BLACK CATS INVADE THE WOODLANDS

Felines Raise Loud Chorus as They Rush the Canyon

HOO HOO'S FROLIC

Life Had Zip in Saturday Picnic of State Lumbermen

You couldn't see Verdugo Woodlands for black cats, on Saturday afternoon. The woods, the mountains and the open stretches were simply a mass of black, and it was a leader bunch than ever gathered on any back fence. And the sounds that emitted from that bunch of "Toms" for wildness and volume, surpassed anything ever heard before in the hours of midnight to 3 a. m. If you have ever heard a million cats scrapping on a tin roof immediately overhead in the still hours of the very early morning, you have a little idea of the brand of "music" furnished by these "black babies" in the quiet of that gorgeous afternoon in one of the most serene and wonderful spots in the world.

They began trailing in one by one, two by two and sometimes six by six at about 3 o'clock. They looked like a black Klu Klux Klan on the march. Some cats were singing, others were trying to, and still others were wishing they could. Every cat was "heeled" for the time of his life and the general melee started just as soon as a half dozen Toms had appeared on the scene and it continued until the blackness became as black as the cats themselves. Every minute was filled with something, if it wasn't a series of cat yells it was a race across the green.

The afternoon started with a game which is being kept secret. It was located under one of the live oaks at the edge of the campus. Needless to say this "unmentionable" had a wide following.

Then started the baseball game. This was not like the ordinary game—the cats wouldn't stoop to anything like that. They had a game all their own and of their own making. They called themselves the "Tom Cats" and the way they scratched and spat at each other was a caution. The game was nip and tuck from the start. First the Toms would bet the lead, then the Henry's would come to bat and pound in three or four hundred

DRAGONS VISIT THEIR LODGE

Newly Organized Fraternity Takes Autos to Mountains

The newly organized Dragon fraternity, of which Joe Maier is president, left by automobile Saturday afternoon for the Dragon Lodge, which is located high up in the mountains overlooking a beautiful stream.

The Dragons hiked from the cars and arrived at camp about sundown. Orrin Barnes and Roy Mason, two prospective members on pledge, were required to do all camp work, which consisted of cooking, dish washing, as required by pledge. The other members enjoyed boxing, swimming, outdoor baseball and wrestling.

After an old-fashioned supper, the Dragons gathered around the fireplace and enjoyed jokes and sang old southern melodies, accompanied by a banjo.

Sunday morning was given over to devotionals led by Sabin Buck. Later a swift hike up the mountain invigorated the Dragons to a hearty breakfast. A varied secret program was carried on until late in the afternoon. Those in the party included Joe Maier, president; G. L. Kennedy, vice-president; Sabin Buck, secretary; Edward Smith, treasurer, and Orrin Barnes and Roy Mason.

TO FIGHT WATER CO.

SANTA ANA, April 24.—The application of the Temescal Water company of Corona to the division of water rights, state department of public works, for permission to divert 20,000 acre feet of water from the Santa Ana river to a reservoir at Corona for irrigating 3000 acres will be scrutinized closely and perhaps fought, by irrigating companies of this county that use gravity flow of the river. The local companies fear that the project if carried out will jeopardize the local water supply taken from the river.

THE WEATHER

Southern California: Tonight and Tuesday fair.
Los Angeles and vicinity: Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday.

Reason and Desire Always in Conflict With Never an End

Reason and desire engage in a continual battle through life, says James W. Foley in "The Listening Post" this evening. Then in his philosophical way he shows how reason is temperate, logical and wholesome while desire is likely to be piggy, hungry and avaricious and because of this they make war on each other.

In his comment on the day's news, Henry James speaks of the police situation in Los Angeles with the removal of the chief of police as the climax.

Under the heading "Mixed Marriage" Dr. Frank Crane discusses the fact that marriage is not entirely a matter of young love, poetry and passion, but has its economic side and its social bearing. You will find several good editorials, features by John Pilgrim and Della Stewart, paragraphs, wise sayings, scientific facts, poetry and the eastern point of view.

ELKS INAUGURATE OFFICERS WITH BIG BALL

150 Couples Gather on Dancing Floor of Home

One of the season's brightest affairs was the Elks' inaugural ball given Saturday evening in their beautiful clubhouse, when about 150 couples enjoyed an evening of dancing and merry-making.

The dance committee, with Harry Whaley as chairman, had decorated the spacious ballroom in such a manner that it represented a beautiful fairyland. The colors used shined from a delicate yellow to an even more delicate coral, the chandeliers being shaded in the same tones which gave a pretty effect.

Music for dancing was furnished by a four-piece orchestra consisting of Herbert Henning at the piano, William Bode, saxophone, Mansford Barnes, saxophone, and R. C. Flint on the drums.

During the dancing, refreshing punch and wafers were served and later in the evening the jolly group adjourned to the banquet hall, where they were served to ice cream and French pastries in the form of little baskets of roses and the flowers. It was at this time that each lady was presented with a dainty hand-painted fan.

Everyone attending this ball claimed that it was the jolliest ever and all had a wonderful time.

Arthur Dibbern is the new exalted ruler and Mrs. Dibbern looked very charming in a beautiful gown of white satin and lace.

K. C. HARD TIMES BALL ROLLS WELL

Congested Floor Attests Popularity of Big Event of Knights

The big crowd that assembled at Odd Fellows' Hall Saturday night for the hard times dance given under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus council No. 1920, proved the popularity of a function of that sort. So congested was the floor that it was necessary to open up the private club rooms to take care of the guests.

The grand march was led by Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Brennan, dressed as farmer and farmerette.

At 11 p. m. the prize committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Finn and Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Henry went into session and awarded prizes as follows:

First ladies' trophy, a cut glass dish, to Mrs. H. C. Kain, dressed as an awkward country lass.

First gentlemen's prize, a fountain pen, to Ira Herbert of the Glendale Patrol who came as a "weary Willie."

The group prize was awarded to Messrs. and Mesdames Doll, Heusman, Andre, Rudel, Mr. Ferry and Mrs. Koytch H. V. Henry, decorated and garbed as plantation darlings. Their prize was a supper "after the ball was over."

It would be impossible to enumerate the many unique character costumes which contributed to the interest of the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leslie were in typical Irish costumes. Dr. Milton H. Berry and son in feminine attire represented colored flappers. Before the dancing began the local council held a short business session in their council chamber and the following members were elected to represent the organization at the state convention to be held at Santa Cruz, May 22-23: Grand Knight L. F. Wright, delegate; F. P. Dunn, alternate; Past Grand Knight H. V. Henry, delegate; F. M. Huesman, alternate.

LONDON, April 24.—Dublin passed quietly through the great general strike which completely paralyzed the Irish capital and a large part of Southern Ireland today.

ART SHOW TO OPEN TOMORROW

Last of Exhibits to Arrive Today at Chamber of Commerce

SAYRE'S CANVASES

School Children Admitted Free, Small Fee for Adults

The last pieces of statuary for the Glendale Art Exhibition will arrive today at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, and artisans are busy preparing the exhibits for the opening tomorrow night. A truck has been hauling these priceless masterpieces of the Southern California sculptors to the chamber for two days and will continue throughout today.

Already there are many thousands of dollars worth of art treasures on hand and this collection will be augmented by several works by the time the exhibit is formally opened tomorrow night at 8 o'clock by President Val Hollister of the chamber of commerce.

On opening night there will be several of the west's most famous sculptors present as representatives of the Sculptor's Guild of Southern California, the organization that is assisting the chamber. Ben Short of the academy of music is putting on the exhibit.

Arrangements have been made to have one of the members of the guild present every day from morning until night to lecture on sculpture. In the morning the exhibit will be free to the school children of the city who will attend in classes guided by a teacher. A sculptor will be present in the mornings to show the children by actual operation the process of fashioning statues that seem to live and breathe from cold inanimate clay.

At the afternoon and evening sessions of the exhibit there will be a small admission charged to cover the cost of bringing this display of art to Glendale. A musical program has been arranged for each night, each program to be under the auspices of one Glendale's music organizations.

J. Grayson Sayre, one of the West's own artists has offered 36 of his paintings for exhibition during the display in Glendale. His pictures are of the west and of the west that is near us. They seem to breathe the beauty of the west from sunrise to sunset. The artist with his brush and oils has caught the free spirit of the west, "God's Own Country," and with it turned

LAPHAM RECOVERS HEIRLOOM WATCH

Part of Plunder Secured by Burglars Returned Through Police

Councilman A. H. Lapham, whose home on West Broadway was robbed of about $1000 worth of jewelry, clothing and other valuables, has been cheered by the return of a watch recovered by the police from a Los Angeles pawnshop. It is a time-piece that had been carried by Mr. Lapham's father for many years and which was valued for its associations more than its intrinsic worth.

THE PRESIDENT'S WIFE LIKES SHADE

Mrs. Harding planting tree, etc.

Mrs. Warren G. Harding, wife of the President, likes shade trees and magnolia blossoms. A number of prominent Washington men sent her a magnolia tree. She got the White House spade and went right out in the back yard and planted it. Here you see her just after she has completed the job.

PLUMBERS ARE NOW LICENSED

Certificate of Registration Required on All Work in Glendale

Acting on instructions from the city clerk's office at the city hall E. J. Spaulding, superintendent of the building department, is sending a notice today to all plumbers of the city to the effect that they will be required to secure from the city clerk immediately a "certificate of registration" before they can secure permits to install plumbing in the city.

The notice states that hereafter all applications for plumbing permits must bear the registration number of the plumber making the application before the permit will be granted. This notice is being sent to all plumbers in the city, as well as electricians and cesspool contractors.

Following is the order:

"In order to compile the records and in accordance with provisions of ordinances regulating the same, you are hereby instructed to secure from the city clerk a "certificate of registration" before securing permits and that hereafter each application for permit must contain your registration number.

SPEED SKINNERS ORGANIZED HERE

Motorcycle Squad Ready to Take Roads for Patrol

With the announcement today of the appointment of George M. Booth as a member of the motorcycle squad of the Glendale police department, this city takes its place among the many municipalities with a more competent and efficient traffic squad. The members of the squad acting under the direction of Motorcycle Officer Merle G. Collins, are M. H. Snyder, Charles L. Dice and Geo. M. Booth.

A part of the squad will be on duty at all times and will in addition to their duties as traffic officers, act as a firing squad in emergencies when the prompt response of the police department is necessary.

LONGSHOREMEN STRIKE

PORTLAND, Ore., April 24.—Longshoremen in the Port of Portland prepared today to extend their strike to the whole Pacific coast should the Waterfront Employers' union not accede to the wishes of the local union in an agreement to be presented to employers individually today.

Radio Concert Program Promised By Examiner

Failure Sunday Disappoints Large Audience at Press Building During Afternoon to Be Compensated by Music This Evening

The Examiner failed to fulfill their schedule Sunday evening between the hours of 8 and 8:45 p. m., due to some misunderstanding in their schedule. The Press wishes to express their regrets in the matter, for we know that our audience was disappointed. However, it was something which could not be helped and in order to compensate for their failure to transmit yesterday, the Examiner has promised us quite a program for this evening.

The famous Queen City Juvenile Concert Company, which completed a successful engagement at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre Sunday evening, will be melody headlines on the Earl C. Anthony, Inc., radio phone program this afternoon beginning at 5:30 p. m.

Also through the courtesy of Sid Grauman, the Southern California Girls' Quartette, from Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre, will sing "Will-o'-the-Wisp."

Spring Relaxation

In these bright sunny days of spring, with the summer on the threshold of California, there comes a relaxation in business that starts when the proprietor meanders through the stenographic department and winds up at the counter—where the customer waits—and waits.

Business built up by close competition during the winter months is endangered by the early spring relaxation. And that relaxation begins in the head office.

As the boss yawns, so yawns the shop.

Plans for the summer do not reach the surface mind of the staff unless the boss has been talkative about his own plans.

The more tightly compact the organization, the more general will be the spring relaxation.

If your summer plans are in the making, and you need the rest—leave them at home—if you are the head of a business.

