People Refuse To Endorse School Program

BOTH ISSUES FAIL TO GET TWO-THIRDS MAJORITY REQUIRED

Three Precincts in Valley Give Large Margin But Voters in Glendale Reject Projects Decisively

CAVE MAN'S TOMB SEALED FOREVER

Cement Applied to Crevice, Shutting Collins From Outside World

SAND CAVE, Ky., Feb. 18.—To make sure that Floyd Collins will not be disturbed in his Sand Cave tomb 75 feet below the surface, workers today were sealing the crevice with cement.

This was decided upon after H. T. Carmichael, chief of the rescue crew which strove frantically to reach Collins while he was alive, abandoned plans to set off a huge charge of dynamite in the rescue shaft that would shake all the loose rock and talus together.

While Carmichael and engineers were conferring in regard to the last "clean up" work to be done around the scene of the epic struggle to save a human from death, miners, scientists, engineers, surgeons, military men and the scores of others who have assisted in the work, were leaving for their homes in various parts of the country.

Defiant Nature. Meanwhile Floyd Collins sleeps in the tomb he perhaps would have chosen. There he will sleep forever. Nature which has sneered and mocked at man's puny efforts to bring him forth, is taking further steps to seal his mausoleum irrevocably.

A great crack appeared at the base of the cliff which overhangs the entrance to the cave. It is now six inches wide and the ground in front of the cliff seems to be sinking. Composed of treacherous, shifting muck even before the rescue operations started, the underground strata which have been disturbed by the sinking of the shaft and tunnels, are again seeking to adjust themselves. It is likely that the ground will sink until all the natural passageways have been closed.

Winton Motor Founder Dies En Route to L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18.—W. G. Callow, owner and founder of the Winton Motor Car Co., of Cleveland, Ohio, died today aboard a train en route from Tucson, Ariz., to Los Angeles.

School Bond Election

The defeat of the city school bond issue of $1,200,000, and the defeat of the $1,200,000 high school bond issue at yesterday's election is no indication that a significant number of people of the two school districts are opposed to providing NECESSARY buildings and equipment for the school systems.

The vote at yesterday's election substantiated the claim of those who, prior to the election, advanced the argument that the bond issue totals were unnecessarily high. The further claim that at this particular time the taxpayers were willing and ready to sanction what was actually NEEDED for the schools, but would not approve of the program presented by the "educational interests" was upheld at the polls yesterday. In other words, the people showed they are against spending money beyond present requirements.

It appears to The Glendale Evening News that the proper course for the school authorities to now pursue would be to make a CAREFUL estimate of the amount of money needed to provide buildings and equipment to serve the pupils of the present and immediate future and offer such a program to the people in a business-like way.

Flag-waving, propaganda and hysteria will NOT stampede the people into extravagance—even where the schools are concerned. Certainly the "educational interests" realize that fact now.

Bear this in mind—the people of the two school districts want to provide ample school facilities, and to give out any intimation that such is not the case is an injustice to the community, but the people will NOT swallow an extravagant program, no matter what efforts are made to disguise it.

Some time ago, when it was proposed to consolidate the two school systems, The Glendale Evening News cautioned that the plan should not be hastily acted upon and that any attempt to mix politics with the school systems should be stamped down. Efforts to consolidate the systems were then dropped.

Now The Glendale Evening News is NOT opposed to junior high schools, the operation of the schools under one system or any plan to IMPROVE the schools and secure co-operation and increased efficiency at a REDUCTION IN COST to the people. This newspaper, however, IS opposed to LITTLE POLITICIANS entering into DEALS and generally using the schools for a political football. Such tactics on the part of LITTLE POLITICIANS, be they for sport, revenue or personal advancement, will be met with opposition on the part of The Glendale Evening News.

Junior high schools, consolidation or merger of the districts, operation under one board, elimination of double expense—plans by which there is a saving for the taxpayers and increased efficiency is obtained—should and MUST receive support. BUT THE PEOPLE THEMSELVES, THE PEOPLE WHO PAY THE BILLS, MUST EXPRESS THEIR WISHES ON THE PLANS.

Any attempt to hurry through a plan for the benefit of a few and at the expense of the many will be frowned upon. The people want to know WHERE they are going—and WHY. In other words, the people are paying for the bills and they want to know WHAT they are paying for. So, EVERY detail of ANY proposed change in the school system MUST be given daylight—AND NOT HURRIED THROUGH WITH A HURRAH. The time to investigate is NOW—not afterward.

FLYER KILLED WHEN PLANE CRASHES

Fellow Officer Is Severely Burned In Accident at Yuma, Ariz., Field

YUMA, Ariz., Feb. 18.—One officer was killed and another seriously burned when one of seven planes from the navy air base at San Diego crashed to the ground in landing here today.

The name of the dead officer was not learned, but it is said he was piloting the two-seater when it crashed after circling over the field preparatory to making a landing. The officer who was severely burned was riding as a passenger in the plane.

The crash was caused by the gas-line fuel line breaking when the plane crashed. The tiny flame quickly spread to the fuel tank and an explosion followed. Persons who were at the field rushed to the burning mass of wreckage and succeeded in pulling the two bodies from the blazing cockpits.

The seven planes were on an inspection tour, it is said, and left Mare Island at San Diego this morning.

GLORIA SWANSON NOW IN HOSPITAL

Departure for America Is Delayed, Operation Need Arising Suddenly

PARIS, Feb. 18.—Gloria Swanson, famous American film star, was hurriedly and mysteriously removed from the Plaza Athenee hotel at 1:30 o'clock this morning and taken to a hospital, where it was said an operation was performed. Miss Swanson recently became the bride of Marquis De La Falaise.

Film friends of the marchioness and her husband gathered at the St. Lazare to bid them farewell in their scheduled departure on the 10:05 a. m. boat train to catch the liner France for America were astounded to learn from officials of the French line that Miss Swanson had been operated on and was in a hospital.

Miss Swanson's two children and their governess caught the boat train per schedule and will sail on the France.

Marquis De La Falaise De La Coudraye said to International News: "Dr. Vaudecel operated on Gloria at 2 o'clock this morning in his private hospital in the Boulevard Montmorency. The operation was entirely successful. He hopes Gloria will be able to leave the hospital within a week.

"The operation became suddenly necessary last night as a result of Gloria's continual rehearsing of a film scene which necessitated her falling off a horse, which resulted in injuring her. Gloria's condition is complicated, however, by an operation she underwent two years ago."

$ BIG DAY TOMORROW $

Read the Dollar Day Bargain Ads In Today's Evening News; Many Ways to Save Money

Glendale's great Dollar Day comes tomorrow, February 19, and in this issue of The Evening News, which goes to thousands of homes in this community, you will find many unusual bargains in the numerous lines of trade—hundreds of opportunities in which you can save real money on everyday necessities.

Every person in this city and those who live within driving distance of Glendale should plan on taking advantage of the generous offers made by the merchants here on Dollar Day.

Without regard to price, distance or other conditions, and granting that home pride and community duty did not enter into the question, we believe that your dollar has a greater purchasing power when spent in Glendale than when spent elsewhere. No prodigy in mathematics is necessary to figure out the simple proposition that a dollar spent here is a dollar invested in this community.

Communities have no protecting tariffs or trade treaties, or revenue collecting measures as have nations. But when you buy away from home you pay for it. The tariff you pay is the loss in general prosperity of the home town; and every citizen, by virtue of the convenience, service and protection that his home affords him engages at least in a moral treaty with his fellow citizens.

This is an event for the buying public. The prices offered afford great savings, and the money in your purse will go considerably farther Dollar Day than ordinarily. On the other hand, the merchants have nothing to gain by cutting prices unless they give satisfaction. All concerned in the Dollar Day sale extend the glad hand to the people of this community to trade with them tomorrow.

Everybody should read the ads thoroughly in order to get familiar with the many items listed by the merchants. You will certainly find many things that you need now. Do this and you will realize that your dollars will go a great deal farther tomorrow than on ordinary days. When you start out early in the morning of Dollar Day you can take your list and see the goods before you buy them. By arranging your shopping list from the bargain ads you will know in advance just how far your dollar or $10 or $25 will go before leaving home, and what bargains you intend to buy with the money.

All indications point to a big crowd in the stores tomorrow. The people of the community have learned to realize that they can get real genuine bargains on Dollar Day in Glendale—not alone in the bigger stores, but in every place of business advertising a bargain that day. There are items that will interest the children as well as the grown folks, so decide to do unlimited purchasing in Glendale tomorrow.

FORMER PILOT SAYS MONEY WASTED BY CONGRESS

Charges General Staffs of Army and Navy Retarded Airplane Plans

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—The charge that all of America's coast defense stations are "absolutely worthless" was made today before the House aircraft investigating committee by Representative La Guardia, Republican, of New York. La Guardia was a flyer in the A. E. F.

"Every cent that Congress appropriated for the army's coast defense stations is money thrown away," said La Guardia. "The stations would be more than worthless against enemy air attack."

La Guardia charged "the general staffs of the army and navy with retarding airplane development" and with withholding information on air bombing tests from Congress.

The committee immediately adopted unanimously a resolution ordering Secretary of War Weeks to present at once full data on the bombing tests on the battleships New Jersey and Virginia in November, 1921.

Representative Hall of Indiana this afternoon offered a resolution in the House to authorize the committee to continue the aircraft investigation after the adjournment of Congress in March, and to make a report to the Sixty-ninth Congress in December. To make this possible, it is necessary for the House to discharge the committee and create a special committee to make the inquiry.

Representing the coast artillery corps army, Lieutenant Colonel H. C. Barnes appeared before the committee at the afternoon session and denied that America's coast defenses were inadequate. Barnes said no city protected by anti-aircraft guns could be bombed by airplanes.

TEN-CENT FARE IS REQUESTED TO L.A.

Chamber Petitions Railroad Board to Bring About This Reduction

A resolution asking that Glendale be granted 10-cent street car fares to Los Angeles has been sent to the State Railroad commission bearing the name of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce. The resolution asks that, in view of the growth of Glendale in population and commercial activity, local service be substituted for the present interurban service and that a reduction in rates accompany this change.

Under a ruling previously handed down by the railroad commission, two zones for local service with a 6-cent charge for each, is established. For service from one zone to another a 10 cent fare is provided. Under this latter section Glendale would be entitled to 10-cent rates, it is contended.

WANT RUTS REMOVED IN ATWATER STREETS

Residents Demand Repair Work Be Done On Intersections; Claim Hazards To Lives and Automobiles

Efforts to have ruts in the paving where cross-streets intersect Los Feliz boulevard in the Atwater district removed and the paving leveled have been undertaken by a committee headed by Clayton S. Decker. The matter has been taken up with the street department without any result, Mr. Decker stated, but further demands that the work be done will be made.

