National Library of Canada

The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol \rightarrow (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol ∇ (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

L'exemplaire filmé fut reproduit grâce à la générosité de:

Bibliothèque nationale du Canada

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole \rightarrow signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole ∇ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

Explanation of the Articles of the Calendar.

These pages are calculated for Toronto and Quebec, and for ordinary purposes will serve with sufficient accuracy for every city in Canada.

MOON'S PHASES.—This Table gives the times for the two meridians when the moon passes the geocentric longitudes of 0°, 90°, 180° and 270° east of the sun. It gives also the times of her greatest and least distance from the earth.

TWILIGHT.—In this table are given the times at which twilight begins in the morning and ends in the evening, i. e., the times when the sun's centre is 18° below the horizon.

GREATEST ELONGATION OF THE POLE STAR.—This column gives the greatest azimuth of the Pole Star east or west from the meridian as observed at a place in latitude 45°. When the greatest elongation corresponding to any other latitude is required, the number given in the column should be corrected by means of the following table.

Degrees of Latitude.....	42°	43°	44°	45°	46°	47°	48°	49°	50°
1st Correction for Degrees.....	-5' 58"	-4' 5"	-2' 5"	0' 0"	+2' 12"	+4' 32"	+6' 59"	+9' 34"	+12' 18"
2nd Correction for each minute of latitude.....	+ 1.9"	+ 2.0"	+ 2.1"	+ 2.2"	+ 2.3"	+ 2.5"	+ 2.6"	+ 2.7"

The 1st correction for the degrees of latitude is to be subtracted from the greatest elongation given in the calendar, or added to it, according as the degrees of latitude are less or greater than 45°.

The 2nd correction, which is always additive, is found by multiplying the number given in the third line of the table by the number of minutes in the latitude.

Thus for latitude 43° 20'... 1st correction = - 4' 5"	2nd correction + 2.0 × 20 = + 40"
" " 47° 40'... " " + 4' 32"	" " + 2.5 × 40 = 1' 40"
" " 45° 10'... " " + 0' 0"	" " + 2.2 × 10 = 0' 22"

THE PLANETS.—The times of rising and setting of the five chief planets are calculated for Toronto, and are corrected for refraction. The times of culmination, although computed for the meridian of Toronto, will serve approximately for the whole of Canada. The meridian zenith distances, being designed merely to aid in finding the planets, have been given only to the nearest tenth of a degree, as seen from the latitude of Toronto.

When the planetary day is shorter than the mean solar day, and commences soon after the midnight of the preceding day, the planet will sometimes arrive a second time on the meridian before the expiration of the actual civil day. From analogous causes a planet will sometimes rise twice or set twice in the same civil day. When two culminations occur in the same day, or two risings or settings, the times of both are registered.

The times of the SUN'S RISING AND SETTING are given for the upper limb, and are corrected for refraction both for Toronto and Quebec.

The civil times both for the rising and setting of the Moon's centre are given for every day for Toronto and Quebec. The MOON'S MERIDIAN ZENITH DISTANCES are given to the nearest tenth of a degree for Toronto. They are not corrected for parallax or refraction.

The column SUN ON MERIDIAN gives the time that a watch should shew when the shadow of a sun dial is on the noon mark.

MOON'S AGE.—This column shews to the nearest tenth of a day the Moon's age at Toronto Noon.

The column, MOON ON THE MERIDIAN, gives the mean time at which the moon's centre passes the meridian of Toronto, when in the column headed Moon's rising or setting or Moon on meridian the letters A.M. occur, unaccompanied by any number, they denote that the risings given for the succeeding days relate to the morning and those for the preceding days to the afternoon, but that the Moon does not rise or set or cross the meridian (as the case may be) on that day.

The column, UPPER TRANSIT OF POLE STAR shows for every day the mean time at which the Pole Star makes its upper transit across the meridian of Toronto. It passes in the morning from April 9 to October 8, and in the afternoon for the rest of the year, excepting on October 9, when it does not cross the meridian.

The four last columns, although computed for Toronto, will serve with sufficient accuracy for the whole of Canada.

The time at which the lower transit of the Pole Star occurs may be found by adding 11 h. 58 m. 2 s. to the time of its preceding upper transit.

From the time of the upper transit of the pole star may be found the time of its greatest western or eastern elongation, by adding or subtracting the constants given in the annexed Table.

Star Table.

From the times of the upper transit of the Pole Star may be derived, with the aid of the following table, the times of culmination, and of the rising and setting of the principal fixed stars, as seen from the parallel of 45° north latitude.

To ascertain when any star found in the following table will be on the meridian, add the number in the left-hand column of figures to the preceding meridian transit of the pole star given in the calendar. To find the time of rising of a star, subtract the number opposite to it in the right-hand column of figures from the time of its meridian passage. For the setting of a Star, add the same number to the time of its meridian passage. Those stars marked (.....) revolve in a circle of perpetual apparition, and do not rise or set at places in and to the north of latitude 45°.

The mean temperature of the year 1862 differed very slightly from the average of 22 years, being only 0.23 in excess. The monthly means likewise conformed in an unusual degree to their respective averages, the mean deviation without regard to sign being 1.42 in 1862, while the average of these deviations in 22 years was 2.46.

As regards the distribution of temperature through the year, the first seven months, with the exception of May, were relatively cold, being on the whole 0.75 below the average, while the temperature of the remaining five months exceeded the average by 1.60, and, with the exception of November, were all relatively warm. January and February, though comparatively cold, do not supply examples of very low temperatures, the minimum of the year, -5.2 on February 15, being the highest minimum that has occurred since 1847, and 7.0 warmer than the average of the yearly minima. Again, while July was relatively cold it furnishes the highest maximum, 95.5, that has been recorded since 1856, when the temperature reached 97.0.

The year was on the whole deficient in rain, the total fall being less than the average by 4.75 inches. The excess of snow, which may be taken as equal to 2.377 inches of rain, still leaves a deficiency of 2.418 inches from the average annual precipitation. The lack of rain that occurred in April, May, and June, was in some degree compensated by the abundant snow in January, February and March, which exceeded by 75 per cent. the usual fall, and served to maintain below the surface an amount of moisture sufficient for the supply of the more deeply rooted plants, and to mitigate the ill effects that might have been apprehended from the drought of the three following months.

In the following summary several of the results of 1862 are compared with the averages derived from a series of years, as well as with extreme values of analogous results that have occurred during the same series.

TEN REASONS FOR EMIGRATION TO CANADA.

The aim of the man who contemplates changing the land of his birth for another being, generally speaking, the improvement of his condition, the question where the circumstances may be looked for most favourable to the realization of his desire, claims his best thought. Such thought he owes to himself, to his family if he has one, and to those among whom he may decide on taking up his abode; because mistake in his choice may involve him and those he loves in disappointment and distress, and entail wretchedness on those to whom he should bring strength.

