He later contracted for the boxes used at Judge Ross' packing house.

It was several years ago that Mr. Coan went to Fillmore, where he became general superintendent of the Montebello Oil company, in which capacity he realized great success.

Mr. Coan joined the Glendale Elks lodge March 10, 1919 and became a life member December 20, 1920. He was a Mason and a Shriner.

He is survived by a widow and two sons, Lester age 10, and George Roger, age 5; his father, Sidney Coan of Oklahoma, who is on his way to California; his aunt, Mrs. E. A. Lively of 334 North Central avenue; and an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Carrington of Chicago, who are in Los Angeles.

In speaking of Mr. Coan's death Cameron D. Thom said this morning:

"It was a great shock to me to hear of Mr. Coan's death. He was a young man and will be greatly missed by his family, friends and business associates. I will remember when he came to Glendale. He was a fine fellow."

Trio of College Lads Are Stuck Up; Police Laugh

THE national convention of sartorial artists held recently in laying down fashion's edict in regard to correct wearing apparel for all occasions failed to mention molasses and flour for college hazings.

Three young men, who were all stuck up because of the fact that they attend U. S. C., and also because of generous helpings of the aforesaid molasses and flour—were assisted to police headquarters at 2:15 o'clock this morning by Officer J. H. Lauritzen. After Desk Sergeant W. W. Timmons had gotten a good laugh at their appearance, they were permitted to continue on their way homeward—more or less rejoicing.

When they woke up about noon today their names were: Sidney Newcomb, 403 South Genevieve street; M. J. Hudson and W. P. Hughton, 700 West Twenty-eighth street, Los Angeles.

CLUB MEMBERS IN SOCIAL MEET

Varied Program Proves of Interest to Exchange Organization

Music was a feature of the social evening spent in the dining room of the Citizens' building under the auspices of the Glendale Exchange club.

Miss Tilda Rohr of Los Angeles sang two contralto solos: "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from Samson and Delilah by Saint Saens and "The Land of Sky Blue Water," by Cadman. She was accompanied by Mrs. O. E. Grist of 629-D North Orange street, who played a piano prelude by Czerny.

An arrangement of the "Sextette from Lucia" for the left hand only, which was played by Miss Alma Geizer of 827 North Central avenue, was much applauded. She also played "Venice and Naples," by Liszt, and accompanied George Harris Phelps of Hollywood in two baritone solos: "The Kashmiri Song," by Finer, and "At Dawning," by Cadman.

Varied Program

Mrs. Alice Ralph of 1002 South Central avenue interpreted "My Madonna," by Robert W. Service, and "Marriage a Failure" by one who preferred to keep his name anonymous after his wife heard of his argument for ministers collecting their marriage fees in advance.

"Trifles," an original composition for last year's "Spring Poet's Dinner," was recited by Dr. W. H. Appleton of 111 East Broadway, who had charge of the entertainment.

Captain D. Ripley Jackson of 1800 South Brand boulevard, president of the club, was encouraged to sing "The Daughter of Mother Macree."

Piano rhythm for the dancing which followed the program was furnished by Mike Kaufman of Hollywood.

E. F. SANDERS BACK FROM CONVENTION OF SECRETARIES

Meeting Points Out Need of Educating People to C. of C.

The keynote of the annual convention of the Association of Commercial Secretaries, that was held this week at Santa Cruz, was the imperative necessity of educating the people of this state to the accomplishments of Chambers of Commerce and to the additional necessity of securing their co-operation as soon as the knowledge of the work of such organizations has been impressed on the people of the various sections of California, according to E. F. Sanders, assistant secretary of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, who returned here after participating in the meetings of the convention.

It was pointed out by every secretary present that the immense and steady increase of population in California brings people from many sections of the country who are not posted on the importance or the scope of the work done by the Chambers of Commerce, and the lack of this knowledge acts to hamper the activities of the organizations, so that the educational campaign is a matter that must be started and carried through to a successful conclusion.

States Road Policy

One of the most important addresses, in the opinion of Mr. Sanders, was that delivered by Harvey M. Toy, chairman of the state highway commission, who spoke on the past, present and future of highway building in California. The present commission, Mr. Toy declared, has adopted a policy that differs materially from that followed in the past, in that it calls for the completion of the more important highways that have already been started, rather than starting less important roads and leaving them half finished. It is the plan of the commission, he said, to build a better type of roads, even if the distance built has to be curtailed, and the commission has secured the services of an expert road engineer, in whose hands the decision as to the character of the roads will be left.

Another important point is the plan to limit the loads of motor trucks to 22,000 pounds gross, and the advocacy of a two cent per gallon tax on gasoline, with a nominal charge for automobile licenses, sufficient to provide money for the running expenses of the office handling the licenses. All of these matters will be presented to the present legislature in a bill that has been prepared, and (Continued on Page 12)

Rail Consolidation Would Aid Service

WASHINGTON, Mar. 2.—Consolidation of the Great Northern, Southern Pacific and Burlington railroads would result in improved service by eliminating terminal delays and by assuring better car supply for crop movements, Ralph Budd of the Great Northern today told the interstate commerce commission.

If this consolidation is approved Budd said the three roads will make it effective by forming a new system comprising in addition the Colorado and Southern, the Fort Worth and Denver City and the Spokane, Portland, and Seattle railroads.

SENATE RECEIVES INFORMATION ON JUSTICE COURT

Long Communication From Hughes Accompanies Note From Harding

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, March 2.—President Harding compiled today with the senate's request for more information concerning the administration's plans for entering the permanent court of international justice at The Hague, set up under the League of Nations.

He informed the senate that the United States has no intention of entering the court on a basis of "compulsory arbitration" of all international disputes, that he contemplated no negotiations with other powers in this regard, and that American adherence will not oblige the United States under the treaty of Versailles.

The president's notification to the senate was contained in a brief letter to Senator Lodge, Republican of Massachusetts, transmitting a lengthy communication which Secretary Hughes had addressed to the president himself. Mr. Harding merely transmitted the Hughes letter, in which the secretary of state took up in detail the questions propounded by the foreign relations committee at its session on Tuesday. The president said:

"My dear Senator Lodge: On Wednesday you sent me a request of the foreign relations committee for information relative to the proposal that we adhere to the protocol establishing an international court of justice at The Hague. Immediately submitted inquiries of your committee to the secretary of state for detailed reply. I am pleased to transmit to you herewith a letter from the secretary of state covering the various questions raised in the committee's resolution of inquiry. I need not add that the reply of the secretary of state has my most hearty approval."

The senate's first query asked whether he (the president) favors an agreement obliging all powers who are signers of the protocol creating the court to submit all questions to the court.

To this query Secretary Hughes replied: "I understand the question is not intended to elicit my personal opinion or whether you would look with an approving eye upon an arrangement of some sort made effective by action of all the powers, but whether you as president, in the exercise of your constitutional authority to negotiate treaties, favor the undertaking to negotiate a treaty of the part of the United States with other powers creating such obligatory jurisdiction."

"So understood, I think the question must be answered in the negative."

Senator Lodge presented the letters from President Harding and Secretary Hughes to the senate and had them read into the records.

Child Injured in Auto Accident Will Survive

Physicians Declare Boy Is Making Rapid Gain Toward Recovery

Reports from the home of Dr. George H. MacNeil, 230 Fairmont avenue, Eagle Rock, this morning indicate that "Ginger" Lewis, the 9-year-old ward of Dr. MacNeil and his wife, who was run over by an automobile late Thursday evening while coasting on Colorado boulevard, will soon be out and coasting some more.

A remarkable part of the circumstance is that the little fellow never lost consciousness from the moment he was struck by the auto to the present time. One wheel passed over his body and the other over his head.

"Ginger" is a favorite of his playmates, and all older acquaintances. He has made his home with Dr. and Mrs. MacNeil for the past seven years.

The boy was taken to Dr. Phinney's office immediately after the accident and given first aid. Dr. Phinney feels confident that the boy will fully recover.

Mr. Seton's address on the subject and his explanation of the workings of the "Woodcraft league" were very interesting and highly instructive. A number of members of the league accompanied Mr. Seton and assisted in the program.

What do you know about COFFEE?

DO YOU KNOW that Coffee is not always what it appears to be—that it is not necessarily fresh, because packed in tin containers, or of an inferior grade when packed in paper bags. Orange Blossom brand is the highest grade coffee, packed in glass-lined paper bags, solely to save the consumer the cost of the tin container. It is roasted and ground fresh every day, and only enough is supplied dealers to meet immediate needs—insuring full strength and flavor when the product reaches the consumer. One trial will convince you that there is no better coffee at any price.

QUEEN CAMPAIGN
GROWING WARMER
Three Cornered Race Keeps
Friends of Candidates
Busy Voting

Another fair contestant has thrown her spring millinery into the ring as a candidate for the honor of reigning as Queen of the Pageant during Glendale's ten-day Merchants' Industrial Exposition to be held from May 25 to June 3, and the friends of the three candidates are working tooth and nail to swing a heavy vote for their respective favorites.
The three candidates who are making the pace are Miss Corinne Orff, Miss Louise Mo-riot and Miss Marie Oliver, and the steady stream of ballots that is pouring into the various ballot boxes that have been placed at strategic points on the principal streets of Glendale shows that someone is working hard to win.
Tickets for the votes may be had in the leading stores of the city for one cent each, and supporters of the rival candidates are shooting four bits and six and a dollar with a regularity and an enthusiasm that are remarkable.
As the campaign progresses it is probable that some of the expert politicians who make Glendale their home will be detached from their regular duties and placed in charge of the campaigns of the various candidates, with headquarters and stenographers and literature, "n everything, but this will not be done until a ruling has been received from the state attorney general as to the legality of the candidates and their friends under the law governing the expenditure of money during a political campaign.

