Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, I think we can finish this private calendar before 6 o'clock. There are committees to meet to-night that it has been difficult to get together heretofore. This is the regular order, and we threw it out two or three times last week, and I am not in favor of postponing it now. It is also quite as important, that some of the committees should meet as the House.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I think we should now go through with the regular order of business we have on hand before making a special order.

Mr. M'CREARY. Mr. Speaker, I am not opposed to the regular order of business, but I make this motion for the purpose of disposing of the constitutional amendments. I do not see why we cannot act upon that tonight as well as to put it off longer. The meeting of these committees can be postponed until to-morrow morning, before the meeting of the House. This committee on a contested election case go to Williamsport to-morrow, and unless we hold a session to-night they will not have an opportunity of voting upon this amendment, and I presume they are anxious to have their votes recorded on this question in reference to the adoption of the constitutional amendment.

Mr. WADSWORTH, Mr. Speaker, the difficulty seems to be that the gentleman from Potter (Mr. MAXX) has the floor upon the question of the constitutional amendment, and is also one of the committee on these contested election cases. The question involved in this case is almost entirely a legal one, and I, for one, would not like to leave him from this committee. It is, however, a matter which makes no particular difference to me personally.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the motion of the gentleman from Erie.

The motion was
Not agreed to.

No. 109, an act to extend the jurisdiction of the orphans court of York county was amended by Mr. BOYLE so as to extend the provisions of the bill to Fayette county.

The bill
Passed finally.

No. 110, an act relating to the sale of land for taxes, in Potter county, was amended by Mr. ALLEN so as to extend the provisions of the bill to Warren and Bradford counties.

The bill
Passed finally.

No. 125, a supplement to an act approved the 8th day of April, A. D. 1859, to incorporate the Pittsburg and East Liberty passenger railway company was amended by Mr. WILSON so as to refer to the act passed February 27, 1863, incorporating the Oakland passenger railway company.

The bill
Passed finally.

Mr. MANN, Mr. Speaker, I move a reconsideration of the vote by which House bill No. 67 was postponed. There was some doubt upon the subject, but the State Superintendent gives it as his opinion that the courts have not the power to grant what is here asked.

Mr. EWING, Mr. Speaker, I have examined the flaw on this subject, and find nothing except what pertains to independent districts. Each borough and township is now a separate school district, and the only exception is in regards independent districts. This is therefore a case under neither of them, and the committee agree with the State Superintendent, that the courts have no jurisdiction in this case.

The SPEAKER. The motion can only be considered by the unanimous consent of the House. The Chair has no objection.

The motion to reconsider was Agreed to.

The bill
Passed finally.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented for concurrence bills numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

Senate bill No. 131, an act to authorize the town council of the borough of Middletown, in the county of Dauphin, to borrow money to pay off the present indebtedness of said borough, and to build a bridge over the Pennsylvania canal, on Wood street, and to provide for the payment thereof, as also for the future government of said borough, by an increased rate of taxation.

Senate bill No. 133, an act to amend the charter of the Cambria iron company, authorizing an increase of capital stock, and the issue of bonds, and authorizing the manufacture of iron and steel in any shape.

The SPEAKER proceeded to clear his table of the following bills, viz:

Senate bill No. 131, entitled An act to authorize the town council of the borough of Middletown, in the county of Dauphin, to borrow money to pay off the present indebtedness, and to build a bridge over the Pennsylvania canal, on Wood street, and to provide for the payment thereof, as also for the future government of said borough, by an increased rate of taxation.

Referred to the Committee on Municipal Corporations.

Senate bill No. 133, an act to amend the charter of the Cambria iron company, authorizing an increase of capital stock, and the issue of bonds, and authorizing the manufacture of iron and steel in any shape.

Referred to the Committee on Iron and Coal Companies.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTION.

Mr. DAVIS, Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer a resolution at this time, and ask leave of the House to do so.

Mr. BOYLE. What is the nature of the resolution?

Mr. DAVIS. It is intended to provide that the sessions of this House shall hereafter begin at 10 o'clock, A. M.

Leave was granted.

The resolution was read as follows:

Resolved, That hereafter the regular sessions of this House will commence at ten o'clock, A. M., and close at one o'clock, P. M., until otherwise ordered.

The resolution was read a second time, considered, and

Agreed to.

BILLS PASSED.

Mr. SUBERS, Mr. Speaker, I ask permission to read a bill in place.

Mr. SUBERS, Mr. Speaker, I read in my place, and present to the Chair,

An act to prevent the use of salt for the purpose of dissolving snow or ice on pavements or streets in the city of Philadelphia.

I move that the rules be suspended, and that the bill be put on its passage.

Mr. HOOD, Mr. Speaker, I move to amend by striking out "one" and inserting "five" in the second section.

The amendment was

Agreed to.

Mr. HOLVILLE, Mr. Speaker, I move to amend so as to make the provisions of the bill apply to the cities of Pittsburg and Allegheny.

The amendment was

Agreed to.

Mr. ADAIRE, Mr. Speaker, this matter is now before the city councils of Philadelphia, and there is no doubt that it will pass. If the city councils of Philadelphia pass it, there is no necessity for passing it here.

Mr. QUIGLEY, Mr. Speaker, this bill has been before the city council now some two or three years and they have not yet passed it. It is time, I think, that we take it out of their hands and pass it here. I am satisfied that every member from Philadelphia will vote for it.

Mr. ADAIRE, Mr. Speaker, some of the members of the city council have been up here a number of times to object to the Legislature interfering with matters of which the councils have control. This bill would have been passed last week, but one of the members of the council went away and had the bill in his pocket, and they could not get it to act upon.

Mr. HOOD, Mr. Speaker, the council of Philadelphia have imposed upon the people in reference to this matter as long as it is endurable. This matter has been postponed from week to week, and the people are suffering from the want of such a law as this bill provides. Last week it passed the common council, but when the select council came to act upon it the bill was nowhere to be found. The people think they have endured this sort of proceeding long enough.

Mr. SUBERS, Mr. Speaker, this bill was passed by the common council of Philadelphia almost unanimously, but when it came to be acted upon by the select councils it had either been destroyed or lost. The people are almost unanimously in favor of the passage of this bill, and they have asked a number of the members of this Legislature, including myself, to have it pushed through. I think that ninety-nine out of every hundred of the people of Philadelphia are in favor of the passage of this bill.

The question being on the suspension of the rules, it was

Agreed to.

The bill was read a second and third times, and

Passed finally.

The SPEAKER adjourned the House until to-morrow morning at ten o'clock.

SENATE.

WEDNESDAY, January 30, 1867.

Referred to the Committee on Vice and Immorality.

Mr. STUTZMAN, one from citizens of Somerset county, asking for the repeal of the law taxing moneys at interest, which was read as follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

The undersigned citizens of said Commonwealth, in the county of Somerset, respectfully represent that, in their opinion, the laws taxing moneys at interest should be repealed, for the following reasons, viz:

1st. The practical operations of these laws is very unequal, the returns of the taxing officers showing that large amounts of money, either from the negligence of the officers or from false returns made by many persons owning such moneys, are not returned for taxation, and, as a result, those who make honest returns are taxed and the dishonest escape.

2d. The effect of this taxation is to induce capitalists to invest in Government securities, or in States in which no such tax is imposed; and thus capital is withdrawn from the industrial interests of this Commonwealth.

3d. Either capitalists will thus invest their money, or will charge the borrower with the taxes, in addition to the regular interest, and in each case it is a burden which necessarily falls upon the borrower.

They believe that the general interests of the Commonwealth, as well as the interests of individuals, would be advanced by the abrogation of said tax laws, and they therefore pray that they may be repealed; and they will, &c.

Signed by Wm. J. Baer, John D. Reddy, George P. Baer, and others.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary General.

Mr. WHITE read in his place and presented to the Chair a bill entitled An act relating to the law of evidence.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary General.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Speaker, in connection with that bill, I have just one word to say. I will remark that the bill which I have just read in my place, and which you have referred to the Judiciary General, relating to the law of evidence, has been prepared by myself, after consultation with some of the members of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania and the Attorney General of the Commonwealth, and meets all the necessities, I think with them, for the radical and wide reform which it contemplates. I trust the Judiciary General will give this bill a careful consideration, and will dispose of it at an early day; and I hereby notify them that I intend to press its passage when it comes from their hands, and their report be what it may. I have every confidence in the gentlemen composing that committee, and am confident the bill will receive the report its merits require.

LEAVE TO RECORD VOTE.

Mr. RIDGWAY asked and obtained leave to record his vote on the final passage of the resolution censuring Edgar Cowan. He voted "aye."

Mr. RANDALL asked and obtained the same privilege. He voted "no."

Mr. SHOEMAKER asked and obtained the same privilege. He voted "aye."

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
HARRISBURG, January 30th, 1867. }
To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN—I have approved and signed the following acts of the General Assembly, viz:

On the 17th instant:
An act authorizing the appointment of additional notaries public for the cities of Pittsburg and Allegheny.

An act repealing an act appointing commissioners to lay out and open a State road from Marsh's Corners, M'Kean county, to the Philadelphia and Erie railroad.

An act authorizing the Governor to appoint an additional notary public for the county of Lehigh.

An act relating to the drainage of roads in the county of Delaware.

On the 22d instant:
A supplement to an act entitled An act to incorporate the Valley coal company, approved 16th March, 1865.

An act to change the venue in the case of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania versus Henry Stevens and Jacob Harmon, from the court of general quarter sessions of the peace court of Adams county to the court of general quarter sessions of the peace of Dauphin county.

An act to authorize the burgess and town council of the borough of Columbia to levy and collect an additional tax.

On the 24th instant:

A further supplement to an act entitled An act to incorporate the city of Lancaster, approved March twentieth, one thousand eight hundred and eighteen, changing the time of election of municipal and ward officers.

An act to incorporate the Bemus paper mill company.

An act to incorporate the Littlestown savings institution.

An act to incorporate the Safe Deposit company of Pittsburg.

A supplement to an act to incorporate the People's Savings bank of Pittsburg, approved April 17th, 1866, authorizing said company to increase its capital stock.

On the 25th instant:

An act to change the mode of electing town council in the borough of Youngsville, and defining certain duties pertaining to their office.

The act exempting the Morris cemetery, in the county of Chester, from the payment of tax, and the lots sold therein from an attachment for debt.

An act to increase the fees of certain officers in Sullivan county, and to validate certain charges heretofore made.

On the 29th instant:

An act changing the venue in certain cases from the county of Juniata to the county of Snyder.

An act to regulate the salary of the Secretary of the Commonwealth.

On the 30th instant:

An act to incorporate the Dauphin County Soldiers' Monument association.

JNO. W. GEARY.

WEST BRANCH BOOM COMPANY.

The bill entitled A further supplement to an act incorporating the West Branch boom company, approved March 29, A. D. 1845, authorizing an increase of tolls or boommage, being the special order, the Senate resumed the third reading and consideration of the same.

The first section was read as follows:

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That from and after the passage of this act, the said corporation shall have the right, and they are hereby authorized to charge and collect from the owner or owners thereof, toll or boommage upon all lumber which may have been rafted out of their said boom, to-wit: seventy-five cents per thousand feet, board measure, for board logs, and a reasonable sum for warps and wedges, and for rafting and boommage square timber and other lumber in proportion to board logs; and that the said corporation shall have the right, in addition to the remedy provided by the sixth section, incorporating said company, to collect said toll or boommage as debts of like amount as by law recoverable.

Mr. COWLES asked and obtained the unanimous consent of the Senate to amend the section by adding, after the words "reasonable sum," the words "not exceeding twenty-five cents per thousand feet, board measure."

The amendment was

Agreed to.

Mr. WALLACE asked and obtained the unanimous consent of the Senate to amend by adding the following proviso:

Provided, That nothing herein contained shall authorize the said company to charge warpage, boommage, or toll for logs consigned to points below the said boom, or to authorize charges of any description for square timber or spars accidentally driven or floated into said boom, unless the same shall be so driven or floated in separate sticks or logs.

The amendment was agreed to.

The second section was read as follows:

Sec. 2. That the said corporation shall have the right, and they are hereby authorized, to expend the net income, or so much thereof as they may deem necessary, in the repair and improvement of their said boom.

The section was agreed to.

Mr. WHITE, Mr. Speaker, when this bill was up before, I was opposed to its passage, and stated my reasons very briefly at that time, because I thought it was in conflict with the interests of my constituents. Since the Senator from Clearfield [Mr. WALLACE] has put on the proviso which he has, I have no further objections to the bill, as I believe its operations will be confined to lumber manufactured at Lock Haven. I therefore withdraw what objections I have made to this bill heretofore.

Mr. COWLES, Mr. Speaker, I will say only one or two words on this question. The act incorporating the West Branch boom company was passed in 1849. By the provisions of that act they are merely authorized to construct in the river there a boom, extending up one side of the river for several miles—ten miles, if necessary. It now proposes extending it one or two miles. They are authorized at this time to charge but fifty cents per thousand boommage; it is found that the cost is seventy-five cents, and to make up this deficiency the mill owners have been contributing to that amount. Now, a hundred thousand dollars invested in this boom ought to pay something to the men who make the investment; at present they are receiving nothing. They have to pass through all logs that go below free of charge at their own expense; this is a very great expense to them. This act is to authorize them to increase their boommage to seventy-five cents on all logs that are not to be manufactured at that point, with a reasonable amount for rafting out, which does not exceed twenty-five cents per thousand feet. It is purely local in its character, and only refers to Lock Haven.

Mr. FISHER, Mr. Speaker, I dislike very much to interfere with the passage of my friend's bill, but a great many men are interested in the lumber trade, and anything that increases the price of it I am opposed to.

I am opposed to this boom system entirely; it interferes with the navigation of the river; I am entirely opposed to putting an additional cost on lumber; seventy-five cents is an enormous charge; therefore, I feel compelled to vote against this bill.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WALLS and Mr. FISHER, and were as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Bigham, Browne (Lawrence), Burnett, Coleman, Cowles, Davis, Graham, James, Lowry, M'Conaughey, Ridgway, Scball, Shoemaker, Stutzman, Taylor, Wallace, White, Worthington and Hall, Speakers—10.

NAYS—Messrs. Fisher, Glatz, Haines, Jackson, Landon, M'Callless, Randall, Royer, Seargist and Walls—10.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

BILLS PASSED.

On motion of Mr. RANDALL, the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of bill entitled An act relative to highways in Schuylkill county.

The bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. BIGHAM, the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of bill entitled A further supplement to an act entitled An act relating to corporations for mechanical, manufacturing, mining and quarrying purposes, approved the 18th day of July, A. D. 1863.

The bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. WORTHINGTON, the Committee on the Judiciary Local was discharged from the further consideration of bill entitled An act to authorize the school directors of the borough of Phoenixville to borrow money for the purpose of purchasing lands and building school houses.

And the rules having been dispensed with, The bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. JAMES, the Committee on Roads and Bridges was discharged from the further consideration of bill entitled An act to incorporate the New Brighton and Doylestown turnpike road company.

And the rules having been dispensed with, The bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. CONNELL, the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of bill entitled An act supplementary to the act regulating the fees of the clerk of quarter sessions of the peace, &c. for the city and county of Philadelphia, approved February 8th, A. D. 1865.

The bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. SHOEMAKER, the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of bill entitled An act to incorporate the Vulcan iron works, and

The bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

ASSESSMENT OF TAXES IN PHILADELPHIA.

Mr. RIDGWAY moved that the rules be suspended, and that the Senate proceed to the consideration of bill entitled A supplement to an act entitled An act to promote the more certain and equal assessment of taxes in the city of Philadelphia, approved March 14, 1865.

The bill was read.

Mr. DONOVAN, Mr. Speaker, I would like to amend the bill so as to extend the time for which assessors are elected. I think the members of the other branch agreed to amend it in this way, and I think it is a very wise provision. As soon as the assessors become perfect, we have a new set. I am certain it would meet the favor of the other branch. I move to amend the bill by adding to the last section the following: "and that the terms of the said assessors shall be extended for two years from the expiration of their present term of office."

Mr. CONNELL, Mr. Speaker, I wish to define my position in regard to this amendment.

I have to say that if I was left to my own free will I should vote for the amendment of my colleague [Mr. DONOVAN].—I think it proper, inasmuch as it will put them in an independent position, and enable them to act independently. Otherwise, if they do their duty and raise assessments, they will make themselves unpopular, and prevent all chance of re-election. But having agreed with my colleague, Mr. RIDGWAY, that if he would withdraw his opposition to the increase of salary, I would agree to drop the section which extends their term. I hold myself now bound to oppose the amendment of Captain Donovan.

Mr. RIDGWAY, Mr. Speaker, there are sixty-eight assessors in Philadelphia, who have been elected for three years; this proposes to add two years to that term. My colleague gives as a reason, that this law will make them do their duty; and doing their duty will make them unpopular, so they will not do their duty. I think it is unfair. It takes them two months to make an assessment. We ask the Legislature, by this amendment, to give them two years more time than the people of Philadelphia are willing they should have. I do hope the Senate will vote down this amendment.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I dislike entering into local legislation, but I have spent much of my life in Philadelphia, and have an interest in property there; and knowing the very great injustice and inequality of the system of taxation in that city, the incompetence, to my mind, of the present system, and the present assessors in that city, I do think it would be very improper for this Legislature to authorize the continuance of those men in office. I think we want a remodeling of the whole thing. I do not know the details of this bill. It has been got up with great care, to remedy a great evil. I hope the Legislature will remodel this thing, and not continue the present system any longer than is necessary. All of our constituents are more or less interested in property in Philadelphia, and, much as I dislike to meddle with any legislation of this kind, I think I ought to in this case.

Mr. RIDGWAY. Mr. Speaker, I will say that this board of assessors have become an organized body, and they have their committee in the lobby to help this through; and I think it is wrong for anybody to come here and legislate for them. They would make the salary five thousand dollars if they could.

Mr. DONOVAN. Mr. Speaker, I think it is unfair for my colleague [Mr. Ridgway] to refer to board of assessors who come here to attend to their own interests. I think that is their privilege. The Senator from Philadelphia [Mr. Ridgway] has acted as much with the lobby as anybody else here. My understanding of the bill, last evening, was that it agreed with the views of the members of the other branch, and also of my colleague from Philadelphia. It is the first time, now, that I knew the bill was objected to. As to a committee being in the lobby, I think they have a right to be there.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Speaker, I want to vote intelligently and properly on this question. Which of the Philadelphia Senators has this bill in charge?

Mr. BIGHAM (Speaker pro tem.). I do not know.

Mr. WHITE. Will the Senator from Philadelphia state what this intends to accomplish?

Mr. RIDGWAY. It is to have an equalization of assessments in Philadelphia. In certain wards property is assessed for its full value, and in others not for one-fifth of its value, and it is done in this way: Suppose I have a party friend who is an assessor, and who knows me, and puts my assessment down far below its value, to get my political influence; or others, who have no political influence, he puts their assessment up to its full value.

Mr. DONOVAN. Mr. Speaker, I will only remark that I am in favor of this bill. I only offered an amendment which I thought would be approved by the people of Philadelphia. I am in favor of the bill.

Mr. M'CANDESS. Mr. Speaker, the first grand principle of the bill is to get a regular assessment on real estate in the city of Philadelphia. By this method and the mode of taxation in the city of Philadelphia, giving it into the board of revision and taking it out of the hands of the city commissioners, there will be, according to my judgment, a great advance in the amount of assessment of real estate in the city of Philadelphia. That advanced rate will make the present board of assessors very unpopular to the people in their respective wards; and the fact of their simply having done their duty will compel them to leave their offices. Now, sir, in order that this plan should have a fair trial before the people, and an opportunity of vindicating itself, I think that the time of the present board of assessors should be extended, although, as a general practice, I am opposed to legislating men into office. But I think, in view of the facts connected with this case, that the term of election of the present board of assessors should be extended, according to the amendment offered by the Senator from Philadelphia [Mr. DONOVAN].

Mr. LOWRY. Then I understand the gentleman's position to be, that if these officers do their duty, his constituents will not sustain them.

Mr. RIDGWAY. I will say in regard to the continuance of these men in office, that one-half of them are Democrats, and the other half Republicans; so it is an even thing.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to understand this question a little more fully. According to my information, these men—I will not say a great deal of any of our country assessors—these men are really incompetent men; they have not performed their duty. As I understand their tax laws, they are sworn to assess property at its full value. They have not done so; they have not fulfilled their oath of office. Now these very men who have proved themselves incompetent to fulfill the duties of their office, we are asked to legislate into office for two years longer. The best plan is to let them go back to the people and see if the people cannot get better men. For that reason I am opposed to legislating any one into office.

On the question,
Will the Senate agree to the amendment of Mr. DONOVAN?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. DONOVAN and Mr. RIDGWAY, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Burnett, Davis, Donovan, Glatz, Jackson, James, M' Candless, Schall, Seairight and Walls—10.

NAYS—Messrs. Bigbam, Billingfield, Browne (Lawrence), Coleman, Connell, Cowles, Fisher, Graham, Haines, Landon, Lowry, M'Conahy, Ridgway, Royer, Shoemaker, Stutzman, Taylor, Wallace, White, Worthington and Hall, (Speaker)—21.

So the question was determined in the negative.

During the call,
Mr. CONNELL said: Mr. Speaker, I give my vote in pursuance of the arrangement made with Mr. RIDGWAY; I vote "no."

Mr. WALLACE also said during the call, Mr. Speaker, I do not believe in the principle of legislating men into office in this way; I therefore vote "no."

The bill was then read a third time and Passed finally.

FINAL ADJOURNMENT OF THE LEGISLATURE.

Mr. SEARIGHT moved that the Committee on Finance be discharged from the further consideration of the joint resolution relative to the final adjournment of the Legislature, and that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the same.

Mr. CONNELL. Mr. Speaker, I think we are hardly prepared now to fix a day for final adjournment.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Speaker, I am as anxious as any one here to fix an early day for adjournment, and I want the day indicated by that resolution to be agreed upon; but I see there is a disposition not to take up the motion at this time. But I trust the Committee on Finance will consider the subject on an early day. You know, sir, how it was last winter. There is likely to be a difference between the two houses on the subject.

Mr. CONNELL. Mr. Speaker, I will say in behalf of the Committee on Finance, that our committee has been hurried, and at the next meeting they will consider the resolution.

Mr. BROWNE (Lawrence) thought that time would be gained by allowing the Committee on Finance to consider it.

Mr. SEARIGHT. Mr. Speaker, I think the best thing for this Senate to do for itself and the people, would be to take up this resolution and pass it, and that is the reason why I made the motion. The Senator from Indiana (Mr. Wherry) himself took this position; he asserted here that the less legislation we had the better for the State, and I do not understand why it is that he manifests a disposition to back out from his own proposition.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Speaker, I reply that I reiterate what I said then, but I am satisfied, from the temper of the Senate, that they are not disposed to proceed to the consideration of this bill. I am satisfied that there will not be a majority vote here to discharge the Committee on Finance from its consideration. I would like to be positive in this matter, and to adjourn (Mr. Wherry) himself a day as possible; and I think it will gain strength if it goes to the Committee on Finance and comes before this Senate with their endorsement, and I hope it will get it.

Mr. SEARIGHT. Mr. Speaker, I am not urging this resolution in any spirit of captiousness, but in good earnest and sincerity, for two reasons. The first is, as I have already stated, that I think it would be a measure that would have more effect in bringing all the work up before the Legislature than any measure that can be adopted. The other reason is that I am anxious to get through with the business here as soon as possible, and I believe the majority of the Senators have the same feeling with regard to this subject. If I had any assurance that the Committee on Finance would act promptly, I would not care. If the chairman will assure me that it will act promptly I will not press it now.

Mr. CONNELL. I not only gave the Senator that assurance, but the whole Senate, a few moments ago.

Mr. SEARIGHT then withdrew his motion.

On motion of Mr. WALLACE, the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of bill entitled an act authorizing tender of money to be made after suit brought.

The bill was read.

Mr. FISHER. I would ask the Senator if we have not such a law?

Mr. WALLACE. No, sir. When a man makes a tender of money before a suit is brought, as a matter of course the party to the suit cannot recover costs if he fails to recover more than is tendered; but if the right of action exists at the time suit is brought, even if tender be made after all that is justly due, still the defendant must pay the costs. One exception to this rule is that a party before a justice of the peace may tender a judgment, and if the plaintiff refuses to accept that judgment, then he fails to recover costs. So in cases where an appeal is taken, from an award, the party failing cannot recover costs.

Mr. BIGHAM. I do not think this bill can do any harm. In some of our own courts it is regulated by rule. My understanding is that at least it will merely cover by law what is regulated in some of our courts by rule, and, therefore, can do no harm.

The bill was read a third time, and

Passed finally.
On leave given.

Mr. RIDGWAY read in his place and presented to the Chair a bill entitled An act to ascertain the views of the qualified electors of the city and county of Philadelphia upon the subject of allowing the passenger railway companies of said city to run their cars on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, and moved that it be referred to a special committee, consisting of the Senators from Philadelphia.

The bill was so referred.

Mr. M'CONAUGHY. Mr. Speaker, when the motion was made to refer the bill read by the Senator from Philadelphia [Mr. RIDGWAY] to a special committee, and the SPEAKER put the question, he put the affirmative without the negative. I claim my constitutional right to vote on that question.

Mr. BIGHAM (Speaker pro tem.) I supposed the question of reference was a matter of course. I will withdraw the decision. The question is on referring the bill to a special committee, consisting of the Senators from Philadelphia.

Mr. RIDGWAY. I will just say there is no trick intended. A bill has been drawn, but I do not know whether it is perfect, and I want a number of Senators to examine the subject. We want to test the question whether this bill is going to pass. I think it is due to the Philadelphia Senators to allow them to prepare a bill that they will be satisfied with. If the Senate choose to vote it down, very well.

Mr. M'CONAUGHY. I do not think this is a matter of courtesy. It ought to be governed by general rules. The proposition is a radical change of the present law of the Commonwealth, on a question of morals—a question which is vital to the public welfare. As such, this bill, read in place, should go to the ordinary committee, and that committee have an opportunity to report. It is simply on this subject that I wish to make this point, and I hope the regular course will not be departed from in this matter. I do not propose to occupy the time of the Senate on the main question. At the proper time opinions will be expressed. But I desire that the bill shall go to the proper committee, and not to a special committee.

Mr. DONOVAN. Mr. Speaker, the proposition of my colleague is a fair one, and I trust it will be acceded to.

Mr. LOWRY. Mr. Speaker, a single word. If the object of the bill be, as I understand it, to repeal the fourth commandment, I think the reference a very proper one; if that is the object of the bill that is the right place to refer it.

Pending the question,

The hour of 1 o'clock having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the Senate until 11 o'clock to-morrow.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, January 30, 1867.

The House met at ten o'clock, A. M. Prayer was offered by the Rev. J. A. Coleman.

The SPEAKER announced a quorum of members present.

The Journal of yesterday was partly read, when

On motion of Mr. DAVIS, the further reading of the same was dispensed with.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTION.

Mr. M'CAMANT. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following resolution.

The resolution was read as follows:

WHEREAS, It is charged and alleged by the refiners and shippers of petroleum at Oil City, that the Atlantic and Great Western railway company, in their rates of freight, discriminate against the citizens of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in favor of the citizens of other States, and that, too, in the transportation of a product of Pennsylvania;

And whereas, It is further alleged and charged that such discriminations are made in the interest of associations or companies in which the officers, or some of them, of the said Atlantic and Great Western railway company are interested, either directly or indirectly;

And whereas, Also, the interests of this State require the removal of such unjust discriminations; therefore, be it

Resolved, that a committee of five members of this House be appointed, with power to send for persons and papers, to inquire into the truth or falsity of the allegations and charges aforesaid, and to report the same to this House by bill or otherwise.

The resolution was read a second time, and

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I call up the resolution to amend the rules of this House offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. LEE] early in the session.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, could not that more properly come up under the head of unfinished business?

The SPEAKER. The opinion of the Chair is that immediately after the House gets through with original resolutions, this being a part of the unfinished business, will be in order. It is not properly in order now.

Mr. BOYLE. Do I understand, then, that when this present order is finished the gentleman's resolution may be called?

The SPEAKER. Yes, sir.

Mr. BOYLE. Then I withdraw my motion.

Mr. DEISE. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following.

The resolution was read as follows:

WHEREAS, It is alleged that certain officers and directors of railroads incorporated by the laws of this Commonwealth are interested in the transportation of passengers and freights over the said railroads, by which larger sums of money are realized, which solely inures to the benefit of the said officers and directors, and which is not shared or enjoyed by the stockholders of such railroads;

And whereas, It is right and proper that the parties who have honestly invested their money in the building and completion of the railroads of this State, should have and realize all the earnings and profits of their said roads; therefore,

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to investigate the matter, and report a bill which shall declare it unlawful for any officer or director of any incorporated railroad company in this Commonwealth to be interested, directly or indirectly, in any transportation company carrying passengers or freight over the railroads (or any part thereof) over which they are officers or directors, except such interest as they may have as stockholders of the respective railroad companies of which they are officers and directors.

The resolution was read a second time and

Mr. MARLEY. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following resolution.

The resolution was read as follows:

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania acknowledge with gratitude the course of Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, in discouraging every attempt, whether by radicals at the North or the secessionists at the South, to overthrow the liberties of the people and the Constitution of the nation; and that his firm, judicious exercise of the veto power, and his faithful adherence to the true principles of a Republican Government, mark him alike as a statesman and a patriot.

The resolution was read a second time.
Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I move that the resolution be referred to the Committee on Vice and Immorality.

Mr. HOOD. Mr. Speaker, I move to amend the motion of my colleague by referring the resolution to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Mr. VADELL. Mr. Speaker, if that is a serious motion I hope the House will treat it as it deserves and vote it down. It is only a joke, the Committee of Ways and Means can appreciate it; at the same time I hope the House will vote it down. The Committee of Ways and Means, I apprehend, have very little to do with this subject. They have under their jurisdiction all the public beneficiary societies and institutions; if the party to whom this refers is entitled to any consideration as a member of one of these institutions, or can be connected therewith in any indirect way, then it would be for the Committee of Ways and Means to consider him. I do not see that this has anything to do with the duties of the Committee of Ways and Means, and I don't know that it has anything to do with the duties of the Committee on Vice and Immorality.

Mr. M'CAMANT. Mr. Speaker, I move to indefinitely postpone the consideration of this resolution.

On the question,
Will the House postpone indefinitely the consideration of the resolution?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BOYLE and Mr. KURTZ, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Adaire, Barton, Brown, Cameron, Chadwick, Chase, Colville, Davis, Day, DeHaven, Donohugh, Ewing, Freeman, Gallagher, Ghegan, Harbison, Hoffman, Humphrey, Kerns, Kimmel, Kinney, Lee, Leech, M'Camant, M'Creary, M'Kee, Mann, Marks, Meehling, Melly, Pennypacker, Peter, Pillow, Quay, Richards, Seiler, Sharples, Shuman, Stumbaugh, Subers, Waddell, Wallace, Watt, Webb, Weller, Wharton, Wilson, Wingard, Worrall, Wright and Glass, Speaker—51.

NAYS—Messrs. Allen, Barrington, Boyle, Brennan, Calvin, Chalfant, Collins, Craig, Deise, Fogel, Gregory, Harner, Headman, Heltzel, Hood, Jenks, Jones, Josephs, Kline, Koon, Kurtz, Linton, Long, M'Henry, Markley, Phelan, Rhoads, Robinson, Roush, Satterthwait, Tharp and Westbrook—33.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

Mr. BOYLE. Now, Mr. Speaker, I call up the resolution amending the rules.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of the House on the subject, for the information of the House.

The Clerk read the following extract:

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 23, 1867.

On motion of Mr. BOYLE, the House resumed the consideration of the resolution offered on the 1st instant by Mr. LEE, relative to the rules of the House.

And the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the resolution? A motion was made by Mr. BOYLE to amend the same by adding thereto the following words, viz:

And the following shall be an additional rule, to be known as Rule 63:

Rule 63. A committee may be discharged from the consideration of any matter referred to it by a majority vote.

And on the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

A motion was made by Mr. MANN to amend the same by adding thereto the following words: "After the same shall have been in the hands of the committee twenty days."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. WADDELL raised the point of order: That the consideration of the resolution and amendments was not in order.

The SPEAKER. The question is, Is the point of order well taken?

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, before that motion is put, I desire to say a word in addition to what I said the other day. The Constitution of the State of Pennsylvania provides, among other things, in relation to the powers of the Legislature, that each House may determine the rules of its proceedings. Taking the context into consideration, I think the word "may," in this instance, is equivalent to the term "shall."

Mr. QUAY. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Potter [Mr. MANN] allow me to interrupt him for a moment? Does not the term "each House," refer to the two branches of the Legislature—the Senate and the House of Representatives?

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, it means that each House, at each session, may determine its rules; and that has been the ruling of all parliamentary bodies, so far as I understand it. It has always been held that every parliamentary body adopts its own rules, and that is in accordance with the precedent adopted by this Legislature, under this forty-eighth rule, which was adopted some years ago:

"48. The rules now adopted shall be the rules of the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth until otherwise ordered, and shall be published in printed form, and delivered by the Clerk to the members of each succeeding Legislature, within the first week of the session."

The compiler of these rules adds that "on the second or third day of the session a committee is appointed to revise and examine the rules, and make such alterations or suggestions as they may deem necessary. A simple majority adopts the report of the committee." Now that settles the law of Pennsylvania upon this question. I affirm that has been the rule in and the law of Pennsylvania from the time of its organization to the present day. The resolution of the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. LEE], therefore, was in accordance with the State Constitution, and in harmony with the action of this Legislature from the time of the organization of this State to this date. Then, an attempt to set up any other rule is a violent departure from the precedents heretofore set, and by which we have been governed. It is also a departure from the rules of all parliamentary law, which provide that every legislative body shall adopt rules for the government of its own proceedings. Deeming this matter too plain for discussion I will not waste more of the time of the House.

Mr. QUAY. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will look at the sections of the Constitution preceding and following the one which he has read, I think he will be satisfied the term "each house" does refer to the different branches of the Legislature. Section second says, "each House shall choose its Speaker." Section 23, Article 1, of the Constitution, reads as follows:

"Every bill which shall have passed both Houses shall be presented to the Governor; if he approve, he shall sign it; but if he shall not approve, he shall return it, with his objections, to the House in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large upon their Journals, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of the House shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, with the objections, to the other House, by which, likewise, it shall be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of that House it shall be a law; but in such cases the votes of both Houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for or against the bill shall be entered on the Journals of each House respectively."

The term "House" is intended, not for the House of Representatives, but for each particular branch of the Legislature.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I explained that by showing how the Legislature has always understood it; that it has been the rule, immediately after the organization of the House, to appoint a committee to revise the rules; and a majority of the House has adopted or rejected that report. That settles the construction of this Constitution according to the history of legislation.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I think that the section the gentleman from Beaver [Mr. QUAY] has instanced makes against him. It is provided that each House may elect its own Speaker. Now, that undoubtedly refers to each session of the House. The House of last year could not elect a Speaker for this House. The House of last year could not adopt rules for the House of this year. Taking his construction of this section of the Constitution, I would answer in this way: that it does refer only to the different branches of the Legislature it undoubtedly—

Mr. QUAY. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman allow me to interrupt him? I call his attention to the 17th section, which reads: "Neither House shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days." So, evidently, the term "House" is for each branch of the Legislature.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, that is very true. I do not doubt that there are cases where it is intended to distinguish the different branches of the Legislature. It refers here to the different branches of the Legislature. But it is intended to give each branch power to elect its own presiding officer, and determine its own rules.

Mr. QUAY. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman refers to each session of the House of Representatives.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I argue that it tends to distinguish the one House from the other, and also to distinguish the successive Houses of Representatives. But there is no force, at all events, in the objection for this reason: that we are the House as well as that the last session was the House; and if the last session of the Legislature, or any preceding session of the Legislature was the House, and adopted rules, then we are the House, and can adopt rules too. We have this constitutional right to adopt rules. We are not left to conjecture upon this point; it has been settled, and there is no doubt of authority for the position we take, that this House has the right to determine its own rules. It seems to me a little singular that such a point of order should be made, because the very rule for which the gentleman themselves stand fixes the right of the House to make its own rules.

I refer the gentleman to Rule 48: "The rules now adopted shall be the rules of the House of Representatives of this Commonwealth until otherwise ordered."

Now that is just what we propose to order otherwise. We propose to adopt these rules, it is true, and to make additional rules.

Each Assembly, until it adopts rules and orders for itself (and it usually adopts those of its predecessors), is without any other rules for its government than those which result from common parliamentary law—Cushing, 247.

No legislative assembly can make any rules which shall be binding upon its successors, even until abrogated or rescinded by them—Cushing, 311.

So that this rule No. 48 has no force at all, except by permission—by the sufrage of the House. It is not binding upon the House, because under this authority no legislative assembly can bind its successors. It seems to me so clear, as has been observed by the gentleman from Potter [Mr. MANN], that I will not argue it.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, the question presented now for the consideration of the House assumes a somewhat different aspect from what I intended when I raised the point of order, but I am perfectly satisfied that the question shall come up in the way in which it does. My position is simply this, that, under the rule which has been read here, the rules of the last House necessarily continue to be the rules of this House. Now, sir, I do not pretend to argue that we have not the power to change these rules, but, by reason of the rule, if there was not a word said before this House upon the subject, then the Speaker would be under a duty, bound to enforce the rules of the last House upon us. If there had not been a resolution introduced into this House on the subject, if there had not been an suggestion made to the House upon the subject, if every gentleman had put his manual in his pocket and kept it there, the Speaker of this House would be duty bound, as Speaker of this House, to enforce the rules contained in this manual.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I simply desire to ask a question of the gentleman. I ask, if this motion is out of order, how are we to get a Speaker before the House?

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, I am coming to that, if the gentleman will allow me to continue my train of argument. Therefore, I say that, under the rule of this House, it being the duty of the Speaker, upon nothing being said, that the resolution of the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. LEE], who proposes by it to make these rules the rules of this House was out of order, because the rule itself already prescribes that, and consequently he had no right to duplicate what we already had. If these were the rules of this House, made so by the manual, then his resolution declaring that they should be the rules of this House was out of order, and if that resolution was out of order, the amendment which was attached to it was also out of order, and fell with it. Now, if gentlemen want to change the rules, they have, undoubtedly, the power to do it, but they must do it in the manner prescribed by the rules. The action of this House would have to be a negative action, and not a positive action. It would require a resolution to be introduced here (if the position I assume is correct), that hereafter these rules shall not continue to be the rules of this House. Now, I am aware that the rules prescribe that they shall continue to be the rules of this House until otherwise ordered. Then, sir, in order to change them, we have got to order otherwise, and in order to order otherwise, we have got to pass a negative resolution, saying that they shall no longer be the rules of this House. The positive part of the proposition is contained in the rule itself. It declares that they shall continue to be the rules until otherwise ordered; therefore, if the House do not want them to be their rules, they have got to act negatively, and say they shall no longer be the rules. But so long as the House remains quiet, they continue to be the rules of the House, and the Speaker of the House is bound to enforce them. They, being the rules of the House, prescribe the way in which the rules of the House shall be changed; and, if they are to be changed, they must be changed according to the provisions of the rules themselves.

I have no particular interest in this matter, and I discard being the originator of this idea. The suggestion does not come from me; I do not claim the credit of it, but it strikes my mind as having some force, and I desired that the question should be presented to the House. It is an important question— one likely to come up at every session of the Legislature. The Chair is no doubt troubled with this question upon every occasion the Legislature meets, and this is just as good a time to settle the question as any other.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that a very singular aspect is presented in this case. The gentleman has voted to give a copy of a manual to each member of this House that has no binding force in it, that is worthless, and then, standing in his place, predicates an argument upon an instrument that he says has no validity in it. If his doctrine is true, if these rules have no binding force, if they are worthless, why does he hold them up here and make them the subject of the arguments he has presented to this House with reference to this fact? He draws all his authority from that, and, if we sweep away that which he says has no existence, no entity, it, of course, falls fruitless, with nothing in it.

I say, Mr. Speaker, that the policy of this Legislature, and of legislative bodies, and it is the practice of all legislative bodies to do exactly as this House does—have some rules when they come together that shall govern and control them. It is proper and right, and it would be better, sir, if they were fixed stated rules with which people would become acquainted. The gentleman from Potter (Mr. MANN) says there is a committee appointed at every session to revise the rules. Not for the past five years has that been done. We have taken these rules given us until we should alter or amend them, and I do not know of a single instance in which those rules have been interfered with by any rule that has governed this legislative body. Do you tell me that when a point of order is decided here by one Legislature that it has no binding force upon a subsequent Legislature; that we come to this Legislature all adrift at every session, having nothing to control and govern us? Why, the very rule, providing that this House shall elect its own Speaker, would not be binding under this construction. This is a question that would have to be determined at every session if this theory is true. We might, if we wished, determine to do without a Speaker, if it were not for this rule. I cannot imagine or see the force of the argument upon the other side. They are against common sense, and against the policy of every legislative body, and against every well settled principle of parliamentary law.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. LEE] has said that we elect our own Speaker under the rules of the House. In that, I apprehend, he is mistaken. If there were no rules at all for the government of this House upon its organization, the Constitution obliges us to elect our Speaker. Section eleven of article first of the Constitution provides that "each House shall choose a Speaker and other officers." Therefore, it is not under the rules of the House we elect a Speaker, but under the Constitution of the Commonwealth. Again, I think the position of the gentleman from Chester [Mr. WADDELL] is well taken. All the powers that this Legislature has, whether the two Houses are acting conjointly or each House acting separately, it derives from the Constitution of the Commonwealth. The Constitution of the Commonwealth provides that each House may determine the rules of its proceedings. I apprehend, therefore, that as we derive this power from the Constitution the action of this House in establishing rules has the same force and binding effect upon a subsequent House as the action of the two Houses in enacting a statute. If a law is passed by the Legislature it is binding upon both Houses, and all the people of the Commonwealth until it is afterwards repealed. I think, therefore, this should have been offered in the form of an original resolution, although I believe the Chair decided that it was not in order as such. I think, as these rules were adopted in the first instance by a majority of the House, that an original resolution such as this can be adopted now by a majority of this House. I think, however, it could not be offered as an amendment to the resolution of the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. LEE], which, I believe, was not in order. Hence I agree with the gentleman from Chester [Mr. WADDELL] that these rules are binding upon this House and upon all subsequent Houses until they may be repealed.

Mr. WINGARD. Mr. Speaker, our course in this whole matter is clearly laid down by the book which is given us for our guide. I read from Ziegler's Manual, page 97:

"Each House may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the consent of two-thirds, expel a member, but not a second time for the same cause; and shall have all other powers necessary for a breach of the Legislature of a free State."—Constitution of Pennsylvania, Sec. 13, Art. 1.

"Under this provision of the Constitution, each House possesses full power to establish such rules as may be deemed necessary for the regulation of its proceedings. It is customary at the commencement of each session to adopt a resolution, 'That the rules of the last House of Representatives be adopted for the government of the present session until otherwise ordered'; and from this practice, it would seem, the rules adopted at one session are not of course the rules governing the Legislature at its next session. But the following rule of the House of Representatives clearly shows the practice to be entirely unnecessary:

"The rules now adopted, shall be the rules of the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth, until otherwise ordered, and shall be published in pamphlet form, and delivered by the Clerk to the members of each succeeding Legislature, within the first week of the session."—Rule 48."

It seems to me, Mr. Speaker, that the whole matter is plainly laid down here in the manual given us for our guide and direction.

On the question,

Is the point of order well taken?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. QUAY and Mr. BOYLE, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Adaire, Allen, Armstrong, Barton, Breen, Brown, Calvin, Cameron, Chalfant, Chase, Davis, Day, DeHaven, Donohugh, Gallagher, Harbison, Heltzel, Humphrey, Jones, Josephs, Kerns, Kimmell, Kinney, Koch, Lee, M'Camant, M'Henry, Marks, Mechling, Melly, Fallow, Quay, Rouse, Satterthwaite, Shanks, Shanley, Sherman, Steacy, Stehman, Stinbaugh, Subers, Waddell, Watt, Westbrook, Wingard, Worrall, Wright and Glass, Speaker—49.

NAYS—Messrs. Barrington, Boyle, Brennan, Chadwick, Collins, Colville, Cragg, Deise, Ewing, Fogel, Freeborn, Ghegan, Harner, Hood, Jenks, Kurtz, Leach, Linton, Long, M'Creary, M'Kee, Mann, Marley, Pennypacker, Peter, Phelan, Richards, Robinson, Tharp, Wallace, Webb, Weller, and Wilson—33.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. WADELLE reported from the Committee on Ways and Means, Senate bill No. 106, entitled An act to exempt certain Masonic institutions and property in the city of Reading from taxation.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to make a statement on that bill. The bill, as reported by the Committee on Ways and Means, is of a purely local character, and is designed to enable the Masonic institutions of Reading to erect a public hall which will be a very handsome public improvement. It is very generally desired by our citizens that it should be erected, the coming season. The committee having this matter in charge have, if the bill is passed now, an opportunity to secure a large sum of money, whereas if the bill is delayed, the very object for which the bill is passed may be defeated, and thus a very desirable public improvement to our city will be lost. I hope the House will find this a reason sufficient to sustain the motion I now make to suspend the rules and proceed to the consideration of the bill.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I call for a division of the question. We will not have an opportunity to read bills in place if we suspend the orders at this time.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my motion until we have passed by the orders.

Mr. ROUTH. Mr. Speaker, I ask the unanimous consent of the House to present a memorial. I have had it in my possession for some time. I would like to get it before the House.

Mr. WADELLE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire whether there is any present necessity for acting in the matter to which the memorial refers.

Mr. ROUTH. Mr. Speaker, I have had this in my possession for two weeks. I have tried to get it before the House, but have had no opportunity for so doing. The memorial is from a man illegally held in prison. I would like to have the memorial read, and then present a bill in relation to it.

Mr. WADELLE. Mr. Speaker, I would suggest that the gentleman cannot get his bill before the House until after his memorial has been read in the regular order of business. When memorials and petitions are in order, the gentleman can have his memorial read, and on the same day, following the order of business, his bill can be presented.

Mr. ROUTH. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my motion.

Referred to the Committee on Municipal Corporations.

Mr. HELTZEL. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to make a statement.

Leave was granted.

Mr. HELTZEL. Mr. Speaker, on reading the proceedings as published in the Daily Legislative Record, on the bill entitled An act to change the venue in the case of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania against Henry Stevens and Jacob Harmon, from the court of quarter sessions of Adams county to the court of quarter sessions of Dauphin county, I am reported to have said that "the court in Adams county is composed of two Democratic judges and one Republican, and I am informed that the judge and jury selected to try this case are Republicans." The report is erroneous on this point. I said, on the occasion referred to, that the board of commissioners of Adams county was composed of two Democrats and one Republican, and that I had been reliably informed that a large portion of the jurors then drawn for the January term of the court of common pleas of Adams, who would try this case, were Republicans.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I renew my motion to suspend the rules in order that we may proceed to the consideration of Senate Bill No. 106. I ask leave to say to the House again that it is purely local in character. It will be a great benefit to my constituents now, as they can borrow this money; whereas if it is delayed in the ordinary routine its object may be entirely defeated.

The bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON COMPARE BILLS.

No. 127, an act to authorize the school directors in the city of Williamsport, in the county of Lycoming, to borrow money.

Referred to the Committee on Education.

No. 128, an act to authorize the school directors of Swatara school district, Dauphin county, to raise an additional building tax.

Referred to the Committee on Education.

No. 132, an act to authorize the school directors of Sagerstown, Crawford county, to borrow money, and for other purposes.

Referred to the Committee on Education.

No. 133, an act relating to the granting of tavern licenses in Washington county.

Referred to the Committee on Vice and Immorality.

No. 134, an act to extend the time for the payment of the enrollment tax on an act to incorporate the Meadville City passenger railroad company, approved the 7th day of April, 1866.

Referred to the Committee on Railroads.

No. 135, a supplement to an act, approved the 8th day of April, A. D. 1859, to incorporate the Pittsburg and East Liberty passenger railway company.

Referred to the Committee on Railroads.

No. 293, an act relative to the settlement of bounty accounts in the county of Franklin.

Referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also returned from the Senate bill numbered and entitled as follows:

No. 106, an act to exempt from taxation certain property devoted to Masonic uses in the city of Reading.

With information that the House of Representatives has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

On motion of Mr. DAVIS, the amendments were twice read and agreed to.

He also informed the Senate that the House of Representatives has concurred in the amendments made by the Senate to bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows:

No. 20, a supplement to an act increasing the fees of jurors and witnesses in and for the counties of Armstrong, Franklin, Schuylkill and Westmoreland, approved the 27th day of March, A. D. 1865.

He also informed the Senate that the House of Representatives had concurred in the amendments made by the Senate to resolution from the House of Representatives requesting the Military Committee of both Houses, in conjunction with the Adjutant General and Governor, to prepare a bill for the regulation of the militia of this State.

PETITIONS, MEMORIALS, &c.

Mr. CONNELL presented the petition of nineteen citizens of Philadelphia, praying that any bridge on the river Schuylkill below Chestnut street shall have a draw.

Referred to the Committee on Roads and Bridges.

Mr. M'CANDESS, petition of the flour and corn men of Philadelphia, asking for the re-building of the Columbia bridge.

Referred to the Committee on Roads and Bridges.

Mr. WORTHINGTON, two petitions of citizens of Chester and Delaware counties, asking for an alteration of the law incorporating the Chester Creek railroad, so as to allow it to connect with the Philadelphia and Baltimore Central railroad, at or near Pennelltown, in the county of Delaware.

Referred to the Committee on Railroads.

Mr. ROYER, petition of citizens of Montgomery county, praying for the extension of the act entitled An act authorizing the Secretary of the Commonwealth to distribute copies of the standards of weights and measures and for the appointment of sealers, approved the 15th day of April, 1845, now in operation throughout the various counties of the Commonwealth, to the said county of Montgomery.

Referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Domestic Manufactures.

Mr. FISHER, a petition of citizens of Chester county, in favor of rebuilding the Columbia bridge.

Referred to the Committee on Roads and Bridges.

Mr. GLATZ, petition from the chief burgess and town council of the borough of York, in reference to the re-building of the Columbia bridge at Columbia, Lancaster county.

Referred to the Committee on Roads and Bridges.

Mr. M'CONAUGHY, memorial of forty citizens of Adams county, praying for an appropriation to relieve citizens whose property was destroyed or taken by the armies in 1862 and 1863.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. WHITE, the proceedings of the Pennsylvania Wool Growers' association, which was read as follows:

PENNSYLVANIA STATE WOOL GROWERS' ASSOCIATION.

At the annual meeting of the association, held at Pittsburg this day, the committee appointed to prepare business for the meeting, reported as the sense of the Pennsylvania State Wool Growers' association:

That it is of the first importance that the wool growing interest of our country shall have ample protection.

That the present tariff is wholly inadequate for that purpose.

That the association, therefore, earnestly, but respectfully, urges upon Congress the tariff bill on wool and woolsens, as it passed the lower House of Congress at its last session.

Which report was accepted, and after full and mature discussion, was unanimously adopted. In addition, it was unanimously

Resolved, That believing free trade or a tariff which intends no protection to wool, would be ruinous to the best interests of the country, we pledge ourselves, without distinction of party, hereafter to support no person for a State or national office who is not heartily in favor of protecting American industry.

It was resolved that a copy of the foregoing proceedings be forwarded to our Representatives and Senators in Congress.

F. JULIUS LE MOYNE, President.

Referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Domestic Manufactures.

Mr. SEARIGHT, a remonstrance from J. Gordon Williams, Esq., and one hundred and ten other taxpayers of Nicholson township, Fayette county, against the passage of any law authorizing the levying and collecting of any more taxes in said township for bounty purposes.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

Mr. BROWN (Mercer), petition of citizens of Mercer county, praying for the repeal of the act authorizing the appointment of a county auctioneer for said county.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

WILLIAM H. KENBLE,
State Treasurer.

Countersigned by
J. F. HARTRAFF.

Mr. RIDGWAY, from the Committee on Corporations, as committed, a bill entitled An act relative to the New Castle gas light company.

Also (same), as committed, a bill entitled A further supplement to an act to incorporate the city of Philadelphia, approved February 2, 1854.

Also (same), as committed, a bill entitled An act to incorporate the Mechanics' and Miners' Co-operative association of Scranton.

Also (same) as committed, a bill entitled An act to incorporate the Granite insurance company.

Mr. JAMES (same), as committed, a bill entitled An act to incorporate the Local Express company of Wilkesbarre.

Also (same), as committed, a bill entitled An act to incorporate the University of St. Augustine.

Mr. ROYER (same), as committed, a bill entitled An act to incorporate the Co-operative association of Hyde Park, No. 1, in the city of Scranton, for mercantile purposes.

Also (same), as committed, an act to incorporate the Providence gas and water company in Luzerne county.

Mr. HAINES (same), as committed, a bill entitled An act supplementary to an act to incorporate the Cooper fire-arms manufacturing company, approved April 3, 1863, and the supplement to the same.

Also (same), as committed, a bill entitled An act to change and amend the charter of the borough of Emporium, in the county of Cameron.

Mr. GLATZ (same), as committed, a bill entitled An act to change the name of the Carson gold mining company, and to increase the par value of the stock of said company.

Also (same), as committed, a further supplement to an act incorporating the city of Philadelphia, relative to vacancies in election officers.

Mr. LANDON, from the Committee on Railroads, as committed, a bill entitled An act to regulate the rates of fare on certain passenger railroads in the county of Allegheny.

Mr. BIGHAM. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire of the Committee on Railroads when a bill that was read two or three days after the commencement of the session will be reported, because a number of persons have been kept waiting in reference to the repeal of the legislation of 1864, with regard to the Connellsville railroad. We have been expecting a report from that committee for some time, and I would like to inquire when it will be made.

Mr. LANDON. Mr. Speaker, I will say that the meeting of the committee was called yesterday at 3 o'clock, at which time we intended to consider that bill; but there was a caucus, which prevented our meeting. We intend to have a meeting very soon, and that bill, and others, will be acted on. That is the intention of the committee; I cannot say what day they will meet.

Mr. LOWRY. Mr. Speaker, in order to put an end to this thing, I think the chairman of that committee should be requested to report the Connellsville railroad bill, and the general railroad bill.

Mr. LANDON. The Senator from Erie [Mr. LOWRY] will see the impropriety of that arrangement. The general railroad law, which is being prepared, is not yet in the hands of the committee.

Mr. STUTZMAN, from the Committee on Election Districts, reported, as committed, a bill entitled An act authorizing a special election in the borough of Highspire.

Mr. WHITE, from the Committee on Military Affairs, with an amendment, a bill entitled A joint resolution requesting Congress to pass such laws as will enable soldiers who have lost their discharges to receive their one hundred dollars bounty under an act of Congress of July 28, 1866.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Speaker, this is a matter in which there is no diversity of opinion. The present session of Congress adjourns soon, and the sooner the bill gets there the better. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of this bill.

Mr. LOWRY. I desire to ask the Senator to withdraw that motion for a single moment, as a bill has gone over to the Governor which contains an error, and which I desire to have recalled.

Mr. WHITE. This bill will take but a moment.

The motion of Mr. WHITE was agreed to, and

The bill

Passed finally.

Mr. M'CANDESS, from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported, with a negative recommendation, a bill entitled A supplement to the act relating to the payment of bounties to veteran volunteers, approved May 1st, 1866.

Mr. BILLINGFELT, from the Committee on Roads and Bridges, as committed, a bill entitled A further supplement to the act incorporating the Township Line road company, fixing the terms and regulating tolls on said road.

Also (same), as committed, a bill entitled A supplement to an act approved April 10, A. D. 1866, appointing commissioners to lay out and open a State road in M'Kean county, from the borough of Smethport to Lafayette Corners.

Mr. TAYLOR (same), as committed, a bill entitled An act authorizing the laying out of a State road in Luzerne county.

Also (same), as committed, a bill entitled An act to repeal an act providing for compensation to public roads in Bethlehem and Palmer townships, Northampton county, by the construction of the Lehigh and Delaware Water Gap railroad, approved the 11th day of April, A. D. 1866.

Mr. LANDON (same), as committed, a bill entitled An act to vacate certain lanes and alleys in the plan of out-lots of the borough of Beaver, in the county of Beaver.

Also (same), as committed, a bill entitled An act relative to the Lancaster and Litz turpice road company, in Lancaster county.

Mr. GLATZ (same), as committed, a bill entitled An act regulating roads and bridges in Wayne county.

Also (same), as committed, a bill entitled A further supplement to the act to charter the Harrisburg bridge company, enabling the company to raise money to rebuild the bridge.

Also (same), as committed, a bill entitled An act to incorporate the Sullivan and Pocono Summit plank road company.

Also (same), as committed, a bill entitled A further supplement to an act to incorporate the Kensington and Oxford turpice road company, giving each stockholder one vote for every share of stock, and regulating toll on said road.

Mr. TAYLOR, from the Committee on Military Affairs, as committed, a bill entitled A further supplement to an act to create a loan and to provide for arming the State, approved May 15, 1861, repealing so much of said act as authorizes the Governor to appoint assistant State agents and a State agent in the Southwest.

RECALL OF BILL FROM THE GOVERNOR.

On leave.

Mr. LOWRY offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Governor be requested to return bill No. 24, Senate file, for the purpose of correcting two clerical errors.

The resolution was adopted.

BILLS IN PLACE.

Mr. CONNELL read in his place and presented to the Chair a bill entitled An act relative to contested elections.

Referred to the Committee on Election Districts.

Also, a bill entitled An act relative to the courts of oyer and terminer, general jail delivery, and quarter sessions of the peace for the city and county of Philadelphia.

Referred to the Committee on Corporations.

Also, a bill entitled An act to incorporate the Caledonia and South Mountain railroad company.

Referred to the Committee on Railroads.

Mr. GRAHAM, a bill entitled An act to punish by fine any railroad corporation within this Commonwealth that shall exclude or allow to be excluded by their agents, conductors or employes from their passenger cars any person or persons on account of color or race.

Referred to the Committee on Railroads.

Also, a bill entitled A supplement to an act entitled An act granting to the courts of this Commonwealth power to appoint viewers to view certain streets and alleys in the Commonwealth.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary General.

Mr. ROYER, a bill entitled An act to charter the Chestnut Hill and Spring House turnpike company, authorizing them to re-open old water courses.

Referred to the Committee on Roads and Bridges.

Mr. WORTHINGTON, a bill entitled An act for the better protection of farmers in the markets of Philadelphia.

Referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Domestic Manufactures.

Mr. BIGHAM, a bill entitled An act to establish a ferry on the Youghiogheny river at Leighton Station in Fayette county.

Referred to the Committee on Canals and Inland Navigation.

Mr. LOWRY, a bill entitled An act to incorporate the Erie City passenger railroad company.

Referred to the Committee on Railroads.

Mr. WALLACE, a bill entitled An act to allow the Madeira coal and improvement company to hold more real estate, and changing the par value of their stock.

Referred to the Committee on Corporations.

Also, a bill entitled An act to prevent the burning of the woods in the counties of Clearfield and Elk.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

Mr. BROWN (Mercer), bill entitled An act relative to livery stable keepers in Mercer county.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

Mr. SHOEMAKER, bill entitled A supplement to an act of March 16th, 1852, relative to registers and registers' courts.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary General.

Mr. BURNETT, a bill entitled A resolution relative to Representative Randall's bill to create a sinking fund and retire the national bank currency.

Referred to the Committee on Federal Relations.

Mr. WHITE, a bill entitled An act to allow certain persons holding and exercising the office of postmaster under the United States to exercise the office of justice of the peace.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary General.

Mr. MC CONAUGHY, a bill entitled An act to extend the time for the payment of the enrollment tax on an act entitled A supplement to the act incorporating the Littlestown railroad company, approved the 17th of February, 1854, approved April 8th, 1854.

Referred to the Committee on Railroads.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTION.

Mr. BIGHAM offered the following resolution, which was read twice:

Resolved, That the Senate will hereafter meet at 10 o'clock, A. M., of each day.

Mr. CONNELL. I hope not.

Mr. BIGHAM. I think we get along with the business much better in the morning than at any other time of the day.

The SPEAKER. I do not think the Senate is behind in its business.

Mr. BIGHAM. Well, I will withdraw the resolution for the present.

The resolution was then withdrawn.

LEAVE TO RECORD VOTE.

Mr. BROWN (Mercer) asked and obtained leave to record his vote on the resolutions entitled Joint resolutions of the Legislature of Pennsylvania protesting against the confirmation of Edgar Cowan as Minister to Austria. He voted "aye."

RECOMMITTAL OF BILL.

Mr. BROWN (Mercer) moved that the bill entitled An act to incorporate the Jonestown cemetery association be recommitted to the Committee on the Judiciary General.

The motion was agreed to.

THE SUNDAY CAR QUESTION.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the consideration of the motion to commit to a select committee, to consist of the Senators from Philadelphia, the bill entitled An act to ascertain the views of the qualified electors of the city and county of Philadelphia upon the subject of allowing the passenger railway companies of said city to run their cars on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday.

Mr. RIDGWAY. Mr. Speaker, I would ask to what committee you would refer the bill?

The SPEAKER. To the Committee on Vice and Immorality, as bills of that nature were referred to that committee last year.

Mr. RIDGWAY. The Committee on Railroads have had a bill of that kind referred to them this year.

The SPEAKER said that local bills of this nature had been referred by Speaker Penney and others to the Committee on Vice and Immorality, and that some regard should be had for precedents; if the Committee on Vice and Immorality had such a bill, it must have been handed to them by mistake, before the committees were appointed.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, there may possibly have been such a bill introduced, but if so, and it was referred to the Committee on Vice and Immorality, it has not yet come into my hands.

Mr. DONOVAN said he introduced the bill (referred to by Mr. RIDGWAY) before any committees were appointed.

The SPEAKER said he would now refer the bill to the Committee on Vice and Immorality.

Mr. SEARIGHT. Mr. Speaker, I am opposed to the resolution which proposes to refer this subject to a special committee composed of the Senators from Philadelphia. The practice has been, sometimes, in both Houses of the Legislature, I believe, to refer questions of an exclusively local character to the delegation from the locality which is to be affected by the proposed legislation. I think, sir, that is not the character of this question; it cannot be. It is a question which interests and affects the people of every county, every township, every ward, and every borough in this State. I am entirely confident in the ability of the Senators from Philadelphia to consider this question, as well as any other questions that may arise in this body; but certainly, in a question of this kind, which affects the people everywhere, it would not be treating this body fairly, or treating the people whom they represent with fairness, to refer the subject to Senators who come from one district alone. It is not a local question exclusively. It is true, the proposition is to allow cars to run in the city of Philadelphia on Sunday.

Mr. RIDGWAY. I would explain, if the Senator will allow me, that this bill proposes nothing of the kind. It proposes to authorize the people to hold an election, about the middle of next month, to give their opinions whether they would like to have cars run on Sunday or not; after that, it would be a question for the Legislature. It is proposed to refer to the Philadelphia Senators for the purpose of wording the bill and fixing the time for the election. This bill does not propose to allow them to run on Sunday.

Mr. SEARIGHT. Mr. Speaker, the explanation given by the Senator from Philadelphia [Mr. RIDGWAY] does not alter the case at all. In fact, it makes it stronger in the view I have been taking of it. Now, sir, the people of the State are as much interested in the question of running the cars on Sunday as the people of Philadelphia are; and I have no idea, sir, of allowing the people of Philadelphia to say that the Sabbath shall be desecrated. He puts the question in that way—that the matter is referred to the people of Philadelphia to say by their ballots whether cars shall run on Sunday.

Mr. RIDGWAY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order, which is this: that I have made no proposition to desecrate the Sabbath, and I do not want any Senator to charge me with doing so.

The SPEAKER. I cannot rule that the point of order is well taken, because it is a matter that people differ about; some think it is a desecration, others do not.

Mr. SEARIGHT. I understand that the resolution proposes to submit it to a vote of the people of Philadelphia, whether or not this Legislature shall pass a law permitting cars to run in Philadelphia on Sunday. Now, sir, I and other Senators may think that if this thing be done, if the people vote in favor of that proposition, and the Legislature confirms their vote, that that would be a desecration of the Sabbath; I may think so, and others may think so; the Senator from Philadelphia [Mr. RIDGWAY] may, under his peculiar ideas, think it is no desecration of the Sabbath; he has a right to think so, and other Senators have a right to differ; and therefore there can be no point of order growing out of this question at all. While I do not wish to make any charge against the capacity or integrity of the Senators from Philadelphia, I nevertheless think that other sections of the State have as much interest in the subject as Philadelphia, and I object to referring the question to that especial committee on account of the interest that other sections of the State have in this subject, which is an important matter. I hope Senators will not insist upon it.

Mr. MC CONAUGHY. Mr. Speaker, I objected, yesterday, to the reference to a special committee, because I thought it was improper, and not consistent with usage. The legislation contemplated was in reference to a question of morals; and, in effect, operating ultimately on the whole Commonwealth, and from its very nature there was a committee to which it should, on principle and by usage, legitimately be referred. For that reason, I made the objection that I did at the time. I do not think, sir, that it is necessary to elaborate. I think it would be contrary to usage and disrespectful to the committee to which it belongs, to give it the special reference which was proposed in the motion. I do not maintain that there was any improper intent—I disclaim any such sentiment. I think it is perfectly plain that the bill should be referred to the Committee on Vice and Immorality.

The question being on the motion to refer the bill to a special committee, to consist of the Senators from Philadelphia, the Senate refused so to refer it.

The SPEAKER then referred the bill to the Committee on Vice and Immorality.

BILL IN PLACE.

On leave given,

Mr. DAVIS read in his place and presented to the Chair a bill entitled An act to authorize courts to punish, by moderate fine, any Republican hotel keeper who shall refuse to entertain, with all the privileges of the house, any person on account of race or color.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary General.

Mr. WHITE moved that the Committee on the Judiciary General be discharged from the consideration of said bill, and that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the same.

Mr. CONNELL. Mr. Speaker, I have a bill which I would like to pass, and I hope time will not be consumed in frivolous measures of this kind.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, I think it is very unfair for the Senator from Indiana [Mr. WURR] to take this bill out of the hands of the gentleman who has read it in place, as he has charge of it and acts as godfather to it.

On the question,

Shall the committee be discharged from the further consideration of the bill? it was decided in the negative.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, informed the Senate that the House of Representatives has concurred in the resolution from the Senate requesting the Governor to return to the Senate for amendment bill No. 24, entitled An act to incorporate the German Savings Institution.

THE GERMAN SAVINGS INSTITUTION OF ERIE.

On motion of Mr. LOWRY, the Senate proceeded to the consideration of bill entitled An act to incorporate the German Savings Institution of Erie (which bill was returned to the Senate for amendment in pursuance of a resolution of both Houses).

Mr. LOWRY asked and obtained the unanimous consent of the Senate to amend the same in the sixth section by striking out the words "coal and iron," and by inserting in lieu thereof the words "iron and coal;" and by striking out the word "eighth" in the same section, and inserting in lieu thereof the word "fifth."

The bill, as amended, then

Passed finally.

BILLS CONSIDERED AND PASSED.

On motion of Mr. LOWRY, the Committee on Railroads was discharged from the further consideration of bill entitled An act to incorporate the Erie city passenger railway company,

And the rules having been dispensed with, the bill was read the second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. McCONAUGHY, the Committee on Military Affairs was discharged from the further consideration of bill entitled An act relative to the settlement of bounty accounts in the county of Franklin.

And the rules having been dispensed with, the bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. CONNELL, the Committee on the Judiciary Local was discharged from the further consideration of the bill entitled An act authorizing the Governor to appoint an additional notary public in the city of Philadelphia.

And the rules having been dispensed with, the bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. WALLACE, the Committee on Roads and Bridges was discharged from the further consideration of bill entitled An act to extend the term for completing the Clearfield and Curwensville turnpike road company, and to allow tolls to be taken upon the portion completed.

And the rules having been dispensed with, the bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. WHITE, the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of bill entitled A supplement to an act regulating the laying out and opening of public roads in the Commonwealth, approved June 18th, 1856.

The bill was twice read.

Mr. BROWN (Mercer). Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that this is a matter of very considerable importance. I would prefer that the bill be laid over for the present. The language of the bill is not as it should be. In my town there are three supervisors. The bill says, "by the supervisor."

Mr. McCONAUGHY. I was going to make the same suggestion, and call attention to the phraseology of the first section, which reads as follows:

"The supervisor of roads of any township in this Commonwealth is hereby authorized to contract with the owner or occupant of any land through or by which any public road is located, to open or repair the same whenever said owner or occupant so desires."

Mr. WHITE. I am willing to lay the bill over till to-morrow. There may be one or two verbal corrections to be made. I have no wish to be hasty about it.

The bill was laid over to a third reading.

On motion of Mr. WALLACE, the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of bill entitled An act to authorize the borough of St. Mary's to borrow money, and to extend the width of St. Michael street in said borough.

The bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. CONNELL, the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of bill entitled An act to incorporate the Granite insurance company.

The bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. WORTHINGTON, the Committee on the Judiciary Local was discharged from the further consideration of bill entitled An act relating to the compensation of the commissioners of Chester county.

And the rules having been dispensed with, the bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. SHOEMAKER, the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of bill entitled An act for the relief of Nancy Welliver, widow of Jacob Welliver, a soldier of the Revolution.

The bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. BROWN (Mercer), the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of bill entitled A joint resolution instructing our Senators and requesting our representatives in Congress to procure a reduction of tax on petroleum.

The bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. WHITE, the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of bill entitled An act to authorize the commissioners of Jefferson county to borrow money.

The bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, informed the Senate that the House of Representatives has concurred in the amendments made by the Senate to bill from the Senate numbered and entitled as follows:

No. 24, an act to incorporate the German Savings Institution of Erie.

[Which bill was returned by the Governor in pursuance of a joint resolution requesting its return to the Senate.]

The hour of one o'clock having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the Senate till eleven o'clock to-morrow morning.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 31, 1867.

The House met at 10 o'clock, A. M.

The SPEAKER announced a quorum of members present.

The Journal of yesterday was partly read, when,

On motion of Mr. WRIGHT, the further reading of the same was dispensed with.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented for concurrence bills numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

Senate bill No. 47, an act relative to the road laws in certain townships in Sullivan county.

Senate bill No. 80, a further supplement to an act incorporating the West Branch boom company, approved the 29th day of March, A. D. 1849, authorizing an increase of tolls on boomsage.

Senate bill No. 95, a further supplement to an act entitled An act relating to corporations for mechanical, manufacturing, mining and quarrying purposes, approved July 18th, A. D. 1863.

Senate bill No. 105, an act relative to roads and highways in Schuylkill county.

Senate bill No. 102, an act to incorporate the New Britain and Doylestown turnpike road company.

Senate bill No. 102, an act to incorporate the Vulcan Iron Works.

He also presented the following extract from the Journal of the Senate:

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Governor be requested to return bill No. 24, Senate file, entitled An act to incorporate the German Savings Institute of Erie, for the purpose of correcting two clerical errors.

SPEAKER'S TABLE.

The SPEAKER proceeded to clear the table of several Senate bills, numbered and entitled as follows:

PUBLIC CALENDAR.

The consideration of the bills on the public calendar being in order,

The House went into committee of the whole on House bill No. 108, an act authorizing the sale of agricultural land scrip,

Mr. LEE in the chair.

The first section was read as follows: SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the Surveyor General, under the directions of the board of commissioners, be, and is hereby, authorized to dispose of all land scrip remaining in his possession donated to this Commonwealth by act of the Congress of the United States, entitled An act donating public lands to the several States and Territories which may provide colleges for the benefit of agriculture and the mechanic arts, passed July second, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two, and that he shall invest the proceeds arising from the sale of the scrip in the manner and under the direction of the board of commissioners, provided by the third section of the act of April first, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, entitled An act to accept the grant of public lands by the United States to the several States for the endowment of agricultural colleges.

The question being,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The second section was read as follows:

SEC. 2. That after the scrip shall have been disposed of, and the proceeds arising therefrom shall have been invested, the Surveyor General shall annually add the interest accruing upon such investment to the principal, until otherwise ordered by the Legislature of Pennsylvania: Provided, That this act shall not be so construed as to deprive the Agricultural college of Pennsylvania of the interest accruing from the proceeds of the scrip heretofore sold or hereafter to be sold.

Mr. SHARPLES. Mr. Speaker, I move to amend by adding at the end of the section the words "or hereafter to be sold."

The motion was

Agreed to.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, the section will require further amendment in the body of it to make it consistent with the amendment just offered. The body of the section provides that the interest accruing shall be added to the principal. Of course if the Agricultural college is to receive the interest from all scrip heretofore sold, that interest cannot be added to the principal.

Mr. SHARPLES. Mr. Speaker, I think that the provisions of the act of Congress do not permit the adding of the interest to the principal. They cannot become as one—they must be left separate.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, I move to amend by striking out all in the section before the word "this" in the fourth line.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Chester [Mr. SHARPLES] what would be the effect of this amendment? Would it give to the Agricultural college the interest accruing from the proceeds of all the land scrip heretofore sold? Mr. WADDELL. No, sir, I think it would not affect that at all; I merely make my amendment so that the section may harmonize with the amendment of my colleague.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know what would be the effect of passing the section amended in that shape.

Mr. SHARPLES. Mr. Speaker, I do not consider that it would dispose of the proceeds of the sale in any way whatever. I offered my amendment merely that the claims of the Agricultural college might not be prejudiced. I do not understand that it is given to this college more than to any other. But there is a bill before this House that proposes to appropriate the proceeds of that scrip to the benefit of this Agricultural college, and I desire that this bill shall simply be withdrawn in reference to this college—that while giving nothing to the college it shall not prejudice the claims or chances of the college.

The question being on the amendment of Mr. WADDELL,

It was agreed to.

The section as amended was

Agreed to.

The third section was read as follows:

SEC. 3. That the Governor, Auditor General and Surveyor General, as a board of commissioners, shall direct the payment of expenses of disposing of the said land scrip out of any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated.

The question was,

Will the committee agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The SPEAKER having resumed the chair, Mr. LEE, chairman of the committee of the whole, reported the bill as amended.

The first section was read and

Agreed to.

The second section was read as follows:

SEC. 2. This act shall not be so construed as to deprive the Agricultural college of Pennsylvania of the interest accruing from the proceeds of the scrip heretofore sold or hereafter to be sold.

The question was,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I think the question of my friend from Fayette [Mr. BOYLE] is a very pertinent one. What is the effect of this section? If it has any meaning at all, it means that this Agricultural college shall get the entire proceeds of this donation to the State. I do not know but I shall vote for a proposition of that sort, but I want to know if when I do. I think that Agricultural college, properly managed, would be a very good thing, but it will have to be managed much better than when this Legislature was, unfortunately, I think, for the college, called upon to visit it. I would, therefore, like to know what we are to understand as the meaning of this section. If this second section does not give to the Agricultural college the entire proceeds from this grant, then I do not know what it does do. I am, however, prepared to vote on that proposition if the House will thereunto please.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I do not see how there can be any doubt about this section. An act was passed during the last session of the Legislature upon this subject, authorizing these commissioners, the Governor, Auditor General and Treasurer, to sell one-third of this land scrip and appropriate the interest accruing from the proceeds of that one-third to this college. They are restricted to one-third—this is all they are authorized to sell—and the interest from that they are to give to this college. This second section without this proviso will repeal the act of last session, and will take from this college the whole of the interest arising from the sale of this land scrip. This proviso is put in merely to save to the college the benefit of the act of last year. That is all it does. Strike out this proviso and the act of last year is repealed so far as any benefit accruing to this college is concerned. I agree with the gentleman from Chester [Mr. WADDELL] in his amendment, and I think what is then left of the section is not worth talking about.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, I do not know as I would object to having the whole of the second section stricken out. My colleague [Mr. SHARPLES] has moved to amend by adding to the proviso the words "or hereafter to be sold." It struck my mind that this addition to the proviso was so inconsistent with the part of the section which provides "that after the scrip shall have been disposed of, and the proceeds arising therefrom shall have been invested, the Surveyor General shall annually add the interest accruing upon such investment to the principal until otherwise ordered by the Legislature of Pennsylvania," that I moved to amend by striking that part out.—My motion to strike out all before the word "this," was to make the section correspond with the amendment of my colleague. After that part is stricken out I do not see that the balance is worth talking about. It is immaterial whether this proviso is in or not, for in either case the accruing interest will take just such a course as the law now provides. If it is all to go to the Agricultural college, let it go there; but if not, the interest on this one-third will be appropriated as heretofore. All I desire is to have the bill consistent. The only thing that struck my mind was, whether, under the act of Congress, these commissioners would have the power to add the interest to the principal, as it occurred. I have not had an opportunity of seeing the act of Congress, and, if any member here has that act in his possession, I think it would be a favor to the House to have it read.

Mr. KURTZ. Mr. Speaker, I have not the act of Congress here, but it is my impression that it does not allow this Legislature to add the interest to the principal. I do not think it makes that provision or allows it.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to vote advisedly upon this bill. I grant that I have a sort of obtuseness of intellect that does not enable me to see matters so quick as some, but, if this bill means anything, to my judgment it means that the Agricultural college, in Centre county, shall have the entire proceeds of this sale. If it does not mean that, what does it mean? The proviso reads—"Provided, That this act shall not be so construed as to deprive the Agricultural college of Pennsylvania of the interests accruing from the proceeds of the scrip heretofore sold, or hereafter to be sold." I do not see why that does not embrace one-third, or two-thirds, or all of it. If you sell all of it heretofore, then the college is entitled to all of it. They are also entitled to all that has been heretofore sold. I want to know whether that is not the purpose and object of this bill, and if not, why is it not framed so that all may understand it? I venture to say that two-thirds of this House understand it as I do, for it seems to me that it is made just as plain as the English language can make it? If this is not the construction, what is it?

Mr. PENNYPACKER. Mr. Speaker, I do not understand that this bill has anything very particular to do with this college just now. I understand this bill to be an act to sell this land scrip. This land scrip is constantly depreciating in value, and it is important it should be sold before it depreciates further, and the money accruing from that sale shall be taken care of by the commissioners until otherwise ordered by this Legislature. This bill authorizes the sale of agricultural land scrip and in the second section it provides:

"That after the scrip shall have been disposed of, and the proceeds arising therefrom shall have been invested, the Surveyor General shall annually add the interest accruing upon such investment to the principal until otherwise ordered by the Legislature of Pennsylvania: Provided, That this act shall not be so construed as to deprive the Agricultural college of Pennsylvania of the interest accruing from the proceeds of the scrip heretofore sold or hereafter to be sold."

The first part being stricken out it reads:

"This act shall not be so construed as to deprive the Agricultural college of Pennsylvania of the interest accruing from the proceeds of the scrip heretofore sold or hereafter to be sold."

There is nothing in this section that is objectionable to my mind.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I do not want the gentleman to understand that there is anything objectionable to it in my mind. I merely want to know what the construction is—what we are to understand by this bill.

Mr. PENNYPACKER. Mr. Speaker, that is what I am trying to get at. I want to understand that myself. I do not see that this amendment is going to effect this Agricultural college or effect the sale of this land scrip. I understand from the friends of the college that how these funds shall be appropriated is not a question in this bill. I do not see anything in it, and I think it is right and proper to leave the disposal of the funds to after legislation. The only question occurring to my mind is, that the Legislature should act immediately after the sale of this land scrip, and provide colleges or a college for the purpose of educating young men in the industrial interests of the Commonwealth. I do not see anything objectionable in the bill and I shall vote for it.

Mr. LINTON. Mr. Speaker, I was conversing with the Surveyor General the other day, and he took occasion to call my attention to this bill. It provides for the sale of the remainder of the college land scrip. There is no objection I believe to that. Second, it provides, as the bill reported, for the investment of the funds realized from the sale of the same. It provides for the investment of this fund under the act of Congress. It must be invested—it cannot be disbursed—and the interest thereon must be appropriated for specific purposes. But until the commissioners are directed how to appropriate this interest, it will have to remain dormant in the treasury, realizing nothing. It seems to me that the section, as originally presented, would be better, and if in order, I would move to substitute the original section in the place of the one reported by the committee.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I am not very familiar with this section, but I would state the impression I have received in reference to it. If the amendment of the gentleman from Chester [Mr. SHARPLES] prevails, then there is certainly no need of the original proviso. If the first part of this section should be stricken out it leaves nothing that could be construed to take anything that belongs to it by the law as it now stands. Neither is there anything in the first nor the last section that could be so construed, and, therefore, there is no need of the second section. The first section only provides for the sale of the land scrip, in accordance with the act of 1863. I do not see whether any part of this act of 1863 has been repealed or not. But if not, then, sir, under the law as it stands, all the interest arising from the proceeds of the sale of this scrip would go to the Agricultural college, without any further action. I will read the fourth section of the act of April, 1863.

Sec. 4. That until otherwise ordered by the Legislature of Pennsylvania, the annual interest accruing from any investment of the funds acquired under the said act of Congress, is hereby appropriated, and the said commissioners are directed to pay the same to the Agricultural college of Pennsylvania, for the endowment, support and maintenance of the said institution, which college is now in full and successful operation, and where the leading object is, without excluding other scientific and classical studies, and including military tactics, to teach such branches of learning as are related to agriculture and the mechanic arts.

Now, sir, if we pass this bill we direct the sale of all this land scrip under the State law and the proceeds will go the Agricultural college.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Fayette [Mr. BOYLE], in my opinion, is correct. I may say that, so far as I understand the wishes of the gentlemen who represent the interests of the Agricultural college, they have no desire to appropriate the interest arising from the sale of the two-thirds.

This bill did not originate with them, but I do not know that they have any objection to the bill. My reason, as I have before stated, for making my amendment grew out of the amendment of my colleague, because in examining the bill, as the gentleman from Fayette has stated, it strikes my mind it results in giving to the Agricultural college the interest on this two-thirds of the land scrip. But the serious question to me is, whether we have the power to provide, as the section now does provide, with the amendment making it as it originally read. If we have the power to do it, I think it is no more than right and proper to do it.

But if we are going to accept the amendment of my colleague, then we do not want the beginning of the section, because it is utterly inconsistent with the amendment. Rather than do that, we had better sweep the whole section out or pass it as reported from the committee. That is just my position, and I take it that it is the position of the gentlemen who are interested in the Agricultural college. They have no disposition or desire, at the present time, to interfere with the disposition of the proceeds of the sale of this two-thirds. All they ask is, that there shall be no interference with their present rights. And I presume that it was only the desire on the part of my colleague that they shall not interfere, that induced him to offer this amendment.

Mr. SHARPLES. Mr. Speaker, I am no lawyer, and I leave it for the lawyers to decide any legal points in this question, but I am at a loss to see how the word "deprive" can be so construed as to give to this college the benefit of the proceeds of the sale of all the land scrip. I merely ask that this act shall not, in any way, prejudice the chance of this college obtaining the benefit of any after legislation. I do not wish to interfere with the bill or its passage, for I am not opposed to it. I think it is proper and right that this scrip should be sold. If the gentleman who introduced this bill will satisfy my mind that it does not interfere with the interests of the college and it is the wish of the Legislature to have it passed, I will favor it.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the amendment of the gentleman from Cambria [Mr. LAYTON].

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I hope that the amendment will not be adopted, for the simple reason that I agree with those gentlemen who find that there is no necessity for the second section at all. The first section of the act provides for disposing of the money arising from the sale of this scrip, and the second section of the act, I think, would defeat the object, whether it were amended or not. The second section provides "that, after the scrip shall have been disposed of, and the proceeds arising therefrom shall have been invested, the Surveyor General shall annually add the interest accruing from such investment to the principal, until otherwise ordered by the Legislature," &c. In addition to this, there is a proviso that this act shall not be so construed as to deprive the Agricultural college of Pennsylvania of the interest accruing from the proceeds of the scrip heretofore sold. Now, I do not know what proportion of this scrip has been sold, although I understand that it is one-third the entire amount. But, before this bill becomes a law, the entire amount may be sold, and in that case the whole amount will be appropriated to this college, instead of its being appropriated in the manner prescribed in the first section. I think, therefore, that the object of the bill would be defeated, whether amended or not. I trust that the amendment will not be adopted, and that the second section will be stricken out of the bill.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I have no feelings in this matter, but I want to vote understandingly on it. It is a very important measure, and I want to know what I am doing. Now, I say that if the first part of the second section should be stricken out, the interest on this entire fund will go to the Agricultural college of Pennsylvania, with or without the proviso. I understand that the friends of the college do not ask that. I understand that they only want to secure to the college the interest arising from the amount already directed to be sold. I would ask the gentleman from Chester [Mr. SHARPLES] if I am right in that view.

Mr. SHARPLES. Mr. Speaker, I understand that the college has already received that. The only idea that I have in reference to the matter is that the college shall not be prejudiced for or against after legislation in regard to this fund.

Mr. LINTON. Mr. Speaker, the bill provides for two purposes—the selling of scrip and the investment of the proceeds. If the second section is stricken out there will be no authority for investing this fund. The act of Congress provides that it shall be invested, but there is, nevertheless, no authority given that authorities of this Commonwealth to invest it if this second section is stricken out.

Now, I ask what the gentleman proposes to do with the fund after the sale of the scrip is made? Some two hundred thousand dollars will accumulate in the treasury from this sale. Do they intend it shall lie there dormant, doing nothing, or do they intend it shall be invested? If they intend it shall be invested this second section, or something similar, must be adopted, and I do not understand that there is any objection to authorizing these commissioners to invest this fund. There seems, however, to be some doubt about the way the interest arising from this fund will be used. Now, if there is any doubt upon this subject it would appear proper to amend this bill so as to provide in what way the interest arising from the fund should be appropriated.

But, Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that it is important that we should, in this bill, provide some means by which the fund shall be invested or we cannot realize the advantages of the act of Congress. I do not see any objection to the bill as reported. It provides that the fund shall be invested, and after it is invested the interest shall be paid to this board, and if the Legislature has determined how that interest shall be appropriated it will be appropriated as it has directed. But if the Legislature has not determined how it shall be appropriated, then they will reinvest it as fixed by the Legislature. I think, therefore, this bill as first reported will accomplish all that is intended.

Mr. WADELL. Mr. Speaker, I hope the House will excuse me for troubling them so often with this matter, but I desire that they should understand it thoroughly before we vote upon it. Now, the question has been asked by the gentleman from Cambria [Mr. LINTON] what will become of the interest arising from this fund after the land scrip has been sold under the provisions of the first section? Under the act of 1863 the interest arising from the sale under the provision of the first section will go to the Agricultural college, as has been suggested by the gentleman from Fayette [Mr. BOYLE] and myself. I desire to call the attention of the House to the fact that the act. The first section of the act of 1863 provides that the State of Pennsylvania will accept the donation from Congress of this land scrip. The second section provides "that the Surveyor General of the State of Pennsylvania is hereby authorized and required to do every act and thing necessary to entitle this State to its distributive share of land scrip, under the provisions of the said act of Congress, and when the said scrip is received by him, to dispose of the same, under such regulations as the board of commissioners, hereafter appointed by this act, shall prescribe."

The third section provides "that the Governor, the Auditor General, and the Surveyor General, are hereby constituted a board of commissioners, with full power and authority to make all needful rules and regulations respecting the manner in which the Surveyor General aforesaid shall dispose of the said land scrip, the investment of the proceeds thereof in the stocks of this State, and apply interest arising therefrom as herein directed, and in general do all and every act or acts necessary to carry into full effect the said act of Congress: Provided, That no investment shall be made in any other stocks than those of the United States or of this Commonwealth."

The fourth section provides: "That until otherwise ordered by the Legislature of Pennsylvania, the annual interest accruing from any investment of the funds acquired under the said act of Congress is hereby appropriated, and the said commissioners are directed to pay the same to the Agricultural college of Pennsylvania, for the endowment, support and maintenance of the said institution."

Now, sir, it was supposed that the board of commissioners thus constituted had full power to sell all the scrip and to appropriate the interest accruing from it to this college, but, in 1866 this Legislature passed an act providing for paying the expense of the sale and then this proviso, that not more than one-third of this land scrip donated to this State shall be sold under the provisions of this act. Therefore it restricts the sale of this land scrip by these commissioners under the act of 1863 to one-third of it. But, as that act said nothing about the proportion, of course, if they were only entitled to sell one-third they were only entitled to appropriate the interest arising from one-third. But, sir, if we go on and sell the remaining two-thirds, the first section of this act leads us irresistibly to the conclusion that, under the act of 1863, this Agricultural college would be entitled to all the interest arising from the proceeds of the sale of that two-thirds.

I only want the House to have a distinct understanding of this matter, and if it is then the wish of the House to pass it I am willing to vote for it. I do not want this question to pass with any subterfuge. I am not here for the college to snake it through in any underhanded manner, and they don't ask anything of the kind, if I understand the gentlemen interested in that institution.

Now, the only question that arises in my mind is as to our power to amend the interest as it accumulates, to this two-thirds of the principal, and thereby make a sinking fund of it as it were. I hope the gentleman from Potter [Mr. MANN] will examine the act of Congress on this point and give us his opinion on the subject. If, under the act of Congress, we have that power, I am in favor of having the second section remain just as it was reported from the committee.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, if I understand the question before the House it is to amend the second section of this bill that it will stand the same as when reported from the committee, or decidedly in favor of that amendment. As I read the act of Congress appropriating this land, it gives the authority which this section provides. Section fourth of the act of Congress of July 2, 1863, reads as follows:

And be it further enacted, That all moneys derived from the sale of the lands aforesaid by the State to which the lands are apportioned, and from the sales of land scrip, hereinafter provided for, shall be invested in stocks of the United States, or of the State, or some other stocks, yielding not less than five per centum upon the par value of said stocks, and that the money so invested shall constitute a perpetual fund, the capital of which shall remain forever undiminished (except so far as may be provided in section fifth of this act), and the interest of which shall be inviolably appropriated by each State, which may take and claim the benefit of this act, to the endowment, support and maintenance of at least one college, where the leading object shall be, without excluding other scientific and classical studies, and including military tactics, to teach such branches of learning as relate to agriculture and mechanic arts, in such manner as the Legislatures of the States may respectively prescribe, in order to promote the liberal and practical education of the industrial classes in the several pursuits and professions in life.

Mr. Speaker, you will observe that this section provides that the interest shall be appropriated to the endowment of at least one college. By an act of the Legislature of this State we have provided for the endowment of one college. We have made that provision. I hold that, under this act of Congress, we are at liberty to take the balance in hand for the endowment of that college and invest it as this second section provides. The act of Congress provides that the money arising from the proceeds of the sale of this land shall be invested. There is no discussion upon that point. Now, we have provided by the legislative act of 1863 and by the act of 1866 how much of that interest is needed for the endowment of one college. We have determined that, by the act of previous legislation. We have decided that the interest on one-third of the proceeds of this land scrip is sufficient for this purpose and the act of Congress does not require us to go any further. It requires us to endow at least one college for that purpose, and we have done so by appropriate legislation. This bill, as originally reported from the committee, simply provides, in addition to previous legislation, that the whole of this land scrip shall be sold, and that the surplus funds shall be invested in a proper way. We clearly have that power under the act of Congress, and there is no reason, that I can see, why we should not do so, for there is no other college at present endowed. The reason why this proviso was put into the act of 1866 was, that there were persons upon this floor saying that the time would come when this fund would warrant the endowment of other colleges, and if so, they ought to be endowed. The second section of this bill is simply in harmony with our previous legislation, that the superfluous fund shall be invested until it is wanted. The act of Congress giving us that power, I am in favor of restoring this second section as it was reported from the committee. It seems to me that the whole confusion we have been led into has grown out of an attempt to change this bill from its original language and construction. It was clear before, and our previous legislation was clear and consistent. In the act of 1863 we accepted this grant of Congress, and we legislated in harmony with it when we provided that the Auditor General, the State Treasurer, and the Governor, shall constitute a board of commissioners to sell this scrip and invest the proceeds according to act of Congress. But the act of 1863 made no provision for paying the expense of the sale, and the commissioners found they could not proceed. Hence the necessity of the act of 1866. We then imposed the restriction upon those commissioners that they should not sell more than one-third of it, and if it had not been for that restriction there would be no necessity for this bill. Under the present law they can sell only one-third of this land scrip, and it is depreciating in value every day. In 1862, when this donation was made, it might have been sold for one dollar and twenty-five cents per acre. Now it could not be sold for more than fifty cents per acre, and unless soon sold, it will still further depreciate in value. Emigration is going westward with great rapidity, and the farther we locate our lands westward, the less valuable will they be.

There is a little ambiguity in the motion before the House, which would like to have cleared up. I advocate this section as it was printed, and I think the addition of the words "or hereafter to be sold," will give to the Agricultural college the interest on the whole of this proposed investment. I, therefore, think those words should be stricken out of the proviso. They certainly ought not to be in there. They make it look as if we intended to give this Agricultural college the whole of the proceeds from the sale of this scrip. We do not intend anything of that kind. We intend to leave the legislation in reference to the college just as it stands at present. By striking out the words "or hereafter to be sold," it seems to me that it leaves it clear that this college shall have the interest of the proceeds of one-third of the land scrip and that two-thirds shall be invested under the provisions of this second section. I move to amend the amendment by striking out the words "or hereafter to be sold."

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, I believe that the act of Congress prescribes that the interest arising from this scrip shall be applied to a certain purpose, and it is doubtful in my mind whether we have the right to add this interest to the principal. The act of Congress prescribes the limit of five years in which the intention of the act shall be carried out; otherwise both the principal and the interest is to revert to the United States. However, I believe that the time was afterwards extended in favor of those States which had not accepted the provisions of the act. Now, the question arises whether, if we provide for the sale, as in the first section, we are not bound to provide a place where this interest shall go, in accordance with the provisions of the act of Congress? It seems to me that otherwise, we lose the benefit of the act, so far as the two-thirds are concerned. Of course we want the benefit of the whole amount. I am not certain about this matter, but I desire to call the attention of the House to it.

The question being on the amendment to the amendment, it was

Agreed to.

The amendment of Mr. LINTON was then adopted.

The question recurring on the section as amended, it was

Agreed to.

The section now reads as it was reported from the committee.

Section third was read as follows:

Sec. 3. That the Governor, Auditor General and Surveyor General, as a board of commissioners, shall direct the payment of expenses of disposing of the said land scrip out of any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated.

The question being on agreeing to the section, it was

Agreed to.

The bill was then agreed to.

The rules were suspended.

The bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

The House went into committee of the whole on bill No. 124, Mr. QUIGLEY in the Chair. The following is a copy of the bill:

AN ACT supplementary to an act for the regulation and continuance of a system of education by common schools, approved the eighth day of May, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and fifty-four.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That from and after the first Monday of June, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven, and every year thereafter, there shall be levied and assessed upon all real estate and personal property now made taxable for State or county purposes, in the several cities and counties of this Commonwealth, a tax of two mills upon the dollar of the assessed valuation of said property, and the amount thus raised shall be applied exclusively to defray the expense of instruction in the common schools of the Commonwealth.

Sec. 2. That the tax to be raised by the assessment of this act shall be levied, assessed and collected by the same officers, in the same manner, and be paid over to the county treasurer at the same time as is now provided for by law for the levying, assessing, collecting and paying over State and county taxes in the several cities and counties of the Commonwealth, and with like compensation.

Sec. 3. That it shall be the duty of the treasurer of the several counties of the State to pay over to the State Treasurer the tax provided for by the first section of this act, as fast as collected; and if the whole amount due from any county be not paid over before the second Tuesday of January in each year to the said treasurer, then, and in that case, the amount remaining unpaid, after deducting such commissions as are or shall be allowed by law for the collection of the same, shall be charged against said county on the books of the State Treasurer, and shall bear an interest of seven per centum until paid; and no payments shall be made to or in behalf of said county, under the various acts relating to common schools, until the said balances are fully paid and settled: Provided, That if any of the several collectors of the said county shall not have collected and paid into the county treasury the amount of said State tax due by said county, then, and in that case, the deficiency shall be paid out of any money in the treasury of said county, or which shall hereafter be first collected and paid into the same, whether on the duplicate for county or State tax: And provided further, That if it shall appear from the receipts of the county treasury that the said tax has been paid into the county treasury before the time specified in this act for the payment into the State Treasury, then, in that case, the county treasurer shall be personally liable to the respective counties for any interest which may accrue on such unpaid balance.

Sec. 4. That in the event of the commissioners of any city or county neglecting or refusing to comply with any requirements of this act, it shall be the duty of the Supreme Court, or the court of common pleas of said county, upon the application of the State Treasurer, whose duty it is hereby made to apply for the same, to award a writ of mandamus, requiring compliance therewith, and enforcing obedience thereto, in the manner provided for by existing laws.

Sec. 5. That the State Treasurer shall certify under his hand and seal of office to the Superintendent of Common Schools, on or before the first Tuesday of February in each year, the amount of school tax raised by the provision of the act, in the several cities and counties of the Commonwealth.

Sec. 6. That, in addition to the amount raised by the provisions of this act, there shall be appropriated annually, out of any money in the State Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of three hundred thousand dollars, which said sum shall also be applied exclusively to the payment of the cost of instruction in the common schools of this Commonwealth.

Sec. 7. That it shall be the duty of the assessors of the several townships, cities and boroughs of this Commonwealth, in addition to the duties now imposed upon them by law, to take the census of all the children actual residents in their respective townships, cities and boroughs, and in all independent districts embraced within the limits of said townships, between the ages of six and twenty-one years, and return the same, under oath or affirmation, to the commissioners of their respective districts, on or before the second Tuesday of January in each year, said census to be taken at the same time as the assessment.

Sec. 8. That it shall be the duty of the commissioners of each county to certify, under their hands and seals of office, the whole number of children actual residents of each district returned to them by the assessors, on or before the first Tuesday of February in each year, as provided for by the third section of this act, to the Superintendent of Common Schools: Provided, however, That if the commissioners of any county shall neglect to forward such certificate on or before the second Tuesday of March in any year, the superintendent may, in such case, adopt the number of children in the last preceding return: And provided further, That if any error shall occur in the certified return of the number of children, whereby a district shall receive more or less of the school fund than is justly due said district, the county commissioners shall have authority, and they are hereby required, immediately after such error being made known to them, to forward to the superintendent a correct certified return.

Sec. 9. The moneys raised by the State tax provided by the first section of this act, and the amounts annually to be appropriated out of the State Treasury, as provided in the sixth section of this act, to the several State school moneys which shall be divided and apportioned by the State Superintendent, on or before the second Tuesday of March in each year, as follows: One-half thereof shall be apportioned and distributed to the several school districts of the State according to the number of schools in said districts, taking first all the common schools of the Commonwealth as the basis of such apportionment and distribution, and the other half thereof shall be apportioned and distributed to the several school districts of the State, according to the whole number of children in said districts, taking first the whole number of children in the Commonwealth, as ascertained by the census provided in the seventh and eighth sections of this act, as the basis of such distribution.

Sec. 10. That the board of directors or controllers of townships, boroughs and cities (where the school property is vested in them agreeably to the provisions of the second section of the general school law approved May eight, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and fifty-four), may, once in each school year, levy and collect a tax not exceeding the amount of State aid in any county tax authorized by law to be assessed, to be applied solely to the purpose of purchasing or paying for ground and the erection of school buildings thereon, incidental expenses, which said tax shall be levied and collected in the same manner and with like authority as the regular annual tax for school purposes.

Sec. 11. That the school directors or controllers of any district shall annually, and by a majority of the members of the board, determine the amount of school tax which shall be levied for the school purposes in their district for the ensuing year, which shall, together with such additional funds as the district may be entitled to receive out of the money raised in accordance with the provisions of the first and sixth sections of this act, and from all other sources, be sufficient to keep the school of the district in operation not less than five nor more than ten months in the year.

Sec. 12. That as soon as the schools of any district shall have closed for the school year commencing on the first Monday of June preceding, the presidents of the boards of directors, or controllers, shall certify, under oath or affirmation, as to the whole number of months the schools in their respective districts have been kept open and in operation, according to law; also, that no teacher has been employed for, or had charge of any of the schools of said district, during the year, who had not a valid certificate from the county superintendent, together with the name and postoffice address of the district treasurer, and shall forward the same to the county superintendent, who shall immediately approve said certificate, if found to be correct, and transmit it to the State Superintendent of Common Schools; if it shall appear by said certificate that the schools of the district have been kept open and in operation, according to law, at least five months subsequent to the first Monday of June preceding, and that no teacher has had charge of any of the schools of the district during the whole time they have been kept open during the year, who had not a valid certificate from the county superintendent, the State Superintendent shall draw his warrant upon the State Treasurer for the whole amount which such district is entitled to receive from the annual State appropriation: Provided, That the board of directors or controllers shall, at the same time, forward to the county superintendent a report of the condition of the schools in their respective districts, as directed in the twenty-third section of the act of May eighth, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-four: And provided further, That said certificate and report shall have been transmitted to the Superintendent of Common Schools on or before the fifteenth day of July of the school year succeeding the one for which the certificate and report were made.

Sec. 13. That the following sections of the general school law are hereby repealed: the thirty-third, twenty-eighth and forty-eighth sections of the act entitled An act for the regulation and continuance of a system of education by common schools, approved the eighth day of May, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and fifty-four, and the first and third sections of an act supplementary to the said act, approved April seventeenth, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, together with all other acts, or parts of acts, supplied by or inconsistent with any of the provisions of this act.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I move to amend in the last line of the eleventh section, by striking out the word "five" and inserting the word "six," and in the thirteenth line of the twelfth section by striking out the word "five" and inserting the word "six."

The motion was agreed to.

The remainder of the bill was agreed to in committee of the whole.

The SPEAKER having resumed the chair,

Mr. QIGLEY, chairman of the committee of the whole, reported the bill with amendments.

The first section was read.

Mr. SHARPLES. Mr. Speaker, I move to amend in the eighth line, by striking out the words "the mills" and inserting the words "one mill."

On the question,
A division was taken, and the motion was not agreed to.

Mr. DONOHUGH. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following amendment to the section:

Provided, That the provisions of this section shall not apply to the city of Philadelphia.

Mr. QUAY. Mr. Speaker, I move to amend the amendment by including the county of Beaver.

The motion was not agreed to.

Mr. STEACY. Mr. Speaker, I move to include Lancaster county.

The motion was not agreed to.

Mr. BARRINGTON. Mr. Speaker, I move to include Northampton county.

The motion was not agreed to.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I move to include Berks county.

The motion was not agreed to.

Mr. THARP. Mr. Speaker, I move to include the county of Northumberland.

The motion was not agreed to.

Mr. KLINE. Mr. Speaker, I move to include the county of Lehigh.

The motion was not agreed to.

Mr. HEADMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move to include the county of Bucks.

The motion was not agreed to.

Mr. PENNYPACKER. Mr. Speaker, I do not see the necessity of making these motions at all. When we come to vote on the bill, we can vote it down. I do not think it is right to excuse counties. I think, however, Philadelphia should be excepted as it has a school system of its own. I am opposed to the whole bill, and I shall vote against the whole thing.

The question was on the motion of Mr. DONOHUGH.

Mr. LEE. The trust that House will see the propriety of passing this amendment, because we have an independent school system in Philadelphia. We support our own schools, and do it in a way to our satisfaction. And I ask the Legislature not to impose on that people an additional tax of two mills, when the tax now raised for school purposes, and the appropriation made by the city, is not absorbed for school purposes by thousands of dollars. This tax is all merged in a general fund; and I remember, when I was one of the board of control in Philadelphia, the entire State appropriation, and some twelve thousand dollars of the school fund, in addition, was used for other purposes than that for which it was collected. There would be no use in imposing upon Philadelphia this additional tax, nor would it be used for school purposes, unless you pass a bill requiring that it shall be done.

Mr. BARTON. Mr. Speaker, I move to indefinitely postpone the bill and the amendment.

Mr. MANN. I hope that the motion will not prevail. I have been so much engaged on committees that I have been unable to prepare for this discussion. In fact, I was under the impression it was not coming up this morning. But I look upon this motion, made by the gentleman from Delaware [Mr. BARTON], as the most important motion that has been made in this House during the present session. That motion strikes directly at the most important interest of this Commonwealth. The indefinite postponement of this bill will say to the people of Pennsylvania, that the Legislature is opposed to supporting a common school system, in harmony with the principles upon which this school system was based. When we originated this common school system, it was decided that we should tax all the property in a district for the education of the children in the district, no matter whether the men taxed had any children to send to school or not—no matter whether the property was owned by residents of the district or not. When we taxed all the property in a school district, for the education of the children of that district, we did it upon the principle that the property of the State ought to educate the children of the State; and, if that proposition be true, then all the property of the State ought to be taxed alike to educate the children therein. Until we act upon that principle, we are not acting in harmony with the principles upon which this system was based; and the proposition to tax all the property in a school district, to educate the children there, can be justified upon no other ground than that all the property of the State shall be taxed alike to educate its children. Under our present system, in the district in which I reside, we are obliged to pay a tax of twelve and one-half mills on the dollar, to educate the children of that district. In the district where the gentleman resides who made this motion [Mr. BARTON], property is obliged to pay only some three or four mills on the dollar, for the same purpose; and I say that that inequality cannot be justified upon any of the principles upon which the system of common schools is based. There is no justification for taxing the property of a man who does not send scholars, except upon the principle that all property should be taxed alike for the education of all children of the Commonwealth. It is unjust, a great hardship to go into a poor district where they have but a small amount of property, and compel them to keep their schools open four or five months and yet be obliged to levy a tax of from twelve to fifteen mills on the dollar, and, if they build school houses, twenty-five mills on the dollar; and then go into a wealthy district, and only require them to pay a tax of seven or eight mills on the dollar for the same purpose—and that is what our present system does!

The motion of the gentleman from Delaware [Mr. BARROW], is, to say to the people of Pennsylvania, that this state of things is to go on—this inequality is to continue—and that the poor districts of the State are to be taxed to the utmost of their ability to keep open the schools four months in the year; when, in the richer and more flourishing districts, they are able to keep the doors of their schools open ten months in a year. There are districts represented by many of the members here that are taxed twelve and one-half mills on every dollar of property, just to keep the schools open barely four months in the year, and in other places they are obliged to pay for their authority to levy and collect a tax of fifteen mills on the dollar, in order to keep their schools open long enough to be of any service; while in other districts they are taxed only three or four mills to keep their schools open ten months in the year. This is not in accordance with the principles on which this system was based. It is a direct violation of it, and of all the rules of equity and fairness. There is a large amount of property owned in all parts of the State, by persons who do not live there. How do you justify the levying of taxes upon the school purposes? I know a gentleman in Delaware county, owning thousands of dollars worth of land in the county of Potter, and who is obliged to pay from twelve and one-half to twenty-five mills on every dollar of that property to support the schools, and build schoolhouses, although he is a non-resident of that district, and sends no children to the schools there. I ask upon what principle he is taxed there for school purposes? I answer that it is upon the principle that the property of the State ought to support the schools of the State. But why do single schools on a certain district and say that they shall pay four times that which other districts do to sustain schools for the same length of time, it cannot be justified. Because certain districts are more wealthy and more thickly populated than others, is it any reason why we should depart from this principle of taxation in their favor? Take the districts of the same county. Is there any reason why a district in one part of the county shall keep its schools open ten months in the year on property that keeps a school open in a more thinly populated district four months in the year? Can that be justified? But our system, as at present organized, does do that, and the motion of the gentleman from Delaware, if it prevails, is as much as to say to the people of this State that this state of things is to continue. I hope the motion will not prevail.

Not expecting this discussion would come up this morning, I am unprepared to discuss this matter as it ought to be. I hope other gentlemen are prepared and that this motion will not be put until there is a full ventilation of this question.

Mr. SHARPLES. Mr. Speaker, I fully agree that all the property of the State ought to be taxed alike for school purposes, and for that reason I am opposed to this bill. It provides for taxation in many counties in this State without their receiving a compensating benefit. Our people in Chester county are willing to assist in educating the children of the State, but they are very desirous that their schools shall not be crippled by any legislation here. We are heavily taxed now

This bill proposes to tax Chester county some forty-eight thousand dollars, which would not be wrong, provided that the system was a fair and equal one throughout the State. You will find in looking over the bill that some of the provisions of the bill are very objectionable. It is the disposition of the fund that I object to particularly. I am not speaking so much of the first section, but of the bill generally. The disposition of the fund giving one-half of it to the schools, according to the number in the district, will appropriate it very unfairly indeed. In the county of Mercer there are two hundred and twenty-nine schools, and they would receive some thirteen thousand dollars, and the county of Montgomery, with two hundred and twenty-six schools, will receive some twelve thousand dollars. Now, the county of Montgomery will be called upon to pay, under the provisions of this bill, a tax of nearly forty thousand dollars, while the county of Mercer will be called upon to pay about ten thousand dollars, and about one-third as much, while, by distributing the funds alike—this is the provision of this bill, the county of Montgomery will receive less than the county of Mercer. So with counties in a few other instances. The county of Armstrong, with two hundred and sixteen schools, will receive twelve thousand dollars, and the county of Franklin, with two hundred and twenty-eight schools, will receive some eleven thousand dollars, while the county of Armstrong will pay into the fund about six thousand dollars, and the county of Franklin will pay nearly ten thousand dollars. And this inequality runs through the whole affair—this unequal distribution of the funds. If the gentlemen favoring this bill had accepted the amendment of one mill instead of two, I might have favored it. I am in favor of increasing the appropriations to the common schools of the Commonwealth to six hundred thousand dollars—of doubling the State appropriation. But I am not in favor of this unequal way of assessing and distributing the funds. We are already heavily taxed in Chester county, but the fund distributed to us through the provisions of this bill would the time they are new. It is a bill that would operate against the prosperity of our schools. The people will, of course, complain at this extra taxation, and it would result in a reduction of the number of the months the schools are kept open during the year. While we do not desire to cripple the schools in the districts sparsely settled, we do desire that the schools now in a prosperous condition shall not be injuriously affected by any kind of legislation. But if this bill is to pass in this shape, such will be the result.

Mr. KOON. Mr. Speaker, I am not in favor of this bill. I think it will complicate the school system without any compensating advantages. I see no reason for the bill, and I think it may work great injury. Now, if the representatives of Philadelphia do not want the bill to apply to their city, I call upon them to vote down the entire bill. I am satisfied that the bill will operate injuriously. This constant tinkering with the school law I deprecate. There was an effort made last year to meddle with the school law, and I am opposed to these persistent attempts to make changes.

Mr. KIMMELL. Mr. Speaker, I understand the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. LEE] to say that Philadelphia is an independent school district. I simply desire to ask him the question whether Philadelphia does not receive her proportion of the State appropriation in the same manner, in proportion to the number of children in that city, as do the other counties in this State?

Mr. LEE. It does; but that does not affect the question now under consideration. We are an independent school district, and we have the government and management of our schools under the auspices of a board of control that make an appropriation for school purposes out of the fund we collect from our people by taxation. Our city has nothing to do with this tax as contemplated in this bill.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Mr. Speaker, I hope the pending amendment to except Philadelphia will not be adopted. If there is anything in the argument that has been advanced in favor of this bill it certainly applies with greater force to Philadelphia than to any other part of the State. I cannot see the force of the argument of the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. LEE] that because they are a separate district, and are willing to sustain their own schools, that they should be exempted from the operations of this law.—There are probably other counties that would be affected injuriously by this bill, and would like to claim the same privilege. We, of Montgomery, are willing to sustain our own schools if the State will let us. But we demand such a bill as I trust will not be granted in this case to Philadelphia. If the gentlemen from Philadelphia are opposed to the bill let them vote with us and vote the entire bill down.

Mr. DEISE. Mr. Speaker, I regard this as one of the most important bills to be presented to this body this session. The subject of education is one of importance to every man in this Commonwealth. I regret very much to find any disposition here on the part of members representing particular localities to come to the conclusion that they are the special representatives of the locality, and that they are not here representing the interests of the whole State. I find that very early in the history of this Commonwealth the subject of education received particular attention from eminent statesmen. In fact, one of the earliest provisions adopted in our Constitution is so much to the point that I commend it to the special attention of the Legislature.

Article 7, section 1, reads: "The Legislature shall, as soon as conveniently may be, provide by law for the establishment of schools throughout the State in such manner that the poor may be taught gratis."

They are not here designated as the poor of special counties, but of the State at large. But, if it was the intention of the framers of the Constitution, and the men who had the subject of education in charge then, that the poor of the State should be taught gratis, I hold that we, as representatives of the people, and as their successors, are in duty bound to legislate upon this subject in reference to all the children of the State, I agree with the gentleman from Potter [Mr. MAX], that as there is great inequality upon this subject of education. In some of the districts of Pennsylvania, the schools are kept open for but four months in the year, while in others they are kept open ten months. In the cities and towns of the State, and especially in the city of Philadelphia, schools equalling colleges, are kept open for a period of ten months for the same rate of taxation as where they have only four months schooling. Is this right? Is it just? I hold that our duty is to educate the poor of the State. They are not the poor of any particular locality, but the poor of the State. Why should not the poor boy, living in a remote county, receive an education at the hands of the State? Why appropriate to colleges large sums of money, while the poor of many counties have but four months schooling under the common school system of Pennsylvania? I admit that this bill strikes Chester county very severely—that forty-eight (housand dollars is a very large sum, but they are able to pay it, and they are just forty-eight thousand dollars better off than some other counties; yet the poor in the interior have to be content with four months' school. In my county, I am taxed fourteen mills on the dollar, while in some other counties the tax is but three mills; yet my boy is entitled to the same privileges as others. I ask that we should act as a body of men representing the State, and not as representing particular districts. Let us have a school system that will operate equally over the entire State. Where the property is valuable, let it be taxed at the same rate as where it is of less value. I will support this bill, or any other bill, that is fair and just to the educational interests of this State. Therefore, I think the gentleman from Delaware [Mr. BARROX] should not insist upon his motion to indefinitely postpone this bill.

Mr. KINNEY. Mr. Speaker, this bill was reported last winter by a special committee appointed by the two Houses for the purpose of preparing a bill to better regulate and maintain the common school system. It received a great deal of care and attention from that committee. They had before them the school laws of the various States and from those they compiled this bill. It met with the approbation of the committee, and is taking another step in the direction of the policy advocated by Thaddeus Stevens, Thomas H. Burrows, Andrew G. Curtin, and others, that the property of this Commonwealth should educate its children. You recollect, sir, that many years ago a plan was devised for the education of the children of this Commonwealth, and they were educated as poor children. The plan did not work well, and these men introduced this system. I have no doubt that it works hard in some of the rich districts, but they should either throw the plan overboard or take it as a whole. In our county, we, perhaps, have to pay a little for new counties, and we are willing to do it. We believe that the education of the children of the Commonwealth adds very much in sustaining the established institutions of our country, and for that and other reasons we are in favor of this bill.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, it strikes me that there are many gentlemen in this House who are not exactly prepared to vote for this bill nor to postpone it indefinitely. Now, if in order, I would move to amend the motion of the gentleman from Delaware, and make the further consideration of this bill the special order for Wednesday next.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware withdraw his motion to indefinitely postpone, in order to allow the gentleman from Allegheny to move to postpone the further consideration of the bill until Wednesday next?

Mr. BARTON. I am not willing, regarding the bill in the light which I take it to do. Mr. M'CAMANT. Mr. Speaker, I hope the good sense of this House will vote down the motion. There are many here who have not had an opportunity to look at this bill—I for one have not. Therefore, I think, that it is not asking too much that we should have a week's time to consider this bill.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, as has been stated by gentlemen who have spoken upon this subject it is one of vast importance—not to any particular locality alone in the State, but to the State generally. It is important to the interests of the poorer classes especially. So far as I am concerned, I am disposed to do anything that is fair. I have listened with much attention to the remarks of the gentlemen who represent the counties that will probably be burdened a little by this bill. And with those gentlemen I am disposed to reason and grant them what would be just to their constituents. But I think the motion to indefinitely postpone is unjust and improper. We are all aware that something of the kind is necessary. We are all aware that it is but just that the wealthy portions of this Commonwealth should have some feeling of sympathy for the poorer classes. It is to the benefit of Philadelphia that the wilds of Pennsylvania should be built up, that the children of the State, instead of growing up in ignorance, should become intelligent men and add to the tributary powers throughout the State that are to the benefit of Philadelphia.

The gentleman who asks that Philadelphia shall be excepted from the operations of this bill says that they have a school system of their own, but he does not indicate that they are not willing to accept a portion of the State appropriation that they accept very cheerfully. If any exception is made in their case, let them also be excepted from the State appropriation. Let the poorer counties have it.

