

CRAZE FOR JAZZ HOLDS ITS SWAY

Aged Dance Devotees Travel With Professionals to Eastern Resorts

By ROBERT TOMPKINS Special correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924 SPRING LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 13.—A tour of the eastern summer resorts has convinced careful observers that there are as yet no signs of a recession in the dance and jazz mania which has held the United States in its grasp ever since the early days of our participation in the World war.

Many stories are rife as to the salaries paid the dancing partners, the general opinion being that the young man and the young lady receive in the neighborhood of $5,000 a year and expenses. It is understood that the dancing quartette will go to Florida this winter. To outsiders the only disappointing phase of this somewhat unusual modern arrangement is that the young man and the young woman seem never to have a chance to dance together.

There is a little new in dancing this season. Some of the younger set try to impart a collegiate flavor to the assemblies by somewhat grotesque fashions of placing arms and hands and by the swayback pose of the girls, but that has been in vogue among them for a year or more, and the dance designers are endeavoring to have arrived at the end of their wits.

The jazz decidedly is of the symphony variety in most instances, although there are occasional lapses back into the wildly wailing stuff which was so popular when this new "expression" of Americanism first came into the realm of music.

Jazz finds many warm defenders among musicians of the higher rank, nevertheless, and there are not a few who begrudge Paul Whiteman that the renderer of classical pieces in what might be called a popular vein or rhythm is calculated to really interest the masses in a better class of music and thereby elevate the entire American taste which has been the too well cultivated at the best.

Florida Planning to Have Movie Colonies

DAYTONA, Fla., Aug. 13.—With the announcement that a movie colony right here in Florida, near this city, movie promoters now are in the market for beautiful girls. To aid them in their search for beauty there will be a movie ball staged on the beach near here on the evening of August 21, it was announced today.

Local and state beauties will pose before the camera during the evening so as to have their pictures entered in the contest for candidates for the movie colony. The ball will be participated in by real stars from filmdom, it is announced. There will be a floor large enough to accommodate 500 couples, and the best orchestras in the state will supply music for the evening.

Operators declare that those mines which are unionized and pay miners on a basis of $7.50 a day now can do business at a profit only if their other costs are low and the coal is sold on long term contracts.

RAISE DISCOUNT RATE VIENNA, Aug. 13.—The Bank of Austria has increased its discount rate from 12 to 15 per cent.

RAISE HUPP PRICES DETROIT, Aug. 13.—The Hupp Motor car corporation has increased prices on all models, except four-passenger coupes, $25, it was reported today.

Climb From Lowly Start

Six of the men who have risen from the ranks of office boys and track laborers to rule the great railroad systems of the country are shown below. They are: (1) JULIUS KRUTTSCHNITT; (2) O. P. VAN SWERINGEN and (3) his brother M. J. VAN SWERINGEN; (4) PATRICK CROWLEY; (5) DANIEL WILLARD; (6) E. E. LOOMIS

PROSPECTS WORRY COAL OPERATORS

Opening of New Fields In West Virginia to Give Big Supply Cheap

By J. C. ROYLE Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924 NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Dealers, producers and miners of coal are worrying about the coal situation next winter. The coal situation, according to the barometer of sales, is pretty well convinced not only that there will be an ample supply, but that competition will be keen.

It is admitted that the number of bituminous mines now developed and the number of miners working are far more numerous than the rate of consumption warrants. As a consequence, many mines are closed or working only part time, and many miners are idle.

This situation will be further complicated, so far as the eastern section is concerned, by the opening of tremendous new fields along the Monongahela river above Morgantown, W. Va. This is expected November 1, when the new government lock and dam above Point Marion, Pa., on the Monongahela is opened. This will permit shipment of thousands of tons of coal a day from the Pittsburgh, Red Stone, Sewickley and Waynesburg veins at cheap rates.

New shafts are being sunk in this area from which the railroads are now carrying 6000 tons a day. The rail rate from Point Marion to Pittsburgh is $1.13 a ton, while the river rate is approximately 45 cents. Recognizing the competition from the bituminous grades will be keen, the anthracite operators have begun an intensive campaign to educate the public as to how to use the cheaper grades of anthracite and get best heating results from hard coal.

Of course, all railroad presidents aren't Horatio Alger heroes. Many of the present big executives had their first practical experience in the engineering corps. Among those who entered the industry as roadmen are S. M. Felton, president of the Chicago and Great Western; E. J. Pearson, president of the New Haven; B. P. Bush, chairman of the board of the Northern Pacific, and E. N. Brown, chairman of the board of the St. Louis & San Francisco.

