THE FASTEST GROWING CITY IN THE WORLD

BOND ISSUE OF $100,000 TO BE ASKED OF CITIZENS FOR CITY IMPROVEMENTS

$25,000 for Purchase of Sites for Comfort Stations to Be Located in Places Accessible to Tourists to Meet Insistent Demand on Such Needs

$40,000 ADDITION TO CITY HALL PROPOSED

$35,000 to Be Asked for the Betterment of Streets Adjoining Public Schools, and Other Public Work, Declared to Be Needed

On August 29th the residents of Glendale will vote on the proposition of voting bonds to the extent of $100,000 for municipal improvements, according to action taken by the city council last night. These improvements will consist of $40,000 for an addition to the city hall, $35,000 for the improvement of streets adjoining the schools of the city and other municipal property, and $25,000 for the purchasing of a site and the installation of one or more public comfort stations.

All of these improvements are needed, as anyone who is in touch with city affairs well knows. The city hall is crowded to the limit and the various departments have not sufficient room in which to work. And in the face of this the city administration must grow in proportion to the growth made by the city as a whole.

In the past a number of various street improvement projects have been held up on account of the school board being unable to pay for the street work adjacent to schools. The voting of these bonds will take care of the streets adjoining all the schools and other city property.

That comfort stations are badly needed is generally realized, and the $25,000 bonds will doubtless be voted for this purpose.

The directors of the chamber of commerce will not hold their regular weekly noonday luncheon meeting today. Instead they will meet tonight, at 8 o'clock, at the dining room of the Chamber of Commerce.

Humanity Finds Its Happiness in Various Ways—Foley

"Happiness is not the same with all people," says James W. Foley and in The Listening Post this evening he points out that to the seekers of wealth it means riches; to the one searching for fame it means to be known afar; the seeker of knowledge always eager to find something new, it is the latter who probably comes closer to happiness than any of the others, according to Mr. Foley. It is his urge to learn something that makes for progress without which there would be stagnation, he declares. As usual the Listening Post is filled with a wisdom which is edifying.

Then today there is some mighty interesting comment on happenings of the day by Henry Jones, who writes of politics from various phases. The editorials, too, are worthy of consideration, for they deal with questions of vital interest to everyone participating in worldly affairs. There is a strong editorial prohibition and the resulting good nature on politics and one of particular interest about 'Lloyd George's' warning.

Dr. Frank Crane's serial on Democracy is continued, and then there are the regular daily features including Della Stewart, the poem, John Pillgram, scientific facts and eastern point of view.

PACIFIC AVENUE CHURCH GROWS 110 PER CENT

Wins First Honors at Last Quarterly Conference of District

The last quarterly conference of the Pacific Avenue Methodist church with Dr. W. L. Y. Davis presiding, was held at the church on West Harvard and Pacific, last evening.

The conference opened with song and Rev. Harley G. Preston, pastor of the church, led in prayer, after which Dr. Davis superintendent of the Pasadena district, made a very helpful devotional address.

The business of the conference was then taken up and all church officers for the coming church year were nominated and elected. Reports from the Sunday school, Epworth League, Brotherhood, Ladies Aid, J. O. C. class, foreign and home missionary societies, treasurer and pastor all showed a fine increase in membership, attendance and finance. The treasurer's report showed a marked increase in receipts.

Rev. Preston reported a net percentage gain in membership of 110 percent which Dr. Davis states is the record so far in the fourth quarterly conferences of the Pasadena district. Dr. Davis also says that Mr. Preston has the laurels so far in the district in the highest number of pastoral calls.

Among other things, the pastor said in his report: "We have endeavored to link this church up with the community life of our city. Though we are still in the cradle, we are healthy and strong and being heard from. I dare say this church has been second to none in the amount of publicity accorded it during the past year. We are very grateful to the Glendale Press for space in their paper from time to time made possible through their kindness.

"The people of this church have done well. The pastor wishes to express his sincere appreciation for the fine support they have given him in his program. Much good work, with your splendid cooperation has been accomplished. There is much more yet to be done. May God bless you the coming year."

Rev. Preston complimented the various societies and their leaders and the church treasurer, Mr. Harold Adams on their splendid work. He also thanked Dr. W. W. Cookman, former pastor for three years, who was present, for his sympathetic support during the past year.

Dr. Cookman spoke highly of the work done by the present pastor. The conference voted unanimously for the return of Rev. Preston for another year. The conference then adjourned subject to the call of the pastor for final reports and adjustments.

CASA VERDUGO ANNEXATION PETITION STARTED INTO CIRCULATION BY KELLY

Proposition Is to Be Presented to Foothill Improvement Association At Meeting At Central School House, Called for Tonight

MEXICAN SHACK POINTS TO DANGER TO CITY

Need of Getting Into the Community Where Such Menaces to Property Values and Health Can Be Eliminated; Calls for Instant Action

A petition for the annexation of the Casa Verdugo section to Glendale will be set in motion by W. B. Kelly, a prominent realtor of Glendale and a resident of that northern territory, at the special meeting of the Foothill Improvement association at the Central Avenue grammar school tonight. This meeting promises to be one of the most important sessions ever held by this body. The fact that Mr. Kelly will sign his name at the head of this petition is significant in view of the fact that heretofore he has worked valiantly to keep Casa Verdugo outside of Glendale.

The Mexican shack that is being erected at the intersection of the wash and Central avenue is the direct cause of the annexation talk, which has been going on for the past few months, being brought to an issue.

The residents up there realize to the fullest extent that the establishment of the Mexican quarters, right in the heart of the highly restricted district, in which there are many beautiful homes, is the worst thing that could possibly happen to their section. They know that if this feature is permitted to exist it will be a detriment to their entire locality. It is situated on one of the principal traveled boulevards of the valley and also on the Pacific Electric line, where it cannot help but be seen by hundreds of people who visit this section daily. This, with these northerly residents feel, prove extremely injurious to their locality.

"I am sure that if another election for the annexation of Casa Verdugo to Glendale is held it will carry," said W. B. Kelly this morning. "The people up there view this matter a great deal differently now than they did at the time the last election was held. I have been in favor of annexation for several months and will do all I can to put the proposition over when it is brought to a vote."

"The locating of the Mexican shack in our section has not been the cause of my views being changed in this matter, although it doubtless will result in the matter being brought to an issue. We all realize that this Mexican proposition would not have come up, had Casa Verdugo been a part of Glendale. We want to do our part in making Glendale a greater city, and if at the same time we can safeguard our section against things of this kind I believe we should take this step right now."

"I will be glad to put my name at the top of the annexation list and to take the initiative in circulating the petition. I will start this petition going the rounds tonight and I feel sure it will take a very short time to get the names of the people of that section placed on the dotted line."

The question of annexation will be the leading topic of discussion at the Foothill Improvement association's meeting tonight. The people of that northern section are very emphatic in their protests against the establishment of this Mexican colony and they see in annexation the only way out of this and other troubles.

Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson yesterday received a telegram from the postoffice department in Washington, D. C., authorizing him to employ carriers to maintain the schedule of service in Glendale.

CHICO, Calif., Aug. 1.—Ladies and gen'mun, meet the absent-minded professor.