Now, I say I am willing to do anything that seems just to all parts of the State. But, sir, the gentleman ought not now to insist upon his motion to postpone this matter indefinitely. Let us have an opportunity to come to a fair and just conclusion as to its merits. I think the proposition for liberality is more than just to turn the motion to indefinitely postpone will not prevail.

Mr. BARTON. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw the motion to postpone indefinitely.

On motion of Mr. WILSON, the further consideration of the bill was postponed until next Wednesday afternoon.

The House went into the committee of the whole, Mr. CHASE in the chair, on House bill No. 129.

The bill reads as follows:

AN ACT to increase the efficiency of the common school system, and to foster schools for the education of teachers.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That hereafter there shall be levied and collected a State tax of one mill upon the dollar of all property taxable for county purposes, to be collected and paid into the Treasury of the State under the same regulations as State taxes have heretofore been collected.

SEC. 2. The money paid into the State Treasury under the provisions of the first section of this act, shall be set apart for the benefit of the common schools, one-half of which shall be distributed equally among the several schools of the State, and the balance as the annual State appropriation for common schools is now by law distributed.

SEC. 3. There shall be paid semi-annually, at such times as the State Superintendent of Common Schools shall determine, to the treasurer of the trustees of the several academies of the State, that shall comply with the requirements of this act, the sum of two hundred dollars: Provided, There are not more than two academies in one county; where there are more than two there shall be appropriated to the academies of such county, the sum of eight hundred dollars a year, to be divided equally between them.

SEC. 4. Before receiving the semi-annual appropriation hereby made, the principals of each academy shall make report, under oath, to the superintendent, stating the number of weeks the school under his charge was kept open, the number of scholars in attendance each day, the branches taught, and the number of those over seventeen years of age who have made a written pledge in such form as the superintendent may prescribe, that such student intends to teach in the common schools of the State, and unless ten such students have attended for a term of at least twelve weeks previous to the date of the report, no appropriation shall be paid to such school.

SEC. 5. If there is no academy in any county, or not more than one, then, in that case, the appropriation made to academies by this act shall be made to graded schools, under the same regulations and to the same amount as provided in sections three and four; and if there is one academy and one or more graded schools in any county, in such case the sum of eight hundred dollars shall be divided equally between such schools.

SEC. 6. That each of the common schools, before being entitled to any part of the State appropriation, shall be kept open six months, instead of four, as heretofore required.

SEC. 7. The appropriation to common schools hereby made, is not to be in lieu of, but an addition to the annual appropriation heretofore made.

The bill was read by sections, and the third, fourth and fifth sections were

Not agreed to.

After some time the SPEAKER resumed the chair, and

Mr. CHASE, chairman of the committee of the whole, reported the bill with amendments.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of the bill be postponed until next Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and that it be made the special order for that hour.

The motion was

Agreed to.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House proceed to the consideration of Senate bill No. 110.

The motion was

Agreed to.

On motion of Mr. WADDELL, the House dispensed with going into committee of the whole.

The bill was read as follows:

AN ACT to create a loan for the redemption of the over due bonds of the Commonwealth.

WHEREAS, The bonds of the Commonwealth, and certain certificates of indebtedness, amounting to twenty-three millions of dollars ($23,000,000), have been over due and unpaid for some time past;

And whereas, It is desirable that the same should be paid and withdrawn from the market; therefore,

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the State Treasurer be and is hereby authorized and empowered to borrow, on the faith of the Commonwealth, in such amounts, and with such notice (not less than forty days), as he may deem most expedient for the interest of the State, twenty-three millions of dollars, and issue certificates of loan or bonds of the Commonwealth for the same, bearing interest at the rate of six per centum per annum, payable semi-annually on the first of February and first of August, in the city of Philadelphia, which certificates of loan or bonds shall not be subject to taxation for any purpose whatever, and shall be payable as follows, namely: five million of dollars ($5,000,000) payable at any time after five years, and within ten years; eight million of dollars ($8,000,000) payable at any time after ten years, and within fifteen years; and ten million of dollars ($10,000,000) at any time after fifteen years, and within twenty-five years; and shall be signed by the Governor and State Treasurer, and countersigned by the Auditor General, and registered in the books of the Auditor General; and to be transferable on the books of the Commonwealth at the Farmers' and Mechanics' National Bank of Philadelphia, the proceeds of the whole of which loan, including premiums, and etera, received on the same, shall be applied to the payment of the bonds and certificates of indebtedness of the Commonwealth.

Sec. 2. The bids for the said loan shall be opened in the presence of the Auditor General, Secretary of the Commonwealth, and State Treasurer, and awarded to the highest bidder: Provided, That no certificate hereby authorized to be issued shall be negotiated for less than its par value.

Sec. 3. The bonds of the State now over due shall be receivable in payment of the said loan, under such regulations as the State Treasurer may prescribe; and every bidder for the loan now authorized to be issued shall state in his bid whether the same is payable in cash or in the bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the Commonwealth.

Sec. 4. That all trustees, administrators, guardians, agents, treasurers, committees or other persons holding, in a fiduciary capacity, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the State, or moneys, are hereby authorized to bid for the loan hereby authorized to be issued, and to surrender the bonds or certificate of loan held by them at the time of making such bid and to receive the bonds authorized to be issued by this act.

Sec. 5. Any person standing in the fiduciary capacity stated in the fourth section of this act who may desire to invest money in their hands for the benefit of the trust may, without any order of court, invest the same in the bonds authorized to be issued by this act at a rate of premium not exceeding twenty per centum.

Sec. 6. That from and after the passage of this act all the bonds of this Commonwealth shall be paid off in the order of their maturity.

Sec. 7. That all existing laws or portions thereof inconsistent herewith, are hereby repealed.

PETITIONS, REMONSTRANCES, & C.

Mr. FISHER presented the petition of members of the bar of Lancaster county, asking for a law to allow parties to suits to testify.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary General.

Also, the petition of citizens of Lancaster county, for the rebuilding of the Columbia bridge.

Referred to the Committee on Roads and Bridges.

Also, the petition of citizens of the borough of York, asking for a change in the manner of drawing jurors.

The petition was read as follows:

YORK, Penna., January 30, 1867.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

The undersigned citizens of York county, most respectfully represent: That the manner in which justice in this county is administered demands a reform; that the men selected to serve as jurors are almost exclusively of one political party—all being Democrats; that offenses committed by Democrats are lightly punished or altogether ignored; that in order to have any chance of success, in any pending case, it is necessary to employ Democratic counsel; that a few years since—1863, we think—a colored man was murdered near Nellsville, in this county, and buried by his murderers in a swamp. The coroner had the body exhumed, and a inquest held, and it was clearly established, that the man had been murdered and the men who perpetrated the dark crime were known and identified, but the grand jury of this county have, thus far, failed to have any of these parties indicted.

That last August, the train containing the Governor of the Commonwealth and other distinguished persons, and a large number of ladies and children, when leaving the York depot, was fired into by men, some of whom were acting as special policemen. Some thirty witnesses came forward, before the grand jury, and swore to this fact, and yet the grand inquest have thus far refused to find a bill of indictment against the parties guilty of this outrage. For these and other substantial and truthful reasons, we desire such legislation from your honorable bodies as will afford us protection and security, and as in duty bound we will ever pray.

Mr. GLATZ, the petition of citizens of York, in reference to the rebuilding of the Columbia bridge.

Referred to the Committee on Roads and Bridges.

Mr. BROWNE (Lawrence), the memorial of citizens of Philadelphia, against legalizing Sabbath car travel.

Referred to the Committee on Vice and Immorality.

Mr. M'CONAUGHY, the petition of citizens of Gettysburg, in Adams county, praying for legislation, to require the rebuilding of the bridge at Columbia.

Referred to the Committee on Roads and Bridges.

Mr. TAYLOR, the remonstrance from citizens of Beaver county, against the passage of a law prohibiting the use of crude petroleum for illuminating purposes.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary General.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES.

Mr. CONNELL, from the Committee on Finance, reported as committed, a bill entitled An act granting to the city of Erie the title of the Commonwealth to certain lands in and adjoining the harbor of Erie.

Also (same), with amendments, a bill entitled An act to incorporate the Marine Hospital of Pennsylvania.

He also submitted the accompanying report:

In connection with the bill now reported by the Finance Committee, viz: An act to incorporate the Marine Hospital of Pennsylvania, the committee beg leave to add, that the State owns about three hundred acres of land within the corporate limits of the city of Erie, portions of it being under water, and including the beach along the bay.

That at the last session of the Legislature a bill was passed by both branches of the Legislature and sent to the Governor, by which the title of this land was vested in a corporation chartered to establish a hospital at Erie, the whole property being donated by the bill for that purpose, and stipulating that the part of the ground not occupied by hospital buildings should be reserved and used as a public park.

After the passage of the bill and while it was in the hands of the Governor, the city authorities of Erie objected to its becoming a law and at the close of the last session of the Legislature on motion of the Senator from Erie (Mr. LOWRY), the bill was recalled from the Governor's hands.

The councils of the city of Erie now ask that this property shall not be vested in them, with the offer on their part to appropriate one-half of the proceeds of certain lots of ground which they propose to sell out of the estate for hospital purposes.

The committee cannot see the force of the objections to the bill of last year, by which the land was specifically donated for hospital purposes, to which use they think it should be applied; in preference to placing it at the disposal of the corporate authorities of Erie, by whom it might be divested from the philanthropic object to which the last Legislature saw fit to apply it.

A large part of the ground not used or occupied by the hospital buildings is required, by the bill, to be preserved for the purpose of a park, and when the growing city of Erie shall have attained the dimensions of a great commercial emporium to which her position on the lakes, her railroad facilities and her annually increasing trade are rapidly and surely carrying her, the wisdom of this provision will be clearly manifest. The great cities of the seaboard have recently purchased, at enormous cost, extensive grounds for public parks, which, if secured at an early day, might have been had for a mere trifle.

The inhabitants of Erie, one or two generations hence, will bless the legislation which gave their city a property now, indeed, of but little value to the State, but which then will have become a magnificent and attractive addition to that place.

It is eminently proper that the State should donate what is of but little nominal value to her for a charitable and noble use; but the policy of bestowing on cities what may be diverted from such purposes and made a matter of individual benefit is not so clear and, to say the least, is doubtful.

The committee therefore recommend the passage of the act incorporating the Marine Hospital of Pennsylvania, which act, they believe, is best calculated to secure the establishment and support of a hospital in Erie, where, there being none of any character, they are confident such an institution will be found to be of great utility to the unfortunate, and of benefit to the city at large.

RECOMMITTAL OF BILLS.

On motion of Mr. BROWNE (Lawrence), bill No. 105, entitled An act to prevent excessive valuation of farming, grazing and out-laying lots and lands within the limits of boroughs in this Commonwealth, was recommended to the Committee on the Judiciary General.

BILL OF THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order, the Senate resumed the third reading and consideration of bill No. 105, a supplement to an act regulating the laying out and opening of public roads in the Commonwealth, approved June 12th, 1866.

The bill was read as follows:

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the supervisor of roads of any township in this Commonwealth, is hereby authorized to contract with the owner or occupant of any land through or by which any public road is located, to open or repair the same whenever the owner or occupant so desires.

Sec. 2. That said contract shall be in writing, one copy of which shall be filed with the township auditors and another with the clerk of the court of quarter sessions of the county in which the parties reside; and when the work in pursuance of said contract is done in accordance with the conditions of the same, the supervisor shall issue to said owner or occupant, a certificate acting forth the value of the work done, which shall be received in payment of taxes for road purposes assessed on the lands of said owner or occupant, in that township, and shall be paid no other way; such supervisor and his successor is hereby required to enter on the back of said certificate the amount of taxes for each year assessed as aforesaid, until said certificate shall be fully paid and satisfied; and the supervisor making the entry aforesaid, shall report to the township auditors the amount actually allowed as aforesaid.

MR. MCCONAUGHY: Mr. Speaker, the general purpose of that act may be good, but the wording of it is very imperfect; it is not correctly drawn. I think it is of very doubtful propriety, and that the existing law is better. I shall therefore vote against it.

MR. WHITE: Mr. Speaker, this is a matter of general interest, as it proposes a very radical change. The object of the bill is to —to enable the owner of real estate to make a contract with the supervisor of the different townships to contract and keep in repair roads going through his premises; that seems perfectly fair and proper. For instance, a man owns a farm of a thousand acres out in some of the new counties, or in a part of some of the old counties; a road is laid out through that farm, and the funds of the township do not justify the supervisor in laying out money to keep it in proper condition. This act authorizes the supervisor to make a contract with the owner to open that road and keep it in proper condition, not paying any money therefor, before giving the owner or occupant thus agreeing a certificate of the amount which he is to receive.

This is the purport of this bill. The idea commends itself to my approbation. If there is any verbiage which my friend, the Senator from Adams [Mr. M'CONAUGHY], objects to, I would be glad to have him suggest an amendment; but the idea commends itself to my judgment. I may say, furthermore, that it was submitted to me by the managers of the State Agricultural society, this month, in this city; it was submitted to them, and was carefully and fully canvassed and discussed, and was entered upon their minutes; and I find attached to the bill, as handed to me, a certificate from the recording secretary of the State Agricultural society, as follows:

"JANUARY, 16, 1867.

"I hereby certify the foregoing to be a true extract from the journal of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural society.

"A. B. LONGAKER, Recording Secretary."

Then follows this report made to the Agricultural society.

"The condition of the public roads of Pennsylvania is generally admitted to be very bad. It is undoubtedly owing to the system of repairing them. To change this system at once would not be popular, and yet a very large proportion of the public desire any change which would result in good roads.

The act submitted herewith, which is proposed as a supplement to existing road laws, simply gives to any person who may choose to do so the privilege of repairing roads through his own lands without changing existing laws, without interfering with existing usages and prejudices, and without subjecting the townships to any debt; and to the extent to which work would be done in pursuance of this amendment would unquestionably benefit the public. In view of these considerations we recommend the immediate adoption of the amended act as a supplement to existing laws.

G. RHEY,
D. O. GEHR,
A. W. CUMMINGS.

HARRISBURG, January 16, 1867.

Those gentlemen, as a committee from the State Agricultural society, called on me, and I had a conversation with them. They convinced me of the propriety of this bill, and I trust it will become a law.

Mr. M'CONAUGHY. Mr. Speaker, the reasons presented by the Senator from Indiana have not overruled the views which I have in regard to the proposed change in the law. The law, as it exists, has been on the statute book for many years, and I think has worked efficiently, and has conferred upon supervisors the proper discretion in the matter. The purpose of this bill seems to be special, and the question is whether public policy, public interest, would be promoted by it. The first section provides:

"That the supervisor of roads of any township in this Commonwealth, is hereby authorized to contract with the owner or occupant of any land through or by which any public road is located, to open or repair the same whenever said owner or occupant so desires."

It seems to me that the discretion here allowed is not for the public interest, and that the object of the law seems to be to enable special contracts to be made with the owners of real estate, through whose land the road is to be constructed; the supervisor has the discretion of contracting for the opening of the road; that would enable special contracts to be made with land owners through whose premises roads are to be laid out, and the exercise of it might operate to obstruct the opening of roads. Suppose it is desired to lay out a road through certain property, and the owner of the property desires to obstruct its completion; he enters into a contract with the supervisor—a contract lamely made—so that for months and years the owner may delay the opening of the road, and the contract is authorized by act of Assembly. Instead of working to the public benefit, and to the interests of the public in facilitating travel, it will operate most likely for the benefit of a particular landholder. Being susceptible of that abuse, what are the advantages to be gained? I can see none. I can see no good fit it by to the public. It seems to have a special reference to particular individuals; and, in my judgment, legislation for the few is narrow, contracted and impolitic.

Mr. BROWN (Mercer). Mr. Speaker, when this bill was up yesterday I objected to its final passage, not because I have objections to its general provisions, but it is not so worded as to be applicable to many counties in the State. It seems to presume that there is but one supervisor in each township. Now, I am not aware how it is in Indiana county, or the counties which the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. WHITE] represents, but in my own county I know there are two or three supervisors in each township. In order to make it apply to that county, and others in a similar situation, I ask the unanimous consent of the Senate to amend the bill.

Unanimous consent was given to amend the bill by striking out the words "supervisor is," wherever they occurred, and inserting in lieu thereof the words "supervisors are."

Mr. COWLES. Mr. Speaker, before this bill is passed, I wish to move to go into committee of the whole for the purpose of amending it. There is an objection to it which I cannot permit to apply to my district. In the second section it authorizes a corrupt or incompetent supervisor to anticipate the tax for ten or twenty years ahead, and take away the entire resources of the township. I cannot put the resources and taxation of that district at the mercy of any one supervisor. I therefore move to go into committee of the whole for special amendment, to except the counties of Potter, Tioga, McKean and Clinton from the operations of this bill.

Mr. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, I think the bill ought to be voted down, for the reasons given by the Senator from McKean [Mr. COWLES]. It is an improper change. It will enable a wealthy individual to have a good road made through his farm, and after he gets his farm, you may get into a mud hole. The present laws operate well, and we would better let them be as they are. I also desire that the counties I represent shall be excepted from the operations of the bill.

Mr. BURNETT. Mr. Speaker, I would also ask that my counties be excepted, for this reason: To the objections that have already been urged by Senators against it, I have one remark to add. It has been said by the Senator from Adams [Mr. M'CONAUGHY] very truly, that the supervisors have authority to contract for the opening of roads, but this privilege, not for the opening of roads, but for the repair of roads. Under a law existing in this State for thirty-one years, as Senators very well know, all persons against whom road assessments are made have the privilege of working out their road taxes, and others will not have that opportunity afforded them. It seems to me the practical operation of this bill will be to make an unjust discrimination against certain portions of the citizens of each township in this State. I shall therefore oppose the bill. But I beg leave to add the counties of my Senatorial district to those excepted.

Messrs. WORTHINGTON and JAMES also desired to have their districts excepted.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Speaker, there seems to be a general onslaught upon this bill, which comes with the sanction of the State Agricultural society. I do not think it is obnoxious as some Senators allege. The objections are made that it may give rich men an advantage over a poor man; if I thought so, I would not urge its passage here. But it commended itself in every shape and form to my judgment. The objection is made that a man may make a contract with a supervisor and then neglect to open and repair the roads for years. Why, sir, we must trust the public sentiment to some extent. No supervisor will attempt to outrage the sense of the community by making a contract of that kind; we must trust something to the men. Now, I do not want this matter hastily disposed of. There are one or two amendments suggested, and for the purpose of giving Senators an opportunity to arrange them, I move that it be referred to the Committee on Agricultural and Domestic Manufactures.

The motion was agreed to, and the bill was so referred.

EXCLUSION OF COLORED PERSONS FROM PASSENGER CARS.

Mr. LOWRY moved that the Senate proceed to the consideration of bill entitled An act to punish by fine any railroad corporation within this Commonwealth, that shall exclude or allow to be excluded by their agents, conductors or employees, from any of their passenger cars, any person or persons on account of color or race.

In committee of the whole (Mr. GRAHAM in the chair), the bill was read and reported with amendments.

Mr. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of the bill be postponed for the present, and that it be printed. We cannot amend it now, as it is not printed.

Mr. LOWRY. I trust the bill will go to a third reading; it will not be pressed further than that.

Mr. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, the Senator knows very well that we cannot amend the bill until we know what its provisions are.

Mr. LOWRY. Mr. Speaker, I have no objection to having it printed. We will let it go over, after being read a second time, and have it printed. Gentlemen all understand what it is.

Mr. WALLACE. The Senator knows very well, that after passing a second reading it is not in condition to be amended. We propose, at the proper stage of the bill, that we are entitled to offer amendments; that is a parliamentary right, and we ask that it be printed. We should have an opportunity to express our sentiments on this side. It is certainly right that this bill should be printed, so that we can see what its provisions are.

Mr. BROWNE (Lawrence). I think that is the most desirable mode of proceeding with this bill.

Mr. WALLACE. My motion is that it be postponed and printed, and made the special order for Tuesday next.

The motion was Agreed to.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

FRIDAY, February 1, 1867.

The House met at 10 o'clock, A. M.

The SPEAKER announced a quorum of members present.

The Journal of yesterday was read, and, there being no objections, was approved.

The SPEAKER. The first thing in order is the consideration of House bill No. 104, entitled An act to repeal the act of 20th of March, A. D. 1866, to provide for the payment of gratuities and annuities to the soldiers of the war of 1812, and to their widows.

The question is on the bill.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, there is a desire on the part of a number of gentlemen that the consideration of this bill should be postponed for the present for the purpose of maturing a substitute. I presume that will be satisfactory to all the members, and I therefore move that the further consideration of this bill be postponed until a week from next Wednesday, at 3 o'clock, P. M., and that it be made the special order for that time.

The motion was

Agreed to.

Mr. WELLER. Mr. Speaker, I read in my place and present to the Chair the following petition, which I desire to have read.

The petition was read by the Clerk as follows:

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania :

The memorial of the undersigned citizens of Somerset county, laboring under great inconvenience for want of railroad facilities through said county, and believing that they are now at the mercy of corporations which have the power to make roads, but lack either the will or means, humbly pray your honorable body to enact a free railroad law, so as to enable any man or set of men, under proper restrictions, and with ample powers to build railroads where the wants of the community may justify.

And they will pray, &c.
Signed by William Hanna and sixty-one others.

Mr. DEISE. Mr. Speaker, I read in my place and present to the Chair the following petition, which I desire to have read.

The petition was read as follows :

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania :

WHEREAS, During the month of December, 1866, an act passed both Houses of Congress, granting to the African race the right of suffrage in the District of Columbia, at the same time excluding from that privilege all emigrants who have not resided five years in the country and become naturalized, and thus depriving them of that manhood suffrage so highly prized by our loyal Congress;

And whereas, We believe Caucasian emigrants, whose intellect, industry and wealth have contributed so much to the unparalleled progress of this country, are quite as capable of governing themselves, and as deserving of political privileges, as a people just emerged from a debasing slavery;

And whereas, By its legislation, Congress has sufficiently determined that the color of a man should not disqualify or disturb his political status, and white men are not, for that reason, incompetent to discharge the duties of citizenship; your petitioners, naturalized citizens and emigrants who have declared their intention to become citizens of the United States, and residing in Clinton county, Pennsylvania, very respectfully petition your honorable body to instruct our Senators and request our members of Congress to so amend the negro suffrage act above mentioned as to put all white men who are citizens, or who have declared their intention to become citizens, and residents in the District of Columbia, upon an equal footing with the negroes, and to extend to them the same privileges enjoyed by negroes. And your petitioners will ever pray, &c.

Signed by Oliver Donaldson, and four hundred and ten others.

Mr. ROATH. Mr. Speaker, I present to the Chair, the following memorial which I desire to have read.

The memorial was read as follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assemblymet :

The petition of the undersigned would respectfully represent, that his aunt, Veronica Gable, late of the township of Manchester, county of York, died in the year 1857, leaving a will in which she appointed him one of the executors of her estate; that the will was proven on the 14th day of October of the same year, and letters testamentary granted to your petitioner by the register of the county aforesaid; that in pursuance of said trust, he commenced the discharge of his duties, and as he resided some twenty miles distant from the property, incurred heavy expenses in settling the same; that on the 31st day of August, 1861, the letters granted to your petitioner were vacated, and he was ordered to pay over the amount in his hands of the estate of the said Veronica Gable, deceased; that not being able to do so, having sustained losses in various ways to a large sum or sums, at the January sessions of the court, 1862, a bill of indictment was found against your petitioner for embezzling the moneys in his hands belonging to said estate; that at the April sessions of the court, the said bill was tried and your petitioner convicted and sentenced to pay a fine of one thousand dollars, and moreover to undergo an imprisonment in the jail of York county for a period of two years, and costs of prosecution; that said term of imprisonment has long since expired, the fine has been remitted by the Governor of the Commonwealth and the county commissioners are ready and willing to release the costs. But your dependent and petitioner would aver that notwithstanding, he is still held in confinement and detained in prison by the orphans' court of the county of York, for an alleged contempt in not paying over the sum stated to be in his hands, and has been so held detained since the expiration of the term of his imprisonment for an additional period of three years, for the contempt aforesaid. Your petitioner would aver that it ever was his design to commit any contempt of court; that he has no portion of the estate of the said Veronica Gable in his hands, and that he is entirely unable to pay the same at present, and that he certainly never can pay the same or any portion thereof while kept in confinement; that of the moneys which came into his hands of the estate of the said Veronica Gable, he paid a portion of it to the heirs of the said Veronica, and the balance he lost in various way, incurring heavy expenses in travelling, counsel fees, &c., of which he kept no correct account.

Your petitioner is anxious to do justice to the heirs of the said Veronica Gable, and pay them off dollar for dollar, but such thing is impossible under his present imprisoned condition; that the said heirs have signed petitions for his release, but the court will not take any further action in the matter, and refuses to discharge your petitioner; that he has now been in confinement in the York county prison for a period of nearly five years. Your petitioner would therefore pray your honorable bodies to pass a law discharging him from the further custody of the jail keeper of the county of York, and he will ever pray, &c.

ELIAS TOME.

York County, ss.:

Elias Tome being duly sworn, according to law, deposes and says that the facts set forth in the foregoing petition are true and correct.

LEBRECHT FRAEGER,
Justice of the Peace.

Mr. KERN. Mr. Speaker, I read in my place and present to the Chair the following memorial, which I desire to have read.

The memorial was read as follows:

COLORED PEOPLE'S UNION LEAGUE ASSOCIATION OF PHILADELPHIA.

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Pennsylvania, in General Assembly met :

The undersigned, colored citizens of the city and county of Philadelphia, in behalf of thirty thousand of their brethren, once more address your honorable body upon a subject that we hoped ere this would have been settled favorably in our behalf, viz.—our exclusion from riding in the city passenger cars, particularly after the decision of Judge Allison in the court of quarter sessions, and also the court of common pleas, that there was no law to exclude us, all such acts being illegal, but regardless and in contempt of this decision, we are still refused admission.

'Tis true a few of the lines run one or two cars at very long intervals, for our accommodation, but which in reality is no accommodation at all, but merely in our opinion a subterfuge.

We therefore entreat your honorable body to enact a law that will abrogate this great outrage upon us. Daily may be seen many an old man or woman, of three score years and ten, sick or infirm, plodding their weary way through wind and storm, the mother with the infant in her arms, exposed to the howling blast of the elements; "the young men and maidens," the educated, the wealthy, the refined, and last though not least, the returned soldier, who at his country's call (when in distress,) forsook wife, children, parents, home, and all that was dear to him, and with cheerfulness and alacrity, rushed into the sanguinary struggle with a courage and bravery unsurpassed, as has been demonstrated on many a hard contested field; and aided greatly in quelling the rebellion, with the loss of an arm or leg, and in many cases both; or otherwise mutilated, he, too, in common with the others, is indignantly refused admission, except on the front platform, while the most degraded, vile and incriminated of the whites are freely admitted.

We cannot omit mentioning another act of great injustice that occurs almost daily. Our people desiring to travel West by the Pennsylvania railroad, West Philadelphia, or North or East by the New York road via Kensington Depot, (on account of our exclusion,) are compelled to hire a private conveyance at an expense of two dollars and fifty cents or three dollars, while others are conveyed by the passenger cars at an expense of seven cents, running every two minutes, for one hour previous to the train starting from the depot.

In conclusion, gentlemen, we do hope that our beloved city will no longer stand alone in this degraded proscription, but that justice may triumph, and our prayer be answered in the affirmative, and your petitioners will ever pray, &c.

JOHN C. BOWERS,
JOSEPH W. CASSEY,
ROBERT M. ADGER,
Committee.

At the stated meeting of the League held on Thursday evening, January 17th, 1867, the subject of our extension from the city passenger cars being under consideration,

It was, on motion,

Resolved, That we again forward a memorial to the Legislature asking them to make such laws as will enable us to enjoy the privilege of riding in the city passenger cars, in common with other citizens.

By order.

ANDREW F. STEPHENS,
Corresponding Secretary.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I read in my place and present to the Chair the following petition, which I desire to have published in the Record.

The petition was ordered to be so published.

MEMORIAL.

The County Convention of Good Templars assembled in Strasburg, and representing over one thousand members in the county of Lancaster, do most respectfully represent :

That our license system is an intolerable nuisance, from the evils of which we ask to be delivered. In our opinion, these evils do not arise from any lack of vigor in the enforcement of our present laws, but essentially from the character of those laws themselves, and the practices and habits that are sanctioned and fostered by them. Intemperance, with all its concomitant crimes, prevails to an alarming extent in our Commonwealth, notwithstanding our most strenuous efforts to suppress it. After a long and toilsome, though not vain, contest with effects, attendants and consequences, we find this demon of society so safely entrenched behind a citadel of statute law, that we are enforced to petition your honorable bodies to break up his hiding place and cast to the monster, lest we reluctantly abandon an enterprise the most important and beneficent the world has ever known.

Permit us, then, to glance briefly at some of the prominent points of our license regulations. Under them the retailing of spirituous liquors is forbidden to all but a few favored individuals, who, anomalous as they may appear, are compelled to furnish certificates of moral character, to whom a special license is given. Why is this? If the business is a useful and moral one, why should the law interfere with it? Why, attempt to regulate and restrain that which is necessary and proper? Why attempt to provide good agents to carry it on? Will the character of the dealer change the nature or modify the effect of the article in which he deals? Can he make poison wholesome for food and drink? Why not forbid all but moral men from selling flour and meat? Why not carry out the principle, and forbid all bad men from doing any good thing?

Again, if the traffic is immoral in its nature and tendency, why require moral men to conduct it? If a brand is applied to one of our dwellings, will not the fire burn and spread regardless of the moral character of the person who applied it? Can good men dispense that which is pernicious and crime engendering, without injury to society? As well might we license gambling houses and brothels, and attempt to counteract their evils by providing good men (if the thing were possible) to superintend them. The truth is, our license laws are nothing but a tissue of deception, answering none of the purposes intended, and evincing only the shortsightedness of the Legislature that first enacted them; and, in our opinion, they will continue to be the reproach of all succeeding ones that allow them to remain un repealed.

We have surely made a full and fair trial of such laws, and they have signally failed, as they might have been expected. We do not see how legal enactments, made with a view to the proper regulation of a vice, is ever to restrain, much less to suppress it. The principle is unsound. It is notorious that all such attempts have done more to sanction the evil than to check it. Our present laws aim at nothing more than moderation in the use of liquors, and such moderation (even if desirable) is, we are confident, absolutely unwarrentable, under any license law that the ingenuity of man can devise. Abstinence is natural and easy, but moderation is always difficult, and, with many persons, impossible.

In the first place, we doubt the constitutionality of all such laws. If the liquor traffic is right, they are wrong, because they debar ninety-nine out of a hundred of our citizens from engaging in it; and if the traffic itself is wrong, they are scandalous, because they give a legal sanction to a fruitful source of crime and misery. So that whether intended as a restraint upon a trade in which all men have a natural and inalienable right to engage or as a legal authorization of a business that destroys life, safety and happiness. They are equally repugnant to the fundamental principles of our Government. We believe that the State might as well set up schools for instructions in gambling, counterfeiting and licentiousness, as to license liquor-selling taverns.

The right to trade in useful commodities is a natural right which Government may regulate, but can neither prohibit in times of peace, nor limit to a favored few. But if men have a natural right to vend alcoholic liquors to be used as a beverage, from what source do governments derive their power to say how many, and what kind of men shall engage in this business? We admit the authority of government to tax the trafficker in such liquors, on the same principle as the taxes the agriculturist, the merchant, and the manufacturer. But has it power to compel the farmer to go annually to some public functionary, and take out a license for his occupation, before he has privilege to plow his ground, sow his seed, and harvest his crop? Has it the right to say that none but "men of good repute for honesty and temperance" shall follow the business of tilling the earth? Has it the right to prevent the merchant from trading in useful commodities unless he shall first obtain a legal permit to do so? Has it the right to say who shall be a merchant, and that no more than a specified number of stores shall be allowed to a given amount of population? We are aware that our storekeepers are made to pay what is called a "license" for vending foreign and domestic merchandise, but they are not forced to obtain that license before they can commence business, nor are they liable to fine or imprisonment for going on in their business without it. It amounts to nothing more than a tax, which is levied and collected like other taxes on professions and trades. Does the Legislature the power to prohibit the manufacture of shoes by all except such as have a statute license to follow the business; and has it the right to prescribe the character and number of shoemakers in a town, borough, or city?

If it has not the right to interfere with and arrest human industry in every case where it is not prosecuted under special governmental permission, on what authority or principle does it limit the number of retailers of intoxicating drinks, and force each one to procure license for his business before engaging in it? Are not these legal distinctions between the callings of the spirit-venders and that of other people, made on the ground that his permit to traffic in liquors rests on no natural, moral, or political right, but exclusively on special legislative favor—a favor which we think has been wrongfully and unconstitutionally granted, and which ought to be immediately withdrawn and forever prohibited to all as it is now prohibited to ninety-nine out of a hundred of our citizens. The right to forbid any class of people from pursuing the business, carries with it the right to prohibit it altogether. The danger of opening the traffic to all shows the danger and absurdity of entrusting it to any.

What we complain of is, that the retailer of intoxicating drinks enjoys special privileges, under cover of which he seeks his own private emolument, to the manifest injury of the public welfare. Unlike other citizens he can inflict incalculable damage upon society, without being held responsible. He makes money by dealing destruction around him, and the statute gives him an exclusive right to the work of ruin in his neighborhood. This we regard as an perversion of the powers of government. By a law-moritized occupation he can instigate men to the commission of the most horrid outrages, and the most diabolical enormities. He can make widows and orphans, and paupers and felons with impunity. He can make rich men destitute, wise men fools, respectable men loafers, good men bad, and bad men worse, without check or hindrance. He can levy a rum-pauper tax, and compel people who never drink rum to pay it. He can levy a rum-criminal tax, and compel sober men and women to bear the unnatural and cruel burden. He is permitted, by law, to take money for a poisonous and debasing article, which for a much less offense the provision dealer is indicted and punished. For sordid gain he may infuriate his customers with drink, until they commit assaults and batteries, larcenies and murders; but unlike other criminals he escapes, while the law inflicts its vengeance on the poor dupe of his guilty traffic. This we regard as a flagrant wrong, and a glaring absurdity; it is overlooking the cause, and striking a cowardly blow at an effect.

It not infrequently happens, that the rum-seller himself is called to sit upon the very jury which is empaneled to try one of his own victims for a crime committed under the maddening influence of his own liquor. What a scene to be enacted under the sacred name of Justice! In our opinion, there would be little violation of righteous principle in compelling such a juror to change places with the prisoner at the bar. But what renders such trials a still greater farce, is the revolting fact that the same court that sits in judgment on the wretched, rum-head culprit, grants a license to the rum-seller to pursue his demoralizing violation. Can such things be and not excite our special wonder? How long, or in other words, how much longer will the Legislature of this enlightened State permit such monstrous anomalies, such iniquitous enactments to disgrace our laws and shed blight and mildew upon a suffering people?

Is it not strange and shameful, that vice should be upheld by a statute, that a governmental sanction should be given to that which is the principal instigator of crime, and which causes a daily and almost hourly infliction of law? To raise legal monuments around each individual, for the security of person and property, and then, as if for the very purpose of defeating their object, we license that which causes them to be rent asunder. We pull down with one hand what we put up with the other. Protective laws are of no avail, while that is encouraged. Of what use are laws against assaults, blows, thefts, robberies and murders, while we commission men to deal out that which makes ruffians, thieves, robbers and murderers? What sense or reason is there in such legislation? All the purposes of a good government, and a well-organized judiciary are defeated by the liquor traffic; and so long as the traffic is sustained, and not forbidden bylaw, so long shall we feel that we are deprived of that legal protection to person and property which the people have a right to claim in their relations to which is the first duty of all governments to afford.

What would be thought of a Legislature that should construct a system of wise and wholesome laws for a people, and then cap the climax by the addition of a statute, the direct and necessary effect of which would be to insure the nullification of the whole code? Their wisdom might be likened to that of a man who should build a fine house for himself and family, and then cause a crevice to be opened under the eaves sufficiently large to allow the first blast of wind to unroof it, and expose its wretched inmates to the peltings of every storm that might chance to beat upon them. Our legislators, whatever may have been their motives, committed an act of equal folly when they framed our license laws, and we shall be in the condition of a family inhabiting a roofless house, or a community without a government, until we obtain that first and necessary provision for our safety, a law prohibiting the liquor traffic. While we lack this, we are without anything that deserves the name of government. Our whole criminal code is a splendid cheat, and our judiciary a solemn mockery.

We say this because we know we are dealing with a matter in which the innocent are forever doomed to suffer with the guilty; and we would call your special attention to the fact that the innocent are the greatest sufferers. The most frightful accidents and casualties are constantly happening from intoxication; horses are driven by persons inflamed with liquor, at the top of their speed, endangering the lives and property of all in their way; fire is carelessly handled by drunken men, and extensive conflagrations are the consequence. We have no security against such disasters, so long as the law remains as it is. We cannot enter a stage coach, railroad car, steamboat or packet ship, without putting our lives and property in jeopardy from the besotted heedlessness of drivers, engineers, pilots and captains. How many steamers loaded with human beings have been blown to atoms—how many ships freighted with untold wealth have been foundered in the ocean—how many cities laid in ashes through the direct and indirect influence of alcohol?

In the eloquent language of one of our naval officers, "Could the wave that has been the winding sheet of the sailor speak—could the lonely shore reveal the secret of its frequent mounds—there would be voices on the ocean and bones on the strand, to tell a tale of death more wild and dark than any that yet yet knelled its terrors through the most tragic dream. It is not the tempest, casting the proud ship a naked hulk on the ocean, nor the rock strewn with fragments of its perished strength, that has wrought this scene of desolation, and filled so many hearts with unavailing sorrow. It is that cup of insidious poison—mingled and mixed, and still placed to his lips by the Government—yes; by the Government."

There is no safety for any one in society, male or female, old or young, rich or poor, whose intoxicating liquors are sold as a beverage. Whether at home or abroad, riding or walking, lying down or sitting up, the life, property and happiness of every human being is endangered by the continuance of this horrible traffic. We ask to be protected from this state of things. We believe it is in your power to protect us by the passage of a law forbidding the sale of such beverages. It was for such protection as this that our Government was organized, it is for this that we pay our taxes and bear the public burdens.

We know that there are persons who pretend to doubt your constitutional power to banish such an outrage on all that man holds dear. Where, then, do you get your power to stop locomotion—to arrest a man's right to travel because he is afflicted with certain ailments? The State has established a quarantine on the Delaware river, at which they forcibly detain all vessels having on board persons laboring under contagious or infectious diseases. Is not the right to establish such an institution derived from the law of self-defense? And will not the same principle authorize society to protect itself from the consequences of a business more dreadful and highting than the whole catalogue of the worst distempers that ever ravaged the world? If we may not invoke the power of the law for the suppression of this appalling and destructive business, then is the Constitution of a nullity, and civil government a sham.

But the Supreme Court of the United States has settled the question beyond the possibility of a doubt. In the important cases carried there from Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New Hampshire, the concurrent opinion of the whole bench so swept away all constitutional objection to the most stringent prohibitory laws of the several States, that not even a legal argument was permitted to remain. The court not only declared that there was no conflict between those prohibitory State laws and the Constitution, acts of Congress, or treaties, but in all their opinions fully confirmed the right of the States to prohibit the sale of intoxicating drinks, foreign as well as domestic manufacture.

We know that it is contended that taverns are necessary for the public accommodation, and that they cannot be kept without the privilege of selling liquor. We grant that public houses are needed, but deny that more are necessary than can live by supplying the real wants of the public. Are we bound to foster base appetites and depraved habits in order to secure a sufficient number of taverns? As well as be argued that we are bound to take medicine when we are not sick, in order that the public may be accommodated with physicians and apothecaries when wanted. That the present number of taverns could not be supported if confined to the usual part of their business is quite probable. Granting this, it follows, that there are at this time more taverns than the public convenience and the public good requires. And what else does it show? Why clearly that the whole excess over and above what really is required for the public accommodation, which for aught we may say be one-half of the whole number, owe their existence to a traffic which neither promotes nor seeks to promote the public good—a traffic which is not only a waste of all the money it involves, but which is the source of nearly all the poverty, crime and suffering that exists in the State. The public want taverns, and must and will support so many and such as are needed, but they do not want dram selling taverns. Better a thousand times would it be to have none at all than such as produce infinitely more evil than good.

We are aware that the vendor pleads poverty as an excuse for continuing the traffic. He says he must sell liquor to support his family. This we deny; we do not believe that Providence has so ordered things that men cannot live without preying upon each other. Ninety-nine out of a hundred of our people live without the privilege and hence it is no hardship. As well might we have steady war among the nations of the earth for the mere purpose of giving employment and high wages to officers and soldiers, or as well might the makers of idols in heathen lands oppose the introduction of Christianity because it would spoil their trade. But if those engaged in the liquor business cannot support themselves and their families by some honest and useful vocation, then we say, let the public support them. We would much rather be taxed to maintain them than the taxpayers and criminals which they are constantly throwing upon the public. We are willing to bear all necessary burdens, but are tired of sustaining the oppressive load which is heaped upon us by a legalized vice.

We are also aware that it is contended that a prohibitory law could not be enforced. This we do not believe. We are confident that it would be more easy to enforce such a law, than to prevent a violation of our present license system. The sale of strong drinks can be prohibited and banished, but it cannot be regulated so long as it is approved by law. We look upon the legalized traffic as the parent of the illegal traffic, and we doubt that so long as the former is permitted, the latter will prevail in spite of the most stringent enactments to the contrary. Give us the law, and we will see that it is executed.

If, after its adoption, men are found ready to violate it, we shall not be surprised, nor shall we regard it as a reason for its repeal. The laws against fraud, theft, counterfeiting, are frequently broken, yet no one thinks of making such infraction a pretext for their repeal, or an excuse for licensing the crimes which they are intended to prevent. If liquor is sold for beverage, we will see to it, contrary to law. We think the effect of such sale under the ban of law is much less pernicious than it otherwise would be. We maintain that our laws should be on the side of virtue and morality, whether they can be enforced or not; as it is better that men who do wrong should act in the face of law, than that the law should be made to sanction their wrong doing.

We hope that you will see the justice and urgent necessity of granting the act we solicit, and we are confident that its fruits will be such, that your names and deeds will be held in grateful remembrance by a happy and improving posterity.

And we will ever pray,
Signed by order of the convention in behalf of one thousand members of the Order in Lancaster county.

J. E. WRIGHT, Secretary.
Mr. JONES, Mr. Speaker, I read in my place and present to the Chair the following memorial, which I desire to have read.

The memorial was read, as follows:

CLERK'S OFFICE,
SELECT COUNCIL CHAMBER,
READING, PA., January 29, 1867.

At a meeting of the select and common councils of the city of Reading, held on Saturday evening, January 26, A. D. 1867, the following resolution was unanimously adopted by both branches, viz:

Resolved, by the select and common councils of the city of Reading, That we have been informed that a bill has been introduced into the Legislature of this State, to repeal that clause in the city charter which prescribes as one of the qualifications of a person to serve as Mayor, that he "shall have resided four years next preceding his election, within said city." We hereby protest against the passage of said bill, and respectfully ask the members of the Legislature to oppose its passage.

Attest,
B. F. HICK,
Clerk of the Select Council.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following resolution.

The resolution was read as follows:

Resolved, That three thousand copies of the seventh volume of the transactions of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural Society be printed and bound uniform with the preceding volumes, for the use of the members of this House; the contents of said volume to be furnished to the State printer, free of cost to the State, and to contain the proceedings and papers of said society, the annual report of the Pennsylvania Fruit Growers' Society, and those of the Pennsylvania Agricultural College, with such condensation of other matters in the hands of the State society, as may be deemed proper for publication, and which, with an index, will make a volume not to exceed seven hundred and fifty pages, and that the Pennsylvania Agricultural Society, and the Pennsylvania Fruit Growers' Society, be each allowed two hundred and fifty copies of the above for distribution.

The resolution was read a second time.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this resolution be referred to the Committee on Printing.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Mr. Speaker, if the object of this motion is to kill this resolution, I would rather it should not be referred. A similar resolution went to that committee last year, and I think nothing more was heard of it; and if that is to be the fate of this, I hope it will not be referred.

I offered this resolution, Mr. Speaker, at the request of the officers of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural Society, and the officers and members of the Pennsylvania Fruit Growers' Society, who are, I believe, as intelligent a body of men as there is in this Commonwealth; and in their name, and in their behalf, and in the name of the great agricultural interests of Pennsylvania, I ask that this resolution shall have a respectful consideration.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I simply propose to treat this committee with proper respect. There is not much business referred to it. It is constituted, I suppose, for the very purpose of considering such matters as this is. I do not know what else it is for. I can see no more proper disposition of this resolution than to refer it to this committee that was constituted for some purpose, I suppose, and if not for this purpose then what was it for?

Reference has been made to the Printing

Committee of last year. I think a memorial was presented to this House last year and referred to the Committee on Printing, and the committee made a report in proper time, giving their views upon that memorial. It received due and proper consideration, and the conclusion the committee came to was reported to this House. What more could be asked? If the House differed from the committee was in their power to act upon it. But will committee did take that memorial into consideration, examined the books that had been published heretofore, and inquired into the value of the book then sought to be published, and I undertake to say that they discharged their duty as well as they knew how. Being the chairman of that committee I am free to say that if there was any mistake about it, it was from ignorance and not from any disposition to treat the memorial disrespectfully.

This is a matter of considerable importance, and should not be rushed through the House without consideration. This publication costs the State from seven to ten thousand dollars. The cost of publishing and the postage that will be paid upon it will foot up very near to ten thousand dollars, and I submit that it is hardly the thing to take from the treasury two or three times a day little items of ten thousand dollars, when we have a committee constituted for the very purpose of inquiring into these matters. How can we say, without any fact before us, without any means of inquiry, that the book proposed to be published is worth a dime? I do not propose, at this time, to say one word upon the merits of the resolution, because this is not in order. I simply speak upon the propriety of the motion I have made, and that is to refer this resolution to its proper committee, and I hope the House will so refer it.

Mr. WINGARD. Mr. Speaker, as regards the propriety of the motion of the gentleman from Potter [Mr. MANN], I fully endorse it. I can see little use in having such a committee unless something is referred to it. There have been very many resolutions of this character offered this session, and, I believe, not in a single instance has a resolution been referred to that committee. I am a member of that committee, and have never yet been called upon to meet with it.

As to the merits of the resolution, I am decidedly impressed in favor of it, and if the resolution is referred to the Committee on Printing, and, after examination, my convictions are the same as now, I shall be in favor of reporting the resolution without amendment. But I do think this Committee on Printing ought either to be abolished or else resolutions in reference to the printing of public documents ought to be referred to it. I have no desire whatever to kill the resolution; on the other hand, I am in favor of the resolution, and I will support it, unless, after examination, I am otherwise impressed from what I am now.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I do not suppose there is a subject that can address itself to this House upon which there is more need of information than upon this subject. I am, therefore, in favor of the resolution offered by the gentleman from Montgomery [Mr. SATTERTHWAIT], with this restriction: that these societies shall present the result of their deliberations in which there is no conflict of opinion, for if they do not do that the book will serve to lead us astray. I attended the Fruit Growers' Convention in this House, and I heard a discussion in which the gentleman from Montgomery [Mr. SATTERTHWAIT] took an able and earnest part. The question was as to the best mode of raising grapes. One gentleman got up and went into a long exposition on the proper way of raising grapes. He stated that they should be located in a certain place, that they should receive a certain kind of cultivation, and that his mode was the very best possible mode that could be adopted for the raising of grapes. When he had concluded, the gentleman from Montgomery got up and said that the gentleman who had just spoken knew nothing about the raising of grapes, that the way he described was the very worst possible way, and that grapes would invariably fail if they were thus cultivated. What I want is that that kind of conflict shall not appear in this report. For, when I go to raising grapes, I want to raise them in the very best possible way, and be able to refer to this work as standard authority. I do not want to have these conflicting opinions in it, for I do not want to pay a large price for a work and then find everything in it like the old woman's direction for telling good indigo. She said if you would grind indigo fine and throw it upon water, if it was good it would either sink or swim, she had forgotten which. I want this book so I can refer to it as competent authority. I am in favor of publishing the work if these discussions are not to be introduced, but reliable information such as these societies have derived from thorough experience. But if these conflicting discussions are given us they would render the book worse than useless.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Mr. Speaker, if the science of horticulture and agriculture had been reduced to a profession, there would be no necessity of a work of this kind. It is because we have had to remain in the dark in regard to much relating to this important interest, that these books are useful and necessary. It is by means of such societies as these that we arrive, as nearly as possible, at the great truths relating to this subject. The condition of agriculture is the same as that of many other sciences. It is because professors disagree in reference to the most important matters relating to it that we desire to bring the subject to the attention of the community.

A word in reply to the gentleman from Potter [Mr. MANN]. He seems to think that by opposing this motion I have intended some disrespect to the committee, of which I believe he has the honor to be chairman. I intended nothing of the kind, nor any insinuation against the committee of last year. If they did make a report last year, I did not know it. I made inquiries in reference to the matter a great many times during the session, but I could get no satisfactory information, and I was not aware that any report had ever been made.

The gentleman from Lycoming [Mr. WINGARD] thinks this subject ought to be referred to the Committee on Printing because nothing else has been referred to it. Now, that is exactly the reason why I am opposed to having it referred to that committee. I cannot see why a matter acknowledged to be so important as this should be smothered in this way when other matters similar to it are rushed through every day without any reference whatever. It was not my object, Mr. Speaker, to have this matter rushed through now. I am not in favor of that kind of legislation. I merely ask that this matter shall have respectful consideration from this House. I am willing to be referred to its appropriate committee, but I had some objections to its being referred to the Committee on Printing on account of the fate it met last year. It seems to me that the proper committee to which this should be referred is the Committee on Agriculture, if any reference is necessary.

Mr. KINNEY. Mr. Speaker, I believe a similar matter was referred to the Committee on Printing last year. The report they made was that the proceedings of three years should be condensed into one volume as heretofore, and that the proceedings should be stripped of a certain amount of unnecessary verbiage.

Mr. BOYD. Mr. Speaker, I think these reports contain a large amount of valuable matter that should be published, no matter what the expense may be. I therefore move that the resolution be referred to the Committee on Agriculture, instead of the Committee on Printing.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Mr. Speaker, I have been assured by a member of the Committee on Printing that this matter will be specially attended to, if referred to that committee, and I am willing it should take that direction.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the amendment of the gentleman from York [Mr. Boyd], to refer to the Committee on Agriculture.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I hope that question will not prevail. It seems to me this Committee on Printing is the proper one. This is a question of Printing, and that is the only question in it. And I suppose this Committee on Printing was constituted for the purpose of inquiring into such matters. I hope it will be referred to that committee.

Mr. BOYD. Mr. Speaker, my understanding is that this committee is to determine whether this matter is worth printing or not, and what committee is better qualified to take that subject under consideration than the Committee on Agriculture? This is a report, as I understand it, in which our agricultural interests are discussed, and it seems to me the Committee on Agriculture is the proper one to which it should be referred.

Mr. PENNYPACKER. Mr. Speaker, I hope the amendment of the gentleman from York [Mr. Boyd] will prevail. I will yield to no man in my desire to advance the interest of agriculture, but I think the printing of a vast amount of verbiage that is of no importance will not advance that interest. Certainly a great deal of the report of the Agricultural Society is of no interest to any one. For instance, the list of premiums and the reports of the local societies and the lists of their premiums are of no particular value to be published. I, therefore, hope this matter will go to the Committee on Agriculture and have a thorough examination, and if it is found worth printing that it will be published.

The society of Fruit Growers, to which the gentleman from Montgomery (Mr. SATTERTHWAIT) belongs, is a very important society, and I should like to have their discussions and proceedings published. I hope, therefore, that the reports will be referred to the Committee on Agriculture, and that they will examine them closely and carefully.

Mr. KURTZ. Mr. Speaker, at our last session a matter of this kind was referred to the Committee on Printing, of which I was a member. The committee had before them the volumes that had been previously published, and, upon examination, found that they contained a great deal of unnecessary matter. The committee came to the conclusion that, if the future reports were stripped of their verbiage, and the matter of three years condensed into one volume, it would be better, and they made their report accordingly.

Mr. McCAMANT. Mr. Speaker, I think the proper course is for this House to refer this resolution to the Committee on Printing. I am one of the members of that committee, and I can assure the gentleman that if the matter is referred to it, the committee will give it proper attention. If we find that none of the committee know anything about agriculture, we can summon the Committee on Agriculture before us.

Mr. SHARPLES. Mr. Speaker, I think the Committee on Agriculture is the proper committee for determining the value or the worthlessness of this material. I think a certain portion of the report of the Agricultural Society ought to be published. In reference to the report of the Fruit Growers' Society there is a great deal that is of interest contained in it. Although the gentlemen did not agree as to the best mode of raising grapes, there is much of information elucidated in those discussions, and the reasons of difference often arise from cultivation in different soil and under different circumstances.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Mr. Speaker, I would say that the objectionable matter alluded to by the gentleman from Chester [Mr. PENNYPACKER], it is intended shall be left out. The committee having this in charge have prepared a sufficient quantity of valuable matter to make this a valuable work.

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, certainly the Committee on Agriculture do not wish to be troubled with this thing, but if there are any farmers on that committee, as there doubtless are, it seems to me that they are the proper persons to determine which is of interest to that portion of the community. There, however, seems to be a great anxiety on the part of the Committee on Printing to decide this matter. For my part, I do not care to which committee it goes, for I think either of them can determine as to the propriety of publishing the reports.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, how the gentlemen get the idea that the Committee on Printing manifest any anxiety to decide this matter, I do not understand. For my part I am on neither the Committee on Printing nor the Committee on Agriculture. I am not arguing to have this resolution go where I will have anything to do with it. I merely wish to have it referred to the committee where I think it properly belongs.

The question being on the motion to refer to the Committee on Agriculture,

It was agreed to.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following resolution.

Resolved, That the resolution was read as follows:

Resolved, That the following shall be a rule of this House:

RULE 62. A majority may discharge a committee from the consideration of any matter referred to it, at any time after ten days subsequent to such reference; and from the consideration of any matter referred within fifteen days of the close of the session, on or after the second day succeeding such reference. And motions for discharge may be made when reports from committees are in order.

The resolution was read a second time.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, this seems to be an effort to alter the immemorial usages of this House. There has been no reason urged, it seems to me, why that usage, that has always worked well—a usage that I have never heard complained of before—I usage that the wisdom of all Legislatures, hitherto, at least, have sanctioned, why that, at this time, should be altered. There are occasions, sir, when I think it is proper that it should require two-thirds of this House to order a bill out of the hands of a committee; but I do not think that the circumstances warrant, now, an alteration of our rules. I do not think there is that difficulty, sir, in getting bills from committees that will warrant our breaking up the practice that has been the rule hitherto, and I trust this resolution will not be passed by this House. I trust that we may go on, as heretofore, because if any gentleman can show, as I conceive, sufficient reason to this House why a committee should be discharged from the consideration of a bill that they are captiously holding in committee for purposes unwarranted outside the bill itself and its relations, I have no doubt that a representation of that fact to this House would secure its report. For these reasons I hope this resolution will not prevail, and that this rule will not become one of the standing rules of this House.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I had hoped that this rule would be adopted without any discussion on the part of the House. I did not think anything could be said against it.

It may be that the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. LEE] has never experienced any trouble in getting his bills from the House committee. There are some gentlemen in this House, Mr. Speaker, who never do experience any difficulty in getting bills; but there are other gentlemen who do, especially gentlemen of a particular class.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I do not suppose there is a man in this House who has worked harder to get out of the hands of a committee two bills that I have introduced this year. I have not yet got them out, and I do not see any prospect of getting them out for some time to come.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that this is not quite in accordance with what the gentleman said a short time ago.

Mr. LEE. I said that if any gentleman had a reason why a bill should be reported, and felt that the committee was captiously holding it back, if he would make application to the House, the House would, I have no doubt, require the committee to report the bill.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, my experience with the House is quite the contrary. I know there is great difficulty in getting bills out of committees. This resolution proposes nothing more than that the majority of this House shall control its business. It provides that a committee may hold a bill, without reporting it, for ten days. Certainly that is long enough in any case. It is not to be supposed, Mr. Speaker, that a majority of this House will discharge a committee improperly, because we are to suppose that a majority will always do right. The points turn on this: Shall the majority control the business of the House? In case of fifteen days or less from the close of the session, the rule would require that the committee might be discharged after the second day succeeding the reference; but, in all other cases, it gives them ten days to consider a bill. To my mind, this is so fair that I cannot conceive why any gentleman should vote against it. I can see no reason why the ma-majority should not have control of the business of this House.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, the difficulty which presents itself to my mind is the limit of time. It is well known that the committee of this House meet but once a week. To illustrate the difficulty, suppose a bill was read in place to-day, and referred to the Committee on Ways and Means. That committee does not meet until next Thursday night.—Hence, seven days of the ten would be gone before the meeting of the committee. That committee is compelled to act upon that bill, in its hands, within that time, or else it is liable to be cited before this House, and discharged from the consideration of it. It is a serious question with me whether that is sufficient time or not. I have, at this time, in my possession bills belonging to the Committee of Ways and Means, that have been in the hands of that committee since the commencement of the session, and have not been acted upon simply because we have not had the proper light. I may say, in justice to that committee, that every day that was brought before it last night, and either acted upon directly or indirectly—held over because members of the committee, representing particular localities that would be affected by the bill, had no knowledge of it and desired to consult their colleagues in reference to it. Such bills necessarily go over until next week. We do not feel at liberty to report them with a negative recommendation, because gentlemen have made a special request that we should not do so. Another week would make fourteen days, and it is a serious question in my mind whether that is sufficient time, with the accumulation of business many of the committees have, to enable them to pass upon every bill. If the Local Judiciary Committee would sit down now, they could not pass upon all the bills in their hands in twenty-four hours.

Again, the proposition is, that bills presented within fifteen days of the end of the session, shall only have leave to remain in the hands of the committee two days. Every man who has had experience in this House, particularly on committees, must know that it is almost impossible to get committees together within two days, when they meet three sessions per day, as during the last weeks of the session. If we have but two days in which to act upon bills, there is no use in having committees at all. We may just as well present bills to the House, and suspend the rules and pass them at once without any reference. I have no particular interest in this thing, except to let us have rules that we can work under intelligently and to advantage. If there is a question on the part of the House to suppress bills in committees, we do know it. I have seen no disposition of that kind, so far as my experience goes.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I think the statement made by the gentleman from Chester is calculated to lead to wrong impressions on this subject, in regard to the Committee of Ways and Means, or any other committee meeting only once a week. If I understand it properly a committee can be called together at any time. The committee can come together every day, if necessary, for the consideration of bills. Therefore, it is not necessary to sit a week before acting upon a bill. I agree fully with the gentleman from Fayette (Mr. BOWLE), and I am surprised that any gentleman in this House should oppose a resolution so fair and equitable as this. It seems to me that it is a proposition that the majority of this House shall rule.

Now, with regard to gagging or suppressing any bills in committees, permit me to say a word. I have had a very small bill before a committee for over three weeks—a bill in which no one is concerned but my immediate constituents—and I have not been able to get that bill out, as yet. I say this without any reflection upon the members of the committee. When I have spoken about this bill, I am told by the members that they cannot get the committee together. It strikes me, that if it is impossible to get committees together to consider a bill, a majority of this House should have the power to discharge them from the consideration of it.

Mr. WINGARD. I wish to ask the gentleman if he has not asked to have that committee discharged from the further consideration of his bill?

Mr. WILSON. I did not suppose I could get two-thirds of the House to vote to do so. I do not impute anything wrong to that committee, but I say that when a committee is so negligent as not to meet, it ought to be the privilege of the House to discharge it from the further consideration of the bill, and place the business of the House in the hands of committees that will attend to it. I understand that the Committee of Ways and Means, or any other committee, may come together any day that they like for the dispatch of business. I think this resolution is right and proper, and should prevail. I am astonished that any gentleman should oppose it.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, now, sir, the gentleman from Allegheny (Mr. WILSON) either misunderstands or mistakes my position. I do not purpose to deny the right of the majority of this House to control the business. My suggestion was that the time the committees should be permitted to hold a bill was too short. Now, I am aware that every committee in this House is at liberty to meet six days in the week if they want to do so; but, sir, I do not want to be the chairman of any committee consisting of twenty-two members, if I am to be compelled to call that committee together every day. I do not wish that labor imposed on me, or, at least, I should want this House to authorize me to employ a Sergeant-at-Arms to hunt that committee up. I have experienced that difficulty this session. The sessions of this House have been such as to interfere directly with the meeting of the committee that I have the honor to preside over, and in order to accommodate gentlemen, I have been compelled myself to run around this House, personally, and call my committee together, on two different occasions, simply because I was not able to meet them on account of the time interfering with the meetings of the House. I am not willing to be all the time employed in this manner. I have something else to do. Of all the committees that I have been on, I have found it very difficult to get them together, even once a week. I have been compelled to call first one committee to another, in order that the committees might have a quorum. There is a great deal of business to be done by the members of this House outside of the committees. I am aware that we are able to meet more than once a week, but that has been the regular custom of this House, although the committees do often meet on other occasions to accommodate gentlemen. But we have so many sessions each day towards the close of the session, that it is almost impossible to get a quorum, and we often have to wait a half an hour, and then send out members to hunt up other members.

If that thing is to be gone through with every day, I beg leave to resign my position as chairman of any committee in this House.

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, I hope the House will pass this resolution. I think the House owes it to its dignity to pass it. Reflections have been made upon the House, and, if I am not mistaken, bills have been smothered in committees. I take it that any bill will be safe in the hands of a majority of this House. It has been alleged that very often bills, in which the whole State is interested, have been smothered in committees, and we have not been able to get them before the House. I hope this resolution will pass the House, and that we will not give occasion for reflection by our constituents upon us for our conduct here. Let us have a vote upon the resolution, and if it is not right, let us vote it down and place ourselves upon the record.

Mr. BARTON. Mr. Speaker, in order to give the regular standing committees an opportunity to meet twice before a majority of this House can discharge a committee from the consideration of a bill, I move that the word "ten" be stricken out of the resolution and the word "fifteen" inserted in its place.

Mr. SHARPLES. Mr. Speaker, gentlemen must remember that there are certainly two sides to this question. Now, my people in Chester county, the people that I, in part, represent, do not ask a great deal of legislation; and their greatest fear is that we will legislate so much that we will be obliged to decrease their legislation. I am not in favor of any committee holding a bill improperly, but I think there should be certain checks to hasty legislation. That principle is adopted in the legislation of Congress. If a bill passes Congress and the President vetoes it, it requires a two-third vote to pass it afterwards—and for what reason? Because there should be some check placed upon hasty legislation. I think the reflection is upon this House, when we decide that two-thirds of this House will not favorably consider the application of any gentleman who asks that the committee shall be discharged, after the bill has been held by the committee for an unreasonable length of time, and that the reflection is not the reflection that the gentleman suggests.

Mr. QUIGLEY. Mr. Speaker, my objection to this resolution is this. If I understand this resolution it says that the motion to discharge a committee shall be made when reports of committees are in order. If we are to have motions of that kind made every day when reports of committees are in order, the committees will never get a chance to report, because every motion of that kind will be discussed. Now, we have had two resolutions before us this morning, and they have occupied altogether two hours and ten minutes in discussion. Now, if this is to occur every day when reports of committees are in order, we will probably occupy the whole session in the discussion of such matters. I do not think that the time is long enough, is another objection. Ten or fifteen days is a very little time for some large committees to consider a bill. I know that the Local Judiciary Committee, the Committee on Ways and Means, and the Committee on Corporations have so many bills before them that if they should hold a session of five hours they could not even read them all. I remember being once chairman of the Committee on Corporations, and we had stacks of bills and it took an entire session to read them.

Now, if the committee must report a bill without considering it, you might just as well discharge the standing committees; they are of no use whatever. I trust the resolution, as read, will not pass.

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, I certainly intended to cast no reflection upon the House in my remarks; but there are bills that would pass by a majority of the House, that might not receive a two-thirds vote, and they may be kept in the committees by one-third of the members of this House. I do not think that is proper or right.

Mr. QUIGLEY. I would like to ask the gentleman if a motion of that kind, to discharge a committee from the consideration of a bill, has been made this session.

Mr. EWING. Not to my knowledge.

Mr. QUIGLEY. Then the gentleman has no right to make any such charge.

Mr. PENNYPACKER. Mr. Speaker, as there are some reflections made by gentlemen that certain bills are held by certain committees, it is fair that the power to discharge any committee should be placed in the hands of the majority.

I am surprised to hear any gentleman opposing this resolution. I feel that as this reflection has been made it is the duty of this House to vote immediately upon the resolution and pass it, that these reflections may have no force or weight.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman say that, because the gentleman from Fayette [Mr. BOYLE], with very significant emphasis, states that gentlemen of a particular class never experience any difficulty in getting through their bills while those of an opposite opinion do, that therefore those who oppose this resolution do it for the reasons implied by that insinuation, and, because I oppose it, that the reflection is cast upon me?

Mr. PENNYPACKER. No, sir, I do not think the reflection is upon the gentleman in particular at all. I think that reflection is upon each and every gentleman of the House. I do not pretend to say that the gentlemen who oppose this bill shall receive this reflection at all. It reflects equally upon the whole, because none outside know who those gentlemen are except the gentleman who have spoken. Now, my colleague from Chester [Mr. SHARPLES] says that there ought to be a check upon hasty legislation. I am always in favor of a candid and fair consideration of every subject that comes properly before this House. I want certain checks upon hasty legislation, but I do not want those checks to drag the material out of sight and lose it. I think the checks have been in that direction. I do not know as I have seen anything of the kind, but the reflection is in that direction.

I am in favor of this resolution because it gives to this House the right of the majority to control its business, which I think is proper. The majority of this House made this rule, and I think it is very improper that the majority should place restrictions upon this House that it will require a two-thirds vote to change. I do not think this House has any disposition to discharge committees factiously, unless they hold bills beyond a proper time. As the matter now stands, one-third of this House holds the whole House, and I do not think it fair. I am therefore heartily in favor of this change. And I want it distinctly stated that the gentlemen who are opposing this measure are the gentlemen who desire to hold bills factiously in committees. I say, without fear of contradiction, that these men, having a fear of a majority, desire to hold some bills in some committees.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker—
The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Chester allow himself to be interrupted by the gentleman from Philadelphia?

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman must allow himself to be interrupted. No man has a right to brand me before this body in this way. It is my privilege to defend myself against a charge of that sort. It is not his pleasure nor his right to say that he shall traduce me in that style and I have no right to defend myself. The charge that I desire the defeat of this resolution because of a factious determination to hold back bills is unfounded and untrue, and no man knows it better than the gentleman himself. That language must not be said here of me. The other members of this House may suffer themselves to be traduced in this manner if they please, but I will not.

Mr. PENNYPACKER. Mr. Speaker, if what I state is not true I do not see why the gentleman should be so fidgety about it. He wriggles, and squirms, and fidgets, at least as though it touched him. I have no apology to make to those whom it does touch, and those whom it does not touch I do not mean.

Mr. LEE. Do I understand the gentleman to say that when he said those who oppose this resolution were those who factiously desired to hold bills in committees that he did not mean that? Because that is a direct charge upon me, a direct, unequivocal charge upon me, that I, for factious reasons, desire to hold bills in a committee? I ask him if that is what he means?

Mr. PENNYPACKER. Mr. Speaker, I mean just precisely what I say, that the gentleman who oppose this resolution, do so because, in my judgement, looking at it from my stand-point, and speaking for no one else, they are factiously opposed to it.

Mr. Speaker, cannot the gentleman imagine a case where a majority of this House would be in favor of the passage of an unrighteous bill, and the committee opposed to it? Would it not be proper in that case for the committee to hold back the bill and thus defeat it?

Mr. PENNYPACKER. I cannot imagine a bill which a majority of this House should not have the power to control. If a bill is wrong I do not, by any means, consider it the duty of the committee to smother it. That is not the business for which the committees are appointed. The bill should be reported either favorably or negatively to this House.

Mr. QUAY. Suppose the bill should be a general law, what difference to the House would the recommendation of the committee make?

Mr. PENNYPACKER. The committee have only to consider, to the best of their knowledge and belief, and report accordingly. If they believe it is right to report the bill, they have a right to do so. They should report it within a certain time, either affirmatively or negatively. That the committee being only a small portion of this House should keep it from the action of this House, I think my position is not equivocal when I say they have no right to hold it. I shall vote on any bill as my conscience dictates and judgment directs, and if I do not agree with the majority of that committee, I am satisfied with my negative vote and feel that my skirts are clear at least. I think that is the position every one should take, and that no consideration should have influence outside of the reasons of the case.

I had no desire to raise any dispute upon this matter, but it is one which I feel deeply, and I speak earnestly.

I hope that the majority of the House will hear me out, and the other gentleman who have spoken on this side, because it is a matter of a great deal of importance.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, I agree with my colleague when he enunciates that this is a matter of considerable importance. And, sir, I have opposed this resolution, and I am not to be driven from my opposition to the resolution by charges of being factiously desirous of smothering bills in committees, even if they do come from my colleague. I claim to be honest in my opposition to this resolution. I claim to be just as honest in my opposition as he is in his advocacy of the resolution. Now, sir, I say here publicly, and intend to stand up to it, that if this House refuses to modify this resolution as I think it should be modified I shall vote against it. I think that I ask for nothing more than what is reasonable, and it is this House differ with me in opinion they are at liberty to do so, but I shall maintain and adhere to my opinion.

Now, sir, I have heard these charges before. I know they are as common talk, and I know there is a suspicion that gentlemen who may take a position in opposition to the views of one or two, or the majority of this House, may be regarded, in technical language, as "roosters." I am ready and willing to take the charge of being called a "rooster," and if my general character in this House cannot protect me I shall feel compelled to fall under the insinuation. I am not to be frightened by any such charges or allegations as this. I think it becoming to charge any gentleman on the floor of this House that advocate any particular opinion, that they entertain that opinion from a determination to be factious. I have opposed the resolution from an honest conviction, and I apprehend two opinions may be entertained upon this question as readily as upon others.

There must have been a reason for introducing the rule into this House requiring a two-thirds vote to discharge a committee from the consideration of a bill, for otherwise it would not have been adopted. I am aware that there is probably no such rule upon the statute books, but it is a custom of long usage. But there are features in this resolution that I am in favor of, but if the resolution is to be forced upon us in the present shape, I shall vote against it, let the changes be what they may and come from what source they may. I am opposed to introducing a motion to discharge committees right in the midst of reports from committees. We have a regular system for doing business here. We have reports in their regular order, motions in their regular order, and yet, we are asked by that resolution to break into the midst of reports of committees and allow any gentleman to jump up here and move that any committee be discharged from the consideration of any particular bill.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, if that part of the resolution should be stricken out, I would ask the gentleman when it would be in order to move to discharge a committee.

Mr. WADDELL. There is a regular order of business, and the Clerk can answer that question better than I can.

Mr. BOYLE. I would ask the Clerk then. The Clerk. When original resolutions are in order.

Mr. BOYLE. My reason for introducing that provision into the resolution was, that if there was not some time fixed for this order, it would require a two-thirds vote to suspend any order so that such a motion could be made. To avoid any doubt upon that subject, I now move that the resolution be so changed that the motion may be made when original resolutions are in order.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, that is all I desire, and yet gentlemen are charged with being factious in their position because we want the same thing that the gentlemen themselves are in favor of. Gentlemen ought not to be reflected upon here by reason of any position they may assume on this question, or any other that presents itself to this House.

Mr. LEE. I move that the further consideration of this question be postponed for the present.

Mr. BOYLE. I move to amend—that the motion be to postpone indefinitely.

Mr. MANN. I hope this motion will not prevail. We have very nearly come to an understanding now, I think, from the remarks made by gentlemen. I think we can dispose of this matter now more readily, and with less time, than we can at any future period. From the remarks made, we are evidently coming to a mutual understanding. There can be no mistake, from the temper of this House, that this rule requires some change. That has been manifest, and it seems to me it might be as well disposed of now as at another time. I hope, therefore, neither motion will prevail, and that we shall dispose of this question at this time, for the reason that I have given—that the discussion has elucidated objections, and the gentleman who introduced this resolution has signified his willingness to accept the suggestion of making it what it ought to be. We have already gone one month into the session, and this rule will be of no use unless we adopt it soon.

I beg to express my regret at the tone of some of the remarks made, I believe unintentionally. I do not suppose any gentleman, in his remarks this morning, has intended to reflect upon any gentleman, but I think there has been manifested a little less care in some expressions than there ought to have been. I hope this will be the last day of the session that we shall have this manifestation of feeling. I do not think it is hardly the thing for one member to reflect upon his fellow-member, and I do not believe any member intended to do it. Now, that feeling seems to have died out, and we are coming down to an understanding. The gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. QUIGLEY] has made a proper suggestion, and I think it ought to be amended in that particular. The gentleman has offered it as a suggestion, and why not act upon it now? There is evidently something required—there is additional legislation needed upon this question. There is a great feeling throughout this State upon this question, and it is just as well to show to the people now that hereafter there will be no necessity for any one feeling that this House will not have every bill under its control, and that the legislation of the State will not be just what the majority of the members of the Legislature require. We are to suppose that the majority is doing right all the time, and if a bill is in the hands of a committee that should pass, the majority have a right to pass it. But as the rules now are, that cannot be done—the chief of the Legislature cannot control the legislation. I think there ought to be an amendment, and as we have come so near to a conclusion as to what the rule ought to be, let us finish up the work now.

Mr. BOYLE. I withdraw my motion to indefinitely postpone.

Mr. LEE. I withdraw my motion to postpone for the present.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I will accept the amendment offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. QUIGLEY], if it is in order.

Mr. SHARPLES. Mr. Speaker, I wish to define my position in regard to this resolution, and I feel a great regret that my colleague has displayed so much feeling here, and has made the charge which he has upon gentlemen who oppose this resolution.

The main reason why I have been opposed to this resolution is on account of the time.

In the committee that I am chairman of (that of Education), there are a number of bills that gentlemen are anxious to have passed, referring to local matters, that we in this House will be covered by a general bill. We have been holding these bills for the reason that the ground will be covered by the general bill when it is prepared. If the committee is discharged, and we act upon these local bills, there will be so much legislation for nothing. I think the time, at any rate, should be extended to a greater length than is now proposed.

Mr. KINNEY. Mr. Speaker, I have reasons satisfactory to myself, for opposing this innovation. The most important part of legislation is done in these committees. Now, I am upon a committee which is considered, in all fairness, that certain parties should be notified of the doings of certain other parties here, and we have concluded to give them that notice, and, in my opinion, the time would be entirely too short to give that notice and give them an opportunity to present their views to the committee. Hence, I am opposed to this innovation entirely.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I have listened with interest to the discussion before the House and have tried, as closely as possible, to judge of the right and wrong of both sides. I have been surprised to see the feeling manifested by some, and regret that such a state of things has come up this morning. I think it is very unfortunate that a discussion of this kind should be elucidated. I think it is very undignified and disrespectful to the individual members of this House, as well as to this body. No gentleman in this House can say that I have not always been for liberal measures on all occasions. While I would now do anything which I deemed to be right and liberal, I think that I have another interest in doing justice to my constituents. I am satisfied that circumstances may occur under which I might desire to have a committee discharged during the session. It was so last winter on several occasions, but I am not disposed to allow my personal interest to cause me to favor a measure that I think would be unjust. I think the rules, as adopted, are just to all concerned. I believe if I had a measure which was just, and which I could pass by a majority of this House, I could get it out of a committee. I believe, if I could not get it out of the committee, or if it was reported negatively, that it would be taken in this House. Therefore, I have no fears of this kind of a rule. I have no idea that any such influences are upon any of the members of this House, as have been imputed by the gentleman from Chester [Mr. PENNYPACKER]. I know the nobleness of nature of the gentleman from Chester, and I think that he would not be disposed to impute such motives to an honest man. I believe that the gentleman feels the injustice of the charge. I shall oppose this resolution on principle, because I believe that it may lead to something wrong.

Mr. PENNYPACKER. Mr. Speaker, I just heard the gentleman apologizing for my course, and I want to thank him from the depths of an honest heart for this kindness. I really do not want to say anything to hurt the gentleman's feelings in particular, or the feelings of any other gentleman on this floor. I do not want to uphold anything that I believe to be untrue, but I want to have my say honestly and fairly, and let every gentleman express his views, and then let us compare views, and vote, and let the majority rule. I believe in that, I vote for that, I live by that, but I don't want to die by it. I do not, of course, mean to hurt the feelings of any one, and if I have done so, the apology the gentleman has already made will, I hope, suffice the House, so that there may be no evil consequences resulting from it.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Mr. Speaker, as there seem to be insinuations thrown out, I desire to state my reasons for voting against this resolution. It seems that this has been the rule of this House from time immemorial, and I never heard of any attempt before to change it. It seems that it could be changed at any time by the vote of a majority of the House. Now, if there had been such great hardships and difficulties under it as have been stated, I do not see why it has not been changed, and I believe from all the information I can get, there has been no trouble in this respect. If it is in the power of this House, by a majority vote, to adopt this rule at any time, it seems to me that it is time to change it when the change is required.

Mr. HUMPHREY. Mr. Speaker, I renew the motion to indefinitely postpone the resolution.

Mr. QUAY. Mr. Speaker, I am in favor of the principle of the resolution of the gentleman from Fayette [Mr. BORZE], but I shall vote against it at the present time for the simple reason that I intend to make capacious opposition to certain bills before this House in the defeat of which my constituents in Beaver county are vitally interested. There is another matter I desire to allude to. I am told that the resolution is offered for the benefit of the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad company. I would ask the gentleman from Fayette in what way the bill restoring the charter of the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad company can be benefited by it? If the committee are in favor of the bill the resolution is unnecessary, and if they report it with a negative recommendation it can then only be reached by a two-thirds vote.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Beaver [Mr. QUAY] is mistaken in attributing the motive for offering this resolution to be for the benefit of any particular bill. I offered it without the gentlemen of the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad knowing anything about it. There might be circumstances where there might be some advantage to a railroad company, but I offered it for the benefit of this House without reference to any particular bill. I might say that since this resolution the parties interested in this Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad have made personal solicitations of a great number of gentlemen to vote against it. They seem to think it would be of some disadvantage to them in some way or they would not do it.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I would say for myself that no human being has ever said a word to me about it in any way.

Mr. KERNS. Mr. Speaker, I was not aware that the discussion which has taken place here was intended to be leveled at the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad company. I will state for the information of this House that the gentlemen favoring that project have had persons before that committee and they have been heard. We have heard in part one side, and are about to hear the other side, and if the object of this resolution is to get that committee discharged from the further consideration of that bill, I think it would be an unfair object. The committee, or at least myself, wish to hear all parties, whether in favor or opposed to the bill, and there is no disposition on the part of the committee to hold the bill any longer than is necessary to have a fair hearing on all sides.

Mr. QUAY. Mr. Speaker, I trust the gentleman from Tioga [Mr. HUMPHREY] will withdraw his motion to postpone, and that the House will come to a square vote on the resolution.

Mr. HUMPHREY. Mr. Speaker, I withdrew my motion to indefinitely postpone.

Mr. QUIGLEY. Mr. Speaker, I renew the motion to indefinitely postpone.

On the motion to indefinitely postpone,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BOYLE, and Mr. EWING and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Barton, Cameron, Dr Haven, Donohugh, Gordon, Hoffman, Josephs, Koon, Kirtz, Lee, McHenry, Markley, Marks, Meily, Robinson, Satterthwait, Seiter, Stehman, Subers, Waddell, Watt, Westbrook, Whann, Wingard and Wormald—25.

NAYS—Messrs. Adair, Allen, Boyd, Boyle, Breun, Brennan, Brown, Calvin, Chadricks, Chaifeau, Chase, Colville, Craig, Davis, Day, Deise, Espy, Ewing, Fogel, Freshorn, Gallagher, Harbison, Harner, Headman, Humphrey, Hunt, Jenks, Jones, Kerns, Kimmel, Kinney, Kline, Leech, Linton, Long, Mr.

Camant, Maish, Mann, Pennypacker, Peters, Phelan, Quay, Rhoads, Richards, Roath, Sharples, Steacy, Tharp, Wallace, Webb, Weller, Wilson, Woodward and Glass, Speaker—34.

So the question was determined in the negative.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the motion to strike out the word "ten" and insert the word "fifteen."

On a division.

The motion was

Not agreed to.

Mr. QUAY. Mr. Speaker, I move to amend the resolution by adding the words "that a majority shall be competent to suspend this or any other rule of the House."

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman state his point of order?

Mr. BOYLE. I make this point of order: That the amendment of the gentleman from Beaver (Mr. QUAY) is not germane to the resolution.

The SPEAKER. The amendment offered by the gentleman from Beaver is but an addition to the proposed rule by the gentleman from Fayette. The Chair is, therefore, of the opinion that the amendment is strictly in order.

Mr. QUAY. Mr. Speaker, I call for the previous question on the amendment.

The call for the previous question was sustained by Messrs. Quay, Leech, Froeborn, Webb, Meily, Wallace, Kinney, Chase, Espy, Wingard, Kline and Linton.

On the question,

Shall the main question be now put?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. QUIGLEY and Mr. LEE, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Adaire, Allen, Armstrong, Chadwick, Colville, Day, Deise, Ewing, Froeborn, Gallagher, Gordon, Harrison, Jones, Leech, Linton, Mann, Pennypacker, Peters, Quay, Richards, Wallace, Webb, Weller, Wilson, Wingard and Woodward—26.

NAYS—Messrs. Barton, Boyd, Brown, Brennan, Brown, Cameron, Chase, Craig, Davis, De Haven, Espy, Fogel, Harner, Headman, Hoffman, Humphrey, Joseph, Korus, Kimmell, Kinney, Kline, Lee, Long, M'Camant, M'Henry, Markley, Marks, Meily, Quigley, Rhoads, Roath, Robinson, Satterthwait, Seiler, Sharples, Steacy, Stehman, Subers, Waddell, Wall, Westbrook, Whann, Worral and Glass, Speaker—44.

So the question was determined in the negative.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

borough of St. Mary's to borrow money and to extend the width of St. Michael street in said borough.

Referred to the Committee on Municipal Corporations.

Senate bill No. 201, an act to incorporate the Erie City passenger railway company.

Referred to the Committee on Passenger Railways.

Senate bill No. 204, an act to extend the time for completing the Clearfield and Cornwellsville turnpike road, and to allow tolls to be taken upon the portion completed.

Referred to the Committee on Roads, Bridges and Ferries.

The hour of one o'clock having arrived,

The SPEAKER adjourned the House until Monday evening at 7½ o'clock.

SENATE.

MONDAY, February 4, 1867.

The Senate met and was called to order at 7½ o'clock, P. M., by the SPEAKER.

On motion of Mr. CONNELL, the reading of the Journal of Friday last was dispensed with.

PETITIONS, REMONSTRANCES, &C.

Mr. CONNELL presented the petition of citizens of Philadelphia, praying for a bridge at South street, with a draw.

Referred to the Committee on Roads and Bridges.

Mr. DONOVAN, a petition from citizens of Philadelphia, praying that no bridge shall be built below Chestnut street without a draw.

Referred to the Committee on Roads and Bridges.

Also, the petition of citizens of Philadelphia, against the running of steam cars through the streets of the city of Philadelphia, which was read as follows, and

Referred to the Committee on Railroads.

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Pennsylvania, in Legislature convened:

The petition of the subscribers, citizens of Philadelphia, respectfully sheweth: That they are owners of property, or living on property, on or near the line of the Philadelphia, Germantown and Norristown railroad, and they believe said railroad to be a great nuisance; that it is dangerous to life and limb, and that it is a great detriment to improvements, and to the value of property on the line thereof. They, therefore, respectfully pray your honorable body to enact laws for the removal of said railroad outside of the built-up portion of the city; and your petitioners will ever pray, &c.

Signed by William Smith, Thomas H. Smart and others.

Mr. WORTHINGTON, the petition of citizens and propertyholders of and in the South ward of the city of Chester, Delaware county, asking for authority to erect water works.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

Also, the petition of citizens of Chester, Delaware, Bucks and Montgomery counties, asking for a law for the protection of farmers in Philadelphia markets.

Referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Domestic Manufactures.

Also, the petition of citizens of Chester and Montgomery counties, asking for an act to incorporate a company to build a bridge over the river Schuylkill, near Pottstown, Montgomery county.

Referred to the Committee on Roads and Bridges.

Mr. JAMES, the petition of citizens of Doylstown borough, for increased borough privileges.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

Mr. SHOEMAKER, the petition of citizens of Hanover township, Luzerne county, for an act to authorize the trustees of the proprietors of said township to collect and pay over moneys to a central poor house.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

Also, a petition from citizens of Kingston township, Luzerne county, relative to bounty laws in said township.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

Also, the petition of citizens of Jackson township, Luzerne county, for an act authorizing the supervisors of said township to collect one-third the road tax levied for road purposes in money.

Referred to the Committee on Roads and Bridges.

Mr. JACKSON, the petition of thirty-two citizens of Hillsgrove township, Sullivan county, praying for a change of the time of meeting of the auditors of said township.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

Mr. COLEMAN, the petition of citizens of Lancaster county, for the rebuilding of the Columbia bridge.

Referred to the Committee on Railroads.

Mr. BILLINGFELT, a petition from residents of York and Lancaster counties, of like import.

Referred to the Committee on Railroads.

Mr. FISHER, a petition of like import from Lancasterians.

Referred to the Committee on Vice and Immorality.

Mr. TAYLOR, the remonstrance of citizens of Beaver county, relative to the vacation of certain alleys in the borough of Beaver.

Laid on the table.

Mr. BIGHAM presented the documents, letters and memorials of sundry persons, asking the creation of an assistant district attorney for Allegheny county, and stated that he would have preferred having them read, but as they would probably consume much time he would simply present them.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES.

Mr. BIGHAM, from the Committee on Banks, reported as committed, a bill entitled An act to incorporate the Germania savings institution of Erie.

Also (same), as committed, a bill entitled An act incorporating the Real Estate savings institution.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, informed the Senate that the House of Representatives has concurred in the amendments made by the Senate to bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows:

No. 29, a joint resolution requesting Congress to pass such laws as will enable soldiers who have lost their discharges to receive the one hundred dollars bounty, under the act of Congress of July 28th, 1866.

TARIFF RESOLUTION.

Mr. BIGHAM. Mr. Speaker, I read in place and present to the Chair a bill entitled A joint resolution requesting our Senators and Representatives in Congress to urge the passage of the pending tariff bill. They were prepared early at your own suggestion, and if passed at all it is desirable that they should be assayed to-night. I do not think they would give rise to any discussion. I moved that the Committee on the Judiciary Local be discharged from the further consideration of the bill, and that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the same.

The motion was

Agreed to.

The resolutions were read as follows:

WHEREAS, THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES of the Thirty-ninth Congress at its first session passed a bill imposing duties upon foreign goods, wares and merchandise imported into the United States, and also securing increased protection to our industrial, manufacturing and mining interests;

And whereas, The Senate of the United States has within a few days passed this same bill with sundry amendments thereto;

And whereas, The Legislature of Pennsylvania deems the passage of this bill as vital to all the interests of this Commonwealth, and fears that further discussion of its details may endanger its final passage; therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of Pennsylvania in General Assembly:

1. That the members of the House of Representatives in Congress from Pennsylvania be earnestly requested to unite in passing the tariff bill in the form it came from the Senate, trusting to future legislation to correct errors, if such be found therein.

2. That if, in any possible contingency, this bill would hereafter come before both branches of Congress, that the Senators and Representatives in Congress from this State be earnestly requested to unanimously vote for the final passage of this bill, as the best that can be secured to replenish the national treasury and protect the industrial interests of Pennsylvania.

Mr. BIGHAM. Mr. Speaker, I think it is the unanimous wish of the people that we should pass these resolutions. I hope that both sides of the House will agree to it that it is our wish to see the pending bill passed as speedily as possible, for fear of certain contingencies that may arise, and as Congress will soon adjourn. It is desirable that the present bill, as it came from the Senate, should be passed. Congress can define its provisions hereafter. I do not wish to discuss the matter; I think we can unanimously agree on this subject. I think it would have a good effect.

The bill was read a third time.

Mr. BIGHAM. Mr. Speaker, I hope we shall have a unanimous vote, agree to it that it is our wish to see the pending bill passed as speedily as possible, for fear of certain contingencies that may arise, and as Congress will soon adjourn. It is desirable that the present bill, as it came from the Senate, should be passed. Congress can define its provisions hereafter. I do not wish to discuss the matter; I think we can unanimously agree on this subject. I think it would have a good effect.

Mr. SEARIGHT. I shall not vote for the resolution. I want to go on the record against this tariff bill. I believe it is a humbug. If it were a measure to relieve men who need protection, I would endorse it; but it is for the protection of capital. Introduce a measure for the protection of poor men, and I will vote in favor of it.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I have noticed by the papers that some of the members from New England are opposed to this bill. If that is so, there may be something wrong about it, and I do not think I can vote for it without knowing something more about it than I do to-night.

On the question,
Shall the resolution pass?
The yeas and nays were required by Mr. GRAHAM and Mr. TAYLOR, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingsfelt, Browne (Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Coleman, Connell, Cowles, Fisher, Graham, Holmes, Landon, Lowry, McConahy, Shoemaker, Stutzman, Taylor, White, Worthington and Hall, Speakers—19.

NAYS—Messrs. Davis, Denovan, Glatz, Jackson, James, Randall, Schall, Searight and Walls—9.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

During the call,
Mr. SCHALL said: Mr. Speaker, not having any knowledge of the tariff bill as passed, I shall be compelled to vote "no."

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. LOWRY offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

Resolved, That the Committee on Vice and Immorality be requested to bring in a bill forbidding the infliction of corporal punishment in schools and in prisons within this Commonwealth.

The resolution was adopted.
Mr. BIGHAM offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

Resolved, That the Committee on Education be instructed to inquire and report by bill or otherwise on the following points:

1. The propriety of changing the title of the Superintendent of Common Schools to that of Superintendent of Public Instruction, and giving him jurisdiction over and requiring annual reports from all the academies, female seminaries and colleges in the State.

2. In what manner the remaining two-thirds of the land scrip donated by Congress can be best used to promote the education of the industrial classes.

3. Into the expediency of aiding from the public treasury such schools as have shown themselves to be live, progressive, educational institutions; also, how far obsolete educational charters can be absorbed by neighboring live establishments.

That said committee, if deemed necessary, be authorized to call before it and examine under oath the leading educators of the State on all the points named above, and also to receive suggestions how the Legislature may insure the proper education of all the sons and daughters of Pennsylvania by our own educational institutions.

The resolution was adopted.

BOROUGH OF HIGHSPIRE.

Mr. COLEMAN moved the rules be dispensed with, and that the Senate proceed to the consideration of a bill entitled An act authorizing a special election in the borough of Highspire.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. Speaker, the election is to be held on the 12th of this month, and it is important that it should be passed.

Mr. SEARIGHT. I object to that bill being taken up this evening. There are things in it which are said to be objectionable.

Mr. COLEMAN. I would like to have it passed to a third reading.

The motion of Mr. COLEMAN was agreed to.

The bill was read a second time.

Mr. COLEMAN. I hope there will be no objection to this bill; I don't think there can be.

Mr. SEARIGHT. Mr. Speaker, I have understood that there is objection to it. I am not particularly interested on the subject, but it has been represented to me, by citizens of this county, that the bill is objectionable, and I would prefer, in view of the objection alleged against it, that it should take its regular course.

Mr. COLEMAN. This is the regular course of bills of this kind. There was a little discussion in the House; they thought there was a "nigger" in the wood pile, but there was not.

Mr. SEARIGHT. As I understand it, there was more than one "nigger" in the wood pile; there were several, both male and female; and the gentleman who represents my county in the House knocked the "nigger" out of it. It was proposed by this bill that everybody should vote at the election to determine whether that place should be a borough or not.

Mr. LOWRY. That is right.

Mr. SEARIGHT. Everybody except the women. I have been told, Mr. Speaker, by gentlemen of this county, that the town of Highspire has been duly incorporated by the proper court of the county, and that the whole subject has been legally determined by the courts which have jurisdiction over the subject; and I have been told that the proposition now is to repeal the decree of the court, and refer the question back to the people of this town, to say whether the decree of the court shall be binding upon them or not. It has been presented to me in that light. I never read the bill. If that is a true representation of the question, I think it is objectionable.

Mr. COLEMAN. It is a purely Democratic measure, to submit it to the voters. I know an instance in my own county. By the application of a certain member of parties, who got my town changed into a borough while I was absent; to my astonishment, I found myself in a borough when I got home. They had to apply to the Legislature to legalize their proceedings, and, by the consent of all parties, I got out of a borough; and this is a similar case. The people there, the majority of them—or at least, it is supposed so—did not desire to have a borough, and this is simply to test the feeling of the people, whether they want a borough or not. And if they do not, I think the majority should have an opportunity of saying so.

Mr. SEARIGHT. Now, Mr. Speaker, the question was determined by the proper court of Dauphin county, as I understand it, after a full hearing and a thorough understanding of the whole subject. It was not, as I am informed, done hastily, on the petition of a few persons. But, sir, I think the act of Assembly requires that the application of citizens to be incorporated into a borough, is the first object recommended by a grand jury; and in this case, the grand jury of this county of Dauphin recommended the incorporation of this borough, under the law which governs in such cases, and the grand jury of this county is supposed to be sound. I regret exceedingly to interfere in this matter, especially since the Senator from Lebanon seems desirous that this bill should pass, and I have always regarded him as a gentleman of fairness and candor; and I feel a little embarrassed in that view of the case, and that is about the only embarrassment I feel on the subject.

Mr. DONOVAN. I should like to ask the Senator from Lebanon [Mr. COLEMAN] one question: Whether he is willing to submit the question of running the cars on the Sabbath day to the people?

Mr. COLEMAN. I am, sir.

On the question,

Will the Senate suspend the rules, and read the bill a third time?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. DONOVAN and Mr. SEARIGHT, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingsfeld, Browne (Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Coleman, Connell, Cowles, Donovan, Graham, Haines, Jackson, James, Landon, Lowry, McConaughy, Randall, Shoemaker, Stutzman, Taylor, Walls, White and Worthington—22.

NAYS—Messrs. Davis and Searight—2.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

During the call,

Mr. DONOVAN said: Mr. Speaker, with the understanding that the Senator from Lebanon [Mr. COLEMAN] is to vote to submit the question of running cars on Sunday to the people, I will vote for this bill.

Mr. COLEMAN. I do not wish to make any bargains in regard to that, but I am in favor of the principle.

Mr. DONOVAN. Then I vote "yes."

The bill then

Passed finally.

BILLS CONSIDERED AND PASSED.

On motion of Mr. LOWRY, the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of a bill entitled An act to incorporate the Germania Savings institution of Erie.

The bill was read a second time.

Amended, on motion of Mr. LOWRY.

The bill, as amended, then

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. TAYLOR, the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of a bill entitled An act to vacate certain lanes and alleys in the plan of outlots of the borough of Beaver, in the county of Beaver.

The bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. WALLS, the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of a bill entitled "An act incorporating the Real Estate savings institution."

The bill was read.

Mr. WHITE said he thought the ninth section objectionable, as a large amount of our finances were raised from taxes on banking institutions, and by this section the company would have extraordinary privileges, without being taxed.

The bill was read a third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. DAVIS, the Committee on the Judiciary Local was discharged from the further consideration of bill entitled A supplement to an act entitled An act relating to the pay of jurors in the counties of Lehigh and Berks, approved the 23d day of March, 1865.

The bill was read.

Mr. DAVIS said the court was in session at the present time, and, if this bill was not passed, the jurors, owing to the increased rate of hotel charges, would not be able to pay their hotel bill.

The bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. JAMES, the Committee on the Judiciary Local was discharged from the further consideration of bill entitled A supplement to the act incorporating the borough of Doylestown, entitled An act to authorize the Governor to incorporate the Bristol steam tow-boat and transportation company, and for other purposes, and the rules having been dispensed with, the bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. CONNELL, the Committee on Corporations was discharged from the further consideration of bill entitled An act to incorporate the Schuylkill insurance company of Philadelphia, and the rules having been dispensed with, the bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. BROWN (Mercer), the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of a bill entitled An act relating to the powers of the legal representatives of deceased tax collectors in this Commonwealth.

The bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. STUTZMAN, the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of a bill entitled An act to attach certain lands and tenements in Bedford township, Bedford county, and the persons residing thereon, to Bedford borough for school purposes.

The bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. STUTZMAN, the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of a bill entitled An act to attach certain lands and tenements in Bedford township, Bedford county, and the persons residing thereon, to Bedford borough for school purposes.

The bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. M'CONAUGHY, the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of a bill entitled An act to change the venue in the case of Jesse Christopher versus Howard Miller, Geo. Hollinger and Daniel Harbolt, from the court of common pleas of Adams county to the court of common pleas of Dauphin county.

The bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. SHOEMAKER, the Committee on Railroads was discharged from the further consideration of bill entitled An Daily Legislative Record.

FOR THE SESSION OF 1867.

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY OF THE LEGISLATURE OF PENNSYLVANIA. No. 25.

TERMS OF THE DAILY RECORD.

THE DAILY RECORD will be furnished to Members of the Legislature and others at the following rates:

Members desiring extra copies of the Record, will please leave their names and the number of copies wanted at the publication office.

GEO. BERGNER.

act to incorporate the Lehigh and Norristown railroad company.

And the rules having been dispensed with, the bill was read a second time, and Agreed to, and Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

On motion of Mr. GLATZ, the SPEAKER adjourned the Senate until to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MONDAY Evening, February 4, 1867.

The House met at 7 o'clock, P. M.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. J. KENNEDY, member from Wyoming.

The SPEAKER announced a quorum of members present.

The Journal of Friday was read, and, there being no objections, was approved.

PETITIONS, MEMORIALS, &c.

Mr. M'KEE presented a petition from inhabitants of Robison township, praying for the repeal of an act authorizing and changing the manner of collecting taxes in the townships of Robison and North Fayette, Allegheny county, approved March 13, 1866, so far as the same relates to Robison township.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

Mr. WEBB, a petition from inhabitants of Springfield township, Bradford county, against any further bounty tax.

Referred to the Committee on the Military.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker I offer the following resolution.

The resolution was read as follows:
Resolved, That this House will hold a session to-morrow evening, February 5, to commence at 7 o'clock, for the special purpose of considering the consideration of Senate bill No. 8, entitled A joint resolution to ratify the Fourteenth article of the Constitution of the United States.

The resolution was read a second time.

Mr. JENKS. Mr. Speaker, the Railroad Committee meets to-morrow evening. Business of importance will be before that committee that requires immediate attention. I hope, therefore, the House will not occupy that evening in such a manner as to interfere with the meeting of that committee. The afternoon discussion of the amendment will, I suppose, afford sufficient instruction in reference to that matter for one day.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I hope the resolution will be adopted by general consent. The Railroad Committee could meet as usual and the discussion proceed if any gentlemen desire a further discussion. If not, and a vote is to be reached, the committee can be notified and adjourn long enough for the vote to be taken. This matter has been continued for a long time and ought to be disposed of. I hope the House will pass this resolution, so that we can close this matter up at once. It need not interfere with the meeting of the Railroad Committee, for if the vote is to be taken they can be notified and adjourn long enough to take the vote and then resume their business.

Mr. JENKS. Mr. Speaker, I have no objection to the House meeting at that time, provided it does not interfere with the meeting of that committee. If it is satisfactory to the chairman of that committee, and generally understood that the Railroad Committee meet at that time to discharge the duties assigned to it, I have no objection.

Mr. KERNS. Mr. Speaker, I understand the standing rules of this House prevent any committee sitting during the sessions of this House. Therefore it is impossible for this committee to sit during the session of this House.

Mr. M'CREARY. Mr. Speaker, could not the Railroad Committee meet to-morrow afternoon?

The SPEAKER. The consideration of the private calendar will probably occupy the most of the afternoon to-morrow.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I think all difficulty can be obviated. The Railroad Committee can meet with the consent of the House. The House can give them leave and it is a common occurrence to do so. If this resolution pass I will move that they have leave to meet during the session of the House on that evening.

Mr. JENKS. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will modify his resolution by an amendment to that effect I will have no objection to it. Move, as an amendment to the resolution, that the Railroad Committee have leave to sit during the session of the House.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Potter (Mr. MANN) accept the amendment?

Mr. MANN. Certainly, if that is proper to make it a part of the resolution.

Mr. WADELLE. Mr. Speaker, it strikes me that that amendment is not in order. It is a distinct proposition entirely, and is not germane to the resolution. Let them come up as separate propositions.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I preferred to have it as a distinct proposition, and I thought, myself, that it was hardly in order to accept the amendment. I think it would be better to adopt the resolution and then, by a separate proposition, give the Railroad Committee leave to sit during the session of the House.

The SPEAKER. The amendment is not exactly germane to the question, but the Chair is of the opinion that it is competent for the House to pass it with the resolution.

Mr. STEHMAN. Mr. Speaker, the Committee on Corporations also meet on to-morrow evening.

Mr. WADELLE. Mr. Speaker, I move that they also have leave to sit during the session of the House.

The motion was

Agreed to.

Mr. WADELLE. Mr. Speaker, there is one matter I would like to understand now. The Committee of Ways and Means made arrangements, at the request of the physician in charge of the Insane Asylum, to visit that institution to-morrow afternoon, and to witness an exhibition by the inmates to-morrow evening. Now, it is possible that the committee will not be able to be here in the early part of the evening. I want it understood that no advantage will be taken of our absence to pass the resolution to a vote in case we are not back in time. If we are not here, it will be from necessity, and not from any want of respect, or to avoid discussion. If it would be in order to amend the resolution so as to excuse the Committee on Ways and Means from attending the session of the House, I would like to have it done in some shape.

The SPEAKER. The Committee on Railroads, the Committee on Corporations, and the Committee on Ways and Means, together, number fifty-seven members, and if they are all permitted to be absent there will not be a quorum present to-morrow evening.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I hope the gentleman from Chester (Mr. WADELLE) will not press this amendment. There will be no difficulty in that respect. The object is to reach a conclusion in the discussion of this matter.

Mr. WADELLE. Mr. Speaker, this en-engagement was made with the resident physician last week, for this committee to spend a part of the afternoon and a part of the evening there. I do not care about a motion to excuse the committee, if it is generally understood that no advantage will be taken of their absence.

Mr. QUAY. Mr. Speaker, I move to amend by striking out "Tuesday" and inserting "Wednesday."

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I am sorry so much difficulty has been raised on the passage of this resolution. On Wednesday evening is the regular meeting of the General Judiciary Committee, and on Wednesday afternoon two special orders have already been made, with the view, I suppose, that this matter would be disposed of before that time. Wednesday afternoon special sessions have been ordered for special matters, and this question cannot go over until Wednesday without making greater confusion than if it were disposed of to-morrow afternoon. On Tuesday, I suppose, a large number of the members desire to go to Pittsburg. I take it, therefore, as quite certain that unless this matter is disposed of before to-morrow evening, it will go over for a week, and I therefore hope the House will let the resolution pass without amendment.

Mr. QUAY. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that the House can better afford to do without the Committee on the General Judiciary, at least the Republican side of the House, than the other committees. The result will be to-morrow, if these committees are not present, the Democrats will force the matter to a vote, and then vote the resolution.

Mr. PENNYPACKER. Mr. Speaker, I understand, sir, that a resolution passed some time ago making the consideration of the constitutional amendments a special order for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons of each week until disposed of, and last week, I understand, a resolution was passed making a special order for next Wednesday afternoon. I would inquire whether the first proposition to consider the amendments does not take priority of the other special order. I understand that if this matter is not disposed of before Wednesday afternoon, the amendments will then crowd it out. I think, sir, that we can settle this matter to the satisfaction of this side of the House, at least in one session.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the amendment of the gentleman from Beaver [Mr. QUAY] to strike out Tuesday and insert Wednesday.

The amendment was

Agreed to.

The resolution, as amended, was

Agreed to.
Mr. PENNYPACKER. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following resolution.

The resolution was read as follows:

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to examine into the practice and extent of adulterating medicines in this Commonwealth, and report whether any remedy is needed, by bill or otherwise, with power to send for persons and papers.

The resolution was read a second time.

Mr. WINGARD. Mr. Speaker, I move to amend by adding after "medicines," the words "and liquors."

Mr. PENNYPACKER. Mr. Speaker, I do not use the article very extensively myself, but I would suggest that it is included in the resolution already. I admit of the adulteration of medicines taken as a beverage, and I, therefore, oppose the amendment, because it would take the committee out of its legitimate course. The resolutions will include liquors, at least those embraced in the term vin gallici.

Mr. M'CREARY. Mr. Speaker, this is a resolution requiring a committee to prepare a bill to prevent the adulteration of drugs, and also to ascertain the extent to which this adulteration is carried. It is impossible to ascertain the extent to which this adulteration is practiced, for to do that it would be necessary for this committee to go to every drug store in the entire State. As regards a bill to prevent the adulteration of drugs, I see by the act of 31st of March, 1860, that it is made a misdemeanor for persons to adulterate medicines. The latter part of the act reads, "or shall adulterate for sale, or shall sell, knowing them to be adulterated, any drugs or medicines; such person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction, be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, or undergo an imprisonment not exceeding six months, or both, or either, at the discretion of the court." If the object is to prepare a bill to punish persons for adulterating medicines, or selling adulterated medicines, it will be merely duplicating what we now have. But if it is to ascertain the extent to which this adulteration is carried on, it will be simply impossible, for to do that, it will be necessary to examine every drug store in the State, and drug companies raised all the time for that particular purpose.

Mr. PENNYPACKER. Mr. Speaker, the law, as we all know, is at present a dead letter. It is proposed, by the raising of this committee, to inquire into the extent to which this adulteration is carried, and it can be done to an extent only. It is proposed to call before the committee men eminent in medicine and pharmacy, and see if there can be any remedy applied that shall be effective. This law is inoperative at present. We propose to examine into this thing closely, and if the House will pass the resolution, that we may do what is possible to remedy this evil. This adulteration has gone so far, and is carried on to such an extent, that practicing physicians cannot depend upon getting certain results by the use of certain medicines. We want to see if we cannot by some means get a law that will reach the case. I have an idea that if the House appoint this committee, they might provide some remedy that would be effective. We wish to consult with medical gentlemen and others on the subject, and I therefore ask the House to give us the committee that we may make an attempt to correct this evil.

Mr. HUMPHREY. Mr. Speaker, I would suggest to the gentleman from Chester [Mr. PENNYPACKER] that we limit this inquiry to druggists. If we make it unlimited it would be impossible to make the investigation required. I think we should limit it to druggists, wholesale dealers in drugs and medicines.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that we are going to a great extent in this House in the appointment of special committees. Suppose we appoint a special committee to ascertain to what extent every misdemeanor is carried on, and we will soon have the House entirely divided up into special committees. If this plan is to be fully carried out I would like to have a committee appointed to investigate the extent to which milk is adulterated. I presume the gentleman from Chester [Mr. PENNYPACKER] does not use a great deal of that article, but I should like to have the matter investigated for the benefit of those who do use it. The gentleman has stated that it is already a well known fact that drugs are adulterated to a fearful extent. Why, then, does he want a committee to investigate and ascertain a fact already well known? That fact is already established, and the law provides a remedy. The gentleman admits that this adulteration is carried on to so great an extent that no certain result follows from the use of medicines, and yet he wishes a committee appointed to investigate that same fact, and report by bill or otherwise. I do not see the use of this procedure, and would like the gentleman to explain himself more fully.

Mr. PENNYPACKER. Mr. Speaker, I do not think the gentleman gets at the right point. The object is to have this matter investigated that a remedy may be applied. We know the fact, but we want to go down to the foundation of this thing, and ascertain if the remedy so much needed cannot be made effective.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. Speaker, is not the remedy in existence if we only apply it? The law now makes it punishable as a misdemeanor.

Mr. PENNYPACKER. Mr. Speaker, that is the fact, but the law is inoperative. We wish to apply something that will be effective. I would say that if the gentleman will get up a resolution to appoint a committee to investigate the adulteration of milk I would have no objection. Every gentleman in this House, and every family in this Commonwealth is deeply interested in this question, and if, by any means, we can apply a remedy, we will accomplish a desirable object. In answer to the suggestion of the gentleman on the other side of the House [Mr. HUMPHREY], I would say that the committee, in their judgment would, of course, examine this question fully and not go beyond a point that would require a good deal of expense, et cetera, but examine the question and apply a remedy to the best of their ability. I have no objection to restricting the resolution and shall be happy to hear any suggestion that can be made to amend the resolution so as to better accomplish the object sought.

Mr. M'CREARY. Mr. Speaker, inasmuch as I am present, I will join in a part for raising this discussion. I would like to make a few further remarks on the subject. I cannot yet see, after the gentleman's explanation, any reason why we should adopt this resolution. If he wants to ascertain that drugs are adulterated we have his own word that such is the case. If he wants to provide a law to remedy this we have already a very severe law making this offense a misdemeanor punishable by fine and imprisonment. I cannot see what the gentleman proposes to accomplish. If he wishes to appoint a committee to ascertain to what extent this is carried on, he might just as well appoint a committee to ascertain the extent to which horse stealing, counterfeiting, or any other misdemeanor is carried on. We know the fact that horses are stolen and that money is counterfeited, and we have laws for the punishment of those offenses. What would be the use of appointing a committee to ascertain the extent to which these offenses are carried on? If the gentleman will refer to the act of March 31, 1860, he will find that it not only makes it a misdemeanor for a person to adulterate drugs and medicines, but also for him to knowingly sell drugs and medicines that are adulterated. The gentleman from Locoming [Mr. WINGARD] will find that it covers liquors used as a beverage, and several other articles, as will be seen by reading the first part of the act.

"If any person shall sell, or expose for sale, the flesh of any diseased animal, or any other unwholesome flesh, knowing the same to be diseased or unwholesome, or sell or expose for sale unwholesome bread, drink, or liquor, knowing the same to be unwholesome; or shall adulterate for the purpose of sale, or for any flour, meal or other article of food, any wine, beer, spirits of any kind, or other liquors intended for drinking, knowing the same to be adulterated, such person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor," &c.

I see that the penal code refers to this, and goes on to give the report upon the same. It shows that this matter has been considered very thoroughly. I have no objection to the passage of this resolution and the appointment of this committee if there is anything to be accomplished by it, but when we already have laws on our statute books I think it is an insult to those who made them to pass others of the same kind.

It is impossible to pass laws more severe, and if we keep on appointing special committees, this way, as my colleague suggests, the House will soon be entirely cut up with special committees, and when the committees meet, it will be impossible for the House to go on and do business.

Mr. COLVILLE. Mr. Speaker, I move to postpone the resolution indefinitely.

The motion was

Agreed to.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I call up my resolution to amend the rules.

The resolution was read as follows:

Resolved, That the following shall be a rule of this House:

RULE 62. A majority may discharge a committee from the consideration of any matter referred to it at any time after fifteen days subsequent to such reference, and from the consideration of any matter referred within fifteen days of the close of the session, on or after the second day succeeding such reference; and motions for discharge may be made when reports from committees are in order.

The question was on the amendment of Mr. QUAY, to allow a majority to suspend this or any other rule.

Mr. WINGARD. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of the resolution be postponed until after bills in place are read. I have bills which have been acted upon by committees and which have been in my hands for a long while to be reported; and I am satisfied this is the condition in which numbers of the gentlemen in this House are placed.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, this is a matter of considerable importance. After the orders shall have been gone through we will have very little time in which to take up this subject. I therefore move that it be postponed until Wednesday morning and made the special order.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I move to postpone indefinitely. I only desire to say I think this resolution would be disposed of this evening in a very short time. I do not know that there is any inclination to discuss it further. It has already been very fully considered, and I think it is well understood by this House at this time. My desire is that we go right on and vote upon the questions as they present themselves. I desire to add no further amendments before the resolution is finally disposed of. I think we had better proceed with it now; it has already occupied a great deal of time. If it is made a special order for Wednesday morning it will take a great part of the day. I think time will be saved by taking up this matter now.

I withdraw my motion for an indefinite postponement.

Mr. QUIGLEY. Mr. Speaker, I renew the motion.

I do not know whether my friend from Fayette [Mr. BOYLE] is prepared to vote on the amendment of the gentleman from Beaver [Mr. QUAY], I am not. I do not think this side of the House is ready to vote upon it. What does it propose to do?

A majority of the House can suspend any rule at any time. What protection has the minority? I, for one, am not prepared to vote for the amendment of the gentleman from Beaver [Mr. QUAY]. The majority could call up any bill and pass it in one day.

The minority would not have a chance even to discuss it. I am sure the gentleman from Fayette is not prepared to vote for such an amendment. I trust the resolution and amendment will be postponed to a specified time.

I withdraw my motion for an indefinite postponement.

The question was on the amendment of Mr. LEE, to make the resolution a special order.

On agreeing to the amendment,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BOYLE and Mr. JONES, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Adair, Allen, Armstrong, Barrington, Barton, Brown, Cameron, Chase, Day, Espy, Gordon, Harbison, Headman, Heltzel, Hoffman, Hood, Humphrey, Josephs, Kennedy, Kerns, Kimmell, Lee, Marks, Mechling, Mullin, Quay, Quigley, Rhoads, Robinson, Satterthwait, Seiler, Shuman, Steacy, Stehman, Stumbaugh, Subers, Waddell, Watt, Westbrook, Wingard, Woodard, Wright and Glass, Speaker—45.

NAYS—Messrs. Boyd, Doyle, Breen, Brenan, Chalcraft, Collins, Collier, Colville, Craig, Deiss, Ewing, Fogel, Freeborn, Gallagher, Harner, Hunt, Jenks, Jones, Kinney, Leech, Linton, Long, M'Creary, M'Henry, M'Kee, Maish, Mann, Meily, Pennypacker, Peters, Phelan, Pillow, Richards, Roath, Rouch, Sharples, Tharp, Wallace, Webb, Weller and Wilson—41.

So the question was determined in the negative—two-thirds not having voted for the amendment.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I would ask leave to inquire of the Chair whether this is not precisely the same resolution that has just been voted? It is true, the former motion designed that it be a special order on Wednesday morning; but is not this in effect the same?

The SPEAKER. It is not to be made a special order for Wednesday; it will not take precedence of other business, but will come up in its regular order.

On agreeing to the amendment of Mr. QUAY,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WATT and Mr. QUAY, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Adaire, Allen, Armstrong, Barrington, Barton, Breen, Brown, Cameron, Day, Espy, Fogel, Gordon, Harbison, Headman, Heltzel, Hoffman, Hood, Humphrey, Josephs, Kennedy, Kerns, Kimmell, Kinney, Kline, Lee, Marks, Mechling, Mullin, Pillow, Quay, Quigley, Rhoads, Roath, Robinson, Satterthwait, Seiler, Sharples, Shuman, Steacy, Stehman, Stumbaugh, Subers, Waddell, Watt, Westbrook, Whann, Wingard, Woodard, Wright and Glass, Speaker—60.

NAYS—Messrs. Boyd, Doyle, Brennan, Chalcraft, Collins, Colville, Craig, Deiss, Ewing, Freeborn, Gallagher, Harner, Hunt, Jenks, Jones, Leech, Linton, Long, M'Creary, M'Henry, M'Kee, Maish, Mann, Meily, Pennypacker, Peters, Phelan, Richards, Rouch, Tharp, Wallace, Webb, Weller and Wilson—34.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

After the call of the yeas and nays Mr. BARTON asked leave to record his vote.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I object to the gentleman's voting; he was within the bar of the House when his name was called. Mr. BARTON. Mr. Speaker, my name was occupied when the yeas and nays were called. My name was called, but I did not understand what the question was.

Leave to record his vote was granted.

The question was on the amendment as amended.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I move to postpone indefinitely.

