YANKEE LEAGUE BASE BALL.

The National League season for 1894 ended September 30. Baltimore won the pennant by a percentage of .695, the highest figures since 1886, when Chicago won with .725. In 1892 Boston won 102 games, which is the greatest number won by pennant winners of the National League. But in that year 154 games were scheduled.

The flag has been won by seven cities. Chicago and Boston each won it six times. Providence and New York each twice, and Detroit, Brooklyn and Baltimore each once. Thirteen cities have been tailenders in league races since 1876. - Washington finished there four times, Cincinnati, Worcester and Pittsburgh twice, Chicago, Milwaukee, Syracuse Philadelphia, Detroit, St. Louis (Maroons) Indianapolis, Baltimore and St. Louis each once.

Championship of America.

From 1884 to 1890, inclusive, the winners of the respective pennants of the National League and American Association played a post-season series for the championship of America. This series was omitted in 1891. In 1892 the Bostons and Clevelands, the winners of the first and second divisions of the League's season, played for the championship. In 1893 there was but one season, the first and second divisions having been abolished. In 1894 the series was played between the the clubs standing first and second at the close of the league season for the W. C. Temple cup. It was won by New York. The record since 1884 is as follows:

Some Interesting Facts Concerning the recent Pennant Race.

The records of the base ball clubs during the season just closed, although cutting no figure in the standing, are interesting to consider. Thus, during the championship season there were 31 games won by 20 or more runs. Of these the home team won four and lost one.

The increased pitching distance had a tendency to enlarge scores and games were generally won in nine innings, but there were 29 extra inning games. Seventeen games were of 10 innings each, seven of 11 innings, four of 12 innings and one of 13 innings.

This also prevented a large number of long games, but 10 games were tied during the season as will be seen from the following records.

May 6—Chicago	6,	Cincinnati	6; 9 innings.
May 19—Brooklyn	3,	New York	3; 10 innings.
May 26—Philad'la	5,	Baltimore	5; 5 innings.
June 2—New York	2,	St. Louis	2; 6 innings.
June 6—Brooklyn	13,	Pittsburg	13; 10 innings.
July 14—Chicago	8,	Brooklyn	8; 10 innings.
Aug. 2—New York	13,	Boston	13; 9 innings.
Aug. 18—Chicago	5,	New York	5; 10 innings.
Sept. 21—Pittsburg	4,	New York	4; 12 innings.
Sept. 30—Cincinnati	16,	Cleveland	16; 12 innings.

Largest number of games ever credited to a player in any one season—184 by S. L. Thompson, of the Detroit Club, in 1887.

YACHTING.

Following are the winners of the International Yacht races for the America Cup since 1851. What is now known as the "America Cup" was formerly called the "Royal Yacht Squadron Cup," and was formally presented to the New York Yacht Club by the owners in 1857 after the schooner yacht "America" had won the race at Cowes, England, Aug. 22, 1851, beating eight cutters and seven schooner yachts.

THE VIGILANT.

AMERICAN CHAMPIONSHIPS.

The races in 1871 were sailed on October 16, 18, 19, 21 and 23 and were won in the order given above by the American Yachts.

No races for the "America Cup" were sailed in 1894, but a series of matches were arranged in foreign waters between the American Yacht Vigilant owned by Mr. George Gould and the English Yacht Britannia owned by the Prince of Wales and the Satanita.

A record of Vigilant's races in British and Irish waters shows that she started 19 times, finishing first 7 times, second 11 times and third once. One of her victories over Satanita not being allowed, she only won six prizes. Vigilant and Britannia sailed against each other in 15 races, the Prince of Wales's craft winning 11 times. Vigilant, Britannia and Satanita raced together twice, Vigilant winning one race and finishing third in the other. On both these occasions Britannia was second. Vigilant and Satanita sailed two races together, Vigilant finishing first on each occasion, but as the first race was not sailed within the time limit she was awarded one prize only. The record stands thus:

FOOT BALL.

With every year interest in the game of foot ball increases and the season of 1894 just closed, witnessed better playing and a larger attendance at the games by all classes of people than any previous year. The revision of the rules tending to lessen the roughness of the game has no doubt been beneficial in adding to its popularity and another year is likely to see many other objectionable features eliminated altogether.

For the enlightenment of those unfamiliar with the game a brief outline of its features without entering into the details of the different plays may be of interest.

