstracts, by Miss E. Walford, who collated the original records for me.

Trin., Edw. I., 28 mem. 210 dors. (Roll 134). The name given by Genl. Plantagenet Harrison as Emmeson is unmistakably Gunneson. Thomas fil. Adam Gunneson.

Easter, 14 Hen. VII., mem. 170 dors. (Roll 948). The Roll itself gives no further particulars whatever of William Emerson.

Common Roll. Easter, 23 Hen. VIII. (Roll 82), mem. 196 dors. Ebor. George Cecil, by Wm. Dauby, his atty., v. Edward Emerson and Isabella, his wife, daughter and heir of Adam Wilberfosse, for ceasing to do the customary services to the plttf. for a mess. and appurts. in Hoveden, held of plttf. as of his Manor of — (sic) by fealty, and 2s. annual rent, and for which the said Adam Wilberfosse did fealty in the time of Hen. VII. No judgment given.

Common Roll. Hil., 7 Hen. VIII. (Roll 26). This entry is wrongly quoted by Genl. P. H. as Ebor.: it should be Essex. Otherwise the quotation is an exact translation of the entry.

Exchequer Plea Roll. Trin., 4 Jas. I., mem. 51. Bartholomew Emerson, farmer of the King of certain lands and tents, in Shotton, co. Durham, by Wm. Hakewell, atty., sues Edward Thursby and Francis Newby. One Robert Bellarby, on March 14, 3 Jas. I., demised to plttf. at Walworth, co. Extract from "The Rites of Durham":—"There did lie on the High Altar an excellent fine book, very richly covered with gold and silver, containing the names of all the benefactors towards St. Cuthbert's Church from the very original foundations thereof, the very letters of the book being for the most part all gilt." It is the only document spared by time which throws light upon the benefactors of Durham during the period anterior to the Norman Conquest. The title, Liber Vite, was that given to such books by the Church. The fact of the benefactor's name being therein recorded was coupled with the prayer that the same name might at last find a place in the Book of Life. (In handwriting of Fifteenth Century, p. 126.) Petitions for Admission of Attorneys, 1 bundle (1660-1694). Recognisances, etc., and Writs, 4 bundles (all searched).

Auditors' Records. No. 1. [This large bundle contains over 100 rolls, nearly all of which are Sheriffs' and Auditors' Accounts for fines and americiaments for suits and before Justices, Perquisites of Court, fines, etc. There are also dated mentions of Emersons without place or date. Such as: Anne Emerson for Nicho. Wilbye, 6d.]

No. 51. Recognizances before Robt. Shute, Baron of the Exchequer, at the Assizes in Co. Durham, 24 July, 23 Eliz. Of John Fetherstonehalgh, esq., thereupon sworn between Ralph Emerson, plt., and Rob. . . . and others, defts., in the plea of taking and unjustly detaining animals going at large, &c. [No place given.]

Commissions, Interrogatories and Depositions. Bundle 1. Evidence of witnesses called in various cases, often between the Bp. of Durham and his tenants. Most interesting, but unfortunately there were no Emersons.

Gaol Deliveries, 18 Hen. VII. Hugh Emerson, late of Stanhope, yeoman, with others, was taken because he on the 12 Aug., in the 6th year of Richard, Bishop of Durham, took away a horse price 4 marks belonging to an unknown person at Whythworth. The jury say that the said Hugh is not guilty, so they are allowed to go sine die.

Gaol Deliveries, 17 Hen. VII. The sheriff is commanded to take John Emerson, late of Yarem in co. York, yeoman; Hugh Emerson, late of Stanhope, yeoman, and others, for divers felonies. 4th week of Lent, in the 5th year of Richard, Bp. of Durham, John Emerson, late of Durham, yeoman, was taken up for stealing some of the goods of Thomas, Prior of Durham. Verdict: Not guilty. The sheriff is commanded to take Ric. Store . . . and Edward Emerson, late of Stanhope, yeoman, son of Edward Emerson, for divers felonies. Also to take Henry Emerson, late of Stanhope, yeoman, Robert Emerson, late of Stanhope, yeoman, and others, for divers trespasses. John Emerson, late of Stanhope, yeoman, for 40d. for divers trespasses.

Judgment Roll, No. 1. Monday next, after the feast of St. Matthew the Apostle, in the 2nd year of William, Bp. of Durham. The sheriff is commanded to cause Alexander Henryson, of Swynhoburn in Werdall, yeoman, and Alexander Emerson of the same, yeoman, to come here to answer to the Bishop for having entered his park at Stanhope without licence and killed a doe. They plead guilty, and are sentenced to be imprisoned for 3 years, and afterwards to remain at the will of the said Bp. 21 Hen. VII. (See of Durham being vacant). Roger Lomley, esq., and Wm. Richardson put themselves against Simon Emerson, of Lomley, yeoman, of plea why they took the beasts of the said Simon and detained them. The said Simon did not come, so was fined. Monday in the 3rd week of Lent in the 1st year of Christopher, Bp. of Durham. The sheriff is commanded to cause Thomas Knagg, late of Durham, yeoman . . . and William Emerson, of Durham, yeoman, to come and answer to the Bp. for divers trespasses. 22 Hen. VII. Thos. Lovell, Knight, Ric. Emson, Knt., and others pray against Rob. Hilton, the manor of Foleanceby. Verdict in favour of plts. 20 Hen. VII. Ric. Baynbrig puts himself against Anthony Emerson and Rob. Birtfeld for taking and detaining his beasts. 34 other rolls to be examined.

Entry Book of Chancery Decrees and Orders. 1 Vol. 1633—1643: P. 192. In the Court of Chancery of Durham, 10 Sept., 1634, between Ralph Emerson and others, plts., and Hen. Blakiston, deft. [No genealogical information whatsoever, merely order to examine witnesses, etc.] P. 665: 24 March, 1639, between Emerson and others, plts., and Eliz. Mowbray and others, defts. Plt. to amend his bill. P. 751: At Durham, 21 March, 1641, between Christopher Emerson, plt., and Henry Emerson, deft. Plt., together with John Emerson and Robert Anderson, by bond dated May, 16 Chas. I. [1640], became bond to deft. in £126 for payment of £63 the 24th of June following. The money was not paid, but plt. did not complain because the sum was part of a greater formerly paid by John E. and Rob. Anderson for purchase of lands at Eastgate, whereof George Emerson, deft.'s eldest brother, was seised for the lives of himself, deft., and John Emerson their brother, and which he sold to the said John E. and Rob. Anderson, and assigned £63 to deft. Plt. to be allowed damages for non-payment of the money at the rate of 8 per cent. per ann.