Mr. WINGARD. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order. I wish to know how often the gentleman proposes to postpone indefinitely for the purpose of making a speech.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Fayette [Mr. BOYLE] moves to postpone indefinitely; the question is on the motion. The Chair is clearly of the opinion that the gentleman from Fayette is entitled to the floor, and to speak on that question if he thinks proper.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I do not desire to occupy the time of the House. There has been a disposition from the very beginning, in some quarters, to fight this resolution for some reason, I cannot tell why. I see no good reason why these side motions are made, consuming the time of the House, by gentlemen who pretend to be exceedingly anxious that the House shall lose no time. That is the pretense for refusing to proceed to the consideration of this resolution now. We have had three or four sessions on this subject, and all the time has been consumed by the means of which men who are opposed to the resolution. Now, gentlemen, you know that this matter may be disposed of in a few moments, if we would come directly to a vote. I do trust that the House will not adopt this resolution to postpone until Wednesday morning, because under the decision of the Chair a few moments ago, if that resolution to postpone be adopted without making it a special order, it is equivalent to killing the resolution now before the House, because it cannot be reached. I understood the Chair to say general orders would take precedence; Wednesday will go by and this resolution will not be reached. How would it come up? When would we reach it? I say, now, that any gentleman who votes to postpone this resolution till Wednesday morning votes against it. Gentlemen may conceal it as they please, it is only a mask. Gentlemen who vote for the postponement vote against the resolution. They may dodge it as they please, they will be held responsible for voting against it. I am willing to make this vote a test vote. I want it so regarded, here and elsewhere, I shall vote on it as such. I will vote against this resolution, desiring to save time.

I withdraw my motion to postpone indefinitely.

Mr. QUIGLEY. Mr. Speaker, I do not desire to discuss this question. I merely rise to reply to the remarks of the gentleman from Fayette [Mr. BOYLE]. I take it that every gentleman on this floor is responsible to his constituents for his votes. I do not think any gentleman has the right to lecture any one who differs with him on questions that may arise in the House. I believe we have a right to oppose his resolution.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will allow me I will say to him there are circumstances under which a gentleman will have a right to oppose this resolution; but there are other circumstances under which he will have no right to oppose it.

Mr. QUIGLEY. Mr. Speaker, I understand this if I understand anything at all, that I am not responsible to the gentleman from Fayette or any other gentleman for the vote I cast.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is responsible to me or any one else to whom he gives his resolution.

Mr. QUIGLEY. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Fayette nor any other gentleman can say that I gave my word to vote for such a resolution. Can the gentleman say so?

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I do say so. The gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. QUIGLEY] told me he was for this resolution.

Mr. QUIGLEY. I abstractly said so.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I would like the gentleman to explain what he means by "abstractly."

Mr. QUIGLEY. Mr. Speaker, I do not care about voting at random. I take it the gentleman has consumed more time on this resolution and been more factions and more persistent than any one on this floor. A moment ago a vote was taken on the postponement of this resolution and it was carried by a large majority. Now who is factions? I do not know what motive the gentleman has in introducing this resolution; but he has the right to introduce it and I have the right to oppose it.

When the gentleman proposed to alter the rules so that a majority shall discharge a committee, I told him I would support his resolution. But now, the resolution is in another form. We have just had the sense of the House on the postponement until Wednesday, and the gentleman was defeated by a large majority. I would like to ask him who is factions?

Mr. QUAY. Mr. Speaker. The gentleman from Fayette [Mr. BOYLE] alleges that the motion is fatal to the resolution, because it will not be in order on Wednesday. I will make a proposition to him if he will accept it. I will move to reconsider the vote on the original resolution of the gentleman from Locomotive [Mr. WINGARD], to make it the special order for Wednesday.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I agree to that.

Mr. WINGARD. Mr. Speaker, I don't recognize the right of any gentleman to lecture me here or any place else. I do not propose to accuse any gentleman with having any such purpose. I have to say that I do not act here or anywhere else with a mask. I want the gentleman from Fayette as well as this House to understand my position on this resolution. I oppose this resolution simply because I have endeavored several times during this session to introduce matters that were a little outside of the regular order of business, and I have been invariably met by gentlemen thrusting in my face the fact that we must dispose of the regular orders. I want the regular orders. As I said before I have bills that committees have instructed me to report to this House, and I desire to have them reported. I want them printed and before this House for its consideration.

If a further discussion as desired on this resolution let an hour be named for this purpose. This is the reason I accepted the amendment to my motion offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. LEE]. I am satisfied to have the largest amount of discussion on this subject.

Mr. QUAY. Mr. Speaker, I suppose, in order to fulfill the proposition I made to the gentleman from Fayette [Mr. BOYLE], a vote will have to be taken on the question now before the House. If carried, then I will make a motion for a special order for Wednesday morning. I suppose there will be no objection.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I ask the gentleman to amend the motion as it stands and make it a special order for Wednesday morning, at half-past ten o'clock. That certainly can be done.

Mr. QUIGLEY. Mr. Speaker, I will ask if this would not come up in regular order on Wednesday.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I wish to say the desirableness of having it a special order consists in this, that it then must be disposed of, except by unanimous consent.

The SPEAKER. The question before the House is to postpone until Wednesday next; that has been amended by the gentleman from Beaver [Mr. QUAY], to make it a special order for Wednesday morning next, at ten o'clock.

The amendment of Mr. QUAY was

Agreed to.
The motion, as amended, was
Agreed to.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Leave of absence was asked and obtained for

Messrs. GREGORY, MEYERS, M'PHERRIN, CAMERON and JENKS.

Mr. PENNYPACKER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a personal explanation.

The other day, during some remarks I was making on a certain bill, there were some matters spoken of that were accepted offensively by my friend from Philadelphia [Mr. LEE]. I wish to say that there was nothing personal intended. If it was accepted in such manner I am very sorry, and apologize to him and this House for it.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, to err is human, to forgive divine! I accept this as a proper and suitable explanation of the remarks of the gentleman.

I regard them as being made in the heat of debate, and without the intention that they would otherwise very clearly indicate. I have an apology to make to this House for the heat of that occasion. I think that was the first time in my life that I have been thrown off my guard, and I do not think I can forget myself again. I hold the gentleman from Chester in the highest estimation. He is one of my most ardent, particular and especial friends; therefore the accusation came with more crushing force. I accept the apology of the gentleman and ask the pardon of the House.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON COMPARE BILLS.

Mr. CHASE, from the Committee appointed to Compare Bills, and present them to the Governor for his approbation, made report, which was read as follows, viz:

That in conjunction with a similar committee from the Senate, they have compared, and on the first of February, presented to the Governor for his approbation, bills as follows, to wit:

No. 138, an act to pay Foster Gehr, clerk to the committee in the case of Glass vs. Linton

No. 11, an act for the relief of Nancy Welliver, widow of Jacob Welliver, a soldier of the Revolution.

No. 28, an act to authorize the commissioners of Jefferson county to borrow money.

No. 77, an act relating to the compensation of the commissioners of Chester county.

No. 233, an act relative to the assessment of bounty accounts in the county of Franklin.

Senate bill No. 106, an act to exempt from taxation certain property devoted to Masonic uses in the city of Reading.

Senate bill No. 110, an act to create a loan for the redemption of the over-due bonds of the Commonwealth.

Senate bill No. 135, a further supplement to an act to promote the more certain and equal assessment of taxes in Philadelphia, approved March 14th, 1865.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave of the House to offer the following resolution.

Leave was granted.

The resolution was read as follows:
WHEREAS, Anniversary has been extended to the members of the Senate and House of Representatives to visit Dix Mout Hospital, the House of Refuge, and other Western Pennsylvania institutions;

And whereas, It is understood that a large number of members of the Senate and House contemplate visiting said institutions; therefore,

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That this House will adjourn on Wednesday evening next, until Tuesday, the 12th instant, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

The resolution was read a second time.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I ask that the rules be suspended, and that this resolution be considered.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I do not wish to offer any objection to this resolution; but I understand it was consented by the House that we should adjourn on Thursday noon.

If we hold a session Thursday noon we will reach the public calendar. If we adjourn Wednesday evening we deprive the public calendar of one week's attention. It would answer all purposes to adjourn at one o'clock on Thursday.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, my object in offering this resolution was this: A desire has been expressed by many members present that we might start at such an hour as would enable us to travel over the mountains by daylight. Many gentlemen have expressed a desire to see the mountain scenery, and also that we might arrive at Pittsburg in daylight. If we start Thursday afternoon we will be obliged to travel at night, and will arrive at Pittsburg at a very unseasonable hour—2 o'clock in the morning. We will be unfit for the business upon which we are going.

The proposition I make is that we leave here Thursday morning, and arrive at Pittsburg at noon of the same day; then we will have time to look around, and the next morning we can go to the places we have been invited to visit. On Saturday, gentlemen who live on this side of the mountain can return, and those who live on the west can remain, if they choose to do so. My opinion is it would be better to hold a session Wednesday evening, anticipate Thursday's business, and start Thursday morning.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, if this resolution passes we put the public calendar over an entire week. According to the rules we give the calendar only three hours per week, and now we propose to confine a two weeks' calendar within the same limit. I regret very much that I seem to be in opposition to this resolution. I want, for once, to be in harmony with members who want to adjourn.

Mr. CHASE. Mr. Speaker, I would suggest that we hold three sessions to-morrow and three sessions on Wednesday. If we work well we can so have the business before us as to be able to leave on Thursday morning. Some members of this House have not seen the mountain scenery by daylight. It would be advisable to leave on Thursday morning; we will then have some time to rest on arriving at Pittsburg, and on Friday be in condition to visit these institutions. Those who are opposed to traveling on Sunday can return Saturday. I would, therefore, ask the members to grant us this privilege of adjourning on Wednesday evening until the Tuesday following.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I asked the House to hold a session to-morrow evening, simply because I knew we were to adjourn at the last of the week. I want to state now the effect of a refusal to hold a session. If we hold a special session to-morrow evening, we would then have Wednesday afternoon for the school bills, in which I suppose every person in this Commonwealth is interested. If we decide that this other matter shall go over—and it will take up Wednesday afternoon unless we dispose of it to-morrow—the result is, by refusing to hold a session to-morrow evening, we have driven over the school bill entirely. Now, the motion is to adjourn to-morrow evening, and so pass over all public bills. In that way we will give no attention this week to any public bills.

The question was on the resolution.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know whether we could return from Pittsburg Saturday by daylight, and so give gentlemen a view of the scenery on the way home instead of on the way out. I think a train leaves Pittsburg at eight o'clock in the morning and reaches Harrisburg by supper-time. I would like to inquire further whether we cannot visit these institutions in one day. I am just as anxious as the gentleman from Potter [Mr. MANN] to transact all the business before us. The great difficulty seems to be to make arrangements to suit the working of the House and the working of the committees. We have discovered within the last few days that it is important committees should work as well as that the House should work. They cannot report bills unless they have time to consider them. The House cannot work unless the committees work. At the same time I am willing to gratify the citizens of Pittsburg and pay them a visit.

Mr. SEILER. Mr. Speaker, I move to amend the resolution by providing that the House shall adjourn until Monday evening instead of Tuesday morning.

The motion was

Not agreed to.

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, I move to amend by providing that the House shall adjourn on Thursday at 1 o'clock instead of Wednesday evening.

The motion was

Not agreed to.

The question recurring on the resolution, it was

Agreed to.

On motion of Mr. JOSEPHIS, the House adjourned until 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

OBJECTED BILLS.

The following bills were objected to, under the rules, and will be laid over until next week:

No. 162, an act to amend the twenty-second section of an act revising the charter of the municipal corporation of the city of Reading, approved April 26, 1864.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, this act provides for an amendment to the charter of the city of Reading. Some time ago I presented a remonstrance unanimously passed by the council of the city of Reading. I do not know who read this bill in place; I consider it was entirely gratuitous on the part of some gentleman, and I object to it.

No. 171, an act to vacate Basin alley from Front to Second streets, in the city of Harrisburg.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Mr. Speaker, I object to this bill because I have been requested to do so by parties who wish further time to consider it.

No. 190, an act to incorporate the Rouseville bridge company.

Mr. WHANN. Mr. Speaker, this bill is in my district; it was introduced without my knowledge.

I object to the bill.

No. 192, an act relating to mountain roads in Perry county.

Mr. STUMBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, at the instance of some of my constituents I object to this bill.

No. 193, a supplement to an act appointing commissioners to lay out and open a State road in the counties of Potter and Clinton, approved the 16th day of March, 1865.

Amended by Mr. MANN.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, I feel some interest in this bill, inasmuch as one of the gentlemen therein named is a constituent of mine. I do not know that there is any interference with his interests, but I shall object to the bill at present.

No. 200, an act to incorporate the Boyd Farm and Petroleum Centre bridge company.

Mr. WHANN. Mr. Speaker, I object to this bill for the reason that it was read from my district without my knowledge. I do not know the corporators.

I object.

No. 201, an act relative to roads and highways in Schuylkill county.

Mr. COLLINS. Mr. Speaker, I object to this bill for the reason that one of similar import has just passed the Senate. It is on this calendar.

No. 213, an act to incorporate the Pioneer Run bridge company.

Mr. WHANN. Mr. Speaker, I object to this bill, for the reason that it was introduced without my knowledge.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

Senate bill No. 260, a supplement to an act entitled An act relating to the pay of jurors in the counties of Lehigh and Berks, approved the 23d day of March, 1865.

Senate bill No. 251, a supplement to the act incorporating the borough of Doylestown, entitled An act authorizing the Governor to incorporate the Bristol steam towboat and transportation company, and for other purposes.

Senate bill No. 262, an act to incorporate the Schuylkill insurance company of Philadelphia.

He also returned bills from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

No. 65, an act to vacate certain lanes and alleys in the plan of out-lots of the borough of Beaver, in the county of Beaver.

No. 60, an act authorizing a special election in the borough of Highspire.

No. 97, an act incorporating the Real Estate savings institution,

With information that the Senate has passed the same without amendment.

He also returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows:

No. 101, an act to incorporate the Germania savings institution of Erie.

With information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

OBJECTED BILLS OF LAST WEEK.

No. 99, an act relative to the several issues and other liabilities of the Mauch Chunk bank.

The question is on the amendment of Mr. MANN to the amendment of Mr. M'CREARY.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. Speaker, I trust the amendment of the gentleman from Potter [Mr. MANN] will not prevail; but rather the amendment of the gentleman from Erie [Mr. M'CREARY], making the limitation to this bill three years. The matter was pretty fully discussed last week, and I do not feel like thrusting any remarks on the House now. I will simply state that I wish the House to fully understand this question. This bank is one of the old State banks; it has gone out of existence entirely.

It did not merge into the national banking system, and its trustees are now endeavoring to settle its affairs. This bank was, perhaps, as good an institution as there was in the country at that time. On account of the national banking system it was obliged to go out of existence, the national banks having taken its place in that town. The trustees are anxious to settle up the affairs of this bank. They think there ought to be some limitation to which they might not be liable. This bank has no liabilities except the simple issues, and these issues are payable upon demand, so that the bank will be liable for all time to come until these issues are presented. The object of this bill is to bring in these issues and compel persons to bring the notes they hold. This bank has already been out of existence since the first of July, 1865, almost eighteen months. Now, if the three years' limitation is added it will make four years and over, which seems to be ample time for the redemption of all the issues of this bank. I trust, therefore, that this amendment for six years will not pass. I hope the amendment of the gentleman from Erie [M'CREARY] will prevail. I think that is ample and fair, just and right, and that is all the officers of the bank desire. They simply wish some limit in which to meet their issues.

The constitutionality of this act I suppose will not be questioned. The distinction seems to be that, though the Legislature may not impair the obligation of contracts, they may limit the time for the collection of issues.

The question being on the amendment of Mr. MANN,

It was not agreed to.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, it will be remembered that the reason given for desiring the passage of this bill, was that the bank might be unable to wind up its business. It was also stated by others that it was very desirable that there should be a general bill to enable all banks in a similar situation to wind up their business. Not to seem to be opposing that idea, and yet to frame a law that would do justice, I have drawn up a substitute which I think will accomplish that purpose. I think the House will see it will if I can only get it before them.

I therefore move to reconsider the vote by which the first section has been adopted.

The motion being

Agreed to,

Mr. MANN offered the following substitute:
AN ACT to enable State banks to settle and close up their affairs.

SECTION 1. That any State bank desiring to close up its affairs, shall be authorized to apply, by petition of a majority of its board of directors, to the court of common pleas of the county in which said bank was located, for the appointment of a trustee to take charge of and close up the entire business of said bank, relating to the redemption of unredeemed notes: Provided, That accompanying said petition the president and cashier shall present a true and correct statement, under oath, of the whole amount of the notes of said bank, which is outstanding and unredeemed, and in the same statement shall state that the said bank is ready and willing to pay into the hands of said trustee a sum of money sufficient to redeem all of the said notes outstanding or in circulation.

Sec. 2. That thereupon the said court shall appoint such trustee, who, before entering upon his duties, shall give bond, with such sureties as shall be approved by the court, conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties enjoined by this act, in double the amount of money proposed to be paid into the hands of said trustee.

Sec. 3. That the said trustee shall at all times redeem any and every note of said bank as par, in the currency of the country, upon presentation.

Sec. 4. That the compensation of the said trustee shall be such interest as may accrue to him on the investment of the said fund.

Sec. 5. That the court shall have power to redeem the notes of said bank; and such refusal or neglect shall be declared a forfeiture of the condition of the bond of said trustee; and the court shall have power to fill any vacancy that may occur in said trusteeship.

Sec. 6. That the said court may, at any time after five years subsequent to the appointment of any trustee as aforesaid, compel said trustee to make an exhibit of the funds of his trust, and to enforce its decree by the appointment of an auditor or auditors to restate and adjust the same, and to order and decree a distribution among the stockholders of the bank of such part of said fund as, in its discretion, it may think safe for the interest of the noteholders: Provided, however, That the payment to fill any part of the whole of the original fund, shall release the said trustee and his surety from the conditions of the bond: And provided, That in any distribution as aforesaid twenty per centum of the fund ordered to be distributed shall, in the discretion of the court, be applied to the payment of the cost of audit and to the trustee, as compensation in making said exhibit and distribution.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I do not like to detain the House at this time, but this bill proposes such a radical change in the responsibility of banks that I cannot, in justice to myself, permit it to pass without an attempt to make it objectionable; and I do this with the kindest feelings to the member who has this bill in charge in reference to the Mauch Chunk bank, and with no disrespect for that bank. I believe it was conducted by honorable and upright men. But every member in this House, and every person in this State, has a direct interest in this question, because if we pass an act to enable the Mauch Chunk bank to have its indebtedness outstanding in a year, then we may do that for every other bank in the State. This is a precedent, the first time in the history of legislation in this State, when it has been asked, after a bank has reaped all the benefits of its charter, after it has received extraordinary privileges from the Legislature of Pennsylvania by its charter, then, when he has ceased to reap privileges from his charter, to come in and ask to have additional privileges in having its debts annulled and canceled. I believe this is the first time in the history of this Commonwealth when such extraordinary privileges have been asked for, and I therefore hope they will not be granted. When this bank obtained its charter from the Legislature of Pennsylvania, it knew full well that at some time its chartered privileges would expire; at some time it would have to wind up its business. Now, then, it asked for this charter and obtained it upon the implied agreement and pledge with the Legislature that when it came to wind up its business it would do so according to the laws applying to such institutions. That was the agreement between the Legislature and this bank. But having reaped all the benefits of its charter, it now asks us the additional advantage of being able to discard all debts not presented within a certain time.

I do not propose to argue that question further. It seems to me perfectly plain. Now, I offer to this bank, and to all banks, by this substitute which I have presented, the way to relieve themselves from all care in the redemption of their notes. It will not cost them a dime. That is, that they shall report to a court all the outstanding bills which they owe, and shall appoint a trustee, taking from him sufficient security, and place the money in his hands. The interest accruing on that money will pay all the bills.

This is a simple and honest way of winding up banks, will cost the banks nothing, and secure to the bill-holders the payment of their bills. I hope, therefore, the substitute will be adopted. That will enable these banks to close up. I think the bill-holders will be paid, and will be a precedent which will be a notice to all bill-holders in Pennsylvania holding the bills of any bank in the Commonwealth, that their bills will be secured and paid so far as the action of this Legislature is concerned.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. Speaker, I hope the House will not change this bill, which is local in its character, into a general one. I have no objection to the gentleman's substitute as a general bill, because I think he is right for any bank to take the benefit of it. But this is a purely local bill concerning the county which I have the honor to represent. I do not understand why this objection should be made to this bill particularly, and why a general bill should be substituted. I do not know that there is another bank in the State, situated like this one, because most of the banks in the State have been merged into the National banking system, and when persons present the bills for the old State banks, they have a place to redeem them. But this bank has no organization, and has gone into liquidation so far as possible. It has appointed its trustees, and these men are engaged in settling up its affairs, and they desire to have some way to bring in these issues. I have no objection to the gentleman's bill, but I do not want it tacked onto the bill I have introduced. If it is it will very likely kill the bill, because it will then go on the public calendar, and may not be reached this Session. I hope this substitute will be voted down. The bill giving it three years in which to wind up its affairs I think is just and fair, and I trust it will pass.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I cannot see the force of the objection of the gentleman from Carbon [Mr. CHATW] to this substitute for the bill. I think that the bill is very objectionable.

ble in the direction that the gentleman from Potter [Mr. MANN] has pointed out. I think the substitute is in every way and every degree fair, equitable, proper and right. The objection that the gentleman from Carbon urges is that it is a local question. I wonder how he makes that out. Every man in every county in this Commonwealth may have one of the bills of that institution, and in what sense is it local, except that it did its business in a certain place? The gentleman urges none except the simple fact that it was a local institution. Now, what objection can the gentleman urge against having that banking institution that, in its operations, is like every other banking institution, come under a law that he deems is a good law to apply to banks generally? What earthly objection can he have to it applying to that bank? If it will settle the affairs of any other bank profitably and equitably, and give the least possible trouble to everybody, why is it not as good for the Manch Chunk bank as for any other bank? But the idea that it is a local institution of course has no weight whatever. There may not be notes of Carbon county who has a note of that bank, and there may be persons in every other county in the Commonwealth who have. That is likely to be the case, for the people of Carbon county can easily reach that bank and get their money, and it is only those who live in remote counties that will be likely to retain notes of that institution. The probability is that so far as this being a local institution is concerned, there is not a man in Carbon county who has one of those notes, and probably not only those in remote counties from Carbon that hold the notes of that institution, so that, in no sense, except that its banking house is located in Manch Chunk, is it a local institution. It affects every county in this Commonwealth, and it may affect men in every county on this globe. Unless there can be some tangible reason urged against it, unless there can be some really good reason given us against that substitute, I trust that it will be adopted, and that special provisions will not be made to apply to that bank that will not apply equally to every bank in the State. It is perfectly fair and right, and wholly unobjectionable, so far as I can see.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, when this bill was up the other day, I suggested, I believe, that there might be some constitutional objections to it. I have not had time to examine that question myself, but I have consulted one or two gentlemen who have taken occasion to look into the question, although not as fully probably as the importance of the question would require, and they are of the impression that it would not be subject to constitutional objection. And yet, sir, there is still that feature about the bill of the gentleman from Carbon [Mr. CRAIG] which is to say the least of it, somewhat objectionable to my mind. I do not like that character of legislation which seems to be attacking the principle which all the courts of this Commonwealth are exceedingly loth to attack. I therefore feel disposed to sustain the substitute which the gentleman from Potter [Mr. MANN] has offered. It removes that objectionable feature which cannot help presenting itself to the mind of every man who has taken time to reflect upon the general character of this kind of legislation. Again, in the course that the gentleman from Potter [Mr. MANN] suggests by his substitute, is that which, to some extent, already exists by the general law in relation to banks. Our predecessors, no doubt having foreseen this difficulty, in drawing their laws in reference to winding up banks in various situations, have pointed out that about such a course as this shall be pursued. The act of 1850 provides that where a majority of the stockholders of a bank shall deem it important to wind up the affairs of the institution, they shall have power to make an assignment, and place it in the hands of trustees, who shall go on and settle up the affairs of the institution. The substitute of the gentleman from Potter is broader than the act of 1850, and probably contains in it features very desirable for the protection of the holders of these obligations of the institution. Therefore, while feeling loth to throw any obstacle in the way of granting anything that the gentleman from Carbon desires, I shall feel disposed to favor the amendment of the gentleman from Potter. It may submit the gentleman from Carbon to some delay, but notwithstanding the impression that the action of the House this far may convey, I hope this House will give proper consideration to the bills on the public calendar, and that before the close of the session we will go through with the general laws which affect the public generally as much as three-fourths of the local laws, in the consideration of which we spend so much time. I think, therefore, the gentleman from Carbon need not feel that it is utterly lost if this should become a general law, instead of a local one.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I do not think the gentleman from Carbon need have any apprehension about the matter, because I suppose all the discussion on this subject has been had already. The House understands its import, and I shall very cheerfully and cordially vote for the bill that I think will suit the gentleman and the people of his district better than the original one he introduced. I do not offer this objection to the bill because I desire to oppose the gentleman's proposition; on the contrary, I seek in a better way to subvert them than his bill does. I do not think when it comes before the House as a general bill, it will elucidate a single word of discussion.

The question being on the amendment of Mr. MANN, it was On motion of Mr. MANN, the title was amended to correspond with the body of the bill.

The bill was read a second and third time, and Senate bill No. 52, an act to vacate part of Spruce alley, in the Ninth ward of the city of Pittsburg.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, there is a decided opposition to this bill at home. You will also observe that it contains a clause requiring the consent of the city councils before it can become a law. This has not been given. I therefore move its indefinite postponement.

The question being on laying the bill aside for a second reading,

It was not agreed to.

No. 76, an act to change the venue in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Jesse R. McCarty, Joshua R. McCarty and Charles Norton, from the court of quarter sessions of the peace of Sullivan county to the court of quarter sessions of the peace of Bradford county.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, as a member of the committee from which this bill was reported I cannot agree to its consideration without such an explanation of the attending circumstances of its presentation as will enable the House to act, at least, understandingly upon it, if not adversely. It appears that, in this case, certain persons were judges of election in one of the districts of Sullivan county; that at the recent election a vote was presented, and refused by them upon the mere allegation of a bystander that the person who offered to vote was a deserter, although his name was not upon the published list of deserters, and although he had in his possession then, and has now, an honorable discharge from the service. These facts were distinctly set forth by the Senator from Sullivan [Mr. JACKSON] before the committee, and yet the gentleman from Bradford [Mr. KINNEY], who presented this bill, affected great surprise that the Senator from Sullivan, or any one else, should resist the passage of this bill, because it was the petition of one hundred and eight local citizens. Now, I apprehend, Mr. Speaker, that this House is not to be controlled nor governed by the petition of any number of citizens, but that it is to be governed in its action by what it deems to be right; that the petition of these men has only called the attention of the House to the subject, and that it is appropriate now for us to enter into the consideration of its proper merits. There is no cause to believe, sir, against the integrity of the judges of the peace in Sullivan county; but they are arraigned by these local citizens because they are supposed to hold opinions upon questions of law which are inconsistent with the notions of the election judges, against whom an indictment has been found, and their one hundred and eight loyal friends, who are our virtuous petitioners.

The practical sense of the petition is that the culprits desire a change of venue because they differ in opinion from the court before which they are arraigned, upon the law governing their case; and this, I have no doubt, if the law and the precedents established, would be the prevalent pretext of every criminal in the Commonwealth.

This question was argued several days ago upon a similar case, and I suppose the same arguments which were then advanced will be repeated now; and I will, therefore, take the liberty of referring to them, and of inquiring into their validity or soundness. The only reason that was attempted to be given was by the gentleman from Potter [Mr. MANN] that in that case—and I suppose the same rule would apply to this, for I believe no other reason is assigned—the law was prejudged by the judges of the court having the proper jurisdiction. Now, I would ask the gentleman, or any other gentleman, how many cases there are arising in any of our courts that are not prejudged? Nearly every one is governed by some general principle of law, with which it is the duty of every law judge to be familiar, and if no judge could have jurisdiction of a cause unless the principle governing it were novel to him, I apprehend that we would have very unfit persons to sit in judgment. The decision of the court in almost every case is governed by some general principle of law, which is our best security, for otherwise too much would be left to the discretion of the judges, and scarcely any such principle is new to our judges, who are supposed and required to be learned in the law. It is the business of the judges of the courts to have positive opinions upon all principles of law, and they may be, therefore, said to prejudice them, for when cases are presented to them, and tried by them, the question is generally upon the facts, and when the facts are proved the judge is to apply certain well known and established principles of law to those facts, and as he believes, sir, that there is no question as to the integrity of the judges of this court. If there were a question as to their integrity, or to the integrity of any one of them, he should not only be deprived of his jurisdiction in this particular case, but he should be removed from his seat upon the bench altogether. Because, if the judge, for want of honesty of purpose, or want of integrity, is unfit to try this case he is unfit to try any case, and ought to be removed from his high and responsible position.

But no such charge is made, and, therefore, it is not a question of integrity or honesty of purpose, but a mere matter of opinion. And this House is undertaking to say that because the judge of a court differs from us in opinion upon any particular case, that he is, therefore, disqualified to sit in judgment upon it. Let us see how far this will carry us. It is the prerogative of the Legislature to pass laws. It is equally the prerogative of the judge of every court, or any court, in this State to construe these laws and to determine upon their constitutionality; because the judge of a court is sworn to support the constitution of Pennsylvania, and if this Legislature enacts any law which he believes to be inconsistent with the provisions of that instrument, it is not only his privilege, but his duty to regard it as unconstitutional, and as an improper law to be enforced.

It is, in every sense, his duty to give his opinion on the subject, whether it is the prevailing opinion or not, and without reference to what this House pretends or presumes to say in regard to it. By changing the venue in this case, the Legislature presumes to say that it will not only be the legislator, but that it will also be the judge; that it will pass a law at one session; and if the judge of any court presumes to question its validity or presumes to differ in opinion from the majority of this body, that at the next session it will disqualify him from sitting in judgment upon that and all similar cases. It practically amounts to this: That at one session of the Legislature we will enact a law, during the recess we will ascertain the several opinions of the different judges upon this law, and whenever their opinion happens to differ with ours we will, at the next session of the Legislature, change the venue of all cases coming under that law to courts where the opinion of the judges coincides with our own, and thus deprive them of their proper jurisdiction. It practically amounts to the enactment of a law at one session by this House, to ascertain the opinion of the several judges in the Commonwealth upon this question, and then at the next session, by changing the venue, to determine that only such judges shall have jurisdiction of these questions as happen to agree in opinion with this body. And, sir, I submit the practical statement in this form, and if this law is to be enacted, though I really hope that upon a fair consideration of the question this House will see the impropriety of its enactment, and that the majority will not vote for it—but if the measure is to be passed, let it go to the people with this distinct understanding, that if a judge of this Commonwealth, however learned in the law, or however honest in purpose, presume in his folly, sir, to question the wisdom of this House in passing certain laws, and in construing them, he shall, for that reason, and no other one, be deprived of his jurisdiction. I submit that this is a fair statement of the case, and that this is fairly the proposition to go to the people, and if the majority of this House presume to pass this act, let it be, sir, with that understanding.

Mr. KINNEY. Mr. Speaker, a few days ago I presented the petition of some one hundred and twenty citizens of Sullivan county praying for a change of venue in the case now under consideration.

The petitioners comprise the most intelligent and law-abiding citizens of that county, and they deliberately set forth the fact that, in their judgment, justice cannot be done to the defendants if tried in that court. For one, sir, I feel bound to respect their opinions and grant their petition.

Now, sir, I am sure that you will be feeling as we regard the Democratic elements of that vicinity in consequence of the law of Congress passed, modifying the punishment of deserters from that of death to disfranchisement. That law of Congress was indorsed by this Legislature last winter. The opposition to that law is peculiarly intense in that county. The patriotic class of citizens who fought Lee in Canada—who took Richmond by way of Quebec—appeared to be hugged to the bosom of Democracy and defended, because they fairly and fully represented the views of their fellow copperheads in the great struggle just closed. The issue of the late campaign in that county turned largely upon their right to spurn and ignore this law. The party in power then, alleging that the deserters had been oppressed and ostracised, marshaled them for the polls, and in every election precinct but one they voted, regardless of this law. In that one, they were refused the right, and the board were prosecuted to answer in the court of quarter sessions for that county.

I said, sir, that Sullivan county contained a large class of patriotic citizens who took the wrong road to Richmond. Now, sir, they did not all march any road. Sullivan having a large mining district and extensive tracts of timber, of course they had their full share of shirks and deserters. Here they were shielded and fed by those in affinity with them. It became an extensive camping ground. Wherever in the State you find these underground regions, you may also find this sweet-scented element of Democracy, always ready to defend their country by staying at home to vote the Democratic ticket. Hence, true to their friends and consistency, we find that party flying to their rescue whenever it is proposed to punish a deserter! This House can well imagine that the feeling is deep seated, and entirely unfeeling, to do overhanded justice in a case involving political differences amounting to hate. We might as well try a case of Southern loyalty before a jury of rebels.

The president judge of that court was a candidate for Congress in that district last fall, and he, with others, inaugurated and carried on a bitter partisan campaign. He, in my judgment, has prejudged this case by his decision in the adjoining county of Wyoming, precisely such a case having been before him. Now, sir, if he has already declared this law negatory, what show of justice have these men before him, his associates, and a jury of bitter partisans, who only seek the opportunity to vent their political handed justice on these law-abiding men? Under the circumstances existing in that county, the judicial ermine would be tarnished by the trial there of a cause already prejudged, in a court deeply embittered by unyielding prejudices.

The court of Bradford county, thank God, has never been invaded by partisan venom. Our jury box is free from any such taint. In all fairness, these men should be permitted to have their trial there. And if we do not choose to stultify our own acts, we will grant the prayer of the petitioners in asking this change of venue. I trust, sir, that all these efforts of delay which have thus far met this bill at every step, will prove failures, and that the justice and good sense of this House will put their factious opposition at rest.

One word in regard to honorably discharged soldiers. Soldiers may have been honorably discharged, and they may have re-enlisted after this honorable discharge and proved deserters. This I presume to be the case in this instance, although I do not know it to be so.

Mr. DEISE. Mr. Speaker, I must confess my surprise at the arguments of the gentleman from Bradford [Mr. KINNEY]. If we do not, as I take it, discussing a question before a town meeting, but we are discussing an important act of a legislative body. The reasons, I think, given by the gentleman from Berks [Mr. JONES], were sufficiently distinct and clear to enable this House to properly judge of the importance of this question. If this is to be a question for the conviction of Copperheads, as the gentleman terms them, in the county of Bradford, or if it is to be for the acquittal of loyal men in the county of Bradford, before this Legislature, then I will admit that the gentlemen on the other side have the advantage of us. But I take it, sir, that it is a question of law, a question of right, we are here to determine; and it is to be the jury, gentlemen, that because you have the majority in the legislative body, that because persons have violated the law of the land that belong to your party, that you will transfer them for trial to the respective political counties in which you have a majority of judges and jurors? Do you intend to denounce, by the legal conviction, the integrity, the purity and the honor of the Democratic judges in this Commonwealth? Why, sir, the gentleman must not forget that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has certain rights in the trial of all cases. Are you afraid of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania? If the judge of Sullivan county does not discharge his duty, and does not lay down all of the law as it exists, you have the right of a writ of error by which the case can be reviewed in the Supreme Court, in which you have a majority, politically, on the bench. But if you transfer this case to the county of Bradford, and if the assumption is true that the law passed by the Legislature will be declared constitutional, then the Commonwealth has no right to the writ of error, and cannot have the case reviewed. I hold that it is your duty, as speedily as possible, to relieve the minds of the people of the Commonwealth upon the constitutionality of this act. Judges and inspectors of election in every county in this State are not clear as to what their duties are under this act—the Democratic party asserting that it is unconstitutional, and the Republican party as persistently asserting that it is constitutional. Now, how are these judges and inspectors to ascertain what their duties are? Let us have a decision in the highest courts in Pennsylvania upon this question. The Democratic party do not fear a decision in the Supreme Court. Are you afraid of that decision? Are you afraid of a decision of your own men?—you have three of them upon that bench. Then, if the Commonwealth has no right to the writ of error; if she cannot review the judgment in this case, and in no way on either side of this House will dispute that, then shall we not have the privilege of having this question tested before the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania? Is the expense attendant upon this case to be put upon a Democratic county, because Republicans have violated the law? I do not like to charge you with that, upon the other side. But it occurs to me that the argument of the gentleman from Bradford [Mr. KINNEY] would warrant it—that because a Republican violated the law, he must be tried in a Republican county, and because a Democrat attempts to enforce the law, he, as prose, cutor, must be dragged into a Republican county. Why, gentlemen, what record are you making? Do you believe that all the Democratic judges, and all the Democratic jurors of the Commonwealth, are dishonest, and that they will not decide fairly by the law of the land? I am not prepared to say that as to the other side. During the most heated days of partisan strife in my own county (a Democratic county), we had a Republican judge upon the bench, and there was no difficulty of this character. We all agreed, Democrats and Republicans, that the judge was honest, and that the jury drawn there were honest; and we were willing to submit the rights of the people before that judge and jury.

Now, why should you say that for no other reason than that the judge is a Democrat, and the county is Democratic, that you should transfer this case from Sullivan to Bradford county and entail the cost of this prosecution upon the county of Sullivan? I have never heard a charge of venue asked for in a court of law, or in a legislative body before, where the party did not furnish some legal and just reason why he would not receive a fair trial. You will find many cases of assault and battery, misdemeanor and other offenses, that have their origin in political parties. Is it then to be the duty of the Legislature to differ in these are political questions, and will transfer all such cases for trial from Democratic to Republican counties?

Now, if these defendants will come forward and swear that for some reason, aside from political prejudice, they cannot have a fair trial, I will vote for the change of venue. But where are we drifting, I ask in all candor, of the other side of the House? Where are we to stop this political malice? If you permit it now to permeate the court and the social circle what a community we will have. Is it true, I ask, that because I differ with you politically that under the oath I have taken, I am not able to do you justice for no other reason than because I differ from you politically? Are you willing to say that of judge and jury, and citizens, who are your equals in ability, in position and in social standing? If that is true declare it by your votes. I do not come here with the miserable subterfuge of "Copperhead" and "Lee's allies"—that is played out! That is played out, Mr. Speaker, when applied to the Democratic party. We are your equals in social position, in moral worth, and in devotion to the Constitution. The Supreme Court of the United States, and of this State, have sustained all the doctrines of the Democratic party, and it illy becomes gentlemen here in this legislative body, for no reason than for party differences, to assert that the Democratic party are deserters and the allies of Lee. In every little thing that comes up, we must be taunted and charged with being Copperheads and sympathizers with treason, when we are doing our duty under the oaths we have taken, and the laws of the Commonwealth. I tell you that if this great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania once loses its confidence in the social status of the community, if we are to distrust and disregard the rights of our neighbors because they differ with us upon politics, farewell to the safety and security of this country.

I am here as a Democrat. I profess to be an honest man. I respect every Republican that differs with me upon political questions. I am willing that he shall be my peer. I am willing that he shall be my equal. I am willing that he shall differ from me, but so help me God, I am not willing that he shall on every occasion denounce me as a traitor and sympathizer with treason. This country is a part of my heritage. We fought together to establish it, and with the help of God, the Democratic party will help to preserve it. And when you tell us that we retreated to Canada, you utter that which you know is untrue and unfair. Let us try this, as all other questions, by law and justice. Let us discard politics. Let us look and see whether these parties stand in a position to require legislative interposition. If not, go upon the Record and say that, for every political offense, you will change the venue from Democratic to Republican counties. But I ask them to exempt the large and respectable portion of two hundred and ninety thousand voters from aspersions of that character. It is undue us, it is not respectable, and it is unbecoming a legislative body. Mr. Speaker, I am done.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. Speaker, residing in the northern part of this district, I have some knowledge of the course pursued by the judge who has jurisdiction over the case here named, and all cases of that kind. A case was tried in Wyoming county where he sat, and he assumed to decide upon the constitutionality of a law, which I believe to be the prerogative of the Supreme Court alone. Had I been upon an election board and refused a deserter's vote I should not be willing to be tried before that judge. And in this instance the decision is premeditated, and so named by the decision maker, and takes on the opposite side of the House. The ground is taken that this judge has a right to decide upon the constitutionality of the laws passed by this honorable body. I take exception to this doctrine. It is the business of the Supreme Court to decide upon these questions, and I hold that laws that are passed by this body, that have not been decided unconstitutional by the Supreme Court, are laws that are binding until such decision is made, and I would not be willing to be taken before any court for that where the judge assumed to pass this decision himself, and take the place of the Supreme Court in her decisions. I am for a change of venue in this particular case. The gentleman who has just taken his seat seemed to assume what the decision would be. If the individual is not a deserter, as asserted, and the fact is established before the court in Bradford county, of course he would have his remedy.

They say they are not afraid to go before courts that have Republican judges; neither need they be afraid, because there has been no decision passed by them upon the constitutionality of the laws enacted by this honorable body; and if that individual is not a deserter, I will warrant him to have a due remedy in the course pursued by that court. If he is a deserter the probability is that the thing will pass no further than the grand jury, as it ought in instances of this description. The decision of the Supreme Court is anticipated by the gentleman upon the opposite side of the House, and well he may anticipate it, knowing that the majority of that body are of the same politics as those who are opposing the change of venue in this case. They are deciding against the constitutionality of all laws that seek to restrict those in that portion of our country which has been broken in pieces by a course of wrong and unconstitutionality.

We may well know what their decision may be. There are other instances in which the venue is desired to be changed inasmuch as this honorable body has passed a law that the Democratic party declare to be unconstitutional. I do not believe that the majority will stand by the laws they have passed, until they are decided to be unconstitutional by competent authority. I do not believe this body should pass laws affecting any individual in our community and suffer that individual to bear punishment for standing by that law, by deserting him in his time of trial. I say that this body, having passed a certain law touching the right of suffrage so far as deserters are concerned, now to leave those men that stand in their course to this law, in the hands of those that have determined beforehand that they will inflict pains and penalties upon them for keeping those laws, is not doing right. If they cannot be saved in the place where they have lived up to the law, let us change the venue to where they can be, and let us stand by the laws we have enacted here, until a decision of the Supreme Court is given that the law is unconstitutional. I am, therefore, in favor of this change, and am in favor of a change in every part of the country upon the same point; and I would go as readily for a general law upon this proper officer, the name in every county where Democratic judges have jurisdiction, to other places where the majority are of a different complexion.

Mr. JENKINS. Mr. Speaker, I have no desire to occupy the attention of this House unnecessarily. It is due it, however, to be informed of all matters of fact connected with this case. I find, by reference to the petition of these said to be loyal men, who now pray for the change of venue in that case, the name, upon that petition, of one Abel M. Cary. I find, by reference to the certificate of the proper officer, the name of Abel M. Cary upon the list of deserters in that township. Here, sir, is a deserter, said to be a loyal man, certified to as a deserter and petitioning that persons charged with the violation of the law should have the benefit of trial by partisans, in order that through partisan influences they may be cleared. This, sir, is the statement of loyal men who here petition—deserters petitioning. This, sir, is a specimen of the men that the gentleman from Bradford [Mr. Cary.] has been pleased to call loyal, brave men, who stood up for their country in this transaction. I merely wish to call the attention of the House to this fact, in order that we may know who these loyal men are, in order that when we vote to grant the prayer of these loyal petitioners the country may know what kind of loyal men we approve of—praying deserters.

But let us examine the principle in this case. I do not put this upon partisan grounds. I have no sympathy with partisan appeals. I have no sympathy with party passions or party prejudices, and I do not want this House to have sympathy with party measures or prejudices that relate to the dispensation of justice. They have no right to have those feelings, and it is a violation of right to act under their influence—it is a violation of the oath that each legislator takes, the oath that each member of this House takes to do right—to do right alone. I, therefore, call upon them to disregard all these appeals to party or to party prejudices. We have nothing to do with it. It is a judicial question, and a judicial question alone, and so we should act, and in that manner we should act. We have gone far enough, by these appeals, to set man upon his fellow; we have done enough to destroy the peace of society; we have done enough to army community against community. It is now time, sir, that we should turn from this course and act upon right principles; and when questions address themselves to the judicial discretion of this House, it is our province to exercise judicial discretion, and not to let partisan feelings interfere with us at all. In the name of humanity, I call upon this House to be governed by these principles, and in the name of the peace of society, I demand it. In the name of the Constitution which was meant to cement society together, I demand this; and I have a right to demand it.

Let us examine and comment upon these records, on the part of the loyal men, these loyal persons who have been indicted and who now ask that they may have the benefit of party prejudice and feeling, in order to be saved in their own favor. Here are three men charged with a crime. The information has been filed in the proper court and the grand jury has acted upon that information and returned a true bill. If the jury that is bound to try this case finds incorrectly, or if there have been corrupt influences brought to bear in selecting jurors in that county, they have the right to challenge the array—the whole jury through the challenging power may be prevented from trying them; that is one of the safeguards. If there have been corrupt influences used in summoning the jury, the whole jury may be swept off; but this has not been charged. More than this, sir, that no wrong may be done, these persons have the right to challenge peremptorily other jurors to a sufficient extent to purify the jury; and, more than this, they have the right to challenge, for cause, every man that may be brought to try the case. With all these safeguards, the right to challenge the array, the right to challenge the whole jury that may be empanelled for cause; and, further, the right to challenge peremptorily so as to secure them in the privilege of a fair and impartial trial, these persons come here, after the grand jury has found a true bill against them, and ask that this legislative body shall change the venue to the county of Bradford, where it is supposed and expected that they shall have, in addition to this, the advantage of party prejudice in preventing the law from having its due course. Shall the principle that underlies this question prevail or shall it not? Can a partisan, charged with a crime, appeal to his partisan friends, and is that party, by virtue of its political sympathies, to be influenced to do wrong in cases of this kind? This petition is an insult to the entire Republican party of Pennsylvania. It assumes they will be swayed by improper influences; it assumes that when a man of their party is indicted they will sympathize with him in his crime; and, through the influence of that sympathy, they will, if possible, relieve him from the responsibility. I say it is an insult to the Republican party of Pennsylvania, viewed in its proper light. Is it true, sir, that the party friends of these men will be controlled so that they will not do justice according to law? And is it true that when Republicans are charged with crime they may appeal to a legislative body, and, because that legislative body may have a majority of Republicans, that their prayer shall receive a response in the affirmative, and that, by reason of Republican sympathy, they shall not be given justice in the trial of a case not contemplated by law? But more than that, it is an insult to the entire party which opposes the Republican party. It says that, under the solemn obligations of an oath, they will not act conscientiously, but will, for partisan reasons, be influenced against evidence, against right, and against the law, to defend persons who differ with them in political opinions. It is an insult to the entire people of Pennsylvania. It assumes that the Republican party will not do right, or at least, will warp the law in favor of its party friends; and it assumes that the Democratic party will not do right, but will warp the law in order to wreak their vengeance upon their political opponents. And further than that, establish the principle and you aim a blow at the entire social fabric—you do more by this means to destroy the social fabric than any other than you could possibly accomplish in any other way. I, therefore, hope this prayer will not be granted.

The question being,
Shall the bill be laid aside for a second reading?

Mr. WADELLE. Mr. Speaker, I do not propose to discuss this bill. I desire to ask the House for information—what will be in order this afternoon, after going through with the private calendar?

Mr. SPEAKER. The consideration of the resolution to ratify the constitutional amendment.

Mr. WADELLE. Mr. Speaker, at the request of the officers of the Insane Asylum the Committee of Ways and Means have made arrangements to visit that institution this afternoon. I presume there are gentlemen upon each side of the House that propose to go, and we do not desire to be taken advantage of in our absence, and I therefore ask leave of the House to visit that institution this afternoon.

Leave was granted.

The question was on laying the bill aside. The hour of one o'clock having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the House until this afternoon at three o'clock.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed the House of Representatives, that the Senate has concurred in the resolution passed by the House of Representatives fixing the time of adjournment on Wednesday evening next, until Tuesday, the 12th instant, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

The SPEAKER. The first thing in order is the further consideration of the bills on the private calendar.

The question is on laying bill No. 76 aside for a second reading.

Mr. WEBB. Mr. Speaker, I propose to occupy the time of this House but a very few moments on this question. Firstly, I propose to notice some of the statements made by the gentleman from Berks [Mr. JONES], in relation to what was said before the committee. If I understood the gentleman correctly, he said that the Senator stated before the committee, of which he was a member, that this person, whose vote was refused, was a person whose name was not on the list of deserters, and who had an honorable discharge. The gentleman from Sullivan did state that the person whose vote was refused had an honorable discharge, but he did not state (I think I am correct) that his name was not on the list of deserters, nor that his vote was rejected because somebody chanced to object to it.

My friend from Jefferson [Mr. JENKS] referred to the loyal people of Luzerne county. Mr. McCarty, whose name was upon the petition, and who is also on the list of deserters; I have to say frankly that we are not perhaps as well fortified on personal facts and individual cases as the gentleman from Sullivan, who was posting my friend during the remarks he made. Now, I do not think it is conclusive, by any means, that the person referred to upon this petition is necessarily the one who is published as a deserter. It is not a very strange occurrence, I think, that there should be two persons of the same name in the same county, the same township. It has been well stated that persons who have honorable discharges, and who were never deserters are, sometimes, upon the printed list and reported as deserters. I presume the case here cited is an instance of this kind. One thing was well said by the gentleman from Potter [Mr. MANS], in a former discussion of a similar question, that the Democrats carried on the canvass last fall upon the understanding that deserters were to vote; they hoped to carry the election in the State upon the votes of deserters. That canvass was carried on in our section with as much warmth and vigor as in any other portion of the State. The lawyers, and the honorable gentleman from Sullivan, issued a circular in which they called on their friends to go to the polls and deposit their ballots; if their votes were refused their circular advised a resort to the courts, and they (the lawyers) would carry on these prosecutions free of charge. That was the spirit that was manifested, and it was truly stated by my colleague, the presiding judge was a candidate for Congress in that district and participated in this feeling. The associate judges in Sullivan county were canvassing the county in company with persons who were making this manner of speeches to the masses, and in fact making such speeches themselves. The presiding judge has tried one case of this kind, in which he so charged the jury that a conviction was made. Judge Jordan, of the Lyeoming district, and other Democratic judges, have charged juries differently—that election boards, with the statute before them, discharging their duties honestly and in good faith, should not be convicted in prosecutions of this kind. The gentlemen on the other side of the House say they have the utmost confidence that they will receive fair treatment at Republican hands. In our county, no prosecutions have arisen; this question has not been decided by our courts.

Mr. DEISE. Mr. Speaker, I would ask if the gentleman will allow me to interrupt him a moment. I would ask him to state to the House the facts to which Judge Jordan referred in the case he spoke of.

Mr. WEBB. I do not know that he referred to any facts. I simply know that a jury was summoned in Wyoming county under the same circumstances in which juries are summoned in Sullivan county. The gentleman who has expressed so much confidence in the honesty of the Republican party, dare not rise in his place, and say that if a term of the court be held this month there will not be enough Republicans drawn on the jury to exhaust the challenges that are permitted to be made without cause. It is the desire of gentlemen to delay this matter, and so get rid of it. I call that, this House come to a vote. I ask the previous question.

The call for the previous question was sustained by Messrs. M'Kee, Hoffman, Pillow, Shuman, Whann, Colville, M'Creary, Humphrey, M'Camant, Leech and Kinney.

On the question,
Shall the main question be now put?
The yeas and nays were required by Mr. JENES and Mr. FOGEL, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Adaire, Allen, Cameron, Chadwick, Chase, Colville, Davis, Day, Eppy, Ewing, Gallagher, Gordon, Harbison, Hoffman, Humphrey, Kennedy, Kinney, Leech, M'Camant, M'Creary, M'Kee, M'Pherin, Mann, Marks, Mechling, Meily, Pennypacker, Peters, Pillow, Quay, Richards, Roath, Seiler, Shurles, Shuman, Steacy, Stehman, Stumbaugh, Subers, Waddell, Wallace, Watt, Webb, Weller, Whann, Wharton, Wilson, Wingard, Worrall, Wright and Glass, Speaker—51.

NAYS—Messrs. Barrington, Boyd, Boyle, Brown, Breonan, Calvin, Collins, Craig, Deise, Fogel, Harner, Headman, Helzel, Hood, Hunt, Jenks, Jones, Joseph, Kline, Kartz, Linton, Long, M'Henry, Maish, Markley, Mullin, Nigley, Rhoads, Robinson, Rouch, Satterthwait, Tharp and Westbrook—38.
So the question was determined in the affirmative.

On the question,
Shall the bill be laid aside for a second reading?
It was agreed to.

No. 95, an act regulating the sale of intoxicating liquors, licensing saloons, eating houses and restaurants, and to prohibit billiard saloons from being kept open on Sunday, in the county of Cameron.

The question being,
Shall the bill be laid aside?
It was agreed to.

No. 114, an act for the relief of wives and children deserted by their husbands and fathers, in Lancaster and Potter counties.

Laid aside.
No. 122, an act to regulate the terms of the several courts in the Sixth Judicial district.

Laid aside.
No. 131, an act to enable the board of directors of common schools of East Lampeter township, Lancaster county, to apply surplus of county funds to common school purposes.

Amended by Mr. BOATH, and Laid aside.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to make a statement:

Two years ago a bill was passed increasing the fees of jurors in Berks county; the time was limited to the first of February, 1867. The reason for limiting it was this: it was supposed the expenses of living would be lessened, when there would be no occasion for increased fees to jurors. But this change has not occurred and the limited time has expired. A jury is sitting in Berks county during the term of the court this week; they must be paid on Saturday. A bill has passed the Senate extending the time two years longer. Unless that bill is passed now so it may be signed by the Governor before Saturday, the county officers must be governed by the old law, which fixes a fee not reasonable under the circumstances. This bill was referred by the Speaker to the Local Judiciary Committee. As there is occasion for its immediate passage, I move that the committee be discharged, and that the rules be suspended for the purpose of considering this bill.

The bill was read a second and third time, and
Passed finally.

PRIVATE CALENDAR.

The following bills were read a second time, and disposed of as stated:

Passed finally.
No. 169, a supplement to an act approved the first day of April, A. D. 1863, for the protection of owners of wharves or landings, in the borough of Oil City, Venango county.

Passed finally.
No. 170, an act to increase the duties of the Citizens' association, of Pennsylvania.

Mr. KERNS. Mr. Speaker, I should like to have some explanation from the gentleman having the bill in charge. It appears to grant to the Citizens' association, whoever they may be, extraordinary powers. By this bill all that is necessary to have a person confined within the walls of this association is to say a man is an inebriate, get a physician to examine him, and then he is taken to this institution and not released for a period of nine months. I would like to have an explanation of this before I vote for it.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, my friend is mistaken; it requires the action of a court to declare a person an inebriate. Just such provisions with regard to inebriates exist in Pittsburg. The Speaker of this House is undoubtedly familiar with the workings of the law there. I have heard no charges of its harshness or impropriety. Acts of this character have always been in force in this State, and the right of a court to declare who was an inebriate, and what should be done with him, has always existed. This bill simply changes the effect of the decision of a court from what it may have been heretofore. Under the provisions of this bill, if the court shall find that any person is an inebriate and not capable of taking care of his family, it may direct him to be put in charge of the officers of the Citizens' association. A similar institution has been in successful operation in New York for several years. This association was organized by virtue of an act of the Assembly passed in this House last year. Its whole spirit and intention is in favor of curing and restoring inebriates, who are now a charge upon communities, to usefulness. Where can there be any objection to that? We know there are vast numbers in this Commonwealth who have become so addicted to the use of intoxicating liquors that they have ceased to be productive people. The taxes imposed upon the industry of Pennsylvania in consequence of the idleness and crimes caused by inebriation has become heavier than all others; this bill is simply an attempt to relieve the honest laborer of the Commonwealth from a portion of this burden. I am asked who are these gentlemen engaged in getting up this Citizens' association; one of them is Dr. Joseph Parish, of Philadelphia, known everywhere throughout this Commonwealth as a man of integrity and philanthropy; his associates are of like character, and well known to this community. The law under which they were authorized to act is gotten up in a spirit of philanthropy, for the purpose of doing good and relieving the industry of the State of a portion of the burdens imposed upon them by inebriates.

Mr. M'CREARY. Mr. Speaker, I do not propose to discuss the merits of this bill. Its general design is good. I agree with the gentleman from Potter, that something of this kind would be very beneficial to certain classes of people in this State. It occurs to me, however, that the provision of the last section of the bill defeats the very purpose for which the bill was designed. The proviso reads, that in no case shall the association be required to keep an inebriate without a provision being made for his support, according to the rules of the society.

I don't know what the rules and regulations are; but I presume they require the friends of inebriate to furnish the means necessary for his support. The gentleman from Potter [Mr. MANN], every member of the House, and every person in the country, knows that the class of people to which inebriates belong are generally so very poor that their friends cannot make this provision. You will find in this Commonwealth that those inebriates who require the aid designed to be given by this bill are the very persons who cannot avail themselves of it. By reason of the habits of dissipation they have squandered their property, their friends have had to suffer, and now, perhaps, have not the wherewithal to place them in charge of this association. The gentleman may say all other institutions are managed in the same way; that in insane asylums persons are required to make provisions for the support of those who are sent there. But there is just this difference, in many cases not belong to the poorer classes perhaps more than the rich; therefore, in many cases, the friends of the insane have it in their power to comply with the rules of those institutions. But throughout the land you will find the unfortunate inebriates have become reduced on account of their dissipation, their families are suffering for their daily food, and yet they are told unless they supply the means necessary for their support they cannot receive the aid of this institution.

Again, you will find a class of inebriates throughout the State—throughout the country generally—who are men of property; their families are not dependent upon them for support. If it is found that those men are dangerous to their families or the community, they have means for their support. The aid and assistance intended to be given by the bill, is given only to those who have the means necessary for their support; whereas the poor man is compelled to be kept at home. I presume the rules and regulations of the association require this.

If the gentleman from Potter [Mr. MANN] will introduce a bill whereby some provision is made for confirmed inebriates who have no property, whose families are suffering for food, by which the State will take care of these men, then I say the bill is a good one. But I think there is not a gentleman in this House who does not see that the very class of men intended to be benefited by this bill are deprived of the benefits offered, simply because they have not the means to comply with the rules of the association. I object to the bill only because the class of people who most need the aid of the association are deprived of it.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I am very glad the gentleman from Erie [Mr. M'CREARY] and myself are so nearly agreed on this question. But I think on a little reflection, he will see that his seeming objection does not exist. This Citizens' association is composed of a number of men who have some means that they are willing to devote to this purpose. They have purchased farms, erected buildings, and have proposed to take under their care persons who shall be decided by a court to be inebriates. Up to this time they have been working at their own expense. Now I ask the gentleman if he proposes to compel them to receive every inebriate and support him at their own expense. It seems to me these gentlemen have shown their liberality by purchasing farms and buildings; they should be allowed to make some regulation for the support of inebriates sent there. It is supposed that the association will support itself; they have implements for tilling the ground they have obtained. It is not expected that the expenses of the institution will be a serious tax on the inmates. I hope those who wish to increase the productive class, and the wealth of this State, who wish to restore inebriates to their families, and cure them of this disease that has fastened upon them, will support this bill as it is. If personal liberty is not sufficiently guarded by this measure, give us what is lacking. I am unwilling to vote for a bill that does not guard with jealous care the liberties of every one of the citizens of this State.

Mr. M'CREARY. Mr. Speaker, I do not object to the character of this bill; but I think it does not go far enough. This bill is intended to be a general benefit to all classes of people; and from the remarks of the gentleman himself it is evident that it only benefits those people who need no aid. If an inebriate has property, or means to support himself and family (if he has one), home, perhaps, is the best place for him. It may be that the treatment authorized at this institution will cure them of this affliction. I only object because this bill does not go far enough. Perhaps the Citizens' association can do no more. It seems to me whilst we are legislating on this subject, and passing a bill of this kind, we should enlarge it so as to meet the cases that can now by no possibility come within its provisions. There are men who are inebriates lying around our streets, living in squalid habitations; they should be sent to such an institution as this; but that cannot be done, because they have no means for their support. While considering this subject, we may be able to reach some provision by which these men, who are really objects of our charity and our attention, may receive those benefits. I object to this bill simply because we may devise some means by which the objects of the bill will be obtained.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I simply desire to say that I think it is well that we move cautiously on this matter. I think it is better to pass the bill as it is. If this institution shows itself capable of accomplishing the work it proposes, then I will go heartily with the gentleman for making provisions to send all the inebriates of the State there. At present I think it is wiser and safer to take the bill as it is, and see how the institution prospers. It is an experiment; it is not determined that they can attain the results they attempt. Such institutions exist in New York, in Massachusetts and other States. Let us see first whether they can accomplish the work they propose. If they cannot, then we will devise means to send every person who needs such protection and benefits to such an institution. I hope the friends of improvement and good order will allow the bill to pass as it is.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I do not propose to go into a discussion of the merits of this bill, but I do not certainly understand its provisions. From the statement of the gentleman from Potter [Mr. MANN], it seems to me that the bill is perhaps unnecessary altogether. He says that Citizens' association does not propose to become a State organization—that it does not ask an appropriation from the Commonwealth, and therefore is in the character of almost of a charitable institution. If the State is to make no appropriation, and have no control over it, I do not see that it is not better to leave it a matter of agreement between the Citizens' association and the parties who wish to send their friends there.

Under the second section of the bill it is provided that the judge of the court, upon the question being submitted to him, may determine, not upon the usual course of procedure, "but according to such reasonable rules of procedure as he may prescribe, and order the commitment of said inebriate to the custody of the Citizens' association of Pennsylvania, for a term of not less than nine months." * * * It seems to me this is putting altogether too much power in the hands of the judge. The court, in the first place, is to prescribe the rules of procedure which it will follow in order to ascertain whether a man is or is not an inebriate. Then he has the power to send him, like a criminal, to this institution, for the term of nine months, not to be relieved except by the application of that judge. I propose, therefore, not to make any general objection to this bill, but I move to postpone it for the present, in order that members may have an opportunity to examine it.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I hope the gentleman will allow the bill to go over on third reading.

Mr. JONES. I am willing to do that.

EXCLUSION OF COLORED PERSONS FROM RAILROAD CARS.

The bill entitled An act to punish, by fine, any railroad corporation within this Commonwealth that shall exclude, or allow to be excluded, by their agents, conductors or employees, from any of their passenger cars, any person or persons, on account of color or race,

Being the special order, the Senate resumed the second reading and consideration of the same.

The preamble and first section were read as follows:

WHEREAS, The cruel, unjust and unchristian practice of many of the railroad corporations of our State, in forcibly excluding and ejecting from their cars colored citizens, without regard to sex or condition, or exposing them on dangerous platforms to the rigors of storm and cold, subjecting alike to insult and abuse, men, children and women, many of the latter the widows and orphans of men whose lives were freely given in their country's service, is an offense of such magnitude as to demand prompt action of this Legislature in order to save our State from the merited condemnation of this enlightened age;

And whereas, The long continuance of these grievances, which the courts of this Commonwealth, after frequent appeals, have failed to redress, is destroying the fair fame of our State, and is virtually reducing our treatment of a large portion of our loyal citizens to a level with the barbarism which characterizes so many acts of the States lately in armed rebellion; therefore,

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That on and after the passage of this act, any railroad or railway corporation within this Commonwealth that shall exclude, or allow to be excluded by their agents, conductors or employees, from any of their passenger cars, any person or persons on account of color or race, or that shall refuse to carry in any of their cars thus set apart, any person or persons on account of color or race, or that shall compel, or attempt to compel, any person or persons to occupy any particular part of any of their cars set apart for the accommodation of people as passengers, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall pay a fine of one thousand dollars ($1,000 00) for each offense, one-half of said fine to go to the Commonwealth and the other to the party or parties so complaining.

Mr. WALLACE moved to amend the first section, by striking out the words "or that shall compel, or attempt to compel, any person or persons to occupy any particular part of any of their cars set apart for the accommodation of people as passengers,"

Mr. WALLACE. The purport of that amendment is to allow the railroad companies to direct the setting apart of seats in the ends of their cars for the accommodation of colored persons.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Speaker, before a vote is taken on this bill I would like to make an inquiry as to this whole section. I, sir, of course am in favor of the principle of this bill, and shall, in common with my co-members on this side of the House, vote for its final passage. I think in this, as in all other things that we should be practical, and only ask for the creation of such laws as can be enforced. Now, I do not offer any amendment, but I make this suggestion for the consideration of the Senator who has this bill in charge. It strikes me that this section is impracticable as an addition to our criminal code. This section provides for the enforcement of the penalty of one thousand dollars—not by civil process, but by fine after an indictment and conviction of the offender.

Now, it strikes me that it will be impossible to convict any railroad, as a corporation, for this offense.

The second section, however, provides for the punishment of agents, conductors or employees of any railroad or railway corporation. This is proper, and this can be enforced, but the first section I do not think will be enforced. It is necessary, indeed, it is wrong that we should pass any bill that cannot be enforced. I shall be glad to hear from the Senator from Erie [Mr. Lowry] on this subject.

Mr. LOWRY. Mr. Speaker, the bill was presented by the friends of the colored people in the city of Philadelphia; they have examined it and taken counsel in regard to it. They have come here to ask us to pass this bill; they have been here, sir, for the last six years asking for a bill of this kind. We never could get a bill that was exactly constitutional or exactly right; it always had some objections, and Senators all around were willing to vote for the bill, provided they could get a bill which was exactly right. We have never been able to get such a bill, and these people come here, having prepared it themselves, under the advice of legal counsel, and they ask for its passage; and I, for one, am willing to vote for the bill as they desire it. I can see nothing in regard to this section which is improper. I have failed to appreciate the objections brought to bear against it by the Senator from Indiana [Mr. WHITE].

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Speaker, will the Senator from Erie allow me to ask him a question—will he allow me to explain? I appreciate the motives of the Senator from Erie in this matter fully. I think that he will believe me when I say that I agree with him entirely in the object sought to be accomplished. I merely wish this to be practical. Now to the question: the Senator from Erie, if he looks at the bill, will discover that it provides,

"That on and after the passage of this act, any railroad or railway corporation within this Commonwealth that shall exclude, or allow to be excluded, by their agents, conductors, or employees, from any of their passenger cars, any person or persons on account of color or race, or that shall refuse to carry in any of their cars thus set apart any person or persons on account of color or race, or that shall compel, or attempt to compel, any person or persons to occupy any particular part of any of their cars set apart for the accommodation of people as passengers, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall pay a fine of one thousand dollars ($1,000 00) for each offense, one-half of said fine to go the Commonwealth, and the other to the party or parties so complaining."

Now, sir, let me ask the Senator from Erie how he will enforce this penalty? Suppose, if you please, that the Pennsylvania railroad company refuse to allow a negro to ride in its cars. That is an offense under this section. You indict the Pennsylvania railroad company, and come into the criminal courts. Can you there sustain an indictment against the corporation? I apprehend not. A corporation cannot be indicted. A corporation is only subject to such penalty as can be recovered by civil process; but an agent or employee can be indicted, and the second section provides for their punishment.

Mr. LOWRY. The Senator's objections to this section would be removed by inserting, "or agent of any railway or railroad corporation." I move to amend the section in that way. That would obviate the difficulty.

The SPEAKER. That is not in order, now. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from Clearfield [Mr. WALLACE].

Mr. LOWRY. The colored people are made to ride in a particular part of the cars, if they ride at all—on the front platform. That is why that portion which the Senator from Clearfield proposes to strike out was put in, and if this bill is passed with that struck out, we might as well not pass the bill at all. SPEAKER. Don't you think that a good place to ride?

Mr. LOWRY. I think the negro has as good a right to ride in a car as the Senator, if he has a clean shirt on and seven cents to pay his fare. There are negroes just as respectable as any man on this floor.

Mr. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, in reply to what the Senator from Erie says, I have simply to say that when a comfortable seat in a passenger car is given to the colored race, they are comfortably provided for, and should not enter into the seat of a white person, and this amendment is to reach that question.

Mr. RIDGWAY. Mr. Speaker, I would favor this amendment to apply to steam railroads. I think negroes ought to submit to the same rules that white men have to now. If I go into a car now, and the conductor says, "that is a ladies' car," I cannot get in—I think the steam railroads ought to select a car and say, "that is for ladies, and that for gentlemen." I do not wish this to apply to city passenger railways.

Mr. LOWRY. I have no objections, if the Senator will prepare an amendment, so that they can have the same privileges as other men.

Mr. FISHER. Mr. Speaker, I don't think there is anything in the objections of my friend from Philadelphia [Mr. RIDGWAY].—All persons riding in railroad cars are subject, to some extent, to the control of the conductor; the conductor says in what part of the cars they shall ride. The only point is that there should be no difference on account of race or color.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I am opposed to this bill from beginning to end, but if it must pass I would rather it would pass in its present state.

As it now reads we can all have the privilege of riding in the ladies' car, from which we are now roughly excluded unless we are accompanied by a lady. The portion proposed to be included does not seem to apply to the colored race. They refer to every one, and read, "all that shall compel, or attempt to compel, any person or persons to occupy any particular part of their cars set apart for the accommodation of people as passengers." That section as it stands will allow us to ride in any car we please; and if the bill is to pass I must say I am in favor of passing it as it was originally framed.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me there is no force in the objections of the Senator that has just taken his seat. It is specifically stated here that "when that exclusion takes place because of color or race," or on account of color or race.

Mr. DAVIS. I merely call the attention of the Senate to that particular portion.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that objection could be easily remedied.

On the question,
Will the Senate agree to the amendment of Mr. WALLACE?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WALLACE and Mr. JACKSON, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Burnett, Davis, Donovan, Glatz, Jackson, James, M'Condless, M'Conoughy, Randall, Schall, Seagriff, Wallace, Walls and Hall, Speaker—14.

NAYS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingsfelt, Browne (Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Coleman, Connell, Cowles, Fisher, Graham, Landon, Lowry, Shoemaker, Stutzman, Taylor, White and Worthington—16.

So the question was determined in the negative.

During the call,

The SPEAKER said: As the section, without these lines, removes all sort of distinction on account of race or color, I vote "aye."

Mr. LOWRY moved to amend the first section by adding after the words "after the passage of this act any" the words "officer or agent of any."

Mr. BROWNE (Lawrence). I would call the attention of the Senator from Erie [Mr. LOWRY] to the fact that the section covers the complicity of an agent in this case. I suppose, therefore, that the terms that would best suit here, would be "president and directors." The term officers may do, however. I suggest to him to recall the word "agent," because that occurs in the second section.

Mr. M'CONAUGHY. I would suggest the dropping of the first section entirely, and amending the second section by inserting the word "officer" before the word "agent."

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Speaker, I agree entirely with the Senator from Adams [Mr. M'CONAUGHY] in that respect, and I think the whole object of the bill would be accomplished by dropping the whole first section, and amending the second section as the Senator from Adams suggests. I move to strike out the first section.

Mr. LOWRY. I withdraw my amendment. But I hope that the first section will not be stricken out; if it is, that kills the whole bill, that is all.

Mr. M'CONAUGHY. Mr. Speaker, I would make one other suggestion. If you modify the first section so as not to make it a misdemeanor, the difficulty may be obviated; but the second section makes a misdemeanor against the railroad company.

Mr. LOWRY. If the gentleman does not want to kill this bill, let him amend it. If it is not his intention to destroy it, let him cease finding fault.

Mr. M'CONAUGHY. Mr. Speaker, I would respectfully say to the Senator from Erie [Mr. LOWRY] that the suggestions I have made have been from conviction. I have not examined the bill before. I do not propose to make it as it should be, because I think that should be done by those who have dwelled upon it.

Mr. LOWRY. If the first section is defeated, the whole bill is killed.

The SPEAKER. Oh, no. The first section is a distinct proposition.

Mr. FISHER. I move the same amendment that has been withdrawn by the Senator from Erie [Mr. LOWRY], so that it will read "that on and after the passage of this act, any officer or agent of any railroad or railway," etc.

Mr. BROWNE (Lawrence). Mr. Speaker, I would suggest this form to the amendment: inserting after the word "any," in the commencement of the first section, the words "president or directors of any."

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Speaker, to have this matter brought up, once for all, I adhere to my first impression, and I find several Senators on this side of the Chamber have the same impression. I adhere to my own motion, and move to amend by striking out the first section and passing the second section, with the amendment suggested by the Senator from Adams [Mr. M'CONAUGHY].

The SPEAKER. That cannot be done now.

Mr. WHITE. I hope the first section will be voted down.

Mr. BIGHAM. Mr. Speaker, I think the first part of this bill had better be left alone, changing the form, leaving the first part of it as it now stands, and changing the latter part so as to make it a penalty to the corporation. The agents and directors will be included in the same section. That I think has been the design.

Mr. LOWRY. I do trust the gentleman from Lancaster [Mr. FISHER] will see the propriety of withdrawing his amendment.

Mr. FISHER then withdrawing his amendment.

Mr. COWLES moved to amend by striking out all after the words "accommodation of people as passengers shall be," and insert in lieu thereof the following: "liable in an action of debt to the person injured or aggrieved in the sum of five hundred dollars, to be recovered in an action of debt as like amounts are now by law recovered."

Mr. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, this is to be the broad proposition, that where a railroad corporation, or any of its officers, allow any person to be excluded from its cars, whether they have a rule or not, that action of debt can be brought, and five hundred dollars can be recovered from them by those excluded from the cars. If that is so, I shall certainly vote against it.

Mr. RIDGWAY. I think the amendment of the Senator from M'Keen [Mr. COWLES] would offer an inducement to get a conductor to insult a passenger, so as to get put off the cars, and to claim damages.

Mr. WHITE. This is to be recovered in a civil action.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment of Mr. COWLES?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WALLACE and Mr. RIDGWAY, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingfeldt, Browne, (Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Coleman, Connell, Cowles, Fisher, Graham, Landon, Lowry, Shoemaker, Stutzman, Taylor, White, Worthington and Hall, Speaker—17.

NAYS—Messrs. Burnett, Davis, Donovan, Glatz, Jackson, James, M' Candless, M'Conaughy, Randall, Ridgway, Schall, Searight, Wallace and Walls—14.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. BROWNE (Lawrence). Mr. Speaker, I move to amend by inserting, after the words "of race or color, or that shall," the words "for such reasons." The object is to limit the clause as the other sections are limited.

The amendment was

Agreed to.

Mr. SEARIGHT. I offer the following amendment, to come in at the end of the first section:

Provided, That if such agent, conductor or employee shall set apart, in their said cars, comfortable seats at the end thereof, or shall provide separate cars for the accommodation of persons of color traveling therein, no such fine or penalty shall be imposed.

Mr. SEARIGHT. Mr. Speaker, the object of that amendment is to prevent the passage of such laws as interfere with the regulation which exists in many railroad companies at the present time. It is the practice of many companies—I believe it is the practice of the Pennsylvania railroad company—to set apart certain cars for the accommodation of ladies—the best ones they have on the train—and no gentleman is permitted to enter these cars unless accompanied by a lady. The object of my amendment, sir, is to prevent any company from paying fines or from suffering any penalty by reason of enforcing that practice.

That is the object of the amendment. I think the regulation is a very good one; it does not interfere with the comfort of anybody, and adds to the comfort of the ladies. I do not see why any Senator should object to that, and especially such a gallant Senator as the gentleman from Erie [Mr. Lowry]. Mr. Speaker, I had an intimation that this was the subject of general interest to the Senator from Erie, but really I did not think he had the feelings on the subject that he has manifested. He certainly feels in his inmost heart that the negro is misused by railroad companies, and that railroad companies should be fined for their acts in this regard. He manifested his feelings to such an extent, sir, as to say here, in the presence of the Senate, that there were negroes—I believe he located them in Philadelphia—at all events, there were negroes as respectable as one of the Senators from Philadelphia and himself.

Mr. LOWRY. Or any other Senator on this floor.

Mr. SEARIGHT. Now, Mr. Speaker, he says, "or any other Senator on this floor." Now, that is a matter of opinion entirely, and that opinion he has a right to entertain. We cannot help that. That is his right. It don't sound very well to other Senators who hear this comparison made; but, still the Senator from Erie has a right to make it. There is one thing in regard to this matter about which we all agree. It is this: He knows whether or not a negro is as respectable as himself. He can speak upon that point without having any one to gainsay him. But when he speaks of negroes being as respectable as other Senators, that is a matter of opinion and of taste, and in that view other Senators have the right to differ from him.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment of Mr. SEARIGHT?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SEARIGHT and Mr. GLATZ, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Burnett, Davis, Donovan, Glatz, Jackson, James, M' Candless, Randall, Schall, Searight, Shoemaker, Wallace and Walls—13.

NAYS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingfeldt, Browne (Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Coleman, Connell, Cowles, Fisher, Graham, Landon, Lowry, M'Conaughy, Ridgway, Stutzman, Taylor, White, Worthington and Hall, Speaker—18.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. WALLACE moved to amend, by adding to the end of the first section the following:

Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to compel the admission of negroes into berths in sleeping cars, or to punish one for the exclusion of persons of color from cars set apart for the use of ladies.

Mr. LOWRY. I would inquire of the Senator whether, if the amendment is not voted down, he would vote for the bill?

Mr. WALLACE. I answer by saying that sufficient for the day is the evil thereof.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment of Mr. WALLACE,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WALLACE and Mr. JAMES, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Burnett, Davis, Donovan, Glatz, Jackson, James, M' Candless, M'Conaughy, Randall, Schall, Searight, Shoemaker, Wallace, Walls and Hall, Speaker—15.

NAYS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingfeldt, Browne (Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Coleman, Connell, Cowles, Fisher, Graham, Landon, Lowry, Ridgway, Stutzman, Taylor, White and Worthington—16.

So the question was determined in the negative.

During the call,

Mr. WHITE said: Mr. Speaker, I have no objections to the principle of this amendment; the latter clause of this amendment I would be willing to vote for, because conductors exclude white gentlemen. I have been excluded from cars set apart for ladies. But I am opposed to the other clause of the amendment.

Mr. GRAHAM. I would inquire if the gentleman has ever been excluded on account of color?

Mr. WHITE. I cannot recollect every instance.

Mr. BROWN (Mercer) offered the following amendment, to come in at the end of the first section:

Provided, That nothing in this act shall be so construed as to forbid any officer, agent or conductor of any railroad in this Commonwealth, whose cars are now drawn by steam power, from setting apart certain cars for the accommodation of particular classes of passenger.

Mr. BROWN (Mercer). I desire to say in regard to this amendment that it will not be applicable to city passenger cars, but it simply continues the same regulations with reference to cars drawn by steam power that have been in force for several years, under the provisions of the general law regulating railroads. I simply wish to refer to the right of conductors to set apart certain cars for the accommodating of certain classes of passengers. It may be contended that this section is sufficiently clear without this proviso, but to my mind it is not. This proviso will make it so clear that every one will understand it. Certainly the Senate does not wish to destroy or to put it beyond the power of railroad corporations to make arrangements with respect to the accommodation of different classes of passengers as they have done for years past. I understand that most railroads have sold tickets, for instance, to emigrants, and second class cars are provided for them. I have no disposition to prevent railroads from doing so. If they want to sell second class tickets to those not able to buy first class tickets I think they ought to have the right to do so, and also to set apart cars for the accommodation of ladies.

Mr. WHITE. Will the Senator from Mercer [Mr. Brown] allow me to ask him a question? Have the railroads of this Commonwealth not power already to make rules and regulations for the running of their trains, and to set apart certain cars for particular purposes, and other cars for certain other purposes? Have they not that power now?

Mr. BROWN (Mercer). Many of them exercise it whether they have the right or not. Admitting that they have the right, I am afraid this act will destroy that right.

Mr. WHITE. Then, if the Senator admits it, does he find anything in this act which interests him? What that power?

Mr. BROWN (Mercer). I think I do. How are they to determine on what terms they are excluded?

Mr. WHITE. In answer, I will merely say that, if they see fit to exclude males they have a right to do so; if they see fit to exclude females they have a right to do so, but they have no right to discriminate between persons of color.

Mr. BROWN (Mercer). It seems to me, that the act, without this proviso, would give rise to litigation. As I remarked to the Senator from Indiana [Mr. Warren], How will persons of color, excluded from cars, determine they are excluded simply on the ground of color? Every time a colored man is excluded from a car he can prosecute the company, and it would have to be determined by the courts whether he was excluded for color, or on account of the regulations. This proviso will prevent litigation.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, it appears to me that the amendment of the Senator, if adopted, will strike at the very root of the bill; that it will destroy it, in spirit and in letter. Now, what stand have obtained by the provisions of this bill before the Senate? It is merely a recognition of the manhood of every human being in this country upon whom the great God has set the insignia of manhood. It is merely recognizing and treating as a man, everywhere in this Commonwealth, sir, that being who has the impulses, and who has the hopes, and who has the destiny of manhood before him. It is acknowledging as a man and brother a being for whom the Son of God died, and with whom you and I, sir, must stand before our Maker, and spend an eternity. We do not, however, propose, by this bill, to legislate for any class, or sect, or country, or complexion; but we wish to raise up, and place upon the broad platform of equal rights, every human being that bears the impress of the great Creator himself, who stands up and shows himself to be a man. Pass this amendment, sir, and the whole bill is defeated. I say, sir, and I say here, broadly, what I have said at home upon the stump, that I would withhold from no human being, who possesses the instincts, the aspirations and the destiny of man, any of the rights that God intended him to enjoy. And I hope we will pass this bill. If it is not what it should be, let us amend and improve it.

The time will come when there will be a common brotherhood, not only in this country, but among all the nations of the earth. The evident destiny, sir, of humanity, is to rise, and we see it daily unfolding. The idea of manhood—of the great, god-like man, that has been implanted within and seems to be developing human beings of every clime and of every color to a common standard of the same. The time is coming, when, from the frigid regions of the North to the balmy isles of the South, if you inquire what the right of any distinctive class is, the response will everywhere come back, "man is equal before the law, and has a right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." Now, sir, it is impossible for us to disguise from ourselves the fact that there is in this Senate Chamber this morning an instinctive something that prompts us to do injustice to the colored race. I feel it, you feel it, we all feel it. We have been educated and brought up with this feeling within us. I thank God, however, that as the pure lights of civilization and intelligence are being diffused over the country, these prejudices are being dispelled, and the time is not far distant when in this, and in all lands, whenever man shall meet a fellow man he will hail him as a friend and as a brother. And I trust we will recognize here to-day, in this Senate Chamber, the equality of every man under the law. We do not raise him up to a social equality; we do not say that you shall mingle together upon a social equality, but let us not say, by legislative enactment here, that we will impose upon our colored citizens any disability that we would not have applied to ourselves. Let us follow, to-day, that golden rule that teaches us "do unto others as we would have others do unto us."

Mr. LOWRY. Mr. Speaker, I am sorry to see this amendment offered by the Senator from Mercer [Mr. Brown]. As I understand it, sir, the object of all governments should be to be just to all its citizens. Here is an amendment that will exclude every colored man in this Commonwealth from riding in an express train, if you please, if he should desire to go to the funeral of his mother or sister. By this amendment you prevent him from entering the cars, as I or any other man could do, to perform that journey. These will be the practical results of this bill, provided it is amended as suggested. Now, sir, let us be just to these people, and let us give them all the God-given rights that we ourselves possess, or let us, by our votes, say that we will prevent them from enjoying the facilities of transportation. This amendment, sir, comes, I say again, from a quarter that I am sorry to see it come from, because it grinds, and grinds, and keeps grinding, the negro beneath our heels. Why, sir, look at it. Why has not a colored man the same right to enter any car that you or I can enter, provided he pays his fare and is a respectable man? And yet, sir, this amendment clearly prevents him from doing so; it thinks at the very heart of this bill; it is against this that we protest. We say that no railroad corporation in this Commonwealth shall be permitted to make regulations to exclude any man from any car wherein any other man rides. Is there anything wrong in that, sir? Why should Frederick Douglass be excluded from riding in the same car with the Senator from Mercer? I heard last summer that that Senator was afraid to ride with Fred. Douglass from the cars to a public meeting, which was held in his place.

Mr. BROWN (Mercer). Will the Senator allow me to explain? I desire to say there is not the slightest foundation for any such report.

Mr. LOWRY. I am glad to hear it, sir; but I fear the Senator is taking a course today that will make people believe that there is lurking in his bones a something that would not give the colored man the same rights that he himself enjoys. Mr. Speaker, I will not argue upon this bill at length, at this time. I hope the amendment will be voted down.

Mr. BROWN (Mercer). Mr. Speaker, I am sorry that the motives which prompted me to offer this amendment have been so grossly misunderstood by the Senator from Allegheny [Mr. GRAHAM], and the Senator from Erie [Mr. LOWRY]. I declare again, that I offered it because I believed it was necessary, in order to some extent to explain the intention and the meaning of the Senate, and to prevent litigation. There was not quite all in the amendment that I intended. I did not desire that any distinction, in the setting apart of certain cars to certain individuals, should be made on account of race or color; and for the purpose of showing more fully what I meant, I offer the following proviso, to be added to that amendment:

Provided further, That no distinction, in this particular, shall be made on account of race or color.

Now, it has been charged that I have offered an amendment which strikes at the heart of this bill. Let me call the attention of the Senator from Allegheny to the facts in the case. As I understand it, this bill has been originated for this purpose more than any other: to correct alleged abuses in the management of street cars in the city of Philadelphia. It will be noticed that the amendment which I have offered does not affect these cars. It simply refers to cars drawn by steam power, and is intended to continue in force the right that certain railroads have to set apart certain cars for the accommodation of the different classes of passengers; and I protest against the Senator from Allegheny and the Senator from Erie attempting to place me in a false position on this subject.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, I rise to make a personal explanation. I certainly attributed improper motives to the gentleman, but merely spoke of the effect that the amendment would have, in my estimation, upon the bill. I certainly suspected no improper motive, and consequently could have expressed no such thought.

Mr. BROWN (Mercer). It seems to me, on careful examination of this amendment, that no one can object to it with the proviso attached. It is right, it is proper, and I am prepared to stand or fall by it.

Mr. BIGHAM. I would suggest to my friend from Mercer [Mr. Brown] that he had better withdraw his amendment.

Mr. LOWRY. The preamble—the whole bill—shows that it is merely a bill to allow colored people to ride in the cars. Therefore I cannot see the force of this amendment.

Mr. BROWN (Mercer). I desire again to ask the Senator from Allegheny [Mr. BIGHAM], and the Senator from Erie [Mr. LOWRY], how is any black man to determine for what reason he is excluded from any particular car? He may tell you that it is on account of color; but how is he to know?

Mr. LOWRY. How do you determine by that amendment?

Mr. BROWN (Mercer). The amendment allows them to set apart certain cars for persons of color.

Mr. BROWN (Lawrence.) Mr. Speaker, I must say, I was not in favor of the amendment, but I think the objection to it was partly removed by the proviso.—But, to my view, it would give an opportunity to evade the force of this law in some instances. The bill itself is simply a bill for the protection of the rights of colored citizens, in cars and other vehicles. It is merely a protection for the rights of colored citizens. The bill shows on its very face what its object is.

If you have the proviso that shall govern a certain class of persons, you do not know what conductor would take advantage of it, and exclude individuals, and say he excluded them on account of color. A person pays his money, and is entitled to transportation.

I would unite in asking the Senator from Mercer to withdraw his amendment, as it would only encounter the bill. The face of the bill shows that it only refers to them, and if they have paid their fare, they are entitled to enter the cars under the same regulations as others.

Mr. BROWN (Mercer). If I thought it was not right, I would be willing to withdraw it. I do not see it, however, in the light of my friend, the Senator from Lawrence [Mr. BROWN]. I do not propose that any difference between passengers shall be made on account of color. Experience shows that no account of color, no distinction made on account of color that I have offered on this amendment. If I believed this amendment would be so interpreted, I would be willing to withdraw it.

Mr. FISHER. Mr. Speaker, I hope my friend, the Senator from Mercer [Mr. Brown], will withdraw his amendment for this reason. The bill itself, I think, is explicit on this subject, and cannot have the construction that certain gentlemen seem to desire to put upon it. Almost all railroad companies have different classes of cars. They are regulated, not upon the character of the passengers, but by the price. For instance, one set of cars may charge, from here to Philadelphia, three dollars; a lower grade of cars carry passengers for two dollars; and those who choose to avail themselves of the cheap mode, can take the second class cars. I know that on the Philadelphia and Reading road that is the case; but any railroad can make that distinction.

Now, what we aim at is not a distinction of that kind; the distinction is made on account of the difference in fare, but not on account of race or color. If some like to ride cheap, let them pay the second class fare. A colored lady in my town was put out of a passenger car of the Pennsylvania railroad, and forced into a smoking car, where members of the Legislature and others were, perhaps, smoking—unfit society for her; and I protest against anything of the kind. Where persons are willing to pay first class fare they ought to have the best accommodations. I take it the amendment of the Senator from Mercer, on that ground, is entirely uncalled for in connection with this bill. His amendment, as first offered, was infinitely worse than that offered by the Senator from Fayette [Mr. SEARIGHT], who offered an amendment to have one corner of a car set aside for certain individuals; but my friend, the Senator from Mercer, wanted to put them in an entirely different car. Now, sir, the only matter that this thing is intended to reach is to prevent any distinction on account of race or color; hence, I cannot, for the life of me, see the necessity for the amendment of the Senator from Mercer, and he is only embarrassing his friends by insisting upon it.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Speaker, I have just one word to say in this matter. I certainly do not desire to prolong this discussion. I sympathize entirely with the motives that actuate the Senator from Mercer [Mr. Brown]. I feel that he sympathizes with the spirit and intent of this bill. Conceding it to be his duty to protect certain organizations in this Commonwealth, he has offered the amendment in question. I appeal to you, however, now, when he has satisfied that his amendment is unnecessary to accomplish the purposes which he has in view, to withdraw it, so as not to embarrass his friends and its passage.

I call attention of the Senator from Mercer to a provision to be found in the general railroad law of this Commonwealth, approved February 19, 1849, which says that railroad corporations shall have power to make and have a common seal, and the same to alter and renew at pleasure, and also to ordain, establish and put in execution such by-laws, ordinances and regulations as shall appear necessary or convenient for the government of said corporation, not being contrary to the Constitution and laws of the United States, or of this Commonwealth, and generally to do all and singular the matters and things, which to them it shall lawfully appertain to do for the well being of said corporation, and the due ordering and management of the affairs thereof.

Mr. Speaker, all the railroads of this Commonwealth are organized under and subject to the provisions of this general law. What power does it give them? The power to make such rules and regulations for the affairs of their company as they from time to time may deem necessary, subject, however, to the Constitution and the laws of the United States and of this Commonwealth. We now seek to do what? We now seek to put it beyond the power of the railroads of this Commonwealth to make such rules and regulations as will discriminate against men or against people on account of their race or their color. That is the whole object of this bill. When we pass it and put it upon the statute book, that is the object which it will accomplish. We do not desire anything further; the Legislature has no other object in contemplation, and if we attempt to do anything else, I apprehend we shall not be doing our duty. I call the attention of my friend, the Senator from Mercer [Mr. Brown] to the situation of this matter. Does he apprehend, for a moment, that if we pass this bill, it will interfere with the power that has been exercised since the passage of the State law of 1849, giving railroad corporations power to make such regulations as they may deem necessary and fit? Not at all, sir. It does, however, say that when you make these regulations, you shall not say to the negro, "You shall be subject to a different law from the white man;" it prevents railroad corporations from making these regulations; it does this and no more; and the provision of the Senator from Mercer is merely tautological. Hence, in view of these facts, and in this condition of the law, I trust that my friend, the Senator from Mercer, will agree with us in the common purpose which we have in view—the protection of all, without distinction on account of color.

Mr. BROWN (Mercer). Mr. Speaker, I have only a few words to say. I see there is a disposition on the other side of the House to vote down this amendment, and I certainly have no desire to embarrass my friends or to place myself in a situation where I would be expected to have a lack of interest in this bill. I am free to say I sympathize wholly with this bill, and probably would go as far as any Senator on this floor to secure the rights of the colored man, and the rights of all men. It being, however, judged that this amendment is unnecessary, I feel disposed to withdraw it. I still, however, entertain the opinion with regard to its necessity that I did before. I withdraw the amendment.

On motion of Mr. BIGHAM, the further consideration of the bill was postponed for the present, in order to consider resolution from the House of Representatives relative to adjournment.

TEMPORARY ADJOURNMENT.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented the following extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives, which was read as follows:

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
February 4, 1867.

WHEREAS, An invitation has been extended to the members of the Senate and House of Representatives to visit Dixmont Hospital, the House of Refuge and other Western Pennsylvania institutions;

And whereas, It is understood that a large number of the members of the Senate and House contemplate visiting said institutions; therefore,

Resolved, The Senate concurring, that this House will adjourn on Wednesday evening next until Tuesday, the 17th instant, at eleven o'clock, A. M.

Mr. BIGHAM moved that the resolution be adopted by the Senate.

The resolution was agreed to.

Mr. BIGHAM. Mr. Speaker, the reason for that early time is, that if we remain to Thursday afternoon, we would have to take the evening train and cross the mountains in the night. It is said that a number of the members are desirous to cross in daylight; they, therefore, propose to have an afternoon or evening session to-day or to-morrow, when we should accomplish considerable work.

Mr. BIGHAM moved that when the Senate adjourns it will adjourn to meet this afternoon at three o'clock, for the purpose of resuming the consideration of the bill relative to the exclusion of colored persons from passenger cars.

The motion was

Agreed to.

On motion, the Senate then resumed the consideration of the bill relative to the exclusion of colored persons from passenger cars.

Mr. DONOVAN moved to amend the first section by striking out all after the words "railway corporation within this Commonwealth that shall," and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"Allow any negroes to ride in said cars, shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be fined one hundred thousand dollars, and sentenced to be imprisoned in the Eastern Penitentiary until Fred. Douglass is elected President and Thad. Stevens Vice President of the United States."

The amendment was

Not agreed to.

Mr. MCCONAUGHY. Mr. Speaker, I move to recommit this bill to the committee from which it came. I do so, sir, because of the fact that we have consumed a very large amount of time in maturing a very immature bill, and I still think it is very immature. We have discussed it for the last hour and a half. I shall be constrained to vote against the first section of the bill, because I think it is still very defective. I think it does not accomplish the desired purpose. The section as it was originally framed provided for inflicting punishment upon railway corporations for misdemeanor. That, sir, I think is contrary to the principles of the criminal law of the State; as a substitute for that the amendment has been offered, providing that in case of exclusion from cars, the persons so excluded shall be entitled to an action for debt. The amendment proposed is not in the usual terms of a statute. The section is so imperfect in its terms now, in a legal interpretation, that it would be a misfortune to adopt it. I hope, therefore, that this bill will be recommitted to the committee from which it was reported, and there properly matured, so that it can be acted on promptly.

Mr. LOWRY. Mr. Speaker, I trust this bill will not be recommitted. If Senators wish to vote against the first section, it is their duty to do so; the session is well advanced; this is an old subject; we have had it here for years, and there has always been some objection raised at the eleventh hour to defeat these people. They have called to their aid men in Philadelphia to prepare a bill and sent it here; and they have asked that that bill shall become a law; objections were raised to the first section, and it has been amended, and, perhaps, properly amended, and I trust, sir, that we will pass this bill as it is reported; if not, kill it; kill it before the country, kill it before God and the world. Do not, sir, send it to a dark committee room, and there crucify it. Either kill it or give these people the law as they ask for it. Why refer it to a committee to be destroyed? That, sir, would be its tomb. Give it to the committee and it will die, and the stake will be driven through its body there, as has been done year after year. Let us meet the question like men and give them what they ask, or vote it down.

Mr. BROWNE (Lawrence) said he would like to have the bill revised more fully by a committee, but would like to have the question disposed of to-day.

Mr. FISHER. Mr. Speaker, I trust this bill will not be recommitted. The black man has been trampled on long enough, sir, and I protest in the name of humanity against denying him his rights any longer, and I demand, sir, in the name of the freemen of Pennsylvania, something for these oppressed people.

Pending the motion to recommit the bill,

The hour of one o'clock having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the Senate until three o'clock this afternoon.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Senate re-assembled at 3 o'clock, P. M.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented for concurrence bills numbered and entitled as follows:

No. 237, a further supplement to an act, entitled An act to incorporate the Howard fire and marine insurance company, approved April 31st, A. D. 1855, reducing the number of directors and authorizing an increase of capital stock.

Referred to the Committee on Corporations.

No. 154, a supplement to an act to empower the commissioners of Washington county to compromise with the holders of the county bonds, and for the more prompt and economical collection of taxes in said county.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

No. 179, a supplement to the act to incorporate the Eagle mining company, passed the 18th day of March, A. D. 1865, authorizing said company to borrow money, issue bonds and to increase the number of directors. Referred to the Committee on Corporations.

He also returned bills from the Senate numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

No. 35, an act supplementary to an act providing for the erection of a poor house in the county of Lawrence.

Senate bill No. 61, an act to authorize the appointment of a photographic reporter for the courts of Lancaster county.

Senate bill No. 64, an act appropriating part of the moneys arising from fines and forfeitures, in the county of Schuylkill, for a law library for the use of the courts, &c. &c.

With information that the House of Representatives has passed the same without amendments.

Daily Legislative Record.

FOR THE SESSION OF 1867.

TERMS OF THE DAILY RECORD.

THE DAILY RECORD will be furnished to Members of the Legislature and others at the following rates:

Single copy for the session.....$2 00

Members desiring extra copies of the Record, will please leave their names and the number of copies wanted at the publication office. GEO. BERGNER.

He also informed that the House has concurred in amendments made by the Senate to bills from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

No. 14, an act to authorize the collection of money for school purposes in the borough of Tidoute, Warren county.

No. 101, an act to incorporate the German savings institution of Erie.

EXCLUSION OF COLORED PEOPLE FROM CARS.

Agreeably to order, the Senate resumed the second reading and consideration of bill No. 235, relative to the exclusion of colored persons from cars.

The SPEAKER. The question is on recommending the bill, and the Senator from Luzerne is entitled to the floor.

Mr. SHOEMAKER. I simply propose, Mr. Speaker, to give my reasons why I think this bill ought to be recommitted. The Senator from Erie [Mr. Lowry] has informed us that this bill has been prepared with great care by a learned gentleman in Philadelphia.

Now, Mr. Speaker, it does not seem to me that the learned gentleman, whoever he may be, has drawn the bill with due regard to the protection of the rights of the great traveling community. It may be that it has been drawn with reference to the one idea that seems now to be pre-eminent. But it seems to me, that when a bill of this kind is drawn, it should be drawn with reference to the comfort and convenience of the great traveling public of this country. We are getting to be a great traveling people, and it has been said that one-fourth of our population is constantly either on transit on our railroads, or afloat upon our steamboats. Hence, when we legislate upon any subject affecting the interests of this great body of our people, we should frame our law so as to be in accordance with their comfort and rights.

Now, the first difficulty in this bill is this: It states that any person who may be traveling, may have the right to make his own selection as to the car in which he will ride. That is the way it is looked upon, and that is the way it will be interpreted if we pass this bill. It states, if the party aggrieved is excluded on account of color or race, he will incur liability. By this act, if any one is excluded, he will assume that he is excluded for one of these reasons, and authorized, under the act, to bring his suit. Hence it creates an absolute option of the party to select any car that he may choose,

Now, sir, I am opposed to this, and I say that the amendment proposed by the Senator from Mercer [Mr. Brown] would obviate the difficulty in this case and create no hardships; and while I say this, I do not yield to any man in devotion to the principle that all men shall have equal rights and that the poor man shall have the worth of his money as well as the rich. But I do say that that amendment would conduce to the comfort of the great traveling public. It is no hardship to any class of our community, whether black or white, of whatever nation he may be, because the railroad company is bound to furnish him with comfortable accommodations. But the bill proposes that I may select my car, and the conductor shall have nothing to say about it. To this I am opposed. Every man who has traveled in this country will recognize the necessity of placing in the hands of the conductors of our railroads and captains of our steamboats a certain degree of absolute power. No longer ago than last session, this Legislature granted the power to the Governor to commission conductors as police men, with power to arrest any person that was disorderly in the cars or annoying to the passengers, and imprison him. This was recognizing the fact by the Legislature of Pennsylvania, of the necessity of conductors having the absolute control of the passengers.

A great deal may be said here on this great topic of absolute equality. Now, Mr. Speaker, with all deference to opinions of gentlemen here, I do not believe it possible that there will ever be such a thing as absolute equality in this country, or any other. Gentlemen may talk as much as they please about the coming of the millennium; but until that does come, there can be no such thing as absolute social equality. Until that day dawns, there will always be social inequality in a greater or less degree. Now, I propose to give every man equal rights before the law, and I propose to make all railroad companies carry passengers on equal terms, as well as freight; and they shall carry the poor man, and give him as comfortable a seat as they do the rich man, without regard to color or complexion. I think it would conduce to the safety and comfort of travelers if the officers of the corporation have a general supervision and control over the passengers.

Now, there is one further objection to this bill; in fact, it has been so intimated with amendments that I scarcely know what the bill is. But one amendment proposed by the Senator from M'Kean [Mr. Cowles] says that suit may be brought in the name of the Commonwealth or in the name of the party aggrieved. It does not state for whose benefit the suit shall be brought—for the benefit of the Commonwealth, or for the benefit of the party aggrieved. It is in the name of the Commonwealth, he then becomes a witness, and the other party will have but a small chance; that is fatal, I think, to the bill. If the bill can be recommitted to the committee and they will frame a bill giving the persons, without respect to color or race, equal rights, reserving a proper authority in the hands of the officers of the company, I will be satisfied with it. But I do not wish a bill passed here which will do more injury than it will do good. It appears to me, there will be no great difficulty, if the bill is referred, to get such a bill as will answer the purpose. Every man that pays his fare on a railroad shall receive a comfortable seat; there is no objection to that. I hope the motion will prevail to refer it back to the proper committee.

[Remarks were also made by Messrs. Lowry, Ridgway, Coleman, M'Conaughy, Landon, Wallace, and M'Candless, which will appear in the Appendix.]

The question recurring, Will the Senate agree to recommit to the Committee on Railroads?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Lowry and Mr. Cowles, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Donovan, M'Conaughy and Shoemaker—3.

NAYS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingfield, Browne (Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Burnett, Coleman, Connell, Cowles, Davis, Graham, Jackson, James, Landon, Lowry, M'Candless, Randall, Ridgway, Schall, Seargent, Stutzman, Taylor, Wallace, Walls, White, Worthington and Hall, Speaker—26.

So the question was determined in the negative.

During the call,

Mr. FISHER said: Mr. Speaker, I wish to state that I am decidedly opposed to recommending the bill, but I have paired off with the Senator from York [Mr. Glatz].

On the question again recurring, Will the Senate agree to the first section, as amended?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Wallace and Mr. Lowry, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingfield, Browne (Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Coleman, Connell, Cowles, Graham, Landon, Lowry, Ridgway, Stutzman, Taylor, White, Worthington and Hall, Speaker—16.

NAYS—Messrs. Burnett, Davis, Donovan, Jackson, James, M'Candless, M'Conaughy, Randall, Schall, Seargent, Shoemaker, Wallace and Walls—13.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The second section was then read as follows:

SEC. 2. That any agent, conductor or employee of any railroad or railway corporation within this Commonwealth, who shall exclude, allow to be excluded, or assist in the exclusion from any of their cars set apart for the accommodation of passengers, any person or persons on account of color or race, or who shall refuse to carry such person or persons on account of color or race, or who shall throw any car or cars from the track, thereby preventing persons from riding, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall pay a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars ($500 00) nor less than one hundred dollars ($100 00), or be imprisoned for a term not exceeding three (3) months nor less than thirty (30) days, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Mr. WALLACE moved to amend by in-setting, after the words "set apart for the accommodation of," the word "colored."

Mr. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, my reason for proposing this amendment is that white people may ride in cars intended for colored people if they see fit so to do.

On the question,
Will the Senate agree to the amendment of Mr. WALLACE?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WALLACE and Mr. LOWRY, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Burnett, Davis, Donovan, Jackson, James, M' Candless, Randall, Schall, Seairight, Wallace and Walls—11.

NAYS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingfelt, Browne (Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Coleman, Connell, Cowles, Graham, Landon, Lowry, M'Conaughy, Ridgway, Shoemaker, Stutzman, Taylor, White, Worthington and Hall, Speaker—18.

So the question was determined in the negative.

On the question recurring,
Will the Senate agree to the second section?

A motion was made by Mr. M' CANDLESS to amend the same by adding to the end thereof the following proviso:

Provided, That if said corporations shall provide for the accommodation of colored persons at least one passenger car in fire, of those used upon their line of travel, and shall distinctly mark the same upon the side of such cars so set apart for such persons, the penalties hereby imposed shall not be inflicted.

On the question,
Will the Senate agree so to amend?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. M' CANDLESS and Mr. SEAIRIGHT, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Burnett, Davis, Donovan, Jackson, James, M' Candless, Randall, Schall, Seairight, Wallace and Walls—11.

NAYS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingfelt, Browne (Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Coleman, Connell, Cowles, Graham, Landon, Lowry, M'Conaughy, Ridgway, Shoemaker, Stutzman, Taylor, White, Worthington and Hall, Speaker—18.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. WALLACE said it would be a very difficult thing to punish a man for "allowing" a person to be excluded, and that he thought that clause should be stricken out.

And the question again recurring,
Will the Senate agree to the second section?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. DONOVAN and Mr. LOWRY, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingfelt, Browne (Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Coleman, Connell, Cowles, Graham, Landon, Lowry, M'Conaughy, Ridgway, Shoemaker, Stutzman, Taylor, White, Worthington and Hall, Speaker—18.

NAYS—Messrs. Burnett, Davis, Donovan, Jackson, James, M' Candless, Randall, Schall, Seairight, Wallace and Walls—11.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. BIGHAM. Mr. Speaker, I hope that by general consent the preamble will be omitted, for the following reasons: First, it adds nothing, and the bill is just as good without any preamble as with it; again, our use of Assembly go into the Digest, and these preambles never go in. But the principal reason is, that hereafter, when some historian looks into it, this preamble contains an implied admission that this is a common practice. Now, I say this is a slander upon Pennsylvania; the practice is confined to two or three roads in Philadelphia. It is a reflection on the courts of justice, that they have not done their duty. I am free to say this practice of excluding people on account of color has not been common. I believe the presidents of the four passenger railroads of Pittsburg are within this hall at this time; they have never excluded from a single car a person on account of color; if they behave themselves, they are treated as they ought to be. Not a single railroad in the Western part of the State has excluded an individual, that I have heard of. Now, shall we send down to the future historian the admission that these things are common, when it adds nothing? I, therefore, appeal to the friends of the bill to let the whole preamble fall.

Mr. LOWRY. I am not factious at all about the preamble. But we cannot exclude from history the fact of this great wrong.

Mr. BROWN (Mercer). Mr. Speaker, I shall vote against the preamble, because I do not think it recites the truth.

On motion of Mr. BIGHAM, the preamble was stricken out.

The title being under consideration,
The motion was made by Mr. GRAHAM to amend the same by adding after the word "fine" the word "imprisonment."

The amendment was
Agreed to.

The title, as amended, was
Agreed to.

And the bill ordered to be transcribed for a third reading.

HOOR OF MEETING.

Mr. BIGHAM moved that when the Senate adjourns, it will adjourn to meet to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

The motion was
Agreed to.

On motion of Mr. CONNELL, the Senate adjourned until to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, February 6, 1867.

The House met at 10 o'clock, A. M.
Prayer was offered by the Rev. Mr. KENNETT, member from Wyoming.

The SPEAKER announced a quorum of members present.

Mr. QUAY. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to read a bill in place.

Leave was granted.

Mr. QUAY. Mr. Speaker, I read in my place and present to the Chair a bill entitled An act to repeal an act entitled A further supplement to the act incorporating the Pennsylvania railroad company, authorizing an increase of capital stock, and to borrow money, approved the 21st day of March, A. D. 1866, to authorize the Pennsylvania railroad company to increase its capital stock, to issue bonds, and to secure the same by mortgage, and move to suspend the rules and put the bill on its passage.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I call for a division of the question.

The question was on suspending the rules generally.

On agreeing to the motion,
The yeas and nays were required by Mr. QUAY and Mr. M'CREARY, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Allen, Collins, Day, DeHaven, Espy, Gallagher, Ghegan, Harbison, Haddam, Hoffman, Humphrey, Kennedy, Kerns, Kinney, Kirtz, Lee, Marks, Meclung, Mullin, Peters, Pilow, Quay, Rhoads, Robinson, Rouch, Seiler, Sharples, Shuman, Stehman, Stumbaugh, Subers, Watt, Webb, Westbrook, Whann, Wilson, Worrall and Davis, Speaker pro tem.—38.

NAYS—Messrs. Armstrong, Barton, Boyd, Boyle, Chadwick, Chalfant, Craig, Deise, Fogel, Fresborn, Gordon, Harner, Hood, Hunt, Kline, Leech, Linton, M'Camant, M'Creary, M'Kee, M'Pherria, Meish, Melon, Melly, Phelan, Richards, Satterthwaite, Waddell, Wallace, Weller, Wharton and Woodward—43.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. M'CAMANT. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to make a statement.

Leave was granted.

Mr. M'CAMANT. A few days ago a resolution was passed appointing a committee to investigate certain matters connected with the transportation of freight by the Atlantic and Great Western railway company. I am a member of that committee and ask to be discharged from it for the following reasons: My mother is lying very sick, and the physician attending her tells me it is very likely she will not get well and I do not know what moment I may be called away. That committee will necessarily be absent for some time investigating this matter, and I feel that my duty and my affection for my mother do not justify me in being away. I, therefore, ask leave to be discharged from that committee.

On motion,
Mr. M'CAMANT was discharged.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES.

Mr. WADDELL, from the Committee on Ways and Means, as committed, bill No. 282, an act for the relief of Milo R. Adams, treasurer of Beaver county.

AMENDMENT TO THE RULES.

The SPEAKER. The special order at this time is the consideration of the resolution of the gentleman from Fayette [Mr. BOYLE], amending the rules of this House.

The resolution with the amendment of the gentleman from Beaver [Mr. QUAY], will be read.

They were read as follows:
Resolved, That the following shall be a rule of this House:

RULE 62. A majority may discharge a committee from the consideration of any matter referred to it, at any time after fifteen days subsequent to such reference; and from the consideration of any matter referred within fifteen days of the close of the session, on or after the second day succeeding such reference, and motions for discharge may be made when reports from committees are in order.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the resolution, as amended?

A motion was made by Mr. QUAY to amend the same by adding thereto the words as follows, viz:

"And that the majority shall be competent to suspend this and any other rule of this House."

The SPEAKER. The question is on the amendment of the gentleman from Beaver [Mr. QUAY].

Mr. QUAY. Mr. Speaker, I understand that the gentleman from Fayette [Mr. BOYLE] has an amendment that he wishes to incorporate into the original resolution, and I expect it can be done by unanimous consent. I then propose to call the previous question and dispose of this matter.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I think it proper to say to this House that the amendment of the gentleman from Beaver [Mr. QUAY] is intended to kill the resolution; the gentleman who vote for that amendment will probably oppose the it in that light, that they are opposing the rule itself. My amendment, made in accordance with the suggestion of the gentleman from Chester [Mr. WADDELL], is that the time a motion may be made to discharge a committee shall be when original resolutions are in order, instead of reports of committees.

The SPEAKER. There being no objection the amendment will be inserted by unanimous consent.

Mr. QUAY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to state to the House that the amendment of the gentleman from Beaver is not intended to kill the resolution, although the gentleman from Beaver does not care if it does have that effect. Now I call the previous question.

The call for the previous question was sustained by Messrs. Colville, M'Pherrin, Webb, M'Keo, Stumbaugh, Humphrey, Moschling, Kinney, Hegan, Cameron, Kennedy and M'Camant.

The question being,
Shall the main question be now put?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr.

QUAY and Mr. BOYLE, and were as follow, viz:

Yeas—Messrs. Barton, Chase, Ghegan, Kerns, M'Kee, Meehling, Quay, Shuman, Stumbaugh Wallace, Watt, Webb, Wingard, and Davis, Speaker pro tem.—14.

Nays—Messrs. Adaire, Allen, Barrington-Boyd, Boyle, Brennan, Brown, Calvin, Cameron, Chadwick, Collins, Colville, Craig-Day, Deise, Donahigh, Ewing, Fogel, Freeborn, Gallagher, Gordon, Harrison, Harner, Headman, Heltzel, Hoffman, Hood, Humphrey, Hunt, Jones, Josephs, Kennedy, Kim-mell, Kinney, Kline, Koon, Kurtz, Lee, Leach, Linton, M'Camant, M'Creary, M'Henry, M'Pherrin, Maish, Mann, Markley, Melly, Mullin, Pennypacker, Peters, Shelan, Pillow, Quigley, Rhoads, Richards, Satterthwait, Sharples, Waddell, Weller, Westbrook, Whann, Wharton, Wilson, Woodward, Worrall and Wright—67.

So the question was determined in the negative.

The question recurring, Will the House agree to the resolution?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. COLVILLE and Mr. GHEGAN, and were as follow, viz:

Yeas—Messrs. Boyd, Boyce, Breen, Brennan, Chadwick, Chalfant, Collins, Craig-Day, Deise, Ewing, Freeborn, Gallagher, Gordon, Harrison, Harner, Hunt, Jones, Kim-mell, Kurtz, Leach, Linton, M'Creary, Maish, Mann, Melly, Pennypacker, Peters, Shelan, Richards, Wallace, Weller and Wilson—33.

Nays—Messrs. Adaire, Allen, Barrington, Barton, Brown, Calvin, Cameron, Chase, Colville, Davis, DeHaven, Donahigh, Emy, Fogel, Ghegan, Heltzel, Hoffman, Hood, Humphrey, Josephs, Kennedy, Kerns, Kinney, Kline, Koon, Lee, M'Camant, M'Henry, M'Kee, M'Pherrin, Markley, Meehling, Mullin, Pillow, Quay, Quigley, Rhoads, Robinson, Rouch, Satterthwait, Seiler, Sharples, Shuman, Stumbaugh, Waddell, Watt, Webb, Westbrook, Whann, Wharton, Wingard, Woodward, Worrall and Wright—65.

So the question was determined in the negative.

The following remarks were made during the call:

Mr. COLVILLE. Mr. Speaker, as I have been laboring under the same impression as the gentleman from Beaver [Mr. QUAY] for some time, that this resolution was introduced for the purpose of restoring the Pittsburg and Connelville railroad company to their rights, and as I understand the bill for that purpose has been reported from the committee without alteration or amendment, I will now vote against the resolution. I vote "no."

Mr. PENNYPACKER. Mr. Speaker, acting upon principle in this matter, believing it to be right, and not for any specific object—I vote "aye."

Mr. SHARPLES. Mr. Speaker, acting upon principle in this matter, and believing it to be wrong—I vote "no."

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, finding my colleagues divided upon this subject, and finding it necessary to settle for Chester county their views—I vote "no."

BILLS IN PLACE.

Mr. WADDELL read in his place and presented to the Chair a further supplement to an act to provide for the adjudication and payment of certain military claims, approved the 16th day of April, A. D. 1862.

Referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Mr. M'PHERRIN, an act authorizing the improvement of Shenago river, and making an appropriation therefor.

Referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Mr. WATT, an act to change the venue in the case of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania versus John Shupe, Moriety Leib, Charles W. Everhart, Robert Alsop and Jonathan A. Waters, from the court of quarter sessions of the peace in and for the city and county of Philadelphia.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary General.

Mr. STUMBAUGH, an act in relation to original writs and executions in the county of Franklin.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

Also, an act in relation to lost records, deeds and other papers in the county of Franklin.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

Mr. WADDELL, an act to establish an additional notary public in Chester county.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

Also, an act relating to hawkers and peddlers in the county of Chester.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

Mr. KLINE, an act to increase the pay of the assessors of Lehigh county.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

Mr. ROUGH, an act to authorize the guardians of the minor children of Michael Frock, late of Snyder county, deceased, to make certain improvements on the real estate of said minors.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

Mr. BOYD, an act to regulate the salaries of the county auditors, and also the salaries of the township auditors and their clerks, in the county of York.

Referred to the committee on the Judiciary Local.

Mr. SUBERS, an act authorizing the Governor to appoint an additional notary public for the city of Philadelphia.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

Mr. WATT, an act to authorize the Governor to appoint two additional notaries public for the city of Philadelphia.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

Mr. MARKLEY, a further supplement to an act passed the 18th day of March, 1862, to authorize the arrest of professional thieves, burglars, et cetera, in the city of Philadelphia.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

Mr. BARTON, joint resolution relating to reconstruction of the late rebellious States.

