"KEEP A STIFF UPPER LIP."

There has something gone wrong
My dear boy, it appears
For I see your proud struggle
To keep a stiff upper lip.
This right! When you cannot Give trouble the slip,
Then keep, still keeping
"A stiff upper lip!"
Though you cannot escape
Disappointment and care,
The next best thing to do,
Is to learn how to bear,
If when for life's prizes
You're running your trip,
Get up, start again—
"Keep a stiff upper lip!"
Let your hands and your conscience
Be honest and clear;
Scorn to touch or think of
The thing that is mean;
But hold on to the pure
And the right with firm grip,
And though hard be the task,
"Keep a stiff upper lip!"
Through childhood, through manhood,
Through life to the end,
Struggle bravely and stand
By your colors, my friend,
Only yield when you must;
Never "give up the ship,"
But fight on to the last,
With a "stiff upper lip."

THE LATEST WONDER.

Our readers have been made acquainted with the wonderful inventions of Prof. Bell, by which musical and vocal sounds can be sent over the electric wires, but few if any are aware of the wonderful results which are sure to follow these improvements in telegraphy. A few nights ago Prof. Bell was in communication with a telegraphic operator in New York, and commenced experimenting with one of his inventions pertaining to the transmission of musical sounds. He made use of his phonetic organ and played the tune of "America," and asked the operator in New York what he heard. "I hear the tune of 'America,'" replied New York; "give us another." Prof. Bell then played "Annie Lang Syne."
"What do you hear now?"
"I hear the tune of 'Annie Lang Syne,' with the full chords, distinctly," replied New York.
This, the astounding discovery has been made that a man can play upon musical instruments in New York, New Orleans, London or Paris and be heard distinctly in Boston! If this can be done, why cannot distinguished performers execute the most artistic and beautiful music in Paris, and an audience assemble in Music Hall, Boston, to listen?
Prof. Bell's other improvement, namely, the transmission of the human voice, has become so far perfected that persons have conversed over 1,000 miles of wire with perfect ease, although as yet the vocal sounds are not loud enough to be heard by more than one or two persons. But if the human voice can now be sent over the wire, and so distinctly that when two or three known parties are telegraphing the voice of each can be recognized, we may soon have distinguished men delivering speeches in Washington, New York and London, and audiences assembled in Music Hall or Faneuil Hall to listen.
A large man, who sat on the wharf, fishing, recently gave his opinion with regard to the hard times. He said the trouble was that capital was opposed to labor, and no matter how anxious a man was to work, capital would make no concession. He wanted work himself he said, and once he thought of giving up, but now his wife was able to take in washing, and he would never yield. He intended to say more, but was obliged to go off to attend a ball match.

AN ANCIENT PUNCH BOWL.

—Last week there was a beautiful punch bowl presented to the Masonic Lodge of Nantucket, Mass., and the reason why it was not presented long ago we will tell. Once upon a time in the year of light A. L. 5800, answering among the initiated to A. D. 1800, a worthy gentleman took the degrees at the aforesaid lodge in Nantucket, and thereupon went to China. There he had made a beautiful punch bowl of most superb China ware, with the generous intention of making it a gift to his lodge. His directions were to put upon the bowl a suitable inscription, name, dates and all. Now the "Chinese" workmen did their prettiest; the beautiful thing came home, inscription and all, but behold the word lodge was spelled "logo." The generous man was mortified. He laid the bowl to one side and lived and died in Nantucket making no sign with that bowl. He had a son born, and this son, too, became a member of the very same lodge, and last week the half century anniversary of his membership came to pass, so he took the bowl which had been laid away 75 years, and gave it to the lodge, still without the "d."

THE MILK OF COWS.

The milk of cows soon after they have calved contains more butter and is much easily churned than it is afterward. About five months after calving the milk undergoes a change, and the cream is not only less in quantity, but the butter globules are smaller. The reason why milk froths in churns is, that when it sours, alcohol is formed by the decomposition of the sugar of milk, and this causes the milk, when shaken or beaten, to foam or froth. If this froth exists to a large extent, butter will not come, and the milk is useless for churning purposes. The longer a cow is milked after calving the less is the yield of butter and the nourishment is there contained in the milk.—Land and Water.

