FIRST LECTURE SUCCESS

PRESIDENT EVANS OF OCCIDENTAL COLLEGE GIVES POWERFUL ADDRESS

An audience far from worthy of the great treat in store for it gathered in the High School auditorium last evening to attend the first of the lectures on "Christian Fundamentals." Rev. O. P. Rider, president of the Ministerial Association, introduced the speaker, Dr. Silas Evans, president of Occidental College, who was to speak on "Things That Endure." Dr. Evans briefly acknowledged the introduction and then plunged at once into his theme with the statement that the fight from the beginning was between the spirit and the flesh. There is nothing real but the spiritual, was the contention. These material things we see about us, aye, even the earth itself and the mighty planets surrounding it, none of them endure, hence are not real. "Things seen are unreal, things unseen are real. This body is seen, but it lasts for a brief space of time, while the unseen soul it enshrines lives on forever. Take one of the commonest things of today, bread. Back of the bread is flour, back of the flour is the wheat. The farmer takes me into his fields of waving grain. I pull off a head of wheat, rub it in my hands, blow away the chaff and the grains alone remain. Are they real? I can see the grain, the husk and kernel, but that is not the wheat. The life is the wheat and the life I cannot see. Yet this unseen property of the wheat, the life, is the real, and it only endures.

"The farmer does not own the land. He is simply the trustee the real owner, God, has placed in charge of it. He encloses his farm with a fence, but the fence is not the boundary beyond which to pass is to trespass. The boundary is an imaginary, unseen line.

"We fight for the unseen, an ideal. When America entered the war was she fighting for territory, for an indemnity, for anything material? No, she fought for a principle, something that is unseen. Wars come because man likes to fight. Take away this love for fighting and wars will cease.

"Fifty years ago medical science was in its infancy. Physicians guessed at disease and hazarded remedies. (Continued on Page 2)

JOBS WANTED

SKILLED LABOR IN GREAT VARIETY TO BE HAD BY APPLYING AT CITY HALL

Miss Wilson, at the City Hall, who registers applicants who want work and employers who want help, reports that after the notice published in the Evening News that men were wanted, they rushed in, and now the jobs are filled and more jobs are wanted to meet the needs of disappointed applicants. She now has a list of men experienced in the following kinds of work: Chauffeurs and truck drivers, auto mechanics and repair men, drivers of caterpillar engines, ranch hands experienced in cattle raising, vulcanizers, moving picture equestrians, carpenters, salesmen and buyers in dry goods and men's furnishing lines, watchmen, linguists and interpreters, and common laborers willing to do any kind of hard work.

Glendale employers who can make use of men in any of these lines are asked to register at once at the City Hall. Also, if any Glendale citizen has knowledge of openings where any of these applicants might be placed, they are asked to communicate at once with the City Hall Employment Bureau, telephone Glendale 1300, or to call in person and register with Miss Wilson. No more patriotic work can be done than to find employment for these self-respecting men, some of them returned soldiers and sailors, who are seeking honest work.

A BOY'S RESOLVE

Ben E. Goodwin, wife and son, Clifford, of Long Beach, spent Saturday and Sunday with Elder Clifford A. Cole and family. Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin were members of the Christian Church in Abilene, Kansas, when Mr. Cole was pastor there, and the son, Clifford, was named for him. The boy had declared in recent years that he wanted Mr. Cole to baptize him when he was old enough to join the church. So on Sunday last he came forward at the close of the morning service, made his confession of faith in the Savior and was immersed before the audience was dismissed.

WEATHER FORECAST—Increasingly cloudy, warmer in the interior.

ELKS ENTERTAINED

WORK OF THE SALVATION ARMY IS TOLD AT MONDAY NIGHT'S MEETING

Monday evening was a big time for the Glendale Elks' Lodge. In addition to their regular routine of business, eight candidates were initiated as follows: Morris E. Caruthers, Alonzo P. Jones, William E. Krupp, Walter E. Coan, James A. Large, E. B. Goodenow, Fred N. Farner and Louis B. Bronson.

Harry Tichnor, president of the State Elks' Association, was present, and gave a rousing address on the work that the Salvation Army had been doing and the great need of giving this organization more financial support in the State of California. Before closing he spoke words of great praise of Dr. Wheeler who later in the evening delivered an eloquent address.

Captain Dr. Mace, who two weeks ago returned from France to his Los Angeles home, was present at this meeting and gave a very interesting account of his overseas experiences. Capt. Mace emphasized the real worth of the Yankee boys in bringing the war to a close. He said that the great difficulty with the commanding officers was to keep the doughboys back. When they were ordered to capture a certain position they would do that and then go further, that they might have personal military credits. He said when they captured the Germans and their supplies, before partaking of the meats and other foods they would first command a German to partake of the food and thus assure themselves it had not been poisoned. Captain Mace was wounded several times and in one instance had just left the hospital over which he had charge when a shell fell through the roof of the building, and killed all of the patients and physicians in charge.

After the close of the lodge all adjourned to the entertainment room where refreshments were served and an able address was given by Dr. Wheeler. Dr. Wheeler is a lecturing Salvation Army evangelist of national reputation. His home is in Evanston, Ill. He was a leader of the Salvation Army work in the world war and only recently returned from France. He is thoroughly posted as to the great work the Salvation Army is doing in the United States. ## GLENDALE GREATER DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION

The regular weekly meeting of the Glendale Greater Development Association will be held in the library room of the Intermediate School building, at the corner of Wilson Avenue and Kenwood Street, this (Tuesday) evening at 7:30 o'clock. The chairman of the park and memorial building committee will make a report and recommendation. Other questions of vital interest to Glendale's prosperity will come up for consideration. Everybody welcome.

NORTON C. WELLS, Pres.
C. D. LUSBY, Secretary.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

MRS. LIZZIE MANSON SURPRISED WITH CELEBRATIONS OF EIGHTIETH BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Lizzie Manson was guest of honor at a very happy surprise party given at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. N. McGillis, 1003 E. Lomita avenue, Monday, in celebration of her eightieth birthday.