Referred to the Committee on Federal Relations.

Mr. MAISH, a joint resolution instructing members of Congress from this State to use their influence to repeal the act of Congress imposing a tax on State bank circulation.

Referred to the Committee on Federal Relations.

Mr. MAISH. Mr. Speaker, I ask that that bill be read by the Clerk.

The bill was read as follows:

WHEREAS, The right on the part of the State to create corporations for the purpose of banking, including the issue by them of paper to circulate as money, has been exercised at pleasure by the States, from the beginning of the Government, and its validity is now beyond the reach of question;

And whereas, No clause or article of the Constitution of the United States gives Congress the power, directly or indirectly, to interfere with the exercise of any such right;

And whereas, The tax imposed by Congress upon the circulation of the State banks operates as a prohibition of such circulation, and was intended as such, as appears by the debates of that body;

And whereas, What cannot be done directly by Congress—for example, the taking from the States the power to charter banks of issue—cannot be done indirectly by taxation; therefore,

Resolved by the House, &c. That, in the opinion of this House, said law should be repealed, and that our Senators and Representatives be instructed to use all honorable means to that end.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to each of our Senators and Representatives at Washington, to be laid before Congress.

Mr. ARMSTRONG, a joint resolution instructing our Senators and requesting our members in Congress to procure the passage of a law authorizing the national Government to reimburse the loyal States for all moneys advanced for the payment of bounties to volunteers during the late rebellion.

Referred to the Committee on Federal Relations.

Mr. KERNs, an act to grant the Merchants' Union telegraph company, of New York, the privilege to extend their lines of telegraph through the State of Pennsylvania.

Referred to the Committee on Corporations.

Also, an act to incorporate the American University of Philadelphia.

Referred to the Committee on Corporations.

Referred to the Committee on Municipal Corporations.

Mr. McCAMANT, an act to incorporate the borough of Newry.

Referred to the Committee on Municipal Corporations.

Mr. ARMSTRONG, an act to authorize the school directors of Conestoga township, of Lancaster county, to levy and collect a tax to liquidate the debt on said township, created to pay bounties to volunteers.

Referred to the Committee on Education.

Mr. ROATH, an act to repeal an act to increase the boundaries of Forest county, and the supplement thereto, approved the 31st day of October, A. D. 1866.

Referred to the Committee on Counties and Townships.

Mr. BARRINGTON, supplement to an act incorporating the Lehigh and Lackawanna railroad company.

Referred to the Committee on Railroads.

Mr. MECHLING, an act relative to the election of school directors and supervisors of roads in the township of Allegheny, in the county of Armstrong.

BILLS PASSED.

Mr. MECHLING. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to make a statement.

Leave was granted.

Mr. MECHLING. This bill relates to the spring election in our county, which takes place on the first of March. It is necessary it should pass at once to be of any value. I would, therefore, ask the indulgence of the House, and move to suspend the rules, in order that this bill may pass at this time.

The motion was

Agreed to.

The bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

House bill No. 76, entitled An act to change the venue in the case of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania versus Jesse R. M. Cary, Joshua B. M. Cary and Charles Norton from the court of quarter sessions of the peace of Sullivan county to the court of quarter sessions of the peace of Bradford county, came up on third reading.

The question was, Shall the bill pass?

On the question,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WEBB and Mr. BOYLE, and were as follows, viz.

Yeas—Messrs. Adaire, Armstrong, Barton, Brown, Cameron, Chase, Colville, Davis, Day, DeHaven, Donohugh, Espy, Ewing, Freeborn, Gallagher, Ghegan, Gordon, Harrison, Hoffman, Humphrey, Kennedy, Kerns, Kimmel, Kinney, Lee, Leech, M'Camant, M'Creary, M'Pherrin, Mann, Marks, Mechling, Peters, Pillow, Quay, Richards, Roath, Seiler, Shuman, Stacey, Stumbaugh, Subers, Waddell, Wallace, Watt, Webb, Waller, Whann, Wharton, Wilson, Wingard, Woodward, Vorns and Wright—54.

Nays—Messrs. Barrington, Boyd, Boyle, Breen, Brennau, Calvin, Chalfant, Collins, Craig, Fogel, Harner, Headman, Heltzel, Hood, Hunt, Jones, Josephs, Klima, Koon, Kurtz, Linton, Long, M'Henry, Maish, Markley, Mullin, Phelan, Rhoads, Robinson, Rouch, Satterthwait and Westbrook—32.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

And the bill

Passed finally.

House bill No. 95, entitled An act regulating the sale of intoxicating liquors, licensing saloons, eating houses and restaurants, and to prohibit billiard saloons from being kept open on Sunday, in the county of Cameron, came up in its order on third reading.

The question was, Shall the bill pass?

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

The motion was

Agreed to.

House bill No. 170, entitled An act to increase the duties of the Citizens' association of Pennsylvania, came up in its order on third reading.

The question was, Shall the bill pass?

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I move the postponement of this bill for the present.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I do not know as there will be any objection to the postponement of this bill for the present, if the gentleman will indicate some day certain to which it shall be postponed.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I then move to postpone the consideration of this bill until Wednesday next.

Mr. BARTON. Mr. Speaker, I think, sir, there is nothing in this bill at all objectionable, either to any particular locality, or to the State at large. The bill provides that the Citizens' association shall have authority to inspect all poor houses and prisons throughout the Commonwealth, and to make a report to this House. Now, sir, this is simply a bill containing provisions of this kind, which calls in itself for no appropriation; it attacks no local interests. It is simply designed to get the full and fair statistics of the poor houses and State prisons of this Commonwealth, in order that legislation in reference to those institutions may be made with a better understanding. I therefore hope the motion of the gentleman from Berks [Mr. JONES] will not prevail, and that this bill will now be put upon its final passage.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I have not made this motion with the object of defeating this bill, although if its consideration is insisted upon now I hope the bill will not pass. The only object I had in making the motion to postpone until Wednesday next was to enable the members to examine the provisions of the bill. I have not had an opportunity to do so, and would like a little time, as upon its face the bill bears, evidently, the mark of injustice and impropriety. I am not sure that the gentleman from Delaware [Mr. BARTON] was in his place yesterday when this bill was read a second time, but I said then that the great objection I saw to it was that it clothed a private corporation with undue powers over private individuals. The Citizens' association may make contracts with private individuals, under the existing laws, and there can be, therefore, no necessity for this additional legislation.

Then the gentleman from Potter [Mr. MANN], in explaining this bill, said that they did not ask for State appropriation, nor do they propose to give the State any authority or control over it; at least, that is what I understood the gentleman to say. It proposes, also, to put certain powers into the hands of courts, which I think ought not to be reposed there. For example, if I understand the provisions of the bill, they are somewhat as follows: The friends or relatives of any inebriate may make application to the Citizens' association to have him received there.

This association may then, if they choose, inquire into the history of his case, and submit the result of their inquiries to the presiding judge of the district in which he resides. The judge shall proceed to determine—not by trial—not by the verdict of a jury—whether he is an inebriate or not. It shall not be determined by a committee—not by any prescribed form—but the judge of that court is to prescribe the manner of ascertaining that fact by such rules of procedure as he may think proper. It is left entirely to his discretion; and it is the judge of that court chooses to find, in his own way, without any restriction, that such an individual is an inebriate, then he may sentence him to be kept in confinement by the Citizens' association for a period of not less than nine months, and not exceeding a certain period, the exact length of which I do not now remember. I think this puts an unreasonable power in the hands of the court. But, after a more careful examination of this bill it may be so amended as to obviate all these difficulties. I think the design is very good and creditable; nevertheless, I think the provisions, as set forth in this act, would have a very injurious effect and work very great hardships in particular cases. My object is only to postpone the consideration of this bill, in order to give the members an opportunity to examine it. I am sure I do not see the necessity of hurrying it through to-day when it has not had proper consideration.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I do not suppose debate is in order now, therefore I do not intend to speak on the question. But I cannot allow myself to go on the record as having said that this association does not propose to let the State have any power over it. I do not want anything of that kind. The bill proposes to give this Legislature all the apperision over this association that it chooses to exercise.

Mr. KERNS. Mr. Speaker, the objection that arose in my mind to this bill, when it was up yesterday, was that when an inebriate had been committed to this association, no judge could set that prisoner at liberty unless this association should choose to release him. It takes that power out of the hands of the judge. I think the judge, by this bill, has no right to release him until the expiration of the time for which he was sentenced, unless the association so chooses, and at the same time the association shall receive remuneration for keeping him. That is my objection to the bill and my reason for objecting to it on Wednesday.

The question being,
Will the House agree to the motion to postpone the further consideration of the bill until next Monday?

It was agreed to.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, as we have now gone through all the regular orders, I ask the unanimous consent of the House to proceed to the consideration of Senate bill No. 2, entitled joint resolution to ratify the fourteenth article of the Constitution of the United States.

There being no objections, the House proceeded to its consideration.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, as the gentleman from Northumberland [Mr. THUR] was obliged to leave town yesterday, he requested me to submit his remarks on this bill to the House, and ask leave to have them spread upon the Record.

Leave was granted.

Remarks were then made on the resolution by Messrs. ALLEN and JONES, which will appear in the Appendix to the Record.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

No. 119, a supplement to the act to incorporate the Eagle mining company, passed the 18th day of March, A. D. 1866, authorizing said company to borrow money, issue bonds, and to increase the number of directors.

With information that the Senate has passed the same without amendment.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE GRANTED TO AN INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE.

Mr. CHASE. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave of absence for the committee of investigation, appointed to inquire into the charges made in the case of the Atlantic and Great Western railroad company.

Leave was granted.

The SPEAKER announced that Mr. ADAIR had been appointed to act as chairman of that committee, in the place of Mr. MCALAMANT.

The hour of one o'clock having arrived, The SPEAKER adjourned the House until this afternoon at two o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The House met at 2 o'clock; P. M.

THE INCREASE OF EFFICIENCY IN THE COMMON SCHOOL SYSTEM.

The SPEAKER. The special order for the afternoon is House bill No. 129, entitled An act to increase the efficiency of the common school system and to foster schools for the education of teachers. The question is on the first section.

The first section was read as follows:

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That hereafter there shall be levied and collected a State tax of one mill on the dollar of all property taxable for county purposes, to be collected and paid into the Treasury of the State under the same regulations as State taxes have heretofore been collected.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Mr. Speaker, this bill is calculated to operate very injuriously upon the section of the State from which I come. The object of the bill, as I understand it, is to compel the southeastern section of the State, which pays the principal part of the taxes of the State, to keep up the schools of other sections that pay proportionately scarcely any taxes. I believe that is the practical object and effect of it, and I appeal if the gentleman from Montgomery [Mr. MANN] will not the sum and substance of this whole measure. For my part, I cannot make anything else out of it. I repeat, sir, the object of this bill is to compel those of us in the counties of the southeastern section of the State to keep up the schools of those counties that pay but a small portion of the State taxes; and, sir, in the name of my constituents I protest against the passage of this law.

Now, sir, at the last session of the Legislature we abolished all State taxes, and when we went home to our constituents we were congratulated upon having accomplished their very desirable object. Now it is proposed to re-enact this obnoxious measure. I, for one, am not willing to do that. I am opposed to this whole thing.

It has been said that the Constitution of the State requires that the State shall establish an efficient system of public schools. So it does. It provides for many other things; but it does not provide that these schools shall be kept up at the expense of the State. There is nothing in the Constitution that warrants the conclusion that anything of that kind was intended. There are a great many things provided for in the Constitution besides the school system that are not paid for by the State, and which never were intended to be. Why, sir, I am as thoroughly in favor of the common school system, I hope, as any gentleman on this floor possibly could be; but I do not believe this bill would do one particle of good to that system. I believe there is already established all over this State, as the Constitution provides there shall be, an efficient system of public schools.

This bill will do no good for that system, inasmuch as in our section of the State, for instance, complaint is already made of the burden of taxes. We have other taxes; we have taxes of which they know comparatively nothing in these other and more distant parts of the Commonwealth; and there is neither reason nor justice in compelling us to keep up their schools. I do not think there is room for any considerable argument on this question, because this is the whole question, whether we shall be compelled to keep up the schools in those portions of the State where they do not want to support such schools. I do not think, sir, the gentleman from Potter has pretended to show that there is any justice in this proposition. He appeals to us not to be mercenary about it. Now that appears to me to be decidedly cool. A man meets me on the highway and demands my money; he tells me I am rich and he is poor, and I must therefore hand over my money, and when I protest against it, he tells me not to be mercenary about it.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman from Montgomery [Mr. SATTERTHWAIT] entirely misapprehends the spirit and purpose of those who advocate this bill and of the bill itself; and I confess to a good deal of astonishment at the reasons given by him for opposing this bill. I have listened frequently to the remarks which have been made at different times by the gentleman from Montgomery, and although we differ radically in politics, we have generally listened to him with a good deal of satisfaction. In relation to many measures of finance and of economy, I had supposed we were tolerably well in accord; at any rate I have sympathized with many of his opinions as expressed upon this floor; and to such an extent has this been the case that I confess to utter astonishment at the remarks he has made upon this bill. Why, sir, his position will go against the levying of any school tax at all; it strikes at the whole system of common schools as pointedly as at this bill. Take, for instance, his closing remark; that in his opinion the principle of this law is to keep up the schools when the demand of the robber is made, when after the demand is refused, he says to the man he intends to rob, "now don't be mercenary." Now, if that idea is properly applied to this bill, I ask whether it does not apply with equal force to the whole common school system? Would it not apply with like force to men of means living in the borough in which I reside, as well as to many others, who never sent a child to the common schools, who never had a child to send and who, unless they change their habits pretty soon, never will have one to send; and yet, being men of wealth, those gentlemen are taxed ten and six-tenths per centum on all the taxable property they possess, in order to educate the children of other men who have not means. Now, does that partake of the nature of a robber's demands? Is that what the school laws of Pennsylvania do—make a "robber's demand" upon people who have wealth, so as to educate the children of those who are destitute? For if that be true of this bill, it is true of the whole system of the State with regard to common schools.

And, Mr. Speaker, to carry out the argument I have suggested, I would ask what justice there is in taxing a citizen of the county of Tioga nine per centum of all the property he has for school purposes, though he have no child to send to school. Notwithstanding he has never sent a child to school in his life, yet, by the common school system of this State, you say to him, "you must pay nine mills and a half upon every dollar of property you own" (which will keep the schools open five months and a half), whereas you tax a man of individuals in Montgomery county one mill and six-tenths; which keeps the schools of Montgomery county open seven months in the year. That is to say, you invite every man in the county of Potter who is the possessor of any means—you invite every such man to emigrate to the county of Montgomery, because, if he stays in the county of Potter, he will be taxed for educating the children of poor people ten mills on every dollar he has, but if he will go to the county of Montgomery he will be taxed only one and six-tenths mills. I submit that that is an inequality in the matter of taxation which ought to cease; it is an inducement held out for men to leave these counties where wealth has not yet been developed and go into those more wealthy and populous counties. This talk about this bill being a robber's demand is too unworthy to come from any member upon this floor.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Will the gentleman allow me to explain?

Mr. MANN. Certainly, sir.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. I do not wish to be understood that this sense, Mr. Speaker. I merely said that the cry that we were mercenary in resisting this bill would be like the robber's cry, and that if there was anything mercenary about it, it seemed to me the mercenary part was altogether with those who asked for this bill. That was all I said.

Mr. MANN. I think the gentleman from Montgomery will find no such expression in anything I said on this bill. I made no such allusion in my remarks. What I did say—and I repeat it—was that there was great inequality in the imposition of taxes for school purposes, and that that was not in harmony with the principles of the school law of Pennsylvania. And I said that the men who live in wealthy counties ought to be willing to come within the principles of this bill; I made no allusion to mercenary feelings whatever. And the point I make this is: Is it right in the great State of Pennsylvania, to tax a man living in Tioga county nine mills and a half on every dollar he possesses, to educate the children of the State, and a man living in Montgomery county, but one mill and a half for the same purpose? That is the point I make; and if that state of things is not to continue, then this bill ought to be passed; for that is just what we are doing, according to the last report of the superintendent of the Common Schools of this State. And I submit that that one fact of itself ought to carry this bill through.

Again, sir, there is this consideration deserving of attention. There are in the county of Tioga two hundred and forty-five schools, and in the county of Montgomery two hundred and sixty schools, and it costs the same amount to keep open a school in Tioga county that it costs to keep a school open in Montgomery county. Now whether the people of Tioga county be rich or poor, I submit that their children should have the same right to have the schools of that county kept open that they have in Montgomery.

[At this point, the Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented several bills for concurrence, the titles of which are given elsewhere.]

I was saying, Mr. Speaker, that there are in the county of Tioga two hundred and forty-five schools and in Montgomery county two hundred and sixty schools, and that the cost of keeping open a school is the same in each county, and, therefore, that there ought to be appropriated to the school districts of Tioga the same amount of State tax, for the purpose of keeping them open, that is appropriated to the school districts of Montgomery. Now, I ask any gentleman to gainsay that proposition. And that being conceded, it, therefore, follows that there should be the same appropriation to a school in Tioga that is given to a school in Montgomery, unless, however, you go upon the principle of apportioning this money, that the State raises, according to the wealth of the State; that is to say, that to those districts that are wealthy and need no assistance, you will give a larger proportion than is allowed to those districts that are poor and need assistance.

The county of Tioga has two hundred and forty-five schools, the county of Montgomery has two hundred and sixty schools—but fifteen more. Now, mark the difference in the appropriation made by the State to those two counties. You appropriate from the State Treasury to help keep open the schools of Tioga three thousand one hundred and ninety-five dollars, and to the schools of Montgomery seven thousand sixty-nine dollars. The amount given by the State to a school in Montgomery is nearly double the amount appropriated to a school in Tioga! Is there any justice in that? And now see the result. The people of Tioga, being in favor of common schools, being in favor of taxing themselves to the extent of their ability to keep open the schools of that county, tax themselves, in addition to the amount levied from the treasury, nine mills and a half of every dollar that they are worth; but with that they can keep their schools open only five months and a half; and yet the people of Montgomery tax themselves to the enormous amount of one mill and a half, but with that they are enabled to keep their schools open seven months and one-tenth of a month.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. The gentleman is mistaken. I desire to correct him.

Mr. MANN. I have taken the statement from the report of the superintendent.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Certainly you have made a mistake. The tax is three mills and fourteen-one-hundredths for school purposes and one mill and sixty-seven-one-hundredths for building purposes, making nearly five mills.

Mr. MANN. It is not so on my book.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. It is so here; there it is.

Mr. MANN. I am confining myself to the tax for school purposes, not for building houses; that is a matter of taste.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Well, for school purposes it is over three mills.

Mr. MANN. I am willing to submit the book which I have to the Clerk or the Speaker. I say that it is one mill and six-tenths for school purposes.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Well, sir, I deny it.

[Mr. MANN at this point submitted the report from which he had read for the inspection of the Clerk, who read from the tabular statement as follows: "Montgomery county—number of mills for school purposes, one and sixty-seven-one hundredths of a mill."

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. It is not so on my book, sir.

Mr. MANN. That is all.

Mr. Speaker, what the gentleman says with regard to building purposes, I submit, is not germane to the point we are discussing. They may build palaces for their accommodation in Montgomery county, and thereby make it necessary to assess a large amount for building purposes. What I am talking about is the amount of money necessary to keep schools open. That is what I am discussing; I said nothing about the building tax in Tioga county nor the building tax of Montgomery county, and that according to the report, which I had before me, the people of Tioga tax themselves nine and a-half mills for school purposes, and the people of Montgomery one and six-tenths for school purposes, and that that tax of nine and a-half mills will only keep the schools of Tioga open five months and a-half, whereas the tax of one mill and six-tenths of Montgomery will keep them open seven months and one-tenth of a month. That is the argument, and it seems to me it ought to be conclusive upon this point; for the right to tax men at all is the right to tax them according to the value of their property, according to what they are worth; and it is exceedingly unjust to impose such unequal burdens upon the people of a State for a common purpose of general interest to the State.

Now, sir, I want to discuss this bill upon its merits, without any feeling that intentional injustice has been done by anybody. During this school system of the State was inaugurated it had many defects which our subsequent experience has enabled us, to some extent, to remedy. In the light of progress and the information we have acquired on the subject, we have vastly improved the school system; and I submit that this bill which I have introduced is another and a necessary step in the path of improvement. Without taking any further time of the House, I will ask any gentleman who opposes this bill to show me, if he can, what equality there is in taxing a man in one county four or five times as much for school purposes as you tax a man living in another county—in other words, what right the State has to tax me at all if I do not send children to school. I contend that when any gentleman has answered this question, by what right am I, who have no children to send to the common schools, taxed to support the schools of the State—that when that question is answered, then the bill before us is justified and ought to be passed.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Mr. Speaker, I merely rise to show that I was correct in disputing the statement of the gentleman. I knew he was wrong when he made the statement in regard to my county, because I knew what the taxes were there; I have good reason to know what they are. I have before me a statement of the superintendent, who says that the average tax in the county is three and fourteen one-hundredth mills for school purposes, besides one and sixty-seven one-hundredths for building purposes. Now that is what my book says, and the person who compiled the figures here must have made a mistake when he carried this into the general column. He made a mistake by placing to the account of building purposes that which should have been placed to the account of general school purposes. And that is the way the gentleman from Potter fell into a mistake, and it is a mistake, else I would not have been so positive in contradicting him. If the gentleman will look at the regular table of the counties, he will find that the figures for Montgomery county stand as I have them.

I did not wish, Mr. Speaker, to appear before this House in the position of having asserted what was not correct. And while I am on my feet, sir, I will just make a remark with reference to the question which the gentleman asked, to wit: By what right do we tax men at all for school purposes who do not send children to the public schools, if this bill is not right? I answer, by the same right by which we tax them for keeping up roads, and for all other municipal purposes. And I would like the gentleman to show me what better right they have to keep their schools in Potter county than they have to keep up their roads at our expense. Persons who do not use roads are taxed all the same, because roads are a public necessity. The Constitution of Pennsylvania requires that a system of public schools shall be established, wherein the poor shall be taught gratis. That is a requirement of the Constitution, and we have to comply with it. But there is no more reason, I say, why the money should come out of the State for that purpose than there is in the matter of keeping up the roads. And there is a very good reason why it should not be done, why each school district should support its own schools.

Now, I do not believe that the gentleman from Potter [Mr. MANN] is correct when he says that it costs just as much to keep up a school in Potter county as it does to keep up a school in Montgomery county, or at least that such should be the case. I believe that they can support their schools in Potter county at a much less expense, proportionately, than there is in the matter of keeping up the roads. And there is a very good reason all the expenses of living are much higher than in the country, and consequently the salaries of teachers are much higher. Understand me, sir, not as objecting to the present appropriation which is made to the public schools, as the gentleman has charged me with doing; I am willing it should remain as it is, but I do object to creating a tax at this time for this purpose. Another reason why this proposition should not be carried out may be found in the expense of collecting this tax. It is to go from the township to the county, and from the county to the State, and from the State back to the county, and from the county back to the township, and this process will absorb a great deal of it, and it will become a perfect waste.

Mr. SHARPLES. Mr. Speaker, while I do not exactly agree with my friend from Montgomery [Mr. SATTERTHWAIT] in some of the positions that he takes in reference to this bill or the principle which it embodies, I would suggest to the gentleman from Potter [Mr. MANN] that the same results at which he aims here may be accomplished without any increased taxation. A liberal appropriation from the State treasury would accomplish just the same results that he desires to accomplish by this bill. We know that the people of this State (and I speak more particularly with reference to the people of Chester county) are at present heavily taxed. When the State tax upon real estate was removed, the county of Chester, being heavily in debt, a heavy county tax was imposed upon real estate, and to inflict upon the people there now an additional State tax would have a tendency to injure the schools in Chester county. Now, while we are willing to help the schools in sparsely settled localities we certainly cannot consent to adopt a process by which the schools of Chester county shall be injured. What I propose is that the State appropriation shall be increased for the benefit of schools under the present mode, and that there be no increased tax whatever. The objection which the gentleman from Potter makes as to the inequality of taxation, and his comparison of the rate of tax in Tioga and Montgomery counties, respectively, applies generally throughout the State. In the county of Chester this same inequality exists. In some townships a tax of seven mills is assessed, while in others the tax is only one mill and a half. On the same principle which the gentleman from Potter advocates here, we should have a law compelling the wealthier townships in the county of Chester to assist in keeping open the schools in the poorer districts. It is just the same principle, and it will be seen that this cannot be made a rule.

[The speaker's remarks were partly inaudible at the reporter's desk, in consequence of confusion in the House, and several sentences are here omitted.]

There is an inequality in the assessment of the valuation of property throughout this State, and that is one of the grand objections to the bill after all. Now, if the gentleman from Potter is able to answer as to the facts in his own county, and if Montgomery county does receive double that is received by Tioga, she pays more of that same money in return. I will say, in conclusion, that I shall not oppose liberal appropriations from the State treasury for the purpose of relieving these schools, but I am opposed to this bill, and will vote against it. And to the objection that has been raised, that the Legislature may at some time cease to appropriate, I say that the same objection would apply to any law passed here. A law passed here this winter may be repealed next winter; so that there is no force in the objection.

Mr. WILSON. I regret very much, Mr. Speaker, to be compelled to vote against this bill or against any measure that seemed even to have a tendency to improve the common school system. I think that bills of this kind deserve the fostering care of the Legislature, and I, therefore, regret being compelled to vote against it.

But, sir, if this objection can be accomplished through the agency which the gentleman from Chester [Mr. SHARPLES] has suggested, namely, State appropriation, I think it would be much more desirable. The people have been and are now rejoicing from the fact that they have been relieved from a State tax. Now for this Legislature to go and impose another tax on them at this particular juncture, immediately after the other has been removed, would, I think, be very unwise. If the objects contemplated in this bill can be accomplished by an appropriation, I think it a much more desirable way. I shall, therefore, vote against this bill, having that objection view.

On agreeing to the first section,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. MANN and Mr. DEISE, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Boyle, Brown, Cameron, Chase, Davis, Deise, Espy, Ewing, Freeborn, Gallagher, Gordon, Humphrey, Kennedy, Kerns, Kimmell, Kinney, Kurtz, Leech, Linton, M'Camant, M'Creary, Mann, Mechling, Pillow, Richards, Shuman, Stumbaugh, Watt, Webb, Weller, Westbrook, Whann, Wharton, Wingard, Worrall and Wright—36.

NAYS—Messrs. Adaire, Armstrong, Berrington, Barton, Breen, Brennan, Calvin, Chadwick, Chalfant, Collins, Colville, Craig, Donohugh, Fogel, Harbison, Harner, Headman, Hoffman, Hood, Jones, Josepha, Kline, Koob, Lee, Long, M'Henry, M'Pherrin, Maish, Markley, Marks, Mullin, Pennypacker, Peters, Quay, Rhoads, Roath, Robinson, Rouch, Satterthwait, Shamples, Steacy, Stehman, Subers, Waddell, Wallace, Wilson and Glass, Speakers—47.

So the question was determined in the negative.

The SPEAKER. The first section being negatived the bills fall.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bills from House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

No. 31, an act to repeal part of an act, approved March 23, A. D. 1866, in reference to fees of officers and jurymen in Warren county.

No. 111, an act creating the office and defining the duties of assistant district attorney for the county of Allegheny.

With information that the Senate has passed the same without amendment.

The SPEAKER. The hour of three o'clock having arrived, the special order is the further consideration of Senate bill No. 3, entitled Joint resolution to ratify the fourteenth article of the Constitution of the United States.

The gentleman from Montour (Mr. CHALFANT) has the floor.

Remarks were made by MESSRS. CHALFANT, LEE, WRIGHT, DAY, SATTERTHWAIT and ESPY.

Which will appear in the Appendix to the Record.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I believe the resolution is now on third reading. I move, sir, to go into committee of the whole, for the purpose of special amendment. I desire to offer an amendment which I ask to be read.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read for the information of the House.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Resolved, That in the opinion of this General Assembly, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas and Arkansas are States of this Union, and should, therefore, be considered in ascertaining the number of States requisite to ratify the foregoing amendments and make their part of the Federal Constitution.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the resolution of the gentleman from Fayette [Mr. BOYLE] to amend.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, I do not understand that we have consented to go into the committee of the whole. I take it the resolution was only read for the information of the House. I do not understand that we have consented to vote on the amendment.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order. It is this, that the amendment is not pertinent to the subject, and that the resolution ratifying the amendment proposed by Congress is not amendable by this House.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is of the opinion that the point of order, raised by the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. DAVIS], is not well taken.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, the bill being upon third reading, we cannot entertain an amendment at this time, without going into committee of the whole.

Mr. BOYLE. That is my motion.
Mr. WADDELL. The question, then, is upon the motion to go into the committee of the whole and not upon the amendment which the gentleman offered. I understood the Chair to announce otherwise.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, the point of order which I would like to have decided, and which I apprehend I did not make clear, is that the amendment proposed by the gentleman from Fayette [Mr. BOYLE] is not consistent with, and is not germane to the resolution of the Senate—the resolution that we are considering. It brings in new matter which is not embraced in the matter under consideration at all.

Mr. QUIGLEY. Mr. Speaker, I apprehend that the point of order raised by my colleague is this, that he dislikes very much to vote on the amendment of the gentleman from Fayette [Mr. BOYLE]. The Speaker has decided that it is germane and in order, and the motion to go into the committee of the whole is always in order when a bill is on third reading.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, the first point of order that I raised was that the resolution is not amendable by this House, and I now raise the point of order that the amendment is not germane to the resolution.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is of the opinion that it is competent for the House to pass the resolution of the gentleman from Fayette [Mr. BOYLE], but in deference to the judgment of members the Chair submits the question to the decision of the House.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw the point of order.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the motion of the gentleman from Fayette to go into committee of the whole, for the purpose of considering his amendment.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Chester [Mr. WADDELL] gives us to understand that this is not test upon the resolution. The gentleman, as well as every gentleman in this House, knows that it is a test upon the resolution, because if the motion to go into the committee of the whole is agreed to, that is an adoption of the amendment, and a refusal to go into the committee of the whole is its rejection.

On the motion to go into the committee of the whole,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BOYLE and Mr. MANN, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Barrington, Boyd, Hoyle, Breen, Brennan, Chalfant, Craig, Deise, Fogel, Harper, Headman, Heltzel, Hood, Jones, Josephs, Kline, Koon, Kurtz, Long, M'Henry, M'Pherin, Maish, Markley, Mullin, Phelan, Quigley, Rhoads; Robinson, Rouch, Satterthwait and Westbrook—31.

NAYS—Messrs. Adaire, Allen, Armstrong, Barton, Brown, Cameron, Chadwick, Chase, Colville, Davis, Day, DeHaven, Donohugh, Espy, Erwing, Freeborn, Gallagher, Ghegan, Gordon, Harrison, Hoffman, Humphrey, Kennedy, Kerns, Kimmell, Kinney, Lee, Leech, M'Camant, M'Creary, Mann, Marks, Mechling, Meily, Pennypacker, Peters, Pillow, Richards, Seiler, Sharples, Shuman, Steacy, Stehman, Stumbaugh, Subers, Waddell, Wallace, Watt, Webb, Weller, Whann, Wharton, Wilson, Woodward, Worrall, Wright and Glass, Speaker—57.

So the question was determined in the negative.

The question recurring, Shall the resolution pass?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. DAVIS and Mr. KOON, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Adaire, Allen, Armstrong, Barton, Brown, Cameron, Chadwick, Chase, Colville, Davis, Day, DeHaven, Donohugh, Espy, Erwing, Freeborn, Gallagher, Ghegan, Gordon, Harrison, Hoffman, Humphrey, Kennedy, Kerns, Kimmell, Kinney, Lee, Leech, M'Camant, M'Creary, M'Pherin, Mann, Marks, Mechling, Meily, Pennypacker, Peters, Pillow, Richards, Seiler, Sharples, Shuman, Steacy, Stehman, Stumbaugh, Subers, Waddell, Wallace, Watt, Webb, Weller, Whann, Wharton, Wilson, Woodward, Worrall, Wright and Glass, Speaker—68.

NAYS—Messrs. Barrington, Boyd, Hoyle, Breen, Brennan, Chalfant, Deise, Fogel, Harper, Headman, Heltzel, Hood, Jones, Josephs, Kline, Koon, Kurtz, Long, M'Henry, Maish, Markley, Mullin, Phelan, Quigley, Rhoads, Robinson, Rouch, Satterthwait and Westbrook—29.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

And the joint resolution Passed finally.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented for concurrence bill numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

Senate bill No. 324, an act to repeal an act entitled A further supplement to the act incorporating the Pennsylvania railroad company, authorizing an increase of capital stock, and to borrow money, approved the 21st day of March, 1866, to authorize the Pennsylvania railroad company to increase its capital stock, to issue bonds and to secure the same by mortgage.

He also returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows:

No. 237, a further supplement to an act entitled An act to incorporate the Howard fire and marine insurance company, approved the 26th day of April, 1856, reducing the number of directors and authorizing an increase of capital stock.

With information that the Senate had passed the same without amendment.

The SPEAKER proceeded to clear the table.

Senate bill No. 324, an act to repeal an act entitled A further supplement to the act incorporating the Pennsylvania railroad company authorizing an increase of capital stock, and to borrow money, approved the 21st day of March, 1866, to authorize the Pennsylvania railroad company to increase its capital stock, to issue bonds, and to secure the same by mortgage.

Laid on the table.

The SPEAKER. The object for which this special order was made, having been gone through with, this House stands adjourned until next Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock.

BILL TAKEN FROM COMMITTEE.

Mr. SHOEMAKER moved that the Committee on the Judiciary General be discharged from the further consideration of bill entitled A further supplement to an act relating to local bounties, approved March 19, 1865.

The motion was agreed to, and the bill was committed to the Judiciary Local Committee.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. CONNELL offered the following resolution, which was twice read:
 Resolved, That the report of the Superintendent of Soldiers' Orphans be published in the Legislative Record.

The resolution was adopted.
 [For said report see Appendix.]

Mr. DONOVAN offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

Resolved, That the Speaker be respectfully requested to appoint two additional members of the Committee on Corporations.

The resolution was not
 agreed to.

Mr. M'CANLESS offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

Whereas, There is reason to believe that foreign insurance companies doing business in this State, now evade the laws imposing license and taxes upon such companies, thereby defrauding the Commonwealth of a large amount of revenue; and therefore,
 Resolved, That the Committee on Finance be instructed to examine this subject, and the several laws in relation thereto, and the alleged violations and evasions thereof, with a view to prevent the same hereafter, and report by bill or otherwise.

The resolution was adopted.
 Mr. SHOEMAKER offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

Resolved, That the Committee on Finance be requested to inquire into the expediency of re-publishing a railroad map to accompany the report on railroads, and report on the same at an early day.

The resolution was adopted.

THE RAILROAD COMMITTEE.

Mr. LOWRY offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

Resolved, That the Speaker of the Senate be respectfully requested to appoint two additional members on the Railroad Committee, whose opinions favor the passage of a general railroad law.

Mr. LOWRY. We respectfully request you to do so. Before the recent election, we nominated our candidates, and the people of Pennsylvania had a pledge from both the candidates that they were in favor of a general railroad law.

Mr. LONDON suggested that the two additional members be named in the resolution.

Mr. SPEAKER. The question is apparently unfair to the Chair. If the Senator desires any two persons to be added, let him make that motion and it will come up before the Senate. The Chair has no doubt at all but that a large majority of the people of Pennsylvania are favorable to a fair general railroad law, so that persons desiring railroad charters will not have to come to the Legislature, and are at the same time fair to corporations now in existence. The Senator from Erie [Mr. Lowry], no doubt, agrees with me in this. I might appoint a gentleman and he might prove to be unfavorable to it. I would prefer that the Senator name two Senators, and let the resolution in that shape come up. If the Senator does not like the committee, let him propose to put additional names to it, and the question will be one for the Senate. As a mere majority of the body—not two-thirds—can at any time discharge a committee, I confess I cannot see the necessity of the resolution in any shape, especially when to pass it enlarging a committee, would take two-thirds, instead of a mere majority under our rules: one of which directs the number that the committees shall be composed of. I regret exceedingly these reflections indulged in by one Senator against his fellows in the heat of debate. The rule which makes it the duty of the Speaker to "prevent personal reflections" must be enforced, or else wiped out by a resolution of the Senate.

Mr. RIDGWAY. Mr. Speaker, I think it is unnecessary to increase any committee in this Chamber. The Senator from Erie [Mr.
 Lowry] had better ask any gentleman on that committee that does not suit him to resign.
 I do not wish to be on the committee if the Senate does not desire me to be on it.

Mr. LONDON. Mr. Speaker, of course any such a resolution as that places the committee, and any individual member on it, in a rather delicate position. If the Senate wishes to add to that committee, I have no objection at all. The resolution assumes that the Committee on Railroads have defined their position touching a free railroad law.
 I am not aware of that fact. I can say for myself, that whenever a bill is presented that will allow the free privileges that are desired upon the one hand, and fully protect the vested rights and existing interests upon the other hand, I will vote for such a bill; and until such a bill is presented, I do not pledge myself to vote for anything.

Mr. BIGHAM. Mr. Speaker, the remarks of the chairman of the Railroad Committee are an unanswerable argument in favor of an addition to that committee. He says:
 "Whenever a bill is prepared." Now, if I understand anything of the business of committees, when a bill has been prepared on any subject, it is the duty of the committee to act upon it; if it is not in the right shape, it is their duty to put it in right shape. It is your duty, Mr. Speaker, to put upon committees of this branch those persons who understand the subject and are fully competent. For, unless I cannot agree, we are bound to wait until a bill is prepared and in exactly in shape. No man is wise enough to know what the right shape is; therefore, I think it is an unanswerable argument. It is the duty of that committee to put in shape and report such bills as are before them. In Congress the universal rule is reference to this subject is this: Whenever the Speaker is called upon to appoint a committee on any particular subject, he always puts upon that committee a majority who are favorable to the subject. It is the parliamentary rule. The friends of a measure are entitled to have it in the shape which they believe and ought to come from a committee.
 The Speaker of Congress formerly so acted, whether he was opposed or in favor of the measure. The underlying principle of all special committees is that a majority favorable to the project should be appointed. The House of Representatives, at Washington, has two or three times revised or changed committees for the very purpose of enabling reports to be made.

Mr. RIDGWAY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to explain in relation to that matter. It is a very different matter here than in Congress.
 In Congress it takes two-thirds to discharge a committee in this Senate a bare majority can do so. We, therefore, can discharge a committee at any time.

Mr. BIGHAM. Mr. Speaker, I was not aware that this proposition was to be made at all. The leading subject of legislation, so far as this committee is concerned, is the general railroad law.

The common sense view of the matter is that the friends of that measure are entitled to have it put in such a shape as the people of the State want it. The proposition comes from the inside of the committee. It certainly may have been considered a discourteous prior to the request of the Speaker to name the two additional members on that committee. Under the present circumstances it may be another thing. But I think that the people of the State are entitled now, at this period of the session, to have a bill such as the friends of that measure desire, before the Senate.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I would suggest to the Senator from Erie that perhaps it would be as well to have another committee added, to which the subject can be referred—to have a committee on this general railroad law, specially to report and prepare a bill. The people have the vested rights in the State to build roads where they please; and the railroad companies have no more vested rights than any manufacturing company has in any manufactured article. This is going to be the whole trouble this session.

Mr. LOWRY. Mr. Speaker, I consulted no one in regard to offering this resolution. I offer it because I believe it my duty to do so. How many years is it since we have been struggling to get a general railroad law in this State? All other States, except New Jersey, have such a law.

Mr. BIGHAM. The Senator from Erie is slandering New Jersey; she has passed a general law.

Mr. LOWRY. I am glad to hear it. The Pennsylvania railroad company stands here, year after year, like an overgrown monster, saying to you and to me and to the people of Pennsylvania, "You shall not build railroads only by my leave." Last year, when we nominated candidates for Governor, we all felt within us that the people demanded this general railroad law. The candidate of the Democratic party pledged himself before God and the country that the people should have it.

Mr. RIDGWAY. And he was defeated by twenty thousand.

Yes, sir, and General Geary would have been defeated by fifty thousand had not been given the same pledge.

After these pledges given by the Speakers of the Senate and House of Representatives and in the press, one man has the power now to stand up in the committee room and defeat the wishes of the people of Pennsylvania in these great and overshadowing interests.

Now, I believe my resolution to be a proper one, and that the additional member placed upon that committee will give the bill the sanction of thirty-nine out of ninety per centum of the people of Pennsylvania in favor of this law, and how dare the members of this Legislature return to their constituents without it; how dare this Legislature, after they reported this morning against the Connellysville railroad, and with the evidence that we have here that the people of Pittsburg and the west are to be defrauded out of their rights—how dare they go to Pittsburg to-day or to-morrow? I cannot go with them, sir. The very women should beat them back with stones in their stockings if they refuse to give them the just legislation they ask for. I want all men to understand our position.

I have no hesitation to name two members for that committee if the Speaker insists upon it. Were I going to name the gentleman, I would name the gentleman from Lebanon [Mr. COLEMAN] and the gentleman from Clearfield [Mr. WALLACE].

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the Senator from Allegheny [Mr. BIGHAM], the Senator from Erie [Mr. LOWRY] and the Senator from Lebanon [Mr. COLEMAN] are out of order, as they themselves can see. A simple resolution is introduced that two members be added to the Railroad Committee; to that, one Senator argues in favor of vested rights; another argues that the control and appointment of special committees should be given to the majority favoring a measure, where the mover is one of that majority. To that I assent, but where is this rule in point as to the subject before the Senate? How can the Speaker of the Senate, in appointing standing committees, know what bills are going to be introduced; and how can he tell whether the majority of the Legislature is favorable or against such bills? It is not right either that he should know. In framing the Committee on Railroads, he would here say, that he endeavored to select those who represent the varied interests of the State, and that he was aware that a majority of that committee are opposed to a general railroad law. If the Senator from Erie [Mr. LOWRY] should introduce a resolution now, asking the chair to re-frame the Committee on Railroads, the Chair would appoint the same men on that committee, because I have entire confidence in their judgment and integrity. If the Senator desires to enlarge the committee, he must enlarge it in such a way as not to put me in an unfair position. If he desires to enlarge it by adding the experienced Senators from Lebanon and Clearfield [Messrs. COLEMAN and WALLACE], let their names be inserted in the resolution. I am sure the Speaker will not object.

The resolution is not debatable on the merits of the general railroad law, or the Connellysville law. Neither of those bills are now before the Senate. When they are, the views of all will be heard, and I trust the Senate will so act as to satisfy the people they endeavored to do what they thought right. In the meantime Senators must confine themselves to the subject of the resolution.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I have a word to say. I am for a free railroad law, now, and all the time. I will vote for it this morning, or whenever it comes up to be voted for. I believe that this body can pass a free railroad law, when we have a majority; and whenever we do have a majority, we can control any committee. Under the rules that are now in existence, I cannot, Mr. Speaker, see the importance of adding any more names to the Committee on Railroads. I do not believe, sir, that we are in the hands of any committee. I do not believe that any committee of this body controls this Senate or the State of Pennsylvania. We can discharge any committee from the further consideration of any measure, and take that measure up, and pass it, if we have a majority of Senators in favor of it. I will vote this morning to discharge the Committee on Railroads from the further consideration of the measure introduced by the Senator from Erie, and I will vote to take up that very railroad law, and if put to a vote, I will vote for it. But I will vote against a bureau. I will vote for the free railroad law, and I will vote for it. Mr. Speaker, I think there is any necessity for changing the Committee on Railroads, or any other committee. I think the appointments were fair and generous, and, in behalf of the minority, I think I may say that we think ourselves under an obligation to the Speaker for the manner in which these committees were appointed; and I do not think there is any occasion, in regard to this measure, or any other, to call for any change in the organization of committees in this body.

My friend, the Senator from Erie, took occasion to make remarks upon the position taken, during the late canvass, by the two candidates for Governor, in regard to the question of a free railroad law. We, sir, can point with satisfaction and with pride, to the answer made by our candidate to the queries proposed to him in regard to that matter. They were clear and distinct. There could be no misunderstanding, then; and if my friend, the Senator from Erie, thinks and believes that his candidate for Governor, who was the successful candidate, was as clear and firm in the sentiments that might be supposed to have been enunciated in the letter that he wrote, I would suggest that, instead of adding two members to the Railroad Committee, that General Geary be requested to send a special message to the Legislature recommending and advising the passage of a free railroad law, and that proposition would have a much greater effect than that of adding two, or twenty-two, members to the Railroad Committee. I hope, sir, that this suggestion, which I have thrown out hastily and without much consideration, may be taken up and acted upon. I would like very much to see a message from Governor Geary on this question. It is a question that interests the people of the State. I agree with my friend from Erie [Mr. LOWRY], that seventy-five out of a hundred voters in Pennsylvania are in favor of a general railroad law; and I would like to see the Governor respond to their wishes, by sending in a special message recommending them to pass a free railroad law to the Railroad Committee. I hope Mr. Geary will use his influence with the Governor to this effect. I do not see any use in changing the committee, and I hope the change will not be made.

Mr. JANDON. Mr. Speaker, the resolution, if passed, implies dereliction on the part of the existing committee. That is understood. Its passage will be a presumption of unfaithfulness. Now, sir, let me give you the facts. Early in the session, the Senator from Erie [Mr. LOWRY] introduced a bill touching the subject of a free railroad law; that bill was referred to the Committee on Railroads. A little time after the Senator from Allegheny [Mr. BIGHAM] introduced a resolution instructing that committee to report that bill or some one of their own formation touching this subject; the chairman of the Railroad Committee went to the Senator from Pittsburg [Mr. BIGHAM] and said: Sir, the bill is defective; have you the time, the disposition and the capacity to prepare a bill that covers the general ideas as well as minutes of this subject? If you can and will, you shall be our Magnus Apollo. The Senator from Allegheny said he would; that he had assistance pledged him from distant portions of the State to frame a bill.—He prepared a bill in compliance with this promise. About two days ago, sir, the bill of the Senator from Allegheny [Mr. BIGHAM] came into the hands of the Railroad Committee, and before eight and forty hours passed over, at a meeting of the committee last night, that bill was brought out and read. One member of the committee, desiring to make some amendments to the bill before it could be reported, it was held over for further consideration and time to make the desired alterations. As speedily as possible will the bill be considered and reported. Such being the facts, we are willing to leave the question of unfaithfulness on the part of the committee to the good sense of the Senate.

Mr. BIGHAM. Mr. Speaker, I will endeavor to be brief. The proposition to add two members comes from the committee itself. I do not think the committee has any right to infer that it is an objection upon them. That is one of the difficulties that is thrust forward always. For my part, ever since I have been a member of this Legislature, I have always recognized that, if there was a subject of public interest to the Commonwealth, and a bill was prepared and put into the hands of a committee, the first and principal duty was to elaborate and improve it, and put it in proper shape; and Mr. Speaker, in my judgment, the principal business of this Railroad Committee was, when the bill of the Senator from Erie [Mr. Lowry] went into their hands—and they knowing that it had been publicly discussed in my judgment, they ought to have had a dozen of meetings already for the purpose of maturing a bill. I have no doubt, they wished to discharge their duty according to their understanding of it. I do not want to reflect on the committee, but my constituents are keenly alive to every movement on this subject here; and no object is more closely watched. Since the matter has been brought up, in this way, I hope the committee will be enlarged. The names of two gentlemen of experience have been suggested, and I hope that the Senate will feel no delicacy in adding these gentlemen; and I think we will get bills of this character reported.

Mr. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, whilst my position upon this question has always been understood, I must, in justice to myself, ask to be excused from serving on this committee; for the duties now imposed upon me, as a member of the General Judiciary Committee, make it impossible for me to spare the necessary time to attend to those of the Railroad Committee, if enlarged. It appears to me that a bill should be prepared by some gentleman outside, and then brought in here to us. I do not desire to be forced upon a committee against the will of the Speaker, or the other members of the committee. But the principal reason is that my time will be occupied on the General Judiciary during the spare moments of the session.

Mr. FISHER. Mr. Speaker, I have a single vote to say. I cannot for the life of me see the necessity of passing this resolution. The Senate have it in their power at any time to discharge the Committee on Railroads. The chairman states that they have not had time to amend this bill.

Mr. LOWRY. This matter was suggested to them at the commencement of the session.

Mr. FISHER. That may be so. I will not dispute the Senator from Erie; and, if it is so, the remedy is here, without going into a committee room. The committee can be discharged by a majority. I believe that it has been conceded that the Speaker of this Senate has a right to arrange its committees as he sees proper. Now, this is a proposition to place two persons known to be in favor of certain measures upon the Railroad Committee. I suppose these gentlemen are perfectly sound on this question, or their names would not be suggested. Now, it is not for me to say where I stand on the general railroad law; when it comes before the Senate, I shall be prepared to meet it. But this looks to me like a reflection on this committee, which, the chairman says, has not had an opportunity to examine the matter. If the Senate desire to have that bill brought before them, a motion to discharge the committee will do so. I do not believe in forcing upon the committee two additional members, against the wishes of the chairman and a majority of the committee.

Mr. GRAHAM moved to amend the resolution, by striking out all after the word "resolved," and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"That the Railroad Committee be requested to report a general railroad bill by Wednesday next, and that said bill be made the special order of the day until disposed of."

Mr. DONOVAN moved to postpone the final consideration of the resolution for the present.

On the question,
Will the Senate agree to the motion of Mr. DONOVAN?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr.

DONOVAN and Mr. LOWRY, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Burnett, Connell, Cowles, Donovan, Fisher, James, Landon, M' Candless, M' Conaughy, Randall, Ridgway, Schall, Shoemaker, Walls and Worthington—15.

NAYS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingfelt, Browne (Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Coleman, Davis, Graham, Haines, Jackson, Lowry, Searight, Stutzman, Taylor, Wallace, White and Hall, Speaker—16.

So the question was determined in the negative.

During the call,

Mr. LONDON said: Mr. Speaker, I merely wish to say that I consider this committee, and every other committee, in the hands of the Senate. I consider it the right of the Senate to discharge a committee. Whenever they wish to instruct this committee to report, we shall be bound by that instruction; but under existing circumstances, on account of the private calendar, I shall vote for postponing the subject for the present. I vote "aye."

The question recurring,
Will the Senate agree to the amendment of Mr. GRAHAM?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. LOWRY and Mr. M' CANDLESS, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingfelt, Browne (Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Coleman, Cowles, Davis, Graham, Haines, Jackson, James, Lowry, M' Conaughy, Searight, Shoemaker, Stutzman, Taylor, Wallace, Walls, White, Worthington and Hall, Speaker—22.

NAYS—Messrs. Burnett, Connell, Donovan, Fisher, Landon, M' Candless, Randall, Ridgway and Schall—9.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. LONDON, having asked and obtained leave to give his reasons for voting as he did, said:

Mr. Speaker, you will observe that I voted "no." I wish to state my reasons for doing so. When a bill is put into our hands, it is our duty to investigate that bill, to remedy its imperfections, if it has any, and to report a bill well digested. That is the duty of the committee, sir. We adjourn to-night until next Tuesday, and on Wednesday next we are required by this resolution to report this bill, and of course, from this day out, we cannot give it one hour's attention. The Railroad Committee cannot be brought together.

Mr. COLEMAN. It strikes me, as the committee will be entirely free, from legislative duties for nearly a week, that this will give them a beautiful opportunity to examine the bill.

Mr. BIGHAM. Mr. Speaker, I beg leave to say that on Friday of last week that bill was printed and sent to a number of railroad men in the State, and put personally into the hands of the chairman of the Railroad Committee.

Mr. LONDON. That involves a question of veracity on my part. The Clerk will bear me witness that the official bill did not come into our hands until this week.

Mr. LOWRY having asked and obtained leave to explain his vote on the amendment of Mr. GRAHAM, said: For years, Mr. Speaker, the people of Pennsylvania have been struggling for a railroad law; for years this identical bill, almost—the bill allowing railroads to be built in this Commonwealth—has been held year after year in the Railroad Committee and has been smothered there and destroyed; and, believing that it is the intention to follow up that practice, I voted "yes," in order to take it out of the hands of that committee.

The SPEAKER. There is as much difference between this bill and the one introduced last year as there is between black and white, as the Senator from Erie will discover by examining them.

Mr. LOWRY. I have examined the two bills, and undertake to say that the Speaker has not.

The SPEAKER. I have, sir.

Mr. LOWRY. The bill reported last year is not essentially different from the present one.

The SPEAKER. When Senators impugn the motives of gentlemen, the Chair will call them to order.

Mr. LOWRY. I have not impugned the motives of Senators. The Speaker is tender upon that point, and always was.

The SPEAKER. Not at all. The Chair will call the gentleman to order, and enforce order in all such cases. The rules of decorum shall be enforced in regard to the Senator from Erie, as well as all others. The Chair will call any Senator to order, whoever it is, old or young, high or low, big or little, who in any manner impugns the motives of Senators on this floor, and in so doing relies upon being sustained by any fair-minded member of this body. There is a rule of the Senate against such a course. If the Senate do not wish it enforced let them repeal it.

Mr. SEARIGHT. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to give my reasons for my vote. In the first place, I may have been led into error with regard to my vote, on account of a remark made by the Speaker himself, and if so, I will probably have to regret the vote I have given. That remark was this, I understood the Speaker to say that there was as much difference between the bill introduced heretofore by the Senator from Erie and the one now introduced by the Senator from Allegheny, as there is between black and white, and I understand, by the vote taken in this Senate yesterday, that, according to the opinion of the majority, there is no difference between black and white.

AN AFTERNOON SESSION.

Mr. BIGHAM moved that when the Senate adjourns, it will adjourn to meet at 3 o'clock, p. m., this day.

The motion was
Agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,
The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of bill entitled An act to incorporate the Lehigh and Norristown railroad company.

Mr. SHOEMAKER moved that the further consideration of the subject be postponed for the present.

The motion was
Agreed to.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented for concurrence bills numbered and entitled as follows:

No. 76, an act to change the venue in the case of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania vs. Jesse R. M'Carthy, Joshua R. M'Carthy and Charles Morton from the court of quarter sessions of the peace of Sullivan county to the court of quarter sessions of the peace of Bradford county.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

No. 150, an act to incorporate the Equitable gold and silver mining company.

Referred to the Committee on Corporations.

No. 216, an act relating to the estate of Jacob Coon, deceased.

Referred to the Committee on Estates and Escheats.

No. 220, a supplement to an act to incorporate the Mechanics' hall and market company, approved the 24th day of March, A. D. 1865.

Referred to the Committee on Corporations.

No. 221, an act to incorporate the Pennsylvania library association of the city of Philadelphia.

Ruled out of order, and Laid on the table.

EXCLUSION OF COLORED PERSONS FROM RAILWAY CARS.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of bill entitled An act to punish by fine and imprisonment any railroad corporation within this Commonwealth that shall exclude, or allow to be excluded by their agents, conductors, or employees, from any of their passenger cars any person on account of race or color.

The bill was read.

Mr. BROWN (Mercer). Mr. Speaker, I simply rise to call attention to the language of this bill: "An act to punish by fine or imprisonment any railroad corporation." It seems to me it would be a difficult thing to imprison a corporation.

Mr. COWLES asked and obtained the unanimous consent of the Senate to amend the title by making it read as follows:

An act making it an offense for railroad corporations within this Commonwealth to make any distinction with their passengers on account of race or color, and punishing such corporations and their agents and employees for the commission of such offense.

And the question recurring, Shall the bill pass?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WALLACE and Mr. LOWRY, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingsfelt, Browne (Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Coleman, Connell, Cowles, Fisher, Graham, Landon, Lowry, M'Conaughy, Ridgway, Shoemaker, Stutzman, Taylor, Worthington and Hall, Speaker—18.

NAYS—Messrs. Burnett, Davis, Donovan, Glatz, Haines, Jackson, James, M'Condless, Randall, Schall, Searight, Wallace and Walls—33.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

Mr. LOWRY. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to make a personal explanation. The Speaker of this body, this morning, saw proper to call me to order, saying that I had impugned the motives of Senators. I was unconscious, at the time, of having done so, and on going round among the Senators, I cannot discover that any Senator thought I had attempted to impugn his motives. That is all I have to say. I intended nothing of that kind, and did nothing of that kind, and was called to order unjustly.

The SPEAKER. The Chair understood the Senator to impugn the motives of Senators.

Mr. LOWRY. I impugned the motives of no Senator.

Mr. RANDALL said he thought the Senator from Erie had impugned the motives of the members of the Railroad Committee.

The SPEAKER. The Senator impugned the motives of every member of the Railroad Committee. The Speaker understood the Senator to do just what ended in a number of unpleasant things last year. The Speaker does not say whether the Senator did anything wrong last year, but I am here to preserve order, to enforce the rule, and to treat all Senators alike fairly. There is not one sympathy of my heart in favor of treating the Senator unfairly, and I trust he has too much good sense to think otherwise. If the Senator did not impugn the motives of Senators the Speaker was unfortunate in hearing. Mr. M'CONAUGHY. Mr. Speaker, if the Senator from Erie did not use language offensive to the Senators, he was exceedingly unfortunate in the use of language. The experience of last year is exceedingly unpleasant, and I hope it will be understood that the line of policy of the Speaker is not to be assailed by reckless and wholesale denunciations.

Mr. LOWRY. The events of last winter referred to by the Senator, arose from truthful words spoken in the Executive Chamber, and when called to account for them I repeated them here.

The SPEAKER. I did not refer to that. I desire to administer impartially the rules of this body. I voted with the Senator this morning on his motion, as amended by the Senator from Allegheny [Mr. GRAHAM], and in calling any Senator to order, a thing which is never pleasant, I trust I will never transgress the rules myself.

Mr. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, the Senators have learned that the words of the Senator from Erie did not embody the thoughts of his heart. They were uttered in the heat of argument, and unfortunately did not convey the meaning intended. The error, therefore, may be considered as one of the head, and not of the heart.

The SPEAKER. It is impossible for me to say whether or not a man means what he says. We are bound to take it for granted men do mean what they say, and that this is a fair conclusion, in and out of a Senate Chamber.

Mr. LOWRY. I mean what I say, and I say what I mean.

PRIVATE CALENDAR.

Mr. FISHER. Mr. Speaker, I should like to hear from the gentleman having this bill in charge something in regard to this bill.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, this man was out with the emergency men, and was injured on the railroad near Harrisburg by a railroad accident. He there lost his right arm, and is utterly unable to earn a livelihood. It is a very deserving case.

Mr. FISHER said he thought that the Legislature of last year or year before, appropriated a sum of money to pay those persons who were injured by that accident. It was a question with him, too, whether the railroad is not liable for damages.

Mr. WHITE thought the bill had better be postponed for the present.

The bill was then postponed for the present.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TUESDAY, February 12, 1867.

The House met at 11 o'clock, A. M.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. J. KENNEDY, member from Wyoming.

The SPEAKER announced a quorum of members present.

The Journal of Wednesday was partly read, when

On motion of Mr. KERNS, the further reading of the same was dispensed with.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to make a statement at this time.

Leave was granted.

Mr. LEE. The directors of the Pennsylvania railroad company meet to-morrow. There is a Senate bill before the House authorizing them to increase their capital stock. This is a proposal vital to the interests of that road. The directors meet to-morrow, the stockholders a few days subsequent, and they desire that this bill may pass in time to enable them to present it to the stockholders. If it is not passed in time to present it to them at this meeting it will probably go over for another year, and thus vitally affect the interests of the road. This bill has been read and considerably discussed, and I presume the House is entirely familiar with it. I move that the rules be suspended and the bill be taken up at the present time.

It is Senate bill No. 324, entitled An act to repeal an act entitled A further supplement to the act incorporating the Pennsylvania railroad company, authorizing an increase of capital stock, and to borrow money, approved the 21st day of March, 1866, to authorize the Pennsylvania railroad company to increase its capital stock, to issue bonds, and to secure the same by mortgage.

The motion was

Agreed to.

The bill was read and

Agreed to.

The question was,

Will the House suspend the rules and read the bill a third time by its title?

Mr. MEYERS. Mr. Speaker, I trust the House will not suspend the rules for the consideration of this bill. This bill has not been printed, and I have noticed the agent of this company has been upon the floor this morning boring for the passage of this bill. I do not understand from the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. LEE] how this matter must go over for another year if we do not pass the bill to-day. I, therefore, ask that this bill be referred to the appropriate committee, that it be printed and this House afforded an opportunity to ascertain what law is repealed by this first section. This may be a law touching the restriction upon the company which, if repealed, may be prejudicial to the interest of the Commonwealth.

The SPEAKER. It is not in order now to put the motion of the gentleman from Northampton [Mr. MEYERS]. It can only be done when the bill comes up on third reading. If the House refuses to suspend the rules the bill is postponed.

Mr. MEYERS. I would like to know from the Speaker whether, if the House refuse to suspend the rules now by a two-thirds vote, the bill will be printed without a special order of the House?

The SPEAKER. The House only prints House bills without a special order. This is a Senate bill, and will require an order of the House to have it printed.

Mr. MEYERS. Mr. Speaker, I trust the House will refuse to suspend the rules, and I will then move that this bill be printed and placed upon our file.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I do not desire to waste a moment's time upon this subject more than is necessary. Here is a bill coming to this House with the endorsement of the other Chamber, providing the means for a great public enterprise in this Commonwealth, to enable it to afford those facilities to the people of Pennsylvania that it cannot do without an increase of capital stock. This is the heaviest transportation company, perhaps, in the Commonwealth, and the people are clamorous for accommodations upon that line, which the company are unable to give without an increase of their facilities. That is all I have to say in reference to this bill. It has been before the House for some time. It was thoroughly discussed when the gentleman from Northampton [Mr. MEYERS] was absent, and the provisions are clearly set forth in the bill as read to this House. The directors meet to-morrow, and in some three or four days the stockholders meet. They meet only once a year, and it is important the bill should be passed to-day in order that they may present it to the stockholders. Unless this is done the people will be another year without the accommodations that this bill would afford.

Mr. MEYERS. Mr. Speaker, the Senate is an independent body of itself, and I presume when they pass a bill it is done upon mature consideration and reflection. When it comes to the House it should receive the same consideration, and then be either passed or rejected. I cannot, therefore, understand the remark of the gentleman when he says this bill coming from the Senate has been fully discussed in the House. I cannot understand how it is. Has it met with opposition in the House before? Has it failed to pass in this House when it came up in the regular order here, or has the House before refused to suspend the rules? How is it that it has been previously discussed before the House, or is that the fact?

This bill is one of an important character, because it gives an increase of power to a corporation whose power is already felt in this Commonwealth to the detriment, as many people allege, of their interests in the State. That may be so, or it may not. The people of the Commonwealth are divided on the subject, and have cause to be so. I, therefore, take it to be the duty of the representatives of the people, when they give increased power to a corporation which has now nearly unbounded power in this Commonwealth—a power which controls the interests of this State in such a way that, as we are well aware, is detrimental to other railroad interests in the State, that we should act after due deliberation. Is it then wrong that this bill should be printed and laid upon the desks of the members, that they may ascertain what particular law they seek to repeal? I want to know the object of this increase of capital stock, whether it is for the purpose of liquidating their indebtedness, or for the purpose of increasing their power and authority. If it is for the latter, we want to know when, where, and with what purpose and intention. Certainly the people of the Commonwealth have a right to know that. I, therefore, say it cannot be detrimental to the interests of this country, if this House refuse to suspend the rules at this time, and direct that this bill be printed and laid upon the desk of each member, so they can act intelligently upon it.

I call for the yeas and nays on the question of the suspension of the rules.

The question being,

Will the House suspend the rules?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. MEYERS and Mr. JOSEPHS, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Adaire, Armstrong, Barton, Brown, Cameron, Chadwick, Day, Donohugh, Espy, Ewing, Ghegan, Harbison, Hoffman, Hood, Humphrey, Josephs, Kennedy, Kerns, Kimmel, Kinney, Koon, Kurtz, Lee, Linton, M'Camant, Markley, Mechling, Meily, Mullin, Pennypacker, Quay, Quigley, Rhoads, Roach, Rouch, Selser, Sharples, Shuman, Steady, Stehman, Stumbaugh, Subers, Waddell, Wallace, Wait, Webb, Westbrook, Whann, Wingard, Woodward, Worrall and Wright—52.

NAYS—Messrs. Barrington, Boyle, Craeg, Brennan, Chalfant, Collins, Colville, Brein, Deise, Fogel, Gallagher, Gordon, Gregory, Harner, Headman, Heltzel, Hunt, Jones, Kline, Leech, Long, Maish, Mann, Meyers, Peters, Pillow, Richards, Robinson, Satterthwait, Tharp, Weller, Wilson and Glass, Speaker—33.

Two-thirds not having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. MEYERS. Mr. Speaker, I now move that this bill be placed on the calendar for Thursday morning.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I call for the orders of the day.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the motion of the gentleman from Northampton [Mr. MEYERS] to suspend the rules, in order to enable him to make a motion that the bill be printed and placed on the public calendar.

Mr. QUAY. I call for a division of the question.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order. This bill being under consideration, how does it become necessary to suspend the rules to make this motion?

The SPEAKER. The bill is not under consideration now. The House has refused to suspend the rules.

Mr. MEYERS. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my motion.

Mr. MANN. I renew it, so as to enable us to regulate the business of the session.

The question was on the first division of the question, to suspend the rules generally.

The motion was

Not agreed to.

VOTES RECORDED.

Mr. WINGARD. Mr. Speaker, I ask permission to record my vote on the final passage of Senate bill No. 3, entitled "Joint resolution to ratify the fourteenth article of the Constitution of the United States."

Leave was granted.

Mr. WINGARD then voted aye. Leave was also granted to the following gentlemen, who voted as follows:

Mr. QUAY voted aye.

Mr. M'KEE voted aye.

Mr. ROATH voted aye.

Mr. GREGORY voted no.

Mr. COLLINS voted no.

Mr. CRAIG voted no.

Mr. MEYERS voted no.

Mr. LINTON voted no.

Mr. WHANN. Mr. Speaker, I am not opposed to this bill, but I think it is severe. I think it should be amended. I think it is very much one sided and there is not time to amend it now. I move that the consideration of it be postponed for the present.

The motion was

Agreed to.

No. 277, an act relative to drunkenness and disorderly conduct in the cities of Pittsburg and Allegheny.

Mr. CHADWICK. Mr. Speaker, I move to postpone this bill indefinitely.

The motion was

Agreed to.

No. 283, a further supplement to an act revising the charter of the municipal corporation of the city of Reading.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, this bill provides for the election of an additional officer on the second Friday of February, 1867. As that day has already passed, the act could not go into operation. I, therefore, move the indefinite postponement of the bill.

The motion was

Agreed to.

No. 296, a supplement to the act to incorporate the Western transportation company, formerly the Oil Creek transportation company.

Mr. WHANN. Mr. Speaker, this bill, to me, is very objectionable, and I would ask that it be indefinitely postponed, or that it be voted down; but there are several other counties affected by it, and I observe the representatives from those counties are not present. I, therefore, move that the consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

The motion was

Agreed to.

No. 320, an act authorizing the supervisors of Ulysses township to levy a tax to refund to Perry Lewis, in said township, the sum of four hundred dollars, it being for money advanced to volunteers.

On motion of Mr. MANN,

The bill was laid over on third reading.

No. 161, an act to repeal the act of Assembly, passed the 11th day of April, 1866, entitled An act to provide for the purchasing of real estate, and erection of a poor house in Montour county.

With information that the Senate has passed the same with amendment, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

Senate bill No. 81, an act to change the place of business of the Cameron petroleum company of Pennsylvania.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, I hope not, sir. I do not know who asked for the passage of this bill, but as sometimes I have been written to and spoken to by a very large number of the stockholders of this company, protesting earnestly against its passage, I desire, sir, to present to the House and ask that it may be read by the Clerk, the following remonstrance.

The remonstrance was read by the Clerk as follows:

At a meeting of stockholders of the Cameron petroleum company, held at their office, No. 219 Dock street, Philadelphia, January 24th, 1867,

On motion, Edward Garrigues was called to the chair, and W. W. Ward appointed secretary.

On motion of R. A. Parrish, jr., the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, A bill has recently been reported in the Legislature "to change the place of business of the Cameron oil company,"

And whereas, Nine-tenths of the four hundred stockholders in the company reside in the vicinity of this city, and to compel them to go, or send three hundred miles, to make transfers of their stock, would not only be inconvenient and expensive, but actually detrimental to the value of said stock;

And whereas, We subscribed for the stock and paid our money, upon the conditions expressed in our articles of association, that the business of the company shall be transacted at its office in the city of Philadelphia; therefore,

Resolved, That to remove the office from the city of Philadelphia without the consent of a majority of stockholders will be a breach of faith on the part of our managers, and a violation of contract with subscribers to our stock.

Resolved, That the members of the Legislature from this city, and the State at large, be respectfully requested to prevent the passage of any bill to remove the company's office from the city of Philadelphia.

Resolved, That the secretary of the company be requested to send a copy of these proceedings to our president and board of managers, urging them most respectfully not to remove the office from the city of Philadelphia (in case authority should be given them by the Legislature to do so) without first having obtained the consent of a majority of the stockholders at a meeting of the same called for the purpose.

Resolved, That the secretary of this meeting be directed to send a copy of these proceedings to the members of the Legislature from this city.

Attest: W. W. WARD,
Secretary.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, in connection with this I desire to have the extract from the articles of the association, which is referred to in this resolution, read also.

The extract was read by the Clerk as follows:

OFFICE OF THE CAMERON PETROLEUM
COMPANY, No. 219 Dock street,
PHILADELPHIA, January 29, 1867.

WM. B. WADDELL, Esq.—Dear Sir:—At the request of a committee of our stockholders, I send you a copy of that section of the articles of association of the Cameron petroleum company which relates to the location of the business office of the company.

Truly yours, &c.,

J. LACY DARLINGTON.

EXTRACT.

"The mining and manufacturing of the company shall be carried on in Cranberry and Sandy Creek townships, Venango county, Pennsylvania, and the other business of the company at our office in the city of Philadelphia."

I do hereby certify that the foregoing extract is a true copy from the articles of association of the Cameron petroleum company of Pennsylvania.

J. L. DARLINGTON,
Secretary.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, I think that presents the whole case to the House, as I understand it. I do not know as it is necessary for me to add a word to what has been presented. As the paper shows, nine-tenths of these stockholders who are interested in this company, reside in and around Philadelphia, and a number of them reside in the county of Chester. They protest against being compelled to go into the western part of the State (I do not know exactly where it is proposed to change this office to), in order to be able to see what is going on in the way of the business connected with this company. They desire to have the business of the office located where they may have easy access to the books, and where the directors may communicate to the company. Therefore, in their behalf, I desire to ask this Legislature to allow their place of business to remain where they agreed it should, and let the time they subscribed for this stock, and laid out their money. I hope the House will not agree to the bill.

Mr. M'PHERRIN. I have no interest at all, personally, in this matter; but it is proper that I should here say something in behalf of this request of the stockholders. The gentleman from Chester [Mr. WADDELL] alleges that a majority of the stock is held by gentlemen in the east. The stockholders in the west make a different representation. They state that a great majority is held in the west. The territory on which they are operating is within twenty-five miles of Greenville, to which place I understand the office is to be removed by this bill; and their object in asking this removal is, that the company is not now paying any dividend to the stockholders, and it costs them much more to keep their place of business in Philadelphia than in the west. They say here, in a paper which they drew up, that it will cost two-thirds more to keep the office where it now is than at the place to which it is proposed to remove it. They state that the business of this office can be done in the west at one-third the cost in Philadelphia; that the majority of the directors of the company are western men; that the works of the company are much closer to Greenville than to Philadelphia, and the object is to reduce the expenses of the company, in order that they may declare dividends. As the matter now stands, the expenses use up all the proceeds; and, therefore, the western stockholders desire to curtail the expenses, that they may be able to declare dividends, which they feel confident they can do, by moving the office to Greenville, and that the business can be as easily transacted there as in Philadelphia. We hold in the west one hundred and four thousand and nine hundred shares of the stock of the said company, which is a large majority of the stock. Now, we are all disposed to do our own business in the most economical manner, and I think this House ought to pass this bill, which was passed in the Senate, where the matter was much more fully understood than it is here. I have no personal interest in it, but I believe the statement that a large majority of this stock is owned in and around Philadelphia is without foundation. I am acquainted with Mr. Stewart, the president of this company, who held nearly all the territory on which this company is operating, and he informed me that the majority of the stock was held in the west. I think it eminently proper that we should change the business place of this company, so that they can carry on their operations in the most economical manner. They have an eye to the interest of the stockholders in Philadelphia as well, it seems to me, in asking for the removal of this office to a place near the territory on which they are operating. I have also been informed that General Cameron, by whose name the company is styled, is in favor of the removal of the office.

I have briefly stated the reasons why this removal is asked, and I trust the House will see proper to pass the bill.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, I apprehend that it will make very little difference to this House what sentiments General Cameron may have upon this measure. I understand, and have seen a letter from General Cameron (which, however, is not in my possession), in which he protests, along with others, against this removal. I have read the letter, and I merely make this statement in reply to the gentleman, not apprehending that it will make any difference to this House what his views are in reference to this matter.

Nor, sir, do I care what course has been pursued in the Senate. I think it will answer that allegation by merely stating that the bill got through the Senate before the stockholders in the city of Philadelphia, and surrounding country, were aware that such a bill had been introduced. As soon as this fact was known, I was written to upon the subject, as well as my colleague in the Senate; and we discovered that the bill had been rushed through the Senate, and I was put upon my guard in the House. If it met with no objection in the Senate, it was because the stockholders were not aware of its existence before it was passed. I admit that a majority of the stock is held in the west. That I do not mean gainsaid; but that stock is held by one man—and are nine-tenths of the stockholders of this company to submit to an inconvenience, in order to accommodate one man; and that one man a person who acts as president of the company; who acts as one of the managers; who acts as treasurer, and who acts as superintendent of the company; and now who desires to have the company completely under his control? I take it that the simple statement of these facts is sufficient to prevent this House from giving the opportunity to this man to clothe himself with any more power than he has at present. I do not speak adversely the sentiments of the stockholders of this company, because I do not know what their sentiments are toward Mr. Stewart. I presume they are of a friendly character, and perfectly satisfactory. I merely state these facts to show what would induce me, as a legislator, to object to giving this man more power, when nine-tenths of the stockholders are protesting against it, merely to gratify this one man.

Now, there are five managers. One of these managers is president and treasurer and superintendent of the company. Of the other four, two reside in the east, and the other two in the west. That is the real position of things. Undoubtedly a majority of this stock is held by the president of the company, who resides in the west. But nine-tenths of the stockholders, who are deeply interested in the management of the business, desire that it should be transacted in a place where they can readily and easily ascertain how the business of this company is conducted. Are nine-tenths of these gentlemen to be incommode merely to gratify one-tenth (if you please to so express it) of the stockholders? I take it that they are not. If nine-tenths of these gentlemen, representing almost a majority of the stock, are satisfied to incur this additional expense, and their dividends are thereby lessened, I do not think anybody here has a right to complain of it.

Mr. M'PHERRIN. Mr. Speaker, I am no lawyer, and I do not feel able to cope with the learned gentleman who has just taken his seat, nor do I feel like spending much breath about this company. Although not able to cope with the gentleman in argument, I have confidence in the truth of the statements which I have made to the House. I have them from reliable authority, and that it is so, that a majority of the stock of this company is held in the west. It may not be that it is a majority of individuals who hold that stock, but I take it that a majority of the stock ought to govern. With respect to the majority of the stockholders and managers of the company, I do not know how that may be, but it is stated that a majority of them are in the west. The sole object that the western stockholders set forth for desiring the removal of the office, is on the ground of economy to the company. That certainly ought to govern every company, and every individual, in the management of business. Now, they say they get no dividend, and if they can get a dividend by curtailing their expenses, it certainly would be an advantage to all the stockholders. It comes to us with the recommendation of the Senate, and I think we ought to acquiesce in this action of the Senate, especially since it is the request of individuals, who own a large majority of the stock of that company. I have no idea that the president will have any more control by this change than he has now. The directors now have, and will continue to have, the control of it, and not the president. I submit this to the House as a matter we should at once pass.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, I only want to refer to one point, and that is that if the place of business of this company is removed west, the gentleman holding a majority of the stock, and who is president, treasurer, superintendent, and one of the managers, will also be secretary. It is undoubtedly owing to the fact of his holding the majority of the stock that has enabled him to hold the offices that he now holds, and he now lacks one of force of holding all in the gift of the company. And if the office is moved to the west he will undoubtedly hold that office also. All these gentlemen ask is that their interests should be protected as well as those of the company.

Mr. M'PHERRIN. Mr. Speaker, I think their interests will be better protected by removing the office to a place where the expense will be only one-third than by allowing it to remain where it is now. I am well acquainted with Mr. Stewart, and he was induced to take the presidency because he was the cause of the formation of the company, and was originally in possession of most of the territory where they have been operating. An attorney where they are an honest and upright man, and I have no idea he would take an undue advantage of any one or of the company. The majority of the stock should govern, and if those holding a majority of the stock in that company desire to remove their office nearer their works for the sake of economy, and for the sake of enabling the company to pay a dividend to the stockholders in that company, I think it eminently proper it should be removed. I think this principle will commend itself to the House.

On the question, Will the House agree to the bill?

It was not agreed to.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Deputy Secretary of the Common wealth being introduced, presented the following message from the Governor, which was read as follows, viz:

So the question was determined in the negative.

On motion of Mr. ARMSTRONG, the House adjourned until to-morrow morning at ten o'clock.

SENATE.

TUESDAY, February 12, 1867.

The Senate met and was called to order at 11 A. M. by the SPEAKER.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Mr. Bailey, of Harrisburg.

On motion of Mr. CONNELL the reading of the Journal of Wednesday last was dispensed with.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION.

Mr. FISHER having asked and obtained leave to make a short statement, said:

Mr. Speaker, it is known to many members of this Senate that I came here having in charge a bill to build a bridge over the Susquehanna river at Columbia. When the bill was read in place by me it was referred by you, Mr. Speaker, to the Committee on Railroads. I regarded the reference at that time, and do so still, as entirely proper, because the interest of the Pennsylvania railroad company was particularly identified with the building of that bridge. I have attended to the interests of this bill as faithfully as I knew how. I appeared before the committee and made a statement covering the entire ground, and supposed that I was doing all in my power to advance the interests of my constituents. Last week, sir, a committee from the two counties of York and Lancaster visited this capital, and I had interviews with them which I supposed were entirely satisfactory. They went home and misrepresented me; and the other day I picked up a paper published in our town, it is true with but a limited circulation. I found in that paper an article, a portion of which I beg leave to read as follows:

"We are also informed by said committee that they are in possession of facts which induced them to believe that a Senator from this county, who is a strong advocate of said bill, while among his constituents, has his influence locked up in stating goss to say the least of his actions, while in the Senate; that in fact the indications are that his influence in York and the wrong side for the good of Lancaster and York counties. The inhabitants of these counties have been put to great inconvenience during the last four years for the want of a bridge at this point; other parts of the State are inclined to grant them relief, and should our representatives even falter in this manner, they must remember that these are revolutionary times, that during such times, certain acts may become a military necessity and certain localities may become too warm for the convenience of those who falter."

Now, sir, I deny that I have faltered in my devotion to the interests of my constituents, and as making a place too warm for me I would advise them to try it on.

I rise now for the purpose of calling the attention of this Senate and the country to the fact, and I appeal to the members of the Railroad Committee, to its honored chairman, to my friend from Erie [Mr. LOWRY], to my friend from Schuylkill [Mr. RANDALL] and to the other members of the committee, to say whether I did or did not prosecute that bill before the committee with proper zeal.

Mr. BILLINGFELT. I would ask if any name is given in this article?

Mr. FISHER. There is no name given; but as a matter of justice to myself I ask that the members of the committee state whether I have done my duty or not.

Mr. LOWRY. Mr. Speaker, the attack made upon the Senator from Lancaster [Mr. FISHER] in the paper just read is in every point unjustifiable. He has done all he could to carry out the wishes of his constituents in reference to this bill, and we have agreed to report the bill to-day. The whole spirit of that article is unjust towards that Senator.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, it is not, I am aware, in good taste to speak of what transpires in committee, but I think it due to the Senator from Lancaster [Mr. FISHER] to state that at the very first meeting that the Railroad Committee held after the reception of the bill referred to, he appeared before the committee and was very urgent to have that bill reported immediately, and gave a variety of reasons urging its importance to his people and insisted upon having it reported. It was held over for consideration by the committee for a few days, since which time the committee finally agreed to report it, and I think it will be reported this morning as committed.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Speaker, I was sorry to hear the article read by my friend, the Senator from Lancaster [Mr. FISHER]; and I have, at this eminently proper time, Senator here should be careful of the reputation of his fellows upon this floor, and should always cheerfully bear testimony to duty faithfully performed, when such has been the case. I take pleasure in rising in my place, after hearing the case of the Senator from Lancaster, and stating that I know from his conversation and intercourse with myself, as Senator from the western part of the State, that he has manifested great interest in representing its claims before the committee. In my conversation and intercourse with him he has, at all times, manifested a commendable anxiety on the subject, and I believe the charges are untrue and unfair towards him, and I wish it to go on the Record as coming from me.

PETITIONS, REMONSTRANCES, &c.

Mr. CONNELL presented the petition of Samuel B. Shipley, and other citizens of Philadelphia, imploring the Legislature to restrain the retailing of spirituous liquors in the city of Philadelphia, which was read as follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

The undersigned, citizens of Philadelphia, viewing with sorrow and dread the fearful increase of intemperance and its attendants, crime and degradation, in our city, implore the legislature to interpose its authority in a righteous cause by such legislation as will restrain the retailing of spirituous liquors, or at least to repeal the special laws applicable to our city as require the indiscriminate issuing of licenses for its sale, thereby removing this great curse from our locality.

Which was read as follows:

To the Legislature of Pennsylvania:

The undersigned, in behalf of the Pennsylvania Anti-Slavery society, respectfully pray your honorable body not to ratify the proposed constitutional amendment. Our reason for this petition is the danger to the liberties of the people from conceding to any State (as is done in the second section of the proposed amendment) the power of denying to any class of its loyal citizens the right of the elective franchise.

[Signed] JAMES MOTT, President.

Laid on the table.

LEAVE TO RECORD VOTE.

Mr. OONNELL, having presented the pe-tion of Col. H. G. Siddle and one hundred other citizens of Philadelphia, praying for the passage of an act to compel passenger railway companies to carry persons of color in like manner as they do white people, which was Laid on the table.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Speaker, I would call attention to the fact that I was absent from the Senate when the final vote was taken upon the bill referred to in that petition. I now ask leave to record my vote upon the final passage of that bill.

Leave having been given,

Mr. WHITE voted aye.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. BIGHAM offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

Resolved, That the Committee on General Judiciary be directed to inquire and report to the Senate what changes are required in our existing laws in regard to the over-crowded condition of our State Penitentiary, and to suggest the best remedy thereof.

1. Should our existing penitentiary be enlarged to accommodate all persons convicted in our courts?

2. Should a new penitentiary be erected in the central portion of the State?

3. Should arrangements be made by which convicts of lower grades of crime be sentenced to county prisons now erected or that may hereafter be erected by any of the counties of this Commonwealth?

The resolution was adopted.

Mr. FISHER offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

Resolved, That the State printers are hereby directed to furnish to the Senate, under the direction of the Clerk, one thousand copies of the work entitled "Legislative Handbook," the same to correspond in matter, style and binding, with the volume now in the possession of each of the Senators, and that the cost of said books shall be paid for upon the certificate of the Clerk, out of any moneys appropriated.

Mr. BILLINGFELT. I move to amend by striking out the words "one thousand," and inserting in lieu thereof the word "fifty."

Mr. BIGHAM. If we order at all, I presume fifty is too small a number.

Mr. FISHER. I have not examined the book very carefully, but think it is a very useful book.

Mr. RIDGWAY asked what the expense would be.

Mr. FISHER. Eighty-five cents each. It takes the place of two books now used, and contains far more.

Mr. RIDGWAY moved to amend the amendment so as to make it read "one hundred" copies.

The amendment was agreed to.

And the resolution, as amended, was adopted.

On motion of Mr. CONNELL, two thousand of the diagrams accompanying the book, were ordered to be printed, and paid for in the same manner.

SPEAKER'S TABLE.

The SPEAKER laid before the Senate the annual report of the managers of the Western Pennsylvania hospital.

Also, the annual report of the trustees and superintendent of the State Lunatic hospital of Pennsylvania.

Also, the annual report of the Lackawanna iron and coal company.

Also, the annual statement of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural society.

Also, the report of the Bloomsburg iron company.

Also, the annual report of the Mount Lebanon railroad, which were

Laid on the table.

REPORT OF THE MINORITY OF THE COMMITTEE ON RAILROADS.

Mr. GRAHAM, in behalf of the minority of the Committee on Railroads, presented a report, which was read as follows, viz:

The undersigned, members of the Committee on Railroads, present the following reasons for their non-coincurrence with the majority of this committee in their report in relation to the bill proposing to repeal the act of the 28th of April, 1864, repealing the charter of the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad company.

Because, The act repealing the charter of said company was procured, as they believe, at the sole instance of the Pennsylvania railroad company. No stockholder of the Pittsburg and Connellsville company, no citizen along the route of the road, no party in interest, nor, in brief, any citizen of this, or of any other State, having asked for the same.

Because, The allegation contained in the preamble to said repealing act, and the moving cause of its passage, viz: that the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad company had misused and abused its corporate franchises, has been found, by a jury, and solemnly adjudged by the District Court of the United States, in and for the Western District of Pennsylvania, to be false and without foundation in fact.

Because, The repeal of the charter of this company, having been procured through fraud and misrepresentation, should not be held of any binding force or effect, and the legislation thus obtained is derogatory to the dignity and character for integrity of the Commonwealth, if longer permitted to remain on its statute books.

Because, By its repeal, on the faith of which millions of money had been invested by citizens of this State, the security on which these investments were predicated was swept away.

Because, On the good faith of the State, pledged by its charter to this corporation, millions of the capital of citizens of a neighboring State were invested, and its causeless repeal has affixed a brand of bad faith, and of consequent dishonor, upon the fair escutcheon of this Commonwealth.

Because, By the repeal of this charter, the citizens of several counties of our State are deprived of equal advantages and equal benefits with the balance of their fellow-citizens.

Because, Its repeal prevents the development of the richest mineral resources of the Commonwealth, and thus deprives the treasury of the State of immense and ever-increasing sources of revenue.

Because, It drives trade and travel between the east and the west over the Baltimore and Ohio road, which otherwise would be carried for one hundred and fifty miles, within the State, over this road.

Because, The immense traffic, just beginning to move between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, which our neighboring States are making every effort to prepare for and secure, imperatively demands the construction of another through line of transportation from east to west in this Commonwealth.

Because, In the light of former precedents, there is no force in the objection to this bill, that its subject matter is in litigation before the courts, as instance the fact that the cases which were pending for the recovery of the tonnage tax due the State by the Pennsylvania railroad are, because of the alleged unconstitutionality of the act, legislative out of the hands of those tribunals, and also the further act of the passage of the act disfranchising deserters, when that subject was under consideration by the highest judicial tribunal of the State.

Because, So gross an act of perfidy as the repeal of this charter, evincing an utter disregard for the vested rights of individuals and the best interests of the State, is unparalleled in the history of legislation.

Because, A general railroad law will not relieve this company, by ending present or preventing future legislation, but will leave it to the tender mercies of its foes, with ample power to prevent the completion of its road.

Because, The good faith of both the great political parties of the day is pledged to a system of unrestricted railroad communications throughout the State, and the refusal to grant this bill is in direct violation of that pledge. And, finally,

Because, The monstrous injustice inflicted upon the citizen, and the fatal stab to the honor and interests of the State, perpetrated by the refusal to right so flagrant wrong, must and justly should stamp with indelible disgrace any legislative body.

JAMES L. GRAHAM,

M. B. LOWRY.

Laid on the table, and ordered to be printed in the Legislative Record.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order, the Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of bill entitled A further supplement to an act to create a loan and to provide for amending the State, approved May 15th, A. D. 1861, repealing so much of said act as authorizes the appointment of assistant State agents and a State agent in the Southwest.

The SPEAKER. This bill will abolish the State agent at Washington and in the Southwest.

The first and only section of the bill was read as follows:

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That so much of the act entitled An act to create a loan and to provide for amending the State, approved May fifteenth, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one, and so much of the supplement to said act, approved May fourth, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, as authorizes the Governor to appoint an assistant State agent and to establish an agency in the Southwest, be and the same is hereby repealed.

Mr. CONNELL moved to go into committee of the whole so as to amend the bill by striking out that portion which would abolish the State agent at Washington.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Speaker. I think the motion which I am about to make will dispense with the necessity of going into committee of the whole. The intention of this bill was to take from the Governor the power to appoint a State agent in the South-west, and the assistance to the Southern agent at Washington, because it is presumed they are not necessary. This bill was referred to the Military Committee, and examined by them. Some facts have been elicited that may make it proper to postpone the question for the present; and I would state, in addition to this, that the House has taken some action upon this matter by attaching a proviso to the bill recently passed here, making an appropriation for the payment of the expenses of this agency, which, if passed, will dispense with the necessity of this bill, because it states the time when the agency can be dispensed with.

Mr. CONNELL withdrew his motion to go into committee of the whole on the bill.

Mr. WHITE moved to postpone the further consideration of the bill for the present.

The motion was
Agreed to.

AN AFTERNOON SESSION.

Mr. HIGHAM moved that when the Senate adjourns it will adjourn to meet at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS CONSIDERED AND PASSED.

On motion of Mr. WALLACE, the Committee on the Judiciary General was discharged from the further consideration of bill entitled An act to enable the Pennsylvania Cannel coal and railroad company to borrow money and to change the corporate name of said company.

And the rules having been dispensed with, the bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. CONNELL, the Committee on Corporations was discharged from the further consideration of bill entitled An act to extend the time for the payment of the enrollment tax on a certain act approved March 10th, 1865, entitled A further supplement to an act to incorporate the Powelton coal and iron company, approved May 1st, 1861, extending the time of charter of said company.

And the rules having been dispensed with, the bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. FISHER, the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of bill entitled An act relating to the Columbia bridge company.

The bill was read a second time and ordered to be transcribed for a third reading.

On motion of Mr. ROYER, the Committee on Corporations was discharged from the further consideration of a bill entitled An act to change the time of holding the election of officers of the Independent company of Montgomery and Bucks counties, for the recovery of stolen horses and detection of thieves.

And the rules having been dispensed with, the bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. SHOEMAKER, the Senate proceeded to the consideration of bill entitled An act for the better protection of life and property from explosion of steam boilers.

The bill was read as follows:

WHEREAS, Great loss of life and property has resulted to the people of this Commonwealth from the explosion of steam boilers, and it is desirable that a remedy be provided for the same, as far as practicable, by requiring such adjustments to steam boilers as will furnish an early and adequate alarm of danger from the low state of water therein :

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the Governor be and is hereby authorized to appoint a commission, consisting of three skillful and practical engineers, to examine the different appliances for diminishing the risk of explosion of steam boilers, and to report to him, as early as practicable, the appliance which they believe to be best suited for the purpose.

Sec. 2. That any person who shall at any time after three months from the making of this report to the Governor, as above provided for, and from actual notice received, or operate any steam boiler without affixing thereto the appliance recommended by said commission, shall be subject to a penalty of one hundred dollars, payable to the Commonwealth, to be collected as penalties of like amount are now collected by law.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. Speaker, that same question came up here some years ago, and it strikes me, when I was in the lower House, it was an application by the owner of some patent to oblige everybody to put on a certain instrument on every steam boiler in this State, thereby making a fortune off his patent right. To this I am very much opposed. Unless the Governor shall appoint a commission of three true men to decide which is the best appliance, I am opposed to it. The principle of James, or that of Brown, may be all right. I know of two principles, but do not know which of the two is best. I am opposed to putting on Mr. James' conductor, to the exclusion of any other. If the bill cannot be amended I am opposed to it.

Mr. SHOEMAKER. There is no objection to amending it. The object is to get the best plan.

Mr. COLEMAN moved to postpone the further consideration of the bill for the present.

The motion was

Agreed to.

On motion of Mr. GLATZ, the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of a bill entitled A supplement to an act to incorporate the Farmers' market of the Fifth ward of the borough of York.

The bill was read a second third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. WHITE, the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of a bill entitled An act to authorize the election of an additional justice of the peace in the township of Cherry Hill, in the county of Indiana.

The bill was read.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Speaker, I will state that this bill has been very carefully prepared to meet a special necessity. The township for which the election is provided is one of our most populous townships, and is increasing in population, from the character of the business transacted there. It has but two justices of the peace at this time, and some of the business men there have petitioned the Legislature, stating that it is impossible, on account of the paucity of justices, to get justice dispensed as required, and this bill was prepared to meet that necessity. You will observe that it is prepared so that a decision can be had at this election, and the justice elected at the same time.

The bill was read a third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. WORTHINGTON, the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of a bill entitled An act relative to reads in Valley township, Chester county.

The bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. SCHALL, the Senate proceeded to the consideration of bill entitled An act regulating the sale, by hawkers and peddlers, of goods at wholesale.

In committee of the whole [Mr. McCORMACK in the Chair], the bill was read and reported without amendment.

And the rules having been dispensed with, the bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. JACKSON the Committee on the Judiciary Local was discharged from the further consideration of a bill entitled An act to repeal the act of Assembly, passed the 11th day of April, 1866, entitled An act to provide for the purchasing of real estate and erection of a poor house in Montour county.

And the rules having been dispensed with, the bill was read a second time.

The first section was agreed to.

On the question, Will the Senate agree to the second section?

Mr. JACKSON moved to amend the same by striking out of the second line the word "thirty," and inserting in lieu thereof the word "ninety."

The amendment was agreed to.

The section as amended was adopted.

The remaining section was agreed to, and the bill

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. GRAHAM, the Committee on Corporations was discharged from the further consideration of a bill entitled A supplement to the act of Assembly entitled An act to incorporate the Union Park skating association of Allegheny city, approved the 23d day of March, A. D. 1865.

And the rules having been dispensed with, the bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. WALLS, the Committee on the Judiciary Local was discharged from the further consideration of a bill entitled An act to authorize the select and common councils of the city of Williamsport to levy and collect a special tax for city purposes.

And the rules having been dispensed with, the bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. WALLACE the Committee on Roads and Bridges was discharged from the further consideration of a bill entitled An act to incorporate the Summit turnpike road company, in the county of Clearfield.

Passed finally.

The hour of one o'clock having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the Senate until this afternoon at three o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Senate reassembled at three o'clock P. M.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, returned bills from the Senate numbered and entitled as follows, viz :

No. 21, an act to incorporate the Sisters of Mercy in the city of Philadelphia.

No. 55, an act to incorporate the German insurance company of Erie.

No. 82, an act to consolidate the Union coal company and the Howard coal and iron company.

With information that the House of Representatives has passed the same without amendments.

He also returned bill from the Senate numbered and entitled as follows, viz :

JOHN W. GEART.

PITTSBURG AND CONNELLSVILLE RAILROAD COMPANY.

On motion of Mr. SEARIGHT, the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of bill entitled An act to repeal an act of the General Assembly of the State of Pennsylvania, which became a law on the 19th day of August, 1864, entitled An act relative to the Pittsburg and Connelville railroad company.

[Remarks were made by Messrs. SEARIGHT, STUTZMAN, WHITE, M'CAWLESS GRAHAM and LOWRY, which will appear in the Appendix.]

Mr. FISHER, having the floor, gave way to Mr. RIDGWAY, who moved that the Senate do now adjourn, and that the bill under discussion be made the special order until disposed of.

Mr. COLEMAN moved to amend so as to have a session at half-past seven o'clock this evening.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, I hope that the motion to adjourn to meet again this evening will not be carried. Two-thirds of the members of the Senate traveled all last night in order to get here to attend to-day's sessions, and to hold another session this evening I think would be rather more than one day's work. In addition to that, sir, there are other reasons which might be urged. To be frank, I might say that the people of Pittsburg are to have a meeting in reference to this railroad bill, and we do not wish the friends of the bill to see it finally disposed of until we hear from that meeting. I therefore hope the motion for an evening session will not prevail.

Mr. BROWNE (Lawrence) said he felt a great interest in this question, and would like to hear it discussed further if necessary, and with a clear head on the part of the Senators, and that he should vote against an evening session because he felt incompetent to attend a session to-night; he hoped an opportunity would be given to discuss the matter fully.

Mr. BIGHAM. Mr. Speaker, there are two Senators on this floor—the Senator from Beaver [Mr. TAYLOR] and the Senator from Lawrence [Mr. BROWNE]—both of whom desire to speak on this question, and who are not to-day in condition to speak. In deference to them I do not want this matter to be precipitated. So far as I am concerned, I had just as soon pitch in and have a fight now as not.

Mr. COLEMAN withdrew his motion for an evening session.

On motion of Mr. RIDGWAY, the Senate then adjourned until to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, February 13, 1867.

The House met at 10 o'clock, A. M.

Prayer was offered by Rev. JACOB KENNEDY, member from Wyoming.

The SPEAKER announced a quorum of members present.

The Journal of yesterday was partly read, when,

On motion of Mr. QUIGLEY, the further reading of the same was dispensed with.

SPEAKER'S TABLE.

The SPEAKER laid before the House the annual report of the board of managers of the House of Refuge at Philadelphia.

Laid on the table.

The SPEAKER proceeded to clear the table.

House bill No. 161, entitled an act to repeal the act of Assembly, passed the 11th day of April, 1866, entitled An act to provide for the purchasing of real estate and erection of a poor house in Montour county. Returned from the Senate with amendments.

On motion of Mr. CHALFANT, the amendments were Concurred in.

BILLS PASSED.

Mr. KURTZ asked and obtained permission to read a bill in place.

The bill was read as follows: No. 260, an act to change the place of holding elections for Howard township, from Howard borough to the school house, Mechanicsville, Howard township, in the county of Centre.

On motion of Mr. KURTZ, the rules were suspended,

The bill read a second and third time, and passed finally.

Mr. WHARTON asked and obtained permission to read a bill in place:

The bill was read as follows:

House bill No. 361, entitled An act to extend the provisions of an act approved July 31, 1863, to the county of Huntingdon.

On motion of Mr. WHARTON, the rules were suspended, the bill read a second and third times, and

Passed finally.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented for concurrence bill numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

Senate bill No. 355, an act to incorporate the Summit turnpike road company, in the county of Clearfield.

He also informed that the Senate has concurred in the amendments made by the House of Representatives to Senate bill numbered and entitled as follows:

Senate bill No. 71, an act to divide the Northwest ward in the city of Lancaster into election precincts and separate election districts.

SPEAKER'S TABLE.

The SPEAKER cleared his table of Senate bills numbered and entitled as follows:

Senate bill No. 114, an act regulating the sale by hawkers and peddlers of goods at wholesale.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary General.

Senate bill No. 349, an act to enable the Pennsylvania Cannel coal and railroad company to borrow money, and to change the corporate name of the company.

Referred to the Committee on Railroads. Senate bill No. 350, an act to extend the time of passage of the enrollment tax on a certain act approved March 10th, 1865, entitled A further supplement to an act to incorporate the Powelton coal and iron company, approved May 1st, 1861, extending the time of charter of said company.

Referred to the Committee on Iron and Coal Companies.

Senate bill No. 353, a supplement to the act of Assembly entitled An act to incorporate the Union Park skating association of Allegheny City, approved the 23d day of March, A. D. 1865.

Referred to the Committee on Corporations.

Senate bill No. 354, an act to authorize the select and common councils of the city of Williamsport to levy and collect a special tax for city purposes.

Referred to the Committee on Municipal Corporations.

Mr. COLVILLE moved that the rules be suspended and the House proceed to the consideration and final passage of Senate bill No. 316, a further supplement to an act to incorporate the Pittsburg, Allegheny and Manchester passenger railway company, authorizing said company to change certain parts of its route, to subscribe for stock in a new bridge, and to have viewers appointed to fix compensation for crossing bridges.

Mr. MANN called for a division of the question, and

On the question, Will the House suspend the rules generally? it was

Not agreed to.

PRIVATE CALENDAR.

The House resumed the further consideration of the bills on the private calendar.

The first bill in order on second reading was House bill

No. 326, entitled An act to ascertain the views of the qualified electors of the city and county of Philadelphia upon the subject of allowing the passenger railway companies, of said city, to run their cars on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday.

The question was on the amendment of the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. QUOLEY.]

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. WILSON offered the following amendment to the amendment:

Provided further, That no decision by ballot, made by the citizens of Philadelphia under the provisions of this act, shall take effect, unless all persons be permitted to ride in said passenger railway cars, without regard to color, sex, or nationality.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment to the amendment?

Remarks were made by Messrs. QUOLEY, DAVIS, MANN, KERNS, ARMSTRONG, WILSON, HOOD, WADDELL, MEYERS and others, which will appear in the Appendix to the Record. Mr. STUMBAUGH called the previous question.

The call for the previous question was sustained by Messrs. MEYERS, QUAY, GREGORY, KLINE, JOSEPH, STEHMAN, KINNEY, CAMERON, SEILER, BOYD and COLVILLE.

On the question,

Shall the main question be now put?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. MEYERS and Mr. HOOD, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Boyd, Brannan, Cameron, Colville, Davis, Donohugh, Ghegan, Gregory, Harbison, Kimmell, Kinney, Marks, McChling, Peters, Quay, Seiler, Shuman, Stehman, Stumbaugh, Wharton and Glass, Speaker—40.

NAYS—Messrs. Adaire, Allen, Armstrong, Barrington, Barton, Boyd, Breen, Brown, Calvin, Chadwick, Chalfant, Chase, Collins, Craig, Day, Deise, Espy, Ewing, Fogel, Freeborn, Gallagher, Gordon, Harner, Headman, Heltzel, Hoffman, Hood, Humphrey, Hunt, Jones, Josephs, Kennedy, Kerns, Kline, Koon, Kurtz, Lee, Leech, Linton, Long, M'Camant, M'Creary, M'Henry, M'Kee, M'Pherrin, Mann, Markley, Meyers, Mullin, Pennypacker, Phelan, Pillow, Quigley, Rhoads, Richards, Roath, Robinson, Rouch, Satterthwait, Sharples, Steacy, Subers, Tharp, Waddell, Wallace, Webb, Weller, Wingard, Woodard, Worrall—24.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. MEYERS raised the following point of order:

That the amendment of the gentleman from Allegheny [Mr. WILSON] is not in order, because of the violation of the eighth section of the eleventh article of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, inasmuch as the said amendment contains a separate and distinct subject from that embraced in the original bill, and the amendment of the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. QUOLEY], and also in violation of the forty-second rule of this House.

The SPEAKER submitted the point of order to the House, and

On the question,

Is the point of order well taken?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. MEYERS and Mr. GREGORY, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Allen, Barrington, Barton, Boyd, Breen, Brennan, Calvin, Chalfant, Chase, Collins, Colville, Craig, Davis, Deise, Donohugh, Fogel, Ghegan, Gregory, Harbison, Harner, Headman, Heltzel, Hoffman, Hood, Humphrey, Hunt, Jones, Josephs, Kerns, Kinney, Kline, Koon, Lee, M'Henry, Maish, Markley, Marks, McChling, Melly, Meyers, Mullin, Pennypacker, Peters, Phelan, Quay, Quigley, Rhoads, Robinson, Rouch, Satterthwait, Seiler, Stumbaugh, Subers, Tharp, Waddell, Wallace, Webb, Weller, Wingard, Woodard and Worrall—57.

NAYS—Messrs. Adaire, Armstrong, Boyle, Brown, Cameron, Chadwick, Day, Espy, Ewing, Freeborn, Gallagher, Gordon, Kennedy, Kimmell, Kurtz, Leech, Linton, Long, M'Camant, M'Creary, M'Kee, M'Pherrin, Mann, Pillow, Richards, Roath, Sharples, Shuman, Steacy, Stehman, Waddell, Wallace, Webb, Weller, Whann, Wharton, Wilson, Wingard, Woodward, Wright and Glass, Speaker—41.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The question recurring on the amendment of Mr. QUOLEY,

On agreeing to the amendment, The yeas and nays were required by Mr. ADAIRE and Mr. GREGORY, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Allen, Barrington, Barton, Boyd, Breen, Brennan, Calvin, Chase, Collins, Colville, Davis, Donohugh, Fogel, Freeborn, Ghegan, Gregory, Harbison, Harner, Headman, Heltzel, Hoffman, Hood, Humphrey, Hunt, Jones, Josephs, Kerns, Kinney, Kline, Koon, Lee, M'Henry, Maish, Markley, Marks, McChling, Melly, Meyers, Mullin, Peters, Phelan, Quay, Quigley, Rhoads, Robinson, Rouch, Satterthwait, Stehman, Stumbaugh, Subers, Webb, Westbrook, Whann, Wingard, Woodward and Worrall—56.

NAYS—Messrs. Adaire, Armstrong, Boyle, Brown, Cameron, Chadwick, Chalfant, Craig, Day, Deise, Espy, Ewing, Gallagher, Gordon, Kennedy, Kimmell, Leech, Linton, Long, M'Camant, M'Creary, M'Kee, M'Pherrin, Mann, Pennypacker, Pillow, Richards, Roath, Seiler, Sharples, Shuman, Steacy, Tharp, Waddell, Wallace, Weller, Wharton, Wilson, Wright and Glass, Speaker—40.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The question was, Will the House agree to the bill as amended?

On the question,

The previous question was called for by Messrs. JOSEPHS, QUIGLEY, MARKS, JONES, QUAY, COLVILLE, WEBB, KERNS, BARTON, GHEGAN, DAVIS and COLLINS.

On the question,

Shall the main question be now put?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WADDELL and Mr. CAMERON, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Adaire, Allen, Barrington, Barton, Boyd, Breen, Brennan, Calvin, Chase, Collins, Colville, Davis, Deise, Donohugh, Fogel, Freeborn, Ghegan, Gregory, Harner, Headman, Heltzel, Hoffman, Hood, Humphrey, Hunt, Jones, Josephs, Kerns, Kinney, Kline, Koon, Kurtz, Lee, M'Henry, Maish, Markley, Marks, McChling, Melly, Meyers, Mullin, Peters, Quay, Quigley, Rhoads, Robinson, Rouch, Satterthwait, Stehman, Stumbaugh, Subers, Webb, Wingard and Worrall—44.

NAYS—Messrs. Armstrong, Boyle, Brown, Cameron, Chadwick, Chalfant, Craig, Day, Espy, Ewing, Gallagher, Gordon, Kennedy, Kimmell, Leech, Linton, Long, M'Camant, M'Creary, M'Kee, Mann, Pennypacker, Phelan, Pillow, Richards, Roath, Seiler, Sharples, Shuman, Steacy, Tharp, Waddell, Wallace, Weller, Westbrook, Wharton, Wilson, Woodward, Wright and Glass, Speaker—39.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill as amended? The yeas and nays were required by Mr. ROATH and Mr. DAVIS, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Adaire, Allen, Barrington, Barton, Boyd, Breen, Brennan, Calvin, Chalfant, Chase, Collins, Colville, Davis, Deise, Donohugh, Fogel, Freeborn, Ghegan, Gregory, Harner, Headman, Heltzel, Hoffman, Hood, Humphrey, Hunt, Jones, Joseph, Kerns, Kiunev, Kline, Koon, Lee, McHenry, Maish, Mann, Markley, Marks, Meching, Meily, Meyers, Mullin, Pennypacker, Peters, Quay, Quigley, Rhoads, Robinson, Ronch, Satterthwait, Sharples, Stehman, Stumbaugh, Subers, Watt, Webb, Wingard and Worrall—58.

NAYS—Messrs. Armstrong, Boyle, Brown, Cameron, Chadwick, Craig, Day, Espy, Ewing, Gallagher, Gordon, Kennedy, Kimmell, Kurtz, Leech, Linton, Long, M'Camant, M'Creary, M'Kee, Phelan, Pillow, Richards, Roath, Seiler, Shuman, Stacy, Tharp, Waddell, Wallace, Weller, Westbrook, Wharton, Wilson, Woodward, Wright and Glass, Speaker—37.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The bill was ordered to be transcribed for a third reading.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

Passed finally.

No. 193, a supplement to an act appointing commissioners to lay out and open a State road in the counties of Potter and Clinton, approved the 16th day of March, A. D. 1866.

Mr. DIESE. Mr. Speaker, the act of Assembly, of which this is a supplement, has occasioned some question in the counties through which this road passes, and the matter is now pending in the Supreme Court of the State. I hope this bill will not be pressed, as my county is particularly interested. I do not want to place the bill in an unfortunate position. I therefore, ask that it be postponed until we have a decision, which might be affected by its passage at present.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman is mistaken in saying that a decision in the court would be affected by this act. I do not apprehend that it is possible for the decision to be affected by it, and I cannot understand why it is desired to postpone it on that account. The bill, passed in 1865, was an act to enable the people in the remote section of our county to reach the railroad; the people of Clinton made such objections to some of the features of the original bill that this substitute was gotten up to meet these objections, meanwhile they had taken steps to contest certain features of that bill. I have invited the people of Clinton, through their representatives, to amend this bill so it would be unobjectionable. It has been so amended. I consented to its postponement for that purpose. Now, unless the gentleman offers an amendment, I shall ask that the House pass the bill at this time. I have no objection to its amendment; if it is not right make it right, and let us have the road that is asked for.

Here are people living in Germania, an industrious community, with no road to public conveyances. They have been for years laboring under this disadvantage. I ask that the House pass this bill and let this people by their energies work their way to the railroads of the State.

[From the confusion in the House the voices of gentlemen addressing the Chair were at times inaudible to the reporters.]

Mr. DEISE. Mr. Speaker, all I ask is that this bill be postponed, that my constituents may have the right to be heard in this House in regard to this question. I ask that the bill may not be rushed through. It is true I did amend the bill, but in no particular way whatever. I ask, as a favor, that my constituents have an opportunity to be heard.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the motion to postpone?

Mr. MANN called for the ayes and noes.
Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, before the call is ordered, as I objected this bill off the calendar, I may be permitted to give my reasons for doing so.

A constituent of mine, a gentleman largely interested in that county, was named as one of the original commissioners. The gentleman from Potter [Mr. MANN] introduced amendments to the bill as it was on the files, changing the names of those commissioners and among them that of my constituent—putting him off the list.

I objected to the bill for the purpose of informing him of this amendment, and asking if he had any objection to it. I immediately communicated with him, but have had no reply. While I do not know what his views may be, I do not propose to ask that the bill be postponed. If it is the wish of the gentleman from Clinton [Mr. DEISE] that the bill be postponed, I feel that it may be to my interest and that of my constituents to have it postponed.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman from Clinton had moved to postpone this bill until Thursday of next week, or two weeks hence, I would have consented at once. But here is an indefinite postponement until the decision of the Supreme Court is had. That is in effect killing the bill.

It is true, I did introduce an amendment, and, since that subject has been introduced, I suppose I will have the privilege of saying that I did it after consulting with the people of Clinton county, and with the landholders interested in this bill. One of the property-holders who was originally named as one of the commissioners, assented to the amendment.

Mr. DEISE. Mr. Speaker, I will agree to the proposition to postpone this matter two weeks.

The bill was then postponed until Thursday morning, February 28, and made the special order for that time.

Mr. COLVILLE asked and obtained leave to call up Senate bill No. 315, entitled A further supplement to an act to incorporate the Pittsburg, Allegheny and Manchester passenger railway company, authorizing said company to change certain parts of its route, to subscribe for stock in a new bridge, and have viewers appointed to fix compensation for crossing bridges.

BILLS PASSED.

On motion of Mr. COLVILLE, the rules were suspended, the bill read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

RESOLUTION ORDERING LEGISLATIVE HAND-BOOK.

Mr. STUMBAUGH, on leave, offered the following resolution.

The resolution was read as follows:

Resolved, That the Clerk be directed to order from the State printer, for the use of the members, five thousand copies of the "Legislative Hand-Book," in the style and containing the same matter as those furnished to the members; the same to be paid for upon the certificate of the Clerk of the House.

The resolution was read a second time.
Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I move to amend by adding after the word members, "and also five thousand additional copies of the diagram or plan of the Senate chamber and House of Representatives, similar to that contained in said book."

Mr. FREEBORN. Mr. Speaker, I hope that will not be adopted. I recollect there have been several attempts made to get these diagrams, and it has always been found a costly undertaking.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, a similar resolution has been adopted in the Senate. Several applications have been made to me for these diagrams. So far as the expense is concerned, as the plate is already lithographed, I suppose it would amount to only a few cents. I think that would not be a consideration.

The amendment was
Agreed to.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the resolution as amended?

Mr. WRIGHT moved to amend by striking out the word "five" and inserting the word "three."

Mr. STUMBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I hope that amendment will not prevail. We will have but a few copies to send to our constituents, and I know of no work that will be more acceptable.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I hope this amendment will prevail. The Senate have adopted a resolution of this character ordering one thousand; and three thousand is in that proportion. I think, out of respect to the Senate, and, as a matter of courtesy to them, we should take the amendment of the gentleman from Snyder [Mr. WRIGHT], and thereby preserve the due proportion of copies ordered.

Mr. QUIGLEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire of the gentleman from Franklin [Mr. STUMBAUGH] what these books will cost. Five thousand is a large number for the use of this House.

Mr. STUMBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, the little manual we have been using costs about sixty cents each. The manual we have under consideration will cost about seventy-five cents. Five thousand copies will cost very little more than three thousand. I regard it as a work we ought to have. I hope the original resolution, as amended by the gentleman from Berks [Mr. JONES], will pass. I hope this last amendment will not pass.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the amendment? The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WRIGHT and Mr. ARMSTRONG, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Adaire, Armstrong, Barrington, Barton, Boyd, Boyle, Breen, Brennan, Brown, Calvin, Chalfant, Craig, Deise, Fogel, Freeborn, Gordon, Harner, Headman, Humphrey, Hunt, Kennedy, Kerns, Kimmell, Kinney, Kline, Koon, Kurtz, Linton, Long, McPherrin, Mann, Meyers, Phelan, Pillow, Quigley, Roath, Satterthwait, Waddell, Wallace, Watt, Webb, Wharton and Wright—43.

NAYS—Messrs. Allen, Cameron, Chadwick, Chase, Collins, Davis, Day, Donoghue, Esby, Ewing, Gallagher, Ghegan, Harbison, Hoffman, Jones, Lee, McCamant, McCreary, M'Keek, Maish, Marks, Mechling, Maily, Penny-acker, Quay, Rhoads, Richards, Rouch, Seely, Sluman, Steacy, Stehman, Stumbaugh, Subers, Tharp, Weller, Whelan, Wilson, Wingard, Woodward, Worrall and Glass, Speaker—42.

—So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The resolution as amended was
Agreed to.
According to order,
The House proceeded to the consideration of House bill No. 104.

The following is a copy of the bill:
Sec. 1. Be it enacted, &c., That the act of the 30th day of March, a. d. 1866, entitled An act to provide for the payment of gratuities and annuities to the soldiers of the war of 1812, and to their widows, be and the same is hereby repealed.

The question was,
Will the House agree to the bill?
Mr. MANN offered an amendment to strike out all after the enacting clause, and insert an entire new bill.

The amendment was
Agreed to.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the amendment?
Mr. STUMBAUGH moved to amend by striking out the words "two months;" and inserting the words "twenty days."

On agreeing to the amendment, remarks were made by Messrs. McCreary, McPherrin, Stumbaugh, Waddell, Lee and Quigley, which will appear in the Appendix to the Record.

On motion of Mr. BOYLE, the further consideration of the bill was postponed until Thursday afternoon, the 21st instant, and made the special order for three o'clock of that day.

The SPEAKER adjourned the House until 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

SENATE.

WEDNESDAY, February 13, 1867.

The Senate met and was called to order at 11 A. M., by the SPEAKER.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Mr. Bailey, of Harrisburg.

On motion of Mr. CONNELL, the reading of the Journal of yesterday was dispensed with.

SPEAKER'S TABLE.

The SPEAKER laid before the House the annual report of the board of managers of the House of Refuge.

Also, an annual statement of the Lykens Valley railroad and coal company.