Only Ten College Men W. B. Story, president of the Atchafalaya, first served as an axman in the corps, and A. T. Dice, president of the Reading, as flagman. N. D. Maher, president of the Norfolk & Western, was a surveyor's clerk. J. Kruttschnitt, chairman of the executive committee of the Southern Pacific, started as an engineer on construction. L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware & Hudson, and Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania and Long Island railroads, were assistants in the engineering corps.

Mother Love Is Not Instinct, Is Claim SYRACUSE N. Y., Aug. 13.—"Mother love is an emotion that grows on one and, contrary to popular belief, is not wholly instinctive." Years of work with girls on probation, years spent in investigating home conditions of these girls and her present occupation as child welfare worker, have given Mrs. Margaret Downes this opinion of mother love. "The ideal mother is one whose character is a combination of mother love and a sense of responsibility. There are women who lack the love, but have the duty sense, and others who claim to love their kiddies intensely, but waive all responsibilities. Of the two I prefer the former, because such a woman seems to me to be more worth while."

CHAPTER XXVI

"Oh, tired!" Dora exclaimed. "Don't say the word, now, with the season just starting! We haven't a dinner date left until after Christmas; all the debutantes are working twelve hours with no overtime, as Cy Dwyer says—and all I could do, Hilary, was to say that you'd come to things if you felt like it, and if you didn't I wouldn't make you!"

"Me? Oh, horrors!" Hilary protested. "But how does Craig like it?" she asked.

Was it her anxious face, or did a little shadow fall upon Dora's happy face? Dora had dropped exhaustedly into a chair, now, and was smoking a cigarette; her body relaxed, her arms flung at full length over the arms of the chair, her eyes half-closed. She raised the cigarette to her lips with great sweeps, puffed, flung her arm down again.

"He likes bridge," she admitted. "He likes bridge; sometimes he has a good time. But he's working awfully hard, and now and then he sends me off without him. You know," Dora added, more simply, throwing away the last of her cigarette, and leaning forward with widened eyes toward Hilary, "you know the awful thing is, you've got to do everything, or you might just as well do nothing! You get caught into it—carried along, really—"

"I can see that!" Hilary agreed, eagerly, feeling that at last this was the real Dora.

"People ask you weeks ahead," Dora continued; "you like them, it's your own crowd, and so what can you do? I stay in bed mornings, and have massage, and skip the women's lunches as much as I can—but even then," she broke off to complain, "you miss something! Last week Elsie Hutchings had a divorcée's luncheon and bridge—it wasn't really that, of course, but Vi Vanderwort was there, and her sister Clissey Sloan, both divorcée, and Harriet Penberton, and we call them that. And Jessie Duer came in with the Andrusse d'anc e r—Andrewska—we're all perfectly mad about her! That was about six, and then all went up to Jessie's place in Westchester; they had a marvelous time!"

"But, Dora, don't you and Craig ever have a quiet evening, in front of the fire, as you and I used to, with the old stove?" Hilary asked. Dora, who had smiled, and had begun to shake her head slowly, suddenly looked thoughtful, looked even a little wistful.

Theatres

Capacity crowds are greeting the Murphy Comedians at the tent theatre in Casa Verdugo, where "Tess of the Storm Country," well-known drama that has been enjoyed by thousands since it was first put on the stage, is being presented this week. Every member of the cast of the Murphy Comedians scores a big hit in their interpretation of roles.

Glendale theatregoers are finding the tent theatre at Central avenue and Stocker street a place where an evening of good entertainment is always assured. Being only three minutes north of the business section of the city, it is easily accessible. The curtain rises nightly at 8 o'clock, but persons who desire front row seats can come as early as 7:15 o'clock. J. N. Menard, manager of the theatre, announced.

THE GLENDALE
"Hold Your Breath" continues at The Glendale theatre.

THE T. D. & L.
"The Covered Wagon" continues at the T. D. & L. theatre.

THE GATEWAY
Vaudeville and "Wandering Husband's" is the attraction today only. Harold Lloyd in "Girl Shy" opens a three-day run tomorrow.

