A Visit to the Old Coal Mine

An object of much interest to people who love to recall and witness things of the past is the abandoned coal mine down the Coast near Carmel Highlands.

Mr. L. S. Slevin and J. Edgarton visited this old mine recently. and found a massive derrick, which had fallen to the ground, machinery rusty and overgrown and partly buried in deorie.

The mine began operations in 1884, and continued off and on until 1895. The total output dispatched to the landing at Point Lobos was but two loads; one load was put aboard ship and the other was burned in the bunkers.

The coal was not high grade, and the promoters lost considera ble money in the venture.

Horsepower was used in the beginning, but about 1895 a steam engine was installed. The fallen derrick was constructed of giant redwood trees taken from Malpaso

A Pleasant Evening

Carmel's Junior Red Cross organization is over sixty dollars to the good as the result of last Friday evening's affair at Arts and Crafts Hall.

Mrs. V. Mott Porter's recital of NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC ancient Irish tales was a most charming and interesting event. Old and young were carried along for over an hour by this gifted ladys talk about Ireland's kings and fighting men and the beauti ful colleeus and fairies. One must know this subject well and intimately and lovingly to "get it over." With such a sympathy and understanding does Mrs. Porter handle her subject that she not only "gets it over." but her hearers actually, like Oliver Twist, "want more.

Miss Blanche Tolme supplemented and enhanced the recital by the singing of several songs in the Gaelic language.

Dancing, the first since the be-ginning of the fine epidemic, concluded the evenings entertainment.

DISEASE SPREAD BY ANIMALS

Scientists and Physicians Have Prepared a Strong Indictment Against the Beasts.

Although animals are not affected by the sickness and communicable diseases of man, yet, for some unexplainable reason, the scientists and physiclans declare that a whole host of ofttimes fatal ailments of mankind are traceable to the beasts, says Popular Science Monthly.

The horse is blamed for spreading glanders, rables, lockjaw and other diseases of five or more syllables. Dogs and cats are branded as the circulators of rables, parasitic worms of different kinds, fleas and ticks.

The cow is the worst offender. The list of diseases laid at her barn door is headed with tuberculosis and grows constantly more blood-curdling, until we wonder why physicians and scientists consent to the use of milk, butter and cheese which still lead the dietitians' list of nutritives.

Rats, squirrels and fleas spread the bubonic plague. We are prepared to believe that lice and bedbugs, flies and mosquitoes are the rapid transit lines for yellow fever and malaria. We are willing to forego the luscious oyster all the year around, if need be, to avoid typhoid fever.

Clearer Values.

All life and action upon the snow have an added emphasis and signifisaid Township, and answer the cance, Every expression is understood, Summer has few finer pictures than this winter one of the farmer foddering his cattle from a stack upon the clean snow-the movement, the sharply defined figures, the great green flakes of hay, the long files of patient, cows, the advance just arriving and pressing eagerly for the choice morsels-and the bounty and provision it suggests.

A severe artist! No longer the canvas and the pigments, but the marble and the chisel. . . I see the hills, bulging with great drifts, lift themselves cold and white against the sky, the black lines of fences here and there obliterated by the depth of the snow. Presently a fox barks away up the next mountain, and I imagine I see him sitting there in his furs upon the Illuminated surface, and looking down

The custom of drinking the health of the most popular man at the table has its foundation in the ancient pracmated by the Greeks and adopted by the Romans of drinking to the gods and the dead, observes an exchange.

The Greeks and Romans later began the practice of drinking to each other, and from this arose the custom of toasting living men. But health drinking in its modern form, originating in England in the roystering days of Charles II, begins with the custom of drinking to the ladies or to any woman who happened to be the reigning belle of the court.

Many and various were the quaint customs associated with the toasts of those days. For example, in certain companies of military officers etiquette demanded that the cup should be passed from hand to hand.

In many midnight gatherings of Alsatia gallants stabbed themselves in order to drink with their blood the health of the woman on whom their hearts were set.—Kansas City Journal.

WEEKLY GREETING

There's no fool like an old fool! Because the old fool has learned to understand the young fool, whereas the young fool doesn't understand anybody. - William J. Locke.

Beginning Our Fifth Year

With this issue begins Vol. V. of the Pine Cone. Our purpose is to publish a weekly journal that has a Carmel "atmosphere," that carries from these shores a weekly mirror of the local happenings. Carmel is the mecca for painters and literary folks from all over the world.

Small town newspapers are often a disappointment to readers who are located away from the place of publication. Each week the editor of this paper endeavors to publish the news, editorial, advertising and feature matter so that the several departments will make it a publication of interest its many readers here and elsewhere.

And the Pine Cone is prospering, thank you.

A fact of importance has been brought to light as a result of a curvey of the mussel beds of the California coast. Black mussels have long been recognized as an important food resource on the Atlantic The zoologists found coast. in its great beds of mussels that California has a very large and important food resource, but little appreciated at present. Carmel has long enjoyed mussels as one of the most delicious shellfish foods. Southward and northward from here for many miles there is an abundance of the finest mussels to be found anywhere in the world.

Mrs. L. S. Slevin is in receipt of the following letter from the mother of Carmel's Red Cross Chapter's adopted baby:

"Dear Madam: I take this occasion to offer you my best wishes to a happy new year and also to your best health. Weil! the victory finally is ours; the peace hasn't been signed, but we hope that everything will be slright, thanks to the Americans, who gave us a great help. The day of the armistice, I can not describe to you the enthusiasm that reigned in all our hearts. We gave a big fete in the honor of President Wilson. Now that we are rid of this terrible cauchemar, and in our past sufferings, we have the satisfaction that our dear, dead heroes are avenged. Hoping that my letter will find you in good health. In regard to myself and my children we are all well. Accept, my dear madam, my best thanks for your interest and trusting you will preserve me in your memory, I am,

Yours very sincerely, Marcelle Le Moullec.

The child writes as follows. 'Dearest Philanthropist; - I wish a good and happy new year and plenty of good health. Your small protege, Marcelle Le Moullec.
