REPORT OF THE SELECTMEN.

The Selectmen of the Town of Weymouth, for the year ending March 19, 1866, respectfully submit the following Report:—

We are happy in being able to congratulate the town on the fact that the favorable expectations which were expressed in the last Annual Report of the Selectmen, respecting the future expenditure of life and treasure for the maintenance of the integrity of the Union, have been fully justified by the fortunate result. During the year just closed, armed rebellion has been completely crushed, and the vanquished rebels subjected to the rightful authority of the government, with, comparatively, but slight additions to the vast sacrifice of wealth and blood which had already been so freely poured in defence of the National Unity.

Municipal, as well as the States and the National Government have entered upon the duty of reducing their expenditures to an amount less than that of their ordinary income; and we do not doubt that this town will, by her example and influence, desire to co-operate in the attainment of this object.

The expenditures of the past year have somewhat exceeded the estimates made at the last annual meeting, and this is largely due to the fact that the wages of labor have averaged higher than during any former year, in connection with the large exceptional expense incurred in the repair of the bridges over the Weymouth, Fore and Back Rivers; but owing to a change in the law respecting the manner of taxing bank shares, made since that meeting, the receipts for taxes have been less by some six or seven thousand dollars, than they would have been under the previously existing law.

Under the authority granted for that purpose, six per cent. bonds of the town to the amount of thirty thousand dollars, payable in five, nine and twelve years from date, have been issued and sold at a fraction less than two per cent. discount, which price is fully equal, we believe, to the highest quotations during the year for similar securities of any city or town in the State.

The town-way leading from High Street has been built in a superior manner the past year, under the superintendence of Mr. George W. Pratt, with the aid of the inmates of the almshouse; and we recommend that those new streets recently accepted by the town, which are situated within a convenient distance of the town-farm, should be worked under the charge of Mr. Pratt.

Guide-boards have been maintained substantially in accordance with the requirements of law.

The Liquor Agency has been continued in charge of Amos S. White, Esq., and his transactions are indicated in the amount annexed.

JAMES HUMPHREY,
Z. L. BICKNELL,
OLIVER LOUD,

Selectmen of Weymouth.

REPORT OF THE OVERSEERS OF THE POOR.

The undersigned, Overseers of the Poor of the Town of Weymouth for the current year, respectfully submit the following Report:—

In accordance with the custom of our predecessors, the schedule of receipts and expenditures, hereto annexed, embraces the year ending February 1, 1866, thus covering a portion of the accounts of the former Board. The Almshouse remained in the charge of Mrs. Martin until April 1, 1865, when Mr. George W. Pratt assumed the superintendence of the house and farm under a contract for one year, at a salary of three hundred and fifty dollars. Mr. Pratt's long experience in the duties of his position has enabled him to discharge them to our entire satisfaction; and we are happy to believe that the paupers under their charge have been treated by both Mr. and Mrs. Pratt with the most humane consideration, and that the condition of the house and of its inmates has been in the highest degree creditable to the present master and matron, and to the town.

The number of paupers in the house at the commencement of the year was twenty-two; the whole number during the year, thirty-eight; the number at the close of the year, twenty-nine; and the average number, twenty-three.

The products of the farm during the year, owing to the extreme drought, were much less than usual; and this result, in connection with the omission of the town at the last annual meeting to make an appropriation for highway purposes, to be worked by the inmates of the Almshouse, has caused a very considerable reduction in the receipts of the house, and consequent increase in the cost of the support of the paupers.

The change in the manner of making the inventory of stock, &c., on the farm, and in making up the accounts of the Almshouse adopted this year, and the large expenditures absolutely required for refurnishing the house with those articles of which the stock had become exhausted, in consequence of the long continuance of high prices, (none of which additions appear in the inventory,) have also materially contributed to swell the apparent expense of the support of the poor in the house, which has been two dollars and forty-two cents per week for each pauper.

The large expense annually incurred for the support of insane paupers in the State Lunatic Asylums, render it expedient, in the judgment of the undersigned, that those of them whose cases offer no reasonable hope of present recovery, should be removed to the Almshouse, after making such arrangements as will secure their safe and comfortable keeping.