The hazard to automobiles and the danger to human life stressed in the latest petition presented to the city by the committee. Many accidents have occurred due to the faulty paving and many more are narrowly averted. The ruts prove in many instances a barrier to those wishing to enter cross streets from Los Feliz road.

Daily Greeting to News Readers

WE NEVER LOSE—
The help we give to a discouraged soul.
The money that we invest in higher education.
The satisfaction that comes from doing our duty.
The courage that comes from being in the right.
The faith that is squarely founded on experience.
The time we spend consoling a little child.
The self-respect that comes from a clean conscience.

LIVING UP TO THE ADVERTISEMENTS

Few people stop to think how great a service advertising performs in lifting the standards of living in the American home. Advertising is a form of salesmanship and its purpose is selling, first and last. But, omitting the commercial side of advertising altogether, it is an agency that persistently keeps alive the thought of prosperity, success, confidence and encourages higher ideals of living. Unconsciously, people try to live up to the advertisements.

Advertising keeps men and women reminded that they ought to dress well and it tells them what to wear, how to wear it and how to use all the little niceties of the toilet. It tells them how to build, how to furnish and how to care for their homes. It reminds them of the need of a bank account and life insurance. It tells them what to eat and how to prepare it, how to dress their children and care for them. It urges the necessity of driving a car and of familiarity with good music, good books and good plays.

Some advertisement writers let their imagination run riot, with absurd results. We are all very familiar with the man who has no hope of a social or business career because he is afflicted with halitosis. We know the little grub-worm type of girl can blossom out into a popular, social butterfly overnight and become engaged to the man of her dreams, simply by learning to make her own gowns. We have learned that any wife can pay off the mortgage on the home by knitting socks.

Even though some advertising is ridiculous and overdrawn, try to imagine the magazines and newspapers that come to your home without any advertising at all. They would not be so interesting, attractive or so full of information. The advertising of today is actually educational and valuable to the reader for the information it contains in addition to its function as a salesman.

You may not be aware of it, but it is safe to say that you and your family are trying to live up to the advertisements, and in keeping your ideals of living conditions high, the advertisements are performing a great service.

AWAITING A REPORT

A month ago a man known as the king of the bootleggers was killed at Santa Barbara, and on his person were found papers which seemed to hint strongly of an understanding between him and an inspector of state motor traffic officers. One of the papers, written on the stationery of the state motor vehicle department advised the bootleg king where the inspector might be found "if you should want to get me by phone in a hurry." The other, written on the back of the inspector's card and bearing his purported signature read, "To state traffic officers: The bearer, George Turner, is a personal friend of mine and any courtesy you can extend will be appreciated and returned by me."

The Santa Barbara Press calls attention to the fact that these papers have been in the possession of the superiors of this inspector for a month. The inspector still holds his position, performs his official duties and presumably issues credentials to his friends.

It is astonishing that the state motor vehicle department has not taken action in this matter. If the department has investigated and it has been learned that this inspector is not guilty, his name should be cleared of the odium of suspicion at once. If he is guilty and no steps are taken to punish him, then there is a decided need for a housecleaning in the motor vehicle department.

DE YOUNG DEATH A LOSS

San Francisco suffered a real loss when M. H. De Young, owner of the Chronicle, passed away. He was a man who had a vigorous sense of his duty to, and his love for, the community in which he lived and labored. Anyone who has visited the De Young museum in Golden Gate park, that marvelous collection of art objects and relics of historical significance, must feel a personal loss in the death of the San Francisco publisher. This wonderful temple of art, science, music and history is open to the public and contains a liberal education for any who care to study its large and varied exhibits.

Gifts to educational institutions, which are becoming increasingly popular, are to be commended, but they are, after all, gifts to a very small class. Gifts like the De Young museum to San Francisco and Brand park to Glendale are gifts which all may enjoy.

GERMANS FAVOR PEACE PACT

Chancellor Luther says the people of Germany will favor a world-wide peace pact. This should be a great encouragement to those who are working for peace on the basis of agreements between nations.

Germany has been unfortunate in the past in being governed by war lords, but it is believed that as long as the people themselves control the government Germany will favor peace. The German people are thrifty and they know the cost of war. We must give credit where it is due and commend the German people for their self-restraint during the trying period of the French occupation of the Ruhr, for their rejection of the communists who took advantage of German finances and suffering among the people in trying to instigate a revolution, and for their co-operation in the Dawes plan.

COMMERCIAL AERONAUTICS

Brigadier-General William Mitchell has won the displeasure of certain cabinet heads, but it is safe to say that the public is not entirely out of sympathy with him and his viewpoint regarding the building up of an efficient commercial aircraft industry. America, always striving for supremacy, as befits youth, does not like to be told that she is lacking in initiative and ambition in the matter of aeronautics. And as we are thinking today in terms of peace we want the aircraft industry built up along commercial lines and entirely apart from the war and navy departments. If we could vote on the subject no doubt we would decide to separate aeronautics from the military departments. In case of attack by another nation our commercial aircraft, like the other resources of the country, could be drafted for defense.

If patience is a virtue, the most virtuous people must be those who spend all their lives waiting for something to turn up.

In the matrimonial drama the bride is often a leading lady.

POTTER'S FIELD

The Best Preparedness

By DR. FRANK CRANE

We reiterate that the best preparedness is of the automatic kind. That is, it is the kind of preparedness for war which can be used in times of peace and can develop in those times. For instance, the only use of a battleship or of an army is that of destruction in time of war. In time of peace they are mere playthings. They are mere elements of destruction waiting for some war to make them of use. Without that war they are of little use. But airplanes, for instance, and dirigibles, can be employed in time of peace. They are money making devices. They are commerce building. As a means of transportation they can be of immense service to the public. At a moment's notice they can be transformed into instruments of war. Their reach is longer than that of any gun and their power is probably greater than that of a battleship.

Physical training of the entire population is good in times of peace. It makes a healthier, stronger and efficient people. They are better money makers and better equipped in every way for the arts of peace. Yet when the crisis of war comes their physical training stands them in good stead. A well-trained army is better than one that is not trained at all. The same may be said of a merchant marine. It can be of use to a country in many ways and help to build up its prosperity in times of peace. Yet in times of war it can be quickly converted into an instrument of destruction.

The same thing is true of chemical advance. Destructive gases can be used to abolish insects and for other purposes that shall add to the wealth of the country. An advance in chemistry is an advance in all the lines of peace. Yet when war comes our chemical forces can be easily transformed into a most powerful weapon against the enemy.

In a way, too, the accumulation of riches which characterizes times of peace forms the best means of prosecuting war. In the long run it is the country with the most resources, with the most money, with the most capitalization, that can outlast the enemy. All these things are not waste, but are useful. That country is best prepared for war that is best prepared for peace.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNARD

In Gustave Flaubert's "The Temptation of St. Anthony," you will find this passage: "My kingdom is as large as the world, and my desire knows no bounds. I am always marching forward, freeing minds and weighing worlds, without fear, without pity, without love and without God. "They call me Science."

Science is nothing but trained and organized common sense, so-called. The vast results obtained by science are won by no mystical faculties, by no mental processes other than those which can be practised by every one of us, in the humblest and meanest affairs of life. The method of scientific investigation is nothing but the expression of the necessary mode of working of the human mind. It is simply the mode in which all phenomena are reasoned about, rendered precise and exact.

The man of science has learned to believe in justification, not by faith, but by verification. As Huxley, one of the greatest of scientists, observed: "The improver of natural knowledge absolutely refuses to acknowledge authority, as such. For him, blind faith is the one unpardonable sin."

We live in a world which is full of ignorance, and the plain duty of all of us is to try to make the little corner he can influence somewhat less ignorant than it was before he entered it. And he can only do this by practising that which is the chief virtue of science, and accepting nothing by blind faith.

It should be kept in mind that the development of exact natural knowledge in all its vast range, from physics to history and criticism, is the consequence of the working out, in this province, of the resolution to "take nothing but the truth without clear knowledge that it is such"; to consider all beliefs open to criticism; to regard the value of authority as neither greater nor less than as much as it can prove itself to be worth.

Huxley observes that "The modern spirit is not the spirit which always denies," delighting only in destruction; still less is it that which builds castles in the air rather than to construct; it is the spirit which works and will work without haste and without rest" gathering harvest after harvest of truth into its barns and scepticism is the highest of duties; devouring error with unquenchable fire."

Who's Who

The recent announcement that Herbert H. Asquith, ex-premier of Great Britain, had accepted the honor of an earldom offered by King George at the suggestion of Prime Minister Baldwin, is generally regarded as signalling the end of a great political career. The historic title of the Earl of Oxford, famous in the annals of the country, has been chosen by Mr. Asquith and bestowed "in recognition of his great services to the nation."

Vested in the famous De Vere family, the earldom of Oxford flourished from 1142 to the death of the 20th earl, Aubrey de Vere, in 1703. It then became extinct, but in 1711 was revived in the person of Robert Asquith, who held high government positions, among them that of speaker of the House of Commons. With the death of the sixth earl in 1853 it again became extinct. Mr. Asquith has declined similar offers on former occasions, including the bestowal of the Order of the Garter, and it is thought that family influence had something to do with his change of mood in this respect. He is 73 years old, and his life reads like fiction.

Born of manufacturing, non-conformist stock, the great schools of England were above the social or educational ambitions of the family and young Asquith was sent to the City of London school. There he won a scholarship to Balliol. At Oxford Asquith swept the board clean of scholastic prizes and left a memory of being a thoroughly pleasant man, normal in all things except in the sweep of his mind. It was as a lawyer that he first acclaimed public notice. He was admitted to the bar in 1876, when he was 24 years old. He served as secretary of state for the home department from 1892 to 1895. For the three years following he was chancellor of the exchequer. In 1914 he became secretary of state for war. He had a seat in parliament from 1886 to 1918 and was prime minister and first lord of the treasury from 1908 to 1916. Asquith has been married twice, his present wife being the famous Margaret Tennant Asquith, who has written her "Memoirs" and other books which have amused and angered so many celebrities.

Horoscope

Neptune and the Sun in benefic aspect dominate this day, according to astrology. Mars, Venus and Saturn are adverse. It is a day most propitious for those who desire to make plans for the future as they should have been vision and real foresight. This should be a lucky day for starting long journeys and it is foretold that prominent persons will cross the ocean on important missions.

Earthquake shocks predicted as part of the omen of the recent eclipse may be expected all through this month and next.