GLENDALE PLATE
FOR AUTO URGED
Start Campaign to Display City's Name on Every Local Automobile

The following letter has been sent to all the members of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce by the publicity and advertising committee, urging them to display "Glendale name plates" on their automobiles, in the campaign that has been launched to advertise
this city:
Members of the Chamber of Commerce, Glendale, Cal.
Dear Members:
Have you noticed the "Glendale" name plates on the autos around town?
There has been a run on "Glendale Name Plates," and one dealer who had claimed he had a stock of only four left last Saturday had rush orders are bringing a fresh supply.
The most popular suggestion for advertising "Glendale" was the plan to start a movement to have residents of our city display the name "Glendale" on their machines.
Your committee immediately made a canvass of the situation with the result that other organizations endorsed the movement and the supply houses agreed to make a special sale price for name plates, also license and name plate holders.
Ask Co-operation
We are now appealing to you for your support and co-operation in connection with this movement by calling the attention of your neighbors and friends to this form of advertising.
There is no reason why "Glendale, the Fastest Growing City," should not be the "Best Advertised City" in the Southland, and it will rapidly attain this position if every Glendale resident who is proud of his city will equip his car with the name plate.
One of the leading motor car dealers has announced his intention to give away 1000 Glendale name plates to the users of his cars.
At the next Kiwanis luncheon, the attendance prize will be a set of Glendale name plates given to every member present at the luncheon.
The campaign started March 1
and will continue for ten days.
Let us get the benefit of mass publicity by having five name plates bearing the name "Glendale" on the road to one displaying the name of some other town.
Thank you for your support and co-operation, we are,
Very truly yours,
W. L. TWining,
Advertising Director.
H. S. McCORMACK, Publicity Director of the Chamber of Commerce.

No Ban on Norwegian
Language in Georgia ATLANTA, Ga., March 2.—The government of Norway has asked Secretary of State S. G. McLendon, of Georgia, whether or not there is any legislation discriminating against the Norwegian language in this state.
Search disclosed the fact that the only languages barred in this state are: Profane, abusive, vile, offensive and a few others. But nothing was said of the Norwegian.
Those familiar with the Norwegian language stated that they did not think special legislation was needed to prevent its widespread use in Georgia.

ceived invitations to join them at luncheon hour, but were quite surprised to find an elaborate affair had been arranged for their enjoyment.
The tables were laid, with linen, and centered with yellow jougills; shamrocks and clever original verses decorated the place cards. Irish green, suggestive of St. Patrick's Day, was used in many clever ways in the menu of the delicious luncheon.

wood street. Fifteen members attended.
Assisting Mrs. Moulde as host-

Brown, corresponding secretary;
Mrs. W. M. Kimball, treasurer;
Mrs. Ray L. Kent, chaplain; Mrs.

stalled by Miss Martha Cox.
A pleasant feature of the morning session was the acceptance as a new member of Mrs. Jessie Shively, a demit from Chapter
E of North Dakota.
Luncheon was served at noon, followed by a program whose feature was the reading of a paper by Mrs. B. O. Onstatt on "Who's Who and Why, in P. E. O.?"
Each member responded to this inspiration by telling what P. E.
O. meant to her.

Birthday Dinner

seventy-first birthday yesterday.

at 321 West Cypress street. Mrs.

State Employees Tell
Of Campaign Donation
LOS ANGELES, March 2.—
Unable to leave their duties, employees of the state department branches in Los Angeles were visited by the assembly committee investigating alleged irregularities in raising a campaign fund for former Governor Stephens.
The employees of the state reporter vehicle department and other state officers were enabled to give direct testimony to the committee, the members of which are probing charges that civil service employees were forced to contribute to the former governor's campaign fund.
Meeting in the Angelus hotel,
the committee heard the testimony of J. W. Gebb, of the mining bureau of the state industrial department, who said he contributed $40 in a series of payments.

Shattered Romance of Film Stars Patched Up
LOS ANGELES, March 2.—
Romance still lives between Charlie Chaplin and Pola Negri today and they are still engaged to wed, despite the fact that the famous tragedienne broke the engagement, which was announced several weeks ago at Del Monte, and for a period of seven hours
last night they were not engaged.
The announcement of the break between them came unexpectedly —even to the famous comedian—late yesterday afternoon, when, in the offices of the Famous Players-Lasky studio in Hollywood, Miss Negri issued a terse statement saying she was "too poor" to marry Chaplin. At the same time she pleaded that she not be asked to discuss the matter—that there had been several things leading up to it and that she had not slept for SHERROD'S STORE IN JENSEN BLDG.

Proprietors of Popular Women's Shop Move to New Quarters

An added attraction at Jensen's Palace Grand shops at 135 North Brand boulevard, is Sherrod's Specialty Shop, moved from the old place on East Broadway into the new shopping center.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Sherrod are proprietors of the little shop and Glendale women have become well acquainted with them during their year and a half business experience on East Broadway. Their new location brings them nearer the shopping public and their circle of patrons and friends is bound to increase.

They have a fine location on the main floor of the Palace Grand building, where expansive window space offers great opportunities for displaying their varied lines of attractive stock.

The woodwork and fixtures in the new shop are in platinum gray, and the walls done in the popular new jazz plastering.

In the Sherrod shop the most exacting wants in women's corsets, hosiery, lingerie and women's furnishings can be satisfied.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherrod are thanking Glendale women for their generous patronage in the past, and are assuring their patrons and friends that an even better service will greet them in the new shop.

Jap Minister Makes Immigration Blunder

TOKYO, March 2.—Count Uchida, Minister of Foreign Affairs, has overshoot his mark and has brought the critical eyes of the Washington State Department down on Japan. The Foreign Minister has just told an interpellator in the House of Representatives that the newly appointed Ambassador to Washington, Masanao Hanihara, has been instructed to reopen the immigration question because of the bearing the Supreme Court's ruling in the Ozawa case has on that subject.

Government officials became a bit perturbed then, and they freely admitted that the Foreign Minister had been indiscreet in his efforts to satisfy his interpellator in the Diet. Their explanation seems to be authentic. Mr. Hanihara took from Japan no concrete instructions on the immigration question; he has not been instructed to reopen the negotiations upon his arrival at Washington, as Count Uchida told the opposition he had, it was declared.

Nevertheless, Ambassador Hanihara during his residence in Washington is going to have the job of negotiating a new agreement with the American Government which will replace the now long pigeonholed Morris-Shidehara agreement. Japan thinks, however, that the time is not opportune for advances on the immigration problem, and, in fact, the Government may decide to let the matter slide along as it has the last two years in hope of obtaining a more satisfactory treaty two years hence, when, it believes, the Democratic party, which sponsored the Morris-Shidehara concessions, may be returned to power.

Hawaii Pupils Called "Mentally Retarded"

HONOLULU, March 2.—Approximately 20 per cent of the children in Hawaii's public schools are mentally retarded and are wasting their time, according to an estimate made by Dr. Stanley Porteus, of the University of Hawaii, following a recent survey of the islands. Dr. Porteus recommends a general survey on each of the islands and the grouping of children into classes so that a simplified course of study may be provided for the mentally retarded.

STOCKS, MARKETS

NEW YORK, March 2.—The stock market today was irregular in the late session, although many issues reached new high levels in the last few minutes. U. S. Steel was in large demand, advancing nearly two points and the other steel issues were strong. The Bethlehem "B" stock moved up nearly 3 points. United Fruit advanced a gain of 5 points and Loose-Wiles Biscuit rose over 4 points. California Petroleum reacted 3 points from its early high.

The motor shares were fractionally higher.

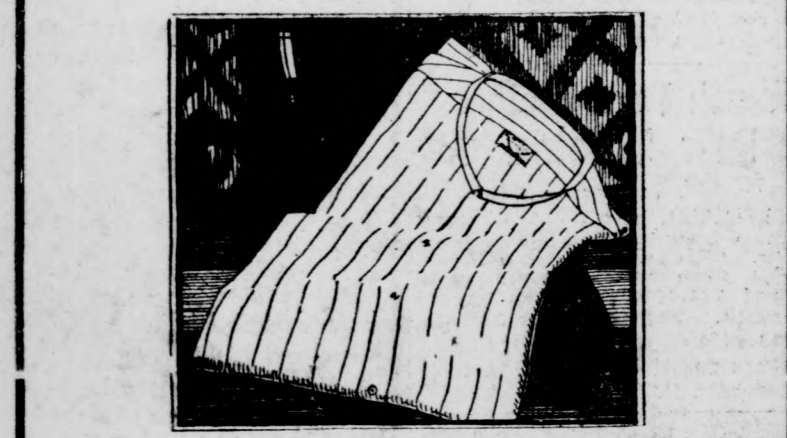

Government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds irregular.

