A White Man's Awful Crime.

TIES 13 YEAR OLD WHITE GIRL TO A FENCE THEN PROCEEDS TO ASSAULT HER 17 YEAR OLD SISTER. IN FIGHT WITH POSSE KILLS 1 OFFICER AND WOUNDS THREE WHEN THEY ATTEMPT TO ARREST HIM. IS FINALLY KILLED. STORY OF THE CRIME WHICH OCCURRED SUNDAY, DEC. 15th.

"Nobody here knows who the man was. He appeared on the San Joaquin Ranch, eight miles east of Santa Ana, yesterday, carrying a pack and rifle. He was a tall, lithe fellow, 25 or 30 years of age, dark complexioned, wearing a gray suit and heavy half-boots. He stopped at the ranch-house and asked for work, which was not to be had.

In the yard he eyed Myrtle Huff, sister of Mrs. Cook, and sister of Mrs. Hugh McDonald, wives of well-known ranchers of the San Joaquin. Last evening he bought a meal at Harry Spencer's house at Myford, two miles away. At about 7 o'clock he returned to Cook's house, peeked into the windows, where the happy family were addressing Christmas cards. Hearing their pet dog bark and fearing he might follow coyotes away, Myrtle Huff, aged 17, and her sister, Jessie, aged 13, whose home is with Mrs. Cook, went to the barn, fifty yards away, and tied their dog. They carried a lantern. Suddenly a man jumped up in front of them.

"Don't either of you scream," he snarled, "or I'll kill you both."

Fires a Bullet.

He fired a bullet into the ground in front of them.

"You see I mean business. Which of you is the older?"

Brave Myrtle Huff instantly replied she was.

"Put out that lantern."

"She raised it to his face and saw it was the man who was there in the afternoon.

"The man took a rope from his belt and tied Jessie to the fence. He dragged Myrtle around the edge of the barn. Jessie untied herself and ran to the house. Without a gun in the house, Cook ran to the barn, and was met with two bullets from the shadow of the hay stack. Cook had to go back, as ordered. He aroused his employees, among them Al Prater, one of those who was shot today. Before they could do anything the scoundrel was gone and his victim was back in her home."

After a search which aroused the whole country around, the fiend, well armed, was found in the hills where he gave battle to the officers. In the morning, before taking refuge in the hills, at the point of his revolver, he forced a white man to give him breakfast.

On leaving he said: "They will be after me, but I'll kill all of them and then go back and kill the girl's folks."

In the battle which followed he killed under-Sheriff Squires and wounded three other officers. He was finally killed by a company of militia. It appears that in the early engagement with the officers one of his arms was broken by a bullet. This fortunate circumstance doubtless saved the lives of a score of men.

No Talk of Lynching.

Despite the fact that the news of the man's unparalleled crime aroused the whole country around, there was not the slightest suggestion of lynching. The daily papers who are usually the first to suggest a lynching, withheld its usual heads of "HE WILL BE LYNCHED IF CAUGHT." DESERVES LYNCHING, ETC, ETC.

The dead rape fiend has been identified as Joe Matlock, son of the wealthy ex-Mayor Matlock of Eugene, Oregon, from which place he is a fugitive for assaulting a girl 4 or 5 years ago.

One very remarkable thing in connection with Matlock's outrage, the newspapers, giving accounts of it, used no scare heads; made no appeals to passion; but related the horrible details as a matter of news.

JULIUS MALONE AMONG THE GREATEST HEROES OF THE AGE.

The Birmingham, Alabama Courier (White) of Dec. 12th, commenting upon the St. George Hotel fire, has the following to say of Julius Malone:

The most distressing misfortune of the fire was the death of the House Engineer, Julius Malone, a man who had been with the same employer for twenty three years, and was considered by the latter almost as a member of his immediate family. This man possessed a heart, that knew no fear and was ready at any time to risk his life in the attempt to save others. He had been busy carrying out of the building hysterical women, when he saw that the elevator operator Oscar Bell, after having made three trips to the top and having rescued scores of people did not care to make another trip. Malone heard the shrieking and frantic yells for help from other people still left on the top floor and not heeding the warnings of bystanders, he jumped into the elevator, ran it up to the top floor, and brought it down again with 15 people saved. On the decent floor he saw still a lady with a child (Mrs. Harrington) on the 5th floor helpless, and, although the elevator shaft was now a mass of flame, he again ran up trying to get to that lady. But the motor gave out between the second and third floors. He had to climb up to the third floor landing and was himself by that time burning like a lighted candle. Every inch of clothing burned upon his body to ashes and crawling on hands and feet he finally got down the front staircase, always through fire, until he fell exhausted into the street gutter. The Chief of the fire department tried to extinguish the flame and sent the man in an auto to the Emergency Hospital. The draft made by the movement of the auto fanned the smouldering remnants of clothing to a fresh blaze and the chauffeur had his hands full to extinguish them until they got to the Hospital, where an investigation showed at once that he was mortally burned. skin and flesh falling from off his bones; until at 5:20 A. M. death released him. His funeral took place on Thursday following in the interment at Evergreen Cemetery, Los Angeles.