In the skies is read the forecast of many Oriental visitors who will come to the United States as teachers or lecturers. New foreign ambassadors and ministers are to make a good impression in Washington and there will be real diplomacy revealed in our international relations, the seers foretell.

Interest in art, new and old, is to be intensified by many educational projects affecting the American public.

Educational institutions are subject to a direction of the stars that is most promising for big achievements this year. Noted scholars are to visit this country unexpectedly later in the winter and in the early spring. The Moon today is in a sign that indicates increase of mental processes and even psychic power among dwellers on earth. Again men and women will delight in romance and even in imaginative plays, for fairies are to come to earth in forms of scientific discovery that will benefit the race.

Want and even suffering are again foretold for the poor in certain large cities, despite the fact that relief agencies will multiply. Warning is given to safeguard the health of women and children who may be victims of disease and also of peculiar crimes.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of change and they should be very cautious in business matters. Children born on this day may be restless and hard to direct but these subjects of Aquarius and Pisces should be very versatile and talented.

Today's Poem

COME, REST IN THIS BOSOM
Come, rest in this bosom, my own stricken deer.

Though the herd have fled from thee, thy home is still here; Here still is the smile that no cloud can o'ercast. And a heart and a hand all thy own to the last.

Oh, what was love made for, if 'tis not the same Through joy and through torment, through glory and shame?

I know not, I ask not, if guilt's in that heart, I but know that I love thee, whatever thou art.

Thou hast called me thy angel in moments of bliss, And thy angel I'll be 'mid the horrors of this, Through the furnace, unshrinking, thy steps to pursue, And shield thee, and save thee—or perish there, too!

—Thomas Moore.

France Again Talks of Sidestepping War Debt

PARIS, Feb. 18.—"It is materially impossible," Deputy Louis Loucheur this afternoon told the Chamber of Deputies, "for any country to pay with gold the amount of France's debt to America."
"America did not lend France gold," he added.
"France's important loans to the little countries—Poland, Serbia and Czechoslovakia—must not be forgotten. Personally, I favor France's cancellation of the debts owed it by the small powers."
Loucheur said France needed a foreign loan of $200,000,000.

RAIL EQUIPMENT

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 18.—The St. Louis & San Francisco is asking bids on five passenger and fifteen freight locomotives, which will cost about $1,200,000, and on twenty other locomotives, to cost $500,000 each. The road also will buy twelve steel baggage cars at $25,000 each.

Humane Society Will Oppose Game Preserve

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18.—Mrs. Rosamond Wright, a leading figure in state Humane society circles, will head a group of women who today announced their intention of being present at a hearing scheduled for Wednesday before Deputy State Corporation Commissioner Bowen, to oppose a plan to create a 50,000 acre game preserve between Tehachapi and Caliente. Numerous big game hunters of Southern California were said to favor the project.
Mrs. Wright said the proposal will be opposed on the ground that it involves cruelty to animals.

PIPE MILL ACTIVITY

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 18.—Pipe mill operations in this district estimated at about 75 to 80 percent of capacity. Sheet mills are operating between 80 and 85 percent. There is little new tin-plate business, but specifications are higher than last month. Tin-plate plants are running at 80 percent activity.

JEWELER'S PLANS FOR 'DOLLAR DAY'

There is a lure about Glendale! New residents of this city are won by its beauties. They are enchanted by the quiet, peaceful atmosphere of the Verdugo hills. And they bring their friends and relatives here in course of time, constantly adding to the population.
Glendale is growing, as witness more than a million dollars in building permits already issued this year. The writer remembers the years, not so long ago, when the million mark was the "big story" of the year. Now it takes ten millions a year to stir the imagination.
That this growth should not be abated—and will not be—is the desire of every resident and property owner; so may it not be suggested that each of you, individually, do everything possible to win new friends to this city?
Glendale is well advertised throughout the country. It is known as one of the most progressive cities of California, and the fastest growing community in all America. All that is needed is the personal appeal to those coming to Southern California to locate here.
And, once here, they will do their part to bring more.
Beautiful weather, these days. Sunshine and flowers where, in the middle west, there are snow and storms. An Illinois paper says they are enjoying every variety of weather known. There may be spice in variety, but it has its discomforts, which may be avoided in California.
Climate has been capitalized by the sportsmen in the Southland. The real estate dealers have made much of it. The motion-picture industry is based on ideal weather conditions here.
And the health of the public could hardly be improved upon any place in the world.
Development around Glendale, as well as within the corporate limits, is well worth noting. Burbank, neighbor city, is forging to the front. The La Crescenta valley towns also are becoming active centers, as the daily items appearing in The Glendale Evening News indicate. And the Atwater district of Los Angeles, contiguous to Glendale, is finding its place in the sun, with a Masonic order, improvement association, parent-teacher association, baseball team, and other social, civic and sporting interests.

JEWELER'S PLANS FOR 'DOLLAR DAY'

R. E. Cole Figures Out Way To Participate In Feature Sale

"Jewelry is one article of merchandise that is very hard to sell in a Dollar Day event," states R. E. Cole, 106 East Broadway. "However I have carefully gone over my stock and have selected seasonable items that I think people will be interested in to display as special Dollar Day values, and they are truly bargains."
Mr. Cole is offering as a feature for Dollar Day the privilege of purchasing any article of jewelry in the store by the payment of only $1 down, the balance being payable on convenient terms by the week or month to suit the purchaser.
As an advertising stunt Mr. Cole thinks that a community Dollar Day such as is being staged by the merchants of Glendale Thursday is very good. It gives the people the opportunity to visit the many stores and of finding real bona fide values.
The dollar day which was held last July was a big success, according to Mr. Cole in his business, and there is every reason to believe that tomorrow will see more people downtown and more buying.

Initiation of Class By Foresters Friday
Initiation of a large class of candidates will take place at the meeting Friday night of Glendale Court, Independent Order of Foresters at the Odd Fellows hall, 2014 West Broadway. District deputy T. C. Harvey reports that twenty-eight applicants will be added to the Forestry circle. Frank E. Hand, of Chicago, vice-supreme chief ranger, will pay his first visit to Glendale Court and Dr. C. B. Dickson, supreme physician and George Dunkerley, high secretary of Southern California will also be honored guests. Foresters with membership in other courts outside of Glendale are cordially invited to attend Glendale Court meetings.

WHITE AND BLACK

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—When white meets black then comes the embroidery. At least on one striking frock now chosen at an exclusive shop here this is true. The upper portion of the perfectly straight line dress is of silver lace and the lower portion of black satin. The diagonal dividing line at the hip is marked by foliage embroidery combining the two shades.

TEXTILE MILLS BUSY

MANCHESTER, N. H., Feb. 18.—The Amoskeag Cotton bleachery here is running a night shift on flannels and sheetings. There is also night-work in the cotton dye house.

Relic of Early Days

Meaning the bicycle, of course, and not the rider, who is FRED ST. ONGE, of the Cycle Trades of America. He has pedaled this "Tenth Century Limited" in all the large cities of the world. He will be in charge of the "Safety First" bicycle carnival Saturday when forty prizes will be awarded.

Preparations of the big "Safety First" bicycle carnival on Harvard High school grounds Saturday morning are fast nearing completion. In conjunction with the safety demonstration that is a big feature of the carnival, Fred St. Onge will visit many of the city schools to give safety talks. Already Wilson, Doran and Broadway schools have been treated to demonstrations that were received with great approval on the part of the principals, teachers and pupils.

Mr. St. Onge gives a practical demonstration on how to ride a bike in safety. He lays great stress on the danger there is in carrying another on the frame of the bicycle, hanging on to moving vehicles, riding and wobbling on the wrong side of the road, riding without a bell or signal and without a lamp at night. He urges on all cycle riders to observe the rules as laid out by city officials. Mr. St. Onge's work has the endorsement of school and city officials all over the country.

As a closing feature to the safety lessons given at schools a pageant will be staged Saturday morning on the grounds of the Harvard High school through the courtesy of the board of high school trustees. All boys and girls are urged to be there with their bicycles. Those without wheels are welcome as there will be seats free for spectators.

Riders will assemble at 10 o'clock and the first event is scheduled for 10:30 o'clock. The program includes a scooter race for the little folks, this will be over a course of fifty yards with three prizes for the winners. Riders with decorated bicycles will receive no less than twenty-seven prizes alone. The first prize to the rider with best decorated wheel is a gold watch from the Morrow Coaster Brake Co., if a girl is the winner she can have the choice of a regular watch or a wrist watch. Second prize is a Delta electric lamp by Marlett Bros.; third, Vitale tire by J. F. Mathews; fourth, Black Beauty tire by Marlett Bros.; fifth prize, pedals by J. F. Mathews; sixth, combination lock by Marlett Bros.; tenth, fine bells from New Departure Coaster Brake Co., and eleventh, pencils from the Morrow Co.

Boy Scouts in uniform will receive cold, silver and bronze medals in first, second and third order from the Cycle Trades of America. The school with the greatest number of riders will receive the Cycle Trades silver trophy cup to become the property of the winner. A scooter race for kiddies has three prizes, two bells and a pencil. Riding the 150-foot plank track five inches wide and one-half inch thick lying on the ground, will be another event, the first prize for which will be a gold watch from New Departure Coaster Brake Co.; second, Black Beauty tire by Marlett Bros.; third, Corbin lock by J. F. Mathews. There is no entry fee and no registration to make and all cyclists are invited. Everything is absolutely free.

First Cost is Last Cost when You Build with Concrete Masonry

How much will your house cost you for upkeep during the next twenty years?

Nearly as much as you paid for it unless it is of permanent construction. And you can't get permanent construction without durable structural materials. They must be proof against fire, storm and decay.

Concrete grows stronger with age. It's fire-safe, wind-safe, and enduring. Concrete Masonry units—block, brick and tile—inherently these qualities.

Concrete Masonry is the modern Basic Building Material.

And it costs little if any more than less durable materials. Through its use you save on painting, repairing, fuel and depreciation. The money that would have gone to pay bills for upkeep goes into your pocket. It helps to pay off the building loan.

And there is the added satisfaction of owning a permanently attractive home with its enduring comfort and protection. That is yours without extra cost.

When you buy or build insist that YOUR home is built for enduring economy—of Concrete Masonry.

DOLLAR DAY HELD BY CITY'S STORES

Merchants Optimistic Over Results of Feature At This Time

J. A. Robinson, proprietor of the Robinson Men's store at 114 South Brand boulevard, feels very optimistic over Dollar Day, which is being held by many of Glendale merchants Thursday. Mr. Robinson says that he has actually done himself proud this year in the display of merchandise which will be placed on sale tomorrow at the selling price of one dollar.

