APPALLING DISASTER!

Railroads Train Plunges into De Page River—Dreadful Loss of Life.

Bridges, Walls, Water Power and Machinery Swept Away—Loss, $500,000.

Many bridges have been carried away, and much hard machinery has been ruined.

Mount Sterling.—There is nothing like moral education. It has grown to be a great and controlling institution. The best example of the same sort is the San Francisco recently. You well know—if not, I can inform you thereon—that the chief city of California is irregularity, if not grosser, infested by Chinamen. As a consequence of ours, now rather portlier and occasional salesman in a firm whose business it was to sell fish-hooks, wool hats, rope for beds, and other odds and ends. One day a John Chinaman, followed by a train of about ten of his countrymen, came to lands in Gotham, entered the establishment, and after peering around for a few seconds, exclaimed:

"Cotton seine twine—got him?"

"Yes," was the answer.

"How much takee?"

"One dollar a pound."

"Me give fifty cents."

"Me give seventy-five cents."

"Get out!" cried the junior partner, with a menacing gesture, and John Chinaman departed, followed by his tail and his country-men.

The train passed and repassed the door several times, and at length re-entered. John, looking around as though he had never been there before, again inquired:

"Cotton seine twine—got him?"

"Yes."

"How much takee?"

"One dollar a pound."

"Me give seventy-five cents."

"Get out!" cried the junior partner, and the Chinese population departed as before.

The wild geese procession paraded past a few times, and then re-entered. The spokesman, after gazing around some time, lifted up his voice a third time, and thus he spoke:

"Cotton seine twine—got him?"

"Yes!"

"How much takee?"

The salesman whispered to Patrick, the porter, to hand him a cleaver. This had, he grasped the astonished John Chinaman with his left hand, and, raising his cleaver with his right, exclaimed:

"One dollar a pound!"

John gave one look at the cleaver, another at the face of the salesman, and yelled out—

"I takee one hundred pound!"

The bargain was thereon closed. So much for moral suasion. Letter to Porter's Spirit.

SINGULAR NAMES.—The following record of American nomenclature is given in the memorials of William Shattuck, lately published at Boston:

Simon Shattuck, of Fitchburg, named three sons Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego; Abel Shattuck, of Cleveland, named the male of a pair of twins Truman, and the female Truly; this Truman Shattuck named a girl Truly Jane, and Truly Shattuck named a girl Emeline Truly; Moses Shattuck, of Brooklyn, named four sons, since 1809, Asia, Africa, Europe and America. Other odd names in the volume are Ai, Philadonna, Seraph, Sweneda, Sarepta, Sarada, and Thisby Athalia.

Mr. Shattuck, in his remarks upon some of these names, says: "The three elder children of a family nearer home were named Joseph, And, Another, and it has been supposed that, should they have any more, they might have named them Also, Moreover, Nevertheless, and Notwithstanding. Another family actually named their child Finis, supposing that it was their last; but they happened afterwards to have a daughter and two sons, whom they called Addenda, Appendix and Supplement."

NEWS OF THE DAY.

TERRIBLE AND DESTRUCTIVE FLOODS.—Dispatches from Albany, of the 9th instant, furnish the following details of the inundation caused by the thaw and rain:

A tremendous flood occurred last night, causing damage to the estimated amount of two millions of dollars. The city, during the night, was the scene of the utmost confusion both from fire and water. Laborers were working all night moving goods from the stores in the lower part of the city to the second stories, where, as it was thought, they would be safe; but at eleven o'clock the water began rising rapidly, and the workmen were obliged to desist for their own safety. The water continued to rise till four o'clock this morning, when it reached its highest point.

LATER.—The water has risen three feet higher than ever before known, flooding the whole of the lower portion of the city, as high up as Grant street. The lower parts of Herkimer, Hudson and Parallel streets are submerged to the first story, and Broadway is flooded from the Exchange to the Delavan House, and the stores and cellars on the west side are filled with water. All the streets between Broadway and the river are navigable for boats. A large number of cattle were drowned.

At three o'clock fire alarms were sounded in different parts of the city, adding terrors to the scene.

