FREAK STORM COMES AS SURPRISE TO CITY

Weather Man Plays April Fool Joke; Rain Total Is Now 6.83 Inches

The fine spring weather that greeted Glendale residents yesterday morning was about the best April fool joke that was played on them, for the rain that began falling late in the afternoon, developed into a small storm, particularly in the Verdugo road vicinity, and .35 of an inch was added to the season's total, which now stands at 6.83. One year ago the seasonal record was 10.08.

While the water came rushing down through Sycamore canyon from last night's rain, it had all run off this morning, with little damage. However, on East Broadway another muddy slough was created in front of the Broadway school, and automobiles and other vehicles splashed through mud and water this morning, while countless school children had the fun of wading.

The weather man played a rather "dirty" joke on a number of auto drivers last evening on the Verdugo road. The freak rain washed a quantity of heavy, sticky mud on the highway, with the result that at least a dozen cars were mired, half of them being deserted and left there for the night.

The mud-covered highway was deceptive; it looked all right. When motorists were warned not to cross the muddy spot they laughed and came right back.

"April fool!" But it was no joke. Some cars escaped, others were imprisoned. And what the drivers said is true. The freak rain certainly moved real estate in that particular section on the Verdugo road last night.

Downfall Varies In Cities of Southland

LOS ANGELES, April 2.—After showering southern California during the night and early morning, a rainstorm that varied greatly in intensity in different localities was reported by the weather man to be well on its way east today.

The unexpected storm gave a fall of rain varying from .34 of an inch here to 1.06 inches in San Bernardino and a heavy snow in the mountains. Imperial valley was ignored by the rain.

Hatfield to Collect $8000 From Ranchers

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—Clearing weather today followed the passing of the storm which brought rain to practically all of California yesterday and last night. As a result of another heavy downpour in the San Joaquin valley all doubt was swept aside as to the collection by Rainmaker Charles M. Hatfield of the $8,000 posted by farmers of Kings and Fresno counties providing two inches of rain fell during the life of his contract.

The rain in that section, in addition to providing feed for the cattle, moisture for the orchardists, will insure a $4,000,000 wheat crop.

New York's Mantle of Snow Being Dissipated

NEW YORK, April 2.—A warm sun and rising temperature today dissipated much of the heavy fall of snow which came with yesterday's freak April storm. The storm itself was passing out to sea. It was responsible for an elevated train crash, in which a fireman was killed and thirteen others injured in Long Island City.

Five inches of snow fell in New York city between 3 p. m. and midnight—April's deepest snow since 1885. Traffic was badly delayed.

Rain Makers Win $8000 Pledged by Coalinga Ranchers

Charles and Paul Hatfield, noted rainmakers, and residents of Glendale, have succeeded in wooing the requisite two inches of moisture from the clouds above Coalinga and have won the $8000 deposited by ranchers of that section, according to word received by Mrs. Irma Nelson of the Glendale Music company, 109 North Brand boulevard, where the brothers are employed. Pictures of the Hatfield camp in the mountains west of Coalinga, taken by Mrs. Nelson and Misses Elsie Degner and Marie Maier on their visit to the rainmaking headquarters on Sunday, may now be seen at the Glendale Music company.

SENATOR IN DANGER OF INJURY

Train Comes to Halt at Railroad Crossing as Car Hits Gates

MOUNT CLEMONS, Mich., April 2.—Senator Hiram Johnson and four others touring the state with him, narrowly escaped injury this afternoon when their automobile skidded into lowered gates at a railroad crossing near here.

Others in the car were Attorney E. J. Hayes, Detroit, campaign manager; Ray Burr, secretary to the senator, a newspaperman and the driver.

The car came to a halt but a few feet from the engine, which was brought to a stop when the engineer saw the automobile was going through the gates.

MODERATE SPEED, IS POLICE ORDER

Bay City Taxicab Drivers to Curb Racing Habits or Face Penalty

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—Taxicab drivers will be expected to set the example to automobile drivers in San Francisco by driving carefully and at reasonable speed.

Chief of Police Daniel O'Brien called all of the taxicab company executives into conference and secured their pledge to instruct all drivers to moderate their speed. Chief O'Brien said the taxi drivers would be watched carefully, as he believed that by curbing them the public generally would quickly realize that the police mean business in their campaign to curb speeding.

Citizens co-operated with police by seizing a driver of a machine which collided with another and holding him until the police arrived, in furthering the police drive against drunken drivers, "hit and run" motorists and speed maniacs.

Radio to Sound Call For Planting Trees

NEW YORK, April 2.—Radio tomorrow will sound the call to action for tree-planting legions throughout the country. The occasion is the anniversary of the birth of John Burroughs, the naturalist, and the American Tree association will observe the day by planting trees. Charles Lathrop Pack of Washington, president of the association, will send the call to action through station WJZ.

Seventy thousand members registered last year in the association by planting trees, Pack said, and he expects to break that record tomorrow.

PARTY WILL EXPLORE CAVERN

Colossal Cave In Arizona Will Yield Secrets to Noted Historian

TUCSON, Ariz., April 2.—With instructions that a searching party be sent for them in event they do not return in five days, Professor H. A. Hubbard, retired historian of Chicago university and the University of Arizona, and Harry Enos, Harry Herman and Frank Smid, guides, were ready here today to leave for a trip through unexplored Colossal cave near here.

Many attempts have been made to explore the cave, beautified with stalagmite and stalactite and said to be larger than the famous Mammoth cave, Kentucky, and many persons are reported to have become lost in its vast labyrinthian passages, several failing to return from the cavernous depths.

Walked 27 Miles Last July Enos and Herman walked twenty-seven miles in the cave but could not reach its end. The explorers will take with them food, blankets, carbide lights and dynamite, to be used to penetrate obstructions.

Professor Hubbard said he had high hopes of successfully charting the chambers and returning safely in five days' time.

BLIZZARD HALTS RELIEF WORKERS

Potomac River Flood Region Blanketed With Snow; Suffering Intense

CUMBERLAND, Md., April 2.—Suffering in the section devastated by recent rising of the Potomac river, is said to be intense today, following a raging blizzard which by last night had blanketed the ground with nearly a foot of snow. Relief work in the flood-stricken valley was practically brought to a standstill today and the meager reports from the inundated towns indicated that the victims of the flood were suffering intensely from the bitter cold which accompanied the blizzard, one of the worst on record for the month of April.

LATEST NEWS

SEEK TESTIMONY OF ARIZONA GOVERNOR

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Governor Hunt of Arizona was requested today for the second time by the House irrigation committee to testify on the Colorado river development and construction of Boulder dam. The governor declined an earlier invitation, on the grounds of "pressing business." Congressman Raker, Democrat, California, insisted the committee should compel Governor Hunt to appear. "He has made serious charges against government officials and others in connection with this matter," said Raker, "and we should have him here to tell upon what he based those charges."

The bandits overlooked more than $150,000 in the payroll automobile. The suspects were captured in a house in the west end of Montreal. Three bank messengers who survived the battle will make an effort to identify them later today. Other detectives were on the trail of four more suspects.

FIRST VOTE WILL NAME CANDIDATE

Over 300 Delegates Pledged To Coolidge; Work on Platform Started

By GEO. R. HOLMES For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—President Coolidge's friends and campaign advisers regard it as such a mortal cinch he will be nominated on the first ballot at Cleveland in June that they have already begun concentrating upon such side issues as the platform, the convention organization and similar details, it was learned today.

The president has already in excess of three hundred delegates pledged or instructed for him at Cleveland, and his managers declare that by the end of this month he will have a sufficient number of delegates "sewed up" to insure his choice on the first ballot. Five hundred and fifty-five delegates constitute a majority.

Preparing Platform Ralph E. Williams, vice-chairman of the Republican national committee and chairman of the sub-committee that was appointed here in December to draft a tentative program, has just returned to the capital from a trip through the country, in which he has sought and received a multitude of platform ideas. He has reported to President Coolidge. It is not improbable that the Republican platform for 1924 will be the shortest and most concise document ever laid before a national convention.

President Coolidge's penchant for terse expression and brevity in official papers is well known, and many of his advisers agree with him that this year's platform should contain as few words as possible.

Second Victim Slain In Election Warfare

CICERO, Ill., April 2.—One man was shot and killed and another was slugged in a fresh outbreak of violence here today.

They are already one day behind their flying schedule, and according to the program worked out for them they should be in Cordova tomorrow evening and by Saturday were expected to reach Chignik on the Alaska peninsula, 2,010 miles from Seattle.

There is still a bare possibility they will be ready to hop off tomorrow morning, Major Frederick L. Martin, flight commander said, though the chances are exceedingly remote.

NOTED LEGAL AUTHORITY TO ENTER CABINET

Dean of Columbia Law School Agrees to Take Place in Cabinet

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Harlan Fiske Stone of New York, dean of Columbia university law school, and one of the most widely known legal authorities in the east, was named attorney general by President Coolidge today to succeed Harry M. Daugherty, who resigned last Friday.

Dean Stone came to Washington today and was the president's guest at a White House breakfast. After a conference with the president he was offered the post and accepted it. The nomination was sent to the Senate this afternoon.

Coolidge College Mate Stone will immediately resign from his various legal connections in New York and take over the department of justice as soon as he is confirmed by the Senate. He has already resigned his deanship of the law school, although he was to have continued service until next June. He has been a member of the law firm of Satterlee, Canfield and Stone for some years, with an office at 49 Wall street, New York.

Dean Stone was a college mate of President Coolidge. He graduated from Amherst college in 1894, the president a year later. Like the president, he is a New Englander, having been born in New Hampshire in 1872, the same year that the president was born in the neighboring state of Vermont.

Becomes Professor Following his graduation, Stone went to New York, where he was admitted to the bar in 1898, and almost immediately he became a lecturer and later a professor in Columbia law school, at the same time entering a partnership with the firm, of which he is still a member. In 1910 he became dean. As a member of the firm of

Alleged Failure to Press Suit Against Airplane Company Charged

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Another cabinet officer was dragged into the spotlight of the Daugherty investigation when Captain H. L. Scaife, former agent of the department of justice, charged before the Wheeler-Brookhart committee that Secretary of War John Weeks and former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty should be indicted for conspiracy to obstruct justice because of the failure of the government to prosecute a war fraud case against the Wright-Martin Airplane company.

Scaife declared Charles Hayden, president of the Wright-Martin company, and Guy D. Goff, former assistant attorney-general, were "equally guilty" and should be indicted. He charged that these four were in a "conspiracy to give out false statements about the Wright-Martin company in direct violation of federal statutes."

Scaife also renewed his charges of fraud in the sale of the Bosch Magneto company to Martin E. Kern, an alleged German agent.

HARLAN STONE TO BE JUSTICE CHIEF
Satterlee, Canfield and Stone, the new attorney-general has been legal representative of many great corporations, and this fact was one of the arguments used against his appointment while the president was considering Daugherty's successor.

Squaws' Visit to City Ends In Near Tragedy
SALT LAKE CITY, April 2.—Minnie, a greatly excited, much bedaubed, heavily shawled, pleasingly plump Indian squaw, paced up and down the corridor of the emergency hospital, completely upset by the sudden turn her annual shopping tour had taken. In one of the rooms of the hospital her companion, Amy, a withered-up little squaw of some 90 years, lay in great pain as the result of the upset.

Agrees to Take Place of Attorney General; College Mate of Coolidge
White House Secret
The arrival of Dean Stone in Washington and his appointment was carefully guarded by the White House. Few knew of his presence here until he was introduced to a number of Republican senators at the White House last night. The senators had been summoned to the White House for a discussion of the legislative program and Dean Stone was an interested listener at the discussion between the president and the Senate leaders. He took no part in it, according to those present, and the president did not announce his appointment.

Lift Ban On Saddle Horses In L. A. County
The embargo on saddle horses in Los Angeles county has been lifted, according to word from the quarantine section of the department of agriculture offices at Los Angeles. When the quarantine was placed on the county on account of the hoof and mouth disease, it included saddle horses, but department of agriculture agents find that saddle horses are better cared for than any other class of horses in southern California. Persons owning saddle horses can now use their own private highways of the county, according to the decision.

Canadians' Pleas for Divorce Set Record
OTTAWA, April 2.—The divorce crop this year is going to be heavy. So far there are 142 applications and they are still coming in at such a rate as to suggest all records being broken. The operation of divorce courts in all the provinces, except Ontario and Quebec, accounts for the peculiar centralization of the cases in these two provinces.

Civic Income Tax Being Fought In Regina, Sask.
REGINA, April 2.—Following a seizure by the bailiff, acting under a distress warrant issued by the city, E. E. Chant has issued a writ against the city of Regina. The action is the first legal shot in the campaign which has been carried on against the 1923 assessment for civic income tax.

L. S. Maddock Plans To Make Home Here
L. S. Maddock, factory representative of the Duplex Printing Press Company of Battle Creek, Mich., who supervised the installation of a 24-page tubular Duplex stereotyping printing press in the Glendale Evening News building, left today for the east, being called by business at his home office in Detroit. So far there are 126, as compared with thirteen from Quebec, two from Manitoba and one from British Columbia. Statutory grounds of adultery and desertion are alleged in all but one case. The scale is about balanced as between wives and husbands; 70 men accuse their better halves of going wrong, while 72 wives blame the domestic disaster upon the husbands.

TRAVELERS HERE NUMEROUS, SAYS GLENDALE AGENT

J. M. Powers Tells About
 Exceptional Business in Supplying Tickets

Glendale people are surprising travelers, declares J. M. Powers, Glendale agent for the Santa Fe Railroad Company and for the Atlas Steamship Company, with offices at 119 East Broadway.

"The fastest growing city in America bids fair to become the fastest traveling city as well," says Mr. Powers. "When I came here from Hollywood December 1 I expected to do a very moderate business for the first few months. Instead, I have done a land office business. Last month, in railroad tickets, I did over five times as much business as the officials of the line had anticipated.

"And in steamship tickets, I am booking passages to Europe, the Orient, South America, Alaska and to practically every part of the world. It is surprising how many people go to New York via the Panama Canal, doubly surprising how many tourists come to Glendale via the canal.

Teachers to Tour
 "Many Glendale school teachers will tour Europe this summer. This seems to be a popular sort of post-graduate course. Others will go east, south, north. And we are expecting the greatest influx of tourists to Southern California this summer that has ever been seen."

The list of those contemplating trips and voyages from the office of Mr. Powers looks like a veritable "Who's Who of Glendale," with doctors, lawyers, realtors, writers, bankers and many other classes of business and professional people listed.

"Next to the number of tourists coming into Glendale this summer," says Mr. Powers, "will be the number of Glendadians setting forth to see the world."

SHEEP IN QUARANTINE

Further shipments will be embargoed because of passage by the supervisors of an ordinance prohibiting the importation of live stock of any kind during the hoof and mouth epidemics.

JUSTICE GOES TO JAIL

DENVER, April 2.—Stern justice was meted out here yesterday when Police Justice John Berback appeared before Police Justice W. H. Murray, charged with violating the prohibition law. When Berback pleaded guilty to having intoxicated liquor in his possession, his brother justice sentenced him to forty days in jail.

Glendale Should Take Advantage Of Campaign To Advertise Southland

Big business men who know that corporations grow in proportion as they are advertised are now learning that municipalities are as much corporations as any other form of enterprise chartered under the law "as having a legal individuality or entity other than that of a natural person."

A group of these business men have banded together and will spend within the next three months, approximately $200,000 in advertising Southern California nationally. In this they are animated by the same economic necessity that forces them to advertise their own particular products, in order to survive modern competition.

While the impetus of this tremendous advertising campaign is fresh in the minds of eastern people, Glendale should jump in and, by a carefully planned and expertly conducted campaign of its own, sell to the eastern market its particular, unrivaled line of goods—climate, location, schools, churches, commerce, industry, health, beauty happiness and a dozen other products that have combined to make this "the fastest growing city in America."

