A Supreme Court Decision.

That the Supreme Court of Wisconsin recently rendered an important decision relative to the height of fences and boards, which is in every way favorable from a bill poster's point of view, is a matter of far more than passing comment to the craft, and especially so now, in the light of the adverse decision of Circuit Judge Ross, of Los Angeles. Following is a copy of the text of the Wisconsin State decision:

METZGER VS. HOCHREIN.

(Supreme Court of Wisconsin, June 21, 1900.) Plaintiff possessed an attractive house, surrounded by lawns, on a village lot. Defendant, owning the adjoining lot, built a fence four feet from plaintiff's house, but entirely on defendant's land, consisting of rough tamarack posts, from 8 to 16 feet high, and old, unsightly, and partly decayed lumber, of varying lengths, and extending about 90 feet back from the street, and supported by wires strung from the tops of the posts to defendant's house. It did not interfere with plaintiff's use of his property, but partially shut off a view of the street, and depreciated its rental value. Held, that plaintiff could not abate the fence as a nuisance, though defendant willfully and maliciously built it to annoy him.

Appeal from circuit court. Sheboygan County; Michael Kirwan, Judge. Injunction by Pamela Metzger against H. H. Hochrein to abate an unsightly fence as a nuisance. From a judgment overruling a demurrer to plaintiff's complaint, defendant appeals.

Action to restrain an alleged nuisance on facts set forth in the complaint in substance as follows: Plaintiff owns lots 5, 6, 7 and 8 of block 15, division 1, in the village of Glenbeulah, Wis., on which she has a dwelling house located about four feet from the west line, surrounded by made lawns and yards, making an attractive and valuable home. Defendant owns the adjoining lot on the west of plaintiff's land, in connection with other lots, on which he has a dwelling house, located about fifty feet from the division line. July 22, 1899, defendant set rough tamarack posts, from eight to sixteen feet high, along said division line, wholly on his own land, about four feet from the line of plaintiff's dwelling house, and extending back from the street front about ninety feet. He strung wires from the tops of such posts to his house, in order to hold the posts firmly in position, and on and supported by such posts he constructed a tight board fence of rough, old, unsightly and partly decayed lumber taken from an old ice house, such fence being from 8 to 16 feet high, the highest part being opposite the windows in plaintiff's house. Said structure is, by reason of its unsightly character and proximity to plaintiff's house, a nuisance. It was willfully and maliciously erected. It partially shuts off the view from plaintiff's house to the street and from the street to the house; greatly injures the value of the property for rent or sale, and if it be permitted to continue, the use of such house as a dwelling place will have to be abandoned.

The defendant demurred to the complaint upon the ground that it fails to state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. The demurrer was overruled, and defendant appeals.

M. C. Mead, for appellant. A. C. Shaw, for respondent.

Marshall, J. (after stating the facts): The question presented here is, may a person rightly use his own land as he sees fit, regardless of his motives, if that use render adjoining property less valuable and desirable for dwelling-house purposes, merely from diminished beauty of surroundings and access of light to the property, and opportunity to see it from the surrounding territory and to freely view such territory therefrom, there being nothing projected from the adjacent land causing any injury to such property or its occupants? It will be noted that it is not claimed the acts complained of caused any physical injury to plaintiff's property or to the occupants thereof. The sole complaint is that the beauty and cheerfulness of the property has been injured by defendant's conduct, and that the structure complained of was erected unreasonably and with malicious motives. So the case comes down plainly to the inquiry stated.

It is not an easy task to define with clearness what constitutes a nuisance, so that each case, as it arises, can be accurately tested thereby. Probably the language of Wood on Nuisances, at section 1, often quoted with approval by this court, comes as near strict accuracy as the nature of the subject will permit: "Every unlawful use by a person of his own property in such a way as to cause injury to the property rights of another, producing material annoyance, inconvenience, discomfort or hurt; and every enjoyment by one of his own property which violates the rights of another in an essential degree, constitutes an actionable nuisance." In applying that to any given state of facts, it must be kept in mind that the injury referred to, whether to property or to the occupants thereof, is physical. A trade may be carried on in such a way, either by polluting the atmosphere or by creating such disturbances as to cause physical inconvenience to the occupants of adjoining property, as to constitute a nuisance within the rule stated; but acts which do not reach the adjoining property in a physical sense, yet diminish its value and desirability for a particular use, as for dwelling-house purposes, have not been supposed to constitute an actionable nuisance. True, there are decisions in the State of Michigan, and some dicta of courts elsewhere, to the effect that, if one maliciously use his own property to the annoyance of his neighbors, regardless of any physical discomfort to them, he is guilty of an actionable nuisance; the element of malice rendering that an actionable wrong which would otherwise be rightful. That doctrine, however, has very little support. None, in fact, where the rules of the common law have not been changed by legislation and the courts have kept strictly within their legitimate sphere as administrators of the law. The general rule is that whatever a man may lawfully do on his own property under any circumstances, he may do regardless of the motive for his conduct. 16 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law, p. 920; South Royalton Bank vs. Suffolk Bank, 27 Vt. 505; Mahan vs. Brown, 13 Wm. 261; Phelps vs. Nowlen, 72 N. Y. 40; Bordeaux vs. Greene (Mont.), 56 Pac. 218; Rideout vs. Knox, 148 Mass. 368, 19 N. E. 390, 2 L. R. A. 81; Vuest vs. Reynolds, 68 Ill. 478. That doctrine is as well defined in the common law as any that has to do with the rights and remedies cognizable by courts, and courts that have departed from it have, as it seems, trespassed upon the domain of the legislative department of the government.

In Rideout vs. Knox, supra, the power of the legislature even was questioned to curtail the use by a person of his own property to the extent of preventing its malicious use, the act under consideration being one to prevent the maintenance of unreasonably high fences from malicious motives. The court said, in effect, that the ownership of land carries with it the constitutional right to enjoy such land in any way the owner sees fit, limited only to such external effects as diminish the physical enjoyment of adjoining property; that such right, regardless of the motive for its exercise, is a property right within constitutional protection, the same as any other property right, and can not be interfered with except to the extent of reasonable police regulations; that legislation preventing the unreasonable maintenance of a high fence, where a bad motive is the sole purpose thereof, is within the limits of the constitutional exercise of police power. But it was intimated that legislation, prohibiting the maintenance of a fence where a bad motive for such maintenance is coupled with some other that would cause it independent of the mere desire thereby to annoy an adjoining owner, would contravene constitutional rights of property. The result of the case was that, but for the statutory police regulation of the height of fences, the plaintiff would have been remediless regardless of the height of the fence in question or the motive for erecting and maintaining it.