Total sales of stocks today were 1,269,700 shares; bonds, $12,827,000.

Grain Markets

CHICAGO, March 2.—Grain values today held within narrow bounds, opening stronger and closing easier. There was no outstanding news from the outside and the market was a rather dull affair. Heavy covering late in yesterday's session had the effect of weakening the markets today.

Wheat closed 1/4 @ 1/2 c lower; corn steady 1/4 c down and oats unchanged to 1/2 c lower. Provisions were strong. Closed 5 @ 5 1/2 c up and short ribs 10 @ 12 1/2 c up.

EDUCATOR TELLS NEED FOR BONDS

Growth of Glendale Calls for Bigger Schools Declares Superintendent White

The forthcoming school bond election was the principal subject of discussion at yesterday's Rotary Club luncheon in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium.

In presenting this subject, Richardson D. White, city superintendent of schools, stressed the amazing growth Glendale has enjoyed in the last decade. During the years from 1910 to 1920, he pointed out, 10,000 people came to this city as permanent residents, an influx of 1000 people a year.

During the years from 1920 to 1923, however, Mr. White continued, this influx leaped to the unprecedented rate of 5000 a year. And now the figure stands at 7000 to 8000, meaning that the people who will come to Glendale to make their homes in the year 1923 will be between these figures.

CLUB DISCUSSES CIVIC PROBLEMS

Beautification of City Is Open Forum Topic at Women's Meeting

The open forum of the Thursday Afternoon club, held yesterday at the K. of P. hall, gave an opportunity for the members to express themselves on subjects of public and civic life in a manner that showed them to be awake to the needs of the city.

During the brief business session an invitation from the Tuesday Afternoon club to attend their housewarming in their new club house Monday, March 12, from 3 to 5 o'clock, was read and accepted.

The president of the club, Mrs. W. C. Mabry, then introduced Dr. Jessie A. Russell, chairman of the open forum section, who presented the program of the afternoon.

Before taking up the topic announced for discussion, Dr. Russell introduced Mrs. Helen E. MacMullin, chairman of the civics committee of the Tuesday Afternoon club, and the special guest of the day, who charmed all by giving three vocal numbers, "The Enchanted Glade" (Barker), "Friend o' Mine" and "Under the Lanterns" Mrs. Roberta Young at the piano.

Beautifying the city was the topic of the day and the discussion brought out many splendid suggestions: Care of the garbage, comfort stations, uniformity of lights, improvement of the parkways, establishing a civic center and securing a park for South Glendale.

A resolution was passed recommending that the club endorse the movement to secure a site for a park in South Glendale, leaving the selection of the site to a park commission. As a little courtesy to Dr. Russell, chairman of the section, Mrs. Mabry, the president of the club, served tea and home-baked cake from an attractive table, Dr. Russell pouring.

At the directors' meeting preceding the meeting, Mrs. Mabry reported a very pleasant day at the Arcadia Women's club reciprocity day luncheon on Wednesday.

A Difference You Cannot See

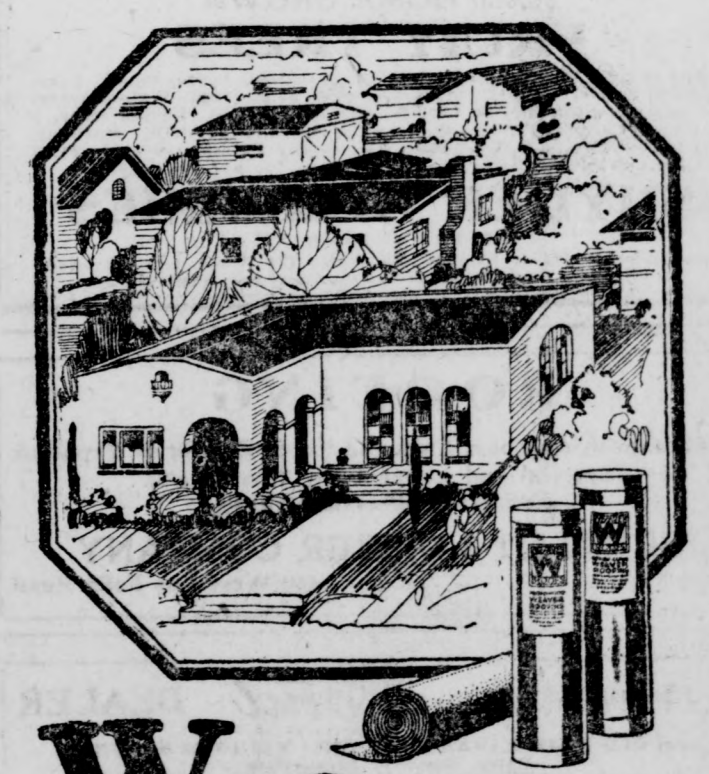

The super quality rag felt used in "Weaver" Roofing may not be detectable to the eye in the finished roof—but it proves its importance in the years of service.

The fact that "Weaver" Roofing carries a greater saturation of weather-resisting compound may not be apparent to the eye, but it is apparent when the test of service is applied.

"Weaver" Roofing is economical because it wears so long and because it needs no repairs—involves no upkeep expense—and gives no trouble throughout its life.

Architects and contractors are glad to recommend it because they know it will give complete satisfaction.

HINTS FOR THE MOTORIST

ALBERT L. CLOUGH

THE RENAISSANCE OF AIR-COOLING

Conditions Favor This Method Now More Than Formerly

RECENT EVENTS indicate a pronounced revival of interest in air-cooling, upon the part of manufacturers and motorists as well. Time was, in the early history of motoring, when the number of makes of air-cooled cars formed a very respectable fraction of the total number, but these were all withdrawn from the market long ago with one notable exception, which has continued in very successful production up to now, when the number of air-cooled models has begun to increase. The principal reasons for the renaissance of air-cooling are to be found in the present almost universal cold-weather use of cars and in the low volatility of present-day gasoline. Now that cars are customarily driven, even in the severest winter weather, the bother of maintaining constant anti-freeze protection, added to the regular maintenance required by radiators, hose-connections and pumps, has accentuated the disadvantages of water-cooling. Within the last ten years, the end point of commercial gasoline has become so high that its combustion does not approach completeness nor does engine operation become satisfactory, until the cylinder walls and intake passages are warmed to a relatively high temperature. In the case of the air-cooler only the cylinders themselves and the gas passages require heating before combustion and operation become

TESTING FOR LOOSE WRIST-PINS

H. A. S. writes: There is still a knock in my engine, after having all the bearings adjusted, and I suspect that it may come from loose piston-pins. Is there any test that will show whether or not this knock is from the pins?

Answer: You can set the engine running idle and attach a valve lifter, so that the exhaust-valve of one of the cylinders can be opened, at will. If, when it is opened, the knock ceases, there is good reason to believe that the piston pin of this cylinder is loose. The rest of the cylinders can be tested successively. This test is based upon the following considerations: When the valves are operating normally, suction exists within the cylinder during the intake stroke, while during the compression stroke, there is pressure within it and the effect of the sudden reversal of the force acting on the piston, is to bring out any looseness of its pin. With the exhaust valve open, the piston is practically under atmospheric pressure during the whole cycle, with no gaseous pressure on the piston, and play at the pin is not developed.

A TEMPORARY LAY UP

G. W. O. asks: What needs to be done to a car so that it can be left three or four weeks, during the winter, without being used?

Answer: Make sure that the tires are fully pumped and that they do not leak, or jack them off the floor if you think there is danger of their deflation. Have the storage battery fully charged and disconnect the cable from one of its terminals or remove the battery to a warm place, if there is any doubt as to its condition being such as to hold its charge. See that the cooling system is filled with anti-freeze mixture, strong enough to protect against any degree of cold to which it may be subjected, or else draw off every bit of water which the system contains.

Questions of general interest to the motorist will be answered by Mr. Clough in this column, space permitting. If an immediate answer is desired, enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Daily News Letter

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers at Home and Abroad.

TODAY—George R. Holmes, Washington correspondent, reveals that "Freshmen" senators no longer wait several years before presuming to have an idea, nor to express it, on the floor of congress.

TOMORROW—Roland Krebs writes of some new ultra-modern wrinkles in Chicago life.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service
WASHINGTON, March 2.—The United States Senate, where dignity and precedent lurk behind every chair, is undergoing a successive series of shocks from which it will never be the same—but it will never be the same.

Time was, in what are now referred to as "the good old days," when new members of the Senate were kept in their places by the awful dignity of the place, and the bug-a-boo of tradition and precedent. Senatorial freshmen were distinctly to be seen and not heard. A man had to be in the Senate at least two years before he was considered fit for anything except to act as listener to the weighty words of his more experienced colleagues.

There were "rebels" even in the good old days, but they were usually squelched so quickly and so effectually that one rebellion usually was enough.

