There will be a musical program during the service.

All those attending the dedicatory service are to be guests of the church at the dinner at 12:30 o'clock in the banquet room of the new building.

At 7:30 o'clock Mr. Shively will preach again on "If a Man Die, Shall He Live Again?"

In announcing the day of dedication it is asked that the Glendadians wait until 8 o'clock Sunday morning to view the interior of the building. A cordial invitation to all citizens, regardless of creed, is extended by ministers and members to the services on Sunday.

City Attorney Ray L. Morrow was instructed by the city council this morning, on motion of Councilman Horn, seconded by Councilman Horn, to draft the necessary ordinance setting aside the west side of Verdugo road between Wabasso Way and Opechee Way as a commercial district. ### OFFICIALS TELL GROWTH OF BANK

C. C. Cooper and Associates Are Hosts to Stockholders At Celebration

The splendid growth of the Federal Commercial & Savings bank at North Brand boulevard and East Wilson avenue, since its organization four months ago, is just cause for celebration and the dinner given last night at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse for the bank for officers, directors and stockholders was enjoyed by 140 persons.

Holiday decorations were brilliant touches on the tables, set in the banquet hall of the big clubhouse.

At the close of the dinner hour C. C. Cooper, president of the bank, introduced Paul E. Stillman, vice-president, who presided during the rest of the evening as toastmaster.

The company was led in singing "America" by Owen C. Emery and was later entertained by vocal solos by Francis J. W. Henry and D. Ripley Jackson. Mr. Henry was accompanied by Mrs. Helen Sawyer, while Nana King Custer played for Captain Jackson.

List of Speakers

Speakers of the evening were Ora A. Lovin of Los Angeles, president of the Bank of America, who spoke on "Co-operation of Stockholders." J. V. Rea, vice-president and cashier of the bank, who outlined plans for the new bank on East Broadway. C. C. Cooper, president of the bank; Owen C. Emery, who spoke on the new Federal Mortgage company, and Dr. Henry Harrower, who spoke to the employees of the bank.

Mr. Rea's introduction as head of the new bank at 612 East Broadway was of special interest. The new bank is to be opened at 9 o'clock this Saturday morning and George D. Harness is to serve as assistant cashier. Mr. Rea spoke most enthusiastically of the future prospects of the new bank. There were present at the banquet several stockholders in the new organization.

It is interesting to note that officials state that the bank now has $500,000 in deposits, which they assert is a phenomenal record. There are at present 115 stockholders, all of whom are citizens and property owners of Glendale.

Officers of the Bank are:

Officers—C. C. Cooper, president; J. V. Rea, vice-president and cashier; Paul E. Stillman, vice-president; William A. McCormack, assistant cashier; Walter P. Lewellyn, manager of real-estate department.

Directors—C. C. Cooper, E. J. Emery, B. D. Erwin, V. M. Hollister, W. G. Lauderdale, W. P. Lewellyn, William McMillan, J. V. Rea, H. S. Webb.

Widening of Verdugo Road Wins Majority

By a vote of three to two, the city council this morning moved, on motion of Councilman Sam Davis, seconded by Councilman W. A. Horn, to start proceedings to widen Verdugo road from the intersection of Glendale avenue to the northerly city limits, to 100 feet. Mayor Spencer Robinson and Councilman Asa Hall voted in the negative.

It was brought out in the argument that the road was dedicated 66 feet wide, but at the present time it is only 25 or 30 feet wide in many places. Mayor Robinson stated that it was his opinion that the road should be widened to 66 feet and then if it did not take care of the traffic, then proceedings for a further widening could be undertaken. He considered that the cost would be prohibitive.

LOOT BANKS IN MEXICO CITY FOR FUNDS

Soldiers Slain In Battle at Santa Lucrecia Burned, Travelers Report

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 27.—Federal troops are pressing the rebels vigorously on all fronts, the war office announced today. General Martinez is directing a strong offensive against the rebels at Vera Cruz where the rebels are concentrating for a last stand.

VERA CRUZ, Dec. 27.—Travelers arriving here today from Santa Lucrecia, where a violent battle was fought between revolutionaries and federalists, reported that four railway cars of federal dead were taken from the town and burned.

A telegram from Esperanza reported that the federalists in Mexico City, needing money, sacked several banks, among them the Banque Francaise (now in the course of judicial liquidation) and the Banco de Industrie Comercio.

Claim Victory

Luis Gallardo, chief of revolutionary communications in the south, reported to Huertista headquarters from Pkaya, state of Guerrero, that General Romulo Figueroa captured the important railway junction of Puente De Ixtla, after a three hour fight.

A division of revolutionaries is attacking Sultepec, which is defended by 1,000 federalists, supported by field artillery.

It was claimed that many citizens are openly friendly to the revolutionary cause.

Adolfo de la Huerta, in an exclusive signed statement for International News Service, said:

Scores Obregon

"I did not join the liberalist movement, but directed it because of frequent violation of laws and the action of the Obregon government in ignoring the sovereignty of states and the reports of individuals. The revolution naturally creates a difficult financial situation. My remedy depends upon the state of affairs at the close of the revolution. Foreigners must base their opinion upon my acts while I was secretary of the treasury. I will always endeavor sincerely to be guided by the strictest honor and will exact fulfillment by Mexico of all obligations both to Mexicans and foreigners."

Bullet Crashes Through Car Window; Entire Nippon Cabinet Resigns

By DUKE N. PARRY
For International News Service.
TOKIO, Dec. 27.—The Japanese cabinet, following a prolonged session, resigned late today as a result of an attempt to assassinate Hirohito, prince regent of Japan, as he was proceeding to the diet chambers to convoke the forty-eighth diet session.

The prince regent was unharmed by the assassin's bullet, which shattered the glass of his limousine, but Grand Chamberlain Iriye who was riding with him was slightly injured.

Daiseike Naniwa, 25, who fired at the Japanese ruler, was captured immediately after the attempted assassination, being saved by the police from the menacing crowd which closed in about him. His two companions, however, escaped.

Prince Remains Calm

The prince regent after returning to Akasaka, detached palace, with his wounded chamberlain, proceeded to the diet chambers and delivered his speech, appearing to be the calmest person in the assembly.

All newspapers in Tokio carrying the story were suppressed. The metropolitan chief of police, assuming full responsibility resigned immediately.

The attempted assassination was immediately set upon as a political issue. Popular opinion accused Minister Goto of bringing the Russian envoy Joffe into Japan and thus aiding in spreading socialism. A special meeting was at once called to determine what action the Yamamoto cabinet would take, the cabinet's resignation finally being determined upon.

The Seiyukai or opposition political party seized the opportunity to discredit the Yamamoto ministry. Former Premier Takahashi immediately started a series of calls on officials and aided in spreading the wave of popular disfavor against the existing cabinet.

Following his address to the diet, Prince Regent Hirohito received the foreign envoys who called to express their pleasure at his safety.

START PROBE OF DISASTROUS FIRE

Will Fix Blame for Blaze In Asylum Where Seventeen Insane Lost Lives

CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—Five city, state and federal agencies today launched a joint inquiry into the disastrous fire at the Chicago State Hospital for the Insane at Dunning which last night took a toll of at least seventeen lives and loosed approximately a score of dangerously insane patients as a menace to the city.

Fire in the overcrowded frame structure known as "the death house," has been recognized as an ever-present danger for the last eleven years and the asylum had been saved from destruction by flames largely by luck in eight blazes since 1910.

Judge C. H. Jenkins, state director of public welfare, arrived in Chicago today to take charge of the investigation for the state. He will be assisted by the state fire marshal's office, the Chicago fire department, County Judge Jarecki and representatives of the United States veterans' bureau working on behalf of ex-service men housed in the tinder structure.

Bodies charred beyond recognition made the work of identification slow, but five had been listed among the known dead early today.

Edward Havel, 35, identified by police as an escaped patient, was taken into custody in a Madison street cafe. He offered no struggle.

Boulevard Committee Plans New By-Laws

The work done by the committee today will be submitted to the entire membership of the association at an early date for approval, and immediately this has been accorded, the reorganization of the association will be carried out along the lines recommended by the committee.

BROKER HELD ON SWINDLE CHARGE

Wanted In Los Angeles For Alleged Fraudulent Oil Activities

SEATTLE, Dec. 27.—F. L. Main, young stock broker, wanted in New York, Los Angeles and Seattle on various charges, was being held in the city jail here today without bail, following his arrest last night by an operative for the Burns detective agency.

Los Angeles authorities, according to dispatches from that city, charge Main with obtaining more than $100,000 from approximately 150 investors in an alleged fraudulent oil venture in southern Oregon.

The specific Los Angeles charge against Main is that he obtained $10,000 from Mrs. Carrie Bowman through his representations of oil prospects. He was indicted by a Los Angeles grand jury October 27, 1920, on a charge of criminal conspiracy, but in the meantime he had disappeared.

Later the same year Main is reported to have been arrested in New York City for passing a $75 check drawn on a Seattle bank which proved to be worthless. His bail is said to have deposited $3000, which he "jumped" before New York authorities learned he was wanted in Los Angeles.

District Not Needed For Business, Claim

MYSTERY COVERS DIRIGIBLE'S FATE

Hope That Some of Crew May Have Survived Held By French Officials

By HARRY FLOREY
For International News Service.
PARIS, Dec. 27.—The fate of the giant dirigible Dixmude, which has been missing nine days, with fifty persons aboard, threatened today to become an unsolved mystery.

While hope for the ship has been abandoned, the ministry of marine has not yet given up hope that some or all of the crew and passengers may yet be found alive.

The optimism of the ministry of marine officials is not generally shared. The Matin charges that the Dixmude left her base at Toulon to fly across the Mediterranean at Algeria, without notifying the ministry of marine in Paris.

Plaything of Elements
According to the Matin, the commander of the airship failed to seek advice as to weather conditions.