In the very recent case of Bordeaux vs. Green, supra, where the fence complained of was forty feet high, the court said that the right of one land-owner to erect a structure so as to shut off air and light from the windows of a building on adjoining property, is unaffected by the motive; therefore, that whether the fence in question was erected as an improvement or ornament to the property on which it was located, or purely to annoy adjoining land-owners, made no difference as to the legal right to maintain it.

With few exceptions, the authorities are all in harmony with the foregoing, clearly indicating that the complaint in question fails to state a cause of action, and that the demurrer was improperly overruled.

This is one of the many cases that may arise where the doctrine of personal liberty and personal dominion of one over his own property enables him to do things to the annoyance of others, not causing actual, material physical discomfort to them, for which there is no punishment, except loss of that respect which every right-thinking man desires from his neighbors, and the possession of which is a source of daily enjoyment. If one is so constituted as not to be susceptible to those feelings which a reasonably well-balanced man is supposed to possess, and is so constituted as to obtain more pleasure out of needlessly annoying others than by securing and retaining their respect as a member of society, his sovereign right in his own property, to use it as he may so far as that use does not physically extend outside his boundaries to the detriment of others, may he so exercise as to violate the moral obligations which every member of society owes to his neighbors, without any penalty being visited upon him for his misconduct, of which he can be made conscious.

The order overruling the demurrer is reversed, and the cause remanded for further proceedings according to law.

The Toledo Trouble.

Toledo, O., July 26.—(Special.)—The chances are that no more bill boards belonging to the Bryan Company will be torn down by the health officer or policemen until the court has passed on the question. Henry Stautzenbach appeared before Judge Barber this morning with a petition, asking for an injunction. He told the judge that the police board had assured the company that they would tear down no bill boards until the matter had been laid before the court, but at the first opportunity, Mr. Stautzenbach said, the police demolished them and endeavored thus to destroy a legitimate business.

"If it is shown here," said Judge Barber, "that the boards were endangering life or were a source of disease, I would grant no injunction. If they are not, then certainly an injunction would be granted." There is no evidence before me, and this matter should have a speedy settlement.

"I had these boards examined," spoke up Mr. Bryan, "by several competent architects, and they pronounced them perfectly safe. Health Officer Grosh thought he would make a pretty play, and so took an axe himself. We knew nothing of it. We were expecting to have a chance to defend our rights in court, as they promised we should have."

"I can't grant an injunction until this matter is looked into," said the judge.

"They may go ahead and demolish more of our boards, then," said Mr. Stautzenbach. "No, I don't think they will do anything like that. I tell you what I will do. I will give you a note to the city solicitor. If he will assure you that he will not allow more boards to be destroyed until the matter has been determined, then an injunction will not be granted. If he will not give the assurance, then you may have your injunction."

This was very satisfactory to Mr. Stautzenbach, and so he deferred filing his petition until he had seen the solicitor, but he has no fears now of the authorities taking further steps until the court authorizes them to do so.

The solicitor said: "Let the court grant an injunction. We don't care. We are expecting it. We will come in with a motion to dissolve and fight the whole question out in court."

"Will you give them the assurance they ask?" queried the reporter.

"I have not seen the police board yet, but I think not. The remedy is in the courts. Let them go there. I don't think they will get any assurances from us."

A little after noon to-day Judge Barber granted a temporary injunction, restraining the health officer and the police department from tearing down any of the Bryan bill boards. The case will be tried when the city solicitor files a motion to dissolve the injunction, as he will do.

Marceline, Mo., Matters.

To the Editor of "The Billboard:"

Dear Sir—I am getting along nicely with my distributing business. I have put out 4,000 booklets for Hod's Medicine Co., Chicago; 4,000 for Boston Medical Co., 5,000 for Sterling Remedy Co., and 4,000 booklets for Mr. Mollen, Cleveland, O.

I have no opposition, as I construct my own bill boards. I had 5 32-sheet boards made of ship-lap lumber.

I have been in this city ten years. Marceline is 100 miles from Kansas City; population, 3,000. Yours respectfully,

C. F. LONG

Portsmouth, O., Pointers.

To the Editor of "The Billboard:"

Dear Sir—I am pleased to say I am rushed this week; have Meenen's 8-sheets; Duke's Mixture, 8-sheets; Coca Cola, 8 2-sheets and 1-sheets; Factory Smoker Cigars, 12-sheets; Maysville Fair, 3 and 1-sheets; Lexington, Elks' Fair, 24, 8, 3 and 1-sheets, and Ohio State Fair coming. Distributed 10,000 for Washington Med. Institute last week at street fair, and must say it was a frost. Buffalo Bill played to a big business here Friday. 25,000 people saw the show. The street fair'd about $1,000 on the week, and somebody will get stuck for their money. Best wishes,

R. W. LODSWICK

Yoakum, Mex., Letter.

To the Editor of "The Billboard:"

Dear Sir—Since business is very dull in the hill posting line, I flatter myself on having pasted on my boards Old Virginia Cheroots, Prickly Ash Bitters, etc. There is not much advertising done down here, however. Texas is certainly an excellent field for business. Yoakum is the largest town east of San Antonio. It is the headquarters of the S. A. & A. P. Railroad shops, and has a population of about 8,000. At present I am distributing and advertising Climax Washing Tablets for Thos. Grith & Son, San Antonio, Tex., and will take the road shortly with 1,000 sheets of street fair paper, advertising the carnival at Yoakum July 12 to 26. If advertisers desire work done in this section, I shall be pleased to serve them. FRANK RHODES.

Bakersfield, Cal., Briefs.