In these spring days you are making progress for the days that lie beyond the spring, beyond the summer. Incidentally there would not be disappointed customers going the rounds of Glendale shops and spread reports that the business men here are looking for trout and one-piecers—not business.

The mood of relaxation runs through, from bank to merchant, and it is dangerous to the community at large.

CALL OF 'BUDDIES' IS HEARD

All Glendale Aroused by Press Summons to Aid of Comrades

BIG SALES PLANNED

Builders, Merchants and Organizations Join Movement

The Five Buddies have been taken into the heart of Glendale. All day Saturday and all day today, merchants were lining up with the Glendale Daily Press, for the big special edition. They were busy figuring on special goods to be offered for sale, with the advertising department for display, and with themselves on the sacrifice per cent they will make for the housing of the five buddies.

In fact, Glendale is aglow with friendship and loyalty to the five soldiers.

Two bungalow firms have bid for the privilege of putting up the houses on a cost basis. Lumbermen have offered material.

The offering of discounts piled so high this morning that it was decided to go to the public with the special edition of the Glendale Daily Press on Friday, the good bargain day, and to give the entire list of those who have banded together as Buddy merchants and dealers tomorrow.

Remember, the Glendale Daily Press gives 25 per cent of the gross revenue received from the special display advertising printed in the special edition on Friday.

This means that if you are going to do display advertising this week put it in the Glendale Daily Press with the absolute assurance that you are making a donation of 25 per cent to the fund. Of course if you are carrying advertising regularly in the Press no part of that will go to the fund.

Buddy Christenson was surprised to find in the Glendale Daily Press that he had a child in his little tent out in La Crescenta. They have no child. Mrs. Christenson has only a dog to cheer her life in the open.

In spite of the clear statements of the plan in the Glendale Daily Press, an impression has been distributed in some quarters that there was to be a popular contribution asked for the buddies.

No such thing was ever meditated. This is not a charity.

The buddies are not that sort of people.

Anyone asking any subscription or contribution should be arrested at once as an imposter, attempting to operate on the public sympathy.

If you wish to co-operate with the merchants and the Glendale Daily Press you can do it by buying what you need or can use at the bargain prices to be advertised. Buy as shrewdly as you would on any other day. You will get good values anyway and know that you are helping, playing the game on your own side.

Indications are that the day will be a banner one in Glendale. In the event that the fund will exceed the cost of the construction of the houses the money will be held in trust for any other buddy who has a need.

Up in La Crescenta the Women's club has taken up the matter of their new neighbors.

A benefit tea will be given by the club at the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. Nettleton at 141 East Mayfield street next Sunday between 3 and 6 o'clock. All La Crescenta will be present, of course.

One of the big features of the evening was an original song celebrating all departments of the church which was sung by the men's quartet composed of H. B. Goldborough, H. S. Wilcox, F. C. Richardson, and H. E. Fry, the evening terminating with a general social hour during which refreshments were served.

The words of the original song.

MONDAY ASSEMBLY BOOSTS 'STYLUS'

An assembly was held this morning at Glendale high to boost the sale of "The Stylus," at which several announcements of interest were made. One concerned the relative standing of debating teams in the semi-finals, the score being as follows: Alhambra, first with 198 11-12; Inglewood, 198 11-24; Pasadena, 197 1-3; Glendale, 197 1-6. Alhambra and Inglewood will now compete for first place.

Another announcement concerned the Shakespearean Festival program Thursday at the Philharmonic auditorium, for which Glendale high has been assigned 150 tickets. Two hundred students indicated they wished to attend.

Also there was an announcement of the mayor's clean-up proclamation, with the urge that Glendale high get busy on the school grounds.

COLONIAL CONCERT OF MADRIGAL CLUB

The next colonial concert by the Madrigal club is to be given the evening of May 18 in the high school auditorium with members of the Arion String Quartette as assisting artists, viz. Mrs. Neva Childers, first violinist; Miss Mamie Smith, second violinist; Marian Matthews, cellist; Mrs. Enona Hopkins, harpist. They will play chamber music.

REV. R. T. SMITH DIES IN LOS ANGELES

Friends of Rev. R. T. Smith, who was pastor of the Central Avenue Methodist church about six years ago and much beloved, will be grieved to hear of his death on Sunday. Funeral services will be held at the Brezee parlors in Los Angeles Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. and Mrs. E. B. Moors of this city has been asked to sing.

AUXILIARY FOR MEN OF '98

Ladies interested in the formation in this city of a women's auxiliary to the Spanish War Veterans are meeting Tuesday evening in the council chamber of the city hall at 7 p. m. to take preliminary steps. All ladies eligible to membership are requested to be present.

MUSIC CENSUS OF GLENDALE IS COMING

State Federation of Music Clubs Starts New Movement

Mrs. Grace E. Jackson of 1229 North Pacific avenue, this city, has been asked to make a music census of Glendale. She is a member of the Los Angeles Music Teachers' association, which belongs to the State Federation of Music Teachers and this larger organization has started a movement to list all musicians throughout the state who are doing professional work.

She has been made chairman of the Glendale committee with authority to choose her associates, and is expected to make a first report May 1. It will include when completed a list of musicians in every branch—piano, organ, voice, orchestral instruments, band and small instruments, and a list of all who receive money for their services. A card catalogue of these names will be made and it is expected that a directory will be published.

West route—Monday and Thursday, all that portion of the city lying west of and including the west side of Brand boulevard and north of and including Colorado street.

East route—Tuesday and Friday, all that portion of the city north of and including Colorado street and east of Brand boulevard, including the east side of Brand. Also the Verdugo canyon district.

South route—Wednesday and Saturday, all that portion of the city south of and not including Colorado street.

The word rubbish, as used in the city ordinance, shall be deemed to mean and include leaves, chips, wooden ware, paper, pasteboard, grass, rags, straw, boots, shoes, hats, and other combustible materials.

"Rubbish," as defined by the ordinance, will be collected on a schedule to be announced later, because special arrangements must be made.

In case additional information is desired, phone city hall, Glendale 1300, station 16, or Glendale 1141-W.

TROPICO FOLKS WELCOME DR. WINNARD

Congregation Enjoys Fine Program and New Pastor

A unique entertainment was provided for the reception given at the Tropico Presbyterian church, Friday night, to welcome the new pastor Dr. James F. Winnard, and it was thoroughly enjoyed.

It included a debate on the question: "Resolved, that women are of greater value in church work than men." Sam Brown having the affirmative side and Mrs. Leo D. Myer the negative.

Miss Nell Price contributed a piano solo.

The address of welcome was made by F. C. Richardson and was followed by a very nice response by Dr. Winnard.

One of the big features of the evening was an original song celebrating all departments of the church which was sung by the men's quartet composed of H. B. Goldborough, H. S. Wilcox, F. C. Richardson, and H. E. Fry, the evening terminating with a general social hour during which refreshments were served.

JINGLING JAZZ OF THE NEWS

A flag was raised on Saturday by Scout Troop No. 2. They're standing by the colors like real men; The Hoo Hoo black cats paint the town a very dusky hue. A host of Tommies gather in the glen.

"The First Love's" at the Glendale with Miss Constance in the lead. The Elk's ball surely is a big event; The brand new city dads of Burbank meet to "chew the fat," And up the tree Judge Lowe's new fliv, near west.

The "pie house" up at Burbank goes clear up in flames—good night! The "Wearies" think they're safe in Burbank now; A Southern chicken dinner to the Blue Lodge guests is served, Miss Slatley entertains with luncheon "chow."

There's lots of time this morning at the Lapham home, they say. The stolen timepiece finds its old address; To help the boys of Thornycroft secure their little homes. Just call and tell the Glendale Daily Press.

MINERS' TRIALS OPEN

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 24.—The trials of the West Virginia coal miners charged with treason, murder and lesser offenses, because of their armed march on the Logan county coal fields, began here today in the quaint little courthouse where John Brown was sentenced to death for treason.

EDITED BY N. D. GARVER

Theory of Condensers

There are many types of condensers to fill the many different uses they are put to. First is the "Leyden jar," which is a wide-mouth bottle or jar of best quality glass. There is a layer of tinfoil on the inside and a layer around the outside which runs to about one-half the height of the jar. Connection is made to the outside by placing the jars on a metal plate, while a rod, which terminates in a chain, forms the contact for the inside. The top of the jar is covered with some kind of insulating compound, through which the rod and chain are fastened. The capacity areas of the jar are formed by the layers of tinfoil on the inside and outside while the glass in between forms the dielectric. The Leyden jar was used extensively in the early days of radio but has become rather uncommon due to the invention of more modern and better types of condensers. The Leyden jars are used only for transmitting.

Modern types of transmitting condensers which must stand very high potentials are made of copper, zinc or aluminum plates separated by a dielectric of high specific inductive capacity, such as glass, mica, eucrose or oil. The method of building them so as to make them compact and still serviceable, is as follows: First, there is a layer of glass (or mica, as the case may be), then a layer of glass, another layer of copper sheeting and so on, until the capacity desired is reached. The ends of the copper sheets are allowed to protrude beyond the ends of the glass, alternately, that is, the first layer protrudes at one end and the next layer of copper protrudes at the opposite end. These ends are fastened together when the condenser is completed, and the ends serve as terminals. The condenser just described is used in transmitting circuits only. After the condenser is completed it is placed in some sort of receptacle and completely covered with molten wax or some good insulating compound.

A condenser which is used in receiving work may be built on the same principle except that you should use tinfoil for the conducting plates and waxed paper for the dielectric.

The capacity of a condenser is dependent upon its ability to hold a charge of electricity on opposing surfaces. As such is the case, it will be evident that the capacity of a condenser must be limited to the ability of the dielectric to stand the strain imposed upon it, without allowing the current to pass through it. If the charge imposed upon the condenser reaches such a point that the dielectric is punctured, the condenser is short-circuited; in other words, there is no more condenser. The ability of the insulator, or dielectric, to withstand the charge it is rated at is called its dielectric strength, and is varied according to the material used, as may be seen by the following table:

Material	Specific Inductive Capacity	Dielectric Strength (volts)
Air	1.00	4,500
Hard Rubber	2.29	30,000
Soft Rubber	2.10	30,000
Mica	6.64	60,000
Paraffin Oil	2.11	7,000
Glass	6.96 to 9.86	20,000
Porcelain	4.38	16,000

Technical Terms Defined
Potential—Potential is electric pressure. If you wished to transfer heat from one body to another, the amount of heat transmitted will depend on how much hotter the first body is than the second. Thus the transmission of heat is a measure of the difference in temperature. There is a difference in temperature, therefore, there is a difference in potential or pressure that current may flow.

Hamburger's broadcasting station uses a power of ten watts. Try to obtain as short a ground as possible for the best results. If you are in a position where it is impossible for you to obtain a short ground, try a variable condenser in series with your ground wire and see if it doesn't improve the signals.

Stranded wire gives excellent results for the antennae. Get wire of about 12 strands, No. 22 tinned copper wire.

Questions and Their Answers
Q.—What make vacuum tube would you recommend for the best results?—J. V.

Ans.—The amateurs as an average seem very well pleased with the General Electric tubes. We are using on our set one General Electric tube detector and three amplifiers.

Q.—How much "B" battery voltage should I use on a single detector bulb?—M. G.

Ans.—It is impossible to tell you just how much voltage to use on your bulb, as you would have to find that out by testing out the bulb with the set. As an average a detector bulb alone requires from 30 to 40 volts.

THE HEADLESS HUNTER COMES TO EARTH

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

Dr. Muskrat was right—as he always is. Somebody was coming. Not right to his pond—not if somebody could help it. In fact, somebody was trying mighty hard to get past the fence corner where Tad Coon lay asleep and into the nice smooth pasture beyond.

From far up in the clouds somebody had begun gliding and sliding down, over the hills where the sun hides, past the Big Marsh, lower and lower toward the blossomy pink tops of the maples in the Deep Woods. He skimmed them so close he set the catkins dancing in the tallest elms; he snatched at 'red Coon's hickory, just grazed the brushy, and came to earth in the middle of the Broad Field. There he skipped and bounced on the rough ground until he ran spang into the fence. The wire whanged like the string of a giant violin; there was a snapping, cracking, tearing sound—then silence.

