LINGERING MUSIC.

It is affirmed, by those best qualified to judge, that in the apartment occupied by any well-working lodge of Masons, there may be heard for an hour after the dispersion of the brethren, NOTES OF MUSIC—sweet, lingering, and of wondrous sweetness. They are significant, it is said, of that first anthem, inspired by the genius of GRAND MASTER SOLOMON, and sung in the Masonic lodges in the crypts and chambers of the Temple.—They are the lingering music of the Masons long dead. No one who has ever enjoyed the influence of that ghostly melody sung by invisible choirs in the deserted lodge at midnight, can ever forget it.

Lingering notes the echoes stir,
Soft and sweet, these walls along:
Softly, sweetly, they concur
In the pleasant tide of song;
Night-birds cease their plaintive lays,
Listening to this hymn of praise.

Angels gliding through the air,
On celestial mission bent,
Pause, this sacred hymn to hear,
Fold their wings in soft content,
Join their notes divine to these,
Hymning Masons' mysteries.

Now the solitary room,
Peopled with a countless throng,
Now the stillness and the gloom
Kindle with the tide of song,
Filling our delighted ears,
Music of three thousand years.

Every emblem pictured there,
On the ceiling, wall or floor,
Gavel, Trowel, Apron, Square,
Column rent, or open Door,
Blends a light and yields a tongue
With this softly-lingering song.

Now the anthem dies away,
One by one the voices cease;
Birds resume their wonted lay,
Angels on their mission press;
But the latest note that moves
In this mystic song is LOVE!

AN "ALABAMA" INCIDENT.—Lieut. Commander Thornton, Executive Officer of the Kearsarge, was Executive Officer of Farragut's flagship, the Hartford, when she passed the forts on the lower Mississippi. The Hartford Times tells the following story of him: "A short time before the Alabama came out of the harbor of Cherbourg this officer left his own craft, and disguising himself in a French blouse and the general apparel of a French citizen, he succeeded in gaining admission on board the rebel vessel and examined fully every part of her, taking notes of her machinery, armament, &c. The result was that Commander Winslow of the Kearsarge resolved that he could and would sink the rebel whenever she came out. We know the result."

SLEEPING CARS.—A new and elegant style of sleeping cars has been brought out in Chicago. They are fitted up with a degree of elegance that few first class hotels in the country can boast. The bedding is of excellent quality, and the seats are splendidly upholstered. Large mirrors of French plate are inserted in the panels of each compartment, and at either end of the car is divided into rooms not unlike the cabin in a first class steamer, where families can retire with as much privacy as in their own homes.—There are conveniences for hot and cold water, and the car is heated by hot air furnaces constructed under the rear platform.—Albany Atlas and Argus.

ANTS AT SAN JOSE.—In some parts of the town, they are a grievous nuisance. In some places house-keepers are compelled to keep their family sweets on tables standing in pans of water, and this precaution does not always prevent the depredation of the ants. It is asserted that it is common for some of the more intelligent insects to employ a spider to spin a thread over the water connecting with the leg of the table, and over this fragile bridge they will charge upon the preserves by legions. Their tastes are not at all fastidious. They will devour almost everything eatable that comes in their way.—San Jose Mercury.

Two mammoth children are on exhibition at Keokuk, Iowa. They are brother and sister, and were born in Cass county, Illinois. The former is 12 years of age, and weighs 360 pounds; the latter is six and weighs 180 pounds.

AMONG the attractive things that were disposed of at a children's fair in Pittsfield (Mass.) was a carte de visite of Gen. Grant, sent by himself, with his autograph.

The first thing that a man takes in his life is milk—the last is his bier.

THE COQUETTE'S FATE.

"Oh! Nellie, Nellie! Oh! Nellie, Nellie!"

A tiny pair of white hands were raised deprecatingly, and a pair of large, violet eyes sought her face, bearing in their depths an expression of entreaty beautiful to behold; but the proud face of Nellie Raymond turned away, perhaps to shut out that beautiful vision, and a low, trilling laugh ran over her red lips.

"Oh, Nellie, how can you be so heartless? How can you lead a man on to believe you love him, and then, when his heart is yours, with all its great, deep fount of manly love and tenderness, laugh in his face, and bid him go from your presence—hopeless, despairing. I tell you, Nellie Raymond, you will some day have to account for the misery you have wrought."

"Do you think so?" said Nellie, lightly. "Ah, well!"

"But it will not be 'well,'" said Alice May. "You will see it in a different light some day. I could not close my eyes one hour in peaceful slumber, were my life weighed down with such evil deeds as yours."

"Evil deeds! Really, Alice, you are harsh," exclaimed Nellie, a flush of momentary mortification and anger overspreading her white forehead.

"Dear Nellie," said her friend, "what is the use of calling things by other than their right names? If I seem severe, I only tell you the truth, and you know that I have ever been your best friend—candid and frank."

"Well, Allie, you might have a little more regard for one's feelings," said Nellie.

"Have you any regard for the feelings of others, Nellie?" asked Alice. "There is a good book in which a sublime teacher said, 'Do unto others as you would have them do unto you.' Now, how far do you carry out this rule?"

"Oh! Allie, spare me for pity's sake—don't preach to me now," said Nellie; "I'm not in a mood for it."

But Allie May was relentless.