Last July, when the Glendale merchants held their dollar day the Robinson store was adjudged one of the two best-looking stores in the city and a photograph was taken of the two stores. Last July Mr. Robinson states that over fifty people were waiting at the door of the store before the opening. This year he expects more people as he claims his stock is more complete, the merchandise is more seasonable and has a greater assortment of wearing apparel.

Mr. Robinson states that in preparing for dollar day he has been very careful to only include merchandise from regular stock, no goods being bought solely for this event. The feature that a customer must be satisfied or be refunded the amount of his purchase has brought a large portion of business growth to the store, thinks Mr. Robinson.

EISTEDDFOD GETS OKAY OF CHAMBER

Music Movement in Valley Endorsed by Commerce Body Meeting

Directors of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce went on record yesterday afternoon endorsing the Eisteddfod movement among communities of the San Fernando valley. A resolution calling for endorsement of the movement was unanimously carried after Director George J. Lyons, president of Community Service explained the Eisteddfod movement.

Whether the chamber will recommend that the matter of surtax charges on railroad Pullman tickets be left to the Interstate Commerce Commission or to Congress, was referred to the legislative committee. Bert P. Woodard is chairman of the committee. Percy J. Hayselden, chairman of the flood control committee told the directors that his committee was rapidly affecting a consolidation of interests and opinions and that an amicable settlement of the flood control problems is expected.

CITY LICENSE FEE CALLED 'HOLDUP'

Laundry Concern Protests What It Charges Is Exorbitant Price

A protest against what is claimed to be a "holdup," in the matter of Glendale city license fees, is voiced in a letter from the management of the Peerless Laundry Service Corp. of Los Angeles, to the Glendale Chamber of Commerce. The letter, read at the meeting of the board of directors yesterday, alleges that the present rate of business license assessed by the city of Glendale for the privilege of operating a laundry wagon is $30 per month and that this amount is excessive and as much as is charged in Los Angeles.

The present laundry wagon license is declared to be the result of spite work and is termed "a Chinese wall around the city" by the Los Angeles laundry concern in their letter. The chamber directors turned the communication over to the civics committee.

Impoverished Nobles Dispose of Heirlooms

LONDON, Feb. 18.—Many of England's most famous mansions are being steadily depleted of their treasures to "raise the wind" for their impoverished owners. Following the sale of priceless art treasures and furniture, they are now selling their gold and silver plate. Very high prices are being realized in the auction rooms for some of the oldest plate. Silver salt-cellars have fetched as much as $10,000, while old toilet articles are fetching just as high prices. Most of the plate is being bought by Americans and European dealers and collectors.

Widow Left Farm Land By Will Made 'at Front'

FROM EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK, Feb. 18.—The

demerits have outweighed the merits, in the controversy on whether to hold or not to hold the Easter sunrise services on the summit of the Eagle rock. The Occidental bowl will be the scene of the ceremony instead, the directors of the local Chamber of Commerce have decided.

The directors had appointed a committee to call together and arrange for the observance of this most outstanding day in church life, consisting of H. B. Crawford, John T. Bailey, C. W. Pearl and Mrs. J. C. Reiter. The latter was appointed secretary of the committee.

The Easter program will be arranged by the Women's Twentieth Century club, in conjunction with the several churches of the community. The American Legion will have charge of parking cars and handling crowds.

The Eagle Rock chapter, Royal Arch Masons, U. D., will stage a masquerade ball at the Masonic hall on Chickasaw avenue, Saturday night, February 21. It is announced by Mark T. Lee, high priest. Prizes will be offered for the most fantastic costumes.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Daniels and children, who are on an eastern trip, write that they recently experienced a temperature of 25 degrees below zero as a change from sunny Southern California.

REPUBLICANS IN GERMANY TURN TIDE

Show and Celebration Are Turned to Advantage By New League

By WALTER DIETZEL
For International News Service.
BERLIN, Feb. 18.—Beat militarists by nationalism. Beat them on their own ground by doing better! This is the secret of the tremendous growth of the Republican league called "Reichsbanner Black-Red-Gold," as revealed by one of its most prominent leaders, Colonel Dr. Schuetzinger, commander of police, in a "Tactical Guide," parts of which were published by the papers.

"There is one thing especially," says Schuetzinger, "which the Republicans still must learn to impress the masses: Celebrating! The Germany of the past generation could not think of a national day except as the commemoration of a famous battle or a sovereign's birthday, with goose-stepping and a gala dinner as its program.

"Our people, drilled to admire shows, still need some of that old food. The Republic owns political power. Why not let the president wear a black-red-gold scarf during a celebration? Why not have his carriage escorted by cuirassiers?"

Reichsbanner Aim
"The Republican Reichsbanner must be the promoter and manager of such celebrations. It must entertain the German youth on such days by marching them out to the parade ground behind pipes and drums. Let us learn a lesson from reactionaries and monarchists. Perhaps we will terrify them by our unarmed battalions parading outside our city gates!"

It is undoubtedly true that the Republicans, by copying the propaganda methods of their nationalist adversaries, performed one of the most successful tricks ever applied in political controversy. The overwhelming victory of the Social-Democrats at the recent Reichstag elections is to a large extent due to propaganda shows of the Reichsbanner.

Paradoxical Effect
Flags were unfurled on every possible occasion, ex-imperial generals who had turned Republicans inspected Reichsbanner units lined up for parade on public squares of the smallest provincial towns. Thus the Reichsbanner demonstrations made every loyal Republican feel that his organization represented some power in the new German Reich.

It has been admitted by prominent leaders of the Reichsbanner that thousands of war veterans who had entered the nationalist steel-helmeted organizations just deserted the national flag for the Reichsbanner the moment they found out that the Republican shows were just as "snappy."

PARIS GOWNS USE POPULAR FABRIC

Holiday Season Proved That Lame Material Is Most Becoming

By ALICE LANGELEIR
For International News Service.
PARIS, Feb. 18.—Christmas festivities and the usual holiday balls have proved that lame is still one of the most popular fabrics for evening frocks.

The manufacturers have developed this type of tissue in gold and silver from season to season from the soft and severe metal brocades until it is as soft and supple as a piece of mousseline de soie. A few years ago one never would have used it for a simple dancing frock, for it would not have been graceful. Lame fabrics were then used for court and state occasions as stiff and elaborate as the stuff itself. Now they play a double role, for they are just as effective for simple youthful gowns.

A new lame frock worn at one of the large charity balls last week was made of silver cloth as pliable as chiffon. The skirt was full and gathered into a band fitted to the hips with a bolero effect in the bodice. This may be a hint of what is going to appear in the spring time, when isn't so very far away. The only bit of color was a pink rose on the shoulder, and long, lacy silver earrings matched the frock.

Another Model
Another striking lame gown seen at Ciro's for the revelion was a gorgeous brocade cut in the style of 1880. It was in blue and gold with a large papillon of the brocade placed at the back like a sash and balancing the front drapery. The amusing neckline was cut to an inverted V—in both front and back with a little collar of a filet of diamonds.

At the fashionable Russian ball organized by the Grand Duchess Helen of Russia at the Ritz last week Ganna Walska wore a strikingly embroidered in diamante and pearls from the neck to the tip of the long train. It is one of the straight sheath models without a break at the waistline. One of Chanel's new demi-season models also appeared that night in softest gold cloth and a skirt of heavy gold lace with the design re-embroidered.

JAPANESE TO CURB POWER OF PEERS

Upper House In Oriental Legislature Due for Change, Is Claim

By LUTHER A. HUSTON
For International News Service.
TOKYO, Feb. 18.—Reform of the Japanese House of Peers is the burning political issue in the Land of the Rising Sun at present. If the government of Premier Kato falls within the next few months the issue which will cause its downfall will be the question of curbing the power and changing the make-up of the upper house of the Japanese legislature. Keep observers of domestic politics predict that the Kato government will be unable to weather the storm which is expected to break when the question comes before the Imperial Diet.

House of Peers
Under the present system all members of the Imperial family are automatically members of the House of Peers. Noblemen holding the rank of prince, count or marquis also hold seats in the house by right of rank. The balance of the membership, comprising only a very small percentage of the total, is elective, but is chosen solely by and from among the wealthy classes. The rank and file of the voters have nothing whatever to say about who shall sit in the House of Peers.

There is widespread demand throughout the country that seats in the House of Peers shall be awarded by popular vote. The proposal is to permit members of the Imperial family to continue to hold seats by inherited right, but to make all other seats elective. This it is argued, would make the House of Peers amenable to the will of the people, as are members of the lower house of the legislature.

Program Outlined
The program calls for fifty-two squadrons of home defense airplanes. At present eighteen of these squadrons are in service and the remainder will go into commission within the next two years. It is also planned to create five squadrons of volunteer home defense forces. To further the plan for defensive air forces, Sir John Salmon has been created as commander of home defense for air and took up his duties January 1.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Should the first application in this country of gold salt cure for tuberculosis, developed by the Danish scientist, Professor Holger Moellgaard, prove less efficacious than at present anticipated, it is possible that it may be followed by an announcement of another likely treatment for the disease, through the discovery of an American doctor who for civic reasons does not wish his name made public at this time.

Public Proves Honest, 'Conscience Fund' Says

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 18.—The public is honest! Such is the opinion of T. O. Edwards, general auditor of the Southern Pacific company. Contributions to the "Conscience Fund" recently include sums ranging from $50 to three cents. Edwards today received a check for $50 to cover passenger for her boy who had ridden free from Missoula, Montana to San Diego and return, while a man in the same mail enclosed a three cent stamp to pay for a surreptitious ride from Melrose to Havenscourt on the East Bay electric lines.

"Six years ago I walked to the Oakland pier and passed through the gates unnoticed," wrote another man who enclosed ten cents to pay ferry fare to San Francisco, while a former shop employee sent $50 to pay for time wasted while "soldiering" during working hours. "The Conscience Fund" is the most unique fund ever established by a corporation.

96-Year-Old Pioneer Takes Up Farm Work

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 18.—Within four years of the century mark, Mortimer L. Smailing, pioneer, Indian fighter, stage driver, prospector and hunter, has turned to truck farming as the occupation he thinks "God intended me for."

Radio sets finally are permitted in British Guiana, but owners of receiving sets must pay $3 a year license.