Silence until the startled little birds could catch their breaths. And the air was filled with meadowlarks and killdeers and sparrows and robins and blackbirds (who were holding a most important council in the oak) all shrieking "The Headless Hunter! The Terror of the Skies! He has come! Fly for your lives!" And fly they did. But Bobby Robin, honest, faithful little wing that he is, flew straight to Tommy Peele's house to warn him and his dog Watch.

He would never forget how the wise old tail-wagger had helped him—yow know when.

Tad Coon leaped out of his snooze between two snores and landed on his feet ready to run. But where? For the terrible thing had stopped within pounce of him. He drew back into his thicket and crouched there, whimpering like a scared baby.

But you know Tad. He was just born curious. That's one reason why he can't stay scared. He listened and listened—still no sound.

He Drew Back Into His Thicket and Crouched There

airplane. And an airplane hasn't any eye. That was Tad's very own invention—but he believed it, all the same.) And it can't move without its engine. And its engine had stopped miles and miles away. So the poor man who was flying it had to find some level place for it to land. Tommy Peele's Broad Field was the very nearest one. But it wasn't very good. All that jouncing made him see more stars than there are in the sky, and that jam against the fence took the wind out of him. He felt like resting. As you would, too.

The auto has proved itself to be of wonderful utility to man, and we do not see how we could possibly get along without it, yet there are many people who regret the passing of the horse which its almost universal use is bringing about. But there is one field of endeavor where the noble equine is still supreme and from which it is not likely he will ever be ousted, namely, the circus ring. It is only the horse, so perfectly trained, that can give the thrill as he ambles around the ring while the lady in resplendent apparel dances about on his bare back, turns somersaults and cuts up over his capers. He displays almost human intelligence and is certainly a thing of beauty. The auto can never replace him here. One of the main attractions of the recent circus was the beautiful horses.

There is a preacher in Long Beach, Geo. Taubman, who has built up the second largest men's bible class in the world, with an enrollment of nearly 3000 and an average attendance around 1500. These men gave their teacher a $1000 bill as a Christmas present last year and when he recently suffered a complete nervous breakdown as a result of strenuous work and great anxiety during the erection of a new church building, these same men voluntarily raised $1500 and sent their beloved pastor-teacher, accompanied by his wife, to Honolulu for a several months' vacation. Isn't this a fine spirit to show in this sordidly commercial age, as it is sometimes denominated?

Forty years ago the total rainfall to this date was 10.77 inches. Already this year it is over 27 inches, with a prospect of more. More than four inches of rain fell in May of last year.

It is said that in all the world there is only one replica of the quaint little church at Stokes Regis, England in the monument-studded yard of which Grey wrote his celebrated "Elegy in a Country Churchyard," one of the classics of English literature. And this replica, which is absolutely exact, is in our own Forest Lawn cemetery and is known as the "Little Church of the Flowers." There is one addition to the ensemble, however, which was not possible in stormy old England, and that is the wonderful banks of flowers on either side of the church and along the walls.

Some of the most popular authors have moments of strange forgetfulness in which they make some very incongruous statements. One of these is Randall Parrish, who, in his "My Lady of the North," has his hero attacked in the Stygian darkness of a lonely mountain cabin by a huge dog, which tears his shoulder most frightfully. Yet in two days this ghastly wound apparently heals entirely, for no further mention is made of it in detailing the exercise of prodigious strength by Captain Wayne just 48 hours after the painful experience. A similar case of forgetfulness is noted in another novel by the same author, "When Wilderness Was King." John Wayland is seriously stabbed by an Indian chief in the shoulder, the blood gushing from the wound in such quantities as to cause him to well nigh faint. Yet the very next day he appears well and sound, nor is the wound again referred to.

We Californians are grumbling much at the late cold spring, but when we read of the great floods now devastating the Mississippi valley we ought to be ashamed of ourselves to forget our many blessings and remember only the small discomforts. With many dead and injured in floods and tornadoes, thousands of acres of rich land inundated and costly levees swept away, the states in the great central valley are in a deplorable condition. And only last week Denver was buried under several feet of snow and Chicago swept by a terrific storm of wind, rain and hail. Let us think of our mercies.

The resemblance of twins of the same sex sometimes so closely as to make it almost impossible to tell them apart, is proverbial, but there are some notable exceptions. Two young men, twins, recently locating here, are very unlike in facial characteristics, one is short and the other medium tall, one sings bass and the other tenor. They would hardly be thought brothers by strangers, let alone twins.

The bible is the "best seller" every year, millions of copies in hundreds of different sizes, print and bindings being sold each twelvemonth. Yet the general ignorance of its contents is appalling. Many erroneous statements attributed to it are believed in by readers too careless to look for themselves, though nearly all have copies in their homes. The commonest misstatement is the alleged joke of Eve eating the apple. There is no such statement anywhere in the Holy Writ. In fact, the apple is not mentioned as a fruit till near the close of the old testament, thousands of years after Eve's time. Another is that 42 children who mocked Elisha, the prophet, were killed by she bears at his command. Not one was killed. The bible does not say that money is the root of all evil, nor was the rich young ruler told to sell the half of his possessions and give to the poor. The command was to sell all. Get down your long-neglected bibles and prove me wrong if you can.

The golf tournament was in progress at Rothington, common, and most of the villagers had come to witness the evening game.

All went well until old General Hardup took his place at the tee. The general looked determined, and prepared for a mighty stroke. Accordingly, he braced himself for the effort and let fly. Something hit the clubhouse roof, but it wasn't the ball. No, it was a huge chunk of the common. "Extraordinary!" grunted the general.

"Yes, it did seem a bit out of the common," replied his sarcastic rival.

Any woman will look before she leaps provided there is a mirror handy.

PRE-COMMUNION SERVICES TO COMMENCE

Presbyterian Church to Begin Work Under Head of Janes Newton

The opening service of pre-communion week will be held at the Presbyterian church this evening. The service will be in charge of Mr. James Newton, who is chairman of the church council, which is made up of all the officers of every organization in the congregation. The early part of the meeting will be given over to prayer and conference, looking forward to the communion service on next Sunday morning. Later in the service the Victorious Life Conference will be emphasized. This conference will be held from May 7 to 14 and will be attended by visitors from many points in Southern California. Those present at the service this evening will be given an opportunity to tell of the benefit the Victorious Life Conferences have been to them in other years. Services will be held each evening this week except Saturday. Tomorrow evening W. H. Boyd, M. D., of Canton, China, will speak. Wednesday evening the usual prayer service will be held. Thursday night the Sunday school officers and workers will gather around the lunch table for a conference. H. L. Finlay, the Sunday school superintendent, will preside and Mr. Thos. E. Hughes of Los Angeles will be present at the luncheon and also speak at the service which follows. Friday evening is "family night." The local Presbyterian church has made much of this particular service for many years and it has proved to be of inestimable benefit to all who have been privileged to attend. Rev. J. Hudson Ballard, D. D., pastor of the Presbyterian church of Pomona, will bring the message. These services will be followed by the reception of new members and the communion at the morning service next Sunday. Many Presbyterians living in Glendale with their membership elsewhere are availing themselves of this opportunity of affiliating with the local church and the service next Sunday morning promises to be one of the most successful held for a long period.

POST-EASTER MEDITATION DISCUSSED

Rev. Edmonds Preaches on the Direction of Effort After Festival

At the Presbyterian church Sunday morning the pastor, Rev. W. B. Edmonds, gave a "post-Easter meditation—what next?" An outline follows:
The life of Christ was a continual series of climaxes, one after another leading up to the death. After that the resurrection; then the ascension. What is to be next? It is our privilege to seek and to know the next outstanding thing He is going to do.
Look at two scenes: Forty days after His resurrection He is going up Olivet, looking over the vista of the holy city, and talking over the recent events culminating in the empty tomb. The earnest disciples ask whether now is the time when God's promise is to be fulfilled of restoring the kingdom to Israel. He answers them that they are not to know the time, but that they are to evangelize, from Jerusalem to the ends of the earth. Then He rose up from them into heaven. And as they gazed two angels stood by them, and told them that the same Jesus who was taken up from them into heaven should come again in like manner as they had seen Him go into heaven. They returned full of joy and strength, and there was a new watchword for them and for us—"Marantha," the Lord cometh!

The second scene: Jesus on the eve of His crucifixion had said to the disciples He loved, "I am going to leave you, but I will come again." What means that? The Lord of glory says He will come again. He will come visibly, as He went. Those who are His shall be caught up to meet Him at once, both those who have died, and those who are living—perhaps we will be living then. God speed the day! This old world has never seen such a happy day as that will be. It will be a personal, real coming. His present spiritual presence is not it. This is the Jesus we shall see, with the same eyes and wounded hands and feet and pierced side.
Now, error has crept in. They say, "It doesn't matter about all this." Yes, it does matter. You can't think God is going to let His program drop and go any old way. And people have given themselves to making calendars, and so have carried, falling into disappointment when their calendar did not fit. But the key hangs on the girdle of God, and it is for us to go diligently on our tasks. Whether He shall come at midnight or morning, are you ready for Him? Oh, may the Lord keep us true. Even so, come quickly, Lord Jesus!

BLACK CATS INVADE VERDUGO

runs to tie the score. Each inning lasted an hour, each second of which was filled with suspense. The feature of the game was the umpires. Forty-eight of them were used during the four innings, the umpire-committee which was perched on the sidelines saw to it that no "bump" lasted more than three minutes. If they would not come off the field peacefully, they were carried off.
After the game one of the cats "meowed" to the effect that the barbecue was ready, and the Toms formed in line, all fighting for the first chance at the delicious meat, beans, chili, and the other good things, which were handed out by the skillful "espanola" chefs. After the feed some of the "fuller" ones went to sleep others gathered around the colored orchestra at the bandstand, where the greatest kind of a time was enjoyed.
The only sensible things pulled off during the afternoon was the arrest of Bob Reed of San Diego, who was "pinched" for disorderly conduct. He was brought down to the Glendale city hall where he was held on $500 bail. His pals went back to the bunch at the Woodlands and all they could collect was $50 so the judge decided to reduce the bail to that amount, the payment of which was suspended.
In the evening the cats collected at the chamber of commerce auditorium where they initiated a company of nineteen kittens. Among these were Thomas J. Ponton of the Owens Park Lumber company, Charles E. Kendall of the Bennett Lumber company of Long Beach, Shirley Wallace of the Shirley Allen Lumber company of Eagle Rock, David J. Cleasby of the H. A. Graham Lumber company of Long Beach. The following kittens were from Los Angeles: Luther E. Morgan of the Woodhead Lumber company, Arthur M. O'Leary of Hopkins, Gunn, O'Leary company; Frank B. Hanawatt of the Howard Koll company, Ernest E. Ybarra of the Hammond Lumber company, Morris E. Hopkins of the Hopkins, Gunn, O'Leary company, Clarence B. Swensen of the Western Hardware company, Herbert W. Kanne of the Western Hardware company, William A. Sampson of the Hipolite Sash & Door company, Joseph D. McEachen of the Woodhead company, John F. Reynolds of the Standard Lumber company, John E. Doyd-Jones of the Woodhead Lumber company, J. P. Boyd of the Vernon Lumber company, Charles K. Robersshaw of the Pacific Ready Cut company.

This entire gathering of the cats was under the personal direction of George Bentley of the Bentley-Shoeneman Lumber company of Glendale and A. C. Hamer of the Shirley-Allen Lumber company of Eagle Rock.
Ever notice how sorry for themselves some men act when they are heading toward home?