With his mind on sonnets and similar things rather than on the modus operandi of the internal combustion engine in the small, inexpensive, motor vehicle which he was operating, Prof. E. A. Powers, head of the English department of the State Teachers' college, went driving down a grade in Shasta county. He did leave rhyme long enough to notice a slight bump at the top of the grade, but paid no attention to it.

When he attempted to "give her the gas," at the bottom, he got no response. He looked under the hood. The engine had dropped out of the car at the top of the grade.

JULY PERMITS EXCEED 1921 RECORDS

Total of $374,850 Against $362,525 for July Last Year

The building permits for the month of July just closed, amounted to $374,850, against $362,525 for July, 1921, this showing a gain of $12,325 for the month just closed over the similar period last year. This statement proves that there is absolutely no truth to the talk that things are slowing up in Glendale. This fact is further demonstrated by the total permits issued thus far this year. The permits issued to August 1, 1922, amount to $3,566,917 against a total of $2,532,941 for the same period last year, this showing a gain of $1,033,976 for 1922 over 1921 up to August 1.

Reports coming from all sides indicate that the long-expected rush for homes, both new and old, in Glendale has started. The local lumber companies say that things are looking brighter now than they have for months. There are more homes being planned, more dwellings being started, more lumber and other building material being purchased than there has been for months. The realtors declare that the tourists and also the old-time residents of Southern California are flocking to Glendale.

Some are inquiring for building lots, others want homes ready to move into. Plans are being planned to build in the near future. All of this activity points to the most wonderful building year Glendale has ever known.

Nothing can stop Glendale. She is destined to maintain the lead. She has everything the homeowner and homeowner desires in the way of location, environment, class of resident, and, in addition, she has a big percentage of sunshine.

Since yesterday noon $24,475 in building permits were issued by the city building department.

FIRE STARTS IN REALTY OFFICE

Fire broke out in the office of Hamlin & Hepburn, 208 West Broadway, at 10 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and for a few minutes threatened the entire building with destruction. The Glendale fire department made a rapid fire trip to the scene of trouble and by prompt and exceedingly effective work extinguished the flames before a great deal of damage was done.

The trouble was caused by an explosion of gasoline, which had been used for cleaning purposes. REALTY.—(Continued)

The Glendale realty board members will entertain, as their guests tomorrow, members of the realty boards of Eagle Rock and Burbank. A. M. Vale, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements, and has prepared a snappy program for the meeting.

This will be the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Glendale organization. The purpose in inviting the other boards to take part in the meeting is, according to E. P. Hayward, secretary of the Glendale board, to create a spirit of cooperation between the realtors of the valley and to work out solutions to problems that are facing all of the boards at present.

Mr. Hayward, this morning, expressed the opinion that this joint meeting of the three boards would create a spirit of cooperation that would result in the realtors of the valley working together on all matters pertaining to the marketing of real estate.

P. E. SECTION GANG SHACK ON CENTRAL AVENUE UNDER FIRE AT COUNCIL MEETING

City Health Officer Kaemmerling Is Instructed to Take Up Matter With County Authorities With View to Removal of Menace

SAID TO BE WITHIN CASA VERDUO SECTION

No Permit for Construction Found to Be Necessary Because It Is Located Outside of Glendale Boundary and in County's Jurisdiction

By ALBERT MARPLE

The city council, at its meeting last night, took all the official action possible against the establishment of the Mexican camp by the Pacific Electric company near the intersection of Central avenue, and the wash. This consisted of instructing City Health Officer Dr. Kaemmerling to take the matter up with the county health department to see if something cannot be done at once to eliminate that eyesore and menace from this section. As that territory is in the county, this is the only official action open to the city officials.

The people of Casa Verdugo, it is understood, are up in arms against the construction of this Mexican section camp. They realize, apparently, that in their midst is being placed a feature that cannot help but act as a decided detriment to their property. Casa Verdugo is one of the prettiest sections in this valley, and to think that a Mexican camp should be thrust upon that beautiful locality is almost unthinkable. The people up there are of this frame of mind, but, unfortunately, they have absolutely no weapon with which to combat this newly-created menace.

The camp that the Pacific Electric company is establishing is probably similar to others it has along its other branches. It consists of a single, long building, 16 by 96 feet in size. It is just a frame structure with shingled roof. This building is divided into eight compartments, each of which, in turn, has two small rooms, one probably a combined living room, dining room, library and den, and the other a kitchen, breakfast room and screen porch at this end. It is a really acceptable little home—for a Mexican. This building, it is understood, will house eight different families, regardless of the number of kids per. According to information received, the Mexican families will be moved into the new structure just as soon as it is completed. They will, it is understood, be maintained there permanently, and the male members of the families will be employed on the Glendale branch of the Pacific Electric system. Nine carpenters are being employed on this job, which is being rushed to completion.

In addition to the main building there will be a shed in which will be six toilets, three for the men and three for the women. There will also be a building, it is understood, in which two shower baths will be erected. And still another shed, it is claimed, will be constructed to house the laundry.

When informed of the nuisance just beyond the northern limits of Glendale, last night, the city officials expressed their regret that any person or company should endeavor to thrust anything of the kind on this beautiful section. It was generally realized, however, that, being outside the city, the local officials can do absolutely nothing in the way of eliminating the trouble.

"I believe the Pacific Electric company would do well to consult with the city of Glendale before putting such a menial at this city's northern limits," said City Manager Reeves last night. "I understand the people up there are up in arms against this thing, and I cannot blame them. If they cannot take care of the trouble they should annex to Glendale, and the city officials will start things right off the bat."

Councilman Stephenson said: "My attention has been directed to a Mexican shack that is being erected across the Glendale line, in the county, and I understand that this shack is to house eight families. While this thing is not in the city it is so close that Glendale is bound to come in for a great deal of adverse criticism. I believe the health department should be instructed to 'take the matter up with the county health department to see if something cannot be done to have this nuisance eliminated at once.'"

"The Mexican section house that the Pacific Electric is erecting up there may prove a menace to the health of the people in that section," said Dr. Kaemmerling, health officer, "but as it is located in the county, this city can do nothing to prevent it. We can only ask the county officials to act in this matter."

"It is bad business," said Councilman Kimlin, "bad business, but we can do nothing. That section should come into Glendale, and then we would be able to keep all of these objectionable features out of that locality as we do out of Glendale. That certainly is an eyesore to Glendale, as it is to the northern section. It will be seen by everyone traveling along Central avenue by automobile, and by all the people traveling along the 'bank line.'"

Dr. Kaemmerling said:

"That is one of the joys of living in Casa Verdugo. They have boasted in the past that while they are in the county they can build a chicken coop or anything else without running to the city hall for a permit. They now see that they are not the only ones who can erect any kind of a building without a permit, so long as they are in the county. Glendale is willing and anxious to help Casa Verdugo. Maybe Casa Verdugo people do not realize what this Mexican camp will do to the value of their property. We do, and when they realize it we will be glad to help them join us so that we can help them in their trouble. That is one of the most beautiful sections in this valley and it is an outrage for it to be marred by such an eyesore."

METHODIST LADIES PICNIC PLACE IS CHANGED

It to Be Held at Verdugo Woodlands Instead of Echo Park

The Methodist ladies picnic, planned for Echo Park, will be held at Verdugo Woodlands Thursday at 10 o'clock, it was announced last night.