HILL SITES IN SOUTHLAND COVETED

Modest Pocketbook First To See Advantage of Elevated Homes

Some years ago, when level land in Los Angeles county became too valuable for home-seekers of modest pocketbooks, these people peeled off a few hundred dollars from their slender bankrolls, bought choice hillside locations and built the charming homes that today are the glory of Southern California. Today the millionaires are paying thousands for hillside locations. They awoke to the realization that the hills were to be the sites of the most exclusive and beautiful homes; only to learn that the little fellows were already there.

Not even imperial Rome or regal Carthage, overlooking the green Adriatic or the blue Mediterranean, had such settings as these marvelous hillside locations that look to the east, upon the towering Sierra Nevadas, and, to the west, upon the mighty Pacific. Today Glendale, Hollywood, Pasadena and a whole host of cities from Santa Barbara to San Diego admire the minarets of their hillside bungalows basking in the sun.

Don't Worry about Gray Hair

This Clean, Colorless Liquid Will Restore the Original Shade

Thousands of people have quickly banished grayness and have restored the original shade to their hair with the remarkable preparation known as Kolor-Bak.

Physicians and scientists know that gray hair is hair that has ceased to receive its normal supply of coloring matter or pigment from certain tiny cells in the scalp because these cells have become inactive. No matter what the cause, it is amazing to see how the grayness disappears when Kolor-Bak is used. It is the best known substitute for the natural pigmentation. It also banishes dandruff and stops itching of the scalp and falling hair. If you are gray, Kolor-Bak is all you need to make your hair look "young" again. No need to furnish a sample of your hair—no tests to make—as this one clean, colorless liquid is effective on any gray hair. Money back instantly if Kolor-Bak is not satisfactory.

Smelt Starts Running In Washington Waters

KELSO, Wash., Feb. 18.—Smelt started running into the Cowlitz River from the Columbia recently. Catching these miniature fish is the event of the winter, farmers shoveling them up by the scooped, filling barrels and boxes; women using lawn curtain nets at the ends of portiere poles; boys and girls with father's auto cover for a sieve, and the professional fisherman with his linen-thread nets.

These fish, about seven to nine inches long, run in schools, often filling the river from bank to bank. They are en route upstream to spawn, after which the smelt return to the ocean and, like the fur seal, spend a long period far from human eyes.

The food value of the smelt is what is so attractive, being preserved in glass jars, pickled in spices, salted and dried.

Temperature mounts high in India during March and goes to 120 degrees above in June.

Two notable coin collections belonging to Glendale residents are on display in downtown windows during this week, set aside as National Old Coin week. Some of the rarest specimens from the unusual collection of Ed M. Lee, 623 Security Bank building, comprise the display in the show window of Roberts & Echols' drug store, corner of Brand boulevard and Broadway. A gold collection is the feature of a second display belonging to O. A. Caldwell, on view at the East Broadway branch of the Pacific Southwest bank.

The oldest coin in the Lee collection is a large silver piece, coined by Alexander the Great, between the years 336 and 323 B. C. Alexander, numismatists believe, was the first ruler to place his own likeness on coins. The piece was coined by Alexander prior to the time he originated this custom, however, and has the head of Athene, goddess of wisdom, on one side and winged Victory on the other.

A one-bit piece, a rare coin of St. Eustatius, Dutch West Indies, is displayed also. Goslin was the name of the governor of the island at the time the coin was made, so that a likeness of a young goose is embossed on one side. This bit is worth approximately two mills, instead of 12 1/2 cents, as is the popular conception.

Roman Coins

On another rare piece is embossed the likeness of Agrippa, the ruler who built the ancient public baths at Nemausus, now Nimes, France. The coin was struck some time between 31 B. C. and 14 A. D., and bears, beside the likeness of Agrippa, that of Augustus, the Roman emperor.

Two of the largest pieces ever coined, the ten-kopek piece of Siberia, minted by Catherine the Great in 1794, and the "cartwheel" of King George III of England, coined three years later, in 1797, are included in the display.

A piece coined in 1555 and included in the collection, Mr. Lee explains, hints of the shrewd generalship which held for Henry II the throne of France. The coin bears on one side the crescent surmounted by the crown. At the time, it is said, Henry was harassed by enemies from all sides. The Mohammedans were staved off from attack through a pact effected by the French king, leaving the latter free to engage his other enemies. The story of this pact is told by the combination of the crescent and crown on the same French coin.

Russian Kopek

A Russian kopek, struck from silver wire, and many other interesting pieces are included in the display owned by Mr. Lee. Of hardly less interest than the old foreign pieces is the collection of American pennies, one for every year since 1793, when they were first coined. Only 1915 is omitted, and no pennies were coined in that year.

Two huge souvenir gold pieces in commemoration of the Panama International exposition at San Francisco, feature the display of Mr. Caldwell in the bank window. The pieces are of fifty-dollar denomination, although valued at more than three times that amount because of their scarcity. Souvenir two and one-half-dollar and fifty-cent pieces of the exposition are also shown.

A unique piece in the bank collection is the Columbia exposition half-dollar made into a locket. Gold pieces of small denomination, formerly minted by the United States, form an interesting part of the display. There is also shown a full set of "shillings" or fractional currency, issued by the United States in 1860 and 1861, and a large collection of silver, nickel and copper fractional coins no longer minted.

Opinions

By JOSEPH L. KELLEY
Of The Evening News Staff.

George Bernard Shaw returned to London last week from a watering place, whither he had gone for his health and a rest. The English playwright, critic and connoisseur of art took to tangoing while resting. Cable wires were hot with reports of Shaw's agility as an aged exponent of tango-chorean art. On his arrival in London, reporters called and asked Shaw to give his opinion of the tango as a dance classic. Shaw replied that if the dailies wanted his opinion of the tango it would cost them just $500 per opinion.

Joseph L. Kelley

Mr. Shaw comes pretty nearly setting a precedent for playwrights demanding monetary return for opinions. And for that matter he approaches setting a precedent for all artists, especially motion picture "artists."

Try and stretch your imagination to breaking point and picture Gloria Swanson, for instance, demanding $500 from the press for telling why she married Marquis de la Fraise. You'll find it good mental exercise, if impossible.

Try and picture Avery Hopwood, author of "The Gold Diggers," co-author with Mary Roberts Rinehart of "The Bat," author of "Ladies' Night" and several bed-room farces with twin beds, demanding that amount to tell the why of anything he ever did or wrote.

Picture if you can Marion Davies refusing to divulge the secret of picture acting unless a check for $500 was forthcoming. Or Pola Negri demanding a like amount for giving her impressions of "art in the movies."

Try and frame a snap shot of Conway Tearle putting his hand out for $500 before he would utter one word on how it feels to be a leading man. Carry five $100 bills along with you in expectation of having one of the 1925 crop of baby stars demand 'em for posing for her picture and telling about the thrill she got when she was told she would some day be an actress, maybe.

Take your camera along and get a flash of Will Hays, movie "czar" refusing to give an interview on the big things ahead of picture producers without demanding $500 for said interview.

Take that same camera and sneak up on some Republican politician and snap him refusing to go into spasms about Coolidge prosperity, before and after voting, unless he get one-half of a thousand-grain.

Take your flashlight and wait some bright moonlight night for Jack Kearns to emerge from conference with Jack Dempsey and get a picture of him refusing to spill a lot of words on what "went on" in the conference and how many millions he had demanded, this time to put Jack in the ring, without asking $500.

Drop around to any one of the motion picture studios in Hollywood with your kodak and get a snap of yourself being refused a picture with any one of the hundreds of would-be fillum stars refusing to give their opinion of why the French franc took such a sudden flop or their version of the result of observations during the total eclipse of the sun a few weeks back.

Try and find Mrs. Rowen or Dr. Fuller and get a flash of them refusing to say a lot of words on why the world didn't come to an end without five-hundred iron men being offered in advance.

George Bernard Shaw always seems to be doing something different—not only different but a lot better than any of his contemporaries who continually set up a public howl about anything and everything that will find its way into the pages of the press.

All of which reminds Ye Ed that one of Shaw's contemporaries, one Sir James M. Barrie, who writes pretty good plays himself, recently ordered his name taken from the advertisements used in connection with the showing of the screen version of his "Peter Pan" in London. If Sir James saw the screen version first we can't blame him much.

WOMAN DEPLORES TREE SACRIFICES

Mrs. Hartley Shaw Pleads To Defeat Proposal To Cut Shade

Editor The Evening News:—We read in yesterday's Evening News with growing regret, the announcement that the Glendale Advancement association is starting a campaign of ruthless sacrifice of trees on Glendale avenue. To those of us old-fashioned enough to love trees, this is sad news indeed.

Perhaps we can admit the need for greatest efficiency of lights on Central avenue, where the colorful fire plugs and frequent lamp posts are set in the middle of the narrow, inadequate sidewalks, but on Glendale avenue the problem is different.

How can any one be indifferent to the beauty of a street set with fine old trees to which beauty at night is added the lights twinkling through the foliage of those same trees, lighting sufficiently because of their frequency.

'Sorry Situation'

Cannot the lovers of lamps content themselves with riding or walking up or down Central avenue, where the lamp posts are surely obvious enough to please the most utilitarian reactor? If not, can they not go out to the desert places and there plant whole rows and groves of fine lamp posts, where they may look and admire to satiety?

Glendale may be "fast growing," but trees are not and it is difficult to understand the increasing indifference to these fine old landmarks, more than a generation old.

Mr. Editor, cannot you say a word to help this sorry situation? MRS. HARTLEY SHAW, 212 West Park avenue.

Glendale pyramid, No. 39. ### REPENTANCE CALL GIVEN BY BROWN

Evangelist Speaks Before Big Crowd at Tabernacle In Night Meeting

The call to repentance was sounded by John Brown at the tabernacle last night in his first strictly evangelical sermon of the campaign. He preached from Revelations 27:17: "And the spirit and the bride say come. And let him that heareth come. And whosoever will, let him take of the water of life freely."

"The spirit of God does not work independently of the church," Mr. Brown said. "God never has and never will, and the church has found to its sorrow that it can't work independently of the spirit. Without us God can do nothing in giving salvation. The battle is the Lord's battle, but it is left to us to carry salvation to the people."

Mr. Brown took a rap at the churches that are fostering athletic teams, debating societies, and providing swimming pools as means of attracting young people. "Such churches confess that they are no longer depending on the spirit of God," he said.

While Imperial county leads in cotton production, Glenn and Butte counties, in the same latitude as Philadelphia, are forging ahead as cotton growing areas and throughout the San Joaquin valley, cotton is fast becoming a staple crop.

The acre value of cotton production in California averages slightly under $158, while cost of production, it is estimated, does not exceed $80 per acre. Such large profits are leading the farmer in the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys, where water is plentiful, to plant cotton.