His habit is to shut himself up on Saturdays. One Saturday a man called and insisted on seeing him. "Tell him," said the visitor to the servant, "that a servant of the Lord wishes to see him." The message was delivered, and the following returned: "Tell him that I am engaged with his Master."

LINCOLN'S LEGAL POWERS.

Mr. Leonard Swett, of Chicago, gives the estimate of Lincoln's legal powers: "As a trial lawyer he had few equals and no superiors. He was as hard a man to beat in a closely contested case as I ever have met. He was wise in knowing what to attempt and what to let alone. He was fair to the court, the jury and his adversary, but candor compels me to say that he by practice learned there was power in this. He was candid and he was fair, but he knew how to make just the most of this. As he entered the trial, where most lawyers object, he would say he 'reckoned' it would be fair to let this in or that, and sometimes, when his adversary could not prove what Mr. Lincoln knew to be the truth, he would say he 'reckoned' it would be fair to admit the truth to be so and so. When he did object to the court, after he had heard the objection answered he would often say, 'Well, I reckon I must be wrong.' Now, about the time he had practiced this three-quarters through a case, if his adversary didn't understand him he would wake up to find himself beaten. He was as wise as a serpent in the trial of a case; but I tell you I have got too many scars from his blows to certify that he was harmless as a dove. When the whole thing is unraveled the adversary begins to see that what he was so badly giving away was simply what he could not get and keep. By giving away six points and carrying the seventh, he carried his case, and the whole case hanging on the seventh he traded everything off which would give him the least aid in carrying that. Any man who took Mr. Lincoln for a simple-minded man would very soon wake up on his back in a ditch."

A PATRON SAINT.

—Hereafter newspaper editors will swear by St. Benedict and no other. The Chester Republican says: E. L. Benedict, a wealthy citizen of Millin county, Pa., died recently, and in consideration of the benefits he had received from the Lewisston (Millin county) Sentinel, left its editor, H. J. Waters, a bequest of $20,000. The case is extraordinary, inasmuch as the custom of most men has been to forget the good newspapers have done them. Hundreds of statesmen (?) all over the country are newspaper creatures, built from heels to head by newspaper influence, and yet these would be great men flatter themselves that they have made their way by the inherent force of their own mental strength. It is the great popular delusion of the nineteenth century, and particularly in the United States. In England the press is better appreciated.

when other remedies had failed. It has merit of being harmless and always effectual: Take one fourth of a pint of hot water and one half a pint of vinegar; mix. Then add common salt as long as it will dissolve in the mixture, stirring it freely. Give for an adult one tablespoonful every hour until the bloody discharges cease, or until it operates freely upon the bowels. We have heard of some persons who used a galvanic battery for this complaint.

SUNNING IN DEBT.

I tell you on this point, for I would deter others from entering that place of torment. Half the young men in this country, with many old enough to know better, would go into business—that is, into debt—to-morrow, if they could. Most poor men are so ignorant as to envy the speculator or manufacturer, whose life is an incessant struggle with pecuniary difficulties, who is driven to constant "shinning," and who, from month to month, barely evades the insolvency which sooner or later overtakes most men in business; so that it has been computed that but one man in twenty of these speculators a penny success. For my own part, I would rather be a convict in the state prison, a slave in a rice swamp, than to pass through life under the harrow of debt. Let no young man misjudge himself unfortunate or truly poor so long as he has the full use of his limbs and faculties, and is substantially free from debt. Hunger, cold, rags, hard work, contempt, suspicion, unjust reproach, are disagreeable, but debt is infinitely worse than them all. And if it had pleased God to spare either or all my sons to be the support of my declining years, the lesson which I should most earnestly seek to impress upon them is, "never run in debt." Avoid pecuniary obligations as you would pestilence or famine. If you have but fifty cents and can get no more for a week, buy a peck of corn, parch it and live on it, rather than owe a dollar! Of course I know that some men must do business that involves a risk, and that gives notes or other obligations; and I do not consider him in debt who can lay his hands directly on the means of paying, at some little sacrifice, all he owes. I speak of real debt—that which involves risk or sacrifice on one side, obligation and dependence on the other—and I say from all such let every youth humbly pray God to preserve him evermore.—Horace Greeley.