"You did not spare poor George Morton, whom you so cruelly deceived," she continued, "and then drove him from you with despair in his heart, and the burden of a hopeless life. The green sod of an Italian vale covers the heart of one who loved you but too wildly, and whose reward, after months of weary wandering, and a hopeless, pining life, which soon sank beneath its weight of sorrow, is an exile's grave. Then there is another—a widow's only son and pride—who frets his life away in a madhouse—yes, a madhouse, Nellie, to which your cruelty consigned him. Oh! Nellie Raymond, better a thousand times despoil your face of its dangerous beauty than bear the load of sin it brings upon you, for it is fearful."

A slight quiver in the erect frame of the beautiful girl was the only response.

"Poor Walter Mayfield!" continued Alice, sadly; "sometimes I pass the window of the cell in which he is confined, and catch a glimpse of his haggard face, and he always smiles like a pleased child when he sees me. Then I contrast him now with what he once was, and weep in spite of myself over the wreck of a strong, noble life. He used to be so pleasant and gay always, but he was strong and self-reliant when anything occurred to call forth energetic action. Oh! he was a noble, handsome man; but now he is feeble and helpless—a hopeless maniac. Poor fellow!"

Nellie's face wore an expression of mingled grief, defiance, and mortification; but she remained silent for a few moments, watching the tears as they rolled slowly over Alice May's cheeks.

"And my own dear, only brother, will be your next victim," said Alice, after a pause, looking up sadly and mournfully. "Oh, Nellie, he is all I have—I am alone in the world, with him only to love me—spare him to me, for the love of mercy!"

Nellie rose with a hotly flushed cheek and flashing eye.

"Allie, how can you talk thus?" she exclaimed. "But I tell you, Allie May, if art or beauty can bring your proud, cold brother to the feet of a woman, he shall come to mine. He shall love me."

"And if he does, and you turn him from you, you will kill him," said Alice. "Once unbend his proud nature, and unlock the founts of tenderness in his heart, and then cast him from you, and see the consequences. 'Oh! Nellie Raymond, there is sufficient on your soul already. Spare yourself, if you spare no other.'"

The last words were unheeded, for Nellie had swept from the room, and little Allie May bowed her head upon the sofa cushion and sobbed piteously. She had warned her brother repeatedly, but he seemed heedless, and with an aching heart the gentle little sister looked forth to a hopeless, desolate life for him who had ever been her all on earth.

Several weeks passed away, and little Allie May stood before the altar. The man she had chosen was noble, and true; for her feet a bright path lay before her; but there was another to whom her eyes wandered uneasily, and who hovered incessantly round the gay butterfly form of the proud syren, Nellie Raymond, whose dark eyes flashed with triumph as the proud man bent his handsome, stately head with such devotion.

Allie's sweet lips quivered when she saw her brother bend down and whisper in Nellie's ear, and heard the request that she would walk with him upon the lawn; and the two wandered off.

The moon shone brightly, and Edward May, drawing Nellie Raymond's arm within his own, walked slowly down the broad gravel walk, his face upturned toward the stars, and a smile of inexpressible happiness softly wreathing his sweet mouth.

"Nellie," said Edward—and he spoke very low and softly—"Nellie, I am very happy to-night—happier than I had ever hoped to be, and I want some one to sympathize with me in it. Allie has another now to occupy her attention. May I tell it to you?"

"Yes," she whispered softly. "None can share your happiness and sympathize with you more freely than I. Tell me all."

For a moment he was silent, only stretching out his hand to draw her down upon a seat beside him. After a while he spoke, half dreamily and very gently.

"I once believed," said he, "that I could never find a woman whom I could love fully and truly—with such a love as I must cherish for the woman whom I would call my wife; but I have found her, Nellie—(why do you tremble so?)—a sweet, pure-faced little thing, fresh and fragrant as a budding rose, gentle as the summer breezes, and gay and glad as the lark whose song she trills the whole day long. Tell me that you rejoice in my happiness, Nellie; tell me that you will love my little wife that is to be—sweet Lily Walton."

Nellie's lips were rigid and ashen, and she rose up, quivering like an aspen.

"Oh, I am ill!" she gasped. "Take me into the house."

Edward May rose hastily and supported her with his arm, but she nearly repulsed him as she planted her foot firmly upon the gravel. She had learned to love the man with all the hidden passion and fire of her strong nature; and now he told her he had won another, and that other was only a poor but beautiful governess in a rich man's family. Oh, it too much! He knew Nellie Raymond's weakness, and he had punished her fearfully, though he believed in his heart that she was incapable of deep feeling.

Alice went to Nellie in answer to her brother's summons; and, when every one was gone from the room, she held out her arms to Alice, white and stricken, with an anguished moan—"Oh, Allie, I gave him my whole heart, and he loves another!"

Then she sank down, pale and lifeless, and it was many weeks ere Nellie Raymond woke to life and consciousness.—Then she was a changed, repentant woman; but it was hard to feel the soft touch of a little hand, and see the light form of Edward's wife bending so pityingly. Oh, the punishment of her "evil deeds" had come, and it was heavy and bitter.

Nellie Raymond is Nellie Raymond still, but she has grown into a calm, dignified, but lovely woman. She can sympathize with the suffering, because she has suffered; and strives, by tenderness and love to others, to atone for the misery she wrought while yet in the heyday of her pride and selfish love for admiration.

Character of General Grant.

Grant is a brave man, not only fearless in all necessary exposures of his person in battle, but cool, calculating, and clearly administrative in danger. A splendid horseman, and of great personal endurance, perhaps he is seen to best advantage on the field of battle directing the movements.