DARKENED WINDOWS

By CORNELIA KANE RATHBONE

Copyright, D. Appleton & Co. Serialized by Ledger Syndicate

She held a check out over the heads of the crowd. Graham's neighbor snatched it and disappeared into the dining-room. Graham followed just in time to see him greet a well-set-up, broad-shouldered man whose face was turned from Graham, and a strikingly-gowned young woman of a rather vulgar type of prettiness, and vanish with them into an inner room.

The dinner, served by a quick-eyed, smiling Frenchwoman, the presiding genius of the place, was unbelievably good. By the time he had finished, Graham was at peace with the world and indifferent to woman. He smoked contentedly for a while, philosophizing over the pleasures of idleness. As he rose from the table he glanced into the inner room for another look at the three persons whom he had noticed, but found them gone. Then he edged his way out and presented his coat check.

The silvery tinkle of the attendant's "Here you are, Monsieur," caressed his ear pleasantly, but the coat and hat she delivered to him were not his own. She smiled at his protest. Since the number on the coat corresponded with the number on the check, it was self-evident that the coat was the coat of monsieur Graham, thinking back he saw again the man beside him reaching out and snatching the check from the girl's hand. Of course, it had been the check intended for him which the man had taken. At that moment, he was doubtless walking away in his, Graham's, overcoat.

"You gave my check to a man with a scarred hand," he charged the girl with some asperity. "I must find him. Does he come here regularly?"

The young woman, in a tinkle, sharp now and out of tune, professed ignorance. She was paid to notice the coats, not the gentlemen. If monsieur had carelessly taken the check of another person, monsieur surely had no one to blame but himself.

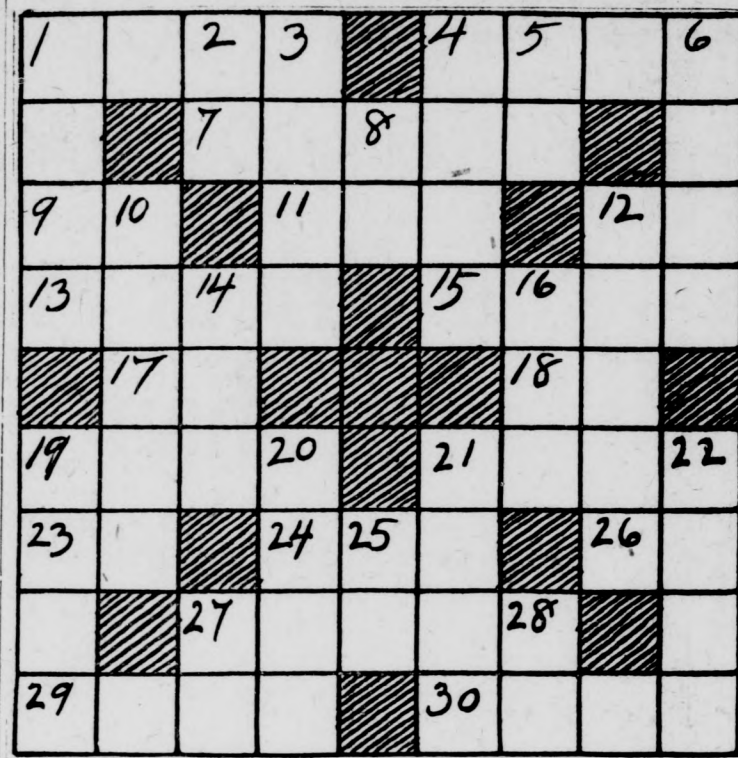

There was nothing to be done. Registering a black mark against the entire French nation, Graham jerked himself resentfully into the other man's habiliments, and strode out into the nipping air. The coat was enough like his own, he acknowledged, to make it possible that a man who was either in great haste or deeply engrossed, might have accepted it without recognizing his mistake. Graham's gloves were gone with his coat and instinctively his hands sought the protection of the other man's pockets. Far down in one of the unfamiliar depths his fingers came in contact with a crumpled sheet of paper. Hoping for a clue to the owner of the coat, Graham stopped beneath a street lamp to examine it.

It was a brief note typed on a single sheet of paper, the address stamped upon which was that of a street in the same fashionable section of the city in which Graham himself lived. It began with the formal heading: "Come at 9 o'clock. I have arranged everything. I am sure that he suspects and I can hear no more. Tonight must end it." The note was signed with two initials, E. H., and it bore no date. It broke in on Graham's light comedy of clothes with a sudden suggestion of tragedy.

"My overcoat has evidently gone where it had no business to be," he reflected, but the following of it would be clearly a matter of some delicacy. The thought of tracking a strange man to a

CROSS WORD PUZZLE

COMPILED FOR GLENDALE EVENING NEWS READERS
Copyright, 1925, By The George Matthew Adams Service

HOW TO SOLVE THE CROSS WORD PUZZLE
The way to solve the Cross Word Puzzle is to fill in the white squares of the diagram with the words which agree with the accompanying definitions. The definitions are numbered to correspond with the numbers on the diagram. Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram, and will extend all the way across to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number, and extend as far as the white squares continue uninterrupted. Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will also begin in the white square that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white squares remain uninterrupted.

STAGE AND SCREEN

VIEWS AND PREVIEWS—NEWS NOTES FROM STUDIOS
Compiled By Members of The Glendale Evening News Staff

DOBINSON PLAYERS
Individual differences in the powers of observation and deduction have never been better illustrated than during the last two nights at the Playhouse theatre.

This week's presentation by the Dobinson Players is "The Night Call," a powerful mystery-melodrama which hinges upon the death, under mysterious circumstances, of Captain Richardson. Suspicion falls upon lovely Alice Lodge, who was apparently the only other person known to have been in the house the night of the murder, but gradually, as the sinister plot unfolds, every one of her intimates are drawn into the web of suspicion.

So cleverly is the identity of the real slayer hidden that every patron of the theatre, before the end of the play, is given a chance to record his guess as to "who killed Richardson."

Bernice Marrin, 123 West Burchett street, and Mrs. W. W. Worley, 1569 Grandview avenue, are in the lead to date with the largest total of correct guesses credited to them by their friends. Miss Marrin has twenty-five and Mrs. Worley twenty-one correct guesses. The contest will continue for the balance of the week, the leaders being announced daily in the Glendale News and Press. Prizes will be awarded after the first performance of "A Woman's Way" next Monday night.

On Friday night of this week there will be another of the popular after-theatre dances in the banquet room of the Playhouse. Reservations may be made for the theatre and the dance, or for either separately.

THE GATEWAY
Advance reports credit George Melford, popular Paramount producer, with another directorial triumph in his production of "The Top of the World," which makes its appearance Wednesday at the Gateway theatre.

The photoplay is based on the famous Ethel M. Dell story of the same name and deals in melodramatic fashion with the romance and adventures of a high-spirited English girl who runs away to South Africa to marry a childhood sweetheart. An indication of the extreme care that went into the making of this picture may be seen in the array of screen talent that has been assembled for the various roles. Anna Q. Nilsson, James Kirkwood, Raymond Hatton and Sheldon Lewis have the four featured roles, while the supporting cast includes some of screenom's finest character actors.

Those who have previewed the film have no hesitation in predicting that "The Top of the World" will be hailed as Melford's finest producing effort to date. This is indeed high praise when it is recalled that he has managed to achieve some novel effects that are revolutionary from a photographic and production standpoint.

There will also be the usual Wednesday feature of select vaudeville.

THE GLENDALE
"Ramshackle House," with Betty Compton, opens today at the Glendale theatre.

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Copyright, 1925, By The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

UNCLE WIGGILY AND BILLIE'S BAG
Once upon a time as Billy Bushytail, the boy squirrel, was scampering along over the snow, he saw a small paper bag at the foot of a tree. He was so hungry for being soft had a hard crust on it, like the icing on top of a chocolate cake, and this made it easy for Billie to walk on it. Also the crust held up the paper bag.

"I wonder what's in that bag?" chattered Billie softly to himself, as his little paws went pitter-patter over the crust of the snow. "If Uncle Wiggily left it there he won't mind if I look in it. And if Uncle Wiggily didn't leave it there I'll go tell him about it and maybe he will know who owns it."

Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow wasn't far away and after looking toward it and seeing the bunny gentleman sitting at a window reading the morning paper, Billie ran up to the bag. Gently he opened it and looked inside.

"Oh, tra la la!" he chattered as it was just as if you had said "Oh, goodie!" for the bag was filled with peanuts. "Uncle Wiggily couldn't have left that bag here, which was like a cushion to him, and instead of eating the peanuts Billy scampered back to the home nest in the tall oak tree, where he had left his brother Johnnie a few minutes before."

"Hey, Johnnie, come on down!" chattered Billie.

"What for?" Johnnie wanted to know, thrusting his head out of the warm nest.

"I found a bag on peanuts on the snow," answered Billie. "Come on and we'll eat them!" "Hurray!" chattered Johnnie, and he came to the tree, the fact that he slipped and fell on his tail. But that didn't hurt him, for his tail was a big bunch of soft fur.

Together the two squirrels scampered to where little Billie had seen the bag of Johnnie. But, alas! When they reached the place the bag was gone.

"Where are the peanuts?" Johnnie wanted to know.

"They were right here," answered Billie. "But maybe they sank down under the snow. Come on. Let's dig." So the two squirrel boys began scratching in the snow, with their paws, making holes here and there and stopping now and then to sniff and snuff, for with their sharp noses they could easily smell the peanuts when near them. But not a peanut could they smell!

"Where are they?" asked Johnnie, sadly like.

"I don't know," answered Billie. "Maybe you just dreamed you saw them," said Johnnie.

"I know I saw them! I opened the bag and smelled them!" chattered Billie. And just then Uncle Wiggily came out of his bungalow.

"Are you hunting for something, squirrel boys?" asked the bunny.

"For a bag of peanuts," answered Billie.

Uncle Wiggily twinkled his pink nose, smiled and held out the bag of peanuts.

"One of us must have dropped them—some little girl or boy," said the bunny. "I didn't know you had seen them, Billie, so I to his credit such established film successes as "The Sheik," "Dawn of Tomorrow," "The Light That Failed," and "Tiger Love."

It is claimed, however, that in his latest production Melford has managed to achieve some novel effects that are revolutionary from a photographic and production standpoint.

There will also be the usual Wednesday feature of select vaudeville.

went out a little while ago and picked them up. Here they are!" "Thank you!" chattered Billie and Johnnie as they began to eat the nuts. And while they were doing this the Fuzzy Fox crept out from behind the bushes and tried to catch Uncle Wiggily. But Billie and Johnnie threw peanut shells at the bad chap, hitting him in the eyes.