"Due to error in the fundamental organization of the marine ministry and lack of co-operation between the naval and aviation services, and the meteorological service, the Dixmude set out, a blind plaything of the elements," said the Matin.

The ministry of marine is instituting an official investigation to determine responsibility for the dirigible.

Red Cross Not Able To Help In Salary

Owing to a depletion in the finances of the organization, the Glendale chapter of the Red Cross will not be in a position after the first of the year to contribute $50 per month toward the salary of Mrs. E. Sadler, city nurse, according to a letter received by the City Council this morning.

The matter was taken under advisement and a decision will be reached at the next meeting as to whether or not the council can afford to pay this extra sum to keep Mrs. Sadler on the city health department staff.

O. K. BOND ISSUE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—The Interstate Commerce commission today authorized the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad to issue and pledge $10,000,000 of general mortgage 5 per cent bonds.

ENTHUSIASM FOR BONDS WILL BE ROUSED

Everyone In City Invited to Join In Demonstration On January 5th

The original route that had been tentatively adopted for the monster Greater Glendale parade that is to celebrate Glendale's reaching the $10,000,000 total for building permits in 1923, and that is also designed to generate a wave of enthusiasm for the $1,600,000 sewer bonds will be largely extended, according to an announcement made this morning by L. H. Myers, chairman of the advertising committee of the Glendale Realty Board.

The first suggestion that the three bands that it is planned to secure for the parade, the Elks, Scouts and Community bands, should march in the parade, was emphatically negated yesterday at the meeting of the Realty board, and it was decided that the musicians be carried on trucks in the demonstration. This will permit the sponsors of the parade, representing every civic and social body in Glendale, as well as the city officials, to extend the line of march to take in the greater portion of the residential district of the city, as well as the business section.

Advertise City
At the committee meeting that was held this morning it was planned to secure signs for the automobiles, so that the name of Glendale and its accomplishments will stand out strongly in the pictures that are to be taken of the big booster movement. Arrangements will also be made to secure trucks for the bands, and every one in Glendale who has a car or who can secure a ride is asked to participate in the parade and show their enthusiasm over the city's accomplishments, and also to boost the sewer bonds.

The hour of the parade, that had been set for 2:30 p. m. on Saturday, January 5, has been advanced to 2 o'clock, in order to permit the paraders to cover as much territory as possible.

The co-operation of Chief of Police J. D. Fraser will be asked by the men who are organizing the parade, and a special detail of officers will, it is expected, be on duty along the route.

COUNCIL DENIES PERMIT TO CAMP

Number of Protests Causes City Officials to Vote Down Application

The application of E. Holland to conduct an auto camp at 525 San Fernando road, facing Riverside Drive, was refused by the City Council this morning. The vote was unanimous against granting the permit.

Attorney Dwight Stephenson, representing the protestors, presented a petition with 140 signatures of residents of that portion of the city, who urged the refusal of the permit.

A letter from Dr. G. Kaemmerling to the council recommending that the permit be denied was read. Chief of Police John D. Fraser reported that the applicant was a man of good moral character.

Attorney U. Claire Anspach, representing the applicant, argued for the granting of the permit.

It was stated that last year sixty children from the auto camp attended the Glendale schools, their expenses being paid in part by the $700,000 worth of taxable property represented in the protest.

The movement against the granting of the application was sponsored by the West Glendale Protective association, of which P. E. Johnston is president.

"Merrywood," the cabin of Mrs. W. B. Loftus at Big Bear lake, provided an ideal place for the celebration of Christmas by Mrs. Loftus and a group of her friends. The valley is beautified with a heavy blanket of snow and the big fire within doors gave a real Christmas spirit to the big turkey dinner.

THEATRES
THE GLENDALE
"Pioneer Trails," starring Alice Calhoun and Cullen Landis, "is being shown for the last time at the Glendale theatre today, concluding a run of five days that have been marked by a large attendance at every showing.
This picture is a story of the early West, when the man with the quick draw and ready courage ruled. It portrays skillfully the life of that period and presents a story that is replete with thrills and human touches, as well as an absorbing love theme. An Indian attack on a prairie caravan, the stage coach runaway and a leap down a chasm are high lights of the thrills in the photoplay.
Descendants and survivors of a tribe of Cree Indians, who participated in one of the most famous massacres of pioneer settlers, was employed in making the scenes of
"Pioneer Trails."
THE GATEWAY
Not many people realize that the man who visits their homes day after day—who becomes so much a part of their daily lives that he is no more noticed than the milk man or the ice man—is one of the most dramatic figures in existence, in addition to being one of the least appreciated. Both of the facts were brought out strongly in "The Mail Man," Emory Johnson's latest production, which will be the attraction at the Gateway theatre today and tomorrow.
Ralph Lewis, in the title role, is given the dramatic opportunity of his life in portraying the daily conflicts, joys and sorrows of the valuable public servant—the mail man.
"The Mail Man," however, is not a homely drama and pathos.
There are tremendously exciting moments, especially in the scenes where the Pacific battle fleet gives chase to a rum-runner on which a trusted postal employe in charge of thousands of dollars is held prisoner.
As an added attraction, the Glendale postoffice will play on this program, while Postmaster D.
Ripsey Jackson will sing a number of selections.

TITLE AT STAKE IN LEAGUE GAME

Week-End Schedule Includes Two Fast Contests at White Sox Park

Following up last Sunday's eleven inning baseball matinee with Sawtelle, Frank Kerwin and Grant Leischner, White Sox owners, have scheduled two attractions for this coming week-end that will undoubtedly fill the park on both occasions. On Saturday the Pacific Electric and the N. O. Nelson company of Los Angeles, will play off the tie for the championship of the major Industrial league. As matters now stand, these teams have met twice, each one getting a decision, and Saturday's game will decide which one can lay claim to the championship. On Sunday the White Sox will meet Palms-Culver City in a regular Triple A league fixture. George Walsh, former Brooklyn player and famous movie star, will be in White Sox uniform for what will probably be his last appearance in America prior to his departure for Rome to play the leading part in the film version of Wallace's noted story of Ben Hur.

Grudge Battle
Saturday's game will be a real grudge battle. These two teams have been gunning for each other all season, and when the play-off was mentioned, they were unable to agree on any Los Angeles lot. Finally the fine new home of the White Sox was mentioned and both agreed to settle their differences on San Fernando road. Both teams number on their roster, sons of the fastest semi-pro players in southern California, and one of the hottest games of the season is expected. The game is called at 2:15. The teams will line up as follows:

Pacific Electric: Drunert, 2b.; Mayer, ss.; Krausche, cf.; Leonard, 3b.; Allee, c.; Raehford, rf.; Hilton, lf.; Fitzgerald, 1b.; McClung, p.

N. O. Nelson Company: O'Shea, 3b.; Kingdon, ss.; Ffolher, 2b.; Schramm, 1b.; Donovan, cf.; Samide, c.; McMullin, cf.; Norton, rf.; Campbell and Johnson, p.

Other Stars to Play
Glendale is not the only team that will have several notables in its line-up on Sunday. Of course George Walsh, who has a large following among the movie folk in Hollywood, will draw a large crowd from there. But the visitors from Dulles, who also have men in uniform who have performed in the big leagues, "Ping" Bodie, Pete Schneider, Red Smith and other coast leaguers are wearing the combination livery, and Glendale will have to play a better article of ball than they did the last time if they expect to repeat their performance of turning back the visitors. Whitaker, who saved the day last Sunday by striking out two hitters when even an infield out would have meant the ball game, will be on hand in uniform again, and Mike Donlin may decide to start him in this game instead of Arnold Crandall. Otherwise the line-up will be the same, with the exception of Coleman, who will give way to George Walsh in left field.

HUSKIES WARMING UP FOR CONTEST

Washington Eleven Prepares To Battle Navy Grid Squad, New Year's

SEATTLE, Dec. 27.—With only two days left for practice before they depart for the south Friday for their game with the Navy, New Year's day, the Washington Huskies are beginning to warm up to the big contest. The men are realizing that football fans of the nation will be watching Washington on New Year's and a victory over the Navy will be a greater feat in the eyes of the east than a win over California would have been.

Following their day's layoff, Bagshaw's men were at it again last night with practically a full squad on hand, Johnny Cole being the only regular not present. Two of the backfield men, Tesreau and Sherman, are nursing hurts today, but both are expected to be "right" when the whistle blows for the big game. Baggy is drilling all of the substitutes thoroughly, so that he will have plenty of men ready to step into the game.

Oil Company to Pay Obligations in Full

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—The Southern States Oil corporation, trading in whose stocks was ordered suspended on the New York curb market yesterday, will be able to pay off its obligations to traders, according to C. N. Haskell, chairman of the board and former governor of Oklahoma. The suspension of trading in Southern States stock was closely followed by announcement that the brokerage firm of Richards, Hutchinson & Co. had failed. It was reported in the street that concern had carried much Southern States stock for customers.

Jack Renault's Start Handicapping Him; Work With Champ Ruined His Confidence

Two training poses of Jack Renault and one as he appeared as member of the Canadian Northwest Mounted Police.

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Jack Renault looms up today as the most likely contender for Jack Dempsey's heavyweight crown. The average fan realizes that the Canadian heavy is being rused into a battle with the champ—into being groomed for an early battle. Should he meet Dempsey in less than a year he will go innocently to the slaughter. But most critics agree that given due time to acquire more skill and experience, he would prove a dangerous foe.

One shortcoming, however, may ruin whatever chance he has of winning fame and a title. That is his lack of confidence. He is not yet a fighter. He has gameness. The fact that he earned his spurs as a member of the Canadian Northwest Mounted Police indicates that he has a fighting heart and plenty of courage. But in the ring he is timid—overly cautious, doubtful of his own capabilities. As a result of this he allows many glorious chances to go glimmering when unhesitating action would turn the tide of battle in his favor.