Eastern Buyers Seek Washington's Apples

SPOKANE, Aug. 13.—Eastern apple buyers are arriving in the orchard district of Washington seeking contracts for fall delivery. No bids have been announced, but growers are asking $1.50 a box for Jonathans, the first variety on the market. Present estimates are for a crop of 32,000 cars, or about 66 per cent of last year's crop.

slender, than the old Hilary; there were new lines of sweetness and strength about her mouth. He had always liked this honest youth, with his frank, wide smile, and these honest blue eyes that widened so childishly when Hilary was unusually in earnest, and he liked them more than ever tonight. There was something definite, even determined, about her, he decided. She was that rare and indescribable thing: a personality.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S SQUEAKY WHEEL

Down at the seashore, the next day after he had helped Johnnie and Billie Bushytail build the sand house, Uncle Wiggily awakened in the seaweed bungalow where he boarded with Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"Well, what are you going to do today?" asked the muskrat lady, as she curled her whiskers in front of the shiny silver water pitcher. For, being a muskrat lady, she had whiskers.

"I shall walk down the sandy beach, and look for an adventure," said Mr. Longears.

"I hope no lobster tries to get you, as one did yesterday," said Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the bunny gentleman. "I played a good trick on that lobster, all right." And those of you who read yesterday's story know what the trick was.

Uncle Wiggily put on his golf suit and hopped out on the seashore beach. He had not gone very far, tunking his pink nose, when all of a sudden, he heard someone call:

"Uncle Wiggily! Oh, you Uncle Wiggily!"

"My goodness!" thought the bunny. "Can this be a sea urchin or some tricky little chap after me so early in the morning?" He was just going to hide behind a clump of seaweed, when he heard a laughing voice, and Bunty ran up and pulled his coat-tails.

"Oh, you little tyke!" chuckled the rabbit uncle, as he patted the bunny girl on her head. "You frightened me!"

"I didn't mean to do that!" said Bunty. "I wanted you to play with me a little while. I'm so lonesome!"

"What do you want me to do?" asked Uncle Wiggily, who felt sorry for the little orphan rabbit, for she had no mother nor father.

"Help me cart sand in my little wheelbarrow!" cried Bunty, clapping her paws. "I've got a nice little red wheelbarrow! It's behind the big rock!" She wheeled the barrow over the sand.

"Squeake! Squeawk! Squick!" went the wheel, for it was very rusty.

"Oh, what a terrible noise!" cried Uncle Wiggily, covering his ears with his paws.

"What noise?" asked Bunty.

"That squeaky wheel on your sand barrow!" said the rabbit uncle. "I must oil it for you."

Bunty wheeled the barrow a little farther.

"Squick! Squeak-que! Squick!" went the wheel.

"Oh, that's terrible!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "Wait until I get some oil!"

Along the sand and up the board walk he hopped until he reached a bicycle store, where he bought a can of oil. Uncle Wiggily was hopping back along the board walk, with the oil, to take the squeak out of the barrow wheel, when, all of a sudden, a sea urchin began to chase the rabbit. Out of the ocean and up on the board walk wiggled the sea urchin.

"I'll scratch your ears!" he called to Uncle Wiggily.

"First you must catch me!" laughed the bunny. Then he squirted some oil behind him on the walk. And when the sea urchin reached the slippery, oily place, his feet slid out from under him and down he fell with a bounce, bumping his nose.

10 Years Ago

Word has been received from Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Willisford that they are nicely located at Switzer's camp and are enjoying the mountain air and scenery.

That Glendale is a rapidly growing city is very evident. In February 1914 the population was given as 3000. Now the most conservative estimate places the population at 9000.

Many riders of bicycles, when riding on the streets, love the habit of clinging to automobiles, auto trucks and street cars. The time to use care in avoiding accidents is before they are occurring.

Storms Damage Crops In Mid-West States

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Storms which swept Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin last week caused millions of dollars of damage to crops. Whole stretches of cornfields in Illinois and Iowa were wiped out. Small grains and fruit orchards suffered in Wisconsin. Excessive rainfall over the middle western states is causing some of the small grains to sprout in the shock.

The recent launching of the Sister Polly Home-Made Candy company, which is located at 239 South Verdugo road, Glendale, bids fair to pave the way for a coast-wide project. Already the fame of this delicious product is spreading from household to household, and each day finds a demand for increased production. The promoters of the Sister Polly Candy company are preparing to establish manufacturing plants in several larger cities, the first of which will be in San Francisco, and others will follow as each one becomes established in its respective location. It is pleasing to note that this project had its birth in Glendale, which seems especially conducive to the fostering of new enterprises. Only the purest and freshest ingredients are used in manufacture of Sister Polly Candies, which