"Oh, excuse me!" howled the Fox as he ran away. "I didn't know it was raining peanut shells! I must go home for my umbrella! And away he ran, while the bunny and squirrels laughed. And if the loaf of bread doesn't try to jump over the sugar bowl, just to show the egg-beater how lively it is, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Sammie's snow man.

Diet And Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

TOO-TOO-THIN? (Part 3)

If you are underweight, and if there is nothing organically wrong with you, then you are under-eating for your needs.

"Doctor, I can't eat any more!" I hear you say. "When I eat a certain amount, I'm full, and I can't eat another mouthful!"

But you can. You are going to eat several mouthfuls more than you want at each meal. You are gradually going to increase your calories until you are getting 500 to 1000 more than your maintenance diet, and if you do that, you are going to gain from one-eighth to one-quarter of a pound a day (one pound of fat equals 4000 calories) just as our overweight friend is going to reduce by doing the opposite.

You can continue to eat the vegetables and fruits that you are so fond of—you need them for the vitamins and mineral elements—but you have also got to learn to like milk, cream, nuts, cheese and some sweets.

Every adult should have at least two glasses of milk a day. It is needed for its complete protein and calcium. You can take, with benefit, a quart or even more each day. In fact, you can go on an exclusive milk diet and if you get the rest that is prescribed with the milk diet, you will probably gain very rapidly. Of course that would mean that you would have to make sufficient milk to make your calories run over your needs. One quart of milk is 640 calories.

On a milk diet, as high as six or seven quarts are given, a certain amount taken every half hour. If you haven't the time or are not situated so that you can take the milk diet, then you can certainly add more milk to your regular diet. You can take a glass between meals and one before going to bed, and you can drink milk instead of tea and coffee at your meals. If you do not like milk, learn to like it. You can take malted milk or cocoa or milk-shake if you prefer these.

Another good gaining food is egg yolks. They are high in iron, and you are undoubtedly anemic and need more than you are getting. An egg yolk (60 to 69 C's) in one-half glass of orange juice (50 C's) after each meal, will add over 300 calories to your daily rations. After you are used to taking one egg yolk after each meal, take two at a time. You can take the whole egg, too, if you like, and if it is more convenient. If you do this, you will have to cut down somewhat on your meats, because the food principle of egg white is practically pure protein.

Still another good gaining food is nuts. (How we overweighters love 'em!) An ounce of the meat part of nuts is approximately 200 C's. You can add two or three ounces of nuts a day to your diet. (Eight walnuts, twenty double peanuts, twenty almonds, weigh about an ounce for each lot.) One of our followers wrote that she gained her wanted pounds by simply eating a handful of nuts extra after each meal.

You can eat more whole-grain breads, and butter, and more potatoes. A slice of bread, one-half inch thick, is 100 calories, a pat of butter 100 calories and a moderate-sized potato is 100.

How many calories do you need? It depends upon your activities, and age, mostly. From fifteen to twenty calories per pound of normal body weight is the rule for the adult.

Those of you who are thin are as a rule too active mentally and physically. You use a lot of energy and many times you use it unnecessarily. Aren't you a great talker? Talking requires a great deal of energy. Try to delete the details—they're usually uninteresting anyway—and stop talking while you are eating. Pay more attention to your food. You never find a fat person who talks much during mealtimes. He can't—he's too busy.

You should know something about the caloric value of foods, so that you can have an intelligent idea of this question. We have a booklet on the subject which also gives directions for gaining and losing, which you may have by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents in stamps with your request. While you are waiting for this, go to the library or bookstore and get a good book on the subject. There is one that has a key to the calories, and that is said to be the most interesting.

I'm not through with you. I'll come back next week. EAT.

Tomorrow—Answers to Correspondents

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on "Reducing and Gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to dispose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual replies to the questions you ask which are answered in the column as soon as possible. Do not forget the same if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

The "Fried Chicken and Waffles" sign on most tea rooms attracts the eye, but only too often the patron who pays for this dish finds that the fried chicken is tough! I do not mean tough because of the age of the bird, but tough because it is not cooked tender. Let us compare the various ways in which different housewives make this dish:

The Steaming Method—Disjoint a young chicken and cut it up as for fricassee (or have your butcher do this for you). Roll each piece in flour and brown it in a frying pan in equal quantities of lard and butter mixed, sprinkling the chicken with salt and pepper as it cooks. Turn it once. This browning process should take 20 minutes. Now place the browned chicken in a pan, dot with extra butter, and place it in a regular steamer, to steam for one hour; or, if you have no steamer put it in the top of a double boiler over simmering water. This hour of steaming will make it very tender. Make a gravy of the drippings in the frying pan by adding plenty of flour and a little hot sweet milk or hot thin cream to thin it (no water).

The Cooked-in-Gravy Method—Disjoint a young chicken, sprinkle

DYNAMITERS LOSE TO COVINA, 19-18

Lucky Shot by Armel Wins Game In Final Minute Of Fast Contest

By ROSS M. RUSSELL, JR. Of The Evening News Staff. Fighting hard all the way, but playing at a disadvantage because of the slippery outdoors court, Coach "Apollo" Pierce's Glendale Dynamiters lost their final league game and last chance yesterday to cop the Covina banner on the latter's dirt court, 19 to 18.

The Glendale boys lost the game chiefly because their guards did not stick closely enough to Armel, the only real player on the opposing team, and hamper his marvelous basket-twirling ability. Time and again this Covina player dribbled down the sideline, whisked by the Glendale guard and popped the pumpkin into the basket. Armel made thirteen points, the bulk of which formed the most part of the Covina scoring.

The Colts started out with a rush in the first half and took the advantage of their knowledge on the dirt. During the first quarter Armel plinked the ball in twice before Read Stearman was able to score for Glendale. During the remainder of the period each side registered with a foul throw.

Colts Take Lead

Three points were all that the locals could muster in the second quarter. In the meanwhile the Colts swelled their total to eleven with four goals, two of which were made by Covina players other than Armel.

After the half the Dynamiters came back fighting and scored six while the Colts got but two. This brought the score to a more even balance, fifteen to twelve. Beman and Stearman seemed to be the only meal-tickets for Glendale. Captain Hardy was an off-day and failed to score once. The Covina guards were smashing to pieces the Glendale passing attack so the home boys had to resort to fast dribbling and rushing to gain their means.

The Dynamiters were going even better in the fourth quarter. Beman was going his hardest and dribbled in under the Covina basket three successive times for scores. With the Colts leading 17-15 Porter Thompson put the locals in the lead for the first time when he dribbled down the sidelines, rushed in, and tossed a basket. Two minutes remained to play. When Beman tipped the ball off Armel rushed and dribbled down the sidelines and shot the final and winning goal for Covina. The remainder of the game was hard fought, Zann and Daniels getting into an awful tangle in a fight for the ball in which both men went hurtling over the court like dizzy tops.

With the defeat goes Glendale's chances of winning the pennant, which will probably go to Alhambra. The Moors meet Citrus today to play off their tie game. If the Lemons are victorious they will be tied for the pennant with the Moors, but if the latter win they clinch the flag. The score: Glendale-18. Covina-19. Armel (12), Stearman (6), L.F.R., Welch (2), Beman (7), C., Vandyell (9), Thompson (2), R.G.F., Kenworthy (2), Zann (6), L.G.R., Reike (2).

JOHNSON TO SIGN

RENO, Nev., Feb. 18.—His love for hunting rather than preliminary training at Hot Springs is believed here to be back of Walter Johnson's "hold out," rather than a hitch over terms. Johnson denied today that he was holding out, and declared he would sign with the Washington Senators within the next three days. Asked if his decision was definite, he replied that he "expected to sign up" and would leave either late this week or on March 1 for the training camp.

PLEASURE AND EXERCISE IN BOWLING AND BILLIARDS

GLENDALE RECREATION CENTER, 133 NORTH BRAND BLVD.

Ready For Starter's Flag

STUART WILKINSON, one of the speed demons who will participate in the 250-mile classic Sunday at Culver City. He will tool a Durant special, entered by R. C. Durant, and has shown some unusual speed in practice spins this week.

There is going to be a lot of speed at the Culver City speedway next Sunday afternoon, when the first A. A. A. championship race of 1925 is staged, with twenty cars getting away when the starter's flag descends. From all appearance, there will be a record-breaking crowd present at the big bowl when the 250-mile grind against time starts.

Harry Hartz buzzed around the bowl yesterday in a trial spin at the rate of 135.5 miles an hour, officially timed, which equals the record set at the opening meet. Ralibirds who have watched the speed demons in practice predict the world's records for getting over a long distance in not much time are going to be shattered Sunday.

Capt. Lowell H. Smith, commander on the "round-the-world air flight, and well known in Glendale, got a new kick out of automobile racing yesterday afternoon at the Culver City speedway. Captain Smith deserted his airplane for Pete Kreis' roan Duesenberg and whirled around the track for his initial appearance. He was clocked at 105.6 miles an hour for his fastest lap, not a slow pace for a man driving a steel steed for the first time.

"I would not have come in at all, but I was afraid I would wear the car out before the race," laughed Smith, as he rolled into the pits, flushed and excited over his experience. "It was great. It has aviation backed off the map for thrills. No wonder you boys are willing to take such risks. The thrill is worth it."

Smith drove the car that Pete Kreis will pilot in the Sunday race at the speedway, when a score of the greatest speed demons in the world will compete. The commander of the "round-the-world flight has been intensely interested in automobile racing since the opening of the new lightning-fast track at Culver, and he snatched at the opportunity to try his hand at the wheel of a fast machine on a fast track.

SPORT CHATTER

By DAVIS J. WALSH For International News Service. NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—According to the best and most recent advices, Clark Griffith is beginning to pay the first installment on the price of success, an ante that all pennant winners of recent years, particularly the New York Yanks, have been forced to meet.

The good word from the frieham belt is to the effect that Walter Johnson has come out in the open as a holdout for the first time in his career and wants $25,000, no less, for another season under the Senatorial yoke. Walter is merely one of several of Mr. Griffith's young men obsessed with expensive ideas.

Muddy Ruel, star catcher; Roger Peckinpaugh, shortstop, and Earl McNeely, outfielder, are among those who have only to hurry Mr. Griffith with thoughts of foreclosure of the mortgage on the old homestead. Even Stanley Harris, the boy manager, put the financial slug on Clark at a very early moment and possibly it was Harris' initial success that inspired the others, if a ball player ever needs monetary inspiration.