In favour of the selection of Canada as his future home, the attention of the intending emigrant is respectfully invited to the considerations which follow.

1. Its accessibility.

Compared with other regions open to him, it may be reached in a very short time (eleven days by steam), at a trifling expense, and with a small amount of inconvenience.

In sailing vessels, the rates of storage passage vary, according to accommodation, from three pounds to four or five pounds sterling. The charge between Liverpool, Londonderry or Glasgow, and Toronto, by the Montreal Steamship line, is $34, including provisions; between Glasgow and Quebec or Montreal, $23. By the Anchor Line, the charge between Glasgow and Quebec is $25. The Great Eastern charges $30 between Liverpool and New York. Its cabin rates are—1st cabin, $95—135; 2d cabin, $70; 3d cabin, $50. By the Montreal Line, the cabin passage varies, with accommodation, from $72—$88. The cabin fare between Glasgow and Quebec, by the Ocean Line, is $68; Intermediate, $44. By the Anchor Line, $60; Intermediate, $30. Children are carried by them all at lower rates, generally halfpries.

Once landed at Quebec or Montreal, the emigrant may pass on to Toronto, or Hamilton, or any intermediate locality, by steamboat or railway; and thence by railway to the western extremity of the province. The Northern Railway will take him to any place he pleases on the route between Toronto and Collingwood, Lake Huron, whence he can pass on to Owen Sound and Intermediate places by steamer. The cost of the passage by deck of steamer and second class cars is, from Quebec to Toronto, a distance of 600 miles, about $5; with corresponding rates for places intermediate; to Windsor, the western extremity of the province, 631 miles from Quebec, $7 12½; to Barrie, 565 miles, $4 50; to Collingwood, 593 miles, $7. The time between Quebec and Toronto is by railway about 30 hours, by steambot a day or two longer. Toronto may be reached by railway from Portland, the ocean terminus of the Grand Trunk, in from 25 to 26 hours.

As, moreover, he may return to his old home so much more easily, should he for any reason wish to do so, he is less irrevocably committed by coming here than by going elsewhere, and will, in fact, at any time, much more preferable, other things being equal. His friends may, likewise, if so disposed, follow him with much less difficulty—thus renewing associations of which necessity had compelled the temporary interruption.

2. The scope afforded by its extent, both for the successful employment of his capabilities and the gratification of his tastes in the choice of a home.

Leaving out the territory to the northwest, the opening of which may be looked for ere long, Canada occupies a space, stretching in a south-westerly direction from the Island of Anticosti in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, to the south-western extremity of Lake Erie, of about 1,400 miles in length; with a breadth varying from two hundred to four hundred miles. Including water-surface, it is computed to contain an area of 349,921 square miles—242,452 exclusive of water. The number of acres comprised within it is estimated at 160,405,219—128,059,884 of which are reckoned to Canada East; to Canada West, 31,745,553.

"If an area," it is remarked in a pamphlet published in 1860, by authority, "be traced in Europe, corresponding generally to that occupied by Canada, in America, and the meridian of the most southern part of Canada be supposed to be upon the meridian of Greenwich, in England, the south of France, at the base of the Pyrenees, will represent the south frontier of Canada; the south eastern boundary of this area will stretch through France, Switzerland, Bavaria, and Austria, to a point in the south of Poland, and a line drawn northward to Warsaw will delineate the mouth of the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The north western boundary of this area will extend from the south of France, in a northerly direction, towards and beyond Brest; and a line drawn from near Brest to the British Channel, thence through England, Belgium and Germany, to Warsaw again, will establish the position of a European area, corresponding to Canada in America. The inhabited and highly fertile portion of Canada is represented in this area by those regions which lie in the south, centre and south-east of France, and in those parts of Switzerland, Bavaria and Austria, included within its boundary. The other portion, although of vast extent, and not so well fitted for extended agricultural operations, is highly valuable on account of its timber and minerals.

The Province of Canada embraces about 350,000 square miles of territory, independent of its north-western possessions, not yet open for settlement; it is consequently more than one-third larger than France, nearly three times as large as Great Britain and Ireland, and more than three times as large as Prussia. The inhabited or settled portion covers at least 40,000 square miles, and is nearly twice as large as Denmark, three times as large as Switzerland, a third greater than Scotland, and more than a third the size of Prussia; but such is the rapid progress of settlement through immigration, that in ten years time the settled parts of Canada will be equal in area to Great Britain or Prussia."

According to the Crown Lands Report for 1855, the peninsula of Gaspe alone, which is 175 miles in length, with an extreme breadth of 90 miles, comprises an area, after the deduction of a small portion covered by New Brunswick, of 11,800 superficial miles, equal to that of the European peninsula of Denmark, which it resembles in form. The Tadoussac territory, valued as yet chiefly for its timber trade and its fisheries, is there stated to have a coast of six hundred miles in length on the Gulf and River St. Lawrence, with a breadth of 100 miles and an area of probably 65,000 square miles; more than twice that of Scotland. The country drained by the Saguenay includes an area of 27,000 square miles, an extent equal to the Tyrol and Switzerland taken together. The quantity of land in it capable of cultivation is estimated at about 3,000,000 acres. The area drained by the St. Maurice is about 21,000 superficial miles; about one-sixth larger than the main land of Scotland, and containing about as much arable land. "Admirably watered, and intersected by magnificent rivers, with forests of pine alternating with rich tracts of hardwood land, and with that most valuable of all minerals, iron ore, in unlimited quantities, the country wants but the hand of man and the course of a few years to make it equal to the most flourishing parts of Canada." The area of the Ottawa and tracts therewith connected is estimated at 82,000 miles; one-fourth greater than that of the New England States.

In the Great Manitoulin Island, which contains about 3,000,000 acres, upwards of 200,000 acres are expected soon to come into market. On the north sides of Lakes Huron and Superior there remains to be noticed an area of about 48,000 miles; one-half greater than that of the State of Maine.

Regions so vast afford certainly ample room and verge enough, and will do for some time to come. Should they, however, become too strait we have the North West to fall back upon, one-sixth of which, the Red River and Saskatchewan country, is computed to contain a territory exceeding in extent the empires of France and Austria united.

3. The physical characteristics of the country, its natural resources, and its healthfulness.

The variety of its products and abundance of its harvests attest, where proper care is bestowed on its cultivation, the excellence of its soil. And although in the longer settled parts of the country the best lands may be supposed to be occupied, and therefore attainable only at a considerable advance on the original price, others quite equal to them are to be found in the newer regions which every year is bringing into the market. According to the Crown Land Report for last year, there are now in the hands of the Government (surveyed for disposal 5,008,557 acres, in Lower Canada; in Upper Canada, 2,829,358½—in all, 8,747,915½—varying in price with situation.