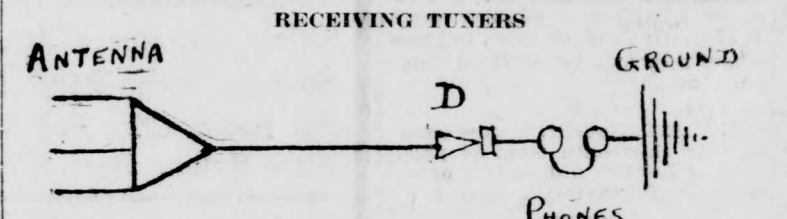

There was Albert Jeremiah Beveridge, who came into the Senate a brilliant young Indiana lawyer, back in '99. He was at that time the youngest man ever elected to the Senate, and he came well advertised, both as to his ability and his forensic powers. Beveridge sat around and listened a few months, and then he had something he wanted to say and decided to say it.

It happened to be on the Philippine question, at that time acute. It was just at the close of the Spanish-American war. Beveridge had studied the war in all its phases; he had even gone to the islands a couple of times to study conditions, and he considered himself about as well informed on the situation as anybody in the Senate.

He got the floor and he spoke. He made a brilliant speech, but the gray-beards had decided this young freshman had to be disciplined. So as he swung into his speech the old "uns" got up, one by one and two by two, and drifted into the corridors. Beveridge had studied the war in all its phases; he had even gone to the islands a couple of times to study conditions, and he considered himself about as well informed on the situation as anybody in the Senate.

RADIO DEVELOPMENT

BY LIEUT. JOHN R. IRWIN
U. S. AIR SERVICE (RESERVE)

The fundamental principle of the reception of radio signals is that of resonance, which we have fully covered in the preceding articles. If the receiving circuit is tuned to oscillate at the same natural frequency as the incoming waves, these waves, though extremely feeble, will, after a few impulses, build up comparatively big oscillations in the circuits. In reality, then, for the reception of radio signals, all that is needed is an antenna circuit tuned to the same wave length as that of the transmitting station, and an instrument capable of evidencing the current that flows in the antenna connecting wire.

It is well to observe how simple is the apparatus actually needed for the radio reception, contrary to what the uninitiated person supposes. Three pieces of apparatus, telephone receiver, detector (rectifier) and tuning coil, will effectively receive damped wave signals. As a matter of fact, signals can be received by dispensing with the coil and merely utilizing the detector and telephones, but in that case only signals from a transmitter having the identical characteristics, or the same fundamental wave length or pitch as the receiving antenna would be heard, hence, by adding the tuning coil adjustment covering, a variety of wave lengths can be made. In other words, the addition of the tuning coil permits an effect similar to that which would be obtained if the actual antenna were shortened or lengthened.

In the accompanying diagram is shown the simplest form of connection for the reception of radio signals with telephone receivers. As pointed out above, it is suitable only for damped waves and will only respond to a transmitter having the same natural period or fundamental wave length. At D is shown the "detector," although really it detects nothing and merely alters the waves that the telephone receivers may receive them. This will be explained in the next article.

REVERSIBLE 6-OHM FILAMENT RHEOSTAT

A new type of filament rheostat for use with the VT type tubes when connected to a 6-volt storage battery. It is made up similarly to the old well known 11-ohm porcelain type, but has many advantages over the latter. It is smaller in diameter and is reversible, so that it may be mounted either on the front or back of a panel in less space. Its resistance is but 6 ohms, which is sufficient, and provides a much even, smoother and more critical adjustment than the 11-ohm type.

FOOLS AND JESTERS
Court fools were usually fellows of imperfect wit who haunted the kitchen while court jesters were bright minded companions of sovereigns or nobles.

AVERAGE LENGTH
The average length of dresses is eight inches from the floor. Not longer except for evening.

EVERY DAY, EVERY WAY
There is the new coat-dress of gabardine, rep or wool poplin, eight or ten inches from the ground, untrimméd except for a touch of souchette, a lingerie collar and cuffs or a bit of brilliant material. Sleeves are mostly long, tight and trimmed at the wrist. Neck lines are round or square, while occasionally a pointed décolleté is in evidence.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

UNCLE WIGGILY'S SNOW SHOES

"Did you hear about Grandfather Goosey Gander?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy of Uncle Wiggily one morning.

"Grandfather Goosey Gander? No, what's the matter with him?" the bunny rabbit gentleman wanted to know.

"He has the sad sickness," replied the muskrat lady housekeeper, as she dusted around the hollow stump bungalow.

"The sad sickness?" repeated Uncle Wiggily. "What in the world is the sad sickness?"

"Oh, it's when you feel miserable and don't know the reason for it," said Nurse Jane. "I met Dr. Possum a little while ago and he said there really wasn't much the matter with Grandfather Goosey Gander except that he was sad and wouldn't smile and what he ate didn't seem to do him any good. He needs cheering up. I guess—that's what Grandpa Goosey needs."

"Then I'm the one to cheer him!" cried Uncle Wiggily, his pink nose twinkling in a most jolly fashion. "I'll hop right over and make him laugh—is that what he needs, Nurse Jane?"

"Yes, he needs to be made to laugh," said Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "And I think, if the truth were known, Uncle Wiggily, that is what most of us need in this world—to be made to laugh more."

"Perhaps so," agreed the bunny. Then he made Nurse Jane laugh by twinkling his pink nose backward. A small matter, you might say, and yet it is the little things that count in this world.

Uncle Wiggily got ready to go to Grandpa Goosey's, intending to make the old gentleman duck laugh, but there happened to be so much snow on the ground outside the hollow stump bungalow, and it was such soft, fluffy snow that when the bunny gentleman stepped out in it he sank down almost to his nose.

"Oh, this will never do," he said, "I can't walk this way."

"How will you get to Grandpa Goosey's?" asked the muskrat lady.

"I need snow shoes," answered Mr. Longears. "If I had snow shoes such as are worn in Canada and like the Indians used to wear, I could walk on top of the snow and wouldn't sink in it. Snow shoes are broad and flat like a board you put on top of a mud puddle when you want to cross and not sink in."

"I see!" exclaimed Nurse Jane. "Then a dishpan fastened on each of your hind paws would be the same as snow shoes."

"What—what?" cried Uncle Wiggily, wondering if he heard aright.

"Dishpans," exclaimed Nurse Jane. "I have two. You could put one on each paw and walk in them like snow shoes. The bottoms of the pans are flat and broad and wouldn't sink in the snow."

"It might be done," murmured the bunny. "But how could I fasten the dishpan snow shoes on my feet?" he asked.

"Give 'em on," answered Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"I'll do it!" cried the bunny. "And no sooner said than done. Nurse Jane poured some glue in one dishpan (knowing she could wash it out again) and Uncle Wiggily stuck in one foot. Then when the other pan was glued on he started over the snow toward Grandpa Goosey's house.

As Dr. Possum had said, Mr. Gander needed cheering up—he needed to laugh. He was sitting at his window, sad and glum, but suddenly, as he looked across the snow-covered field he began to chuckle. Then he began to snicker, Grandpa Goosey did. Then he laughed:

"Ha! Ha! Ho! Ho! Hee! Hee! Hee! Hee! Hum! Hum! Oh Ha! Ha! Ha! Ha!"

"Whatever are you laughing at?" asked his wife.

"Oh, just look at Uncle Wiggily coming over with dishpans on his feet!" laughed Grandpa Goosey Gander. "Oh—Ho! Oh my side! Oh, how funny he looks. And see; Oh my! He just got his feet tangled and one dishpan has come off and it's on his head! Oh! Ha! Ha! Ha!"

Never in his life had he laughed so hard. And when finally Uncle Wiggily managed to get his feet untangled and the dishpan off his head and back on his foot where it belonged—and when the bunny roached Grandpa Goosey's house—why the gentleman goose was laughing so hard that tears ran out of his ears.

"You're all cured now," said Dr. Possum, who happened to come along then. "The sad sickness has all gone. Uncle Wiggily chased it away with his tin snare shoes."

"I'm very glad!" chuckled the bunny gentleman twinkling his pink nose. Then he and Grandpa Goosey played Scotch checkers as they had done in times past, and if the coal scuttle doesn't laugh all over its face, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's skees.

Money Available to Build Homes Round Verdugo, Say Developers

An elaborate and extensive improvement plan for Verdugo Woodlands is slated for the coming six months, according to officials of the F. P. Newport Company, owners and developers of a large portion of the beautiful wooded and stream-coursed area of Verdugo Canyon, just north of the thickly settled portion of Glendale, and within the city limits of America's fastest growing city.

The opening gun in the big sales campaign will be the placing on the market Sunday of 141 choice residence sites immediately adjoining the 18 hole golf course of the Oakmont Country Club project.

"We believe this will be one of the most attractive properties from a home and investment standpoint we have ever offered since we began the development of this picturesque valley," said F. P. Newport yesterday. "Everybody knows how residence property adjoining country clubs has jumped in value. The history of property around Wilshire, Flintridge, Los Angeles, Brentwood, Annandale and other country clubs is familiar to all seasoned investors. Property of this type has a distinctive character and it certainly has unusual speculative possibilities. We believe that this limited offering of homesites will go like the proverbial hot cakes."

Money For Homes

Company officials also announce that there is now over a half million dollars available for those who desire to build homes in Verdugo Woodlands, which assures a building boom on the evergreen slopes and the valley floor of this beautiful residential canyon.