It is the old army game, to wit: You got yours, now give me mine. And, as such, it is entirely justified, according to the standards of human instinct. Yet, if you happen to be looking out and not in through the paymaster's window, how the justification might seem slightly out of focus.

Johnson, for example, is not worth $25,000 as he stands today. He is nearly at the end of his rope and might not last another season as a headliner. So much for the commercial side of it. But taking the matter from its human angle, it is a fact that Johnson never got the money he deserved during the years he pitched his arm off for Griffith.

DENIES DEAL MADE

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18.—Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, denied reports today that Tommy Gibbons and the heavyweight champion had been matched to fight in California in May or June.

"If Eddie Kane, Gibbons' manager, has signed for a fight with Dempsey in California, or any other place, it's all news to Jack and myself," said Kearns.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

By Special Licensed Wire to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925. NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—American Association clubs will be right on the heels of the major league clubs in going into training this year, with an impression that they will develop enough strength to compete successfully with the National and the American league circuits.

Columbus will go to Winterhaven, Fla., Indianapolis to Plant City, Fla., Kansas City to Hanford, Calif., Louisville to Mobile, Milwaukee to Sanford, Fla., Minneapolis to San Antonio, Texas, St. Paul to Waco, Texas and Toledo to Deland, Fla.

The arrangement is new for most of the clubs; for instance: Columbus, which was in Orlando last season where the Cincinnati also trained; Toledo, which is going further south in Florida in order that it may pick up some of the exhibition crumbs; Kansas City, which is taking a small California town far removed from metropolitan hubbub; Milwaukee, which moves over from the Gulf into Central Florida; Louisville, which goes into a climate better adapted to training work; Minneapolis, which has taken a former major league stamping ground, and St. Paul which will start up on a revival of baseball in Waco.

Waco has been added to the circuit of the Texas league and it is hoped that it will regain its former prestige in the organization. There was a time when Waco put out some of the best minor league baseball seen anywhere in the United States.

The American Association is spending more money and is in better situated training camps this year than ever before. Of course a race something like that of 1924 is anticipated, and that is one reason why so much effort is being made to put teams into the fight that will be ready to travel in high speed from the start.

The International league will make a wider swing than it has done heretofore. The Baltimore, for instance, are going to Eustis, Fla., a point much below that usually selected for them. Buffalo is going to Palmetto, Fla., where Milwaukee trained last year. Jersey City will train at High Point, N. C., a place of good, even temperature. Newark goes to Petersburg, Va., where they will have the benefit of the diamond built by the local Virginia league club. Reading goes to Leesburg, Fla., from which the Phillies have moved to Bradenton. Rochester will train at Savannah, a favorite spot if the weather is not too rainy, and a town which many teams can visit on the way north for exhibition games. Toronto will train at Augusta, Ga., where the Detroit train.

The Western league is branching out too. Denver will go to Mineral Wells, Texas, a once-favorite spot for big league teams. Des Moines has picked Mexia, in the Texas oil country. Oklahoma City goes to Weatherford, Texas; Omaha to Naacogdoches, Texas; St. Joseph to Monroe, La.; Tulsa to Corsicana, Texas. All of these points, at one time or another, have been big league training centers.

The Pacific coast league has such a fine natural situation that all its teams have to do is going a little farther in their own state for their training.

The milkmen were leading at the half, 18 to 6, in the fourth quarter held the churchmen scoreless. Incidentally, the fourth quarter saw sixteen points marked up for the milkmen. The lineup:

Postponed games will be played next week, the schedule being: Monday, Calla Lily vs. Legion; Tuesday, M. E. church and Christian church; Wednesday, Standard Oil and Legion.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP by FAIR PLAY

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925. NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Boxing fans are now arguing whether Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo will be as effective a fighter when the New York boxing commission permits him to box more than six rounds. Prevailing opinion seems to be that the Buffaloonian has himself gaited for the six-round go and packs all his stuff into the half dozen frames. Were the battle to go longer, it is asserted, Slattery would have to spread out his energy and thus might not make so good a showing. As to this the writer sayeth not. The facts are that Slattery has made good on what has been asked of him and it is only fair to wait until he has a chance to show what he can do over the longer route. There was a great flurry in the ring when Slattery money began to pour into the Garden at a late hour. The idea of the Delaney crowd was that their fighter was due to get the works. But to the writer the money flowing in seemed merely the coin brought by belated fans of Buffalo who had not the slightest doubt that Jimmy would outpoint his rival and backed their opinions to the limit of their rolls. Whether or not his being outpointed in a short bout will effect the plans that were being laid to capitalize Delaney in outdoor shows remains to be seen. News want ads bring results.

Wage Earners Handle Three-Fourths Wealth

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 18.—Three-fourths of America's annual income goes to wage earners, according to W. F. Fetter, supreme commander of the Macca-bees, in an address here. "Between 1919 and 1924 the United States produced an income of $321,000,000,000, an economist recently figured," said Mr. Fetter. "Of this total $240,000,000,000 went to workers. The year 1920 was the most prosperous national income, the total reaching $72,000,000,000. In 1921 it amounted to $60,000,000,000, and in 1923 it reached $71,000,000,000."

THREE-DAY FIESTA REALTORS' PLACE BACKED BY LIONS TOLD BY COLONEL

Glendale Den Endorses Plan Relation of Agent, Client For Celebration at Explained by Oldtimer Weekly Luncheon At Weekly Lunch

Hearty endorsement of the suggestion that a three-day fiesta be staged in Glendale during September, in conjunction with the seventy-fifth anniversary of the admission of California into the union, was given by the Glendale den of Lions at its luncheon meeting today at Spaghetti Station No. 1, 1524 East Colorado.

The fiesta idea, already outlined in The Glendale Evening News, was first advanced by Lon Haddock, and at today's meeting of the Lions he briefly told of the plans for a celebration that will tell the story of early California, a parade, pageant, dancing, an industrial display, carnival and other features yet to be decided upon.

John Brown Guest Mr. Haddock was presented by W. L. Twining, president of the Glendale Realty board, himself a guest of the club and one of those working for the carrying out of Mr. Haddock's idea.

John Brown, evangelist, was also a guest of the club and told of the work his school is doing for boys and girls barred from obtaining education and vocational training elsewhere. Mr. Brown declared that he is opposed to legislation that will prevent any boy or girl from leaving school before 18 years of age to obtain vocational training.

Secretary A. R. Holland of the local club presented a telephone stunt that created lots of fun; it was a pleasing musical program; reports of committees, including one that showed the character night was a financial success, and the final announcement that the Lions will hold a "fish luncheon" at the Spaghetti Station No. 1, next Wednesday.

Prisoner Earns $328 Serving Prison Term

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 18.—With $328 in his possession, the largest sum ever earned by a prisoner while serving his term, a prisoner today was brought from the prison road camp eighteen miles east of Bakersfield, Kern county, by Superintendent Ben H. Milliken and wished good-bye in the effort to re-establish himself as an honorable citizen.

The prisoner, who graduated as an "honor" convict from Folsom penitentiary, earned his money at the rate of 75 cents per day in road construction. His name is withheld by the authorities, but he may not encounter discrimination in his fight to "come back."

The road camp construction plan has been in operation in California since August, 1923. By legislative enactment, the prison authorities are empowered to permit prisoners in their discretion to work on certain state highways and earn money to support themselves after their discharge from the penitentiary.

New, Cheap Process Is Found to Get Helium

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 18.—That helium can be manufactured cheaply by methods recently discovered by chemists has been announced here by Dr. S. C. Lind, chief chemist of the bureau of mines, Washington, D. C., to the Philadelphia branch of the American Chemical society.

"Helium can be produced," said Dr. Lind, "in such quantities, and at such a cost as to enable the government to use it in warfare if necessary. Incidentally, it can be said that the new findings of helium are due to the constant development of the automobile industry. The United States now has 7 per cent of all the oil wells drilled."

A real estate agent is entitled to his commission at the time he brings together the seller and a purchaser who is ready, willing and able to purchase the property offered on the terms of the contract, and should perform no further service in the realty transaction. Col. Tom Thornton told Glendale realtors at the weekly meeting of the Realty board today, noon at the Harriett Mae Tea room.

"The more you do after you have brought the two parties together, the farther you separate yourself from the money which is rightfully yours," he said. Col. Thornton stressed the necessity of having all agreements set in writing in order that the realtor may have legal recourse in the event his commission is denied him.

Col. Thornton, for 25 years head of the Los Angeles Title Insurance Co., is an old-time resident of Glendale and an expert on escrows. He was introduced to the realtors by Vice-President J. M. Boland, who presided in the absence of President W. L. Twining.

Other Business Dr. Jessie A. Russell reported on a meeting of the legislative committee, held yesterday, at which time a number of bills pending before the state Legislature were endorsed and others referred for further consideration.

Lon Haddock addressed the realtors on the proposed three-day carnival and historical fiesta to be staged during early September. The board went on record as endorsing the movement.

A resolution of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Brand, for their recent gift to Glendale in the form of an 800-acre mountain park, was voted unanimously.

Gypsy Crystal Gazers Given Jolt by Council

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 18.—Gypsy crystal gazers, palmists, clairvoyants and others who claim to read the future in the lower end of town for workingmen from the lumber, farming and mining districts today were dealt a severe blow by the city council when the quarterly license fee was raised from $150 to $200. The swarthy alleged communicants with the other world are bedecked with heavy coarse gold rings and bracelets, which sceptics declare represent money filched from customers.

Women in Politics as Far Back as Old Rome

BERKELEY, Feb. 18.—Women in politics is as old as the days of Rome, says Professor H. G. Nutting of the Latin department of the state university. "Roman women exercised an important control over legislation, but they were not permitted to hold office. Their position was comparable to that of women in modern times. Women kept and controlled their own property even after divorce. The ancients, differed from the modern in other things. One of these was their idea of government. They possessed nothing of the international idea, and they believed in a predatory and not a fraternal government of the world."

London Plans Vehicle Tunnel Under Thames

LONDON, Feb. 18.—Details have now been published of the scheme for building a tunnel under the Thames to connect Dartford and Purfleet, and at the same time for widening the Victoria Dock road. The whole outlay necessary, it is estimated, will be about £5,000,000, and the work probably will take about three years. The tunnel is to be the biggest road tunnel in England and will be two and one-half miles long. There is to be space for two lines of the largest vehicles and height enough to take a double deck omnibus, and there is to be a foot-path for pedestrians.

Exasperated at the frequent appearance of lemon-colored collars, large "floppy" caps and canary-yellow strappings on riding breeches, generals of the "old school" at Alreshot, England, recently compiled a set of rules for dress, even including the color of the tie.