In Upper Canada, it is 70 cents per acre for cash, or one dollar when paid in instalments—one at the time of purchase, and the remainder in four equal annual payments with interest. In Lower Canada, the highest price is 90 cents, but the larger quantity is disposable at 50 cents per acre. In the Altona District, Upper Canada, and in those of Gaspe and Saguenay in Lower Canada, the price is only 20 cents. The condition of settlement is excellent in all cases.

Through these newer lands seven great roads have recently been laid out in Upper and five in Lower Canada. The Upper Canada roads are—1. "The Ottawa and Opeongo road," which runs east and west, intended to be 171 miles in length, and to connect the Ottawa river with Lake Huron.—of this, 62 miles are finished, on which 235 settlers are already located. 2. The "Addington Road," which intersects the Opeongo Road,—on this, which is about 61 miles in length, there are 178 settlers. 3. "The Hastings Road," running nearly parallel to the Addington Road, and connecting the county of Hastings with the Ottawa and Opeongo Road, 68 miles in length—on which there are 306 settlers. 4. "The Bobcaygeon Road," running north from Bobcaygeon, between the counties of Peterborough and Victoria, meant to be continued to Nipissing,—the number of miles completed is 35. The number of settlers 108. 5. "The Frontenac and Madawaska Road," of which the number of miles completed is 33. 6. "The Muskoka Road," which runs from the head of the navigation of Lake Couchichewick to the Grand Falls of Muskoka, where it will intersect what is called Peterson's line, which will eventually meet the Ottawa and Opeongo Road, now gradually opening westwardly. By this road, the intending settler can reach the centre of the county in one day from Toronto, whence he will proceed by Northern Railway to Lake Simcoe, and thence by steamer,—21 miles are completed. 7. "The Sault Ste. Marie Road," intended to run from Sault Ste. Marie to Goulais Bay,—four miles of which are completed.

The five in Lower Canada are "The Elgin Road," in the county of Elgin, 38 miles in length, from St. Jean Port Joli to the Provincial Line; "The Montreal and Cap Chat; "The Taché Road, from Buckland, county of Beauce, to Kempt Road, Mimoucti, about 200 miles; "The Tennis-court Road," from River du Loup to Lake Temiscouata; and "The Kempt Road," from Melis to Restoucouche.

Along these roads, free grants, not exceeding 100 acres

In each case, are given by the government for the purpose of facilitating settlement, on the following conditions.

- 1. That the settler be eighteen years of age.
 - 2. That he take possession of the land allotted to him within one month.
 - 3. That he put into a state of cultivation 12 acres of land in the course of four years.
 - 4. That he build a log house, 20 by 18 feet, and reside on the lot until the foregoing conditions are fulfilled.
- "Families may reside on a single lot, and the several members having land allotted to them will be exempt from building and residence on each individual lot. The non-fulfilment of these conditions will cause the immediate loss of the land, which will be sold or given to another. The lands thus opened up, and gratuitously offered by the government for settlement, are chiefly of excellent quality, and well adapted in respect of soil and climate, to all the purposes of husbandry.

"The reports of the resident agents on these roads, for the past year, convey the most favourable accounts of the prosperity of the settlers thereon, and of the large amount of produce they have raised on the newly-cleared lands."

In the Crown Lands Report for 1862, similar accounts are given; though a late statement excepts certain parts of the Openingo Road, which are said to be so rocky as to be incapable of cultivation.

In its mines, in its forests, and in its fisheries, Canada has stores of untold, of almost inconceivable wealth; which its numerous lakes and rivers supply facilities for conveying to market.

Of metallic minerals, the following are enumerated in a catalogue contained in "Canada at the Universal Exhibition, in 1856," to wit: Magnetic Iron Ore, Specular Iron Ore, Lamonts (Dog Ore), Transferrous Iron, Sulphate of Zinc (Blende), Sulphate of Lead (Galena), Copper, Nickel, Silver, Gold, Non-metallics—Terminum, Chromium, Cobalt, Manganese, Iron Pyrites, Graphite, Dolomite, Carbonate of Magnesia, Sulphate of Barvta, Iron Ochres, Steatite, Lithographic Stone, Azules, Jasper, Labrador Felspar, Aventurine, Hyacinths, Cornudum, Amethyst, Jet, Quartzose Sandstone, Bethune and Basalt, Gypsum, Shell Marl, Phosphate of Lime, Mill-stones, Grindstones, Whetstones, and Tripoli. Under the head "Building Materials," are specified: Granites, Sandstone, Calcareous Sandstone, Limestones, Hydraulic Limestones, Roofing Stones, Fluggin-Stones: Clays suitable for the formation of red and white bricks, tiles and coarse pottery; Moulding Sand, Fuller's Earth; and Marbles, white, black, red, br. w., yellow and black, grey and variegated, and green. Of combustibles—Peat, Petroleum and Asphaltum, are named. Some of these are confined to a single locality, others to a few places, but the more useful of them are widely distributed and their quantities very great.

Though our fisheries are as yet in their infancy, they employ from 1,200 to 1,500 boats, with nearly 100 vessels. The annual value of their products is, for Lower Canada, $342,523; for Upper Canada, $380,000; total, $1,322,523.

Exclusive of furs, the products of the forest amounted, in 1860, to $11,012,253.

Our climate, notwithstanding the extremes of cold and heat to which it is liable—which, however, are often greatly exaggerated,—is eminently favourable, as the tables of longevity and the habits of the people prove, both to life and enjoyment.

According to Professor Guy, the proportion of deaths to the population is, in "The salubrity of the Province," remarks Mr. Hogan, from whom we have taken the above table, "is sufficiently proved by its cloudless skies, its elastic air, and almost entire absence of fogs. The lightness of the atmosphere has a most invigorating effect upon the spirits. The winter frosts are severe and steady, and the summer suns are hot, and bring on vegetation with wonderful rapidity. It is true that the spring of Canada differs much from the spring of many parts of Europe; but after her long winter the crops start up as if by magic, and reconcile her inhabitants to the loss of that which, elsewhere, is often the sweetest season of the year. If, however, Canada has but a short spring, she can boast of an autumn deliciously mild, and often lingering on, with its Indian summer and golden sunsets, until the month of December.

"A Canadian winter, the mention of which some years ago, in Europe, conveyed almost a sensation of misery, is hailed rather as a season of increased enjoyment than of privation and discomfort by the people. Instead of alternate rain, snow, sleet and fog, with broken up and impassable roads, the Canadian has clear skies, a fine bracing atmosphere, with the rivers and many of the smaller lakes frozen, and the inequalities in the rough tracks through the woods made smooth by snow, the whole face of the country being literally macadamized by nature for a people as yet unable to macadamize for themselves."