GOD'S NEARNESS DESCRIBED BY REV. CRIST

Preaches from Text Referring to the Kingdom of God

At the First Methodist church Sunday evening, Dr. C. M. Crist conducted an evangelistic service, preaching from Mark 12:34, "Thou art not far from the Kingdom of God." There was a large crowd in attendance and at the close of the sermon, as the result of the pastor's earnest appeal the altar was filled with young people. There were a number of requests for special prayer.
"These evening evangelistic services," said Dr. Crist, "are to continue indefinitely. They have come to take their present form from the request of the young people of the church, great numbers of whom have declared their desire to stand by them and see a continuous revival spirit in the church."
Rev. Crist said in part last night:
"There are thousands of people who need the touch of the Master's hand. The miracle of spiritual blessing would transform the ordinary life into one of most romantic interest. It is a sad spectacle to see any object that would be perfect if it were not for the lack of one thing; an arch without a keystone; a magnificent structure with sufficient foundation; a man made in the image of God, yet lacking the touch of Christ."

Dr. Crist spoke of the direct and indirect agencies which lead forth to the place where they are not far from the kingdom of God. The Christian home, with its altar of prayer and its holy influences of example, and the exercise of spiritual graces, Christian companionship, and the services of the church.
"These and many other influences other than the direct agency of the Holy Spirit," said the pastor, "bring us near to the kingdom. The one additional thing necessary is that act of the will that steps over the line and claims the blessing."

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

EDWARD LOPEZ, JR., Edward Lopez, Jr., two-day-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lopez, 170 South San Fernando road, passed away this morning at his home. Funeral services are being held this afternoon from the chapel of Pulliam & Kiefer with interment at Grand View cemetery.

CLAIRE D. DILLON
Claire D. Dillon passed away April 22 at a home he was building at 400 Cameron place. Mr. Dillon had been in Glendale only two weeks, and was working on his own home when he fell dead. He leaves a wife, Mrs. Frances Dillon, and a baby, Claire Dillon, aged 14 months. Mr. Dillon was a native of Normal, Ill., and until a short time ago had been an instructor of science and athletics in school work. He was born December 20, 1888, and was 33 years of age. He also leaves a mother and father, a sister, Ethel Dillon of Normal, Ill., and a brother, Chester, at La Junta, Colo. He was a member of the Baptist church at Normal. The remains are to be taken to Bloomfield, Ill., some time Tuesday, and will be accompanied by his wife. Pulliam & Kiefer are in and father, a sister, Ethel Dillon of charge.

'MY LADY FRIENDS' COMEDY HIT AT THE T. D. & L.

'Green Temptation,' Wm. Taylor's Last Picture, Tomorrow

Today is "laugh day" for all the numerous patrons of the T. D. & L. theatre. If your rent has been raised; if your home brew hasn't turned out right; if you feel like going to the dogs—come to the T. D. & L. and we will guarantee to make you forget your troubles. The cheering up will be done by "Carter De Haven, who will appear in "My Lady Friends," a First National attraction. De Haven plays the part of a bible manufacturer who has innocently acquired three "lady friends" and you will agree that your troubles are minor ones compared to the situation he faces when friend wife becomes cognizant of the existence of her three rivals.

Mr. and Mrs. De Haven have won international fame as farceurs, and their appearance in the picture is sufficient guarantee that it is a rollicking, mirth-provoking comedy. But in this instance they are backed by a story which made millions laugh when it appeared on the stage, and it is filmed against a background of splendor seldom seen in a comedy.
The climax will take your breath away. It looks like the divorce court for poor James Smith until his ingenious brain begins to work at top speed and another man becomes the goat.
Better come early, for we have a suspicion that a lot of persons will want to laugh. Remember "laugh day!"
The star whose every picture has been a triumph, is now in another dazzling success. You will love the little Paris dancer who strives to rise from the depths in "The Green Temptation." A picture riotous with the splendors of society's revels, dazzling with beauty of gowns and sets, surprising with its revelations of underworld life. And Betty Compton in a role that takes in all of life, high and low, in all its joy and sorrow.

A picture that is a cross-section of all life—the high and low lights, in Apache den and gilded cabaret. Suffused with thrills, blending with every emotion into a colorful, intense melodrama. With the star in three roles, and dancing a number of the most amazing dances ever screened. The cast includes Theodore Kosloff and Mahlon Hamilton.
Over Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ryan, 332 W. Acacia avenue, were Harold Udseth and Charles Woodard of the U. S. S. New Mexico.
You can have everything—but who wants it?
Normal, Ill., and a brother, Chester, at La Junta, Colo. He was a member of the Baptist church at Normal. The remains are to be taken to Bloomfield, Ill., some time Tuesday, and will be accompanied by his wife. Pulliam & Kiefer are in and father, a sister, Ethel Dillon of charge.

Spacious sunny verandas—a lovely vista of mountains and palm trees.
Scientific apparatus—Trained Attendants, combined with every detail of modern methods and years of experience.

Truths in Epigram

We are the music-makers. We are the dreamers of dreams. Wandering by lone sea-breezes. And sitting by desolate streams.—O'Shaughnessy (1844-1881).
The crest and crowning of all good, Life's final star, is Brotherhood.—Markham (1852).

CONGRESSIONAL CAMPAIGN FUNDS

A writer declares that the men who voted to render the navy inadequate were not trying to save money. On the contrary he affirms that it was their purpose to cause the expenditure of the sums not expended on the navy, in appropriations of such sort as would cause them to be re-elected by a pleased constituency. This is a disconcerting view. Its acceptance must involve the admission that in congress there are members so contemptible as to be willing to filch from the country the funds for conducting their own campaigns. No other construction is to be given. If the operation would not be stealing by "means of trick and device," as the indictment says of the confidence operator, it would be difficult to define.

It is easier and more comfortable to assume that the little navy men got their minds set in a certain direction by the administration plan to cut down armament. Having got started, they did not have sense enough to stop or to turn around. They seemed to reason that if the scrapping of some ships would be a good thing, the scrapping of more would be better. This may explain some of the little men. It must do so without compliment to their intelligence.

Probably others had been influenced by the extreme pacifists. The demand of these is that the whole world disarm, not at some future time, but now. They want this country to strip itself to a condition of utter helplessness. Apparently they fancy that then the nations of the earth would follow the example. Neither does this explanation credit the scuttling coterie with intelligence. Why should it? No coterie ever made public display of stupidity more dense.

ANOTHER ENGLISH VISITOR

Viscountess Astor was warmly welcomed upon her arrival from England. She is English as a second thought and a happy marriage. She was born an American. Her husband is the son of the late William Waldorf Astor, who deserted his native land with a shrug of disgust, became an English citizen and before his death had won a title. Lady Astor used to be Nancy Langhorne, a society favorite and a beauty. She is still a society favorite, retains her beauty, and is a member of parliament as well. So it is easy to observe that she is very different from Margot Asquith, who placed a spurning foot upon these shores recently. Margot is a spurner. While here she made an exception in favor of box office receipts.

The pretty member of parliament does not seem to have had her head turned at all. Neither is her nature soured. Nor yet has she come over to explain to Americans what their duty is in regard to this third and that. In other words, she appears as a charming, vivacious guest, answering questions courteously, but not announcing opinions and beliefs. She said she thought the United States should have come to Genoa just as England had come to Washington. She denied being on a mission.

An American girl able to break into the house of commons is not an ordinary type. Perhaps this one succeeded by reason of being "full of pep" as she described herself. Still, in this age, feminine pep is frequently encountered, and appears to bear no relation to politics.

DISCOURAGING NARCOTIC TRADE

Not long ago a doctor was arrested for the illegal selling of prescriptions for narcotics. He was caught partly through having written one of these prescriptions for a man who at the time was found to be the inmate of a hospital for insane. The fact was established that it was the practice of this doctor to fill prescriptions on condition that the supposed patient divide the resulting poison with him, for the doctor also was an addict as well as a promoter of traffic.

Several charges were made against the doctor. To two of these he pleaded guilty. On the first he was fined $200, or sentenced to jail for 180 days. He paid the fine. On the second he received a sentence of ninety days, which was immediately suspended. Such a sentence, of course, is exactly nothing at all. It is regarded usually as a judicial joke.

The peddler of narcotics is one of the most dangerous enemies with which society has to contend. He may be regarded as in some measure accessory to all the crimes that now disturb the public peace. He inspires the assassin, gives courage to the footpad, stimulates the thief. Most of the crimes of violence are due to drugs. They are committed by individuals frenzied by indulgence, or frenzied in a different but equally dangerous way by a yearning for their favored poison.

Yet an offender is brought to the bar of justice and suffers a petty fine that could not have represented more than the profits of one day's lively trade. That is no way to discourage the trade in narcotics. The mildest penalty ought to be a long term in prison.

THE LEARNED REPORTER

While doubts had been expressed as to whether newspaper work should be classed as a trade or a profession, there never was any reason for such doubts. Clearly it is a profession. The newspaper writer is as much a professional man as is the lawyer or the doctor. Such doubts as may have existed on this point have been cleared away by the United States court. Some question had arisen as to the eligibility of a Canadian journalist to enter this country. He was permitted to enter "as a member of a learned profession." So there.

It may not be affirmed that all reporters are learned in the sense that they have profundity of wisdom, but to learn is their business, and out of actual experience they acquire much knowledge. They get wiser all the time, garnering wisdom as they go among men, keeping their eyes open while they follow the nose for news which is the possession of each of the competent.

The profession of journalism, however, is ill defined, a circumstance that is a great handicap to those belonging to it. The student of law pores over books for a season, is examined and gets his diploma. Similarly the medical student earns the right to have his title of doctor in gold letters on the window. The newspaper man conquers his profession, and becomes immersed in it with never a diploma to explain that it is his privilege to be there. His tenure depends upon his work. If it gets by the editor, he belongs. If it doesn't, he doesn't.

PROBATION LAW IN DANGER

The decision of Judge Parker of the superior court that the probation law of California is unconstitutional doubtless comes as a surprise. There had been frequent adverse criticisms of the measure, but these seemed to be based on the ground of expediency. The wisdom of the law rather than its validity had been questioned. It is not to be assumed that the Parker decision will be viewed as final unless sustained by the supreme bench.

Under probation many first offenders have been spared the experience of prison life. By this they have escaped contact with criminals. From such contact it is likely they would have emerged themselves criminals. At least their chances of coming out of prison inent upon being law-abiding citizens despite the first step into error, would have been remote. Released on probation, a convicted offender is kept under surveillance, required to report at regular intervals, and in a sense, is a ward of the court. This is helpful to him if he is not utterly bad. The probability is that he is not all bad, and the possibility that he really is not bad but weak or unfortunate, is worth considering.

So many have been kept out of the penitentiary through probation that the money saving for this county alone amounts to a vast sum annually. If the individual so favored have lived up to the requirements, they have been assets and not liabilities upon the community.

Fault has been found with the judicial tendency to grant probation when it did not seem to be deserved. This has been the case when the same person has been given the benefit of its provisions time after time, the periods of probation in instances actually overlapping.

However, probation had come to be regarded as a fixture, and assault upon it from a dignified source cannot but excite great interest.

The girl who doesn't know how to elope is always the one who is dying to do so.

MIXED MARRIAGES

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Considerable attention was attracted some time ago to the marital difficulties of an opera star who had married a chauffeur and proclaimed that she had found a 100 per cent man.

The venture, however, did not pan out. The chauffeur went back to his machinery and the opera continued her operatic career. The parting was attended with hard words on both sides.

The incident called attention to the infinite experiments that have been made, and are still being made, by young people undertaking marriage thus coming from different worlds.

Some of these have had a measure of success. A few King Cohetuas have married beggar maids and lived happily ever after. Here and there we read of a millionairess aged sixty who marries a shoe clerk aged twenty-two; of a Spanish Roman Catholic gentleman whose name might grace a cigar box marrying Farmer Hopkins' daughter, who lives on Lick Creek and was brought up a Methodist; of a preacher who marries a vaudeville star, and of a prince of royal Greek blood who selects his spouse from American millionairess. But these are exceptions.

The fact is that marriage is not entirely a matter of young love, poetry and passion. It also has its economical side and its social bearings.

Doubtless it is cruel and unfeeling for the stern parents to pick out a husband for their daughter with reference only to his bank account, but after all that is not much worse than the daughter picking out a husband for herself with sole reference to the color of his eyes and his taste in silk shirts.

Marriage is the one business where there has to be some sort of common-sense blending of romance and prudence.

