Many new members were welcomed to the membership of the Monday Club at its first meeting on Monday. In order to give old and new members an opportunity to become acquainted and to enjoy a social hour after the summer vacation the formal meeting The closing service of the 200th parish quickened to new hope and of the club was shortened to the transaction of the usual business and the reading of reports.

President Mrs. Jewell said a word No action has yet been taken rela- of greeting and stressed the need of gation. ADDITION PROPOSED TO OUR HOSPITAL

The Trustees, Officers and Medical Board of the Hospital deeply appreciate the interest and support of the people of Weymouth in the work of the Hospital, and it is their earnest desire to bring the Hospital to that point of efficiency where it will adequately care for the needs of the townspeople within its scope.

Scarcely a day passes that applications are not received for private rooms, which applications the Hospital has to decline because of lack of accommodations.

It is the unanimous opinion of the officers and members of the Medical Board that the Hospital urgently needs more rooms to accomodate these increasing demands.

Plans for a ten-room addition have been prepared and bids from contractors have been obtained. We find that he cost of construcion of this proposed addition, including heating, lighting and plumbing will be about $15,000. It is proposed to raise the $15,000 by means of notes of the Hospital in denominations of $250 each, bearing date of October 1, 1923, and payable in five years, with interest semi-annually, at the rate of five per cent per annum. The notes to be callable upon any interest date. None of the notes to be issued unless the whole $15,000 is subscribed for.

Applications for the purchase of these notes may be now made to the Hospital or any one of its Trustees or members of the Medical Board.

When the addition is completed, it is conservatively estimated that the income of the Hospital will be increased about $10,000 per year, with small increase of the present cost of

The work of the Hospital since its opening on May 22, 1922, has consisted of the treatment of 538 cases. divided as follows: 211 surgical, 134 obstetrical and 193 medical cases.

LITTLE SUMMER

JAUNTS

By J. Caleb Justice, No. 3

CAMPING DE LUX

"Snuggle Inn" Lovewell Lake, Maine. In a deep porch arm chair, drowsily I am writing these lines, the glimermering, glistening, glinting, shimmering waters of the lake thru the vista of trees and rocks straight ahead. This "INN" is a cottage! Isn't our summer vacation patois amusing? This is a 'camp' composed of four hostelries (that don't hostel!): "Snuggle Inn", "Stumble Inn", "Wiggl Inn" and "De Lux". They're great, especially "De Lux".

No reflections, gentle reader, are to be cast on the sign painter who may have sawed his board too shot so that he had to leave off the "e". Not a palace of "luxury" but suggestive of 100 candle power light (electrical term), or perhaps to suggest cleanliness. Lux, a flaked soap for electric

So this is "Camping de Lux" if you please, with candle power (lamps), soap, water from a pump indoors. stoves: blue-flame and wood-coal, refrigerator, comfy beds with national springs, grand piano, telephone, deep cushioned chairs, screened in porches in a country of no mosquitoes, (they say there were once a few), kitchen with nothing missing for the cityladies' comfort, and a generous landlady who comes all the way from Old Orchard to say, "Here's a new eggbeater, I thought maybe that one is

Can you beat it? All the comforts of home and they call this "camping"! At Newport the marble summer palaces of the old and new rich are called "cottages", here the cottages are "Inns" and together constitute a "camp". Where are the tents that always used to be associated with the word "camp". Something that you could get up and walk off with in the morning, on your back or in the canoe or on the running board. But here there's nothing that we could walk off with-I mean enough to be missed.

Here are no stooping and cramping over a recalcitrant open fire to fry up your bit of bacon burned at one end, raw at the other, the smoke stinging tears. Here are no yellow caterpillars crawling up your feet at night, nor big black ants making your lips and ears a thoroughfare, no serried ranks of bombing, swooping minjature war planes with their z-z-z-zz-z-z-zipp, sting-g-g, slap!

And no day of glooms profuno when the sloshing down-pour puts out your fire and all things under canvas can be wrung out if you had a place to wring them. Instead, the blazing hearth casts its ruddy, warm, cheerful glow in every corner of the bungalow. Pitching your tents may be "camping" once for all get it that pitching your cottages is not camping at all, it's "camping de lux".

I laze in this deep arm chair on the broad veranda of "Snuggle Inn" and luxuriate with every sense the quiet charm all around. Thru the arch of hemlock, white pine, beech, moose, oak, birch, the placid lake mirrors black and pleasant mountains into the god's mighty arrow.

One wonders not that the Indians worshipped, for the forests are so dense, the open waters so wondrously blue, the distant purplish and pale lavendar peaks of Kearsarge and Washington so entrancing in their calm repose.

From yonder mica dome of Jockey Cap there spreads out before you such a bewitching scenee of the winding Saco valley, with its pretty little farms, its dense patches of varied green woods, its still lakes as held in the hollow of God's hand, its village of Fryeburg, nestling at the base of the White Mountains,-that it is no wonder that the childhood of all races of hilly countries saw in the varied language of Nature the manifestations of deity. They had time to see and

Are we wrong in suspecting that oftimes they, in their legends and poetry and miracle story, came nearer to Him who is the source of this pregnant Mother of all. Up there on the top of the purple peaks was Valhalla, home of the devinities that shaped the lives of men:

Thor, creator of the crashing storm, commemorated in our Thursday; Freya, goddess of spring and flowers and trees whom we remember in Friday: Tyr, the wrestler god of strife and battles. our Tuesday; while Wednesday is Woden's day, greatest and father of all, Creator of Thought. Other primitive feelings of wonder inspiring worship entered into our legacy of time: the limpid Moon, a majestic lady, cast her spell over Monday, while the Sun-god, the fructifying of altar-fires. How significant that the last day of the week, Saturday, should be devoted to the god of Time, the old Roman deity, Saturn, who in Greece was called Chronus (chronol-

The great Roman feast of Saturnalia was held every year in the winter season. Then all public business was suspended; declarations of war and criminal executions were postponed: friends made presents to one another; and even slaves were indulged with great liberties.

A feast was given them at which they sat at table while their masters served, to show the natural equality of men, and that all things belonged equally to all, in the reign of Time. How much has our Christmas inherited from this early human "seeking after God, if haply they might feel after him and find him, tho he is not far from each one of us".

Nearer in time is the naming of this lake in the deeps of the Maine woods. Over yonder across that arm of water in that grove of pines, there is a monument to early American history. It takes us back to when the red men roamed restlessly and freely thru this still wild country.

"To mark the field of Lovewell's fight on the 8th day of May, 1725, between a company of Massachusetts Rangers of 34 men and 80 warriors of the Pequawket tribe led by Paugus in a contest lasting from early morning until after sunset. The Indians were repulsed and their chief killed".

Yes, and too; Captain John Lovewell of Dunstable and fifteen of the colonists were killed in battle, nine others were wounded. "The survivors led by Ensign Seth Wyman began the homeward march after midnight". Thus did we inherit the wildman's paradise and become able to camp de lux on Lovewell's lake.

The chipmunks chase themselves up and down these trees, chattering, chatter, chatter, chatter, like some woman-a conversational volcano in a state of perpetual eruption. That fellow right there on the white pine coming down head first is viewing the world from his upside down position.

How fantastic! To see the ground, the brush, and me, all where the sky ought to be. I suppose, after all, it is all in one's point of view,-how we look at things. The chipmunk has merely anticipated Einstein's theory of relativity. But further digress is

Eyes, ears, every other sense and some nonsense, have been revelling in a perfectly delightful and carefree time. But now my olfactory sense takes in some savory odors from "Snuggle Inn's" kitchen. And not the least of all the delights of camping de lux is the eats. Dinner is served. Next:-"Terrors of the Night"

AUTOISTS OVERLOOK OILING VITAL SPOTS

Lubrication of Chassis Is Too Often Neglected.

The modern motorist by this time has become, as a rule, well educated in the care of his car, save in the single respect of attending to the lubrication of the chassis. The average motorist has learned, perhaps, by the experience of paying $40 or $50 for a new battery, that it pays to attend regularly to its filling and testing. He has learned, perhaps, through that it pays to keep plenty of oil in his crank case. But it is the average motorist who does not realize the importance of chassis lubrication, because he never has realized sharply just what his neg-

LESSON IN ROYAL WEDDING

Writer Sees Significance in Nuptials of Union of the Duke of York With a Commoner.

The marriage of the duke of York and Lady Elisabeth Bowes Lyon was invested with an exceptional degree of that human nature which makes the whole world kin and with something more. It was a noteworthy reminder of the radical contrast between royalty in Great Britain and in some other lands; for example, the states of Germany under the monarchial regime. In one of the latter, Willis Fletcher are to have charge of the domestic Johnson writes in the North American Review, such a marriage would have been impossible; it would be ve had to doomed to a rank inferior to her husthe succession. In Great Britain, though one of the oldest and proudest monarchies in the world, it was not only possible but also was not even regarded as extraordinary, and it was as complete and valid as though the bride had been of royal blood. Before the wedding a subject and a com-Weymouth. The fine tribute to womanhood was obvious, and no less so was the demonstration of the essential unity between sovereign and people. ROTANCE OF LOST ATLANTIS

Spanish Scientista Announce That Island Has Boan Located Off Court of That Country.

People who I' ther science well mixed with romance will be attracted to the announcement of the Spanish academy which says that the lost island of Atlantis has been located off the coast of Spain. Details of this interesting discovery are not yet available to the public, but that will leave speculation.

The age and vitality of the story that there was once a great and opulent country somewhere west of the Pillars of Hercules which grew to a magnificence passing all description, and then sunk into the sea has caused more than one geographer to think that somewhere back in the misty past there must have been a solid basis for the legend. Nobody knows how old the story is. Homer knew it, and I'lato gave the world a description of the place, but every mention of it, however early, is accompanied by the assurance that the date of the submergence was even then in the remotest past.

Will Horse Become Obsolete?

Disappearance is not too strong a word to use about the horse. The Agriculture department shows that throughout the world the supply of horses has fallen off 11 per cent since 1913. In the United States it was 1126 Pleasant St. something over 13 per cent. Imports of breeding horses to this country have fallen from 11,000 to 3,000. The Western breeder is not keen to raise Morses, for which there is no market and a falling price. A few horses will have to be kept for the zoological gardens and the movies. For the rest we shall have to take it out in studying Rosa Bonheur's pictures and the skeletons in the Museum of Natural History. Before they know it they will be keeping kind old Dobbin in a cage and charging half a dollar to go in and feed him apples-if there are any apples.-New York Herald.

Telephonic Advance.

The marvelous strides being made in the radio world will soon make it possible to talk to Europe by telephone, according to the research engineer of a Newark radio company. It will be the ordinary after-dinner diversion when time palls, he says, in the near future. "Just lift the re ceiver and your voice," he declares; "that will be all required to connect you with your friends in Europe. Plans are under way for linking up the telephone and radio in such a way as to make it possible to talk almost anywhere on earth where the two systems reach. One may also talk to friends sailing overseas with the same privacy as the telephone now affords."

Murderer Traced by Handkerchief. Few murderers escape some penalty or other, even the most careful. A strangling mystery two years old has just been solved by means of a handkerchief the murderer stuffed in the mouth of his victim in her apartment in the Rue des Filatiers, Paris. When a robber was arrested recently for holding up a teller of the Bank of France he gave a previous address in the Rue des Filatiers. The handkerchief was then taken all over France and shown to his relatives and friends. Finally, at Carcassonne, his sister unsuspectingly admitted she had embroldered it for him.

Youthful Lovers Quarreled.

He was shorter than I, but we were the same age and both freckle-faced kids, but each thought the other beautiful. One day he accompanied me down town and we had a quarrel. The day after I made an advance to make up because it was my fault, but he wouldn't. He has tried ever since to make up, but this ended my love affair.-- Exchange.

Friend in Need Gives Hospital $10,000

As a memorial to his grandfather, Alvah Raymond, and his father, also of the same name, Almon B. Ravmond of South Weymouth has given $10,000 to the Weymouth Hospital to be used as the trustees may direct, but not for the running expenses of the institution.