4. The constituents and character of its population.

As a matter of course, its inhabitants share in the common characteristics of the races whence they have sprung—which include the leading peoples of Europe, and especially of the British Islands, and France and Germany—and natives of the United States. The circumstances in which they are placed—the enormous demands on them for exertion during the earlier period of their residence in the country, the self-dependence they are called to exercise, connected with the measure in which they are thrown on one-another's sympathy, and the hope amidst a few of their better qualities. Even the variety of their previous modes of thought and action, though censuring perhaps for a time some inconvenience, is a gain to them in the end by the contributions which it enables them to make severally to the common stock of ideas, and the habit which it produces of tolerance for unessential differences, consideration for one-another's feelings, and appreciation of each other's virtues.

An incidental advantage of no small value, resulting from the variety of origin to which allusion has been made, is the sympathy which the new-comer may look for from his countrymen, with the measure in which the privilege of association with them helps to make him feel himself at home. This is a source of comfort specially open to emigrants from Britain, France, and the neighbouring States.

Among the larger portion of our people there exists, alongside of the variety of origin alluded to, a homogeneity which greatly facilitates their welding into one community, imparting to them, while the process is going on, a coincidence of feeling which makes living among them easy and pleasant, and secures their acting together in all matters of special moment.

The beneficial influence mutually exerted by the new-comer and the older resident on one another, is well brought out in the following passage of Mr. Hogan.

"It is a remarkable fact, that the farmers of Upper Canada have opportunities of improvement, and of enlarging and correcting their views, beyond what are enjoyed by many of their class even in England. And this arises from the circumstance of the population being made up of so many varieties. The same neighbourhood has frequently a representative of the best farming skill of York-shire, of the judicious management and agricultural experiences of the Lowlands, and of the patient industry and perseverance of Flanders. In a country so peopled, the benefits of travel are gained without the necessity of going away from home. Other countries, in fact, send their people to teach Canadians, instead of Canadians having to go to other countries to learn. A thousand experiences are brought to their doors, instead of their having to visit a thousand doors to acquire them. Nor is the advantage of this happy admixture of population altogether on the side of the Canadian; for whilst he gains from the old countryman his skill and his science, he teaches him, in return, how to rely upon himself in emergencies and difficulties inseparable from a new country. how to be a carpenter when a storm blows down a door, and there is no carpenter to be had, and how to be an ismnyed wheelwright when a waggon breaks down in the midst of a forest, and there is no one either to instruct or assist him. The one, in short, imparts to a comparatively rude people the knowledge and skill of an old and civilized country; the other teaches skilled labour: how to live in a new land. The consequence is, the old countryman of fact becomes, in all that relates to self-reliance and enterprise, a capital Canadian in a few years; whilst the Canadian, in all that pertains to skillful industry, becomes an Englishman."

The operation of the same fact, the mixed character of our population, on the culture of taste is shown in continuation of the above, but our space compels us to leave it unquoted. The principle may be applied more widely than it is by Mr. H. Its power is, in fact, coextensive with our whole thinking and working.

5. Its institutions.
No-where is a more perfect freedom enjoyed than here. Of a state of liberty more complete it would indeed be difficult even to form a conception. We live under laws of our own making or voluntary adoption, administered in courts established by ourselves, and by judges of our own appointing. The men by whom our general affairs are managed are chosen by ourselves and responsible to us for their conduct. Our municipal system gives the people a power in local matters which is supreme, and affords to the more ambitious and intelligent among them an opportunity of preparing themselves for the performance of higher duties, as well as of attracting the notice and securing the respect of the community. Of influence or station, there is nothing among us to which the poorest may not aspire.

"The general features of the municipal law of Upper Canada, and which, with some modifications suited to the different state of society in Lower Canada, may be stated as the system in force throughout the Province, are—

"The inhabitants of each county, city, town and township, are constituted corporations; their organization proceeding wholly upon the elective principle; and provision is made for the erection of new municipalities, as the circumstances of the country require, by their separation from those already existing. A complete system is created for regulating the elections, and for defining the duties of the municipalities and their officers. Their powers may be generally stated to embrace every thing of a local nature, including the opening and maintenance of highways, the erection of school houses, and the support of common and grammar schools; the provision of accommodation for the administration of justice, goals, &c., and the collection of rates for their support, as well as for the payment of petty juries; granting shop and tavern licences; regulating and prohibiting the sale of spirituous liquors; providing for the support of the poor; preventing the obstruction of streams; effecting drainages, both in the cities and county; inspection of weights and measures; enforcing the due observance of the Sabbath, and protection of public morals; establishing and regulating ferries, harbours, markets, &c.; abating nuisances; making regulations for and taking precautions against fires; establishing gas and waterworks; making police regulations; levying rates upon all real and personal property, including incomes, for any purposes; and, for certain objects, borrowing money; together with a great number of minor matters, essential for the good government of a community.

In educational advantages we know of no country so young that exceeds us. By few of that class are we even equalled. Our common schools, established on the best principles and taught by well-qualified and honourably-conducted teachers, offer to our youth at large the means of qualifying themselves for the intelligent and efficient performance of the duties awaiting them in their present social positions, or adding them, if such be their wish, to raise themselves to such as are higher, either without cost or at a charge little more than nominal. For the obtaining of a still better culture our Grammar Schools, which are rapidly improving in character, offer all reasonable facilities; while our Colleges and Universities spare professional training and instruction in the higher departments of learning and science within the reach of the possessors of moderate means, or such as, in the absence of these, may be disposed to maintain for a time a manly struggle for their own advancement.

From a valuable table (T) given in Dr. Ryerson's Report for 1861, we extract the following particulars illustrative of the educational progress of Upper Canada, between 1842 and 1861.

The number of common schools was, in 1842, 1,271; 1847, 2,727; 1852, 2,992; 1857, 3,621; 1861, 3,910. The pupils attending these numbered, in 1842, 66,978; 1847, 121,829; 1852, 179,557; 1857, 262,673; 1861, 310,287. Of Roman Catholic separate schools there are reported, for 1851, in which year they first appear in the returns, 16; 1857, 100; 1861, 109. There were in 1845, 2,500 common school teachers employed; in 1850, 2,479; in 1855, 3,565; and in 1861, 4,336. There was paid for salaries of teachers of common and separate schools, erection and repair of school houses, libraries and apparatus, in 1850, $410,472; in 1855, $899,272; in 1861, $1,191,413. Of the schools thus reported there were 252 free in 1850; 1,211 in 1855; and in 1861, 2,903.