Warren & Son's building in Broadway, Gibson & Balloch's planing mills, Barrett's warehouse and the pier all being in flames at the same time. Owing to the slackening of lime, the water became so hot as to render it impossible to get the engines near the fire, therefore the firemen proceeded in boats with buckets, confining, by this means, the fire to the buildings in which it originated.

The propeller Western World fired and sunk at Barrett's store, and it is rumored that several lives are lost.

Twelve canal boats, three barges and two tugs are sunk.

The canal warehouses on the piers are above the flood making a breach through them. Four hundred head of cattle in East Albany were drowned; also many horses stabled in the lower part of the city. Three wrecked houses passed down this morning from above—two men on the roof of one of them. The Hudson River Railroad is submerged; also the Central Railroad. Trains are landing passengers in the outskirts of the city. No trains hence yet.

At noon the water was again rising. A public meeting has been called for the relief of the sufferers. The wildest excitement prevails. Several alarms of fire are sounding. Families from the flooded districts are landing from flatboats at the Post-office steps, and the water is still rising. The lumber districts are all submerged.

The city of Troy is nearly submerged, and the bridges are in danger. One bridge from up the river floated down against the Troy bridge. The freight depot on Green Island caught fire from shark pins, and is destroyed. All trains are suspended, and business is entirely stopped.

Below Harrisburg, on the Susquehanna, the ice moved and gorged, and hooks are now piled up on the railroad track from ten to fifteen feet high, so that travel is suspended. Great destruction of property is threatened. It is reported that two bridges on the Juniata and several piers of the Cumberland Valley bridge have been swept away. Comparatively little damage was done by the overflow of the Schuylkill at Philadelphia. The wharves near the Fairmount dam were flooded, and—besides quantities of sand, wood and lumber swept away. At Harrisburg the water covers the streets to the lower part of the town. A part of a large foundery has been swept away. The bridge is yet standing.

At Easton, the Delaware river rose, on Sunday, sixteen feet. The ice is broken and dogging. Below there bridges is no great danger. The water is five feet above the bridge in the town. The Lumberville bridges is also endangered. A house in the gap in the hills has been washed away. In some places the canal is up to the towpath.

Archibald Campbell, of New York, now in Mexico, has been dismissed from the service of the United States Commissioner, to run the Northwestern boundary line, and Major Emory appointed in his place.

Lumbering on the Pine River, Beachdale, has been discontinued in the Northern woods, but the ice still holds on above. Logs have accumulated in the Saginaw river.

Mr. Bennett, of the Mexican branch of the Mexican Railroad, has left Vera Cruz for the city of Mexico, to confer with the President and Cabinet upon the subject of the road.

The Governor-General of Canada has issued his proclamation summoning the Provincial Parliament to meet at Toronto on the 12th of the present month.

Several stores on Main street near the bridge at Wheeling were burned on the 9th. Loss $50,000. Insured for $30,000. Among the sufferers are Messrs. Richard A. Cox, Richard Ashton & Co., Wm. Steele, Archer & Co., Mitchell, Guthrie & Co., Wheeling Iron Co., and Hobbs, Hazlett & Co. Most of the merchandise in the burned stores was insured.

Part of the building belonged to Morton Hervey, and was insured. The damage to the Gulf House destroyed half of the boarders, who left, and the house was saved.

The St. Louis Republican, of the 10th, says:

The water and ice in the Mississippi continue to rise with tremendous impetuosity. Everything carried with it. Large fields of ice from the Wisconsin pineries are likely to follow. We hear of one lot which has been counted, containing seventy acres, all of which are loaded. The rails were bringing down every day, and the boys their chances with the second hand. Cords of wood are floating down the river. These logs were picked for the coal pen, and were worth a dime. We understand there were hundreds of thousand dollars' worth of logs that shared the fate of the rails. Which is liable to be lost by the sudden rise and breaking up of the ice in the river.

The schooner James D Glover has been seized at New York, on a charge of theirs, engaged in the slave trade. Her captain was arrested, but the vessel, which, we believe, belongs in Cuba, has fled to Havana.