His recent battle with Floyd Johnson illustrates the point. Renault has Johnson's measure from the time the pair entered the ring. Renault had more speed and skill than Johnson. The northerner could have knocked his opponent cold in any round. Yet he hesitated to take the fight, and he protected himself against Johnson's blows as though they held dynamite, despite the fact that when Floyd landed it did not even make Renault wince.

One could see in Renault's actions the result of his work as Dempsey's sparring partner. Before him rose the vision of Dempsey as he watched Johnson.

Renault isn't the first man to suffer because he began his ring career as a punching bag for someone else. Bartley Madden is another example. Madden was tough, a fairly clever hitter and a willing worker when he broke into the game. Then he hitched his wagon to Frank Moran's star. Trained the Pittsburgher for most of his boys. To avoid Moran's "Mary Ann" blows Madden developed a cover-up style of defense and a short, choppy style of hitting that quickly ruined him as a fighter.

Jim Jeffries, on the other hand, benefited by his early experience as sparring partner for Jim Corbett.

The blacksmith helped Corbett train for his battle with "Curly" Bob Fitzsimmons. Jeffries soon found out that while Corbett could box he could not hit. Jeff, with his powerful right arm and endurance, could take all Corbett had without feeling it. He soon realized that he could lick Corbett in a long fight. Corbett lost to Fitz in fourteen rounds.

Sport Snap Shots

By JACK KEENE

When Abe Mitchell came to the United States a couple of seasons ago with George Duncan, Americans were amazed at the driving power friend Abe possessed. Now comes word from Great Britain that Bingham, professional at Stourbridge, can outdistance the powerful Mitchell in teeing off. Their records during the last summer season show that Bingham outdove Mitchell by 15 or 20 yards. One of his long drives to which attention is called, was made from the tenth hole at Walton Heath. Bingham drove his ball to the green at the eleventh, a distance of 340 yards. And conditions were rated as unfavorable for the best driving.

Twenty-seven Princeton men have received letters for their work on the gridiron last fall. But the scores of the Harvard and Yale games do not appear on the letters.

Lary Twitchell, old time Cleveland ball player, tells a good one that occurred in the "old days," when Lary was managing the Milwaukee club.

Some enthusiastic youngster from the wilds of Wisconsin pestered Twitchell for weeks, by letter, for a chance to try out with the team. Money was scarce in those days and managers had little to waste on unknown players. Twitchell, therefore, hesitated to order him to report.

"Unless you give me a trial," the modest one finally wrote, "I'll have to give the New York Giants a chance to look me over."

NEW YORK CLUBS FACING TROUBLE

Parlous Times Ahead as Time for Signing Season's Contracts Nears

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.
NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—The high cost of prima donnas being what it is, both of the New York ball clubs are making no secret of the fact that they look for parlous times this year in lining up their players for the 1924 season. The fact that each club is now a three time pennant winner will only serve to make the fountain pen more diffident.

Of the entire list of world's champion Yankees, only George H. Ruth, the well known outfielder, is signed to a 1924 contract. Of the National league champion Giants, George Kelly is the only member in line. Both have hold-over contracts.

The Yankees, ever a sombre, distrust lot, are expected to cause the greater turmoil. Their victory in the last world series was hardly hours old, when some kind soul quoted Colonel Ruppert as saying that every regular in the outfit was due for a substantial salary increase.

Denials Futile
The colonel has lashed himself into a lather denying the statement, but, according to the Yankees, the first time proved it. Many of the world champions will want to hear the greenbacks crackle and the gold pieces clink. The fact that some few of their young men are in for a reduction in salary probably will give the Giants' officials something to oc-

ST. LOUIS FLASH LEADS SLUGGERS

Rogers Hornsby Heads League at Bat; Equals Wagner's Record

Rogers Hornsby, St. Louis Cardinal slugger, again leads the National league batters in 1923 with a percentage of .342 according to the batting averages just made public, thereby equaling the league consecutive batting championship, previously held by Hans Wagner of Pittsburgh. Both have led the crowd for four consecutive years, Hornsby from 1920 to 1923, inclusive, and the mighty Honus from 1906 to 1909, inclusive. Both bat right-handed.

Arnie Stutz of Chicago, who played with the Glendale White Sox a time this year, went to bat the most times, 655. Ross Young of New York scored the greatest number of runs, 121. Frank Frisch of New York, "The Fordham Flash," made the most hits, 223; the most one-base hits, 169, and also the most total bases on hits, 311. Cy Williams of the Phillies leads in home runs with 41 to his credit. Max Carey again leads the base stealers, pilfering 51 sacks, duplicating his 1922 performance.

Six Hits in Game
George Burns of Cincinnati and Arnold Stutz of the Cubs participated in every game played by their respective clubs. Jacques Fournier of Brooklyn was the only player to make six hits in a game. He accomplished this feat on June 29, in six times at bat, against Philadelphia. Two players batted three home runs in a single game, Fred Williams of Philadelphia, on May 11, and George Kelly of the Giants, on September 17. In the latter contest Kelly set the season's record for total bases in one game by hitting for a total of 15, against Chicago—a single, double and three home runs.

The Philadelphia and St. Louis clubs established a record on May 11, when they batted ten home runs, the former six and the latter four.

Leading Batters
The leading batters among the regular players of each club were: Rogers Hornsby, St. Louis, .342; Roush, Cincinnati, .351; Frisch, New York, .348; Grinnam, Pittsburgh, .345; Henline, Philadelphia, .323; Stutz, Chicago, .319.

The longest game lasted 15 innings, August 9, which St. Louis won from New York by a score of 13 runs to 12.

The New York club performed a rare feat on June 1 by scoring one or more runs in every inning of the nine-inning game against Philadelphia. By scoring in the eighth and ninth innings of the previous game and in the first inning on June 2, the Giants set a record by scoring runs in twelve consecutive innings.

Winners at Home
New York and Pittsburgh were the best winners at home, each having a percentage of .611. With the exception of Brooklyn, Boston and Philadelphia, each club won a majority of its home games. Oddly enough, the three lowest clubs won more games and lost less at home than they did at home. Boston's percentage being 136 points better on opponents' fields.

New York was the best road club, excelling its at-home percentage by a margin of 21 points, and, with Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and Brooklyn, won more games abroad than at home.

TITLE IMPERILED BY BROKEN FIST

Criqui, European Champion, Is Challenged While Incapacitated

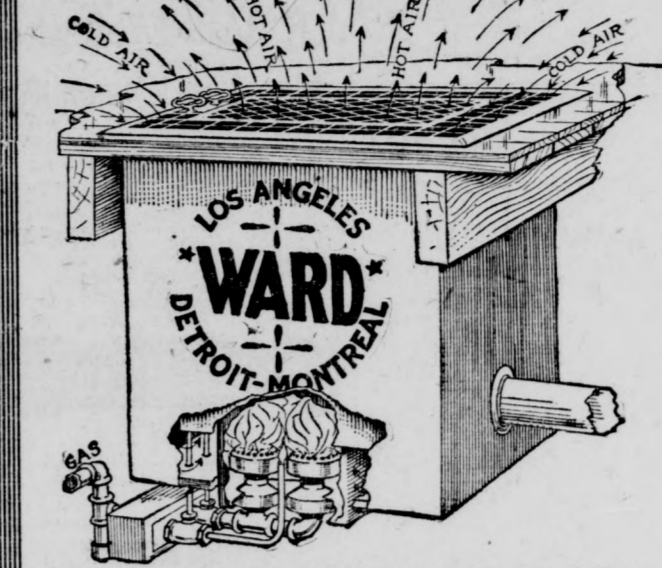

PARIS, Dec. 27.—Eugene Criqui's fifteen-round point victory over the Belgian featherweight boxer, Henry Hebrans, on October 6, probably cost the French polli with the metal jaw his title of champion of Europe.

The news has just leaked out that Criqui's damaged left hand—a bad fracture of the metacarpal bone of the middle finger resulting from a collision with Hebrans' jaw—will keep him out of the padded ring for from five to seven months.

In the meantime if officials of the International Boxing Union act according to the rules of that body and not according to the dictates of conscience, they will have to award Criqui's title to his most formidable rival, Edward Mascart, nicknamed "The Mauler."

Fites Challenge
Four days after Criqui just managed to edge out a victory over Hebrans, Mascart filed a challenge with the Boxing Union for a title bout with Criqui.

PERSHING WANTS FUNDS FOR ARMY

Says Present Appropriation Provides Only Living Expenses for Men

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—The present war department appropriation provides only for the "living expenses" of the military establishment and does not adequately care for its upkeep or progressive development, declared General John J. Pershing, chief of staff of the United States army, in his annual report to the secretary of war.

"War stocks of supplies have been utilized to the maximum advantage," said the report, "and many articles are now exhausted. The temporary shelter built during the war has in most instances become unduly expensive to maintain and is unfit for occupancy. Essential measures for the defense of the Panama canal and our overseas possessions have been held in abeyance, although a number of years would be required for their completion."

Practice Economy
General Pershing declared that no other government agency had co-operated more sincerely than the war department in the effort to effect economies in appropriations. With appreciation of the need for economy, however, he urged that the regular army be brought back to the strength of 150,000 enlisted men and 13,000 officers. Other recommendations were as follows:

1. That appropriation be made for the suitable housing of officers and enlisted men.
2. That the army be enabled to conduct annual maneuvers on a moderate scale.
3. That the National Guard be given the support necessary to permit its progressive development to a strength of 250,000.
4. That the skeleton organization of the organized reserves be adequately maintained.
5. That the funds appropriated permit reserve officers to receive an average of fifteen days' training in each three or four years.
6. That the reserve officers' training corps units be further developed and that provision be made for a gradual increase in the number accommodated annually in the citizen military training camps.

Expect "Disruption"
In commenting on existing conditions in the army today, General Pershing declared that the temporary disruption of the regular army was to be expected during the initial phase of reorganization under the national defense act, but emphasized the fact that this condition "can be but a temporary phase."

LA CRESCENTA HOME ECONOMICS TO BE FEATURED

Club Women Asked to Bring Samples of Favorite Recipes to Meet

Mrs. Mary B. Darrow, as chairman of the program committee for the Women's club, announces the program for the January club day will be a home economics department.