In 1842, there are supposed to have been in existence 25 county grammar schools. They numbered 32, in 1847; in 1852, 60; in 1857, 72; in 1861, 80. On these schools there were in attendance, in 1847, 1,000 pupils; in 1852, 2,043; in 1857, 4,073; in 1861, 4,760. The salaries paid the masters were, in 1855, the first year in which they are given separately, $40,255; in 1861, $71,034.

In 1842, we have reported, in addition to the above, 44 separate schools and academies (a supposed approximation); in 1847, 90; in 1852, 181; in 1857, 270; in 1861, 337. The number of pupils in these institutions was, in 1847, 1,831; in 1852, 5,684; in 1857, 4,073; in 1861, 4,760.

We had in operation, in 1847, six colleges, with an attendance of 700 students; in 1852, eight, with 751 students; in 1857, twelve, with 1,335 (approx.); 1861, thirteen, with 1,373 (approx.)

The amounts reported as paid for educational purposes, in Upper Canada, were, in 1851, $509,950; in 1856, $1,326,992; in 1861, $1,476,107.

The following table, by J. G. Hodgins, LL.B. F.R.G.S., taken from "Eighty Years' Progress," &c. (p. 524), will give an idea of the educational advance of Lower Canada between 1852 and 1861.

Year.	Educational Institutions of all kinds.	Pupils.	Assessments and Fees.
1853	2,352	108,284	$105,548
1854	2,795	119,730	238,032
1855	2,808	127,058	249,130
1856	2,919	133,141	406,764
1857	2,980	148,709	424,208
1858	2,955	156,872	453,350
1859	2,490	108,148	408,436
1860	3,254	172,155	503,559
1861	3,345	180,845	524,219

As to religious privileges, we are also on the whole favourably situated. The right of judging for ourselves in these matters is universally recognized; and in the eye of the law we stand on an equality. The common denominations have all a place among us, so that we may each, if such be our desire, have the opportunity of connection, in the older portions of the country, at any rate, with those among whom we may have been brought up, or who may be preferred by us. Fair allowance being made for difference in circumstances, the means of instruction will compare favourably, as to character, in the greater part of these bodies, with those enjoyed by them elsewhere. Speaking generally, the usual form of Christian education—the Sabbath school, Bible class, Bible Tract and Missionary Societies, and kindred organizations—are found in healthful and vigorous operation among them. Notwithstanding their differing views, these denominations, moreover, dwell side by side in peace, treat each other with the courtesy common in other parts of the Christian world, and co-operate with one another for common objects, as much at least as is common in the lands whence they have come. The institutions for the relief of want and distress in its various forms, which usually follow in the wake of Christianity, have place and are carrying on their good work in our midst.

6. The union which it offers of the advantages characteristic both of the older and the newer states of society.

By selecting as their home the older parts of the country, those whose tastes would lead them to give the preference to the former may secure them, in fair measure, provided they bring with them the necessary requisites in character, habits and means; while such as are willing to share the usual fortunes of the latter, may calculate on the chances open to them in ordinary circumstances. Growth, with its attendant advantages, is in these chiefly a question of time and patience. At a much earlier age, and with much less of struggle than is requisite in older countries, the diligent and economical may hope to place themselves in a position of independence. As a general thing, the means of comfortable support is within the reach of the industrious, on conditions much less onerous than in these.

7. Its relations and status.

The emigrant to Canada has, in the fact of its forming part of the British empire, the guarantee of one of the most powerful nations of the earth for his protection against injury from without. In this respect, as in every other, the mother country has of course a right to expect that we shall make every reasonable effort to help ourselves. Should the necessity arise, this will be done; and being done, there need be feared on her part no failure. Against the risk of any movement from within, which would interfere injuriously with him, he has equal assurance in the hearty loyal and affectionate attachment of our people to the parent state, which would make them contemplate the prospect of separation with dislike, rather than pleasure.

The connection of Canada with Britain gives her also a standing, which, in addition to its accessibility, is fitted to render important aid in her development. It tends to operate thus by the feeling of self-respect which it inspires and fosters, by the honour which it holds out to the ambitious the hope of sharing, and by the examples that are set to be constantly inviting imitation.

Retaining, as he does, his connection with the land of his birth, the native of the British Islands who chooses Canada as his home, is saved from much of the feeling of expatriation which he would experience elsewhere. He finds himself but half a stranger. If even that. He looks with a pride, of which he was perhaps never previously conscious, on the old flag, as it floats over him; exults in his country's glories as his own; and finds a hymn in the National Anthem.

8. The steadiness and satisfactoriness of its growth.

A few particulars are all our space will admit in illustration of this.

The population of United Canada numbered in the year 1800, 230,000. It was in 1825, 581,921; by 1851, it had reached 1,812,265. In 1861, it amounted to 2,500,755. The advance in Upper Canada between 1825 and 1861 has been from 581,027 to 1,399,091—not much less than 800 per cent. in 36 years.

In 1861, the number of cultivated acres in the whole of Canada, Upper and Lower, was 2,884,345. It came up, in 1844, to 4,308,408; and in 1851, to 7,309,837. The returns for Lower Canada, for 1861, have not yet been published. In Upper Canada alone, 6,051,619 are reported for that year.

Upper Canada had, in 1851, 99,990 occupiers of land. They numbered, in 1861, 311,983. It produced, in 1851, 12,682,550 bushels of wheat; 11,391,807 of oats; 9,982,189 of potatoes; 3,110,118 of turnips; of flax or hemp, 69,680 lbs.; 3,069,874 lbs. of maple sugar. Its produce of these articles was, in 1861—wheat, 23,290,425 bushels; oats, 21,229,874; potatoes, 15,725,920; turnips, 18,206,959; flax or hemp, 1,225,834 lbs.; maple sugar, 6,370,065 lbs. The value of the live stock in Upper Canada was, in 1861, as much as $53,227,486; its agricultural implements, $11,280,317; its farms, $235,162,315. A similar progress will, we doubt not, be shown in Lower Canada, when its agricultural statistics for the year in question appear.

In 1808, the value of the entire trade of Canada was about $8,400,000. The value reached, in 1852—exports, $14,055,973; imports, $29,290,493; total, $43,346,466. In 1861, its imports amounted to $36,614,195; exports, $43,040,823; total, $79,655,018. The value of the trade with the United States alone was, in the last of these years, $35,455,315; the imports from that country reaching $21,069,388, and the exports to it $14,385,927.

In 1851, the net revenue yielded by the customs was $2,808,811; in 1861, $4,411,160. The value of books imported was, in 1850, $213,580; in 1861, $3,056,943.