He is a true man; true in his aims, and in his adherence to them; true in speech and in act. He has no deceptive policy, no subterranean movements. He does not parade his thoughts, indeed, but he does not mean anything and say another. He has no talking gift, and cultivates silence, which, if speech be human, the philosopher has declared to be divine.—He is no boaster, no temporizer, and no dreamer; he builds no Arcadian castles. He is simply a straightforward actor; between his words, thoughts, and deeds there is an exact accordance; and very often the thoughts and deeds dispense with words—always when possible.

He is a man of strong will and great mental endurance, not disheartened by disaster; always ready to repair and retrieve it. Vicksburg in especial demonstrated this. Repulsed at the north, he tried the cutoff. When that would not do, he landed on the south. Threatened by the rebel armies gathering in his rear, he besieged the town. Repulsed in his attempts to storm the works, he pushed forward the siege, and at length Vicksburg fell, because Grant adhered to his purpose.

He is a generous man, ready to give full credit to his co-workers, and subordinates. He scorns to receive praise which is their due, and tells of the invaluable aid of Sherman, McPherson and others with no stinted eulogium. With such a General, men can work; for such a chief they will do all in their power.

He is an unambitious man. This needs a word of explanation. Ambitious men seek, as the great end of their labors, self-exultation. Grant has thus far worked for the good of the country. Each battle has been for it without ulterior view. If God sends honest fame as the reward, he does not disdain it; but it must be a sequel, not an aim. Heaven preserve him long from this "last infirmity of noble minds!" It ruins all it touches. It has already paralyzed some of our best men.

In a concluding word, he is a strong, iron, living, busy, honest, capable, self-sustained commander, who will plan wisely, fight terribly, follow up his victories, and leave the rest to Providence, in whom, after all, must be our trust. He has large and varied talents. He has what Guizot calls "the genius of common sense," and with that, the power to "go ahead," which we lack more than anything else in this war.—U. S. Service Magazine

A Postoffice clerk sends the following to Holbrook's U. S. Mail: A man called at our general delivery one day, when I happened for the moment to be engaged elsewhere in the office. He whistled loudly. I stepped to the window and savagely inquired, "whose dog he was whistling for?"

"One of Uncle Sam's pups," said he, quite composedly.

That was on me.

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER.

SATURDAY, AUG. 27th, 1864.

J. J. Knowlton & Co., are our authorized Agents for receiving Subscriptions and Advertisements. Office—Cor. Montgomery and California streets, opposite Wells, Fargo & Co., San Francisco.

The Board of Equalization will meet on Monday next, the 29th inst.

The increased pay of officers and soldiers dates from May 1st, 1864. Privates receive $16 per month.

The Pennsylvania Central Railroad Company lately paid over a donation of $3,000 to the U. S. Christian Commission.

The Red Bluff Independent has entered upon its 5th volume. It is unmerciful to Copperheads, and we imagine we see them wince sometimes under its heavy blows. May it live long and be prosperous.

RAIN.—We had a rare treat for this season of the year on Tuesday afternoon and night, in the shape of a soft and gentle rain, which layed the dust and cooled the atmosphere. We hope to have an abundance of it the coming season.

In another column will be found the advertisement of "The Fly-Killing Liquid." It is said to be the greatest preparation ever yet used, having reached the "highest killing point." Crane & Brigham, cor. Clay and Front street, wholesale agents.

The ladies of Sacramento are making active preparations for a Fair which they propose to hold in that city shortly. The precise date is not yet fixed upon. The ladies of Placer and El Dorado and adjoining counties have united with Sacramento. We hope the ladies of Yolo are taking an interest in this laudable effort, and that their handiwork will be represented on the occasion.

The favors of Stratman & Co., San Francisco, the most obliging and liberal of News-dealers, accumulate so fast that it is impossible to acknowledge them all. The last lot contains the latest Eastern newspapers and periodicals—among them Harper's Weekly, Leslie's Illustrated, N. Y. Ledger, etc. All orders for anything in their line will be punctually attended to.

The Broom.—The Union of Thursday says, the great race having been won by the Pacific Railroad Co., over their roads, a broom has been raised on the flagstaff of the winners, at the foot of K street. This signal in former times signified that those who raised it could sweep the seas; in the present instance it implies the ability to sweep the plains and mountains.

THOSE APPLES.—Our friend H. C. Grover placed before us on Thursday last a 70-lb. box of large apples, for which we tender our thanks. They were the fairest looking and the best flavored we have seen on this coast, and were certainly a rare treat. It is the second time he has treated us in that manner, and we are pleased to know that, in his prosperity, he has not "thrown off" his old brother typos. Those who want good fruit should call on Mr. Grover.

COUNTY CONVENTION.—To-day the Union County Convention will meet in this place to send delegates to the State Convention. So far as we have heard the delegates to the Convention are as follows:

- Washington Precinct.—Trainer, Hoagland, Rensselaer, Sevey, and Freeman.
- Woodland.—E. Kanam, C. P. Sprague, W. S. Emery, N. Wychoff, R. Blowers, and J. H. Fisher.
- Knight's Landing.—J. P. Darlington, G. Hedsel, H. P. Hamblin, and W. E. Smith.
- Wayand's.—H. Gaddis, G. N. Park, C. S. White.
- Putah.—James O'Neal.
- Fremont.—H. B. Wood.
- Plainfield.—Green and Williamson.
- Ludson.—D. Wipchel, and Moore.
- Canon.—John M. Rhoads, and Geo. Loring.