THE TROTTER MARE KNOWN THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO AS BALLY MILLER.

died in Albany last week, at the extreme old age of forty-two years. In her best days she was a three minute horse, and until within a few years has always performed regular daily labor in a farm team. Her owner gave her freedom from work during the last years of her life, with plenty of suitable food, in consideration of thirty years of steady service. She never lost a day from sickness, and succumbed at last to indigestion produced by not sufficiently masticating her food. This case is interesting, as showing that with proper care, a farm team should wear much longer than is usually the case.

The crow is not only a scavenger, but very useful also in destroying insects and worms that prey upon crops. The damage it sometimes does to young corn is more than counterbalanced by the service it renders on the farm.

AN UNFORTUNATE POLITICAL VOICE.

They say that the politician who is not enthusiastic in the cause of his party is no politician at all, and this may be the motive mental power which forces some politicians to extremes. In a charter election held in a western town the other day, enthusiasm ran high, and both parties made a lively effort to get out the full party vote. About an hour before the polls closed it was discovered that the leading candidate on the ticket was one vote ahead, with no prospect that he could secure another vote. The opposition pulled its full strength, but suddenly remembered that a faithful member was on a bed of sickness. A carriage was driven to the house and the sick man's wife met the committee at the door. "My husband is at the point of death," she sadly replied to their interrogatories. "Couldn't we carry him on a lounge?" said one of the men. "He may not live two hours," replied she. "Couldn't four of us take him on a bed?" continued the man. "I think he is dying even now," she replied. "Does he know we are here?" "He is unconscious." "Dear me!" sighed the man, as he turned away. "I don't see how he can willfully and deliberately lie there and die when his own vote would scoop the opposition higher than a kite!"

LIFE.—IT WAS A SAD CYCLOPEDIA WHO SAID THAT YOUTH PASSES ITS TIME IN WISHING THAT IT COULD SEND AGE IN REGRETTING THAT IT DIDN'T.

But it is true that all through the first half of our lives we are thinking what we will do when once we fairly get started, and we go on pleasing ourselves until, all of a sudden, we wake up to the fact that we have begun to go down the hill, and that now the time to hope and plan is past and the time to remember and regret has come. We often hear of the ironies of life. The saddest irony in its brevity—our days are but a span, our life but "a sleep and a forgetting." If it were possible to realize in the beginning that threescore years and ten are not three hundred, and to say to ourselves calmly, "Such and such things are, in so brief space, unattained—let us content ourselves with striving for what we may reasonably hope to win," we might live our short span more rationally. Then would the rich man begin in season to dispense and to enjoy his riches, remembering that out of this life he can carry nothing with him—then would the philanthropist limit his schemes to his possibilities—then, above all, would those who love each other beware that they gave no space to estrangement or fault-finding, since our life of so few days is all too brief for bitterness.

HE KNEW.—A COUPLE FROM THE COUNTRY TO THE CITY YESTERDAY, AND WERE MARRIED IN DUE FORM.

The young man kept his arm tight around the bride's waist, as if he was afraid she would vanish before he knew it, and she didn't seem to care if he hugged her right along for half a day. She was so terribly homesely that everybody wondered how he could love her, and by-and-by he seemed to think that an explanation would be in order. He borrowed a chew of tobacco of a man near the door, and remarked: "I'm going to hug that girl all the way home, though I know she ain't party."

"I WOULDN'T," BRIEFLY RESPONDED THE MAN.

"That's where you'd fool yourself," continued the young man. "When I'm hugging a hundred acres of clean, nice land with forty head of stock on it, I can make the homeliest girl in the world look like an angel to me."

A GENTLEMAN WHO HAD BEEN DINING OUT THE NIGHT BEFORE, WENT INTO A BARBER'S SHOP ONE MORNING TO BE SHAVED.

