

New Bedford Dec. 29 '39

Dear Caroline,

It is so long since I have written that I hardly know where to begin - I expected to have sent the green cloak before now & deferred writing from day to day in order to send my letter by the bundle but after having disappointed me several times, yesterday the mantua-maker finished my cloak, so I will send yours Tuesday, next stage day - I was very thankful to get your letter last night, for I was in a perfect fidget to hear from the Boston Female fair as they keep the result so private I think they must have done worse than ~~was~~ <sup>to be</sup> expected. Write again, do, the moment you hear any thing definite, for I am in a fever of curiosity - Tell me too what <sup>Garrison</sup> Colver meant, by saying that Colver attacked the minority, "in giving notice of the fair". What did Colver say? - Who wrote those practical articles in the two last Liberator's? & has any thing been heard of Miss Lucy Ball's explanation. M. was promised a fortnight ago - 278
I was really sorry to hear of poor Chartha Ball's misfortune. Has she the real small pox, or only the variceloid - You are all in a worry about the Weymouth people, & their liabilities - what do you think of me, who am right in the midst of it. It is in every part of New Bedford, 20 new cases last week, & every time. I <sup>have been</sup> ~~got~~ out since I came from Boston, have gone past the houses where it was - however I am going to follow your example and be vaccinated - Pray how came pa to be done over - did it he use to tell us a story of his having been innoculated with the small pox & it did not take? I am doing every thing I can for the fair here, & hope ~~many~~ things will go well - All the abolitionists have taken hold meanly, & are making cake & giving notices with all vigour - I am going to raise as much money as I can on the articles I have & give the rest to the fair.

I have nearly $20 for charity now, will you tell Mrs Loring that I sold the Parthenon to Samuel Pro-man for $5, also give my love to her. Mrs Phil bids me send I carried to the old Mrs Prodan - I was perfectly delighted with her - though over 90 her mind seemed perfectly clear knew all about the cause, & talked like one well read in the Liberator.

Before I had half got through with my story she began to get out her purse - she bought the wincles & her daughter is coming to the fair - Monday morning

I had written thus far yesterday thinking that perhaps Bradburn might go in the early cars this morning, but he has concluded to stay & speak tonight - Before church I amused myself with seeing that notices were sent to all the churches - Mr Smith, Leonard Woods' son in law, refused to read it He you know sits in Mr Holmes' sect, & is Mr Emersons minister - The reason he gave, was, that he never read a notice of a meeting, when he was holding one in his own vestry - Now as good luck would have it I heard him give notice of Burkinghams lectures, some of which came on his evening Mr Snow, the Episcopal minister also refused - All the others read it - ~~at~~ I was invited to take tea at John Bailey's to meet Bradburn so of course went - Mr Burroughs & the Congdons there - The lecture was held in Concert Hall (Mr Holmes' old meeting house) & was, excepting Garrison's, the largest audience ever got together at an Anti-S. meeting here - All the gran-dees, the men I mean were out, & a full house is expected to-night at the Universalists ~~Meeting~~. The lecture was a very good one & gave great satisfaction.

Andrew Robeson was there, & I rushed up to him ~~after the~~ at the close of the meeting & told him about the things I had left - Mrs Robeson is to see them, & I will let you know the result - next time I write - Your articles for the fair did not come of course Saturday, for the stage comes Monday - it made me laugh to find you did not know the New Ber--ford stage day. Have not you heard your father say for twenty years, "out a Monday, in a Tuesday" &c. I shall expect them to-night however - The women of our society are doing well by the col--fair, - don't think - Fall River made the cold women give $15 for the articles they had - they were valued at about $50, which Sarah Ann Thosier told me was too much for them, & that she should reduce the prices, which thing I commended in her, for they were the Boston prices & you know how high some of the country things were marked at Upon second thoughts I shall not send the green cloak till ~~Wednesday~~ Thursday, I have so much to do, I shall not have time to be attend to it -