Laid on the table.
He also laid before the Senate a communication from the State Treasurer, which was read as follows:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT OF PENN'A, }
HARRISBURG, February 13, 1867. }

Hon. L. W. Hall, Speaker of the Senate:

In compliance with the joint resolution, passed February, 1867, I send you what I conceive to be a proper apportionment of three hundred thousand dollars on personal estate among the counties of the Commonwealth.

Very respectfully yours,

W. H. KEMBLE, State Treasurer.

Laid on the table.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented for concurrence bills numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

A GENERAL RAILROAD LAW REPORTED.

Mr. LANDON, chairman of the Railroad Committee, reported with amendments, a bill, entitled An act to authorize the formation of railway companies.

Mr. LANDON, having asked and obtained leave to make a brief statement, said: It will be remembered, sir, that early in the session a bill was introduced in place by the Senator from Erie [Mr. LOWRY] entitled A general railroad law, which bill came into our hands. It will be remembered that soon after a resolution was introduced by the Senator from Allegheny [Mr. BIGHAM], instructing the Railroad Committee to report that bill or one similar to it. After that resolution was passed the committee invited the Senator from Allegheny [Mr. BIGHAM], who offered the resolution, to aid the committee by his knowledge and experience in preparing a bill covering the points in the question. Accordingly he prepared a bill, and read it in place, entitled An act to authorize the formation of railroad corporations, which bill came into the hands of the committee. It will be remembered that subsequent to that, the Senate passed a resolution requiring the committee to make a report this day on this subject. During the interim, sir, the committee have been industrious in gathering information and trying to discharge their duties properly. The result is that the committee has considered the bill reported by the Senator from Allegheny, making some slight amendments to the bill, and making an addenda to it, and the majority of the committee have instructed me to report that bill with amendments, and ask that it be printed.

Mr. LOWRY said that the minority would make a report, stating why they think the bill framed by the Senator from Allegheny should be reported instead of this one.

A RESOLUTION OF INQUIRY.

Mr. WALLACE offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

Resolved, That the Governor be requested to inform the Senate how many persons were in prison within this Commonwealth, under sentence of death, or convicted of murder in the first degree, on the 15th day of January, 1867, together with the date of sentence, place of conviction, and such other facts as may be in his possession in regard thereto; and if such information be not in his possession, then to obtain the same and lay it before the Senate at an early day.

The resolution was adopted.

AN AFTERNOON SESSION.

Mr. FISHER, offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

Resolved, That this Senate will hold a session this afternoon, at 3 o'clock, for the purpose of considering and disposing of the subject relating to the Connellsville railroad.

Mr. GRAHAM, Mr. Speaker, I really do not see the necessity for appointing an afternoon session for the purpose of considering the Connellsville railroad question. If this motion came from any of the friends of the bill who are desirous of passing it, there would be some propriety in it; but as it comes from a gentleman who has declared hostility to it, I think that it looks like taking the bill out of the hands of its friends and putting it into the hands of its enemies; and I think, sir, that the friends of the bill are the proper persons to indicate the time when it ought to be taken up and considered. Now, sir, I hope that the resolution will not pass. There are several reasons why the bill should not be taken up this afternoon. I will also state that there are several committees, very important committees, that meet this afternoon, and they may interfere with a session at that hour.

Mr. FISHER. My reason for offering the resolution is that I am compelled to leave Harrisburg this evening, and I desire to have that bill out of the way. It is not the wish of the friends of the bill to have the matter considered, I do not desire to have it pressed upon them. I do not know the strength of the bill; but I desire to record my vote on the question, and fear that the vote may be taken in my absence. I offered the resolution with the purest motives in the world.

If it is desirable to lay the bill over for a few days, or until next week, I am perfectly willing.

The SPEAKER stated that it was his opinion that, if the resolution was adopted, the bill must be passed or rejected this afternoon, because the resolution used the words "dispose of."

Mr. FISHER moved to strike out the words "and dispose of."

The motion was

Agreed to.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, I think it is objectionable still. I think the bill is in the hands of its friends, and they ought to call it up when they feel disposed to do so; I do not think those opposed to it should take charge of it, and force it up when it suits their convenience.

Mr. FISHER. I took it for granted that every man has an equal interest in what comes up here, whether he is friendly or adverse to it. It is the duty of every Senator to be here, if possible, and vote upon every question; but I have some business on hand that will necessarily take me out of the city to-day, and I desire to record my vote. If my friends wish to call it up in the absence of those opposed to it, we have a right to say, no. I have not the slightest objection to letting this bill go over to next week, but I want to be present when the bill is voted on; and I offered the resolution with the purest motives, and not for the purpose of taking it from its friends.

Mr. BROWNE (Lawrence). Mr. Speaker, I hope the Senator from Lancaster will withdraw his motion, so as to give us time to attend to this matter in the usual order. I feel myself unfit to participate in the duties of this session, and I shall be unfit to attend to the duties of an afternoon session. I am not desirous to press this bill or delay it. I am willing it should take its usual order, but do not desire that we should have an afternoon session. I have felt quite unwell during the night, and feel so now, and not fit to be in my seat. I feel it my duty to be here, however, if I possibly can. My opinion is that we shall accomplish as much if we have but one session to-day. If we have a private calendar, I think that will be quite enough.

The SPEAKER said that the Conneville railroad bill would be the order, and that the calendar could not be taken up without a motion.

Mr. BROWNE (Lawrence). I would suggest to the Senator from Lancaster [Mr. FISHER] that the resolution be amended so as to meet this afternoon for the purpose of finishing the private calendar.

Mr. FISHER. I am not tenacious in regard to this matter.

Mr. WHITE asked if, under the resolution, the Senate would have to confine itself exclusively to the consideration of the Conneville railroad bill until disposed of.

The SPEAKER. No, sir. The resolution, as originally offered, said that the Senate must consider that bill until disposed of. That part has been stricken out.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Speaker, I would unite my appeal to that of the Senator from Lawrence [Mr. BROWNE] not to urge the adoption of this resolution at this time. The Senator from Allegheny, who introduced this bill, does not desire this resolution to pass. This bill is of a general character and interests every Senator on this floor, and there is no special occasion for race-horse legislation. This is the bill of the session, involving the most important principles of the session; and I trust we will not go into it with railroad speed, but give these matters the consideration which they demand.

Mr. FISHER. Mr. Speaker, there seems to me some apprehension on the part of the friends of this bill, and I will take occasion to say here that I offered that resolution without consulting the friends or enemies of this bill. I was somewhat selfish, I admit, in offering the resolution, as I wanted, if possible, to have the bill disposed of before I leave Harrisburg. I have not asked a single friend or enemy of this bill as to the propriety of offering the resolution. If it is not desirable to take up the matter, I have not the slightest objection to having the resolution voted down.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, I would certainly go far to accommodate the gentleman from Lancaster [Mr. FISHER], or any other Senator on the floor; but there is a way for him to have his vote recorded. He can pair off with some gentleman on the other side. Now, I think, as this bill was offered by myself, that I should be the judge of the time when it should be called up for final action. I have no personal motive in wishing to delay the passage of this bill or action upon it. A meeting of the citizens of Allegheny county has been called, and a committee will be appointed to come here. I think it is only an act of courtesy to my constituents at home, and to that committee who are coming here to represent the interests of the Conneville railroad company, that action should be delayed until after they shall have arrived at Harrisburg. This is my special reason, sir, for wishing that action should be delayed.

Mr. BILLINGFELT said that he would like to give his colleague a chance to record his vote on this bill, and thought it would be an act of justice to have the resolution voted down.

Mr. FISHER then withdrew his resolution.

Mr. CONNELL moved that when the Senate adjourn, it adjourn to meet this afternoon at three o'clock.

The motion was

Agreed to.

RE-COMMITTAL OF BILL.

Mr. BIGHAM moved that the bill entitled An act extending the second section of the act of July 19, 1866, to the Southwark bank of Philadelphia, be re-committed to the Committee on Banks.

The motion was

Agreed to.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented for concurrence bill numbered and entitled as follows:

No. 361, an act extending the provisions of an act approved July 31st, 1863, to the county of Huntingdon.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

BILLS PASSED.

On motion of Mr. CONNELL, the Committee on Judiciary Local was discharged from the further consideration of bill entitled An act to extend the provisions of the act approved July 31, A. D. 1863, to the county of Huntingdon.

And the rules having been dispensed with, the bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. HAINES, the Committee on Election Districts was discharged from the further consideration of a bill entitled An act to change the place of holding elections for Howard township, from Howard borough, to the school house in Mechanicsville, Howard township, in the county of Centre.

And the rules having been dispensed with, the bill was read a second time.

Mr. HAINES moved to amend the first section, by striking out of the sixth and seventh lines the words "town of Mechanicsville, in the township of Howard," and inserting in lieu thereof the words, "said borough of Howard."

The amendment was

Agreed to.

And the section as amended was

Agreed to.

On motion of Mr. HAINES, the bill was amended by making it read as follows: "An act to change the place for holding elections for Howard township, to the school house in the borough of Howard, in the county of Centre."

The bill was read a third time and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. LOWRY, the Committee on Banks was discharged from the further consideration of a bill entitled An act to extend the time for raising subscriptions to the capital stock of the Erie Dime Savings and Loan company, and to amend the act incorporating said company.

And the rules having been dispensed with, the bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

CHANGE OF VENUE.

Mr. LANDON moved that the rules be suspended, and that the Senate proceed to the second reading and consideration of bill entitled An act to change the venue in the case of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania versus Jesse R. McCarty, Joshua R. McCarty and Charles Morton, from the court of quarter sessions of the peace of Sullivan county, to the court of quarter sessions of the peace of Bradford county.

Mr. LANDON. Mr. Speaker, there was one election board in Sullivan county that had the hardihood, under the law of Pennsylvania, to refuse deserters' votes; that board has been prosecuted; they do not wish to be tried in Sullivan county; they pray, therefore, to have their trial in a more Christian county than Sullivan county.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I shall not notice the mistakes and abuses of the Senator from Bradford [Mr. LANDON] in relation to this bill. I simply ask that the bill be postponed, to give an opportunity for a minority report.

Mr. JACKSON. Mr. Speaker, so far as I am concerned I do not wish to throw anything in the way of having this bill considered at any time. I am opposed to the passage of the bill, and am ready to meet it at any time.

Mr. LANDON. The court in Sullivan county meets on the 26th of this month; the case comes on, and if this bill can be delayed here when it is of no use. If the venue is changed, this bill must be passed at once; and I press it upon the consideration of the Senate.

The SPEAKER stated that it would take a two-thirds vote to suspend the rules.

On the question, Will the Senate suspend the rules and proceed to the second reading of the bill?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. JACKSON and Mr. LANDON, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingsfelt, Browne (Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Coleman, Connell, Cowles, Fisher, Graham, Haines, Jackson, Landon, Lowry, McCaughy, Ridgway, Royer, Shoemaker, Stutzman, Taylor, White, (Worthington and Hall, Speaker—22.

NAYS—Messrs. Burnett, Davis, Donovan, Glatz, James, McCandless, Randall, Schall, Searight, Wallace and Walls—11.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

During the call,

Mr. JACKSON said that he was in favor of taking up the bill at any time, and in order to give the Senator from Bradford [Mr. LANDON] an opportunity to bring it up, he would vote "aye."

The bill was read as follows:

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the venue in the case now pending in the court of general quarter sessions of the peace of Sullivan county, of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania versus Jesse R. McCarty, Joshua R. McCarty and Charles Morton, returned to December sessions, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, of said court, be, and the same is, hereby removed to the court of general quarter sessions of the peace of the county of Bradford, to the next May sessions, or any subsequent term within the present year, of said court of quarter sessions, where it shall be tried, and verdict, and judgment, and sentence be had thereon with the same effect as if it had been tried in the county of Sullivan, and all the records in the case shall be certified and transferred by the proper officers of the said court of the county of Sullivan, to the said court of the county of Bradford, and all expenses incurred by the said county of Bradford by reason of the said change of venue shall be paid by the commissioners of the said county of Sullivan.

Mr. JACKSON. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Bradford [Mr. LANDON] being so very anxious to have an opportunity of trying this case in his county, I presume he will not object to a slight amendment. I move to amend by striking out all after the words "court of the county of Sullivan to the said court of the county of Bradford."

Mr. LANDON. I had rather it would remain as it is.

The amendment of Mr. JACKSON was not agreed to.

Mr. JACKSON. Mr. Speaker, I am opposed to the passage of the bill now under consideration of the Senate, because it is unnecessary, unjust, and uncalled for, and the administration of justice does not require it. There has no application of any kind been presented, either before the Judiciary Committees in the House or the Senate, from the parties interested in this case, asking for a change of venue. There has been no affidavit presented by the election board of Elkland township, who have been indicted, stating that they could not receive a fair trial in the county of Sullivan. Nothing but a mere petition, signed by a few citizens of the county of Sullivan, has been presented, asking for a change of venue in this case; and that petition, sir, is filled with misrepresentations from beginning to end—signed, as it is, by some estimable citizens of Sullivan, many of whom probably had no knowledge that the statements made there were mostly false from beginning to end. I do not blame all who have signed this petition; but I do blame the author of it; and I do say that many of those who signed that petition did so without knowing the contents of it.

I propose, sir, in as brief a manner as the subject will allow me, to examine this petition, and to give my reasons for my opposition to the bill, and why it should not be passed. In the first place, then, sir, the petition starts out with the assertion that the county is intensely Democratic. That, I believe, is about the only truth in the whole petition. We poll, sir, nearly two Democratic votes to one Republican, in the county. I wish this point to be distinctly understood, because when I come to consider another part of the petition—that part in relation to the manner of drawing juries in that county, I intend to show this Senate that partisan feelings have not been allowed to enter into the jury box of the county of Sullivan. It goes on to state that "the prevailing sentiment of the Democratic party in this county is that deserters have a right to vote," etc.; and "this view has been impressed upon the people in harangues from the stump, not only by leading Democrats, but by judges who are to try the case. All of the judges of the court of quarter sessions of this county were candidates for office at the late election, and actually engaged in canvassing for votes."

Now, sir, the author of that petition knows that it is infamously, maliciously false; he knows very well that while Judge Elwell was a candidate for Congress in that district (and that, too, against his own wishes), he did not make a solitary speech from the stump, canvass the district, or work for a vote in Sullivan county, nor in any other county composing his judicial district.

All of the judges are honorable, upright gentlemen, and have the full confidence of the people of the county.

One of the associate judges did not, so far as I am informed, make more than two or three speeches in the county. I had the honor, sir, of stumping the county in connection with Judge Bedford, one of the candidates for associate judge, and he did not speak upon the subject of deserters at all; and here let me remark that there is no contest in the county in relation to the election of judges. Their election is not contested. I do not claim to be a leading Democrat. But I believe I was the only person who made any speeches in relation to that subject, and I have never taken the ground that a deserter should vote. I took, sir, the broad ground that the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania had decided that a man should not be disfranchised on the simple assertion that he was a deserter; that he must be tried, convicted, and the sentence approved, before he can be punished as a criminal. I took the ground, also, that the act of the Legislature, of June 4th, 1865, was based upon the acts of Congress; that the records of drafted men, marked "failed to report," was not the "official evidence of the fact of desertion," required by the fifth section of the act of June 4th, 1866; but that the only official evidence that there could be, was the records of the court, showing a trial, a conviction, a sentence, et cetera, and the sentence approved, in accordance with the acts of Congress of 1861, and the subsequent acts in relation to deserters. That, sir, is in brief the position which I took on that point. I did not defend deserters, but I did insist, and do now insist, that these men, whom you have branded as deserters, shall have a fair trial before you punish them as such. I referred, also, to the injustice that was done to many citizens in my county, in the rolls that had been sent out. I can take up these rolls, sir, and give you evidence of instances of such gross injustice done many honorable men, as will make you—make any man—blush, to whatever party he belongs. I can show you, sir, the name of John Dickerson, who was sworn into the service by the provost marshal of Troy, wounded in the battle of the Wilderness, and died in Libby prison; and yet he is here branded as a deserter. I can show you the name of Ralph M. Wheeler, upon these records, as having deserted—a man who went to that same provost marshal, and enlisted there. He went into the service and came home with his honorable discharge, and was met at the election board and branded as a deserter, with his honorable discharge in his pocket.

I could give many other cases, sir, but will not take up the time of the Senate. You say there are cases that are hard. Indeed, there are, sir, and in your zeal to procure votes, and carry your partisan ends, you passed that act, and whilst you provided that, if a man should come before the election board, and prove that he was not a deserter and had a right to vote, he should have that right. You provided no manner in which the rolls should be corrected and his name stricken from the list—but you left his name there, and compelled him at every election to make the same plea, and when he dies his family, for all proof, and when he is tainted with his being to come, are to be tainted with his being a deserter. That, sir, was one of the things that I objected to, from the stump, in the county of Sullivan. If that is a defense of the right of deserters to vote, then make the most of it.

The petition asserts "that the Democratic sheriff and commissioners have placed a large majority of their partisans in the jury-wheel, including a number of deserters, so that deserters and their sympathizing friends are certain to be a majority of every jury." Now, sir, I wish to say right here, that the sheriff and commissioners of Sullivan county are men of high standing, and would scorn to take any advantage in putting the names into the jury-box; they are as free from partisan feelings as any men in the State. The jury is selected without regard to politics, and I think I can establish that fact before I am through. I hold in my hand lists of the juries drawn in the year 1866, and for February court, 1867, certified by the prothonotary and commissioners of Sullivan county.

By a special act of Assembly but two jury courts are held each year; but a third or a fourth can be, if deemed necessary by the court.

Three jury courts were held in 1866, viz: February, May and December.

You will remember that I referred to the fact asserted in the petition, "that the county is intensely Democratic"—that we polled nearly a two-thirds vote. Let us see how the juries were composed. In the traverse jury, of February, 1866, I find the names of ten Republicans and twenty-one Democrats, and five whose political proclivities are to me unknown. On the traverse jury, of May, 1866, I find sixteen Republicans and seventeen Democrats, and three unknown. I defy any gentleman to show as fair a record in Pennsylvania. On the traverse jury, of December, 1866, there were twelve Republicans and twenty-two Democrats, and two unknown. For the grand jury, of February, 1867, now drawn, there are eight Republicans, fifteen Democrats, and one not known. On the traverse jury, for February, 1867, there are eleven Republicans, twenty-one Democrats, and four not known. No, sir, if you take all those unknown, and add them to the Democrats you still have over one-third of those juries who were Republicans; if you would add the unknown to the other side you would have nearly half that were Republicans.

Let us go still further. I see that the Senator from Bradford [Mr. LANSON] has in his hand what I think is the petition sent in here. While he is glancing at it, let me refer to the fact that ten of those men who signed that petition were drawn as jurors in 1866, namely:

John Warburton, grand, February, 1866.
William Glidewell, grand, February, 1866.
Joseph Rogers, grand, February, 1866.
C. M. Boyles, traverse, February, 1866.
Jesse Moyleaux, traverse, February, 1866.
J. H. Rogers, traverse, May, 1866.
Ed. Warburton, traverse, May, 1866.
E. M. Frost, traverse, May, 1866.

Jonathan Rogers, grand, December, 1866.
Joseph McCarty, traverse, December, 1866.
And, sir, further than that, four more of these petitioners are drawn on the jury for February, 1867, and before some of them this trial will take place, if not removed to Bradford county. I refer to the names of David Moyleaux, Jonas Bradford, Joseph Hately and J. R. Bird. And yet these gentlemen have the audacity to come here and complain of the manner of drawing the jury in the county of Sullivan. I ask any gentleman here to set aside some sixteen, whom I have been informed are minors, and take the balance of the number in that petition and go into any county in the Commonwealth, and see if he can pick out one hundred names in that county, and in that one hundred find as many persons who have been drawn on juries as there are in this instance.

But I am not done with that petition yet. I will ask the Senator from Bradford [Mr. LANSON] to read the two first names on that petition, Henry Norton and John Norton, two very loyal men, who come here and ask for justice, and for protection from the deserters, and who, I have been credibly informed, were two of the very first men that walked from the draft in the county of Sullivan. They showed their loyalty, sir, in going to Canada, or hiding in the woods; and they come here and complain that the Democrats want to give deserters the right to vote. Go further, sir. I hold in my hand the certificate of the non-reporting drafted men from the very list which you sent into Sullivan county in 1866. I find on that list the name of Abel McCarty—another very loyal man whose name is attached to that petition. This man, Abel McCarty, is published in this list as a deserter—a pretty man to preach loyalty to the Democratic party of Sullivan county, and say that we sympathize with deserters. Now, let me tell you another thing. This petition starts out with the assertion that those election officers of the Elkland district, of Sullivan county, have been indicted, by the grand jury of said county, for refusing the vote of John C. Warburton, a well known deserter. A well known deserter, indeed. Where is the evidence that John C. Warburton is a well known deserter, or that he ever deserted?

It is true, Mr. Speaker, that the vote of John C. Warburton was refused. But his name is not found on the certified list, nor on the records sent to Sullivan county. It was only the wickedness of the hearts of those men, or their partisan feelings, that caused this difficulty. There was no evidence, as I have said, before the election board that the vote of John C. Warburton was refused. You cannot find any evidence on the record that he was a deserter; and now they come here and make the assertion that he was a well known deserter. The gentleman from Bradford county, in the House [Mr. KINNEY], referred to the very "patriotic class of citizens who fought Lee in Canada," etc. I would advise the gentleman not to be so very hard upon his Republican friends of Sullivan county. He thought the stump speeches he used in Bradford county would do to use in the hall of the House of Representatives, and thought they would apply to the Democratic party when, unfortunately, they applied more to his own friends than to the Democratic party. Communications have been sent to the papers of Bradford and Sullivan counties, by some person claiming to be an outsider, but who, I believe, is a member, in which they have endeavored to excite and get up a partisan feeling, in which they say justice cannot be done unless this case is transferred. I am anxious that, wherever this case is tried, it shall be tried on the merits of the case, without partisan feelings entering into it. I believe that can be done in the county of Sullivan; I believe it cannot be done in the county of Bradford.

I think the member of the other branch made a great mistake in exciting partisan feelings in Bradford county. The other member from Bradford [Mr. WEBB] made a statement in the House, in regard to which I wish to say that he was laboring under a wrong impression. He said that circulars had been issued, there signed by myself and others, in which it was agreed to defray the expenses of deserters, provided we could have their votes. For my part, I never saw or signed a circular of that kind. The only position I ever took, I took openly, before the people of Sullivan, in my speeches. I do not wish to say that he misstated the case knowingly. I think now he acknowledges he was wrong.

Now, sir, this change will put the costs on Sullivan county unjustly. That bill proposes that all of the costs and expenses of the change of venue shall be paid by the commissioners of the county of Sullivan. I do not know the intentions of those who drafted the bill. I think, for my part, that it should be put in a different shape, and left for the costs to follow the suit.

Now, sir, I wish to state, further, that this petition wrongs Judge Elwell. Judge Elwell has charged the jury that, in indictments against officers of elections, for rejecting votes—and he has so charged the jury in every case of the kind before him—that they could not be convicted without its being established by the evidence that the defendant knew the party offering his vote was a legal voter, and yet rejected his vote. If a judge, or inspector, acting upon his best judgment, honestly rejects a vote as illegal, he cannot be convicted of a misdemeanor, although he was mistaken as to the law. He can only be punished when he acts corruptly—not for the honest exercise of his judgment.

Now, I wish to ask any member in this Senate if he would ask any judge to decide differently. Judge Elwell is an honest, upright and conscientious man, and as a man and as a judge, we are all proud of him. He says:

"He can only be punished when he acts corruptly, not for the honest exercise of his judgment."

Now, Mr. Speaker, I have another thing to say. I am authorized by the associate judges of the county of Sullivan to state, "that if the election board now standing indicted by the grand jury of the county aforesaid, in the election case of Judge Elwell, in the case in which you purpose to change the venue, may so desire, they will most cheerfully vacate the bench during said trial."

If the gentleman from Bradford will acknowledge, as I think he will, Judge Elwell is an honorable, upright man, he can certainly have no objection to his trying this case alone. The associate judges are willing to vacate the bench during the time of the trial.

Now, sir, it is my duty to refer a little further to this petition. I find at the end of it the following:

"As attorney for the defendant, I respectfully ask that the above petition may be granted, being fully of the opinion that the defendants cannot get a fair trial in Sullivan county."
THOMAS J. INGHAM."

That sounds to me a good deal like the criminal before the court of justice, who began to cry, and did very bad, and the judge remarked to him: "Why, my dear fellow, you shall have justice." "Ah! your Honor, that's just what I am afraid of." Now, sir, this man, Ingham, was indicted and tried before the court in Sullivan county, I think, during the last May session. The evidence showed the fact that he had met a man in the streets, and told him that, if he attempted to vote, he would arrest him as a deserter. Towards evening, this man—Peterman—offered his vote, and Ingham and others grabbed him, tore his clothes off, and kept him under arrest until after the election had closed, and then gave him the hint that he could escape through the back yard. The evidence for the prosecution showed this fact. It was shown that he had arrested his man for the purpose of keeping him from voting; and yet, sir, this jury, with all their partisan feelings, brought in a verdict of "not guilty," but defendants pay the costs. Even Mr. Ingham, while the jury was out, acknowledged that there was nothing under the heavens that could prevent a verdict of "guilty" being rendered. That shows that we do not do things quite as rashly and with as much partisan feelings as we are accused of, or perhaps as we ought to.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I do not wish to detain the Senate any longer. But I wish to say here, that there is no evidence in the possession of the Senate that these parties have made an affidavit that they could not get a fair trial in Sullivan county; there is no evidence going to show that they cannot have a fair trial—only this solitary petition here presented. If this bill is passed, it will pass for merely political reasons, and for that only; and Senators in casting their votes, will do so on political grounds, and for no other reason.

Mr. LANDON. Mr. Speaker, I am really much obliged to the Senator from Sullivan [Mr. JACKSON] for his courtesy in voting with me to take up this bill. I have always regarded the Senator as a courteous gentleman, and that was a convincing argument that I was correct. I have but one word to say in regard to this thing. His speech has convinced me of one thing—that the disease permeates not only the Democratic party, but the Republican party. Taking his statement as correct, the morals must be so degenerated over there, that there must be a necessity for removing this case. I think it is fortunate that both parties should be infected with the virus. If Mr. Warburton, whose vote was refused, was not a deserter—if his name was not on the list—that fact will be made apparent before the tribunal in Bradford. That is all I have to say to that. In regard to Mr. Elwell's ruling, I do not know how he would rule in Sullivan, but I know how he did rule in Wyoming county. The case was brought up, and he ruled, there, that they had to be fined. The costs were imposed upon them, and they were fined fifty dollars a piece, and have been to the Governor to have the fine remitted; and if I was assured of the Kingdom of Heaven as I am of his ruling, and the consequences thereof, in Sullivan, I should consider the case very doubtful.

Now, here is a petition asking for a change of venue and giving reasons therefor. That petition is signed by one hundred and twenty men, citizens of Sullivan county. At the bottom of it I find these words:

"As attorney for the defendants, I respectfully ask that the above petition may be granted, being fully of opinion that the defendants cannot get a fair trial in Sullivan county."

This is signed by Thos. J. Ingham, an ex-member of the House. That is his certificate. Upon that ground I ask the Senate to change the venue and take the case over to Bradford county, where a board was arrested, last fall, for refusing deserters' votes, and which was brought before the grand jury, about one-fourth part of whom were Democrats; and, sir, they ignored the bill and put the costs upon the prosecutor. That is the way we do justice in Bradford county. We say, change this venue, and take it over there, and whatever is just shall be done, and all parties will be satisfied in the end. We want this bill passed. I might make a long speech, but it is unnecessary.

Mr. JACKSON. One word in relation to the case in Wyoming county. Judge Elwell charged the jury, and here are his words:

"They could not be convicted without its being established, by the evidence, that the defendants knew the party offering his vote was a legal vote, and yet rejected his vote. If a judge or inspector, acting upon his best judgment, honestly rejected a vote as illegal, he cannot be convicted of a misdemeanor, although he was mistaken as to the law. He can only be punished when he acts corruptly—not for the honest exercise of his judgment."

Mr. LOWRY. Mr. Speaker, I will not detain the Senate, but would inquire of the Senator, who has just taken his seat, whether it has not been customary in these Halls, for the last twenty years, to change the venue when a man comes here, and by his counsel represents that he cannot have a fair trial without he gets a change of venue? Do not you do it for a horse thief, and the murderer, and the house breaker? It is a glorious thing, Mr. Speaker, for a man to think that he has a fair trial; and you may do it for the highest criminals, and the Democracy will not proclaim against it; but when a man comes here to carry out our own law, and you attempt to lay a heavy hand upon him, because we would vote to give him the same impartial trial that you would vote to give the house breaker, then it is all wrong. Then we have a lecture upon the impropriety of the act. I reported the bill to protect every man in this Commonwealth that had carried out the law of the last session of the Legislature. That bill I hold in my hand. I hope that it will be acted upon speedily, and that all who have carried out the law that we passed shall be protected, and the courts where they are prosecuted, shall pay the costs.

Mr. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, I have no desire to enter into the general merits of this question. The remarks of the Senator from Erie [Mr. LOWRY] compel me to speak briefly. He demands a trial for all men. This should mean deserters as well as the horse thief. By your act of last year you convict a man before you try him, and you compel your election boards to reject his vote; that is the legal effect, the practical workings of your system. By that infamous bill this great personal right—the enjoyment of the elective franchise—is wiped out of existence, and the greatest right that men hold in a government—the right of a man to be tried by a jury of his peers, before he is punished for any offense—is simply thrust out of that system.

Such are the workings of the act of 1866. Do to the meanness of your citizens that justice which you would do to the highest. The transcript of the record in the provost marshal's office, is the record of the trial and conviction of the deserter; and that, brought to the election board, rejects his vote. He has not been tried. The question whether he is actually a deserter, does not come up—the mere fact as shown by the record of conviction, is the right of trial by jury? That is the great right for which we contend. It is not a question as to whether a man should or should not receive his vote when convicted as a deserter, but it is the great principle that lies at the base of our form of government, that all men, before they are convicted and punished for an infamous crime, shall be tried by a jury of their peers.—Upon that great principle we place ourselves, and by it we shall stand as our party has stood ever since the Government was formed. Yes, sir, this right not only underlies our Constitution and form of government, but ever since the days of Magna Charta in Great Britain, ever since the Barons wrested from King John the great charter of their liberty, this right has been precious to the freemen throughout the world. Let me answer the Senator in regard to the number of changes of venue. I have taken the trouble to look at the books for ten years past." In 1856 there was one change of venue; in 1857 there was none; in 1858 there were two; in 1859 there were none; in 1860 there was none; in 1861 there was none; in 1862 there was none; in 1863 there was one; in 1864 there were four; in 1865 there were four; in 1866 there were nine. This is the mode in which you are securing the right of trial by a jury of the vicinage; and all of these changes of venue are from Democratic counties to Republican counties. Why is this? We find five times as many changes of venue within the last three years, as in all the seven years preceding. There is some reason for this. You are not willing to trust the administration of the law to the men sworn to administer them.—Hence, we find a large increase of changes of venue for purely political reasons. These are the facts; it is for you to explain why they are the facts.

Mr. M'CONAUGHY. Mr. Speaker, I have listened, sir, to the Senator on my left [Mr. JACKSON], who resisted the passage of this bill, and as he progressed and developed his ideas on the subject, a doubt no longer remained in my mind that I should vote for a change of venue in this case. The question of the guilt or innocence of the defendants should be determined by a tribunal wholly free from partiality and injustice, and the spirit betrayed by the Senator representing, as I supposed he does, the highest tone, the most elevated type of sentiments in the county of Sullivan, when he characterized the unloyal people of this Commonwealth who undertook to sustain the law upon the statute book of the State, and to enforce it, and to inflict its penalties—when he characterized these citizens as hounds, who could longer hesitate as to the virus, the animus, the spirit which would control the court were they allowed to decide this matter in that county? I could not, sir.

It was fitting, sir, that the Senator from Clearfield [Mr. WALLACE] should have followed in this resistance to the change of venue. In the year 1866, after the passage of the statute of last year, I read an order emanating from the headquarters of Democracy in this State, advising that the statute of 1866 should be nullified—in the spirit and language of South Carolina in 1832—that it should be treated as naught, and that the Democratic party of the State should have the aid of the Democratic district attorneys and president judges in the Commonwealth in order to utterly nullify and destroy a statute of the Commonwealth. And, sir, if I mistake not in the reading of that document, signed by the chairman of the Democratic Central Committee of Pennsylvania [Mr. WALLACE], it instructed them, in certain contingencies, that these men called deserters, under the ban of this State law, should be transported from Republican townships to Democratic townships, in order that their votes might be put into the ballot-boxes. I think I did not misread the document, sir. I do not think it strange, then, that the Senator [Mr. WALLACE] should come to the defense of the Senator from Sullivan [Mr. JACKSON] in resisting the passage of this act. We have been told that the statute of last year deprived of the right of trial by jury. The necessity which required the passage of this act, based upon the act of Congress, was to provide for want, sir? Why, sir, even in the very crisis of the war, just when the fate of this nation trembled in the balance, a hundred thousand men, sir—more men than composed the army of the Potomac that fought around my devoted home—a hundred thousand men had deserted your arms and abandoned their loyalty, had turned their backs upon their country, sir; and not only that, they were to be tried before the jurisdiction, gone to Canada and the far West. The laws on the subject of desertion were strong enough, so far as the penalty provided was concerned; for they inflicted the punishment of death. But the difficulty which urgently called for a remedy was the absence of these recalcitrant men from jurisdiction, keeping themselves beyond arrest, trial and conviction; and I say, sir, that that act of Congress is just and legal. For a hundred years in England, at common law, and by statute, a man who had deserted the law and by statute, a man who had deserted the jurisdiction was declared an outlaw, and if the doctrine of an outlawry is right, I ask when, in the history of any country, was there a government in which it was more fully justified than in that act of Congress passed on the 3d of March, 1865? Was there not abundant ground for a declaration of outlawry? Men abandoned their allegiance, forswore their fealty, turned their backs upon their Government and fled their country; and it is that reason that statute was passed, and it was just and right, sir. Congress, under the Constitution, has the power to deprive of citizenship of the United States; and for good cause, and for reasons based on the highest and soundest public policy, it enacted the statute of March 3, 1865, which visited with the consequences of outlawry with deprivations of citizenship, those faithless men who deserted our flag and the country, in its hour of direst extremity, and voluntarily made themselves outlaws.

And 'now, sir, Pennsylvania, which allows no man to vote unless he is a citizen of the United States, provided by legislative enactment that those men who were thus deprived of citizenship of the United States should not vote at its ballot-boxes. And that law is just in all its provisions. Let the gentlemen look at the statute. It allowed the party that might be disfranchised for desertion to disprove the desertion by proof, on his own examination, under oath.

Mr. JACKSON. I stated that it was true that, by your act of June 4th, 1866, you allowed him to vote, on his proving that he was not a deserter, but that it did not take his name from the list, which, by that act, is filed in the county archives, and ever afterwards he and his children must be branded, and be denounced as a deserter.

Mr. M'CONAUGHY. Then let us pass additional legislation by which these rolls shall be corrected and made perfect. I will join in adding any proper amendment to that end. Let this legislation be made perfect. But, Mr. Speaker, I repeat that the statute is a right and a just one. It allowed proof and enabled the oath of the citizen to put himself right if he is not properly returned on the rolls.

It is guarded at every possible point, sir, and in regard to statutes of that kind. And to go back to the point from which I was brought into these more extended remarks: When a statute of that kind cannot be impartially enforced in a county, and the Senator who represents it in this chamber characterizes that class of loyal men, who seek to honestly enforce the laws, as hounds, I say, sir, that it affords a demonstration as clear as the sun at mid day that this change of venue should be made.

Mr. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, the Senator has deigned to introduce my record in the past. He is entirely welcome to speak of my record that I have made, either upon this floor or in any other of my public acts. What I have done I shall stand by. It is fitting that the Senator from Adams [Mr. M'CONAUGHY] should sing peans of praise to the deserters' bill of 1865 as he occupies his seat by the rejection of the votes of alleged deserters. It comes with befitting grace. He was the father of that bill and does right in defending his handling. I trust that the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania will very soon settle the question of the constitutionality of that law. There are cases pending that will settle it; and then the Senator from Adams and those with whom he acts will be satisfied, I do not doubt; and he and I will bow with submission to the fiat of the Supreme Court.

Mr. M'CONAUGHY. Mr. Speaker, I am reminded of a historical fact by the remarks of the Senator. I have not forgotten that pending this great struggle the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania decided on a preliminary injunction and allowed it to remain intact, declaring that the General Government should not come into the bounds of this Commonwealth to enforce the draft, and fill up the ranks of its defenders; and I remember that the people took the first opportunity furnished by a popular election to change that court, and that as a consequence of that change the right of the Government to go on to enforce the draft and fill up the armies was sustained by the people, and the Government went successfully through that conflict. And trusting in the same Providence, I hope that before nine months have passed that the people will exercise their reserved power, the potency that exists in the ballot, and that, at least, before the final decision shall be made, the people in their wisdom shall so constitute and organize the Supreme Court, that a decision in the interest of loyalty and the country will be made, and which will sustain the statute and carry us speedily and successfully through this issue.

A motion was then made that the Senate do now adjourn.

The SPEAKER. I have learned that there seems to be some undue excitement and some misapprehension in the minds of members of the co-ordinate branch of the Legislature, as to what the rules of the Senate are. Whilst it is the desire of the Speaker to enforce the rules, and considers himself competent to enforce them, and while he doubts not the rules of the Senate are understood by every member of the Senate, it is manifestly unfair to the presiding officer of this body, as well as to the body itself, to expect that we can COMPEL others to read or understand them. I find certain rules adopted for our government and convenience and I will enforce them. Whether any person, not a member of the Senate, understands them or not is a matter for them. I have made an order, save to direct the officers to enforce the present rules—the rules of last year and the rules for many years. And I desire to say to the very gentlemanly officers, the Sergeant-at-Arms and his assistants, Door-keepers, etc.—than whom I have never seen better, more polite and courteous to Senators, and members of the House when they come over here, always on hand and ever efficient and active—I have made no rule, issued no order, except that the standing rules of this body shall be enforced. I find amongst the rules of the Senate one that has been in force for a very long time, which reads as follows:

XXV. No person shall be admitted within the bar of the Senate during its sessions, except the members and officers of the two branches of the Legislature, the Governor, Heads of Departments, ex-members of the Legislature, and stenographers, who may desire to report proceedings of the Senate for publication, under the direction of the Speaker; nor shall any person be admitted within the lobby of the Senate, except such as shall be invited by a member of the Senate. No person or persons shall be permitted to occupy the seats of Senators, or pass across the floor of the Senate when the Senate is in session; nor shall any person or persons, at any time, be permitted to enter the room of the Transcribing Clerks, or the recess behind the chair of the Speaker, except the members and officers of the General Assembly.

To the officers: It is my duty to order you to enforce this rule. You will do so in the future as in the past. It is not necessary for me to tell you that this does not prevent the members of the House from coming into the Senate. Whenever they come over here you will receive them courteously, and admit them to the passage-ways of the Senate chamber; and at the same time you will keep the central passage-way clear, so that I can receive the Secretary of the Commonwealth, and the Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth, and the officers of the House, who come here to present messages. I shall make no further order, except that these rules shall be enforced, and for your faithful discharge of the duties of your several positions in the past, you have my thanks and public acknowledgments.

The hour of one o'clock having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the Senate until this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Senate reassembled at 3 o'clock, P. M.

Agreeably to order, The Senate resumed the consideration of bill entitled An act to change the venue in the case of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania versus Jesse R. M'Carthy, Joshua R. M'Carthy and Charles Morton, from the court of quarter sessions of the peace of Sullivan county, to the court of quarter sessions of the peace of Bradford county.

The bill was read.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, the debate which took place this morning on this bill, took rather a wider range than was at all necessary, but I hope that the Senate will decide this bill on its merits, and not from any feeling of passion, prejudice or irritation, but decide it simply and solely upon its merits. There have been, already, this session, several bills of a similar character passed, but in no one case has the change of venue been asked for unless the request was so recommended by some reason other than mere politics. And I hope and trust that the Senate will hesitate long before they set a precedent of this kind—before they say that the rule shall be that when a Republican is prosecuted in a Democratic county, and asks that his case shall be taken to a Republican county, without asking any more questions upon it, I hope this Senate will not vote to let it be done. I know that Senators on the other side will admit, and feel convinced in their hearts, that such conduct would be disgraceful in the extreme. Some ground has always been made, some reason has always been given, whenever parties have come to the Legislature of Pennsylvania to ask for a change of venue. Now, sir, what grounds have been urged in this case? None whatever. There has not yet been the slightest attempt made by the gentleman who has this bill in charge, to show that there are any substantial reasons why the defendants in this case cannot have fair, equal, and impartial justice in Sullivan county. The statement made by the Senator from Sullivan [Mr. JACKSON] this morning, upon his word and honor as a man and a Senator, must be received by us with all the credit to which it is entitled, and Senators are bound to believe what I am certain is the fact, that the Republican party in Sullivan county are fairly represented on the jury of that county, and that in all human probability, should all cases be tried in Sullivan, one-third or one half of the jury would be Republicans. Then where would these men be exposed to injustice? One solitary Republican upon that jury would have power to control the case, and prevent a verdict of guilty against these men. I cannot see any injury to these men from being tried in Sullivan county. It is not even alleged by the gentleman who has charge of the bill that the juries can be so composed that these men could not get justice done—that their friends would not be represented on that jury. He can show all that. Then, in case the men should be convicted, why, you have the Governor to go to get a pardon, which is always ready if there is any injustice in the case. And I ask the Senate whether they are satisfied to make this case a precedent—because I do contend that it is different from any that has been before us this winter. As a member of the Committee on Local Judiciary, I have had occasion to see and hear read all bills of this character that have made their appearance, and I can say with confidence that not a single bill has been sent here but what was accompanied by the statement of some reason which should influence Senators in granting a change of venue, other than that the person was a Republican, and the county in which he was to be tried was a Democratic county.

Gentlemen know that parties in this country, like individuals, are mortal; they do not live forever. I am certain that they will admit that their tenure of power is not to last forever.

Do gentlemen wish to set an example of this kind, that we shall be bound to follow when our turn comes? And when that event happens, do they wish cases to be changed, and taken from Republican counties and carried to Democratic counties, whenever we ask for it? Pass this bill and that rule will be made. After the statement made by the Senator from Sullivan, I do not see how gentlemen on the other side, who I know wish to act honestly and fairly, and wish to carry out and do the duties they have taken upon themselves by occupying seats in this Chamber—I do not see how they can vote in favor of this bill. If there were any valid, solid reasons which would influence a man of ordinary judgment and ordinary honesty, I would have nothing to say. We have not, it will be admitted on the other side, made any opposition to other bills of this kind that have been presented, and the reason was, that in every bill of that kind, reasons were given which might amount to valid reasons for a change of venue. But in this case no reasons are alleged which have not been disproved by the Senator. They can run no risk, unless they are satisfied they would be convicted.

I do trust the Senate will be governed in deciding upon this case, simply upon the merits of the case. I think it will be unfortunate if they act otherwise. But if any gentleman on the other side can give me any sound reason why this bill should pass, I will here promise to vote for it.

Mr. SPEAKER. I think that a little longer time should be taken in considering this question. I think Senators all should think over this matter coolly and quietly, before they take the step they are asked to take in passing this bill. I do not think any hardship will arise from it, or injustice. In order that that may be done, I move, Mr. Speaker, that this bill be postponed for the present, and on that I call the yeas and nays.

Mr. LANDON. I hope the motion will be voted down.

On the question,
Will the Senate agree to the motion?
The yeas and nays were required by Mr. DAVIS and Mr. M'CANDLESS, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Browne (Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Burnett, Davis, Donovan, Glatz, Jackson, James, M'Candleless, Randall, Searith, Wallace and Walls—13.

NAYS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingfelt, Coleman, Connell, Cowles, Haines, Landon, M'Conasghy, Ridgway, Royer, Shoemaker, Stutzman, Taylor, White, Worthington and Hall, Speaker—16.

So the question was determined in the negative.
The bill was then laid over for a third reading.

PITTSBURG AND CONNELLSVILLE RAILROAD.

Agreeably to order,
The Senate proceeded to the consideration of bill entitled An act to repeal an act of the General Assembly of the State of Pennsylvania, which became a law on the 19th day of August, 1864, entitled An act relative to the Pittsburg and Connelleville railroad company.

The question was on the first section, which was read.

Mr. COLEMAN moved to postpone the further consideration of the bill for the present, and take up the private calendar.

Mr. RIDGWAY. Mr. Speaker, I object to any postponement of this bill. It is well known that three or four Senators wish to make speeches of three or four hours' length, and they can do this afternoon as well as any time. I should like to dispose of this bill as soon as possible.

Mr. LOWRY. Mr. Speaker, I think this is a snap judgment on the part of the Senator on my right. A large meeting was held last evening, and a committee of citizens from Allegheny are to come on here to-day. If the Senate is disposed to be as fair with this bill as any other, I think they will postpone it. Those opposed to the bill ask us to call it up, because they think they have got the Senators from Allegheny in a position to ride rough-shod over them. I trust, as a matter of courtesy between Senators, the bill will be postponed.

Mr. RIDGWAY. I had no such idea at all. My idea is to have these gentlemen make their speeches this afternoon. We can have them inflicted upon us now as well as at any other time. My friend, Mr. BIGHAM, I am sure will take three hours.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, I have been engaged on a committee, and am not aware what the question is under discussion.

THE SPEAKER. A motion was made to postpone the Connellsville railroad bill for the present, and take up the private calendar.

Mr. BIGHAM. It does not take a two-thirds vote to postpone the question.

THE SPEAKER said it would require a two-thirds vote to take up any other subject.

Mr. LOWRY. Does it take a two-thirds vote to adjourn?

THE SPEAKER. No, sir.

Mr. LOWRY. I move that the House do now adjourn.

THE SPEAKER. That takes precedence. On the question,
Will the Senate agree to the motion?
The yeas and nays were required by Mr. CONNELL and Mr. LOWRY, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingfelt, Browne (Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Coleman, Cowles, Davis, Graham, Lowry, Searith, Stutzman, Taylor, Wallace and White—14.

NAYS—Messrs. Burnett, Connell, Donovan, Fisher, Glatz, Haines, Jackson, James, Landon, M'Candleless, M'Conasghy, Randall, Ridgway, Royer, Shoemaker, Walls, Worthington and Hall, Speaker—18.

So the question was determined in the negative.

The question then recurred on the motion of Mr. COLEMAN to postpone the bill and take up the private calendar.

The motion of Mr. COLEMAN was not agreed to.

Mr. BIGHAM. Mr. Speaker, I move that the bill in reference to the Connellsville railroad be postponed until to-morrow morning.

On the question,
Will the Senate agree to the motion?
The yeas and nays were required by Mr. RIDGWAY and Mr. TAYLOR, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingfelt, Browne (Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Coleman, Cowles, Davis, Graham, Lowry, Searith, Stutzman, Taylor, Wallace and White—14.

NAYS—Messrs. Burnett, Connell, Fisher, Glatz, Haines, Jackson, James, Landon, M'Candleless, M'Conasghy, Randall, Ridgway, Royer, Shoemaker, Walls, Worthington and Hall, Speaker—17.

So the question was determined in the negative.
The question recurring on the first section an extended debate followed, which will appear in the Appendix.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, returned bills from the Senate numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

No. 47, an act relative to the road laws in certain townships in Sullivan county.

No. 815, a further supplement to an act to incorporate the Pittsburg, Allegheny and Manchester passenger railway company, authorizing said company to change certain parts of its route, to subscribe for stock in a new bridge, and to have voters appointed to fix compensation for crossing bridges.

With information that the House of Representatives passed the same without amendment.

The Senate then adjourned until to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THURSDAY, February 14, 1867.

The House met at 10 o'clock, A. M.
Prayer was offered by the Rev. JACOB KENNEDY, member from Wyoming.

The SPEAKER announced a quorum of members present.

The Journal of yesterday was pauly read, when,

On motion of Mr. LEE, the further reading of the same was dispensed with.

SPEAKER'S TABLE.

The SPEAKER laid before the House the following communication from the State Treasurer:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT OF PENN'A, }
HARRISBURG, February 13, 1867. }

To the Hon. John P. Glass, Speaker of the House of Representatives:

I compliance with the joint resolution, passed February, 1867, I send you what I conceive to be a proper apportionment of three hundred thousand dollars on personal estate, among the counties of this Commonwealth.

Very respectfully yours,
W. H. KEMBLE,
State Treasurer.

Apportionment of Personal Property.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker. I desire to make a statement at this time.

Leave was granted.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, to-day is the regular day for the consideration of the bills on the public calendar. Yesterday the regular order was necessarily crowded out by reason of the private calendar, and the committees did not have an opportunity to make their reports.

I desire to offer a resolution at this time, providing that we shall take up the order of business which should have been taken up yesterday—that of reports from committees, &c., and that we set apart this afternoon for the consideration of the public calendar. Unless something of this kind is done, bills in the hands of committees will not get upon the private calendar next week. Unless these bills now in the hands of committees get into the hands of the Clerks to-day, they cannot get upon the private calendar for next Tuesday.

I therefore ask that the rules may be suspended that I may offer a resolution.

Leave was granted.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following resolution.

The resolution was read as follows:

Resolved, That the orders of the day belonging to yesterday, and which were set aside for the consideration of the private calendar, shall be gone through with this morning; and the House will hold a special session this afternoon at 5 o'clock, to consider the public calendar.

The resolution was read a second time, and

Agreed to.

REPORT FROM AN INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE.

Mr. STUMBAUGE, from the select committee, appointed to investigate the charges of bribery and corruption connected with the election of United States Senator, made the following report:

The undersigned, a committee appointed under a joint resolution by the Legislature, passed January 8th, A. D. 1867, and charged with the duty of investigating alleged improper influences in connection with the election of a United States Senator, on the 15th ult., report the following as the result of their investigation in the premises:

On the day upon which the committee was appointed, they met and organized, and at once proceeded to the examination of witnesses. The committee continued to meet from day to day until all the witnesses, suggested to them, had been examined.

They then gave a general invitation to any person to appear before the committee, and give such information as he might possess touching the subject under inquiry, and after waiting some ten days or more (no one appearing), the committee ceased their labors.

No evidence was produced to implicate any member of this Legislature in the alleged corruption, nor were any of the distinguished persons named in connection with the office of United States Senator in any manner therein involved.

The evidence in detail taken by the committee is herewith presented for the information of the two Houses. All of which is respectfully submitted.

F. S. STUMBAUGH,
J. N. MARKS,
L. WESTBROOK,

Committee on the part of the House.

MORROW B. LOWRY,
THOS. B. SEARIGHT,
JAS. L. GRAHAM,

Committee on the part of the Senate.

The following evidence was also submitted: The committee, appointed under the joint resolution of the Legislature passed on the 8th day of January, 1867, met and organized the same day in Senate committee room No. 6. Present, Messrs. Stumbaugh, Marks and Westbrook, of the House, and Messrs. Lowry and Graham, of the Senate.

Mr. Lowry reported that he had requested Senator White to appear before the committee. Mr. White appeared and stated that he had no knowledge whatever, personally, on the subject of inquiry before this committee. That no one had ever approached him improperly on the subject of the election of a United States Senator. He gave the names of Senators Bigham and Haines, and Representative Mechling to the committee as witnesses to substantiate the charges made by him in the Senate. He also desired that A. B. M'Clain be called before the committee.

The chairman was requested to cause the above mentioned persons to appear before the committee on Monday at 9 o'clock.

Mr. Lowry further reported that he had called upon Colonel John W. Forney, at the State Capitol Hotel in this city, and requested Mr. Forney to appear before this committee and give any evidence which he might possess, concerning the matters referred to the committee for inquiry. Mr. Forney replied that he had no knowledge, personally, which would implicate any one in the attempt to induce members to vote by the use of improper means. Mr. Lowry further stated, that he had requested Col. Forney to apprise the committee of any names of persons who might be able to substantiate the charges made in his newspaper, and bring with him counsel to cross-examine the witnesses. Mr. Forney answered that this was entirely fair, but he had no knowledge of anything which would implicate any one. The same member of the committee reported that similar invitations had been given to the Senators from Lancaster county, as the friends of Hon. Thaddeus Stevens, and to many other persons to come before the committee and testify on the matters submitted for their examination.

Adjourned.

JANUARY 14, 1867.

The committee met pursuant to adjournment, the following members being present: Messrs. Stumbaugh, Marks and Westbrook, of the House, and Lowry, Graham and Sea-right, of the Senate; when Mr. Lowry announced that he had called upon Senator Bigham and requested him to meet the committee to-day. Mr. Stumbaugh reported that he had asked Mr. Mechling to meet the committee. Senator Graham also reported that he had requested Senator Haines to appear and testify.

The following persons appeared, were sworn, and testified:

Mr. A. B. M'Clain, being duly sworn, declared that he knew nothing whatever of the subject of inquiry.

QUESTION. (By Mr. Lowry.) Has any member of either branch of the Legislature told you that any money, or other valuable consideration, had been offered to him for his vote?

ANSWER. A member of the House of Representatives told me he thought if he would vote for Cameron, the General would help his father to get an office, but I have no personal knowledge of the fact.

Mr. Mechling appeared and was sworn. Q. (By Mr. Stumbaugh.) Do you know of any corrupt means or undue influences being used, by any person or persons, to secure the election of a United States Senator?

A. I positively do not.

Q. (By Mr. Stumbaugh.) Did any person tell you that he knew that money, or corrupt influences of any kind, were used to elect a United States Senator, at the present session of the Legislature?

A. No, sir; no one did.

Q. (By Mr. Stumbaugh.) Do you know of any matter or thing, which would enable this committee to prove corruption, on the part of any candidate, named for the office of United States Senator?

A. No, sir. The newspapers talk about this, but I have no knowledge whatever of any corrupt appliances in the canvass.

F. M. CHILING, was sworn and affirmed.

Q. (By Mr. Stumbaugh.) Senator White requested that you should be called before the committee to testify. Have you any knowledge of any corrupt means being used to procure the election of a United States Senator?

A. I have not. Mr. White had neither authority or right to use my name in such connection.

KIRK HAINES.

Senator Bigham appeared and was sworn. Q. (By Mr. Stumbaugh.) Have you any personal knowledge of any corrupt means being used to influence your own vote, or that of others, during the Senatorial canvass?

A. I have no such personal knowledge. I have probably been called before you in consequence of an exaggerated rumor of a conversation between one of my own constituents and myself, in regard to this subject. Before leaving home, Charles Wood, an iron manufacturer, was urging me to vote for General Cameron. My own recollection of that conversation was that Mr. Wood was willing to interest me to the extent of one thousand or fifteen hundred dollars, if I would work and vote for General Cameron. Through a mutual friend of myself and Mr. Wood, I have recently learned that Mr. Wood's recollection of this interview is, that his own interests would be promoted to that extent by the election of General Cameron, that gentleman being a well known friend of protection for the iron interests. Mr. Wood is no politician, however. He is not in any way connected, by blood or marriage, that I know of, with General Cameron, and it is possible he meant nothing beyond what he avers to be his recollection of our conversation. I prefer not to give the details of that conversation. He never offered to pay me anything, and his conversation did not in any manner influence my vote or action. Mr. Wood disavowed, at the time, any authority from any one to make me any offer of any kind.

T. J. BIGHAM.

The committee adjourned to meet at the call of the chairman.

JANUARY 10th, 1867.

Called to meet by the chairman, the committee assembled in room No. 3 of the Senate committee rooms. Present, Messrs. Stumbaugh, Marks and Westbrook, of the House, and Messrs. Lowry, Graham and Seight, of the Senate.

Mr. C. D. Brigham appeared and was sworn.

Q. (By the chairman.) What is your occupation?

A. I am editor of the Pittsburg Commercial.

Q. What, if anything, do you know about corrupt means or influences having been used to secure the election of any person to the office of United States Senator?

A. In the language of the resolution, it is commonly charged that corrupt means were used. Of the truth of the charge I have no positive knowledge.

Q. (By Mr. Lowry.) Have you any other knowledge?

A. No other than the assertion of others in whom I confide.

Q. (By Mr. Lowry.) We want facts. If you know any please state them.

A. It is a fact that it is a common rumor, but I know of no fact which proves it.

C. D. BRIGHAM.

Adjourned to meet at the call of the chairman.

JANUARY 17th, 1867.

At the call of the chairman the committee met.

Bartiel T. Campbell appeared and was sworn.

Q. (By the chairman.) What is your occupation?

A. I am editor of the Pittsburg Leader.

Q. (By same.) Do you know of any corrupt means or undue influences having been used by any person or persons, in order to secure the election of any person to the office of United States Senator?

A. I do not.

B. T. CAMPBELL.

Adjourned to meet at the call of the chairman.

JANUARY 22d, 1867.

The committee met at the call of the chairman. Present, Messrs. Lowry and Graham, of the Senate, and Messrs. Stumbaugh, Marks and Westbrook, of the House.

Mr. B. F. Lynn appearing he was sworn.

Q. (By Mr. Lowry.) Where do you reside, and what is your occupation?

A. I reside at Erie, Pennsylvania. I am the editor and publisher of the Erie Dispatch.

Q. (By the same.) Do you know of any money being paid, or other improper influence being exerted to procure the nomination or election of a United States Senator?

A. I have no knowledge of any money being used; but I have knowledge of what is considered improper means having been used.

Q. (By the same.) What were the improper means of which you speak, and upon whom were they used?

A. In a conversation with Colonel McCree, in which I attempted to convince him that he would best subserve the interests of his constituents, and fulfill the pledges he was understood to have made to them, by supporting Governor Curtin for United States Senator, he informed me that Governor Curtin and his friends had refused to sustain him in his application for position; and, that inasmuch as Mr. Cameron and his friends had tendered him the position of Adjutant General of Pennsylvania, he would support Mr. Cameron.

Q. (By Mr. Lowry.) For whom did Colonel McCree vote?

A. So far as I know, or am informed, he voted for Governor Curtin.

Q. (By Mr. Lowry.) Do you know of any other fact, which you deem improper, to procure the election of United States Senator?

A. I have no personal knowledge of any other fact. Hon. J. K. Moorhead assured me that he positively and sacredly believed that corrupt means, in the use of money, and promises of position, had positively been used to effect the nomination of Mr. Cameron.

Q. (By Mr. Lowry.) Did Mr. Moorhead tell you that General Cameron defeated him for the nomination for Governor at the time General Greer received it?

A. No, sir.

Q. (By Mr. Lowry.) Letters having frequently appeared in your paper, dated at Harrisburg, charging corruption on members of the Legislature, will you please state who wrote them?

A. I can give you the information without giving the names. I have talked with them, and am convinced that their statements were made up from street rumors and hotel conversations.

Q. (By the same.) Mr. Lynn, it is important to this committee, for the elucidation of their inquiries, that the names of these correspondents should be given. Will you please give them?

A. I have already given you the information which they gave me, upon their word of honor, as facts.

Q. (By the same.) Mr. Lynn, the committee must insist upon having their names.—Please give them.

A. Their names are sacred to me, and unless I am compelled to give them, I prefer not to give their names.

Q. (By the same.) The cause of justice requires the names of these correspondents, and, if you refuse to give them, we shall refer to the Legislature as being in contempt of its authority, and ask that you may be punished for withholding longer the names which the committee ask for.

(At this point Mr. Lynn requested time to consider, and the committee adjourned until eight o'clock, P. M.)

On the re-assembling of the committee at 8 o'clock, P. M., Mr. Lynn appeared and said, "Upon consultation with authority, find that I am compelled, by the regulations governing such matters, to respond correctly to your question. But, inasmuch as editors are responsible always for the action of their correspondents, and I assume responsibility in this case, the committee will do me a favor if they will relieve me from answering the question; and more especially, because I assure the committee that my correspondents do not know anything personally in relation to this matter."

Upon which Mr. Lynn was relieved from giving the names.

Q. (By Mr. Lowry.) Do you know any other fact or thing that will elucidate the matter under investigation?

A. I do not. B. F. H. LYNN.

Joshua Kames appeared and affirmed.

Q. (By Mr. Stumbaugh.) Where do you reside?

A. At Downingtown, Pennsylvania. I am the owner of the Chester County Journal.

Q. (By the same.) Do you know of any corrupt means or improper influence having been used by any person, or persons, for the purpose of securing the election of any one to the United States Senate?

A. Not of my own knowledge.

Q. (By the same.) Certain articles or editorials appeared in your newspaper intimating that undue influences had been resorted to for the purpose of electing a United States Senator. Upon what were these articles founded?

A. Upon common rumor, and not upon any fact I know of. JOSHUA KAMES.

Adjourned.

FEBRUARY 6th, 1867.

The committee met in Senate committee room, No. 3. Present—Mr. Lowry, of the Senate, and Messrs. Stumbaugh, Westbrook and Marks, of the House.

Colonel McCree appeared and was sworn.

Q. (By Mr. Lowry.) Do you know of any improper means, or undue influences, being used to procure the nomination and election of a United States Senator?

A. I know of none whatever.

Q. (By same.) The appointment of Adjutant General of Pennsylvania has been tendered you. Are you indebted to General Cameron for that appointment?

A. I am indebted to no one, that I know of, for that appointment but Governor Geary.

Q. (By same.) Did you receive the appointment with any conditions attached, or any intimation from Governor Geary, or any one else, that you would be expected to vote for any particular candidate for United States Senator?

A. I did not.

Mr. Lowry said: "We have read the testimony of Mr. Lynn to you. Do you desire to make any statement in regard to it?"

A. Yes. Mr. Lynn and myself had a conversation in relation to the Senatorship, and other matters in connection with the organization of the House, and the State Administration. I said to him that, as a general thing, the friends of Governor Curtin had opposed me in my efforts for the Speakership of the House of Representatives; that they seemed to have united on Colonel Quay. I also told him that the friends of the other Senatorial candidates had, at least, treated me fairly. That Col. Forney had published a very fair article for me in the Philadelphia Press. That the friends of Mr. Stevens had made no effort against me, and that my friends had informed me that, so far as they knew, General Cameron had spoken favorably of my claims for the position; although his personal choice, as I always understood, was either Col. Glass or Mr. Waddell, from the fact that they were personal and political friends. Subsequently, but during the same conversation, I said to Mr. Lynn that a strong effort was being made by some of the opponents of General Cameron to prevent a nomination for United States Senator being made this winter, and thus throw the election over until next winter. The same thing was done a few years ago, and in consequence of this Gov. Bigler was elected at the ensuing session, and that I was afraid, if it were done now, the same result might follow. I said that this effort to prevent a nomination and endanger the election of a Republican, would meet with determined opposition from the great body of the Republicans of both Houses; and farther than run the risk of having Edgar Cowan, or Governor Bigler, or some such man, elected next winter to the United States Senate for six years, I would vote a thousand times for General Cameron and the Republicans of Erie county would justify me in so doing. This was the only contingency in which, I told Lynn, I would vote for General Cameron. When the caucus met, I be-same satisfied that the effort to prevent a nomination had been abandoned, and I then voted for Governor Curtin.

With respect to the Adjutant General, I told Lynn that the friends of all the candidates for United States Senator had, as I understood, advised my appointment, and that they all urged me very strongly to accept it; and none more so than the friends of Governor Curtin. The appointment was made by Governor Geary without any solicitation on my part, and without any conditions whatever on his.

D. B. M'CREARY.

The chairman (Colonel Stumbaugh) now laid before the committee the following communication from Mr. Lynn, dated Erie, Pa., January 24th, 1867:

[Copy.]

Col. Stumbaugh, Chairman Joint Committee of Investigation:

DEAR SIR—From evidence which has been furnished me by Colonel M'Creary, I am satisfied that the testimony which I gave the Joint Investigating Committee in his case, concerning a conversation between him and myself, related, as he has stated to you, to the Speakership, instead of the Adjutant Generalship. This correction I submit for such use as the committee see proper to make of it.

Yours, &c.,

B. F. H. LYNN.

(Signed)

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I move that the rules be suspended to take up the bill which has been passed to third reading, relative to the Pennsylvania railroad company.

It was laid over a day or two ago.
Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, that bill will come up before the orders are gone through with, and there is no use of suspending the rules to consider it.

Mr. QUIGLEY. I call for a division of the question.

Mr. LEE. I insist on my motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to suspend the rules generally?

It was not agreed to.

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in General Assembly met:

We, your petitioners, citizens of Indiana county, learning that petitions are in extensive circulation, praying the repeal of an act, passed the 27th day of March, 1866, entitled An act prohibiting the licensing of any person to sell vinous, spirituous, malt or brewed liquors, or any of them, in the counties of Westmoreland, Blair and Indiana, except to the keepers of hotels, inns or taverns, &c., would present this our remonstrance against such repeal.

We would respectfully represent to your honorable body, that so far from the community in general desiring a repeal of the law, which now lays some little restraint upon the liquor traffic, public opinion is fast awakening to the necessity of still greater stringency thereto; and so far as the law relates to the county of Indiana it has, in fact, never been fully enforced, by reason that applications were made and licenses granted before the passage of said act, and, in many cases, before the old licenses had expired, and, as we believe, in order to evade the present law.

Being acquainted with the existence of a wide-spread movement, looking to a local, if not a general, prohibitory law, we ask a suspension of action in the petitions referred to until the true sense and desire of the people is known.

And we will ever pray, &c.

Signed by James Anderson and and fifty-five others.

Mr. CHALFANT. Mr. Speaker, I read in my place and present to the Chair the following remonstrance, which I desire to have read.

The remonstrance was as follows:

CERTIFICATE.

These testify, that, under my supervision, the following names, in number sixty-four, have been (bona fide) subscribed to the petitions and remonstrances below.

FEBRUARY 10, A. D. 1867.

Rev. E. B. WILSON,
Pastor of German Reformed Church, Orangeville Charge.

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in General Assembly met:—
We, the subscribers, inhabitants of said Commonwealth, being of the age of eighteen years and over, do most respectfully show, viz: that

WHEREAS, Christianity lies at the basis of the common law of the State: And whereas, the Lord's day, commonly called Sunday, is an essential and indispensable part of Christianity, and was laid down a hundred and eighty-four years ago by Wm. Penn, the Proprietor, as fundamental and organic law; and especially necessary for the protection of the morals and the freedom of working men—"to the end, that looseness, irreligion and atheism may not creep in under the pretense of conscience in this Province, he it further enacted," says Penn, "by the authority aforesaid, that according to the good example of the primitive Christians, and for the ease of creation, every first day of the week, called the Lord's day, people shall abstain from their common toil, that whether masters, parents, children, or servants, they may the better dispose themselves to read the Scriptures of truth at home, or to frequent such meetings of religious worship abroad as may best suit their respective persuasions."—Penn's Great Law.

And whereas, Efforts are being put forth to procure the repeal, in whole, or in part, of the law, which have, from time to time, been made for the protection of labor from oppression, by securing to it a rest of one day in seven:

Now therefore, Item I., we, your petitioners and remonstrants, do most respectfully protest and remonstrate against any such repeal, and pray that these laws may remain in full force, as they have been, in spirit and substance, from the foundation of the Republic; and rather that provision be made for their more full and perfect execution.

Item II. We understand that a law is proposed for the purpose of submitting the question of repeal, so far as Philadelphia city is concerned, to the popular vote.

Against this, also, we solemnly protest:

1. Because it would be subjecting a divine law laid down by Penn, at the basis of this Government, to a human tribunal, not the most reliable in point of morality.

2. Because the decision of a question, affecting the whole population of the State, should not be left to the arbitrament of a small part.

3. Because special reasons exists why this small part is very incompetent to give an honest verdict. It is not to be questioned, and will not be, we suppose, that horse car companies, like other corporations, have no souls, and will therefore play into the hands of that most appalling of our city vices—the Sunday liquor trade. In fact, the Sunday cars and the Sunday liquor trade are essentially one interest, and both are adapted to grind down the poor and ignorant, and make them more so.

4. The plea for Sunday cars, that they facilitate church-going, is worse than a hollow pretense. The church-going people of Philadelphia, and of Pennsylvania, are all opposed to Sunday cars and Sunday drinking.

Item III. And further, We petition and pray that the license laws and laws prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors, and especially on the day of sacred rest, may undergo a thorough revision, and be made practically efficient against the evils of intemperance, one of the most fruitful sources of public calamity, and which, probably, more than all others, supplies our criminal courts with business, and fills our jails and penitentiaries with its unfortunate victims.

And your petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray for the blessing of Heaven upon your diligence and success in these premises.

Signed by David Yost and sixty-three others.

Mr. DAVIS, a petition in favor of giving foreigners the same rights as American citizens of African descent, in the district of Columbia.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to make a statement at this time.

Leave was granted.

Mr. JONES. I know that there is no disposition on the part of the House to suspend the orders and proceed to any business which might be attended to at another time.

But I think that a statement of this case will satisfy the House that it is sufficiently important to be acted upon immediately.

A little more than a year ago certain gentlemen were elected controllers of the school board in the city of Reading, for a period of four years, and received their commissions accordingly. Since that time they have occupied their seats. At our last election, about a week ago, through some misunderstanding or misconception of the provisions of our charter governing this subject, two gentlemen were elected controllers, whereas there is but one vacancy, and in order to enable both these gentlemen to take their seats, it is proposed by a strained construction of this act to disqualify those who were actually elected last year. I do not know what the decision of the board may be, but in any case the decision, if made, will be appealed to the court and thereby cause a great deal of trouble and confusion in our school district for a long time to come. That board will meet to-morrow night, and unless this pass to-day and be signed by the Governor, this trouble cannot be avoided. If the House will grant five minutes of its time, this matter can be acted upon. This bill has been submitted to the Superintendent of Common Schools, and the chairman of the Committee on Education and both branches of this Legislature, and has met with their approbation, and I trust this House will grant a suspension of the rules.

I therefore ask the unanimous consent of the House to read the bill in place.

Mr. M'KEE. Mr. Speaker, I would advise the gentleman to present his bill to the Senate first and have it passed there. I shall call for the orders here, most certainly.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented for concurrence bills numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

No. 402, an act to extend the time for receiving subscriptions to the capital stock of the Erie dime savings and loan company, and to amend the act incorporating said company.

He also returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

No. 360, an act to change the place of holding elections for Howard township, from Howard borough to the school house in Mechanicsville, Howard township, in the county of Centre.

With information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

He also informed that the Senate has concurred in the amendment made by the House of Representatives to Senate bill numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

No. 232, an act to incorporate the Caledonia and South Mountain railroad company.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following resolution.

The resolution was read as follows:

Resolved, That the House will hold a session every Wednesday and Thursday afternoon, to commence at 3 o'clock, for the special purpose of considering bills on the public calendar, in the following order: The title of each bill, as it is reached, shall be read by the Speaker, and if no member asks to put the bill on its passage it shall be passed by, till the calendar is gone through with; when the bills shall be taken up, and disposed of in their order.

The resolution was read a second time, and Agreed to.

Mr. COLVILLE. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following resolution.

The resolution was read as follows:

WHEREAS, By an act of Assembly approved the 7th day of March, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one, entitled An act for the commutation of tonnage duties;

And whereas, By the provisions of said act the Pennsylvania railroad company are prohibited from making any discrimination in favor of citizens of other States in the transportation of goods:

And whereas, It is currently reported that said Pennsylvania railroad company has, since the passage of said act, received and transported freight to points further west than Pittsburg, at rates less than that charged to Pittsburg; therefore, be it

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed by this House to investigate the truth or falsity of said reports, with power to send for persons and papers, and report to this House by bill or otherwise.

The resolution was read a second time, and Agreed to.

Mr. MEYERS. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following resolution.

The resolution was read as follows:

Resolved, That the use of the Hall of the House of Representatives be given to Dr. George Junkin, this evening. Question: "How can the interest of the State best be served, without directly taxing the people?" and, also, the Sunday-law question."

The resolution was read a second time, and Agreed to.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Mr. Speaker, about a week ago I offered a resolution in regard to publishing the report of the State Agricultural society, and the resolution was referred to the Committee on Agriculture. The resolution has been reported back to the House, and, if proper to do so at this time, I desire to call it up.

The resolution was taken up and read.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Mr. Speaker, I move to amend by inserting after "Fruit Growers" the words "and Wool Growers."

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, I move to further amend by adding to the resolution the words "and one hundred copies to the Wool Growers' society."

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I wish to so amend this resolution as to make it a joint one, to comply with that provision of the Constitution which says that no money shall be drawn from the treasury except by an act of Assembly. Now, this resolution, although it does not itself take any money from the treasury, makes an order which will of necessity take money from the treasury. It does this in reference to a subject not competent for this House to order of itself. If this House is competent to order the publication of proceedings outside of the Journal of the House, and its proceedings, this House is competent to order the printing of the Bible, or Webster's Dictionary, or any book that can be named, and you might thus drain the treasury of the State. The provision in the Constitution is as follows: "No money shall be drawn from the treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law." Now, my friend from Montgomery [Mr. SATTERTHWAIT] professes to be a guardian of the Constitution, and is very earnest in his advocacy, that we shall not only support the Constitution of Pennsylvania, but the Constitution of the United States also. Now, if it is as necessary this section should be preserved; and it is as sacred and should remain as inviolate to the people of the State, as any section that can be named. Now, by this resolution, we do draw from the treasury of Pennsylvania a large amount of money without any appropriation by law, and we can just as well order the publication of Webster's Dictionary, or Greeley's Almanac, or that other dreadful work, as it has been called here, Helper's book upon the South, or any other book that can be named, as this book. I say nothing about the merits of the book, but I do say that the work proposed to be published is not a journal of this House, is not any of the proceedings of this House, has nothing whatever to do with the action of this House, and is entirely outside of it. Therefore, I say, we are as competent to order the publication of any other book as this one, and that it is a direct infringement of a provision of the Constitution to order the publication of books in this way. If this resolution is passed as it is, it will be passed as a joint one, and receive the sanction of the co-ordinate branch of the Legislature, and be signed by the Governor. I cannot see any answers that can be made to this. The language of the Constitution is imperative. Now, there is no provision of law which justifies the drawing of money from the treasury of the State by this House for the publication of anything of this kind, and hence, before it is done, it ought to be in accordance with law. If both branches of the Legislature and the Governor of Pennsylvania approve of this action, then it seems to me that the Constitution and we will become a law. It seems to me that this is a wise provision of the Constitution, and if we adhered to it a little more closely we would save a large amount of money to the Commonwealth. I think we would have saved at least fifty thousand dollars already this session if we had adhered to this provision. We are every few days passing resolutions that I think ought to be joint resolutions. But I say nothing about that now, I am speaking to the resolution before us, and it seems to me as though there could be no possible doubt upon this question, and I shall expect to see every member in this House who is in favor of observing the Constitution of the United States and of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to vote in favor of this amendment making this a joint resolution.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Mr. Speaker, I think that I have offered nothing here that is in violation of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, or of the United States; and I trust that I have as high a regard for the observance of those Constitutions as the gentleman from Potter [Mr. MAXX], or any other member upon this floor. I have offered a resolution here proposing an expense to the State, and I propose that shall be sanctioned by both Houses of the Legislature, and approved by the Governor in the general appropriation act. I take it, sir, that the expense of printing this work will be met in the general appropriation bill, and I appeal to the gentleman from Potter to know if that is not satisfactory? Resolutions have been passed here of this kind nearly every day. We have had resolutions passed here repeatedly for the printing of such matters as the Gettysburg report, for instance, containing something entirely outside of the proceedings of this House. I think my answer to the gentleman is sufficient.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, undoubtedly if this resolution passes as a resolution of this House, ordering the printing of this work, the Legislature will pay for it. Undoubtedly the appropriation will include this expense, but what I say is that we seek to bind the Committee of Ways and Means, by ordering the publication of a work and expecting they will pay for it. I say that this is an indirect violation of the Constitution of the State to legislate in this way and expect the Committee of Ways and Means to remedy the defect. The gentleman has stated that there is a precedent for this. That I admit, that there are many precedents for it, but it does not follow that because there are precedents we ought to continue doing wrong. I believe the ordering of the printing of the Gettysburg Memorial report to be in violation of the spirit of the Constitution, and I opposed it last year on that ground.

I say that this is an attempt to get this work done in advance, and then to say to the Committee on Ways and Means that they are in honor bound to provide for the payment of the expense. Of course, when the money does come out of the treasury, it comes out according to law. But what I want is to have the sanction of this Legislature for the printing of this work in advance, and then there can be no objection to paying for it. I say nothing about the merits of this resolution, whether it should be passed or not, but I simply ask that it be put in harmony with the Constitution of this State first, and that can only be done by putting it in the form of a joint resolution.

On the question, Will the House agree to the motion to make the resolution a joint resolution?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SATTERTHWAIT and Mr. GREGORY, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Allen, Armstrong, Barton, Elias, Brown, Cameron, Chadwick, Chase, Colville, Davis, Donoghue, Espy, Gallagher, Gordon, Kennedy, Kerns, Kimmel, Kinney, Lee, M'Camant, M'Creary, M'Kee, Mann, Marks, Meckling, Meily, Phelan, Pillow, Richards, Routh, Roach, Sharples, Shuman, Steacy, Stehman, Stumbaugh, Subers, Tharp, Waddell, Webb, Weller, Westbrook, Whann, Wharton, Wilson, Woodward, Worrall, Wright and Glass, Speaker—49.

NAYS—Messrs. So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. WINGARD. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following resolution.

The resolution was read as follows:

Resolved, That the State Printer be directed to furnish to the House the message of ex-Governor Curtin, and accompanying documents, on the Susquehanna boom, or furnish the House with some good reason why the same has not been done.

The resolution was read a second time, and

Passed finally.

Mr. QUAY. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following resolution.

The resolution was read as follows:

Resolved, That hereafter, during the present session, the order for presentation of petitions, memorials, &c., be dispensed with, and such documents shall be filed with the Clerk, and promulgated and noted in the Legislative Record, as though presented in accordance with the existing orders.

The resolution was read a second time, and Agreed to.

Mr. MARKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following resolution.

The resolution was read as follows:

Resolved; That House bill No. 243, entitled An act to exempt building societies in Montgomery County from certain taxation, be referred back to the Committee on Ways and Means.

The resolution was read a second time, and Agreed to.

Mr. HOFFMAN, from the Committee on Roads, Bridges and Ferries, reported, as committed, a further supplement to the act to charter the Harrisburg bridge company.

Mr. HOFFMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to make a statement.

Leave was granted.

Mr. HOFFMAN. Mr. Speaker, the letting of this bridge will take place to-morrow, and it is very desirable this bill should pass before the letting takes place. I, therefore, move that the rules be suspended in order to allow this bill to pass at the present time.

The motion was

Agreed to.

The bill was read as follows:

A FURTHER SUPPLEMENT to an act to charter the Harrisburg bridge company.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the Harrisburg bridge company are hereby authorized to borrow any sum of money not exceeding two hundred thousand dollars, and to issue the bonds of the said company therefor, bearing interest at any rate that may be agreed on; the payment of which bonds may be secured by a mortgage or mortgages upon the property and franchises of the company, for the purpose of rebuilding their bridge, or any part thereof, whenever the same may be necessary, over the Susquehanna river at Harrisburg; and if deemed expedient for the same purpose, the said company may sell or receive subscriptions for any number of shares of the capital stock of said company not exceeding twenty thousand shares in addition to those already subscribed: Provided, That said subscriptions shall be valid and binding on the subscribers, notwithstanding any amount shall have been paid by them at the time of their subscription.

SEC. 2. The sum of money to be borrowed, and the number of additional shares of stock to be sold, or subscribed for, and the price thereof to be paid by the purchasers, or subscribers, either to rebuild the eastern portion of their bridge, now destroyed, or any portion of said bridge at any time hereafter, when the same may be necessary, shall be determined or prescribed at a meeting or meetings of the stockholders and directors to be convened and held as hereinafter directed.

SEC. 3. The board of directors of the said Harrisburg bridge company, before making or entering into any contract for the rebuilding of their bridge, or any part thereof, or the loan of money or sale or subscription of stock authorized by this act, shall call a meeting of the stockholders of the said company, of which at least three weeks' notice shall be given, by advertisement in at least two newspapers published in the city of Harrisburg, at which meeting of stockholders the said board shall submit the plan or plans of the bridge, or portion to be rebuilt proposed, and the terms of the contract for building thereof, and whenever any plan and contract shall be approved by a majority of the votes given at the said meeting, or at any future meeting of stockholders of which like notice shall have been given, then the said board shall be authorized to enter into and complete such contract, and proceed to cause said bridge, or portion thereof, to be erected.

SEC. 4. To promote the establishment at which assistance of a free bridge over the Susquehanna at Harrisburg, the said company is hereby authorized and empowered, at any time hereafter, to sell, assign, transfer and convey unto the counties of Dauphin, Cumberland and York, or the city of Harrisburg, or any of them, for such price as may be agreed upon, the bridge, property and franchises of said company, and the said counties and city, or any of them, shall be, and are hereby, authorized and empowered to purchase the same, and maintain the said bridge as an open, free and public bridge forever: Provided, That such counties or city as shall become the purchaser of said bridge, shall be subject to the same duties and responsibilities, in keeping and maintaining the same in repair, and have the like powers, as are prescribed by law as to other public bridges, within their limits, or spanning streams forming the boundaries of adjacent counties: And provided further, That after such sale the purchase money shall be distributed pro rata among the stockholders of said company, and thenceforth the said company, except for the purpose of making said distribution and closing up their affairs, shall be dissolved and cease to exist.

SEC. 5. That before making the sale, the assent thereto of stockholders holding a majority of the shares of the stock of said company, shall be obtained, at a meeting to be convened and held as prescribed in section three of this supplement; and before making said purchase, if said city shall be a purchaser, or unite in the same, the assent of the mayor and common council of said city shall be obtained; and before any of said counties shall become a purchaser, or unite in the same, the approval of two grand juries, the court of quarter sessions, and the county commissioners of such county or counties, shall be given to said purchase.

SEC. 6. The tenth section of the act of General Assembly, approved April third, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and nine, excepting so much thereof as contains the schedule of tolls to be charged by said company, be and the same is hereby repealed.

SEC. 7. The said board of directors are hereby authorized to revise and alter the schedule of tolls specified in the act of incorporation of said company, and to adapt the same to the modern methods and vehicles of travel.

SEC. 8. This act shall not take effect until the same shall have been approved and accepted by the said company, at a meeting of stockholders thereof, holding a majority of the stock of said company, convened for the purpose of considering the same, a certificate of their approval and acceptance, signed by the officers of the said meeting of stockholders, shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth.

On motion of Mr. HOFFMAN, the rules were suspended, the bill was read a second and third times, and

Passed finally.

House bill No. 445, a supplement to an act revising the charter of the municipal corporation of the City of Reading, approved the 26th day of April, A. D. 1864.

Was read a second and third time, and Passed finally.

SPEAKER'S TABLE.

The SPEAKER cleared his table of bills numbered and entitled as follows:

Senate bill No. 402, an act to extend the time for receiving subscriptions to the capital stock of the Erie dime savings and loan company, and to amend the act incorporating said company.

Referred to the Committee on Corporations.

The hour of 1 o'clock having arrived, The SPEAKER adjourned the House until this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The House met at 3 o'clock, P. M.

BILL PASSED.

Mr. MARKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to make a statement.

Leave was granted.

Mr. MARKLEY. Mr. Speaker, there is a bill in relation to the increase of the stock and the number of directors of the Pottstown iron company, which is quite necessary should be passed at this time. I ask the indulgence of the House, and move that the orders be suspended and the House proceed to consider the bill.

The motion was agreed to.

The bill entitled (Senate No. 155) A supplement to an act to incorporate the Pottstown iron company, approved the twenty-seventh day of March, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, authorizing them to increase their capital stock and the number of directors, was read.

On motion of Mr. MARKLEY, the rules were suspended, the bill read a second and third times, and

Passed finally.

PUBLIC CALENDAR.

Agreeably to order

The House proceeded to the consideration of the bills on the public calendar.

The House went into committee of the whole on House bill No. 146 (Mr. WINGARD in the chair).

The bill was read as follows:

AN ACT supplementary to an act relating to corporations for mechanical, manufacturing, mining and quarrying purposes, approved July eighteenth, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three.

WHEREAS, Great inconvenience has arisen from the provisions of the tenth section of the act to which this is a supplement, and no valid reason exists why stockholders in such corporations should have less facilities in acting by proxy than stockholders of railroad or other corporations; therefore,

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That so much of the tenth section of the act to which this is a supplement as limits the number of votes to be cast by proxy, be and the same is hereby repealed.

The bill was Agreed to.

The Speaker having resumed the chair, Mr. WINGARD, chairman of the committee of the whole, reported the bill without amendment.

The bill was again read and

Agreed to.

On motion,

The rules were suspended, the bill read a third time by its title, and

Passed finally.

Mr. WINGARD asked and obtained permission to offer a resolution.

The resolution was read as follows:

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Governor be requested to return to the House bill No. 97, for the purpose of special amendment.

The resolution was read a second time, and

Agreed to.

The House went into committee of the whole on House bill No. 148, Mr. MEYERS in the chair.

The bill was read as follows:

AN ACT relative to foreign insurance companies.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the provisions of the act entitled An act relative to agencies of foreign insurance, trust and annuity companies, approved April nine, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-six, and the several supplements thereto, and the provisions of the several acts of Assembly of this Commonwealth, regulating the licensing of agents of foreign fire and life insurance, trust and annuity companies, be and the same are hereby extended to companies incorporated by other States for the insurance of horses, mules, cattle and live stock, and to foreign insurance companies of every character and description not designated in the acts aforesaid: Provided, That companies incorporated for the insurance of horses, mules, cattle and live stock, shall satisfy the Auditor General that they possess assets safely invested amounting to at least one hundred thousand dollars, before he shall grant their agent or agents license to transact business within this Commonwealth.

The bill was

Agreed to.

The Speaker having resumed the chair, Mr. MEYERS, chairman of the committee of the whole, reported the bill without amendment.

The bill was again read, and

Agreed to.

On motion, the rules were suspended, the bill read a third time by its title, and

Passed finally.

The House went into committee on House bill No. 149, Mr. ALLEN in the chair.

The bill was read as follows:

AN ACT to provide for the sale of seated land for the non-payment of taxes.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That when personal property cannot be found on any land sufficient to pay the tax thereon, the collectors of the township in which any such land is situated shall make oath before the county commissioners that, after a personal examination of the premises, personal property could not be found sufficient to pay the taxes, and that, after diligent search, property of the owner cannot be found in said township sufficient to pay the taxes, which oath shall be reduced to writing, and, if willfully false, shall subject the person making it to the penalties imposed for committing perjury, the said oath to be conclusive of the facts stated in it, and the county commissioners shall, thereupon, return the said land, with the taxes assessed on it, to the county treasurer, who shall be required to sell the same in the same manner and under the same regulations as unseated lands are now by law sold for taxes, and the owner shall have the same right of redemption as the owner of unseated lands now by law.

SEC. 2. That if the owner or owners of lands heretofore sold for non-payment of taxes in pursuance of the forty-fourth section of the act of the twenty-ninth of April, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and forty-four, entitled An act to reduce the State debt, and to incorporate the Pennsylvania canal and railroad company, shall not redeem the same within two years from the passage of this act, the title shall vest in the purchaser the same as if it had been unseated land, and the forty-fourth section of the act of the twenty-ninth of April, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and forty-four, above named, is hereby repealed.

The bill was

Agreed to.

The Speaker having resumed the chair, Mr. ALLEN, chairman of the committee of the whole, reported the bill without amendments.

The bill was again read.

Mr. LINTON. Mr. Speaker, I move to amend in the eleventh and twelfth lines of the first section by striking out the words "the said oath to be conclusive of the facts stated in it."

The amendment was

Agreed to.

The bill as amended was

Agreed to.

On motion, the rules were suspended, the bill read a third time by its title, and

Passed finally.

The House went into committee of the whole on House bill No. 150 (Mr. DEISE in the chair).

The bill was read as follows:

AN ACT relating to the law of evidence.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That on the trial of any issue joined, or of any matter or question, or in any inquiry, arising in any suit or action or other proceeding, in any court of justice in this Commonwealth, or before any person having, by law or consent of parties, authority to hear, receive and examine evidence to parties thereto, and the persons in whose behalf any such action or other proceeding may be brought or defended, and all and all persons interested in the same, shall, except as hereinafter excepted, be competent to give evidence, viva voce, on behalf of either or any of the parties to the said action or other proceeding, and by deposition in questions where, by the practice of the court, the evidence on such question is required to be made by deposition: Provided, That nothing herein contained, shall render any person who is charged with any offense in any criminal proceeding, competent or compellable to give evidence, for or against himself or herself, or shall render any person compellable to answer any question tending to criminate himself or herself, or shall in any criminal proceeding, render any husband competent or compellable to give evidence for or against his wife, or any wife competent or compellable to give evidence for or against her husband, or in any proceeding instituted in consequence of adultery, nor shall any husband be competent to disclose any communication made to him by his wife during the marriage, nor shall any wife be competent to disclose any communication made to her by her husband during the marriage: And provided further, That if either of the parties to the original cause, or owners of the subject matter of the action, shall have died, either before or after suit brought, whereby he or she, or they who prosecute or defend the same, do so as legal representatives, heirs-at-law, or purchasers or assignees of the right of such deceased owner, the rules of evidence shall not be affected by this act, but remain as heretofore.

Sec. 2. The testimony of the parties to any civil action or proceeding authorized to testify by the provisions of the act of the twenty-seventh of March, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, shall not be conclusive, but the party calling for such examination may rebut it by other testimony.

Sec. 3. That the act of parties in act relative to the admission of testimony to judicial proceedings as witnesses in certain cases, approved the twenty-seventh day of March, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five be, and the same is hereby, repealed.

The bill was

Agreed to.

The Speaker having resumed the chair, Mr. DEISE, chairman of the committee of the whole, reported the bill without amendment.

The bill was again read.

Mr. MEYERS. Mr. Speaker, A bill of similar import was to-day reported by the Committee on the Judiciary General. I think it highly desirable that these bills should be considered at the same time if possible. I move that the consideration of the bill immediately before us be postponed for the present.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, it is not debatable, I suppose, but I would like to understand what position that would put this bill in. I have no objections to both bills getting fairly before the House; but I have no disposition to permit this bill to be crowded up to its destruction.

Mr. MEYERS. Mr. Speaker, I have no wish to do that. I suppose we can read it next Thursday. Make this bill a special order for that day.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to ascertain if we cannot take up the other bill now, postponing this bill for the present.

Mr. MEYERS. I think the other bill should be printed.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, the other bill is very short, only one section; the House can comprehend it at one reading. I ask the unanimous consent of the House that this bill be postponed for the present, and that the bill reported by the Judiciary Committee be taken up now.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, if we agree to postpone this bill for the present it takes a two-third vote to cut it loose from the postponement; and that I am not disposed to submit to if it can be avoided. The bill is regular before the House, and I am not willing that it shall be hastily put aside. I do not wish the one bill to be injured by the other.

I apprehend the gentleman from Potter [Mr. MANN] does not understand the position in which this bill may be placed by this kind of a motion.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I think I do, perfectly. I want the consent of the House to postpone this bill, simply that we may read the one reported by the committee, and then again take up the one now before us.

Mr. M'CREARY. Mr. Speaker, cannot this bill be postponed to a day certain, in order that we may take up at this time the one reported by the committee?

Mr. MEYERS. Mr. Speaker, I suppose a plan midway might be adopted that both bills go to third reading. They will come up together in order and at the proper time.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, for myself I cannot concur in the suggestion of the gentleman from Northampton [Mr. MEYERS], in order that these bills shall go to third reading, thereby rendering it necessary, in case we wish to amend them, to go into committee of the whole specially. I think the original suggestion a proper one. There should be no haste in passing this bill; it is a very important one. Let the bill now under consideration go over until next Thursday, when the bill that was reported this morning will be printed and on the public calendar. We will then have them before us at one time, and the House can make such disposition of them as it sees proper. I suggest that the gentleman from Northampton [Mr. MEYERS] modify his motion so they may come before us in this manner.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, the difficulty in that is this: if the bill now under consideration is postponed until next Thursday, it will be on the public calendar at the head of the list, while the bill reported by the committee will not.

Mr. M'CREARY. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman from Potter [Mr. MANN] did not understand my suggestion. My proposition was to postpone the bill before us until a certain day, and then to ask the unanimous consent of the House to take up the bill that had been proposed by the committee. Then if we pass this bill we act immediately upon the other. We want to read the new bill first. If we postpone this until next Thursday, and obtain unanimous consent to take up the bill reported to-day, we accomplish the purpose intended.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know the object of the gentleman from Erie [Mr. M'CREARY] in taking up the new bill at this time. I for one, shall object to such a motion. I shall object even to a consideration of it at this time. It is not printed and no member of this House, except the gentlemen of the committee from which it was reported, knows what it contains. If we postpone this matter until next Thursday it will be printed. Although one bill will come up before the other, gentlemen will then have seen them both. They may, perhaps, amend the one that first comes up by appropriating some or all of the provisions that are in the second and thus make a perfect bill.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, I do not apprehend that there is any difficulty in the way of the gentlemen who are interested in this question. Any suggestion I may make, is not because I feel that gentlemen are disposed to destroy or defend this bill. All I want is that we shall understand each other. If this bill is postponed for the present, it will, necessarily, require a two-third vote to bring it back to where it now is. I do not think there is a gentleman on this floor desirous of placing either of these bills in this position.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman whether we could not have made the arrangement that I suggested—to postpone this bill until after the other is read?

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, that will be a postponement for the present, and we must be governed by parliamentary laws.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I ask if it is not a postponement to a particular time?

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, another objection, I understand, is that the bill reported to-day is not printed; gentlemen have had no opportunity to examine it, and do not feel prepared to vote upon it. It seems to me but right that they should be allowed time to form an intelligent opinion on this matter. The suggestion of the gentleman from Northampton [Mr. MEYERS] appears to me a proper one—let both bills go to a third reading.

The difficulty in the way of the gentleman from Fayette [Mr. BOYLE] is met in this way: that the speaker will thereby enable him to amend this bill or the other one on the second reading will enable him to go into committee of the whole and amend either of those bills on third reading. If he is strong enough to amend the bill as it now stands he will have the same strength to amend it in committee of the whole.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would state that the other bill can now be read for general information.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I object to its consideration. The gentleman from Chester [Mr. WADDELL] has thereby undertaken that the facility for amending bills on third reading is by no means equal to that on second reading. I do not wish to be obliged to go into committee of the whole every time an amendment is offered. If the bill that was reported this morning should now be taken up, it would still remain unprinted on third reading, and we would know nothing of it except from hearing it read at the Clerk's desk.

Mr. STUMBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I call for the reading of the bill that was reported from the Judiciary Committee this morning.

The bill was read as follows:

AN ACT relating to the law of evidence.

SECTION 1. Be enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That no person shall be disqualified as a witness, in any suit or proceedings at law or in equity, by reason of his or her interest in the event of the same as a party or otherwise; but such interest may be shown for the purpose of affecting his or her credit: Provided, nevertheless, That no female shall be admitted, as a witness for or against her husband, except when the suit or proceedings is between her and her husband; or shall any party be sworn in any case when the opposite party is prohibited, by any legal disability, from being sworn as a witness, or either of the parties in a cause, sue or are sued in a representative capacity.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I renew my motion to postpone this bill until next Thursday, and that it be placed at the head of the calendar.

The motion was

Agreed to.

The House went into committee of the whole on House bill No. 151, Mr. KURTZ in the chair.

The bill was read as follows:

AN ACT compelling the holder of a mortgage, et cetera, when proceedings to collect it have been instituted, to assign it, et cetera.

SEC. 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the legal holder of any mortgage or judgment upon which process for the collection of the same has been issued, shall, at the request of the owner of the premises out of which said mortgage or judgment is sought to be collected, assign the same to any one paying or tendering to him the amount of the debt, interest or costs due upon said mortgage or judgment: Provided, That said holder of said mortgage and judgment so assigning the same, shall be thereafter free from all liability therefor in the hands of assignee of said mortgage or judgment, or in the hands of any subsequent holder thereof. And provided, also, That in case said holder of said mortgage or judgment shall refuse to assign the same as above stated, the execution process thereon shall stay, and the interests on the security cease until it is assigned.

Mr. MEYERS. Mr. Chairman, I move to amend, in the tenth line, by inserting the word "the" before the word "assignee."

The motion was

Agreed to.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Chairman, I move to amend by inserting in the fourth line after the word "judgment," the words "as well the Commonwealth as any other party."

The motion was

Agreed to.

The bill, as amended, was

Agreed to.

The Speaker having resumed the chair, Mr. KURTZ, chairman of the committee of the whole, reported the bill with amendments.

The bill was read, as amended, and

Agreed to.

On motion, the rules were suspended, the bill was read a third time by its title, and

Passed finally.

The House went into committee of the whole on Senate bill No. 59, Mr. WEBB in the chair.

The bill was read as follows:

WHEREAS, It sometimes happens that the estate of a lunatic or habitual drunkard consists of an individual interest in real estate, in respect to which it would be greatly to the advantage of the parties concerned to have partition thereof made; therefore,

Be it enacted, &c., That whenever the estate of a lunatic or habitual drunkard consists of an undivided interest in real estate, whether on joint tenancy, or in common or co-partnership, it shall and may be lawful for the committee of such lunatic or habitual drunkard, as the case may be, to institute an action of partition in the court of common pleas of the county in which such real estate is situated, for the purpose of having the same divided, according to the act of Assembly in such case made and provided.

On the question,

Will the committee agree to the bill?

Mr. JONES. Mr. Chairman, this bill has reference only to future cases. In my own county many cases are now pending; and I presume it is the same in other portions of the Commonwealth. I wish to add a proviso making this bill apply to cases now pending.

The bill was so amended, and

Agreed to.

The Speaker having resumed the Chair, Mr. WEBB, chairman of the committee of the whole, reported the bill with amendment.

The bill, as amended, was read.

On the question,

Will the committee agree to the bill?

Mr. M'CREARY. Mr. Speaker, it has occurred to me that the proviso is rather questionable. I can judge of the bill only by the title, that it is an act to confer upon a committee of a lunatic power to institute actions or to commence original proceedings. The proviso provides the proceedings after they have been commenced. It would read thus: An act to confer upon the committee of a lunatic or habitual drunkard power to institute actions of partition in cases already instituted. I suppose the object of the proviso is to authorize the committee to commence proceedings, but that is not the way it reads. In cases pending, there is no necessity for this proviso, because proceedings have been commenced. It appears to me, therefore, that the proviso is an absurdity.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I understand that the object with which this bill was drawn was to provide for the difficulty that has been felt in almost every court; but especially, I know, in our own court.

I know that proceedings of this sort have been instituted by the committees in the interests of habitual drunkards and lunatics, and I know that these committees, after beginning those proceedings, have found, to their surprise, that there was no law to enable them to prosecute their suits. This bill was drawn with the intention of giving them such powers; and as these suits have already been instituted, in order to enable them to continue their suits, without commencing de novo, I was requested to offer an amendment to this bill and make it apply to cases already pending.

These committees do not wish to begin again, and wish to have this bill legalize their proceedings as far as they have gone.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, I apprehend it to be questionable whether the proviso will meet the wishes of the gentleman from Berks [Mr. JONES]. Does he not rather need a second section validating all those proceedings that may have been heretofore commenced? Probably this is the suggestion that occurred to the gentleman from Erie [Mr. M'CREARY]. I think a second section will meet the gentleman's wishes, and make valid what has been heretofore invalid.

Mr. JONES. That is precisely the object I had in view. Last night my attention was drawn to this bill, by some of my constituents, who happened to be in Harrisburg. The amendment I proposed to offer was, by the suggestion of the Clerk, changed to the form of a proviso. It does not matter to me how these cases are reached. I only wish to have the provisions of this bill extended so as to enable parties interested to derive the benefits they request.

I therefore move to amend the bill by striking out the proviso and inserting a second section, legal as follows:

SECTION 2. That all actions heretofore instituted by the committees named in the first section shall be held and deemed legal and valid, and be of the same force and effect as if commenced under the provisions of the first section of this act.

The amendment was

Agreed to.

The bill as amended was

Agreed to.

On motion, the rules were suspended, the bill was read a third time by its title, and

Passed finally.

The House went into committee of the whole on Senate bill No. 30, Mr. LEE in the chair.

The bill was read as follows:

A SUPPLEMENT to an act relative to landlords and tenants, approved December fourteen, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, extending the provisions thereof to cases of descent and purchase.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the provisions of an act entitled An act relative to landlords and tenants, approved the fourteenth day of December, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, and the supplement thereto, approved the eleventh day of April, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, shall be construed as to apply to cases in which the owner or owners of the demised premises have acquired title thereto by descent or purchase from the original lessor or lessors.

The bill was

Agreed to.

The Speaker having resumed the chair,

Mr. LEE, chairman of the committee of the whole, reported the bill without amendment.

The bill was again read and

Agreed to.

On motion, the rules were suspended, the bill read a third time by its title, and

Passed finally.

The House went into committee of the whole on House bill No. 188, Mr. LINTON in the chair.

The bill was read as follows:

AN ACT to extend to plank roads the provisions of the eighth and ninth sections of the act approved April nineteenth, one thousand eight hundred forty-four, entitled An act concerning certain State and turnpike roads.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the provisions of the eighth and ninth sections of an act approved April nineteenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-four, entitled An act concerning certain State and turnpike roads, be, and the same are, hereby extended to plank roads: Provided, That whenever the charter of any turnpike or plank road company has been, or shall be, repealed, it shall not be necessary for supervisors of townships to keep an account of the expenses incurred upon the turnpike or plank road of such company.

The bill was

Agreed to.

The Speaker having resumed the chair, Mr. LINTON, chairman of the committee of the whole, reported the bill without amendment.

The bill was again read.

Mr. M'CREARY. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that the bill may have a meaning other than that which appears upon its face. We have quite a number of plank roads in our county (and they have been quite a number to those concerned in them); I desire to know what the provisions of this act of 1864 are before I am willing to apply them to plank roads.

Mr. M'CAMANT. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will refer to the law he will find the information he seeks.

Mr. M'CREARY. Mr. Speaker, that is so. But I have not time now. This may be something affecting these roads, and I am not willing to assist in passing a law without knowing what it is. Our people are greatly interested in the matter of plank roads, and this may be a matter of considerable moment to them. I would prefer that this bill do not pass now. I do not imagine it is of so much importance that it cannot lie over another week.

Mr. M'CAMANT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to have this bill passed for this reason: The charter of the plank road company has been repealed, and there is no law in existence by which that road can be kept in repair; nor is there a law by which any other turnpike road can be kept in repair, without extending the provisions of this act. There is no harm in the bill, as the gentleman from Erie will see, if he will take the trouble to examine the law in the case.

Mr. M'CREARY. Mr. Speaker, I desire time to do so. If I vote upon this bill I am simply legislating in the dark. This measure may be well enough for turnpike roads. The reasons given by the gentleman for passing the bill at this time are not conclusive. He says it is of great importance, but it may be of equal importance to the plank roads of the district I represent. On the matter of repairing the roads at this season, they cannot be much affected by a delay of one week.

Mr. M'CAMANT. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman has suggested me to let this matter lie over, and I have consented that it be placed second on the public calendar.

Mr. M'CREARY. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill go over to the next public calendar day, and that it be placed second on the list.

The motion was

Agreed to.

Mr. KINNEY. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to make a statement.

Leave was granted.

Mr. KINNEY. A bill has passed both Houses in which a clerical error of a single letter occurs. I ask permission of the House for the Clerk to make the necessary alteration; and for that purpose I offer the following resolution:

The resolution was read as follows:

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Clerk of the House be directed to change the name of Charles Morton to that of "Charles Norton," where it occurs in bill No. 76 of the House, entitled An act to change the venue in the case of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania versus Jesse R. M'Carthy, Joshua B. M'Carthy and Charles Morton, from the court of quarter sessions of the peace of Sullivan county, to the court of quarter sessions of the peace of Bradford county; which bill was passed both Houses, but not yet presented to the Governor.

The resolution was read a second time, and Agreed to.

The House went into committee of the whole on House bill No. 199, Mr. BOYLE in the chair.

The bill was read.

Mr. LINTON. Mr. Chairman, I move to amend in the eighth line by adding after the word "company," the words "or hall association."

The motion was

Agreed to.

The bill as amended was

Agreed to.

The Speaker having resumed the chair, Mr. BOYLE, Chairman of the committee of the whole, reported the bill with amendment.

The bill was read as amended, as follows: A SUPPLEMENT to an act to entitle the stockholders of any railroad company incorporated by the laws of this Commonwealth, accepting this act, to one vote for each share of stock, approved the twentieth day of May, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, extending the same to bridge companies and hall associations.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That section first of an act entitled An act to entitle the stockholders of any railroad company, incorporated by this Commonwealth, accepting this act, to one vote for each share of stock, approved the twentieth day of May, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, be, and the same is hereby extended, to any bridge company and hall association incorporated by the laws of this Commonwealth and accepting this act.

The bill was

Agreed to.

On motion, the rules were suspended, the bill read a third time by its title, and

Passed finally.

The House went into the committee of the whole on House bill No. 215, Mr. PENNYPACKER in the chair.

The bill was read.

Mr. KOON. Mr. Chairman, I move to amend in the eighth line of the third section, by striking out the word "west" and inserting the word "north."

The motion was

Not agreed to.

The bill was

Agreed to.

The Speaker having resumed the chair, Mr. PENNYPACKER, chairman of the committee of the whole, reported the bill without amendment.

The bill was again read as follows:

AN ACT relating to the Agricultural College of Pennsylvania, and to the establishment of experimental farms in connection therewith.

WHEREAS, The trustees of the Agricultural College of Pennsylvania, from the want of adequate funds, have deferred the establishment of the experimental farm contemplated in the original plan of the institution;

And whereas, The farm is essential to the success of the college;

And whereas, To secure greater diversity of soil and climate, and to add to the interest and importance of the experiments, it is thought best that three experimental farms should be established in Pennsylvania.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the proviso to the first section of the act entitled "A supplement to the act to accept the grant of public lands, by the United States, to the several States for the endowment of agricultural colleges, passed the first day of April, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three," approved the eleventh day of April, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, be and the same is hereby repealed.

SEC. 2. That the one-tenth part of the entire proceeds of the lands donated by Congress to the State of Pennsylvania, by the act of the second day of July, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two, in trust, and accepted by the act of the first day of April, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, to which this is a supplement, be and is hereby appropriated, and the commissioners, under the said act of April, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, are directed to pay the same to the Agricultural college of Pennsylvania to be expended in the purchase of lands for experimental farms.

SEC. 3. That the interest and income of the entire residue of the proceeds of the said lands be and are hereby appropriated, and the commissioners under the said act are also hereby directed to pay the same, as it shall accrue, to the Agricultural college of Pennsylvania, for the endowment, support and maintenance thereof, on condition that the trustees establish, conduct and maintain, in connection with the college, three experimental farms; one near the college, under the immediate supervision of the Professor of Agriculture in the institution; another east, and the other northwest, upon the lands of diversified quality, under the immediate supervision, respectively, of an Assistant Professor of Agriculture.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill?

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I understand this bill to give to the Agricultural college absolute control of the proceeds of this fund, provided they shall purchase an experimental farm west and an experimental farm east.

The bill was

Agreed to.

On motion, the rules were suspended, and the bill read a third time by its title.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. EWING moved to go into committee of the whole for the purpose of special amendment, by substituting the following:

WHEREAS, The division of the proceeds of the land scrip donated by act of Congress into more than three parts, would defeat the object intended by the act;

And whereas, By such division, the act of Congress will be fully complied with, and the benefits derived were equally distributed to the different sections of the State; therefore,

Be it enacted, &c. That one-third of the entire proceeds of the land donated by Congress to the State of Pennsylvania, by the act of the 2d day of July, A. D. 1862, and accepted by the act of the first day of April, A. D. 1863, be, and the same is, hereby appropriated to ——— institution, situated in the eastern part of the State, and the entire proceeds of the one-third of said land to ——— institution, situated in the western part of the State; and the commissioners under said act of April, A. D. 1863, are directed to pay the same to the said institutions, to be expended as hereinafter directed, leaving the remaining third to the Agricultural college of Pennsylvania.

SEC. 2. That the interest and income of the proceeds shall be applied exclusively to the maintenance and support of professorships of agriculture, and the industrial arts, in said institutions; and to the purchase of such chemical and other apparatus necessary to successfully maintain such professorships, and in accordance with the design of the act of Congress.

On the question,

Will the House go into the committee of the whole?

It was not agreed to.

The motion recurring, Shall the bill pass? Mr. STUMBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I do not desire to throw any obstacles in the way of the passage of this bill. But it is an important matter, and I have not yet had time to consider it. I hope the gentleman having the bill in charge will allow it to go over, that we may have time to consider it. I, therefore, move to postpone it until next Thursday.

Mr. KURTZ. Mr. Speaker, I hope the motion will not prevail. This bill has been on file almost if not quite a week; moreover, it has been laid on the desks of the members, in the shape of a memorial. Gentlemen have had full opportunity to examine the bill and the act of Congress. There is no necessity for a postponement. I believe the House is satisfied that this bill should pass. I hope the friends of the bill will not consent to its postponement.

Mr. STUMBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, as I understand the act of Congress this land is to be sold and the proceeds invested in stock, the interest of which is to be applied to an Agricultural college; but no portion of the proceeds may be taken. The second section of this bill, if I understand it, gives the agricultural college the entire fund, and is thus in direct violation of the act of Congress.

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, the object of my amendment is to bring up the question whether the proceeds are to be divided or whether they are to go entirely to one institution. This fund is large enough for three institutions. It was the design of the act of Congress that the beneficial effects of this donation should reach different parts of the State. I do not wish to defeat the bill. I only desire the good sense of the House on this question.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, I have no desire to force legislation upon the House. At an early period of the session I introduced a long memorial from the parties who were interested in this school; it was referred to the proper committee. I followed it up immediately by introducing this act, which was referred regularly to the proper committee. It underwent, without doubt, a proper consideration. That committee reported the bill when they felt it their duty to do so; it came out of committee in its regular time. It was printed, and read on the 30th of January, and went upon the files of this House, where it has been ever since. Now, if gentlemen have not examined this law it strikes me it is their misfortune. The same objection is applicable to every bill placed upon the files of this House. Gentlemen are furnished with printed bills that they may inform themselves of their character and be prepared to legislate when called upon.

If this bill had been introduced and the rules suspended, and an endeavor made to force it through without opportunity for this House to consider it, I would be the last man to ask that it be disposed of at this time. But when a bill has taken the course that this one has, I am at a loss to see why gentlemen should ask for further time to examine its contents.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, it is well known that the proposition to thus dispose of the proceeds of this fund has been steadily resisted for three or four years past. If, however, it is the intention of this act to give to that college the entire control of this fund I am opposed to it. I think there are institutions that could control this fund, in the east and west as well as in the Agricultural college; indeed, much better, if we may judge from its condition two or three years ago. I am perfectly willing that the House should pass this bill, but I would like gentlemen to understand what they do. I prefer that the funds be divided into three parts, one part to be given to the Agricultural college, another part should be given to an institution in the east and a third part to an institution in the west.

Mr. SHARPLES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to say one word for the farmer and industrial classes of the State.

The design of the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. LEE] seems to be to give a portion of this fund to different schools. We make no opposition to those schools; we desire their prosperity; but the question arising here is: whether the act of Congress shall be carried out. If by Agricultural college in Centre county has never come up to the wishes of the gentleman from Philadelphia, it is simply because the college has had no opportunity. If he will look at the successful colleges in this country and elsewhere, he will find they have had large funds at their control. If this fund is divided into three parts, it becomes useless. The college cannot be maintained and carried out in its completeness unless it has the means so to do. The object of this bill is that the college may be made a good institution—that it may be a benefit to the industrial classes of the State, and that we may have two model farms on which experiments may be made.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will permit me to interrupt him, I would like to inquire what he understands by the term "experimental farm"? Is that an acre, or two acres, or a thousand acres?

Mr. SHARPLES. Mr. Speaker, I believe it is stated the farms are to contain about one hundred acres of land. That is my understanding—I have consulted with the trustees.

The motion to postpone the consideration of the bill now before the House was here withdrawn.

Mr. BOYD. Mr. Speaker, if I understand the act of Congress, this grant was made for a specific purpose, and the question arises: How can we best carry out that purpose? Congress granted us lands which are now worth about four hundred and fifty thousand dollars, and it is claimed that this amount is too large as the endowment of an agricultural college. But if we look at the history of the most successful colleges in the other States we must come to the conclusion that it is not too large. This bill provides for the setting apart of a portion of this fund for the purchase of lands for experimental farms with the necessary buildings, of course. The sum is one-tenth of the entire amount—surely that is not too much for this purpose.

It is proposed to divide this fund. I believe there is not a college in the State to-day whose instruction has direct reference to mathematics, the natural sciences, literature, classics, &c. Those institutions, generally, are under the control of certain Christian denominations. If you divide this fund and give it to three institutions, you endow two-thirds of it upon institutions under the control of sectarian or other influences, and you discriminate in their favor by enabling them to give instruction at rates lower than others of similar character. Every college in the State can come in and demand a right to a participation in this fund, by simply creating a department in agriculture and the mechanic arts. I ask what will be the result of this policy? Can any good result arise? Another point in favor of this bill is, that this institution is as independent of and free from all sectarian and local influences as it could well be. It will read from the act incorporating the Farmers' High School of Pennsylvania.

Section three was here read.

Now, this bill is under control of the farming interest of this State. Every portion of the State can be represented there. The president and secretaries of the various county agricultural societies form the board of trustees, and have the management of the institution. It is wholly free from sectarian and local influence.

Mr. KOON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman how he knows this institution is free from sectarian influences.

Mr. BOYD. Mr. Speaker, by sectarian influences, I mean those colleges that are gotten up by sects, whose customs and forms are adopted.

The management of this institution is in the hands of representatives from the different agricultural societies, elected without regard to their sectarian views.

I hope the bill will pass as it now stands.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I did not suppose when I noticed this bill printed and upon file, that it would pass so far without interruption, or I would have paid a little more attention to it. I have as much desire for the development of the Agricultural knowledge of the State of Pennsylvania as the gentleman who are so much interested in this bill. But my interest is not as local as theirs seems to be. The State of Pennsylvania, I think, ought to appropriate the fund so as to benefit all portions of the State. Gentlemen must admit that in the western part of Pennsylvania we have mining interests to be looked after. Those who attend this institution do not receive their education free; they must pay for it.

The donation to the State of four hundred thousand dollars might better be appropriated to different colleges in the State. The sum is too large for a single institution. I will, therefore, oppose the bill.

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, I wish to make a few remarks in reply to the gentleman from York. Some of the proceeds of this fund are to be applied exclusively to that part of the institution which relates to the agricultural and industrial arts. There will be no sectarian influences about it, and I am not opposed to the introduction of an amendment to that effect. Now, if we apply two-thirds of the proceeds of this fund to other institutions we gain some advantages. We have already the buildings, part of the institution is self-sustaining. We do not ask an appropriation for that portion of the college; we intend to apply the appropriation exclusively to those things designed in the act of Congress. It is only for a more equal distribution of the benefits of this large fund that we are striving for.

I am not clear, in my own mind, whether or not the benefit would be the same if we give it all to one institution. I am not opposing the bill. I am only inquiring as to how the object of the act of Congress shall be carried out. If the House decides that this fund shall not be divided, I am willing for it to go to the Agricultural college. But I hope the division of the funds will be seriously considered. If we decide to keep it together I am willing that it shall be appropriated where it can do the most good. If there are no institutions in this State with agricultural, mechanical and industrial departments attached, it is because they have not had the means wherewith to create those branches. Before the passage of the act of Congress there was not a single institution in the State that came within its provisions. I hope the House will pass before they pass this bill.

There is another view to be taken of this question. If this large appropriation is given to one institution it will overshadow others. It will necessarily attract to itself persons who wish merely a literary education. It will have the means wherewith to provide professors who have a reputation and character. I do not wish to break down institutions that are striving to place themselves upon a firm foundation. I do not say that this act will do harm; but I desire to distribute its benefits in such a way that it may do the most good.

Mr. PENYPACKER. Mr. Speaker, I merely wish to say that I am in favor of the bill. I am authorized to say with respect to the initiation fees and the fees paid for tuition, that there will be a decrease in proportion to the aid received from this fund. With the money so received it is proposed to give the college power to place its benefits within the reach of every young man who wishes a practical agricultural and classical education.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I think there is some misapprehension as to the power of this Legislature over the fund. It may be that I do not understand the amendment of the gentleman from Washington [Mr. Ewing], but I believe it read so as to divide the fund itself.