A course dinner was served at one o'clock at a table very attractive in all its appointments and centered with red carnations around which were gathered Rev. and Mrs. C. R. Norton, Mrs. S. F. Lindley, Mrs. Emma Nichols, Mrs. Miles Morehouse, Mrs. Ella Witham, Mrs. Sidney Dell, Mrs. Jasper N. McGillis, Mrs. Manson. At the conclusion of dinner all united in singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," and there was a word of prayer by Rev. C. R. Norton, who was the former pastor of Mrs. Manson. The afternoon was spent in social chat and the reading of letters and telegrams of congratulation which reached Mrs. Manson from many old friends and relatives who remembered her natal day in that way and with gifts of remembrance. Her son, who resides in Casa Verdugo, came down to spend the evening with her.

At dusk she was treated to still another surprise. At 6:00 p. m., just between the dark and the daylight, members of the local W. C. T. U. to the number of twenty-five, led by Mrs. Ruby J. Smart and Rev. Corbin and wife, gathered in front of (Continued on Page 4)

LITTLE BOLSHEVIKI PROPAGANDA

CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE OF INVESTIGATION WILL URGE LEGISLATION TO CURB RADICALISM

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Washington, March 11.—Members of the Senate committee investigating Bolsheviki activities declared today they will recommend that Congress pass drastic laws to curb I. W. W.'s, social revolutionists and Bolsheviki in the United States.

The committee hearings are nearly ended. Practically the only evidence developed thus far regarding the Bolsheviki propaganda in this country consists of newspaper clippings, pamphlets, books and papers sent through the mails. No evidence has been found of organized propaganda financed from outside, committee members said.

Legislation against radicalism which the committee plans includes measures to keep agitators from entering the country, to punish and curb those trying to undermine the government, and to keep Bolsheviki propaganda out of the mails.

NEW HEAD FOR MILITARY AERONAUTICS

BRIGADIER GENERAL MITCHELL, FORMER HEAD OF AIR SERVICE IN FRANCE, SUCCEEDS MAJOR GEN. KENLY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Washington, March 11.—The War Department announced today that Brigadier General Mitchell, formerly head of the air service in France, will succeed Major General Kenly as director of military aeronautics. Kenly will return to his former rank as colonel of field artillery.

FAREWELL ADDRESS BY EUGENE DEBS

HIS BONDSMEN WILL BE ASKED TO DELIVER HIM TO THE FEDERAL AUTHORITIES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Cleveland, March 11.—United States Attorney Wortz announced today that the bondsmen for Eugene V. Debs, convicted of violating the espionage act, will be asked to deliver him to the federal authorities as soon as the official copy of the court order confirming his conviction is received. Debs will make a "farewell address" tonight.

INDUSTRIAL BOARD TO FIX PRICES

WILL HOLD CONFERENCE WITH MEN HANDLING BASIC COMMODITIES, BEGINNING WITH STEEL MEN

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Washington, March 11.—Chairman George Peek of the newly created industrial board of the department of Commerce today predicted that the prices of basic commodities would be brought down within sixty to ninety days.

'Steel, brick, cement, fuel, lumber and food prices will be brought under consideration at a series of conferences between the board and men engaged in handling those commodities, which will begin with a conference with the steel men tomorrow.

Mr. Peek declares the board intends to establish prices which will stand until the law of supply and demand can take effect.

REPUBLICANS OPPOSING LEAGUE WARNED

PARTY SAID TO BE ENDANGERED AND OPEN TO CHARGE OF PROLONGING THE WAR

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Washington, March 11.—Republican supporters of the League of Nations, headed by former President Taft, have warned Republicans who are opposed to the league that they must not be too violent or their party will be endangered.

It is generally admitted that the league will be an active part of the peace treaty. If the Republican Senators prevent its ratification, the whole work of framing the peace agreement would have to be done over again, and in the meantime a state of war would continue as now. Under these conditions the party supporting the league undoubtedly would charge the party preventing its ratification with prolonging the war.

It is believed here that there is possibility that the electorate will split into an entirely new alignment in the 1920 election if the peace treaty is not ratified by that time. One faction, observers declare, will stand for ratification of the league and internationalism, and the other will oppose it and advocate nationalism.

LEIPSIK IS RECAPTURED

Washington, March 11.—Berlin dispatches today reported that government troops had recaptured Leipzig from the Spartacides and had inflicted a severe defeat.

CHARGES AGAINST RECLAMATION BOARD

Sacramento, March 11.—The county grand jury reported today in the recent investigation of the floods which inundated 25,000 acres of Sutter County land during the winter. The report charges that members of the State Reclamation Board are responsible and declares the board members are allied with "the Armour interests." The report asks the Governor to dismiss the board.

SENTIMENT UNITED

ALL ORGANIZATIONS ARE UNANIMOUS IN FAVORING SPEEDY PARK PLANS

A most enthusiastic meeting and one which may go down in the annals of Glendale as one of the most important in its history was held at the Intermediate School last evening to consider the question of a municipal park, civic center and memorial for soldiers and sailors who went from Glendale to army camps at home and abroad in the great world war.

It was made up of delegates from the numerous organizations of the city connected with schools, churches, lodges, clubs, etc., and was a very representative body of citizens fully alive to their responsibilities to the various organizations which had sent them, and greatly interested in the project which called them together. Not less than one hundred were present.

The meeting was called to order by Richardson D. White, chairman of a special committee appointed by the Greater Glendale Development Association to investigate all phases of the matter and to what extent public sentiment would support it, and then report back to the G. G. D. Association.

Mr. White explained how his committee had been subdivided into committees charged with the duty of choosing a site to be recommended, of ascertaining the cost of the land, of planning improvements necessary and of estimating the cost of such improvements, of ascertaining the bonding capacity of the city, and of looking into the legal aspects of the matter.