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, January 9, 1924. Mr. and Mrs. C. Haskins had the pleasure of entertaining one of their old Montana friends, during the Christmas, Mr. Casteel of Helena.

A number of Girl Scouts, chaperoned by Mrs. Arthur Cox, will make a trip up the canyon to Oak Wynde, which lies below Switzer's camp about three miles.

The young girls, who are Irene Minkoff, Doris Potter, Sara Goldenberg and Margaret Brown, expect to be gone from Friday evening till Sunday afternoon.

Fancy Dress Dance The fancy dress dance given by the Improvement association, under the management of Tom Brown, promises to be a huge success.

Mr. Brown is personally assuming a large share of the expense connected with the affair.

He is having handbills printed and a number of the local kiddies who received bicycles for Christmas will make some pocket money distributing the bills to all residents of the valley.

Mr. Brown is also offering a first prize of a ten-pound turkey for the best national costume.

The proceeds of the dance will go to the fire fund, and, as the association is heavily in debt on this score, they are particularly anxious to have a large crowd.

There will be nothing raffled at this dance. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Miles have moved into their new home, just completed, on Montrose avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Thomas entertained eighteen out-of-town guests at Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark S. Collins and son Stuart were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. Watkins on Briggs terrace on Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Carson entertained a few of their old Maize friends and relatives during the holidays, among them being Professor Newton and his wife and Mr. and Miss Carson.

Savant Names Leading Greatest Discoveries

CINCINNATI, Dec. 27.—Edwin W. Slosson, director of science service in Washington, who is in Cincinnati for a convention of scientists, has outlined the five greatest discoveries in 1923:

- 1. Confirmation by Director W. Campbell, of the Lick observatory, of Einstein's theory, that rays of light passing close to the sun are deflected toward the sun. 2. Confirmation of Einstein's prediction that in the light from the sun the lines in the solar spectrum shifted toward the red. This was made by Dr. St. John in the Mount Wilson observatory. 3. Discovery at the University of Toronto of insulin as a cure for diabetes. 4. Discovery of ethylene gas as a substitute for ether and chloroform. 5. Reversal of magnetic polarity of the sun as reported by the Mount Wilson observatory at Pasadena, Calif.

Mary Newcomb Seeks Divorce From Edson

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 27.—The famous "Strongheart" of the theatre world is the defendant in a divorce suit on file here today in which Mary Newcomb, herself a prominent figure in the theatrical world, charges Robert Edson with non-support. Edson's real name, according to the complaint, is George Edson. A decade ago he was a matinee idol, when he appeared in the Indian drama, "Strongheart." In recent years he has worked in motion pictures. Miss Newcomb or Mrs. Edson, has played leading roles with Pacific coast stock companies and appeared recently in New York in "The Woman on the Jury." The Edsons, the divorce complaint specifies, were married in Newark, N. J., in 1918, when she alleges, he was 41 and she 21.

Fall Denies Receipt of Oil Kings' Money

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Secretary of the Interior Fall, in a letter to the senate committee investigating the leasing of naval oil reserves to private interests denied categorically today that he had ever received money from persons to whom he leased oil lands.

"I never received any money, by loan or gift, from Harry F. Sinclair, or E. L. Doheny," Fall said in his letter. Sinclair obtained the lease to Teapot dome and Doheny the lease to the naval oil reserve in Elk Hills, Cal.

WORK OF CENSUS BUREAU IS TOLD

Statistics for Fiscal Year Ending June 30, 1923, Given to Public

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—In his annual report to the Secretary of Commerce, made public today, William M. Steuart, Director of the Census, describes the census work during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1923.

The statistical subjects concerning which data collected and compiled during the fiscal year 1923 included, among others, the following: Wealth, public debt and taxation; state and municipal finance; inmates of institutions, including prisons and reformatories; births and deaths; marriage and divorce; electrical industries; manufacturing industries; forest products; cotton and cottonseed; and leaf tobacco stocks.

During the fiscal year the Bureau issued approximately 750 press summaries, with a total edition of nearly 1,700,000, covering a great variety of subjects ranging from automobile production to births and infant mortality. It also issued nearly 200 printed reports, bulletins, etc., with a total of more than 15,000 pages and an aggregate edition of more than 2,000,000.

An estimate of the national wealth, public and private, is being made.

Institution Inmates Inmates of institutions for the dependent and defective classes, and for prisons and other correctional institutions, on January 1, 1923, numbered approximately 390,000, or about four-fifths of 1 per cent of the total population of the country.

The number of marriages per 10,000 population increased from 86 in 1917 to 102 in 1918 and to 103 in 1922. The number of divorces per 10,000 population increased from 8.4 in 1916 to 13.6 in 1922.

Special interest attaches to the census of electrical industries, which covered the calendar year 1922, as the statistics derived therefrom will be used at the World Power Conference to be held in London, England, in July, 1924.

Industrial Census The inauguration of a series of biennial censuses of manufacturing industries, beginning with 1921, marks a great advance in industrial census taking.

The Monthly Survey of Current Business, the publication of which was begun in July, 1921, now covers more than 1,000 indexes of commercial and industrial activity and is sent to a mailing list comprising over 5,000 paid subscribers, 1,300 newspapers and trades associations, representatives of the United States Consular Service, and commercial attaches.

Despite the enormous and increasing amount of work now devolved by law upon the Bureau of the Census, its total office force in Washington numbered only 777 on July 1, 1923, as against 841 on July 1, 1922. Because of the low salaries provided by law for the census force, the "turnover" in personnel between July 1, 1922, and July 1, 1923, amounted to 24 per cent, or almost one-fourth of the entire force.

Advocates Transfer With the view of avoiding delay and duplication of work the director recommends legislation transferring the collection of data as to quantities of leaf tobacco held by certain classes of manufacturers and dealers from the bureau of the census to the bureau of internal revenue. Another recommendation is that the Official Register, now published biennially at a cost of about $50,000, which gives names and information concerning all civilian officials and employees of the government other than those in the postal service, be discontinued and that, instead, the bureau of the census be authorized to compile statistics regarding the civilian personnel of the federal government. It is further recommended that legal provision be made for co-operation between the bureau of the census and state and municipal governments or agencies in the collection and compilation of statistics, so far as such co-operation will result in saving to the federal government or will expedite the statistical work.

EX-KLAN LEADER LAUNCHES FIGHT

'Supersedes Courts' Rule' Clark Tells Coolidge In Open Letter

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—The Ku Klux Klan as a national issue, was brought dramatically to the open today and laid on the doorstep of the White House.

In an open letter to President Coolidge, Edward Young Clarke, imperial grand and former head of the Klan in the United States, declared the organization which he was instrumental in founding had degenerated into a "cheap political machine," that it "bravely superseding the authority of American courts," and he concluded his letter with an appeal to the president to take the lead in a national effort to stamp out "hooded terrorism," or else force the Klan to disband.

FULLERTON, Cal., Dec. 27.—An obsession that her 17-months-old baby Jacqueline was a part of herself and should accompany her on the journey of death, was the theory advanced before the coroner's jury here today which investigated the suicide of Mrs. Esther Meeker, aged 32.

Little "Jackie," with her Christmas doll tucked in her chubby arms, lay dead in her crib when her father, Horace Meeker, a Fullerton business man, returned home last evening, he told the jury. Mrs. Meeker's body was crumpled on the floor and near-by was an empty bottle which had contained poison.

COMMENT That's All

Sunshine And Showers Human Interest Subjects Panorama Of Glendale Big News For New Year's

By Gil A. Cowan

The darkest cloud has its silver lining, so they say. And the dull skies of yesterday afternoon provided a background for one of many and varied beautiful sunsets for which this vale with its Verdugo and Hollywood hills is justly noted.

Of late we have been noticing the sunsets, for it is at this season of the year the Sierra Madre and Coast ranges are most susceptible to the colorings of the Creator in his lavish splendor of sunshine. And not only are the skies at eventide beautiful, but one will find the sunrise over the snow-caps to the east one of the most inspiring sights of all.

We sometimes think the world drab and drear when a passing shower of a day's duration, or the high fog at night, comes along to spoil "store bought beauty," or make the highways mean and slippery. Yet it is the rain which freshens the gardens, provides the water which we require to sustain life, just as much as the sun.

Those thoughts were written in the legends of Indians, folks, and we can only in our humble way express our pleasure in being able to enjoy the sun, the rain, the fog and the colorful mountains of Southern California. It takes a painter's brush to tell the story, not words written on a typewriter.

Human interest topics are the "best sellers" in the columns of a newspaper. Yet it is difficult to get people who can see the interesting side of others' lives and write it entertainingly. This is not a complaint, but simply a fact.

George Ade is a master at moralizing on other's misfortune. Irvin S. Cobb can tell stories till the cows come home and get paid for it. O. Henry was a wizard in writing life and its seamy side.

But there still remains a greater field—that of getting the interesting story out of each and every human. No matter whom you meet, there is something worth chronicling, if you only learn of it.

In Fresno the other day the writer met a friend who writes an iconoclast magazine, such as college boys love to quote. And no one would suspect that he is the perpetrator of such rot. His only excuse was "there's money in it."

Day before yesterday a spring in our motorcar gave way. Took it to garage on Sunset on the boulevard and there the owner we found to be a youth who is a noted mechanic—owns the garage in order to be near his mother as five out of seven in his family have died. He might be in Detroit or New York where he has been employed, but no, that dear old mother of his means more than speedboats and fine racing cars.

Why, if it only knew it there is not a person that doesn't have a hidden nugget of human interest for us—if we can only find it.

When bringing your friends to Glendale over Glendale boulevard call their attention to the panorama seen from the top of Ivanhoe hills. It is an inspiring sight easily had.

Glendale is such a rapidly growing city that it outstrips comprehension. There was a day when the writer knew most of the 5,000 people living here. Perhaps we know 5,000 today, but surely we do not begin to recognize the hundreds and hundreds of newcomers who flock here each month.