To the Editor of "The Billboard:"

Dear Sir—Why do so many bill posters refuse to join some one of the different associations? It can not be because the fee is too great. Any bill poster who can not afford it had better borrow the money and see the results. The only kick I have is that lumber is too high, as it keeps me busy building boards, (at $40 per thousand), but now I have space for 2,700 sheets, and have on my boards Stockton Street Fair, Baker's Chocolate, Barker's Collars, Walk-Over Shoe, Santa Fe Route, Cornado Beach for the summer, Fantella Cigar, Fat Boy Cigar, Graud Republic Cigar, Della Rocca Cigar, Trophy Baking Powder, besides three-sheet, and two-sheet snipes. I bought the plant here four years ago for $15. Did I make a good investment? If you think so, get out and hustle and make yours still a better one. It can be done if you have the sand. Fraternally yours,

E. R. CRAIGAN

Sunbury, Pa., Smiles.

To the Editor of "The Billboard:"

Dear Sir—There has been in this town a fly-by-night concern calling itself the Sunbury Bill Posting Company. How they acquired the title, I can not say. Several years ago Geo. B. Beckley (Did Man Beck) and myself (Jas. C. Young) started the Sunbury Bill Posting Company, Jas. C. Young president, Geo. B. Beckley manager and treasurer. In the spring (I think) of 1898 Beckley had a quarrel with an amiable female, and flew the coop, taking all the treasury. At the beginning of the Spanish-American war I left for the front. On my return I found these parties had swiped the title "Sunbury Bill Posting Company," S. Cameron & Co. Last week the two were sent up for thirty-five days, and when they come out will go back to jail for court in September. I wish you would give this notice, so save advertisers. The only firm in Sunbury is the Sunbury Bill Posting and Distributing Company.

JAS. C. YOUNG.

Fostoria, O., Facts.

To the Editor of "The Billboard:"

Dear Sir—Here is something that bame under our eyes, and we can't help speaking about it, and think the craft at large should know it. Campbell & Sons' Opera House Drug Store is on the corner of Main and Center streets, and our office is 1111 West Center street opposite their side door, and on the door step they had a few days ago a pile of the Emersou Drug Co., of Baltimore, Md., sheet music, which they sent here to have handed out to the trade over the counter, but to our own knowledge the pile of 200 only lasted a few hours, after the boys got from ten to twenty each one, and one would tell the other until all the small boys in town got on to the fact and came, but it was too late, as they were all gone. Now, that is the kind of distributing that hurts the business, for the company thinks the cheapest way is the best, and that is what they got. I do hope the time will come when the advertisers will wake up and do business with the bill poster, if he wants to have the work done as it should be done. Yours truly,

W. C. THIRILL

Susquehanna, Pa., Squibs.

Meenen's Talcum Powder is about the only commercial paper upon the boards here at present. The Hygienic Medical Institute matter was distributed at the shop doors by traveling representatives. While in Binghamton, N. Y., this week, I had a pleasant visit with the much-abused W. D. Redington, of Dr. Kilmer & Co., and found that gentleman busily engaged in straightening out the distributing branch of their extensive business, after their recent fire, which destroyed their plant in that city. Mr. Redington says that as soon as arrangements can be made their firm is going to advertise through the fraternity more extensively than ever. He is much amused at the attacks of the various distributors throughout the columns of "The Billboard," and says it takes something like the present discussion to wake up the boys. Personally, I have always found Dr. Kilmer & Co. a good house to do business with, and believe they are willing to pay a fair price for good service. Among the bills on the boards in Binghamton are Coca Cola, Old Crow Whisky, Virginia Cheroots, Meenen's Talcum Powder and Paragon Pants.

CHAS. E. WHITNEY.

Madison, Ga., Memos.

To the Editor of "The Billboard:"

Dear Sir—I have just remodeled my plant and now claim to have one of the best in this section of the State. I own 500 feet of good boards, besides a good lot of three-sheet and one-sheet boards. I have nice signs on each. I have recently had the city council to put a license on bill posting, distributing, sign tacking. Heretofore these tobacco drummers would come in and give a colored boy 25 cents to go around and tack a few signs. Now I have that. You see, the advertiser received poor service at that rate; now I do it, and do it right, so as to build up trade. I believe in giving the advertiser all you can for his money, as we bill posters are dependent on him. I have just closed a deal with the theater to do its work this winter. I have been doing it for five years. I have on my boards now Coca Cola, Dr. Tichner's Antiseptic, Marietta, Chautauqua, Early Bird Tobacco, Sam. W. Hoke, N. Y. Have done distributing for Dr. Miles' Celluloid Starch and Dr. Pierce; also Peruna; sign tacking for Coca Cola, Celluloid Starch, Snappa Tobacco. I am growing all the time. When I opened this plant I did nothing; now it pays me well which shows what can be done with hustle attached to a business. Will say I like "The Billboard." It is a good paper.

LEN C. BALDWIN.

Notes.

L. A. G. Shoaff, city bill poster of Paris, Ill., was a "Billboard" caller July 26.

John F. Diting, of Newport, Ky., has returned from a business trip to New York.

W. E. Franklin, general agent for Wallace Shows, wants twenty bill posters. Men who have never been with a circus preferred.

Americus, Ga.—Furlow & Jones have purchased the bill posting plant formerly owned by Mr. Lago. O. C. Johnson has been appointed manager by the new owners.

It is said that the Dr. Chase Medicine Company, of Philadelphia, Pa., contemplates going on the bill boards this fall. This firm has been an extensive contractor for house-to-house service, and will doubtless use bill board space as extensively.

Indianapolis, Ind.—The carnival committee has decided to bill the event in one hundred cities and towns in the State. D. M. Parry is president of the association. Advise your readers in Indiana to address him with prices, terms, etc., for both town and country showings.

Cent Shows.

"Bill" Show in a Wreck.

Detroit, July 29.—Section 1 of the Buffalo Bill Wild West Show's train suffered a severe collision near Milwaukee Junction shortly before daylight today, resulting in the smashing of the show employes' sleeping car, containing some forty inmates. One of the latter is dead, and nine others are in Detroit hospitals suffering from more or less serious injuries.

The dead: Edward Sullivan, aged 37, of Bridgeport, Conn., porter of the canvas car, who died from internal hemorrhage after reaching the hospital.

The injured: Henry Eastman (nickname Nash), aged 26, of Rochester, N. Y.; one of the processes of spine broken off, but spinal cord as yet unaffected.

A J. Turkholder, aged 21, of Bradford, Pa.; crushed and injured very seriously, injured internally, back and leg cut by window glass. Recovery hoped for.

Henry Burton, aged 28, West Chester, Pa.; knee cut, bruised about back.