The picnic had been scheduled for Echo Park, but it was discovered that it would be necessary to get a permit and go through other preliminaries.

Statistics as compiled by Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson and Geo. Hallett, assistant postmaster, at the end of the fiscal year, June 30, show that postal business in Glendale has increased practically 16 percent during the year just ended. Receipts for the year show a gain of 11.4 percent. Money orders issued from the local office increased 33.1 percent, and registered letters handled through the Glendale office increased 78 percent.

FASHION SHOW IN GLENDALE
 Glendale Theatre and Pendroy's Plan Showing of Fall Styles
 There is no immediate prospect that Glendale will have an exposition, but it is to have a fashion show which Mrs. Pendroy has offered to furnish as a benefit for the Tuesday Afternoon Club. William Howe of the Glendale theatre has followed up the proposition with the tender of his theatre for two evening performances and between the displays, there will be a program of musical and other numbers. It will take place in September, when fashion shows are in order. No announcement has been made as to whether the models who will display the confections in gowns and millinery will be drawn from the club membership or not, but should such be the case it would add to the interest, as the club numbers some very attractive maids and matrons of whom beautiful garments would show to advantage.

TOKAWA OIL HAS TRUE FABLE
 PONCA CITY, Okla., Aug. 1.—An oil-spattered derrick stands like a lonely sentinel on Murray Farm in the Tonkawa oil field, near here.
 Perhaps it contemplates on the fate of the geese that laid the golden egg. The fabled geese and the Murray well have something in common.
 Drilled to a depth of 2100 feet, this well came in with a flow of 500 barrels a day.
 But the promoters were not satisfied. If Murray produced 500 at 2100 feet, what would it produce at 2600 feet? They shut off the flow and drilled deeper.
 In the deepening process the drillers lost their tools, which crashed a half mile down to the bottom of the hole.
 A heart-breaking "fishing job" developed. The tools were never recovered. That is why Murray stands aloof and abandoned today in the heart of the busy Tonkawa field.
 But the men behind Murray were stubborn.

MUSICIANS OF THE CITY
ADVERTISE GLENDALE
IN WORLD OF RADIO

Reports from Farflung Stations Show California and Oregon Are Listening to What Press-Newton Issues

RECORD FOR CLEARNESS IS ESTABLISHED

Reports from Many Points Indicate the Fame of This City Is Being Borne on the Ether in Unique Publicity

The fame of Glendale is being spread broadcast through thousands of miles by the musicians on the Press-Newton programs given three evenings every week.

From Grant's Pass to Needles, from Lodi to Los Angeles, from Catalina, San Diego, Los Molinos, Victorville, San Francisco, and points not heard from yet, the message of Glendale's musical strength has been read in the universally clear tones of our musicians, and guests.

No other form of publicity is so unique and penetrating. For every auditor has a telephone at his ear listening to every word and tone. He doesn't seek to avoid what he hears.

These reports follow:
Lodi, Calif.

Radio KFAC, Glendale, Calif.

Dear Sirs: It may be of interest to you to know that you were heard very distinctly this evening. Every word was plain and distinct and very good modulation. I tuned in on you about 9 p. m. through heavy static and interference from KPG's are station, which is very bad lately. You gave your call letters and spoke to a crowd at Burbank and asked for some comments on the quality of your program.

I am only a visitor in Lodi, but carry my set with me wherever I go. I use a detector and two stage, using no antenna. I carry a 10-foot extension cord which I plug into a lamp socket wherever I am staying. Around this I have wrapped some bell wire. The bell wire leads to the set and acts as my antenna. With this for an antenna, I figure on doing as well with my two stage as detector alone on an antenna. That is why I am complimenting you on your distance as well as modulation.

Sincerely hoping to hear you regularly, I am,
L. N. STEVENS.

Grants Pass, Oregon.
KFAC, Glendale:

Received your broadcast last evening with a detector tube only. This is my record for broadcast. Although I get Catalina nicely.

Gentlemen: I wish to compliment you on the concert given by radio KFAC last evening. It was received both clear and beautiful. I hope to hear it again some time.

Very truly yours,

Dear Friend:
Here's to you! That was some program that you gave us last evening. Your modulation and audibility are fine. The impromptu orchestra was great and they are to be complimented.

I am located about one mile and a half southwest of Whittier, at Los Nietos, and I have a Grebe CR-9 and a magnavox. Although there was a great deal of static tonight, you came in fine.

I am going out on the desert at Vidal, Calif., the end of the week for the first of next week, and take my Grebe with me. If you like, I will be glad to give you a report as to how you come in out there. Vidal is about 55 miles south of Needles.

Thanking you again for your concert, I am,
Your friend,
WALLACE S. WIGGINS.

Mrs. Caroline Weber, Los Angeles, Dies At Her Daughter's Home

Mrs. Caroline Weber of Los Angeles, Calif., mother of Mrs. Verne Rupp, passed from earthly life Sunday at 4:45 p. m. She was with her daughter, Mrs. Rupp, 403 Cameron place, when she died. At her bedside were her three daughters, Mrs. M. S. Romig, 321 West Arcadia street, Glendale; Mrs. Verne Rupp, Glendale; Mrs. E. C. Hoffner, Venice, Calif., and her elder sister, Mrs. Don Seidel of Milwaukee, Wis. It was a grief to her during the last days of her illness that her two sons of Milwaukee, could not be with her.

Mrs. Weber's beautiful, cheerful life was well rounded out. In a few days she would have reached her seventy-fourth birthday. Her smile, her glad words, the grasp of her friendly hand in greeting will long be remembered by the many, many friends who loved her. The funeral will take place Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock at the Holy Catholic church, Glendale. Interment will be at Calvary cemetery, Los Angeles.

Organization Is Pushing Growth to Limit; Many Reinstatements

At the meeting of the Knights of Pythias lodge tonight, three candidates will be given the rank of page. The lodge is growing very rapidly, and in addition to many initiates, it has in the neighborhood of seven reinstatements to enroll. These are new residents of Glendale who have belonged to lodges elsewhere and who now wish to renew their membership in the K. of P.

The dance last Thursday was such a success that tonight the proposition of having a dance every Saturday evening will be discussed.

Harry Stock, a former resident of Glendale and a member of the lodge, but now enrolled as a member of the lodge at Fellows, Calif., after prolonged illness, has been taken to the Santa Fe hospital in Los Angeles, where Glendale K. of P.'s will visit him and give him all possible cheer. The physicians hold out no hope for his recovery. He knows this, and has ordered the kind of a coffin he desires for his last sleep, and has planned his funeral services. He was out of the order for a season, and when he learned that his days were numbered, he asked for reinstatement that he might die as a K. of P. Though it was an unusual procedure, under all the circumstances, the request was granted.

THE KNOXS RETURN FROM NORTH TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Knox, their son and daughter, of 305 North Jackson street, have just returned from a fortnight's auto trip, during which they camped by the way, and visited the Mariposa grove of big trees and Yosemite valley. They report an altogether delightful outing.

Their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gaither of Youngstown, O., who were with them for two months, are now living in their new apartment in Piedmont park.

MRS. ANDERSON TO

Mrs. Anita Anderson of 454 West Maple avenue, treasurer of the Glendale Business and Professional Women's club, will entertain members of the cabinet tonight at her home with a dinner, which will be served at 7 o'clock, and will be followed by the regular cabinet meeting, at which matters connected with the new home, of which the club will soon take possession, at 128 South Maryland avenue, will be discussed.

