NYPFER, a cut purse, so called by one Wotton, who in the year 1585, kept an academy for the education and perfection of pick-pockets and cut purses; his school was near Billingsgate, London. As in the dress of ancient times many people wore their purses at their girdles, cutting them was a branch of the light fingered art, which is now lost, though the name remains . . . there was a school house set up to learn young boys to cut purses: two devices were hung up, one was a pocket, and another was a purse, the pocket had in it certain counters, and was hung about with hawks bells, and over the top did hang a little sacring bell. The purse had silver in it, and he that could take out a counter, without noise of any of the bells, was adjudged a judicial NYPFER, according to their terms of art; a foyster was a pickpocket; a NYPFER was a pick purse, or cut purse.

plentifully to the Yokel's NOB.' 'His NOB was pinked all over,' i.e. marked in sundry places.

1834. DOWLING, Othello Travestie,
i. 3. A thought has crossed my NOB.

1837. DICKENS, Pickwick Papers
(1837), 360. Leave off rattlin' that 'ere NOB o' yours, if you don't want it to come off the springs altogether, said Sam impatiently, and behave reasonable.

1840. BARHAM, Ingoldsby Leg.
(Black Mousquetaire). Whom I once saw receive, such a thump on the NOB
From a fist which might almost an elephant brain.

1845. Punch, ix. 9. Getting the NOB into chancery is a fine achievement, I once got several NOBS into chancery ; and I certainly gave several of them severe punishment.

1851-61. MAYHEW, London Lab., i. 341. These he would engage at a bob a NOB.

1856. Punch, xxx. 241. Mary Ann's Notions. Vulgar, dear. You might as well have written one for his NOB—you meant it.

1892. MILLIKEN, 'Arry Ballads, 40. Why shouldn't her stage trotter-out take his perks too at so much a NOB.

2. (common).—A person of rank or position. [From Nobility: cf. MOB, Fr. mobile vulgus]. Hence TO COME THE NOB=to put on airs.—GROSE (1823). See DANDY.

1703. English Spy, 255. Be unto him ever ready to promote his wishes, whether for spree or sport, in term and out of term . . . against dun or don—NOB or big-wig—so may you never want a bumper of bishop.

1823. BEE, Dict. Turf, s.v. NOB. A . . . NOB . . . differs from swell, inasmuch as the latter makes a show of his finery; whereas the NOB, relying upon intrinsic worth, or bona-fide property, or intellectual ability, is clad in plainness.

1837. DICKENS, Pickwick Papers, (ed. 1857), 12. 'Wait a minute,' said the stranger, 'fun presently—NOBS not come yet—queer place. Dock-yard people of upper rank don't know Dock-yard people of lower rank—small gentry don't know tradespeople—Commissioner don't know any body.'

1840-45. BARHAM, Ingoldsby Legends (1862), 70. No! no!—The Abbey may do very well For a feudal NOB, or poetical 'swell.'

1843. DICKENS, Martin Chuzzlewit, vii. The high principle that Nature's NOBS felt with Nature's NOBS.

1849. THACKERAY, Hoggarty Diamond, iv. He was at the West End on Thursday, asked to dine, ma'am, with the tip-top NOBS.

1851-61. MAYHEW, Lon. Lab., II, 56. I may observe that the NOBS is a common designation for the rich among these sporting people.

1855. THACKERAY, Newcomes, II, 58. Sherrick log. Capital house, Mr. Newcome, wasn't it? I counted no less than fourteen NOBS.

1863. READE, Hard Cash, I., 228. Once more, [1846 Railway Mania] . . . a motley crew of peers and printers, etc. . . . ; in a word, of NOBS and snobs, fought and scrambled pell mell for the popular paper; and all to get rich in a day.

1870. Figaro, 18 July. Is it more cruel for a snob to shoot a sea-bird in the breeding season than it is for a NOB to shoot pigeons in the breeding season, thereby starving all their young?