He set forth the great need of a civic center for the young men of Glendale for whom everything is done so long as they are in school, but to whom the town apparently says good-bye when it hands them their graduation certificates doing nothing further for their improvement or pleasure and leaving them (Continued on Page 4)

LIEUT. DON PACKER IN NEW YORK

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Packer learned with joy through a telegram which reached them yesterday, that their son, Lieutenant Don Packer, has reached New York and expects to leave there Thursday for Camp Kearny where he will receive his discharge. This will be good news to his many friends here who may expect to see him in the near future.

SERGT. MERLE ECKLES FLYING

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Eckles, of 427 North Brand boulevard, have had letters from their son, Sergt. Merle Eckles, which have discouraged their hope of seeing him in the near future. He writes that there is little prospect of his return under six months, but seems to have reconciled himself to the situation. He has gained forty pounds in weight since he entered army service and the pictures he has sent them recently show that he is in fine physical condition. He is making daily flights and beginning to learn some of the maneuvers. He says it is bitterly cold at the high altitudes and the boys can scarcely talk when they descend until they have had time to warm up. He has one service stripe and expects to have two before he gets back.

HOME OF BEN WILDE SOLD

Ben Wilde, of 231 Milford street, who left Glendale for Bakersfield with his partner, Mr. McFadden, a few days ago, to establish there an agency for the Nash Automobile, has returned to close the sale of his house at 231 Milford street, for which a purchaser has been found at a satisfactory figure. He states that they will give possession at a satisfactory figure. He states that they will give possession to the new owner and move about the 21st of this month.

BIRTHDAY ROADSTER

Mrs. D. Ripley Jackson is having the enjoyment of a handsome Scripps-Booth car, which is a birthday gift in advance of the celebration of her natal day. It is a present from her husband, whose own car is almost constantly in use in business now that he is associated with Mr. Kelley in the floral business, leaving his wife without a means of transportation. It is one of the new blue cars with yellow wire wheels, a roadster and a very snappy affair. She has easily learned to operate it and is enjoying its use greatly.

The Glendale Plant and Floral Co. has also purchased a new Ford delivery car, made necessary by increasing business.

SCHOOL SOCIAL LIFE

SPIRITED DEBATE AT THE HIGH SCHOOL P. T. A. FOLLOWS TALK BY MISS DOLE

A decidedly lively meeting of the High School P. T. A. was held Monday afternoon, when the question of social activities in the High School came up for consideration following a talk upon the subject by Miss Sara Doyle, vice principal of Manual Arts.

Before the program began Mrs. Charles Hutchinson presented the question of candidates for the High School and Grammar School boards, and announced the refusal of Mrs. Charles Toll to longer serve on the board for the city schools, stating that her work had been of such value that mothers could not think of relinquishing a woman on the board and had persuaded Mrs. Arthur Brown to be the candidate to succeed Mrs. Toll; also that Mrs. Gardner of Eagle Rock was a candidate for the vacancy on the High School board caused by the expiration of the term of Dr. Young. For both these candidates she urged the strong and united support of every member, with a request for the names of all who have cars which could be used on election day, if necessary. While she did not anticipate any contest, she declared the women who had consented to serve deserved a good vote as a courtesy, if for no other reason.

Mrs. Yarrick was chosen to represent the High School Association at the nomination meeting of the P. T. A. Federation. Mrs. Roach and Mrs. Timothy were appointed by the chair to represent the organization at a meeting to be held at the Intermediate School the same evening to consider the question of a city park and memorial for soldiers and sailors, the president, Mrs. Wernette, stating that she would probably attend, also.

Before taking up the question assigned her, Miss Dole stated that the bill before the Legislature to increase the state allotment of funds from $15 to $17.50 per unit of attendance, which is so important to the welfare of the schools and which would make up in a measure the loss occasioned by the doing away with the poll tax, is in jeopardy. She urged the association to get busy with its local representative in the Legislature to try to save the situation.

Miss Dole stated she had been a gradual convert to the movement to (Continued on Page 4)

STRANGE WAR RELIC

TAKEN FROM GERMAN WAR PRISONER BY COUSIN OF J. B. WIEMERS OF THIS CITY

Seaman Charles Wiemers, of the U. S. S. Von Steuben, formerly the Crown Prince Wilhelm, has recently brought to his home in Rochester, New York, a strange war relic in the shape of a crucifix taken from a German prisoner at Brest. Seaman Wiemers is a cousin of John B. Wiemers, of Glendale, and has sent him a most interesting description of the crucifix.

The upright of the cross is made of two German shells set end to end and the cross piece is made of two bullets of a similar shell. The bullet has been removed from the shell forming the lower part of the perpendicular of the cross and in its place has been fitted the brass base of a candlestick. The figure of Christ, which is the most interesting part of the relic, is of gold, and was taken from the ruins of a Belgian monastery as was the candlestick base by the German soldier who manufactured the crucifix. The figure of the Savior is an exquisite piece of workmanship. The German prisoner told Seaman Wiemers that the parts were put together with solder taken from tin cans that had contained German army food.

Seaman Wiemers, who is 23 years old, is spending a thirty-day furlough, having just recovered from pneumonia and a weakened condition produced by the sacrifice of a quantity of his blood to save the life of a comrade who lay, desperately wounded, on an adjoining cot in the Brooklyn Naval Hospital. Because Wiemers volunteered to allow his blood to be transfused into the veins of the other man, the latter is now on his way to complete recovery; it is understood.

Young Wiemers left Rochester at Easter time two years ago with the old 2d Battalion, Rochester Naval Militia, and with other Rochester boys was soon transferred to the transport service, aboard the Von Steuben. The ship was thirty miles off the coast of Nova Scotia when the Halifax Harbor explosion occurred, and Wiemers says the shock rocked the ship violently even at that great (Continued on Page 2)

HOIST BY HIS OWN PETARD

There is "grim irony" sometimes even in the prosaic halls of Congress. When Senator Reed, the loud-voiced advocate of the liquor interests, jokingly introduced a bill to prohibit all shipments into and through dry territory, even for personal use, he was amazed and confounded when it was pushed through and became a law. So in the dying days of John Barleycorn's rule, the old boy gnashes his teeth in rage when he beholds the curtailment of many of his privileges by the derisive act of one of his own henchmen.

