Digitized by the Internet Archive
in 2009 with funding from
University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

Our thoughts are controlled by the pattern provoking seasons—the crisp of Autumn; the quiet of Winter; the fresh of Spring; the warm of Summer. But overshadowing all of these spans of time for each of us, is the absolute realization that there are many who are here now but who will be required to leave in the all too near future. There are those who came with us but who are now gone, and none of us can ever be allowed the luxury of total peace of mind as to the direction of our future. Viet Nam looms large to every man and to every woman as the most discomforting of problems facing us now. Our pride is the knowledge that at ASTC we, as an institution and as individuals, have accepted rationally the necessity to serve . . . it is to this rational mind in general and to those now serving, and those soon to serve that we dedicate the 1967 RHODODENDRON.

A photograph of a winter landscape. The scene is dominated by snow-covered trees and bushes. The ground is covered in a thick layer of snow. In the lower left, a person wearing a dark jacket and a hat is walking through the snow. The sky is a pale, overcast blue. The overall tone is cold and serene.

ART

Variety in approach and technique offers the art student a wider range of opinions and experiences. Appalachian's Art Department achieves this through the differences in concepts and talents of the six faculty members. Each faculty member displays an art exhibit; these offer the student an extreme range of artistic approaches.

The department has purchased a large motorized lithograph press and a large etching press under a federal grant. With these the department will be able to set up a first rate print program.

BIOLOGY

Dr. F. Ray Derrick, Chairman

Mr. Thomas S. Russ

For the past two years, the Biology Department has been vitalized by the use of television as a supplement to the regular laboratory classes. This is especially important in freshman labs where the instructor can point out the things that a student should see under the microscope, but often misses. An instructor uses the television camera and a special microscope in the studio room; the picture is carried to a monitor in each laboratory. Television is also used to give laboratory tests, especially with reference to the identity of organisms and their parts.

The department has recently received several new pieces of equipment, including two station wagons for field trips and fifty films, both from a special appropriation in 1966 by the National Science Foundation. They have also acquired a quite modern, expensive physiograph used in physiology.

No longer will all of the graduate students in the field of chemistry have to assume teaching duties for financial assistance while in school. For the first time, the Appalachian Chemistry Department has been named the recipient of a grant from private industry for research. Of the $15,000 received from the International Resistance Company, $7,200 will be used to support three research fellowships for master degree candidates who will be free to do research and will have no teaching duties. The remaining $7,800 will purchase equipment to be used in conducting research on the fundamental structure of matter.

ECONOMICS & BUSINESS

There is one general major in Economics and Business. There are, however, seven fields of electives for emphasis: accounting, marketing, secretarial administration, economics, finance, management, and teacher education. The department is trying to help its students realize the relationships of business to other fields that they may choose as their minors. The demand for teachers in this field is very great because of the competition with industry.

EDUCATION

Dr. Ben H. Horton, Chairman

The Department of Education is devoted to the professional education of men and women who intend to enter the field of teaching.

A six year program which was approved in 1965 has proved to be a progressive step for the department. There will be an addition of five new staff members in the fields of Special Education, Reading, Student Teaching, Guidance, and Junior Colleges. In Special Education the addition of demonstration classes and the awarding of special grants for prospective teachers are two recent achievements.

The workable relationship between the college and the two laboratory schools, Watauga and Appalachian Elementary, is of special significance to students to gain "on the field" experience.

The aim of the English Department is to give students competency in written and oral composition and in the interpretation and appreciation of literature. The department has added five courses on the senior-graduate and graduate level, and there has been a steady increase in the number of English majors, usually with a number of students receiving fellowships. The demand for graduates can not presently be met.

The department suffered great losses in the Administration Building fire, in that most of the equipment and materials were lost and must be replaced.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

Part of the loss in the Administration Building fire was all the teaching materials, books, files, and correspondence with students of the Foreign Language Department. The department will be located in the renovated high school building for the 1967-68 school year; then it will occupy a new building in the present site of Old Lovill Hall. Next year a third-year course will be offered for the first time in German and possibly a course in elementary Latin.

GEOGRAPHY & GEOLOGY

Instruction in the Geography and Geology Department is meant to provide the basic needs in growth and development deemed necessary for college students; students should learn to become better citizens in local and international affairs. In order to provide progressive educational opportunities for students of geography and geology, the department has engaged additional faculty members and has introduced four new courses to the curriculum. These and future improvements are being made in order to help meet the shortage of college level geography teachers and public school earth science teachers.