The residence, on the 10th, in the Bardell murder case shows almost to a certainty that Sweet killed Burdell, sought the insured of Mrs. Cunningham. Ekel has refused to answer interrogatories, on the ground of his being one of the parties implicated.

The Washington Star states that Roger A. Pryor, Esq., has retired from the Richmond Enquirer, and will probably soon be connected with the editorial department of the Charleston Mercury.

An American gentleman, recently visiting Canada, had a set of teeth seized by a customhouse officer, on the ground that they were of American manufacture, and had been smuggled into the province without the payment of duty.

Louisiana Items.

We extract the following from the Forerunner, published in the parish of St. Charles:

CANE SEED.—We hear that some of our planters have received several dozen containing canes, brought by the Release, and that the canes, which were said to be sound and healthy, are entirely rotten. The government has gone to useless expenses, and the strong hopes of our planters will be deceived.

MYSTERIOUS MURDER.—A young negro slave, aged about seventeen years, belonging to Mr. Marionneaux, of this parish, was found dead near the Opelousas railroad, sometime during last week. His body was found near the house of M. J. Hoosley, about half a mile from the residence of his master; he had received three small bullets—buckshots it is supposed—in the upper part of the neck; his master's gun was lying near him, unloaded. Some persons think that the boy committed suicide, but we think it hardly probable, as we could not reveal motive for it, but almost every paper in the Union is commenting upon the case, every one of, and the great items developed from the coroner's inquest; he relies various opinions awarded, among which is one from the Ohio Mechanics' Institute, at Cincinnati, where the committee—composed chiefly of physicians of the city—awarded Hostetter, Smith & Co. a diploma for the superior action of their Bitters, as a tonic and strengthener of the human system. We, therefore, caution all against impositions, and to purchase of none but responsible dealers, from they know would not deceive them.

Fraud.
We call attention to the fact of numerous unprincipled efforts that are daily making in our city by venders of Liniments, using the persuasive argument (in order to effect sales) to dealers in Hostetter's bottles to purchase from them, and sell it in Hostetter's bottles. We hope that such impositions will be held up to public contempt by all respectable persons who read or use the genuine article. Not only have we received evidence of the fraud, but almost every paper in the Union is commenting upon the case in terms of reprobation, and the great benefits derived from the use of Hostetter's Bitters, as testified to by various opinions awarded, among which is one from the Ohio Mechanics' Institute, at Cincinnati, where the committee—composed chiefly of physicians of the city—awarded Hostetter, Smith & Co. a diploma for the superior action of their Bitters, as a tonic and strengthener of the human system. These celebrated lenses are made of the Brazilian pebble and constructed in accordance with the philosophy of Nature in these glasses. Each convex surface is ground to a perfect spherical curve, without which no lens can be perfect, and the greater length of time it is in daily use the more perfect it becomes, and the eye is preserved by them of long practice in the lens necessary and under one of the most scientific oculists of the day, by which they have attained a knowledge of the diseases of vision. It is only after a most close examination of the eye that one of these glasses is recommended.

UNIVERSITY OF LOUISIANA,
NEW ORLEANS, December 14th, 1856.
Messrs. Simmons & Co.—Gentlemen: Having become with your wishes, I have carefully examined the lenses of the pebbles of Messrs. Simmons & Co., from each crystal, and ground your several lenses, in certifying that the workmanship leaves the object, and the polish thereafter, and I have no doubt they will be found satisfactory in use.
J. L. RIDDELL, M. D., Professor of Chemistry.

I have also examined the spectacles of Messrs. Simmons & Co., and concur with Professor Riddell's certificate.
JAMES JONES, M. D.

New Orleans, December 10, 1856.
Messrs. Simmons & Co.—Gentlemen: Having examined the Spectacles left with me for trial, and find them fully equal, if not superior, to any I have used before. They are well adapted for the eye, of the best cut, and the lenses place at an easy distance before the eye, of the right position.
I shall take pleasure in recommending them to my patients and those requiring Spectacles; as I wish of a proper focus adjusted to the eye; they are of that can be required to improve vision, when from age, a little assistance is necessary.
Very truly yours,
DR. T. M. GUSTIN, Oculist.
