

GENDER GAP

Greta Doçi

Cvetko Nedelkovski

Wikipedians from Albania and Macedonia

Wiki Women Camp 2015

- This activity was organized by Wikimedia Serbia (Викимедија Србије) in collaboration with Open Labs and FLOSSK
- 24 participants (8 from each country)
- Albania: 4 girls still actively contributing. 1 is now one of the coordinators of Wikipedia project at Open Labs.

Open Tech Summit in Berlin

- The first goal: To break my record. To have more than 5 girls participating at my talk.
- I had 11 girls participating at my talk.
- Feedback: To have at least 2 questions.
- 20 minutes Q&A(sorry organizers I ruined their agenda)

BaICCon 2014- Women in Wikipedia

- Over 100 males
- 6 females.

The “fear” to get involved

- Most of the participant are willing to be heavily involved in editing but, there is a fear present in doing editing by them selves
- The lack of technical knowledge
- Administrators
- Contributors are mostly girls in tech. We should get involve more females in general(writers, medical, social science)

Collaborations

- With Wikimedia Serbia
- With Shared Knowledge

How to involve more female editors ?

- Female organizations that congregate to promote the women in society
- You need to do some research if there is a gender gap
- You can enlist editors from friends, relatives, neighbors
- Results: most of the women that will come probably do this as a way to try something new, most of them will not become active editors but some will.
- Media: use public media to promote the idea and to reach more women.