HEALTH & PHYSICAL EDUCATION

The Appalachian Health and Physical Education Department has the largest number of undergraduate majors of any college in the South. The graduate program has more than doubled in the last six years, yet has never been able to fulfill the request for graduates. The department has a very outstanding program including courses especially designed for Elementary Education majors, and specialized courses which enrich the students scope and understanding of the human body. Through a continually expanding facility, the department serves the students. Plans for a rehabilitation and adaptant room for handicapped children to be used by special education majors, a school owned golf-driving range, a weight training program for both men and women, and a broader winter sports program which already includes skiing, are becoming more of a reality each day.

One of the youngest departments at Appalachian is that of History, which was created only two years ago from the then Social Sciences Department. The original faculty of 12 has increased to 15 and next year will number 20. Next year for the first time, the department will offer three graduate programs: junior college, secondary, and the new non-teaching academic M.A. program. The History Department seeks to provide all students a broad introduction to the study of human affairs and to prepare its majors, presently 200, for the teaching profession.

HOME ECONOMICS

Miss Mary Brown Allgood, Chairman

Mrs. Celia G. Roten

Miss Madge Rhyne

The objectives of the Department of Home Economics are to help students become better citizens and members of society, have a workable knowledge of principles involved in home and family living, prepare for teaching some phases of home and family living at the secondary level, or to work in other areas of home economics such as institutional administration, clothing and textile merchandising, or foods and equipment.

The department functions in three new buildings: Lillie Shull Dougherty Hall, which contains classrooms, labs, and offices; the Lucy Brock Nursery School, which accommodates twenty children for courses in child development; and the Home Management House, which houses eight majors each quarter for residence experience.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

A steady increase in majors and expansion of facilities has made the Industrial Arts Department one of the best in the South and possibly 5th in the United States.

It is hoped that by September, 1967, the new addition to the Industrial Arts Building, which is now under construction, will be completed. With the new building each department will be able to accommodate substantially more students and provide larger working areas and more storage space. There will be an automechanics shop which will be equipped with a car drive-in area. Graphic arts will be added to the curriculum next year and photography is included in future plans.

Last year a request for 400 graduates made evident the unlimited opportunities for Industrial Arts majors.

LIBRARY & LIBRARY SCIENCE

Librarianship is no longer mere custodianship and housekeeping, but is now moving into the area of informational science. The expanding graduate program trains not only librarians for public schools, but also for college and special librarian work. The ultimate aim is to become a multi-purpose library school. The department has added several new courses, changed some existing ones, and is building a special collection of library science materials to further this aim. There is presently a great interest in exploring new data processing and electronics to modernize the library. Students from Taiwan, South Viet Nam, and Turkey are enrolled in the graduate program.

Plans are now in preparation for building a modern library which will provide a growing book collection, will increase the quantity and quality of graduate materials, and will also provide individual student carrels for studying which will accommodate 25% of the student body at once. The present library, housing approximately 160,000 books, now has the longest hours in the state and is the depository library for government documents. The library provides part-time employment for approximately 125 students.

There has been a tremendous growth in the Mathematics Department since 1962. It recently received a prospective teachers grant of $40,000 and has applied for more aid. In 1966, 44 persons received a baccalaureate degree in mathematics, or 7.7% which compares with the national average of 2%. The department is comprised of 226 majors, 56 graduate students (30 of whom are extension students), and 16 faculty members of whom 5 have a Ph.D. degree.

The primary aim of the Music Department is to train music teachers. The demand is much greater than the supply, however; each major often has a choice of possibly ten positions when he graduates. There are three graduate assistants in the department who teach privately or at times instruct in some classes.

An increase in the number of music appreciation classes from three to five indicates that the Music Department is teaching more students from the general college enrollment.

PHILOSOPHY & RELIGION

The Department of Philosophy and Religion seeks to acquaint students with the philosophical and religious heritage of Occidental and Oriental culture. Although at present the department is young and small, it envisions for itself an increase in the number of highly qualified teachers and a dynamic role in the total academic life of the college.

Dr. William C. Strickland, Chairman

PHYSICS

The aim of the Physics Department is first to train better physics teachers for the high schools, where there are currently very few certified teachers; only 45% of the teaching positions are filled. Secondly, the department aims to develop those students who wish to go to graduate school for advanced study with the goal of college teaching or research for industry or the government in mind.

Mr. Thomas L. Rokoske

Mr. Larry Dye

Mr. Karl C. Mamola

POLITICAL SCIENCE

The Political Science Department is continually growing with an adequate supply of equipment and materials advancing this growth. The number of Political Science majors has almost doubled this year. With an addition of another faculty member to the staff, the department aims to provide even better educational facilities for future Political Science students.