REPORT

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

The School Committee of the Town of Weymouth would submit the following Report :

At the last Annual Meeting, the town authorized two High Schools and as many others as the Committee should deem necessary, and appropriated for their support, $10,500, to be placed at the disposal of the Committee.

Accordingly, two High Schools have been sustained, one in the north, and the other in the south part of the town, forty weeks each ; and in addition, six Grammar, two Mixed, ten Intermediate, and fourteen Primary Schools, thirty-eight weeks each.

In regard to the High Schools, an important change has been made, in the addition of one year to the course of study, making it extend over four, instead of three years, thereby admitting some who may desire to avail themselves of certain advantages, who otherwise would be excluded ; while by allowing more time for the whole course, the grade of the school is not changed.

After having thoroughly considered the wants of the different parts of the town, and decided what schools to establish, the Committee found that they had only money sufficient to sustain the common schools thirty-eight weeks each, at the low prices of $5.50, $6.00, $7.00, and $12.50 per week.

The already heavy taxation, and the high prices of living, cause the Committee to feel deeply the perplexities of the case ; but the best and most experienced female teachers will not for a moment listen to the remuneration we are able to offer them, unless they can board at their own homes; and consequently, an increase of appropriation is vital to the interests of the schools, and to the town itself. For it is the noble design to secure equally to every child the best possible advantages the common schools can afford; and while the increased tax would be little more than nominal to the individual, in the aggregate it would secure very great advantages.

The Committee would further suggest, as demanding very thoughtful consideration, that the mass of the children receive all the advantages they can ever derive from the common schools, between the ages of five and fifteen, since after that period few avail themselves of their benefits; and hence the importance of making our Primary and Intermediate Schools of the very highest order. For reason and experience suggest, and the most distinguished educators testify, that the grand secret of success or failure in our educational system, lies mainly in the character of these schools, in the direction given to the minds and habits of the pupils in the outset. Too much stress cannot be laid on this point. Hence, we need the best teachers that can be secured, for the rudimentary departments, and should be able to offer a reasonable compensation.

The construction which the Committee put upon the vote of the town, did not warrant the employment of a Superintendent of Schools, and they have endeavored to perform the duties which consequently devolved upon them. But it is their mature conviction, that with so large a number of schools, and where such vast interests are involved, a competent Superintendent, liberally supported, would be the best possible economy. Devoting his whole time to the duties of his office, under the direction of the Committee, the advantages might be very great; while it is impracticable, and often impossible for the Committee, bound, as many of them are, by other engagements, and oppressed with other cares, to give anything like due attention to the schools. And further, they cannot be supposed to be practical teachers, and hence to have all the qualifications necessary for these important duties. We need a guiding hand, skilful generalship, an organizing mind, and one capable of quickening the ardor of both pupil and teacher, and inspiring a due amount of enthusiasm. With one man having the responsibility, giving all his energies to the work, acting independently of district or neighborhood, and making his periodical reports to the Committee, as an advisory and authoritative Board, our schools might reach the highest degree of efficiency.

But should the present arrangement continue, it is worthy of consideration whether the Committee, whose pay is now limited to one dollar and fifty cents per day, with no allowance for travelling expenses, should not receive the same compensation as other town officers.

At the opening of the year, and at the suggestion of the Committee, where it was practicable, the teachers formed themselves into an association, meeting weekly with the Committee, where were discussed, in a free and informal manner, topics previously assigned, such as the following: "The government of a school;" "The best method of teaching reading," "grammar," etc.; the teachers, if called upon, giving reports of their schools, and proposing such practical questions as were suggested in the discharge of their daily duties. The Committee would recommend this practice, as most salutary in its results.

In the early part of the year, the Committee, with considerable labor, prepared and published a convenient Manual of "Rules for the government of the School Committee, and Regulations for the Public Schools," based upon the statutes of the Commonwealth, to which they would call the particular attention of parents and all interested in the subject. If parents especially, will study these Rules and Regulations, and will cordially co-operate with the teachers and the Committee, it will add greatly to the regular attendance and order of our schools.