While Southern California is being offered to easterners, Glendale should be shown to them in its true light, as the most desirable community in the whole Southwest, for a dozen reasons. It is not enough to sit by while Southern California as a whole advertises this section, content to take the normal percentage of influx that would come to Glendale. Such a passive attitude will not long keep this city at the forefront of the march of progress.

Other cities have reached a certain growth—and stopped. Why? They became satisfied, or lazy, or both. If a population of 50,000 is enough for Glendale, then let's stop, call it a day, and rusticate. But if we are not satisfied, and if we are not lazy, and if a population of 100,000 then 150,000, then 200,000, is what we men and women of Glendale want—then by golly, let's go get it! And let's "say it with dollars," in eastern papers!

TELLS DANGER OF SOVIET REPUBLIC IN THIS COUNTRY

Speaker Warns Club Woman of Socialistic Campaign
 in United States

In an effort to defeat Socialists who declare in their publications that they pledge themselves "to aid in the effort to establish a Socialistic Soviet Republic in the United States," Miss Hermine Schwed, field secretary for the National Association for Constitutional Government, told Tuesday Afternoon Club women and guests yesterday that she was going around "rooting" for the constitution.

Miss Schwed has been lecturing in California under the auspices of the Better America Federation, and told Glendale club women yesterday that in her travels about California the Tuesday Afternoon Club is the first club she has visited that has a special department for the study of the constitution. Seated by her at the table was the curator of this department, Miss Ida D. Myers.

"Socialism is simply Bolshevism with a clean shave and hair cut," declared Miss Schwed as she gave a stirring message before the club company.

No Morality, Claim
 "The Socialistic religion is no religion, no morality, no family life and no patriotism," was another of her startling statements. She also declared, "When you change human nature you will have a perfect government."

Her conclusion was that "The constitution of the United States is not a debatable question." She commended the "Better America Federation and plead with the club women to join in fighting a great battle of patriotism that would extinguish the great conflagration of socialism, she stated is threatening the United States.

CANDIDATES FOR CLUB OFFICIALS ARE ANNOUNCED

Members Make Nominations and Ballots Will Be Cast April 22

In the pre-convention bustle at the Tuesday Afternoon club the annual election Tuesday, April 22 is not approaching unnoticed and following the formal announcement at the club meeting yesterday afternoon of the official ballot the coming weeks promise to be tense ones in club activities.

Mrs. Lillian Dow, chairman of the election board, read the names of all those who received ten or more votes in the election last week, and following this the names of those who accepted the nomination. The ballot as outlined by Mrs. Dow will be:

President—
 Mrs. W. E. Evans.
First vice-president—
 Mrs. A. H. Montgomery.
Mrs. A. J. Ferguson.
Mrs. C. G. Putnam.
Mrs. Warren Roberts.
Mrs. John Robert White, Jr.
Second vice-president—
 Mrs. Homer Lockwood.
Mrs. E. S. McKee.
Recording secretary—
 Mrs. C. O. Kling.
Corresponding secretary—
 Mrs. Harry Lockwood.
Mrs. H. C. Wilcox.
Treasurer—
 Mrs. A. R. Chappell.
Mrs. H. C. Vandewater.

Directors—
 Mrs. Roy A. Ballagh.
 Mrs. C. A. Brandstater.
 Mrs. E. W. Gilliland.
 Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker.
 Mrs. S. C. Packer.
 Mrs. Dow further announced that of the 641 ballots mailed to club members only 260 were returned.

Reduce Club Debt
 Of equal interest to the club gathering was the announcement by Mrs. Daniel Campbell, club president, that $5000 of the $50,000 debt to L. C. Brand is to be paid, reducing the principal to $45,000 and the interest $75 each quarter.

During the afternoon meeting there were announcements by Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, chairman of ways and means, and Mrs. W. E. Evans, federation secretary.

Mrs. Montgomery told of receiving a check for $10 from the Southern California Gas company in recognition of the splendid banquet enjoyed recently at the clubhouse.

Mrs. Evans spoke of urging all unfederated clubs in Glendale to seriously consider joining the state federation as a part of the Los Angeles district.

Newspaper Woman Speaks
 Myra Nye, well known Los Angeles newspaper woman and writer of prose and poetry, who was a guest at the club luncheon, was the speaker of the afternoon. Although she acknowledged Mrs. Campbell's charming introduction by declaring that being a news writer and public speaker are incompatible, she proved herself a delightful exception to her own rule.

"The Press Periscope Above the Federation Sea" was her subject and she brought to the club women an inspirational message on the quest of charm in club work—original poetry, personal experiences, quotations and philosophies were delightfully given by Mrs. Nye, who as outstanding club editor of the southland knows club women and their affairs better than any one else.

Later Ethel Elliot Swan, talented reader, gave a recital of Booth Tarkington's four act play "Mister Antonio." To those who had never seen the play, and to those who had seen Otis Skinner's clever portrayal of "Mister Antonio," Mrs. Swan's presentation was cleverly done and a real dramatic accomplishment.

During his talk he will tell of the influence of Inca art on modern art and architecture.

Local Girl In Screen Debut

VIOLA YORBA, popular Glendale girl who makes her screen debut in "Yankee Speed," written and directed by Robert North Bradbury of Glendale and offered for its world premiere at the Glendale Theatre Thursday night, April 3.

The screen debut of a Glendale concert singer and actress, in a photoplay written and directed by Robert North Bradbury of Glendale, is the extraordinary premiere feature offered patrons of the Glendale Theatre on Thursday night, April 3, through the special courtesy extended to Manager William A. Howe by Anthony J. Xydias, president of Sunset Productions, the company that made the picture, which is called "Yankee Speed."

Miss Yorba is a direct descendant of one of the old Spanish families that had much to do with early Californian history and is a splendid type of truly Castilian beauty.

Spanish in Type
 In "Yankee Speed," she appears in support of Kenneth MacDonald, in a part that is distinctly Spanish in type and exactly fits her charming personality.

As a special feature, Manager Howe announces that Viola Yorba will appear in person at both afternoon and evening performances, and offer a program of appropriate vocal selections.

The story of "Yankee Speed" is taken from "Mystery Castle," by Robert North Bradbury, and which he adapted and directed himself. The cast includes, besides Miss Yorba and Mr. MacDonald, Virginia Ainsworth, Richard Lewis, Milton Farney, John Henry and Jay Hunt.

TELLS KINDNESS OF LINCOLN IN CIVIL WAR DAYS

Mrs. Margaret M. Gale Tells Personal Reminiscences
 Of Emancipator

By KATHERINE V. SINKS
 Of The Evening News Staff.

One time Abraham Lincoln stooped and lifted a cunning little miss across a muddy gutter, as she and her father were walking from the treasury building to the capitol in Washington, D. C., and today that same little miss, now Mrs. Margaret M. Gale of 122 North Cedar street, entertained members of the General Richard Gridley chapter, D. A. R., meeting at the Congregational church, with interesting sketches of the Civil War days in Washington.

"Abraham Lincoln wasn't a handsome man," said Mrs. Gale, "but I remember as he leaned down to pick me up on that rainy day I looked into his eyes, which were kind and very beautiful, just the kind of eyes that children trust."

During the Lincoln presidential campaign, Mrs. Gale's father, Robert Hunter Morris, was editor of a Chicago newspaper, and in this way the two men became fast friends. Later when Lincoln became president, Mr. Morris became confidential secretary to Secretary of State Seward and he took his family to reside in Washington.

Shows Souvenir
 Of this residence in Washington, Mrs. Gale has one souvenir that is of real historic value and interest, and yesterday the Glendale Daughters of the American Revolution were fascinated to hear her tell its history and connection with her late mother, Mrs. Martha Wright Morris.

Showing the D. A. R. members and guests two beautiful pieces of mother of pearl, one beautifully carved with a Roman scene, Mrs. Gale related the following sketch, touching on one of the greatest periods in American history.

It was one afternoon in 1862 in Washington that Mrs. Morris and a friend paid several social calls on wives of cabinet officers and other national dignitaries and late in the afternoon the friend asked Mrs. Morris to accompany her to visit a friend of hers, a Mrs. Greenhow.

They were graciously received by Mrs. Greenhow and during the social chat Richmond, Va., was mentioned and Mrs. Greenhow said she was leaving shortly for that city.

SOLVE PROBLEM FOR EFFICIENCY OF HOUSEWIVES

Latest Type of Range on Display; Recalls Long, Hard Experiments

The problem of cooking efficiency, as old as the art or science of cooking itself, has occupied, not only the thousands of wives and mothers through the ages, but, in more recent years, the attention of professional domestic science experts and so-called "cooking engineers."

The long series of experiments and the many different phases of the problem are recalled by the latest type of gas range, which "cooks with the gas turned off."

This range, known as the Chambers Fireless Gas Range, is now on display at the Pasadena Furniture Company.

One who has made an extensive study of the progress of cooking efficiency has this to say on the subject:

"We are all so used to accustomed ways of doing things that often we fail to realize the gross inefficiency and waste in many of our methods. Perhaps the most outstanding example of this is cooking.

"Cooking probably entails more different kinds of waste today than any other civilized activity performed in the whole civilized world by either man or woman.

Waste of Effort

"First of all is the waste of effort. Cooking means drudgery to thousands of women bending over ranges, 'pot-watching,' 'basting'—tied to the dinner-rurn."

"It means the use of hours every day that are needed for other things—for sewing, for reading, for entertaining guests, for calling, for shopping, for cleaning, for attention to the children, for the thousand-and-one things that demand a woman's time. If she leaves her kitchen while dinner is cooking with the gas turned on, she worries about danger and the possibility of burned or dried-up dishes, especially if she should return later than she expected.

"By any method hitherto employed, cooking has involved a tremendous waste of fuel—a costly waste in the case of the average family. Only a small proportion of the heat generated by the ordinary gas range is actually used in the cooking. The rest passes away as waste—worse than waste, for it spends itself in overheating the kitchen to temperatures at least ten degrees higher than the rest of the house.

Waste of Food and Flavor

"Shrinkage of food is another costly item. Careful tests prove that the average dish cooked in customary ways will lose from 10 to 40 per cent of its substance during the cooking process. And the same is true of the rich juices and delicious flavors which pass off as steam or vapor and only smell up the house.

"Domestic science experts long since evolved the convenient kitchen, with kitchen cabinets and better general arrangements. But their efforts to improve cooking methods have passed through many stages. After the old coal stove came the gas range, with shortcomings that were bound to be realized.

"Then came a big step forward—the fireless cooker, but this cluttered up the kitchen with one extra space-taking device and had other disadvantages. Next came the effort for automatic control by harnessing thermostatic principles. But it kept on burning gas and its slight saving could be applied only to the oven, where but a small part of the cooking is done.

Cuts Bills in Half

"But an efficient solution has been found at last in the Chambers Fireless Gas Range. It cuts gas bills in half, saves more than two-thirds of the time and effort devoted to cooking, and keeps all the rich juices and delicious flavors in the food."

"The principle on which the Chambers range operates is that of retained heat. But the so-called Thermode, under which boiling and stewing are done, and the specially insulated Chambers oven, for roasting and baking, are so constructed that they seal the heat for hours. Just a few minutes' gas is required, then the housewife can go away while the food cooks with the gas turned off."

Chambers gas range costs very little more than the ordinary gas range of the same size and style.

Bare Bootleggers or Locked Up, Says Court

MASSENA, N. Y., April 2.—"Tell where you bought your jag or spend sixty days in jail."

Such was the ultimatum issued to Massena toppers brought into police court before Justice of the Peace Giles N. Chase.

The new policy went into effect when Isaac Perry, with several previous intoxication convictions to his record, announced he could not remember a single place in which he had bought liquor. He was sentenced to sixty days in jail, but a short term of imprisonment refreshed his memory and he divulged the source of his liquor supply.

EARNINGS OF TEACHERS

PREDICTS HEAVY PROFITS TO COME ON SOUTH BRAND

W. T. Burton Asserts Wise Investments Will Return Handsome Amounts

"Just how easy is it to make money?" asks W. T. Burton, of the Burton Realty company, 110 Broadway. "People are inclined to say, when a man is successful: 'Oh, that fellow made his money easy. He couldn't help making it. Money just came to him.' And so forth! You've all heard that line of talk.

"But, actually, getting right down to bed rock, just how easy is it to make money? One thing is sure, it is not hard physical toil that makes men rich, although it may keep them well fed. What makes men rich is good judgment, plus a little capital.

Boosts South Brand

"This is particularly true with South Brand boulevard property right now. Never before in the history of Glendale was there an opportunity like this. People aren't buying blind, true. That is what makes South Brand real estate so good. With property of marvelous value cut right to the bone, opportunities exist on every hand for men of real judgment to come in and double and treble their money in a surprisingly short time.

"Don't be fooled. You can't always double your money in Glendale real estate. But you can do it by acting quick, on South Brand property.

Predicts Big Things

"By next fall, at the latest, there will be one of the most sensational booms along this boulevard Southern California has ever seen. The boom may come sooner. Already there are indications that it may burst out at any time we are looking at it. These things happen, and fool even the shrewdest.

"The thing to do is to buy now. One thing is certain, prices will never be lower. In six months they may be double, in a year they may be triple present values, but all reality men know that they are now at the bottom.

"If buying property that is sure to double and treble is 'making money easy,' then that answers the question."

GUNMEN SPREAD REIGN OF TERROR

Raid Polling Booths, Shoot Election Workers in Political Fight

CHICAGO, April 2.—Eighteen gunmen, traveling in four automobiles, invaded a polling station in a village election was being held, raided polling places, shot two election workers, drove voters from the polls and spread terror in their wake through the western Chicago suburb.

Reserve squads of police from Chicago, deputy sheriff's night-duty patrolmen were rushed to Cicero to battle with the gunmen and preserve order.

Village Politics

The outbreak today follows numerous pre-election disorders, when several election canvassers were slugged and Rudolph J. Hurt, Democratic candidate for president of the village board, was driven from his headquarters with bullets whistling at his heels by a mob who raided it. The intrusion of a new political faction into the election in an effort to break up the village machine is believed responsible for the disorders.

The victims were Roman A. Deleostowicz, a Democratic precinct captain, and an unidentified election clerk. Neither was seriously hurt.

Polling places were shot up, however, and ballots strewn over the streets and floors.

CHANGE IN PLEDGE MADE

On Washington's Birthday, teachers all over the country are urged by the American Legion to point out to their pupils a change that has been made in the wording of the pledge to the flag. The change, which involves only a few words, was made by the National Flag conference, held at Washington on flag day of 1923. In the new version, which has been adopted as official by more than 144 national organizations, the words "my flag" are replaced by the words "the flag of the United States." The revised version of the pledge is: "I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States and the Republic for which it stands, one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

CONSOLIDATED SCHOOLS

In accordance with a law requiring standardization of one-room and consolidated schools, West Virginia's state board of education has defined two classes of consolidated schools, "purely consolidated" and "semi-consolidated." Under these definitions a purely consolidated school is one formed by the centralizing of two or more schools in different communities so that the newly-formed school has an increased number of teachers, each responsible for fewer grades than before. If the number of teachers is not increased, the centralized school is known as semi-consolidated.

FRUITS, FLOWERS TO BE PRESENTED BY EX-VETERANS

California Hut to Make Up 2000 Baskets for Federation Meeting

Wonderful California fruits and flowers, bringing California sunshine to American club women meeting in June in Los Angeles for the biennial of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, will be presented in 2,000 baskets made by disabled veterans at the California Hut in Los Angeles.

This news was brought to Tuesday afternoon club members and their guests yesterday by Mrs. M. W. Wellington, manager of the Hut, who was a luncheon guest and speaker at the club.

"The disabled veterans don't want sympathy—that they want is a chance to come back by doing Mrs. Wellington. "We organized the Hut to help the hospitals and it may well be called the clearing house for all hospitals, where disabled veterans are learning occupational therapy.

Orders for Work

"All over the United States disabled veterans think, 'If only I could get to California all would be well,' but it is not always well. What we endeavor to do is to help these men to earn livings by doing what is acceptable to the public."