Joseph McCann, aged 23, of Chambers street, New York; contusion of right hand and left eye cut.

Noyes Mix, aged 43, New Haven, Conn.; slightly injured through chest and hand sprained.

Thomas Kelly, aged 28, of 111 North Elliott Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.; shoulder bruised.

George Hunt, aged 23, of Waterbury, Conn.; contusion of both legs.

William Gilmore, aged 23, of Oskaloosa, Ia.; left shoulder and arm bruised, and skin torn from right heel.

At the time of the collision the train, consisting of twenty wagons and stock cars, four of the show's sleeping cars and a Grand Trunk caboose, was being transferred from the Michigan Central to the Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee Road. The train was being pushed backward from the "Y" at the Milwaukee Junction, when it was struck by an outgoing Grand Trunk freight train. The caboose was jammed into and forced on top of the Buffalo Bill employes' sleeper, No. 28, which was filled with sleeping tent and canvas men. When the uninjured men had recovered from the shock, the wrecked sleeper was chopped open and the injured gradually gotten out. The car is a complete wreck, excepting at one end. All the victims will recover shortly excepting the three most seriously injured.

Circuses in Iowa.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 1.—(Special.)—We are to be well favored with the biggest and best shows on the road this year. Ringling's has come and gone; Buffalo Bill's Congress of Rough Riders of the World is to be here some time during the season, presumably on Sept. 8, the Seils-Forepaugh combination is to be a stellar attraction during the State Fair, provided the city council will accept the $200 for a street parade and the usual license fee and the directors of the State Fair can be led to see that the show will not interfere with the patronage at the colossal hippodrome three miles east of the city; and latest of all, the big Wallace Shows, which made the town last year, are coming to Des Moines again. This means that practically every big show in the world with but a single exception is to make Des Moines before the leaves fall in the autumn and the menageries go into winter quarters, and the actors hie themselves to variety show houses. The single exception is Barnum & Bailey's Show, and it is now traveling in Europe, and will not make the United States this season. Wallace's bill men are already inside the borders of the State and may arrive in Des Moines at any time. It is presumed that the show will come to Des Moines in September, probably after the wily William F. Cody and his band of whirling dervishes have pulled down their lithographs and left the field clear.

The regular advertisers for the Wallace people are not yet in Iowa. It is only the "opposition" men. To most people that term has no special significance; to showmen everywhere it has a peculiar and a particular use. It means a gang of men who travel as regular passengers over all railway lines, and who are subject to telegraphic orders from the manager of advertising, who are sent out to oppose other shows. Showmen while extending the courtesies of the profession to each other, stoop to almost anything in their methods of covering territory. Spies are constantly on the alert, and whenever the advertising man of a big show gets a sure tip that another big show has its route scheduled for a month in advance he immediately wires his "opposition" gang to cover this territory ahead of the regular advertising cars of the other show. The "opposition" has little baggage; it consists of five or six men and a horse; all the lithographs needed for a town are sent by express from the advertising manager or from the printer. The first thing the "opposition" gang does when it arrives in a town is to rent all of the regular bill boards in the city, all the high fences, all the sides of old buildings and barns in conspicuous places obtainable, the leases being made conditional that no other show paper shall be allowed upon the boards until after their performance in the city. Then they scour the business houses and secure the large windows in the same manner. Cash is paid for the big bill boards and available advertising spaces for the larger posters; tickets only are given for the right to hang lithographs in the windows. If they are in town a day ahead of the other show they have effected a "scoop," and the only way for the second show to get in is to build boards of their own, or take what has been left over by the "opposition" gang, which is usually not very much. The "opposition" gang operates entirely separate from the regular advertising cars of the show, which go on their way working in a more thorough manner, sending out advertising wagons to bill the country, and they are, in their turn, beset by "opposition" gangs from other shows.

Nicholasville, Ky., Notes.

To the Editor of "The Billboard":

Dear Sir—Buckskin Bill certainly made a ten-strike when he dived into Kentucky territory, which had hitherto been passed up by Buffalo Bill and Pawnee Bill. The show has made friends, at every stand, and has been repaid by a large patronage, and they deserve every cent that has passed into their hands. If there be other than a gentleman with the combination, I have failed to discover him. Their business methods are new and up to date. Merchants to whom bills are due are not obliged to wait until 3 p. m. for their cash. The treasurer makes the rounds of the town each morning, and before the parade comes upon the street the city is squared of all indebtedness—an innovation in the show business. In arranging the programme, the management has confined itself to scenes west of the Rockies, and were not forced to go to Africa for freaks and to the Orient for curios to amuse the people. While Araba, Ussacks, etc., will tend to make a more diversified exhibition, Buckskin Bill's is as good and clean as the best. But just here we will offer a criticism. The performance is thirty minutes too short, but while it lasts it is good and instructive. Their tribe of Sioux are the best on the road. Their concert and side attractions are likewise good. The company had smooth sailing until Danville, a town of 4,000, was struck. There it was impossible to procure a lot cheaper than $145. The town council wanted $50 for a parade. The Terrills would not pay it. The crowd in town was the largest in the history of the town. They became indignant, and the way they went after that council was a caution, and a compromise was reached. But the show was amply repaid. Here let us add: If you have Danville on your route, "red-light" it. The admirers made by this show are many, and they will anxiously await its return. C. W. JELF.

Showmen Fight.

On July 25 the Gentry Dog and Pony Show No. 2 left one of their employes at Rhinehart's Hospital and another in the city calaboose at Ashland, Wis. When the canvases were busily engaged in packing up and swearing according to custom, James Gallagher and John Murphy reached an altercation that developed out of an argument on just how a certain piece of work should be done, and after nursing their anger for some time, finally decided to fight. In the row that ensued, Murphy, from the evidence taken, was getting the fullness of a grand beating, and to avoid further punishment stabbed his opponent to the heart with a jack-knife. Gallagher fell bleeding and apparently mortally wounded, and for a time his chances for recovery looked bad. He was taken to Rhinehart's Hospital, where an examination revealed a gash that extended to the membrane that surrounds the heart. Murphy was taken into custody and arraigned in court for assault with intent to kill. He pleaded not guilty, and was sent to the county jail to await his hearing.

It is reported that Gallagher died on July 27.

Bear Escapes.