In conclusion, with few exceptions, we think our schools have been in a large degree successful. The teachers, for the most part, have proved themselves well qualified, and have wrought faithfully in their work. The examinations have shown a degree of proficiency, in many cases, which the Committee were not prepared to witness.

During the year our faithful and accomplished High School teacher, L. Z. Ferris, has left the profession, and become a settled pastor; and other teachers, whom we would gladly retain, it is intimated, are entering into other and more permanent relations for life. While we regret to lose their services, our fondest wishes attend them.

S. H. HAYES,
In behalf of the Board.

The following are the Reports of the Special Committees having charge of the schools reported :

HIGH SCHOOL SOUTH.

The High School in the south part of the town commenced the year with fifty-four pupils, and closed with thirty. Eight members only of this school had attended the High School at the town house. A smaller number had attended the High School in this part of the town three years since. The great bulk of the school was made up of scholars taken from the Grammar Schools, most of whom entered upon the extra year's course of studies, preparatory to the regular three years course, which has been so successful for several years past.

The total number of studies pursued in this school was twenty-two, four more than the number previously prescribed in our High Schools,—a number too large for any one teacher to conduct properly—but which could not be reduced without impairing the integrity of the full course of studies.

The importance of securing an efficient teacher for this school was duly appreciated by the Special Committee, who had the management of the school. The choice fell on Mr. George A. Miller, a teacher of large and successful experience, and a graduate of Dartmouth College.

Fears that were entertained at the early part of the first term, that the school would be a failure, were gradually dispelled as the term progressed.

Mr. Miller controlled the school with ease, was calm and deliberate, but decided in action. He was correct in his principles of teaching, and faithful in the discharge of his duties.

Had there been more energy infused into the school, it would have enhanced the value of the instruction, and the interest of the scholars in their studies.

At the public examination, at the close of the school, the exercises, otherwise creditable to both teacher and pupils, were marred by lowness of utterance and indistinctness of articulation. Diplomas were presented to four graduates at the close of the exercises.

HIGH SCHOOL NORTH.

When by the vote of the town it was decided that a division of the High School should be made, the Committee having in charge the North Weymouth High School secured the use of the room in the house of the second district, formerly occupied for a similar purpose, put it in a proper condition, and placed the school in the care of the former teacher, Mr. L. Z. Ferris. He commenced his labors under circumstances in other respects different. The time originally fixed for the completion of the course in the High School was three years, but that the school might not fail in its object from the want of numbers, it became necessary, as to meet such exigency was at first provided, to introduce an additional class, thus lowering the standard of admission, and requiring four years for the completion of the course. The introduction of this additional class affected in some degree the general appearance and character of the school. With this change, the school proceeded much as it had done in previous years under the same instructor. The excellence and defects, if any, of his mode of teaching have been sufficiently spoken of in former reports. There was the same interest manifested among the scholars in the pursuit of their studies, and in general the same excellences as had previously characterized the school, while certain defects much affecting its appearance were partially if not wholly remedied. The whole number of scholars connected with the school during the term was forty-three, and the average attendance thirty-nine.

With the closing exhibition closed also the labors of Mr. Ferris among us. Such a determination on his part had previously been intimated to the Committee and was received by them with many regrets. It is fitting, after so many years of labor performed by him, that we should place upon record our appreciation of his valuable services. The faithfulness with which he discharged his duties as a teacher, the generous enthusiasm which he excited among his scholars, not only in the ordinary studies, but also in the works of general literature, the high standard to which the school was brought, and the elevated moral tone which pervaded it are especially worthy of remark. For these reasons, and especially from the fact that much of what he did was only the beginning of a system to be hereafter more fully developed, his influence for good will long continue in this and among all the schools of the town.