Her plea was not for financial assistance, but for help in the way of placing orders for work at the Hut.

She stated that the overhead expenses are cared for, due to the tireless efforts of Mrs. Boyle Workman, president. The Chamber of Commerce pays the rent; the board of education, the two teachers; the board of supervisors, the manager, and the gas and electric companies, the gas and electricity.

Therefore, the only need left is to secure enough work to keep the men busy. "We lay stress on acceptable work," said Mrs. Wellington, "so no man is working with the idea that anything will go."

Expansion Plans

Recently, plans for expansion of the Hut were completed and materials and work donated. This will provide six additional rooms, where weaving, metal work, basketry and wax work will be done. Each room is to be called a hut, and a special kind of work done in each hut.

In concluding Mrs. Wellington invited Glendale club women to visit the hut and see the perfect work turned out by the men. This work, she stated, is most desirable and offered at reasonable prices.

YOUNG MEN TRAINED

To train Belgian young men for service in the Congo as physicians, technical men, and administrative officers, a "Colonial university" has been established at Antwerp by the Belgian government. This university has been developed through the successful work of a high school of commerce, which was founded two years ago by the government with the assistance of the Commission for Relief in Belgium and the city of Antwerp, to train boys for colonial service. This school was converted into a university last November and it is now known as "Universite Coloniale." It has three schools devoted respectively to political and administrative science, tropical medicine, and natural sciences.—School Life.

Hard Luck Awaits All Paying Their Tax by Bad Check

Two hundred and forty-three taxpayers who met the first installment of their income taxes for 1923 with "bad" checks were notified yesterday by Collector of Internal Revenue Rex B. Goodcell that their checks had been returned marked "insufficient funds," and that prompt steps must be taken to cover the amounts due before maximum penalties were imposed.

Under the law, the amounts called for by the returned checks will be charged against the taxpayers' accounts and they will be notified that they must take up the checks. If they fail to do this, distraint warrants will be issued and served on any property the delinquent taxpayer may possess. Penalties will be added and the taxpayer automatically loses the right to pay his tax on the quarterly payment plan and the full amount immediately becomes due.

Collector Goodcell said that more than 150,000 taxpayers omitted from their income taxes up to March 15 by check, and that all of these checks were good excepting the 243 which were returned by the banks on which they were drawn. The bad checks total $24,620.25, out of income receipts of $14,298,888.97. The returned checks ran from 24 cents up to $386.85.

HEAD OF REVOLT SEEKS FREEDOM

Accepts Chairmanship of Independence Mission for Philippines

MANILA, April 2.—Emiliano Aguinaldo, famous Filipino revolutionary leader, has accepted the honorary chairmanship of the Philippine Independence Mission, provided the mission remains in the United States permanently until independence is obtained or the impossibility of obtaining it becomes apparent. He also stated it would be impossible for him to leave for the United States until August or September.

Governor-General Wood received a letter from the president of Bulacan province, near Manila, stating that a number of municipal officials are organizing the old Katipunan society, with the object of staging a revolution if independence is not granted. The constabulary was ordered to investigate the report.

EAGLE ROCK CANADIAN ADOPTS U. S. AS HOMELAND

Buy Home, Gets Papers as American Citizen All in One Week

James McCoubrey of Calgary, Alberta, Canada, has not only adopted Eagle Rock as his home town but also the United States as his homeland, having bought a house on Glen Iris avenue and taken out naturalization papers, all in one week, which is considered something of a record for this locality.

Mr. McCoubrey came to Eagle Rock on business but stayed to buy and settle. He plans to send for his sister, Mrs. E. Henderson, and her son and daughter. Thus, four residents are to be added to the population by the beauties of the scenery hereabout, which is the reason attributed by Mr. McCoubrey for his choice of this title flower garden of Southern California.

Mrs. William F. Hansen, 2720 North Rock Glen avenue, last night entertained Masons, Eastern Stars and their friends at an "April Fool" card party. There was a silver offering, part of the money going into charitable work.

Here and There
The Eagle Rock Community Players effected a reorganization Monday night, March 31, at the Elgie Lowry Fischer school, 5053 Glen Iris avenue.

Thirteen junior girls passed their cooking test at the picnic last Saturday at Sycamore Grove. In the afternoon they visited the museum.

Miss Amber Young, 900 Rock Glen avenue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Young, has had as her guest for a week Miss Loraine Usher, of Santa Monica, a sister student and member of the Beta Phi Nu sorority.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Moore and son, Chark Moore, of Salinas, are staying at the Rublee house during the Rublees' absence in Honolulu.

Dr. and Mrs. N. B. Ackley, of Lockhaven avenue, had been entertaining Luther Wither, of Portland, Mrs. Ackley's brother, who is spending the winter in this section.

Mrs. E. Richardson, of Sierra Villa drive, will shortly visit relatives in the east.

Included in the events that followed the planting were the reading of papers on the missions, San Jose and Santa Cruz, and a piano solo by Miss Hazel Pester, one of the teachers. The next regular meeting of the club will be held April 8.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams recently entertained with a dinner at their Sunland home in honor of Miss Juliette Caron and Bruce Anawalt, who attended them at their wedding a few weeks ago.

This masterpiece of footwear architecture was awarded the bronze medalion by the style committee.

Others and Their Opinions Building Up Industry How Times Have Changed California Writers Read

By Gil A. Cowan

Opinions of others sometimes are more valued by newspaper readers than those of our own on certain subjects. Therefore, we have selected several editorial expressions from Southern California newspapers for your consideration today.

The Pasadena Star-News urges the building up of industries in this country. It says: "Zealous movement in Los Angeles definitely to encourage the establishment of new industries in and about that city has significance for the whole county. It is proposed to raise a huge fund to assist in financing industrial establishments and to foster industry in general by business-like investments of home capital therein."

"This is the acme of economic wisdom. Los Angeles should have payrolls for its ever-increasing population. Other cities contiguous to Los Angeles would benefit materially from this development. For many living here and elsewhere would find employment in the new industries and many employed in the industries in and about Los Angeles would come here to live. Payrolls and vast expenditures for raw material would give this county the economic equilibrium that is needed in a fast-growing community. This city welcomes the vigorous undertaking of Los Angeles. It foresees continued development and notable prosperity in and for this vicinity."

"There should be no local narrowness in this. There is room for all the industrial growth that can be accommodated. No one city or locality could monopolize these things, if it would. It is true that localities are much more favorably situated and conditioned for industrial development than others. But there is mutual opportunity for all. The growth of Los Angeles as a great metropolitan center is advantageous to all cities adjacent to it. And the development and thriving of cities in close proximity to Los Angeles is to the material advantage of that big center."

The Santa Ana Register editor comments on how "Times Have Changed" in the following bit of philosophy and advice:

"A group of elderly people—some of them not so very elderly at that—were discussing some rather shaly escapades of the young folks.

"Oh, well," said one, "times have changed. Nobody but a fool or fossil expect young folks—or old folks, either, for that matter—to live like they did forty or fifty years ago. But many and radical as have been the changes affecting the various institutions of civilization, noting has happened in 4000 years to change the validity and wholesomeness of the command to obey and honor parents. And, to place the shoe on the other foot, there is nothing in educational life to take the place of parental interest and protection."

"Young people away from home can always get the white lights on moral conduct by asking themselves, 'What would my parents advise me to do?'

"Father and mother are not infallible, but their love and experience make them safe counselors in matters of morals and of health."

"Our Writers Lead" declares the Stockton Independent, in pointing with pride to California's achievement in the way of authors whose work stands out from the rest.

"California writers of fiction are being accorded widespread recognition by the great American reading public.

"In the last Bookman, which gives a list of ten books of fiction for which there has been the greatest demand, the work of five California writers are listed among these best sellers.

"Heading the list is Gertrude Atherton's 'Black Oxen,' Charles G. Norris' 'Bread' has second place of honor, while Peter B. Kyne's 'Never the Twain Shall Meet' occupies third place in popularity. Gene Stratton Porter's 'White Flag' is sixth choice and Harold Bell Wright's 'The Mine With the Iron Door' is allotted ninth place.

"Rather fine representation for one state, isn't it?"

Occidental Glee Club Start Tour on Monday

The Occidental College Men's Glee club is leaving next Monday morning April 7, for its annual two weeks' concert tour. The men will travel in machines, and are going up the valley route to San Francisco, and back by the coast route. Seventeen performances have been arranged.

Twenty singers, an accompanist and an entertainer will make the trip up the San Joaquin valley, stopping a few days in and around San Francisco, Berkeley, Palo Alto and other places of interest.

Manager Robert Taylor has been working several months, completing the bookings for the tour. This is the first time that the club has undertaken such an extensive trip, with so many engagements. Carl Lindquist, president of the Glee club, and Bob Taylor have just returned from a business trip in the north, scheduling concerts.

Yernon C. Robinson of South Pasadena, who is the regular accompanist of the club, will not be able to make the trip. He is just recovering from a serious operation. A new pianist is to be engaged and the glee club will proceed as scheduled.

BURBANK BUILDING TO BE OF SPANISH TYPE

Father and Son Banquet to Be Held on April 10; Bledsoe to Speak

A beautiful Spanish type building of uncertain height will go up at the corner of Santa Ferrandina boulevard and Tu-Junga avenue, adjoining the Minor theatre, according to Courtland Y. Emden of Los Angeles, who represents both buyer and seller.

He states that on the property which has a frontage of 105 feet on the boulevard and 150 on the side street, there will soon be started a building which will occupy the full frontage with a depth of seventy feet, the remainder of the space to be improved at a later date.

The Father and Son banquet given annually under auspices of the Y. M. C. A. will be held this year at 6:30 o'clock the night of April 10, in the Presbyterian church, when Kiwanis and Rotary men will have a special part in the program. Judge Bledsoe will be the speaker of the occasion.

Young Orator
Charles Weber won 256 points out of a possible 300, in the oratorical contest held at the high school, defeating Donald Newcomer, who scored 250 points. As a result, Weber will represent his school on April 25, against entrants from the high schools of Lankershim, Van Noy, San Fernando and Owensmouth.

The judges were J. I. King, Mr. Root and Rev. Simmons of the Methodist church, E. B. Thomas presided and Ralph Zink was the student chairman.

Other features on the program were:
The Old Road—H. S. Girls' Glee club.
(a) Pilot Land de Boat, (b) A Midnight Tragedy—H. S. Boys' Glee club.

Tilson's New Song
Captain Frank C. Tilson is bringing fame not only to himself but to Burbank, with his popular songs, the latest of which is "Rose of Mexico," which narrates in droll verse, with music by Florvance Thompson, how a lover wandered along the streets of Mexico and there met his fate.

Captain Tilson is the author of books of verse and is likely to acquire a wide reputation for his literary work, in addition to his reputation as a military leader and in his profession.

Florvance Thompson is a member of a notable French family of artists not only in the musical world but as painters and sculptors who have won international fame. Her father was associate sculptor with Bartholdi, designer of the Statue of Liberty.

SACRED CARVINGS FOUND IN BOTTLE

Crucifixion of Christ Is Shown in Antique Work Dug Up in Italy

By ROLAND KREBS
For International News Service.
WASHINGTON, April 2.—Smithsonian Institution officials are puzzled by an antique, dug out of the ruins of an ancient castle in Piedmont, Italy, which has just been brought to their attention.

It is a bottle, in which there is a carefully carved replica of all the instruments used in the crucifixion of Jesus Christ. It is a narrow-necked bottle, plugged with a wooden stopper. The carvings are prevented from coming out by a cross-arm of wood, to which they are fastened.

Reveals Skill
Not only the carving but the bottling itself is of skillful workmanship.

How the articles were carved, placed in the bottle and the container sealed is a mystery.

Many of the pieces contained are larger than the bottle's opening. The theory that the maker blew the bottle around the work after its completion is given little credence, because the wood is glued to the base of the flask. It is pointed out that had the molten glass been put around the carvings the paint on them, which is intact, would have been scorched.

Details Shown
The cross, of course, is the principal feature of the work. Atop it is a rooster. The spear, the garment Christ wore, the dice with which His slayers gambled, the tools with which the cross was made, the ladder, the sponge from which the Saviour drank, the hand which slapped Him and the numerous other and less important articles all are faithfully depicted.

On the cross are the letters "I. N. R. I.," which some authorities claim stand for the Latin words meaning "Jesus of Nazareth, King of the Jews."

The artist's name is lettered crudely on the base thus: "Majocco Bortolozzo, of Torino, Italy, 1803."

More pairs of footware were manufactured in this country last year than ever before, the production, exclusive of rubber goods, being 351,000,000 pairs, of which women's shoes totaled 110,000,000 and men's 100,000,000.

OBLIGATIONS TO MINISTERS SHOWN

Rev. Millikan Urges Support Of Aged Pastors In Sunland Sermon

Rev. L. J. Millikan, pastor of the Broadway Methodist church, spoke on "The Forgotten Man" Sunday morning, discussing the church's obligation to its superannuated ministers. He said in part:

"The splendid growth of our church in the past is due to the unselfish and sacrificial labors of the ministers who dedicated their lives to its cause by heeding the call from God to go without money and without price. For the past few centuries these stalwart, faithful men, after living lives of hardship, devoting their entire time to others, have been laid on the shelf as soon as their feeble bodies no longer would allow them to continue in the work.

"In our own church there are some thirteen hundred of these old, worn-out servants of Jesus Christ who, until recently, were practically forgotten. Some of them were not even provided a place of rest for their wearied bodies. Many of them were allotted the mere pittance of from $125.00 to $200.00 per year on which to live. I am so thankful our church has at last awakened to its obligation to this 'Forgotten man,' and is planning to meet this obligation."

At the night service the subject of the sermon was "Getting Your Eyes Open," 2nd Kings 6:17. The speaker showed very clearly how so many Christians are constantly losing many of heaven's richest blessings by not having their eyes opened.

At the morning service four united with the church.

Tuesday Club Will Make Art Collection

The Tuesday Afternoon club is to have a splendid collection of copies of pictures by California artists, when the work begun yesterday by the fine arts department, with Mrs. Roy A. Ballagh, curator, is completed.

Yesterday the clubwomen belonging to that department met and began clipping from copies of the California Southland, fine reproductions of pictures by California artists, and sketches of the artists' lives and works. These are all to be catalogued in large envelopes and kept in the club office for reference.

Under the auspices of the department the exhibit of pictures by John W. Cotton is still being enjoyed in the banquet hall of the clubhouse.

SONG HIT NOW NATIONAL HABIT

Al Jolson Puts 'California, Here I Come' Into Quick Popularity

The Southland has smacked the eastern bull's-eye right square on the optic nerve, in Al Jolson's tremendous song hit, "California, Here I Come," the riot of "Bombo," Messrs. Lee & Shubert's late New York musical show, now on its way here on a western tour.

Few songs about the far west have gotten under the skins of easterners the way Jolson's number has, say critics from Manhattan, the turbulent little isle where it originated. Already the song has been made a big feature by every record and roll company, including Victor, Brunswick, Vocalion, Columbia, Cameo, Pathe, Okeh, Emerson, Gennett, Q. R. S., United States, Vocal-style, Pianostyle, etc. This tremendous publicity in itself should prove the greatest "booster club" that California has ever had.

It's National Habit
"California, Here I Come" has in fact become not only a national hit but a national habit and the easterner who didn't play it over a la piano, radio or phonograph before retiring would count the day lost, so critics say back where California is based an ambition.

Lots of songs have been based on the sun-bathed charms of California, and there are surely few places in the western world more worthy of being sung about. It is not astonishing, therefore, that no less a popular stage personage than Al Jolson himself should have found it impossible to resist the urge. There is something peculiarly significant about that title, too. Al Jolson, perhaps the most popular singer and comedian in the country today, is starring in his big musical success, "Bombo." In this he is singing "California, Here I Come" as the big song feature, and every day he and his merry show draw nearer to the coast.