Bucyrus, O., July 25.—(Special.)—Several hears took charge of a train yesterday on the Ohio Central and made things interesting for a time. An extra train was put on to carry a show from Cerning to Toledo. The car next to the caboose contained a couple of cages of bears, together with some other wild animals. Just after the train left Bucyrus one of the bears broke out of his cage and started on an exploring expedition. The conductor ran for the caboose, with the bear in hot pursuit. The conductor won the race and slammed and locked the door of the caboose. The bear contented himself with climbing around over the other cages, which rocked frightfully, and aroused the other animals. Seeing that the chances were good for a whole train full of fighting wild animals, the train was sidetracked, and the cowboys of the aggregation armed himself with a lariat and started to lasso the bear. The train was delayed over an hour and messages began to accumulate asking the cause. The conductor gave the particulars, and said if headquarters would send up a dozen of the office men who usually take a month off every year to go bunting for his game in the Northern woods he could give them enough game to last them several seasons. The bear was finally lassoed.

Notes.

Rained all day on Ringling's at Milwaukee, July 16, but the show did a good business at that.

Michigan is treating Harrison Bros. very nicely. Monroeville and Elyria, O., were also very kind.

Rialdo, band balancer and aerialist, closed with Reed's European Shows July 21 at Lovelaceville, Ky.

C. E. Cannon has a dog and pony show out in the South. He recently showed Selina, Ala., to good business.

One hundred and eighty-six railroad tickets were sold at Macksburg, O., to Marietta when Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show appeared there.

Ed. F. Davis writes that he got the show home intact, that he has settled with his actors and musicians and that the circus will go out again next spring, but on a different scale.

Pfeiffenberg's troubles are many. He took a punch out of a cowboy at Paris, Ky., and the cowboy took four shots at "Felt." The cowboy is in jail, and Mrs. Pfeiffenberg has left the show.

The Elephant's Plank—"Fellow citizens of the jungle," said the monkey, "various as our interests may be, can't we find some platform on which we may all stand?" "That's right," put in the elephant. "Let us denounce menageries!"—Puck.

Sam Dawson writes as follows, viz: "One of the bill posters came in the other day from a railroad route up a little branch road that led into the mountains. He said it was so wild and woolly that the landlord had a currycomb hanging up in the washroom in place of a hair-brush."

Wm. H. Bullen, with the Nashville Students, writes that they have six different kinds of stands, twenty kinds of lithographs, fifteen kinds of three-sheets, and the best agent on the road—W. E. Fuller. He says they recently out-billed Campbell Bros. Shows in twenty-four consecutive towns, and knocked them out in every one.

Where, indeed?—"Whoever runs this paper," remarked the walrus, who had picked up an old copy of the New York Journal, dropped by a polar relief expedition, "is a lobster." "What's the matter?" asked his mate. "Why, he says: 'Under no circumstances should you go into the water after a meal.' Where are we to get it, then?"—Philadelphia Press.

Following is the roster of the Kinnebrow Pavillion Vaudeville Show: Manager, Chas. Kinnebrow; assistant manager and treasurer, Leonie Kinnebrow; advance and programmer, Wm. H. Tibbitts; soubrette, Etta Clarke; ballads and tickets, Miss Mayme Kinnebrow; aerial and wire features, Mons St. Pierre; Goldie Elsey, kid songs; picture machine, Geo. Elsie; canvas, Sam. Hellar.

A showman giving his name as John Nelson visited Nashville, Ill., a few days ago and tried to work some of the people on advances, but so far as can be learned secured nothing. He claimed to be agent for Belmont's Show, and his business was to make contracts with liverymen and butchers, and he traveled overland, driving from Nashville to Sparta. According to latest reports, Fake Agent Nelson managed to "touch" both the butcher and liveryman at Nashville for respectable sums.

Manager "Tom" Perry says: "On July 17 the heavy wind that prevailed in Northwestern Ohio caught the big tent of Dr. H. D. Rucker's Repertoire, Vaudeville and Medicine Show, and in the twinkling of an eye, canvas, seats, the elaborately equipped stage was a wreck. Rain added to the general unpleasantness, but all hands jumped in under the doctor's directions, and although the accident occurred at nearly 2 p. m. we had the tent up, the torn canvas mended, and rang up on time to a tent full of people in another rain storm. It was worth a mile of (L.) boards, for, although the weather has been threatening every evening since, the tent, which seats 1,600, has been packed nightly and hundreds turned away. The show is giving great satisfaction."

It is a lively race that the business men and the interested spectators witnessed in Iowa City, Ia., recently. It was a "fight" between the regular advertising car of one big show and the "opposition" gang of another. Buffalo Bill's regular car was in the city billing the town and taking things easy, when the "oppositio" gang of the Wallace shows swooped in on them and secured half the windows and several good sides of stores before the Cody representatives realized what was up. The Cody men had already clinched the bill boards, but the Wallace people claimed the victory on everything else in sight, and were soon contracting for the erection of a mammoth bill board for their large posters, by which they hoped to outshine the brilliant color work of the "Rough Rider" aggregation.

PRESS VS. POSTERS.

During the past half a dozen years the bill board method of publicity has rapidly forged to the front that it occupies to-day a position of unusual prominence in the commercial world as a legitimate means of attracting the public gaze. At every step of its growth, however, it has met with angry and jealous antagonism from the daily newspapers.

The cause for this is very plain, as many old-time patrons of the newspaper advertising columns are now found among the staunch supporters of the more popular and profitable outdoor method. This fact is in reality the very foundation of all the anti-bill board crusades which spring into existence every vernal equinox and are continued throughout the ensuing summer.

This year these journalistic attacks have been so manifold, rabid and voluminous as to attract general public attention. And in every instance municipal authorities have been enlisted to the service for obvious reasons, and the result in most instances has been an unwelcome series of litigation very embarrassing to the bill posting effort.

For several months past these controversies growing out of what the newspapers are pleased to term the bill board nuisance, have waxed furiously, especially in cities along the Pacific slope.

The recent decision of a Judge of the United States Circuit Court in the Wilshire case of Los Angeles, sustaining the validity of a city ordinance limiting the height of bill boards to six feet, has caused much surprise, considerable comment and some apprehension, which it would be useless to attempt to conceal. This decision, however, by no means can be accepted as a final disposition of the question, for the case must be appealed, and it is the duty of the national organization to take the matter in hand promptly and bring it to a speedy finish.