The school being thus without a teacher it became necessary to choose a successor. The person selected was Mr. Nathan E. Willis, a graduate of the Bridgewater State Normal School and of Amherst College, and who was engaged at the time as principal of the High School at Southborough. He entered at the commencement of the fall term upon the discharge of his duties, under circumstances of peculiar difficulty. To succeed so popular a teacher, with a mode of teaching necessarily different, and, with a manner in marked contrast to that of his predecessor, to secure the affections of his scholars, was no easy task. Accordingly, criticism and unfavorable comparison were not wanting. But, in their visits to the school, it was manifest to the Committee that such criticism was essentially without foundation, and the excellence of the closing examination plainly showed to all present the faithfulness of the teacher, and the thorough manner with which most of the branches had been taught. The principal defect noticed in our visits during the term, and at the exhibition, was the lack of sufficient life and energy in the recitations and in the general movements of the school. Considering, however, the peculiar difficulties under which the teacher was placed, and that he has had charge of the school but a single term, the Committee were eminently satisfied with the manner in which it had been conducted.

The whole number of scholars during the term was thirty-one, and the average attendance twenty-six and one-half. Six scholars were graduated during the year,—one at the close of the summer and five at the close of the spring term.

FIRST DISTRICT.

PRIMARY SCHOOL.—This school has been conducted and carried on in a very able, and, to the Visiting Committee, very satisfactory manner. The teacher has always been found to attend promptly and faithfully to the duties devolving upon her. The school has made very good progress, and at the closing examination gave the most satisfactory evidence of the faithfulness and ability of the teacher in having accomplished a good work.

INTERMEDIATE SCHOOL.—This school has been in the charge of a teacher who has served patiently and attentively the interests of this school. At such times as the Committee in charge has visited it, it has ever given satisfaction to notice that the teacher has endeavored to perform her part of duty.

There is one particularly bad practice connected with this school, and which, perhaps, may apply to others, and which, I think, operates very injuriously to the advancement of a school, however well able and disposed a teacher may be. I refer to the very extended practice of requesting, by notes, that children may be dismissed before the close of the session. I certainly feel, that were we to do justice towards the children and teacher, this practice should be stopped.

The closing examination of this school was good. The different exercises were gone through with in a manner creditable to the teacher. And upon the part of the scholars it was pleasing to notice their appreciation and regard, in presenting the teacher with a testimonial and address.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL.—This school has been in charge of an able and well-qualified teacher, and consequently, whenever the committee in charge have visited it, there has been that general good appearance in conduct and recitations that has ever called forth a favorable report. The attendance of scholars was not as steady and regular as is desirable for the best interests of the school.

The same practice, only to a greater extent, has prevailed in this as in the intermediate school—that of the request of scholars to be dismissed, by notes, before the close of the session. I am pleased, however, to state that in this school it is confined mostly to a very few scholars. At the closing examination of the school, the exercises and appearance were very satisfactory to the Committee and creditable to the teacher.

SECOND DISTRICT.

A GRAMMAR SCHOOL of about forty scholars was taught during the year by a graduate of the Boston Training School. A thorough and critical scholar, with an admirable system of instruction and unusual tact in illustrating it, with government fair, the teacher has devoted her time and strength, faithfully and conscientiously, to the interests of the school. Practical in her method of teaching, careful in the elucidation of principles, full and clear in her explanations, she has succeeded in bringing her school up to a point of more than ordinary excellence.

The public examination at the close of the year was thorough and satisfactory, exhibiting, as it did, the value of the system and the skill of the instructor, particular care having evidently been taken that the scholars should be faithfully instructed in the first principles of education.

The school has made rapid and substantial progress in its various studies, and needs but a continuation of the same effort and skill on the part of the teacher, and a kind co-operation on that of the parents, to render it one of our most efficient schools.

THIRD DISTRICT.

GRAMMAR DEPARTMENT.—Mr. Franklin Jacobs has had the charge of this school the past year. The high reputation as a teacher which he came here with has been sustained. The annual examination showed that what ground had been gone over, had been thoroughly learned. The progress of the several classes was gratifying, and evidently of the most thorough kind. The order was excellent, and the best of relations seemed to exist between teacher and pupil.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT.—This school has been unfortunate the past year, having had no less than three different teachers. Mrs. Nash, who has had charge of the school for several years past, was taken ill during the first part of the year. It then came under the care of Miss Minnie Bicknell, who taught it until the winter term, when she resigned. Miss Sarah Cushing was then engaged, and continued with it until the close. The examination was very fair, and better than the Committee expected to see under the circumstances.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT, Pleasant Street.—Miss Hattie E. Bates has taught this school the past year, and has labored assiduously for the good of her pupils; and it was very gratifying to the Committee, who were present at the closing examination, and to the parents who take an interest in this school, to witness the good order of the same, as well as the promptness and distinctness with which the questions were answered. This department stands high and reflects great credit on its teacher.