Other important developments at Verdugo Woodlands will be the immediate construction of over five miles of additional streets and the completion, within about 120 days, of the new street railway system with low fares and universal transfers on all the yellow car lines. The gas system is now established and the sewer system will be completed at an early date.

It is said that many members of the new street railway are contemplating the purchase of sites in the new subdivision which will be opened Sunday.

THE THEATRES

The GLENDALE The T. D. & L.

"My Wild Rose," which shows at the Glendale Theatre for the last times today, is a film that required for its production fine character actors and actresses, and was fortunate enough to have secured them.

Pat O'Malley and Pauline Starke in the leading roles, accredit themselves splendidly, as do all the other players.

The story is from the famous stage drama by Dion Boucicault, "The Shaughraun," which was first produced at the Drury Lane Theatre, in London, and later at Wallack's, New York. It tells a romantic, cross-cross tale of love in "Old Erin"—and "Shure an' it's entertainin' in the extreme!"

David Smith, director of "Black Beauty," swung the megaphone.

"Nobody's Money," the Paramount picture now playing at the T. D. & L. Theatre, features Jack Holt and Wanda Hawley in a delightful, fast-moving story that is an adaptation from the stage play of William Le Baron. Wallace Worsley directed the picture.

Mr. Holt is seen in the role of a supposed book agent, who helps two young authors out of a peck of troubles after they have published a libellous article by "Donglas Roberts," a fictitious character they have created.

Assuming this character himself, the book agent extracts the young pen-pushers from their predicament, winning a fair lady and considerable finances in the bargain.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

TO AVOID BANKRUPTCY

If two partners had run a business successfully for fifty years you would expect them to have some ideas worth listening to on business procedure, wouldn't you? And if it was a business you had just gone into or were about to enter, you would be very glad of the chance to talk to them, wouldn't you?

Then listen, all ye young men and maidens who are about to enter the married state, and all ye young married folks, and hear what two partners in the business of living together who have carried on that business in a highly successful manner say about the best methods.

Not a Hard Program

"Study each other carefully. Overcome little habits that are annoying to each other's sensibilities. Learn what each other likes and provide little surprises. Remember that both men and women like attention. It is the duty of the husband to provide as good a home as his means will justify. It is the duty of the wife to make the home as attractive as possible. Both husband and wife should make the evening at home pleasant. Be sweethearts even. Be good fellows and find enjoyment in what the other likes. Both must make sacrifices if the married life is to be made all that it should be. There is no occasion for divorce if husband and wife meet each other half way and do not allow petty jealousies or unjust suspicions to interfere with their happiness. That doesn't seem like such a very hard program, does it? Little things, most of them, but in the close intimacy, the every-

Fake Hospital Call Ends In Robbery

Countess Ramburini, wife of an Italian artist, has told the New York police she was robbed of $5000 in a fashionable apartment she had subleased in the west side. The robbery took place after she had been lured from the house by a fake telephone call that a man had been seriously injured and that her calling card had been found in his pocket.

BEAUTY CHATS

HEALTH AND TONICS

The tendency nowadays, a sensible one I think, is to take as little medicine as possible, to give nature a chance, to make things as hygienic as possible, and to overcome the detrimental effects of modern artificial life. The study and practice of what is called preventive medicine is growing daily.

Personally, I should put certain simple tonics under the heading, not of drugs, but of preventive medicines. The human body requires certain elements and if it does not get them through the natural sources of food, drink, exercise and fresh air, it must get them in other ways. I would advise every reader, therefore, to go once at least to the best doctor or diagnostician available to be given a thorough physical examination. Blood tests, blood pressure tests, blood color tests, heart, lung and kidney tests, will show accurately the condition of the body, what it has in abundance and what it lacks. An enormous number of troubles can be corrected by diet, but only a good physician can say accurately what foods should be taken and what foods eliminated. Other elements that are lacking can be supplied by tonics.

Certain tonics are particularly important at this time of the year, or rather will be in a short time when the warm weather really sets in. The blood should be purified and frequently thinned, for the starchy diet of winter, necessary to generate heat in the body, usually leaves the blood too thick. A good doctor will prescribe something simple to meet this condition, or if you feel as though you are in otherwise perfect condition, the old-fashioned grandmother's tonic of one part flour of sulphur to three parts molasses is one all you need. A tablespoonful of this daily for three days, then a three days' rest and a three days' repetition is generally all that is necessary.

Mary J. R.—There is some condition in your system that is causing these blemishes to collect on your skin. It should be corrected as soon as possible before the texture of your complexion is impaired.

Have a thorough physical examination and do not irritate the skin by squeezing the lumps. They

CAN YOU MAKE A GOOD INDIAN PUDDING?

TOMORROW'S MENU

Breakfast: Oatmeal Cooked with Dates, Coffee, Boiled Eggs, Muffins.

Luncheon: Italian Risotto, Bread and Butter, Jelly.

Dinner: Southern Cabbage "Pudding", Baked Potatoes, Orange-Banana Salad with Mayonnaise Dressing, Tapioca Cream.

The first thing in household economy is learning to become that famous thing—a "good cook." For all housekeepers agree that the food bill represents the greatest financial leak in the household budget—and if a housekeeper cannot make inexpensive dishes "taste good," she must serve more delicate and expensive foods. A woman who is a good cook, for instance, can make a simple, eggless Indian Pudding seem just as tempting to her family as a dessert covered with meringue. Here is my own recipe for this simple pudding:

Indian Pudding: Scald four cups of sweet milk. Slowly pour this hot milk into one-third of a cup of yellow cornmeal. Stir well,

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D. Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

I, I, I, MYSELF: I THE HISTORY OF ME BY ME CHAPTER XLVII. No Pins in Me

I do not have any pins in my wardrobe because I wear the pinless kind. (You can have the name of the kind I wear by sending a self-addressed and stamped envelope to my doctor and asking for it.)

If I did have pins in my clothes, my mama would never put them in her mouth when she took them out, as many mamas do. Do you know why? Because she knows how much I admire her and she knows that anything I see her do I would do too. And pins and needles and such things in a baby's mouth may cause a great deal of trouble.

If you laugh or you cry or speak or choke, they are very liable to get into the lung passage—the trachea, or the stomach passage—the esophagus, and they may choke you to death. Or they may get into the lungs or the lungs or stomach and be very, very uncomfortable, you can imagine.

Sometimes things taken into the mouth in babyhood and childhood and breathed in, may lie imbedded in the lungs for years and cause a great deal of trouble until an X-ray is taken which shows where they are so that a specialist in that work can remove them.

So, Mamas, my doctor wants me to warn you never to let your babies see you put anything into your mouth that ought not to be swallowed. And never put pins or tacks and things like that where your babies can get them. You must remember that we babies think everything is good to eat. Our instinct to eat is very strongly developed so everything we get our little hands on goes to our mouths.

When I am a little older I shall expect to have my hands smartly slapped whenever I put anything I pick up into my mouth. Then perhaps I shall learn that I must not do that. Do you think that is cruel, Mamas? I don't think so. I am sure I shall thank my mama when I am old enough to understand why she caused me the little pain. I surely do not want to make my tender little body a pin cushion or a store house for bits of toys, nails, stone, etcetera that may get hold of when I reach the crawling and investigating age. Besides, I find this world very pleasant, and I want to live a long time. I've got a lot of work to do.

Doctor told us how a friend of hers taught her little two year old niece not to put pins in her mouth. The girl's mama died and she was left in the care of her aunt. This auntie was a dressmaker and not in a position to have a nurse for her little niece all of the time, so she had to have her in her working room part of the time. Of course there were many pins around in such work, and the auntie knew she could

You Will Admit This—

That the heavier the iron in the oven bottom the longer it takes to preheat.

That the heavier the iron in the oven bottom the more surely you must change cakes from bottom to top shelf to avoid burning.

You will admit that heavy oven bottoms, in time, destroy the burners just underneath.

You will admit, too, that the oven bottom forces the heat away from the oven against the sides, thus losing heat.

Thus it is provable that a heavy oven bottom necessitates more hours of kitchen slavery.

The World Over

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE.

The report that Charlie Paddock, the star sprinter, is trying out at the high jump has set followers of the track sport to wondering whether or not this will affect his running. Some there are who hold the opinion that the high jump exercise is not likely to add to his speed but will rather detract from it. He is said to be jumping around five feet which is no great schucks and there are few who believe that he will blossom into a high jumper.

The boys of the San Francisco high schools have taken up rowing and the University of California is doing considerable missionary work in the matter of interesting the youngsters in the sport. The boys have the privilege of using the California shells and the various variety oarsmen take turns in coaching the coming oarsmen. This is an idea of Coach Ben Wallis, who evidently has an eye out for future varsity material.

The Olympic club of San Francisco will, in all likelihood, be represented by a basketball team at the National A. U. championships to be held this year at Kansas City. The last time a winged basketball team played in the east was in 1916. This year's crop of players is considered about as good as the club ever had and it is for this reason that there is serious talk of sending a team to the games they have played on the coast. Of twenty-five games or more they have played, only one defeat has been chalked up. The opposing team to pull this trick was Stanford university.

NEW YORK, March 2.—Joie W. Ray of the Illinois A. C., Chicago, perhaps the greatest distance runner of all times, will try conclusions with a new record, a new distance and a new rival tonight at the annual games of the Knights of Columbus.