BUSINESS ADVICE TO PASADENA

President B. O. Kendall of the Pasadena Rose Tournament Association declares that Pasadena is falling behind in the procession and losing prestige as a winter tourist resort. He calls attention to the fact that Santa Barbara is planning to spend $10,000 for advertising and is telling his fellow townsmen that it is about time for Pasadena to do something. He also recommends a municipal band—"not an organization of mechanics who play in their spare time, but of real musicians who play every day for the entertainment of visitors." He has declared: "We should have a municipal golf course. Not all our visitors can afford to play at the country clubs. Also, we need bridle paths. We must not leave entirely to the hotels the problem of entertaining the tourist. It is time the city and residents co-operated a little. We must realize that our city is facing real competition and we cannot live on our reputation forever."

THIS GERMAN GENERAL IS PEEVED

General Von Winterfield, spoken of by press correspondents as the highest type of German officer, the military representative of Germany who drove across the lines to meet Marshal Foch and signed the armistice, and later resigned his position because he could not agree to the added terms, has recently submitted to an interview which shows the remarkable bias of the German mind—condoning the many breaches of international law, the violation of the rules of warfare and the laws of common humanity, yet expressing great surprise and indignation at what he declared were infractions of international law on the part of the Entente. He entirely ignores the acts of German brutality and bestiality and the utterly useless and uncalculated for devastation and destruction visited on Belgium and France.

As a sample of German arrogance and insolence his views are absolutely refreshing.

He held that the Allies made a serious mistake when they believed Germany was able to reopen the war, and therefore imposed such harsh terms in the armistice. It was utterly impossible, he said, that Germany, having given up French and Belgian territory with its rich supply sources, would continue war on German soil, "in our richest industrial provinces." Candid, is it not?

According to General Winterfield, this is what the Allies should have done: Required evacuation of Northern France and Belgium, surrender of a certain amount of war material and transport; internment in neutral harbors of a considerable portion of the German fleet, especially the U-boats; the immediate beginning of demobilization. The occupation of German territory was especially painful, but was considered only a natural demand from the Allies' standpoint. But here is a statement of the general showing his typical superhuman "gall." "I need hardly say that the conditions required by the Allies required a painful and hardly endurable sacrifice from a proud people who had held their own for four years against a world of enemies and whose military front remained intact from the Channel to the Swiss border and whose fleet was unbeaten." (The reader understands thoroughly that the reason the fleet was unbeaten was because it never took the chance to get the annihilation it deserved and would have suffered.)

The general is grieved, also, over the short time given for the evacuation of Belgium and France, which, he says, was unfair (isn't it awful to treat these "fair" Germans thus?), imposing untold hardships on the troops "who had been wearied by hard fighting and forced to accomplish terrible marches to avoid being taken prisoners." Isn't it barely possible that some of this terrible weariness was caused by the inhuman atrocities and unparalleled devastation indulged in and the toil of carrying off the loads of stolen goods from ravished France and Belgium?

The occupation of the Rhine bridgeheads was unnecessary, because Germany was utterly unable to continue the war, hence needed not to be guarded against. They actually entailed hardships on the poor, meek, innocent Germans and further crippled their industries, which had prospered so largely from the destruction of those of France and Belgium and the stealing of the machinery and raw materials of the same.

The Allies were also unjustifiable, from a military standpoint, avers the general, for their excessive demands for railway material and motor trucks, because on account of these inconsiderate demands Germany is suffering from a coal famine and unemployment. Belgium suffered horrors a million times worse than these, the general should remember.

The general also finds fault with the rigor of the blockade, and is especially indignant because the Allies insisted on the immediate return of their prisoners from Germany, while retaining in custody the Boche prisoners to labor at repairing somewhat the result of their deviltries. And then the latter were sure of good food and humane treatment instead of the merciless cruelties and starvation inflicted on Allied prisoners of war.

There are two things the Germans should think of when bemoaning the hard terms imposed by the Allies. The first is to ask themselves this question: "What terms would Germany have imposed, had she won?" The other is a quotation from Holy Writ: "Be not deceived, God is not mocked. Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap."

FIRST LECTURE A SUCCESS

 edies. But ideas began to work and malaria, for instance, was deemed a necessary characteristic of certain localities. But it was shown that germs were responsible for the condition; the nature of this germ was studied out and the infected districts were purified by killing of the germs. General Goethals did not build the Panama Canal. The French company preceding him had brilliant engineers, but their talent and their efforts were nullified by the diseases which carried off thousands of victims. But General Gorgas discovered the cause of the disease and proceeded to eradicate it, so he is entitled to equal credit with Goethals for carrying forward this mighty work. This is the (scientific) victory that overcometh the world, even our faith.

"No one ever saw a cause, effects only are visible. Liberty and human rights cannot be seen, yet these are what we fight for. All history deals with the forces of might and right, and every war has been a combat between these two. Heretofore might has prevailed and the weaker nation has suffered. The League of Nations seeks to correct this condition so that henceforth and forever right and not might will be the ruling idea. And any man, be he Congressman or Senator, who seeks in his pitiful egotism to stay the onward march and consummation of this mighty ideal, is false to his country, his God and himself.

"They say you cannot change human nature, but never was greater fallacy uttered. A hundred years ago the whole world either believed in or tolerated human slavery. But one day a Christian man embarked on a journey down the Illinois River to the Mississippi and down the Mississippi to New Orleans, and there he saw a mulatto girl brutally treated and sold as a slave. He declared then and there that if he ever got a chance he would hit that thing and hit it hard. Years passed on. This man became President of the United States and a war was on between North and South. For two years they fought, not knowing for what they battled. Then by a stroke of his pen Abraham Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation and there was an ideal to fight for. Today not a civilized nation tolerates slavery. Can't you change human nature?"