The CHAIR. The amendment was not adopted.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I know the amendment was not adopted, but the whole argument has been as upon the basis of a proposition to divide this fund.

All I desire to say is that gentlemen misapprehend the power of the Legislature over this fund. I referred to the act of Congress when the other bill relating to this matter was under discussion.

There can be no division of the fund; the question is, how the interest accruing from the invested fund shall be appropriated. The money received from the sale of this land may be invested in United States or other safe securities; the interest can be appropriated by this Legislature, with the exception that ten per cent. of the principal may be appropriated as this bill provides. That is all the division that can be made; therefore, upon that point, there can be no discussion in this House. The interest arising from that fund may be disposed of at pleasure by this Legislature.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I move to go into committee of the whole for the purpose of considering a special amendment, to add the following proviso.

The proviso was read as follows:

Provided, That the Legislature reserves the right to revoke the appropriation hereby made, at such time as it may think proper.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I hear it said that we have that right anyhow. But there might be a question in regard to this if the appropriation should once be made.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, this college wants no appropriation that is to be settled with that kind of a provision. If it receives this year an appropriation of the interest on four hundred thousand dollars, employs its professors, and makes all its arrangements on that basis, it is liable the next year, or the year thereafter, to have it all swept away. Rather such an one, they had better have no appropriation at all.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I only desire that the members in voting to go into committee of the whole may understand what they do.

On the question,
Will the House go into committee of the whole?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. ALLEN and Mr. KLINE, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Allen, Boyle, Brennan, Day, Espy, Gallagher, Gregory, Hoffmann, Josephs, Koon, Lee, Meily, Watt, Webb, Weller, Wilson, Worrall, Wright and Glass, Speaker—19.

NAYS—Messrs. Adaire, Armstrong, Barton, Boyd, Breen, Brown, Calvin, Cameron, Chadwick, Chalfant, Chase, Craig, Deise, Donoghugh, Ewing, Fogel, Gordon, Harner, Headman, Heltzel, Humphrey, Hunt, Jones, Kennedy, Kimmell, Kinney, Kline, Kurtz, Leech, Linton, Long, M'Camant, M'Creary, M'Henry, M'Kee, Maish, Mann, Marks, Mechleng, Meyers, Pennyacker, Phelan, Rhoads, Richards, Roath, Robinson, Ronch, Satterthwait, Sharples, Shuman, Steacy, Stehman, Waddell, Wingard and Woodward—55.

So the question was determined in the negative.

The question recurring on the final passage of the bill,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. ALLEN and Mr. HOFFMAN, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Adaire, Barton, Boyd, Boyle, Breen, Brennan, Brown, Calvin, Cameron, Chadwick, Chalfant, Chase, Craig, Deise, Donoghugh, Fogel, Gallagher, Gordon, Gregory, Harner, Headman, Heltzel, Humphrey, Hunt, Jones, Josephs, Kennedy, Kimmell, Kinney, Kline, Kurtz, Leech, Linton, Long, M'Camant, M'Creary, M'Henry, M'Kee, Maish, Mann, Marks, Mechleng, Meyers, Pennyacker, Rhoads, Richards, Roath, Robinson, Roush, Satterthwait Seiler, Sharples, Shuman, Waddell, Watt, Wingard, Woodward and Worrall—55.

NAYS—Messrs. Allen, Armstrong, Day, Espy, Ewing, Hoffman, Koon, Meily, Phelan, Stehman, Webb, Weller, Whann, Wilson, Wright and Glass, Speaker—16.

So the question was determined in the affirmative, and

The bill
Passed finally.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bills from the House of Representatives numbered as follows, viz:

No. 76, an act to change the venue in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Pennsylvania vs. Jesse R. M'Carthy, Joshua R. M'Carthy and Charles Morton, from the court of quarter sessions of the peace of Sullivan county to the court of quarter sessions of the peace of Bradford county.

No. 445, a supplement to an act revising the charter of the municipal corporation of the city of Reading, approved the 26th day of April, A. D. 1864.

With information that the Senate has passed the same without amendment.

He also informed that the Senate has concurred in the amendments made by the House of Representatives to Senate bill numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

Senate bill No. 60, an act changing the time of holding the courts in the Sixteenth Judicial district.

The House went into the committee of the whole on House bill No. 295, Mr. BOYD in the chair.

The bill was read as follows:
AN ACT to authorize the completion of the military history of the Pennsylvania volunteers.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the military history of the Pennsylvania volunteers shall embrace an account of the organization and services in the field of each regiment, together with a roll giving the name, age and residence of each officer and soldier, the date and term of enlistment, the promotions, the charges and casualties, and the places of burial of those who died in the service, where the same can be ascertained, and that the work shall be completed under the direction of the Governor, by some competent person to be by him appointed; and that the sum of three thousand dollars is hereby appropriated, or so much thereof as may be necessary for the purposes of this act, which the Governor is authorized to draw, on his warrants, from the State Treasury from time to time as the work progresses.

The bill was
Agreed to.

The Speaker having resumed the chair,
Mr. BOYD, chairman of the committee on the whole, reported the bill without amendment.

The bill was again read.
On motion, the rules were suspended, the bill read a third time by its title, and
Passed finally.

The House went into committee on the whole on Senate bill No. 29, Mr. M'CAMANT in the chair.

The bill was read as follows:
AN ACT to authorize the payment of State Agents at Washington.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by authority of the same, That the State Treasurer is hereby authorized to pay out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, a sum not exceeding six thousand dollars for the necessary expenses of the Pennsylvania Agents at Washington, from the 1st day of December, 1866, to the 1st day of June, 1867, as authorized by the act of fourth May, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, and that said agency be abolished from and after the first day of February, 1868.

The bill was
Agreed to.

The Speaker having resumed the chair,
Mr. M'CAMANT, chairman of the committee of the whole, reported the bill without amendment.

The bill was again read.
Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn.

The motion was
Agreed to.

The SPEAKER proceeded to clear the table before adjourning the House.

A communication from the board of managers of the Pennsylvania Institution for the Blind was presented to the House, and read as follows:

PENNSYLVANIA INSTITUTION FOR THE INSTRUCTION OF THE BLIND, PHILADELPHIA, February, 13, 1867.

To the Hon. Speaker of the House of Representatives:

SIR—The managers of this institution, desirous of paying their respects to the Legislature, and to exhibit before the members the results of their benevolent appropriations for the education of the indigent blind of this State, respectfully ask the use of the hall for an exhibition of their exercises, on Wednesday evening next, February 20th.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
WILLIAM CHAPIN,
Principal.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following resolution.

The resolution was read as follows:
Resolved, That the use of the hall be tendered to William Chapin, principal of the Pennsylvania institution for the instruction of the blind, on Wednesday evening next, February 20, for the purpose of an exhibition of the exercises of his pupils.

The resolution was read a second time, and
Agreed to.

The SPEAKER announced that Dr. Junkin would deliver a lecture in the House this evening.

The House then adjourned to meet tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

SENATE.

THURSDAY, February 14, 1867.

The Senate met at 11 o'clock, A. M.
Prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Bailey, of Harrisburg.

The reading of the Journal, on motion of Mr. CONNELL, was dispensed with.

PETITIONS, REMONSTRANCES, &c.

Mr. CONNELL presented the petition of Rev. Charles Cooke, and one hundred and fifty male and female members of Mt. Zion Methodist Episcopal church, at Manayunk, protesting against submitting the Sunday car question to popular vote, and praying for a repeal of the license law.

Mr. GLATZ, a petition from citizens of York county, in relation to the rebuilding of the Columbia bridge.

Laid on the table.

Mr. BROWNE (Lawrence), the petition of all the employees of the Caledonia Mills, being ninety-nine citizens of Philadelphia, against Sunday car travel.

Referred to the Committee on Vice and Immorality.

Mr. BROWNE (referring to the above petition) said: In answer to the assertion that the working classes of the city of Philadelphia are in favor of Sunday car travel, I would call attention to the fact that all the employees of those mills ask that the laws on that subject shall remain as they are.

Mr. BROWNE (Lawrence) also presented the petition of eighty citizens of Germantown, protesting against any change of the Sabbath laws; also, against submitting such change, so far as Sunday cars are concerned, to a vote of the people; also, praying for more efficient restraints against liquor traffic and intemperance, especially on the first day of the week; which was read as follows, and—

Referred to the Committee on Vice and Immorality:

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in General Assembly met:

We, the subscribers, inhabitants of said Commonwealth, being of the age of eighteen years and over, do most respectfully show, viz: that

WHEREAS, Christianity lies at the basis of the common law of the State; And whereas, the Lord's day, commonly called Sunday, is an essential and indispensable part of Christianity, and was laid down a hundred and eighty-four years ago by Wm. Penn, the proprietor, as fundamental and organic law; and especially necessary for the protection of the morals and the freedom of working men—"to the end, that looseness, irreligion and atheism may not creep in under the pretense of conscience in this Province, as it further enacted," says Penn, "by the authority aforesaid, that according to the good example of the primitive Christians, and for the case of creation, every first day of the week, called the Lord's day, people shall abstain from their common toil, that whether masters, parents, children, or servants, they may the better dispose themselves to read the Scriptures of truth at home, or to frequent such meetings of religious worship abroad as may best suit their respective persuasions."—Penn's Great Law.

And whereas, Efforts are being put forth to procure the repeal, in whole or in part, of the laws, which have, from time to time, been enacted for the protection of labor from oppression, by securing to it a rest of one day in seven:

Now therefore, Item I, we your petitioners and remonstrators, do most respectfully protest and remonstrate against any such repeal, and pray that these laws may remain in full force, as they have been, in spirit and substance, from the foundation of the Republic; and rather that provision be made for their more full and perfect execution.

Item II. We understand that a law is proposed for the purpose of submitting the question of repeal, so far as Philadelphia city is concerned, to the popular vote.

Against this, also, we solemnly protest:

1. Because it would be subjecting a divine law laid down by Penn, at the basis of this Government, to a human tribunal, not the most reliable in point of morality.

2. Because the decision of a question, affecting the whole population of the State should not be left to the arbitrament of a small part.

3. Because special reasons exist why this small part is very incompetent to give an honest verdict. It is not to be questioned, and will not be, we suppose, that horse car companies, like other corporations, have no souls, and will therefore play into the hands of that most appalling of our city vices—the Sunday liquor trade. In fact, the Sunday cars and the Sunday liquor trade are essentially one interest, and both are adapted to grind down the poor and ignorant, and make them more so.

4. The plea for Sunday cars, that they facilitate church-going, is worse than a hollow pretense. The church-going people of Philadelphia, and of Pennsylvania, are all opposed to Sunday cars and Sunday drinking.

Item III. And further, We petition and pray that the license laws and laws prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors, and especially on the day of sacred rest, may undergo a thorough revision, and be made practically efficient against the evils of intemperance, one of the most fruitful sources of public calamity, and which, probably, more than all others, supplies our criminal courts with business, and fills our jails and penitentiaries with its unfortunate victims.

And your petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray for the blessings of Heaven upon your diligence and success in these premises.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

INVESTIGATION OF ALLEGED FRAUD IN THE ELECTION OF UNITED STATES SENATOR.

Mr. SEARIGHT submitted the following: The undersigned, a committee appointed under a joint resolution by the Legislature, passed January 8th, A. D. 1867, and charged with the duty of investigating alleged improper influences in connection with the election of a United States Senator, on the 15th ult., report the following as the result of their investigation in the premises:

On the day upon which the committee was appointed, they met and organized, and at once proceeded to the examination of witnesses. The committee continued to meet from day to day until all the witnesses, suggested to them, had been examined.

They then gave a general invitation to any person to appear before the committee, and give such information as he might possess touching the subject under inquiry, and after waiting some ten days or more (no one appearing), the committee ceased their labors.

No evidence was produced to implicate any member of this Legislature in the alleged corruption, nor were any of the distinguished persons named in connection with the office of United States Senator in any manner therein involved.

The evidence in detail taken by the committee is herewith presented for the information of the two Houses. All of which is respectfully submitted.

F. S. STUMBAUGH,
J. N. MARKS,
L. WESTBROOK,

Committee on the part of the House.

MORROW B. LOWRY,
THOS. B. SEARIGHT,
JAS. C. GRAHAM,

HOUSE AMENDMENTS

To Senate bill No. 60, entitled An act changing the time of holding courts in the Sixteenth Judicial district.

Were, on motion of Mr. STUTZMAN, concurred in.

CHANGE OF VENUE FROM SULLIVAN COUNTY TO BRADFORD COUNTY.

House bill No. 76, entitled An act to change the venue in the case of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania versus Jesse R. M'Carthy, Joshua L. M'Carthy and Charles Morton, from the court of quarter sessions of the peace of Sullivan county, to the court of quarter sessions of the peace of Bradford county.

Came before the Senate on the orders of the day.

The bill was read as follows:

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the venue in the case now pending in the court of general quarter sessions of the peace of Sullivan county, of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania versus Jesse R. M'Carthy, Joshua R. M'Carthy and Charles Morton, returned to December sessions, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, of said court, be, and the same is, hereby removed to the court of general quarter sessions of the peace of the county of Bradford, to the next May sessions, or any subsequent term within the present year, of said court of quarter sessions, where it shall be tried, and verdict, and judgment, and appeal be had thereon with the same effect as if it had been tried in the county of Sullivan, and all the records in the case shall be certified and transferred by the proper officers of the said court of the county of Sullivan, to the said court of he county of Bradford, and all expenses incurred by the said county of Bradford by reason of the said change of venue shall be paid by the commissioners of the said county of Sullivan.

The question then being on the final passage of the bill,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. JACKSON and Mr. LANDON, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs Bigham, Billingsfield, Browne (Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Coleman, Connell, Cowles, Graham, Haines, Landon, Levery, M'Coanaghy, Ridgway, Royer, Shoemaker, Stutzman, Taylor, White, Worthington and Hall, Speaker.

NAYS—Messrs. Burnett, Davis, Donovan, Glaz, Jackson, James, M'Caendiss, Randall, Schall, Searight, Wallace and Walls.

During the calling of the roll,

Mr. WHITE (when his name was called) said: Mr. Speaker, I have just one word to say in justification of my vote here. On a question of this kind, I do not wish it to be understood that I always vote through partisan spirit. I merely wish to remark that there is no man more sensitive about keeping pure the fountain of justice than myself.

Cases of changes of venue have been more frequent of late than formerly, as has been stated by the Senator from Clearfield [Mr. WALLACE]. The causes of this are manifest and palpable. A condition of war in the county creates a peculiar and unfortunate condition of affairs as we have had—and this is especially the case in the border counties of this Commonwealth. Public sentiment there has been aggravated, the people have taken sides, and in the multiplicity of legislation many questions have arisen, under the statutes of this Legislature, which have more or less, a political character. The courts have to pass on these. The case in question involves one of those questions; and it occurs to me that the first inquiry that every conscientious man ought to address to himself is this: Is there such a case presented here as entitles one to fair and impartial justice cannot be administered in the county where the offense was committed. As a member of the Local Judiciary Committee of this body, as also a member of this body, I have had such a prima facie case at least presented before me as satisfies my judgment of that fact. And if I had been unsatisfied before, the character of the discussion which I have heard here would have been sufficient to satisfy me. The remarks which have been made by the Senator from Sullivan [Mr. JACKSON], of the political character of the discussion here relating to this bill certainly go into that region and must change the fountains of justice there.

I do not, sir, make any reflections upon the character of the judge or upon the character of the jurists there; it is sufficient to know that this is a political question. If furthermore have the petition of over a hundred respectable men in the county in which the offense was committed, representing that justice cannot be done there. I furthermore have the statement of an attorney of this court, who is acting under oath; and if he represents what is not true, why, of course, he is obnoxious to the punishment of the courts there for disregarding his duty as an officer of the court. I have these facts prima facie for my reply.

Now, sir, I have heard the statement of the Senator from Sullivan [Mr. JACKSON], that if there is any prejudice in the minds of the associate judges of the court, they are willing to retire from the bench. I find in the Constitution of this Commonwealth, that if they did retire from the bench they would fail to be a court of quarter sessions, within the meaning of our Constitution. In section seventh, I discover that "the judges of the court of common pleas of each county, any two of whom shall be a quorum, shall compose the court of quarter sessions of the peace, and orphans' court thereof." Hence, if the associates judges, against whom the complaint is made here, were to retire from the bench, there would be no court to have jurisdiction.

For these reasons, I believe myself justified in voting for the change of venue in this case, apart from any political reasons whatever. I vote aye.

The result of the vote was then announced as follows: yeas, 20; nays, 12.

So the bill

Passed finally.

PITTSBURG AND CONNELLSVILLE RAILROAD.

The SPEAKER. The next order is Senate bill No. 214, entitled An act to repeal an act of the General Assembly of the State of Pennsylvania, which became a law on the nineteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, entitled An act relative to the Pittsburg and Connelleville railroad company.

The bill is on second reading. The Clerk then read the first and only section of the bill as follows:

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, which was passed on the twenty-ninth day of April, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, and which became a law on the nineteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, entitled An act relative to the Pittsburg and Connelleville railroad company, be and the same is hereby repealed and declared to be of no force or effect, and the said Pittsburg and Connelleville railroad company is hereby required to put their road under contract within six (6) months, and complete the same to the State line within three (3) years from the passing of this law, according to the route and plan delineated upon the map filed by the said company in the office of the Secretary of this Commonwealth: Provided, however, That nothing herein shall be construed to prevent the Connelleville and Southern Pennsylvania railway company from building a road, according to the terms of their charter, upon another route or location, and under their own or other franchises than those pertaining to the Pittsburg and Connelleville railroad company.

Mr. SEARIGHT. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following amendment to the bill, to come in at the end of the section:

Provided further, That the said Connelleville and Southern Pennsylvania railroad company shall have the right to make connections with the Pittsburg and Connelleville railroad at any points on the line of said road.

The amendment

Was adopted.

Mr. SEARIGHT said: Mr. Speaker, at the commencement of the discussion upon this bill I stated to the Senate that the friends of the bill urged its passage solely upon its merits. And I say now, sir, it appears to me that the bill is so eminently just and right in itself that an attempt at argument in its favor would be a work of supererogation. Such an attempt, it appears to me, would be like an effort to prove an axiom. When I called up this bill I appealed to Senators who intended to vote against it to furnish some good and substantial reasons why it should not be passed. I was confident then that no such reasons could be adduced, and now, after much discussion of the subject, I am equally confident that upon its merits the bill stands unimpeached and unimpeachable.

The first voice raised against the passage of this bill was that of my kind-hearted friend, the Senator from Philadelphia [Mr. M'CONNELL], and the point which he urged doubtless made an impression upon the minds of some Senators, for that Senator is always impressive, and is invariably listened to with great respect and consideration. He raised the point, sir, that the whole question involved in this bill was now pending before the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, and would be finally settled and adjudicated as early as next May. Now, sir, the Senator from Philadelphia is entirely mistaken; the question pending before the Supreme Court of this State is a quo warranto granted at the instance of the Attorney General, and directed to the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad company, to inquire of them by what authority they have been prosecuting their work east of Connellsville since the passage of the act repealing the charter of that company. This is the question pending before the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, but I am informed that proceedings upon this question have been discontinued, and that the matter will not be prosecuted. I am not aware that such is the fact, but I have been so informed, and I give the information for what it is worth. But it makes no difference, sir, whether these proceedings are to be continued or discontinued; it does not affect the matter, for the question involved in the legislation which is now desired. It is true that the question, as has been repeatedly stated here, is pending before the courts, but the vital issue, or one of the vital issues, is pending before the Supreme Court of the United States upon a writ of error to the circuit court of the United States in Pennsylvania. Senators are all familiar with the fact that the circuit court of the United States for the Western district of Pennsylvania has decided that the repealing of this Legislature was unconstitutional;—that a jury in that court found that there had been no misse or abuse of the charter on the part of the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad, as had been alleged, and alleged as the basis for the repeal of the charter of that company. It is that case that is now pending before the Supreme Court of the United States. And one of the reasons why the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad come here at this time and desire the passage of this bill is, that while entirely confident of ultimate success in the case, they do not wish to be subjected to the delay which must necessarily follow before the decision of the court is rendered. Not only is the company unwilling to be subjected to this delay, but the people of the southwestern counties of the State are impatient under the restraint, and, if it can possibly be avoided, will not brook longer delay.

The next Senator who raised his voice in opposition to this bill, as I conceive it to be, was, the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. M'CANDESS], whose pleasant countenance I now observe in the chair. That gentleman objected to the passage of this bill because of a counter interest, which counter interest existed in the great city of Philadelphia, to which he is so devotedly and so justly attached. Now, I wish to say right here, Mr. Speaker, that a counter interest in the favor of the great city of Philadelphia is not even contemplated; and to show the sincerity of the friends of the bill in this position and in this statement, I have prepared the amendment which has just been read, which gives the Southern Pennsylvania railroad company (which is a Philadelphia company) the right to connect with the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad company at any point between the city of Pittsburg and the State line. This, sir, will afford the city of Philadelphia an opportunity to compete for the trade of that rich region of country through which it is proposed to build this road. No, sir; we have no counter interest against Philadelphia. We entertain no unkind feelings towards the city of Philadelphia; and it matters not, sir, whether this road be built or not, the people of my region of country will still go to the great city of Philadelphia. But, sir, aside from that fact, Philadelphia is not so young and so weak as to be injuriously affected by the passage of this bill or any other; she has existed, sir, in her strength and her majesty, for more than a hundred years, and she has grown too strong to be affected by any legislation at this late day. Why, sir, look at the fact. Under existing circumstances, without a road through the rich region of country lying to the southwest of Pennsylvania—there is no trade to affect Philadelphia one way or the other. What we ask, sir, is to develop that region of country, and there can be no doubt that if the resources of that country be developed by such legislation as may be necessary, the city of Philadelphia will reap her share of the benefits that will result therefrom.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I do not think there is much in the argument that has been adduced here that by the construction of this Pittsburg and Connellsville road to the State line merchants in the west and southwest will buy their goods in Baltimore instead of in the city of Philadelphia. Why, sir, what are the facts? Our merchants in the west and the southwest now go to the city of Philadelphia when they go east; but, sir, it does not necessarily follow that because they are compelled to go to Philadelphia they, therefore, buy their goods there. Sir, the truth is that the bulk of merchandise bought by western merchants is purchased in the city of New York. And there is no way of preventing that; and I say here there should be no way of preventing it. Our merchants go to Philadelphia; they look around that market, and if that market does not satisfy them they go on to the city of New York and there they purchase their goods. It matters not, sir, whether railroads lead to Philadelphia or do not lead there, merchants will buy their goods where they can be purchased upon the best terms. And the main object of this bill is to develop the hidden but rich resources of one of the best sections of the great State of Pennsylvania—a country, I repeat, that is unexcelled in the wealth of its resources by any other region of country in Pennsylvania or in the habitable globe.

Now, sir, I ask will not the developing of those resources be an advantage instead of a detriment to the great city of Philadelphia? I say that Philadelphia is to be benefited, necessarily benefited by the building of this railroad. Pittsburg—a city of Pennsylvania, sir—is to be the western terminus of this road, and Pittsburg is in immediate connection with the city of Philadelphia by the great Pennsylvania central route. Sir, as you benefit western counties and western cities within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, you at the same time benefit Philadelphia, in which all Pennsylvanians feel a just pride. There is no counter interest, sir, to be opposed by this bill. On the contrary, it is passed, and the road built, Philadelphia will be benefited by it. The interests of Philadelphia and the interests of Pennsylvania are identical. We propose by this bill to do—what? To develop the resources of a portion of Pennsylvania which must lie hidden forever unless this bill be passed and capital have an opportunity to bring out the resources of this section. We do not propose to cut off Philadelphia or to divert our trade from her; we invite her to make her road into that region of country, and we will reach out our strong arms and welcome her iron rails when they come there to receive our produce. That is the feeling of the people of Southwestern Pennsylvania. Let the Southern Pennsylvania company, coming up from Philadelphia, make their connection with this Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad. We hope they will do this; we invite them to do it; will assist them with all our ability to do it, and we will gladly welcome the day when they undertake the work. We want to go to Philadelphia; we want to go to Baltimore; we want to go to Pittsburg; we want to build up the prosperity of Pennsylvania; we want to take care of the interests of a rich and growing section of our great State; and I appeal to Senators to aid us in accomplishing these objects as a simple act of justice.

Mr. Speaker, which has been said with regard to the long delay of the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad company, in the matter of completing their road. It has been alleged, sir, and repeated here over and over again that they received their charter in 1837, and that thirty years have therefore elapsed without a road having been built. To my mind, sir, that fact of history presents an argument in favor of this route. Why, sir, where were the railroads of this Commonwealth in the year 1837? I ask Senators to point me to the railroads that were in existence at that time? Where was your gigantic Pennsylvania Central in the year 1837? Why, sir, it was not incorporated until the year 1846, and it was not finished to the city of Pittsburg until, I think, in the year 1852. Now, the fact that public attention was directed to this route at so early a period as the year 1837, shows that it is a route that ought to be fostered and developed by the legislation of Pennsylvania. It is a route which attracted the attention of the people long before the route of the Pennsylvania Central was determined upon. Why, sir, it is a matter of history that this route of the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad was indicated by the Father of his country. We have evidence that Washington felt and expressed a deep interest in the construction of a communication along this route to connect the East with the West; and it was in view of the eligibility of this route—a route that presented advantages far superior to any other route—that induced the Legislature at so early a period as the year 1837, to incorporate a company to build a railroad from Pittsburg to Connellsville, as was then contemplated by the act, with the view, sir, of connecting at that time with—what? Not with any other railroad, but with the Chesapeake and Ohio canal. At that early day, sir, can you see the means of transporting produce and passengers, and the only means aside from the old mode of traveling on horseback, in wagons and on foot; railroads were very little thought of at that day. This company was incorporated in 1837, to build a road only from Pittsburg to Connellsville, and there they stopped; there they were limited. Well, sir, they have built that road from Pittsburg to Connellsville, and it is in working order at this day, and all they ask for the bill is the privilege of constructing a road on from Connellsville, eastward, so as to develop the region of country east of Connellsville. In 1843, sir, only three years before the Pennsylvania Central was incorporated, the Connellsville company received the charter which gave it vitality, and it is neither fair nor candid to go back beyond that year, 1843, because that was the time when the legislation which gave this company vitality was obtained.

Now, sir, I have a few words, to say in answer to the argument that has been made here that this Pittsburg and Connellsville road is an interest foreign to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Why, sir, do not Senators know that one hundred and fifty miles of this road pass through the State of Pennsylvania, not more than ten miles of it is designed to go through another State? And yet we are told that it is not a Pennsylvania road. I say, sir, that it is essentially a Pennsylvania road. Pennsylvania capital and Pennsylvania labor will be required in its construction, and Pennsylvania resources will be developed by its completion. There is no force, then, sir, in the argument that it is a foreign road; it is to all intents and purposes a Pennsylvania road; and we of Southwestern Pennsylvania come here and ask the Legislature of Pennsylvania to give us the right to make a road through our section of the State, so that we may be put on an equality with other sections of the State in the matter of the means of transportation for our people and their produce.

Mr. Speaker, in regard to the legal difficulties which have been referred to in connection with this subject, my opinion is that it matters not how the courts may ultimately decide the constitutional question involved in the controversy. We have hope, sir, and a well grounded hope, that the court of ultimate resort will decide the question in favor of the Pittsburg and Connellsville road. But, sir, even supposing the decision to be adverse to this road—supposing it to be decided by the Supreme Court of the United States that the act of this Legislature, repealing the charter of the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad, was constitutional—it does not follow that it was right. The Legislature of Pennsylvania has the constitutional right to do many things, yet it by no means follows that they should do those things simply because they are constitutional. The question is, is this measure right, is it just, is it proper; and we press it upon the consideration of Senators in this view. Sir, much stress has been laid upon the fact that a number of members of the Senate representing this southern tier of counties, largely interested in the construction of this railroad, voted with the majority of the Legislature in favor of the repeal of the Pittsburg and Connellsville charter, and in favor of the act incorporating the Southern Pennsylvania railroad company. Now, Mr. Speaker, there were some reasons for that which I desire to refer. At that time, as at present, there existed among the people of Southwestern Pennsylvania an intense desire to have a railroad. The Pennsylvania railroad came here, and with their power and with all their prestige made the pledge to the members of the Legislature from the Southwestern portion of this State, that they would build a road into that region of country. Those members knew, sir, that the company had the ability to build a road, and they were glad to be enabled to improve the opportunity which appeared to be thus extended. And for that reason they voted for the repeal of this charter and for the incorporation of the Southern Pennsylvania road; and in order to make the matter sure and beyond doubt or contingency they put a provision in the bill incorporating the Connellsville and Southern Pennsylvania railroad to this effect: "That the said company shall perfect the organization of their company within three months after the passage of this act, and proceed immediately to locate and construct said road and complete their main line within three years."

There was the promise, sir, on the part of the Pennsylvania railroad company enacted into solemn law—that a road should be commenced by them within three months and completed within three years, which should reach out into that section of country. And this was the argument by which members from that region of country were induced to vote for the incorporation of the Southern Pennsylvania company. The people there were anxious for a road. They did not care who made it, and they do not care to-day who makes it, so that the road be made. But, has this company been faithful to its promises given on that occasion? I say, Mr. Speaker, that it has not been, because in the year 1866, an act was passed with a section in it in this language: "That so much of the said act incorporating the Connellsville and Southern Pennsylvania railroad company as limits the time for the construction of the main line to eight years to three years from the passage thereof, be and the same is hereby repealed."

Now, then, Mr. Speaker, is an act repealing the act which required the Southern Pennsylvania railroad company to build a road along the route of the Pittsburg and Connellsville line within one year. Here we see the very essence, the substance and vital point of the act incorporating the Southern Pennsylvania railroad company, so far as the people of the Southwestern counties are concerned, is repealed; and it is provided further that the time for the commencement of the construction thereof shall be extended for one year, and the time for its completion to eight years from the passage of this act."

Now, Mr. Speaker, in view of this enactment, I submit whether the argument which is made against the Pittsburg and Connellsville company, that they are chargeable with unnecessary delay, does not come with very bad grace. First, the Pennsylvania Central obtained the votes of a number of members of the southern and southwestern tier of counties for their bill by putting in a provision that in three months they would begin the road and within one year finish it. Having got their bill passed under that promise, they then come to this Legislature and get the time extended for eight years, and yet the Pittsburg and Connellsville company must be abused and denounced for delay in not completing their road. I repeat, sir, arguments against the Pittsburg and Connellsville company, on the ground of delay, come with ill grace from Senators who are favorable to the Southern Pennsylvania railroad company, in view of the facts I have adverted to.

So far as concerns the Pennsylvania Central railroad company, I will say that I have no word of censure, and no matter of grievance to utter here against that company, and it is not my purpose to attack it. I make no issue with the Senator from Philadelphia [General M'CANLESS], in the allegation that the city of Philadelphia has invested many millions of money for the purpose of constructing the Central road, with the view of developing many counties in the western section of this State. That is true, sir; and we are proud of the fact, and tender our acknowledgments to the city of Philadelphia for the beneficent act. We are, likewise, proud of the thorough efficiency and complete equipment of the Pennsylvania railroad, and we properly appreciate those essential elements of good railroad management.

But, sir, this Pennsylvania railroad company does not come into those regions of this Commonwealth, which are here to-day, by their representatives asking for the passage of this Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad bill; and upon that fact is based the most forcible argument, as we conceive, that could be offered—certainly all that is needed to justify us—for insisting that this legislation should be granted. I would say further, in reply to the Senator from Philadelphia, that all the trade of the west that Philadelphia expected to secure by means of the Pennsylvania Central when she made that large subscription of stock she has secured, and it cannot be taken from her. But, while the west fully appreciates and would, under any circumstances, relinquish the opportunity furnished by Philadelphia and the Pennsylvania railroad company for transportation and communication, there are regions of country in this great State of Pennsylvania which are not penetrated by this Pennsylvania railroad; and these counties are anxiously seeking an outlet for the productions of their enterprise, labor and energy; and the only practical means of affording that outlet, inasmuch to me, sir, would be the passage of this bill. This measure is virtually the key to a policy which involves the best interests of those comparatively isolated regions of country; let it be but turned, sir, in the right direction and that country will rise up like a giant and pour forth its contribution to the general prosperity of the Commonwealth and the country. Let us, Mr. Speaker, compel our sister States to acknowledge what we believe and know to be the truth, that in mineral wealth and internal resources as well as in geographical situation, our Commonwealth is indeed, the greatest State of the American Union; and by no means can we so rapidly and so surely accomplish that object as by the adoption of a just and liberal railroad system throughout our entire length and breadth. Therefore, as a Pennsylvanian—one who is desirous of seeing Pennsylvania go forward in an uninterrupted career of greatness and prosperity, I urge this bill as one means to that end. Let not Senators be deceived into the fallacy that the east and the north and the centre comprise all the elements of wealth and prosperity which characterize this great Commonwealth, and that that country along the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad, as to natural advantages, is fully equal, if not superior, to any other region of country in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Only let that region of country be developed, Mr. Speaker, and it will become one of the most prosperous and powerful, as it is naturally one of the richest and most beautiful sections of the State of Pennsylvania.

Now, sir, I say in all candor, that I am fully persuaded that the passage of this bill will ultimately benefit rather than injure the interests of the city of Philadelphia and of the Pennsylvania railroad company. And without intending or entertaining the slightest reflection upon that railroad, which, in its management, in its equipment, and in all its departments, is a credit to this State, and would be a credit to any State, I think that this bill is so full of honest merit and truth and justice, that it should receive the approbation of a majority of Senators, and I hope it will.

The Speaker pro tem. (Mr. M'CANLESS in the chair.) The hour of one o'clock having arrived, the Senate stands adjourned until three o'clock this afternoon.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Senate met at three o'clock, P. M.

MUNICIPAL CORPORATION OF READING.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I am obliged to ask the indulgence of the Senate for about two minutes.

A bill passed the House this morning, on the recommendation of the School Department, in regard to the school board of Reading. I would ask the Senate to proceed to its consideration. I therefore move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the bill, and suspend the rules to allow its passage.

The motion of Mr. DAVIS was agreed to, and the bill was taken up and read, the title being as follows:

A supplement to an act revising the charter of the municipal corporation of the city of Reading, approved 22d of April, A. D. 1864.

The bill

Passed finally.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented for concurrence bills numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

No. 146, an act supplementary to an act relating to corporations for mechanical, manufacturing, mining and quarrying purposes, approved July 18, 1863.

No. 148, an act relative to certain foreign insurance companies.

Referred to the Committee on Corporations.

He also returned bill from the Senate numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

No. 155, a supplement to an act to incorporate the Pottstown iron company, approved the 27th day of March, Anno Domini, 1866, authorizing them to increase their capital stock and the number of directors,

With information that the House of Representatives has passed the same without amendments.

He also returned bill from the Senate numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

No. 197, a further supplement to the act to charter the Harrisburg bridge company, enabling the company to rebuild the bridge,

With information that the House of Representatives has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

On motion of Mr. COLEMAN, the amendments were read twice, considered and concurred in.

CHANGE OF VENUE—AMENDMENT.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being again introduced, presented an extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives, which was read as follows:

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
February 14, 1867.

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Clerk of the House be directed to change the name of "Charles Morton" to that of "Charles Newton," where it occurs in bill No. 76 of the House, entitled An act to change the venue in the case of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania vs. Jesse R. M'Carty, Joshua R. M'Carty and Charles Morton, from the quarter sessions of the peace of Sullivan county to the court of quarter sessions of the peace in Bradford county, which bill has passed both Houses, but not yet presented to the Governor.

On motion of Mr. LANDON, said resolution was twice read, considered and concurred in.

RETURN OF A BILL,

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented an extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives, which was read as follows:

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Governor be requested to return House bill No. 97, incorporating the Real Estate savings institute, to this House, for the purpose of special amendment.

On motion of Mr. WALLS, the resolution was read a second time, considered and concurred in.

PITTSBURG AND CONNELLSVILLE RAILROAD.

The SPEAKER. The special order of the afternoon is Senate bill No. 314, entitled An act to repeal an act of the General Assembly of the State of Pennsylvania, which became a law on the nineteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, entitled An act relative to the Pittsburg and Connelville railroad company.

The first and only section of the bill was read as follows:

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That, the act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, which was passed on the twenty-ninth day of April, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, and which became a law on the nineteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, entitled An act relative to the Pittsburg and Connelville railroad company, be and the same is hereby repealed and declared to be of no force or effect; and the Pittsburg and Connelville railroad company is hereby required to put their road under contract within six (6) months, and complete the same to the State within three (3) years from the passing of this law, according to the route and plan delineated upon the map filed by the said company in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth; Provided however, That nothing herein shall be construed to prevent the Connelville and Southern Pennsylvania railway company from building a road according to the terms of their charter, upon another route or location, and under their own or other franchises, than those pertaining to the Pittsburg and Connelville railroad company.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, before there is any further discussion upon this bill, I ask that the Clerk be permitted or requested to read the proceedings of a large citizens' meeting held in the city of Pittsburg, and the resolutions adopted at that meeting.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will be kind enough to read the proceedings of a Pittsburg meeting relative to the Pittsburg and Connelville railroad.

The Clerk read as follows:

Connellville Railroad Charter.—Large and Influential Meeting of Citizens.—The Matter Fully and Freely Discussed.—The Legislature Asked to Re-Issue the Charter.—Committee Appointed to Visit Harrisburg.

In accordance with the published call of Mayor M'Carty, a public meeting of citizens was held last evening, at the Board of Trade Rooms, on Wood street, for the purpose of taking into consideration the proposed action of the Legislature in reference to the Pittsburg and Connelville railroad, and the general interests of the city of Pittsburg. The attendance was very large, and a number of our most prominent merchants and business men were present.

The meeting was called to order by Wm. S. Bissell, Esq., upon whose motion John Shipton, Esq., was called to the Chair. The Chairman read the call issued by Mayor M'Carty, and stated that the next business would be the appointment of Vice Presidents and Secretaries. The following gentlemen were chosen:

Vice Presidents.—Messrs. James I. Bennett, John P. Pears, John M'Creery, N. Vignally, N. J. Bigley.

Secretaries.—Reporters of the Press.

B. F. Jones, Esq., moved that a committee of seven be appointed to prepare resolutions for the consideration of the meeting. The motion was adopted, and the following gentleman appointed said committee; Messrs. B. F. Jones, James I. Bennett, John M'Creery, John Scully, James M. Bailey, Wm. S. Bissell and Charles H. Armstrong.

During the absence of the committee, the Chairman stated that a bill had been reported in the Senate, conditional that the road should be commenced within three months, and finished in three years. Not being conversant with the matter he hoped some gentleman would enter into an exposition of its provisions.

Colonel Biddle Roberts was called upon and stated that owing to his long absence from the city he was not familiar with the subject, but that from what he knew of Harrisburg, that if the right kind of men were sent there to press the matter upon the Legislature, they could do more than the largest meeting or the strongest resolutions would effect.

George Shiras, Jr., Esq., supposed that the position of the Pittsburg and Connelville railroad, and the particular occasion of the meeting was well understood in the community. The charter of the road was granted many years ago, and in view of the fact that the construction of the road appeared highly favorable to the route, our citizens had invested large sums of money to aid its completion. Two years ago, after its managers had advertised for proposals to finish the road, an effort had been made to take from it its charter, and a bill to that effect had passed both branches of the Legislature. The matter was brought before the United States circuit court, and after a fair and impartial trial, a decree was given in favor of the road. The act, however, still stands upon the statute books, and an effort is now being made to repeal it. The speaker concurred with Colonel Roberts that a committee consisting of citizens of weight and influence should be appointed to visit Harrisburg and urge the repeal of the bill.

Isaiah Dickey, Esq., desired to impress upon the meeting and the community the importance of repealing the bill. The speaker was at Williamsport when the case was tried, and the court, jury and witnesses appeared to be all on one side. They thought it strange that the case should be brought on, and appear in the community that the only object to view was to detain and embarrass the progress of the road.

C. D. Brigham, Esq., said that General J. B. Sweitzer was present, and suggested that the meeting would be glad to hear from him.

Gen. Sweitzer, in response, stated that he was heartily in favor of the Connelville railroad, as it would prove, when completed, a great and lasting benefit to the city of Pittsburg and Western Pennsylvania. He did not believe that one man could be found in the community who would say a word in opposition to the road, unless directly interested in the great monopoly that desired to control the Commonwealth. He had no desire to mince matters, and would say that he alluded to the Pennsylvania Central railroad. It had become a by-word that no man, however great his capital, could enter into any public enterprise, without first propitiating Tom Scott and the Pennsylvania railroad. It is not a burning shame that this great line of industry should be ruled by a set of men who are using their official positions for their personal aggrandizement. The stockholders of the road did not make one solitary dollar, while it was an undoubted fact that those who controlled it made thousands. They wanted the control of the Connellsville road in order to get hold of the minerals along its line, and it was certainly true for us to make use of all the means in our power to defeat them. A bill was now before the Legislature to put the road again on its feet, and to push it forward to completion, and a proper committee should be appointed to go to Harrisburg and aid in its passage.

The Committee on Resolutions then submitted the following report:

WHEREAS, The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, by the incorporation of the Pittsburgh and Connellsville railroad company, and by a long course of friendly legislation in regard to the said company, invited and encouraged the city of Pittsburg, the county of Allegheny, various boroughs and counties of Southwestern Pennsylvania, the city of Baltimore, together with the citizens thereof, to contribute large sums of money in the partial construction of the road of that company, with a view to the creation of an additional outlet to the commerce and products of the west; and whereas, the Legislature of Pennsylvania, at the session of 1864, did under the alleged abuse and misuse of their corporate privileges by the said the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad company, undertake to revoke and recall certain powers conferred upon the said company, and to thereby convert the proposed national thoroughfare into a high local road; and whereas, the said Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad company have recently, after a thorough investigation before an impartial jury and a court of distinguished ability, demonstrated the charges of abuse and misuses of their corporate powers to have been false and groundless; and

Whereas, A bill to rescind the said unjust legislation of 1864 is now pending before the Legislature; therefore, be it

Resolved, 1. That the producers and manufacturers of the east and west have a vested right in a free and untrammelled communication with each other, and that any monopoly interfering with such right is unjust, oppressive, and contrary to the spirit of American institutions.

2. That we desire to hereby express our conviction of the national importance of the designed route of the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad, our appreciation of the zeal and earnestness of the president and board of directors of that company, and our gratification at their recent and successful vindication of the management of their company against charges of misconduct urged against them as a pretext for unjust and unconstitutional legislation.

3. That we call upon our particular representatives, and upon right-minded legislators from all parts of our State, by rescinding the improper legislation of 1864, to keep pure and unsullied the faith of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, pledged to these communities by a long course of legislation.

4. That while we claim that it is within the power, and is the consequent duty of the Legislature, by the passage of a judicious general railroad law, to greatly promote the welfare of all parts of our State, we do not recognize such a general law as by any means a substitute for the particular relief herein before demanded.

5. That the West have a vital interest in this question, and the interests involved are too great to be overshadowed, and that the question of untrammelled intercourse between tidewater and the Ohio, and the great lakes, demand the prompt removal of every obstruction to their free and untrammelled communication.

6. That the time has come when the business of the western part of the State requires another outlet to tidewater, and that we must have the same rights that are given to the eastern part of the State; and that if the present opportunity should pass without the relief required being granted, that we recommend to the citizens of Pennsylvania, to make the subject of uncontrolled railroad legislation the basis of the next election for Representatives.

7. That a committee of twenty be appointed by the chairman of this meeting to carry a copy of these resolutions to Harrisburg, and to cause it to be laid before the Senate and House of Representatives.

Joseph E. King, Esq., moved that the report of the committee be adopted, and stated that he fully agreed with the resolutions. They were not abusive in their language, and did not charge faults upon others which properly belonged to us alone. No enterprise in the State had done so much to aid us as the Pennsylvania railroad, and it was only owing to the apathy of our citizens that the Connellsville railroad had not been completed. We had neglected our duty in this as in other public measures, and had literally done nothing to aid our railroads. The oil trade which, owing to our geographical position, properly belonged to us, is being carried to Cleveland, because the business men of Pittsburg had not sufficient energy or enterprise to improve the navigation of the Allegheny.

Mr. Shipton—Mr. King you must not say that we have done nothing for our railroads until the four millions of dollars subscribed to them by the city and county has been paid.

The question on the adoption of the resolutions was then put, and carried unanimously.

The following gentlemen were then appointed as the committee provided for in the resolutions to visit Harrisburg:

Messrs. B. F. Jones, William S. Bissell, General J. Bowman Switzer, J. W. Riddell, P. H. Luffman, James M. Bailey, John A. Cawghey, Alexander M. Watson, A. Garrison, John E. Dravo, John Black, Thomas M. Marshall, Jake Hill, A. Patterson, C. G. Hussey, C. D. Brigham, John M. Kirkpatrick, J. F. Richards, Alexander Miller, Thomas Moore.

The chairman announced that the train would depart for Harrisburg within an hour, and suggested that those members of the committee whose business arrangements would permit should leave at that time. The committee then retired to an adjoining room, and selected General Switzer as chairman.

There being no further business the meeting adjourned.

Mr. BILLINGFELT. Mr. Speaker, I would certainly not undertake to make any remarks on this question now before us, were it not for two reasons—one of which was brought about by the speech made by my colleague [General FISHER], and the other is from the fact that I have reason to believe my vote on this question, upon this occasion, will stand isolated and alone from that of the balance of our delegates in both branches of the Legislature.

The same fact existed three years ago, when the act now intended to be restored was then repealed, I then having the honor, in part, to represent my constituents in the House. It is true, the people of my great county are as yet not much exercised about this question. It is equally true that the main portion of them have other and, to them, more important matters to interest themselves in, than that of looking after the raging conflict between rival corporations; yet it is nevertheless a fact, that my constituents greatly prefer seeing their representatives here act wisely and justly, in all matters that may be presented to them during their legislative career. And whilst some of them may even now have their eyes upon us about this very question, others may hereafter search the Record and scrutinize our action, and finding that I alone, of our delegates, have voted contrary to that of my other colleagues, they may very naturally inquire for the reason, why this is so. This, to my mind, requires of me to give my reasons, and explain very briefly and to the best of my ability what governs my course of action on this subject.

I deem it unnecessary to go back and trace up the full history of this Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad company, and the various acts of the Legislature that brought it into existence and kept it alive until that memorable session of 1864, before alluded to, passed an act and killed it. Suffice it to say that company was chartered, as my colleague stated, thirty years ago, to build a railroad from Pittsburg, Connellsville, a distance of sixty miles. That far the road has been built—is in running order now—pays well and is of immense benefit, as well as a great blessing to that portion of the community through which it passes. It appears that by subsequent enactment they were allowed to extend the road through the counties of Fayette, Somerset and Bedford to the Maryland line—hence to connect with the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, and thereby shortening the distance to the city of Washington seventy-miles—a great and undeniable advantage to all western travel, and from the capital of the nation.

We have already heard, through the able remarks made by various Senators on this floor, how indispensable the completion of this road is to its terminus—how vastly beneficial it will be to the people of the western and southwestern portion of this great Commonwealth—how rich in resources these counties are, through which this road is proposed to be built.

They seem to be unsurpassed in timber, in coal, and other mineral wealth. And yet it seems they are to be deprived, through the act of an ungrateful Legislature, of the only means by which these resources are to be developed, in denying them the poor privilege of completing this railroad, proposed to be built along the only practicable route, that will afford these injured people an outlet to reach a market. The inquiry very naturally arises, why is this so, how was it done, and why is it still to be persisted in?

Now, sir, I have been, from the very inception of this question in 1864 up to the present time, a dissatisfied individual, as far as the different corporations engaged in the controversy are concerned, I am neither partial to the western nor the eastern portion of our great State. I have patiently listened to all the argument for and against this measure—both inside of this Chamber and outside, wherever parties wished to have my attention. My sole aim is to do equal and exact justice to all, and endeavor to prevent injustice being done to any.

This unfortunate state of affairs exists because of the inability of the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad company to complete their road at a time when they were met with a train of misfortune, unavoidable on their part, such as the panic of 1857; the absconding of one of their officers with a quarter of a million of their funds, followed with the great and monster rebellion, which not only shook this nation of ours from centre to circumference, but paralyzed nearly every public enterprise in the country.

The wrong was done (for as such I shall ever term it) during that never to be forgotten session of the Pennsylvania Legislature of 1864—when the charter of this company of 1864 was repealed—at the instance of the Pennsylvania railroad company, and a new company chartered to complete the road at the very time when the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad company had recovered from their shock—at the very time when they gave evidence of a replenished treasury—at the very time when they were receiving proposals and were ready to put the balance of their road under contract.

Their charter was repealed. The sick man was killed by a single blow—the very moment when his recovery was apparent, under the plea of misusing and abusing their charter—lawyers call it non user, I believe. I would strike out the word non in this case, and say because of the expected user. I firmly believe that had the user not been feared the non user would have never been thought of by those who were afraid of a rival route to the great west.

This great wrong is persisted in by whom? Not by the people along this proposed route, nor is it intended to benefit; not by the citizens of Philadelphia, whose interests are alleged to be endangered thereby; not by my constituents; not by the people in general throughout the Commonwealth; but, sir, by an already overgrown monopoly—the Pennsylvania railroad company, whose power is already so extensive with, if not greater than that of this great State of ours. I am a friend of all railroads, and would give my vote to further the projects of any and every railroad company that would come to the Legislature for all necessary rights and privileges.

I am in favor of making a perfect gridiron of railroads all over the State. But, sir, I would not, by my vote and voice, assist either the Pennsylvania railroad company or any other company to paralyze the efforts of another corporation, who may have in contemplation the building of a necessary rival route. From all the information I can obtain, not only the members representing those districts immediately interested in this road, but the people in those districts, with a unanimity unexpressed, are in favor of retaining the rights and privileges to the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad company, of which they were unlawfully, unjustly and outrageously deprived; whilst, on the other hand, I see with my own eyes, and hear with my own ears, that the only parties who are most anxious to keep from this outraged company their undisputed rights is the Pennsylvania railroad company, their agents, their attorneys, and such other persons who are either directly or indirectly interested in that corporation. I am only alluding to those outside of this body, who are here now, and to others who have lately been here, clamoring to prevent this righteous legislation proposed by this bill.

I respect the energy and enterprise exhibited by the Pennsylvania railroad company. I will sustain it in all that is just and right. But, sir, I do protest against the manner in which they make their influence felt all over State.

This repealing act—which we propose to pass—reserves a right that will still enable the Pennsylvania railroad company to build a railroad—from the same point to any other point in the State.

It must be remembered when they repealed the charter of the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad company, they immediately followed with an act to charter what is called the Connellsville and Southern Pennsylvania railroad company, with unlimited power, the privilege to occupy every inch of ground over the whole southwestern portion of the State, thereby preventing every other company to build a foot of railroad. Do not we all know that the Pennsylvania railroad company never yet asked for anything but what it was given to them? Have they not now chartered privilege to traverse this whole State with railroads?

Who but does not remember that when they purchased the Sunbury and Erie railroad, and were in trouble for want of means to complete it, the Legislature, in 1861, stepped forward—reached out a helping hand toward them—cancelled our first mortgage to the amount of three million five hundred thousand dollars, permitted the company to create a first mortgage to foreigners, while we were content to exchange those of the State for a second mortgage? And who fails to remember that during the same session, when this same Pennsylvania railroad company were in trouble, the Legislature stepped forward to help them out, by not only repealing a solemn covenant—the payment of the tonnage tax—but, sir, in addition to that, exempted the company from the payment of nearly a million of dollars of tonnage tax that was then due and owing to the Commonwealth? All this was done—and how much more would have been done if it had been asked for? In view of all these things, ought we not to show some magnanimity by simply permitting the outraged people to recover their rights, which they have been so unjustly deprived, because the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad company had for a time been in the same dilemma as was the Pennsylvania railroad company? Let us wipe out of existence that unjust act of the session of 1864, which at one fell swoop, without cause and without even investigating the charges contained in the preamble of the bill, swept out of existence the dearest rights of the people in southwestern Pennsylvania, only because this monster unlawfully so willed it.

A few words in regard to the remarks of my colleague, General FISKEN, who seems to be so very closely attached to the interests of Philadelphia. He cannot be more so than I, and I glory in her prosperity, yet I cannot believe with him that this great State of ours should so far isolate herself from the rest of mankind as to prevent our railroads from connecting with those of other States for fear of building up rival cities. How long could Philadelphia continue to prosper under such a state of things? How could she have prospered had we fostered such a narrow-minded policy like the one under contemplation, of preventing the development of the resources in the southwestern counties, just because they may find an outlet to a market in a city of a neighboring State? Shall we deny the people in those counties the privilege of choosing whether they shall take their produce to the city of Philadelphia or to Baltimore and Washington?

I am somewhat engaged in the manufacturing business myself, and will send my goods to Baltimore as to any other place, provided I can obtain a fair price for them; and sir, where is the manufacturer or the merchant, either in Philadelphia or any other part of our State, who would hesitate to do the same? And yet if we should follow the advice of my colleague, we would be compelled to shut out all trade from other States and confine it within our own limits. My colleague alleges that the city of Philadelphia pays a larger portion of the taxes into the State Treasury. Can we wonder at that, since she persists, according to her argument, in preventing the development of the resources of the richest portion of our State?

Again, if we are to pursue the policy laid down by him, what need could we have to rebuild the Columbia bridge, which I hope may be completed without delay? And yet, sir, this very bridge is needed to complete a link in that great line of railway extending from New York to that very city of Baltimore. We certainly ought to be consistent. He very truly said that the "Old Guard" sent us to this body with the full confidence that we would faithfully serve them. The question very naturally arises, Who of us serves them most faithfully on this important question? Either the one or the other must certainly be in the wrong. Heavens! for them to decide. We both claim to have equal rights and to have justice done us; it is our duty, also, to mete out equal and exact justice to others. Our constituents are blessed with all the rights and privileges necessary for them to pursue the even tenor of their way. Whilst enjoying all these, shall we deny it to our sister counties, who are deprived of all because a great monopoly desires?

I regret sincerely the inability of my colleague to give sufficient force to his argument without dragging in the name of our distinguished friend, Mr. Stevens, because a member of Congress from the southwestern part of the State thought proper to request him to call the attention of my colleague to this subject. Mr. Stevens did certainly not desire it. It was uncalled for. He also seems to be greatly exercised and troubled with what he terms the Ghost of Banquo, hovering around and shaking his gory locks at him. Of that I know nothing; I never saw it; it never troubled nor haunted me with a visit, nor have I heard a single Senator on this floor, during the whole course of their extended remarks on this subject, even intimate that he "did it." It must certainly be all imagination on his part, which is the most charitable construction that I can place upon his fears.

I, sir, have as yet found no sufficient reason to change my views upon this subject since 1864, and to satisfy me of the insincerity on the part of the Pennsylvania railroad company of any of the reasons as contained in that long state of resolutions and contract, with the repealing and chartering. I need only refer to the amendment offered by my friend, Mr. BIGHAM, of Allegheny, then a member of the House, to the bill proposing to charter the Connellsville and Southern Pennsylvania railroad company, to take the place of the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad company, which was as follows:

"Provided, that if the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad company put their road from the Maryland line, in Bedford county, to Connellsville, under contract, within three months, and expend at least one million and five hundred thousand dollars, within eighteen months from the passage of this act, and complete the road within two years and a half, then the rights, privileges and powers granted by the first section of this act shall be, and are hereby restricted, to the construction of a road to connect with the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad at Turkey Foot confluence, or any other point east thereof."

Which was rejected by a vote of yeas 26, nays 67.

This proves conclusively, to my mind, that the charter of the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad company was not repealed for the reasons given in the preamble, nor for the reasons alleged by those opposed to reinstate the charter of the first named company.

In conclusion and in answer to another point or charge in the argument of my colleague, is the fact that the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company purchased at a low price and is now the owner of a portion of the stock of the bonds of this Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad company. Is this an exception? Is not most of the stock as well as most of the bonds of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad, as well as of the Pennsylvania railroad company, now owned and held by foreigners? And yet no complaint is made.

I say give to those people of the southwestern counties, as well as to all others who may need it, a liberal and fair opportunity of railroad facilities, no matter "who becomes the owner of its bonds or stocks." I shall cast my vote for the repeal of this act of 1864, which I consider one of the most flagrant acts of the Legislature upon our statute books. I do it, sir, with a full consciousness of the rectitude of my intention, and with the firm belief that in so doing, it will meet with the approbation of that great people of Lancaster county, whom I feel proud to represent in this body.

Let the record made by us on this question, both of my colleague and myself, go before that great people, and, sir, I am not afraid of their verdict.

Messrs. JACKSON, BROWNE (of Lawrence) and BIGHAM severally addressed the Senate. Their remarks are published in the Appendix.

EVENING SESSION.

The Senate met at 7 1/2 o'clock, P. M. Messrs. BURNETT, WORTHINGTON, DAVIS, LOWRY, BIGHAM, SEARIGHT, COLEMAN, LONDON and HALL, Speaker, severally addressed the Senate. Their remarks, with the remainder of the session, and the discussion on the Pittsburgh and Conneville railroad, will be found in the Appendix.

SENATE.

FRIDAY, February 15, 1867.

The Senate met and was called to order at 10 o'clock, A. M., by the SPEAKER. Prayer was offered by Mr. GRAHAM, Senator from Allegheny.

On motion of Mr. CONNELL, the reading of the Journal of yesterday was dispensed with.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, I move that the regular morning orders be dispensed with, and that we proceed immediately to the consideration of the Conneville railroad bill. The friends of the bill think that, as we have consumed so much time in the discussion of this question, it would be best to consume as little time as possible upon it this morning, as I find there is a very general desire on the part of Senators to take up the private calendar.

The motion of Mr. GRAHAM was agreed to. The bill was read by its title.

On the question, Will the Senate agree to the first and only section of the bill, as amended?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. GRAHAM and Mr. RIDGWAY, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingsfelt, Browne (Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Coleman, Davis, Graham, Lowry, Searight, Stutzman, Taylor, Wallace and White—13.

NAYS—Messrs. Burnett, Connell, Donovan, Glaze, Haines, Jackson, James, Landon, M'Cauley, Randall, Ridgway, Hoyer, Schall, Shoemaker, Walls, Worthington and Hall, Speaker—17.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. M'CONAUGHY was excused from voting. His reasons therefor will appear in the Appendix.

During the call, Mr. BURNETT said: Mr. Speaker, I desire to have an opportunity of stating to the Senate the reasons for my vote on this bill. I do not desire to occupy the time of the Senate; I would, therefore, ask leave to print my reasons for my vote in the Record.

Leave was granted.

Also, during the call, Mr. COLEMAN said: Mr. Speaker, I would like to say two or three words, giving the reasons for my vote on this bill. There is a conflicting sentiment in my mind as to how I should vote on this subject; one strongly induces me to vote against the passage of this bill, because I see, if we continue in our action, in the repeal of this bill, it acknowledges a right which I am very desirous this Legislature should have in regulating and repealing obnoxious charters passed by previous Legislatures. It is a right we ought to have if we have not got it. We have, I believe, that right, under the present Constitution, in regard to charters passed since 1857; but with regard to this charter, it seems to me somewhat doubtful. From all the evidence brought forward by the decisions of the judges, it seems, to my mind, that we have not that right in this case, at any rate, without giving these parties a fair hearing, which we must acknowledge they did not have in 1864. I therefore would like very much to vote conscientiously on this subject, because it will give us power over all these corporations; and it is almost my hope that this thing will carry, and that the Supreme Court of the United States will so decide. But I fear that such will not be the result. I cannot conscientiously believe that we had the right, in 1864; I believe the act unconstitutional; I believe the Conneville railroad company were deprived of their charter, without any hearing, and in the most unjust manner. However, I would like this precedent, because it would give us the power, which I am very anxious to obtain, over these corporations. It seems to me madness in the company, which, we all know, could force this legislation upon us, because it will give us power over that corporation, which many of us desire to have, and it seems to me madness on their part to urge this sort of legislation on any small corporation; because, Mr. Speaker, if they do succeed in this, the day will not be far distant when some of us, or our successors, can draw an equally beautiful preamble, and pass laws repealing charters. I hope that day may come soon, as I cannot conscientiously vote—I shall vote for the first section of this bill.

Also, during the call, Mr. COWLES said: Mr. Speaker, inasmuch as I cannot vote on the bill to-day (having paired off), and do not wish to detain the Senate, I ask permission to print my reasons for my final vote in the Record.

Leave was granted.

Also, during the call, Mr. LONDON said: Mr. Speaker, I desire to say one word. I have taken no part in the discussion of this measure. The word I wish to say is this: First, I desire to vote correctly. I shall be very sorry if my vote shall do injustice to any class of enterprising, high-minded men. In 1864 the Legislature repealed the Connellsville charter. Of the merits of this act I have said nothing; I have nothing to say now. After that repeal, the Connellsville charter men took their case to the court. They have received a decision upon their case, as I understand it, in their favor. The case is still in the hands of the court, undergoing investigation. Believing that, inasmuch as it is in the court, the court is competent to consider and adjudicate, and believing that there will be a speedy decision of the thing, and believing it better for that court to finally decide it than to reverse the legislation of 1864, I vote "no."

Also, during the call, Mr. SCHALL said: Mr. Speaker, as it is desirable to go through this calendar, to-day, I ask leave to have the reasons for my vote printed in the Record.

Leave was granted.

Mr. SHOEMAKER also made a similar request, which was granted.

Also, during the call, Mr. TAYLOR said: Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to give one reason for my vote. The Senator from Adams [Mr. M'CONAUGHY] seems astonished at our opposition to railroad corporations. I expect my vote to show that I am in favor of at least one railroad corporation; and while the gentleman to whom I have alluded is amazed at the declamations against such corporations, it will be seen that he is himself opposed to at least one of them. Now, sir, I think that I am consistent in voting for this section of the bill, and, at the same time, saying that I am as much opposed to railroad corporations as is the gentleman to whom I have referred, though perhaps not so much in favor of a particular corporation as that gentleman may be. I am in favor of all the railroads needed by the State. Therefore, I vote "aye."

Mr. WALLACE, also, during the call, said: Mr. Speaker, I have refrained from saying anything upon the merits of this bill. My position upon it has been well understood. I voted against the bill to repeal the corporate franchises of the Pittsburgh and Conneville road, and shall continue to occupy the position I then occupied. My reason for this is that I believe that Pennsylvania occupies the great thoroughfare from the West to the Atlantic seaboard; that we are in the position of a stop-gap; that passage; that it is our duty to provide for easy transit for the varied products of the world to the great valleys of the West, as well as their products in return; that a restrictive policy, administered by us, will tend to injure the people and the cities of Pennsylvania; that our geographical position compels us to open the way and not to block it; that our duties, as Pennsylvanians as well as members of the great family that composes the Republic of the United States, compels us to open the way; as Pennsylvanians, as citizens of the United States, as members of a great and powerful family, we should aim to bind these great and powerful States together by Brierean arms that shall reach from one sea to the other. I am against any policy that will shut up our State. I am for a policy that will open the door and invite the wealth of the entire Republic from seaboard to seaboard, the wealth of the entire world to pass through our borders. I am for a liberal policy on this subject, and I regard the repeal of the bill granting the Connelville railroad the right of way through our limits, as an unjust bill, loaded with a fatal policy; and I shall therefore vote to repeal the bill that repealed its corporate franchises. I vote "aye."

Also, during the call, Mr. WHITE said: Mr. Speaker, it seems to be common for Senators to give their reasons for voting. I had the privilege, the other day, of giving my reasons. I am satisfied with that; but I will just add one more reason here. This is an act to repeal an act which repealed the charter of the Connelville railroad company.

Now, sir, ever since I have been a member of this Senate, I have tried to be consistent in casting my votes upon the railroad policy of this Commonwealth. If any gentleman, from any section of the State, came to me, and told me that he had a railroad corporation for which he wished me to vote, I always, when I understood that its provisions were clear, and that it was in the hands of responsible parties, I always said, I am all right on that subject. I will vote for your bill. That has always been my rule. And I think that in my voting for this bill, which repeals the charter of a company, which had an existence for many years in this Commonwealth—a charter which was repealed at a time when there was every promise of a sure success—I think I would be consistent with the policy I have pursued all along, in voting favorably upon this bill. Guided by these reasons, I vote "aye."

Mr. CONNELL moved that the Senate reconsider the vote on the first and only section of the bill.

Mr. LOWRY moved to postpone the further consideration of the subject for the present.

Mr. RIDGWAY moved to amend the motion, by striking out the words "for the present," and inserting in lieu thereof the word "indefinitely."

The amendment was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to postpone the further consideration of the subject indefinitely?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. RIDGWAY and Mr. CONNELL, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Burnett, Connell, Donovan, Glaze, Haines, Jackson, James, Landon, M'Caless, Randall, Ridgway, Royer, Schall, Shoemaker, Walls, Worthington and Hall, Speaker—17.

NAYS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingslet, Brown

(Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Coleman, Davis, Graham, Lowry, Searight, Stutzman, Taylor, Wallace and White—13.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

During the call, Mr. BROWN (Mercer) said: Mr. Speaker, it does seem to me that this bill is killed dead enough, without tramping it under our feet after having thus slain it. It seems to me that the majority in this Senate ought to be sufficiently magnanimous to permit the consideration of the bill, after having resolved to reconsider, to lie by for a few days. I take it, that when a motion is made to reconsider, it is made in earnest. What time have we now for reconsideration, in case a motion follows to postpone indefinitely? It seems to me, the bill is dead enough for the present, and if the motion to reconsider is made seriously, let us have time to reconsider. I hope, in our cool, calm moments, we will resolve yet to do justice to this corporation. I therefore vote "no" on the motion to postpone indefinitely.

THE GENERAL FREE RAILROAD BILL.

Mr. RIDGWAY moved that the bill entitled An act to authorize the formation of railway corporations, be made the special order for Tuesday morning next, and that its consideration be continued until disposed of.

The motion was

Agreed to.

The SPEAKER stated that it should be understood that the consideration of the bill could not be proceeded with at that time until after the regular orders had been gone through with.

BILLS CONSIDERED AND PASSED.

On motion of Mr. RANDALL, the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of bill entitled An act to incorporate the Philadelphia coal company, which bill had been objected off the private calendar.

The bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. WHITE, the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of bill entitled A further supplement to an act increasing the fees of the several county officers of this Commonwealth, except in the city of Philadelphia and the counties of Allegheny, Bradford, Susquehanna and Sullivan, approved March 30, A. D. 1865, which bill had been laid over on the private calendar.

In committee of the whole, [Mr. COWLES in the chair], the bill was read and reported to the Senate without amendments.

The bill was again read.

Mr. WALLACE said: Mr. Speaker, this is an important bill, affecting the entire State. There are but a few Senators here, and I trust that the bill will be allowed to lie over.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Speaker, it is the extension of the act of 1865, which authorized the addition of twenty per cent. to the fees of all the county officers in this Commonwealth, excepting certain counties. The provisions of this bill are familiar to every person here. It is merely to continue the existing law. I would like to have it laid over on third reading.

The bill was then laid over on third reading.

On motion of Mr. HAINES, the Commitmittee on Railroads was discharged from the further consideration of a bill entitled A further supplement to an act to incorporate the Mifflin and Centre County railroad company.

And the rules having been dispensed with, the bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

BILLS TO BE CALLED UP.

Mr. SEARIGHT gave notice that he would now call up the resolution fixing the time of final adjournment, unless objected to.

Mr. CONNELL, I object.

Mr. SEARIGHT. Then I will call it up early next week.

Mr. DONOVAN gave notice that he would call up, at the first opportunity, the bill in reference to the salting of the streets in the city of Philadelphia.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION.

Mr. WHITE having asked and obtained leave to make a statement, said:

Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to make a statement personal to myself. A few days ago, when the final vote was taken on the bill to punish by fine any railroad corporation within this Commonwealth for excluding persons from their cars on account of color, I was in the Executive chamber attending to some business for one of my constituents before the Governor.

In the whole fight of the bill, and about the principles involved therein, I was present and participated. The whole matter was settled by all the previous votes, and the final vote, after the bill had passed second reading, was a mere formality, and for the reason stated I was not in the chamber when the yeas and nays were called on the final vote. Everybody knows I am and have been most heartily in favor of the bill. I now ask leave to record my vote in favor of the final passage of the bill.

Leave was accordingly given.

On motion of Mr. DONOVAN, the Speaker adjourned the Senate until 7 o'clock on Monday evening.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

FRIDAY, February 15, 1867.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed the House of Representatives that the Senate has concurred in the amendment made by the House of Representatives to Senate bill numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

Senate bill No. 197, a further supplement to the act to charter the Harrisburg bridge company, enabling the company to raise money to rebuild the bridge.

He also informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives requesting the Governor to return House bill No. 97, incorporating the Real Estate savings institution, to the House of Representatives, for the purpose of special amendment.

He further informed the House that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives, directing the Clerk of the House to change the name of Charles Norton to that of Charles Norton, where it occurs in bill No. 76 of the House, entitled An act to change the venue in the case of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania versus Jesse R. M'Carty, Joshua R. M'Carty, and Charles Morton, from the court of quarter sessions of the peace of Sullivan county to the court of quarter sessions of the peace of Bradford county.

BILLS ON THIRD READING CONTINUED.

Senate bill No. 324, entitled An act to repeal an act entitled A further supplement to the act incorporating the Pennsylvania railroad company, authorizing an increase of capital stock and to borrow money, approved the 21st day of March, A. D. 1866, to authorize the Pennsylvania Railroad company to increase its capital stock, to issue bonds, and to secure the same by mortgage, came up on third reading.

The bill was read as follows:

Be it enacted, &c., That the act entitled A further supplement to the act incorporating the Pennsylvania railroad company, authorizing an increase of capital stock, and to borrow money, approved the 21st day of March, A. D. 1866, be and the same is hereby repealed.

SEC. 2. That, for the purpose of retiring the present indebtedness of the Pennsylvania railroad company, whether by bond or otherwise, providing the facilities required by the increase of the business of said company, upon its road and connections, and for such other purposes connected with its business as the board of directors of said company may deem expedient, it shall be lawful for the said board of directors, from time to time, to issue additional shares of capital stock of said company to such amount as they may determine, and to apportion or dispose of the said shares in such manner and upon such terms as they may think best; and also, for either or all of the said purposes, to issue, from time to time, bonds of the said company, payable at such time as they may appoint, bearing interest at a rate not exceeding six per centum per annum, with or without provision for the payment, by the company, of any or all taxes on the principal or interest thereof; and to secure the said bonds by one or more mortgages of the whole or any portion of the railroad, estate, real and personal, and corporate rights and franchises acquired, and to be acquired, of the said company: Provided, however, That no bond shall, at any time, be issued in excess of the amount of the capital stock of the said company, outstanding at the time of such issue; but any such mortgage or mortgages, may, at the option of and to the amount fixed by the said bond, be made to secure with some rights, lien and privileges, bonds which subsequent increase of capital stock may enable the said board to issue, as well as to those which may lawfully be issued, at the date of the execution of said mortgage.

SEC. 3. That any mortgage or mortgages, executed and delivered as authorized by this act, shall be recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds for the city and county of Philadelphia, and shall thereupon, without further record, be a lien on the property mortgaged, wherever situated, as fully and effectually as if it had been recorded in each of the several counties in which the mortgaged premises, or any part thereof, are or may be situated.

Mr. MEYERS. Mr. Speaker, I ask that the bill of 1866, which is proposed to be repealed by this act, be read for the information of the House.

The bill was read as follows:

No. 243, a further supplement to the act incorporating the Pennsylvania railroad company, authorizing an increase of capital stock, and to borrow money.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the board of directors of the Pennsylvania railroad company shall have authority to increase, from time to time, the capital stock of the company; such increase not to exceed two hundred thousand shares.

SEC. 2. That the board of directors of the Pennsylvania railroad company, for the purpose of retiring their present mortgage bonds at maturity, increasing their motive power and cars, and providing suitable facilities along the line of their road, and at Philadelphia and Pittsburg, for the reception and accommodation of travelers, and storage of freight, and for other purposes necessary for, and connected with, the business of said company, be, and they are hereby, authorized to borrow, from time to time, such sums of money as they may deem needful, and to issue bonds therefor, in sums of not less than one hundred dollars, with coupons attached, bearing interest at the rate of six per centum per annum, and to secure the same by a mortgage of their railroad, constructed, or to be constructed, and all their property, real and personal, acquired, and all their corporate rights and franchises: Provided, That the amount of loans, hereby authorized shall not, at any time, exceed the amount of capital stock paid in.

E. W. DAVIS,

Speaker pro tem. of the House of Representatives.

DAVID FLEMING,
Speaker of the Senate.

Approved the 21st day of March, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six.

Mr. MEYERS. Mr. Speaker, the House will recollect that this bill came up the other day under a suspension of the rules, and that the House was refused to further suspend the rules for the passage of the bill. My suspicions that were aroused by hearing the bill read, are confirmed to some extent as to the nature and character of this bill, and also as to the nature and character of the bill proposed to be repealed by the first section,

Now, I am the last man upon this floor to cripple in any way a large public work. I am willing that the Pennsylvania railroad company, as well as any other company, shall have privileges to the full extent of its necessities, so far as they do not encroach upon the rights and privileges of others.

It is in fact, Mr. Speaker, notorious in the history of the Legislature of Pennsylvania, that not a single bill of the Pennsylvania railroad company is ever placed upon the private calendar, but every bill, either in this House or in the other, is passed by suspension of the rules, or placed upon the third reading, and the privilege not given to have the bill printed. I am at a loss to know why this is so. It was at least my experience here last winter, and it is known to be a notorious fact, that while almost every other local bill uncertain in its character must travel along the record over and over again, and must be placed properly on the calendar and printed for the instruction of the House, before it can pass here. But this corporation uniformly, and almost defiantly pass their bills through this House without having them printed. In other words, they put them in such a shape that they cannot be printed without the direct and positive action of the House. I am not opposing to the Pennsylvania railroad company having their capital stock increased, but I am opposed to this kind of legislation. Last winter, upon the assumption that they wanted to increase their capital stock for the purpose of retiring a portion of their indebtedness, they had the Legislature pass a bill authorizing them to issue stock to the amount of one million of dollars, and to issue bonds to the number of two hundred thousand. Now, what I am opposed to is, that, after they have taken advantage of that act, certain men, acting under the authority of that company, should come here and ask to have that act repealed, and that they shall have unlimited power in the increase of their stock. Nothing of that kind is contained in this bill, to give to that company the power to issue stock to any amount that they desire, whether it be ten, twenty, or five thousand millions of dollars. The reasons urged for that are spread upon the act and are spread upon it in such a way that it is impossible to tell what the object and purpose of the bill is.

That for the purpose of retiring the present indebtedness of the Pennsylvania railroad company, whether by bond or otherwise, providing the facilities required by the increase of the business of said company upon its road and connections, and for such other purposes connected with its business, as the board of directors of said company may deem expedient, it shall be lawful for the said board of directors, from time to time, to issue additional shares of capital stock of said company to such amount as they may determine and to apportion or dispose of the said shares in such manner and upon such terms as they may think best.

It has been, by the express sanction of this Legislature, if this bill is passed here, the power to the Pennsylvania railroad company to issue stock to any amount that they choose. Who has ever before heard of such legislation in this House? When has there ever been a bill passed which did not fix a limit to the amount of capital stock to be issued by an incorporation? If the Pennsylvania railroad company require additional stock to be issued to raise money for the purpose of retiring a portion of their debt, or for the purpose of the increase of their facilities and their business upon the road, let those facts be set forth, and let us know the figures in reference to the stock they want to issue, and if the representations are reasonable and plausible, and likely to be true, let the House grant them what is asked. Personally, I desire to throw no obstacle in the way of this road, but when they come here, after having received the benefit of the act passed last winter, giving them power to increase their capital stock (and I do not know how many more have been passed before for the same purpose), I am opposed to giving them power now to issue stock for all time to come, and to an unlimited amount. And when you do so, you do it for what purpose? As the bill says:

"That for the purpose of retiring the present indebtedness of the Pennsylvania railroad company, whether by bond or otherwise, providing the facilities required by the increase of the business of said company upon its road and connections, and for such other purposes, connected with its business, as the board of directors of said company may deem expedient."

Now, that is very general in its terms. This company require a large amount of material in the transaction of its business. They require iron, they require coal, they require rails, they require locomotives, they require cars, and it may be that they would put such a construction upon this act as to enable them to engage in any kind of business, which, in any way or form, may be connected with their business, for the purpose of using that immense capital they ask to be issued. What would be the result to the proud Commonwealth of Pennsylvania? Is it not to-day subservient to the power of this soulless corporation? If we do not stop somewhere I believe that in less than twenty-five years it will be dragged down, and tied hand and foot under this power, and that all the interests, all the rights, all the privileges that we have demanded of this Legislature as right to which the people are entitled, can only be granted at the instance and recommendation of this soulless power. Now, sir, they not only ask by this bill the power to increase their capital stock, but they further ask the power to issue bonds to an unlimited extent.

"And for such other purposes connected with its business as the board of directors of said company may deem expedient, it shall be lawful for the said board of directors, from time to time, to issue additional shares of capital stock of said company, to such amount as they may determine, and to apportion or dispose of the said shares in such manner and upon such terms as they may think best; and, also, for either or all of the said purposes, to issue, from time to time, bonds of the said company, payable at such time as they may appoint, bearing interest at a rate not exceeding six per cent. per annum, with or without provision for the payment by the company of any or all taxes on the principal or interest thereof, and to secure the said bonds by one or more mortgages of the whole or any portion of the railroad's estate, real and personal, and corporate rights and franchises acquired, and to be acquired, of the said company: Provided, however, That no bond shall, at any time, be issued in excess of the amount of the capital stock of the said company, outstanding at the time of such issue; but any such mortgage or mortgages may, at the option of and to the amount fixed by the said bond, be made to secure, with the same rights, lien and privileges, bonds which a subsequent increase of capital stock may enable the said board to issue, as well as to those which may lawfully be issued at the date of the execution of said mortgage."

Thus you will see, Mr. Speaker, that in addition to this grant of power to issue stock to an unlimited extent, they demand an additional privilege to enable them to issue bonds to an unlimited amount. In other words, it provides that not a single bond issued—it does not say all the bonds, mark you, but not a single bond—shall exceed in amount the capital stock outstanding, but, at the same time, they can issue bonds to an unlimited number. It amounts to placing in the hands of this corporation a power unlimited in extent and incalculable in its effects; for, if its effect is evil when that power is weak, what will be the effect when that power is great? Why, sir, it cannot be measured by the imagination of man; it can only be measured by the consequences which must fall upon the people of this Commonwealth, when it is too late to rectify the evil we have authorized.

Whoever drew this bill, Mr. Speaker, played well the part of a diplomatist, and kept well in view the rule laid down for the guidance of those persons, that the object of a diplomatist is not to put his ideas in language to be understood, but in language to conceal them. I have always thought that when a law is to be spread upon your statute books, the first idea was to clothe it in the shortest, briefest language, easy to be understood, easy to be comprehended, that there may be no question about its meaning, and that when it required interpretation the plain common sense of a common mind would at once understand its force and the extent of the power it conferred. What does this provision mean?

"Provided however, That no bond shall at any time be issued in excess of the amount of the capital stock of the said company outstanding at the time of such issue, but any such mortgage or mortgages may, at the option of and to the amount fixed by the said bond, be made to secure, with the same rights, lien and privileges, bonds which a subsequent increase of capital stock may enable the said board to issue, as well as to those which may lawfully be issued at the date of the execution of said mortgage."

I never before saw such language in my life,

I am unable to understand its meaning or signification.

Now, if some person who is acquainted with this bill will tell me what it means, and the extent of that proviso, or tell me wherein exists the necessity of the unlimited power to issue bonds and stock for the purpose of retiring their indebtedness and increasing the business facilities of the road, then, sir, I am willing to vote for the bill. But unless that can be shown, I shall insist that this bill shall be defeated, or, if not defeated, that it shall be so amended as to limit the issue of stock to a reasonable amount.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I do not intend to occupy much of the time of this House in reference to this matter, for I do not think it is necessary. The gentleman's bugbear of his own conception has not scared me. The gentleman's wholesale charge of corruption does not disturb my equanimity at all. I have no apprehension that this company, or any other company that can be organized by this Legislature, that any creature of this body can get control of the State of Pennsylvania to such an extent as to lead it to its ruin. That is simply absurd, and simply ridiculous, and it is only used here for the purpose of scaring men out of their propriety, and convincing the majority of this House that it is not proper to do anything against the wishes of the gentleman from Northampton [Mr. METZGER]. I am not one of those to participate in that apprehension at all, and that gentleman does not entertain that apprehension in any way or degree, because that charge can only be sustained by the broad proposition that by influences that are improper and corrupt that this railroad company can get advantages here such as he talks about.

Now, sir, what does this bill provide? It provides about precisely, and in almost the same terms, what the bill of last winter did, that this company shall be authorized to issue stock for legitimate purposes to promote the operations of that road. I take it, that it provides for nothing more—nothing less. The idea that this company, or any other company, would issue stock to the extent of five thousand millions of dollars, and bonds to the same extent, is absurd, because the men are not fools that are operating in this matter. What do they want of five thousand millions of stock or five thousand millions of bonds, or any amount of stock or bonds in excess of what the necessities of the road absolutely require? And that is all the bill proposes to give them. The gentleman had much to say about this road coming here last winter and having a bill passed, and that after having derived all the advantages of another bill, I am authorized to say that nothing was done under that law of last winter, and for this reason: It was found, as will be apparent upon reading the bill, that the bank stockholders in the city of Philadelphia to the extent of five millions of dollars, were not entitled under the act to receive any of this stock or to participate in the advantages of this bill. That was so determined by the dictator of this company. In order to give that advantage to the stockholders of the city of Philadelphia is mainly the reason why this bill is introduced. I cannot say, as the gentleman did, that there is anything else. He says that it is impossible for anybody to understand this bill, and that it is written by the hand of an astute diplomatist. If that is true, then why did the gentleman waste an hour's time of this House elucidating and portraying the enormities of a thing that no man can understand?

Mr. MEYERS. I did not say that of the whole bill, but only of a part of it.

Mr. LEE. Then why say anything about it if neither he nor anybody else could understand it?

Mr. MEYERS. I did not say anything about a portion of it, because I am afraid there is a snake in it.

Mr. LEE. What kind of a snake?

Mr. MEYERS. Well, a copperhead.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, it is the practice of some whose vision is jaundiced to see a snake in everything they do not approve of themselves. Everything presented here, however fair and proper, that he does not favor appears to him to have a snake in it. Those who are so very familiar with those reptiles seem to be troubled with them in their dreams as well as in their waking hours. What this company wants is the power to increase its facilities so as to better carry on the business that it is doing for this Commonwealth and other States. But the gentleman says, "give us the exact penny; tell us exactly how much you want." It is as literally impossible for them to do that as for me to tell him how much the gentleman shall cut between this and the first of January next. This company cannot tell. How shall they tell how many passengers will come up here to-morrow from Philadelphia? How shall they tell how great facilities it will want during the coming year, or during any coming time? How shall it tell how many rails and cross-ties, and this, and that, and the other thing it will want? It cannot possibly arrive at a knowledge of the contingencies, and hence the propriety of this bill. They ask for that which the purpose and object of the road require them to do, the power to accommodate the people, and I trust that this House will not be scared out of its propriety by this five thousand million idea of the gentleman from Northampton, for it amounts to nothing. Talk about diplomacy! I look upon that as a sheer piece of diplomacy. This bill is fair and just in its provisions, and asks for nothing but what is absolutely necessary for the accommodation of the people along the line of this road, and those who feel disposed to shirk over it. This company desire to do that which will promote the interests of this State, and I trust this Legislature will enable them to do so.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Mr. Speaker, my objections to this bill are not that I am scared or anything of that sort, but I do not like to vote for a bill that I cannot understand. The other day, when this bill came up, we had had no opportunity to examine it, and we asked that it might be printed that we might learn the provisions contained in it. The gentleman having charge of the bill refused us that favor. It does seem to me that it is almost impossible in language so obscure that it will be before you. If the gentleman asked or by this company is so simple in its features as the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. LEE] has stated—a simple proposition for the power to increase their capital stock—why could they have not asked that in plain terms? I think I could have expressed that in three lines, and given the city of Philadelphia the right to take stock too.

It does seem to me there must be something more in this bill; something that is not so simple. If I can make anything out of it, from hearing it read, there is some provision exempting the bonds from taxation, if they do so to do, and a great many other things that I cannot properly understand. I will not vote for this bill until I can see it printed and examine it, and then, if I find nothing more in it than the gentleman from Philadelphia has stated, I will be willing to favor it. I am in favor of giving this, and every other great public work, all the conveniences it wants. But I am opposed to and cannot favor this kind of legislation.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I have determined to make it a rule that I will not vote for any railroad matter that I do not understand. You will remember that during the last session of the Legislature a bill was introduced here relative to the Philadelphia and Erie railroad, which was spurred and waded through under a suspension of the rules, and hence, and so happened merely by chance, to vote right on it, and while nine-tenths of the members of the House think, voted wrong, and a very considerable number of those who voted for the bill changed their votes after they saw what it was. It had the biggest kind of an anacanda in it. Then there was another bill in reference to what was called the Manufacturers' and Consumers' Anthracite company, or something of that kind. It was introduced and rushed through in the same way and no man knew what was in it. That is, perhaps, a little too broad an assertion, however, for I suppose some did know what was in it, but some who voted for it did not. Now, I mean to vote for no bill of this character, no bill that has the odor about it that this one has, until I see it and examine it. This bill was introduced here the other day, in a very innocent sort of a way, and there existed the most overwhelming reasons why it should pass at that time, and we were told by the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. LEE] that if it did not pass that particular day it would not make a particle of difference whether it passed at all or not.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman must have misunderstood me. He is wrong in his statement, and wrong in his premises. In the first place, I did not say that about it, and in the second place, I did not introduce the bill.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman introduced the bill, and I leave it to him to say if he did not make the statement that there was to be a meeting of the directors of the company the next day, and if the bill did not pass in time for them to receive it at their meeting it would be of no use.

Mr. LEE. That is true, about half of it. I did say it was important they should have it at that time, and it is now, because the directors have adjourned from that day awaiting the action of this House.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I would then suggest that they continue to adjourn from day to day until we have an opportunity to have the bill printed and examine it. And I shall insist that the directors of the Pennsylvania railroad company shall go on adjourning from day to day until we can know what we are doing, before we pass this bill for them. I am acting under oath, and I am not going to vote in the dark for something that I do not understand to accommodate the directors of the Pennsylvania railroad company. The people of my section are under no obligation to the Pennsylvania railroad company or the officers of that company. I think I shall vote against this bill in the end, and I certainly shall unless it is printed and we have an opportunity to examine it. It does, I believe, what has never knowingly been done in this body before.

It authorizes this company, already overwhelpingly overgrown, and already controlling much of the legislation of this State, to increase its capital stock without limit. It is true that one or two mining bills introduced here did the same thing, but the case was different with these companies. This bill allows this company, already having a gigantic power in this State and growing every day, to increase its capital stock without limit, and thereby increase its power in the same proportion. That is one reason why I shall vote against it. Then it seems to contain some mysterious provisions (which, however, may be plain enough upon consideration), giving this company the right to issue bonds of an amount not exceeding its capital stock, and to secure these bonds by mortgages, and makes some arrangement about paying taxes upon them by the company, or by the holders, perhaps by nobody at all. I do not understand it; and I see the bill in good plain letters, in good round print, that I may see just what it does mean in reference to the taxation of this issue of an unlimited amount of stock and bonds. Then, there is another objection. It allows that these bonds, so issued, shall be secured by mortgages on the property of the company, wheresoever situated. This company owns property in one county and another all over this Commonwealth, and in a very considerable number of counties it owns real estate.

Now, the third section of this bill requires that the mortgage shall be recorded in the city of Philadelphia, and, of course, it takes precedence as a lien upon that property wherever situated. Now, that company owning property in Fayette county and having mortgages recorded in Philadelphia against it, any persons in Fayette county desiring to purchase that property have no way of knowing whether that property is encumbered or not. That information cannot be obtained in the county of Fayette, and mortgages to any extent may exist against it in Philadelphia which they know nothing about.

Mr. LEE. I would like to ask the gentleman, if he was going to buy a piece of property from this company, which they alone had the right to sell, if he would not look out for this matter of encumbrance?

Mr. BOYLE. I do not want to be obliged to go to the city of Philadelphia to get the information. I want this company to be situated like any other land seller in Fayette county, required to record the encumbrances on their property in the county.

I will vote against this bill if it is forced to a passage now, and I think I will vote against it if it is allowed to go over for the present. But I demand here that this bill shall be printed, and shall not be forced through now, as a right due the members of this House, that we shall have an opportunity, before acting upon it, to examine such a bill as this, that may vitally affect the interests of the State.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, then I understand that no further action can be had upon this bill at all if that demand is enforced. If that demand is not controlled by a majority of this House we might just as well stop here. That will do as a piece of rhapsody, but, I suppose, whatever the gentleman may demand, if I interpose my demand here, it will be just as good as his. I suppose what a majority of this House says about it will be the law, whatever the gentleman may demand.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, that I have learned to my sorrow. I have learned by experience that when the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. LEE] demands anything on the railroad question that my counter demand does not amount to much.

Mr. MEYERS. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of this bill be postponed until next Friday morning, and that the bill be printed and placed upon the private calendar.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I ask the gentleman to withdraw his motion until I make a few remarks.

Mr. MEYERS. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw the motion for the present.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, as I have but a few remarks to make upon this bill I prefer to make them now, as I may not be present when the bill comes up again, in case it is postponed. There is no doubt, however, that it is ordered that this bill is to be passed at this time, because we have had the same experience in reference to bills of this kind for years. My experience has taught me that motions made by certain gentlemen here representing the interests of the Pennsylvania railroad company carry. From the time that I first occupied a seat upon this floor up to this time, that has been the fact when a motion simply required a majority. Therefore, I have no doubt that this bill will go through. But before it does I desire to put my protest upon record against this method of legislation, as regards this bill, as well as all bills of this character.

I have no feeling against the Pennsylvania railroad, and never had. I have not an unkind feeling against any gentleman here representing that road, and never had. But I have convictions upon this method of legislation which I propose to utter upon all suitable occasions in the hope that the people of Pennsylvania will listen to this protest, and have some doubts as to the wisdom of this course shall be applied to bills affecting the Pennsylvania railroad as to all other bills. That is one reason why I protest against the passage of this bill. And I desire here to say that I think the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. LEE] had no excuse for introducing the word corruption here. The gentleman from Northampton [Mr. MEYERS], so far as I understood him, never intimated corruption here, and no person opposed to this bill has intimated or used an expression which can, by any possible construction, be made so intemperate as to say, myself, that I believe the Pennsylvania railroad company has a controlling influence in this Legislature, but by no means do I say that it is a corrupt influence. It may be a legitimate influence; it may be that the Pennsylvania railroad company never presents such bills as do not command at once a unanimous expression of favor on the part of the members of this House; it may be because their agents here are of that intelligent character that they present to the members of this House such bills as will legitimize themselves that they induce them to favor this bill. I do not intimate that an improper influence is or ever has been brought to bear here by this company. I concede that every member upon this floor is as honest as myself when he votes upon this bill. I, therefore, protest against this lugging in of questions irrelevant. I repeat that the Pennsylvania railroad has a controlling influence in this House, and it has ever since I have been here. It never has had its bills printed and placed on the tables of members. It has that controlling influence here which enables it to put its bills through here out of the regular order. Other bills have to be referred to appropriate committees, and printed, but the bills of this railroad company are never printed, so that we are not able to give them an examination that will enable us to tell what they are.

I repeat the assertion of the gentleman from Northampton [Mr. MEYERS], there are not ten men upon this floor who can tell what is in this bill. I confess that I am unable to understand it and I believe I have ordinary capacity for understanding bills, having made them study a business for twenty-five years.

Now, this bill of 1866 provides for the very thing apparently that the bill now before us does, with one exception. That limits the amount of increase of stock to two hundred thousand shares. The bill before us has no limit. The bill of last year, so far as I am able to see, accomplishes the same purpose that the bill before us does, with the exception that it limits the amount of capital stock to be issued, whereas the other does not. But the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. LEE] has intimated under this act of 1866, that the city of Philadelphia, which is a large stockholder, was not able to receive the benefits of this act.

Now, Mr. Speaker, if the whole object of this bill is to cure that defect, how easy to say so. Instead of coming with a bill to repeal the act of 1866, why not come in with a supplement to it providing that the city of Philadelphia shall receive the benefits of that act? That is what I cannot comprehend. Hence, I submit that the difficulty in understanding this bill is apparent, because the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. LEE] gives a reason for introducing it here, which would be very easy to put into a bill which would be plain to everybody. But this bill is not plain.

I cannot, for the life of me, tell what it is for. This bill of 1866, it seems to me, reads so as to cover everything for which it is said this road asks, that of giving it the power to furnish additional rolling stock to meet its increased business. The act of 1866 does that very thing by enabling it to increase its capital stock to the extent of two hundred thousand shares. It seems to me that this ought to be sufficient. The gentleman from Philadelphia does not say that it is not sufficient. There is no allegation made here that the act of 1866 would not enable it to increase its capital stock to the desired extent. The statement, however, is made that the city of Philadelphia cannot come in under the provisions of that act. That defect could, however, be very easily remedied without repealing the act of 1866. Anybody can understand the act of 1866, and nobody had any objection to its passage, simply because everybody could understand it.

The gentleman from Philadelphia asks why we talk about a thing we do not understand. Mr. Speaker, those are the very things we need to talk about in this Hall. We do not intend to pass bills until we know what they are, and I add to the demand of the gentleman from Fayette (Mr. BOYLE), that this bill shall be printed; that it be explained so we can understand it before it is passed. I do not understand it, and I do not believe there are ten men upon this floor who do understand it is it for? This act of 1866 already gives the Pennsylvania railroad the power to increase its means to accommodate the public, and if it is not sufficient give us any evidence of the fact and I will vote for giving it the power to make a further increase. I have no unfriendly feeling toward this road, and I will cheerfully and gladly vote for every bill to give it all the needed facilities that it requires. I am in favor of railroad facilities, and always have been. If this act of 1866 does not give it sufficient means, give them the power to increase its means. The act is plain and straightforward that I can understand it. If it does not give to the city of Philadelphia the advantages of this act, make a supplement to it that will bring Philadelphia within its provisions. Then, it seems to me, there will have been accomplished all that it is alleged this new bill is intended to accomplish. I shall, therefore, object to the passage of this bill in this form. I object, also, because it is not to be passed in the way that the rules of this House say all bills shall pass—that they shall be referred to the appropriate committee, printed and laid on our desks. And, Mr. Speaker, I ask what earthly reason there is for referring any bill that does not apply to this one? If such bills as this are to be rushed through without being reported, what is the use of having any committees? There has not been a bill read by the members of this House that required reference so much as this one does, for there has not been a bill introduced heretofore that used such obscure language and appeared to include so many things.

The gentleman from Fayette [Mr. BOYLE] has referred to one objectionable feature, that in reference to taxation. What does that provision mean? Read it and then tell me what it means. I confess I do not understand it. I ask the Clerk to read that portion of the bill.

The Clerk read as follows:

"That for the purpose of retreating the present indebtedness of the Pennsylvania railroad company, whether by bond or otherwise, providing the facilities required by the increase of the business of said company upon its road and connections, and for such other purposes connected with its business as the board of directors of said company may deem expedient, it shall be lawful for the said board of directors, from time to time, to issue additional shares of capital stock of said company, to such amount as they may determine, and to apportion or dispose of the said shares in such manner and upon such terms as they may think best, and also for either or all of the said purposes to issue, from time to time, bonds of the said company, payable at such time as they may appoint, bearing interest at a rate not exceeding six per centum per annum, with or without provision for the payment by the company of any or all taxes on the principal or interest thereof, and to secure the said bonds by one or more mortgages of the whole or any portion of the railroad's estate, real and personal, and corporate rights and franchises acquired and to be acquired by the said company; Provided, however, That no bond shall at any time be issued in excess of the amount of the capital stock of the said company, outstanding at the time of such issue, but any such mortgage or mortgages may, at the option of and to the amount fixed by the said bond, be made to secure, with the same rights, lien and privileges, bonds which a subsequent increase of capital stock may enable the said board to issue, as well as to these which may lawfully be issued at the date of the execution of said mortgage."

Mr. LEE. Will the gentleman allow me to explain that portion of the bill?

Mr. MANN. I prefer that the gentleman should explain it in a speech of his own without interpolating his remarks in mine.

The point I was endeavoring to enforce when I asked for the reading of this portion of the bill was that if there was any necessity for referring any bill to a committee it was necessary to refer such a bill as this. And if such a bill as this is not to be printed, then save the expense of a State printer, and stop printing any bills. It will be quite a saving to the State, in the item of printing, to pass all bills in this way, and if such a bill as this is not to be printed there is no use in printing any bills, for there has been no bill passed here this session which could not be as well, and I think better, understood than this one by listening to the reading of it from the Clerk's desk. I will venture to say that no three men can sit down and read this bill and agree as to what it means, unless they had held a caucus beforehand, and decided that matter. It is utterly impossible to tell what it does mean, for the reasons that I have given, and it is utterly impossible to dispense with the printing of such a bill, unless we dispense with one of the great rights of this House—the right to understand what is before it. These are the reasons which demand a postponement of this bill, or, if now pressed to a vote, its defeat; that it is so obscure in its language that members cannot understand it; that it is so important in its character that it ought not to be passed without a reference; and that it gives to the Pennsylvania railroad company an unlimited power in the issue of stock, a power which no railroad in this Commonwealth ever possessed up to this time, if I am correctly posted in regard to such matters. The bill of last winter limits the power of this railroad company; the one before us does not. The Legislature, up to this time, has deemed it a wise provision in all corporations, that, beyond a certain point, they shall not go in their strength.

I submit that when a corporation has acquired a power, an influence, and a wealth that this one has, it is time to put some limit to its strength. It is already, by its vast wealth, enabled to have upon this floor its paid attorneys, numbers of them, and it possesses the power to have a paid attorney in every county in the Commonwealth.

How do I know but that a portion of the means to be acquired by this bill is to be used in that way? There is nothing to show why this company requires such unlimited power, and no reason given by the friends of the bill. It has already its paid attorneys from Philadelphia to Pittsburg wherever it chooses to have them, and I do not know but it purposes to have them all over the Commonwealth.

But about that I have not much to say. I have always favored the employment of attorneys, and have always believed that they should have good fees. But I submit that it is somewhat dangerous to give this company unlimited power. I have known before now of wealthy individuals, having suits in court, who employed all the able attorneys in the neighborhood, much to the disadvantage of the other parties in the case. And, I tell you, it will be dangerous to the people of Pennsylvania if all the able attorneys in the State are employed by this company, and nothing left but the weak ones like the attorney that is attempting to advocate the rights of the people upon this floor at the present time.

Unless some tangible reasons are given before this House why this unlimited power should be given to this company, and why this bill should be passed in this way, I hope the House will insist upon having this bill postponed and printed, that we may have an opportunity to examine it.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I wish to say a word about the tax part of this bill, and I do not think it need any other explanation than the gentleman from Peter [Mr. Maxx] himself gave it. He asks to have it read, and when it was read it was so plain that he did not venture to touch it afterwards. This bill cannot relieve this company from State taxes, and it is but right this company should say whether the bondholders, by virtue of holding this stock, shall pay the tax or the company pay it. I think it is perfectly plain, and the gentleman evidently so regarded it or he would have said something about it after it was read. I do not know about this company having paid attorneys all over the State. The gentleman shows that he knows more about that than I do. I hope this bill will either pass or be defeated to-day.

Mr. JENKS. Mr. Speaker, we ought not to vote upon a bill as important as this without knowing exactly what it means. In order that we may know something about this bill let us analyze the second section. The first clause declares "that for the purpose of retiring the present indebtedness of the Pennsylvania railroad company, whether by bond or otherwise." The second clause, "providing the facilities required by the increase of the business of said company upon its road and connections." The third clause, "and for such other purposes connected with its business as the board of directors may deem expedient." For all these purposes "it shall be lawful for said board of directors, from time to time, to issue additional shares of capital stock of said company to such amount as they may determine, and to apportion or dispose of the said shares in such manner and upon such terms as they may think best; and also, for either or all of the said purposes, to issue, from time to time, bonds of the said company, payable at a fixed rate of interest, not exceeding six per centum per annum, with or without provision for the payment, by the company, of any or all taxes on the principal or interest thereof, and to secure the said bonds by one or more mortgages of the whole or any portion of the railroad's estate, real and personal, and corporate rights and franchises acquired, and to be acquired of the said company: Provided, however, That no bond shall at any time be issued in excess of the amount of capital stock of said company outstanding at the time of the issue of such mortgage or mortgages may, at the option of and to the amount fixed by the said bond, be made to secure, with the same rights, lien and privileges, bonds which a subsequent increase of capital stock may enable the said board to issue, as well as to those which may lawfully be issued at the date of the execution of said mortgage."

For the purpose of retiring its indebtedness is one object. The second object alleged is to provide the facilities required by the increased business upon said road and its connections. Both these objects may be lawful. It might be proper to give the power to raise money to accomplish both of these purposes. It may be proper to give the right to raise money to pay the debts or retire the indebtedness of the company. It also may be proper to give power to raise money to provide the facilities required by the increased business upon its road and connections. But for the third purpose here expressed, unless we know more about it than we now know, it would be an act of great indiscretion on the part of a body of representatives under obligations to regard the interests of every man and every corporation of this Commonwealth. The third object is "for such other purposes connected with its business as the board of directors of said company may deem expedient."

Now, I submit, sir, whether the object of paying its debts, and the object of providing the facilities necessary to its increased business, do not include all for which the road claims a right to ask. Why, then, is this third clause inserted? "Such other purposes." What other purposes? "Purposes connected with its business." "Such other purposes connected with its business as the board of directors of said company may deem expedient," leaving the question in the breasts of the board to determine what their other purposes are; what they may think necessary to secure the interests of this road. Not to pay its debts, not to increase its conveniences for carrying on transportation, but to give it power to raise money to an unlimited amount to secure such purposes as the board of directors may imagine necessary for the interest of the company. Vote for this and we give power to control the operations of every corporation in the State. To show that this road will exercise this power injuriously to the interests of others, all that is necessary is to refer to the history of the last few disgraceful years. I am not now, sir, about to assail this company. As a representative, I feel bound to protect all the legitimate interests of that company just as much as I do to protect the legitimate interests of any other company. I feel bound to it as a creation of our own, just as I feel bound to every other creation to which we have given existence. But I am no more bound to that company and I do not feel inclined to give it any more power than any other company. If has the same rights under the law that any other company has—no more, no less. But here it proposes to secure the power to raise all the money that the directors may imagine necessary. Not simply to pay its debts, not simply to carry on its legitimate transportation, but to secure such other business advantages as in the judgment of the directors may be necessary, their judgment being the rule by which this power is to be exercised.

If they imagine it necessary for the business prosperity of the company to crush out another company they are authorized to raise money sufficient to accomplish that purpose. I repeat, all we have to do is to look at the history of this company for the last few years to tell how it will exercise its power. Look at the disgraceful manner in securing the repeal of the ten-cent tax. Look at the crushing out of the Connellsville railroad through the influence of this company, than which there could be a no more disgraceful piece of legislation. Look at the intermeddling with the Atlantic and Great Western railroad, and thereby locking up the resources of eight or nine thousand square miles of territory in the section I represent. Not a railroad can be gotten there, although their resources in iron and coal are greater than any other territory of equal size in Pennsylvania. With these facts before you, you are not to vote to give this unlimited power to this company—a power to be determined by the will of the company and without knowing what purposes it desires to accomplish with that power.

You ask me to do what I cannot do—what no man who knows and regards the will of his constituents dare do. I have just returned from the western part of the State. The people there want to give this road its rights, but they do not want it to control their affairs. You propose by this bill, to give it unlimited power to raise money, and to allow the directors to decide the object for which it shall be raised. You leave it to their discretion, and place in their hands the power to bind the State hand and foot. No, sir, I will not vote for this bill. Let the bill be published, let the people see the bill, let our constituents know what we are doing here. I am willing to give the company power to raise money to pay its debts; I am willing to give it power to raise money to carry on its legitimate business; but when it asks that the amount shall be determined by the will of the directors, and that the necessity for it shall also be so determined, I cannot give my consent; therefore hope the bill will be postponed and printed, and that we will have an opportunity of voting understandingly upon it.

Mr. MEYERS. Mr. Speaker, I now renew my motion in reference to postponing and printing this bill.

On the motion to postpone,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. JOSEPHS and Mr. MEYERS, and were as follow, viz.

YEAS—Messrs. Armstrong, Boyd, Boyle, Eren, Brennan, Brown, Chadwick, Chalfant, Chase, Colville, Craig, Day, Esy, Ewing, Fogel, Gallagher, Gordon, Harner, Heltzel, Hunt, Jenks, Jones, Kimmell, Kinney, Kline, Leach, Linton, Long, M'Camant, M'Creary, M'Kee, M'Pherrin, Maish, Mann, Meehling, Meyers, Peters, Phelan, Pallow, Rhoads, Richards, Roath, Satterthwait, Steacy, Tharp, Webb, Weller, Wilson, Woodward, Worrall, Wright and Glass, Speakers—52.

NAMES—Messrs. Adaire, Barton, Calvin, Cameron, Davis, DeHaven, Ghegan, Gregory, Headman, Hoffman, Humphrey, Josephs, Kerns, Koon, Lee, M'Henry, Markley, Marks, Meily, Quay, Robison, Rouch, Shuman, Stehman, Stumbaugh, Watt, Whann and Wingard—28.

The SPEAKER. Two-thirds not having voted in the affirmative, the question is decided in the negative.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to inquire if it requires a two-thirds vote to postpone to a day certain? I did not understand that it was proposed to make it a special order.

Mr. MEYERS. Mr. Speaker, I did not move to make it a special order. I framed my motion in reference to this very matter.

The SPEAKER. The motion of the gentleman from Northampton [Mr. MEYERS], as indicated by himself, was that this House postpone the further consideration of this bill until Friday next, and that it be made a special order. But as there seems to be some misapprehension in reference to the motion the Chair will order that the yeas and nays be called again.

Mr. WINGARD. Mr. Speaker, I ask if the motion to postpone to a certain hour on Friday does not make it a special order?

Mr. MEYERS. Mr. Speaker, my motion is that this bill be postponed until next Friday, and printed and laid upon the desks of the members. I fix no hour or time of day.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I have no feeling, especially, upon this question, but I hope the House will not place the bill in a position which it cannot be again reached.

I ask that the friends of this bill shall have fair play as well as the opponents. I have no objection to its being published, and postponed for one week, or two weeks, or as long as the gentlemen may please. I move to amend the motion by making it a special order.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, if this bill is postponed until next Friday, it comes up on the regular order, just as it did to-day, and there is no injury done.

The SPEAKER. It will be before the House when it is reached in its order, as to-day.

Mr. DAVIS. I withdraw my amendment.

Mr. QUAY. I desire to inquire how soon the bill can be printed?

The SPEAKER. The Clerk informs me that it can be printed in one day.

Mr. QUAY. Mr. Speaker, I then move to amend by postponing until Monday evening.

In explanation of the amendment, I desire to say that if this bill is passed in order that it may be of any advantage to the company, it must be submitted to the next annual meeting of the stockholders of the Pennsylvania railroad company, which occurs on the 19th inst. The motion of the gentleman will postpone it beyond that time.

Mr. MANN. I only desire to say that I feel a deep interest in this bill and I ask that it may go over until Thursday, as I will probably be obliged to be absent until that time. If the gentleman will modify his amendment so as to make it Thursday, I will vote for it. The orders of the day were then called for, it being now 6 o'clock.

The SPEAKER proceeded to clear the table.

The following extract from the Journal of the Senate was read:

IN THE SENATE, February, 15, 1867.

Resolved (if the House concur), That the Governor be requested to return to the House of Representatives, for amendment, House bill No. 80, relative to auctioneers in Erie county.

On motion of Mr. M'CREARY, the resolution was concurred in.

The hour one o'clock having arrived, The SPEAKER adjourned the House until next Monday evening at 7½ o'clock.

SENATE.

MONDAY, February 18, 1867.

The Senate met and was called to order at 7½ o'clock, P. M.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Mr. Bailey, of Harrisburg.

On motion of Mr. GLATZ the reading of the Journal of Friday last was dispensed with.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Mr. DAVIS asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. M'CAANDLESS for a few days from to-day.

Mr. WHITE asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. WORTHINGTON, on account of illness, for a few days from to-day.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented for concurrence bills numbered and entitled as follows:

No. —, an act to extend the provisions of the act approved 31st day of July, 1863, to the counties of Centre and Huntingdon.

No. 522, a supplement to an act approved March 5, 1828, entitled An act to authorize the Governor to incorporate a company to erect a bridge over the Juniata river at the town of Millfin, in the county of Millfin.

No. 510, a supplement to an act for the incorporation of the Merchants' National telegraph company, approved April 18, A. D. 1859.

He also informed the Senate that the House of Representatives has concurred in the resolution from the Senate relative to the recalling from the Governor House bill numbered and entitled as follows:

No. 80, an act in relation to auctioneers in the county of Erie.

PETITIONS, REMONSTRANCES, & C.

Mr. CONNELL presented the remonstrance of T. E. Thurston, of Brandywine street, and one hundred other citizens of Philadelphia, praying the Legislature to restrain the sale of intoxicating liquors in that city.

Referred to the Committee on Vice and Immorality.

He also presented a letter of the Hon. Richard Vaux, on the subject of Pennsylvania's system of prison discipline, and stated that although the letter was a private one he thought it of sufficient importance to the public generally as to merit its publication. It was read as follows, and

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary General.

PHILADELPHIA, February 16, 1867.

Senator: You have always taken an interest in our system of Pennsylvania discipline. In this age, why it is need not be considered, questions of science seem to have but little attraction for any but those who have, best to express it, a predilection for such studies. The subject of penal science, above all others, is repulsive, except to those few in the world who have a peculiar interest in it, as an element in social progress.

Pennsylvania, to-day, is far beyond all other States or nations in her system of convict punishment. The civilized world looks now to this State for teachings on this subject, because for fifty years, mind, devoted to it in all its large and comprehensive relations to social condition, has given the highest evidence of its thorough understanding of its importance.

My object in these lines is only to ask you a few questions. Do you not think that the thought and experience of twenty years in penitentiary discipline is of some value to the legislative authority which is called upon to consider its present condition?

Do you not think that the practical lessons taught during the period are worth something in determining legislation on the subject?

Do you not think that "worldly wisdom" would affirm the worth of such thought and experience in any matter of ordinary character, much more one which largely partakes of a scientific character?

Now, my dear Sir, these remarks to you are sufficiently suggestive, and for the sake of our penal system, for its past history, for what it has done, for the worth of its great achievements in other countries, let us try to aid and strengthen its effects in the future, from a just appreciation of the past.

You know I feel very deep interest in the subject, and if committees, or members of committees, in either House, wish to hear such information, which is given by one only devoted to the Pennsylvania system, and for no other reason, I am ready, night or day, for this important object. I do not wish to obtrude, nor appear in any way to interfere or intermeddle, and, therefore, to you, as our friend, the friend of our system, I thus write.

There is, as you know, very much to learn in order to comprehend the leading ideas of penal science, as applied to penal institutions. Prisons are not mere stone and iron, any more than schools are brick and mortar, or hospitals are large and massive structures. It is the principles which are realized by their full understanding, taught through practical operation, which make them useful or harmful to society.

Always, most truly,

Your friend,

RICHARD VAUX.

HON. GEORGE CONNELL, Harrisburg.

Mr. BILLINGFELT, the petition of citizens of the borough of Columbia, praying for the passage of an act compelling the Columbia bridge company to rebuild the bridge over the Susquehanna.

Laid on the table.

Also, a petition of citizens of Providence, for repeal of the act to incorporate the city of Scranton.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

Mr. SEARIGHT, the petition of the burgess, town council and citizens of Irwin borough, Westmoreland county, praying for a law authorizing the authorities of said borough to levy and collect a special tax to be applied to the opening and grading of streets.

Referred to the Committee on Roads and Bridges.

Also, a remonstrance from citizens of Westmoreland county, against the repeal of an act prohibiting the granting of liquor license to any persons but hotel keepers in Westmoreland, Blaine and Indiana counties, and a petition from the same citizens in favor of a general prohibitory liquor law.

Referred to the Committee on Vice and Immorality.

Mr. BROWNE (Lawrence), a petition of twenty-two citizens of Philadelphia, against Sunday car travel and for restrictions of the liquor traffic.

Referred to the Committee on Vice and Immorality.

Mr. COLEMAN, a petition from the Young Men's Christian association of Harrisburg, protesting against the passage of any law by the Legislature which may allow Sunday car travel.

Referred to the Committee on Vice and Immorality.

Mr. WALLS, two petitions from members of the Presbyterian church, Muncy, Lycoming county, against Sunday cars.

Referred to the Committee on Vice and Immorality.

Mr. M'CONAUGHY, petition of citizens of Gettysburg, Adams county, against the repeal of Sunday laws, and for revision of the license laws, to arrest the evil of intemperance.

Referred to the Committee on Vice and Immorality.

Mr. WHITE, petition of fifty-nine citizens of Philadelphia, against any repeal of Sunday law not in favor of temperance reform.

Referred to the Committee on Vice and Immorality.

Mr. WALLACE presented the petition of citizens of Clearfield county, for a supplement to the bounty laws affecting said county, which was read as follows and:

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local:

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Pennsylvania, in General Assembly met:

The petition of the subscribers, citizens of Clearfield county, humbly sheweth:

That under and by virtue of an act of your General Assembly, approved 27th February, 1865, the county of Clearfield paid three hundred dollars to each citizen who had been drafted since 25th August, 1864, or had put in a substitute in room thereof, but that the township of Burside, and the borough of Lumber City, in said county, after the 25th August, 1864, filled their quota of the then pending draft by obtaining substitutes for the districts: that said act of 27th February, 1865, did not reach and cover their case, but by terms they were excluded from receiving the three hundred dollars for each of said men so put forth, but that they are nevertheless assessed for and pay their equal proportion of taxes assessed to pay the three hundred dollars for each of the other drafted men and substitutes in the county, as well as for their own quota.

Whereupon, showing this manifest injustice, they pray the passage of a law authorizing the commissioners of Clearfield county to pay to them three hundred dollars for each man so put in, fill their quota, or to relieve them from payment of an equal amount of their taxes assessed for payment of bounty by the said commissioners. And they will ever pray.

Signed by Jackson Patchin, A. W. Patchin, C. P. Patrick and others.

SPECIAL REPORT FROM THE COMMITTEE ON JUDICIARY GENERAL.

Mr. WALLACE, from the Committee on the Judiciary General, submitted the following report, which was read as follows:

The General Judiciary Committee of the Senate, to whom the resolution of January 29, 1867, committed certain duties, respectively report:

That under said resolution, which is in words following:

"That the General Judiciary Committee be instructed to inquire into the power of this Legislature to control the railroad corporations of this State by direct legislation on the subject of charges for passengers and freight, to rescue the private citizens of the State from inordinate and extravagant demands, to assert the sovereignty of the people of the State over all such corporations within its limits for the general good, and that said committee have power to send for persons and papers, and to compel testimony under oath; that said committee is instructed to report to the Senate at the earliest possible period, by bill or otherwise."

Your said committee have proceeded partially to investigate the subjects referred to them, and find just reason to press their researches further, that the greater field occupied by different classes of freight, the large number of corporations included within the terms of the resolution and the number and conflicting character of the acts of Assembly regulating said corporations, render it impossible to do justice to the subjects or to even informally prepare and report for action any bill or system calculated to protect the citizens of the Commonwealth. Your committee find great complaints existing among the citizens of the Commonwealth that exorbitant rates of freight are charged upon articles carried to points within the State, and unjust discrimination is made against them and in favor of non-residents; and charges are made that the plain terms of positive statutes are violated in many instances by corporations which owe their existence to those statutes.