Thus the title possesses right now an added spice and appropriateness. Al Jolson is assured of a royal welcome on his western tour, for, besides everything else, California is where he hails from.

REPORT MANY SUFFER IN FLOOD

Families Left Homeless As Waters Sweep Through Maryland Town

CUMBERLAND, Md., April 2.—According to unconfirmed reports, the mining town of Kitzmiller, Garrett county, where five members of a family were drowned, is a scene of desolation, with practically every house wiped out and hundreds living in the open. No communication is possible by rail or wire and the county road leading to Oakland is impassable.

Many are without food or shelter. The Western Maryland railway track is washed out at many points between Cumberland and Kitzmiller, south of here. The work of restoration in Cumberland is going forward rapidly. Four fire engines have been pumping water from the basement of the Fort Cumberland hotel.

Fish Turns Tables In Whale-Jonah Incident

BANGKOK, Siam, April 2.—A paradox stranger than the swallow that whaled Jonah occurred here recently when a Siamese fisherman swallowed a fish. Unlike Jonah and the whale, both of whom recovered, the incident resulted in a double fatality.

It is an ancient Siamese custom to hold a captured fish in the mouth while the hook is rebated. While the fisherman was doing so, the fish slipped down his throat and stuck. He struggled before aid could be fetched.

PLAN TO RENDER 'THE MESSIAH' IN CHRISTMAS WEEK

Handel's Famous Oratorio To Be Staged by Members Of Music Club

Glendale proved to the Glendale Music club, at the production of "Elijah," that a permanent oratorical society will be loyally supported, and last night at the meeting of the oratorio section of the club at the Harvard High school, not only plans for permanent organization were formulated, but it was announced that Handel's great oratorio, "The Messiah," will be presented during Christmas week, with John Smallman director.

When the oratorio section was organized last October it was hoped that "The Messiah" could be presented last Christmas, but Mr. Smallman's advice was to first present "Elijah" in the spring and then the following holiday season give "The Messiah." His suggestions are therefore being carried out.

At the meeting last night Miss Myrtle Baldwin was named chairman of a committee of nine, to make future plans for the society, for which small monthly dues will probably be required.

Mrs. Mattison B. Jones took occasion last night to thank Mr. Smallman and the singers for their great success in the "Elijah" production. She stated that she had received countless congratulatory messages, and she read two one coming from the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, expressing the appreciation and thanks of that organization on the accomplishments of the Glendale Music club in advertising Glendale through musical productions that are entirely out of the amateur sphere.

Another letter was from R. A. Powell, president of the Burbank Choral club, congratulating Mr. Smallman, the singers and the Music club on the "Elijah" success.

A reception is to be given Tuesday night, April 15, for Mr. Smallman and all those taking part in the presentation of "Elijah." The affair will follow the regular weekly rehearsal and business meeting.

Won in Day, Says She Had to Live in Shed

LIMA, Ohio, April 2.—"I'm through, Judge. Never again!" exclaimed Mrs. Emma Rex, when she asked Common Pleas Judge F. C. Decker for a decree of divorce from Henry Rex, who she declared, met, wooed and won her in a single day and took her "to live in a coal shed."

"Are you going to get married again?" Judge Becker inquired.

"Never! The second time was enough for me," asserted Mrs. Rex. "He couldn't even pay the rent and never got me any clothes and I wouldn't work much unless I got him out."

ECONOMY TO BE TESTED ON RUN

Los Angeles to Camp Curry Test Trip to Be Held May 16 and 17

Embodying many features which promise to make it the most noteworthy event of its kind ever held, the eighth annual Los Angeles-Camp Curry economy run is announced for May 16-17 by J. A. C. Waters, run manager and Southern California Camp Curry representative.

The new run features, which involve changes both in the distance and in the rules for the competition, were definitely decided upon following a meeting between Robert T. Williams, manager of Camp Curry; Val Harnesnap, A. A. A. representative, Mr. Waters and local newspaper and publicity men.

Adding approximately forty-seven miles to the old route, the trail to be followed this year by the caravan of automotive motorists will lead over the Mint Canyon road from Saugus through Palmdale and Mojave to Bakersfield, instead of over the Ridge Route as before. As a result the total distance to be traveled from Los Angeles to Camp Curry will be increased from 360 miles to 407 miles. The first day's journey will end at Fresno as before.

Regarded as the most notable improvement in the run, however, is the new rule prohibiting drivers of contesting cars from shutting off motors while en route. This, it is claimed, will tend to eliminate much of the "coasting" which has been looked upon as an objectionable feature of previous events.

Competition, according to Mr. Waters, will be divided into five classes with an additional sweepstakes event for enclosed cars. The classifications announced are as follows:

- Class 1-E, for four-cylinder cars under $650.
- Class 2-E, for four-cylinder cars over $651.
- Class 3-E, for six-cylinder cars under $1200.
- Class 4-E, for six-cylinder cars $1201 to $2000.
- Class 5-E, for all cars over $2000.

Prices considered are for touring models, f. o. b. factory. Cups are to be awarded by Camp Curry to class winners, to sweepstakes winner, and to enclosed car sweepstakes winner.

Choice of the dates for the run is claimed to have been influenced by the extremely favorable weather and road conditions encountered at the corresponding time last year, the 1923 event being held May 18-19, it will be remembered.

Lecture Series on Salesmanship Opens

The first of a series of eight lectures on "Salesmanship" will be given at 7:30 o'clock tonight by Lon J. Haddock of the Haddock-Nibley Company, realtors, at the Egyptian Temple on North Verdugo road in "Rossmoyne," it is announced.

The lectures will be given one a week, each Wednesday night, for the next eight weeks. They will be of a similar character to lectures Mr. Haddock has delivered in the past, before college and university students, and are said by officials of the Haddock-Nibley company to be highly instructive.

The lectures are free and the public is invited to start off the series by attending the first, after which it is felt that those who are present will not willingly miss any of the remainder.

Hollywood Man Buys Duplex In Glendale

Sale for $16,000 of the duplex at 641-643 North Kenwood street, to C. A. Holt of Hollywood, is made by the Glendale Realty company of 131 1/2 South Brand boulevard. The property was bought for investment, according to the new owner, who selected Glendale after seeking elsewhere for the type of property he desired.

Cameron D. Thom, president of the Glendale Realty company, states that inquiries for business and the better class of residential properties are increasing rapidly and that the recent rains have laid at rest the fears of many easterners that a Southern California was to have a dry summer.

CROP VALUES SHOW GAIN IN STATE

California's Increase for Year Is Second Only To Texas Figures

By J. V. MENDENHALL, President California Approved Land Settlement Association

As a result, chiefly, of better prices, California crop values for 1923 gained nearly $44,000,000 over 1922, the greatest increase of any state except Texas. With a farm output aggregating $447,993,000, California cut down the lead of Illinois for third place for 1923 as compared with 1922, the Illinois output for the year just ended being $459,509,000.

Texas, with a faraway lead for first place, recorded a crop value increase of $386,000,000, the 1923 valuation being $1,064,775,000; Iowa, second state, made a gain of fifteen million dollars, the 1923 figure being $475,920,000.

Ahead in Crop Value California had an outstanding lead in crop value per acre, $64.67 in 1923 for the 6,927,000 acres covered in the report. The only approach to this figure is the Arizona average of $62.76, based, however, on an acreage of less than one-tenth California's farmed area. The entire Pacific slope averaged $30.54 per acre as against a national average of $25.40.

With scarcely 10 per cent of the nation's farming land, the states west of the Rockies produced 12.1 per cent of the crops. But otherwise, crop output in the eleven western states averaged 30 per cent more per acre than the returns for the country as a whole.

Business interests absorbed in the things that have to do with big city activities may well give some consideration to these figures, based on an analysis made by the bureau of news and of the Mercantile Trust Company of the annual summary of the United States department of agriculture.

The official figures are given in terms of "hypothetical value" arrived at from a "computation based on the value ratio between 22 principal crops and all crops except nursery, greenhouse, and forest products in the census report for the production year 1919." They are the most accurate available figures.

With a million acres of irrigated and irrigable land ready for settlement it is indeed timely that organized movements such as Californians, Inc., the California Real Estate Association and the California Approved Land Settlement Association should proceed aggressively to bring more farmers into the state. The present rate of development agricultural land is being accelerated.

City Needs Country

More and more, business leaders are catching the vision: the significance of the development of the back country in the welfare of the city. But that is not enough. The average city dweller must be brought to a recognition of the welfare of his own immediate welfare is on the success of the farming community. Consider, for a moment, the profits and earnings the urban population takes from the various kinds of farm products as they are shipped, processed, stored, exported, wholesaled, retailed, financed and insured.

The makers of containers, the telegraph and telephone companies, warehouse owners, packing organizations, office buildings, brokers, commission men, exporters and attorneys—each takes a toll as our farm products are gradually distributed into the hands of the consumer.

Good Progress Made

The new, comprehensive movement to bring settlers into California has progressed far enough to indicate that it was not only soundly conceived but that the responsiveness of less favored parts of the country to its appeal has been beyond all reasonable expectations. Assuredly the campaign must be prosecuted vigorously.

As the record reads today it is a tremendous jump from California's present position to a crop output that shall over-top Texas, but despite the discrepancy in area, California has the natural resources and needs only breadth of vision plus enough farmers—farmers all over the land who are eager to come—to achieve that justifiable goal.

Will Americanize Hubby

Picture shows Cornelia Vanderbilt, who plans to make her fiance, Hon. John Francis Amherst Cecil, scion of a noble British family, into a good American citizen, and to live in the United States.

By MARGERY PICKARD, Central Press Correspondent

NEW YORK, April 2.—She's going to Americanize him.

Cornelia Vanderbilt, who is going to marry the Hon. John Francis Amherst Cecil, first secretary of the British embassy in Washington, has decided that he is going to settle down on the Vanderbilt estate in North Carolina—and become a Yankee. He may even become an American citizen. Anyway Cornelia will not renounce her American citizenship.

This will be a new departure in the Vanderbilt family. Consuelo Vanderbilt's fortune was swallowed up in Great Britain after she married the Duke of Marlborough, and all she got was misery and divorce. Gladys Vanderbilt lost an immense fortune through wedlock with the Hungarian nobleman, Szechenyi.

Cecil made pretty little Cornelia break a resolution she made long ago to never let anyone but a true son of America win her heart. But that was before she met the handsome Mr. Cecil.

Anyway, she's kept her pledge. For Cecil is not a nobleman after her dowry. He seems a considerable fellow, too, for he doesn't want Cornelia to live in England.

"I expect to spend the rest of my life right here," he says. "I shall do what Miss Vanderbilt wants me to do, and live where she wants me to live. This is her home and she loves it."

"Conny" Vanderbilt in 1925 will receive $20,000,000 from the estate of her father, the late George Washington Vanderbilt.

Young Cecil is not closely related to Viscount Cecil, who as Lord Robert Cecil recently made a visit here. He belongs to the Esters and Amherst, and is the son of Lord William Cecil, Gentleman Usher to the King and late Controller to the Princess Henry of Battenburg, Cecil's mother, who died five years ago, was a peeress in her own right.

First secretary of the embassy at Washington for the last two years, Mr. Cecil has been in the British diplomatic service for years. He was first secretary at Madrid under Sir Esme Howard, new ambassador to America. He is 34 years old.

Pete Comes to U. S. as a 'Piece of Baggage'

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 2.—With a baggage check conspicuously displayed in the lapel of his coat, Peter Semos, 23, American citizen, but unable to speak a word of English, completed a long and strange journey when he landed in his father's arms here as human "baggage."

Born in Chicago, Peter had lived in Greece with his grandparents since babyhood.

A. P. Semos, restaurant and hotel owner here, wanted his son to come back to his native land. To insure his safe arrival here, the father decided to have him come as baggage.

So on January 9 Peter left Athens for New York. Twenty-five days later he reached his destination, having crossed the Atlantic and traveled by train from New York to Birmingham as a parcel of baggage.

In New York an express man transferred the human "baggage" from the steamer pier to the Pennsylvania station, where Peter was put on the Birmingham Special and told by signs not to leave until he reached Birmingham, when baggage men rushed him off the train and turned him over to his parents.

JAIL CAR OF CONVICTED SPEEDER

Drivers Maximum Term, Also Parole But Auto Is Held to Serve

CLEVELAND, April 2.—Jail sentences have proved effective in curbing speeding and other forms of reckless driving in Cleveland. At first the traffic courts of this city, in an attempt to curb the increasing toll of traffic accidents, sentenced the drivers convicted of violations of traffic laws to workhouse sentences.

The effectiveness of such drastic measures lies mainly in the attitude of the driving public. When jail sentences for convicted drivers were first instituted in Cleveland the newspapers made a feature of the sensational measure and accidents decreased daily. Soon, however, the story became an old one and the driving public, thinking that the court measure was a temporary threat only, lost interest and the accidents started to increase again.

A new plan had to be devised, and the result was the impounding or jailing of the automobile driven by the speeder or reckless driver.

Cars Are Held Maximum workhouse sentences were imposed and then suspended on condition that the individual give up his car. The more reckless the offender, the longer his car remained under lock and key. In some cases it was impounded for as long as six months, at the owner's expense.

To prevent connivance between the offender and the warehouse, and also to avert suspicion that this was a scheme to obtain money, the Cleveland Safety Council, which had rendered much help in the matter, was asked to designate storehouses. The licenses were removed and retained by the probation department and the offenders were placed on probation. No one could get his car without a court order.

If an offender owned several cars he was not allowed to drive any of them. Nor could he rent, borrow or buy another. If he did his parole was violated and the workhouse sentence went into effect.

Rule Not Harsh In case a car was essential in a man's business it was not seized. Under such circumstances another might be allowed to operate the car for him while he served the sentence in the workhouse. Taxi-drivers and truck drivers were not required to give up the company's cars. That was considered imposing a hardship on the company, which, in all likelihood, was innocent of any wrongdoing.

The driver was restrained from driving for a stated period and was compelled to turn in his license. Where offenses were repeated or aggravated the offender's employment lost their jobs. Employers, as a rule, showed the utmost willingness to co-operate by employing only careful drivers. The idea of impounding cars proved to be an excellent one. It annoyed and inconvenienced men who had become so accustomed to a car that they could scarcely do without it.

This was especially so when the car was taken for a long period, particularly so when the car was taken for the entire summer, when the owner gets the greatest enjoyment from it. Moreover, when a man deprives his family of the use of the car through his carelessness he is likely to be reminded of it continually until the car is released, and he has no desire to go through the same experience again.

Stabbing Follows Row Over Prisoners' Game

CANON CITY, Colo., April 2.—M. C. McCormick, a convict in the state penitentiary serving time on a pickpocket conviction in Denver, was stabbed by George Huron, alias Mike Murphy, another convict. The murder attempt occurred in the prison yard in the sight of a towerman and grew out of a dispute over a handball game which the convicts were playing.

Americans drink an average of nearly 14 pounds of coffee every year, it is estimated.

REASONS FOR DELAYS IN LICENSES

Errors Made by Real Estate Men on Applications Partly to Blame

State Real Estate Commissioner Edwin T. Keiser whose office has issued approximately 25,000 real estate broker and salesmen licenses during the first two months of the current year, places the blame for delay in issuing licenses squarely upon the shoulders of the applicants themselves. "They make avoidable mistakes," the commissioner declared, "and until they turn in their applications properly there will be unavoidable delays in many cases."

Mr. Keiser made the following statement to the California Real Estate magazine:

"We have had a large number of complaints from brokers and salesmen who seem to feel that there had been entirely too much delay by this office in the issuing of their licenses.

Applicant at Fault The reason for this delay is due largely to mistakes made by the applicants themselves. Brokers fail to sign their questionnaires and in many cases fail to sign the bond as principal or enclose a check for their license fee. Salesmen often fail to send a certified check as per instructions on the application. In brief, the cause of the delay in the issuing of the license to the applicant is because the applicant either fails to follow instructions sent with the application form, or to enclose the fee. In many cases brokers will change their address without notifying this department and in other cases do not give the correct address. The post office department returns all such letters to us, especially letters sent to the larger cities.