SUICIDE.—Justice Hoagland, of Washington, says the Union, was called upon on Wednesday last, to hold an inquest over the body of Henlope Stahl, a native of Holland, who had committed suicide at Poilard's ranch, near the sink of the Putah. The deceased was about fifty-two years of age, and had a wife and five children, who resided in the vicinity of a ranch which he had recently purchased. One of his neighbors heard a report of a gun, and on going to the house found the deceased lying near the door in the yard. He had attached a leather string to the trigger of his rifle and made the other end fast to his foot. Placing the muzzle of the weapon in his mouth he had discharged the load. The bullet passed out, at the back of his head, and the force of the powder shattered the skull in a terrible manner. No reason for the deed could be ascertained.

AN EXCELLENT INSTITUTE.—We wish to call the especial attention of our readers to the advertisement of the Electropathic Institute, of San Francisco, to be found elsewhere in our advertising columns. The mode of treatment at this Institute is different from that pursued at any other medical establishment on the Pacific coast. No poisonous drugs are used.

Dr. J. H. JOSSLYN, the Resident Consulting Physician, has been connected with the Institute for five years, and bears a very high reputation as a physician. His success in the treatment of diseases has during the past four years, driven nearly all the quacks with which that city formerly abounded to other localities. Persons suffering with disease, of whatever nature, will do well to call upon Dr. Josslyn, who is always ready to give his advice gratis to those who may wish to consult him.

Grant in 1863 and in 1864.

About the commencement of the late rebel raid upon Baltimore and Washington, it is said, General Grant informed the War Department of the fact that Lee had sent a force into the Valley, with orders to cross the Potomac, and do what damage they could in Pennsylvania and Maryland. He informed the Secretary of War of Lee's intentions, and showed, in short, that he knew what was going on. He did not, however, attempt to guard every foot of railroad near the Potomac; he did not line that river with troops, so as to prevent the crossing of rebel troops; he did not break up his own plans, to counteract those of Lee; if he had he would have done precisely what Lee wanted. No; Grant left something for the soldiers in garrison and the militia of the free States to do; he threw upon the citizens the burden of defending their property against the scattered and weak bands which he knew could easily be driven off by a few resolute men. By this attempt at a diversion by the rebels, we are reminded of a similar occurrence in 1863 while Grant was besieging Vicksburg. The rebels appeared in large numbers at many points in the country about Corinth, whereupon the papers in rebellion, and the rebel papers in the loyal States, commenced a series of mathematical demonstrations to prove that Grant's army would soon be captured, starved, or annihilated. An immense force was moving against Memphis; this point was to be captured, the Mississippi closed above, supplies stopped, and poor Grant forced to surrender. The plot really looked promising; and many persons began to have fears for our army behind Vicksburg. The rebel forces in the meantime burned some stores, destroyed some miles of railroad, ran hither and thither in small bands as they are doing now, created a good deal of excitement amongst the post commanders, who had to lie awake nights in fear of an attack, or had to chase for days a force they could not find, and presently the excitement died away, the tremendous rebel host was found to be a myth, the attempt on Memphis was discovered to be rather an attempt upon Grant's credulity—and a very foolish failure at that—and when Johnston discovered that he could neither whip Grant nor scare him he left Pemberton to his fate, and Vicksburg fell. For, remember, no threat sufficed to make Grant budge from his post. He lay quietly before Vicksburg, and paid no attention to the demonstrations of Johnston, the foolish boasts of the rebel journals, and the promises of Davis. What happened last year is repeating itself now. Once more Grant is threatened; once more the rebels play their favorite game of bluff; but Grant, who knows what they are doing, and what they can do, and what they cannot do, quietly pursues the task he has set his army. He appears to be as completely satisfied with his situation now as when he was before Vicksburg. It may be true, as rebel sympathizers hint, that he has done just what Lee wanted, that he is just where Lee wants him to be, that Lee will presently show his cards and take the game; but until he does, we shall maintain our confidence in Grant, for, however it may end, the movement against Lee is accompanied by precisely the same phenomena which signalized that against Pemberton last year.

Coming to their Senses.

The Copperhead Press, of Aug. 3d, has an editorial under the head of "Law and Order Meeting," referring to what was termed in the same paper an "indignation meeting," held at Hayes Park, on the evening of the 2d inst. The object of the meeting appears to have been to protest against military arrests generally, and especially against the arrest of C. L. Weller.

The Press says: "Never was so large an assemblage of men, in a church or at a funeral, more free from any demonstration of passion or excitement." When and where before has there been a Copperhead meeting free from demonstrations of excitement and passion? By the time a few more of the leading traitors of the party have been sent to Fort Alcatraz, or are compelled to give bonds for their good behavior, the balance of them will act more like sensible men.

HORSE THIEVES.—Two young men with fine horses, were in town last week, says the Red Bluff Independent, offering the horses for sale at so low a price that it excited suspicion. Some person gave vent to these suspicions in the hearing of the parties, and they immediately left the town on the Shasta road. Next day two men arrived in pursuit, stating that the horses were stolen. O. Brown of the Livery Stable, hitched up a team and went in pursuit, and succeeded in catching the thieves. They were brought back and lodged in jail, and Saturday morning the two were started for Mendocino, where the horses were stolen, in charge of the men who pursued them.

The race between the California Stage Co. and the Pacific Railroad, on Monday night last, designed to show the best time between San Francisco and Virginia City, resulted in the Pacific Railroad beating its opponent eight hours and forty minutes. The time between the two cities was twenty-one hours.

Of 5,619 persons in Sacramento county from whom the military and State poll tax was demanded, only 2,562 paid. Of 733 Chinamen from whom these taxes were demanded, five-sixths paid up. John makes a better record as taxpaying citizens than his contentment.

At the Weller demonstration, Friday night, at San Francisco, Gen. Chipman, the war horse, says the Flag, declined making a speech. He said "His heart beat as true as ever, but he was a subjugated man."