If a just and a charitable God gives us eternal life the soul of this departed hero will not be missing there. We call him a hero, and we think he counts among the greatest of the age. He knew the danger and yet he did not falter but did what he conceived to be human duty.

And those he had saved and those he tried to save, they were not friends, not relatives, not even members of his race, but all absolute strangers, hotel guests.

This man, Julius Malone, was a southern Negro.

Hats off to his memory. He possessed the whitest heart ever created by God. Peace be to his ashes.

THE TRUTH

What this nation and this world needs is a Renaissance of reverence for the truth. If The Crisis stands for one thing above others, it is emphasis of this fact, and it is here that we have to differ with some of our best friends. We are here to tell the essential facts about the condition of the Negro in the United States. Not all the facts, of course—one can never tell everything about anything. Human communication must always involve some selection and emphasis. Nevertheless, in such selections and emphasis there can be two attitudes as different as the poles. One attitude assumes that the truth ought to be as one person or race wants it and then proceeds to make the facts prove this thesis. The other attitude strives without undue assumption of any kind to show the true implication of the existing facts. The first attitude is that of nearly all the organs of public opinion in the United States on the Negro problem. They have assumed, and for the most part firmly believe, that the Negro is an undesirable race destined to eventual extinction of some kind. Every essential fact and situation is therefore colored and grouped to support this thesis, and when stubborn facts appear that simply will not support this thesis there is almost complete silence.

Few Americans, many Negroes, do not realize how widespread and dangerous this disregard of truth in relation to the Negro has become and how terrible is its influence. Sir Harry Johnston, a great Englishman, was recently invited to furnish his views on the Negro to a popular American magazine. When these articles were written and seemed favorable to the black man the magazine paid for them and suppressed them. Jane Addams was asked to write on the Progressive party for McClure's Magazine. Her defense of Negro rights was, with her consent, left out and appeared in The Crisis last month. Charles Edward Stowe offered his "Religion of Slavery" to the Outlook. It was returned not as untrue but "unwise."

Many persons who know these things defend this attitude toward the truth. They say when matters are bad do not emphasize their badness, but seek the encouraging aspects. If the situation of the Negro is difficult strive to better it, but do not continually harp on the difficulties. The trouble with this attitude is that it assumes that everybody knows the truth; that everybody knows the terrible plight of the black man in America. But how do they know it when the organs of public information are dumb? Would anybody ever suspect by reading the Outlook that educated property-holding Negroes are disfranchised? Would any future generation dream by reading the Southern Workman that 5,000 Negroes had been murdered without trial during its existence? What right have we to assume intuitive and perfect knowledge of truth in this one problem, while in myriads of other human problems we bend every energy and strain every nerve to make the truth known to all? Is there not room in the nation for one organ devoted to a fair interpretation of the essential facts concerning the negro? There certainly is, even if the silence and omissions of the public press were quite unconscious; but how much more is the need when the misrepresentation is deliberate? In the recent Congress of hygiene in Washington there was sent from Philadelphia a chart alleging in detail the grossest and most unspeakable immorality against the whole Negro race. Colored folk led by F. H. M. Murray protested. The secretary immediately had the offensive lie withdrawn and said: "I am sorry the chart ever found a place there, but I should be more sorry if the colored people had not protested." Here is the attitude of the honest man: "I am sorry that colored Americans are treated unjustly, but I should be more sorry if they did not let the truth be known." Granted that the duty of chronicling ten mob murders a month, a dozen depicable insults and outrages, is not pleasant occupation, is the unpleasantness the fault of The Crisis or of the nation that perpetrates such dasterdly outrages? "Why," said one of our critics, "if I should tell my white guests of the difficulties, rebuffs and discouragements of colored folk right here in Boston, they would go away and never visit again. If, however, I tell how nicely the Negroes are getting on, they give money." Yes! And if your object is money you do right, but if your object is truth, then you should not only tell your visitors the truth but pursue them with it as they run.

True it is that this high duty cannot always be followed. True it is that often we must sit dumb before the golden calf, but is not this the greater call for a voice to cry in the wilderness, for reiterated declaration that the way of the Lord is straight and not a winding, crooked, cunning, thing?

BIG FUNERAL

Poor old man, Oliver Sampels lived in an alley in the back part of Peaseville. He wore trousers reinforced by many patches, and the only decoration on the walls of his hut were pictures of Macaboy snuff and Battle Axe tobacco. He never had a dollar ahead in his life to keep the wolf from his door; still, when he died the other day he had a $200 funeral. "'Tis pity, 'tis true."—Atlanta Independent.

If the white minister who, during local option elections, goes among Negroes, preaching to them how to vote, would manifest the same interest in the moral uplift, the salvation of his soul, the betterment of his condition, etc., we would have more faith in his sincerity. If you are not going to help us when there is no local option election, let us alone when you have one.—The Texas Guide.