1888. BOLDREWOOD, Robbery Under Arms, xli. He was introduced to all the NOBS.

1892. ANSTEY, Voces Populi, 'In the Mall on Drawing Room Day,' p. 84. All I was goin' to see was a set o' blanky NOBS shut up in their blankdash kerridges.

3. (Oxford University).—See quot.

1825. The English Spy, i. 136. We must find you some more tractable personage; some good-humoured NOB.*

[NOTE. *A fellow of a college].

2. (showmen's).—See quot.

1890. Echo, 30 Oct. NOBBER is beach slang for financial agent, and indicates the gentleman who goes round with the plate or box. Great care is always bestowed upon the selection of the NOBBER. He is really the most important member of the troupe, and must be an artist of the first water if he is to get any money. . . . Only a NOBBER can know the extraordinary meanness of the British public, the reluctant way in which it does out its coppers, and its refusal to donate silver on any terms.

1893. EMERSON, Signor Lippo, vi. I have often met honourable NOBBERS since like the poller, that poor honest artist, who was far too honourable to allow any slur to be cast upon his character.

NOBBILY, adj. (common).—Showily; smartly: cf. NOBBY.

NOBBING, subs. (pugilists').—1. The administration of blows on the head.

1825. JONES, True Bottomed Boxer [FARMER, Musa Pedestris (1896), 92]. With flipping and milling, and fobbing and NOBBING.

NOBBING-SLUM, subs. phr. (showmen's).—The bag for collecting money: see NOBBER, sense 2.

NOBBLE, verb. (pugilists').—1. To strike on the head; to stun.

2. (racing).—See quot. 1882; TO GET AT (q.v.).

1868. Pall Mall Gaz., 4 May. Buccaneer underwent the same fate as Old Calabar, and was NOBBLED, i.e. maimed purposely, before the Two Thousand in which he was engaged, and this rascally proceeding drove Lord Portsmouth, from the turf in disgust.

1882. Saturday Review, 25 Mar. In the elegant dialect of sporting novelists to NOBBLE is a stronger term for to 'get at' a horse, or his owner or his jockey, and to 'get at' means secretly to frustrate, spoil, lame, dose, drug, or otherwise prevent the horse from 'doing his level best,' or for that matter his best across hurdles, or in a steeple-chase.

1888. GOULD, Double Event, 145. Found out who tried to NOBBLE the horse?

1892. Evening Standard, 11 May, 4, 4. A very sensible suggestion has been made with reference to the NOBBLING of horses. It is extremely improbable that there would be any attempt to injure a horse except for the purpose of winning bets of one sort or another about him.

3. (common).—To circumvent; to cheat; TO DO (q.v.); TO SQUARE (q.v.).

1877. GREENWOOD, Dick Temple [Slang, J. & C.]. There's a fiver in the puss, and nine good quid. Have it. NOBBLE him, lads, and share it betwixt you.

1883. Punch, 2 June, 264, 1. Never have anything to do with the Turf. They are all scamps alike, and would sell their own fathers to gain their ends. But if you can't resist it, like me, there's only one chance for you, and that is, to NOBBLE the jockey!

1886. Fortnightly Rev., xxxix, 136. It was never certain whether he was going to NOBBLE the Tories, or square the Radicals.

1890. GRANT ALLEN, The Tents of Shem, xii. I've NOBBLED her, he thought to himself, with a triumphant smile.

1896. SALA, London up to Date, 67. The proposers and seconds of the various candidates have warily ranged themselves on guard . . . and remain there hour after hour, skilfully NOBBLING members as they enter.

4. (common).—To appropriate; to catch; TO NAB (q.v.).

1855. THACKERAY, Newcomes, xxv. I don't know out of how much the reverend party has NOBBLED his poor old sister at Brighton.

1860. THACKERAY, Philip, xvi. The old chap has NOBBLED the young fellow's money, almost every shilling of it, I hear.

1888. BOLDREWOOD, Robbery Under Arms, xi. We're bound to be NOBBLED some day.

1876. HINDLEY, Cheap Jack, 261. In my young days there used to travel about in gangs, like men of business, a lot of people called NOBBLERS, who used to work the 'thimble and pea rig' and go buzzing, that is, picking pockets, assisted by some small boys.