The trustees have voted to build a 14-room addition to the hospital, and this will be known as the "Raymond Annex". To pay for addition to the hospital building the trustees have started to raise the sum of $20,000 in notes of $250 each by popular subscription, and of this sum more than $15,000 has already been subscribed.

A tablet will be placed on the inside of the annex, telling about the $10,000 gift and its memorial purpose. It is hoped that enough private wards or rooms will be made available in the new annex, so that the income will be sufficient to materially decrease or entirely provide for the annual deficit of the running expenses.

Weymouth Birthday New Popular Feature

A new department of the Gazette-Transcript will be the birthday dates of residents of Weymouth to be inaugurated about Nov. 1, possibly before that date.

We request that every adult in Weymouth send to the Gazette, the year, month and date on which they The coupon below may be used:

About the first of November a list will be published of those born during the first week of November in the different years. When your friends know the dates they may shower you with cards, fruit, flowers, gifts and best wishes. The success of this new department depends on the readers of the Gazette-Transcript. Please send the information now, or at least a few weeks in advance, to publisher of Gazette, East Weymouth, Mass. Send not only your birthday date, but also your neighbors' and friends.

Unfortunately, at present, we don't know when these birthdays are coming. Here is a sample of what is wanted, a partial list of our Grand Army comrades:

We particularly want all persons prominent in Weymouth,—the clergymen, the town officials, the school teachers, the doctors, the lawyers, the World War veterans, the Spanish War veterans, the officers in different organizations and everybody.

MODERN REQUIREMENTS TOO SEVERE

Marion, Ohio, Sept. 25.-Roy D. Moore and L. B. Brush, Ohio men, who purchased the Marion Star, President Harding's newspaper, and its morning contemporary, the Marion Tribune, have suspended publication of the Tribune. They say:

"The modern requirements of a newspaper are too severe to permit two complete, representative and independent newspapers in a city the size of Marion".

Foot Ball Season Here Good Games for Fans

One of the best football games of | the coming season will be played at the Weymouth Fair Grounds tomorrow, (Saturday). The Weymouth A. A. will oppose the Whitman Legion who were considered by many to have the best team in the district at the close of last season.

Fred O'Brien of Boston Latin school and Harvard will again direct the Whitman boys. This is assurance enough to all fans that they will bring well coached team to town. Practically all of last year's star team will be with them and both Manager Sweeney and Capt. Lemon have notified Weymouth that Whitman is going in high and are confident of victory over George Curtin's stars.

The playing field at the Fair Grounds has been considerably improved, the sidelines have been roped off and now the spectators will be able to watch the game on all portions of the field without constantly milling around and pushing out into the playing field. There will be ample police protection and a full corps of ticket sellers; no waiting at the gate. Automobiles admitted free.

Coach Foley of the Weymouth aggregation reports that they will be ready. A long and intensive signal drill followed by stiff scrimmage was held Sunday last. Signal practice under the flood lights at the Nevin school grounds Tuesday and Thursday evenings was the order during the week. A big crowd of real football players from all parts of the town are candidates for the team and the prospects are for an even better showing than that of last year. It is the purpose of the management to give the fans of Weymouth an opportunity to see as good football as played anywhere in this section. With this purpose in view, games have been scheduled with the strongst amateur and semi-profession teams n the state. Capable, conscientious officials have been hired. J. Leo Feley has been secured to coach the hovs. He needs no introduction to Weymouth people. Every effort has beeen made to secure the best football players in all parts of the town. All to the end that Weymouth may be represented on the gridiron by the best team possible.

The schedule: Whitman at Weymouth Saturday (tomorrow); the morning of Oct. 12 Weymouth will play the Okos of Brockton at Brock- and the cook to get George down. ton; Oct. 20 the Oldtown team of Abington at Abington; Oct. 27 we entertain one of the oldest and strongest ers: last season they were defeated our season. The Old Colony Football Association was formed early in the fall of 1922 by a group of managers of football teams in this district.

The idea of an association or league originated with R. F. Mc-Keown had found considerable difficulty previous to 1922 in arranging games with various teams in their section. The association of managers was the result of considerable thought given by him to the idea of arranging some means to facilitate the scheduling of games and to provide a way to arbitrate the various disputes that would always arise.

The first meeting was held at the residence of Michael Stuart of Bridgewater. The idea met with considerable opposition from different managers for various reasons tho all realized the worth of the proposition. Finally a plan was formed that was agreeable to all rules was drawn up and signed and the Old Colony Football Association was on its way.

The original signers of the associaion agreement were representatives of th following teams: Abington. Rockland, Whitman, Plymouth, Bridgewater and the Okos of Brockton. Be fore the start of the season both Quincy and Weymouth were admitted making an eight team league. The personnel remains the same for 1923. The season starts tomorrow, Oct. 6. and continues until Dec. 1.

The first action toward the formation of a choir was taken in 1778, when it was voted that the singers should sit in the front gallery for a month "and if it makes no disturbance in the parish then to continue".

In 1832, the singers were authorized to organize themselves into a society and choose their own chorister. Thus the choir became fully established. In In 1824 "Watts' and Select Hymns" was introduced.

CALLED VILLAGE HIPPODROME NOW

Brockton Fair Midway Changes Its Name

WHOLE CIRCUS IN ITSELF

A Mile of Fun for Those Who Seek Out-Door Entertainment With a "Kick" In It

The Brockton Fair, October 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6, will have as a big amusement feature, the Village Hippodrome, succeeding the former Midway.

While some other fairs have abolished the Midway, because they could not seem to bring it up to the standard of other departments, the management of the Brockton Fair presents in the Village Hippodrome a mile of wholesome fun of the kind which has a "kick" 'a it but no "sting."

It is an all star garden of entertainment and Charles H. Pope, superintendent of concessions, shows in addition to the usual attractions, high class Hippodrome features by the Lew Du Four Exposition of clean St. Michael and St. George, and, at amusement. The Village Hippodrome home, a member of the National Acadextends from the Educational Building through the old Midway, back of the Grand Stand, to Forest Avenue, making practically a mile of good humor, outdoor fun and opportunities to restore one's youth by engaging in all kinds of vacation "stunts."

There are riding devices, which include the Whip, a big Merry-Go-Round, Ferris Wheel, Seaplanes, etc. There are also freaks and frivolities in the side shows. For the Night Shows a myriad or electric globes will make the Village Hippodrome especially at-

Everything in Col. Pope's Village caters to the better class of canvas show patrons and it is a foregoing conclusion that the Village Hippodrome will be visited by many thousands of people 'his year who will admit it is far ahead of the Fakir's Row and Midway of former years.

It is expected the Du Four Exposition will arrive in time to be : part of cialists. Neglected fence rows, brush, the free show which will be open as weeds, tall grass, etc., furnish ideal usual to the many thousands of people winter protection for the pests, and who throng the Fair Grounds on the Sunday Lefore the Fair. A mile of fun and still a demand for more space than can be given to the concessionists describes the situation in Supt. Pope's department. This is one of the big departments of the fair and last year turned into the treasury, $46,000 from concessionists.

Good Showing of Principle Dairy Breeds and Plenty of Competition

Osman M. Camburn, director of the Divisio nof Dairying and Animal Husbandry of the Massachusetts Department of Agriculture, has been added to the Dairy Show committee of the Brockton Agricultural Society, and has materially assisted the committee in securing dairy exhibits for the Brockton Fair. They will present on the Fiftieth Anniversary of the society October 2, 3, 4, o and 6, a much larger cattle show than any previous year. There will be an especially good show of Ayreshires, Guernseys, Holsteins, Jerseys and Milking Shorthorns. Mr. Camburn is very well known to the dairy people of New England, and his connection with the committee is an important one from the standpoint of appreciation on the part of the cattle raisers of the interest which the Brockton Agricultural Society takes in that branch of agriculture. Mr. Cambura has been for three years in his present position with the Department of Agriculture. Previous to that time ae was connected with the University of Vermont at Burlington as 645 Broad St., East Weymouth Dairy Extension Specialist and in chargo of advance registry work. Still earlier he was connected with the Vermont Départment of Agriculture. For two years Mr. Camburn was connected with the Dairy Division of the United States Department of Agriculture and was especially engaged in dairy extension work with headquarters at Washington, D. MAY SUPPLANT MORSE CODE

American Army Officer Said to Have Devised New Alphabet Superior to That in Use.

A vista for the extension of communication by radio, land lines and cables has been opened with the announcement of the invention of a new universal alphabet by Maj. Gen. George O. Squier, the chief signal officer of the army.

The new alphabet, hailed as the greatest advance in the science of communication in many years, is 2.65 times faster than the international Morse code now universally used. It is designed to supplant the latter, which was invented eighty years ago. The Morse code, General Squier said, is entirely out of date and unsuited to telegraphy as known and practiced to-

The principle upon which the new alphabet is based is that the dots and dashes occupy equal lengths of time and no consecutive signals are of the same sign, and the limit of legibility for each letter of the alphabet is practically uniform. General Squier's other lines of research have developed results of profound importance in a technical, nonspectacular way, and other nations have recognized his scientific eminence with a bundle of honors and decorations. He is a fellow of the Physical Society of London and a member of the Royal Institute of Great Britain, a Knight Commander of the Order of emy of Sciences, a Distinguished Service medalist and a frequent winner of Franklin medal.-New York

HARM DONE BY LEAFHOPPERS

Small Insects Inflict Immense Damage on Vineyards, Greatly Lessening Quality of the Fruit.

Grape leafhoppers, tiny, greenish insects always present in greater or less numbers in vineyards, occasionally do considerable damage to foliage and reduce the quality of the fruit, according to entomologists at the New York agricultural experiment station at Geneva. Most of the damage is done by overwintering adult insects which in the early spring feed largely on strawberry and raspberry leaves, although they are also found on black. berry, currant, gooseberry, catnip, Virginia creeper, burdocks, beech and sugar maple, declare the station spevineyards in the neighborhood of such places usually suffer most from leafhopper injury. Honor Awarded Scots.

The best English is spoken in Glasgow, or at least John Masefield says so. Mr. Masefield has given Englishmen a shock with this statement. While the Scots have consistently argued for decades past that the best English is to be found in Scotland. and especially in Edinburgh, it remained for Masefield, himself an Englishman, not only to accord the highest honors to Scotland but to hang them on Glasgow. English members of parliament, however, are not willing to accord any such distinction to the members of the Scottish labor party, as the latter are frequently hard to understand in debate. Masefield, who recently was judge at a Glasgow music festival, declared that the quality of speech of Glasgow children came as a revelation, and added that the children promised to be the best speakers of English. He even went farther and said he fancied there might be a time when the Scots would be the best singers of the musical Rubber From Milkweed.

Rubber plantations in the United States may be a realization in the not far distance if the recent prediction of Henry Ford that the common milkweed could produce rubber in satisfactory quantities, is fulfilled. Nor is milkweed rubber an invention of Ford, but in many of the laboratories of this country, investigations have been in progress for several years as to the possibilities of the milky juice source of rubber.

(C. 1923, Western Newspaper Union.) I could see Uncle Abel bending over his big ledger before I stepped into the hall. Then I turned on the light and glanced in the mirror as I hung up my coat. I wasn't exactly a beauty, but my eyes were the sort of blue that looks well with dark lashes, and first." Uncle Abel liked Dwight Severance. He was steady as an old clock, and Roy-well, the old ladies of Westfield called him "wild." He hadn't done anything "desperate" yet, but when the wheels of life moved too slowly, he wanted to oil them up a little. "I don't like Roy Carruthers," Uncle

Abel grumbled. "Gail is going to Dayton for a long visit," mother answered in a soothing tone, "and new scenes and new faces-" Then I quit eavesdropping and broke in upon their conference.

When I came back from Dayton Uncle Abel was gone. My married sister, Marion, came over for the evening and we sat around the library fire talking softly. By and by mother sent Jamie to bed.

"Gail," she began, "before your Uncle Abel died he made his will. He had more than we realized. He gave something to each of us, but-now don't get excited, dear-he has left the bulk of his property to you."

