"...Nothing Can Stop the Army Air Corps"

One of our comrades-in-wings is not with us today; he has taken off with his instructor on The Long Hop, the flight which eventually carries all of us to the place where the sky is always clear and the winds always favorable.

We miss them here today, because they belong to our group just as surely as if The Great Dispatcher had not sent their ship winging across the last horizon. Wherever they are, we know they'll reach their objectives just as they will expect us to reach ours.

It is to them, therefore, who are watching from some airman's Valhalla, that we dedicate this classbook.