Actually, we feel like going out and "getting acquainted." If we could but meet our readers face to face and be introduced, it would be a pleasure. And if we could get the viewpoint of the 50,000 people who live in this city and the 75,000 who inhabit the Verdugo hills district.

Well, we realize it is impossible, but this column courts suggestions for improving Glendale. We are glad to pass practical ideas along. We are glad to boost, but never knock, although a knock sometimes is, the biggest boost to be had.

The Glendale Evening News has in preparation a wonderful number for New Year's. It is a great big representative newspaper which we are going to give you to send to your friends. Better arrange to be represented in this edition NOW.

Two Naval Officers Sentenced for Crash

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Secretary of the Navy Denby yesterday afternoon announced the sentences imposed by naval court-martial on Captain H. H. Watson and Lieutenant-Commander Donald T. Hunter, officers in command of the destroyer squadron, which crashed into the rocks off the California coast several months ago, resulting in the loss of more than a score of lives.

Captain Watson was reduced 150 numbers in the promotion list, and Commander Hunter 100 numbers. In reporting to Secretary Denby of the findings of the court-martial, the judge advocate general's office and the bureau of navigation declared they found the "sentences too lenient" and the secretary approved the findings "subject to the comment" of the two bureaus.

FAMOUS ARTIST'S PAINTING SHOWN

Great Titian Canvas Is On Exhibition at First Congregational

The people of Glendale have an unusual opportunity for viewing one of the famous Italian artist's, Titian's, paintings, considered by art critics as one of the finest examples of his work in the United States, which is now on exhibition in the First Congregational church at the corner of Wilson and Central avenue.

The painting is called "The Raising of Lazarus From the Dead." The picture is over 420 years old and is valued at $300,000. It was originally brought to the United States by Jerome Bonaparte, and, when he left America he entrusted it to Admiral Bounce of the United States navy, in whose family it remained until twenty-two years ago.

The rich coloring of the painting is said to have all the beautiful titian reds and browns, which seem to be melted together instead of being applied with a brush, and which could only be done by the famous Italian artist himself, and the formula of which perished with the passing of Titian.

The following is the schedule of free exhibitions of the famous painting, which will only be on display in Glendale today: During the afternoon it may be viewed at 1:30 and 3:30 o'clock, and in the evening at 7 and 9 o'clock.

All Glendadians should take advantage of this opportunity to view a real Titian painting which many people pay a big price to see in art galleries in Italy and France.

MUSICIANS PLAN SACRED RECITAL

Christmas Note Sounded in Program Arranged for Friday Concert

With the Christmas spirit still pervading activities throughout the city, the Christmas recital to be given Friday night at the Congregational church by Miss Lilla E. Litch, organist, assisted by Helen Graham Cole, soprano, will have a strong attraction for Glendale music lovers.

Neither Miss Litch nor Mrs. Cole needs an introduction to Glendaleans, for both are well known in local musical activities.

Their program will be: Bethlehem (Malling), Christmas Eve (Malling), The Shepherds in the Field (Malling), Christmas Chorale, "A Rose Bursts Forth" (Deigensches), "How Beautiful Upon the Mountains" (Harker), "The Prayer Perfect" (Stenson), Helen Graham Cole, March of the Magi (Harker), Christmas Offertory (Grisson), "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth" (Messiah), (Handel), Helen Graham Cole, Christmas Offertory (Lemmens), Chorus of Shepherds, Gloria in Excelsis Deo, Pastorale, Adoration, Chorus, Christmas Musette (Mailly), Hallelujah Chorus (Handel).

An announcement of interest is that these recitals will probably be given every month and perhaps more frequently if the public desires and appreciates them.

Bank Employees Given Bonus at Christmas

Santa Claus remembered the employees of the Glendale State bank, and they found in their stockings Christmas morning a very acceptable gift in the form of a bonus of a half-month's salary from the directors of the institution.

"Our past year has been a very successful one," said A. R. Eastman, president, today, "and we thought it no more than right that we should remember our employees, as they have had much to do with the growth in the number of patrons. We have received splendid co-operation from them, and took this manner of showing our appreciation."

A. S. Alden, Genard Perolta and P. Sergeant Kerns investigated, and found that no one was injured seriously. They proceeded to their homes this morning.

Commission to Carry Appeal to U. S. Court

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27.—Denied the elementary right to compensation by the lower courts, the fight of injured stevedores and workmen of similar occupation to secure redress is to be carried to the United States supreme court by the California State Industrial Accident commission, John A. The state board of control and Governor Richardson at Sacramento have authorized the expenditure of the necessary funds from the budget appropriations for the appeal, McGilvray said.

CAT CLUB PLANS ANNUAL EXHIBIT

Glendale will become the center of the cat map of the west when, on January 16 and 17, feline beauties will mobilize here for their annual maneuvers, under auspices of the Glendale Cat club. From San Diego, California, to Vancouver, British Columbia, they will come by the hundreds, everything furry, from long-haired, pampered Persians to the common or garden variety of plain, ordinary short-haired cat, bringing with them pedigrees reaching back to Xerxes and names alongside which Tut-Ankh-Amen would sound like a monosyllable. To judge this mighty Bubastic ceremonial, Miss Ethel R. B. Champion, an English cat arbitrator, now living in New York, will be brought to Glendale by the local club, reports Mrs. Libbie W. Ashcroft, president. Such a distinguished judge has never before ruled it over the Pacific clan of the furry family, and this is another reason why Glendale has just reason to be proud of the big cat show now hovering on the horizon of early 1924 events.

Feline Champions Coming Here to Compete for Prizes January 16 and 17

Without regard to race, color or previous condition of servitude, gentleman cats, lady cats and kittens may be entered, and Mrs. Ashcroft is now receiving entries. She may be reached at Glendale 2100-M or Glendale 1706-J. Among the cats to be exhibited by local fanciers are Mrs. Libbie W. Ashcroft's short-hair champion, "Michelorena de Verdugo," and her silver male from New York, "It Too Flag"; Mrs. B. O. Holbrook's smoke female, "Lady Betty"; Mrs. Frank Card's "Black Biliken," and Miss Clarabel Grim's "Lavender General," a beautiful blue male, recently imported from New York, and "Vincent," her famous neuter, best cat in six shows. The place where the Glendale Cat show will be held has not yet been decided.

Inspectors Disclose Daring Mail Robbery

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27.—One of the boldest mail robberies was disclosed yesterday afternoon, in the history of San Francisco, when postoffice inspectors announced that eight sacks of mail out of fourteen stolen December 20 had been recovered. The mail was taken from the dock of the Monticello Steamship company six days ago. Its loss was not discovered until the recovered sacks, which had been discarded by the bandits, were found in Suto forest. The mail had been rifled but apparently hurriedly, as many money orders and checks were found.

DOCTOR GOES TO MISSION FIELD

Dr. A. E. Coyne Answers Call of Adventist Church in Southern India

Dr. A. E. Coyne, a member of the staff of the College of Medical Evangelists in Loma Linda, and the White Memorial Hospital in Los Angeles, has gone to Southern India as a medical missionary for the Seventh-day Adventist denomination in response to an urgent call for medical assistance in that part of the world.

Doctor Coyne has gone to a section of India which, until quite recently, was closed to missionaries. A native prince, uninterested in the Christian religion, but very much interested in the western methods of treating disease, told the government that he would build and equip a hospital, if the government would furnish a doctor to take charge of the enterprise. This was agreed upon, and Doctor Coyne has responded to the call.

When Dr. H. C. Menkel, director of the medical missionary work for the Seventh-day Adventist denomination in India, was in California a short time ago in connection with his furlough, he laid the proposition before the White Memorial Hospital and Loma Linda physicians, and Doctor Coyne agreed to go. Doctor Coyne is now there conducting the institution.

Glendale's Expansion Is Limited By Surroundings, Not By Sewer Agreement

It has been said that the sewer agreement between Glendale and Los Angeles limits the growth of Glendale.

There are only two ways by which a city can grow, namely—by annexing new territory, or by adding new inhabitants. If it is impossible to house any more people on a given area, new areas must be added. If it is impossible to add new territory, more inhabitants must be housed on the original area.

Let us consider these facts in relation to the growth of Glendale.

At the present time Glendale is prevented from expanding to the west and the south by Los Angeles. On the east Pasadena prevents any possible annexation of territory with the exception of the area within Sycamore canyon. The opportunity for additional desirable territory to the north is limited by the Verdugo mountains. Thus Glendale is bounded on three sides by incorporated communities and on the fourth by the mountains. Of the desirable territory within the city limits, 80 per cent is already within the city limits of Glendale. The remaining 20 per cent is provided for by the proposed sewer system, but its manner of annexing to Glendale is not specifically named in the agreement between Los Angeles and Glendale.

Can it be rightly said, then, that the agreement limits the territorial expansion of Glendale?

The second way by which a city grows is by adding new inhabitants. The potential citizens of a community are of all classes. A city may draw its future population from the wealthy classes, from the well-to-do, from the law-abiding, or from the lawless. She may make her appeal to the class that appreciates good schools, churches and homes, paved streets, parks, waterworks, sewers and all the other conveniences and good influences of modern American life; or she may be satisfied to receive within her boundaries those who are content to live without humanizing or civilizing agencies, those who do not have the ambition to protest against mediocre living conditions.

The present area of Glendale is only 20 to 25 per cent populated. Approximately two hundred thousand more people can be comfortably housed within the city limits, as they are today. The future of Glendale will depend on the character of these two hundred thousand people. It is, however, up to the present inhabitants of Glendale to select these future citizens by making the proper appeal to the right people.

Lack of sewer facilities is a damaging admission to make to a potential citizen who has been

NAMING STREETS GREAT PASTIME

Do You Know Where Cherry, Barrington or Roads' End Are Located?