Dear Sir: During the test of the 15th p. m., the modulation and emanation from your station was perfect. During the time you were playing the steel guitar, the notes were as clear as a bell, and no hum.

BROADCAST COURSES
The State College of Washington will be the first institution in the country to use the radio broadcaster for lecturing to extension classes. At stated hours of the day, beginning this fall, professors of the college will lecture into the radiophone of students of the general extension classes, and they, sitting at home in various parts of the state, will merely put on their receiving headgear at the appointed time and hear, as though they were attending a class on the campus.

LITERATURE BY FILM
To show the use of moving picture films in teaching literature classes in high schools, summer session students at the State College of Washington were shown moving pictures of George Eliot's novel, "Silas Marner." A previous assembly hour was occupied by a demonstration of methods of teaching defectives, by Helen Keller's autobiographic film in which the author, blind, deaf and dumb,

Truths in Epigram

When men are arrived at the goal, they should not turn back.—Plutarch (120 A. D.).
Coward do not count in battle; they are there, but not in it.—Euripides (484-406 B. C.).
When we desire to confine our words, we commonly say they are spoken under the rose.—Browne (1605-1668).

WOULD END ALL WARS

The Hearst papers present an editorial with the caption "Let All Wars Be Ended." Very well. But the good work is not to be accomplished by a few remarks. There are practical ways of working towards the desired end.

The administration, inspired by similar thought, conceived the plan of a four-power treaty to procure an era of peace for the Pacific. Such a treaty was formulated and approved, removing a vast threat, reducing the expenditures of each nation involved, by billions of dollars; promoting a benign principle that may be expected to encompass the peoples of the world. What were the Hearst papers doing then? They were fighting the treaty with every weapon of malice. They were employing all their sinister intelligence, their hired brains, their trickery of words and quackery of ideas, to defeat the treaty. They were telling Americans to so equip themselves as to be able to dominate, to present a hostile front to every neighbor, and dare any of them to make a move without the consent of the United States. In other words, with all the force of sophistry, pretended patriotism and devotion to the country to whose enemies they had extended aid and comfort, they were pleading for war.

In their service they had enlisted Hiram Johnson, a senator from California. Now they are backing Johnson, who seeks to continue in office as a republican, while the head of the journals backing him, is in quest of the governorship of New York as a democrat. He is neither democrat nor republican. He is the foe of everything that stands in the way of his ambition, his absurd and grotesque ambition, to be president of the United States. Johnson has sunk to the position of a handy man for Hearst. California does not want Hearst's handy man as senator. It wants a senator who will represent the state, not one to represent Hearst and do the bidding of a discredited American.

ONE TRIUMPH OF PROHIBITION

There has been some violence in connection with the strikes. With the exception of one outbreak in a benighted county of Illinois, however, there has been far less than had been expected. In the knowledge that millions of workers were planning to quit as a protest against reduction in wages, the assumption was general that an era of outlaws, attended by destruction of life and property, would be ushered in. Such outcome would have been fatal to union labor. Therefore it was guarded against by the leaders of union labor. But this could not have been done had the strikers been inflamed by liquor.

Much has been said about the failure of prohibition, and most that has been said is untrue. It is a fact that despite the vendor of poisonous and spurious whisky, many former moderate drinkers have ceased from the practice wholly. At first they rebelled at the necessity. They patronized the bootlegger, just to show their independence, until they found that the stuff he sold was harmful and often fatal in its effect. Similarly died the early passion for sundry types of home brew. The stuff was difficult to make, was not palatable, and was injurious to the consumer.

In the old days it would have been easy to inflame any body of men gathered to discuss their wrongs or supposed wrongs. Indeed, it would have been next to impossible to prevent the more rash among them from seeking the inspiration of alcohol, and then rushing to excesses that later, when sobered, they would regret bitterly. Whisky still remains a baleful agency, but it has lost its former sway. The vast army of its adherents have been freed from their old bonds.

FORMAL AND UNTRUE

The manager of the Johnson campaign in Los Angeles has issued a "formal" statement, which also has the distinction not to be warranted by facts. He says of Mr. Moore:
"His candidacy is based upon no real issue other than a peculiar personal and political dislike of our senior senator."

The thousands who have heard Mr. Moore speak will recognize at once the error in this statement. Mr. Moore has mentioned his opponent in terms that seemed to his audience wondrous mild. He has given credit to the senator in liberal measure, when the impulse to do so could be explained only by the candidate's innate courtesy. The issue is very real, so real that efforts to hide it or to disguise it, must be futile.

California republicans asked from the senator the support of certain principles. They asked that he be true to the administration, headed by a republican. They asked that he sustain the President in efforts to promote world peace through the four-power treaty. Instead of doing this, the senator arrayed himself with the most vindictive foes of the administration. He did his utmost to defeat the treaty in question. He ignored the many direct appeals made to him. In these circumstances is issue enough.

Now Johnson is in California endeavoring to explain his actions. There is no explanation possible that could make him appear the fit representative of California republicans. He has left them, become alien to them. From the ranks of the administration's foes, he has flouted them. The case against him is closed. The insolence of his conduct is of record. An apology from him, or a defense by him, would be equally futile and insulting.

LLOYD GEORGE'S WARNING

"I speak advisedly when I say that if the league fails then civilization is doomed."

These words were uttered recently by Lloyd George. In talking to churchmen he had given warning as to the next war. He said that nations were preparing for it. He pointed to many of the perils threatening the peace of the world.

It is not reasonable to suppose that the edifice of society could withstand the impact of another world conflict. It peoples have the fool-hardiness to arm with fearful weapons, and form in battle line once more, again they would be likely to involve the whole of Europe. Were this to happen, the most optimistic could discern in the future nothing but ruin, absolute chaos, the end of all that has been accomplished.

The madness of clinging to any policy promotive of the war spirit is as plain to all intelligent folk as it is to Lloyd George. The truth is impressive, coming from him, as he speaks with authority.

If the world desires history to reach an end, and the evidences of centuries of culture to be effaced, all it needs to do is to gird on its weapons, and sally forth for conquest or vengeance.

WHAT IS DEMOCRACY?

By DR. FRANK CRANE
ARTICLE IV
We have been answering this question with the following definition:
Democracy is (1) a Force (2) of Opinion (3) and of Feeling (4) operating within the People (5) enabling the Majority of them (6) to Get what they Want (7) by means of Organization (8) and to make these gains secure by Laws, (9) for it is only by making its own Mistakes that a nation can (10) achieve its destiny, which is to Grow.

We have already treated the first three points that Democracy is a Force of Opinion and Feeling. We now come to the fourth point contained in the phrase "Operating within the People."

By this it is intended to indicate that Democracy makes its way as a natural force, that it grows out of the people and is not put upon them. You cannot make a Democracy by laws. For it all depends upon the kind of people for whom the laws are made. For instance, it would have been utterly futile to try to impose such a government as that of the United States upon a savage African tribe, or even upon the people of any European country 500 years ago.

It would be like trying to make an oak of an acorn in a day. One great objection to Democracy is that it is so slow. But it is slow simply because it is life.