The problem is not wholly one of young people setting together; they also have to keep together. And it takes other things than sentiment to ensure that.

When a girl marries she not only marries an individual, she marries also a background. She may find, after the first flush of romance is passed, that her husband's way of looking at things, his estimate of values and even his moral convictions are utterly irreconcilable to her own. Unfortunately she often does not find this out until it is too late.

Love and trust and utter confidence are magnified and a girl often takes a martyr-like pride in refusing to consider more practical matters. We are not likely in America, saturated as we are by novels full of the deals of romantic affection, to take up with the European notion that parents should arrange marriages without reference to the young people's tastes, but it certainly might be well if the young people would consult with and give heed to their parents before they take an important step that may mean misery or happiness for life.

THE LISTENING POST

Reason and Desire engage in a continual battle through life.

Reason is temperate, logical, wholesome. Desire is likely to be piggish, hungry, avaricious. And so they make war with each other.

In the pleasure drive perhaps. Reason says: "Not so fast." Desire says: "A little faster." And if Desire wins in the argument with Reason there is likely to be a smash.

In the matter of money getting. Reason says: "Not so much." Desire says: "A little more." And when Desire wins, there is likely to be harshness, greed, avarice and spiritual suicide.

In the matter of achievement. Reason says: "Carefully now. Not so intense a fire!" Desire says: "I must do it all at once." Again a conflict. And often a smash when Desire wins.

In the matter of pleasure. Reason says: "Temperance is the thing." Desire says: "Swallow the draught at a gulp." Reason says: "Life will be longer with temperance." Desire says: "Eat, drink and be merry. For tomorrow we die." And if we heed desire, tomorrow we DO die.

Business appears. Reason says: "Prudence and wisdom and care."

JAMES W. FOLEY

SONGS OF THE POETS

Song—By Georgiana Goddard King (1871—)

Something calls and whispers, along the city street, Through shrill cries of children and soft stir of feet, And makes my blood to quicken and makes my flesh to pine.

The mountains are calling; the winds wake the pine. Past the quivering poplars that tell of water near, The long road is sleeping, and the white road is clear.

Yet scent and touch can summon, afar from brook and tree, The deep boom of surges, the gray waste of sea.

Sweet to dream and linger, in windless orchard close, On bright broods of ladies to glareland the rose, But all the time are glowing, beyond this little world, The still light of planets and the star-swarms whirled.

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

By HENRY JAMES

People wonder what the little navy men intended to do with the money they were to save by scuttling battleships.

Aerial patrol of forests is to be discontinued for lack of money. However, there is no economy in burning the forests.

Senator Borah on the trail of Semenovff seems to have found a task worthy of his energy.

A wife who was shot five times by her husband recovers and declines to prosecute. Probably his marksmanship will be better next time.

Somebody asks if President Wilson used the word "normalcy." He did not. He is addicted to good English. President Harding is the culprit.

He laughs at goat glands who never felt their pep.

Intimations that at Genoa Lloyd George is coming out of the little end of the horn do not impress. That would be far from his customary role.

The middle west believes that the Mississippi is the father of altogether too many waters.

A trained actor nearly killed a fellow screen actor. Doubtless another move for censorship.

By recalling their treaty promptly Russia and Germany would both be deprived of the pleasure of breaking it later.

No official who proclaims that his letter of resignation is in his pocket should be coaxing to let it stay there.

EASTERN-POINT OF VIEW

SAFEGUARDING WAR PATENTS [Springfield Union]

It is important that Secretary Weeks should succeed in his attempts to get legislation to close the gaps in our patent laws that enable a foreign country to take out rights here that may prove damaging to our national defense in the event of war. Germany, as one of our chief industrial rivals and having a keen interest in all technical matters, has long been active in securing valuable manufacturing rights in other countries. America included, and her efforts in this direction have been renewed since the war.

Whether with a view to a future war or merely for industrial advantage, the Germans are reported to have acquired such holdings in American "key" industries as to call for governmental inquiry. In the late war astonishing evidence of the extent of Germany would both be deprived of the pleasure of systems of the world was exhibited. We want no repetition of this state of affairs, here in the United States. As a matter of principle, whether or not the Germans have ulterior motives in applying for such patents, we should institute a policy that will keep the national defense in the foreground in the developing of our industries.

DEBAUCHING CHINA WITH DRUGS [Christian Century]

Particularly pernicious is the practice of those nations who contribute to the moral downfall of China at a time when she is politically disorganized and unable to protect herself. The sale of narcotics to the Chinese is a scandal of a century standing. Great Britain has realized the iniquity of her opium wars, and now has restricted the amount of the drug that

There is work and business enough for all." Desire says: "I must have a little more. There is never enough."

And Desire grows gouty and full of pains.

In the matter of food. Reason says: "Better stop now." Desire says: "I have not had enough yet." Reason says: "Enough is good as a feast." Desire says: "I am hungry. I want more." And there is the pain and penalty of gluttony.

"A man had a little boat. And sailed away to a little place. With a cargo of corn. Having been told to take as much as his boat would carry. Without price.

And as they loaded his boat he kept asking for a little more. Till the boat sank lower and lower in the water. And at last to the very water's edge. And still he asked for a little more. Until when he got out on the deep water his boat overturned and sank.

And a lot of us are overloading our boats. Asking for just a little more. Till we are at the danger point. In health in spirit, in all of the things that make life wholesome. Reason is cut aside. And we listen only to the dangerous and alluring voice of Desire.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

The police situation in Los Angeles presents peculiar aspects. The chief of the department came to his position after long service as an army officer. He brought with him naturally the military idea of discipline. His honesty of purpose is not questioned. Nevertheless in a short incumbency he has seemed to accomplish little but confusion.

One of the early orders issued by him was "Stop vice in Los Angeles." Surely a large order. A few weeks went by, and observing that vice was still present, he discharged two subordinates and forced the resignation of a third. Unfortunately the men thus humiliated were highly respected. They had distinguished themselves by long and able service, and two had won captaincies.

It is plain enough that the chief of police who is to be effective must have authority. In this instance the chief said that he had good reasons for his course. The discharged men were entitled to a hearing. The head of the department said that if at this hearing they were restored to duty he would resign. He was going to show that he was right. At the hearing, with the fullest opportunity of adducing all his evidence, the chief had to witness the complete vindication of the accused. Apparently there was no evidence against them. But he did not resign.

If the chief's friends are wise they will advise him that he talks too much. Also that the working of moral miracles is an impossibility and a crap game is less dangerous to public safety than a roving band of night robbers.

And on top of all this admonition, comes word that the chief has been removed by the mayor.

Some forest fires have been reported already. They had not been expected so soon. The winter was extremely rainy, and considerable moisture was deemed still to linger as a protection.

It is singular that just at this time the funds for supporting an aerial patrol should have been exhausted and its renewal denied. Congress has some queer ideas, but if it is able to discern economy in permitting the forests to be sacrificed to flames, it is queerer than had been expected.

Recently a young lady reported had occasion to interview a judge of the superior bench. She found him in chambers. His hat was on. His feet had been elevated to the table top. He was chewing a cigar and smoking it.

The judge submitted to the interview. In doing so he moved neither the hat, the feet nor the cigar. The young lady wondered at this a little. She had entertained a rather exalted opinion of the judiciary.

Into the divorce court comes a young woman seeking release from marital bonds. She sets forth that she had answered in the negative forty proposals from the man who finally won her. At last he called with male friends, poked a pistol against her ribs, and with this inducement added, she accepted him. The pistol went along to the court in Orange county where two loving hearts were made to beat as one.

That is a fairly good yarn. Doubtless magistrates engaged in tying the knot often observe the groom coaxing responses from the bride by aiming a forty-four at her during the ceremony. Magistrates are too complaisant. They ought to discourage this sort of thing.

Lady Astor favors equal pay for equal work for men and women. No fault is to be found with her theory. It rests upon justice. Nevertheless to make it operative may be difficult.

Some employers look for cheap labor only. They have been able to get women for less than they could hire men. Thus the women have been given the preference. If there existed a requirement that the pay be the same, would this preference still exist?

Sending out blackmailing letters seems to be a form of amusement appealing to the weak-minded. The citizens who is instructed by mail to put $10,000 into a tomato can and drop it in the alley, usually is the victim of a fool joke, and is in no danger.

However, when the threat is real it is pleasing to catch the blackmailer. In some instances he gets a long sentence, and in the cases that turn out most satisfactorily, becomes the subject of an inquest.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Funny how one gets to understanding his friends, isn't it? If these fellows we see every day and break bread with every second week and pity their stance every third Saturday were some one else's friend we'd think a heap more of them. It's a fact. Just because we see their little weaknesses so well we forget about their good qualities.

Anyhow, I'm that way. I'm continually being surprised into a fever by some friend of mine. There was Pink Parker, for example, who was so called because his whiskers grew red on him. There were years when we all looked on Pink as a hopeless ne'er-do-well. He two-dollared us to extinction. Every time I met Pink, so it seems to me, he borrowed some little, measly, insignificant sum. He always paid the touches, but he left a sour feeling in me. I thought that Pink was too tight to be trusted outdoors in a breeze.

"If I could borrow the money at a decent figure I'd build on that downtown lot of mine," I said to Pink the other day. I was just thinking out loud. You could have knocked me down with a feather when Pink said:

"I have some idle money. I'll let you have what you want."

I've known Pink long enough to be able to demand an explanation and get it. Pink said that years ago he learned that he could not be trusted with loose change. If he had a dollar he spent it. If he had fifty he either gave a banquet or made the first payment on a steam yacht. So he invented a new system. He dumped every penny in the savings bank each week, after the week's bills were paid. Then he borrowed as he went.

"It was hard on my friends," said Pink. "I know they looked on me as a niker, but I couldn't very well tell 'em about it, could I?"

At first, he said, his idea was mere preservation. He knew that when he got old enough to bend at the knee no one would care to pay his living expenses just to have him around. They could get an iron dog for the lawn a good deal cheaper. But by and by he began to take an interest in that growing bank account. Then he found out that he could keep his cash in his pocket.

"I've tried to get Pink to take charge of our hustling department," the banker told me later. "Any young man who can come through as he did has something to tell the world. But he says he can't afford it." Affidavits must accompany the next man I pick for a piker.

DO YOU KNOW THAT?

About fifty out of every hundred natives examined in two villages near Lake Maracaibo, Venezuela, showed infection from malaria.

An Australian investigator reports that perfectly ripe, dry grain can be stored without injury in an atmosphere of nitrogen or carbon dioxide while the eggs of weevil and other beetles cannot develop.

It has been proved that the earth as a whole enjoys a somewhat warmer climate when sunspots are scarce than when they are numerous. The difference of temperature is most pronounced with the tropics, but is nowhere large enough to be of much practical importance. Norway is investigating the possibilities for electrifying its and other beetles cannot develop.

LADIES OF BLUE LODGE GUESTS AT DINNER

Real Southern Cooking Served to 250 Amid Dainty Flowers

Members of Blue Lodge F. and A. M., played host to the ladies Saturday night giving them a real honest to goodness southern dinner of baked ham, sweet potatoes and other tempting viands not to mention the pie a la mode, so dear to masculine hearts.

W. H. Reynolds was chairman of the refreshment committee, and A. H. Lapham, chairman in general, assisted by Warren Roberts, Seraphim Pia, Emil Kiefer, C. L. Peckham and Dan Flynn. Covers were laid for 250 and the tables were lovingly in their garniture of Cherokee roses and fern blossoms.

A program followed the dinner over which the ladies were enthusiastic and the lodge had reason to feel it had done itself proud.

Mrs. Virginia Freeman sang "The Nightingale" by Ward Stevens, and "Spring" by Oscar Wilde, her accompanist being Mrs. R. T. Young.

Mrs. Leslie Eames sang "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" from the opera of Samson and Delilah by Saint-Saens, and Paul Laurence Dunbar's poem, "Dawn" in the musical setting of Leonia.

The piano numbers were played by Miss Helene Morgan—"Intermezzo" by Lesthetick, and an etude by Bortkietier.