Chicago Convention

On Tuesday next the O. A. K's, with their "Beauty and their Chivalry," will assemble at Chicago, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the Presidency, who must be in favor of war against treason, but traitors must have a voice in determining the manner in which the war shall be conducted against them. Traitors must be punished, but there must be no military arrests. The war must be vigorously prosecuted, but it must be left to the rebels to say what weapons shall be used. Freedom of speech and freedom of the press must be so construed as to allow rebel sympathizers to excite the Copperheads to rise in arms against the authorities; the mails must be compelled to transmit intelligence to all parts of the country through the newspapers, whereby the Copperheads will be able to appoint the time and the manner in which they shall become allies in arms with the rebels; and while they are making arrangements to inaugurate civil war in the loyal States, in case they should be defeated at the election, their rights must not be trampled upon by making arrests. If the rebels want to compromise, the candidate must be in favor of their staying in the Union, or staying out, just to suit their purposes. But whatever is done, our "Southern brethren's" sacred and inalienable rights to hold slaves must not be interfered with.

Of the many who have the honor of having had their names mentioned as a probable candidate for the Presidency, are the following: Geo. B. McClellan, of New York; John C. Fremont, of California; George W. Woodward and Jeremiah Black, of Pennsylvania; James Guthrie, of Ky.; Seymour, of N. Y.; and Seymour, of Conn.; Pierce, of N. H.; Nelson, of N. Y.; Vallandigham, of O.; Stockton, of N. Jersey; Wood, of N. Y.; Bayard, of Del., and Davis, of Miss. Breckinridge, Lee, and Beauregard will have warm friends in the Convention, but probably the delegates will conclude that their services can be made more available in the positions they now occupy.

If the Chicago Convention is to be Democratic, may we not be allowed to suggest the propriety of setting aside all this small fry, and nominating some good old Democratic champion; for instance, Lewis Cass, B. F. Butler, Daniel S. Dickinson, or even U. S. Grant.

DULL TIMES ON THE BAY.—A gentleman conversant with matters about the Bay, says the Call, states that an estimate of the number of vessels now lying in the harbor, including every species of craft used for trading purposes, above the little plunger, would approximate to five hundred. Whether this is or not an over estimate matters not; the most significant fact stated was that one-half of these vessels are absolutely idle, waiting, but vainly waiting, for some channel of employment to engage in. At this time last season our wharves were piled up with grain, and merchandise of various kinds, much of it the produce of our State. Now there are not ten bags where then were hundreds. Inland trade vessels were stuffed to absolute distention. Now their cavernous holds are craving with emptiness, and the desponding skipper broods gloomily over his unwonted inactivity. Whence is it? San Franciscans are unaccustomed to seeing their quays thus exhibiting but a beggarly account of a ship load or two of importations. Even the familiar gulls have left us to seek for busier scenes, and the mistress of the Pacific sits like a mourner on her sand robed hills. Another season or two such as has just left its blight on our State would furnish us with a practical interpretation of Pharaoh's dream of the seven lean kine.

STOREY COUNTY COPPERHEAD CENTRAL COMMITTEE.—The Virginia correspondent of Bearish Brown's Press writes under date of August 16th:

The Democratic Central Committee of Storey county, consisting originally of ten members, with Dr. S. A. McMeans as Chairman, was called together on the 10th inst. This was the first meeting of the Committee held within the last year. It was addressed by the able Chairman, Dr. McMeans, an old and tried Democrat.

Part of the above is a mistake. McMeans never was tried. The Attorney General of California commenced suit but he found him and his bondsmen entirely irresponsible, and the $40,000 is still owing.—Gold Hill (N. T.) News.

OYSTERS.—The Oregonian says that heretofore the oysters taken on this coast have been inferior in size to those of Baltimore and other points on the Pacific coast, and it has been a question whether there was any to be found here equal to them, but it seems now no longer to be a matter of doubt, as Mr. Seely, of Puget Sound, has discovered a bed of fine flavored oysters, some of which will measure from three to five inches in circumference. We have as yet only had a glimpse of their shells, but should the bed prove what it is anticipated to be, the discovery must of course work a reaction in the trade. There has never been a doubt concerning the genuineness of our oysters, but it has always taken too many of them to make a plateful.

The Board of Managers of the State Agricultural Society will meet on Monday evening next, to fix the time for holding the State Fair and adopt such measures as may be required to render it successful. It is thought that the first week in October will be selected for the exhibition.

The corps commanders on the James are Hancock, Warren, Wilcox, Martindale, and Terry. Those under Sheridan are Reynolds, Wright, and Hunter, or Crook. The cavalry divisions are commanded by Averill, Wilson, Torbett, Gregg, and Kautz.

SOAP FROM COAL OIL.—They are making soap from coal oil in Pennsylvania. It is claimed that soap manufactured from this oil will remove all kinds of stains and dirt, and do more work than any other soap, and in less time.

In consequence of the anticipated troubles on the mail route, the Appeal advises its readers to send letters East by steamer mail, or Express.

Eastern News.

Under the head of "News of the Morning" the Union of Thursday says:

The intelligence from Virginia is highly important. The advance of Warren's corps to the Weldon Railroad, south of Petersburg, on the 19th, was followed by a determined attack, in which the corps of Hill and Beauregard were engaged. The attack was a partial surprise, and might have resulted in a rebel victory, but for the timely arrival of the Ninth Corps, which equalized the forces, and after a bloody conflict the enemy were repulsed, and when night fell Warren held the railroad. The Union loss was about 3,000 killed, wounded, and missing, a large number having been captured early in the fight. The rebel loss in killed and wounded was greater. A renewal of the attack being anticipated, Warren threw up intrenchments and was reinforced. Reports from City Point, under date of the 21st (Sunday) state that heavy firing had been going on in that direction since the previous evening. The Second Corps was brought back from the north side of the James on Saturday night. Probably the affair south of Petersburg developed into a battle on a grand scale on Sunday.