By GILA COWAN

Of The Evening News Staff. Once upon a time there was a system to the naming of Glendale's streets. The original town started with Adams street and ran west along alphabetical lines, with Belmont, Cedar, Dayton court, Everett, Franklin court, Glendale avenue, and other streets running in regular rotation to Brand boulevard, which should have been N street, after which comes Orange. Property west of Central avenue at that time had not been subdivided.

To the north there was First street, now Lexington drive, and Broadway was for long known as Fourth street, Harvard was Fifth street, and so on down to old "Tropico's" city limits. But, with annexation of the last-mentioned municipality, the development of 150 new tracts and sundry other reasons, it was impossible to make the numerical and alphabetical arrangement work.

Make Valiant Effort

So the city dads gave up the idea and started naming the streets in accord with the residents' wishes—sometimes. They had a lot of fun finding names, although they evidently mixed Spanish and American history, drinks and Pullman cars, local celebrities and shade trees in the attempt.

Some rainy afternoon, office boys, delivery clerks and others with idle time will do well to learn where a few puzzlers are located, such as Barrington, Cherry, Gell, Green, Madison way, Forest, not to mention Roads End and a few others.

Find 'Em On Map

One subdivider used college pennants for his guide, another took the names of his salesmen, still another sought the old mission fathers' favorites, and two or three named streets after themselves. V. B. Stone of the city engineering force spent months untangling conflicts, and today the streets are well signed, if you know where to find them. Only the latest maps give a clue to many, and woe be to the stranger who thinks anyone in Glendale knows 'em all.

When attaching curtain rods for cash curtains, attach them to the inner sash of the window, so that when the window is opened the curtain goes with it, preventing the curtain from flopping against the screen and becoming dirty.

TODAY "Musique Extra Dry"

By ALICE LANGELEIER
For International News Service.

PARIS, Dec. 26.—Now is the time for all good Parisians to be digging into their pockets for Christmas tips to be distributed among all their many servants. First the postmen, always two or three, who come to the door with homely little calendars handed out by the Postal Department. Then comes the bread-carrier, bringing only a smile, but there is no mistaking what that smile means. And the tailor's boy, not to speak of all the various domestics in the household and last, but by no means least, the "concierge," that eternal ogre who plays janitor in every French house. This is the most important gift of all, for upon its great depends all happiness for the year to come. It is he (or she) who holds the key.

Once in a great while these bugbears of Parisian life receive their just deserts, and then one cannot help rejoicing. The story is running around the city about a concierge who announced that she had an apartment to rent, but demanded 1000 francs tip, "le dernier a Dieu," which every householder must pay. A certain Monsieur Bernard who saw the sign, decided to notify the police, who gave him ten bills of 100 francs each, on the back of which was written: "You will not take these into Paradise with you."

"Take these to the concierge," the police said. Monsieur Bernard did as he was told, and as soon as the concierge had them in her hands the police agent went in and asked for the bills. Terrified and trembling, she gave herself up and muttered something about committing suicide.

Of course, she had to let her off," said the police, "for she is the mother of three children; but she got a good scare just the same."

"Musique extra dry," is what the Paris police is demanding

Who's Who in the Day's News

GOV. JOHN C. WALTON
Horace Greeley may have done something to do with placing John C. Walton in gubernatorial office in Oklahoma. For had not Walton's father decided to go West Walton might not have reached Oklahoma eventually.

J. C. WALTON

Gov. Walton was born 42 years ago on a farm near Indianapolis, Ind., to which place his father had immigrated from North Carolina following the Civil war. His father was a Quaker and his mother (an Indiana school teacher) was of the religious sect of Alexander Campbell. Both parents are still living at Siloam Springs, Ark.

At the age of seven his parents went to Fort Smith, Ark., and engaged in the hotel business and the future governor of Oklahoma received his education at the public schools and business college in that city.

Later in life after having engaged for several years in the railroad business, chiefly as a locomotive engineer, during which time he spent four years in Mexico, he received the bachelor of science degree in engineering from Christian Brothers' college at St. Louis, Mo., and settled about seven years ago in Oklahoma City as the head of the Walton-MacIntosh Engineering & Construction company, in which business he achieved an enviable success.

Two years thereafter he was nominated by the Democratic party and elected mayor of Oklahoma City. In a non-partisan conference at Shawnee, Okla., in September, 1921, Governor Walton was proposed as a candidate for governor, and on February 23, 1922, he was unanimously chosen by a second convention of the farming and laboring elements of the state in the city of Shawnee.

In 1905 he married Miss Madeline Orick at Fort Worth, Texas, and of this union there has been born two children, Madge and Vena, twelve and ten years old, respectively. Mrs. Walton comes of an old southern family of Mississippi and Georgia.

King George, young Greek monarch, is reported as leaving his native country for a short period—perhaps two months—as a political move on the part of the Republicans preceding the coming general elections. They believe the move will help their cause and that, if a new republic is proclaimed, his presence will spare them the embarrassment of throwing him in out.

PRINCE GEORGE

George's life has been a hectic one. When his father, Constantine, first fled the country it was made clear to the crown prince that he was not wanted on the throne, due to his pro-German tendencies. His younger brother succeeded Constantine. George succeeded to the throne when Alexander died from the effects of a monkey bite.

Even George's romance was a turbulent affair. He laid long siege to the heart of Princess Elizabeth of Romania and it said she finally accepted him after he had pleaded his cause in dramatic fashion at St. Moritz, Switzerland.

Should George leave Greece, temporarily at least, it is probable a regent will be appointed until after the election.

OH, ALL RIGHT! WE'LL TAKE A CHANCE
Dear Roy—They have decided upon the twelve greatest women and all that. Now, to wind the matter up, I dare you to publish a list of the twelve greatest girls in America. —JAMES EGAN.

It is a desperate adventure we know, but nobody knows where we live and there can be no gunplay, so here goes. The twelve prettiest girls in America are: Elizabeth Hines, Doris Kenyon, Doris Wickson, Aileen Biegl, Mary Eaton, May McAvoy, Margot Kelly, Neysa McMein, Elaine Hammerstein.

And three girls we saw in the street car yesterday. We don't know their names, but gosh! they were good looking. Now, Jim old bean, if there are any more bets you want decided just inhale them, these things are all right in the winter, but foolish questions in the summer are taboo.

NOT STRENGTH OF TURKS BUT ALLIES' WEAKNESS RULED LAUSANNE
"It was not so much the strength of the Turks as the weakness of the allies that influenced the course of events at Lausanne," recently declared Henry Morgenthau, former U. S. ambassador to Turkey.

The United States did send two observers, but observers do not influence the Turks; it takes force or a show of force to do so.

Morgenthau asserted the Turk came into the conference with a gun in each hand and that it was not the brain of Ismet Pasha which accomplished his objects. A little effort on the part of the United States, he said, would have displaced the Turk from Europe and then by accepting the Turkish mandate we could have established a federation of Balkan states. The Balkans, as they are now, he called a breeding place of future wars.

Two lessons were drawn by Morgenthau. The first was for the entire world, "that until all the big powers of the world disregard their selfish aims and the rapacity of some of their business men and will unite in establishing a proper system of international customs and laws, any small band of determined men as the Kemalists in Turkey or Bolsheviks in Russia, can at any time threaten the peace of the world."

The second lesson for America alone, was that we will wake up some day, soon maybe, from our fancied security and shrinking of responsibility as a world power—to find we have to fight in Europe again."

SEN. ALBERT A. CUMMINS
The tragic death of President Harding, which elevated in a President Coolidge to the chief executive's office, also caused Senator Albert Cummins, president pro tem of the senate, to become, automatically, permanent president of the senate, the post which Coolidge, as vice-president, held. This place is a chapter in the career of the Iowa senator, which has been interesting from the time he got his first glimpse of a railroad train at the age of 19, when he left the woods of Pennsylvania to go west.

Cummins began life as a carpenter. It was after much self-sacrifice that young Cummins gathered together sufficient funds to take up the study of law, but finally, between hard study and good work with the hammer and chisel, he was admitted to the bar and became a well known railroad attorney. Then he was elected governor of Iowa and the way was paved to the senate for the former carpenter.

The dates in Senator Cummins' career which he considers important are as follows: 1850, born at Carmichael, Pa.; 1874, married Ida L. Gallery at Eaton Rapids, Mich.; 1875, admitted to Illinois bar; 1878, began practice of law in Des Moines, Iowa; 1888, elected to Iowa legislature; 1902 until 1908, governor of Iowa; 1908, first elected to U. S. senate.

One of the many brilliant affairs of the season—even by the Elks, was the stag Christmas party, held in the club rooms last night.

Work on the new Masonic building on Brand boulevard is progressing nicely and the brick walls are going up rapidly. It is possible now to get some idea of how the finished building will look.

The statement is out from a reliable source that by January 10 the Glendale Montrose railway company will have in use four new finely finished electric cars. These cars will run between Brand boulevard, Glendale, and La Crescenta.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND TOODLE'S TOOTER

"Dear me! I wonder why it doesn't run?" Nurse Jane was saying in the hollow stump bungalow one day. "Why doesn't it run?"

"Are you speaking of the Bob Cat or the Fuzzy Fox?" asked Uncle Wiggily, who was in the next room and heard what his muskrat lady housekeeper said. "Do you mean either of those bad chaps won't run away when you tell them to? If they won't I'll telephone for the Police Dog."

"Neither the Bob Cat nor the Fuzzy Fox is here," answered Nurse Jane with a laugh. "I was only speaking of my sewing machine. It won't run, or go, or whatever you call it."

"You mean it doesn't sew?" asked the bunnny gentleman.

"That's it," answered Nurse Jane. "The wheels won't go."

"I'll look at it," offered Mr. Longears, and when he had done this he saw at once what the trouble was. "It needs oiling," said the bunnny. "A little oil on the wheels of your sewing machine will make them turn easily. Get me the oil can, Nurse Jane. The muskrat lady brought it, but when the bunnny untipped the little oil can on its head, no oil ran out."