Registrar's Decrees and Orders, 1613. Bundle 1. [No Emersons.] 21 other bundles to be examined.

Petitions for Admission of Attorneys, 1 Bundle, 1660—1694. [Nothing before 1660.]

Registrar's Recognizances, Indictments, Writs, etc. Bde. 1 (Lists of constables and men in various parishes). Sedgfield. October, 1612. Common Callevers furnished, 6. (One of the six) John Emmerson. The names of all the able men in Brereton [no date, 1612(?): Christopher Emerson, Godfraye Emerson; Stranton and Tunstall: Thomas Emerson. 21 July, 11 Eliz. [1569]. Rowland Emerson, of Pow, in Wardell, yeoman, acknowledges that he owes to the Queen £10. George Emerson, of the same, yeoman, owes to the Queen, 10 marks. The condition of this recognizance is such that if the said Rowland E. keep the Queen's peace against her Highness' people, and especially against William Emerson his brother, until the feast of Pentecost next coming, that then this recognizance to be void. John Emerson, of Wolston, husbandman, is bound to the Queen in £10. The condition of this recognizance is such that whereas the said John E. has been admitted to keep a common ale-house, or tipping-house: if, therefore, the said John shall not suffer any unlawful games, as cards or dice, nor admit any suspected papist or persons unknown, nor any person notoriously "defamed" for drunkenness; that then this recognizance to be void.

Bde. 4. Writ dated at Durham, 6 April, 19 James I. [1621], King James I. to the Sheriff of Durham, commanding him to take Richard Emerson and Robert Bygate, alias Bygott, wherever they may be found, and to have their bodies before the Barons of the Exchequer at Westminster in 5 weeks from Easter, to answer to George Emerson [no place given] for divers trespasses. [There are no mentions of Emersons in Bundles 2 and 3.]

Emerson (son of Isabell) having sold to Harrison a moiety of Whestnopburne; he (Harrison) complains that by combination the defendants endeavour to keep him out of possession of same.

16 Jan., 1635—6. Janete Ward, daughter of Chrstr. Ward, late of Darnton, Co. Durham, v. Leonard Emerson. Concerning said Leonard's being wrongfully in possession of a tenement in a street called Bondgate, in Darnton, belonging to plaintiff.

15 Oct., 1635. John Ward, of Bpp. Auckland, v. Leonard Emerson. On same subject as foregoing suit.

B. and A., No. 39, 26 Oct., 1635. Answer of Leonard Emerson to complaint of John Ward. Setting forth how he became possessed of the tenement in Darnton.

B. and A., No. 49, 23 Jan., 1635—7. George Guy, of Corneforth, Co. Durham, gent., v. Anne Emerson, widow (pretending to be sole executrix of William Emerson,* late of Cornforthe) (* her late husband). George Guy, Wm. Emerson and Wm. Eden being seized in right of their wives of certain tenements in Corneforth. Anne Emerson, as executrix of said Wm., claims compensation for time when complainant occupied premises exclusively, whence present suit.

7 Jan., 1636—7. William Emerson, yeoman, of Brotherlee, Co. Durham, v. Richard Harrison, Geo. Cornforth and Arthur Emerson. Concerning a horse which he purchased of Richard Harrison, and which the defendants (one being Arthur E., of Gatecastle) are fraudulently detaining.

2 April, 1636. Thomas Tempest, Attorney for the Bishop of Durham, v. Francis Emerson. To recover rents detained by said Francis E. due to the Bishop from the estate of one John Robinson, a felon.

21 May, 1636. Mary Smith, Esq., her late husband, v. John Emmerson, of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, merchant. Wm.

Smith paid said Jno. Emerson £40, to apprentice his son Robert Smith to sd. Jno. E., who was to teach him the trade of a merchant adventurer. Sd. Robert having died in consequence of careless treatment received from Jno. E., Mary Smith, the widow, claims repayment of the £40.

11 June, 1636. George Emerson, of Wardaile, Co. Durham, yeoman, and William Emerson, of Hollingbush, in said Co., yeoman, v. Thos. Emerson, of Hillhouse in sd. Co., gent., concerning a bond made by Geo. E. on behalf of one Raph Maddeson, since dead, with said Thomas E.

19 Oct., 1636. Edward Rodham and Wm. Hutchinson, of the city of Durham, Tanners, v. Anthony Edward, Henry Emerson and Lancloft Bunbrigg. Plaintiffs being wariens of the trade of Tanners, complain that defendants (all of Woolsingham) have been setting up in sd. trade, without first being apprenticed, whereby they owe £4 to the said wariens.

3 Dec., 1636. Charles Elstobb, of Foxton, and Wm. Lumley, of Lumley, both in Co. Durham, gent., v. William Emerson, of Brotherlee, in sd. Co., yeoman. One John Alchinston, late of Little Swamston, Co. Durham, yeoman, dying about 9 years ago, his widow, being the near kinsman of Jno. Lumley, having one child, a son, John Achinston, gave sd. child into the care of sd. Lumley, in pursuance of the wishes of his father, dead, with his portion of £100; 2 years later the widow married sd. Wm. Emerson, who borrowed £50 of sd. portion, Arthur Emerson, his brother, being one of the sureties, Charles Elstobb also a surety, and has since failed to repay it.

B. and A., No. 43, (7) 15 Sept., 1637. Thomas Tempest, Esq., Attorney General to the Bishop of Durham, v. Christopher Emerson. The Bishop being seized of the three parks in Wardaile Forrest, appointed Richard Emerson collector of the rents; in 1632 Richard deputed his brother, Christopher Emerson, collector, who has never paid the money to the Bishop, or given account of it.

8 July, 1637. Robert Emerson, of Breerton, Co. Durham, yeoman, v. Ralph Crawe. Robert E. married Margaret Crawe, daughter of said Ralph, and gave her for a jointure certain land, etc., in Bellarside, Woolsingham. She having died, Robert E. wishes to sell his interest therein, and Ralph Crawe refuses to produce evidences.

B. and A., No. 44, 27 Mar., 1637. The answer of Anne Emerson, defendant, to the bill of George Guy, v. Re interests under the will of John Shaw, dead, father of complainant's late wife Alice (2nd daughter), of Elizabeth, wife of Wm. Eden (first daughter), and of defendant, widow of William Emerson, lately deceased.