Homer Miller was to have presented a slight-of-hand program but was prevented from coming until too late. An exceedingly amusing monologue by Dan Flynn completed the entertainment.

MRS. OCKER GIVES SUNDAY RECEPTION

Guests Entertained with Interesting Program of Incidental Music

Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker entertained on the 23rd with another of her delightful Sunday afternoon receptions.

Conversation was pleasantly interrupted at times by vocal numbers contributed by Mr. Clifford Merton and Miss Pearl Witherbee, both of Los Angeles, Miss George Booth from the same city supplying the piano accompaniment.

Mr. Merton's repertoire included: "La Donna e Mobile" from the opera of "Rigoletto"; "At Dawning" (Cadmán); "Kashimori Love Song" (Finden); "Passion Is But an Ember" (Lohr); and "The Land of the Sky Blue Water" (Cadmán). Mr. Merton has a fine baritone voice and interprets his songs with a dramatic intensity that adds in no small degree to the interest of his performance. Also, he sings with youthful confidence and enthusiasm.

Miss Witherbee, mezzo-soprano, who has a most charming personality, sang beautifully in natural, unaffected manner "The Creole Lovers" by Dudley Buck, "Waiting" by Millard and "Jest Her Way" (Aikens).

Mrs. Nan Hillary Harrison, who has been spending the winter in California but whose heart is true to her home state—Texas—is a newspaper woman and the author of some clever verse. Yielding to the solicitations of her hostess she recited a few, beginning with "Down in Texas," following it up with excerpts from a poem about California, "My Kitten," written for juvenile readers, found a response in the older audience and great applause.

The audience also had the pleasure of seeing a copy of Mrs. Harrison's book of verse in which was an autograph tribute from Helen Keller, the celebrated young woman who is deaf, dumb and blind, but has overcome all three defects.

After meeting her at a lecture before a Texas women's club and for a pleasant conversation with her, Miss Harrison sent her the little volume, not expecting she would remember, the author. The poems were read to Miss Keller by her secretary and so delighted the recipient that she sent her thanks in autograph form, written in text as beautifully printed as the pencil she saw every turn of the page. It is a pleasant conversation with Mrs. Harrison and to the guests was an interesting demonstration of sight without eyes, provoking some discussion of modern miracles and the threshold of knowledge we are just crossing.

These features did not exhaust the pleasures of the afternoon, however, for on the floor above was a most interesting art exhibit of the work of William Justema of this city, who is an ardent disciple of new cults in painting. It has been predicted that he may found a new school. He himself says he is feeling his way and trying to express in form and color what he feels. He seems to think that the artist who would really create rather than copy or hold the mirror up to nature must get back to the primitive and so his work suggests Egyptian and Assyrian influence. His portraits do not pretend to be likenesses but rather his expression of the soul and aura of the subject as they suggest themselves to his consciousness. He is feeling his way and does not himself know just what he wants nor where he is going. He is neither a realist nor impressionist nor a cubist nor impressionist nor a realist and is too serious about it to be posterish, but among the interesting features of the exhibit were some studies designed as suggestions for fancy dances that would at once attract attention by their novelty and daring in color and character, also some advertising designs likely to find a market in San Francisco, where the artist has been advised to take them. Miss Jeannette Abel of the art department of Glendale High assisted Mr. Justema in interpreting the studies, which were in crayon or water color, and they excited the greatest interest.

Tea and sandwiches were served at the close of the afternoon with Mrs. Ralph Meeker presiding at the tea urn.

The guest list included Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Chase, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Childers, Baron and Baroness De Ropp, Mlle. Clemence Dieudonne, Mrs. Charles Parrish, Mrs. Robert McCourt, Mrs. Daniel Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Joseph, Major E. W. Jones, Mrs. Jeannette Abel, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Woodward, William Justema, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Beamon, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Worley, Chester Merton, Miss Georgia Booth, Leonard J. Krankish, Ralph E. Brown, Dr. C. C. Young of Los Angeles, Mrs. Nan Hillary Harrison of Los Angeles, Dr. and Mrs. Colin Cable, Miss Corinne Orff, Edwin D. Moore, Viola Ellis, Miss Rachin D. Adams and Charles G. Adams of Los Angeles, Mrs. Glenwood Jones, Miss Pearl Wither-

BUNGO PARTY IS ENTERTAINED AT MONTGOMERY'S

Mrs. C. R. Hurst Is Honored by Mother at Old Home Saturday

Charming in every detail was the pretty "bunko" party which Mrs. C. R. Hurst of 415 South Central avenue entertained on Saturday afternoon in honor of her daughter, Mrs. C. R. Hurst. Mrs. Hurst was Miss Menola Budd before her marriage.

Pink tulips were used in decorating the spacious living room and in the dining room was found a table beautifully decorated in pink and white. At the close of the afternoon, a delicious 4-course luncheon was served, places being marked by dainty place cards and pink favor baskets filled with nuts and candies. In the center of the table was a large angel food cake sitting in a bed of pink rose petals made from crepe paper. At each end were similar baskets filled with other dainty cakes. Each guest found at her place, a tiny French bouquet.

The afternoon, for the most part, was devoted to the playing of "bunko," high score being won by Mrs. Koffman and second high by Mrs. Walter W. Jones. Mrs. Koffman received a beautiful salad bowl, and Mrs. Jones two crystal candle holders.

During the course of the afternoon, Master Stanton Montgomery, brother of the honored guest, entered the living room wheeling a tea wagon filled with pretty gifts for the honoree, which came as a surprise to her. Miss Marion Jones, an accomplished pianist, rendered several solos.

Guests for the afternoon included the honoree, Mrs. C. R. Hurst, her mother-in-law, Mrs. J. R. Hurst, Mrs. Roscoe Puffer, Sr., Chester Kling, Mrs. Frances Gordon, Mrs. Agnes Verity, Mrs. Roscoe Puffer, Jr., Mrs. Walter W. Jones, and her mother, Mrs. Emma Batz, Mrs. Koffman, Miss Louise Ayala, Miss Marion Jones, Miss Dorothy Hunt, Miss Ruth Ryan, and Master Stanton Montgomery.

MAGNOLIA P. T. A. GIVES A BENEFIT ENTERTAINMENT

The entertainment given Saturday afternoon and evening at the branch library auditorium, Los Feliz and Brand, was a great success. It was a benefit for the Magnolia P. T. A. of which Mrs. Joseph Griffin is president, and yielded between $35 and $40.

A moving picture presented with the new picture machine owned jointly by the Acacia, Cerritos and Magnolia schools, constituted part of the program and was supplemented by recitations by Mrs. E. B. Moore and Mrs. E. E. Harwood, and by fancy dances executed by Eleanor and Genevieve March. The proceeds will be applied on the purchase of a Victrola for Magnolia school.

LEAGUE BASEBALL FRIDAY

The next league baseball game in which Glendale High's team will play will take place Friday, April 28, with the Covina team matched against the local twirlers.

TROPICO FOLKS WELCOME WINNARD

The big man of a little town always seems to be a lot busier than the big man of a big town. At least he is more excited.

RECIPES

POTATOES WITH MINT
(To serve with roast lamb.)
Cook new potatoes in boiling salted water, to which one or two branches of mint have been added, until done. Drain, sprinkle with salt and shake over fire. Turn into a hot dish and set a mint leaf upon each potato, either the one from the saucepan or uncooked leaves.

ORANGE, CRESS AND NUT SALAD
Remove the peel from seedless oranges, cut the pulp in slices of uniform thickness and set one slice overlapping another in a wreath on a bed of cress; fill the center with shredded endive and set half a pecan nut meat on each slice of orange. Serve with French dressing made with lemon juice in place of vinegar.

CORNFLAKE GRIDDLE CAKES
Sift together one cup of flour, one-half teaspoon soda, two teaspoons baking powder and half a teaspoon salt. Add one egg very light, add one cup thick sour milk, half a cup of sweet milk and two tablespoons melted shortening. Mix and bake on hot, well-greased griddle. If too thick add a little more sweet milk.

CHILDREN OF THE MRS. TYNER HONORS NIECE

Parents Enjoy Sight of Offspring in Clever Farce

At intermediate school Friday night was again demonstrated the well-known fact that parents keenly enjoy the privilege of seeing and hearing their own and their friends' children play their parts in drama, comedy or musical entertainment. The benefit given by the children of the school for the P. T. A. was an unequalled success from beginning to end. The auditorium was filled with the delighted friends of the boys and girls, who played their parts most successfully. In the farce, "Woman's Rights," which was given by pupils trained by Miss Payne, Leonard Ertel, as the hen-pecked husband, won the sympathy and admiration of the audience present, as he meekly suffered, and later boldly defied the domineering suffragette wife, as played by Elizabeth McGee, who became the most reasonable of spouses when convinced of the error of her ways by her husband, ably seconded by his fellow-sufferer as played by Raymond Ratcliffe, at the census taker, played by Benny Hogue.

The pupils of Miss Tyler and Miss Grider sang "America" and "Holy Night," and gave a number of recitations, all in Spanish, and all well given, to the great pleasure of their admiring friends.

This was followed by a whistling solo, "Morning," from the Peer Gynt suite, Grieg, by Helen White in her own inimitable way. She also gave another in her most pleasing manner, between acts I and II of the Cinderella play, while Preston Hanning delighted everyone with his song, "Tuck Me to Sleep in My Old Tucky Home," between acts II and III of the play. Cinderella players were trained by Miss Gladys Sharpe, assisted by her sister, Miss Margaret Sharpe, who designed the costumes and stage effects, all of which were carried out most effectively.

In the play itself all spoke distinctly and surprised even their most hopeful admirers in the way in which they became for the time being the ones they were picturing.

Miss Dorothy Forbes charmed as Cinderella, Catherine Browne and Edith Elliot as the proud sisters couldn't have been more haughty; Julia Pelly was the daintiest of fairy godmothers; Melville Walker, Ennis Olmstead, Maurice Tolle and Howard Richards as courtiers exactly fitted their parts. Howard Retberg as herald and Howard Smits as the court fool were two of the real hits of the evening. Dorothy Allen and Marjorie Faulker were beautiful court ladies; William Andre and Richard Ambrosch were brave as the royal guards; Carol Toll, a most successful attendant to the prince; Donald Murray, who was all that could be asked of any Prince Charming; Bruce Harshbarger as the king and Winifred Hunt as the queen, acted as though they had surprised even their own parents.

A moving picture presented with the new picture machine owned jointly by the Acacia, Cerritos and Magnolia schools, constituted part of the program and was supplemented by recitations by Mrs. E. B. Moore and Mrs. E. E. Harwood, and by fancy dances executed by Eleanor and Genevieve March. The proceeds will be applied on the purchase of a Victrola for Magnolia school.

ART STUDENTS TO ATTEND EXHIBITION

canvas into pictures of beauty and appeal. Mr. Sayre is a westerner and his pictures seem to have caught part of his love for his native land.

Among the statuary to be displayed are three by H. Romanelli; "The Last Chance," "For Our Country" and "Lincoln." C. Gruenfeld is represented by his bronze "Indian Boy." Frank C. Wamole's "Meditation" is another of the masterpieces on display, along with hundreds of statues of equal merit but too numerous to mention. Unique and intensely interesting, among the many features of Glendale's first art exhibit to be held at the chamber of commerce building starting next Tuesday, is the exhibit of water color paintings of mountain and desert regions by F. Grayson Sayre.

Mr. Sayre, whose home is in Glendale, has in the past few years made many sketching trips to the remote desert regions of Arizona and Southern California, bringing back with him many vivid color impressions of the desert and its full of charm and weird beauty that is found only in vast lonely stretches where the shimmering heat vibrates above purple canyons and the blue vapors sweep against distant ranges.

Mr. Sayre has recently returned from San Francisco where he held one of the most interesting and successful exhibits ever placed in that city.

His technique is entirely original and he reproduces with remarkable fidelity the vibrating quality of the ever changing hues of color which under varying conditions hang over mountain canyons.