"But a few years ago they said you could never down the liquor curse because you couldn't change human nature. Then, to paraphrase a saying of the prophet Isaiah, 'They beat their barley into bread and their bread into booze.' But now John Barleycorn has not where to lay his head in this great land of ours and soon will not have in all the world. And yet you can't change human nature!"

"They say the world war has been won, but they err. The war will not be won until the ideal for which it was fought has been realized in the League of Nations. Then, indeed, 'They shall beat their swords into ploughshares and their spears into pruning hooks. Nation shall not rise up against nation; there shall not be war any more.'"

This is but a meager summary of this masterly address. It was brilliant with new thoughts, sparkling epigrams and scathing invective. It struck unknown depths in the minds of the hearers and will keep them thinking for many a day. This splendid opening of the series of lectures indicates the judgment of the Ministerial Association in launching the course.

 distance. He and others aboard the Von Steuben immediately went to the assistance of the stricken city, and spent two days searching for bodies among the ruins and assisting in caring for the injured.

Wiemers made nine complete trips across the Atlantic aboard the Von Steuben while the war was in progress, and went through a number of trying experiences. His boat was one of a convoy carrying 100,000 American troops to France when the Henderson, another of the transports in the same group, took fire. Fifteen hundred men, half of them marines and half sailors, were transferred from the Henderson to the Von Steuben on the high seas between 5 o'clock in the afternoon and 7 o'clock the following morning. The fire broke out when the convoy was 900 miles outside New York Harbor, and is believed to have been of incendiary origin. On the same trip the Von Steuben collided with another ship in the convoy, and came into Brest, France, under her own steam but with an immense hole in her bow above the water line.

Torpedo Misses by Eight Feet

The Von Steuben barely missed German torpedoes on four different occasions, and came within eight feet of being blown to pieces on one trip from France, when 500 miles outside her American port. The Von Steuben sighted seven life boats filled with survivors of a torpedoed British ship and started to the rescue, intending to take the survivors aboard. When within a short distance of the life boats, proceeding at slow speed, the lookout discovered that a German submarine was in hiding behind the boats filled with survivors, waiting for just such a chance to sink another vessel that might come to the rescue. The Von Steuben opened fire just as the submarine discharged a torpedo and submerged. The torpedo cleared the bow of the Von Steuben by only eight feet as the vessel was backing away.

"Ash cans," as the depth bombs are known in the vernacular of the service, were dropped into the ocean by the Von Steuben at the point where the submarine submerged, but the commander decided that it would be unwise to stop longer in that neighborhood to pick up the survivors of the British ship, so he communicated with New York by wireless and a smaller and speedier vessel was sent out to get the people from the open boats. As the submarine did not again appear on the surface or make a second effort to "get" the Von Steuben it was "concluded that the depth charges had done their work."

INFAMOUS AMERICANS

(By United Press)
 BERLIN, Feb. 6. (By Mail).—A few persons claiming to be Americans remained in Berlin during the entire war. When the first Americans arrived after the armistice, mostly newspaper men and prisoner commissioners, these claiming-to-be-Americans flocked around.

Their stories usually begin with narration of how their hearts beat for America, how they long to return, and end with offers to do anything they can for you, and finally a request to take mail to America, or send a telegram.

Investigation usually reveals that these suddenly-become-Americans have allowed their naturalization arrangements to drop, and that they have some ulterior motive in getting connections with America. Some of them have been working for the Germans against America.

The Anglo-American propagandists continue to publish two anti-American and anti-British papers in Berlin, which are dirtier and meaner than ever in their efforts. English-American dances are held and advertised in newspapers, to indicate that a foreign colony exists.

OVERDOING BUSINESS

There is a tendency on the part of people in California to favor the overdoing of business. So long as additional business concerns can be added that will cause trade to be drawn from outside territory, and keep trade at home that otherwise might go to nearby cities, there is room for additional business concerns, but the plan of a half dozen half-stocked stores struggling to make a living and then for someone to encourage others of the same kind, is all wrong. It is expensive to do business with the concern that eventually fails. Somebody loses, and usually it is the local dealer handling other lines of merchandise than those handled by the one who fails.

 The Knights of Columbus Bulletin of Los Angeles notes the fact that Rev. Father O'Neill, with a delegation from Glendale, attended a special meeting of Los Angeles Knights last Thursday evening.
 Anita Baldwin, who has achieved considerable prominence as head of the Red Star relief work for animals used in conflict, has been mentioned for the presidency of the California State Humane Society. Her father, "Lucky" Baldwin, was a great lover of animals.
 The plan submitted by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for the removal of grade crossings in Los Angeles and which merely asks the city to co-operate in the building of the necessary viaducts, contains a provision for freight yards in the vicinity of "Tropico."

MAY ESTABLISH BUSINESS HERE
 E. J. Golden, of 425 North Louise Street, who, with his wife and two daughters, Esther and Katherine, came to Glendale recently from Fort Wayne, Ind., where he has been engaged for the past forty-seven years in the haberdashery business, is contemplating the opening of a branch establishment in Glendale. He believes there is a great future for our little city.

AFTERNOON SHOWER
 A pretty party and shower was given by Miss Mabel Eckles last Saturday at the home of her parents, 427 North Brand boulevard, for Mrs. Doyd of Los Angeles, who before her marriage was known as Miss Agnes Scott. Spring flowers were artistically used in decoration for the event and a very pleasant afternoon was spent by the young women guests in dancing and a general good time. Ice cream and cake were served at the close of the function, and Mrs. Doyd was the recipient of many pretty gifts. The list of guests, who have been associates in the offices of the R. G. Dun Company, included the following: Misses Lillian Martin, Kathleen Webster, Irene Offutt, Irene Lady, Lee White, Bessie Ferguson, Olive Hoffmeyer, Mrs. Mary Rider, Miss Hazel Ormsby and Mrs. Doyd of Los Angeles, and Miss Fay Roethenhofer of Hollywood.