B. and A., No. 46, 6 April, 1639. Answers of Brian Emerson and Ralph Emerson in t^e complaint of Wilfray Fulthropp. Brian Emerson admits that Wm. Phillips, mentioned in bill of complaint, was, in his lifetime, seized of the lands in Eastgate; he dying 52 years ago, left 4 daughters. Brian E. married Catherine, the eldest, and entered into her 4th part of the land, and purchased from the sisters the other three parts, which he has held and enjoyed for about 46 years. Ralph E. testifies this to be true. (Ralph, son of Brian.)

[About 6 April, 1639.] Wilfray Fulthropp, of ———, v. Bryan and Ralph Emerson, of Eastyeate, Wardaile, Co. Durham [see foregoing answer]. Margaret, Katherine, Elizabeth and Anne were the 4 daughters of William Phillips. Wilfray Fulthropp claims one-fourth of the lands in right of his mother, Anne Phillips, who married Francis Fulthropp, of Wardaile, she being now dead.

B. and A., No. 47, 6 July, 1639. Thomas Bee, of Eastgate-in-Wardell, Co. Durham, v. John Emerson, of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, merchant. One Thomas Merryman, being possessed of a messuage called the Eastgate in Wardaile and a parcel of land, did farm let the same to the orator, Thos. Bee, for 4 years. John Emerson, who had the farm mortgaged to him, for two years, to begin at end of said orator's term, has combined with Merryman to defraud the orator of certain crops.

B. and A., No. 48, 13 April, 1640. Thomas Emerson of Cornesey, Co. Durham, yeoman, Ellinor his wife and Isabel Grenwell, v. Eliz. Mowbrey, John Chapman and Thomas Taylor. Elizth. Mowbrey is relict of John Mowbrey, who, about 1635, settled land, etc., in trust for orators Ellinor and Isabel, and she with others now disputes possession of their rights.

Parish Registers.

That wise and great King Henry VIII. ordered parish registers to be established in 1538, and these valuable records are accepted as evidence in a law court. Unfortunately many parsons have kept them badly, lost them, avoided the duty of sending transcripts to the various registers, and nowadays charge extortionate sums for extracts. Perhaps could all the parsons' dealings in the matter of parish registers be revealed, nothing would prove more the low morale of many of the clergy, and nothing causes so much worry to the genealogist as the combined incompetency and greed of many of the clergy—on the other hand, there are, of course, some enlightened and generous parsons who help all they can and claim only a just fee, in some rare cases returning even their just fees. The sooner the parish registers are all removed to the Public Record Office the better for everybody.

In a search including the registers of about 36 parishes (vide infra) of which North Walsham is the most important, no other Emersons were found, though as the search was not made specially for Emersons it is possible that some were omitted, but it is not likely that any number were so. I cannot find the birth of William Emerson who died in 1638, and it seems as if he and Elizabeth came from Durham, especially as he is found in the same parish as Rob. fil. Thurkill in Estgate. As to Thurkill it is too soon to say anything with certainty, but we know that John Threlkeld, of the Melmerby Threlkelds (who were allied to Emersons, was parson or rector of B. xton, and died there in 1602 (Cartlew's Hist. of Launditch Hundred, Part II., p. 382). They were frequently called Thurkill.—John P. Steel.

The parishes searched were Antingham, Bacton, Catfield, Crowwight, Dilham, Happisburgh, Honing, Horsey, Knapton, Lessingham, Mundesley, Palling, Paston, Felmingham, Smallburgh, Gemingham, Hemsby, Wascham, Ridlington, Sloley, Somerton, Sutt n, Thorpe Market, Trunch, Walcot, Winterton, C East Somerton, Witton, N. and S. Walsham, Westwick, Worsted, Bircham, Newton, Swafield, Seo Ruston, East Ruston, Ingham (to 1800), Swanton Abbot.

WARWICKSHIRE.

COVENTRY. ST. MICHAEL'S, registers burnt 1698, none before 1640. HOLY TRINITY, Baps., 1615—1635; Kath., d. of Oswald E., Oct. 1, 1617.

The following Grammar School Registers were searched or searched for to 1835 when they began before that date:—Bristol (1800), Gloucester Cath., St. Mary de Crypte (1668), Felsted, Braintree (none), Sedgfield (none), Houghington, Darlington, Newcastle-on-Tyne, Durham Cathedral, Gateshead, Bungay, Ipswich, Bishop's Stortford, no early register.

NOTE.—When the name is written in the register Emerson or Emmerston it has been printed simply "E;" when written otherwise the name has been printed in full as written. All extracts have been taken from the original registers or transcripts as indicated, except those quoted as "printed," when the printed registers, etc., have been copied. The initials referring to contributors are E. W. = Emma Walford; J. A. L. A. = Rev. Airey; W. C. E. = Mr. Ellison; C. C. S. = Mrs. C. C. Stopes; G. E. G. = The Vicar of Potton. The majority of Durham, London, Southwark, Gloucestershire and Kent registers were abstracted by Miss Walford; the East Anglia register and Cambs. and Lincoln transcripts by Mr. F. Johnson, of Gt. Yarmouth; some of the Essex registers by Mrs. C. C. Stopes, some by Miss Walford and some by Mr. Johnson, who also did the Herts registers. The Skelton, Sedgfield and Holkham registers were abstracted by the clergymen in charge, as also many of the short searches in Lincoln and Yorkshire.

Miscellanea.

LINCOLNSHIRE. Manor of Barrow, 6 July, 1708. Robt. Emerson, a customary tenant, presents an oath that on 19 June, 1708, Thomas Scrivener came before Robert Emerson and Jonas Pointer, two customary tenants, and surrendered one tenement, orchard, etc. Thos. Taylor's will, Barton-on-Humber, 6 Jan., 1715—Inter alia: "I give and bequeath unto my sister, Barbara Emmerston, the sum of two Pounds, to be paid within 12 mos. after my decease." (Rev. North-Cox, contrib.)

LONDON. The article on family nomenclature (by Dr. Farr) "there is no mention of Emerson." (E. Whitaker, Chief Clerk, General Register Office.)

DURHAM. Halmote Court Office, New Exchequer Bldgs., Durham. "I have searched all the post-mortem indexes and cannot find any Emersons of Foxton at any date. Yours truly, G. J. Wall."