One often sees a painting that appears to be at first but is something photographic and soon loses its inspiring enchantment, but not so with his paintings which are painted in tempera water colors of the most wonderful shades of lavender, purples and blues, they are paintings that actually grow on you and are extremely restful.

Some of the large paintings shown are to be taken to New York this fall for an exhibition to be held there.

"For Christ and the Church" is the title of a new work by Mr. Sayre. It is a religious picture and will be shown at 6:30 each Sunday. And carry a full head of steam.

MRS. TYNER HONORS NIECE

Parents Enjoy Sight of Offspring in Clever Farce

Windsor G. E. Tyner of 534 East Windsor road, entertained with a 4-course dinner Saturday evening in honor of her niece, Mrs. Dora Alexander Tilly from Omaha, Nebraska. Mrs. Tyner was assisted in serving by her daughter, Mrs. Margaret James.

The dinner table was centered with a large basket of Marsh-Nell roses and ferns. Favor baskets were of white crepe paper filled with salted nuts and places for six guests were marked with dainty place cards. The Japanese lanterns, hanging throughout the rooms gave a pretty Oriental effect.

After the dinner had been served, a pleasant social evening was enjoyed.

CHANGE YOUR AIR AND GET HEAT

That many Glendale homes, although well heated, are not sufficiently supplied with oxygen in the winter months, is the statement of a prominent eastern health authority who is visiting in Southern California.

"You are certainly to be congratulated on your mild climate," says this man, "but there are many days that heat is needed and on these days the majority of homes are deficient in fresh air. Nothing is more injurious to the health than insufficient oxygen, for it is the oxygen in the lungs that purifies the blood. The air in a home should be completely changed every 15 minutes at least."

SPORTS CLOTHES DANCE PROVES BIG EVENT

Bard Section Fills Odd Fellows Hall With Gay Clad Happiness

The Sports Clothes dance and card party given Friday night at the new Odd Fellow's hall by the Shakespear section of the Tuesday Afternoon club, of which Mrs. A. H. Montgomery is curator, was joyful to the last minute. Everyone had a wonderful time and the entire evening was a success both socially and financially.

Upon entering the lobby, one found pedestals on which rested little green vases filled with Japanese marigolds, carrying out a color scheme of green and gold. From the chandeliers hung varied length streamers in the same colors, which cast a soft light over the jolly crowd.

Music for dancing was furnished by the "Gaiety Four," who seemed to take pleasure in making things lively for the dancers by playing their "jazziest" music.

The two card rooms were occupied, those caring more for 500 in one room and the bridge players in the other. Both rooms were fairly crowded and many beautiful prizes were awarded, having been donated by various club members.

Ladies' prizes awarded for high score at bridge were won by Mrs. J. L. Flint, Mrs. Clader, Mrs. W. L. Twining, Miss Andrew and Miss McIntyre. Gentlemen's prizes for bridge went to Dr. J. L. Flint, Dr. Leiss, H. N. McMullen and D. Packard.

At 500 ladies' prizes were won by Mrs. C. S. Packer, Mrs. Aicholz, Mrs. L. Abel, Mrs. Homer Lockwood, and Mrs. T. D. Watson. Gentlemen's prizes went to J. F. Hearnshaw, E. R. Swearingen, John Roman and William Ward.

Much credit is due the committee in charge for the wonderful success of the evening. The committee at the door included Mrs. Walter Jones and Mrs. W. E. Halstead. Those in the reception line were Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Puffer, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Whiting, Dr. and Mrs. Colin Cable and Mrs. Bert Ward and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Vandewater.

The punch bowl was presided over by Mrs. O. E. Von Oven and Mrs. William Hunter, and the punch was delicious.

In the card rooms the committees in charge were Mrs. Chester King, Mrs. E. L. Young and Mrs. E. W. Kingsley, Mrs. Homer Lockwood, Mrs. F. S. Card, Mrs. P. E. Webb and Mrs. H. W. Ralston were in charge of the check room. The decoration committee included Mrs. Walter Jones, chairman, who was assisted by Mrs. W. E. Halstead and Mrs. F. S. Card.

This affair was given for the benefit of the club's new clubhouse and there were about 250 couples who came out to assist them in making the evening the great success that it proved to be.

Miss Genevieve Bagz of 347 West Acacia avenue, spent Saturday and Sunday as a guest of Miss Leta Friedberg of Los Angeles.

FRAZEE ENTERTAINS SOPHOMORE MATES

Robert Frazee of 211 Millford street entertained a number of his sophomore classmates at a jolly dancing party on Friday evening.

House decorations were beautifully carried out in pink cherokee roses and ferns, and the evening was devoted to dancing and playing of games, after which refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Punch was served during the dancing.

Invited guests included Miss Winifred Parker, Miss Catherine Stofft, Miss Catherine Guthrie, Miss Emma Laura Cooper, Miss Dorothy Houston, Miss Dorothy Finns, Miss Evelyn Hunt, Miss Sarah Chandler, Miss Ruth Dana, Miss Lois Naudain, Miss Margaret Brown, Miss Marjella Webb, Miss Margaret Cook, Miss Cecil Chase, Miss Marie Gray, Miss Lucille Allen, Miss Marie Hearnshaw, Miss Dorothy Osmun and Miss Margaret Longley. Messrs Ralph Von Hoerbeck, Robert Roach, Theodore Hale, Leslie Hatch, Tommy Ward, Burton Kuntzner, William Shinner, Billy Empey, Charley Worley, Boyd Taylor, Harold Mann, Douglas White, Harold Jones, Marlow Doss, Earnest Pomeroy, Fred Hand and Charles Richardson.

FIRST METHODIST SCHOOL ELECTION

The high school department of the First Methodist Sunday school held its election of officers Sunday, the following being chosen: President, Fred Peck to succeed himself; vice-president, Glen Perkins; secretary, Florence Hamilton; treasurer, Julia Holt; pianist, Lillian Hamilton; choirster, Dorothy Pearl. The department is a very active one.

Any great man knows he isn't.

PROGRESSIVE CLUB HOLDS MEETING

Members of the Progressive Business Men's club, in process of organization, met to the number of 13 and had lunch together at the Glen Inn Friday noon, and discussed several matters of civic interest on which they will take definite action later.

It is expected that their charter will be received in the course of a month and that then a definite program will be laid out. Mr. Connel is president of the club and E. B. Sutton secretary.

BARBARA'S

SHOW ME THE MAN who hasn't an especial weakness for pie—home-made pie! And it has always been my experience that there's an especial weakness for berry, cream or rhubarb pie—in the masculine heart! Here's just a word of advice, my dear—stop in at the VIRGINIA BAKE SHOP, 634 E. Broadway—and buy one of their tempting pies—then see what Hubby does! I'd be willing to wager that he'll demand to know why you've been keeping this wonderful secret of delicious pies from him all this time! Perhaps he prefers cream pie—then he will surely enjoy the delectable cream pies made at the Virginia Bake Shop, or maybe it's blackberry, or rhubarb, or apple—no matter what it may be, you'll find them in abundance there! And although only the very best of materials are used, the price is only 25c each!

AS I SHOP HERE AND THERE—around town, I'm always on the alert for the unusual—always trying to reason out the whys and wherefores of the shopper's mind. And, here in BARBARA'S BASKET, you'll find word from the different merchants of Glendale—telling you of the quality of the goods which they carry! Here you'll find suggestions that may be of help to you in your daily shopping—and if so—we'll be oh! so glad, for this is your corner, dear housewife—and it is you we wish to please!

I HAVE A PARTICULAR FONDNESS for the delicious pure pork sausage that is a specialty at the RELIABLE MEAT MARKET, 1592 S. San Fernando Rd., You know it's made it themselves, and that accounts, to my mind, for its absolute purity and deliciousness! Mr. Danner is very particular about the meats which he sells, always careful that they are the very best that the market affords—and, too, with always an eye to the lowness of the price! If you're a resident of that neighborhood you will indeed find it a decided advantage to buy all your meats at the Reliable Meat Market!

IT'S A BY-WORD in our house—"Glendale 2361-W. Please"—for when I'm in need of some groceries, quick and don't want to take the time to go to the store, the GATEWAY MARKET GROCERY, quality and price of the meat which they sell, for—when quality and service are considered, Glendale Market meats are unusually low in price! Mr. Ingledue makes it a point to carry none but the very finest quality meats—and those he manages to sell at the lowest possible margin of profit, by keeping his overhead expenses low! And, too, when you're unable to do your shopping—just phone Glendale 1230—and they'll deliver!

TWENTY MILLION DEAD LETTERS ARE MAILED

"Almost 20,000,000 undelivered letters go to the dead letter office annually and are opened to ascertain the names of the senders," said D. Ripley Jackson, postmaster this morning. He explained that this could be avoided if the senders had written their names and addresses on the upper left-hand corner of the letters before mailing. He warned against putting the return address on the back. Mr. Jackson said that the cost of securing the return of a

Foley's Friendly Fancies

THE PLEASURE DRIVE

JAMES W. FOLEY

We whiz and splash and splosh
As around the corner we swove.
We miss the curb by an inch or so,
And I'm frazzled in every nerve,
We dash by a milkman's cart,
We slip and slide and whizz,
My eyes from their sockets start
And Oh what a joy it is.

We dash along the street,
And we cross in front of a car,
With spinning wheels and fleet,
We stop with a jolt and jar,
And we miss a truck's great wheels
By the breadth of a skinny hair,
And the heart inside of me feels
As if it would jump from there.

I brace my feet on the floor,
My throat has a swollen lump,
My streaming eyes are sore
And I'm praying at every jump.
He looks to the right and left
And tells where the landscapes are,
But of vision I am bereft
For I'm helping to drive the car.

Then it's out and in and out
And around and about and beside,
It's toot and blow and shout,
And Oh what a jolly ride.
It's step on the gas and stop,
It's rut and ruddle and then
I'm up against the top
And down on the seat again.

Oh, it's rattle and slam and jig,
It's jiggle and jolt and jar,
He dodges a child and a cow and pig
And passes another car.
He gets me home alive,
Still breathing, but difficultly,
And he says: "Did you ever drive
With a carefuller man than me?"

JUDGE LOWE TAKES WIFE'S NEW LIZZIE OUT FOR LI'L RIDE

Just Misses Cherry Tree, Mourns Lack of "Cop-Spotter"

At last the motor bug has taken a bite at Police Judge F. H. Lowe. He has succumbed and bought a Ford coupe, but the judge don't say it that way. He says that his wife and son bought it. Anyway you figure, though, the judge is getting to be a regular Barney Oldfield when it comes to "manipulating Lizzie" down the street. This morning he said: "As I backed out of my garage I just missed a cherry tree and I am confident that a better driver than I would have struck it."

An incident is told regarding the purchase of the machine by Judge

Lowe. It is said that after the car was delivered the judge noticed that the mirror that is usually above the driver for the purpose of watching the road to the rear, was missing. The judge called up Jesse Smith and asked "How come?"

Jesse is alleged to have laughed and said, "Judge, I didn't think you wanted one of those things on your car." The judge asked what objection he might have to such a mirror and Smith is alleged to have replied, "Well, I based my decision on the fact that the mirror referred to is technically known as a 'cop-spotter,' and I did not think that you would need one."

The grave question is: In the event that Judge Lowe neglects to look at his speedometer and is cited to appear in police court for his neglect, just what will he be—judge or defendant? After wearing out two pencils and chewing up a cigar the Press reporter asked the judge what would happen in the event such a thing happened, and made the bright suggestion—at least it sounded bright to the reporter at the time—that in his judicial position Judge Lowe could fine Citizen F. H. Lowe, and after a severe lecture could suspend. The judge informed said reporter that in such a case Citizen Lowe would be cited to appear in Judge Owen Emory's court and would have the same chance as any other citizen—the chance to pay a fine—and then the suggestion did not look so bright.

IVANHOE HILLS ATTRACTS BIG ATTENTION

New Subdivision Three Miles from Broadway on Sale

"Ivanhoe Hills is attracting a great deal of attention from Glendale residents, particularly those living in the northern part of the city." This statement was made yesterday by H. A. McMullen, sales manager of the property. "One of the reasons for this," he said, "is that the distance from Ivanhoe to the business district of Los Angeles is about half that from north Glendale."