Having matched Ray with Jimmy Connelly, Walter Higgins, Ray Baker and others in successive races only to have the Chicago entry win in the proverbial cake-walk over the middle distances, local promoters have produced Willie Ritola as the victim-to-be. Just to be obliging, Joie has consented to raise the ante to three miles at which distance Ritola may be said to be more effective.

They will race over a specially constructed track at the 22nd Regiment armory, banked at the turns, and permitting the use of spikes. As a further aid toward record-breaking, a field of distance men selected judiciously, will be placed on handicaps calculated to carry the stars along to their best.

The world's record for three miles, 14 minutes, 13.15 seconds, held by Hannes Kolehmainen, is almost certain to pass out if Ray is moving at his best

THE LEFT HAND IN SPORTS

By Wood Cowan

A scientist once wrote that an efficient left hand is the result of Nature's trying to overcome the handicap of a defective brain. Seeing that the left lobe of the brain does not respond in a normal manner, Nature attempts to rectify this handicap by seeking the other side of the brain in an effort to find more efficient cells with which to work!

This writer went on to prove that the majority of criminals are uncommonly efficient with their left hands. This also holds true, according to the same authority, with the criminally insane. If that is the case, our ball pens encompass a lotta star athletes whose careers have been cut short by prison sentences. For looking down the records of 1922 we find the lefthanders are far in the lead, in proportion to their numbers, in the field of sport.

Among the first fifteen pitchers in the National League the past season, rated according to average runs per game, five left-handers appear. Two of them, Cooper of Pittsburgh and Neph of New York, are among the first five.

In the American League two portersiders rank among the first fifteen. Zachary of Washington is sixth and Mogridge of the same club is fourteenth, while Rixey of the Reds and Reuther of Brooklyn are recognized stars of baseball.

Jake May, the coast phenom, is the best pitcher the minors developed the past season, and he is a left hander. George Sisler, the greatest player of last year, bats and throws left handed. So does Babe Ruth of the Yankees. Cobb bats from the port side of the plate. Fact is, nearly all of the truly great batters have.

Take tennis. Norman Brooks, the wonderful Australian who has been a leader in the game for fifteen years, is left handed. So is Kumagae, the Jap star, and Lindley Murray, national champion in 1918.

In billiards the Belgian, Roger Horemans, is the best at balking play Europe can boast, and he is a southpaw. The left-handed golfer is certainly a livelier. The portersiders can't point to a single top notcher who swings left-handed. The average player who stands on the wrong side of the tee is wilder than a March hare. He books and slices and spends most of his life trying to play around under a hundred. The backwardness of southpaws in golf might be blamed on the fact that golf courses are laid out for right handed players and portersiders are unduly penalized by hazards not intended for them. Then, too, good left-handed golf clubs are mighty hard to obtain, and the south-paw finds it hard to get professional instruction since all professionals are right-handed players. So if you are a left-handed golfer you had better switch around. Golf is an artificial game anyway, and it's a cinch a south-paw's game could not be any the worse for changing.

SPORTS CHATTER

Like most other baseball leagues, the Pacific Coast Baseball league is having its troubles with getting players to agree to terms submitted to them and sign their contracts. There is nothing unusual in that, but there is something of the unusual in the reason why Hal Rhyne will not sign his contract with the San Francisco club.

Rhyne is a shortstop and a good one, and like the great majority of minor league players has aspirations of graduating to the Majors. Rhyne not only has this set in his mind, but he believes he is due to take the step to the Majors in the 1924 season. The matter of the salary allotment proposed to him by the owners of the San Francisco club is satisfactory to Rhyne, but believing that he is due to be sold to the Majors the young man believes that he is entitled to a "slice" of the purchase money.

Rhyne is so confident that he will be sold that he is making a definite point that his contract should include a clause whereby he will receive some of the purchase money. To date, the Seal owners cannot see the matter in the same light as their paid player and Rhyne, so far, has refused to sign his contract. Rhyne, it is said, is "well fixed" and plays ball because he likes it. At the same time the young man is credited with being a shrewd business man, and while he is well fixed privately, yet he believes that his services in baseball are worth a certain amount and he further believes that if he is good enough to be sold to the Majors that he is justly entitled to a slice of the spoils.

DECISION CAUSES DIVIDED OPINION

Dispute Results From Villa And Genaro Verdict at Madison Garden

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service
NEW YORK, March 2.—"One a minute," says Henry Ford, speaking in terms of tin economy. "One a minute," echo the judges of prize fights at Madison Square Garden, as they make and unmake champions.

They untraced another titleholder last night, when Frankie Genaro was given the decision over Pancho Villa after fifteen fast rounds, and the verdict, which carried with it the American flyweight championship and the privilege of waiting a few at Jimmy Wilde for a suitable percentage of the house, was only semi-popular. It created almost as much of a furor as the decision, rendered less than a week before, whereby Gene Tunney was declared the winner over Harry Greb in a bout for the light heavyweight title.

The gentlemen of the press were divided into two camps by the verdict. To the writer, it seemed that Genaro was entitled to the benefit of the doubt. He carried six of the fifteen rounds and a spectacular rally through the last four gave him the psychological advantage of leaving the more lasting impression. Villa also led in six of the rounds, according to our secret sheet, but his winning rounds were not so conclusive as those of Genaro, who scored heavily in the twelfth and fourteenth.

Tough Decision
It was a tough decision on which to deprive a man of his title, and by the same token it would have been equally unclubby to have ruled against a challenger just because he only won by an eyelash. It should not be necessary to send a man to the hospital in order to become champion.

FIGHT RESULTS

AT NEW YORK.—Frankie Genaro, New York, got the decision over Pancho Villa, Manila, P. I., fifteen rounds; Eddie Wagner, Philadelphia, got decision over Red Cap Wilson, New York, twelve rounds; Bobby Garcia, Camp Holabird, got decision over Bonny Hass, Philadelphia, six rounds.

AT McKEESPORT, PA.—Abe Attel, New York, boxed through nine rounds with Tommy Ryan, McKeesport, and then fought furiously in the tenth round. He got a draw decision.

AT CHICAGO.—Harold Smith beat Battling Chink in ten rounds; Mike Dundee beat Charley Glaser in ten rounds; Joie McLaughlin beat Nate Rippon, six rounds.

AT FORT THOMAS, KY.—Marvel Marz and Midget Guery went ten rounds to a draw; Billy Sullivan beat Lou Palmer in six rounds.

School for Parisian "Mimis" Is Projected

PARIS, March 2.—"A university for Mimi Pinson is what is needed in Paris today," writes Emile Faure, General Counsellor of the Department of the Seine, in Le Journal.

"For the demoiselle du monde there are universities and schools aplenty, literary societies and clubs where one hears good music. But how can Mimi Pinson, the little working-girl, and her many sisters, fill in their long evenings? "The cinema and the dance-hall take too much of their time," continues Monsieur Faure. "They, too, have the right to a minimum of artistic education and wholesome pleasure."

The counsellor proposes to establish evening classes in music and literature, as well as dressmaking, millinery, bookkeeping and stenography, etc. Instruction will be given free of all charges to girls who have small resources. At the same time Monsieur Faure studies the problem of lending assistance to country girls coming to work in Paris. Most of them arrive in the city with no work and no means of finding suitable lodgings. According to his plan, a large information bureau will keep in touch with business openings in commercial houses and dressmaking establishments. It will also undertake to place the girls in reliable pensions. A large library, abundantly supplied with literature, will help them to pass pleasant hours of leisure, and in the large concert room they will be able to dance and sing and make merry with all the other little Parisian Mimis.

FINE CORREGGIO IN N. Y. CHURCH

Brooklyn Art Dealer Bought It Long Ago at Auction for Amazingly Low Price

By MAX KASE. For International News Service NEW YORK, March 2.—In the fifteenth century the world of art was thrown into consternation. One of the famous Correggio paintings in the series of four of "Nativity" had disappeared from its gallery in Europe. Whether the canvas had been stolen or lost or destroyed could not be definitely established, despite a thorough search by the best investigators. Their search was fruitless.

Thirty-five years ago Henry Hyams, Brooklyn art dealer, attended an auction sale at a Brooklyn warehouse. A group of dusty pictures were offered. Hyams made a nominal bid. When no one volunteered a higher offer the pictures were "knocked down" to him.

Hyams had long been an art collector. He cleaned the pictures he purchased, but one of them, because of its beauty and a something holy and sacred about it, excited his fancy. He worked on the canvas, and under his skillful handling the picture slowly turned out to be a real work of art. Slowly and laboriously Hyams brought out new light, new colorings, new shadings on the canvas.

And then he gasped. For the painting proved to be a Correggio Hyams was astonished at his find. He refused to believe his own discovery and called in art experts. They came with microscopes, carefully examined the picture and then shared Hyams' awe and wonder. The picture was a Correggio.

Two other pictures of the group hang in the Parma and Dresden galleries and are valued at $100,000 each. The third was destroyed by fire. And the fourth, which is considered the most valuable of the lot, came to light under such novel circumstances.

Given to Church. A year ago Hyams died. The picture was his chief treasure. His son, Henry Hyams, Jr., to whom it was willed, gave it to the Church of the Assumption, where it hangs today.