LONDON. Emerson Street (Southwark). So named in a map, 1854. Before that was Thames Street. Southwark in 1630 comprised about the same as it does now. In letters patent from James I. to Edward Allyn to found Dulwich College, the purchase of land from T. Emerson, Esq., is mentioned. "Sometime part of the free and Copiehold manor of Dulwich." (C. E. Heckethorne, author of "Lincoln's Inn and its Parliets," contrib.)

DURHAM. No wills of 4th and 6th Earl of Westmoreland in Rowland, or at Somerset House.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE. Apprentices' indentures, Newcastle-on-Tyne, extracted from the books of the Merchant Adventurers of Newcastle-on-Tyne. Arthur Emerson: At a Court holden the xx.th day of April, 1613, Arthur Emerson, sonne of Bryau Emerson, of the East gate, in the County of Durham, yeoman, apprentice to William Jennison, the elder, Merchant Adventurer, and Bootleman, was enrolled. His Indenture bears date the xx. day of June, 1612, for ten years. Received for his enrollment, xxj.s. vj.d. John Emerson: At a Court holden xxviii.th day of August, 1617, John Emerson, sonne of George Emerson, of Ludwell in Wardell, in the County of Durham, yeoman, deceased, apprentice to Robert Bewick, Merchant Adventurer and Bootleman, was enrolled. His Indenture bears date the v.th day of June, 1616, for 10 years. Received for his enrollment, xxj.s. vj.d. (And see Newell Nupt. Advts., Surtees Soc. Publs., Vol. 93, Index.) John Emerson: At a Court holden 15 December, 1681 John Emerson, son of John Emerson, of Newcastle, gent., apprentice to Sir Nathaniel Johnson, knight, Merchant Adventurer and Mercer, was enrolled, his Indenture bearing date 12 September, 1681, and paid xxij.s. vj.d. 19 July, 1676: Thomas Emerson, son of Thomas Emerson, of Kilham, Coy. Northd., gentico., aptce. to Robert Ellison, Mercer, and dat. 1 Sept., 1675, enrolled and set over to Samuel Ellison. Admitted 1st October, 1685.

DURHAM. In will of R. Nicholson, of Middleton, schoolmaster, dated 12 April, 1589: "Also I give unto George Emerson, of the Eastgate, one young mare, the which he has held to grasse." (Col. J. P. Steel, R. E., contrib.)

ENGLAND. Hotten's original list of Emigrants, 1600—1700—1874, p. 230. Died at Martin's Hundred, 1624, this year: Alice Emerson, a girl; Robert, a boy of Mr.

Emerson's. Came in George, 1623, to Martin's Hundred: Ellis Emerson; Ann, his wife; Thos., his son, aged 11, and 2 servants named T. Goulding and M. Slator. Dec. 16, 1623, at Jordan's Journey, Virginia, William Emerson living. Partner J. Davies in Sampson.

DURHAM. Exchequer Rolls (Auckland Castle), 1542. Roland Emerson, park-keeper of Wolsingham Park, at 6d. per day. Henry Emerson, forester of Roughside ward, and Thos. Emerson, chaplain, of St. James, Darlington, at 60s. per ann.

DURHAM, 1564. Interesting notes from wills and inventories from the Northern Counties (Surtees Soc.), Lionell Emerson, of Hunter Banks. Inventory, 25 May, 1564. Tre jackets, one leather dublet, 11 payre of hose, 11 shirts, one hat, one capp, one cloke, one sword wth. a buckle, one dagar, a payre of butes wth. spores, a payre of shoes, one saddle, one bridle, one bowe and halfe a shafe of shafts, xxx.s. For 11 layre stans in ye church, vj.s. and viii.d. Edmond Bean, Parson of Stanhope, April 19, 1564: "It'm I give to Cuthbert Emson x.l. to be a help to my cosyn Peter Will, and to my sonne William;" C. E. also a witness to will, 1565, Thomas Wrangham, clerk of St. Andrew's, Auckland; Debts, Edmond Emson's wyffe, of Wardell, xlii.s. and liii.d. 1567, John Fetherston, of Hartillpole, seller of lead, which the family mined in Wardale. Praised by these liii. sworn men, lanclot Lanchestre, Raphe Fetherston, John Emson, and John Gibson. Thomas Nevell, of Rabie, gent., Feb. xi., 1570, John Emson, of Shotton, iii.s. Lanclot Emson's iii.s. for wages in the will of Raby, 1572, Robert Emmerston, of Newcastle, witness of inventory of Mr. John Wilkinson, of Newcastle, merchant. From "Rough Notes": "Barbara Tomlinson, formerly widow of Carr (both Newcastle merchants), April 30th, 1577: To George Emmerston and his wife Anne, of Newcastle, 20s., and a 2s. rent of house and garden they hired here in Newcastle. Will Emmerston, of Brothierlye (yeoman): To Janet Emmerston, my maid servant. His son William, P. 1584, Richard Bircho leaves Jane Emmerston, 3s. 6d. Robert Barker, Alderman of Newcastle, 1588: To his sister's son, Robert Emmerston, 40s. Forgives his cousin, George Emmerston, £5. Gives his sister's son, Richard Emmerston, 40s. Alls Emmerston 40s. Nov. 12th, 1598: To Nicholas Fetherstonhalgh, of Akenshaw, gent., and to Mary his wife, who is now the longer lease wyff of Thomas Dickan, in Gardslyde, the £12 to be paid of this ½ farm and lease Heddehope, the £12 to be paid of his lease of deanery of Lanchestre. Will of William Hodshon, son of James Hodshon, of Newcastle. He lived at Manor House, Lanchestre, and attested Ralf's will. He was an old retainer of the Duk of Westmoreland, Lee, another old officer. Hodshon farmed Lanchestre Deanery. Will of Henry, Earl of Westmoreland, 1563, son of Ralph Nevill. He leaves ½ farm of Stanley to N. Fetherstonhalgh, the keeper of Westmoreland Park. Chomley, Lee, Dowthate, Fetherstonhalgh, Burton, Emmerston, Bingham, Hodshon, all retainers of the Earl of Westmoreland, and all gentry residing near Bratcepeth. It must be remembered William Hodshon and this same Nicholas Fetherstonhalgh witness Ralf Emmerston's (of Bratcepeth) will, and Nicholas Fetherstonhalgh married Ralf's daughter Mary."