"To me, mother?" "But there is one condition," Marion put in, in her clear, incisive voice.

"But not one that will make the slightest difference to you, Gail," mother went on, "You are to have the money when you come of agethat will be in eight months-provided you don't marry Roy Carruthers. If you should ever marry him, which, of course, you haven't the remotest idea of doing, the money goes to your cousin in Putney, Harvey Titus." "And Harvey will take precious good care of that money, if he ever gets it," pronounced Marion.

"But of course he won't ever get it," mother returned, placidly. "I don't think I'll marry anybody.

I don't mean to be a prey to any forgood with that money. Perhaps I'll paint the Congregational church. But one thing is certain-I mean to have wonderful clothes."

Marion laughed. "We can be sure of that, Gail."

It was a new experience for me, my being an heiress. Mother wouldn't consent to my using any of my legacy in advance, so I had to make the most of my flowered organdies and my one made-over silk. But Marion said I was becoming to my clothes. I had never been exactly a wallflower, and now I became popular. Neal Connor, an upto-date young man whose wildness left poor Roy's in the shade, was ardent in his attentions. Mother began to look worried. "Don't be afraid, mother," I reassured her. "No fortune hunters! If I ever marry, it will be a man so rich that my little legacy will be a drop in the ocean of his colossal wealth."

Mother always did like Dwight. "But I don't like his habit of smiling with his mouth shut, and his lukewarm devotion isn't very exciting."

On the way home Roy asked me to marry him!

"Why, Roy, don't you know?" He laughed. "Of course. I've been here four days and I know all the affairs of the bank president, the min ister and the garbage man, down to the minutest details. But I love you, Gail."

Marion was with mother when I

"How is Jamie?" I asked mechan-

Then I told them. "Well," said Marion, "I knew Roy had nerve, but this goes a little be-

"That's like Roy," mother explained. "When he was a little fellow, if you told him he couldn't have anything, it only made him more determined to get it. I hope you refused him kindly. Gail.

"No, mother, I accepted him!"

Mother turned pale and Marion screamed. Then we talked and talked, Marion stormed and mother pleaded. At last mother went to look at Jamie's Marion spoke more gently now. "My little sister, a seventeen-cent purse and a million-dollar disposition are a poor combination. You'll be unhappy.'

"No, Marion; I shall be happy. I want to be loved, and Roy is the only man I can ever marry, knowing that he loves me for myself alone."

"Well, Roy and I were married, and we went housekeeping in the old Dar- Jr. and Katherine M. Murray at Newmer cottage. The roof leaked and we ton, La Forest W. WRITES OF GORILLA HUNT

William of Sweden Has Published Interesting Book on His Experiences in Africa.

Prince William of Sweden's new book, "Among Pygmies and Gorillas," relates his adventures simply yet vividly, says Henri Pickard in Old World Chitchat in the Cincinnati Enquirer. African scenes stand out in clear out-

The prince headed the Swedish zoological expedition to Central Africa in 1921. A main object was to obtain for the state museum at Stockholm specimens of the hugh mountain gorilla which is found in the Birunga volcanic region of the Congo.

There is no specimen of this rare creature, which strongly resents captivity, in the zoological gardens. In this part of their quest the expedition had complete success. Some of the excellent photographs showing wild animals roaming unafraid in "Africa's heart"-as the prince names this unspoiled region-take the imagination back to the primal days of crea-

As soon as the gorillas know they are being pursued by white hunters 'the forest comes to life."

"There is a roaring and shrieking, a crashing and whistling, so loud that the noise almost bursts the ear drums.

. . They are like a host of evil spirits that one can hear but not see." While following the gorillas the hunters used to hear a "dull, hollow sound echoing in the mountains." This sound is "produced by the gorilla beating its breast with its paw and thus giving warning to its comrades."

"The natives tell fantastic stories of how the gorillas lead quite a human existence; how they build their huts with a roof, make fires, steal women and eat negro children."

In this Eden of the wild the members of the Swedish expedition, it is a pleasure to state, would have no killing for sheer killing's sake.

"After our collectors, that is, the national museum, had acquired their desired specimens, it was only unwillingly that we raised guns to shoulder. Why disturb the idyll? Why spread death and destruction in this animals' paradise? It was so infinitely more amusing to follow their lithe movements and observe their daily habits or to lie hidden by a water hole and witness unseen how they quenched their thirst and how the bucks fought for the best place."

Good Work of Scientists.

It requires more than 6,000,000 tiny lust particles to cover a glass plate one inch square, according to investigators at the structural materials research laboratory of the Lewis Institute, in Chicago. Although it would seem a hopeless task to count these millions of dust particles and measure their exact size, these Lewis institute investigators have carried out a series of tests in which these operations were performed.

A higher radiator with a trim apron at its base lends dignity befitting a closed car. The higher hood and enlarged cowl curving gracefully to the dash give a stylish sweep to its body lines, and afford additional leg room for occupants of the front

All body fittings—window regulators, door grips, door latch levers, door lock, dome light—are finished in nickel. The upholstery carries a fine dark line on a soft brown background that does not easily show dust or dirt. Silk window curtains to harmonize for the three rear windows enhance the style of the car and add to the comfort of its passengers. See the new Sedan and other new Ford body styles at our showroom.

Address by C. W. Fearing On Pageant Ground

An abstract of the historical address delivered by Clarence W. Fearing at the bi-centennial service of the Old was transferred to it in 1912. South Union church, Sept. 23, 1923. (Continued from last week)

After contending with increasing feebleness for many years, Mr. Williams was given a colleague, Rev. William Tyler, in 1818; but he died the next year and Mr. Tyler became pastor.

Mr. Tyler was a leader in the temperance movement and started the first total abstinence society in Weymouth. Rev. Charles J. Warren, his successor in 1833, was also a strong emperance advocate and resigned in ican Temperance Union.

Under Mr. Tyler, in 1819, the Sunday School was organized with Noah Torrey, Esq., as the first superintendent. The instruction for many years of the South Church in Weymouth" consisted in reading and memorizing was organized Oct. 14, 1823, having portions of Scripture and the Shorter for its object "to labor for the promo-Catechism, with such comments as the tion of vital piety and mutual edificateachers chose to make.

To leave the parish was not difficult but to leave or neglect the church was churches were made in 1870, in 1892,

Other demoninations and diverse theological opinions were acquiring 1917, the lightning spoke from the followers, and the church was in danger of becoming divided against itself. So applications for dismission were sharply scrutinized and sometimes refused, and neglect of church obligations led to measures of discipline and sometimes even to excommunication. For over thirty years there was distress and bitter discussion and severe

The parish committee was scon changed, more orthodox ministers were employed, and after ineffectual attempts to secure a pastor, measures were taken which resulted in the return of the church in 1837. It was agreed at length to ask three pastors of neighboring churches to recommend a pastor to this church. They recommended Rev. Wales Lewis, and he accepted and was settled Sept. 12.

But those who disliked Calvinistic orthodoxy withdrew from the parish and many of them joined the new Universalist Society.

And now new troubles soon arose. The well meant attempt to maintain strictly scriptural discipline provoked disaffection with the pastor and opposition to the church rules. Heated discussions and sharp theological difand estrangement and even to asperchurch in every way it could and treated as a disorderly menace to its own welfare. This policy only hastened the new movement. November 1, 1842, an ex-parte council formed and recognized the Union Church of South Weymouth. The next year they built a house of worship on Pleasant street. But there was no fellowship with the old church until certain members of Union church disclaimed any intention to injure the Second church and desired forgiveness of their irregular proceedings. After that many things were done to promote fellowship, although there was prejudice and misunderstanding. and some unfortunate action that only lapse of time and forbearance could

Cutoms and Costumes Were Something of a Shock to Observant

American Visitors. Arthur Sherburne Hardy writes interestingly of Persian costumes in "Things Remembered." He describes that of the ladies of the court as "a aricature of the costume of the corps de ballet, a dress which had captivated the slah's fancy when visiting Euard which spread generally through the upper circles of society. As to the costumes in general, the streets of Teheran offer none of those brilliant color effects which dazzle the eye in India, Mr. Hardy says.

Among other national peculiarities which the author found it difficult to become accustomed to was the apparent complete disregard of the passage of time, and the popular disregard of the importance of punctuality. He tells some interesting things about Persian rugs, some of which, he says, receive treatment as regards dirt which would shock a New England housekeeper. For the Persian spreads his rug wherever he may happen to be, to rest, to eat, to say his evening prayer. The gloss which comes with age he attributes to his bare or stockinged cause the bodily temperature of audiences to rise and result in the throwing off of heat so that judicious theater owners utilize such plays as a substitute for fuel, according to a Boston professor of note, who says that he had made actual tests on theater audiences in Boston playhouses, and asserts that many theater owners observing this phenomena lower their heat supply as acts approach "the end." Fat persons, according to Professor Miller, give much more heat than thin ones as well as greater moisture, which is also beneficial since the average theater atmosphere is rather dry.-Scientific American.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 6.—The trip up the lower Mississiippi river from the jetties to New Orleans is intersting. After spending a couple of days on the Gulf of Mexico the land is a cheering sight.

It took the "Chalmette" from 3 in the morning until nearly 2 in the afternoon to reach New Orleans, and then there is a half hour's delay in passing customs officials before one is free. Delays had been caused by examinations by a physician and immigrant inspectors,

But the journey up the river is well worth while. There are only sparse settlements near the mouth of the river, but as the vessel progresses northward there are more and more houses in sight, and more and more fields of sugar cane, with a sugar mill in sight every now and then.

The river always twists and turns and tarries in a roundabout way before entering the gulf.

Near the gulf the rise and fall of the river is slight and the levees are small, but as one gets nearer New Orleans, the size of the banquettes

The familiar willow fringes the lower banks. Shaky little wooden piers run out into the river to keep the inhabitants out of the buckshot mud in getting into and out of small

New Orleans shows up a very respectable-sized city with a modern skyline as one comes into the harbor GOOD TRANSPORTATION from the southward.

Vessels from many nations may be seen either in the river or moored to the docks. One gets a very good idea of the greatness of New Orleans shipping by seeing the ships in the harbor A WOOL SCOURING MILL tramps, natty passenger liners, business-like cargo carriers. and many flags flutter in the breezes.

Dry Officials Zealous The customs inspection at New Orleans is a little more, rigiid than in due to the zeal of prohibition officials. Just after the "Chaimette" has been made fast, a mysterious individual jumps on the boat and mingles among the passengers. The word goes around NEAR FORE RIVER SHIPBUILDING that he is a booze sleuth. Doubtless he had a poor day's business when the "Chalmette" arrived. NEAR CITIES SERVICE CO.'S

Those passengers who had brought their own liquor from Havana had had farewell seances the night before, and the last flask had been tossed into

The "Chalmette" is a dry boat-no bar aboard. The vessel might be operated wet from Havana to the United State three-mile limit, but the owners of the Morgan line prefer to live up to the spirit of the prohibition law.

They tell us the "Chalmette" has been in operation for over forty years and has made 800 odd trips. Modern convenieces that are in evidence on bigger and later vessels are not in evidence on the "Chalmette", but there are compensations.

The officers of the "Chalmette" have proven especially friendly, helpful and obliging. The young and handsome, but gray-haired steward has acted as a gentleman of the old school in his acts of kindness and his thoughtfulness, and the purser has proven agreesumes no financial responsibility for able and companionable and has obligingly helped to make the passage from Havana to New Orleans pleasant.

The food served on the "Chalmette" service has been speedy.

Glad to Get "Home"

Among the thirty odd first-class passengers on the "Chalmette" had been a number of expatriated Americans -living in Cuba and elsewhere in southern climes for from two to five years and yearning again to set foot on native soil and rub elbows with people who think and act like themselves.

To these persons returning to the States after a lengthy sojourn in a foreign land, the "Chalmette" menu appeared especially pleasing.

"Those are the first roastn' ears I have seen in two years", one of our table companions said one day when he saw corn on the ccb on the bill of

And so it was with other things. It was the writer's very good fortune to meet some especially interesting and companionable folks aboard the "Chalmette".