On roads, navigation and railroads, the Province has expended as much as $60,000,000, over and above the interest in the latter of parties out of the country. There are in use at this moment between 1,800 and 1,900 miles of railway; besides 3,422 of electric telegraph, belonging to the Montreal Telegraph Company, which had, in 1861, a capital stock of $400,000 (to which it had advanced from $30,000), employed 400 persons (35 in 1847), and conveyed 300,000 messages; the number conveyed in 1847 having been 33,000.

Our post offices have multiplied from 3, in 1766, to 69, in 1824; 601, in 1859, and 1,698, in 1860. The number of miles of established post roads was, in the first of these years, 170; in the second, 1,992; in the third, 7,695; and in the last, 14,202. The miles travelled were, in 1824, 209; in 1766, 616; in 1851, 2,287,000; in 1860, 5,712,000. In 1852, 3,700,000 letters were transmitted; in 1860, 9,000,000. The expenditure of the Post Office was, in the former of these years, $276,191, and its revenue $230,629; in the latter, its expenditure was $534,681, and its revenue $658,451. One hundred and ten thousand dollars additional is paid per annum, by way of subsidy, to railroads; and four hundred and sixteen thousand to steamships.

From the above, it will be seen that our growth has been rapid, steady and general; not coming by fits and starts, or confined in its sphere.

9. Its prospects.

It cannot fail, without fault on the part of its people, to continue growing and to become strong and prosperous and influential; for it has in itself, in its geographical position, and in its relations, all the elements of greatness. But such failure is not to be anticipated, as self-respect, interest and duty, unite in urging us to make the best of our position. The worst part of the struggle is over. To carry us to the height of any reasonable ambition, all that is necessary is perseverance for a moderate time in the self-denial and exertion of the past, with the careful avoidance of its errors, as far as they may be discovered.

The motive to throw in their lot with us, held out by such a state of things to those who may be contemplating change, is manifest. To witness progress is pleasant, how much more to share in it and to be made partakers of the advantages it yields.

10. The common feeling of such as have made trial of the country.

Few who have lived in it for any length of time, possessing the characteristics and pursuing the course necessary to success, would willingly exchange it for the lands whence they came. Nothing is more common than for those who visit their old homes, after a few year's residence in it, to feel impatient till they get back. Numbers who have left it with the intention of remaining at home, have returned to it, unable to enjoy themselves there. The freedom realized here from the burdensome restraints of older societies, and the social consideration which the deserving seldom fail to receive, help to explain the above state of feeling. In the fact of its existence the new comer, or the man contemplating coming, has fair promise and assurance that he will, in due time, feel himself one of us and at home among us.

The classes to which Canada will be found specially adapted are—

1. Farmers and parties accustomed to agricultural pursuits.

These may, if they bring moderate means with them, find cleared or un-cleared farms, according to their taste, in most parts of the country, at prices moderate, though of course varying with quality of land, value of improvements, and location. Such as may be without the advantage of means may generally, if prepared to accept of reasonable wages, find employment and comfortable homes among our farmers. By satisfying themselves for a time with these, they gain an acquaintance with the country, the modes of working best suited to it, the most desirable locations, prices of land, &c., which will save them much to which they would be in danger otherwise of being subjected, and help them to work at advantage to themselves.

Though not in an equal degree, parties previously unaccustomed to agriculture, if disposed to devote the selves to it, may secure these advantages by the pursuit of the same course. Numbers are found all through the country, with good farms and in comfortable circumstances, who had their knowledge to acquire after their arrival. If possessed of the physical requisites and the power of adapting themselves to new circumstances, none who make up their minds to persevere, need despair, though, compared with the others, they must labour for a time under disadvantage.

2. Mechanics, those especially of the more common descriptions.

These may generally find employment in one part or another, indeed in almost any part of the Province, at fair wages, and within a reasonable time. If well-behaved, industrious and economical, they may hope to attain ultimately a good position both as to comfort and standing. Many of this class are to be met with in our cities, and even smaller towns and villages, living on their savings while yet comparatively young. Those of trades less common run, of course, more risk, though numbers even of these succeed in making themselves useful positions in the cities.

3. The possessors of spare means.

What they may be able and disposed to invest will afford this class much better returns here, without the adoption of any course involving wrong, than at home. They may also, if desirous of making themselves useful, obtain (provided they possess the necessary requisites) abundant means of doing so in harmony with their habits and tastes. The things needful to success in Canada, without which none can hope for it, and with which none need despair of it, are—

1. Fair health, intelligence, and capacity for useful action.
2. Good principles and correct honourable habits.
3. Steady and patient perseverance.
4. A cheerful and hopeful spirit.
5. The blessing of God.

TESTIMONIALS.

From Captain F. Macdonald, Commander of the East India Ship the "Lord Auckland."

"I feel it a duty incumbent on me to inform you of the very beneficial effect I have received by the use of your infallible Embroication for Rheumatism, from which complaint I have suffered most severely for more than a month, and was quite unable to leave my bed. I have had the best medical advice, and everything done possible, but to no effect. I heard by accident from a friend of your Embroication, and immediately sent for a bottle, and after applying it two or three times as directed, I felt very much relieved, and in a week I was perfectly cured. You are quite at liberty (indeed I should wish it) to make what use you please of this document for the benefit of those who may be similarly afflicted.

From Mrs. Hughes, 3 East Street, Red Lion Square.

Sir.—I have been for many years a great sufferer from Chilblains, which usually attack my feet the whole winter. I was urged very much to try your Embroication (by a friend who had been cured by it) from which I found almost immediate relief. This winter (about three weeks since) I was attacked again, so that I was unable to wear a shoe or put my feet to the ground, and I believe they would have broken in a few days, but I am delighted to say that after a few applications of your Embroication, before I had finished one small bottle, they had entirely disappeared, and I have now no fear for the future. If any use you can make of this fact may be the means of affording relief to others, it will be a great source of satisfaction to me.

Sold by all Chemists and Patent Medicine Venders, price 2s. 9d. per bottle.

CAUTION.—See the words "Thos. Feaver's Embroication" on the Government Stamp.

BRYANT, STRATTON & DAY'S

Commercial College,

KING STREET, TORONTO, C. W.,

First door East of Wesleyan Book Room.

Established in connection with Bryant, Stratton & Co.'s, chain of International Commercial Colleges, located in fifteen of the largest cities of the United States and Canada, employing sixty Professors and Lecturers—with a large daily attendance of young men—the most extensive series of educational institutions ever established in any country, and the progress which the enterprise has achieved during the past ten years is as gratifying to the Proprietors as it is creditable to the energetic and intelligent purposes of the thousands of young men who have completed the course of instruction, and the other thousands who are at present enrolled in the daily classes of the respective colleges comprising the "chain."

DESIGN.

The purpose in establishing these Institutions has been to furnish young men with the facilities of a Business Education which will enable them to enter at once upon fields of usefulness and honor.