PRIMARY DEPARTMENT, Pleasant Street.—Miss Maggie Raymond has taught this school for several years past, and is admirably adapted to impart instruction to scholars of this grade. The school appeared well at the closing examination.

PRIMARY DEPARTMENT.—This school has had a change of teachers during the year. Miss Maria Bates taught the first part of the year, and Miss Martha J. Stevens the last half. The school made a creditable appearance at the closing examination.

PRIMARY DEPARTMENT.—Taught by Miss Kate E. French. This school was organized at the commencement of the year. The overcrowded condition of the other Primary Schools rendered it necessary to establish another school. The teacher has been faithful and efficient, and has performed a good deal of hard work, which was apparent at the closing examination.

FOURTH DISTRICT.

PRIMARY.—This department has remained in charge of one teacher for three successive years. It has not exhibited the past year that drill, discipline and order that many of our Primary Schools do. The scholars have seemed to feel perfectly at home; the style of teaching has been that of love and tenderness, without much regard to the rudiments of order, and in this connection we would say that the size of the school and want of seats to accommodate some twenty of the pupils, has rendered it very difficult for the teacher to maintain good order. We believe the scholars have made good progress in the text-books, and as a whole the school has done well. The closing examination was necessarily hurried and not so satisfactory as it would have been had more time been allowed.

INTERMEDIATE.—This school is not properly graded ; there are several large boys that should be in the grammar department. When we have visited it during the year it has appeared well. The order has been generally good. The progress made in the studies very commendable. A few weeks before the close of the last term, upon visiting it, we noticed that one of the largest boys was inclined to be rebellious. He was engaged in making a low, guttural noise, and under such circumstances that we should have felt justified in making an example of him before the school, but hoping that respect for himself would work a cure, we did not. This disease proved to be contagious, and was the defect in the closing examination. As regards the progress made in the studies, the school has done nobly, and ranks in scholarship with the average of the schools we have visited of the same grade in town. There is noble and aspiring talent in this school. The reading by one young lady we have not heard excelled in any school that we have visited. Had the order been good the examination would have been very satisfactory.

FIFTH DISTRICT.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL.—This school, under the instruction of Miss P. B. Shaw, who has now completed her second year in the school, has moved steadily on in its course during the year. The classes in written arithmetic showed great thoroughness in drill and a full acquaintance with the principles underlying the rules. We think that Colburn's mental arithmetic might be used with profit by the younger classes in this school. Good order was at all times maintained, and the closing examination was highly satisfactory to all present.

PRIMARY SCHOOL.—This is one of our model Primary Schools. Under the charge of Miss Lizzie Cushing, the same teacher as last year, the Committee expected much of this school, and were not disappointed. Quick to decide, prompt to execute, her whole soul devoted to her work, with an abundance of life and energy, which she has a remarkable faculty of imparting to her school, this teacher is fitted in an eminent degree for her work. The order was at all times good, the instruction thorough, and the progress in their studies rapid. The teacher evidently strove by every means in her power to make the school-room an attractive place to the little ones committed to her charge, and with untiring effort has labored to see that each one was in his place every day. The closing exercises, which were listened to by a large circle of friends, were of the highest order. We would particularly speak of the reading of some members of this school, which we never heard surpassed in any school of its grade, and of the spelling, which was perfect.

The PRIMARY SCHOOL in this district, taught by Mrs. L. T. Cushing, has sustained the high reputation previously gained by her. The scholars are all small, the ages ranging from five to eight years. The attendance has been very good and the scholars have made excellent progress in their studies.