FAMILY DINNER
 Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Sprowls entertained at a family dinner on Sunday as a farewell to Mr. Sprowls, who leaves in a few days for their future home in Phoenix, Ariz. Those present were:
 Capt. and Mrs. A. A. Lesueur, Mrs. W. C. Gower and family of San Fernando Valley, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Downing, Ruth and Helen Sprowls and the host and hostess.
 Mrs. Sprowls and her girls will remain here until school is out.

HONORING HOUSE GUESTS
 A delightful dancing party was given Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Packer on Riverdale Drive for their daughter, Miss Doris Packer, and in honor of their week-end guests, Miss Ruth Canary of Oak Park and Maxie Maughn of Spokane. Music was provided by Victrola records and sherbet and cake were served at the close of the evening by the hostess. The young people who enjoyed their hospitality were: Bettie Fell, Louise Hollenbeck, Dorothy Salyer, Dorothy Carmack, Jessie Dutton, Ruth Canary, Harriet Cook, Agnes Thaxter, Maxie Maughn, John Richardson, Walter Puffer, Robert McCourt, A. Hutchinson, Jack Ledinge, Calvin Spalding.

INCOME TAX RETURNS
 At the request of the banks of Glendale, Collector John P. Carter has kindly consented to send a deputy collector of revenue to Glendale to aid citizens in filling out income return blanks.
 He will be at the City Hall Wednesday, March 12th, and Thursday, March 13th. The service is free.

INTERMEDIATE P. T. A.
 The regular monthly meeting of the Intermediate Parent-Teacher Association was held Monday, March 10, in the school building. The attendance was so large that an adjournment from the library to the auditorium was necessary to accommodate those present.
 President Mrs. Blake Franklin opened the meeting. The "Salute to the Flag" was led by Chairman of Patriotism Mrs. Preston, and the meeting was then turned over to Mrs. R. T. Burr, chairman of education, who introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Miss Ruby Baughman, supervisor of immigration education, Evening Elementary Schools of Los Angeles, who spoke on "Americanization and the Obligation of Democracy to Furnish Public School Elementary Adult Education." Miss Baughman said in passing that the illiterate American (and the war showed the numbers upon numbers) is a far more dangerous individual at the present time than the foreigner. There is never a closed season for the human mind and the school house should be used that the adults who need elementary education shall be given the opportunity, despite the tradition that the school age is of certain limits, which idea should be eradicated.
 Miss Baughman asked the question, "What constitutes an American?" and in order to illustrate asked those present whose parents were born outside the United States to arise. Then those whose grandparents were so born, until very few were found seated, thus showing the conglomerate mass and the making of an "American." She questioned why we so complacently divide ourselves because we think ourselves so tremendously superior to the individual who doesn't speak our language. Instead of Americanization or democratization a better word, she stated, not found in any dictionary, would be "neighborization," as the human adult is susceptible to the vicissitudes of life. Pictures were shown to illustrate how the start was made to educate some of the foreign-born in the ways and language of America, and the suggestive remark that "all of us should try to do something to all of us for all of us," gave food for thought.
 At the close of her address the audience, led by Miss Elizabeth Jackson, sang "America." Mrs. J. A. Wright gave two selections on the piano beautifully, and the program closed with vocal selections by Mrs. Charles Parker, which were enjoyed by all.
 Mrs. A. A. Barton, president of the Glendale Federation of the P. T. A., was present.
 Mrs. Worley, secretary of the Red Cross, announced the drive for clothes.
 Announcement was made of the show to be held on March 28, at the Palace Grand, for the benefit of the Intermediate Athletic Association, and co-operation was urged in this good cause.
 The cakes contributed by members of the association to be given as a premium to the room which was most largely represented by mothers of pupils, were awarded to Class A, 81, of which Miss Clara Midealf is teacher, and the cakes were to be enjoyed by them today at their luncheon hour at the school.
 The meeting then adjourned.
 MISS DANIELS, Secretary.

 States and even in the City of Los Angeles. He said it is characteristic of the Salvation Army always to be first when help is needed. This was true at the time of the earthquake in San Francisco; the first on hand to render systematic assistance as the smoke of the great fires were clearing away was the Salvation Army, the first at the time of the Galveston flood to render aid was the Salvation Army, and the same was true at the time of the explosion in Halifax Harbor. The Salvation Army workers have been taught to do good for the sake of doing good and not for any money consideration. The Army maintains large hotels in metropolitan centers where the poor and down-trodden can get a bath, a clean bed and food for a very nominal charge and free if they have not the price. During the war Salvation Army lassies could everywhere be found rendering aid. There was no danger too great for them to encounter. Where the soldier boys went they followed and they knew just what to do at the opportune time.
 Dr. Wheeler proved himself to be a very interesting and able speaker and greatly endeared himself to the large number of Elks who heard his eloquent address.

GREAT CENTENARY DRIVE ON
 The Methodists yesterday launched their campaign in Southern California to assist in the raising of $105,000,000 in the great Centenary Drive of that wonderful religious body. Home and foreign missions are to receive $40,000,000 each of the sum, and the other $25,000,000 will be used for war emergency and reconstruction work. The opening meeting was held in the First Church, Los Angeles, corner Sixth and Hill streets, and distinguished speakers were present to make addresses and outline plans for aggressive work. Among these were Dr. Christian F. Reinsner of New York, Dr. Will A. Brown of New York, Edward Laird Mills of San Francisco, Bert Wells of Cleveland, Ohio, W. E. Doughty of New York, Dr. N. J. Trenary of Chicago, G. Franklin Ream of New York and Rev. Sumner R. Vinton, E. O. Excell, the great singer and hymn writer, and A. W. Royer, the well known evangelist player, led the music of the session. Other meetings will be held during the week.