The tedious years of Apprenticeship which, under the old system, was considered the only stepping stone to remunerative positions, are epitomized into a few months of pleasant study, where the mind is trained not only to appreciate the minor details of business, but the grander principles which underlie the economy of life, and without which no business education can be considered complete.

The advantages possessed by such institutions over counting-house experience, in laying the deep foundations of a complete and symmetrical education applicable to all the varied exigencies of a business life, are many and indisputable.

First, the course of instruction is specially prepared to bring into proper relief those essential facts which in the usual processes of experience do not occur in such order or frequency as to be susceptible of being arranged into a system, or of establishing a logical sequence in the mind. Next, the various departments of business, with all the accessories, are so completely illustrated and enforced as to convey special and permanent instruction as to details in the matter of buying, selling, shipping, receiving, and in all the processes of Commerce and Finance applicable to both inland and foreign trade.

COLLEGIATE COURSE.

The course of instruction in these Colleges has direct reference to the requirements of business. The main branches pursued are: BOOK-KEEPING, in all its departments and applications.

COMMERCIAL LAW, including both the Law Merchant and such statutory regulations as pertain to questions of property and personal rights.

COMMERCIAL ARITHMETIC, embracing all subjects applied in business transactions, the great majority of which are either entirely omitted or very lightly and unsatisfactorily treated in the prevailing text-books of the day.

BUSINESS PENMANSHIP, upon the Spencerian basis, under the instruction of the best teachers of this system in the country.

BUSINESS CORRESPONDENCE, including the principles of English Composition, and such thorough practice in connection with the daily exercises as must secure the most satisfactory results.

Incidental instruction is also given in Political Economy, the Science of Government, the Customs of Business, etc.

The modern languages and higher mathematics are taught when desired.

PLAN OF INSTRUCTION.

REGULATIONS.

Each student is admitted upon his own recognition as a gentleman; is treated as such, and is expected to consider himself, in all respects, responsible for his own acts. Having purchased a scholarship, which secures to him the necessary instruction to make him a thorough accountant, he is permitted to elect his time and place of attendance within the prescribed jurisdiction of the colleges; but it is expected of all students that they will observe all possible diligence and regularity in their attendance. The general discipline, while it does not descend to those minute and specific requirements which seem necessary in the conduct of schools more primary in their character, is, nevertheless, sufficiently strict and exacting to place the responsibility of the student's progress upon himself. A record of attendance is kept in connection with the recitations, and promptness, as far as may be, is required. The progress of each student in his course is regulated by such frequent and thorough examinations as shall be competent to satisfy the teachers in charge, and no student is permitted to pass from one division of his course to another without giving evidence of suitable proficiency.

THE INITIATORY COURSE

Comprises a complete knowledge of the THEORY OF ACCOUNTS and the collateral branches, embracing Penmanship, Commercial Law, Commercial Calculations and Correspondence.

This part of the collegiate course is most carefully and critically watched, no student being permitted to pass from one step to another without a thorough and satisfactory examination.

His knowledge of BOOK-KEEPING, before passing to the Counting-house or Graduating Course, must cover the entire field of the science, embracing the Departments of Retail and Wholesale Merchandising, Commission, and Forwarding, Agencies—both Simple and Compound—Joint Stock Companies of all kinds, such as Banking, Manufacturing, Railroadings, Insurance, Mining, &c. &c., requiring him to open, conduct, and close over TWENTY SETS OF BOOKS, with every variety of partnership contract, and division of gains and losses. The sets are short, embracing a large variety of entry, and bringing into requisition all the forms of business paper, such as notes, drafts, cheques, certificates of deposit, bills of exchange, statements, &c.

GRADUATING COURSE.

After passing through the initiatory course, and giving satisfactory evidence of a thorough knowledge of the principles and practice of business, the student is advanced to the COUNTING ROOM, where his proficiency is put to the most severe practical test. The "Counting Room" is a miniature business world, in which are presented all departments of economy, and affording to the student a novel and interesting glimpse of the outer world for which he is preparing. Here he sees, in actual and harmonious operation, the different branches of trade and commerce which unite countries, states, communities and individuals, in the closest bonds of mutual interest, and make up that grand system of economy which men call business.

PREPARATORY EDUCATION.

PREPARATORY EDUCATION.—A fair knowledge of the ordinary English branches constitutes a sufficient preparation for entering upon a Commercial Course.

TIME OF COMMENCEMENT.—As there are no term divisions, Students can enter any time, and pursue their Course as rapidly as their ability will admit.

TIME REQUIRED.—The time necessary to complete the full Course is from ten to fourteen weeks, varying according to the ability of the Student.

DIPLOMAS.—Those Students, and those alone, who fulfil the prescribed course of study and pass the requisite examination, are entitled to the honors of Graduation. Diplomas are awarded to all such, free of charge.

EMPLOYMENT.—It is for the interest, as it will ever be the pleasure of the Principals and Teachers at these Colleges, to use their best exertions to obtain good situations for their graduates. In this they have, heretofore, been very successful; and while it is not our practice to hold out inducements in this direction, we hazard nothing in saying that we possess unusual facilities for securing desirable positions for competent young men.

WEBSTER'S DICTIONARIES A NATIONAL STANDARD.

PRESIDENT FANSON, of Columbian College, Washington, says, April, 1860, "The just principle of its collection, the thorough scholarship of its etymology, the clear analysis of its definitions, and good sense in its orthography and orthoëpy, must make it for a time to come the National Standard; for it is one of those works so true in its model and complete in its execution, that any material variation from it must introduce imperfection."

FROM LEADING NEW YORK PUBLISHERS.

We have observed that with literary men generally spelling is entirely a matter of habit, very few of them conforming strictly to the authority of any dictionary; while, in this country at least, the authors of educational text books, and other works in reference to which the question of orthography is carefully considered, very generally recognize and carefully follow Webster as their standard.

New York, May 16, 1860.

D. APPLETON & CO.
CHARLES SCRIBNER,
GEORGE P. PUTNAM.

From Lord Brougham, High Chancellor of England.
A necessity to every educated man.

From Hon. George Bancroft, the Historian.

The etymological part surpasses any thing that has been done for the English Language by any earlier laborers in the same field.

From Daniel Webster.

I possess many dictionaries, and of most of the learned and cultivated languages, ancient and modern; but I never feel that I am entirely armed and equipped, in this respect, without Dr. Webster at command.

From Rufus Choate.

Messrs. G. & C. Merriam, Gentlemen,—I have just had the honor of receiving the noble volume in which you, and the great lexicographer, and the accomplished reviser, unite your labours to 'bid the language live.' I accept it with the highest pride and pleasure, and beg to adopt, in its utmost strength and extent, the testimonial of Daniel Webster.

From Elihu Burrill.