It is the adulthood of the world. It is getting out from under governesses and schoolmasters and being a grown man.

Democracy is not a question of voting nor of electing rulers. In fact, the kind of ruler a people have makes little difference.

We may elect our head men by direct ballot, or by the vote of a senate, or by heredity, or by old age, or by alphabetical order, or by drawing straws. It does not much matter.

Perhaps we should get, as good results, from drawing straws as we sometimes do by balloting. The constant tendency of Democracy is to eliminate the ruler, at least to diminish his importance. The real vital things that are done, for instance, in the United States, are done by voluntary associations. We are making history, we are determining the future conditions into which our children shall be born, not so much by what is done in the senate or the President's cabinet as by the actions of labor unions and trusts. The conventions that drive us are being forged more on the Chautauque platform, in the pulpit and in the schools, than by the debates in congress.

This thing called Democracy is a giant tree with roots spread over 48 states. What takes place in Washington is but the rustle of the wind among the leaves, or the chatter of birds flocking to feed on the fruit.

For Democracy is the coming into consciousness of the whole people; the slow shouldering of responsibility by the least citizen.

AN INVENTORY
(Find the error in this article)
The emperor makes an inventory of his stock and learns the worth of his business.

The wise man visits his family physician once a year and learns the condition of his health.

The aftermath of each investigation is the strengthening of the business by supplying its deficiencies, and renewed efforts to keep the body in trim for continued efficiency.

Stock and health are working capital. A good mind may be similarly classed. One of the constituents of the latter's working capital is the power of expression, and, therefore, a large, varied, serviceable vocabulary is a very important class of mental goods to have on hand.

When one makes an inventory of his mind's equipment, the supply of words and their quality should be thoroughly looked into. How many and what kinds of words does he have for reading, for informal and for formal writing, for informal and for formal speaking? Such a report is of great value in estimating the power of the mind to produce and to bring success and happiness to its owner.

Every individual is the legatee of a wealth of words, approximately 450,000. These symbols are the common heritage of all. The only stipulation that the custodian, the dictionary, makes is that the individual who wants them come and get them, house them, and become well acquainted with them after they are in his possession.

The wide gulf in power of expression between Shakespeare and Milton on the one hand and the majority of people on the other could of been lessened; part by the assiduous study of words.

Genius is the product of working capital and hard work.

"The avaricious tradesman who charges too high a rate of profit, loses his customers, and so is checked in his greediness."—Spencer.

THE LISTENING POST

Seekers after happiness. That might rather aptly describe the thinking population of the world. And there is a lot to be happy about. If we can discover it. And make use of it.

Happiness is not the same with all people, of course. The seeker after wealth finds it in the guise of riches. Not that he wants riches especially. But he wants the things that riches will buy. House and lands and luxuries and travel and the things of life that we are accustomed to call material.

Then there is the seeker after fame. He wants to be known far and wide. Distinction gratifies some sense within him. He is not sure just how fame brings happiness.

But he is a seeker after it. Thinking it will satisfy a particular craving.

Then there is the seeker after knowledge. Perhaps he is the nearest to the real source of happiness. If he can find knowledge. But he may go through life and not find the thing he seeks. But he keeps on seeking.

There is the schoolboy again. Happiness to him is a lot to see and eat and perpetual vacation and uninterrupted play. Release from restraint.

Wearing perhaps as few garments as possible. Wading in bare feet when he chooses. Fishing, adventuring, wondering, wandering.

With the will of the wind, as a poet has said.

But happiness is the constant and unending quest. The week's work is done with the hope for happiness at the end of the day. Relaxation, amusement, the delight of the parent in children, the acquiring of a home. And with so many seekers it might be expected that happiness would be found. And others set upon the pathway to it.

But the seeking does not always bring discovery. Fame does not necessarily mean that the famous man will be happy. Riches do not necessarily bring happiness. As many possessors will tell you.

Still the quest goes on. And about all we can afford the seekers is opportunity to pursue the quest with the greatest freedom.

That is all a political society is for. As was stated in the declaration of independence. For life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

So one of the things necessary in education is to discover what happiness is, in a general way. That it consists in work and the satisfaction that follows it. Labor and the rest that comes after it. Love and the delights that flow from it. Honesty and the self-respect, that accompanies it.

And that always in life there is an urge of the spirit forward. From the things we have to the things we wish.

That urge spells progress. Without it there would be stagnation. And the best government is that one that gives people the freest opportunity to pursue happiness.

JAMES W. FOLEY.

SONGS OF THE POETS

The Enchantment—By Thomas Otway (1652-1685)

I did but look and love awhile,
'Twas but for one half-hour;
Then to resist I had no will,
And now I have no power.
To sigh and wish is all my ease;
Sighs which do heat impart
Enough to melt the coldest ice,
Yet cannot warm your heart.
O would your pity give my heart
One corner of your breast,
'Twould learn of yours the winning art,
And quickly steal the rest.

Fish on Friday Prevents Goiter

Eating sea food on Friday and spending holidays at the sea shore help to prevent goiter. Dr. J. F. McClendon, professor of physiological chemistry in the University of Minnesota Medical School, told the Western Society of Naturalists' meeting.

"The amount of iodine in our diet," he claims, "is of considerable importance in preventing goiter and this has been proved by experiments on animals and children. We know definitely that all marine animals and plants contain this element and that when these are taken a supply of iodine is obtained."

"Iodine has been found in the igneous, sedimentary and metamorphic rocks and is in traces, but the iodines being the most soluble salts derived from the disintegration of rocks have quickly leached out by rain and washed in the sea."

Most of the land surfaces of the earth have weathered a hundred million years and disintegrated to the depth of one and one-half miles. The store of iodine which this layer contained has been liberated and carried into the sea which as a result contains sixty-six billion metric tons, chiefly as iodate.

As the sea is thrown into spray in storms, water is carried in the air and dried and the salt is blown over the land. This salt is then brought down by rain and is the source of iodine in drinking water and supplies the soil. The amount of salt rapidly decreases as we go inland.

From the standpoint of water supply it seems that where surface water is drunk that the further we get from the sea either horizontally or vertically the less should be the iodine supply in drinking water." Prof. McClendon says. "In fact, there is some correlation between goiter and the distance from the sea. The Alps, Great Lakes region and Rocky Mountains region are goitrous sections."

Give the children a little powdered kelp, seaweed, or some other iodine containing material mixed with their food, water or salt, is Dr. McClendon's advice to those who live in goitrous regions.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

HUGHES' CHALLENGE TO EDUCATORS

[New York Evening Post]
Of all the pronouncements upon education with which the air has recently been filled, the most notable is the one made by a man who is not a member of the teaching profession.

In the details upon which he touched, as well as in his general contentions, what Secretary Hughes said in the paper read at Boston before the National Education association is worthy of the most serious attention. Every one agrees that the American ideal in education, as in other matters, is equality of opportunity, but Mr. Hughes was concerned to know what this inspiring phrase means. Lately it has been employed as if it meant chiefly opportunity for vocational training.

Such opportunity, said Mr. Hughes, is included in its scope. Let its full meaning be nothing less than that of "giving play to talent and aspiration and to the development of mental and spiritual powers." In these words he recalled educators from excessive emphasis upon one part of their task to a view of the entire job.