DURHAM. There is a memorial brass in St. John's Chapel, Stanhope, with Ralf of Foxton's arms, to Thomas Emerson, of Newhouse, who died in 1817, and a window to Edward Emerson, of Hotts (Earmwell), who died 1858; the arms being incorrectly emblazoned in this window. Thos., of Newhouse, was agent to lead mines under W. Beaumont. (W. M. Egglestone, contrib.) These arms were used without any authority whatever, and the incumbent had better insist on their instant removal. He can find that such is the case on application to the College of Arms.—P. H. E.

BRISTOL. Freeman. Thomas Emerson, dyer, admitted freeman 16 Mar., 1634 (vide Gloucestershire pedigree).

NORFOLK. Feet of Fines to 1400 (W. Rye) 38 Ed. III., 1364, John Emmerstone, of Fyncham, v. John Atte Jate, of Fyncham, and Juliana his wife; in Fyncham.

DURHAM. "Clericum et familiarem" seems to be a cleric attached to the court and on intimate terms with the King. . . . I say cleric, not priest, he might be a deacon and this would make Philip's family a little easier. . . . I should render "clericum et familiarem" by clerk-in-attendance, but it must not be assumed that he was in priests' orders." (Professor H. M. Gwatkin, M.A., of Cambridge, contrib.) This refers to Bishop Philip, of Poictou.

NEWCASTLE. "Plague, 1635. In 1635 disaffection became rife. At Michaelmas two Puritans, Robert Bewick and John Emerson, were chosen to be mayor and sheriff. The people began giving up coming to church." (C. J. Bates, Parochial Hist. of Northumberland.)

MONUMENTAL INSCRIPTIONS from Burial Ground of St. George, Hanover Square. Joseph Emmerson, died June 17, 1823, aged 39. Margret, wife of the above, died Nov. 14, 1838, aged 58; inscribed by their bereaved children. Also John Phillips Morgan, son-in-law of the above, died 27 July, 1843, aged 31. George Emmerson, son of the above, died Feb. 15, 1850, aged 38.

MEDAL. Sir John Evans, K.C.B., medal, with Ralf of Foxton's arms. Sir John writes to me—"I bought it of a German dealer who had acquired it on the Continent." C. H. Athill, Esq., Richmond Herald, places the date from the "mantling" as between 1650-1700, but nearer to the former date.

NEWCASTLE. In St. Nicholas Church, Newcastle-on-Tyne, is a memorial tablet to John Emerson, of Newcastle, with his "reputed" arms insulating those of his three wives, viz., Azure on a bend argent three torteaux for Emerson, impaling, 1st, gules on a bend argent three mullets azure for Shafto; 2nd, argent a chevron between three martlets sable for Lawson; 3rd, pale of six argent and azure on a bend sable a sword for Sanderson. Crest, a sinister wing . . . thereon a bend . . . charged with three roundels for Emerson. I have referred to this spurious crest and claim of the Newcastle merchant before; it is to be hoped the Shafto, Lawson and Sanderson crests were of more authority. It would be better for everybody if those snobbish and spurious memorials were all removed by order of the College of Arms, who should have the power, if they have it not, of squashing all bogus emblazonings, brasses, etc.

LINCOLN, Domesday. No Emersons, Emsona, but some Elmar, Elmer and Elmars in Edward the Confessor's time—none of them held at the survey.

VOCABULARY OF OLD WORDS. Explanation of arms in Elizabethan times: Jacks = body-armor; skins of wild animals covered with plates of steel. Styrks = male cattle first year, then stots the third and fourth year. Gymmer = young female sheep. Hogges = young sheep, i.e., castrated males in their second year. Stynts = dunlins (birds). Hoast-man = oast-man, i.e., maltster.

DURHAM. Surrender abstracted from halnute court books, Exchequer Bldgs., Durham. John, of Ormesby and Linthorpe. I copy extracts subsequent to 1727. 17 Dec., 1735, surrender from John Emerson and John E. the son, to Wm. Hutchenson and Henry Mewburn, of one house and garden to same adjoining, called Morland House, in Sedgfield, upon trust for John E., the father, for life, then in trust for John E., the son, for his life, then in case a marriage, which was intended to be solemnized between the sd. John E., the son, and Susanna Gill, of Eston, in Co. York, was so solemnized, then in trust for the sd. Susanna and the issue of the marriage. 2 Oct., 1784, admittance of Wm. Hutchenson, of Barnard Castle, eldest surviving son and heir of Wm. Hutchenson, who survived Henry Mewburn, to the same premises. Same date, surrender from the sd. Wm. Hutchenson and James Emerson, of Linthorpe and Marton in Cleveland, in Co. York, only son and heir of John E., the son, late of Linthorpe in Cleveland, in sd. Co. York, by Susanna his late wife, to Wm. Arrowsmith in trust for the sd. James Emme son (same premises). 24 May, 1810, surrender from James Emerson, of Marton and Linthorpe in Cleveland, and of Drononndly, in the sd. Co. of York, and Wm. Arrowsmith, to Thos. Davison in trust for Geo. Best, who purchased the same premises. So the property surrendered by John, of Sedgfield, in 1727, turns out to be the same property that is mentioned in the will of James Emerson in 1804. This is proof that John, of Ormesby, is the son of John, of Sedgfield. (Jno. J. Emerson.) The above house, Mr. J. J. Emerson tells me, is still standing, a large house. In Sedgfield Par. Survey, 1647, 1 Nov., 14 Chas. I., a John Emerson bought of Mr. Mayson, "1 little house lying and being in Sedgfield in the North Street, rent 2d., fine 6d." This John was doubtless the non-solvent in Hearth Tax Rolls, a poor man.

MONEY. In 1288 £9 4s. 11d. was worth about £150 present value.