Your committee deem this subject one of great importance to the commercial interests of the Commonwealth, and one that it is peculiarly the province of the Legislature to supervise for the interests of the people; and, therefore, respectfully report for action the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Judiciary Committee of the Senate have full power and authority to sit during vacation, in Harrisburg or elsewhere, to investigate the subject matters contained in the foregoing resolution, with power to send for persons and papers, examine witnesses on oath, employ a clerk or clerks, and take such other action for full investigation thereof, as they deem proper, and report to the next Legislature, by bill or otherwise, accompanied by the testimony taken.

L. D. SHOEMAKER,
T. J. BIGHAM,
W. M. WALLACE,
D. M'CONAUGHY,
GEO. R. SCHALL.

The resolution was adopted.

THE LAND GRANT.

Mr. HAINES, from the Committee on Agriculture and Domestic Manufactures, reported as committed, a bill entitled an act relating to the Agricultural college of Pennsylvania, and to the establishment of experimental farms in connection therewith.

On motion of Mr. HAINES, the rules were dispensed with, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of said bill.

The bill was read as follows: WHEREAS, The trustees of the Agricultural college of Pennsylvania, from the want of adequate funds, have deferred the establishment of the experimental farm contemplated in the original plan of the institution;

And whereas, The farm is essential to the success of the college;

And whereas, To secure greater diversity of soil and climate, and add to the interest and importance of the experiments, it is thought best that three experimental farms should be established in Pennsylvania:

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same. That the proviso to the first section of the act entitled A supplement to the act to accept the grant of public lands by the United States to the several States for the endowment of agricultural colleges, passed the first day of April, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, approved the eleventh day of April, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, be and the same is hereby repealed.

SEC. 2. That the one-tenth part of the entire proceeds of the lands donated by Congress to the State of Pennsylvania, by the act of the second day of July, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two, in trust, and accepted by the act of the first day of April, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, to which this is supplement, be and is hereby appropriated, and the commissioners under said act of April, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, are directed to pay the same to the Agricultural college of Pennsylvania, to be expended in the purchase of lands for experimental farms.

SEC. 3. That the interest and income of the entire residue of the proceeds of the said lands be, and are hereby appropriated, and the commissioners, under the said act, are also hereby directed to pay the same, as it shall accrue, to the Agricultural college of Pennsylvania for the endowment, support and maintenance thereof, on condition that the trustees establish, conduct and maintain in connection with the college three experimental farms, one near the college, under the immediate supervision of the professor of agriculture in the institution, another east, and the other west, upon lands of diversified quality, under the immediate supervision, respectively, of an assistant professor of agriculture.

Various amendments were proposed and debated by Messrs. HALL, Speaker, BIGHAM, LOWRY, M'CONAUGHY, GRAHAM, BROWNE (Lawrence), BROWN (Mercer), and others, which will appear in the Appendix.

The bill was passed to a third reading. When, on motion of Mr. SCHALL, the Speaker adjourned the Senate till eleven o'clock to-morrow morning.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MONDAY, February 18, 1867.

The House met at 7½ o'clock, P. M. The Journal of Friday was partly read, when,

On motion of Mr. LEE, the further reading of the same was dispensed with.

BILL PASSED.

Mr. WHARTON. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to make a statement.

Leave was granted. Mr. WHARTON. Mr. Speaker, on Thursday of last week the House very kindly suspended its rules, and passed, on my suggestion, a special act in relation to Huntingdon county. Owing to the hasty manner of its preparation an error crept into it which it is important to correct. It is possible that it would bear the construction of repealing the penalties imposed absolutely, while it was the intention only to repeal the penalties for violations previous to its passage. I also desire to include the county of Centre. I now move that the rules be suspended and that the House proceed to the consideration of the following bill:

House bill No. 512, an act to extend the provisions of the act, approved 31st July, 1863, to the counties of Centre and Huntingdon.

The motion was

Agreed to.

The bill was read, and

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Leave of absence was asked for and obtained for Messrs. KENNEDY and RICHARDS.

BILLS PASSED.

Mr. CHADWICK. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to make a statement.

Leave was granted. Mr. CHADWICK. The Midas petroleum and improvement company now have their office in the city of New York. This bill provides for the removal of the same to the city of Pittsburg. Their election is held on the second Wednesday of March, and they are required to give ten days' notice. It is important that this bill be passed immediately, in order that this notice be given. I ask, therefore, that the rules be suspended and the following bill allowed to pass at the present time.

The motion was Agreed to. The bill entitled (No. 519), a supplement to an act to incorporate the Midas petroleum and improvement company of Pittsburg and New York, approved the 22d day of March, A. D. 1865,

Was read, and

Agreed to.

On motion,

The rules were suspended, the bill read a second and third times, and

Passed finally.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I read in my place and present to the Chair a supplement to an act to authorize the board of school directors of the Seventh ward of the city of Pittsburg, in the county of Allegheny, to borrow money, approved April 19th, 1864.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to make a statement.

Leave was granted.

Mr. WILSON. This is a simple bill, of a local character, to enable to board to borrow money. The parties have an opportunity now to borrow money better, possibly, than they will have again. I therefore ask a suspension of the rules to allow the bill to pass now.

The motion was

Agreed to.

The bill was read and

With information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

Mr. MECHLING. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to make a statement.

Leave was granted.

Mr. MECHLING. I read in place of the other day a bill to open the executor's account of George P. Crawford, deceased. As the courts of that county are now in session, and it is important the matter be taken up in the courts, I ask for a suspension of the rules that the bill may pass to-night.

The motion was

Agreed to.

The bill, No. 366, reads:

An act to open the administration account of Samuel Hill and James Fitzgerald, executors of the estate of George T. Crawford, deceased, and of Samuel Hill and J. B. Parkes, executors of James Fitzgerald, who was one of the executors of George T. Crawford, deceased, and of Samuel Hill, surviving executor of the last will and testament of George T. Crawford, deceased, late of Allegheny township, Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania.

Was read and agreed to.

Mr. MECHLING. Mr. Speaker, I move to amend the title by substituting the following:

The amendment was read.

An act to authorize the orphans' court of Westmoreland county, if by it deemed proper, to re-examine the accounts filed in the estate of George T. Crawford, deceased, notwithstanding the provisions of the act of 13th October, 1840, entitled An act relating to orphans' court, and for other purposes.

The amendment was

Agreed to.

And agreed to.

On motion,

The rules were suspended, the bill read a second and third times, and

Passed finally.

Mr. WRIGHT. Mr. Speaker, as the privilege has been tendered to several gentlemen to make a statement, I ask to be similarly indulged.

Some time ago an act was passed taking in quite a large amount of the land to the borough of Montoursville in Lycoming county from the township of Fairfield. Both parties now desire that the old line should be had, and this land given back to the township.

I hold in my hand a bill for that purpose; their elections are to be held in a few days, and it is important that the matter be taken up now. I, therefore, ask that the rules be suspended for the purpose of its consideration.

The motion was

Agreed to.

The bill No. 525, entitled An act to annex a portion of the borough of Mountoursville, in Lycoming county, Pa., to Fairfield township, in said county, was read.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I do not rise for the purpose of offering any opposition to the gentleman's bill; but if it undertakes to change township lines, it is assuming to do that which we have no right to do. The courts have the power of changing the lines of townships; therefore, the Legislature has not.

Mr. WRIGHT. Mr. Speaker, I confess I do not know very much about this question, any more than parties, residents of Fairfield township, and the borough of Mountoursville, desire this. It will not be long until they hold their elections, and, in consequence, the bill is now offered.

The bill was

Agreed to.

On motion,

The rules were suspended, the bill read a second and third times, and

Passed finally.

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to make a statement.

Leave was granted.

Mr. EWING. There is a bill on the table, No. 510, in relation to the National telegraph company, to enable it to borrow money.

I ask that the rules be suspended, and the consideration of the bill be proceeded with.

The motion was

Agreed to.

The bill, No. 510, entitled A supplement to an act for the incorporation of the Merchants' National telegraph company, approved the 18th day of April, A. D. 1866,

Was read, and

Agreed to.

On motion,

The rules were suspended, the bill read a second and third times, and

Passed finally.

Mr. HOOD. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to make a statement.

Leave was granted.

Mr. HOOD. I ask that bill No. 363, on the Clerk's desk, be called up for the purpose of changing the venue from Montgomery county to Philadelphia county. It is an important matter and should be passed now.

The bill entitled An act to change the venue in the case of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania versus John Shupe, Moricity Leib, Charles W. Everhart, Robert Alsop and Jonathan A. Waters, from the court of quarter sessions of the peace of Montgomery county, to the court of quarter sessions of the peace in and for the city and county of Philadelphia, was read.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Mr. Speaker, the representatives of our county, to which this bill refers, have not been consulted. We should have had an opportunity to know something about it before it is acted upon.

Mr. HOOD. Mr. Speaker, I am informed that the bill relates to some oil territory sold by gentlemen in Montgomery and Philadelphia counties to certain gentlemen of Montgomery county. They are not satisfied with their bargain, and they are taking the course of oil speculators, of late, who have been victimized, by commencing a suit in the criminal courts, charging an obtaining of money under false pretense. I will state to my friend, that the reason he has not been consulted about the matter is this: I knew nothing about it until I returned from Philadelphia, in the latter part of last week, or I should have given him all the information in my power.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Mr. Speaker, I cannot help that. The bill was read more than a week ago, I believe, and plenty of time existed for us to be informed of this.

I call for a division of the question.

Mr. MAISEL. Mr. Speaker, I trust the House will not suspend the rules. I desire to present bills in place, and, if a debate should arise, my county would be shut off.

On the question,

Will the House agree to suspend the rules generally?

It was

Not agreed to.

Mr. COLVILLE. Mr. Speaker, I move to discharge the Committee on Vice and Immorality from the further consideration of a bill extending to the city of Pittsburgh the provisions of an act relating to licenses in the city of Philadelphia.

The motion was

Agreed to.

Mr. COLVILLE. I move that the rules be suspended and that the House proceed to the consideration of the bill.

THE SPEAKER. The chairman of the Committee on Vice and Immorality is absent, and the bills of that committee cannot be obtained at the present time.

SPEAKER'S TABLE.

The SPEAKER laid before the House the annual report of the board of directors of the institution for the instruction of the blind;

Also, the annual report of the Philadelphia Savings Fund society;

Which were severally read, and

Laid on the table.

The following resolutions were read and laid on the table:

Pittsburg and Connellsville Railroad—Meeting at Connellsville.

The citizens of Connellsville met this evening (February 14th), at the Tough House, for the purpose of expressing their sentiments in regard to the restoration of the charter of the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad.

The meeting was organized by the election of the following officers:

President—Hon. P. M' Cormick.

Vice Presidents—General J. C. Cummings, Samuel Freeman, J. Enas, George Nickel, K. A. M'Ilvaine, Aaron Bishop and H. Walter.

Secretaries—J. T. M' Cormick and General R. F. Galloway.

On motion of Dr. Lindley, the chair was authorized to appoint a committee on resolutions.

The following gentleman were named:

Dr. L. Lindley, Jos. Johnston, John Greenland, George Orth, H. O. Overholt, Major B. Pritchard, Josiah Kurtz, M. B. Stouffer and David Connell.

The committee reported the following resolutions, which were ordered to be sent to Pittsburg papers for publication, and a copy to be forwarded to the Speaker of the House of Representatives:

Resolutions.

WHEREAS, The act of the Legislature annulling the charter of the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad company has been decided, by the highest courts of the State, to be unconstitutional and void, and the act itself a gross violation of the rights of the people, and a monstrous fraud upon the vested rights of the company, and as it is universally believed that the passage of said act was procured by unjust and corrupt means; therefore,

Resolved, That we, as a people whose rights have been violated and whose interests have been deeply and unjustly injured by the passage of said act, do appeal to the present Legislature and demand a restoration of our rights by the prompt repeal of the unjust and fraudulent act.

Resolved, That full justice would require, not only the repeal of the act, but would also require that ample reparation should be made by the State for the great damage which the interests of the company have sustained by reason of the fraud upon its vested rights, which the State, through its Legislature, has committed.

Resolved, That we do not ask it as a favor, but we demand it as a perfect and undeniable right that the act be repealed, and we will hold those members of the Legislature who refuse to vote for its repeal to a strict accountability, both in public and in private, holding them up to the scorn and derision of all honest men, without regard to party.

Resolved, That we are in favor of the passage of the general railroad law, lately read in place by Senator Bigham, and ask its passage as read.

Resolved, That a copy of the proceedings and resolutions of this meeting be forwarded to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, with a request that it be read before the House as an expression of the universal sentiment and feeling of the people of Western Pennsylvania, and the opinion of honest and impartial men everywhere.

P. M' CORMICK,
 President.

J. T. M' CORMICK,
 R. F. GALLOWAY, } Secretaries.

The SPEAKER presented to the House, for concurrence, Senate bills numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

BILL PASSED.

Senate bill No. 295, an act relating to the duties of clerk of the orphans' court for the county of Dauphin.

Mr. HOFFMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the rules be suspended, and that the House proceed to the consideration of that bill.

The motion was
Agreed to.

The bill was read as follows:
WHEREAS, The Legislature of Pennsylvania, at its session of one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, did enact a law transferring the duties of clerk of orphans' court, for the county of Dauphin, to that of the register of said county;

And whereas, His honor, John J. Pearson, president judge of the judicial district, declares said act unconstitutional, and the citizens of said county having, at the election held on the ninth day of October last, elected a recorder of deeds and clerk of the orphans' court; therefore,

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the person duly elected and holding said certificate of election, be and is hereby empowered, and authorized to discharge said duties of clerk of the orphans' court, for said county, and receive the emoluments for the same.

SEC. 2. That the act approved the eleventh day of April, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, relating to the change or transfer of the duties of clerk of the orphans' court of Dauphin county, be and is hereby repealed.

The bill was
Agreed to.

On motion,
The rules were suspended,

The bill read a second and third time, and
Passed finally.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO PRESENT THE HANCOCK CHAIR AND TABLE.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to offer a resolution.

Leave was granted.

Mr. LEE. I offer the following resolution. The resolution was read as follows:

Resolved, That a committee of five members of this House be appointed to act in conjunction with a similar committee from the Senate, should the Senate appoint such a committee, to represent this Legislature in the ceremonies of depositing the Hancock Chair and the Independence Table in the Hall of Independence in Philadelphia on the 22d inst.

The resolution was read a second time, and

Agreed to.

The SPEAKER appointed the following gentlemen as members of the committee:

MESSRS. LEE, M'CREARY, CHASE, LINTON and MAISH.

Mr. CHADWICK. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following resolution.

OBJECTED BILLS OF LAST WEEK.

The following objected bills of last week were laid aside for second reading:

No. 254, an act to vacate part of Woodpecker or Rising Sun lane, in the Twenty-first ward in the city of Philadelphia.

No. 284, an act to repeal an act of the General Assembly of the State of Pennsylvania, which became a law on the 10th day of August, 1864, entitled an act relating to the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad.

No. 302, an act relative to the estate of George Frey, deceased.

No. 310, an act relative to the fees of certain township and county officers in the county of Beaver.

No. 321, an act to authorize the supervisors of West Branch township, Potter county, to levy an additional road tax.

No. 335, an act to establish a ferry over the Youghiogheny river at Layton station, in Fayette county, on the line of the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad.

No. 349, an act appropriating certain moneys arising from fines and forfeitures in Chester county.

The following objected bills of last week were not laid aside:

No. 255, an act to vacate Elk, Ellen, Kepner and Watson alleys, in the city of Harrisburg.

Senate bill No. 29, a further supplement to an act for the better security of the city of Philadelphia from dangers incident to the removal or improper or negligent storage of petroleum, benzine or naphtha, approved March 2, A. D. 1865, construing the same.

OBJECTED BILLS.

The following bills were objected to, and, under the rules, will be laid over until next week:

By Mr. SATTERTHWAIT,
No. 363, an act to change the venue in the case of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania vs. John Sharpe, Morley Leib, Charles W. Roberts, Robert Alsop and Jonathan A. Waters, from the court of quarter sessions of the peace of Montgomery county to the court of quarter sessions of the peace in and for the city and county of Philadelphia.

Senate bill No. 117, an act relative to the appointment of the collectors of taxes in Montgomery county.

No. 417, an act to vacate Second street from North to Briggs, and to extend Briggs street, from Second street to the Harrisburg and Millerstown turnpike, in the city of Harrisburg.

By Mr. KERNS,
No. 394, an act authorizing the Governor to appoint an additional notary public for the city of Philadelphia.

By Mr. GREGORY,
Senate bill No. 208, an act relative to the courts of oyer and terminer, general jail delivery and quarter sessions of the peace for the city and county of Philadelphia.

By Mr. THARP,
No. 410, an act to provide for the appointment and election of an additional law judge in the Eighth Judicial district of this Commonwealth.

By Mr. BARRINGTON,
Senate bill No. 224, a supplement to an act authorizing the borough council of the borough of Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, to purchase the water works, real estate and improvements of the Bethlehem water company; also to make all such necessary improvements and extensions required, to borrow money, and appoint water commissioners to carry out said object, approved March 13, 1866.

By Mr. LEE,
No. 447, an act providing for the reconstruction of the Columbia bridge across the Susquehanna.

By Mr. KOON,
Senate bill No. 178, an act to incorporate the Local Express company of Wilkesbarr.

By Mr. JOSEPHS,
No. 490, an act to incorporate the Peoples' Savings Fund and Safe Deposit company.

The following remarks were made during the first reading of the private calendar.

Mr. MAISH. Mr. Speaker, my attention was called away from the business before the House when bill No. 392 was read. I desire to object to that bill, for the reason that the parties interested in the release of this person have not had an opportunity to be heard from.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would suggest to the gentleman to move the postponement of the bill when it comes up on the second reading. It is too late to object to the bill now.

On Senate bill No. 208,
Mr. GREGORY. Mr. Speaker, I object to that bill. One of the sections is very hard on the sitting magistrates of the city of Philadelphia, and I want to get the views of some of those parties before the bill is passed.

On bill No. 410,
Mr. WINGARD. Mr. Speaker, I move to amend by striking out the words "shall be chosen from the county of Lycoming in said district, and," in the fifth section.

Mr. THARP. Mr. Speaker, I move to amend by striking out the whole of the fifth section; that section is rather exclusive. It provides that the judge shall be elected from the county of Lycoming and shall reside in the city of Williamsport. I have consulted with the gentleman from Lycoming [Mr. WINGARD] in reference to this section, and the amendment we agreed upon was, that the part providing that the judge shall be selected from the county of Lycoming be stricken out, and the part requiring him to reside in the city of Williamsport be allowed to remain. But upon further consultation I think it is objectionable to his constituents, and may possibly be to mine. I therefore move to strike out the entire section.

Mr. WINGARD. Mr. Speaker, I hope, sir, the bill will not be amended. One of the great objects of this bill is to have a resident judge in Lycoming county. A great portion of the business of the district is in that county, and there is the greatest necessity for a judge there. It has been in contemplation by the citizens of my county to introduce a bill for a separate judicial district to be formed out of that county, and there is really great necessity for such a bill. But there is one objection to that, that it will legislate out of the district one of the most excellent men and one of the very best judges of the State—a judge to whom the bar and people of Lycoming county are very much attached. It was only on this account that this bill was introduced at all, otherwise a bill would have been introduced to make it a separate district. I cannot agree to have that section entirely stricken out, but I am perfectly willing, as it is the sense and wish of my constituency that the judge may be selected from any portion of the district, but that he shall be required to reside in the city of Williamsport. If that provision of the section should be stricken out, the bill would amount to but very little to us.

Mr. THARP. Mr. Speaker, I would ask that the bill go over, under the head of objected bills, that I may have an opportunity to further consult with my constituents in reference to it.

On Senate bill No. 224,
Mr. BARRINGTON. Mr. Speaker, I object to this bill, because I have been requested to do so in order that the people of Bethlehem may have an opportunity to further express their views in reference to it.

On bill No. 417,
Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I understand there is an arrangement about being made in relation to this matter. I therefore put this bill off so as to have it go over for another week.

On Senate bill No. 29,
Mr. HOOD. Mr. Speaker, I move to amend by striking out the House committee amendment.

Mr. GREGAN. Mr. Speaker, I object to the amendment and the whole bill. That bill relates to my district alone. Of the same seven refiners that were included in the supplement to this act passed last year, all have removed except this one. The proprietor of this one declares that he will not move anywhere, no matter what the action of this Legislature may be, saying that it is unconstitutional. I ask for the postponement of the whole matter indefinitely.

Mr. HOOD. Mr. Speaker, I do not admit that the gentleman on the other side of the House has moved regard for the protection of the people of Philadelphia than I have. Although this is an institution in his district, this is a matter that belongs to the whole city. I contend that this one does not properly come under the act of Assembly proscribing the other refiners of Philadelphia. It is located at the extreme outskirts of the city, and is entirely fire-proof. I am personally acquainted with this fact, as I believe, are several other members of the House. The time may come when its removal will be necessary. When that time comes I will most heartily vote for it. I therefore ask that the amendment be adopted.

On the question,
Shall the bill be laid aside?
It was not agreed to.
On House bill No. 264,

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, the bill next in order will probably be discussed at some length by gentlemen on both sides of this Chamber. I presume it is not desirable much time shall be occupied in that manner to-day, and that all desire to go through with the private calendar. Therefore, if I am in order, I move to postpone the consideration of House bill No. 284 until to-morrow evening, and that it then be made the special order.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would suggest that the proper way to accomplish the object in view would be to permit the bill to be laid aside for a second reading, and then move to postpone when it comes up.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I wish to inquire whether it will be in order when this bill comes up on the second reading to move to amend?

The SPEAKER. It will be in order.

Mr. BOYLE. I then withdraw my motion.

On House bill No. 302,

Mr. ARMSTRONG moved to amend so as to reduce the time of its lease from two hundred to fifty years, &c.

Mr. HOFFMAN. Mr. Speaker, I have no objection to the amendment, only that part limiting the lease to fifty years. If that is adopted I think it will defeat the object of the bill.

Mr. ARMSTRONG. Mr. Speaker, I think fifty years is sufficiently long time for it to run under the circumstances.

Mr. HOFFMAN. Mr. Speaker, the object is to give an opportunity to put up buildings, saw mills, grist mills, &c., and fifty years is too short a time.

I object to the amendment being inserted at this time.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Lancaster [Mr. ARMSTRONG] can offer his amendment when the bill is on second reading.

Mr. ARMSTRONG. I then withdraw my motion to amend.

The SPEAKER. There seems to be a misapprehension among members as to the time when amendments may be made to bills. The Chair would state that when bills are on second reading the House can amend or make such other disposition of bills as they may think proper.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

No. 215, an act relating to the Agricultural college of Pennsylvania, and to the establishment of experimental farms in connection therewith.

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth being introduced, presented the following messages, in writing, from the Governor, which were read as follows:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,

HARRISBURG, February 16, 1867. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN—I herewith return to the House of Representatives, in which it originated, bill No. 97, entitled An act incorporating the Real Estate savings institution, with my objections to the same.

1st. The title of the bill is not in compliance with the eighth section of the eleventh article of the Constitution. It holds out the idea of business to be done on a real estate basis and upon real estate security; and yet from a perusal of the fourth section it is evident this is a mere delusion. Express authority is given to invest in other securities, and it can hardly be presumed that any board of directors would be troubled with real estate securities at six per cent in currency, when others are always at hand at six per cent, in gold, and seven and three-tenths in currency, clear of taxes. The objection is not to any of the securities named; but that the one should be used in the title, and the other in the bill.

2d. There is an apparent attempt in the fourth section to make the securities of the corporation first liens on all real estate. If by this it is intended to override or supplant the liens of others previously entered, it is impracticable. If anything short of this is intended, the requirements are merely directory and amount to nothing for want of penalties to enforce them.

3d. The seventh section is wholly useless, being a mere repetition of powers and privileges granted in the preceding sections.

4th. In the sixth section there seems to be an intention to establish an individual liability clause, but no means are provided to enforce it.

5th. There is no provision for the customary bonus on the capital stock, and instead of the usual annual tax on dividends, as provided by the general laws of 30th April, 1864, there is a plan proposed which would possibly result in giving the State one tax in twenty years, but probably in never securing the State anything.

6th. If the ninth section of the bill be strictly enforced, as the courts say all corporate powers must be, then would the act be wholly inoperative for the purpose intended. Instead of prohibiting the corporation from discounting privileges, and the right to issue bills, it is expressly deprived of all power "to do or carry on any banking business" whatever. The right to receive deposits, to secure them, and to pay them back to depositors, are the very objects this bill is intended to secure; and yet they are, by the bill itself, clearly prohibited.

Besides these specific objections the bill is crudely and badly drawn, and is returned without my approval.

JOHN W. GEARY.

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the House proceeded to the reconsideration of said bill.

And on the question,
Shall the bill pass, notwithstanding the objections of the Governor?

Agreeably to order,
The further consideration of the same was postponed for the present.

The Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth also presented a message from the Governor, which was read as follows, viz:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
HARRISBURG, February 18, 1867. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN—I herewith return, without my approval, to the House of Representatives, in which it originated, bill No. 58, entitled An act to change and amend the charter of the borough of Emporium in the county of Cameron.

This bill is substantially the same as House bill No. 63, (South Erie, &c.), which I have this day returned to the House with my objection, and I respectfully refer the House to my message accompanying the same for the reasons for withholding approval from this.

JOHN W. GEARY.

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the House proceeded to the reconsideration of said bill; and

On the question,
Shall the bill pass, notwithstanding the objections of the Governor?

Agreeably to order,
The further consideration of the same was postponed for the present.

The Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth being introduced, presented the following message from the Governor, which was read as follows, viz:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
HARRISBURG, February 18, 1867. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN—I herewith return, without my approval, to the House of Representatives, in which it originated, bill No. 139, entitled An act to incorporate the Masonic Hall association of the borough of Brookville, in the county of Jefferson.

The objects of this bill are clearly indicated by the title. By the act of 13th of October, 1840, the courts of common pleas of the several counties were empowered to create corporations, "for any literary, charitable or religious purpose, or for beneficial societies or associations."

By the third section of the act, approved May 7th, 1855, this power is extended so as to embrace "Odd Fellows," Free Masons and town and city hall associations."

The ninth section of the eleventh article of the Constitution of the Commonwealth declares that: "No bill shall be passed by the Legislature granting any power or privilege, in any case, where the authority to grant such power or privilege has been, or may hereafter be, conferred upon the courts of this Commonwealth."

This bill, in my judgment, is in direct conflict with this plain provision of the Constitution, and cannot, therefore, be approved.

It has become too common, of late, to insert some proviso, or other clause, in bills of Daily Legislative Record.

TERMS OF THE DAILY RECORD.

THE DAILY RECORD will be furnished to Members of the Legislature and others at the following rates:

this character, conferring some right or privilege not conferred by the general law or by the courts, and then to insist that the bill should be made an exception. This cannot be permitted; for it must be apparent that such a course would result in a complete nullification of that clause of the Constitution.

If special powers or privileges, not within the jurisdiction of the courts, are needed, they can be claimed in bills for the purpose, unencumbered with provisions for other powers and privileges which the courts have the right to confer, and they will be duly considered. But part of a law cannot be approved and another part disapproved, and hence, in such cases, my regard for the Constitution leaves me no alternative but to veto the whole.

Were it a matter of choice, I would much rather approve than disapprove the enactments of the Legislature; but this is one of the duties imposed upon me by my oath of office, and which I am not at liberty to disregard.

I am the less reluctant to withhold my approval, in view of the fact that the courts of the State have repeatedly held that bills passed in violation of that clause of the Constitution with which this bill conflicts, are null and void, and confer no rights or privileges on the corporations.

It is better for all concerned that such legislation be arrested at once, before innocent parties have been induced on the faith of such enactments to invest their money.

JNO. W. GEARY.

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the House proceeded to the reconsideration of said bill; and

On the question,
Shall the bill pass, notwithstanding the objection of the Governor?

Agreeably to order,
The further consideration of the same was postponed for the present.

The Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth also presented a message from the Governor, which was read as follows:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
HARRISBURG, February 18, 1867. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN—Herewith is returned, without my approval, to the House of Representatives, in which it originated, bill No.

63, entitled A supplement to an act to incorporate the borough of South Erie.

The acts of 1st April, 1854, and of 3d April, 1851, confer upon the courts of quarter sessions, in the several counties, the power to incorporate boroughs, and also to alter and amend the charter of boroughs heretofore incorporated. The act of 1851 was carefully prepared and creates a complete and detailed system of borough laws, and provides that any borough, on application to the court, may have its full benefit of the system thereby established.

The ninth section of the eleventh article of the Constitution declares that: "No bill shall be passed by the Legislature granting any powers or privileges, in any case, where the authority to grant such powers or privileges has been, or may hereafter be, conferred upon the courts of this Commonwealth."

The bill herewith returned, in my judgment, is in direct conflict with this plain provision of the Constitution, and cannot, therefore, be approved. It may be argued that this bill should be made an exception, because it confers some few privileges not given by the general law, such as to borrow money at a greater rate of interest than six per cent. or to levy a heavier tax than the general law allows. Did the bill contain these provisions only, or others of like character in that respect, they might properly be signed. But this can afford no justification or excuse for including some ten or more other sections, embracing subjects over which the jurisdiction of the courts is clear and unquestioned.

Part of a bill cannot be approved, and another part disapproved; and in all such cases my regard for the supreme law of the State, leaves no alternative but to veto the whole. It must be apparent to the most superficial observer that any other course would result in the complete nullification of that clause of the Constitution just cited.

Were it a matter of choice or discretion, it would afford me much greater pleasure to approve than to disapprove acts passed by the Legislature. But I regard it as a matter of plain and imperative duty; and I am the less reluctant to discharge it because of the conviction that unconstitutional acts, even if approved by me, would remain unconstitutional and be so declared by the courts whenever brought before them.

JOHN W. GEARY.

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the House proceeded to the reconsideration of said bill; and

On the question,
Shall the bill pass, notwithstanding the objections of the Governor?

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN—The bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Hollen knitting machine company of Indiana, Pennsylvania," was presented to me on the 30th ult., and not having been returned to the Senate, in which it originated, within ten days (Sundays excepted) after its presentation, it has, agreeably to the Constitution, become a law in like manner as if I had signed it.

JNO. W. GEARY.

The Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth also presented a message from the Governor, which was read as follows, viz:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
HARRISBURG, Pa., February 18, 1867. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN—I have approved and signed the following acts of the General Assembly, to wit:

zens of Philadelphia, against the repeal of an act, approved March 30, 1866, providing for the payment of gratuities and annuities to soldiers of 1812.

Referred to the Committee on Pensions and Gratuities.

He also presented a petition of one hundred and twenty voters of Indiana borough, Democrats and Republicans, asking for the passage of a law submitting the question of license to sell intoxicating liquor as a beverage to a vote of the people of said county.

Mr. LOWRY. Mr. Speaker, I would inquire if it is for a general law, or merely for a local law.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Speaker, it is for a local law. It is for the passage of a law submitting the question of the sale of intoxicating liquors, as a beverage, in the county of Indiana, to a vote of the people at the coming fall election, the result of which election is to be reported to the next Legislature. And, sir, I wish the petition to be referred to the Committee on Vice and Immorality, who shall report a bill in obedience to the petition.

Mr. LOWRY. This is presented, I presume, by my friend, the Senator from Indiana (Mr. WHITE), in the interest of the friends of temperance. Now, Mr. Speaker, I am a friend of the temperance cause, and always bid it success God's speed; but, sir, I question the wisdom of such special laws as are asked for in the petition just presented. I presume it is merely asked, and only expected for one county alone, while all the counties around it are under the general license law. I do not think such a special law will advance the great moral cause in view. Moral questions should be controlled by law of general application. A great convention is soon to assemble in this city in the temperance movement. Some decided steps will most likely be taken. In view of these considerations, I trust the Senator from Indiana will not press any merely local temperance laws, and that the Senate will not pass them.

Mr. BIGHAM. Mr. Speaker, I believe these things should be controlled by general laws.

Mr. WHITE. Well, Mr. Speaker, I want this petition referred to the appropriate committee. It comes from a large, intelligent number of my constituents, both Democrats, for some of the prominent Democrats of my county, and many Republicans, are to the petition.

Let it go to committee, and let the committee report a bill, and the Senators around me, who now object, can then be pleased.

The petition was referred to the Committee on Vice and Immorality.

BRADFORD RAILROAD COMPANY.

Mr. LANDON read in his place and presented to the Chair a bill entitled An act supplementary to an act entitled An act to incorporate the Reading passenger railway company, approved March 21st, A. D. 1865.

Mr. LANDON. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to make a statement.

Leave was granted.

Last winter the charter of the Bradford County railroad company was granted; it was approved by the Legislature on the 9th of May. Yesterday the parties came to take their act and proceed to work according to its terms. They paid tax upon it. A careful reading, however, discovered a clerical error in regard to the number of shares of capital stock, which renders the bill worthless. It is to correct that error that I introduce this subject.

I move that the committee be discharged from the further consideration of the bill, that the rules be suspended and the Senate proceed to its consideration.

The motion was

Agreed to.

The bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth being introduced, presented a message from the Governor approving certain bills.

[See House proceedings.]

He also presented a message from the Governor returning, with his objections, bill No. 21, entitled An act to incorporate the Sisters of Mercy in the city of Philadelphia, which was read as follows:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,

HARRISBURG, February 18, 1867.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN—I herewith return, without my approval, to the Senate, in which it originated, bill No. 21, entitled "An act to incorporate the Sisters of Mercy in the city of Philadelphia."

The objects of this enactment are already defined in the second section as follows:

"SECTION 2. The essential objects of the said corporation shall be the relief and support of sick, destitute and dependent persons, the maintenance of orphans, and the care and education of youth."

The ninth section of the eleventh article of the Constitution of this Commonwealth declares:

"No bills shall be passed by the Legislature, granting any power or privileges in any case, where the authority to grant such powers or privileges has been, or may hereafter be, conferred upon the courts of this Commonwealth."

The thirteenth section of the act approved the 13th of October, 1840, expressly authorizes the courts of common pleas of the several counties to incorporate associations for any literary, charitable or religious purpose or beneficial society, or association.

In my judgment, this bill is most clearly within the constitutional prohibition before cited, and cannot, therefore, receive my approval. The objects contemplated are meritorious, and meet my cordial approbation, but the ends sought cannot be attained in a manner prohibited by the supreme law of the State.

It has become too common of late to insert some proviso or other clause, in bills of this character, conferring some right or privilege not conferred by the general law, or by the court, and then to contend that the bill should be made an exception. This cannot be permitted; for it must be apparent that such a course would result in the entire nullification of that clause in the Constitution.

If special powers or privileges, not within the jurisdiction of the courts are needed, they can be claimed in bills for the purpose, unencumbered with provisions for other powers and privileges which the courts have the right to confer, and they will be duly considered. But I cannot approve part of a law, and disapprove another part; and hence, in such cases, my regard for the Constitution leaves me no alternative but to veto the whole.

I am the less reluctant to withhold my approval in view of the fact that the courts of the State have repeatedly held that bills passed in violation of that clause of the Constitution now under consideration are null and void, and confer no powers on the corporations. It is better for all concerned that such legislation be arrested at once, before innocent parties have been induced on the faith of such enactments to invest their money.

JNO. W. GEARY.

Laid on the table.

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the Senate proceeded to the reconsideration of the bill referred to in the foregoing message.

And the bill being again before the Senate,

On the question,

"Shall the bill pass, notwithstanding the objections of the Governor?"

The yeas and nays were taken, agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows:

YEA—Mr. Donovan—1.

NAYS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingfeld, Brown (Lawrence), Burnett, Coleman, Connell, Cowles, Graham, Haines, James, Landon, Lowry, M'Conaughy, Ridgway, Royer, Searight, Shoemaker, Stutzman, Taylor, White and Hall, Speaker—21.

So the question was determined in the negative.

He also presented another message from the Governor, returning, with his objections, bill No. 19, entitled An act to incorporate the Catholic Philopatric institute of Philadelphia, which was read, as follows:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
HARRISBURG, February 8, 1867. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN—I herewith return, without my approval, to the Senate, in which it originated, bill No. 19, entitled An act to incorporate the Catholic Philopatric institute of Philadelphia.

This bill is substantially the same as Senate bill No. 21, to incorporate the Sisters of Mercy of Philadelphia, and is liable to the same objection; and I respectfully refer to my message of this date returning the latter for my reasons for withholding my approval from this.

JNO. W. GEARY.

Laid on the table.

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the Senate proceeded to the reconsideration of the bill referred to in the foregoing message.

And the question being again before the Senate,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass, notwithstanding the objections of the Governor?

The yeas and nays were taken, agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows:

YEA—Mr. Donovan—1.

NAYS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingfeld, Brown (Lawrence), Coleman, Connell, Cowles, Graham, Haines, Landon, Lowry, M'Conaughy, Ridgway, Royer, Searight, Shoemaker, Stutzman, Taylor, White and Hall, Speaker—19.

So the question was determined in the negative.

He also presented a message from the Governor, returning, with his objections, bill No. 67, entitled An act to incorporate the Brokers' Beneficial association of Philadelphia, which was read as follows:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
HARRISBURG, February 18, 1867. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN—I herewith return, without my approval, to the Senate, in which it originated, bill No. 67, entitled An act to incorporate the Brokers' Beneficial association of Philadelphia. It appears, from both the title and the face of this bill, that it is merely a charitable and beneficial association, which the court of common pleas have ample power to incorporate, under the thirteenth section of the act of 13th October, 1840.

It is, therefore, in violation of the ninth section of the eleventh article of the Constitution; and for the reasons for withholding my approval, I respectfully refer the Senate to my message of this date, returning, with my objections, Senate bill No. 21, entitled An act to incorporate the Sisters of Mercy in the city of Philadelphia.

JNO. W. GEARY.

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the Senate proceeded to the reconsideration of the bill referred to in the foregoing message.

And the bill being again before the Senate,

On the question, Shall the bill pass, notwithstanding the objections of the Governor?

A motion was made by Mr. CONNELL to postpone the question, together with the further consideration of the subject, for the present.

The motion was
Agreed to.

He also presented the following message from the Governor, which was read as follows and laid on the table:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
HARRISBURG, February 15, 1867. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN—The bill entitled An act to incorporate the Hollen Knitting Machine company, of Indiana, Pennsylvania, was presented to me on the 20th ultimo, and not having been returned to the Senate, in which it originated, within ten days (Sundays excepted) after its presentation, it has, agreeably to the Constitution, become a law in like manner as if I had signed it.

JNO. W. GEARY.

Laid on the table.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. WHITE offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

Resolved, That the State printer be, and is hereby, required to furnish to the Senate the message of Governor Curtin, and the proceedings had in reference to an act approved December 4, 1866, entitled An act declaratory of the law relating to taking up lumber, and prohibiting the floating of loose saw logs within the Susquehanna river, between the town of Northumberland and the Maryland line.

The resolution was adopted. Mr. WALLACE offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

Resolved, That the Clerk shall prepare a calendar of all public bills reported by the respective committees, whether favorably or negatively, which said calendar shall be the special order for the session of Thursday morning of each week, in the same manner and under like instruction as provided for calendar of private bills.

The resolution was adopted. Mr. WALLACE also offered the following resolution:

Resolved, by the Senate of Pennsylvania: First, That the Constitution, and the laws of the United States made in pursuance thereof, are the supreme law of the land, extending over and binding every citizen of the Republic in every portion thereof.

Second, That the privilege of the writ of Habeas corpus ought not to be suspended, when the courts are open and civil law in full force.

Third, No person should be held to answer for a crime unless on presentment and indictment by a grand jury, nor be deprived of life, liberty and property without due process of law.

Fourth, That peace exists. That the right of trial by jury should remain inviolate in every part of the Republic. That the military power should now, in all cases, be in strict subordination to the civil power.

Mr. WALLACE moved that the Senate proceed to the second reading and consideration of the resolution.

On the question, Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. WHITE moved that the resolution be committed to the Committee on Federal Relations.

On the question, Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WHITE and Mr. WALLACE, and were as follows, viz:

YEA—Messrs. Bigham, Billingfeld, Brown (Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Coleman, Connell, Cowles, Graham, Haines, Landon, Lowry, Ridgway, Royer, Shoemaker, Stutzman, White and Hall, Speaker—17.

NAYS—Messrs. Burnett, Davis, Donovan, Glatz, Jackson, James, M'Callister, Randall, Schall, Searight, Wallace and Walls—12.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. LOWRY offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

Resolved, That the Clerk of the Senate be requested to furnish two hundred legislative hand books for the use of the Senate.

Mr. LOWRY. Mr. Speaker, I would state that number of the hand books are at the State printer's. The other branch of this Legislature have ordered three thousand, while we have had but one hundred—this resolution will give us three hundred altogether.

Mr. RIDGWAY. Mr. Speaker, I am not disposed to encourage this kind of jobbing any longer. There is an individual in the town of Harrisburg who makes it his business to get up books of this kind. He acts without the authority of the Legislature; and I think he had better have two hundred copies on his hand for gratuitous distribution.

Mr. LOWRY. Mr. Speaker, I do not think there has ever been before the Legislature a book that has been so much desired as this. These books [are already printed; somebody has paid for them. I do not see how they can cause any additional expense. Indeed the author of the work told me there were two hundred copies there, and we could have them as well as not.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I think the resolution for three thousand copies was passed in the House under a misapprehension. I am informed that it was understood in the House that we had ordered one thousand copies.

Mr. SEARIGHT. Mr. Speaker, as the Senator from Erie [Mr. LOWRY] states these books are all printed and paid for, and can be obtained simply for the asking, I do not see, therefore, the force of the resolution or the necessity of its passing.

Mr. LOWRY. Mr. Speaker, if the resolution is to draw forth any discussion, I will withdraw it. I will not place myself on the record as being engaged in getting up a job for anybody.

The resolution was accordingly withdrawn.

EXTRACT FROM THE JOURNAL OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented the following extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives:

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, }
February 18, 1867. }

Resolved, That a committee of five members of this House be appointed to act in conjunction with a similar committee from the Senate, should the Senate appoint such a committee, to represent this Legislature in the ceremonies of depositing the Hancock Chair and the Independence Table in the Hall of Independence in Philadelphia on the 22d instant.

Ordered, That Messrs. LEE, M'CREARY, MAISH, CHASE and LINTON, be the committee on the part of the House.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of bill entitled An act to authorize the election of an officer to be called constable and collector in the several townships and boroughs in the county of Cameron, and to regulate his duties.

The bill

Passed finally.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of bill entitled A further supplement to an act increasing the fees of the several county officers of the Commonwealth, except in the city of Philadelphia and the counties of Allegheny, Bradford, Susquehanna and Sullivan, approved March 30th, A. D. 1855.

Mr. BROWN (Mercer). Mr. Speaker, the proviso, at the end of the first section, excludes the county of Venango. I desire to have that county included. A special act for Venango county was passed, but it has expired by limitation.

By unanimous consent the proviso, at the end of the first section, was stricken out.

The bill then

Passed finally.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of bill entitled An act relating to the Agricultural College of Pennsylvania, and to the establishment of experimental farms in connection therewith.

Mr. CONNELL. Mr. Speaker, I think it is four years ago that I advised the friends of the three institutions in Philadelphia—the University of Pennsylvania, the Polytechnic College and the Wagner Free Institute—that if they desired to avail themselves of the benefits of this fund, they must comply with the acts of Congress in regard to it. I have again and again urged it upon them, but I am sorry to say that up to this time they have done nothing towards putting themselves in the proper position.

Mr. RIDGWAY. Mr. Speaker, The Polytechnic College has.

Mr. CONNELL. In consequence of their failure to do so the disposition has been growing, the feeling of the public has been gravitating toward this single institution. I do not deem it worth while to consume the time of the Senate in the vain effort to secure a portion of this fund for the city of Philadelphia.

Mr. LOWRY. Mr. Speaker, all I have to say is that Allegheny has put herself in position to receive the benefits of this donation; but after placing herself in that position, at great expense, and offering to take this land scrip, or a portion of it, at a dollar an acre, this Senate gave only five votes in her behalf.

The bill

Passed finally.

ADJOURNMENT—GENERAL RAILROAD LAW.

On leave,

Mr. LOWRY. Mr. Speaker, I move that when the Senate adjourn it be to meet again at 3 o'clock this P. M., and that the free railroad bill be made the special order.

Mr. RIDGWAY called for a division of the question, which was subsequently withdrawn.

The SPEAKER stated the question was on the first part of the motion, that when the Senate adjourns it be to meet again at 3 o'clock this P. M.

Mr. SEARIGHT. Mr. Speaker, I have this objection to that motion: We were here last night until 12 o'clock, and did two days' work in one. I am in favor of meeting often as much as any Senator, when we can do so conveniently. Under the present circumstances I am not disposed to have an afternoon session.

Mr. BROWNE (Lawrence). Mr. Speaker, I think we will make more speed if we make less haste. I shall vote against this motion for an afternoon session.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I see no benefit in dividing the question on the motion. My understanding is that the railroad bill will be the special order when we meet again.

Mr. LOWRY. Mr. Speaker, I accept the suggested modification.

I move that when we adjourn it be to meet at three o'clock this P. M.

Mr. SCHALL. Mr. Speaker, I hope we will not have an afternoon session. The committees must have some time to meet, and there is a great deal of work on hand.

Mr. LOWRY. Mr. Speaker, the session is now far advanced. We must meet twice a day if we would adjourn before the first of May. Not a single public bill, I believe, except the bill passed this morning relative to the public land scrip, has been before the Senate. The people were pledged by both parties, at the last election, that they should have a general railroad law. Therefore, they are anxious on the question. I hope we will have a session this afternoon and continue to have two sessions a day until this and every other question of a public nature is disposed of.

Mr. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, I, too, believe in making haste slowly. We would obtain much better results if we took more time. The bill that has been made a special order is a very important one. I have not had time to examine it. I want a general railroad law, but I desire to know in what a bill is beneficial and in what it is defective. I think this afternoon can well be devoted to its examination.

Mr. BIGHAM. Mr. Speaker, the recent remarks have convinced me that we should meet at a hour earlier in the morning. When we meet at eleven o'clock, in consequence of the orders, there is very little progress. Moreover, I think we are better prepared to take up important legislation in the morning. I would propose that the motion to adjourn be amended so that we may meet at ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

Mr. M'CANDESS. Mr. Speaker, I hope the motion to hold an afternoon session will not prevail.

I agree with my colleague from Clearfield [Mr. WALLACE] with regard to having ample time to examine the provisions of this bill. It is a very important piece of legislation, and ought to be approached with great consideration.

Mr. BIGHAM. Mr. Speaker, one word as to what I understand to be the order. The private calendar is a matter of suzerainty here; it is not fixed, as it is in the House, by a positive rule. It is taken up on convenience, and generally on Wednesday, but there is no rule about it.

Mr. LOWRY. Mr. Speaker, I am willing that the Senator from Allegheny [Mr. BIGHAM] shall amend the motion to adjourn so that we meet at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

The SPEAKER. In order that the Senate may understand this question the Chair directs the Clerk to read the resolution in regard to the private calendar.

The resolution was read as follows:

Resolved, That on Wednesday of each week, and on each succeeding Wednesday, immediately after the morning orders are disposed of, the Senate will proceed to the consideration of private bills of the Senate and House of Representatives, which have been reported from the standing committees, and to which there are no objections, in their numerical order—a calendar of which bills shall be prepared by the Clerk and printed on the day previous to that on which they are to be acted upon; and that the Clerk shall not be required to journalize any amendments made to said bills, except where the yeas and nays are called.

Mr. BIGHAM. Mr. Speaker, I move to amend the resolution to adjourn so as to make it read that when this Senate do adjourn it adjourn to meet to-morrow morning at ten o'clock.

The question being on the motion as amended,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. DUNOVAN and Mr. LOWRY, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingsfield, Browne (Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Coleman, Cowles, Davis, Graham, Jackson, Lowry, Ridgway, Rorer, Taylor, Wallace, White and Hall, Speaker—16.

NAYS—Messrs. Burnett, Connell, Donovan, Glatz, Haines, James, Landon, M'Cauless, M'Conanghy, Randall, Searight, Shoemaker, Stutzman and Walls—14.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The hour of one o'clock having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the Senate until tomorrow morning at ten o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TUESDAY, February 19, 1867.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The House met at 3 o'clock, P. M. Mr. SHARPLES, Mr. Speaker, ask leave to make a statement.

Leave was granted.

Mr. SHARPLES. On last Thursday, when public bills were in order, we failed to reach a very important bill to the parties who are to be affected by it. I therefore ask a suspension of the rules, and that the House now take up Senate bill 28. It is simply to extend an act we now have in reference to cases under judicial processes to cases where they are under mortgages. The committee of the Clearfield and Lyrene railroad are now in session, and desire to reorganize under the provisions of that bill.

The motion was

Agreed to.

The bill was read as follows:— AN ACT to extend the provisions of the act concerning the sale of railroads, canals, turnpikes, bridges and plank roads, to sales made or to be made under or by virtue of a power of sale in mortgage or deed of trust without judicial process or decree.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That all the provisions of the act entitled An act concerning the sale of railroads, canals, turnpikes and plank roads, approved the eighth day of April, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one, shall extend and apply to sales and conveyances heretofore or hereafter made, under or by virtue of a power of sale contained in mortgage or deed of trust, without any process or decree of court in the premises; and the person or persons for or on account of whom such railroad, canal, turnpike, bridge or plank road shall have been or hereafter may be purchased, shall have and enjoy all the rights and privileges granted and conferred by the said act upon the person or persons purchasing under judicial process or decree as in said act mentioned.

The bill was

Agreed to.

On motion, The rules were suspended, the bill read a second and third times, and

Passed finally.

Mr. WINGARD, Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to offer a resolution.

Leave was granted.

Mr. WINGARD. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following resolution:

The resolution was read as follows:
Resolved, That the Senate be requested to return to this House, where it originated, bill No. 348.

The resolution was read a second time, and agreed to.

Mr. PETERS. Mr. Speaker, I move that the rules be suspended, and that the House proceed to the consideration of House bill No. 528, entitled An act extending to Allegheny county the laws regulating the granting of licenses to eating houses and taverns in the city of Philadelphia.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, is it not necessary to postpone the private calendar before that can be reached?

The SPEAKER. The House has done that already on the other bills. If the gentleman wishes to object to the bill he can do it only by calling for a division of the question.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, it does seem to me it is not proper to suspend the rules now to take up that bill. Last night a motion was made and carried to discharge the committee from the further consideration of the bill. The chairman of the committee was absent, and certainly this action is not very courteous to him. I understand that it was the wish and intention of the friends of this bill to have it printed, and that it would not come up for a week yet. Now an effort is being made to suspend the rules, in order to pass it to-day, to which I shall, of course, object. I call for a division of the question.

On the question,
 Will the House agree to suspend the rules generally? It was

Not agreed to.

Amended by Mr. BOYLE.

Passed to third reading, and ordered to be transmitted.

The following remarks were made during the consideration of the calendar:

On bill No. 392,
Mr. MAISE. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be postponed until Tuesday next, and placed upon the private calendar for that day.

The SPEAKER. The rules of the House require that no bill shall be placed upon the calendar after it has been acted upon. The gentleman can move to make it a special order for some particular time.

Mr. MAISE. Mr. Speaker, I then move that it be postponed until Tuesday morning next, and made the special order at ten o'clock.

The motion was

Agreed to.

On Senate bill No. 131,
Mr. SATTERTHWAIT moved to amend the bill.

The amendment was

Agreed to.
Mr. HUMPHREY moved to amend, and afterward said:

The amendment was hauded to me a few moments ago by one of the parties interested. I supposed the amendment was one that met the approbation of the parties concerned, but I understand the members of this House from that county are opposed to it. I therefore wish to withdraw it.

On bill No. 433,

On the question,

Will the House suspend the rules and read the bill a third time by its title?

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I am sorry to be under the necessity of asking that this bill should go over on third reading. I do not know that there is anything wrong about it, but I should like to be sure of the fact. Some time ago, as probably some of the members will recollect, there was an improvement projected by a number of gentlemen of the valley of the Tioga river, called the Tioga navigation company, and the State guaranteed the payment of some fifteen or twenty thousand dollars of the bonds per year. The State went on and paid that for some time. Subsequently a party of gentlemen from Philadelphia and other places interceded, took hold of the project and relieved the State from further payments, thereby saving it hundreds of thousands of dollars, and they got an act incorporating what is called the Blossburg and Corning railroad, running from Blossburg to the New York line, and there connecting with a road owned by a man by the name of M'Gee. Now, there is a million of dollars of stock of the Blossburg and Corning railroad owned in Philadelphia, besides what is owned in other parts of the State. The purpose of this bill, if I understand it (and it can do no harm for it to go over a week if I do not understand it), is to continue the road that this man M'Gee has already from Falls Brook, up beyond Blossburg and Wellsboro', and from there to the termination of his road at Lawrenceville, to get the control of this Tioga road and ruin it. For a number of years this Tioga road worked for the benefit of that part of the State without receiving any return at all, and I now submit whether it is right to divert the travel from it just as it is beginning to pay. It seems to me that this is the construction of the act, and, by reference to the map, that the position is incontrovertible. I, therefore, ask that this bill pass over for a week at any rate. I did not object to it of the calendar, because I did not want to put it in the position that would place it in. I think the House will see the propriety of not allowing foreign corporations to come in and appropriate the fruits of home institutions.

Mr. HUMPHREY. Mr. Speaker, I have no objection to the bill going over. I desire, however, to say to my friend from Philadelphia [Mr. LEE] that this road is not intended to conflict with the interests of the Tioga road. It is merely a road leading to the State line, to connect at the termination of the road, and does not run parallel with it, except, perhaps, for two or three miles on the other side of the river. It is purely a local road for the interests of that county. It is not intended to be in opposition to the Tioga road, and further, Mr. M'Gee is not interested in it. The corporations are people of our county, and all interested belong to our county. I am unable to see any injury that would result from that road to the Tioga road. The president and directors are now living in Philadelphia, I believe. We have not been busy in preparing this bill or having it submitted to the House, and being of a local character, I would desire to have it pass through.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, I judge that the object of the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. LEE] will not be attained by his suggestion. He is liable to have this bill called up to-morrow, in case we get through the orders of the day, to bills on the third reading. Consequently he will not accomplish his object, if he desires to have a week's time.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I understood that you ruled once to-day that any bill once considered on the private calendar, cannot be placed upon it a second time. If that could be done I would be willing to do it.

The SPEAKER. It can be made a special order.

Mr. LEE. I would then move that it be made the special order for this day week, at three o'clock in the afternoon.

Mr. HUMPHREY. Mr. Speaker, I would object to disposing of this bill in that way. I would desire that it come up in the regular order, and be acted upon on the third reading. We have had the bill properly before the House in the regular order. It proposes nothing more than to accommodate my constituents in my county. By reading the bill no man can see where it will conflict with this Tioga railroad company. It merely connects with this Tioga road at the State line on the north. In the second section there is also a provision made by which it can extend its line to the coal mines of Tioga for the purpose of benefiting the inhabitants of the interior portions of our county in getting coal.

In reply to the gentleman in reference to passengers, I would say that there will be no passengers that can be taken from the Tioga Valley road. It does not run in that direction, and that road is almost exclusively for the purpose of bringing coal from those mines. This is, intended as a passenger railroad and not as a coal railroad, and I cannot see how their interests can conflict. This is so understood by my constituents, and they also state that Mr. M'Gee is not interested in this road at all. It is wholly and purely a local matter, and I therefore desire as a favor that this bill may pass rather than to postpone to any time for a special session.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, no man in this House would accommodate the gentleman sooner than I would, but I consider there are other interests to be attended to than those of the immediate constituents he represents. There is one fact that this man M'Gee owns this road from Falls Brook to Wellsboro'.

Mr. HUMPHREY. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will allow me to explain, I will state that there is no railroad to Wellsboro'. I understand that Mr. M'Gee owns the railroad from Corning to the State line, and then the road from the State line is owned by the Tioga company. What this road proposes is to establish a railroad from the State line to Wellsboro'.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, that is what I understand. This M'Gee owns a railroad from Falls Brook to Blossburg, and further he has a charter for one from Blossburg to Wellsboro'. Now, by this bill, he proposes to get a road from Wellsboro' to Lawrenceville, the termination of this Tioga railroad. Now the interests of this road depend upon transporting coal to the New York line, and thence over this road owned by M'Gee to Corning, so as to reach New York and the lakes, and other points to which the coal is shipped. This road proposed to be built from Wellsboro' to Lawrenceville also depends upon that road in New York, owned by M'Gee, and we do not see this man certainly interested in favor of his own road?

If there is anything wrong about this bill I can see the propriety of pressing it through to-day. But if there is nothing wrong about it, no injury will be effected by allowing it to be postponed for a week until it can be more fully examined.

Mr. HUMPHREY. Mr. Speaker, I will withdraw my objections to the postponement of the bill for the present.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I move that its further consideration be postponed until next Thursday week, and that it be made the special order for that day. If, upon examination, I find that the bill is what the gentleman avers it to be I shall cheerfully vote for it.

The motion was

Agreed to.

On Senate bill No. 199,

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I move to amend by re-inserting the second section.

The section was read as follows:

SEC. 2. That it shall be lawful for the said company to use and employ as drivers all persons using said turnpike road, two cents per mile for each horse, whether led, ridden or attached to any vehicle: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to repeal the provisions of any supplement to the act to which this is a further supplement,

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Mr. Speaker, this is a very important turnpike in my section of country. This section proposed to be reinstituted gives this turnpike company power to increase their tolls three and four hundred, and in some instances, five hundred per centum above the rates allowed by the general turnpike laws of this Commonwealth. When this bill came up before the committee, they were unanimous in their action in striking out that section. To show that I am not mistaken in my statement in reference to the increase, I will read what the general turnpike law says in regard to tolls. Pardon's Digest, page 984, says that the toll shall be two cents for every five miles, "for every cart or wagon whose wheels shall be four inches, and not exceeding seven inches, two cents for every horse drawing the same."

Now, the great majority of the travel on this road is with vehicles with wheels four inches in breadth. This section gives the right to charge two cents per mile, while the general turnpike law requires only two cents for every five miles. Montgomery county friend and his constituents to go to the city of Philadelphia. I do not know what interest my friend from Montgomery has in the stock of this road, but I presume he has not invested in it very heavily. I know that the stock is mainly owned by persons who live in my district. I know that they keep up a good road; I know that parties from Montgomery county use it as a means of ingress and egress to and from the city of Philadelphia; I know that the gentlemen of this company are constantly paying money out of their pockets to keep that road in repairs, and that the tolls they collect are insufficient to pay for doing any such thing. Is it not unfair and unjust that my friend and his constituents should ask the privilege of passing over a great public improvement like this, without the company being allowed a fair remuneration? They do not ask for any dividend, but they simply ask to be secured against this constant drain upon their purses to keep the road in order. The gentleman knows that the rate of toll authorized in the general law is wholly inadequate to maintain any road in an adequate condition. He knows that when that law was passed, labor, stone, and everything that goes to make a turnpike was five hundred per centum lower than it is to-day. I do not know whether two cents per mile is too much or not, but the gentlemen who have spoken to me upon this subject state that this would about pay the expenses. They do not desire to make a dividend upon their stock. They simply desire that they shall not be subject to the necessity of putting their hands in their pockets every year to keep that road in repair in order to accommodate my friend from Montgomery and his constituents who are constantly traveling over it.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Mr. Speaker, I do not know how much truth there is in the statements made by the gentleman in reference to this road not paying expenses. He states that this company do not desire to pay a dividend, but merely ask by this bill that they may be able to keep up the expenses of the road from the tolls received. Now, if his statements in regard to this are not more reliable—

Mr. LEE. Will the gentleman permit me to say one word? I do not know anything about this personally at all. I do not know that there is not a dividend of one hundred per centum on their stock. I know simply what gentlemen interested in this matter told me, and have so averred and have said nothing in reference to the road upon my personal knowledge. These gentlemen who have given me this information are persons in whose veracity I have full confidence.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Mr. Speaker, I think that is about like his statement that when the general turnpike law was passed, things were five hundred per centum lower than they are now. It is my opinion that this company is doing well enough, and that it is paying as well as other turnpike companies throughout the country are paying at the present rate of toll. There never was a time since this law was passed, when material for making turnpikes could be obtained at one-half the price that it can be now.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I know that when this bill was passed you could get men to work for fifty cents per day, and you cannot get them now without paying two dollars and a half per day.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Mr. Speaker, I have had considerable experience with turnpikes, and I have never seen the time when they could be kept up at half the expense they can now.

Two years ago, when expenses of this kind were the highest, I attempted to have a bill passed increasing the rate fifty per centum on a road running parallel with this one, and I could not get it through. It was opposed by the gentleman from Bucks [Mr. HEADMAN], who was interested in the road, and defeated. That was a time when things were much higher than they are now.

There is a bill, at the present time, pending in the Senate, increasing the rate of toll on a road running parallel to this. That road was not chartered under the general turnpike law which increases the toll fifty per centum, and they cannot get it through. Here is a proposition to increase the toll five hundred per centum. This company was not chartered under the general turnpike law, and they are allowed to charge now much higher than the general law provides.

Mr. HOOD. Mr. Speaker, I move to postpone this bill until next Tuesday week. My reason for doing so is that I have in my possession a large number of remonstrances from those who are most interested, protesting against this increase of toll.

The motion was lost.

On Bill No. 457,

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, I do not know who has this bill in charge, but it strikes me that if he desires the Governor to sign it he had better strike out the preamble, for it clearly sets forth that the courts have jurisdiction in the matter. But, because it will be a little expense to go into the courts, the party concerned prefers that the Legislature should pass the bill. I hope the Governor's veto messages this morning will satisfy the gentleman who has this bill in charge that he cannot get it through with the consent of the Attorney General of the State—at least with this preamble. It seems to me that this House should not pass a bill of this kind. I do not want to interfere with the bills of anybody else, but it is a very serious question in my mind whether a bill of this kind can be passed without a preamble, and certainly we should not pass it with this preamble.

The bill was

not agreed to.

On bill No. 467,

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. Speaker, I do not know who has this bill in charge, but I understand by the reading of the bill that it applies to one of the counties I represent. It is an important bill, and one that I do not think should pass, but I am not disposed to be factious about it. I therefore ask that it be postponed until Tuesday next and made the special order for 3 o'clock, p. m.

The motion was

agreed to.

On bill No. 486,

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, I should like to hear some reason for the passage of this bill. I believe I have never seen done before what is here proposed. I should like to hear the grounds for this act. We have no reasons set forth here—only a bill to annul the marriage contract. I never before saw bills of this kind put through at this railroad speed. This House should certainly call for some information in regard to bills of this character annulling the marriage contract. We should know the why and wherefore of such bills, and not press them simply because they are put on the private calendar. If the gentleman who has this bill in charge is present, I should like to hear the grounds for its introduction.

Mr. GREGORY. Mr. Speaker, I cannot see that this bill has been rushed through any more than any other bill. It came regularly from the Committee on Divorces and has taken the regular course. The chairman of that committee has the papers in reference to the case in his possession, and I presume can give you all desired information.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I think the objection of the gentleman from Chester [Mr. WADDELL] is well taken. I have an indistinct recollection that it has been held that in cases of this kind, where it is a question whether the right to pass a bill belongs to the Legislature, there must be a statement of facts upon which the Legislature acts. There certainly ought to be a statement of this kind in a preamble to this bill, which shall be constrained to vote upon all bills of this kind until the facts are clearly set forth.

Mr. QUIGLEY. Mr. Speaker, I know nothing at all about this bill myself. It is in charge of one of my colleagues [Mr. JOSEPHS], who is not present. The petitions and other papers are in the hands of the Committee on Divorces, and I suggest that the bill be laid over until the gentleman who has it in charge is in his seat.

Mr. GREGORY. Mr. Speaker, I would inquire what was the fate of the previous bill? That was a divorce bill also, and I heard no objection to it.

The SPEAKER. The Chair decided that it had passed.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, my objection will extend to the other bill as well as this one. I most assuredly should have objected to that bill, had I been in my seat at the time it came up. I only reached here in time to catch the title of this bill from the Speaker. I take it that one is as objectionable as the other, and it is a duty this House owes to itself that it should understand why it is granting this bill of divorce. I have no particular object in this matter. The grounds laid here may be sufficient, but that is for this House to judge and not for the Committee on Divorces. If the committees are to decide upon every bill that comes before them and this House is obliged to pass every bill that is favorably reported here, then we need no House, and we may just as well resolve ourselves into committees to legislate for this State. I have no doubt that the committee have well considered this bill, but this House is also entitled to a right to consider it. We want the information given to this House, and if it is a right, true, honest bill then that information cannot injure it. If it is a bill it should be passed, then let us pass it, but if it is not proper, it is time to stop its passage. I should like to hear from the chairman of the Committee on Divorces what the grounds are for this application.

Mr. KINNEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire simply to say that when in the course of our legislation, petitions are presented to the Chair, if the reading is called for they are read on this or other subjects. In this case the reading was being called for, I presume, by the House, the petition was referred to the proper committee. I believe the committee have carefully considered this bill and have deemed the application based on sufficient grounds to report the bill affirmatively. If gentlemen call for the petition, it is in my possession and can be read. Perhaps the best evidence in this case is the petition itself, and if any gentlemen desire to hear the petition it will be sent up to the Chair.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Mr. Speaker, I am not satisfied this bill should pass without further information about it. I have the honor of being a member of the Committee on Divorces, and I am not satisfied with the way bills have been put through that committee—that is to say, the way that committee has been called together. This bill was acted upon when the committee was called together without my being notified, and I protest against putting bills through in that way. I think that if bills are to be passed, the whole committee should be notified.

Mr. WINGARD. Mr. Speaker, I have no personal knowledge of the merits or demerits of the bill now under consideration. I know, however, in regard to the bill which precedes it, and which has been passed. And I have to say, to the credit of the Committee on Divorces, that they required the most stringent proofs before they would agree to pass that bill. I was prepared to-day, and expected to be obliged to produce satisfactory reasons to this House why this bill should be passed. But it was not objected to, and passed in the usual way. All I have to say is, that if the committee subjected this bill of my friend to the scrutinizing agony to which my bill was subjected, I think the House may safely pass it without running any risk. In view of the fact that the gentleman who has this bill in charge is not present, and my knowledge of the attention that committee gives to subjects presented to them, I trust this bill will not be killed, at least until the gentleman who presented it shall have an opportunity to be heard before the House.

Mr. KINNEY. Mr. Speaker, I wish to make a further remark as to the action of that committee on bills generally. I think the committee will bear me out in my statement, when I say that I have often been to considerable labor to get that committee together. I am sorry that any gentleman should feel that he had been neglected at a general call for the meeting of the committee. I know that there has been no design to slight any one by the chairman of that committee, or any member.

Mr. QUIGLEY. Mr. Speaker, I think, sir, in justice to the chairman of the Committee on Divorces, I should say that it is one of the very few committees of this House that have a regular stated time of meeting. That is on Tuesday morning, so that every gentleman on that committee knows when it meets. I think my friend from Montgomery [Mr. SATTERTHWAIT] is altogether mistaken about not receiving notice. I know when that committee meets, and I always go to the meeting at that time. The gentleman from Montgomery certainly knows that the committee adjourns from time to time—from one Tuesday morning until the next Tuesday morning, to meet at the same hour and place. I, therefore, suppose this was the reason why he was not notified, because the committee has a regular stated time of meeting.

Mr. SATTERTHWAIT. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman is mistaken in his statement in reference to the meetings of the committee? I think the members of the committee should be notified when the House is in session. I am always in my place when the House is in session, and it is the easiest thing in the world to then send a page around and give the notice to the members of the committee.

Mr. MEYERS. Mr. Speaker, every lawyer upon this floor is aware that the Legislature has, from time to time, extended the jurisdiction of the courts to new causes and new reasons for divorces, and I am at a loss to know why, where the courts have such extensive jurisdiction, bills granting divorces should be passed by this House unless the House actually knows that they do not come within the jurisdiction of the courts. Now, I do not know upon what grounds this divorce is claimed—whether it comes within the provisions of the acts of Assembly giving the courts jurisdiction or not. If it does come within those provisions, then a divorce granted by this Legislature would be worthless, if the Governor insists upon maintaining the constitutional provisions and will not sign a bill where the courts have jurisdiction in the case. He has already indicated his intention in this direction, and I trust he will not deviate from it in matters of this kind. Unless the gentleman who has this bill in charge is here to state the reasons why it is required, and why the bill be recommitted to the Committee on Divorces, and they instructed to report the facts on which this demand is founded.

Mr. GREGORY. Mr. Speaker, Mr. JOSEPHS, the gentleman who has this bill in charge, is not present, and there is no way in which the gentleman from Northampton (Mr. MEYERS) can well be answered while he is absent. The only answer I can give in reference to the jurisdiction of the courts in this case is to have the petition read by the Clerk.

The SPEAKER. The petition will be read by the Clerk for the information of the House.

The petition was read as follows:

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met:

The petition of Daniel Wilson, of the county of Philadelphia, in the said Commonwealth, humbly sheweth:

That your petitioner, on the twenty-fourth day of June, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and fifty-four, was bound in matrimony, as he is married to a certain Mary Smith of said county, and from that time continued to live and cohabit with her until about the tenth day of May, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and fifty-eight, at which time your petitioner and his said wife separated.

From a period of time prior to the last mentioned date up to the present, the said Mary, wife of your petitioner, has lived a dissolute, wanton and abandoned life. This occasioned the separation of your petitioner from his said wife, since which time she has been constantly growing worse, and is wandering about from one low resort to another. Her associates are prostitutes, thieves and abandoned vagabonds of both sexes, black and white. With these people she frequents dance houses, low drinking houses, and other dens of vice, and sleeps oftentimes upon the open lots, or wherever else she can find a resting place for the night. She long since became utterly demoralized, losing all self-respect and regard for common decency. She and long has been, a common drunkard, and has several times been arrested and locked up in prison for drunkenness, disorderly conduct and fighting in the streets. She is incorrigible and incurable. Your petitioner, at one time, took her to his home (since their separation), treated her with kindness, and made an earnest effort to reform her and wean her away from her evil associates and vicious habits. On this occasion she would get drunk whenever she could lay hold of intoxicating drink. She abused the child of your petitioner by holding him under the hydrant, and your petitioner himself with foul words and noisy, quarrelsome conduct, and outraged all decency by stripping herself naked, and exposing her person to the public gaze, and finally wandered off with her worthless companions.

Your petitioner, therefore, humbly prays your honorable bodies will be pleased to pass an act dissolving the marriage contract between him and the said Mary, so that they may be freed and separated from each other in all time to come. And as in duty bound, he will ever pray, &c.

mark

No. 1 Queen street,
Philadelphia.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, now, sir, I suppose if there was any doubt before as to the propriety of passing this bill, it is dispelled by the reading of this petition. It alleges half a dozen reasons, each sufficient for any court in this Commonwealth to grant a divorce, if they are proved true. That being the case, I think that we have no right to pass this bill. We ought not to do so. We ought not to stultify ourselves as we are doing every day by passing bills that are clearly unconstitutional. I think the Governor for having thrown back upon us the batch of bills we have sent him, many of which members knew were unconstitutional, but, from force of habit, they were passed through. I trust the House, out of respect for common intelligence, which we are, at least, presumed to have, will defeat this bill at once, because it is very clearly set forth in this petition that the courts have jurisdiction and could give this petitioner a divorce. A divorce, given by this House in this case, I hold would not be a divorce at all. I trust the bill will be voted down.

Mr. GREGORY. Mr. Speaker, I hope the courtesy of the House will be extended to the gentleman who has this bill in charge and that it will not act upon this bill in his absence. If it must be defeated let it be defeated in his presence. I move to postpone the bill for the present.

Mr. MEYERS. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my motion to recommit to the Committee on Divorces.

The motion to postpone was agreed to.

Mr. MEYERS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a privileged question. I move that we reconsider the bill just passed. House bill No. 485.

Mr. WINGARD. Mr. Speaker, I think this is only cautiousness, and I trust the gentleman will not carry his feeling to this extent in this matter. The bill which has already passed the House was passed upon grounds.

Mr. MEYERS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order. This question is not debatable.

On the question,
Will the House agree to reconsider?
The yeas and nays were required by Mr. MEYERS and Mr. FOGEL, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Barrington, Barton, Boyd,

Boyle, Breun, Chadwick, Chalfant, Deise, Ewing, Fogel, Freeborn, Gallagher, Harner, Heltzel, Hunt, Jenks, Jones, Kimmell, Kline, Kurtz, Lee, Leech, Linton, Long, M'Creary, M'Pherrin, Meyers, Mullin, Phelan, Rhoads, Roath, Robinson, Satterthwait, Selzer, Sharples, Waddell, Wallace and Weller—38.

NAYS—Messrs. Adaire, Allen, Cameron, Chase, Colville, Craig, Davis, Day, DeHaven, Donoghue, Espy, Ghegan, Gregory, Harbison, Headman, Hoffman, Hood, Humphrey, Josephs, Kerns, Koon, M'Camant, M'Henry, M'Kee, Markley, Marks, McQuigley, Peters, Quay, Quigley, Rouch, Shuman, Stehman, Stumbaugh, Subers, Tharp, Watt, Webb, Westbrook, Whann, Wharton, Wilson, Wingard, Woodward, Worrall, Wright and Glass, Speaker—48.

So the question was determined in the negative.

On bill No. 284.

Mr. BOYLE moved to amend the bill.

The motion was

Agreed to.

Mr. BOYLE moved to amend the title by substituting the following:

"An act to restore the corporate franchises of the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad company."

The motion was

Agreed to.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, there have been several important amendments made to this bill. The hour of adjournment has nearly arrived, and as these amendments may involve considerable discussion, and as all parties desire a fair chance to be heard, I move that this bill be postponed and made the special order for to-morrow night week at 7½ o'clock.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I trust that the motion of the gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. Lee) will not prevail. This morning I made the suggestion that it go over until to-morrow. I did that because I apprehended that the discussion would take place on the first reading. I know that there has been some argument on the first reading of bills, and I thought the amendments ought to come in on the first reading. The bill, however, has been ordered to be read a second time, the amendments have been adopted, and nothing is to be gained by a postponement. It may be, and I trust it is the fact, that there will not be a great deal of discussion on this bill. I therefore hope the motion will not prevail.

The bill was ordered to be transcribed.

On the question.

Will the House suspend the rule and read the bill a third time by its title?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BOYLE and Mr. LEE, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Barrington, Boyd, Boyle, Breunan, Chadwick, Chalfant, Colville, Craig, Day, Deise, Espy, Ewing, Gallagher, Harner, Heltzel, Hunt, Jenks, Jones, Kimmell, Leech, Linton, M'Creary, M'Kee, M'Pherrin, Maish, McElhing, Melly, Meyers, Peters, Phelan, Pillow, Quay, Tharp, Weller, Whann, Wilson, Woodward and Glass, Speaker—38.

NAYS—Messrs. Adaire, Allen, Armstrong, Barton, Breun, Cameron, Chase, Davis, DeHaven, Donoghue, Fogel, Freeborn, Ghegan, Gregory, Harbison, Headman, Hoffman, Hood, Humphrey, Josephs, Kerns, Kinney, Kline, Kurtz, Lee, Long, M'Camant, M'Henry, Markley, Marks, Mullin, Quigley, Rhoads, Roath, Robinson, Rouch, Satterthwait, Selzer, Sharples, Shuman, Steacy, Stehman, Stumbaugh, Subers, Waddell, Wallace, Watt, Webb, Westbrook, Wharton, Wingard, Worrall and Wright—53.

So the question was determined in the negative.

On bill No. 302.

The following is a copy of the bill:

AN ACT relative to the estate of George Frey, deceased.

WHEREAS, The buildings, fences and other property belonging to the estate of George Frey, late of Middletown, Dauphin county, deceased, and devised by him for charitable purposes, are much out of repair;

And whereas, The present revenues of said estate are insufficient to make said repairs and meet the ordinary expenses incident to the conducting of the beneficiaries connected therewith;

And whereas, In the opinion of the principal and trustees of said estate, the revenues and usefulness thereof may be greatly enhanced and the objects of said charity much enlarged by extending the provisions of the eighth section of the act approved June twentieth, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and thirty-nine, entitled An act relative to the estate of George Frey, deceased, so as to embrace the grist-mill, saw-mill, seat-dam and water power with ten acres of land adjoining to and connected therewith, the same being part of said estate, and by enlarging the term for which leases are now authorized to be made, including therein as well the lands now leased as such as may be leased hereafter; therefore,

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That it shall and may be lawful for the principal and trustees of the Emmaus Orphan house to lease, in addition to the land they are now authorized by law to lease, the grist-mill, saw-mill, seat-dam and water power, and ten acres of land adjacent thereto belonging to the estate of Geo. Frey, late of Middletown, Dauphin county, deceased, either by private or public contract, upon such rent as may be agreed upon, to be paid half yearly for any term not exceeding two hundred years, and for the term agreed upon to execute and deliver leases under the hand of the principal and the seal of the said corporation: Provided, That any person holding, by lease, any portion of said estate for a longer term than twenty-one years, shall have all the rights and privileges of a freeholder during the term for which he shall so hold: And provided also, That the provisions of this act shall apply, also, to such portions of the real estate of said deceased as is now held under lease where the said principal and trustees can agree with the lessees thereof upon the terms for the extension of such lease.

Sec. 2. That for the purpose of making such useful and necessary repairs as the present condition of the buildings and other property belonging to said estate requires, it shall and may be lawful for the said principal and trustees to borrow any sum of money not exceeding five thousand dollars, for any term of time not exceeding twenty years, and to mortgage any portion of said estate to secure the payment of the same, the interest thereof to be paid annually, and both the principal and interest accruing thereon to be paid out of the funds of said estate arising from the rents thereof, as the same may accumulate in the hands of the said principal and trustees.

Sec. 3. That before the said principal shall receive any of the moneys belonging thereto, either from the loan aforesaid or from rents accruing therefrom, he shall give bond (if he has not already done so) in the sum of ten thousand dollars, with such security as the court of common pleas of Dauphin county shall approve, conditioned for its faithful application according to the true intent and meaning of this act, and the last will and testament of the said George Frey, deceased.

Sec. 4. That an act entitled An act relative to the estate of George Frey, deceased, approved April twenty-first, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and forty-six, be and the same is hereby repealed; also so much of the act entitled An act relative to the estate of George Frey, deceased, approved June twentieth, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and thirty-nine, as is inconsistent with or supplied by the provisions of this act, be and the same is hereby repealed.

Mr. ARMSTRONG. Mr. Speaker, I move to amend by inserting the following, to come in after the word "deceased," in the eighth line, first section:

"By public notice, after fifteen days' public notice given by printed handbills posted in the most public places; and such rent as may be agreed upon, to be paid half-yearly, for any term not exceeding one hundred years."

Mr. HOFFMAN. Mr. Speaker, I did not introduce this bill, and know but very little about it, but I understand the parties having possession of this property have already this privilege of leasing it for one hundred years. A body of men of the highest standing have come here and asked for the passage of this bill, probably considering it the best they could get. I would not like to see that amendment adopted. I have no objection, on but to the part limiting the lease to one hundred years. I trust the amendment will not be adopted.

Mr. ARMSTRONG. Mr. Speaker, I have no personal interest in this bill and know but very little about it. All that I know of it is, that it is a trust for the benefit of certain orphan children. We all know that the advance in the value of property is rapid, and I think the parties getting possession of this property will be fully remunerated in one hundred years for the improvements they may make, and I think, as guardians of this trust, it is our bounden duty to guard it against any dishonorable or dishonest use. Certain parties may feel anxious to get hold of this property for two hundred years, for a small amount, which is equal to buying it and holding it in fee simple. I wish, by my amendment, to guard this trust against any improper use, and for the benefit of those to whom it rightfully and justly belongs, and I hope the amendment will be adopted.

Mr. SHARPLES. Mr. Speaker, I have visited this estate and have some personal knowledge of it, and it has been represented to me by parties, in whom I have confidence, that this bill is absolutely necessary in the form that it now stands in order to make the most profitable disposition of the property. I know that the trustees of the orphan house are very much in need of funds for the improvement of the school. I know that it is necessary that they should have the privilege of transferring the property in some way like this. I have been upon the ground and have seen the premises, and am convinced of the necessity of something of this kind. I have no desire to injure the trustees or to affect adversely the interests of the orphan children of that school, and I feel satisfied that the bill ought to pass in something like its present shape.

Mr. HOFFMAN. Mr. Speaker, so far as my knowledge extends this bill only refers to the water power. They do not wish to lease the whole of the property, which consists of some two or three hundred acres of very valuable land. They only wish to lease this water power to parties who are anxious to erect a saw mill and grist mill on this property.

Mr. WINGARD. Mr. Speaker, it strikes me, from what little attention I have given it, that this is a most extraordinary bill. If I understand the matter aright, this John Frey, a wealthy man of this county, at one time made a large bequest for the benefit of orphan children. I believe that the property consists of a grist mill and a very valuable water power, and has some three or four farms connected with it. Some twenty or thirty orphan children have been maintained there. This bill proposes to lease, by private contract, this property for a period of two hundred years. During which the memory of man "runneth not to the contrary." It is a bequest which does credit to the memory of the deceased, and I cannot think it was ever his intention that this property should be bound up in the hands of any party for such a length of time. It has been well said by one of the gentlemen here that property is advancing with rapid strides in this Commonwealth. There is no satisfactory way of estimating its value ten or twenty years hence, let alone two hundred years. With that time this water power may become one of the most valuable in this county or, perhaps, in this State. I say the proposition is startling. I have no interest in this matter except the general interest and sympathy which every man feels for those who are destitute, and the praise which every man is willing to accord to those who leave those worldly gifts which God, in his blessings, has bestowed upon them, for such benevolent purposes.

There is another objectionable feature in this bill. In the first section it is "Provided, That any person holding, by lease, any portion of said estate for a longer term than twenty-one years shall have all the rights and privileges of a freeholder during the term for which he shall so hold."

Now, what are the rights and privileges of a freeholder? A freehold estate is the highest estate by which tenements and hereditaments can be held. And you propose to put, by this bill, into the hands of the parties who lease this land the rights and privileges pertaining to the highest estate known to law. I ask you, after two hundred years, who will there be to inquire after this property?

Mr. HOFFMAN. Mr. Speaker, I understand that some of this property has been laid out into town lots in the town of Middletown. Private houses have been erected upon some of these lots, at a cost of more than ten thousand dollars, and these parties are not freeholders in that town.

Mr. WINGARD. Mr. Speaker, the more facts I obtain the more I am satisfied that this bill is wrong. Already some of this property is as valuable as that it is embraced within the town limits and houses upon it costing over ten thousand dollars. That town, in the course of two hundred years, may be larger than Harrisburg. And here you propose to allow this property to go into the hands of parties for two hundred years, property that is now so valuable that the directors are letting it out in town lots for building purposes. I say the proposition is monstrous. If the object the deceased had in view is creditably carried out, within two hundred years, instead of twenty or thirty being instructed, within twelve miles of Harrisburg, from the proceeds of this bequest, two hundred orphans may be instructed. There is no reason why this may not be, for this now valuable property will vastly increase in value.

I am opposed to the whole bill, and move its indefinite postponement.

Mr. SHARPLES. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Lycoming [Mr. WINGARD] is laboring under something of a misapprehension. The object the gentleman desires could not be accomplished is best obtained by the indefinite postponement of the bill. There are lots in the town of Middletown that the trustees of this bequest can make no good use of unless they have authority to let other parties have them. I visited the school some ten days ago and spent several hours there. I know, from personal observation, that the school building needs repairs and improvement, and they have no means with which to make them. They have a saw-mill that is almost rotted down and no means with which to rebuild it. They have a grist-mill, but the wheels are cracked and they have no money for repairs.—They simply ask, if I understand it, that a part of that property may be spent in such a shape that it may be made available for the benefit of the orphans and the school. That is their desire. I have not examined this bill. It may be imperfectly drawn and some parts may require amendment, but I know the object of the bill is to further the interests of the school.

WINGARD. Mr. Speaker, I have been informed, and I believe credibly, that the gross income from this estate amounts to something like one hundred dollars a year. If this is so I think there is enough to keep the property in repair.

Mr. M'CREARY. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me we are legislating upon a very singular subject. I doubt very much whether anything of this kind has ever previously been brought before this Legislature or any other. Gentlemen do not consider how long a time two hundred years is. It is beyond calculation when you come to apply it to practical affairs. Six generations may come and disappear before this lease expires. Two hundred years will take you back to almost the time when the Pilgrim Fathers landed at Plymouth Rock.

How can gentlemen conceive of any law passed thus, having any force upon us whatever? The lapse of time would absolutely destroy it. They may just as well lease this property for the term of nine hundred and ninety-nine years and be done with it. They may as well give them the fee simple. I would just as soon have a lease for two hundred years as the fee simple. What do I care, after half a dozen generations following me have passed away, that the title to the land may be in a son of mine? I see in the will of this deceased gentleman (a very lengthy document, too) there is the following provision:

"But it is expressly my intention, and I do hereby declare it to be my will, that no part of the estate herebefore devised to the said trustees, shall ever hereafter be sold, or in any manner severed from the orphan house, but that it shall remain united thereto, whole and undivided forever."

Now, I say that to lease this property for two hundred years is equivalent to selling it, in every way. I say we have no right to legislate in this manner for those coming after us two hundred years hence. This is not only beyond the lifetime of generations of men, but it is beyond the usual lifetime of governments. I would not be willing to put in a longer time than twenty-one years. That is the length of time in which a person can acquire a title by holding property adversely. It seems to me that there is somebody behind the parties represented to be concerned in the passage of this bill, who are at the bottom of it. I do not desire to say that it is those who are advancing this bill, but I cannot help thinking those who ask for such extraordinary privilege are seeking some undue advantage. How can we tell what will be the value of this property two hundred years hence? Go back, twenty-five years, even, and could anybody then have imagined the improvement and increase in the value of property that has taken place? And yet we are asked to lease this lease for two hundred years. As I have said before, it is beyond the usual lifetime of governments. We have no business to legislate in this kind of a way.

Mr. MEYERS. Mr. Speaker, the extraordinary provisions of this bill strike me as entirely unprecedented both as regards the legislation asked, and the facts stated upon this floor. From the information derived from this bill and the statements made by gentlemen, it appears that George Frey, some years ago, made a donation of a large amount of property to be applied for certain purposes. And it strikes me that no member of the Legislature will quarrel with any degree of intelligence unless he first know the provisions that will be made and ascertain whether the Legislature of the State has any authority to interfere in the manner in which this trust is to be executed and carried out. It may be possible that this legislation asked for is in direct violation of the provision of that will. In the next place, there are provisions in this bill to repeal two special acts, one passed in 1830, and the other in 1846, to carry out the provisions of this charity. Now they come here and in addition to these two extraordinary provisions in this bill, ask that the acts, upon which the carrying out of this whole bequest may depend, shall be repealed without stating one word or syllable contained in those acts of Assembly. These are two reasons which ought to have weight in the minds of every member of this House, and we ought not to vote for this bill until we at least understand the provisions of this will and the acts of Assembly proposed to be repealed. The extraordinary provision that this property is to be leased for two hundred years does not accord with the reasons set forth in the preamble. It is alleged that this bill is only for the purpose of leasing the water power. Now that may be the most valuable part of the property. I want this House to have an opportunity to examine this bill and these acts of Assembly, and if the bill is then considered a proper one, it should of course be passed. But if it is to divert the object of this noble bequest from its true intent and purpose, it should not be passed, but we should legislate in such a way as will make it most valuable. I therefore ask that this bill be postponed until Friday next.

THE SPEAKER. The gentleman from Lycoming [Mr. WINGARD] has already moved to postpone indefinitely.

The motion was

Agreed to.

On bill No. 355,

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I offer a remonstrance against this bill, and ask that it may be read.

The remonstrance was read by the Clerk as follows:

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in General Assembly met:

The petition of the subscribers, citizens of Perry township, in the county of Fayette, respectfully sheweth:

That, whereas, there is now pending before your honorable bodies a certain bill "granting to James Carsou and Doctor James Robinson, their heirs and assigns, the privilege of establishing a public ferry across the Cashogeton river, at a place called Layton Station, in Fayette county, at a point where the road from Perryopolis to Mount Pleasant crosses said river;

Therefore, we, the subscribers, being deeply interested in having a public ferry across said river, in order to reach said station, do hereby remonstrate against the passage of said bill, for the following reasons, to wit: That the point where said bill proposes to establish said ferry is altogether impracticable, and has long since been abandoned, the place of crossing, for the reason that the road leading to and from said point is, a great portion of the time, impassable from high waters and from ice, which is the case at present and has been so for the last two months, whilst the river, at a point lower down, has been open and navigable the whole winter.

We further respectfully show, that the only practicable point where said river could be crossed, in order to reach said station, would be the place where the river is now being crossed, and where the bill now pending before your honorable bodies, granting a ferry right to John Fuller, proposes to establish a public ferry, and we earnestly recommend the immediate passage of Mr. Fuller's bill, as being a public necessity. And your petitioners will ever pray, &c.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I offer a petition in favor of this bill, and ask that it be read. The petition was read by the Clerk as follows:

To the Honorable, the Speaker and Members of the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Your petitioners, citizens of Fayette county, respectfully set forth that there is now a ferry over the Youghiogheny river, at or near Layton Station, where it has been located for the past fifty years, or thereabouts, and that Dr. James Robison and James Carson are the owners of the land on both sides of the river, and that they are now preparing boats, &c., for the efficient operating of said ferry, and as a guarantee to themselves and the public seeking a charter at your hands.

Your petitioners would, therefore, most respectfully and earnestly remonstrate against the granting of a charter to any other parties than those now owning the shore on both sides of the river within the present bounds, as such an act would be a flagrant act of injustice to the parties now owning the ferry, unwarranted by the principles of common justice.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, a number of the same persons who signed that remonstrance did so under a misapprehension, and their names will be found annexed to this petition. The facts are these: The ground where this ferry referred to is located, belongs to the parties who ask the passage of this bill. A ferry has been in existence at this very point for forty years. The parties own the land on each side for half a mile, while the parties who signed this remonstrance own none in the vicinity. In the first place, a bill proposed by the gentlemen who signed this remonstrance came over from the Senate. The Committee on Roads, Bridges and Ferries rejected that bill and substituted this one. The members of that committee will sustain me in this statement. Now, I regard this as a very just and wise measure. These parties have had a ferry for forty years and this charter is asked for the purpose of putting them in a fair position. The parties have already spent considerable money in the construction of the ferry, and I think it is but justice that we should grant them what they ask.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, the county of Allegheny is a large county and requires considerable legislation, and I think if the gentleman who have the honor of representing that county will confine themselves to legislating for their own local matters they will have quite as much as they can do.

Now, this ferry is altogether in my own county, the county of Fayette. I ask that the House shall extend the courtesy of allowing me to control the legislation of that county, except in extraordinary cases. Of course when the questions are political ones, or anything of that kind, I shall not ask for favors at the expense of the political opinions of others. It is true that the bill originated in the Senate, and went to the Committee on Roads, Bridges and Ferries in the House. I spoke to the chairman of that committee about this bill, and requested that I should be notified when it was brought before the committee. The next day the committee came in and reported that bill negatively without giving me any opportunity of being heard before the committee. About the same time the committee reported the bill of the gentleman from Allegheny [Mr. WILSON], which was introduced after the other bill came from the Senate, and reported it affirmatively.

I do not charge misrepresentation upon anybody, but I do charge misunderstanding. The gentleman from Allegheny, who has this bill in charge for the county of Fayette, does not precisely understand the condition of affairs there now. The place at which it is proposed to cross this river in the bill that came from the Senate is not the place where the present ferry is located at all; it is one-half or three-fourths of a mile above the present ferry. It is true that where they propose to locate this ferry the road was laid out to cross the river, but that was long before the construction of the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad, and long before the location of the Layton station. When that station was located it became necessary to change the ferry, and it was changed and put up where my bill proposes.

It is true, at the point where this bill proposes to locate the ferry, these gentlemen are the owners of the land, but, at the place where the ferry is now located, they are not the owners of the land at all. Dr. Robison owns on the one side, but Mr. Carson does not on the other, but a Mr. Burdwell does, who signs the Fuller petition. The object of Dr. Robison is this: where the ferry now crosses, and where it would cross under the Fuller bill, is some distance below the place where this bill proposes to locate it, and it necessitates a road on the opposite side of the river, over certain land belonging to Dr. Robison. They must then come up the stream about one-fourth of a mile on his land. If that road was vacated as it comes to this bill passes, then Dr. Robison would get possession of his land where this road runs.

But, I think the remonstrance states very fully why this bill should not be passed. I know myself that the spot indicated by the bill is altogether out of the way, and at some seasons of the year it is impossible to cross with a ferry. This remonstrance is signed by one hundred and twenty-six citizens of that township—almost the entire number in the township, and the gentleman from Allegheny is mistaken, I think, when he says that he has names upon his petition that are upon this remonstrance. He may have a few that were upon the petition of Mr. Fuller for his ferry, but I do not think that he has any of those that are upon this remonstrance. I ask that this House should give this bill the go-by, and let the Fuller bill take its chance, as it has been reported negatively; however, I do not suppose it will pass, but I do not think action in regard to it should be prejudiced by the passage of this bill. We do not want to be compelled to climb the hills and follow along the water courses in order to be able to cross the river.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I did not intend to interfere with the legislation in regard to the gentleman's district, but, I understand from Mr. SEABROOK, the Senator from that district, that he had no particular interest in this matter, and that when it came there would be no opposition to this bill. I would ask the gentleman if the public roads do not come down to this ferry, and I would ask him if the ferry is made where this Fuller bill places it, if it would not involve the cutting up of land which is already cut up by the railroad passing through it? I have only a letter to show that some of the same parties who signed his remonstrance, also signed this petition.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, in reply to the gentleman, I would say that the place at which it is proposed to locate this ferry is not where the ferry is now in operation. It says, "it shall be located where the road crosses."

The road does not come to the river at that place, but it is intended to locate it further up the river. I move the indefinite postponement of the bill.

The motion was

Agreed to.

SENATE MESSAGE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bills from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows, viz: No. 198, an act to establish a ferry over the Allegheny river, at or near Red Bank furnace.

RECOMMITAL OF BILL.

Mr. WHITE moved that the bill entitled An act to declare that branch of Mill creek, in the county of Jefferson, known as the Fire Mile run, a public highway, be recommitted to the Committee on Canals and Inland Navigation.

The motion was
Agreed to.

BILL RECONSIDERED.

Mr. M'CONAUGHY moved that the Senate reconsider the vote on the final passage of a bill entitled An act to extend the time for the payment of the enrollment tax upon an act entitled An act to authorize the Western Maryland railroad company to locate a portion of their road through Adams and Franklin counties, Pennsylvania, approved March 23, 1865.

The motion was
Agreed to.

And the bill being again before the Senate, Mr. M'CONAUGHY asked, and obtained the unanimous consent of the Senate to amend the same by adding two new sections.

The bill, as amended, then
Passed finally.

AN AFTERNOON SESSION.

Mr. BIGHAM moved that when the Senate adjourns, it will adjourn to meet this afternoon at three o'clock.

The motion was agreed to

INVITATION FROM THE BLIND ASYLUM.

The SPEAKER laid before the Senate the following invitation which was read:

HARRISBURG, February 20, 1867.

To the Speaker of the Senate:

DEAR SIR—The members of the Senate are respectfully invited to an exhibition by the blind pupils of the Pennsylvania Institution of the Blind, this evening at a quarter before eight o'clock, in the Representative chamber; also, to a concert by the pupils in the Court House, to-morrow evening, tickets for which will be furnished so the members.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
WILLIAM CHAPIN,
Principal.

FINAL ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. SEARIGHT moved that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the joint resolution providing for the final adjournment of the Legislature.

The motion was not
Agreed to.

BILL ACTED ON

Mr. WALLS moved that the Committee on Agriculture and Domestic Manufactures be discharged from the further consideration of bill entitled An act to encourage the destruction of noxious animals in Lycoming county, and that at the next order of the day be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to its consideration.

Mr. BIGHAM said he was aware that half-a-dozen members desired to call up bills, but he should call the orders of the day on every bill, in order to reach the general railroad bill.

Messrs. RIDGWAY and SCHALL thought it would only be fair to allow the Senator from Union to call up this bill, as others had been granted the same privilege.

Mr. GRAHAM, Mr. Speaker, I think it would be well to allow the Senate to call up his bill and pass it, with the understanding that after that the orders of the day shall be taken up, as this courtesy has been extended to other Senators this morning.

The motion of Mr. WALLS was
Agreed to,
And the bill
Passed finally.

CHANGE OF VENUE.

Mr. FISHER moved that the rules be declared, and that the Senate proceed to the consideration of bill entitled An act to change the venue in the case of Jane E. Caldwell vs. the Catasawiss railroad company from the Supreme Court of rist prius in Philadelphia to the court of common pleas of Lycoming county.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I call for the orders of the day.

Mr. FISHER said that the lady referred to in this bill was severely injured by the cars some time ago, and was crippled for life, and had been seeking redress from the railroad company, but could not serve a writ on the company, being unable, physically and financially, to go to Philadelphia; she now asked for a change of venue, so as to reach the courts; there is no objection to the bill.

Mr. COLEMAN said he had been written to by the counsel of the company, asking that the bill be not passed.

Mr. FISHER. This lady is very anxious that this bill should pass, and she is here. I am sure that if the Senate had an opportunity to see her, not one of them would hesitate to act promptly upon this bill.

Mr. LOWRY. Mr. Speaker, it was understood yesterday, on all hands, that we should take up the general railroad law to-day. Some bills were taken up this morning which were proper and right; but it now seems to be the object to stave off this bill; we cannot shut our eyes to the fact

Mr. FISHER. I have no such object.

Mr. LOWRY. That may be. This bill may be proper; but I am not prepared to consider it; but I think we are all prepared to take up the general railroad law.

Mr. FISHER was understood to say that the president of this railroad had agreed that the bill should pass, with certain amendments.

On the question,
Will the Senate suspend the rules, and proceed to the consideration of this bill?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. LOWRY and Mr. FISHER, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Billingsfelt, Browne (Lawrence), Burnett, Connell, Cowles, Davis, Donovan, Fisher, Glatz, Haines, Jackson, James, Landon, M'Canless, M'Conaughey, Randall, Ridgway, Royer, Schall, Searight, Shoemaker, Stutzman, Taylor, Walls, White and Hall, Speaker—26.

NAYS—Messrs. Bigham, Coleman, Graham and Lowry—4.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

During the call,
Mr. COWLES said: Mr. Speaker, I will vote for the suspension, with the understanding that this thing goes no further.

Also, during the call,
Mr. TAYLOR said: Mr. Speaker, with the understanding that this extends to this bill only, I vote "aye."

The bill was read, and, on motion of Mr. FISHER, amended by striking out the word "Lycoming," where it occurred, and inserting, in lieu thereof, the word "Northumberland."

The amendment was
Agreed to.

The section, as amended, was
Agreed to.

The title being under consideration,
On motion of Mr. FISHER, it was amended by striking out the word "Lycoming," and inserting in lieu thereof the word "Northumberland."

The bill as amended
Passed finally.

THE GENERAL RAILROAD LAW.

Agreeably to order, the Senate proceeded with the second reading and consideration of bill entitled An act to authorize the formation of railway corporations.

In committee of the whole (Mr. M'CONAUGHY in the chair), the first section was read as follows:

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That any number of citizens of Pennsylvania, not less than nine, may form a company for the purpose of constructing, maintaining and operating a railway, to be operated by steam power, for public use, in the conveyance of persons and property, and for that purpose may make and sign articles of association, in which shall be stated the name of the company, the number of years the same is to continue, the places from and to which the railway is to be constructed, or maintained and operated, the length of such railway, as near as may be, and the name of each county in this State through or into which it is made, or intended to be made, the amount of capital stock of the company, which shall not be less than fifteen thousand dollars for every mile of railway constructed, or proposed to be constructed, and the number of shares of which said capital stock shall consist, and the names and places of residence of a president, and not less than six nor more than twelve directors of the company, who shall manage its affairs for the first year, and until others are chosen in their places; each subscriber to such articles of association shall subscribe thereto his name, place of residence and the number of shares of stock he agrees to take in said company; on compliance with the provisions of the second section of this act, such articles of association shall be acknowledged by at least three of the directors, before some officer competent to take acknowledgment of deeds, in the county where the principal office is designed to be located, and filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, who shall endorse thereon the day they were filed, and record the same in a book to be provided by him for that purpose, and thereupon the said articles of association shall become, and be a charter for the said company, and the persons who have so subscribed such articles of association, and all persons who shall become stockholder in such company, shall be a corporation by the name specified in such articles of association or charter, and shall possess the powers and privileges following, to wit:

First. To have succession by its corporate name for the period limited in its articles of association.

Second. To sue and be sued, complain and defend, in any court of law or equity.

Third. To make and use a common seal, and alter the same at pleasure.

Fourth. To hold, purchase and convey such real and personal estate as the purposes of the corporation shall require, not exceeding the amount needful for the business thereof, and which shall be so limited in the articles of association.

Fifth. To appoint such subordinate officers and agents, as the business of the corporation shall require, and to allow them a suitable compensation.

Sixth. To make by-laws not inconsistent with any existing law for the management of its property, and regulation of its affairs, and for the transfer of its stock.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. Chairman, before entering into this general subject, or amending or altering this law, if the committee will agree, I would like to say a few words on the general subject of our railroad legislation. It seems to me that this is the proper time, before we consider any amendments, to look at the present system, and I would ask leave to say what I have to say at the present time.

Mr. Chairman, my earnest desire is to give to the people of this State the freest possible facilities of intercommunication, and to encourage the development of the great agricultural and mineral resources which the Creator has so bountifully supplied us with.

The State of Pennsylvania at an early day realized the importance of giving such facilities, and aided the people by constructing, at the expense of the State, what at that time was considered a grand system of public improvements. These improvements answered the desired end for a time; but it was discovered that the State management of these works was a great source of political power and corruption, and that the management of these works by the State was, perhaps, the most expensive that could be desired. It was then wisely, in my opinion, decided that the State should sell these works, and intrust the development of the resources of the State to private enterprise and capital. But it did not seem to see the danger of creating creatures who might become greater than the creator. Such has, unfortunately, been the result. Having given birth to monsters, and from the day of their birth fed them with strong pap, they are waxing fat and kicking in all directions. The food administered to these infants has not been judiciously selected; it has been too stimulating, and produced in these bodies corporate powers for evil as well as for good. This, perhaps, is only nature, for the first-born is apt to be improperly indulged by the parents.

And now we are called upon to test the question whether the parent or the child is the master.

The State having decided to intrust the development of its resources to corporate bodies, it seemed only to look at the good that might be accomplished, and granted them almost unlimited powers; and, from that day to this, has been adding instead of diminishing these powers, till these spoiled children defy the power of the State, and the big one is almost universally acknowledged to be master, not only of the parent, but of its little brother—an example of its power we saw only a few days ago.

Now, the question arises: can these evils, if they do exist, be remedied? In order to obtain some light on this subject for our future consideration, I introduced in the first part of this session the following resolution:

Resolved, That the General Judiciary Committee be instructed to inquire into the power of this Legislature to control railroad corporations of this State by direct legislation on the subject of charges for passengers and freight, to secure the private citizens of the State from inordinate and extortionate demands, to assert the sovereignty of the people of the State over all such corporations within its limits for the general good, and that said committee have power to send for persons, books and papers, and to compel testimony under oath; that said committee is instructed to report to the Senate at the earliest possible period, by bill or otherwise.

And I hope the people of the State having complaints to make, will appear before this committee, and that the committee will be able to report, at an early day, some feasible plan to remedy existing evils. Over some of these corporations—the those chartered since the amendment of the Constitution, passed in 1857—we have undoubted power. That amendment reads as follows:

"The Legislature shall have the power to alter, revoke, or annul any charter of incorporation hereafter conferred by or under any special or general law, whenever, in their opinion, it may be injurious to the citizens of the Commonwealth, in such manner, however, that no injustice shall be done to the corporations."

Over others, the case may be more doubtful. In order to understand our exact position, we must ascertain what sort of creatures these corporations are; and as I find this much more ably stated than I can state it, in an article headed "Coal and Coal Monopolies," in the Luzerne Union, of August 16, 1856, I will use the definition I find there. It is as follows:

"What is a railroad or a canal, as respects the rights of the public and the rights of those who are shareholders? Are they public highways, bound by all the rules of common law applicable to common carriers, or are they private schemes of a class of men who buy the franchises of the people at the price named by a venal 'ring' in our Legislature? This is answered by an unquestionable utterance. We quote from the able opinion of Chief Justice Black in the celebrated case of Sharpless versus Mayor of Philadelphia, reported in volume 21 of the Pennsylvania State Reports, pages 169 and 170. This is the language of the Supreme Court:

"A railroad is a public highway for the public benefit, and the right of a corporation to exact a uniform, reasonable, stipulated toll, from those who pass over it, does not make its main use a private one. The public has an interest in such a road, when it belongs to a corporation, as clearly as they would have if it were free, or as if the tolls were payable to the State, because travel and transportation are cheapened by it to a degree far exceeding all the tolls and charges of every kind, and this advantage the public has over and above that of rapidity, comfort, convenience, increase of trade, opening of markets, and other means of rewarding labor and promoting wealth. In Bonaparte versus The Camden and Amboy Railroad Company (1 Baldwin, 233), although the charter of the defendants had more features in it of a close monopoly, for the mere private emolument of the stockholders, than any other similar company in the country, yet the road was held to be a public work, and the plaintiff's land, taken to build it upon, was decided to have been taken for public use.

"It being the duty of the State to make such public improvements, if she happen to be unable or unwilling to perform it herself to the full extent desired, she may accept the voluntary assistance of an individual, or a number of individuals associated together and incorporated into a company. The company may be private, but the work they are to do is a public duty; and along with the public duty there is delegated a sufficient share of the sovereign power to perform it. The right of eminent domain is always given to such corporations. But the right of eminent domain cannot be used for private purposes, and, therefore, if a railroad, canal or turnpike, be unwilling to perform it as a mere private enterprise, like the building of a tavern, store, mill, or blacksmith shop, there never was a constitutional charter given to an improvement company, and every taking of land or materials under any of them was a flagrant trespass."

I will now proceed to examine briefly, what, in my opinion, are a few of the abuses of the existing corporations, or some of them, leaving the fuller examination to the able members of the Judiciary Committee of the Senate.

1. The first abuse is the unjust discrimination against what is known as the local trade of the State.

2. That many corporations make private arrangements with transporters, charging lower rates to favorites than to the public.

3. That many corporations allow the officers to be interested in transporting lines, both of passengers and freights.

4. That many of these corporations engage in other business than that for which they are incorporated—some in the hotel business, some in the manufacturing business.

I could name many other abuses and injuries to the citizens of the Commonwealth, but I leave them to the people and the Judiciary Committee.

Now let us examine these four questions. I contend that if we remedy these abuses, that we not only will benefit the public, but the corporators themselves; for I fear that many of these companies are used more for the benefit of the officers than for the benefit of the public or the stockholders.

Now let us examine these questions:

1. The discrimination against the local trade. I contend that both the public and the stockholders will be benefited by a change of policy. I contend that the local trade is more profitable than the through trade, and its development certainly more beneficial to the State.

Every manufactory that a company can induce parties to erect on the line of their road, every mine that is opened, is a permanent source of profit—so much so that, instead of burdening them by charges, if they would carry to points along their roads the bulky and low-priced articles—the staples of our State, coal and iron—for barely cost, or even below cost, I believe they would be gainers in the end. Every horse built along the line of their road is worth a certain sum to them, so long as that horse is occupied. I care not so long as that horse is kept, the occupants will probably at some time travel over the road, or their friends will visit them. A certain amount of food, also, will be consumed, clothing will be required, the number of stores be increased, villages, towns and cities spring into existence, where there is now nothing but farms or a wilderness. What is the result of the present policy of most of our roads, of low through rates and high local rates?—for many of them seem to prefer to carry freight and passengers out of the State, to rival cities and States, rather than to any point within the State. The result is to drive business to the ends of the roads, or even beyond them, into other States; and such has been the result. Now, cannot we alter this, and benefit instead of injure the corporators? At the end of the principal roads will generally be found large cities or towns, where rural roads exist. For example, I ask, whether a factory at Lancaster, or at Philadelphia, would be most profitable to the Pennsylvania railroad? To my mind, there is but one answer, and that is, the factory at Lancaster would be worth many times more to the company than the one in Philadelphia, or New York. Every person living in Lancaster, has a moneyed value to the road; he increases the business of the road. The very infant there has a value, causing freight to be carried over the road; the castor oil, ipecac and other necessaries of infancy, create business for the road as well as the clothing and groceries required for the adult population.

Now, I ask: How much of the castor oil, ipecac, clothing, groceries, etc., consumed by the factory at Lancaster, is carried over the Pennsylvania railroad? Did I not fear to tire the Senators by these dull details, I would elaborate these points more fully. I will here merely say, that the large cities have nothing to fear from this change of policy; if our inland towns prosper, our large cities at the ends of the roads will share in their prosperity, for it is to them that the country must look for their supplies of clothing, groceries, &c. I therefore think I have proved that this change of policy will benefit the corporators and the public.

2. I now come to my second charge, that many companies make private arrangements, charging some transporters less than others. This, it seems to me, must be illegal; if not, it ought to be made so. I am informed, and believe it to be true, that it is customary for many roads to say to parties: If you will send a large amount of coal over our road, we will make a deduction on the rates. Now, this is evidently unfair to the smaller coal operator, and I am told, has in some part of our State thrown the whole trade into the hands of wealthy corporations; and I ask the Judiciary Committee to examine this abuse.

I will now pass to my third charge:

That many of the companies allow their officers to be interested in transporting lines, both of passengers and freight, over their lines, to the injury of citizens of the Commonwealth. I find in Pardon's Digest, page 90, "that it shall not be lawful for the cashier of any bank to engage in any other profession or calling, either directly or indirectly, than that of the duties appertaining to the office of cashier;" and if any cashier does so, heavy penalties are exacted. Now, would it not benefit citizens of the State, and the stockholders of the company, if we were to pass laws, so as to at least prevent the president, vice president and superintendent of the railroad companies in this State from being interested, directly or indirectly, in the transporting companies doing business over their roads, and obliging them to look more closely to the profits due to stockholders, and not to their own personal interests? For at present, if rumor is true, there is no more certain way to fortune than to be elected president or vice president of a large railroad corporation.

Fourth charge:

That they engage in other business than that for which they were chartered. This, to my mind, is a gross abuse of power; and though the excuse is, that it is for the benefit of the road, where will this lead us to? If they must keep a hotel, would it not be well for us to have a law to supply the hotel, and a mill to make flour for supplying the hotel? If they must manufacture locomotives and cars, why not have coal mines, iron mines, timber lands, &c., to supply these locomotives and car works with materials? If, as one company in its late report recommends, they erect rolling mills, to make their own rails, why should they not have furnaces to supply the rolling mill? Where is this to stop?

When the Legislature chartered a railroad, it is for transporting freight and passengers. When we subscribe our money to build that road, we do not subscribe for a hotel, or for a furnace, or rolling mill; and it is a fraud for the directors to use our money for that purpose.

These, Mr. Speaker, are a few of the reasons why I am in favor of a general railroad law, which shall be made to apply not only to corporations to be created, but to all we can reach—namely, those created since the adoption of the amendment to the Constitution in 1857.

Opposed before that time, the old constitution gave other remedies for abuses.

With the details of the bill before us, I have nothing to say at present. I will wait till able men have discussed its merits and demerits.

But, before closing, I demand from this Senate, and from this Legislature, as one of the people, and as the chosen representative of many of them, that they do not adjourn before they do all in their power to remedy the evils now existing; and I ask Senators who talk so eloquently about freedom from other kinds of trade, to aid the people of this State, by their eloquence, in throwing off the shackles of the slavery we are subjected to by the railroad corporations of this State.

Mr. Speaker, I think we should all follow the example of the Senator from Bradford, and occasionally examine into our sanity; and I suggest, also, an examination into our identity. Let us find out, not only whether we are sound in mind, but also whether we are sane persons now that we were a few days ago. Whether it is possible for the same man to talk eloquently about the hardships of Southern slavery one day, and a few days after cast his vote to preserve the power of these mammoth corporations over our own people, thereby keeping us all in bondage.

As that Senator told us the story of the poet Burns and louse, and quoted the lines written on that occasion, I will repeat an old nursery rhyme:

"'Twas an old woman, as I've heard tell,
She went to market, her eggs for to sell;
She went to market all on a market day,
And she fell asleep on the King's highway.

"'There came a peddler, whose name was Stout,
He cut her petticoats all round about;

He cut her petticoats up to her knees,
Which made the old woman to shiver and freeze.

"'When this old woman first did wake,
She began to shiver and she began to shake;
She began to wonder and she began to cry,
Lank-a-mercy on me, this is none of I."

"'But if it be I, as I do hope it be,
I've a little dog at home, and he'll know me;
If it be I, he'll wag his little tail,
And if it be not I, he'll loudly bark and wail.

"'Home went the little woman, all in the dark;

Up got the little dog, and he began to bark;
He began to bark, and she began to cry,
Lank-a-mercy on me, this is none of I."

Now, Mr. Speaker, I hope that we will not fall asleep, as the old woman did, and have our garments cut off up to our knees; and, that, when we go home, our little dogs will wag their little tails.

Mr. SEARIGHT moved that the committee rise, report progress, and ask leave to sit again.

Mr. BIGHAM. Mr. Chairman, I hope we will give some attention to the bill. I cannot conceive why the committee is asked to rise at this time.

Mr. LOWRY. Mr. Chairman, would it be in order to move to strike out all after the enacting clause in that bill and substitute therefor the bill prepared by the Senator from Allegheny [Mr. BIGHAM]?

The CHAIRMAN said it would not be in order, as a motion was pending.

Mr. LOWRY. If that motion is withdrawn would it be in order?

The CHAIRMAN said that, until that occurred, he could not answer the Senator's question.

The motion of Mr. SEARIGHT was then agreed to.

And the committee rose, reported progress, and asked leave to sit again.

Mr. SEARIGHT moved that the committee have leave to sit again next Tuesday, for the consideration of this bill.

Mr. LOWRY. I move that the committee have leave to sit this afternoon.

Mr. DONOVAN said that in the absence of the Senator from Clearfield [Mr. WALLACE] he hoped that the motion of Mr. SEARIGHT would be adopted.

Mr. BIGHAM. Mr. Speaker, this Senate has three times declared that when this subject came up it was to have preference over all local business. Some three weeks ago I offered a resolution instructing the committee to report, and declaring that when they did report, this subject should have the preference. A discussion came up a few days after, and my colleague offered a resolution instructing the committee to report last Wednesday, and that resolution expressly declared that it would be the order of the day until disposed of. We then again expressly fixed yesterday morning. Finding an indisposition yesterday morning to take up this subject it was put over until this morning, with the understanding that we were to meet at ten o'clock. We met at ten o'clock and were occupied until twelve with the morning orders—I do not know whether intentionally or not. And now, after a few remarks from the Senator from Lebanon [Mr. COLEMAN], it is proposed that the committee rise and that this matter be postponed until next week. My constituents believe that this is the most important bill before us. They hold me to the responsibility of urging this Senate to act on this question. That I certainly shall do. I therefore shall vote for the earliest hour—three o'clock this afternoon.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Speaker, I have one word to say. It is a common opinion in Pennsylvania, among the people, that the Legislature has done but little this winter; although, when the laws are published, they will see that we have done a great deal—possibly more than we ought to have done. But it is perfectly clear that the people desire us to pass a general railroad law more than anything else; and I, for one, being friendly to that measure, and knowing my people to be friendly to it, want to see it pass the Senate at the earliest possible day. It is manifest that this bill will provoke some discussion. I understand that it is a Senate bill, and after it passes the Senate here, it must go over to the House. Now, we are past the middle of February; I will certainly adjourn about the 1st of April. When we consider these things, it is necessary for us to make all the haste we possibly can to secure the passage of this bill. I trust, then, in view of the anxiety of the people, in view of the advanced stage of the session, in view of the delays which will necessarily attach to the discussion and passage of this bill, that we will refuse to postpone its consideration any longer, but devote every possible hour to it, and at the earliest possible time. I, therefore, am opposed to the motion of the Senator from Fayette [Mr. SEARIGHT].