There is nothing important from the Shenandoah valley. The rebels are said to have a heavy force there under Early.

FRIDAY.

When the Union went to press yesterday morning we were informed that a mass of dispatches were at Omaha. These were dispatches of the 22d, 23d, and 24th of August, and from the foreshadowing of those we published yesterday there is reason to suppose they contain interesting intelligence from Virginia, Georgia and Mobile. The only information received yesterday was contained in two dispatches from Salt Lake, stating first that the line was down east of Omaha, and next the breach was east of Julesburg. The dispatches yesterday indicated that open field fight on a grand scale occurred south of Petersburg, near North Spring. All of Grant's army, except Birney's corps, had been concentrated at Petersburg on the night of the 20th, thus demonstrating that the movement on the north bank of the James was a feint. If the report to the effect that Lee's army had been divided to reinforce Early were correct, the chances of Grant's success were greatly increased. A fight between Sheridan and Early, somewhere near Bunker Hill, was also rendered probable by the character of the news received from the Shenandoah valley. No news have been received from Sherman since the 17th inst., at which time his cavalry were operating in the rear of Atlanta.

A dispatch dated at Salt Lake, Aug. 25th, 1:50 p. m., was received, stating that the line is down east of Omaha.

PRESIDENT'S LAST CALL FOR TROOPS.—The President's call for 500,000 men is extensively misrepresented. To estimate the additional troops thus called for, heavy deductions must be made from that number. One large item to be subtracted is the surplus already furnished of quotas. Another is the troops in service whose terms are within a few months of expiring. That large proportion, consisting of three years' men will soon be entitled to a discharge. These and similar considerations are willfully thrust out of sight by the Tory press and demagogues. The call for 500,000 when fully responded to, will surely bring out a much less number, and of that diminished number perhaps not a moiety can be reckoned as a net addition to the armies now in the field. In this view, patriots will rejoice that the President has made the call no lighter or than it is, and only regret that it was not made heavier and earlier. It is a ground of encouragement, not of despondency. It attests the strenuous purpose of the Government and its faith in the people, and throws open the door through which the nation can pass to a glorious peace. If any fact is certain, it is that the rebels have their last armies in the field, and these are overmatched. Into the slowly yet surely descending scale of our superior marshaled strength we have only to cast fresh reinforcements to close the war and redeem the land. Shall it rot be done.—St. Louis Democrat

NURSES FOR THE ARMY.—The Army Relief Association, which has done so much to alleviate the sufferings of our sick and wounded soldiers, is about to be incorporated, and will conduct its future operations under the supervision of the Masonic Order. By a recent arrangement with the War Department, the army nurses sent by the Association will receive regular pay, and will be placed under the control of the army surgeons. In order that they may be easily recognized, they will wear a uniform, consisting of a blue jacket with bright buttons, a tunic of moderate length (Indian style) and no hoops, and pants. The costume will be appropriate, modest and much more convenient, than the usual female dress for a nurse in attendance at the hospitals. The surgical lectures before the Relief Association, which have been interrupted for the past few weeks, will shortly be resumed.—N. Y. Times.

SENATOR SUMNER NARROWLY ESCAPES CAPTURE.—The Washington Intelligencer says that Senator Sumner, of Massachusetts, was on the train captured by the rebels at Gunpowder Bridge. He was not recognized, but permitted to depart with the other passengers, and is now in Washington, where he returned. This was a narrow escape from the worst of fates; for over nothing would the rebels gloat more fiercely than the capture of Chas. Sumner.

DROUGHT EVERYWHERE.—California is not the only land suffering from the drought.—The New York Tribune of the 16th of July says that the damage from the prevailing drought can never be estimated in dollars and cents. It would go largely up among the millions, if it could be calculated. It prevails over a large extent of country, reaching from Maine to Minnesota.

GRANT'S CONFIDENCE.—To a well-known United States Senator, General Grant said, a short time ago—and that too, while the rebel "invasion" was in progress: "I am just as certain to take Richmond and crush Lee's army, as the sun is to rise."

HARD ON IRATABA.—During the absence of old Irataba, chief of the Mojaves, in the Eastern States, some of his people seduced five of his squaws, and ate up and destroyed much of his substance, on pretense of believing that he had died.

From the 17th of October last to July 1st 1864, 600,000 white men and 100,000 negroes enlisted or re-enlisted in the Union armies, and $125,000,000 were spent in bounties.

A Confederate bond of $500, which was purchased for a dollar greenback, is exhibited in New Haven.