A number of them had been in Cuba engaged in the sugar industry, and their conversation dealt much with the crops and mills.

"A visitor doesn't hear so much about sugar in Havana", one of the readers are interested in travel, the passengers explained, "but it is those editor will reprint letters which Frank sugar plantations in the interior which P. Cashman published in his paper, make possible the gay and rich Havana".

WANTED 1000 BIRTHDAY DATES

TELEPHONE

A new department of the Gazette-Transcript will be the birthday dates of residents of Weymouth to be inaugurated about Nov. 1, possibly before that date.

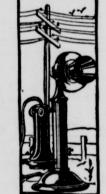

We request that every adult in Weymouth send to the Gazette, the year, month and date on which they were born. The coupon below may be used:

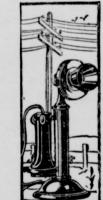

About the first of November a list will be published of those born during the first week of November in the different years. When your friends know the dates they may shower you with cards, fruit, flowers, gifts and best wishes. The success of this new department depends on the readers of the Gazette-Transcript. Please send the information now, or at least a few weeks in advance, to publisher of Gazette, East Weymouth, Mass. Send not only your birthday date, but also your neighbors and friends.

Unfortunately, at present, we don't know when these birthdays are coming. Here is a sample of what is wanted, a partial list of our Grand Army comrades:

1837, Sept. 25—J. Quincy Spear
1843, Sept. 24—James T. Pease

Mr. and Mrs. Reader

When you pick up a copy of your home paper, do you give any thought how it was produced, or the money that is spent to print it and deliver it at your home ?

The newspaper of to lay, no matter if 25 cents a copy was charged, would be the cheapest thing you bought.

In the first place it represents an investment in plant and equipment of many thousands of dollars.

Its editor and staff work digently day in and day out to gather all the news and present it to you in readable fashion. It aims to keep you informed on all the news that's "fit for ink."

With the average paper, the price you pay for subscription does not cover the cost of WHITE PAPER.

Yes, the newspaper is the cheapest thing you buy.

Think it over. Look it over. Then support your home paper. It's the best investment you can make, for it brings the largest returns.

KILLS RATS WITH BLOWGUNS

Weapon Peculiar to Natives of the Sulu Archipelago Can Be Used With Deadly Effect.

We were often visited by flocks of flying foxes from Tawi-Tawi, an island of the Sulu archipelago. These huge bats have a spread of wing from Preaching at 10.30 A. M.; sermon 3 to 41/2 feet and their fur is very short but soft and delicate. Their chattering would often keep us awake at night while they feasted on the seeds of cottonwood trees in front of our house

As usual, two house snakes took up their residence with us and assisted us in keeping our rats down. When they showed any disposition to wander elsewhere and came out from under the house, they were "switched" for their fickleness and driven back extinction was by the use of the More blowgun. This is a polished piece of ebony with a bore about threequarters of an inch in diameter and about four feet long. The projectile is a steel barb to which is attached a close tuft of soft feathers. We had supposed the longest sentence in English, longer even than any spun out by William M. Evarts in the Beecher trial, was the magnificent one of Hazlitt's in his essay on Coleridge included in "The Spirit of the Age" beginning: "Next he was engaged with Hartley's 'Tribes of Mind,' " but in the notes to John Payne's "Collected Poems" is a sentence of 603 words. "Every-clause hangs on its proper peg, every adjective, every adverb has a reason for its existence."

There is a sentence in Margaret Duchess of Newcastle's "True Relation of My Birth, Breeding and Life," which has 400 lines. The sentences in this book average nearly two pages 30 pages.

Origin of "E Pluribus Unum." Although it is not quite certain what suggested our national motto, "E pluribus unum," the origin of the phrase is not obscure. In writing of the intimate conversation of high-minded friends Cicero says (De Officiis, book I, cap. 17): "So is effected what Pythagoras desires in friendship, that many souls should be united in one (ut unus fiat ex pluribus)." The same thought is expressed in almost the same words in De Amicitia, cap. 25, "The value of friendship lies in this, ut unus quasi animus fiat ex pluribus." St. Augustine also says in his "Confessions," (book IV, cap. 8), that such friends are wont to enkindle each other's minds "et ex pluribus urum facere." The phrase is found with a different application in the "Moretum," a short poem attributed to Virgil describing the composition of a salad: "Color est e pluribus unus." . . .

FORTUNE-TELLING OLD "ART"

Delving Into the Future by the Aid of Tea-Leaves Survival of Ancient Superstition.

To tell a fortune by tea-leaves, you clinging to bottom and sides. Then you can read your future in what the leaves look like. Of course you can't water and a boy gazed into it until he became hypnotized and "saw things." The magician interpreted what the boy thought he saw. The strolling magicians of North Africa perform the same trick today by means of a drop of ink in a boy's hand. When Joseph sent his messengers to find his silver cup in which my lord drinketh and wherein he divineth?" Hence the mystic qualities of the cup. Ceromancy consisted of dropping melted wax into water and divining by the forms the wax assumed in cooling. It is a very old art, but tea was only introduced into Europe in the Seventeenth century; yet the primitive mind still subsisting in man at once seized upon the tea-grounds as a means of foretelling the future, as that same mind had seized upon the melted wax thousands of years before.

GLOVE BY NO MEANS MODERN

Its Use Can Be Traced With Unerring Accuracy Back to the Most Remote Times.

The origin of the glove dates back to remote antiquity. There is reason to believe that the ancient Persians wore them, since it is mentioned in the "Cyropoedia" of Xenophon that on one occasion Cyrus went without his gloves. It is also known that some kind of protective coverings for the hands were used by the Romans in certain kinds of manual labor and in battle. The English scholar, Dawkins. discovered on a bone dating from prehistoric days a design which he claimed to be a picture of a glove. On the monuments of the Pharaohs in Egypt there are represented among the tributes paid by subjected people gloves of the shape of the long suede worn by modern women.

Homer speaks of the gloves worn by the ancient Greeks in garden toil, and, though a crude mitten may be meant, it is also thought that the ancients knew the fingered glove. Gloves of the ancients corresponded in color with their foot coverings. The sandals and bootlike stockings were generally white or pink. Mittens are among the cress accessories found with mummies of priestesses dating from the 21st dynasty of Egypt. They were of the same material as the upper garment.

Tibetan Wool Market.

At Patseo in the wilds of Tibet is held the wool market to which come annually the merchants from the rich plains of India. The Tibetans barter the fleeces of their flocks for the rice, tea and cotton with which the pack mules of the traders are laden. The wool of the Tibetan sheep is in much demand, but as the animals cannot live below 10,000 feet, prospective purchasers are obliged to climb the rocky steeps into the very heart of the Himalayas. The market opens about the middle of July when herdsmen and merchants pitch their respective camps in a high valley 13,000 feet above sealevel. The sheep are shorn on the spot and emerge looking incredibly slim and forlorn, from a mass of wool which lies on the ground like a buffalo robe. When the market is made, the fleeces are wound about with ropes and pressed into as small a compass as possible. They are then loaded upon the pack-animals, and masters and mules turn their backs upon the inhospitable hills, well pleased to begin the descent toward their native plains.

Birds' Nests Nourishing Food.

On Tawi-Tawi island of the Sulu archipelago live colonies of the little swallowlike swifts that make the edible birds' nests, so beloved of the Chinese. These birds have some sort of glands in their jaws that secrete a thick glue which they stick up against the wall as a swallow does mud, and the nest when completed looks like white glass, but is very light. They are sold to the traders for their weight in Mexican silver, and it takes 17 nests to balance a dollar. They are supposed to be extremely nourishing and the broth is in demand for invalids. After the "first chop" nests are collected the birds begin at once the construction of the second chop, but these are worth only about one-half the first chop. When these are knocked down the birds resort to moss with only enough glue to hold it together. These are allowed to remain and in them they raise their broods.

Presence of Cream a Surprise.

A family found a good deal of cream on a bottle of milk which had been standing overnight. When the milkman called in the morning the maid held it up to the light and said, "Look here, I have never seen anything like this before on your milk.' The man looked at it for a moment. scratched his head, and replied, "Well. I don't know what's the matter, but you can throw it out and I'll give you a fresh bottle in its place."

The Money Bag

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

Ömmmmmmmö ©, 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Dan Thumma dropped the heavy bag of currency on the floor at his feet as he sank into a chair at the rude table. He drew his automatic from his hip pocket and put it on the table in front of him. Then he reiaxed for the first time in 24 hours. He was tired, dead tired, and he was glad of the respite, glad of the chance for resting before again trying to make his get-away.

Of course there was no telling how long the respite would last. Dan had only by a stroke of luck managed to elude his pursuers and reach this lonely cabin on the mountainside, where as a boy he had been accustomed to spend the nights when on hunting expeditions. And, too, there was as yet no certainty that he could accomplish his get-away in safety. He knew that his great height, his striking features, his breadth of chest made him a marked man and increased his difficulties.

It was good to relax, to yawn and stretch himself. Perhaps he might even snatch a few moments of sleep. Dan slumped more comfortably into the chair. Forty winks would do wonders for him. Just forty-

Almost at the instant he was drifting into slumberland, Dan's wandering senses came instantly to their

Behind Lim, in the small kitchen adjoining the room where he was seated, he heard a noise. And with a sort of sixth sense he became aware that some one was watching him through a crack in the kitchen door.

Dan wondered whether this watcher was an old or new enemy-he had no idea that it might be a friend. But it wouldn't do to frighten the watcher

So Dan with unhurried movements, took from his vest pocket the tiny mirror by which he made a semblance of a toilet when he was roughing it and cupped it in his hand, so that by gazing in it he could see the door be-

Dan felt a distinct thrill at what he saw. For it was a girl's face he glimpsed in the mirror-a young girl and a pretty girl. And, as the girl's face flashed into view on Dan's pocket mirror, he knew with that instinctive knowledge which is more divine than human, that here was the one girl in the world for him-the one girl for whom he had been holding his heart fresh all his twenty-eight years of life.

But the appearance of the girl presented a problem. Of course, there was nothing to fear from her, but, still, she might be one of the crowd who were trying to prevent his getaway with the bag of boodle at his

For a moment or two Dan considered the matter. Then, with characteristic directness, he dropped the mirror on the table, grabbed his automatic with his right hand, and leaping from his seat raced to the kitchen door. Dan heard a little gasp. The door was slammed in his face. But Dan thrust vigorously against the door with

The door gave way suddenly and with difficulty he saved himself from falling headlong into the kitchen.

When Dan regained his balance, he found himself looking straight into the barre! of a wicked looking revolver calm'y pointed at him by the girl who eyed him belligerently. And even in this startling situation he noted with delight that the girl was just the right height, that she was well built, and that evidently she was a match for his own resourcefulness and courage. As he noted all this his heart leaped to her. He knew that his life and his soul were irrevocably hers.

For a moment Dan eyed the girl, smiling a little, while she returned his glance unflinchingly and coldly. "Well," said Dan at last.

"Well," said the girl, in a rather deep voice. "The game is up. Go ard get that bag and bring it here." Dan felt a chill of dismay at this.

"So," said Dan, "you're one of the gang of thieves that's trying to get it away from me?" The girl shrugged her shoulders ever so slightly. "When thieves fall out-" she quoted. "That money was stolen from the First National bank at Brampton last Tuesday. The thief got away. You're the thief and-I'm going to get the money."

Dan laughed a bit at this. And yet on second thought he felt the situation wasn't such a laughing matter after all. The girl had the drop on him, she was coolly determined and he felt she was capable of shooting him if she felt like it. What could be do?

"Get it!" the girl commanded. Dan turned slowly toward the room where the bag lay, revolving the situation in his mind. He didn't want to get into gun play with the girl-he didn't want to harm her, and he didn't want her to harm him. Still, he simply couldn't let her get away with the money-he couldn't!

He walked slowly toward the bag. As he did so there was a sudden sound at the door through which Dan had entered the house. The door was violently thrown open and a burly, rough-faced man hurled himself from the door at the bag.