***

No sooner had the adverse Los Angeles decision been announced than many of the leading dailies of the country joyously took the subject up and paraded it in sensational style with scare-heads and double leads, accompanied with columns of congratulatory editorial gush. This merely added further testimony to the fact that the activity and influence of the press are at the real root of the trouble and shows that they are determined to create as much more prejudice and antagonism as possible.

***

On another page of this issue will be found the text of a favorable bill board decision, handed down by the Supreme Court of Wisconsin only a few weeks ago. Every bill poster should read carefully this important document, as much comfort and information can be derived from it. As a precedent and guide for future action it contains many valuable points and suggestions.

COMMENTS.

A great many well-known bill posters will attend the meeting of distributors at Detroit next week.

There will at least be a goodly representation of Californians at the next annual convention of the Associated Bill Posters.

E. C. Gude, treasurer of the O. J. Gude Co., of New York, has been confined to his home by sickness for nearly two weeks.

Both from a business and social standpoint, the Atlantic City convention will pass into history as the tamest and quietest affair of the kind ever held.

Between golf, socialistic studies, ostrich farms and bill board litigation, "Gale" Wilshire, of Los Angeles, manages to derive enough of that spice of life for which the average mortal craves.

The newspapers are in reality the active force behind the anti-bill board crusade which is causing the fraternity so much trouble in various cities of the country. Simply a case of professional jealousy.

The entire plant of Dr. Kilmer & Co., at Binghamton, N. Y., was destroyed by fire recently. The loss was heavy, as the company was far behind in their orders, but they are rebuilding rapidly, and will soon be in running order again.

"Old Pap" Moore, of Des Moines, Ia., writes to say that there has not been a sign of opposition discovered in his town as yet. "But should any materialize," he continues, "I will be found to be as young as any of the kid-gloved gentry, for I always have my fighting clothes on."

The fifth annual convention of the International Association of Distributors, which will be held at Detroit next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, promises to be a largely attended affair and an event of no small importance. Everybody in any way interested is cordially invited.

Harvey W. Hill, bill poster of Wadlington, Kan., writes: "We will have Forepaugh-Sells Bros.' Circus here Aug. 14. S. H. Joseph, their advance agent, is a very fine gentleman. We will have a hot time here when our street fair is pulled off, Sept. 18 to 22. The circus has engaged all of my boards. Business is very good. "The Weekly Billboard" is hot stuff for bill posters."

"Practical Advertising," a Georgia publication, very naively remarks: "Any man can be his own circulation expert when bill boards are in question. Get the census, find out how many people there are in a given town, then do a little figuring on the probability of each one of them passing certain locations, and you have it. But always remember that a sign calling attention to a corset ought to be in a place frequented by the fair sex; and that one advertising repeating rifles ought to be seen by men."

The latest dispatch from Los Angeles relating to Wilshire's troubles says: "A petition is being circulated among the patrons of the bill boards, asking the council to amend the ordinance which fixes the height of the boards at six feet, so that they may lawfully be erected to the height of ten feet. In support of their petition they cite the statement of Judge Ross that the limit of six feet is unreasonably low. It is understood that if the council will agree to raise the limit to ten feet, no further appeal will be taken to the supreme court of the United States."

Secretary Rouse, of the Pennsylvania State Association, says he was not to blame in regard to the acceptance of the member at Norristown, Pa. Jack remarks: "You know it is a secretary's duty to read the communications which are sent him, before the association for its consideration; the same with applications. Now, there being no other application from Norristown except the one presented by Mr. Appel, and there being no opposition to the same, membership was granted to the applicant. If there was a mistake, it was not mine, nor the association's fault, but of those who are interested."

Levyne's Letter.

To the Editor of "The Billboard":
Dear Sir—Louisville, Ky., with population of 225,000, has 15,000 running feet of boards, owned by the Consolidated Bill Posting Company, of which James P. Wheeler is president, L. H. Ramsey vice president and general manager, J. H. Whallon, treasurer, R. Robinson secretary, J. J. Adams inside manager. They also control the plants in New Albany, Ind. (4,000 feet), and Jeffersonville, (1,500 feet), managed by Thomas Morgan.
This city has made rapid strides in the past three years, for at that time this firm got the plant, which consisted of 3,000 feet of poor boards. But to-day this firm wants 100 24-sheets, 200 8-sheets and 5,000 1-sheets to give a first-class showing. Had a long talk with Mr. Ramsey, who gave me some pointers in regard to the Atlantic City meeting. And those pointers? Well, they didn't make my eyes open as wide as Mr. Ramsey's. But I will admit I felt a tickling sensation in the toes. Ramsey is a good fellow, and seemed disappointed that I didn't have "The Billboard" of the last issue, as he was hungry for news.
By the way, did you ever hear it said that Mr. Robinson was good-looking? Well, he is—a big, curly-haired blonde. I told him I would do it!
Evansville, Ind.—Population, 70,000; Evansville Bill Posting and Distributing Company,

F. M. Groves president and manager, J. L. Mayer secretary and treasurer. This plant—10,000 feet—shows up a fine lot of boards in the heart of the business center. I always considered, and do yet, this town gives the advertiser a good run for his money. It gives me gratification to note the pride this firm takes in its plant. They leave hardly anything in the hands of their help except the posting. They have no other business on hand, and give it their entire attention. 50 24-sheets, 125 8-sheets and 2,000 1-sheets make a good showing. They stand well with their home merchants, which is in itself the best recommendation a bill poster can have. Mr. Mayer invited me to his residence, which is one of the most imposing in the city. Lucky fellow that he is, and yours truly was lucky, too.