"I have personally looked into a number of complaints because of delays in the issuance of licenses and have found that in each case the fault lies with the applicant rather than with the real estate department.

"Our suspense file at the present time is filled with applications from brokers who have failed in some respect to complete their application. They have been notified of their error and have been requested to rectify same. Many of them are negligent even in this. They then send in the applications for their salesmen licenses and these, of course, must be held in suspense until the application of the broker is completed."

"Read the instructions written in small type upon your application blank and your questionnaire and then follow them. Be sure to sign your bond as principal and see that your bond is properly filled out. Follow these instructions and it will insure prompt action in the issuance of your license."

Tax Law in Honolulu Puzzle to Army Men

HONOLULU, April 2.—Army officers who are stationed in Hawaii—some of them—protest to the county treasurer about paying the regular resident automobile license.

They were non-residents, they maintained, and therefore entitled to the three months' exemption which is allowed tourists. Colonel William B. Pistole, judge advocate of the Hawaiian department, wrote an opinion upholding the officers. Lloyd Conkling, county treasurer, abided by the opinion. Now the army officers—some of them—want hunting licenses. Licenses for residents are five dollars, for non-residents, twenty-five dollars and fowl out make fish out of one and fowl out make fish out of another," says Conkling; "twenty-five dollars, please."

Of five motion picture production companies in North China, four make news weeklies, animated cartoons and educational films and the fifth now is giving up dramatic pictures in favor of educational and scenic subjects.

London Tea Merchant Objects to Remarks

NEW YORK, April 2.—Sir Charles Higham evidently would like to put a Maxim silencer on Hudson Maxim, its famous American inventor.

Recently published statements, attributed to Maxim, that tea and coffee properly belong in the category of intoxicating liquors so aroused Sir Charles, who represents the India Tea Growers in London, that he called a protest to his New York office.

"It is plain that Mr. Maxim is trying to use tea as a weapon with which to fight the prohibition law, to which he is opposed," asserted Sir Charles.

Sir Charles then takes pains to distinguish between "intoxicating" and "stimulating" drinks. Tea is stimulating, but beneficially and naturally so, while alcohol is an artificial stimulant, he maintains.

Proof that tea is not injurious to health is evidenced by its prescription for invalids in hospitals, he declares.

Italian Engine Uses New Source of Power

ROME, April 2.—A railroad locomotive that requires neither coal, gasoline, wood, nor electricity is claimed to have been invented by Signor Zariatti, a Rome engineer.

The propelling power is stated to be obtained merely from compressed air mixed with a secret vapor.

The invention has been subjected to very severe tests, through which it has come so satisfactorily that government experts are said to have recommended its adoption to the transport minister. One newspaper even states that the government has ordered Signor Zariatti to construct 100 of these locomotives for the Italian state railways.

One of the tests to which the new locomotive was subjected was running solo over the Rome-Nord line, when it attained an average speed of seventy miles an hour.

SOCIAL MEET TO BE HELD FRIDAY BY LOCAL POST

Invite Members to Bring Wives to Dance and Entertainment

The regular meeting of Glendale Post, No. 127, American Legion, to be held Friday night, at the Legion hall, 610 East Broadway, will be turned into a social evening, all business being dispensed with.

All members have been invited to bring their wives or sweethearts and enjoy a dance, entertainment and refreshments which the post is providing. It is planned, according to Commander Joseph A. Wilson, to turn one meeting night a month over to entertainment from now on, in an endeavor to foster the spirit of comradeship and fellowship which was born during the war.

Plan Open Meeting
On April 13 an open meeting for ex-service men will be held, when every member is expected to bring a prospective Legionnaire. All men in Glendale who saw service during the war in any branch of the army, navy or marine corps is invited to attend, says E. E. McWain, adjutant.

Historian Ivan Crooket has mailed questionnaires to each member of the local post asking that he submit a complete record of his military service during the war for the purpose of compiling a complete service record of all local ex-service men. When all are turned in it is planned to make these a part of the post's official records.

TUJUNGA NO ELECTION ON VALLEY MERGER

Supervisors Decide Against Special Election Over Many Protests

There will be no incorporation election in the Tujunga valley. This was definitely settled Monday morning when the county supervisors decided to not call an election on the question of incorporating a city of the sixth class, in view of the conflicting and confusing issues arising from some half-dozen different petitions presented by opposing factions in the controversy.

This action was taken in spite of the fact that the three leading organizations of Tujunga adopted and presented resolutions protesting the disfranchising of the voters by not allowing them to vote on the question. The Kiwanis club, Realty Board and the American Legion, Post 250, drew up resolutions that stated their positions on the question, and asking that the matter be decided in the regular manner, with the ballot.

The opponents of the measure had so confused the issue, however, that the supervisors decided against calling an election. The resolution adopted by the Kiwanis club follows:

Resolutions Offered
"Whereas, a petition duly signed by the requisite number of qualified electors, has been filed with the board of county supervisors asking that an election be called to determine the question of incorporating the districts known as Tujunga and Sunland into a city of the sixth class; and

"Whereas, the supervisors, in response to a protest as to the number and authenticity of whose signatures we are not informed, have signified their intention to reduce the boundaries of the city to a mere fraction of the area described in the original petition; and

"Whereas, we believe the supervisors were influenced in this action by a misapprehension of the true sentiment and desire of the people, and believing, further, that the territory described in the original petition, and defined as it is by an intractable wall of hills and mountains, served by the same water, light, telephone, transportation and other utilities, and bound together by all the social, fraternal, commercial and religious ties of a single community, ought to be a single political unit; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Tujunga Kiwanis club, including in its membership representative business men of Tujunga and Sunland, hereby resents the action of the board of supervisors in not allowing the people of the entire district to vote upon this question, and requests and petitions the board of county supervisors to reconsider their former action and to submit to a vote of the people of the entire district the question of whether or not it should be incorporated as a city at the present time."

Resolution of Legion
"To the honorable board of supervisors, Los Angeles county, California. Gentlemen:—By resolution adopted by Monte Vista Post, American Legion, No. 250, department of California, this post does hereby vigorously protest your action in disfranchising the citizens of this community by denying them the right to vote on the matter of incorporating the proposed City of Verdugo Hills.

"We further protest against our property, the American Legion hall, being placed outside the proposed city limits. This hall only houses the American Legion and the American Legion members, but is used by the Chamber of Commerce and most of the clubs and civic organizations of the district, New York.

"We as an organization, are non-political, but we are 100 per cent American, and cannot sit still and have our one great American privilege taken from us without a protest and a fight.

"As members of this post we do not all agree on the issue before us, but on one point we are as a man, and that is that we each have intellect enough to go to the polls and cast our ballot then abide by the decision of the majority.

"Trusting that you will reconsider your action, which we consider un-American, and allow the citizens of this community to decide their own fate.

"In the event that you decide to stand by your previous ruling, denying our citizens the right to vote, we respectfully request that you extend the lines to at least include the American Legion property within the area that is privileged to vote.

"Approved at open meeting, March 20, 1924.

"A. J. SCRIBNER, Post Commander."

By Realty Board
The resolution of the Realty Board incorporated practically the same sentiment outlined in these two and went on record as against the denial of an election.

"Whereas, there has been presented to the board of supervisors of the county of Los Angeles a petition, signed by the requisite number of qualified electors in the district affected, and conforming in all other respects to the requirements set forth in the civil code, asking that an election be called permitting the people residing in the territory embraced by the petition to vote on the question of incorporating a city of the sixth class under the name of 'City of Verdugo Hills'; and

"Whereas, the said petition was set for hearing before the board of supervisors on February 25, 1924, and on the appearance of some opposition such hearing was continued until March 10, partly to give the supervisors an opportunity to inspect the territory in question; and

"Whereas, upon resuming the hearing on March 10, and before either the petitioners or the protestants had been publicly heard, the board announced that it had decided to exclude from the boundaries of the proposed city all territory west of Walnut drive; and

"Whereas, one John Knox thereupon addressed the board, stating that he had a petition, signed by the requisite number of qualified electors, but which he had been told had been signed by some 400 people who were opposed to the incorporation, and requested that all that portion of the Tujunga school district north of a line drawn 150 feet south of the water office, telephone office and exchange, Masonic hall and the traditional civic center of the community, thereby denying to the residents of this closely-bound community the right to vote upon the question so vital to future development, protection and welfare of their homes, and creating an artificial division line running through the heart of the community with no reason, necessity or demand therefor; and therefore be it

Resolved, That the Tujunga Valley Realty Board deprecates and emphatically disapproves the action of the board of supervisors in so reducing the territory described in the original petition, and declares its belief that the interest of this community demands that at least the whole of the Tujunga school district be given an opportunity to vote upon this question and determine in the only orderly and American way the question of establishing a unit of local self-government. (Signed)

"THE TUJUNGA VALLEY REALTY BOARD," C. C. Buck, Secretary.

"Regularly approved and adopted the 22nd day of March, 1924, at a special meeting of the Tujunga Valley Realty Board.

Better Homes in America, the national movement for raising the standards of American home-building and home-making, errors upon its third year reorganized and strengthened. An active educational campaign, entirely free from any commercial interest and financed by public gifts, is under way. The problem of the small home will receive major consideration. How the man with a small salary can establish a home embodying the maximum of comfort, convenience, healthfulness and cultural facilities will be the theme of demonstrations on a nationwide scale.

Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, is president of the organization. Dr. James Ford, a housing specialist of note, has been granted a year's leave from Harvard University to undertake the executive direction of the 1924 campaign. Dr. John M. Gries, chief of the division of building and housing of the department of commerce, is a member of the board of directors, and an active leader in the work.

Headquarters of the Better Homes movement have been moved to Washington from New York. The demonstrations of Better Homes throughout the country this year will be during the week of May 11 to 18. In the first year of the movement five hundred communities demonstrated Better Homes, and last year about double that number. The outlook for Better Homes becomes ever brighter. While no strings are tied to local committees demonstrating Better Homes, national headquarters is urging that attention be focussed upon houses within the reach of persons in moderate circumstances.

Already assurances are pouring in from city and town scattered throughout the nation that they will take part in the movement this year. One far western city has written in that it will demonstrate seven new houses, completely furnished, and intends undertaking the renovation of a dilapidated old house to show what can be done in that direction.

Particular efforts are being directed this year to interesting rural communities in the movement. The special aim of the movement will be to demonstrate homes which families of moderate incomes can afford. Various contemplated improvements in the city are being investigated today by the members of the City Planning Commission, which met this morning at 9:30 o'clock at the city hall.

Information gathered will be embodied in recommendations which will later be made to the City Council, stated P. J. Hayseiden, secretary of the commission.

"This is not a regular meeting," he said, "but we wanted to get first-hand knowledge of local conditions in several sections of the city. We are going to pay especial attention to bridges, at the request of the members of the council. It is suggested that uniform design be adopted that will be adhered to throughout the city. We have found that we can do more by a personal visit than by listening to arguments, although of course property holders' views are always taken into consideration."

All members of the commission traveled, J. H. Randall, S. E. Kinch and Harry Hague—were present and spent several hours touring the city.

LABOR M. P.'S MAY ORGANIZE UNION

Overworked Solons to Ask Shorter Hours, Higher Pay, Is Report

LONDON, April 2.—Believing their to be a "sweated trade," Labor members of Parliament are seriously thinking of starting a "union" of their own.

Their main grievance is that, most of them being trade union officials, after a hard week's work in the House of Commons, they have to rush down on Friday evenings to their constituencies, see that all their union affairs are in order, settle disputes, attend to accounts and then address two or three political meetings. Then, on Sunday evening or Monday morning, they have to rush back again to the House of Commons.

Fifteen-Hour Day
And a member of Parliament who takes his work seriously in these days must be prepared to put in a strenuous fifteen hours daily. What with attendance at debates, standing committees, private bill committees, select committees and departmental inquiries, he works, as often as not, from 10 o'clock in the morning to 1 o'clock the next morning.

Some of them are complaining that this existence amounts to practical slavery and they are protesting against it. They are asking for a raise in salary from $2000 to $3000 yearly, a free pass between London and their constituencies and a minimum working day of not more than ten hours for six days a week.

Find Need for Horse Doctor Never Greater

ITHACA, N. Y., April 2.—"The old gray mare," she ain't what she used to be." And, to quote the old army song, neither is the veterinarian. The fellow who used to come around and swing your favorite horse up to a beam by rope tackle and administer to its medical needs is fewer than he used to be, according to figures announced recently by Dean V. A. Moore, of the State Veterinary College at Cornell University.

That the shortage is real is shown by Dean Moore in figures that reveal the number of veterinary students in the whole country decreased from 1910 to 1923 from 2,717 to 530.

The head of the state college says he is receiving more demands from organizations or localities who want veterinarians in salaried positions than there are graduates to supply the needs. The whole class last June was engaged to fill responsible positions before September, except one graduate who was ill all summer, he said.

Dean Moore blames the common belief that increasing use of the automobile and the fact that the government and the state have arranged for free tuberculosis testing of cattle herds, the practitioners feeling this has made private practice unprofitable.

Dean Moore declares the need for veterinarians was never greater than today.

'Melting Pot' Called Greatest Experiment

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 2.—"America is in the midst of the most gigantic experiment in human history—that of bringing to our shores people of every clime, order and race, and striving to mould them into an intelligent, cohesive, democratic citizenship," declared Dr. L. "Back of the downfall of the earth's great governments has been the failure of similar experiments.

New Towers Placed For Davenport Radio
DAVENPORT, Iowa, April 2.—If you notice that WOC comes in stronger and clearer than usual some evening, you will be safe in assuming the new towers as a support for the transmitting antenna are in use.

The new towers stand on the old buildings, although new base construction was necessary. The tops of the towers are 170 feet from the roof and 210 feet above the street, towering 80 feet above the old WOC towers, once the pride of the Davenport station.

The additional height of the aerial will bring the natural oscillating period of the antenna circuit to a point considerably above WOC's operating wave-length, and it is expected the operating efficiency will be increased.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Once upon a time some of the animal boys and girls of Woodland, where Uncle Wiggily lived, gathered in the barn back of the coop house where Charlie Chick lived.

"This is April Fool's day," said Billie Wagtail, the goat. "Let's play some tricks on Uncle Wiggily."

"Oh, that'll be lots of fun!" cried Baby Bunny. "I tried to put salt in his coffee, instead of sugar, this morning, but Nurse Jane saw me and made me stop. Baby Bunny was living, for a time, in the rabbit gentleman's hollow stump bungalow."

"I know how we can play a dandy trick on him!" barked Jackie Bow Wow, the puppy dog.

"How?" asked Jackie Kinky-tail, the monkey.

"I'll get a big chocolate candy from the store," went on Jackie. "I'll scoop out the soft, inside part and one of us can eat that, 'cause it's good."

"I'll eat it!" offered Peetie, who was Jackie's brother.

"No, I'll eat it!" mewled Tommie Kat.

"I guess I'd better eat it myself!" chuckled Jackie. "Anyhow, after we scoop out the soft, inside part of the chocolate candy we'll fill the hole up with sawdust and when Uncle Wiggily bites on it he'll get his mouth full of sawdust! Won't that be a fine April fool joke?"

"Oh, fine! Fine!" cried the animal boys.

"And I know another way to fool him," said Johnnie Bushy-tail, the squirrel. "I'll get a carrot and cut a hole in it. Inside the hole I'll put some hot red pepper. And I'll stuff the hole up again with another piece of carrot so it won't show. Then when Uncle Wiggily eats the carrot he'll get his mouth full of red pepper. How's that for a joke?"

"Oh, fine! Fine!" cried the animal boys.

"So Jackie hurried off to get the chocolate candy he was to fill with sawdust, and Johnnie looked for a carrot to stuff with red pepper. But after the boys were gone, Lulu Wibblewobble, the duck girl, said to Susie Littletail, the rabbit:

"Do you think those are nice April fool jokes to play on Uncle Wiggily?"