The white minister who comes among us at that time does so largely at the invitation of the local colored minister who hopes thereby to ingratiate himself into the good graces of "de white folks," and thus get himself rated in the class of "good niggers." If the white ministers really wanted to do something for the uplift of the race he has the opportunity every time he goes into his own pulpit. He could, if the stuff were in him, make a favorable impression for us before an audience where we have no voice. If he wants to help us he should let his bucket down right where he is.—Dallas Express.

It is said that Mr. Taft announced just before the opening of the late campaign that he had appointed only a few Negroes to important offices, and that he had appointed none where they were not wanted. Mr. Taft may have served the country nobly in that respect, and his twelve electoral votes show how grateful the country felt for such service. His inroads on the electoral vote of the solid South is likewise worthy of note. Such memories will doubtless make the long trip up Salt River less irksome than it otherwise would have been.—Dallas Express.

We are pleased to note that the "white slave" law has reached out to save a woman of the race who came or was brought to Cleveland from Canada via Detroit, in recent weeks. Our contemporaries will please note this fact.—The Cleveland Gazette.

Dr. Washington shipped a supply of 'possum and 'taters to the black cabinet to regale them elves in a consolation dinner. Was it the last supper? Ralph Tyler read the hand-writing on the wall, and with tears in his eyes, interpreted the mystic words: "Eat, drink and be merry, for in March, boys, you die."—Atlanta Independent.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS

At this season of the year much concern is given to the distribution of presents and kind remembrance of friends. This is as it should be and no one should be overlooked. Those whom misfortune has overtaken, and there are many such among us, should be especially remembered. There are many old and feeble to whom a small gift of remembrance will mean much good cheer.

THE MALONE MEMORIAL EXERCISES WELL ATTENDED

The Malone memorial exercises, held at the Lyceum on the 15th, were attended by an audience composed of men and women of the sober, thoughtful class. Owing to a previous disappointment the number of ladies was not so large as before. There was an almost total absence of young people; there being present but two young men, Atty. Chas. S. Darden and J. L. Edmonds Jr., the audience being otherwise composed of men and women of the older class.
The almost total absence of the young people from so important an exercise was no reflection upon the hero who so bravely gave his life that others might live.

After reading current topics and calling attention to the object of the meeting, temporary president, Mr. S. Oliver, introduced Rev.
E. W. Kenchen, who delivered a splendid touching eulogy upon the heroic deeds that resulted in the death of Julius Malone. Rev.
Kenchen told the audience that every passing day offered opportunities for deeds of personal heroism and urged upon each listener the importance of performing in a fearless manner the duties that present themselves.

It was a great address that should have been listened to by a great audience. Every colored high school student in the city should have heard it. It would have lifted their minds above the frivolous things that take up too much of their time and inspired them with an ambition to do things worth while.

Short and appropriate addresses were delivered by Mrs. G. Walter Snell, Messrs. Echols, Randolph, Milton W. Lewis, Jackson, and S. Oliver. A committee composed of J. L. Edmonds Sr., Milton W.
Lewis and Mr. Echols drew up suitable resolutions commemorating the deeds of Julius Malone and Oscar Bell, the elevator boy, who nobly assisted in the rescue.

Our Christmas Present.

We want every one of our subscribers to send us One Dollar on account for a Christmas present.
Having devoted one more year unselfishly to their interest if they will remember us in the manner named they will greatly aid us in keeping up the work. All friends of the paper will greatly aid the cause for which it is battling by sending in $1.50 for a year's subscription as a Christmas present.
Such a gift will be "bread cast upon the waters." All we want for a Christmas gift is larger opportunity to keep up the struggle for good government.

KEEPING MRS. JACK JOHN- SON IN THE LIMELIGHT

When 200 guests hurriedly left a cafeteria on discovering that Mrs. Jack Johnson was a guest, they gratified Mrs. Johnson's ambition by thrusting her again in the limelight. If there is anything Mrs. Johnson loves it is the limelight; and this the white press of the country is giving her to her heart's content. In the meantime they are making the American people the laughing stock of the world.

A Governor's Christmas Gift.

The example set by Governor Donaghey of Arkansas should be followed by other governors in the South. By liberating 360 convicts from those living hells known as "convict camps" the governor has sent hope and good cheer to more hearts this year than any other governor under the sun.
His reasons for liberating those unfortunate convicts tells its own story of corrupt magistrates and unjust judges. The governor's action show also that public sentiment in the South is undergoing a great change in the interest of justice and mercy.

SOLID AS A ROCK

The run on the Mechanics Savings Bank of Richmond, Va., of which Editor John Mitchell of the Planet is president, proved that institution to be as solid as a rock. Every depositor who appeared at the window received his money as fast as they could be accommodated until the run exhausted itself. When the news of the run on the Mechanics Savings Bank was noised abroad President Mitchell received telegrams from banking institutions offering any amount of money he needed.

The run was caused by the refusal of the bank to cash a check for an ignorant Negro after banking hours. The depositors lost no time in returning their money to the bank on finding the institution solvent, which is now doubtless the strongest Negro banking institution in the country. Editor John Mitchell, the president, is one of the greatest self made men of to-day.