If education needs anything more than another just now, it is a sense of proportion. Mr. Hughes' address should do much to give it a keen realization of this need.

Another timely word dropped by Mr. Hughes was "discipline." Here again, without naming the quality, he pleaded for a sense of proportion, arguing that while it is important to make study interesting and to recognize individual gifts, "the primary lesson for the citizens of democracy is self-control." In stressing this point he struck out an epigram that statesmen no less than educators would do well to remember. "The sentimentalists," he observed, "are just as dangerous as the materialists."

Mr. Hughes' own course in office gives him the right to make this declaration, a declaration that comes at a moment when some educators of high standing are in danger of forgetting that there is no substitute for fundamentals. Intentionally or unintentionally, these men and women are responsible for the impression that after all there is a royal road to learning. Mr. Hughes administers a corrective to this superficial doctrine that it is to be hoped will reach into every corner of our educational world.

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

By HENRY JAMES

Admiral Moffett urges inhibition of stunt flying. Almost daily some rash aviator abandons the practice anyhow.

A woman is found to have accepted $18,000 worth of gems from husband No. 6. Probably her aggregate haul of jewelry had been quite imposing.

Joe Scott admits that Hiram Johnson made mistakes. California republicans want to save the senator from adding to the list.

For being licked by a champion puglist, the challenger received some $90,000, which is more than he could have earned pitching hay.

The minister who extolled the late Jake Hamon has been fired for even better reasons than that.

Some aviator ought to fool Mount Everest by landing on it from above.

Dr. Briegleb and Will Hays met, without the firing of a shot, indicating that an armistice has been reached.

Dr. Frank Crane outlines a millenium that appears to be first class, but has to admit that it is not coming soon. A friendly guess at the date of arrival would be three billion years hence.

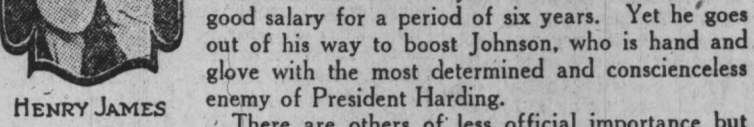

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES
People holding public office are under implied obligations. They are hired to perform certain duties. They have no moral right to turn aside from these duties on behalf of any politician's ambitions.

Members of the shipping board would look far better were they concentrating their energies upon the problem of shipping. Ex-Senator Chamberlain of Oregon, for example, is touting for Johnson, who was elected by California republicans. Chamberlain is a democrat. He cannot even plead the excuse of party loyalty. Meyer Lissner also assumes an attitude that subjects him to rebuke. He is not under the restrictions of civil service, of course, but he owes a certain debt of gratitude to the administration. Through the kindness of the administration he has just become attached to a good salary for a period of six years. Yet he goes out of his way to boost Johnson, who is hand and glove with the most determined and conscienceless enemy of President Harding.

There are others of less official importance but at present engaged in similarly reprehensible activities. Small employees of the government must keep silence on the subject of politics. The postman who brings mail to the door dares not ask a vote for any person or principle, lest a heavy hand from headquarters lift him out of his humble job. But the man whose tenure is fixed, and whose pay is big, and whose application to his work is regulated by his own pleasure, may electioneer at will, and perhaps show a grievous lack of appreciation as he does so.

And then there is the republican senator who accepts a retainer from Hearst, and does a stunt for Tammany for a fat fee.

HENRY JAMES

There was a Los Angeles policeman named Hosick a few years ago. One day a stranger bearing a dynamite bomb came into the police station and informed all and sundry that at the end of a short period of minutes, which he stipulated, he intended blowing the place and all in it, to small and unrecognizable bits. Hosick happened to be among those present. The scheme not appealing to his sense of fitness, he grabbed the bomb person, heaved the bomb outside, and all was well, although spectators were noticed to be a little pale about the gills.

Hosick had been studying law, and about then began to practice. Now he is candidate for police judge. It would be pleasing to see a person of his nerve look a speeder in the eye, remarking as he did so "Ninety days. Next case." Courage is as useful on the bench as on a police beat.

Judge Perry Wood sent a forger to the penitentiary the other day, quickly denying a petition for probation. The chronic forger is a type of criminal for which there is no cure except through deprivation of pen and ink.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

For months I've seen her cruising down our streets in those hours when it becomes necessary for our town to catch the 7:51 or the 8:43 for the city. She is fat, her best days are hulled below the horizon, she dresses with an airy sluffiness, and she drives a little coupe that is full of strange squeaks and inspirational showers. Every time the beloved wife sees her she says:

"There is that old freak again. I wonder who she is?" Usually the little coupe has one or two passengers in it, though they are rarely the same. This morning I was standing on the corner, waiting for the bus, when she drew alongside.

"If you want to go downtown," she said, "hop in. I'll take you to the depot."

Well, I hopped. Even a squeaky coupe of graying tin is preferable to an overcrowded bus. We talked of this and that on the way to the depot and then, as I opened the door, she said:

"I want to tell you a little story." She had been poor as the dullest all her life. She had an old mother, decrepit and weak, and for years, she said, she had prayed to God to send her a little car, so she might take her mother riding. It was the only thing she asked for. As for herself, she was content. She had little, but, after all, she needed little.

"Then, one day," she said, "the coupe dropped through the ceiling. A friend came in and without warning gave me the little car." She proved to be one of the few who make good with gratitude. She promised herself that never, so far as she was able, would she ride alone. From the day she first ventured into the streets with the Tin Tank she made a practice of carrying passengers. Sometimes the passenger might be a belated business man, and sometimes a tired little girl on her way home from work, and sometimes an old colored woman with a bundle of wash.

"People think I'm crazy," she said, "Some of 'em think I'm trying to pick 'em up, and I have to tell this story so they can understand."

Somehow, since she began trying to pass on to others the benefits she had received, her circumstances have improved. She is a middle-aged, unattractive, intelligent in a sort of a retail way only. But luck has begun coming her way. She makes her tour for tired people twice each day just the same. Maybe there is something in the old saying about throwing one's bread upon the waters.

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA E. STEWART

Not long ago, in one of our western cities, a young southern woman committed suicide. She had thought to win a name and career for herself through story writing, and became discouraged when her money gave out and elusive fame had not reached her. In her trunk were found dozens of rejection slips from various periodicals—mementoes of lost hopes.

But what was solved by suicide? Who knows? At the best, a leap in the dark. Her taking it may be proof of the lack of the vital something in her story children that would have won for them success in publication. Cowardice never accomplishes good. Courage and perseverance do conquer the biggest of difficulties. Taking one's self or one's attempts too seriously is the road to madness.

Now if that girl had been wiser, she would have laughed at the accumulation of rejection slips. All writers have them—such masterly specimens of diplomatic wording! "Not necessarily because of lack of merit, we are returning—" and so on. A loop-hole of retreat there, in case an aspirant for literary recognition becomes famous overnight, as some of them have been known to. Why not have made a collection of them, as lady do of postage stamps and bugs? "monthlies," "for fiction," "poetry," "educative articles," and so on. Before she knew, her interest in her rapidly growing collection might have so quickened that the emphasis would have been completely changed and a check for accepted work would have almost brought a sense of disappointment.

It doesn't pay to take ourselves too seriously.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

The crossing of the yak with common cattle as practiced in Mongolia, Siberia and Tibet, produces an animal more serviceable than either of the parent stock.