"No," answered Susie. "I don't."

"Then let's fool the boys!"

Have a candy, Uncle Wiggily!

is going on today, that you all look so jolly? It must be something special."

"Give him the candy," whispered Billie Wagtail, to Jackie. So the puppy dog boy held out the chocolate drop and said:

"Have a candy, Uncle Wiggily!"

"Thank you, I will," spoke the bunny. He put the candy in his mouth and chewed on it. Jackie, Billy and the others were just getting ready to laugh, for they thought they would see a funny look on Uncle Wiggily's face as he tasted the sawdust. But the bunny just smiled, smacked his lips and said:

"That was a fine candy, Jackie!"

For you see, he had eaten the good one that Lulu put in place of the bad one in Jackie's pocket.

Then Johnnie the squirrel took out a carrot.

"Try this, Uncle Wiggily," he invited. And the bunny nibbled the carrot. The animal boys got ready to laugh this time, for they thought they would hear the bunny cough and sneeze when he tasted the red pepper.

"That was a fine carrot, Johnnie," said Uncle Wiggily. And it was for Susie had put a good one in place of the bad one in Johnnie's pocket.

The animal boys looked at one another. They couldn't understand.

"April fool!" cried Lulu and Susie. "April Fool! April Fool on you boys!"

Uncle Wiggily also laughed. The boys looked foolish. And then, all of a sudden, the Woolly Wolf popped out of the bushes.

"Quick, Jackie—Johnnie! Give the Wolf the sawdust chocolate cream and the red pepper carrot," whispered Lulu. "The April Fool things are here, and the girls took them from their pockets."

And when the Wolf chewed on the sawdust in the April Fool candy and nibbled the red pepper carrot, the Wolf coughed, sneezed, turned a somersault and away he ran.

"April Fool! April Fool!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "The bad chap was fooled, anyhow! And so he was. But it all happened for the best, didn't it? And Mr. Longears forgave the boys for trying to play tricks on him, and took them all to the movies."

Irish Face Civil War

Mutiny in Free State forces rouses fear of another outbreak of strife between opposing elements of Ireland's people. The shooting of a British soldier at Cork threatens to complicate the situation.

Ireland appears to be on the verge of a new inning of civil war. Counter-charge after counter-charge is being hurled in the military establishment of the Free State, which is being rocked to its foundations. Gen. Richard Mulcahy quit as minister of defense in the face of demands of the executive council, and General O'Duffy, commander of the army, is expected to quit, following a crisis caused by the shooting of British soldiers at Cork by members of the Free State army. Joseph McGrath is expected to be named minister of defense by President Cosgrove, in an effort to pacify tempestuous elements.

Daily News Letter

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers at Home and Abroad

By R. T. BULKELEY For International News Service.

CHICAGO, April 2.—A crusade against crime, through education, to prevent the development of potential criminal tendencies in boys, has been launched in Chicago by prison authorities, working with the board of education.

"Jail school" for young prisoners awaiting trial, believed to be one of the first of its kind in the country, has been established as the first step in an elaborate program, which envisions a complete educational system in all penal institutions in the country. Plans for the immediate extension of the system throughout Cook county are already being considered. The next step, it is expected, will be the establishment of a school for girl prisoners, which will include domestic science and arts courses.

The "jail school" opened with 200 pupils, 50 of whom were foreign-born, virtually unable either to read or write. All are aged from 17 to 20.

Their instructors are Miss Florence Scully, specially assigned to the work by the board of education, and E. J. Schroeder, who is in charge of a physical training course similar to that employed in the United States army. Prisoners who have had a high school education serve as assistant instructors.

Classes are held daily from 9:15 to 3:15 in a large, light room on the fourth floor of the jail building. The curriculum includes subjects regularly taught in the public schools, the pupils being divided into classes according to their previous training. Reading, writing, arithmetic, spelling, singing and physical culture occupy the major positions in the schedule.

Miss Scully claims her jail pupils are far more eager for learning than the pupils in the regular public schools. "Of course," she said, "it offers them a break in the monotony of jail life, and they are thankful for that alone, but among a large percentage of them there is a genuine desire for education. They realize their handicaps and are only too willing to do everything in their power to bring themselves to a better position in life."

Captain Wesley Westbrook in charge of the jail and general supervisor of the "jail school," is enthusiastic for the program.

"It's all most of these boys need," he declared. "This supplementing of the 'bull pen' with the classroom is a stride in the right direction in juvenile criminal punishment."

"We've been trying to get a school in the jail for a long time. Finally we have it, and we'll demonstrate in short time, I am sure, that it is a great thing for the boys. Heretofore the boys brought into jail had nothing to do but talk—and the natural thing for a boy who has led a life governed by false impulses, thinks he is a 'tough egg,' to do is to boast of his exploits."

"There is no question but that some of the boys we get in here are really bad. Many of them were born into a life of crime, and as they grow older there is nothing for them to do but to follow the footsteps of their criminal parents or guardians. They are swept into the current of the underworld without wish or equipment to fight against it, and soon they are arrested for, perhaps, a major crime.

"They are brought in here with other boys whose offenses have been slight—many of them but minor boyish pranks. But these boys sit and listen and learn from the other boys' boasting, and the result is two 'tough eggs.'"

"Now they have their studies to interest them and to talk about."

Aside from the unquestioned benefit of giving all the boys a taste of education, this benefit alone would be sufficient to warrant continuance and extension of the system. Under the new conditions when a boy prisoner leaves, he not only has been prevented from his wrongdoing, but he has been given an opportunity to absorb something which may turn his life into useful channels."

CLEVELAND, April 2.—Defended by its friends as the best city administration since the days of Tom L. Johnson; assailed by the little group of five independent councilmen in the city council as subversive to the control of political and financial interests, Cleveland's experiment in "city manager" government, under the leadership of City Manager William R. Hopkins, is the center of one of the warmest political fights in the history of the city.

Peter Witt, one of the lieutenants of Tom L. Johnson when that administrator was fighting the street railways and other public service corporations, and Prof. A. R. Hatton, author of the city manager charter and professor at Western Reserve University, two of the independent members of the council of twenty-five, are leading the opposition to the new mayor, because, they allege, he is subversive in his appointments to Maurice Maschke, Republican "boss," and W. Burr Gongwer, Democratic "boss" of the city.

At a recent meeting of council it was charged that, in violation of the city charter, friends of "organization" councilmen were being placed in "soft" jobs in the city service.

Manager Hopkins himself departed this as did heads of departments under him, but the independents insisted they could prove their case.

A close relationship, it was asserted by Witt, who clashed verbally with the city manager, existed between the present city administration and the new mayor, J. Van Sweringen, who control the Nickel Plate System and are now building a $50,000,000 Union railroad station on the Cleveland public square.

WARNS WOMEN THAT GOVERNMENT MAY LEAVE MOTHERS JOBLESS

The general tendency of the times is taking away gradually from motherhood and the school the responsibility that once rested upon them, with regard to the child. John J. Blaine, governor of Wisconsin, said in a recent address.

"The trend of affairs today is to substitute for the mother and the parent, in the regulation of children, the spy, the inspector and the policeman," the Governor declared. "If this tendency continues to its ultimate end, we will have the nationalizing of the child, intellectual castes and predestination by the state."

"Education should be for the welfare, first, of the individual, and then for the welfare of our social organization. A democracy in fulfilling its true mission must never drift away from its original moorings to which it is once tied—the individual."

"I believe in the old philosophy that the school is public, not the child. The state should not impose a heavy hand upon local initiative. State responsibility for children should not be substituted for parental responsibility."

The Governor declared that the state cannot afford to have the question of birth predestined by "any quackery of an alleged science."

"If there is another surrender of the obligations, parentage and of the school and the church to the state, then the state will be responsible for everything and must do everything."

"The state has its functions, but the state must not be substituted for the mother, the parent or the church."

"I bring to you the warning that benevolent bureaucracy is knocking at your door, to determine even as to the birth of your child and to substitute the state in all things affecting motherhood and parentage."

George Higgins Moses, who is a member of the senate jury passing judgment on the acts of Harry M. Daugherty as attorney-general, is a man from Maine who represents New Hampshire in the senate.

For more than 20 years he was president of the publishers, of Concord, N. H., filling in the same time many political offices. He was private secretary to the governor of New Hampshire from 1889 to 1891; secretary of the state forestry commission from 1893 to 1896, and at various times member of the board of education of Concord.

He was a delegate-at-large to the Republican convention of 1908. In 1909 he was named ambassador to Greece and Montenegro. This service ended in 1912. He was delegate-at-large again in 1916.

In 1918 he ran for an expired term in the senate, and was re-elected in 1921.

At Local Theatres

THE GATEWAY

"Wild Oranges" shows for today only at the Gateway theatre, a Goldwyn picture, directed by King Vidor, and offering a cast that includes Frank Mayo, Nigel de Bruiler, Virginia Valli and Ford Sterling. The story is taken from the book by Joseph Hergesheimer.

The picture starts with a runaway sequence which is terrifying in its realism. Ellen, wife of Woolfolk, is thrown from the rattling carriage as the team of frantic horses dash madly down the road. After his wife's death Woolfolk seeks seclusion aboard an old yacht. The death of his wife has embittered him.

Vidor took his entire Goldwyn company to Florida to make scenes for the picture and some very beautiful scenic photography is contained in the picture. John Boyle, considered the best cinematographer, who has been selected to photograph "Ben Hur," is responsible for the camera work on this production. The wild orange groves in blossom, the quiet, placid lagoon lined on either side by a tropical shore line of moss-covered trees, the reflection of the white-sailed yacht in the mirror-like waters of the

THE GLENDALE

"A Lady of Quality" shows at the Glendale theatre for the last times today, with Virginia Valli in the lead and a cast including Milton Sills. The story is by Frances Hodgson Burnett.

One of the greatest romances known to literature is brought to life in this magnificent production. It is the glowing, pulsating picture of the life and love of Chlorinda Wildars, the highly talented beauty of the most voluptuous, extravagant, colorful court ever established. A glorious picture of love in the days of old; a spectacle that will thrill, enthrall, and give to the heart and a genuine drama of human souls.

In "A Lady of Quality" the city of London in its most romantic period is recreated in scenes of tumultuous grandeur. Its whirling, swirling, gaily-costumed crowds, its soldiers, statesmen, its courtiers and ladies in silks and satins, its palaces and courts pass before your eyes, the background of a thrilling and gripping love story.

POISONING FROM MAH JONGG BOXES

Are you subject to poison ivy and poison oak, and do you like to play Mah Jongg? If so, better let somebody else take the set from the box, if you have one of those expensive imported sets from Japan or China. Why? Because the Japanese and Chinese employ as a varnish in their lacquer work an extract from a plant of the poison ivy family.

Several cases of poisoning have been reported recently. This Japanese and Chinese lacquer dermatitis (inflammation of the skin) is well known in the Orient; and cases have been reported among the pineapple workers in Hawaii, where the cans are put through a hot solution of gasoline and lacquer.

In the American Medical Journal of February 9, 1924, Drs. Levin and Zeisler report several cases of skin poisoning similar to poison ivy which were distinctly traced to the lacquer on the boxes of imported Mah Jongg sets. I will give a resume of the first case:

J. B., a man of 26, a silk salesman, came to the doctor with both eyelids swollen, bright red and covered with little blisters. The skin of the nose and cheeks was also similarly affected, as were the fingers of both hands. The patient complained of burning and intense itching. Other skin disorders were ruled out, and, under dressings with an alkaline lotion, the skin healed.

After about one week there was a recurrence. When the doctor entered the patient's home after the fresh outbreak, his attention was attracted to a beautiful Mah Jongg set in a lacquered box. This set had been purchased three days prior to the first attack, and the game had not been played again until the evening before the second attack. There was no recurrence of the trouble when J. B. stopped handling the lacquered box.

The case was diagnosed by Dr. Zeisler as a man who had had this dermatitis two days after he had purchased a Mah Jongg set. His symptoms were similar to J. B.'s. The doctor, suspecting that the

Seek Beauty's Slayer

Dr. Zoe Wilkins' death under mysterious circumstances is laid to jealousy by officers who are investigating the case, and who are checking up a list of names of men found in an address book in her luxurious apartment.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 2.—Dr. Zoe Z. Wilkins, wealthy and pretty physician and adventuress, had many admirers. In an address book found in her home were the names of forty-five men, unregistered liberty bonds and diamonds valued at $100,000.

Jesse James, an attorney, told police he had been retained by Dr. Wilkins several weeks ago to go to Colorado Springs, Colo., where Marsheffel now lives, to collect on the deed of trust. Despite the fact the strong box is missing, police are inclined to the theory that jealousy was the motive for the crime.

B. F. Tarpley, named as a frequent visitor to the Wilkins home, was held by the police for questioning, as was Charles L. Wilkins, brother of the slain woman. Another brother, Horace Wilkins, a farmer living near Willard, O., is here to aid in the investigation of her death.

Heart and Home

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I have been married less than a year. Before marriage my husband had every earmark of an industrious young man, and I believe was very ambitious.

Since our marriage he has lost, I think, every bit of his ambition. His work requires three or four hours a day, and the remainder of the day he spends in bed or around the house. I have a good position and pay more than half of the expenses.

My question is, how can I help him to wake up and try? He makes no effort to do better, and I want a home some day, and at this rate, it will never be.

Is it my fault in some way, or is there some way I can help him? I have tried every way I know.

Perhaps the best way to help him would be to stop paying half the expenses. You seem to be a shining example of the evils of both the husband and wife working for the living. Sometimes the longest way around is the shortest way home.

Even the sacrifice of the "good position" might be necessary to force enough sense of responsibility on your husband to make him hustle and maybe let you realize your dream of a real home. And by the way, on having it, is it your plan to go right on holding your "good position" and so lose the enjoyment of it? Better manage the home yourself, even at some sacrifice, and let your husband do the providing. Anything else is likely to bring about just what you have caused to happen.

Beauty Chats

HOLD THE HEAD UP

If you will learn the proper way of holding your head you will probably find the rest of your body falling naturally into a good position. It is impossible for you to go about in too round shouldered an attitude if you carry your head well up as it should be.

Here, for instance, is a picture of the average woman today. The neck is thrust forward until the face is in a line almost over the toes, the shoulders are forward so that if a rod were put across her chest from shoulder to shoulder the chest would probably be back a few inches. This position makes the spine curve outward from shoulder to shoulder, it also makes the abdomen prominent; indeed, in real life it often thrusts it ahead of the chest exactly as it does in modern fashion plates. It also makes the waistline go higher in the front than the back.

And I think the modern fashion pictures are entirely to blame, for the artists take up an attitude which a few Paris houses say is to be the thing that season and feature it in their drawings until some other sought-after dress designer decides that women shall stand in a different attitude. As for the women, consciously or unconsciously, they copy the pose of the live mannequins or those in the fashion pictures. And, unfortunately, it is always easier to copy a bad habit than a good one. Stand in front of a mirror and hold your head up. The rest of your body will straighten itself slightly as a result. Hold your chest up as high as you can get it, and your shoulders, back, and abdomen will go naturally into a proper and healthy position. At first you may look and feel as stiff as a wooden soldier but after a few minutes of critical study you will find the most graceful and most natural looking position. And though your clothes may be designed for the modern slouchy lines you will be surprised how much better they look when your figure is held upright.

A Bride Reader has written to ask for an article on making tea and coffee. There is no doubt that these two beverages, which are used so often, are among the very first things which the inexperienced cook should learn to make well.