AN AFFECTING INCIDENT.—A correspondent writing from Nashville, relates the following:

Last evening, as I was passing by the post hospital, my attention was arrested by the singing, in a rather loud tone, of "Rally Round the Flag, Boys," by one of the patients inside. While listening to the beautiful music of that popular song, I observed to a nurse standing in the doorway, that the person singing must be in a very merry mood, and could not be very sick. "You are mistaken, sir," said he, "the poor fellow engaged in singing that good old song is now grappling with death—has been dying all day. I am his nurse," he continued, "and the scene so affected me that I was obliged to leave the room. He is just about breathing his last." I stepped into the ward, and true enough, the brave man was near his end. His eyes were already fixed in death. He was struggling with all his remaining strength against the grim monster, while at the same time there pushed forth from his patriotic soul incoherently the words, "Rally Round the Flag, Boys," which had cheered him so often through his weary march, and braced him up when entering the field of blood in defense of his country. He sank away into his death slumber, and joined his Maker's command, that is marching onward to that far-off, better land. The last audible sound that escaped his lips was, "Rally, boys, rally once again!" As his eyes were closing, some dozen of his comrades joined in a solemn yet beautiful hymn, appropriate to the occasion. Take it all together, this was one of the most affecting scenes I ever witnessed in a hospital. It drew tears copiously from near one hundred of us. It occurred in a large ward which occupies the entire body of the church on Cherry street. The deceased was an Illinoisian, and had been wounded in one of the recent skirmishes.

The Esmeralda Union tells of a horse that was bitten by a rattlesnake on the fore leg. The owner cut out the bitten part and promptly applied indigo, tobacco, salt, mixed with whisky—also two bottles of whisky inwardly, the first not taking effect. The horse soon recovered.

The Dutch have a proverb that "when the French are asleep, the devil rocks the cradle." They are quiet for the present, but what devil is rocking the cradle future events must show.

FLY Paper kills its thousands, the LIQUID FLY PAPER its tens of thousands. This preparation for killing flies gives the greatest satisfaction of anything ever yet used. Important Medical Notice!

THE ELECTROPATHIC INSTITUTE, 645 Washington street, Below Kearny St., SAN FRANCISCO.

Established February, 1860, by an Association of Scientific Gentlemen,

FOR THE CURE OF DISEASE!

And for the Suppression of Quackery!

The one great object of the establishment of the Institute was to assure to the afflicted scientific and honorable treatment, where they would be safe from the wiles of empirics, who not only rob them of their money, but fill their systems with poisonous minerals, thereby destroying what little of the constitution was left from the ravages of disease. The result thus far has greatly exceeded the most sanguine expectations of its founders.—So liberal has been the patronage of the public that the Resident and Consulting Physician,

J. H. Josselyn, M. D.,

Has been enabled to reduce the prices of cure very materially. The Institute combines with its practice both the use of Vegetable Medicines and the Electropathic System; that is, the use of Electricity and the Celebrated Electro-Medical Bath,—the most powerful auxiliary in the removal of virus from the system yet discovered.

It is not necessary to enumerate all the diseases treated at the Institute. All diseases—no matter what may be their name or nature—will be treated in the most scientific manner.

Veneral.

This terrible scourge can be entirely eradicated by the system practiced at the Institute in a much shorter time than it has hitherto been accomplished by any other Physician in this country, and so entirely is the disease removed that no taint is left in the blood to break out at some future time. The RESIDENT PHYSICIAN would advise any one who has been afflicted, and who may have any fears that a cure was not effected, or that there is some of the virus still remaining, to call or write and consult him, and they can at once have their mind relieved, and should there be any trouble, a cure can be warranted.

To Females.

Ladies afflicted or in trouble will find at the Institute one who can understand and sympathize with them in their afflictions, and one who will render them prompt assistance, no matter what may be the trouble or disease, with the utmost dispatch and secrecy. Irregularities attended to promptly, and by the most approved methods.

Seminal Weakness.

That soul-destroying disorder can be cured in a very short time by the system practiced at the Institute, and a perfect cure warranted. Medicines sent to all parts of the State, Oregon, Nevada Territory, and, in fact, everywhere within the range of Express facilities. All letters answered promptly and with pleasure, when directed to

The Woodland News.

AN OPTICAL PHENOMENON—San Francisco Visible from a Point in Calaveras County.—An old resident in Calaveras county informs the Stockton Independent of an alleged wonderful phenomenon, though the narrative reads, says the Bulletin, like a "tough yarn."

It is in a deep gorge, or rather basin, of the mountains about three miles from Rich Gulch, Calaveras county, where the traveler, after entering into the depth of the hollow, finds himself shut in by high and sterile hills, and the rest of the surrounding world is shut out from his gaze. But see, a broad bay is visible, and the navies of France, England, Russia, and America are each discernible among the placid hulls that float on its placid waters. A city, overhung by high and volcanic-looking hills, rears many a high turreted wall and palatial dome in token of prosperity, and the smoke of a hundred factories overhangs the crowded city like a mantle of Tyrian purple. The city is San Francisco, the Queen of the Pacific, and it can only be seen from about 3 o'clock P. M. to sunset, on a winter's day, when the sun is bright and no sea-fog obscures the vision.—But by what name shall we style this singular diversion of nature? It certainly can be no mirage, for there is the real Bay of San Francisco, with Goat Island and Angel Island plain in view. It must be a refraction caused by the sun when it assumes its occult position. Will some son of science explain the wonderful and delightful, but mysterious illusion?

POMPEII.—Correspondence from Naples, of date April last, says:

No recent discovery in Pompeii equals in interest that made within the last few months of four men and women found imbedded in scoria, which were wrapped in plaster-like moulds. They are preserved in a small house in Pompeii, under glass, in such a manner that you can view them with ease. The positions of the bodies denote unmistakably the death agony. One a delicate female form, lies on her face, which is partly shielded by one hand, while the other is clenched convulsively. On the fingers of another woman the rings may yet be seen, while the remains of her sandals partly project from the ashy covering of her feet. Looking at those very interesting figures one is forcibly reminded of the description given by the younger Pliny of the death of his uncle, who, we are told, in his endeavor to escape from the eruption of Vesuvius, fell to rise no more.