Mr. Hope P. Davis, Jr.

Mr. Edward M. Allen

PSYCHOLOGY

The two-year-old Department of Psychology is the only department at A.S.T.C. that offers a strictly non-teaching degree: a psychology major cannot teach in the public schools, but is well-qualified to work in personnel, social work, vocational rehabilitational counseling, or continue study in graduate school. Psychology is a two-track program: a service department for the other related departments, such as educational psychology, and an area of study for majors. The department is adding six new courses for majors only and is expanding the faculty from seven to ten next year. There is great interest in establishing an experimental laboratory with animals in the near future and a M.A. degree will soon be available.

SOCIOLOGY & ANTHROPOLOGY

The Sociology and Anthropology Department has shown growth in the past years. The department, now comprised of some 65 majors, hopes to have a Masters Degree program by the Fall of 1968. Majors in this field have a good background for entering business or any situations dealing with people as groups.

SPEECH

The Department of Speech at Appalachian was started in September, 1963, with four faculty members and eight majors. It completes its fourth year with six faculty members and forty majors. Appalachian's Department of Speech has set the standard for several new speech departments in North Carolina, and its graduates are teaching in the public schools of the state, or are attending top graduate schools in several parts of the nation.

STUDENT COUNCIL

David Shellman

The Appalachian Student Council, under the leadership of David Shellman and Richard Miller, has worked untiringly this year to improve the Student Government and to represent the students in all phases of campus life.

The Student Council has carried on a variety of activities this year including the revision of Girl's House Council Rules, a High School Leadership Conference, the organization of a Campus Board of Elections, aiding in Freshman Orientation, dances on the weekends, and many investigations into various aspects of student life.

The Appalachian Student Council sent delegates to the Associated Student Governments of the United States of America meeting in Oklahoma, the State Student Legislature of North Carolina in Raleigh, and the organizational meeting of the Carolinas Intercollegiate Student Government Association at Catawba.

RHODODENDRON

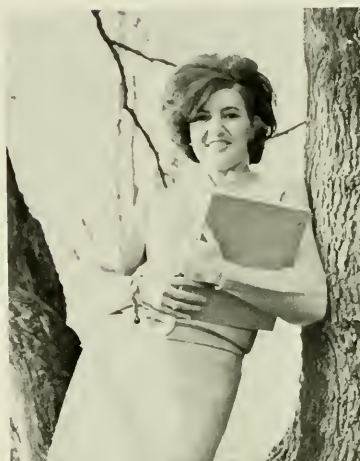

Four thousand pictures, eight typewriter ribbons, eleven pounds of white bond paper, three worn-out student directories, countless worn-out staff members, one and a half gallons of sweat and twice that amount of tears—such were a few of the ingredients of this year's RHODODENDRON. We have sought innovation and accuracy. Your appreciation of this publication ten years from now will be the measure of our success.

The Appalachian

THE APPALACHIAN is the weekly newspaper prepared by a small group of dedicated students who are interested in both creative and journalistic writing. Called the news and editorial voice of Appalachian, the newspaper strives to give a voice to student opinion as well as to cover campus news.

The newspaper holds memberships in the Inter-Collegiate, the Associated Collegiate, and the Carolina Collegiate press associations.

AUTHENTIC FINNISH SAUNA

The word "Sauna" (pronounced sow-nah) is a noun, just as the word bath is a noun. "Sauna," however, means more than bath. It means 'heat-bath,' also the 'hot-room' itself wherein the heat bath is enjoyed. The closest comparison is with the steam room—but a Sauna is dry—hence far more preferable in use, home installation and enduring efficiency.

Who's Who	238

To Those of you who have complained of our efforts . . .
To Those of you who have tried so desperately to help

You who have offered comfort . . .
And you who have actively participated . . .
Our thanks.

Our performance is herein perpetuated for each of you to evaluate.

If we were right, hundreds of you so stating would not make us change . . .
If we were wrong, all of you declaring our virtues would not make it so.

We have tried to:
place emphasis on life and the pursuit of education

eliminate copy as much as possible so that our inclinations and suggestions might not mar your own personal remembrances of a time or an event . . .
show curriculum and applicable faculty together as you remember them. We have tried NOT to embarrass any member nor have we tried to show you at less than your best, however, we have tried to show you
as you are—real people . . .

Sincerely,
Evelyn and Robbie
Co-responsible