To Make Good Tea:

The first consideration is the brand. It pays to buy a good grade of tea. The next step is to buy a small teaball. These come with a chain attached, and on the end of the chain is a hook which fastens into the spout of the teapot. Thus, the ball (filled with tea leaves) is suspended inside the pot, in the hot water, and the teapot's lid is placed on over the fine chain. When the water in the pot is sufficiently colored from the tea leaves, remove the tea ball and serve the tea at once. By using a tea ball the housekeeper saves herself the trouble of straining the tea, and also obviates the nuisance of having the tea become too strong because it has stood too long on the leaves. The ball should not remain in the pot for more than five minutes—generally considerably less. Have the water boiling-hot when you put it in the pot (it may not boil after the leaves are in it.) The proportion of leaves to allow for each cup vary with the brand used, but a general rule is one-half teaspoon of tea leaves to a cup of boiling water.

How to Make Good Coffee:

Coffee, like tea, should be of a good brand for best results. The average housekeeper finds a coffee percolator convenient. To make percolated coffee, put two table-spoons of ground-coffee into the percolator for each cupful to be made. Then add the measured amount of cold water. Set the percolator on a sheet-iron plate on the fire (or if it is an electric percolator, put in the plug) and let come to the boiling point; continue to boil for from three to five minutes—depending upon the strength liked. Serve at once.

It is not necessary, however, to own a percolator in order to make delicious coffee. The old-fashioned type of coffee pot, with its small, hinged cover, is just as serviceable as it was in grandmother's day. Here is the way the coffee-tasters make it: Allow one tablespoon of ground coffee to each person. Put it in a heated pot and pour over it one coffee cupful of boiling water for each tablespoon used; bring to boil, then let stand four minutes where it will keep hot but not boil. Add a dash of cold water to settle, and serve.

C. OF C. TO JOIN BATTLE AGAINST GALE DISEASE

Committee to Attend Meet at Los Angeles to Plan Plague Campaign

A committee representing the Glendale Chamber of Commerce met this morning with representative business men from all over this county at the rooms of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce to discuss plans for combating the foot and mouth disease that is ravaging the livestock of this state and to work out methods for co-operating with the authorities in the campaign to stamp out the sickness. The invitation to the meeting called for the presence of President W. E. Hewitt and Secretary E. F. Sanders, but the former appointed Directors C. W. Inglede and Harry G. MacBain to attend the meeting also.

Director Percy J. Hayselden, reporting on a conference he had held with a leading packer of Los Angeles, Thomas H. Graham, stated that the stockyards in this county and in other affected areas are being disinfected and that the meat inspection by the Los Angeles city officials is to be made more rigid.

There is now on hand, Mr. Hayselden stated, a ten-day supply of meat for the people of this county, and the packers are planning to butcher cattle in Arizona and ship the meat in here, so that any fear of a shortage is unfounded.

City Officials Help

City Manager V. B. Stone also stated that the city milk inspectors are co-operating with the county officials to prevent the spread of the disease and that every precaution is being taken to safeguard the city's milk supply.

Owing to the fact that inspectors have been adopted, he said, milk inspectors are not permitted to go from one dairy to another, for fear of carrying the plague.

All banks, Director A. R. Eastman stated, have been requested by the California Bankers' association to assist in fighting the plague and have been assessed a proportion of the cost of the campaign to eradicate the disease.

Tells Sewer Delay

City Manager Stone, in reporting on the reasons for the delay in the start of the sewer system, stated that the principal cause has been the difficulty in securing final easements for rights of way through the line to be followed by the sewers, but he stated that this difficulty should be entirely overcome within the next two weeks.

The field work has been finished and the final location established, with the exception of that portion that is to traverse the Southern Pacific yards and negotiations are under way to wrap up this part as soon as possible.

The Southern Pacific, Mr. Stone declared, is the only corporation that has asked a money payment for granting the right of way for the sewers, others having freely granted the engineers permission to traverse their property, while in the case of small property owners in Glendale the only payment asked was one sufficient to recompense the owners for actual damage done to their lots or homes.

Los Angeles Mix-up

Another obstacle encountered, he stated, was that Los Angeles, in planning its outfall sewer, had a project that had been launched before the Glendale sewer system had assumed concrete shape, had prepared a set of maps and profiles that were found to be inaccurate in many respects, due largely, he claimed, to the variety of sources from which the information was secured, and these profiles and those of the Glendale system had to be brought into harmony before the final location of the field lines could be established.

Los Angeles, he said, had also installed a 24-inch prison sewer main on the line to be followed by the Glendale sewer, and another readjustment of the location had to be made in this case. This confusion, Mr. Stone declared, arose through one Los Angeles department proceeding with its plans without consulting the other city departments interested, with the result that Glendale's sewer system has been materially delayed.

Mr. Stone also reported on the plans that are under consideration for flood control in this region, under the terms of the bond issue that is to be voted on at the May 6 election. He praised Supervisor Henry W. Wright for the support he has extended to Glendale throughout the negotiations for funds to be expended on flood control projects in the vicinity of Glendale, and the directors authorized Secretary Sanders to write to Supervisor Wright expressing the appreciation of the board.

Will Hold Banquet

Plans for holding the banquet at the Oakmont Country club, at which a campaign will be started to raise an advertising fund for Glendale, were told by Director R. F. Kitterman, a member of the ways and means committee, who stated that other cities are spending more on their advertising than Glendale is doing.

Secretary Sanders outlined the plans that are under way for the address by Albee Semple MacPherson at the Broadway High school next Monday night, and

Wins Wisconsin Delegates

ROBERT M. LA FOLLETTE, who defeated President Coolidge in Wisconsin. The result was expected, for Coolidge leaders previous to the election admitted the president could not hope to carry the senator's own state. La Follette is declared to be ready to appear on a third party ticket if the Republicans renominate Coolidge. The recent elections in North Dakota showed unexpected sentiment in favor of La Follette in preference to Hiram Johnson.

MILWAUKEE, April 2.—Senator Robert M. La Follette increased his numerical lead over President Coolidge in the fight for Wisconsin's delegates to the Cleveland convention as additional returns were received today. Returns from 460 precincts gave: La Follette 48,904; Coolidge 26,592. Governor Al Smith of New York held his early lead over William G. McAdoo for the Democratic delegation.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 2.—Senator Robert La Follette was leading President Coolidge two to one in early returns from the Wisconsin primary today. Governor Al Smith of New York was ahead of William G. McAdoo for the Democratic presidential endorsement by a ratio slightly under 5 to 3.

Note Is Light

Light voting was reported from most of the state on account of snowbound roads.

The Wisconsin senator's popularity was demonstrated in the North Dakota primaries, official returns showing he gained five delegates, though his name was not on the ticket.

Plan Law to Prevent Reckless Car Driving

Driving ahead with its program to remove the reckless motorist from the highway the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce has published the text of a specimen law for the impounding of motor vehicles of offenders.

This bill has been drawn by constitutional lawyers with the aim of getting a measure which will be practical and will be in accord with legislative precedent.

To Teach Aliens Our Fish and Game Laws

HARTFORD, Conn., April 2.—With the influx into state courts of large numbers of violators of the state fish and game laws, Americanization workers in all parts of Connecticut are devoting extra time to teaching residents of foreign birth what these laws are and what they mean.

Meanwhile, peace officers in towns along the state's borders are watching all waters to catch out-of-state residents who may fish without first obtaining Connecticut licenses. Unnaturalized persons using firearms and citizens of other states without fishing licenses from Connecticut form the big majority of all the court cases.

SHAW'S BRILLIANT COMEDY WILL BE STAGED BY CLUB

Plot of Play Shows Clever Satire on Conventions of Present Day

Friday and Saturday nights Glendaleans are going to find out some convincing reasons why "You Never Can Tell," as presented by Bernard Shaw in his four-act comedy of that name, to be given at the Tuesday Afternoon club under the auspices of the drama section.

In the Glendale Evening News of yesterday the cast of the play was given, and today Mrs. Max Lynn Green, curator of the department, gives an interesting sketch of the plot.

"You Never Can Tell," a four-act play written by Bernard Shaw, has as a background an English seaside resort. It is a summer day, and at the time when woman's suffrage was at its height and what is now the modern flapper was just beginning to emerge from her clinging vine stage.

Children's Ideas

"Mrs. Clandon, an ardent suffrage leader and an authoress of numerous books on woman's rights, with her three children, Gloria, Dorothy and Philip, have returned to England after eighteen years in Madeira.

"Phil and Dolly, twins about eighteen years old, think all Englishmen a joke and have no idea of conventionalities so loved by the English people.

"Gloria, the elder daughter, has been brought up on platform speeches and twentieth century principles with the idea of carrying on her mother's work.

"The play opens with a scene in a dental office, where the twins try to convince Mr. Valentine, a newly arrived dentist, of their respectability and good fellowship.

You Never Can Tell

"Mr. Crampton soon seeks counsel from the family solicitor and demands the custody of the children. Complications arise, many of which are smoothed over by the waiter William, who acts on the assumption that one's life is predestined and you never can tell how things will end.

"A romance between Gloria and Mr. Valentine shows the methods of the modern man and the twentieth century woman, which prove most interesting and enlightening.

"The play ends with much left to the imagination, concerning the destiny of the older ones and visions of wedded bliss on the part of the younger ones; and leaves in one's mind the thought that life is not run according to rule and that you never can tell, you never can tell."

DEBATING TEAMS IN CONTEST FOR ORATORY HONORS

Glendale and Los Angeles Students Will Discuss Monroe Doctrine

The Glendale Union High school debating team will meet the team from the Los Angeles High school, in the auditorium of the latter, at 8 o'clock Friday night, April 4, on the subject, Resolved, That the Monroe doctrine should no longer be maintained as an essential principle of our foreign policy.

The Glendale team comprising Bonnie James Lockwood and Paul Cunningham, will uphold the affirmative side, states Miss Mary G. Corry of the G. U. H. S. department of oratory and debate. It will be the last and biggest debate of the Southern California league season.

District Try-Outs

On the following Friday night, April 11, there will be held at the Broadway High school auditorium the district try-outs for the constitutional oratorical contest, when six contestants will vie with one another for the honor of representing the local high school at Long Beach, May 2, in the semifinals. The six are Arden Gingery, Spencer Gar, Ruth Yoder, Donald Murray, Marjorie Prialux and Donald McMillan.

The winners of the Long Beach contest will compete with orators from the Los Angeles High school for the championship of the Pacific Southwest. The winners in this latter contest will go to Washington, D. C., where on June 7 they will compete in the national contest, to the winner of which goes $3,500 in cash, in addition to all expenses.

There was a girls' assembly at 12:55 o'clock today in the Broadway High school auditorium, followed by a boys' assembly at 1:20 o'clock. Many "family" matters were discussed, among them the honor system.

DEMAND PRE-WAR WAGE STANDARDS

British Workmen to Fight Reduction Policy by Industrial Firms

By LUTHER A. HUSTON
For International News Service.
LONDON, April 2.—British working men are going out after more wages.

"The trade unions of this country have for too long experienced low wages," is the way Frank Hodges, who recently resigned the secretaryship of the Miners' Federation to become Civil Lord of the Admiralty in the labor government, puts it.

"This has been largely due to the action of the governments since 1920, which supported measures for wage reduction on the ground that low wages is the royal road to economic recovery. That theory no longer stands. The countries in which there is least unemployment are the countries where wages are highest and the volume of business is greatest, because of the purchasing power created by higher wages."

Miners Will Act

A wild guess as to the dockworkers who launched a fight for increases in pay. They won a notable victory. Their success is encouraging other unions, and the next trade union that will press its claims for larger compensation is the Miners' Federation. Although he has resigned his official connection with the miners' organization, Hodges is qualified to state their case.

"What the miners want in essence," he said, "is that they should have earnings at the minimum real wage they earned in 1914. In other words, they ask for the 1914 standard of life to be reestablished. Ever since the great lockout of 1921 the miners have received wages which are considerably below the 1914 values. They have taken no action hitherto for two reasons.

Stationary Costs

"First, because their strength was considerably weakened by the great lockout of 1921. Secondly, because they were always hoping for a brighter time when they would be able to obtain, out of their agreement with the owners, wages that would at least equal the cost of living.

"But the cost of living has remained practically stationary and, in my opinion, will not move outside a radius of ten points in the next decade. The wages of the men under the present scale cannot catch up with the increase in the cost of living, hence the imperative need for an adjustment.

"The miners are asking for a higher minimum wage within the terms of the agreement—that is, the raising of the minimum increase of 20 per cent to 40 per cent—and they are asking the colliery owners to take a lesser rate of profit than the agreement has given them. Although the terms of the agreement have, in some districts, meant semi-starvation to the workmen and com-

Gives His Blood To Save Live of Strange Sufferer

Ray Puckett, credit manager of a large Wichita, Kan., department store, gave two pints of his blood to save the life of a man who was a total stranger to him. Boyd Newcom, auctioneer, was in a Wichita hospital, dying from ulcers of the stomach. A blood transfusion was needed. One of the nurses in the hospital happened to remember that Puckett saved the life of a buddy in France by giving blood. She telephoned him within a short time he was in the operating room. He suffered no ill effects, and the stranger is on the road to recovery.

THIEVES FOILED IN ATTEMPT TO BLOW SAFE OPEN

Yeggs Scared Off Before Efforts Succeed, Says Police Official

Safe-crackers who attempted to blow the safe of the Glendale Sheet Metal Works at 733 South San Fernando road last night were not rewarded for their efforts, as they had evidently been frightened away before completing their job.

On investigation this morning, Captain W. A. Loving found that they had jimmied a rear window to gain an entrance into the office, and after chiseling the combination off the safe had left the premises. Nothing else had been disturbed.

Office Is Wrecked

The office of the Glendale Lumber company at 314 North San Fernando road was completely wrecked last night, according to a report made by R. E. Boyd, manager, to Lieut. W. J. Royle of the police department this morning. The invaders had crawled in over the rafters, and after destroying as much property as possible, had smashed the front door.

Wrecks were strewn all over the floor and the whole place was in confusion. As far as could be ascertained, nothing had been taken.

Unscrewing Inscrutable Denounced by Bishop

LONDON, April 2.—People are making a serious error in trying to find out what takes place after death by attending spiritualistic seances with the object of trying to discover what God would not have them to know, according to the Bishop of Exeter, well-known clerical figure in English life.

"Such people are meeting with their just reward," said the bishop. "I believe that the veil is lifted at these seances; but not by the Holy Spirit. What people see is not what God would have them see, but what God allows them to see, so that their temerity should be properly rewarded."

WICKSTROM ASKS TIME TO SECURE HELP OF LAWYER

Preliminary Hearing Goes Over Till April 14 on Burglary Charge

The preliminary hearing of C. H. Wickstrom of Tujunga, held by the police in connection with a number of burglaries committed in Glendale during the past six months, was continued this morning by Judge F. H. Lowe until Monday, April 14, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, due to the defendant's inability to secure an attorney while confined in the county jail at Los Angeles. He stated that he would be prepared to present his defense at that time.

Meanwhile local officers are busy recovering additional stolen property traced through papers alleged to have been found on Wickstrom's person. Lieut. W. J. Royle and Detective Sergeant Charles P. Blake yesterday afternoon took possession of a rug at the residence of John DeVito, 551 Kingsley drive, Wilshire, which he had received from Wickstrom, it is said, with other property, in exchange for an automobile.

Payment On Home

It was stated yesterday that Wickstrom had made the first payment on his home, which he purchased from C. R. Morgan, Tujunga, with merchandise, which included a mink cape of three-quarters length, with the collar trimmed with brown cloth. The cape was lined with blue silk. There are four tails on the back of the cape, with tails on the front also. It is regarded as being very valuable by the police. An expensive black muff was also recovered.

Mrs. Wickstrom was further questioned at her home yesterday afternoon by Detective Sergeant H. A. Stanford, with Deputy Sheriff Glen Wilson and Henry Purrier. They returned with further property from the house which they say she admitted was not her property. This included a large number of tools of various kinds, women's wearing apparel and a handbag marked "A. B." The initials had been partly obliterated.

Identify Property

A large amount of property recovered has been identified, but the police are bending their efforts to discover the location of other storage places, which they are convinced Wickstrom used, they say.

