Wild Flowers

ROSE CITY

MICHIGAN

This past summer we purchased at Rose City a tract of sixty acres of land, which will be our permanent location. Our previous location at Maltby was only temporary, while we searched for a place suitable for our needs for the propagation of the many varieties of wild flowers. We found the site, but as it was uncleared, will require a considerable amount of time and labor to put it in shape to plant. This work, together with the task of moving all our plants from former location at Maltby, has occupied so much time that we have been unable to keep up our stock of a number of varieties of flowers, or add new ones. The following is a list only of the varieties which we have on hand at the present time, and are all which we could furnish in the spring. We expect by autumn to have increased the list materially, and next year it should reach normal proportions.

We will be equipped to give the conditions most nearly conforming to nature, to plants and shrubs whose habitats are exceedingly varied, having all soil variations from light sand to heavy clay, with dense shade to open sun, also lake and streams for the water loving groups.

In this price list we have condensed information as much as possible and yet have it convenient. The prices quoted are for number one blossoming stock, unless otherwise stated: five plants at the rate of ten, and fifty at the hundred rate. No extra charges are made for packing or containers.

To find the price of a plant, note the numeral preceding name, then look at key on bottom of right hand page for corresponding numeral and you will find the price.

We do not sell any of the plants of the Cypripediums by the clump. On account of the wide variations in size of these, we count by the blossoming bud; that is, we count as one plant each bud that will produce a blossoming stem.