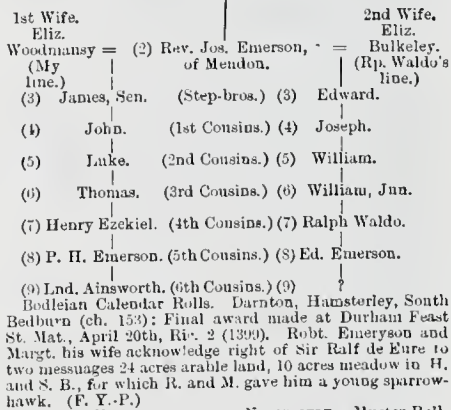

DURHAM. From "Rough Notes." Palatine power began in 1672 with Bishop Walcher (who had the same power as that held by the Earls of Northumberland previously), and ended in 1647 (?). The Bishop possessed Durham, Middleham, Stockton, Crake and Norton Castles; manor houses at Auckland, Greenwood, Darlington, Hurden, Wilhall, Riddle and Northallerton; parks in Auckland, Wolsingham, Bedburn, Greenwood and Weardale Forests; and lands in Houghtoo, Easington, Quarrington, Middleham, Cornforth, Lanchester, Wilton, etc. Freeholders in County Durham,

July, 1820: Chester Ward, John Emerson; Darnton Ward, nine Emersons, all in Weardale; Stockton Ward, J. J. Emerson in Sedgfield; rejected, Hickson Emerson, of Sunderland. Durham Emmonsons: In Hatfield were several Em, Emes and Emmonsona. In an original P.M. Agnes fil. Emme fil. Rob. of Morton 4th 20, Hatfield, 1365, is mentioned. Also Sibilla fil. de Emme 4th 20, Hatfield, 1365. Hutchinson says, "a resident family assumed the name of Morton" (vide supra), and we find Petrus de Morton died seized of West Morton 5th Bury, which family after fell into female issue. All of that name were in a servile position in Hatfield, and all the Emerysons, Emerrisson or Emersons in good positions—at any rate, freemen. Probably most of this name Em, Emme, or Emson changed their names, for by Hatfield we find them in both Easington and Stockton Wards, and the name Peter in Easington Ward, and Sibilla in Stockton Ward. Above it will be seen Peter and Sibyl are mentioned. Hatfield may have preferred to give them their original names and not that of Morton. Clerical Subsidy Rolls, 1 Ric. II. to 40—41 Eliz.: No Emersons. Extracts from Dr. P. H. Emerson's "Rough Notes," 1896. Wolsingham Manor: In 1647 part of the manor was sold to John Emerson, and on April 20, 1656, this same John Emerson signs indenture for return to Parliament: £406 13s. 4d. This was John, merchant adventurer, of Newcastle-on-Tyne. Lanchester: In 1607 Sir Henry Lumley and another grant ladie lands in Lanchester Church, formerly occupied by Robert Emerson and Nicholas Tempest, deceased, to A. Walton, for 1s. 6d., and one . . . of ladie light. Nevilles founded Lanchester College. A Temp-st Vane was in Massachusetts, U.S.A., circa 1638. Magnificence of the Bishops of Durham: In Bishop Anthony Bek's time (1283-1310) Surtees says, "The Palatine power reached its highest elevation under the splendid pontificate of Anthony Bek. Surrounded by his officers of state, or marching at the head of his troops, in peace or war, he appeared as the military chief of a powerful and independent franchise. The court of Durham Cathedral exhibited all the appendages of royalty—nobles addressed the Palatine sovereign kneeling, and instead of menial servants, knights waited in his presence chamber and at his board bare-headed and standing. He became devoted to splendid progresses, or to the sports of the field. "From William the Conqueror to the Reformation (Henry VIII.) the prelates of Durham exercised distinct and independent sovereignty over the Palatinate in all matters, even to levying taxes and subsidies, powers of mines, wastes, forests and chaces, courts of law and equity, judicial, civil and military," etc. Anne Mallome (Ralph's, of Brancepetb, Mother): No will in her name in Durham Registry, 1570-1660, in Richmond Wills or York Wills, but there is a will of Lawrence Mallome, gentleman (1545), of Kirkby Misperton (Yok), possibly her brother. There are some Mallomes mentioned in Durham Household Book too, and some lived at Lanchester Par. Bishops' Vert and Venison Rolls and Lists of Bailiffs: Not at Record Office. They were looked upon as private property and not official rolls, and have either been destroyed or got buried in private collections. Westmoreland's Rebellion, 1569: State papers, Durham, Eliz., Vol. lxvi., No. 8. June, 1570. Note of the leases of land or tenements held by principal rebels in County Palatiae of Durham, forfeited by their taking part in the rebellion. No Emersons. But a John Emerson, of Shotton, a retainer of Earl of Westmoreland, is in gaol in Durham, 1570. Plague: Severe plagues in County Durham in 1597. (Longstaffe.) One of the Bondgate Emerson's died, Hill Close House or "Hoole" House. (Longstaffe.) Colonel Emerson: In 1650-60 Colonel Emerson and 108 foot arrived at Blackwell for three days at 4d. per day per man. (Longstaffe's "History of Durham.") Cattle Breeders: In 1854 the Emersons, of Erybolme, and Thorn-ton, of Stapleton, may be especially mentioned as the chief breeders of fine cattle of the day. (Longstaffe's "History of Darlington.") Pipe Rolls, 1 Henry I.—19 Henry II.: No Emersons. Poll-Tax Rolls: None exist for Durham before Henry VIII. Ireland (State Papers): No Emersons went between 1288 and 1625. Papers not calendarated 1625. Durham Marriage Licences: None at Lambeth. Registry at Durham begins 1664, and the bonds are in very bad condition. Durham Parish Registers: Duplicates commence 1760, and are lodged in Probate Registry. Charles I., 1637: Francis Emerson, saltpetre-man for Chester and York, and appears a surety for a prisoner at Cottenham, Camba. Acts of Inquisition: The Emersons seem on the whole to have been well-behaved, ord-ly, brave and free from crime (but one Emerson sought sanctuary, and be killed a man for insulting him); but very independent (often fined for contempt and contumacious conduct in court rolls); free with their fists (fined for assaults several times); hasty and amorous, as the acts of inquisition show for infringing acts of high commission. Indeed the compiler has remarked on their amativeness—hence, doubtless, their rapid spread. They were great sportsmen, born foresters, and brave, as Rowland Emerson showed in the raid of Rookhope. They were most trustworthy and fair-minded, for they are found on interminable juries at the halmote courts, are bailiffs to the bishops, and trusted officers to many of the greatest then in the land. Freethinkers many of them were and some were excommunicated the Church, some defied the Church's authority in religious matters, some more recently left the ministry, and some of the ablest have been declared freethinkers, as was William Emerson, the Mathematician. Few ever entered the Church. Joyful and not pushing themselves or scheming for their own advancement—in fact, despising the rewards of the world, as did William Emerson, the Mathematician, in the matter of the Fellowship of the Royal Society—they have been and are a sane, healthy, as well as ancient, stock, connected at different times with the best blood in the land. In physique the type is the usual Weardale type—tall, powerful, active, athletic, light-haired men, with blue eyes. Emerson marries a Neville; Ed. Emerson, gent., purchased Covehouses of Ralph Neville, 1598, and sold same in 1696. Sir Thos. Neville, third son of Lord John Neville, son and heir of Ralph, first Earl of Westmoreland, d. 1439, married Elizabeth, daughter of Henry, Lord Beaumont, sister of John Viscount Beaumont, and widow of Lord Daincourt. They had issue Sir Humphrey Neville, Kt., taken at Hexham and beheaded 1463. He left issue Arthur Neville, who died seized of half-a-manor, in 1501. He left issue Ralph Neville and died seized of Scole Manor and Covehouses, 38 Henry VIII. He left issue Arthur Neville, of Whensopburn (Weardale), who married Anne, and had issue Ralph Neville, who married, and died 1615. He had issue Anne Neville, who married Edward Emerson, gent. Doubtless this arranger was one of the Eastgate men whose coat I recently unearthed. An Oxford Emerson, not in Foster's "Alumni": I have note of a John Emerson at New College, Oxford, in 1534, who with Sir C. Goodryche gives evidence against Sir A. Croft, a priest, for treason. A sheriff of Durham: In 1634 Thomas Emerson is sheriff of Durham. This Thomas was a citizen of Durham, a cordwainer, whose will was proved in 1666, and who was buried in St. Nicholas' Church of that city. He died without male issue, leaving his money to his sisters and married daughters. He married, circa 1600, Grace Walton, of Durham. I here give the more important marriages of the Emersons of Co. Durham and the families with whom they married. Barbara Emerson, daughter of John Emerson, an alderman at Newcastle, marries Gabriel Fulthorpe, descendant of Sir Roger Fulthorpe, Kt. Visitation of 1666. In 1671 the same John Emerson devises lands at