There was no doubt of the man's intention. He was bent on getting the

The intruder now had the bag in his arms and was crawling toward the door. In a few moments more he'd be at the door and make his es-

At this Dan, with a hoarse growl, hurled himself at the intruder unmindful of his wound. He heard the girl scream in the kitchen and heard her rush toward him and he was partly conscious of another person entering the door. But for the moment all his attention was centered on getting the money bag away from the man who was trying to escape with it. Dan's antagonist was a vicious fighter and would have been a pretty even match for Dan under ordinary circumstances. As it was, with his right hand helpless, Dan felt as though it was an almost impossible fightas though he had no chance in the world.

It was only for a moment, though, that Dan felt this way. Then, with a sudden surge of strength, he fought himself free from his antagonist and leaped to his feet. With his good left hand he caught up the money bag, which had dropped from his antagonist's grasp, and made for the door. He heard the girl scream again. At any moment he expected to hear a shot from her revolver. But he didn't dare wait; he must get away.

Dan plunged at the dark doorway and then stopped short. Standing in the doorway, grinning at him, was a huge bulk of a man-a man who was even larger than Dan himself. And in the man's right hand was an automatic, with which he was covering

"We've got him," cried the grinning man. "Good work, Miss Daugherty!" Dan turned to see the girl covering his recent antagonist with her revolver while the latter moaned on the floor. But the girl's eyes were on Dan, big and sorrowful.

"We'll split the reward," went on the man who was covering Dan. Dan whirled around at this.

"You're a detective?" queried Dan. "Sure, one of the Financial Institution Protective Agency's detectives."

"Where's your star?" demanded Dan. "Here," was the reply, as a coat lapel was pushed back and a star flashed at Dan. "And Miss Daugherty's got one, too."

For a moment there was silence in the room. Then, suddenly, Dan burst out in a wild gale of laughter. "What's so funny?" demanded the

"Nothing, much," said Dan. "Only I'm against this thing of not letting operatives know each other. I thought Miss Daugherty and you were all members of the gang of thieves who swiped the money and from whom I got the money bag. I thought you were of Husky Bill's gang here," he indicated his late antagonist still lying on the floor. "Bill's gang's been trying to get the dough from me growled the detective. "Only this-the reward will be split three ways." Dan turned back the lapel of his coat. "I'm one of the agency's detectives, too." "Well, I'll be blowed!" exclaimed the detective. Dan turned to the girl and found her eyes shining at him with a promise in them that thrilled him to his very

BOILER IS CENTURIES OLD

Pompeii Finds Proof That Romans Knew and Made Use of the Tubular Principle.

Some time ago an interesting discovery was made in the museum at Naples, where the works of art and utensils found in the buried city of Pompeli are preserved. Careful inspection of one of the ancient copper vase-shaped vessels there has shown that it is in reality a tubular boiler.

That this form of boiler should have been known to the Romans 2,000 years ago is somewhat remarkable. For just what purpose it was used is not known, but the boiler is well constructed and contains five tubes running across a central firebox, and so arranged as to permit the water surrounding the firebox to circulate through them in a continuous current. The soldering of the tubes was so skillfully done that it remains intact today, and the cover of the boiler closes hermetically.

It has been suggested that it may have been employed for distilling purposes. However that may be, its preservation for so many centuries under the ashes of Vesuvius proves that tubular boilers are not altogether a product of modern invention.

What Could Mother Say?

girl replied to this warning one day. "Just what do I do?" the mother

"You know what you do isn't very nice," persisted the child.

"What is it, then?" "Look at all the roaches you kill,"

WHY "AD" RATES VARY Advertising rates should be governed by the circulation of a newspaper. A paper that prints 2500 is worth considerably more than a paper with only 500, or even a 1000. The rate of the Brockton Enterprise for public notices and amusements is $1.25 per inch per insertion; the Gazette-Transcript rate is 75c for transients, and 50c by contract.

The commercial rate in the Enterprise, run of paper, is 98c; that of the Gazette, 75c for transients, 40c for contract "Ads" that change every issue and less for "Ads" that change occasionally.

The first page rate in the Enterprise is $2.50 per inch; in the Gazette $1. The Enterprise makes extra charges for first page of second section, and last page of the second section, but the Gazette does not. For reading notices, the Enterprise charges 35c and 25c per line. The Gazette much less.

ON THE PLEASURES OF HOPE

ficiently We Shall Not Be Disappointed.

Much of the pleasure in life comes from a forecasting imagination. The satisfaction of vacation travel, to choose but one example, lie as much Butler lt in prospect as in retrospect. It is fun to read the literature of places we Holbrook lg may never see, to discuss and compare alternative routes, to consult the ex- Monahan c perience of others and "compare McKenna c notes" with those who went and re- Sprague rg turned.

Says the cheerless pessimist: "I have learned to expect nothing. Life Welsh rt has taught me that if you expect noth- Desmond re ing you will not be disappointed." But Nolan re the man who has such a gloomy Curtin qb philosophy behind his modus operand is likely to find the "No Admittance" sign hanging out for him at many a door instead of the proverbial Dwyer lhb "Welcome" on the mat. People dislike a confirmed grouch, a chronic knocker as an associate in work or play. We do not ask that teammates shall dwell in a fool's paradise of the best of things and, as the Scot Time, 10m periods says, "Whustle o'er the lave o' it."

Why was hope implanted in the human breast, to spring eternal there, If we were not meant to believe that the best is yet to be, and then to labor with all our might to make that belief come true in fact? As eyes were made for seeing, the heart was meant to hope. The chief incentive to persevere and to make progress is not that which is-a fortune made, an ambition realized, a success attained-but Grace G, bm. (A. R. Mann) that which may be. A man in business Baby Bond bm. (Lynch) keeps going because he sees to far horizons and his ambition carries even farther than his vista.

So it is in all affairs of life. If Countess Petron bm (Crane) only we dare and endure sufficiently we shall not be disappointed. TO SAVE LIVES OF PEDESTRIANS

This new bumper is being tested by the Chicago safety council in its efforts to cope with the deadly results of "speedmania." By means of a mechanical device the driver is able to drop the bumper as a fender and a furled apron is extended upward at the same time, thus making a canvas hammock on the front of the automobile which literally scoops the unfortunate victim into it and carries him along unhurt until the car can be brought to a stop. Photograph shows the new bumper as it looks when opened and picks up the endangered pedestrian unburt and carries him along.

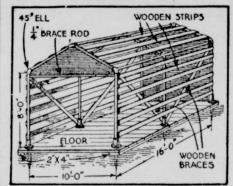

PIPE SUPPORTS SIMPLE GARAGE

Solution of Serious Problem for Man Who Is Constantly Moving Around.

The garage question is a serious proposition for many men who do not own their own homes or who are compelled by their business to move from place to place. After building five during this period of heavy driving, garages in as many towns or locations, I designed two knock-down or portable garages and constructed the one illustrated, writes R. C. Liebe in the Popular Science Monthly.

galvanized pipe and fittings. There are three separate frames, one on each end and one in the middle. The pipe is thoroughly braced with wooden strips bolted on with stove bolts.

Holes 3-16 in, in diameter are drilled in the posts and roof sections about 14 in, apart throughout, and 4-in, dressed wooden strips are bolted on to form the sheathing. The roof is covered with heavy tar paper, and the sides and ends with 8-oz. tenting. The duck is then given a coat of auto tep dressing, so that the color of the garage throughout is black

With 5 beiper & me were this an rage ready for my car in several hours, and it takes even less time to pull it down and pack it up in bundles for

The piping required for a garage consists of six posts 8 ft. long, six "rafters" 6 ft. long, and nine 45-degree ells. For a Ford car the garage can be 1 ft, less both in length and width.

The diagram is practically self explanatory. The builder can brace the garage as much as he thinks necessary to meet weather conditions. Iron spikes driven into the ends of the posts and then set into the ground serve to anchor the structure. If a wooden floor is to be used, a sufficient number of sleepers should be laid to support the heavy planking.

Each of the three pipe frames is held together by a 1/4-in. rod bolted through the posts and tightened from the outside. Canvas curtains can be hung on this rod to form the cheapest kind of door, or other doors, which are pipe frames covered with canvas or wooden strips and tar paper or both, can be

Crank or crankshaft misalignment will also cause improper meshing of gear teeth.

Retarding the spark to slow down the speed of an engine causes carbon formation.

A motorist will save dollars in tire expense, if he will coast to a stop, employing his brakes very gradually.

HARDEST USE GIVEN TIRES IN SUMMER

Inspection Necessary Before Tours Are Started.

Not only during the warm months is the average passenger car driven at least twice as far daily as in the winter season, but it usually is driven very much faster. For these reasons tires are subjected to more severe service, and troubles with them come very much closer together, in point of time, which calls for a careful inspection and revision of the equipment before long distance trips and vacations are to be made.

In considering the stock of tires on The framework consists of %-in. hand the mileage already delivered by as to what future service may be expected of it. Knowing how far a certain tire has run and subtracting this distance from the average mileage obtained from similar tires on the same car gives the most dependable guess as to its "expectancy"-to borrow a term from the life insurance man.

A useful check upon any such estimate is obtainable from its appearance, and an expert tire man, if he has a casing off, so that a thorough examination is possible, may make some quite accurate predictions, but much less can be learned from inspecting a casing on the wheel.

If the tread has cut through it in places which have been long neglected and have begun to raise sand blisters; if there are any swellings in the surface or any indications of approaching failure along the side walls, no great dependence for future service should be placed in it, but if the tread is practically perfect, barring normal wear, and no signs of weakness are Weymouth (8 minutes earlier). apparent, the casing can be relied upon for the additional mileage indicated by service previously rendered and past experience.

mucage that remains in the casings on the wheels is in order to provide requisite spare tire equipment, it going without saying that the extra casings carried must be more 10 ft. wide, 8 ft. high and 16 ft. long numerous and of better quality if the tires in service are old and worn than as if they are all new.

RESPONSIBLE FOR BLOWOUTS

Difficulty Often May Be Traced Back for Months When Casing Received Hard Jolt.

It is not always easy to trace the cause of a blowout. The tire may have been kept carefully inflated at the proper figure, tread cuts filled and beads watched, yet the casing gives

More often than not difficulty of this kind must be traced back for months when the casing received a severe blow, weakening the fabric structure and then, as time wears on, the entire casing becomes affected and blows out when least expected.

LENSES GET OUT OF FOCUS

Vibration May Loosen Glasses in Their Rims and Diffusing Properties Are Lost.

Many of the light-diffusing devices now popular are designed to operate when in a certain fixed position. Vibration may loosen the glasses in their rims so that the whole lens creeps around and the diffusing properties are lost. Some of these glasses have a means of anchoring them firmly in place, but others have not, and it is up to the car owner to see that they are properly in place. Screws may be used for fastening them, and a lock washer should be inserted under each of them.

BOLD ROBBERY The gas filling station of Arthur S. Kelsey at the junction of Washington and Main streets was the scene of another sensation on Monday night, about 9 o'clock. Four men probably from Quincy, drove up to the station in a Studebaker car. They pretended they wanted to secure a bulb, and when Mr. Kelsey went inside, three of the men followed and robbed the money drawer of $50. The men made Mr. Kelsey and his son get into their auto and drove them toward Braintree, finally leaving them on the roadside. Weymouth on Thursday. The men have not been apprehended.

HIGH SCHOOL COLUMN

Columbus Day falling this year on Friday gave the teachers an opportunity to have a complete change of scene for a few days and several took advantage of the extra time during the week-end and travelled quite a distance:

Ray Parker went to Greenfield and from there with a party of friends journeyed by automobile to Sunapee, New Hampshire.

New York City was Miss Helen Maher's destination when she started arriving in New York at 4 P. M. Miss Anna Berry and Miss Mildred Wagg had a most enjoyable time together in East Jaffrey, N. H. Miss Dorothy Kennett spent a happy time with her parents in West

A friend of Miss Helen Tonry, Mr. Pearson's secretary, went on an educational trip in the interests of the Canadian-Pacific Railway to Montreal and Quebec, and Miss Tonry was privileged to accompany her. The trip was most interesting to both.