The field should be 330 feet long and 160 wide. In the middle of the lines forming the ends of the field goal posts over 20 feet high are erected and placed eighteen feet six inches apart, with a connecting cross bar ten feet from the ground. The ball used is an oval leather cover containing a rubber inner, which is inflated by means of a small air pump or the lungs. The regulation ball is the Intercollegiate Match Number J., adopted by the Intercollegiate Association, and made by A. G. Spalding & Bros.

Each team is composed of eleven men divided into seven rushers or forwards, who stand in a line facing their seven opponents; a quarter-back, who stands just behind this line; two half-backs, a few yards behind the quarter-back; and a full-back or goal tend, who stands a dozen yards or so behind the half-backs. The plays continue for thirty-five minutes in a regular match. Then intervenes a ten-minute intermission, after which the side which did not have the kick-off at the commencement of the match, has possession of the ball for the kick-off at the second thirty-five minutes. The result of the match is determined by the number of points scored during the two halves.- The value of each point in scoring is as follows:

Goal obtained by touchdown.....	6
Goal from fields kick.....	5

GOLF.

The game of Golf is comparatively a new sport in the United States but since the organization of the St. Andrews Club at Yonkers, N. Y., Golf clubs have been springing up in all the larger cities and the sport is growing daily in public favor.

It has been for centuries the National game of Scotland and is at present one of the most fashionable games in England. As the game is new, a description and the method of playing it may not be out of place.

THE LINKS.

The links are the open downs or heath upon which golf is played. The course is that portion of the links on which the game ought to be played, and is generally bounded on each side by rough ground. A golf course should not be less than three nor more than five miles in extent, by this is meant the walk from beginning to finish, and the course should partake of the character of a circular tour so as to avoid collision between outgoing and incoming players. The ground should be of an undulating character and should abound in hazards of every description; hazards being a general term for sand pits, long grass, roads, water, mole-hills and, in fact, rough ground of any nature.

The most desirable golf links are usually met with near the seaside, but inland links are becoming more numerous.

THE COURSE.

The teeing ground is the starting point on the course, and is generally designated by two marked lines at right angles to same.

The tee is a pot of sand or any slight elevation on which the ball is placed for the first stroke at each hole or from the starting point. From the starting point, varying from one hundred to four hundred yards apart, are placed round holes lined with iron about four inches in diameter, eighteen holes constituting the ordinary run; should, however, the course be limited, nine holes is sufficient and go the rounds twice to complete the game. The holes are placed in the center of a level piece of greensward, about twenty yards square, which is called the Putting Green. A flag or iron spike is placed in the center of hole to indicate location of same, and taken out when approaching the green and replaced after scoring.

THE GAME.

The match is begun at the teeing ground, which is in vicinity of the first hole, by each party or side driving off his ball in the direction of the second hole, the ball not being touched by anything but the club, while stroke after stroke is played till both sides have succeeded in "putting" their ball into the second hole. The party who does this in the fewest strokes gets that hole placed to his credit, or if both have taken an equal number, the hole is declared "halved," no advantage being gained by either. From the second hole they proceed to the third, and so the process is continued till the round is completed, when the party who has gained the most holes is pronounced the victor.

The following are the terms used in describing the game;

Singles.—Two persons playing one against the other; each person having a ball.

Foursomes.—Two persons playing against the other two, the partners playing alternate strokes; each side having their own ball.

Three, Four, Five Ball Matches.—A crack player will play his ball against the best of the balls of two or more players.

Score Play.—A number enter for competition and travel in pairs, scoring for each other, the winner being the one taking the fewest number of strokes in the course agreed upon.

CLUBS.

A great variety of clubs is employed in playing the game though a complete outfit is not essential to the beginner. They are, Driver or Play Club; Grassed Driver; Long Spoon; Middle Spoon; Short Spoon; Baffing

Spoon; Wooden Niblick; Brassey Niblick; Bulger; Putter; Driving Putter; Iron Putter; The Cleek; Driving Iron; Medium or ordinary iron; Lofting Iron; Iron Niblick and the Mashie.

A set of five clubs, comprising the wood driver and brassy Niblick and iron cleek, lofter and putter, will meet all the requirements and answer every purpose of one not thoroughly versed in the game. A set of seven clubs will furnish a most complete outfit even for the expert, and would generally consist of the following clubs: Wood driver, brassy niblick, bulger and putter, and iron cleek, lofter and mashie. Each of the clubs, however, has a special use, and skill in handling the clubs above enumerated, will soon pave the way for others.