Practically all of the identification has been made by Glendale people. Deputy sheriffs are tracing Wickstrom's record in Eagle Rock, where it is said he worked as an electrician.

CLEVELAND WILL ENTERTAIN G. O. P.

City Planning for Influx of Convention Delegates and Party Hosts

By WILLIAM J. HUSKE
For International News Service.
CLEVELAND, April 2.—Plans for housing about 25,000 delegates and party hosts at the thousand or more working press representatives who will invade Cleveland prior to the opening of the Republican national convention next June have been practically completed, Colonel Carmel Thompson, chairman of the local convention committee, has announced.

With the exceptions of the assignment of quarters to the Maine and Alabama delegations, the requirements of every State have been taken care of, it was stated.

"The greatest crowds in the history of Cleveland are expected to invade the city by train, interurban and motor car. It was predicted that a larger number than ever before in the history of a political convention would make the trip in their own cars, and a subcommittee of the committee on arrangements has supervision of the working plans for looking after the influx of cars from the Rolls-Royce to the tin lizzie expected to come and see the wheels go round.

Hotels—at least the downtown ones—will be pretty well filled with members of the national committee, delegates, alternates and newspapermen, who will assemble here from every part of the country to make the history and write it from a thousand varying viewpoints for the information of those who must stay at home.

To Care For All

The other fellows—the casual convention visitor who comes by himself, or with his family, to see a President named—will be taken care of all right, committee members declare; but the first thing is to see that the men who have to attend the sessions of the convention for one reason or another are adequately looked after and their needs supplied.

As to the entertainment, the committee has under way plans at this time which, members believe, will cause Cleveland to be long remembered as a convention host. Recalling the favorable publicity San Francisco received as host of the Democratic legions four years ago, Cleveland has decided to take a leaf from San Francisco's book and write a new one as well.

TABLET WILL BE LAID AT SCHOOL BY NATIVE SONS

Impressive Ceremony Marks Dedication Exercises on Friday Afternoon

A bronze tablet will be laid at the Glendale Union Broadway High school 2:15 o'clock Friday afternoon, by the Native Sons of the Golden West, with impressive dedicatory exercises at which Mayor Spencer Robinson and President W. E. Hewitt, of the Chamber of Commerce, will represent the city of Glendale and Principal George U. Moysse of the G. U. H. S., Sheriff William Traeger of Los Angeles county and other prominent officials, will participate, including five grand officers of the Native Sons.

The tablet will be 14 by 26 inches and will have inscribed on it the following words:

This Building Is Dedicated To Truth, Liberty and Tolerance By The Native Sons of the Golden West April 4, 1924

Program to Follow

The exercises will open with a speaking program in the auditorium and will be followed by brief outdoor exercises by the main entrance to the Broadway High school, where the tablet will be laid.

A feature of these concluding exercises will be the committing in of the tablet with sand gathered from every county of California, mixed with water from every one of the old missions in the state, thus lending to the ceremony a spiritual significance that will dedicate the Broadway High school for all time to the ideal of California on which is founded the organization, the Native Sons of the Golden West.

CLAIMS ARTISTS CAN'T HAVE UNION

Work Is Not Measured in Concrete Terms, Says College Professor

BERKELEY, Cal., April 2.—Although actors may form equity unions, individual artists as such can never form unions any more than composers of music can band together into a union.

"This opinion was given by Professor F. W. Nahl, of the department of art at the University of California.

"Commercial artists are different from professional artists in that they are salesmen as well as artists. They thus band together to protect themselves against unfair competition and discrimination upon the part of the public, just as musicians form unions to maintain a definite price for their work," he said.

"Pictures are records of personal expression, as the artists are distinct individuals and do their work alone and in their own organizations and clubs or unions as exemplified in a musician's strike in ancient Greece. "The craft guilds of the Middle Ages have developed into the modern union so that every worker can now be assured of a certain price for his product.

"Artists, however, cannot do this, as their work is not something that can be measured in such concrete terms. Artists are the whole work for certain ideals, and in this respect are similar to the craftsmen of Brussels in the Middle Ages, when they came together and vied for the honor of winning prizes for the best handicraft work."

World's greatest cavern, Carlsbad Cave, contains no vegetable nor animal life with the exception of millions of bats that beat about in the vast darkness.

the members declared, "in after years that Cleveland once entertained the Republican National Committee. We want visitors to remember us so pleasantly that they'll be anxious to come back in 1928, and the Democrats as well. Once we get our hand in this matter we intend to go the entire way."

Rates Kept Down

Hotel rates will not be increased in the slightest degree, it was officially stated. Some of the delegations will be housed at one hotel, although some of the larger ones, like New York and Pennsylvania, will be split up and entertained at different places. The Massachusetts delegation, because of the added prominence of furnishing one of the leading candidates in the person of President Coolidge, also will have headquarters at the Cleveland, Hollenden, Statter and Fenway Hall.

While Senator Hiram Johnson will have his headquarters at the Cleveland, the California delegation has had quarters reserved at the Olmstead, within a stone's throw of the public hall where the convention will be held.

The big Illinois delegation will be housed at the Statter, and the Wisconsin friends of Senator Robert M. La Follette at the Winton.

WHITE SOX WILL BATTLE INDIANS

Locals and Seattle Squad to Hook Up Saturday at Glendale Park

Frank Kerwin plans to send his regular White Sox team against the Seattle Indians next Saturday, according to an announcement made this morning.

"We have won our last five starts, trimming some of the best teams in this part of the country, and I figure they are good enough to give Wade Killefer's bunch a struggle. I realize that the Coast Leaguers will be in good shape, as it is only three days from the opening game of the season, yet the youngsters will be there to win against leaguers, and we have a chance to get the decision."

It will be interesting for the local fans to see how the Sox hit against class AA pitching. They have been pounding local hurlers all over the lot, many of the hits going for extra bases. Just how strong they will be against a superior brand of pitchers remains to be seen, but the game ought to be a pipkin in any case.

Prepares Grounds

An extra force is at work at the White Sox park putting on the finishing touches, although the stay of the Indians will be of short duration. Kerwin hopes by treating them well this year to attract some coast or major league team here for the entire training season in 1925. Extra showers are being installed and the diamond is being manicured for the Indians' visit.

Saturday baseball is a new venture, but as the Scouts had taken the park for the lacrosse game on Sunday, there was no alternative for the Sox management. Kerwin hopes to pack the park for Killefer. He is arranging several novel entertainment stunts for the visitors and hopes to make their short stay in Glendale a pleasant one.

PROVIDES PUNCH TO LAST SEASON

Connie Mack Gets Players Able to Swat When Hits Needed

By NICK FLATLEY
For International News Service.
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 2.—Connie Mack has imported some punch for his Athletics and expects to cut quite a figure in the American league race.

The somber Cornhusker, if you remember, started the world last spring when his ball club stepped right out and threatened to spread-eagle the field.

The Athletics blew and finished seventh. And all because they lacked the punch to support very good pitching. The punch is present now and will be throughout the campaign, according to Connie.

"This team will not flash and then fade," he explained. "The new players are good hitters, the kind that improve as the season wears on. If the pitchers come through we will be up there."

There appears to be no good reason why the pitchers should not give as good an account of themselves as any staff in the circuit.

Are All Sluggers

Connie's new regulars, supposed to make the team a hitting power, are Paul Strand, outfielder, who hit .394 in Salt Lake; Al Simmons, outfielder, who registered .398 with Milwaukee, and Max Bishop, second baseman, who rung up .330 in Baltimore. These athletic young men cost the A's large collections of dollars, but the club officials evidently now believe contenders pay better than tail-enders.

Strand is a converted pitcher, formerly with the Braves. He hurt his arm and for four years has been a slugging outfielder. Simmons is a fence-buster. He's a kid with speed and cleverness and Mack has him elected to be a real sensation.

Bishop guarded the keystone for five years for Jack Dunn's International champions.

Tiger Freshmen Nine to Meet Lincoln High

Rumors, Denials, Alibis

Scientists have been busy discovering aged fossils on the Rancho Cunaajo, digging them out of the sand pits. These scientific men can save a bit of digging by frequenting most any golf links.

Learned men of science are building up the skulls they found in order to determine what they are and they say it may take months. Baseball managers can sympathize in this work. They try for months to build up a skull, only to find that it is something that cannot be printed in a family newspaper.

Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills are almost matched for a bout at Tia Juana Labor Day, so the gabby press agents buzz. Uh, huh, William Jennings Bryan was almost matched for a bout in the White House once, also.

Now that the Coffroth Handicap at Tia Juana has cooked itself a lot of publicity by rumormongering and denying a Dempsey-Wills match, you have to admit that the ways of promoters in getting free advertising are certainly marvellous.

Jack Sparr won an easy victory over Joe Layman at San Pedro. He was just sparring around a bit, so to speak.

LACROSSE TEAMS TO MEET SUNDAY

Canadian Club Lads and Picked Squad to Meet on Local Grounds

A record crowd is expected by Ralph Hemphill, in charge of arrangements, when the picked lacrosse team from Los Angeles, Long Beach and Glendale cross sticks with the crack Southern California Canadian club squad at the White Sox park next Sunday afternoon.

The affair is being sponsored by the Scouts, and the proceeds will go to sending the local Scouts band, prize winners at San Diego last fall, to the state convention this summer. The band will be in attendance during the game as an added attraction.

For those who do not know what lacrosse is all about an expert with a megaphone will be stationed in front of the grand stand to explain each point of the game. Ralph Hemphill states for the benefit of those who have never seen lacrosse played, that it is a man's game all the way through.

Dinner to Winners

If the opening venture is a success, and every indication points that way now, it is probable that a southern California league will be formed with one team in Glendale.

As an added prize for Sunday's game, Scot Samaloff, proprietor of the West Cafe, 137 South Brand boulevard, will provide a dinner to the winning team.

Tickets are on sale at the following places: Arthur Dibbern, 121 1/2 North Brand; Carlock's, 135 1/2 South Brand; Holzer's Candy Shop, 113 West Broadway; Becker's Drug Store, 114 North Brand, and the Glendale Pharmacy, 628 East Broadway.

GRAND OLD MAN OF LINKS TO RETIRE

Once Earned Renown as 'Forty Hole Fairbanks' in Golf Game

By MICHAEL F. DACEY
For International News Service.
DENVER, April 2.—Walter (Father) Fairbanks, 72, grand old man of Colorado golf, and nationally known in golfing circles, is "going home."

An attack of influenza that left the grizzled veteran of the links in a nervous condition has resulted in his physicians taking golf—his life for the last twenty-five years—away from him, and "Father" Fairbanks is bidding farewell to Denver and returning to Pennybont, Gildford, Surrey, near London.

He will pay a visit to his old golf cronies in Florida before sailing for England.

"Father" Fairbanks will take home with him more than fifty cups and trophies and thirty odd medals—convincing proof of his prowess on the links in the United States during the last quarter century.

Fairbanks has always remained in the amateur ranks and played the old Scotch game for the sheer love of it, and his load of trophies is a tribute to his consummate skill, competing in Colorado, Florida and California championships, and in numerous national tournaments.

One of his greatest accomplishments was the match in which he won the sobriquet "Forty Holes" Fairbanks, when, in 1900, he carried a young chap named Curtis, the then national intercollegiate champion, to the fortieth hole at Onwentsia before age bowed to the superiority of youth and Curtis won.

Some of the high spots in Fairbanks' record follow: Colorado champion, 1902, 1903, 1904, 1905. Southern California champion, 1901, 1902, 1905. Pacific Coast champion, 1902. Southern Florida champion, 1908, 1909, 1910, 1913, 1919.

In addition to these victories, "Father" Fairbanks was runner-up and medalist in many championship matches in various sections of the country; won the Apawamis senior championship in 1913; took the Denver Country club title ten different years, and captured the president's trophy at the Palm Beach Golf club in 1908. He had the best amateur score in the Florida open championship in 1910.

Of all his golfing feats "Father" Fairbanks is proudest of finishing second in the Florida open championship of 1902, when he lost by a single stroke to Willie Anderson, a noted professional. Practically all the top-notch pros in the country competed in this tournament.

Oxy Baseball Teams Win Double Victory

The Occidental baseball teams scored a double victory yesterday afternoon when the varsity trimmed Loyola 6 to 2, and the freshmen beat Manual Arts 14 to 2. The varsity game was stopped by rain early in the eighth.

Ryan started hurling for the Loyola crew and was replaced by Daily, who pitched a good game. Bradstreet was behind the bat for the visitors. Squint Fulton did all the mound work for the Oxy team and allowed only five hits.

Tiger Tennis Stars Trim Pasadena Squad

The Oxy freshmen tennis team, minus Harold Dickens, traveled over to Pasadena High yesterday afternoon and defeated the Bulldog varsity 3 to 2. The Tiger three-man team won first, second and third singles. The first doubles was the best match of the tournament, but was called off on account of darkness after the Oxy team took the first set, 7-5, and the Bulldogs had nabbed the second set, 15-13.

De Palma to Contest Haugdahl on Sunday

An agreement has been signed by Ralph De Palma, George Bentel and Sig Haugdahl, which provides for the two motor racing stars to meet at Ascot Speedway next Sunday afternoon in a one-heat match race for a total purse of $25,000, winner take all, both pilots to tool Miller cars.

President Bentel has been in the hospital since Saturday afternoon, when a speeding motor-bike artist struck him, fracturing Bentel's left leg.

Following the great showing of De Palma Sunday in the feature race and Haugdahl's superb win of the Ascot Helmet Dash, Bentel sent for the drivers and informed them that he was willing to hang up a big cash purse for a real match race between the pair, providing he was assured there would be no chance for a fluke. Bentel also demanded that the drivers secure backing for a side-bet, and that the entire purse go to the winner, with no loser's end to save the wounded feelings of the man finishing second.

Arthur Havers flops in local appearances; other sporting comment.

By COPELAND C. BURG.
For International News Service.
SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—Golf champions are not a whit different from topnochers in other sports.

They come and go like the morning dew. Witness the 'flop' taken by Arthur Havers, British open champion, in his visit to the Pacific Coast.

Havers failed to get anywhere in the California open golf championship, which was won by Donald Smith of San Francisco.

Gene Sarazen did not do anything in the California open either but he came back a fortnight later and played some mighty fine golf at the Lake Merced course, San Francisco and the Hillcrest course, Los Angeles, when he defeated Havers. With the nerve and confidence of his compatriot, Mussolini, Sarazen delighted California players when he took the Briton into camp.

High School Crews

Universities of the country ranking high in crew will have to look to their laurels. California has a new coach, but more important is the announcement that half a dozen or more California high schools are to turn out crews. Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley high schools are to have annual regattas. This means plenty of material for the University crews.

Bull Montana can cavort and throw pies in the moves and he can also wrestle. Brittle hands have caused the downfall of more than one promising pugilist. Harry Wills has tender hands and Jimmy Delaney, sensational St. Paul boxer, recently seen on the coast to the delight of many fans, is bothered with soft dukes. Eddie Diggins, San Francisco lightweight, is going to have a rest because his mits have failed him.

Cobb Sends Callard To Minors for Year

Manager Ty Cobb of the Detroit Tigers announced yesterday that Pitcher Hap Callard had been farmed out to the Augusta club for the year.

Callard was the only winning pitcher with the Glendale White Sox during the winter, and, in addition to starring on the mound, led the team in hitting. He formerly played with Sacramento.

Cobb stated that he thought so well of him that he did not want to release him outright, but was of the opinion that with another year in the minors he should be ready for big league baseball.

Women's Fancy Driving Meet to Be April 26

The national senior championship meet for women's fancy driving is to be held this year in Southern California, when the national low and high board diving champion, Miss Betty Becker, will compete at Pasadena on April 26 to defend her title.

The entries close April 20. Betty Becker will have plenty of competition from the Misses Carol Fletcher and Ruth Lewis of the Pacific coast. Other contestants include Alleen Riggan, Olympic champion of 1920; Helen Wainwright, all-around champion woman diver of the world, and Miss Helen Meaney, high diving champion.