Collierly to J. Jenison for Barbara his wife and Mary his daughter. Mary the daughter marries one of the Sandfords, John Sandford, second son of Thomas Sandford, of Askham-in-the-West, d. 1717, et. 63. (Sarthee's "History of Durham.") Lionel Maddison (1615 visitation) marries a daughter of an Emerson, Christian name not given. (Harl. MS. 1153, folio 17.) Dorothy, daughter and co-heir of Ralf Emerson, of Wotton Gilbert, marries Lawrence Wilkinson, of Ferry Hill, 1615. Dorothy was his second wife and they had issue Nicholas Wilkinson, who married John Sotheron's daughter, of Newcastle-on-Tyne. Land at Ferry Hill occupied by George Emerson 26 George III. (Harl. MS. 1153, fo. 17.) In 1546, Richard Thirkeld, Threkeld, of Coniscliffe (Darnton Ward), makes his will and mentions Agnes Emerson, "my sister's daughter." In 1472 (Stockton Ward), John Thirkeld and Maud his wife give their lands in Stainton for life to his son John Thirkeld and Agnes his sister till she married. Therefore John Thirkeld, ob. 1472, m. Maud, and had issue John T., Agnes, who married an Emerson, Rob. and Galfridas. John leaves his money therefore to Agnes, daughter of his sister Agnes, who married the Emerson. Probably this Emerson was a descendant of John Emerson, of Stanley, who also married an Agnes, to whom property was left in 1350, i.e., Agnes Bell (o'-the-Raw), an important family (cide supra). A John Emerson was rector of Stainton in 1704. The marriage with the Fetherstonehalghs is shown by Ralph's, of Shotton and Foxton, will, given above. Also married with the Muschamps—Emerson Muschamp, Esquire, afterwards becoming forest officer. Katherine Emerson, daughter and heir of Ralph Emerson, of Wotton Gilbert, marries A. Meaborne, of Pontop. Descendants held land here in 1660. Anthony Meaborne, gent., of Pontop, will dated 1614, m. in Feb., 1592, Katherins, daughter and heir of Ralph Emerson, of Wotton Gilbert. She was alive and a widow in 1632. These A. and T. Meabornes were forest officers in Weardale. Patent dated Feb. 11, 1635. This Ralph made an inventory of Temperley's will in 1577; was in muster of 1569 as a foot-soldier, armed coat-of-mail and lance, and was probably one of the Eastgate lot. He, with others, was pardoned in 1586 by Queen Elizabeth. He left no male issue, nor will. In 1713 Anthony Meaborne, a descendant of the above, married Elizabeth Sandford, a daughter of John Sandford and Mary Emerson. Rev. W. Greenwood, Librarian to Durham Cathedral Library, writes me as follows:—"I am sorry I cannot help you. There is no information among our monuments bearing upon it (i.e. Emerson family). The Prior and convent had so little interest in Weardale that there is an almost entire absence of documents belonging to that part of the county." When we remember one bishop destroyed several chests of documents this is not to be wondered at. Burke's Army: As is well known, Burke is not evidence—pedigrees and arms have been entered as supplied, and therefore Burke is no authority. Bishop Matthew's Survey, 1595: The following Emersons gave evidence:—Geo. Emerson, Eastgate, Bailiff, aged 64, b. 1531. Ch. Emerson, Ludwell, 24 miles from Stanhope. Robert Emerson, Deputy-Keeper, aged 63, b. 1532. Thos. Emerson, Earwwell, aged 62, b. 1533. As Jurors were:—Brian Emerson, George Emerson, Arthur Emerson, Nicholas Emerson and Ralph Emerson, living at Weardale Castle in 1615, daughter m. Wilkinson. Rog. Thornton, Jr., ob. before 1459; his heiress m. Lord Lumley. Manor of Loddon Bacons, book 1st, 1617—48. Court held 11 April, 18 James, 1620: Henry Emerson's death is presented (a bond tenant), and he before his death surrendered his lands to the use of Thomas Codd and his heirs—said H. Emerson took up these lands on the surrender of Wm. Addreves at a Court held in the 4th of Elizabeth. Manor of Loddon Hall: 1st book, 1631—71, examined, but no entries therein. Manor of Hales Hall, cum menbris, in Loddon, 2nd book, 1614—1671. Court held 9 Oct., 13 James, 1615: Henry Emerson, a bond tenant, surrendered his lands, etc., to the use of his testament. Court held 10 April, 1620: H. Emerson surrenders land to use of Thomas Codd and his heirs, which lands sd. H. Emerson took up on surrender of Robt. Aldrich, on 4th April in 1st James. Court held 13 Oct., 1623, presented that H. Emerson before this Court, and before the last Court, held 27 April, 1623, surrendered his lands to use of his will. Court held 25 Oct., 1624, recites that at a Court held 6th April, 22 James: Death of Henry Emerson presented (it does not appear on the records of that Court on reference.—F. J.), and William Smyth comes and produces Emerson's will, dated 16 January, 20 James, proved under the seal of the Ordinary, in which Emerson gives to Wm. Smyth, of Loddon, his wife's son, and to his heirs, houses, etc., in Loddon, free and copyhold, under certain conditions in said will contained. These lands said H. Emerson took up on the surrender of Robt. Aldrich on 4th April, 1st James, and other lands wh. he took up on surrender of John Manclarke in 42nd Elizabeth, and also other lands which he took up on surrender of Robert Aldrich on 8 April, 3 James. From this entry it appears Judith Smith had a son William and son John, both under age. Records examined: Hales Hall, in Loddon, 1531—1555. Bk. A⁷, 1 Mary to 4 and 5 Philip and Mary. B., 1614—1671. NORFOLK TOMBS. of Altar tomb in Burnham Thorpe churchyard. On a bend 3 roundels (Emerson, of Lincolnshire, azure, on a bend argent 3 torteaux). For Isaac, son of Isaac and Mary Emerson, born in the Manor House and died 29 Jan., 1786. Isaac Emerson who died Jan. 10, 1807, aged 52. Also another tomb with same arms for Isaac E., son of Isaac and Margery E., late of Warham in this co. He married Mary, dau. of Robt. Lose, of Field Dalling, by whom he had several children; two sons, Isaac and Jacob, survived him. Inhabitant of the parish 60 years, he died June 14, 1769, aged 86. Mary, wife of Isaac E., dau. of Robt. Loose, died 22 Oct., 1737, in her 47th year. On another, Mary, wife of Isaac Emerson, late of this manor, died Oct. 26, 1806, in her 72nd year. In Gunthorpe Church, Norfolk, is a slab, with the same arms, to Mary Emerson, wife of Thomas Emerson, of City of Norwich, gent., and eldest dau. of Edward Towne, late of this Parish, Tanner, deceased. She died 13 March, 1783, in her 60th year. Thomas Emerson, Esq., formerly sheriff of City of Norwich, 29 Sept., 1785, died in his sheriffalty, 5 April, 1788, in his 67th year. (F. J.) P.S.—I cannot trace that these arms are used with authority, or that the persons buried under the tombs are connected with the Lincolnshire family; indeed, it appears that they were not so connected.—P. SUFFOLK COLL. Mus. Ips., Books relating to Suffolk. "Newspaper cutting." Lowestoft, August 31, 1707. Whereas William Baxter, late of Outloo, in the County of Suffolk, a young Man about 15 Years old in November last, lett himself to Mr. William Emerson, of Lowestoft, Farmer, from that Time till Michaelmas next, but behaving in an idle intractable Manner, and paying no regard to the frequent Remonstrances of his Master, he was threatened to be sent home: But in order to elude the Correction which he merited from Mr. Emerson, and the still greater which he expected from his Father, the Boy sometime in the beginning of May last left his Master's service, and has not since been heard of, tho' much pains has been taken for that purpose; and as he had frequently expressed a Desire of being a Sailor, 'tis imagined he has gone to Sea. . . . the long Absence of the young Man induced a Suspicion that all was not well; and at length Hints were dropt, said to come originally from Richard Baxter, the Lad's father, that his son had been murder'd; and this Suspicion, however ridiculous and absurd, became universal, and Mr. Emerson deemed the Malefactor. . . . In Justice therefore to the Injured, and to acquit myself of being the Author of such a villainous Report, I, the said Richard Baxter do in this public Manner deny my ever entertaining even the most distant Apprehension of my Son's having been ill-treated by his Master; but on the contrary, I am convinced that Mr. Emerson used my son whilst with him with all imaginable Lenity, and that Mr. Emerson's general Character is that of a humane good-natured man. The (X) Mark of RICHARD BAXTER. Witness: Thomas Hunt, Robert Reeve (Contrib. by Mr. Cox, of Outloo.) Quite true to the Suffolk character is Baxter.—P. H. E.

