They say some men
Greet each other thus:
"Which do you put in first
"The yeast or the raisin?"
But we know for a fact
That women use this:
"Which do you put in first
"The egg or the coffee?"
Making coffee is a fine art
And usually the only secret
Is having GOOD coffee
And making it RIGHT.
Up in our restaurant
We have a woman
Whose sole job
Is to make coffee.
If you've been here
You know it's good coffee
And never varies.
She has worked here
Since nineteen twelve.
She made the first
Cup of coffee
The first customer bought.
Excepting for summer vacations
She's made every cup since!
She watches that coffee urn

As a fond mother
Watches her only child.
If the steam fails
On a cold day
She sits down and cries
And when it is fixed
The sunniest of smiles
Breaks out on her face.
And if we could write this
As well as she makes coffee
You'd get so excited
About Filene coffee
You couldn't wait
For tomorrow's luncheon!
But we can't—
All we can do
Is to try to tell you
That all through Filene's
There are people like her
IN LOVE WITH THEIR JO.
Which is one reason
For Filene success.
WE THANK YOU.

Art in Photography

Years ago, the photograph was a stilted likeness of the sitter—reflecting no character, no individual characteristics.

Today, the photographer strives to bring out character, individual touch and artistically produce not only a likeness but something deeper.

At no studio in Boston will you receive more artistic treatment than here.

The Leland-built Lincoln Coupe

The conception of a fine car as part of one's personal equipment is realized in the design and appointments of the coupe. This car proves to be just right for the owner-driver who prefers the smaller type of enclosed body with seating accommodations for four passengers. As a close-coupled, all-weather vehicle it is well adapted to business use, and by reason of its handsome lines and attractive interior is equally inviting for social purposes. The coupe handles smartly in traffic; its riding quality is described as the luxury of motion.

BOOTH TARKINGTON'S

Captivating Comedy

"CLARENCE"

Director GEORGE C. TYLER

"Clarence," in which Booth Tarkington has rallied to the stage the numerous admirers of his fiction, with Alfred Lunt and the original company and with the prestige of having been a triumphant comedy hit at the Hudson Theatre, New York, for forty weeks, enters upon the second week of its engagement next Monday.

"Clarence" was not written on the basis to be more than merely outlined in advance. Its central character, from whom the play takes its name, is a retiring chap who got into war togs through driving a mule in Texas and who is taken into a household in New Jersey, where the discords provide the entertainment. There are two typical Tarkington youngsters—one a girl of sixteen on whom love affairs have a strong clutch, and a boy a year older, keen to take rank as a "man" by carrying a cane and wearing his father's "spats." There is also a father who is torn by domestic disputes, a pretty stepmother jealous of a pretty governess, and a pair of servants with announced convictions of their own.

Although Clarence is a returned soldier the fact is merely incidental in the story, which does not satirize or deal with any doughboy problems. Its principal and amusing significance is the solicitude with which the kids of the story look up to Clarence's judgment, "because he has been in the Army." In the end he proves to be the balance wheel of the whole household, acting in the meantime as a piano tuner with automobile tools, an emergency plumber and an entertainer on the saxophone.

The cast includes Alfred Lunt, Phoebe Foster, Mary Boland, Russell Medcraft, John Flood, Viola Harper, William Lorenz, Agnes Findlay, Susanna Westford and Barlowe Borland.

It Should Interest You—

To know that an American-made product is popular all over the world. Prestige isn't accidental. There is always a good sound reason for it. In the case of the

Boston Garter

"Quality First" became more than a slogan—more than two words glibly strung together. For over forty years it has been a factory ideal.