He said that the barber had been taking more drink than was good for him, for it made his hand shake very much; and his customer, naturally indignant, began to give him a little moral advice, by saying: "Bad thing, drink!" "Yes," said the barber, "it makes the skin unco' tender."

A FEW WEEKS SINCE A CHICAGO DRUMMER SAW A YOUNG LADY PLUNGING A FIELD IN MACOUPIN, ILL.

He stopped to ask: "When do you begin cradling?" "Not until the heads are better filled than yours," was the astentious reply.

"YOU COME WELL RECOMMENDED, I SUPPOSE?" SAID A BOY WHO WANTED AN EASY PLACE.

"Oh, yes, sir; the man I was with last recommended me; he recommended me to leave, and get work near to my disposition."

A BALD TRANSACTION.—One of Monitor's frisky youths, (?) whose head somewhat resembles a billiard ball, recently saw in an Eastern paper an advertisement of an extraordinary hair restorative—one that will produce a full crop of beautiful ringlets within two hours after the first application. He sent for $5 worth, the money accompanying the order. In due time he received an answer, stating that his order had been received, but not the money; but, Samaritan like, he would not withhold their great blessing, and sent him a package by express—C. O. D. He received the box, paid the $5 for the restorative, and $4 50 express charges, and retired to his boudoir to make the first application. The lid was quickly taken off and behold—a box of sawdust! The sum of $14 50 gone where the woodbine twined! Moral—Be content with Nature's work!

GORGE UP.—The frame of the building which is to cover the O'Hara Furnace, to be erected at the Exchequer Mill, is up and about ready to be enclosed.

ACCIDENT.—One of the Advance miners, named — Rogers, fell out of his bed at Dunlap's Hotel, Monitor, on Tuesday night and broke his collar bone.

PLENTY OF FRUIT.—We are having a sufficiency of fruit brought in over the Big Tree road from Calaveras and Tuolumne counties.

MONEY DRIFT.—At the last meeting the Board of Supervisors allowed bills to amount of $1,549 52.

JUSTICE.—Elmoss Spencer, of Monitor, has been appointed Justice of the Peace for Township 5.

ROADMASTER.—J. P. Ray, of Monitor, has been appointed Roadmaster of District 5.

HEAVY GALE.—A heavy gale set in last evening and continued during the night and during to-day.

FROM WOODFORDS. WOODFORDS, Aug. 11, 1876. Here we come again with our local hash, but hope the editor will not eat it all up.

THE I X L.—The new pump is freeing the shaft of water at the rate of 18 feet during the night—the daytime being occupied in lowering the pump and placing it in position. The depth of water in the shaft is now about seventy-five feet. The lower tunnel is being cleaned out, and stopping is going on in the upper tunnel, from which very rich ore is being taken. Next week the water will be out of the shaft, the new cage will be put in and drifting for the ore chute will be prosecuted with energy.

EDITORIAL VINDICTA.—This week we have been favored with visits from Alfred Parick and Frederick Wm. Mansfield, publishers of the London Mining Journal. These gentlemen are direct from London to this county for the purpose of inspecting Alpine mines. They contemplate visiting prominent places on the Pacific Coast, then to the Centennial, and thence home.

THE ADVANCE.—The new hoisting machinery of the Advance works has been put up under the supervision of Wm. Meyer, and is now running very satisfactorily. The new works are sufficient to work the shaft at a depth of 1,200 feet, the new building is roomy and substantially built, and everything is now in good trim for pushing the work of sinking.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER. WASHINGTON, August 1, 1876. Notwithstanding the lowering clouds that threatened rain, our German friends made a very creditable display yesterday in their procession through the principal streets of the city.

No class of people seem to enjoy life with greater zest than do the Germans. They do not indulge in excesses, which bring with them misery and physical depression. They recognize the doctrine "that the contented use and enjoyment of the things we have" is preferable to the mere possession of them.