STATE TO BE REDISTRICTED
 The redistricting of the state for senatorial and representative purposes is to be made in 1920, and it is said that it will result in increasing Southern California's representation by at least ten at the expense of the northern portion of the state. San Francisco will then no longer be the controlling power in the Assembly.

MUSIC SECTION
 A very pleasant afternoon was spent by members of the Music Section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club at the home of Mrs. Charles Parker on Chestnut street Friday afternoon when several beautiful violin solos were given by Mrs. Griffin of Los Angeles for which Miss Gertrude Champlain furnished the piano accompaniment. Mrs. Cassell read an instructive paper on Italian opera and its composers; Mrs. Mabel Capell sang two arias from Madame Butterfly and Mrs. L. N. Hagood played the sextette from Lucia. The hostess served tea and cake at the close of the program and a social hour of impromptu singing was enjoyed. About twenty-five members and guests were present. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. E. W. Kinney on Elk avenue who has secured some opera singers from Los Angeles for the program which will be a continuation of the Italian Opera theme.

LA CANADA
 R. G. Lyons of La Canada has been negotiating some real estate transfers lately. He has recently sold his orange crop to a Los Angeles broker at a figure which will net him at the orchard about $3 a box. The crop in La Canada groves this year is about average, considerably better than in 1918 which was a light year, but not so heavy as two seasons ago. It has entirely escaped frost and growers are realizing excellent prices. The fruit is of fine quality.
 The P.-T. A. held a very nice session Thursday afternoon at the schoolhouse, which was enjoyed by parents and pupils who participated.
 Max Green and family are convalescent from influenza. He is now able to be out.
 The Ladies' Aid of the Congregational Church is planning a reception to the new minister, but no date has been set as yet.
 Dr. and Mrs. Scott are expected back from Pacific Grove and will go from here to the East for quite an extended visit.

GERMANS LEAVE JAPAN

(By United Press)
TOKIO, Feb. 6. (By Mail).—German merchants have been driven out of business in Japan, according to officials of the department of agriculture and commerce, although some still retain their offices and a few are allowed to put deals through under rigid supervision by the Japanese government. Some of these offices which remain are to be given up, and the companies will withdraw completely from the country, according to report. They have apparently despaired of all chances of trade after the war.

According to the latest official census, there are 64 German firms in Japan. There are 24 in Kobe and 22 in Yokohama, but as many of them have branches, which are counted separately, this number may be reduced if the distinct firms be carefully enumerated. Tokio has seven German firms and Osaka three, with a few others in smaller towns. Another census shows that there are still 764 German residents in this country, although not all of these are interested in the firms. Many of the Germans who were interested in business here were deported during the war. Such was the case with the German Asiatic bank, the German financial institution in this country, which now is entirely inactive.

CUNNINGHAM RECITAL

On Saturday evening, March 8, a large company of parents and friends enjoyed a recital given by pupils of Mrs. Eva J. Cunningham at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Case, 343 North Maryland Avenue. Each number of the program was enthusiastically received, from the little beginners who had only taken four weeks' lessons, to the most advanced pupils. The performance of the pupils reflected great credit upon the teacher, who demonstrated that she possessed the rare ability of imparting her musical knowledge to her pupils.

At the conclusion of the program Vernon Spencer of Los Angeles, in his pleasing manner, gave a short talk, telling the story of the piano, which was very interesting as well as instructive. He then rendered six of his own compositions which greatly delighted his audience. Mr. Spencer bears a very high reputation in international musical circles. A social hour was enjoyed and light refreshments were served.

The following program was given:

Mr. J. N. McGillis' residence and called lustily for Mrs. Manson. Although she had no inkling of what it all meant, in perfectly composed mind she went to the porch and met the happy crowd.

To her was presented after a richly chosen speech a beautiful bouquet of pink carnations by Rev. Corbin in behalf of the society.

It is rare, indeed, that a lady of 80 years is able to make a speech so connected and bright as Mrs. Manson made in reply. "Mine," she said, "has been a happy life; and life has been very dear to me. There have been cloudy days to be sure, sad, very sad, days, very dark at times, but always the darkest days have had their silver lining." Then just as the dark was becoming so dark that the faces were dim in the darkness the kind friends crowded around Mrs. Manson and showered on her glad congratulations and many happy returns of the day.

The following poem was presented by Mrs. Smart:

"BIRTHDAY TRIBUTE"
1839—Mrs. Manson—1919

"To you our mother, sister, friend,
A loving tribute we would lend
This your natal day.
Eighty years, a full four score
Showered with blessings o'er and o'er
Have crowned your way.

"With your hand in that of God's
Bravely you life's road have trod
These many days.
These four score years so quickly flown
Full of loving deeds are sown
To His own praise.

"Into the past in God's good care
Are gone all sorrows, toil and care
That have been thine;
Now in the glow of sunset years,
With naught of doubt nor vexing
fears;
Radiant glory shines.

"May future years, many or few,

promote social life in the High School, that it meant more work and responsibility for the teachers and school authorities, but that she had come to feel that play is as important an element in rounded development as work, and that the schools have a duty in cultivating and directing the social spirit. She told of her first experience as a teacher, where the principal, a very wide awake young fellow, told her and her associate teacher that their work outside the school in directing the social activities of the neighborhood would be more strenuous than their school work. They found it was true in a measure, but their efforts in organizing picnics and other social activities were much appreciated and worth while. She had expected all that would be unnecessary in connection with a city school, but had found the same need to develop the social instinct, and Manual Arts had become somewhat noted for its social activities. She then described the forms these activities had taken, saying the effort had been made to make the class, which ordinarily numbered about thirty members, the unit in these affairs, because this group came together at least once a day and had some common ground of acquaintance. Informal picnics at the noon hour or at the close of school on the campus had been encouraged to develop acquaintance and the social spirit. Also, evening parties in the school gym had been permitted, but in those affairs they were immediately up against the proposition of more elaborate dressing, the escort, and the taxicab. The girls who perhaps most need the social life may not have the escort with whom to dance the first dance, nor perhaps the elaborate party dress, and therefore stay away.