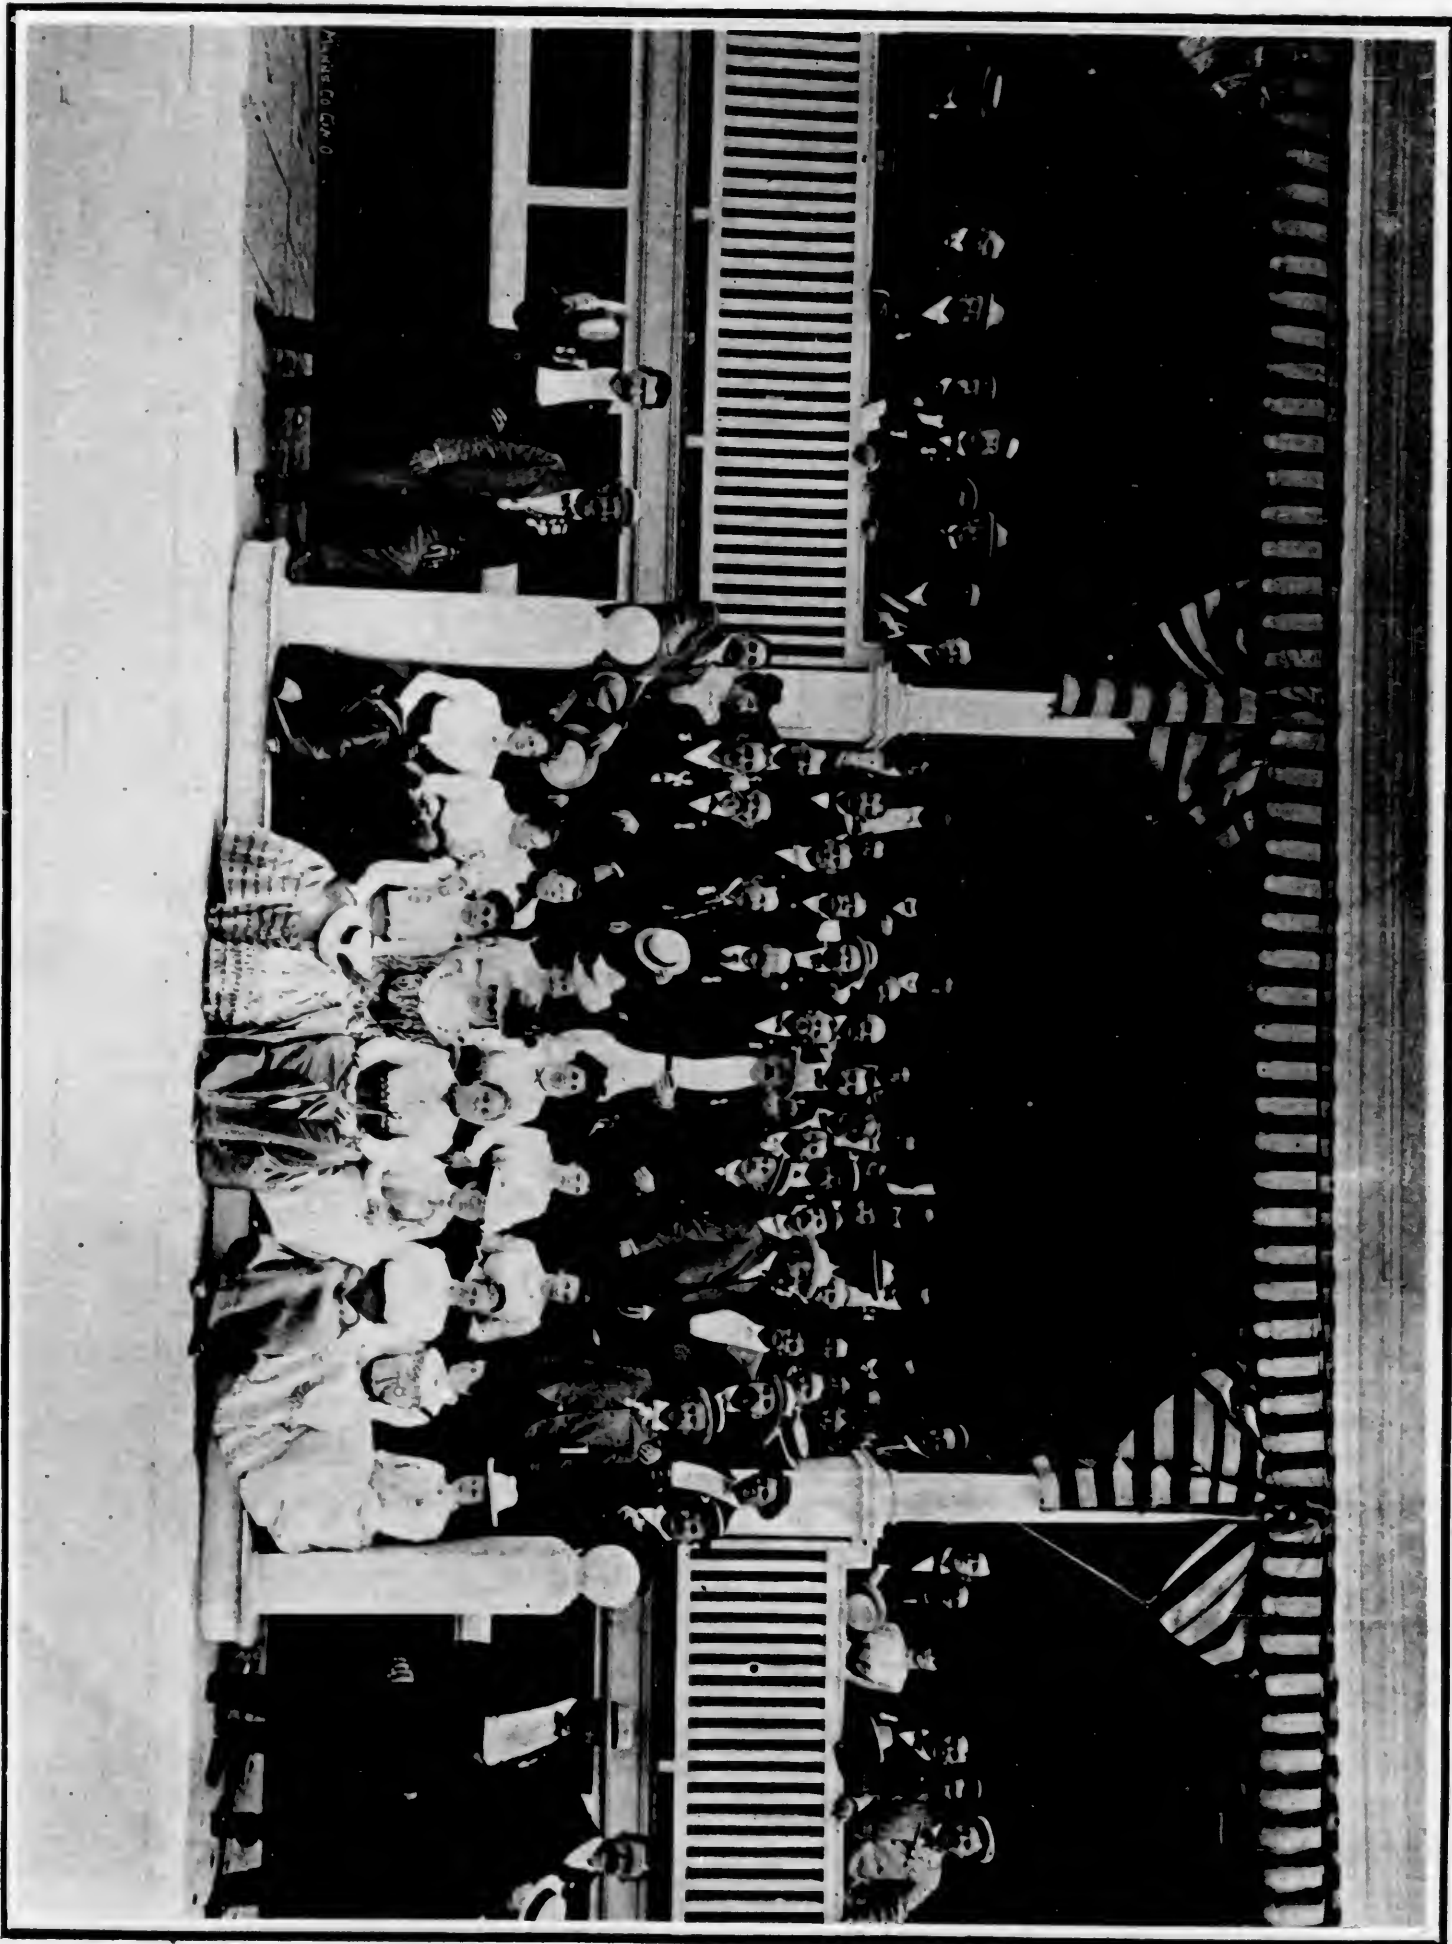

Terre Haute, Ind.—J. M. Dishon owns the boards, and it goes without saying they are good ones. Population, 45,000; 10,000 feet of boards; 35 24-sheets, 75 8-sheets, 1,000 1-sheets. Anyone not knowing Jim Dishon argues himself unknown. Established in 1871. "Jim" came here from Indianapolis, where he had run that plant, and thirty-five years ago his brother composed this song:

J. M. Dishon and no other
Goes forth in haste,
With bills and paste,
And proclaims to all creation
Men are wise who advertise
In the present generation.

Which every man in this city knows, by heart,
Does he sell paste? Well, I should say so!
And ships it, too. I don't know the figures,
As I forget to ask, but it goes away up.
He is the most popular bill poster with his local merchants I know of in the whole of the country, with all due respects to Charlie Berner. I will say—but he don't sell posters.
Indianapolis, Ind.—Indianapolis Bill Posting Company; Alex. Harbison, manager.
Well, I had quite a fright. Just imagine a man standing in the middle of a room flourishing at the mouth, waving his arms like a Dutch windmill, whilst saying—well, this is what Harbison said, or tried to say: "Levyne, you are a good fellow, and I will do all in my power to help you sell posters; make my office your headquarters. Bill Donaldson is personally a good fellow, too; but I don't like his paper, and I won't give any pointers in regard to my plant, and don't worry my plant mentioned in his paper; good, but of indifferent." Well, I just ran out and got a whisky to give me some Dutch courage to overcome the effects of the Dutch windmill. But I didn't get enough, and am scared yet. I can't give information in regard to the plant; don't know how many feet he has.
You may say he has two, but the way he jumped it looked like a thousand. So, will say this city has a splendid showing; the boards are well blanked, and advertisers can trust their paper in Harbison's charge with perfect confidence. Yours truly,
M. B. LEVYNE.

The Modern Bill Poster.

Twenty, fifteen or ten years ago, the average bill poster used old fences, barns, sides of houses, bridges, etc., and posters were put up without any system, says Sam. W. Hoke in "Information." No list of locations was furnished the advertiser, and no guarantee of time was furnished. When the bill poster had bill boards they were usually of rough lumber which cracks half an inch to an inch between boards, and the posters had very little chance for