Last Thursday last week at C. M. field Weymouth High won from the strong Milton team 13-0.

The game was very interesting and the spectators were kept on their toes throughout the game by the continuous line plunges by Captain Wichert and Mauro. Weymouth began well by taking the ball away from Milton or its own 30 yard line. Weymouth then began going through the Milton line for good gains, only to lose the bal on the visitors 10-yard line by fumble. Milton then punted to midfield and Weymouth again started r drive down the field and Capt. Wich ert put the pigskin over just before the first half ended. Dorey kicked the

MUSICIANS OF WEYMOUTH Editor Gazette-Transcript:

The subscriber is putting into shape the final sheets of the chapter of mucians of Weymouth for the History of Weymouth to be finished this year-1923. There is still some pertinent and valuable data to be obtained, which, if not forthcoming, may prove a disappointment to those interested.

To the best of his ability he, the subscriber, has endeavored to build up a story interesting and complete. He now makes one more appeal to any and all who themselves have contribted to the musical life of Weymouth or whose ancestry has in any way been heard by a previous generation as players or singers.

Weymouth has had some great players and singers of whom we are justly proud, but it is of the greater number, because this historian delights in numbers, of the devoted and faiithful in a perhaps smaller and more limited sphere that he is tremendously anxious to chronicle in this nents, but will reprint that part of chapter as representing the musical strength of the town. Will you not respond to this S. O. S.

and turn in some material at your occur. When possible advertisements hand which may prove a valuable link or a pertinent bit of information and thereby add to the strength of the Sincerely yours,

BROCKTON FAIR PRIZE

It is interesting to note that at the Brockton Fair last week, Superintendent of Concessions C. H. Pope awarded the first prize of $200 to Charles A. Frizt, 121 Randolph street, North Abington, for the most attractive eating and lunch tent on the grounds. This booth which was in charge of Mr. Fritz and a corps of assistants was Since the Weymouth Gazette awarded the first prize on points of have been many consolidations. ration the cleanliness of the kitcher and dining room in making their decisior, as well as the neatness of the attendants. The condition of the food on hand was also a factor.

Mr. Fritz, however, who is well known as the manufacturer of the high quality ice cream with which the most of us are familiar, modestly declines to accept the entire credit and is anxious that Mr. and Mrs. Charles Starratt of Union street, South Weymouth, share the honor with him. He feels that it is due to the hearty cooperation of Mr. and Mrs. Starratt that it was possible for him to be the fortunate winner of this high honor. The ice cream section was under the personal supervision of Mr. Fritz, while both Mr. and Mrs. Starratt were in charge of the lunch section of the booth, and it appears that they were equally responsible for the wholesome the judges reach a decision was the A man looketh on his little attractive and sanitary appearance of the Armour products which held a conspicuous place in the booth.

WANT TO KNOW -- WHEN YOUR --

IS COMING?

A new department of the Gazette-Transcript will be the birthday dates of residents of Weymouth to be inaugurated about Nov. 1, possibly before that date.

We request that every adult in Weymouth send to the Gazette, the year, month and date on which they were born. The coupon below may be used:

Name	 	٠.
Street Address
Year
Month	 		 			 			. :
Day of Month
Sent by

About the first of November a list will be published of those born during the first week of November in the different years. When your friends know the dates they may shower you with cards, fruit, flowers, gifts and best wishes. The success of this new department depends on the readers of the Gazette-Transcript. Please send the information now, or at least a few weeks in advance, to publisher of Gazette, East Weymouth, Mass. Send not only your birthday date, but also your neighbors and friends.

Unfortunately, at present, we don't know when these birthdays are coming. Here is a sample of what is wanted, a partial list of our Grand Army comrades:

> 1841, Oct. 8—Elbridge Nash 1844, Oct. 28-Maj. Francis A. Bicknell 1844, Nov. 8—Andrew Culley 1839, Dec. 22-Willard J. Dunbar 1845, Jan. 12—Christopher P. Tower 1843, Jan. 31—Joseph P. Ford 1848, Feb. 4,—John F. Hollis

Geraniums Adorn Large Summer Hat of Straw

Bright geranium blossoms of silk form the decoration so effectively used on this huge summer hat. It is one of the latest Paris fashions.

Fashion Notes That Will Interest Women

Some of the tailored suits are delightfully practical and cut on the simplest of lines. Brown gabardine composes one of these tailleurs, which has a plain, straight skirt and a short jacket fastening on the left hip with a fancy medallion of brown silk braid. The jacket fastens on the left shoulmedallion.

Among the summer frocks there is popular. It looks well on both the slim and the plump, the young and old. This model has an accordionplemented with a little cape, also accordion-plaited.

That pleasant combination of colors, dark blue and biscuit, is seen in a surprisingly large number of street frocks. These frocks are likely to be of gabardine or heavy silk marocaln with a piping of biscuit satin or with panels faced in biscuit.

The slender silhouette is achieved in a number of ways this season, but no way is more popular than the long side panels which cut the breadth about the hips and give a graceful hemline.

A gown of white brocaded velvet has a band of sable about the hem and outlining the very short sleeves. It has a full, bouffant skirt and a closefitting bodice.

A most attractive fan of black lace is mounted over green chiffon. The pattern is outlined with small black sequins.

Care of Finger Nails

"Care of the fingernails is such a fine art-much finer than it is usually ranked-that I have devoted time and attention to learning about it," observes a prominent "movie" star. "A girl, really, should show the same care in the treatment of her nails that | rect. she does her complexione

"First, the cuticle should never be jabbed at, because the nails will im- these: mediately resent it and the 'moons' become imperfect. Care should be taken in polishing that a too high luster does not detract from the beauty of the finished operation.

"Soak the nails for a few minutes in warm, soapy water. Wipe gently, pushing back the cuticle, then dip in warm olive oil-this is invaluable if the fingernails are at all brittle-wild dry and polish with nail powder, or if a brilliant polish is not desired, rub each hand briskly on the palm of the

"Neglected nails really reveal a procrastinating disposition which most girls would resent being accused of possessing. Just a few minutes a day spent in caring for the handsand beauty is started on its way."

Use Ribbons and Cords to Hang the Pictures

The day of the hideous wire hangings for picture and mirrors is past. Ribbons and gay colored cords now do utilitarian service even as they decorate. Most attractive ribbon hangings are designed so that a ribbon cockade, conventionalized flowers or even bows end the ribbon where it catches to the molding or hides the nails from which the mirror is hung. Sometimes a streamer of flowers falls from the cockade.

Some ribbons are strong enough to hold the object to be hung. Where the object is very heavy, put a wire or heavy cord back of the ribbon.

Small objects need but one hanger. Larger and heavier ones need two.

Should Choose Colors That Will Suit Eyes

For those who wear blouses and shirtwaists the most important point to remember is that the cut of the neckline makes or mars the contour of the face-just the right cut forms a setting for the head. Ribbon ties bows, medallions, jabots of different colors add greatly to the fresh look of a waist; also add variety and make one blouse seem many. Ribbons worn at the neck line should be carefully chosen as to color. Color worn near the face affects the shade of the eyes. The right colors brighten, intensify and beautify the eyes; wrong colors dull, fade or spoil the coloring or expression of the eye.

New Sport Style.

Evening Fairy Tale

ICE CREAM SODA

"A very thirsty and very warm and ery weary boy is coming back to drink me," said the Ice Cream

"I tell you what, it is to my credit that I am not conceited. Of course have a little rightful pride. I do puff up with pride and with the fizz stuff that is put into me, too! der and the front has a simple braid But I am not unduly conceited and yet there would be every excuse for me if I were. Because my family are one model likely to become extremely loved! People fairly rave over ice cream sodas. The Syrup sons are as popular as they can be. Chocolate is the most popular, but there are Pineplaited skirt and it is likely to be sup- apple and Orange and Lemon and Coffee and they are all very popular

"Then there are the nuts and there is Miss Marshmallow. She is a general favorite. We have such a nice home where it is so cool and comfortable in the hot summer weather.

"Yes, we're right here by the soda water fountain and there is ice for us to rest upon. Then there is Lady Ice Cream. She is a great favorite too.

"I have some of her in my glass now and I have Chocolate Syrup and some wonderful fizzy things were brought out of some of the faucets on the soda fountain. I can't be made by everybody. Of course I must have the best of materials. But some make me better than others. Of course that is only natural.

"There are some people who can do certain things better than others and others who can do other things better than these certain ones. That all sounds very confusing but you must remember I'm an ice cream soda and Fine Art, Says Actress I'm not a student. What is more, and ignorance and lack of intelligence is the fact that I am about in the summer time when no one is in school and when no one talks so very much about what is correct and what is not cor-

"At least they don't talk that way before me. I hear speeches such as

"'Um-um, this soda is good.'

"'My, but I was thirsty.' "'Yes, this will cool me off. I was

"'Oh, this is good. This touches the right spot.'

"That last speech I hear very, very often. Everyone seems to have a right spot to be touched.

"Then I hear them say, 'Oh, let me treat this time. You treated last "'Let it be a Dutch treat.'

"'All right. Let's not argue. I'm too warm. I can only think of the soda I'm going to have.'

"So they talk. And you will admit that that isn't the kind of talk that would make a wise thing out of me. It's very nice, pleasant and cheering talk, but it's not bookish talk. Oh no, not that at all.

"No one thinks of books when they come in here. They think of paper napkins and straws and a spoon for stirring. That's what they think of and I know. The ice cream soda knows. Of course I am soon to be eaten and the syrup in me will be drunk with a relish after the ice cream has all gone. But the ice cream soda recipe or the way of making ice cream soda will not disappear and so I say 'I' have had all these experiences. You know, of course, what I mean.

"But hush! I must stop my chatter. I see the boy coming back and he is smiling already to see me. I am not quite so puffed up in appearance as I was, but I taste just as good, Heigh-ho, what a smile of welcome. I will give him my best chocolate smile, too,"

And this was what the boy said to the ice cream soda: "Oh, Ice Cream Soda, You're simply great! You're just "He Is Smiling what I needed. Just exactly what Aiready. I needed. I say, Ice Cream Soda, you are great!"

HOWEVER informed and purposeful women of today may be, however businesslike and practical, they show no disposition to turn their backs upon the pretty furbelows that it is the privilege of the gentler sex to wear. The more advanced they become, the more generally appreciative of the niceties of dress they are; the more allert and alive to its possibilities. The fall season is here and has brought with it the most efaborate and diversified styles in all departments of dress that this generation has seen. Taking dress accessories made of ribbon as an example, we find them in greater numbers than ever, and of ribbon girdles, sashes and bags it is safe and copy them, and special designers keep turning out new models of these enticing and beautiful accessories.

A flower girdle and two bags are IIlustrated here. Those forehanded women who occupy their leisure time making gifts a long way in advance toned satin ribbon in peach and yellow is used for the lovely girdle—two lengths rolled and twisted together support three flowers, have pointed petals and little rose centers made of the ribbon. The girdle fastens with a snap fastener under one of the flowers and three ends of ribbon, in different lengths, fall from it. They are trimmed on the bias as the ends and the middle length show the darker side of the ribbon.

At the left a flower bag is shown made of two-toned! (black and white) satin ribbon. Lengths of the ribbon are stitched together to form the bag and a flat rosette is set in a bow of ribbon on one of its sides. The center of the rosette is sprinkled with French knots in white silk floss, prettily simulating stamens of the flower.

Two widths of green and gold brocaded ribbon are stitched together to make the rich bag shown at the right. The bag is lined with silk gathered at the top and sewed to a metal bag-top. A good quality of silk or satin lines these bags and often their handles to say that most of them are made at are made of the ribben or of silk cord, home. Women see them in the shops which is run through a casing near the top and out through openings at

CAN'T FOOL HIM

Johnny paid his first visit to a farm the other day. All his life he had lived in the heart of a great city, and when he suddenly came in sight of a haystack, he stopped and gazed earnestly at what appeared to him as a new brand of architecture.

"Say, Mr. Smith," he remarked to the farmer, pointing to the haystack, "why don't they have doors and windows in it?"