4. (North country).—A pettifogging lawyer.

5. (Australian).—A drink: A GO (q.v.); specifically of spirits.

1759. FOWLER, Southern Lights and Shadows, p. 53. To pay for liquor for another is to 'stand,' or to 'shout,' or to 'sacrifice.' The measure is called a NOBBLER, or a break-down.

1859. KINGSLEY, Geoffrey Hamlyn, xxxi. I had two NOBBLERS of brandy and one of Old Tom.

1860. Chambers' Jl. xiii. 154. On the banks of the winding but now streamless creeks, . . . there was generally a solitary inn or squatter's hut, where the universal NOBBLER of brandy and a snack of food were to be procured.

1870. AMPHION, in Baily's Mag., xix. 172. Who hit his leg for Spite or for pelf, Was it the NOBBLER, or Was it himself?

1873. BRADDON, To the Bitter End, xlv. He had eaten nothing since yesterday, but he did not get through these dismal hours of suspense without an occasional NOBBLER.

1881. GRANT, Bush Life, I. 243. He must drink a NOBBLER with Tom, and be prepared to 'shout' for all hands at least once a day.

1888. BOLDREWOOD, Robbery Under Arms, iii. We used to make it a point of drinking our NOBBLER, and sometimes treating the others twice, if we had cash.

NOBBLE-TREE, subs. phr. (provincial).—The head; the NOB (q.v.).

NOBBY, subs. (provincial).—A fool. See BUFFLE and CABBAGE-HEAD.

Adj. (colloquial).—I. Smart; elegant; fashionable. Also NOBBISH, NOBBILY, and NABBY.

1808. JAMIESON, Dict. Scot. Lang., s.v. NOBBY. Neat, trim, well dressed; hence applied to a person who dresses above his position.

c.1810. Broadside Ballad . . . And all the coves said, what around did stan', That he were a werry NOBBY dog's meat man.

1844. SELBY, London by Night, ii. x. My togs being in keeping with this NOBBY place.

1847. ALBERT SMITH, Nat. Hist. of the Gent, x. 67. He would think that he was not NOBBY if he did not have some wretched champagne.

—Money. Hence OOF-BIRD = the goose that lays the golden eggs, the source of supply; the FEATHERED OOF-BIRD = money in plenty; TO MAKE THE OOF-BIRD WALK = to circulate money; OOFLESS = poor. See quot. 1870.

c. 1870. Sporting Times, 26 Dec., 1891.

1. OOFISH was, some twenty years ago, the East End synonym for 'money,' and was derived from ausf tische, 'on the table'—the aristocracy of Houndsditch being in the habit of refusing to play cards, even with their best friends, unless the money were down 'on the table.' Hence OOFISH, a word which was freely used by the late Mr. Benson and his companions in the De Goncourt frauds. We—that is to say Gub—met OOFISH at a thieves' supper in Little Wylde Street, took the animal home, cut his tail off, and turned him loose. So that oof now swaggers about the mansions of the aristocracy.

1888. Sportsman, 27 Dec. It is a sad and weary time for many, for when the dustman, the man who blacks the boots, and he with the grog-blossom on his nose who does nothing but hold cab-doors open when nobody asks him to have all been paid, the OOF BIRD takes unto itself wings and flies away.

1889. Daily News, 27 Aug., 7, 1. Henry Smith, her coachman, next gave evidence. He said he heard King say he had come after some OOFISH.