"During my father's lifetime he could never be persuaded to part with the picture, although he frequently loaned it for exhibition purposes," said Hyams. "When he died and the picture came into my hands I decided that, as he had preferred it to all of the other paintings in his possession, I would give it to some public institution as a memorial to him.

"Since it is a church painting I felt that I should select some church, and, although neither my father nor myself was a Catholic, I felt that the nature of the painting made it more adapted to the Catholic church than any other, and for that reason decided upon the Church of the Assumption."

Believed Genuine. Father William B. Farrell, rector of the church, and himself a connoisseur, is fully convinced as to the genuineness of the painting, but intends to have other experts familiar with the works of the great Correggio examine it.

"It is a very beautiful picture," he declared. "I believe it is a Correggio. I base my judgment on the color treatment and also on the grouping. There are certain lights and shades about the angels who form the background of the picture, and the Infant Jesus is pictured in a way characteristic of Correggio. I feel fully confident that the canvas is genuine, but purely for the purpose of definitely identifying a historic work of art I intend to have it passed upon by experts who are more familiar with the work of this master."

Charities Board Will Stay, Says Governor

SACRAMENTO, March 2.—Governor Richardson issued a statement setting forth that the work of the board of charities and corrections will be continued.

The governor's statement followed a conference with Father Charles A. Hamm, R. H. Pendleton and William C. Cavalier. The delegation strongly urged that the work of the board of charities and corrections be kept separate from the children's agent of the state board of control. The governor said:

"I want it positively understood that the work of the board of charities and corrections will be continued and that there has never been any disposition or purpose to do away with the activities of the board. The only question has been whether to continue the board as at present or to have it function under the supervision of the board of control. I have given this matter serious and sympathetic consideration and will see that the good work of the board is continued in a way that I hope will be satisfactory to all concerned."

FOUR TOPICS AT MEN'S CLUB MEET

Ten Minute Talks Will Be Given by Members on Vital Problems

Tonight's meeting of the Men's club of the Tropic Presbyterian church promises to have an appeal to the general public, and Sam Brown, president of the club, wants it understood that all men of the community, whether members or not, are cordially invited.

The hour is 8 o'clock. Four club members will present four vital American problems, in ten minute talks, followed by discussion from the floor.

The speakers and their topics are "Capital and Labor," Fred Richardson; "Immigration," Harry St. Clair; "The Divorce Evil," Henry Wilcox; and "The Crime Wave," Fred Dunsford.

ENAMEL PAINTING

Miniature enamel painting is believed to have been started in 1632 by Jean Touzin, a Chateaudun jeweler who decorated watches and charms.

SHOW METHOD OF PAINTING IN OIL

Artist Will Demonstrate Creation of Picture at La Ramada

The Casa Verdugo Park and Art association will hold its regular bi-monthly lecture and exhibit at 3 o'clock Sunday, March 4, at "La Ramada," on North Brand boulevard between Randolph and Stocker streets.

An interesting feature will be a demonstration by Walter L. Cheever of just how an oil painting is made. He will take a blank piece of canvas and make it grow into a picture of beauty and significance before the eyes of his audience. This is something that will undoubtedly present to many the opportunity they have long awaited, to see precisely how an artist creates his work.

The exhibit on the walls of the old adobe will include paintings of Jack Smith, Walter L. Cheever, and a number of things loaned from the Stendahl Galleries, Hotel Ambassador, Los Angeles.

141 homesites adjoining Oakmont Country Club on sale Sunday March 4th at $2300 and upward in beautiful Verdugo Woodlands Practically everyone knows that property adjoining the various country clubs of Southern California has increased in value from 200% to 1000%. What happened to property adjoining the Flintridge, Wilshire Los Angeles, Annandale and Brentwood Country Clubs is going to happen to these 141 Verdugo Woodlands' homesites which adjoin the magnificent site of the Oakmont Country Club in Verdugo Valley—the little Switzerland of Southern California. Here's a wonderful opportunity for both the home-seeker and investor. Many of the club members are going to be keenly interested in this subdivision—and there are not enough sites in it to supply hardly one-fourth of the memberships. Here is the strong speculative feature of this limited offering. Think of owning a beautiful homesite in this glorious evergreen valley—right next door to a fashionable country club. This will be aristocratic property of character, class and refinement. The Oakmont Country Club will be the most beautifully situated of all the clubs in Southern California—in the center of a scenic environment of Switzerland grandeur. Almost anywhere in Verdugo Woodlands is beautiful and worth while—but these 141 lots adjoining the eighteen hole golf course are virtually the cream. Go and price residence property adjoining any of the country clubs. Then compare them with our opening prices of $2300 and upward. F. P. Newport Company, second floor, Central Bldg., 108 W. Kellogg's Bran is Guaranteed to give relief BECAUSE IT IS ALL BRAN!

Relief from constipation, whether it be mild or chronic, will follow the regular, every-day eating of Kellogg's Bran. We have thousands of letters from former sufferers who tell us that the natural "bulk-action" of this wonderful cereal product has given relief they have not known for years. We guarantee that Kellogg's Bran will free the system from constipation because it is ALL BRAN—not a composition in which bran is added. If constipation is to be permanently relieved, you must eat ALL BRAN—that's why your physician will recommend Kellogg's for constipation. Constipation creates toxic conditions which poison the blood and every organ of the body. It slows you down mentally and physically, and creates sick headaches, nausea, bad breath, pimples—finally, in many cases, leading to Bright's disease, diabetes and other dreaded illnesses. You must fight constipation with Kellogg's Bran regularly if you want health! You'll say Kellogg's Bran is really delicious—it has a nut-like flavor that appeals to the most fastidious appetite. Eat it as a cereal, sprinkled on hot or cold cereals or cooked with hot cereals, allowing two tablespoons of bran for each person. Be certain to eat at least two tablespoons each day, as much with each meal in chronic cases. Kellogg's is delicious made into muffins, macaroons, raisin bread, griddle cakes. Recipes in every package. Kellogg's Bran is served by leading hotels, clubs and restaurants in individual packages. It is sold by all grocers.

TWO ARTISTS WIN WARM RECEPTION

Gantvoort and Luboviski Stir Enthusiasm at Club Concert

It was indeed an inspiring reception that Cart Gantvoort, baritone; Calmon Luboviski, violinist; and William Tyroler, accompanist, were accorded last night when they were presented to Glendale Music club members and guests meeting in the auditorium of the Glendale Union High school. Mrs. Mattison B. Jones introduced them to the club audience, which greeted them with prolonged applause. Mrs. Jones's brief and informal introduction closed with the statement that the most fitting presentation of the two artists and their accompanist would be the beginning of their splendid program.

This program was an hour and a quarter in length and seemed all too short for those enjoying it. The talent of both artists was well known to the music lovers present, and as the various program groups were presented Carl Gantvoort, with his rich, powerful baritone voice and pleasing personality, won the hearts and applause of his listeners; and Calmon Luboviski, with his admirable taste and technical finish and masterful handling of his violin, re-won the hearts of those who had heard him before, and charmed those who greeted him for the first time.

Splendid Voice Although suffering with a severe cold, Mr. Gantvoort insisted on coming to fill his Glendale engagement, and while his speaking voice was very hoarse, this trouble was not noticeable in his vocal work.

It is a splendid baritone voice, perfect articulation and fine dramatic ability that make Gantvoort's singing such a pleasure for both singer and audience. He appears delighted to delight his hearers and he seemed particularly in sympathy with his audience last night. Luboviski shared equally in the success of the program. An artist of like magnitude with Gantvoort, Luboviski is a character of great vigor and possesses a most brilliant technique. He makes a strong appeal to one's musical feeling coupled with innate mastery and wonderful musicianship that are outstanding features of his work.

Extra Numbers Special mention should be made of the work of William Tyroler, the accompanist. Throughout the entire program Mr. Tyroler was in perfect harmony with the two artists, and gave them splendid support in their various numbers. Numbers not previously announced on the program were: By Mr. Gantvoort, "Thy Beaming Eyes" (MacDowell); "Memories" (Cadman); "Ma Golden Crown," a negro song, by Mr. Gantvoort's brother, H. L. Gantvoort; "Danny Deever" (Dambrosch), and "Dyna" (Magill).

Preceding the program the club took action on an amendment to the by-laws changing the regular meeting night from the first Thursday night in each month to the first Friday night in each month.

The juvenile section of the club is to meet this Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at 505 West Wilson avenue.

Murder Charge Sequel To Fatal Stabbing

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—By an unusual application of the law governing homicide cases, Mrs. Pearl "Cozy" Peden, formerly of Dayton, Ohio, and Seth Donaldson were charged with murder in a complaint issued by the district attorney's office, as the result of the death of Frank Johnson, early last Monday, when Johnson is said to have tried to force his way into the home of a man named Whitley, who stabbed him to death with a pocket knife.

According to Deputy District Attorney McClelland, Mrs. Peden was the sweetheart of Chester Wogoman, also of Dayton, who, after living with Mrs. Peden for a while deserted her and made his home at Whitley's residence. Mrs. Peden is alleged to have enlisted the aid of Johnson and Donaldson in trying to effect a meeting with Wogoman. The woman and the two men, according to McClelland, went to the Whitley home and demanded to see Wogoman. Whitley refused them admittance and the slaying of Johnson followed when he tried to force his way in through a rear door. Whitley was later exonerated because he had acted in self defense.