"Doors and windows!" smiled the farmer, "That's not a house, Johr,ny, that's hay."

"Don't try to kid me, Mr. Smith!" was the scornful rejoinder. "Don't you suppose I know that hay don't grow in humps like that?"-Miami Herald.

Last year the tax rate of Weymouth was $29.25, the same as the previous year.

What will it be this year? More or less?

The town appropriations for 1923 at the annual town meeting were $514,571.74, an increase of $72,954.32 over 1922.

The maturing notes of 1923 are $9000 larger than in 1922, and the Norfolk county assessment is also $631.41 larger.

But the State assessments are $4,318.52 less, and the "estimated receipts" of 1923 are $115,733.77 which reduces the net levy for 1923 to $505,559.36, against $475,-248.78 in 1922.

This is an increase of about $30,000.

Town Accountant Dizer gives out these figures:

Appropriations	$441,617.42	$514,571.74	$72,954.32
Notes maturing	21,000.00	30,000.00	9,000.00

The Appropriation Committee in passing upon the various appropriations in March, estimated that on the same valuation the tax rate would be $33.25.

$475,248.78 $505,559.36

Town Accountant Dizer estimates that it will be about $2 or less.

SOME NIGHT SHIRT TALES

Epidemic of Men's Lost Garments Leads to Suspicion They Were Left in Sleepers on Purpose.

There has been an epidemic of lost night shirts in the Detroit district recently. The first tale of a shirt involves an elderly woman who called at the office and was anxious for the return of a night shirt which she said her son had left on a pullman. It should be easy to discover, said she, as it was made of heavy blue and white flanelette. It was located and when the clerk was wrapping it up she remarked, with a grim look, that she felt sure her son, who had failed to appreciate the article-her gift, too-had left it on the car on purpose, but-"as long as Tom's home, he's going to wear it." Judging from the tone in which she delivered this ultimatum, Tom will wear it until he takes another trip and manages to lose it on another pullman car-far, far from home.

A passenger bereft of his night attire wrote in a plaintive plea for its return, saying, "The weather is cold and the tails of the shirt are long, so please rush by return mail." Unless he has been careless once more he has leg comfort at night, for the shirt was

A traveling man who reported the loss of his night shirt said somewhat pathetically that it was the only one he had with him, he had to have it because he didn't dare to go home without it and it ought to be easy to find because it was red flannel. Noticing the look of incredulity on the face of the lost property clerk he explained that he was a forgetful cuss, that he was always leaving night shirts on the train, and that his frugal and ingenious wife had decided that to break him of his habit he should have shirts that even a blind man could not overlook, so she built him one of red flannel-and he had lost it on the first trip.-Pullman

SOWING OF DRAGON'S TEETH

According to Greek Myth Thebes Was Built by Soldiers Who Came From the Ground.

Some strange things are contained in the myths. One of them is the Greek story of the sowing of the dragon's teeth.

At the bidding of the oracle of Apollo, Cadmus set out with a party of retainers to found the city of Thebes. The sacred serpent of Mars captured the retainers, killed them and itself was killed by Cadmus them in a field. As he completed this clad bodies of men, until a host of warriors stood in the field.

"Meddle not with our civil war," said one of the warriors as Cadmus advanced to meet what he thought was a new array of enemies.

Thereupon the warriors began to Form of Punishment in 1618.

The custom of punishing a culprit by forcing him to "run the gauntlet" is said to have originated in the Thirty Years' war (1618-48), and to have been adopted by European armies as a mode of punishment. The culprit, stripped to the waist, was obliged to run repeatedly between two lines of soldiers facing each other. Each soldier struck at him with a short stick or switch.

The word "gauntlet," as here used, not the meaning usually given itthat of an iron glove-is simply a corruption of gantlope or gatlope, and is derived from the Swedish gatlopp, meaning "running down a lane." Some etymologists, however, derive the word from the German gassenlaufen, which means "running the lane," and others from the Dutch gangloppen, having the same mean-

A Many-Sided Problem. "Betty!" called the young mother.

"Yes, ma'am," came from the

"When the baby has finished his bottle, lay him in the craqle on the right side. After eating, a child should always lie on the right side. That relieves the pressure on the heart. Still (reflectively) the liver is on the right side. Perhaps, after all, you'd better lay him on the left side. No. I'm sure the book said, 'right side.' On the whole, Betty, you may lay the baby on his back till I have looked the matter up more thoroughly."

Against Evil Gases.

The United States bureau of mines, informing the public against the use of masks against obnoxious gases, etc., says that gas masks are the simplest and easiest to wear, but they protect only in comparatively low concentrations of obnoxious gases and should never be used where the air contains less than 16 per cent of oxygen.

Fashion Demands Dresses

For many a year suits have been the mainstay of the up-to-date woman's wardrobe, but this fall finds cloth dresses disputing their supremacy. One of these handsome rivals of the suit is pictured above, made of twill in a dark color and brightened with embroidery in several colors. Its striking new style features are a high turnover collar, long, bell sleeves and anklelength skirts with side panels attached along one of their edges.

Modish Tailored Frocks

One excellent reason for the popularity of cloth utility frocks appears in the picture above. This smart model presents the advantages of a military collar, bell sleeves and braid embroidery. The skirt has a box plait inset of satin, in a contrasting color, at the sides, emphasized by rows of small buttons and satin faces the collar, sleeves and revers.

Rich Coat of Pile Fabric

High pile fabrics have a luxurious quality that charms the eye, and a light warm, soft touch that endears them to their wearers. They appear in many variations, in the new coats winter, almost always accompanied by collar and cuffs, and sometimes trimmings, of fur. A rich example is pictured in dark brown with fox collar and cuffs. It fastens with a handsome clasp and is lined with plain crepe.

In the Tailored Mode

Brief and brilliant is the story of this distinctive fall suit. It is strictly in the mode with its plain, straight skirt and its box coat, worn over a blouse of vivid printed silk. There is an individual touch in the plain crepe de chine collar and tie of narrow rib-

In Comparing Your Electric Light Bills For the Months of October and November, Please Remember the following facts: --

- 1. There are three times as many hours requiring artificial light in winter as there are in summer.
- 2. Previous to daylight saving the average daily hours' use of electric light in residences during September was 3 hours and 30 minutes.
- 3. The average use during October is 4 hours and 50 minutes, and the average use during November is 6 hours and 10 minutes.
- The discontinuance of Daylight Saving Time on September 30, therefore, will add another hour daily to the normal increase of October and November over the previous months.

The lighting bills for these months will necessarily be greater, due to the above reasons.

A WONDERFUL WORLD

A little more praise and a little less blame,

A little more virtue, a little less shame,

A little more thought for the other man's rights A little less self in our chase for delights,

A little more loving, a little less hate, Are all that is needed to make the world great.

A little more boosting, a little less jeering,

A little more trusting, a little less fearing,

A little more patience in trouble and pain,

A little less willing at times to complain.

A little more kindness worked into the strife, Are all that is needed to glorify life.

A little more honor, a little less greed,

A little more service, a little less creed,

A little more courage when pathways are rough, A little more action a little less bluff,

A little more kindness by you and by me,

And, of, what a wonderful world it would be.

MODERN MEDICINE VS. QUACKS

Scientific Progress Is Rapidly Driving the Charlatans Out of the Field.

When the doctor gently chides the patient who has wasted vitally valuable time chasing the latest advertised panacea, the victim always has a "come-back." He-or, more often, she -retorts that the medical profession is always opposed to new methods of treatment. There is no gainsaying the fact that ancient and medieval medicine was narrow and ecclesiastical in its attitude. At that time medicine was not a science, but a more or less imperfect art. It attracted, it is true, many brilliant minds, but it also had in its ranks a large preponderance of mystics and charlatans.

What we know today as the science of medicine is of recent growth. The application of modern scientific methods to the study of the human body and its processes has produced results as far-reaching in their scope as any accomplished in other fields of human endeavor. Moreover, by employing the methods of the Twentleth century both to the study of medicine and to the organization of the medical profession, charlatanism and mysticism have become the exception instead of the rule in medicine. The modern medical quack and faddist is but an excrescence.

The result of all this has been to raise enormously the standard of the collective judgment of the medical profession. A careful review of modern medicine will show that in not one instance has the mass judgment of physicians been at fault in condemning methods of treatment that have failed to meet the exacting requirements demanded by the doctor of today.

PYGMIES AVERAGE FIVE FEET

Wherever Found, They Possess Certain Striking Resemblances-Neglect Agriculture.

There are certain popular errors concerning the race of undersized men and women known as pygmies. Usually travelers have measured the most diminutive specimens, and thus an exaggerated idea of their smallness has been produced.

The average stature of the pygmies that have been measured is about four feet eight inches, but the best authorities in anthropology say that the real average limit of stature is five feet. Some are taller than that.

The pygmies have been found in eight or ten different places in Central Africa, but wherever found they possess certain striking resemblances.

The plant furnishing the covering for their huts is the same in the widely separated regions visited by Stanley and others, and the shape of the huts, a rough hemisphere, is the same.

All the pygmies are alike characterized by neglect of agriculture, by the use of poisoned arrows, and by the absence of centralized tribal organization.-Kansas City Times.

Trip Through New Guinea Costly. New Guinea is a rough country to travel in-absolutely virgin jungle, without even a path other than the knife-cut paths carved out of the wall of vegetation that covers the greater part of the island. And it is a costly thing to travel through the jungle, for everything you are likely to wear, eat and use in the trip must be carried with you on the backs of your native porters; the jungle is innocent of even the poorest sort of store or shop. Man transport is expensive, too, and a moderate estimate for the cost of a tour inland by two white men and thirty native carriers is not less than $500 a month. The lonely white man can travel in most countries; in New Guinea he is unknown. Arctic exploration is not more strenuous than a journey through the interior of New Guinea.—Adventure Magazine.

Found Wrangel Island in 1867.

The first authentic account concerning Wrangel island, which has been attracting so much international interest, was from Captain Long, master of the American whaling barque Nile, who in the summer of 1867 on a whaling voyage, named this land Wrangel land, after Baron Wrangel and two of the headlands he named after one of his crew named Thomas, this man being the first to see the island.

The promontory Hawaii he named after the island, where in winter, in the harbor of Honolulu, the whalers made their rendezvous there to outfit for another season. These names are today on the charts of Wrangel

GEM THEATRE

Saturday (tomorrow) at the Gem theatre Norma Talmadge will be seen for the first time here in "The Eternal Flames"; this picture is considered one of her finest.

Gloria Swanson, the beautiful screen star, will be the feature Sunday in "Bluebeard's 8th Wife". This production simply abounds in eye-dazzling scenes "King Tut" episodes and a glamorous garden fete. These are just hints of the picture's splendors. Most everyone will remember seeing Marc MacDermott in "While New York Sleeps" and will enjoy seeing him again in "The Lights of New York" here Wednesday. Be it one of the glaring lights of Broadway or one of the dim lights r both have their own story.

EASIEST METHOD TO GET AT COMMUTATOR

Task Is Simplified by Use of Thin Wooden Paddle.

It is difficult to get at commutators as a rule, due to the small opening at the commutator end of a generator or starting motor. This requires that some simple tool be made to get at the commutator through one of the brush holder openings. The easiest way to do this is to take the cover of a cigar box or some thin wood stock and make a small paddle about 4 or 6 inches long and about half the width of the brush

To use this simple arrangement for cleaning generator commutators first remove the most accessible generator brush and then wrap a strip of No. 00 sandpaper over the end of the paddle and use it through the brush holder when the engine is running as one would use a hand lathe tool. This will thoroughly clean the commutator and do it evenly. Under no circumstances use emery cloth or electrical cloth, as emery is a conductor and will short the commutator. Shorted armature windings on most machines will make themselves known by turning the segments of the armature a blue color. One shorted winding will make two segments 180 degrees apart or one-half way around the commutator change

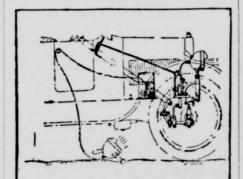

A dirty motor commutator causes arcing and heating. This is also true if the contact faces of the brushes are cut and not smooth. If this condition is found, it is best to smooth the faces of the brushes, as they will cut the 85 Webb Street commutator so badly in a short time that it will have to be refaced by taking a cut off of it in a lathe.