"It's empty," said Uncle Wiggily. "Give me the bottle and I'll fill it. Then I can oil your machine."

But when Nurse Jane brought the bottle that, also, was empty. "There is only one thing to do," said Uncle Wiggily. "I must hop to the oil store and get a new, full bottle of oil. Then I'll oil your machine and make it go."

"Thank you; that will be very kind of you," spoke Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. So Uncle Wiggily hopped over the fields and through the woods to the oil store. There he bought a fine, large bottle of oil.

"Be very careful of it," said the dog gentleman who sold the bunnny the oil.

"Why be careful?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Because oil is very slippery," barked the dog. "If you spill any of it on the ground you'll slip and slide about as though you were on the ice."

"I'll be careful," promised Uncle Wiggily.

Putting the bottle of oil in his pocket, the bunnny started to hop back to his hollow stump bungalow to oil Nurse Jane's sewing machine, but when half-way home Uncle Wiggily passed the stick and mud house in the pond where the Flat Tail family of beavers lived.

"I wonder if I have time to stop and see Grandpa Whackum, the old beaver gentleman?" thought Uncle Wiggily. Grandpa Whackum was so called because he used to whack his flat tail on the ground to warn the other beavers of danger. "I'll just stop for a minute," said Uncle Wiggily, looking in his pocket to make sure he had his bottle of oil. And as the bunnny entered the beaver house, he heard a voice crying:

"Blow harder, Tooodle! Blow harder!"

"I'm blowing as hard as I can, Noodle," said another voice, "but I can't make a sound. Oh, dear, this is too bad!"

"Hat! That sounds like trouble," cried Uncle Wiggily in his jolly voice, as he twinkled his pink nose.

"It is trouble, Uncle Wiggily," answered Noodle, one of the beaver boys. "Toodle's tooter won't toot!"

"Toodle's tooter won't toot! What do you mean?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "What is Toodle's tooter—is it a choo-choo engine that he got for Christmas?"

"No, Uncle Wiggily, it is my Christmas tooting horn," answered Tooodle. "But it won't toot. I was out playing with it today and Noodle threw a snowball down in it. I got the snowball out, but the horn won't toot."

"Let me look at it," said Uncle Wiggily. And when he had looked, the bunnny saw that the Christmas horn was all rusty inside, from the water of the melted snowball.

"I'll take the rust out with some of Nurse Jane's sewing machine oil," said the bunnny. "Then your horn will toot as well as ever."

No sooner said than done. The oil, poured down inside the horn, took away the rust, and soon Tooodle was tooting away on his tooter as loudly as you please.

"Thank you, Uncle Wiggily," said the beaver boy, politely.

"You are welcome answered the bunnny. Then he hopped home with what remained of the bottle of oil. It was a large bottle, and he had used only a little for Toodle's tooter.

He began to hop towards home, and then ran on. Up came the Fox. "Zip!" went his feet from under him as he struck the oil. "Slip-ippy-zoopy!" he slid down on his nose, giving himself a hard bump. "Wow!" howled the Fox. "I guess I won't chase Uncle Wiggily any more today!" And he didn't. So the bunnny safely reached home without having his ears nibbled. And if the jumping jack doesn't take the stick away from the lollipop to make an umbrella for the rubber boots, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Dottie's doll.

Dinner Stories

There is a very sweet girl who stutters dreadfully, according to Cartoons. One night when her sweetheart was leaving she accompanied him to the door and said:

"George, are you coming again next S-S-S-S?"

The dog was on the doorstep. After George was half a mile down the road, with the dog gaining on him at every leap, it occurred to him that possibly the girl had intended to say "Sunday" instead of "Seize him," but it didn't occur to the dog for a mile or so beyond that.

Now it can be told, declares Judge. The rookies were undergoing tests for mentality. It was the famous test that established the fact that the average American doughboy should never be confused with a college professor. The colonel of the regiment was very enthusiastic over the idea that everyone should take this test. So enthusiastic, in fact, that he insisted that he himself should take the test, as well as all the other officers. His attitude of mind continued until the colonel had reached about half way through the mentality test, and then he decided that it was not wise for him to continue it.

They had been having a little quarrel and she turned to him with tears in her eyes, relates The Continent.

"Well, John, even though I have been extravagant, I got a bargain today."

"Yes, I'll bet it was a bargain! You have no idea of the value of money. I suppose you got something for nothing."

"Well, I got a birthday present for you."

It was an English military hospital, says Judge, where it was customary for the convalescing patients to wear pajamas while strolling around the grounds. On one occasion an Irishman, formerly of the "Princess Pats," happened to meet an old buddy of his and noticed that his suit was all wrinkled. "Be jabers," said Pat, "Algie, old bean, you look as if you slept in that suit!"

First rubber pavement in the United States is said to be on a railroad crossing in Racine, Wis.

On the Spur of the Moment

By ROY K. MOULTON

NO HOPE
The world is coming to an end. Three prophets now declare it. Their optimism's on the mend, but somehow we can't share it.

For many years they've pulled that line; it hasn't come true yet. And some folks thought 'twould be so fine to be once out of debt.

So do not raise your hopes too high, for they will surely drop. This prophecy they reckon by will be another flop.

What the average national campaign committee needs in its platform is not so much planks as plunks.

A collection or subscription was being taken up for a deserving charity by a newspaper, and a lady in our building wanted to contribute, but she didn't care to have her name printed in the paper as a subscriber. She didn't know what to do about it, so she asked a lady across the hall. The latter was a good business woman. "When you send your check," said she, "don't sign your name to the check. Just sign it 'A Friend,' and then nobody will know who sent it." The lady did this and is still waiting to see "A Friend," $10. in the list of receipts.

Our Agricultural Department
We feel assured that this new department for suburban farmers will prove very popular with those who are trying to make the most money possible out of their investment.

If your cows give milk freely at 5 o'clock in the morning, why not wait until 6 o'clock before milking them? Then they should have considerable more milk and you will be able to keep the city man's business hours.

If your hens lay only one egg a day, replace them as rapidly as possible with hens that will lay four or five eggs a day. This is what we call intensive henning. If you do not think you are getting enough pails of milk from the cows, buy smaller pails. The smaller the pails, the more pails of milk you will get.

Few farmers appreciate the availability of the razorback hog. This pleasant little animal is not popular in the barnyard. Yet if properly handled he can become very useful with his sharp backbone. It is possible to train the razorback to go out and cut the wheat and corn by rubbing against it, and this saves much time for the overworked farmer.

In America, and in outbuildings in rural sections where the fire protection is inadequate should be painted with asbestos paint which makes quite a saving when there is a fire. When a building painted with asbestos paint burns down, the paint remains intact, and all that is necessary to do is to erect a new building inside the paint, tack the paint on and then go ahead as usual. This represents a great saving in paint.

OH, ALL RIGHT! WE'LL TAKE A CHANCE
Dear Roy—They have decided upon the twelve greatest women and all that. Now, to wind the matter up, I dare you to publish a list of the twelve greatest girls in America. —JAMES EGAN.

It is a desperate adventure we know, but nobody knows where we live and there can be no gunplay, so here goes. The twelve prettiest girls in America are: Elizabeth Hines, Doris Kenyon, Doris Wickson, Aileen Biegl, Mary Eaton, May McAvoy, Margot Kelly, Neysa McMein, Elaine Hammerstein.

And three girls we saw in the street car yesterday. We don't know their names, but gosh! they were good looking. Now, Jim old bean, if there are any more bets you want decided just inhale them, these things are all right in the winter, but foolish questions in the summer are taboo.

NOT STRENGTH OF TURKS BUT ALLIES' WEAKNESS RULED LAUSANNE
"It was not so much the strength of the Turks as the weakness of the allies that influenced the course of events at Lausanne," recently declared Henry Morgenthau, former U. S. ambassador to Turkey.

The United States did send two observers, but observers do not influence the Turks; it takes force or a show of force to do so.

Morgenthau asserted the Turk came into the conference with a gun in each hand and that it was not the brain of Ismet Pasha which accomplished his objects. A little effort on the part of the United States, he said, would have

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.
Author of "Diet and Health, with Keys to the Calories"

MONTHLY FORM LETTER

My dear Followers:—The following rules of the column will have to be followed in asking for discussions and for material which cannot be given attention:

First: When you ask for material which we have offered, you must enclose a self-addressed and stamped envelope (s. a. s. e.). The address must include your full name, city or town, state and street number. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must also include four cents in loose stamps. Do not send money—it is too easily lost in the mails.

Second: Write legibly with pen or typewriter, and not more than 200 words. If your handwriting is not clear, get someone to write for you.

Third: When you ask for material to be sent, have your s. a. s. e. at least a full-sized envelope. It is very difficult to stuff a whole pamphlet into a baby envelope.

Fourth: Address your letters to me in care of your paper. They will be forwarded to me at my office in New York City.

Fifth: Do not ask for material to be sent you unless it is something we have offered to send inquirers. You may, however, ask me to write on any subject of general interest which I have not covered, and I will be glad to do so as soon as possible.

Sixth: Do not ask for diagnoses or for individual treatment. I could not safely give you these even if I had the time. This is the province of your personal physician.

Seventh: Allow at least three weeks to elapse before thinking your request for material has gone astray or is ignored. And allow very much longer than that for an answer to appear in the columns, if it can appear there.

Eighth: Watch my answers to correspondents and articles each day for something similar to the question you want discussed, and consider yourself answered when you see that, whether your initials are appended or not. Many people ask the same question and I can answer them altogether to save time and space.

Ninth: Unless all of the first seven rules are complied with, your letter cannot receive any attention. I dislike to have to put all of these restrictions on you, but, unless you do follow them, it is going to be impossible for us to handle our mail.

"Diet and Health," is a syndicated feature, appearing all over the United States and Canada, and in every section of the country, creating great interest, you will realize the extent of my mail. I want to be able to read all of your letters. They are an inspiration. If you will remember that my attention and a help to me, but I shall not be able to do it unless you follow these rules, because of the

Mrs. B.: "Can any of your readers give me the recipe for old-fashioned Philadelphia Peppery Pot?"