1897. Pall Mall Gazette, 8 Mar., 7, 3. No splosh, no OOF-BIRD from those blokes.

1882. MCCABE, New York, xxxix. POLICY-DEALING is one degree lower in infamy than the lottery business . . . The game consists in betting on certain numbers within the range of the lottery schemes being drawn at the noon or night drawing. Seventy-eight numbers usually make up the lottery-scheme, and the policy player can take any three of these numbers and bet that they will be drawn, either singly, or in such combinations as he may select. The single numbers may come out anywhere in the drawing, but the combination must appear as he writes it in making his bet. He pays one dollar for the privilege of betting, and receives a written slip containing the number or numbers on which he bets. If a single number is chosen and drawn, he wins 5 dollars; two numbers constitute a 'saddle,' and if both are drawn the player wins from 24 to 32 dollars; three numbers make a 'gig,' and win from 150 to 225 dollars; four numbers make a 'horse,' and win 640 dollars. A 'capital straddle' is a bet that two numbers will be among the first three drawn, and wins 500 dollars.

1705. WARD, Hud. Rediv., i. x. 24. So PURITANS, the World to cheat, Appear in Garb precisely neat.

1902. D. Telegraph, 2 May, 5, 1, "Special Law Reports." Mr. Tindal Atkinson called attention to the fact that at this particular licensing meeting no fewer than twenty-three out of thirty-seven applications for music license renewals were refused. No fault was suggested, no evidence offered, and that went to show that the magistrates, perhaps owing to the particular composition of the Bench at the time, and the views they took in regard to the matter, did not decide each case upon its merits, but upon a view of their own. It was true they might become so PURITANICAL that the Legislature might think fit to say that no music license should be granted to a licensed house. The Lord Chief Justice: You must not say these magistrates have acted PURITANICALLY. I do not think they have done so. Mr. Tindal Atkinson: I only made the general observation that the Legislature might become so PURITANICAL. I was not reflecting on the justices. The Lord Chief Justice: I thought you used the word PURITANICAL in a secondary sense.

2. (old).—A whore : see TART. [Probably an echo of the hypocrisy imputed to the Puritans : cf. sense 1, esp. quot. 1607.]

PURKO, subs. (military).—Beer : see SWIPES. [Barclay, Perkins and Co.]

PURL, subs. (old : now recognised).—1. See quotes. 1696 and 1851 ; afterwards (2) applied to beer warmed nearly to boiling point, and flavoured with gin, sugar, and ginger. Hence PURL-MAN = a boating vendor of PURL to Thames watermen.—GROSE (1785).

1841. REDE, Sixteen String Jack, i. 2. Long Jerry's half way down a pot of PURL ; Kit's finishing a bowl of punch—.

1851. MAYHEW, Lond. Lab., ii. 108. It appears to have been the practice at some time or other in this country to infuse wormwood into beer or ale previous to drinking it, either to make it sufficiently bitter, or for some medicinal purpose. This mixture was called PURL. Ibid. The drink originally sold on the river was PURL, or this mixture, whence the title PURL-MAN.

3. (schools').—A dive, head foremost : cf. sense 2.

Adj. (hunting).—Thrown ; SPILT (q.v.) ; FOALED (q.v.) : e.g., 'He'll get PURLED at the rails.' Hence (as subs.), or PURLER = a fall ; a spill.

1857. C. READE, Never Too Late, xxxviii. They went a tremendous pace—with occasional stoppages when a PURL occurred. Ibid. They commonly paddle in companies of three ; so then whenever one is PURLED the other two come on each side of him.

1868. OUIDA, Two Flags, iii. Right in front of that Stand was an artificial bullfinch that promised to treat most of the field to a PURLER, a deep ditch dug and filled with water, with two towering black-thorn fences on either side of it.

1885. Field, 26 Dec. To trifle with this innovation means a certain PURLER.

PURPOSE. TO AS MUCH PURPOSE AS THE GEESE SLUR UPON THE ICE (OR AS TO GIVE A GOOSE HAY), phr. (colloquial).—To no purpose at all. Also 'to no more PURPOSE than to beat your heels against the ground (or wind).'
RAY (1670).

PURSE, subs. (venery).—1. The female pudendum : see MONOSYLLABLE : Fr. bourse-à-vits : cf. PRICK-PURSE. Also (2) = the scrotum. Hence, NO MONEY IN HIS PURSE = impotent ; PURSE-PROUD = lecherous ; PURSE-FINDER = a harlot ; &c.