Improved Cushion Sole Shoes for Women

WHY Superior to any Shoe on Earth? The sole of the foot differs in every individual-no two being With the ordinary shoe the friction of the foot on the hard insole is the cause of many foot ailments-corns, bunions, enlarged joints, etc. In summer the heat penetrates the sole and in winter dampness and cold result in rheumatism, neuralgia, ,etc. The IM-PROVED CUSHION SOLE prevents and cures all these afflictions.

This cushion is entirely unlike any "inner sole" and is built into and becomes a part of the shoe. The felt cushion is pliable and a non-conductor of either heat or cold. The feet are kept at a natural temperature. The cushion conforms to and fills every curve of the foot. distributes the weight evenly and admits of perfect blood circulation. Once worn, always worn.

On Wednesday last week under the auspices of the local chapter of the Red Cross there was held at Clapp Memorial the first of a series of five talks on the subject of family visiting and community welfare.

The chapter is extremely fortunate At 12 Station Street, East Weymouth in having for this course Miss Katharine D. Hardwick, executive secretary of the New England division of the Red Cross, who has had long experience in welfare work and is of the teaching staff of the Simmons college school for social work in Boston.

She first considered with the group the reasons why one had the right to enter into the life of another for the purpose of assisting him to order it. She read a very delightful selection illustrating the attitude of mind and heart which a person should have when undertaking such a responsibility in his approach to another.

To further illustrate she gave in MEMBER detail the steps taken by an intelligent group of people, over a period of years in an effort to build for the future in a particular city family; the parents' troubles had been brought on through the force of circumstances and conditions in the community; as the forces had been strong, the results in the parents, who were The Gazette and Transcript as young, were difficult to remedy. MR. AND MR. READER When you pick up a copy of your home paper, do you give any thought how it was produced, or the money that is spent to print it and deliver it at your home? The newspaper of today, no matter if 25 cents a copy was charged, would be the cheapest thing you bought. In the first place it represents an investment in plant and equipment of many thousands of dollars.

Its editor and staff work diligently day in and day out to gather all the news and present it to you in readable fashion. It aims to keep you informed on all the news that's "fit for ink".

With the average paper, the price you pay for subscription does not cover the cost of WHITE PAPER.

Yes, the newspaper is the cheapest thing you buy. Think it over. Look it over. Then support your home paper. It's the best investment you can make, for it brings the largest returns.

Birthday Department

TO START NEXT WEEK IN GAZETTE-TRANSCRIPT

WE DON'T WANT YOUR AGE, But Do Want Your Birthday

A new department of the Gazette-Transcript will be the birthday dates of residents of Weymouth to be inaugurated about Nov. 1, possibly before that date.

We request that every adult in Weymouth send to the Gazette, the year, month and date on which they were born. The coupon below may be used:

Name
Street Address
Year
Month
Day of Month
Sont by

About the first of November a list will be published of those born during the first week of November in the different years. When your friends know the dates they may shower you with cards, fruit, flowers, gifts and best wishes. The success of this new department depends on the readers of the Gazette-Transcript. Please send the information now, or at least a few weeks in advance, to publisher of Gazette, East Weymouth, Mass. Send not only your birthday date, but also your neighbors and friends.

Unfortunately, at present, we don't know when these birthdays are coming. Here is a sample of what is wanted, a partial list of our Grand Army comrades:

1837, Sept. 25—J. Quincy Spear 1843, Sept. 24-James T. Pease 1847, Sept. 22—Edward E. Brown 1841, Oct. 8—Elbridge Nash 1844, Oct. 28—Maj. Francis A. Bicknell 1844, Nov. 8—Andrew Culley 1839, Dec. 22—Willard J. Dunbar 1845, Jan. 12—Christopher P. Tower 1843, Jan. 31—Joseph P. Ford 1848, Feb. 4,—John F. Hollis 1839, March 10—Morallus Lane 1843, April 16—Augustus Tirrell 1842, Aug. 16-William Litchfield 1847, Aug. 29-W. Webster Hunt

Hezekiah Found a Girl

By CLARISSA MACKIE

 "So all your boys and girls are married," remarked Uncle Peter Philbin, just home from a trip to China. "All married or to be married," amended his sister proudly.

"Mother Adams!" cried pretty Victoria. "You forget Hezekiah!" The youngest Adams lifted his dark head and tossed back an unruly lock "What about me?" demanded Heze-

"I have!" contradicted Hezekiah, his face quite white. "Hezekiah Adams!" shrieked the entire feminine chorus, while his brothers winked at one another and his father smiled paternally. "Who is she, Hez?" asked Robert, lazily lighting a cigar.

Hezekiah scowled loftily and left the room. "Wait until tomorrow!" Uncle Peter Philbin grinned sympathetically as his youngest nephew left the room. "He's got good spiritlooks just as I did at his age-and scared to death of the girls." "And Hezekiah is considered very handsome, Uncle Peter!" said Emily. Uncle Peter smiled in a superior sort of way. "And so was I-in my day," he exploded.

They all laughed. "You were handsome, Peter," agreed Mrs. Adams, then turning to a ruddy-haired girl, who was preparing to leave, she added hospitably, "I thought you were going to stay all night with Elsie, Maud; can't you stay?"

"No, thank you, Mrs. Adams, mother has just telephoned that my father has been called away and won't be home until tomorrow, and, of course, she cannot stay alone." Maud Evans made her farewells, and Elsie accompanied her to the front door, where Hezekiah had left his motorcar. As usual the youngest Adams boy was tinkering with the engine.

"Hezzie, dear, will you take Maud home?" asked Elsie, diffidently, knowing that he detested fussing with her girl friends, as he called it.

"Thought she was going to stav all night," he uttered blankly, as he ter after it, I can tell you." emerged from the gloom, wiping his hands.

Elsie explained. "Of course your 'girl' won't mind," she added with a Hezekiah followed and with a farewell hoot of the horn they plunged down the driveway into the darkness of the highway.

All about them were the sounds and scents of a midsummer night. Hezekiah's young face, set in a mask of tragic woe, was a picture that Maud gazed at a long time before she spoke. "Hezekiah," she said timidly, "what is the matter? You don't care if they tease you, do you?" "Of course not, Maud-only, I'm in a mess now-because I am such a fool, I suppose."

He turned a glowing face. "Do you believe that, Maud?"

"Of course I do-and the whole family are proud of you-think of all the In Greece the feather fan was in great prizes you've taken at the fairs-" she stopped suddenly, a little choking sound in her voice.

Hezekiah did not notice that. Manlike, he was concerned in his predicament again. "Tomorrow they will be asking about my girl," he said them free from the bites of flies. diffidently. "Gee, Maud-"

Maud laughed shakily. "You are such a funny boy, Hezeklah."

"How-funny?" he rapped out. "Saying you have a girl when you haven't really got one and then being of sandal wood and other precious fond of some one-of whom you are afraid. Why, Hezzie, dear, any honest upright man is good enough for any girl in the world." "Do you believe that?" he demanded huskily. "Of course I do-and you are not only honest and upright, but you are clever and handsome." And with the last words, the car stopped and Maud opened the door and jumped out and like to have a hat that, when he reran into the house almost before Hezekiah had lifted his hands from the steering wheel. "Maud!" he called after her, but there was no answer, not even a hasty "thank you" for the ride home.

Puzzled beyond expression, Hezekiah poked along home in his car. pondering the matter of his quandary. The lie he had exploded in the midst of his family did not then trouble him as much as did the further explanations he must make to them.

In the middle of the night, an idea came to him. "Perhaps Maud Evans he was asked if he had anything to would pretend to be my girl for a few weeks-we could break it off; if I don't tell 'em who it is the family will ! tease the life out of me." groaned hesitation added, "an' Ah want to say poor Hezekiah, for man that he was in many ways, in the midst of his gwine be a great lesson to me!"

Late the next afternoon, Hezekiah Adams, dressed in a new suit of gray flannel, with a glistening straw hat on his handsome head, drove a brandnew motorcar up to the Evans' front gate. He saw Maud sitting in a wicker chair under a wide-spreading oak tree that was the glory of the fine old place. He came up behind her and sat down before her cross-legged like

"Indeed!" Maud was admiring his new air of independence. "Really, Hezzie, have you a new car? Let us go and see it."

"Wait a moment, please-I want to ask a favor." He blushed under her surprised glance, but his honest eyes did not waver.

"Of course, Hezekiah, if it is anything I can do," she replied, hoping it had nothing to do with his new "girl."

"It is this way, Maud," he said, leaning over and plucking a dandelion, which he twirled nervously. "I've promised the folks to bring this girl to supper tonight-I know I am a fool to let them kid me into such a scrape-and I don't suppose you would-you would-"

Hezekiah blushed and grew very

"I would do what, Hezekiah?" she

"You wouldn't pretend that it's you all the time . . . and come to supper tonight?" he ejaculated, glad that his nefarious scheming was out at last. He had risen to his feet and now Maud was getting up from her chair. He thought she looked paleperhaps she was very angry with him for suggesting such a trick.

"Do you mean that, Hezzie Adams?" she asked.

He nodded.

The game of pool is no more to be condemned than golf or tennis, except that it is played where sunlight is at a premium. Unfortunately, however, pool is played very often by the least desirable element in a town. Idle young men flock around the tables.

The Sunday school and church have scant popularity there. Too many of the gang don't want the church to interfere with their plans for "pleasure."

But let the young men of this and every other town remember that where the church is scorned, there danger exists. The bulk of the world's leaders are churchmen. Take the path that leads to church and Sunday school. It's safest and surest.

WINTER

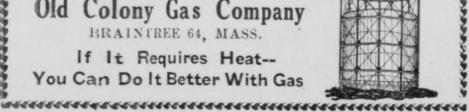

With the coming of winter you should be sure that your Radiantfire is ready to use, your lights properly adjusted, and your range, in fact, all your gas appliances, are in proper adjustment.

Don't start the coal fire in your heater until you need heat all day.

Use the cleanest fuel that comes to your house. It can do your cooking twelve months of the year. It is quick, clean and dependable. No storage space necessary, no bill to pay until you use it.

Picturesqueness of Quaint English Cottage Combines With Modern Arrangement and Furnishings to Make Ideal Home.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD Mr. William A. Radford will answer COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William Radford, No. 1827 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

This seems to be a general favorite of it. as to style of construction, judging by the number of similar designs which are now finding vogue among the architects, builders and house owners generally throughout the country. The appeal is undeniable. The bungalow pictured does not merely bring back to many who have migrated beloved memories of the old country, but to those who have always lived in America it suggests substantial, picturesque building, comfortable living, and a beauty which is real, because it is based upon sound good taste.

The combination of brick with timquaint chimney pots, and the dissimilar quaintness in the interior. This to the stake. can be made altogether a matter of individual taste. The floor plan is while standing. A dog, especially when up-to-date and spacious, containing not old, may do so occasionally; a horse less than three bedrooms besides the often does, while an elephant never kitchen, dining and living rooms. IF IT IS, KEEP IT GOOD-IF IT ISN'T, MAKE IT GOOD

Pay all your bills by the 10th of the month

WHAT IS A CREDIT BUREAU? A credit bureau, adequately organized and efficiently handled, is an institution of value in improving the tone of a community's credit. educates the community in the meaning of credit by orienting for its credit-givers the standing of its credit seekers. It translates thrift, sobriety, prompt meeting of obligations, right living into very real and concrete terms for each individual. Performance is recorded and made to count in his credit relations. A credit record can be established which will insure accommodation during a period of misfortune, or a reputation may be acquired which will cut off every credit avenue. Bad bills reduced and slow accounts eliminated lessen business costs and hence decrease living expenses for consumers. People who know these things are given Incentive to make their actions measure to the credit standard. A credit soles of their feet all close together bureau which realizes its possibilities quickens and invigorates the ethics of business relations in its community.
