

5781-
Dublin May 1845

Dear Mrs Chapman

It is high time to return my best thanks, for your beautiful present of "American algae" How did you know my love for botany that you so exactly interred my taste in your valuable and likewise well valued gift & I never saw anything so exquisitely arranged as all the various specimens of your transatlantic sea weeds the hand that prepared them must have had a very superior sense of touch - Our apparatus to grow Bogdan were very very small last year they are growing finely degrees and beautifully up scarcely any one spent one own little chigars. ~~so~~ ~~found~~ to the not less me published and inculated - but how small does yours appear compared with one great anti corn law affair which is in truth a powerful matter - the Leaguers say they expect to realize £50,000 by it - two gentlemen alone sent to it five hundred pounds worth each one of them the other of coal this may give you some idea of the large scale on which this war is got up - we were much pleased with the 'Liberty Bell' this year it is very nicely got up - and the articles found about a fine piece that of Longfellow

- and Lizzie Poole is very fine as well we did not think the portrait not justice to Wendell

Phillips - but could recognize the likeness. ~~He~~ and very much enjoy having a portrait of him - why does not Mrs L hold write for the 'Liberty Bell' now or the other anti-slavery publications - or what is she engaged in - for we have heard nothing of her for a long while we regret not to see her signature in the pages of the Standard or the 'Liberator' for she was a favourite writer - perhaps approaching a little too near the verge of the sentimental sometimes - still a very agreeable writer - Is Thomas Davis in the land of the living still or mentally and morally dead in Pall Mall or any other community I should be sorry to hear she was better by that name; those communities of goods; - of property of table and of living us to me most distasteful God designed us to live in families and never meant that we should herd together like the beasts of the field. - Has poor Rogers got any more enlightenment on the Herald question? - I am sorry he has lost his temper in the matter and admired Garrison's forbearance towards him - his old friend and countryman co-under for so long. - But Rogers ill health may have rendered him more irritable than usual we know how much the mental is acted on by the physical.

Have you any thoughts of coming to this side the pond all anti-you say - How and come you should be sure safe for us to say to you money funds but admirer of her enough

Ms. A. 9. 2. 21. 32