Mr. SEARIGHT. Mr. Speaker, for the reasons given by the Senators from Allegheny and Indiana, I propose to devote the whole of next week to the discussion of this subject. We will not have time to consider it this week. It required a whole week to dispose of the Connellsville bill, and, from the intimation of Senators, this is regarded as a more important bill, and, therefore, will require at least a week. I do not propose to introduce any interruption of the subject, after getting headway, in the beginning of next week; and, inasmuch as it is a very important subject, it would be proper to expect that Senators have an opportunity to examine it in all its phases. The Senator from Clearfield [Mr. WALLACE], who is, I believe, an active friend of this bill, objected yesterday to taking it up at this time, for the reason that he had not had an opportunity to examine it; and that is one of the reasons why I desire that it be postponed, in order that we may have the assistance and aid of that gentleman's experience in ventilating this subject.

Mr. COLEMAN. The understanding was that this was to come up on Tuesday of this week, and if we had considered it from that time to this, we should have made fair progress. I understood that this week was to be devoted to it. Now, what guaranty have we that, if we postpone it now, the same sort of opposition will not be made next week?

Mr. SEARIGHT. I will give the guaranty that I will vote on the bill next week.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. Speaker, nobody, I suppose, is perfectly satisfied with the bill as it is now. There may be amendments that will take considerable time, and I do not know what better time we have to devote to this bill than now. And next week, after having it fully discussed, we can act better upon it by exchanging opinions here than in our own rooms.

Mr. BROWN (Mercer). Mr. Speaker, I did not expect to vote upon this bill before the time named by the Senator from Fayette [Mr. SEARIGHT]; but really I cannot see that it is proper now to defer the consideration of this bill until that time. Let us take it up, and proceed with it, and render it as perfect as possible; it is going to take some time. Let us take it up at once, and proceed to its consideration. I shall not cast a vote here that can, by any manner of interpretation, be regarded as an effort to put off the consideration of this bill any longer. As has been remarked by the Senator from Allegheny, the people of the western part of the State, and I believe of the entire State, look upon this measure as the great measure of the session; and I have learned, sometimes to my sorrow, that delays are dangerous. There is no more effectual way of killing a liberal, just consideration of a bill, than by delaying its consideration, until near the close of the session; and, sir, I protest against any further delay in the consideration of this subject.

Mr. SEARIGHT. Mr. Speaker, Senators who favored the passage of the Connellsville bill, will recollect that we brought up that bill, and were very anxious to have it delayed. It got into the hands of enemies, and was forced to its fate and defeated; let the friends of this bill take warning, and not realize that experience with regard to this bill.

Mr. FISHER. Mr. Speaker, I have not had an opportunity to examine any of the amendments proposed to this bill by the committee, and shall vote for the postponement.

Mr. LOWRY. Mr. Speaker, if the length of time is to be occupied that the Senator from Fayette [Mr. SEARIGHT] thinks will be, on this bill, the sooner we get at it the better. The Senator from Clearfield [Mr. WALLACE] will certainly be here by that time. The Senator from Fayette [Mr. SEARIGHT] says he expects to go away himself this week; then there is more necessity for taking up the bill now.

Mr. SEARIGHT. I would like to be in at the death.

Mr. LOWRY. Well, I think the Senator will be in at the death of any law, this session, that has the idea of building roads. I have seen enough to satisfy me that it is useless to talk upon this bill. I spoke upon the Connellsville bill, and you also gave me leave to publish what I might wish to say in the Record, and I am not going to inflict a speech upon the Senate now, so that all understand the matter. A bill was framed which the friends of a general law desired; the committee reported a bill which, if we are to believe all that we hear, is desired to be passed, as a kind of tub to the whale, by the gigantic monopoly that overshadows us all. Therefore, I made the motion to proceed to the consideration of this bill this afternoon, and to continue it every day.

Mr. BILLINGFELT said he believed the best mode was to have this bill discussed; hence, he would vote against any postponement.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, I believe this bill was made the order of the day upon my motion, and that it was to continue to be the order of the day until finally disposed of. Now, sir, it was to have been brought up on Tuesday of this week, and, having come up regularly to-day, I cannot see any propriety in postponing its discussion any further. It is certainly the bill of the session. It is a bill which has excited more attention, and to which the people of this State are looking with more intense interest than any bill that has been up, or will be up, this session. We can gain nothing by postponing its consideration to next week, when the loss of precious time. We can take it up just as well to-day as next week, and will have just that much more time to devote to its thorough, patient and attentive consideration, and I trust that we will not delay its consideration one moment longer than is absolutely necessary.

Mr. BIGHAM. Mr. Speaker, there are two bills before us—one which I had the honor to prepare, and another reported from the committee. Now, I did hope that the committee of the whole would at least act, and that we should have some indication of what is going to be done. This thing is as well understood outside as inside. I will read an extract from a letter written by one of the most intelligent men in Pennsylvania, probably the wealthiest constituent that I have, who reads the Record all through every day, and is about as well posted in that way as I myself am. He proposes that the title of this bill, reported by the committee, should be amended so as to make it read "a bill to prevent the formation of railway companies." "It is a thoroughly obstructive one; it will not do to permit such a bill as that to pass; if it is certain that no fair bill can pass, then do not stultify yourselves and the friends of a free railroad law, by passing a bogus bill." Now, if we are to be voted down, so be it. It is just as well understood outside as inside. We have three times resolved that this question shall have precedence over other legislation.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, without noticing the remarks made by the gentleman who has just spoken [Mr. BIGHAM], which I do not think worthy of notice by any of the friends of a free railroad law, I will say that I intend to vote for the postponement of the bill till next Tuesday, for several reasons. First, it is probable that one of the two bills will be passed. I have not had an opportunity of comparing the two bills; in fact, I scarcely knew, except as I asked the question this morning, the difference between those two bills. For that reason, I am opposed to having a session to-day, and so far as taking up and discussing it on Tuesday, the difference is but two days, and it is simply a loss of two days. In matters of this kind, the more hurry, sometimes, the less speed. I would like to see passed a general railroad law, as fair as we can get it. I believe that nine-tenths of the people of the State demand it, and I am willing to gratify them to the best of my ability; but, for the reason that some gentlemen who are friends to the bill are obliged to be absent, I shall vote to postpone it till next week.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I appeal to the friends of this measure not to vote as the Senator from Berks indicates. If he wants information on the subject, I see no better way for him to get it than to go into committee of the whole and have the differences between these two bills discussed; he can then get the views of members. Therefore, I think he would be gaining information by coming here this afternoon and hearing this thing discussed. There is no idea of pressing it to a vote to-day.

On the motion,
Will the Senate agree to the motion of Mr. SEARIGHT, that the committee have leave to sit again on Tuesday next?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. LOWRY and Mr. SEARIGHT, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Burnett, Connell, Cowles,

Daily Legislative Record.

FOR THE SESSION OF 1867.

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY OF THE LEGISLATURE OF PENNSYLVANIA. No. 43.

TERMS OF THE DAILY RECORD.

THE DAILY RECORD will be furnished to members of the Legislature and others at the following rates:

Single copy for the session.....$2 00

Members desiring extra copies of the Record, will please leave their names and the number of copies wanted at the publication office. GEO. BERGNER.

Davis, Donovan, Fisher, Glatz, Haines, Jackson, James, Landon, M' Candless, M' Conaughy, Randall, Ridgway, Royer, Schall, Seairight, Shoemaker, Stutzman and Walls—21.

YAYS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingsfelt, Browne (Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Coleman, Graham, Lowry, Taylor, White and Hall, Speaker—10.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

During the call,

Mr. JACKSON said: Mr. Speaker, I have sent copies of the different bills upon this subject to a number of my constituents, who are friends of a free railroad law, with a request that they give me their opinions upon them. Before casting my vote upon the subject, I desire to hear from them, and to have an opportunity of thoroughly examining the subject myself, so as to vote intelligently and for the best interests of my constituents.

I vote "aye."

Also, during the call,

THE SPEAKER said: I cannot agree to any postponement of the bill. I, therefore, vote "no."

TEMPORARY ADJOURNMENT.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented an extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives, which was read as follows:

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
February 20, 1867.

WHEREAS, Friday next, February 22, is the anniversary of the birth of that Sage, Patriot, Statesman and General—George Washington, father of his country;

And whereas, It is eminently proper that the Legislature of this State should, in a fitting manner, honor and respect the recurrence of the same; therefore, be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That when the two Houses adjourn on Thursday next, February 21st, that it be to meet again on Tuesday, February 26th, 1867, at 10 o'clock, A. M., and that the National and State colors be displayed from the dome of the capitol from sunrise to sunset on the 22d instant.

Mr. RIDGWAY. Mr. Speaker, it is not necessary to have a joint resolution to enable the Senate to adjourn over from Thursday until Monday. I have some important business, and would like to be absent until Tuesday. We never do much business on Monday evening, I therefore move to amend the resolution by striking out the words,

"Monday, February 25, 1867, at 7½ o'clock, P. M.," and in inserting in lieu thereof the words, "Tuesday, February 26, 1867, at 10 o'clock, A. M."

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, I do not think we ought to adjourn until Tuesday. You know that a number of gentlemen have been invited, and propose to visit Washington a week from next Monday, to witness the inauguration of our distinguished friend and fellow citizen, Simon Cameron, into the Senate of the United States. This will bring the adjournments rather close together.

Mr. RIDGWAY said he had received no invitation of that kind.

Mr. FISHER. Mr. Speaker, for the reasons given by the Senator from Allegheny [Mr. GRAHAM], I hope we will not adjourn until Tuesday.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment of Mr. RIDGWAY?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. RIDGWAY and Mr. GRAHAM and were as follow, viz:

YAYS—Messrs. Brown (Mercer), Burnett, Donovan, Glatz, Haines, Jackson, M' Candless, M' Conaughy, Randall, Ridgway, Royer, Schall, Seairight, Stutzman, Taylor and Walls—16.

NAYS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingsfelt, Browne (Lawrence), Coleman, Connell, Cowles, Davis, Fisher, Graham, James, Landon, Lowry, Shoemaker, White and Hall, Speaker—15.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The resolution, as amended, was adopted.

During the call,

Mr. BIGHAM said: Mr. Speaker, I hope we will not adjourn until Tuesday, because the whole of the day would be occupied on miscellaneous business.

Also, during the call,

Mr. BROWN (Mercer) said: Mr. Speaker, I am in favor of adjourning until Tuesday morning, because I cannot be here. Those living in the western portion of the State cannot be here on Monday evening, unless they leave home on Saturday; therefore I vote for the adjournment.

Also, during the call,

Mr. FISHER said: Mr. Speaker, I stated some time ago that I would vote against all adjournments that interfere with the business of the session, and especially with this bill; I therefore vote "no."

BILLS PASSED.

On motion of Mr. BURNETT, the Committee on Roads and Bridges was discharged, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of bill entitled An act to incorporate the Equinunk bridge company.

The rules having been dispensed with, the bill was read a second and third time, and Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. BROWNE (Lawrence), the Committee on Finance was discharged from the further consideration of a bill entitled An act to refund John Martin, administrator, amount collateral inheritance tax paid in error.

And the rules having been dispensed with, the bill was read.

In connection with this bill, Mr. BROWNE (Lawrence) asked that the following affidavit be read:

Lawrence county, ss:

Personally appeared before me, a justice of the peace in and for said county, John Martin, who, being duly sworn according to law, deposes and says: That he is administrator of the estate of John Lowden, deceased; that he paid forty-one dollars and forty cents collateral tax to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania under a mistake as to his duty. The mother of the said John Lowden is yet living, or was living last August or September.

Sworn and subscribed before me this 28th day of January, A. D. 1867.

ROBERT BENTLEY,
Justice of the Peace.

Mr. BROWNE (Lawrence) said he was acquainted with the facts in the case, and that the bill was correct; that this man was a soldier of the One Hundredth regiment, and his mother had a right to this money.

The bill

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. SHOEMAKER, the Committee on the Judiciary Local was discharged from the further consideration of a bill entitled An act to legalize the assessment of taxes levied by the school directors of the borough of Kingston, Luzerne county, for the payment of money advanced for the purpose of paying bounty to volunteers.

And the rules having been dispensed with, The bill was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

On motion of Mr. LOWRY, the Senate proceeded to the consideration of bill entitled An act to regulate the terms of the several courts in the Sixth Judicial district.

In committee of the whole (Mr. RANDALL in the chair),

The bill was read a second and third time, and Reported with amendments.

The bill

Passed finally.

The hour of one o'clock having arrived, THE SPEAKER adjourned the Senate until this afternoon at three o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Senate reassembled at 2 o'clock.

RECOMMITTAL OF BILL.

Mr. HAINES moved that the bill entitled An act authorizing the sale of Agricultural land scrip be recommitted to the Committee on Agriculture and Domestic Manufactures.

The motion was

Agreed to.

BILLS IN PLACE.

On leave,

Mr. GRAHAM read in his place and presented to the Chair a bill entitled An act annexing the borough of Manchester to Allegheny city.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

THE INSANE ASYLUM.

The Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth being introduced, presented a message from the Governor, which was read as follows:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 20, 1867.

To the Honorable Senate of Pennsylvania:

SENATORS—I do hereby nominate for the advice and consent of the Senate, in conformity with the requirements of the fifth section of the act of Assembly of the 14th day of April, A. D. 1845, establishing an asylum for the insane poor of the Commonwealth, Henry Gilbert Esq., of the county of Dauphin, George Bergner, Esq., of the county of Dauphin, and William Lowther, Esq., of the county of Perry, to be trustees of the Pennsylvania State Lunatic hospital, for three years, to be computed from the seventh day of February last past.

JNO. W. GEARY,
Governor.

Laid on the table.

On motion of Mr. COLEMAN, the rule which requires executive nominations to be laid on the table five days, was in this case dispensed with, and the Senate resolved itself into executive session.

A motion was made by Mr. COLEMAN that the Senate do advise and consent to the appointment of Henry Gilbert, Esq., of the county of Dauphin, agreeably to the nomination of the Executive.

On the question,
Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were taken, agreeably to the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingsfelt, Browne (Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Coleman, Connell, Cowles, Fisher, Glatz, Graham, Haines, Jackson, Landon, Lowry, M'Conaughy, Randall, Ridgway, Royer, Shoemaker, Stutzman, Taylor and Hall, Speaker—22.

NAYS—None.

So it was

Resolved, That the Senate do advise and consent to the appointment of Henry Gilbert Esq., to be a trustee of the Pennsylvania State Lunatic hospital at Harrisburg, agreeably to the nomination of the Executive.

A motion was made by Mr. COLEMAN, that the Senate do advise and consent to the appointment of George Bergner, Esq., of the county of Dauphin, agreeably to the nomination of the Executive.

On the question

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were taken, agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingsfelt, Browne (Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Coleman, Connell, Cowles, Fisher, Glatz, Graham, Haines, Jackson, Landon, Lowry, M'Conaughy, Randall, Ridgway, Royer, Shoemaker, Stutzman, Taylor and Hall, Speaker—22.

NAYS—None.

So it was

Resolved, That the Senate do advise and consent to the appointment of George Bergner, Esq., to be a trustee of the Pennsylvania State Lunatic hospital, at Harrisburg, agreeably to the nomination of the Executive.

A motion was made by Mr. HAINES, that the Senate do advise and consent to the appointment of William Lowther, Esq., of the county of Perry, agreeably to the nomination of the Executive.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were taken, agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingsfelt, Browne

(Lawrence), Brown (Mercer), Coleman, Connell, Cowles, Fisher, Glatz, Graham, Haines, Jackson, Landon, Lowry, M'Conaughy, M'Conaughy, Randall, Ridgway, Royer, Shoemaker, Stutzman, Taylor, White and Hall, Speaker—24.

NAYS—None.

So it was

Resolved, That the Senate do advise and consent to the appointment of William Lowther, Esq., to be a trustee of the Pennsylvania State Lunatic hospital, at Harrisburg, agreeably to the nomination of the Executive.

THE COLUMBIA BRIDGE BILL.

On motion of Mr. FISHER, the Senate proceeded to third reading and consideration of bill entitled An act relating to the Columbia bridge company.

Mr. FISHER asked and obtained the unanimous consent of the Senate to amend the bill in the twelfth line of the first section, by striking out the word "three," and inserting in lieu thereof the word "six."

The bill then

Passed finally.

PRIVATE CALENDAR.

The Senate then proceeded to the second reading and consideration of bills on the private calendar numbered and entitled as follows, and said bills were disposed of as stated:

House bill No. 239, an act relative to the pay of surveyors appointed by the courts of Crawford and Mercer counties.

Passed finally.

House bill No. 159, a supplement extending the provisions of an act, approved the 17th day of April, A. D. 1866, relative to fees on unsettled lands in the county of Centre.

Laid over.

House bill No. 166, an act to divide the borough of Plymouth into two wards.

Laid over.

House bill No. 231, a supplement to an act to incorporate the town of Haley, in the county of Perry, into a borough, approved the 12th day of April, 1866, changing the name of said borough of Haley to Marysville, and forming the same into a separate election district.

Passed finally.

House bill No. 175, an act for the relief of Joseph A. Allen and E. Mayes.

Passed finally.

House bill No. 163, a further supplement to the act incorporating the borough of Washington.

Passed finally.

House bill No. 178, an act extending the provisions of the act relating to corporations for mechanical, manufacturing and quarrying purposes, approved the 19th day of July, A. D. 1863, and the supplements thereto, to the county of Northumberland.

Passed finally.

House bill No. 150, an act relating to the fees of the district attorney of Huntingdon county.

Passed finally.

House bill No. 173, an act to change the provisions of the thirtieth section of an act regulating boroughs, approved the 3d day of April, A. D. 1851, so far as the same relates to the borough of Mount Pleasant, Westmoreland county.

Passed finally.

House bill No. 169, a supplement to an act approved the 1st day of April, A. D. 1863, for the protection of owners of wharves or landings in the borough of Oil City, Venango county.

On motion of Mr. BROWN (Mercer), the bill was indefinitely postponed.

House bill No. 232, a supplement to an act to compel the manufacturers of birkins, begs and tubs intended for the packing of butter or lard, in the counties of Erie, Crawford and Warren, to mark the weight thereon, extending the same to the county of Bradford.

Passed finally.

No. 340, an act to enable the board of directors of the Swatara Falls coal company to borrow money, and to mortgage the corporate rights and privileges, estate, real and personal, of every description, or any part thereof, now held or that may hereafter be held by said company.

Passed finally.

No. 41, a supplement to an act entitled An act to incorporate the West Buck Mountain coal and iron company, approved May 2, 1864.

Passed finally.

House bill No. 182, an act to incorporate the Monroese mining company.

Passed finally.

House bill No. 226, an act authorizing the Union Mutual Fire insurance company of Montgomery county to change the time of holding its elections.

Passed finally.

House bill No. 184, an act to incorporate the Harmony gold and silver mining company.

Passed finally.

No. 347, an act for the protection of farmers in the markets of Philadelphia.

The bill was read.

Mr. DONOVAN, Mr. Speaker, I would object this bill off the calendar, but I desire to have it voted down. It has been defeated in the Senate for the last five years. The public press of Philadelphia is against the passage of this bill. If any Senator from Philadelphia wishes it to apply to his district, I am satisfied, but I do not want it to be generally applied there. It is a question between the rich corporators and the poor man.

Mr. ROYER stated that this bill was presented here by his colleague, Mr. WASHINGTON, and he felt a great interest in it. He could see no reason why it should not pass.

Mr. LOWRY, Mr. Speaker, I have been written to by an eminent gentleman from Chester county, who desires me to favor the passage of this bill. I think in deference to my friend, Dr. WASHINGTON, that we should lay it over.

Mr. CONNELL stated that his colleague [Mr. DONOVAN] was mistaken when he stated that this bill had been defeated several times in the Senate. This is an entirely different bill, though it is designed to meet the same cases.

The bill was Laid over.

No. 356, an act relative to the duties of district attorney, in the county of Erie.

Passed finally.

House bill No. 114, an act for the relief of wives and children, deserted by their husbands and fathers, in certain counties of this Commonwealth.

Amended on motion of Mr. SHOEMAKER, by excluding Luzerne county from its provisions.

Passed finally.

House bill No. 164, an act supplementary to an act erecting the village of East Birmingham into a borough, approved the 10th day of April, A. D. 1849.

Passed finally.

House bill No. 167, a further supplement to an act for the registration of births, marriages and deaths, in the city of Philadelphia, passed March 8, A. D. 1860, and supplements thereto.

Passed finally.

No. 360, an act in relation to the fees of notaries public in the counties of Bedford, Fulton and Somerset.

Passed finally.

No. 361, an act to authorize the commissioners of Lehigh county to borrow money.
Amended on motion of Mr. SCHALL.

Passed finally.

House bill No. 168, an act to authorize the town council of the borough of Mill Hall, in the county of Clinton, to levy and collect additional taxes for borough purposes.
Passed finally.

House bill No. 168, an act authorizing the commissioners of the county of Delaware to create a five per centum loan.
Amended on motion of Mr. ROYER.

Passed finally.

House bill No. 182, an act to incorporate the Hesperian mining company.
Amended on motion of Mr. CONNELL.

Passed finally.

No. 265, an act to incorporate the Manta Grande silver mining and commercial company.
Amended on motion of Mr. CONNELL.

Mr. LOWRY here made some extended remarks, which will appear in the Appendix.

The bill

Passed finally.
House bill No. 235, a further supplement altering and amending an act to incorporate the St. Clair cemetery association of the borough of Greensburg, in Westmoreland county, approved the 19th day of April, A. D. 1856.
Passed finally.

House bill No. 220, a supplement to an act to incorporate the Mechanicsburg hall and market company, approved the 24th day of March, A. D. 1865.
Passed finally.

House bill No. 226, an act to incorporate the Mahanoy Valley insurance company.
Passed finally.

House bill No. 227, an act to incorporate the Oak Hall association of Weatherly.
Passed finally.

No. 51, an act to authorize and relating to the appointment of auctioneers in the city of Erie, in the county of Erie, and his powers and duties.

Mr. M'CREARY. Now, Mr. Speaker, I move to add the following proviso.

The proviso was read as follows:

Provided, That this act shall not be so construed as to interfere with any sales authorized by the courts of said city or county, or in consequence of any legal proceeding whatever, or of personal property sold by the owner thereof, in person, in consequence of said owner declining business or housekeeping.

The proviso was

Agreed to.

The bill as amended was

Agreed to.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. STUMBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following resolution.

The resolution was read as follows:

WHEREAS, It is alleged that certain officers and others connected with certain railroads, incorporated by the laws of this Commonwealth, use undue means to divert the transportation of freight from the regular lines, and in favor of certain express and other transportation companies, at rates of freight higher than the regular rates fixed by the railroad companies over which said express and transportation companies convey freight, whereby these parties make large gains, to the detriment of the interests of the shippers;

And whereas, It is right and proper that all stockholders, in any railroad company, should participate in all the profits of such road, according to the amount of stock held by them respectively; therefore,Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to inquire into the matter, and report by bill or otherwise to this House, in order that such evil, if any exists, may be corrected.

The resolution was read a second and third time, and

Agreed to.

The following gentlemen were appointed by the SPEAKER as members of the committee:

Messrs. STUMBAUGH, MARES, CAMERON, HEADMAN and KURTZ.

Mr. CHASE. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following resolution.

The resolution was read as follows:

WHEREAS, Friday next, February 22d, is the anniversary of the birth of that sage, patriot, statesman and general, George Washington, Father of his country;

And whereas, It is eminently proper that the Legislature of this State should, in a fitting manner, honor and respect the recurrence of the same; therefore, be it*Resolved* (if the Senate concur), That when the two Houses do adjourn on Thursday next, February 21st, that it be to meet again on Tuesday, February 26, 1867, at 11 o'clock a. m., and that the national and State colors be displayed from the dome of the capitol from sunrise on the 22d instant.

The resolution was read a second time.

Mr. SELLER. Mr. Speaker, I move to amend by providing that we shall meet on Monday evening at 7½ o'clock.

The amendment was accepted.

Mr. GREGORY. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following substitute.

The substitute was read as follows:

Resolved, That when this House meets on Friday, the 22d of February, it will meet at eleven o'clock, to listen to the reading of Washington's farewell address to his countrymen; and that the Governor and the Heads of the Departments and the Senate be invited to be present, and that a committee of the members be appointed to extend the invitation to the Governor, Heads of Departments and Senate to be present.

The resolution was read a second time, and Not agreed to.

The question recurring on the resolution of Mr. CHASE, it was

Agreed to.

Mr. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following resolution.

The resolution was read as follows:

WHEREAS, The business of dealing in lottery policies and selling lottery tickets is carried on to an alarming extent in the city of Philadelphia, in violation of law, and in derogation of public morals;

And whereas, Thousands of dollars are annually taken from the dupes of this and other nefarious gambling schemes, and hundreds of youths driven into dissolution and ruin; therefore,Resolved, That a committee of five members of this House be appointed, whose duty it shall be to inquire into the above named abuses, and report to this House by bill or otherwise.

The resolution was read a second time, and

Agreed to.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the amendments made by the House of Representatives to Senate bills numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

No. 118, an act to authorize the appointment of six additional notaries public for the city of Philadelphia.

No. 121, an act to incorporate the M'Connell mineral company of Pennsylvania.

No. 152, an act to authorize the borough of St. Mary's to borrow money, and to extend the width of St. Michael street, in said borough.

No. 347, an act to enable the Pennsylvania Canal coal and railroad company to borrow money, and to change the corporate name of said company.

He also informed that the Senate has non-concurred in the amendments made by the House of Representatives to Senate bill numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

No. 131, an act to authorize the town council of the borough of Middletown, in the county of Dauphin, to borrow money to pay off the present indebtedness of said borough, and to build a bridge over the Pennsylvania canal, on Wood street, and to provide for the payment thereof, as also for the future government of said borough by an increased rate of taxation,

And has appointed Messrs. COLEMAN, ROYER and WALLS a committee of conference on the part of the Senate to confer with a similar committee on the part of the House of Representatives (if the House of Representatives shall appoint such committee), on the subject of the differences existing between the two Houses in relation to said bill.

He also again returned bill from the House of Representatives, which was re-called from the Governor on the 19th instant, for amendment, numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

No. 81, an act relating to auctioneers in the city and county of Erie.

With information that the Senate has concurred in the amendment made by the House of Representatives to said bill.

Mr. COLVILLE, Mr. Speaker, I now move that the House proceed to the consideration of the resolution of the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. DAVIS] relating to the testimony in the case of the Venango County Bank.

Mr. LEE, Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire of any person who knows what possible necessity there can be for the publication of this testimony now. What right has the House to publish this testimony? A court having competent jurisdiction of this question has decided it.

It seems to me that we would be stultifying ourselves were to publish ex parte testimony in this or any other case. I think it would have been had enough, as forestalling public opinion, to have printed this testimony, and sent them broadcast before the trial; I think it utterly useless now to publish this testimony if it was calculated to serve any purpose affecting the trial of this case.

This ex parte business is all settled; and why we should spread this scandalum magnatum I cannot understand. I hope this resolution will be promptly voted down.

Mr. CHASE, Mr. Speaker, the report of the committee appointed in the case of the Venango Bank has been obtained from the printer of this House in some way, taken to Philadelphia, there published, and circulated in Venango county prior to the trial, which came off, I think, on the last Monday of January. The trial has resulted in the acquittal of Mr. Culver. There can be no necessity for the publication of the testimony. I do not think the State should be allowed to pay for the printing of it. I hope the House will vote down the resolution. Whether it was the intention to injure Mr. Culver, is for the public to judge.

Mr. DAVIS, Mr. Speaker, certainly I have no feeling upon this subject, but I will permit no gentleman, whether from Philadelphia or Crawford county, to say that I offered this resolution as a personal reflection upon Mr. Culver or anybody else, Sir, I am as much the friend of Mr. Culver as the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. LEE]. I have nothing against him. But the Venango Bank is very different from Mr. Culver. If he is responsible for the failure of that bank, it will do no harm to let the evidence go before the world. I had no intimation that the gentleman from Allegheny [Mr. COLVILLE] intended to call up the resolution at this time, nor do I care anything about it since it is called up. I offered the resolution merely to submit to Venango county certain testimony taken with regard to the failure of a bank which was organized under the laws of Pennsylvania, to show whether one or more individuals were responsible for the frauds perpetrated on the people of Venango county. It had nothing to do with the forestalling of public opinion with regard to Mr. Culver. He was not being tried for his complications with the Venango Bank, but upon personal charges of fraud. This testimony taken under authority of the Auditor General; the object of its being published to the world is that the men who have been defrauded may know by whom and why it was done. Mr. Culver has been acquitted, and I am glad of it. But I know the Venango Bank was organized under the laws of this State; I know it failed, and the people have a right to know why it failed.

Mr. COLVILLE, Mr. Speaker, it appears that the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. LEE] and the gentleman from Chester [Mr. WADDELL] work upon different tactics in this case. The gentleman from Chester desired to suppress this testimony before the trial came off, lest it should be the means of prejudicing the community against Mr. Culver, and render it difficult for him to get a fair and impartial trial. Now, the trial has been had; Mr. Culver has been acquitted. I again call up this resolution, and ask its passage, that we may have the evidence in regard to this bank, when we have the objection that it is entirely unnecessary since the trial is over. I submit that this is the proper time for the publishing of this testimony, and sending it broadcast throughout the world. It can now have no effect in prejudicing the minds of any community.

Mr. LEE, Mr. Speaker, I rise to make an explanation.

I trust the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. DAVIS] will so far detach himself from the resolution under consideration as to not appropriate remarks in an offensive sense to himself. I had no intention that such a construction should be put upon my words. But I say when a gentleman presents a resolution he certainly subjects it to such criticism as members are disposed to give it. This is my right, when I make remarks upon any resolution the gentleman may offer. I hope he will not take them to himself, for they are not personal.

If the depositors in this bank have been defrauded they have a mode of redress preferred by the law. If it is their desire I hope they will resort to it, and not come here and ask this House to—so far as the publishing of purely ex parte testimony is concerned—prejudice their case. Let them go before the courts with untrammeling circumstances.

Mr. DAVIS, Mr. Speaker, I had not the remotest idea of reflecting on any gentleman. I merely wished to explain that the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. LEE] and the gentleman from Crawford [Mr. CHASE] did not understand me. I merely desired to have the subject investigated.

I do not know about this testimony being ex parte, but I do know from the people of Venango that Mr. Culver was proved when the evidence was taken.

Mr. CHASE. - Mr. Speaker, I have no feeling with the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. DAVIS] in this matter. But the very fact that some officer of the Venango County Bank, having obtained this testimony, had it printed and sent over the State, denies the statement of the gentleman that it was not done to injure Mr. Culver. I know what I say, and I can prove it. The object that was to be attained by this testimony has been accomplished. It was published before the trial; the people of Venango know all about it.

There is no necessity that the State should pay for its being republished; it is already in Venango county, and the people want to hear no more of it.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, there must be something very peculiar about this testimony. I have no knowledge of what it is. After the trial is over we find the friends of Mr. Culver afraid to see it published. Personally, I care very little about it. But it seems to me, if I was a friend of Mr. Culver, I would like to see this testimony.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, when this matter was before the House some weeks ago, I asked the House to reconsider the resolution that had passed for the printing of this testimony, and placed my application upon three grounds. The gentleman from Allegheny [Mr. COLVILLE] has designated one of them, viz: That this gentleman was then under indictment in the county of Venango and in the county of Dauphin, and that the publication of this testimony would probably work injustice in the course of his trial. I, however, sir, went further, and placed it upon two other grounds; one was that the testimony, which was here sought to be published, was ex parte, taken when it was not called for, and in the absence of Mr. Culver. The gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. DAVIS] says that Mr. Culver was present. I know nothing about it except from Mr. Culver's own statement. He says that he was called before the committee as a witness. He was examined, and retired; and that was all the notice or invitation he had to be present at the time the testimony was taken. You have his word for it, and nothing more. Whether he tells the truth I do not know, I give you what he says.

The third ground was, that it was such a matter that the State itself should not be put to the expense of publishing. Now what is it? We are asked here to publish this testimony, taken in the Culver case or the Venango bank, if you please; but if the gentleman from Crawford [Mr. CHASE] is right, then there is a double reason why we should not do so. It is published already. Private parties have taken the trouble and gone to the expense of publishing this testimony. Now why should the State be called upon to go to any further expense in the matter? It has been published in pamphlet form and distributed in the county of Venango, and I apprehend that any gentleman in the Commonwealth, who desires a copy, can get it. I heard, more than two weeks ago, that this testimony was published.

I do not know whether it was obtained properly or not, but it was taken and put in the hands of the printer, and has now been published to the world. The friends of Mr. Culver, or the gentlemen who are opposing this resolution, cannot desire to restrain it. They cannot desire to withhold the information, because that information is now furnished to the world. Why should the State of Pennsylvania be called upon to publish one thousand, or two thousand, or probably five thousand copies of this testimony? I would like to hear some reason from the gentlemen who are asking this of the State. I say it is uncalled for, because it is a matter in which the State has no interest, not a particle. The gentlemen in Venango county, who feel themselves aggrieved, have their remedy. The State has not been aggrieved or injured; the State has nothing to do with this bank. It was a National bank, under the control of the United States Government, and if the Government has been aggrieved it is the party to raise a committee to investigate the matter of embezzlement and fraud, if they think it necessary. I say it is unfair to any man in society to publish testimony of this character; and why?—because the committee who took it exceeded the limit of their instructions. I do not know whether Mr. Culver was there or not; but it was ex parte upon their part. They were appointed by the Auditor General of this Commonwealth, to inquire whether that bank was solvent or insolvent. They had but that duty to perform. Two gentlemen of that committee understood their duties, and refused to make a report any further than the act of Assembly and the Auditor General required of them. The third gentleman thought he understood the matter better than the others, and that he had the right to inquire into everything. When the Auditor General refused to accept a report upon a matter foreign to the purpose for which the committee was appointed, the House passed a resolution asking the gentleman to lay his testimony before it. I believe, if this House had understood the matter when it came up before, it would not have passed that resolution. I was under the impression, at the time the resolution was before the House, that this testimony was in the hands of the Auditor General, as a State paper, and that the House was merely calling for information deposited in the archives of the Government; instead of that it was in the pigeon holes of a private individual of this town. The State never had recognized it, and had no control over it. We were calling upon a citizen of Harrisburg to present to this House a public document, as we supposed, and then followed it up by a resolution that five thousand copies be printed and circulated throughout the State. This is the most farcical operation that the House was ever guilty of. In my opinion, therefore, I say if the House had understood the position of this matter when the resolution was introduced, they never would have passed it and called this testimony before them. And I say that after they do understand it, that it is for the House to act as they would have acted at the outset, and refuse to recognize this as a State document and spread it throughout the Commonwealth.

The only object these gentlemen can have in view, is to make this a State document, to have the Legislature of Pennsylvania recognize it as such, and then spread it before the world with their endorsement. If these gentlemen desire this testimony, they can go to the expense of publishing it themselves, or take that which has already been published by private enterprise. I ask of this House to let the resolution slumber where it is; it is in its right position. It is not such a document as the Legislature of Pennsylvania should go to the expense of printing.

Mr. WHANN. Mr. Speaker, I had not intended to say anything on this occasion, nor would I were it not for the remarks indulged in by those opposing this resolution. They started out with the assumption that the publication of this document is intended to injure Mr. Culver, and in pursuance of no other purpose. The intent of this publication has been explained before us as fully, perhaps, as it can be done now. We have said before that this swindle (the term is not too strong) has taken place under our general banking system. If the fault is in this banking system the matter should be investigated; if it lies in the directors of the bank that should be understood. Here is the whole matter. If this is the proper point from which to investigate this subject, we say now is the time to do it. This is all we have asked. The charge of our antagonism to Mr. Culver is incorrect. We have no feeling against Mr. Culver as an individual.

The gentleman who was the fiercest in this respect was the one who proposed to print three thousand copies of this testimony. This was his position until he fell in company with Mr. Culver; since that time he has been opposed to any further steps being taken in the matter.

If this testimony has not an ex parte character, and we believe it has not, it is right that we, who are now especially interested in it, should know its contents. As this was a National bank, of course the great State of Pennsylvania is especially interested. For this reason I hope the resolution will pass.

In regard to the publication of this testimony in pamphlet form, I am not aware that such is the case.

I was in Venango county recently, and no such document was shown to me. I am ready to be corrected if I am wrong.

In justice to myself I thought I should make these remarks.

Mr. CHASE. Mr. Speaker, I have no doubt that my friend from Venango [Mr.

WHANN] is right in saying he was not aware of the publication of this matter, but he did not receive a copy of it. I suppose if the people of Venango had thought it necessary to inform him on the subject they would have sent him a copy. Nevertheless the testimony was printed—that is patent. It was published in the office of the Philadelphia Dispatch and sent to Venango. If any gentleman wishes he can get several copies of it.

I have occupied the attention of the House probably longer than I should upon this matter. But I have no hesitation in repeating what I have already said, that the object of this testimony has been accomplished. I do not think it necessary for the people of the United States, or of this State, or of Venango county with the cost of its republication.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to say a word or two, that the House may understand this matter. But whatever they may do in this question I shall not feel very bad about it.

Those gentlemen on this floor who are such sticklers for the protection of the honor and rights of this State are certainly interested in the publication of this document. While the gentleman from Chester [Mr. WADELL] was speaking he brought it forcibly to my mind. This was a State bank, organized under the laws of the State. This testimony was taken to show why the bank failed. Now, I want the members of this House to listen to one reason, at least, and then vote as they see fit. It is alleged that somebody, contrary to law and right, came here, to the city of Harrisburg, and procured the bonds that secured the notes of depositors in that bank, used them for his own purpose, and allowed the bank to fail and ruin to be perpetrated. Is not the State interested in knowing whether his is true or not?

The general banking law of the State of Pennsylvania requires the bonds to be paid up securities, to be pledged with the Auditor General, to protect the noteholders and depositors in the bank. When this bank failed, and an investigation came to be had, it was found that every security held by the Auditor General had been taken away, and used for other purposes than that intended by the bank, and this is the evidence. I ask if this House is not competent to investigate it? When this Legislature created a free banking law, and put into that law a provision to protect the noteholders and secure the bank, I ask who has the right to investigate infractions of that law if not the power that created it?

The Legislature created that bank; it put in the general banking law the provision that bonds must be placed in the care of the proper officer at the State capital to secure every man who deposited in that bank, or had any of its circulation. Suddenly, one morning, the people were aroused to find that this bank had no foundation; that securities amounting to six hundred thousand dollars had been taken away from Harrisburg, and the bank was left minus every dollar. The noteholders and depositors had lost their money. I ask if you are not stultifying yourselves in regard to this testimony? I have been unwell several days, and do not wish to make a speech.

The gentleman from Allegheny [Mr. CORVILLE] will hear me out when I say I knew nothing of his intention to bring up this subject. I have only to ask this House if, when the provisions of any law passed by the Legislature are violated, they will allow the sequestration to go at large without giving the evidence of his case?

Mr. WADELL. Mr. Speaker, I am glad to hear from the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. DAVIS]. His remarks exemplify, exactly, the character of the testimony which we are asked to publish. He says the testimony shows that every dollar that was deposited with the Auditor General for the protection of noteholders has been taken away. If that is what the testimony shows then the testimony lies, because such is not the case.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, then why does not the gentleman let us have the testimony?

Mr. WADELL. Mr. Speaker, no, sir; if such is the testimony, we do not want it. Upon the authority of the Government officer now on the floor of this House, I say there is in the possession of the department a sufficient amount to protect every dollar of the notes this bank has in circulation. Such assertions as we have heard this morning form a part and parcel of this case.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I again ask why the gentleman objects to the publication of this testimony?

Mr. WADELL. Because, Mr. Speaker, it does not tell the truth.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman does not know what is in the testimony.

Mr. WADELL. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia has just told us what is in it.

Mr. WHANN. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman from Chester [Mr. WADELL] will allow himself to be interrupted, I would like to ask what evidence he has that the testimony is false?

Mr. WADELL. Mr. Speaker, I have the assurance of the government officer himself in whose hands the securities were deposited, that he has in his possession, and under his control, sufficient securities to protect every dollar that this bank has in circulation.

The gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. DAVIS] says every dollar of deposited security has been surreptitiously taken away. I deny that part of the testimony, but not the gentleman's allegations; because I understand that is just what the testimony shows. I have not read it; I have merely his word for it. So far from this being true, however, there are sufficient deposits to protect every holder of a note of this bank.

Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of this House, do not understand me as standing here at Mr. Culver's request, to screen an investigation. There is not a man in this Commonwealth—and that is my own direction—there is not a man in this Commonwealth who will be more ready to have an investigation into the conduct and character of this bank than Mr. Culver himself. He is ready and willing to have this House make an investigation. All he asks, and all I ask for him, is that this ex parte testimony shall not be thrown broadcast upon the land. He says to you: Appoint a committee to investigate this whole matter, give them power to send for persons and papers, and there is no man in the Commonwealth who will do more to facilitate the labors of this committee than Mr. Culver. He does not ask to screen himself; he only asks that you shall not publish testimony taken under circumstances such as those under which it was taken, and in the manner in which it is asked that this testimony shall be published.

This is precisely the position of this matter, and I have nothing more to say, except to ask the gentleman from Venango [Mr. WHANN] if he referred to me when he spoke of the gentleman who was in favor of publishing three times the amount of the testimony?

Mr. WHANN. Mr. Speaker, I had no allusion to the gentleman from Chester [Mr. WADELL]. But, Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Chester has given me several very elaborate speeches in this case, and I think I understand him correctly, as never having seen this testimony. Then the gentleman from Chester has been telling us what Mr. Culver told me; but, of course this is not ex parte.

Mr. WADELL. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman allow me to explain?

Did I not state to the House that all the information I had on the subject was from Mr. Culver himself? I gave it as his word, to be believed or not, that he was invited before the committee simply as a witness, was examined and retired. That was all the opportunity he had of being present. I say again, I give this upon his own assertion, nothing more, nothing less. I presume the testimony would not show it if it was published.

Mr. WHANN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Chester wishes us to take Mr. Culver's word through him; to take Mr. Culver's statement through him; but of course there is nothing ex parte about that. Now, such is the manner in which this has been thrown upon this House. I protest against such proceedings. The gentleman has not seen the testimony; he has no ground for saying it was ex parte. But he meets the party interested, who tells him this testimony is so and so, and it is all ex parte, and then he comes to the House and proclaims it. Perhaps I had better go to the gentleman and get an explanation of ex parte.

I have no personal feeling on this subject; but I have a constituency that have a deep interest in this matter. Hundreds of them are almost beggars; and I would like to know as much as I can on this subject. To say that I have any personal feeling in this regard is false. Mr. Culver and myself are on as intimate terms of friendship as perhaps any two persons in this House.

I have nothing more to say on the subject. Mr. CHASE. Before the vote is taken on this question, I have one thing to say. When this matter was before this House some time ago, Mr. Culver authorized me to say if did come up that he had made a proposition to parties resident in Venango county, that he would pay half of the expenses of publishing fifty or one hundred thousand copies of the testimony in this case, and in the other cases wherein his name was used in connection with the Venango County Bank; and that he would furnish a photographic reporter at every place where the question might arise, provided the other party would pay the other half of the expenses. But they did not seem inclined to agree to such a proposition.

Mr. SHARPLES. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of this subject be indefinitely postponed.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I simply wish to be placed right in every statement I make to this House. I said that the securities deposited in this city by the Venango Bank had been taken away. The Venango Bank was organized under the general free banking law of Pennsylvania. A few months previous to its failure the stockholders decided to make it a national bank under the general national banking law. They went to work, called in their circulation, and after collecting their notes at different times, so as to get their securities, then at Harrisburg, and take them to Washington to form the basis of a national bank, by some legerdemain, the parties who brought the notes have removed those securities and consigned them to Culver, Penn & Co., in New York; and, while the president and directors of the bank in Venango thought the securities were in Washington and they were going to have a national bank, Culver, Penn & Co. used these securities in New York. I do not know what part of that is in the testimony, but I know it to be a fact.

Mr. SHARPLES. Mr. Speaker, I renew my motion to indefinitely postpone,

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, may I inquire what is the motion before the House? The SPEAKER. The motion before the House now is to postpone indefinitely the further consideration of this resolution.

Mr. BOYLE. May I further inquire what has been the motion pending upon which this discussion has been had?

The SPEAKER. The question was upon the motion of the gentleman from Allegheny [Mr. COLVILLE], that the House resume the consideration of the resolution.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I make the point of order that this resolution, when it was reconsidered, was postponed for the present, and that now, under this order, it will require two-thirds to take it up, and until it is taken up there can be no motion to postpone it indefinitely.

The SPEAKER. The order of business before the House is, "items of unfinished business." The Chair is of the opinion that the majority can proceed to its consideration.

The question before the House is on the indefinite postponement of this resolution.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, if I am allowed, I would say, if it was postponed for the present, that it is not an item of unfinished business. It is in a position then that it can be taken up under no order until the orders are exhausted, and then it would require a two-thirds vote.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a privileged question.

I submit that the gentleman's point of order is not well taken, and I submit also, that after an hour's discussion of a bill it is too late to raise a point of order if it has been acted upon.

The SPEAKER. The Chair permitted the discussion to proceed this morning out of order. The question before the House was on the motion of the gentleman from Allegheny [Mr. COLVILLE], that the House resume the consideration of the resolution. The resolution was not properly before the House.

Mr. BOYLE. Then, Mr. Speaker, I make the point of order now, that it will require a two-thirds vote to carry the motion of the gentleman from Allegheny.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is clearly of the opinion that a majority of the House can proceed to the consideration of the resolution.

Mr. WHANN. Mr. Speaker, I hope this motion will be withdrawn. I do not think there is any wish to press this matter.

Mr. CHASE. I hope not. I want to see this thing killed, as it ought to be.

On the question, Will the House postpone indefinitely the motion of the gentleman from Allegheny [Mr. COLVILLE]?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. MEYERS and Mr. KURTZ, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Armstrong, Barton, Boyle, Chadwick, Chase, Day, Deise, Espy, Ewing, Fogel, Freeborn, Gallagher, Gordon, Harbison, Harner, Headman, Hood, Hunt, Kerns, Kimmell, Kinney, Koon, Kurtz, Lee, Leech, McCamant, McKee, Mechiung, Meily, Phelan, Quigley, Roath, Robinson, Rouch, Shingles, Shuman, Steacy, Stehman, Stumbaugh, Waddell, Webb, Weller, Westbrook, Worrall and Glass, Speaker—45.

NAYS—Messrs. Adaire, Allen, Barrington, Boyd, Brennan, Calvin, Chalfant, Colville, Craig, Davis, DeHaven, Donoghue, Ghegan, Heltzell, Humphrey, Jenks, Jones, Josephs, Kennedy, Kline, Linton, McCreary, M'Henry, M'Pherrin, Maish, Markley, Meyers, Mullin, Peters, Pillow, Quay, Rhoads, Satterthwait, Sabers, Tharp, Wallace, Watt, Whann, Wilson, Wingard, Woodward and Wright—42.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

THE SUNDAY CAR QUESTION.

Mr. QUIGLEY. I move that the House proceed to the consideration of House bill

No. 826, entitled An act to ascertain the views of the qualified electors of the city and county of Philadelphia, upon the subject of allowing the passenger railway companies of said city to run their cars on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday.

And the question being on the final passage of the bill.

Mr. QUIGLEY said: Mr. Speaker, I desire to amend the title, by inserting after the word Sunday "and authorizing them to run their cars on all days of the week;" which was Agreed to. The question recurring on the final passage of the bill.

Mr. WHARTON moved that the House go into committee of the whole for the purpose of considering the following special amendment:

"The fifth and sixth lines strike out 'the several wards and divisions of the city of Philadelphia,' and insert 'the several counties of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania;' and in the eighth line to strike out 'the passenger railway companies of the city of Philadelphia,' and insert 'all the railway companies of the State of Pennsylvania.'"

The question was on the motion of Mr. WHARTON to go into committee of the whole.

Mr. QUIGLEY. I rise to a point of order, that the amendment transforms a private bill into a public one; it is, therefore, not in order.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is of opinion that it will be proper for the House to change a private bill, so as to make it a public one.

The Chair is aware of the fact that, last winter, a similar proposition was introduced in the House, and that the Speaker pro tem. [Mr. DAVIS] decided that it was not in order.—The House decided that the point of order taken by the acting Speaker was well taken; but within one or two days thereafter, the Speaker of the House [Mr. KELLY] decided that point of order was not well taken, and that the House was competent to change a private bill into a public one.

The Chair is of the opinion that the House is competent to change this bill so as to make it a public one.

The Clerk read from the Legislative Handbook as follows:

The SPEAKER decided that it was in order to amend a private bill, so as to make it general in its provisions. An appeal was taken. The House sustained the decision.—Journal House of Representatives, 1866, page 707.

On the question, Will the House go into committee of the whole for the purpose of considering the amendment?

Mr. DAVIS took the floor, and said: Mr. Speaker, I simply desire that the House shall understand this question. The members from the city of Philadelphia, with probably but one exception, are unanimously in favor of submitting this question to the vote of the people of Philadelphia. This amendment can have no other purpose than to defeat the bill.

Now, as a member of this House, and as one of the delegation of eighteen on this floor, I hereby ask that this question shall have a fair test. Those persons who are in favor of the people of Philadelphia deciding for themselves whether they shall ride in the cars on Sunday, should vote against going into committee of the whole, because saddling it with any amendment like this is equivalent to its defeat.

If the gentleman will present his proposition in a separate bill, the question will come before the House, and each member will have an opportunity, as he has the right, to decide for himself. I want this question to stand upon its merits, and if the House takes the responsibility of voting it down, upon them alone must the responsibility rest. I do hope the House will adopt no amendment that is offered simply for the purpose of defeating the bill.

Mr. QUIGLEY. I suppose it is patent to every member of the House that this amendment was not offered for the purpose of giving to the citizens of all the counties of the State special privileges. It is well known that in but very few counties in the State have passenger railways been built. What interest could the constituents of the gentleman from Huntingdon [Mr. WHARTON] have, where there are no passenger railways? There is no question in my mind, and I doubt whether there is in the mind of any gentleman on this floor, that this amendment was offered for the purpose of defeating this bill. The gentleman has not, I believe, voted once with the friends of this bill on any question connected with it. He has been with the minority in this House on all occasions, and at all times, retarding the passage of this bill. I trust, therefore, the friends of this measure, understanding the object of the gentleman from Huntingdon, will refuse to go into committee of the whole. If the gentleman wants a passenger railway in his county to run on Sunday, I would give it to him.

I trust, Mr. Speaker, the friends of Sunday travel will vote down the amendment of the gentleman from Huntingdon.

Mr. KERNS. Mr. Speaker, I hope the House will not be delayed this morning in reaching a vote in reference to this matter. The bill provides that the qualified electors of the city of Philadelphia shall meet on the 5th of March next, for the purpose of holding a special election on this matter. The sheriff will be obliged to give, I think, ten days' notice to that effect. I hope this bill will be acted upon now, as this will be the last opportunity that will be offered this week, because the balance of the week's session will be taken up with public bills, and it will require a two-thirds vote to bring the attention of this House again to this matter. This is a matter in which the people are interested at heart; where the poor man cannot understand how his fellow, who rides in his carriage to church on Sunday, can reach Heaven, while he, who is obliged to take the street cars, will go to hell. I ask that this bill be passed, that the people may have a chance to vote upon this question.

Mr. McCRAW. I would ask the gentleman why he voted against such a bill last year?

Mr. KERNS. Mr. Speaker, I was here as a representative from my district; and whatever might have been the opinion I then held, I supposed that the people I represented were opposed to such a measure. After returning home, I made it my business to canvass my district, and I am now perfectly satisfied that I sustain the wishes of my constituents by voting for this bill.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. Speaker, I am in favor of the proposed amendment. I am as tenacious in my desire to gratify my constituents as the gentleman who has just taken his seat. I know that my constituents are opposed to a measure of this kind, and I know that the constituents of a principal portion of the members of this House are also opposed to the passage of a bill of this description. It strikes me that this is a Philadelphia measure pretty much altogether, and I know that the influence of the delegation from Philadelphia is strong in this body. I am aware of this, and I will be very happy to go with that body in any measure I deem proper and right. Now, I do believe, if it is going to improve the morals of the citizens of Philadelphia to ride in the cars on the Sabbath that it will improve the morals of the people in other portions of the State. If there are advantages in this thing, we of the west have a right to them as well as the people of Philadelphia.

Mr. QUIGLEY. I would like to ask the gentleman a question, if he will be kind enough to answer. I understand he is in favor of the amendment of the gentleman from Huntington [Mr. WHARTON], but that he is opposed to the original bill, which submits this question to the people of our country. He is in favor of submitting it to all countries.

Mr. KENNEDY. I am in favor of the amendment, conditionally.

Mr. WADDELL. I only desire to know whether or not the amendment of the gentleman from Huntington [Mr. WHARTON] does not make the bill apply to all railroads in the State? All railroads are now interdicted by the same law that interdicts the running of cars in Philadelphia. I understand that all railroad companies in the State have the power to run their cars at all times, if this amendment is agreed to.

On the question, Will the House agree to go into committee of the whole?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. GREGORY and Mr. QUIGLEY, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Armstrong, Boyle, Chadwick, Chalfant, Craig, Day, Espy, Ewing, Gallagher, Gordon, Harrison, Jenks, Kennedy, Kimmell, Kurtz, Leech, Linton, Long, McCamant, M'Creary, Meily, Pillow, Roach, Seiler, Steacy, Stehman, Tharp, Waddell, Wallace, Weller, Wharton, Wilson, Wingard, Woodward, Wright and Glass, Speaker—34.

NAYS—Messrs. Adaire, Allen, Barrington, Boyd, Breen, Brennan, Calvin, Cameron, Colville, Davis, DeHaven, Deise, Donohugh, Fogel, Freeborn, Ghegan, Gregory, Harner, Headman, Heltzel, Hood, Humphrey, Jones, Josephs, Kerns, Kinney, Kline, Koon, Lee, M'Henry, M'Pherrin, Maish, Markley, Marks, Mechling, Meyers, Mullin, Peters, Phelan, Quay, Quigley, Rhoads, Robinson, Rouch, Satterthwait, Shuman, Subers, Watt, Webb, Westbrook, Whann and Worrall—62.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. KERNS. Mr. Speaker, I now call the previous question on the bill.

The call for the previous question was sustained by Messrs. Webb, Davis, Marks, Donohugh, Ghegan, Humphrey, Josephs, Quigley, Gregory, Colville, Mullin, Hood and Worrall.

On the question, Shall the main question be now put?

Mr. JENKS. Mr. Speaker, may I be permitted to ask a question?

Leave was granted.

Mr. JENKS. I wish to ask the gentlemen from Philadelphia whether they desire to legalize the transaction of that kind of worldly business called the running of cars on the Sabbath day in the city of Philadelphia, without permitting a discussion by the people of the Commonwealth, as to whether it ought or ought not to be done, and I want that question answered.

The question recurring, Shall the main question be now put?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WADDELL and Mr. THARP, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Barrington, Boyd, Breen, Brennan, Calvin, Cameron, Colville, Davis, DeHaven, Donohugh, Ghegan, Gregory, Harner, Heltzel, Hood, Humphrey, Jones, Josephs, Kerns, Kinney, Kline, Koon, Lee, M'Henry, Maish, Markley, Marks, Mechling, Mullin, Peters, Phelan, Quay, Quigley, Rhoads, Robinson, Satterthwait, Subers, Watt, Webb, Whann and Worrall—41.

NAYS—Messrs. Adaire, Armstrong, Boyle, Chadwick, Chalfant, Craig, Day, Deise, Espy, Ewing, Fogel, Freeborn, Gallagher, Gordon, Harrison, Headman, Hunt, Jenks, Kennedy, Kimmell, Kurtz, Leech, Linton, Long, M'Camant, M'Creary, M'Pherrin, Meily, Meyers, Pillow, Roach, Rouch, Seiler, Steacy, Stehman, Tharp, Waddell, Wallace, Weller, Westbrook, Wharton, Wilson, Wingard, Woodward, Wright and Glass, Speaker—46.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. MYERS. Mr. Speaker, I move to go into committee of the whole for the purpose of making the following amendment:

To add to the bill,
Provided, That the several passenger railway companies are prohibited from charging on Sunday more than two-thirds of the rates charged by them on other days of the week.

Mr. COLVILLE. Mr. Speaker, I raise the point of order, that no business has intervened since the last motion to go into committee of the whole was disposed of.

The SPEAKER. This is a different amendment and therefore in order.

Mr. QUIGLEY. Mr. Speaker, I call for the previous question on the amendment.

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, I raise the point of order, that the question has just been voted upon.

The SPEAKER. It has not been voted upon at all.

Mr. EWING. Does it not involve the main question?

The SPEAKER. It involves the main question, but the character of the amendment of the gentleman from Northampton [Mr. MEYERS] is altogether different from that which has been voted upon.

The call for the previous question was sustained by Messrs. Quay, Heltzel, Kerns, Gregory, Maish, Worrall, Colville, Ghegan, DeHaven, Hood and Mullin.

On the question, Shall the main question be now put?

Mr. COLVILLE. Mr. Speaker, I insist on my point of order.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will not recognize the point of order.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, allow me to ask one question. I only desire that the House may understand exactly where we are, and I desire to know myself. In what way must gentlemen vote who are in favor of going into committee?

Mr. MEYERS. Mr. Speaker, as I offered this amendment, and am responsible for the confusion that is growing out of it, I think it is fair and right that this House should fairly understand how they vote, and what they vote upon.

As soon as my amendment was offered the gentleman from Philadelphia [Mr. QUIGLEY] moved the previous question.

The question now is, Shall the main question be put?

We merely vote, shall the main question be put, to cut off any further amendments and all debate. If the House decide that the main question shall be put, then the question is not whether we shall go into committee of the whole, as we had not only voted upon going into committee of the whole, but we had voted upon the amendment directly, because we have to amend before going into committee of the whole.

The question recurring, Shall the main question be now put?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr.

WADDELL and Mr. GREGORY, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Allen, Barrington, Barton, Breen, Calvin, Cameron, Colville, Davis, DeHaven, Donohugh, Ghegan, Gregory, Headman, Heltzel, Hood, Humphrey, Jones, Josephs, Kerns, Kinney, Kline, Koon, Lee, M'Henry, Maish, Markley, Marks, Mechling, Mullin, Peters, Phelan, Quay, Quigley, Rhoads, Robinson, Satterthwait, Subers, Watt, Webb, Wingard, Worrall and Glass, Speaker—42.

NAYS—Messrs. Adaire, Armstrong, Boyle, Brennan, Chadwick, Chalfant, Craig, Day, Deise, Espy, Ewing, Fogel, Freeborn, Gallagher, Gordon, Harrison, Harner, Hunt, Jenks, Kennedy, Kimmell, Kurtz, Leech, Linton, Long, M'Camant, M'Creary, M'Pherrin, Meily, Meyers, Pillow, Roach, Rouch, Seiler, Steacy, Stehman, Tharp, Waddell, Wallace, Weller, Westbrook, Wharton, Wilson, Woodward and Wright—44.

So the question was determined in the negative.

SPEAKER'S TABLE.

The SPEAKER cleared his table of Senate Bill No 181, returned from the Senate, with information that the Senate, had non-concurred in the amendments made by the House of Representatives.

Mr. SEILER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House of Representatives insist on its amendments, and that a committee of conference be appointed.

The motion was agreed to.

The SPEAKER appointed the following gentlemen as members of the committee:

Messrs. SEILER, HOFFMAN and SATTERTHWAIT.

The hour of 1 o'clock having arrived, The SPEAKER then adjourned the House until 3 o'clock this afternoon.

No. 121, a further supplement to an act in creating the fees of the several county officers of this Commonwealth, except in the city of Philadelphia and in the counties of Allegheny, Bradford, Susquehanna and Sullivan, approved the 20th day of March, A. D. 1865.

No. 122, an act to regulate the terms of the several courts in the Sixth Judicial district.

He also informed the Senate that the House of Representatives has concurred in amendments made by the Senate to resolution from House relative to temporary adjournment.

He further informed that the House of Representatives insists in its amendments, non-concurred in by the Senate, numbered and entitled as follows:

No. 131, an act to authorize the town council of the borough of Middletown, in the county of Dauphin, to borrow money to pay off the present indebtedness of said borough, and to build a bridge over the Pennsylvania canal on Wood street, and to provide for the payment thereof, as also for the future government of said borough by an increased rate of taxation.

And has appointed Messrs. SELLER, HOFFMAN and SARTERTHWAIT a committee of conference on the part of the House to confer with a similar committee of the Senate, already appointed, in relation to the differences on said bill.

PETITIONS, REMONSTRANCES, &c.

Mr. LANDON presented a petition of citizens of Bradford county, praying for a change of the rate of interest,

Which was read as follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN—Your petitioners, residents of northern Pennsylvania, would most respectfully and earnestly ask your attention to the subject of an increase of the lawful rate of interest in our State. As the lawful interest of the State of New York is seven (7) per cent., the capital of our border counties has been attracted by the better investment, and it has long been a notorious fact that the business interests and prosperity of this section of the State was suffering thereby. So long as first-class investments are inviting capital at seven per cent. as a lawful rate, and so long as our statute restricts discounts to six, the result is that our business prosperity is sacrificed in this respect.

Your petitioners hold it to be a self-evident fact, that the present low rate of interest is an effectual bar to a large class of legitimate borrowers; and further, that should the lawful rate of interest be changed to seven per cent. (the same as in New York State), it would be to the interest of all banks, bankers and private capital to seek investments in legitimate home channels, thus adding to the prosperity and wealth of our own State, and would prevent the diversion of capital from the State.

Believing that the time has fully arrived when the interests of both borrowers and lenders favor the increase, and that a protection to our home interests which will place us on an equality with our sister States demands it, we would most earnestly ask that your honor be pleased to change or amend the present statute as to make the lawful rate of interest of our Commonwealth seven (7) per cent.

Signed H. S. Scott and others.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

Also, a remonstrance of citizens against Sunday cars and the sale of spirituous liquors.

Referred to the Committee on Vice and Immorality.

Mr. BOYER, a petition of citizens of the borough of Pottstown, and township of Pottsgrove, for a law extending the auction law to said borough and township, and to authorize the Governor to appoint an auctioneer to reside in Pottstown, &c.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

Mr. TAYLOR, a petition asking for the incorporation of a portion of Borough township and Bridgewater township, into the borough of Bridgewater.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary Local.

Also, a petition from citizens of Darlington, Beaver county, against Sunday cars.

Referred to the Committee on Vice and Immorality.

Also, a petition and remonstrance of fifty-one citizens of Economy, in relation to the running of cars on the Sabbath.

Referred to the Committee on Vice and Immorality.

Mr. BURNETT, a petition of school board and citizens of the borough of Lehigh, Carbon county, asking for a law authorizing said school board to borrow money for erecting school buildings.

Referred to the Committee on Education.

Also, a petition of citizens of Coolbaugh township, Monroe county, for an act to prohibit the taking of fish by nets in said township.

Referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Domestic Manufactures.

Mr. FISHER, a remonstrance from citizens of Philadelphia, against the repeal of the act of March 30, 1866, giving gratuities and annuities to soldiers, &c.

Referred to the Committee on Pensions and Gratuities.

Also, a petition of citizens of Pennsylvania, against Sunday cars.

RE-COMMITAL OF A BILL.

Mr. BIGHAM moved that bill entitled An act regulating the rate of interest, be re-committed to the Committee on the Judiciary General.

The motion was

Agreed to.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, returned bill from the Senate numbered and entitled as follows:

No. 561, a supplement to an act to enable the stockholders to rebuild the Lewisburg bridge, and re-establish, in the meantime, a ferry.

With information that the House of Representatives has passed the same without amendment.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading of bill entitled An act to incorporate the Maconing Savings Bank.

The bill was read by its title.

Mr. MCONAUGHY said that the only question in regard to the bill was whether the required notice had been given; if not it would only be returned vetoed.

Mr. SCHALL said that there was a difference of opinion in regard to the notice to be given in the case of savings and deposit banks. Publication was required by banks of issue, but he thought there was no question in regard to this case.

Mr. BIGHAM. The Committee on Banks have changed their policy in regard to this subject. In the early part of last session we agreed that the publication clause did not apply to this class of banks. The attention of the Attorney General was called to it. It is claimed by the counsel that it is not necessary to give notice; it has been practiced both ways. The last and most authoritative decision is that publication is required.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. Speaker, it gives me great pleasure to know that the Committee on Banks have a policy; I am a member of that committee, but I was not aware they had a policy.

Mr. SCHALL said that bills of the same nature had been passed this session by both branches of the Legislature, and he desired the question to be decided before the Attorney General.

The bill

Passed finally.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of bill entitled A supplement to an act to change the mode of criminal proceedings in Erie and Union counties, extending the same to the county of Warren.

The bill

Passed finally.

HOME FOR INVALID SOLDIERS.

On leave given at this time,

Mr. FISHER offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

Resolved, That the Committee on Military Affairs be, and they are hereby, instructed to inquire into the propriety of purchasing a house and grounds for the purpose of providing a home for invalid soldiers, and report by bill or otherwise.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Speaker, I trust the Senator from Lancaster [Mr. FISHER] will not press this resolution to its passage. The late Governor called the attention of the Legislature, in his message, to the fact that many invalid soldiers, lame and wounded, were in the almshouses of different parts of the Commonwealth. I had the honor to offer a resolution for a joint committee, to which this portion of the message was referred; that committee is proceeding in its investigations; the Senator from Lancaster is a member of that committee, and it is designed to make a formal report, and submit something to the Legislature for its action; and in view of that fact I trust the Senator will not press this resolution, because it may raise a conflict between the bodies to which this has been referred.

Mr. FISHER. I do not think it can interfere in the slightest degree. There will probably be some suggestions made that will be of advantage. I trust the resolution will pass. It can do no harm.

Mr. BIGHAM said he thought a better arrangement could be made, as a building had been granted for this purpose in Western Pennsylvania, and a fund of seventy-five thousand dollars appropriated for the deficiency. He thought a much more economical arrangement could be made, but had no objection to its being inquired into.

Mr. FISHER. If Western Pennsylvania will contribute an institution of that kind so much the better. This is simply a matter of inquiry.

Mr. MCONAUGHY. Mr. Speaker, I heartily concur in the resolution offered by the Senator from Lancaster [Mr. FISHER]; and, as the subject is up, I desire to say that there are gentlemen in this Commonwealth who have in contemplation an individual effort, which I think will contribute largely for this purpose, and give an opportunity to the generous people of the State to furnish a home, without calling upon the public treasury for the purpose.

Mr. FISHER. So much the better; let the inquiry be made.

The resolution was adopted.

PUBLIC CALENDAR.

The Senate proceeded to the consideration of bills on the public calendar, the first of which was a bill entitled An act to authorize married women to contract for the renting of houses and the payment of rent, and defining the manner in which the same may be recovered.

Mr. McCONAUGHY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call attention to the fact that that bill was reported with a negative recommendation.

Mr. WALLACE said he hoped the bill would be negatived; it was drafted with that view, in order to dispose of that class of bills at once.

The first and only section was read as follows:

SECTION 1. *Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That it shall be lawful for a married woman, whose husband is, at the time, absent from the county, notwithstanding her coverture, to contract for the renting, payment of rent, and occupancy of any dwelling or store in the said county of her residence, and any proceeding to recover the rent or the possession of said premises may be had and taken, either against the woman alone, or against the husband and wife; and in any such proceeding no plea of coverture or disability for such cause shall be allowed, and judgment may be entered against the wife alone or against the husband and wife, as may be: Provided, however, That no such judgment shall institute any personal liability against the husband unless clearly appears that the process was duly served upon him while in the county and according to law.*

On the question,
Will the Senate agree to the section?
It was not
Agreed to.

So the bill fell.

SELECTION OF JURORS.

The next bill on the public calendar was Senate bill No. 89, entitled An act for the better and more impartial selection of persons to serve as jurors in the several courts of this Commonwealth.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Speaker, I merely wish to remark that I hope the Senate will not proceed to the consideration of that bill now.

I am interested in the question, and did not think that it would come up at all to-day. This is a question that effects this whole Commonwealth vitally. Every district represented on this floor, every Senator, more or less, has a decided policy upon this subject, and I trust we will not proceed to the consideration of it to-day. It is the common understanding of Senators upon this side of the house, at least, that it was not to be considered to-day.

Mr. BIGHAM said that as the other branch were considering a bill of this kind last evening when they adjourned, he did not think it best to waste time in considering a different bill here.

Mr. HAINES. Mr. Speaker, I hope the Senate will not defer the consideration of this bill. We all know what this bill is. It is already in operation in two counties I represent, and the people are perfectly satisfied with it. I feel satisfied that the people at large require such a law, and I hope the Senate will proceed to the consideration of the bill; we may as well discuss it now as at any other time.

Mr. SHOEMAKER. Mr. Speaker, I feel anxious that this subject should be disposed of as early in the session as possible. The bill has been printed for a long time and sent to our constituents, and so far as I have been able to ascertain from the papers and from private sources, it is an acceptable bill, and the people are anxious to have it disposed of. From the fact that it is a general bill, it is the more important that it should be disposed of early. I can see no objection to taking it up now, and affixing any clause in the bill that is not objected to; then we can postpone it, if desirable; but I think we might as well take it up now, and see how far we can progress with it.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Speaker, just one word more. As I remarked before, this bill interests every Senator on this floor. It affects the administration of justice in this Commonwealth to the fountain head. I have never read it; I have never supposed that there was to be an effort made here to pass this bill as it is upon the file; I have not had an opportunity to make the examination of it that its merits certainly require, and I do trust and hope that the Senators on this floor will not attempt to pass this bill at this time; and appeal to the senator from Perry [Mr. HAINES] and the Senator from Luzerne [Mr. SHOEMAKER] to desist from pressing the bill at this time. The bill is up in the House, and is receiving consideration there; our action here, if we take any action, may be in direct conflict with that of the House. Let them get through with it, and adopt a policy upon this subject, if they see fit. The Senator from Allegheny [Mr. BIGHAM] has told you that the House adjourned last evening, with this bill before them. There is no occasion for haste in this matter whatever, and I trust and hope that the Senator who has just spoken, and urged the consideration of the bill, will appreciate the propriety of what I suggest.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, the Senator from Indiana [Mr. WHITE] gives as a reason for not wishing to proceed with the consideration of this bill, that he has not had time to examine it. I believe the provisions of it are similar to the one he has in charge, and I hope the bill will be considered.

Mr. FISHER. Mr. Speaker, I have had perhaps more trouble on this question than any other that has arisen since the commencement of the session. It so happens that I have in charge a bill from one of the counties of this Commonwealth on this very subject, and it is very unpleasant to me, and has been all along, to have that bill called up. I was in hopes that some general bill would be introduced here that would cover that county. This is a very subject that there has been no complaint in the county which I in part represent, on this subject of drawing jurors, yet I dislike to discriminate between counties on this question. I therefore hope that we will pass, as speedily as possible, a bill to meet the complaints that have been made upon this subject in different counties; I am, therefore, in favor of proceeding to the consideration of this bill at once.

Mr. McCONAUGHY. Mr. Speaker, I am very earnestly in favor of granting the relief so urgently required for abuses existing at present in the Commonwealth in relation to the jury system. I desire to grant that relief, if possible, by general legislation; but, sir, I hope that the friends of this relief will not deliberately, and that the consideration of the subject will not be precipitated upon us. Let us confer upon it, and endeavor to act with unanimity. I shall, sir, disregard my own personal preferences, in order to have united and concentrated action upon this matter.

ask those who desire to grant this relief in any practical form, not to press its consideration at this time.

On the motion of Mr. HAINES, to proceed to the consideration of the bill,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WHITE and Mr. TAYLOR, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Brown (Mercer), Burnett, Coleman, Connell, Davis, Bonovan, Fisher, Glaz, Haines, Jackson, James, Lander, McCandless, Randall, Ridgway, Royer, Schall, Seairight, Shoemaker, Wallace, Walls and Hall, Speaker—22.

NAYS—Messrs. Bigham, Billingsfield, Browne (Lawrence), Cowles, Graham, Lowry, McConaughy, Stutzman, Taylor, and White—10.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

During the call,

Mr. BROWNE (Lawrence) said he did not know how he should vote finally on the bill, but thought it would only be wasting time to take it up now; hence, he voted "no."

Also, during the call,

Mr. BROWN (Mercer) said he should vote against the bill when it came up, but was not disposed to delay its consideration, and therefore voted "aye."

Also, during the call,

Mr. FISHER said that he thought his constituents did not desire this bill; but as he did not want to do justice to one part of the Commonwealth, and cut other parts out, he would vote "aye."

Also, during the call,

Mr. LOWRY said: Mr. Speaker, I intend, sir, to vote for this bill, or one similar to it, but I have no disposition to have it urged through against the protestations of the friends of the measure; I shall therefore vote against it, making it up now. I vote "no."

Also, during the call,

Mr. McCANDLESS said that, as the chairman of the General Judiciary Committee had submitted this bill for consideration, he would vote "aye."

In committee of the whole [Mr. GRAHAM in the chair], the first section of the bill was read as follows:

SECTION 1. *Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That at the general election to be held on the second Tuesday of October, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven, and triennially thereafter, at such election, the qualified electors of the several counties of this Commonwealth shall elect, in the manner now provided by law for the election of other county officers, two sober, intelligent and judicious persons, to serve as jury commissioners in each of said counties for the period of three years ensuing their election, but the same person or persons shall not be eligible for re-election more than once in any period of six years: Provided, That each of said qualified electors shall vote for one person only as jury commissioner, and the two persons having the greatest number of votes for jury commissioner shall be duly elected jury commissioners for such county.*

On the question,
Will the Senate agree to this section?

It was agreed to.

The second section was read as follows:
Sec. 2. It shall be the duty of said jury commissioners to meet at the seat of justice of the respective counties, at least thirty days before the first term of the court of common pleas, in every year, and thereupon proceed, with due diligence, to select, alternately, from the whole male taxable citizens of the respective county at large, a sufficient number of sober, intelligent and judicious persons to serve as jurors in the several courts of such county during that year; and as soon as the said selection shall be completed, the said jury commissioners shall, in the mode and manner directed by law, place the names of the persons so selected in the proper jury wheel.

Mr. SHOEMAKER moved to amend the section by striking out the words "alternately" and "sufficient," and inserting the words "at large a number," the words "such as, at the term of the court of common pleas next preceding, shall by the same court be designated," so that it would read, "and thereupon proceed with due diligence, to select from the male taxable citizens of the respective county at large, a number such as, at the term of the court of common pleas next preceding, shall by the said court be designated," etc.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. SHOEMAKER also moved to amend the same section by striking out all after the words "persons to serve as jurors in the several courts of such county during that year, and inserting, in lieu thereof, the following: "if the said commissioners cannot agree upon the names of the persons to be selected by them as jurors, they shall proceed as follows: each of the said commissioners shall make a list containing the names of one-half of the requisite number of persons, and ten per centum in addition thereto, and the proper number shall be obtained by each of said commissioners striking from the list furnished by the other a number equal to the said addition, and the names not stricken out shall be the selection of the names of jurors; and the said jury commissioners shall, in the mode and manner now directed by law, place the names of persons so selected in the proper jury wheel, and the said jury wheel, locked, as now required by law, shall remain in the custody of the said jury commissioners, and the keys thereof in the custody of the sheriff of said county.

Mr. FISHER said he thought he could propose an amendment which would be satisfactory to the Judiciary Committee. He proposed to amend the section so as to have the sheriff meet with the jury commissioners, as a controlling power, in case of disagreement.

Mr. SHOEMAKER. Mr. Chairman, I would say, in regard to that amendment, that the object of this bill is to put both parties upon an entire equality in the jury box; that is the peculiar feature of this bill, and the amendment proposed by the Senator from Lancaster [Mr. FISHER] would destroy the equality utterly. The friends of the bill desire to pass it as a bill which will place suitors upon an absolute equality, and the impression of those who favor this bill is, that it will do away with partisan feeling in the jury box, and I would therefore object, and ask the friends of this bill to object, to anything that will mar that peculiar feature in the bill which puts parties upon an equality in the jury box.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Chairman, I am surprised at the remarks of the Senator from Luzerne [Mr. SHOEMAKER]. So far as I am concerned, in connection with this bill, I feel it my duty to my constituents to oppose its passage, first, last, and all the time, and, in so doing, I am prompted by no factious spirit. It may be the impression that there is a majority of this Chamber in favor of the passage of this bill; I do not think there is. I am certain that it was the understanding of every Senator, made in a solemn and formal manner, that no premature action should be had upon this measure without having had a previous satisfactory understanding, if possible. It is unnecessary for me to now, and here, recite what the arrangement was, or as to how it was to be effected. My friend, the Senator from Luzerne, knows as well as I do, that that was the understanding, and I am induced to call his attention to this understanding from the character of the remarks he has made, calling upon the friends of this bill to stand by it. I am sorry, furthermore, that anything has been said about politics in connection with this subject, upon this floor. So far as regards the administration of justice in my district, politics have nothing whatever to do with it; and it is my pride and my boast that politics do not enter into the administration of justice there; and when this bill comes up for its final passage, I will ask the privilege of having my district exempted from its provision. But, sir, I would like to understand from the Senator from Luzerne what is the character of the amendment he has offered.

I confess I am opposed to it, because it is too complicated in my mind; and, if that amendment is rejected, I am going to follow it with an amendment, and I will indicate to the Senator now what that amendment is: I am going to propose to amend the second section by inserting, after the words "duty of said jury commissioners," the words "and sheriff;" and also striking out the words "at least thirty days before," and inserting in lieu thereof the words, "in open court on the second day of." The Chairman will understand that I am merely opposing the amendment of the Senator from Luzerne, by indicating the character of the amendment which I wish to offer. When his amendment is voted down, if it is designed to let politics interfere with the consideration of the bill, I want it arranged so that it will be equal, and give the dominant party, and the party in the minority, an equality in proportion to their numbers, in the selection of jurors; and the incorporation of the sheriff in this bill, together with the jury commissioners, will give this equality; and the selection of these jurors in open court will give to the thing a sanctity and solemnity that is very much to be desired. I trust, therefore, in consideration of the merits of the amendment which I design to offer, that the amendment of the Senator from Luzerne [Mr. SHOEMAKER] will be voted down.

Mr. SEARIGHT. Mr. Chairman, the Senator from Indiana [Mr. WHITE] has said that he is opposed to having this bill apply to his district, and if it was going to be passed, he would ask that his district be exempted from its operations. I want to ask him if he is in favor of imposing its operations upon my district; I understood that he was in favor of that.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Chairman, I do not know, specially, that I am in favor of the passage of this bill, so as to apply to the district or county in which the Senator from Fayette [Mr. SEARIGHT] resides. I very frankly admit to the Senators from Fayette that I am in favor of a bill which some very fair-minded gentlemen from his county sent to me, and requested me to pass; and there is no gentleman upon this floor who is more sensitive about interfering with the legislation for the districts of other Senator than I am. If any Senator knows to the contrary, I would be very glad for him to speak out. If my friends, the Senator from York [Mr. GLATZ] or the Senator from Lehigh [Mr. SCHALL], think that I ever interfered with their districts, I will only remark that if I did so, it was done at the instance of gentlemen in the majority there. Now, as to the Senator from Fayette, it is true I read in place, and presented a bill here which I would not have presented, had I not been assured by some upright men in that county—men whose names I am perfectly willing to mention here, and let go upon the Record—that the administration of justice there actually required—Allow me to remark that people do not all have the same ideas. When that question comes up I am willing to submit a memorial which I have in my possession, reciting specific acts of injustice which are attributed to the manner of selecting jurors in that county. If the Senator from Fayette desires to hear that memorial read in justification of my action, I will cheerfully submit it.

Mr. SEARIGHT. I do not desire to occupy the time of the Senate by having any memorial read at this time, but I will trust the Senator as the representative of his district, and may I ask that the same courtesy be extended to me. There is a golden rule, accepted everywhere; I merely commend that to the Senator.

Mr. WHITE. Will the Senator allow me to reply to him, so that I may be consistent in this matter in the memorial which I have, and which I do not desire to read just now, unless the Senator requires it, specific acts of injustice and wrong are stated as to the manner of selecting jurors, and I must believe that statement. Now, if the Senator will go into my county and find respectable men who reside there, who can recite such acts of injustice as are recited in this memorial, I will have no objections whatever to his reading a bill in place which will rectify such injustice, and attempting to put it upon its passage. I throw the challenge to him.

Mr. SEARIGHT. I simply insist upon being the representative of the people of my district; that is all. I extend the same courtesy to the Senator from Indiana.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Chairman, this does not relate exactly to this bill, but I trust the Senator from Luzerne [Mr. SHOEMAKER] will appreciate the force of the amendment which I have suggested, and I hope he will not press the passage of this amendment.

Mr. SHOEMAKER. Mr. Chairman, I do not know that any remarks are necessary. But what I said before, I will repeat now, that the amendment suggested by the Senator from Indiana [Mr. WHITE] would simply defeat the object of this bill. The object of it is to put jurors on a perfect equality. If you permit the sheriff to be added to the commissioners you give two-thirds of the jury to the majority. I would appeal to the Senator if he thinks that would be fair. I ask him, supposing he had a suit, if he would be prepared to go before a jury two-thirds of whom he knew to be opposed to him? The idea is to put them on an equality. That is what every man, laying aside political bias, ought to agree to. Now, adding the sheriff destroys this equality and the whole feature of this bill, and if the sheriff is inserted, you might as well remain under the old system. The reason for urging the bill now is because it is the best time that we can have; next week we shall be engaged on the general railroad bill, which will probably take all the week, and I hope we will be pardoned for insisting upon this matter.

Mr. FISHER. Mr. Chairman, I am very decidedly in favor of this bill, but I want it to assume something like a reasonable shape. I do not believe we can accomplish anything by placing this power in the hands of men of opposite politics; you must have a balance of power somewhere—some controlling influence—and, unless you add the sheriff, or the judges, or some officers, so as to give the casting vote where a dispute arises, I do not believe there is any necessity for passing this bill. Without adding the sheriff, you will have a majority of Democrats in Democratic counties, and in Republican counties, a majority of Republicans. I am credibly informed by members of the Schuylkill county bar, that there has not been a Republican on the jury here for some years.

I know that it is the case in York county. I have not been informed that it is so in Fayette. We want to break up this thing, and keep politics out of the jury box. But, at the same time, in a county where one party has the majority, you must have some check upon the dominant party, which can be done by adding the sheriff. I do think we should have a controlling power somewhere, and I know of no person in whose hands that power can better be placed than in the hands of the sheriff.

Mr. LOWRY moved that the committee rise, report progress, and have leave to sit again.

Mr. WALLACE said he hoped the motion would not prevail in the condition that the bill then was.

Mr. LOWRY. It is now one o'clock; the bill cannot pass to-day. Some Senators desire to go away at one o'clock, and I am one of them.

Mr. WALLACE said he hoped the section would be perfected before adjourning.

Mr. WHITE. This amendment is most vital; we want time to consider it.

The motion of Mr. LOWRY was

Not agreed to.

The amendment of Mr. SHOEMAKER was then

Agreed to.
The section, as amended, was
Agreed to.

The third section was read as follows:

Sec. 3. The said jury commissioners and the sheriff of the respective county, or any two of the three, shall draw from the proper jury wheel panels of jurors for the trial of issues in fact, which may be taken in any action in any of the courts of the several counties aforesaid, in the manner now practised and allowed; but before the said jury commissioners and sheriff shall proceed to select or draw jurors in the manner aforesaid, they shall severally take the oath or affirmation now prescribed by law to be taken by the sheriff and county commissioners before selecting and drawing jurors.

On the question, Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. SHOEMAKER moved to amend so that it would read as follows:

"Sec. 3. The said jury commissioners, and the sheriff of the respective county, or any two of three, shall draw from the proper jury wheel panels of jurors, as grand jurors for the proper county, and as petit and traverse jurors for the trial of issues in fact which may be taken in any action in any of the courts of the several counties aforesaid," &c. &c.

The amendment was

Agreed to.
Mr. WHITE. Mr. Chairman, I do not want to be factious, but my constituents are interested in this bill, and I give notice that I shall vote first, last, and all the time, against it. A Senator saw fit to call up this bill, against the protest of Senators interested in it.

Mr. SEARIGHT. Mr. Chairman, I am glad to hear the Senator from Indiana [Mr. WHITE] speak in the earnest terms in which he has just spoken; and I am glad to hear him proclaim here that he intends to stand by the rights and interests of his constituents. That is right; and I ask him to permit other Senators on this floor to do the same thing.

Mr. WHITE. If the remarks of the Senator from Fayette have a personal reflection on me, for offering a bill to affect his district, I will send this memorial up to the Clerk's desk to be read.

Mr. M'CONAUGHY. Mr. Chairman, I desire to say that, in any amendments which I offer, I have in view the perfecting of this bill; I desire to have it in the most perfect form; but I reserve my discrimination to vote ultimately as I think best. I move to amend the third section, by inserting after the words "in any of the courts," the words "civil and criminal."

The amendment was

Agreed to.
The section, as amended was then
Agreed to.

The fourth section was read as follows:

Sec. 4. That so much of any act or acts of Assembly of this Commonwealth as makes it the duty of the sheriff and county commissioners of any of said counties to select and draw jurors, shall be repealed, and cease to have any force or effect, from and after the second Tuesday of October next, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven: Provided, That all acts and parts of acts of Assembly now in force in relation to the custody, sealing and unsealing, locking and opening of the jury wheel of the respective county, and all acts and parts of acts of Assembly now in force, imposing any penalty or punishment on the sheriff and county commissioners, or either of them, for anything done or omitted by them, or either of them, in relation to the keeping, locking, opening, sealing, or breaking the seal of any jury wheel, or in relation to the selecting or drawing of jurors, shall be taken, deemed and held to apply to the said jury commissioners and sheriff.

On the question,
Will the Senate agree to the section?
Mr. SHOEMAKER moved to amend by striking out the words, "second Tuesday of October," and inserting in lieu thereof the words, "first day of December."

The amendment was
Agreed to.
The section as amended was then
Agreed to.

The fifth section was read as follows:
Sec. 5. Each of the said jury commissioners shall be allowed and paid out of the respective county treasury the same compensation per day as is paid by the respective counties to the county commissioners.

On the question,
Will the Senate agree to the section?
Mr. SHOEMAKER moved to amend so that it would read as follows:

Sec. 5. Each of said jury commissioners shall be allowed and paid out of the respective county treasury two dollars and fifty cents per day, and four cents per mile circular from the residence of the commissioners to the court house.

Mr. M'CONAUGHY. Mr. Chairman, I hope that amendment will not prevail, and I will state to the Senate why it should not. The compensation of commissioners varies very materially. Some of the counties pay salaries and some pay a per diem, and I think it is improper to attach mileage where compensation is different.

The amendment of Mr. SHOEMAKER was
Agreed to.

The section as amended was then
Agreed to.

The sixth section was read as follows:
Sec. 6. It shall be the duty of each of said jury commissioners to take upon himself and discharge the duties of his said office, under a penalty of one hundred dollars for each and every neglect or refusal to attend the same, to be used for and recovered before any justice of the peace of the proper county, as debts of like amount are now by law recoverable, ten dollars of which shall go to the person suing, and the residue to be paid by the said justice to the treasurer of the respective county for the use of the same.

On the question,
Will the Senate agree to the section?
It was agreed to.

The seventh section was read as follows:
Sec. 7. In case of the inability of either or both of the said jury commissioners by sickness, death, or other unavoidable causes, to discharge the duties of said office, it shall be the duty of the president judge in such county wherein said vacancy may have occurred, to appoint a suitable person or persons, as the case may be, possessing the qualifications aforesaid, to perform the duties of said office during such vacancy; and such person or persons, after having complied with the requirements of the third section of this act, shall proceed to discharge the duties of said office the same as if elected by the people.

On the question,
Will the Senate agree to the section?
Mr. SHOEMAKER moved to amend by inserting after the words "causes to discharge the duties of said office," the following words: "or, in case of neglect or refusal to serve thereon."

The amendment was
Agreed to.
Mr. WALLACE moved to amend the section by adding at the end thereof the following words: "until the next general election; when the people shall elect a commissioner in lieu thereof."

The amendment was

Agreed to.

The section as amended was

Agreed to.

Mr. WHITE moved to amend the bill so that its provisions should not apply to the counties of Indiana, Cambria and Jefferson. The motion so to amend was not

Agreed to.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Chairman, I merely ask for my district what other Senators ask for. The Senators from Philadelphia ask that the provisions of the bill be excepted for their county, because there is no complaint in regard to jurors there. I ask the same privilege for my county.

The committee then rose and reported the bill with amendments.

BILL PASSED.

On motion of Mr. BURNETT, the Committee on Banks was discharged from the further consideration of bill entitled An act to reduce the capital stock of the Stroudsburg Bank.

And the rules having been dispensed with, the bill was read was read a second and third time, and

Passed finally.

The hour of one o'clock having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the Senate until Tuesday next at 11 o'clock, A. M.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, February 20, 1867.

INTERNON SESSION.

The House met at 8 o'clock.

PUBLIC CALENDAR.

The SPEAKER. The special order for this afternoon is the consideration of the bills on the public calendar.

The first bill in order is House bill No. 246.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, I ask the consent of the House to finish the consideration of Senate bill No. 26, at this time.

I received a letter this morning from the department urging me to call the attention of the House to this matter. There are no funds to pay these officers. They are behind in their payments two or three months, and feel exceedingly anxious that the House should make some disposition of this bill.

Agreed to.

The bill was read as follows:

AN ACT to authorize the payment of State agents at Washington.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same. That the State Treasurer is hereby authorized to pay, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, a sum not exceeding six thousand dollars, for the necessary expenses of the Pennsylvania agents at Washington, from the first day of December, 1866, to the 1st day of June, 1867, as authorized by the act of fourth May, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, and that said agency be abolished from and after the 1st day of February, 1868.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following amendment.

Provided, That if, in the opinion of the Governor of the Commonwealth, the necessity for said office has ceased to exist.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. Speaker, I hope the amendment of the gentleman from Allegheny [Mr. WILSON] will prevail. I have had a conversation with the Governor on this subject, and he feels that it will be better not to indicate that the office shall be closed at a particular time, from the fact that according to a late act of Congress a great deal of new business will necessarily pass through that office. It is contemplated to advertise very extensively that claims will be collected by this agency free of charge. I think it is no more than is due to the soldier. The principal cause of the opposition to the bill as it is now is this: the comparatively small number of claims passed through that agency and paid to soldiers. That objection, I think, will be remedied. The Governor gave me the privilege of stating that he would pledge himself to have that especially in view; if he found it necessary or expedient to close up the office at the time mentioned in the bill he would so recommend.

I hope the House will agree to this amendment.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I have no objection to the passage of this bill providing for the payment of persons employed in that agency. I do, however, think the agency ought to be abolished. The truth is, the agency, as I understand it, has no legal existence. I know of no act of Assembly authorizing its establishment. The agency was created during the war; and the Governor is to be commended, although it was without legal authority; there was a necessity for it at that time, I have no doubt that during the war it performed many very valuable services of the soldiers at Washington; but I submit that since the war has come to a close, there no longer exists any necessity whatever for this agency. The object for which the agency was established no longer exists. There are now no Pennsylvania soldiers to be taken care of; the only duty that the agent and his assistant now perform is the collection of claims. I think, for a year past, the State agent at Washington has done nothing whatever except to collect claims.

I have the report of the State agent before me, and I find that in this particular the agency has done comparatively little. We know that in this State, at this time, there are a great many soldiers prosecuting claims against the General Government, yet this agency, which is maintained at a very large expense to the State, has collected only one thousand five hundred claims during the past year. Compared with the whole number this one thousand five hundred is almost nothing.

A large majority of the soldiers of the State, who are prosecuting claims against the General Government, are compelled to resort to claim agents; and these fifteen hundred are all who have availed themselves or who have been able to avail themselves of the offices of this agency. Now, I understand that the agency costs about twelve thousand dollars per year, so it costs about ten dollars apiece for each of these claims; it costs the State more to collect these claims than it would cost if they were put in the hands of private claim agents.

The officers of this agency, I believe, are an agent coming from the county of Allegheny, at this time, and an assistant agent, I think William A. Cook, who was formerly a resident of Allegheny, but for some years past a citizen of Iowa.

I learn from the gentleman who formerly filled the position of agent that the office of assistant agent cost about three thousand five hundred dollars a year, and that the duties could be performed by a clerk. Now, if this bill is to pass, I trust the office of assistant agent will be abolished altogether, and that in his stead, there will, if necessary, be substituted a clerk who certainly can perform all the duties. The bill as amended by the Committee of Ways and Means provides for the abolishing of the agency on the first of February of next year, and leaves it discretionary with the Governor whether it shall be abolished at that time or not.

Now, having the utmost confidence in the Governor, I should like to recommend what seems to be "places." You know that here are two good "blights;" we all know that there is a very great anxiety to get good "places;" and when the time comes for the abolishing of this agency there will be a State agent from the county of Allegheny, and an assistant agent from the State of Iowa, who will not at all like to be turned out in the cold. The probability will be that the Governor, who, like Ichabod Crane, may have a soft and foolish heart will hesitate long before he strips himself of the patronage of two agents and several clerks. I submit to the House that the object for which the agency was established has ceased to exist; that it is no longer a legitimate institution; and has effected no good to the body of soldiers of this State. I believe I state nothing more than the truth when I say the soldiers in my county know nothing of this agency. We have several very efficient claim agents, and they look after the interests of the soldier, I believe, as properly and at a less rate than it costs the State to keep up this branch.

I trust the amendment of the gentleman from Allegheny [Mr. WILSON] will be voted down.

I wish to offer an amendment that this agency shall cease to exist after the first of June next, if the amendment now before the House is not agreed to.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. Speaker, I am very sorry to hear the reflections of the gentleman upon the Governor. His character for firmness and—

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to explain: I expressly disclaim all reflections upon the Governor, and any intention to reflect upon him. I stated so at the time; and I want it clearly understood that I intended nothing of the kind.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. Speaker, I understood the gentleman to say that a soft and simple heart might prevent the Governor from doing what he thought was right in the premises.

The objection made to this bill by the gentleman from Fayette [Mr. BOYLE] will lose much of its force when we remember that he is an attorney himself. It is not to be wondered that few in his locality know of this agency. Perhaps some of these claims have passed through his hands or the hands of other attorneys in his district. The soldiers of Pennsylvania have been terribly wronged by these agents. As I said before, the proposition is to advertise extensively to the soldiers that their claims will pass through this agency promptly and without any expense to them; knowing this fact, I believe they have sense enough to avail themselves of it. The expense to the State, I admit, for the last year has been considerable; somewhere about four per cent. of the amount collected; but it requires no more expense to sustain the department if a million dollars pass through the agency than if it collect but seventy thousand dollars or eighty thousand dollars. It seems to me that this State, having furnished three hundred thousand troops to the army, can afford this small outlay.

I am willing that the bill should be amended so as to put the office within the hands of different parties if it can be managed with a less amount of money and the same efficiency. I doubt whether that can be done, from the fact that the pay generally commands a proportionate amount of talent. The agency, as now existing, has one person with the rank and pay of colonel, and one with the rank and pay of lieutenant colonel, who is of the force. The probabilities are, if the office of assistant is abolished and a clerk put in his place, we will not get a good and efficient man as we have at present, and partially, if not wholly, from the fact that the remuneration is not as great.

Mr. BARTON. Mr. Speaker, I trust the amendment of the gentleman from Allegheny [Mr. WILSON] will prevail. I can see no reason for the anxiety of the opponents of this agency, to close it up in so short a time. It is claimed by them to be simply a claim agency established and carried on for the purpose of collecting moneys or claims for the soldiers; and that, they think, can be done by means of local claim agents. The expense of maintaining this agency, as appears by the records, is about twelve thousand dollars. I think the amount of money collected for the soldiers of Pennsylvania during the last year was some three hundred thousand dollars. I commend it to the favorable consideration of this Legislature.

I think that agency at Washington, in common with similar agencies of other States, was one of the best institutions which Pennsylvania established for the careful supervision and protection of our soldiers in the arms of the Union. If the only object of this agency is to collect bounties due to our soldiers of Pennsylvania, I hope it will still be continued. If it cost twelve thousand dollars for the State of Pennsylvania to collect three hundred thousand dollars, I ask what it would cost the soldiers themselves to collect it? If they had to go to these local claim agents, these leeches, as it were, upon the body politic, it would cost them almost fifty per cent. of the three hundred thousand dollars.

I think we owe our protection to the soldiers who fought for us in the late contest, and should evidence it by sustaining this agency. But I apprehend there are other duties devolving upon this agency than the mere collection of bounties; for that is provided for by an act of Congress. This agency, certainly, has been largely engaged in alleviating the distresses and miseries of Pennsylvania soldiers in the hospitals throughout the Union; and if there are any still in the hospitals in different parts of the country they have to perform the duty of attending to them.

I hope the amendment of the gentleman from Allegheny [Mr. WILSON] will be adopted, and that this agency will not be closed on the 1st of February next, unless it is deemed desirable by the Governor.

Mr. M'CREARY. Mr. Speaker, I do not see where the gentleman from Fayette [Mr. BOYLE] obtains, as the number of applications paid within the last year, the number of fifteen hundred.

It is well known that many claims are presented that, after careful investigation, are laid aside, and not paid at all. Yet those persons making applications are entitled to have some action upon them.

I see by report of Colonel Jordan, that two thousand and thirty claims had been prepared and filed during the last year, and the sum of three hundred and eleven thousand seven hundred and three dollars and eleven cents had been collected. In addition to that, last summer acts of Congress were passed increasing the pensions and bounties, applications for which are just being sent in.

The act of Congress, approved the 6th of June, 1866, increasing the bounties of soldiers who had lost both eyes, &c., &c.

Another act approved July 25, 1865, granting pensions to widows with children under sixteen years of age.

Now, it was some time before the rules and regulations were prescribed, by which these bounties could be received. The class of persons named in these acts, are just the persons the agency is intended to benefit. Not so much the soldier who came out safe and sound, able to make his own application, or to send a proxy for making the application in his stead; but the man who lost his leg, or both the legs, or an eye or both eyes; or a widow with children under sixteen years of age. How are they to have their claims attended to, unless they employ a person in their behalf? I will state another fact with regard to this agency: within ten days after the present incumbent entered on the duties of his office between seven thousand and eight thousand letters were received at the agency respecting the claims then on file or pending claims on file. Now, this shows that there is an immense amount of work to be done. If, in the course of ten days, they received seven thousand or eight thousand letters, it would amount to nearly forty thousand at the end of the year. On the 28th of July last an act of Congress was passed giving pensions to soldiers of 1861 and 1862, who had received but one hundred dollars bounty when they went out. It is well known that it was at least four or five months after the passage of this act before they could receive any benefit from it. But all the difficulties were not yet met, and by a joint resolution, which had the honor of introducing, Congress was requested to pass an act to aid soldiers in the collection of their bounties, after the loss of their discharge papers.

With regard to the expense attending the collection of claims I am satisfied that three hundred thousand dollars cannot be collected by local agents for less than fifty thousand dollars, and that would come out of the pockets of the one-armed and one-legged men of the State. It seems to me Pennsylvania should not hesitate or halt a moment when she is to protect this portion of her citizens at the small expense of ten or twelve thousand dollars.

The act of 1864 provided for the enlargement of the agency which had been established by Governor Curtin, and specified its duties. This is the first time I have heard that the agency has failed. It is objected that they have a clerk, a resident of Iowa; but that does not necessarily militate against the soldiers. However, I understand he is a resident of Westmoreland county, though he may, at some time, have gone to Iowa. It was much better for him to go to Iowa than to Fayette county.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman allow me to interrupt him?

In that act specifying the duties of this officer, I would ask the gentleman whether this agent is required to advertise generally his address and notify people everywhere of the fact that he will attend to their claims without compensation?

Mr. M'CREARY. I do not know that he is, at all; it is required that the rules and regulations of the agency as published in all the papers of the State that are friendly.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I ask the question for the reason that the member from Erie [Mr. WOODWARD] said it was the intention and design to have this matter generally advertised. I would like to know whether the advertising is discretionary with the agent at Washington. If it was left to his discretion of course it would be to his advantage not to advertise at all, because his compensation is fixed—the same whether he attends to ten or a hundred thousand claims.

Mr. M'CREARY. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman's inquiry as to whether this matter is advertised, I will refer him to the Philadelphia Press of to-day, which publishes the advertisement of the agency in a very conspicuous place.

I will read it:

"Pennsylvania State Agency, Washington, D. C. By order of His Excellency, JOHN W.

Geary, Governor of Pennsylvania, notice is given that the Pennsylvania State Agency at Washington, D. C., will attend with promptness, and without charge, to the adjustment of the claims of soldiers of the States, Territories, etc., from the United States, as well as to those of widows, orphans, and other relatives. That claims can be sent directly to the parties interested in them, or, if they prefer it, through local agents or attorneys.

The Agency was originated for the benefit of the living soldiers and the widows and orphans of those who died in defense of the country; and it is the special desire of the Governor that it be continued for the meritorious purpose for which it was established, and that no effort be omitted to increase its efficiency. Blanks and instructions can be furnished.

Communications may be addressed, "Pennsylvania State Agency, Washington, D. C., Lock Box 71."

JOHN H. STEWART,
Colonel and Military Agent.

WILLIAM A. COOK,
Lieut. Col., and Asst. Military Agent."

Mr. LINTON. Mr. Speaker, I think, in its practical workings, the agency has failed to provide the means by which these claims can be procured and credited to the Government, without any expense to the soldiers or their widows. I shall vote for the original bill, to dispend with the agency after next February. I know that soldiers are not required to pay anything to this agency, directly, for collecting those claims, but oftentimes, in fact, they are compelled to pay to have these services performed. A soldier, seeing one of these advertisements, forwards to Washington letters, stating his case; he receives in return a certain amount of blanks. Now, probably, of all the soldiers who have served in this war, but a very small portion of them are able to fill these blanks. Hence they are constrained, from the necessity of the case, to apply to those who make the collecting of claims a business in order to have the blanks filled; and for this they are charged probably as much as though the claim itself had been prosecuted. These blanks are sent through the country, but soldiers must pay for their proper filling up. Therefore, the agency having failed to accomplish the purpose for which it was established, I am opposed to its being longer continued at the expense of the State. If the agency did accomplish the purpose for which it was created, if it enabled soldiers to collect their claims free of expense, I would say: Let the agency continue. But I believe in only a few cases is such the practical working of this institution. All the money expended in its maintenance is uselessly taken from the pockets of the taxpayers of this Commonwealth.

I will, therefore, vote for the bill to dispend on the 1st of February next.

Mr. M'CREARY. Mr. Speaker, I wish to call the attention of the House to one important fact which I had forgotten. A short time ago Congress passed a law providing for the equalization of bounties, which will involve an expenditure of many millions of dollars.

In my opinion, if there ever was a time when the services of this agency were needed at Washington, that time is now.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Erie [Mr. WOODWARD] intimated that I was a claim agent. I expressly deny that I am an agent of any kind.

I have never prosecuted claims against the General Government; so I have no aims of my own to subvert by abolishing this agency. I am informed much has been said about the passage of this recent act of Congress, and which is supposed to necessitate the continuance of this agency. I am informed by a gentleman who knows that this act of Con-gross contains a provision that no charge of more than five dollars shall be made for prosecuting claims under it; and that it contains a further provision that the claim shall be sent directly to the soldier himself, and not given to any agent. If that be the case I maintain that Congress considered it would be better to abolish this agency, and to let the claims be prosecuted by claim agents or attorneys. It has been stated that the report of the military agent shows that the amount collected last year was over hundred thousand dollars, and the expense of collecting it twelve thousand dollars, or about four per cent. of the sum collected. I maintain, in defense of the much abused agents, that it does not cost that much to collect claims against the Government. I do not believe it costs four per cent. of a claim to collect it. The claim agents in my part of the State are principally Republicans, and I have no idea that Republicans would deal otherwise than fairly with the soldiers.

I will ask the gentleman to read the bill as it stands on the proposed amendment.

The bill was read as follows:

AN ACT to authorize the payment of State agents at Washington.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, that the State Treasurer is hereby authorized to pay, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, a sum not exceeding six thousand dollars, for the necessary expenses of the Pennsylvania agents at Washington, from the first day of December, 1866, to the 1st day of June, 1867, as authorized by the act of fourth May, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, and that said agency be abolished from and after the 1st day of February, 1868:

Provided, That if, in the opinion of the Governor of the Commonwealth, the necessity for such office has ceased to exist.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I propose to move to strike out the words proposed to be inserted, together with the words "first day of February, 1868," and insert in lieu thereof the words "the said first day of June."

I think that will be ample time. It is the period for which a provision for payment is made in this bill. This will afford ample time to wind up the affairs of the agency.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, I have avoided saying anything on this question, simply because there was a diversity of opinion in the committee who had this matter charge, and I did not wish to interfere with the bill in the House. I cannot approve of the amendment offered by the gentleman from Fayette [Mr. BOYLE]. With regard to the amendment offered by the gentleman from Allegheny [Mr. WILSON], I feel somewhat indifferent as to whether it is accepted or not, simply because the bill as it stands reported from the committee, in my opinion, places it in the power of the next Legislature to say whether the office shall be abolished or not.

The amendment of the gentleman from Allegheny simply places the discretionary power in the hands of another tribunal. But the amendment of the gentleman from Fayette [Mr. BOYLE] will close this agency on the first of June, notwithstanding it may not be in a condition to be closed. Its business must cease at that time and there is no power that can interfere, one way or the other. Now, the amendment of the committee was simply to avoid this difficulty. When the first of February, 1868, arrived, if the department could satisfy the Legislature, in session, that it was important to continue the agency, the period of its existence could be prolonged. But if the amendment of the gentleman from Fayette should prevail, then, no matter what necessity might exist on the first of June, no matter how important it might appear to the Executive of this State that the agency should continue, he would be compelled to stop it; whatever work the agency may have on hand must rest where it may happen to be on the first day of June.—Now, I think the majority of the committee were opposed to this. They were satisfied that the agency should cease at a particular time, and they proposed the first of February, because the Legislature, being then in session, could continue the agency if the necessity for such continuance should exist. If the necessity did not exist, the agency could then be closed without injury to anybody. I am, therefore, opposed to the amendment of the gentleman from Fayette.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Chester one question: If it is decided to close the agency on the first of February, I would like to inquire whether its operations will not be interfered with, for the reason that if this fact is known generally, claims will cease to be presented? What will be the effect of the amendment of the gentleman from Allegheny [Mr. WILSON]?

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, I do not think the amendment of the gentleman from Allegheny remedies that. The people will not know what the sentiments of the Governor are; he will hardly know, himself, probably, until it comes near the time specified, the first of February. He has the power then to determine. He cannot advertise that he will close the agency at that time. I do not think the difficulty well founded.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, as I understand, the bill itself simply states that the Legislature may continue this office at Washington, but there is no express provision. The amendment I offered contains an express provision. In my judgment it is simply a question as to whether we shall trust the Governor with this power or not. It certainly can do no harm to pass this amendment. If the necessity for this amendment does not exist, of course the Governor will not continue it.

The question being on the adoption of the amendment of the gentleman from Fayette [Mr. BOYLE], to the amendment of the gentleman from Allegheny [Mr. WILSON],

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BOYLE and Mr. RHOADS, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Boyd, Boye, Breen, Brennan, Calvin, Chalfant, Craig, Davis, Deise, Fogel, Freeborn, Gregory, Harner, Headman, Heltzel, Hood, Hunt, Jenks, Jones, Kerns, Kline, Koon, Kurtz, Linton, Long, M'Henry, M'Pherrin, Markley, Mellie, Phelan, Pillow, Quay, Quigley, Rhoads, Robinson, Rouch, Satterthwait, Tharp, Webb, Westbrook and Wingard—42.

NAYS—Messrs. Adaire, Allen, Barton, Cameron, Chadwick, Chase, Colville, Day, Donohugh, Espy, Ewing, Gallagher, Gordon, Harbison, Humphrey, Kennedy, Kimmell, Kinney, Lee, Leech, M'Camant, M'Creary, M'Kea, Marks, Mechling, Meyers, Peters, Roath, Waddell, Watt, Weller, Whann, Wharton, Wilson, Woodward, Worsell, Wright and Glass, Speaker—28.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The question recurring on the amendment as amended,

The yeas and nays were required. Mr. DAVIS and Mr. M'KEE, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Adaire, Boyd, Boye, Breen, Brennan, Calvin, Cameron, Chalfant, Craig, Davis, Deise, Fogel, Freeborn, Gregory, Harner, Headman, Heltzel, Hood, Hunt, Jenks, Jones, Josephs, Kerns, Kinney, Kline, Koon, Kurtz, Linton, Long, M'Henry, M'Pherrin, Marks, Markley, Meyers, Mullin, Phelan, Pillow, Quay, Quigley, Rhoads, Robinson, Rouch, Satterthwait, Subers, Tharp, Webb and Westbrook—47.

NAYS—Messrs. Allen, Barton, Chadwick, Chase, Colville, Day, Donohugh, Espy, Ewing, Gallagher, Gordon, Harbison, Humphrey, Kennedy, Kimmell, Lee, Leech, M'Camant, M'Creary, M'Kea, Marks, Mechling, Mellie, Peters, Roath, Seiler, Waddell, Watt, Weller, Whann, Wharton, Wilson, Wingard, Woodward, Worsell, Wright and Glass, Speaker—37.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The question now being on agreeing to the bill as amended,

Mr. BOYLE offered the following amendment, to be put at the end of the bill:

Provided, That the office of assistant agent is hereby abolished, and the State agent is authorized, if necessary, to employ an additional clerk in the place of said assistant.

Which was read.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I only wish to say that I have the very highest authority, good Republican authority, for saying that the office of assistant agent is not at all necessary, and that his duties could very well be performed by a clerk. The assistant agent has the rank, I believe, of Lieutenant Colonel, and his pay amounts to about thirty-five hundred dollars. I suppose an efficient clerk could be employed for about fifteen hundred dollars. It would be a saving to the State of at least two thousand dollars. I think it is our duty to economize; I, therefore, offer this amendment.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Erie [Mr. WOODWARD] said it was proposed to advertise the privilege of this agency generally throughout the State. It seems that the original act does not provide for this advertising, and the agent is allowed to use his own discretion in the matter. I think that ought not to be. I think it well that the soldiers throughout this Commonwealth, if this agency affords them any advantages, should be advised of it. I know that soldiers generally in my own county procure their claims through local agents. I think, therefore, it is not only well that the privileges of this agency should be advertised, but that such advertising should be required, so that not a few, but every soldier in the Commonwealth may avail himself of the aid of this department.

I therefore offer as an amendment a second section.

Which was read as follows:

SEC. 2. That the privileges accruing to the soldiers of Pennsylvania, by virtue of the continuance of this agency, shall be made known to them by advertisement for three successive weeks in the paper having the largest circulation, respectively, in each and every county of this Commonwealth; the expense of advertising to be paid out of the money appropriated in the first section of this act; and it shall be the duty of the Adjutant General of Pennsylvania to execute the provisions of this section.

Mr. WADDELL. Mr. Speaker, I do not apprehend that it is worth while for the State to go to the expense of this advertising, since this agency is to cease on the first of June next, and since it will require that time to get the advertisement in the papers of the several counties of this Commonwealth. I apprehend that the less knowledge we have of this agency the better, because it will only accumulate business there that cannot be attended to by the first of June. I think if there is any publication authorized it should be that the agency will cease. It will take until the first of June to close up the business now in the hands of the agents. We should not delude soldiers into the belief that the agency can attend to the prosecution of their claims, no matter at what time those claims may have been forwarded. The money appropriated by this bill is for the purpose of paying which is due to the agents of this department. It appears to me that the only amendment which should be made is to make the payments correspond with the time when this agency is to cease. The appropriation in the first section was made when it was supposed the agency would continue until the first day of February, 1868.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I think the bill as it is now provides that this payment shall be made up to the first of June, and on that day the agency shall cease.

Mr. WADELLE. Mr. Speaker, we had better not appropriate an amount of money which the section appropriates.

Mr. BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I will state that it is presumed that six thousand dollars will be required for the expense to the first of June, and the act appropriates not exceeding six thousand dollars.

Mr. WADELLE. Probably that view is correct. There then is no money that can be used for this advertising.

The question being on the amendment of the gentleman from Berks [Mr. JONES], it was put and—

Not agreed to.

The question recurring on the bill as amended.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. M'CREARY and Mr. MECHLING, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Allen, Barrington, Boyd, Boyle, Breen, Brennan, Calvin, Chalfant, Craig, Day, Deise, Ewing, Fogel, Gregory, Harrison, Harner, Headman, Heitzel, Hood, Hunt, Jones, Jones, Josephs, Kline, Koon, Kurtz, Linton, Long, M'Henry, M'Pherrin, Maish, Markley, Meyers, Mallin, Phelan, Peltz, Quay, Quigley, Rhoads, Robison, Satterthwait, Tharp, Westbrook, Wingard and Wright—45.

NAYS—Messrs. Adaire, Barton, Cameron, Chadwick, Chase, Colville, Davis, Donohugh, Espy, Freeborn, Gallagher, Gordon, Humphrey, Kennedy, Kerns, Kimmell, Kinney, Lee, Leech, M'Camant, M'Creary, M'Kee, Marks, Meubing, Meily, Peters, Roath, Seiber, Steacy, Subers, Waddell, Watt, Webb, Weller, Whann, Wharton, Wilson, Woodward, Worrall and Glass, Speaker—40.

To the question was determined in the affirmative.

On motion of Mr. BOYLE, the title was amended so to read, "and to close the State agency and abolish the office of assistant agent."

The question now being on transcribing the bill and reading it a third time by its title, it was put, and—

Not agreed to.

TELEGRAM.

The SPEAKER announced the following telegram, which was read by the Clerk:

WASHINGTON, February 20, 1867.

Hon. John W. Geary,

The House has just declared in favor Senate reconstruction bill, after amending it to the satisfaction of the radicals. It is now before the Senate. Reverdy Johnson has just declared in its favor, and the rumor is that the President will sign it. It will sweep the country like a whirlwind.

(Signed) J. W. FORNEY.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE.

The House went into committee of the whole on House bill No. 246, Mr. GREGORY in the chair.

The bill was read as follows:

AN Act for the better and impartial selection of persons to serve as jurors in each of the counties of this Commonwealth.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That at the general election to be held on the second Tuesday of October, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven, and every second year thereafter, at each election, the qualified electors of each of the counties of this Commonwealth, shall elect, in the manner now provided by law for the election of other county officers, two sober, intelligent citizens of said counties to serve as jury commissioners, for the period of two years: Provided, That each of said qualified electors shall vote for one person as jury commissioner, at any such election, and the persons having the greatest number of votes for jury commissioner, shall be duly elected.

SEC. 2. It shall be the duty of said jury commissioners to meet with the sheriff at the seat of justice of each county, respectively, at least twenty days before the first term of court of common pleas, in every year, and thereupon proceed, with due diligence, to select, alternately, from the adult male taxable citizens of the county at large, a sufficient number of sober, intelligent and judicious persons, to serve as jurors in the several courts of each county, during that year; and as soon as the said selection shall be completed, the said jury commissioners and sheriff shall, in the mode and manner directed by law, place the names of the persons so selected in the proper jury wheel.

SEC. 3. The said jury commissioners, and the sheriff of each county, respectively, or any two of them, shall draw from the proper jury wheel panels of jurors for the trial of issues at law, which may be taken in any county in the county, in the manner now practiced and allowed; but before the said jury commissioners and sheriff of each county, respectively, shall proceed to select or draw jurors, in the manner aforesaid, they shall severally take the oath or affirmation now prescribed by law, to be taken by the sheriff and county commissioners, before selecting and drawing jurors.

SEC. 4. That all acts and parts of acts of Assembly now in force in relation to the custody, sealing, unsealing, locking and opening of the jury wheels, and all acts and parts of acts of Assembly now in force, imposing any penalty or punishment on the sheriff and county commissioners, or either of them, for anything done or omitted by them, or either of them, in relation to the keeping, locking, opening, sealing or breaking the seal of any jury wheel, or in relation to the selecting or drawing of jurors, shall be taken, deemed and held to apply to the said jury commissioners and sheriff.

SEC. 5. Each of said jury commissioners shall be allowed and paid the same compensation per day as is paid to the county commissioners.