SIXTH DISTRICT.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL.—This has been one of our model schools. Miss A. S. Williams has had charge of this school for the past two years. Miss W. is a ripe scholar, accurate and critical in her instruction, and possessing a wonderful amount of energy, which she has imparted to her scholars. Her government has been of the mildest character; first winning the love of her pupils, she controlled them by the power of that love, without the least exertion, securing perfect order, and at the same time exciting them to the strongest efforts to make the greatest progress in their studies. Promptness in recitation, thoroughness in their acquaintance with the principles were the characteristics of this school. The closing exercises were of the very highest degree of excellence, demonstrating to the entire satisfaction of the people of the district and to the Committee who visited the school during the terms or at the closing examination, the perfect ability of well educated and experienced female teachers to bring the grammar schools of the town to the highest degree of perfection.

PRIMARY SCHOOL.—This school has been for the past year under the charge of Miss Jennie Fairbanks, a graduate of our High School. Miss F. had had a few months experience in this school, during the illness of a former teacher. During the spring term the school appeared well. Good order was preserved, the scholars were studious, and everything appeared in good working order. But during the fall and winter term the school was very much broken up by the presence of real or supposed cases of a cutaneous disease among the scholars, the average attendance being reduced to about one-half of the whole number belonging to the school. The teacher was not able to awaken that enthusiasm in her scholars which was desirable, and the exercises of the closing examination were not so prompt or correct as we could desire. Much of this appearance can, however, be accounted for by the record of attendance as given above. We believe regular attendance to be indispensable to the prosperity of a school.

SEVENTH DISTRICT.

The GRAMMAR SCHOOL at the Centre was taught, during the summer term, by Miss Lizzie M. Hale, an accomplished teacher, but failing in the government of the school, at the end of the term she resigned.

The fall term was taught by Miss Mary S. Williams, a lady whose reputation, as a teacher, ranked very high.

Under her mild but firm administration, the school made marked and rapid progress. Out of disorder she soon restored harmony. Classes were re-arranged, and a healthy tone soon pervaded the atmosphere of the school. Impaired health compelled Miss Williams to relinquish her school, much to the regret of herself and the Committee, having carried it forward to the vacation of Thanksgiving week. That she may soon be restored to health is the earnest wish of her numerous friends in South Weymouth.

During the winter term the school was under the instruction of Miss H. P. Winn, a graduate of Bridgewater Normal School.

At the commencement of the term she experienced some difficulty in enforcing her authority, but being supported in her efforts by the Committee, she soon completely triumphed, and maintained most excellent discipline during the remainder of the term. She displayed remarkable qualities as a teacher, considering her inexperience. She was prompt, energetic and thoroughly conversant with the principles of study which she taught.

At the final examination, the exercises of the school were performed in a most satisfactory manner, surpassing the expectation of all.

The INTERMEDIATE SCHOOL, in Union Street, has been instructed during the year by Miss Sarah B. Packard, a Normal School graduate. In the performance of her duties she displayed laudable energy and zeal, and labored persistently to promote the interests of the school. Although she did not succeed in bringing the school up to her standard of excellence, and felt at the end of the year dissatisfied with her labors, yet the school made commendable progress under her instruction. It is recommended by the Committee that the services of this teacher be retained by the town another year.

The PRIMARY SCHOOL, in Union Street, has not suffered, as we had reason to fear, from a change in teachers, but has retained, under its new instructor, Miss Mary E. Allen, its previous reputation as a model Primary School.

Although entering upon her duties with little experience, Miss Allen soon displayed peculiar fitness for her position, and by unremitting efforts succeeded in conducting the school to a happy termination.

At the visits of the Committee, the school was always characterized by good order, and by promptness and accuracy of recitation. The singing exercises were a pleasing feature of this school.

The INTERMEDIATE SCHOOL, on Depot Street, was taught for the second year by Miss Carrie Lovett. She has proved herself a faithful, and in all respects a most excellent teacher. Without severity, the government of the school has been admirable, the instruction exact and thorough, and the progress of the pupils highly commendable.

The GRAMMAR SCHOOL on Randolph Street was taught for the second year by Miss Louise L. Vining. This school has more the character of a mixed school, and therefore imposes a large amount of labor upon the teacher. But under her skilful and judicious management the school has been in a prosperous condition throughout the year. The department has been excellent, the administration firm and parental, the teaching patient and thorough.