Shocks from electrical devices were used by the ancient Romans in the treatment of various disorders.

The longest continuous series of annual weather records known are the rings in the Big Trees of California. Dating back as much as 3200 years.

Mica, the transparent, heat-resisting mineral, familiar to many through its use for windows in heating stoves, has now become so essential in electrical industry that the larger electrical supply manufacturing companies own and operate their own mines.

REVIEW OF JULY BY FIRST NAT. BANK OF L. A.

Outlook Better Than Ever Before in All Produce

The month of July has been comparatively quiet in agricultural and livestock circles, due to the fact that most crops were ripening and only a comparatively few moving to market...

The total movement of perishable and semi-perishable agricultural products in this district during the next two months should be approximately as follows: Oranges, 400 carloads...

In addition, the dairy industry in the San Joaquin Valley and the Imperial Valley, which normally ships from 400,000 to 500,000 pounds of butterfat a month...

as compared with $6.50 to $7 at the time of the last report. There is every indication that before the opening of the naval season there will be a shortage of California oranges...

Present indications are that the first quality clem peaches will bring from $50 to $60 a ton and first quality freestone from $30 to $40.

The wine grape crop is practically normal in all parts of the state, with an anticipated production of approximately 380,000 tons.

In a few localities sunburn has damaged the raisin crop slightly and there is still danger that burn may adversely affect the crop of raisins before it is picked...

The crop is large and the only difficulty in the way of marketing is a question as to whether the canners will be able to pack all of the fruit that is offered during the season.

The alfalfa market has remained practically stationary during the past month, although the top price at the ranch has dropped slightly...

The condition of the growers is slightly better than at this time last year, although the late summer has in many cases reduced by one the number of cuttings which may be anticipated during the present season.

There has been no material change in the cotton situation since the last report. Growing conditions are continuing good and in the Imperial Valley in Mexico it is reported that the condition of the crop is 5 to 10 percent better than it was a month ago.

By the time the present crop is available for market the marketing facilities in this district will be much improved, as there will be new compresses available to growers in both Phoenix and Calexico and new jigs in Phoenix, Calexico and the Imperial valley in Mexico.

Prices have advanced materially and present indications are that the growers will receive on an average of $3 per ton more for their beets than they did during the 1923 season.

The potato movement has continued heavy and prices have dropped to about the 1921 level of 60 to 75 cents per 100 weight as compared with $1.00 to $1.10 per 100 weight a month ago.

The supply of fat cattle which will be available for market in this territory in the next forty days is reported to be short of anticipated demands, a tendency which promises of continuing intermittently for the next several years...

The Los Angeles market is strong, with prices for cattle reported at 7 1/2 cents for steers, and 6 cents for cows delivered in Los Angeles. Ranch prices are ranging from 6 1/2 to 7 cents for prime steers...

As compared with a year ago the situation as it affects the cattlemen is very materially improved. At this time in 1921 the California market was being flooded with cattle from outside states...

The general tendency in the live stock industry in this district is for costs of production and marketing to be reduced, with demands increasing. Under these circumstances, it may be anticipated that there will be a gradual improvement in the situation in the livestock portions of this district for some time to come.

its course. Rates now appear to be about stabilized on a new level from 1 to 2 percent under the rate for the past several years.

The announcement that the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank has applied for permission to change its name to the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings Bank has been the outstanding development in the banking field in this territory during the past month...

There is every indication that there will be plentiful supplies of legitimate credit available for the orderly marketing of the agricultural and live stock products of the territory during the next few months...

The supply of fat cattle which will be available for market in this territory in the next forty days is reported to be short of anticipated demands, a tendency which promises of continuing intermittently for the next several years...

As compared with a year ago the situation as it affects the cattlemen is very materially improved. At this time in 1921 the California market was being flooded with cattle from outside states...

DOLLAR DAY MAY BE MONTHLY EVENT

Credit Men Declare No Such Business Since Christmas

Dollar Day was a success, was the consensus of opinion voiced yesterday at the regular noonday meeting of the Glendale Credit association. It was so successful that the majority of the merchants at the meeting said they were in favor of making it a monthly affair.

One merchant in particular said that he did excellent business on that day. In fact the only day that could compare with it, according to him, was the day before Christmas.

Don Webb, who has recently returned from a trip through the east as a delegate to the Kiwanis club convention, said that the merchants of Glendale should feel fortunate that they are established here. He said that eastern business is not so good at present as it is in the west. He said that he brought approximately 200 applications for positions in the west with him. The applications are from acquaintances and friends who want to make their homes in the west.

W. E. Harnuth, manager of the Parsons, Kans., chamber of commerce, was present at the lunch as a guest and in response to a greeting from Owen C. Emery, president, he stated that this is his third trip to Glendale and it will be his last, as he is going to make his permanent home here.

A list of prizes to be awarded for the various events at the picnic of the association on Wednesday, August 16, was read and keen competition is expected. In reading the list of prizes it was announced that the merchants and wholesale houses have responded generously to requests for donations to be used in securing prizes.

A complete program of events for that day will be printed and members of the organization will finance the printing through purchasing advertising space.

A letter from Mrs. Ed Nisle was read to the members. Mrs. Nisle thanked the organization for the bouquet of flowers sent Mr. Nisle during his recent illness. She informed the members that Mr. Nisle is convalescing rapidly.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

A HOMELY LITTLE COTTAGE

It's a homely little cottage and as plain as it can be. And it has no massive columns and exotic shrubbery. It has no mighty pillars and no terrace sloping down. It is just a little cottage like a hundred here in town. With a weather beaten chimney and a worn old coat of gray. And a place out in the back yard for some healthy boys to play.

It's a modest little cottage, and the look of it is neat. And it sits demurely quiet back a distance from the street. There are simple flowers about it of the sweet, old fashioned kind. And a spout up from the rain barrel where the morning glories wind. And most any day you pass it you will hear the shouts and noise. From the back of it there somewhere of a lot of healthy boys.

It's a friendly little cottage, and the door of it swings wide. And sometimes you hear the laughter of a lot of boys inside. There is nothing grand about it, and it's plain as it can be. But there's something grand within it, such a happy family. And you might not look twice at it, but if you should hear the boys you would listen twice, I'm certain, to that merriment and noise.

Such a homely little cottage you would mighty likely say. If you took a first glance at it when you passed along that way. But the door of it swings open, and the noise of it rings out. And there's soul-awaking laughter and there's merriment and shout. And the trees and grass and flowers and the lot of laughing boys seem to fit it just exactly, and the merriment and noise.

EDISON COMPANY TO REARRANGE FINANCES

Second Preferred Stock to Be Purchased and Retired

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—Stockholders of the Southern California Edison company, at a special meeting held at noon today, unanimously adopted the company's new plan of financing, which will immediately become effective. The meeting was presided over by President John B. Miller, and a large number of stockholders attended, representing practically 85 per cent of the $72,000,000 of outstanding capital stock.