There are two styles of clubs, the wood and iron clubs. Both have handles or shafts usually made of hickory, considered the best wood for that purpose. The head of the wood club is made of beech, apple or hornbeam; the first named is most generally preferred. Wood clubs, shod or soled with brass are called Brassies. The iron club differs from the wood only in the head, which as name indicates is made entirely of iron. Clubs of Scotch make are generally considered the best.

BALLS.

The ball used in the game is made of gutta percha, and varies in weight and size according to the Nos. 26, 27, $27\frac{1}{2}$ and 28. The sizes, Nos. 27 or $27\frac{1}{2}$, are preferred for all-round play. The balls should be kept from frost, which causes them to crack or split. It is best to keep them in a moderately warm, room when not in use during the winter.

CHAMPIONSHIP OF AMERICA.

The first amateur championship competition took place October 11, 12 and 13, 1894, at Yonkers, N. Y., thirty two representatives being present. The championship was won by L. B. Stoddart of the St. Andrews Club.

The record for golf driving is held by Mr. Frederick G. Tait, who, at St. Andrew's links, in Scotland, in the Winter of 1893 drove the ball 250 yards.

CHECKERS.

Charles F. Barker, champion checker player of the world is a native of Boston, Mass. He was born March 11, 1858. He began playing checkers when a mere lad, but soon acquired a keen conception of the game, and evinced such marked skill that he rapidly rose to a place of distinction. When 15 years of age he contested his first match. He has defeated J. P. Reed of Pittsburg four times out of five; Robert Martins, ex-champion, and James Smith, late champion of England, also were forced to succumb to Mr. Barker's prowess. In 1882 he played a match of 50 games with the famous Herd Laddie, James Wyllie, then in the zenith of his power, and it was all the great Scotchman could do to make a draw of the match. The score was one each and 48 draws. Mr. Barker is considered the strongest checkerist in the world to-day.

Mr. Barker's disposition is quiet, and in manner unassuming, and his friends are legion.

BICYCLING.

So many records in America continue to be broken each week by fast riders that it is almost impossible to compile a table of records that will be accurate by the time it leaves the printer's hands. The following however gives the fastest recorded time to December 1, 1894 in all different classes, distances, etc.

SKATING.

J. S. Johnson holds the world's record of 9 4 5 seconds for 100 yards, 11 3-5 seconds for 120 yards, and 17 2-5 seconds for 200 yards. These were all amateur performances, the 200-yard record being made on a circular track.

The best straightaway record for 150 yards is held by G. D. Phillips, who covered that distance in New York in 1883 in 15 $\frac{7}{8}$ seconds. With the assistance of the wind (which does not stand as a record), he made it in 14 1-5. H. P. Moshier holds the 220-yard record of 19 2-5 and the 300-yard record of 31 2-5 seconds and the 440-yard record of 35 1-5 seconds. 600 yards were made on a circular track by O. Rudd in Minneapolis last winter in 55 $\frac{1}{4}$.

Johnson also holds the fast mile record of 2:45 3-5, which was won at Minneapolis, January 21, 1893. Tim Donoghue, Jr., made a straightaway mile, with the wind behind him, in 2:12 3-5 near Newburg, N. Y., in 1887; this does not count as a record.

The two-mile record of 5:43 4-5 is held by Harold Hazen, and also the five-mile record of 15-11. Both of these records were made in Norway. The long-distance record of 50 miles is held by

S. J. Montgomery, of New York, his time being 4:13:36. John Ennis, in the best performance for that distance, covered 100 miles at Chicago, January 7, 1879, in 11 hours, 37 minutes and 45 seconds.

The best running long jump on skates is 15 feet 2 inches, made by S. D. Lee at Cortlandt Lake, New York, in '85, and A. F. Camacho holds the running high jump record on skates of 3 feet 1 $\frac{3}{4}$ inches, made February 9, 1885.

“Keep The Change.”

The Story of The Life and Adventures of a News
Agent on and off the Cars.

TOLD BY HIMSELF.

This unique book, replete with exciting incidents is now in press and will be on sale in a short time. News Agents meet a great many peculiar people on the trains, and the author of this book has made the most of the material which he collected during years in the service. His early experiences on a plantation are graphically described; this chapter smells of the magnolia tree and gun powder, for the scenes depicted took place during the war. Facts about the news business are given in a special chapter. A large sale is predicted for this book by all who have seen the advance sheets.