"A DESCRIPTION OF TANGIER," London, 1664 (Extract): "Dec. 9th, 1661. The English and Irish forces were embarked in several vessels, according to my Lord Rutherford's order, from Dunkirk to Tangier. Never any soldiers were shipped to foreign service more willingly, never any carried more resolutely. The number, 3200 old soldiers; the commanders—Col. Fitzgerald, Col. Farrel, Sir Robert Harley, L. C. Kingwell, Major Fiernes, Capt. Summers, Capt. Florid, Capt. Herbert, Capt. Emerson, Capt. Brooks. Tangier became a British possession as part of the dowry of Katharine of Braganza on her marriage with Charles II. It was first occupied by British troops under the Earl of Peterboro, 1000 foot and 300 horse, the Tangier Regt., in Jan., 1661. Later in the year the troops from Dunkirk (see Extract) were sent there. They were first attacked by the Moors under Gayland, the usurper of Fez, in 1663. The attack was unsuccessful, but the British loss was considerable. They seem to have been unmolested until 1679, during which time the mole was constructed. The Records say that it is impossible now to ascertain the loss during this period, but it is known to have been very great from many causes. In 1684 Parliament refused money to retain the possession, and it was decided to abandon it and destroy the fortifications."

Further Errata in Text.

By an accident some of the Errata notes to text were omitted in the proper place—p. 160. The following should be added:—P. 3, l. 5: Free tenants, Robt. and John Emeryson were free tenants holding by military tenure, therefore nobiles, and not free socagers—ignobiles. Also vide footnote. P. 4, l. 15: Perhaps gamble from game is a better illustration of the "intrusive b." P. 6, l. 3: For "W.P. 1526," read "W.P. 1541." P. 9, l. 8: For "Justices of the Peace" read "Justices of the Peace of Counties." P. 16, l. 5: For "are" read "is." P. 16, l. 13: For "Chancellor" read "Councillor." P. 16, l. 23: Thomas Emumerson is described as armiger in index to Close Rolls; not printed in Appendix, but to be seen at P.H.O., e.g., 2 James I., Pt. 27, Ind., Thomas Emumerson, Ar., and John Ramsey, Mil. P. 16, et seq. The official pedigrees have not been printed exactly in the official form for economy's sake—i.e., Index of Names of Persons in the Appendix.

NOTE.—Although the Appendix has been pagged by Roman numerals I have, for the sake of economy in printing, given the references in ordinary figures, so that the searcher of the index must, when looking up a reference, go through the simple mental operation of turning the ordinary figures into Roman numerals as printed in the Appendix.