The PRIMARY SCHOOL on Depot Street, taught by Mrs. Morrill, has been crowded in attendance, but completely controlled and made attractive by her singular tact in winning the affection of the children, and inspiring in them a love for the school-room and interest in their studies. The singing and gymnastic exercises have been a very pleasing feature of this school, and are worthy of imitation in all our schools. The government has been eminently parental, the teaching thorough, and the progress of the school what was anticipated under her skilful instruction.

EIGHTH DISTRICT.

The INTERMEDIATE SCHOOL on Pond Street, taught by Miss Carrie M. Parker, was in a bad condition at the beginning, and while the teacher commenced her labors with an earnest zeal, and seemed to exert herself in the discharge of her duties, the progress of the school has not been all that could be desired.

The PRIMARY SCHOOL on Pond Street, taught by Miss A. Clementine Orcutt for the second year, though in an unpleasant, if not an unhealthy school-room, under her quiet but firm administration, has uniformly appeared well, and the examination at the close was highly satisfactory.

NINTH DISTRICT.

GRAMMAR DEPARTMENT.—This school, in charge of a competent male teacher, a graduate of one of our Normal Schools, has been a complete success. At the commencement of the school, previous habits of disorder and confusion made their appearance, yet by a wise and judicious system of government, good order and cheerfulness were soon secured, and the school was in readiness for its appropriate work. The order of the school, and the general deportment of the scholars, has been uniformly good. The instruction was clear, methodical and thorough, well calculated to elicit thought and fix principles in the mind.

The closing examination was not so brilliant as some, on account of the deliberate and quiet manner of both teacher and scholars, (which we think carried to such an extreme is a real fault;) otherwise it was quite satisfactory.

UPPER INTERMEDIATE.—This school was also in a bad condition at the opening of the spring term, as might be expected from the report of last year. The teacher, a graduate of our High School, was fully equal to the emergency, and in a very short time, by kindness and gentleness, combined with firmness, good order was secured, which continued through the year uninterrupted. The classes have been well drilled and faithfully taught. Good progress has been made.

The closing examination was highly creditable to both teacher and scholars.

LOWER INTERMEDIATE.—This school was taught by the same teacher as in several previous years, and has sustained its former reputation for order, diligence and faithfulness, and satisfactory progress has been made. The closing examination, however, was not in all respects so good as it has sometimes been, owing undoubtedly to the fact that the teacher was obliged, by reason of sickness, to surrender her school to the charge of a younger sister, only three weeks before its close.

PRIMARY.—Gratifying success has attended the labors of Miss Adelaide A. Keeler in this school. It was her first attempt to teach. The school opened with seventy-five scholars, and the average attendance through the summer term was almost sixty-two, yet she maintained most perfect order throughout the year. The classes have been well taught, and excellent progress has been made.

The closing examination was one of great excellence. All of the exercises were good, especially the spelling, as there was but one word missed in the whole school, notwithstanding the words were pronounced by the Committee, and something like a dozen to each scholar selected from all parts of the book, and the hardest that met the eye.

PRIMARY.—This school, in charge of the same teacher as in the previous year, has made satisfactory progress, and fully sustained its former high reputation among our primary schools.

The room in which this school is kept is decidedly too small, the whole number of scholars for the winter term being sixty-seven, with not more than twenty or twenty-five regular seats in the room, so that the scholars have been crowded together, four in a seat designed for two, and the rest seated upon settees, and, in some cases, in an adjoining room. Some provision should be made at once for the better accommodation of this school.

TENTH DISTRICT.

INTERMEDIATE.—This has been an unfortunate school. The teacher that taught it the first three-fourths of the year was obliged to leave on account of ill health. Her successor, we believe, found the school in a bad state, as regards order and discipline, and being young and inexperienced, did not succeed in restoring it. The closing examination was anything but satisfactory.

PRIMARY.—This has been a successful school. It has generally appeared well through the year; the scholars have made good progress in their studies, the discipline has been firm, the order good. The closing examination was of a high order. The recitations were prompt, and generally very correct. We might specify many that were excellent, but will only notice two,—one an exercise in the geography of our own State, county and town, which was finely given, and of much practical merit; another was the opening exercise—recitation of passages of Scriptures and the Lord's Prayer, which was very pleasing and impressive.