Ivanhoe Hills, the first unit of the picturesque estate to be subdivided, is topographically a continuation of Griffith park. It is but three miles from Broadway and the unit now being sold fronts on busy Glendale boulevard. Much of the property overlooks Silver lake, the largest and probably the most beautiful body of water in the city of Los Angeles.

Looking north from the slopes of the hills of Ivanhoe one may obtain a view new to Los Angeles home sites. For these hills, particularly those in the unit now being sold, afford a birds-eye view of the San Fernando valley and the Sierra Madre mountains, with Glendale nestling at their feet.

SCOUT TROOP NO. 2 TUJUNGA WATER DEDICATES FLAG AND POLE

Ceremony Made Possible by Gifts of J. J. Berlinger and A. A. Bartler

The warm afternoon sun shone soothingly down upon the members of Scout Troop No. 2, and a number of their friends, who gathered at the home of Charles L. Chandler on Canada boulevard Saturday afternoon to participate in the raising of the troop's flag. The flag was donated by J. J. Berlinger, and the pole was given the boys by A. A. Bartler.

In preparation for the ceremony the guests were arranged around the space that has been opened in the dense jungle on the home place for the use of the scout. The scouts were arranged in military form at the east of the pole, which is located in the center of the open space.

After the sounding of reveille, Mr. Chandler, owner of the property on which the cabin and pole are located, gave a short talk in which he told how glad he is to be of service to the boys and that he is glad he has a place that is suitable for a "hide-out" for this excellent band of youngsters.

H. Benjamin Robison, chairman of the occasion, then introduced Attorney Owen C. Emery, who said in part: "There is so much I'd like to tell you. One thing that comes to my mind is that I have stood many times and saw the American flag raised. Each time the thought has come to me, 'What is the service of the flagpole?' It is high, strong, straight and all that—it is the support of the most wonderful flag in the world. The flag stands for you and I. If you and I are not strong, straight, and our ideals are not high and lofty, we fail to support the flag as we should. If our forefathers had not felt a burning love for our flag, this flag would not be here at this time."

"We must stand for God and country, for no country is great that does not worship God, and continually stand for God our country will prosper. The scouts did a wonderful work during the war. All of you sold liberty bonds and did many other things that assisted materially in winning the war. America is proud of her scouts."

"I am a member of the 'big brother' committee of the Glendale Elks. The purpose of this committee is to get big brothers for any youngster in this city who is in need of one. The work of this big brother is to give advice and assistance to his 'little buddy.' If you know of any boy needing assistance, please let us know. I wish you boys success and I hope that every troop in Glendale and the entire country will succeed."

"I can remember when I first saluted the flag," said Harold Benner, Glendale scout executive. "This is one thing that I will never forget. I was on a camping trip with a number of other scouts in Griffith park. I knew nothing of scouting or camping, but the salute to the flag that day impressed itself on me as nothing ever did before."

"It was not so long ago that the scouts of this country numbered only 30,000. Now there are 500,000 boy scouts in this country. We remember what our flag stands. It stands for liberty and freedom, religious freedom and democracy. We must uphold these principles always. This is one of the finest scout troops to be found anywhere. It is one of the finest, cleanest, most manly troop of boys in the state, and we are all proud of you."

In their clubhouse or cabin, the troop has one of the finest meeting places to be found anywhere. It is located on one side of the round open space and consists of three rooms. The main room is about 15 by 25 feet in size and is the banquet room, dining room and auditorium combined. Just off this is the kitchen, with wood range and everything necessary for the service of a scout banquet, while next to this is the ante-room or office, which is also equipped with scout paraphernalia.

The rugs for the cabin were donated by Mrs. Helen Sawyer; the beautiful little phonograph was given by H. S. Webb; the large oak table was donated by Dr. Walter B. Symp; the chairs were given by K. K. Bueliner; the draperies and andirons by W. H. Packard and the windows by Mrs. Wood. Many other donations in the way of money, books, etc., were given by Glendale people who are interested in the boys. The lumber and other material for this cabin cost the boys something like $450. They put the building up themselves and it is certainly a credit to them. The builders for the large stone fireplace and kitchen chimney were gathered by the boys, who also did the work of erecting these features.

Scout troop No. 2 consists of Benjamin Robison, scoutmaster; H. ## TUJUNGA WATER RATE HEARING IS BEGUN

Application for Readjustment of Rates Is Heard by Commission

TUJUNGA, April 24.—The much discussed hearing of the application of the Haines Canyon Water company for readjustment of rates began this morning before representatives of the state railroad commission. The Tujunga Chamber of Commerce has retained H. W. Hawley, an engineer of experience, to represent the consumers at the hearing.

The Verdugo Hills Business Association has appointed a committee composed of F. M. Ashby, Wallace M. Morgan, Dr. E. P. Theobald, G. J. Fischer and Major P. J. Blake to take up with the commission the matter of a non-user rate on unoccupied land. This plan has not been included in the chamber of commerce presentation of the case, and although it is agreed that a tax on unoccupied land such as proposed would be equitable and just, it is not known whether or not the railroad commission would look with favor on such a proposal.

The committee from the business association has also been instructed to take up the matter of safeguarding the present users of water against shortage that might result in taking in land outside the present zones established by the water company for service.

Hageman's are Surprised
Mr. and Mrs. Holmes Hageman were delightfully surprised on Saturday when a group of their friends dropped in for a housewarming of their beautiful new home on North Stevens way. The surprise brought bountiful refreshments which were served later. In the evening, and one of the delightful social times for which the people of Tujunga are noted was enjoyed. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Jones and son, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lang, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace M. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Wilmet Parcher, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Darlington, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Miller and son Jimmy, Mrs. Fairfield, Miss Zoe Gilibert, and the Hageman children—Hazel, Myrtle, Neva, Norma and Esther.

Quien Sabe Club Meets
A social meeting of the Quien Sabe club was held on Saturday evening at the home of Miss Stella Wieman, at the corner of Pine and El Centro streets. Novel and amusing games were played during the evening and delicious refreshments were served. Those present were Miss May Manley, Miss Eleanor Manley, Mrs. Louise Colby, Miss Stella Wieman, Miss Lois Wieman, Miss Beulah Statts, Miss Helene Franke, Miss Frances Morgan, Miss Mary Williams, Miss Eppert, Ernest Anthony, Earl Benner, C. H. Beck, Carroll Parker and Don Wieman.

Mrs. W. T. Johnson Honored
Mrs. James Robbins and Mrs. Alice A. Carr entertained at tea and a shower at the home of Mrs. Carr on Greely street, on Sunday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Robbins' sister, Mrs. W. T. Johnson. Guests included Mrs. P. J. Blake, Mrs. A. J. Scribner, Sr., Mrs. Lloyd Halferty, Mrs. Frank Mack, Mrs. Theo Perner, Mrs. Fred Good, Mrs. E. T. Sweet, Mrs. S. H. Adams, Mrs. G. M. Insley, Mrs. Nelson Jones, Mrs. B. B. Reynolds, Miss Zoe Gilibert, Miss Ann Griffith, Miss Martha Cruikshank, Miss Katherine Crews, Miss Frances Morgan.

Wieman is Injured
Don Wieman, playground director, and scoutmaster of the Tujunga troop of scouts, is laid up with a badly injured knee. The knee was hurt while Wieman was playing football at the University of Michigan last year, and was twisted out of place again last Saturday when he slipped while moving a large rock.

Woman's Guild Meets
The Woman's Guild of the Church of the Ascension held a special session today at 2 o'clock at the church. The meeting was called to pack the missionary box which has been in preparation during Lent.

Legion Entertainment Successful
The entertainment given by the American Legion came to the close of a successful two nights run on Saturday. Every feature of the program was well presented, and the show as a whole was very pleasing.

sen, William Bradbury, Harold Hall, Fred Andrews, Leland Anderson.
Associate members are Willard Roberts, Stillman Chase, Burton Kuntner, Ferrel Morse, Robert Frazee, Charles Worley, Leslie Hatch, Thomas Wood and Edwin Dean.
Saturday evening the boys of this troop enjoyed a supper and wailer roast around the campfire. A ghost story was told by H. Benjamin Robison, after which the camp phonograph was brought out for an outdoor concert. Mrs. Helen Sawyer and Mr. Chandler favored the boys with vocal solos.

J. E. BARNEY PUTS 'FIRST LOVE' IS ORGANIZATION IN BUDDY DRIVE

Offers a 50-50 Split on All Real Estate Commissions to the Fund

The first real estate man to enlist for the big drive for funds through the Glendale Daily Press to build five little shacks for Glendale's buddies at La Crescenta was J. E. Barney.

Fifty per cent of all commissions will be paid to the fund, Mr. Barney, whose office is at 143 South Brand boulevard, telephone 1918-J, announced.

"This offer stands good for one week, from April 25 until May 1." Just what this means is illustrated by the commission on a house of say $5000. The commission at 5 per cent would be $250. Half of it would be $125.

One hundred and twenty-five dollars would be approximately one-tenth of the amount sought, which would be enough to build the five little houses.

The sale of one $5000 house would build approximately one-half of one of the little houses.

In another column will be seen Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday the bargains in homes that are listed with Mr. Barney.

"Of course I shall have to pay my agents their full commission on every sale they make," explained Mr. Barney. "I want to make this contribution to the buddies fund myself."

"The properties we list in our advertisements are good values and the price has not been advanced for this week. Instead, we have studied to get them a little better so that in the final result we may have a large share in building of the buddy houses."

STORY WORKING 'FIRST LOVE' IS

Constance Binney Comes to Glendale Theatre with Homely Romance

"Factory girls ought to get a great kick out of 'First Love,'" said Manager Howe of the Glendale theatre today, in speaking of the latest Constance Binney picture, which will show at his playhouse today.

"For," he continued, "First Love" is a very interesting and accurate study of how working girls of moderate means live and love. Scenes were taken in a great textile factory, insuring absolutely accurate atmosphere.

"There are all types in the picture, the hard-working old father and mother at home, the speeders who endanger their lives at factory machines to gain more money—and the sleek young man who are too willing to accept the adoration and loyalty of these simple girls."

"First Love," to sum it all up, is an interesting cross-section of human life as lived by the working people of our country. It is a story that will have an appeal to a great many different classes of people."

Supporting Miss Binney is an excellent cast including Warner Baxter, George Webb, Betty Schade, George Hernandez, Fannie Midgely, Edward Johnson, Agnes Adams and Maxine Elliott Hicks. Sonya Levien wrote the story, which was scenarized by Percy Heath and Percy Stauffer. Maurice Campbell directed, with supervision by Elmer Harris.

Tell a man in a photograph gallery to "look natural," and his eyes pop out and show their whites, he becomes pale and grins in a sickly manner.

That Chenille rug—and why she bought a Royal

When a Royal demonstrator called at a certain home recently, he was shown a Chenille rug, 9 x 12 in size, and was told that it had been cleaned regularly every week.

The demonstrator went over it with his Royal for 5 1/4 minutes, emptied the bag, weighed the contents—and found that 14 ounces of dirt had just come out of that "clean" Chenille rug.

With the Royal the demonstrator then showed that the upholstered furniture, hangings, mattresses and the like, were no "cleaner," than the Chenille rug.

Then he explained the convenient payment plan on which Royals are sold by us—and she bought then and there.

She hadn't known before how much dirt ordinary cleaning methods fail to get—or how light and handy and thorough the Royal is.

Have a Royal demonstrator call, put him to work on one of your rugs—and see what the Royal does and how easily it does it.

Courtesy is a First Principle With Us

The first thing in our business is to know all there is to be known about the care and repair of storage batteries.

But we can't for a minute forget that it is not only what we do but the way we do it that counts.

Our way is always the courteous way. You may be sure that we will treat you just as we would want you to treat us if you were the battery service man and we were the car owner.

Bring your battery in. If it's a Willard Battery you're to be congratulated. But you will get the same attention, the same courtesy and the same service whether it is a Willard or not.