How GEN BIRNEY GOT AMMUNITION.—A Petersburg letter has the following:—

Late last night, after the redoubts had been captured, an ammunition wagon, drawn by six mules, was driven up from the direction of Petersburg to a particular point in the chain of fortifications. Gen. Birney, surprised to see it coming from that direction, asked the driver what he had in the wagon? The answer was, "Ammunition for battery No. 9." "Where did it come from?" inquired the General, supposing that additional ammunition might have been sent for some of the field pieces he had placed in the breastworks.—"From the arsenal," said the driver. "Oh, very well," said Birney, "I'll take charge of it." This was ammunition sent from the city to the rebels; but Birney and some of his troops occupied Battery No. 9.

OUR FEMALE WARRIORS.—Over 150 "Amazons" have been discovered in the various Union armies since the war broke out to the present time. Over 70 of these martial ladies, when their sex was discovered, were acting as officer's servants; 17 were in one regiment alone. Here was Love and War with a vengeance!

CHICAGO MANUFACTURERS.—The Chicago Journal claims that Cook county, (in which the city is included) pays the largest amount of Internal Revenue taxes of any Congressional District in the Union. The amount for the year ending June 30, 1862, will be within one hundred thousand of three millions. The Journal says there is a larger amount of capital invested in manufactures in that Congressional District than in any other in the United States. It is ahead of Pittsburgh, which is supposed to be the heaviest manufacturing district in the country, the internal revenue assessed in the Chicago district exceeding that assessed in the Pittsburgh district by at least $25,000 to $30,000 a month. And the city never showed more rapid growth than now.

SINGULAR DEATH.—A paper in Western New York avers that a man named Johnson, of Geneva, Ontario county, was killed in a Masonic lodge recently under the following strange circumstances: He was receiving initiation into the mysteries of Free Masonry, a part of the ceremony being to cause the candidate blindfolded, to fall unexpectedly a short distance upon a piece of canvas. He is led to the edge of a platform and told to sit down, when the canvas receives him. Mr. Johnson was at this stage of the initiatory ceremonies, and in falling his neck was broken, causing almost instant death.

A LONG WAY OFF.—Astronomy asserts that the stars are many millions of miles from this sphere. Some are so far away that their light is a thousand or more years in reaching us. How grand are all things in nature! It is probable that the star whose rays are to glance that top break in Fremont's hair, when President, has not commenced flinging said rays in this direction. It is probable that Fremont will never be called upon by the requisite proportion of humanity to stand the rays.—Humboldt Register.

OBSEQUES OF WILLIAM SMITH O'BRIEN.—The Irish American of the 19th ult., contains a full account of the obsequies of William Smith O'Brien, who died June 18th, aged 61 years. He was buried in Dublin, and the funeral was attended by 10,000 persons, and the services were of the most imposing character. Mr. O'Brien was one of the earnest strugglers for Irish nationality, who became a martyr for his principles. It is said he could trace his ancestry back to the old Irish Kings of the 10th century.

THERE is said to be a young lady, aged 18, in St. Louis, who has done nothing but eat and sleep since she was 4 years old. She remains awake 7 minutes twice in 24 hours and then talks and eats.

Home Again!

DR. FRED. MORSE, To remain permanently, (where I may at all times be found, except when away on professional business.) Thankful for the generous confidence and liberal patronage heretofore bestowed upon me, I would solicit a continuance of like favor, pledging my best efforts to merit the same. FRED. MORSE, M. D. and Surgeon. Knight's Landing August 20, 1864, a30-tf.

My Wife and I.

We met at school long years ago, And thought we were but friends; But Cupid shot from out his bow A dart which love soon sends.

Then were our hearts in love-knots tied, And each the other knew Long years of bliss our love have tried, And always found it true.

And, while we journey in this life, Where sorrow oft is riven, I'll dwell with her my darling wife, And learn our way to heaven.

AN INCIDENT.—The Springfield News is indebted to a correspondent for the following, which is too good to be lost, and for the accuracy of which he vouches:

A short time ago, in the loyal city of Philadelphia, a "largely" dressed female, answering the name of F. F. V., hailed a street car, and just as it stopped to take her aboard, a Union Soldier stepped out of the same car. On entering several seats were vacant, and this would-be lady inquired in a very sharp tone—

"Where did that soldier sit?" No answer.

Again, but in a more shrill tone than at first the same question was put—

"Where did that soldier sit?" Still no reply from any one of the passengers, the car going ahead, the "lady" still unseated, when the same question was fairly spit out between her teeth—

"WHERE DID THAT MAN SIT?" An honest Hibernian, quietly seated near the unhappy female, and no doubt being desirous of relieving her in some slight degree, replied—

"Faith ma'am, he sit on his end, and took it away with him!"

What the rest of the occupants of the car did, I do not know, but one gentleman left as speedily as possible, and the above information he thought too rich to be long kept a secret.

WHEN Dr. Johnson asked the widow Porter to be his wife, he told her candidly that he had no money, and that he had an uncle hanged. The widow replied that she cared nothing for his parentage, that she had no money herself, and that though she had no relation hanged, she had fifty who deserved hanging. So they made a match.

FANNY FERN, who, the Boston Post thinks ought to know, says, speaking of cotton:—The ladies, as we all know, owe something of their angelic symmetry to the pure and delicate Southern staple.—Of all the products of the earth, it is nearest to their hearts.

SIXOTRON, the war correspondent of the Bulletin, says that during a battle on the Chickahominy, Grant lost 6,000 men in ten minutes.