It was her idea that the character of the social amusements encouraged by the High School should be governed by the sentiment of the community, particularly in regard to dancing, about which there is a difference of opinion which seems to be justified by the kind of dancing done now, which she characterized as the "cave man and cave woman dance, which it is very distressing to watch." She told of the penny dances which had been permitted at Manual Arts as part of the student effort to raise money for the Red Cross and which had yielded a goodly sum for the cause. Her ideal was a community social life which parents and children would enjoy together.

Her talk was followed by a discussion in which Mrs. Charles Hutchinson broached the matter of permitting the use of the High School gymnasium for dancing after school as a means of discouraging evening parties which distract the boys and girls from their studies.

Mr. Pulliam, who was present as the representative of the High School board of trustees, said he could not voice the opinion of the board in regard to the matter, never having discussed it with his fellow members, but he thought the board would entertain any recommendations which came to it from the Parent-Teachers' Association and make any necessary changes in the gym to fit the requirements of its use for social affairs; that personally he had no objection to dancing, provided it would not interfere with the main business of the school.

An effort was made to get a vote of those present to try the afternoon party of either games or dancing, as seemed best, as a means of promoting innocent social life among students, but Professor Moyle stipulated that the Parent-Teacher Association assume all responsibility for the matter, and Professor Howe discouraged action which would commit the association to any course without a more representative attendance, there being, he declared, only about twenty-five members present. He mentioned the division of sentiment in the community on the matter of dancing and the opposition it was sure to encounter in certain quarters.

There was a lively debate in which Mrs. Sherman, Mrs. Hutchinson, Mrs. Roach, Mrs. Richardson and others participated, and finally a motion made by Mrs. Sherman was adopted, that the chair appoint a committee of five to investigate the question and report at the next meeting, stipulation being made that the committee should include a member of the board of trustees, a member of the faculty, a member of the student body and two members of the association. The president, Mrs. Wernette, stated that she would require a little time to consider before appointing the committee, and the matter was left in her hands.

The session was prolonged and more spirited, though the debate was perfectly good-natured, than any which has taken place in a long time.

It was quite disappointing to the officials that members, in spite of special notices, failed to come out and participate in the canvas of this important feature of school life which mothers and teachers have found such a problem.

Bring only joy and peace to you,
And ever be
Like an angel anthem swelling
Through thy spirit's quiet dwelling
Till the glory all excelling
Dawns for thee."
—Ruby J. Smart.

to seek entertainment outside of the city.

The war, he pointed out, had brought new problems and developed new habits among our soldier boys and we must prepare to meet their social needs if we are to maintain a hold upon them. He declared the monument proposed would be far more fitting as a memorial for the live, sturdy boys who are coming back to us, and the few we have lost, than would any marble shaft and be much more appreciated by the boys themselves. He also read the commendation of such memorials by Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, which was sent to a Monrovia committee organizing a similar movement, which commendation was warmly applauded.

He stated that the sub-committees had turned in their reports and that the site recommended was the block between Broadway and Wilson avenue, now occupied by the Glendale Sanitarium, and the block immediately west of it with the exception of the corner occupied by the First Methodist Church.

The committee empowered to ascertain cost had interviewed the Sanitarium officials, had learned they were anxious to sell in order to rebuild on a more modern scale on a campus much larger than they have at present and further from the business center, and that the price they had made was a reasonable one, in fact, at the value of the ground without taking into consideration the improvements thereon, also that the owners in the block west had agreed to sell at very reasonable figures. Their reports show that the land would cost approximately $90,000, he said.

Mr. Jay then exhibited an attractive plat of proposed park improvements which provided for a main thoroughfare running through it, which would be represented by Jackson street, with a flagpole at the center, an auditorium which would seat 2500 persons, with other rooms which would contain memorials of the war and photographs of soldiers and sailors who participated and be used for club and social purposes. In the rear of the property adjacent to the Methodist Church the plan provided a swimming pool 40 by 150 feet, a gymnasium, tennis and handball courts for recreational purposes. The cost of the proposed improvements including the landscape gardening, etc., had been roughly figured at $65,000 to $70,000 which would bring the total cost to $150,000 to $160,000. To leave a safe margin he said the committee would recommend a bond issue of $175,000. Almost immediately there was a protest about being niggardly in the matter and the assembly went on record as favoring a bond issue of $200,000.

The committee on bonding reported that the bonding capacity of the city was ample and it was figured that the tax upon the person owning property valued at $3000 would not exceed $1.50 per year, that the bonds could be made to cover a period of forty years, if necessary, and, as pointed out by Mattison B. Jones later, the cost would be paid in large measure by the boys themselves, the coming citizens who will take the places of those soon to pass away now bearing the burdens of civic life, also within ten years Glendale will be a city of 25,000 instead of 12,000 people which must be taken into consideration.

A. T. Cowan called attention to the fact that it would be an investment which would increase rather than diminish in value, a permanent asset of the city.

Mr. White also made clear the fact that such bonds are not to be considered as in competition with bonds issued for water improvement or other work in connection with the public service department which will be paid for out of the revenues of that department and not be a tax upon citizens.

He then instructed one of his associates on the committee to circulate slips among the audience asking for the names of those present and the organizations they represented. These were collected and read from the platform by Mr. White, and it was found that nearly every organized body in the city was well represented. Not all names and organizations could be obtained, but a partial list includes: Rev. C. H. Scott and Chas. Ingledue, representing First M. E. Church; J. P. Fansett, Odd Fellows and Rebekahs; F. H. Vesper, Eastern Star; First Congregational Church, H. A. Miner, Hartley Shaw and E. H. Willisford; First Baptist, J. L. Gray; Glendale Sanitarium, A. F. Hartman; City of Glendale, Hartley Shaw; Unity Lodge, Clem Moore, H. P. Goodwin and Mr. Rattray; High