Webster's great Dictionary may be regarded as bearing the same relation to the English Language which Newton's Principia does to the sublime science of Natural Philosophy.

From Rev. Dr. Huntington, of Harvard University.

No student, as it appears to us, has access to the needful resources for understanding or using our native tongue who does not keep this vast and rich repository of philological labor and learning at his side. Its definitions—now almost universally acknowledged to be unrivalled for completeness, accuracy, and the avoidance of mere synonyms,—together with some of its other features, render it indispensable in every library and at every writing-desk.

From Hon. John C. Spencer.

Unquestionably the very best Dictionary of our language extant. Its great accuracy in the definition and derivation of words gives it an authority that no other work on the subject possesses. It is constantly cited and relied on in our courts of justice, in our legislative bodies, and in public discussions, as entirely conclusive.

From John G. Whittier.

The best and safest guide of the students of our language.

From the Boston Journal, July 23, 1863.

DICTIONARIES IN ENGLAND.—There are at the room of the agent for Webster's Dictionaries, at Mason & Hamlin's, 274 Washington street, specimen copies of six different editions of Webster's Dictionary, published in England, and also specimens of "Noah Webster's British and American Spelling Book," and "The Illustrated Webster Reader," also from the English press. No person can examine these volumes without realizing how very great a popularity the name of Noah Webster has attained in Great Britain.

From R. H. Smart, the well-known English Elocutionist and Lexicographer.

The Pictorial Edition of Webster's Dictionary, unabridged, take it altogether, must be considered, in America at least, as the surpassing work of its kind.

WEBSTER'S SCHOOL DICTIONARIES.

AMERICAN BOOKS IN ENGLAND.—An American publisher, now in London, writes to a friend, that more than one half of all the Dictionaries published in England are Webster's. In other words, the works of the great American lexicographer have a greater sale in England, as in this country, than that of all other Dictionaries of the English language combined.

These popular School Dictionaries have been thoroughly revised within the last three or four years, being extensively regarded as the standard authority in Orthography, Definition, and Pronunciation, and, as the best Dictionaries in use, are respectfully commended to teachers and others. They are much more extensively sold and used than all others combined. Sold by all Booksellers.

Testimonial from Dr. A. Ure, the celebrated Author of the "Dictionary of Arts, Manufactures," &c.

"Having tested Messrs. BARRY & CO.'S Soluble and other Cocoas, I have much pleasure in stating that I consider them so well prepared, that while they retain the nutritive properties of the finest Trinidad Cocoa Nut, the process of their manufacture is so excellent as to make them particularly bland and acceptable to the most delicate stomach.

BARRY & CO.'s Mustard is manufactured by their Patent Process, by which the pungency and flavor of the Seed are preserved to the fullest extent. Dr. Hassall, in his report on the substances used for food exhibited in the Exhibition, 1862, says:—"The Seed from which BARRY & Co.'s Mustard is made is dried on an improved principle by means of their Patent Apparatus, the action of which, judging from the description given, we should conclude to be very perfect."

DR WORCESTER'S ROYAL QUARTO IS THE STANDARD DICTIONARY

With Scholars and Literary Men wherever the English Language is spoken. It is a necessity to every educated man. Its extraordinary excellence and cheapness render it the most desirable Family Dictionary ever published.

From Herbert Coleridge, Secretary of the London Philological Society, England.—As a work of practical utility, your book appears to me to be NEARLY PERFECT, and I expect to derive immense assistance from it.

From H. R. H. Prince Albert, in an Autograph Letter to Hon. Ed. Everett, dated Buckingham Palace, May 9, 1860.—MY DEAR MR. EVERETT: I have to acknowledge the receipt of the very handsome copy of Dr. Worcester's Dictionary, which you have been good enough to send me; and I must beg of you also to assure the publishers that I am very sensible of the kind feeling which they manifested towards me. It is very gratifying to see that the parent language receives such valuable aid for its development and the preservation of its purity in your country.

From Thomas Carlyle, England.—New fields are opened with success; everything is calculated for conveying information by the directest road.

From Charles Dickens, England.—It is a MOST REMARKABLE WORK, of which America will be justly proud, and for which all who study the English language will long have reason to respect your name, and to be grateful to you.

From E. Ryerson, D. D., Superintendent of Public Instruction for Upper Canada.—I have for several years used Webster, as the best Dictionary of its kind—always excepting its orthography—but I regard and recommend for our schools and public institutions, Worcester's Dictionary, as a VERY GREAT IMPROVEMENT upon that of Webster's pictorial edition.

From Alpheus Todd, Librarian of Parliament, Quebec.—Worcester's Dictionary is an established favorite with us. For exact definitions, full and complete lists of technical and scientific terms, and words of modern introduction, I do not know its equal.

The London Athenaeum records its opinion thus—"The volumes before us show a vast amount of diligence; but with Webster it is diligence in combination with fancifulness,—with Worcester in combination with good sense and judgment, Worcester's is the soberer and safer book, and may be pronounced THE BEST EXISTING ENGLISH LEXICON."

The London Examiner—"The great recommendation of the volume is its fulness and cheapness. We have tested it from time to time by looking for the meanings of provincial words that one would not expect to find in such a dictionary, and have never failed to get a right answer from it. Appended to the volume, which makes frequent use of woodcut in aid of its definitions, is an appendix, showing the pronunciation of proper and geographical names, modern as well as ancient, giving abbreviations and signs, and explanation of everyday phrases and quotations from Greek, Latin, French, Italian, or Spanish. For the general use of the public this seems, indeed, to be an English dictionary SINGULARLY CHEAP, FULL, and TRUSTWORTHY."

The London Critic.—"We will now take leave of this magnificent monument of patient toil, careful research, judicious selection, and magnanimous self-denial (for it requires great self-denial to abstain from undesired originality), with a hearty wish for its success. It is sad to think that the result of so much labour, from which Hercules had been intellectually inclined, would have shrunk appalled, should be barren fame; yet we can easily believe that Dr. Worcester (as he says) expects no adequate pecuniary compensation for his gigantic undertaking: for it is difficult to imagine a sum which could adequately compensate the man who has produced THE COMPLETEST AND THE CHEAPEST ENGLISH DICTIONARY which the world has yet seen."

The London Literary Gazette.—"We have devoted a very considerable amount of time and labour to the examination of Worcester's Quarto Dictionary of the English Language, and we have risen from the task with feelings of no ordinary satisfaction at the result, and admiration of the care, scholarship, philosophical method, and honest fidelity of which this noble work bears the impress upon every page.... As a COMPLETE AND FAITHFUL DICTIONARY OF OUR LANGUAGE in its present state, satisfying to the full those requirements, the fulfilment of which we have laid down as essential to such a work, we know no work that can bear comparison with it."