life. But we are now talking of the modern bill poster. In the prominent cities of the Union, the bill posting business represents investments ranging into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, and the annual business done in such cities as New York or Chicago will probably amount to a quarter of a million dollars, or more. The modern bill board is about 9 1/2 feet high and in varying widths. The modern poster is composed of sections, each section being about 3 1/2 feet wide and 5 1/2 feet high, and consisting of four sheets. An eight-sheet poster is made of two of these sections, and is seven feet wide; a twelve-sheet poster is ten and one-half feet wide; a sixteen-sheet poster is fourteen feet wide, and a twenty-four-sheet poster is twenty-one feet wide. The cost of lithographing an eight-sheet poster in quantities of 5,000 varies from 16 cents to 32 cents per poster, according to whether it is a plain poster or an exceedingly artistic poster. Posters can be had for less money, and higher prices have been paid, but the man who contemplates a bill posting campaign can reasonably figure his expenditures to come between the two extremes mentioned above. The cost of posting an eight-sheet in New York is 32 cents per week, and a judicious advertiser will use 500 of this size to cover New York, amounting to $160 per week. In smaller towns the cost per poster and the number of posters required is less. The bill posting business is almost universally confined to one firm in each city, although New York City has two firms in Manhattan, one in Brooklyn, and one in Richmond boroughs. There is an association known as the Associated Bill Posters of the United States and Canada, which has done wonders during the past ten years in improving bill posting throughout the entire country. The advertiser who wishes to post bills in a number of cities can send orders to the bill poster direct, or he can place his entire order in the hands of an "official solicitor." There are seven official solicitors who send out bill posting or practically the same plan as the ordinary advertising agencies send out newspaper advertising. Some large concerns that do a great deal of bill posting, and have men on the road especially to look after that business, feel that they can attend to the placing of the orders themselves, but most of them place their business in the hands of some one of the "official solicitors," just as they have their newspaper advertising attended to by an expert in that line.