The action of the Democratic majority in the House of Representatives, in the contested election case of Platt vs. Goode, of the Second Virginia District, is an outrage upon all that is just and right. The majority report denoted the contestant Platt entitled to the seat. The report was creditable to the majority, for it ignored partisanship and gave a true decision according to the evidence.

Platt, the Republican candidate at the election, was, beyond all doubt, chosen, and so said a majority of the committee. Notwithstanding this, the ex-Confederates in the House, proceeding upon the principle that "might makes right," adopted the report of the minority and seated Goode for the remainder of the term. This is Democratic justice.

The Senate has taken a firm and proper stand upon the Consular and Diplomatic Appropriation Bill. The bill has been in three conference committees, all of which have disagreed. The stand taken by the conferees on the part of the Senate is, that they will not submit to repealing existing laws in, or infringing new legislation upon appropriation bills.

The salaries of our representatives abroad are fixed by law, and while the House would so reduce them as to make it impossible for them to live respectably upon them, the Senate is determined to adhere to the original proposition, namely, to acquiesce in reductions in cases in which such reductions do not interfere with existing laws, but to stand by the law until repealed agreeably to parliamentary usage. In this the Senate will be sustained by the country.

It is undeniable that the war of the rebellion was inaugurated by the Democratic party then in power, and that all the shedding of blood and expenditure of treasure with which the nation is afflicted were the direct results of that rebellion. After the close of the war the Republican party, to which the people had committed the task of restoring property to the country and paying off the immense indebtedness which had been imposed upon the nation, charged upon the work of the determination to accomplish the object with as little distress to the people as possible. What has it accomplished?

The Republican party has decreased the amount of the public debt nearly one-fourth of what it was at the close of the war, reducing, of course, the annual interest in the same proportion. It has reduced taxation two hundred and sixty millions of dollars a year. The public expenditures have been decreased, as compared with 1870, to the aggregate yearly amount of twenty-six millions of dollars. The public credit has been improved and the public faith has been maintained unimpaired. All this has been realized in the face of Democratic opposition.

A class of Democratic campaigners who are either very ignorant or else willing to lie for the sake of catching votes, are asserting that Hayes, while in Congress, advocated and voted for the universally condemned "salary grab" or "back-pay" company which is utterly false and unfounded. It is only made by the more reckless and unscrupulous class of Democratic papers and speakers, who either know it is false or else do not care whether it is false or true, provided it can be used to the injury of a Republican ticket. Hayes did not either advocate or vote for the back-pay measure. He was not even a member of the Congress in which that measure was discussed and passed. He was, however, a member of an earlier Congress, in which it was proposed to raise the pay of Members of Congress and of many of the employees in the civil service of the government at Washington. That proposition had no retroactive operation. It had reference to the future, not to the past. It was not the act popularly known as the "back-pay" bill, and it had no reference at all to back-pay. It was very generally approved by the leading men of both political parties. It was not criticized or opposed by the press, nor was there anything extravagant or unreasonable in the measure. Governor Hayes voted for the bill. So did a large majority of the Democrats in Congress.

MEDICAL.

YOUNG MEN

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretions, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity. DR. SPINNEY will guarantee to forfeit $500 for every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading on dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage; remember you are approaching the last. If you are lingering on the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the Doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond medical skill, or better grin death buries you to a premature grave. Full course of treatment $25 00. Send money by Post Office order or Express with full description of case. C. H. or Address.

SHERMAN & HYDE'S COLUMN.

Never before in the history of piano forte manufacture has an instrument risen so rapidly in popular favor.

Its intrinsic merit and decided superiority over all others has caused every musician and artist of note to adopt and recommend it.

Nilson says, "I shall take every opportunity to recommend and praise your instruments."

Miss Kellogg says, "Your Pianos are my choice for the concert room and my own house."

Lucas says, "Your uprights are extraordinary instruments, and deserve their great popularity."

Patti says, "I have used the Pianos of every celebrated maker, but give yours the preference over all."

Strauss says, "Your Pianos astonish me. I have never seen any Pianos which equal yours."

Wells says, "Machine Parpa called your Pianos the finest in the United States. I fully endorse that opinion. They have no rival."