Answer: Let us hope that some kind friend will answer this request.

M. K.: "Please tell me how to clean a white wool sweater which has colored stripes. I am sure the stripes would run if washed in water."

Answer: Wash the sweater in gasoline. This will not cause the color to run. Do the work out of doors if possible, as gasoline is very inflammable and must not be used near heat and flame. Have two basins of the gasoline (do not fill the second one till needed). Soak the garment up and down in the first basin to loosen dirt. Then rinse in the second basin. Do not hang on line. Simply lay the sweater on sheets of wrapping paper, pressing it into shape so that it will not dry in a stretched condition. Leave it in the air until the gasoline odor has completely evaporated (this may take several days).

M. G.: "Kindly tell me how to dip home-made fondant. What kind of chocolate shall I use?"

Answer: There is a kind of chocolate on the market made especially for dipping chocolates. I cannot give trade names, as that is advertising, but any good grocer should be able to tell you the name. Otherwise write to me, giving full address and enclosing a stamped envelope, and I will send it to you personally. Here is the method:

To Dip Fondant Candies: Break one pound of dipping chocolate into small pieces and melt down in a pan over hot water. When almost melted add one-half ounce of cocoa butter (any good store sells this) and let melt. When smooth, take pan from hot water and let the chocolate cool and become set. Then reheat over a gentle fire until thin enough to coat with. Stir well each time before dipping a fondant candy (drop candy in, turn it around, then lift it out with a piece of wire shaped like a spoon and let it cool on oiled paper). If the chocolate runs thinly off the wire remover it is too hot and the candy will be spotted and gray looking when cold; on the other hand, if the dipping chocolate is too cool the candies will be streaky when dipped. You must learn by experience the right temperature. Do not have the kitchen too hot either, not more than 60 degrees by a Fahrenheit thermometer.

BEAUTY CHATS

EDNA KENT FORBES

THE BUSINESS WOMAN'S NAILS

A few days' neglect will make the finger nails look very badly indeed, but a few minutes' work will bring them back again to their original prettiness. I know of no part of the toilet that so well repays a little care.

Brittle nails are the hardest to look after. They must always be kept short, and a little cold cream or olive oil rubbed into them every few days, preferably at night when it can be left on. Sometimes brittleness comes suddenly after illness. But stains are usually the business woman's worst affliction. Ordinarily digging the fingers into half a lemon or rubbing them with pure lemon juice will remove the stain; if not, rubbing with vinegar may do so. For very obstinate stains mix a half teaspoonful of diluted hydrochloric acid with a tablespoonful of cold water. Dip the nails in this and immediately into a bowl of cold water. If the stain persists and this does not make the finger sting hold it in the acid a little longer.

Another useful and harmless preparation for cleaning around and under the nails is made by dissolving one dram of tartaric acid in one dram of water and then adding one dram of tincture of myrrh. Ink stains are most easily removed by rubbing with a ripe tomato, or even with the juice of timed tomatoes.

The business woman must look after her nails at night. She will have no time when she is dressing in the morning. The easiest way is to rub a little cold cream in and around the nails, then wash the hands with warm water and soap and a fairly stiff nail brush, scrubbing thoroughly around and under the nail. When the hands are dry the cuticle should be pushed back with an orangewood stick. It will be soft then and, owing to the cream, not too dry. The edges of the nails should be gone over every other night with a bit of emery board, and the nails should be polished nightly with a good polishing paste.

Red K.: Search out the cause for the red nose and correct that. It may be due to sluggish digestive processes, or just interference with the circulation by wearing tight bands. If you wear spectacles, change occasionally to eyeglasses so as to relieve pressure over the nose.

Drink plenty of water between meals. This will not hurt you even though your digestion may not be at fault; if it is causing the trouble, water will clear the system so there will be no congestion, which is really what the condition amounts to.

Mame and Blue Eyes: Advice above applies to your troubles also. The spots come from a sluggish liver, so if you correct that the red nose and the spots will disappear together.

T. R.: At 17 years, with a height of five feet eight inches, you are only from five to ten pounds overweight. A change from white to whole wheat bread may be enough to correct this.

Tomorrow—Do You Feel Fresh?

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes, in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

"AIR TRAVEL WILL BE COMMON IN TEN YEARS," SAYS EDDIE RICKENBACKER

The day of the 2,000-foot superdirigible is not far distant, according to Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker, American flying ace, who returned recently from Europe.

Rickenbacker, who has been abroad on business, was discussing the sale of the great Zeppelin plant at Friedrichshaven to the Goodyear Rubber company.

"It is my absolute conviction," he continued, "that large ocean liners will, within ten years, be almost obsolete as passenger carriers across the Atlantic. There is bound to be great development of the dirigible in the U. S., going far ahead of even the Germans in that direction. It will mean that within twenty years America will dominate the air."

"Within ten years I expect to see the air full of flying flivvers; secondly, the greater development of the giant dirigible, and, thirdly, the building of dirigibles which will act as tenders to the giants of the air—fueling them and taking off their passengers just as does a steamship tender in some parts of the world. This may sound fantastic today, but thousands now alive will live to see that development."

"Today," continued Rickenbacker, "the average 'Zep' is about 900 feet. They will be more than twice that long. Such a dirigible will carry more than 200 fortunate past and give him the cheer and comfort of my company."

I have not told my parents about this, because I am afraid it would make them very angry at the man. What would you advise me to do? He has always been a perfect gentleman and I have certainly enjoyed his company. PERPLEXED.

Since the man is married he has no right to ask for your company. It is a dangerous situation and the only thing for you to do is to give him up. Of course if he is freed by divorce later on there is no reason why the friendship should not be resumed.

Heart and Home Problems

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have kept company with a young lady for over a year and then we had a little quarrel. We quit keeping company with each other then, and two years have elapsed and we have not made up yet. I think a great deal of this lady and would like to win back her friendship. I have gone out with other girls during this time, but none seem to be like she was.

Any advice you could give me to win back her friendship would be greatly appreciated. LONELY.

As long as two years have elapsed since the quarrel, time has probably wiped away bitterness and the girl may be very glad to make up. I would suggest that you invite her to go somewhere with you. Do not bring up the matter of the quarrel unless she does, and then talk about it as little as possible.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a young gentleman for two years. He lives in another state. A short time ago he invited me to his home over the week-end and told me I could bring a girl friend if I wished to. I brought my girl friend and introduced them. I noticed all the time I was there she tried to "vamp" him, but I trusted her because she was my chum. Now they are corresponding. What would you advise me to do? Should I stop my friendship with her, or send back the gifts I have received from my gentleman friend and forget him?

GLOOM.

After such an experience you can hardly feel kindly toward your girl friend. Nevertheless I would advise you to be pleasant rather than show that you have been rivalled. In case the young man still comes to see you, there is no need of sending back gifts, but if he has dropped you, you would probably feel better to send back gifts of value if you have received them.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been kept company with a man for five months and in that time have learned to care a great deal for him. He has taken me to dances and other places of amusement and I have never known anyone who was a more thoughtful escort. About a week ago I got a letter from another town which was not signed. The person writing the letter seemed to be a woman. She asked me if I knew that the man I was keeping company with was married and had two children. Of course I did not know such a thing or I would not have been keeping company with him.

I showed him the letter and asked him if it were true. He told me it was true and he had intended to tell me right along, but he couldn't get up courage. He said he and his wife could not get along together and so they had decided to live apart. He asked me if I would forget his unfor-

Sleep Banished By Noisy Night Workers

Thrift and enterprise may pay in some cases, but the working of a night shift on new houses may lead you into trouble. A. E. Haeg, 334 North Arden street, complained to the police at 11:30 last night that men working on a neighboring house were making so much noise he could not sleep. Lieutenant Nunn and Officer Claxton were detailed on the case, and the matter was settled amicably. Energetic contractors had better take steps to have rubber hammers furnished their employes.

POLLYANNA WELL PRESENTED HERE

Royal Stock Company at Club Theatre Makes Audience Glad

An appreciative audience witnessed the opening performance of "Pollyanna" at the Tuesday Afternoon club theatre last night, presented by the Royal Stock company. Edythe Elliott, as Pollyanna, "the glad girl," well lived up to the unusual opportunities afforded in this popular role, giving a characterization that appealed alike to those who had read the story or seen the play, and those who had not.

Spontaneity and vivacity marked her every action. Her role called for a constant exuberance of gladness, by no means an easy attitude to assume without let-up through four acts, yet accomplished apparently without effort.

Praise for Stars
By her work in "Pollyanna" last night, Miss Elliott further establishes a reputation gained in the eyes of Glendale playgoers last week by her excellent work as Kathleen in "Smilin' Through," and leads one to anticipate with relish her role of Peg next week, in "Peg o' My Heart."

Rodney Hildebrand as John Pendleton proved himself fully as capable of assuming the role of an old man as of playing a juvenile part. A polished actor, he appears at home in whatever characterization he attempts. "Pollyanna" is a four-act comedy by Catherine Chisholm Cushing, based on the book of the same name by Eleanor H. Porter, one of America's most popular writers of light fiction. The comedy will be presented each night during the remainder of the week, at 8:20 o'clock, with a 2:30 o'clock Saturday matinee. States Manager Charles E. Royal, who has leased the Tuesday Afternoon club theatre for the season and will present a popular play each week.

Santa Claus Fills Firemen's Stockings

Santa Claus managed to locate Engine House No. 1 of the fire department, on East Broadway, and the fire boys spent a very merry Christmas. As a gift to the chief from the members of the force, they united in presenting him with an enlarged picture of the department, with personnel and equipment, taken last week. Mrs. Frank Booth presented the boys with a home-made cake, the Pullman sent along a box of cigars and W. A. Howe, manager of the Glendale theatre, made each one a present of a pound box of candy.