The new plan today authorized is the rearrangement of the company's capitalization. All of the second preferred stock amounting to $12,929,900, is to be purchased by the company and cancelled. The $9,500,000 of new 7 per cent cumulative non-participating preferred stock is to be offered to stockholders, and that part not taken by stockholders will be offered to the general public. The proceeds from the sale of this new stock, together with the unappropriated proceeds from some of the common stock heretofore sold, are to be used for the purchase of the second preferred stock now retired, and to partially finance the remainder of the company's new construction program for the current year, which calls for a total expenditure of $27,344,000. No further sales of common stock are to be made, and construction expenditures now will be financed through the sale of bonds and preferred stock which was authorized by the stockholders to be issued as needed to the amount of $36,000,000. Dividends on the original preferred stock and common stock remain as at present without change.

BENEFIT SALE AT PENDROYS FOR TUESDAY CLUB

Mrs. Montgomery Arranges Big Event for Building Fund

Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, first vice-president of the Tuesday Afternoon club and chairman of the ways and means committee of that organization, is busy as the manager of a theater planning money-making programs of which the club will be the beneficiary. Considerable has been earned this summer by the chain of card parties, beach parties, etc., that have been given, and the beefsteak supper at the Campbell home, and the next event will be the benefit sale to be put on at Pendroy's August 15, at which members of the ways and means committee will act as floor women.

August 16 the committee will operate a concession for the sale of sandwiches, coffee, homemade pie and cake at the municipal picnic in the new city park, Messdames J. E. Sargent and B. O. Holbrook having the project in charge. Mrs. Sargent is curator of the literary section and Mrs. Holbrook of the legislative section.

In November the long-discussed and postponed society circus will be put on in a big way to take the place of the customary bazaar.

CARNATION LODGE TO INITIATE MEMBERS

Van Nuys Team to Stage Degrees Tonight

At the meeting of Carnation Rebekah lodge tonight, eight new members are to be initiated and four others to be received by transfer. The Van Nuys degree team will be present to put on the degree work, and will be accompanied by quite a delegation of lodge members. After the work is completed, refreshments will be served.

Members to be initiated are: Mrs. Helen McBryde, Miss Vonona Kaiser, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Albright, E. T. Johnson, Mrs. Jennie Linkogel, Miss Coral W. Schwitters and Mrs. Cardie Brockway.

Members to come in by transfer are: Mrs. Madeg Maddox, Miss G. Bernice Kaiser, Mrs. Millie A. Kaiser, and W. F. Kaiser. All non-resident Rebekahs are invited to attend.

Rebekahs, as well as Odd Fellows are making rapid growth. Every month the local lodge initiates quite a class of new members. The group to be taken in tonight will bring the enrollment to 95. Odd Fellows are still in the lead, but cannot afford to lose any ground or the Rebekahs will catch up and pass them.

Dr. H. C. Smith, district deputy grand master, went with his degree staff to Lancaster yesterday to install the officers of the lodge there for the incoming term. It was a 74-mile trip and he did not get home until midnight or after. There are five lodges in the district, and this was the last one to install its officers and the farthest away.

MOON FESTIVAL OF TUJUNGANS IS ORGANIZING

Committees Formed to Carry on Work of Large Affair

TUJUNGA, August 1.—Plans for the Moon festival of the Tujungans, to be held on September 2, 3 and 4, are getting under way with a rush. Funds donated by the Business association and the chamber of commerce have been added to by many Tujunga citizens, and offers of help are being made daily.

Committees from the American Legion, which is handling the affair, and from various other organizations, have been organized, or are in the process of organization, and the rather cumbersome machinery necessary for such a large project is being put in good running order.

Headquarters for the festival will be in the building just south of the Tujunga Valley bank, with Miss Irene de Mers, assistant general secretary, in charge. Book-keeping and correspondence for the festival are to be handled here, as well as a complete information bureau.

The important publicity and advertising work has been well started with the printing of posters and invitation cards. Added to these are the festival envelopes, carrying the official insignia and printed in the festival colors. An entire copy of the Legion Monthly will be devoted to Monte Vista post and the advertising of the festival. M. E. Hill, chairman of the Legion's standing committee on publicity, is receiving assurances of support from Legion posts in surrounding cities.

Contracts with outside concessionaires are being closed by E. L. Sweet, who is also in charge of the law and order forces which will be necessary.

The whole community is behind the festival project this year, and it is planned to make it one which will set a precedent for future festivals.

Stages Extend Schedule

Beginning today, both north and south bound stages of the Verdugo Hills Transportation company will extend the time of their schedule ten minutes, effective between Montrose and Los Angeles.

"FOOLS FIRST" AT T. D. & L. THEATRE

A striking example of Marshall Neilan's versatility in presenting on the screen anything from light comedy to heavy melodrama will be seen in "Fools First," a First National attraction which starts a 3-day engagement at the T. D. and L. theatre today.

There is no deadly sameness in the productions which emanate from this director's studios; one is always assured of something new if it bears the Marshall Neilan trademark. Each succeeding picture contains innovations in direction, settings and action, and revolutionary methods of photography and technique.

VERA GORDON AT THE GLENDALE

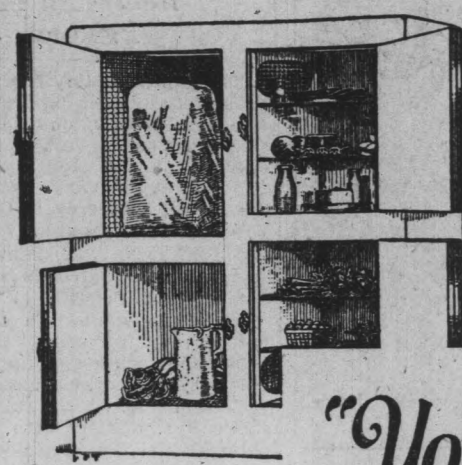

Professional jealousy wrought Vera Gordon, the star of the Warner Brothers' picture, "Your Best Friend," which will be shown at the Glendale theatre today, to the verge of hysteria during the filming of the picture.

While full details of the occurrence have not been divulged, it is said that a feminine member of the cast who, Miss Gordon claims was a little jealous of her, almost disrupted the scene. Just before she was called by Director Will Nigh for one of the big emotional scenes in the picture, the jealous woman approached her and, expressing concern for her appearance, unhooked her skirt.

As soon as Miss Gordon came toward the camera, she immediately sensed something was wrong. She was called upon to act. The director was becoming impatient. She began to emote, when suddenly she brought her hands behind her back and caught her skirt and saved herself from an embarrassing predicament.

Miss Gordon became wildly excited and hysterical. When the skirt was fastened, however, she resumed the scene as it was rehearsed. The jealous member of the cast was dropped by Director Nigh, it is said.

Even the poet is able to distinguish between the fire of genius in his bosom and the gnawing of a hungry stomach.

"Save it with Ice"

The little you pay for ice will be repaid many times during the year in the cost of the food it will save for you.

"You'll need me All the time!"

In the modern home I am no longer a Summer-time luxury. I am a year-round necessity.

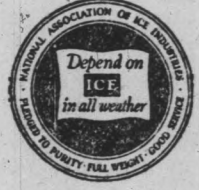

Today the housewife knows more about refrigeration values than she did a few years ago. Her clubs, her books on domestic economy, and her own special magazines have taught her that perishable foods lose much of their nutritive value, even in cool weather, unless kept in a cold, even temperature.

That is why I am her friend, and the friend of the family, twenty-four hours every day, and every day in the year.

I belong to the good old True Economy family—and my name is Refrigerator!