Mrs. Peden and Donaldson were charged with murder, though they were friends of Johnson, because they were engaged in the performance of an unlawful act when he was slain.

America Blocks Move To Isolate British

LONDON, March 2.—The movement for a continental bloc, composed of France, Belgium and Italy, which was aimed to isolate Great Britain in Europe, collapsed under the opposition of the United States. It was learned this afternoon from an authoritative source.

France is understood to have proposed the alliance. Belgium is for it, but Italy was only lukewarm.

International News Service learns that Myron T. Herrick, American ambassador to France, informally advised Premier Poincaré that, in the event of an anti-British bloc being formed, the United States "could not remain indifferent."

COMMENT That's All

The Wonder of Green Peas Ready For Next Blaze Mail The News to Friends Reduction in Janitors

By Gil A. Cowan

WHEN you eat green peas at this season of the year, perhaps you wonder where they all are grown, for there are fifty to 100 in your serving, depending whether you eat at home or at a restaurant. And you know that only five or six are found in every pod.

Thousands of acres are devoted to the pea crop at this season of the year in Santa Barbara and San Luis Obispo counties as a motorist along the coast route will notice.

Hundreds of Japanese and Mexican families are busy in the fields which cover the coastal hillsides with a bright green that reflects in the rippling waters of the Pacific ocean.

The mountain sides also are covered with an early crop of barley and alfalfa which adds to the lustre of nature's greenery. More rain is needed, however, if the fruits of the farmers' efforts are to be realized.

As I am writing this comment in Paso Robles, the volunteer fire department is holding a practical demonstration such as seen in Glendale eight years ago when the first fire engine was the pride of the town.

Seems that they had a fire last week and failed to put it out, so they are practicing for the next one. Practice makes perfect, and the experience proves whether the practice has been proficient.

Glendale should be proud of its well regulated fire department and efficient service in emergencies, for it far outclasses many in other cities even in staging a successful ball.

By the way, folks, how many copies of The Glendale Evening News Tenth Anniversary number have you mailed to friends in the east who contemplate coming here?

While hundreds upon hundreds already are on their way "back home," you should see to it that none of your friends are neglected.

They will appreciate the comprehensive and representative editing and great publicity will be round to Glendale through your efforts. Send away several copies.

The clubwomen's interest in affairs political was noticeable in the account of this week's Tuesday afternoon club meeting. Their recommendations are heeded by the legislators, you may rest assured, although sometimes it is impractical to do all that is sought and favored by any organization.

It is interesting to note in the Pasadena Star-News of Tuesday a statement by Senator A. Burlingame Johnson, representing this district, who spoke before 700 women members of the Shakespear club in the Crown City. Here it is:

"The statement made by the Superintendent of Public Instruction (Will C. Wood) that the offices of the state board of education in Los Angeles are closed by the budget is untrue. There has been an appropriation made for the rent of these offices and the clerical help is not disturbed. The reduction was limited to janitors!"

Perhaps Mrs. Susan Dorsey, Los Angeles schools chief, will be glad to know this, inasmuch as she gave out an interview last Sunday attacking Governor Richardson's budget because of Mr. Wood's propaganda designed to stir sectional jealousy, it would appear.

Many parent-teacher organizations and educators have been misled by the many statements relative to the budget, but those who have analyzed it say the board of control did a good job, although the legislature may make a few alterations satisfactory to the governor.

The legislature convenes again next Monday and some interesting committee reports are expected, including that on the Norwalk State hospital lands which are believed to be of bearing.

Gorman Beats Jones In Ten-Round Mill

PORTLAND, Ore., March 2.—Joe Gorman, Portland featherweight, won a ten-round slashing bout from Larry Jones of San Francisco here last night. Terrific left and right hooks to the Californian's jaw in the last two rounds gave Gorman the edge.

Jones outboxed the Oregon boy in the early rounds and in the sixth drove in some telling right uppercuts. They were battling furiously when the bell rang ending the fourth round and had to be separated by the referee. Clever footwork by Gorman saved him considerable punishment.

Peter Jackson, burly negro heavyweight, was all but knocked out of the ring by Don Harris in the opening round, but came back strong in the second and forced Harris' seconds to toss in the towel to save a knockout. Phil Hayes won a lively six-round bout from Brick Coyle and Bud Vance beat Jack Sax in a four-round preliminary. Fred Hart knocked out Collie Stoops in the second round of the semi-wind-up match.

O. K. Appropriation to Probe Veterans' Bureau

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 2.—An appropriation of $20,000 to carry on an investigation of the veterans' bureau during the congressional recess was approved by the senate committee controlling expenditures.

TELLS OF WORK BY ASSOCIATION

E. F. Sanders Makes Report On Accomplishments of Secretaries' Meet

Community Chest Col. C. A. Simmons, secretary of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, related the experiences of that city in starting a community chest, which, he asserted, offers the only way of handling the demands that are made for support for charitable and other institutions, that seek donations from the public.

Up until the time the San Francisco community chest was organized, said Col. Simmons, San Francisco had to pass through an average of one hundred campaigns a year for the collection of funds for various objects, and statistics compiled in connection with these drives showed that the collection and disbursement of the money collected absorbed anywhere from 15 to 60 per cent of the total collected.

It was decided to make one campaign, he stated, and the result was that San Francisco raised more money in this one campaign than had ever been raised before, they were able to give more money to every organization for which funds had previously been sought, and the total expense of collection and distribution amounted to only 5 per cent of the entire amount.

Help Other Cities The plans that have been followed in this matter, Col. Simmons said, have been systematized and printed, and they are now available for every community in the state, so that any city that plans to inaugurate the community chest system can profit by the experience of San Francisco.

The next annual convention of the association will be held in Eureka, in February of next year. James M. Rhoades, secretary of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, motored to San Francisco after the convention and will visit a number of valley Chambers of Commerce on his return trip, in order to secure at first hand data that will be of use in the conduct of the Glendale organization.

NET STARS' FEUD GROWING BITTER

Officials In French Tennis Tournament Slight Mrs. Mallory

MONTE CARLO, March 2.—Mrs. Molla B. Mallory, American woman tennis champion, and Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, French woman champion, between whom a hostile coldness has existed since the French woman defeated her rival at Wimbledon, met for the first time since the title changed hands.

Mrs. Mallory was just leaving the tennis court when Suzanne brushed by her. Mlle. Lenglen turned and exclaimed: "Oh, I did not see."

She extended her hand, but did not wait to shake hands with the American woman.

"She saw me, all right," exclaimed Mrs. Mallory to the International News Service correspondent.

Feud Grows Bitter Commenting upon Mlle. Lenglen's match in the Monte Carlo tennis tournament which was called first, Mrs. Mallory said: "I could have expected that here. Mlle. Lenglen reigns supreme in Monte Carlo. I did not say anything but I was boiling with rage."

The feud between the two women players threatened to flare up into actual hostilities. It was intensified during the afternoon when officials favoring Mlle. Lenglen kept Mrs. Mallory waiting on the side lines for an hour and a half while unimportant matches were being played off.

The Mallory-Hewett doubles scheduled half an hour before Suzanne's appearance were postponed to give Mlle. Lenglen the court.

Veteran Files Suit Against U. S. Senator

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Henry A. Wallerstein, world war veteran, who alleges he was severely beaten on Tuesday by Senator T. H. Caraway of Arkansas, has filed suit against Caraway in the District of Columbia supreme court for $20,000 damages.

Lovers' Troubles End In Double Wedding

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—Two romances that have gone through the trying days of a murder investigation, parental objections, elopement and divorce culminated in a double wedding in Los Angeles, when Police Judge George Richardson married "Peggy" Wright to J. P. Chalmers and Margaret Reilly to J. Percy Humphrey.

All are from Memphis, Tenn. The girls, both aged 18, were met at the train here by officers of the juvenile department after Mrs. Paul Dowling of 651 Popular street, Memphis, mother of Margaret Reilly, telegraphed to the police to take the girls into custody and stage the marriages under official supervision. Chalmers and Humphrey had been in Los Angeles for some time.

FIRE DISTRICT

The block in which the Independent Lumber company is located at 540 North San Fernando Road was set aside as fire district 2L last night by the City Council.

Governor Names Six To Probe Farm Needs

SACRAMENTO, March 2.—Governor Friend W. Richardson has appointed a committee of six members to investigate agricultural needs of the state for the ensuing biennium and revise the budget of the state department of agriculture. Naming of the committee was done at the suggestion of Director G. H. Hecks of the state department of agriculture and comes as the sequence to continued criticism of the slashes made in the agricultural budget by the governor.

The agricultural council follows: James Mills, president of the Mills Orchard corporation of Hamilton City; Judge Peter J. Shields, Sacramento; A. C. Hardison, president of the California farm bureau federation of Santa Paula; A. T. Spencer, president of the California Wool Growers' association, Cranmore; Carroll J. Rogers, farmer and orchardist of Watsonville, and George Hecke, state director of agriculture.
